There was legally sufficient evidence to support a jury verdict in favor of a temporary employee on her racial discrimination claims alleging hostile work environment and retaliation. Additionally, the verdict was not against the weight of the evidence, and a punitive damages award of $28,500 was not excessive. Diggs v Oscar De La Renta, LLC, 169 A.D.3d 1003, 94 N.Y.S.3d 574, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1431 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

Substantial evidence supported the determination by the Division of Human Rights that a school district unlawfully discriminated against a former teacher because a principal with the school district provided a negative reference to a prospective employer's inquiry about the teacher, which was an adverse employment action related to the filing of the teacher's initial complaint. Matter of Copiague Union Free Sch. Dist. v Foster, 185 A.D.3d 1023, 129 N.Y.S.3d 95, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

Because a city conclusively established that its refusal to recalculate the separation payout for a retired police officer was justified by submitting an arbitration award, the Supreme Court of New York should have granted that branch of the city's motion pursuant to CPLR 3211 to dismiss the first cause of action alleging employment discrimination on the basis of age. Domitz v City of Long Beach, 187 A.D.3d 853, 133 N.Y.S.3d 647, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5926 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

Supreme Court properly granted those branches of the city's motion to dismiss the retired police officer's cause of action alleging employment discrimination on the basis of age due to the city's refusal to reimburse the plaintiff for certain out-of-pocket medical expenses and to dismiss the cause of action alleging breach of a collective bargaining agreement based upon the city's refusal to reimburse the plaintiff for those expenses because an arbitration award eliminated the city's obligation to reimburse all "PBA members" for the out-of-pocket expenses at issue, regardless of age or retirement status, as a means of assisting the city to fund the award. Domitz v City of Long Beach, 187 A.D.3d 853, 133 N.Y.S.3d 647, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5926 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

EEOC is required to accord substantial weight to findings and orders made by state and local authorities in proceedings commenced under state law pursuant to limited deferral provisions of § 706 of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e-5(f)), but EEOC is not bound by such findings; "substantial weight" directive indicates only minimum level of deference Commission must afford all state determinations and it does not bar affording greater preclusive effect which may be required by 28 USCS § 1738 if judicial action is involved. Kremer v Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262, 1982 U.S. LEXIS 104 (U.S.), reh'g denied, 458 U.S. 1133, 103 S. Ct. 20, 73 L. Ed. 2d 1405, 1982 U.S. LEXIS 2945 (U.S. 1982).

Employee established requisite element, in employment discrimination case, that employer had hired or sought other applicants for his position by showing that his supervisor had reassigned employee's duties to other recently-hired employees. Song v Ives Laboratories, Inc., 957 F.2d 1041, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 2608 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1992).

In action alleging retaliatory discharge, plaintiff offered sufficient evidence to infer causal connection between her complaints of sexual assault committed by 3 coworkers on business trip and employer's decision to terminate her where she was terminated just weeks after she told her supervisor that she was considering legal action in connection with assaults, and just 3 months after her supervisor promised that her salary and benefits would continue until she had recovered from assaults; while employer offered legitimate reason for terminating plaintiff on basis that she failed either to return to work on specified date or to provide appropriate medical documentation, summary judgment was precluded by her assertion that she was not told to provide such documentation. Tomka v Seiler Corp., 66 F.3d 1295, 1995 U.S. App. LEXIS 27612 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1995).

Because the employees did not establish that the mayor and the village administrator violated the employee's equal protection rights to an unhostile work environment, and that therefore the mayor and the village administrator were entitled to qualified immunity on the federal claims, it followed that the employees did not establish a hostile work environment claim under New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296. The mayor and the village administrator were also entitled to summary judgment on the employees' state law claims for hostile work environment. Demoret v Zegarelli, 451 F.3d 140, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 14190 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2006).

Jury verdict is set aside and judgment entered in favor of employer, even though jury had found that black executive at international bank was paid $200,000 less than his white fellow executives over 18-month period, because evidence viewed as whole reveals such complete absence of proof of salary discrimination based on race and/or national origin in violation of CLS Exec Law § 296 that jury's findings could have only been result of surmise and conjecture. Dessie v Generale Bank, 799 F. Supp. 1544, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12384 (S.D.N.Y. 1992).

In action under Human Rights Law, 51-year-old discharged plaintiff failed to raise issue as to whether proffered reason for his discharge, that he sexually harassed subordinate employee, was pretextual where he presented no evidence to show that he had not sexually harassed subordinate employee, or to rebut sworn statements of company officials that they believed in good faith that he had sexually harassed subordinate employee and that they fired him for that reason. Agugliaro v Brooks Bros., 927 F. Supp. 741, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7965 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

Although black employee established that white supervisor's allegation that employee's poor evaluations were related to poor performance was pretextual, employee failed to prove that real reason for poor evaluations was because of race in violation of Title VII, 42 USCS § 1981, or CLS Exec Law § 296, where one of employee's witnesses suggested that supervisor felt threatened because employee had too much power and that supervisor sought to "break her," and there was evidence suggesting that poor evaluations may have been result of personal animosity. Carter v Cornell Univ., 976 F. Supp. 224, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13610 (S.D.N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 159 F.3d 1345, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 32035 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998).

Under Exec § 296, prima facie case of retaliation requires evidence of subjective retaliatory motive for employment action. Copeland v Sears, Roebuck & Co., 25 F. Supp. 2d 412, 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18251 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

Terminated white Jewish executive director of human rights commission cannot state prima facie case of race, gender, or religion discrimination under Exec § 296, even though he asserts commissioners acted on opinion that African-American female should have been given job, because undisputed fact that position was discontinued after his termination—and has never been reinstated in 2 years and 4 months since—conclusively shows that motivating cause of his termination was commission's feeling that position was no longer justifiable expenditure of public funds. Berkowitz v County of Orange, 120 F. Supp. 2d 386, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16410 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

Evidence was sufficient to find that insurance company employer's reasons for terminating employee from his position of head office underwriter during reduction in force (RIF), including employee's alleged lack of experience in property underwriting, were pretext for age discrimination in violation of Exec § 296 and New York City Human Rights Law, where there were discrepancies in employer's explanations for termination, employer's 5 oldest underwriters were terminated during RIF, and decision to terminate was made without review of employee's performance. Shannon v Fireman's Fund Ins. Co., 156 F. Supp. 2d 279, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7452 (S.D.N.Y. 2001).

Employee argued that a coworker was her supervisor and that the coworker's acts of sexual harassment constituted quid pro quo harassment for which the employer was liable; however, the contention failed as the employee did not identify any tangible employment action that was occasioned by her refusal to submit to the coworker's sexual advances. Durant v A.C.S. State & Local Solutions, Inc., 460 F. Supp. 2d 492, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 80987 (S.D.N.Y. 2006).

Employee did not adduce sufficient evidence to get to a jury on a hostile work environment claim as the employee did not show a workplace permeated with discriminatory behavior and the employer took immediate and effective corrective action when it learned of the harassing conduct. The employee was not entitled to have the employer redress the situation in her preferred manner—she was only entitled to have the situation addressed in a manner that was reasonably calculated to end the harassment. Durant v A.C.S. State & Local Solutions, Inc., 460 F. Supp. 2d 492, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 80987 (S.D.N.Y. 2006).

Former employee failed to provide evidence that could lead a jury to reasonably conclude that she engaged in protected activity; the evidence showed, and the employee admitted, that she never explicitly raised the issue of gender discrimination when she complained about her work. The employee asserted, nevertheless, that complaints from a female high-level manager about having to perform secretarial work clearly implied that she was being subject to sex discrimination; however, the content of the employee's complaints, even when construed in the light most favorable to the employee, did not raise a genuine issue of fact as to whether defendants were put on notice that the employee felt she was being discriminated against on the basis of sex and defendants were granted summary judgment. Int'l Healthcare Exch., Inc. v Global Healthcare Exch., LLC, 470 F. Supp. 2d 345, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2648 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

Employer's motion to dismiss a former employee's employment discrimination claims under the New York State Human Rights Law and the New York City Human Rights Law was denied because the act of termination occurred in New York, which alone was sufficient to establish discrimination within New York, even if the employee felt the effects of the termination at her workplace in another state. Rylott-Rooney v Alitalia-Linee Aeree Italiane-Societa Per Azioni, 549 F. Supp. 2d 549, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 30803 (S.D.N.Y. 2008).

Former employee sustained her burden to state a plausible N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) claim against a director because the employee could have established that the director participated in unlawful, discriminatory acts because the employee alleged that the director asked the employee, on several occasions, about her medical conditions and the medication she was taking; the director refused to consult a doctor's note offered by the employee; the director never discussed the employee's leave request with a second director as she promised to do; the director presented her with a negative employment review on the day she was fired; and, after the employee's termination, the director claimed that the employee never requested medical leave. Tully-Boone v North Shore-Long Island Jewish Hosp. Sys., 588 F. Supp. 2d 419, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101093 (E.D.N.Y. 2008).

Former employee alleged a plausible aiding and abetting N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) claim against a director because the employee could have established that the director participated in acts that contributed to an alleged failure to accommodate her disability because the employee alleged that she inquired of the director about the status of her leave request and the director informed her that she was unaware of any such request; when the employee told the director in a meeting that her lateness was caused by her medication, the director became hostile and abruptly ended the meeting; and, after she was terminated, the employee was told that the director denied any knowledge of the employee's request for medical leave. Tully-Boone v North Shore-Long Island Jewish Hosp. Sys., 588 F. Supp. 2d 419, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101093 (E.D.N.Y. 2008).

Former employee adequately pled that an assistant director could have been held liable as an aider and abetter under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) because the assistant director may have been held liable for aiding and abetting allegedly unlawful discrimination by her employer even where her actions served as the predicate for the employer's vicarious liability, and the employee's complaint was replete with allegations that the assistant director actually participated in the alleged unlawful conduct. Tully-Boone v North Shore-Long Island Jewish Hosp. Sys., 588 F. Supp. 2d 419, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101093 (E.D.N.Y. 2008).

Teacher's failure to demonstrate impermissible animus or retaliatory conduct necessarily stripped her state and municipal discrimination and retaliation claims of any traction, and thus required the complete dismissal of her disparate treatment, hostile work environment, and retaliation claims based upon New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 and § 297. Missick v City of New York, 707 F. Supp. 2d 336, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 48292 (E.D.N.Y. 2010).

Former residents of the apartment building proffered no evidence that the agent of the limited liability company (LLC) had any knowledge of any allegedly unlawful conduct on the part of the village. Accordingly, the former residents' claims under 42 U.S.C.S. § 3604(a) and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) were dismissed as against the agent, the member, and the LLC. Rivera v Inc. Vill. of Farmingdale, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 34185 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 30, 2011).

Although a supervisor's failure to take adequate remedial measures could rise to the level of actual participation under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6), a former employee's claim against a particular individual failed because there was no evidence demonstrating that this person was a supervisor. Conklin v County of Suffolk, 859 F. Supp. 2d 415, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 62436 (E.D.N.Y. 2012).

Proof that administrator of New York State Fire Academy did not rehire complainant as adjunct instructor because he believed that complainant had defamed him, and because he did not like him, was insufficient to etablish prima facie case of retaliation where complainant's own testimony indicated that administrator's antagonism toward him existed years before he filed discrimination complaint on which retaliation claim was based. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 4-E-O-1200624.

Complainant failed to prove that any factors or age or national origin were involved in elimination of his job, as required to overcome respondent's stated reason that job was eliminated due to reduction of force necessitated by budgetary limitations, where co-worker with whom complainant shared same national origin (Indian) was not harassed or discharged, and employer retained another employer who was 13 years older than complainant. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 1B-E-AN-91-3500280A.

Conclusory allegations of race discrimination were insufficient to overcome respondent fire department's proof that complainant was terminated from fire training academy for having failed 8 field proficiency evaluations. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 7-E-R-89-133941E.

Requisite nexus between complainant's Puerto Rican national origin and adverse employment actions she suffered was not established by proof of isolated derogatory remark made by respondent's department head about Indian coworker. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 1B-E-N-90-144025E.

96. Statute of limitations

Trial court's order granting an employee's application for leave to file a late notice of her employment discrimination claim against a school district was improper because a late notice of claim was required to have been filed no later than one year after a cause of action accrued, and N.Y. Educ. Law § 3813(2-b) provided a one-year statute of limitations; since the proceeding was commenced more than one year after the claim arose, the trial court lacked the discretion to allow a late notice. Matter of Amorosi v South Colonie Ind. Cent. School Dist., 9 N.Y.3d 367, 849 N.Y.S.2d 485, 880 N.E.2d 6, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 3711 (N.Y. 2007).

Action alleging unlawful discriminatory practices in violation of CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) was governed by 3-year limitation period of CLS CPLR § 214(2). Koeppel v Wachtler, 141 A.D.2d 613, 529 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6911 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 650, 542 N.Y.S.2d 519, 540 N.E.2d 714, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 541 (N.Y. 1989).

In action under Human Rights Law in which some claims were dismissed as time-barred and dismissal was affirmed on appeal, court should have granted plaintiff's renewal motion to reinstate dismissed claims based on "newly discovered" evidence where administrative complaint had been filed with Division of Human Rights (DHR) unbeknownst to plaintiff, on referral from United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), and such complaint was not dismissed until 9 days after disposition of judicial appeal, since (1) statute of limitations was tolled during pendency of administrative complaint and therefore judicial proceeding should have been deemed to have been commenced on DHR's dismissal of complaint, (2) any lack of diligence in bringing renewal motion was attributable to plaintiff's attorney, and (3) defendants failed to demonstrate prejudice. Sciss v Metal Polishers Union Local 8A, 149 A.D.2d 318, 539 N.Y.S.2d 899, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4385 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Absent "compelling circumstances," individual instances of failure to promote do not constitute continuing violation for purpose of statute of limitations in claims brought under CLS Exec § 296. Nielsen v United Parcel Serv., 210 A.D.2d 641, 619 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12429 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Allegations that individual defendant made both physical and verbal sexual advances toward plaintiff that were unwelcome and repelled, that she was told her job evaluation was tied to her willingness to accept advances, and that she was forced to resign because corporate defendant did not provide vehicle of redress stated action for both hostile environment and quid pro quo sexual harassment under Human Rights Law; those same allegations also showed discriminatory conduct within limitations period sufficiently similar to alleged conduct without limitations period to justify conclusion that both were part of single discriminatory practice, and thus plaintiff's claim was timely in its entirety under continuing violation doctrine. Walsh v Covenant House, 244 A.D.2d 214, 664 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11535 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Court erred in dismissing, as untimely, second cause of action in second amended complaint, alleging violation of Federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS § 623) (ADEA), since that action arose out of same facts and circumstances which gave rise to first and third causes of action, alleging violations of Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Art 15), which were interposed in timely fashion in original complaint, and defendants were at all times on notice of facts and occurrences giving rise to ADEA claim and did not show any prejudice or surprise. Schutz v Finkelstein Bruckman Wohl Most & Rothman, 247 A.D.2d 460, 668 N.Y.S.2d

669, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1024 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Plaintiff's pursuit of grievance proceeding against defendant, as permitted by collective bargaining agreement, did not toll statute of limitations on his action for employment discrimination under CLS Exec § 296, and thus complaint was properly dismissed as time barred. Mitchell v Nassau Community College, 265 A.D.2d 456, 696 N.Y.S.2d 866, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10590 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Lower court properly granted an employers' N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3211(a)(5) motion to dismiss an employee's employment discrimination complaint brought under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 because the three-year statute of limitations set forth in N.Y. C.P.L.R. 214(2), (4) had run, and N.Y. C.P.L.R. 205(a) did not save the action from being time barred because the instant action was not filed and served within six months of the employee's earlier federal action being dismissed. Pi Ju Tang v St. Francis Hosp., 37 A.D.3d 690, 830 N.Y.S.2d 311, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2049 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Contrary to the trial court's conclusion, a complaint filed by a husband and a wife alleging sex discrimination in violation of N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 was not time-barred; the statute of limitations for a claim under § 296 was three years. Goldin v Engineers Country Club, 54 A.D.3d 658, 864 N.Y.S.2d 43, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6559 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 763, 886 N.Y.S.2d 864, 915 N.E.2d 1160, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3475 (N.Y. 2009).

Three-month notice of claim requirements of CLS Educ § 3813(1) did not apply to action alleging that school district's denial of health insurance benefits to plaintiff's domestic partner constituted discrimination on basis of marital status and sexual orientation since action sought relief which would benefit plaintiff and teachers similarly situated. Funderburke v Uniondale Union Free Sch. Dist. No. 15, 172 Misc. 2d 963, 660 N.Y.S.2d 659, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 260 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 251 A.D.2d 622, 676 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7881 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Former state trooper's action against state under CLS Exec § 296 for discriminatory and retaliatory practices allegedly amounting to constructive discharge was time barred where (1) applicable 3-year limitations period began to run when trooper submitted her resignation along with her shield and firearm, even though resignation was not effective until 3 days later, because that act signaled her conclusion that she no longer could tolerate alleged discrimination, (2) she commenced action 3 years and one day after submitting her resignation, and (3) another trooper's mere reporting of meeting about plaintiff's possible misuse of sick leave after she submitted her resignation was not further retaliatory conduct extending limitations period. Clark v State, 186 Misc. 2d 896, 721 N.Y.S.2d 747, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 17 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

Appeals court reversed that part of order that dismissed employee's sexual harassment, hostile work environment, and retaliation claims in violation N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 of the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law art. 15, against employer; statute of limitations may not have run if acts were part of continuing violation. Clark v State, 302 A.D.2d 942, 754 N.Y.S.2d 814, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 949 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2003).

Causes of action alleging violations of N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 are governed by a three-year statute of limitations. Kwarren v Am. Airlines, 303 A.D.2d 722, 757 N.Y.S.2d 105, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3487 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Employer was entitled to summary judgment pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3212 in the employee's discriminatory discharge action under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296; the action was barred by the three-year statute of limitations on discriminatory discharge actions, as the action was commenced more than three years after the employee's termination. Horan v N.Y. Tel. Co., 309 A.D.2d 642, 765 N.Y.S.2d 788, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10980 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2003).

Disability discrimination and hostile working environment claims that a former employee filed against a county pursuant to the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, were dismissed because the employee did not serve a timely notice of claim upon the county as required by N.Y. County Law § 52 and N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law §§ 50-e and 50-i; (2) the federal district court did not have jurisdiction under N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e(5) and (7) to grant the employee's application for leave to serve a late notice of claim; and (3) N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law §§ 50-e(5) and 50-i(1)(c) and N.Y. County Law § 52(1) barred the court from granting leave to serve a late notice where more than one year and ninety days had passed since the employee's claims arose when the employee was terminated. Costabile v County of Westchester, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 29787 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 20, 2007), amended, 485 F. Supp. 2d 424, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 33484 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

Trainman who took leave of absence from railroad to attend drug rehabilitation program, and was subsequently refused permission to return to work, may not bring action under N.Y. Human Rights Law, NYCLS Exec Law § 296, where trainman took leave in 1978, claimed he was willing and able to return to work in 1986, and was denied re-employment by railroad in 1986, railroad reaffirmed denial in 1987, and trainman made unsuccessful, formal application for re-employment in 1992, because statute of limitations in human rights actions is 3 years, and trainman's claim, which accrued in 1987, is time-barred. Verdon v Consolidated Rail Corp., 828 F. Supp. 1129, 1993 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11314 (S.D.N.Y. 1993).

Employment discrimination claim was not time barred where Division of Human Rights dismissed complaint for administrative convenience because employee wished to pursue court action, and action was filed within 3-year period for bringing plenary action under Human Rights Law; employer was collaterally estopped from asserting that administrative complaint should have been dismissed on basis that it was not timely filed under administrative statute of limitations. Ryan v New York State Thruway Auth., 889 F. Supp. 70, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9052 (N.D.N.Y. 1995).

Employment discrimination claims that accrued after July 24, 1991 may be pursued under CLS Exec Law § 296, even though rejection of continuing-violation theory applies to state, as well as federal, claims, because, unlike Title VII's (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) 300-day rule, statute of limitations for action premised on New York Human Rights Law is 3 years from date of accrual. Nicholas v NYNEX, 974 F. Supp. 261, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11400 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

Race discrimination claims brought under federal and state law are subject to limitations period of CLS Exec Law § 296. Johnson v Delphi Energy & Engine Mgmt. Sys., 12 F. Supp. 2d 281, 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16910 (W.D.N.Y. 1998), aff'd, 181 F.3d 82, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 21477 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999).

County employee's wrongful termination claim against county under Exec § 296 accrued on date that he was formally terminated, and, thus, his failure to file notice of claim within 90 days of that accrual date, or 90 days from date of treatment for his injury, warranted dismissal of his action. Baker v County of Monroe, 47 F. Supp. 2d 371, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7104 (W.D.N.Y. 1999).

Commuter railroad police officer's age and disability discrimination claims against employer are time-barred, where he knew he was no longer on sergeant seniority list no later than November 16, 1994, but did not file charge with state division of human rights until September 16, 1998, because one-year limitations period applies and mere continuation of his non-promotion to sergeant does not make "continuing violation" exception to limitations applicable. Parker v Metropolitan Transp. Auth., 97 F. Supp. 2d 437, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6309 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

Police department applicant's Exec § 296 claim is time-barred to extent it is based on alleged discriminatory acts prior to June 13, 1997, where action was commenced June 13, 2000 and claim is subject to 3-year statute of limitations, because merely alleging several distinct acts of discrimination does not establish continuing violation, and evidence fails to establish he was denied employment pursuant to policy of age discrimination. Purdy v Town of Greenburgh, 166 F. Supp. 2d 850, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15563 (S.D.N.Y. 2001), modified, 178 F. Supp. 2d 439, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 120 (S.D.N.Y. 2002).

Town employee's sexual harassment claims under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 against a town, a highway superintendent, and town board members, were time-barred where she failed to allege any sexual harassment in the previous three years. Lange v Town of Monroe, 213 F. Supp. 2d 411, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14352 (S.D.N.Y. 2002).

Plaintiff employee's Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e et seq., 42 U.S.C.S. § 1981, and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, challenging discriminatory acts such as the denial of a promotion, an inadequate raise in salary, and job transfer on the basis of allegedly disparate treatment, were time-barred as the statute of limitations in New York was three years from the date the claim accrued. As for the employee's hostile work environment claim, time-bar was not an issue because of the continuing violation doctrine. Staff v Pall Corp., 233 F. Supp. 2d 516, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25659 (S.D.N.Y. 2002), aff'd, 76 Fed. Appx. 366, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 18392 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2003).

Guidance counselor's claims under Titles I and II of the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 12101 et seq., the Rehabilitation Act, 29 U.S.C.S. § 791 et seq., N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 292(5) and 296, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107, were not dismissed as untimely because the counselor alleged the existence of a policy or practice amounting to a continuing violation—the school board's failure to accommodate her disability and its failure to pay her line-of-duty injury pay—and alleged at least one act—the notification of her termination—that was not time barred. Bloom v New York City Bd. of Educ., 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5290 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 31, 2003).

Employer was granted summary judgment on the employee's age discrimination claim under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 because it was time-barred; the employee filed his claim on February 11, 2000, and therefore any discrimination claim occurring before February 11, 1997 was barred, but the employee had departed the employer and commenced new employment prior to February 11, 1997. Murphy v GE, 245 F. Supp. 2d 459, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 521 (N.D.N.Y. 2003).

Court granted the employer summary judgment on the employee's discrimination claims filed under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, and the New York City Human Rights Law, N.Y. City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107, because the three-year statute of limitations began running before March 1999, and therefore the March 8, 2002 complaint was untimely filed; the court held that a printout regarding "The Life of a Slave" the employee found at a communal printer and a supervisor's comment were not included in the alleged pattern of harassment concerning another supervisor. Hill v Citibank Corp., 312 F. Supp. 2d 464, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5069 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

On the hiring agents' motion to dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6), arguing that the alien's causes of action under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 were time-barred, the court dismissed the motion, holding that the alien benefited from the continuing violation exception to the limitations period. The alien's complain adequately alleged a continuing violation arising from the hiring agent's alleged course of action in placing and retaining the female alien in an H-2B position and their alleged policy and practice of placing women in H-2B positions, while seeking men for H-2A positions. Olvera-Morales ex rel. Olvera-Morales v Sterling Onions, Inc., 322 F. Supp. 2d 211, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14244 (N.D.N.Y. 2004), reaff'd, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17923 (N.D.N.Y. Apr. 10, 2006).

In an action in which a former employee filed suit against his former employer alleging discrimination based on age and national origin in violation of the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 (2003), and the New York City Human Rights Law, New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code §§ 8-107 and 8-502 et seq., the employer was granted summary judgment where the court found that the employee was time-barred from asserting claims based on incidents that occurred before May 1, 1999 because (1) the claims were based on discrete acts of discrimination, each of which was subject to its own three-year limitations period; (2) because the employee learned nothing new about actions taken by the emlployer before May 1, 1999, during the three years after that date, he could not show that claims based on those actions accrued on or after May 1, 1999; and (3) the employee produced no evidence to show that the employer did anything to deceive him about its allegedly discriminatory motives. Milani v IBM, 322 F. Supp. 2d 434, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11025 (S.D.N.Y. 2004), aff'd, 137 Fed. Appx. 430, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 13251 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2005).

Union and the union representative's motion to dismiss the employee's claim against them brought pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 was denied because the employee's failure to specify the dates relevant to the allegations contained in either her complaint or her opposition papers did not require dismissal of her claim because all inferences had to be drawn in the employee's favor on a motion to dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); therefore, the court could not conclude that the employee's claim with respect to incidents reported to the union representative in or after 1999 was time-barred as a matter of law. Cabrera v New York City, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18402 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 13, 2004).

Former public employee's disability discrimination claims under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-101 against his former public employer were not subject to the thirty-day demand rule of N.Y. Pub. Auth. Law § 1276(1) or the one year and thirty day limitations period under N.Y. Pub. Auth. Law § 1276(2) because those claims were not tort claims, rather, those claims were subject to the general three-year limitations period under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 214(2), applicable through N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 201. Treanor v Metro. Transp. Auth., 414 F. Supp. 2d 297, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 35861 (S.D.N.Y. 2005).

Former provisional city hospital employee's age and national origin discrimination claims as to events that occurred more than 300 days before she filed charges alleging that her termination was discriminatory were time-barred under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, and the employee was unable to rely on a continuing violation theory because there was no evidence to establish that the alleged acts of various supervisors from different hospital departments were part of a discriminatory policy or mechanism. Cabrera v New York City, 436 F. Supp. 2d 635, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 44461 (S.D.N.Y. 2006).

In a former employee's race discrimination lawsuit against his former employer, a state university, and several professors and administrators, most of the allegedly discriminatory acts were time-barred under the three year statute of limitations under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 214(2), which was applied to suits under the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, because these events occurred more than three years before the suit was filed, and there was no basis to claim a continuing violation based on these discrete incidents. Whaley v City Univ. of N.Y., 555 F. Supp. 2d 381, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 35156 (S.D.N.Y. 2008).

In a female police officer's suit against a city, its police department, and others, alleging gender discrimination, her claims regarding a transfer to the technical operations section, a later transfer to the uniform patrol division, and the removal of her from her position as a public information officer were not time-barred under the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law 296, because they occurred within three years of her filing of the lawsuit. Lore v City of Syracuse, 583 F. Supp. 2d 345, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89484 (N.D.N.Y. 2008), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 670 F.3d 127, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 1954 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

Claims in which an employee alleged that her reassignment and office relocation were the result of unlawful gender discrimination under the New York State Human Rights Law were time-barred under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 and N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 214(2) because the employee's lawsuit was filed more than three years after the challenged employment actions. Ortiz-Moss v N.Y. City DOT, 623 F. Supp. 2d 379, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32048 (S.D.N.Y. 2008).

State law gender and age discrimination claims were time barred; all claims set forth in the complaint occurred, at the latest by October of 2003 and the action was not commenced until more than three years after the last claimed act of discrimination. Hanrahan v Riverhead Nursing Home, Inc., 593 F. Supp. 2d 487, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3183 (E.D.N.Y. 2009), vacated, 592 F.3d 367, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 1519 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2010).

Employee's N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 race discrimination claims were not time-barred under the three-year limitations period in N.Y. C.P.L.R. 214 to the extent that the employee sought to raise claims based on incidents that occurred on or after April 23, 2004, which was three years prior to the employee's April 23, 2007 complaint. Russell v County of Nassau, 696 F. Supp. 2d 213, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14018 (E.D.N.Y. 2010).

97. Jury instructions

Commissioner of Correctional Services was not entitled to summary judgment dismissing action alleging that deputy superintendent of correctional facility (plaintiff) was demoted based on race in violation of CLS Exec § 296, notwithstanding that demotion was properly based on fact that plaintiff, who was white, subjected black co-worker to racial insults in presence of staff (behavior undesirable in position plaintiff held), since commissioner did not offer any proof that same standard of conduct was or would be applied to all deputy superintendents regardless of race, and plaintiff's reply brief suggested that commissioner would not have sought discipline if plaintiff were black; under such circumstances, further discovery was necessary to determine existence of factual issues. Michaelis v State, 135 A.D.2d 1005, 522 N.Y.S.2d 960, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52888 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 244 A.D.2d 636, 663 N.Y.S.2d 922, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11105 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Jury instruction in employment discrimination case under Human Rights Law is proper where it allows jury to determine (1) whether illegitimate criterion was substantial or motivating factor in adverse employment decision, and (2) if so, whether employer has met its burden of proving that employment decision would have happened anyway; goal of Human Rights Law claim is to determine whether adverse employment decision was made "because of" illegitimate factor. Tyler v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 958 F.2d 1176, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 4161 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 826, 113 S. Ct. 82, 121 L. Ed. 2d 46, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 5704 (U.S. 1992).

Jury was properly charged in case brought by worker who alleged that he was discriminated against because of his age where judge stated, inter alia, that jury should consider whether "plaintiff established...that the termination or denial of transfer occurred under circumstances giving rise to an inference that age was a motivating factor in the decision"; jury may reach its ultimate conclusion on issue of discrimination through either "direct" or "circumstantial" evidence. Tyler v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 958 F.2d 1176, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 4161 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 826, 113 S. Ct. 82, 121 L. Ed. 2d 46, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 5704 (U.S. 1992).

98. Damages

Although an employee established that a hostile work environment existed and that the employer retaliated, because the employee attended only four counseling sessions, and did not claim that the employee took any leave or was prescribed any medication due to the resulting distress, pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, an award of $850,000 in compensatory damages was excessive. Matter of N.Y. State Dep't of Corr. Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 53 A.D.3d 823, 861 N.Y.S.2d 494, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7594 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

In a hostile-work-environment action based on a co-worker's actions, the jury properly assessed future damages against the employer for emotional injury and lost income. The employee's testimony and her doctor's diagnosis of post-traumatic stress disorder supported the award, and the awards bore a reasonable relationship to the wrongdoing, were supported by substantial evidence, and were comparable to similar awards; however, the award of future loss of earnings had to be reduced based on the employee's last salary without any evidence to support an upward adjustment. Boodram v Brooklyn Developmental Ctr., 773 N.Y.S.2d 817, 2 Misc. 3d 574, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1582 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2003).

Award of $200,000 to a student who had been subjected to racial discrimination at a school was supported by the evidence; however, although the student's mother was entitled to relief, a $200,000 award to her was reduced to $50,000. Injunctive relief ordered by the division was appropriate. Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

Because defendant supervisor's liability for age discrimination against plaintiff employees was premised solely on N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, and the jury was instructed that liquidated damages could only be awarded against defendant local public entity employer, to the extent the district court's judgment was ambiguous in seeming to indicate that liquidated damages had also been awarded against the supervisor, the judgment was corrected on appeal. Cross v N.Y. City Transit Auth., 417 F.3d 241, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 15849 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2005).

Addition of prejudgment interest to fringe benefit component of back pay awarded to terminated employee who prevailed in age discrimination claim under Exec § 296 was inappropriate, since addition of such interest to award would have exceeded "make whole" objective of back pay. Shannon v Fireman's Fund Ins. Co., 136 F. Supp. 2d 225, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2194 (S.D.N.Y. 2001).

Award of $313,242.38 to age discrimination plaintiff for emotional distress under Exec § 296 was excessive, and would be reduced to $175,000 upon acceptance of remittitur, where consequences of involuntary reduction in force (IRIF) included severe stress, personality changes, and treatment that had continued for 5 years since IRIF and would continue into foreseeable future. Meacham v Knolls Atomic Power Lab., 185 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2197 (N.D.N.Y. 2002), aff'd, 381 F.3d 56, 2004 U.S. App. LEXIS 17873 (2d Cir. 2004).

Parties agreed that the jury's award of $2.5 million in compensatory damages should be allocated entirely to the employee's state law claim under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 instead of under the employee's claim under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), 42 U.S.C.S. § 12101 et seq., because the ADA explicitly preserved the employee's right to recover damages under state law not available under federal law, 42 U.S.C.S. § 12201(b), and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 placed no limit on the amount of compensatory damages that the employee could recover. Brady v Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12151 (E.D.N.Y. June 21, 2005).

Where a jury found that an employer discriminated and retaliated against an employee on the basis of gender in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII), 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e, the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 296-301, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code §§ 8-107-8-131, the prejudgment interest rate set forth in 28 U.S.C.S. § 1961(a) applied to an award of back pay because the award was made under both Title VII and the state and city laws, rather than as a supplemental claim. Zakre v Norddeutsche Landesbank Girozentrale, 541 F. Supp. 2d 555, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9460 (S.D.N.Y. 2008), aff'd, 344 Fed. Appx. 628, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 12188 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

99. Summary judgment

Insurance company was properly granted summary judgment in discrimination action brought by agent for termination of her agency contract predicated on CLS Exec § 296(13), assuming that termination of agency contract qualified as business conduct or, more specifically, refusal to trade within statute's scope, where agent otherwise failed to show that contract termination was propelled by or was result of company's desire to collectively discriminate against protected class that included agent, it was not shown that termination resulted from blacklisting or commercial boycott of women, or of persons of her age or marital status, nor did she allege any facts to show that contract cancellation was part of larger pattern of dealing or policy instituted by company in effort to disadvantage females economically; agent's bare allegations that no other women had achieved district manager status in company (without some other proof of showing, for example, policy or pattern of rejections of qualified females who had applied for such posts) was insufficient to defeat summary judgment motion. Scott v Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1995) 86 NY2d 429, 633 NYS2d 754, 657 NE2d 769, 69 BNA FEP Cas 93ec.

In race discrimination case, defendants were properly granted summary judgment where they met their burden of rebutting prima facie case by setting forth evidence of independent nondiscriminatory reason for terminating plaintiff's employment, and plaintiff did not raise question of fact concerning falsity of proffered basis for termination, and that discrimination was more likely real reason for his termination. Scott v Citicorp Servs., 91 N.Y.2d 823, 666 N.Y.S.2d 560, 689 N.E.2d 530, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3689 (N.Y. 1997).

The mandate of Exec Law § 292(21), as it existed in 1975, excluded as a basis for a finding of discrimination in employment any disability related to the ability to engage in a particular job. Although this section was later amended to broaden the class sought to be protected, the amended section is not of retroactive application. Therefore, the trial court improperly denied employer's motion for summary judgment where former employee conceded her inability, due to her disability, to undertake the new duties required of a receptionist after an office reorganization. Pugach v Liggett Group, Inc., 81 A.D.2d 552, 438 N.Y.S.2d 307, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11020 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 922, 449 N.Y.S.2d 172, 434 N.E.2d 241, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3116 (N.Y. 1982).

Supreme Court properly granted summary judgment for state in action against employer and polygraph service for various violations of Civil Rights Law and CLS Exec Art 15 based on polygraph operator's unnecessarily touching breasts of employer's female employees who were undergoing testing and polygraph operator's asking such employees improper questions of sexual nature; employer's continuing use of polygraph service, after having notice of improprieties and without taking remedial action, established violation of CLS Exec § 296, and violation of that section established, a fortiori, violation of CLS Civ R § 40-c. People by Abrams v Hamilton, 125 A.D.2d 1000, 511 N.Y.S.2d 190, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 63199 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1986).

College was not entitled to summary judgment in faculty member's action alleging violation of Human Rights Law regarding age discrimination, even though parties had executed settlement agreement regarding prior federal age discrimination suit in which college promised to continue member's employment until she turned age 70 in return for release from all claims, where settlement was silent as to employment beyond age 70, college was free at that point to offer teaching position or to refuse to do so based on legitimate factors, and college refused to continue member's employment past age 70 as matter of college policy, which member alleged was discriminatory act; moreover, faculty member would not be deemed to have waived rights under Human Rights Law since provisions on which she relied were not effective until after settlement was negotiated. Jochnowitz v Russell Sage College, 136 A.D.2d 822, 523 N.Y.S.2d 656, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15175 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Employee is required to show evidence of discriminatory intent in action alleging violation of CLS Exec § 296 either if he cannot show that he was replaced by younger person or if he cannot produce statistical evidence of discriminatory conduct. Employer was entitled to summary judgment in employee's action alleging wrongful termination due to age in violation of CLS Exec § 296 where (1) employer claimed that termination was for legitimate business reasons aspart of valid corporate reorganization, and that employee was not qualified for any promotional positions for which he applied, and (2) employee did not offer any factual support for his conclusory allegation. Brown v General Electric Co., 144 A.D.2d 746, 534 N.Y.S.2d 743, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10933 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Insurance company was entitled to summary judgment dismissing former field underwriter's action for discriminatory termination under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) since underwriter was independent contractor where (1) contract specifically stated that underwriter was independent contractor, (2) underwriter's compensation consisted solely of commissions, (3) insurance company did not deduct any withholding taxes from underwriter's compensation, (4) underwriter hired and paid salary of his own secretary, and (5) underwriter had express authority to place insurance applications with other companies. Mehtani v New York Life Ins. Co., 145 A.D.2d 90, 537 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1552 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 835, 546 N.Y.S.2d 341, 545 N.E.2d 631, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2897 (N.Y. 1989), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 806, 627 N.Y.S.2d 323, 650 N.E.2d 1325, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1227 (N.Y. 1995).

In action to recover for allegedly unlawful discharge from employment, defendant was not entitled to summary judgment where (1) plaintiff was out of work for about 2 months after sustaining job-related injury, (2) on first day back at work, plaintiff was asked to work 2 hours of overtime, but refused on basis that he was still not 100 percent well, and (3) plaintiff was terminated on next day for refusal to comply with request to work overtime; it was not clear from record whether plaintiff was able to perform his duties in reasonable manner within meaning of CLS Exec § 292(21)(c). Uryevick v Pepcom Industries, Inc., 155 A.D.2d 450, 547 N.Y.S.2d 109, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13946 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Employer was entitled to summary judgment in action by former employee who alleged that he was discharged on basis of age discrimination in violation of Human Rights Law where (1) employee signed release of all claims against employer in consideration of extended severance benefits, (2) employee claimed that employer told him that release would not affect any subsequent actions he might take against it, (3) employee retained release agreement for 5 weeks before signing it, but failed to seek advice of counsel, and (4) employee was college graduate with extensive business experience. Skluth v United Merchants & Mfrs., Inc., 163 A.D.2d 104, 559 N.Y.S.2d 280, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8330 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Defendant carpet manufacturer was entitled to summary judgment in action by plaintiff minority-owned business, alleging that defendant discriminated against plaintiff businesswoman on basis of gender in violation of CLS Exec § 296(13) by offering carpeting referred to in bid documents for state contract to other bidders at lower price, causing her bid submission with other carpeting to be rejected, since plaintiff offered no proof of discriminatory animus on defendant's part, and record showed solid business reasons for defendant to offer lower prices to other bidders, who were its dealers. West v Mohawk Commercial Carpets, 183 A.D.2d 182, 589 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12640 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Defendant Japanese bank was entitled to summary judgment on cause of action by former employee for discrimination regarding promotion where (1) former employee alleged that Japanese male of equal rank was assigned to open desk in department, thus indicating his promotion ahead of her in conformity with Japanese business practices, but (2) bank established that promotion had not occurred, through uncontroverted statements which showed that desk change had nothing to do with promotion. Blaise-Williams v Sumitomo Bank, Ltd., 189 A.D.2d 584, 592 N.Y.S.2d 41, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 63 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

Finding by Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board that plaintiff "had been offered two transfers but had declined to accept either one" did not establish that sexual harassment did not constitute term or condition of plaintiff's continued employment so as to warrant summary judgment in favor of employer in action under CLS Exec § 296, where board's inquiry centered on unrelated question of whether plaintiff had provided employer with adequate evidence of disability to justify his failure to report to work, and employer offered no detail as to purported offers of transfer, or even verified that they were made; moreover, absent evidence that it took any disciplinary action against employee who perpetrated alleged harassment or other steps to alleviate threat of further occurrences, mere showing that employer offered to transfer plaintiff to different work location would not entitle it to judgment as matter of law. Goering v NYNEX Info. Resources Co., 209 A.D.2d 834, 619 N.Y.S.2d 167, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11352 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Defendants were entitled to summary judgment in action allegedly racial discrimination and retaliation in violation of CLS Exec §§ 296 and 297(9) where plaintiff put forth nothing to counter defendants' strong showing that actions complained of were taken as result of his hostile, aggressive confrontations with his co-workers and with employees of outside agencies, his large number of unauthorized absences, and his failure to complete assigned work on schedule; moreover, he failed to document single instance when he was treated differently from any other employee who was similarly situated. Hall v Paladino, 210 A.D.2d 595, 619 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12458 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), app. dismissed, 85 N.Y.2d 923, 627 N.Y.S.2d 324, 650 N.E.2d 1326, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1367 (N.Y. 1995).

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment in action arising from termination of plaintiff's employment on basis of alleged reduction in work force where plaintiff was part of protected age group, and evidence indicated that plaintiff might have been qualified for other positions which were awarded to other younger employees. Landwehr v Grey Advertising, 211 A.D.2d 583, 622 N.Y.S.2d 17, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 850 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Court should have granted employer's motion for summary judgment where employee failed to show that employer's justification for his discharge was pretextual, existence of fact issue that he satisfactorily performed his job during period in question, or that his involuntary retirement was for other, impermissible reasons than those attested to by his supervisors. Burkland v IBM, 226 A.D.2d 316, 642 N.Y.S.2d 501, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4631 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment dismissing plaintiff's age discrimination claim where employer's favorable evaluations of plaintiff's job performance for over decade and up until time plaintiff turned 60 years old raised fact issues as to whether poor job performance was pretext for age discrimination. Cella v Fordham Univ., 228 A.D.2d 300, 644 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7146 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Defendants were entitled to summary judgment in action alleging numerous violations of CLS Exec § 296 predicated on hostile work environment created by plaintiff's co-workers, even though plaintiff, who was male, was subjected to tasteless, offensive, and insulting remarks, since there was nothing to indicate that alleged harassment was based on his gender. Yukoweic v IBM, 228 A.D.2d 775, 643 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6418 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 816, 651 N.Y.S.2d 17, 673 N.E.2d 1244, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3317 (N.Y. 1996).

Court properly denied defendant' s summary judgment motion in action alleging disability discrimination since purportedly inconsistent position that plaintiff took before Social Security Administration in applying for disability benefits was not asserted against defendant and did not involve same standard as one at issue herein; moreover, plaintiff's appearance before Social Security Administration, which did not entail hearing, did not constitute type of prior legal proceeding that could form basis for application of judicial estoppel. Ferring v Merrill Lynch & Co., 244 A.D.2d 204, 664 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11386 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Court should have granted defendant employer's summary judgment motion in action alleging sex discrimination where evaluations made of plaintiff's work by various partners of defendant over years of her employment provided ample support for decision to terminate her employment, and plaintiff relied primarily on mere unsupported hearsay statements contained in her own affidavit and deposition testimony, despite 6 years of discovery. Schwaller v Squire Sanders & Dempsey, 249 A.D.2d 195, 671 N.Y.S.2d 759, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4661 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

"Elks Club" lodge was entitled to summary judgment dismissing claim that it discharged plaintiff in retaliation for filing lawsuit after her application for membership in lodge was denied by reason of gender, allegedly in violation of CLS Exec § 296(2), as there was no reasonable basis for plaintiff to have believed that defendant engaged in any discriminatory practice when it denied her membership application, given that CLS Exec § 292(9) explicitly excludes benevolent organization such as Elks Club from mandate of § 296(2) and, since plaintiff was not even "colorably aggrieved" under § 296(2), there was no basis for claim of retaliatory discharge under § 296(1). Dodd v Middletown Lodge (Elks Club) No. 1097, 264 A.D.2d 706, 695 N.Y.S.2d 115, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9066 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 707, 725 N.Y.S.2d 637, 749 N.E.2d 206, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1517 (N.Y. 2001).

Court erred in denying defendant's summary judgment motion in action under CLS Exec § 296 for unlawful termination of employment where there was no evidence that defendant's president knew of plaintiff's pregnancy before he terminated her employment, and it was undisputed that president was negotiating with third party to be plaintiff's replacement before he learned of her pregnancy. Smith v Paris Int'l Corp., 267 A.D.2d 223, 699 N.Y.S.2d 490, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12616 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Defendants, plaintiffs' employer and owner, should have been granted summary judgment in action alleging national origin discrimination where there was no evidence that they encouraged, condoned, or approved of employee's allegedly discriminatory conduct. Escobar v Spartan Assemblies, Inc., 267 A.D.2d 272, 700 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12942 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment dismissing sexual harassment complaint based on assertion by its human resources director (who was owner's son) that no one had received any complaints from plaintiff where (1) plaintiff testified at her deposition that she complained to her supervisor after 3 male employees directed obscene communication and unwanted sexually-related physical conduct at her, but no action was taken, and that after another employee tried to rape her, she reported attempted rape to her supervisor, who assured her that it was safe to return to work, but when she returned to work employee molested her, and (2) employee who molested plaintiff was discharged less than one month later for poor attendance. Vitale v Rosina Food Prods., 283 A.D.2d 141, 727 N.Y.S.2d 215, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5748 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Court improperly granted defendants' summary judgment motion on ground that award of Workers' Compensation benefits barred instant claim for sexual discrimination by plaintiff against her employers where workers' compensation award resulted solely from attempted videotaping of plaintiff by co-worker while she was in company locker room, and did not implicate alleged, intentional activities of company officer in subjecting her to hostile work environment by directing inappropriate sexual remarks and jokes toward her, and making demands on her for sexual relations in exchange for forgiving loan. Hanford v Plaza Packaging Corp., 284 A.D.2d 179, 727 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6182 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9220 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't Sept. 25, 2001).

Court properly dismissed plaintiff's action alleging hostile work environment where defendant's alleged misconduct consisted merely of occasional sarcastic remarks about plaintiff's weight and heightened awareness of plaintiff's medical condition. Novak v Royal Life Ins. Co. of N.Y., 284 A.D.2d 892, 726 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Court properly denied defendants' summary judgment motion in action alleging disparate treatment as to terms and conditions of plaintiff's employment due to his disability where affidavit of plaintiff's treating endocrinologist raised fact issue on whether plaintiff's disability prevented him from being able to perform job duties as of time of his actual termination, despite clear conflict between opinion stated in present affidavit and that previously expressed by endocrinologist, where endocrinologist gave rational explanation for discrepancy. Novak v Royal Life Ins. Co. of N.Y., 284 A.D.2d 892, 726 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Court should have granted employer's motion for summary judgment where employee failed to show that employer's justification for his discharge was pretextual, existence of fact issue that he satisfactorily performed his job during period in question, or that his involuntary retirement was for other, impermissible reasons than those attested to by his supervisors. Burkland 226 ad2d 316.

Summary judgment was properly granted to a school district with regard to an discrimination suit brought by former teachers, because the school district proved that the teachers failed to file a claim with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission within 300 days of the alleged discriminatory action and failed to demonstrate that a retirement incentive plan was discriminatory.

Brannigan v Bd. of Educ., 18 A.D.3d 787, 796 N.Y.S.2d 690, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5902 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 6 N.Y.3d 701, 810 N.Y.S.2d 415, 843 N.E.2d 1155, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 3385 (N.Y. 2005).

While trial court properly held that a defendant could not be liable as an employer under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(1)(a) since the defendant did not have authority over a doctor's employment status, the trial court improperly granted summary judgment to the defendant where he did not establish for summary judgment purposes that he did not aid or abet the other named defendants' discrimination, which would support the doctor's claim of liability under § 296(6). The trial court improperly entered summary judgment on that claims and, on appeal, the court denied summary judgment and reinstated the doctor's claim. Nesathurai v University At Buffalo, 23 A.D.3d 1070, 804 N.Y.S.2d 195, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12410 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2005).

Summary judgment dismissing an employee's discrimination claim against a county was proper; the employee failed to make a prima facie showing of either disability or age discrimination in the county's failure to promote him to police sergeant because the employee failed to establish that he could perform the essential functions of the position of police sergeant. The employee also failed to make a prima facie showing of retaliation because he failed to establish a causal connection between the protected activity and the adverse action. Simeone v County of Suffolk, 36 A.D.3d 890, 828 N.Y.S.2d 560, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 966 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Trial court's grant of summary judgment to an employer in an employee's discrimination and retaliatory discharge action under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107 was proper where the employer offered a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for the employee's termination from employment due to her role in an elderly nursing care resident's fall and subsequent injuries while under the employee's charge, and the employee failed to show that the reason offered was pretextual or to otherwise raise a triable issue of fact. Cesar v Highland Care Ctr., Inc., 37 A.D.3d 393, 829 N.Y.S.2d 236, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1482 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

To prevail on a motion for summary judgment when race or age discrimination in employment was alleged, an employer had to demonstrate either the employee's failure to establish every element of intentional discrimination, or - having offered legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons for the challenged action - the absence of a material issue of fact as to whether its explanations were pretextual. Bailey v New York Westchester Sq. Med. Ctr., 38 A.D.3d 119, 829 N.Y.S.2d 30, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 72 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

Denial of summary judgment was proper as to four employees' racial discrimination counts under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107, as in opposition to defendants' prima facie showing that the adverse employment decisions were the result of legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons, the employees showed that there were triable issues as to whether an illegitimate factor had a "motivating" or "substantial" role in defendants' adverse employment decisions as to three employees. Nelson v HSBC Bank USA, 41 A.D.3d 445, 837 N.Y.S.2d 712, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6924 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Defendants established, prima facie, their entitlement to summary judgment dismissing the employees' unlawful retaliation counts under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 by showing that the employees were not engaged in a protected activity. Nelson v HSBC Bank USA, 41 A.D.3d 445, 837 N.Y.S.2d 712, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6924 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Employer and others were entitled to summary judgment in a retaliation action under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(7) because the employee failed to make out a prima facie case of retaliation and failed to raise a triable issue of fact after defendants met their prima facie burden of establishing their entitlement to judgment as a matter of law. Keooulay v Transcore, Inc., 51 A.D.3d 874, 858 N.Y.S.2d 608, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4384 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Because a male employee failed to raise an issue of material fact as to whether the termination of his employment occurred under circumstances giving rise to an inference of gender discrimination under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, or as to whether the employer's motive was pretextual, the employer was entitled to summary judgment. DeFrancis v North Shore Plainview Hosp., 52 A.D.3d 562, 860 N.Y.S.2d 587, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5358 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Employee sued a physician and a hospital, alleging the physician sexually harassed her, in violation of Executive Law § 296 and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107, and that the hospital was vicariously liable for this misconduct. The hospital had not been entitled to summary judgment, as triable issues of fact existed as to whether the hospital's director, whom the employee alleged saw the physician try to kiss her, knew about the physician's alleged misconduct and whether he acquiesced in the alleged offensive behavior by failing to take any action. Bianco v Flushing Hosp. Med. Ctr., 54 A.D.3d 304, 863 N.Y.S.2d 453, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6398 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

As triable issues of fact precluded summary judgment in favor of either a group of wheelchair users or a cinema on a complaint against the cinema that portable companion seating provided in the cinema's wheelchair seating section was less comfortable than the cinema's regular seating, and thus violated the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 12101 et seq., and ADA Accessibility Guidelines, § 4.33.3, summary judgment was also precluded in favor of the cinema on the wheelchair users' claims under N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 40-c and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296. Gordon v PL Long Beach, LLC, 74 A.D.3d 880, 903 N.Y.S.2d 461, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4839 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

In light of an employee's testimony regarding a principal's comments and conduct, the record did not conclusively establish that the department and the principal would have made the same decision to terminate the employee's employment had they not considered her sexual orientation; thus, there being triable issues of fact, summary judgment was precluded insofar as the complaint alleged unlawful discrimination under the New York State Human Rights Law. Summary judgment was precluded by triable issues of fact as to whether, in response to the employee's prima facie showing that her termination was the direct result of retaliatory animus, the department and the principal offered a pretextual explanation. Sandiford v City of New York Dept. of Educ., 94 A.D.3d 593, 943 N.Y.S.2d 48, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3073 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012), aff'd, 22 N.Y.3d 914, 977 N.Y.S.2d 699, 999 N.E.2d 1144, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 2856 (N.Y. 2013), in part, 21 N.Y.3d 1029, 972 N.Y.S.2d 214, 995 N.E.2d 177, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 2013).

Summary judgment would be granted employer in action alleging sexual discrimination in employment and the tort of abusive discharge where the affidavits of the parties established that, rather than rebuffing defendant's sexual advances, plaintiff welcomed them in the furtherance of a long standing meretricious relationship with defendant that, at one time, contemplated marriage. Fletcher v Greiner, 106 Misc. 2d 564, 435 N.Y.S.2d 1005, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2734 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1980).

Hospital, its anesthesiology department, and 2 of its physicians having authority over personnel decisions were not entitled to summary judgment dismissing sex discrimination action brought by anesthesiology resident arising from her unsatisfactory academic evaluation, since comments made to her during her evaluation reflecting discriminatory attitude, coupled with changes in her work schedule, created possible factual basis for conclusion of job discrimination. Samper v Univ. of Rochester Strong Mem'l Hosp., 139 Misc. 2d 580, 528 N.Y.S.2d 958, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2830 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1987), modified, 144 A.D.2d 940, 535 N.Y.S.2d 281, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14409 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Defendants were not entitled to summary judgment in action for employment discrimination in violation of CLS Exec § 296 where (1) plaintiff was hired by defendants to reprise his role as voice of character in commercial, (2) after commercial was shown and defendants decided to make additional commercials with same character, defendant auditioned actors for commercial and did not even contact plaintiff, allegedly due to his age and handicap, (3) defendants claimed that their conduct was based on demands made by plaintiff in connection with first commercial, and (4) plaintiff contended that he conveyed information to defendants that he was willing to work pursuant to their conditions on future commercials; resolution of why defendants refused to hire plaintiff involved fact issues inappropriate for summary judgment. Maxwell v N.W. Ayer, Inc., 159 Misc. 2d 454, 605 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 470 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

Defendants, plaintiff's immediate supervisor and employee in company's personnel department who allegedly became aware of sexual harassment and did nothing to remedy it, were entitled to summary judgment in sexual harassment action where plaintiff failed to raise fact issue under "economic reality" test as to whether either defendant should be considered "employer." Foley v Mobil Chem. Co., 170 Misc. 2d 1, 647 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 302 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

Defendant was not entitled summary judgment, even though it showed legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for plaintiff's termination, reduction-in-force policy which caused plaintiff's termination in favor of 2 male co-workers who had vocational training and could work in both electrical and mechanical departments, where plaintiff, who had been employed in electrical department, submitted affidavits by co-workers and supervisors that she could perform more sophisticated wiring tasks than men, and that there was policy of gender segregation. Hughes v Prim Hall Enters., 182 Misc. 2d 892, 701 N.Y.S.2d 839, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 544 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2)(a) prohibits discrimination against disabled persons in public accommodations; in a personal injury action, where an individual slipped and fell on the steps of the lobby of a tenant's office, the slip and fall victim failed to offer any legal support for her contention that the statute prohibited discrimination against associated persons. Lugo v St. Nicholas Assocs., 772 N.Y.S.2d 449, 2 Misc. 3d 212, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1343 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003), aff'd in part, modified, 18 A.D.3d 341, 795 N.Y.S.2d 227, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5551 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2005).

General standards regarding the parties' respective burdens of proof on a motion for summary judgment are applicable in an age discrimination case. Peskin v N.Y. City Transit Auth., 304 A.D.2d 634, 757 N.Y.S.2d 594, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3941 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Summary judgment pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3212 was properly denied to employers in employees' sexual harassment action, as one employee sufficiently alleged that one of the employers made unwelcome physical and verbal sexual advances, which raised a triable issue of fact with respect to that employee's sexual harassment and assault claims under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296. Ortega v Bisogno & Meyerson, 2 A.D.3d 607, 769 N.Y.S.2d 279, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13326 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Defendants were entitled to summary judgment pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3212 dismissing the former employee's complaint alleging employment discrimination pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 296; while the employee's job had been abolished and the employee had not been given a comparable job, the employee had failed to apply for a comparable job, and the employee failed to demonstrate the existence of a triable issue of fact that the employee was the victim of discrimination due to age or disability. Hettrick v Stark, 3 A.D.3d 471, 771 N.Y.S.2d 133, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 260 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2004).

Although a sexual harassment/hostile work environment claim brought by two former employees against their employer did not meet the severe and pervasive standard under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 to survive summary judgment, the trial court erred by granting summary judgment to the employer under New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107 because the employer's comments and emails objectifying women's bodies and exposing them to sexual ridicule, even if considered isolated, clearly signaled that he considered it appropriate to foster an office environment that degraded women. Hernandez v Kaisman, 103 A.D.3d 106, 957 N.Y.S.2d 53, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9069 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012).

District Court properly granted defendant airline's summary judgment motion dismissing age discrimination action, even though plaintiff pilots demonstrated prima facie case, where there was no evidence to suggest that defendant's stated nondiscriminatory reasons for challenged employment actions were false. Abdu-Brisson v Delta Air Lines, Inc., 239 F.3d 456, 2001 U.S. App. LEXIS 2041 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 534 U.S. 993, 122 S. Ct. 460, 151 L. Ed. 2d 378, 2001 U.S. LEXIS 9990 (U.S. 2001).

Where prospective home buyers sued for racial discrimination under the Fair Housing Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 3601 et seq., 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 1981 and 1982, and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(5)(a)(1), summary judgment in favor of the homeowners was proper where there was no evidence that they had any knowledge of the buyers' race being African-American until after the homeowners had rejected the buyers' offer and signed a contract with a white purchaser. Mitchell v Shane, 350 F.3d 39, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 23322 (2d Cir. 2003).

Where issues of fact existed as to a realtor's liability for racial discrimination in violation of the Fair Housing Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 3601 et seq., 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 1981 and 1982, and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(5)(a)(1), summary judgment in favor of the real estate agency that employed the realtor was also improper as the Fair Housing Act imposed liability without fault on employers in accordance with traditional agency principles. Mitchell v Shane, 350 F.3d 39, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 23322 (2d Cir. 2003).

District court erred in granting summary judgment to individual defendants under the New York State Human Rights Law where allegedly some of them had participated in creating a hostile work environment, some had assigned the plaintiff a disproportionate workload because of his race, and his supervisors not only had taken no action to remedy such behavior although they were aware of it, but also had terminated his employment on the basis of impermissible factors. Feingold v New York, 366 F.3d 138, 2004 U.S. App. LEXIS 8543 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2004).

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment in a hostile work environment case brought under 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 because a rational juror could find that the combination of disparate treatment of plaintiff female employee and gender-based verbal abuse was sufficiently severe or sufficiently pervasive to alter the conditions of her employment. Pucino v Verizon Communs., Inc., 618 F.3d 112, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 16749 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2010).

Employer is entitled to partial summary judgment on employee's claims of race discrimination under CLS Exec Law § 296, even though chief clerk argues that promotion to head clerk, which she was denied, would have included change in salary, increased contact with public, and new status under collective bargaining agreement, because promotion in fact would not have established significant change in employee-employer relationship and would not have created "new and distinct relation" necessary to state claim. Bradley v National R. Passenger Corp., 797 F. Supp. 286, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9984 (S.D.N.Y. 1992).

Employer is granted summary judgment on former branch manager's age discrimination claims under Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) (29 USCS §§ 621 et seq.) and CLS Exec Law § 296, where proof demonstrated that supervisor intimidated all his subordinates and was impersonable, overly aggressive, and even unsavory manager, but not that his actions which led to disabling of plaintiff were motivated by age, because state courts evaluate § 296 age discrimination claim by utilizing federal case law's interpretation and application of federal discrimination statutes in determining elements of prima facie case and burdens of production and order of proof. Spence v Maryland Casualty Co., 803 F. Supp. 649, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14861 (W.D.N.Y. 1992), aff'd, 995 F.2d 1147, 1993 U.S. App. LEXIS 12666 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1993).

Former employee's disability discrimination claim against former employer is denied summarily, because although employee was member of protected class and generally qualified for former position, he failed to raise genuine issue as to whether he was discharged in circumstances giving rise to inference of discrimination by failing to point to evidence of discriminatory animus or that downsizing which resulted in his discharge was false or exaggerated. Fitzgerald v Alleghany Corp., 904 F. Supp. 223, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17337 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

Employer is denied summary dismissal of terminated employee's age discrimination claim under New York Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Law §§ 290 et seq.), where employee made out prima facie case of discrimination, and employer also met its burden by proffering that employee was legitimately discharged as part of necessary reduction in force, because genuine issues of material fact remain as to employer's intent, since employer's use of sales reports and log book to measure relative productivity of employees was questionable. Fasano v Flour City Architectural Metals, 945 F. Supp. 512, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19965 (E.D.N.Y. 1996).

African-American AP English teacher has CLS Exec Law § 296 claim denied summarily, even though she was forced to resign after controversy arising from her providing students with practice test questions that turned up on AP English examination, where she has failed to provide wisp of evidence to support her capitulation-to-a-mountain-of-racial-resentment theory, because school district has clearly articulated legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for recommending her discharge. Richardson v Newburgh Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 984 F. Supp. 735, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18037 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

Age discrimination claims under CLS Exec Law § 296 must be denied summarily, where employer proffered that all plaintiffs were validly and accurately given relatively low performance assessment ratings that justified their terminations as part of economically justified reduction in force, because plaintiffs collectively have alleged massive conspiracy to fire older workers but have produced no evidence to support that claim. Wado v Xerox Corp., 991 F. Supp. 174, 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 681 (W.D.N.Y. 1998), aff'd, 196 F.3d 358, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 29261 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999).

Employment discrimination claim will not be denied summarily, where terminated employee of Puerto Rican descent relies primarily on alleged series of national origin epithets made by his supervisor in months preceding his discharge, even though employer claims he was fired for declining work performance and unwillingness to change shifts, because reasonable jury could find discrimination based on facts alleged. Cartagena v Ogden Servs. Corp., 995 F. Supp. 459, 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2824 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

Fifty-two-year-old African-American female procurement specialist's claims are denied summarily, where she and 5 other procurement specialists were terminated pursuant to reduction in force, even though 4 of 6 terminated were African-American and 4 were age-protected, because no reasonable factfinder could conclude that age or race discrimination was substantial motivating factor in her termination. Duncan v New York City Transit Auth., 127 F. Supp. 2d 354, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 711 (E.D.N.Y. 2001), aff'd, 45 Fed. Appx. 14, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 17674 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2002).

Comment that claimant was "too old" to be pregnant did not support an inference of discriminatory intent under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act sufficient to withstand employer's motion for summary judgment where the comment was neither contemporaneous with or causally related to claimant's termination. Venti v EDS, 236 F. Supp. 2d 264, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24701 (W.D.N.Y. 2002).

Because the court concluded that the employee's claim pursuant to the New York Human Rights Law (NYHRL), N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 et seq., against his town employer could stand, and because the supervisor was the active participant in the discriminatory conduct that formed the basis of the claim against the town, she could be held liable as an aider and abettor. Accordingly, her motion for summary judgment on the employee's NYHRL claim against her was denied. Perks v Town of Huntington, 251 F. Supp. 2d 1143, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9918 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

Court declined to grant summary judgment on former public employee's claim under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) against her supervisor who had allegedly engaged in gender discrimination even though her former employer, the state, was protected by sovereign immunity. Kantha v Blue, 262 F. Supp. 2d 90, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7859 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

In an action by a former employee against his former employer alleging age discrimination in violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 29 U.S.C.S. § 621 et seq., and the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, following his termination, summary judgment under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c) was granted for the employer where, although the employee presented a prima facie case of age discrimination because the fact that the employee was permanently replaced by someone substantially younger than he within two months after his termination presented circumstances giving rise to an inference of discrimination, the employer satisfied its burden of showing that the employee was fired for the legitimate, non-discriminatory reason that he was noted to have had poor sales performance, he was warned to improve his sales performance, and he failed to demonstrate sufficient progress towards improving his sales performance, and the employee failed to offer any evidence that the employer's reason was pretext for discrimination because severance payments were not precluded to persons who were terminated for inadequate performance, the employee failed to offer evidence suggesting that employer did not believe his sales performance to be deficient, and the employee stated at deposition that the only fact that led him to believe that he was discriminated against on account of his age was that he ultimately was replaced by an individual younger than he. Morris v Charter One Bank, F.S.B., 275 F. Supp. 2d 249, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13849 (N.D.N.Y. 2003).

Defendants were not entitled to summary judgment on a former employee's age and gender discrimination claims under New York law with respect to the actions of two former managers who allegedly referred to the employee as "old and grandmotherly" and an "old bag"; however, there was no genuine fact issue as to whether a subsequent supervisor discriminated against the employee, as the employee did not allege that the supervisor made any derogatory comments, and the mere fact that the supervisor assigned an account to a younger woman did not establish age discrimination. Flaherty v Metromail Corp., 293 F. Supp. 2d 355, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24032 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

Alleged supervisors' motions for summary judgment on plaintiff's sexual harassment claim under the New York Human Rights Act (NYHRL), N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 et seq., was denied because it was possible that the alleged supervisors could incur individual liability for defendant employer's violation of N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6), which makes it an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person to aid, abet, incite, compel or coerce the doing of any of the acts forbidden under the NYHRL, or to attempt to do so. EEOC v Rotary Corp., 297 F. Supp. 2d 643, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 23225 (N.D.N.Y. 2003).

Police officer's retaliation claims under the New York State Human Rights Law failed at summary judgment because no reasonable juror could have found that allegedly adverse employment actions, including negative performance evaluations and disciplinary actions, were causally related to the officer's sexual harassment complaint against a co-worker; defendants offered legitimate, nonretaliatory reasons for the evaluations and discipline, and the incidents were too temporally remote from the harassment complaint. Knight v City of New York, 303 F. Supp. 2d 485, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2614 (S.D.N.Y. 2004), aff'd, 147 Fed. Appx. 221, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 23212 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2005).

Having concluded that employees of joint employers could not be aggregated, it was clear that the employee's relief was to be had in state court under the New York Human Rights Law (NYHRL), N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 296-97, which had a four-person minimum instead. The court declined to exercise supplemental jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C.S. § 1367 and dismissed the employee's claim under the NYHRL without prejudice. Arculeo v On-Site Sales & Mktg., LLC, 321 F. Supp. 2d 604, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11538 (S.D.N.Y. 2004), aff'd, 425 F.3d 193, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 21212 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2005).

County was denied summary judgment on the female correctional officers' hostile work environment claim under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII), 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e et seq., and the New York State Human Rights Law (NYSHRL), N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, because the sergeant was the correctional officers' supervisor, as the court found persuasive the correctional officers' assertion that the county had delegated supervisory responsibility to sergeants over correctional officers as the first link in the chain of command. The county could not establish the affirmative defense of Ellerth/Faragher because there existed a material issue of fact as to whether its response to the hostile work environment allegations were reasonable and prompt, as according to the correctional officers, neither the commissioner nor his special assistant ever spoke to them about their complaints nor was the sergeant terminated or even formally disciplined. Dawson v County of Westchester, 351 F. Supp. 2d 176, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26100 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

Commissioner and chief of operations were entitled to immunity with respect to the female correctional officers' claims against them under the New York State Human Rights Law (NYSHRL), N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, because their investigation of the correctional officers' hostile work environment complaints was discretionary in nature, involving the exercise of reasoned judgment. However, the sergeant who allegedly distributed copies of inmates' sexually explicit letters about the correctional officers to others was not entitled to summary judgment. Dawson v County of Westchester, 351 F. Supp. 2d 176, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26100 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

Plaintiff alleged his union discriminated against him because of his race by failing to refer him for work assignments; his data revealed a disparity of less than 4 percent between the overall hours worked by African-Americans and by non-minority union members, while the union's more reliable data produced a difference of .19 percent. As the purported statistical disparities were not substantial enough to support his claim that the union violated N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, this claim was dismissed on summary judgment. Duggan v Local 638, Enter. Ass'n of Steam, Hot Water, Hydraulic, Sprinkler, Pneumatic Tube, Ice Machine, Air Conditioning & Gen. Pipefitters, 419 F. Supp. 2d 484, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 28685 (S.D.N.Y. 2005).

City of New York, its Human Resources Administration (HRA), a director, and a supervisor were entitled to summary judgment on an employee's retaliation claim because the employee did not make a prima facie case and set forth no evidence that defendants had general corporate knowledge or knowledge through union publications that he filed a discrimination action against the City's Administration for Children's Services, an entity independent from the HRA, and the separate incidents of a denial of a supervisor of choice, failure to provide a telephone, reprimands about performance, removal from a civil service list, and disciplinary charges that were not conclusively adjudicated did materially alter the terms and conditions of employment and constitute materially adverse employment actions. Uddin v City of New York, 427 F. Supp. 2d 414, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18904 (S.D.N.Y. 2006), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 316 Fed. Appx. 4, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 8783 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2008).

Former employee proffered evidence that, taken in the most favorable light, could reasonably convince a fact finder that her former employer's acting general counsel actively participated in discriminatory conduct; the employee asserted that counsel "actively participated" in her discriminatory termination, because he effectively affirmed the supervisor's prior discriminatory action by failing to reinstate her. A fact finder might reasonably conclude that counsel was in some way involved with the instances of discrimination that formed the basis of the employee's allegations of primary violations of the state and local human rights laws; therefore, the employee's proffered evidence raised a genuine issue of material fact as to whether counsel aided and abetted discriminatory conduct. Int'l Healthcare Exch., Inc. v Global Healthcare Exch., LLC, 470 F. Supp. 2d 345, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2648 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

In an action in which a former employee, an African-American who had worked as a correction officer, alleged that defendants, a county and a sheriff's department, discriminated against him based on his race in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e-2(a), and the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, defendants, who contended that the employee was ineligible for tower and weapons training, that the employee's probationary period was extended due to the employee's disrespectful conduct during a traffic stop, and that the employee was terminated for allowing an inmate to perform his security tour, were not entitled to summary judgment because evidence indicating that white correction officers who were guilty of similar misconduct were not disciplined as severely as the employee was created a genuine issue of material fact as to whether defendants' decisions regarding the employee's probationary period and termination were based on discrimination. Hawkins v County of Oneida, 497 F. Supp. 2d 362, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 53575 (N.D.N.Y. 2007).

In an action in which a former employee, an African-American who had worked as a correction officer, asserted a hostile work environment claim against defendants, a county and a sheriff's department, pursuant to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e-2(a), and the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, defendants were not entitled to summary judgment because evidence showing that racially discriminatory conduct was perpetrated with persistence by numerous people for more than two years and that internal investigations focusing on the employee were baseless created issues of fact as to whether the employee was subjected to an abusive working environment. Hawkins v County of Oneida, 497 F. Supp. 2d 362, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 53575 (N.D.N.Y. 2007).

School district and school officials were not entitled to summary judgment on pregnancy discrimination claims that a probationary teacher filed under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e-2(a), and the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, because evidence indicating that the teacher was subjected to harsh treatment and a pop-in evaluation shortly after returning from an extended maternity leave and that an evaluation that the teacher received after returning from leave was lower than the evaluations she received prior to her maternity leave created genuine issues of material fact as to whether the assertion that the teacher was denied tenure because she was not qualified for tenure was a pretext for discrimination. Helmes v S. Colonie Cent. Sch. Dist., 564 F. Supp. 2d 137, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 72960 (N.D.N.Y. 2008).

Because the definition of disability under the New York State Human Rights Law (NYSHRL), N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, was broader than under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), 42 U.S.C.S. § 12102(2), the fact that a school district and others were entitled to summary judgment in a suit by a former school psychologist, who suffered from bipolar disorder and Lyme disease, and who failed to show that she was disabled for purposes of the ADA, was not dispositive of her NYSHRL claim. Levine v Smithtown Cent. Sch. Dist., 565 F. Supp. 2d 407, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 53864 (E.D.N.Y. 2008).

Arrestee's claims against a city and a police department under Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 survived a motion for summary judgment because police officers' knowledge of the arrestee's condition was a triable issue of fact, and even if the officers had such knowledge, there remained a triable issue of fact concerning whether their actions in locking the arrestee, alone and handcuffed, in a police wagon after being told she had just suffered a seizure and was about to have another seizure, and/or dragging her out of the wagon while she was unresponsive, constituted deliberate indifference to the arrestee's rights under the ADA. Fera v City of Albany, 568 F. Supp. 2d 248, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 58673 (N.D.N.Y. 2008).

Plaintiff employee's retaliation claim failed to survive summary judgment because it would have been impossible for any trier of fact to conclude that the disciplinary proceeding was motivated by anything other than the employee's inexplicable and unprofessional behavior; the employee was disciplined because he failed to tell a doctor about a test result showing that a patient had a highly elevated level of potassium in his system, lied about the test result in his written report (stating that he was "unable to perform the test" rather than give what he thought was an inaccurate result), and then refused a direct order to explain his extraordinary conduct. Siddiqi v New York City Health & Hosps. Corp., 572 F. Supp. 2d 353, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63024 (S.D.N.Y. 2008).

Although the former employer argued that the former employee's substandard performance rendered him unqualified for his position; that the circumstances of the employee's termination did not give rise to an inference of discrimination; and the employer had a legitimate, non-discriminatory reason for terminating the employee that he could not overcome by a showing of pretext, the employee raised a number of factual issues concerning whether the employer's proffered reasons for his termination were a pretext for discrimination to overcome summary judgment motion. Inter alia, although the employer stated that the employer transmitted certain information to an outside contractor in violation of established policy, the employer did not provide evidence of that policy and the employee raised another triable issue because the same individual who allegedly made derogatory comments about the employee's heritage was the principal decision-maker in his termination. Bang v IBM Corp., 600 F. Supp. 2d 430, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18633 (E.D.N.Y. 2009).

Police officer's retaliation claims survived summary judgment because investigations into the officer's violations of police department rules occurred in close temporal proximity to the officer's complaints about discrimination and there was evidence that a deputy chief told the officer's supervisor to write the officer up every time she spoke about anyone and that other employees were not disciplined in the same manner. Lee v City of Syracuse, 603 F. Supp. 2d 417, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24966 (N.D.N.Y. 2009), overruled in part, Widomski v State Univ. of N.Y., 748 F.3d 471, 2014 U.S. App. LEXIS 6466 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2014).

There was no dispute that the former employee never filed a notice of claim, nor did the employee leave to file a late notice of claim, and as the employee sought enforcement of a private right, as she sought relief in the form of money damages and placement in a tenured position with the school district on the basis that she alone was denied such a position on the basis of her national origin, defendants' motion for summary judgment with respect to the employee's state law claim brought under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 was granted. Augustin v Enlarged City Sch. Dist. of Newburgh, 616 F. Supp. 2d 422, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 39949 (S.D.N.Y. 2009).

In an action in which African-American shoppers alleged that toy stores discriminated against them by asking to inspect their sales receipts after they made purchases while not inspecting the sales receipts of white shoppers, the shoppers' equal benefit claim under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1981 and their related claims under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 and N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 40 survived summary judgment because there were material issues of fact as to whether the shoppers were singled out for unlawful oppression by the enforcement of the stores' receipt checking policy and whether the stores' alleged discriminatory conduct deprived the shoppers of the full and equal benefit of § 296. Drayton v Toys 'R' Us Inc., 645 F. Supp. 2d 149, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 64214 (S.D.N.Y. 2009).

Summary judgment for defendant former employer was proper as to plaintiff employee's claims for employment discrimination and retaliation under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e et seq., 42 U.S.C.S. § 1981, and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(1) because, in part, the employee could identify no specific communications between any prospective employer and the former employer to support the employee's blackballing theory. Memnon v Clifford Chance US, LLP, 667 F. Supp. 2d 334, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 99936 (S.D.N.Y. 2009).

With respect to the employee's demotion in 2005 to detention attendant, it was undisputed that the employee engaged in protected activity in the mid-1990s, that her employer was aware of it, and that there was an adverse action in 2005 in the form of a demotion; moreover, with respect to the earlier demotions in October 2004 to 911 operator and in December 2004 to switchboard operator, although defendants argued that neither of these demotions was an adverse action because of the lack of any reduction in pay or benefits, the facts were sufficiently in dispute to preclude summary judgment on that basis. Drees v County of Suffolk, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27346 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 30, 2009).

Employee proffered sufficient evidence regarding a retaliatory hostile work environment in 2004 and 2005 to survive summary judgment; according to the employee, following her conversation with a superior in 2004, two supervisors allegedly overscrutinized the employee and reprimanded her for actions that had not raised a concern prior to her meeting with the superior. According to the employee, the supervisors also reprimanded the employee for actions that they did not criticize when performed by the employee's colleagues who had not made complaints about sexual harassment or retaliation and each time the employee was reprimanded, her requests to be retrained were denied; the evidence was sufficient, when considered in light of the other evidence to survive summary judgment on the issue of retaliatory hostile work environment in 2004 and 2005. Drees v County of Suffolk, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27346 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 30, 2009).

Employee proffered specific evidence related to her gender-based hostile work environment claims sufficient to raise a genuine issue of material fact as to whether her workplace was permeated with discriminatory harassment that was sufficiently severe or pervasive as to alter the conditions of her work environment; the employee testified that she was subjected to verbal hostility beginning in 2000, that women were objectified in the workplace, and that her physical safety was threatened by her male coworkers on several occasions. When these acts were viewed together with gender-specific comments to which the employee was allegedly subjected, there were sufficient material issues of fact to preclude summary judgment on the employee's gender-based hostile work environment claims. Hall v N.Y. City DOT, 701 F. Supp. 2d 318, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 31077 (E.D.N.Y. 2010).

Given the interplay between evidence of gender-based hostility and racial hostility, summary judgment was not warranted on the employee's race-based hostile work environment claim; the undisputed evidence established that the employee (herself an African-American female) was referred to as "Omarosa," a female African-American television personality whom the employee described as a villain and that she overheard a coworker say that she lived with "mixed-race people." When viewed together with the incidents of alleged physical threats and gender-based hostility, a jury could have found from the racially hostile statements that the employee was subjected to a hostile work environment based on her race. Hall v N.Y. City DOT, 701 F. Supp. 2d 318, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 31077 (E.D.N.Y. 2010).

Employer was granted summary judgment on a former employee's reasonable accommodation claim under the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, because the employee terminated the interactive process for discussing accommodations by tendering his resignation before the employer's director of human resources could investigate the situation and get back to him. Gingold v Bon Secours Charity Health Sys., 768 F. Supp. 2d 537, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 23781 (S.D.N.Y. 2011).

In a case where a teacher sued a school district alleging that she was sexually harassed by a principal at her school, the district was granted summary judgment on the claims under Title VII, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e-2, and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 because it established that it had exercised reasonable care to prevent and correct promptly any sexually harassing behavior, and the teacher failed to take advantage of any preventive or corrective opportunities provided by the employer. That is, the district established both prongs of the Faragher test. Alexander v Westbury Union Free Sch. Dist., 829 F. Supp. 2d 89, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 127738 (E.D.N.Y. 2011).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

Analysis

I. Generally

1. In general

II. Employment Discrimination

A. Hiring/Failure to Hire

2. Age discrimination
3. Racial discrimination
4. Sex discrimination

B. Termination/Discharge from Employment

5. Age discrimination, generally

6. Discrimination based on disability, generally
7. Racial discrimination
8. Retaliation

C. Other Employment Matters

9. Demotion
10. Adverse employment action

III. Practice and Procedure

11. Burden of proof
12. Collateral estoppel/res judicata
13. Statute of limitations
14. Summary judgment

I. Generally

1. In general

Unpublished decision: Any error by the district court in failing to separately analyze the employee's discrimination and retaliation claims under the New York State Human Rights Law and the New York City Human Rights Law (NYCHRL) was harmless because even where the employee might be entitled to the NYCHRL's broader protections, there was no evidence that retaliation or the employee's age played even a partial motivating role in any of the allegedly adverse actions. Aiossa v Bank of Am., N.A., 538 Fed. Appx. 8, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 18321 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

II. Employment Discrimination

A. Hiring/Failure to Hire

2. Age discrimination

Unpublished decision: Former employee failed to show age discrimination in a termination of the employee while other younger managers received written reprimands for the same misconduct, since the employer's determination that the employee lied during the investigation of the misconduct indicated a lack of discriminatory intent in the disparate treatment. Taddeo v L.M. Berry & Co., 526 Fed. Appx. 121, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 9579 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

3. Racial discrimination

Unpublished decision: District court properly dismissed a candidate's claim that a city's system for ranking police officer candidates based on the results of its civil service examination discriminated against non-minority candidates because, even assuming that the candidate presented sufficient evidence to set forth a prima facie case of discrimination under § 296 of the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, the candidate failed to present any evidence showing that the city's nondiscriminatory reason for not hiring him—namely, his psychological disqualification—was pretextual because the candidate did not allege that his psychological evaluation was tainted by race-based discrimination, and the candidate did not point to evidence from which a reasonable jury could have concluded that an examiner's assessment, confirmed on appeal by a second psychologist, was unworthy of credence or otherwise suggested discriminatory motive. Damino v City of New York, 332 Fed. Appx. 679, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 13290 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

4. Sex discrimination

Unpublished decision: Former employee failed to show gender discrimination in a termination of the female employee while other male managers received written reprimands for the same misconduct, since the employer's determination that the employee lied during the investigation of the misconduct indicated a lack of discriminatory intent in the disparate treatment. Taddeo v L.M. Berry & Co., 526 Fed. Appx. 121, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 9579 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

B. Termination/Discharge from Employment

5. Age discrimination, generally

Unpublished decision: In a case in which present and former police department employees appealed a district court's denial of their motion to reconsider the dismissal of their class action complaint charging that a termination pay policy imposed in arbitration resulted in unlawful age discrimination, they failed to demonstrate that the district court overlooked facts that might reasonably be expected to alter its conclusion, they could not claim abuse of discretion in the denial of reconsideration. Older workers had to make a difficult choice between retiring before the policy took effect, thus avoiding the termination pay cap, or continuing to work and facing the reduction in termination pay that the cap imposed; however, younger workers were not afforded even that choice, they were necessarily subject to the cap. Young v County of Nassau, 511 Fed. Appx. 35, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 2371 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: In a case in which present and former police department employees appealed a district court's denial of their motion for leave to file a second amended complaint as futile in which they sought to explain that the challenged policy discriminated against older workers relative to their younger counterparts because only employees over 40 could have accrued enough days to be adversely affected, whereas younger workers allegedly were not and mathematically could not be harmed by the new policy should they choose to retire. The flaw in the argument, as the district court recognized, was that the pleading nonetheless failed plausibly to allege discrimination between older and younger workers; the latter were plainly subject to the policy and would never have the option of recovering more than the capped amount of termination pay, and. by contrast, older workers who had accrued more than the capped amount were afforded a limited window within which to collect that full amount by opting to retire, an opportunity not available to their younger counterparts. Young v County of Nassau, 511 Fed. Appx. 35, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 2371 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: Terminated employee's age discrimination claims survived dismissal because the complaint alleged that the employee was a 60-year-old man with "stellar" performance evaluations, who was terminated for pretextual reasons, and when combined with the allegation that the employer maintained substantially younger workers, no further amplification was necessary to state a plausible claim. Gonzalez v Carestream Health, Inc., 520 Fed. Appx. 8, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 6541 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: Terminated employee's age discrimination claims failed because the employer's contention that the employee should have been at the plant on the day of an accident supported its decision to terminate the employee, as did the employee's ongoing refusal to accept responsibility, and the employee did not present sufficient evidence of pretext. Mikinberg v Bemis Co., 555 Fed. Appx. 34, 2014 U.S. App. LEXIS 2007 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2014).

6. Discrimination based on disability, generally

Unpublished decision: Employer was entitled to summary judgment on the employee's reasonable accommodation claim because the employee failed to adduce sufficient evidence to raise a material issue of fact as to whether her requested accommodation, transfer from the night shift to the day shift, was reasonable. Cody v County of Nassau, 345 Fed. Appx. 717, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20662 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

Unpublished decision: Executors pointed to five emails sent between a supervisor and other coworkers that contained negative and insensitive remarks about the deceased employee; the emails, however, took place months before the employee was terminated, and while disparaging of the employee, were not a sufficient basis on which to conclude that she was terminated because of her illness, as opposed to the employer's diminishing business prospects. Gioia v Forbes Media LLC, 501 Fed. Appx. 52, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 22689 (2d Cir. 2012).

7. Racial discrimination

Unpublished decision: Employee's race discrimination and retaliation claims failed because the employee was terminated for legitimate reasons relating to the department's budget and the employee's relative qualifications for the consolidated day manager position. Turner v Nyu Hosps. Ctr., 470 Fed. Appx. 20, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 6552 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

Unpublished decision: Terminated employee's race discrimination and retaliation claims failed because the employee did not show a genuine dispute of fact regarding alleged discrimination in the employer's overtime distribution since the differences in overtime hours were minimal and were easily explained by the higher rate at which African-American employees declined overtime opportunities, and the employee did not present sufficient evidence to create a genuine dispute of fact regarding whether the employee's purportedly "similarly situated" comparators were, in fact, similarly situated. Finn v N.Y. State Office of Mental Health-Rockland Psychiatric Ctr., 489 Fed. Appx. 513, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 25168 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

8. Retaliation

Unpublished decision: Employee's retaliation claims failed, as the employee proffered no evidence establishing any connection between his religious accommodation suit and the adverse actions of which he complained, nor did he proffer any evidence tending to establish that defendants' explanations for the incidents were pretextual or otherwise illegitimate. Bowles v N.Y. City Transit Auth., 285 Fed. Appx. 812, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 14656 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2008).

Unpublished decision: In affirming a summary dismissal of retaliation claims under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107, the court agreed that an employee failed to show that a retaliatory motive was a substantial or motivating factor in any adverse action, especially her negative performance evaluation which led to her termination. Malacarne v City Univ. of N.Y., 289 Fed. Appx. 446, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 17059 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2008).

Unpublished decision: Former employee failed to establish a prima facie case of retaliation because the employee's complaints about teaching curriculum disputes, his responsibilities, and his treatment by supervisors did not protest prohibited discrimination. Also, an ample basis for the adverse actions was shown. Benn v City of New York, 482 Fed. Appx. 637, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 10350 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

Unpublished decision: Executors put forth no evidence that the employee's requests for accommodation, which included time off to go to doctors' appointments and taxi rides to work, provoked animus in her supervisors; to the contrary, her supervisors readily granted these requests. Nor was there any temporal proximity between when the employee first requested these accommodations and when she lost her job. Gioia v Forbes Media LLC, 501 Fed. Appx. 52, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 22689 (2d Cir. 2012).

Unpublished decision: Employee's claims of retaliatory demotion under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and state law failed because no reasonable juror could find that the nondiscriminatory reason for demoting the employee, i.e., a Civil Service Commission decision instructing the employer that the employee could not supervise other supervisors in his civil service title, was pretext for retaliatory animus and that "but for" the desire to retaliate, the employee would not have been demoted. Puglisi v Town of Hempstead, 545 Fed. Appx. 23, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 21114 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

C. Other Employment Matters

9. Demotion

Unpublished decision: In a case in which an employee appealed a district court's entry of summary judgment in favor of his employer as to his discrimination claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, 29 U.S.C.S. § 621 et seq., the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 12101 et seq., and the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, the employer proffered substantial evidence that the employee's demotions and sometimes attendant decreases in compensation were the result of two division-wide reorganizations and his supervisors' repeatedly documented concerns about his management abilities. The employee did not offer evidence from which a reasonable jury could conclude that those reasons were mere pretext. Ben-Levy v Bloomberg, 518 Fed. Appx. 17, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 8843 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: In a case in which an employee appealed a district court's entry of summary judgment in favor of his employer as to his retaliation claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, 29 U.S.C.S. § 621 et seq., the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 12101 et seq., the Family and Medical Leave Act, 29 U.S.C.S. § 2601 et seq., and the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, he had not presented any evidence from which a reasonable jury could conclude that the employer's business motivations for his moves within the company, compensation reductions, and negative performance evaluations were mere pretext for a retaliatory motivation. Ben-Levy v Bloomberg, 518 Fed. Appx. 17, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 8843 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

10. Adverse employment action

Unpublished decision: Employee had failed to make out a prima facie case on his claim of religious discrimination because a supervisor's comment that the employee should have sought a job in the private sector if he wanted weekends off, which the employee construed as a threat of termination, standing alone, was insufficient to establish the third prong of the employee's prima facie case in light of the employee's failure to offer any evidence tending to establish that the supervisor's remarks ever ripened into any further action (let alone any action adversely affecting the terms and conditions of the employee's employment). Bowles v N.Y. City Transit Auth., 285 Fed. Appx. 812, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 14656 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2008).

III. Practice and Procedure

11. Burden of proof

Unpublished decision: Employee failed to even make the de minimus showing necessary to make out a prima facie case of discrimination; the employee's own affidavit and moving papers were the only "evidence" he offered to demonstrate disparate treatment, but it was plain that the information was not "made on personal knowledge," but rather "on information and belief," which was insufficient under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56. Lugo v City of New York, 518 Fed. Appx. 28, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 8855 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: Employee's gender discrimination claims failed because defendants had demonstrated a non-pretextual reason for termination of the employee's employment (defendants dismissed the employee because of her sub-par customer service that included ignoring her tables, her quarrelsome relations with other employees, and her refusal to complete menial tasks required of servers), which the employee failed to counter with admissible evidence tending to show that the reasons tendered were pretextual. Govori v Goat Fifty, L.L.C., 519 Fed. Appx. 732, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 5967 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: Employer was properly granted summary judgment on the employee's discrimination and retaliation claims under the New York State Human Rights Law and the New York City Human Rights Law because short of speculation, there was no evidence that retaliation or the employee's age played even a partial motivating role in any of the allegedly adverse actions. Aiossa v Bank of Am., N.A., 538 Fed. Appx. 8, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 18321 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

12. Collateral estoppel/res judicata

Unpublished decision: Where a doctor alleged disability discrimination, the federal complaint was barred by res judicata because, inter alia, the claims raised in the federal complaint arose from the same transaction as the claims asserted in the doctor's prior state complaint since the factual allegations at the heart of both complaints involved the medical center's allegedly improper assessment of the doctor's competency and its subsequent decisions to deny the doctor credit for the doctor's first year of residency and to refrain from renewing the doctor's employment contract. Harris v Beth Isr. Med. Ctr., 367 Fed. Appx. 184, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 3496 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2010).

13. Statute of limitations

Unpublished decision: Because plaintiff had conceded in the district court that her New York State Human Rights Law claims were barred by the applicable three-year statute of limitations, she could not argue otherwise on appeal. Barkley v Penn Yan Cent. Sch. Dist., 442 Fed. Appx. 581, 2011 U.S. App. LEXIS 18535 (2d Cir. 2011).

14. Summary judgment

Unpublished decision: In a case in which a male employee appealed a district court's entry of summary judgment in favor of his employer on his claim of sex discrimination, the employee alleged that one of his male supervisors sexually harassed him by touching his genitals and creating a hostile work environment. There were genuine issues of material fact: (1) a reasonable jury could find that direct comparative evidence showed that the supervisor treated women better than men and that, therefore, men were exposed to a disadvantageous term or condition of employment to which women were not; (2) the evidence similarly demonstrated that men were the primary targets of the supervisor's conduct, and, therefore, a jury could reasonably find that the conduct was gender-based; and (3) a reasonable jury could also consider the fact that some of his vulgar comments were sex-specific and that he frequently touched male-specific and sex-related body parts. Barrows v Seneca Foods Corp., 512 Fed. Appx. 115, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 3841 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

I. Generally

1. In general

II. Employment Discrimination

A. Generally

2. Labor unions

B. Hiring/Failure to Hire

3. In general
4. Sex discrimination

C. Termination/Discharge from Employment

5. Age discrimination, generally
6. —Termination at age 70
7. Discrimination based on disability, generally
8. —Pregnancy

D. Benefits/Denial of Benefits

9. Seniority-related benefits
10. Pregnancy-related benefits

E. Other Employment Matters

11. In general

III. Housing Discrimination

12. In general
13. Leases, generally

IV. Other Discriminations

14. Advertising
15. "Arab boycott"
16. Insurance
17. Licensing matters
18. Discrimination by religious organizations

I. Generally

1. In general

By-law provisions for the admission of members of volunteer fire companies which provide that three negative votes or black balls will defeat election to membership appear to be valid but if they are used in a manner contrary to the Constitutions of the United States or of the State of New York or the anti-discrimination statutes of the state, such a by-law would be invlid. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen May 9 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 114.

City is empowered to enact local law prohibiting discrimination based on sexual orientation and may by local law expand jurisdiction of its human rights commission to allow consideration of allegations of such discrimination. 1987 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 87-48, 1987 N.Y. AG LEXIS 56.

Licensing officials are authorized to consider the fitness of an applicant. In considering the effect of a prior conviction, the licensing officer may deny a license only after making the determinations required by the Legislature. No public hearing is required in making such a licensing determination. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-37.

II. Employment Discrimination

A. Generally

2. Labor unions

Teachers' association proposal regarding retirement benefits does not violate Exec § 296.1 notwithstanding contentions that (1) by giving an added benefit to employees who exercise their right to retire at age 55 it discriminates on the basis of age against those who do not have that right because, having entered the service of the School District late, they may not retire at that age, and (2) it discriminates against employees who, by reason of disability, may have to retire before becoming 55. Re Windsor Asso. of Office Personnel & School Aides, 1984 Dec PERB No. U-7167.

B. Hiring/Failure to Hire

3. In general

Information as to age, sex, race and similar personal data requested in current civil service examination applications does not constitute an unlawful discriminatory practice. 1976 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 34, 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 19.

It would seem that General Municipal Law § 103(1) does not preempt the enactment of a local law requiring, among other "affirmative actions", that prime contractors on construction contracts which are subject to competitive bidding requirements set aside a certain percentage of their contracts for the award of subcontracts to minority business enterprises. This Department is not in a position to determine whether such a local law adopted by a county is inconsistent with General Municipal Law, § 103(1). Prior opinions superseded to the extent inconsistent. 1981 Op St Compt No. 80-696.

4. Sex discrimination

A bylaw of a volunteer fire department may not exclude women from membership. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Apir 8 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 104.

C. Termination/Discharge from Employment

5. Age discrimination, generally

6. —Termination at age 70

The mandatory retirement age of 70, contained in the provisions of the Retirement and Social Security Law, governs the City of Auburn; and the City Clerk, as a member of the New York State Employees' Retirement System, is subject to its provisions regardless of his manner of appointment. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen July 15 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 77.

7. Discrimination based on disability, generally

8. —Pregnancy

Disability Benefits Law, § 205(3) is superseded to the extent that it is inconsistent with Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act on the subject of discrimination based on pregnancy disability. Further, the New York State Human Rights Law continues in full force and effect on that subject. 1980 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 15, 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 96.

D. Benefits/Denial of Benefits

9. Seniority-related benefits

Teachers' association proposal regarding retirement benefits does not violate Exec § 296.1 notwithstanding contentions that (1) by giving an added benefit to employees who exercise their right to retire at age 55 it discriminates on the basis of age against those who do not have that right because, having entered the service of the School District late, they may not retire at that age, and (2) it discriminates against employees who, by reason of disability, may have to retire before becoming 55. Re Windsor Asso. of Office Personnel & School Aides, 1984 Dec PERB No. U-7167.

10. Pregnancy-related benefits

A county employee who has been granted a maternity leave of absence is entitled to the same use of accumulated leave time as any other individual suffering from temporary physical impairment and such accrued leave time shall be paid at a rate based on the individual's current salary. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen July 14, (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 94.

Disability Benefits Law, § 205(3) is superseded to the extent that it is inconsistent with Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act on the subject of discrimination based on pregnancy disability. Further, the New York State Human Rights Law continues in full force and effect on that subject. 1980 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 15, 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 96.

An employee who is absent from work due to pregnancy must receive the same benefits as someone with any other physical or medical impairment or disability. This includes sick pay and other benefits connected with temporary physical disability. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80-14, 1980 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 347.

E. Other Employment Matters

11. In general

Nursing homes operated by religious organizations may grant preference to members of their religious faith in the admission of patients to their facility provided that such preference may not be accorded in order to effectuate discriminatory practices based on race, color or national origin. 1986 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 86-F8.

III. Housing Discrimination

12. In general

Nursing homes operated by religious organizations may grant preference to members of their religious faith in the admission of patients to their facility provided that such preference may not be accorded in order to effectuate discriminatory practices based on race, color or national origin. 1986 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 86-F8.

A city is empowered to regulate discrimination in housing, and to prohibit discrimination in respect to owner-occupied two-family dwellings, even though such dwellings have been exempted from one of the major proscriptions of the state law against discrimination. A city may create a private cause of action for violation of the local law. A City is without power to dispense with the requirement of a bond as a condition to injunctive relief in enforcement of the private cause of action. A City is without power to alter applicable standards of state law (except special laws passed without home rule message and relating to the property, affairs or government of the City) in respect to permits or licenses issued under state law. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79-812, 1979 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 125.

13. Leases, generally

A landlord may not (1) ask a prospective tenant to divulge his or her past, present or future marital status; (2) require a married applicant for housing, who has been subjected to domestic violence, to obtain a divorce as a condition to renting an apartment; and (3) deny housing accommodations to all victims of domestic violence. 1985 NY Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-F15, 1985 N.Y. AG LEXIS 8.

IV. Other Discriminations

14. Advertising

A business promotion whereby raceway patrons belonging to a specified ethnic group would be entitled to a reduced admission fee at a raceway would violate the Human Rights Law. 1978 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 25, 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 182.

15. "Arab boycott"

The Arab Boycott Law applies to banking transactions. 1976 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69, 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 37.

16. Insurance

City's negotiation demand which would discriminate between unit employees based upon circumstance that unit employee is, or is not, married to someone who was covered by a health insurance plan that meets certain specifications does not violate Executive Law § 296.1(a). In The Matter of City of Mt. Vernon, 1985 July PERB No. U-7438.

17. Licensing matters

State Liquor Authority may not ask applicants for a license whether or not they have ever been arrested but may ask only about pending arrests or arrests which have not been followed by a termination in favor of the applicant. 1977 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 26, 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 117.

The Board of Commissioners of Pilots may decline to renew the license of a Long Island Sound-Block Island Sound pilot, who had not reached his sixtieth birthday on January 1, 1972, solely on the ground that he has now reached the age of sixty-five. 1980 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 55, 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 53.

A licensing authority, consistent with Executive and Criminal Procedure Laws, may inquire into the incidents underlying a favorable disposition of an out-of-state criminal charge. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. F90-3.

18. Discrimination by religious organizations

Nursing homes operated by religious organizations may grant preference to members of their religious faith in the admission of patients to their facility provided that such preference may not be accorded in order to effectuate discriminatory practices based on race, color or national origin. 1986 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 86-F8.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in §§ 291, 292, 297, 300; CLS Veh & Tr § 1229-d.

Proceeding against body or officer, CLS CPLR §§ 7801 et seq.

Equal rights, CLS Civ R §§ 40–44-a.

Discrimination by labor organizations, CLS Civ R § 43.

Licensure and employment of persons previously convicted of one or more criminal offenses, CLS Correc §§ 750 et seq.

Peace officer, definition of, CLS CPL § 1.20.

Fingerprinting; forwarding of fingerprints, CLS CPL § 160.20.

Discrimination in relief, and work relief, CLS Elec § 17-154.

Discrimination in name of employment agency, CLS Gen Bus § 174.

Audiologist or otorhinolaryngologist, definition of, CLS Gen Bus § 789.

Special provisions, CLS Gen Bus § 792.

Public works, CLS Labor § 220-e.

Apprenticeship, CLS Labor § 815(5).

Unlawful discriminatory practices in regard to membership in fire corporations, CLS N-PCL § 1402(i).

Commission for blind and visually handicapped of New York, CLS Unconsol ch 261.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Rules of Practice, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 465.1–465.20 (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 465.1–465.20).

General Regulations, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 466.1–466.10 (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 466.1–466.10).

Posting of notices. 9 NYCRR §§ 466.1–466.4.

Submission of plan to increase employment of members of minority group. 9 NYCRR § 466.5.

State division of human rights: reasonable accommodation of the disabilities of employees and applicants for employment. 9 NYCRR § 466.11.

Federal Aspects:

Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 29 USCS §§ 621 et seq.

Federal Civil Rights Act, 42 USCS §§ 1981 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

7 Medina's Bostwick Practice Manual (Matthew Bender), Forms HR 101 et seq. (actions and proceedings relating to the Human Rights Law).

73A NYJur 2d, Judgments § 428.

15 Am Jur 2d, Civil Rights §§ 18, 19, 24, 25, 28–60, 102–246, 248–260.

10A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Labor and Labor Relations §§ 159:343, 159:344.

14B Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Pensions, Profit-Sharing , and Deferred Compensation Plans § 200:23.

15A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Public Works and Contracts § 216:85.

5A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms, Civil Rights, Forms 21–27, 41, 42, 51, 52, 58, 71–73, 81, 106, 153.

2 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 187, Racial Discrimination in Employment (In General; Use of Statistics).

2 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 237, Racial Discrimination in Employment–Testing and Education Requirements.

3 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 221, Racial Discrimination in Employment–Recruiting and Hiring.

4 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 477, Racial Discrimination in Employment—Post-Hiring Practices.

7 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 1, Retaliatory Termination of Private Employment.

10 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 1, Discrimination Under Age Discrimination in Employment Act.

12 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 49, "Business Necessity" Justifying Prima Facie Discriminatory Employment Practice.

12 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 645, Sex Discrimination in Employment—Promotion Practices.

14 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 511, Racial Discrimination in Sale of Real Estate.

15 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 481, Age as Bona Fide Occupational Qualification Under ADEA.

15 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 525, Racial Discrimination in Rental or Leasing of Real Property.

22 Am Jur Proof of Facts 563, Dismissal of Teachers for Cause.

35 Am Jur Proof of Facts 209, Harassment or Termination of Employee Due to Religious Beliefs or Practices.

76 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 331, Liability of Employer for Sexual Harassment of an Employee by Customers or Other Third Persons.

93 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 415, Proof of Housing Discrimination Against Prospective Tenant on Account of Race or National Origin.

36 Am Jur Trials 419, Defending Wrongful Discharge Cases.

125 Am Jur Trials 247, Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity Discrimination in Employment Cause of Action Against Employer Under Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 U.S.C.A. §§ 4301 et seq., for Violation of Reemployment Rights Upon Return from Military Service, 52 Causes of Action 2d 1.

21 Am Jur Trials 1, Employment Discrimination Action Under Federal Civil Rights Acts.

122 Am Jur Trials 509, Employment Discrimination Claims Based on Mental Illness or Impairment Under the Americans With Disabilities Act.

28 Am Jur Trials 1, Housing Discrimination Litigation.

118 Am Jur Trials 183, Litigation Concerning Religion in Workplace.

Causes of Action:

Cause of action under Age Discrimination in Employment Act [29 U.S.C.S. §§ 621 to 634] (ADEA), on theory of disparate treatment, based on discharge in reduction-in-force or reorganization. 46 COA 2d 1.

Cause of Action for Employment Discrimination Based on Military Service Under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), 38 U.S.C.S. §§ 4301 et seq., 47 COA2d 1.

Cause of Action for Failure to Make Reasonable Accommodation in Workplace Under Americans with Disabilities Act, 48 COA 2d 137.

Cause of Action Against Private Club or Association for Sex-Based Discrimination. 21 COA2d 247.

Cause of Action Against an Employer for Discrimination Because of Mental Illness, Pursuant to the Americans with Disabilities Act, 13 COA2d 177.

Cause of Action to Recover Damages Under Americans With Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §§ 12101 et seq.) for Employment Discrimination for Having a "Record of" a Disability or Being "Regarded as Disabled", 16 COA2d 153.

Law Reviews:

Lewis, Age discrimination. 29 NYU Conf. Lab. 115.

Federal and New York State anti-boycott legislation: the preemption issue. 14 NYU J Int'l L & Pol. 371.

Retroactive senority as a remedy for past discrimination: Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (96 Sup Ct 1251). 51 St. John's L Rev 181.

Arlington Heights (Village of Arlington Heights v. Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. 97 Sup Ct 555): closing federal courts to exclusionary zoning litigation. 41 Alb. L. Rev. 789.

Defying a system of separated powers: the New York Court of Appeals legislates maternity benefits. 44 Brook. L. Rev. 117.

Blumberg, De facto and de jure sex discrimination under the equal protection clause: a reconsideration of the veterans' preference in public employment. 26 Buff. L. Rev. 1.

Civil rights in employment and the multinational corporations. 10 Cornell Int'l L.J. 87.

Aliens' right to work: state and federal discrimination. 45 Fordham L. Rev. 835.

Employer's failure to provide pregnancy disability benefits does not violate title VII. 45 Fordham L. Rev. 1202.

Going public with discriminating private clubs. 3 Fordham Urb. L.J. 289.

Selecting a remedy for private racial discrimination: statutes in search of scope. 4 Fordham Urb. L.J. 303.

Redlining: remedies for victims of urban disinvestment. 5 Fordham Urb. L.J. 83.

Federal courts may order metropolitan area remedy to correct wrongs committed solely against city residents where agencies have statutory authority to conduct activities outside the city limits. 5 Fordham Urb. L.J. 131.

Right of federal government to regulate state employment practices. 5 Fordham Urb. L.J. 521.

Challenges to preemployment tests after Washington v. Davis (96 Sup Ct 2040). 5 Hofstra L. Rev. 893.

Edelman, Employees' rights to both sick and child care leave for pregnancy-related disability under New York Human Rights Law. 2 J Suffolk Acad L 105–117.

Hiring and promotional practices of private university receiving public funds held state action. 52 NYU L Rev 1401.

Discrimination in access to public places: a survey of state and federal public accomodations laws. 7 NYU Rev L & Soc Change 215.

Annotations:

Race or religious belief as permissible consideration in choosing tenants or purchasers of real estate. 14 ALR2d 153.

Fair employment statutes designed to eliminate racial, religious, or national origin discrimination in private employment. 44 ALR2d 1138.

What businesses or establishments fall within state civil rights statute provisions prohibiting discrimination. 87 ALR2d 120.

Validity and construction of labor legislation prohibiting discrimination on account of age. 29 ALR3d 1407.

Validity and construction of anti-blockbusting regulations, designed to prevent brokers from inducing sales of realty because of actual or rumored entry of racial group into neighborhood. 34 ALR3d 1432.

Civil rights: Actionability under state statutes of discrimination because of complaining party's association with persons of different race, color, or the like. 35 ALR3d 859.

Civil rights: racial or religious discrimination in furnishing of public utilities services or facilities. 53 ALR3d 1027.

Recovery of damages for emotional distress resulting from discrimination because of sex or marital status. 61 ALR3d 944.

Application of state law to sex discrimination in employment advertising. 66 ALR3d 1237.

Application of state law to sex discrimination in sports. 66 ALR3d 1262.

Application of state law to sex discrimination in employment. 87 ALR3d 93.

State laws prohibiting sex discrimination as violated by dress or grooming requirements for customers of establishments serving food or beverage. 89 ALR3d 7.

Prohibition, under state civil rights laws, of racial discrimination in rental of privately owned residential property. 96 ALR3d 497.

Identification of jobseeker by race, religion, national origin, sex, or age, in "situation wanted" employment advertising as violation of state civil rights laws. 99 ALR3d 154.

Modern status of rule that employer may discharge at-will employee for any reason. 12 ALR4th 544.

Construction and effect of state legislation forbidding discrimination in housing on account of physical handicap. 28 ALR4th 685.

What constitutes illegal discrimination under state statutory prohibition against discrimination in housing accommodations on account of marital status. 33 ALR4th 964.

What constitutes employment discrimination on basis of "marital status" for purposes of state civil rights laws. 44 ALR4th 1044.

Discipline or discharge for sexual conduct as violative of state fair employment laws. 47 ALR4th 863.

State civil rights legislation prohibiting sex discrimination in housing. 81 ALR4th 205.

When is work environment intimidating, hostile or offensive, so as to constitute sexual harassment under state law. 93 ALR5th 47.

Validity, construction, and operation of state blacklisting statutes. 95 ALR5th 1.

Validity, construction, and application of state statutes and municipal ordinances or orders providing buffer zones around health care faciities that offer abortion services. 62 ALR6th 359.

Construction and application of provisions of Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) making sex discrimination in employment unlawful. 12 ALR Fed 15.

Validity, under federal law, of sex discrimination in athletics. 23 ALR Fed 664.

Applicability of 42 USCS § 1981 to national origin employment discrimination cases. 43 ALR Fed 103.

Punitive damages in actions for violations of Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.). 43 ALR Fed 208.

Construction and effect of § 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 USCS § 794) prohibiting discrimination against otherwise qualified handicapped individuals in specified programs or activities. 44 ALR Fed 148.

Sufficiency of state remedy under 42 USCS § 2000e-5(c) to require 60-day deferral by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to allow state time to act. 45 ALR Fed 347.

Award of compensatory damages, aside from backpay or frontpay, for violation of Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.). 48 ALR Fed 338.

Private club coverage under 42 USCS § 1983. 49 ALR Fed 590.

Right of employee under Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e) to remedy for present and continuing loss of benefits resulting from past discrimination for which Title VII relief is not available. 49 ALR Fed 693.

Employer's discharge of employee as unlawful employment practice in violation of § 704(a) of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e-3(a)) where basis for discharge is employee's opposition to discriminatory conduct of co-worker. 49 ALR Fed 712.

Propriety of treating separate entities as one for determining number of employees required by Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e(b)) for action against "employer." 49 ALR Fed 900.

Dissemination of adverse employment references by former employer as unlawful employment practice under Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e-2(a)(1)). 50 ALR Fed 722.

Effect of prior state court judgment upon action in Federal District Court for unlawful employment practices under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.). 51 ALR Fed 829.

Sex discrimination in law enforcement and corrections employment. 53 ALR Fed 31.

Application of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 (20 USCS §§ 1681 et seq.) to sex discrimination in educational employment. 54 ALR Fed 522.

Application to tenured positions in educational institutions of provisions of Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) prohibiting discrimination on basis of sex. 55 ALR Fed 842.

Age discrimination claimant's right to suit in federal court as affected by manner and timeliness of claimant's resort to state remedies under § 14(b) of Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS § 633(b)). 56 ALR Fed 627.

Sex discrimination in United States Armed Forces. 56 ALR Fed 850.

Proving that discharge was because of age, for purposes of Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS §§ 621 et seq.). 58 ALR Fed 94.

Actions, under 42 USCS § 1983, for violations of federal statutes pertaining to rights of handicapped persons. 63 ALR Fed 215.

Effect of customer's interest or preference on establishing bona fide occupational qualification under Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e-2(e)). 63 ALR Fed 402.

Age as bona fide occupational qualification "reasonably necessary" for normal conduct of business under § 4(f)(1) of Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS § 623(f)(1)). 63 ALR Fed 610.

Commencement of action by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to enforce provisions of Equal Pay Act (29 USCS § 206(d)) on behalf of individual as affecting that individual's right to sue employer under Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.). 64 ALR Fed 961.

Who is "employee" within meaning of Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS §§ 621-634). 69 ALR Fed 700.

"Redlining," consisting of denial of home loans or insurance coverage in certain neighborhoods, as discrimination in violation of §§ 804 and 805 of Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3604, 3605). 73 ALR Fed 899.

Award of "front pay" under § 7 of Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 USCS § 626). 74 ALR Fed 745.

When is work environment intimidating, hostile, or offensive, so as to constitute sexual harassment in violation of Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.). 78 ALR Fed 252.

Reinstatement as remedy for discriminatory discharge or demotion under Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS §§ 621 et seq.). 78 ALR Fed 575.

Actions under Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS §§ 621-634) challenging hiring or retirement practices in law enforcement employment. 79 ALR Fed 373.

Who is "qualified" handicapped person protected from employment discrimination under Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 USCS §§ 701 et seq.), and regulations promulgated thereunder. 80 ALR Fed 830.

Preemption by Airline Deregulation Act, 49 U.S.C.S. § 41713(b)(1), of State Law Labor-Related Claim. 41 ALR Fed 2d 215.

What constitutes substantial limitation on major life activity of thinking, and whether thinking qualifies as such, for purposes of Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 12101 to 12213. 43 ALR Fed 2d 517.

Recovery of punitive damages under Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 12101 et seq. 44 ALR Fed 2d 31.

Facts alleged in support of driving as "Major Life Activity" under Americans with Disabilities Act. 49 ALR Fed 2d 397.

Sex-Plus Discrimination Claims Under Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C.S. §§ 2000e et seq.). 51 ALR Fed 2d 341.

What constitutes substantial limitation on major life activity of vision for purposes of Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 12101 to 12213. 53 ALR Fed 2d 141.

What constitutes substantial limitation on major life activity of learning for purposes of Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 12101 to 12213. 54 ALR Fed 2d 1.

Sex discrimination–Supreme Court cases. 27 L Ed 2d 935.

Supreme Court's view as to applicability, to conduct of private person or entity, of equal protection and due process clauses of Fourteenth Amendment. 42 L Ed 2d 922.

Matthew Bender's New York Practice Guides: 3 New York Practice Guide: Real Estate § 26.04; 4 New York Practice Guide: Real Estate §§ 27.05, 31.17; 5 New York Practice Guide: Real Estate § 39.06B.

4 New York Practice Guide: Business and Commercial §§ 25.05, 25.08, 25.22, 26.05, 26.06, 26.10, 26.20, 26.21.

Texts: NY Pattern Jury Instructions 3d, PJI 9:1, 9:4.

4 Frumer & Biskind, Bender's New York Evidence—CPLR §§ 10.03, 11.01.

Liddle & Marino, Labor and Employment in New York (Michie) pp 3-13, 13-8, 16-5.3, 18-6.

New York Employee Discrimination Handbook (1998 ed, Matthew Bender).

1-12 New Appleman New York Insurance Law § 12.05; 3-43 New Appleman New York Insurance Law § 43.06, § 43.06; 4-48 New Appleman New York Insurance Law § 48.02.

Schwartz & Reidenberg, Data Privacy Law (1996, LLP) § 13-1(a)(1, 3).

§ 296-a. Unlawful discriminatory practices in relation to credit.

1. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any creditor or any officer, agent or employee thereof:

a. In the case of applications for credit with respect to the purchase, acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, repair or maintenance of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space to discriminate against any such applicant because of the race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, military status, age, sex, marital status, disability, or familial status of such applicant or applicants or any member, stockholder, director, officer or employee of such applicant or applicants, or of the prospective occupants or tenants of such housing accommodation, land or commercial space, in the granting, withholding, extending or renewing, or in the fixing of the rates, terms or conditions of, any such credit;

b. To discriminate in the granting, withholding, extending or renewing, or in the fixing of the rates, terms or conditions of, any form of credit, on the basis of race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, military status, age, sex, marital status, disability, or familial status;

c. To use any form of application for credit or use or make any record or inquiry which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification, or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, military status, age, sex, marital status, disability, or familial status;

d. To make any inquiry of an applicant concerning his or her capacity to reproduce, or his or her use or advocacy of any form of birth control or family planning;

e. To refuse to consider sources of an applicant's income or to subject an applicant's income to discounting, in whole or in part, because of an applicant's race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, military status, age, sex, marital status, childbearing potential, disability, or familial status;

f. To discriminate against a married person because such person neither uses nor is known by the surname of his or her spouse.

This paragraph shall not apply to any situation where the use of a surname would constitute or result in a criminal act.

2. Without limiting the generality of subdivision one of this section, it shall be considered discriminatory if, because of an applicant's or class of applicants' race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, military status, age, sex, marital status or disability, or familial status, (i) an applicant or class of applicants is denied credit in circumstances where other applicants of like overall credit worthiness are granted credit, or (ii) special requirements or conditions, such as requiring co-obligors or reapplication upon marriage, are imposed upon an applicant or class of applicants in circumstances where similar requirements or conditions are not imposed upon other applicants of like overall credit worthiness.

3. It shall not be considered discriminatory if credit differentiations or decisions are based upon factually supportable, objective differences in applicants' overall credit worthiness, which may include reference to such factors as current income, assets and prior credit history of such applicants, as well as reference to any other relevant factually supportable data; provided, however, that no creditor shall consider, in evaluating the credit worthiness of an applicant, aggregate statistics or assumptions relating to race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, military status, sex, marital status or disability, or to the likelihood of any group of persons bearing or rearing children, or for that reason receiving diminished or interrupted income in the future.

3-a. It shall not be an unlawful discriminatory practice to consider age in determining credit worthiness when age has a demonstrable and statistically sound relationship to a determination of credit worthiness.

4. a. If so requested by an applicant for credit, a creditor shall furnish such applicant with a statement of the specific reasons for rejection of the applicant's application for credit.

b. If so requested in writing by an individual who is or was married, a creditor or credit reporting bureau shall maintain in its records a separate credit history for any such individual. Such separate history shall include all obligations as to which such bureau has notice with respect to which any such person is or was individually or jointly liable.

5. No provision of this section providing spouses the right to separately apply for credit, borrow money, or have separate credit histories maintained shall limit or foreclose the right of creditors, under any other provision of law, to hold one spouse legally liable for debts incurred by the other.

6. Any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice engaged in by a regulated creditor, in lieu of the procedure set forth in section two hundred ninety-seven of this article, may file a verified complaint with the superintendent, as provided hereinafter; provided, however, that the filing of a complaint with either the superintendent or the division shall bar subsequent recourse to the other agency, as well as to any local commission on human rights, with respect to the grievance complained of.

7. In the case of a verified complaint filed with the superintendent the following procedures shall be followed:

a. After receipt of the complaint, the superintendent shall make a determination within thirty days of whether there is probable cause to believe that the person named in the complaint has engaged in or is engaging in an unlawful discriminatory practice. If the superintendent determines there is no such probable cause, the complaint shall be dismissed. If the superintendent determines that there is such probable cause, he or she shall attempt to resolve such complaint by conference and conciliation. If conciliation is achieved, the terms shall be recorded in a written agreement signed by the creditor and complainant, a copy of which shall be forwarded to the commissioner.

b. If conciliation is not achieved, the superintendent or his or her designated representative shall conduct a hearing with respect to the alleged violation of this section. All interested parties shall be entitled to adequate and timely notice of the hearing. Such parties shall have the right to be represented by counsel or by other representatives of their own choosing; to offer evidence and witnesses in their own behalf and to cross-examine other parties and witnesses; to have the power of subpoena exercised in their behalf; and to have access to a written record of such hearing. The superintendent or his or her representative shall not be bound by the strict rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity. The testimony taken shall be under oath and a record shall be made of the proceedings. A written decision shall be made by the superintendent or his or her designated representative separately setting forth findings of fact and conclusions of law. A copy of such decision shall be forwarded to the commissioner.

c. If the superintendent finds that a violation of this section has occurred, the superintendent shall issue an order which shall do one or more of the following:

(1) impose a fine in an amount not to exceed ten thousand dollars for each violation, to be paid to the people of the state of New York;

(2) award compensatory damages to the person aggrieved by such violation;

(3) for a claim of sex discrimination only, award reasonable attorney's fees attributable to such claim to any prevailing party; provided, however, that a prevailing respondent or defendant in order to recover such reasonable attorney's fees must make a motion requesting such fees and show that the action or proceeding brought was frivolous. In no case shall attorney's fees be awarded to the department, nor shall the department be liable to a prevailing party for attorney's fees. In order to find the action or proceeding to be frivolous, the superintendent must find in writing one or more of the following:

(a) the action or proceeding was commenced, used or continued in bad faith, solely to delay or prolong the resolution of the litigation or to harass or maliciously injure another; or

(b) the action or proceeding was commenced or continued in bad faith without any reasonable basis and could not be supported by a good faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law. If the action or proceeding was promptly discontinued when the party or attorney learned or should have learned that the action or proceeding lacked such a reasonable basis, the court may find that the party or the attorney did not act in bad faith.

(4) require the regulated creditor to cease and desist from such unlawful discriminatory practices;

(5) require the regulated creditor to take such further affirmative action as will effectuate the purposes of this section, including, but not limited to, granting the credit which was the subject of the complaint.

d. Any complainant, respondent or other person aggrieved by any order or final determination of the superintendent may obtain judicial review thereof.

8. Where the superintendent makes a determination that a regulated creditor has engaged in or is engaging in discriminatory practices, the superintendent is empowered to issue appropriate orders to such creditor pursuant to the banking law. Such orders may be issued without the necessity of a complaint being filed by an aggrieved person.

9. Whenever any creditor makes application to the superintendent of financial services to take any action requiring consideration by the superintendent of the public interest and the needs and convenience thereof, or requiring a finding that the financial responsibility, experience, charter, and general fitness of the applicant, and of the members thereof if the applicant be a co-partnership or association, and of the officers and directors thereof if the applicant be a corporation, are such as to command the confidence of the community and to warrant belief that the business will be operated honestly, fairly, and efficiently, such creditor shall certify to the superintendent compliance with the provisions of this section. In the event that the records of the department of financial services show that such creditor has been found to be in violation of this section, such creditor shall describe what action has been taken with respect to its credit policies and procedures to remedy such violation or violations. The superintendent shall, in approving the foregoing applications and making the foregoing findings, give appropriate weight to compliance with this section.

10. Any complaint filed with the superintendent pursuant to this section shall be so filed within one year after the occurrence of the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice.

11. The superintendent is hereby empowered to promulgate rules and regulations hereunder to effectuate the purposes of this section.

12. The provisions of this section, as they relate to age, shall not apply to persons under the age of eighteen years.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1974, ch 173, § 6, eff July 15, 1974; amd, L 1974, ch 565, §§ 2, 3, eff May 23, 1974; L 1976, ch 632, § 3; L 1977, ch 168, §§ 1, 2, eff Aug 22, 1978; L 1987, ch 114, § 1, eff June 16, 1987; L 1999, ch 405, §§ 9, 10 (Part D), eff Aug 6, 1999; L 2000, ch 166, §§ 27–29, eff July 18, 2000; L 2002, ch 2, § 14, eff Jan 16, 2003 (see 2002 note below); L 2003, ch 106, § 20, eff July 1, 2003 (see 2003 note below); L 2011, ch 62, § 104 (Part A), eff Oct 3, 2011; L 2012, ch 155, § 52, eff July 18, 2012; L 2015, ch 364, § 2, effective January 19, 2016; L 2019, ch 8, § 14, effective February 24, 2019.

Editor's Notes Laws 2002, ch 2, § 1, eff Jan 16, 2003, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The legislature reaffirms that the state has the responsibility to act to assure that every individual within this state is afforded an equal opportunity to enjoy a full and productive life, and that the failure to provide such equal opportunity, whether because of discrimination, prejudice, intolerance or inadequate education, training, housing or health care not only threatens the rights and proper privileges of its inhabitants, but menaces the institutions and foundation of a free democratic state and threatens the peace, order, health, safety and general welfare of the state and its inhabitants.

The legislature further finds that many residents of this state have encountered prejudice on account of their sexual orientation, and that this prejudice has severely limited or actually prevented access to employment, housing and other basic necessities of life, leading to deprivation and suffering. The legislature further recognizes that this prejudice has fostered a general climate of hostility and distrust, leading in some instances to physical violence against those perceived to be homosexual or bisexual.

In so doing, the legislature makes clear its action is not intended to promote any particular attitude, course of conduct or way of life. Rather its purpose is to ensure that individuals who live in our free society have the capacity to make their own choices, follow their own beliefs and conduct their own lives as they see fit, consistent with existing law.

Nothing in this legislation should be construed to create, add, alter or abolish any right to marry that may exist under the constitution of the United States, or this state and/or the laws of this state.

Laws 2003, ch 106, §§ 1 and 1-a, eff July 1, 2003, provide as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The legislature recognizes that the individuals who are members of the military make a tremendous sacrifice, especially in times like these when our military personnel are in many locations throughout the world and here in New York fighting against terrorism. This sacrifice is just as real for the men and women who comprise our reserve armed forces and state organized militia. For those who are not full-time active duty in the military, but instead are called to active duty as a member of the reserve armed forces or state organized militia, the rest of their lives must be put on hold to accommodate that service. However, such military personnel continue to be responsible for their own well-being and the well-being of their families and they must still face the obligations that exist in their everyday lives. Steps have been taken to ease some of the burdens that these brave men and women encounter, to allow them to focus their full energy on defending our country; however, the legislature recognizes that more must be done to ensure that military personnel engaged in active duty are not troubled by their obligations at home. In addition, the legislature recognizes that members of the military should not be discriminated against based upon their military status in areas such as housing, employment and education.

§ 1-a. Short title. This act shall be known as the "Patriot Plan".

Laws 2015, ch 364, § 4, eff January 19, 2016, provides:

§ 4. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law, and shall apply to actions commenced on or after such date.

Laws 2019, ch 8, §§ 1, 25, provide:

Section 1. The legislature reaffirms that the state has the responsibility to act to assure that every individual within this state is afforded an equal opportunity to enjoy a full and productive life, and that the failure to provide such equal opportunity, whether because of discrimination, prejudice, intolerance or inadequate education, training, housing or health care not only threatens the rights and proper privileges of its inhabitants, but menaces the institutions and foundation of a free democratic state and threatens the peace, order, health, safety and general welfare of the state and its inhabitants.

The legislature further finds that many residents of this state have encountered prejudice on account of their gender identity or expression, and that this prejudice has severely limited or actually prevented access to employment, housing and other basic necessities of life, leading to deprivation and suffering. The legislature further recognizes that this prejudice has fostered a general climate of hostility and distrust, leading in some instances to physical violence against those perceived to live in a gender identity or expression which is different from that traditionally associated with the sex assigned to that person at birth.

In so doing, the legislature makes clear its action is not intended to promote any particular attitude, course of conduct or way of life. Rather its purpose is to ensure that individuals who live in our free society have the capacity to make their own choices, follow their own beliefs and conduct their own lives as they see fit, consistent with existing law.

The legislature further finds that, as court decisions have properly held, New York's sex discrimination laws prohibit discrimination based on gender stereotypes or because an individual has transitioned or intends to transition from one gender to another. This legislation is intended to codify this principle and to ensure that the public understands that discrimination on the basis of gender identity and expression is prohibited.

§ 25. This act shall take effect on the thirtieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however, that sections nineteen through twenty-four of this act shall take effect on the first of November next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law.

Amendment Notes The 2015 amendment by ch 364, § 2, added 7c(3); and redesignated former 7c(3) and 7c(4) as 7c(4) and 7c(5).

The 2019 amendment by ch 8, § 14, added "gender identity or expression" wherever it appears in 1, 2, and 3.

Notes to Decisions

Division of Human Rights has power to investigate and decide claim that disability insurance option (offered as part of automobile loan) was discriminatory term of credit under Human Rights Law, even though Insurance Department has statutory power and duty to determine whether policy premiums are rationally related to risks and expenses and to eliminate discriminatory practices in writing of insurance, since division has primary responsibility to "receive, investigate and pass upon" claimed discriminatory practices which violate Human Rights Law. Binghamton GHS Employees Federal Credit Union v State Div. of Human Rights, 77 N.Y.2d 12, 563 N.Y.S.2d 385, 564 N.E.2d 1051, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3490 (N.Y. 1990).

Human Rights Commissioner's determination that disability insurance provision of automobile loan was "inextricably intertwined" with loan agreement, and was "term" of credit within meaning of CLS Exec § 296-a, was not arbitrary and capricious, even though coverage was optional with debtor, where insurance was offered in credit agreement and promissory note used by creditor, it was available with every installment loan and duration of every policy was keyed to amount and duration of loan, it was available only as part of credit transaction and was not offered to public generally, and premium was incorporated into loan. Binghamton GHS Employees Federal Credit Union v State Div. of Human Rights, 77 N.Y.2d 12, 563 N.Y.S.2d 385, 564 N.E.2d 1051, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3490 (N.Y. 1990).

Lender may not, as part of its regular loan procedures, offer disability benefits insurance policy, whether optional or not, that discriminates on basis of sex; such discrimination includes exclusion for disabilities caused by normal pregnancy. Binghamton GHS Employees Federal Credit Union v State Div. of Human Rights, 77 N.Y.2d 12, 563 N.Y.S.2d 385, 564 N.E.2d 1051, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3490 (N.Y. 1990).

CLS Exec § 296-a(1)(b) would be construed liberally to encompass optional as well as mandatory benefits of credit insurance coverage in order to effectuate purposes of remedial statute prohibiting discrimination. Binghamton GHS Employees Federal Credit Union v State Div. of Human Rights, 77 N.Y.2d 12, 563 N.Y.S.2d 385, 564 N.E.2d 1051, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3490 (N.Y. 1990).

Juvenile delinquency petition, alleging that juvenile committed act which ifcommitted by adult would constitute third degree sale of drugs, did not containsufficient nonhearsay allegations to make out prima facie case that substance testedwas cocaine where laboratory report attached to petition did not indicate that it wassigned by person who conducted test. In re Andy B., 205 A.D.2d 361, 613 N.Y.S.2d 366, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6222 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

New York State Attorney General's efforts in investigating national banks and their operating subsidiaries for violations of the Equal Credit Opportunity Act and N.Y. Exec. Law § 296-a constituted an unlawful exercise of visitorial powers under 12 U.S.C.S. § 484(a) because (1) 12 C.F.R. § 7.400(a)(2)(iv), which was promulgated by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC) and precluded state officials from enforcing activities authorized or permitted under the National Bank Act, was a reasonable interpretation of 12 U.S.C.S. § 484(a) and was entitled to deference given the OCC's broad authority under 12 U.S.C.S. § 93a to implement the NBA; (2) the Attorney General's investigation concerned national banks' power under 12 U.S.C.S. § 371 to engage in real estate lending; and (3) the courts of justice exception under 12 U.S.C.S. § 484(a) did not grant governmental authorities any right to inspect, superintend, direct, regulate, or compel compliance by a national bank with respect to any law regarding the conduct of activities authorized by national banks under federal law. Clearing House Ass'n, L.L.C. v Cuomo, 510 F.3d 105, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 27938 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2007), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 557 U.S. 519, 129 S. Ct. 2710, 174 L. Ed. 2d 464, 2009 U.S. LEXIS 4944 (U.S. 2009).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in §§ 292, 297; CLS Bank § 9-d.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Extension of credit on a nondiscriminatory basis. 3 NYCRR §§ 340.1 et seq.

Extension of credit on a nondiscriminatory basis. 3 NYCRR §§ 408.1 et seq.

Rules of Practice, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 465.1.– 465.20. (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 465.1.– 465.20.).

General Regulations, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 466.1.– 466.10. (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 466.1.– 466.10.).

Discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status in extension of credit. 9 NYCRR § 466.8.

Federal Aspects:

Equal Credit Opportunity Act, 15 USCS §§ 1691 et seq.

Forms: 7 Medina's Bostwick Practice Manual (Matthew Bender), Forms HR 101 et seq.(actions and proceedings relating to the Human Rights Law).

Texts: New York Employee Discrimination Handbook (1998 ed, Matthew Bender).

§ 296-b. Unlawful discriminatory practices relating to domestic workers

1. For the purposes of this section: "Domestic workers" shall have the meaning set forth in section two of the labor law.

2. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for an employer to:

(a) Engage in unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature to a domestic worker when: (i) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment; (ii) submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting such individual; or (iii) such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance by creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment.

(b) Subject a domestic worker to harassment as set out in paragraph (h) of subdivision 1 of section two hundred ninety-six of this article.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2010, ch 481, § 3, eff Nov 29, 2010 (see 2010 note below); L 2019, ch 8, § 15, eff Feb 24, 2019; L 2019, ch 160, § 3, effective October 11, 2019.

Editor's Notes Laws 2010, ch 481, § 1, eff Nov 29, 2010, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. Many thousands of domestic workers are employed in New York state as housekeepers, nannies, and companions to the elderly. The labor of domestic workers is central to the ongoing prosperity that the state enjoys, and yet, despite the value of their work, domestic workers do not receive the same protection of many state laws as do workers in other industries. Domestic workers often labor under harsh conditions, work long hours for low wages without benefits or job security, are isolated in their workplaces, and are endangered by sexual harassment and assault, as well as verbal, emotional and psychological abuse. Moreover, many domestic workers in the state of New York are women of color who, because of race and sex discrimination, are particularly vulnerable to unfair labor practices. Additionally, domestic workers are not afforded by law the right to organize labor unions for the purpose of collective bargaining.

The legislature finds that because domestic workers care for the most important elements of their employers' lives, their families and homes, it is in the interest of employees, employers, and the people of the state of New York to ensure that the rights of domestic workers are respected, protected, and enforced.

Laws 2019, ch 8, §§ 1, 25, provide:

Section 1. The legislature reaffirms that the state has the responsibility to act to assure that every individual within this state is afforded an equal opportunity to enjoy a full and productive life, and that the failure to provide such equal opportunity, whether because of discrimination, prejudice, intolerance or inadequate education, training, housing or health care not only threatens the rights and proper privileges of its inhabitants, but menaces the institutions and foundation of a free democratic state and threatens the peace, order, health, safety and general welfare of the state and its inhabitants.

The legislature further finds that many residents of this state have encountered prejudice on account of their gender identity or expression, and that this prejudice has severely limited or actually prevented access to employment, housing and other basic necessities of life, leading to deprivation and suffering. The legislature further recognizes that this prejudice has fostered a general climate of hostility and distrust, leading in some instances to physical violence against those perceived to live in a gender identity or expression which is different from that traditionally associated with the sex assigned to that person at birth.

In so doing, the legislature makes clear its action is not intended to promote any particular attitude, course of conduct or way of life. Rather its purpose is to ensure that individuals who live in our free society have the capacity to make their own choices, follow their own beliefs and conduct their own lives as they see fit, consistent with existing law.

The legislature further finds that, as court decisions have properly held, New York's sex discrimination laws prohibit discrimination based on gender stereotypes or because an individual has transitioned or intends to transition from one gender to another. This legislation is intended to codify this principle and to ensure that the public understands that discrimination on the basis of gender identity and expression is prohibited.

§ 25. This act shall take effect on the thirtieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however, that sections nineteen through twenty-four of this act shall take effect on the first of November next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law.

Laws 2019, ch 160, § 16, eff August 12, 2019, provides:

§ 16. This act shall take effect immediately, provided, however:

(a) Sections one of this act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law.

(b) Sections one-a, two, three, four, five, seven, eight and nine of this act shall take effect on the sixtieth day after it shall have become a law.

(c) Section thirteen of this act shall take effect one year after it shall have become a law.

(d) Sections one, one-a, two, three, four, five, six and thirteen shall only apply to claims filed under such sections on or after the effective date of such sections.

(e) Effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Amendment Notes The 2019 amendment by ch 8, § 15, added "sexual orientation, gender identity or expression" in 2(b).

The 2019 amendment by ch 160 § 3, substituted "worker to harassment as set out in paragraph (h) of subdivision 1 of section two hundred ninety-six of this article" for "worker to unwelcome harassment based on gender, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression or national origin, where such harassment has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance by creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment" in 2(b).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:

45A Am Jur 2d, Job Discrimination §§ 135, 139– 142, 822—846.

22A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Master and Servant § 529 (Complaint, petition, or declaration—Sex discrimination and sexual harassment—For damages).

50 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 127, Sexual Discrimination–Sexual Harassment Creating a Hostile Work Environment.

61 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 1, Employer Liability for Same–Sex Harassment.

62 Am Jur Trials 235, Individual Liability for Sexual Harassment.

33 Am Jur Trials 257, Sexual Harassment Damages and Remedies.

61 Am Jur Trials 489, Sexual Harassment in Employment.

73 Am Jur Trials 1, Taking the Deposition of the Sexual Harassment Plaintiff.

65 Am Jur Trials 65, Workplace Sexual Harassment: Quid Pro Quo.

Annotations:

When is work environment intimidating, hostile or offensive, so as to constitute sexual harassment under state law. 93 ALR5th 47.

Compensatory damages recoverable under state law actions for employer's sexual harassment or discrimination. 14 ALR6th 417.

§ 296-c. Unlawful discriminatory practices relating to interns

1. As used in this section, "Intern" means a person who performs work for an employer for the purpose of training under the following circumstances:

a. the employer is not committed to hire the person performing the work at the conclusion of the training period;

b. the employer and the person performing the work agree that the person performing the work is not entitled to wages for the work performed; and

c. the work performed:

(1) provides or supplements training that may enhance the employability of the intern;

(2) provides experience for the benefit of the person performing the work;

(3) does not displace regular employees; and

(4) is performed under the close supervision of existing staff.

2. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for an employer to:

a. refuse to hire or employ or to bar or to discharge from internship an intern or to discriminate against such intern in terms, conditions or privileges of employment as an intern because of the intern's age, race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, military status, sex, disability, predisposing genetic characteristics, marital status, or domestic violence victim status;

b. discriminate against an intern in receiving, classifying, disposing or otherwise acting upon applications for internships because of the intern's age, race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, military status, sex, disability, predisposing genetic characteristics, marital status, or domestic violence victim status;

c. print or circulate or cause to be printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for employment as an intern or to make any inquiry in connection with prospective employment, which expresses directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to age, race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, military status, sex, disability, predisposing genetic characteristics, marital status or domestic violence victim status, or any intent to make any such limitation, specification or discrimination, unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification; provided, however, that neither this paragraph nor any provision of this chapter or other law shall be construed to prohibit the department of civil service or the department of personnel of any city containing more than one county from requesting information from applicants for civil service internships or examinations concerning any of the aforementioned characteristics, other than sexual orientation, for the purpose of conducting studies to identify and resolve possible problems in recruitment and testing of members of minority groups to insure the fairest possible and equal opportunities for employment in the civil service for all persons, regardless of age, race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, military status, sex, disability, predisposing genetic characteristics, marital status or domestic violence victim status;

d. to discharge, expel or otherwise discriminate against any person because he or she has opposed any practices forbidden under this article or because he or she has filed a complaint, testified or assisted in any proceeding under this article; or

e. to compel an intern who is pregnant to take a leave of absence, unless the intern is prevented by such pregnancy from performing the activities involved in the job or occupation in a reasonable manner.

3. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for an employer to:

a. engage in unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature to an intern when:

(1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of the intern's employment;

(2) submission to or rejection of such conduct by the intern is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting such intern; or

(3) such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with the intern's work performance by creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment; or

b. subject an intern to unwelcome harassment based on age, sex, race, creed, color, sexual orientation, military status, disability, predisposing genetic characteristics, marital status, domestic violence victim status, or national origin, where such harassment has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with the intern's work performance by creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment.

4. Nothing in this section shall affect any restrictions upon the activities of persons licensed by the state liquor authority with respect to persons under twenty-one years of age.

5. Nothing in this section shall create an employment relationship between an employer and an intern for the purposes of articles six, seven, eighteen or nineteen of the labor law.

HISTORY:

L 2014, ch 97, § 1, effective July 22, 2014.

§ 297. Procedure.

1. Any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice may, by himself or herself or his or her attorney-at-law, make, sign and file with the division a verified complaint in writing which shall state the name and address of the person alleged to have committed the unlawful discriminatory practice complained of and which shall set forth the particulars thereof and contain such other information as may be required by the division. The commissioner of labor or the attorney general, or the chair of the commission on quality of care for the mentally disabled, or the division on its own motion may, in like manner, make, sign and file such complaint. In connection with the filing of such complaint, the attorney general is authorized to take proof, issue subpoenas and administer oaths in the manner provided in the civil practice law and rules. Any employer whose employees, or some of them, refuse or threaten to refuse to cooperate with the provisions of this article, may file with the division a verified complaint asking for assistance by conciliation or other remedial action.

2. a. After the filing of any complaint, the division shall promptly serve a copy thereof upon the respondent and all persons it deems to be necessary parties, and make prompt investigation in connection therewith. Within one hundred eighty days after a complaint is filed, the division shall determine whether it has jurisdiction and, if so, whether there is probable cause to believe that the person named in the complaint, hereinafter referred to as the respondent, has engaged or is engaging in an unlawful discriminatory practice. If it finds with respect to any respondent that it lacks jurisdiction or that probable cause does not exist, the commissioner shall issue and cause to be served on the complainant an order dismissing such allegations of the said complaint as to such respondent.

b. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph a of this subdivision, with respect to housing discrimination only, after the filing of any complaint, the division shall, within thirty days after receipt, serve a copy thereof upon the respondent and all persons it deems to be necessary parties, and make prompt investigation in connection therewith. Within one hundred days after a complaint is filed, the division shall determine whether it has jurisdiction and, if so, whether there is probable cause to believe that the person named in the complaint, hereinafter referred to as the respondent, has engaged or is engaging in an unlawful discriminatory practice. If it finds with respect to any respondent that it lacks jurisdiction or that probable cause does not exist, the commissioner shall issue and cause to be served on the complainant an order dismissing such allegations of the said complaint as to such respondent.

3. a. If in the judgment of the division the circumstances so warrant, it may, at any time after the filing of the complaint, endeavor to eliminate such unlawful discriminatory practice by conference, conciliation and persuasion. Each conciliation agreement shall include provisions requiring the respondent to refrain from the commission of unlawful discriminatory practices in the future and may contain such further provisions as may be agreed upon by the division, the complainant, and the respondent, including a provision for the entry in the supreme court in any county in the judicial district where the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice was committed, or where any respondent resides or maintains an office for the transaction of business, or where the housing accommodation, land or commercial space specified in the complaint is located, of a consent decree embodying the terms of the conciliation agreement. The division shall not disclose what has transpired in the course of such endeavors.

b. If a conciliation agreement is entered into, the division shall issue an order embodying such agreement and serve a copy of such order upon all parties to the proceeding, and if a party to any such proceeding is a regulated creditor, the division shall forward a copy of the order embodying such agreement to the superintendent.

c. If the division finds that noticing the complaint for hearing would be undesirable, the division may, in its unreviewable discretion, at any time prior to a hearing before a hearing examiner, dismiss the complaint on the grounds of administrative convenience. However, in cases of housing discrimination only, an administrative convenience dismissal will not be rendered without the consent of the complainant. The division may, subject to judicial review, dismiss the complaint on the grounds of untimeliness if the complaint is untimely or on the grounds that the election of remedies is annulled.

d. [Relettered]

4. a. Within two hundred seventy days after a complaint is filed, or within one hundred twenty days after the court has reversed and remanded an order of the division dismissing a complaint for lack of jurisdiction or for want of probable cause, unless the division has dismissed the complaint or issued an order stating the terms of a conciliation agreement not objected to by the complainant, the division shall cause to be issued and served a written notice, together with a copy of such complaint, as the same may have been amended, requiring the respondent or respondents to answer the charges of such complaint and appear at a public hearing before a hearing examiner at a time not less than five nor more than fifteen days after such service and at a place to be fixed by the division and specified in such notice. The place of any such hearing shall be the office of the division or such other place as may be designated by the division. The case in support of the complaint shall be presented by one of the attorneys or agents of the division and, at the option of the complainant, by his or her attorney. With the consent of the division, the case in support of the complainant may be presented solely by his or her attorney. No person who shall have previously made the investigation, engaged in a conciliation proceeding or caused the notice to be issued shall act as a hearing examiner in such case. Attempts at conciliation shall not be received in evidence. At least two business days prior to the hearing the respondent shall, and any necessary party may, file a written answer to the complaint, sworn to subject to the penalties of perjury, with the division and serve a copy upon all other parties to the proceeding. A respondent who has filed an answer, or whose default in answering has been set aside for good cause shown may appear at such hearing in person or otherwise, with or without counsel, cross examine witnesses and the complainant and submit testimony. The complainant and all parties shall be allowed to present testimony in person or by counsel and cross examine witnesses. The hearing examiner may in his or her discretion permit any person who has a substantial personal interest to intervene as a party, and may require that necessary parties not already parties be joined. The division or the complainant shall have the power reasonably and fairly to amend any complaint, and the respondent and any other party shall have like power to amend his or her answer. The hearing examiner shall not be bound by the strict rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity. The testimony taken at the hearing shall be under oath and a record made.

b. If the respondent fails to answer the complaint, the hearing examiner designated to conduct the hearing may enter the default and the hearing shall proceed on the evidence in support of the complaint. Such default may be set aside only for good cause shown upon equitable terms and conditions.

c. Within one hundred eighty days after the commencement of such hearing, a determination shall be made and an order served as hereinafter provided. If, upon all the evidence at the hearing, the commissioner shall find that a respondent has engaged in any unlawful discriminatory practice as defined in this article, the commissioner shall state findings of fact and shall issue and cause to be served on such respondent an order, based on such findings and setting them forth, and including such of the following provisions as in the judgment of the division will effectuate the purposes of this article: (i) requiring such respondent to cease and desist from such unlawful discriminatory practice; (ii) requiring such respondent to take such affirmative action, including (but not limited to) hiring, reinstatement or upgrading of employees, with or without back pay, restoration to membership in any respondent labor organization, admission to or participation in a guidance program, apprenticeship training program, on-the-job training program or other occupational training or retraining program, the extension of full, equal and unsegregated accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges to all persons, granting the credit which was the subject of any complaint, evaluating applicants for membership in a place of accommodation without discrimination based on race, creed, color, national origin, sex, disability or marital status, and without retaliation or discrimination based on opposition to practices forbidden by this article or filing a complaint, testifying or assisting in any proceeding under this article; (iii) awarding of compensatory damages to the person aggrieved by such practice; (iv) awarding of punitive damages, in cases of employment discrimination related to private employers, and, in cases of housing discrimination, with damages in housing discrimination cases in an amount not to exceed ten thousand dollars, to the person aggrieved by such practice; (v) requiring payment to the state of profits obtained by a respondent through the commission of unlawful discriminatory acts described in subdivision three-b of section two hundred ninety-six of this article; and (vi) assessing civil fines and penalties, in an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars, to be paid to the state by a respondent found to have committed an unlawful discriminatory act, or not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars to be paid to the state by a respondent found to have committed an unlawful discriminatory act which is found to be willful, wanton or malicious; (vii) requiring a report of the manner of compliance. If, upon all the evidence, the commissioner shall find that a respondent has not engaged in any such unlawful discriminatory practice, he or she shall state findings of fact and shall issue and cause to be served on the complainant an order based on such findings and setting them forth dismissing the said complaint as to such respondent. A copy of each order issued by the commissioner shall be delivered in all cases to the attorney general, the secretary of state, if he or she has issued a license to the respondent, and such other public officers as the division deems proper, and if any such order issued by the commissioner concerns a regulated creditor, the commissioner shall forward a copy of any such order to the superintendent. A copy of any complaint filed against any respondent who has previously entered into a conciliation agreement pursuant to paragraph a of subdivision three of this section or as to whom an order of the division has previously been entered pursuant to this paragraph shall be delivered to the attorney general, to the secretary of state if he or she has issued a license to the respondent and to such other public officers as the division deems proper, and if any such respondent is a regulated creditor, the commissioner shall forward a copy of any such complaint to the superintendent.

d. The division shall establish rules of practice to govern, expedite and effectuate the foregoing procedure and its own actions thereunder.

e. Any civil penalty imposed pursuant to this subdivision shall be separately stated, and shall be in addition to and not reduce or offset any other damages or payment imposed upon a respondent pursuant to this article. In cases of employment discrimination where the employer has fewer than fifty employees, such civil fine or penalty may be paid in reasonable installments, in accordance with regulations promulgated by the division. Such regulations shall require the payment of reasonable interest resulting from the delay, and in no case permit installments to be made over a period longer than three years.

5. Any complaint filed pursuant to this section must be so filed within one year after the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice. In cases of sexual harassment in employment, any complaint filed pursuant to this section must be so filed within three years after the alleged unlawful discriminatory practices.

6. At any time after the filing of a complaint with the division alleging an unlawful discriminatory practice under this article, if the division determines that the respondent is doing or procuring to be done any act tending to render ineffectual any order the commissioner may enter in such proceeding, the commissioner may apply to the supreme court in any county where the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice was committed, or where any respondent resides or maintains an office for the transaction of business, or if the complaint alleges an unlawful discriminatory practice under subdivision two-a or paragraph (a), (b) or (c) of subdivision five of section two hundred ninety-six of this article, where the housing accommodation, land or commercial space specified in the complaint is located, or, if no supreme court justice is available in such county, in any other county within the judicial district, for an order requiring the respondents or any of them to show cause why they should not be enjoined from doing or procuring to be done such act. The order to show cause may contain a temporary restraining order and shall be served in the manner provided therein. On the return date of the order to show cause, and after affording all parties an opportunity to be heard, if the court deems it necessary to prevent the respondents from rendering ineffectual an order relating to the subject matter of the complaint, it may grant appropriate injunctive relief upon such terms and conditions as it deems proper.

7. Not later than one year from the date of a conciliation agreement or an order issued under this section, and at any other times in its discretion, the division shall investigate whether the respondent is complying with the terms of such agreement or order. Upon a finding of non-compliance, the division shall take appropriate action to assure compliance.

8. No officer, agent or employee of the division shall make public with respect to a particular person without his consent information from reports obtained by the division except as necessary to the conduct of a proceeding under this section.

9. Any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice shall have a cause of action in any court of appropriate jurisdiction for damages, including, in cases of housing discrimination only, punitive damages, and such other remedies as may be appropriate, including any civil fines and penalties provided in subdivision four of this section, unless such person had filed a complaint hereunder or with any local commission on human rights, or with the superintendent pursuant to the provisions of section two hundred ninety-six-a of this chapter, provided that, where the division has dismissed such complaint on the grounds of administrative convenience, on the grounds of untimeliness, or on the grounds that the election of remedies is annulled, such person shall maintain all rights to bring suit as if no complaint had been filed with the division. At any time prior to a hearing before a hearing examiner, a person who has a complaint pending at the division may request that the division dismiss the complaint and annul his or her election of remedies so that the human rights law claim may be pursued in court, and the division may, upon such request, dismiss the complaint on the grounds that such person's election of an administrative remedy is annulled. Notwithstanding subdivision (a) of section two hundred four of the civil practice law and rules, if a complaint is so annulled by the division, upon the request of the party bringing such complaint before the division, such party's rights to bring such cause of action before a court of appropriate jurisdiction shall be limited by the statute of limitations in effect in such court at the time the complaint was initially filed with the division. Any party to a housing discrimination complaint shall have the right within twenty days following a determination of probable cause pursuant to subdivision two of this section to elect to have an action commenced in a civil court, and an attorney representing the division of human rights will be appointed to present the complaint in court, or, with the consent of the division, the case may be presented by complainant's attorney. A complaint filed by the equal employment opportunity commission to comply with the requirements of 42 USC 2000e-5(c) and 42 USC 12117(a) and 29 USC 633(b) shall not constitute the filing of a complaint within the meaning of this subdivision. No person who has initiated any action in a court of competent jurisdiction or who has an action pending before any administrative agency under any other law of the state based upon an act which would be an unlawful discriminatory practice under this article, may file a complaint with respect to the same grievance under this section or under section two hundred ninety-six-a of this article. In cases of housing discrimination only, a person whose complaint has been dismissed by the division after investigation for lack of jurisdiction or lack of probable cause may file the same cause of action in a court of appropriate jurisdiction pursuant to this section, unless judicial review of such dismissal has been sought pursuant to section two hundred ninety-eight of this article.

10. With respect to all cases of housing discrimination and housing related credit discrimination in an action or proceeding at law under this section or section two hundred ninety-eight of this article, the commissioner or the court may in its discretion award reasonable attorney's fees to any prevailing or substantially prevailing party; and with respect to a claim of credit discrimination where sex is a basis of such discrimination, and with respect to all claims of employment discrimination in an action or proceeding at law under this section or section two hundred ninety-eight of this article, the commissioner or the court may in its discretion award reasonable attorney's fees attributable to such claim to any prevailing party; provided, however, that a prevailing respondent or defendant in order to recover such reasonable attorney's fees must make a motion requesting such fees and show that the action or proceeding brought was frivolous; and further provided that in a proceeding brought in the division of human rights, the commissioner may only award attorney's fees as part of a final order after a public hearing held pursuant to subdivision four of this section. In no case shall attorney's fees be awarded to the division, nor shall the division be liable to a prevailing or substantially prevailing party for attorney's fees, except in a case in which the division is a party to the action or the proceeding in the division's capacity as an employer. In cases of employment discrimination, a respondent shall only be liable for attorney's fees under this subdivision if the respondent has been found liable for having committed an unlawful discriminatory practice. In order to find the action or proceeding to be frivolous, the court or the commissioner must find in writing one or more of the following:

(a) the action or proceeding was commenced, used or continued in bad faith, solely to delay or prolong the resolution of the litigation or to harass or maliciously injure another; or

(b) the action or proceeding was commenced or continued in bad faith without any reasonable basis and could not be supported by a good faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law. If the action or proceeding was promptly discontinued when the party or attorney learned or should have learned that the action or proceeding lacked such a reasonable basis, the court may find that the party or the attorney did not act in bad faith.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 132; amd, L 1952, ch 285, § 7; L 1960, ch 978, § 1; L 1961, ch 414, § 5; L 1962, ch 164, § 2; L 1962, ch 310, § 134; L 1962, ch 369, § 3; L 1962, ch 529, § 1; L 1965, ch 4, § 2; L 1965, ch 851, § 4, eff Sept 1, 1965; L 1968, ch 10, § 2; L 1968, ch 958, § 6, eff July 1, 1968; L 1969, ch 218, § 1, eff April 25, 1969; L 1969, ch 359, § 9,10; L 1969, ch 1070, § 2; L 1970, ch 316, § 1; L 1974, ch 27, § 2; L 1974, ch 173, §§ 7–9, eff July 15, 1974; L 1977, ch 729, §§ 1, 2, eff Aug 5, 1977; L 1982, ch 863, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1982; L 1984, ch 83, § 1; L 1984, ch 266, § 1, eff Aug 24, 1984; L 1989, ch

568, § 1, eff Jan 13, 1990, expired and repealed June 30, 1997; L 1991, ch 342, § 1; L 1991, ch 368, §§ 1, 6, eff July 15, 1991; L 1992, ch 182, § 1, eff June 16, 1992; L 1994, ch 210, § 1, eff June 28, 1994; L 1994, ch 262, § 2, eff Nov 3, 1994; L 1997, ch 374, §§ 1, 2, eff Aug 5, 1997; L 1999, ch 405, §§ 11–17 (Part D), eff Aug 6, 1999; L 2000, ch 166, §§ 30, 32–34, eff July 18, 2000; L 2009, ch 57, §§ 1, 2 (Part AA), eff July 6, 2009; L 2015, ch 364, § 1, effective January 19, 2016; L 2019, ch 160, § 5, effective October 11, 2019; L 2019, ch 160, § 13, effective August 12, 2020; L 2019, ch 161, § 3, effective October 11, 2019; L 2020, ch 236, § 1, effective January 5, 2021.

Editor's Notes See 1962 note under § 63-a.

See 1968 note under § 290.

Laws 1969, ch 1070, § 2-a, eff June 25, 1969, provides as follows:

§ 2-a. None of the amendments made by this act shall apply to the city of New York. (Amended by L 1970, ch 493, § 2, eff Sept 1, 1970, by adding § 2-a to Laws 1969, ch 1070.).

Laws 1989, ch 568, § 2, eff Jan 13, 1990, expires and repealed June 30, 1997, provides as follows:

§ 2. The commissioner of human rights shall establish a human rights arbitration advisory committee to assist and advise him or her in the promulgation of rules and regulations, and the implementation and functioning of the voluntary arbitration procedure. The committee shall consist of seven members, three of whom shall be appointed by the governor with at least one of these appointment being a member of the New York State bar association; two of whom shall be appointed by the speaker of the assembly; and two of whom shall be appointed by the majority leader of the senate. Committee members shall be chosen to represent a balance of complainant and respondent interests. The governor shall designate a chairperson of the committee. The chairperson and the commissioner of human rights each shall have the authority to convene the committee from time to time, as they deem appropriate. The committee shall report to the governor, the speaker of the assembly, and the majority leader of the senate on or before March 31, 1997, regarding the operation of the arbitration program; and the committee shall be entitled to receive from the commissioner of human rights such information as is necessary to monitor the arbitration program. The commission of human rights shall report to the governor, the speaker of the assembly and the majority leader of the senate semi-annually regarding the operation of the voluntary arbitration procedure. (Amd, L 1994, ch 210, § 2, eff June 28, 1994.).

Laws 1989, ch 568, § 3, eff Jan 13, 1990, provides as follows:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become law, and shall expire on June 30, 1997, on which date the provisions of this act shall be deemed repealed. (Amd, L 1994, ch 210, § 2, eff June 28, 1994.).

Laws 1991, ch 342, § 2, eff July 15, 1991, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to complaints filed with any federal commission on human rights on or after such date.

Laws 1992, ch 182, § 2, eff June 16, 1992, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to complaints filed with any federal commission on human rights on or after such date.

Laws 2015, ch 364, § 4, eff January 19, 2016, provides:

§ 4. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law, and shall apply to actions commenced on or after such date.

Laws 2019, ch 160, § 16, eff August 12, 2019, provide:

§ 16. This act shall take effect immediately, provided, however:

(a) Sections one of this act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law.

(b) Sections one-a, two, three, four, five, seven, eight and nine of this act shall take effect on the sixtieth day after it shall have become a law.

(c) Section thirteen of this act shall take effect one year after it shall have become a law.

(d) Sections one, one-a, two, three, four, five, six and thirteen shall only apply to claims filed under such sections on or after the effective date of such sections.

(e) Effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2019, ch 161, § 5, eff August 12, 2019, provides:

§ 5. This act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as a chapter of the laws of 2019 amending the executive law and other laws relating to increased protections for protected classes and special protections for employees who have been sexually harassed, as proposed in legislative bills numbers S. 6577 and A. 8421, takes effect.

Laws 2020, ch 236, § 3, eff January 5, 2021, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.

Laws 2020, ch 236, § 3, eff January 5, 2021, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.

Amendment Notes

2000. Chapter 166, § 30 amended:

Sub 1, by deleting "attorney-general" and "chairman".

1999. Chapter 405, § 13 (part d) amended:

Sub 3, par b, by deleting "serve a copy of the".

2009. Chapter 57, § 1 (part aa) amended:

Sub 4, par c, by deleting "in cases of housing discrimination only,".

The 2015 amendment by ch 364, § 1, in the first sentence of the introductory language of 10, substituted "all cases of housing discrimination and housing related credit discrimination" for "cases of housing discrimination only" and added "and with respect to a claim of employment or credit discrimination where sex is a basis of such discrimination, in an action or proceeding at law under this section or section two hundred ninety-eight of this article, the commissioner or the court may in its discretion award reasonable attorney's fees attributable to such claim to any prevailing party" and added the next to last of the introductory language of 10.

The 2019 amendment by ch 160 § 5, substituted "his or her" for "his her" in the first sentence of 1; substituted "damages, in cases of employment discrimination related to private employers, and, in cases of housing discrimination, with damages in housing discrimination cases in an amount" for "damages, in cases of housing discrimination only, in an amount" in 4(c)(iv); added "employment discrimination related to private employers and" in the first sentence of 9; and in the first sentence of the introductory paragraph of 10, substituted "claim of credit" for "claim of employment or credit", added "and with respect to all claims of employment discrimination" and substituted "the court shall award reasonable attorney's fees" for "the court may in its discretion award reasonable attorney's fees."

The 2019 amendment by ch 160, § 13, added the second sentence of 5.

The 2019 amendment by ch 161, § 3, substituted "the court may in its discretion award" for "the court shall award" in the first sentence of 10.

The 2020 amendment by ch 236, § 1, added the last sentence of 9.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

I. Generally

1. In general
2. Procedure, generally
3. Jurisdiction, generally
4. —Court of Claims jurisdiction

5. —Subject matter jurisdiction
6. —Jurisdiction over employee of Human Rights Division
7. Probable cause
8. Evidence
9. Authority of commissioner
10. Conference and conciliation
11. "Aggrieved person"
12. —Standing to sue
13. "Employer"

II. Remedies

14. Remedies available
15. —Injunctions
16. Exhaustion of administrative remedies
17. Election of remedies
18. —Election between state and municipal remedies
19. —Election between state and federal remedies
20. —Election between administrative and judicial remedies
21. — —Where administrative claim is referred to state or to another administrative agency
22. — —Where state claim contains additional charge
23. — —Third-party filing

III. Time Limitations

24. In general
25. Time limitations as directory not mandatory
26. Time for determining jurisdiction and probable cause
27. Time for serving notice and holding hearing
28. Time in which to make final determination
29. Time in which to file complaint
30. —Amended complaint
31. —Three years for court complaint
32. —On year for administrative complaint
33. — —Tolling of limitations statute

IV. Hearings

34. In general
35. Disqualification of judge
36. Sufficiency of complaint
37. Sufficiency of proof

V. Review and Enforcement

38. Judicial review
39. Judicial enforcement
40. Administrative review
41. Validity of administrative orders
42. —Orders re housing
43. —Orders re employment

VI. Other Procedural Matters

44. Filing notice of claim
45. Prehearing motion practice
46. Right to counsel
47. Right to jury trial
48. Subpoenas
49. Summary Judgment
50. Damages, generally
51. —Compensatory damages
52. — —Mental anguish
53. — —Loss of consortium
54. —Punitive damages
55. —Post-judgment interest

I. Generally

1. In general

In a proceeding alleging discrimination in employment on the basis of sex arising out of a then mandatory pregnancy-related resignation, notwithstanding that the regulation policy of 1959 did not then violate a statutory prescription and a complaint thereon is untimely the seniority system which became available in 1977 effectively revived that policy and constituted a separate discriminatory act, where the seniority system purportedly treated all personnel equally but disallowed credit for service preceding any resignation, thereby failing to take into account the fact that only a pregnancy-related resignation was required and imposing a distinct burden on a woman; a seniority system can be found to currently discriminate against a woman when, in computing seniority, it disregards all service rendered prior to a resignation compelled due to pregnancy, notwithstanding that the law did not prohibit sex-based discrimination when the pregnancy-related resignation was originally demanded. Board of Education v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 56 N.Y.2d 257, 451 N.Y.S.2d 700, 436 N.E.2d 1301, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3357 (N.Y. 1982).

Tavern owner who admitted that name selected for tavern and sign used for tavern were intended to attract male patrons and who was ordered to cease and desist from discriminating against women was not required to remove name and sign. Rosenberg v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 45 A.D.2d 929, 357 N.Y.S.2d 325, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4500 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Despite its contention that such action was necessary to inform public of available procedures and remedies for discriminatory actions, State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) engaged in arbitrary and capricious conduct in issuing press release detailing allegations of age discrimination made against college by former employee, disclosing that matter had been settled, and setting forth parts of settlement terms, where stipulation of settlement, which SDHR had participated in negotiating on former employee's behalf, provided for absolute confidentiality except for enforcement purposes. Paul Smith's College of Arts & Sciences v Cuomo, 186 A.D.2d 888, 589 N.Y.S.2d 106, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12126 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Sex, age, and disability discrimination claims filed against airline under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) were not preempted by Federal Airlines Deregulation Act of 1978. Delta Air Lines v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 229 A.D.2d 132, 652 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12963 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 882, 661 N.Y.S.2d 825, 684 N.E.2d 274, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2331 (N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 65, 666 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 689 N.E.2d 898, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3710 (N.Y. 1997).

Prospective sellers did not have standing to assert action under CLS Exec §§ 296 and 297 against property owners association and its environmental control committee for their denial of application by prospective buyers to use property as vacation convent, since prospective sellers had not been victims of any discrimination. Sisters of the Resurrection, New York Inc. v Country Horizons, 257 A.D.2d 729, 682 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 25 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

N.Y. Exec. Law § 295(6)(a) and (b) were not collectively unconstitutional, based on the provisions for an administrative hearing under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(4)(a) and (9); accordingly, the combined investigative and adjudicative functions of the New York State Division of Human Rights did not violate due process. Town of Oyster Bay v Kirkland, 81 A.D.3d 812, 917 N.Y.S.2d 236, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1259 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 17 N.Y.3d 778, 929 N.Y.S.2d 79, 952 N.E.2d 1073, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 1679 (N.Y. 2011), aff'd, 19 N.Y.3d 1035, 954 N.Y.S.2d 769, 978 N.E.2d 1237, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 2725 (N.Y. 2012).

Provision of above statute to effect that members of commission and its staff shall not disclose what has transpired "in the course of such endeavors," refers to the provision of previous sentence of statute that commissioner shall endeavor to eliminate unlawful discriminatory practice and not to facts found by the investigator for the commission. Kindt v State Com. for Human Rights, 44 Misc. 2d 896, 254 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), modified, 23 A.D.2d 809, 258 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

Article 15 procedure does not violate due process, since subdivision 2 of the Article provides for a separation of the investigative and quasi judicial functions of the commission members. Marrano Constr. Co. v State Com. for Human Rights, 45 Misc. 2d 1081, 259 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2061 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

A cause of action based on plaintiff's claim of sexual harassment arising out of her employment relationship with defendant, who coerced her into sexual activity with his business associates in order to further his business, is cognizable under Executive Law § 297 (9), which provides that any person aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice shall have a cause of action for damages, and actions of an employer which discriminate against an individual in the "terms, conditions or privileges of employment" because of that person's sex are encompassed within the ambit of actionable wrongs (see, Executive Law § 296 [1] [a]; § 292 [4]). Under the Human Rights Law, an employer is prohibited from even attempting to exploit his dominant position by imposing sexual demands upon an employee as an implicit condition of continued employment, and the employee need not prove that he or she resisted the abuse or refused to comply with the sexual demands, that tangible job benefits were lost, or that discriminatory conduct was intentional. Thoreson v Penthouse Int'l, 149 Misc. 2d 150, 563 N.Y.S.2d 968, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 609 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), modified, 179 A.D.2d 29, 583 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5427 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

In action under Human Rights Law to recover compensatory and punitive damages for sexual harassment arising out of employer's coercion of female employee to engage in sexual acts with his business associates to further his own business interests, offensiveness of employer's conduct was not mitigated by fact that plaintiff's job as actress and model involved commercial exploitation of her physical appearance, since sexual slavery was not part of her job description, and fact that she accepted employment which exploited her sexuality did not constitute waiver of protections against sexual harassment in workplace. Thoreson v Penthouse Int'l, 149 Misc. 2d 150, 563 N.Y.S.2d 968, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 609 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), modified, 179 A.D.2d 29, 583 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5427 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Plaintiff failed to state cognizable claim under either New York City or New York State Human Rights Law by alleging that school district's denial of health insurance benefits to his domestic partner constituted discrimination on basis of marital status and sexual orientation. Funderburke v Uniondale Union Free Sch. Dist. No. 15, 172 Misc. 2d 963, 660 N.Y.S.2d 659, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 260 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 251 A.D.2d 622, 676 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7881 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Former university employee's state law claims under N.Y. Exec. Law § 291 were dismissed; because she chose to proceed with her discrimination complaint before the New York State Division of Human Rights (NYSDHR) and the NYSDHR did not dismiss her claim for administrative convenience, the claims were barred under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9). Forbes v State Univ. of N.Y., 259 F. Supp. 2d 227, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7391 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

Eleventh Amendment barred the 42 U.S.C.S. §§ 1981, 1983, and the New York State and City Human Rights Law complaints against a judge and a state judicial agency by the judge's former personal secretary; the Eleventh Amendment rendered the agency and the state immune from suit under § 1983 or under state law because the State of New York had not consented to suit in federal court, and because no express override of state statutory authority had been enacted by Congress in association with § 1983. Bland v New York, 263 F. Supp. 2d 526, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5521 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

Simply because a judge's former secretary filed an administrative complaint against a judicial agency and the judge for discrimination based on gender, race, and color with a city human rights commission did not necessarily mean that the secretary's State and City Human Rights Law claims were barred; the complaint was forwarded to the state human rights division, which dismissed it for administrative convenience. Accordingly, the election of remedies doctrine did not argue for dismissal of the secretary's claims. Bland v New York, 263 F. Supp. 2d 526, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5521 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

2. Procedure, generally

Complaint by Division of Human Rights charging employer with unlawful discriminatory practice relating to employment, alleging that employer's system of hiring had produced few Negro and Spanish-surnamed employees under circumstances where such minority groups were available for employment, was not insufficient to meet notice requirements of due process. State Div. of Human Rights v Kilian Mfg. Corp., 35 N.Y.2d 201, 360 N.Y.S.2d 603, 318 N.E.2d 770, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1309 (N.Y. 1974), app. dismissed, 420 U.S. 915, 95 S. Ct. 1108, 43 L. Ed. 2d 387, 1975 U.S. LEXIS 506 (U.S. 1975).

Under Executive Law § 297, subd 4(a), failure of complainant to appear personally and testify at hearing did not require dismissal of complaint. Batavia Lodge No. 196, L. O. M. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 43 A.D.2d 807, 350 N.Y.S.2d 273, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2914 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), rev'd, 35 N.Y.2d 143, 359 N.Y.S.2d 25, 316 N.E.2d 318, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1974).

Although it would have been better practice for Division of Human Rights to have conferred further with petitioner concerning the substantial information which it had gathered that her demotion was not the result of sex discrimination, there was no reason to declare procedure and determination of Division arbitrary or capricious or an abuse of discretion. Jackson v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 684, 345 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3988 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Relevant provisions of Executive Law, when read together, establish legislative intent that, before determining whether there is probable cause for complaint of discrimination, commissioner of Division of Human Rights should give complainant full opportunity to present on record, though informally, his charges against employer or other respondent, including right to submit all exhibits which he wishes to present and testimony of witnesses in addition to his own testimony. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

An order, which affirmed the State Division of Human Rights' order dismissing petitioner's complaint alleging age discrimination by his employer as being without probable cause, would be annulled, where petitioner had been discharged at age 57 after 28 years of satisfactory service, and where the division failed to investigate adequately, failed to hold a confrontation conference, and failed to resolve all the issues raised. Steins v State Div. of Human Rights, 86 A.D.2d 795, 447 N.Y.S.2d 11, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15408 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 56 N.Y.2d 805, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 5933 (N.Y. 1982).

It is within discretion of state Division of Human Rights to decide method or methods to be employed in investigating claim, so that determination by division of "no probable cause" should be overturned as capricious only where record demonstrates that its investigation was "abbreviated or one-sided." Chirgotis v Mobil Oil Corp., 128 A.D.2d 400, 512 N.Y.S.2d 686, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44111 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

Plaintiff's action under CLS Exec § 296(7) should have been dismissed where federal court had previously dismissed such action, together with claim based on 42 USCS § 1981, stating that "Plaintiff now concedes that the claims under (federal law) and the New York Executive Law are time barred." Mchawi v State Univ. of New York, Empire State College, 248 A.D.2d 111, 669 N.Y.S.2d 545, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1932 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 804, 677 N.Y.S.2d 779, 700 N.E.2d 318, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1856 (N.Y. 1998).

In action for sexual harassment and retaliatory discharge, court properly denied plaintiff's motion to amend complaint to add action for wrongful termination based on disability discrimination under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) since plaintiff had been aware of facts underlying alleged claim since inception of action, she failed to offer any reason or excuse for delay in seeking to amend complaint, and defendants had prepared case in response to original complaint, had no notice of new claim, and would suffer prejudice by its late edition. Castagne v Barouh, 249 A.D.2d 257, 671 N.Y.S.2d 283, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3656 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

In action for retaliation under CLS Exec § 296(7) brought against Board of Trustees of divinity school (defendant), court should have granted defendant's motion to dismiss complaint where there were no allegations that defendant fell within ambit of CLS Exec § 292(1), nor was it alleged that activity or activities in which defendant engaged were allegedly prohibited under Human Rights Law; although plaintiff alleged that defendant violated general duty to accommodate her disability under CLS Exec § 296(3)(a), that section applied to employers, licensing agencies, employment agencies, and labor organizations and did not apply here. Edwards v Board of Trustees of Colgate Rochester Divinity Sch., 254 A.D.2d 709, 677 N.Y.S.2d 868, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10379 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Court should have granted defendants' motion to change venue from Bronx to New York County where New York County was site of allegedly discriminatory conduct and county in which all of anticipated nonparty witnesses resided, defendants furnished names and addresses of potential nonparty witnesses, setting forth essence of their anticipated testimony, and manner in which they would be inconvenienced, and plaintiffs failed to identify single nonparty witness who would be inconvenienced by attending trial in New York County. Mohammad v Board of Managers, 262 A.D.2d 76, 691 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6472 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Complaint properly stated action for violation of CLS Exec § 296(16) by alleging that defendant took adverse employment actions against plaintiff, based on fact that plaintiff, police officer, was arrested, although arrest had not resulted in conviction. Annabi v Cassino, 269 A.D.2d 551, 703 N.Y.S.2d 745, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2133 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Commissioner making investigation under above statute has right to question witnesses. Kindt v State Com. for Human Rights, 44 Misc. 2d 896, 254 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), modified, 23 A.D.2d 809, 258 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

The provision of this section requiring that a complaint charging discrimination in housing be filed in the Commission's Albany office prior to the designation of an investigating commissioner and the investigation is directory and not mandatory, and a failure to abide by such a directory rule does not affect a substantial right of a party and is no ground for upsetting the entire proceeding. Barnes v Goldberg, 54 Misc. 2d 676, 283 N.Y.S.2d 347, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1403 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

The human rights law authorizes intervention by court to insure that proceeding before division of human rights remains in status quo while proceeding is pending. Kramarsky v New York Police Dep't, 90 Misc. 2d 733, 395 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2142 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Subsidiary of public transportation authority was not entitled to writ of prohibition precluding Division of Human Rights (DHR) from holding hearing or taking any action in regard to discriminatory employment complaint by subsidiary's former employee, despite DHR's failure to comply with notice of claim provisions of CLS Pub A § 1342 since (1) statute only applied to "action" and not to "proceeding" such as instituted by DHR, (2) statute excluded subsidiary corporation from notice of claim requirement, and (3) notice of claim provision had no application to action to vindicate public interest. Central New York Centro, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 142 Misc. 2d 935, 539 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Respondent State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed a race discrimination complaint under the Human Rights Law on grounds of "administrative convenience" at complainant's behest (Executive Law § 297 [3] [c]; see, 9 NYCRR 465.5 [d] [2] [vi]) so that complainant could pursue all her claims against petitioner in Federal court, since complainant had expressly elected to pursue both her State law claims and Federal claims under title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USC § 2000e et seq.) in Federal court rather than before the State agency and only filed her complaint with the Division in order to satisfy the requirements of Federal law before her claims could be asserted in Federal court. The dismissal of the complaint serves the Division's "administrative convenience" by conserving its scarce resources where complainant has the desire and resources to bring the complaint in Federal court. New York Tel. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 Misc. 2d 765, 561 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

In a proceeding challenging the dismissal by respondent State Division of Human Rights of a race discrimination complaint on grounds of "administrative convenience" at complainant's behest (Executive Law § 297 [3] [c]; see, 9 NYCRR 465.5 [d] [2] [vi]), petitioner's request for admissions of fact (CPLR 3123) that respondent had not dismissed any complaints for "administrative convenience" within the last two years "primarily because there was an action pending" in Federal court, except where first requested by the complainant, in order to establish some arbitrary and capricious activity by respondent is denied, since petitioner's request seeks conclusions about material issues and the notice to admit may not be utilized to request admissions of material issues or ultimate or conclusory facts. New York Tel. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 Misc. 2d 765, 561 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

When the attorney general sought to subpoena records of a domestic worker placement agency, to determine if the agency was violating N.Y. Exec. Law § 296 et seq., N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 40-c, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-107(a), by asking job applicants about their national origin, age, and marital status and accomodating employer preferences as to a worker's national origin and age, the attorney general's failure to serve a complaint on the agency, pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 297, did not violate the agency's right to due process because the attorney general was free to initiate its own investigation into the agency's business practices, under its broad investigatory powers in N.Y. Exec. Law § 63(12), without regard to the requirements of § 297. Matter of Pavillion Agency Inc v Spitzer, 802 N.Y.S.2d 879, 9 Misc. 3d 626, 234 N.Y.L.J. 28, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1613 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

Plaintiff's failure to serve copy of amended complaint on city commission on human rights and corporation counsel did not require dismissal of employment discrimination claims under New York City Human Rights Law, although NYC Admin § 8-502(c) required service of copy of complaint on such entities before suing, where plaintiff had served copy of original complaint on both entities before suing. Robins v Max Mara, U.S.A., 923 F. Supp. 460, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1295 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

3. Jurisdiction, generally

In view of the broad power granted by the legislature in its delegation to the commission, the jurisdiction of the commission must be taken as plenary. Holland v Edwards, 282 A.D. 353, 122 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

Where grievance before Division of Human Rights was a retaliation complaint and, although based on some of same alleged facts, issues were different from those of discrimination complaint previously filed with EEDC, Division of Human Rights was not divested of jurisdiction. Russell Sage College v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 A.D.2d 153, 357 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4561 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974), aff'd, 36 N.Y.2d 985, 374 N.Y.S.2d 603, 337 N.E.2d 119, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2069 (N.Y. 1975).

Section of Human Rights Law providing that within 60 days after complaint is filed the Division of Human Rights must give notice of hearing on alleged violations and that the hearing must be held within 15 days thereafter, was directory rather than mandatory, and fact that Division exceeded such time limits was not cause for invalidating its proceedings or terminating its jurisdiction. Liverpool Cent. School Dist. v State Div. of Human Rights, 46 A.D.2d 1004, 361 N.Y.S.2d 787, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3389 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Where complaint was filed with the State Division of Human Rights prior to initiation of Article 78 proceeding, the Division had jurisdiction and the remedy before the Division was exclusive, and thus the Human Rights Appeal Board was not divested of jurisdiction by petitioner's subsequent attempts to obtain court relief. State Div. of Human Rights v Commissioner of New York State Dep't of Civil Service, 57 A.D.2d 699, 395 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11737 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding by a woman who alleged that a hospital denied her the accommodations, advantages, and privileges of a place of public accommodation, the trial court erred in divesting the Division of jurisdiction by an order in the nature of prohibition since, although the Division's delay of 636 days between the time the complaint was filed and the time it found probable cause was clearly in excess of the time limits specified in Exec Law § 297, the time schedules contained in that statute are directory only and, absent some showing of substantial prejudice, noncompliance with such schedules does not operate to oust the Division of the jurisdiction conferred on it; even if the woman had made a showing of substantial prejudice, prohibition was an inappropriate remedy in that she failed to first exhaust the remedies of administrative and judicial review. St. Elizabeth Hospital v Kramarsky, 81 A.D.2d 1010, 440 N.Y.S.2d 97, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11763 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

CLS Exec §§ 296 and 297 did not grant jurisdiction to State Division of Human Rights to consider issue of union local's refusal to waive requirements of union labor for low bidding non-union subcontractor who was offered, but refused, opportunity to sign full time agreement with union; clear intent of law was to prohibit discrimination by labor union in its membership practices, not to deal with issues concerning persons neither union members nor applying for memberships. Gomez v New York State, Executive Dep't Div. of Human Rights, 122 A.D.2d 337, 504 N.Y.S.2d 307, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 59671 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

New York State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed, for lack of jurisdiction, claim of racial discrimination brought by certified home health care aide, who was employed by 93-year-old quadriplegic to provide 24-hour care to attend to his health and personal hygiene needs, to cook for him, to transport him, and otherwise to care for him. Thomas v Dosberg, 249 A.D.2d 999, 672 N.Y.S.2d 164, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5177 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Because a college was not subject to the provisions of the New York City Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 297, an employee was not entitled to an award of an attorney's fee and expenses under Administrative Code of the City of NY § 8-502(f) or front pay; however, the employee was entitled to prejudgment interest on the employee's back pay under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 5001(b). Jattan v Queens Coll. of City Univ. of N.Y., 64 A.D.3d 540, 883 N.Y.S.2d 110, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5629 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

By its enactment of General Municipal Law § 239-s giving New York City concurrent jurisdiction with the State Commission for Human Rights with respect to discrimination in housing, the legislature conclusively demonstrated its intention not to grant exclusive jurisdiction to the state in the matters of discrimination in housing. Feigenblum v Commission on Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 360, 278 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1658 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

The New York State Division of Human Rights in a special proceeding against a South African Airway was without jurisdiction to conduct a hearing on the visa policy of the Republic of South Africa as it affects the airline in carrying passengers. South African Airways v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 64 Misc. 2d 707, 315 N.Y.S.2d 651, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1180 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1970).

Executive Law §§ 297(9) and 300, taken together must be construed to mean that the State Division of Human Rights does not have any jurisdiction over a matter which was initiated before another administrative agency. Board of Education v State Div. of Human Rights, 65 Misc. 2d 679, 318 N.Y.S.2d 633, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1807 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

Where employer against whom employee filed age discrimination complaint with Division of Human Rights did not maintain office in New York County but in fact had its offices in Nassau County where alleged discrimination occurred, Supreme Court of New York County did not have jurisdiction to enjoin alleged discrimination pending decision of Division. Sable v Sperry Gyroscope Div., 81 Misc. 2d 429, 365 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2400 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 50 A.D.2d 517, 375 N.Y.S.2d 120, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12207 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Education department and Division of Human Rights had concurrent jurisdiction to pass on complaint alleging that student applicant was denied admission to medical school on basis of discriminatory practices of school; thus school was not entitled to extraordinary remedy of writ to prohibit student applicant and Division from conducting discrimination complaint hearing on grounds they were proceeding in excess of jurisdiction. New York University v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 84 Misc. 2d 702, 378 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3202 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 49 A.D.2d 821, 373 N.Y.S.2d 719, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10940 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Employer was not entitled to dismissal of employment discrimination suit on alleged jurisdictional defect that employee had not obtained notice of right-to-sue from Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), since employee had requested right-to-sue letter from EEOC after waiting statutorily required 180 days from time charges were filed but received no response; thus, she was entitled to notice and EEOC's failure to issue letter would not preclude her action. Scott v Carter-Wallace, Inc., 134 Misc. 2d 458, 511 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3119 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986), dismissed, in part, 137 Misc. 2d 672, 521 N.Y.S.2d 614, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2698 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1987).

Because a claimant could maintain both an administrative proceeding and a federal court action for sexual harassment and employment discrimination, the New York State Division of Human Rights had jurisdiction under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(3)(c) to dismiss the petitioner's complaint for administrative convenience; therefore, prohibition was not warranted under N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78. Peek v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 835 N.Y.S.2d 877, 16 Misc. 3d 346, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3525 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007).

A complaint addressed to a Supreme Court seeking an injunction against rental of apartments or sale or disposition of an apartment building because the owner and rental agent had violated this section by refusing to rent an apartment to plaintiff was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Redd v Zier, 229 N.Y.S.2d 582, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4175 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Commissions established by New York State Human Rights Law were authorized only to hear complaints about discriminatory employment practices by employers, employment agencies, labor organizations and apprenticeship committees and had no jurisdiction as to governmental action, or action by any entity not falling within the categories mentioned above. Percy v Brennan, 384 F. Supp. 800, 1974 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5879 (S.D.N.Y. 1974).

Federal court lacked jurisdiction over action against state university based on alleged violation of Human Rights Law, as state did not waive its exclusive jurisdiction over such claims merely by allowing federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to take responsibility for investigating plaintiff's complaints. Jungels v State Univ. College, 922 F. Supp. 779, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5483 (W.D.N.Y. 1996), aff'd sub. nom., Jungels v Jones, 112 F.3d 504, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 14106 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1997).

Defendants, a town and a supervisor of the former employee, lacked the statutory authority to conduct a N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-h examination before the employment discrimination case could have been filed in the district court because no such examination was required under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law, § 290 et seq. Gentile v Town of Huntington, 288 F. Supp. 2d 316, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18870 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

4. —Court of Claims jurisdiction

Plaintiff's action against the State, alleging that his employment at a State psychiatric center under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mental Hygiene was improperly terminated on the basis of his physical disability in violation of the Human Rights Law (Exec Law § 296) and seeking reinstatement, back pay, and damages for embarrassment, humiliation and mental and emotional distress, was properly commenced in the Supreme Court since, inasmuch as the Court of Claims has no power to order such equitable relief as reinstatement, a contrary conclusion would lead to the unfair result of requiring the person against whom the State has unlawfully discriminated to institute separate lawsuits to fully redress the wrong committed. Koerner v State, 62 N.Y.2d 442, 478 N.Y.S.2d 584, 467 N.E.2d 232, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4406 (N.Y. 1984).

An action by an individual of Hispanic descent, alleging improper termination by reason of her supervisor's racial prejudice, properly set forth a cause of action under Exec Law §§ 296, 297(9), but was time-barred by Ct Cl Act § 10(3) where the claimant elected to assert the claim in the Court of Claims, notwithstanding that the same action brought against the State in its role as claimant's employer, if brought in Supreme Court, would be governed by a three-year statute of limitations. Figueroa v State, 126 Misc. 2d 304, 481 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3606 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1984).

5. —Subject matter jurisdiction

In a proceeding brought pursuant to Exec Law § 298, to review a determination of the State Human Rights Appeal Board, which affirmed an order of the State Division of Human Rights dismissing plaintiff's complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, the court properly found that the State Division of Human Rights did not have subject matter jurisdiction over plaintiff's complaint since plaintiff had pursued his action in the federal courts and Exec Law § 297(9) prohibits plaintiffs who initiate any action in a court of competent jurisdiction from pursuing the same grievance before the Division of Human Rights. McGrath v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 90 A.D.2d 916, 456 N.Y.S.2d 874, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19195 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

A complaint charging a public agency with an unfair discriminatory practice based upon a person's prior criminal convictions was properly dismissed by the State Division of Human Rights for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, since an Article 78 proceeding is the exclusive remedy available to remedy such a wrong. New York City Transit Authority v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 97 A.D.2d 825, 468 N.Y.S.2d 708, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20604 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 646, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 8025 (N.Y. 1984).

The Division of Human Rights and the Human Rights Appeal Board properly exercised subject matter jurisdiction, pursuant to Exec Law §§ 296, 297-a, over a complaint by an applicant for a State Trooper position who had been disqualified by the State Police Division from its Hispanic-American/Spanish-surnamed minority hiring program, where the complaint effectively alleged that the State Police had discriminated against the applicant by refusing to treat him in the same manner that it treated others of Hispanic national origin or ancestry in considering him for employment, and where, though the Appeal Board specifically referred in its decision to an order by the United States District Court that had established guidelines for the State Police Division to follow in order to achieve a long-term goal of acquiring personnel comprised of women, blacks, and Spanish-surnamed Americans, there was uncontradicted documentary proof in the record, apart from the reference to the court order, to support the appeal board's conclusion that the applicant was of Hispanic origin, so that the appeal board did not base its decision solely on an interpretation of the Federal court order, and, therefore, did not exceed its jurisdiction. New York State Div. of State Police v McCall, 98 A.D.2d 921, 470 N.Y.S.2d 916, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21243 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

The trial court properly dismissed an action in which plaintiff alleged that her former employer had retaliated against her due to her earlier complaint of sexual harassment where the retaliation claims before the court and plaintiff's earlier complaint before the State Division of Human Rights were undeniably similar, and, although additional facts appeared in the complaint, including he fact of plaintiff's termination from her employment, it was clear that those facts emanated from a continuing process of alleged retaliation giving rise to one claim, not several; accordingly, Exec Law § 297(9) deprived the trial court of subject matter jurisdiction, even though the administrative complaint before the division had been litigated and was on administrative appeal. Spoon v American Agriculturalist, Inc., 103 A.D.2d 929, 478 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19593 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Court lacked subject matter jurisdiction over plaintiff's claim for employment discrimination and wrongful discharge under CLS Exec § 297 since plaintiff had initially filed statutory claim of employment discrimination and thus was precluded from commencing court action involving same claim. Employee's cause of action against his employer for intentional infliction of emotional distress, in connection with alleged employment discrimination and wrongful discharge, was properly dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction since he had initially filed statutory claim for employment discrimination and wrongful discharge with Division of Human Rights in which he was able to seek damages for mental anguish and humiliation, and he was precluded from commencing action in court for same injuries under slightly different labels of intentional infliction of emotional distress and prima facie tort. Horowitz v Aetna Life Ins., 148 A.D.2d 584, 539 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3929 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Defendant corporation was entitled to dismissal of age discrimination action on basis of lack of subject matter jurisdiction where (1) plaintiff was Canadian citizen and resident of London, England who was employed by corporation for 28 years at various subsidiaries of corporation throughout United States and abroad, (2) plaintiff was employed in New York State for 2 ½ years ending in February, 1979, (3) at time his employment was terminated, plaintiff had been employed in London for 3 ½ years, and (4) plaintiff failed to allege that discriminatory act was committed within New York State. Iwankow v Mobil Corp., 150 A.D.2d 272, 541 N.Y.S.2d 428, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6931 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

In action under Human Rights Law (CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq.) for sex discrimination in employment in which plaintiff sought damages for, inter alia, emotional distress, court did not err in precluding testimony by defense expert that another lawsuit commenced against plaintiff caused her emotional distress, since (1) in diagnosis of plaintiff's condition, neither parties' experts had referred to other lawsuit, and (2) court allowed defendant to adduce testimony that several stress factors separate from plaintiff's discharge from employment were present in her life. Rhoades v Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., 202 A.D.2d 762, 608 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2307 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Court properly dismissed action for employment discrimination where plaintiff had brought administrative action against corporate defendant, which was voluntarily withdrawn with no indication that withdrawal was done for administrative convenience. Brown v Wright, 226 A.D.2d 570, 641 N.Y.S.2d 125, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4401 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Court should have granted defendants' summary judgment motion on ground that plaintiff elected to pursue administrative remedy by filing complaint with New York State Division of Human Rights (NYSDHR) since plaintiff failed to produce admissible proof as to whether her complaint was referred to NYSDHR by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or whether she filed it directly with NYSDHR; she submitted only attorney's affirmation that was not based on personal knowledge of facts stated therein. Hirsch v Morgan Stanley & Co., 239 A.D.2d 466, 657 N.Y.S.2d 448, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5365 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

In terminated employee's action for gender and age discrimination under both CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq. and federal law, Supreme Court properly held that it lacked subject matter jurisdiction on ground that employee had elected to pursue her claims in federal court where (1) although language of CLS Exec former § 297(9), which was in effect when administrative convenience dismissal was issued, did not contain explicit prohibition on commencement of action in state court, right to do so was limited, (2) administrative convenience dismissal was not for purpose of allowing employee to commence state court action but to pursue matter as part of litigation in federal court, (3) employee requested such dismissal so that her state and federal claims could "be brought in a single action," and (4) State Division of Human Rights understood that statement to mean that all claims would be pursued in federal court for purpose of conserving scarce state resources, which purpose served convenience of agency. Kordich v Povill, 244 A.D.2d 112, 676 N.Y.S.2d 331, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8680 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Department of Health was properly granted summary judgment dismissing action alleging that, by revoking plaintiff's medical license, it discriminated against him in violation of CLS Exec § 296, based on his adult Attention Deficit Disorder, as plaintiff essentially sought judicial review of determination which revoked his medical license, and such review had to be made via Article 78 proceeding, which was time barred. Horne v New York State Dep't of Health, 287 A.D.2d 940, 731 N.Y.S.2d 781, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9979 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

An action instituted by New York City to restrain defendants from further discrimination with respect to housing rentals and from further violations of local laws was not subject to being stricken on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction over such an action, exclusive jurisdiction of the subject matter being vested in the State Commission against Discrimination. New York v Claflington, Inc., 40 Misc. 2d 547, 243 N.Y.S.2d 437, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1934 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Plaintiffs' claims against the New York State Division of Human Rights, alleging that a settlement agreement entered into between the parties was void, properly survived a dismissal motion with respect to challenges to the validity of the agreement based upon events after the execution thereof, as the issues raised were not within the special competence of the Division pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 290 et seq. or N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, § 465.1 et seq.; further, they were ripe for review and the Division had not commenced a proceeding under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(7) and N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, § 465.18. Ken-Vil Assoc. Ltd. Partnership v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 100 A.D.3d 1390, 954 N.Y.S.2d 294, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7446 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2012).

Exec Law § 297 prohibiting plaintiff from commencing action alleging racial discrimination in New York courts after charges have been filed with New York State Division of Human Rights cannot limit subject matter jurisdiction of federal courts. Clark v Times Square Stores Corp., 469 F. Supp. 654, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12746 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

Court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction over pendent state-law salary claim under CLS Exec Law § 297(9), where claim arose out of employment discrimination lawsuit against CUNY, because CUNY is arm of New York State, and statute does not expressly or by implication waive State's Eleventh Amendment immunity against suit. Moche v City Univ. of N.Y., 781 F. Supp. 160, 1991 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18974 (E.D.N.Y. 1991), aff'd, 999 F.2d 538, 1993 U.S. App. LEXIS 18174 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1993).

Because the division of the state university had not consented to be sued in federal court on pendent state law claims and the statutory language of the New York State Human Rights Law (HRL), specifically N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9), did not provide the basis for finding that New York State had waived its Eleventh Amendment Immunity, the district court concluded that the employee's HRL claims against the state university were barred by the Eleventh Amendment. Richman v Pediatric Serv. Group, LLP, 222 F. Supp. 2d 207, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17491 (N.D.N.Y. 2002).

Federal court lacked subject matter jurisdiction over an employee's N.Y. Exec. Law § 297 claim because the employee elected to have the state human rights claims adjudicated by the New York State Department of Human Rights, and none of the exceptions of N.Y. Exec. Law § 279(9) were applicable. Johnson v County of Nassau, 411 F. Supp. 2d 171, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5094 (E.D.N.Y. 2006).

Division of Human Rights is not barred from undertaking any of its procedures or enforcing any of its policies against respondent who is actively under jurisdiction of Bankruptcy Court, or one who filed for bankruptcy protection after cause of action arose. 1999 Order Comm HR No. 4-E-A-91-1400339A.

6. —Jurisdiction over employee of Human Rights Division

Writ of prohibition was improperly granted divesting New York State Division of Human Rights s/h/a State of New York Executive Department, Division of Human Rights (SDHR) of jurisdiction to prosecute complaint of employment discrimination, despite fact that there had been delay in processing complaint, since one reason for delay was transfer of matter from county human rights commission to SDHR, which was result of administrative restructuring, and determination as to whether petitioner suffered substantial prejudice by delay and death of petitioner's former owner should have been made by SDHR after hearing; once there is final determination, appropriate appellate review is available. Pat's Carpet Outlet v State Exec. Dep't, Div. of Human Rights, 244 A.D.2d 338, 663 N.Y.S.2d 885, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11011 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Executive Law § 297, subd 2 is on its face nondiscriminatory, and since the Human Rights Division's policy not to take jurisdiction in cases involving its own employees is reasonable and rationally based, former division employee was not denied equal protection by refusal of division to take jurisdiction of his complaint. Colon v New York, Div. of Human Rights, 354 F. Supp. 343, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15529 (S.D.N.Y. 1973), aff'd, 498 F.2d 1396 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1974).

7. Probable cause

It having been found that "probable cause" existed for believing the allegations of a complaint presented pursuant to this section, and such finding being supported by evidence, the Appellate Division properly remanded the matter to the commission for proceedings in accordance with art. 15, and the commission should accordingly proceed in accordance with the further mandates of this section. American Jewish Congress v Carter, 9 N.Y.2d 223, 213 N.Y.S.2d 60, 173 N.E.2d 788, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1446 (N.Y. 1961).

Legislature did not contemplate a formal hearing by State Division of Human Rights in determining probable cause issue. Jwayyed v New York Tel. Co., 42 A.D.2d 663, 345 N.Y.S.2d 233, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4025 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

In course of investigating complaint of discrimination, commissioner of Division of Human Rights should interview respondent's witnesses and receive its responses to complaint, and at such point, statute places upon commissioner responsibility to determine whether there is reasonable basis for sustaining complaint, based upon complainant's evidence, and for requiring employer or other respondent to answer and submit to hearing. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Evidence, in proceedings on state employee's complaints of racial discrimination against him and of retaliation against him because he filed his original complaint, supported determination, in each case, of no probable cause for complaint. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Provisions of Executive Law place responsibility on commissioner of Division of Human Rights to investigate complaint of discrimination and, if he finds that no probable cause exists for complaint, to dismiss complaint. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Where the Human Rights Appeal Board reversed the Division of Human Rights' finding of lack of probable cause that petitioner had been discriminated against on the basis of race, reinstated the complaint, and remanded it for further proceedings, respondent, petitioner's former employer, is required to produce, pursuant to a subpoena duces tecum issued by the division, records concerning the color of the foremen and employees involved, since the petition follows precisely the directions of the Appeal Board to the division and without that information, which is prima facie material and necessary, the essence of the inquiry may be blocked and the investigation and hearing may be futile; in spite of the language of section 297 (subd 4, par a) of the Executive Law which provides that after the board has reversed and remanded an order of the division dismissing a complaint for lack of probable cause the division shall serve written notice requiring the respondent to answer the charges of the complaint and appear at a public hearing, the division issued the subpoena duces tecum to respondent returnable before the regional director to give evidence in a further investigation, and in light of the statute the proceeding before the regional director is interpreted as a public hearing in which petitioner's attorney has the right to appear and issue a subpoena duces tecum. Thompson v General Motors Corp., Chevrolet Motor Div., 67 A.D.2d 308, 415 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10108 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1979).

An order by the New York State Division of Human Rights, which dismissed petitioner's complaint on the ground that there was no probable cause to believe that a racing corporation and certain of its officers had engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice, would be confirmed where, given the nature of petitioner's complaint, the information uncovered through the division's written inquiry, and petitioner's failure to rebut said information after the opportunity to do so had been accorded him, the extent of the division's investigation was adequate. Meachem v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 87 A.D.2d 813, 448 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16264 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination of the Human Rights Appeal Board that probable cause existed to believe that the State Police discriminated on the grounds of race, color, and disability in the denial of a man's application to become a state trooper, no probable cause would exist where the man's only contention had been that the correctional services department, as his present employer, had charged him with irresponsibility, and with sleeping on the job, in an attempt to impede his effort to join the state police, and where the state police division had shown its compliance with a continuing federal court order that was designed to ensure proportionate minority representation on the police force. New York State Div. of State Police v Kramarsky, 91 A.D.2d 805, 458 N.Y.S.2d 54, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19701 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In a proceeding by a former employee who alleged that she had been terminated from her restaurant employment as a result of her race, the employee's complaint was properly dismissed for want of probable cause where she received the same benefits as other employees, and where she was terminated as a result of her inability to resolve her differences with her immediate supervisor. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Jackson v Oswald Hof Brau-Haus, Inc., 91 A.D.2d 865, 458 N.Y.S.2d 368, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19781 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

An order of the State Division of Human Rights dismissing on a finding of no probable cause a complaint by a civil service employee that the oral test portion of an examination he took had been altered so that women received higher grade scores than men would be remanded, where in finding that there was no probable cause, the Division, for the most part, relied upon statistical percentages, which evaluated the final passing relationship between males and females, but made no attempt to isolate that portion of the test to which the complaint was directed, and thus it could not be ascertained on the record whether and to what extent the Division investigated the underlying basis of the claim. Baldovin v State Div. of Human Rights, 94 A.D.2d 659, 462 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18066 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1983).

The State Division of Human Rights did not conduct an inadequate, one-sided investigation of petitioner's claim of employment discrimination based on his age, disability and a previous criminal accusation, alleging failure to promote where petitioner had been given ample opportunity to state the bases of his claim and to respond to the city's statements in opposition, and the record had established that the city had pursued its policy of appointing the top candidate from the civil service list for the position sought, petitioner did not rank first on either list, and had been on light duty since 1983 due to numerous physical ailments, so that there was clearly a rational basis for the division's determination of no probable cause. Shay v Elmira, 108 A.D.2d 968, 484 N.Y.S.2d 951, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43299 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

8. Evidence

Statistical evidence in conjunction with a hiring system that had the effect, even without evidence of intention, of excluding Black and Spanish-surnamed persons from employment was sufficient to support the entry of an order to cease and desist such constructive discriminatory practices. State Div. of Human Rights v Kilian Mfg. Corp., 35 N.Y.2d 201, 360 N.Y.S.2d 603, 318 N.E.2d 770, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1309 (N.Y. 1974), app. dismissed, 420 U.S. 915, 95 S. Ct. 1108, 43 L. Ed. 2d 387, 1975 U.S. LEXIS 506 (U.S. 1975).

Where substantial evidence supported finding of State Division of Human Rights that brokerage employee had not been discriminatorily discharged because of her age, State Human Rights Appeal Board erred in setting aside such finding because of "differences of opinion." Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 391, 370 N.Y.S.2d 96, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9900 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Where record of proceedings before regional director of State Division of Human Rights showed rational basis for his determination of no probable cause with respect to complaints filed by employees, where hearing was extensive and complainants were present and represented by counsel, and where representatives of employer against whom complaints were made were present, represented by counsel, and testified and were cross-examined by counsel for complainant, mere fact that director's daughter was employed as mail clerk by employer against whom complaints were filed was no basis for disqualification of director or for setting aside determination. State Div. of Human Rights v Merchants Mut. Ins. Co., 59 A.D.2d 1054, 399 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14344 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 296 alleging that the refusal to rehire a transit system employee was in retaliation for his having filed an earlier complaint against the system, the dismissal of the complaint was based on substantial evidence, including the employee's unexcused absence from work, insubordination, falsification of records, tardiness, and resignation without notice. Pisano v Capital Dist. Transit System, #1, 88 A.D.2d 1022, 451 N.Y.S.2d 912, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17438 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In finding no probable cause to believe that a company had engaged in an unlawful discriminatory employment practice, the State Division of Human Right's investigation was not inadequate for failing to discover the existence of a tape recording made by the petitioner of his conversations with persons in the company's personnel office, where the petitioner failed to disclose the existence of the recording, notwithstanding that he had received a letter advising him to furnish the division with any additional information he might have. Fessette v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 94 A.D.2d 929, 463 N.Y.S.2d 331, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18379 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 60 N.Y.2d 553, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 5566 (N.Y. 1983).

Employer was entitled to summary judgment dismissing age discrimination action where (1) employer submitted several sworn affidavits asserting that plaintiff was discharged solely for incompetency, (2) it was uncontradicted that plaintiff, 62 years old, was replaced by 60-year-old individual, and (3) plaintiff offered only conclusory assertion that "I believe that age was the determining factor in defendant's decision to terminate me"; mere fact that plaintiff was 62 years old when dismissed was not sufficient to raise fact question as to age discrimination. Heffernan v Colonie Country Club, Inc., 160 A.D.2d 1062, 553 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3769 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

New York City Commission on Human Rights properly determined that New York City Transit Authority was guilty of sexual harassment and properly awarded discharged probationary employee back pay and damages for mental anguish where employee's supervisor unsuccessfully asked her for date on several occasions, then began writing reports charging her with various disciplinary infractions; harassment was exacerbated when she was told by Authority's manager of departmental relations that such conduct was to be expected because of her appearance and mode of dress. Levy v City Comm'n on Human Rights, 196 A.D.2d 214, 609 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994), aff'd, 85 N.Y.2d 740, 628 N.Y.S.2d 245, 651 N.E.2d 1264, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1122 (N.Y. 1995).

Testimony of investigator was properly received in action to review and annul order made by commission. Kindt v State Com.

for Human Rights, 44 Misc. 2d 896, 254 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), modified, 23 A.D.2d 809, 258 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

In enforcement proceedings under Article 15 of the Executive Law it is not necessary that findings be based on evidence establishing them beyond a reasonable doubt but it is sufficient if the findings are supported by evidence sufficiently substantial to prevent inferences of the existence of facts found to be reasonably drawn, and the Commission, at its hearing, is not bound by the strict rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity. State Com. for Human Rights v Suburban Associates, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 920, 286 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), modified, 34 A.D.2d 662, 310 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

In fair hearing in progress before State Division on Human Rights on employee's claims that employer discriminated against her in employment by denying her equal terms, conditions and privileges of employment and by terminating her employment because of her age, court would enforce subpoena duces tecum requiring employer to produce certain enumerated documents sought by employee to show pattern and practice of terminating employees at given age to effect monetary savings of pension and profit-sharing benefits. Russo v Reader's Digest, 91 Misc. 2d 1, 396 N.Y.S.2d 803, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Plaintiff's action against his former employer (Federal Reserve Bank) under Title VII, Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) was barred by election of remedies provision of CLS Exec § 297 where plaintiff had filed complaint with New York State Division of Human Rights pursuant to CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq., and complaint had been dismissed for lack of jurisdiction over employer, not for administrative convenience; New York's remedies available to former employee who alleges unlawful discrimination are mutually exclusive. Moodie v Federal Reserve Bank, 861 F. Supp. 10, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11480 (S.D.N.Y. 1994).

Complaint alleging that employer had discriminated against handicapped plaintiff would not be dismissed on basis that plaintiff had filed complaint with county human rights commission, constituting election of remedies under CLS Exec § 297(9), where (1) plaintiff denied filing written complaint, (2) defendant was unable to produce one notwithstanding access to agency's records under freedom of information procedures, and (3) there was no evidence that case number was ever assigned to matter, which suggested that plaintiff's contact with agency was not treated as complaint. Tumminello v Continental Baking Co., 861 F. Supp. 261, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11971 (S.D.N.Y. 1994).

Plaintiff's claim against his former employer under New York State Human Rights Law was barred where he sought administrative remedy by first bringing his claim of discriminatory treatment to Division of Human Rights, and division dismissed his claim on merits. Janneh v Regency Hotel, 870 F. Supp. 37, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17688 (N.D.N.Y. 1994).

9. Authority of commissioner

In conferring broad authority upon State Human Rights Commissioner, legislature was addressing general business and industrial sphere rather than highly professional fields regarding special expertise, such as education. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

State's strong and important public policy against discrimination and need for programmatic enforcement of antidiscrimination laws has led legislature to vest broad authority in Human Rights Commissioner so that he may take appropriate action to eliminate and prevent discriminatory practices, and human rights law should be liberally construed to accomplish its purposes. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

Statutory design for commissioner of Division of Human Rights review of complaint of discrimination differs from court procedure in which question of fact is generally determined by jury or tribunal apart from court which has decided that question of fact exists for determination in that when commissioner finds that evidence before him establishes probable cause for complaint of discrimination, he has duty to serve notice on respondent to answer charges of such complaint and appear at public hearing before examiner for hearing of witnesses under oath on record on each side of dispute and ultimate determination of merits of complaint shall then be made by commissioner. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Commissioner is required to make prompt investigation by field visit, written or oral inquiry, conference, or any method or combination thereof; matter is remitted to division for full and thorough investigation where probable cause issue was investigated in cursory and abbreviated manner and no independent inquiry was conducted to verify complainant's assertions prior to issue of no probable cause determination; investigation consisting of one interview with employer's personnel officer, obtaining copies of leave of absence policy and office memoranda together with letters from employer's attorney is insufficient. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Beckman v Gaylord Bros., Inc., 112 A.D.2d 726, 492 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56237 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Determination of Commissioner of Human Rights would be annulled where commissioner had previously participated in matter as general counsel of Human Rights Division. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 658, 627 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6117 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Fact-finding responsibility is lodged with Commissioner of Division of Human Rights, who is not bound by hearing examiner's recommendation. Friedel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 219 A.D.2d 547, 632 N.Y.S.2d 520, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9604 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 802, 667 N.Y.S.2d 682, 690 N.E.2d 491, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 4084 (N.Y. 1997).

10. Conference and conciliation

Inclusion in final order of conciliation, agreement to which no objections had been received within 15-day period following service on claimant's attorney of proposed conciliation agreement was neither arbitrary nor an abuse of discretion where Executive Law § 297, subd 3 did not require that service of proposed agreement on claimant's attorney be accompanied either by service of a statement of the statutory provisions relating to filing of objections or of a warning that objections be filed within 15 days. Berry v Donner-Hanna Coke Corp., 42 A.D.2d 404, 348 N.Y.S.2d 414, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3280 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 893, 359 N.Y.S.2d 283, 316 N.E.2d 717, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1445 (N.Y. 1974).

Service of proposed conciliation agreement on claimant's attorney rather than on claimant herself was proper where notice of appearance filed with regional director by claimant's attorney expressly demanded service on such attorney of "all subsequent written communications or notice to said party in this proceeding." Remand to State Division of Human Rights "for further investigation and action" on grounds that Division "should have looked into the question (of alleged discrimination) rather than discharging the complaint" did not require a hearing be conducted if the matter could be concluded by conciliation procedure. Berry v Donner-Hanna Coke Corp., 42 A.D.2d 404, 348 N.Y.S.2d 414, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3280 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 893, 359 N.Y.S.2d 283, 316 N.E.2d 717, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1445 (N.Y. 1974).

Remand to State Division of Human Rights "for further investigation and action" on grounds that Division "should have looked into the question (of alleged discrimination) rather than discharging the complaint" did not require a hearing be conducted if the matter could be concluded by conciliation procedure. Berry v Donner-Hanna Coke Corp., 42 A.D.2d 404, 348 N.Y.S.2d 414, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3280 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 893, 359 N.Y.S.2d 283, 316 N.E.2d 717, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1445 (N.Y. 1974).

Conciliation agreement between employee and contractor providing that employee would not be discharged from construction project by subcontractor without notice to president of contractor and to employee's attorney, but not specifying type of notice to be given or person bearing responsibility of furnishing such notice, was not breached where employee's dismissal was occasioned by general strike of elevator operators affecting entire building industry, and formal notice was not given to employee's attorney, in view of fact that employee's attorney received actual notice, and subcontractor did not receive copy of conciliation agreement. Castagna & Son, Inc. v Chambers, 50 A.D.2d 833, 376 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11689 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Where record raised no factual issue relating to claim that law firm unlawfully discriminated against individual by refusing to hire him, and it appeared as matter of law that complaint lacked merit and failed to raise genuine factual issues, confrontation conference was not required. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Jafree v Bond, Schoeneck & King, 52 A.D.2d 1045, 384 N.Y.S.2d 568, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Though provisions of Executive Law pertaining to procedures on a race discrimination complaint do not mandate a confrontation conference between the complainant and his employer, such a conference is authorized under the regulations as an aid to eliminate the discriminatory practice complained of during the investigatory stage. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Powers v Mecca Kendall Corp., 53 A.D.2d 201, 385 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12506 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Absent an explanation for the change in ordinary procedure, it was an abuse of discretion for the Division of Human Rights to exclude race discrimination complainant from participation in a conference between the Division's field representative and the complainant's employer. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Powers v Mecca Kendall Corp., 53 A.D.2d 201, 385 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12506 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Complainant, who was denied both opportunity to present his complaint of unlawful discriminatory practice related to employment and to rebut evidence submitted in opposition, was entitled to confrontation conference so that he might present his case in a proper and seemly manner. Long Island Rail Road v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 59 A.D.2d 924, 399 N.Y.S.2d 259, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14139 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding brought pursuant to Exec Law § 298 for enforcement of an order of the State Division of Human Rights after conciliation between the Division and the State Department of Mental Hygiene which awarded complainants compensatory damages, the reviewing court would grant the third-party petition against the third-party defendant, the State Department of Audit and Control, directing the third-party defendant to pay the sums agreed upon in the conciliation agreement, since the Division is empowered to direct the state agency to pay back salary upon a finding of discrimination, and would further hold that by enacting authority for the Division to pursue discrimination claims against employers, and not excluding the state as an employer, the legislature exercised its power to waive the state's usual immunity, that the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims against the state is not totally exclusive but is determined as the legislature may provide, and that the failure of the legislature to appropriate funds for payment of civil rights claims against the state is not indicative of its intent that the state was not subject to such award. State Div. of Human Rights v Dep't of Mental Hygiene, Rome Dev. Ctr., 85 A.D.2d 915, 446 N.Y.S.2d 784, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16759 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Investigation by State Division of Human Rights into employer's alleged age discrimination was not inadequate merely because division did not conduct confrontation conference or hearing, since petitioner was given full and fair opportunity to present evidence on his own behalf and to rebut evidence presented by employer. Murphy v Russell Sage College, 134 A.D.2d 716, 521 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50907 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Division of Human Rights did not act arbitrarily in dismissing employees' age discrimination complaints for administrative convenience at their own behest where they elected to pursue remedies in federal court; dismissal was in conformance with regulations, since retaining complaints by division would not advance state's human rights goals, especially since it would compel use of scarce state resources where employees had desire and resources to bring complaints in federal court. Division of Human Rights has authority to dismiss employment discrimination case for administrative convenience not only where complainant objects to proposed conciliation agreement but also where noticing complaint for hearing would be otherwise undesirable. Eastman Chem. Prods., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 162 A.D.2d 157, 556 N.Y.S.2d 571, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6994 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Division of Human Rights properly dismissed complaint for race and disability discrimination on ground of administrative convenience prior to public hearing and formal fact-finding where complainant would be proceeding in federal court on identical claims. Tribune Entertainment Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 210 A.D.2d 11, 619 N.Y.S.2d 559, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11872 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Respondent's contention that he was denied due process where Investigating Commissioner did not hold conciliation conference with him individually was rejected, since § 297, subd 2 authorized Investigating Commissioner to set a matter down for a hearing before the Commission after first making efforts at conciliation, if circumstances so warranted. Marrano Constr. Co. v State Com. for Human Rights, 45 Misc. 2d 1081, 259 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2061 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

11. "Aggrieved person"

Where evidence that private club served non-member whites while refusing service to blacks present at fashion show open to public established a violation of Executive Law § 296, subd 2, blacks who had not requested service were nevertheless aggrieved persons within the meaning of Executive Law § 297. Batavia Lodge No. 196, L. O. M. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 43 A.D.2d 807, 350 N.Y.S.2d 273, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2914 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), rev'd, 35 N.Y.2d 143, 359 N.Y.S.2d 25, 316 N.E.2d 318, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1974).

Respondent NAACP was entitled to lodge complaint as an aggrieved party under statutory provisions and the Division of Human Rights did not lack jurisdiction simply because the alleged violater is a municipal agency. Glen Cove Municipal Civil Service Com. v Glen Cove NAACP, 34 A.D.2d 956, 312 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4640 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, (N.Y. App. Div. 1970).

An organization whose members are injured by an alleged discriminatory act is an "aggrieved person" having a right to maintain a proceeding seeking judicial review. NOW v Gannett Co., 40 A.D.2d 107, 338 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3217 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1972), app. dismissed, 32 N.Y.2d 940, 347 N.Y.S.2d 201, 300 N.E.2d 733, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1191 (N.Y. 1973), app. dismissed, 32 N.Y.2d 966, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 2076 (N.Y. 1973), rev'd, 34 N.Y.2d 416, 358 N.Y.S.2d 124, 314 N.E.2d 867, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1480 (N.Y. 1974).

The trial court erred in failing to dismiss a loss of consortium action brought by the husband of a former medical center employee who alleged that the medical center and her former supervisor had discriminated against her by reason of her sex and marital status in violation of Exec Law § 296(1)(a) and had intentionally inflicted emotional distress upon her, since spouses of employees who allege actionable discrimination under the Executive Law are not "aggrieved persons" within the meaning of the statutes so as to support causes of action for loss of consortium, and since the wife's allegations were insufficient to state a cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress, so that any loss of consortium action derived therefrom would necessarily fail. Belanoff v Grayson, 98 A.D.2d 353, 471 N.Y.S.2d 91, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16486 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1984).

In action under Human Rights Law (CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq.) for sex discrimination in employment, court would order new trial as to damages unless plaintiff agreed to reduction of award from $575,000 to $350,000 where plaintiff had shown lost income of only $226,000, and psychiatric condition that plaintiff suffered from as result of defendants' conduct resolved itself within 2 years. Rhoades v Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., 202 A.D.2d 762, 608 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2307 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Award of $54,000 for emotional distress as result or retaliatory discharge in violation of CLS Exec § 296(1)(e) was not excessive where (1) plaintiff testified that she suffered from irritable bowel syndrome, pains in her sides, insomnia, migraines and depression, and that as result thereof she sought medical treatment, (2) after her discharge, she was deeply concerned about her ability to support herself and her child because she was single mother with limited professional experience and training, and (3) she had been unable to secure comparable employment for approximately one year. Gleason v Callanan Indus., 203 A.D.2d 750, 610 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4163 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Damages for lost wages in action under CLS Exec Art 15 should be calculated by difference between what plaintiff would have earned had he or she continued to remain employed with offending employer and what he or she actually earned; thus, in action for retaliatory discharge in violation of CLS Exec § 296(1)(i), jury was entitled to presume that plaintiff was to receive wage increases in years following her discharge commensurate with wage increases that she had received in past. Gleason v Callanan Indus., 203 A.D.2d 750, 610 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4163 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Division of Human Rights erroneously awarded back pay based on projections rather than actual salary and benefits earned during relevant period by complainant's former co-worker, whose salary was identical to complainant's when complainant left employment; further, award of back pay should have been reduced by amount of unemployment compensation that complainant received during period covered by award. New York State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bice v Parkview Auto Sales, 206 A.D.2d 888, 616 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7812 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), transferred, 206 A.D.2d 889, 616 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7813 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

The State Commission for Human Rights was warranted in finding that a party who was not seeking housing for himself or anyone else, but who was merely acting as a tester for the purpose of obtaining information as to discriminatory practices of a real estate broker, was not an aggrieved person. Cumberbatch v Lytle, 55 Misc. 2d 1041, 287 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1008 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

It is the prerogative of the commission to determine whether a petitioner is an aggrieved person. Cumberbatch v Lytle, 55 Misc. 2d 1041, 287 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1008 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

Within statute to effect that any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory employment practice shall have cause of action, "aggrieved person" means victim of the discriminatory practice. Wife of individual against whom an allegedly unlawful discriminatory practice was committed during his employment was not an "aggrieved" person within Executive Law providing that any person claiming to be aggrieved by unlawful discriminatory practice shall have cause of action. Weinstein v Hospital for Joint Diseases & Medical Center, 81 Misc. 2d 366, 365 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2390 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 53 A.D.2d 627, 384 N.Y.S.2d 203, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13330 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Prejudgment interest was not available on award of compensatory damages for pain and suffering under state Human Rights Law, although plaintiff was entitled to prejudgment interest on back pay award, since prejudgment interest is not recoverable in personal injury actions (CLS CPLR § 5001). McIntosh v Irving Trust Co., 873 F. Supp. 872, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 954 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

12. —Standing to sue

Under above provisions plaintiff has standing to complain only of grievances to which he has been one of the persons subjected. Gaynor v Rockefeller, 15 N.Y.2d 120, 256 N.Y.S.2d 584, 204 N.E.2d 627, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1651 (N.Y. 1965).

Roommates (one white man and one black man) had standing to bring action against owners of apartment building for damages for alleged unlawful discriminatory practices where roommates alleged that owners knew that white roommate was seeking accommodation for himself and his roommate and that discriminatory practice occurred after white roommate's disclosure that his roommate was black; if such allegations were established, jury could find that both roommates were injured by owner's racial bias, and it was not relevant that one roommate was white. Dunn v Fishbein, 123 A.D.2d 659, 507 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Women's organization had standing to file with Division of Human Rights a complaint alleging sex and race discrimination with respect to hiring, firing, promotion and compensation by operator of retail department store and the Division had power to investigate on basis of such complaint. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ducette v Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., 84 Misc. 2d 52, 375 N.Y.S.2d 502, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3091 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Naturalized citizen who graduated from foreign medical school, and was neither United States citizen nor permanent resident when he entered medical school, lacked standing to challenge his ineligibility for "Fifth Pathway" program under CLS Educ § 6528(a), whereby United States residents who graduate from foreign medical schools may be licensed after only one year of residency, as board of regents had granted him 2 years' credit toward his residency requirement so that he was required to complete only one year of residency and thus was placed in same position he would have occupied if he had been admitted to Fifth Pathway program, and court would not assume that, because board exercised its discretion to grant 2 years' credit under CLS Educ § 6506(5), it also would have exercised its discretion to waive requirement that he serve one year residency under Fifth Pathway program. Jaghory v New York State Dep't of Educ., 131 F.3d 326, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 35140 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1997).

Wife had standing to sue car rental agency for violation of Human Rights Law, although she who did not personally fill out application to rent car after her husband's application was refused, based on evidence that she showed rental agent her license in effort to secure car after her husband's attempt to rent car was rejected, and that rental agent told her that agency would not rent to her family because they were Puerto Rican. Rivera v Hertz Corp., 990 F. Supp. 234, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21660 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

13. "Employer"

A complaint charging the state Department of Labor with discriminatory practices in violation of Exec Law § 296, based upon the agency's dismissal of a claim for unemployment insurance benefits, was properly dismissed since § 296 was inapplicable in that the Department of Labor was not the claimant's employer, nor was it an employment agency or a labor organization. State Div. of Human Rights v N.Y. State Dep't of Labor, Unemployment Ins. Div., 84 A.D.2d 961, 447 N.Y.S.2d 73, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16238 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Factors considered in determining whether relationship of employer and employee exists are selection on engagement of servant, payment of wages or salary, power of dismissal, and power of control over servant's conduct; corporation is employer when corporation selects and hires petitioner and possesses and exercises power of control, reserves power of dismissal and indirectly pays wages; corporation may not avoid obligations by expediency of contracting with another for payment of workers under its control. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Emrich v GTE Corp., 109 A.D.2d 1082, 487 N.Y.S.2d 234, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Management agency which takes over payroll responsibilities is not employer for purpose of age discrimination claim where persons who retain management agency also retain responsibility for personnel decisions, including hiring and firing. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Barnard v Broadway Warehouse Co., 109 A.D.2d 1090, 487 N.Y.S.2d 239, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47582 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Plaintiff employee's conspiracy claim, based on theory that it linked individual defendant (another corporate employee) to employment discrimination claims asserted by plaintiff against corporate employer under Human Rights Law, was not actionable since discrimination claim under Human Rights Law is action created by statute, which did not exist at common law, and therefore cannot give rise to tort liability; also, corporate employee is not individually subject to discrimination suits under Human Rights Law absent showing of ownership interest or power to do more than carry out personnel decisions made by others. Monsanto v Electronic Data Systems Corp., 141 A.D.2d 514, 529 N.Y.S.2d 512, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6313 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Portion of determination by state Division of Human Rights finding that New York City Transit Authority (NYCTA) had discriminated against petitioner and directing relief against NYCTA would be annulled where complaint was never amended to include allegations of discrimination against NYCTA, and NYCTA had no notice that it would be charged with discriminatory acts separate and apart from any alleged acts of discrimination on part of Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority until hearing commenced. Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 553, 638 N.Y.S.2d 761, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1938 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Since New York State Teachers' Retirement System, in awarding pension benefits to male retiree with a female beneficiary in an amount less than would have been granted to a female retiree of the same age whose beneficiary was either male or female was merely following statutory direction and since the system was neither an "employer," an "employment agency" nor a "labor organization," the retirement system was not subject to investigation by the Human Rights Division with respect to its award of retirement benefits. New York State Teachers' Retirement System v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 83 Misc. 2d 993, 373 N.Y.S.2d 964, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3027 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

An applicant for a civil service position as a New York City police officer, who was deemed medically disqualified by the city's Department of Personnel due to a back condition, was entitled to sue the city under the anti-discrimination provisions of the Human Rights Law, Exec Law § 296(1)(a), and was not relegated to an Article 78 proceeding under Civ Serv Law § 50(4)(b); public employers are subject to the Human Rights Law, so that persons aggrieved by their alleged unlawful discriminatory practices are provided with alternative remedies. Ramos v New York City Police Dep't, 127 Misc. 2d 872, 487 N.Y.S.2d 667, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2750 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Public transportation authority was entitled to writ of prohibition precluding Division of Human Rights from holding hearing or taking any action in regard to complaint by former employee of authority's wholly owned subsidiary since discrimination alleged in complaint related to unlawful employment practices, and authority was not employee's employer. Central New York Centro, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 142 Misc. 2d 935, 539 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Medical school that provided medical services at city hospital was not entitled to dismissal of discrimination claim asserted by hospital employee on ground that it was not plaintiff's "employer"; although medical school did not have ultimate authority to hire or fire plaintiff and it did not pay her wages, its employees exercised significant influence and control over conditions of plaintiff's employment and her "fate" at hospital. Dortz v City of New York, 904 F. Supp. 127, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14438 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

II. Remedies

14. Remedies available

Strong statutory policy of eliminating discrimination gives Commissioner of Human Rights Division more discretion in effecting an appropriate remedy than he would have under strict common-law principles. Batavia Lodge No. 196, etc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 35 N.Y.2d 143, 359 N.Y.S.2d 25, 316 N.E.2d 318, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1974).

Under evidence, Human Rights Division properly issued cease and desist order against employer in relation to practices resulting in barring or refusing to hire persons because of race, etc.; means chosen by Division were reasonably calculated to achieve desired objective without unduly infringing upon rights of employer. State Div. of Human Rights v Kilian Mfg. Corp., 35 N.Y.2d 201, 360 N.Y.S.2d 603, 318 N.E.2d 770, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1309 (N.Y. 1974), app. dismissed, 420 U.S. 915, 95 S. Ct. 1108, 43 L. Ed. 2d 387, 1975 U.S. LEXIS 506 (U.S. 1975).

State Human Rights Commissioner has wide discretion in selecting appropriate remedy, but there are times when his determination of remedy may be set aside because it is erroneous as matter of law. Only under gravest of circumstances, where all other conceivable remedies have proved ineffective or futile, should Human Rights Commissioner enter campus to impose conferring of tenure, and even in extraordinary case where grant of tenure might serve as appropriate remedy the Commissioner should not impose such requirement without consulting with administration of institution and without considering effect of such order on institution and its faculty. That professor was not given fair opportunity to apply for tenure was insufficient to justify State Human Rights Commissioner's imposition of tenure requirement, and tenure requirement was deleted from his order. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

The Commissioner of the State Human Rights Division reasonably concluded that an employer engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice and compelled an employee to quit her job, where the evidence indicated that the employer had made blatantly obscene anti-Semitic remarks to her in the presence of other employees and had refused to apologize, notwithstanding the fact that the employer did not directly fire the employee and in fact had urged her to return to work. In exercising his broad powers to adopt measures reasonably deemed necessary to redress the injury to the employee, the commissioner properly directed that the employer apologize in writing, offer to reinstate the woman with back pay, together with $500 in damages for the shock, humiliation and outrage she experienced. Imperial Diner, Inc. v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 52 N.Y.2d 72, 436 N.Y.S.2d 231, 417 N.E.2d 525, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2830 (N.Y. 1980).

Human Rights Commissioner acted within his discretion when he ordered that deputy sheriff, who had been wrongfully terminated from her position due to racial and sex discrimination, be offered reinstatement to her position, even though remedy might deprive sheriff of his discretion in making appointments. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cottongim v County of Onondaga Sheriff's Dep't, 71 N.Y.2d 623, 528 N.Y.S.2d 802, 524 N.E.2d 123, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 603 (N.Y. 1988).

As remedy for example of unlawful employment discrimination based on race and sex, Division of Human Rights properly ordered employer (1) to notify its supervisory employees that they were obliged to comply with nondiscrimination provisions of Human Rights Law, (2) to offer complainant promotion, with back pay, to position comparable to one unlawfully denied her, and (3) to pay complainant $10,000 in compensatory damages for hurt, humiliation and mental anguish she suffered as result of unlawful discrimination. Consolidated Edison Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 77 N.Y.2d 411, 568 N.Y.S.2d 569, 570 N.E.2d 217, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 363 (N.Y. 1991).

An award of $500 for mental anguish and humiliation was improperly granted since it was neither sought in the complaint nor supported by any evidence in the record. Hillcrest General Hospital-GHI v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 90 A.D.2d 481, 454 N.Y.S.2d 549, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18487 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

An award of compensatory damages to a person aggrieved by an illegal discriminatory practice may include compensation for mental anguish, and such an award may be based solely on the testimony of the complainant. Board of Educ. v McCall, 108 A.D.2d 855, 485 N.Y.S.2d 357, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43182 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 65 N.Y.2d 601, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14750 (N.Y. 1985).

Commissioner was not arbitrary and capricious in age discrimination proceeding in awarding backpay and in directing that complainant be offered reinstatement in his position as methods specialist or position with equivalent title discharging in substantial part duties formerly performed by complainant; fact that employer had reorganized its factory operations since time it fired complainant or that almost 8 years had elapsed between firing and reinstatement order did not prevent commissioner from granting remedy. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cecconi v Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., 110 A.D.2d 1080, 489 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48967 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Although there was substantial evidence that department of corrections violated CLS Exec § 296(16) in making determination not to hire claimant as correction officer, claimant was not entitled to relief since civil service eligibility list in question expired almost one year before department made its determination and claimant made no challenge to list itself. New York City Dep't of Correction v White, 163 A.D.2d 250, 558 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8581 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

It was error for Commissioner of Human Rights to award respondent back pay from date he was disqualified from existing civil service eligibility list until list expired, as retroactive appointment with back pay would violate state policy of discretionary governmental appointive power underlying Civil Service Law and, while respondent was entitled to be considered for appointment, he was not guaranteed appointment had his name been on original list. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 250 A.D.2d 273, 682 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13953 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), modified, 93 N.Y.2d 768, 698 N.Y.S.2d 594, 720 N.E.2d 870, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3434 (N.Y. 1999).

Order denying a former trooper's motion for attorneys' fees was error because her suit alleging sex discrimination, sexual harassment, and retaliation was not a tort action, the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA), N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 86, applied, and attorneys' fees were available under the EAJA; an order quashing subpoenas duces tecum issued defense counsel for fee records was also error. Kimmel v State of New York, 76 A.D.3d 188, 906 N.Y.S.2d 403, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5351 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 77 A.D.3d 1457, 908 N.Y.S.2d 381, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7109 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2010), in part, 27 N.Y.3d 1121, 57 N.E.3d 68, 36 N.Y.S.3d 876, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1742 (N.Y. 2016), aff'd, in part, 29 N.Y.3d 386, 80 N.E.3d 370, 57 N.Y.S.3d 678, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 1298 (N.Y. 2017).

Civil fine imposed upon the owners of a farm did not constitute an abuse of discretion because because a couple was discriminated against based on their sexual orientation, and the record reflected the hurt, humiliation, and mental anguish that they suffered as a result of the owners' conduct. Matter of Gifford v Mccarthy, 137 A.D.3d 30, 23 N.Y.S.3d 422, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 238 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

Under this section, the Commission has wide discretion in its choice of remedies deemed adequate to cope with unlawful practices, and the courts will not interfere except when the remedy selected has no reasonable relation to the unlawful practices found to exist. Cooney v Katzen, 41 Misc. 2d 236, 245 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1318 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Since the Commission has great latitude in its choice of remedy, courts will not generally interfere unless the remedy has no reasonable relation to the discriminatory practices found to exist or unless the remedy exceeds the reasonable authority of the Commission. Where the Commission ordered a landlord to offer complainant the next vacant apartment to include a written lease of one, two, or three years at the option of the complainant, the remedy would be modified to the extent of deleting the provision for a one-year lease, which the court felt imposed an undue hardship on the landlord, since maximum rentals in rent controlled apartments could be increased only upon the execution of a lease for a minimum period of two years. Lawrence Gardens, Inc. v State Com. for Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 20, 277 N.Y.S.2d 857, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1238 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Court was aware of no case in which a New York court has awarded New York State Human Rights Law, New York City Human Rights Law, or tort compensatory damages for nonecomonic harms other than those falling within the recognized categories. Indeed, the New York Court of Appeals has noted that damages for nonpecuniary losses stand on less certain ground than does an award for pecuniary damages because they are based on a "legal fiction" that such losses can be compensated monetarily. United States v City of New York, 897 F. Supp. 2d 30, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 133283 (E.D.N.Y. 2012).

Under both federal and New York law, claimants may not obtain compensatory damages for emotional distress based merely on the fact that they were unable to obtain work in their chosen occupation. United States v City of New York, 897 F. Supp. 2d 30, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 133283 (E.D.N.Y. 2012).

15. —Injunctions

Although the Human Rights Appeals Board erred in dismissing an employee's appeal from the Division's order of no probable cause since Exec Law § 297(2) is directory and not mandatory in setting 180 days as the time period within which the Division must investigate and determine a complaint of unlawful discrimination, the Division's finding of no probable cause would be confirmed where, in view of the evidence in the record of the employee's unsatisfactory performance, the employer was not guilty of unlawful discrimination in discharging him two weeks after he was hired. State Div. of Human Rights v American Can Co., 78 A.D.2d 1005, 433 N.Y.S.2d 906, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13781 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

An application by the State Commission for Human Rights for an injunction preventing respondents from selling, renting, leasing, or otherwise disposing of a certain apartment to anyone other than the complainant was denied, pending a determination of the issues by the Commission itself, and especially since in the first instance the matter should have been referred to the City Commission of Human Rights, even though such action was not a prerequisite to the bringing of the instant proceeding. State Com. for Human Rights v Harvey Properties, Inc., 50 Misc. 2d 672, 271 N.Y.S.2d 365, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1916 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Where for the second time the owner of condominium apartments had offered to enter into a contract with the complainant for the sale of an apartment, provided a proceeding before the Commission for Human Rights was dismissed, and a prior application for an injunction preventing sale of the apartment had been denied because the court could find no evidence of alleged racial discrimination, defendant's motion for an injunction was denied. State Com. for Human Rights v Westchestertowne Houses, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 1015, 287 N.Y.S.2d 624, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1773 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

In proceedings pursuant to Civil Rights Law § 297, subd 6, policewoman could not enjoin city from appointing any officer other than herself, either permanently, temporarily, or provisionally, to vacant position of sergeant pending conclusion of all litigation on order of State Division of Human Rights requiring city to offer policewoman next available sergeant position where police sergeant eligible list had expired pursuant to Civil Service Law § 56 at time such order was made. State Div. of Human Rights v Schenectady, 76 Misc. 2d 843, 351 N.Y.S.2d 290, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1540 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), app. dismissed, 45 A.D.2d 569, 360 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3742 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

Only Commissioner of Division of Human Rights may bring action for injunction to maintain status quo pending Division's decision on discrimination complaint. Where, if employees prevailed on complaint to Division of Human Rights that employer's proposed layoffs were unlawfully discriminatory on basis of age, employees would be reinstated with back pay, while if employer was forced to stay layoff pending Division's decision, salaries paid out during stay would never be returned, injunction of layoffs pending Division's decision would not be proper. Sable v Sperry Gyroscope Div., 81 Misc. 2d 429, 365 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2400 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 50 A.D.2d 517, 375 N.Y.S.2d 120, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12207 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Where, if police department was allowed to make three appointments which it contended it was ready to make, any remedy which division of human rights might have endeavored to fashion might have proved fruitless, judgment would be entered restrain-ing police department from making the appointments pending determination of complaint before the division of human rights. Kramarsky v New York Police Dep't, 90 Misc. 2d 733, 395 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2142 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Subdivision 6 of section 297 of the Executive Law, which provides that the Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights may apply to the Supreme Court, after the filing of a complaint with the division alleging an unlawful discriminatory practice, for an order to show cause why a respondent should not be enjoined from doing or procuring an act which would tend to render ineffectual any order the commissioner might enter in such proceeding, affords a remedy designed to be invoked, in an appropriate case, during the period from the filing of the complaint with the division until the time that the commissioner issues an order in the proceeding; it was not designed to permit postdetermination intervention by the Supreme Court. Accordingly, a motion by the commissioner for a mandatory injunction compelling respondent to obey the commissioner's order to accept complainant, who alleged that she had been denied admission to respondent's graduate program because of a disability, was denied, since the court does not have the power to grant the relief sought. Kramarsky v New York Psychoanalytic Institute, 102 Misc. 2d 806, 424 N.Y.S.2d 581, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2922 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9), plaintiff employee was not entitled to injunctive relief because he had not demonstrated any irreparable harm if the relief was not granted or shown how, despite the compensatory damages awarded, there was an absence of an adequate remedy at law. Furthermore, the employee acknowledged that his current position, which was created for him by his employer, did accommodate his disability Welch v UPS, 871 F. Supp. 2d 164, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 91687 (E.D.N.Y. 2012).

16. Exhaustion of administrative remedies

Administrative convenience dismissals under CLS Exec § 297(3)(c) are subject to judicial review to extent that they are "purely arbitrary"—that is, to extent that they contravene or threaten to contravene statute, constitutional right, or administrative regulation. Marine Midland Bank, N. A. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 75 N.Y.2d 240, 552 N.Y.S.2d 65, 551 N.E.2d 558, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4454 (N.Y. 1989).

In an engineer's action against his former employer, alleging discriminatory discharge based on his national origin, the action would be dismissed where the engineer's administrative complaint, that was filed with the state human rights division, had not been dismissed for administrative convenience, inasmuch as an action for unlawful discriminatory practice is permitted after the filing of an administrative complaint only when the complaint is dismissed on the ground of administrative convenience. Low v Gibbs & Hill, Inc., 92 A.D.2d 467, 459 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1983).

An action brought by a labor union member alleging that her employer breached her contract of employment by refusing to enroll her as an individual member in the employer's dental plan would not be barred by Exec Law § 297(9), which provides that an aggrieved person's filing of a discrimination complaint with the New York State Division of Human Rights constitutes a binding election of remedies, since plaintiff's breach of contract action was not the same as her discrimination charge previously commenced with the Division of Human Rights. Goosley v Binghamton City School Dist. Bd. of Education, 101 A.D.2d 942, 475 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18670 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

In action to recover damages for unlawful discrimination based on marital status, plaintiff was not required to exhaust administrative remedies before commencing action in Supreme Court, even though Division of Human Rights is administrative agency charged with investigating and remedying discriminatory practices, since victims of discriminatory practices are given choice as to forum in which they may seek relief. Ness v Pan American World Airways, 142 A.D.2d 233, 535 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12457 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Approximate 7 ½ -year delay from filing of complaint with Division of Human Rights to conduct of hearing was not, by itself, prejudicial to employer as matter of law. Pepsico, Inc. v Rosa, 204 A.D.2d 552, 612 N.Y.S.2d 74, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5239 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Where no procedures were pending before the State Commission on Human Rights with respect to defendant's charge of discrimination on part of tavern owner, which charge had been dismissed by the Division of Human Rights, defendant, against whom tavern owner subsequently brought action for libel and malicious prosecution, the filing of which action was itself an unlawful discriminatory practice, was not required to exhaust administrative procedure by filing a complaint under the human rights law but was entitled to assert counterclaim to the libel and malicious prosecution complaint in order to recover for the discriminatory practice which the filing of that complaint represented. Moran v Simpson, 80 Misc. 2d 437, 362 N.Y.S.2d 666, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1906 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Where division of human rights had not yet made final disposition of employment discrimination complaint, court could not concern itself with merits of controversy, and division was required to pursue matter to a conclusion before judicial intervention could be sought. Kramarsky v New York Police Dep't, 90 Misc. 2d 733, 395 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2142 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Federal employment discrimination suit was barred by plaintiff's failure to exhaust state administrative remedies where plaintiff had never sought redress through New York State Division of Human Rights, and where plaintiff did not pursue remedy with city civil rights commission until 4 years after initial complaint was filed with such agency by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on plaintiff's behalf, and attorney error was insufficient excuse for failure to follow proper procedure. Albano v General Adjustment Bureau, Inc. (GAB), 478 F. Supp. 1209, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8799 (S.D.N.Y. 1979), aff'd, 622 F.2d 572, 1980 U.S. App. LEXIS 19246 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1980).

Claim under § 296 of New York Executive Law must be dismissed as premature where plaintiff alleges that he filed charges of discrimination and retaliation before New York State Division of Human Rights and that investigation of these charges is pending; having elected to proceed before Division, plaintiff is now precluded from pressing claims under § 296 before District Court. Marin v New York State Dep't of Labor, 512 F. Supp. 353, 1981 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11696 (S.D.N.Y. 1981), disapproved, Morse v University of Vermont, 973 F.2d 122, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 19365 (2d Cir. Vt. 1992).

African-American woman, terminated from position of senior financial associate, has no viable claim under New York State Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Law §§ 290 et seq.), even though claim is not administratively barred by exhaustion requirement, because her signature of release in conjunction with her termination was knowing and voluntary, and was thus valid under totality of circumstances. Branker v Pfizer ,Inc., 981 F. Supp. 862, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17896 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

Former part time employee's employment discrimination claims were barred under N.Y. Exec. § 297(7) because the "administrative convenience" exception did not apply to these state law claims which she had previously raised before the New York State Department of Human Rights as the claims had been dismissed on their merits. Ganthier v N. Shore-Long Island Jewish Health Sys., 345 F. Supp. 2d 271, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 23481 (E.D.N.Y. 2004).

Former employee's racially hostile work environment suit against his former employer was not subject to dismissal as time-barred under the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(5), because the alleged racial slurs, denial of computer access, and other alleged discriminatory acts were part of the same practice, and at least one alleged act occurred during the filing period. Watson v Am. Red Cross Blood Servs., 468 F. Supp. 2d 484, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1225 (W.D.N.Y. 2007).

17. Election of remedies

State Division of Human Rights was not authorized to dismiss, "for administrative convenience," age discrimination complaint which was time-barred by CLS Exec § 297(5), and thus subsequent judicial proceeding could not be brought under more generous limitation period of CLS CPLR § 214(2), since dismissal would contravene one-year time limitation of CLS Exec § 297(5) and election of remedies requirement of CLS Exec § 297(9). Marine Midland Bank, N. A. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 75 N.Y.2d 240, 552 N.Y.S.2d 65, 551 N.E.2d 558, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4454 (N.Y. 1989).

Employer was not actually prejudiced by 8 ½ -year delay by state Division of Human Rights in processing employee's complaint of handicap discrimination, and thus complaint should not have been dismissed, even though delay was inordinate, where employer's increased exposure for back pay liability did not implicate its ability to defend, documents regarding employee's Social Security disability applications remained available, and there was no indication either that employee contributed to delay or that division engaged in "repetitive, purposeless and oppressive" conduct. Corning Glass Works v Ovsanik, 84 N.Y.2d 619, 620 N.Y.S.2d 771, 644 N.E.2d 1327, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4438 (N.Y. 1994).

By commencing a grievance procedure under a collective bargaining agreement, charging discriminatory practices in employment, teachers were not barred, either permanently or pending completion of the grievance procedures, from filing a complaint with the State Division of Human Rights. Board of Education v State Div. of Human Rights, 38 A.D.2d 245, 328 N.Y.S.2d 732, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5352 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1972), aff'd, 33 N.Y.2d 946, 353 N.Y.S.2d 730, 309 N.E.2d 130, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1743 (N.Y. 1974).

The Division of Human Rights properly asserted jurisdiction over a complaint of sexual discrimination filed by a female professor who had been denied tenure by her university, although the professor had previously instituted an Article 78 proceeding to review the university's denial of tenure, where the Article 78 proceeding and the sexual discrimination complaint were not based on the same "grievance," within the meaning of Exec Law § 297(9), which provided that no person who had initiated a court action or an action before an administrative agency based on an unlawful discriminatory practice could file a complaint with the division with respect to the same grievance, in that in the Article 78 proceeding the professor had challenged alleged procedural irregularities in the tenure review process, whereas the sexual discrimination complaint was directed at alleged improper actions on the part of her department head. State University of New York v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 81 A.D.2d 688, 438 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11240 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 896, 449 N.Y.S.2d 29, 433 N.E.2d 1277, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3098 (N.Y. 1982).

A city police officer, whose position was terminated after alcohol was detected in his blood in violation of a stipulation he had entered into in settlement of disciplinary charges against him, was barred by the provisions of Exec Law § 297(9) from pursuing his claim that he had been discriminated against due to his disability of alcoholism since his previous Article 78 proceeding, alleging that his dismissal had been improper, had been brought, on the same grounds as the present proceeding. Whitney v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 105 A.D.2d 991, 482 N.Y.S.2d 142, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21082 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

State Division of Human Rights improperly dismissed complaint of unlawful discriminatory practice based on sex, on ground that petitioner had another proceeding pending before Department of Transportation, since matter petitioner brought before department could not have led to any binding, enforceable adjudication or determination redressing petitioner's complaint of sex discrimination, and as such, it cannot be considered to have constituted action which petitioner had pending before administrative agency which barred her from filing instant complaint. Fremgen v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 114 A.D.2d 679, 494 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53353 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Employee who unsuccessfully files complaint before state division of human rights in which, in addition to alleging violations of human rights law, he alleges that union has tortiously interfered with contractual rights vis-a-vis employer by encouraging it to discriminate against him and that union has fraudulently mischaracterized nature of employee's position in prior proceeding before National Labor Relations Board is precluded from commencing action against union seeking to relitigate same claims. Kuperman v Association of Bar, 118 A.D.2d 547, 499 N.Y.S.2d 8, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

In confirming determination that employer was guilty of sexual harassment of discharged probationary employee, court did not err in denying employee's request for future lost earnings or prejudgment interest as alternative to reinstatement, but employee should have been reinstated to her position as probationary employee and given additional probationary period in which to demonstrate her competence in atmosphere untainted by sexual harassment. Levy v City Comm'n on Human Rights, 196 A.D.2d 214, 609 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994), aff'd, 85 N.Y.2d 740, 628 N.Y.S.2d 245, 651 N.E.2d 1264, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1122 (N.Y. 1995).

In civil action alleging employment discrimination based on sexual orientation, defendants were not entitled to dismissal of claims grounded in New York City Human Rights Law on basis that plaintiff elected his remedies under NYC Admin Code § 8-502(d) by filing complaint with New York City Human Rights Commission, as prior complaint was properly dismissed for "administrative convenience" under NYC Admin Code § 8-113(a)(5) to conserve city resources and allow joinder with state law claims in state court in that city commission has limited jurisdiction extending only to claims arising under administrative code, whereas Supreme Court has exclusive jurisdiction over pendent civil claims arising under state law. Acosta v Loews Corp., 276 A.D.2d 214, 717 N.Y.S.2d 47, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12405 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Trial court erred by reversing its dismissal of plaintiff's state and city human rights law claims and common law claims based on retaliation and sexual harassment because plaintiff's state law and city causes of action were barred by her election of an administrative remedy under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9), and the common-law negligence causes of action were barred by the exclusivity provisions of N.Y. Workers' Comp. Law §§ 11 and 29(6). Rodriguez v Dickard Widder Indus., 150 A.D.3d 1169, 56 N.Y.S.3d 328, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4088 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

Since plaintiff was precluded from commencing a court action for damages based upon an alleged discriminatory practice occurring on September 16, 1976 while his complaint before the State Division of Human Rights was still pending (Executive Law, § 300), the filing of a summons with the clerk of the court on September 15, 1977, the same date that he requested the dismissal of the complaint before the Division of Human Rights, but two weeks before the complaint was actually dismissed on the ground of administrative convenience, was a nullity rendering the subsequent service of the summons and complaint on defendant on October 31, 1977 time-barred as not being served within one year of the date of the alleged discriminatory act (Executive Law, § 297, subd 5). The statute which provides that a dismissal of a complaint before the Division of Human Rights on the ground of administrative convenience does not bar the bringing of a court action (Executive Law, § 297, subd 9) only serves to preserve plaintiff's right to sue but does not provide him with an extension of the mandatory one-year time limitation. Cheselka v Eastern Air Lines, Inc., 93 Misc. 2d 219, 402 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2039 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

An applicant for a civil service position as a New York City police officer, who was deemed medically disqualified by the city's Department of Personnel due to a back condition, was entitled to sue the city under the anti-discrimination provisions of the Human Rights Law, Exec Law § 296(1)(a), and was not relegated to an Article 78 proceeding under Civ Serv Law § 50(4)(b); public employers are subject to the Human Rights Law, so that persons aggrieved by their alleged unlawful discriminatory practices are provided with alternative remedies. Ramos v New York City Police Dep't, 127 Misc. 2d 872, 487 N.Y.S.2d 667, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2750 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

It was arbitrary and improper for State Division of Human Rights (SDHR), during pendency of court review of employment discrimination complaint, to dismiss complaint on ground of administrative convenience since (1) dismissal deprived employer of its right to continue to argue before SDHR that it had been prejudiced by 14-year delay between filing of complaint and probable cause determination, (2) dismissal was obvious attempt to deprive court of jurisdiction to review underlying matter, and (3) given that both federal and state statutory schemes for addressing illegal discrimination provide that discrimination claims be brought in only one forum, it appeared that dismissal was in fact means chosen to allow employee to select different forum (state court) to hear same matter that had previously been submitted to both federal court and state agency. Avon Products, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 138 Misc. 2d 466, 524 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 36 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Plaintiff whose civil rights complaint before state agency is dismissed for administrative convenience may seek court remedy, even if it is plaintiff who seeks dismissal in order to pursue judicial remedy in federal court; once dismissal occurs, election of remedies barrier is removed. Promisel v First Am. Artificial Flowers, 943 F.2d 251, 1991 U.S. App. LEXIS 20793 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1991), cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1060, 112 S. Ct. 939, 117 L. Ed. 2d 110, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 539 (U.S. 1992).

Plaintiff completed proper deferral of her charge in civil rights action to appropriate state or local agency before instituting suit under Civil Rights Act of 1964 where although plaintiff did not seek prior relief from any state or local agency, human rights commission had opportunity to act first after it was notified by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission of plaintiff's charge. Winsey v Pace College, 394 F. Supp. 1324, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12496 (S.D.N.Y. 1975).

CLS Exec L § 297 does not bar employee from bringing sex discrimination action where Equal Employment Opportunity Commission referred her claim to state agency as is required under its own procedures, because required reference is not election by individual employee. O'Brien v King World Productions, Inc., 669 F. Supp. 639, 1987 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8476 (S.D.N.Y. 1987).

Employee's administrative complaint, asserted before City Commission of Human Rights that lacked subject matter jurisdiction, was not binding election not to sue. Pierre v Chemical Bank, 960 F. Supp. 21, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3032 (E.D.N.Y. 1997).

Former hospital employee's New York State Human Rights Law claims were barred by the election of remedies doctrine because the employee filed an administrative complaint on June 18, 2002, with the New York State Division of Human Rights, alleging unlawful employment action on the basis of age, disability, national origin, race, color, and sex, and the New York State Division of Human Rights issued a no probable cause determination after an investigation; N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9) divested the court of such jurisdiction. Lennon v New York City, 392 F. Supp. 2d 630, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22550 (S.D.N.Y. 2005).

Plaintiff's claim in a federal district court was not barred because of an election of remedies because the complaint filed with the New York State Division of Human Rights was filed by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission for duty sharing purposes. Drew v Plaza Constr. Corp., 688 F. Supp. 2d 270, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8699 (S.D.N.Y. 2010).

18. —Election between state and municipal remedies

Plaintiff, prior to commencing this action alleging violation of Labor Law § 194, filed complaint with City Commission on Human Rights alleging sexual discrimination arising out of same facts and circumstances; filing of administrative complaint constituted election of remedies barring maintenance of this action (Executive Law § 297 [9]; Administrative Code of City of New York § 8-112); plaintiff's argument that Administrative Code is inconsistent with Labor Law, in violation of "home rule" provisions of State Constitution, is without basis in view of explicit provisions of Executive Law § 297 (9) providing that filing of complaint "hereunder or with any local commission on human rights" shall preclude subsequent action in court. Jones v Gilman Paper Co., 166 A.D.2d 294, 564 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12059 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Employer was entitled to dismissal of complaint charging age discrimination where employee had already brought complaint pro se to city commission on human rights, which resulted in decision on merits in favor of employer, notwithstanding employee's claim that he was unschooled, was without benefit of counsel, and had only rudimentary knowledge of English, since he had benefit of full hearing and determination on merits of his claim, and CLS Exec § 297(9) does not import any "knowledgeable" prerequisite for election of remedies. Magini v Otnorp, Ltd., 180 A.D.2d 476, 579 N.Y.S.2d 669, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1308 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 751, 587 N.Y.S.2d 287, 599 N.E.2d 691, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1568 (N.Y. 1992).

State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed Human Rights Law race discrimination complaint at complainant's request on ground of "administrative inconvenience" under CLS Exec § 297, in order to permit complainant to pursue all claims against petitioner in federal court, since complainant elected to pursue both state law claims and claims under 42 USCS § 2000-e et seq. in federal court and only filed complaint with division in order to satisfy requirements of federal law before her claims could be asserted in federal court. New York Tel. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 Misc. 2d 765, 561 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Employee was entitled to hearing on his motion for costs and attorney's fees, and to denial of employer's motion to set aside punitive damages award, under New York City Human Rights Law (NYC Admin Code § 8-502(f)) in disability discrimination case, even though jury's verdict did not specify whether employer was liable for discriminatory discharge under city Human Right Law (which permits recovery of punitive damages and attorney's fees) or state Human Rights Law (which does not permit such recovery), since state Human Rights Law has not preempted field, and that statute does not prohibit recovery of such fees for discrimination claims prosecuted under city law. Grullon v South Bronx Overall Economic Dev. Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 645, 712 N.Y.S.2d 911, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

Employee was not required to abandon or withdraw his cause of action for disability discrimination under state Human Rights Law, as condition to recovery of punitive damages or attorney's fees under New York City Human Rights Law. Grullon v South Bronx Overall Economic Dev. Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 645, 712 N.Y.S.2d 911, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

Judicially unreviewed findings by Division of Human Rights in age discrimination claim under CLS Exec Art 15 did not have preclusive effect on claim, based on same factual allegations, brought in federal court under Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 29 USCS §§ 621 et seq. Astoria Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v Solimino, 501 U.S. 104, 111 S. Ct. 2166, 115 L. Ed. 2d 96, 1991 U.S. LEXIS 3320 (U.S. 1991).

19. —Election between state and federal remedies

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review an order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board, the trial court erred in dismissing petitioner's complaint on the ground that it was filed while a federal civil rights complaint was pending, where the record showed that petitioner's federal lawsuit and state discrimination complaint constituted attempts to remedy two separate grievances and no election of remedies was involved. Grinan v Santaella, 81 A.D.2d 657, 438 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11180 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

Grievant who files charge of discrimination with federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is barred from pursuing remedy in state court since CLS Exec § 297 bars grievant from pursuing remedy in state court if he files complaint with state Division of Human Rights; right to bring action in state court should not depend on which agency grievant files with. Scott v Carter-Wallace, Inc., 147 A.D.2d 33, 541 N.Y.S.2d 780, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6839 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 75 N.Y.2d 764, 551 N.Y.S.2d 903, 551 N.E.2d 104, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4443 (N.Y. 1989).

Action for unlawful discriminatory discharge from employment was not barred by CLS Exec § 297(9), even though plaintiff mailed complaint alleging unlawful discriminatory practices to federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) 3 days before commencing action, since EEOC did not receive complaint until 7 days after commencement of action. Rosa v

Blake Business School, 182 A.D.2d 615, 582 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5664 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Court erred in invoking CLS CPLR § 3211(a)(4) to dismiss complaint alleging wrongful employment termination in violation of CLS Exec § 296 because of pendency of plaintiff's federal court action against defendant alleging violation of Age Discrimination in Employment Act, since causes of action were not same although they involved common issue of age discrimination. Walsh v Goldman Sachs & Co., 185 A.D.2d 748, 586 N.Y.S.2d 608, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9865 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Administrative convenience dismissal of complaint with State Division of Human Rights alleging discriminatory discharge from employment on bases of race and physical disability was arbitrary where there was nothing in record to suggest that complainant intended to pursue his federal remedy before filing his administrative complaint or that he filed such complaint as prerequisite to commencing federal action, fact that over one year elapsed between filing of administrative complaint and commencement of federal action indicated that complainant initially intended to elect administrative remedy, and thus dismissal violated CLS Exec § 297(9) and CLS Div Hum Rts R § 465.5(e)(2) (9 NYCRR § 465.5(e)(2)). Wegmans Food Mkts. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 245 A.D.2d 685, 664 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12602 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Under current version of CLS Exec § 297(9), State Division of Human Rights may dismiss administrative complaint for purpose of allowing complainant to annul his or her election of remedies and pursue action in state, instead of federal, court. Kordich v Povill, 244 A.D.2d 112, 676 N.Y.S.2d 331, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8680 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

It was not "purely arbitrary" for State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) to dismiss complainant's sexual harassment complaint for administrative convenience after having initially found that there was probable cause to support her allegations, as her intervening commencement of federal court action asserting Title VII sexual harassment and retaliation claims, and pendant state claims mirroring her allegations in complaint filed with SDHR, effectuated election of remedies under CLS Exec § 297(9). Universal Packaging Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 270 A.D.2d 586, 704 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2647 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

In an action by an employee against her employer in which she alleged that she was discriminated against because she was a Caucasian and a native of the United States, the motion of the employer to dismiss her complaint, on the ground that the anti-discrimination statute did not apply to white Americans, would be denied where the plain meaning of the words used and the perceived scope and intended application of the statute indicated that it applied equally to all persons; the employer's motion to dismiss the complaint on the second ground that the employee had previously filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that was still pending would likewise be denied, even though the employee failed to wait 180 days after filing the federal complaint to institute the action, where the employee's actions indicated her election to pursue her complaint in court. Travis v Carlisle Corp., 109 Misc. 2d 173, 439 N.Y.S.2d 790, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2970 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Filing of federal complaint with Equal Opportunity Employment Commission that is then automatically referred to state Division of Human Rights is deemed to exercise plaintiff's option for administrative forum and thus precludes bringing court action. Promisel v First Am. Artificial Flowers, 943 F.2d 251, 1991 U.S. App. LEXIS 20793 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1991), cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1060, 112 S. Ct. 939, 117 L. Ed. 2d 110, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 539 (U.S. 1992).

Construing Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS § 621 et seq.) and CLS Exec L § 297 liberally, their combined effect is that plaintiff cannot bring court action asserting both federal and state age discrimination in employment claims; one exception being that under § 297(9), plaintiff is not barred from bringing subsequent court action on his state law claim if his HRD complaint has been dismissed on grounds of administrative convenience. Meschino v International Tel. & Tel. Corp., 563 F. Supp. 1066, 1983 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17606 (S.D.N.Y. 1983).

State cause of action under Human Rights Law are not barred by filing of complaint with Division of Human Rights on grounds of election of remedies doctrine, as plaintiffs' Title VII (42 USCS § 2000e et seq.) and Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS § 621 et seq.) discrimination charges were filed initially with EEOC as prerequisite to commencement of court action and subsequent decision by EEOC to refer such charges to Division of Human Rights cannot serve to bar plaintiffs' assertion of their rights under state law; further, even had plaintiffs initially invoked administrative proceedings before Division of Human Rights, such actions would only preclude filing of complaint in District Court while resolution of matters remained undecided by agency. People by Abrams v Holiday Inns, 656 F. Supp. 675, 1984 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24071 (W.D.N.Y. 1984).

Plaintiff seeking relief in federal court under Age Discrimination in Employment Act, after having filed timely complaint first with appropriate state agency and then with Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, as required by 29 USCS § 633, is not barred by CLS NY Executive Law § 297, subd 9, because plaintiff's choice between state judicial and administrative relief does not affect right to bring federal claims in federal court, however, requirement of election of remedies under state statutes requires that pendent claim under New York Human Rights Law be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under doctrine of election of remedies where plaintiff has administrative proceeding pending before New York State Division of Human Rights. Hunnewell v Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., 628 F. Supp. 759, 1986 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 29289 (S.D.N.Y. 1986).

In action by university professor alleging series of related acts and continuing policy of discrimination against women faculty members, plaintiff's claim that she was denied tenure by same individual for 6 successive years, despite having been recommended for tenure, was sufficient to trigger continuing violation doctrine; thus, Human Rights claim under CLS Exec § 297 was not barred by statute of limitations. Sunshine v Long Island Univ., 862 F. Supp. 26, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12685 (E.D.N.Y. 1994).

Allocation of $11,400 emotional distress award and $17,713 "other expenses" award to fired female executive's claim under New York Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Law §§ 290 et seq.) is approved, where federal $300,000 damage cap severely shrank jury's award of more than $5 million on Title VII (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) claim, because Title VII clearly does not relieve employer from liability and award of damages under state law where jury has found such violation under both laws. Luciano v Olsten Corp., 912 F. Supp. 663, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 613 (E.D.N.Y. 1996).

Allocation of $11,400 emotional distress award and $17,713 "other expenses" award to fired female executive's claim under New York Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Law §§ 290 et seq.) is approved, where federal $300,000 damage cap severely shrank jury's award of more than $5 million on Title VII (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) claim, because Title VII clearly does not relieve employer from liability and award of damages under state law where jury has found such violation under both laws. Luciano v Olsten Corp., 912 F. Supp. 663, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 613 (E.D.N.Y. 1996).

Under Exec § 297(9), employee's failure to annul her election of administrative remedy of age discrimination claim against employer before administrative hearing precluded her from bringing age discrimination suit in federal court against employer under 29 USCS § 623, even if she and her attorney were unaware of intervening change in law that broadened grounds for annulment. Harrison v New York City Off-Track Betting Corp., 107 F. Supp. 2d 455, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11084 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

Under Exec § 297, individuals seeking assuagement for employment discrimination under state law may either bring their claims in proper court or file complaint before New York State Division of Human Rights, but they may not do both. Gallagher v IBEW, 127 F. Supp. 2d 139, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19154 (N.D.N.Y. 2000).

Under Exec § 297(9), charge of discrimination filed with EEOC cannot be considered to have been filed with state agency for election of remedy purposes until complaint is actually forwarded to state agency by EEOC and state agency opens file. EEOC v Rotary Corp., 164 F. Supp. 2d 306, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11550 (N.D.N.Y. 2001).

Where a former employee sued his former employer, alleging discrimination, including harassment, in violation of both state and federal laws, to the extent that the employee asserted discrimination claims under state law, they were barred by the doctrine of election of remedies under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9) (2005), because he filed a verified complaint with a state human rights division, which dismissed the complaint on the merits and not on the grounds of administrative convenience; however the employee was not thereby precluded from pursuing any claims under federal civil rights laws. Lewis v N. Gen. Hosp., 502 F. Supp. 2d 390, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 62490 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

Federal court lacked jurisdiction over plaintiff's claims under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 290 et seq., against every named defendant in his action, because those claims were based on the same facts and incidents raised in the charge; plaintiff's discrimination and retaliation claims were barred and subject to dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to the election of remedies doctrine set forth in N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9). James v Countrywide Fin. Corp., 849 F. Supp. 2d 296, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12838 (E.D.N.Y. 2012).

20. —Election between administrative and judicial remedies

Executive Law § 297 gives individuals a choice. They can either elect to sue in court and recover in damages which they can establish, including mental anguish, or they can elect to seek administrative relief under the Human Rights Law. Whether they elect to seek this latter relief, complainants may obtain directives and orders which will benefit both themselves and others in their position but they limit their recovery for damages to actual out-of-pocket expenses. State Div. of Human Rights v Luppino, 35 A.D.2d 107, 313 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3948 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), aff'd, 29 N.Y.2d 558, 324 N.Y.S.2d 298, 272 N.E.2d 885, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. 1971).

Executive Law § 297 gives individuals a choice. They can either elect to sue in court and recover in damages which they can establish, including mental anguish, or they can elect to seek administrative relief under the Human Rights Law. Whether they elect to seek this latter relief, complainants may obtain directives and orders which will benefit both themselves and others in their position but they limit their recovery for damages to actual out-of-pocket expenses. State Div. of Human Rights v Luppino, 35 A.D.2d 107, 313 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3948 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), aff'd, 29 N.Y.2d 558, 324 N.Y.S.2d 298, 272 N.E.2d 885, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. 1971).

Person aggrieved by alleged unlawful discriminatory practice may seek relief in either an appropriate court or by complaint to the State Division of Human Rights, but not both. State Div. of Human Rights v Commissioner of New York State Dep't of Civil Service, 57 A.D.2d 699, 395 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11737 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

While Exec Law § 297 prohibits an aggrieved person from pursuing relief on a single discriminatory grievance in two separate forums, the statute cannot be employed to bar an aggrieved person from maintaining a proceeding before the State Division of Human Rights based upon a discrimination complaint while contemporaneously maintaining an action in the courts based on the alleged breach of an employment contract. Gondola v Center Moriches Union Free School Dist., 80 A.D.2d 600, 436 N.Y.S.2d 42, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10289 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

Court properly dismissed complaint alleging violation of CLS Labor § 194 where plaintiff previously had filed complaint with City Commission on Human Rights alleging sexual discrimination arising out of same facts and circumstances, since filing of administrative complaint constituted election of remedies, barring maintenance of action. Jones v New York City Transit Authority, 166 A.D.2d 293, 562 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12051 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

CLS Exec § 297 sets forth election of remedies provision, and thus plaintiff was barred from bringing cause of action asserting discrimination after he filed claim with Division of Human Rights. Scopelliti v Town of New Castle, 210 A.D.2d 308, 620 N.Y.S.2d 405, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12598 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Plaintiff was barred from commencing action in state court for alleged discriminatory practices where she had elected to file complaint with Division of Human Rights based on same conduct. Ehrlich v Kantor, 213 A.D.2d 447, 624 N.Y.S.2d 888, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2709 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Former employer was entitled to summary judgment dismissing racial discrimination action where action was based on same issues charged in complaint brought before Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which referred matter to Division of Human Rights. McCain v Eaton Corp., 213 A.D.2d 462, 623 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2721 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 801, 644 N.Y.S.2d 688, 667 N.E.2d 338, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1062 (N.Y. 1996).

Claimant could not avoid jurisdictional bar under CLS Exec § 297(9) by merely adding additional elements of damage arising out of same underlying conduct, by changing his legal theory, or couching his claim in such vague and conclusory terms as to thwart comparison of administrative and legal proceedings; further, given that administrative complaints of discrimination were dismissed due to absence of probable cause, and not "on the grounds of administrative convenience" (CLS Exec § 297(9)), failure to conduct hearing was irrelevant. Bhagalia v State, 228 A.D.2d 882, 644 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7256 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Administrative convenience dismissal of complaint with State Division of Human Rights alleging discriminatory discharge from employment on bases of race and physical disability was arbitrary where there was nothing in record to suggest that complainant intended to pursue his federal remedy before filing his administrative complaint or that he filed such complaint as prerequisite to commencing federal action, fact that over one year elapsed between filing of administrative complaint and commencement of federal action indicated that complainant initially intended to elect administrative remedy, and thus dismissal violated CLS Exec § 297(9) and CLS Div Hum Rts R § 465.5(e)(2) (9 NYCRR § 465.5(e)(2)). Wegmans Food Mkts. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 245 A.D.2d 685, 664 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12602 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Dismissal of complaint by Division of Human Rights on ground of administrative convenience (ACD) was arbitrary, in contravention of CLS Exec § 297(9) and 9 NYCRR § 465.5(e)(2)(vi), where complainant filed administrative complaint with Division and thereafter sought ACD from Division in order to commence action in state court, and, before Division granted ACD, complainant commenced action in state Supreme Court. Legg v Eastman Kodak Co., 248 A.D.2d 936, 670 N.Y.S.2d 291, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2969 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Statute providing that person filing complaint with Division of Human Rights is precluded from also commencing action in court on claim of sex discrimination and that person commencing court action is precluded from filing complaint with Human Rights Division was intended to permit mandatory choice of seeking all such damages in court as could be established, including mental anguish, or of seeking administrative directives and orders which would benefit both themselves and others similarly situated, limiting recovery of damages to out-of-pocket expenses. Allison v Board of Education, 70 Misc. 2d 215, 333 N.Y.S.2d 261, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1896 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

Under statutes giving individual claiming unlawful discrimination in employment remedy of pursuing grievance in court and remedy of filing complaint with division of human rights, the two remedies are mutually exclusive, so that, except in the situation where a complaint filed with the division of human rights has been dismissed for administrative convenience, where one remedy has been pursued, the other is not available. Kramarsky v

New York Police Dep't, 90 Misc. 2d 733, 395 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2142 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Since a lodge of a benevolent order was not a place of public accommodation, New York's Division of Human Rights could dismiss a woman's challenge to the denial of her application to join the lodge for lack of jurisdiction; however, it was arbitrary and capricious for the Division to have indicated in its dismissal that it was dismissing her action on the merits, because this deprived her of the opportunity to annul her election of remedies and pursue relief through a court action. Orendorff v B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 96, 195 Misc. 2d 53, 753 N.Y.S.2d 703, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 40 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003).

Under CLS Exec § 297, once plaintiff has commenced administrative proceeding, he cannot bring court action while proceeding is ongoing. Promisel v First Am. Artificial Flowers, 943 F.2d 251, 1991 U.S. App. LEXIS 20793 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1991), cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1060, 112 S. Ct. 939, 117 L. Ed. 2d 110, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 539 (U.S. 1992).

Former employee's election to seek redress of his race discrimination claims before New York State Division of Human Rights, prior to seeking redress in court, deprived federal district court of subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to CLS Exec § 297(9). Moodie v Federal Reserve Bank, 58 F.3d 879, 1995 U.S. App. LEXIS 16414 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1995).

Attorney's attempt to bring a discrimination claim pursuant to the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 290 et seq., in federal court was barred because the attorney had elected to initially pursue her claim with the New York State Department of Human Rights, and the election-of-remedies provisions applied to federal courts as well as state courts. York v Ass'n of the Bar, 286 F.3d 122, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 5947 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 537 U.S. 1089, 123 S. Ct. 702, 154 L. Ed. 2d 633, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 9280 (U.S. 2002).

Executive Law § 297(9) requires that aggrieved party elect between administrative and judicial remedies; thus, plaintiff who seeks to redress his involuntary termination from his employment at state agency, is precluded from bringing action in any court on claim he alleges under New York Human Rights Law unless complaint before New York State Division of Human Rights is terminated without prejudice. Rio v Presbyterian Hospital in New York, 561 F. Supp. 325, 1983 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18031 (S.D.N.Y. 1983).

Former assistant vice-president and loan officer of bank is barred by doctrine of election of remedies from bringing action under CLS Exec L § 296(1)(a) for age discrimination, where claim was also filed with appropriate state agency, which rejected it. Moylan v National Westminster Bank, 687 F. Supp. 54, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5130 (E.D.N.Y. 1988).

Employment discrimination plaintiff's state claims under state human rights law are barred by CLS Exec Law § 297(9), where plaintiff filed pro se complaint with state division of human rights (DHR), which found no probable cause for his discrimination claims, because filing with DHR constituted binding election of administrative remedy foreclosing access to state courts. Stout v International Business Machs. Corp., 798 F. Supp. 998, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10600 (S.D.N.Y. 1992).

Discharged stock manager may replead his claim under New York Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Law §§ 290 et seq.), where he simply alleges that Human Rights Commission terminated its investigation for administrative convenience when it turned his claim over to EEOC investigator, because law requires that state administrative agency issue very specific order before manager can be released from initial choice of administrative, as opposed to judicial, forum for his sex/age discrimination claim. Agugliaro v Brooks Bros., 802 F. Supp. 956, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11261 (S.D.N.Y. 1992).

Former employee's discrimination claims against former employer are dismissed, where employee elected to pursue administrative remedies by filing complaint with state Division of Human Rights (DHR) and then requested that DHR dismiss her claim for administrative convenience, because dismissals for administrative convenience should be limited to cases where dismissal is truly for convenience of agency rather than due to change of litigation strategy by complainant. Chachra v Katharine Gibbs Sch., Inc., 828 F. Supp. 176, 1993 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11296 (E.D.N.Y. 1993).

In former employee's discrimination action against former employer, employee may not amend complaint to add claim under CLS Executive Law, where employee elected administrative forum in which to pursue this claim prior to July 15, 1991, because, under CLS Exec Law § 297(9), this election precludes later court action on same claim. Clements v St. Vincent's Hosp. & Med. Ctr., 919 F. Supp. 161, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3535 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

Age discrimination claim under Human Rights Law and city anti-discrimination provisions is not barred by election of remedies provision in CLS Exec § 297(7) and NYC Admin Code § 8-502, where case is closed for administrative convenience. Miles v North Gen. Hosp., 998 F. Supp. 377, 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3979 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

Under Exec § 297(1), employee's filing of Human Rights Law claims directly with state Division of Human Rights prior to commencing discrimination action under state law barred employee's action, where proceedings were not terminated for administrative convenience. Woodcock v Montefiore Med. Ctr. the Univ. Hosp. of the Albert Einstein College of Med., Comprehensive Family Care Ctr., 48 F. Supp. 2d 231, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5710 (E.D.N.Y. 1999).

If a litigant brings a discrimination complaint before the New York State Division of Human Rights (SDHR), she may not bring a subsequent judicial action under the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, based on the same incident, unless the SDHR dismissed the complaint for administrative convenience. After the SDHR decides the claim, a litigant may only appeal that decision to the Supreme Court of the State of New York. Gad-Tadros v Bessemer Venture Partners, 326 F. Supp. 2d 417, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14165 (E.D.N.Y. 2004).

Former employee was permitted to bring suit against defendants under the the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, after having filed a complaint with the New York State Division of Human Rights (SDHR), because the SDHR dismissed her complaint on the basis of administrative convenience. Gad-Tadros v Bessemer Venture Partners, 326 F. Supp. 2d 417, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14165 (E.D.N.Y. 2004).

Plaintiff employee's New York State Human Rights Law claims were barred by the election-of-remedies provision under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9); the employee had filed a charge with the New York State Division of Human Rights (NYSDHR), setting forth the same issues as she alleged in her complaint before the court, and the NYSDHR had issued a no probable cause determination. Benson v N. Shore-Long Island Jewish Health Sys., 482 F. Supp. 2d 320, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 28524 (E.D.N.Y. 2007).

Detective's claim that a village's sick leave policy was enforced in a discriminatory manner on the basis of gender, race, and disability in violation of the New York Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296, was barred by the election of remedies provision of N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9) because the detective had filed a discrimination complaint with the New York State Division of Human Rights and the detective's present claims of gender, race, and disability discrimination arose out of the same incident forming the basis of her claim before the Division even though the administrative complaint alleged only discrimination on the basis of creed. Borum v Village of Hempstead, 590 F. Supp. 2d 376, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 103891 (E.D.N.Y. 2008).

Election of remedies provisions in N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 297(9) and 300 did not bar a former employee, who had previously filed a complaint with the New York Division of Human Rights (DHR), from asserting breach of contract claims against her former employer because there was an insufficient identity of issues raised in the DHR complaint and the instant action. The federal lawsuit required consideration of whether the employer breached the terms of a collective bargaining agreement by failing to provide written, specific reasons for the employee's suspension and whether there was sufficient cause for her termination, whereas the employee's DHR complaint asked whether the employer engaged in unlawful discrimination and harassment in violation of the New York Human Rights Law. Gorenflo v Penske Logistics, 592 F. Supp. 2d 300, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1032 (N.D.N.Y. 2009).

21. — —Where administrative claim is referred to state or to another administrative agency

Where Commissioner of Division of Human Rights was agency's general counsel at time charges were investigated and set down for hearing, she could not, having subsequently been named commissioner, act as impartial arbiter in same matter, notwithstanding that she was no longer general counsel at time of hearing. State Div. of Human Rights v Dorik's Au Natural Restaurant, 203 A.D.2d 163, 610 N.Y.S.2d 266, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4123 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Employee was not barred by CLS Exec § 297 from bringing employment discrimination suit in state court on grounds that referral of her complaint from Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) to New York State Division of Human Rights constituted election of remedies; statute limited class of persons who could not pursue their rights in state court to those aggrieved persons who had themselves filed complaint with Division of Human Rights, and since EEOC referred complaint to agency on behalf of employee, employee was not prohibited from commencing state court action involving same claim. Scott v Carter-Wallace, Inc., 134 Misc. 2d 458, 511 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3119 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986), dismissed, in part, 137 Misc. 2d 672, 521 N.Y.S.2d 614, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2698 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1987).

Claim by disabled person that hospital discriminated against him on basis of his disability in violation of CLS Exec L § 296 must be dismissed under doctrine of election of remedies, where claim was addressed and decided by Division of Human Rights and matter was not dismissed for administrative convenience so as to provide exception under § 297(9). Leake v Long Island Jewish Medical Center, 695 F. Supp. 1414, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8361 (E.D.N.Y. 1988), aff'd, 869 F.2d 130, 1989 U.S. App. LEXIS 2447 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1989).

Pendent jurisdiction will not be exercised over state-law claims, where employee brought federal and state claims involving age discrimination, but it is unclear whether cause of action exists pursuant to CLS Exec Law § 297 in that employee's EEOC claim was referred to state agency, thereby comprising election of remedies barring a claim in state courts, because state claim presents unsettled issues of state law such that comity counsels leaving the decision to state courts. Dapelo v Banco Nacional De Mexico, 767 F. Supp. 49, 1991 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8262 (S.D.N.Y. 1991).

"Journey person" electrician's claims under CLS Exec Law § 296 may proceed to trial, where she claims employer subjected her to unequal treatment due to her sex and her pregnancy, even though she did file charge with EEOC which was automatically referred to state division of human rights which would ordinarily constitute election of administrative remedy barring action in state court under CLS Exec Law § 297(9), because administrative complaint was withdrawn by plaintiff, eliminating barrier to court action under Second Circuit precedent. Kelber v Forest Elec. Corp., 799 F. Supp. 326, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9977 (S.D.N.Y. 1992).

22. — —Where state claim contains additional charge

Discharged employee of corrections department was precluded from maintaining Article 78 proceeding by election of remedies provision of CLS Exec § 297 since he had previously filed complaint with Division of Human Rights based on same incident, allegations in his Article 78 petition were virtually identical with those in complaint, and although his petition added charge under CLS CPLR § 7803, its essential thrust was same as that contained in complaint. James v Coughlin, 124 A.D.2d 728, 508 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62032 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 609, 516 N.Y.S.2d 1025, 509 N.E.2d 360, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16420 (N.Y. 1987).

Court properly denied leave to amend complaint (for third time) to allege that defendant religious institution had discriminated against 3-year-old disabled child in violation of CLS Exec § 296(4) by expelling child from nursery school where plaintiff's own letters and pleadings revealed that his son frequently ran out of nursery school classroom for no apparent reason, that school had legitimate reason, implemented as school policy, for classroom door to remain open, and that plaintiff himself had voluntarily removed his son from nursery school after school refused to change its policy. Posner v Central Synagogue, 202 A.D.2d 284, 609 N.Y.S.2d 195, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2501 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 83 N.Y.2d 953, 615 N.Y.S.2d 878, 639 N.E.2d 419, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 1385 (N.Y. 1994).

Complaint alleging that discharge of plaintiff violated federal Rehabilitation Act and New York State Human Rights Law was not precluded by fact that plaintiff's employment application and application for promotion had omitted reference to 2 prior employers by whom he had been employed, since there was no evidence that plaintiff would have been discharged had those omissions been discovered while he was employed. Jones v Associated Univs., 870 F. Supp. 1180, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17920 (E.D.N.Y. 1994), aff'd, 71 F.3d 406, 1995 U.S. App. LEXIS 33395 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1995).

23. — —Third-party filing

Jury's finding that employer had discharged employee in retaliation for her sexual harassment complaint was not against weight of evidence, despite employer's contention that decision to terminate employee was made before she advised employer of her complaint and that decision was based on employee's poor job performance, where (1) employee received regular and intermittent raises, was scheduled to receive another raise after date of her complaint, and had never had poor job review, and (2) she was fired shortly after submitting her sexual harassment complaint to employer. Gleason v Callanan Indus., 203 A.D.2d 750, 610 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4163 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Determination by Commissioner of Division of Human Rights that employer did not unlawfully discriminate against employee on basis of her pregnancy was supported by evidence that employee misrepresented her hours on time card, that she refused to assist her coworkers in answering telephones, and that she kept irregular work hours. Resnik v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 204 A.D.2d 330, 611 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4511 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Cooperative corporation was entitled to summary judgment in action alleging discriminatory rejection of plaintiff's application to become shareholder where (1) it was undisputed that plaintiff's financial worth statement was overstated and that she altered letter of submission with intention of allowing her brother to stay overnight when she was not in apartment, which violated rules of cooperative, (2) cooperative cited those incidents as basis of disapproval, and (3) plaintiff's hearsay assertion—that real estate broker told her that cooperative discouraged elderly people from buying apartments because they were great burden to service staff—was unsupported by tally of number of elderly residents in building. Hitter v Rubin, 208 A.D.2d 480, 617 N.Y.S.2d 730, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10553 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

CLS Exec § 297 does not bar cause of action based upon state human rights laws on grounds of election of remedy where plaintiff himself does not file with the agency, but third party, such as EEOC, files on his behalf. Kaczor v Buffalo, 657 F. Supp. 441, 1987 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3346 (W.D.N.Y. 1987).

Former employee's state-law age discrimination action must be dismissed, even though attorney, not employee, filed administrative charge, because attorney's filing of administrative charge on behalf of his client operates as election of remedies under NYCLS Elec Law § 297(9), precluding judicial forum. Bouker v Cigna Corp., 847 F. Supp. 337, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2920 (E.D. Pa. 1994).

III. Time Limitations

24. In general

State Division of Human Rights was not authorized to dismiss, "for administrative convenience," age discrimination complaint which was time-barred by CLS Exec § 297(5), and thus subsequent judicial proceeding could not be brought under more generous limitation period of CLS CPLR § 214(2), since dismissal would contravene one-year time limitation of CLS Exec § 297(5) and election of remedies requirement of CLS Exec § 297(9). Marine Midland Bank, N. A. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 75 N.Y.2d 240, 552 N.Y.S.2d 65, 551 N.E.2d 558, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4454 (N.Y. 1989).

Where relatively minor delays occur, statutory time limitations of Executive Law governing proceedings before State Division of Human Rights are directory rather than mandatory and noncompliance by Division is not cause for invalidating its proceedings or terminating its jurisdiction; however, protracted administrative delays in implementation of provisions of human rights law will constitute, as matter of law, prejudice to named proceeding respondents, warranting exercise of equitable powers of judiciary to divest Division of jurisdiction conferred by human rights law. Protracted administrative delays in implementation of provisions of human rights law, arising by virtue of seven-month delinquency in determination by State Division of Human Rights of jurisdiction and probable cause, nine-month delinquency in giving of notice, eight-month delinquency in holding of public hearing, 87-day delinquency in issuance of Division's determination, and delay in notifying parties of appeal board's decision, resulting in expiration of period in excess of three years from date of filing of complaint until date of serving of decision and order of appeal board, constituted, as matter of law, prejudice to named proceeding respondents, warranting exercise of equitable powers of judiciary to divest Division of jurisdiction conferred by human rights law. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bailey v Board of Education, 53 A.D.2d 1043, 386 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15855 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 862, 397 N.Y.S.2d 791, 366 N.E.2d 878, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2186 (N.Y. 1977).

Where the State Division of Human Rights had a meritorious defense to a proceeding for a judgment prohibiting it from proceeding on a complaint because of its alleged unreasonable delay, and it moved promptly to vacate a default judgment entered against it in that proceeding, its default should be excused in the interest of justice so that the complainant may be permitted to pursue her charge of unlawful discrimination. Tessy Plastics Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 62 A.D.2d 36, 403 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10415 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978), aff'd, 47 N.Y.2d 789, 417 N.Y.S.2d 926, 391 N.E.2d 1007, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2058 (N.Y. 1979).

Following a determination of the State Division of Human Rights after a hearing, that complainant, a psychologist who had applied for admission to the New York Psychoanalytic Institute and who was otherwise eminently qualified for admission, had been denied admission in violation of the Human Rights Law on the ground that she suffered from Hodgkin's disease, it was error, upon administrative appeal by the institute which has standing to appeal pursuant to section 297-a (subd 6, par c) of the Executive Law, which empowers the Appeal Board to hear appeals "by any party to any proceeding before the division", for the State Human Rights Appeal Board, without reaching the merits, to annul the division's order and dismiss the complaint on the ground that the division had unreasonably exceeded the statutory time limit, in violation of section 297 (subd 4, pars a, c) of the Executive Law, since the extended time limits provided by section 297 are directory, not mandatory, and absent a showing of substantial prejudice or such egregious delay as will constitute prejudice as a matter of law, delay attributable solely to the administrative agency should not operate to foreclose relief to an innocent complainant who is not responsible for it; there is no claim or evidence of actual prejudice to the institute as a result of delay and there is no claim of undue delay caused by petitioner. Accordingly, since the Appeal Board is limited upon review to the power of a court reviewing an administrative determination made after hearing (Executive Law, § 297-a, subd 7), the order of the Appeal Board is annulled and the order of the Division of Human Rights is confirmed, inasmuch as the record is sufficiently detailed to afford a reasonable basis for the administrative determination, despite the deliberate default by the institute at the hearing. Goldsmith v New York Psychoanalytic Institute, 73 A.D.2d 16, 425 N.Y.S.2d 561, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9711 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1980).

An action on behalf of women bus drivers alleging that transit authority's use of seniority as a factor to be considered in making provisional and permanent appointments of bus operators to the position of surface line dispatcher would be dismissed as time barred, where the complaint was premised upon the transit authority's prior practice of effectively precluding women from filling bus operator positions until 1978 by virtue of a five-foot four-inches height requirement, and where it did not allege any present impropriety. People v New York City Transit Authority, 90 A.D.2d 766, 455 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18975 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982), modified, 59 N.Y.2d 343, 465 N.Y.S.2d 502, 452 N.E.2d 316, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3174 (N.Y. 1983).

The Appellate Division would not invalidate proceedings or divest the New York State Division of Human Rights of jurisdiction, although the period from the filing of the complaint until the final resolution by the State Human Rights Appeal Board was over five years, in the absence of a showing by petitioner, who had been found guilty of discrimination on the basis of sex, that it had been substantially prejudiced by the delay. County of Nassau v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 96 A.D.2d 818, 465 N.Y.S.2d 566, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19405 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

An action commenced in 1982 predicated upon the Human Rights Law (Executive Law § 290 et seq.) which alleged that plaintiff was refused any opportunity to be considered for employment as a specific trust officer until she was eventually promoted to that position in 1976, that she was placed in lower ranking and lower paying job titles as similarly or less qualified men during the period of 1974 through 1975, that she was denied promotions because of more stringent standards apply to her because of her sex, which promotions occurred more than three years prior to the commencement of the action, and that defendant gave female employees less frequent and smallest salary increases than male employees who were hired in or around 1974, was time barred by the three year statute of limitations applicable to court actions under the Human Rights Law and, although the impact of such alleged wrongs may have had a lasting effect, said discrimination claims were not continuing wrongs which result in the tolling of the statute of limitations. Patrowich v Chemical Bank, 98 A.D.2d 318, 470 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16482 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 801 (N.Y. 1984), aff'd, 63 N.Y.2d 541, 483 N.Y.S.2d 659, 473 N.E.2d 11, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4717 (N.Y. 1984).

Time limits set forth in CLS Exec § 297 were enacted for benefit of complainants, not those charged with violating statute, and in absence of substantial prejudice to party charged, delay attributable solely to administrative agency should not operate to foreclose relief to innocent complainant who is not responsible for it. Ambrosio v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 662, 535 N.Y.S.2d 381, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12444 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Allegations that individual defendant made both physical and verbal sexual advances toward plaintiff that were unwelcome and repelled, that she was told her job evaluation was tied to her willingness to accept advances, and that she was forced to resign because corporate defendant did not provide vehicle of redress stated action for both hostile environment and quid pro quo sexual harassment under Human Rights Law; those same allegations also showed discriminatory conduct within limitations period sufficiently similar to alleged conduct without limitations period to justify conclusion that both were part of single discriminatory practice, and thus plaintiff's claim was timely in its entirety under continuing violation doctrine. Walsh v Covenant House, 244 A.D.2d 214, 664 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11535 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Plaintiffs' due process rights were not violated by failure of Human Rights Division to comply with time limits under CLS Exec § 297, where division delayed in hearing their complaints of housing discrimination, but they still either had complaints pending with division or had settled their cases and thus their complaints were not extinguished due to delay. Housing Opportunities Made Equal, Inc. v Pataki, 277 A.D.2d 888, 716 N.Y.S.2d 215, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11352 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 712, 729 N.Y.S.2d 439, 754 N.E.2d 199, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1062 (N.Y. 2001).

Claims relating to defendants' alleged discriminatory conduct preceding plaintiff's 15-month medical leave of absence were barred by time requirements for filing of notice of claim and complaint with Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; continuing violations exception was inapplicable since plaintiff's leave of absence, which was voluntary and thus could not be considered discrimination, interrupted alleged pattern of discrimination. Sirota v N.Y. City Bd. of Educ., 283 A.D.2d 369, 725 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6583 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Human rights division (HRD) was not entitled to an extension of time to serve a summons and complaint under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 306-b as: (1) a tenant had been sued by the landlords before she filed her administrative complaint, and her initial defense was that the landlords consented to her having a dog, (2) the tenant's request to later add a defense that the dog was an emotional support animal was denied, (3) the tenant then filed the administrative complaint and settled a holdover action by agreeing to remove the dog, (4) the HRD waited two years to file a summons and complaint after the landlords elected under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9) to have it file suit, (5) the HRD attempted service only on the landlords' attorneys in the administrative proceeding, (6) after the statute of limitations under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 214(2) had expired, the HRD moved for a default judgment and virtually conceded in responding to the landlords' motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction that service was improper, and (7) over four years had passed since the landlords' alleged discriminatory act, and the tenant no longer lived in the building. New York State Div. of Human Rights v Giffuni, 40 A.D.3d 361, 836 N.Y.S.2d 125, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6009 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

Prohibition does not lie to prevent the Division of Human Rights from holding a hearing to determine whether a school district had kept a teacher from substitute teaching in retaliation for an earlier complaint although the school district was notified more than three years too late under the statutory requirements of charges and a hearing (Executive Law, § 297); the remedy for asserted error of law in jurisdiction or authority lies first in administrative review and after exhaustion of that remedy in judicial review; a court may not prohibit proceedings before the division no matter how long the delay or how substantial the prejudice. Board of Education v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 99 Misc. 2d 643, 420 N.Y.S.2d 648, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2308 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979), aff'd, 74 A.D.2d 987, 426 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10804 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1980).

Three-month notice of claim requirements of CLS Educ § 3813(1) did not apply to action alleging that school district's denial of health insurance benefits to plaintiff's domestic partner constituted discrimination on basis of marital status and sexual orientation since action sought relief which would benefit plaintiff and teachers similarly situated. Funderburke v Uniondale Union Free Sch. Dist. No. 15, 172 Misc. 2d 963, 660 N.Y.S.2d 659, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 260 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 251 A.D.2d 622, 676 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7881 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Employee's N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceeding was dismissed because, inter alia, the administrative law judge (ALJ) noted that all the incidents cited by the employee in support of her hostile working environmental claim occurred well over a year before she filed her complaint and were thus time-barred. Matter of Price v Southwest Airlines, Inc., 66 A.D.3d 1267, 888 N.Y.S.2d 255, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7618 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

25. Time limitations as directory not mandatory

The statutory provision for speedy processing of complaints, providing for determination within 15 days that it had jurisdiction and there was probable cause, is to be regarded as merely directory and not as a limitation on the agency's authority. Glen Cove Municipal Civil Service Com. v Glen Cove NAACP, 34 A.D.2d 956, 312 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4640 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, (N.Y. App. Div. 1970).

Although the time provisions of Executive Law § 297, subd 4(a), (c) are directory and not mandatory, such interpretation of statute does not permit the Division of Human Rights to ignore completely the specific statutory provisions for timely action. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Salamy v Rinas, 42 A.D.2d 388, 348 N.Y.S.2d 422, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Time provisions of Executive Law, relating to when Division of Human Rights must hold hearing and make final determination, are directory, not mandatory. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Hale v Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 46 A.D.2d 1001, 362 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3385 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Time schedules enjoined upon Division of Human Rights by law are directory and not for benefit of violators. Guardian Capital Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 753, 368 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9834 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 37 N.Y.2d 712, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2959 (N.Y. 1975).

Limitations set forth in Executive Law for handling of discrimination complaints by State Division of Human Rights are directory rather than mandatory, but in view of very egregious violations resulting in consumption of four years and two months for resolution of complaint, Division's proceedings were invalidated and its jurisdiction terminated. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 59 A.D.2d 1048, 399 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14335 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Where the Division of Human Rights did not make a finding as to jurisdiction and probable cause until seven months after the filing of a complaint and did not issue a notice of charges and hearing until nine months after the filing of the complaint, although section 297 of the Executive Law, as it then existed, prior to 1977 amendments (see L 1977, ch 729), required it to make a finding as to jurisdiction and probable cause within 15 days of the filing of the complaint and to issue the notice of charges and hearing within 60 days of the filing of the complaint, but no actual substantial prejudice was suffered by the party charged, dismissal of the division's proceedings because of the delay is not warranted. The time limitations set forth in section 297 of the Executive Law for, inter alia, the making of a finding as to jurisdiction and probable cause by the Division of Human Rights and for its issuance of a notice of charges and hearing, are directory and not mandatory, and were enacted for the benefit of the complainants, not those charged with violating the statute; in the absence of substantial prejudice to the party charged, delay attributable solely to the division, if not egregious, should not operate to foreclose relief to an innocent complainant. Tessy Plastics Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 62 A.D.2d 36, 403 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10415 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978), aff'd, 47 N.Y.2d 789, 417 N.Y.S.2d 926, 391 N.E.2d 1007, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2058 (N.Y. 1979).

A delay in excess of seven years, between the time of filing of a complaint before the State Division of Human Rights and the time a determination was made, caused prejudice to the respondent employer as a matter of law and would warrant dismissal of the complaint. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Schilagi v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 86 A.D.2d 977, 448 N.Y.S.2d 331, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15683 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

The complaint charging an employer with the unlawful discriminatory denial of pregnancy-related disability benefits, which complaint was filed three months after the cessation by the employer of enforcing the alleged discriminatory policy and 21 months after the end of the pregnancy-related disability, would be considered timely filed under Exec L § 297(5) since, when a discriminatory practice is one of a "continuing nature," the date of its occurrence is deemed to be any date subsequent to its inception up to the date of its cessation, and in assessing whether a discriminatory practice is of such a nature, the determining factor is whether the discriminatory practice had a continuing impact on the complainant; in the instant case the employer's ongoing policy of denying such disability claims had an impact on the petition until the date of the cessation, at which point the one-year limitations period began to run; it is the cessation of the impact of the discriminatory practice and not the cessation of the disability which triggers the one-year period. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. McClary v Marine Midland Bank, 87 A.D.2d 982, 450 N.Y.S.2d 109, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16519 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

The time schedules specified in Exec Law § 297 for the performance of certain acts on the part of the Division of Human Rights are directory rather than mandatory, and the mere passage of time normally will not constitute substantial prejudice to a respondent in a discrimination proceeding in the absence of some showing of actual injury to the respondent. Totem Taxi, Inc. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 98 A.D.2d 923, 471 N.Y.S.2d 358, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21244 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983), rev'd, 65 N.Y.2d 300, 491 N.Y.S.2d 293, 480 N.E.2d 1075, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15079 (N.Y. 1985).

Failure of division to conduct investigation within time limits prescribed by law does not support complainant's request for further investigation or public hearing since time limits are directory rather than mandatory. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Clifford v Oneida, Ltd., 112 A.D.2d 793, 492 N.Y.S.2d 293, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56039 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Determination of Division of Human Rights, which held that employer had discriminated against employee because of her sex by denying her pregnancy-related disability benefits, would be confirmed in proceeding pursuant to CLS Exec § 298, even though there had been substantial delay in proceedings, since time limitations enunciated in CLS Exec § 297 are directory, rather than mandatory, and are for benefit of complainants rather than violators, and since commissioner legitimately found that correspondence between division and employee's attorney reflected desire of attorney to stay proceedings pending resolution of employee's workers' compensation claim, rather than withdrawal of claim. Art Leather Mfg. Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 406, 533 N.Y.S.2d 1018, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11795 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Where sole evidence of mental anguish was complainant's own testimony that she was "[e]motionally and physically screwed up", award of $35,000 for mental anguish is grossly excessive and new award should not exceed $5,000–award of back pay from complainant's discharge in February 1985 until her reinstatement by petitioner constitutes punitive assessment against petitioner rather than compensation; complainant obtained new employment at same pay in July 1985; Division of Human Rights may not award what would amount to punitive damages solely on finding that unlawful discrimination occurred; award of back pay must be reduced to cover only period that complainant was out of work as result of her unlawful discharge; however, Division did not abuse its discretion in ordering petitioner to reinstate complainant–three-year period between filing of complaint and issuance of Division's determination did not operate to divest Division of jurisdiction; absent showing of substantial prejudice, time limitations enunciated in Executive Law § 297 are directory and not mandatory. Cosmos Forms, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 150 A.D.2d 442, 541 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Three-year period between filing of employment discrimination complaint and issuance of determination by Division of Human Rights did not operate to divest division of jurisdiction since, absent showing of substantial prejudice, time limitations in CLS Exec § 297 are directory and not mandatory. Cosmos Forms, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 150 A.D.2d 442, 541 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Time limitations in CLS Exec § 297(2)(a) and (4)(a) are directory, not mandatory. Tiffany & Co. v Smith, 224 A.D.2d 332, 638 N.Y.S.2d 454, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1456 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 806, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1723 (N.Y. 1996).

Former employee's 2003 claim against her corporate employer and its owner for sexual harassment by creating a hostile work environment that arose out of six months of employment in 1991 and 1992 was not untimely because the time limits contained in N.Y. Exec. Law § 297 were directory only; in the absence of prejudice, which the owner and employer failed to demonstrate, the time limits did not affect the jurisdiction of the New York Division of Human Rights over the employee's claim. Matter of R & B Autobody & Radiator, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 31 A.D.3d 989, 819 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

The enlarged time periods in section 297 of the Executive Law, as amended, providing that the time frame for the determination of jurisdiction by the State Division of Human Rights be extended from 15 to 180 days and that a notice of public hearing be served within 270 rather than 60 days after the filing of the complaint, are mandatory rather than directory; accordingly, a delay by the division of 462 days in determining jurisdiction following the filing of a complaint and of 766 days before the issuance of a notice of public hearing requires the dismissal of the complaint. General Railway Signal Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 95 Misc. 2d 260, 407 N.Y.S.2d 417, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2413 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), rev'd, 73 A.D.2d 834, 423 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14722 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1979).

Plaintiffs were entitled to mandatory injunction, enjoining Division of Human Rights to immediately schedule hearings and determine merit of housing discrimination complaints which had been pending for many years, where they demonstrated substantial likelihood of success on merits of their claim that they were denied due process due to division's failure to render prompt determination. Housing Opportunities Made Equal, Inc. v Pataki, 180 Misc. 2d 778, 693 N.Y.S.2d 795, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 699 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

26. Time for determining jurisdiction and probable cause

Even though time limitations contained in Executive Law § 297, subd 4(a), (c) are directive and not mandatory, valid complaint for discriminatory housing practices was dismissed where delay of 5 months, 16 months, and 3 years respectively in hearing of complaint by division, in making determination and order by division, and in appeal board's affirmance of division's order, were unconscionable and so flagrant as to be prejudicial in law to respondent. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Salamy v Rinas, 42 A.D.2d 388, 348 N.Y.S.2d 422, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Requirement of Executive Law § 297, subd 4(a), that Division of Human Rights serve notice fixing date of hearing within 60 days after complaint is filed is directory, rather than mandatory, and noncompliance with such requirement did not divest Division of jurisdiction. 121-129 Broadway Realty, Inc. v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 43 A.D.2d 754, 349 N.Y.S.2d 1003, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2965 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

Complaints alleging sex discriminations in employment were not subject to being dismissed because the State Division of Human Rights failed to comply with 60-day provision contained in the Executive Law with respect to serving notice as to answer and hearing after receiving complaints. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ellis v Jamestown Tel. Corp., 53 A.D.2d 1061, 386 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15880 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 848, 397 N.Y.S.2d 630, 366 N.E.2d 290, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1977).

The limitations set forth in section 297 of the Executive Law concerning the timeliness of administrative actions in discrimination proceedings remain directory after amendment by chapter 729 of the Laws of 1977; accordingly, where a complaint, charging an employer with an unlawful discriminatory practice in that it denied complainant employment due to disability, was filed in August, 1975, public hearings were held on such charges in May of 1976, December of 1976 and May, 1977 and a determination was made thereon by the State Division of Human Rights in July, 1978, but the record discloses no substantial prejudice to the respondent employer resulting from said delay, the State Human Rights Appeal Board erred in reversing the division's order that complainant be hired with back pay and in dismissing the complaint on the ground that the administrative delay constituted prejudice as a matter of law. Gamble v Adirondack Steel Casting Co., 71 A.D.2d 165, 422 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13245 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1979), app. denied, 50 N.Y.2d 801, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2947 (N.Y. 1980).

A motion to prohibit a public hearing before the State Division of Human Rights for failure to serve notice of hearing within 60 days of the filing of the complaint was denied as Article 15 of the Executive Law delineates the way complaints to the Division shall be handled, how they shall be heard, to whom they shall be appealed and by which court the appeal shall be reviewed and when the Division determined that it has the jurisdiction to act, prohibition should not intrude into the statutory procedure. McMillan Book Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 64 Misc. 2d 692, 315 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1162 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1970).

27. Time for serving notice and holding hearing

Where commissioner of human right's order was not issued until 160 days after hearings before trial examiner and decision on appeal from that order was not handed down for more than a year, actions by commissioner and board of appeals were not timely and would be vacated. Hillside Housing Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 44 A.D.2d 539, 353 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5445 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Time provisions of Executive Law, relating to when Division of Human Rights must hold hearing and make final determination, are directory, not mandatory. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Hale v Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 46 A.D.2d 1001, 362 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3385 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Dismissal of complaint filed with Division of Human Rights by complainant, whose unlawful discriminatory discharge of employment due to his age was demonstrated by substantial evidence, on ground that the Division did not hold hearing or make final determination within time periods provided under Executive Law would be repugnant to purposes of the Executive Law. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Hale v Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 46 A.D.2d 1001, 362 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3385 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Statutory time limits for division to render determination are directory and not mandatory and there is no remedy where petitioner fails to show that delay resulted in substantial prejudice. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Spencer v Syracuse University School of Nursing, 112 A.D.2d 709, 492 N.Y.S.2d 197, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56218 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Although time schedules set forth in CLS Exec § 297 are directory only, and noncompliance with them does not operate to oust State Division of Human Rights of jurisdiction absent some showing of substantial prejudice, unexplained 8 ½ -year delay between filing of complaint in proceeding under CLS Exec § 298 and commissioner's final determination caused substantial prejudice to employer, requiring annulment of award, since employer was thereby subjected to exposure for 8 ½ -year award of back pay. Corning Glass Works v Ovsanik, 199 A.D.2d 959, 606 N.Y.S.2d 475, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12540 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993), modified, aff'd, 84 N.Y.2d 619, 620 N.Y.S.2d 771, 644 N.E.2d 1327, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4438 (N.Y. 1994).

Physician was not entitled to summary judgment dismissing action for violation of CLS Exec § 296 where (1) plaintiff alleged that she was permitted to register at hospital's high-risk prenatal care clinic based on her physical examination and history, that she consented to AIDS test which proved positive for HIV antibody, and that physician then refused to treat her at clinic, told her she should have abortion, and referred her to another hospital at which she had abortion, and (2) physician failed to establish absence of any triable fact issues. Doe v Jamaica Hosp., 202 A.D.2d 386, 608 N.Y.S.2d 518, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1922 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Defendant was entitled to dismissal of action for age discrimination since plaintiff had signed release whereby she released defendant from any and all causes of action arising from or during her employment, including claims for employment discrimination; plaintiff could not escape impact of release by claiming that she had misinterpreted terms of release. Koster v Ketchum Communications, 204 A.D.2d 280, 611 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4571 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994), app. dismissed, 85 N.Y.2d 857, 639 N.Y.S.2d 782, 662 N.E.2d 1072, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 266 (N.Y. 1995).

Court would annul determination of Commissioner of Human Rights finding that employer engaged in unlawful discrimination where (1) public hearing did not commence until 7 years after complaint was filed, and commissioner's determination was not issued until nearly 4 years later, (2) delay was attributable to Division of Human Rights without explanation, and (3) during delay, employer lost access to 2 individuals who would have been called as witnesses, and it also lost access to documentary evidence that would have been used in its defense. Pepsico, Inc. v Rosa, 213 A.D.2d 550, 624 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4449 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 86 N.Y.2d 837, 634 N.Y.S.2d 445, 658 N.E.2d 223, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3707 (N.Y. 1995), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 442, 658 N.E.2d 220, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3708 (N.Y. 1995).

Eleven-year delay between filing of discrimination complaint and scheduling of hearing by State Division of Human Rights (DHR), although egregious, did not deprive it of jurisdiction, and question of whether there were prejudicial consequences to employer that made fair hearing impossible should be determined in course of administrative proceeding or by subsequent judicial review; however, DHR should be prohibited from amending complaint with additional charges, since agency's power is limited under 9 NYCRR § 465.4(a) to making amendments "reasonably and fairly," and such standard had not been met. Presbyterian Hosp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 319, 659 N.Y.S.2d 283, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7030 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Notice of claim requirements are inapplicable to N.Y. Exec. Law § 297 claims timely filed with the New York Division of Human Rights. Freudenthal v County of Nassau, 99 N.Y.2d 285, 755 N.Y.S.2d 56, 784 N.E.2d 1165, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 139 (N.Y. 2003).

To the extent that Board of Educ. of Union Free School Dist. No. 2, East Williston, Town of North Hempstead v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 44 N.Y.2d 902, 407 N.Y.S.2d 636, 379 N.E.2d 163 (1978), suggests that a petitioner must file a notice of claim prior to pursuing administrative relief from the New York Division of Human Rights, it is not to be followed. Freudenthal v County of Nassau, 99 N.Y.2d 285, 755 N.Y.S.2d 56, 784 N.E.2d 1165, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 139 (N.Y. 2003).

28. Time in which to make final determination

Delay of more than 5 years in resolving discrimination claim against Department of Correctional Services did not warrant dismissal of claim where witnesses were able to testify to relevant events with reasonable certainty, prejudice was not established by replacement of originally-assigned administrative law judge, and there was no indication of "repetitive, purposeless and oppressive" conduct on part of complainant or Human Rights Division. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 658, 627 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6117 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Delay of some 4 years from time of hearing to final determination of Division of Human Rights was not substantially prejudicial as matter of law so as to warrant dismissal of petition. Comor v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 231 A.D.2d 715, 647 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9693 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Delay in a determination by the State Division of Human Rights that found the Department of Corrections (DOC) guilty of an unlawful discriminatory practice was prejudicial and constituted an abuse of discretion because the time that elapsed from the employee's initial complaint until issuance of the final order was more than 18 years, the DOC did not contribute to the delay, and the complaint presented issues that were relatively simple and straightforward. Matter of New York State Dept. of Corr. & Community Supervision v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 137 A.D.3d 1512, 29 N.Y.S.3d 558, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2380 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

29. Time in which to file complaint

Dismissal of a civil action alleging that plaintiff was discharged from his employment because of his age was improper based on the one-year period prescribed in Exec Law § 297(5), where the prescriptive period was intended to apply only to the filing of unlawful discriminatory practice complaints with the Division of Human Rights and not to the institution of a civil action to recover damages for unlawful discriminatory practices under Exec Law § 297(9), which is governed by the three-year limitations period prescribed in CPLR § 214(2). Murphy v American Home Products Corp., 58 N.Y.2d 293, 461 N.Y.S.2d 232, 448 N.E.2d 86, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 2925 (N.Y. 1983)).

Where petitioner was employed by an airline, resigned, was married, and than applied for reinstatement, the time to file the complaint alleging discrimination ran from the refusal to reinstate. Munger v State Div. of Human Rights, 32 A.D.2d 502, 304 N.Y.S.2d 407, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3134 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1969).

Assistant professor's cause of action for discriminatory notice of nonreappointment accrued when she received notice of nonreap-pointment, and limitation period then began to run. McD. v La P., 49 A.D.2d 765, 372 N.Y.S.2d 722 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Where school teacher because of illegal maternity leave policy of school district was required to take maternity leave on June 1, 1972 and not permitted to return to work until October 2, 1972, one-year statute of limitations for teacher's filing of claim for sick pay and back pay commenced when discrimination ceased on October 2 so that her complaint filed on July 24, 1973 was timely. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Mossler v Westmoreland Cent. School Dist., 56 A.D.2d 205, 392 N.Y.S.2d 149, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10047 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In a sex discrimination case in which an elementary school teacher challenged a policy of compelling resignations due to pregnancy, the complaint was untimely filed, where, as required by the regulations of the board of education, she resigned due to pregnancy, was rehired and continued in employment, and did not file a complaint until the board prepared a seniority list for teachers in which it denied credit for her preresignation service. The cause of action arose at the time of her resignation, and not later when its effect may have been felt; the act of compelling maternity resignation was not a continuing act of discrimination. Furthermore, an isolated incident concerning a fellow male teacher who resigned and then was allowed to rescind his resignation and regain his position with no loss of preresignation credit did not by itself support a claim of discrimination. Board of Education v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 82 A.D.2d 883, 440 N.Y.S.2d 308, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14585 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981), rev'd, 56 N.Y.2d 257, 451 N.Y.S.2d 700, 436 N.E.2d 1301, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3357 (N.Y. 1982).

CLS Exec § 297(5) requires complainant to file complaint within one year of alleged discriminatory action, but does not require complainant to serve respondent or necessary party with complaint; rather, statute requires State Division of Human Rights to promptly serve respondent and any necessary party with copy of complaint. Statute of limitations in CLS Exec § 297(5) did not bar joinder of union as necessary party in proceeding alleging religious discrimination by bus company against one of its employees, even though joinder occurred more than one year after alleged discriminatory action, since statute did not require complainant to serve necessary party with complaint, and State Division of Human Rights met its duty to "promptly" serve union with copy of complaint. Ambrosio v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 662, 535 N.Y.S.2d 381, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12444 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Cause of action for sex discrimination accrued on April 25 when board voted to terminate plaintiff, and not on February 5 when plaintiff's supervisor made his final evaluation of plaintiff's work, since (1) extent of plaintiff's damages could not be accurately assessed while assertedly discriminatory acts were still ongoing, and such acts continued for as long as supervisor continued to supervise plaintiff, and (2) impact of alleged discrimination was not ascertainable until plaintiff was terminated. Hoger v Thomann, 189 A.D.2d 1048, 592 N.Y.S.2d 887, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 776 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Proceeding brought by African-American correctional officer under CLS Exec § 298 alleging racial discrimination by his supervisor was timely commenced where he alleged that acts complained of occurred consistently during entire 2-year period during which officer was under supervisor's direct supervision, and officer brought complaint promptly after he was transferred. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 856, 638 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Employee's claims under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 290 et seq., were time-barred because the employee never filed a complaint with the New York State Division of Human Rights as required by N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(5). Bedden-Hurley v N.Y. City Bd. of Educ., 385 F. Supp. 2d 274, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 321 (S.D.N.Y. 2005).

Former employee's suit for race and sex discrimination survived the motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action filed by the defending employer and union because her claims that she was deprived of her rights as an apprentice to be in an apprenticeship program free from discriminatory conduct in the workplace were timely since she pled that throughout her employment, a supervisor used racially derogatory terms and required her to clean the men's locker room, which contained sexually suggestive photographs; because the period of her employment overlapped with the 300-day period, and the allegations of racially charged remarks and exposure to sexually suggestive material sufficiently contributed to a hostile work environment claim based on sex or race, her hostile work environment claims were timely. Langford v Int'l Union of Operating Eng'rs, Local 30, 765 F. Supp. 2d 486, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17789 (S.D.N.Y. 2011).

30. —Amended complaint

Where, in September 1970, female assistant professor and two male professors were promoted but salaries for male professors were higher than that for female professor, and in October 1971, female professor filed complaint with Division of Human Rights charging college with unlawful discrimination and complaint was thereafter amended to allege that her salary continued to be less than salaries for male faculty members of similar rank and experience, lapse of more than one year since original promotion did not preclude Division of Human Rights from conducting hearing. Russell Sage College v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 A.D.2d 153, 357 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4561 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974), aff'd, 36 N.Y.2d 985, 374 N.Y.S.2d 603, 337 N.E.2d 119, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2069 (N.Y. 1975).

Court erred in dismissing, as untimely, second cause of action in second amended complaint, alleging violation of Federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act (29 USCS § 623) (ADEA), since that action arose out of same facts and circumstances which gave rise to first and third causes of action, alleging violations of Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Art 15), which were interposed in timely fashion in original complaint, and defendants were at all times on notice of facts and occurrences giving rise to ADEA claim and did not show any prejudice or surprise. Schutz v Finkelstein Bruckman Wohl Most & Rothman, 247 A.D.2d 460, 668 N.Y.S.2d 669, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1024 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

In a discrimination action, a petition to annul was granted on the basis that the proceeding was untimely commenced against petitioner employer because complainant who filed second amended complaint was not entitled to benefit of the relation back doctrine to comply with the time limitations of this statute, due to the fact that respondents were not united in interest. Matter of 130-10 Food Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 166 A.D.3d 962, 89 N.Y.S.3d 215, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8074 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

An amended cause of action alleging unlawful age discrimination based upon plaintiff's discharge from his position with defendant corporation at age 59 after 23 years of service pursuant to Exec Law § 296 was time barred by the mandatory one-year statute of limitations applicable to such an action where the age discrimination amendment did not relate back to the original complaint to which it was added for purposes of the period of limitations, in that the original complaint failed to indicate any facts connecting plaintiff's discharge to the newly added age discrimination theory. Murphy v American Home Products Corp., 112 Misc. 2d 507, 447 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3157 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 88 A.D.2d 870, 451 N.Y.S.2d 770, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1982).

Division erred in amending an administrative discrimination complaint by adding the president as a respondent because this amendment was made after the one-year limitations period of N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(5) had expired and the president had already appeared pro se on behalf of the employer at the public hearing on the complaint. Matter of Murphy v Kirkland, 88 A.D.3d 267, 928 N.Y.S.2d 333, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

31. —Three years for court complaint

A civil action against the State as an employer to recover damages pursuant to the Human Rights Law for discriminatory discharge (Exec Law, art 15) is governed by the three-year Statute of Limitations applicable to such actions against private employers (CPLR § 214); the Legislature did not intend to subject the injured person to a shorter limitations period when the wrong was committed by the State. Koerner v State, 62 N.Y.2d 442, 478 N.Y.S.2d 584, 467 N.E.2d 232, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4406 (N.Y. 1984).

Action alleging unlawful discriminatory practice pursuant to CLS Exec § 296 would not be dismissed as time barred, even though total elapsed time between accrual of claim and commencement of action exceeded 3 years, where during pendency of employee's federal litigation—filed subsequent to State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) complaint but arising from same allegations—SDHR complaint had been stayed, and when SDHR dismissed employee's complaint on grounds of administrative convenience, it made clear that although SDHR agreed with conclusion of federal courts that employee's claim was time barred, its dismissal was not premised on that ground so as to permit employee to pursue remedy in state courts, and thus total elapsed time between date of claim accrual and claim interposition, after deduction of toll period, was only 2 years 11 months; dismissal of complaint filed with SDHR on ground of administrative convenience was not beyond scope of SDHR's authority even if complaint was clearly untimely. Miller v International Tel. & Tel. Corp., 153 A.D.2d 925, 545 N.Y.S.2d 732, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11988 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

One-year filing requirement of CLS Exec § 297(5) did not apply to action by school district employee alleging unlawful suspension without pay due solely to his national origin or ancestry in violation of CLS Exec § 296; institution of civil actions to recover damages for unlawful discriminatory practices under § 296 is governed by 3-year statute of limitations prescribed in CLS CPLR § 214(2). Stoetzel v Wappingers Cent. School Dist., 166 A.D.2d 643, 561 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12920 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

An action by an individual of Hispanic descent, alleging improper termination by reason of her supervisor's racial prejudice, properly set forth a cause of action under Exec Law §§ 296, 297(9), but was time-barred by Ct Cl Act § 10(3) where the claimant elected to assert the claim in the Court of Claims, notwithstanding that the same action brought against the State in its role as claimant's employer, if brought in Supreme Court, would be governed by a three-year statute of limitations. Figueroa v State, 126 Misc. 2d 304, 481 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3606 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1984).

Civil action to recover damages for alleged unlawful discriminatory practices under CLS Exec § 297(9) is governed by 3-year statute of limitations of CLS CPLR § 214(2) applicable to actions to recover upon liability, penalty or forfeiture created or imposed by statute. Benedict v Xerox Corp., 144 Misc. 2d 490, 544 N.Y.S.2d 418, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 407 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Claim for Human Rights Law violation under CLS Exec § 297(9) was barred by applicable 3-year statute of limitations, CLS CPLR § 214(2), where plaintiff opted into federal class action within 3 years after alleged discriminatory act but failed to commence state action until 6 years after such act, since notice of decertification of federal class action stated that only statutes of limitations applicable to federal age discrimination claims would be tolled from time of opting into federal class action. Benedict v Xerox Corp., 144 Misc. 2d 490, 544 N.Y.S.2d 418, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 407 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Former employee's claims under the New York State Human Rights Law (State Law) and the New York City Human Rights Law of sexual harassment, discrimination based on gender and national origin, and retaliation, arising out of his employment as a lab technologist, were subject to the three-year statute of limitations of CPLR 214(2) and were not tolled for the period in which his claim was pending in the administrative process because, pursuant to N.Y. Executive Law § 297(9) of the State Law, he had annulled his initial election to pursue an administrative remedy. Farrugia v North Shore Univ. Hosp., 820 N.Y.S.2d 718, 13 Misc. 3d 740, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2277 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

Thruway Authority employee's requests for back pay and other compensatory damages on her Human Rights Law (CLS Exec Law §§ 290 et seq.) gender discrimination and sexual harassment claims will be submitted to jury, where her administrative complaint was dismissed for administrative convenience, because claim was timely filed within 3 years of last act of harassment alleged under applicable § 297(9). Ryan v New York State Thruway Auth., 889 F. Supp. 70, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9052 (N.D.N.Y. 1995).

Employment discrimination claim was not time barred where Division of Human Rights dismissed complaint for administrative convenience because employee wished to pursue court action, and action was filed within 3-year period for bringing plenary action under Human Rights Law; employer was collaterally estopped from asserting that administrative complaint should have been dismissed on basis that it was not timely filed under administrative statute of limitations. Ryan v New York State Thruway Auth., 889 F. Supp. 70, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9052 (N.D.N.Y. 1995).

32. —On year for administrative complaint

Employee's complaint of employment discrimination was not time-barred where she filed it within one year of acquiring knowledge that coworker (whose promotion triggered action) had been promoted several months earlier while employee was on maternity leave. Consolidated Edison Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 77 N.Y.2d 411, 568 N.Y.S.2d 569, 570 N.E.2d 217, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 363 (N.Y. 1991).

Incidental references in complaint to section of Labor Law prohibiting differential in rate of pay because of sex, even under most liberal rules of pleading, were insufficient to transmute complaint, which was specifically predicated on section of Executive Law giving any person claiming to be aggrieved by any unlawful discriminatory practice a cause of action for damages and other relief, into one seeking relief under Labor Law, and thus one-year statute of limitations provided for in the Executive Law was applicable. Lanzer v Fairchild Publications, Inc., 46 A.D.2d 644, 360 N.Y.S.2d 437, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3760 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Record consisting of documentary and testimonial proof established that waiter's complaint charging sex discrimination on part of employer which replaced staff of waiters at dining facility with waitresses was timely filed with Division of Human Rights within one year of alleged discriminatory practice. Guardian Capital Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 753, 368 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9834 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 37 N.Y.2d 712, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2959 (N.Y. 1975).

Where sex discrimination in employment complaint was filed more than one year after male employee was promoted instead of female complainant, complaint was barred insofar as it related to that promotion. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bailey v Board of Education, 53 A.D.2d 1043, 386 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15855 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 862, 397 N.Y.S.2d 791, 366 N.E.2d 878, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2186 (N.Y. 1977).

Despite fact that employee filed formal employment discrimination complaint more than one year after termination of his employment, where employee claimed that he had visited staff member of division of human rights six months after termination of employment and that employee had been assured by staff member that informal complaint was timely and that complaint would be deemed filed as of time of visit, interest of justice required that division of human rights conduct investigatory hearing to determine whether delay in filing formal complaint was due to division's own failure to render effectual assistance to employee, in which case division would be under duty to process complaint. Stacey v McDaniel, 54 A.D.2d 645, 387 N.Y.S.2d 631, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Time limitation in Executive Law providing that any complaint must be filed within one year after alleged unlawful discriminatory practice is mandatory and is in nature of a condition upon the substantive right conferred by the Human Rights Law. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Mossler v Westmoreland Cent. School Dist., 56 A.D.2d 205, 392 N.Y.S.2d 149, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10047 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

For purposes of determining whether age discrimination complaint was filed within statutorily prescribed one-year period, discrimination against complainant commenced when she was rejected for employment because of age and continued for as long as that rejection denied her certification to list of persons eligible for position applied for. New York City Dep't of Personnel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 56 A.D.2d 795, 392 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11090 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review an order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board affirming a determination of the State Division of Human Rights, which found the petitioner guilty of having unlawfully discriminated against complainant by having denied her disability benefits for disability based on pregnancy, the petitioner's contention that the complaint was untimely was without merit, where the complaint was filed within one year after the complainant received notice from her employer's insurer that her claim for disability by reason of pregnancy had been denied. Hillcrest General Hospital-GHI v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 90 A.D.2d 481, 454 N.Y.S.2d 549, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18487 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

The complaint of an insurance company employee was time barred under Exec Law § 297(5), where his complaint was not filed with the State Division of Human Rights until more than one year after he was allegedly forced into announcing his retirement. Burke v Continental Ins. Co., 104 A.D.2d 1034, 481 N.Y.S.2d 11, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20470 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

The State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed two complaints for unlawful discriminatory practices (forced maternity leave; denial of additional leave), where the complaints were not filed within one year of the alleged practices as required by Exec Law § 297(5). Syracuse v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 107 A.D.2d 804, 484 N.Y.S.2d 638, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 42723 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Where resignation or leave is improperly forced due to pregnancy, one-year statute of limitations begins to run from date of discriminatory act; subsequently adopted seniority system which fails to take into account period of forced resignation imposes distinct discriminatory wrong, and in such circumstances period of limitation begins to run on date complainant learned of seniority list. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 112 A.D.2d 435, 492 N.Y.S.2d 412, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56182 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Determination of New York State Division of Human Rights dismissing petition charging discriminatory discharge was proper where cause of action accrued on December 22, 1981, when she was discharged, and complaint was not filed until December 30, 1982, since complaint was not filed within one year after alleged discriminatory practice occurred. Morehead v Lind, 112 A.D.2d 996, 492 N.Y.S.2d 804, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52206 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Complaint filed within one year of alleged discriminatory practice was not rendered untimely by Division of Human Rights' failure to act thereon through no fault of petitioner. Crayton v County of Suffolk, 139 A.D.2d 577, 527 N.Y.S.2d 79, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3907 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Division of Human Rights properly determined that petitioner's complaint was time-barred where it was filed more than one year after petitioner was terminated by his employer; petitioner's subsequent attempts to compel employer to reconsider his termination and reinstate him did not toll statute of limitations found in CLS Exec § 297(5). Patel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 469, 628 N.Y.S.2d 379, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6403 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 87 N.Y.2d 893, 640 N.Y.S.2d 873, 663 N.E.2d 914, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 5019 (N.Y. 1995).

Petitioner's claims that respondent unlawfully discriminated against her on basis of sex when they failed to hire her each time vacancy arose alleged discriminatory practice of continuing nature for purposes of determining whether complaint was time barred under CLS Exec § 297(5). Gordineer v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 234 A.D.2d 371, 651 N.Y.S.2d 92, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12912 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 812, 657 N.Y.S.2d 405, 679 N.E.2d 644, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 438 (N.Y. 1997).

Complaints filed more than one year after complainants' allegedly discriminatory discharges from employment were time-barred under CLS Exec § 297(5). Garrison v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 591, 656 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4427 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Employer's contention that an employee's back pay award for discrimination was limited to the one-year period of N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(5) was rejected because, by failing to raise that contention prior to the appeal, the employer implicitly waived the applicability of the limitation. Matter of Rite Aid of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 60 A.D.3d 1428, 875 N.Y.S.2d 708, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2020 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 702, 886 N.Y.S.2d 94, 914 N.E.2d 1012, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. 2009).

Since plaintiff was precluded from commencing a court action for damages based upon an alleged discriminatory practice occurring on September 16, 1976 while his complaint before the State Division of Human Rights was still pending (Executive Law, § 300), the filing of a summons with the clerk of the court on September 15, 1977, the same date that he requested the dismissal of the complaint before the Division of Human Rights, but two weeks before the complaint was actually dismissed on the ground of administrative convenience, was a nullity rendering the subsequent service of the summons and complaint on defendant on October 31, 1977 time-barred as not being served within one year of the date of the alleged discriminatory act (Executive Law, § 297, subd 5). The statute which provides that a dismissal of a complaint before the Division of Human Rights on the ground of administrative convenience does not bar the bringing of a court action (Executive Law, § 297, subd 9) only serves to preserve plaintiff's right to sue but does not provide him with an extension of the mandatory one-year time limitation. Cheselka v Eastern Air Lines, Inc., 93 Misc. 2d 219, 402 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2039 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Division of Human Rights properly added union local president as necessary party under CLS Exec § 297 in job discrimination action brought by union member, even though statute establishes one-year limitations period and president was added more than 2 years after member had filed complaint, since period applies only to initial filing of complaint with division, not to division's subsequent action either to notify respondent or to add necessary parties; moreover, president showed no prejudice by delay. Ambrosio v State Div. of Human Rights, 138 Misc. 2d 423, 524 N.Y.S.2d 600, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2802 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1987), aff'd, 144 A.D.2d 662, 535 N.Y.S.2d 381, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12444 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Employment discrimination action found in New York Executive Law §§ 290 et seq. is subject to one-year statute of limitations by reason of § 295(5). Theobald v Botein, Hays, Sklar & Herzberg, 493 F. Supp. 1, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13991 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

33. — —Tolling of limitations statute

Community college employee's employment discrimination cause of action arose when she was given notice that she would not be reappointed, not when she completed her current term of employment, and complaint was therefore untimely filed when it was filed more than one year after such notice was given; one-year limitation was not tolled by employee's invocation of grievance procedure, which was merely an alternative remedy. Queensborough Community College of City University of New York v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 41 N.Y.2d 926, 394 N.Y.S.2d 625, 363 N.E.2d 349, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1990 (N.Y. 1977).

Where complaint, alleging sex discrimination as a result of employer's refusal to apply accrued sick leave benefits to maternity leave absence of employee, was filed more than a year after her voluntary resignation and there was no basis for tolling the one-year statute of limitations, complaint, which was filed more than a year after cessation of the alleged continuing discriminatory practice, was time barred. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bailey v Board of Education, 53 A.D.2d 1043, 386 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15855 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 862, 397 N.Y.S.2d 791, 366 N.E.2d 878, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2186 (N.Y. 1977).

An assertion by an ex-employee that the refusal of his former employer to give him a recommendation for the purpose of obtaining a new job amounted to retaliation for having previously filed an earlier complaint against his former employer charging discrimination, was untimely where it was not filed within one year of the alleged unlawful practice. Ghartey v Santaella, 86 A.D.2d 695, 446 N.Y.S.2d 515, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15242 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

An action commenced in 1982 predicated upon the Human Rights Law (Executive Law § 290 et seq.) which alleged that plaintiff was refused any opportunity to be considered for employment as a specific trust officer until she was eventually promoted to that position in 1976, that she was placed in lower ranking and lower paying job titles as similarly or less qualified men during the period of 1974 through 1975, that she was denied promotions because of more stringent standards apply to her because of her sex, which promotions occurred more than three years prior to the commencement of the action, and that defendant gave female employees less frequent and smallest salary increases than male employees who were hired in or around 1974, was time barred by the three year statute of limitations applicable to court actions under the Human Rights Law and, although the impact of such alleged wrongs may have had a lasting effect, said discrimination claims were not continuing wrongs which result in the tolling of the statute of limitations. Patrowich v Chemical Bank, 98 A.D.2d 318, 470 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16482 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 801 (N.Y. 1984), aff'd, 63 N.Y.2d 541, 483 N.Y.S.2d 659, 473 N.E.2d 11, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4717 (N.Y. 1984).

Age discrimination claimants' allegations that employer declined to hire them for new positions after they had been discharged did not convert their discharge claims into claims for continuing violations such that limitations period would be tolled. Garrison v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 591, 656 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4427 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Complaint filed with New York City Human Rights Commission alleging, inter alia, employment discrimination based on plaintiff's sexual orientation, was properly dismissed for "administrative convenience" under NYC Admin Code § 8-113(a)(5) and thus, in subsequent civil action, 3-year statute of limitations applicable to administrative claims was tolled under NYC Admin Code § 8-502(d) during pendency of administrative complaint; however, plaintiff's assault and battery claims were unrelated to his Human Rights Law claims and as such were unaffected by toll of applicable one-year statute of limitations. Acosta v Loews Corp., 276 A.D.2d 214, 717 N.Y.S.2d 47, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12405 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Division of Human Rights erred in finding that harassment complaint was timely filed against employer on June 12, 1987, under continuous violation exception to one-year statute of limitations, on basis that allegation that 4 separate referrals for being absent without leave between July 1986 and June 1987 reflected "pattern of continuous harassment," with complainant's alleged lateness of June 1, 1987 falling within one-year statutory time period, where complainant proffered no evidence that accusation respecting his June 1, 1987 lateness had discriminatory motive, and thus he failed to show that this incident was part of employer's alleged discriminatory pattern of referring him for tests based on "perceived disability" in connection with charges of his attendance and conduct deficiencies. Robinson v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 277 A.D.2d 76, 716 N.Y.S.2d 47, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12002 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 775, 725 N.Y.S.2d 633, 749 N.E.2d 202, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 586 (N.Y. 2001).

Action commenced against employer in 1998 was time-barred insofar as it alleged discrimination based on denial of plaintiff's application for promotion in 1993; denial of promotion was single act and, as such, did not fall within continuing violation exception to Title VII limitations' period for Equal Employment Opportunity Claims as part of ongoing policy of discrimination. Martinez-Tolentino v Buffalo State College, 277 A.D.2d 899, 715 N.Y.S.2d 554, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11646 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed, as untimely a former volunteer firefighter's hostile work environment claim based on allegations of sexual harassment against a hook and ladder company because, while the volunteer established at the hearing a hostile work environment premised upon incidents of sexual harassment, those incidents occurred outside the limitations period, and she failed to prove that a specified related incident took place within the limitations period, which would have invoked the continuous violation doctrine. Matter of Lozada v Elmont Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1, 151 A.D.3d 860, 54 N.Y.S.3d 688, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4763 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

Commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed, as untimely a former volunteer firefighter's hostile work environment claim based on allegations of sexual harassment against a hook and ladder company because, while the volunteer established at the hearing a hostile work environment premised upon incidents of sexual harassment, those incidents occurred outside the limitations period, and she failed to prove that a specified related incident took place within the limitations period, which would have invoked the continuous violation doctrine. Matter of Lozada v Elmont Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1, 151 A.D.3d 860, 54 N.Y.S.3d 688, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4763 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

CPLR 203 (subd [b], par 5) which tolls the running of the Statute of Limitations when the summons is filed with the clerk of the court provided the summons is served on the defendant within 60 days after the period of limitation would have expired, did not toll the one-year time limitation applicable to a claim based on an alleged discriminatory practice under the Human Rights Law (Executive Law, § 297, subd 5) where the filing of the summons with the clerk within the one-year period but while a complaint before the State Division of Human Rights was still pending, was a nullity (Executive Law, § 300). The action would have been timely had the dismissal of the complaint before the Division of Human Rights at plaintiff's request on the ground of administrative convenience been made retroactive to the date the summons was filed with the clerk. Cheselka v Eastern Air Lines, Inc., 93 Misc. 2d 219, 402 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2039 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Trial court properly determined that the injured party's sexual discrimination action filed pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(1) against the Town of Van Buren and the Town's Board member was time-barred, where the action was filed three years and two months after the last of the alleged conduct occurred; this exceeded both the three-year statute of limitations under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 214(2) and the one-year and 90-day statute of limitations for an action against the Town under N.Y. Town Law § 67(2), and the statutes were not tolled during the pendency of the injured party's complaints filed with the New York State Division of Human Rights since they were dismissed, not for administrative convenience, but so that the injured party could file the instant action pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9). Henderson v Town of Van Buren, 15 A.D.3d 980, 789 N.Y.S.2d 355, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1187 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 4 N.Y.3d 710, 797 N.Y.S.2d 817, 830 N.E.2d 1146, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1106 (N.Y. 2005).

Assuming that filing sexual harassment complaint with EEOC would not be deemed filing with state agency, despite existence of inter-agency agreement under which complaint filed with one agency would be deemed filed with other, filing with EEOC would equitably toll one-year filing period under Exec § 297(5). Cooper v Wyeth Ayerst Lederle, 34 F. Supp. 2d 197, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 920 (S.D.N.Y. 1999), dismissed, 106 F. Supp. 2d 479, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9541 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

Continuing violation doctrine tolled the statute of limitations for the 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983 claim, and the State and City Human Rights claims of a judge's former secretary because the secretary's claims were based on a hostile work environment created by the judge, her supervisor, and the last acts constituting part of that claim took place within the limitations period. Bland v New York, 263 F. Supp. 2d 526, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5521 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

Based on the fact that language in the New York State Human Rights Law (NYSHRL) prohibited filing of a claim with the state court while that same claim was pending before the New York State Division of Human Rights and based upon the fact that under New York State law, a statute of limitations was tolled where the commencement of an action was prohibited by statute, the court held that plaintiff's NYSHRL claims were tolled while her federal Title VII claims were pending before the EEOC. Kennedy v Fed. Express Corp., 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 133146 (N.D.N.Y. Sept. 28, 2016), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 698 Fed. Appx. 24, 2017 U.S. App. LEXIS 19617 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2017).

IV. Hearings

34. In general

Section 297 (subd 4, par a) of the Executive Law only requires that a public hearing be held on an unlawful discriminatory practice charge where the complaint is not dismissed by the State Division of Human Rights or conciliated, and, since that section does not prescribe a dismissal procedure, a regulation which empowers the State Commissioner of Human Rights to review the dismissal process (9 NYCRR 465.18) does not conflict with the statute. Accordingly, although a public hearing was never conducted on the matter, there is no infirmity in an order of the commissioner which reopened a proceeding held before a regional director of the division, directed further investigation of the charge and altered the director's determination that there was probable cause to believe an allegation that respondent employer had practiced discrimination because of disability, finding, instead, no probable cause to believe that respondent had engaged in said practice, and dismissed the complaint; a contrary view would deny the division the authority to qualify the power conferred upon regional directors, officers created and designated by the commissioner to administer a regional office of the Division of Human Rights. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Valdemarsen v Genesee Hosp., 50 N.Y.2d 113, 428 N.Y.S.2d 210, 405 N.E.2d 692, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2273 (N.Y. 1980).

Once Human Rights Division found probable cause to believe discrimination had occurred and set matter down for hearing, it was incumbent on employer to come forward with whatever proof it had to show that accommodation could not have been accomplished for its Sabbath-observing employee without undue economic hardship. New York City Transit Auth. v Executive Dep't, Div. of Human Rights, 89 N.Y.2d 79, 651 N.Y.S.2d 375, 674 N.E.2d 305, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3162 (N.Y. 1996).

Defendant employer was not entitled to dismissal of gender discrimination complaint under CLS Exec § 296 on basis that State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) delayed 11 years before holding hearing on complaint and then delayed its order for another 3 years, where no substantial actual prejudice resulted in that employer's witnesses were able to testify without difficulties owing to memory loss regarding issues on which SDHR based its finding of discrimination. Diaz Chem. Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 91 N.Y.2d 932, 670 N.Y.S.2d 397, 693 N.E.2d 744, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 599 (N.Y. 1998).

Where the Director of Human Rights received information concerning the complaint by holding a conference and by investigation, but there was no hearing, and complainant had had no opportunity to present his case in a formal manner, for the Division of Human Rights to dismiss his complaint under such circumstances, it must appear that as a matter of law the complaint lacks merit. Mayo v Hopeman Lumber & Mfg. Co., 33 A.D.2d 310, 307 N.Y.S.2d 691, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5481 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 26 N.Y.2d 612, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 1970).

The statute contemplates a preliminary investigation, conference and action by the Division of Human Rights, and if the complaint is not dismissed or a conciliation agreement is not reached, the respondents must be given an opportunity to answer and a public hearing must be held. Remand to State Division of Human Rights "for further investigation and action" on grounds that Division "should have looked into the question (of alleged discrimination) rather than discharging the complaint" did not require a hearing be conducted if the matter could be concluded by conciliation procedure. Berry v Donner-Hanna Coke Corp., 42 A.D.2d 404, 348 N.Y.S.2d 414, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3280 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 893, 359 N.Y.S.2d 283, 316 N.E.2d 717, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1445 (N.Y. 1974).

Complainant was not entitled to a formal hearing under Exec L § 297, subd 2 on probable cause issue, and State Division of Human Rights did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in dismissing a complaint which alleged discrimination on basis of national origin, where evidence indicated that complainant was demoted due to substandard work performance and that he was given the same terms, conditions, and privileges of employment which were given to other employees. Jwayyed v New York Tel. Co., 42 A.D.2d 663, 345 N.Y.S.2d 233, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4025 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

More than a simple question of a fact must appear in order to obtain a hearing pursuant to Executive L § 297, subdivision 4(a), otherwise a hearing would be mandated in all cases and the conference and conciliation procedures established by the statute would serve no purpose. Thus a hearing is required when question of fact results from a conference and, upon granting full credence, as the Division must to the complainant's version of events, there is evidence of unlawful discrimination. State Div. of Human Rights v Buffalo Auto Glass Co., 42 A.D.2d 678, 344 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4289 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

The Comptroller was properly not joined as a party in administrative proceedings before the Commissioner of Human Rights in a proceeding against a State agency to recover for alleged unlawful discriminatory practices, since the Comptroller's role in paying such an award would be purely a ministerial one of auditor under the New York State Constitution, art V, § 1, and State Finance Law § 109. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Geraci v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 90 A.D.2d 51, 456 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Confrontation conference is not required where complainant fails to offer evidence demonstrating that discharge was for reasons other than unsatisfactory work performance. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Clifford v Oneida, Ltd., 112 A.D.2d 793, 492 N.Y.S.2d 293, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56039 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

In proceeding against private employer in which employee alleged age and sex discrimination in denial of promotion and encouragement to retire, there was no basis to annul, as arbitrary or capricious, determination of state Division of Human Rights that no probable cause existed for complaints, even though division held no hearings or conferences on matter, where employee was given opportunity to present lengthy and detailed written submissions which were thoroughly considered by division. Chirgotis v Mobil Oil Corp., 128 A.D.2d 400, 512 N.Y.S.2d 686, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44111 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

Commissioner of Human Rights abused his discretion in refusing request by petitioner's appointed counsel to reopen hearing to consider evidence on issue of damages where (1) petitioner filed complaint with Division of Human Rights claiming that respondents determined that he was ineligible for position as parole officer due to his vision, (2) matter was referred to public hearing and petitioner was assigned to attorney employed by division, (3) after hearing, administrative law judge (ALJ) found that respondents had engaged in unlawful discriminatory action but made no award for compensatory damages because of absence of testimony with respect thereto, and (4) petitioner's attorney made application to reopen hearing to establish damages and urged that petitioner not be penalized due to her oversight, but commissioner upheld ALJ's decision and denied request to reopen; commissioner should have permitted reopening of case since hearing was not yet deemed complete at time petitioner's attorney requested that hearing be reopened, and record was incomplete and failed to provide basis for informed decision on issue of damages through no fault of petitioner. Farley v New York State Dep't of Civil Service, 142 A.D.2d 783, 530 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7271 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Determination by State Division of Human Rights that there was no probable cause to believe that employer unlawfully discriminated against petitioner on basis of his age was not arbitrary and capricious merely because no hearing was held since petitioner was given full opportunity to present his evidence and to discuss with Division status of investigation, and his submissions were in fact considered. Gleason v W.C. Dean Sr. Trucking, 228 A.D.2d 678, 646 N.Y.S.2d 20, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7390 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

It is within discretion of State Division of Human Rights to decide method to be used in investigating claim, and as long as petitioner has full opportunity to present claim, neither hearing nor confrontation conference is mandated. Gleason v W.C. Dean Sr. Trucking, 228 A.D.2d 678, 646 N.Y.S.2d 20, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7390 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

In deciding to dismiss police officer for misconduct at memorial service for slain police officers, city police commissioner properly considered police officer's statements made during official interview conducted pursuant to police patrol guide, even though statements were made in response to matters that occurred while officer was off duty. Hagmaier v Bratton, 245 A.D.2d 147, 665 N.Y.S.2d 880, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13034 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Court would annul determination by administrative law judge (ALJ) finding that railroad company's termination of respondent for violent behavior against fellow worker was pretextual, wherein ALJ asserted that she was not bound by prior determination that assault took place, where prior determination to dismiss respondent was upheld on appeal by Special Board of Adjustment, arbitration panel authorized by Railway Labor Act (45 USCS § 153), respondent conceded that Board had administrative status, and Board conclusively determined that respondent violently assaulted and then threatened fellow worker. Metro-North Commuter R.R. Co. v New York State Exec. Dep't Div. of Human Rights, 271 A.D.2d 256, 707 N.Y.S.2d 50, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4101 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Since the power of the State Commission for Human Rights is not limited to providing relief for a particular complaint, and the Commission has the power to order a respondent to cease and desist from continuing a general policy of discrimination, the Commission would not be enjoined from conducting a hearing as to whether certain real estate brokers were engaging in a general policy of unlawful discrimination in their real estate practice despite the fact that the realtors had already sold a house to the alleged aggrieved individual. Neidich v State Com. for Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 984, 280 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1893 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

35. Disqualification of judge

Even if actual bias or prejudice on part of regional director of State Division of Human Rights had been shown to have resulted from fact that his daughter was employed as mail clerk by employer against whom complaints were filed, such showing would not be grounds for director's disqualification under section of Judiciary Law requiring disqualification of judge in proceeding if he is related within the sixth degree of consanguinity to party to proceeding, since actual bias of judge is not grounds for disqualification under such law. Although section of Judiciary Law providing that judge would be disqualified if he were related within sixth degree of consanguinity to party to proceeding does not apply to quasi-judicial administrative officers, Appellate Division would look to such law, in absence of any comparable statute setting forth grounds for disqualification of administrative officer, in deciding whether regional director of Division of Human Rights decision dismissing certain employees' complaints against their employer was abuse of discretion merely because director's daughter was employed as mail clerk by employer complained against. State Div. of Human Rights v Merchants Mut. Ins. Co., 59 A.D.2d 1054, 399 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14344 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

36. Sufficiency of complaint

Where the Director of Human Rights received information concerning the complaint by holding a conference and by investigation, but there was no hearing, and complainant had had no opportunity to present his case in a formal manner, for the Division of Human Rights to dismiss his complaint under such circumstances, it must appear that as a matter of law the complaint lacks merit. Mayo v Hopeman Lumber & Mfg. Co., 33 A.D.2d 310, 307 N.Y.S.2d 691, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5481 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 26 N.Y.2d 612, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 1970).

In course of investigating complaint of discrimination, commissioner of Division of Human Rights should interview respondent's witnesses and receive its responses to complaint, and at such point, statute places upon commissioner responsibility to determine whether there is reasonable basis for sustaining complaint, based upon complainant's evidence, and for requiring employer or other respondent to answer and submit to hearing. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Employee's allegations had sufficient substance to warrant public hearing where after over 10 years of employment with employer's predecessor company and over 2 years with employer, employee alleged that she was discharged because she declined to respond to sexual advances of her superior, record contained written statements of 5 former co-workers stating that petitioner was target of sexual advances and sexual harassment by supervisor, record contained no denial, nor any statement whatsoever, by supervisor who allegedly made sexual advances to employee, although employer's answer stated that employee was laid off as result of work force consolidation and denied that employee was laid off due to her failure to succumb to sexual advances. Ragnetti v State Div. of Human Rights, 110 A.D.2d 895, 488 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48798 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Complainant's burden is simply to establish that there is probable cause to believe that she has been victim of unlawful discrimination; determinations of no probable cause may be overturned for failure of division to conduct in-depth investigation. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Beckman v Gaylord Bros., Inc., 112 A.D.2d 726, 492 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56237 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Action to recover damages for unlawful discriminatory practices in housing was properly dismissed as to plaintiffs who were employees of antidiscrimination organization and who had visited defendants' apartment building only as "testers" under pretense of being prospective tenants after others had reportedly been denied accommodations there because of race, since testers conceded that they did not wish to rent apartment and had acted only on behalf of others. Dunn v Fishbein, 123 A.D.2d 659, 507 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Evidence supported determination finding correctional facility guilty of unlawful discriminatory practice based on race where complainant and other black correction officers testified as to "hostile situation" at facility, black officers were placed in different "class" from white employees, they were denied more desirable assignments and shifts, they had their orders and directions disregarded by subordinates or countermanded by their superior officers, and they were disciplined more frequently and more harshly than white employees; furthermore, of 16 cases of alleged inmate abuse occurr-ing at facility, complainant was sole correction officer who was dis-charged. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 215 A.D.2d 908, 626 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Plaintiff's age discrimination action was barred by release where it was undisputed that he executed employment termination agreement expressly releasing defendant from all claims including those "arising under federal, state or local laws prohibiting employment discrimination." Cramer v Newburgh Molded Prods., 228 A.D.2d 541, 645 N.Y.S.2d 46, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7114 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 803, 653 N.Y.S.2d 280, 675 N.E.2d 1233, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4267 (N.Y. 1996).

Bare allegation that plaintiff was forced to resign due to his age was insufficient to state action to set aside release on ground that it was procured by duress. Cramer v Newburgh Molded Prods., 228 A.D.2d 541, 645 N.Y.S.2d 46, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7114 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 803, 653 N.Y.S.2d 280, 675 N.E.2d 1233, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4267 (N.Y. 1996).

Assertion that plaintiff "Annette Cramer" was terminated "because she was married to Joseph Cramer" did not set forth cognizable action under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a), which prohibits discrimination based on individual's marital status rather than on fact that individual is married to any particular partner. Cramer v Newburgh Molded Prods., 228 A.D.2d 541, 645 N.Y.S.2d 46, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7114 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 803, 653 N.Y.S.2d 280, 675 N.E.2d 1233, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4267 (N.Y. 1996).

Complaint was properly dismissed where plaintiffs did not plead that they offered to bear expense of building modifications they requested (CLS Exec § 296(18)(1)), they admitted that originally alleged discriminatory practices and policies were corrected, and they failed to adduce evidence of any other discriminatory practices and policies. Mansolino v Haberman, 239 A.D.2d 276, 658 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5425 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Terminated correction officer's due process rights were not violated by alleged lack of specificity of dates in charges of sexual harassment of subordinates where charges were sufficiently specific to apprise officer of their nature and to allow for preparation of adequate defense; correction commissioner did not act in bad faith in failing to provide more precise dates where numerous and extensive investigations occurred before charges were filed, and one complaining witness delayed filing formal complaint. Arroyo v City of New York, 245 A.D.2d 186, 666 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13150 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Plaintiffs, licensed practical nurses, stated action under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) by alleging that they showed religious or moral belief held by them, that defendants were aware thereof, and that defendants failed to reasonably accommodate such religious belief by summarily terminating plaintiffs for their refusal to the form abortive procedures. Larson v Albany Med. Ctr., 252 A.D.2d 936, 676 N.Y.S.2d 293, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8687 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Job applicant stated cause of action for employment discrimination based on disability in violation of CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) by alleging that employer subjected him to urinalysis test as condition of employment without demonstrating that such test was job related and that employer refused to hire applicant on basis of such test result (which revealed presence of opiates) without evaluating his capacity to reasonably perform in position sought. Doe v Roe, Inc., 143 Misc. 2d 156, 539 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 187 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989), aff'd, 160 A.D.2d 255, 553 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3749 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Cause of action based on claim of sexual harassment arising out of plaintiff actress' employment relationship with defendant, who coerced her into sexual activity with his business associates to further his own business interests, was cognizable under Human Rights Law, CLS Exec § 297(9), since actions of employer which discriminate against person in terms and conditions of employment because of person's sex are encompassed within ambit of wrongs actionable under statute. Thoreson v Penthouse Int'l, 149 Misc. 2d 150, 563 N.Y.S.2d 968, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 609 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), modified, 179 A.D.2d 29, 583 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5427 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Probationary correction officer met her burden of demonstrating that there were disputed issues of material fact as to whether she was fired for good faith reasons or for discriminatory reasons and thus she was entitled to hearing at which corrections department would have burden of proving, by preponderance of evidence, that it terminated her in good faith, where she claimed that she was terminated because of pregnancy discrimination and it appeared that corrections department decided to terminate her based in part on some absences which were pregnancy-related. Card v Sielaff, 154 Misc. 2d 239, 586 N.Y.S.2d 191, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

Where a former employee alleged her male supervisor sexually harassed her, as the complaint made no allegations against her female supervisor, it failed to state a claim against her or to provide notice of the allegations against her, as required by due process and N.Y. Exec. Law 297; thus, the New York State Division of Human Right could not enforce a damage award in favor of the employee against the female supervisor. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

Former employees' action under Human Rights Law against owner of employer is dismissed, where employees failed to plead facts regarding owner's involvement in creation, design, or implementation of employer's alleged discriminatory plan to terminate employees and failed to plead facts from which inference can be made that owner intended to discriminate against plaintiffs, because plaintiffs' use of word "defendants" is insufficient to allege individual action by owner where no other facts are alleged in support of individual liability. Leykis v NYP Holdings, 899 F. Supp. 986, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20524 (E.D.N.Y. 1995).

37. Sufficiency of proof

Record supported conclusion that employee was victim of quid pro quo sexual harassment, and thus was entitled to compensatory damages, where employer exploited employee by, among other things, coercing her, as implicit condition of her employment, into having sexual liaisons with 2 business associates of employer's chairman and principal shareholder. Thoreson v Penthouse Int'l, 80 N.Y.2d 490, 591 N.Y.S.2d 978, 606 N.E.2d 1369, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 4231 (N.Y. 1992).

A determination of the commission and its cease and desist order against the operator of an employment agency who made oral and written inquiries in respect of an applicant's creed and national origin should be sustained. Holland v Edwards, 282 A.D. 353, 122 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

Evidence in support of complaint which alleged that demotion was based on discrimination by reason of age, including coworkers' testimony as to satisfactory nature of complainant's work, supported finding that demotion was based on discrimination by reason of age. Winitt v State Div. of Human Rights, 50 A.D.2d 767, 377 N.Y.S.2d 60, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11562 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

School district would be required to pay any teacher physically disabled by reason of maternity accrued sick leave benefits for that portion of school year coinciding with such disability or aggravation of such disability, unless such teacher elected to take unpaid maternity leave during which sick leave was not applicable, provided she furnished to district certificate from her attending physician to effect that during such period of time she was, in fact, physically disabled. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 51 A.D.2d 357, 381 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11080 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 1021, 391 N.Y.S.2d 532, 359 N.E.2d 1327, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3155 (N.Y. 1976).

Evidence showing, inter alia, city employee's chronic lateness, absenteeism, insubordination and poor work performance supported finding of division of human rights of no probable cause to believe that employee was victim of discrimination so that Human Rights Appeal Board exceeded its limited scope of review in determining that division's order dismissing employee's complaint was arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion. New York City Housing Authority v State Div. on Human Rights, 53 A.D.2d 844, 385 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13674 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 brought by a 59-year-old engineer alleging age discrimination in his employer's reorganization of his engineering section that resulted in the abolishment of the engineer's position and his transfer to another unit, the complaint was properly dismissed where the engineer's salary was not reduced, and where the engineer was on a special assignment that was terminated only for business reasons. Boiko v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 88 A.D.2d 1045, 452 N.Y.S.2d 691, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17467 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In an action brought by a former medical center employee who alleged that the medical center and various individual defendants had discriminated against her on the basis of her sex and marital status in violation of Exec Law § 296(1)(a), and had retaliated against her in violation of Exec Law § 296(1)(e), the trial court properly denied defendants' motion for summary judgment where issues of fact existed as to whether the individual defendants' treatment of plaintiff constituted discrimination and whether the medical center had had knowledge of or had acquiesced in any such discriminatory conduct, and where, in light of such issues of fact as to the first cause of action, there was no need for the trial court to have decided whether plaintiff had a cause of action for retaliatory discrimination absent any finding that the alleged discrimination had actually occurred. Belanoff v Grayson, 98 A.D.2d 353, 471 N.Y.S.2d 91, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16486 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1984).

The State Division of Human Rights did not abuse its discretion when investigating a complaint alleging age discrimination and dismissing the complaint upon finding no probable cause, where the division's field representative reviewed the complaint itself and a letter from the associate personnel director of respondent, interviewed respondent's associate personnel director, and spoke with complainant when he visited the division office to review his file, in that the investigation was not so abbreviated and one sided that it resulted in a record which did not afford a reasonable basis for an administrative determination. Tirino v Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center, 99 A.D.2d 513, 471 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16720 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

The State Division of Human Rights did not act arbitrarily in dismissing petitioner's complaint for unlawful employment discrimination where petitioner failed to rebut defendant's evidence that the job he had applied for was eliminated due to budget considerations. Baranowski v Cornell University, 106 A.D.2d 814, 484 N.Y.S.2d 202, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21725 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984), app. denied, 64 N.Y.2d 607, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16226 (N.Y. 1985).

Unsupported allegations of age discrimination were insufficient to meet petitioner's burden of showing that unlawful discriminatory acts were committed against him. Murphy v Russell Sage College, 134 A.D.2d 716, 521 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50907 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

To make out prima facie case of age discrimination in employment, plaintiff must show that he or she was member of protected class, prove that he or she was discharged, prove that he or she was qualified for position, and either show that he or she was replaced by younger person, produce direct evidence of discriminatory intent, or produce statistical evidence of discriminatory conduct. Bockino v Metropolitan Transp. Auth., 224 A.D.2d 471, 638 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 1017, 644 N.Y.S.2d 150, 666 N.E.2d 1064, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. 1996), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 805, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1688 (N.Y. 1996).

Defendants rebutted plaintiff's prima facie case of age discrimination where employer's general manager testified that he was hired, inter alia, to remedy serious deficiencies in management of employer's maintenance operations, general manager interviewed plaintiff, but found that plaintiff failed to make any suggestions to correct problems, claimed that problems were overstated, and blamed uncooperative union employees and poor conditions for problems, and general manager testified that he replaced plaintiff with another employee who ran efficient and organized repair facility and who presented sound and specific suggestions for improving operations. Bockino v Metropolitan Transp. Auth., 224 A.D.2d 471, 638 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 1017, 644 N.Y.S.2d 150, 666 N.E.2d 1064, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. 1996), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 805, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1688 (N.Y. 1996).

Evidence did not support determination that rescue mission, in conditioning complainant's stay on further discussing her HIV status, denied her privilege and advantage of place of public accommodation where (1) all witnesses, including complainant, testified that complainant was asked whether she had any medications with her and was told that, if she did, they had to be put away, that she refused to respond to that inquiry, that if she wished to stay, she had to respond, and that she left rather than answering, and (2) question as to medications was not based on her HIV status, but rather was as matter of policy asked of all potential admittees. Rescue Mission Alliance v Mercado, 224 A.D.2d 934, 637 N.Y.S.2d 580, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 805, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1714 (N.Y. 1996).

Court would annul determination that certain acts of dentist constituted refusal to treat complainant based on his status as person perceived to be at risk for HIV infection where dental office in question did not constitute "place of public accommodation." Schulman v State Div. of Human Rights, 89 N.Y.2d 934, 226 A.D.2d 645, 641 N.Y.S.2d 134, 677 N.E.2d 284, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4389 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996), rev'd, 89 N.Y.2d 934, 654 N.Y.S.2d 713, 677 N.E.2d 284, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 1997).

Age discrimination claims filed against airline based on airline's use of weight standards in hiring flight attendants, which allegedly discriminated against women with "large framed bodies," as well as older women, was properly dismissed where petitioners failed to show that age was major factor in weight gain, that airline's weight restrictions had had disparate impact on older employees, or that airline had used its restrictions to avoid hiring older individuals. Delta Air Lines v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 229 A.D.2d 132, 652 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12963 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 882, 661 N.Y.S.2d 825, 684 N.E.2d 274, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2331 (N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 65, 666 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 689 N.E.2d 898, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3710 (N.Y. 1997).

Airline did not engage in sex discrimination based on its use of weight standards in hiring flight attendants where there was no evidence that it intended to deprive one sex of equal opportunity or treatment, or that weight requirements were applied in discriminatory manner, and airline showed that approximately 90 percent of its flight attendants were female, thereby negating claim that weight charts were somehow utilized to discriminate against women. Delta Air Lines v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 229 A.D.2d 132, 652 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12963 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 882, 661 N.Y.S.2d 825, 684 N.E.2d 274, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2331 (N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 65, 666 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 689 N.E.2d 898, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3710 (N.Y. 1997).

Airline did not engage in unlawful discrimination based on its preemployment questions as to petitioners' national origin and gender where there was nothing to support conclusion that those questions, either expressly or intentionally, led to petitioners not being hired; rather, petitioners received good reviews from airline's interviewers and were not hired due to their failure to meet airline's weight guidelines or hiring eligibility deadline. Delta Air Lines v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 229 A.D.2d 132, 652 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12963 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 882, 661 N.Y.S.2d 825, 684 N.E.2d 274, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2331 (N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 65, 666 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 689 N.E.2d 898, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3710 (N.Y. 1997).

Petitioner committed unlawful discriminatory practice by refusing to sell piece of real property to complainant because of her race; realtor who represented complainant, and who was also black, was also victim of petitioner's discrimination insofar as petitioner refused to deal with realtor because of complainant's race. Feggoudakis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 230 A.D.2d 739, 646 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Complaint alleging that plaintiff was denied appointment to permanent status, and was terminated from his employment with county agency as result of race discrimination, was properly dismissed where (1) several agency employees who had frequent contact with plaintiff testified that he was ill-prepared for meetings, failed to participate in discussions, had difficulty communicating and sharing information, and was generally unable to function as team member of work force, and (2) plaintiff failed to show that stated reason for his discharge was pretextual based on 3 witnesses' general testimony about his efficient and professional managerial style, and unsubstantiated assertions of animus toward him because of his race. Broome v Keener, 236 A.D.2d 498,

654 N.Y.S.2d 618, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1343 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Court would affirm city's determination terminating petitioner's employment as parking lot attendant where he did not contest substantial evidence of his misconduct while on duty, including drinking and refusing to undergo breathalyzer test as directed by supervisor, and although he established prima facie case that conduct which formed basis for his discharge was causally related to his alcoholism, city showed that subsequent to his completion of alcohol treatment program, he had relapse while on duty and was immediately charged with misconduct. Myszczenko v City of Poughkeepsie, 239 A.D.2d 584, 657 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Determination that dentist discriminated against complainant based on his HIV status would be annulled where dentist performed complete oral examination of complainant, and concluded that further treatment, in form of root canal therapy, was needed, it was undisputed that dentist did not perform root canal work, and that his associate, who performed root canal work on only 30 to 40 percent of practice's patients, was away on vacation, it was dentist's professional judgment that complainant needed immediate treatment because he was in pain, and that dental unit of university hospital would best provide that treatment in view of risk of secondary infection, no evidence was presented that such recommendation was inappropriate or medically unsound, and complainant contacted dentist's secretary to request additional referrals, but he sought no further treatment from dentist or his associates. Schulman v State Div. of Human Rights, 239 A.D.2d 588, 658 N.Y.S.2d 70, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5622 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 801, 677 N.Y.S.2d 71, 699 N.E.2d 431, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 1998).

Substantial evidence supported correction commissioner's decision that terminated correction officer had sexually harassed his subordinates where testimony of 2 complainants proved that officer sexually harassed them by exposing himself to them, and testimony of third complainant proved that officer sexually assaulted her. Arroyo v City of New York, 245 A.D.2d 186, 666 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13150 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Court would annul determination finding that employer unlawfully discriminated against employee on basis of sex and pregnancy-related disability where she presented no proof that she was incapacitated by severe sickness or injury when she applied for 3 days from sick leave bank established under collective bargaining agreement or that her application was treated in manner less liberal than those applications from employees with conditions unrelated to pregnancy and recovery from childbirth. Cheektowaga Cent. Sch. Dist. v Graziadei, 267 A.D.2d 985, 700 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13715 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999), app. denied, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14175 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't Mar. 29, 2000), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 756, 712 N.Y.S.2d 448, 734 N.E.2d 760, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1844 (N.Y. 2000).

There was sufficient unrebutted evidence in record to warrant public hearing on complaint that Delta Airlines discriminated on basis of age against 57-year-old automotive mechanic with 19 years of service with Pan American Airways when it did not hire him as part of its 1991 purchase of Pan Am's assets, where complaint alleged that specifically identified younger Pan Am mechanics with less seniority were hired in his stead. Sauer v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 285 A.D.2d 372, 727 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7370 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Administrative law judge (ALJ) did not err in finding that a complainant was subjected to a hostile work environment, as substantial evidence supported the ALJ's findings that petitioners were informed of sexually inappropriate conduct directed toward the complainant and condoned that conduct and that she was constructively discharged from employment; her use of sexual innuendo in a consensual setting did not waive her legal protections against unwelcome harassment. Matter of Amg Managing Partners, LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 A.D.3d 1765, 51 N.Y.S.3d 764, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2515 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2017).

A landlord's prior verbal commitment to another prospective tenant to hold an apartment for her for a few days, whether it bound him legally or morally, did not justify his refusal to show the apartment to the Negro complainant after he had arranged to do so. Barnes v Goldberg, 54 Misc. 2d 676, 283 N.Y.S.2d 347, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1403 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Where a former employee alleged her male supervisor sexually harassed her, as the New York State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) failed to satisfy its burden to prove that the employee's female supervisor condoned the discriminatory conduct., SDHR could not enforce a damage award in favor of the employee against the female supervisor. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

Where a former employee testified that her male supervisor made offensive sexual comments, pressured her to come to his apartment, forced her to engage in sexual intercourse there, and fired her when she refused to return to his apartment, and he did not controvert her testimony, the evidence supported the administrative law judge's finding that she had been subjected to quid pro quo and hostile work environment sexual harassment. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

Jury instruction in employment discrimination case under Human Rights Law is proper where it allows jury to determine (1) whether illegitimate criterion was substantial or motivating factor in adverse employment decision, and (2) if so, whether employer has met its burden of proving that employment decision would have happened anyway; goal of Human Rights Law claim is to determine whether adverse employment decision was made "because of" illegitimate factor. Jury was properly charged in case brought by worker who alleged that he was discriminated against because of his age where judge stated, inter alia, that jury should consider whether "plaintiff established...that the termination or denial of transfer occurred under circumstances giving rise to an inference that age was a motivating factor in the decision"; jury may reach its ultimate conclusion on issue of discrimination through either "direct" or "circumstantial" evidence. Tyler v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 958 F.2d 1176, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 4161 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 826, 113 S. Ct. 82, 121 L. Ed. 2d 46, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 5704 (U.S. 1992).

District Court erred in concluding that plaintiffs, pilots of bankrupt airline, failed to create inference of age discrimination in violation of CLS Exec § 296 where plaintiffs showed that airline management representative assigned to investigate and evaluate acquisition of bankrupt airline made numerous comments about age of bankrupt airline's pilot force, referring to them as "contaminated" and " Abdu-Brisson v Delta Air Lines, Inc., 239 F.3d 456, 2001 U.S. App. LEXIS 2041 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 534 U.S. 993, 122 S. Ct. 460, 151 L. Ed. 2d 378, 2001 U.S. LEXIS 9990 (U.S. 2001).

Complainant, store cashier, failed to show that employer acted unlawfully in discharging her for failing to produce receipt for store merchandise placed in bag underneath her register, even though she showed that she was discharged on very day that she said she told employer's coordinator of detectives that she was breaking off their sexual relationship. 1999 Order Comm HR No. 9S-E-S-90-144553.

Complainant failed to show that she was denied employment opportunity on ground she rebuffed amorous advances of employer's vice president of finance where employer's chief financial officer and employer's executive board, not vice president, had final say in both offering complainant job and later revoking that offer of employment, and employer was motivated by financial considerations when it revoked its offer of employment to complainant and hired someone at roughly half salary. 1999 Order Comm HR No. 9D-E-S-89-136970-E.

Respondent, owner of insurance brokerage firm, did not engage in unlawful practices of sexual discrimination and harassment against complainant, respondent's office manager, where complainant's employment was ended because of her admitted falsification of clients' signatures, and because of statements made, or believed by respondent that complainant made, to insurance company which were inimical to respondent's financial interest. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 9S-E-S 95-7940446.

Complainant, part-time legal secretary, was not subjected to hostile work environment by exposure to sexually explicit materials that were mailed to law office where, inter alia, owner of law firm was involuntarily placed on mailing lists of several direct marketers selling sexual materials, materials were marked with warning notices stating that contents were sexually explicit, materials were not directed toward complainant, or displayed by law firm, and complainant opened mail knowing it contained sexual materials. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 9S-E-S-96-7940895.

Complainant's failure to receive promotion to associate professor did not constitute unlawful retaliation for filing previous complaints with Division of Human Rights where he was denied promotion for having failed to meet standards contained in parties' collective bargaining agreement as to any significant community activities or college service, same reasons that he was not promoted in preceding years. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 5-E-O-86-111682-E.

Town's decision to layoff complainant from his maintenance position at town recreation center and its decision not to rehire complainant as seasonal security guard did not constitute age discrimination where layoff was based on complaints as to complainant's performance and supervisor's assessment of his performance, and security guard positions were committed to otherwise qualified people before complainant verbally announced his interest in position. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 9D-E-A-92-1200959A.

Employer discriminated against complainant, native of Columbia, where she had been promoted to forelady after working as cleaning lady for 3 full years, shortly thereafter building supervisor removed her as forelady and replaced her with someone of national origin similar to building supervisor, Albanian national, and employer merely proffered single statement allegedly made by complainant's former supervisor that complainant was demoted because she did not work out. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 9D-E-O-89-136156E.

V. Review and Enforcement

38. Judicial review

An objection that the commission did not have jurisdiction because the applicant could not be considered a person "aggrieved" within the meaning of the law is not open for review by the court where such objection was not urged before the commission. Objections in respect of the commission's directives which were not made until after the commission had gone into court to secure enforcement of its orders, were too late for judicial review. Holland v Edwards, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

The dismissal of petitioner's complaint of unlawful discrimination upon a determination by a single member of the State Commission Against Discrimination, whose decision was not disturbed by the commission chairman was reviewable by the courts. Jeanpierre v Arbury, 4 N.Y.2d 238, 173 N.Y.S.2d 597, 149 N.E.2d 882, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1072 (N.Y. 1958).

The jurisdiction of the State Human Rights Appeals Board is restricted by § 297 of the Executive Law and Rule III(10)(4) of the appeals board to final dispositions. South African Airways v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 516, 312 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4160 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970).

Where Commissioner of Human Rights found complaint of discriminatory discharge by reason of race justified and ordered that petitioner be rehired, his further order of guidance and training programs for, and recruitment of, minority reporters was ultra vires of the division's powers, being excessive and not sufficiently related to the particular complaint, and Human Rights Appeal Board compounded error by making new findings not warranted by the original record rather than limiting its decision to ruling on the presence or absence of substantial supporting evidence. Artis v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 42 A.D.2d 557, 345 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4010 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

In view of evidence that, although Ecuadorian professor voluntarily quit as acting chairman of Puerto Rican sequence in department of black and Puerto Rican studies because of protest directed at fact that he was non-Puerto Rican, he had functioned well as acting director, and that the professor was never accorded the opportunity to present his case in a formal manner in support of allegations, dismissal of his complaint that college had terminated him because of national origin was arbitrary and capricious. Rodriguez-Abad v Hurst, 49 A.D.2d 115, 373 N.Y.S.2d 583, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10558 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

It was improper for Supreme Court to transfer Article 78 proceeding, seeking review of determination by Division of Human Rights finding no probable cause to believe there had been unlawful discriminatory practice, where no public hearing had been held pursuant to CLS Exec § 297; only where such hearing has been held shall Supreme Court transfer proceeding to appropriate Appellate Division. Bentkowsky v Tokio Re Corp., 139 A.D.2d 436, 527 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3975 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

It was error for Supreme Court to review determination of Division of Human Rights reached after hearing, and matter should simply have been transferred to Appellate Division, which has exclusive jurisdiction over such cases under CLS Exec § 298. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Albino v YMCA of Greater New York, 139 A.D.2d 440, 527 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 532 N.Y.S.2d 848, 529 N.E.2d 178, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2531 (N.Y. 1988).

Supreme Court did not abuse its discretion in denying application of union to review determination of State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) to join it as necessary party in proceeding alleging religious discrimination by bus company against one of its employees, even though joinder occurred 2 years after complaint was filed, since delay was caused by SDHR and union failed to substantiate claim that it was injured by delay. Ambrosio v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 662, 535 N.Y.S.2d 381, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12444 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

After initially upholding human rights commission's finding of lack of probable cause to believe that corrections department refused to employ petitioner because of his Maryland arrest record, court properly granted reargument on basis that it had failed to apprehend that Maryland court documents in department's possession actually indicated that criminal proceedings against petitioner were disposed of in manner analogous to New York's adjournment in contemplation of dismissal. Johnson v New York City Comm'n of Human Rights, 270 A.D.2d 186, 706 N.Y.S.2d 18, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3297 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

New York State Division of Human Rights (DHR) abused its discretion by increasing an employer's civil fine to $ 60,000, because the DHR factored the employer's behavior during the administrative proceedings as part of the calculus to increase the fine, as opposed to focusing only whether the employer's discrimination was willful, wanton, or malicious. Matter of JPK Imports/Oneonta, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 165 A.D.3d 1410, 86 N.Y.S.3d 638, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6939 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018), app. denied, 32 N.Y.3d 918, 123 N.E.3d 875, 100 N.Y.S.3d 216, 2019 N.Y. LEXIS 606 (N.Y. 2019).

The protection against discrimination afforded by Executive Law § 296 is at least as broad as that afforded by the Federal Constitution and civil rights statutes. Thus, the determination of the Appellate Division affirming the Appeal Board's affirmance of the State Division of Human Rights' dismissal of former employee's race discrimination claim against former employer on the ground of lack of probable cause, res judicata of all other state actions as a matter of statutory law, would be entitled to full faith and credit in a federal court hearing federal constitutional and civil rights claims. Mitchell v National Broadcasting Co., 553 F.2d 265, 1977 U.S. App. LEXIS 13960 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1977).

Administrative dismissal of age discrimination claim for administrative convenience under CLS Exec Law § 297(9) may not be reviewed by federal court, where employer argues that claim actually was dismissed at employee's request to avoid unfavorable result and thus was not dismissed for administrative convenience, and employee's election of administrative remedy bars judicial remedy. Rivers v Standard & Poor's Corp., 764 F. Supp. 54, 1991 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7351 (S.D.N.Y. 1991).

39. Judicial enforcement

In proceedings brought by several airline company employees who had allegedly been discharged because of their age, the State Human Rights Appeal Board exceeded its powers by reinstating the complaints that had been dismissed on the grounds of administrative convenience by the State Division of Human Rights, since the Division was authorized to dismiss a complaint on such basis in its "unreviewable discretion", under Exec Law § 297(3), notwithstanding that the Board is empowered to review the dismissal to determine whether it contravenes any statute, constitutional right, or divisional regulation, where there was no claim that the Division's decision was improper under its regulations or any statute, and dismissal for administrative convenience following settlement of a federal action involving similar allegations did not finally deprive the employees of their interests under the Human Rights Law since they could maintain the same type of action in a state court and receive a hearing on the merits. Pan American World Airways, Inc. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 61 N.Y.2d 542, 475 N.Y.S.2d 256, 463 N.E.2d 597, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4178 (N.Y. 1984).

Where Special Term modified an order of the State Commission on Human Rights by deleting a paragraph requiring certain apartment owners to maintain records for one year showing the number of apartments rented, the number unrented, and as to each vacant apartment the number of rooms, required rental, and names and addresses of accepted and rejected applicants with reasons for rejection, such paragraph was reinstated as being reasonably related to the unlawful act which such owners were found to have committed and as not imposing undue hardship upon them. Kindt v State Com. for Human Rights, 23 A.D.2d 809, 258 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), aff'd, 16 N.Y.2d 1001, 265 N.Y.S.2d 662, 212 N.E.2d 898, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1001 (N.Y. 1965).

Before the court exercises its discretion in issuing an enforcement order, there must be an appropriate record basis, i.e., that the papers disclose the results of the investigation made and that the Division has made findings as a result thereof. State Div. of Human Rights v Union Carbide Corp., 34 A.D.2d 636, 310 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5023 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970), dismissed, 28 N.Y.2d 555, 319 N.Y.S.2d 447, 268 N.E.2d 127, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1595 (N.Y. 1971).

The directions of the Commissioner of Human Rights are not self-enforcing and they are not brought into play unless there has been a violation of a Division Order, and then the Division must seek an enforcement order for non-compliance. State Div. of Human Rights v Janica, 37 A.D.2d 444, 326 N.Y.S.2d 854, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2745 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1971).

Supreme Court improperly reinstated petitioner as permanent employee on finding of unlawful discriminatory discharge where, at time of discharge, he had completed only 8 months of one-year probationary period; petitioner was only entitled to reinstatement to probationary title he held at time of discharge. Obas v Kiley, 149 A.D.2d 422, 539 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4393 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In an action to punish a landlord for contempt of court for wilful failure to obey the provisions of a court order enforcing an order of the Civil Rights Commission, an intervenor was relegated to a plenary action pursuant to Executive Law § 297(9) and any award for compensatory or punitive damages would have to be made by the court having jurisdiciton of that action. State Com. for Human Rights v Kennelly, 59 Misc. 2d 278, 299 N.Y.S.2d 342, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1651 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969).

In Article 78 proceeding by petitioner who was terminated from his job as school bus driver for failing to complete alcoholism treatment program (pursuant to CLS Veh & Tr § 509-b), petitioner could not assert discrimination claim under CLS Exec § 296; such claims must be initiated by administrative proceeding before State Division of Human Rights or by bringing action for damages. Marcotte v Corinth Cent. Sch. Dist., 166 Misc. 2d 881, 635 N.Y.S.2d 1021, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 593 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

40. Administrative review

Appellate Division can only set aside determination of commissioner of Division of Human Rights if such determination is arbitrary or capricious; thus, it improperly set aside commissioner's award of back pay after having affirmed its finding of discrimination. Mize v State Div. of Human Rights, 33 N.Y.2d 53, 349 N.Y.S.2d 364, 304 N.E.2d 231, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1002 (N.Y. 1973).

Scope of State Human Rights Appeal Board's review is limited by statute and Board may not reverse a decision of the Division of Human Rights "in the interests of justice" nor may it substitute its judgment for that of the Division. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Powers v Mecca Kendall Corp., 53 A.D.2d 201, 385 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12506 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Complainant, who filed a complaint with the State Division of Human Rights two and one-half months after his job demotion alleging a violation of the Human Rights Law, is entitled to have an order of the Human Rights Appeal Board dismissing an appeal to the board annulled and the matter remanded for further proceedings where after nearly a year passed following complainant's demotion without the matter being scheduled for a hearing, the division, pursuant to a request by complainant's counsel, ordered the matter dismissed for administrative convenience in order that complainant could obtain redress through court action, and subsequently amended its prior order such that the dismissal was effective nunc pro tunc as of the date of the original request following dismissal of the court action commenced by complainant due to untimeliness because the division's jurisdiction was exclusive while the matter was pending before it (Executive Law, § 297, subd 9) and the prior order of dismissal was made more than one year after the date of complainant's demotion; the dismissal of an appeal by complainant's employer from the division's amended order to the appeal board on the ground that it had no jurisdiction to review dismissal of the complaint grounded on administrative convenience (Executive Law, § 297, subd 3, par c) is annulled since although the division may in its unreviewable discretion dismiss the complaint on the grounds of administrative convenience and shall then issue an order containing notice of a right to appeal to the appeal board (9 NYCRR 465.5 [d] [1], [3]), the board has jurisdiction over appeals from any order of the Commissioner of Human Rights (9 NYCRR 550.2) and order of the commissioner is defined as "any order dismissing a complaint, other than a dismissal on grounds of administrative convenience" (9 NYCRR 550.3 [i] [3]). What is prohibited is review by the appeal board of the discretionary act of the division in determining to dismiss a complaint for administrative convenience, and inasmuch as that action differs from the action in determining the date such dismissal is to be effective, the latter act is not proscribed from administrative appellate review, for if there were no review, complainant would be deprived of a forum in which to air his claim; the principle of administrative finality may not be applied to preclude correction of error by the administrative agency itself where the determination is the result of irregularity in vital matters. Eastern Airlines, Inc. v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 66 A.D.2d 581, 413 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10057 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1979).

Commissioner is required to make prompt investigation by field visit, written or oral inquiry, conference, or any method or combination thereof; matter is remitted to division for full and thorough investigation where probable cause issue was investigated in cursory and abbreviated manner and no independent inquiry was conducted to verify complainant's assertions prior to issue of no probable cause determination; investigation consisting of one interview with employer's personnel officer, obtaining copies of leave of absence policy and office memoranda together with letters from employer's attorney is insufficient. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Beckman v Gaylord Bros., Inc., 112 A.D.2d 726, 492 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56237 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Determination by Division of Human Rights finding no probable cause to believe that employee was terminated due to her religious beliefs would be annulled and matter remanded for public hearing where sparseness of record prevented proper review. Bentkowsky v Tokio Re Corp., 139 A.D.2d 436, 527 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3975 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

State Division of Human Rights properly denied landlord's application to reopen hearing into determination entered on default that landlord unlawfully discriminated on basis of race and marital status, where only excuse offered for failing to answer was that landlord "found it unimaginable that the complaint would be sustained because there was no discrimination in refusing to rent to [complainant] an apartment in a building which was and is predominantly tenanted by persons of the same race as [complainant]," and landlord offered only bare allegations regarding meritorious defense and failed to serve proposed answer to underlying complaint with application to reopen hearing. Interboro Management Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 139 A.D.2d 697, 527 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Appropriate standard of review of no probable cause determination of Division of Human Rights regarding possible violations of CLS Exec § 298, where no public hearing was held under CLS Exec § 297(4)(a), was whether determination was arbitrary and capricious, or lacking in rational basis, and not substantial evidence test. Giles v State Div. of Human Rights, 166 A.D.2d 779, 563 N.Y.S.2d 142, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12018 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Mandamus to compel Division of Human Rights (DHR) to determine motion to dismiss complaint prior to substantive hearing on charge of unlawful discriminatory employment practice was not appropriate remedy since petitioners failed to demonstrate existence of duty which was ministerial in nature; neither CLS Exec § 297 nor Rules of Practice of DHR provided for prehearing motion practice. Central New York Centro, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 142 Misc. 2d 935, 539 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

In proceeding challenging State Division of Human Rights' dismissal of race discrimination complaint at complainant's request on ground of "administrative inconvenience" under CLS Exec § 297, petitioner's request for admissions of fact that division had not dismissed any complaints on such ground within last 2 years except where first requested by complainant, in order to establish arbitrary or capricious activity on division's part, would be denied on ground that it sought conclusions about material issues for which notice to admit may not be utilized. New York Tel. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 Misc. 2d 765, 561 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Determination made by State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) which, after reopening previous finding of probable cause, found "no probable cause" and dismissed petitioner's complaint, was arbitrary and capricious where (1) reopening order specifically contemplated remand to regional director for further investigation, but petitioner's counsel was never formally advised what additional evidence was needed and was not specifically asked to produce particular additional evidence, (2) record failed to show that any additional post-reopening investigation was conducted, and (3) SDHR did not explain its reversal of initial assessment finding probable cause. Boyea v New York State Exec. Dep't, Div. of Human Rights, 178 Misc. 2d 398, 679 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 471 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

41. Validity of administrative orders

In a proceeding alleging sex discrimination, an order properly directed a non-profit, tax-exempt foreign corporation and three of its local charter organizations located in New York to discontinue in New York their male-only membership practices, to extend membership invitations to female complainants and to submit annual statistical reports detailing the number of male and female members in the New York organizations as that remedy was neither overbroad nor excessive. United States Power Squadrons v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 59 N.Y.2d 401, 465 N.Y.S.2d 871, 452 N.E.2d 1199, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3181 (N.Y. 1983).

Under regulation of the Human Rights Appeal Board authorizing Board to consider and decide issues presented by record but not specifically indicated in notice of appeal or requested when there is not resulting prejudice to a party's rights, where there was no objection to Board's right to amend determination of Division of the Human Rights, modification did not prejudice substantial right of party and there was no cross appeal, Board had authority to make modification in favor of complainant. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Mossler v Westmoreland Cent. School Dist., 56 A.D.2d 205, 392 N.Y.S.2d 149, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10047 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Notwithstanding that a union was properly found to have discriminated against its minority trainees through various means which resulted in blocking the trainees' attainment of class "A" journeyman status with the union, the provision of the remedial order which provided for issuance to minority trainees of "A" cards regardless of training, qualification, or status was improper, where every other union member had to pass the "A" examination to become an "A" journeyman and therefore minority trainees who complete the required training were to be afforded an opportunity to take the next scheduled "A" examination. Schuck v State Div. of Human Rights, 102 A.D.2d 673, 478 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18838 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1984).

In proceeding under Human Rights Law alleging racial discrimination, Commissioner of State Division of Human Rights erred in failing to set forth rationale for ordering damages for embarrassment, hurt and public humiliation in amount of $10,000 each for 4 complainants and $7,500 for fifth complainant. Specialty Restaurants v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 179 A.D.2d 1036, 579 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2377 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Employer was denied due process where individual who appeared as counsel for Division of Human Rights in early stages of employment discrimination proceeding later became Commissioner of Human Rights and thereafter issued final determination in instant matter. Pepsico, Inc. v Rosa, 213 A.D.2d 550, 624 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4449 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 86 N.Y.2d 837, 634 N.Y.S.2d 445, 658 N.E.2d 223, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3707 (N.Y. 1995), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 442, 658 N.E.2d 220, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3708 (N.Y. 1995).

As respects statute prohibiting any educational corporation or association that holds itself out to public to be nonsectarian and exempt from taxation from denying "use of its facilities" to any person otherwise qualified, by reason of race, color, religion, or national origin, attempt to distinguish between "denial of use of facilities" and "denial of admission" is a strained and tenuous construction not consonant with plain meaning in language; "use of facilities" covers admission of qualified students. New York University v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 84 Misc. 2d 702, 378 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3202 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 49 A.D.2d 821, 373 N.Y.S.2d 719, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10940 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Grand Jury minutes, sealed pursuant to CPL 160.50 upon the dismissal of indictments against physicians accused of assault in the second degree, may not be disclosed to the Attorney-General for the purpose of aiding an investigation of the physicians' alleged professional misconduct since the purpose of CPL 160.50 and the related subdivision 14 of section 296 of the Executive Law is to protect individuals from adverse consequences based upon unsustained accusations, statutorily allowed judicial discretion to release Grand Jury minutes does not permit the disclosure of minutes sealed pursuant to CPL 160.50 except in limited circumstances and the instant action is not an appropriate case, as the key witness has published a book in which his activities as a "ghost surgeon" are detailed; the Attorney-General has, therefore, failed to demonstrate any overriding need for the Grand Jury minutes. In re Attorney-General of New York, 101 Misc. 2d 36, 420 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2624 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

State Division of Human Rights' administrative convenience dismissal of retaliation complaint was not "purely arbitrary" in view of plaintiff's plan to pursue her state-based claims of continuing sexual harassment and retaliation in federal court action. Universal Packaging Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 179 Misc. 2d 167, 683 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 616 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998), aff'd, 270 A.D.2d 586, 704 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2647 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

It is within the legitimate police powers of the state for the New York Legislature to determine the effects of the so-called "Arab Boycott" in New York, to educate the public accordingly, and to monitor and otherwise evaluate new legislation passed to eradicate discrimination against citizens of New York in terms of such boycotts or black listing because of race, color, creed or national origin. General Electric Co. v New York State Assembly Committee on Governmental Operations, 425 F. Supp. 909, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14579 (N.D.N.Y. 1975).

42. —Orders re housing

Division of Human Rights acted in excess of its authority where, after dismissing complainant's charge that apartment owners discriminated against him by denying him housing accommodations because of his natural origin on the ground of insufficient evidence, went on to find that housing owner had engaged in discriminatory rental practices; if Division had wished to challenge overall rental practices, it should have followed procedures set forth in Executive Law § 297. Hillside Housing Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 44 A.D.2d 539, 353 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5445 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Order of commission issued after hearing under above statute may not extend beyond premises involved in complaint to include also other accommodations owned or controlled by same landlord. Kindt v State Com. for Human Rights, 44 Misc. 2d 896, 254 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), modified, 23 A.D.2d 809, 258 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

Commission order which directed that real estate firm and its officers make listings available to "prospective purchasers without regard to their race, creed, color or national origin," was far too vague and went beyond the reasonable authority of the Commission since a broker should be free to exercise his own business judgment as to how much time and effort he will expend on a person who claims to be a prospective purchaser. State Com. for Human Rights v Suburban Associates, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 920, 286 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), modified, 34 A.D.2d 662, 310 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

43. —Orders re employment

Retroactive seniority ordered by New York City Human Rights Commission in favor of female police officers of New York City Police Department (NYPD), based on pattern of gender-based discrimination engaged in by NYPD, did not violate discretionary appointive authority of police commissioner under "one-in-three rule" of CLS Civ S § 61; commission may fashion remedy to make victim whole for injuries suffered as result of discriminatory employment practices, and commissioner has broad powers to adopt measures which he (or she) reasonably deems necessary to redress injury. Beame v DeLeon, 87 N.Y.2d 289, 639 N.Y.S.2d 272, 662 N.E.2d 752, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4747 (N.Y. 1995).

New York City Human Rights Commission, as remedy for pattern of gender-based discrimination engaged in by New York City Police Department against female police officer, exceeded its powers by directing promotion of officer to police captain even before announcement of results of promotional examination she took for position; such promotion without establishment of her eligibility by passing competitive examination violated Merit and Fitness Clause of CLS NY Const Art V § 6, and salutary purposes of city's Human Rights Law (NYC Admin Code § 8-101 et seq.) to combat and remedy results of gender-based employment discrimination must give way to higher law of state constitution. Beame v DeLeon, 87 N.Y.2d 289, 639 N.Y.S.2d 272, 662 N.E.2d 752, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4747 (N.Y. 1995).

New York City Human Rights Commission, as remedy for pattern of gender-based discrimination engaged in by New York City Police Department (NYPD) against female police officers, had legal authority to backdate retroactive appointments of all subject officers for seniority purposes earlier than December 13, 1965 effective date of amendment of New York City Human Rights Law that first prohibited gender-based discrimination, since sex-based discriminatory seniority system in NYPD had roots preceding statutory prohibition against sex discrimination and was later applied in way that had prejudicial impact on women officers well after sex discrimination was outlawed; Commission's eradication of all gender-based seniority inequality by directing retroactive adjustments of officers' appointment dates even earlier than 1965 was thus rationally related to redress and prevention of recurrence of injuries suffered by officers after anti-sex discrimination legislation was enacted. Beame v DeLeon, 87 N.Y.2d 289, 639 N.Y.S.2d 272, 662 N.E.2d 752, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4747 (N.Y. 1995).

An order of the State Division of Human Rights, which directs a company to "cease and desist from publishing any employment advertisement in any of its newspapers which specifies a preference for applicants on the basis of sex without first securing from the prospective employer or agent thereof a written certification that the job is not covered by the Human Rights Law or is instinct with a bona fide occupational qualification", should not be set aside as the Human Rights Law (Executive Law, art 15) authorizes the Commissioner of Human Rights to direct that an offending party cease and desist from an unlawful discriminatory practice and further authorizes him to direct that affirmative action be taken as will effectuate the purposes of the law (Executive Law, § 297, subd 4, par [c]); while it would be unreasonable to impose upon a newspaper the burden of making an independent investigation to determine whether a particular job is instinct with a bona fide occupational qualification, the purpose and effect of requiring a newspaper to procure the written certification in advance of publication is to eliminate the need for the independent investigation and to insulate the newspaper from the imposition of penalties under the Human Rights Law. State Div. of Human Rights v Binghamton Press Co., 67 A.D.2d 231, 415 N.Y.S.2d 523, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10097 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1979).

In an action by a former employee against her employer charging a violation of the Human Rights Law, the employee, having invoked the jurisdiction of New York State, was properly ordered to appear for oral examination prior to trial in New York City, although she lived in South Carolina. Moreover, the employee, who had moved for class action certification, could not validly contend that she lacked financial resources to travel to New York for examination when she was simultaneously attempting to show that she would fairly and adequately protect the class. Mack v J. C. Penney Co., 81 A.D.2d 761, 439 N.Y.S.2d 118, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11395 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981).

The decision of the Human Rights Appeals Board finding the employer guilty of an unlawful discriminatory practice by discriminating against a female employee because she had opposed practices which were forbidden by the Human Rights Law could not stand where the employer did not discriminate against the complaining employee and other female office workers on the basis of sex and thus the employer could not be found to have retaliated against the complaining employee for having opposed an unlawful practice; however, employees who feel victimized by unlawful discrimination do not act at their peril in trying to expose such practices, since absolute protection is afforded those who seek redress by the commencement of an administrative proceeding. Mohawk Finishing Products, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 83 A.D.2d 970, 442 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15431 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 892, 456 N.Y.S.2d 749, 442 N.E.2d 1260, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3772 (N.Y. 1982).

Retaliation complaint alleging that the employer failed to promote complainant during the pendency of an earlier-filed sex discrimination complaint was properly dismissed where complainant had not taken the required competitive examination needed to qualify for one position in question and where the person promoted to the other position in question had three months actual work experience in that specific position, which experience complainant lacked. Engel v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 84 A.D.2d 640, 444 N.Y.S.2d 288, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15761 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding against a county alleging unlawful discrimination on the basis of sex, the county was properly directed to place complainant's name on the list of eligibles for employment as a police officer where, when the administrative complaint was filed, the complainant's name appeared on the outstanding eligibility list and the complainant was within the age group eligible for appointment as an officer, where the county failed to prosecute an appeal from the administrative review board's affirmance of the original order directing reinstatement to the eligibility list, and where, due to the county's discriminatory practices and the necessity for administrative enforcement of the reinstatement order, the eligibility list expired before complainant's name could be placed thereon; where it is demonstrated that errors have rendered an eligibility list in derogation of the merit and fitness standards and candidates have demonstrated that they were aggrieved by those errors, the statutory durational period does not begin to run until the list is corrected, and Civ S Law § 58 does not provide an absolute bar to eligibility of persons over 29 in such circumstances. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Farella v County of Onondaga, 84 A.D.2d 931, 447 N.Y.S.2d 61, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16194 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding by the state correctional services department and a correctional facility to review a determination of the Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights that a woman was wrongfully denied the position of assistant cook at the correctional facility on the basis of her sex, the correctional services department and the facility would not be directed to appoint the woman to the position of assistant cook since the Commissioner lacked the power to direct another state agency to appoint the woman in that directing her appointment would in effect deprive the appointing authority of the power of selection, despite the fact that there had been no question that the woman had been wrongfully denied the position on the basis of her sex. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cox v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 91 A.D.2d 832, 458 N.Y.S.2d 422, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19737 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

The Division of Human Rights properly directed a city school board to reinstate a former employee to his prior position as an assitant principal where, though the employee had earlier rejected an offer by the school board to reinstate him to another position due to his feeling that he would be unable to function in the existing discriminatory environment, the division's order merely sought to restore the status quo after the discriminatory climate apparently had been eliminated, and where the school board could not properly complain about such order in that the employee's rejection of the earlier offer had resulted from the school board's own discriminatory conduct. New York City Bd. of Education v Sears, 97 A.D.2d 502, 468 N.Y.S.2d 21, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20099 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 61 N.Y.2d 605, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7121 (N.Y. 1984).

Commissioner of Human Rights improperly awarded back pay commencing on date when employer denied complainant's request for 3-year term of renewal of employment, and ending on date when order was entered, where final decision was not rendered until 9 years after proceeding was commenced and delay was attributable to Division of Human Rights, since employer was thereby penalized for division's failure to act in timely manner. State University Agricultural & Technical College v State Div. of Human Rights, 134 A.D.2d 339, 520 N.Y.S.2d 814, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50516 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Penalty of termination of correction officer's employment was not so disproportionate to offenses as to shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness where 2 complainants testified that officer sexually harassed them by exposing himself to them, and third complainant testified that officer sexually assaulted her; either set of charges was sufficient, by itself, to support dismissal. Arroyo v City of New York, 245 A.D.2d 186, 666 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13150 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Court erred in annulling Division of Human Rights' finding of no probable cause and remanding race discrimination case for further investigation based on division's purportedly one-sided and abbreviated investigation where (1) fact-finding conference had lasted several hours, (2) employer's uncontroverted witnesses and documentary evidence showed that petitioner's work performance was subject of numerous complaints, and that he was discharged because he failed to improve despite numerous warnings and counseling sessions, (3) petitioner was replaced by another black employee, and (4) employer had significant percentage of black employees and discharged various employees of different races in same year as it discharged petitioner. McFarland v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 108, 671 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4041 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Selection of number of members of minority groups for position of state trooper for purpose of obtaining more minority representation in state police, without regard to their standing on eligibility list based on competitive examination for such position, would violate state constitutional provision that "Appointments . . . in the civil service . . . shall be made according to merit and fitness to be ascertained, as far as practicable, by examination which, as far as practicable, shall be competitive." Ruddy v Connelie, 89 Misc. 2d 413, 391 N.Y.S.2d 819, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1880 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977), aff'd, 61 A.D.2d 372, 402 N.Y.S.2d 245, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9748 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

Female umpire's state human rights law claim against major and minor baseball leagues may proceed in federal court, despite EEOC's referral of administrative complaint to state human rights division, division's notice to umpire of her options upon EEOC decision, EEOC's unfavorable determination, and umpire's failure to timely notify division of her intentions, because division's compliance with late request for administrative convenience dismissal to permit lawsuit under CLS Exec Law § 297(9) was well within unreviewable discretion granted it. Postema v National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, 799 F. Supp. 1475, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10979 (S.D.N.Y. 1992), rev'd, 998 F.2d 60, 1993 U.S. App. LEXIS 15504 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1993).

VI. Other Procedural Matters

44. Filing notice of claim

In an employment discrimination action against a county, the Appellate Division properly dismissed the complaint which alleged that employment with defendant county was terminated on the basis of plaintiff's race and national origin in violation of Exec Law § 296 where plaintiff's failure to timely file a notice of claim under Gen. Mun L § 50-e was fatal in that the action had not been brought to indicate a public interest and leave to serve a late notice of claim had not been granted. Mills v County of Monroe, 59 N.Y.2d 307, 464 N.Y.S.2d 709, 451 N.E.2d 456, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3161 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 464 U.S. 1018, 104 S. Ct. 551, 78 L. Ed. 2d 725, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2750 (U.S. 1983).

Teacher was not required to comply with notice provisions of Education Law § 3813, subd 1 prior to commencing action before State Division of Human Rights, alleging school board's discriminatory maternity leave policy, to enforce her right to return to her teaching position 5 months earlier than board would permit, and to preserve her right to fringe benefits, even though an award of money damages as back pay was a necessary concomitant of such relief; provisions of Executive Law § 297, subds 2, 4(a), being discretionary, did not deprive Division of jurisdiction to hear claim. Union Free School Dist. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 43 A.D.2d 749, 350 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973), aff'd, 35 N.Y.2d 371, 362 N.Y.S.2d 139, 320 N.E.2d 859, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1177 (N.Y. 1974).

Although action brought under CLS Exec § 296 is not tort claim which falls under notice provisions of General Municipal Law, notice of claim was nevertheless required by CLS Town § 67(1) and (2). Scopelliti v Town of New Castle, 210 A.D.2d 308, 620 N.Y.S.2d 405, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12598 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Actions against municipality to recover damages for unlawful discriminatory practices brought under CLS Exec § 296 are not subject to notice of claim requirement set down in CLS Gen Mun § 50-e for tort claims involving personal injury, wrongful death, or property damage. Morrison v New York City Police Dep't, 214

A.D.2d 394, 625 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, sub. op., 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7519 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't June 20, 1995).

Actions against municipality to recover damages for unlawful discriminatory practices brought under CLS Exec § 296 are not subject to notice of claim requirement set down in CLS Gen Mun § 50-e for tort claims involving personal injury, wrongful death, or property damage. Morrison v New York City Police Dep't, 214 A.D.2d 394, 625 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, sub. op., 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7519 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't June 20, 1995).

Complaint alleging that termination of school teacher's employment was unlawfully based on acts of sex discrimination by principals employed by school district should have been dismissed for failure to comply with notice of claim requirement under CLS Educ § 3813(1). Saranac Lake Cent. Sch. Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 226 A.D.2d 794, 640 N.Y.S.2d 303, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3503 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 816, 651 N.Y.S.2d 406, 674 N.E.2d 336, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3340 (N.Y. 1996)).

Employment discrimination action brought against board of education was properly dismissed for failure to timely file notice of claim under CLS Educ § 3813(1), even though such failure is not fatal where action is brought to vindicate public interest, since plaintiffs were merely seeking damages for lost retirement benefits. Doyle v Board of Educ., 230 A.D.2d 820, 646 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8550 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Compliance with notice of claim requirements of CLS Town § 67 and CLS Gen Mun § 50-e is condition precedent to pursuit of employment discrimination claim against town, regardless of whether claimant files complaint with Division of Human Rights under CLS Exec § 297(1) or commences court action under CLS Exec § 297(9). Town of Brookhaven v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 282 A.D.2d 685, 723 N.Y.S.2d 410, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3965 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Biologist claiming age and sex discrimination in termination of her employment with county health department was entitled to judgment declaring that she was not required to file notice of claim as prerequisite to maintaining that claim under CLS Exec § 296 with State Division of Human Rights (DHR) where (1) notice of claim requirements for tort claims against municipality apply to private discriminatory practice claims under § 296 that are commenced in court of law, not before administrative agency, (2) once person has elected to pursue § 296 claim with administrative agency, he or she is precluded by CLS Exec § 297(9) from pursuing same claim in court of law and thus should not be subjected to rules applicable to court claims, and (3) underlying purpose of notice of claim requirements was satisfied by DHR's compliance with administrative procedures set forth in Human Rights Law that gave county ample opportunity to investigate claim Freudenthal v County of Nassau, 283 A.D.2d 6, 726 N.Y.S.2d 116, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5645 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001), aff'd, 99 N.Y.2d 285, 755 N.Y.S.2d 56, 784 N.E.2d 1165, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 139 (N.Y. 2003).

Before formal complaint was filed, county health department was on notice of potential claim against it under CLS Exec § 296 for age and sex discrimination in termination of biologist's employment and had ample opportunity to investigate and address that claim, and thus underlying purpose of statutory notice of claim requirements was satisfied despite lack of formal notice of claim with county, where (1) within weeks after termination on January 9, 1992, county human rights commission began investigating biologist's claim, (2) that investigation included conversations with some of biologist's former colleagues, including at least one bureau chief, (3) formal charges of discrimination were filed with State Division of Human Rights (DHR) on April 21, 1992, less than 4 months after termination, (4) DHR requested that county health department respond to discovery requests no later than June 24, 1992, and (5) at least twice between July and September 1992, county health department offered to DHR documentation and explanations to support its actions. Freudenthal v County of Nassau, 283 A.D.2d 6, 726 N.Y.S.2d 116, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5645 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001), aff'd, 99 N.Y.2d 285, 755 N.Y.S.2d 56, 784 N.E.2d 1165, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 139 (N.Y. 2003).

Lower court did not have authority to grant the employee leave to file a late claim for discrimination, pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e(5) because N.Y. Rac. Pari-Mut. Wag. & Breed. Law § 618 did not contain any provision permitting the service of a late notice of claim. A cause of action under the New York Human Rights Law was not categorized as a tort for notice of claim purposes. Marino v N.Y. City Off-Track Betting Corp., 12 A.D.3d 606, 785 N.Y.S.2d 481, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14216 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2004).

Gender discrimination claim against city and its Health and Hospitals Corporation under CLS Exec § 296 was not barred by plaintiff's failure to file notice of claim under CLS Gen Mun § 50-e and CLS Unconsol Ch 214-A § 20, since New York courts do not regard claims under § 296 as tort claims. Dortz v City of New York, 904 F. Supp. 127, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14438 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

Cause of action, alleging that plaintiff was falsely imprisoned by his supervisor on day he was discharged, was independent of employment discrimination claim arising from plaintiff's discharge; thus, one-year statute of limitations under CLS CPLR § 215 was not tolled by CLS Exec § 297, which prohibits plaintiff who has filed discrimination claim with Division of Human Rights from bringing same claim to courts until conclusion of division proceeding. Lugo v Milford Mgmt. Corp., 956 F. Supp. 1120, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2004 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

Former employee's claims under N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 296 and 297 failed because (1) the plain language of N.Y. County Law § 52 clearly incorporated the notice of claim requirement contained in N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e and applied it to any claim or notice of claim against a county for invasion of personal or property rights, of every name and nature; (2) the notice of claim provision covered the employee's claims against the county and its entities, which included a community college, an entity that was owned and operated by the county and whose employees were considered county employees; (3) the employee failed to satisfy the notice of claim requirement contained in N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e because the employee failed to file a notice of claim; (4) the action was a private civil rights lawsuit and had not been brought in the public interest; (5) the employee never sought leave to serve a late notice of claim; and (6) the employee failed to offer a single case in which a court held that the filing of a complaint with the New York State Department of Human Rights, or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, satisfied the notice requirement of N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e. Cody v County of Nassau, 577 F. Supp. 2d 623, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 72262 (E.D.N.Y. 2008), aff'd, 345 Fed. Appx. 717, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20662 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

45. Prehearing motion practice

A proceeding in the nature of mandamus to compel the State Division of Human Rights to determine a prehearing motion to dismiss a complaint filed with the Division against petitioner does not lie where petitioner failed to demonstrate the existence of a duty which is ministerial in nature, not calling for the exercise of judgment or discretion; neither Executive Law § 297, nor the Rules of Practice of the Division (see, 9 NYCRR 465.1 et seq.) provide for prehearing motion practice. Central New York Centro, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 142 Misc. 2d 935, 539 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Petitioner, who took written and practical exams for master plumber's license in 1992-1994 and anticipated bringing discrimination action against city on ground that she was denied passing grade because she was female, was entitled to preaction discovery order directing city to preserve and produce for inspection work submitted by applicants for master plumber's license in those years since (1) petitioner had not requested information as to other employees or applicants without limit as to time, nature, or geographical location, but only asked for preservation of testing materials that were directly relevant to proving her discrimination case, and (2) it is in interests of clearly expressed state policy, judicial economy, and speedy enforcement of civil rights to afford prompt and broad discovery in civil rights and discrimination actions. O'Grady v City of New York, 164 Misc. 2d 171, 624 N.Y.S.2d 337, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 75 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

46. Right to counsel

Petitioner who is dissatisfied with performance of division's attorney may secure his own attorney, and accordingly court is unmoved by claim of inadequate legal representation by division's attorney. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Campbell v Rochester Products Div. of General Motors Corp., 112 A.D.2d 785, 492 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56028 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Executive Law § 297(4)(a) does not provide that private complainant appearing before New York Division of Human Rights has option of being represented by counsel provided by Division; language of statute provides for Division lawyers to present case "in support of the complaint" not in support of plaintiff; in early investigative stage no Division attorney is provided to represent private employee and in later appellate stage Division attorney, if present at all, appears only as advocate of decision rendered by Division or of Appeal Board, which may have denied employee's claim or granted less relief than complainant sought. Carey v New York Gaslight Club, Inc., 598 F.2d 1253, 1979 U.S. App. LEXIS 14825 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1979), aff'd, 447 U.S. 54, 100 S. Ct. 2024, 64 L. Ed. 2d 723, 1980 U.S. LEXIS 128 (U.S. 1980).

47. Right to jury trial

Plaintiff was entitled to jury trial in age discrimination action brought under CLS Exec § 297 where sole relief sought was money damages to compensate him for what he would have earned, both by way of salary and other benefits, had he remained in defendant's employ until his normal retirement, and additional award for punitive damages; plaintiff's ritualistic use in prayer for relief of language "and such other and further relief as...seems just and proper" did not change legal character of relief demanded, which was monetary and would afford plaintiff full and complete remedy as required under CLS CPLR § 4101, and fact that he sought damages for past and future lost earnings did not render relief sought equitable. Age discrimination suit brought under CLS Exec § 297, seeking monetary relief only, is for legal wrong triable by jury; thus, it was error for court to strike plaintiff's jury demand on ground of "an always present possibility" that it might grant nonmonetary equitable relief pursuant to CLS CPLR § 3017, since plaintiff had made clear that he did not seek or wish reinstatement or other injunctive relief but wished to be compensated by appropriate monetary award, and there was nothing in facts set forth by him to prevent entry of money judgment only for attainment of full and complete relief. Murphy v American Home Products Corp., 136 A.D.2d 229, 527 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3730 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

In action for employment discrimination and sexual harassment, plaintiff was entitled to jury trial where she sought back pay and compensatory money damages for mental pain and suffering and alleged wrongful infliction of mental distress, and did not seek equitable relief, since (1) although plaintiff's complaint cited 42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq., which provides for equitable relief only, it was clear that she was proceeding primarily under state law, (2) although plaintiff sought "appropriate relief in contract," it was clear that she would be able to receive full redress from award of money damages only, and (3) although plaintiff sought "such other and further relief as the Court deems appropriate and in the interest of justice," use of that ritualistic language did not change nature of relief sought. Vega v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 146 A.D.2d 495, 536 N.Y.S.2d 451, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 228 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Plaintiff was not entitled to jury trial in action alleging age discrimination in employment where he sought both monetary damages and equitable relief in form of judgment setting aside his retirement and reinstating him to his former position. Bockino v Metropolitan Transp. Auth., 224 A.D.2d 471, 638 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 1017, 644 N.Y.S.2d 150, 666 N.E.2d 1064, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. 1996), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 805, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1688 (N.Y. 1996).

In action under Human Rights Law (CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq.), plaintiff was denied his constitutional right to jury trial when court granted defendant's motion for remittitur, reducing jury award from $750,000 to $75,000, without offering plaintiff option of new trial on damages. Lightfoot v Union Carbide Corp., 110 F.3d 898, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 5785 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1997).

Terminated teacher's jury demand is stricken, where she asserted entitlement to jury trial under CLS Exec Law § 297 only after it became clear that she had no right to jury trial under Title VII (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.), because complaint does not even suggest that action was brought pursuant to state law. Smith v New York City Bd. of Educ., 918 F. Supp. 120, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2679 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

48. Subpoenas

In a human rights proceeding against a stock brokerage company, a subpoena duces tecum issued by the Division of Human Rights which demanded that the company produce copies of the EEO-1 form for specified years would be quashed, since such forms were available to the Division from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission upon request, and the brokerage company was under no affirmative duty to furnish them; additionally, a subpoena duces tecum that sought the complete personnel files of certain enumerated brokerage employees would be quashed, since the Division failed to demonstrate the requisite necessity and relevancy of such material to overcome the employees' rights of privacy in the information contained in their personnel records; finally, a subpoena duces tecum that requested names, dates of hire, dates of termination, race and color, and performance evaluations for all persons who had been terminated by the brokerage company during specified periods on the basis of tardiness would be modified so as to permit the brokerage company to delete the names of the individuals concerned from such records so as to protect their confidentiality. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. v New York State Executive Dep't Div. of Human Rights, 98 A.D.2d 676, 469 N.Y.S.2d 412, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20967 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1983).

Subpoena issued by complainant in proceeding before state division of human rights is nonjudicial subpoena under CPLR 2302 which may be enforced under CPLR 2308; however, contempt punishment cannot be sought until compliance has been judicially ordered but not forthcoming. Dias v Consolidated Edison Co., 116 A.D.2d 453, 496 N.Y.S.2d 686, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51309 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

49. Summary Judgment

Insurance company was properly granted summary judgment in discrimination action brought by insurance agent under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) where company's submissions showed that agent was responsible for financing her own operating expenses and support staff, she was paid by performance rather than salary, she did not have federal, state or local taxes withheld from her pay, she could sell competitors' products, and she had agreed by contract to operate as independent contractor; facts that agent was compelled to attend regular company meetings and was asked to draw up job description for her position were not inconsistent with her status as independent contractor. Scott v Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 86 N.Y.2d 429, 633 N.Y.S.2d 754, 657 N.E.2d 769, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3548 (N.Y. 1995).

Absence of evidence of formal boycott or blacklisting campaign will not be fatal to discrimination claim under CLS Exec § 296(13); for example, evidence establishing that defendant engaged in pattern of conduct that commercially disadvantaged only members of protected class may be sufficient to defeat summary judgment. Scott v Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., 86 N.Y.2d 429, 633 N.Y.S.2d 754, 657 N.E.2d 769, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3548 (N.Y. 1995).

Employer was entitled to summary judgment dismissing employee's action for age discrimination where employee admitted that his computer skills were not up to par, that he had been warned about this problem and took no action to become more proficient, and that he failed to complete inventory project by his self-imposed deadline; single good performance appraisal, more than year prior to his termination, was not sufficient to raise question of fact with regard to reason for termination. Brooks v

Blue Cross, 195 A.D.2d 814, 600 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7251 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Defendants were entitled to summary judgment in action allegedly racial discrimination and retaliation in violation of CLS Exec §§ 296 and 297(9) where plaintiff put forth nothing to counter defendants' strong showing that actions complained of were taken as result of his hostile, aggressive confrontations with his co-workers and with employees of outside agencies, his large number of unauthorized absences, and his failure to complete assigned work on schedule; moreover, he failed to document single instance when he was treated differently from any other employee who was similarly situated. Hall v Paladino, 210 A.D.2d 595, 619 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12458 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), app. dismissed, 85 N.Y.2d 923, 627 N.Y.S.2d 324, 650 N.E.2d 1326, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1367 (N.Y. 1995).

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment in action arising from termination of plaintiff's employment on basis of alleged reduction in work force where plaintiff was part of protected age group, and evidence indicated that plaintiff might have been qualified for other positions which were awarded to other younger employees. Landwehr v Grey Advertising, 211 A.D.2d 583, 622 N.Y.S.2d 17, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 850 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Court should have granted employer's motion for summary judgment where employee failed to show that employer's justification for his discharge was pretextual, existence of fact issue that he satisfactorily performed his job during period in question, or that his involuntary retirement was for other, impermissible reasons than those attested to by his supervisors. Burkland v IBM, 226 A.D.2d 316, 642 N.Y.S.2d 501, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4631 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Employer was not entitled to summary judgment dismissing plaintiff's age discrimination claim where employer's favorable evaluations of plaintiff's job performance for over decade and up until time plaintiff turned 60 years old raised fact issues as to whether poor job performance was pretext for age discrimination. Cella v Fordham Univ., 228 A.D.2d 300, 644 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7146 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Defendants were entitled to summary judgment in action alleging numerous violations of CLS Exec § 296 predicated on hostile work environment created by plaintiff's co-workers, even though plaintiff, who was male, was subjected to tasteless, offensive, and insulting remarks, since there was nothing to indicate that alleged harassment was based on his gender. Yukoweic v IBM, 228 A.D.2d 775, 643 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6418 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 816, 651 N.Y.S.2d 17, 673 N.E.2d 1244, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3317 (N.Y. 1996).

Court properly denied defendant' s summary judgment motion in action alleging disability discrimination since purportedly inconsistent position that plaintiff took before Social Security Administration in applying for disability benefits was not asserted against defendant and did not involve same standard as one at issue herein; moreover, plaintiff's appearance before Social Security Administration, which did not entail hearing, did not constitute type of prior legal proceeding that could form basis for application of judicial estoppel. Ferring v Merrill Lynch & Co., 244 A.D.2d 204, 664 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11386 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Court should have granted defendant employer's summary judgment motion in action alleging sex discrimination where evaluations made of plaintiff's work by various partners of defendant over years of her employment provided ample support for decision to terminate her employment, and plaintiff relied primarily on mere unsupported hearsay statements contained in her own affidavit and deposition testimony, despite 6 years of discovery. Schwaller v Squire Sanders & Dempsey, 249 A.D.2d 195, 671 N.Y.S.2d 759, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4661 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Defendants were not entitled to summary judgment in employee's action for age discrimination where there were triable issues of fact as to whether employee was replaced by younger person and whether reason advanced by defendants was pretext. Dolgon v Standard Motor Prods., Inc., 251 A.D.2d 281, 671 N.Y.S.2d 1023, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6360 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Court erred in denying defendant's summary judgment motion in action under CLS Exec § 296 for unlawful termination of employment where there was no evidence that defendant's president knew of plaintiff's pregnancy before he terminated her employment, and it was undisputed that president was negotiating with third party to be plaintiff's replacement before he learned of her pregnancy. Smith v Paris Int'l Corp., 267 A.D.2d 223, 699 N.Y.S.2d 490, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12616 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Defendants, plaintiffs' employer and owner, should have been granted summary judgment in action alleging national origin discrimination where there was no evidence that they encouraged, condoned, or approved of employee's allegedly discriminatory conduct. Escobar v Spartan Assemblies, Inc., 267 A.D.2d 272, 700 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12942 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Defendant was properly granted summary judgment in action alleging that plaintiff, licensed architect, was fired from her position as associate, after 14 years of increasingly responsible employment with defendant, because of her sex where plaintiff presented no evidence that she was replaced by male employee; further, defendant showed that plaintiff was discharged for poor work performance. Kapila v Divney, 269 A.D.2d 127, 702 N.Y.S.2d 56, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 985 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Court improperly granted defendants' summary judgment motion on ground that award of Workers' Compensation benefits barred instant claim for sexual discrimination by plaintiff against her employers where workers' compensation award resulted solely from attempted videotaping of plaintiff by co-worker while she was in company locker room, and did not implicate alleged, intentional activities of company officer in subjecting her to hostile work environment by directing inappropriate sexual remarks and jokes toward her, and making demands on her for sexual relations in exchange for forgiving loan. Hanford v Plaza Packaging Corp., 284 A.D.2d 179, 727 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6182 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9220 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't Sept. 25, 2001).

Court properly dismissed plaintiff's action alleging hostile work environment where defendant's alleged misconduct consisted merely of occasional sarcastic remarks about plaintiff's weight and heightened awareness of plaintiff's medical condition. Novak v Royal Life Ins. Co. of N.Y., 284 A.D.2d 892, 726 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Court properly denied defendants' summary judgment motion in action alleging disparate treatment as to terms and conditions of plaintiff's employment due to his disability where affidavit of plaintiff's treating endocrinologist raised fact issue on whether plaintiff's disability prevented him from being able to perform job duties as of time of his actual termination, despite clear conflict between opinion stated in present affidavit and that previously expressed by endocrinologist, where endocrinologist gave rational explanation for discrepancy. Novak v Royal Life Ins. Co. of N.Y., 284 A.D.2d 892, 726 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Plaintiff's application for and acceptance of disability benefits was not fatal to his action alleging disparate treatment as to terms and conditions of his employment due to disability where employer, by purposefully relieving plaintiff of his duties and "plac(ing) him in a non-salary status unless he fulfill(ed) the requirements for short-term disability," effectively required plaintiff to file application for disability benefits. Novak v Royal Life Ins. Co. of N.Y., 284 A.D.2d 892, 726 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

In action to impose individual liability against employer's manager (defendant) based on his actions in discriminating against plaintiff on basis of his illness, court improperly denied defendant's summary judgment motion since plaintiff's conclusory allegations that "everyone at (employer) knew, as I did, that (defendant) as head of our employer ... had the power to hire, fire, transfer and promote employees in (employer's) headquarters" was insufficient to raise fact issue as to whether defendant had any ownership in employer or any power to do more than carry out personnel decisions made by others. Novak v Royal Life Ins. Co. of N.Y., 284 A.D.2d 892, 726 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Court should have granted employer's motion for summary judgment where employee failed to show that employer's justification for his discharge was pretextual, existence of fact issue that he satisfactorily performed his job during period in question, or that his involuntary retirement was for other, impermissible reasons than those attested to by his supervisors. Burkland 226 ad2d 316.

Defendants were not entitled to summary judgment in action for employment discrimination in violation of CLS Exec § 296 where (1) plaintiff was hired by defendants to reprise his role as voice of character in commercial, (2) after commercial was shown and defendants decided to make additional commercials with same character, defendant auditioned actors for commercial and did not even contact plaintiff, allegedly due to his age and handicap, (3) defendants claimed that their conduct was based on demands made by plaintiff in connection with first commercial, and (4) plaintiff contended that he conveyed information to defendants that he was willing to work pursuant to their conditions on future commercials; resolution of why defendants refused to hire plaintiff involved fact issues inappropriate for summary judgment. Maxwell v N.W. Ayer, Inc., 159 Misc. 2d 454, 605 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 470 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

Defendants, plaintiff's immediate supervisor and employee in company's personnel department who allegedly became aware of sexual harassment and did nothing to remedy it, were entitled to summary judgment in sexual harassment action where plaintiff failed to raise fact issue under "economic reality" test as to whether either defendant should be considered "employer." Foley v Mobil Chem. Co., 170 Misc. 2d 1, 647 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 302 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

Defendant was not entitled summary judgment, even though it showed legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for plaintiff's termination, reduction-in-force policy which caused plaintiff's termination in favor of 2 mail co-workers who had vocational training and could work in both electrical and mechanical departments, where plaintiff, who had been employed in electrical department, submitted affidavits by co-workers and supervisors that she could perform more sophisticated wiring tasks than men, and that there was policy of gender segregation. Hughes v Prim Hall Enters., 182 Misc. 2d 892, 701 N.Y.S.2d 839, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 544 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

District Court properly granted defendant airline's summary judgment motion dismissing age discrimination action, even though plaintiff pilots demonstrated prima facie case, where there was no evidence to suggest that defendant's stated nondiscriminatory reasons for challenged employment actions were false. Abdu-Brisson v Delta Air Lines, Inc., 239 F.3d 456, 2001 U.S. App. LEXIS 2041 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 534 U.S. 993, 122 S. Ct. 460, 151 L. Ed. 2d 378, 2001 U.S. LEXIS 9990 (U.S. 2001).

50. Damages, generally

Record of proceeding before State Human Rights Division on appeal and on review demonstrated that, had complainant accepted employment offered, her damages would have been minimal, if not eliminated. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 59 A.D.2d 1048, 399 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14335 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding alleging that the State Parks and Recreation Commission committed an unlawful discriminatory practice against complainant based upon religion in refusing to hire complainant, an award by the Commissioner of Human Rights granting damages representing earnings complainant lost when he was denied a noncompetitive summer position was properly made, since there was no reasonable probability that complainant would not have been certified for the position, in that the Civil Service Department did not suggest any grounds for disqualification and therefore, the award purportedly representing back pay less ordinary payroll deductions was legally an award for a violation of complainant's civil rights requiring no discount in the amount of lost wages to reflect the contingency of nonappointment. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Geraci v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 90 A.D.2d 51, 456 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Petitioner was not entitled to money damages on showing that he was wrongfully denied admission, on basis of his sex, to promotional test for position of county correction officer II where (1) he had later received provisional appointment to that position, (2) his provisional status had been revoked, not because of discriminatory action in connection with prior examination, but due to his failure to rank high enough on new promotional list based on later examination, and (3) there was insufficient evidence that he suffered any mental anguish. Crayton v County of Suffolk, 139 A.D.2d 577, 527 N.Y.S.2d 79, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3907 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Damage award of $7,080 for landlord's refusal to rent to complainant because of race and marital status was excessive and matter would be remanded for reassessment of award. Interboro Management Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 139 A.D.2d 697, 527 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Court would direct on remittitur that State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) retain neutral hearing officer for purpose of reassessing damages where potential conflict of interest existed from complainant's status as employee of SDHR; matter should be referred to New York City Commission on Human Rights, which had concurrent jurisdiction, or outside hearing officer. Interboro Management Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 139 A.D.2d 697, 527 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Award of back pay in action against college for discrimination would be reduced to limit compensation to period of 1 ½ years following unlawful termination since respondent testified that she expected to remain in job only as long as she was student and that she expected to be student for only additional 1 ½ years before obtaining college degree. SUNY College of Environmental Science & Forestry v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 962, 534 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14449 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Division of Human Rights properly determined that complainant was entitled to award of back pay to be calculated at rate of assistant principal where substantial evidence supported finding that complainant would have received assistant principal's salary had he not been wrongfully removed from his position as interim acting assistant principal. New York City Bd. of Education v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 154 A.D.2d 679, 546 N.Y.S.2d 883, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13781 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Although substantial evidence supported determination of Commissioner of Human Rights that complainant's employment was terminated solely due to her pregnancy, her backpay award should have been reduced to reflect fact that she obtained other employment. Empbanque Capital Corp. v White, 158 A.D.2d 686, 551 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2356 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Because of strong state policy underlying broad hiring discretion vested in city and its appointing authorities under CLS Civ S § 61, plaintiff had merely "a hope of appointment" from having passed civil service examination, not legally protectable interest in appointment; thus, award of summary judgment in favor of plaintiff on her cause of action for unlawful disability discrimination against city did not entitle her to award of back pay or other retroactive benefits. Carro v City of New York, 214 A.D.2d 450, 625 N.Y.S.2d 516, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4423 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), reh'g denied, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8602 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't Aug. 3, 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 804, 639 N.Y.S.2d 782, 662 N.E.2d 1072, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 5696 (N.Y. 1995).

Judicial Hearing Officer (JHO), in purporting to hold tenant liable to landlord for back rent, acted beyond his jurisdiction where court had consolidated landlord's summary holdover proceeding with tenant's discrimination action, deeming holdover proceeding to be counterclaim, and on landlord's default in failing to comply with discovery demands, court struck his answer, referring case to JHO for determination of tenant's damages. Likoua v Saudi, 231 A.D.2d 609, 647 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9469 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Award of back pay should have been reduced by amount of unemployment insurance petitioner received during period covered by award. Allender v Mercado, 233 A.D.2d 153, 649 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11498 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 1055, 659 N.Y.S.2d 846, 681 N.E.2d 1292, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 765 (N.Y. 1997).

Because an employee was subjected to a hostile work environment, based on sex, that led to the employee's constructive discharge, pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 296(1), 297(4)(c), the employer and its president were liable for the discriminatory conduct, and the employee was entitled to back pay, compensatory damages, and pre-determination interest. Matter of Eastport Assoc., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 71 A.D.3d 890, 897 N.Y.S.2d 177, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2066 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

Award of damages for lost pay and reimbursement for counseling services in the amount of $4,776, and compensatory damages for pain and suffering in the amount of $10,000, in case of employment discrimination were proper; the award for compensatory damages was based on the employer's conduct that resulted in, among other things, suicidal thoughts and the employee's need to attend counseling for nine months at an out-of-pocket cost of $200. In this regard, the award for emotional pain and suffering did not deviate markedly from comparable awards for similar injuries. Matter of Tosha Rests., LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 79 A.D.3d 1337, 911 N.Y.S.2d 734, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9173 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Award of $200,000 to a student who had been subjected to racial discrimination at a school was supported by the evidence; however, although the student's mother was entitled to relief, a $200,000 award to her was reduced to $50,000. Injunctive relief ordered by the division was appropriate. Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

Division of Human Rights properly concluded that a hearing-impaired court interpreter established a prima facie case of disability discrimination because permitting the interpreter to wear a hearing aid was a reasonable accommodation and would not pose a significant risk of substantial harm where the employer failed to provide any legitimate non-discriminatory reason for its decision, no sufficiently individualized assessment occurred, and, given the employer's blanket policy barring hearing-impaired persons from employment as court officers and its failure to accommodate the employee who had an asymmetric hearing loss, the civil penalty of $ 30,000 was correctly assessed. Matter of New York State Unified Ct. Sys. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 180 A.D.3d 555, 120 N.Y.S.3d 292, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1244 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 35 N.Y.3d 916, 157 N.E.3d 141, 2020 N.Y. LEXIS 2545 (N.Y. 2020).

Jury award of $310,000 in back pay in case of age discrimination did not shock conscience, nor did it deviate substantially from what would be reasonable compensation, even though it was slightly higher than plaintiff's expert's calculation of $266,106. Jury award of $667,000 in future lost earnings ("front pay") in case of age discrimination was neither arbitrary, unreasonable nor speculative where it fell well within plaintiff's expert's projection of maximum $915,105 based on average working life and rate of increase, and it averaged $39,235 per year, which was less than plaintiff had made on average during previous 7 years. Tyler v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 958 F.2d 1176, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 4161 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 826, 113 S. Ct. 82, 121 L. Ed. 2d 46, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 5704 (U.S. 1992).

51. —Compensatory damages

Evidence, in hearing before Commissioner of Human Rights on complaints charging private club with discrimination against blacks with regard to use of barroom during fashion show, warranted Commissioner's award of $250 compensatory damages to each complainant because of club's commission of willful discriminatory acts. Batavia Lodge No. 196, etc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 35 N.Y.2d 143, 359 N.Y.S.2d 25, 316 N.E.2d 318, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1974).

Petitioner who was improperly disqualified from consideration for employment on basis of disability was entitled to compensatory damages awarded by State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) although court annulled portion of SDHR's determination which directed creation of special eligible list and retroactive seniority pursuant to CLS Soc Serv § 56(3) on ground that § 56(3) violated Merit and Fitness Clause (CLS NY Const Art V § 6). City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 93 N.Y.2d 768, 698 N.Y.S.2d 594, 720 N.E.2d 870, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3434 (N.Y. 1999).

Executive Law § 297 gives individuals a choice. They can either elect to sue in court and recover in damages which they can establish, including mental anguish, or they can elect to seek administrative relief under the Human Rights Law. Whether they elect to seek this latter relief, complainants may obtain directives and orders which will benefit both themselves and others in their position but they limit their recovery for damages to actual out-of-pocket expenses. State Div. of Human Rights v Luppino, 35 A.D.2d 107, 313 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3948 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), aff'd, 29 N.Y.2d 558, 324 N.Y.S.2d 298, 272 N.E.2d 885, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. 1971).

The compensatory damages which may be awarded to a complainant in a proceeding under the Executive Law is limited to out-of-pocket expenses and does not include damages for mental distress. Ernsteins v State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 599, 313 N.Y.S.2d 856, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3953 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), app. dismissed, 28 N.Y.2d 802, 321 N.Y.S.2d 907, 270 N.E.2d 725, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1426 (N.Y. 1971).

Although the State Human Rights Appeals Board did not abuse its discretion in finding that a construction company refused to build a house because of the customer's racial origins, the Board erred as to the measure of damages to be applied in determining compensation. Kaval Constr. Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 39 A.D.2d 347, 334 N.Y.S.2d 341, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4110 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 31 N.Y.2d 641, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1662 (N.Y. 1972).

Even though New York City Department of Personnel committed unlawful age discrimination in rejecting applicant for position of parking enforcement agent on grounds of her age, it could not be required to offer such applicant next available position of parking enforcement agent, since such requirement would deprive appointing authority of the power to select from among eligible persons; Department likewise could not be required to pay applicant compensatory damages for period from date she would have been appointed had she not been rejected to date when position was finally offered her. New York City Dep't of Personnel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 56 A.D.2d 795, 392 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11090 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding alleging unlawful discrimination against a state agency, an award of compensatory damages pursuant to Exec Law § 297 to the person aggrieved by the discriminatory practice properly included compensation for mental anguish and, furthermore, the award of interest on "back pay" awards to the aggrieved civil servant was also proper. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Geraci v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 90 A.D.2d 51, 456 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

In awarding back pay to 63-year-old employee who was wrongfully terminated due to his age, Division of Human Rights should have reduced award by unemployment insurance benefits and social security benefits received by employee. Laverack & Haines, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 217 A.D.2d 955, 629 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8381 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995), rev'd, 88 N.Y.2d 734, 650 N.Y.S.2d 76, 673 N.E.2d 586, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3057 (N.Y. 1996).

Damages awarded for back pay based on racial discrimination were excessive to extent that order of Commissioner of State Division of Human Rights misstated date of complainant's termination as one year prior to correct date. American Int'l Group v Rosa, 224 A.D.2d 179, 637 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1996 N.Y. App. Div.

LEXIS 773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 807, 641 N.Y.S.2d 829, 664 N.E.2d 895, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 167 (N.Y. 1996).

It was proper to award $5,000 damages each to complainant and to realtor who represented her, was also black, for petitioner's unlawful discriminatory practice of refusing to sell piece of real property to complainant because of her race. Feggoudakis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 230 A.D.2d 739, 646 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Award of compensatory damages under CLS Exec § 297 must be based on pecuniary loss and emotional injuries actually suffered as result of discrimination, and care must be taken to assure that award is not punitive. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 811, 661 N.Y.S.2d 85, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7816 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 807, 678 N.Y.S.2d 593, 700 N.E.2d 1229, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. 1998).

Awards of compensatory damages for back pay, lost wages, lost tips and emotional distress were reasonably related to discriminatory conduct of restaurant in giving Asian waitresses preference over Caucasian waitresses with respect to hours and table assignments. Young Fu Hsu v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 913, 661 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

While a former employee was entitled to compensatory damages under N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(4) as the victim of racial discrimination and a constructive discharge, the Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights erred in adding a supervisor as a respondent after the statute of limitations in N.Y. C.P.L.R. 203(b) had run. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v A.R. Heflin Painting Contr., Inc., 101 A.D.3d 1442, 956 N.Y.S.2d 666, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

Where a complainant was subjected to a hostile work environment due to sexual harassment, the administrative law judge's award to her of damages for lost wages was reasonably related to the discriminatory conduct, and petitioners failed to meet their burden to prove that she did not exercise diligent efforts to mitigate her damages. Matter of Amg Managing Partners, LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 A.D.3d 1765, 51 N.Y.S.3d 764, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2515 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2017).

This section which provides that the Commission may, among other things, order the payment of compensatory damages to the person aggrieved by a discriminatory practice is itself discriminatory in awarding damages only to a complainant and not to a landlord, and such procedure invalidates the provision for damages. Weynberg v New York Com. on Human Rights, 56 Misc. 2d 1, 287 N.Y.S.2d 1002, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1720 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

In an action to punish a landlord for contempt of court for wilful failure to obey the provisions of a court order enforcing an order of the Civil Rights Commission, it was held that an intervenor was relegated to a plenary action pursuant to Executive Law § 297(9) and that any award for compensatory or punitive damages would have to be made by the court having jurisdiction of that action. State Com. for Human Rights v Kennelly, 59 Misc. 2d 278, 299 N.Y.S.2d 342, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1651 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969).

Actress would be awarded $60,000 in compensatory damages where her employer utilized his employment relationship with her to coerce her into participating in sexual activity with his business associates to advance his own business interests, and compelled her to continue one such relationship, which he helped choreograph, for period of 18 months. Thoreson v Penthouse Int'l, 149 Misc. 2d 150, 563 N.Y.S.2d 968, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 609 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), modified, 179 A.D.2d 29, 583 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5427 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Although Article 78 proceeding cannot preclude later federal court § 1983 suit for damages, because, since damages are largely unavailable in Article 78 proceedings, court in initial action did not have power to award full measure of relief sought in second action, this rationale would not appear to apply in case where initial forum did have power to grant compensatory damages, such as New York State Division of Human Rights in hearing discrimination complaint. Kirkland v Peekskill, 651 F. Supp. 1225, 1987 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 227 (S.D.N.Y.), aff'd, 828 F.2d 104, 1987 U.S. App. LEXIS 12318 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1987).

In action under Human Rights law, finding that stress arising from employer's age discrimination against employee aggravated or accelerated progression of employee's Parkinson's symptoms, was not clearly erroneous. Shea v Icelandair, 925 F. Supp. 1014, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5530 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

In action under Human Rights law, record supported finding that stress arising from employer's age discrimination exacerbated employee's heart condition, where employee presented competent expert evidence of causal link between discrimination and onset of angina attacks. Shea v Icelandair, 925 F. Supp. 1014, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5530 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

In action predicated on age discrimination in employment, jury's award of $250,000 for pain and suffering would be reduced to $175,000 where (1) record established that employee suffered physically due to aggravation of his Parkinson's disease and heart condition, but did not establish how rapidly his condition would have deteriorated absent employer's conduct, and (2) employee failed to seek psychiatric help for his emotional distress. Shea v Icelandair, 925 F. Supp. 1014, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5530 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

$200,000 compensatory damage award under Human Rights Law deviated materially from what would be reasonable compensation, and new trial would be held on issue of compensatory damages unless age discrimination plaintiff accepted remittitur of $170,000, thereby reducing award to $30,000, where there was no showing of duration or magnitude of plaintiff's emotional injuries, nor any evidence of medical or psychological treatment. Tanzini v Marine Midland Bank, N.A., 978 F. Supp. 70, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11793 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

52. — —Mental anguish

The Commissioner of the State Human Rights Division reasonably concluded that an employer engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice and compelled an employee to quit her job, where the evidence indicated that the employer had made blatantly obscene anti-Semitic remarks to her in the presence of other employees and had refused to apologize, notwithstanding the fact that the employer did not directly fire the employee and in fact had urged her to return to work. In exercising his broad powers to adopt measures reasonably deemed necessary to redress the injury to the employee, the commissioner properly directed that the employer apologize in writing, offer to reinstate the woman with back pay, together with $500 in damages for the shock, humiliation and outrage she experienced. Imperial Diner, Inc. v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 52 N.Y.2d 72, 436 N.Y.S.2d 231, 417 N.E.2d 525, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2830 (N.Y. 1980).

Executive Law § 297 gives individuals a choice. They can either elect to sue in court and recover in damages which they can establish, including mental anguish, or they can elect to seek administrative relief under the Human Rights Law. Whether they elect to seek this latter relief, complainants may obtain directives and orders which will benefit both themselves and others in their position but they limit their recovery for damages to actual out-of-pocket expenses. State Div. of Human Rights v Luppino, 35 A.D.2d 107, 313 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3948 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), aff'd, 29 N.Y.2d 558, 324 N.Y.S.2d 298, 272 N.E.2d 885, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. 1971).

The Commissioner of State Division of Human Rights has no power to award either attorney's fees to complainants or monetary damages for mental anguish or pain and suffering. State Div. of Human Rights v Luppino, 35 A.D.2d 107, 313 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3948 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), aff'd, 29 N.Y.2d 558, 324 N.Y.S.2d 298, 272 N.E.2d 885, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. 1971).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination that a prospective employee was refused consideration on the basis of his arrest record, the determination that awarded compensatory damages for mental anguish and humiliation was properly confirmed where the job in question was as a mechanic at a state correctional facility, and where the human rights commissioner's broad power to order affirmative action included the power to award such compensatory damages to the aggrieved employee. State, Dep't of Correctional Services v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 88 A.D.2d 1061, 452 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17482 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Compensatory damages are available under the Human Rights Law where a complainant has suffered mental anguish, humiliation, and emotional trauma as the direct result of a discriminatory act. Totem Taxi, Inc. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 98 A.D.2d 923, 471 N.Y.S.2d 358, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21244 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983), rev'd, 65 N.Y.2d 300, 491 N.Y.S.2d 293, 480 N.E.2d 1075, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15079 (N.Y. 1985).

The Commissioner of New York State Division of Human Rights did not err in not to awarding compensatory damages for emotional distress and humiliation, suffered by a woman when her supervisor told her to "stop acting like a bitch," where, although damage awards could be appropriate, the Commissioner had broad powers to adopt measures which he reasonably deemed necessary to redress the injury, and had ordered the Department of Social Services, petitioner's employer, to take affirmative action in advising its personnel about and implementing the State's policy of nondiscrimination due to sex, and where the Commissioner found that the sexually discriminatory utterance had been prompted by petitioner's refusal to comply with her superior's directive. Davey v Commissioner of New York State Dep't of Civil Service, 108 A.D.2d 1074, 485 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43381 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

In Human Rights Law proceeding brought by white female deputy sheriff who alleged sex and race discrimination, award of $30,000 compensatory damages for mental anguish was grossly excessive where deputy testified only that she was upset, depressed, felt demeaned and insecure, and continued to experience nightmares, and there was no indication of length of time these consequences were suffered, frequency of nightmares, or whether she sought medical or psychological attention or took any medication; thus, award of damages for mental anguish would be reduced to $15,000. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cottongim v County of Onondaga Sheriff's Dep't, 127 A.D.2d 986, 513 N.Y.S.2d 68, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43480 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 623, 528 N.Y.S.2d 802, 524 N.E.2d 123, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 603 (N.Y. 1988).

College employee's testimony regarding persistent daily sexual harassment during her employment at college, and significant physical manifestations that resulted from her emotional distress, so affecting her that she was unable to attend college during following semester, was clearly sufficient to establish mental anguish and humiliation, but award of $150,000 in compensatory damages for mental anguish was excessive and would be reduced to $100,000. SUNY College of Environmental Science & Forestry v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 962, 534 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14449 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Division of Human Rights properly ordered employer to reinstate employee who established "constant and blatant" racial discrimination against her and suffered mental anguish therefrom. Cosmos Forms, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 150 A.D.2d 442, 541 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Award of $15,000 to dentist for mental anguish suffered when sublessor terminated dentist's sublease on ground that dentist treated persons who were ill with AIDS was grossly excessive, and would be reduced to $5,000. Barton v New York City Com. on Human Rights, 151 A.D.2d 258, 542 N.Y.S.2d 176, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7353 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Commissioner of Human Rights is authorized to include, as compensatory damages for violation of Human Rights Law, award for mental anguish and humiliation suffered by complainant, which may be established by testimony of claimant alone. Moore v State Div. of Human Rights, 154 A.D.2d 823, 546 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12709 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Court would annul award of $10,000 for hurt, humiliation and mental anguish allegedly suffered when police department unlawfully discriminated against complainant by disqualifying him for position of police officer on basis of physical disability which did not prevent him from performing duties of that position in reasonable manner where, despite complainant's testimony that he was angry as result of his disqualification, there was no substantiation of his claim of hurt, humiliation and mental anguish, and especially since there was some basis for department's conclusion that complainant should be disqualified. New York v State Div. of Human Rights, 154 A.D.2d 56, 551 N.Y.S.2d 514, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1888 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 706, 560 N.Y.S.2d 988, 561 N.E.2d 888, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3001 (N.Y. 1990).

Employee who was denied promotion in retaliation for opposing discriminatory employer practices was properly awarded provisional appointment to desired position with back pay; however, award of $10,000 for mental anguish was not authorized under CLS Exec § 297 in absence of proof that employee suffered any ill effects from discrimination. New York State Office of Mental Retardation & Developmental Disabilities v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 164 A.D.2d 208, 563 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13984 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

In proceeding under Human Rights Law against nursing home that unlawfully discriminated against complainant by placing him in strict isolation because he tested HIV-seropositive, compensatory award of $150,000 was excessive, even though complainant presented evidence that he was lonely, depressed, agitated and generally tearful as result of his isolation, which endured for 9 ½ months, where there was no evidence as to severity or consequences of his condition, or that he sought medical treatment for it; in light of similar cases, award should not exceed $75,000. Marcus Garvey Nursing Home v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 209 A.D.2d 619, 619 N.Y.S.2d 106, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11465 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Award of $25,000 in compensatory damages for emotional distress and humiliation as result of unlawful racial discrimination was excessive where sole evidence of such damages was complainant's testimony that employer's unlawful conduct made him feel "victimized, ambushed and abandoned" and caused him to withdraw from relationships with his friends and family, that he was unable to pay court-ordered child support or to provide entertain-ment for his 3 children, and that he could not complete purchase of items he had ordered prior to his termination and forfeited $1,000 deposit on automobile; appropriate award in such case was $15,000. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 215 A.D.2d 908, 626 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

In order to sustain award for mental anguish, there must be evidence that mental anguish was caused by discriminatory practice, and there must be some evidence of magnitude of injury. Van Cleef Realty v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 306, 627 N.Y.S.2d 744, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5928 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Damage award of $30,000 for mental anguish suffered by couple who experienced racial steering in rental of housing was excessive where couple was not subjected to prolonged discrimination, their contact with realtor was limited to one-time encounter, realtor's conduct did not affect their ability to find housing, they were not subjected to rude or egregious racial epithets, they adduced no evidence as to duration or magnitude of their mental anguish, and their testimony was limited to single assertion each of distress they felt; proper award would not exceed $5,000. Van Cleef Realty v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 306, 627 N.Y.S.2d 744, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5928 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Employee, who was wrongfully terminated due to his age, was entitled to award in amount of $10,000 for mental anguish based on his testimony that he was "frightened to death" not to have job at age 63, and that he suffered loss of sleep and appetite. Laverack & Haines, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 217 A.D.2d 955, 629 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS

8381 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995), rev'd, 88 N.Y.2d 734, 650 N.Y.S.2d 76, 673 N.E.2d 586, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3057 (N.Y. 1996).

Award of $25,000 to complainant who had been discriminated against on basis of her pregnancy was excessive where discriminatory conduct was limited to single encounter at which complainant's co-workers were not present, complainant was not subjected to rude or egregious treatment that might have aggravated her mental anguish, and complainant adduced no evidence of duration or magnitude of her mental anguish; matter would be remitted to Division of Human Rights for imposition of new award not to exceed $5,000. A.S.A.P. Personnel Servs. v Rosa, 219 A.D.2d 648, 631 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9285 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In order to sustain award of damages for mental anguish resulting from discrimination, there must be evidence that mental anguish was caused by discriminatory practice, and there must be some evidence of magnitude of injury. A.S.A.P. Personnel Servs. v Rosa, 219 A.D.2d 648, 631 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9285 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Award of $200,000 for mental anguish as result of sexual employment discrimination was excessive and should not have exceeded $5,000 where complainant's discussion of her mental anguish was brief, and there was no evidence as to duration of her condition, its severity or consequences, or evidence of treatment. Port Wash. Police Dist. v State Div. of Human Rights, 221 A.D.2d 639, 634 N.Y.S.2d 195, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12381 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 807, 647 N.Y.S.2d 165, 670 N.E.2d 449, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1624 (N.Y. 1996).

Compensatory damages for mental anguish in amount of $50,000 for loss of employment opportunity was excessive where respondent never sought medical treatment as result of petitioners' discriminating conduct in disqualifying him for position of firefighter on basis of physical disability; award of $10,000 was appropriate under circumstances. City of Fulton v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 221 A.D.2d 971, 633 N.Y.S.2d 914, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13462 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995).

Evidence supported awards of $60,000 in compensatory damages to each of 3 complainants for mental anguish and humiliation arising from acts of sexual harassment committed by corporate employer's executive director, despite absence of psychiatric or other medical evidence, considering duration, severity, consequences and physical manifestations of mental anguish. Father Belle Community Ctr. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 221 A.D.2d 44, 642 N.Y.S.2d 739, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5508 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), reh'g denied, 647 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10989 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 809, 655 N.Y.S.2d 889, 678 N.E.2d 502, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 214 (N.Y. 1997).

Damage award of $50,000 for mental anguish arising from racial discrimination in employment was excessive and would be reduced to $5,000. American Int'l Group v Rosa, 224 A.D.2d 179, 637 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 807, 641 N.Y.S.2d 829, 664 N.E.2d 895, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 167 (N.Y. 1996).

Award of $300,000 for mental anguish and compensatory damages was appropriate in light of petitioner's employees' constant, egregious, and blatant discriminatory conduct. Tiffany & Co. v Smith, 224 A.D.2d 332, 638 N.Y.S.2d 454, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1456 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 806, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1723 (N.Y. 1996).

Administrative Law Judge abused his discretion in refusing employer's request to have complainant examined by its psychiatrist where complainant had alleged serious psychiatric injuries as result of discrimination; any alleged difficulties complainant might experience with examination could be mitigated by imposition of reasonable conditions. Carrier Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 224 A.D.2d 936, 637 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1572 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

It was not excessive to award $10,000 as compensatory damages for mental anguish due to unlawful discriminatory practice of terminating complainant from employment because of her gender and gender-specific disability (pregnancy). Heidie Tuxedos & Formals v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 224 A.D.2d 1022, 638 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1700 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Award of $25,000 against Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority, representing compensatory damages for mental anguish and humiliation for employment discrimination based on petitioner's disability, was excessive where employee testified that, as result of discriminatory acts, he felt "very upset" and "very angry," and he was reluctant to wear his hearing aids during other interviews; such testimony only supported award of up to $7,500. Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 553, 638 N.Y.S.2d 761, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1938 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

African-American correctional officer established entitlement to award for mental anguish and humiliation for racial discrimination suffered at hands of his supervisor over 2-year period where supervisor had negative attitude toward minorities, he consistently exhibited such attitude to his subordinates in work place, he repeatedly verbally harassed and humiliated officer in front of other officers, civilian bus drivers and prisoners, he pressured him to violate regulations, and he ordered officer to sit with prisoners during transportation assignments for periods of 12 to 15 hours in defiance of regulations requiring officer rotation every 30 minutes; however, award of $100,000 was excessive and would be reduced to $35,000 given lack of proof of severity, consequences and duration of effects which supervisor's negative conduct had on officer. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 856, 638 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Award of $150,000 for mental anguish and humiliation as result of unlawful age discrimination was excessive and would be reduced to $100,000. Boutique Indus. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 228 A.D.2d 171, 643 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6283 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Complainant's testimony as to her feelings of embarrassment, humiliation and inadequacy, together with her testimony as to adverse physical effects of weight loss and inability to find comparable employment for almost 2 years as result of hostile work environment and discriminatory discharge, supported claim for mental anguish. Bronx County Medical Group, P.C. v Lassen, 233 A.D.2d 234, 650 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11988 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 813, 658 N.Y.S.2d 243, 680 N.E.2d 617, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 474 (N.Y. 1997).

Award of $250,000 for mental anguish as result of hostile work environment and discriminatory discharge was excessive and would be reduced to $25,000. Bronx County Medical Group, P.C. v Lassen, 233 A.D.2d 234, 650 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11988 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 813, 658 N.Y.S.2d 243, 680 N.E.2d 617, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 474 (N.Y. 1997).

Award of $75,000 would be reduced to $15,000 in proceeding against Department of Correctional Services for unlawful discriminatory practice based on race where claimant's testimony did not detail much in way of severity, consequence or duration of his mental anguish, and he admitted that his anxiety and stress were intermittent only. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 811, 661 N.Y.S.2d 85, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7816 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 807, 678 N.Y.S.2d 593, 700 N.E.2d 1229, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. 1998).

In discrimination cases, awards for emotional distress are not dependent on psychiatric or other medical evidence. Young Fu Hsu v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 913, 661 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Award of $20,000 for mental anguish was excessive where complainant testified that, as a result of petitioner's racially discriminatory conduct in handling her employment application, she "felt hurt" and was generally irritable, remained in bed, and suffered from headaches and stomach distress for which she took Tylenol and Alka Seltzer, she testified that her fear of rejection made her postpone job-seeking activities for 2 months, and she did not seek medical treatment; award of $10,000 was appropriate. Buffalo Ath. Club v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 249 A.D.2d 986, 672 N.Y.S.2d 210, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5148 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

$20,000 in compensatory damages for mental anguish, awarded to respondent who was wrongfully disqualified from civil service eligibility list in violation of Human Rights Law, was unsupported by evidence and would be reduced to $10,000 where respondent stated only that he was "hurt," "angry," and "emotional" at being denied employment he believed would offer job security for him and his family. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 250 A.D.2d 273, 682 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13953 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), modified, 93 N.Y.2d 768, 698 N.Y.S.2d 594, 720 N.E.2d 870, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3434 (N.Y. 1999).

In action against Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority for unlawful racial discrimination in failing to hire complainant for 2 positions for which she applied, award of damages for mental anguish and humiliation would be vacated, and case would be remitted for recalculation of such damages, where she proved discrimination as to only one position, and record did not specify any relation between award and any particular position. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

In action against Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority for unlawful racial discrimination in failing to hire complainant for 2 positions for which she applied, case would be remitted for recalculation of back pay award where she proved discrimination as to only one position, and thus back pay had to calculated using date and salary for that position rather than other position. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Claimant's testimony as to severity and duration of her mental anguish, even unsubstantiated by medical or other objective evidence, supported award of $50,000 for emotional distress, where employer's acts of unlawful discrimination included sexual harassment by claimant's immediate supervisor over 4-month period, failure to act on her formal complaints to her superiors, including employer's equal opportunity office, and retaliation for such complaints by disciplining her twice and ultimately terminating her. City of New York v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 283 A.D.2d 215, 728 N.Y.S.2d 367, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Sexual harassment damage award of $50,000 for mental anguish and humiliation was excessive where there was no proof of severity and consequences of complainant's condition; thus, award of $20,000 was appropriate. State v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 284 A.D.2d 882, 727 N.Y.S.2d 499, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6888 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Award of $15,000 for mental anguish and humiliation for employment discrimination was excessive because the employee sought no medical treatment and her testimony in support of that award was sparse; an award of $5,000 was the maximum award supported by the evidence. Matter of Rite Aid of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 60 A.D.3d 1428, 875 N.Y.S.2d 708, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2020 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 702, 886 N.Y.S.2d 94, 914 N.E.2d 1012, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. 2009).

There was no basis upon which to disturb the compensatory damages award the State Division of Human Rights assessed because a couple was discriminated against based on their sexual orientation, and the record reflected the hurt, humiliation and mental anguish that they suffered as a result of farm owners' conduct; the awards were well in accord with those sustained in similar cases. Matter of Gifford v Mccarthy, 137 A.D.3d 30, 23 N.Y.S.3d 422, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 238 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

Where a complainant was subjected to a hostile work environment due to sexual harassment, although the administrative law judge's award to her of damages for mental anguish and humiliation was reasonably related to the wrongdoing, the amount of the award was inappropriate when compared to other awards for similar injuries; accordingly, the court reduced the award from $ 65,000 to $ 25,000. Matter of Amg Managing Partners, LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 A.D.3d 1765, 51 N.Y.S.3d 764, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2515 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2017).

Jury award of $18,000 for emotional distress suffered by worker who was fired due to his age was extremely modest, and thus was neither conscience-shocking nor substantially deviant from reasonable compensation, where worker testified that losing his job was "like a divorce, your wife died or state of shock." Tyler v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 958 F.2d 1176, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 4161 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 826, 113 S. Ct. 82, 121 L. Ed. 2d 46, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 5704 (U.S. 1992).

In action by employee who was discharged in retaliation for his complaints of race discrimination, award of $219,428 in compensatory damages for pain, suffering and humiliation was excessive where sole evidence as to magnitude and duration of employee's emotional injury or mental distress was his own testimony that he felt "humiliated," "angry," "shocked," "like dirt," and "terrible" during certain incidents at work, that he stayed home sick from work for several days and saw doctor once due to ailments related to nervous tension, and that he was "devastated" when he was discharged; new trial would be ordered unless employee agreed to reduced award of $20,000. McIntosh v Irving Trust Co., 887 F. Supp. 662, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7700 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

Terminated advertising salesman's claim for emotional distress in ad damnum clause of complaint is not time-barred, where he is not making separate claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress, because salesman, asserting age discrimination, is making proper and timely request for emotional distress damages as aspect of request for compensatory damages authorized under Exec § 297. Gagliardi v Universal Outdoor Holdings, Inc., 137 F. Supp. 2d 374, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3936 (S.D.N.Y. 2001).

It was appropriate to award complainant $500 for mental anguish she suffered as a result of unlawful discriminatory demotion based on national origin. 2000 Order Comm HR No. 9D-E-O-89-136156E.

53. — —Loss of consortium

In action for discriminatory termination of employment, damages for loss of consortium were not recoverable since alleged wrongful conduct preceded marriage of employee, notwithstanding fact that actual effective date of discharge was subsequent to marriage, since underlying allegations were based in part on notification of discharge one day before wedding. Mehtani v New York Life Ins. Co., 145 A.D.2d 90, 537 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1552 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 835, 546 N.Y.S.2d 341, 545 N.E.2d 631, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2897 (N.Y. 1989), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 806, 627 N.Y.S.2d 323, 650 N.E.2d 1325, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1227 (N.Y. 1995).

54. —Punitive damages

Person aggrieved by discriminatory practice in violation of Human Rights Law may not recover punitive damages in court action brought under CLS Exec § 297(9) since such relief is expressly excluded in proceeding before Division of Human Rights and, should such damages be permitted, aggrieved person would be encouraged to avoid administrative channel before division and bring their complaints in court proceedings. Thoreson v Penthouse Int'l, 80 N.Y.2d 490, 591 N.Y.S.2d 978, 606 N.E.2d 1369, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 4231 (N.Y. 1992).

Where sole evidence of mental anguish was complainant's own testimony that she was "[e]motionally and physically screwed up", award of $35,000 for mental anguish is grossly excessive and new award should not exceed $5,000–award of back pay from complainant's discharge in February 1985 until her reinstatement by petitioner constitutes punitive assessment against petitioner rather than compensation; complainant obtained new employment at same pay in July 1985; Division of Human Rights may not award what would amount to punitive damages solely on finding that unlawful discrimination occurred; award of back pay must be reduced to cover only period that complainant was out of work as result of her unlawful discharge; however, Division did not abuse its discretion in ordering petitioner to reinstate complainant–three-year period between filing of complaint and issuance of Division's determination did not operate to divest Division of jurisdiction; absent showing of substantial prejudice, time limitations enunciated in Executive Law § 297 are directory and not mandatory. Cosmos Forms, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 150 A.D.2d 442, 541 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

It was proper to award $2,500 in punitive damages each to complainant and to realtor who represented her, who was also black, for petitioner's unlawful discriminatory practice of refusing to sell piece of real property to complainant because of her race; however, it was error to make same award to second black realtor where her testimony showed only that she was complainant's realtor's employer, and that he recounted to her his dealings with petitioner. Feggoudakis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 230 A.D.2d 739, 646 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Retroactive application of 1991 amendment to CLS Exec § 297(4)(c)(iv) was appropriate with respect to punitive damages awarded in case filed in January 1991, although amendment was enacted in July 1991 and declared to be effective "immediately," since remedial statutes constitute exception to general rule against retroactive application. New York State Div. of Human Rights v Gruzdaitis, 265 A.D.2d 904, 696 N.Y.S.2d 330, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10026 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

While the cooperative owners failed to state claims for breach of a tenant corporation's fiduciary duties or against its directors individually, they stated causes of action for housing discrimination under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(5)(a)(2) and 42 U.S.C.S. § 3601 et seq., and for punitive damages, which were limited to $10,000 by N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(4)(c)(iv), (9). Stalker v Stewart Tenants Corp., 93 A.D.3d 550, 940 N.Y.S.2d 600, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2110 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012).

This section which provides that the Commission may, among other things, order the payment of compensatory damages to the person aggrieved by a discriminatory practice is itself discriminatory in awarding damages only to a complainant and not to a landlord, and such procedure invalidates the provision for damages. Weynberg v New York Com. on Human Rights, 56 Misc. 2d 1, 287 N.Y.S.2d 1002, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1720 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

Punitive damages, although not available in proceedings brought before the Human Rights Commission for a violation of the Human Rights Law, are available under appropriate circumstances to litigants who opt for a judicial forum rather than an administrative one since the Human Rights Law, by providing that "[a]ny person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice shall have a cause of action in any court of appropriate jurisdiction for damages and such other remedies as may be appropriate" (Executive Law § 297 [9]), does not limit "damages" to compensatory "damages" only. In addition, although punitive damages may not be alleged as a separate cause of action, plaintiffs, two physicians who were denied the opportunity to purchase a cooperative apartment allegedly because defendant sponsor refused to take the necessary steps to facilitate the changeover of the apartment from a residence to a medical office when it learned that plaintiffs would be treating patients with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, sufficiently alleged punitive damages for defendant's alleged willful and malicious conduct in violation of the Human Rights Law. Seitzman v Hudson River Assoc., 143 Misc. 2d 1068, 542 N.Y.S.2d 104, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 323 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Punitive damages are not recoverable for violation of Human Rights Law since law was designed to provide private right of action, legislature failed in attempt to pass legislation which would explicitly provide for such damages, and such damages are not available under equivalent federal statutes. Tyler v Bethlehem Steel Corp., 958 F.2d 1176, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 4161 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 826, 113 S. Ct. 82, 121 L. Ed. 2d 46, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 5704 (U.S. 1992).

Action for employment discrimination in violation of Human Rights Law, except for claim for punitive damages, survives employee's death. Estwick v U.S.Air Shuttle, 950 F. Supp. 493, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20104 (E.D.N.Y. 1996).

Under Exec § 297, punitive damages are not recoverable against municipality for human rights violations. Dean v Westchester County DA's Office, 119 F. Supp. 2d 424, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16746 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

Where a jury found that an employer discriminated and retaliated against an employee on the basis of gender in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII), 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e, the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 296-301, and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code §§ 8-107-8-131, a comparison of the punitive damage awards in comparable cases indicated that reducing the jury's $2,500,000 punitive damages award to $600,000 was appropriate because (1) 42 U.S.C.S. § 1981a(b)(3)(d) limited the maximum damages award in a Title VII case to $300,000, (2) N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(9) prohibited the imposition of punitive damages in an employment discrimination case, (3) punitive damages under New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 8-502(a) had a remedial purpose, and (4) the employee was awarded approximately $1.5 million in compensatory damages. Zakre v Norddeutsche Landesbank Girozentrale, 541 F. Supp. 2d 555, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9460 (S.D.N.Y. 2008), aff'd, 344 Fed. Appx. 628, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 12188 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

Findings that creditor, a transgender woman, was discriminated against by debtor based on gender and disability in violation of the New York State Human Rights Law were sufficient to support a finding of willful injury for purposes of creditor's nondischargeability claim. Malice was implied by the state court's finding of deliberate discrimination, the acts and conduct of debtor in the context of the surrounding circumstances, and the imposition of a civil penalty. Fuller v Rea (In re Rea), 606 B.R. 531, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 2364 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2019).

55. —Post-judgment interest

Complainant, who was awarded payment of back pay by Commissioner of Human Rights after finding that complainant had been discriminated against because of his race, was entitled to 6% interest on such award after payroll deductions from date of Commissioner's order rather than date compensation accrued where State Division of Human Rights, and not employer, was responsible for four-year delay from date compensation accrued. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Falleder v Massive Economic Neighborhood Development, Inc., 47 A.D.2d 187, 366 N.Y.S.2d 23, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

So that petitioner not be rewarded for its deliberate default by retaining use of ultimate damage award from date of order by State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) rendered on petitioner's default until SDHR issued new order after hearing on damages, final damage award would bear interest from date of SDHR's original order entered on default. Interboro Management Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 139 A.D.2d 697, 527 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Commissioner erred in requiring an employer to pay predetermination interest in employment discrimination claim relating to that portion of the "unreasonable delay" in determining the complaint that was attributable solely to the New York State Division of Human Rights. Matter of Rite Aid of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 60 A.D.3d 1428, 875 N.Y.S.2d 708, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2020 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 702, 886 N.Y.S.2d 94, 914 N.E.2d 1012, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. 2009).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

Analysis

I. Remedies

1. Election of remedies
2. —Election between administrative and judicial remedies

II. Other Procedural Matters

3. Summary Judgment

I. Remedies

1. Election of remedies

2. —Election between administrative and judicial remedies

Unpublished decision: District court properly dismissed an employee's discrimination claims where he previously filed a complaint with the New York City Commission on Human Rights asserting identical claims, the Commission had dismissed the claims for lack of probable cause, and thus the claims were precluded by the election of remedies doctrine. DuBois v Macy's Retail Holdings, Inc., 533 Fed. Appx. 40, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 20301 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

Unpublished decision: Bus driver's discrimination claim was properly dismissed because driver had already pursued that claim with New York State Division of Human Rights, which dismissed claim for lack of probable cause. Carris v First Student, Inc., 682 Fed. Appx. 30, 2017 U.S. App. LEXIS 4056 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2017).

II. Other Procedural Matters

3. Summary Judgment

Unpublished decision: Terminated employee's race discrimination and retaliation claims failed because the employee did not show a genuine dispute of fact regarding alleged discrimination in the employer's overtime distribution since the differences in overtime hours were minimal and were easily explained by the higher rate at which African-American employees declined overtime opportunities, and the employee did not present sufficient evidence to create a genuine dispute of fact regarding whether the employee's purportedly "similarly situated" comparators were, in fact, similarly situated. Finn v N.Y. State Office of Mental Health-Rockland Psychiatric Ctr., 489 Fed. Appx. 513, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 25168 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

I. Generally

1. In general
2. Preemption of local laws by state laws
3. "Employer"

II. Review and Enforcement

4. Validity of administrative orders
5. —Orders re licenses

I. Generally

1. In general

The Arab Boycott Law applies to banking transactions. 1976 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69, 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 37.

2. Preemption of local laws by state laws

Legislation prohibiting discrimination in housing practices has not been pre-empted by the State. Local laws may be enacted provided they do not make illegal that which the State allows. The validity of the local laws is not affected by the fact that greater penalties are thereby imposed. 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 1.

Local legislation prohibiting discrimination in housing, employment and places of public accommodation on the basis of sexual preference has not been pre-empted by the State. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen March 6 (Informal).

3. "Employer"

The State is an employer subject to the Human Rights Law. The Commissioner of Human Rights may award compensatory damages in cases of discrimination by the State as employer. A person awarded damages does not have to sue in the Court of Claims in order to enforce the award. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 28 (formal).

II. Review and Enforcement

4. Validity of administrative orders

5. —Orders re licenses

State Liquor Authority may not ask applicants for a license whether or not they have ever been arrested but may ask only about pending arrests or arrests which have not been followed by a termination in favor of the applicant. 1977 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 26, 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 117.

The Board of Commissioners of Pilots may decline to renew the license of a Long Island Sound-Block Island Sound pilot, who had not reached his sixtieth birthday on January 1, 1972, solely on the ground that he has now reached the age of sixty-five. 1980 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 55, 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 53.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in §§ 296, 296-a, 298, 298-a.

Form of complaint in action for racial discrimination in publicly assisted housing, see CLS Civ R § 18-c.

Undertaking by the state, municipal corporation or public officer, CLS CPLR 2512.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Rules of Practice, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 465.1–465.20 (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 465.1–465.20).

General Regulations, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 466.1–466.10 (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 466.1–466.10).

Public access to records. 9 NYCRR § 466.7.

Election of arbitration. 9 NYCRR §§ 467.1 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

1 NY Jur 2d Actions § 18.

18 NY Jur 2d Civil Rights § 42.

18A NY Jur 2d Civil Rights §§ 140, 142–144, 147–149, 156, 158, 161–163, 165–170, 172–174, 176–179, 181, 182, 184–187, 189, 192–197, 203, 204, 214, 216.

67A NY Jur 2d Injunctions §§ 53, 57.

84 NY Jur 2d Pleading § 111.

7 Medina's Bostwick Practice Manual (Matthew Bender), Forms HR 101 et seq. (actions and proceedings relating to the Human Rights Law).

15 Am Jur 2d, Civil Rights § 261.

5A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms, Civil Rights, Forms 1, 21–52, 71–117, 141, 152.

2 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 187, Racial Discrimination in Employment (In general; Use of Statistics).

2 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 237, Racial Discrimination in Employment—Testing and Educational Requirements.

3 Am Jur Proof of Facts 2d 221, Racial Discrimination in Employment–Recruiting and Hiring.

22 Am Jur Proof of Facts 650, Dismissal of Teachers for Cause.

21 Am Jur Trials 1, Employment Discrimination Action Under Federal Civil Rights Acts.

28 Am Jur Trials 1, Housing Discrimination Litigation.

Law Reviews:

Preclusive effect of state judgments on subsequent 1983 actions. 78 Colum. L. Rev. 610.

Hermann, Financing public interest litigation in state court: a proposal for legislative action. 63 Cornell L. Rev. 173.

Res judicata held inapplicable to section 1983 action where issues of procedural due process were not raised in prior state litigation. 43 Fordham L. Rev. 459.

Waiver of sovereign immunity by a state does not give a federal cause of action for damages under sections 1983 and 1988 of the civil rights act. 2 Fordham Urb. L.J. 109.

Benetar, One man-one veto. (practice at Joint Task Force on Practices and Procedures of N.Y. State Division of Human Rights). 53 NYSB J 497.

Annotations:

Right to assistance by counsel in administrative proceedings. 33 ALR3d 229.

Hearsay evidence in proceedings before state administrative agencies. 36 ALR3d 12.

Validity, construction, and application of statutes making public proceedings open to the public. 38 ALR3d 1070.

Recovery of damages for emotional distress resulting from racial, ethnic, or religious abuse or discrimination. 40 ALR3d 1290.

Recovery of damages for emotional distress resulting from discrimination because of sex or marital status. 61 ALR3d 944.

Recovery of damages as remedy for wrongful discrimination under state or local civil rights provisions. 85 ALR3d 351.

Requiring apology as"affirmative action"or other form of redress under state civil rights act. 85 ALR3d 402.

Sufficiency of state remedy under 42 USCS § 2000e-5(c) to require 60-day deferral by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to allow state time to act. 45 ALR Fed 347.

Disclosure of information by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or other agency as affected by 42 USCS § 2000e-8(e), making it unlawful for officer or employee of Commission to make public information obtained by Commission prior to institution of proceeding involving such information. 47 ALR Fed 471.

Time limitations of § 706 of Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended (42 USCS § 2000e-5(f)(1)) for bringing civil action by person aggrieved as subject to tolling because of equitable considerations. 54 ALR Fed 335.

When will Federal Government employee be excused from 30-day limitation period, established by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission regulation (29 CFR § 1613.214(a)(1)(i)), for bringing matters relating to employment discrimination to attention of Equal Employment Opportunity Counselor. 57 ALR Fed 116.

Effect on employment discrimination action of failure of Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to timely serve defendant with notice of charges as required by § 706(b) and (e) of Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 USCS § 2000e-5(b) and (e)). 57 ALR Fed 565.

What constitutes impairment of proposed intervenor's interest to support intervention as matter of right under Rule 24(a)(2) of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure in employment discrimination actions. 74 ALR Fed 895.

Texts: Liddle & Marino, Labor and Employment in New York (Michie) pp 13-54.

New York Employee Discrimination Handbook (1998 ed, Matthew Bender).

§ 298. Judicial review and enforcement.

Any complainant, respondent or other person aggrieved by an order of the commissioner which is an order after public hearing, a cease and desist order, an order awarding damages, an order dismissing a complaint, or by an order of the division which makes a final disposition of a complaint may obtain judicial review thereof, and the division may obtain an order of court for its enforcement and for the enforcement of any order of the commissioner which has not been appealed to the court, in a proceeding as provided in this section. Such proceeding shall be brought in the supreme court in the county wherein the unlawful discriminatory practice which is the subject of the order occurs or wherein any person required in the order to cease and desist from an unlawful discriminatory practice or to take other affirmative action resides or transacts business. Such proceeding shall be initiated by the filing of a notice of petition and petition in such court. Thereafter, at a time and in a manner to be specified by rules of court, the division shall file with the court a written transcript of the record of all prior proceedings. Upon the filing of a notice of petition and petition, the court shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding and of the questions determined therein, except that where the order sought to be reviewed was made as a result of a public hearing held pursuant to paragraph a of subdivision four of section two hundred ninety-seven of this article, the court shall make an order directing that the proceeding be transferred for disposition to the appellate division of the supreme court in the judicial department embracing the county in which the proceeding was commenced. The court shall have power to grant such temporary relief or restraining order as it deems just and proper, and to make and enter upon the pleadings, testimony, and proceedings set forth in such transcript an order enforcing, modifying, and enforcing as so modified, or setting aside in whole or in part such order. No objection that has not been urged in prior proceedings shall be considered by the court, unless the failure or neglect to urge such objection shall be excused because of extraordinary circumstances. Any party may move the court to remit the case to the division in the interests of justice for the purpose of adducing additional specified and material evidence and seeking findings thereon, provided he or she shows reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce such evidence in prior proceedings. The findings of facts on which such order is based shall be conclusive if supported by sufficient evidence on the record considered as a whole. All such proceedings shall be heard and determined by the court and any appeal taken from its judgment or order shall be reviewed by the appropriate appellate court as expeditiously as possible and with lawful precedence over other matters. The jurisdiction of the courts over these proceedings, as provided for herein, shall be exclusive and their judgments and orders shall be final, subject to appellate review in the same manner and form and with the same effect as provided for appeals from a judgment in a special proceeding. The division's copy of the testimony shall be available at all reasonable times to all parties for examination without cost and for the purposes of judicial review of such order. Any appeal under this section and any proceeding, if instituted under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules to which the division or the board is a party shall be heard on the record without requirement of printing. The division may appear in court by one of its attorneys. A proceeding under this section when instituted by any complainant, respondent or other person aggrieved must be instituted within sixty days after the service of such order. In cases of housing discrimination only, a complaint dismissed after investigation for lack of jurisdiction or lack of probable cause may either be appealed pursuant to this section or the same cause of action may be filed in a court of appropriate jurisdiction pursuant to section two hundred ninety-seven of this article.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 133; amd, L 1952, ch 285, § 7; L 1962, ch 310, § 135; L 1968, ch 958, § 8; L 1978, ch 225, § 1; L 1984, ch 83, § 3; L 1985, ch 340, § 1; L 1988, ch 505, § 1, eff Aug 1, 1988 (see 1988 note below); L

2000, ch 166, § 35, eff July 18, 2000; L 2020, ch 236, § 2, effective January 5, 2021.

Editor's Notes: See 1962 note under § 63-a.

See 1968 note under § 290.

Laws 1988, ch 505, §§ 2, 3, eff Aug 1, 1988, provide as follows:

§ 2. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an appellate division of supreme court may transfer any proceeding for judicial review of an order or determination of the state commissioner of human rights or the state division of human rights, instituted therein prior to the effective date of this section, to the supreme court in the county wherein the unlawful discriminatory practice which is the subject of the order occurred or wherein any person required in the order to cease and desist from an unlawful discriminatory practice or to take other affirmative action resides or transacts business; provided, however, the appellate division may not transfer any such proceeding wherein the order sought to be reviewed was made as a result of a public hearing held pursuant to paragraph a of subdivision four of section two hundred ninety-seven of the executive law. Any proceeding for judicial review of a determination of the human rights appeal board instituted in an appellate division prior to the effective date of this section shall be heard and determined in such court in accordance with the provisions of section two hundred ninety-eight of the executive law in effect on the day immediately preceding the effective date of this act.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately and shall be applied to any suit action or administrative proceeding now pending or instituted after the effective date hereof.

Laws 2020, ch 236, § 3, eff January 5, 2021, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.

Laws 2020, ch 236, § 3, eff January 5, 2021, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.

Amendment Notes The 2020 amendment by ch 236, § 2, added the last sentence.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Jurisdiction, generally
3. Jurisdiction of commission
4. Jurisdiction of court
5. Failure to make prior objections before commission
6. Scope of judicial review
7. Specific orders reviewed
8. Aggrieved persons
9. Housing discrimination
10. Employment discrimination
11. Sex discrimination
12. —Pregnancy
13. Discrimination by labor unions
14. Enforcement orders
15. Particular orders as arbitrary and capricious
16. Sufficiency of evidence and proof
17. Evidence of age discrimination
18. Evidence of employment discrimination
19. Evidence of housing discrimination
20. Evidence of racial discrimination
21. Evidence of religious discrimination
22. Evidence of sex discrimination
23. —Pregnancy
24. Evidence of retaliation
25. Substantial evidence
26. —Particular applications
27. Probable cause
28. Burden of proof
29. Choice of remedies
30. Damages, generally
31. Damages for mental anguish
32. Mitigation of damages
33. Exhaustion of administrative remedies
34. Time limitations, generally
35. Time limitations as directory not mandatory
36. Specific allowance of time for mailing of service
37. Res judicata
38. Miscellaneous
39. Under former § 297-a; In general
40. Scope of review
41. —Particular applications
42. Probable cause
43. Substantial evidence test
44. Limitations of time
45. Pleading
46. Evidence
47. Judicial review
48. Decisions as arbitrary or capricious
38. Miscellaneous

1. In general

CPLR 5701, subd b par 1 is not all encompassing; it is limited to denying appeals as of right from intermediate orders only in Article 78 proceedings and has no application to a proceeding by the state commission for human rights to enforce its order pursuant to § 298 of the Executive Law. State Com. for Human Rights v Lieber, 23 N.Y.2d 253, 296 N.Y.S.2d 319, 244 N.E.2d 24, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 973 (N.Y. 1968).

In a proceeding brought in the Appellate Division pursuant to section 298 of the Executive Law to review an order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board reversing a determination of the State Division of Human Rights, the appropriate point of reference for the invocation of the substantial evidence rule or of the test of arbitrariness is the division's ruling, not the board's. State Office of Drug Abuse Services v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 48 N.Y.2d 276, 422 N.Y.S.2d 647, 397 N.E.2d 1314, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2381 (N.Y. 1979).

Rule of Division of Human Rights, which permits only parties and their attorneys to participate in preliminary proceedings which precede finding of probable cause for public hearings, is helpful in enabling Division to discharge its duty of inquiry into alleged facts and is not unreasonable. McGrath v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 52 A.D.2d 1027, 383 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12931 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Where record raised no factual issue relating to claim that law firm unlawfully discriminated against individual by refusing to hire him, and it appeared as matter of law that complaint lacked merit and failed to raise genuine factual issues, confrontation conference was not required. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Jafree v Bond, Schoeneck & King, 52 A.D.2d 1045, 384 N.Y.S.2d 568, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

A proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298, in which petitioner alleged he had been discriminated against by the Lottery Division due to age disability was not the appropriate vehicle to challenge the reclassification of a civil service position from competitive to noncompetitive. Reiniger v New York State Div. of Lottery, 105 A.D.2d 902, 482 N.Y.S.2d 60, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21021 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984), app. denied, 64 N.Y.2d 609, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 18863 (N.Y. 1985).

Orders issued by the State Commission for Human Rights which do not relate to activities in interstate or foreign commerce are not invalid as invading a field preempted by a federal legislation. Delaney v Conway, 39 Misc. 2d 499, 241 N.Y.S.2d 384, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2081 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Where findings of the State Commission for Human Rights are supported by substantial evidence, most of which is not disputed, they are conclusive. Cooney v Katzen, 41 Misc. 2d 236, 245 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1318 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Under CLS Exec § 298, sole means of obtaining judicial review of commissioner's order is through commencement of special proceeding in Supreme Court, which proceeding may thereafter be transferred to Appellate Division. Cruz v Amsterdam Hous. Auth., 174 Misc. 2d 189, 662 N.Y.S.2d 1024, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 448 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

2. Jurisdiction, generally

In view of the broad power granted by the legislature in its delegation to the commission, the jurisdiction of the commission must be taken as plenary. Holland v Edwards, 282 A.D. 353, 122 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

A complaint charging a public agency with an unfair discriminatory practice based upon a person's prior criminal convictions was properly dismissed by the State Division of Human Rights for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, since an Article 78 proceeding is the exclusive remedy available to remedy such a wrong. New York City Transit Authority v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 97 A.D.2d 825, 468 N.Y.S.2d 708, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20604 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 646, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 8025 (N.Y. 1984).

Where the Commission upon complaint of a colored person had made a final order directed against a beach club and upon motion such order was not vacated but was enforced and thereafter the complainant sued the beach club in the municipal court to recover damages and the beach club moved to vacate the order of the Commission on the basis of additional evidence to the effect that the complainant had commenced such action which fact the Commission admitted in its brief and argument, the proceedings were not remitted to the Commission to establish an admitted fact, and the Commission was not ousted of jurisdiction because of the subsequent action in the municipal court. Castle Hill Beach Club, Inc. v Arbury, 144 N.Y.S.2d 747, 208 Misc. 622, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3245 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), modified, 1 A.D.2d 943, 150 N.Y.S.2d 367, 1956 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5716 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1956).

By its enactment of General Municipal Law § 239-s giving New York City concurrent jurisdiction with the State Commission for Human Rights with respect to discrimination in housing, the legislature conclusively demonstrated its intention not to grant exclusive jurisdiction to the state in the matters of discrimination in housing. Feigenblum v Commission on Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 360, 278 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1658 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

3. Jurisdiction of commission

State's strong and important public policy against discrimination and need for programmatic enforcement of antidiscrimination laws has led legislature to vest broad authority in Human Rights Commissioner so that he may take appropriate action to eliminate and prevent discriminatory practices, and human rights law should be liberally construed to accomplish its purposes. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

In view of the broad power granted by the legislature in its delegation to the commission, the jurisdiction of the commission must be taken as plenary. Holland v Edwards, 282 A.D. 353, 122 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

Prior to September 1, 1967, on which date legislation became effective to give the Commission jurisdiction over discriminatory practices by volunteer fire departments, fire companies or fire corporations, the Commission lacked jurisdiction over such discriminatory practices and could make no order with regard to such alleged practices occurring prior to such date. Martin v State Com. for Human Rights etc., 33 A.D.2d 703, 306 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2811 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1969).

In an action against an Association brought pursuant to Exec Law § 298 and CPLR Article 78 to enforce an order of the State Division of Human Rights, directing payment of damages to the complainant for sexual harassment, in personam jurisdiction over the respondent Association was obtained where the association had appeared generally by counsel, at which time an adjournment was requested and granted, and where, although respondent's counsel did not appear at the adjourned hearing, counsel had been contacted by telephone and had consented that the hearing proceed upon the condition that the respondent would have the right to reopen the proceeding in the event it deemed it appropriate. State Div. of Human Rights v National Economic Development Asso., 83 A.D.2d 807, 441 N.Y.S.2d 688, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15161 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding brought pursuant to Exec Law § 298, to review a determination of the State Human Rights Appeal Board, which affirmed an order of the State Division of Human Rights dismissing plaintiff's complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, the court properly found that the State Division of Human Rights did not have subject matter jurisdiction over plaintiff's complaint since plaintiff had pursued his action in the federal courts and Exec Law § 297(9) prohibits plaintiffs who initiate any action in a court of competent jurisdiction from pursuing the same grievance before the Division of Human Rights. McGrath v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 90 A.D.2d 916, 456 N.Y.S.2d 874, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19195 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

New York State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed, for lack of jurisdiction, claim of racial discrimination brought by certified home health care aide, who was employed by 93-year-old quadriplegic to provide 24-hour care to attend to his health and personal hygiene needs, to cook for him, to transport him, and otherwise to care for him. Thomas v Dosberg, 249 A.D.2d 999, 672 N.Y.S.2d 164, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5177 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Public school districts were among the "educational institutions" over which the New York State Division of Human Rights had jurisdiction for N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(4) purposes, Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

Executive Law § 297, subd 2 is on its face nondiscriminatory, and since the Human Rights Division's policy not to take jurisdiction in cases involving its own employees is reasonable and rationally based, former division employee was not denied equal protection by refusal of division to take jurisdiction of his complaint. Colon v New York, Div. of Human Rights, 354 F. Supp. 343, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15529 (S.D.N.Y. 1973), aff'd, 498 F.2d 1396 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1974).

4. Jurisdiction of court

Where, although point was not raised in petition for review of decision by Commissioner of Human Rights, it was briefed to Appellate Division by treating issue on its merits, Appellate Division implicitly exercised its statutory authority to review question of law regardless of absence of timely objection, and where case also involved question of far-reaching public importance concerning issue of statutory interpretation of which the State Human Rights Commission sought final judicial resolution, it was proper for Court of Appeals to consider merits of appeal. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

Employee's appeal from a ruling of the Commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights was improperly dismissed, as her failure to include a return date in the notice of petition was at best a technical defect that did not deprive the reveiwing court of subject matter jurisdictional under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298, and the employer waived its right to challenge the defect by actively participating in the proceeding without timely objecting to the defect on personal jurisdiction grounds. Matter of Ballard v HSBC Bank USA, 6 N.Y.3d 658, 815 N.Y.S.2d 915, 848 N.E.2d 1292, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 1287 (N.Y. 2006).

A court does not go beyond its jurisdiction under the above statute when it orders specific measures to be taken to effectuate enforcement of Although it is the duty of the Commission and not of the court, to police the activities of the parties to a proceeding before the Commission and to guard against continued discriminatory practices, this is not to say that the court does not have jurisdiction upon proper representation to take whatever steps may be necessary to enforce its orders theretofore made. And there is no need for the court to reserve jurisdiction of the proceedings in order to do so since it is to be assumed that the Commission will discharge its obligations of enforcement and pursuant to the above statute, will come to the court whenever necessary for assistance in that task. The court either under the specific power given to it by CPLR 5015 or under its inherent powers, may modify its order if changed circumstances indicate the necessity for so doing. State Com. for Human Rights v Farrell, 24 A.D.2d 128, 264 N.Y.S.2d 489, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965), app. denied, 17 N.Y.2d 418, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1711 (N.Y. 1966).

The jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, to review orders of the State Human Rights Appeals Board is not restricted to orders which deal solely with the merits of any complaint, and any person aggrieved by any order of the board may obtain judicial review in that court. South African Airways v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 516, 312 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4160 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970).

Petition for review of order of State Division of Human Rights, even though untimely filed pursuant to Executive L § 298, was treated as an answer in Board's proceeding to enforce said order, enabling judicial review on the merits of Board's determination. State Div. of Human Rights v Gillotte, 41 A.D.2d 890, 342 N.Y.S.2d 879, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4733 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Proceeding initiated to enforce order of state commissioner of human rights was improperly commenced where appellate division had previously denied the application and dismissed the petition, and the Court of Appeals in dismissing the appeal from that decision, stated that it was without jurisdiction of such an appeal not involving a constitutional question for a denial of enforcement, absent permission to appeal, which permission is later denied. State Div. of Human Rights v Merante, 41 A.D.2d 973, 343 N.Y.S.2d 378, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4556 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

Fact that State Division of Human Rights failed to file cross motions seeking enforcement order from Appellate Division of Supreme Court within 30 days after appeal board entered its order did not result in court lacking jurisdiction to enforce order since time limit concerns proceeding for review. Guardian Capital Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 46 A.D.2d 832, 360 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3585 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974), app. dismissed, 36 N.Y.2d 806, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2680 (N.Y. 1975), app. denied, 37 N.Y.2d 705, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2770 (N.Y. 1975).

A proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to enforce a determination of the Commissioner of Human Rights finding that a state agency committed an unlawful discriminative practice and awarding a money award against the State would be properly enforceable pursuant to § 298 in the Appellate Division rather than in the Court of Claims, since the State's liability has already been established by law and this was not the sort of unresolved claim against which the doctrine of sovereign immunity could properly be raised. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Geraci v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 90 A.D.2d 51, 456 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Enforcement proceedings under CLS Exec § 298 should be heard and determined by Supreme Court in first instance. State Div. of Human Rights v Kosmatos, 134 A.D.2d 729, 523 N.Y.S.2d 923, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50915 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

It was improper for Supreme Court to transfer Article 78 proceeding, seeking review of determination by Division of Human Rights finding no probable cause to believe there had been unlawful discriminatory practice, where no public hearing had been held pursuant to CLS Exec § 297; only where such hearing has been held shall Supreme Court transfer proceeding to appropriate Appellate Division. Bentkowsky v Tokio Re Corp., 139 A.D.2d 436, 527 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3975 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

It was error for Supreme Court to review determination of Division of Human Rights reached after hearing, and matter should simply have been transferred to Appellate Division, which has exclusive jurisdiction over such cases under CLS Exec § 298. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Albino v YMCA of Greater New York, 139 A.D.2d 440, 527 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 532 N.Y.S.2d 848, 529 N.E.2d 178, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2531 (N.Y. 1988).

Judgment which granted petitioners' application to annul determination finding probable cause to believe that petitioner had engaged in unlawful discriminatory practice relating to employment, and dismissed complaint, reversed–in September 1987, respondent filed complaint with State Division of Human Rights charging that petitioner had discriminated against him because of his age; regional office issued determination of probable cause to believe that respondent had been discriminated against and recommended public hearing; petitioners sought judicial review and Supreme Court, in opinion dated July 21, 1988, held that petitioner had right to seek judicial review and that finding of probable cause should be annulled; petition was granted by judgment dated August 9, 1988 and entered August 16, 1988–Executive Law § 298 was amended effective August 1, 1988 to provide that any "person aggrieved by an order of the commissioner which is an order after public hearing, a cease and desist order, an order awarding damages, an order dismissing a complaint, or by an order of the division which makes a final disposition of a complaint may obtain judicial review thereof", and amendment was to apply to any action or administrative proceeding pending on or instituted after its effective date, August 1, 1988; this proceeding was pending at time of effective date of amendment because, although Supreme Court's opinion was dated prior to August 1, 1988, judgment granting petition had not yet been entered; since only final orders of Division were subject to judicial review as of August 1, 1988, Division's probable cause determination was not reviewable. Albany v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 157 A.D.2d 1008, 550 N.Y.S.2d 488, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 587 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Court should have granted defendants' summary judgment motion on ground that plaintiff elected to pursue administrative remedy by filing complaint with New York State Division of Human Rights (NYSDHR) since plaintiff failed to produce admissible proof as to whether her complaint was referred to NYSDHR by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or whether she filed it directly with NYSDHR; she submitted only attorney's affirmation that was not based on personal knowledge of facts stated therein. Hirsch v Morgan Stanley & Co., 239 A.D.2d 466, 657 N.Y.S.2d 448, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5365 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Failure to object to alleged inadequacy of translator at administrative hearing precluded employer from raising that issue in proceeding under CLS Exec § 298. Young Fu Hsu v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 913, 661 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

It was proper to transfer a petition by the State Division of Human Rights to enforce its order finding unlawful discrimination and awarding damages to the appellate division, as the proceeding raised the issue of whether the division's order was supported by sufficient evidence in the record as a whole. State Div. of Human Rights v 1368 E. 94th St. Corp., 293 A.D.2d 752, 741 N.Y.S.2d 285, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4094 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2002).

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction over a petition of the Commission Against Discrimination for an order of enforcement, even though respondent no longer resided or transacted business in Nassau County, in which the unlawful discriminatory practice occurred. The order of the Commission applied to the respondent with respect to any barber shop which he operated within the state. State Com. State Com. Against Discrimination v Mustachio, 56 Misc. 2d 47, 288 N.Y.S.2d 20, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2895 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Where the parties to a certain proceeding before the Commission for Human Rights entered into a stipulation authorizing the Commission to make a certain order and to apply to the Supreme Court for an order enforcing it, the Supreme Court would issue the enforcement order on motion of the Commission. State Com. for Human Rights v Mullen, 41 Misc. 2d 969, 246 N.Y.S.2d 725, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1237 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Section 298 of the Executive Law provides for judicial review of a decision of the State Human Rights Appeal Board, which reviews decisions of the State Division of Human Rights (Executive Law, § 297-a), by way of appeal to the Appellate Division only, and, it also provides that in cases where no appeal has been taken to the board, the division may obtain an order of court for the enforcement of any order of the Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights by direct application to the Appellate Division; thus, the only enforcement powers granted with respect to the enforcement of either nonappealed orders of the commissioner or of the board are given to the Appellate Division. Accordingly, a motion in the Supreme Court by the commissioner for a mandatory injunction compelling a respondent to obey the commissioner's order was denied, since the court does not have the power to grant the relief sought. Kramarsky v New York Psychoanalytic Institute, 102 Misc. 2d 806, 424 N.Y.S.2d 581, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2922 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Where a former employee sought judicial review of an order of the New York State Division of Human Rights pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298, her failure to comply with N.Y. C.P.L.R. 403(a) by specifying the return date for the hearing in her notice of petition deprived the trial court of subject-matter jurisdiction; the matter was transferred to the appellate division. State Div. of Human Rights v HSBC Bank U.S.A., 793 N.Y.S.2d 903, 8 Misc. 3d 521, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 840 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

As N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 provides that judicial review of an order of the New York State Division of Human Rights made after a public hearing may be obtained only in a proceeding commenced by the filing of a notice of petition and a petition, and N.Y. C.P.L.R. 101 provides that the civil practice law and rules do not apply where the procedure is regulated by inconsistent statute (such as N.Y. Exec. Law § 298), the petitioner could not turn to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 304 to excuse a jurisdictional defect in the notice of petition she filed and served. State Div. of Human Rights v HSBC Bank U.S.A., 793 N.Y.S.2d 903, 8 Misc. 3d 521, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 840 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

5. Failure to make prior objections before commission

Objections in respect of the commission's directives which were not made until after the commission had gone into court to secure enforcement of its orders, were too late for judicial review. Holland v Edwards, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

An objection that the commission did not have jurisdiction because the applicant could not be considered a person "aggrieved" within the meaning of the law is not open for review by the court where such objection was not urged before the commission. Holland v Edwards, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

Where Appellate Division has implicitly exercised its statutory authority to review question of law, regardless of absence of timely objection, and particularly where that court also had before it cross petition for enforcement, Court of Appeals may not later declare that the issue has not been preserved. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

Where, upon a motion to vacate a default judgment entered against it in a proceeding for a writ of prohibition, the State Division of Human Rights did not contend that the order of prohibition was improper prior to the completion of the administrative process, but the error is obvious from an examination of the record, the Appellate Division may consider it on appeal for the first time. Tessy Plastics Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 62 A.D.2d 36, 403 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10415 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978), aff'd, 47 N.Y.2d 789, 417 N.Y.S.2d 926, 391 N.E.2d 1007, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2058 (N.Y. 1979).

In an original proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 in which the State Division of Human Rights sought an order enforcing a prior determination of the Commissioner of Human Rights that village had unlawfully discriminated against the complainant by discharging her from employment on the basis of her marital status, the village's failure to appeal the commissioner's order did not preclude the court's review of the order on the merits; the division's petition would be dismissed, although the points raised by the village did not warrant dismissal, where the court found that as a matter of law the complainant's discharge had not been motivated by conduct proscribed by Exec Law § 296. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Howarth v Spencerport, 78 A.D.2d 50, 434 N.Y.S.2d 52, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13406 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

6. Scope of judicial review

Whether the finality of an order from which an appeal is taken constitutes a jurisdictional predicate for appeal to the Appellate Division is purely a statutory matter. Accordingly, judicial review is available to a party aggrieved by a nonfinal order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board in a proceeding pursuant to section 298 of the Executive Law, since section 298 clearly allows any person aggrieved by any order of the board to obtain judicial relief thereof and, moreover, subdivision 7 of section 297-a, though defining the scope of the board's authority as including the power to remand the matter to the State Division of Human Rights for further proceedings, makes no attempt to distinguish these orders of remand from others which are reviewable; nor is such appeal to the Appellate Division barred by subdivision 9 of section 297 or section 300 of the Executive Law, which statutes prohibit separate plenary discrimination actions in the courts only when a charge on the same grievance is pending before the division. State Office of Drug Abuse Services v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 48 N.Y.2d 276, 422 N.Y.S.2d 647, 397 N.E.2d 1314, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2381 (N.Y. 1979).

Scope of judicial review under Human Rights Law is extremely narrow and is confined to consideration of whether commissioner's determination is supported by substantial evidence in record; courts may not weigh evidence or reject commissioner's determination if evidence is conflicting and room for choice exists. In re State Div. In re State Di v of Human Rights, 70 N.Y.2d 100, 517 N.Y.S.2d 715, 510 N.E.2d 799, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16800 (N.Y. 1987).

Administrative convenience dismissals under CLS Exec § 297(3)(c) are subject to judicial review to extent that they are "purely arbitrary"—that is, to extent that they contravene or threaten to contravene statute, constitutional right, or administrative regulation. Marine Midland Bank, N. A. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 75 N.Y.2d 240, 552 N.Y.S.2d 65, 551 N.E.2d 558, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4454 (N.Y. 1989).

In reviewing the directives of the commission the court, after accepting the facts as found in the extent they rest on substantial evidence, may make any order which it deems the commission should have made. This power of review transcends the accustomed judicial review in this state since the power of revision is not here limited to situations that would be regarded as arbitrary, capricious or illegal. It seems to be the deliberate view of the legislature that the large powers given to the commission should be followed by an unusual measure of judicial supervision and a shared judicial responsibility. The scope of review under this section seems broader than that admissible under Article 78 of the Civil Practice Act on the one hand, but on the other there is a concomitant duty resting on the court to enforce the orders of the commission which are deemed by it to be lawful. Holland v Edwards, 282 A.D. 353, 122 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

Although a person aggrieved by an order of the State Division of Human Rights may appeal therefrom to the Human Rights Appeal Board, and this is the appropriate remedy in the first instance, nevertheless, if the Division proceeds in the Appellate Division, pursuant to § 298 of the Executive Law, for enforcement of the order, the Appellate Division is required to decide whether there is substantial evidence to sustain the order and the court may reverse or modify the order and, if it modifies the order, it may direct its enforcement as modified. Ernsteins v State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 599, 313 N.Y.S.2d 856, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3953 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), app. dismissed, 28 N.Y.2d 802, 321 N.Y.S.2d 907, 270 N.E.2d 725, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1426 (N.Y. 1971).

Where the record, considered as a whole, justified division's finding of no probable cause for sex discrimination charge, board impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its own review in vacating division's order of dismissal. Long Island R. R. Co. v State Div.

of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 857, 346 N.Y.S.2d 849, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Fact findings of Human Rights Appeal Board are to be affirmed if supported by sufficient record evidence; question is not whether the record would convince one of the facts found but whether on the record a reasonable man might make the finding involved. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Osuwagu v County of Onondaga, 50 A.D.2d 716, 374 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12592 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Decision of commissioner of Division of Human Rights must prevail if it is supported by substantial evidence, and it is supported by substantial evidence if it rests on such relevant evidence as a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion. State Div. of Human Rights v Syracuse, 57 A.D.2d 452, 394 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11822 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 958, 404 N.Y.S.2d 343, 375 N.E.2d 409, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. 1978).

A determination of the Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights must be confirmed if the determination is supported by sufficient evidence on the record considered as a whole; sufficient evidence is substantial evidence or such relevant evidence as a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion. State Div. of Human Rights v Syracuse City Teachers Asso., 66 A.D.2d 56, 412 N.Y.S.2d 711, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9989 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1979).

The State Division of Human Rights did not act irrationally in dismissing a complaint alleging that a county employee was dismissed due to racial discrimination where the employee's dismissal for sexual harassment of other employees had been upheld in a previous proceeding. Petties v New York State Office of Mental Retardation & Developmental Disabilities, 106 A.D.2d 739, 483 N.Y.S.2d 775, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21671 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Findings of fact by division of human rights must be upheld if supported by sufficient evidence on record considered as whole. New York State Dep't of Correctional Services v McCall, 109 A.D.2d 953, 486 N.Y.S.2d 443, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

In reviewing administrative decision, court does not substitute its judgment for that of agency, and where conflicting evidence exists it is for administrative board or agency to pass upon credibility of witnesses; court must confirm administrative determination as long as it is based on substantial evidence. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Campbell v Rochester Products Div. of General Motors Corp., 112 A.D.2d 785, 492 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56028 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

In proceeding alleging racial discrimination in public employment, nonfinal decision of regional director of state Division of Human Rights was reviewable by Supreme Court under CLS Exec § 298; right to Supreme Court review was not affected by 1984 amendment to statute, since pertinent statutory language was modified only by deleting word "board" and inserting phrase "commissioner or division." Monticello v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 127 A.D.2d 962, 127 A.D.2d 963, 512 N.Y.S.2d 568, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43445 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 793, 522 N.Y.S.2d 107, 516 N.E.2d 1220, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19272 (N.Y. 1987).

In a proceeding filed by a corporate employer and its owner under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 for review of a determination of the New York Commissioner of Human Rights that awarded compensatory damages to an employee for hostile work environment sexual harassment, the Commissioner was free to make findings of fact and was not required to adhere to an administrative law judge's previous finding that the employee's claims were not credible; to the extent that the employer and owner contended that the employee fabricated her allegations, a credibility issue was presented that was for the Commissioner to resolve and that was not to be second-guessed by the appellate court. Matter of R & B Autobody & Radiator, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 31 A.D.3d 989, 819 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights made a determination that an employer discriminated against complainant former employee on the basis of national origin that was not supported by sufficient evidence under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 as the employee conceded committing the insubordinate act that led to his discharge; an allegation that the manager who fired the employee stated that he did not want Egyptians working in the building was specifically denied and was also not mentioned in the complaint against the employer. Matter of 80 Lafayette Assoc. v Gibson, 59 A.D.3d 231, 873 N.Y.S.2d 63, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1167 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009), app. denied, 17 N.Y.3d 710, 930 N.Y.S.2d 555, 954 N.E.2d 1181, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 2956 (N.Y. 2011).

When the State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) found a landlord discriminated against prospective tenants on the basis of race in the leasing of housing, its determination was entitled to considerable deference due to its expertise in evaluating discrimination claims. Matteo v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 306 A.D.2d 484, 761 N.Y.S.2d 517, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7418 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Under CLS Executive Law § 298 and CLS CPLR Article 78, reviewing courts generally are not required to consider matters which were not raised in the administrative proceedings. United Federation of Teachers Welfare Fund v Kramarsky, 451 F. Supp. 333, 1978 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17522 (S.D.N.Y. 1978), aff'd, 650 F.2d 1310, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13404 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1981).

7. Specific orders reviewed

The dismissal of petitioner's complaint of unlawful discrimination upon a determination by a single member of the State Commission Against Discrimination, whose decision was not disturbed by the Commission chairman was reviewable by the courts. Jeanpierre v Arbury, 4 N.Y.2d 238, 173 N.Y.S.2d 597, 149 N.E.2d 882, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1072 (N.Y. 1958).

A determination of the commission and its cease and desist order against the operator of an employment agency who made oral and written inquiries in respect of an applicant's creed and national origin should be sustained. Holland v Edwards, 282 A.D. 353, 122 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination of the State Human Rights Appeal Board which affirmed an order of the State Division of Human Rights finding no probable cause to believe that respondent-employer engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice against petitioner based on creed, the court would confirm the determination on the basis that it was not arbitrary or unreasonable, where, after petitioner contended that his employer discriminated against him because of his religious beliefs when it terminated his employment for failure to appear for work on Christmas Eve as scheduled, the Division made a prompt investigation to determine if there was probable cause to believe that an illegal discrimination occurred, which investigation included an interview with petitioner's parents after attempting without success to personally interview petitioner. Fellows v Capital Area Community Health Plan, 84 A.D.2d 872, 444 N.Y.S.2d 743, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16120 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

In an Article 78 proceeding, an employer had the discretion to properly charge to an employee's vacation time days off for observance of religious holidays, where prior to the holiday in question the employer changed its policy to provide that absences for religious holidays would be in all cases charged to either personal, vacation or compensatory leave. State Div. of Human Rights v Rochester Housing Authority, 85 A.D.2d 897, 446 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16739 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding initiated by a black citizen of a foreign country (charging a university with discrimination on the basis of race, color, and national origin), the complaint was properly dismissed where the alleged discrimination was based on length of appointment to the faculty on a 12-month contract, rather than a nine-month contract held by certain other faculty members, where all faculty members in petitioner's department held 12-month contracts, and where petitioner received a salary approximately 30 percent greater than comparable faculty members holding nine-month contracts. Murapa v Kramarsky, 88 A.D.2d

1009, 451 N.Y.S.2d 934, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17420 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Commissioner is required to make prompt investigation by field visit, written or oral inquiry, conference, or any method or combination thereof; matter is remitted to division for full and thorough investigation where probable cause issue was investigated in cursory and abbreviated manner and no independent inquiry was conducted to verify complainant's assertions prior to issue of no probable cause determination; investigation consisting of one interview with employer's personnel officer, obtaining copies of leave of absence policy and office memoranda together with letters from employer's attorney is insufficient. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Beckman v Gaylord Bros., Inc., 112 A.D.2d 726, 492 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56237 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Division's failure to conduct confrontation conference or otherwise address issues raised by complainant's response to field investigation report renders determination of no probable cause capricious. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Schwab v Walden Book Co., 112 A.D.2d 745, 492 N.Y.S.2d 220, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56108 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

While New York State Division of Human Rights' investigation of complaint need not be extensive, it must not be so abbreviated and one-sided that it results in record which does not afford reasonable basis for administrative determination; consequently, where petitioner, who was hired by respondent when she was 59 and discharged approximately one year later, alleges that her employment was terminated approximately 3 weeks short of her eligibility for employer's retirement and pension plan when employer realized great expense of putting 60-year old woman on that plan, division's investigation was so one-sided and abbreviated that determination of no probable cause must be overturned as capricious. Hendel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 114 A.D.2d 897, 495 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53928 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Determination of New York State Division of Human Rights that petitioner was not denied promotion because of her religion or creed was supported by substantial evidence; additionally, petitioner was given full and fair opportunity to present evidence on her behalf and to rebut evidence presented by respondent employer, but she failed to produce any supportive evidence; furthermore, it is within discretion of Division of Human Rights to decide method or methods to be employed in investigating complaints of discrimination. Kushnir v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 114 A.D.2d 898, 495 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53929 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Determination of State Division of Human Rights is confirmed and petitioner's complaint of unlawful discriminatory practice based on race, color and sex is dismissed since upon review of record, evidence clearly supported division's finding that prospective employer did not reject petitioner; rather, State Labor Department never referred petitioner's application to employer because hours she indicated she could work did not correspond to hours needed by employer. Hedrington v Hercules Corp., 115 A.D.2d 147, 495 N.Y.S.2d 514, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54408 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Trial court erred in dismissing an employee's application to review a determination by the State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) finding no probable cause to believe that her employer and manager engaged in unlawful discrimination and retaliation against her because SDHR specifically requested that the court remand this case so that SDHR could conduct further investigation conceding that it "may have overlooked or not given full consideration" to the issues raised by the employee, that the final investigation and report erroneously included information from a wholly unrelated case, and the witnesses identified by the employee were not interviewed during the investigative process. Matter of Schwindt v Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., 186 A.D.3d 1809, 130 N.Y.S.3d 126, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5113 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2020).

While it would seem from a reading of this section that no specific provision is made for judicial review of an intermediate order of dismissal, such as a finding by an investigating commissioner of the State Commission for Human Rights that probable cause for the petition did not exist, the rule is well settled that, in absence of any clear legislative expression to the contrary, courts may review discretionary acts of an administrative officer by an art. 78 proceeding to determine whether he has exercised discretion in an arbitrary or capricious manner. Application of United Asso. of Journeymen, etc., 40 Misc. 2d 440, 243 N.Y.S.2d 61, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1617 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Pursuant to Exec Law § 295(7), the State Division of Human Rights may hold hearings, provide for cross-interrogatories, subpoena witnesses and compel their attendance, administer oaths, take testimony, and require the production or examination of books and papers, and these are manifestly judicial or quasi-judicial functions for which the state is immune. Since by virtue of Exec Law § 298, the Appellate Divisions of the various Departments were given exclusive jurisdiction to review determinations of the Appeal Board, a claimant who had exercised his right to obtain such review could not launch a collateral attack upon the proceedings of the Division or the Appellate Board through an action in the Court of Claims. Rabinovici v State, 108 Misc. 2d 664, 438 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2266 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1981).

There is no provision in CLS Exec § 298 for review of order of hearing examiner, who may only prepare proposed order for presentation to commissioner. Cruz v Amsterdam Hous. Auth., 174 Misc. 2d 189, 662 N.Y.S.2d 1024, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 448 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

Hearing examiner's order in housing discrimination action was not directly reviewable, either by appeal or in special proceeding under CLS Exec § 298, and filing of notice of appeal with Supreme Court, Appellate Division, was not proper method of obtaining judicial review, absent evidence that commissioner issued order in matter. Cruz v Amsterdam Hous. Auth., 174 Misc. 2d 189, 662 N.Y.S.2d 1024, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 448 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

8. Aggrieved persons

An objection that the commission did not have jurisdiction because the applicant could not be considered a person "aggrieved" within the meaning of the law is not open for review by the court where such objection was not urged before the commission. Holland v Edwards, 307 N.Y. 38, 119 N.E.2d 581, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 38, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1954).

Respondent NAACP was entitled to lodge complaint as an aggrieved party under statutory provisions and the Division of Human Rights did not lack jurisdiction simply because the alleged violator is a municipal agency. Glen Cove Municipal Civil Service Com. v Glen Cove NAACP, 34 A.D.2d 956, 312 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4640 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, (N.Y. App. Div. 1970).

Although a person aggrieved by an order of the State Division of Human Rights may appeal therefrom to the Human Rights Appeal Board, and this is the appropriate remedy in the first instance, nevertheless, if the Division proceeds in the Appellate Division, pursuant to § 298 of the Executive Law, for enforcement of the order, the Appellate Division is required to decide whether there is substantial evidence to sustain the order and the court may reverse or modify the order and, if it modifies the order, it may direct its enforcement as modified. Ernsteins v State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 599, 313 N.Y.S.2d 856, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3953 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970), app. dismissed, 28 N.Y.2d 802, 321 N.Y.S.2d 907, 270 N.E.2d 725, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1426 (N.Y. 1971).

Petitioner, as designer and marketer of "Stanton Survey" used by prospective employers to screen job applicants, had standing to seek judicial determination that Department of Labor (DOL) acted outside its authority in denying targeted jobs tax credits to employers using Stanton Survey on ground that use of survey would violate Ex-Offenders Law, since interests espoused by petitioner fell within "zone of interest" protected by statute, which requires final determination by appropriate agency before DOL may take action to deny services to offending employers. Stanton Corp. v Department of Labor, 166 A.D.2d 331, 561 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12748 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

On a proceeding brought by the State Commission Against Discrimination to enforce its order directed against discriminatory practices with respect to leasing of apartments in publicly assisted housing accommodations, an application by tenants to intervene for the purpose of opposing the enforcement of the order of the Commission was denied. The tenants were not parties in the proceeding before the Commission, were not persons aggrieved by the order of the Commission and were not entitled to a judicial review. New York State Com. New York State Com. Against Discrimination v Pelham Hall Apartments, Inc., 10 Misc. 2d 346, 171 N.Y.S.2d 558, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4048 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

9. Housing discrimination

On the basis that Executive Law § 298 is unambiguous and requires the Appellate Division to examine and test the merits in any proceeding properly before it, the Appellate Division, pursuant to Executive Law § 298, properly reversed the finding of the State Division of Human Rights that a discriminatory practice had occurred where it was shown that a seller of realty refused to attend the closing, and that the prospective purchaser was a Negro, but not that the refusal of seller was occasioned by the race of the buyer. State Div. of Human Rights v Bystricky, 30 N.Y.2d 322, 333 N.Y.S.2d 398, 284 N.E.2d 560, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1630 (N.Y. 1972).

University's policy of limiting cohabitational housing eligibility to students, their spouses and dependent children did not facially discriminate against lesbians and gay men based on marital status, and thus action alleging such discrimination in violation of state and city Human Rights Laws was properly dismissed. Levin v Yeshiva Univ., 96 N.Y.2d 484, 730 N.Y.S.2d 15, 754 N.E.2d 1099, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2016 (N.Y. 2001).

Where discrimination had been found with respect to housing accommodations, an order involving "preferential referral" made by the Division of Human Rights was in direct conflict with the state's public policy to assure every individual an equal opportunity in respect to housing. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Johnson v Stern, 37 A.D.2d 441, 326 N.Y.S.2d 500, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2833 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1971).

The evidence was insufficient to support a finding that complainant was discriminated against on her application for an apartment because of her color where it appeared that she did not qualify for an apartment under the standards utilized by respondents for all applicants, that her income was insufficient to meet the rule of thumb applied by respondent for financial ability, that she lied to the credit checker about her children's schooling, that the one-bedroom apartment for which she applied was insufficient to accommodate her 3 children, and that the credit check indicated she had experienced prior difficulties in meeting her obligations. State Div. of Human Rights v Fairway Apartments Corp., 39 A.D.2d 761, 332 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4543 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972), aff'd, 33 N.Y.2d 754, 350 N.Y.S.2d 131, 304 N.E.2d 775, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 976 (N.Y. 1973).

Though, under the Executive Law provision prohibiting the managing agent of a publicly assisted housing accommodation from denying public housing to an applicant because such person suffers a disability, a determination of ineligibility for public housing accommodations grounded solely on mental disability would constitute an unlawful discriminatory practice, statute did not mean that a mentally disabled person could under no circumstances be denied eligibility; statute could not be used to insulate such an applicant from disqualification for public housing based on a valid reason. New York City Housing Authority Tenant Selection Div. v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 59 A.D.2d 742, 398 N.Y.S.2d 562, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13750 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 in which petitioner alleged that developer discriminated against him on the basis of race and color in connection with his purchase of a house, petitioner's complaint would be reinstated and the matter remitted to the State Division of Human Rights for public hearing pursuant to Exec Law § 297(4)(a). The findings of the state's human rights specialist, on which a no probable cause determination was based, were in many instances either inaccurate or without support in the record. Moreover, even assuming that the factual predicates relied upon by the human rights specialists were correct, the petitioner established that the delays experienced by his white neighbors were not comparable to the delays he suffered between the time he placed a binder deposit and executed a contract for his house and its completion. Rush v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 108 A.D.2d 805, 485 N.Y.S.2d 321, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43128 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Court annulled Division of Human Rights' determination that respondent unlawfully discriminated in rental of available housing on basis of race and color, where respondent contended that it did not rent townhouse to complainant because it was unaware of her offer and because it intended to sell townhouse and would rent it only as "a last resort," no employee of respondent ever met complainant, there was no evidence that respondent knew that she was black, and there was no evidence that respondent entertained any offers from other persons interested only in renting. State Div. of Human Rights v RHS Mgmt. Corp., 270 A.D.2d 426, 707 N.Y.S.2d 123, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4242 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

An application to vacate an order of the Commission for Human Rights requiring the owner of a multiple residence consisting of eight apartments to cease and desist from discriminating against Negro applicants to rent vacant apartments cannot be granted as against a motion to require enforcement of the order on the basis of an argument by the landlord that he has already rented one of the eight apartments to a Negro family and, because of the adverse reactions of his white tenants, has promised not to rent any more to Negroes because he has already taken in his quota of Negroes and cannot afford to take in any more as long as the attitude of the white community remains the same. Cooney v Katzen, 41 Misc. 2d 236, 245 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1318 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

The overriding public policy that dictated enactment of this legislation would be frustrated if corporations or employers could evade their responsibility by claiming a challenged act was unauthorized and, therefore, order of Human Rights Commission directed against corporate real estate broker because of certain discriminatory actions by one of its employees was proper even though there was no proof that the corporation at any time was aware of, or participated in, or countenanced the acts of its employee. State Com. for Human Rights v Suburban Associates, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 920, 286 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), modified, 34 A.D.2d 662, 310 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Where party complained of discriminatory practices perpetrated by real estate company and its agents and a commission official interviewed the complainant, made notes, and then dictated the complaint and the notes were destroyed whereupon complainant signed the complaint, the failure to produce the notes at a hearing did not constitute a violation of the rights of the real estate corporation or its agents, since in absence of any indication that destruction of the notes was for any improper purpose or that the data contained therein was not preserved in official records or reports, there was no requirement that all memoranda made in the course of an investigation be preserved. State Com. for Human Rights v Suburban Associates, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 920, 286 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), modified, 34 A.D.2d 662, 310 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Provision in order of Commission for Human Rights restraining discrimination in rental of housing accommodations, land or commercial space subject to the law against discrimination would be deleted insofar as it applied to land and commercial space where hearing upon which such order was based involved no property of such nature. New York State Com. for Human Rights v E. Landau Industries, Inc., 57 Misc. 2d 918, 293 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1200 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

10. Employment discrimination

Under employment discrimination provisions of Human Rights Law, where condition exists in fact which permits objective test as to whether practice operates invidiously against particular group, if it be so found, such obstacle can and should be removed by appropriate action unless practice can be justified by business necessity. State Div. of Human Rights v Kilian Mfg. Corp., 35 N.Y.2d 201, 360 N.Y.S.2d 603, 318 N.E.2d 770, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1309 (N.Y. 1974), app. dismissed, 420 U.S. 915, 95 S. Ct. 1108, 43 L. Ed. 2d 387, 1975 U.S. LEXIS 506 (U.S. 1975).

Condonation, which may sufficiently implicate employer in discriminatory acts of its employee, to constitute basis for employer liability under Human Rights Law, contemplates knowing, after-the-fact forgiveness or acceptance of offense; employer's calculated inaction in response to discriminatory conduct may, as readily as affirmative conduct, indicate condonation. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Greene v St. Elizabeth's Hosp., 66 N.Y.2d 684, 496 N.Y.S.2d 411, 487 N.E.2d 268, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 17238 (N.Y. 1985).

Where county employee's dismissal was occasioned solely by his refusal to obey lawful order of his superiors, State Division of Human Rights properly dismissed employee's complaint; fact that petitioner disobeyed orders on basis of his good faith belief in their illegality was matter for hearing officer of department which employed petitioner and for county civil service commission. Short v State Div. of Human Rights, 44 A.D.2d 557, 352 N.Y.S.2d 673, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5574 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

Where unlawfully discharged employee made no attempt to obtain other employment until almost five months after her discharge, although she was not physically prevented from doing so, award of backpay was arbitrary and capricious. 121-129 Broadway Realty, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 975, 369 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10269 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Human Rights Appeal Board's order vacating an order of the division of human rights dismissing complaint by former city employee charging discrimination, though nonfinal, was appealable to the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, as of right. New York City Housing Authority v State Div. on Human Rights, 53 A.D.2d 844, 385 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13674 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

In a proceeding by a married female job applicant who alleged that she had been discriminated against because of her marital status, the trial court erred in affirming a determination ordering an employer to hire the applicant where it was obvious that the applicant was denied employment not because of her marital status but, rather, because of the additional fact that her husband already worked for the employer; such a refusal to hire is lawful and does not constitute discrimination based upon marital status. Campbell Plastics, Inc. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 81 A.D.2d 991, 440 N.Y.S.2d 73, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11735 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

An order finding that a county sheriff was guilty of an unlawful discriminatory practice based on national origin with respect to his discharge of one of his deputies would be modified by annulling that portion that directed the complainant be offered a position as a deputy with the current sheriff, where the current sheriff had not committed any discriminatory acts and thus an order forcing him to hire a deputy not of his own choosing, but for whose acts he would nevertheless be personally liable, would deprive him of the power to select his own duties and was thus beyond the division's power to fashion remedies. County of Clinton v Kramarsky, 90 A.D.2d 649, 456 N.Y.S.2d 264, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18726 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

There was a reasonable basis for the administrative determination that petitioner was not subjected to an unlawful discriminatory practice, where a dangerous chemical had been found in petitioner's locker, he had been placed on notice after prior safety violations that another infraction would result in dismissal, and the information submitted in support of his claim of racial discrimination was vague and uncorroborated. Lee v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 111 A.D.2d 748, 490 N.Y.S.2d 242, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49989 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

There was probable cause to believe respondent employer unlawfully discriminated against petitioner by firing him for denying existence of criminal record where he had been convicted of disorderly conduct, since petitioner truthfully answered question on employment application; crime is defined as misdemeanor or felony and disorderly conduct is neither. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Maymi v Sorrento Cheese Co., 115 A.D.2d 323, 495 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54602 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Requirement that employer either has knowledge of or acquiesces in discriminatory conduct in order to be held liable for conduct is clearly satisfied where employer and harasser are same individual. Salvatore v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 118 A.D.2d 715, 500 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54574 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

City police commissioner's decision to dismiss police officer was based on his misconduct, not his alcoholism, where officer, while attending memorial service for slain police officers, twice slid down hotel banister in nude and once discharged fire extinguisher without cause, resulting in hotel's evacuation in early morning hours. Hagmaier v Bratton, 245 A.D.2d 147, 665 N.Y.S.2d 880, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13034 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

State Division of Human Rights properly determined that an employer did not engage in an unlawful discriminatory practice when it terminated a disabled employee, who suffered from multiple sclerosis, as the employee, who worked as a drive-thru crew member of the employer's donut shop, was unable to contradict the employer's reasons for terminating the employee, and five others on the same day, which reasons included downsizing, job performance, and seniority. Proof was also presented that 10 additional employees were terminated prior to the new calendar year as part of the general overhaul of the store after a change in management occurred. Matter of Harrison v Chestnut Donuts, Inc., 60 A.D.3d 1130, 874 N.Y.S.2d 609, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1547 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

Where county and county officials against whom employment discrimination complaints were filed with the State Division of Human Rights failed to obtain dismissal of the complaints before the Division, recourse of county and officials after final determination in the Division was an appeal to the State Human Rights Appeal Board and, thereafter, review in an Article 78 proceeding before the Appellate Division. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Fitzhugh v County of Monroe, 88 Misc. 2d 16, 386 N.Y.S.2d 317, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2373 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Substantial evidence supported the Commissioner of Human Rights' decision that the Department of Correctional Services did not unlawfully discriminate against an applicant for a job as a correctional officer when it disqualified him because he could not raise one arm above his chest, because this limitation could endanger the applicant, other correctional officers, inmates or the public. Pageau v Tolbert, 304 A.D.2d 1067, 758 N.Y.S.2d 712, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4224 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2003).

State Division of Human Rights dismissal of former employee's disability discrimination claim was upheld in an N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceeding because the employer made reasonable efforts to both communicate with the former employee and consider accommodations requested, and former employee's delay in responding to employer was unexplained; the employer kept the former employee and his lawyer informed of the leave time, but, after the request for additional information, neither of them contacted the employer to inquire about the status of the accommodations request, or seek additional time to respond to the employer's inquiry. Matter of Vinikoff v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 83 A.D.3d 1159, 920 N.Y.S.2d 458, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2698 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

11. Sex discrimination

A woman, who was denied pregnancy-related disability benefits solely on the basis that she had not applied for them within the 26-week period as provided by Work Comp Law § 217(1), was not subjected to an unlawful discriminatory practice on the basis of sex in employment in violation of Exec Law § 296(a)(1). Corbin, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 56 N.Y.2d 537, 449 N.Y.S.2d 966, 434 N.E.2d 1344, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3222 (N.Y. 1982).

Court of Appeals had jurisdiction to hear transit authority employee's appeal of Appellate Division's reduction of sex discrimination award, even though initial award was nonfinal, since appeal lay pursuant to CLS CPLR § 5602(a)(2) and CLS Exec § 298. New York City Transit Authority v State Div. of Human Rights, 78 N.Y.2d 207, 573 N.Y.S.2d 49, 577 N.E.2d 40, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1010 (N.Y. 1991).

City department which had established height and weight requirements for lifeguards which excluded virtually all female applicants ordered to take steps to insure that any such standards bear proper and real relation to the job functions, although there was no evidence of intent to discriminate against females. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Callery v New York City Dep't of Parks & Recreation, 38 A.D.2d 25, 326 N.Y.S.2d 640, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2743 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1971).

Where the record, considered as a whole, justified division's finding of no probable cause for sex discrimination charge, board impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its own review in vacating division's order of dismissal. Long Island R. R. Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 857, 346 N.Y.S.2d 849, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

State Division of Human Rights erred in ordering city not to appoint to vacant police sergeant post anyone other than policewoman who ranked third on eligibility list for the post and who had alleged that she had been the subject of sex discrimination in not receiving prior appointment since such action assumed that the policewoman was necessarily more qualified than any other potential candidate and would have effectively substituted the judgment of the Division for that of the appropriate appointing authorities. Schenectady v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 A.D.2d 569, 360 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3742 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974), rev'd, 37 N.Y.2d 421, 373 N.Y.S.2d 59, 335 N.E.2d 290, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. 1975).

Court is required to hear and determine as expeditiously as possible proceedings under Executive Law charging sex discrimination. Guardian Capital Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 753, 368 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9834 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 37 N.Y.2d 712, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2959 (N.Y. 1975).

A formal hearing on claim of sex discrimination in employment was not required as long as record indicated that dismissal of complaint by State Division of Human Rights was not arbitrary, capricious nor an abuse of discretion. Pixley v Raymond Corp., 59 A.D.2d 979, 399 N.Y.S.2d 411, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14248 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding brought by a male probation officer to review an order of the State Division of Human Rights dismissing his complaint of sex discrimination upon a finding of a lack of probable cause, the failure of the Division to make the proper investigation into a regulation, permitting pregnant employees to use accumulated sick leave to extend infant care leave without any showing of actual disability, required a remand of the male probation officer's request to use his accumulated sick leave while on infant care leave in order to determine the validity of the regulation on its face and in its implementation; to the extent that the regulation so intended and that its implementation so operated, there was an apparent discrimination, at least to the extent that a pregnant woman who was able to work was authorized to utilize her sick leave while a man who had fathered a child and been given home care leave was denied the right to utilize sick leave. Chavkin v Santaella, 81 A.D.2d 153, 439 N.Y.S.2d 654, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10507 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding initiated pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination of the State Human Rights Appeal Board which affirmed an order of the State Division of Human Rights dismissing a petitioner's complaint based on allegations that her employer was discriminating against her because of her age and sex, the determination would be confirmed, where the petitioner had full opportunity to present her contentions and evidence and the investigation was not so inadequate as to render the determination of no probable cause arbitrary and capricious. The dismissal of the complaint by the State Division of Human Rights for lack of probable cause was not an abuse of discretion since the division's expertise in evaluating discrimination claims may not be lightly disregarded and since the Human Rights Law applies only when an employment decision was in fact actuated by discrimination. Piekielniak v New York State Dep't of Health, 90 A.D.2d 585, 456 N.Y.S.2d 128, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18649 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Where determinations of no probable cause are based on investigations which are one sided and abbreviated, determination will be annulled; thus, in sex discrimination case, determination will be annulled where it was made solely on basis of petitioner's verified petition, letter from respondent's attorney, and petitioner's written response, petitioner was not interviewed in person nor were witnesses questioned, respondent's attorney did not have first hand knowledge of facts and his submitted information should therefore not have been relied upon, there was no contact with supervisors or personnel officers employed by respondent who might have had first hand knowledge, and where statistical data showing significantly lower success rate for women than for men was disregarded by investigator. Pape-Becker v Equitable Life Assurance Soc., 111 A.D.2d 427, 488 N.Y.S.2d 321, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51523 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Defendants' former employee stated cause of action for unlawful employment discrimination on basis of sex where she had exemplary performance evaluations for 11 years prior to 7-month tenure of supervisor who fired her for poor job performance, she claimed that supervisor actually fired her because she refused to perform certain menial tasks (such as bringing him coffee, tea and oranges) that were not part of her job description, and she alleged that her successor (also female) was fired for refusing to do same tasks. Spector v Hebrew Hosp. Home, 229 A.D.2d 571, 646 N.Y.S.2d 37, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8254 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Student and part-time employee of college had no cause of action against college for sex discrimination under CLS Exec § 296 where college placed its basketball coach on leave immediately after plaintiff informed it of coach's discriminatory conduct, and thus it did not acquiesce in or condone that conduct. Sormani v Orange County Community College, 240 A.D.2d 724, 659 N.Y.S.2d 507, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7119 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Prior service of process on New York City Commission on Human Rights and Corporation Counsel of City of New York under NYC Admin Code § 8-502(c) is not condition precedent to valid commencement of sex discrimination action under NYC Admin Code Title 8. Teller v America West Airlines, 240 A.D.2d 727, 659 N.Y.S.2d 314, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7132 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Attorney was entitled to summary judgment dismissing his legal secretary/office manager's action for sex discrimination where, after attorney broke off parties' wholly consensual sexual relationship in order to attempt reconciliation with his wife, he terminated manager's employment because he no longer desired to have intimate relationship with her, and there was no coercion, harassment, or unwelcome sexual conduct before or after breakup of relationship, which was based on mutual affection. Mauro v Orville, 259 A.D.2d 89, 697 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10935 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 759, 705 N.Y.S.2d 6, 726 N.E.2d 483, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 60 (N.Y. 2000).

Petition seeking enforcement of an order finding gender discrimination against six complainants was granted because the findings were supported by substantial evidence and the relief imposed by the commissioner was reasonably related to the discriminatory conduct. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Adams Sec., Inc., 38 A.D.3d 1194, 832 N.Y.S.2d 360, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3357 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2007).

Determination finding an employer guilty of gender discrimination relating to a candidate's job application was proper because sufficient evidence supported the determination. Among other things, the candidate testified that during interviews, two employees told him that there was internal agency pressure to hire a female. One employee's denial that he made the statements or otherwise considered gender in making his decision created a credibility issue for the division, and, moreover, the employee's explanation that he preferred the applicant with virtually no relevant experience because she might have been innovative conflicted with the job vacancy notice which stated that experience was "highly desirable." Matter of New York State Energy Research & Dev. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 50 A.D.3d 1361, 857 N.Y.S.2d 269, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3328 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Because a correction officer failed to show that the officer was subjected either to quid pro quo or hostile work environment sexual harassment under N.Y. Exec. Law art. 15, and because the officer's workplace was not permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule, and insult, the officer's complaint was properly dismissed; accordingly, the officer was not entitled to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 relief. Matter of Bracci v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 62 A.D.3d 1146, 878 N.Y.S.2d 830, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3714 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009), app. dismissed, 15 N.Y.3d 865, 910 N.Y.S.2d 31, 936 N.E.2d 912, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 2963 (N.Y. 2010).

County's action pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 to review an agencies determination that a worker was subjected to a discriminatory practice in her employment was granted; the agency erred in finding that the worker was discriminated against, as the worker, who was refused time off to accept a paid teaching position, was not similarly situated with a male employee, who was allowed time off to take a class. Washington County v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 7 A.D.3d 895, 776 N.Y.S.2d 650, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6763 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

New York State Division of Human Rights' N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 petition to enforce an award based on a landlord's sexual harassment of a tenant was granted; N.Y. Exec. Law art. 15 forbade same-sex sexual harassment in the context of the rental of housing accommodations. The landlord engaged in a course of unwelcome, sexually-offensive behavior. Matter of State Div. of Human Rights v Stoute, 36 A.D.3d 257, 826 N.Y.S.2d 122, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14350 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

12. —Pregnancy

Personnel policy of school board's singling out childbirth among other physical conditions for special treatment in fixing terms of compensation and of return to employment thereafter was a violation of the Human Rights Law notwithstanding the fact that such policy was the product of negotiations conducted under the Taylor Law rather than having been unilaterally promulgated by employer school district. Union Free Sch. Dist. No. 6 v N.Y. State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 35 N.Y.2d 371, 362 N.Y.S.2d 139, 320 N.E.2d 859, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1177 (N.Y. 1974), reh'g denied, 36 N.Y.2d 807, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2685 (N.Y. 1975).

A complaint by an associate dean of a community college alleging unlawful discrimination on the basis of race in his discharge was properly dismissed, where a finding by the State Division of Human Rights of discrimination by use of a quota system was not warranted even though the evidence showed that the college tried to avoid penalizing any minority group when affecting a retrenchment plan, the college president presented a statistical analysis to the college affirmative action office showing no change in the racial balance of college employees as a result of the plan, and the college president had told the dean that his discharge was for "anthropological" reasons, in that the statement was ambiguous and the State Division of Human Rights had not found the statement to be evidence of prejudice or bias against the dean. CUNY-Hostos Community College v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 59 N.Y.2d 69, 463 N.Y.S.2d 173, 449 N.E.2d 1251, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3027 (N.Y. 1983).

A pregnant teacher who goes on maternity leave should be permitted to use sick leave and sabbatical leave to same extent as other teachers suffering from temporary physical disability for duration of such disability and denial of such practice constitutes discrimination. Board of Education v State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 854, 346 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3632 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973), aff'd, 35 N.Y.2d 675, 360 N.Y.S.2d 887, 319 N.E.2d 203, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1327 (N.Y. 1974).

School district and board of education, by enforcing terms of teachers collective bargaining agreement requiring maternity leave to commence after third month of pregnancy, were properly found to have discriminated against female teachers on the basis of sex. Union Free School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 43 A.D.2d 31, 349 N.Y.S.2d 757, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3068 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973), app. dismissed, 33 N.Y.2d 975, 353 N.Y.S.2d 739, 309 N.E.2d 137, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1762 (N.Y. 1974).

Hospital had to compensate maternity related disability just as it compensates other nonoccupational disabilities, notwithstanding an express statutory authorization for such an exclusion in the Workmen's Compensation Law, since a recognition of the continuing validity of that provision would sufficiently frustrate and impede the intended reforms meant to be accomplished by the later amendment of the Executive Law, whereby discrimination on the basis of sex became unlawful, as to work an implied repeal of the Workmen's Compensation Law provision. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ambruster v Crouse-Irving Memorial Hospital, 50 A.D.2d 1083, 377 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12113 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975), aff'd, 41 N.Y.2d 84, 390 N.Y.S.2d 884, 359 N.E.2d 393, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3253 (N.Y. 1976).

School district would be required to pay any teacher physically disabled by reason of maternity accrued sick leave benefits for that portion of school year coinciding with such disability or aggravation of such disability, unless such teacher elected to take unpaid maternity leave during which sick leave was not applicable, provided she furnished to district certificate from her attending physician to effect that during such period of time she was, in fact, physically disabled. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 51 A.D.2d 357, 381 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11080 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 1021, 391 N.Y.S.2d 532, 359 N.E.2d 1327, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3155 (N.Y. 1976).

Female teachers by exercising right to optional unpaid maternity leave under collective bargaining agreement did not elect to forego right to accumulated sick leave for period of physical disability before and after date of birth. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Garfunkel v Union Free School Dist., 54 A.D.2d 928, 388 N.Y.S.2d 314, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14781 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 802, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3651 (N.Y. 1977).

Court properly remanded proceedings by two employees of school district, charging discrimination in terms, conditions and privileges of employment on basis of sex, with respect to maternity leave policy for purpose of obtaining medical testimony as to when disability ended after date of birth. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Garfunkel v Union Free School Dist., 54 A.D.2d 928, 388 N.Y.S.2d 314, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14781 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 802, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3651 (N.Y. 1977).

Absent any evidentiary basis for determining length of disability and when it began, Division of Human Rights' directive ordering city school district to permit pregnant teachers to use accrued sick leave benefits for those days during unpaid maternity leave in which they were unable to work for physical reasons was "arbitrary" exercise of power and had to be modified to require payment to teacher of accrued sick leave for that portion of school year coinciding with physical disability by reason of maternity, provided that teacher does not commence sick leave until actually disabled and provided further that attending physician furnish certificate as to dates of disability. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Schulte v Board of Education, 54 A.D.2d 1115, 388 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15096 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review an order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board affirming a determination of the State Division of Human Rights, which found the petitioner guilty of having unlawfully discriminated against complainant by having denied her disability benefits for disability based on pregnancy, the petitioner's contention that the complaint was untimely was without merit, where the complaint was filed within one year after the complainant received notice from her employer's insurer that her claim for disability by reason of pregnancy had been denied. Hillcrest General Hospital-GHI v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 90 A.D.2d 481, 454 N.Y.S.2d 549, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18487 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Employee may not be terminated simply because she is pregnant; upon showing of prima facie case of discharge from employment because of gender-related condition of pregnancy, employer has burden to prove that circumstances warranted discharge by articulating legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for termination. Energy Expo, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 112 A.D.2d 302, 491 N.Y.S.2d 748, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56263 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Due to the common management, ownership, and financial control of an employer and its interrelated entities, their employees were properly aggregated to satisfy N.Y. Exec. Law § 292(5); in addition, since the employer violated N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(1) by discriminating against an employee based on her pregnancy, it was not entitled to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 relief. Matter of Argyle Realty Assocs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 65 A.D.3d 273, 882 N.Y.S.2d 458, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

13. Discrimination by labor unions

A person has the right not to be excluded from a labor union because of race, creed, color or religious persuasion but there is no right to have such a union take affirmative steps looking toward integration. And an order of the Commission which does not exceed the above limitation will be enforced by the courts. State Com. for Human Rights v Farrell, 24 A.D.2d 128, 264 N.Y.S.2d 489, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965), app. denied, 17 N.Y.2d 418, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1711 (N.Y. 1966).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination that a prospective employee was refused consideration on the basis of his arrest record, the determination that awarded compensatory damages for mental anguish and humiliation was properly confirmed where the job in question was as a mechanic at a state correctional facility, and where the human rights commissioner's broad power to order affirmative action included the power to award such compensatory damages to the aggrieved employee. State, Dep't of Correctional Services v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 88 A.D.2d 1061, 452 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17482 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

The sheet metal worker's union was ordered to commence an apprenticeship class without regard to the background or ethnic origin of the applicants in accordance with an agreement made by the union, management, the court, and the Commission for Human Rights. State Com. for Human Rights v Farrell, 47 Misc. 2d 244, 262 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1645 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 24 A.D.2d 128, 264 N.Y.S.2d 489, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

Where a sheet metal workers' union had a history of over a century of racial discrimination and unreasonable exclusiveness the court properly refused to reconsider an order requiring the continuance of an unsegregated apprentice training program, and the union's argument for noncompliance with the order on the ground of unemployment of some members was unavailing. State Com. for Human Rights v Farrell, 47 Misc. 2d 799, 263 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1483 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

14. Enforcement orders

In proceeding by State Commission for Human Rights to enforce an order of said Commission, order of Supreme Court which (1) denied the Commission's application to enforce its order in its entirety and (2) vacated order of the Commission and remitted the matter to the Commission for a new public hearing after notice to respondents, was appealable as of right in an action originating in the Supreme Court or a county court. State Com. for Human Rights v Lieber, 23 N.Y.2d 253, 296 N.Y.S.2d 319, 244 N.E.2d 24, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 973 (N.Y. 1968).

Since the language of Executive Law § 298 is not cast in mandatory terms, the Appellate Division retains discretionary control over an application for an enforcement order such as to an order issued by the State Division of Human Rights and may deny such enforcement order in the exercise of its discretion. State Div. of Human Rights v Employers-Commercial Union Ins. Group, 33 A.D.2d 273, 307 N.Y.S.2d 232, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5601 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 26 N.Y.2d 611, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1758 (N.Y. 1970).

Order of State Division of Human Rights could not be enforced after 2 year effective period thereof had expired, where no explanation was offered for delay in seeking enforcement, and court had no statutory authority to extend effective time period as provided by commissioner. State Div. of Human Rights v Jakoblew, 41 A.D.2d 889, 343 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4732 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Court has no statutory authority to extend 2 year period of compliance beyond date of commissioner's order relating to discrimination. State Div. of Human Rights v Nissenbaum, 41 A.D.2d 1022, 344 N.Y.S.2d 306, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4382 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

In an original proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 in which the State Division of Human Rights sought an order enforcing a prior determination of the Commissioner of Human Rights that a village had unlawfully discriminated against the complainant by discharging her from employment on the basis of her marital status, the village's failure to appeal the commissioner's order did not preclude the court's review of the order on the merits; the division's petition would be dismissed, although the points raised by the village did not warrant dismissal, where the court found that as a matter of law the complainant's discharge had not been motivated by conduct proscribed by Exec Law § 296. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Howarth v Spencerport, 78 A.D.2d 50, 434 N.Y.S.2d 52, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13406 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination of no probable cause with respect to petitioner's claim of discrimination based on his race and color, the determination was properly confirmed and the petition dismissed where the affidavit of the regional director of the State Division of Human Rights detailed the routine office practice showing that the determination was mailed on a certain date, where petitioner offered no evidence rebutting the presumption that the determination was mailed on that date, and where the appeal was not filed within the 18-day time limit. Campbell v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 89 A.D.2d 659, 453 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17779 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Enforcement order will not be entered where division of human rights has not demonstrated that it has conducted investigation revealing employer's willful noncompliance with administrative order for which enforcement is sought. Salvatore v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 118 A.D.2d 715, 500 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54574 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

15. Particular orders as arbitrary and capricious

Appellate Division can only set aside determination of commissioner of Division of Human Rights if such determination is arbitrary or capricious; thus, it improperly set aside commissioner's award of back pay after having affirmed its finding of discrimination. Mize v State Div. of Human Rights, 33 N.Y.2d 53, 349 N.Y.S.2d 364, 304 N.E.2d 231, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1002 (N.Y. 1973).

Inclusion in final order of conciliation agreement to which no objections had been received within 15-day period following service on claimant's attorney of proposed conciliation agreement was neither arbitrary nor an abuse of discretion where Executive Law § 297, subd 3 did not require that service of proposed agreement on claimant's attorney be accompanied either by service of a statement of the statutory provisions relating to filing of objections or of a warning that objections be filed within 15 days. Berry v Donner-Hanna Coke Corp., 42 A.D.2d 404, 348 N.Y.S.2d 414, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3280 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 893, 359 N.Y.S.2d 283, 316 N.E.2d 717, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1445 (N.Y. 1974).

Where dismissal of civil rights complaint based on age discrimination in discharge of doorman was based upon investigation which was abbreviated and one-sided, where the doorman had evidence to refute contention that he was discharged because he had misappropriated moneys given to him for transfer to another employee, and where supervisor who had allegedly told the doorman that he was being discharged because of his age was not interviewed, affirmance by the State Human Rights Appeal Board of the dismissal was arbitrary and capricious. Tenenbaum v State Div. of Human Rights, 50 A.D.2d 257, 376 N.Y.S.2d 542, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11491 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Determination that employer, which entered into conciliation agreement in settlement of complaint of unlawful discrimination and which sent petitioner's resume along with a cover letter to 44 different agencies and organizations covering a broad geographical area, had satisfied its duty under agreement to use its "best efforts" to locate employment for petitioner was neither arbitrary nor capricious. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Osuwagu v County of Onondaga, 50 A.D.2d 716, 374 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12592 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Evidence showing, inter alia, city employee's chronic lateness, absenteeism, insubordination and poor work performance supported finding of division of human rights of no probable cause to believe that employee was victim of discrimination so that Human Rights Appeal Board exceeded its limited scope of review in determining that division's order dismissing employee's complaint was arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion. New York City Housing Authority v State Div. on Human Rights, 53 A.D.2d 844, 385 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13674 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Division of Human Rights acted arbitrarily and capriciously in dismissing complaint of retiree who had filed waiting-list application for rent-stabilized apartment and who claimed landlord (1) was discriminating against him based on his age, (2) had raised his waiting-list number, and (3) was "warehousing" apartments and not renting to senior citizens in preparation for impending cooperative conversion plan, since division's investigation was inadequate and abbreviated in that after landlord denied allegations without any detail and failed to deliver division-requested roster of senior citizen tenants, division made "no probable cause" determination and dismissed retiree's complaint instead of investigating further. Flinker v State Div. of Human Rights, 123 A.D.2d 578, 507 N.Y.S.2d 12, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

Department of Labor (DOL) acted arbitrarily in denying targeted jobs tax credits to employers using survey designed and marketed by petitioner ("Stanton Survey") to screen job applicants, on ground that survey questions dealing with theft of cash or merchandise violated Ex-Offender Law, in absence of final determination to that effect by Division of Human Rights, which was only agency vested with authority to make such determination, which would authorize DOL to discontinue services. Stanton Corp. v Department of Labor, 166 A.D.2d 331, 561 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12748 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

It was arbitrary and improper for State Division of Human Rights (SDHR), during pendency of court review of employment discrimination complaint, to dismiss complaint on ground of administrative convenience since (1) dismissal deprived employer of its right to continue to argue before SDHR that it had been prejudiced by 14-year delay between filing of complaint and probable cause determination, (2) dismissal was obvious attempt to deprive court of jurisdiction to review underlying matter, and (3) given that both federal and state statutory schemes for addressing illegal discrimination provide that discrimination claims be brought in only one forum, it appeared that dismissal was in fact means chosen to allow employee to select different forum (state court) to hear same matter that had previously been submitted to both federal court and state agency. Avon Products, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 138 Misc. 2d 466, 524 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 36 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Determination made by State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) which, after reopening previous finding of probable cause, found "no probable cause" and dismissed petitioner's complaint, was arbitrary and capricious where (1) reopening order specifically contemplated remand to regional director for further investigation, but petitioner's counsel was never formally advised what additional evidence was needed and was not specifically asked to produce particular additional evidence, (2) record failed to show that any additional post-reopening investigation was conducted, and (3) SDHR did not explain its reversal of initial assessment finding probable cause. Boyea v New York State Exec. Dep't, Div. of Human Rights, 178 Misc. 2d 398, 679 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 471 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

16. Sufficiency of evidence and proof

Where findings of fact on which order of State Human Rights Appeal Board are based are supported by sufficient evidence on the record as a whole, they are conclusive. Schenectady v State Div. of Human Rights, 37 N.Y.2d 421, 373 N.Y.S.2d 59, 335 N.E.2d 290, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. 1975).

Findings of fact made by human rights commissioner were not to be disturbed if they were supported by sufficient evidence on record considered as a whole. New York Inst. of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 132, 368 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9559 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975), rev'd, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

If State Human Rights Appeal Board decision dismissing complaint is supported by sufficient evidence, it is conclusive. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Courtemanche v Stone & Webster Engineering Corp., 52 A.D.2d 1088, 384 N.Y.S.2d 312, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13026 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 805, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3742 (N.Y. 1977).

Choice of which conflicting evidence to accept lies with commissioner of Division of Human Rights and his finding is supported by the evidence and is conclusive if others might reasonably make the same choice. State Div. of Human Rights v Syracuse, 57 A.D.2d 452, 394 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11822 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 958, 404 N.Y.S.2d 343, 375 N.E.2d 409, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. 1978).

A doctor's allegations claiming discrimination against him because of his Egyptian heritage and national origin on the part of the hospital in failing to promote him to the position of chief resident of the urology division, were unsubstantiated where two other urology residents, who were white, male, American, and Anglo-Saxon, and whose evaluation reports were higher than the doctor's, were also denied appointments as chief residents on the grounds of substandard work performances. Grace v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 87 A.D.2d 726, 449 N.Y.S.2d 339, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16067 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Determination that dentist discriminated against complainant based on his HIV status would be annulled where dentist performed complete oral examination of complainant, and concluded that further treatment, in form of root canal therapy, was needed, it was undisputed that dentist did not perform root canal work, and that his associate, who performed root canal work on only 30 to 40 percent of practice's patients, was away on vacation, it was dentist's professional judgment that complainant needed immediate treatment because he was in pain, and that dental unit of university hospital would best provide that treatment in view of risk of secondary infection, no evidence was presented that such recommendation was inappropriate or medically unsound, and complainant contacted dentist's secretary to request additional referrals, but he sought no further treatment from dentist or his associates. Schulman v State Div. of Human Rights, 239 A.D.2d 588, 658 N.Y.S.2d 70, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5622 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 801, 677 N.Y.S.2d 71, 699 N.E.2d 431, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 1998).

In enforcement proceedings under Article 15 of the Executive Law it is not necessary that findings be based on evidence establishing them beyond a reasonable doubt but it is sufficient if the findings are supported by evidence sufficiently substantial to prevent inferences of the existence of facts found to be reasonably drawn and the Commission, at its hearing, is not bound by the strict rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity. State Com. for Human Rights v Suburban Associates, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 920, 286 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), modified, 34 A.D.2d 662, 310 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Employee's N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceeding was dismissed because, inter alia, the record contained substantial evidence to support the findings of the administrative law judge (ALJ) that the employee was not treated differently for racial reasons, and that the incidents cited by employee failed to establish that the employer permitted a racially hostile environment; the employee's proof relating to her constructive discharge claim lacked consistency, undermining her credibility, and the ALJ's rejection of this claim had adequate support in the record. Matter of Price v Southwest Airlines, Inc., 66 A.D.3d 1267, 888 N.Y.S.2d 255, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7618 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

Determination of a hostile work environment was confirmed in an N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceedings because the employees' testimony, and other testimony, established, among other things, that the employer's owner made sexual comments to the employees, including speaking about what he would do to them if he was not married and describing his past cheating on his wife, that the owner straddled one employee when she was taking a break on the porch outside the diner, and sat down on the other employee's lap at the same location, that the owner pulled on the employees' pants, and contrary testimony created a credibility issue for the commissioner to resolve; substantial evidence also supported the determination of retaliation and supported the compensatory awards and the back pay awards. The employees testified that, after they complained about the owner's behavior, the owner fired them. Matter of West Taghkanic Diner II, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 105 A.D.3d 1106, 962 N.Y.S.2d 748, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2230 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

17. Evidence of age discrimination

Evidence sustained findings that employee's employment was not terminated because of his age and that he was not denied consideration for further employment in retaliation for having filed initial complaint alleging unlawful discrimination because of age. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Courtemanche v Stone & Webster Engineering Corp., 52 A.D.2d 1088, 384 N.Y.S.2d 312, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13026 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 805, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3742 (N.Y. 1977).

Record supported finding of Commissioner of State Division of Human Rights that New York City Department of Personnel committed unlawful age discrimination by establishing maximum age of 40 years for position of parking enforcement agent and by rejecting applicant on basis that she was 54 years old; Department failed to establish its affirmative defense that age restriction was bona fide occupational qualification. New York City Dep't of Personnel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 56 A.D.2d 795, 392 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11090 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

In an age discrimination case, there would be no probable cause to believe that an employee of the state education department had been a victim of discrimination as a result of his not being promoted to the position of bureau chief where the employee had not applied for one of the promotions in question, where another promotion had been given to one of the top three candidates on the civil service eligible list, and where other employees, who had been older than the complainant, had been promoted to positions on the bureau chief level. New York State Education Dep't v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 92 A.D.2d 648, 460 N.Y.S.2d 176, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16917 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

An age-discrimination complaint by a newswriter for a television station was properly dismissed, even though the newswriter alleged that the president of the station had told him that his age and physical looks were a barrier to a requested position as an anchorman, where the president testified that the denial of the position was on the basis that the newswriter's contract did not provide for transfer based on seniority that the newswriter did not possess the necessary voice or delivery to anchor newscasts, and that the newswriter's termination was due to economic reasons, where no union grievance was filed on the newswriter's behalf, where seniority was not a determinative factor in job assignments according to the newswriter's contract, and where the newswriter had negotiated with the new owners of the station to accept three-quarters of his severance pay under the unsuitability clause of his contract and had executed a general release. State Div. of Human Rights v WBEN-Inc., 96 A.D.2d 1141, 467 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19823 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983).

Probable cause for age discrimination is shown where employee, who had been with firm for over 23 years, was bumped by more senior employee where company did not abide by employee handbook provisions in which company promised to exert efforts to find other position in company. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Walker v American Can Co., 112 A.D.2d 776, 492 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56016 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985), app. denied, 67 N.Y.2d 604, 500 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 490 N.E.2d 1232, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 17109 (N.Y. 1986).

While New York State Division of Human Rights' investigation of complaint need not be extensive, it must not be so abbreviated and one-sided that it results in record which does not afford reasonable basis for administrative determination; consequently, where petitioner, who was hired by respondent when she was 59 and discharged approximately one year later, alleges that her employment was terminated approximately 3 weeks short of her eligibility for employer's retirement and pension plan when employer realized great expense of putting 60-year old woman on that plan, division's investigation was so one-sided and abbreviated that determination of no probable cause must be overturned as capricious. Hendel v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 114 A.D.2d 897, 495 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53928 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Determination of Division of Human Rights upholding termination of employee of non-profit corporation was supported by substantial evidence, and was neither irrational nor capricious, where, despite employee's age of 60 years and status as department head, corporation was required by its precarious financial condition to consolidate departments and terminate those employees who were in charge of eliminated departments. Johnson v National League for Nursing, 135 A.D.2d 393, 521 N.Y.S.2d 689, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52360 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

Employer was entitled to summary judgment dismissing employee's action for age discrimination where employee admitted that his computer skills were not up to par, that he had been warned about this problem and took no action to become more proficient, and that he failed to complete inventory project by his self-imposed deadline; single good performance appraisal, more than year prior to his termination, was not sufficient to raise question of fact with regard to reason for termination. Brooks v Blue Cross, 195 A.D.2d 814, 600 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7251 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Division of Human Rights properly determined that employer unlawfully discriminated against employee due to his age (63 years) where evidence showed that employer terminated employee and replaced him with younger person, and only purportedly nondiscriminatory reason proffered by employer was "downsizing due to financial difficulties." Laverack & Haines, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 217 A.D.2d 955, 629 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8381 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995), rev'd, 88 N.Y.2d 734, 650 N.Y.S.2d 76, 673 N.E.2d 586, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3057 (N.Y. 1996).

Employee, who was fired for refusing to follow reasonable order to report to new work location, failed to establish prima facie case of age discrimination where she alleged that employer discriminated against her when her branch office closed by giving her temporary rather than permanent reassignment, but she admittedly had done nothing to pursue permanent reassignment, and coworker who was only one year younger than she was did receive permanent reassignment. Citibank, N.A. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 227 A.D.2d 322, 643 N.Y.S.2d 68, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6169 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 815, 651 N.Y.S.2d 17, 673 N.E.2d 1244, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3282 (N.Y. 1996).

State Division of Human Rights' finding that there was no probable cause to believe that physician's employment with hospital was terminated because of age discrimination was supported by substantial evidence where reconsideration of physician's continued retention was justified by hospital's decision to switch emphasis of its radiology department's technology from research uses to clinical uses, as well as its need to adjust to budget constraints in manner that was consistent with its emerging clinical focus. Albert v Beth Israel Medical Ctr., 230 A.D.2d 695, 646 N.Y.S.2d 688, 646 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8726 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Human Rights Specialist's investigation regarding physician's complaint alleging that his employment with hospital was terminated because of age discrimination afforded physician full and fair opportunity to rebut evidence submitted by hospital where Specialist made field trip to hospital and interviewed 2 other physicians, reviewed these interviews with physician in telephone conference, subsequently met with physician for approximately 2 ½ hours to discuss all documents in investigative file and allow physician to detail all factors he believed were relevant to his claim, made another field trip to hospital to review physician's personnel file, visited EEOC to review its files, and notified physician when her investigation was nearing completion and told him he should submit anything else he thought should be considered. Albert v Beth Israel Medical Ctr., 230 A.D.2d 695, 646 N.Y.S.2d 688, 646 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8726 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Court would annul determination finding discrimination on basis of age where, at relevant times, there was controlling statutory authority to establish reasonable minimum and maximum age limits for firefighters (CLS Civ S former § 54). Buffalo Mun. Civil Serv. Comm'n v Mercado, 233 A.D.2d 877, 649 N.Y.S.2d 860, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13359 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Defendants were not entitled to summary judgment in employee's action for age discrimination where there were triable issues of fact as to whether employee was replaced by younger person and whether reason advanced by defendants was pretext. Dolgon v Standard Motor Prods., Inc., 251 A.D.2d 281, 671 N.Y.S.2d 1023, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6360 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Employer was entitled to summary judgment dismissing action for age discrimination where deposition testimony of plaintiff's friend and coworker that their supervisor told him, one week after plaintiff was terminated, that supervisor was "going to try to get somebody younger to work that job" was merely isolated and ambiguous statement that did not directly state or imply that plaintiff was terminated for discriminatory reason, and coworker acknowledged that supervisor did not disclose to him reasons for plaintiff's termination. Almanzar v Collegiate Church Corp., 255 A.D.2d 230, 681 N.Y.S.2d 240, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12445 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Employer was entitled to directed verdict dismissing former employee's age discrimination action where (1) there was conflicting evidence as to whether employee, who was tailor in men's clothing store, was laid off or resigned to open his own business, (2) tailoring business was cyclical, (3) before union was voted out, layoffs were made during slow periods on basis of seniority, (4) after union was voted out, employees were given opportunity to avoid layoffs by taking one day off per week, (5) although employees voted for that plan, which affected all employees equally, plaintiff expressed his dissatisfaction with it, and (5) fact that newly hired tailor earned much less than plaintiff earned did not prove discrimination in light of evidence that new tailor was hired to fill in while plaintiff was on vacation and to replace another tailor who had health problems. Orlando v Rubersi Sales, Inc., 255 A.D.2d 802, 680 N.Y.S.2d 310, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12499 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Substantial, if not overwhelming, evidence supported employer's failure to take proper measures to halt male employees' increasingly aggressive verbal and physical harassment of sole female employee in frozen food warehouse, constituting condonation of gender and age discrimination and hostile work environment, where (1) taunts included remarks that she was too old and slow, was taking man's job away, and was "biggest whore" in town, (2) physical abuse culminated in her being picked up by legs, turned upside down, carried in attempt to place her headfirst in garbage receptacle, and slammed into door of men's room, which caused disabling injuries, and (3) although principal perpetrator was warned that he would be fired if he did not refrain from such conduct, he was merely suspended for 3 days and continued to taunt complainant after suspension. Grand Union Co. v Mercado, 263 A.D.2d 923, 694 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8451 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Judgment entered on jury verdict finding that employee was unlawfully discharged because of his age would not be disturbed, despite employer's claim that employee did not prove that employer's stated reasons for discharge were pretextual, where case was not tried on pretext theory but on mixed-motives theory, and thus when employee presented sufficient evidence to support inference of impermissible discrimination, burden shifted to employer to show that employment decision would have been reached in absence of impermissible motive. Allen v Domus Dev. Corp., 273 A.D.2d 891, 709 N.Y.S.2d 776, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6963 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging county sheriff's termination of petitioner's employment as probationary correction officer in sheriff's department, petitioner's conclusory assertions were insufficient to prove prima facie case of age discrimination where he was hired at age 41 and terminated at age 42. Higgins v La Paglia, 281 A.D.2d 679, 722 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2009 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 854, 729 N.Y.S.2d 669, 754 N.E.2d 772, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1460 (N.Y. 2001).

There was sufficient unrebutted evidence in record to warrant public hearing on complaint that Delta Airlines discriminated on basis of age against 57-year-old automotive mechanic with 19 years of service with Pan American Airways when it did not hire him as part of its 1991 purchase of Pan Am's assets, where complaint alleged that specifically identified younger Pan Am mechanics with less seniority were hired in his stead. Sauer v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 285 A.D.2d 372, 727 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7370 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Park maintenance mechanic employed by county failed to establish prim facie case of age discrimination where termination of his employment was in response to budgetary constraints, his position was not filled by younger person but was left vacant for 2 years after his termination, and older person was hired when position was restored to county budget. Genesky v Local 1000, AFSCME, AFL-CIO, CSEA, 287 A.D.2d 594, 731 N.Y.S.2d 758, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9864 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Commissioner's determination that an employee's termination was motivated by age discrimination and that the explanation offered by the employer was pretextual was confirmed in an N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceeding because it was supported by substantial evidence; the commissioner relied, inter alia, on evidence that the employee was not offered an opportunity previously offered to a younger individual to remain employed at a lower pay grade, that younger individuals were hired and promoted with raises within months of the employee's termination, and that the employer operated with more supervisory positions after the employee's termination than before his termination. New York State Tug Hill Commn. v New York State New York State Div. of Human Rights, 52 A.D.3d 1169, 860 N.Y.S.2d 698, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5159 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2008).

Even if reason for reduction of petitioner from rank of deputy inspector to rank of captain was police commissioner's belief that petitioner had been on his job too long, it did not follow that petitioner was being discriminated against because of his age. Foran v Cawley, 77 Misc. 2d 809, 354 N.Y.S.2d 757, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1233 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

No portion of New York State Human Rights Law—as it relates to age discrimination claims—will be preempted by Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA; 29 USCS § 1144), since age discrimination claims brought under Human Rights Law are governed by same standards as those brought under Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA; 29 USCS §§ 621 et seq.) and both federal statutes rely on "joint state/federal enforcement" scheme. Devlin v Transportation Communs. Int'l Union, 173 F.3d 94, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 6969 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999).

Employer's decision to split off 2 burgeoning district offices located on Long Island from Manhattan branch office, in order to create separate branch office located on Long Island, constituted reasonable exercise of informed judgment, and was not pretext for age discrimination against 52-year-old plaintiff, whose incentive compensation was somewhat lessened thereby. Ellis v Provident Life & Accident Ins. Co., 926 F. Supp. 417, 1996 U.S. Dist.

LEXIS 6979 (S.D.N.Y. 1996), aff'd, 107 F.3d 2, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 6984 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1997).

Plaintiff failed to prove that employer's legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for discharging him (payroll reduction) was pretext for age discrimination where ageist statements that created inference of discrimination were mostly made by supervisors not involved in discharge decision, plaintiff was not replaced by younger employee, and statistics indicated increase in number of employees over age 40. Boyle v McCann-Erickson, Inc., 949 F. Supp. 1095, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 43 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

Defendant employer that terminated age discrimination plaintiff as part of reduction in force, allegedly due to his performance and lack of experience in his area, failed to offer legitimate nondiscriminatory reason under Human Rights Law where branch in which plaintiff worked was not closed, plaintiff's position was not eliminated, he was only branch manager of 19 to be fired, he was given good performance reviews prior to termination, and he had 6 years of experience in his area. Tanzini v Marine Midland Bank, N.A., 952 F. Supp. 937, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 933 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

Plaintiff's allegation that he was performing his job satisfactorily, and that defendants never mentioned any deficiencies until after his termination, was not in itself probative of age discrimination, although it might tend to put at issue what real reason for termination actually was. Thomson v Saatchi & Saatchi Holdings, 958 F. Supp. 808, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4300 (W.D.N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 159 F.3d 1348, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 32113 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998).

Plaintiff, who was hired at age 52 and terminated 4 years later, failed to come forward with any evidence that defendant employer's legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for termination (his poor performance during financially troubled times) was pretext for age discrimination, where he relied solely on facts that he was replaced by younger person, that 4 other employees who were all more than 40 years old and earning more than $70,000 were terminated and may have been replaced by younger persons, and that he was never notified of his performance deficiencies. Strohmeyer v International Bhd. of Painters & Allied Trades, 989 F. Supp. 455, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21172 (W.D.N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 164 F.3d 619, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 35691 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998).

18. Evidence of employment discrimination

In proceeding before State Division of Human Rights for discriminatory discharge from employment, proof of mental anguish and humiliation should be such as would be sufficient in common-law action. 121-129 Broadway Realty, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 975, 369 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10269 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Evidence that college teacher was recommended for tenure, that recommendations for tenure of teacher and five other faculty members were held in abeyance pending review of entire tenure policy of college, that teacher refused to participate in review hearing and submitted his resignation, that plan subsequently adopted recommended that faculty previously recommend for tenure, which included members of both sexes and several races, be granted continuing appointments, and that teacher's request for cancellation of his resignation, made after acceptance of plan, was denied, was sufficient to support finding of Division of Human Rights that teacher was not subject to unlawful discrimination. McGrath v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 52 A.D.2d 1027, 383 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12931 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

A determination of the State Human Rights Appeal Board finding that there was no probable cause to believe that the employer engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice in discharging an employee, who alleged he was discharged due to his disability, a heart condition, would be affirmed where the employer presented evidence that the employee was fired for excessive absenteeism after his return to work upon recovering from his heart attack, that other employees had been terminated for similar reasons and that while recuperating from his heart attack the employer advanced the employee additional sick leave. Vadney v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 93 A.D.2d 935, 462 N.Y.S.2d 311, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17829 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

The determination of the New York State Division of Human Rights that complainant was terminated from her employment on the basis of race was properly affirmed, notwithstanding the employer's contention that the previous determination of the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board that complainant had been terminated for her own misconduct barred her from bringing the instant proceeding, where, inter alia, complainant was not represented by counsel in the previous proceeding, which involved a comparatively small claim, and where a full and fair opportunity to litigate the racial allegation was not afforded her. Board of Education v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 106 A.D.2d 364, 482 N.Y.S.2d 495, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21403 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Finding that school district had not discriminated (on basis of disability) against applicant for position as school bus driver lacked support in record where district had rejected applicant on strength of medical report in which doctor stated only that applicant should not operate bus until checked by cardiologist, and did not make final determination that applicant was unfit; accordingly, on applicant's Article 78 petition, decision of State Division of Human Rights, which had found no probable cause to believe that district had engaged in unlawful discriminatory practice, should be annulled. Sitler v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 133 A.D.2d 938, 520 N.Y.S.2d 653, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51983 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Determination that employer unlawfully discriminated against complainant by failing to hire him because of disability was supported by fact that he was denied employment as kitchen helper simply because he had high blood pressure, with no evaluation done as to whether such condition would prevent him from reasonably performing his job activities. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v New York Executive Dept., State Div. of Human Rights, 147 A.D.2d 575, 537 N.Y.S.2d 868, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1605 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Commissioner of Division of Human Rights had authority to determine that petitioner engaged in discriminatory practice based on manager's racial slurs, notwithstanding that complainant did not make that specific allegation in his complaint, since (1) elimination of discrimination in provision of basic opportunities is predominant purpose of Human Rights Law, (2) although complainant's testimony regarding racial slurs was in context of charge of unlawful termination, it was also directed at employment relationship between parties, and (3) petitioner could not claim surprise or prejudice from testimony as manager admitted making remarks on several occasions. Broad Elm Auto Centers, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 159 A.D.2d 978, 552 N.Y.S.2d 763, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3281 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990).

Determination that employer did not unlawfully discriminate against complainant because of his HIV-seropositive status was supported by medical and other evidence that physical manifestations of complainant's disability rendered him physically unable to perform job duties of any available position. Phillips ex rel. Phillips v Rosa, 222 A.D.2d 592, 635 N.Y.S.2d 92, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12917 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 968, 647 N.Y.S.2d 722, 670 N.E.2d 1354, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 5189 (N.Y. 1996).

Determination of state Division of Human Rights finding that employee of city transportation department was denied promotion to "gasoline roller engineer" due to racial discrimination would be annulled where employee provided no evidence that he had worked for 3 years—or for 2 years plus additional year of relevant experience—operating gasoline roller on full-time paid basis, and thus division's finding that he was qualified to operate roller at time of his application for provisional position was unsupported by substantial evidence. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 421, 638 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Commissioner of Human Rights may not substitute her judgment as to qualifications for hiring and promotion for that of employer. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 421, 638 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Explanation offered by city department of transportation for its decision to investigate and ultimately reject employee's application for promotion as "gasoline roller engineer"—department's knowledge of conflict between employee's claims of experience and his job duties as department employee—was not pretext for racial discrimination. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 421, 638 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Commissioner of Human Rights' inference of retaliatory motive behind acts of city department of transportation against employee was unfounded and would be annulled, despite employee having filed prior complaint of racial discrimination after he was denied promotion, where, with regard to various incidents, department provided ample evidence that denial of overtime was based on assessments of his qualifications and job performance, amendment of his performance evaluation was based on 2 disciplinary incidents unknown to supervisor who drafted evaluation initially, and denial of his application for another promotion was based on his complete lack of qualifications for post. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 421, 638 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Employee's assertion that civil service promotion examination regarding operation of "gasoline roller" (highway construction vehicle) was conducted against him in discriminatory or retaliatory manner due to his filing of racial discrimination complaint was unsupported where record established that he failed test on account of his own inabilities, including failure to reply correctly to questions which could be answered by simple observation of vehicle. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 421, 638 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2800 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Contention by clerk employed by correctional facility that facility's Deputy Superintendent of Administration had unlawfully prevented clerk from obtaining certain promotions was refuted by proof that Deputy lacked authority to influence those decisions. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 704, 656 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3750 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Court would affirm city's determination terminating petitioner's employment as parking lot attendant where he did not contest substantial evidence of his misconduct while on duty, including drinking and refusing to undergo breathalyzer test as directed by supervisor, and although he established prima facie case that conduct which formed basis for his discharge was causally related to his alcoholism, city showed that subsequent to his completion of alcohol treatment program, he had relapse while on duty and was immediately charged with misconduct. Myszczenko v City of Poughkeepsie, 239 A.D.2d 584, 657 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Electrician employed by city met his burden of presenting legally admissible proof that he was treated detrimentally for constitutionally impermissible reason of his off-duty political activities where, shortly after he was directed to refrain from wearing campaign sticker supporting political opponent of city public works commissioner, and while city and commissioner knew that he continued to express his opposing political views on his own time, his job duties were adjusted—including reduction in responsibility—in way that was calculated to, and did, lead to his being denied promotion and concomitant salary increase. Richardson v City of Saratoga Springs, 246 A.D.2d 900, 667 N.Y.S.2d 995, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 524 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding by city electrician, in which he presented prima facie proof that he was unconstitutionally denied promotion and concomitant salary increase because of his expression of political views opposing city public works commissioner, fact that job reclassification that led to his nonpromotion was recommended by independent consultant and approved by city council was of little significance in rebutting prima facie case where those actions were direct result of changes in electrician's work duties effected by commissioner. Richardson v City of Saratoga Springs, 246 A.D.2d 900, 667 N.Y.S.2d 995, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 524 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Averments of city electrician in Article 78 proceeding stated viable claim that city and its pubic works commissioner acted illegally, in violation of statutory proscriptions (CLS Civ S § 107(1) and CLS Labor § 201-d(2)(a)) against making employment decisions on basis of employee's political activities where he alleged that, shortly after he was directed to refrain from wearing campaign sticker supporting commissioner's political opponent, and while city and commissioner knew that he continued to express his opposing political views on his own time, his job duties were adjusted—including reduction in responsibility—in way that was calculated to, and did, lead to his being denied promotion and concomitant salary increase. Richardson v City of Saratoga Springs, 246 A.D.2d 900, 667 N.Y.S.2d 995, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 524 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

There was no basis to set aside jury verdict dismissing plaintiff's claim that county failed to appoint her to permanent security guard position because of her physical disability although her eligibility for position was certified under CLS Civ S § 55-a, where she failed civil service exam administered for that position, and she failed to establish that commissioner had designated prescribed number of positions with duties that could be performed by certified physically disabled individuals or that open position existed in this category to which she could be appointed. Coluccio v County of Albany, 258 A.D.2d 756, 685 N.Y.S.2d 823, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1165 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Evidence did not support human rights commissioner's determination that employer condoned racial discrimination allegedly committed against complainant by her supervisor where (1) employer's equal employment opportunity (EEO) officer conducted prompt investigation, concluded that problem was more likely result of personality conflict than racial animus, and mediated settlement agreement which was approved by employer's executive board, and (2) while employer was unable to fund salary increase for complainant due to its limited resources, memorandum as to proper behavior was placed in parties' personnel files and EEO officer continued monitoring situation. Community Action Org. of Erie County v Mercado, 261 A.D.2d 935, 689 N.Y.S.2d 807, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5032 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

African-American woman did not prove that Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority unlawfully discriminated against her in denying her application for employment as Secretary to Transportation Superintendents where person who made hiring decision for that position also was African-American, and person hired had almost 20 years more experience than complainant and greater knowledge of computers. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority unlawfully discriminated against African-American woman in denying her application for employment as Secretary to General Manager where she raised inference of discrimination by proving that she was better qualified candidate than person hired and that persons responsible for hiring were informed of race of applicants before hiring decision was made, and authority did not rebut presumption of discrimination by proving, through admissible evidence, legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for its decision. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

College history professor did not prove retaliatory discharge, even though her comments regarding "glass ceiling" for tenured female professors in history department could be protected activity under CLS Exec § 296(1)(a) and (e), where (1) there was no showing that comment caused discharge from her employment, which terminated at end of academic year by express terms of one-year, nonrenewable appointment, (2) she rejected offer of part-time adjunct position for ensuing academic year, and (3) even if she proved prima facie case of retaliatory discharge, college articulated legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons for nonrenewal of her contract, and she did not show that those reasons were pretexts for discrimination. Grafe v Iona College, 281 A.D.2d 347, 722 N.Y.S.2d 162, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3138 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

State Division of Human Rights' finding of sex discrimination in termination of female employee was not supported by substantial evidence where (1) employee's claim of reduced work hours was inconsistent with her claim that she was given more work than her coworkers were, (2) although she did not have locker for changing clothes, she was provided small room to change in, because of unavailability of separate lockers for female employees, (3) every fact finder who had heard employee's testimony had found it incredible, (4) court-appointed psychiatrist who examined employee described her belief of sexual harassment in terms of paranoid personality disorder, delusional psychosis, and distorted view of reality, and (5) employee's prior complaints against 2 former employers were never substantiated, one of them prompting federal judge to condemn her strongly. Jamco Bldg. Maint. Corp. v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 281 A.D.2d 364, 724 N.Y.S.2d 20, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3139 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 613, 749 N.Y.S.2d 475, 779 N.E.2d 186, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 2699 (N.Y. 2002).

Assuming that plaintiff was otherwise qualified for her job as special education teacher, her allegation that defendant board of education refused to accommodate her requests for schedule modification or transfer did not show adverse employment action as required by discrimination statutes, but only permissible refusal to change terms and conditions of her employment. Sirota v N.Y. City Bd. of Educ., 283 A.D.2d 369, 725 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6583 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Finding that an employee suffered employment discrimination based on disability was proper because the employee testified that the restaurant manager told him he was fired from his part-time dishwashing job because of scarring on his head caused by a psoriasis and cellulitis condition, which presented a prima facie case of discrimination, and the employer's three explanations for the employee's termination were pretextual; the award of damages for lost pay and reimbursement for counseling services in the amount of $4,776, and compensatory damages for pain and suffering in the amount of $10,000, were proper. Matter of Tosha Rests., LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 79 A.D.3d 1337, 911 N.Y.S.2d 734, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9173 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Trial court properly dismissed an employee's application to review a determination finding no probable cause to believe that a school district had engaged in unlawful discriminatory practices relating to employment because, inter alia, the employee was given the opportunity to respond to all of the district's submissions, the employee's requests for medical leave did not indicate the cause(s) of her requests or link them to her job assignment, the district sought to accommodate her, and the record did not show that the employee's treatment was based on her status as a domestic violence victim. Matter of Curtis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 124 A.D.3d 1117, 3 N.Y.S.3d 138, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 599 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015).

Trial court erred in dismissing an employee's application to review a determination by the State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) finding no probable cause to believe that her prior employer, current employer, and its parent corporation engaged in unlawfully discriminatory employment practices because the employee was deprived of a full and fair opportunity to present evidence on her behalf and to rebut the evidence presented by the employer inasmuch as SDHR refused to consider her response to the notes of a one-party conference and never advised her that the response had to be submitted by a specific time, but instead specified a calendar day that included "the time from midnight to midnight."Matter of Hong Wang v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8519 (November 21, 2019).

Employee established prima facie case of disability discrimination where he admittedly suffered from recognized mental disability of alcoholism, his ingestion of alcohol was compulsive and beyond his control, it impaired normal function, and he was terminated from his position (in which he enjoyed unblemished record of promotions) after he revealed his disability to his supervisor and that he was seeking treatment through Alcoholics Anonymous. Grullon v South Bronx Overall Economic Dev. Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 645, 712 N.Y.S.2d 911, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

Nothing in case law or statutory framework of state and New York City Human Rights Law requires plaintiff to introduce medical evidence to prove his disability of alcoholism. Grullon v South Bronx Overall Economic Dev. Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 645, 712 N.Y.S.2d 911, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

Employee was not required to prove, in establishing prima facie case of disability discrimination, that his alcoholism adversely manifested itself in some significant way in his work, such that his performance at work would be "impaired" thereby. Grullon v South Bronx Overall Economic Dev. Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 645, 712 N.Y.S.2d 911, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

Jury was free to consider employer's "dishonesty about" reason for employee's discharge for alcoholism as affirmative evidence of guilt of disability discrimination where employer's witnesses presented weak and inconsistent testimony regarding claimed budget cuts and "budget reallocation," and evidence showed that discharge occurred shortly after employee revealed his disability to his supervisor, who was involved in decision to discharge him. Grullon v South Bronx Overall Economic Dev. Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 645, 712 N.Y.S.2d 911, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

Hospital employee failed to establish adverse retaliatory action predicated on hospital personnel department's delay in providing her with medical leave forms where there was no showing that she was harmed beyond inconvenience or that she was deprived of pay for period during which she was on leave, and she failed to show that delay in providing forms was traceable to her participation in protected activity. Dortz v City of New York, 904 F. Supp. 127, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14438 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

Bus driver, who was of Puerto Rican background, failed to establish that he was fired due to national origin or ethnic discrimination in violation of Human Rights Law, where employer asserted that driver was fired because he tested positive for cocaine, drug test was administered in nondiscriminatory fashion to all drivers, and supervisor made no remarks at termination meeting suggesting that invidious discrimination was reason for discharge. Santiago v Greyhound Lines, Inc., 956 F. Supp. 144, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1048 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

Fact that teacher had disclosed to students questions to be used on national advanced placement examination prior to examination constituted legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for her constructive discharge. Richardson v Newburgh Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 984 F. Supp. 735, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18037 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

19. Evidence of housing discrimination

On the basis that Executive Law § 298 is unambiguous and requires the Appellate Division to examine and test the merits in any proceeding properly before it, the Appellate Division, pursuant to Executive Law § 298, properly reversed the finding of the State Division of Human Rights that a discriminatory practice had occurred where it was shown that a seller of realty refused to attend the closing, and that the prospective purchaser was a Negro, but not that the refusal of seller was occasioned by the race of the buyer. State Div. of Human Rights v Bystricky, 30 N.Y.2d 322, 333 N.Y.S.2d 398, 284 N.E.2d 560, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1630 (N.Y. 1972).

Where question of housing discrimination on basis of race revolved on credibility of witnesses, court lacked authority to vacate determination of State Division of Human Rights. Pappas v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 37 N.Y.2d 844, 378 N.Y.S.2d 36, 340 N.E.2d 470, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2228 (N.Y. 1975).

Evidence was sufficient to establish that corporate vendor of home discriminated against would-be purchaser on basis of race and color. Pappas v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 37 N.Y.2d 844, 378 N.Y.S.2d 36, 340 N.E.2d 470, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2228 (N.Y. 1975).

Where there was no evidence to support the Commissioner's finding that as result of a landlord's refusal to rent an apartment to complainant, complainant became aggrieved, and suffered humiliation and mental anguish, State Division of Human Rights' petition for an enforcement order was dismissed. State Div. of Human Rights v McGinnis, 37 A.D.2d 759, 322 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3600 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1971).

Where the complaint involved alleged discriminatory practices in connection with housing accommodations in Yonkers, Westchester County, and the respondents conducted their business from Nassau County, the proceeding was transferred to the Appellate Division, Second Department, where the action should have been instituted. Lemelle v State Div. of Human Rights, 37 A.D.2d 764, 324 N.Y.S.2d 470, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3442 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1971).

The evidence was insufficient to support a finding that complainant was discriminated against on her application for an apartment because of her color where it appeared that she did not qualify for an apartment under the standards utilized by respondents for all applicants, that her income was insufficient to meet the rule of thumb applied by respondent for financial ability, that she lied to the credit checker about her children's schooling, that the one-bedroom apartment for which she applied was insufficient to accommodate her 3 children, and that the credit check indicated she had experienced prior difficulties in meeting her obligations. State Div. of Human Rights v Fairway Apartments Corp., 39 A.D.2d 761, 332 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4543 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972), aff'd, 33 N.Y.2d 754, 350 N.Y.S.2d 131, 304 N.E.2d 775, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 976 (N.Y. 1973).

Record supported determination by Commissioner of Human Rights that petitioner violated Human Rights Law, CLS Exec Art 15, by refusing to rent apartment to caucasian respondent because her 2 sons were black, where petitioner, earlier receptive to renting apartment, arranged second meeting so that she could meet children, and expressed reluctance to rent only after such meeting. Moore v State Div. of Human Rights, 154 A.D.2d 823, 546 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12709 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Determination by Division of Human Rights that landlord had discriminated against complainant by refusing to rent apartment to her by reason of her race was supported by evidence that (1) when complainant contacted landlord about apartment, she told him that she was black and he avoided talking with her, and subsequently told her that apartment was not available, (2) when complainant's sister called by telephone about apartment, she was told it was available but when she inquired in person she was told that it was not available, and (3) when complainant's sister asked co-worker to inquire about apartment, she was told it was available. Szpilzinger v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 160 A.D.2d 196, 554 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3680 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 707, 560 N.Y.S.2d 989, 561 N.E.2d 889, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3041 (N.Y. 1990).

Petitioner committed unlawful discriminatory practice by refusing to sell piece of real property to complainant because of her race; realtor who represented complainant, and who was also black, was also victim of petitioner's discrimination insofar as petitioner refused to deal with realtor because of complainant's race. Feggoudakis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 230 A.D.2d 739, 646 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Evidence that a construction company and its president refused to sell a house to a Negro and offered no reasonable explanation for such refusal, was sufficient to sustain findings of commission that respondents were guilty of discriminatory practices, since the statute made commission's findings conclusive if supported by sufficient evidence on the record considered as a whole. Marrano Constr. Co. v State Com. for Human Rights, 45 Misc. 2d 1081, 259 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2061 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Evidence by a complainant attempting to prove racial discrimination as the sole cause of her failure to secure an apartment in the form of elicited testimony designed to show the comparison between the treatment accorded to her and to a white "checker" posing as a prospective tenant was sufficient to support findings of the Commission of illegal discrimination, and those findings supported by sufficient evidence were conclusive. Lawrence Gardens, Inc. v State Com. for Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 20, 277 N.Y.S.2d 857, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1238 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Findings of discrimination by the Commission were supported by sufficient evidence in proceeding wherein complainant charged that he had attempted to purchase a home which had been advertised for sale by a real estate firm but that his efforts were frustrated because of his color by various dilatory and discouraging tactics engaged in by salesmen employed by the real estate firm, reference being made to appointments which were not kept and broken promises as well as other acts indicating a lack of co-operation and an overall passive attitude inconsistent with the eagerness to consummate a transaction normally exhibited by a salesman. State Com. for Human Rights v Suburban Associates, Inc., 55 Misc. 2d 920, 286 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), modified, 34 A.D.2d 662, 310 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

State Division of Human Rights' determination that a landlord discriminated against prospective tenants in the leasing of housing was supported by sufficient evidence when it was shown that the landlord had agreed to rent an apartment in his house to one of the tenants, who was white, and the tenant's wife, until he learned the tenant's wife was black. Matteo v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 306 A.D.2d 484, 761 N.Y.S.2d 517, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7418 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

20. Evidence of racial discrimination

Sheriff's department was not insulated from liability for acts of racial and sex discrimination against white female deputy, even though sheriff had not necessarily encouraged or condoned statements by his employees which referred to deputy as being "all done" and urged her to resign before she was fired so as not to bring shame on her family by disclosure of her alleged relationship with black male coemployee, where it was sheriff, as employer, who personally discharged deputy, participated in disparate treatment of deputy and coemployee, and offered justifications for deputy's terminations which were rejected as pretextual by Human Rights Commissioner. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cottongim v County of Onondaga Sheriff's Dep't, 71 N.Y.2d 623, 528 N.Y.S.2d 802, 524 N.E.2d 123, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 603 (N.Y. 1988).

Human Rights Commissioner properly concluded, in case of sex and racial discrimination, that sheriff did not show sufficient neutral justification for terminating white female deputy where (1) sheriff offered shifting responses when his initial charge (that deputy abused sick time) proved baseless, (2) second charge (that deputy failed to report coemployee's rule violation) was never shown to be sheriff department rule, and (3) third charge (that deputy allowed black male coemployee to enter her home and rest in her bedroom on his complaint of illness) resulted in no discipline of coemployee and could be seen as "blatantly improper" assertion that white woman's relationship with black man tended to bring discredit on her employer. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cottongim v County of Onondaga Sheriff's Dep't, 71 N.Y.2d 623, 528 N.Y.S.2d 802, 524 N.E.2d 123, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 603 (N.Y. 1988).

White, female deputy sheriff made out prima facie case of sex and racial discrimination by showing that she was disciplined differently from her black male coemployee, even though coemployee was protected by Civil Service Law and she, as at-will employee, was not, where she and coemployee performed same duties, they were both involved in same incident that gave rise to both being disciplined, and coemployee was never charged with offenses (acts tending to discredit sheriff's department, and failure to report rules violation) which department maintained were cause of employee's discharge. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cottongim v County of Onondaga Sheriff's Dep't, 71 N.Y.2d 623, 528 N.Y.S.2d 802, 524 N.E.2d 123, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 603 (N.Y. 1988).

The findings of the State Division of Human Rights directing an employer to pay complainant damages for lost wages was not supported by sufficient evidence on the record considered as a whole nor did the fact that the store manager advanced a false reason for discharging the complainant constitute sufficient evidence of discrimination to justify such drastic sanctions and there was no other evidence of racial or color discrimination on which a reasonable conclusion could be based. Nescott of East Islip, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 573, 315 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3998 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 27 N.Y.2d 787, 315 N.Y.S.2d 851, 264 N.E.2d 345, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1060 (N.Y. 1970).

Where it appeared that company had no position of a supervisory nature available at time it interviewed individual and that no supervisory personnel was hired after that interview, evidence failed to establish discrimination in hiring because of race, color or national origin. State Div. of Human Rights v Winston A. Burnett Constr. Co., 41 A.D.2d 1022, 343 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4383 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Where there was no showing on papers submitted that change in work assignment from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. shift to 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. shift, which was necessitated by discontinuance of hot breakfast program and which petitioner alleged interfered with his attendance of evening classes, was attributable to discrimination because of race or color, determination in favor of employer was proper. Jowers v State Executive Dep't, 42 A.D.2d 523, 344 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3813 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 601, 354 N.Y.S.2d 952, 310 N.E.2d 547, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1829 (N.Y. 1974).

Where same test on operation of automatic turret lathe was given to two white men, and black man, and position of automatic turret lathe operator was given to only man who had automatic turret lathe experience and who was also only man to answer test questions correctly, fact that man given position was white did not evidence discrimination by employer toward black applicant. Sperry Rand Corp. v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 46 A.D.2d 678, 360 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3915 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

Evidence that complainant, who had been laid off, lacked qualifications needed for newly created job requiring rapidity and extreme accuracy in typing and that complainant had refused to take qualifying typing test when offered opportunity to do so established that employer's failure to offer newly created job to complainant did not deny complainant equal terms, conditions and privileges of employment because of race and color. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Williams v Rome Cable Div. of Cyprus Mines Corp., 46 A.D.2d 1003, 362 N.Y.S.2d 100, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3388 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Use of ethnic slurs and insults by a coworker or superior without knowledge or acquiescence of employer is not an unlawful discriminatory practice reached by provision of Human Rights Law prohibiting discrimination in compensation, terms, conditions or privileges of employment because of race, creed, color or national origin. State Div. of Human Rights v Henderson, 49 A.D.2d 1026, 375 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11383 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Fact that acts of discrimination directed at black, female personnel occurred during course of complainant's employment did not support finding that those acts culminated in, or contributed to, the eventual dismissal of complainant, a black woman. Semimetals, Inc. v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 50 A.D.2d 925, 377 N.Y.S.2d 615, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11853 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 883, 403 N.Y.S.2d 467, 374 N.E.2d 365, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1806 (N.Y. 1978).

A determination of discrimination in employment and a remedial provision ordering reinstatement would be confirmed where there was substantial evidence that sustained the finding of racial discrimination and petitioner would be reinstated to her former probationary teaching position and afforded a fair and nondiscriminatory evaluation for tenure. Guilderland Cent. School Dist. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 93 A.D.2d 908, 461 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17798 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

Racial discrimination is shown where, in reduction in force, white employee was permitted to bump black employee even though white employee lacked requisite qualifications for job and acquired such qualifications only after grant of leave of absence without pay while allowing seniority to accrue during leave. Texaco, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 112 A.D.2d 361, 491 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56495 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Determination that petitioner engaged in unlawful discriminatory practice in conditions of complainant's employment was supported by substantial evidence where it was established that manager of store at which complainant worked frequently made derogatory comments about complainant's race, including references that complainant was his "little nigger slave," in presence of customers and complainant's co-workers; compensatory award of $5,000 for mental anguish was not excessive. Broad Elm Auto Centers, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 159 A.D.2d 978, 552 N.Y.S.2d 763, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3281 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990).

Evidence supported determination finding correctional facility guilty of unlawful discriminatory practice based on race where complainant and other black correction officers testified as to "hostile situation" at facility, black officers were placed in different "class" from white employees, they were denied more desirable assignments and shifts, they had their orders and directions disregarded by subordinates or countermanded by their superior officers, and they were disciplined more frequently and more harshly than white employees; furthermore, of 16 cases of alleged inmate abuse occurring at facility, complainant was sole correction officer who was dis-charged. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 215 A.D.2d 908, 626 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Evidence supported African-American correctional officer's claim of racial discrimination practiced by his supervisor, and officer's contention that Department of Correctional Services was aware of problem but failed to take appropriate remedial action, where supervisor had negative attitude toward minorities, he consistently exhibited such attitude to his subordinates in work place, he repeatedly verbally harassed and humiliated officer in front of other officers, civilian bus drivers and prisoners, he pressured him to violate regulations, and he ordered officer to sit with prisoners during transportation assignments for periods of 12 to 15 hours in defiance of regulations requiring officer rotation every 30 minutes. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 856, 638 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Court would annul determination finding that petitioner, not-for-profit corporation which renovated abandoned buildings, discriminated against Hispanic complainant on basis of national origin where petitioner provided low-income housing for homeless and training to its trainees, majority of whom were Hispanic and black, and overwhelming evidence was that petitioner was not anti-Hispanic and that true reasons for complainant's dismissal was that he was employee malcontent who saw himself as supervisor and could not accept subordinate role. Youth Action Homes v State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Palombo, 231 A.D.2d 7, 659 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6945 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

There was no merit in petitioner's complaint of race discrimination in employment and retaliation where substantial evidence supported findings that candidates who received 2 higher level positions sought by petitioner were more qualified than petitioner, who lacked necessary qualifications, undercut his claim that his poor performance evaluations were part of continuing pretext disguising retaliatory motive linked to his having expressed to superiors his belief that decisions not to promote him were based on race, and that such motive ultimately led to his termination, and there was no other basis to disturb findings crediting performance evaluations and other evidence offered by employer of legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons for termination. Davis v Mercado, 240 A.D.2d 163, 658 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5836 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Caucasian waitresses established prima facie case of restaurant's discrimination by showing that Asian waitresses were given preference with respect to hours and table assignments. Young Fu Hsu v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 913, 661 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Court erred in annulling Division of Human Rights' finding of no probable cause and remanding race discrimination case for further investigation based on division's purportedly one-sided and abbreviated investigation where (1) fact-finding conference had lasted several hours, (2) employer's uncontroverted witnesses and documentary evidence showed that petitioner's work performance was subject of numerous complaints, and that he was discharged because he failed to improve despite numerous warnings and counseling sessions, (3) petitioner was replaced by another black employee, and (4) employer had significant percentage of black employees and discharged various employees of different races in same year as it discharged petitioner. McFarland v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 108, 671 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4041 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

In action alleging that plaintiff's employer impermissibly discriminated against him when it demoted him for subjecting African American coworker to ridicule, jury could reasonably infer that plaintiff was demoted only because he was white and incident was thought to be racially motivated where (1) supervisor testified that poor treatment of minority employees in facility where plaintiff worked made it difficult to accomplish employer's goal of increasing number of minority employees and expressed concern that tolerating his "prank" would discourage minorities from accepting positions in that facility, and (2) expert in field of labor-management relations and employment discrimination testified that, contrary to supervisor's belief, prank in question (posting picture of bird-like stuffed animal with long multicolored beak and black body seated at African American coworker's desk) belied intimation of racial animus. Michaelis v State, 258 A.D.2d 693, 685 N.Y.S.2d 325, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 806, 689 N.Y.S.2d 708, 711 N.E.2d 984, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1202 (N.Y. 1999).

Court would annul determination by administrative law judge (ALJ) finding that railroad company's termination of respondent for violent behavior against fellow worker was pretextual, wherein ALJ asserted that she was not bound by prior determination that assault took place, where prior determination to dismiss respondent was upheld on appeal by Special Board of Adjustment, arbitration panel authorized by Railway Labor Act (45 USCS § 153), respondent conceded that Board had administrative status, and Board conclusively determined that respondent violently assaulted and then threatened fellow worker. Metro-North Commuter R.R. Co. v New York State Exec. Dep't Div. of Human Rights, 271 A.D.2d 256, 707 N.Y.S.2d 50, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4101 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

African-American woman did not prove that Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority unlawfully discriminated against her in denying her application for employment as Secretary to Transportation Superintendents where person who made hiring decision for that position also was African-American, and person hired had almost 20 years more experience than complainant and greater knowledge of computers. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority unlawfully discriminated against African-American woman in denying her application for employment as Secretary to General Manager where she raised inference of discrimination by proving that she was better qualified candidate than person hired and that persons responsible for hiring were informed of race of applicants before hiring decision was made, and authority did not rebut presumption of discrimination by proving, through admissible evidence, legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for its decision. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Although substantial evidence supported the determination that an employee was subjected to a hostile work environment and that the employer condoned the discriminatory acts of its employees, the employer took some measures to end the racial discrimination of which it was aware, which, while ineffective, did not rise to the level of deliberately and intentionally creating intolerable working conditions, and, moreover, the working conditions were not so intolerable, difficult, or unpleasant that a reasonable person would have felt compelled to resign; the employee testified that the frequency with which other workers made racial comments had decreased before he left, and, under the circumstances, the mere service of an answer to an administrative complaint was insufficient to support a constructive discharge claim. Therefore, the award for lost wages was annulled. Matter of Gold Coast Rest. Corp. v Gibson, 67 A.D.3d 798, 888 N.Y.S.2d 186, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8082 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights properly determined that an employer discriminated against an employee on the basis of his race and color by subjecting him to a hostile work environment where, inter alia, the owners' failure to intervene constituted condonation of the racial discrimination inasmuch as it rose to the level of a knowing, after-the-fact forgiveness or acceptance of the offense. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Besdad, Inc., 143 A.D.3d 987, 39 N.Y.S.3d 251, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6913 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

Fact that respondent airline's representative utilized subjective standards in recommending rejection of petitioner's application for employment, and that racial factors might have played a part in his arriving at that judgment, does not constitute a basis for overturning the commission's finding where a review of the entire record discloses other, non-racially motivated basis which, it is equally possible, might have led to the same conclusion. Grant v State Com. for Human Rights, 54 Misc. 2d 775, 283 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1241 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

21. Evidence of religious discrimination

The Division of Human Rights properly dismissed a complaint of an unlawful discriminatory practice based on creed, founded on petitioner's discharge from his position as a shochet, or ritual slaughterer of chickens, with a kosher poultry processor and distributor, where the evidence showed that, not only had petitioner not been discriminated against on account of his Orthodox Judaism, but he would have never been employed as shochet had he not been an Orthodox Jew, that petitioner was disqualified by an Orthodox Jewish organization for working as a shochet due to the fact that he had neglected to follow certain significant parts of its prescribed methodology, and that, once petitioner lost the organization's approval, his employer was forced to discharge him in order to stay in business as a producer of kosher foods. Balban v State Div. of Human Rights, 104 A.D.2d 709, 480 N.Y.S.2d 777, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20125 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Determination of New York State Division of Human Rights that petitioner was not denied promotion because of her religion or creed was supported by substantial evidence; additionally, petitioner was given full and fair opportunity to present evidence on her behalf and to rebut evidence presented by respondent employer, but she failed to produce any supportive evidence; furthermore, it is within discretion of Division of Human Rights to decide method or methods to be employed in investigating complaints of discrimination. Kushnir v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 114 A.D.2d 898, 495 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53929 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

It was error for Division of Human Rights to rule that city transit authority unlawfully discriminated against employee (who was Seventh-Day Adventist) by failing to accommodate her observance of Sabbath from sundown on Friday to sundown on Saturday, where division failed to take account of facts that transit authority operated buses on 7-day 24-hour basis, that weekend service was staffed almost entirely by junior employees, and that Transit Workers Union objected to employee's request for special consideration on religious grounds because it would conflict with earned rights of employees more senior to her; religious liberty is damaged when state promotes welfare of one religious group over another. New York City Transit Auth. v Executive Dep't, Div. of Human Rights, 211 A.D.2d 220, 627 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5887 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), aff'd, modified, 89 N.Y.2d 79, 651 N.Y.S.2d 375, 674 N.E.2d 305, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3162 (N.Y. 1996).

State human rights commissioner's dismissal of complaint alleging that petitioner had been forced to resign from his employment because of his religious beliefs would be annulled, and case would be remitted for new decision with findings of fact, where (1) commissioner's decision was inconsistent in concluding both that petitioner failed to prove prima facie case of discrimination and that employer "has presented sufficient evidence to rebut the presumption of discrimination," which presumption arises only if employee proves prima facie case, (2) in deciding whether petitioner proved prima facie case, commissioner improperly considered employer's reasons for its actions, and (3) commissioner did not decide whether those reasons were pretext for discrimination. Draman v Lamar Advertising of Penn, Inc., 273 A.D.2d 808, 709 N.Y.S.2d 306, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6841 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Commissioner of the New York State Division of Human Rights, properly found that a country club's membership admissions policy discriminated against applicants on the basis of creed, in violation of N.Y. Executive Law § 296(2)(a), as the club was properly determined to be a place of public accommodation, and did not fall within the distinctly private exception under N.Y. Executive Law § 292(9) since it had over 100 members and provided regular meals and services to non-members, thus, the club's religious quota system to admit new members was violative of N.Y. Executive Law § 296(2)(a). Further, a current member of the club had standing to file the discrimination complaint as his hearing testimony demonstrated that he was deprived of the associational benefits of interacting with at least two potential members who were placed on a waiting list because there were no available openings for members of their religion. Matter of Mill Riv. Club, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 59 A.D.3d 549, 873 N.Y.S.2d 167, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1108 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 12 N.Y.3d 871, 882 N.Y.S.2d 679, 910 N.E.2d 428, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1779 (N.Y. 2009).

Inclusion in two places in a booklet sent to persons inquiring for reservations at a resort of the words "serving Christian clientele" since 1911 could not, as matter of law, be considered a violation of this section relating to discriminatory practices. Trowbridge v Katzen, 23 Misc. 2d 111, 203 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2875 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), modified, 14 A.D.2d 608, 218 N.Y.S.2d 808, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9384 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

22. Evidence of sex discrimination

Evidence, filed by policewoman with State Division of Human Rights alleging sex discrimination in that she was not promoted to vacant position of police sergeant, was sufficient to support finding that the policewoman who ranked third on eligibility list following two male police officers was the subject of sex discrimination. Evidence that when policewoman appeared before review board for consideration of promotion to police sergeant no questions were asked about her police work as such but that inquiries were made as to how her husband and son felt about her being a policewoman and as to whether she was afraid, that one of the members of the board stated that it was too bad that there were not any promotions within the youth aid bureau where policewoman was working, and that one member of the review board later told a representative of the Division of Human Rights that he did not feel that policewoman should be a police sergeant because she was a female sustained finding of sex discrimination. Schenectady v State Div. of Human Rights, 37 N.Y.2d 421, 373 N.Y.S.2d 59, 335 N.E.2d 290, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. 1975).

Sheriff's department was not insulated from liability for acts of racial and sex discrimination against white female deputy, even though sheriff had not necessarily encouraged or condoned statements by his employees which referred to deputy as being "all done" and urged her to resign before she was fired so as not to bring shame on her family by disclosure of her alleged relationship with black male coemployee, where it was sheriff, as employer, who personally discharged deputy, participated in disparate treatment of deputy and coemployee, and offered justifications for deputy's terminations which were rejected as pretextual by Human Rights Commissioner. Human Rights Commissioner properly concluded, in case of sex and racial discrimination, that sheriff did not show sufficient neutral justification for terminating white female deputy where (1) sheriff offered shifting responses when his initial charge (that deputy abused sick time) proved baseless, (2) second charge (that deputy failed to report coemployee's rule violation) was never shown to be sheriff department rule, and (3) third charge (that deputy allowed black male coemployee to enter her home and rest in her bedroom on his complaint of illness) resulted in no discipline of coemployee and could be seen as "blatantly improper" assertion that white woman's relationship with black man tended to bring discredit on her employer. White, female deputy sheriff made out prima facie case of sex and racial discrimination by showing that she was disciplined differently from her black male coemployee, even though coemployee was protected by Civil Service Law and she, as at-will employee, was not, where she and coemployee performed same duties, they were both involved in same incident that gave rise to both being disciplined, and coemployee was never charged with offenses (acts tending to discredit sheriff's department, and failure to report rules violation) which department maintained were cause of employee's discharge. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Cottongim v County of Onondaga Sheriff's Dep't, 71 N.Y.2d 623, 528 N.Y.S.2d 802, 524 N.E.2d 123, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 603 (N.Y. 1988).

Restaurant's belief that replacement of waiters with waitresses dressed in alluring costumes would enhance sales volume did not establish a bona fide occupational qualification for purposes of exempting discharge of waiters from operation of sex discrimination laws. Evidence which tended to demonstrate that restaurant sales volume had increased slightly following replacement of male waiters with waitresses dressed in alluring costumes was insufficient to establish a bona fide occupational qualification exception which would protect restaurant's action from operation of sex discrimination law where there was no evidence establishing that increased sales were directly attributable to replacement of waiters. Guardian Capital Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 46 A.D.2d 832, 360 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3585 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974), app. dismissed, 36 N.Y.2d 806, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2680 (N.Y. 1975), app. denied, 37 N.Y.2d 705, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2770 (N.Y. 1975).

On application to reverse order of Commissioner of Division of Human Rights that assistant professor was not denied tenure because of her sex, appellate division's scope of review was limited to determination of whether there was sufficient evidence in the record to support the order. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Mortenson v Syracuse Univ., 46 A.D.2d 1002, 362 N.Y.S.2d 104, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3386 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974), app. denied, 36 N.Y.2d 643, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2497 (N.Y. 1975).

Where court in prior proceeding wherein waiter charged that restaurant which replaced staff of waiters with waitresses was guilty of sex discrimination held that restaurant failed to produce sufficient evidence to establish bona fide occupational qualification exception protecting restaurant's action from operation of sex discrimination law and where restaurant did not adduce any significantly different financial proof at hearing on instant sex discrimination complaint filed by another waiter who was discharged under same circumstances, prior decision controlled decision in instant proceeding on issue whether evidence was sufficient to establish bona fide occupational qualification exception. Guardian Capital Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 753, 368 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9834 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 37 N.Y.2d 712, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2959 (N.Y. 1975).

Evidence that employer told female employee that she was being replaced because employer needed a man in the job was sufficient to support finding that employer unlawfully discriminated against employee. 121-129 Broadway Realty, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 975, 369 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10269 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Although there was arguably substantial evidence in the record to establish that employer had discriminated against complainant by denying her same promotional opportunities as were available to males, evidence was insufficient to sustain Commissioner of State Division of Human Rights' finding that complainant received lesser pay for same or similar work performed by male employees in her department, even accepting as true complainant's contention that employer maintained sex-linked job classifications. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Green v Eastman Kodak Co., Kodak Apparatus Div., 55 A.D.2d 842, 390 N.Y.S.2d 332, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15661 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review a determination affirming the dismissal by the State Division of Human Rights of a typist's claim of age and sex discrimination, the determination would be confirmed where the record indicated that each time the position sought by the typist was filled the appointment was made from a competitive civil service list or a preferred list, and the typist was either not on the list or so far down that she was not reachable for employment; additionally, the typist apparently refused a similar position in a different locale and failed to receive certain temporary appointments from her employer only because those persons who received the appointments had more seniority or experience. Engel v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 78 A.D.2d 947, 433 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13720 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1980).

The dismissal for lack of probable cause, of a complaint filed by a female employee who was terminated while three males in her department were retained was not arbitrary, capricious, or characterized by an abuse of discretion where the documentary evidence established that the work experience and the backgrounds of the male employees were more varied and their performance ratings higher than the complaining employee's, and there was substantial evidence to support the finding of no probable cause; the Human Rights Appeal Board could not substitute its factual judgment for that of the Division of Human Rights on the threshold issue of probable cause. GAF Corp. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 83 A.D.2d 974, 442 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15436 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

Evidence of sex discrimination is sufficient where fellow employees either admitted or did not deny participating in acts of discrimination and where employer was aware of discrimination by its employees and condoned such by taking no ameliorative action. New York State Dep't of Correctional Services v McCall, 109 A.D.2d 953, 486 N.Y.S.2d 443, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Employment of 25-year-old male teacher with provisional certificate and minimal teaching experience over 42-year-old female teacher with teaching experience and experience as consultant for various educational institutions and with permanent certification sets forth prima facie case of discrimination; in view of lack of residency requirement for position or any policy against teachers engaging in outside work, reasons offered for rejecting female teacher, such as her indication that she would continue consulting business and her lack of residence in district, are not sufficient. Board of Education v State Div. of Human Rights, 109 A.D.2d 988, 486 N.Y.S.2d 469, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47486 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Evidence of sex discrimination in failure to hire plaintiff female for position of correction counselor existed where person who interviewed her for position and who had responsibility for hiring described job negatively and told her it was too dangerous for women, and whose testimony was vague as to why plaintiff could not do job, and indicated his belief that women were more easily manipulated then men. New York State Dep't of Correctional Services v McCall, 111 A.D.2d 571, 489 N.Y.S.2d 633, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51611 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Sufficient evidence supported determination that teacher and rehabilitation counselor was victim of sex discrimination in course of her employment where her testimony showed that her supervisor touched and rubbed her back, pulled on strap of her undergarment and made inappropriate comments and suggestions concerning her appearance and attitude toward sex, and further detailed how such actions affected her. In proceeding pursuant to CLS Exec § 298 to review determination that petitioner was guilty of unlawful discriminatory practice based on sex, court would affirm award of compensatory damages, notwithstanding intention that petitioner could not be held liable in absence of knowledge or approval of discriminatory acts, where (1) record revealed that petitioner's executive director made some inquiries regarding charge of discrimination, but termed supervisor's actions as "sophomoric" and merely directed him not to do them if he had done them, and (2) there was no evidence that petitioner adopted antidiscrimination policy, apologized to respondent or took other action against supervisor, thereby indicating that it condoned discriminatory acts. Capabilities, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 148 A.D.2d 861, 539 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 708, 555 N.Y.S.2d 691, 554 N.E.2d 1279, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1990).

Court would annul determination finding that petitioner had been discriminated against based on gender, in that employer had not enforced its time and attendance policy as stringently with similar female employees as with petitioner, or that employer had ever put similar female employees on disciplinary probation for having violated its time and attendance policy as it did with petitioner, where (1) petitioner's treatment was in accordance with employer's disciplinary policy, under which time and attendance disciplinary infractions were typically negotiated with employee, (2) statistical analysis of average measure of time and attendance violations (TAV), constructed by Commissioner of Division of Human Rights and used as basis for his determination of discrimination, used 4 other similar female employees as sample, (3) TAV analysis had no relationship to manner in which employer disciplined employees for time and attendance abuse, (4) TAV analysis failed to account for differences in number of months over which each employee accumulated their time and attendance violations, and contained errors in computation, (5) TAV analysis did not reflect severity of violations during certain periods, or reveal improvements in time and attendance made by employees during other time periods, (6) petitioner was not treated differently as to his first 3 notices of discipline from 3 of similar female employees sampled, and (7) there was no gender discrimination in settlement voluntarily entered into by petitioner as opposed to settlement made by fourth female. New York State Office of Mental Health v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 210 A.D.2d 686, 619 N.Y.S.2d 874, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12467 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 705, 632 N.Y.S.2d 498, 656 N.E.2d 597, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3406 (N.Y. 1995), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 705, 632 N.Y.S.2d 498, 656 N.E.2d 597 (N.Y. 1995).

Court would annul determination that petitioner was subjected to quid pro quo sexual harassment where petitioner solely offered her own testimony, she consistently testified that employer never made any sexual advances toward her, that frequency or intensity of alleged contacts never changed, that those interactions predominantly occurred in open view, and that, despite several after-hours meetings alone with employer, he never used those opportunities to engage in any inappropriate contact; moreover, petitioner's own testimony evinced that she never communicated, by words or behavior, that contacts were uninvited, offensive, or unwarranted. Bartle v Mercado, 235 A.D.2d 651, 652 N.Y.S.2d 139, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 95 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 815, 659 N.Y.S.2d 855, 681 N.E.2d 1302, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1219 (N.Y. 1997), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 815, 659 N.Y.S.2d 855, 681 N.E.2d 1302 (N.Y. 1997).

Sex discrimination in selection of female over male applicant for position of Principal Clerk in Head's Clerk's office at women's correctional facility was not proved where (1) facility's Head Clerk and Deputy Superintendent, both of whom had interviewed applicants, testified convincingly that they were familiar with female applicant's work and found her to be the most desirable candidate because of her demonstrated ability, attitude, and initiative, (2) Deputy Superintendent further testified that he had been concerned about male applicant's attendance record, which left much to be desired, and (3) there was no evidence that interviewers' reasons did not represent true basis for their decision to choose female applicant. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 704, 656 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3750 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Clerk employed by correctional facility failed to prove that facility's Deputy Superintendent of Administration (Taylor) harassed or threatened him in retaliation for his having lodged discrimination complaint where (1) although Taylor apparently did not hesitate to make his unfavorable opinion of clerk known to others at facility, there was no evidence that this behavior was prompted by retaliatory motive, (2) Taylor, who was familiar with clerk's abysmal time and attendance record, stated that he simply did not like clerk, because of his belief that clerk had abused his sick time and manipulated system to his advantage, and because clerk had made remark that Taylor considered to be ethnic slur, and (3) Taylor's abrasive and contentious personality indicated that he did not single out clerk for hostile treatment and that altercations complained of were not related to clerk's filing of complaint. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 704, 656 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3750 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

No cause of action was stated for gender discrimination under CLS Exec § 296 where there was no allegation that female patrons or guests of marina were denied accommodations or use of facilities on basis of gender, and defendants installed video cameras and surreptitiously conducted surveillance of persons using both men's and women's rooms. Mastro v Oak Park Marina, Inc., 238 A.D.2d 930, 661 N.Y.S.2d 554, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4747 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), reh'g denied, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7993 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't July 3, 1997).

Substantial evidence supported correction commissioner's decision that terminated correction officer had sexually harassed his subordinates where testimony of 2 complainants proved that officer sexually harassed them by exposing himself to them, and testimony of third complainant proved that officer sexually assaulted her. Arroyo v City of New York, 245 A.D.2d 186, 666 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13150 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Substantial, if not overwhelming, evidence supported employer's failure to take proper measures to halt male employees' increasingly aggressive verbal and physical harassment of sole female employee in frozen food warehouse, constituting condonation of gender and age discrimination and hostile work environment, where (1) taunts included remarks that she was too old and slow, was taking man's job away, and was "biggest whore" in town, (2) physical abuse culminated in her being picked up by legs, turned upside down, carried in attempt to place her head-first in garbage receptacle, and slammed into door of men's room, which caused disabling injuries, and (3) although principal perpetrator was warned that he would be fired if he did not refrain from such conduct, he was merely suspended for 3 days and continued to taunt complainant after suspension. Grand Union Co. v Mercado, 263 A.D.2d 923, 694 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8451 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Gender discrimination plaintiff established hostile work environment claim, where she testified that 39-year-old partner in defendant law firm made unwanted verbal and physical sexual advances toward her when she was 24-year-old first year associate at firm and remarked, after she was terminated, that she should not worry about her situation because "you'll take care of me and I'll take care of you." Sier v Jacobs Persinger & Parker, 276 A.D.2d 401, 714 N.Y.S.2d 283, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10763 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

State Division of Human Rights' finding of sex discrimination in termination of female employee was not supported by substantial evidence where (1) employee's claim of reduced work hours was inconsistent with her claim that she was given more work than her coworkers were, (2) although she did not have locker for changing clothes, she was provided small room to change in, because of unavailability of separate lockers for female employees, (3) every fact finder who had heard employee's testimony had found it incredible, (4) court-appointed psychiatrist who examined employee described her belief of sexual harassment in terms of paranoid personality disorder, delusional psychosis, and distorted view of reality, and (5) employee's prior complaints against 2 former employers were never substantiated, one of them prompting federal judge to condemn her strongly. Jamco Bldg. Maint. Corp. v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 281 A.D.2d 364, 724 N.Y.S.2d 20, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3139 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 613, 749 N.Y.S.2d 475, 779 N.E.2d 186, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 2699 (N.Y. 2002).

Plaintiff's employer and supervisor were entitled to summary judgment dismissing her cause of action for sexual harassment where (1) she alleged that employer allowed, condoned, and ratified supervisor's conduct and that supervisor, over period of about 10 days, touched her shoulder several times, screamed at her about work, invaded her personal space, made one comment about sexual orientation, and glanced at her in sexual manner "one or two" times, and (2) alleged conduct was not sufficiently severe or pervasive. Baliva v State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 286 A.D.2d 953, 730 N.Y.S.2d 655, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8896 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Testimony of an employee and her co-worker that their corporate employer's owner made sexually explicit comments at work, the employee's testimony that she told a supervisor before leaving her job because of the comments, and the owner's admission that he might have made some of the alleged comments, although possibly in different language, were sufficient to support a finding that the owner and employer committed sexual harassment by creating a hostile work environment in violation of the N.Y. Human Rights Law. Matter of R & B Autobody & Radiator, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 31 A.D.3d 989, 819 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Although a three-day suspension was an adverse employment action for purposes of the employee's gender discrimination claim, most of the other employment actions taken against the employee were not adverse because they did not constitute "materially adverse changes in the terms and conditions of employment." Matter of Russo v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 137 A.D.3d 1600, 28 N.Y.S.3d 156, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1985 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2016).

Even if an adverse employment action occurred and gave rise to an inference of gender discrimination, it was not actionable because the employer presented a legitimate, independent, and nondiscriminatory reason to support its decision based on the employee's conduct. Matter of Russo v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 137 A.D.3d 1600, 28 N.Y.S.3d 156, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1985 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2016).

Plaintiff's employer and supervisor were entitled to summary judgment dismissing sexual harassment claims because plaintiff was unable to show that supervisor's alleged conduct, even if true, was promoted simply because of her gender, where he made negative gay comments to both men and women, his boorish behavior and inappropriate social skills did not constitute discriminatory harassment, and his touching of plaintiff's shoulders on "several" occasions over 10-day period in small work cubicle did not rise to level of sexual harassment. Baliva v State Farm Mut. Ins. Co., 186 Misc. 2d 254, 718 N.Y.S.2d 144, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 478 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000), aff'd, 286 A.D.2d 953, 730 N.Y.S.2d 655, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8896 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001), aff'd, 286 A.D.2d 953, 730 N.Y.S.2d 920, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9016 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Substantial evidence supports the commissioner's determination that an employee was harassed by a supervisor because of her sex, that the employer condoned the harassment by failing to conduct a proper investigation upon being informed of the supervisor's misconduct and retaliated against the employee. Matter of Murphy v Kirkland, 88 A.D.3d 267, 928 N.Y.S.2d 333, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

Where a former employee alleged her male supervisor sexually harassed her, as the New York State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) failed to satisfy its burden to prove that the employee's female supervisor condoned the discriminatory conduct., SDHR could not enforce a damage award in favor of the employee against the female supervisor. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

Where a former employee testified that her male supervisor made offensive sexual comments, pressured her to come to his apartment, forced her to engage in sexual intercourse there, and fired her when she refused to return to his apartment, and he did not controvert her testimony, the evidence supported the administrative law judge's finding that she had been subjected to quid pro quo and hostile work environment sexual harassment. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

23. —Pregnancy

Division of Human Rights was not entitled to enforcement of order of the Human Rights Appeal Board to compel town board of education to apply sick leave credit in all cases of pregnancy disability where, inter alia, appellate record contained substantial gaps apparently due to procedural setting, and, in particular, record did not contain sufficient proof as to comparable policies of board of education with respect to nonpregnancy-related disabilities, making it impossible to determine whether there was impermissible discrimination. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 40 N.Y.2d 1021, 391 N.Y.S.2d 532, 359 N.E.2d 1327, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3155 (N.Y. 1976).

Employer unlawfully discriminated against female employees, and was properly ordered to make monetary payments to them, where it required them to quit work two months before expected delivery dates and did not authorize early return to work after delivery, at times when employees were willing to work, and where it refused to permit them to apply their sick leave credits to such maternity absences, and refused to continue to pay premiums on insurance coverages. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ellis v Jamestown Tel. Corp., 53 A.D.2d 1061, 386 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15880 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 848, 397 N.Y.S.2d 630, 366 N.E.2d 290, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1977).

School district did not discriminate against employee who became pregnant and requested leave of absence which was treated as resignation by denying pre-resignation service credit for seniority list where record establishes that "no leave" policy applied equally to males and females and that no employees, male or female, were granted seniority credit for preresignation employment. Daly v Three Village Cent. School Dist., 109 A.D.2d 772, 486 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47261 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Employer obviously failed to rebut prima facie showing that it had terminated complainant's employment because she was pregnant, in violation of CLS Exec § 296(1)(a), where employer neither appeared at hearing, challenged determination nor appeared in enforcement proceeding. State Div. of Human Rights v Demi Lass Ltd., 232 A.D.2d 335, 648 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11215 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Employee failed to support pregnancy discrimination claim in face of employer's nondiscriminatory explanation that employee was terminated because she had exceeded 12 weeks of maternity leave allowed by employer. LaCoparra v Pergament Home Ctrs., Inc., 982 F. Supp. 213, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15787 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

24. Evidence of retaliation

Evidence warranted finding by commissioner of Division of Human Rights that city's chief of police was not guilty of retaliation in directing dismissed black policeman's arrest pursuant to nonsupport warrant when policeman was to appear for human rights hearings and in demanding that policeman pay his traffic tickets immediately or outstanding traffic warrant would be executed. State Div. of Human Rights v Syracuse, 57 A.D.2d 452, 394 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11822 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 958, 404 N.Y.S.2d 343, 375 N.E.2d 409, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. 1978).

A determination that a former bus driver was not terminated in retaliation for having filed a prior complaint against his employer was supported by evidence that he previously had been terminated for defacing company property and causing an accident involving a discharged passenger, and that he recently had deliberately bypassed passengers in violation of policy. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Wright v Regional Transit Service, 79 A.D.2d 1106, 435 N.Y.S.2d 856, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10054 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

The decision of the Human Rights Appeals Board finding the employer guilty of an unlawful discriminatory practice by discriminating against a female employee because she had opposed practices which were forbidden by the Human Rights Law could not stand where the employer did not discriminate against the complaining employee and other female office workers on the basis of sex and thus the employer could not be found to have retaliated against the complaining employee for having opposed an unlawful practice; however, employees who feel victimized by unlawful discrimination do not act at their peril in trying to expose such practices, since absolute protection is afforded those who seek redress by the commencement of an administrative proceeding. Mohawk Finishing Products, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 83 A.D.2d 970, 442 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15431 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 892, 456 N.Y.S.2d 749, 442 N.E.2d 1260, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3772 (N.Y. 1982).

Evidence did not support determination by Division of Human Rights that complainant's application to rejoin YMCA had been denied in retaliation for his prior human rights complaint given that YMCA had renewed complainant's membership as matter of course following original complaint, he had freely relinquished his membership and was given complete refund of membership dues, and YMCA's subsequent refusal to grant him membership was in response to numerous difficulties in dealing with complainant for more than decade. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Albino v YMCA of Greater New York, 139 A.D.2d 440, 527 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 532 N.Y.S.2d 848, 529 N.E.2d 178, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2531 (N.Y. 1988).

Division of Human Rights properly determined that employee was denied promotion in retaliation for his opposition to what he considered discriminatory employer practices, even if he was mistaken, since "reasonable belief" standard is appropriate in retaliatory discrimination cases, there was nothing in record to show that employee did not reasonably believe that employer's practices were forbidden, and finding that he reasonably believed that employer had violated Human Rights Law was supported by evidence that he took steps to ensure that various other employees did not suffer consequences of practices he thought forbidden. New York State Office of Mental Retardation & Developmental Disabilities v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 164 A.D.2d 208, 563 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13984 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Evidence did not support commissioner's determination that employee was discharged in January 1985 in retaliation for filing July 1984 discrimination complaint where record was replete with testimony that employee was not doing job she was designated to perform, and there was insufficient evidence of subjective retaliatory motive for her discharge; in any event, even if prima facie case of retaliation could be found, there was ample proof of legitimate, independent and nondiscriminatory reasons for employee's dismissal. Milonas v Rosa, 217 A.D.2d 825, 629 N.Y.S.2d 535, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8064 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 806, 641 N.Y.S.2d 597, 664 N.E.2d 508, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 105 (N.Y. 1996).

Employer's motion, under CLS CPLR § 4404(a), to set aside jury verdict for plaintiff in action for retaliatory discharge was properly granted where (1) evidence supported jury's finding that employee's transfer was not in retaliation for her complaint of age and racial discrimination in denial of promotion, (2) employee's discrimination complaint preceded her termination by 2 years, during which she received salary increases, and (3) there was ample evidence of employee's insubordination after her transfer. Budzanoski v Pfizer, Inc., 245 A.D.2d 72, 664 N.Y.S.2d 796, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12836 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Plaintiff who failed to establish her claim of sexual harassment also failed to establish her claim of retaliatory discharge, where record evidence did not establish that alleged retaliation took place within 2 months following her sexual harassment complaint. Pace v Ogden Servs. Corp., 257 A.D.2d 101, 692 N.Y.S.2d 220, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Even if an employee met her initial burden on her retaliation claim, the employer presented a legitimate and nondiscriminatory reason for issuing a counseling memorandum on sexual harassment because it was based on the employee's sharing of sexually explicit material that she had on her cell phone, and the employee failed to show that such reason was pretextual. Matter of Russo v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 137 A.D.3d 1600, 28 N.Y.S.3d 156, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1985 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2016).

Complaint stated retaliation claim under Human Rights Law where husband alleged that his employment conditions deteriorated following his wife's complaints to management, and that deterioration intensified after she was discharged. Murphy v Cadillac Rubber & Plastics, 946 F. Supp. 1108, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17463 (W.D.N.Y. 1996).

Employer's refusal to grant additional sick days to employee, who was excessively absent from work, was not unreasonable and thus was inadequate to support retaliation claims under Human Rights Law. Castro v Local 1199, Nat'l Health & Human Servs. Emples. Union, 964 F. Supp. 719, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5373 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

25. Substantial evidence

Absent a full investigation including an opportunity for confrontation, the determination of the State Division of Human Rights that the State Division for Youth had not discriminated because of race, sex, and color against a black Puerto Rican female employee, who was requested to resign, was based on a record which was inadequate to meet the test of substantial evidence and was, therefore, arbitrary and capricious; since the investigation of the matter conducted by the Division of Human Rights involved separate meetings without hearings, it had to appear as a matter of law that the complaint lacked merit in order for the Division to dismiss the complaint. New York State Div. for Youth v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 83 A.D.2d 972, 442 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15434 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding by the Division of Human Rights seeking to enforce an order pursuant to Exec Law § 298, the issue of whether there was substantial evidence to support the award against the Department of Correctional Services finding discrimination in employment was not waived by the Department's failure to take an administrative appeal under Exec Law § 297-a, or to seek judicial review of the award pursuant to Exec Law § 298; that issue must be resolved on an application to enforce the award under § 298 using the same degree of scrutiny that would have been exercised on an application for judicial review. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Geraci v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 90 A.D.2d 51, 456 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Determination of New York State Division of Human Rights that petitioner was not denied promotion because of her religion or creed was supported by substantial evidence; additionally, petitioner was given full and fair opportunity to present evidence on her behalf and to rebut evidence presented by respondent employer, but she failed to produce any supportive evidence; furthermore, it is within discretion of Division of Human Rights to decide method or methods to be employed in investigating complaints of discrimination. Kushnir v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 114 A.D.2d 898, 495 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53929 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Appropriate standard of review of no probable cause determination of Division of Human Rights regarding possible violations of CLS Exec § 298, where no public hearing was held under CLS Exec § 297(4)(a), was whether determination was arbitrary and capricious, or lacking in rational basis, and not substantial evidence test. Giles v State Div. of Human Rights, 166 A.D.2d 779, 563 N.Y.S.2d 142, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12018 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Where findings of the State Commission for Human Rights are supported by substantial evidence, most of which is not disputed, they are conclusive. Cooney v Katzen, 41 Misc. 2d 236, 245 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1318 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Under this section, findings of the State Commission for Human Rights supported by substantial evidence on the record considered as a whole, are conclusive. State Com. State Comm'n for Human Rights v Farrell, 43 Misc. 2d 958, 252 N.Y.S.2d 649, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1486 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

26. —Particular applications

Hearing examiner's determination, as affirmed by the State Human Rights Appeal Board, that petitioner was guilty of a discriminatory practice in refusing to rent an apartment to the complainant on the basis of his race and color was supported by substantial evidence. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

Appellate Division properly annulled determination by Division of Human Rights that medical facility violated CLS Exec § 296(2)(a) by using heightened precautionary measures in 1985 while treating petitioner who was perceived to be at risk of carrying AIDS virus, even though petitioner complained of treatment in isolated room located at end of dark hallway, with all equipment draped in plastic, small "x" on door, and treating physician and staff outfitted in protective clothing, since medical facility showed that its protocol was reasonable, medically warranted, and consistent with its desire to protect patients and staff from spread of infectious diseases; such protocol was consistent with accepted medical practice in 1985 for treatment of patients known or perceived to be at high risk of infection of then recently discovered, contagious, and fatal disease and was not pretext for discrimination. North Shore Univ. Hosp. v Rosa, 86 N.Y.2d 413, 633 N.Y.S.2d 462, 657 N.E.2d 483, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3553 (N.Y. 1995).

While the Division of Human Rights' finding of discrimination by volunteer fire department against applicant on the basis of race was supported by substantial evidence, the matter would be resubmitted to petitioners for an immediate and thorough review of complainant's qualifications for appointment to the department in view of his alleged background as set forth in the petition. Bay Shore Fire Dep't v State Div. of Human Rights, 41 A.D.2d 738, 341 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4970 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

In Article 78 proceeding, determination of Human Rights Appeal Board was reversed for lack of substantial evidence where petitioner established that he had not been given an opportunity to offer at a conference whatever pertinent evidence he possessed in support of his complaint that his discharge was due to his age and national origin. Burns v Sabena Belgian World Airlines, 42 A.D.2d 347, 347 N.Y.S.2d 958, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3453 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

Although it would have been better practice for division of human rights to have conferred further with petitioner concerning the substantial information which it had gathered that her demotion was not the result of sex discrimination, there was no reason to declare procedure and determination of division arbitrary or capricious or an abuse of discretion. Jackson v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 684, 345 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3988 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Record in proceeding to enforce order of State Human Rights Appeal Board failed to disclose substantial evidence to support finding of discrimination in the form of a retaliatory dismissal of complainant from her position as a probationary teacher; on the contrary, the record demonstrated ample cause for dismissal because of unsatisfactory job performance. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 47 A.D.2d 524, 362 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8581 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Where investigation of race discrimination complaint involved separate meetings without formal or informal hearings and where it appeared that parties had not been afforded opportunity directly to confront the issues, determination of Division of Human Rights dismissing the discrimination complaint was not based on a record adequate to meet test of the substantial evidence rule and remand for further proceedings was proper. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Powers v Mecca Kendall Corp., 53 A.D.2d 201, 385 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12506 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Where findings of sex discrimination in employment made by the State Division of Human Rights and affirmed by the State

Human Rights Appeal Board were supported by substantial evidence, reviewing court was concluded on those questions of fact. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ellis v Jamestown Tel. Corp., 53 A.D.2d 1061, 386 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15880 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 848, 397 N.Y.S.2d 630, 366 N.E.2d 290, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1977).

Commissioner of Division of Human Rights finding that black policeman's dismissal from city police force was not the result of unlawful discrimination but based on proven acts of misconduct and finding that such penalty was appropriate to the misconduct charged and was not discriminatory were supported by substantial evidence. State Div. of Human Rights v Syracuse, 57 A.D.2d 452, 394 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11822 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 958, 404 N.Y.S.2d 343, 375 N.E.2d 409, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. 1978).

The substantial evidence supported determination of New York State Human Rights Appeal Board affirming finding of State Division of Human Rights that age discrimination was not shown. Ashley v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 60 A.D.2d 568, 399 N.Y.S.2d 701, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14500 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Where the state Division of Human Rights determined there was not probable cause to believe that a teacher had been discriminated against because of his religion either in scheduling of courses or in promotions, on basis of findings that the teacher failed to supply the university with a requested list of dates during which his religion required his absence and that he failed to follow the correct administrative procedure in regard to requests for promotions the determination was supported by substantial evidence. Adelson v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 79 A.D.2d 720, 434 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14129 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1980).

Petition to review human rights division's no cause order was properly dismissed in light of substantial evidence that employer promoted younger employee over petitioner for reasons unrelated to age; division adequately investigated petitioner's allegations where it held conferences with both parties, solicited from each party responses to other party's evidence and arguments, and evaluated taped conversations supplied by petitioner. Stewart v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 128 A.D.2d 625, 512 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44313 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 614, 524 N.Y.S.2d 676, 519 N.E.2d 622, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 21 (N.Y. 1988).

Evidence did not support determination that dismissal of 60-year-old employee was result of improper age discrimination where there had occurred change in nature of employer's work, with concomitant need to reduce staff, and first member of staff to be terminated was 31 years of age. New York State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Dembo v Johnson & Higgins, 140 A.D.2d 214, 528 N.Y.S.2d 65, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5138 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 533 N.Y.S.2d 56, 529 N.E.2d 424, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2620 (N.Y. 1988).

Substantial evidence supported determination that restaurant unlawfully discriminated against waiter because of his medical disability, despite restaurant's contention that discharge was based on complainant's poor work performance, where complainant, who had informed restaurant's part owner that he had been diagnosed as having AIDS-related complex (ARC), was discharged shortly thereafter, and complainant's roommate testified that restaurant's other part owner told him that reason for discharge was that he "couldn't face" complainant in his restaurant because he had been diagnosed as having ARC. Club Swamp Annex v White, 167 A.D.2d 400, 561 N.Y.S.2d 609, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13621 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990), app. denied, 77 N.Y.2d 809, 571 N.Y.S.2d 912, 575 N.E.2d 398, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 2508 (N.Y. 1991).

County department of corrections was entitled to dismissal of petitioner's age discrimination claim where (1) during his period as probationary correction officer, petitioner failed to qualify in firearm training/unsafe procedures course, was failing course in defensive tactics, and had missed other required courses due to several absences, (2) petitioner was notified that he was discharged for unsatisfactory performance, and (3) petitioner thereafter wrote letters to Commissioner of Corrections in which he made no claim of age discrimination and admitted that he failed required courses. Pantaleone v Jackson, 204 A.D.2d 458, 611 N.Y.S.2d 631, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4768 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 84 N.Y.2d 806, 618 N.Y.S.2d 7, 642 N.E.2d 326, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 3363 (N.Y. 1994).

Evidence did not support Division of Human Rights' determination that telephone company unlawfully discriminated against African-American employee by denying her promotion, where company established that it promoted white employee to Facilities Assistant position instead of complainant because complainant was not familiar with telephone company power equipment, while white employee was familiar with equipment, having already performed some of those job duties, and because white employee had 4-year college education including physics and calculus, while complainant only had 2-year degree and had not studied physics or calculus. New York Tel. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 222 A.D.2d 234, 634 N.Y.S.2d 691, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12729 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Evidence did not support respondent's determination, based on disparate discriminatory impact analysis, that State Office of Mental Health was guilty of unlawful discriminatory practices for having employed African American and Hispanic employees as grade 9 Mental Health Therapy Aides (MHTAs) at regional forensic unit (RFU), while predominantly white workforce allegedly doing similar work at different forensic facility worked as grade 14 Secure Hospital Treatment Assistants; mere fact that racial imbalance existed in one segment of workforce did not, without more, establish prima facie case of disparate impact, especially in view of fact that MHTAs at two RFUs not considered by respondent, who also failed to receive grade 14 status, were predominantly white. New York State Office of Mental Health, Manhattan Psychiatric Ctr. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 223 A.D.2d 88, 645 N.Y.S.2d 926, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8013 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 806, 654 N.Y.S.2d 716, 677 N.E.2d 288, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 32 (N.Y. 1997).

Evidence did not support determination that rescue mission, in conditioning complainant's stay on further discussing her HIV status, denied her privilege and advantage of place of public accommodation where (1) all witnesses, including complainant, testified that complainant was asked whether she had any medications with her and was told that, if she did, they had to be put away, that she refused to respond to that inquiry, that if she wished to stay, she had to respond, and that she left rather than answering, and (2) question as to medications was not based on her HIV status, but rather was as matter of policy asked of all potential admittees. Rescue Mission Alliance v Mercado, 224 A.D.2d 934, 637 N.Y.S.2d 580, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 805, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1714 (N.Y. 1996).

Court would annul determination that certain acts of dentist constituted refusal to treat complainant based on his status as person perceived to be at risk for HIV infection where dental office in question did not constitute "place of public accommodation." Schulman v State Div. of Human Rights, 89 N.Y.2d 934, 226 A.D.2d 645, 641 N.Y.S.2d 134, 677 N.E.2d 284, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4389 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996), rev'd, 89 N.Y.2d 934, 654 N.Y.S.2d 713, 677 N.E.2d 284, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 1997).

Evidence supported determination that petitioner was employee, despite commission-based nature of her pay, where employer, through its president, hired her, controlled her hours, established days that she worked, and provided her with office, supplies, and support staff; moreover, she worked exclusively for employer, which had right to dismiss her and make sole determination as to which products she was to sell and at what prices. Bartle v Mercado, 235 A.D.2d 651, 652 N.Y.S.2d 139, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 95 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 815, 659 N.Y.S.2d 855, 681 N.E.2d 1302, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1219 (N.Y. 1997), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 815, 659 N.Y.S.2d 855, 681 N.E.2d 1302 (N.Y. 1997).

Substantial evidence supported Division of Human Rights' finding that employer condoned harassment of complainant by her supervisor, and thus employer was vicariously liable for harassment, where employer acquired knowledge "after the fact" but neither adequately investigated complaint nor took corrective action. New York City Health & Hosps. Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 236 A.D.2d 310, 654 N.Y.S.2d 310, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1591 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Record did not support finding that dentist discriminated against patient who was HIV-positive by draping all surfaces of operatory when treating him, and by scheduling his appointments at end of day; experts agree that some professional judgment must be exercised in implementing appropriate barriers for surfaces that might become contaminated by blood of HIV-positive patient. Cerio v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 258 A.D.2d 873, 684 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1485 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Evidence supported employer's assertion that 54-year-old plaintiff was terminated for failure to meet employer's reasonable expectations, not due to age discrimination, where she was hired at age 53 to replace 40-year-old man who was discharged for unsatisfactory performance, she performed significantly worse than her predecessor, and she admittedly failed to meet sales quotas, lost or failed to regain key accounts, failed to comply with supervisor's reasonable recommendations for improving her sales performance, and created problems by informing coworker of supervisor's negative comments about him. Times Mirror Magazines, Inc. v Houghton, 268 A.D.2d 355, 702 N.Y.S.2d 265, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 715 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Division of Human Rights properly determined that employer condoned hostile work environment, where petitioners testified to numerous instances in which they reported harassment and discrimination by their co-workers to their superiors but nothing was done to stop offensive conduct, and employer did not want to get involved even after petitioners approached police in effort to stop harassment and physical intimidation. Kondracke v Blue, 277 A.D.2d 953, 716 N.Y.S.2d 533, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11599 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Failure by defendant board of education and school principal to remedy alleged sexually hostile work environment created by classroom misbehavior of students did not support teacher's claim of unlawful discrimination. Sirota v N.Y. City Bd. of Educ., 283 A.D.2d 369, 725 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6583 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Determination that an employer violated N.Y. Exec. Law § 292(21-e) by failing to provide reasonable accommodations for the complainant's disability, which was a sensitivity to an ingredient in a cleaning solution used in her work, was supported by substantial evidence because, although the employer had protective equipment at the work site that may have alleviated the complainant's adverse reaction to the ingredient at issue, at no time before her termination from employment did the employer advise the complainant that the protective equipment was available for her use. Neither of the complainant's supervisors addressed the medical issues raised by the complainant and her physician before terminating her. Matter of New Venture Gear, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 41 A.D.3d 1265, 839 N.Y.S.2d 375, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7165 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2007).

Determination of the New York State Division of Human Rights that an employer violated N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(1)(a) by discriminating against an employee on the basis of her military status was not supported by substantial evidence because the employer demonstrated that he terminated the employee for a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason that was not based on her military status; the employee's time cards supported the employer's contention that he terminated her employment because she continued to be late after being placed on probation for lateness for reasons having nothing to do with her military status. Matter of Kaplan v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 95 A.D.3d 1120, 944 N.Y.S.2d 616, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3829 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2012).

Substantial evidence supported the finding that an employer discriminated against each complainant by subjecting her to a sexually hostile work environment as each complainant testified that she was subjected to severe and pervasive sexualized comments and unwanted touching, and that she reported that behavior to management but her complaints were ignored; two complainants were retaliated against as they were terminated shortly after they reported the sexual harassment to management, which showed that the legitimate reasons proffered for the terminations were pretextual, and the third complainant was retaliated against by constructively discharging her. Matter of Stellar Dental Mgt. LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 162 A.D.3d 1655, 80 N.Y.S.3d 757, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4423 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2018).

Substantial evidence supported the determination that an employer discriminated against the complainant by subjecting her to a sexually hostile work environment because the complainant was subjected to severe and pervasive sexualized comments and unwanted touching by the employer's owner, repeatedly rejected the owner's advances and expressed to him that she felt his comments were inappropriate, and the complainant's testimony was supported by testimony from former employees. Matter of Oz Trucking & Rigging Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 178 A.D.3d 935, 116 N.Y.S.3d 52, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9029 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

Evidence supported the compensatory damages awarded to the complainant for mental anguish and humiliation because the complainant was subjected to constant sexual badgering and inappropriate behavior for the entire two years she was employed, endured two instances of unwanted physical contact, on at least one occasion, the complainant was so humiliated and mortified that she left the office on the verge of tears, and the award was within the range established by similar cases. Matter of Oz Trucking & Rigging Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 178 A.D.3d 935, 116 N.Y.S.3d 52, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9029 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

Substantial evidence supported the determination by the Division of Human Rights that a school district unlawfully discriminated against a former teacher because a principal with the school district provided a negative reference to a prospective employer's inquiry about the teacher, which was an adverse employment action related to the filing of the teacher's initial complaint. Matter of Copiague Union Free Sch. Dist. v Foster, 185 A.D.3d 1023, 129 N.Y.S.3d 95, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

Under provision of above statute as to conclusiveness of findings of commission, substantial evidence rule applies to proceeding seeking review and annulment of order made thereby. Substantial evidence on record in its entirety supported determination of commission that landlord refused to rent to married couple because husband was a Negro. Kindt v State Com. for Human Rights, 44 Misc. 2d 896, 254 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), modified, 23 A.D.2d 809, 258 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

Finding that there was a substantial continuity of business operations between an employer and its successor in interest did not support the imposition of successor liability because there was not substantial evidence that the successor in interest had notice of an age discrimination claim against the employer prior to the purported sale of assets, or that the president of the employer was unable to satisfy the award. Matter of MTA Trading, Inc. v Kirkland, 84 A.D.3d 811, 922 N.Y.S.2d 488, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3682 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

Determination that a school district, which did not dispute that the majority of the alleged incidents occurred, permitted students to engage in a course of racially-motivated harassment of a student was supported by substantial evidence where ample testimony and other evidence, including a videotape of one of these incidents, supported allegations that the student was subjected to verbal and physical abuse on a bus, including being spat upon, which was reported to the school; nevertheless, the school district's middle school administrators routinely imposed only two to three-day suspensions on the offending students in response and testified that they felt it was "unfair" to move a problem student to another school to address that student's conduct. The assistant principal conceded that there was a "racial tidal wave" that year, the school bus was a "hell hole" and he knew that the student had been threatened with gun violence, but did not require the offenders to submit to more serious superintendent's hearings, did not impose lengthier suspensions, and did not even exercise his unilateral power to ban the offenders from riding on that particular bus. Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

27. Probable cause

State Human Rights Appeal Board impermissibly exceeded the limited scope of its own review and substituted its own judgment for that of State Division of Human Rights in reversing Division's finding of no probable cause, where evidence that complainant unauthorizedly left his job assignment and refused to utilize employer's available procedure for acquiring permission to leave the job assignment supported Division's findings that complainant's dismissal was based on unauthorized absence from his job assignments, and that there was no probable cause to believe that complainant's dismissal was in retaliation for numerous complaints previously filed against employer. Pepsi-Cola Metropolitan Bottling Co. v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 42 A.D.2d 760, 346 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Where the record, considered as a whole, justified division's finding of no probable cause for sex discrimination charge, board impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its own review in vacating division's order of dismissal. Long Island R. R. Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 857, 346 N.Y.S.2d 849, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Where record considered as a whole clearly justified finding of no probable cause by Division of Human Rights, Appeal Board in vacating Division's order and remanding matter for further investigation impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its review and substituted its own judgment for that of Division. Grumman Aerospace Corp. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 54 A.D.2d 958, 388 N.Y.S.2d 640, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14869 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Absent evidence suggesting that hospital and others engaged in discriminatory practices because of petitioner's age it was not abuse of discretion for State Division of Human Rights to dismiss the complaint for want of probable cause. Talarico v Brookhaven Memorial Hospital, 55 A.D.2d 949, 391 N.Y.S.2d 146, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10242 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Determination of State Division of Human Rights that petitioner's complaint of unlawful discriminatory act on ground of age was not supported by probable cause was supported by evidence in record and was neither arbitrary nor capricious. Kowalski v Nassau County Board of Supervisors, 57 A.D.2d 858, 394 N.Y.S.2d 263, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12076 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Discrimination complaint was improperly dismissed after preliminary investigation where investigation revealed that complainant had been victim of racial insults and harassments and there was a suspicion that difficulty may have resulted from prejudice. Glen Cove Public Schools v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 58 A.D.2d 591, 395 N.Y.S.2d 493, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12634 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 811, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3924 (N.Y. 1977).

An order of State Human Rights Appeal Board affirming a finding of no probable cause by State Division of Human Rights on a discriminatory employment claim must be confirmed if supported by sufficient evidence in record. Pixley v Raymond Corp., 59 A.D.2d 979, 399 N.Y.S.2d 411, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14248 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Where record of proceedings before regional director of State Division of Human Rights showed rational basis for his determination of no probable cause with respect to complaints filed by employees, where hearing was extensive and complainants were present and represented by counsel, and where representatives of employer against whom complaints were made were present, represented by counsel, and testified and were cross-examined by counsel for complainant, mere fact that director's daughter was employed as mail clerk by employer against whom complaints were filed was no basis for disqualification of director or for setting aside determination. State Div. of Human Rights v Merchants Mut. Ins. Co., 59 A.D.2d 1054, 399 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14344 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

The order of the State Human Rights Appeals Board that affirmed a determination of the State Division of Human Rights which held that there was no probable cause to believe that the respondent-employer had engaged in unlawful discriminatory practices resulting in the termination of petitioner's employment was supported by the record where termination was mandated by the Civil Service Law which provided for the creation of, and hiring from, preferred lists of employment. Coriou v New York State Dep't of Mental Hygiene, etc., 80 A.D.2d 597, 436 N.Y.S.2d 38, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10283 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

State Division of Human Rights did not abuse its discretion in dismissing petitioner's complaint charging her former employer with unlawful discrimination in employment without first holding a confrontation conference or a hearing where the record failed to establish any probable cause to believe that the employer had engaged in any unlawful discriminatory practices. Fischer v Kieley & Mueller, Inc., 81 A.D.2d 576, 437 N.Y.S.2d 430, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11060 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review an order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board dismissing the petitioner's complaint upon a finding of no probable cause, the petition was granted and the orders of the Appeal Board and division were annulled where the State Division's determination was made following an inadequate investigation of petitioner's claims and where the underlying investigation may have been somewhat one-sided. Wolchok v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 83 A.D.2d 850, 441 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15234 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

The State Division of Human Rights did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in dismissing a complaint alleging discrimination in promotion due to disability for lack of probable cause where the complainant's employer, a county, was unaware of complainant's alleged disability due to alcoholism, had other disabled employees on its staff, and had made the promotions in a responsible manner. Gentili v State Div. of Human Rights, 106 A.D.2d 742, 483 N.Y.S.2d 742, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21673 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Where determinations of no probable cause are based on investigations which are one sided and abbreviated, determination will be annulled; thus, in sex discrimination case, determination will be annulled where it was made solely on basis of petitioner's verified petition, letter from respondent's attorney, and petitioner's written response, petitioner was not interviewed in person nor were witnesses questioned, respondent's attorney did not have first hand knowledge of facts and his submitted information should therefore not have been relied upon, there was no contact with supervisors or personnel officers employed by respondent who might have had first hand knowledge, and where statistical data showing significantly lower success rate for women than for men was disregarded by investigator. Pape-Becker v Equitable Life Assurance Soc., 111 A.D.2d 427, 488 N.Y.S.2d 321, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51523 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Probable cause that employer engaged in discriminatory practices is not shown merely by allegations that coemployees verbally abused petitioner in absence of indication that employer or senior executive was either involved in or condoned such harassment. Boddie v National Cleaning Contractors, Inc., 112 A.D.2d 421, 492 N.Y.S.2d 80, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

28. Burden of proof

Burden of establishing employment discrimination is upon complainant and he must establish that he was rejected solely because of his race and color. Sperry Rand Corp. v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 46 A.D.2d 678, 360 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3915 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

In view of applicant's apparent qualifications, evidence that, after employer refused to employ applicant on reasonable grounds, and after applicant filed complaint of discrimination against the employer, the employer employed several other applicants without contacting or considering the applicant placed on the employer the burden of explanation of its failure to offer applicant a job and to show that it did not act in retaliation because of the complaint and sustained commissioner's finding that employer had acted in retaliation. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Dixon v Loblaw, Inc., 47 A.D.2d 591, 363 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8690 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Unlike proceedings involving bona fide occupational qualification test under Human Rights Law where employer has burden of proving that employee's disability precludes him from reasonably performing job, in Article 78 proceeding brought by police officer seeking judgment directing officials to refrain from terminating his employment because of hearing loss, officer had to show that Municipal Police Training Council acted arbitrarily in adopting hearing standard under 9 NYCRR § 6000.3, which officer claimed was more stringent than necessary for efficient performance of police duties. Rice v Schuyler County Civil Service Com., 137 A.D.2d 359, 528 N.Y.S.2d 944, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6071 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 72 N.Y.2d 1003, 534 N.Y.S.2d 665, 531 N.E.2d 297, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2756 (N.Y. 1988).

Article 78 proceeding to annul findings that State Office of Mental Health (SOMH) discriminated and retaliated against employee was properly dismissed where administrative law judge found that SOMH's witnesses were not credible and that employee made prima facie showing of discrimination and retaliation, and thus trier of fact could infer ultimate fact of intentional discrimination without need for employee to prove that SOMH's explanations for its conduct were pretextual. New York State Office of Mental Health v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 273 A.D.2d 829, 709 N.Y.S.2d 755, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6849 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

In dismissing plaintiffs' allegations that defendant employer condoned or acquiesced in sexual harassment committed by male coworkers, court erred by imposing burden on plaintiffs to prove that they reported complained-of incidents to defendant, where defendant failed to plead affirmative defense that plaintiffs failed to take advantage of preventative or corrective opportunities provided by defendant so as to mitigate their damages; furthermore, had defendant pleaded such defense, burden would have been on it to establish defense, not on plaintiffs to disprove it in first instance. Vitale v Rosina Food Prods., 283 A.D.2d 141, 727 N.Y.S.2d 215, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5748 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

In action for alleged disability discrimination, employer satisfied its burden of showing that it had legitimate nondiscriminatory reasons for discharging security guard, on basis that he had violated company policy by being under influence of alcohol while on job, which jeopardized security of building and damaged employer's reputation with tenants. Lugo v Milford Mgmt. Corp., 956 F. Supp. 1120, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2004 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

29. Choice of remedies

State Human Rights Commissioner has wide discretion in selecting appropriate remedy, but there are times when his determination of remedy may be set aside because it is erroneous as matter of law. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

Only under gravest of circumstances, where all other conceivable remedies have proved ineffective or futile, should Human Rights Commissioner enter campus to impose conferring of tenure, and even in extraordinary case where grant of tenure might serve as appropriate remedy the Commissioner should not impose such requirement without consulting with administration of institution and without considering effect of such order on institution and its faculty. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

That professor was not given fair opportunity to apply for tenure was insufficient to justify State Human Rights Commissioner's imposition of tenure requirement, and tenure requirement was deleted from his order. New York Institute of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

Order of State Commission for Human Rights which directed respondent to notify the complainant of the first available three-room vacancy in any specified building owned by respondent was clearly designed to effectuate policy of Article 15 of the Executive Law (Law Against Discrimination) and the remedy granted bore a reasonable relationship to the unlawful discriminatory practices found to exist. State Com. for Human Rights v Lieber, 29 A.D.2d 663, 286 N.Y.S.2d 300, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4851 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), rev'd, 23 N.Y.2d 253, 296 N.Y.S.2d 319, 244 N.E.2d 24, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 973 (N.Y. 1968).

Where a landlord had been found guilty of discriminatory practices in housing accommodations, the provisions of an order requiring him to file compliance reports, keep records of all vacancies and rejections and post the Division's regulations, were proper and enforceable. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Johnson v Stern, 37 A.D.2d 441, 326 N.Y.S.2d 500, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2833 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1971).

Choice of remedies for discriminatory employment practice lay with Human Rights Division, which had wide latitude except that its orders were required to bear reasonable relation to discriminatory practices found and legislative policy behind the statute. New York Inst. of Technology v State Div. of Human Rights, 48 A.D.2d 132, 368 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9559 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975), rev'd, 40 N.Y.2d 316, 386 N.Y.S.2d 685, 353 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. 1976).

Commissioner of Human Rights erred in directing university to rehire instructor where his only educational expertise was in area of photographic technology, department which university had discontinued in interim; reinstatement would require university and students to bear burden of instructor's lack of teaching expertise, and more appropriate award would be reimbursement of instructor for 3-year term of renewal which was denied him because of university's discrimination. State University Agricultural & Technical College v State Div. of Human Rights, 134 A.D.2d 339, 520 N.Y.S.2d 814, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50516 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Supreme Court improperly reinstated petitioner as permanent employee on finding of unlawful discriminatory discharge where, at time of discharge, he had completed only 8 months of one-year probationary period; petitioner was only entitled to reinstatement to probationary title he held at time of discharge. Obas v Kiley, 149 A.D.2d 422, 539 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4393 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In confirming determination that employer was guilty of sexual harassment of discharged probationary employee, court did not err in denying employee's request for future lost earnings or prejudgment interest as alternative to reinstatement, but employee should have been reinstated to her position as probationary employee and given additional probationary period in which to demonstrate her competence in atmosphere untainted by sexual harassment. Levy v City Comm'n on Human Rights, 196 A.D.2d 214, 609 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994), aff'd, 85 N.Y.2d 740, 628 N.Y.S.2d 245, 651 N.E.2d 1264, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1122 (N.Y. 1995).

Penalty of termination of correction officer's employment was not so disproportionate to offenses as to shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness where 2 complainants testified that officer sexually harassed them by exposing himself to them, and third complainant testified that officer sexually assaulted her; either set of charges was sufficient, by itself, to support dismissal. Arroyo v City of New York, 245 A.D.2d 186, 666 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13150 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Administrative convenience dismissal of complaint with State Division of Human Rights alleging discriminatory discharge from employment on bases of race and physical disability was arbitrary where there was nothing in record to suggest that complainant intended to pursue his federal remedy before filing his administrative complaint or that he filed such complaint as prerequisite to commencing federal action, fact that over one year elapsed between filing of administrative complaint and commencement of federal action indicated that complainant initially intended to elect administrative remedy, and thus dismissal violated CLS Exec § 297(9) and CLS Div Hum Rts R § 465.5(e)(2) (9 NYCRR § 465.5(e)(2)). Wegmans Food Mkts. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 245 A.D.2d 685, 664 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12602 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Employee was not barred by Workers' Compensation Law from receiving lost wages under State Division of Human Rights' decision that employer was liable for age and sex discrimination where employee's monetary recovery for intentional acts of discrimination in human rights proceeding was offset by amount of workers' compensation benefits paid to her, and thus CLS Work Comp § 29, which was designed to prevent double recovery, was not frustrated. Grand Union Co. v Mercado, 263 A.D.2d 923, 694 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8451 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

In a suit filed pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298, an employee's claim that the employee should have been permanently promoted to a provisional appointment after the employee was discriminated against based on gender was rejected as the decision whether to permanently appoint the employee, or one of the other two candidates, rested with the employer under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 61 and 65; compelling circumstances were not implicated, and the opening for the Solid Waste Specialist III (grade 27) position resulted from a provisional promotion of another person to a grade 31 position and that person reverted back to the grade 27 position when that person failed to pass the Civil Service examination for the grade 31 position. In essence, the permanent position was no longer available when the provisional appointment expired. Matter of Close v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 43 A.D.3d 574, 840 N.Y.S.2d 660, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8884 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007), app. denied, 10 N.Y.3d 702, 854 N.Y.S.2d 103, 883 N.E.2d 1010, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 260 (N.Y. 2008).

Development of non-discriminatory shop training programs by a court cannot be approached strictly within conventional confines of an adversary proceeding, but requires the cooperation of all parties. State Com. State Comm'n for Human Rights v Farrell, 43 Misc. 2d 958, 252 N.Y.S.2d 649, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1486 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Although there was sufficient evidence to show respondent's unlawful discrimination by their refusal to lease an apartment to a Negro, a Commission order directing the respondent to write a letter of apology and to notify the Negro applicant in question of available vacancies would be modified, where the applicant was a "checker" or "tester" who regularly sought to rent or lease such housing accommodations as were publicly offered for rental, an activity apparently part of the Commission's enforcement program. State Com. for Human Rights v Lieber, 52 Misc. 2d 1079, 277 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1759 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

Plaintiff who, on becoming registered representative for defendant stock brokerage, executed agreement with New York Stock Exchange in which she agreed to arbitrate any controversy arising out of her employment or termination thereof, could not resort to judicial remedy but would instead be required to arbitrate claim that defendant engaged in sexual discrimination violative of Human Rights Law (CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq.) in connection with termination of her employment. Reid v Goldman, Sachs & Co., 154 Misc. 2d 756, 586 N.Y.S.2d 459, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 318 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 188 A.D.2d 350, 590 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13708 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

30. Damages, generally

Evidence, in hearing before Commissioner of Human Rights on complaints charging private club with discrimination against blacks with regard to use of barroom during fashion show, warranted Commissioner's award of $250 compensatory damages to each complainant because of club's commission of willful discriminatory acts. Batavia Lodge No. 196, etc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 35 N.Y.2d 143, 359 N.Y.S.2d 25, 316 N.E.2d 318, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1974).

Compensatory damages may be awarded only upon a factual basis appearing in the record. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Johnson v Stern, 37 A.D.2d 441, 326 N.Y.S.2d 500, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2833 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1971).

An award of $500 compensatory damages was improperly affirmed where the record contains no proof of out-of-pocket expenses sustained by complainant as a result of the discrimination practiced against him. Sarantis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 41 A.D.2d 885, 342 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4800 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Where corporate employer which had been ordered by State Division of Human Rights to, inter alia, pay $500 in compensatory damages to woman who had been refused employment because of her sex was bankrupt, Division of Human Rights was directed to the bankruptcy court for a determination whether the bankrupt could be directed to offer employment and whether the original complainant should be granted a preference over other creditors with respect to the compensatory damages. State Div. of Human Rights v Scandinavian Ski & Sports Shops, Inc., 52 A.D.2d 788, 383 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12576 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

In a proceeding pursuant to Exec Law § 298 to review an order of the Human Rights Appeal Board directing a county civil service commission to pay a complainant $1,000 compensatory damages for discrimination, the award of damages was not warranted where, although the actions of the civil service commission were discriminatory in effect, the fact that the county commissioner made a good faith effort to establish reasonable and job-related qualifications for the examination served to demonstrate that the commission did not act wilfully. Cullen v Nassau County Civil Service Com., 78 A.D.2d 896, 433 N.Y.S.2d 222, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1980), aff'd, 53 N.Y.2d 492, 442 N.Y.S.2d 470, 425 N.E.2d 858, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2583 (N.Y. 1981).

In Exec Law § 298 proceeding for enforcement of an order of the State Division of Human Rights awarding compensatory damages, the reviewing court may direct third-party defendant, the State Department of Audit and Control, to pay the sums agreed upon in the conciliation agreement; by enacting authority for the Division to pursue discrimination claims against employers, and not excluding the state as an employer, the legislature waived the state's immunity; failure of the legislature to appropriate funds for payment of civil rights claims against the state is not indicative of its intent that the state was not subject to such award. State Div. of Human Rights v Dep't of Mental Hygiene, Rome Dev. Ctr., 85 A.D.2d 915, 446 N.Y.S.2d 784, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16759 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Damage award of $7,080 for landlord's refusal to rent to complainant because of race and marital status was excessive and matter would be remanded for reassessment of award. So that petitioner not be rewarded for its deliberate default by retaining use of ultimate damage award from date of order by State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) rendered on petitioner's default until SDHR issued new order after hearing on damages, final damage award would bear interest from date of SDHR's original order entered on default. Court would direct on remittitur that State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) retain neutral hearing officer for purpose of reassessing damages where potential conflict of interest existed from complainant's status as employee of SDHR; matter should be referred to New York City Commission on Human Rights, which had concurrent jurisdiction, or outside hearing officer. Interboro Management Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 139 A.D.2d 697, 527 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In proceeding under CLS Exec § 298, employees who were wrongfully denied appointments to new position created by employer after their former positions were abolished should have been awarded back pay based on lower pay scale for new position, not higher pay scale for abolished positions, since employer's creation of 2 lower paying positions to replace one higher paying position was legitimate organizational restructuring. Lutheran Social Services, Inc. v State Div. of Human Rights, 142 A.D.2d 950, 530 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14971 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988), aff'd, 74 N.Y.2d 824, 546 N.Y.S.2d 337, 545 N.E.2d 627, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2741 (N.Y. 1989).

Division of Human Rights properly determined that complainant was entitled to award of back pay to be calculated at rate of assistant principal where substantial evidence supported finding that complainant would have received assistant principal's salary had he not been wrongfully removed from his position as interim acting assistant principal. New York City Bd. of Education v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 154 A.D.2d 679, 546 N.Y.S.2d 883, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13781 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Damage award of $75,000 for mental anguish and humiliation was neither reasonably related to employer's unlawful refusal to reinstate research scientist to his former position after his 2 heart attacks nor supported by evidence where (1) employer offered scientist less stressful and more sedentary position at same title and salary shortly after he applied for reinstatement, which he refused without adequate explanation, and (2) employer accorded scientist sick leave at half pay after expiration of sick time and annual leave to which he was entitled; appropriate award under circumstances was $7,500. New York State Office of Mental Retardation & Developmental Disabilities v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 183 A.D.2d 943, 583 N.Y.S.2d 580, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6699 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Division of Human Rights erroneously awarded back pay based on projections rather than actual salary and benefits earned during relevant period by complainant's former co-worker, whose salary was identical to complainant's when complainant left employment; further, award of back pay should have been reduced by amount of unemployment compensation that complainant received during period covered by award. New York State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bice v Parkview Auto Sales, 206 A.D.2d 888, 616 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7812 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), transferred, 206 A.D.2d 889, 616 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7813 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

In proceeding under CLS Exec § 298 in which Department of Correctional Services was found guilty of discriminating against employee on basis of gender, $25,000 compensatory award for mental anguish and humiliation was excessive where injured employee testified that as result of department's discriminatory conduct she felt so "frustrated, depressed and angry" that she lost sleep and became embroiled in arguments with her fiance, that she saw psychiatrist 5 or 6 times, that she was forced to endure various incidents of harassment, and that some male officers refused to work with her or speak to her after she filed grievance; absent proof of severity and consequences of employee's condition, award of $10,000 was more consistent with awards for comparable injuries. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 207 A.D.2d 585, 615 N.Y.S.2d 531, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8112 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

In proceeding under CLS Exec § 298 in which Department of Correctional Services was found guilty of discriminating against employee on basis of gender, $10,000 compensatory award for hurt, humiliation and mental anguish was excessive where only proof of employee's damages was her statement that she was upset and humiliated as result of department's discriminatory conduct; award of $2,500 was more consistent with awards for comparable injuries, given lack of evidence of duration of employee's condition, and lack of proof that she sought medical treatment. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 207 A.D.2d 587, 615 N.Y.S.2d 499, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8137 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Because of strong state policy underlying broad hiring discretion vested in city and its appointing authorities under CLS Civ S § 61, plaintiff had merely "a hope of appointment" from having passed civil service examination, not legally protectable interest in appointment; thus, award of summary judgment in favor of plaintiff on her cause of action for unlawful disability discrimination against city did not entitle her to award of back pay or other retroactive benefits. Carro v City of New York, 214 A.D.2d 450, 625 N.Y.S.2d 516, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4423 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), reh'g denied, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8602 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't Aug. 3, 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 804, 639 N.Y.S.2d 782, 662 N.E.2d 1072, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 5696 (N.Y. 1995).

In awarding back pay to 63-year-old employee who was wrongfully terminated due to his age, Division of Human Rights should have reduced award by unemployment insurance benefits and social security benefits received by employee. Laverack & Haines, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 217 A.D.2d 955, 629 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8381 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995), rev'd, 88 N.Y.2d 734, 650 N.Y.S.2d 76, 673 N.E.2d 586, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3057 (N.Y. 1996).

Damages awarded for back pay based on racial discrimination were excessive to extent that order of Commissioner of State Division of Human Rights misstated date of complainant's termination as one year prior to correct date. American Int'l Group v Rosa, 224 A.D.2d 179, 637 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 807, 641 N.Y.S.2d 829, 664 N.E.2d 895, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 167 (N.Y. 1996).

It was proper to award $5,000 damages each to complainant and to realtor who represented her, was also black, for petitioner's unlawful discriminatory practice of refusing to sell piece of real property to complainant because of her race. Feggoudakis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 230 A.D.2d 739, 646 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

It was proper to award $2,500 in punitive damages each to complainant and to realtor who represented her, who was also black, for petitioner's unlawful discriminatory practice of refusing to sell piece of real property to complainant because of her race; however, it was error to make same award to second black realtor where her testimony showed only that she was complainant's realtor's employer, and that he recounted to her his dealings with petitioner. Feggoudakis v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 230 A.D.2d 739, 646 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Award of $318,232 in back pay on age discrimination claim, with interest from date of termination, medical expenses in amount of $20,809, and compensatory damages in amount of $250,000, would be modified to reduce compensatory damage award to $50,000 with interest from date of determination, and to award interest on back pay from date of determination, since neither award for compensatory damages nor award of interest from date of termination reflected awards for similar discriminatory conduct. Arbitron Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 232 A.D.2d 321, 648 N.Y.S.2d 577, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10577 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Award of back pay should have been reduced by amount of unemployment insurance petitioner received during period covered by award. Allender v Mercado, 233 A.D.2d 153, 649 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11498 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 1055, 659 N.Y.S.2d 846, 681 N.E.2d 1292, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 765 (N.Y. 1997).

Awards of compensatory damages for back pay, lost wages, lost tips and emotional distress were reasonably related to discriminatory conduct of restaurant in giving Asian waitresses preference over Caucasian waitresses with respect to hours and table assignments. Young Fu Hsu v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 913, 661 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

By reason of "one-in-three" rule of CLS Civ S § 61, only judicially available remedy for respondent's unlawful refusal to hire petitioner based on his arrest record, in violation of NYC Admin Code § 8-108(11), was direction that he be placed on eligible list, if still in existence, and be reconsidered for appointment. Johnson v New York City Comm'n of Human Rights, 270 A.D.2d 186, 706 N.Y.S.2d 18, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3297 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

In action to recover damages for discrimination on basis of disability in violation of CLS Exec § 296 and NYC Admin Code § 8-107, court properly denied defendants' motion to strike plaintiff's demand for punitive damages because, while such recovery was not available under state Human Rights Laws, city retained authority to give plaintiff ability to seek punitive damages, and plaintiff offered evidence that raised question of fact as to whether defendants deliberately discharged her knowing that such discharge violated city law. Umansky v Masterpiece Int'l

Ltd., 276 A.D.2d 692, 715 N.Y.S.2d 638, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10771 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Compensatory damage award of $15,000 to an employee by the Commissioner of the New York Division of Human Rights on her claim of sexual discrimination by sexual harassment creating a hostile work environment against a corporate employer and its owner for sexually offensive, explicit comments made by the owner to the employee during her six months of employment as a car detailer and cleaner was not disturbed in a proceeding for judicial review under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 because the award was consistent with other awards for comparable injuries. Matter of R & B Autobody & Radiator, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 31 A.D.3d 989, 819 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Determination that an employer was guilty of an unlawful discriminatory practice based on terminating an employee due to his disability involving alcoholism was upheld on appeal but the award of back pay to the employee was reversed since the loss of salary was attributable to the disability, not the discrimination. Matter of New York State Off. of Mental Health v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 53 A.D.3d 887, 861 N.Y.S.2d 223, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 713, 873 N.Y.S.2d 268, 901 N.E.2d 762, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3942 (N.Y. 2008).

Employer's contention that an employee's back pay award for discrimination was limited to the one-year period of N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(5) was rejected because, by failing to raise that contention prior to the appeal, the employer implicitly waived the applicability of the limitation. Matter of Rite Aid of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 60 A.D.3d 1428, 875 N.Y.S.2d 708, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2020 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 702, 886 N.Y.S.2d 94, 914 N.E.2d 1012, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. 2009).

Award of $200,000 to a student who had been subjected to racial discrimination at a school was supported by the evidence; however, although the student's mother was entitled to relief, a $200,000 award to her was reduced to $50,000. Injunctive relief ordered by the division was appropriate. Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

Plaintiff was not entitled to attorney's fees expended in obtaining $90,000 judgment on hostile work environment cause of action under New York Human Rights Law, even though she was entitled to award of attorney's fees and costs on Equal Pay Act claim on which jury returned award of $10,000, where it was undisputed that very substantial part of award of attorney's fees covered cost of litigating state hostile work environment sexual harassment cause of action, and plaintiff would not have been entitled to award of attorney's fees if state cause of action had been tried separately. Bonner v Guccione, 178 F.3d 581, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 8286 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999).

In action under CLS Exec § 296, plaintiff's claim that defendant's discriminatory firing caused her to choose to have abortion, and to separate from her husband, would be dismissed for lack of proximate cause. Martinez v Ketchum Advertising Co., 865 F. Supp. 166, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14330 (S.D.N.Y. 1994).

In action under Human Rights law, finding that stress arising from employer's age discrimination against employee aggravated or accelerated progression of employee's Parkinson's symptoms, was not clearly erroneous. Shea v Icelandair, 925 F. Supp. 1014, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5530 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

In action under Human Rights law, record supported finding that stress arising from employer's age discrimination exacerbated employee's heart condition, where employee presented competent expert evidence of causal link between discrimination and onset of angina attacks. Shea v Icelandair, 925 F. Supp. 1014, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5530 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

In action predicated on age discrimination in employment, jury's award of $250,000 for pain and suffering would be reduced to $175,000 where (1) record established that employee suffered physically due to aggravation of his Parkinson's disease and heart condition, but did not establish how rapidly his condition would have deteriorated absent employer's conduct, and (2) employee failed to seek psychiatric help for his emotional distress. Shea v Icelandair, 925 F. Supp. 1014, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5530 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

Action for employment discrimination in violation of Human Rights Law, except for claim for punitive damages, survives employee's death. Estwick v U.S.Air Shuttle, 950 F. Supp. 493, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20104 (E.D.N.Y. 1996).

31. Damages for mental anguish

Appellate Division erred in reducing damages for mental anguish awarded by Division of Human Rights to city transit authority employee for sex discrimination where court (1) did not first determine whether there was evidence to support division's award, (2) accorded no deference to division's assessment of magnitude of employee's injuries, (3) failed to determine how award compared with other awards for similar injuries, and (4) substituted its own view that certain amount would adequately compensate employee. New York City Transit Authority v State Div. of Human Rights, 78 N.Y.2d 207, 573 N.Y.S.2d 49, 577 N.E.2d 40, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1010 (N.Y. 1991).

Even if corporate vendor had discriminated in the sale of homes against would-be purchasers on basis of race and color, $1,500 award of compensatory damages would have been excessive upon the record and would have been reduced to an award of $250 for anguish and humiliation. Pappas v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 45 A.D.2d 973, 359 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4062 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974), rev'd, 37 N.Y.2d 844, 378 N.Y.S.2d 36, 340 N.E.2d 470, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2228 (N.Y. 1975).

Record in its entirety showed that claimant, who had been unlawfully discriminated against by employer on basis of sex, introduced sufficient proof to authorize award of $100 for mental anguish and humiliation even though her testimony as to how she felt as a result of being fired was uncorroborated by medical testimony. 121-129 Broadway Realty, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 49 A.D.2d 422, 376 N.Y.S.2d 17, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11404 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Division is authorized to include, as compensatory damages, award for mental anguish suffered by complainant, which may properly be established by testimony of complainant alone; mental anguish may be established on basis of testimony that complainant was upset by rejection of application, had difficulty sleeping, had serious migraine headaches over extended period of time and that attendance at headache clinic failed to alleviate headaches. Board of Education v State Div. of Human Rights, 109 A.D.2d 988, 486 N.Y.S.2d 469, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47486 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

In proceeding under Human Rights Law, complainant's testimony that he "felt discriminated against," "felt very distressed," and "went through a very emotional period" did not support award of $10,000 for mental anguish, where he did not show how long or how often he suffered these effects and there was insufficient evidence that medical attention was required. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Fowlkes v Goodwill Industries, Inc., 129 A.D.2d 995, 514 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45685 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 1001, 526 N.Y.S.2d 435, 521 N.E.2d 442, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 155 (N.Y. 1988).

Compensatory damages of $10,000 awarded for mental anguish in discrimination action, increased by Commissioner of Human Services from original award of $1,500, were grossly excessive and would be reduced to $1,500 where complainant testified that she was upset for about one month following property owners' refusal to rent her an apartment, and that during this period she suffered headaches for which she took aspirin, but at no time sought medical treatment. Almeter v State Div. of Human Rights, 133 A.D.2d 530, 519 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50011 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

College employee's testimony regarding persistent daily sexual harassment during her employment at college, and significant physical manifestations that resulted from her emotional distress, so affecting her that she was unable to attend college during following semester, was clearly sufficient to establish mental anguish and humiliation, but award of $150,000 in compensatory damages for mental anguish was excessive and would be reduced to $100,000. Award of back pay in action against college for discrimination would be reduced to limit compensation to period of 1 ½ years following unlawful termination since respondent testified that she expected to remain in job only as long as she was student and that she expected to be student for only additional 1 ½ years before obtaining college degree. SUNY College of Environmental Science & Forestry v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 962, 534 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14449 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Complainant was not entitled to award of $5,000 for mental anguish solely on basis of his testimony that he was "depressed" after he was unlawfully denied employment due to disability. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v New York Executive Dept., State Div. of Human Rights, 147 A.D.2d 575, 537 N.Y.S.2d 868, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1605 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Award of $35,000 for mental anguish in employment discrimination case was grossly excessive, and on remittitur should be reduced to no more than $5,000, despite "constant and blatant" nature of racial discrimination against complainant, where sole evidence of mental anguish was complainant's own testimony that she was "emotionally and physically screwed up" and there was no evidence of duration of her condition, its severity or consequences, or its treatment. Cosmos Forms, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 150 A.D.2d 442, 541 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Award of $25,000 for mental anguish and humiliation suffered by caucasian respondent who was denied apartment rental in violation of Human Rights Law because her 2 sons were black was grossly excessive, and would be reduced to $2,500, although respondent testified that she was hurt and upset by discrimination, where she sought no medical treatment as result of incident and record was devoid of evidence of physical symptoms. Moore v State Div. of Human Rights, 154 A.D.2d 823, 546 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12709 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Determination of State Human Rights Commissioner that complainant was entitled to compensatory damages for mental anguish as consequence of discriminatory rejection of her application for membership in volunteer fire department was not supported by record, which showed that complainant never sought medical treatment for alleged mental anguish. Marcellus Volunteer Fire Dep't v Stock, 155 A.D.2d 982, 548 N.Y.S.2d 127, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14872 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

In proceeding pursuant to CLS Exec § 298 to review award for race discrimination, court would vacate award for mental anguish and humiliation in amount of $10,000, and would remit for new award not to exceed $5,000, where sole evidence of mental anguish and humiliation was complainant's testimony that she was "shocked" and "devastated" by her termination, that she was in "real pickle," and that she felt bad. Quality Care v Rosa, 194 A.D.2d 610, 599 N.Y.S.2d 65, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5597 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

In proceeding under Human Rights Law against nursing home that unlawfully discriminated against complainant by placing him in strict isolation because he tested HIV-seropositive, complainant's testimony was sufficient to support award of compensatory damages for mental anguish; expert medical or other corroborative testimony was not required. Marcus Garvey Nursing Home v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 209 A.D.2d 619, 619 N.Y.S.2d 106, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11465 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

In proceeding under Human Rights Law against nursing home that unlawfully discriminated against complainant by placing him in strict isolation because he tested HIV-seropositive, compensatory award of $150,000 was excessive, even though complainant presented evidence that he was lonely, depressed, agitated and generally tearful as result of his isolation, which endured for 9 ½ months, where there was no evidence as to severity or consequences of his condition, or that he sought medical treatment for it; in light of similar cases, award should not exceed $75,000. Marcus Garvey Nursing Home v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 209 A.D.2d 619, 619 N.Y.S.2d 106, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11465 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Award of $25,000 in compensatory damages for emotional distress and humiliation as result of unlawful racial discrimination was excessive where sole evidence of such damages was complainant's testimony that employer's unlawful conduct made him feel "victimized, ambushed and abandoned" and caused him to withdraw from relationships with his friends and family, that he was unable to pay court-ordered child support or to provide entertain-ment for his 3 children, and that he could not complete purchase of items he had ordered prior to his termination and forfeited $1,000 deposit on automobile; appropriate award in such case was $15,000. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 215 A.D.2d 908, 626 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

In order to sustain award for mental anguish, there must be evidence that mental anguish was caused by discriminatory practice, and there must be some evidence of magnitude of injury. Van Cleef Realty v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 306, 627 N.Y.S.2d 744, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5928 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Damage award of $30,000 for mental anguish suffered by couple who experienced racial steering in rental of housing was excessive where couple was not subjected to prolonged discrimination, their contact with realtor was limited to one-time encounter, realtor's conduct did not affect their ability to find housing, they were not subjected to rude or egregious racial epithets, they adduced no evidence as to duration or magnitude of their mental anguish, and their testimony was limited to single assertion each of distress they felt; proper award would not exceed $5,000. Van Cleef Realty v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 306, 627 N.Y.S.2d 744, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5928 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Employee, who was wrongfully terminated due to his age, was entitled to award in amount of $10,000 for mental anguish based on his testimony that he was "frightened to death" not to have job at age 63, and that he suffered loss of sleep and appetite. Laverack & Haines, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 217 A.D.2d 955, 629 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8381 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995), rev'd, 88 N.Y.2d 734, 650 N.Y.S.2d 76, 673 N.E.2d 586, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3057 (N.Y. 1996).

Award of $25,000 to complainant who had been discriminated against on basis of her pregnancy was excessive where discriminatory conduct was limited to single encounter at which complainant's co-workers were not present, complainant was not subjected to rude or egregious treatment that might have aggravated her mental anguish, and complainant adduced no evidence of duration or magnitude of her mental anguish; matter would be remitted to Division of Human Rights for imposition of new award not to exceed $5,000. A.S.A.P. Personnel Servs. v Rosa, 219 A.D.2d 648, 631 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9285 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In order to sustain award of damages for mental anguish resulting from discrimination, there must be evidence that mental anguish was caused by discriminatory practice, and there must be some evidence of magnitude of injury. A.S.A.P. Personnel Servs. v Rosa, 219 A.D.2d 648, 631 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9285 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Award of $200,000 for mental anguish as result of sexual employment discrimination was excessive and should not have exceeded $5,000 where complainant's discussion of her mental anguish was brief, and there was no evidence as to duration of her condition, its severity or consequences, or evidence of treatment. Port Wash. Police Dist. v State Div. of Human Rights, 221 A.D.2d 639, 634 N.Y.S.2d 195, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12381 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 807, 647 N.Y.S.2d 165, 670 N.E.2d 449, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1624 (N.Y. 1996).

Compensatory damages for mental anguish in amount of $50,000 for loss of employment opportunity was excessive where respondent never sought medical treatment as result of petitioners' discriminating conduct in disqualifying him for position of firefighter on basis of physical disability; award of $10,000 was appropriate under circumstances. City of Fulton v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 221 A.D.2d 971, 633 N.Y.S.2d 914, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13462 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995).

Damage award of $50,000 for mental anguish arising from racial discrimination in employment was excessive and would be reduced to $5,000. American Int'l Group v Rosa, 224 A.D.2d 179, 637 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 807, 641 N.Y.S.2d 829, 664 N.E.2d 895, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 167 (N.Y. 1996).

Award of $300,000 for mental anguish and compensatory damages was appropriate in light of petitioner's employees' constant, egregious, and blatant discriminatory conduct. Tiffany & Co. v Smith, 224 A.D.2d 332, 638 N.Y.S.2d 454, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1456 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 806, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1723 (N.Y. 1996).

Administrative Law Judge abused his discretion in refusing employer's request to have complainant examined by its psychiatrist where complainant had alleged serious psychiatric injuries as result of discrimination; any alleged difficulties complainant might experience with examination could be mitigated by imposition of reasonable conditions. Carrier Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 224 A.D.2d 936, 637 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1572 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

It was not excessive to award $10,000 as compensatory damages for mental anguish due to unlawful discriminatory practice of terminating complainant from employment because of her gender and gender-specific disability (pregnancy). Heidie Tuxedos & Formals v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 224 A.D.2d 1022, 638 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1700 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Award of $25,000 against Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority, representing compensatory damages for mental anguish and humiliation for employment discrimination based on petitioner's disability, was excessive where employee testified that, as result of discriminatory acts, he felt "very upset" and "very angry," and he was reluctant to wear his hearing aids during other interviews; such testimony only supported award of up to $7,500. Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 553, 638 N.Y.S.2d 761, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1938 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

African-American correctional officer established entitlement to award for mental anguish and humiliation for racial discrimination suffered at hands of his supervisor over 2-year period where supervisor had negative attitude toward minorities, he consistently exhibited such attitude to his subordinates in work place, he repeatedly verbally harassed and humiliated officer in front of other officers, civilian bus drivers and prisoners, he pressured him to violate regulations, and he ordered officer to sit with prisoners during transportation assignments for periods of 12 to 15 hours in defiance of regulations requiring officer rotation every 30 minutes; however, award of $100,000 was excessive and would be reduced to $35,000 given lack of proof of severity, consequences and duration of effects which supervisor's negative conduct had on officer. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 856, 638 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Award of $150,000 for mental anguish and humiliation as result of unlawful age discrimination was excessive and would be reduced to $100,000. Boutique Indus. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 228 A.D.2d 171, 643 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6283 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Award of $50,000 for mental anguish to employee who was terminated by her employer because she was pregnant did not "appear to be inappropriate." State Div. of Human Rights v Demi Lass Ltd., 232 A.D.2d 335, 648 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11215 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Complainant's testimony as to her feelings of embarrassment, humiliation and inadequacy, together with her testimony as to adverse physical effects of weight loss and inability to find comparable employment for almost 2 years as result of hostile work environment and discriminatory discharge, supported claim for mental anguish. Bronx County Medical Group, P.C. v Lassen, 233 A.D.2d 234, 650 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11988 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 813, 658 N.Y.S.2d 243, 680 N.E.2d 617, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 474 (N.Y. 1997).

Award of $250,000 for mental anguish as result of hostile work environment and discriminatory discharge was excessive and would be reduced to $25,000. Bronx County Medical Group, P.C. v Lassen, 233 A.D.2d 234, 650 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11988 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 813, 658 N.Y.S.2d 243, 680 N.E.2d 617, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 474 (N.Y. 1997).

In discrimination cases, awards for emotional distress are not dependent on psychiatric or other medical evidence. Young Fu Hsu v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 241 A.D.2d 913, 661 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Award of $20,000 for mental anguish was excessive where complainant testified that, as a result of petitioner's racially discriminatory conduct in handling her employment application, she "felt hurt" and was generally irritable, remained in bed, and suffered from headaches and stomach distress for which she took Tylenol and Alka Seltzer, she testified that her fear of rejection made her postpone job-seeking activities for 2 months, and she did not seek medical treatment; award of $10,000 was appropriate. Buffalo Ath. Club v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 249 A.D.2d 986, 672 N.Y.S.2d 210, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5148 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

$20,000 in compensatory damages for mental anguish, awarded to respondent who was wrongfully disqualified from civil service eligibility list in violation of Human Rights Law, was unsupported by evidence and would be reduced to $10,000 where respondent stated only that he was "hurt," "angry," and "emotional" at being denied employment he believed would offer job security for him and his family. City of New York v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 250 A.D.2d 273, 682 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13953 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), modified, 93 N.Y.2d 768, 698 N.Y.S.2d 594, 720 N.E.2d 870, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3434 (N.Y. 1999).

Award of $7,500 for mental anguish and humiliation, imposed against dentist who discriminated against patient based on his HIV-positive status by overcharging him for routine cleaning, was excessive and would be reduced to $1,000. Cerio v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 258 A.D.2d 873, 684 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1485 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Damages for mental anguish would be reduced from $30,000 to $10,000 for job discrimination against employee of Department of Correctional Services where she claimed to have been embarrassed, depressed, paranoid and concerned about how she would pay her bills, but her only physical symptom was feeling of weakness and she never sought medical or psychiatric treatment. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 265 A.D.2d 809, 695 N.Y.S.2d 647, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9838 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

In action against Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority for unlawful racial discrimination in failing to hire complainant for 2 positions for which she applied, award of damages for mental anguish and humiliation would be vacated, and case would be remitted for recalculation of such damages, where she proved discrimination as to only one position, and record did not specify any relation between award and any particular position. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

In action against Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority for unlawful racial discrimination in failing to hire complainant for 2 positions for which she applied, case would be remitted for recalculation of back pay award where she proved discrimination as to only one position, and thus back pay had to calculated using date and salary for that position rather than other position. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 275 A.D.2d 922, 713 N.Y.S.2d 631, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Award of damages for mental anguish was upheld where petitioners suffered from major depression, panic disorder and posttraumatic stress disorder that were causally related to hostile work environment condoned by respondent employer, and incidents of harassment and discrimination by co-workers were numerous and continuous throughout petitioners' employment and included threats of physical harm. Kondracke v Blue, 277 A.D.2d 953, 716 N.Y.S.2d 533, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11599 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Claimant's testimony as to severity and duration of her mental anguish, even unsubstantiated by medical or other objective evidence, supported award of $50,000 for emotional distress, where employer's acts of unlawful discrimination included sexual harassment by claimant's immediate supervisor over 4-month period, failure to act on her formal complaints to her superiors, including employer's equal opportunity office, and retaliation for such complaints by disciplining her twice and ultimately terminating her. City of New York v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 283 A.D.2d 215, 728 N.Y.S.2d 367, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Sexual harassment damage award of $50,000 for mental anguish and humiliation was excessive where there was no proof of severity and consequences of complainant's condition; thus, award of $20,000 was appropriate. State v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 284 A.D.2d 882, 727 N.Y.S.2d 499, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6888 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Award of $15,000 for mental anguish and humiliation for employment discrimination was excessive because the employee sought no medical treatment and her testimony in support of that award was sparse; an award of $5,000 was the maximum award supported by the evidence. Matter of Rite Aid of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 60 A.D.3d 1428, 875 N.Y.S.2d 708, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2020 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 702, 886 N.Y.S.2d 94, 914 N.E.2d 1012, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. 2009).

Employee's award for mental anguish and humiliation in an employment discrimination claim was reduced from $50,000 to $25,000 under circumstances in which the only evidence of the employee's mental anguish was the testimony of the employee and his sister, who testified that as a result of the hostile work environment, the employee felt "hurt," "angry," and "frustrated," became "somewhat depressed," "emotional," "withdrawn," and "traumatized," and that, once the employee left his employment he felt better; there were no physical manifestations of the employee's anguish, and he did not seek out a medical professional. The amount awarded was not similar to comparable awards for similar injuries. Matter of Gold Coast Rest. Corp. v Gibson, 67 A.D.3d 798, 888 N.Y.S.2d 186, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8082 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

State Division of Human Rights' (SDHR) award of damages to a landlord's prospective tenants, after finding the landlord discriminated against them on the basis of race in the leasing of housing, was not excessive as the tenants both testified to the mental anguish they suffered as a result of the landlord's discriminatory action, and, as the SDHR had broad powers to fulfill the extremely strong statutory policy of eliminating discrimination, its punitive damages award was not disturbed. Matteo v N.Y. State Div. of Human Rights, 306 A.D.2d 484, 761 N.Y.S.2d 517, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7418 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Where the evidence established that a former employee, who was then in high school, had been sexually harassed by her supervisor and forced to have intercourse with him, an award of $500,000 to her for mental anguish was reduced to $50,000. The award was excessive because after two counseling sessions, she required no further medical or psychological treatment, and within several months was able to return to work for a different employer Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

Compensatory damages of $35,000 for complainant one, $ 65,000 for complainant two and $ 50,000 for complainant three awarded for mental anguish and humiliation were not excessive as each complainant testified that she suffered significant emotional distress and fear as a result of the sexual harassment she endured, and there was sufficient proof of the severity and duration of that distress to sustain the damages awarded; the awards were well within the range established by similar cases. Matter of Stellar Dental Mgt. LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 162 A.D.3d 1655, 80 N.Y.S.3d 757, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4423 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2018).

Compensatory damages for police officer's emotional pain and suffering which he suffered due to wrongful termination were recoverable under Executive Law as non-economic damages, and should be contrasted with economic damages of back pay and lost benefits actually awarded to officer as incidental to his reinstatement. Antonsen v Ward, 943 F.2d 198, 1991 U.S. App. LEXIS 19483 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1991).

Employer's motion for new trial is granted unless former employee agrees to remittitur reducing award of compensatory damages from $219,428 to $20,000, even though employee testified as to his mental anguish and charge on compensatory damages was correct, because there plainly was insufficient evidence of emotional injury to support such large award, which was grossly disproportionate to awards in similar cases. McIntosh v Irving Trust Co., 887 F. Supp. 662, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7700 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

In action by employee who was discharged in retaliation for his complaints of race discrimination, award of $219,428 in compensatory damages for pain, suffering and humiliation was excessive where sole evidence as to magnitude and duration of employee's emotional injury or mental distress was his own testimony that he felt "humiliated," "angry," "shocked," "like dirt," and "terrible" during certain incidents at work, that he stayed home sick from work for several days and saw doctor once due to ailments related to nervous tension, and that he was "devastated" when he was discharged; new trial would be ordered unless employee agreed to reduced award of $20,000. McIntosh v Irving Trust Co., 887 F. Supp. 662, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7700 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

32. Mitigation of damages

Record of proceeding before State Human Rights Division on appeal and on review demonstrated that, had complainant accepted employment offered, her damages would have been minimal, if not eliminated. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 59 A.D.2d 1048, 399 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14335 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In an action for compensatory damages for discrimination based upon age brought by an interim acting principal who retired rather than accept an assistant principal position when his application for the position of principal was denied on grounds of age, compensatory damages should be measured by the difference between the amount that petitioner would have received in salary had he resumed employment as an assistant principal and the amount of pension benefits that he will receive as a former assistant principal rather than the difference between what he would have received as assistant principal and what he would have received as principal. New York City Bd. of Education v Sears, 83 A.D.2d 959, 443 N.Y.S.2d 23, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15412 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

On proof of discriminatory discharge of employee in temporary CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) project which was scheduled to end on particular date, employee was entitled only to damages consisting of amount he would have earned if had worked until project's completion, less his earnings and unemployment compensation received during same period; damage award should not have been determined on basis of amount of compensation employee would have received had he been offered seasonal employment where there was no evidence that he would have been offered such employment were it not for illegal discrimination. County of Nassau v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 123 A.D.2d 341, 506 N.Y.S.2d 353, 506 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60116 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

In proceeding under Human Rights Law involving employment discrimination because of disability, back pay award should have been reduced by amount of disability payments made to complainant for period during which she was wrongfully disqualified from her position as school bus driver. Bayport-Blue Point School Dist. v State Div. of Human Rights, 131 A.D.2d 849, 517 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48286 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Award of back pay in employment discrimination case from complainant's discharge until her reinstatement by her employer constituted punitive assessment rather than compensation where complainant obtained new employment at same pay several months after discharge; award of back pay required reduction to cover only period that complainant was out of work as result of her unlawful discharge. Cosmos Forms, Ltd. v State Div. of Human Rights, 150 A.D.2d 442, 541 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In proceeding pursuant to CLS Exec § 298 to review decision of Division of Human Rights which found that petitioner had discriminated against respondent on basis of age, award for back pay would be decreased by amount received by respondent for unemployment and severance payments subsequent to his termination. Grumman Aerospace Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 151 A.D.2d 573, 542 N.Y.S.2d 681, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7898 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Although substantial evidence supported determination of Commissioner of Human Rights that complainant's employment was terminated solely due to her pregnancy, her backpay award should have been reduced to reflect fact that she obtained other employment. Empbanque Capital Corp. v White, 158 A.D.2d 686, 551 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2356 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Time limit for commencement of enforcement proceedings in CLS Exec § 298 does not apply to Division of Human Rights. New York State Div. of Human Rights v Soundview Instruments, 206 A.D.2d 961, 616 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7667 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

33. Exhaustion of administrative remedies

The court will not grant judicial review of a non-final order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board pursuant to § 298 of the Executive Law inasmuch as the complainants must exhaust their administrative remedies before seeking judicial review as aggrieved parties. New York Urban League v Speer, 40 A.D.2d 689, 336 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3787 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972).

Employees were not required to exhaust their contractual remedies under collective bargaining agreement before seeking relief for alleged sex discrimination through the Division of Human Rights. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ellis v Jamestown Tel. Corp., 53 A.D.2d 1061, 386 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15880 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 848, 397 N.Y.S.2d 630, 366 N.E.2d 290, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1977).

Judicial review of proceedings of the Division of Human Rights by way of a motion for prohibition should not be entertained before the petitioner has exhausted its administrative remedies. Tessy Plastics Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 62 A.D.2d 36, 403 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10415 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978), aff'd, 47 N.Y.2d 789, 417 N.Y.S.2d 926, 391 N.E.2d 1007, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2058 (N.Y. 1979).

Failure of employer to file timely notices of appeal from orders of human rights appeals board under CLS Executive § 297-a precludes employer from seeking review of orders in court. In re United Parcel Service, Inc., 112 A.D.2d 307, 491 N.Y.S.2d 754, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56267 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

In action to recover damages for unlawful discrimination based on marital status, plaintiff was not required to exhaust administrative remedies before commencing action in Supreme Court, even though Division of Human Rights is administrative agency charged with investigating and remedying discriminatory practices, since victims of discriminatory practices are given choice as to forum in which they may seek relief. Ness v Pan American World Airways, 142 A.D.2d 233, 535 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12457 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Human rights division's issuance of determination of probable cause that 38-year-old city fire fighter had been dismissed because of age was not judicially reviewable in proceeding by city under CLS Exec § 298 since (1) amendment limiting such proceedings to review of final administrative determinations was expressly applicable to actions then pending and (2) although Supreme Court had issued opinion prior to effective date of statute that matter was reviewable, judgment granting petition was not entered until after amendment's effective date; action or proceeding is terminated by entry of judgment. Albany v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 157 A.D.2d 1008, 550 N.Y.S.2d 488, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 587 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of cook's employment at state correctional facility as arbitrary and capricious was barred for failure to exhaust Executive Law administrative remedies, in view of fact that terminated cook had filed complaint with State Human Rights Division alleging that her termination was the product of unlawful discriminatory practices. Cox v Carey, 90 Misc. 2d 688, 395 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2134 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

School district could not have a public hearing enjoined on a probable cause determination by the New York State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) that it engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(14) by not allowing a hearing impaired student to use a service dog as the district could not claim res judicata or collateral estoppel on the issue as the parents' separate action in federal district court did not include the SDHR as a party; the district had also not exhausted its administrative remedies under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 as the public hearing had not yet been held. E. Meadow Union Free Sch. Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 238 N.Y.L.J. 36, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6004 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Aug. 7, 2007).

34. Time limitations, generally

The 30-day statutory period of limitations in § 298 of the Executive Law was not intended to mean that the court is without jurisdiction to examine the merits of the Division's order when the Division seeks from the court affirmative court action in the form of an enforcement order. Hempstead Volunteer Fire Dep't v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 35 A.D.2d 601, 313 N.Y.S.2d 814, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3955 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Order of State Division of Human Rights could not be enforced after 2 year effective period thereof had expired, where no explanation was offered for delay in seeking enforcement, and where court had no statutory authority to extend effective time period as provided by commissioner. State Div. of Human Rights v Jakoblew, 41 A.D.2d 889, 343 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4732 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Although petitioner's notice of motion and petition, appealing from determination of Division of Human Rights, were untimely filed by one day, where papers were timely filed by respondent Division, matter would be disposed of on its merits. McGrath v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 52 A.D.2d 1027, 383 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12931 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Where complaint, alleging sex discrimination as a result of employer's refusal to apply accrued sick leave benefits to maternity leave absence of employee, was filed more than a year after her voluntary resignation and there was no basis for tolling the one-year statute of limitations, complaint, which was filed more than a year after cessation of the alleged continuing discriminatory practice, was time barred. Protracted administrative delays in implementation of provisions of human rights law, arising by virtue of seven-month delinquency in determination by State Division of Human Rights of jurisdiction and probable cause, nine-month delinquency in giving of notice, eight-month delinquency in holding of public hearing, 87-day delinquency in issuance of Division's determination, and delay in notifying parties of appeal board's decision, resulting in expiration of period in excess of three years from date of filing of complaint until date of serving of decision and order of appeal board, constituted, as matter of law, prejudice to named proceeding respondents, warranting exercise of equitable powers of judiciary to divest Division of Jurisdiction conferred by human rights law. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bailey v Board of Education, 53 A.D.2d 1043, 386 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15855 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 862, 397 N.Y.S.2d 791, 366 N.E.2d 878, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2186 (N.Y. 1977).

Complaints alleging sex discriminations in employment were not subject to being dismissed because the State Division of Human Rights failed to comply with 60-day provision contained in the Executive Law with respect to serving notice as to answer and hearing after receiving complaints. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Ellis v Jamestown Tel. Corp., 53 A.D.2d 1061, 386 N.Y.S.2d 141, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15880 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 848, 397 N.Y.S.2d 630, 366 N.E.2d 290, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1977).

Appeal from Division of Human Rights filed more than 15 days after service of Division's determination on complaint's attorney was untimely and failure of complainant to receive notice of Division's determination was immaterial. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Green v Shenango, Inc., 55 A.D.2d 852, 390 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15672 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Although the time limitations imposed by section 298 of the Executive Law are directory rather than mandatory, protracted administrative delays in the implementation of the provisions of the Human Rights Law might warrant divestiture of the State Division of Human Rights' jurisdiction. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 61 A.D.2d 25, 401 N.Y.S.2d 619, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9698 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978).

A proceeding to enforce an unappealed award against the New York State Parks and Recreation Commission representing back pay with interest and an award for mental anguish suffered as a result of that Commission's refusal to hire on the basis of religion would not be time-barred under the provision of § 298 that a "proceeding under this section when instituted by any complainant, respondent or other person aggrieved" be commenced within 30 days of service of the Commissioner of Human Rights's order, since that language refers to a proceeding for judicial review of an order of the Commissioner of Human Rights, and does not apply to a proceeding for judicial enforcement of section order, which only the Commissioner of Human Rights is authorized under the statute to bring. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Geraci v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 90 A.D.2d 51, 456 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Petitioner could not seek review of the finding of no probable cause to believe that an airline had discriminated against him on the basis of his creed by denying his request for time to attend a precana conference, where the determination issued by the State Division of Human Rights finding no probable cause indicated that any party could appeal the order within 15 days after service, and where petitioner failed to do so. Vola v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 96 A.D.2d 513, 464 N.Y.S.2d 817, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19022 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

A petition to review a determination of the State Human Rights Appeal Board affirming an order of the State Division of Human Rights, which involved a complaint of an unlawful discriminatory practice based on age and sex, would be dismissed where petitioner failed to commence the proceeding by the filing and service of a notice of motion and petition within 30 days of the service of the appeal board's order, as required by Exec Law § 298. Miller v General Electric Co., 102 A.D.2d 966, 477 N.Y.S.2d 834, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19214 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Determination of New York State Division of Human Rights dismissing petition charging discriminatory discharge was proper where cause of action accrued on December 22, 1981, when she was discharged, and complaint was not filed until December 30, 1982, since complaint was not filed within one year after alleged discriminatory practice occurred. Morehead v Lind, 112 A.D.2d 996, 492 N.Y.S.2d 804, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52206 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Date of institution of proceeding in Appellate Division to review administrative decision pursuant to CLS Executive Law § 298 is date of actual receipt of papers by court for filing. Cortland v White, 114 A.D.2d 641, 494 N.Y.S.2d 478, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985), app. denied, 67 N.Y.2d 601, 499 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 490 N.E.2d 555, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 16679 (N.Y. 1986).

Where Commissioner of Division of Human Rights was agency's general counsel at time charges were investigated and set down for hearing, she could not, having subsequently been named commissioner, act as impartial arbiter in same matter, notwithstanding that she was no longer general counsel at time of hearing. State Div. of Human Rights v Dorik's Au Natural Restaurant, 203 A.D.2d 163, 610 N.Y.S.2d 266, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4123 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Court would annul determination of Commissioner of Human Rights finding that employer engaged in unlawful discrimination where (1) public hearing did not commence until 7 years after complaint was filed, and commissioner's determination was not issued until nearly 4 years later, (2) delay was attributable to Division of Human Rights without explanation, and (3) during delay, employer lost access to 2 individuals who would have been called as witnesses, and it also lost access to documentary evidence that would have been used in its defense. Pepsico, Inc. v Rosa, 213 A.D.2d 550, 624 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4449 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 86 N.Y.2d 837, 634 N.Y.S.2d 445, 658 N.E.2d 223, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3707 (N.Y. 1995), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 442, 658 N.E.2d 220, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3708 (N.Y. 1995).

Proceeding brought by African-American correctional officer under CLS Exec § 298 alleging racial discrimination by his supervisor was timely commenced where he alleged that acts complained of occurred consistently during entire 2-year period during which officer was under supervisor's direct supervision, and officer brought complaint promptly after he was transferred. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 225 A.D.2d 856, 638 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Complaints filed more than one year after complainants' allegedly discriminatory discharges from employment were time-barred under CLS Exec § 297(5). Garrison v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 591, 656 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4427 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Age discrimination claimants' allegations that employer declined to hire them for new positions after they had been discharged did not convert their discharge claims into claims for continuing violations such that limitations period would be tolled. Garrison v State Div. of Human Rights, 238 A.D.2d 591, 656 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4427 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Plaintiffs' claims against the New York State Division of Human Rights, alleging that a settlement agreement entered into between the parties was void due to the Division's lack of authority to enter into it without first determining that there was probable cause to believe that plaintiffs engaged in an unlawful discriminating practice, and due to the allegation that it was entered into under duress, were dismissed where they were not raised in a timely manner under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298. Ken-Vil Assoc. Ltd. Partnership v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 100 A.D.3d 1390, 954 N.Y.S.2d 294, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7446 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2012).

Delay in a determination by the State Division of Human Rights that found the Department of Corrections (DOC) guilty of an unlawful discriminatory practice was prejudicial and constituted an abuse of discretion because the time that elapsed from the employee's initial complaint until issuance of the final order was more than 18 years, the DOC did not contribute to the delay, and the complaint presented issues that were relatively simple and straightforward. Matter of New York State Dept. of Corr. & Community Supervision v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 137 A.D.3d 1512, 29 N.Y.S.3d 558, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2380 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

In action alleging discharge from employment due to racial discrimination fact that plaintiff did not commence action within time period specified by Exec Law § 298 after review of decision by New York State Human Rights Appeals Board did not bar suit since actions under 42 USCS § 1981 are not actions to review decision of state administrative agency but plenary action involving trial de novo of alleged discriminatory conduct with 3-year period of limitation. Clark v Times Square Stores Corp., 469 F. Supp. 654, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12746 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

In civil rights case alleging employment discrimination in violation of Equal Protection Clause and Due Process Clause, appropriate interests involved are sufficiently protected by application of 3-year limitation period; contention that such claims deserves special consideration preserving them from dismissal on limitations grounds is in conflict with use of even shorter periods Congress deems reasonable for prosecution of typical federal employment discrimination actions and limitations periods for employment-related questions set by Executive Law. Fiesel v Board of Education, 490 F. Supp. 363, 1980 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11613 (E.D.N.Y. 1980), reh'g denied, 524 F. Supp. 48, 1981 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14737 (E.D.N.Y. 1981), aff'd, 675 F.2d 522, 1982 U.S. App. LEXIS 20249 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1982).

Employment discrimination claim was not time barred where Division of Human Rights dismissed complaint for administrative convenience because employee wished to pursue court action, and action was filed within 3-year period for bringing plenary action under Human Rights Law; employer was collaterally estopped from asserting that administrative complaint should have been dismissed on basis that it was not timely filed under administrative statute of limitations. Ryan v New York State Thruway Auth., 889 F. Supp. 70, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9052 (N.D.N.Y. 1995).

35. Time limitations as directory not mandatory

Even though time limitations contained in Executive Law § 297, subd 4(a), (c) are directive and not mandatory, valid complaint for discriminatory housing practices was dismissed where delay of 5 months, 16 months, and 3 years respectively in hearing of complaint by division, in making determination and order by division, and in appeal board's affirmance of division's order, were unconscionable and so flagrant as to be prejudicial in law to respondent. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Salamy v Rinas, 42 A.D.2d 388, 348 N.Y.S.2d 422, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Where relatively minor delays occur, statutory time limitations of Executive Law governing proceedings before State Division of Human Rights are directory rather than mandatory and noncompliance by Division is not cause for invalidating its proceedings or terminating its jurisdiction; however, protracted administrative delays in implementation of provisions of human rights law will constitute, as matter of law, prejudice to named proceeding respondents, warranting exercise of equitable powers of judiciary to divest Division of jurisdiction conferred by human rights law. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Bailey v Board of Education, 53 A.D.2d 1043, 386 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15855 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 862, 397 N.Y.S.2d 791, 366 N.E.2d 878, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2186 (N.Y. 1977).

Determination of Division of Human Rights, which held that employer had discriminated against employee because of her sex by denying her pregnancy-related disability benefits, would be confirmed in proceeding pursuant to CLS Exec § 298, even though there had been substantial delay in proceedings, since time limitations enunciated in CLS Exec § 297 are directory, rather than mandatory, and are for benefit of complainants rather than violators, and since commissioner legitimately found that correspondence between division and employee's attorney reflected desire of attorney to stay proceedings pending resolution of employee's workers' compensation claim, rather than withdrawal of claim. Art Leather Mfg. Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 144 A.D.2d 406, 533 N.Y.S.2d 1018, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11795 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Although time schedules set forth in CLS Exec § 297 are directory only, and noncompliance with them does not operate to oust State Division of Human Rights of jurisdiction absent some showing of substantial prejudice, unexplained 8 ½ -year delay between filing of complaint in proceeding under CLS Exec § 298 and commissioner's final determination caused substantial prejudice to employer, requiring annulment of award, since employer was thereby subjected to exposure for 8 ½ -year award of back pay. Corning Glass Works v Ovsanik, 199 A.D.2d 959, 606 N.Y.S.2d 475, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12540 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993), modified, aff'd, 84 N.Y.2d 619, 620 N.Y.S.2d 771, 644 N.E.2d 1327, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4438 (N.Y. 1994).

Delay of some 4 years from time of hearing to final determination of Division of Human Rights was not substantially prejudicial as matter of law so as to warrant dismissal of petition. Comor v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 231 A.D.2d 715, 647 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9693 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Former employee's 2003 claim under N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 against her corporate employer and its owner for sexual harassment by creating a hostile work environment that arose out of six months of employment in 1991 and 1992 was not untimely because the time limits contained in N.Y. Exec. Law § 297 were directory only; in the absence of prejudice, which the owner and employer failed to demonstrate, the time limits did not affect the jurisdiction of the New York Division of Human Rights over the employee's claim. Matter of R & B Autobody & Radiator, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 31 A.D.3d 989, 819 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9469 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

36. Specific allowance of time for mailing of service

Although the facts established that the petition for review was served and filed beyond the 30-day period allowed under the statute therefor when by mail, the merits of the Division of Human Rights' order may be considered when the Division seeks from the court affirmative action in the form of an enforcement order. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Washington v Ganley, 37 A.D.2d 983, 327 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2978 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1971).

Supreme Court, Appellate Division, did not have jurisdiction of special proceeding to review an order of the State Division and Appeal Board dismissing complaint of discrimination where petition and notice were not filed until several days after statutory period of 30 days, plus three days allowed because of service by mail, had elapsed. Denson v Buffalo Evening News, Inc., 45 A.D.2d 931, 357 N.Y.S.2d 328, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4502 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Service of determination of the Division of Human Rights on complainant in employment discrimination case was complete when it was deposited for mailing, and complainant had 18 days from the date of mailing in which to appeal. State Div. of Human Rights v Xerox Corp., 57 A.D.2d 1069, 395 N.Y.S.2d 828, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12383 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Petition to review order of the Human Rights Appeal Board affirming dismissal of a complaint for lack of probable cause was untimely and would be dismissed where order was entered and mailed to petitioner on April 19, 1977, and petition was not filed until June 3, 1977. Caraballo v State Div. on Human Rights, 59 A.D.2d 871, 399 N.Y.S.2d 238, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14046 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

37. Res judicata

The determination of the New York State Division of Human Rights that complainant was terminated from her employment on the basis of race was properly affirmed, notwithstanding the employer's contention that the previous determination of the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board that complainant had been terminated for her own misconduct barred her from bringing the instant proceeding, where, inter alia, complainant was not represented by counsel in the previous proceeding, which involved a comparatively small claim, and where a full and fair opportunity to litigate the racial allegation was not afforded her. Board of Education v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 106 A.D.2d 364, 482 N.Y.S.2d 495, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21403 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Determination by Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board that petitioner was "employee" for purposes of his claim for unemployment insurance benefits does not collaterally estop Division of Human Rights from determining that petitioner is independent contractor for purposes of age discrimination suit, since, inasmuch as issue of unemployment is ultimate fact, resolution of which is committed to discretion of board and division under independent bodies of law, there is no identity of issue in board's finding of employment that automatically mandates similar finding by division. Engel v Calgon Corp., 114 A.D.2d 108, 498 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 63686 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 69 N.Y.2d 753, 512 N.Y.S.2d 801, 505 N.E.2d 244, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15324 (N.Y. 1987).

Proceeding brought by terminated employee pursuant to § 298 to review order of state human rights appeal board is not barred by prior administrative determination of state department of labor that employment was terminated or unsatisfactory job performance where instant record is devoid of evidence regarding prior administrative determination and employer had neither asserted defense of collateral estoppel in answer to complaint of discrimination nor established reasonable ground for failure to present evidence of department of labor's determination before human rights division. Salvatore v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 118 A.D.2d 715, 500 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54574 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Division's finding of retaliatory discharge was annulled in an N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceeding because the division should have dismissed the complaint based on res judicata and collateral estoppel as a result of an earlier arbitration decision; the arbitrator had the power to arbitrate and decided the underlying issues. There was no limitation on the arbitrator's power in the collective bargaining agreement (CBA), the CBA did not bar arbitration, the arbitrator reasonably resolved an ambiguity in the CBA the former employee's favor, and, as a result, relitigation of the arbitrator's findings or conclusions was precluded. Matter of New York State Dept. of Labor (Unemployment Ins. Appeal Board) v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 71 A.D.3d 1234, 897 N.Y.S.2d 740, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1832 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 714, 913 N.Y.S.2d 643, 939 N.E.2d 809, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 3480 (N.Y. 2010).

Proceeding pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 to review a determination of unlawful employment discrimination was denied as barred by the doctrine of res judicata where an earlier proceeding seeking review of the determination had been dismissed as abandoned. Under the Elms, Inc. v Tolbert, 1 A.D.3d 373, 766 N.Y.S.2d 876, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11467 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Division's finding of retaliatory discharge was annulled in an N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 proceeding because the division should have dismissed the complaint based on res judicata and collateral estoppel as a result of an earlier arbitration decision; the arbitrator had the power to arbitrate and decided the underlying issues. There was no limitation on the arbitrator's power in the collective bargaining agreement (CBA), the CBA did not bar arbitration, the arbitrator reasonably resolved an ambiguity in the CBA the former employee's favor, and, as a result, relitigation of the arbitrator's findings or conclusions was precluded. Matter of New York State Dept. of Labor (Unemployment Ins. Appeal Board) v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 71 A.D.3d 1234, 897 N.Y.S.2d 740, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1832 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 714, 913 N.Y.S.2d 643, 939 N.E.2d 809, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 3480 (N.Y. 2010).

The protection against discrimination afforded by Executive Law § 296 is at least as broad as that afforded by the Federal Constitution and civil rights statutes. Thus, the determination of the Appellate Division affirming the Appeal Board's affirmance of the State Division of Human Rights' dismissal of former employee's race discrimination claim against former employer on the ground of lack of probable cause, res judicata of all other state actions as a matter of statutory law, would be entitled to full faith and credit in a federal court hearing federal constitutional and civil rights claims. Mitchell v National Broadcasting Co., 553 F.2d 265, 1977 U.S. App. LEXIS 13960 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1977).

Police officer's federal claim for compensatory damages for emotional pain and suffering was not barred by res judicata, even though he had prevailed in Article 78 proceeding in which he sought back pay and reinstatement to his former position, where compensatory damages were recoverable under Executive Law as civil rights violations, which were "incidental" to primary relief which he had sought in Article 78 proceeding. Antonsen v Ward, 943 F.2d 198, 1991 U.S. App. LEXIS 19483 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1991).

Federal de novo review of Title VII claim (42 USCS §§ 2000e et seq.) was barred by res judicata where New York appellate division had affirmed findings of division of human rights and human rights appeals board that former employee's discharge was not occasioned by an unlawful discriminatory practice as to religion and national origin. Kremer v Chemical Constr. Corp., 477 F. Supp. 587, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9669 (S.D.N.Y. 1979), aff'd, 623 F.2d 786, 1980 U.S. App. LEXIS 17020 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1980).

Plaintiff, having sought judicial review of his allegedly discriminatory termination in state court pursuant to an Article 78 proceeding, is now barred by the doctrine of res judicata from relitigating his claims in a federal Title VII action; the Supreme Court, in Kremer v Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 US 461, 102 S Ct 1883, 72 L Ed 2d 262 (1982), held that a federal court hearing a Title VII action must afford res judicata effect to a state court's prior determination as to discrimination claims where, under state law, the plaintiff would be barred from relitigating the same claims in state court. Kent v New York City Dep't of Sanitation, 549 F. Supp. 570, 1982 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14750 (S.D.N.Y. 1982), aff'd, 722 F.2d 728, 1983 U.S. App. LEXIS 30139 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1983).

New York court's dismissal of employee's age discrimination claims was based on election of remedies, not on statute of limitations, and thus did not have preclusive effect in federal court action, where thrust of decision dismissing claims was that employee could not file plenary action alleging discrimination because he had previously filed administrative complaint, and decision's discussion of statute of limitations defense related to proceeding that employee did not bring. Walsh v City of Auburn, 942 F. Supp. 788, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15335 (N.D.N.Y. 1996).

38. Miscellaneous

Defendant employer was not entitled to dismissal of gender discrimination complaint under CLS Exec § 296 on basis that State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) delayed 11 years before holding hearing on complaint and then delayed its order for another 3 years, where no substantial actual prejudice resulted in that employer's witnesses were able to testify without difficulties owing to memory loss regarding issues on which SDHR based its finding of discrimination. Diaz Chem. Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 91 N.Y.2d 932, 670 N.Y.S.2d 397, 693 N.E.2d 744, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 599 (N.Y. 1998).

Petition for review of decision of the State Human Rights Appeal Board dismissing appeal substantially complied with statute, through the Board was not named in the caption of the action, where the notice of motion and petition stated that appeal was from the determination of the Board and service was made on the commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights and his general counsel. State Div. of Human Rights v Commissioner of New York State Dep't of Civil Service, 57 A.D.2d 699, 395 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11737 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Division of Human Rights did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in dismissing university employee's complaint of unlawful discriminatory practice based on disability where Division's investigation included field visits, conferences, interviews and submission of numerous documents, and where petitioner was given full opportunity to rebut respondent's evidence, particularly where petitioner was still suffering from medical disability when his position was eliminated for budgetary purposes. Guilfoose v New York State Agriculture Experiment Station, 111 A.D.2d 430, 488 N.Y.S.2d 491, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51525 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Employer may not obtain reversal of order, which order requires reinstatement of terminated employee, on basis of sale of business during pendency of court proceedings; relief must be sought in proceeding before division of human rights. Salvatore v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 118 A.D.2d 715, 500 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54574 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Although State Division of Human Rights correctly determined that sheriff's department discriminated against applicant by inquiring about prior arrests on application for employment in 1981, court would reverse those portions of division's order directing sheriff to hire applicant as mounted patrolmen and awarding back pay; inasmuch as applicant was never sworn in, or paid, as mounted patrolman, division lacked power to direct sheriff, public employer, to hire applicant since such direction would in effect deprive appointing authority of power of selection. Sheriff's Dep't v State Div. of Human Rights, 129 A.D.2d 789, 514

N.Y.S.2d 779, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45479 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Employer was denied due process where individual who appeared as counsel for Division of Human Rights in early stages of employment discrimination proceeding later became Commissioner of Human Rights and thereafter issued final determination in instant matter. Pepsico, Inc. v Rosa, 213 A.D.2d 550, 624 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4449 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 86 N.Y.2d 837, 634 N.Y.S.2d 445, 658 N.E.2d 223, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3707 (N.Y. 1995), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 442, 658 N.E.2d 220, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3708 (N.Y. 1995).

Determination of Commissioner of Human Rights would be annulled where commissioner had previously participated in matter as general counsel of Human Rights Division. New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs. v State Div. of Human Rights, 216 A.D.2d 658, 627 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6117 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Disability discrimination claims filed against airline, based on airline's use of weight standards in hiring flight attendants, were properly dismissed where, inter alia, petitioners failed to show that they fell within class of persons protected by Human Rights Law and that airline intended to discriminate against older women, they did not claim that their weight limited their actions or abilities nor did they allege conditions which amounted to obesity, and they submitted no proof that they had been clinically observed as having "abnormal medical condition" or that they were medically incapable of meeting airline's weight requirements due to underlying medical problem. Delta Air Lines v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 229 A.D.2d 132, 652 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12963 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 882, 661 N.Y.S.2d 825, 684 N.E.2d 274, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2331 (N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 65, 666 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 689 N.E.2d 898, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3710 (N.Y. 1997).

In terminated employee's action for gender and age discrimination under both CLS Exec §§ 290 et seq. and federal law, defendants did not waive their right to raise defense of subject matter jurisdiction by their failure to appeal from administrative convenience dismissal under CLS Exec § 298 where they were not aggrieved by dismissal as worded and thus had no incentive to appeal. Kordich v Povill, 244 A.D.2d 112, 676 N.Y.S.2d 331, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8680 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

It was not "purely arbitrary" for State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) to dismiss complainant's sexual harassment complaint for administrative convenience after having initially found that there was probable cause to support her allegations, as her intervening commencement of federal court action asserting Title VII sexual harassment and retaliation claims, and pendant state claims mirroring her allegations in complaint filed with SDHR, effectuated election of remedies under CLS Exec § 297(9). Universal Packaging Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 270 A.D.2d 586, 704 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2647 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Commissioner of Human Rights exceeded scope of court's remittal when it awarded back pay to complainant on ground that employer was liable for constructive discharge based on hostile work environment, where he had initially concluded that employer retaliated against complainant for filing sexual harassment complaint but did not discharge her in retaliation therefor, complainant did not challenge his initial liability determination, and court implicitly upheld this aspect of his determination; issue of employer's liability for complainant's discharge was previously decided and, under "law of the case" doctrine, that determination was conclusive. Carrier Corp. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 270 A.D.2d 796, 705 N.Y.S.2d 744, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3579 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Plaintiff raised issues of fact as to whether employer had knowledge of her sexual harassment complaints and, if so, whether it reasonably investigated those complaints and took corrective action, where her deposition testimony described months of complaining to direct supervisors with no response from employer other than to transfer her to different worksite, where harassment by other employees continued. Vitale v Rosina Food Prods., 283 A.D.2d 141, 727 N.Y.S.2d 215, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5748 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Department of Health was properly granted summary judgment dismissing action alleging that, by revoking plaintiff's medical license, it discriminated against him in violation of CLS Exec § 296, based on his adult Attention Deficit Disorder, as plaintiff essentially sought judicial review of determination which revoked his medical license, and such review had to be made via Article 78 proceeding, which was time barred. Horne v New York State Dep't of Health, 287 A.D.2d 940, 731 N.Y.S.2d 781, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9979 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Commissioner erred in requiring an employer to pay predetermination interest in employment discrimination claim relating to that portion of the "unreasonable delay" in determining the complaint that was attributable solely to the New York State Division of Human Rights. Matter of Rite Aid of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 60 A.D.3d 1428, 875 N.Y.S.2d 708, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2020 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 702, 886 N.Y.S.2d 94, 914 N.E.2d 1012, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. 2009).

New York State Division of Human Rights (DHR) abused its discretion by increasing an employer's civil fine to $ 60,000, because the DHR factored the employer's behavior during the administrative proceedings as part of the calculus to increase the fine, as opposed to focusing only whether the employer's discrimination was willful, wanton, or malicious. Matter of JPK Imports/Oneonta, Inc. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 165 A.D.3d 1410, 86 N.Y.S.3d 638, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6939 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018), app. denied, 32 N.Y.3d 918, 123 N.E.3d 875, 100 N.Y.S.3d 216, 2019 N.Y. LEXIS 606 (N.Y. 2019).

In fair hearing in progress before State Division on Human Rights on employee's claims that employer discriminated against her in employment by denying her equal terms, conditions and privileges of employment and by terminating her employment because of her age, court would enforce subpoena duces tecum requiring employer to produce certain enumerated documents sought by employee to show pattern and practice of terminating employees at given age to effect monetary savings of pension and profit-sharing benefits. Russo v Reader's Digest, 91 Misc. 2d 1, 396 N.Y.S.2d 803, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

In proceeding challenging State Division of Human Rights' dismissal of race discrimination complaint at complainant's request on ground of "administrative inconvenience" under CLS Exec § 297, petitioner's request for admissions of fact that division had not dismissed any complaints on such ground within last 2 years except where first requested by complainant, in order to establish arbitrary or capricious activity on division's part, would be denied on ground that it sought conclusions about material issues for which notice to admit may not be utilized. New York Tel. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 148 Misc. 2d 765, 561 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Court of Claims lacked jurisdiction to hear federal constitutional due process and equal protection claims alleged to have arisen when Division of Human Rights failed to resolve claimant's employment discrimination claim in timely manner; state is not "person" amenable to suit under 42 USCS § 1983. Ferrer v State, 172 Misc. 2d 1, 655 N.Y.S.2d 900, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 571 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1996).

Court of Claims dismissed claims for violation of due process and equal protection under state constitution, which allegedly arose when Division of Human Rights failed to resolve claimant's employment discrimination claim in timely manner, as direct action under state constitution can be maintained only where no other equally effective or adequate remedy exists, and both statutory and common-law bases for redress were available pursuant to federal claims 42 USCS § 1983 and common-law negligence claims, respectively. Ferrer v State, 172 Misc. 2d 1, 655 N.Y.S.2d 900, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 571 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1996).

Division erred in amending an administrative discrimination complaint by adding the president as a respondent because this amendment was made after the one-year limitations period of

N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(5) had expired and the president had already appeared pro se on behalf of the employer at the public hearing on the complaint. Matter of Murphy v Kirkland, 88 A.D.3d 267, 928 N.Y.S.2d 333, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

Where a former employee alleged her male supervisor sexually harassed her, as the complaint made no allegations against her female supervisor, it failed to state a claim against her or to provide notice of the allegations against her, as required by due process and N.Y. Exec. Law 297; thus, the New York State Division of Human Right could not enforce a damage award in favor of the employee against the female supervisor. Matter of New York State Div. of Human Rights v Young Legends, LLC, 90 A.D.3d 1265, 934 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8851 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

In action under Human Rights Law, 51-year-old discharged plaintiff failed to raise issue as to whether proffered reason for his discharge, that he sexually harassed subordinate employee, was pretextual where he presented no evidence to show that he had not sexually harassed subordinate employee, or to rebut sworn statements of company officials that they believed in good faith that he had sexually harassed subordinate employee and that they fired him for that reason. Agugliaro v Brooks Bros., 927 F. Supp. 741, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7965 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

39. Under former § 297-a; In general

Where, at time that order was made, statute provided for majority of entire four-member appeal board to make a decision, 2–1 determination directing reversal of Human Rights commissioner's order was invalid. New York City Board of Education v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 54 A.D.2d 656, 387 N.Y.S.2d 873, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14183 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Relevant provisions of Executive Law, when read together, establish legislative intent that, before determining whether there is probable cause for complaint of discrimination, commissioner of Division of Human Rights should give complainant full opportunity to present on record, though informally, his charges against employer or other respondent, including right to submit all exhibits which he wishes to present and testimony of witnesses in addition to his own testimony. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In dismissing complaint of unlawful discriminatory practice relating to employment because of religious faith on finding that no probable cause existed, State Division of Human Rights was required to recite the reasons upon which it acted. County of Suffolk v Keshinover, 59 A.D.2d 709, 398 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13674 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Proceeding before Human Rights Appeal Board on complaint charging unlawful discrimination due to age was not defective either because only one member of Board was present or because oral argument was not transcribed. Ashley v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 60 A.D.2d 568, 399 N.Y.S.2d 701, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14500 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Where the statute envisions an administrative proceeding before the Division a party dissatisfied with the determination may appeal to the State Human Rights Appeal Board and the law specifically grants authority to the appeal board to review the Division's determination of jurisdiction and judicial review is available only from an order of the Appeal Board, therefore the petition was dismissed for failure to exhaust administrative remedy. McMillan Book Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 64 Misc. 2d 692, 315 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1162 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1970).

Where county and county officials against whom employment discrimination complaints were filed with the State Division of Human Rights failed to obtain dismissal of the complaints before the Division, recourse of county and officials after final determination in the Division was an appeal to the State Human Rights Appeal Board and, thereafter, review in an Article 78 proceeding before the Appellate Division. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Fitzhugh v County of Monroe, 88 Misc. 2d 16, 386 N.Y.S.2d 317, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2373 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

40. Scope of review

Authority of state human rights appeal board in reviewing determination of discrimination made by commissioner of state division of human rights is limited by statute to power of court reviewing administrative determination made after hearing; board is not empowered to find new facts or take different view of weight of evidence if commissioner's determination is supported by substantial evidence. State Div. of Human Rights v Columbia University in New York, 39 N.Y.2d 612, 385 N.Y.S.2d 19, 350 N.E.2d 396, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2714 (N.Y. 1976), cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1096, 97 S. Ct. 1112, 51 L. Ed. 2d 543, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2143 (U.S. 1977).

Judicial review of the determination made by an administrative agency is limited to a consideration of whether that resolution was supported by substantial evidence upon the whole record, and allowance may not be made for information outside of it. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

Human Rights Appeal Board is without statutory authority to reverse decision of the State Division of Human Rights "in the interest of justice." State Div. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Jackson v Genesee Hospital, 46 A.D.2d 729, 360 N.Y.S.2d 522, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3888 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Scope of State Human Rights Appeal Board's review is limited by statute and Board may not reverse a decision of the Division of Human Rights "in the interests of justice" nor may it substitute its judgment for that of the Division. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Powers v Mecca Kendall Corp., 53 A.D.2d 201, 385 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12506 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Where record considered as a whole clearly justified finding of no probable cause by Division of Human Rights, Appeal Board in vacating Division's order and remanding matter for further investigation impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its review and substituted its own judgment for that of Division. Grumman Aerospace Corp. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Board, 54 A.D.2d 958, 388 N.Y.S.2d 640, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14869 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Scope of State Human Rights Appeal Board's review of determination of Division of Human Rights is limited and Board may not exceed scope of that review and substitute its judgment for that of Division. State Div. of Human Rights v Merchants Mut. Ins. Co., 59 A.D.2d 1054, 399 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14344 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In reviewing determination made by State Division of Human Rights after investigatory conference, State Human Rights Appeal Board is limited to examining record to determine whether there was rational basis for regional director's decision. State Div. of Human Rights v Merchants Mut. Ins. Co., 59 A.D.2d 1054, 399 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14344 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

The Human Rights Appeal Board is required to exercise the same limited scope of review that a court ordinarily does when passing on the determination of an administrative agency; the Board may not substitute its factual judgment for that of the State Division of Human Rights on the threshold issue of probable cause. GAF Corp. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 83 A.D.2d 974, 442 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15436 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

41. —Particular applications

It is not province of either state human rights appeal board or Court of Appeals to render subjective determinations as to whether university should purchase new laboratory equipment, hire junior faculty in areas it deems necessary or, in alternative, appoint additional tenured professor in any particular area of expertise. State Div. of Human Rights v Columbia University in New York, 39 N.Y.2d 612, 385 N.Y.S.2d 19, 350 N.E.2d 396, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2714 (N.Y. 1976), cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1096, 97 S. Ct. 1112, 51 L. Ed. 2d 543, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2143 (U.S. 1977).

Although the State Human Rights Appeals Board did not abuse its discretion in finding that a construction company refused to build a house because of the customer's racial origins, the Board erred as to the measure of damages to be applied in determining compensation. Kaval Constr. Corp. v State Div. of Human Rights, 39 A.D.2d 347, 334 N.Y.S.2d 341, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4110 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 31 N.Y.2d 641, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1662 (N.Y. 1972).

Where Commissioner of Human Rights found complaint of discriminatory discharge, by reason of race and order that petitioner be rehired, his further order of guidance and training programs for, and recruitment of minority reporters, was ultra vires of the division's powers, being excessive and not sufficiently related to the particular complaint, and Human Rights Appeal Board compounded error by making new findings not warranted by the original record rather than limiting its decision to ruling on the presence or absence of substantial supporting evidence. Artis v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 42 A.D.2d 557, 345 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4010 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

State Human Rights Appeal Board impermissibly exceeded the limited scope of its own review and substituted its own judgment for that of State Division of Human Rights in reversing Division's finding of no probable cause, where evidence that complainant unauthorizedly left his job assignment and refused to utilize employer's available procedure for acquiring permission to leave the job assignment supported Division's finding that complainant's dismissal was based on unauthorized absence from his job assignments, and that there was no probable cause to believe that complainant's dismissal was in retaliation for numerous complaints previously filed against employer. Pepsi-Cola Metropolitan Bottling Co. v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 42 A.D.2d 760, 346 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Where the record, considered as a whole, justified division's finding of no probable cause for sex discrimination charge, board impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its own review in vacating division's order of dismissal. Long Island R. R. Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 857, 346 N.Y.S.2d 849, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

On application to reverse order of Commissioner of Division of Human Rights that assistant professor was not denied tenure because of her sex, appellate division's scope of review was limited to determination of whether there was sufficient evidence in the record to support the order. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Mortenson v Syracuse Univ., 46 A.D.2d 1002, 362 N.Y.S.2d 104, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3386 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974), app. denied, 36 N.Y.2d 643, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2497 (N.Y. 1975).

On employment discrimination complaint, record, considered as a whole, justified division of human rights' finding of no probable cause and, in reversing division's order and remanding matter for further proceedings, Human Rights Appeal Board impermissibly exceeded limited scope of its review and substituted its own judgment for that of division. Long Island R. R. Co. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 50 A.D.2d 900, 377 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11803 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Evidence showing, inter alia, city employee's chronic lateness, absenteeism, insubordination and poor work performance supported finding of division of human rights of no probable cause to beleive that employee was victim of discrimination so that Human Rights Appeal Board exceeded its limited scope of review in determining that division's order dismissing employee's complaint was arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretion. New York City Housing Authority v State Div. on Human Rights, 53 A.D.2d 844, 385 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13674 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Following a determination of the State Division of Human Rights after a hearing, that complainant, a psychologist who had applied for admission to the New York Psychoanalytic Institute and who was otherwise eminently qualified for admission, had been denied admission in violation of the Human Rights Law on the ground that she suffered from Hodgkin's disease, it was error, upon administrative appeal by the institute which has standing to appeal pursuant to section 297-a (subd 6, par c) of the Executive Law, which empowers the Appeal Board to hear appeals "by any party to any proceeding before the division", for the State Human Rights Appeal Board, without reaching the merits, to annul the division's order and dismiss the complaint on the ground that the division had unreasonably exceeded the statutory time limit, in violation of section 297 (subd 4, pars a, c) of the Executive Law, since the extended time limits provided by section 297 are directory, not mandatory, and absent a showing of substantial prejudice or such egregious delay as will constitute prejudice as a matter of law, delay attributable solely to the administrative agency should not operate to foreclose relief to an innocent complainant who is not responsible for it; there is no claim or evidence of actual prejudice to the institute as a result of delay and there is no claim of undue delay caused by petitioner. Accordingly, since the Appeal Board is limited upon review to the power of a court reviewing an administrative determination made after hearing (Executive Law, § 297-a, subd 7), the order of the Appeal Board is annulled and the order of the Division of Human Rights is confirmed, inasmuch as the record is sufficiently detailed to afford a reasonable basis for the administrative determination, despite the deliberate default by the institute at the hearing. Goldsmith v New York Psychoanalytic Institute, 73 A.D.2d 16, 425 N.Y.S.2d 561, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9711 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1980).

The State Human Rights Appeals Board properly affirmed the order of the State Division of Human Rights upholding the complaint of a 23-year-old applicant for a truck driver position who had been rejected for failing to meet the employer's minimum age requirement of 24 years where the employer had been unable to establish that age 24 was a bona fide occupational qualification and had, in fact, lowered its minimum hiring age to 23 years some months later. McLean Trucking Co. v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 80 A.D.2d 809, 437 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10616 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 53 N.Y.2d 1030, 442 N.Y.S.2d 497, 425 N.E.2d 885, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2558 (N.Y. 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 910, 449 N.Y.S.2d 29, 433 N.E.2d 1277, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3105 (N.Y. 1982).

The State Human Rights Appeals Board exceeded the limited scope of its power of review and substituted its own judgment for that of the State Division of Human Rights in reversing the division's order dismissing a claim of alleged unlawful employment discrimination and terminating its investigation of the matter, where the division had waited for nearly one year for the complainant's reply to evidence submitted by the employer, and where the employee had been given ample opportunity to rebut such evidence. Distrigas of New York Corp. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 80 A.D.2d 881, 437 N.Y.S.2d 131, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10740 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

42. Probable cause

Film processing department employee's contention that temporary retirement program was subterfuge relied upon to eliminate him from his employment because of his age was not supported by probable cause and thus complaint claiming loss of jobs due to age discrimination was properly dismissed, where early retirement was neither forced upon employee nor specifically directed towards him and was available only to older employees with long service, and several hundred of coemployees also elected to take advantage of option. Eastman Kodak Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 44 A.D.2d 888, 355 N.Y.S.2d 676, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4943 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Evidence before State Human Rights Appeal Board sustained finding that there was no probable cause to believe that law school engaged in unlawful discriminatory practice with respect to petitioner's application for position in law school library. Heron v Albany Law School of Union University, 57 A.D.2d 672, 393 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11702 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

The dismissal for lack of probable cause, of a complaint filed by a female employee who was terminated while three males in her department were retained was not arbitrary, capricious, or characterized by an abuse of discretion where the documentary evidence established that the work experience and the backgrounds of the male employees were more varied and their performance ratings higher than the complaining employee's, and there was substantial evidence to support the finding of no probable cause; the Human Rights Appeal Board could not substitute its factual judgment for that of the Division of Human Rights on the threshold issue of probable cause. GAF Corp. v New York State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 83 A.D.2d 974, 442 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15436 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

43. Substantial evidence test

Hearing examiner's determination, as affirmed by the State Human Rights Appeal Board, that petitioner was guilty of a discriminatory practice in refusing to rent an apartment to the complainant on the basis of his race and color was supported by substantial evidence. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

Substantial evidence is related to the charge or controversy and involves a weighing of the quality and quantity of the proof; it means such relevant proof as a reasonable mind may accept as adequate to support a conclusion or ultimate fact; essential attributes are relevance and a probative character; more than seeming or imaginary, it is less than a preponderance of the evidence, overwhelming evidence or evidence beyond a reasonable doubt. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

Upon a judicial review of findings made by an administrative agency, a determination is regarded as being supported by substantial evidence when the proof is so substantial that from it an inference of the existence of the fact found may be drawn reasonably. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

There is sufficient evidence in the record to support the findings of the Commissioner of the Division of Human Rights that petitioner, in violation of section 296 (5[a][1]) of the Human Rights Law, had discriminated against claimant because of his race and color, by refusing to consider him as a prospective tenant for an available apartment, where established facts included the vacancy of the apartment, its preparations for and readiness for rental, the failure to notify the superintendent that the apartment was not to be shown, the communication that it was available at a specified rental, the meeting with the superintendent at the apartment site for the purpose of exhibition, his concern about the key upon seeing the Black prospect, his inquiries of the prospect as to whether the unit did in fact please when the prospect had already indicated enthusiastic acceptance, the failure to halt the prospect's departure to the bank to secure the down payment, the extended wait outside the superintendent's door upon return, the proffered excuse that the apartment was in litigation when in fact it was not and reasonably would not be, the failure to show another vacant apartment of similar size, the lack of proof of any suggestion by the managing agent that such other vacancy existed, the failure to obtain normal background particulars concerning the prospect, the subsequent lease for the same rental, and the dearth of Black tenants in the building; moreover, in view of the strong statutory policy to be effected, the award of compensatory damages should not be disturbed. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

The State Human Rights Appeal Board exercises the same limited scope of review of decisions of the State Division of Human Rights that a court ordinarily does when passing on the determination of an administrative agency—whether the order of the division is supported by substantial evidence on the whole record (Executive Law, § 297-a, subd 7, par d) or is not arbitrary and capricious or characterized by abuse of discretion or clearly an unwarranted exercise of discretion (Executive Law, § 297-a, subd 7, par e). Accordingly, where there was ample evidence from which to conclude that an employer's action in laying off a black electrical instructor, while a white electrical instructor in the same civil service class and with less seniority was kept on the job, was in no way actuated by racial discrimination, but was based on the white employee's specialized skills in the fields of air conditioning, refrigeration and heating, skills needed to teach an existing course, the division's finding that there was no probable cause to believe race or color discrimination had occurred cannot be considered to have been devoid of a rational basis, and the board's action in setting aside the division's finding was unwarranted, even if the division's decision is measured against the additional statutory basis for board review, that of substantial evidence. State Office of Drug Abuse Services v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 48 N.Y.2d 276, 422 N.Y.S.2d 647, 397 N.E.2d 1314, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2381 (N.Y. 1979).

The substantial evidence test contained in Executive Law § 297-a(7) (d) relates to the determination by the Division of Human Rights upon the record and a public hearing. The test as to whether the action of the Division of Human Rights is arbitrary, capricious, etc., contained in subdivision e relates to a determination by the Division of Human Rights prior to a hearing. Mayo v Hopeman Lumber & Mfg. Co., 33 A.D.2d 310, 307 N.Y.S.2d 691, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5481 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 26 N.Y.2d 612, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 1970).

Orders of the State Division of Human Rights upholding the complaints of employment applicants and awarding them damages upon allegations of discrimination on the basis of disabilities unrelated to the jobs they applied for were supported by substantial evidence where the employer had failed to obtain written medical reports from the physician who examined the claimants' x-rays and did not call him as a witness, the employer had no records to establish what findings were made by the doctor, and where the employer was unable to establish the relationship of the alleged conditions to the requirements of the positions sought. McLean Trucking Co. v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 80 A.D.2d 809, 437 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10616 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 53 N.Y.2d 1030, 442 N.Y.S.2d 497, 425 N.E.2d 885, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2558 (N.Y. 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 910, 449 N.Y.S.2d 29, 433 N.E.2d 1277, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3105 (N.Y. 1982).

Absent a full investigation including an opportunity for confrontation, the determination of the State Division of Human Rights that the State Division for Youth had not discriminated because of race, sex, and color against a black Puerto Rican female employee, who was requested to resign, was based on a record which was inadequate to meet the test of substantial evidence and was, therefore, arbitrary and capricious; since the investigation of the matter conducted by the Division of Human Rights involved separate meetings without hearings, it had to appear as a matter of law that the complaint lacked merit in order for the Division to dismiss the complaint. New York State Div. for Youth v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 83 A.D.2d 972, 442 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15434 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

44. Limitations of time

While the State Human Rights Appeal Board is required to hear appeals by any party to any proceeding from all orders of the commissioner, provided such appeals are commenced by filing a notice of appeal with the Board within 15 days after service of such order, the court has no power to extend time permitted for an appeal and although § 298 provides that a respondent aggrieved by an order of the Board may obtain judicial review thereof, the court should not act until the administrative remedies provided by law have been exhausted. State Div. of Human Rights v Merante, 35 A.D.2d 652, 312 N.Y.S.2d 1015, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3971 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1970).

Even though time limitations contained in Executive Law § 297, subd 4(a), (c) are directive and not mandatory, valid complaint for discriminatory housing practices was dismissed where delay of 5 months, 16 months, and 3 years respectively in hearing of complaint by division, in making determination and order by division, and in appeal board's affirmance of division's order, were unconscionable and so flagrant as to be prejudicial in law to respondent. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Salamy v Rinas, 42 A.D.2d 388, 348 N.Y.S.2d 422, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Appeal from Division of Human Rights filed more than 15 days after service of Division's determination on complaint's attorney was untimely and failure of complainant to receive notice of Division's determination was immaterial. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Green v Shenango, Inc., 55 A.D.2d 852, 390 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15672 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

If appeal is not timely filed, the Human Rights Appeal Board is without jurisdiction to review a determination of the Division of Human Rights. State Div. of Human Rights v Xerox Corp., 57 A.D.2d 1069, 395 N.Y.S.2d 828, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12383 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

45. Pleading

Where the Director of Human Rights received information concerning the complaint by holding a conference and by investigation, but there was no hearing, and complainant had had no opportunity to present his case in a formal manner, for the Division of Human Rights to dismiss his complaint under such circumstances, it must appear that as a matter of law the complaint lacks merit. Mayo v Hopeman Lumber & Mfg. Co., 33 A.D.2d 310, 307 N.Y.S.2d 691, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5481 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 26 N.Y.2d 612, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 1970).

Allegations upon information and belief, not stating any sources of information or grounds for belief, that respondents have complied with only one provision of the order, did not sufficiently allege noncompliance with the order in any respect. State Div. of Human Rights v Merante, 35 A.D.2d 652, 312 N.Y.S.2d 1015, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3971 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1970).

46. Evidence

In proceedings on complaint charging that university discriminated against plaintiff as woman in rejecting her application for position as tenured professor in psychology department, resolution of conflict in evidence as to plaintiff's area of expertise was for commissioner of state division of human rights. State Div. of Human Rights v Columbia University in New York, 39 N.Y.2d 612, 385 N.Y.S.2d 19, 350 N.E.2d 396, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2714 (N.Y. 1976), cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1096, 97 S. Ct. 1112, 51 L. Ed. 2d 543, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2143 (U.S. 1977).

School district would be required to pay any teacher physically disabled by reason of maternity accrued sick leave benefits for that portion of school year coinciding with such disability or aggravation of such disability, unless such teacher elected to take unpaid maternity leave during which sick leave was not applicable, provided she furnished to district certificate from her attending physician to effect that during such period of time she was, in fact, physically disabled. State Div. of Human Rights v Board of Education, 51 A.D.2d 357, 381 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11080 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 1021, 391 N.Y.S.2d 532, 359 N.E.2d 1327, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3155 (N.Y. 1976).

Where record raised no factual issue relating to claim that law firm unlawfully discriminated against individual by refusing to hire him, and it appeared as matter of law that complaint lacked merit and failed to raise genuine factual issues, confrontation conference was not required. State Div. of Human Rights ex rel. Jafree v Bond, Schoeneck & King, 52 A.D.2d 1045, 384 N.Y.S.2d 568, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Evidence supported division of human rights' finding of no probable cause with regard to 53-year-old employee's complaint that she was demoted from position of supervisor to that of clerk because of her age and sex. American Tel. & Tel. Co. v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 53 A.D.2d 598, 383 N.Y.S.2d 646, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13258 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

47. Judicial review

Where findings of fact on which order of State Human Rights Appeal Board are based are supported by sufficient evidence on the record as a whole, they are conclusive. Schenectady v State Div. of Human Rights, 37 N.Y.2d 421, 373 N.Y.S.2d 59, 335 N.E.2d 290, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. 1975).

In passing upon question of whether or not state human rights appeal board exceeded its statutory authority in setting aside determination of commissioner of state division of human rights, Court of Appeals must decide whether decision of commissioner was supported by substantial evidence. State Div. of Human Rights v Columbia University in New York, 39 N.Y.2d 612, 385 N.Y.S.2d 19, 350 N.E.2d 396, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2714 (N.Y. 1976), cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1096, 97 S. Ct. 1112, 51 L. Ed. 2d 543, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2143 (U.S. 1977).

A court reviewing the substantiality of the evidence upon which an administrative agency has acted exercises a genuine judicial function and does not confirm a determination simply because it was made by such an agency. 300 Gramatan Ave. Associates v State Div. of Human Rights, 45 N.Y.2d 176, 408 N.Y.S.2d 54, 379 N.E.2d 1183, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. 1978).

Whether the finality of an order from which an appeal is taken constitutes a jurisdictional predicate for appeal to the Appellate Division is purely a statutory matter. Accordingly, judicial review is available to a party aggrieved by a nonfinal order of the State Human Rights Appeal Board in a proceeding pursuant to section 298 of the Executive Law, since section 298 clearly allows any person aggrieved by any order of the board to obtain judicial relief thereof and, moreover, subdivision 7 of section 297-a, though defining the scope of the board's authority as including the power to remand the matter to the State Division of Human Rights for further proceedings, makes no attempt to distinguish these orders of remand from others which are reviewable; nor is such appeal to the Appellate Division barred by subdivision 9 of section 297 or section 300 of the Executive Law, which statutes prohibit separate plenary discrimination actions in the courts only when a charge on the same grievance is pending before the division. State Office of Drug Abuse Services v State Human Rights Appeal Board, 48 N.Y.2d 276, 422 N.Y.S.2d 647, 397 N.E.2d 1314, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2381 (N.Y. 1979).

Administrative process was not ended by order of State Human Rights Appeal Board, which vacated prior order of the State Division of Human Rights and remanded proceedings for further investigation and other proceedings, and such order would therefore not be reviewed by the Appellate Division since nonfinal orders were not intended to be reviewed. Pepsi-Cola Albany Bottling Co. v Naylor, 57 A.D.2d 981, 394 N.Y.S.2d 93, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12274 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Where record of proceedings on state employee's complaints of discrimination showed that State Division of Human Rights' investigations into complaints were extensive and that complainant had full opportunity to present his contentions and evidence, and where record demonstrated that there was rational basis for commissioner's determination of no probable cause. Appeal Board erred in reversing commissioner's determination and remanding complaints to him for further proceedings. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

After commissioner of State Division of Human Rights has made full investigation into complaint of discrimination, wherein complainant has had full opportunity to present his evidence and exhibits, under oath if he so requests, if commissioner determines that complainant has not shown probable cause for his complaint, Appeal Board has no authority to reverse such determination and order public hearing, provided that commissioner's determination is rationally supported by record before him. State Div. of Human Rights v New York State Drug Abuse Control Com., 59 A.D.2d 332, 399 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13571 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Trial court properly dismissed shoppers' petitions seeking review of a human rights division determination that found no probable cause to believe that a store and a medical center had engaged in unlawful discriminatory practices related to the shoppers where, while the petition and related documents were mailed to the medical center, they were not personally served; also, the store had a strict anti-discrimination policy, the security guards involved received written materials and training courses to prevent discrimination, the shoppers were the only Asians apprehended for shoplifting from the store during a one-year period, the races of apprehended shoplifters were proportionally similar to the county's racial profile, the security guards had reason to focus on the shoppers based on a police flier indicating that one of them was a shoplifter, and the guards saw the shoppers hide merchandise and leave the store without paying for it. Jo v May Dep't Stores Co., 21 A.D.3d 614, 799 N.Y.S.2d 839, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8274 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 5 N.Y.3d 880, 808 N.Y.S.2d 142, 842 N.E.2d 28, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 3261 (N.Y. 2005).

Section 298 of the Executive Law provides for judicial review of a decision of the State Human Rights Appeal Board, which reviews decisions of the State Division of Human Rights (Executive Law, § 297-a), by way of appeal to the Appellate Division only, and, it also provides that in cases where no appeal has been taken to the board, the division may obtain an order of court for the enforcement of any order of the Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights by direct application to the Appellate Division; thus, the only enforcement powers granted with respect to the enforcement of either nonappealed orders of the commissioner or of the board are given to the Appellate Division. Accordingly, a motion in the Supreme Court by the commissioner for a mandatory injunction compelling a respondent to obey the commissioner's order was denied, since the court does not have the power to grant the relief sought. Kramarsky v New York Psychoanalytic Institute, 102 Misc. 2d 806, 424 N.Y.S.2d 581, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2922 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Trial court erred in an N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding in prohibiting the State Division of Human Rights (SDHR) from investigating discrimination complaints against a school district because the school district had not exhausted its administrative remedies in that the hearing process was not completed, and, in the context of that administrative proceeding, the school district could have challenged the applicability of N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(4) and, at the same time, mounted a defense to the discrimination charges; once a final determination was issued, the school district, if necessary, had the opportunity to raise its issues in a challenge to SDHR's final determination, In addition, it was by no means certain that the SDHR would not find for the school district as to the discrimination charges and the school district, if necessary, also had the opportunity to challenge any final determination pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 298. Matter of Newfield Cent. School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 66 A.D.3d 1314, 888 N.Y.S.2d 244, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7593 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

N.Y. Exec. Law § 298 required immediate transfer to an appellate court without consideration of any threshold issues; therefore, the appellate court vacated the order appealed from and reviewed the matter de novo. Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

The protection against discrimination afforded by Executive Law § 296 is at least as broad as that afforded by the Federal Constitution and civil rights statutes. Thus, the determination of the Appellate Division affirming the Appeal Board's affirmance of the State Division of Human Rights' dismissal of former employee's race discrimination claim against former employer on the ground of lack of probable cause, res judicata of all other state actions as a matter of statutory law, would be entitled to full faith and credit in a federal court hearing federal constitutional and civil rights claims. Mitchell v National Broadcasting Co., 553 F.2d 265, 1977 U.S. App. LEXIS 13960 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1977).

48. Decisions as arbitrary or capricious

Appellate Division can only set aside determination of commissioner of Division of Human Rights if such determination is arbitrary or capricious; thus, it improperly set aside commissioner's award of back pay after having affirmed its finding of discrimination. Mize v State Div. of Human Rights, 33 N.Y.2d 53, 349 N.Y.S.2d 364, 304 N.E.2d 231, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1002 (N.Y. 1973).

Although it would have been better practice for division of human rights to have conferred further with petitioner concerning the substantial information which it had gathered that her demotion was not the result of sex discrimination, there was no reason to declare procedure and determination of division arbitrary or capricious or an abuse of discretion. Jackson v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 42 A.D.2d 684, 345 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3988 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Human Rights Appeal Board's reversal of State Division of Human Rights' pre-hearing dismissal of complaint alleging age discrimination was required to be based upon finding the Division acted arbitrarily. Eastman Kodak Co. v State Div. of Human Rights, 44 A.D.2d 888, 355 N.Y.S.2d 676, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4943 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

38. Miscellaneous

Imposition of a civil fine and penalty of $20,000 for each complainant against an employer for a hostile work environment and retaliation was similar to the fines and penalties imposed in other discrimination cases and did not shock the appellate court's sense of fairness. Matter of Stellar Dental Mgt. LLC v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 162 A.D.3d 1655, 80 N.Y.S.3d 757, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4423 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2018).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

1. Employment discrimination

Unpublished decision: In a case in which a former employee appealed a district court's dismissal of his age discrimination claims brought against his former employer, a foreign corporation, under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 297 et seq., the statute did not provide a private cause of action to New York residents discriminated against outside of New York by foreign corporations. Harte v Woods Hole Oceanographic Inst., 495 Fed. Appx. 171, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 18813 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. Sex discrimination
2. —Pregnancy

1. Sex discrimination

2. —Pregnancy

Disability Benefits Law, § 205(3) is superseded to the extent that it is inconsistent with Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act on the subject of discrimination based on pregnancy disability. Further, the New York State Human Rights Law continues in full force and effect on that subject. 1980 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 15, 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 96.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

Proceeding against body or officer, CLS CPLR §§ 7801 et seq.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Rules of Practice, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 465.1–465.20 (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 465.1–465.20).

General Regulations, Division of Human Rights. 9 NYCRR §§ 466.1–466.10 (CLS Exec Appx, Human R Rules §§ 466.1–466.10).

Jurisprudences:

18 NY Jur 2d Civil Rights § 36.

18A NY Jur 2d Civil Rights §§ 197, 198, 200–207.

7 Medina's Bostwick Practice Manual (Matthew Bender), Forms HR 101 et seq. (actions and proceedings relating to the Human Rights Law).

1A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms, Administrative Law, Forms 241–270.

21 Am Jur Trials 1, Employment Discrimination Action Under Federal Civil Rights Acts.

Texts: Liddle & Marino, Labor and Employment in New York (Michie) pp 13-54.

New York Employee Discrimination Handbook (1998 ed, Matthew Bender).

ARTICLE 18 New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code Act

Section
372. Definitions
375. Powers of the council
376-a. Code enforcement training and certification.
377. New York state uniform fire prevention and building code
378. Standards for New York state uniform fire prevention and building code
379. Incorporation of higher standards by council upon recommendation of local government; local building regulations
380. Granting authority
381. Administration and enforcement of the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code and the New York state energy conservation construction code
382. Remedies
382-a. Buildings with truss type construction; notice requirements and enforcement
382-b. Residential buildings with truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction; notice requirements

HISTORY:
Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981.

§ 372. Definitions

As used in this article, the following terms shall have the meaning ascribed to them, unless the context otherwise requires:

1. "Administrator" means the state fire administrator established pursuant to article six-C of this chapter.

2. "Areas of public assembly" means all buildings or portions of buildings used for gathering together fifty or more persons for amusement, athletic, civic, dining, educational, entertainment, patriotic, political, recreational, religious, social, or similar purposes, the entire fire area of which they are a part, and the means of egress therefrom.

3. "Building" means a combination of any materials, whether portable or fixed, having a roof, to form a structure affording shelter for persons, animals or property. The word "building" shall be construed when used herein as though followed by the words "or part or parts thereof" unless the context clearly requires a different meaning. The term "building" shall also mean "factory manufactured home" and "mobile home". The term "building" shall not include a "temporary greenhouse".

4. "Construction" means the construction, reconstruction, alteration, conversion, repair, installation of equipment or use of buildings, and requirements or standards relating to or affecting materials used in connection therewith, including provisions for safety and sanitary conditions.

5. "Council" means the state fire prevention and building code council created by this article.

6. "Department" means the department of state.

7. "Equipment" means plumbing, heating, electrical, ventilating, air conditioning, refrigerating equipment, elevators, dumb waiters, escalators and other mechanical additions or installations.

8. "Factory manufactured home" means a structure designed primarily for residential occupancy constructed by a method or system of construction whereby the structure or its components are wholly or in substantial part manufactured in manufacturing facilities, intended or designed for permanent installation, or assembly and permanent installation, on a building site.

9. "Fire area" means the floor area of a story of a building within exterior walls, party walls, fire walls, or any combination thereof.

10. "Fire protection equipment and systems" means apparatus, assemblies, or systems, either portable or fixed, for use to detect, prevent, control, or extinguish fire.

11. "Local government" means a village, town (outside the area of any incorporated village) or city.

12. "Means of egress" means a continuous unobstructed way of exit from any point in a building or structure to a public way. A means of egress comprises the vertical and horizontal ways of travel and includes intervening room spaces, doorways, hallways, corridors, passageways, balconies, ramps, stairs, enclosures, lobbies, escalators, horizontal exits, courts, and yards.

13. "Mobile home" means a moveable or portable unit designed and constructed to be towed on its own chassis, comprised of frame and wheels, connected to utilities, and designed and constructed without a permanent foundation for year-round living. A unit may contain parts that may be folded, collapsed or telescoped when being towed and expanded later to provide additional cubic capacity as well as two or more separately towable components designed to be joined into one integral unit capable of being again separated into the components for repeated towing. "Mobile home" shall mean units designed to be used exclusively for residential purposes, excluding travel trailers.

14. "Office" means the office of fire prevention and control created pursuant to article six-C of this chapter.

15. "Secretary" means the secretary of state.

16. "State agency" means any department, bureau, commission, board, public authority or other agency of the state, including any public benefit corporation any member of whose board is appointed by the governor.

17. "Temporary greenhouse" means specialized agricultural equipment having a framework covered with demountable polyurethane materials or materials of polyurethane nature and lacking a permanent and continuous foundation, which is specifically designed, constructed and used for the culture and propagation of horticultural commodities. A "temporary greenhouse" may include, but is not limited to, the use of heating devices, water and electrical utilities, and supporting poles embedded in non-continuous concrete. In no instance will a temporary greenhouse be used for the retail sale of any farm or non-farm products.

18. "Uniform code" or "code" means the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code promulgated pursuant to section three hundred seventy-seven of this article.

19. "Truss type construction" means a fabricated structure of wood or steel, made up of a series of members connected at their ends to form a series of triangles to span a distance greater than would be possible with any of the individual members on their own.

20. [Redesignated]

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 1992, ch 496, §§ 1, 2, eff July 17, 1992; L 1996, ch 309, § 149, eff July 13, 1996; L 2001, ch 119, § 1, eff Jan 1, 2002; L 2007, ch 108, § 1, eff July 3, 2007; L 2007, ch 159, § 2, eff July 3, 2007.

Prior Law: Former § 372, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 177; amd, L 1951, ch 580, § 3, L 1954, ch 166, § 1, L 1961, ch 197, § 2; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2001, ch 119, § 3, eff Jan 1, 2002, provides as follows:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the first day of January next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed within 180 days after the date on which this act shall have become a law.

Laws 2007, ch 159, § 1, eff July 3, 2007, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The legislature finds and declares that agricultural buildings differ in structure and usage from other types of buildings and thus warrant specialized treatment under the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code. In recognition of the unique nature of such buildings, agricultural buildings have long been exempted from the construction-related provisions of the uniform fire prevention and building code, and should remain exempted from such provisions. The legislature further finds that the department of state should continue to consult with the department of agriculture and markets to assure that the department's interpretation of code requirements continues to recognize and reflect the unique nature of agricultural buildings. The farming industry and code enforcement officials will benefit from additional guidance regarding the appropriate implementation of code requirements for agricultural buildings and other farm-based structures. Therefore, it is in the public interest to have the written interpretations of code provisions by the department of state easily accessible to these sectors, and the public at large, through publication on the department's website.

Amendment Notes:

2007. Chapter 159, § 2 amended:

Sub 3, by deleting "The term 'building' shall not include any permanent structure used in conjunction with the working of a farm operation as defined in article twenty-five-AA of the agriculture and markets law."

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 372
3. Under former § 386

1. In general

Outdoor residential swimming pool was not "building" under CLS Exec § 372, and thus was not exempt from regulation requiring enclosure (9 NYCRR § 1243.7) despite having been built prior to regulation's effective date. Tarquini v Aurora, 77 N.Y.2d 354, 568 N.Y.S.2d 538, 570 N.E.2d 186, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 208 (N.Y. 1991).

Building used for storage does not meet the statutory definition of "temporary greenhouse," and requires a permit prior to construction. People v Camardella, 192 Misc. 2d 513, 747 N.Y.S.2d 898, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1142 (N.Y. City Ct. 2002).

Although there was conflicting evidence as to whether the portion of a lake upon which a trustee's floating boathouse sat was publicly owned or navigable under N.Y. Nav. Law § 2(4), (5), a town could regulate, control, restrict, or otherwise issue a building permit for the boathouse under N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 371(5)(d), 372(3), 373(1). Beneke v Town of Santa Clara, 36 A.D.3d 1195, 828 N.Y.S.2d 692, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 665 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), dismissed, 8 N.Y.3d 929, 834 N.Y.S.2d 519, 866 N.E.2d 465, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 1225 (N.Y. 2007), app. dismissed, 8 N.Y.3d 938, 834 N.Y.S.2d 713, 866 N.E.2d 1041, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 862 (N.Y. 2007).

2. Under former § 372

City board of appeal's determination that addition of six stories onto existing building as part of phased construction plan constituted "new construction" rather than "addition" and was thus subject to lower building permit fee was not contrary to law, notwithstanding fact that board refused to apply state building code definition of "addition." Syracuse v Hueber, 52 A.D.2d 341, 383 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12026 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Zoning board of appeals could not deny a conditional use permit on ground that proposed drive-in restaurant was a "place of public assembly" which lacked the requisite number of parking spaces under the state building code, Executive L § 372, subd 4, since "zoning ordinances" are specifically excluded from the ambit of said statute. Franchise Realty Interstate Corp. v Rab, 72 Misc. 2d 1061, 340 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2271 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

3. Under former § 386

Multiple dwelling was not included within term "miscellaneous occupancy" within statutory provision that "general building construction" provisions of State Building Construction Code are applicable to "business, mercantile, industrial, storage, assembly, institutional, and miscellaneous occupancy and uses." People v Halpern, 79 Misc. 2d 790, 361 N.Y.S.2d 578, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1750 (N.Y. City Ct. 1974).

Where building had been used as rooming house since prior to adoption of State Building Construction Code and costs of subsequent alterations and repairs to building did not, within a 12 month period, exceed 50% of replacement cost of building at beginning of that 12 month period, "Multiple Dwellings" provisions of code were not applicable to building. People v Halpern, 79 Misc. 2d 790, 361 N.Y.S.2d 578, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1750 (N.Y. City Ct. 1974).

Phrase "under local conditions" in state building code rule which requires that "installer shall consult with the local authority having jurisdiction to determine the durability of materials and joints used under local conditions" refers to local physical or environmental conditions which might affect durability of material, rather than to local conditions imposed by municipality and building inspector. Association of Employing Plumbing Contractors, Inc. v Hanold, 84 Misc. 2d 990, 378 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 372

1. In general

Exclusion of "plastic" greenhouses from definition of "building" in State Building Code Act is not determinative of their taxable status for purposes of CLS Real Property Tax Law; such greenhouses are real property for real property tax purposes if they are fixtures. 9 Op Counsel SBEA No. 96 (1992).

2. Under former § 372

In municipalities where it is operative and for buildings to which it is applicable, the State Building Construction Code is a proper alternative to other State and Local building regulations. 1955 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 261.

Under the above sections, should the Town of Mamaroneck adopt the State Building Construction Code, all standards, requirements, rules and regulations promulgated or adopted by the State Building Code Council would pertain to the Town, unless the State Building Code Council, pursuant to provisions of Executive Law, § 376, limited their application or portions thereof to specified classes or types of buildings or to an area wherein the Town of Mamaroneck is situated. 1969 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 6.

Condemnations by cities under the power of eminent domain are not "appropriations" by "the state or any agency or department thereof" pursuant to ECL § 25-0602. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 10.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Federal Aspects:

Definitions under Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act, 15 USCS § 2203.

Jurisprudences:

19A NY Jur 2d Condominiums and Cooperative Apartments § 74.

25 NY Jur 2d Counties, Towns, and Municipal Corporations § 374.

27 NY Jur 2d Counties, Towns, and Municipal Corporations § 1535.

§ 375. Powers of the council

The council is authorized and empowered:

1. To subpoena witnesses, take testimony, compel production of books and records and to hold public hearings. The secretary may designate one or more members of the council, or one or more officers or employees of the department, or the administrator, on request of the secretary, may designate one or more employees of the office, to hold public hearings and report on such hearings to the council.

2. To study the operation of the uniform fire prevention and building code, the state energy conservation construction code established by article eleven of the energy law, local regulations and other laws relating to the construction of buildings and the protection of buildings from fire to ascertain their effects upon the cost of building construction and the effectiveness of their provisions for health, safety and security, particularly as such provisions relate to the protection of life and property from the dangers of fire.

3. To recommend tests and approvals or to require the testing and approval of materials, devices and methods of construction to ascertain their acceptability under the requirements of the uniform fire prevention and building code.

4. To advise and assist the secretary in carrying out the provisions and purposes of this article and to make recommendations concerning the program and activities of the office and appointments to be made by the secretary in connection with the uniform fire prevention and building code.

5. To make and establish and, from time to time, alter and amend rules for the organization and internal management of the council, and for such other purposes as may be necessary, desirable or proper in carrying out its powers and duties under this article.

6. To avoid duplication of effort and in the interest of economy, the council may make use of existing studies, surveys, plans, data and other materials in the possession of any state agency. Each such agency is hereby authorized and directed to make the same available to the council and otherwise to assist it in the performance of its functions. The officers and personnel of such agencies may serve at the request of the council upon such advisory committees as the council shall determine to create and such officers and personnel may serve upon such committees without forfeiture of office or employment and with no loss or diminution in the compensation, status, rights and privileges which they otherwise enjoy.

7. To review and approve standards established by rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner of health for the implementation of item (ii) of clause (a) of section three hundred twenty-two-c of the general business law.

8. To examine, evaluate, and make recommendations concerning the standardization of the uniform code and local building codes and permit processes for the purpose of facilitating and encouraging the installation and operation of solar and wind energy generating systems throughout the state. For this purpose, the council is authorized to hold public hearings and consult with the solar and wind energy generating industry throughout the state. Any recommendations formulated pursuant to this subdivision shall be submitted to the governor, the secretary of state, the temporary president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly along with such legislative proposals as the council deems necessary to implement its recommendations.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 1995, ch 83, § 58, eff June 20, 1995; L 1996, ch 309, § 151, eff July 13, 1996; L 1997, ch 443, § 3, eff Aug 20, 1997; L 2010, ch 552, § 1, eff Oct 20, 2010.

Prior Law: Former § 375, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 180; amd, L 1951, ch 580, § 6; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 552 § 1 amended:

By adding sub 8.

1997. Chapter 443, § 3 amended:

By adding sub 7.

1996. Chapter 309, § 151 amended:

Sub 1 by deleting at figs 1 and 3 "commissioner", at fig 2 "division" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 4 by deleting at figs 1 and 3 "commissioner", at fig 2 "division" and adding the matter in italics.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Racing and wagering board: electronic bingo aids. 9 NYCRR Part 5823.

Federal Aspects:

National Institute of Building Sciences, 12 USCS § 1701j-2.

National Academy for Fire Prevention and Control, 15 USCS § 2206.

Jurisprudences:

19A NY Jur 2d Condominiums and Cooperative Apartments § 74.

25 NY Jur 2d Counties, Towns, and Municipal Corporations § 374.

27 NY Jur 2d Counties, Towns, and Municipal Corporations § 1535.

§ 376-a. Code enforcement training and certification.

1. For the purpose of this section, the term code enforcement personnel shall mean a code enforcement official certified pursuant to this section charged with enforcement of the uniform fire prevention and building code or the state energy conservation construction code.

2. In addition to the functions, powers and duties otherwise provided by this article, the secretary of state may promulgate rules and regulations with respect to:

(a) The approval, or revocation thereof, of code enforcement training programs for code enforcement personnel;

(b) Minimum courses of study, attendance requirements, and equipment and facilities to be required for approved code enforcement training programs for code enforcement personnel;

(c) Minimum training and examination requirements to qualify for code enforcement officer certification, provided that such training and examination requirements shall not result in code enforcement personnel that have otherwise completed the minimum basic training requirements in order to be eligible for continued employment or permanent appointment as of the effective date of the chapter of the laws of two thousand seventeen that amended this paragraph from being ineligible without further training or examination for certification pursuant to paragraph (d) of this subdivision;

(d) Issuance of a code enforcement officer certification when an applicant satisfies the requirement set forth in paragraph (c) of this subdivision;

(e) Revocation or suspension of the certification of any code enforcement personnel found after a hearing to have materially failed to uphold duties of a code enforcement officer, including but not limited to, making material errors or omissions on an inspection report. The hearing required prior to such revocation or suspension shall provide the code enforcement officer the opportunity to be heard and shall be conducted pursuant to article three of the state administrative procedure act;

(f) Minimum qualifications for instructors for approved code enforcement training programs for code enforcement personnel;

(g) The requirements of minimum basic training which code enforcement personnel shall complete in order to be eligible for continued employment or permanent appointment, and the time within which such basic training must be completed following such appointment;

(h) The requirements for in-service training programs designed to assist code enforcement personnel in maintaining skills and being informed of technological advances;

(i) Categories or classifications of advanced in-service training programs and minimum courses of study and attendance requirements with respect to such categories or classifications;

(j) Exemptions from particular provisions of this article in the case of any county, city, town, or village if in the opinion of the secretary of state the standards of code enforcement training established and maintained by such county, city, town, or village are equal to or higher than those established pursuant to this article; or revocation in whole or in part of such exemption, if in his or her opinion the standards of code enforcement training established and maintained by such county, city, town, or village are lower than those established pursuant to this article;

3. In furtherance of his or her functions, powers and duties as set forth in this section, the secretary of state may:

(a) Recommend studies, surveys and reports to be made by the department of state regarding the carrying out of the objectives and purposes of this section;

(b) Visit and inspect any code enforcement training programs approved by the secretary of state or for which application for such approval has been made; and

(c) Recommend standards for promotion to supervisory positions.

4. In addition to the functions, powers and duties otherwise provided by this section, the secretary of state shall:

(a) Approve code enforcement training programs for code enforcement personnel and issue certificates of approval to such programs, and revoke such approval or certificate;

(b) Certify, as qualified, instructors for approved code enforcement training programs for code enforcement personnel and issue appropriate certificates to such instructors;

(c) Certify code enforcement personnel who have satisfactorily completed basic training programs and in-service training programs, and issue appropriate certificates to such code enforcement personnel, and revoke such certificate;

(d) Investigate and conduct hearings as appropriate relative to complaints made against code enforcement personnel;

(e) Cause studies and surveys to be made relating to the establishment, operation, effectiveness and approval of code enforcement training programs;

(f) Cause studies and surveys to be made relating to the completion or partial completion of training programs by video or computer to the maximum extent practicable;

(g) Consult with and cooperate with the state university of New York and private universities, colleges and institutes in the state for the development of specialized courses of study for code enforcement personnel.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2010, ch 56, § 29 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010; L 2017, ch 468, § 1, effective March 18, 2018.

Editor's Notes Laws 2017, ch 468, § 2, eff March 18, 2018, provides:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.

Amendment Notes The 2017 amendment by ch 468, § 1, added "and certification" in the section heading; added "certified pursuant to this section" in 1; added 2(c) through 2(e); redesignated former 2(c) through 2(g) as 2(f) through 2(j); added 4(d); and redesignated former 4(d) through 4(f) as 4(e) through 4(g).

§ 377. New York state uniform fire prevention and building code

1. The council shall formulate a uniform fire prevention and building code which shall take effect on the first day of January, nineteen hundred eighty-four. The council may from time to time amend particular provisions of the uniform code and shall periodically review the entire code to assure that it effectuates the purposes of this article and the specific objectives and standards hereinafter set forth. The secretary shall conduct public hearings on said uniform code and any amendment thereto. The secretary shall review such code or amendment, together with any changes incorporated by the council as a result of such hearings, to insure that it effectuates the purposes of this article. Upon being so satisfied, the secretary shall approve said code or amendment prior to its becoming effective.

2. The uniform fire prevention and building code shall:

a. provide reasonably uniform standards and requirements for construction and construction materials for public and private buildings, including factory manufactured homes, consonant with accepted standards of engineering and fire prevention practices;

b. formulate such standards and requirements, so far as may be practicable, in terms of performance objectives, so as to make adequate performance for the use intended the test of acceptability;

c. permit to the fullest extent feasible, use of modern technical methods, devices and improvements which tend to reduce the cost of construction without substantially affecting reasonable requirements for the health, safety and security of the occupants or users of buildings;

d. encourage, so far as may be practicable, the standardization of construction practices, methods, equipment, material and techniques; and

e. eliminate restrictive, obsolete, conflicting and unnecessary building regulations and requirements which tend to increase unnecessarily construction costs or retard unnecessarily the use of new materials, or provide unwarranted preferential treatment to types or classes of material or products or methods of construction.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 1986, ch 772, § 2, eff Aug 2, 1986; L 1996, ch 309, § 153, eff July 13, 1996.

Prior Law: Former § 377, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 182; amd, L 1951, ch 580, § 7, L 1961, ch 197, § 8; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1986, ch 772, § 1, eff Aug 2, 1986, provides as follows:

Section 1. Purpose. The legislature hereby finds and declares that, in an effort to meet the housing needs within the state of New York, the private housing and construction industry has developed mass production techniques which can substantially reduce housing construction costs, and that the mass production of housing presents unique problems with respect to the establishment of uniform health and safety standards and inspection procedures. The legislature further finds and declares that, by adopting uniform standards for factory manufactured homes, it is demonstrating its intention to encourage new and improved technology, techniques, methods and materials to increase the available supply of housing, to reduce housing construction costs and to make home ownership more feasible for all residents of the state.

Amendment Notes:

1996. Chapter 309, § 153 amended:
Sub 1, by deleting "commissioner".

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

In personal injury action against out-of-possession landlord for negligent maintenance of basement stairway, plaintiff failed to raise triable issue of fact as to whether premises violated State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code (9 NYCRR Part 600 et seq.), absent admissible evidence that premises, which were constructed before promulgation of Code and therefore were not subject to its provisions, had such alterations or repairs so as to be brought within coverage of Code. Lester v Waterman, 242 A.D.2d 683, 664 N.Y.S.2d 927, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9204 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

It was error for a trial court in a slip and fall case, after finding that a doll on the outer stairway of a home had caused a visitor's fall, to award summary judgment to the homeowners on a finding that their failure to add a handrail to the stairway, in apparent violation of the New York Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code, N.Y. Exec. Law § 377(1), did not cause the fall. As more than one conclusion could have been formed from the evidence, it was for the trier of fact to determine whether the doll on the stairway, or the violation of the Code, or both, had proximately caused the visitor's fall and her injuries. Scala v Scala, 31 A.D.3d 423, 818 N.Y.S.2d 151, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8676 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 377
3. Under former § 392

1. In general

Municipality is not authorized to condition issuance of permits or licenses affecting real property on payment of delinquent real property taxes. 1996 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 96-45, 1996 N.Y. AG LEXIS 62.

All local government buildings, no matter how used, are subject to provisions of New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code, so that proposed building of sewer agency, which agency is division of county government, is subject to provisions of code. NY Ops Atty Gen 89-6 (Informal).

2. Under former § 377

When a town, by local law, has adopted the fire prevention code promulgated by the American Insurance Association, the town cannot provide in a local law that changes to the code as made from time to time by the Association shall automatically amend the code as adopted by the town. 1980 Op St Compt File #184.

3. Under former § 392

A municipality may not adopt a part of the State Building Conservation and Fire Prevention Code. The local board of review may not approve variances and modifications of the Code applicable throughout the municipality but may approve them on a case-by-case basis upon a finding of practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 5 (informal).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in §§ 372, 381.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Fire mobilization and mutual aid plan. 9 NYCRR §§ 205.1 et seq.

State uniform fire prevention and building code. 9 NYCRR §§ 600.1 et seq.

Department of state: standards for construction of enclosed mall buildings. 9 NYCRR §§ 768.1 et seq.

State fire prevention code. 9 NYCRR §§ 1150.1 et seq.

Department of state: residential code. 9 NYCRR § 1220.1.

Department of state: building code. 9 NYCRR § 1221.1.

Department of state: plumbing code. 9 NYCRR § 1222.1.

Department of state: mechanical code. 9 NYCRR § 1223.1.

Department of state: fuel gas code. 9 NYCRR § 1224.1.

Department of state: fire code. 9 NYCRR § 1225.1.

Department of state: property maintenace code. 9 NYCRR § 1226.1.

Fire prevention and safety, multiple residences. 9 NYCRR §§ 1500.1 et seq.

Building materials and finishes fire gas toxicity data file. 19 NYCRR §§ 439.1 et seq.

Department of state: identification of lumber to be used for load supporting purposes. 19 NYCRR § 1220.2, 1221.2.

Department of state: landings at required exit doors. 19 NYCRR § 1220.3.

Department of state: dampproofing and waterproofing of foundation walls. 19 NYCRR § 1220.4.

Department of state: carbon monoxide alarms. 19 NYCRR § 1225.2.

Department of state: temporary swimming pool enclosures. 19 NYCRR § 1228.4.

Department of state: installation of pool alarms in residential and commercial swimming pools. 19 NYCRR §§ 1228.1 et seq.

Hudson River Park Trust: regulations of payments. 21 NYCRR Part 753.

Federal Aspects:

Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act, 15 USCS §§ 2201 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

13 Am Jur 2d, Buildings §§ 18 et seq.

13A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Municipal Corporations, Counties, and Other Political Subdivisions § 180:64.

§ 378. Standards for New York state uniform fire prevention and building code

The uniform code shall address the following subjects:

1. Standards for the construction of all buildings or classes of buildings, or the installation of equipment therein, including standards for materials to be used in connection therewith, and standards for safety and sanitary conditions. Notwithstanding the above, sleeping quarters in a children's overnight camp as defined in subdivision one of section thirteen hundred ninety-two of the public health law shall be governed by subdivision one of section thirteen hundred ninety-four of such law.

2. Standards for the condition, occupancy, maintenance, conservation, rehabilitation and renewal of certain existing buildings, structures and premises and for the safeguarding of life and property therein and thereabout from the hazards of fire, explosion or release of toxic gases arising from the storage, handling or use of combustible or hazardous substances, materials or devices.

3. Standards for passenger elevators to promote uniformity and ease of use for the handicapped including, but not limited to:

a. placement and identification of operating controls,

b. door jamb markings,

c. operation and leveling features,

d. operation, width, and safety features for doors,

e. hall buttons, and

f. hall lanterns.

4. Standards for areas of public assembly requiring:

a. approved fire protection equipment and systems shall be installed;

b. interior finishes shall be of appropriate grade to materially retard the spread of smoke and flame, taking into consideration the fire protection equipment and systems in place, and shall be maintained in that condition;

c. no combustible material shall be placed in such amounts and locations as would cause existing fire protection equipment and systems to be substantially overburdened, nor shall any material be placed in such manner as would cause safe exit to be significantly impeded; and

d. incorporation of the retroactivity provisions of article eighteen-AA of this chapter.

e. for buildings included in group C5 of paragraph (f) of section 900.2 of title nine of the official compilation of codes, rules and regulations of the state of New York, that water closets and urinals provided for occupants, based upon capacity, shall be deemed sanitary fixtures and shall be distributed on a basis such that the number of such sanitary fixtures provided in rest facilities for men shall be equal to the number of water closets provided in rest facilities provided for women in buildings with an occupancy of four hundred or less. For buildings consisting of more than four hundred occupants, an additional water closet shall be added to a rest facility provided for women for each sanitary fixture added to a similarly situated rest facility provided for men.

The standards shall include provisions for the type, number, spacing and location of fire protection equipment and systems, the classification and maintenance of interior finishes, and the accumulation of materials.

5. Standards for hotels, motels and lodging houses, requiring that a notice be posted in a prominent place in each guest room, including but not limited to the following information:

a. location of nearest exits and fire alarms;

b. procedures to be followed when the fire or smoke detector gives warning; and

c. procedures to be followed in the event of fire or smoke development.

5-a. Standards for installation of carbon monoxide detectors requiring that every one or two-family dwelling, or any dwelling accommodation located in a building owned as a condominium or cooperative in the state or any multiple dwellings shall have installed an operable carbon monoxide detector of such manufacture, design and installation standards as are established by the council. Carbon monoxide detectors required by this section are required only where the dwelling unit has appliances, devices or systems that may emit carbon monoxide or has an attached garage. For purposes of this subdivision, multiple dwelling means a dwelling which is either rented, leased, let or hired out, to be occupied, or is occupied as the temporary or permanent residence or home of three or more families living independently of each other, including but not limited to the following: a tenement, flat house, maisonette apartment, apartment house, apartment hotel, tourist house, bachelor apartment, studio apartment, duplex apartment, kitchenette apartment, hotel, lodging house, rooming house, boarding house, boarding and nursery school, furnished room house, club, sorority house, fraternity house, college and school dormitory, convalescent, old age or nursing homes or residences. It shall also include a dwelling, two or more stories in height, and with five or more boarders, roomers or lodgers residing with any one family. New construction shall mean a new facility or a separate building added to an existing facility.

5-b. Standards for installation of single station smoke detecting alarm devices requiring that:

a. every one or two-family dwelling or any dwelling accommodation located in a building owned as a condominium or cooperative in the state used as a residence shall have installed an operable single station smoke detecting alarm device or devices,

b. such device or devices shall be installed in an area so that it is clearly audible in each bedroom or other room used for sleeping purposes, with intervening doors closed, in accordance with rules to be promulgated by the council,

c. such device or devices shall be in compliance with the uniform code, provided, however, that for purposes of this subdivision, battery operated devices shall be permitted,

d. upon conveyance of any real property containing a one or two-family dwelling or a condominium unit used as a residence and the transferor of the shares allocated to an apartment located in a building owned by a cooperative housing corporation where such apartment is used as a residence, the grantor shall deliver to the grantee at the time of conveyance an affidavit indicating that the grantor is in compliance with this subdivision. The grantee shall have ten days from the date of conveyance within which to notify the grantor if the alarm or alarms are not operable. Upon notification, the transferor shall bear any cost of compliance with the provisions of this subdivision,

e. notwithstanding any other provision of law, a failure to comply with the provisions of this subdivision shall not be a breach of any warranty in a conveyance of real property, nor shall it be a defense to any claim made under a policy of insurance issued to insure the property against fire or other casualty loss.

5-c. Standards for inspections of solid fuel burning heating appliances, chimneys and flues requiring:

a. prior to the installation of any solid fuel burning heating appliance, chimney or flue in any dwelling used as a residence, the owner thereof, or his agent, shall first secure a building permit from the appropriate local government official;

b. an appropriate and qualified inspector, as determined by the local government, shall cause an inspection to be made of the solid fuel burning heating appliance, chimney or flue at a time when such inspection will best determine conformity of such installation with the uniform code, provided, however, that the local government official may waive such inspection for good cause shown;

c. upon approval of such installation, the appropriate local government official shall issue a certificate evidencing compliance with the appropriate provisions of the uniform code;

d. no owner of any dwelling used as a residence shall operate, or cause to be operated, any solid fuel burning heating appliance until such installation, including chimney and flue, has been approved and a certificate indicating such approval obtained from the appropriate local government official;

e. in the event of an accidental fire, requiring the services of a fire department, in a solid fuel burning heating appliance, chimney or flue, the chief of the fire department so responding may issue a temporary thirty day certificate indicating substantial conformity with the uniform code, until such time as an official inspector, as determined by local law, or in the case of a locality that relies on state inspection, a state inspector, shall cause an inspection to be made and a certificate to be issued indicating conformity of such solid fuel burning heating appliance, chimney or flue with the uniform code;

f. the issuance of such certificate of compliance shall not be deemed to give rise to any claim or cause of action for damages against the local government or local official for damages resulting from operation or use of such solid fuel burning heating appliance, chimney or flue;

g. the local government in which such property is located may establish and collect a reasonable fee for such inspection from the owner of such property or his agent;

h. any violation of this subdivision shall be deemed a violation and be punishable by a fine not to exceed two hundred fifty dollars;

i. notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this subdivision, in the event of an emergency, where a delay occasioned by the requirement of securing a building permit could reasonably be expected to cause irrepairable [irreparable]* damage to the property or serious personal injury to the occupants or other person, the owner or his agent may commence such installation without first obtaining such building permit provided application therefore [therefor] is filed within three business days after such work is commenced.

5-d. Standards for installation of carbon monoxide detecting devices requiring that the owner of every building that contains one or more restaurants and the owner of every commercial building in the state shall have installed in such building and shall maintain operable carbon monoxide detecting device or devices of such manufacture, design and installation standards as are established by the council. Carbon monoxide detecting devices shall only be required if the restaurant or commercial building has appliances, devices or systems that may emit carbon monoxide or has an attached garage.

6. Standards for the use of lead in water supply systems constructed or portions added on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, including limiting the amount of lead in solder which may be utilized in piping to convey potable water to not more than two-tenths of one percent.

7. Standards for the construction of water supply systems which shall prohibit the use of asbestos cement pipe to convey potable water for any new or modified construction on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-two.

8. Standards for hotels, motels and lodging houses requiring (in addition to any other requirement) portable smoke-detecting alarm devices for the deaf and hard of hearing of audible and visual design, available for three percent of all units available for occupancy, with a minimum of one unit. If any other law or regulation requires a central, closed circuit interior alarm system, such device shall be incorporated into or connected to the system so as to be capable of being activated by the system. Incorporation into the existing system shall be in lieu of the portable alarms. Standards shall require operators of any such establishment to post conspicuously at the main desk or other similar station a notice in letters at least three inches in height stating that smoke-detector alarm devices for the deaf and hard of hearing are available. The council shall mandate by rule and regulation the specific design of the smoke-detector alarm devices.

9. Standards for buildings (designated as "Group B3-senior citizens" in regulations promulgated pursuant to the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code act) housing senior citizens, intended primarily for persons sixty-two years old or more, who are in good physical condition and do not require physical assistance, requiring that a notice be posted in a prominent place in each residential unit, including but not limited to the following information:

a. location of nearest exits and fire alarms;

b. procedures to be followed when the fire or smoke detector gives warning; and

c. procedures to be followed in the event of fire or smoke development.

10. Standards for assistive listening systems for new construction commenced after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-one requiring the installation of assistive listening systems at all places of public assembly so designated by the appropriate building and fire code for use by persons who are deaf or hard of hearing who require use of such a system to improve their reception of sound.

a. For purposes of this subdivision, the term (i) "assistive listening system" shall mean situational-personal acoustic communication equipment designed to improve the transmission and auditory reception of sound; and

(ii) "place of public assembly" shall mean a facility which is open to the public as a theater, meeting hall, hearing room, amphitheater, auditorium, or in any other similar capacity.

b. Standards for such systems shall be developed by the state fire prevention and building code council upon receiving recommendations from the advisory board on assistive listening systems in places of public assembly.

c. The appropriate building code or ordinance shall designate such places of public assembly which shall be required to install such assistive listening systems.

11. Standards for buildings shall authorize the installation of potable water heaters for all domestic uses, including space heating.

12. a. [There are two subdivisions 12] Standards for bed and breakfast dwellings shall be promulgated for fire safety. Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, for the purposes of this subdivision a "bed and breakfast dwelling" shall include an owner-occupied residence providing at least three but not more than five rooms for temporary transient lodgers with sleeping accommodations and a meal in the forenoon of the day. Such standards shall distinguish bed and breakfast dwellings from one and two family dwellings, provide specific options for hard-wired single-station smoke detectors and provide a notice to each guest that contains:

(i) the location of nearest exits and fire alarms;

(ii) procedures to be followed when fire or smoke detectors give warning; and

(iii) procedures to be followed in the event of fire or smoke development.

b. Such standards shall also include egress design options to preserve the aesthetic charm and historical significance of such dwellings that shall be limited to one of the following:

*The bracketed word has been inserted by the Publisher.
The bracketed word has been inserted by the Publisher.

(i) an automatic sprinkler head in the stairwell area of any means of egress;

(ii) an external second floor egress; or

(iii) a portable escape device for each guest room.

c. The standards required by this subdivision shall be promulgated and implemented not later than one hundred twenty days after the effective date of this paragraph.

12. [There are two subdivisions 12] Standards for hospice residences, as defined in section four thousand two of the public health law, which shall be deemed to be either a single family dwelling or a two family dwelling for the purposes of local laws and ordinances relating to fire safety and building construction standards.

13. Standards for the abandonment or removal of heating oil storage tanks and related piping in connection with the conversion of liquid fuel burning appliance to alternative fuel requiring:

a. The entire contents of the heating oil storage tank and related piping shall be emptied, cleaned and purged of all vapor. The contents of the storage tank and related piping shall be removed from the premises or property and disposed of in accordance with applicable local, state or federal rules and regulations;

b. If the heating oil storage tank is to be abandoned in place, the vent line shall remain open and intact, unless the tank is filled with an inert material. The oil fill pipe and other related piping shall either be removed, or the oil fill pipe shall be filled with concrete;

c. If the heating oil storage tank is to be removed, the vent line, oil fill pipe and related piping shall also be removed, or the oil fill pipe shall be filled with concrete;

d. An appropriate and qualified inspector, as determined by the local government, shall cause an inspection to be made of the abandonment or removal in connection with the conversion to determine conformity with the uniform code; provide [provided]*, however, that the local government official may waive such inspection for good cause shown; and

e. No approval of such abandonment or removal shall be granted unless written proof of the heating oil storage tank's oil fill pipe having been removed or filled with concrete in accordance with appropriate provisions of the uniform code has been provided by the property owner to the local inspector or, in the event that an inspection has been waived for good cause shown, to the local government official.

f. For the purposes of this subdivision, "heating oil storage tank" shall mean a tank used for storing heating oil for consumptive use on the premises where stored.

g. In cities with a population of over one million, such cities' local code provisions shall be at least as stringent as the provisions of this subdivision.

h. The property owner shall provide written notice to his or her home heating oil supplier or suppliers to inform them of such conversion to an alternate fuel prior to the commencement of the new home heating service.

14. Provide that any:

a. gates required to be provided in a swimming pool enclosure shall be self-closing and self-latching with the latch handle located within the enclosure and at least forty inches above grade, and shall be securely locked with a key, combination or other child proof lock sufficient to prevent access to such swimming pool through such gate when such swimming pool is not in use or supervised;

b. residential or commercial swimming pool constructed or substantially modified after the effective date of this paragraph shall be equipped with an acceptable pool alarm capable of detecting a child entering the water and of giving an audible alarm; and

c. [There are two sub 14, paragraphs c] hot tub or spa with a safety cover which complies with American Society of Testing and Materials International standard F1346 (2003) or any similar standard which may be approved by the council or swimming pool, other than a hot tub or spa, with an automatic power safety cover which complies with American Society of Testing and Materials International standard F1346 (2003) or any similar standard which may be approved by the council shall be exempt from the provisions of paragraph b of this subdivision.

c. [There are two sub 14, paragraphs c] temporary swimming pool enclosure shall be required to be replaced by a permanent enclosure which is in compliance with New York state codes, regulations or local laws within ninety days from the issuance of a local building permit or the commencement of the installation of an in-ground swimming pool, whichever is later. A local building department may issue a waiver to allow an extension of such ninety day time period for good cause including but not limited to adverse weather conditions delaying construction.

15. Standards for temporary swimming pool enclosures used during the installation or construction of swimming pools requiring that any such enclosure shall sufficiently prevent any access to such swimming pool by any person not engaged in the installation or construction of such swimming pool and shall sufficiently provide for the safety of any such person.

16. Standards requiring the installation and maintenance of at least one safe, sanitary, and convenient diaper changing station, deck, table, or similar amenity which shall be available for use by both male and female occupants and which shall comply with section 603.5 (Diaper Changing Tables) of the two thousand nine edition of the publication entitled ICC A117.1, Accessible and Usable Buildings and Facilities, published by the International Code Council, Inc., on each floor level containing a public toilet room in all newly constructed buildings in the state that have one or more areas classified as assembly group A occupancies or mercantile group M occupancies and in all existing buildings in the state that have one or more areas classified as assembly group A occupancies or mercantile group M occupancies and undergo a substantial renovation. The council shall prescribe the type of renovation to be deemed to be a substantial renovation for the purposes of this subdivision. The council may exempt historic buildings from the requirements of this subdivision.

*The bracketed word has been inserted by the Publisher.

17. Standards requiring that, in each building that has one or more areas classified as assembly group A occupancies or mercantile group M occupancies and in which at least one diaper changing station, deck, table, or similar amenity is installed, a sign shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each public toilet room indicating the location of the nearest diaper changing station, deck, table, or similar amenity that is available for use by the gender using such public toilet room. The requirements of this subdivision shall apply without regard to whether the diaper changing station, deck, table, or similar amenity was installed voluntarily or pursuant to subdivision sixteen of this section or any other applicable law, statute, rule, or regulation. No such sign shall be required in a public toilet room in which any diaper changing station, deck, table, or similar amenity is located.

18. a. Except as otherwise provided by statute, no change to the building code shall become effective until at least ninety days after the date on which notice of such change has been published in the state register, unless the council finds that:

(i) an earlier effective date is necessary to protect health, safety and security; or

(ii) the change to the code will not impose any additional compliance requirements on any person.

b. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph a of this subdivision, the council may provide that, in the period during which changes to the code have been adopted but are not yet effective pursuant to paragraph a of this subdivision, a person shall have the option of complying with either the provisions of the code as changed or with the code provisions as they were set forth immediately prior to the change.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 1984, ch 374, § 1, eff Nov 15, 1984; L 1984, ch 864, § 1, eff Jan 1, 1985; L 1984, ch 971, § 1; L 1985, ch 190, § 1; L 1986, ch 435, § 1; L 1987, ch 157, § 1; L 1987, ch 412, § 1, eff Jan 19, 1988; L 1987, ch 763, § 1, eff Nov 5, 1987; L 1988, ch 96, § 1, eff Nov 23, 1988; L 1988, ch 295, § 3; L 1988, ch 506, § 1, eff Nov 29, 1988; L 1989, ch 23, § 2; L 1989, ch 82, § 1, eff Nov 7, 1989; L 1989, ch 270, § 2, eff June 1, 1990; L 1991, ch 494, § 1, eff Jan 15, 1992; L 1994, ch 310, § 1, eff July 20, 1994; L 1995, ch 132, § 1, eff July 5, 1995; L 1995, ch 532, § 3, eff Aug 2, 1995; L 1996, ch 463, § 1, eff Aug 8, 1996; L 1997, ch 98, § 1, eff June 11, 1997; L 1997, ch 636, § 1, eff Sept 24, 1997; L 1998, ch 398, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1998; L 2002, ch 257, § 1, eff Nov 27, 2002; L 2005, ch 438, § 2, eff Dec 7, 2005; L 2006, ch 94, §§ 3, 4, eff June 7, 2006; L 2006, ch 202, § 1, eff July 26, 2006, deemed eff on and after Dec 7, 2005; L 2006, ch 450, § 2, eff Dec 14, 2006; L 2007, ch 75, § 1, eff June 12, 2007, deemed eff on and after Dec 14, 2006; L 2007, ch 234, §§ 1, 2, eff Jan 14, 2008; L 2009, ch 367, § 2, eff Feb 22, 2010; L 2009, ch 443, § 1, eff Sept 16, 2009; L 2014, ch 541, § 2, effective June 27, 2015; L 2018, ch 58, §§ 1, 2 (Part LL), effective January 1, 2019; L 2018, ch 221, § 3, effective August 24, 2018; L 2019, ch 725, § 3, effective March 19, 2020.

Prior Law: Former § 378, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 183; amd, L 1961, ch 197, § 9; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Editor's Notes Laws 1984, ch 374, § 2, eff Nov 15, 1984, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, except that any rules and regulations necessary for the timely implementation of this act on its effective date shall be promulgated on or before such date.

Laws 1987, ch 157, § 2, eff Oct 27, 1987, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, except that any rules and regulations necessary for the timely implementation of this act on its effective date shall be promulgated on or before such date.

Laws 1988, ch 96, § 2, eff Nov 23, 1988, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law, provided however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of the foregoing section of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 1988, ch 506, § 5, eff Nov 29, 1988, provides as follows:

§ 5. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, provided however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rules or regulations necessary for the implementation of the foregoing sections of this act on their effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 1989, ch 82, § 2, eff Nov 7, 1989, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law, provided however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the timely implementation of this act on its effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 1989, ch 270, §§ 1 and 3, eff June 1, 1990, provide as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature finds that the current standards regarding the number of sanitary fixtures, including water closets, urinals and lavatories under paragraph (f) of section 900.2 of title nine of the official compilation of codes, rules and regulations of the state of New York, relating to the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code for buildings under group C5, assembly, do not adequately provide for the sanitary needs of women at the places of public assembly named therein.

The legislature further finds that this inadequacy of sanitary facilities in such places of public assembly causes not only a gender-specific inconvenience, but a threat to public health, safety and comfort.

The legislature further finds that such inequity of public rest facilities in such C5 buildings is attributable to provisions in the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code which provide equality in the number of water closets and urinals in C5 buildings but which do not include provisions for an equal distribution of such fixtures for use among men and women.

The legislature therefore finds that legislation must be introduced which will provide for the equal distribution of such fixtures for use among such men and women.

§ 3. This act shall take effect on June 1, 1990 and shall only apply to buildings constructed on or after such effective date.

Laws 1991, ch 494, § 2, eff Jan 1, 1992, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law, provided however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of the foregoing sections of this act on their effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2002, ch 257, § 2, eff Nov 27, 2002, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rules or regulations by the secretary of state necessary for the implementation of the foregoing section of this act on its effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2005, ch 438, §§ 1, 3, eff Dec 7, 2005, provide as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and cited as "Daniel's Law".

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become law, provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rules or regulations by the secretary of state necessary for the implementation of the foregoing sections of this act on its effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2006, ch 450, § 3, eff Dec 14, 2006, provides as follows:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation by the secretary of state necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2007, ch 234, § 3, eff Jan 14, 2008, provides as follows:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation by the secretary of state necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2009, ch 367, § 1, eff Feb 22, 2010, provides as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as "Amanda's law".

Laws 2014, ch 541, § 1, eff June 27, 2015, provides:

§ 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as "Steven Nelson's law".

Laws 2018, ch 58, § 3 (Part LL), eff January 1, 2018, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect January 1, 2019; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rules or regulations by the secretary of state and/or by the state fire prevention and building code council necessary for the implementation of section two of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Laws 2019, ch 725, § 4, eff March 19, 2020, provides:

§ 4. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law. Effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Amendment Notes The 2014 amendment by ch 541, § 2, added 5-d.

2009. Chapter 367, § 2 amended:

Sub 5-a by deleting at figs 1 and 2 "constructed or offered for sale after July thirtieth, two thousand two", at fig 3 "constructed or offered for sale after August ninth, two thousand five", at fig 4 "For the purposes of this section, sale shall mean the transfer of ownership of a business or property, provided however, transfer of franchises shall not be deemed a sale." and adding the matter in italics.

2009. Chapter 433, § 1 amended:

Sub 1 by adding the matter in italics.

2007. Chapter 75, § 1 amended:

Sub 14, par a by deleting at fig 1 "and".

Sub 14, par b by deleting at fig 1 a period and adding the matter in italics.

By adding sub 14, par c [first setout].

2007. Chapter 234, § 1 amended:

Sub 14, par a by deleting at fig 1 "and".

Sub 14, par b by deleting at fig 1 a period and adding the matter in italics.

By adding sub 14, par c [second setout].

2007. Chapter 234, § 2 amended:

By adding sub 16.

2006. Chapter 94, § 3 amended:

By redesignating sub 5 [third setout] as sub 5-b.

2006. Chapter 94, § 4 amended:

By redesignating sub 5 [second setout] as sub 5-c.

1998. Chapter 398, § 1 amended:

By adding sub 15.

1997. Chapter 98, § 1 amended:

By adding sub 12 [first setout], par c.

1996. Chapter 463, § 1 amended:

By adding sub 13.

1995. Chapter 132, § 1 amended:

By adding sub 12 [first setout].

1995. Chapter 532, § 3 amended:

By adding sub 12 [second setout].

The 2018 amendment by ch 58, §§ 1, 2 (Part LL), renumbered former 15 as 18; and added 16 and 17.

The 2018 amendment by ch 221, § 3, substituted "deaf and hard of hearing" for "deaf and hearing impaired" in the first and fourth sentences of 8; and substituted "by persons who are deaf or hard of hearing" for "by hearing impaired persons" in the introductory language of 10.

The 2019 amendment by ch 725, § 3, added 13(h).

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 375

1. In general

CLS Exec § 378(2) does not authorize only regulations involving specific hazards of fire and toxic gases; statute also permits regulations relating to existing buildings, structures and premises. Tarquini v Aurora, 77 N.Y.2d 354, 568 N.Y.S.2d 538, 570 N.E.2d 186, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 208 (N.Y. 1991).

Swimming pool (meaning assembly of materials framed of component parts and situated on parcel of land) falls under "structures and premises" language of CLS Exec § 378(2). Tarquini v Aurora, 77 N.Y.2d 354, 568 N.Y.S.2d 538, 570 N.E.2d 186, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 208 (N.Y. 1991).

CLS Exec § 378(2) authorized State Fire Prevention and Building Code Council to promulgate safety regulation requiring enclosure of at least 4 feet in height around residential outdoor swimming pools (9 NYCRR § 1243.7). Tarquini v Aurora, 77 N.Y.2d 354, 568 N.Y.S.2d 538, 570 N.E.2d 186, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 208 (N.Y. 1991).

Outdoor residential swimming pool was not "building" under CLS Exec § 372, and thus was not exempt from regulation requiring enclosure (9 NYCRR § 1243.7) despite having been built prior to regulation's effective date. Tarquini v Aurora, 77 N.Y.2d 354, 568 N.Y.S.2d 538, 570 N.E.2d 186, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 208 (N.Y. 1991).

In proceeding wherein town sought order directing defendant to repair its building and conform to provisions of State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code, courts below properly concluded that Code provisions regulating property maintenance applied to apartment buildings (such as defendant's) constructed prior to enactment of Code. Town of Conklin v Ritter, 97 N.Y.2d 712, 739 N.Y.S.2d 355, 765 N.E.2d 851, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. 2002).

2. Under former § 375

The state building construction code does not impose an absolute duty upon an owner to install a handrail and artificial illumination in a staircase. Hence, an injured person must prove his freedom from contributory negligence to recover damages from the owner. The code was not designed to protect a definite class of persons from a hazard of "definable orbit" and is in no way analogous to the provisions of the Labor Law providing safeguards for workmen. Major v Waverly & Ogden, Inc., 8 A.D.2d 380, 190 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7873 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1959), aff'd, 7 N.Y.2d 332, 197 N.Y.S.2d 165, 165 N.E.2d 181, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1512 (N.Y. 1960).

"Stepped pathway" which was built for convenience of public with so-called treads approximately six feet wide and having varying depths running from 28 to 43 ½ inches was obviously distinguishable from flight of stairs to be utilized at a normal gait by person descending or ascending and thus stairway construction provisions contained in state building code were inapplicable in determining State's liability for personal injuries sustained as result of fall while descending pathway, which was located at state park. Johnson v State, 53 A.D.2d 1018, 386 N.Y.S.2d 146, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15824 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. Under former § 375
2. Under former § 376

1. Under former § 375

The City of Auburn Industrial Development Authority is not required to obtain a certificate of occupancy from the City of Auburn to occupy a building it erected and is not subject to local or state building construction codes or fire codes or to local inspections and regulations. The City of Auburn has no enforcement jurisdiction over such building and cannot be liable for failure to enforce the codes. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen March 24 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 138.

2. Under former § 376

Under this section and certain provisions of the State Building Construction Code, that code applies to town halls and garages. 1961 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 15.

Under the above sections, should the Town of Mamaroneck adopt the State Building Construction Code, all standards, requirements, rules and regulations promulgated or adopted by the State Building Code Council would pertain to the Town, unless the State Building Code Council, pursuant to provisions of Executive Law, § 376, limited their application or portions thereof to specified classes or types of buildings or to an area wherein the Town of Mamaroneck is situated. 1969 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 6.

The City of Auburn Industrial Development Authority is not required to obtain a certificate of occupancy from the City of Auburn to occupy a building it erected and is not subject to local or state building construction codes or fire codes or to local inspections and regulations. The City of Auburn has no enforcement jurisdiction over such building and cannot be liable for failure to enforce the codes. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen March 24 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 138.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in § 381.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Fire mobilization and mutual aid plan. 9 NYCRR §§ 205.1 et seq.

State uniform fire prevention and building code. 9 NYCRR §§ 600.1 et seq.

Department of state: standards for construction of enclosed mall buildings. 9 NYCRR §§ 768.1 et seq.

State fire prevention code. 9 NYCRR §§ 1150.1 et seq.

Department of state: residential code. 9 NYCRR § 1220.1.

Department of state: building code. 9 NYCRR § 1221.1.

Department of state: plumbing code. 9 NYCRR § 1222.1.

Department of state: mechanical code. 9 NYCRR § 1223.1.

Department of state: fuel gas code. 9 NYCRR § 1224.1.

Department of state: fire code. 9 NYCRR § 1225.1.

Department of state: property maintenace code. 9 NYCRR § 1226.1.

Fire prevention and safety, multiple residences. 9 NYCRR §§ 1500.1 et seq.

Department of state: identification of lumber to be used for load supporting purposes. 19 NYCRR § 1220.2, 1221.2.

Department of state: landings at required exit doors. 19 NYCRR § 1220.3.

Department of state: dampproofing and waterproofing of foundation walls. 19 NYCRR § 1220.4.

Department of state: carbon monoxide alarms. 19 NYCRR § 1225.2.

Department of state: temporary swimming pool enclosures. 19 NYCRR § 1228.4.

Department of state: installation of pool alarms in residential and commercial swimming pools. 19 NYCRR §§ 1228.1 et seq.

Federal Aspects:

Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act, 15 USCS §§ 2201 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

13A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Municipal Corporations, Counties, and Other Political Subdivisions § 180:64.

5 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 383, Negligent Failure to Install or Maintain Smoke Alarm or Sprinkler System.

Law Reviews:

Asbestos litigation: the dust has yet to settle. 7 Fordham Urb. L.J. 55.

Matthew Bender's New York Practice Guides: 2 New York Practice Guide: Real Estate § 6.10.

§ 379. Incorporation of higher standards by council upon recommendation of local government; local building regulations

1. Except in the case of factory manufactured homes, intended for use as one or two family dwelling units or multiple dwellings of not more than two stories in height, the legislative body of any local government may duly enact or adopt local laws or ordinances imposing higher or more restrictive standards for construction within the jurisdiction of such local government than are applicable generally to such local government in the uniform code. Within thirty days of such enactment or adoption, the chief executive officer, or if there be none, the chairman of the legislative body of such local government, shall so notify the council, and shall petition the council for a determination of whether such local laws or ordinances are more stringent than the standards for construction applicable generally to such local government in the uniform code. Such local laws or ordinances shall take full force and effect upon an affirmative determination by the council as provided herein.

2. If the council finds that such higher or more restrictive standards are reasonably necessary because of special conditions prevailing within the local government and that such standards conform with accepted engineering and fire prevention practices and the purposes of this article, the council shall adopt such standards, in whole or part. The council shall have the power to limit the term or duration of such standards, impose conditions in connection with the adoption thereof, and to terminate such standards at such times, and in such manner as the council may deem necessary, desirable or proper.

3. Nothing in this article shall be construed to prohibit any municipality from adopting or enacting any building regulations relating to any matter as to which the uniform fire prevention and building code does not provide, but no municipality shall have the power to supersede, void, repeal or make more or less restrictive any provisions of this article or of rules or regulations made pursuant hereto.

4. Within one hundred twenty days after the effective date of the uniform code, a local government may by resolution duly enacted petition the council for a determination as to whether an existing building and/or fire code in force in said local government is more stringent than the uniform code. During the period in which the council is considering such petition such local code shall remain in full force and effect. If, after review, the council determines that such local code is less stringent than the uniform code the council shall notify the chief executive officer or, if there be none, the chairman of the legislative body of such local government and the uniform code shall, thirty days after the date of notification, apply in such local government. If the council finds that such local code is not less stringent than the uniform code such local code shall continue in full force and effect until the council, upon its own initiative, reviews such local code and determines that it is no longer more stringent, whereupon the council shall notify the chief executive officer or chairman of the legislative body of such local government and thirty days after the date of notification the uniform code shall apply in such local government.

5. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, the legislative body of Nassau county may have duly enacted or adopted or may duly enact or adopt local laws or ordinances imposing higher or more restrictive standards for construction within the jurisdiction of the county than are applicable generally to the county in the uniform code. The chief executive officer, or if there be none, the chairman of the legislative body of the county, shall notify the council, and shall petition the council for a determination of whether such preexisting local laws or ordinances, or within thirty days of such enactment or adoption of such local laws or ordinances, are more stringent than the standards for construction applicable generally to such county in the uniform code. During the period in which the council is considering such petition, such local laws or ordinances shall remain in full force and effect.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 1986, ch 622, § 1, eff July 26, 1986; L 1986, ch 772, § 3, eff Aug 2, 1986; L 2017, ch 348, § 1, effective October 23, 2017.

Prior Law: Former § 379, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 184; amd, L 1961, ch 197, § 11, L 1978, ch 311, § 1; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Editor's Notes: See 1986 note under § 377.

Amendment Notes The 2017 amendment by ch 348, § 1, in the third sentence of 1, deleted "During the period in which the council is considering such petition" at the beginning and substituted "shall take full force and effect upon an affirmative determination by the council as provided herein" for "shall remain in full force and effect."

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 379
3. Under former § 386

1. In general

Local law prohibiting conversion of multiple dwelling buildings into condominiums or cooperatives until building inspector determined that structure complied with all applicable building codes and issued new certificate of occupancy authorizing change was not invalid as preempted by CLS Gen Bus Art 23-A since Attorney General has no power to require cooperative or condominium sponsors to repair or eliminate building code violations as precondition to selling property, and CLS Exec § 379(3) specifically enables municipality to enact "any building regulations relating to any matter as to which the uniform fire prevention and building code does not provide," such as certificates of occupancy; moreover, Multiple Residence Law speaks to certificates of occupancy in CLS Mult R § 302, and expressly permits municipalities to enact more restrictive laws under CLS Mult R § 329(1). P.O.K. RSA, Inc. v New Paltz, 157 A.D.2d 15, 555 N.Y.S.2d 476, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4732 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 76 N.Y.2d 886, 561 N.Y.S.2d 546, 562 N.E.2d 871, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3186 (N.Y. 1990).

In Article 78 proceeding to prevent construction and opening of dry cleaning establishment in residential building after New York City Department of Buildings issued permit, court erred in granting mandamus relief compelling code council to convene to determine whether city code was less stringent than State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code with respect to location of dry cleaning facilities in multiple dwelling buildings because, under CLS Exec § 383(1)(c), decision whether to review code is discretionary with code council, not mandatory. Morrison v New York State Div. of Hous. & Community Renewal, 241 A.D.2d 34, 672 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3257 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), rev'd, 93 N.Y.2d 834, 687 N.Y.S.2d 621, 710 N.E.2d 267, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 28 (N.Y. 1999).

City ordinance adopted in 1995, requiring owner of any structure used wholly or partially for residential purposes...to install and maintain smoke/heat detector or system," was inconsistent and in direct conflict with Uniform Building Code as set forth in CLS Exec art 18 insofar as it applied retroactively to pre-1984 buildings. Rabinor v City of Ithaca Bldg. Code Bd. of Appeals, 252 A.D.2d 290, 682 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14116 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Information charging defendant with violating § 2703.9.8(1) of the New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code, N.Y. Exec. Law art. 18, §§ 370-383, was improperly dismissed as a local ordinance did not have a comparable section to the Code section allegedly violated and thus the Code was applicable under N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 379(4) and 383(1). People v Oceanside Institutional Indus., Inc., 833 N.Y.S.2d 350, 15 Misc. 3d 22, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 380 (N.Y. App. Term), app. denied, 8 N.Y.3d 989, 838 N.Y.S.2d 492, 869 N.E.2d 668, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 1940 (N.Y. 2007).

2. Under former § 379

A town may have adopted both its own town building code and the State Code, provided the town code does not allow its code to supersede, void, repeal or contain a more restrictive provision then the State Code. 1969 Ops St Compt File #129.

Where a town has adopted the State Building Construction Code, it may not enact building regulations which are inconsistent with, or supersede, any provision thereof. More restrictive standards of building construction may be adopted by the State Building Code Council and made applicable to such town on recommendation of the town board. 1974 Ops St Compt File #1021.

3. Under former § 386

Having adopted the New York State Building Construction Code, a town may not deviate from its provisions. Bon-Air Estates, Inc. v Building Inspector of Ramapo, 31 A.D.2d 502, 298 N.Y.S.2d 763, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4268 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1969).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 379
3. Under former § 386
4. Under former § 397

1. In general

Municipality is not authorized to condition issuance of permits or licenses affecting real property on payment of delinquent real property taxes. 1996 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 96-45, 1996 N.Y. AG LEXIS 62.

Plans and specifications for school building heating equipment and facilities were subject to review by Department of Environmental Conservation in accordance with its jurisdiction under CLS ECL Art 19; county's air quality regulations were not applicable. 1999 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 99-5, 1999 N.Y. AG LEXIS 4.

2. Under former § 379

A municipality which has adopted the State Building Construction Code may also have a local code with provisions more restrictive than the State Code provided that builders are given the option of complying with the State Code or the local code, pursuant to Executive Law, §§ 374 and 380. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen May 18.

3. Under former § 386

More restrictive provisions of a town's Fire Prevention Code, enacted subsequent to said town's adoption of the State Building Construction Code, are invalid unless consent thereto is obtained from the State Building Code Council. 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen June 25.

4. Under former § 397

Many provisions of the State Fire Protection Code regulate fire safety practices in existing buildings. A municipality that does not accept the application of the State code, may adopt its own building conservation and fire prevention code. 1982 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 25 (informal).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Federal Aspects:

Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act, 15 USCS §§ 2201 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

13A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Municipal Corporations, Counties, and Other Political Subdivisions § 180:64.

Law Reviews:

Weinberg, Cargo of fire: a call for stricter regulation of liquefied natural gas shipment and storage. 4 Fordham Urb. L.J. 495.

§ 380. Granting authority

The secretary shall administer a program of local assistance to aid local governments in the administration and enforcement of locally adopted or state promulgated building and fire codes. Said program of local assistance shall conform to the requirements of section fifty-four-g of the state finance law. The secretary shall adopt, amend and rescind such rules, regulations and guidelines as may be necessary for the performance of his or her functions, powers and duties under this section.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 2010, ch 56, § 51 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

Prior Law: Former § 380, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 185; amd, L 1953, ch 472, § 1, L 1955, ch 512, § 1; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Amendment Notes 2010. Chapter 56, § 51 (Part B) amended:

By deleting at fig 1 ", by and through the office of fire prevention and control,".

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

State assistance to local governments for support of activities related to fire prevention and building codes, CLS St Fin § 54-g.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Financial assistance to local governments for building and fire code administration and enforcement. 19 NYCRR §§ 433.1 et seq.

§ 381. Administration and enforcement of the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code and the New York state energy conservation construction code

1. The secretary shall promulgate rules and regulations prescribing minimum standards for administration and enforcement of the uniform fire prevention and building code promulgated in accordance with sections three hundred seventy-seven and three hundred seventy-eight of this article and the state energy conservation construction code adopted in accordance with article eleven of the energy law. Such rules and regulations shall become effective not later than the first day of January, nineteen hundred eighty-five. The secretary shall promulgate such regulations after public hearing and after considering reaction to initial administration and enforcement of the uniform building and fire prevention code, including how local governments have organized to provide for such initial administration and enforcement. Such rules and regulations shall address the nature and quality of enforcement and shall include, but not be limited to the following:

a. frequency of mandatory inspections for compliance with the uniform code and the state energy conservation construction code,

b. number and qualifications of staff, including requirements that inspectors be certified pursuant to this chapter,

c. required minimum fees for administration and enforcement,

d. adequacy of inspections,

e. adequacy of means for insuring compliance with the uniform code and the state energy conservation construction code, including provisions intended to achieve compliance with the state energy conservation construction code consistent with the compliance goals set forth in section 410(2)(C) of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009,

f. establishment of a procedure whereby any provision or requirement of the uniform code may be varied or modified in cases where strict compliance with such provision or requirement would entail practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship or would otherwise be unwarranted. Such procedure shall be designed to insure that any such variance or modification shall not substantially affect adversely provisions for health, safety and security, and that equally safe and proper alternatives may be prescribed. Requests for a variance shall be resolved within sixty days of the date of application unless a longer period is required for good cause shown,

g. procedures for inspection of certain classes of buildings based upon design, construction, ownership, occupancy or use, including, but not limited to, mobile homes, factory manufactured homes and state-owned buildings,

h. minimum basic training and in-service training requirements for personnel charged with administration and enforcement of the state energy conservation construction code; and

i. standards and procedures for measuring the rate of compliance with the state energy conservation construction code, and provisions requiring that such rate of compliance be measured on an annual basis.

Nothing in the rules shall require or be construed to require regular, periodic inspections of (A) owner-occupied one and two-family dwellings, or (B) agricultural buildings used directly and solely for agricultural purposes, provided, however that this shall not be a limitation on inspections conducted at the invitation of the owner or where conditions on the premises threaten or present a hazard to public health, safety, or welfare.

2. Except as may be provided in regulations of the secretary pursuant to subdivision one of this section, every local government shall administer and enforce the uniform fire prevention and building code and the state energy conservation construction code on and after the first day of January, nineteen hundred eighty-four, provided, however, that a local government may enact a local law prior to the first day of July in any year providing that it will not enforce suchcodes on and after the first day of January next succeeding. In such event the county in which said local government is situated shall administer and enforce such codes within such local government from and after the first day of January next succeeding the effective date of such local law, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph b of subdivision five of this section unless the county shall have enacted a local law providing that it will not enforce such codes within that county. In such event the secretary in the place and stead of the local government shall, directly or by contract, administer and enforce the uniform code and the state energy conservation construction code. A local government or a county may repeal a local law which provides that it will not enforce such codes and shall thereafter administer and enforce such codes as provided above. Two or more local governments may provide for joint administration and enforcement of the uniform code, the state energy conservation construction code, or both, by agreement pursuant to article five-G of the general municipal law. Any local government may enter into agreement with the county in which such local government is situated to administer and enforce the uniform code, the state energy conservation construction code, or both, within such local government. Local governments or counties may charge fees to defray the costs of administration and enforcement.

3. On and after the first day of July, nineteen hundred eighty-five, the secretary shall have power to investigate and conduct hearings relative to whether administration and enforcement of the uniform fire prevention and building code complies with the minimum standards promulgated pursuant to subdivision one of this section. At least ten days written notice of any such hearing shall be provided to the elective or appointive chief executive officer or, if there be none, the chairman of the legislative body of the local government or county whose administration and enforcement of the uniform code is at issue.

4. If the secretary determines that a local government has failed to administer and enforce the uniform fire prevention and building code in accordance with the minimum standards promulgated pursuant to subdivision one of this section, the secretary shall take any of the following actions, either individually or in combination in any sequence:

a. The secretary may issue an order compelling compliance by such local government with the standards for administration and enforcement of the uniform code.

b. The secretary may ask the attorney general to institute in the name of the secretary an action or proceeding seeking appropriate legal or equitable relief to require such local government to administer and enforce the uniform code.

c. the secretary may designate the county in which such local government is located to administer and enforce the uniform code in such local government. In the case of such designation, the provisions of subdivision five of this section shall apply.

d. The secretary may, in the place and stead of the local government, administer and enforce the uniform code in accordance with the minimum standards promulgated pursuant to subdivision one of this section. In such event, the provisions of subdivision five of this section shall apply.

5. Where the secretary has designated a county to administer and enforce the uniform fire prevention and building code within a local government or has assumed authority for administration and enforcement pursuant to subdivision two or paragraph d of subdivision four of this section:

a. Such local government or county government shall not administer and enforce the uniform code, and shall not charge or collect fees for such administration and enforcement.

b. Such county shall administer and enforce the uniform code within such local government from and after the date of such designation. Such administration and enforcement shall apply the minimum standards promulgated by the secretary pursuant to subdivision one of this section. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, such county shall have full power to administer and enforce the uniform code in accordance with such minimum standards, including the power to charge and collect fees for such administration and enforcement.

c. The secretary shall designate the local government or county government to resume administration and enforcement of the uniform code when the secretary is satisfied that such local government or county will provide such administration and enforcement in compliance with the minimum standards promulgated pursuant to subdivision one of this section.

d. The provisions of subdivisions three and four of this section shall apply to counties which have been designated to administer and enforce the uniform code in such local government.

6. The secretary shall study and from time to time make recommendations to the governor and legislature concerning:

a. Appropriate means to provide encouragement, support and inducements for local governments and counties to exercise their responsibilities pursuant to this section; and

b. Appropriate means to provide encouragement, support and inducements to facilitate compliance with the provisions of the uniform code.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 2007, ch 159, § 3, eff July 3, 2007; L 2010, ch 560, § 10, eff Jan 1, 2011 (see 2010 note below).

Prior Law: Former § 381, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 186; amd, L 1961, ch 197, § 12, L 1964, ch 66, § 1; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2007, ch 159, § 1, eff July 3, 2007, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The legislature finds and declares that agricultural buildings differ in structure and usage from other types of buildings and thus warrant specialized treatment under the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code. In recognition of the unique nature of such buildings, agricultural buildings have long been exempted from the construction-related provisions of the uniform fire prevention and building code, and should remain exempted from such provisions. The legislature further finds that the department of state should continue to consult with the department of agriculture and markets to assure that the department's interpretation of code requirements continues to recognize and reflect the unique nature of agricultural buildings. The farming industry and code enforcement officials will benefit from additional guidance regarding the appropriate implementation of code requirements for agricultural buildings and other farm-based structures. Therefore, it is in the public interest to have the written interpretations of code provisions by the department of state easily accessible to these sectors, and the public at large, through publication on the department's website.

Laws 2010, ch 560, § 11, eff Jan 1, 2011, provides as follows:

§ 11. This act shall take effect January 1, 2011; provided, however, that the state fire prevention and building code council and the secretary of state are authorized and directed to adopt such regulations as deemed necessary and proper to implement this act, prior to such effective date.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 560, § 10 amended:

Section heading by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 1, opening par by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 1, par a by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 1, par e by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 1, par f by deleting at fig 1 "and".

Sub 1, par g by deleting at fig 1 a period and adding the matter in italics.

By adding sub 1, pars h and i.

Sub 2 by deleting at figs 1–5 "the uniform code", at fig 6 "Local" and adding the matter in italics.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 383
3. Under former § 384
4. Under former § 385
5. Under former § 386
6. Under former § 396

1. In general

Court would annul determination vacating building permit and certificate of compliance issued by village building inspector for installation of above-ground gasoline storage tanks where (1) review board failed to make findings as to whether issuance of permit and compliance certificate was proper act of discretion under Flammable and Combustible Liquids Code No. 30-1981 § 1-1.5 of National Fire Protection Association (NFPA Code), as such finding was essential to ultimate determination of whether construction complied with either NFPA Code or State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code (9 NYCRR parts 600-1282), (2) review board did not consider request by village and its building inspector for variance from requirements of Uniform Code, (3) only evidence presented on issue of compliance supported finding of compliance, and (4) participating board member failed to disqualify himself despite appearance of impropriety. Engleson & Van Liere, Inc. v Sodus Point, 135 A.D.2d 1141, 523 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53011 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

County, on determining that county-owned building located in historic district in city was risk to public safety and required demolition, was nevertheless subject to city ordinance which created Historic Resources Commission (HRC) and prohibited demolition of protected buildings without HRC consent. Historic Albany Found. v Breslin, 282 A.D.2d 981, 724 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4161 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 636, 735 N.Y.S.2d 489, 760 N.E.2d 1284, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3357 (N.Y. 2001).

Supreme court did not err in determining that the Municipal Code Violations Bureau (MCVB) had jurisdiction to adjudicate a citizen's violations of the New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code 19 NYCRR 1219.1 et seq. because the citizen was charged only with violations of the Building Code pursuant to Executive Law § 382(1), and Executive Law § 381(1) specifically authorized local governments to enforce the Building Code; pursuant to City of Rochester, N.Y., Municipal Code § 13A-2(1), the MCVB had jurisdiction to adjudicate the violations in question, and because the citizen was charged with only violations pursuant to Executive Law § 382(1) rather than misdemeanor offenses pursuant to Executive Law § 382 (2), the city was not required to allege as an element of the violations that the citizen had been served with an order to remedy those violations. Matter of Ophardt v Vasquez, 74 A.D.3d 1742, 904 N.Y.S.2d 835, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 867, 910 N.Y.S.2d 33, 936 N.E.2d 915, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 2988 (N.Y. 2010).

Because the premises in question were in the custody of a N.Y. Rac. Pari-Mut. Wag. & Breed. Law art. V off-track betting corporation, pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 381(2) and N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 19, § 1201.2(c), the county and not the village was the responsible party to administer and enforce the uniform fire prevention and building code with respect to such building and its premises; therefore, the corporation was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief in the form of prohibition against the village. Matter of Catskill Regional Off-Track Betting Corp. v Village of Suffern, 862 N.Y.S.2d 280, 20 Misc. 3d 935, 240 N.Y.L.J. 22, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4486 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008), rev'd, 65 A.D.3d 1340, 886 N.Y.S.2d 214, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6719 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Town's allegations that it had the power to enforce the New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code (Code) against a landowner who built a boathouse without the required permit or variance because it had enacted local laws authorizing its code enforcement officer to enforce the Code were sufficient to withstand the landowner's motion to dismiss the town's counterclaim for injunctive relief and an order removing the boathouse in the landowner's declaratory judgment action. Beneke v Town of Santa Clara, 28 A.D.3d 998, 814 N.Y.S.2d 315, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4534 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Town had capacity to file an action against a landowner for injunctive relief and an order removing the landowner's boathouse even if it was not an appropriate party under N.Y. Exec. Law § 382(3); the town was a municipal corporation under N.Y. Town Law § 2, and, as a corporation, had the right to sue and be sued in all courts like a natural person under N.Y. Const. art. X, § 4, and the action was not contrary to its authorized enforcement powers under N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 381, 382. Beneke v Town of Santa Clara, 28 A.D.3d 998, 814 N.Y.S.2d 315, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4534 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 381(2), 371(2)(d) can be read as no more than a direction to New York State municipalities as to how to act, in contrast with statutory language relied on by municipalities in cases in which they have been held to be immune where a similar direction was coupled with an explicit conferral of regulatory power. Elec. Inspectors, Inc. v Vill. of East Hills, 313 F.3d 685, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 25533 (2d Cir. N.Y.), reprinted, 320 F.3d 110, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 28147 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2002).

A county's costs in administering and enforcing the New York State Fire Prevention and Building Code on behalf of local governments which have elected to have the county perform such activities are payable from county-wide taxes, fees and State aid. 1984 Op St Compt 84-56.

A county's costs in administering and enforcing the New York State Fire Prevention and Building Code on behalf of local governments which have elected to have the county perform such activities are payable from county-wide taxes, fees and State aid. 1984 Op St Compt No. 84-56.

A village may appropriate funds for an education program which promotes fire prevention. 1984 Op St Compt 84-67.

When town establishes excessive building permit fee to cover costs of administering and enforcing State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code (CLS Exec §§ 370 et seq.), town may adopt local law authorizing refund of claims which are equitably payable. 1986 Op St Compt No. 86-42.

Town permit fees must bear direct relation to costs of issuing permit and inspecting or enforcing permitted activity, and may not be charged to offset cost of general governmental functions, and reasonable classifications of applicants may be established and different fees fixed for each such class, if town has rational basis for such distinctions; higher town building permit fees for seasonal, unheated structures would appear to be more readily justifiable if town's administrative costs for processing permit and inspecting and regulating site were greater for such type of structure. 1999 Op St Compt No. 99-13.

The Village of Bronxville may adopt a local law authorizing the sharing of state aid moneys which it receives for administration and enforcement of the State Fire Prevention and Building Code with the Eastchester Fire District of which it is a part. 1984 Op St Comp File #84-33.

2. Under former § 383

Since regulation and imposition of building permit fees is statutorily reserved to local jurisdictions, there is strong presumption that city did not intend that state code provisions should infringe upon this local authority. Syracuse v Hueber, 52 A.D.2d 341, 383 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12026 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

The determination by a town board of zoning appeals declaring that a use of petitioner's premises as a motel and restaurant was illegal because the certificate of occupancy issued therefor was null and void and based on an illegal building permit, was wholly improper, arbitrary and lacking in substantial evidence. The Board was without jurisdiction to declare the certificate of occupancy null and void since, pursuant to former Executive Law § 383, once the certificate of occupancy was issued by an officer of the town, the town was bound as to all matters set forth within that certificate, and no order, direction or requirement at variance therewith could be made by any municipal agency regarding the validity of the certificate; the town, by adopting the State Building Code, wherein § 383 was contained, also adopted the exclusive remedies set out in said section to set aside the certificate, and until such time as the certificate is set aside by the proper authority, it is binding and conclusive as to the legality of the use set forth therein. Bekermus v Nardy, 123 Misc. 2d 378, 472 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3010 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

State building construction code is adopted by resolution of the town board and necessary enforcement legislation is enacted by ordinance. 1953 Ops St Compt 396.

There is no authority for contract between town and village or villages therein whereby town would administer and enforce state building code in entire town. 1954 Ops St Compt 103.

After a town has adopted the State Building Code, its building inspector should not continue as director of a firm which sells building materials and supplies to the town or in the town. 1963 Ops St Compt #303.

A municipality may adopt the state building construction code by adoption of a resolution but enforcement must be pursuant to an ordinance or local law. 1967 Ops St Compt File #493.

It is not necessary that the municipality pass a resolution abandoning its local building code after the adoption of the state building construction code. 1967 Ops St Compt File #493.

Where a building is constructed and is in violation of the state building construction code, the town may: (1) utilize any enforcement method adopted by local law or ordinance; (2) order necessary corrections; (3) obtain an injunction against further construction or ordering an abatement; or (4) refuse to issue a certificate of occupancy. 1967 Ops St Compt File #525.

A town may have adopted both its own town building code and the State Code, provided the town code does not allow its code to supersede, void, repeal or contain a more restrictive provision than the State Code. 1969 Ops St Compt File #129.

A municipality adopting the State Building Construction Code must adopt by local law or ordinance penalty provisions to cover violations of the code. Penalties adopted for the town's own building code do not apply to violations of the State Code because the lack of notice would create a due process problem. 1969 Ops St Compt File #129.

Where precluded by the town board, a town building inspector may not institute a civil action for the enforcement of the State Building Construction Code, as adopted by the town. In such case, he bears no legal responsibility for the non-enforcement thereof. 1976 Ops St Compt File #35.

3. Under former § 384

Where a building is constructed and is in violation of the state building construction code, the town may: (1) utilize any enforcement method adopted by local law or ordinance; (2) order necessary corrections; (3) obtain an injunction against further construction or ordering an abatement; or (4) refuse to issue a certificate of occupancy. 1967 Ops St Compt File #525.

4. Under former § 385

The primary purpose of this law being to provide standards and not to protect any particular person or classes of persons against defined hazards, a building code violation does not subject the violator to absolute statutory liability for damage or injury to others, but merely constitutes some evidence of negligence. Major v Waverly & Ogden, Inc., 7 N.Y.2d 332, 197 N.Y.S.2d 165, 165 N.E.2d 181, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1512 (N.Y. 1960).

Where a building is constructed and is in violation of the state building construction code, the town may: (1) utilize any enforcement method adopted by local law or ordinance; (2) order necessary corrections; (3) obtain an injunction against further construction or ordering an abatement; or (4) refuse to issue a certificate of occupancy. 1967 Ops St Compt File #525.

A municipality adopting the State Building Construction Code must adopt by local law or ordinance penalty provisions to cover violations of the code. Penalties adopted for the town's own building code do not apply to violations of the State Code because the lack of notice would create a due process problem. 1969 Ops St Compt File #129.

5. Under former § 386

Party for whom a home had been constructed by the defendant corporation could not charge the defendant corporation and an individual officer thereof with violation of the State Building Construction Code in view of a town ordinance which, in adopting the Code, provided that the building department was charged with the enforcement of the State Building Construction Code. People v Yarrington, 62 Misc. 2d 1030, 310 N.Y.S.2d 976, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1749 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1970).

Where town had accepted state building code, and rules adopted by state building council specifically permitted use of plastic pipe in one and two-family dwellings and multiple dwellings not exceeding six stories in height, neither the town superintendent of buildings nor any town official, nor the town board itself had authority to promulgate order banning plastic piping in the town, and such order was illegal, arbitrary and capricious. Association of Employing Plumbing Contractors, Inc. v Hanold, 84 Misc. 2d 990, 378 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

A municipality adopting the State Building Construction Code must adopt by local law or ordinance penalty provisions to cover violations of the code. Penalties adopted for the town's own building code do not apply to violations of the State Code because the lack of notice would create a due process problem. 1969 Ops St Compt File #129.

6. Under former § 396

A town may not, by local law or otherwise, delegate to fire district fire chiefs and assistant chiefs the power to enforce the state building conservation and fire prevention code as adopted by the town. 1976 Ops St Compt File #884.

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 380
3. Under former § 383
4. Under former § 385
5. Under former § 386

1. In general

County may not "opt out" of enforcement of Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code as to industrial development agency property; county may "opt out" of enforcement as to all county property or may make agreements with local governments allocating enforcement responsibility. 1995 NY Ops Atty Gen I 95-15.

Provisions of Criminal Procedure Law, including CLS CPL § 420.10(6), are applicable to prosecutions under CLS Gen Mun § 136 and under State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code (CLS Exec Art 18). 1995 NY Ops Atty Gen I 95-53.

Village must, under Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code, establish fire lanes so that emergency services and personnel have access to buildings within village and to permit enforcement of code provisions. 1996 NY Ops Atty Gen I 96-48.

2. Under former § 380

The City of Auburn Industrial Development Authority is not required to obtain a certificate of occupancy from the City of Auburn to occupy a building it erected and is not subject to local or state building construction codes or fire codes or to local inspections and regulations. The City of Auburn has no enforcement jurisdiction over such building and cannot be liable for failure to enforce the codes. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen March 24 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 138.

3. Under former § 383

A Village Police Justice's court has jurisdiction to determine violations of the State Building Code committed within the village. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen May 12 (informal).

Under the provisions of the Charter of the City of Geneva § 172, a conflict of interest would exist where the City Assessor continues in the real estate business within the city while serving as such Assessor. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 9.

A city may adopt an ordinance to provide civil penalties for violations of the State Building Construction Code, except as otherwise expressly provided in article 18 of the Executive Law. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 27 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 157.

In the City of Batavia the Labor Law and rules and regulations adopted pursuant thereto (i.e., the Industrial Code) apply to all municipal buildings. The SBCC applies only to municipal property in the City of Batavia not used in connection with the performance of purely governmental functions. With regard to municipal property to which both the SBCC and the Industrial Code are applicable, the SBCC is controlling by virtue of Executive Law, § 374(1). 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 30.

The offices of Building Inspector and Assessor in the City of Norwich could be held by the same person at the same time without creating an incompatibility proscribed by the common law. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen May 27.

4. Under former § 385

A Village Police Justice's Court has jurisdiction to determine violations of the State Building Code committed within the village. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen May 12 (informal).

5. Under former § 386

A city may adopt an ordinance to provide civil penalties for violations of the State Building Construction Code, except as otherwise expressly provided in article 18 of the Executive Law. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 27 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 157.

The City of Auburn Industrial Development Authority is not required to obtain a certificate of occupancy from the City of Auburn to occupy a building it erected and is not subject to local or state building construction codes or fire codes or to local inspections and regulations. The City of Auburn has no enforcement jurisdiction over such building and cannot be liable for failure to enforce the codes. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen March 24 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 138.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in § 382; CLS Energy §§ 11-107, 11-108; CLS St Fin § 54-g.

Municipal cooperation, CLS Gen Mun §§ 119-m et seq.

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

State aid for housing code enforcement: New York City. 9 NYCRR §§ 1350.1 et seq.

Financial assistance to local governments for building and fire code administration and enforcement. 19 NYCRR §§ 433.1 et seq.

Minimum standards for code enforcement personnel in the state of New York. 19 NYCRR §§ 434.1 et seq.

Minimum standards for code enforcement personnel in the state of New York-administrative procedures. 19 NYCRR §§ 435.1 et seq.

Uniform code: procedures for certain classes of buildings. 19 NYCRR §§ 441.1 et seq.

Uniform code: administration and enforcement in certain local governments. 19 NYCRR §§ 442.1 et seq.

Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code: variance procedures. 19 NYCRR §§ 450.1 et seq.

Department of state: administration and enforcement of the Uniform Code. 19 NYCRR Part 1203.

Federal Aspects:

Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act, 15 USCS §§ 2201 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

13 Am Jur 2d, Buildings §§ 39 et seq.

Annotations:

Municipal liability for negligent fire inspection and subsequent enforcement. 69 ALR4th 739.

§ 382. Remedies

1. In addition to and not in limitation of any power otherwise granted by law, every local government and its authorized agents shall have the power to order in writing the remedying of any condition found to exist in, on or about any building in violation of the uniform fire prevention and building code and to issue appearance tickets for violations of the uniform code.

2. Any person, having been served, either personally or by registered or certified mail, with an order to remedy any condition found to exist in, on, or about any building in violation of the uniform fire prevention and building code, who shall fail to comply with such order within the time fixed by the regulations promulgated by the secretary pursuant to subdivision one of section three hundred eighty-one of this article, such time period to be stated in the order, and any owner, builder, architect, tenant, contractor, subcontractor, construction superintendent or their agents or any other person taking part or assisting in the construction of any building who shall knowingly violate any of the applicable provisions of the uniform code or any lawful order of a local government, a county or the secretary made thereunder regarding standards for construction, maintenance, or fire protection equipment and systems, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars per day of violation, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

3. Where the construction or use of a building is in violation of any provision of the uniform code or any lawful order obtained thereunder, a justice of the supreme court at a special term in the judicial district in which the building is located, may order the removal of the building or an abatement of the condition in violation of such provisions. An application for such relief may be made by the secretary, an appropriate municipal officer, or any other person aggrieved by the violation.

4. Where a building has been altered in violation of any provision of the uniform code or any lawful order obtained thereunder, and such alteration impedes a person's egress from such building during a fire or other emergency evacuation, the owner of such building who has knowledge of such alteration or should have had knowledge of such alteration shall be subject to a civil penalty of up to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1981, ch 707, § 1, eff July 21, 1981; amd, L 1997, ch 135, § 1, eff June 25, 1997; L 2020, ch 333, § 1, effective December 15, 2020.

Prior Law: Former § 382, add, L 1951, ch 800, § 1, with substance transferred from § 187; amd, L 1954, ch 377, § 1, L 1961, ch 197, § 13, L 1962, ch 310, § 136, L 1974, ch 266, § 1, L 1978, ch 397, § 5; repealed, L 1981, ch 707, § 12, eff Jan 1, 1984.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 382

1. In general

Property owners' causes of action under CLS Exec § 382(3) against neighbor alleging that neighbor's garage eave created storm water drainage problem on owners' property was time-barred under CLS CPLR § 214(2) where action was commenced more than 3 years after accrual of action—i.e., when garage was completed. Sova v Glasier, 192 A.D.2d 1069, 596 N.Y.S.2d 228, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4071 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

Ruling by employee of State Division of Housing and Community Development was not conclusive of any facts in dispute in litigation concerning violation of state Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code where ruling was explicitly characterized as "advisory" only, it was solicited by plaintiffs' expert without notice to defendants, it responded to question premised on data with which defendants took issue, and no defendant had opportunity to be heard before agency prior to issuance of ruling. Zehnder v Ginsburg & Ginsburg Architects, 238 A.D.2d 582, 656 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4386 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Court properly denied city's application under CLS Exec § 382(3) for order directing property owner to remove all trees and overgrowth located on certain portions of her property where city had provided owner with vague or inconsistent directives as to what steps must be taken to abate violations of uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code. Allen v Piasecki, 272 A.D.2d 828, 707 N.Y.S.2d 729, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5970 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

County's plan to demolish county-owned building located in historic district in city was not emergency action exempt from State Environmental Quality Review Act, although parties agreed that building was unsafe, where city ordered stabilization and submission of preservation plan for building's facade, while county claimed that cost of stabilization and preservation of facade was prohibitive; question of fact existed under 6 NYCRR 617.5(c)(38) regarding which type of emergency action would "cause the least change or disturbance, practicable under the circumstances, to the environment." Historic Albany Found. v Breslin, 282 A.D.2d 981, 724 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4161 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 636, 735 N.Y.S.2d 489, 760 N.E.2d 1284, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3357 (N.Y. 2001).

Order for injunctive relief compelling the removal of a floating boathouse was affirmed because the continued presence of the floating boathouse constituted a continuing violation of a town's local law, and N.Y. Exec. Law § 382(2) expressly authorized the ongoing accrual of penalties for continuing violations. Beneke v

Town of Santa Clara, 45 A.D.3d 1164, 846 N.Y.S.2d 681, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12485 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007), app. denied, 10 N.Y.3d 706, 857 N.Y.S.2d 39, 886 N.E.2d 804, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 2008).

Supreme court did not err in determining that the Municipal Code Violations Bureau (MCVB) had jurisdiction to adjudicate a citizen's violations of the New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code 19 NYCRR 1219.1 et seq. because the citizen was charged only with violations of the Building Code pursuant to Executive Law § 382(1), and Executive Law § 381(1) specifically authorized local governments to enforce the Building Code; pursuant to City of Rochester, N.Y., Municipal Code § 13A-2(1), the MCVB had jurisdiction to adjudicate the violations in question, and because the citizen was charged with only violations pursuant to Executive Law § 382(1) rather than misdemeanor offenses pursuant to Executive Law § 382 (2), the city was not required to allege as an element of the violations that the citizen had been served with an order to remedy those violations. Matter of Ophardt v Vasquez, 74 A.D.3d 1742, 904 N.Y.S.2d 835, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 867, 910 N.Y.S.2d 33, 936 N.E.2d 915, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 2988 (N.Y. 2010).

There was substantial evidence in the record to support the determination that a citizen received the notices and orders advising him that he was in violation of the New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code 19 NYCRR 1219.1 et seq., and because the citizen was not charged with misdemeanor offenses pursuant to Executive Law § 382(2), service by registered or certified mail was not required. Matter of Ophardt v Vasquez, 74 A.D.3d 1742, 904 N.Y.S.2d 835, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 867, 910 N.Y.S.2d 33, 936 N.E.2d 915, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 2988 (N.Y. 2010).

Defendant's conviction for using a cellar as a habitable space, in violation of 9 NYCRR § 1241.1(c), pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 382(2), was reversed as the accusatory instrument made no allegations regarding a written order that defendant failed to comply with; consequently, the accusatory instrument failed to contain nonhearsay allegations of fact that established, if true, every element of the offense charged as was required by N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 100.40(1), and was facially insufficient. People v Caravousanos, 770 N.Y.S.2d 820, 2 Misc. 3d 7, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. App. Term 2003).

Town had capacity to file an action against a landowner for injunctive relief and an order removing the landowner's boathouse even if it was not an appropriate party under N.Y. Exec. Law § 382(3); the town was a municipal corporation under N.Y. Town Law § 2, and, as a corporation, had the right to sue and be sued in all courts like a natural person under N.Y. Const. art. X, § 4, and the action was not contrary to its authorized enforcement powers under N.Y. Exec. Law §§ 381, 382. Beneke v Town of Santa Clara, 28 A.D.3d 998, 814 N.Y.S.2d 315, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4534 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

As a trial court appropriately set forth its reasoning for imposing a fine on a property owner who repeatedly refused to remove a boathouse from a lake despite court orders to do so, the imposition of a fine pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 382(2) was proper. Beneke v Town of Santa Clara, 61 A.D.3d 1079, 876 N.Y.S.2d 229, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2437 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

Accusatory instruments charging defendant with violating N.Y. Exec. Law § 382(2) were facially insufficient and had to be dismissed because they did not allege that defendant was properly served, did not timely comply with orders to remedy observed violations of the Uniform Code, was taking part or assisting in the construction of the buildings, and knowingly violated the Uniform Code. People v Plateau Assoc. LLC, 952 N.Y.S.2d 769, 38 Misc. 3d 770, 2012 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4800 (N.Y. J. Ct. 2012).

Justice court erred in convicting defendant, after a nonjury trial, of violating the Property Maintenance Code because the first section of the Executive Law at issue contained no provision authorizing the imposition of a fine or a jail sentence, and the information did not allege that defendant had been served with a notice to remedy, or that any of the violations of the Property Maintenance Code had been committed in conjunction with the construction of a building. People v Levin, 59 Misc. 3d 53, 74 N.Y.S.3d 681, 2018 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1189 (N.Y. App. Term 2018).

2. Under former § 382

Town's remedy with respect to alleged violations of State Building Construction Code by Urban Development Corporation was to appeal to State Board of Review. Greece v Urban Dev. Corporation-Greater Rochester, Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 375, 360 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1667 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

Village must, under Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code, establish fire lanes so that emergency services and personnel have access to buildings within village and to permit enforcement of code provisions. 1996 NY Ops Atty Gen I 96-48.

County building inspector may not also serve as town justice for town within county, as inspector can issue appearance tickets for violations which are returnable in town court, such that appearance of impropriety exists if town justice, in capacity as building inspector, is required to appear as complainant before his fellow justice. NY Ops Atty Gen 88-44 (Informal).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:

13 Am Jur 2d, Buildings §§ 39 et seq.

Annotations:

Municipal liability for neglient fire inspection and subsequent enforcement. 69 ALR4th 739.

§ 382-a. Buildings with truss type construction; notice requirements and enforcement

1. All commercial and industrial structures that utilize truss type construction shall be marked by a sign or symbol in a manner sufficient to warn persons conducting fire control and other emergency operations of the existence of truss construction in the structure.

2. The council shall promulgate rules and regulations it deems necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this section, including, but not limited to:

a. The dimensions and color of such sign or symbol;

b. The time within which commercial and industrial structures that utilize truss type construction shall be so marked; and

c. The location on each commercial and industrial structure that utilizes truss type construction where such sign or symbol should be posted.

3. The fee for producing the signs or symbols used to mark buildings with truss type construction shall be fifty dollars, which cost shall be borne by the owner of such building.

4. Local governments shall provide by local law for the enforcement of the provisions of this section. Local governments may provide for joint enforcement of the provisions of this section by agreement pursuant to article five-G of the general municipal law.

5. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any city with a population of one million or more persons.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2001, ch 119, § 2, eff Jan 1, 2002 (see 2001 note below).

Editor's Notes: Laws 2001, ch 119, § 3, eff Jan 1, 2002, provides as follows:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the first day of January next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed within 180 days after the date on which this act shall have become a law.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Department of state: identification of buildings utilizing truss type construction. 19 NYCRR Part 1264.

§ 382-b. Residential buildings with truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction; notice requirements

1.

a. Any person utilizing truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction for the erection of any new residential structure, for any addition to an existing residential structure, or for any rehabilitation of an existing residential structure, shall, upon application for a building permit with the local government having jurisdiction, include on the permit application that truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction is being utilized.

b. The property owner or the property owner's representative shall complete a form prescribed by the council designating the structure as truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction and file such form with the application for a building permit.

c. Upon receiving the application for a building permit and a form designating the structure as truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction, the local government having jurisdiction shall notify by certified mail, facsimile, e-mail or other electronic means, the chief of the fire district, fire department or fire company having jurisdiction over the structure to be erected, added to, or modified, or his or her designee, that truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction is being utilized.

d. As a condition of the final receipt of a certificate of occupancy or certificate of completion, a sign or symbol designed and approved by the council shall be affixed to any electric box attached to the exterior of the structure, if one exists.

e. The property owner or his or her representative shall be responsible for maintaining the sign or symbol on the electric box of the residence, as required by paragraph d of this subdivision, and shall replace the sign or symbol when any changes or modifications are made to the electric box or the sign or symbol is damaged.

2.

a. The local building department or local code enforcement official having jurisdiction over the residential structure to be erected, added to, or modified, or his or her designee shall consult with the county fire coordinator, local 911 and emergency dispatchers, and the local fire protection provider or entity deemed pertinent to determine the manner sufficient to warn persons conducting fire control and other emergency operations of the existence of truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction in the structure.

b. The chief of the fire district, fire department, or fire company having jurisdiction over the residential structure to be erected, added to, or modified, or his or her designee shall use the information provided under subdivision one of this section to warn persons conducting fire control and other emergency operations of the existence of truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction in the structure.

c. Nothing contained in this section shall in any way affect or diminish section two hundred five-b of the general municipal law.

3. The council shall promulgate rules and regulations it deems necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this section including, but not limited to, the dimensions and color of such sign or symbol.

4. Local governments shall provide by local law or resolution for the enforcement of the provisions of this section, if necessary. Local governments may provide for joint enforcement of the provisions of this section by agreement pursuant to article five-G of the general municipal law.

5. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any city with a population of one million or more persons.

HISTORY:

L 2014, ch 353, § 1, effective January 1, 2015.

Editor's Notes Laws 2014, ch 353, §§ 2 and 3, eff Jan 1, 2015, provide:

§ 2. The secretary of state, and the state fire administrator, shall to the greatest extent practical make available, and incorporate into existing uniform fire prevention and building code training, and other fire safety training, educational information highlighting truss type, pre-engineered wood or timber construction and safety precautions.

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the first of January next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed within 180 days after the date on which this act shall have become a law.

ARTICLE 19 Display and Use of the Flag of the United States of America in Parks and on Public Buildings

Section

401. Definitions
402. Application
403. Rules; manner of display
403-b. Display of flag in certain parks

HISTORY:

Add, L 1971, ch 1152, § 1, eff Aug 5, 1971; amd, L 2006, ch 688, § 1, eff Sept 13, 2006.

§ 401. Definitions

As used in this article, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Flag" shall mean the flag of the United States of America.

2. "Public building" shall mean all buildings including grounds and premises adjacent or appurtenant thereto or connected thereto belonging to the state, county, town, village, school district or any other political or civil subdivision of state or local government.

3. "Local agency" shall include all county, city, town and village governing bodies, all other public corporations, special districts and school districts in the state.

4. "State agencies" shall include any department, division, board, bureau, commission, office, agency, authority or public corporation of the state.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1971, ch 1152, § 1, eff Aug 5, 1971.

Prior Law: Former § 401, add, L 1954, ch 98, § 1; amd, L 1958, ch 317, § 1; repealed, L 1961, ch 208, § 1, eff April 3, 1961, with substance transferred to Civ S § 152.

Prior § 401, see history note to Article 19.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Federal Aspects:

Design and use of flag of the United States of America, 4 USCS §§ 1 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

35C NY Jur 2d Criminal Law Substantive Principles and Offenses §§ 1838, 1840.

§ 402. Application

The rules and procedures for display and use of the flag set forth in this article shall govern the display of the flag on all public buildings within the state and shall supersede any contrary rule or custom of state or local agencies governing display provided, however, a school district may promulgate its own regulations to allow the flag to be flown at half-staff to commemorate the death of a present or former board member, present employee, teacher, student, clerk or custodian.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1971, ch 1152, § 1, eff Aug 5, 1971.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Federal Aspects:

Design and use of flag of the United States of America, 4 USCS §§ 1 et seq.

§ 403. Rules; manner of display

The following rules and customs shall be deemed the proper manner to display the flag:

1. The flag shall be displayed only from sunrise to sunset on buildings and on stationary flagstaffs in the open. However, the flag may be displayed at night upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect.

2. The flag shall be displayed daily, weather permitting, on or near the main administration building of every public institution, whenever such institution is open to the public. The flag shall also be displayed, weather permitting, on the following days in each year: the first day of January, known as New Year's day; the third Monday of January, known as Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. day; the twelfth day of February, known as Lincoln's birthday; the third Monday in February, known as Washington's birthday; the last Monday in May, known as Memorial day; the second Sunday of June, known as Flag day; the fourth day of July, known as Independence day; the first Monday in September, known as Labor day; the third Friday in September, known as National POW/MIA Recognition day, except if such date of commemoration cannot be observed due to a religious holiday, such observances shall then be conducted on the second Friday in September; September eleventh, known as September 11th Remembrance Day; the second Monday in October, known as Columbus day; the eleventh day of November, known as Veterans day; the fourth Thursday in November, known as Thanksgiving day; the seventh day of December, known as Pearl Harbor day; and the twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas day, and if any of such days except Flag day is Sunday, the next day thereafter; each general election day, and each day appointed by the President of the United States or by the Governor of this state as a day of general thanksgiving or for displaying the flag.

3. The flag shall not be displayed on days when the weather is inclement.

4. The flag shall be displayed in or near every polling place on election days.

5. The flag shall be displayed daily during school days in, on or near every schoolhouse.

6. The flag shall be hoisted briskly and lowered ceremoniously.

7. No person shall display the flag of the United Nations or any other national or international flag equal, above, or in a position of superior prominence or honor to, or in place of, the flag of the United States provided, that nothing in this section shall make unlawful the continuance of the practice heretofore followed of displaying the flag of the United Nations in a position of superior prominence or honor, and other national flags in positions of equal prominence or honor, with that of the flag of the United States at the headquarters of the United Nations.

8. When a number of flags of states or localities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs, the flag of the United States of America shall be at the center and at the highest point of the group.

9. When flags of states, cities, or localities, or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the latter shall always be at the peak. When the flags are flown from adjacent staffs, the flag of the United States shall be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant shall be placed above the flag of the United States or to the right of the flag of the United States.

10. When the flag of the United States is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of a building, the union of the flag shall be placed at the peak of the staff unless the flag is at half-staff. When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope extending from a house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the flag shall be hoisted out, union first, from the building.

11. When the flag is displayed otherwise than by being flown from a staff, it shall be displayed flat, whether indoors or out, or so suspended that its folds fall as free as though the flag were staffed.

12. When the flag is displayed over the middle of the street, it shall be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

13. The flag, when flown at half-staff, shall be first hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff position. The flag shall be again raised to the peak before it is lowered for the day. By "half-staff" is meant lowering the flag to one-half the distance between the top and bottom of the staff. Crepe streamers shall not be affixed to spear heads or flagstaffs except by order of the President of the United States or the Governor of this state.

14. No disrespect shall be shown to the flag of the United States of America, nor shall the flag be dipped to any person or thing.

15. The flag shall not be displayed with the union down except as a signal of dire and immediate distress.

16. The flag shall always be carried aloft and free, not flat or horizontally.

17. The flag shall not be fastened, displayed, used, or stored in such a manner as will permit it to be easily torn, soiled, or damaged in any way.

18. No one shall place upon the flag, or on any part of it, or attach to it any mark, insignia, letter, word, figure, design, picture, or drawing of any nature.

19. The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display shall be destroyed in a dignified way by burning.

20. The flag shall not be used as a ceiling covering or drapery of any sort whatsoever, nor festooned, drawn back, nor up, in folds. The flag shall always be allowed to fall free without touching any surface or object beneath or below it.

21. The flag shall be flown at full staff at all times except it shall be flown at half-staff on the eleventh of September, known as September 11th Remembrance Day, the seventh day of December, known as Pearl Harbor Day, and to commemorate the death of a personage of national or state standing or of a local serviceman, official or public servant who, in the opinion of the local agency concerned, contributed to the community. It may also be flown at half-staff during special periods of mourning designated by the President of the United States or the Governor of this state.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1971, ch 1152, § 1, eff Aug 5, 1971; amd, L 1974, ch 445, § 1; L 1984, ch 437, § 1; L 1985, ch 120, § 1; L 1988, ch 561, § 1, eff Aug 15, 1988; L 1996, ch 325, § 1, eff July 17, 1996; L 2004, ch 666, §§ 2, 3, eff Oct 26, 2004.

Notes to Decisions

Prosecution under federal Flag Protection Act (18 USCS § 700) for burning American flag violated First Amendment. United States v Eichman, 496 U.S. 310, 110 S. Ct. 2404, 110 L. Ed. 2d 287, 1990 U.S. LEXIS 3087 (U.S. 1990).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Federal Aspects:

Design and use of flag of the United States of America, 4 USCS §§ 1 et seq.

Display of flag, 36 USCS 173 et seq.

Jurisprudences:

35 Am Jur 2d, Flag §§ 2–5.

Annotations:

What constitutes violation of flag desecration statutes. 41 ALR3d 502.

Validity, and standing to challenge validity, of state statute prohibiting flag desecration and misuse. 31 ALR6th 333.

§ 403-b. Display of flag in certain parks

Any state park of this state with developed facilities for public use shall display the flag daily in an area where it is viewed by the public. Such display shall be in accordance with the rules and customs deemed proper for display pursuant to section four hundred three of this article.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2006, ch 688, § 2, eff Sept 13, 2006.

ARTICLE 19-B State Bingo Control Commission

Section

432.	Definitions
435.	Powers and duties of the commission
436.	Hearings; immunity
437.	Place of investigations and hearings; witnesses; books and documents
438.	Privilege against self-incrimination

HISTORY:

Add, L 1957, ch 853, § 1, eff Jan 1, 1958; amd, L 1962, ch 437, § 1, eff June 1, 1962.

§ 432. Definitions

As used in this article, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Control commission" or "commission" shall mean the New York state gaming commission created pursuant to section one hundred two of the racing, pari-mutuel wagering and breeding law.

2. "Municipality" shall mean any city, town or village within this state.

3. "Bingo" or "game" shall mean a specific game of chance, commonly known as bingo or lotto, in which prizes are awarded on the basis of designated numbers or symbols on a card conforming to numbers or symbols selected at random.

4. "Authorized organization" shall mean any bona fide religious or charitable organization or bona fide educational, fraternal, civic or service organization or bona fide organization of veterans, volunteer firefighters, or volunteer ambulance workers, which by its charter, certificate of incorporation, constitution, or act of the legislature, shall have as its dominant purpose or purposes one or more of the lawful purposes as defined in the bingo licensing law, provided that each shall operate without profit to its members, and provided that each such organization has engaged in serving one or more of the lawful purposes as defined in the bingo licensing law, article fourteen-H of the general municipal law, for a period of one year immediately prior to applying for a license under the licensing law.

5. "Bingo licensing law" shall mean article fourteen-h of the general municipal law.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1957, ch 853, § 1; amd, L 1962, ch 437, § 1, eff June 1, 1962; L 1963, ch 3, § 1, eff Feb 11, 1963; L 1977, ch 46, § 2, eff April 1, 1977; L 1988, ch 24, § 11, eff Jan 1, 1989; L 2012, ch 60, § 4 (Part A), eff Feb 1, 2013.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1977, ch 46, § 5, eff April 1, 1977, provides as follows:

§ 5. Whenever the state bingo control commission is referred to or designated in any general, special or local law or in any rule, regulation, executive order, contract or other document, such reference or designation shall be deemed to refer to the state racing and wagering board. For the purpose of succession to all functions, powers, duties, rights and obligations transferred and assigned to, devolved upon and assumed by the state racing and wagering board, the state racing and wagering board shall be deemed and held to constitute the continuation of the state bingo control commission and not a different agency or authority.

Laws 2012, ch 60, § 14 (Part A), eff Feb 1, 2013, provides as follows:

§ 14. This act shall take effect February 1, 2013; provided, however that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rules or regulations necessary for the implementation of the foregoing provisions of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date (Amd, L 2012, ch 457, § 7, eff Sept 28, 2012.).

Laws 2012, ch 457, § 7, eff Sept 28, 2012 amended L 2012, ch 60, § 4 (Part A), so as to change the effective date October 1, 2012 to February 1, 2013.

Amendment Notes: 2012. Chapter 60, § 4 (Part A) amended:

Sub 1 by deleting at fig 1 "racing and wagering board" and adding the matter in italics.

Agency Opinions

Certain games called "Skilo" and "Darto" are sufficiently similar in nature to Bingo so that they may not be played without legislative approval. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 15.

Use of word "bingo" by television game show broadcast into New York State does not itself bring that show within purview of bingo licensing law; however, if use of word "bingo" is accompanied by bingo type game which involves participation by home viewers, such activity creates impression that home participant is playing state sanctioned bingo which would bring activity within purview of state regulation. 1987 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 87-F6.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Bingo, definitions. 9 NYCRR § 5800.1.

Jurisprudences:

62 NY Jur 2d Gambling §§ 9, 64, 66.

§ 435. Powers and duties of the commission

1. The commission shall have the power and it shall be its duty to:

(a) Supervise the administration of the bingo licensing law and adopt, amend and repeal rules and regulations governing the issuance and amendment of licenses thereunder and the conducting of games under such licenses, which rules and regulations shall have the force and effect of law and shall be binding upon all municipalities issuing licenses, and upon licensees thereunder and licensees of the commission, to the end that such licenses shall be issued to qualified licensees only and that said games shall be fairly and properly conducted for the purposes and in the manner in the said bingo licensing law prescribed and to prevent the games thereby authorized to be conducted from being conducted for commercial purposes or purposes other than those therein authorized, participated in by criminal or other undesirable elements and the funds derived from the games being diverted from the purposes authorized, and, to provide uniformity in the administration of said law throughout the state, the commission shall prescribe forms of application for licenses, licenses, amendment of licenses, reports of the conduct of games and other matters incident to the administration of such law;

(b) Conduct, anywhere within the state, investigations of the administration, enforcement and potential or actual violations of the bingo licensing law and of the rules and regulations of the commission;

(c) Review all determinations and actions of the municipal governing body in issuing an initial license, and it may review the issuance of subsequent licenses and, after hearing, revoke those licenses which do not in all respects meet the requirements of this article, article fourteen-h of the general municipal law and the rules and regulations of the commission;

(d) Suspend or revoke a license, after hearing, for any violation of the provisions of this article, article fourteen-h of the general municipal law or the rules and regulations of the commission;

(e) Hear appeals from the determinations and action of the municipal governing body in connection with the refusing to issue licenses, the suspension and revocation of licenses and the imposition of fines in the manner prescribed by law and the action and determination of the commission upon any such appeal shall be binding upon the municipal governing body and all parties thereto;

(f) Initiate prosecutions for violations of this article and of the bingo licensing law;

(g) Carry on continuous study of the operation of the bingo licensing law to ascertain from time to time defects therein jeopardizing or threatening to jeopardize the purposes of this article, and to formulate and recommend changes in such law and in other laws of the state which the commission may determine to be necessary for the realization of such purposes, and to the same end to make a continuous study of the operation and administration of similar laws which may be in effect in other states of the United States.

(h) Supervise the disposition of all funds derived from the conduct of bingo by authorized organizations not currently licensed to conduct such games;

(i) Issue an identification number to an applicant authorized organization if it shall determine that the applicant satisfies the requirements of the bingo licensing law and the rules and regulations.

2. (a) The commission shall have the power to issue or, after hearing, refuse to issue a license permitting a person, firm or corporation to sell or distribute to any other person, firm or corporation engaged in business as a wholesaler, jobber, distributor or retailer of all cards, boards, sheets, pads and all other supplies, devices and equipment designed for use in the play of bingo by an organization duly licensed to conduct bingo games or to sell or distribute any such materials directly to such an organization. For the purposes of this section the words "sell or distribute" shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following activities; offering for sale, receiving, handling, maintaining, storing the same on behalf of such an organization, distributing or providing the same to such an organization, and offering for sale or lease bingo devices and equipment. Each such license shall be valid for one year.

(b) No person, firm or corporation, other than an organization that is or has been during the preceding twelve months duly licensed to conduct bingo games, shall sell or distribute bingo supplies or equipment without having first obtained a license therefor upon a written or electronic application made, verified and filed with the commission in the form prescribed by the rules and regulations of the commission. As a part of its determination concerning the applicant's suitability for licensing as a bingo supplier, the commission shall require the applicant to furnish to such board two sets of fingerprints. Such fingerprints shall be submitted to the division of criminal justice services for a state criminal history record check, as defined in subdivision one of section three thousand thirty-five of the education law, and may be submitted to the federal bureau of investigation for a national criminal history record check. In each such application for a license under this section shall be stated the name and address of the applicant; the names and addresses of its officers, directors, shareholders or partners; the amount of gross receipts realized on the sale or distribution of bingo supplies and equipment to duly licensed organizations during the last preceding calendar or fiscal year, and such other information as shall be prescribed by such rules and regulations. The fee for such license shall be a sum equal to twenty-five dollars plus an amount based upon the gross sales, if any, of bingo equipment and supplies to authorized organizations by the applicant during the preceding calendar year, or fiscal year if the applicant maintains his or her accounts on a fiscal year basis, and determined in accordance with the following schedule:

gross sales of $1,000 to $4,999.	$10.00
gross sales of $5,000 to $19,999	$50.00
gross sales of $20,000 to $49,999.	$200.00
gross sales of $50,000 to $100,000	$500.00
gross sales in excess of $100,000.	$1,000.00

(c) The following shall be ineligible for such a license:

(1) a person convicted of a crime if there is a direct relationship between one or more of the previous criminal offenses and the integrity and safety of bingo, considering the factors set forth in article twenty-three-A of the correction law;

(2) a person who is or has been a professional gambler or gambling promoter or who for other reasons is not of good moral character;

(3) a public officer or employee;

(4) an operator or proprietor of a commercial hall duly licensed under the bingo licensing law;

(5) a firm or corporation in which a person defined in clause (1), (2), (3) or (4) of this paragraph, or a person married or related in the first degree to such a person, has greater than a ten percent proprietary, equitable or credit interest or in which such a person is active or employed.

(d) The control commission shall have power to examine or cause to be examined the books and records of any applicant for a license, or any licensee, under this section. Any information so received shall not be disclosed except so far as may be necessary for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article and article fourteen-h of the general municipal law.

(e) Any solicitation of an organization licensed to conduct bingo games, to purchase or induce the purchase of bingo supplies and equipment, or any representation, statement or inquiry designed or reasonably tending to influence such an organization to purchase the same, other than by a person licensed or otherwise authorized pursuant to this section shall constitute a violation of this section.

(f) Any person who willfully shall make any material false statement in any application for a license authorized to be issued under this article or who willfully shall violate any of the provisions of this section or of any license issued hereunder shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, in addition to the penalties in such case made and provided, shall forfeit any license issued to him or it under this section and be ineligible to apply for a license under this section for one year thereafter.

(g) At the end of the license period, a recapitulation shall be made as between the licensee and the commission in respect of the gross sales actually recorded during the license period and the fee paid therefor, and any deficiency of fee thereby shown to be due shall be paid by the licensee and any excess of fee thereby shown to have been paid shall be credited to said licensee in such manner as the commission by the rules and regulations shall prescribe.

3. The commission shall have the power to approve and establish a standard set of bingo cards comprising a consecutively numbered series and shall by its rules and regulations prescribe the manner in which such cards are to be reproduced and distributed to licensed authorized organizations. The sale or distribution to a licensed authorized organization of any card or cards other than those contained in the standard set of bingo cards shall constitute a violation of this section. Licensed authorized organizations shall not be required to use nor to maintain such cards seriatim excepting that the same may be required in the conduct of limited period bingo games.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1957, ch 853, § 1; amd, L 1962, ch 437, § 3, eff June 1, 1962; L 1963, ch 2, § 1, eff Feb 11, 1963; L 1963, ch 4, § 1; L 1963, ch 374, § 1, eff July 1, 1963; L 1963, ch 611, § 1, eff April 23, 1963; L 1964, ch 859, § 6; L 1966, ch 889, § 1, eff July 29, 1966; L 1967, ch 191, § 1, eff April 10, 1967; L 1969, ch 1088, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1969; L 1974, ch 371, § 1, eff Jan 1, 1975; L 1998, ch 337, § 4, eff Jan 10, 1999; L 2003, ch 164, § 12, eff July 22, 2003; L 2017, ch 59, § 1 (Part MM), effective July 9, 2017; L 2019, ch 55, § 1 (Part II, Subpart C), effective April 12, 2019.

Editor's Notes Laws 1998, ch 337, § 19, eff Jan 10, 1999, provides as follows:

§ 19. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law; provided that the state racing and wagering board is authorized to promulgate any and all rules and regulations and take any other measures necessary to implement this act on its effective date on or before such date.

Laws 2003, ch 164, § 1, eff July 22, 2003, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings. There are New York state statutes which authorize the fingerprinting of individuals as a part of an application for employment, license or permit. Some of those statutes also authorize the submission of fingerprints to the New York state division of criminal justice services and the federal bureau of investigation for the purpose of obtaining national criminal history record information for these same applicants. After reviewing the applicable New York state statutes to determine compliance with Pub. L. 92-544, the federal statute which authorizes the federal bureau of investigation to exchange records with officials of state and local governments for purposes of employment and licensing, the federal bureau of investigation determined that the statutes amended by this act where insufficient to permit reliance on such statutes as a basis for the authority for the federal bureau of investigation to provide national criminal history record information to state or local government officials in connection with an application for employment, license or permit.

Subdivision 8-a of section 837 of the executive law provides that fingerprints may be submitted to the division of criminal justice services only in connection with an application for employment, license or permit. The amendments contained in this act are not intended to alter that provision in any way; they are simply intended to satisfy the requirements of Public Law 92-544.

Amendment Notes

1999. Chapter 337, § 4 amended:

Sub 2, par (a), by deleting "and".

The 2017 amendment by ch 59, § 1 (Part MM), in the introductory language of 2(b), in the first sentence, substituted "organization that is" for "organization which is" and "a written or electronic application" for "written application," substituted "the commission" for "the New York state racing and wagering board" in the second sentence, and substituted "his or her" for "his" in the last sentence.

The 2019 amendment by ch 55, § 1 (Part II, Subpart C), in 2c, rewrote (1), which formerly read: "a person convicted of a crime who has not received a pardon, a certificate of good conduct or a certificate of relief from disabilities," and in 2(c)(5), substituted "clause (1), (2), (3) or (4) of this paragraph" for "subdivision (1), (2), (3) or (4) above" and "ten percent" for "ten per centum."

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 433

1. In general

In view of the vicissitudes encountered by applicant for commercial lessor's license, the substantial sum allegedly expended in altering its premises for operation of bingo hall and fact that license was issued by Department of Consumer Affairs over a year previously in reliance on Wagering Board's annulment of Bingo Commission's stay, interests of justice and equity would be served by maintaining status quo pending determination of petitioners' appeal by the Bingo Commission. Church of Ascension v New York State Racing & Wagering Bd., 55 A.D.2d 874, 390 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10067 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 802, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3672 (N.Y. 1977), app. dismissed, 42 N.Y.2d 871, 397 N.Y.S.2d 793, 366 N.E.2d 880, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2195 (N.Y. 1977), aff'd, 46 N.Y.2d 776, 413 N.Y.S.2d 909, 386 N.E.2d 820, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. 1978).

Enactment of 1975–1976 state budget bill did not abolish the Bingo Commission nor did it transfer to the Wagering Board the powers and functions of said Commission; hence, Wagering Board lacked jurisdiction to vacate order of the Bingo Commission, which had granted petitioners' leave to file a notice of appeal, nunc pro tunc, from decision of Department of Consumer Affairs granting application for commercial lessor's license. Church of Ascension v New York State Racing & Wagering Bd., 55 A.D.2d 874, 390 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10067 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 802, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3672 (N.Y. 1977), app. dismissed, 42 N.Y.2d 871, 397 N.Y.S.2d 793, 366 N.E.2d 880, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2195 (N.Y. 1977), aff'd, 46 N.Y.2d 776, 413 N.Y.S.2d 909, 386 N.E.2d 820, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. 1978).

Although this section gives the State Lottery Commission power to adopt rules and regulations governing the issuance of bingo licenses, there is no indication of legislative intent to authorize the Commission to determine, in the first instance, whether or not a particular license should be issued, and the commission has no power to prescribe that an applicant must procure from it a certification number before it can make application to the local governing body. Local 320 Club, Inc. v Wackerle, 24 Misc. 2d 679, 206 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2322 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Although the State Lottery Control Commission has authority to regulate bingo and to adopt rules and regulations as to licensing bingo games under this section, its power to suspend or revoke licenses exists only "after hearing" for violation of the law or its regulations, and it has no power to issue a summary order that bingo shall not be played in a certain hall where this would have the effect of revoking local bingo licenses authorizing various organizations to operate bingo games to be played at that hall, without a hearing. Febish v New York State Lottery Control Com., 32 Misc. 2d 558, 224 N.Y.S.2d 520, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1840 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Specific language contained in program budget presentation which recommended abolition of State Bingo Control Commission and transfer of its functions to the State Racing and Wagering Board and subsequent passage of budget by the legislature which made no provision for the Commission evidenced sufficient direct action on the part of the legislature to abolish the Commission even though Senate failed to pass a specific bill abolishing the Commission. Ball v Carey, 85 Misc. 2d 1052, 381 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2113 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

A town may not modify the additional license fee which it receives from bingo operations, a fee set by the State Bingo Control Commission at three per centum of reported net proceeds. 1976 Ops St Compt File #99.

2. Under former § 433

By failure to pass legislation explicitly abolishing the Bingo Control Commission or to specifically provide therefor in budget, though not specifically appropriating any funds for the Commission, the legislature could be deemed to have expressed an intent not to eliminate the Commission or the office of chairman, and chairman was entitled to his salary. Ball v State, 41 N.Y.2d 617, 394 N.Y.S.2d 597, 363 N.E.2d 323, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1971 (N.Y. 1977).

Where legislature which enacted budget in which no funds were specially appropriated for the Bingo Control Commission or the salary of its chairman also amended section of the Executive Law without deleting therefrom express provision for chairman's salary, budget did not operate as a repeal by implication of the salary provisions. Ball v State, 41 N.Y.2d 617, 394 N.Y.S.2d 597, 363 N.E.2d 323, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1971 (N.Y. 1977).

Budget bill which was a general statute establishing a lump-sum appropriation for regulation of wagering, but contained no specific appropriation for the Bingo Control Commission, did not supersede the specific, detailed statutory provisions creating the Commission and its operations. Ball v State, 41 N.Y.2d 617, 394 N.Y.S.2d 597, 363 N.E.2d 323, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1971 (N.Y. 1977).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

The legislative body of a municipality should first enact an ordinance authorizing bingo and then submit a proposition thereon to the voters. Any person entitled to vote for officers of a municipality may vote on a proposition authorizing bingo. An ordinance to authorize bingo should be published in full. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 17 (informal).

A licensed bingo supplier may not employ a public employee as a supply salesman either within or outside the state. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen July 9.

The State Bingo Control Commission may adopt a rule to the effect that an organization may not obtain a license in a jurisdiction other than that in which it is domiciled. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 4.

Indians on a reservation must obtain a bingo identification number and a license issued by the State Bingo Control Commission prior to conducting any game of bingo. They may not award prizes in excess of the amounts set forth in Article I, § 9 of the Constitution of the State of New York. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 31 (formal).

Licenses may not be withheld from otherwise duly authorized and qualified bingo applicants, for the sole reason that if additional licenses are issued, the economic impact on those organizations already licensed will be detrimental. Provision is made by Executive Law, Section 435, for the State Bingo Control Commission to recommend appropriate legislation. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 29 (formal).

Licenses may not be withheld from otherwise duly authorized and qualified bingo applicants for the sole reason that if additional licenses are issued, the economic impact on those organizations already licensed will be detrimental. Provision is made by Executive Law, § 435, for the State Bingo Control Commission to recommend appropriate legislation. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 29.

Laws governing bingo do not authorize electronic bingo proposal. 1985 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-F8.

A municipality receiving a share of the net proceeds of bingo occasions shall use this money to defray the cost of licensing and regulating bingo. Any excess not needed for this purpose is surplus revenue to be used for any lawful municipal purpose. 1980 Op St Compt File #602.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:
Bingo. 9 NYCRR §§ 5800.1 et seq.

Jurisprudences:
62 NY Jur 2d Gambling §§ 9, 64, 66, 69–70, 71, 75, 78.
38 Am Jur 2d, Gambling §§ 17–19, 42.

§ 436. Hearings; immunity

1. A hearing upon any investigation or review authorized by this article or by article fourteen-h of the general municipal law may be conducted by two or more members of the commission or by a hearing officer duly designated by the commission, as the commission shall determine.

2. A person who has violated any provision of this article or article fourteen-h of the general municipal law, or of the rules and regulations of the commission, or any term of any license issued under said articles or said rules and regulations, is a competent witness against another person so charged. In any hearing upon any investigation or review authorized by this article or article fourteen-h of the general municipal law, for or relating to a violation of any provision of said articles or of the rules and regulations of the commission or of the term of any such license, the commission, may confer immunity upon such witness in accordance with the provisions of section 50.20 of the criminal procedure law. Such immunity shall be conferred only upon the vote of at least three members of the commission, and only after affording the attorney general and the appropriate district attorney a reasonable opportunity to be heard with respect to any objections which they or either of them may have to the granting of such immunity.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1962, ch 437, § 4, eff June 1, 1962; amd, L 1967, ch 680, § 38; L 1971, ch 1097, § 39, eff Sept 1, 1971.

Prior Law: Former § 436, add, L 1957, ch 853, § 1; renumbered § 439, L 1962, ch 437, § 7, eff June 1, 1962.

Editor's Notes: See 1967 note under § 63.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:
Bingo, hearings and appeals. 9 NYCRR §§ 5830.1 et seq.

Jurisprudences:
62 NY Jur 2d Gambling §§ 9, 64.
1A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms, Administrative Law, Forms 111-121.

Annotations:
Libel and slander: privilege applicable to judicial proceedings as extending to administrative proceedings. 45 ALR2d 1296.
Adequacy of immunity offered as condition of denial of privilege against self-incrimination. 53 ALR2d 1030.

§ 437. Place of investigations and hearings; witnesses; books and documents

The commission may conduct investigations and hearings within or without the state and shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the production of books, records, documents and other evidence by the issuance of a subpoena signed by a member of the commission.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1957, ch 853, § 1; amd, L 1962, ch 437, § 5, eff June 1, 1962.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:
Bingo, hearings and appeals. 9 NYCRR §§ 5830.1 et seq.

Jurisprudences:
62 NY Jur 2d Gambling §§ 9, 64, 75.
2 Am Jur 2d, Administrative Law §§ 131, 338 et seq.

§ 438. Privilege against self-incrimination

The willful refusal to answer a material question or the assertion of privilege against self-incrimination during a hearing upon any investigation or review authorized by this article or by article fourteen-h of the general municipal law by any licensee or any person identified with any licensee as an officer, director, stockholder, partner, member, employee or agent thereof shall constitute sufficient cause for the revocation or suspension of any license issued under this article or under the licensing law, as the commission or as the municipal governing body may determine.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1962, ch 437, § 6, eff June 1, 1962.

Prior Law: Former § 438, add, L 1957, ch 853, § 1; renumbered § 439-a, L 1962, ch 437, § 8, eff June 1, 1962.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:
62 NY Jur 2d Gambling §§ 9, 64.
81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 80, 83–85.

Annotations:
Tort or statutory liability for failure or refusal of witness to give testimony. 61 ALR3d 1297.

ARTICLE 19-G Office of Children and Family Services

Title 2. Facilities

Section
505. Directors of facilities

HISTORY:
Add, L 1960, ch 881, § 1, eff July 1, 1960; amd, L 2002, ch 182, § 11, eff July 23, 2002; Add, L 1960, ch 881, § 1, eff July 1, 1960; amd, L 2002, ch 182, § 11, eff July 23, 2002.

TITLE 2 Facilities

HISTORY:
Add, L 1992, ch 465, § 11, eff Jan 13, 1993 (see 1992 note below).

§ 505. Directors of facilities

1. There shall be a facility director of each office of children and family services operated facility. Such facility director shall be appointed by the commissioner of the office of children and family services and the position shall be in the noncompetitive class and designated as confidential as defined by subdivision two-a of section forty-two of the civil service law. The facility director shall have such experience and other qualifications as may be prescribed by the director of classification and compensation within the department of civil service in consultation with the commissioner of the office of children and family services based on differences in duties, levels of responsibility, size and character of the facility, knowledge, skills and abilities required, and other factors affecting the position. Such facility director shall serve at the pleasure of the commissioner of the office of children and family services.

2. Subject to regulations of the division, the facility director of a state facility in the division shall:

(a) operate and manage the facility,

(b) submit a monthly report on such matters as the division may specify.

3. Subject to the regulations of the division, the facility director may authorize the use of the buildings and grounds of the facility by a municipality, special district or non-profit association, corporation or organization for educational, recreational, social and civic purposes whenever such use may promote better relationships with the community in which the facility is located, provided, however, that such use does not interfere with the purposes and program of the facility.

HISTORY:
Formerly § 515, add, L 1971, ch 947, § 3, with substance of subs 1 and 2 transferred from Soc Serv Law § 419(1, 3); renumbered § 505 and amd, L 1992, ch 465, §§ 13, 18, eff Jan 13, 1993 (see 1992 note below); L 2015, ch 56, § 3 (Part J), effective April 13, 2015.

Prior Law: Former § 505, add, L 1966, ch 439, § 2; repealed, L 1992, ch 465, § 12, eff Jan 13, 1993 (see 1992 note below).

Editor's Notes: Laws 1992, ch 465, § 62, eff Jan 13, 1993, provides as follows:
§ 62. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law and shall apply to all persons in the custody of the division for youth on or after such date. (Amd, L 1993, ch 687, § 14, eff Dec 2, 1993.).

Amendment Notes The 2015 amendment by ch 56, § 3 (Part J), rewrote 1, which formerly read: "There shall be a facility director of each division for youth facility. Such facility director shall be appointed by the director of the division and shall be in the noncompetitive class and designated as confidential as defined by subdivision two-a of section forty-two of the civil service law. The facility director shall have two years experience in appropriate titles in state government. Such facility director shall have such other qualifications as may be prescribed by the director of the division, based on differences in duties, levels of responsibility, size and character of the facility, knowledge, skills and abilities required, and other factors affecting the position and shall serve at the pleasure of the director of the division."

ARTICLE 21-A Emergency Services Council

Section
580. Emergency services council

HISTORY:
Add, L 2000, ch 300, § 2, eff Aug 23, 2000.

§ 580. Emergency services council

1. Creation; members. There is hereby created in the department of state an emergency services council, the members of which shall be the directors of the office of fire prevention and control, the bureau of emergency medical services and the state emergency management office, the superintendent of state police, the commissioner of health, the secretary of state, the director of the state office for the aging and the director of state operations who shall be the chairperson unless otherwise appointed by the governor. There shall also be two representatives appointed by the state emergency medical services council, one of whom shall be a representative of volunteer ambulance service and one of whom shall be a representative of proprietary ambulance service; two representatives appointed by the fire advisory board, one of which shall be representative of volunteer fire service and one of which shall be representative of paid fire service; one representative shall be appointed by the disaster preparedness commission; one physician shall be appointed by the state emergency medical advisory committee; one appointment shall be made by the governor; one appointment shall be made by the temporary president of the senate; and one appointment shall be made by the speaker of the assembly.

2. The role of the council shall be advisory. The purposes of the council shall be to develop and coordinate state emergency services, make recommendations on emergency services policy, and eliminate unnecessary duplication of effort in such a way as to ensure the provision of efficient and effective delivery of such services. The council shall adopt a mission statement consistent with the intent of this legislation and which shall affirm the council's commitment to fostering improved communication, coordination and cooperation among law enforcement, fire protection, emergency medical services and disaster preparedness agencies.

3. Powers and duties. The members of the council shall receive no compensation for their services but shall be allowed actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. The council may request and shall receive from any department, board, bureau, commission, office, agency or other instrumentality of the state, such facilities, assistance and data as it deems necessary or desirable for the proper execution of its powers and duties. The council shall meet at least quarterly and report annually no later then [than]* September thirtieth of each year. However should the need arise the council may submit incremental reports as deemed necessary. Such reports shall be submitted to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the chairperson of the senate finance committee, the speaker of the assembly, and the chairperson of the assembly ways and means committee. The council shall have the power to hold public hearings and solicit testimony on any matter it deems relative to carrying out its mission. The council shall have the power to make non-binding recommendations concerning existing and/or future policy, rules and regulations and have the ability to take up for consideration recommendations submitted by either public or private entities. The council may have the ability to advise the governor, legislature, state agencies and entities, and localities on issues relating to and effecting the coordination and enhancement of emergency response, and public health and safety. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to supersede any established authority, duty and power established by local law, state law or regulation, or otherwise granted to any agency, body or entity.

*The bracketed word has been inserted by the Publisher.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2000, ch 300, § 2, eff Aug 23, 2000 (see 2000 note below); amd, L 2012, ch 40, § 1, eff May 31, 2012.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2000, ch 300, § 1, eff Aug 23, 2000, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The legislature hereby finds and declares that the dedicated service and protection of public health and safety provided by law enforcement, fire protection, emergency medical services and disaster preparedness personnel in New York state is outstanding. The legislature further finds and declares that it is vitally important to the citizens of New York to coordinate all resources available in the event of an emergency, disaster, or public safety incident, in order to provide the most effective emergency response and protect the public's health and safety. It is the intent of the legislature, therefore, to establish an advisory body whose purpose is to assist the state and localities in maximizing the effectiveness of law enforcement, fire protection, emergency medical services, disaster preparedness agencies, and others through the coordination of their respective activities, while recognizing and respecting the expertise and established authority and responsibility of each sector. Said advisory body shall identify all public and private resources available to address emergency situations, and shall encourage partnerships among state and local government agencies and private industry. The coordination sought by this legislation is further designed to encourage proactive behavior in order to prevent emergencies and escalation in severity of an emergency.

Amendment Notes: 2012. Chapter 40, § 1 amended: Sub 1 by adding the matter in italics.

Notes to Opinions

Attorney General Opinions

The Permanent Citizens Advisory Committee to the MTA may not seek federal designation as a tax-exempt organization, solicit donations directly from the public, or apply to state agencies for direct funding. 2014 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2014-F2, 2014 N.Y. AG LEXIS 87.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:

96 NY Jur 2d State of New York § 86.

ARTICLE 26 Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Services

Section

709. Division of homeland security and emergency services; creation; powers and duties
709-a. Office of counterterrorism
710. Commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services; appointment of the commissioner; powers and duties
711. Reports
711-a. Analyze and report on the feasibility of implementing tornado warning systems
713. Protection of critical infrastructure including energy generating and transmission facilities
714. Protection of critical infrastructure; storage facilities for hazardous substances
716. Protection of critical infrastructure; commercial aviation, petroleum and natural gas fuel transmission facilities and pipelines
717. Office of interoperable and emergency communications

717-a. Direct dialing to public service answering points.
718. Voluntary surveillance access database

HISTORY:

Add, L 2003, ch 403, § 1, eff Aug 26, 2003; amd, L 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004; L 2010, ch 56, § 13 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010; Add, L 2003, ch 403, § 1, eff Aug 26, 2003; amd, L 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004; L 2010, ch 56, § 13 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

§ 709. Division of homeland security and emergency services; creation; powers and duties

1. There is hereby created within the executive department the division of homeland security and emergency services, which shall have and exercise the powers and duties set forth in this article. Any reference to the 'office of public security', the 'office of homeland security', the 'state emergency management office' or the 'office of fire prevention and control' in the laws of New York state, executive orders, or contracts entered into on behalf of the state shall be deemed to refer to the division of homeland security and emergency services.

2. The division shall have the power and duty to:

(a) oversee and coordinate the state's homeland security and comprehensive emergency management resources, subject to any laws, rules or regulations governing the budgeting and appropriation of funds;

(b) review homeland security and comprehensive emergency management policies, protocols and strategies of state agencies. The agencies shall include, but not be limited to, the state agencies included on the disaster preparedness commission as identified in section twenty-one of this chapter;

(c) develop policies, protocols and strategies, which may be used to prevent, detect, respond to and recover from terrorist acts or threats and other natural and man-made disasters, which for purposes of this section shall have the same meaning as defined in article two-B of this chapter;

(d) identify potential inadequacies in the state's policies, protocols and strategies to detect, respond to and recover from terrorist acts or threats and other natural and man-made disasters;

(e) undertake periodic drills and simulations designed to assess and prepare responses to terrorist acts or threats and other natural and man-made disasters;

(f) coordinate state resources for the collection and analysis of information relating to natural and man-made disasters throughout the state subject to any applicable laws, rules, or regulations;

(g) coordinate and facilitate information sharing among local, state, and federal agencies to ensure appropriate intelligence to assist in the early identification of and response to natural and man-made disasters, subject to any applicable laws, rules, or regulations governing the release, disclosure or sharing of any such information;

(h) assess the preparedness of state and local public health systems to respond to terrorist acts and other natural and man-made disasters, including ensuring the availability of early warning systems designed to detect potential threats and determining adequacy and availability of necessary vaccines and pharmaceuticals and hospital capacity;

(i) coordinate strategies, protocols and first-responder equipment needs that may be used to monitor, detect, respond to and mitigate the consequences of a potential biological, chemical or radiological terrorist act or threat;

(j) work with local, state and federal agencies and private entities to conduct assessments of the vulnerability of critical infrastructure to terrorist attack and other natural and man-made disasters, including, but not limited to, nuclear facilities, power plants, telecommunications systems, mass transportation systems, public roadways, railways, bridges and tunnels, and develop strategies that may be used to protect such infrastructure from terrorist attack and other natural and man-made disasters;

(k) develop plans that may be used to promote rapid recovery from terrorist attacks and other natural and man-made disasters, to ensure prompt restoration of transportation, utilities, critical communications and information systems and to protect such infrastructure;

(l) develop plans that may be used to contain and remove hazardous materials used in a terrorist attack or released as a result of natural or man-made disaster;

(m) act as primary contact with the federal department of homeland security;

(n) adopt, promulgate, amend and rescind rules and regulations to effectuate the provisions and purposes of this article and the powers and duties of the division in connection therewith;

(o) consult with appropriate state and local governments, institutions of higher learning, first responders, health care providers and private entities as necessary to effectuate the provisions of this article, and work with those entities to establish, facilitate and foster cooperation to better prepare the state to prevent and respond to threats and acts of terrorism and other natural and man-made disasters;

(p) to serve as a clearinghouse for the benefit of municipalities regarding information relating to available federal, state and regional grant programs in connection with homeland security, disaster preparedness, communication infrastructure and emergency first responder services, and to promulgate rules and regulations necessary to ensure that grant information is timely posted on the division's website;

(q) request from any department, division, office, commission or other agency of the state or any political subdivision thereof, and the same are authorized to provide, such assistance, services and data as may be required by the division of homeland security and emergency services in carrying out the purposes of this article, subject to applicable laws, rules, and regulations;

(r) develop standards and a certification process for training programs for training of private security officers in commercial buildings which shall:

(i) improve observation, detection and reporting skills;

(ii) improve coordination with local police, fire and emergency services;

(iii) provide and improve skills in working with advanced security technology including surveillance and access control procedures;

(iv) require at least forty hours of training including three hours of training devoted to terrorism awareness; and

(v) have been certified as a qualified program by the division of homeland security and emergency services;

(s) work in consultation with or make recommendations to the commissioner of agriculture and markets in developing rules and regulations relating to ammonium nitrate security; and

(t) develop, maintain, and deploy state, regional and local all-hazard incident management teams.

(u) Notwithstanding article six-C of this chapter, or any other provision of law to the contrary, the division of homeland security and emergency services shall establish best practices regarding training and education for firefighters and first responders which shall include but not be limited to: minimum basic training for firefighters and first responders; in-service training and continuing education; and specialized training as it may apply to the specific duties of a category of emergency personnel.

3. The division of homeland security and emergency services shall consist of several offices including, but not limited to, the office of counterterrorism, which shall have the powers, and be responsible for carrying out the duties, including but not limited to those set forth in section seven hundred nine-a of this article; the office of emergency management, which shall have the powers, and be responsible for carrying out the duties, including but not limited to those set forth in article two-B of this chapter; the office of fire prevention and control, which shall have the powers, and be responsible for carrying out the duties, including but not limited to those set forth in article six-C of this chapter and the office of interoperable and emergency communications, which shall have the powers, and be responsible for carrying out the duties, including but not limited to those set forth in section seven hundred seventeen of this article.

4. As set forth in section seven hundred ten of this article, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, and hold office at the pleasure of the governor. The directors of the offices of counterterrorism, emergency management, fire prevention and control, and interoperable and emergency communications, and such other offices as may be established, shall be appointed by, and hold office at the pleasure of, the governor and they shall report to the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services.

5. The directors of the offices of counterterrorism, emergency management, fire prevention and control, interoperable and emergency communications, and of such other offices as may be established, shall, in consultation with the commissioner, have the authority to promulgate rules and regulations to carry out the duties of their office, including the establishment of fees necessary to compensate for costs associated with the delivery of training and services.

6. The directors of the offices of counterterrorism, emergency management, fire prevention and control, interoperable and emergency communications, and such other offices as may be established, shall have the authority to enter into contracts with any person, firm, corporation, municipality, or government entity.

7. Annual report of the division. The commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall, on or before January first in each year, submit to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, and the speaker of the assembly, a report concerning the performance of the division with respect to outreach to businesses, not-for-profit organizations, and the general public, which shall include information regarding the content and scope of seminars, conferences, surveys, programs, and other programmatic means of engaging such parties to identify and meet the needs of such parties with respect to emergency mitigation, preparedness, response, and recovery, and the participation of such parties therein.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2004, ch 1, § 2 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004; amd, L 2005, ch 537, § 7, eff Aug 16, 2005; L 2005, ch 620, § 1, eff Nov 28, 2005 (see 2005 note below); L 2010, ch 56, §§ 14, 22 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010; L 2013, ch 55, § 1 (Part N), eff March 28, 2013; L 2016, ch 54, § 2 (Part MM), effective April 4, 2016.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part A), eff July 23, 2004, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The tragic events of the September 11, 2001 attack, together with the more recent arrests of members of alleged terrorist cells in Erie county and elsewhere throughout the world, underscore the compelling need for further anti-terror measures to enhance public safety. It is our nation's profound commitment to the principles of democracy and the rule of law that enables us to respond efficiently and effectively to the outrageous criminal acts of terrorists. Creating new criminal offenses and increasing penalties to enhance the powers of law enforcement are necessary to combat their cowardly and inhumane acts of terror.

A chemical or biological attack against a civilian population or the threat of such an attack, however unimaginable before September 11, 2001, has become a stark and disturbing reality. The subsequent outbreaks of anthrax, a deadly disease that caused death and illness across our nation, awakened us to a new type of crime, a crime so indecent that it threatens our values as well as our lives. Terrorists committed to causing death and destruction with deadly or incapacitating chemicals or biological weapons must be brought to justice and punished severely. Although federal law explicitly proscribes such monstrous conduct, state law does not. This act, modeled on federal law, punishes those who criminally use or possess chemical or biological weapons and imposes the penalty of life imprisonment without parole in appropriate cases.

The images of the savage attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on September 11, 2001 will be forever emblazoned on the psyches of all Americans. The slaughter of innocent civilians, and the sacrifice of selfless police officers, brave firefighters, and other heroic emergency services personnel, will never be forgotten. A crime of unimaginable horror, terrorism tears at the very fabric of our society, threatening to rob us of our commitment to freedom, justice, and democracy. This act protects that commitment by providing law enforcement officials with appropriate and effective tools to investigate, prosecute, and punish terrorists.

Laws 2005, ch 620, § 3, eff Nov 28, 2005, provides as follows:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law; provided that any rules and regulations necessary to implement the provisions of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be promulgated on or before such effective date.

Amendment Notes: 2013. Chapter 55, § 1 (Part N) amended:

Sub 1 by deleting at fig 1 ", the 'office of cyber security' ".

Sub 3 by deleting at fig 1 "; the office of cyber security, which shall have the powers, and be responsible for carrying out the duties, including but not limited to those set forth in section seven hundred fifteen of this article;".

Sub 4 by deleting at fig 1 "cyber security,".

Sub 5 by deleting at fig 1 "cyber security,".

Sub 6 by deleting at fig 1 "cyber security,".

2010. Chapter 56, § 14 (Part B) amended:

Section heading by deleting at fig 1 "State office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 1 by deleting at figs 1 and 2 "office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, opening par by deleting at fig 1 "office" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (a) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (b) by deleting at fig 1 "the division of state police, division of military and naval affairs, state emergency management office, department of health, department of environmental conservation, division of criminal justice services, department of state, office for technology, and the department of transportation" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (c) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (d) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (e) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (f) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (h) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (j) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (k) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (l) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (n) by deleting at fig 1 "office" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (o) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (p) by deleting at fig 1 "office's" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (q) by deleting at fig 1 "office of homeland security", at fig 2 "and" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (r) subpar (v) by deleting at fig 1 "state office of homeland security." and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (s) designated from former sub 2, par (r) [second setout] by deleting at fig 1 a period and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2 by adding par (t).

By adding 7.

2010. Chapter 56, § 22 (Part B) amended sub 2 by adding par (u).

The 2016 amendment by ch 54, § 2 (Part MM), deleted "terrorist threats and terrorist activities and other" following "relating to" in 2(f) and in 2(g), deleted "law enforcement" following "federal" and "potential terrorist activities and other" following "response to."

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Office of homeland security: security guard training tax credit. 9 NYCRR §§ 1000.1 et seq.

Office of homeland security: public access to records. 9 NYCRR Part 10025.

§ 709-a. Office of counterterrorism

The office of counterterrorism shall develop and analyze the state's policies, protocols and strategies relating to the prevention and detection of terrorist acts and terrorist threats. The office shall also be responsible for coordinating strategies, protocols and first responder equipment needs to detect a biological, chemical or radiological terrorist act or threat; working with private entities and local, state and federal agencies to conduct assessments of the vulnerability of critical infrastructure to terrorist attack; and consulting with appropriate state and local governments and private entities to facilitate and foster cooperation to better prepare the state to prevent and detect threats and acts of terrorism.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2010, ch 56, § 15-a (Part B), eff July 1, 2010; L 2016, ch 54, § 3 (Part MM), effective April 4, 2016.

Amendment Notes The 2016 amendment by ch 54, § 3 (Part MM), deleted "the collection, analysis and sharing of information relating to terrorist threats and terrorist activities throughout the state" following "responsible for" in the second sentence.

§ 710. Commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services; appointment of the commissioner; powers and duties

1. The commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services (commissioner) shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and hold office at the pleasure of the governor.

2. The commissioner, acting by and through the division, shall have the power and duty to:

(a) administer the duties of the division pursuant to this section;

(b) administer such other duties as may be devolved upon the division from time to time pursuant to law;

(c) cooperate with and assist other state and federal departments, boards, commissions, agencies and public authorities in the development and administration of policies and protocols which will enhance the safety and security of the citizens of the state;

(d) enter into contracts with any person, firm, corporation or governmental agency, and do all things necessary to carry out the functions, powers and duties expressly set forth in this article, subject to any applicable laws, rules or regulations;

(e) establish offices, departments and bureaus and make changes therein as he or she may deem necessary to carry out the functions of the division;

(f) subject to the provisions of this article and the civil service law, and the rules and regulations adopted pursuant thereto, the commissioner may appoint other officers, employees, agents and consultants as may be necessary, prescribe their duties, fix their compensation, and provide for payment of their reasonable expenses, all within amounts available therefor by appropriation. The commissioner may transfer officers or employees from their positions to other positions in the division, or abolish or consolidate such positions; and

(g) accept and contract as agent of the state for any gift to support the development and training missions of the division of homeland security and emergency services.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2004, ch 1, § 2 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004; amd, L 2010, ch 56, § 15 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

Prior Law: Former § 710, redesignated § 713, L 2004, ch 1, § 2 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part A), eff July 23, 2004, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The tragic events of the September 11, 2001 attack, together with the more recent arrests of members of alleged terrorist cells in Erie county and elsewhere throughout the world, underscore the compelling need for further anti-terror measures to enhance public safety. It is our nation's profound commitment to the principles of democracy and the rule of law that enables us to respond efficiently and effectively to the outrageous criminal acts of terrorists. Creating new criminal offenses and increasing penalties to enhance the powers of law enforcement are necessary to combat their cowardly and inhumane acts of terror.

A chemical or biological attack against a civilian population or the threat of such an attack, however unimaginable before September 11, 2001, has become a stark and disturbing reality. The subsequent outbreaks of anthrax, a deadly disease that caused death and illness across our nation, awakened us to a new type of crime, a crime so indecent that it threatens our values as well as our lives. Terrorists committed to causing death and destruction with deadly or incapacitating chemicals or biological weapons must be brought to justice and punished severely. Although federal law explicitly proscribes such monstrous conduct, state law does not. This act, modeled on federal law, punishes those who criminally use or possess chemical or biological weapons and imposes the penalty of life imprisonment without parole in appropriate cases.

The images of the savage attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on September 11, 2001 will be forever emblazoned on the psyches of all Americans. The slaughter of innocent civilians, and the sacrifice of selfless police officers, brave firefighters, and other heroic emergency services personnel, will never be forgotten. A crime of unimaginable horror, terrorism tears at the very fabric of our society, threatening to rob us of our commitment to freedom, justice, and democracy. This act protects that commitment by providing law enforcement officials with appropriate and effective tools to investigate, prosecute, and punish terrorists.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 56, § 15 (Part B) amended:

Section heading by deleting at fig 1 "Director of the office of homeland security", at fig 2 "director" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 1 by deleting at fig 1 "director of the office of homeland security (director)", at fig 2 "The salary of the director shall be fixed at a level commensurate with that of the state officers identified in paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section one hundred sixty-nine of this chapter." and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, opening par by deleting at fig 1 "director", at fig 2 "office" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (a) by deleting at fig 1 "office" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (b) by deleting at fig 1 "office" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (c) by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (e) by deleting at fig 1 "office", at fig 2 ". One of the divisions within the office shall be the office of cyber security and critical infrastructure coordination which shall be dedicated to the identification and mitigation of the state's cyber security infrastructure vulnerabilities", at fig 3 "and" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (f) by deleting at figs 1 and 2 "director", at fig 3 "office", at fig 4 a period and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2 by adding par (g).

§ 711. Reports

1. On or before January thirty-first of each year, the director shall appear before and deliver a report to representatives of each house of the legislature. The temporary president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly shall each appoint three members of their respective houses, and the minority leader of each house shall each appoint one member, to hear the director's report. The appointed members may hear the report in a joint meeting of the members of the senate and assembly or in separate meetings attended by the members from one house. The report shall provide information including, but not limited to: the state's current threat level, imminent threats to New York state, the state's current threat posture and collaborative efforts among localities, regions and with other states to prepare for and defend against acts of terrorism.

2. The commissioner shall appear and give testimony before the annual legislative hearing on public protection held jointly by the assembly committee on ways and means and the senate finance committee as provided for in section three of article VII of the New York state constitution and section thirty-one of the legislative law.

3. The director shall report to the temporary president of the senate, speaker of the assembly and/or their designees within five days of an elevation of the state homeland security advisory system threat level as to the circumstances of the elevation.

4. Before the receipt of any report issued pursuant to this section, each recipient of such report shall develop confidentiality protocols in consultation with the director which shall be binding upon the recipient who issues the protocols and anyone to whom the recipient shows the report, for the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of all sensitive information contained therein, provided, however, that such protocols shall not be binding upon a person who is provided access to such report or any information contained therein pursuant to section eighty-nine of the public officers law after a final determination that access to such report or any information contained therein could not be denied pursuant to subdivision two of section eighty-seven of the public officers law. The director shall also develop protocols for his or her office related to the maintenance and use of the report so as to ensure the confidentiality of all sensitive information contained in the report. On each copy of written reports, the director shall prominently display the following statement: "This report may contain information that if disclosed could endanger the life or safety of the public, and therefore, pursuant to section seven hundred eleven of the executive law, this report is to be maintained and used in a manner consistent with protocols established to preserve the confidentiality of the information contained herein in a manner consistent with law."

HISTORY:

Add, L 2004, ch 1, § 2 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004; amd, L 2013, ch 101, § 6 (Part A), eff July 11, 2013.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part A), eff July 23, 2004, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The tragic events of the September 11, 2001 attack, together with the more recent arrests of members of alleged terrorist cells in Erie county and elsewhere throughout the world, underscore the compelling need for further anti-terror measures to enhance public safety. It is our nation's profound commitment to the principles of democracy and the rule of law that enables us to respond efficiently and effectively to the outrageous criminal acts of terrorists. Creating new criminal offenses and increasing penalties to enhance the powers of law enforcement are necessary to combat their cowardly and inhumane acts of terror.

A chemical or biological attack against a civilian population or the threat of such an attack, however unimaginable before September 11, 2001, has become a stark and disturbing reality. The subsequent outbreaks of anthrax, a deadly disease that caused death and illness across our nation, awakened us to a new type of crime, a crime so indecent that it threatens our values as well as our lives. Terrorists committed to causing death and destruction with deadly or incapacitating chemicals or biological weapons must be brought to justice and punished severely. Although federal law explicitly proscribes such monstrous conduct, state law does not. This act, modeled on federal law, punishes those who criminally use or possess chemical or biological weapons and imposes the penalty of life imprisonment without parole in appropriate cases.

The images of the savage attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on September 11, 2001 will be forever emblazoned on the psyches of all Americans. The slaughter of innocent civilians, and the sacrifice of selfless police officers, brave firefighters, and other heroic emergency services personnel, will never be forgotten. A crime of unimaginable horror, terrorism tears at the very fabric of our society, threatening to rob us of our commitment to freedom, justice, and democracy. This act protects that commitment by providing law enforcement officials with appropriate and effective tools to investigate, prosecute, and punish terrorists.

Amendment Notes: 2013. Chapter 101, § 6 (Part A) amended:

Sub 2 by deleting at fig 1 "director" and adding the matter in italics.

§ 711-a. Analyze and report on the feasibility of implementing tornado warning systems

1. The division shall analyze and report on the feasibility of implementing tornado warning systems, including the installation of tornado sirens in municipalities across the state. Such examination shall include determining whether certain municipalities should install tornado sirens, the potential placement of tornado sirens and whether they should be located near schools, hospitals, sports facilities, colleges or other populated areas.

2. The division shall analyze and report on the use of firehouse sirens as possible notification to the surrounding community of an impending tornado and the type of public education necessary to carry out such program.

3. The division shall also recommend other technologies to be used to issue tornado warnings such as text messages to cell phones and the systems necessary to carry out an emergency text message system.

4. The recommendations required pursuant to this section shall include a cost-benefit analysis of implementing a tornado warning system and possible funding mechanisms for the implementation of a tornado warning system.

5. The division shall issue the report to the governor and the legislature on or before March first, two thousand fourteen.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2013, ch 379, § 1, eff Sept 27, 2013.

§ 713. Protection of critical infrastructure including energy generating and transmission facilities

1. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall conduct a review and analysis of measures being taken by the public service commission and any other agency or authority of the state or any political subdivision thereof and, to the extent practicable, of any federal entity, to protect the security of critical infrastructure related to energy generation and transmission located within the state. The commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall have the authority to review any audits or reports related to the security of such critical infrastructure, including audits or reports conducted at the request of the public service commission or any other agency or authority of the state or any political subdivision thereof or, to the extent practicable, of any federal entity. The owners and operators of such energy generating or transmission facilities shall, in compliance with any federal and state requirements regarding the dissemination of such information, provide access to the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services to such audits or reports regarding such critical infrastructure provided, however, that exclusive custody and control of such audits and reports shall remain solely with the owners and operators of such energy generating or transmission facilities. For the purposes of this article, the term "critical infrastructure" has the meaning ascribed to that term in subdivision five of section eighty-six of the public officers law.

2. (a) On or before December thirty-first, two thousand four, and not later than three years after such date, and every five years thereafter, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, the chairperson of the public service commission and the chief executive of any such affected generating or transmission company or his or her designee. Such report shall review the security measures being taken regarding critical infrastructure related to energy generating and transmission facilities, assess the effectiveness thereof, and include recommendations to the legislature or the public service commission if the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services determines that additional measures are required to be implemented, considering, among other factors, the unique characteristics of each energy generating or transmission facility.

(b) Before the receipt of such report identified in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, each recipient of such report shall develop confidentiality protocols, which shall be binding upon the recipient who issues the protocols and anyone to whom the recipient shows a copy of the report, in consultation with the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services for the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of the report and all information contained therein, provided, however, that such protocols shall not be binding upon a person who is provided access to such report or any information contained therein pursuant to section eighty-nine of the public officers law after a final determination that access to such report or any information contained therein could not be denied pursuant to subdivision two of section eighty-seven of the public officers law. The commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall also develop protocols for his or her office related to the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of the report and all information contained therein. On each report, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall prominently display the following statement: "this report may contain information that if disclosed could endanger the life or safety of the public, and therefore, pursuant to section seven hundred eleven of the executive law, this report is to be maintained and used in a manner consistent with protocols established to preserve the confidentiality of the information contained herein in a manner consistent with law".

(c) Except in the case of federally licensed electric generating facilities, the public service commission shall have the discretion to require that the recommendations of the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services be implemented by any owner or operator of an energy generating or transmission facility. Recommendations regarding federally licensed electric generating facilities shall instead only be made available by the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services to the appropriate federal agency in compliance with any federal and state requirements regarding the dissemination of such information.

3. Any reports prepared pursuant to this article shall not be subject to disclosure pursuant to section eighty-eight of the public officers law.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2003, ch 403, § 1, eff Aug 26, 2003; amd, L 2004, ch 1, § 2 (Part B), eff July 23, 2004; L 2004, ch 426, § 1, eff Sept 14, 2004, deemed eff on and after Aug 26, 2003; L 2010, ch 56, § 16 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part A), eff July 23, 2004, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The tragic events of the September 11, 2001 attack, together with the more recent arrests of members of alleged terrorist cells in Erie county and elsewhere throughout the world, underscore the compelling need for further anti-terror measures to enhance public safety. It is our nation's profound commitment to the principles of democracy and the rule of law that enables us to respond efficiently and effectively to the outrageous criminal acts of terrorists. Creating new criminal offenses and increasing penalties to enhance the powers of law enforcement are necessary to combat their cowardly and inhumane acts of terror.

A chemical or biological attack against a civilian population or the threat of such an attack, however unimaginable before September 11, 2001, has become a stark and disturbing reality. The subsequent outbreaks of anthrax, a deadly disease that caused death and illness across our nation, awakened us to a new type of crime, a crime so indecent that it threatens our values as well as our lives. Terrorists committed to causing death and destruction with deadly or incapacitating chemicals or biological weapons must be brought to justice and punished severely. Although federal law explicitly proscribes such monstrous conduct, state law does not. This act, modeled on federal law, punishes those who criminally use or possess chemical or biological weapons and imposes the penalty of life imprisonment without parole in appropriate cases.

The images of the savage attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on September 11, 2001 will be forever emblazoned on the psyches of all Americans. The slaughter of innocent civilians, and the sacrifice of selfless police officers, brave firefighters, and other heroic emergency services personnel, will never be forgotten. A crime of unimaginable horror, terrorism tears at the very fabric of our society, threatening to rob us of our commitment to freedom, justice, and democracy. This act protects that commitment by providing law enforcement officials with appropriate and effective tools to investigate, prosecute, and punish terrorists.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 56, § 16 (Part B) amended:

Sub 1 by deleting at figs 1–3 "director of public security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (a) by deleting at figs 1 and 2 "director of public security", at fig 3 "On or before April thirtieth, two thousand four, the director of public security shall make a preliminary report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, the chairman of the public service commission, and the chief executive of any such affected generating or transmission company or his or her designee." and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (b) by deleting at figs 1–3 "director of public security", at fig 4 "ten" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (c) by deleing at figs 1 and 2 "director of public secuirty" and adding the matter in italics.

§ 714. Protection of critical infrastructure; storage facilities for hazardous substances

1. Notwithstanding any other provision of law and subject to the availability of an appropriation, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall conduct a review and analysis of measures being taken by the owners and operators of facilities identified pursuant to paragraph (b) of subdivision two of this section to protect the security of critical infrastructure related to such facilities. The commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall have the authority to review all audits or reports related to the security of such critical infrastructure, including all such audits or reports mandated by state and federal law or regulation, including spill prevention reports and risk management plans, audits and reports conducted at the request of the department of environmental conservation or at the request of any federal entity, or any other agency or authority of the state or any political subdivision thereof, and reports prepared by owners and operators of such facilities as required in this subdivision. The owners and operators of such facilities shall, in compliance with any federal and state requirements regarding the dissemination of such information, provide access to the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services to such audits and reports regarding such critical infrastructure provided, however, exclusive custody and control of such audits and reports shall remain solely with the owners and operators of such facilities to the extent not inconsistent with any other law. For the purposes of this section, the term "critical infrastructure" has the meaning ascribed to that term in subdivision five of section eighty-six of the public officers law.

2. To effectuate his or her duties pursuant to this section and identify risks to the public, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall:

(a) within six months of the effective date of this section, in consultation with the commissioner of environmental conservation, the commissioner of health, and such representatives of the chemical industry and higher education as may be appropriate, prepare a list that identifies toxic or hazardous substances, including but not limited to those substances listed as hazardous to public health, safety or the environment in regulations promulgated pursuant to article thirty-seven of the environmental conservation law, as well as those substances for which the state possesses insufficient or limited toxicological information but for which there exists preliminary evidence that the substance or the class of chemicals with similar physical and chemical properties to which it belongs has the potential to cause death, injury, or serious adverse effects to human health or the environment, based on the severity of the threat posed to the public by the unauthorized release of such substances. Such list will be promulgated in accord with the provisions of the state administrative procedure act;

(b) upon completion of the list required pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision, but no later than one hundred twenty days after such date, in consultation with the commissioner of environmental conservation, the commissioner of health and such representatives of the chemical industry and any state, local and municipal officials as may be appropriate, identify facilities, including facilities regulated pursuant to title nine and title eleven of article twenty-seven and article forty of the environmental conservation law, but excluding facilities that hold liquified petroleum gas for fuel at retail sale as described in section 112(1)(4)(B) of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. section 7412(r)(4)(b)) and those facilities that are defined as "water suppliers" in subdivision one of section eleven hundred twenty-five of the public health law, which because of their storage of or relationship to such substances identified pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision pose risks to the public should an unauthorized release of such hazardous substances occur; and

(c) require such facilities identified pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subdivision, as the commissioner so determines, to prepare a vulnerability assessment of the security measures taken by such facilities to prevent and respond to the unauthorized release of hazardous substances as may be stored therein, which assessments the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall review and consider in light of the seriousness of the risk posed and vulnerability of such facility and, where appropriate, make recommendations with respect thereto.

3. (a) On or before June first, two thousand five, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall make a preliminary report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, the commissioner of environmental conservation, the commissioner of health and the chief executive officer of any such affected facility or his or her designee, and on or before December thirty-first, two thousand five, and not later than three years after such date, and every five years thereafter, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, the commissioner of environmental conservation, the commissioner of health and the chief executive officer of any such affected facility or his or her designee. Such report shall review the security measures being taken regarding critical infrastructure related to such facilities, assess the effectiveness thereof, and include recommendations to the legislature, the department of environmental conservation or the department of health if the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services determines that additional measures are required to be implemented.

(b) Before the receipt of such report identified in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, each recipient of such report shall develop confidentiality protocols which shall be binding upon the recipient who issues the protocols and anyone to whom the recipient shows a copy of the report in consultation with the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services, for the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of the report and all information contained therein, provided, however, that such protocols shall not be binding upon a person who is provided access to such report or any information contained therein pursuant to section eighty-nine of the public officers law after a final determination that access to such report or any information contained therein could not be denied pursuant to subdivision two of section eighty-seven of the public officers law. The commissioner of the division of homelandsecurity and emergency services shall also develop protocols for such division related to the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of all sensitive information contained in such report. On each report, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall prominently display the following statement: "This report may contain information that if disclosed could endanger the life or safety of the public, and therefore, pursuant to section seven hundred eleven of the executive law, this report is to be maintained and used in a manner consistent with protocols established to preserve the confidentiality of the information contained herein in a manner consistent with law."

(c) The department of environmental conservation shall have the discretion to require that recommendations of the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services be implemented by any owner or operator of a hazardous substances storage facility as defined in this section.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part C), eff July 23, 2004; amd, L 2010, ch 56, § 17 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2004, ch 1, § 1 (Part A), eff July 23, 2004, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The tragic events of the September 11, 2001 attack, together with the more recent arrests of members of alleged terrorist cells in Erie county and elsewhere throughout the world, underscore the compelling need for further anti-terror measures to enhance public safety. It is our nation's profound commitment to the principles of democracy and the rule of law that enables us to respond efficiently and effectively to the outrageous criminal acts of terrorists. Creating new criminal offenses and increasing penalties to enhance the powers of law enforcement are necessary to combat their cowardly and inhumane acts of terror.

A chemical or biological attack against a civilian population or the threat of such an attack, however unimaginable before September 11, 2001, has become a stark and disturbing reality. The subsequent outbreaks of anthrax, a deadly disease that caused death and illness across our nation, awakened us to a new type of crime, a crime so indecent that it threatens our values as well as our lives. Terrorists committed to causing death and destruction with deadly or incapacitating chemicals or biological weapons must be brought to justice and punished severely. Although federal law explicitly proscribes such monstrous conduct, state law does not. This act, modeled on federal law, punishes those who criminally use or possess chemical or biological weapons and imposes the penalty of life imprisonment without parole in appropriate cases.

The images of the savage attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on September 11, 2001 will be forever emblazoned on the psyches of all Americans. The slaughter of innocent civilians, and the sacrifice of selfless police officers, brave firefighters, and other heroic emergency services personnel, will never be forgotten. A crime of unimaginable horror, terrorism tears at the very fabric of our society, threatening to rob us of our commitment to freedom, justice, and democracy. This act protects that commitment by providing law enforcement officials with appropriate and effective tools to investigate, prosecute, and punish terrorists.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 56, § 17 (Part B) amended:

Sub 1 by deleting at figs 1–3 "director of the office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, opening par by deleting at fig 1 "directory of the office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (c) by deleting at fig 1 "director", at fig 2 "director of the office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 3, par (a) by deleting at figs 1–3 "director of the office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 3, par (b) by deleting at figs 1, 2 and 4 "director of the office of homeland security", at fig 3 "office", at fig 5 ", as added by a chapter of the laws of two thousand four" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 3, par (c) by deleting at fig 1 "director of the office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

§ 716. Protection of critical infrastructure; commercial aviation, petroleum and natural gas fuel transmission facilities and pipelines

1. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall conduct a review and analysis of measures being taken by any other agency or authority of the state or any political subdivision thereof and, to the extent practicable, of any federal entity, to protect the security of critical infrastructure related to commercial aviation fuel, petroleum and natural gas transmission facilities and pipelines in this state which are not located upon the premises of a commercial airport. As deemed appropriate by such commissioner, the division of homeland security and emergency services shall have the authority to physically inspect the premises and review any audits or reports related to the security of such critical infrastructure, including audits or reports conducted at the request of any other agency or authority of the state or any political subdivision thereof or, to the extent practicable, of any federal entity. The operators of such commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facilities and pipelines shall, in compliance with any federal and state requirements regarding the dissemination of such information, provide access to the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services to such audits or reports regarding such critical infrastructure provided, however, that exclusive custody and control of such audits and reports shall remain solely with the operators of such commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facilities and pipelines. For the purposes of this article, the term "critical infrastructure" has the meaning ascribed to that term in subdivision five of section eighty-six of the public officers law.

2. (a) On or before December thirty-first, two thousand eleven, and every five years thereafter, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, the public service commission, and the operator of any such affected commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facility or pipeline. Such report shall review the security measures being taken regarding critical infrastructure related to commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facilities and pipelines, assess the effectiveness thereof, and include recommendations to the legislature, the public service commission, or the operator of a commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facility or pipeline, or any appropriate state or federal regulating entity or agency if the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services determines that additional measures are required to be implemented, considering among other factors, the unique characteristics of each commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facility or pipeline.

(b) Before the receipt of such report identified in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, each recipient of such report shall develop confidentiality protocols, which shall be binding upon the recipient who issues the protocols and anyone to whom the recipient shows a copy of the report, in consultation with the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services for the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of the report and all information contained therein, provided, however, that such report and any information contained or used in its preparation shall be exempt and not made available pursuant to article six of the public officers law. The commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall also develop protocols for his or her office related to the maintenance and use of such report so as to ensure the confidentiality of the report and all information contained therein. On each report, the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services shall prominently display the following statement: "this report may contain information that if disclosed could endanger the life or safety of the public, and therefore, pursuant to section seven hundred eleven of the executive law, this report is to be maintained and used in a manner consistent with protocols established to preserve the confidentiality of the information contained herein in a manner consistent with law".

(c) The public service commission shall have the discretion to require, through regulation or otherwise, that the recommendations of the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services be implemented at an affected commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facility or pipeline.

(d) The division of homeland security and emergency services shall receive necessary appropriations for the performance of its duties pursuant to this section.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2007, ch 630, § 1, eff Aug 28, 2007; amd, L 2010, ch 56, § 19 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 56, § 19 (Part B) amended:

By redesignating § 715 [second setout] as § 716.

Sub 1 by deleting at figs 1 and 4 "director of the office of homeland security", at fig 2 "director", at fig 3 "office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (a) by deleting at fig 1 "eight, and not later than three years after such date", at figs 2 and 3 "director of the office of homeland security", at fig 4 "On or before April thirtieth, two thousand eight, the director of the office of homeland security shall make a preliminary report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, the public service commission, and the operator of any such affected commercial aviation fuel, petroleum or natural gas transmission facility or pipeline." and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (b) by deleing at figs 1–3 "director of the office of homeland security", at fig 4 "ten" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (c) by deleting at fig 1 "director of the office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (d) by deleting at fig 1 "office of homeland security" and adding the matter in italics.

§ 717. Office of interoperable and emergency communications

1. The office of interoperable and emergency communications shall be the principal state agency for all interoperable and emergency communications issues and oversee and direct the development, coordination and implementation of policies, plans, standards, programs and services related to interoperable and emergency communications, including those related to public safety land mobile radio communications. The office shall coordinate with federal, state, local, tribal, non-governmental and other appropriate entities.

2. The office shall be responsible for coordinating relevant grant programs and other funding sources to enhance interoperable and emergency communications, as consistent with the mission of the division. The director shall make final determinations regarding the distribution of grants, in consultation with the board.

3. The director of this office shall serve as the statewide interoperable and emergency communications coordinator.

4. To ensure appropriate coordination and consultation with relevant entities, the director shall be the chairperson of the statewide interoperable and emergency communication board as defined in section three hundred twenty-seven of the county law, and whose duties shall include, but not be limited to all the duties regularly assigned to the board as defined by section three hundred twenty-eight of the county law.

5. The commissioner, in consultation with the director of the office, shall promulgate rules and regulations which require municipalities to report, no less than annually, on prior and planned expenditures to develop and operate interoperable and emergency communications. The regulations shall permit municipalities which participate in county or multi-county regional coordinated interoperability efforts to submit a single report to the division for all participating municipalities, so long as all expenses which would have been reported if the participating municipalities had submitted individual reports are contained in the combined report. The regulations shall not require a municipality that incurred no relevant expenses and anticipates no relevant expenses to submit such a report. The division shall include a summary of such information in its annual report to the governor, temporary president of the senate, and speaker of the assembly provided for in subdivision seven of section seven hundred nine of this article, as well as submitting such information at the same time to the state comptroller.

HISTORY:
Add, L 2010, ch 56, § 21 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

§ 717-a. Direct dialing to public service answering points.

1. For purposes of this section, "public building" shall mean any building belonging to the state, county, town, village, school district or any other political or civil subdivision of state or local government.

2. For purposes of this section, "multi-line telephone system" shall mean any system comprised of common control units, telephone sets, control hardware and software, and adjunct systems which enables users to make and receive telephone calls using shared resources such as telephone network trunks or data link bandwidth. This term includes, but is not limited to, network-based and premises-based systems such as Centrex service, premises-based, hosted and cloud-based VoIP, as well as PBX, Hybrid and Key Telephone Systems, as classified by the FCC under Part 68 of its rules.

3. All public buildings which operate on a multi-line telephone system in this state must configure their multi-line telephone system hardware to allow any call to 911 on the system to be directly connected to a public service answering point; provided however, that in the case of public buildings governed by section three hundred fifty-five or six thousand two hundred four of the education law which have on-campus emergency answering points, such public buildings may route such 911 calls to their on-campus answering points.

4. The requirements of subdivision three of this section shall not apply to any public building operating on a multi-line telephone system that would be required to upgrade the hardware of their telephone network to meet said requirement. However, every telephone in any exempt public building operating on a multi-line telephone system shall place an instructional sticker on or immediately adjacent to each telephone informing users of the phone's inability to directly dial 911 and the procedures to follow to connect to a 911 public service answering point, or in the case of public buildings governed by section three hundred fifty-five or six thousand two hundred four of the education law which have on-campus emergency answering points, such on-campus answering points, in case of an emergency.

HISTORY:
L 2019, ch 727, § 1, effective March 19, 2020; L 2020, ch 73, § 1, effective March 19, 2020.

Editor's Notes Laws 2019, ch 727, § 2, eff March 19, 2020, provides:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.

Laws 2020, ch 73, § 2, eff March 19, 2020, provides:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as a chapter of the laws of 2019, amending the executive law relating to direct dialing to public service answering points, as proposed in legislative bills numbers S. 4756 and A. 458, takes effect.

Amendment Notes The 2020 amendment by ch 73, § 1, added "provided however, that in the case of public buildings governed by section three hundred fifty-five or six thousand two hundred four of the education law which have on-campus emergency answering points, such public buildings may route such 911 calls to their on-campus answering points" at the end of (3); and added "or in the case of public buildings governed by section three hundred fifty-five or six thousand two hundred four of the education law which have on-campus emergency answering points, such on-campus answering points" in (4).

§ 718. Voluntary surveillance access database

1. The division shall establish a voluntary surveillance access database to be made accessible, upon written request, to any law enforcement agency solely for purposes of a criminal investigation.

2. Residential home owners and business owners who maintain a closed-circuit television or other electronic video surveillance system may elect to register such information, limited to the location of such system and the contact information for the owner, with the voluntary surveillance access database. Such owners may withdraw such registration from the database at any time.

3. Registration information from such database shall be kept confidential and shall not be made available for disclosure or inspection under the state freedom of information law unless a subpoena or other court order directs the division to release such information or image.

HISTORY:
Add, L 2012, ch 287, § 1, eff Jan 28, 2013 (see 2012 note below).

Editor's Notes: Laws 2012, ch 287, § 2, eff Jan 28, 2013, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however, that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

ARTICLE 35 Division of Criminal Justice Services

Section

837-o. Search for arson and sex offense conviction records of volunteer firefighter applicants
837-r. Office of sex offender management
837-s. Search for sex offense conviction records of emergency medical technician and other first responder applicants
845. Central state registry of police officers and peace officers
845-a. Presentment of flags lowered to half-staff in memorial of the death of any police officer or peace officer

HISTORY:

Add, L 1972, ch 399, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1972.

§ 837-o. Search for arson and sex offense conviction records of volunteer firefighter applicants

1. Any person who applies for membership in a fire company, as such term is defined in section three of the volunteer firefighters' benefit law, or who seeks to transfer as a member to another fire company, shall be required to authorize the submission of his or her name and other authorized identifying information to the division which shall search its files for records indicating whether the person stands convicted of the crime of arson or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law. The chief of the fire company to which application is made shall provide written notice to the applicant that a search will be conducted, and if the applicant desires to proceed, he or she shall complete a search request on the form provided for this purpose by the division of criminal justice services.

2. Within ten business days of receipt from the applicant, the chief of the fire company shall send the completed search request form to either (i) the sheriff's department of the county in which the fire company is located, or (ii) the office of fire prevention and control, as follows:

(a) the sheriff's department of the county in which the fire company is located shall be responsible for receiving the search requests and processing the search requests with the division within ten business days of receipt from the chief of the fire company, unless the county legislative body adopts and files with the office of fire prevention and control pursuant to the municipal home rule law a local law providing that the sheriff's department shall not have such responsibility;

(b) in all other instances where a county legislative body has adopted a local law pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision, the office of fire prevention and control shall be responsible for receiving search requests and forwarding the search requests to the division.

The office of fire prevention and control is hereby authorized to establish a communication network with the division for the purpose of forwarding search requests and receiving search results pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subdivision.

3.

(a) All searches concerning the application for membership in a fire company shall be conducted under the provisions of subdivision six of section eight hundred thirty-seven of this article without the assessment of any fee to the applicant or fire company and shall pertain solely to ascertaining whether the applicant stands convicted of arson or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law.

(b) The results of the search shall be communicated in writing, within ten business days of receipt from the division, to the chief of the fire company from which the search request originated by either the sheriff's department or the office of fire prevention and control, and shall be kept confidential by the chief, except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subdivision. The results of the search shall only state either that: (i) the applicant stands convicted of arson and/or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law, or (ii) the applicant has no record of conviction for arson or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law. The results of the search shall not divulge any other information relating to the criminal history of the applicant.

(c) At the time an applicant is advised that he or she is ineligible for membership due to a record of conviction for arson, he or she shall also be advised of the rights to challenge and appeal the information contained in the record of conviction as provided in the rules and regulations of the division. The applicant shall continue to be barred from membership until all administrative and judicial challenges to the accuracy of such information or appeals therefrom, are ultimately resolved in his or her favor, or if such a determination is unchallenged.

(d) If a person is denied election or appointment as a volunteer member of a fire company based in whole or in part on the fact that he or she stands convicted of a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law, he or she shall be advised by the fire company of the rights to challenge and appeal the information contained in the record of conviction as provided in the rules and regulations of the division, and provided by the fire company with a copy of the criminal history record received by the fire company and with a copy of sections seven hundred fifty-two and seven hundred fifty-three of the correction law.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1999, ch 423, § 2, eff April 1, 2000; amd, L 2002, ch 689,

§ 1, eff Feb 18, 2003; L 2010, ch 56, § 41 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010; L 2014, ch 198, § 1, effective December 2, 2014.

Editor's Notes Laws 1999, ch 423, §§ 1, 6, eff April 1, 2000, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The efforts of volunteer firefighters in New York state embody many of the values and traditions long respected and admired by our citizens. Volunteer firefighters devote many hours acquiring necessary training and then expend their energies to protect lives and property while placing their own lives and physical well being in jeopardy. They are heroes to our children, are trusted in our hour of need and provide role models for dedication and discipline.

Unfortunately, each year the public and members of the volunteer firefighting services are shocked to learn that a very few volunteers among the ranks have themselves been responsible for setting fires in their communities. These are the very individuals who have received specific training as firefighters in the arts and techniques of the arsonist. While observers may differ as to whether these fires are set by individuals who are fascinated by fire itself, or are set by those who seek to create opportunities in which they can be viewed as brave heroes by others, the results are the same: a serious erosion in public confidence in the volunteer firefighting services as a whole, and a loss of trust and morale within the volunteer companies themselves. This small number of individuals also places our communities and citizens at serious physical risk.

Mindful of these consequences, the legislature enacted chapter 719 of the laws of 1985, making an arson conviction in any degree an absolute bar to membership in a fire company. This law, however, relied too heavily upon an individual's willingness to admit an arson conviction and resigning as a volunteer or in refraining from applying in the first instance. It is the intent of this law to strengthen the ability of fire companies to police their own ranks by enabling fire chiefs to require new applicants for membership as volunteer firefighters, including transfers between fire companies, to undergo an arson conviction record check prior to acceptance as members. The authority afforded will enable the early identification of persons convicted of arson who may not serve.

§ 6. This act shall take effect April 1, 2000 except that the division of criminal justice services and the department of state are immediately authorized to promulgate such rules and regulations necessary to implement this act on or before such effective date.

Amendment Notes 2010. Chapter 56, § 41 (Part B) amended:

Sub 2, opening par by deleting at fig 1 "department of state,".

Sub 2, par (a) by deleting at fig 1 "secretary of state" and adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (b) by deleting at fig 1 "department of state,".

Sub 2, closing par by deleting at fig 1 "department of state,".

Sub 3, par (b) by deleting at fig 1 "depatment of state,".

The 2014 amendment by ch 198, § 1 added "and sex offense" in the section heading; added "or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law" at the end of the first sentence of 1; added "or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law" in 3(a); in the second sentence of 3(b), added "and/or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law" and added "or a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law" at the end; and added 3(d).

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:

26 NY Jur 2d Counties Towns, and Municipal Corporations § 948.

27 NY Jur 2d Counties Towns, and Municipal Corporations §§ 1172, 1195.

§ 837-r. Office of sex offender management

1. Establishment of office. There is hereby established within the division of criminal justice services the office of sex offender management, hereinafter in this section referred to as "the office."

2. Duties and responsibilities. The office, in consultation with the commissioner of mental health, shall be responsible for policy matters relating to sex offenders and the management of their behavior. Its activities as to such matters shall include, but not be limited to:

(a) Studying issues relating to management of sex offender behavior in consultation with experts, service providers and representative organizations in the field of sex offender management;

(b) Serving as a clearinghouse for information and materials including lists of treatment providers and other community resources for sex offender management;

(c) Advising the governor and the legislature on the most effective ways for state government to address issues of sex offender management;

(d) Coordinating and recommending sex offender management policy and interagency initiatives including matters relating to risk assessment; provision of treatment; supervision policy; the use of videoconferencing and other tools to expedite hearings; the use of polygraphs, electronic monitoring, and other supervisory tools; the sharing of information among relevant agencies; residential issues; and other matters relating to re-entry and integration into society;

(e) Developing recommendations as to standards, guidelines, best practices, and qualifications for sex offender assessment, treatment, and supervision;

(f) Acting as an advocate for sex offense victims and programs and coordinating activities of other agencies with related functions;

(g) Developing and implementing campaigns of public awareness, community outreach, and sex offense prevention;

(h) Coordinating programs of training and education for law enforcement and treatment providers, judges, attorneys, and other professionals; and

(i) Developing case management systems and other information technology to support state activities in the management of sex offender behavior.

3. Other state agencies shall provide cooperation and assistance to the office so as to assist it in the effective performance of its duties.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2007, ch 7, § 3, eff April 13, 2007.

Editor's Notes Laws 2007, ch 7, § 1, eff April 13, 2007, provides as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "sex offender management and treatment act."

§ 837-s. Search for sex offense conviction records of emergency medical technician and other first responder applicants

1. The chief officer of any volunteer ambulance company, as such term is defined in subdivision two of section three of the volunteer ambulance workers' benefit law, any proprietary ambulance service, or any other ambulance or emergency medical service providing emergency medical care and transportation of sick or injured persons to health care facilities, shall notify every new applicant for emergency medical technician, paramedic, certified first responder applicant, or any other applicant who would be responsible for providing emergency medical care and transportation of sick or injured persons to health care facilities, including applicants seeking to transfer from one ambulance company or service to another, that their personally identifying information will be checked against the public records of those individuals required to register under article six-C of the correction law.

2. If such applicant desires to proceed, within ten business days of receiving an application, the chief officer shall inquire of the division as to whether such applicant is required to register by calling the special telephone number established pursuant to section one hundred sixty-eight-p of the correction law. Such chief officer may also check the internet posting subdirectory of level two and three sex offenders established pursuant to section one hundred sixty-eight-q of the correction law.

3. Where such search reveals that an applicant is registered under article six-C of the correction law, the chief officer of the ambulance company or service shall determine whether or not such person shall be eligible to be elected or otherwise appointed as a member of such ambulance company or service. Such determination shall be made consistent with article twenty-three-A of the correction law and a copy of such article shall be provided to the applicant.

HISTORY:
L 2016, ch 429, § 1, effective March 14, 2017.

§ 845. Central state registry of police officers and peace officers

1. The division shall collect information to maintain, on a current basis, a registry of all police officers and peace officers in the state. Such registry shall contain, with respect to each officer, his or her name, date of birth, social security number, rank or title, employer, and date of successful completion of training required by section 2.30 of the criminal procedure law and section two hundred nine-q of the general municipal law.

2. Each head of a state or local agency, unit of local government, state or local commission, public authority or other organization which employs police officers or peace officers shall transmit to the division, no later than the fifteenth day of January annually, and in a form and manner prescribed by the division, a list containing the name of every police officer or peace officer employed by his or her agency, government, commission, authority or organization indicating with respect to each officer his or her date of birth, social security number, rank or title, employer, and whether he is employed full-time or part-time. In addition to such annual list, each such head, whenever officers have been newly appointed or have ceased to serve, shall immediately transmit to the division, in a form and manner prescribed by the division, a list containing the names of such officers which, in the instance of new appointees, shall include all the information required to be furnished in the annual listing.

3. The division shall establish rules and regulations to provide for a permanent system of identification for each police and peace officer, which shall include procedures for updating the registry upon an officer's failure to complete required training within the time limitations established in law or regulation.

4. Upon the failure or refusal to comply with the requirements of subdivision two of this section, the commissioner may apply to the supreme court for an order directed to the person responsible requiring compliance. Upon such application the court may issue such order as may be just, and a failure to comply with the order of the court shall be a contempt of court and punishable as such.

5. The division shall cooperate with the division of state police in making the information in the central registry of police and peace officers available for the purpose of verifying transactions involving firearms.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1979, ch 482, § 3, eff Sept 1, 1979; amd, L 2010, ch 491, § 2, eff Jan 1, 2011.

Prior Law: Former § 845, add, L 1973, ch 603, § 15; repealed, L 1979, ch 482, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1979.

Amendment Notes 2010. Chapter 491, § 2 amended:
Section heading by adding the matter in italics.
Sub 1 by deleting at fig 1 "police", at fig 2 "department", at fig 3 "whether he is employed full-time or part-time" and ading the matter in italics.
Sub 2 by deleting at fig 1 "or", at fig 2 ", nineteen hundred eighty", at fig 3 "on the first day of January, nineteen hundred eighty,", at fig 4 "police", at fig 5 "department", at fig 6 "Each such head shall thereafter, no later than the tenth day of each January and July, transmit to the division a list of those police officers who have been appointed, have had a change of rank, or have ceased to serve in the preceding six calendar months and, in the instance of new appointees, shall include all the information required to be furnished in the initial listing." and adding the matter in italics.
By deleting former sub 3 and adding sub 3.
By adding subs 4 and 5.

Repeal Notes: [1979, ch 482] Former § 845 of the Executive Law, repealed by section one of this act, created five regional criminal justice committees within the Division of Criminal Justice Services.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:
This section referred to in CLS Pub O § 92.

Jurisprudences:
96 NY Jur 2d State of New York § 79.

§ 845-a. Presentment of flags lowered to half-staff in memorial of the death of any police officer or peace officer

In the event the governor orders the flags of the United States and the State of New York to be lowered to half-staff, in memorial of the death of any police officer or peace officer identified in the central state registry of police officers and peace officers established pursuant to section eight hundred forty-five of this article, the commissioner shall, in cooperation with the office of general services, arrange for the procurement of a flag of the United States and a flag of the State of New York, which were flying over the capitol building at the time such flags were lowered to half-staff in compliance with the governor's order. Upon the procurement of such flags, the commissioner, or his or her representative, shall offer the presentment of such flags, without cost, to the person designated to dispose of the remains of the officer, in whose honor such flags were lowered in memorial.

HISTORY:

L 2015, ch 385, § 1, effective October 26, 2015.

GENERAL BUSINESS LAW

Article
2. Sabbath
6-D. Business of Installing Security or Fire Alarm Systems
7-A. Security Guard Act
9-B. Use of Names and Symbols
19. Oil and Distilled Spirits
26. Miscellaneous
35-F. Fire Sprinkler Information

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 25, eff Feb 17, 1909.

ARTICLE 2 Sabbath

Section
14. Processions and parades on Sunday

HISTORY:
Add, L 1965, ch 1031, § 45, eff Sept 1, 1967.

§ 14. Processions and parades on Sunday

1. All processions and parades on Sunday in any city, excepting only funeral processions for the actual burial of the dead, and processions to and from a place of worship in connection with a religious service there celebrated, are forbidden; and in such excepted cases there shall be no music, fireworks, discharge of cannon or firearms, or other disturbing noise. At a military funeral, or at the funeral of a United States soldier, sailor or marine, or of a national guardsman, or of a deceased member of an association of veteran soldiers, sailors or marines, or of a disbanded militia regiment, or of a secret fraternal society, or of an association of employees of the national, state, or municipal governments, music may be played while escorting the body; also in patriotic military processions on Sunday previous to Decoration day, known as memorial Sunday, to cemeteries or other places where memorial services are held, and also by organizations of the national guard or naval militia or of an association of employees of the national, state, or municipal governments, attending religious service on Sunday; but in no case within one block of a place of worship where service is then being celebrated. Music may also be played in any procession conducted by a religious organization or society in connection with a religious service or religious rally after one o'clock noon on Sunday.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, it shall be lawful to conduct, witness, participate or engage in processions or parades and to play music in any such procession or parade on Sunday after two o'clock in the afternoon, in a city, town or village, as shall be permitted by a local law or ordinance heretofore or hereafter adopted by the common council or other legislative body of a city, town or village permitting such processions and parades on such day and after such hour.

3. This section shall not apply to a city with a population of one million or more; provided, however, that if a parade or procession is held in such city on Sunday before two o'clock in the afternoon there shall be no music, fireworks, discharge of cannon or firearms, or other disturbing noise in relation thereto within one hundred and fifty feet of a place of worship.

4. A person wilfully violating any provision of this section is punishable by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars or imprisonment not exceeding ten days, or by both.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1965, ch 1031, § 45, eff Sept 1, 1967; amd, L 1980, ch 597, § 1, eff June 26, 1980.

Prior Law: Former § 14, formerly § 15, add, L 1909, ch 25; renumbered § 14, L 1910, ch 187; repealed, L 1922, ch 48, § 296, with substance transferred to Agr & M Law § 183. Prior § 14, add, L 1909, ch 25; repealed, L 1910, ch 187.

Derivation Notes: Section 14 derived from substance from former Penal Law § 2151.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:
35C NY Jur 2d Criminal Law Substantive Principles and Offenses § 1901.

ARTICLE 6-D Business of Installing Security or Fire Alarm Systems

Section
69-l. Definitions
69-m. License required
69-n. Powers of the secretary of state
69-o. License after examination; application
69-p. License without examination
69-pp. Licensed master electrician waiver
69-q. Licenses; display; renewal; duplicates
69-r. Fees
69-s. Suspension and revocation of licenses
69-ss. Revocation, suspension, reprimands, fines; unlicensed activities
69-t. Hearing on charges; decision
69-u. Judicial review
69-v. Violations and penalties
69-vv. Civil penalties
69-w. Official acts used as evidence
69-x. Disposition of moneys derived from operation of article
69-y. Separability clause
69-z. Applicability

HISTORY:
Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

§ 69-l. Definitions

As used in this article, unless the context requires otherwise:

1. "Department" means the department of state.

2. "Person" means an individual, firm, company, partnership, limited liability company or corporation.

3. "Licensee" means a person as herein defined licensed to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems under this article.

4. "To engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems" means and refers to a person who holds himself out directly or indirectly, as being able, or who offers or undertakes, by any means or method, to install, service or maintain a security or fire alarm system to detect intrusion, break-in, movement, sound or fire.

5. "Fee", "examination fee", "license fee" and "renewal fee" mean the fees required to accompany an application for examination or fingerprint processing for or issuance of any license, including any temporary, apprentice or renewal license, pursuant to this article. Such fee shall be non-refundable.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1991, ch 745, § 1, eff April 1, 1992; L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993; L 1998, ch 324, § 1, eff July 14, 1998.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-m. License required

1. On and after October first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, no person shall engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems or hold himself out as being able so to do unless he is licensed therefor pursuant to this article. Nothing herein shall prohibit a person licensed in accordance with the provisions of this article from employing individuals to assist in the installation, servicing or maintaining of security or fire alarm systems, provided such licensee issues identification cards on a form prescribed by the secretary of state to each unlicensed individual.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, a license shall not be required of a person to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems if such an alarm system is to be installed in a motor vehicle, water vessel or aircraft or is a battery-operated smoke detection device. Furthermore, a property owner or proprietor who purchases or owns an alarm system to be installed by him or his employees onto his property or place of business shall not fall under the provisions of this article.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-n. Powers of the secretary of state

In addition to the powers and duties elsewhere prescribed in this article, the secretary of state shall have power:

1. To appoint an adequate number of assistants, inspectors and other employees as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article, to prescribe their duties, and to fix their compensation within the amount appropriated therefor.

2. To examine into the qualifications and fitness of applicants for licenses under this article.

3. To keep records of all licenses issued, suspended or revoked.

4. To prepare a manual of rules and regulations for the conduct of examinations and to furnish copies thereof to persons desiring the same upon payment of a reasonable fee therefor.

5. To adopt such rules and regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, as may be necessary with respect to the form and content of applications for licenses, the reception thereof, the investigation and examination of applicants and their qualifications, and the other matters incidental or appropriate to his powers and duties as prescribed by this article and for the proper administration and enforcement of the provisions of this article, and to amend or repeal any of such rules and regulations.

6. [Repealed]

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993; L 2012, ch 60, § 63 (Part D), eff March 30, 2012.

Amendment Notes: 2012. Chapter 60, § 63 (Part D) amended:

By repealing sub 6.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-o. License after examination; application

1. After successfully passing the designated examination, any person over the age of eighteen years, desiring a license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems under this article, may make application to the secretary of state therefor. The application shall be subscribed by the applicant and affirmed by him as true under the penalties of perjury. The application shall be in such form and shall contain such information relative to the applicant and his qualifications as may be prescribed by the secretary of state. Each application shall be accompanied by:

(a) Two recent photographs of the applicant of a size prescribed by the secretary of state and two sets of fingerprints of the applicant to be recorded in such manner as the secretary of state may prescribe by rule. The fingerprints shall be taken on a standard fingerprint card approved for fingerprinting by the state division of criminal justice services and shall be accompanied by the appropriate processing fees in proper form for the division of criminal justice services;

(b) Evidence of education satisfactory to the secretary of state which shall include evidence of the successful completion of a course of study in a school duly licensed pursuant to the education law or approved by the board of regents as a school qualified to instruct students in the field of security or fire alarm systems or can demonstrate to the satisfaction of the secretary of state that he has successfully completed an approved industry sponsored training program; and

(c) Evidence of having successfully passed the required examination.

2. After the filing of an applicant's fingerprint cards, the secretary of state shall forward such fingerprints to the division of criminal justice services to be compared with the fingerprints on file with the division of criminal justice services in order to ascertain whether the applicant has been convicted of a felony involving fraud, bribery, perjury or theft pursuant to article one hundred forty, one hundred fifty-five, one hundred sixty, one hundred sixty-five, one hundred seventy, one hundred seventy-five, one hundred seventy-six, one hundred eighty, one hundred eighty-five, one hundred ninety, one hundred ninety-five, two hundred or two hundred ten of the penal law; or has a criminal action which has been pending for such a felony for under one year without a final disposition unless adjourned in contemplation of dismissal; provided, however, that for the purposes of this article, none of the following shall be considered criminal convictions or reported as such:

(a) A conviction which has been vacated and replaced by a youthful offender finding pursuant to article seven hundred twenty of the criminal procedure law, or the applicable provisions of law of any other jurisdiction; or

(b) A conviction the records of which have been expunged or sealed pursuant to the applicable provisions of the laws of this state or of any other jurisdiction; or

(c) A conviction for which a certificate of relief from disabilities or a certificate of good conduct has been issued pursuant to the correction law.

The division of criminal justice services shall retain the fingerprint cards and return the report of such convictions or pending cases, if any, to the secretary of state who shall retain them in a confidential file for no more than one year, after which time such report shall be destroyed.

The secretary of state shall deny the application of any individual convicted of a felony involving fraud, bribery, perjury or theft pursuant to article one hundred forty, one hundred fifty-five, one hundred sixty, one hundred sixty-five, one hundred seventy, one hundred seventy-five, one hundred seventy-six, one hundred eighty, one hundred eighty-five, one hundred ninety, one hundred ninety-five, two hundred or two hundred ten of the penal law; or has a criminal action which has been pending for such a felony for under one year without a final disposition unless adjourned in contemplation of dismissal; provided, however, that for the purposes of this article, none of the following shall be considered criminal convictions or reported as such:

(i) A conviction which has been vacated and replaced by a youthful offender finding pursuant to article seven hundred twenty of the criminal procedure law, or the applicable provisions of law of any other jurisdiction; or

(ii) A conviction the records of which have been expunged or sealed pursuant to the applicable provisions of the laws of this state or of any other jurisdiction; or

(iii) A conviction for which a certificate of relief from disabilities or a certificate of good conduct has been issued pursuant to the correction law.

3. The secretary of state shall prepare question papers which shall be the same for all applications at any given examination. The questions may be partly written and partly oral and shall not be confined to any specific method or system. In addition, a portion of the examination may include testing of practical skills through various exercises. No person shall receive a license hereunder who has not actually demonstrated to the secretary of state his ability and fitness to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems in such practical tests as may be required by the secretary of state.

4. Examinations shall be in the English language and shall be held at least quarterly and shall be given in at least four convenient places in the state.

5. There shall be an examination fee of fifteen dollars.

6. When an applicant has successfully passed the examination therefor, and has otherwise qualified for a license, the secretary of state on payment of the fee prescribed by this article, shall issue to such applicant a license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1991, ch 745, §§ 2, 3, eff April 1, 1992; L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Approval of security or fire alarm system installer courses. 19 NYCRR §§ 196.1 et seq.

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-p. License without examination

1. Any person over the age of eighteen years who shall present to the secretary of state satisfactory evidence that he has been actually engaged in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems in this state for at least two years within the period of three years immediately prior to October first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, shall be entitled to a license under this article without examination, provided that application therefor is accompanied by the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b), respectively, of subdivision one of section sixty-nine-o of this article and the required annual license fee, is filed with the secretary of state.

2. The secretary of state shall upon application and without examination, issue a license to any person over the age of eighteen years who has been duly licensed by any other state, territory, protectorate or dependency of the United States to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems upon compliance with standards and requirements not lower, in the judgment of the secretary of state, than those of this state, provided, however, that such state extends similar reciprocity to licensees of this state. Such application shall be accompanied by the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b), respectively, of subdivision one of section sixty-nine-o of this article and the required license fee.

3. (a) If any person, eligible for any license, mentioned in this section, be in the military service at or during the time application for such license is required to be filed and license fee paid, according to the provisions of this section, the period within which said application may be filed and license fee may be paid, is extended in behalf of such person, until three months after the termination of said military service, any provision contained in this article to the contrary, notwithstanding.

(b) In the case of persons who are or were in the military service and (i) have been or will be discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, or (ii) have a qualifying condition, as defined in section three hundred fifty of the executive law, and received a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service, or (iii) are discharged LGBT veterans, as defined in section three hundred fifty of the executive law, and have received a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service, the period of two years specified in subdivision one of this section need not be continuous. The length of time such person was engaged in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems before entering the military service may be added to any period of time during which such person was or is engaged in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems after the termination of military service.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1991, ch 745, § 4; L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993; L 2019, ch 490, § 40, effective November 12, 2020.

Editor's Notes Laws 2019, ch 490, § 82, eff November 12, 2020, provides:

§ 82. This act shall take effect one year after it shall have become a law; provided, however that the amendments to subdivision 7 of section 369-h of the executive law made by section twenty-five of this act shall not affect the repeal of such section and shall be deemed repealed therewith. Effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

Amendment Notes The 2019 amendment by ch 490, § 40, added "(i)" and "or (ii) have a qualifying condition, as defined in section three hundred fifty of the executive law, and received a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service, or (iii) are discharged LGBT veterans, as defined in section three hundred fifty of the executive law, and have received a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service" in the first sentence of 3(b).

§ 69-pp. Licensed master electrician waiver

1. Any person who is licensed by any municipality as a master electrician and who engages in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems within such municipality shall be waived from the provisions of this article upon registration with the secretary of state in accordance with the provisions of this section.

2. Each licensed master electrician seeking a waiver shall register with the secretary of state on a form prescribed by the secretary. Such form shall include at least: the individual's name and home address, the business's name and address, a listing of jurisdictions in which the master electrician is licensed, a listing of all appropriate license numbers and such other information as the secretary shall deem necessary. No applicant for a waiver shall be required to meet the provisions of section sixty-nine-o of this article.

3. Any waiver shall only apply for engaging in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems in municipalities where such master electrician is licensed. However, should a licensed master electrician for any reason become unlicensed by any municipality, such master electrician shall immediately inform the secretary of state of such action. The secretary of state may suspend any waiver granted upon the basis of the master electrician license.

4. A master electrician who engages in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems in municipalities where such master electrician is not duly licensed, shall be required to be licensed pursuant to this article.

5. A master electrician who is licensed in any municipality within the state shall be deemed to have satisfied the requirements of paragraphs (b) and (c) of subdivision one of section sixty-nine-o of this article.

6. The fee for all waivers granted to any master electrician shall be established by the secretary of state and shall not exceed fifty dollars every two years. Provided, however, that any person licensed pursuant to this article prior to the effective date of this section shall be exempt from the waiver fee for periods prior to October first, nineteen hundred ninety-four. Such waiver shall be valid for a two year period and be renewable for two year periods thereafter.

7. Any license issued by any municipality establishing a master electrician license after July fifteenth, nineteen hundred ninety-three shall not be grounds for a waiver pursuant to this section unless the secretary determines that the standards for such master electrician license are not lower than those of this article.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-q. Licenses; display; renewal; duplicates

1. All licenses shall be for a period of two years.

2. No license shall be assignable or transferable except as hereinafter provided.

3. (a) A license issued to a limited liability company or to a corporation to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems shall require that such business be operated under the direction and control of at least one member or manager of the limited liability company or a manager or managing officer of a corporation, who shall be required to meet the licensing requirements of this article on behalf of the licensee and who, in the case of a corporation, shall not be required to be an officer of the corporation. If such member, manager or managing officer, who shall have met the requirements of this article, ceases to act in the capacity of member, manager or managing corporate officer for any reason whatsoever, the licensee shall notify the department in writing within fourteen days from such termination or cessation. The licensee may continue to conduct the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems for a period not to exceed sixty days from the date of such termination or cessation; the period of sixty days aforesaid may be extended upon application to the secretary of state and for good cause for an additional period not to exceed one hundred twenty days; by the end of such period a new member, manager or managing officer must be designated who has met the licensing requirements of this article on behalf of the licensee.

(b) The limited liability company or corporation shall be liable with respect to all actions taken by its member, manager or managing officer acting on behalf of such limited liability company or corporation.

4. A license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems issued to an individual may be assigned or transferred for the remainder of the license period to a partnership, limited liability company or corporation if such individual is a member of such partnership, a member of the limited liability company or an officer of such corporation at the time of such assignment or transfer. A license issued to a partnership may be assigned or transferred for the remainder of the license period to any one member of such partnership, provided he obtains the consent of all of the other members of such partnership. The application for such transfer or assignment must be accompanied by the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of subdivision one of section sixty-nine-o of this article and by proof satisfactory to the department that the requirements herein provided have been complied with. No assignment or transfer shall become effective unless and until the endorsement has been made on the face of the license by the department and such license, so endorsed, has been returned to the assignee or transferee. All such endorsements shall be made without payment of any fee. A bona fide purchaser of such business from the holder of the license thereof may continue to use the license of the seller for a period of thirty days from the date of the sale, provided there is endorsed on the face thereof the name of the purchaser, the date of the sale, and the signature of the seller and the purchaser; and provided further within five days from the date of the sale, an application, in accordance with the provisions of this article, shall be presented by the purchaser to the secretary of state for a license to conduct the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems.

5. Employees of a person licensed to conduct the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems shall not be required to be licensed provided that the nonlicensed employee have in his possession an identification card issued pursuant to section sixty-nine-m of this article. A person licensed to conduct such business shall, however, be required to submit to the department a full set of fingerprints of any employee who assists in the installation, servicing or maintaining of security or fire alarm systems, which shall be forwarded by the department to the division of criminal justice services to be compared with the fingerprints on file with the division to determine whether such employee has been convicted of a felony involving fraud, bribery, perjury or the theft pursuant to article one hundred forty, one hundred fifty-five, one hundred sixty, one hundred sixty-five, one hundred seventy, one hundred seventy-five, one hundred seventy-six, one hundred eighty, one hundred eighty-five, one hundred ninety, one hundred ninety-five, two hundred or two hundred ten of the penal law or has a criminal action which has been pending for under one year without a final disposition unless adjourned in contemplation of dismissal. Employee fingerprints will be recorded in such manner as the secretary of state may prescribe by rule. Such employee's fingerprints shall be taken on a standard fingerprint card approved for fingerprinting by the state division of criminal justice services and shall be accompanied by the appropriate processing fees in proper form for the division of criminal justice services. The division of criminal justice services shall return the fingerprint card and the report of such convictions to the department, who shall then notify the licensee that such employee has been convicted of such a felony or has a criminal action pending pursuant to a schedule developed by the division in conjunction with the secretary of state but not to be implemented prior to September first, nineteen hundred ninety-four. Upon submission of such fingerprints to the department, a person may be employed on a provisional basis to assist in the installation, servicing or maintaining of security or fire alarm systems. However, such employee may not continue in such a capacity if it is determined that such employee has been convicted of such a felony or has a criminal action pending.

6. A license to conduct the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems issued to an individual or to a partnership may be used after the death of the licensed individual or co-partner by his next of kin or duly appointed administrator or executor in the name of the estate for a period of not more than sixty days from the date of death of such individual or co-partner, provided that there is endorsed upon the face of the license after the name of the decedent the word "deceased", the date of death and the name of the next of kin, administrator or executor under whose authority the license is being used; the period of sixty days aforesaid may be extended upon application to the secretary of state and for good cause shown for an additional period not to exceed one hundred twenty days. Any license so continued which shall expire during such period of sixty days or the extension thereof may be renewed by the next of kin, administrator or executor for the balance of such period or the extension thereof.

7. A license to conduct the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems shall be conspicuously posted upon the premises where the licensee is engaged in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems.

8. Any license which has not been suspended or revoked, may, upon the payment of the renewal fee prescribed by this article, be renewed for additional periods of two years from its expiration, without further examination, upon the filing of an application for such renewal, on a form and with such additional information as prescribed by the secretary of state.

9. Any person failing to file application and fee for renewal of a license within one year immediately following the expiration of his last license shall pay an additional fee of sixty dollars, and if he fails to file application and fee for renewal within two years he shall be ineligible for such license until he shall have again met the requirements set forth in this article.

10. A duplicate license may be issued for one lost, destroyed or mutilated upon application therefor on a form prescribed by the secretary of state and the payment of the fee prescribed therefor by this article. Each such duplicate license shall have the word "duplicate" stamped across the face thereof and shall bear the same number as the one it replaces.

11. Notice in writing shall be given the secretary of state at his office in Albany by the holder of a license to conduct the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems of any change in address of the business or residence of the person engaged in such business together with the return of license, whereupon a properly signed endorsement will be made on the face of the license as to such change and the license then returned to the licensee. A change of address by a licensee without such notice and endorsement of license shall operate to cancel the license.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993; L 1998, ch 324, § 2, eff July 14, 1998.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-r. Fees

1. The fee for a license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems shall be two hundred dollars plus an amount to be determined by the division of criminal justice services to cover the cost of the division's fingerprint search and report. For each renewal thereof, the fee shall be one hundred dollars plus an amount to be determined by the division of criminal justice services to cover the cost of the division's fingerprint search and report.

2. The fee for taking an examination under this article shall be fifteen dollars; provided, however, that if the applicant qualifies for a license as the result of such examination, the fee paid for the privilege of taking such examination shall be included in the license fee for the license issued to him thereon.

3. The fee for issuing a duplicate license in substitution for one lost, destroyed or mutilated shall be twenty-five dollars.

4. The fee for changing a name or address shall be ten dollars.

5. The fees hereinabove set forth shall be those for licenses issued for the license period of two years or fraction of such period.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-s. Suspension and revocation of licenses

1. A license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems may be suspended or revoked, or in lieu thereof a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars per violation payable to the department may be imposed or a reprimand issued by the secretary of state, for any one or more of the following causes:

(a) Fraud or bribery in securing a license;

(b) The making of any false statement as to a material matter in any application or other statement or certificate required by or pursuant to this article;

(c) Incompetency;

(d) Failure to display the license as provided in this article;

(e) Violation of any provision of this article, or of any rule or regulation adopted hereunder;

(f) Conviction of a felony involving fraud, theft, perjury or bribery or other cause which would permit disqualifications from receiving a license upon the original application.

2. Whenever the license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems is revoked, such license shall not be reinstated or reissued until after the expiration of a period of five years from the date of such revocation.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Licensing regulations for the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems. 19 NYCRR Part 195.

§ 69-ss. Revocation, suspension, reprimands, fines; unlicensed activities

1. The secretary of state shall, before imposing any fine or reprimand on a person thereof, or before issuing any order directing the cessation of unlicensed activities, and at least ten days prior to the date set for the hearing, notify in writing such person, or the person alleged to have engaged in unlicensed activities, of any charges made and shall afford such person an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel in reference thereto. Such written notice may be served by delivery of same personally to the person charged, or by mailing same by certified mail to the last known business or other address provided by such person to the secretary of state, or by any method authorized by the civil practice law and rules for the service of a summons. The hearing on such charges shall be at such time and place as the department shall prescribe.

2. The department, acting by such officer or person in the department as the secretary of state may designate, shall have the power to subpoena and bring before the officer or person so designated any person in this state, and administer an oath to and take testimony of any person or cause his deposition to be taken. A subpoena issued under this section shall be regulated by the civil practice law and rules.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2007, ch 437, § 1, eff Oct 30, 2007.

§ 69-t. Hearing on charges; decision

No license shall be suspended or revoked nor shall any fine or reprimand be imposed until after a hearing had before an officer or employee of the department designated for such purpose by the secretary of state, upon notice to the licensee of at least ten days. The notice shall be served either personally or by certified mail and shall state the date and place of hearing and set forth the ground or grounds constituting the charges against the licensee. The licensee shall have the opportunity to be heard in his defense either in person or by counsel and may produce witnesses and testify in his behalf. A stenographic record of the hearing shall be taken and preserved. The hearing may be adjourned from time to time. The person conducting the hearing shall make a written report of his findings and a recommendation to the secretary of state for decision. The secretary of state shall review such findings and the recommendation and, after due deliberation, shall issue an order accepting, modifying or rejecting such recommendation and dismissing the charges or suspending or revoking the license or in lieu thereof imposing a fine or reprimand upon the licensee. For the purpose of this article, the secretary of state or any officer or employee of the department designated by him, may administer oaths, take testimony, subpoena witnesses and compel the production of books, papers, records and documents deemed pertinent to the subject of investigation.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1; L 2007, ch 266, § 1, eff July 18, 2007.

§ 69-u. Judicial review

The action of the secretary of state in suspending, revoking or refusing to issue or renew a license, or imposing a fine or reprimand on the holder thereof may be reviewed by a proceeding brought under and pursuant to article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

§ 69-v. Violations and penalties

Any person who shall directly or indirectly engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems or hold himself out to the public as being able so to do without a license therefor, or who shall violate any of the provisions of this article, or having had his license suspended or revoked, shall continue to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems or who, without a license to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems, directly or indirectly employs, permits or authorizes an unlicensed person to engage in the business of installing, servicing or maintaining security or fire alarm systems, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be punishable by imprisonment of not more than six months, or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment upon the first conviction and by imprisonment of not more than one year or by a fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment upon a subsequent conviction. Each violation of this article shall be deemed a separate offense.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:

Annotations:
Validity and construction of statutes or ordinances imposing civil or criminal penalties on alarm system users, installers, or servicers for false alarms, 17 ALR5th 825.

§ 69-vv. Civil penalties

Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of law, with respect to violations of section sixty-nine-ss of this article, the secretary of state is authorized, upon the complaint of any person or on his or her own initiative, to investigate and prosecute violations of the provisions of such section by persons not licensed pursuant to this article and may impose a fine of up to one thousand dollars for the first violation; two thousand dollars for a second such violation; five thousand dollars for a third violation; and ten thousand dollars for a fourth violation and each subsequent violation. The attorney general, acting on behalf of the secretary of state, may commence an action or proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction to obtain a judgment against such unlicensed person in an amount equal to that imposed as a fine.

HISTORY:
Add, L 2007, ch 437, § 1, eff Oct 30, 2007.

§ 69-w. Official acts used as evidence

The official acts of the secretary of state and department shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein and shall be entitled to be received in evidence in all actions at law and other legal proceedings in any court or before any board, body or officer.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

§ 69-x. Disposition of moneys derived from operation of article

Processing fees for the fingerprint search conducted by the division of criminal justice services shall accompany the fingerprint cards and shall be deposited to the credit of the general fund. All remaining moneys derived from the operation of this article shall be deposited in the business and licensing services account established pursuant to section ninety-seven-y of the state finance law.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1991, ch 745, § 5; L 1993, ch 575, § 1; L 1999, ch 411, § 6 (Part B), eff Aug 9, 1999, deemed eff on and after April 1, 1999.

§ 69-y. Separability clause

If any part or provision of this article or the application thereof to any person or circumstance be adjudged invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction, such judgment shall be confined in its operation to the part, provision or application directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered and shall not affect or impair the validity of the remainder of this article or the application thereof to other persons or circumstances and the legislature hereby declares that it would have enacted this article or the remainder thereof had the invalidity of such provision or application thereof been apparent.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

§ 69-z. Applicability

1. The provisions of this article shall not be construed to limit in any way the authority of a city with a population of one million or more to enact, implement and continue to enforce local laws and regulations governing home improvement contractors and their agents or employees that were in effect prior to the effective date of this article, or to enact, implement and enforce any amendments thereto after the effective date of this article.

2. The provisions of this article shall govern notwithstanding any other law to the contrary; provided, however, that local law shall govern with respect to inspection of fire alarms by a fire marshall or any other person designated under such local law; and provided, further, that this article shall not be held to invalidate any provision of the laws of this state or any subdivision thereof unless there is a direct conflict between the provision of this article and the provision of such law or unless such law is duplicative of this article, in which case this article shall prevail, except as provided otherwise in subdivision one of this section. Except as provided in subdivision one of this section, no local law shall require any fee or license for the installation, servicing or maintaining of security or fire alarm systems, except that which is provided pursuant to this article.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1991, ch 734, § 1; amd, L 1993, ch 575, § 1, eff Sept 26, 1993.

Agency Opinions
Town law imposing charges on property owners for false emergency alarms is neither inconsistent with nor preempted by state law. 1996 NY Ops Atty Gen I 96-22.

ARTICLE 7-A Security Guard Act

Section
89-n. Training requirements

HISTORY:
Add, L 1992, ch 336, § 6, eff July 12, 1993 (see 1992 note below).

§ 89-n. Training requirements

1. Security guards shall be required to satisfactorily complete training programs given and administered by security guard training schools, schools which provide security guard training programs or security guard companies prescribed, certified and approved by the commissioner pursuant to section eight hundred forty-one-c of the executive law to include:

a. an eight hour pre-assignment training course;

b. an on-the-job training course to be completed within ninety working days following employment, consisting of a minimum of sixteen hours and a maximum of forty hours, as determined by the council, generally relating to the security guard's specific duties, the nature of the work place and the requirements of the security guard company;

c. a forty-seven hour firearms training course for issuance of a special armed guard registration card;

d. an eight hour annual in-service training course; and

e. an additional eight hour annual in-service training course for holders of special armed guard registration cards.

The training programs and courses required by this subdivision may, if approved and certified by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision two of section eight hundred forty-one-c of the executive law, be given and administered by security guard companies.

Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit a security guard company from voluntarily providing training programs and courses which exceed the minimum requirements provided by this subdivision.

Upon completion of a required training course, a security guard shall receive from the provider a certificate evidencing satisfactory completion thereof in accordance with the requirements prescribed by the commissioner pursuant to section eight hundred forty-one-c of the executive law.

2. a. A security guard who has been or was previously employed as a peace officer for eighteen months or more who exhibits a valid certificate awarded pursuant to subdivision six of section 2.30 of the criminal procedure law attesting to his or her satisfactory completion of the training requirements imposed by section 2.30 of the criminal procedure law shall be exempt from the requirements of paragraph c of subdivision one of this section provided that such peace officer has completed a course of firearms training approved by the municipal police training council provided, however, that nothing in this subdivision shall be deemed to authorize such guard to carry, possess, repair or dispose of a firearm unless the appropriate license therefor has been issued pursuant to section 400.00 of the penal law.

b. [Redesignated]

3. A security guard who is also employed as a peace officer for eighteen months or more shall be exempt from the requirements of paragraph e of subdivision one of this section as long as he or she is currently employed as a peace officer and provides to his or her security guard employer proof of such annual in-service training required under paragraph e of subdivision one of this section.

4. The provisions of this section shall not apply to a security guard who is:

a. a correction officer of any state correctional facility having the powers of a peace officer pursuant to subdivision twenty-five of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law;

b. a bridge and tunnel officer, sergeant or lieutenant of the Triborough bridge and tunnel authority having the powers of a peace officer pursuant to subdivision twenty of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law;

c. a uniformed court officer of the unified court system having the powers of a peace officer pursuant to subdivision twenty-one of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law;

d. a court clerk having the powers of a peace officer pursuant to subdivision twenty-one of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law;

e. a deputy sheriff having the powers of a peace officer pursuant to subdivision two of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law;

f. a police officer as defined in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (j), (k), (l), (o) and (p) of subdivision thirty-four of section 1.20 of the criminal procedure law who has been retired from such employment for a period not to exceed ten years, provided, however, that a retired police officer who has been retired from such employment for a period in excess of ten years shall be required to provide proof to his or her security guard employer of his or her satisfactory completion of an eight hour annual in-service training course approved by the commissioner, and provided further, however, that a retired police officer who will be required by his or her security guard employer to carry a firearm or will be authorized to have access to a firearm shall provide to such employer proof of his or her satisfactory completion of a forty-seven hour firearms training course approved by the commissioner and, if such firearms training course has not been completed within one year prior to such employment, satisfactory completion of an additional eight hour annual firearms in-service training course approved by the commissioner, such training course to be completed at least annually; or

g. a peace officer as defined in subdivisions two, twenty and twenty-five and paragraphs a and b of subdivision twenty-one of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law who has been retired from such employment for a period not to exceed ten years, provided, however, that a retired peace officer who has been retired from such employment for a period in excess of ten years shall be required to provide proof to his or her security guard employer of his or her satisfactory completion of an eight hour annual in-service training course approved by the municipal police training council, and provided further, however, that a retired peace officer who will be required by his or her security guard employer to carry a firearm or will be authorized to have access to a firearm shall provide to such employer proof of his or her satisfactory completion of a forty-seven hour firearms training course approved by the municipal police training council and, if such firearms training course has not been completed within one year prior to employment, satisfactory completion of an additional eight hour annual firearms in-service training course approved by the municipal police training council, such training course to be completed at least annually.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1992, ch 336, § 6, eff July 12, 1993; amd, L 1994, ch 634, §§ 12–14, eff Aug 2, 1994; L 2002, ch 508, § 1; L 2003, ch 221, § 1, eff July 29, 2003; L 2010, ch 491, § 4, eff Jan 1, 2011.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 491, § 4 amended:

Sub 2, par a by deleting at fig 1 "pursuant to the last paragraph of subdivision one of section 2.30 of the criminal procedure law".

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Codes, Rules and Regulations:

Security guard training courses 9 NYCRR §§ 6027.1 et seq.

Approved security guard training schools. 9 NYCRR §§ 6028.1 et seq.

Security guard instructor standards and qualifications. 9 NYCRR §§ 6029.1 et seq.

ARTICLE 9-B Use of Names and Symbols

Section
137. Unauthorized wearing or use of badge, name or insignia of certain orders and societies

HISTORY:

Add, L 1965, ch 1031, § 52, eff Sept 1, 1967.

§ 137. Unauthorized wearing or use of badge, name or insignia of certain orders and societies

1. Any person who wilfully wears, or attaches to any motor vehicle, the badge, insignia, rosette or the button of the Grand Army of the Republic, the insignia, badge or rosette of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States or Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States, or the badge or button of the United Spanish War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans, the Military Order of the World War, the Army and Navy Union, U.S.A., or the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, or the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the United States of America, or the Steuben Society of America, or the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, Inc., or the Catholic War Veterans, Inc., or the insignia or emblem of the Italian American War Veterans of the United States, Incorporated, or the insignia or emblem of the National Italo-American War Veterans, Inc., the insignia or emblem of the Polish Legion of American Veterans, Inc., or the insignia or emblem of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Inc., or the insignia or emblem of any lodge, society or organization subordinate to or recognized as Masonic by the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, or the insignia or emblem of the Masonic War Veterans of the State of New York, Inc., or the insignia or emblem of the Order of the Eastern Star of the State of New York, or the badge, banner, insignia, button or emblem of any lodge, society or organization subordinate to or recognized as Pythian by the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of the State of New York, or the badge, insignia, button, tab, or chapeaux of La Societe des Forty Hommes et eight Chevaux or the Marine Corps League, or AMVETS, American Veterans of World War II, Air Force Association, or the insignia or emblem of the Knights of Columbus, or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the Police Conference of New York, Inc., or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police, or the shield of the Westchester County Police Conference or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the New York State Fire Fighters Association, or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the Policemen's Benevolent Association of Westchester County, Inc., or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the Metropolitan Police Conference of Eastern New York, Inc., or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the Nassau Police Conference, Inc., or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the International Veterans Boxers Association, or the badge, shield, emblem, insignia or name of the Grand council of Guardians, Inc., or the badge, shield, emblem or name of the New York Veteran Police Association, or the insignia, emblem, badge, banner, button of Grand Lodge of the State of New York, Order Sons of Italy in America, Incorporated, or any subordinate Lodge or Grand Lodge of the State of New York, Order Sons of Italy in America, Incorporated, or the insignia, emblem, badge, banner, button of Ladies' Lodges, Grand Lodge of the State of New York, Order Sons of Italy in America, Incorporated, or the badge, banner, insignia, button or emblem of any clan of the United Scottish Clans of New York and New Jersey, or the insignia, emblem, badge, banner or button of The Ladies Auxiliary, Italian American War Veterans of the United States, Incorporated, or the Civil Air Patrol, Inc., or the insignia, emblem, badge, banner or button of the Order of the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, Incorporated, or the insignia, emblem, badge, banner or button of the Polish Legion of American Veterans or Ladies Auxiliary of Polish Legion of American Veterans, or the insignia, emblem, badge, banner, or button of the Veterans of World War I of the United States of America Department of New York, Inc., China-Burma-India Veterans Association, Inc., Polish-American Veterans of World War II, Amsterdam, N. Y., Inc., Polish-American Veterans of World War II, Schenectady, N. Y., Inc., World War Veterans Club of Lindenhurst, Inc., the Eastern Paralyzed Veterans Association, the Vietnam Veterans of America, the Army and Navy Union of the United States, the American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., Regular Veterans Association, Inc., the 369th Veterans Association, Inc., the Tri-County Council of Vietnam Veterans, the National Congress of Puerto Rican Veterans, or the Fleet Reserve Association, or the badge, insignia, rosette or button of any society, order or organization of ten years standing in the state of New York, or uses the same, or the name of any such society, order or organization by falsely representing himself to be a member thereof in good standing, to obtain, or in attempting to obtain, aid or assistance within the state, or wilfully uses the names of any such society, order or organization, or the titles of its officers, or uses its insignia or emblems, or the forms or designs thereof, or its ritual or ceremonies unless entitled to use or wear the same under the constitution and by-laws, rules, and regulations of such order or of such society, order or organization, is guilty of a violation punishable by a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars.

2. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as superseding any provision of law prohibiting certain use and display on private vehicles of state and other seals and insignia and of specified signs, lettering or devices.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1965, ch 1031, § 52, eff Sept 1, 1967; amd, L 1967, ch 581; L 1967, ch 680, § 45; L 1968, ch 376, § 3; L 1968, ch 805; L 1969, ch 47; L 1972, ch 299, § 1; L 1976, ch 206, § 1; L 1976, ch 872, § 3; L 1978, ch 227, § 1; L 1979, ch 400, § 1; L 1986, ch 531, § 1, eff Nov 1, 1986.

Prior Law: Former § 137, add, L 1909, ch 25; repealed, L 1962, ch 553, § 10-102, eff Sept 27, 1964.

Derivation Notes: Section 137 derived from substance from former Penal Law § 2240.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

Unlawful use of identification of certain nonprofit organizations, § 397.

Designation of offenses, CLS Penal § 55.10.

Wearing uniform, badge, or other insignia to sell tickets, etc., CLS Civ Serv § 156.

Federal Aspects:

Unauthorized manufacture, sale or possession of official badges, identification cards or other insignia, 18 USCS § 701.

Jurisprudences:

35B NY Jur 2d Criminal Law Substantive Principles and Offenses § 1256.

ARTICLE 19 Oil and Distilled Spirits

Section

308. Retail sale and delivery of certain flammable liquids and kerosene

HISTORY:

Add, L 1909, ch 25, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 308. Retail sale and delivery of certain flammable liquids and kerosene

1. Definition. As used in this section:

"Flammable liquid" shall mean any liquid which has a flash point of seventy degrees Fahrenheit, or less, as determined by a Tagliabue or equivalent closed cup test device.

2. a. No person engaged in the retail sale of flammable liquids shall deliver any such liquids from bulk storage into portable containers of five gallons capacity or less unless the container is of sound metal or other unbreakable material construction, has a tight closure with screwed or spring cover and is fitted with a spout or so designed that the contents can be poured without spilling.

b. No person shall carry a lighted cigar, cigarette or pipe, nor use a match or other open flame while he is dispensing flammable liquids at retail sale from bulk storage.

3. No person engaged in the retail sale of kerosene shall deliver any such liquid from bulk storage into portable containers of five gallons capacity or less unless the container is of sound metal or other unbreakable material construction, has a tight closure with screwed or spring cover, is fitted with a spout or so designed that the contents can be poured without spilling, and is clearly and conspicuously labeled as containing kerosene.

4. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the sale, purchase or delivery of bona fide commercial packs of household products sold in the original sealed container as put up for package, sale or distribution by the manufacturer or packager, including but not limited to packs of medicinals, beverages or food.

5. The provisions of this section shall not apply in cities having a population of one million or more.

6. A violation of the provisions of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than one hundred dollars for each violation.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1965, ch 1031, § 62, with substance derived from former Penal Law § 1921; amd, L 1971, ch 701, eff Sept 1, 1971; L 1989, ch 480, § 1, eff Nov 1, 1989,2, eff Nov 1, 1989,277, eff June 12, 1991.

Repeal Notes: See 1963 note under § 310.

Prior Law: Former § 308, add, L 1909, ch 25; amd, L 1941, ch 167, § 1; repealed, L 1963, ch 959, § 2, eff Oct 1, 1963.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Jurisprudences:

12B Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev ed), Gas and Oil, Forms 22 et seq.

Annotations:

Liability of one selling or distributing liquid or bottled fuel gas, for personal injury, death, or property damage. 41 ALR3d 782.

ARTICLE 26 Miscellaneous

Section

391-s. [There are two sections 391-s] Restricted access to retail sale of dextromethorphan, commonly known as "dxm"

391-u. [There are two sections 391-u] Restrictions on the sale and use of firefighting equipment containing PFAS chemicals.

392-j. Sales of sparkling devices
399-ccc. Smoke detecting devices
399-n. Approval of electrical devices

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 25, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 391-s. [There are two sections 391-s] Restricted access to retail sale of dextromethorphan, commonly known as "dxm"

1. No retail establishment offering for sale any product or products containing as an active ingredient dextromethorphan, shall permit the sale of such products to persons under the age of eighteen without a valid prescription. Retail establishments shall require proof of legal age for purchase of such products. Such identification need not be required of any individual who reasonably appears to be at least twenty-five years of age, provided, however, that such appearance shall not constitute a defense in any proceeding alleging the sale of any product or products containing as an active ingredient dextromethorphan to an individual under eighteen years of age. Any retail establishment which violates the provisions of this section shall be subject to a fine of two hundred fifty dollars for each such violation.

2. As used in this section "retail establishment" means every vendor that in the regular course of business sells products containing dextromethorphan at retail directly to the public including, but not limited to, pharmacies, grocery stores, and other retail stores.

3. This section shall supersede any local laws or ordinances regulating the sales of products containing dextromethorphan.

HISTORY:
Add, L 2013, ch 357, § 1, eff March 26, 2014.

§ 391-u. [There are two sections 391-u] Restrictions on the sale and use of firefighting equipment containing PFAS chemicals.

1. As used in this section, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(a) "Class B firefighting foam" means foams designed to prevent or extinguish ignitable liquid fires.

(b) "Ignitable liquid fire" means any fire involving a flammable or combustible liquid where blanketing and smothering for vapor suppression is needed to extinguish the fire.

(c) "Firefighting personal protective equipment" means any clothing designed, intended, or marketed to be worn by firefighting personnel in the performance of their duties, designed with the intent for the use in firefighting and rescue activities, including jackets, pants, shoes, gloves, helmets, and respiratory equipment.

(d) "Local governments" includes any county, city, town, village, fire district, fire company as defined in section two hundred four-a of the general municipal law, regional fire protection authority, or other special purpose district that provides firefighting services.

(e) "Manufacturer" includes any person, firm, association, partnership, corporation, organization, joint venture, importer or domestic distributor of firefighting agents or firefighting equipment.

(f) "Perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances" or "PFAS chemicals" means, for the purposes of firefighting agents and firefighting equipment, a class of fluorinated organic chemicals containing at least one fully fluorinated carbon atom.

(g) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, public or private corporation, limited liability company or any other type of legal or commercial entity, including their members, managers, partners, directors, or officers.

2. No person or state agency shall discharge or otherwise use for training purposes class B firefighting foam that contains intentionally added perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS chemicals).

3.

(a) Commencing two years after the effective date of this section, no manufacturer of class B firefighting foam may manufacture, knowingly sell, offer for sale, distribute for sale, or distribute for use in this state class B firefighting foam to which PFAS chemicals have been intentionally added except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subdivision.

(b) The restrictions in paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall not apply to the manufacture, sale, or distribution of class B firefighting foam:

(1) For use in suppressing or preventing an ignitable liquid fire where the office of fire prevention and control, in consultation with the department of environmental conservation and the department of health, through promulgation of a rule, exempts a use of class B firefighting foam on the basis that an alternative firefighting agent to which PFAS chemicals have not been intentionally added and that is effective in suppressing or preventing an ignitable liquid fire is not available. If the office of fire prevention and control exempts a use of class B firefighting foam from the restrictions in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, it shall re-evaluate available alternative firefighting agents at least every two years as long as the exemption remains in place, and repeal such exemption upon a finding that an alternative firefighting agent to which PFAS chemicals have not been intentionally added is available that is effective in suppressing or preventing an ignitable liquid fire.

(2) Where the inclusion of PFAS chemicals are required by federal law or regulations. In the event that applicable federal laws or regulations change after the effective date of this section to allow the use of effective alternative firefighting agents that do not contain PFAS chemicals, the office of fire prevention and control may adopt rules that restrict PFAS chemicals for the manufacture, sale, and distribution of firefighting foam for uses that are addressed by the federal law or regulation.

4.

(a) A manufacturer of class B firefighting foam restricted under subdivision three of this section shall notify, in writing, persons that sell the manufacturer's products in this state about the provisions of this section no less than one year prior to the implementation date of the restrictions set forth in subdivision three of this section.

(b) A manufacturer that produces, sells, or distributes a class B firefighting foam prohibited under subdivision three of this section shall recall the product, which includes collection, transport, treatment, storage and safe disposal, after the implementation date of the restrictions set forth in subdivision three of this section and reimburse the retailer or any other purchaser for the product.

5.

(a) A manufacturer or other person that sells firefighting personal protective equipment to any person, local government, or state agency must provide written notice to the purchaser at the time of sale if the firefighting personal protective equipment contains PFAS chemicals. The written notice must include a statement that the firefighting personal protective equipment contains PFAS chemicals and the reason PFAS chemicals are added to the equipment.

(b) The manufacturer or person selling firefighting personal protective equipment and the purchaser of the equipment must retain the notice on file for at least three years from the date of the transaction.

6. The office of fire prevention and control may issue guidance to state agencies, fire protection districts and local governments in avoiding the purchase or use of class B firefighting foams to which PFAS chemicals have been intentionally added and to give priority and preference to the purchase of firefighting personal protective equipment that does not contain PFAS chemicals.

7. Any manufacturer or person in violation of the provisions of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed five thousand dollars for each violation in the case of a first offense. Manufacturers or persons that are repeat violators of the provisions of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed ten thousand dollars for each repeat offense. Penalties collected under this section shall be deposited in the hazardous waste remedial fund created by section ninety-seven-b of the state finance law.

HISTORY:

L 2020, ch 88, § 1, effective March 22, 2020.

Editor's Notes Laws 2020, ch 88, § 5, provides:

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately, provided, however, that sections one, two and three of this act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as a chapter of the laws of 2019, amending the executive law relating to reducing the use of PFAS chemicals in firefighting activities, as proposed in legislative bills numbers S. 439-A and A. 445-A, takes effect.

Laws 2020, ch 286, § 1, eff November 23, 2020, provides:

§ 1. 1. The disposal by incineration of aqueous film-forming foam that contains perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances shall be prohibited in a city with an environmental justice area designated by the department of environmental conservation and a population of not less than sixteen thousand and not more than seventeen thousand based upon the two thousand ten federal census. The commissioner of environmental conservation may promulgate any rules or regulations he or she may deem necessary in order to carry out the provisions of this act.

2. For the purposes of this act:

(a) "incineration" includes but is not limited to burning, combustion, pyrolysis, gasification, thermal oxidation (including flameless and regenerative), acid recovery furnace/oxidizer, ore roaster, cement kiln, lightweight aggregate kiln, industrial furnace, boiler and process heater; and

(b) "perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances" means a class of fluorinated organic chemicals containing at least one fully fluorinated carbon atom.

§ 392-j. Sales of sparkling devices

1. Sales of sparkling devices as defined in subparagraph (vi) of paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section 270.00 of the penal law shall be lawful only for business registered by the state under section one hundred fifty-six-h of the executive law between June first and July fifth or from December twenty-sixth through January second of each year.

2. Failure to comply with this section shall be deemed an offense as defined in subdivision two of section 270.00 of the penal law.

HISTORY:

L 2014, ch 477, § 5, effective December 21, 2014.

§ 399-ccc. Smoke detecting devices

1. It shall be unlawful for any person or entity to distribute, sell, offer for sale, or import any solely battery operated smoke detecting alarm device powered by a replaceable, removable battery. All solely battery operated smoke detecting alarm devices that are distributed, sold, offered for sale, or imported, shall employ a non-removable, non-replaceable battery that powers the device for a minimum of ten years.

2. All product packaging containing a solely battery operated smoke detecting alarm device shall include the following information:

(a) the manufacturer's name or registered trademark and the model number of the smoke detecting alarm device; and

(b) that such alarm device is designed to have a minimum battery life of ten years.

3. The provisions of this section shall not apply to solely battery operated smoke detecting alarm devices powered by a replaceable, removable battery that have been ordered by, or are in the inventory of, owners, managing agents, contractors, wholesalers or retailers on or before the effective date of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to smoke detecting alarm devices that receive their power from the electrical system of the building, fire alarm systems with smoke detectors, fire alarm devices that connect to a panel, devices that use a low-power radio frequency wireless communication signal, or such other devices as the state fire administrator shall designate through its regulatory process.

HISTORY:

L 2015, ch 583, § 1, effective April 1, 2019; L 2016, ch 4, § 1, effective April 1, 2019.

Editor's Notes Laws 2015, ch 583, § 2, eff April 1, 2019, provides:

§ 2. This act shall take effect April 1, 2019; provided however, that effective immediately, all actions and procedures with respect to the proposed adoption, amendment, suspension or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the timely implementation of this act are authorized to be made on or before such effective date (Amd, L 2016, ch 4, § 2, eff April 1, 2019.).

Amendment Notes: The 2016 amendment by ch 4, § 1, in 1, deleted "not capable of powering such device for a minimum of ten years" at the end of the first sentence and added the second sentence; in 3, substituted "that have" for "not capable of powering such device for a minimum of ten years which have" in the first sentence and in the second sentence, deleted "or other" following "to a panel" and added "or such other devices as the state fire administrator shall designate through its regulatory process"; and made a stylistic change.

§ 399-n. Approval of electrical devices

Whenever electrical devices or electrical wiring or electrical apparatus are required to be approved by underwriters laboratories for fire safety by any statute, law, rule or regulation, of the state or any municipality thereof, approval by any qualified laboratory or testing organization that tests for fire safety in the state of New York will be deemed to be satisfaction of such requirement. For the purposes of this section, a qualified laboratory or testing organization is one which meets the criteria of (1) the American Society for Testing Materials test E548-76, or (2) any rules or regulations relating thereto that may be promulgated by the department of state.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1985, ch 576, § 1, eff Nov 23, 1985, except that any rules and regulations necessary for the timely implementation of this section on its effective date should be promulgated on or before such date; amd, L 2010, ch 56, § 43 (Part B), eff July 1, 2010.

Prior Law: Another § 399-n (Art 26-A), repealed, L 1983, ch 876, § 5, eff Dec 31, 1983.

Amendment Notes: 2010. Chapter 56, § 43 (Part B) amended:

By deleting at fig 1 "the office of fire prevention and control of".

ARTICLE 35-F Fire Sprinkler Information

Section

759. Definitions

759-a. Disclosure of automatic fire sprinkler system information

HISTORY:

L 2014, ch 201, § 1, effective December 3, 2014.

§ 759. Definitions

When used in this article, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Builder" means any person, corporation, partnership or other entity contracting with an owner for the construction of a one- or two-family residential dwelling having less than three stories.

2. "Buyer" means any person or persons who have contracted or who intend to contract with a builder for the construction of a one- or two-family residential dwelling having less than three stories.

HISTORY:

L 2014, ch 201, § 1, effective December 3, 2014.

Editor's Notes Laws 2014, ch 201, § 3, eff Dec 3, 2014, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law; provided that, effective immediately, the office of fire prevention and control is authorized and directed to prepare the materials required by subdivision 21 of section 156 of the executive law, as added by section two of this act, on or before such effective date; and provided, further, that this act shall expire and be deemed repealed upon the effective date of provisions of the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code which are equivalent to the terms of section 313.2 (relating to automatic fire sprinkler systems in oneor two-family dwellings under three stories) of the International Residential Code (2009 edition) or any successor reversions thereof requiring fire sprinklers for one or two-family dwellings under three stories; provided that the state fire administrator shall notify the legislative bill drafting commission upon the adoption of such provisions of the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code in order that the commission may maintain an accurate and timely effective data base of the official text of the laws of the state of New York in furtherance of effectuating the provisions of section 44 of the legislative law and section 70-b of the public officers law.

§ 759-a. Disclosure of automatic fire sprinkler system information

A builder of a one- or two-family residential dwelling having less than three stories, prior to entering into a contract for construction of such dwelling with a buyer, shall provide the buyer with a copy of written materials prepared by the office of fire prevention and control pursuant to subdivision twenty-one of section one hundred fifty-six of the executive law, which details the benefits of and includes factors that can affect the costs associated with the installation and maintenance of an automatic fire sprinkler system. Upon request of the buyer, the builder shall, at the buyer's expense, install an automatic fire sprinkler system in such one- or two-family residential dwelling having less than three stories.

HISTORY:

L 2014, ch 201, § 1, effective December 3, 2014.

Editor's Notes Laws 2014, ch 201, § 3, eff Dec 3, 2014, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law; provided that, effective immediately, the office of fire prevention and control is authorized and directed to prepare the materials required by subdivision 21 of section 156 of the executive law, as added by section two of this act, on or before such effective date; and provided, further, that this act shall expire and be deemed repealed upon the effective date of provisions of the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code which are equivalent to the terms of section 313.2 (relating to automatic fire sprinkler systems in oneor two-family dwellings under three stories) of the International Residential Code (2009 edition) or any successor reversions thereof requiring fire sprinklers for one or two-family dwellings under three stories; provided that the state fire administrator shall notify the legislative bill drafting commission upon the adoption of such provisions of the New York state uniform fire prevention and building code in order that the commission may maintain an accurate and timely effective data base of the official text of the laws of the state of New York in furtherance of effectuating the provisions of section 44 of the legislative law and section 70-b of the public officers law.

GENERAL CITY LAW

Article
2. General Provisions
2-A. Powers of Cities

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 26, constituting Consolidated Laws, ch 21, eff Feb 17, 1909.

ARTICLE 2 General Provisions

Section
5. Certain parades and processions forbidden; penalty
15. Firefighters moving from one city to another.
16. Term of service; how reckoned.
16-a. Volunteer members of fire companies

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 26, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 5. Certain parades and processions forbidden; penalty

All processions or parades occupying or marching on any street of any city to the exclusion or interruption of other citizens in their individual right and use thereof, excepting the National Guard and the police and fire departments, and the associations of veteran soldiers, are forbidden, unless written notice of the object, time and route of such procession or parade be given by the chief officer thereof, not less than six hours previous to its forming or marching, to the police authorities of such city; and such police authorities may designate to such procession or parade how much of the street in width it can occupy with especial reference to crowded thoroughfares through which such procession may move; and, when so designated, the chief officer of such procession or parade shall be responsible that the designation is obeyed; and it shall be the duty of the police authorities to furnish such escort as may be necessary to protect persons and property and maintain the public peace and order. A person wilfully violating any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars or imprisonment not exceeding ten days, or both.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 26, eff Feb 17, 1909.

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a neighborhood improvement association to annul the determination of the city's zoning board that granted a use variance permitting a three-family unit dwelling in an area zoned for no more than two-family unit dwellings, the determination of the board would be annulled where the board improperly engaged in a piecemeal amendment of the ordinance by waiving the provision under which nonuse for 12 months or more was deemed a discontinuance of any nonconforming use, inasmuch as the use of the premises in question as a three-family unit dwelling had been discontinued for more than 12 months. Swartz v Wallace, 87 A.D.2d 926, 450 N.Y.S.2d 65, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16450 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

§ 15. Firefighters moving from one city to another.

The firefighters of the different cities of this state, in case of removal from one city to another, shall be allowed the time which they have served as such firefighters in the city they left, in the city to which they have removed, upon producing a certificate of such service, signed by the chief of the city so left, and being appointed firefighters in the city to which they have removed.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 26, eff Feb 17, 1909; amd, L 1980, ch 88, § 2, eff Apr 28, 1980; L 2018, ch 476, § 85, effective December 28, 2018.

Amendment Notes

The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 85, substituted "Firefighters" for "Firemen" in the section heading; and substituted "firefighters" for "firemen" three times.

§ 16. Term of service; how reckoned.

When any such firefighter shall have served as such for so long a time thereafter as shall make the whole term of service the same as required by law of firefighters residing in the city removed to, he shall be entitled to all the privileges and exemptions secured by law to the firefighters of the cities of Albany and New York.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 26, eff Feb 17, 1909; L 2018, ch 476, § 86, effective December 28, 2018.

Amendment Notes The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 86, substituted "firefighter" for "fireman", "law of firefighters" for "law of fireman" and "law to the firefighters" for "law to the fireman."

§ 16-a. Volunteer members of fire companies

1. Except as otherwise provided in a city charter or other special or local law, volunteer members of a fire company shall be elected and appointed as provided in this section.

2. The board of fire commissioners or other body or officer having control of the fire department shall appoint residents of the city as the volunteer members of any newly organized fire company. Thereafter, the fire company may elect other eligible persons, including city officers, as volunteer members. The election shall be pursuant to the by-laws, if any, of the fire company; otherwise, by a three-fourths vote of the members of the fire company present and voting at a regular or special meeting thereof. The membership of any person so elected shall become effective when approved by resolution of the board of fire commissioners or such other body or officer. Membership shall be deemed to have been approved pursuant to this subdivision in the event that no action is taken by such board, body or officer, either approving or disapproving, within thirty days after service of written notice of election to membership shall have been made by the secretary of the fire company upon the chairman of such board or body, or upon such officer, either personally or by mail.

3. Any person elected to membership as a volunteer member of a fire company shall be a resident of the city or of territory outside the city which is afforded fire protection by the fire department of the city, or any fire company thereof, pursuant to a contract for fire protection, except as otherwise provided in subdivision six.

4. The membership of a volunteer member of a fire company shall terminate when he ceases to be a resident of the city or of any territory outside the city which is afforded fire protection by the fire department of the city, or any fire company thereof, pursuant to a contract for fire protection, except as otherwise provided in subdivision five.

5. Any fire company may authorize the continued membership of any volunteer member where such member notifies the secretary of his or her fire company (a) that he or she plans to change his or her residence to territory which is not in the city and is not protected by the fire department of the city, or any fire company thereof, pursuant to a contract for fire protection, and (b) that by reason of his or her residence in the vicinity and his or her usual occupation he or she will be available to render active service as a volunteer firefighter in the city or in territory outside the city which is afforded fire protection pursuant to a contract for fire protection by the fire department of the city, or a fire company thereof. Such authorization shall be pursuant to the by-laws, if any, of the fire company of which he or she is a member, otherwise by a three-fourths vote of the members of such fire company present and voting at a regular or special meeting thereof. Such authorization shall not become effective unless approved by resolution of the board of fire commissioners or other body or officer hereinabove mentioned. Any membership continued pursuant to the provisions of this subdivision shall terminate when the member cannot meet either the requirements of this subdivision or the residence requirements of subdivision three. In the case of a city which adjoins another state, the term "vicinity", as used in this subdivision, includes territory in this state and territory in the adjoining state.

6. A person who cannot meet the residence requirements of subdivision three of this section may be elected to membership as a volunteer member of any fire company of the fire department if by reason of his or her residence in the vicinity and his or her usual occupation he or she will be available to render active service as a volunteer firefighter in the city or in territory which is afforded fire protection pursuant to a contract for fire protection by the fire department of the city or a fire company thereof. Such authorization shall be pursuant to the by-laws, if any, of the fire company; otherwise by a three-fourths vote of the members of the fire company present and voting at a regular or special meeting thereof. Such authorization shall not become effective unless approved by resolution of the board of fire commissioners or other body or officer hereinabove mentioned. The membership of any volunteer member elected pursuant to the provisions of this subdivision shall terminate when the member cannot meet either the requirements of this subdivision or the residence requirements of subdivision three. In the case of a city which adjoins another state, the term "vicinity", as used in this subdivision, includes territory in this state and territory in the adjoining state.

7. The membership of any volunteer firefighter shall not be continued pursuant to subdivision five of this section, and persons shall not be elected to membership pursuant to subdivision six of this section, if, by so doing, the percentage of such non-resident members in the fire company would exceed forty-five per centum of the actual membership of the fire company.

8. The legislative body of the city, or the board of fire commissioners or other body or officer hereinabove mentioned subject to approval of such legislative body, by resolution may restrict the membership of volunteer members in any or all of the fire companies of the fire department to residents of the city. Any volunteer member who then resides in territory outside the city shall cease to be a member of any fire company to which the restriction is applicable unless the resolution provides that his membership shall continue during the existence of any lawful contract for fire protection to such territory by his company or the fire department or during the period in which he may continue to meet the requirements of subdivision three, five or six.

9. Residents of outside territory protected pursuant to a contract for fire protection who have been elected to volunteer membership, and non-residents whose volunteer memberships have been authorized or continued pursuant to subdivision five or six, shall have all the powers, duties, immunities, and privileges of resident volunteer members, except (1) they may not be elected or appointed to any office of the fire department which is required by law to be held by an elector of the city, (2) non-residents of the state may not be appointed or elected to any office in the fire company or fire department, and (3) a non-resident of this state whose membership has been continued pursuant to subdivision five of this section, or a non-resident of this state who was elected to membership pursuant to subdivision six of this section, shall not be considered to be performing any firemanic duty, or to be engaged in any firemanic activity, as a member of the fire company while he or she is outside of this state unless and until he or she has first reported to the officer or firefighter in command of his or her fire department, or any company, squad or other unit thereof, engaged or to be engaged in rendering service outside this state, or has received orders or authorization from an officer of the fire department or fire company to participate in or attend authorized activities outside of this state in the same manner as resident members of the fire company.

10. A person shall not be eligible to volunteer membership in more than one fire company at one time.

11. The term "contract for fire protection" as used in this section means one under which a cash consideration is received by the city or by the fire department or a fire company thereof for the furnishing of fire protection to an area outside the city. Any such contract shall be deemed in full force and effect for the purposes of this section if negotiations are pending for the renewal thereof.

12. The provisions of this section shall not be deemed to authorize the election of any person as a member of a fire company or the continuance of membership in a fire company as herein provided if such election or continuance of membership shall be contrary to the by-laws, rules or regulations of the fire company or of the fire department of the city.

13. Any person:

(1) who was recognized prior to the first day of January, two thousand eleven, as a volunteer member of any fire company of a city subject to the provisions of this section by the governing board or board of fire commissioners of the city or by the officers and members of his fire company, and

(2) who rendered active service with such fire company between such dates, and

(3) who was, at the time of his or her election to membership, a resident of the city or of territory outside the city which was afforded fire protection by the fire department of the city, or any fire company thereof, pursuant to a contract for fire protection, or who was a non-resident who was elected to membership or who was continued as a member, pursuant to the provisions of subdivision five or six of this section, shall for all purposes in law be considered to have been duly elected and approved, or continued, as a member in such fire company as of the date of such approval, if any, and, if none, then as of the date of such election or, in the case of a continuance, as of the date of the approval, if any, by the board of fire commissioners or the governing board, and, if none, as of the date of authorization of continuance by the fire company; notwithstanding that there may have been some legal defect in such election, or the proceedings precedent thereto, or a failure of the board of fire commissioners or governing board to approve such member, or approve the continuance of membership of such member, as provided by the law in force at the time of such election, or continuance, and the status of such person as a volunteer firefighter as of such date is hereby legalized, validated and confirmed. This subdivision shall not apply to a person, if any, whose volunteer membership in a fire company was disapproved by the board of fire commissioners or declared invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction prior to the first day of January, two thousand eleven.

14.

(a) It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any volunteer fire department or fire company, through any member or members thereof, officers, board of fire commissioners or other body or office having power of appointment of volunteer firefighters in any fire department or fire company pursuant to this section, because of the race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status of any individual, to exclude or to expel from its volunteer membership such individual, or to discriminate against any of its members because of the race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status of such volunteer members.

(b) Any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice pursuant to this section may by himself or his attorney at law make, sign and file with the state division of human rights, a verified complaint which shall set forth the particulars of the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice and contain such other information as the division of human rights may require. The division shall thereupon cause to be made an investigation and disposition of the charges pursuant to the provisions of article fifteen of the executive law.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1954, ch 699, eff Apr 14, 1954; amd, L 1955, ch 83, § 3; L 1958, ch 523, eff Apr 9, 1958; L 1959, ch 751; L 1961, ch 63, eff Feb 28, 1961; L 1967, ch 628, eff Sept 1, 1967; L 1969, ch 143; L 1969, ch 359, § 12, eff May 2, 1969; L 1976, ch 273, eff June 3, 1976; L 1978, ch 215, eff Sept 1, 1978; L 1980, ch 133, § 4, eff May 16, 1980; L 1984, ch 185, § 1, eff June 5, 1984; L 2003, ch 393, §§ 6, 7, eff Aug 19, 2003; L 2011, ch 373, §§ 6, 7, eff Aug 3, 2011; L 2018, ch 476, § 87, effective December 28, 2018.

Prior Law: Former § 16-a, add, L 1920, ch 13, repealed, L 1941, ch 687, eff Apr 23, 1941.

Editor's Notes Laws 2003, ch 393, § 1, eff Aug 19, 2003, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. This legislation is designed to update certain provisions of the village law, the town law, the general city law and the not-for-profit corporation law relating to recognition of volunteer firefighters as duly elected or approved members of their respective fire companies. Periodically, these provisions of law should be updated to ensure that firefighters recently recognized as volunteers are considered to be duly elected and approved members in their respective fire companies, notwithstanding any legal defect in the election or approval process. This bill updates the relevant statutory provisions and ensures that more recently elected or approved volunteer members of fire companies are recognized as duly elected or approved for all purposes in law, including but not limited to coverage under the volunteer firefighters' benefit law.

Laws 2011, ch 373, § 1, eff Aug 3, 2011, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. This legislation is designed to update certain provisions of the village law, the town law, the general city law and the not-for-profit corporation law relating to recognition of volunteer firefighters as duly elected or approved members of their respective fire companies. Periodically, these provisions of law should be updated to ensure that firefighters recently recognized as volunteers are considered to be duly elected and approved members in their respective fire companies, notwithstanding any legal defect in the election or approval process. This act updates the relevant statutory provisions and ensures that more recently elected or approved volunteer members of fire companies are recognized as duly elected or approved for all purposes in law, including but not limited to coverage under the volunteer firefighters' benefit law.

Amendment Notes The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 87, in 5, added "or her" wherever it appears, "or she" three times and substituted "firefighter" for "fireman"; in 6, added "of this section", "or her" twice and "or she" and substituted "firefighter" for "fireman"; in 7, substituted "firefighter" for "fireman" and added "of this section" twice; in 9, added "of this section", "or she" twice, substituted "firefighter" for "fireman" and added "or her" in 13(3), added "or her" and substituted "firefighter" for "fireman"; and substituted "firefighters" for "firemen" in 14(a).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

By-law provisions for the admission of members of volunteer fire companies which provide that three negative votes or black balls will defeat election to membership appear to be valid but if they are used in a manner contrary to the Constitutions of the United States or of the State of New York or the anti-discrimination statutes of the state, such a by-law would be invalid. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen May 9 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 114.

A volunteer fireman may not be a member of two volunteer fire companies on or after July 1, 1954. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6669.

For a general explanation of Chapter 699 of Laws of 1954 in relation to non-resident members of volunteer fire departments, see 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–7063.

Villages, fire districts or cities may require that persons elected to membership in a volunteer fire company satisfactorily complete a physical examination. The cost of such a physical examination may be assumed by the respective municipality. 1969 Op St Compt No. 69–597.

There is no statutory prohibition on individual becoming member of fire company and member of volunteer ambulance corps at same time. 1997 Op St Compt No. 97-23, 1997 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 23.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in CLS Gen Mun Law § 200.

ARTICLE 2-A Powers of Cities

Section

20. Grant of specific powers

HISTORY:

Add, L 1913, ch 247, eff Apr 10, 1913.

§ 20. Grant of specific powers

Subject to the constitution and general laws of this state, every city is empowered:

* * * * *

12. To prevent and extinguish fires and to protect the inhabitants of the city and property within the city from loss or damage by fire or other casualty.

12-a. May appropriate moneys to a fire department to fund an annual firefighter's inspection dinner for volunteer firefighters and the city of Glen Cove may appropriate moneys to a fire department to fund an annual dinner for installation of fire district officers.

* * * * *

HISTORY:

Add, L 1913, ch 247, eff April 10, 1913; amd, L 1917, ch 483, eff May 15, 1917; L 1925, ch 394; L 1929, ch 678; L 1936, ch 223, eff April 3, 1936; L 1936, ch 425; L 1937, ch 591, eff May 24, 1937; L 1937, ch 658, eff May 27, 1937; L 1942, ch 662; L 1942, ch 750, eff May 9, 1942; L 1943, ch 287, eff April 5, 1943; L 1943, ch 710, Pt 1, eff July 2, 1944; L 1945, ch 428; L 1945, ch 521; L 1946, ch 194, eff March 22, 1946; L 1946, ch 416; L 1948, ch 874; L 1951, ch 177; L 1951, ch 765, eff May 1, 1951; L 1954, ch 269, § 2, eff March 26, 1954; L 1954, ch 600; L 1954, ch 692, § 3; L 1955, ch 79, eff March 10, 1955; L 1956, ch 148; L 1956, ch 216; L 1956, ch 295, § 3; L 1957, ch 949, eff April 25, 1957; L 1958, ch 58; L 1958, ch 891; L 1960, ch 265, eff March 22, 1960; L 1960, ch 525, eff April 14, 1960; L 1960, ch 635, § 2; L 1961, ch 142, eff March 14, 1961; L 1961, ch 632; L 1962, ch 161, eff March 19, 1962; L 1963, ch 803; L 1964, ch 816; L 1965, ch 782, eff July 15, 1965, applicable to contracts made on and after January 1, 1965; L 1965, ch 805, eff July 15, 1965; L 1966, ch 914; L 1967, ch 457; L 1968, ch 420, §§ 119, 120; L 1968, ch 513, eff Sept 1, 1968; L 1968, ch 1001, eff June 22, 1968; L 1970, ch 267, § 11, eff March 1, 1971; L 1970, ch 994, eff May 20, 1970; L 1970, ch 1034; L 1972, ch 696, eff May 30, 1972; L 1974, ch 598, § 1, eff May 30, 1974; L 1977, ch 812, eff Aug 5, 1977; L 1977, ch 840, § 28, eff July 1, 1978; L 1978, ch 550, § 28, eff July 24, 1978; L 1979, ch 742, § 2, eff Jan 1, 1981; L 1984, ch 805, § 25, eff Sept 1, 1984; L 1985, ch 758, § 1, eff Aug 1, 1985; L 1986, ch 138, § 1, eff June 9, 1986; L 1986, ch 755, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1986; L 1989, ch 327, § 1, eff July 10, 1989; L 1994, ch 660, § 1, eff Nov 1, 1994; L 1997, ch 458, § 1, eff July 1, 1998; L 2001, ch 383, § 5 (Part F), eff Oct 29, 2001, deemed eff April 1, 2001; L 2011, ch 62, § 104 (Part A), eff Oct 3, 2011; L 2018, ch 476, § 88, effective December 28, 2018.

Editor's Notes L 1943, ch 287, § 2, provides:

§ 2. This act shall not operate to deprive the local legislative body of any city of the power to enact local laws in relation to any matter in respect to which such power would otherwise exist, nor shall it limit such power. If this power otherwise exists, any provision of this act may be superseded, supplemented or amended by local law in the same manner and to the same extent as such provisions could be superseded, supplemented or amended had this act not been enacted.

L 1944, ch 606, amended the effective date of L 1943, ch 710, to read April 2, 1945, and L 1945, ch 338, § 64, eff. March 28, 1945 moved the effective date forward to Sept. 2, 1945.

L 1948, ch 874, § 2, provides:

§ 2. a. It is the intent and purpose of this act, notwithstanding any other provision of law, to vest in any board, commission or department of traffic control created pursuant to subdivision thirty-two of section twenty of the general city law, exclusive power and authority to regulate, direct, control and restrict the movement of vehicular and pedestrian traffic within a city, to limit the size of vehicles used within such city, to determine the location of garages, parking lots and parking meters and to decide upon the type, placement and operation of such meters within such city and to make rules and regulations to effectuate such power and authority. It is the intention and purpose of this act, however, that the regulation of hacks, taxicabs and taxi drivers pursuant to the provisions of any city charter, local law or ordinance of such city shall remain under the jurisdiction and control of the police commissioner, police department or analogous officer or department of such city.

b. Any such board, commission or department so created shall have power to continue any business, proceeding or other matter commenced by any such police commissioner, department or other officer or agency by whom or by which heretofore commenced.

c. Any provision of law, rule, regulation, contract, grant or other document relating to the subject-matter of the functions, powers or duties and applicable to the police commissioner or police department or any other officer or agency of a city in relation to the regulation, direction, control and restriction of the movement of vehicular and pedestrian traffic in such city, (except as hereinbefore provided) shall apply to such board, commission or department of traffic control.

d. All rules and regulations made by the police commissioner, police department or other officer or agency of a city, pursuant to the city charter of any such city, local law or ordinance, in force when any such board, commission or department is created pursuant to this act, shall continue in full force and effect as the rules and regulations of such board, commission or department of traffic control, until amended, superseded or repealed by such board, commission or department.

e. Every right or remedy of whatsoever nature which existed prior to the enactment of the provisions of this act shall be available and shall survive unaffected and unimpaired by reason of the enactment of this act.

f. No action or proceeding, civil or criminal, pending at the time when this act shall take effect, by whomsoever brought, shall be affected or abated by the enactment of this act or by anything herein contained; but all such actions or proceedings may be continued notwithstanding that functions or powers of duties of any agency of the government of any city or of any other agency of government or public authority or officer party thereto may by this act be assigned or transferred to another such agency or officer, but in that event the same may be prosecuted or defended by the head of such assignee or transferee agency or officer.

Laws 1962 ch 161, § 1, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative declaration. It is hereby declared that the continued uninterrupted adequate, efficient and safe operation of omnibus lines in cities of one million or more inhabitants is essential to the health, welfare and safety of the inhabitants of such cities. In order to ensure such operation, such cities should have the right, whenever the governing body of such cities determines that the public convenience and necessity so requires, to acquire and take possession of the property of any omnibus line by condemnation in the manner hereinafter prescribed. It is hereby further declared that the provisions hereinafter enacted relate to the protection of the public health, welfare and safety and are for a public purpose.

Laws 1968, ch 1001, § 2, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately, and shall authorize reimbursements as provided herein for medicare premiums paid on and after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight.

[1968 ch 513] Subdivision 25-a of section twenty of the General City Law, and section two hundred twenty-six-a of the county law which were repealed by this act, provided that cities and counties were empowered to take various forms of action for the preservation of places, buildings, etc. having a special historical or aesthetic interest or value. This act has transferred these powers to a new section ninety-six-a of the General Municipal Law and made them applicable to all counties, towns, villages and cities. The wording of subdivision twenty-five-a, as thus made applicable to all such municipalities, was clarified by the act so as to evidence more explicitly the original legislative intent that districts and sites shall be eligible for the protections provided for by the legislation.

Laws 1977, ch 812, § 1, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative declaration. The services provided by volunteer firemen in this state are invaluable. In the highest tradition of exemplary public service, these firemen serve their neighbors, their community and their state. In order to insure the continued availability of this irreplaceable work force, it is in the best interest of the people of our state to provide financial assistance for programs of local fire departments which facilitate the recruitment, training and administration of new personnel who can contribute their loyalty and devotion in the interest of fire protection.

Laws 1977, ch 841, amended L 1977, ch 840, § 28, eff July 1, 1978 so as to change the effective date from Jan 1, 1978 to July 1, 1978.

Laws 1977, ch 840, §§ 150–152, provide:

§ 150. If any clause, sentence, paragraph, section or part of this chapter or the application thereof to any person, firm or corporation, project or circumstance shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, section, or part of the application thereof to the person, firm or corporation, project or circumstance directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered.

§ 151. This chapter shall not affect pending actions or proceedings, civil or criminal, but the same may be prosecuted or defended in the same manner and with the same effect as though this chapter had not been enacted.

§ 152. The amendment or repeal of any law by the provisions of this chapter shall not affect or impair any contract, or act done, or right accruing, accrued or acquired, or liability, or penalty, or forfeiture incurred prior to the time when this chapter or any section thereof takes effect, but the same may be enjoyed, asserted, enforced or prosecuted as fully and to the same extent, as if such laws had not been amended or repealed.

Laws 1979, ch 742, §§ 1, 5, eff Jan 1, 1981, provide:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The legislature hereby finds that it is in the state's interest to encourage and expedite long-term development of renewable energy resources, such as solar energy. Use of alternate energy sources, such as solar energy, will aid state energy conservation efforts and will lessen New York's dependence on costly and imported fossil fuels. Therefore, it is the intent of the legislature to include access to solar energy as a valid public purpose within the zoning authority of local governments in this state.

§ 5. On or before September thirtieth, nineteen hundred eighty, the state energy office shall promulgate guidelines for use by municipal governments in implementing the provisions of this act.

Laws 2001, ch 383, § 20 (Part F), eff Oct 29, 2001, deemed eff April 1, 2001, provides as follows:

§ 20. This act shall take effect immediately and shall be deemed to have been in full force and effect on and after April 1, 2001 and shall apply to school years commencing on or after July 1, 2001, provided, however, that section fourteen-a of this act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as section 1 of part B of chapter 149 of the laws of 2001 takes effect.

Amendment Notes The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 88, substituted "firefighter's" for "fireman's" in 12-a.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

AVOIDING PITFALLS IN ADOPTION AND AMENDMENT OF ZONING ORDINANCES.

By John Stockli, Esq., Stockli Greene & Slevin, LLP, Albany, NY.

General Editor, Alfred C. Tartaglia, Esq., New York, NY.

INSIGHT

Town Law § 264 and § 265 provide the procedures for adopting initial zoning ordinances or amending existing ones, and contain several important notice and hearing requirements. In today's practice, these sections are most relevant to zoning ordinance amendments because most municipalities have existing zoning ordinances or zoning laws. Although they appear to provide a straightforward methodology for the adoption or amendment of zoning ordinances or amendments, §§ 264 and 265 are fraught with potential pitfalls.

ANALYSIS

Coordinate Notice and Hearing Tasks with Proper Municipal Official to Ensure that Notice Requirements Are Fulfilled.

When seeking to adopt or amend a zoning ordinance, the practitioner must ensure that the notice requirements have been precisely fulfilled. As a practical matter, mistakes frequently result from administrative oversights when providing notice and scheduling public hearings. These oversights can lead to an unraveling of the proposed ordinance or amendment. To avoid these problems, the practitioner should coordinate notice and hearing tasks with the municipal official responsible for these activities.

Determine Whether Zoning Regulation Is Ordinance or Local Law.

The second potential pitfall involves the interrelationship between Town Law § 264 and § 265, and the Municipal Home Rule Law. A municipality may enact zoning regulations under the authority of either statute. A zoning regulation adopted under the Town Law is an ordinance, while one enacted under Municipal Home Rule is a local law. As a practical matter, the classification of a zoning regulation as an ordinance or local law is a distinction without a difference. If a practitioner is challenging the enactment of either an ordinance or local law on procedural grounds, however, identifying the type of regulation is significant, as each has unique procedural prerequisites. The dichotomy between Town Law and Municipal Home Rule has been the subject of litigation and has led to confusion in understanding the manner in which a town may enact zoning regulations. By allowing local zoning regulations to be adopted under two different statutory schemes, the legislature perpetuates an unnecessary level of confusion in the zoning law arena.

When seeking to confirm whether a Town Board has properly adopted a zoning regulation, it is important that the practitioner review the text of the law to determine whether it was adopted pursuant to Town Law § 264 or § 265, or Municipal Home Rule. Without looking to both sources, ascertaining compliance with statutory requirements is impossible. This is an area where the legislature could add clarity by conforming the requirements for local zoning regulations.

Villages Have Standing to Challenge Town's Enactment of Local Law Enacted Under Municipal Home Rule Law.

Drawing upon the distinction between zoning laws enacted under the Town Law, as opposed to those enacted under the Municipal Home Rule Law, the Second Department has held that Town Law § 264 (4) does not prevent a Village from challenging, under SEQRA and General Municipal Law 239-m, a Town's adoption of a local law permitting adult student housing. The court clearly intended to limit the scope of the restrictions on neighboring jurisdictions set forth in the Town Law in favor of increased regional accountability. Matter of Village of Chestnut Ridge v. Town of Ramapo, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9059 (2d Dept. 2007).

Comport with Comprehensive Plan to Avoid Nullification of Zoning Enactment.

Though not thoroughly addressed in the plain language of the statute, a key prerequisite to the adoption or amendment of a zoning ordinance or local law is conformity with a comprehensive plan. In short, a comprehensive plan is the overall planning goals for a town. It need not be a formal document, but rather a totality of activities showing that the town has a long-term land use vision. Any rezoning must be consistent with that vision and not the reaction to the unique desires of a specific applicant. The standards for such comprehensive plan are set forth in case law. Gernatt Asphalt Products v. Town of Sardina, 87 N.Y.2d 668 (1996). Failure of counsel to comport with a comprehensive plan will lead to nullification of the zoning enactment.

Limiting the Pool of Owners Who Can Seek to Force a Super-Majority Vote.

Town Law § 265 (1) (b) requires a super-majority vote where the zoning change is the subject of a written protest presented to the Town Board and signed by "the owners of twenty percent or more of the area of land immediately adjacent to that land included in such proposed change, extending one hundred feet therefrom." In Matter of Eadie v. Town Bd. of the N. Greenbush, 7 N.Y.3d 306, 821 N.Y.S.2d 142, 854 N.E.2d 464 (2006), the Court concluded that the "one hundred feet" must be measured from the boundary of the rezoned area, not the boundary of a parcel of which the rezoned area is a part. The effect of the Court's holding was to permit municipalities to enact "buffer zoning" in order to avoid a super-majority vote. A municipality may lawfully re-zone large parcels and leave a 100 foot "buffer zone" from the border of the affected parcels; the buffer zone effectively precludes the neighboring landowners from forcing a super-majority vote.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. Power of city to contract, defend and maintain actions (subd. 1)
2. Power of city to acquire and hold real property (subd. 2)
3. —Acquisition of land for sewerage treatment purposes
4. —Disposition of property held by city
5. —Operation of buslines
6. Leases of space in city buildings (subd. 2-a)
7. Power to hold property received by gift (subd. 3)
8. Levy and collection of taxes (subd. 4)
9. Power to spend money, pay claims and the like (subd. 5)
10. —Payment of equitable claims
11. —Waiver of statute of limitations
12. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of streets, parks, sewers and the like (subd. 7)
13. —Alienation of land held for parks
14. Control and regulation of waterfront, docks and other facilities (subd. 8)
15. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of bridges, tunnels and ferries (subd. 9)
16. Franchises for use of public ways and places (subd. 10)
17. Construction of public buildings and works and assessment of costs (subd. 11)
18. Fire prevention and firefighting (subds. 12 and 12-a)
19. Enforcement of laws and regulation and licensing of businesses (subd. 13)
20. —Particular licensing requirements
21. —Other ordinances and regulations
22. Terms and conditions of employment for city employees (subd. 17)
23. —Automatic deduction of union dues and other contributions from pay
24. Municipal civil service (subd. 18)
25. Regulation of manner of transaction of city business (subd. 19)
26. Administration of pension funds (subd. 20)
27. Investigation into matters of concern to city (subd. 21)
28. —Subpoena power
29. Ordinances and penalties as to matters of concern to city (subd. 22)
30. Exercise of necessary and proper powers (subd. 23)
31. Power to enact zoning and other land use regulations (subds. 24 and 25)
32. —Particular regulations
33. —Particular regulations; amendments and exceptions
34. —Particular regulations; establishment of residential districts
35. —Particular regulations; garages, parking lots and the like
36. Particular regulations; prohibition of particular business or use
37. —Particular regulations; restriction on population density
38. —Other matters
39. Sewer rents (subds. 26 and 26-a)
40. Licensing and regulation of electricians (subd. 27)
41. Insurance (subds. 29 and 29-a)
42. Traffic control (subd. 32)
43. Repair or removal of unsafe structures (subd. 35)
44. Miscellaneous

1. Power of city to contract, defend and maintain actions (subd. 1)

Article IX, § 2 of the State Constitution and § 10 of the Municipal Home Rule Law, when read in conjunction with this section, evince a design on the part of the state to provide a city, when contracting for purchase of supplies or hiring of labor, with full power to fix terms and conditions upon which it will deal and to regulate its affairs in entering into such contracts as a private corporation is allowed in handling its business concerns. McMillen v Browne, 14 N.Y.2d 326, 251 N.Y.S.2d 641, 200 N.E.2d 546, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 979 (N.Y. 1964).

In action by plaintiffs who entered into contract with former city manager, whereby city was to construct parking lot on plaintiffs' property and right-of-way for access in exchange for plaintiffs' release of any claim for damages arising out of street work which had eliminated their parking spaces and street access, city was entitled to summary judgment dismissing plaintiffs' action for breach of contract, specific performance and related claims, where uncontroverted proof demonstrated that city council did not approve contract with plaintiffs, that said contract was illegal and ultra vires, and that work already commenced on project was limited to city-owned property. Fatone v City of Troy, 236 A.D.2d 676, 653 N.Y.S.2d 195, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1133 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

City failed to make requisite showing to justify use of project labor agreement (PLA) as part of competitive bidding process on public works contract where there was no detailed projection of cost savings as result of PLA, there was no history of labor unrest that threatened success of project, and city's general concern that project be completed in timely manner to comply with funding requirements and deadlines imposed by New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, without more, was insufficient basis on which to impose such exceptional specification as PLA. Empire State Chapter of Associated Builders & Contrs. v City of Oswego, 239 A.D.2d 875, 659 N.Y.S.2d 672, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6233 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Where a claim is not one for extra compensation, this section, reciting that a city shall have no power to grant extra compensation to any contractor, is not applicable. In re Shaddock, 220 N.Y.S. 113, 128 Misc. 616, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 806 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 220 A.D. 470, 221 N.Y.S. 677, 1927 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9337 (N.Y. App. Div. 1927).

In New York power to condemn has long been delegated to cities and to municipalities under General City Law § 20(2) and General Municipal Law § 74; City of New Rochelle, which is both city and municipality, is empowered to condemn property for purposes of flood control; when it exercises power, it acts under color of state law. Kohlasch v New York State Thruway Authority, 482 F. Supp. 721, 1980 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9809 (S.D.N.Y. 1980).

2. Power of city to acquire and hold real property (subd. 2)

Resistance on the part of a city which had taken a transit system by eminent domain to payment on alleged statutory grounds, four years after the taking, bordered on the verge of giving the 1962 Amendment of this section an unconstitutional construction. In re Fifth Ave. Coach Lines, Inc., 18 N.Y.2d 741, 274 N.Y.S.2d 349, 221 N.E.2d 174, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1110 (N.Y. 1966), dismissed, Fifth Ave. Coach Lines, Inc. v New York, 386 U.S. 778, 87 S. Ct. 1480, 18 L. Ed. 2d 524, 1967 U.S. LEXIS 1574 (U.S. 1967).

Although lease of building by city for welfare services was plainly within the scope of city's authority, subsequent resolution of board of estimate authorizing exercise of option to renew lease was not a valid ratification of earlier notice of city's intention to renew and failure to exercise option prior to its expiration rendered city month-to-month tenant rather than tenant under valid and binding lease. 120 Bay Street Realty Corp. v New York, 44 N.Y.2d 907, 407 N.Y.S.2d 639, 379 N.E.2d 167, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2096 (N.Y. 1978).

Where the State, at the request of the city manager raised the head of the water in the river at State's hydroelectric plant, thereby relieving the city's water shortage, city is bound by an implied agreement to reimburse the State. People v Schenectady, 60 N.Y.S.2d 911, 186 Misc. 385, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1962 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

Delegation of right of eminent domain by the State through which city took petitioner's property, was within the power of the State. In re Brooklyn Battery Tunnel Plaza, 62 N.Y.S.2d 303, 186 Misc. 603, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2224 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 270 A.D. 1027, 64 N.Y.S.2d 175 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Where fee to property is in good faith appropriated for a particular public purpose, condemning municipality may subsequently convert it to other uses, or even abandon it entirely, without any impairment of the validity of the estate originally acquired or reversion to the former owners. Fur-Lex Realty, Inc. v Lindsay, 81 Misc. 2d 904, 367 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2491 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Court would dismiss proceeding brought pursuant to CLS Gen City § 20(2), in which city sought order providing that compensation to be paid for property should be ascertained and determined solely by income capitalization method, since proceeding called for advisory opinion given that city had not yet taken any property and property owner had not yet suffered any damage. In re Jamaica Water Supply Co., 158 Misc. 2d 378, 600 N.Y.S.2d 914, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 255 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

Court would dismiss proceeding brought pursuant to CLS Gen City § 20(2) in which city sought order providing that compensation to paid for property should be ascertained and determined solely by income capitalization method since question presented was not justiciable in that it was contingent on happening of future event, as city had not yet taken any property. In re Jamaica Water Supply Co., 158 Misc. 2d 378, 600 N.Y.S.2d 914, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 255 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

CLS Gen City § 20(2) is unconstitutional to extent that it directs court to render advisory opinion regarding valuation prior to any taking of property or legal commitment by city to acquire property, and prior to suffering of any damages by condemnee. In re Jamaica Water Supply Co., 158 Misc. 2d 378, 600 N.Y.S.2d 914, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 255 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

New York City had power to convey land under water, acquired at in rem tax proceeding, to respondents' predecessors without first receiving authorization from state legislature pursuant to CLS Gen City § 20(2); fact that city may have sought legislative approval for sale of other waterfront property acquired in tax foreclosure proceedings did not mean it was required to do so in connection with subject property. Coppotelli v Commissioner of the Dep't of Bldgs., 169 Misc. 2d 888, 646 N.Y.S.2d 773, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 286 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996), aff'd, 240 A.D.2d 666, 659 N.Y.S.2d 997, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6829 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

In the City of New York's toxic tort suit to recover from a corporation costs associated with the contamination of wells that the City purchased pursuant to N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(2), the City had U.S. Const. art. III standing by alleging a present injury claim that certain wells were already contaminated by methyl tertiary butyl ether (MTBE) at a level that required remediation and a future injury claim that even if some of the wells were not currently contaminated by MTBE at a level that established injury, once the wells were turned on, the MTBE contamination would substantially and immediately increase to a level that constituted a cognizable injury to the City. City of New York v Exxon Mobil Corp. (In re Methyl Tertiary Butyl Ether Prods. Liab. Litig.), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59287 (S.D.N.Y. July 6, 2009).

City of New York's toxic tort suit to recover from a corporation costs associated with the contamination of wells that the City purchased pursuant to N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(2) was ripe for review because the City alleged a present injury claim that certain wells were already contaminated by methyl tertiary butyl ether (MTBE) at a level that required remediation and a future injury claim that even if some of the wells were not currently contaminated by MTBE at a level that established injury, once the wells were turned on, the MTBE contamination would substantially and immediately increase to a level that constituted a cognizable injury to the City, and further, if the City delayed asserting its claims until the completion of a treatment facility that would allow for usage of the wells, its claims would likely be time barred. City of New York v Exxon Mobil Corp. (In re Methyl Tertiary Butyl Ether Prods. Liab. Litig.), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59287 (S.D.N.Y. July 6, 2009).

In the City of New York's toxic tort suit to recover from a corporation costs associated with the contamination of wells that the City purchased pursuant to N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(2), the City had to establish its claims for damages by a preponderance of the evidence with regard to wells that already had levels of contaminant that required remediation, and as to wells in which present levels of contaminant were insufficient to constitute an injury, the City had to prove by clear and convincing evidence that the contaminant would remain in the wells by the date of the City's intended use of the water and that when the wells were turned on, the influx of water would raise contaminant concentrations to an injurious level. City of New York v Exxon Mobil Corp. (In re Methyl Tertiary Butyl Ether Prods. Liab. Litig.), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59287 (S.D.N.Y. July 6, 2009).

In the City of New York's toxic tort suit to recover from a corporation costs associated with the contamination of wells that the City purchased pursuant to N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(2) but was not yet using, the City's claims were not speculative; the City could recover damages for interference with its property and did not have to show that it would use the wells, only that it might and that the City would commence building its water treatment facility within 15 years. ity of City of New York v Exxon Mobil Corp. (In re Methyl Tertiary Butyl Ether Prods. Liab. Litig.), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59287 (S.D.N.Y. July 6, 2009).

3. —Acquisition of land for sewerage treatment purposes

Property acquired for sewer purpose is held by the city in a governmental capacity, and the city is not entitled to payment of compensation if such property is condemned by the state. New Rochelle v State, 19 A.D.2d 674, 241 N.Y.S.2d 272, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3478 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1963), aff'd, 14 N.Y.2d 559, 248 N.Y.S.2d 654, 198 N.E.2d 41, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 1325 (N.Y. 1964).

The general rule denying implied contractual liability against municipalities, barring recovery where the use of the remedy of quasi contract would thwart the purpose of the statutory provisions relating to the manner of making a contract binding upon a municipality, does not apply to plaintiffs' claims against defendants municipalities arising from the discharge of untreated sewage from a joint municipal sewage plant onto plaintiffs' lands since defendants have the power to "take real * * * property within and without the limits of the city * * * for any public or municipal purpose" (General City Law, § 20, subd 2) and "to pay or compromise claims equitably payable by the city though not constituting obligations legally binding on it" (General City Law, § 20, subd 5) and, allowing recovery does not thwart the intent of the Eminent Domain Procedure Law "to give due regard to * * * the legitimate interests of private owners * * * and the quality of the environment" (Eminent Domain Procedure Law, § 101), and, in any event, the claim is implied contract arising out of tort rather than contract. Accordingly, plaintiffs' cause of action alleging that defendants have been unjustly enriched by dumping sewage and other substances on plaintiffs' property is sustained. Evans v Johnstown, 96 Misc. 2d 755, 410 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2674 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Generally, land is not subject to the remedy of restitution since such an action is inconvenient for the purpose of determining title except where a "person who, having the power to take land by eminent domain for a particular purpose, has taken possession of it for such purpose but does not take the required proceedings". Restitution is therefore a proper remedy in plaintiffs' claim of unjust enrichment concerning the taking of an easement or using plaintiffs' property for the dumping of untreated wastes from a municipal sewage plant since title to the property is not in question and defendants municipalities have the power to acquire real property by condemnation for the "maintenance and operation of a sewage disposal plant" (General City Law, § 20, subd 2) and have allegedly taken possession and controlled plaintiffs' property by dumping sewage onto their lands. Plaintiffs need not allege dispossession since the possession by defendants need not be exclusive. Evans v Johnstown, 96 Misc. 2d 755, 410 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2674 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

4. —Disposition of property held by city

A municipality could convey valid and legal title to waterfront and parkland property to an urban renewal agency pursuant to and urban renewal plan without the necessity of obtaining legislative approval, notwithstanding that Gen City Law § 20 provided that a public trust is impressed upon waterfront and parkland property when a municipality acquires title thereto and said title may not be divested or alienated without a special act of the legislature, since Gen Mun Law § 503-a empowers a municipality to convey title to its real property to an urban renewal agency in furtherance of an urban renewal program, and to the extent that there was a conflict with the General City Law, the General Municipal Law is superseding and controlling. Village Green Realty Corp. v Glen Cove Community Dev. Agency, 95 A.D.2d 259, 466 N.Y.S.2d 26, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18957 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

City was entitled to summary judgment in buyer's action for specific performance of contract to convey waterfront property where legislative approval permitting city to sell property was not obtained; CLS Gen City § 20 divests city of power to convey publicly owned waterfront property except by special act of legislature, even in cases where property was neither acquired nor dedicated for public use, due to unique geographical nature of waterfront property. Gladsky v Glen Cove, 164 A.D.2d 567, 563 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 458 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 859, 575 N.Y.S.2d 455, 580 N.E.2d 1058, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. 1991).

Buyer was entitled to recover sums spent for down payment, title examination and survey of waterfront property under purchase agreement with city following proper dismissal of buyer's specific performance action due to failure of legislature to approve purchase by special act as required by CLS Gen City § 20. Gladsky v Glen Cove, 164 A.D.2d 567, 563 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 458 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 859, 575 N.Y.S.2d 455, 580 N.E.2d 1058, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. 1991).

Ordinance which directed the sale of real property following the dissolution of portions of public streets and which provided that fee title would revert to the city in the event that a certain corporation ceased to operate in the city was in direct violation of this section and § 37 of the Second Class Cities Law requiring the sale and conveyance of realty at public auction to the highest bidder Deed Realty Corp. v Yonkers, 1 Misc. 2d 280, 147 N.Y.S.2d 136, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2268 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Collective interested in acquiring 2 city-owned radio stations could not compel New York City officials to sell stations through competitive bidding process, as New York City Charter § 384 did not directly apply to sale of radio stations or to city property generally, and city's authority to dispose of radio stations under CLS Gen City § 20(2) was not restricted by competitive bidding provisions. Creole Enters. v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 810, 636 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 601 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 236 A.D.2d 272, 653 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

CLS Gen Mun § 103, which imposes competitive bidding requirement for public works contracts, did not apply to city's sale of city-owned radio stations to private entity. Creole Enters. v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 810, 636 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 601 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 236 A.D.2d 272, 653 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging sale of city-owned radio stations to private entity, court would not compel New York City officials to sell stations through competitive bidding process even though some city officials made representations in this regard and indicated that public hearings would be held, as decision to hold public hearing was in discretion of city, and any incorrect representation made by city official was not binding on city; estoppel-based argument did not apply in that competitive bidding laws exist for protection of public, not prospective bidders. Creole Enters. v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 810, 636 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 601 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 236 A.D.2d 272, 653 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

New York City officials' proposal to sell 2 city-owned radio stations to private entity, and not through competitive bidding process, was not arbitrary and capricious, even though petitioner offered higher price, as city properly considered purchaser's commitment to stations' value and character as cultural institution; absent competitive bidding requirement, city or agency has fiduciary duty to sell property in public interest, which may involve factors other than price. Creole Enters. v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 810, 636 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 601 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 236 A.D.2d 272, 653 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging sale of city-owned radio stations to private entity, petitioner prematurely raised claim that proposed sale violated 47 CFR § 73.1150(a) (which prohibits holder of license from retaining any reversionary interest or other rights in license when it transfers license) because city required private entity to provide it with free air time for public service announcements, as there was no signed agreement between city and purchaser; furthermore, challenge to proposed sale based on Federal Communications Commission (FCC) regulations must be presented to FCC. Creole Enters. v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 810, 636 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 601 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 236 A.D.2d 272, 653 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

5. —Operation of buslines

This section, as amended by Laws 1962, ch. 161, provides adequate notice of acquisition and taking over of a bus line by a city within its coverage, and adequately meets all legal requirements for exercise of the power of eminent domain. Fifth Ave. Coach Lines, Inc. v New York, 11 N.Y.2d 342, 229 N.Y.S.2d 400, 183 N.E.2d 684, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1133 (N.Y. 1962).

Transit companies whose properties were condemned by a city, which without interruption in service operated their transportation systems over the same routes using the same personnel and equipment, having demonstrated a capability for profitable operations under reasonable rates, were entitled to going concern value for their assets; and the measure of value was the cost of putting the entire systems together new plus all improvements, tangible and intangible, less depreciation. In re Fifth Ave. Coach Lines, Inc., 18 N.Y.2d 212, 273 N.Y.S.2d 52, 219 N.E.2d 410, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1186 (N.Y. 1966), app. dismissed, 386 U.S. 778, 87 S. Ct. 1480, 18 L. Ed. 2d 524, 1967 U.S. LEXIS 1574 (U.S. 1967).

No authority for operation of a bus or stage line by a city is to be found in the grant of specific powers contained in this section. Brooklyn C. R. Co. v Whalen, 191 A.D. 737, 182 N.Y.S. 283, 1920 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4800 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 229 N.Y. 570, 128 N.E. 215, 229 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 570, 1920 N.Y. LEXIS 775 (N.Y. 1920).

6. Leases of space in city buildings (subd. 2-a)

This section does not constitute or can be construed as constituting a special legislative sanction authorizing a lease or diversion of public property held by the city for public use to a possession or use exclusively private, for private business purposes. American Dock Co. v New York, 21 N.Y.S.2d 943, 174 Misc. 813, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2033, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2686 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 261 A.D. 1063, 26 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8753 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

7. Power to hold property received by gift (subd. 3)

Police association's application for mandamus to compel city to turn over to it funds donated by citizens for benefit of police department would be denied where donations did not carry particular directions, and thus disbursements of funds were matter within discretion of city as trustee under CLS Gen City § 20. Rye Police Ass'n v Rye, 138 Misc. 2d 441, 524 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 341 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Police association's application for mandamus to review city's disbursements of funds donated by citizens for benefit of police department would be denied, despite claims that city failed to carry out purposes of donations by expending funds without approval or consultation of association or its members, where association made no showing that such approval or consultation was directed by donors, or that any expenditure was inconsistent with fund's general purpose to benefit department; moreover, absent specific statement of intent by donors, there was no moral obligation on part of city which would overcome constitutional barrier against giving gratuities by municipality. Rye Police Ass'n v Rye, 138 Misc. 2d 441, 524 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 341 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Police association failed to establish its entitlement to "a constructive and equitable trust" within its Article 78 proceeding seeking both mandamus to compel city to turn over funds donated by citizens for benefit of police department, and mandamus to review city's disbursements of funds, since neither mandamus to compel nor mandamus to review includes constructive and equitable trust within ambit of relief which can be afforded. Rye Police Ass'n v Rye, 138 Misc. 2d 441, 524 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 341 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

A bequest to a city would not lapse when at the testator's death there was in being a municipal corporation authorized to accept gifts of its nature under this section and § 21. Kibbe v Rochester, 57 F.2d 542, 1932 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1130 (D.N.Y. 1932).

8. Levy and collection of taxes (subd. 4)

A city has no authority under this section to tax the utility on gross income received from the sale of products for purposes of resale. Brooklyn Union Gas Co. v Joseph, 298 N.Y. 536, 80 N.E.2d 669, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 536, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 1126 (N.Y. 1948).

The New York City Finance Administrator was empowered to impose a tax upon a transportation company's gross income during the tax period only by virtue of § 20-b of the General City Law and not by the general taxing power granted by the legislature. Carey Transp., Inc. v Perrotta, 34 A.D.2d 147, 310 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970), aff'd, 29 N.Y.2d 814, 327 N.Y.S.2d 651, 277 N.E.2d 668, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 953 (N.Y. 1971).

Ordinance which authorized city to reconvey property acquired by in rem foreclosure was not unconstitutionally arbitrary, overbroad and vague on basis that it failed to establish any standards by which city council's discretion over reconveying property should be exercised, where specific considerations in selling surplus property were delineated in other sections of city code. Murphy v Dworsky, 170 A.D.2d 787, 565 N.Y.S.2d 887, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1519 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 78 N.Y.2d 951, 573 N.Y.S.2d 646, 578 N.E.2d 444, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1308 (N.Y. 1991), app. dismissed, 78 N.Y.2d 951, 573 N.Y.S.2d 646, 578 N.E.2d 444, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1293 (N.Y. 1991), app. dismissed, 78 N.Y.2d 951, 573 N.Y.S.2d 646, 578 N.E.2d 444, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1309 (N.Y. 1991), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 860, 576 N.Y.S.2d 218, 582 N.E.2d 601, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4654 (N.Y. 1991), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 860, 576 N.Y.S.2d 218, 582 N.E.2d 601, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4664 (N.Y. 1991).

Judgment convicting corporate defendant of violating NYC Admin Code § 11-809(a) by guilty plea entered on its default was vacated under CLS CPL § 440.10(1)(a) and (h) where universal summons was facially insufficient for failure to allege that subject vehicle was type specified by ordinance, and defendant established meritorious defense (that ordinance was inapplicable to its vehicle) based on tax returns and affidavit proof. People v Hoffman Floor Covering Corp., 179 Misc. 2d 656, 686 N.Y.S.2d 651, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 22 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1999).

9. Power to spend money, pay claims and the like (subd. 5)

Local law, authorizing the board of estimate and apportionment, in its discretion, to make an award to a person injured by a police officer engaged in making an arrest, is not in conflict with New York Constitution, Article VIII, § 10 forbidding cities giving money or property to an individual or incurring indebtedness for other than city purposes. Evans v Berry, 262 N.Y. 61, 186 N.E. 203, 262 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 61, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 914 (N.Y. 1933).

City housing authority and other defendants were entitled to partial summary judgment dismissing causes of action seeking damages for extra work under municipal construction contract and damaged business reputation where plaintiff did not prove its strict compliance with notice, change order, and dispute resolution provisions of contract, and defendants did not waive strict compliance with those provisions. Sicoli & Massaro, Inc. v Niagara Falls Hous. Auth., 281 A.D.2d 966, 722 N.Y.S.2d 442, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2728 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Construction of schools is a public or municipal purpose for which the city is authorized to assume debt. Spano v Middletown, 7 N.Y.S.2d 14, 169 Misc. 338, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1993 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1938).

New York city may expend its money and property in permitting the broadcast of proceedings at communion breakfasts of the Holy Name societies composed of city employees, where it appears that the broadcast is not made for the benefit of the societies but is of interest to the listening public. Lewis v La Guardia, 14 N.Y.S.2d 463, 172 Misc. 82, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2245 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 258 A.D. 713, 14 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6542 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

A subclass of claimants entitled to recover tax refunds from a city for their payment under protest of illegally collected tax revenues, there being more than 70,000 claimants in the class action involving more than $100,000,000 in illegally collected revenue, would not be entitled to immediate payment even though the city's liability to those members who paid the illegal portion of their taxes under protest had been established, since no remedy for any claimants that should be fashioned until the legality of the city's plan to recognize the claims of nonprotesters under Gen City Law § 20(5) had been determined on appeal, in that any informed exercise of discretion in fashion a class-action remedy must take into account factors such as the effect on the city and class members of a large judgment, increases in municipal bonding costs, related increases in taxes and disruption of services, which must await a final determination as to the rights of nonprotesters. Rochester v Chiarella, 121 Misc. 2d 595, 470 N.Y.S.2d 321, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3969 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), rev'd, 100 A.D.2d 46, 473 N.Y.S.2d 87, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16977 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1984).

10. —Payment of equitable claims

Under subdivision 5 of this section authorizing cities to pay or compromise equitable claims, there is no basis for a holding that the compensation is to be limited to claimant's outlay, excluding customary profit. Rather is it measured by a fair and reasonable value of his material and labor, which includes such profit as would be due him in an action on quantum meruit. Shaddock v Schwartz, 246 N.Y. 288, 158 N.E. 872, 246 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 288, 1927 N.Y. LEXIS 875 (N.Y. 1927).

An accountant is not entitled to a peremptory writ of mandamus requiring the corporation counsel to execute a certificate that he was the "prevailing party" in the mandamus proceeding to compel his reinstatement, setting forth the value of his counsel fees and other actual necessary expenses, because it is not a claim "equitably payable by the city." Goldschmidt v Hardy, 177 A.D. 547, 163 N.Y.S. 305, 1917 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5134 (N.Y. App. Div. 1917), aff'd, 223 N.Y. 575, 119 N.E. 1045, 223 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 575, 1918 N.Y. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. 1918).

Taxpayers, who did not protest the payment of real property taxes that were subsequently found to be excessive, were not entitled to a refund on the principle that a taxpayer is entitled to a refund for the payment of illegal taxes only if he can show that the payment was made under protest or was otherwise involuntarily made; the fact that there was a lien routinely created against the property by the city until the tax was paid was not the kind of duress that would make the tax payment involuntary so as to excuse the lack of formal protest. Rochester v Chiarella, 86 A.D.2d 110, 449 N.Y.S.2d 112, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15373 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 56 N.Y.2d 923, 453 N.Y.S.2d 431, 438 N.E.2d 1146, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3512 (N.Y. 1982), app. dismissed, 56 N.Y.2d 1031, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 6197 (N.Y. 1982), aff'd, 58 N.Y.2d 316, 461 N.Y.S.2d 244, 448 N.E.2d 98, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 2926 (N.Y. 1983).

An ordinance of a city authorizing refunds to all taxpayers who without protest paid unconstitutionally-levied real property taxes was not invalid or an unconstitutional violation of the prohibition against gifts by municipalities, since the ordinance did nothing more than recognize the claims of the nonprotestors as equitable claims and provide that any compromise with nonprotesters be limited to the amount available in the city's special fund for tax refunds and thus was a proper exercise of a legislative function of the city council, since nothing in the ordinance affected the legal claims of the protesters against the city that had been established prior to the enactment of the ordinance, and since when the only impediment to legal liability lies in a technical defect that bars an otherwise valid claim, a recognizable moral and equitable obligation arises on which a city may act. Rochester v Chiarella, 98 A.D.2d 8, 470 N.Y.S.2d 181, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20371 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 61 N.Y.2d 904, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7429 (N.Y. 1984), aff'd, 63 N.Y.2d 857, 482 N.Y.S.2d 270, 472 N.E.2d 46, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4656 (N.Y. 1984).

Under this section municipal corporations have power to recognize claims for work performed and materials furnished. In re Shaddock, 220 N.Y.S. 113, 128 Misc. 616, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 806 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 220 A.D. 470, 221 N.Y.S. 677, 1927 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9337 (N.Y. App. Div. 1927).

In the event it should be determined that the certificates of indebtedness are not legal obligations of the city, their payment is a moral obligation of the city and, under subdivision 5 of this section, claims may be paid or compromised. Rondout Sav. Bank v Kingston, 259 N.Y.S. 30, 144 Misc. 880, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1185 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

The city has a right to pay or compromise claims equitably payable by the city though such claims be not legally binding on the city. Blazejewski v Eckert, 3 N.Y.S.2d 87, 166 Misc. 716, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1390 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1938).

11. —Waiver of statute of limitations

Subdivision 5 is inapplicable in an action against the city of New York for personal injuries sustained by reason of slippery condition of sidewalk brought one year after the injury occurred where the city did not plead the defense of the statute of limitations in the answer or move to amend at the trial. Reilley v New York, 298 N.Y. 710, 83 N.E.2d 12, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 710, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 1272 (N.Y. 1948).

The prohibition in subd. 5 of this section against waiver of a defense of limitations is directed to statutory limitations, not those contained in a contract; and accordingly a contractor was not estopped to assert that a board of education waived a contract provision requiring any action or claim to be filed within one year from acceptance of the work. Planet Constr. Corp. v Board of Education, 7 N.Y.2d 381, 198 N.Y.S.2d 68, 165 N.E.2d 758, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1429 (N.Y. 1960).

Although a city lacks the power to waive the Statute of Limitations (General City Law, § 20, subd 5), it is not otherwise precluded from granting an extension. John J. Kassner & Co. v New York, 46 N.Y.2d 544, 415 N.Y.S.2d 785, 389 N.E.2d 99, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 1875 (N.Y. 1979).

An audit of claim by the common council of city within one year before the action was commenced did not waive the statute of limitations. George C. Diehl, C. E., Inc. v Lackawanna, 233 A.D. 348, 252 N.Y.S. 838, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11289 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931), aff'd, 258 N.Y. 579, 180 N.E. 340, 258 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 579, 1932 N.Y. LEXIS 1246 (N.Y. 1932).

A claim was filed by petitioners with N. Y. C. Commissioners of Appraisal concerning real property rights affected by the City's diversion of water (Title K of the N. Y. C. Administrative Code). The Commissioners took some testimony but discontinued on the ground that the statute of limitations had run on the claim. But Special Term directed that the hearing be resumed. It thought the statute of limitations had been waived. Held the city could not waive the statute of limitations. So the matter was referred to Special Term to determine whether the City's alleged failure to comply with statutory procedure tolled the statute of limitations. Application of Huie, 7 A.D.2d 599, 185 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8842 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1959).

A city ordinance authorizing the payment of refunds to taxpayers who without protest paid unconstitutionally-levied real property taxes did not violate the prohibition in Gen City Law § 20 against waiver of the defense of the statute of limitations, since the nonprotesting taxpayers never had legally enforceable claims that could be subjected to a statute of limitations defense. Moreover, a challenge to a tax statute alleged to be unconstitutional may be treated as a plenary action for money had and received for which the applicable limitations period is 6 years and a counterclaim of nonprotesting taxpayers was interposed within that time period and thus was timely. Rochester v Chiarella, 98 A.D.2d 8, 470 N.Y.S.2d 181, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20371 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 61 N.Y.2d 904, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7429 (N.Y. 1984), aff'd, 63 N.Y.2d 857, 482 N.Y.S.2d 270, 472 N.E.2d 46, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4656 (N.Y. 1984).

The city has no authority to waive the provisions of the 20-year statute of limitations contained in § 44 of the Civil Practice Act. Application of Long Island R. Co., 22 N.Y.S.2d 706, 174 Misc. 1037, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2202 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 261 A.D. 914, 25 N.Y.S.2d 1005, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

By the specific provisions of this section the city has no power to waive the defense of the statute of limitations Farrell v New York, 98 N.Y.S.2d 56, 197 Misc. 1059, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1735 (N.Y. App. Term 1950).

In view of the strong public policy against payment by public bodies of claims barred by the statute of limitations, the acknowledgment of the debt by the city department after the statute of limitations had run was an impermissible waiver of the statute of limitations and it was error to deny the motion to dismiss the complaint. 35 Park Ave., Inc. v New York, 64 Misc. 2d 418, 315 N.Y.S.2d 205, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1509 (N.Y. App. Term 1969).

The one-year, 90-day period within which to serve a complaint pursuant to Gen Mun Law § 50-i(1)(c) constitutes a statute of limitations rather than a condition precedent to suit and must be asserted by a defendant municipality by a motion to dismiss prior to answer or as a specific affirmative defense in the answer and a municipality which does neither must be deemed to have waived the defense, since no compelling reason or authority has been found for treating a municipality differently from other litigants, and the court is without authority sua sponte to deem the defense included in a municipality's answer. Eagle Ins. Co. v New York (New York City Health & Hospitals Corp.), 120 Misc. 2d 188, 466 N.Y.S.2d 134, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3689 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1983).

In action to challenge constitutionality of CLS Civ S §§ 50(7) and 50-a and to create special eligible list, court would reject argument by defendant city department of personnel that, pursuant to CLS Gen City § 20(5), it could not waive statute of limitations for action by failure to assert defense in answer, since statute expressly applied to money claims and no such claim was made by plaintiffs. Mancuso v Levitt, 154 Misc. 2d 252, 585 N.Y.S.2d 164, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 254 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992), app. dismissed, 201 A.D.2d 386, 607 N.Y.S.2d 353, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1359 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

A proceeding to recover moneys due city employees as their military pay differential may not be maintained where they did not pursue their remedy within the period of 4 months. Although this limitation period was waived, no written protest was filed Russo v Bingham, 106 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2251 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

The effect of the amendments to § 208-f of the General Municipal Law, Chapter 415 of Laws of 1982 and Chapter 348 of Laws of 1989, is to permit the special accidental death benefit to be paid to the deceased member's children under the age of 18 in both the situation where the deceased member is divorced at the time of his death and in the situation where the deceased member's spouse predeceases him. Further § 5 of Chapter 415 of the Laws of 1982 provided that payments to the children of deceased member may be made retroactive to September 1, 1978. While it appears that claims of eligible children, either retroactive from September 1, 1978 or thereafter, may be subject to a municipality obligation to interpose an appropriately statute of limitations defense, it should be noted that the 4 month statute of limitations contained in CPLR § 217 (subject to tolling for infancy), which would be applicable to the Article 78 proceeding in the nature of mandamus to compel payment, would not begin to run until there was a demand and a refusal, although a claim may be barred by laches even where no demand has been made if the claimant unreasonably delays in making the appropriate demand. 1990 Op St Compt 90-43.

Statute as it pertains to waiver of the statute of limitations does not encourage or permit a municipal attorney to stand as a barrier to a plaintiff filing a legitimate claim against a city. Dacosta v City of New York, 296 F. Supp. 3d 569, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 185306 (E.D.N.Y. 2017).

12. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of streets, parks, sewers and the like (subd. 7)

In the construction of an extension of its waterworks system, a city performed a function necessary for the preservation of public health and safety and hence the complaint of the waterworks corporation to recover the costs of protecting and relocating its facilities in the streets where city planned to install facilities for distribution of city-owned water should be dismissed. Jamaica Water Supply Co. v New York, 304 N.Y. 917, 110 N.E.2d 739, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 917, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 1097 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 305 N.Y. 560, 111 N.E.2d 437, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 560, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 1150 (N.Y. 1953).

New York City Corporation Counsel has no authority to originate policy regarding installation of bins on city streets for distribution of free publication; City Council is proper legislative body of City of New York in this substantive area (New York City Charter § 27(d)) and Board of Estimate holds exclusive implementing authority with respect to use of city property (New York City Charter § 67(1) and § 362). New York v American School Publications, Inc., 69 N.Y.2d 576, 516 N.Y.S.2d 616, 509 N.E.2d 311, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16369 (N.Y. 1987).

Although authorized to install street lighting by CLS Gen City § 20, municipality generally is required to do so only in certain situations where it is necessary to keep street safe, i.e., where there is defect or some unusual condition rendering street unsafe to traveling public; duty to maintain existing streetlights is similarly limited to those situations in which illumination is necessary to avoid dangerous and potentially hazardous conditions. Thompson v New York, 78 N.Y.2d 682, 578 N.Y.S.2d 507, 585 N.E.2d 819, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5147 (N.Y. 1991).

Pedestrian's claim that light bulb had burned out in street lighting fixture was not, standing alone, sufficient to establish cause of action against city for failure to maintain streetlight by replacing bulb; pedestrian was obliged to show that, by failing to replace bulb, city created dangerous condition on street, which she failed to do given fact that street and nearby intersection were merely busy at times, which was condition existing at many city intersections. Thompson v New York, 78 N.Y.2d 682, 578 N.Y.S.2d 507, 585 N.E.2d 819, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5147 (N.Y. 1991).

In action against city, pedestrian could have been entitled to damages from injuries resulting from traffic accident, without having to establish "special relationship" between herself and city, had she proved that street which she was crossing was not reasonably safe due to failure to replace streetlight bulb. Thompson v New York, 78 N.Y.2d 682, 578 N.Y.S.2d 507, 585 N.E.2d 819, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5147 (N.Y. 1991).

By virtue of Home Rule Bill (Article 2-A) a taxpayer may maintain an action to restrain the making of a contract for paving street and for laying water lines therein, on the ground that the proceedings are illegal official acts affecting the funds of city, and an injunction granted in the action will be continued. Gibbs v Luther, 143 N.Y.S. 90, 81 Misc. 611, 1913 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1214 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 158 A.D. 951, 143 N.Y.S. 1118, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7649 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913).

This section does not authorize a permanent or habitual obstruction of, or incumbrance upon, a public sidewalk. Hofeler v Buck, 180 N.Y.S. 563, 110 Misc. 402, 1920 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1152 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 193 A.D. 262, 184 N.Y.S. 210, 1920 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5538 (N.Y. App. Div. 1920).

The common council of Schenectady had the power to install sanitary or storm sewers. In re Schenectady Sewer Assessment, 236 N.Y.S. 455, 134 Misc. 810, 1929 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1240 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1929).

When written notice is given to municipal office which holds itself out as competent to investigate and resolve maintenance problems, purpose of municipality's prior notice statute has been met, and negligence action may proceed. Gilmore v City of Rochester, 163 Misc. 2d 660, 622 N.Y.S.2d 189, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

New York City could include, in contracts for public infrastructure work, specification requiring successful bidder to commence immediate negotiations with affected utility companies regarding compensation for contractor's performance of necessary utility "interference work" and further providing that, if no agreement was reached by 4 weeks after award of contract, dispute with utility company would be submitted to expedited binding arbitration; challenged specification was valid bidding "precondition" which did not impede competition. General Contrs. Ass'n v Tormenta, 180 Misc. 2d 384, 687 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 126 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 259 A.D.2d 177, 696 N.Y.S.2d 155, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10501 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Subdivision 7 clearly negatives any intention on the part of the legislature to confer, under subdivision 2, the power to acquire a water distribution system owned and operated by a water works corporation by a city of over 1,000,000 inhabitants. In re New York Water Service Corp., 67 N.Y.S.2d 850, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3316 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd, 271 A.D. 1019, 69 N.Y.S.2d 508, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5676 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

Underground use of parkland for water treatment plant may be approved by city without need for ratification by state legislature, even though state cites common-law doctrine against alienation of parkland and Gen City §§ 20(2) and (7), and construction of plant will require disruption of park use, because parkland available for public use will not be reduced when project is completed. United States v City of New York, 96 F. Supp. 2d 195, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6512 (E.D.N.Y. 2000).

13. —Alienation of land held for parks

Under "public trust doctrine," New York City was required to obtain state legislative approval for its proposed use of dedicated parkland (Moshulu Golf Course in Van Cortlandt Park) as water treatment plant, although plant would be substantially underground and park surfaces would be fully restored following construction, where 28 acres of parkland would be closed to public for at least 5 years during construction; because Court of Appeals reached its conclusion as matter of common law, it did not address CLS Gen City § 20. Friends of Van Cortlandt Park v City of New York, 95 N.Y.2d 623, 727 N.Y.S.2d 2, 750 N.E.2d 1050, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2001).

The inalienability of parks provided for in subdivision 2 is not affected by subdivision 7. In re Central Parkway, Schenectady, 251 N.Y.S. 577, 140 Misc. 727, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1463 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

Second-class city had no claim against State for the value of park lands appropriated for thruway purposes where the city had purchased the land for park purposes and held it in trust as an agency of the State for the use of the public. Schenectady v State, 6 Misc. 2d 232, 162 N.Y.S.2d 262, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3104 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1957), app. dismissed, 9 A.D.2d 851, 194 N.Y.S.2d 445, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6081 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1959).

Where land was conveyed to city for park purposes, subsequent erroneous assessment of land in name or another was invalid, and tax foreclosure sale deed to such property by city was void and would be set aside. Rochester v Carnahan, 57 Misc. 2d 704, 293 N.Y.S.2d 479, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 959 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

Because a contract between a city and an "occupy" group clearly and unambiguously permitted the city to deny any renewal, and because a city code prohibiting overnight camping without a permit complied with the public trust doctrine in N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(2) and did not violate the group's free speech rights, it was constitutional, therefore, the group was not entitled to a preliminary injunction under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 6301. Miller-Jacobson v City of Rochester, 941 N.Y.S.2d 475, 35 Misc. 3d 846, 2012 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1462 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2012).

14. Control and regulation of waterfront, docks and other facilities (subd. 8)

While ordinarily a city's jurisdiction is limited to the territory within its boundaries, as set forth in its charter, it appears that pursuant to § 20 subdivision 8 of the General City Law, the state has delegated to cities the power to control and administer the waterfront. People v McGuire, 63 Misc. 2d 639, 313 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1439 (N.Y. City Ct. 1970).

Municipal code provision providing that no person was permitted to use any surfboard in the waters adjacent to a beach park without having first obtained a license therefor from the city clerk was constitutional and a proper exercise of the police power by the city. People v McGuire, 63 Misc. 2d 639, 313 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1439 (N.Y. City Ct. 1970).

In Article 78 proceeding, court dismissed claim that Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) was required prior to authorization of construction of one-family house on waterfront property pursuant to NYC Charter § 193-c, where ULURP review was required only if application involved "waterfront landfills," rational basis existed for city planning commission to interpret "waterfront landfills" to mean addition of fill materials to land below mean high water line, and documentary evidence established that any land-fill needed to complete construction of house would be above mean high water line. Coppotelli v Commissioner of the Dep't of Bldgs., 169 Misc. 2d 888, 646 N.Y.S.2d 773, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 286 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996), aff'd, 240 A.D.2d 666, 659 N.Y.S.2d 997, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6829 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

CLS Gen City § 20(8) does not grant cities power to include in lease of city piers restrictive covenant preventing any competitor from also leasing municipal pier, and because of breadth of regulatory authority conferred on cities with respect to waterfront operation and regulation by statute, no state action defense exists for city in action alleging anti-trust violations. Driscoll v New York, 650 F. Supp. 1522, 1987 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 132 (S.D.N.Y. 1987).

15. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of bridges, tunnels and ferries (subd. 9)

The construction and maintenance of a bridge within the city is a governmental function and the obligation of city is to use reasonable care in construction and maintenance so that the bridge will be reasonably safe for public travel. Rickhold v Niagara Falls, 213 A.D. 451, 210 N.Y.S. 676, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8513 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925).

Under this section city had power to cause the construction of toll bridge and tunnels. Robia Holding Corp. v Walker, 239 N.Y.S. 659, 136 Misc. 358, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1004 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 230 A.D. 666, 246 N.Y.S. 210, 1930 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8714 (N.Y. App. Div. 1930).

Protocol issued by New York City Department of Transportation Bureau of Bridges, governing removal of lead paint on bridges owned by city, was subject to mandatory environmental review under State Environmental Quality Review Act (CLS ECL Art 8); sandblasting, which spews clouds of paint particles and fine lead dust into surrounding atmosphere, is encompassed by 6 NYCRR § 617.11. Williamsburg Around the Bridge Block Ass'n v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 980, 637 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 631 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 223 A.D.2d 64, 644 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Protocol issued by New York City Department of Transportation Bureau of Bridges, governing removal of lead paint on bridges owned by city, was subject to mandatory environmental review under New York City Environmental Quality Review (former 43 RCNY ch 6; 62 RCNY, ch 5, Appendix A), as sandblasting which spews clouds of lead paint particles into atmosphere, creates "hazard" to human health within purview of 42 RCNY § 6-06(a). Williamsburg Around the Bridge Block Ass'n v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 980, 637 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 631 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 223 A.D.2d 64, 644 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Protocol issued by New York City Department of Transportation Bureau of Bridges, governing removal of lead paint on bridges owned by city, was not exempt from environmental review under State Environmental Quality Review Act pursuant to 6 NYCRR § 617.3(j), on ground that it involved "maintenance or repair" under 6 NYCRR § 617.2(q)(3), as maintenance and repair refers to routine and ordinary maintenance and repairs on existing facilities, and sandblasting that would spew clouds of lead paint particles into atmosphere was not routine or ordinary; furthermore, protocol concededly applied to major rehabilitation projects, and thus went beyond maintenance or repair. Williamsburg Around the Bridge Block Ass'n v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 980, 637 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 631 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 223 A.D.2d 64, 644 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Protocol issued by New York City Department of Transportation Bureau of Bridges, governing removal of lead paint on bridges owned by city, was not subject to City Administrative Procedure Act (NY City Charter ch 45 §§ 1041 et seq.) which requires certain procedures for adoption of rules; protocol was not "rule" in that it did not govern conduct of public or regulate private behavior, but established rules for city's own behavior, which was subject to environmental review procedures. Williamsburg Around the Bridge Block Ass'n v Giuliani, 167 Misc. 2d 980,

637 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 631 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd, 223 A.D.2d 64, 644 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

16. Franchises for use of public ways and places (subd. 10)

In municipalities other than New York City, cable franchises are granted by the town board, village board of trustees, or the common council of the city, as required by N.Y. Town Law § 64(7), N.Y. Village Law § 4-412(6), N.Y. Gen. City Law §§ 20(10) and 23(2)(b), and N.Y. Second Class Cities Law § 37, respectively; in New York City, however, the City Charter requires that the New York City Franchise and Concession Review Committee (FCRC) approve franchises and explicitly bars any participation by the Council after the Council passes an authorizing resolution. Thus, the FCRC was the body with authority to approve cable franchise renewals and the New York Public Service Commission's regulation did not require or authorize the additional approval of the Council. Council of N.Y. v PSC, 99 N.Y.2d 64, 751 N.Y.S.2d 822, 781 N.E.2d 886, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3371 (N.Y. 2002).

Presumed constitutionality of NYC Local Law No. 115, which prohibits commuter vans from dropping off and picking up passengers on bus routes and requires all commuter van passenger service to be prearranged, was not overcome where it bears rational relationship to legitimate governmental purposes of regulating transportation modalities and preventing conditions dangerous to public welfare. Ricketts v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 245, 722 N.Y.S.2d 25, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2445 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 897, 730 N.Y.S.2d 793, 756 N.E.2d 81, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1949 (N.Y. 2001), app. dismissed, 98 N.Y.2d 692, 747 N.Y.S.2d 409, 775 N.E.2d 1289, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1991 (N.Y. 2002).

In an action to restrain the mayor of Oswego from signing a resolution revoking prior consent given plaintiff to operate motor buses in streets after consent had been given for ten years without reservation of power to revoke, consent did not require formal acceptance and acceptance was shown by application to public service commission for certificate of convenience and necessity, purchase of motor bus and bus route. Granting of said consent was not subject to provisions of § 23, subdivision 2, and it was properly granted under Transportation Corporations Law, § 26, and subdivisions 10 and 23 of this section. Colonial Motor Coach Corp. v Oswego, 215 N.Y.S. 159, 126 Misc. 829, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 888 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 217 A.D. 816, 217 N.Y.S. 907, 1926 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9081 (N.Y. App. Div. 1926), aff'd, 220 A.D. 809, 222 N.Y.S. 789, 1927 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10487 (N.Y. App. Div. 1927).

It was within the power of the common council to grant a franchise to operate a community antenna television system. People's Cable Corp. v Rochester, 70 Misc. 2d 763, 334 N.Y.S.2d 972, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1924 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972), aff'd, 41 A.D.2d 585, 340 N.Y.S.2d 883, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5373 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

The operation of a limousine corporation's bus line over the streets of the City of New York requires the approval of both the State Commissioner of Transportation and the City of New York. New York v Long Island Airports Limousine Service Corp., 110 Misc. 2d 338, 442 N.Y.S.2d 365, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3088 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981), modified, 91 A.D.2d 1149, 458 N.Y.S.2d 751, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16490 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

17. Construction of public buildings and works and assessment of costs (subd. 11)

Where the common council of a city is given general power to make public improvements and to assess the cost on property benefited, in the absence of regulatory legislation methods and procedures are within the council's discretion and it may proceed by special ordinance without prior enactment of a general ordinance covering all such instances. In re Improvement of Constr. of Lateral Sewer, 24 Misc. 2d 618, 194 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2772 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

Despite provision of contract governing reimbursement of water company by city for relocation of mains and hydrants in the event of the change of grade of the city street, that interest should be payable at six percent, under this section interest could not exceed three percent. New Rochelle Water Co. v New Rochelle, 48 Misc. 2d 301, 264 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1387 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Where city instigated request for widening and changing of grade of road located within city, city was liable to water company for relocation of water mains and hydrants pursuant to contract between city and water company, notwithstanding that actual construction work on road was done by state. New Rochelle Water Co. v New Rochelle, 48 Misc. 2d 301, 264 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1387 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

18. Fire prevention and firefighting (subds. 12 and 12-a)

In action arising from fire which damaged plaintiff's property, court properly dismissed cause of action against city based on its alleged failure to allocate sufficient resources for its fire department, as city's decision concerning allocation of those resources did not provide proper predicate for tort liability. Page v City of Niagara Falls, 277 A.D.2d 1047, 716 N.Y.S.2d 173, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11409 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

A Municipal ordinance restricting the erection of buildings within certain fire limits is not a zoning restriction but is a measure for fire prevention. People ex rel. Barker v Elkin, 80 N.Y.S.2d 525, 196 Misc. 188, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2606 (N.Y. Spec. Sess. 1948).

To extent that there is inconsistency between provisions of New York City Administrative Code related to "explosives" and "fireworks" and Fire Department rules which classify fireworks in same category as explosives in terms of storage and transportation, code takes precedence. Bay Fireworks v City of New York, 173 Misc. 2d 396, 661 N.Y.S.2d 731, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 308 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 251 A.D.2d 359, 674 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6621 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Petitioners, who contended that they were transporting "fireworks" to be used for legitimate fireworks displays and not "explosives," were entitled to preliminary injunctive relief in action challenging city's detention and seizure of their property pursuant to 3 RCNY § 40-07(e)(i), requiring fire department escort, as city's administrative code provisions relating to fireworks and explosives did not require escort, requiring escort resulted in charge for passing through city and thus impinged on intrastate and interstate commerce, and no rational basis was shown for fire department rule. Bay Fireworks v City of New York, 173 Misc. 2d 396, 661 N.Y.S.2d 731, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 308 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 251 A.D.2d 359, 674 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6621 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Fire chief did not have authority under city charter to order firefighters to patrol streets from 6:00 a.m. to 8:00 a.m. on school days in order to assist police in effort to combat rash of rapes of school children, because such patrols could not be seen in any way as "incidental or necessary to protection of life and property during fires and other emergencies," as charter dictated. Rochester Fire Fighters Ass'n, Local 1071 v Griffith, 175 Misc. 2d 977, 671 N.Y.S.2d 593, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 72 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

19. Enforcement of laws and regulation and licensing of businesses (subd. 13)

In the exercise of police power, while the fundamental rule must be observed that there is some evil existent or reasonably to be apprehended which the police power may be invoked to prevent and that the remedy proposed must be generally adapted to the purpose, the limit upon conditions held to come within this rule has been greatly enlarged. The power is not limited to regulations designed to promote public health, public morals or public safety or to the suppression of what is offensive, disorderly or unsanitary but extends to so dealing with conditions which exist as to bring out of them the greatest welfare of the people by promoting public convenience or general prosperity. Wulfsohn v Burden, 241 N.Y. 288, 150 N.E. 120, 241 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 288, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 551 (N.Y. 1925).

An undertaker is not a "professional" person, but a business man, and conducts a business within the meaning of this section. Bond v Cooke, 237 A.D. 229, 262 N.Y.S. 199, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5316 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

The trial court improperly dismissed an Article 78 proceeding by an ex-offender against a city building commissioner and others to review the commissioner's determination denying petitioner's application for a license to operate a rooming house, since, though conviction of a criminal offense can be the basis for denial of a license pursuant to Correc Law § 752(1) if there is a direct relationship between the offense and the specific license sought, and though petitioner's conviction for third degree burglary could arguably have a direct bearing on his responsibility as a rooming house operator to safeguard the facility's occupants and their possessions, respondents failed to produce any evidence to rebut the statutory presumption of rehabilitation that arose from the certificate of good conduct that petitioner had received pursuant to Correc Law § 753(2), since the commissioner's reliance on Correc Law § 753(1)(h), which requires that licensing agencies consider the legitimate interest of the agency in protecting property and the safety and welfare of specific individuals or the general public, was undermined by the fact that petitioner had obtained a license to drive a taxi from the public safety commissioner, and since, though petitioner's conviction could be the basis for a license denial pursuant to Correc Law § 752(2) if the issuance of the license would involve an unreasonable risk to property or to the safety or welfare of specific individuals or the general public, there were no facts to support the commissioner's contention that petitioner, by virtue of his association with a program for ex-offenders, would show a predilection for renting to such persons and that this would create a security risk to the surrounding community. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

A city building commissioner improperly denied an application for a license to operate a rooming house on the asserted ground that the applicant had previously been convicted and fined for violations of the municipal building code and of the city's rooming house licensing and regulatory ordinance, since municipalities may not deny such a license based upon an applicant's past violations of local zoning ordinances in that adequate civil and criminal sanctions exist for enforcement of such ordinances, and since the record did not reveal whether there were any outstanding violations that the applicant had failed to correct or was unwilling to correct within a reasonable period of time. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

Court in Article 78 proceeding erred in granting taxi driver whose license was revoked new administrative hearing at which his licensing records had to be produced and considered, since licensing records were sought in support of driver's claim of discriminatory enforcement of disciplinary scheme by respondent licensing authority, and such claim cannot be raised in administrative hearing. Cannon v Urlacher, 155 A.D.2d 906, 547 N.Y.S.2d 495, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14750 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Claim of discriminatory enforcement of disciplinary scheme by licensing authority cannot be raised at administrative hearing but must be submitted to court in Article 78 proceeding. Cannon v Urlacher, 155 A.D.2d 906, 547 N.Y.S.2d 495, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14750 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

New York City Department of Consumer Affairs correctly concluded that second inspection of parking garage within 6-month period was proper, even though department's regulations provided that such inspections would be conducted "at least once in every 2-year period" and that additional inspections would be conducted if violations had been revealed or department had received information alleging violation, since discretionary inspections were not limited to 2 situations set forth in regulation. 400 East 54th Street Garage Corp. v Green, 179 A.D.2d 452, 578 N.Y.S.2d 190, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 180 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Hearing examiner properly denied petitioner's request for adjournment of taxi driver's license revocation hearing so that he could go on family trip on basis that adjournment would be too disruptive of orderly administrative processes; thus, rational basis existed for respondent's refusal to vacate administrative finding made against petitioner in hearing at which he was not present. Bungeroth v New York City Taxi & Limousine Comm'n, 222 A.D.2d 221, 634 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12541 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 809, 642 N.Y.S.2d 195, 664 N.E.2d 1258, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 255 (N.Y. 1996).

The power to regulate and license occupations and businesses conferred by subd. 13 of this section includes power to regulate and license taxicabs, but any such regulation must be for the real and substantial protection of public health, safety, and welfare. People v Chimino, 39 Misc. 2d 555, 241 N.Y.S.2d 759, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2003 (N.Y. City Ct. 1963).

The provision of a city ordinance defining an amusement arcade as a place having four or more coin-operated amusement devices is not violative of equal protection; the provision prohibiting persons under age 16 from being in an amusement arcade during school hours is not lacking a rational basis and does not infringe First Amendment rights; the absence of formulated licensing standards in the ordinance does not render it unconstitutional; the $75 licensing fee for each device located in an arcade is not excessive; however, the provision prohibiting the operation of amusement devices between the hours of 11 p.m. and 10 a.m. bears no rational relationship to the purpose of the ordinance and is invalid. Pecoraro v Buffalo, 112 Misc. 2d 985, 447 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3227 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

Defendant taxicab drivers' motion to dismiss actions charging them with violations of a municipal ordinance requiring that they be licensed prior to entering New York City would be dismissed, since the New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission may not require that limousine vehicles and drivers from beyond the boundaries of New York City be licensed by the commission prior to entering the city, since a vehicle not plying for hire, but rather operating solely in response to previous engagements, need not be licensed, and since the placing of an advertisement in the New York City telephone book and the occasional dropping off or picking up of a passenger within city limits is not sufficient to place a non-New York City limousine driver within the commission's licensing jurisdiction. People v Lopez, 117 Misc. 2d 575, 458 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3188 (N.Y. Crim. Ct. 1983), rev'd, 126 Misc. 2d 714, 486 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3692 (N.Y. App. Term 1984).

In dispute over issuance of notices of violations by New York City Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) in response to complaints of excessive noise at petitioners' nightclub, Environmental Control Board (ECB) had rational basis to grant DEP extension of time to appeal from administrative law judge's decision dismissing notices of violation where, at time of DEP's request, there was no rule governing extensions of time to appeal, and it was ECB's long-standing policy to extend time to appeal if request was made within 30-day limit to file appeal. Reminisce Bar & Lounge v City of New York Dep't of Envtl. Protection, 178 Misc. 2d 640, 680 N.Y.S.2d 143, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

In contempt proceeding arising from action under Nuisance Abatement Law (NYC Admin Code §§ 7-701 et seq.) wherein court reimposed closure provision of prior judgment due to defendants' continuing operation of adult establishment in C4 zoning district in violation of New York City zoning resolution § 32-01(a), city's motion for forfeiture of undertaking was denied without prejudice to renew, where there was no evidence of damage caused to city by reason of defendants' failure to abate nuisance and there was insufficient evidence that defendants engaged in conduct that would warrant holding them in contempt of court or subjecting them to penalties authorized by administrative code. City of New York v Wiggles, 178 Misc. 2d 1007, 682 N.Y.S.2d 824, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 570 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

20. —Particular licensing requirements

Plaintiff's salesmen, as an inducement to purchasers of their merchandise, agree that a portion of the purchase price shall go to some designated charity, are engaged in soliciting money, donations or financial assistance within the meaning of an ordinance of New York city forbidding solicitation of money, donations or financial assistance of any kind "upon the streets or in public places" in that city except upon a license issued by the commissioner of public welfare. Madison Products Co. v Coler, 242 N.Y. 467, 152 N.E. 264, 242 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 467, 1926 N.Y. LEXIS 1005 (N.Y. 1926).

A domestic corporation, which maintains a pasteurizing plant and pasteurizes milk in the city of Buffalo, but has never applied for license to sell milk in the city of Niagara Falls, as required by the ordinance of that city, is not in a position to question the validity of an ordinance forbidding the sale or offer for sale of pasteurized milk or cream within the city unless the same shall have been pasteurized therein. It should first apply to local authorities for a license or permit to sell its milk products and, if such application is unreasonably refused, it will then have a remedy by mandamus. Lang's Creamery, Inc. v Niagara Falls, 251 N.Y. 343, 167 N.E. 464, 251 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 343, 1929 N.Y. LEXIS 729 (N.Y. 1929).

The power to make and enforce requirements preliminary to the operation of a boarding house, that every boarding house must obtain a license and permit from the board of health and pay a fee therefor before it can operate, is confirmed by legislative grant. Baddour v Long Beach, 279 N.Y. 167, 18 N.E.2d 18, 279 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 167, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 814 (N.Y. 1938), reh'g denied, 279 N.Y. 794, 19 N.E.2d 90, 279 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 794, 1939 N.Y. LEXIS 960 (N.Y. 1939).

Although a city under its charter may license an exhibition of moving pictures, it cannot, in absence of statutory authority, pass or enforce an ordinance punishing by fine and imprisonment a person who gives such exhibition on Sunday. People ex rel. Kieley v Lent, 166 A.D. 550, 152 N.Y.S. 18, 1915 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7300 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 215 N.Y. 626, 109 N.E. 1088, 215 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 626, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 1045 (N.Y. 1915).

A city ordinance enacted under city charter and purporting to regulate the sale of certain soft drinks, is enacted in pursuance of general authority and, therefore, may be opposed as unreasonable, but, in requiring that one conducting a place for sale of soft drinks shall secure a license from mayor, in prohibiting business during certain hours, in providing for inspection and taking of samples of beverages kept for sale, and in providing a penalty for violations, is constitutional and a valid exercise of the police power. Safee v Buffalo, 204 A.D. 561, 198 N.Y.S. 646, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9521 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

The police chief of the City of Rochester, who is empowered by the City Code to issue amusement licenses for "public places of amusement" after he certifies that the premises wherein the particular amusement is to be held comply with the provisions of the City Code and any "orders, rules or regulations" which the commissioner of public safety "may deem necessary", improperly refused to grant an amusement license for petitioner's restaurant and bar without a hearing based upon a police report that illegal gambling activities had taken place on the premises and that "members of organized crime" frequented the premises. Petitioner is entitled to a clear statement of the reasons for denial and a fair opportunity to refute the allegations since reasons assigned for denial tend to stigmatize petitioner and his place of business. Carroll v Hastings, 64 A.D.2d 843, 407 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12703 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978).

The city was entitled to revoke without a hearing a new Special Rigger license which had been issued to petitioner after the trial court granted his Article 78 petition for an order restraining the Department of Buildings from revoking his license without first affording him a hearing, where the trial court had subsequently been reversed by the Court of Appeals which found that proper notice of a hearing had been given and where the new license was merely a reissuance of the old license based on the trial court's determination. Dunrite Painting Co. v Fruchtman, 81 A.D.2d 544, 438 N.Y.S.2d 319, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11014 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981).

A city building commissioner improperly denied an application for a license to operate a rooming house on the asserted ground that the applicant had obtained a certificate of occupancy that limited the premises to single-family use, so that reconversion of the building into a rooming house would violate the applicable building code safety requirements for fireproof construction, since the ordinance that required fireproof construction of rooming houses was inapplicable to the subject application in that it applied only to those rooming houses that were "constructed or put into operation" after 1976, and the premises in question had been built several decades before that, since the standards governing the granting of licenses must be applied equitably to all applicants, and a rooming house operation license had been granted to the building's previous owner without reference to the fireproof construction requirement, since the applicant's application for the single-family certificate of occupancy had been made at the behest of the building commissioner after the applicant's first license application had been rejected and had expressly stated that it was being filed under protest and that the use of the house as a one-family dwelling would not be deemed to be a waiver of rooming house use in the event issuance of a rooming house license was later ordered, so that the application for a single-family certificate of occupancy did not constitute an abandonment of the building's use as a rooming house so as to render the fire construction ordinance applicable. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

Hearing officer improperly received in evidence results of polygraph test administered to petitioner where there had been no proper foundation to establish reliability of particular machine used, its proper functioning on day test was given, and qualifications of person who administered test to petitioner; however, erroneous reception of evidence did not require annulment of administrative determination revoking petitioner's taxicab license and hack plate since, apart from polygraph test results, determination was supported by substantial evidence. Bezuneh v Urlacher, 149 A.D.2d 944, 540 N.Y.S.2d 76, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Challenge to revocation of taxi driver's license did not establish prima facie case of discriminatory enforcement where driver (who admitted that he submitted vouchers for substantial overcharges to county and had lengthy record of traffic, taxi and parking code violations) offered only vague and conclusory statements that other taxi drivers and hack plate owners had committed crimes and had not been subjected to penalties as severe. Cannon v Urlacher, 155 A.D.2d 906, 547 N.Y.S.2d 495, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14750 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Determination of Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) denying petitioner's application for license to operate newsstand was not arbitrary or capricious where newsstand for which license was sought was 12 feet wide by 6 feet deep, to be situated on sidewalk 20 feet, 6 inches wide, and Department of Transportation (DOT) would not grant approval for clear path less than 13 feet, 6 inches, which was desired clear path for newsstands on sidewalks wider than 19 feet pursuant to Guideline Booklet for Newsstands, since DCA could not issue license pursuant to NYC Admin Code § 20-231(c) in absence of DOT clear path approval. Hajovsky v New York, 171 A.D.2d 507, 567 N.Y.S.2d 234, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3457 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991).

Respondent's determination, revoking petitioner's taxi driver's license, was supported by substantial evidence that petitioner overcharged passengers by running fast meter, in violation of NYC Admin Code § 19-507(a)(3), and Article 78 petition was properly dismissed, where complainants testified that they took same cab ride numerous times in past and were charged fare considerably less than fare charged by petitioner, and that they observed petitioner's meter and believed that it was running very fast. Bungeroth v New York City Taxi & Limousine Comm'n, 222 A.D.2d 221, 634 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12541 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 809, 642 N.Y.S.2d 195, 664 N.E.2d 1258, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 255 (N.Y. 1996).

NYC Admin Code § 20-360, which requires that catering establishments be licensed, is law of general application and thus is not preempted by Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. Cowgirl, Inc. v Department of Consumer Affairs, 234 A.D.2d 42, 650 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12284 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Sole shareholder of taxicab company, who was charged with production of counterfeit "condition corrected" receipts and explicitly named as preparer of such receipts, had sufficient notice and opportunity to be heard with respect to fraud charge against company so as to permit New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission, on finding company guilty of knowingly submitting fraudulent condition corrected receipts, to require him to divest himself of all remaining taxicab medallions owned through his solely-owned corporations. King Victor Taxi Corp. v New York City Taxi & Limousine Comm'n, 236 A.D.2d 325, 654 N.Y.S.2d 358, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1681 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

In denying renewal of cabaret license on ground that petitioner was in violation of NYC Admin Code § 20-361(a)(6) and RCNY § 2-202 and thus unfit to hold license, Department of Consumer Affairs did not improperly rely on events that were also subject of then-pending unresolved civil nuisance proceeding, including events which occurred after expiration petitioner's license, as license renewal applicant is required to provide information about events occurring subsequent to date of its renewal application. Stuart Cromwell, Inc. v Hoffman, 283 A.D.2d 333, 724 N.Y.S.2d 420, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5379 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

The city council of Long Beach has power to enact an ordinance regulating and licensing hawkers, peddlers and solicitors of orders for goods under provisions of its charter and subdivision 13 of this section. People ex rel. Jones v Judge, 274 N.Y.S. 510, 152 Misc. 571, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1685 (N.Y. City Ct. 1934).

A license fee of $150, which includes cost of enforcing ordinance, is unreasonable and invalid. People ex rel. Jones v Judge, 274 N.Y.S. 510, 152 Misc. 571, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1685 (N.Y. City Ct. 1934).

A city ordinance which regulates the sale of solid fuel and requires coal dealers of the city to procure licenses and pay a license fee is not authorized by subdivision 13 of this section and is void. Mett v Schenectady, 283 N.Y.S. 9, 157 Misc. 208, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1513 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1935).

A taxicab licensing ordinance adopted under authority of subd. 13 of this section and requiring a license for "keeping and using for hire a taxicab" within the city cannot be construed as preventing outside taxicabs from coming in to deliver passengers or to pick up passengers within the city where the hiring is done or call received outside the city. People v Chimino, 39 Misc. 2d 555, 241 N.Y.S.2d 759, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2003 (N.Y. City Ct. 1963).

An action by plaintiff church to declare unlawful a city ordinance abandoning a portion of a public street to the private use of defendant neighboring property owner, a commercial enterprise, thus eliminating or reducing one avenue of access to plaintiff's parking lot while allowing for enlargement of defendant's facility would be dismissed, where the city was authorized to close streets for public or municipal purposes, including "the promotion, creation, development or expansion of business, commerce, industry or job opportunities" pursuant to Gen City Law §§ 21, 29, and where, although access might now be somewhat more circuitous, the members of plaintiff's congregation had not been deprived of suitable access to the property. St. Luke's German Evangelical Lutheran Church v Rochester, 115 Misc. 2d 199, 453 N.Y.S.2d 1012, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3660 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

Unlicensed vending regulation that required vendors to annually obtain licenses to lawfully sell goods or services on street (NYC Admin Code § 20-453) was unconstitutional as applied to defendant, who took photographs of people who paid him $5 to do so in front of painted backdrop which he provided, since limited number of licenses were issued and they were distributed on first-come first-served basis, and defendant was thereby precluded from using desired public location within any reasonable time because of license unavailability, thus depriving him of what he claimed were elements of his expression (street sights, sound, and atmosphere). People v Bissinger, 163 Misc. 2d 667, 625 N.Y.S.2d 823, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 609 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1994).

Unlicensed vending restrictions set forth in NYC Admin Code § 20-453 did not apply to defendant, who took photographs of people who paid him $5 to do so in front of painted backdrop which he provided, since defendant was not selling or vending simple photography service, he did not fit definition of "general vendor" under NYC Admin Code § 20-452, and his products did not fit statutory language of "goods" or "services." People v Bissinger, 163 Misc. 2d 667, 625 N.Y.S.2d 823, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 609 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1994).

Defendant, who was charged with being unlicensed general vendor under NYC Admin Code § 20-453 for failure to produce license on demand of police officer, was not entitled to dismissal of accusatory instrument on ground that statutory presumption of nonlicensing contained in NYC Admin Code § 20-474.3(a) was constitutionally invalid; given legislative mandate that general vendors carry and wear their licenses conspicuously at all times, rational connection existed between facts proved (failure to display or produce license) and fact to be inferred (that defendant was unlicensed). People v Chen Ye, 179 Misc. 2d 592, 685 N.Y.S.2d 602, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 12 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1999).

21. —Other ordinances and regulations

In consolidated actions to recover for wrongful death, personal injury and property damage which resulted when a crack in a major weight-bearing wall caused a portion of a hotel building to collapse, defendant city should not have been held liable, notwithstanding the fact that city building department employees knew of the dangerous structural condition in the building and failed to enforce city code provisions to ensure that the defect was remedied where the regulations were designed to protect the general public and no special relationship was shown that would establish a municipal duty to plaintiffs in particular on which to predicate the city's liability. Worth Distributors, Inc. v Latham, 59 N.Y.2d 231, 464 N.Y.S.2d 435, 451 N.E.2d 193, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3121 (N.Y. 1983).

Defendants' business of purchasing, repairing and then reselling homes involved "consumer goods or services" within jurisdiction of New York City's Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA), and motion to dismiss complaint alleging deceptive trade practices in violation of Consumer Protection Law, NYC Admin Code § 20-700, for failure to state cause of action and lack of capacity to sue, was properly denied; package of consumer services falls within DCA jurisdiction even though offered in context of real estate transaction. Polonetsky v Better Homes Depot, Inc., 97 N.Y.2d 46, 735 N.Y.S.2d 479, 760 N.E.2d 1274, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3414 (N.Y. 2001).

A local law prohibiting itinerant peddling, is invalid, on the ground that it constitutes an improper exercise of police power, and moreover, the city did not have power to enact the local law, under § 20, subdivision 13, or under City Home Rule Law, § 11. Good Humor Corp. v New York, 264 A.D. 620, 36 N.Y.S.2d 85, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4220 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942), aff'd, 290 N.Y. 312, 49 N.E.2d 153, 290 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 312, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1118 (N.Y. 1943).

Electrician who was found guilty of making false statements at hearings before electrical board, in violation of city administrative code, could be penalized under another section of code which authorizes building department commissioner to revoke or suspend license and to impose fine for fraudulent dealing or misrepresentation, since that section was not limited to misrepresentation in public documents and the like. Kaufman v Smith, 160 A.D.2d 202, 553 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3663 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Evidence did not sustain determination of Commissioner of New York City Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) which lowered maximum rate commercial refuse carters could charge their customers, and matter would be remanded for new rate-setting proceeding, where DCA relied on contradictory and unrealistic assumptions as to certain facts and used inconsistent methodologies to calculate waste industry costs. Council of Trade Waste Assoc., Inc. v New York, 179 A.D.2d 413, 579 N.Y.S.2d 330, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 755, 581 N.Y.S.2d 665, 590 N.E.2d 250, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 5009 (N.Y. 1992).

Substantial evidence supported determination of New York City Department of Consumer Affairs that garage owner was guilty of storing vehicles in excess of lawful capacity where garage had maximum capacity of 140 cars, department inspectors visited garage and counted 157 cars, and although petitioner contended that inspectors counted cars in another connected garage, inspectors testified that if there were 2 separate garages, they would have ascertained boundary between them and would not have counted cars in other garage. 400 East 54th Street Garage Corp. v Green, 179 A.D.2d 452, 578 N.Y.S.2d 190, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 180 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Evidence supported city agency's determination that licensed private towing company violated NYC Admin Code § 20-509 by imposing unauthorized charges for illegal parking and storage fees in excess of maximum statutory rate on numerous vehicle owners, and that towing company also violated standards of honesty, integrity, and fair dealing required of all tow truck licensees; thus, city properly ruled that towing company could not act as privately owned version of municipal parking violations bureau by imposing punitive charges for illegal parking. V & A Towing v City of New York, 197 A.D.2d 386, 602 N.Y.S.2d 355, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9092 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

New York City Commission on Human Rights properly determined that landlords discriminated against tenant who was HIV positive on basis of disability and sexual orientation, where landlords engaged in repeated written and verbal attacks and other abusive acts against tenant over 1½-year period, in violation of NYC Admin Code § 8-107(5)(a)(1) and (2). 119-121 E. 97th St. Corp. v New York City Comm'n on Human Rights, 220 A.D.2d 79, 642 N.Y.S.2d 638, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5166 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

In proceeding against landlords who discriminated against tenant (who was HIV positive) on basis of disability and sexual orientation, by engaging in repeated written and verbal attacks and other abusive acts against tenant over 1½-year period in violation of NYC Admin Code § 8-107(5)(a)(1) and (2), tenant was properly awarded $100,000 for mental anguish where he testified that he suffered growing anger, sense of outrage and horror at discriminatory indignities, insults and unlawful acts perpetrated on his by landlords, there was corroboration from his employer (although none was needed) as to his torment and great mental anguish, and award was properly compared with other awards for similar injuries. 119-121 E. 97th St. Corp. v New York City Comm'n on Human Rights, 220 A.D.2d 79, 642 N.Y.S.2d 638, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5166 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

In proceeding against landlords who discriminated against tenant (who was HIV positive) on basis of disability and sexual orientation, in violation of NYC Admin Code § 8-107(5)(a)(1) and (2), by engaging in repeated written and verbal attacks and other abusive acts against tenant over 1½-year period, it was error to award civil penalty of $75,000 against landlords where they owned only 50 units and thus were not "large" landlords, there were no previous findings of discrimination against them, and $100,000 compensatory damage award to tenant for mental anguish would deter others from same conduct; under circumstances, penalty of $25,000 would have been more appropriate. 119-121 E. 97th St. Corp. v New York City Comm'n on Human Rights, 220 A.D.2d 79, 642 N.Y.S.2d 638, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5166 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

City ordinance regulating private car rental business, requiring certain equipment and periodic inspections, fell within the broad permissible area provided for under General City Law § 20, subd 13 which empowers cities to regulate and license occupations and businesses under the municipal police power, and said ordinance furthermore did not conflict with state law governing the operation and licensing of motor vehicles generally. Main Private Car Service, Inc. v Mayor of Yonkers, 71 Misc. 2d 417, 336 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1563 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 37 A.D.2d 1044, 327 N.Y.S.2d 583, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7147 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1971).

An action by a sandblasting company, which utilized the allegedly "lest damaging" pressure grit washing method of removing paint from brick buildings, against a city, challenging the constitutionality on equal protection grounds of an ordinance which prohibited sandblasting and other abrasive methods of restoring the brick exteriors of buildings would be dismissed since the classification of abrasive cleaners had a reasonable basis in that there was a reasonable apprehension that abrasive methods of removing paint from brick surfaces was harmful to the rehabilitation and renovation of brick buildings, plaintiff's system, at best, still caused "some damage," and the mere fact that the ordinance did not include other paint removal methods did not violate plaintiff's equal protection rights. A & C Sandblasting & Spraypainting, Inc. v Albany, 119 Misc. 2d 168, 463 N.Y.S.2d 983, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3481 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

A New York City local law which defines a "taxicab broker" and provides for the licensing and regulation thereof is unenforceable as to duly licensed attorneys as an impermissible interference with the right to practice law, since taking the definition of a "taxicab broker" at face value (i.e., one "who . . . acts as an agent or intermediary in negotiating the purchase or sale of a taxicab"), it is clear that no attorney could possibly represent either a buyer or seller of a taxicab without first complying with the statute's regulatory scheme. Thus, in light of the fact that the qualifications for admission to the Bar, the rules governing conduct of attorneys, and the proscriptions imposed with respect to practicing law without a license are and have traditionally been regulated by the State Legislature and the courts, no local legislature has the power to define new limitations on the practice of law. Roth v Turoff, 127 Misc. 2d 998, 487 N.Y.S.2d 710, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2769 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

New York City Trade Waste Commission had rational basis to deny waivers of 30-day termination clause required in carting contracts, pursuant to local law, where grounds set forth in each denial sufficiently established that waivers would be inconsistent with law's purpose to control corrupting influence of organized crime upon carting industry; thus, Article 78 proceeding by 3 petitioners engaged in business of commercial waste removal, seeking to vacate denial of their applications for waivers, was dismissed even though commission had granted waivers to other companies who were allegedly guilty of same wrongdoing attributed to petitioners. D & D Carting Co. v City of New York, 172 Misc. 2d 544, 658 N.Y.S.2d 825, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 144 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

Accusatory instrument charging defendant with unlicensed general vending, in violation of NYC Admin § 20-453, was dismissed on ground of facial insufficiency where only allegation was that defendant was "holding" and "showing" "clothing" "to numerous people," and statutory element of "in a public space" was missing. People v Montanez, 177 Misc. 2d 506, 676 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 312 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1998).

Enforcement of Department of Parks and Recreation regulation (56 RCNY) 1-05(b) against vendors of artwork was invalid under NYC Admin Code § 20-473, and defendant artists, who allegedly were selling or displaying their artwork for sale on department of parks property without permit or authorization from department, were entitled to dismissal of charges for violating that regulation. People v Balmuth, 178 Misc. 2d 958, 681 N.Y.S.2d 439, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 551 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1998), aff'd, 189 Misc. 2d 243, 731 N.Y.S.2d 314, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 333 (N.Y. App. Term 2001).

City established existence of common law public nuisance based on numerous instances of disorderly conduct, and was granted preliminary injunction closing defendant night club even though only 2 incidents actually began inside club, where other incidents occurred in nearby streets and sidewalks at closing time, and included shots fired and people injured. City of Rochester v Premises Located at 10-20 South Washington St., 180 Misc. 2d 17, 687 N.Y.S.2d 523, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 684 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

A city may enact an ordinance regulating taxicabs and prohibiting drivers thereof, while awaiting employment, from parking cabs upon portions of streets not designated by city as cab stands. People v Smith, 15 N.Y.S.2d 459, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2412 (N.Y. City Ct. 1939).

The City of Batavia may, by local law, fix fares for taxicabs carrying passengers for hire on city streets. 1962 Op St Compt #1039.

22. Terms and conditions of employment for city employees (subd. 17)

Under the home rule provision of New York Constitution, Article XII, § 3, City Home Rule Law, §§ 11 and 31 and this section, New York city may by local law constitutionally assume the liability for act of a police officer who, with or without fault on his part, injures an innocent bystander while engaged in his governmental duty of making an arrest. Evans v Berry, 262 N.Y. 61, 186 N.E. 203, 262 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 61, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 914 (N.Y. 1933).

Federal Election Campaign Act (2 USCS §§ 453 et seq.) does not preempt New York City Charter's conflict of interest rules, or limit jurisdiction of New York City Conflicts of Interest Board over ethical violations allegedly committed by New York City Comptroller. Holtzman v Oliensis, 91 N.Y.2d 488, 673 N.Y.S.2d 23, 695 N.E.2d 1104, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1020 (N.Y. 1998).

Legislature did not violate home rule provisions of CLS NY Const Art IX § 2 by enacting CLS Civ S § 209-a(1)(e); city's argument that statute deprived it of control over staffing of its fire department was unavailing and unprecedented. City of Utica v Zumpano, 91 N.Y.2d 964, 672 N.Y.S.2d 844, 695 N.E.2d 713, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1018 (N.Y. 1998).

Portion of city charter, providing that not more than 2 commissioners of public works could be of "same political opinion on state and national issues," was unconstitutionally vague for failing to provide objective standards or criteria and by placing complete discretion in hands of those enforcing provision to determine who would be disqualified from serving as commissioner. Carpinelli v Kingston, 175 A.D.2d 509, 572 N.Y.S.2d 777, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10437 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

Penalty of dismissal of 14-year employee from his position as Supervisor II with city's Administration for Children's Services did not shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness where employee had committed repeated acts of insubordination and disrespectful behavior over period of more than one year, including incident that occurred after employee was already under first set of disciplinary charges. Martinez v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 187, 721 N.Y.S.2d 235, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2196 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Penalty of dismissal of Supervisor of Housing Caretakers by city housing authority did not shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness where supervisor possessed and used illicit drugs and knowingly allowed her son to use apartment, leased to her by authority, to sell drugs. Fuller v N.Y. City Hous. Auth., 281 A.D.2d 231, 721 N.Y.S.2d 768, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2439 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Caseworker's probationary employment with City Administration for Children's Services was properly terminated where her claim of retaliation for complaint about her supervisors' communication skills was speculative in light of her unacceptable work performance, and no issue of bad faith was raised by her claim that she never received written performance evaluations. Johnson v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 322, 722 N.Y.S.2d 156, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3035 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Evidence that provisional employee had received only one performance evaluation, which was favorable, during his 1 ½ years of employment with city did not satisfy his burden of showing that his termination was in bad faith or arbitrary and capricious where there was evidence of his substandard performance and no evidence that city was required to give him periodic performance evaluations. Bynoe v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 340, 722 N.Y.S.2d 517, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Proceeding to annul city police commissioner's termination of probationary officer's employment was properly dismissed for failure to state cause of action where officer's failure to correct his report of loss of his shield and identification badge after learning that it was incorrect provided legitimate reason to question his honesty and candor. Morgan v Safir, 281 A.D.2d 376, 722 N.Y.S.2d 542, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3193 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7152 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't June 14, 2001), app. dismissed, 97 N.Y.2d 601, 735 N.Y.S.2d 490, 760 N.E.2d 1286, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3249 (N.Y. 2001).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging city's elimination of title/position of police detective, imposition of sanctions against city under CLS Stds & Adm Policies Part 130 (22 NYCRR Part 130) was not appropriate where such sanctions are not substitute for Supreme Court's power to punish for contempt of its own orders. Moshier v City of Little Falls, 281 A.D.2d 913, 721 N.Y.S.2d 848, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2696 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

An agreement voluntarily signed by petitioner, an employee of the City of New York who did not reside in the city, as a condition of his employment, whereby he agreed, pursuant to section 822 of the New York City Charter, to pay the New York City income tax, is an enforceable contract, is authorized by statute, is not unconscionable, and is not an indirect involuntary tax, since section 822 is a valid exercise of powers granted to every city in New York State and each city has full authority to establish conditions of employment for its employees. Legum v Goldin, 99 Misc. 2d 654, 416 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2310 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979), aff'd, 78 A.D.2d 1020, 435 N.Y.S.2d 426, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17042 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1980).

Portion of NYC Local Law No. 27, which qualifies registered domestic partner of city employee as family member for purpose of succession and occupancy rights in buildings operated by New York City Housing Authority and buildings under jurisdiction of Department of Housing Preservation and Development, is not irrational or inconsistent with state law and relevant regulations (9 NYCRR §§ 1727-8.2, 2104.6 and 2204.6). Slattery v City of New York, 179 Misc. 2d 740, 686 N.Y.S.2d 683, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 35 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), transferred, 93 N.Y.2d 883, 689 N.Y.S.2d 426, 711 N.E.2d 640, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 692 (N.Y. 1999).

The closing by a city of the north end of a street which traverses a white residential community did not violate rights granted residents of a predominantly black area to the north by 42 USCS § 1982—which entitles all citizens to the same rights as white citizens with regard to the inheriting, purchasing, leasing, selling, holding, and conveying of real and personal property—where (1) the city's decision was motivated by its interest in protecting the safety and tranquility of a residential neighborhood and the procedures followed in making the decision were fair and were not affected by any racial or other impermissible factors, (2) the street closing did not adversely affect black residents in that it did not prevent blacks from exercising the same property rights as whites and had no effect on the value of the property owned by the black residents, (3) the street closing did not severely restrict access to black homes, and (4) the sole injury to the residents of the black area, which involves using one street rather than another for certain trips within the city, did not involve any impairment to the kind of property interests coming within the reach of § 1982. Memphis v Greene, 451 U.S. 100, 101 S. Ct. 1584, 67 L. Ed. 2d 769, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 87 (U.S.), reh'g denied, 452 U.S. 955, 101 S. Ct. 3100, 69 L. Ed. 2d 965 (U.S. 1981).

The closing by a city of the north end of a street which traverses a white residential community to the north of which lies a predominantly black residential area does not violate rights guaranteed residents of the black area by the Thirteenth Amendment, but is rather a routine burden of citizenship having no disparate impact on black citizens amounting to a badge or incident of slavery, where the city's action was not prompted by a racially discriminatory motive, but rather by the city's legitimate interest in traffic safety and tranquility which justify an adverse impact on motorists inconvenienced by the street closing—an inconvenience that cannot be equated to the type of actual restraint on the liberty of black citizens that the Thirteenth Amendment was designed to eradicate; furthermore, no violation of any of the enabling legislation enacted by Congress pursuant to § 2 of the Thirteenth Amendment is disclosed by the street closing. Memphis v Greene, 451 U.S. 100, 101 S. Ct. 1584, 67 L. Ed. 2d 769, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 87 (U.S.), reh'g denied, 452 U.S. 955, 101 S. Ct. 3100, 69 L. Ed. 2d 965 (U.S. 1981).

Court would abstain, under Pullman doctrine, from deciding federal constitutional challenge to zoning laws regulating adult establishments, in light of substantial claims presented under New York Constitution, which provided broader protection to free expression than did federal constitution, and as to which law governing state constitutional claims was unclear; ruling that resolution violated state constitution would obviate need to decide federal constitutional questions presented. Hickerson v City of New York, 932 F. Supp. 550, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9042 (S.D.N.Y.), transferred, 171 Misc. 2d 376, 653 N.Y.S.2d 801, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 537 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

23. —Automatic deduction of union dues and other contributions from pay

The Board of Estimate of the City of New York adopted a resolution whereby rules and regulations governing the procedure under which city employees could have their organization dues voluntarily deducted from the regular payrolls from the City of New York were established and further provided the form to be executed by the employees to authorize deduction of these dues. Held: the above resolution applied to members of the city police force who requested the Commissioner to deduct from their pay dues as members of Patrolman's Benevolent Association. Moriarity v Kennedy, 20 Misc. 2d 593, 192 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3000 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

New York City mayor had authority to issue proposed executive order granting exclusive dues checkoff privilege to employee organization which would be freely chosen as the exclusive bargaining representative by the majority of the employees in a city-wide bargaining unit. Bauch v New York, 54 Misc. 2d 343, 282 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1351 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 28 A.D.2d 1209, 285 N.Y.S.2d 263, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7987 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

24. Municipal civil service (subd. 18)

NYC Charter § 1127, which requires nonresident city employees, as precondition of employment, to agree to make payments in lieu of personal income taxes to city in amount computed and determined as if they were city residents, did not apply to nonresidents involuntarily transferred from transit authority and housing authority police departments to New York City Police Department via mergers in April 1995, because transferred personnel were not city employees prior to mergers, and they never entered into pre-employment contract for § 1127 deductions. Ganley v Giuliani, 94 N.Y.2d 207, 701 N.Y.S.2d 324, 723 N.E.2d 73, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3745 (N.Y. 1999).

Provision of written agreement between city and police protective and benevolent association, giving police officer right to have an appearance before city council to "discuss" his grievance in respect to his assigned shift, did not constitute an interference by city council with powers delegated by city charter to commissioner of public safety to designate grades and duties of members of police department. Cole v Saratoga Springs, 85 Misc. 2d 376, 381 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3309 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Certiorari is appropriate to review the judicial or quasi-judicial action of a body or officer, but no court can mandate the passage of a formal resolution by a city council to designate the grades and duties of police officers when such power has not been vested in council by contract, statute or city charter. Cole v Saratoga Springs, 85 Misc. 2d 376, 381 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3309 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

In dispute arising from police commissioner's adoption and enforcement of policy allowing police officers to execute document purporting to waive NYC Admin Code § 14-103(b)(2) and perform detective duties for more than 18 months without being appointed as detective, court granted petition for relief to extent of enjoining respondents from requesting or requiring police officers to execute waiver document, directing compliance with § 14-103(b)(2), declaring null and void ab initio any document purporting to waive rights under § 14-103(b)(2), and directing reinstatement into detective career path for any police officer transferred due to refusal to execute purported waiver; police commissioner cannot gain benefit of long-term assignment to detective work without designating police officer doing such work as detective. Scotto v Giuliani, 172 Misc. 2d 395, 655 N.Y.S.2d 256, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 42 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

25. Regulation of manner of transaction of city business (subd. 19)

The optional City Government Law (L 1914 c 444), by which seven plans of city government are proposed, in no way repealed, modified or affected broad grant of powers theretofore given to citizens of city by the General City Law, among which was power to regulate the manner of transacting city business and affairs, but on the other hand clarified and enlarged the General City Law, giving ample authority to adopt either an aldermanic or manager form of government, as the people might desire and elect. People ex rel. Purser v Cahill, 196 N.Y.S. 368, 119 Misc. 471, 1922 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1508 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1922).

26. Administration of pension funds (subd. 20)

City's zoning provision, which limited permitted uses within district to singlefamily dwellings and restricted special permit uses to public utility facilities, substations and structures, was unconstitutional on its face, and constituted ultra vires enactment, where it failed to provide any mechanism through which legitimate interests of parties could be balanced against one another to determine whether proposed educational use was contrary to public health, safety, or welfare. Trustees of Union College v Members of the Schenectady City Council, 230 A.D.2d 17, 656 N.Y.S.2d 425, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3733 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 161, 667 N.Y.S.2d 978, 690 N.E.2d 862, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3714 (N.Y. 1997).

Where the testatrix provided for a bequest to the "Mount Vernon Police Protection Fund", there being no Mount Vernon Police Protection Fund in existence when the decedent executed her will, and no fund so entitled has since been created, but there existed throughout such period a fund designated as the "Mount Vernon Police & Paid Firemen's Pension Fund", created under the local law of the city of Mount Vernon, it was held that the testatrix intended the bequest to go to "The Mount Vernon Police & Paid Firemen's Pension Fund". In re Schuetz's Will, 107 N.Y.S.2d 153, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2296 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1951).

27. Investigation into matters of concern to city (subd. 21)

A city has the authority under this section to investigate the local milk industry to determine whether milk prices were being maintained at an artificially high level by monopolistic practices for the purpose of determining whether new legislation is required. Dairymen's League Cooperative Asso. v Murtagh, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

The City of New York is empowered, through the Commissioner of Investigation, to inquire into all matters of concern to the City and its inhabitants. Lerner v Casey, 2 N.Y.2d 355, 161 N.Y.S.2d 7, 141 N.E.2d 533, 1957 N.Y. LEXIS 1210 (N.Y. 1957), aff'd, 357 U.S. 468, 78 S. Ct. 1311, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1423, 1958 U.S. LEXIS 666 (U.S. 1958).

Public policy barred arbitration of dispute as to whether employee rights provisions of collective bargaining agreement could be invoked by city employees to limit or restrict criminal investigation conducted by New York City Department of Investigation (DOI) concerning internal affairs, in light of broad investigatory powers vested in DOI and important role it plays in facilitating honest workings of city. City of New York v Uniformed Fire Officers Ass'n, 95 N.Y.2d 273, 716 N.Y.S.2d 353, 739 N.E.2d 719, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 2875 (N.Y. 2000).

Investigation of trade practices in the sale and distribution of milk is within the province of the commissioner of investigation of New York City. Application of Dairymen's League Co-op. Ass'n, 274 A.D. 591, 84 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), aff'd, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

The powers of the Commissioner of Investigation are not limited to the examination of city departments but extend to an inquiry into the methods and activities of those who do business with the city. Application of Dairymen's League Co-op. Ass'n, 274 A.D. 591, 84 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), aff'd, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

The commissioner of investigation of the city of New York has power to investigate into matters of concern to the city and its inhabitants and by subpoena to enforce attendance of witnesses thereat. Application of Dairymen's League Co-op. Ass'n, 274 A.D. 591, 84 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), aff'd, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

City council resolution ordering commissioner of public safety to provide all reports and files of professional standards unit of city police department to standing committee on public safety of city council for review in confidential manner was not unlawful but council should have exercised its authority by subpoena rather than resolution. Kilgallon v City Council of Troy, 53 A.D.2d 976, 385 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15775 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Power to inquire under subd 21 of above statute is not limited to witnesses in service of the city. Hence where money partially supplied by city is being disbursed by private organization, its employees may properly be subpoenaed in investigation to determine if city funds involved have been misappropriated or misused. They may also be subpoenaed to obtain evidence whether employees of such organizations have instigated or advocated disregard for legally-constituted authority or attempted to indoctrinate beneficiaries of the program which they were administering with alien political doctrine detrimental to United States and New York State, as constituting matter of vital concern to city and its inhabitants. Fuentes v Fishel, 44 Misc. 2d 943, 255 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1223 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Where city is entitled to net revenues of membership corporation it has power to investigate finances thereof under subd 19 and 21 of above statute although books and vouchers of such corporation are subject to visitation and inspection of justice of the Supreme Court or of any person appointed by such court under Membership Corporations Law § 26. New York World's Fair 1964-1965 Corp. v Beame, 45 Misc. 2d 683, 257 N.Y.S.2d 543, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2241 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 22 A.D.2d 611, 257 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4535 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

Mayor of New York City acted within his authority as chief executive officer in establishment of commission to investigate allegations of police corruption by holding hearings and examining witnesses, and to review police department's existing procedures to make recommendations for reforms. Kelly v Dinkins, 155 Misc. 2d 787, 590 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 491 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

28. —Subpoena power

Whether competition in the milk industry is restricted or prices fixed is a matter of concern to the city of New York and its inhabitants so that the Commissioner of Investigation may enforce by subpoena the attendance of witnesses and production of records by virtue of § 20 subdivision 21. Application of Dairymen's League Co-op. Ass'n, 274 A.D. 591, 84 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), aff'd, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

So long as the subpoena duces tecum issued by the commissioner of investigation is directed toward production of books, records, and documents which are material to the issue in an authorized investigation, there is no basis for interference with his power under this section. Application of Dairymen's League Co-op. Ass'n, 274 A.D. 591, 84 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), aff'd, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

The commissioner of investigation of New York City may issue subpoenas to compel the production of books and records of retail milk dealers showing names and addresses of its customers who purchase with rebates, and the amount of such rebates. Application of Dairymen's League Co-op. Ass'n, 274 A.D. 591, 84 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), aff'd, 299 N.Y. 634, 86 N.E.2d 509, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 634, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. 1949).

Where common council of city expressly authorized its committee to issue subpoenas to investigate circumstances surrounding suspension of chief of police by resolution in accordance with statute, committee was duly empowered to issue such subpoena; it was not required that the committee be established by ordinance which would be subject to veto by mayor. Hanna v Common Council of Utica, 46 A.D.2d 503, 363 N.Y.S.2d 361, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8527 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

City council had authority to issue legislative subpoena, in that such act is in furtherance of general power of inquiry conferred by General City Law. Kilgallon v City Council of Troy, 53 A.D.2d 976, 385 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15775 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Where comptroller of city is granted, by charter of city, authority to investigate matters relating to finances of city and for such purpose is thereby granted the power to require attendance of and examine and take testimony under oath of witnesses, such powers are exercised on behalf of city, and grant of such powers in conjunction with the provisions of subds 19 and 21 of this section authorizes issuance of subpoenas by such officer. New York World's Fair 1964-1965 Corp. v Beame, 45 Misc. 2d 683, 257 N.Y.S.2d 543, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2241 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 22 A.D.2d 611, 257 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4535 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

There is no statutory authority to serve subpoena outside area of jurisdiction of administrative agency and, therefore, attempt by city consumer affairs director to serve subpoena outside the city was a nullity. Baker/Beech-Nut Corp. v Wieloszynski, 89 Misc. 2d 256, 391 N.Y.S.2d 35, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2806 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

29. Ordinances and penalties as to matters of concern to city (subd. 22)

City had power, in proper exercise of its delegated powers, to summarily abate public nuisance and compel owners of property involved to bear cost of abatement; and exercise of such power was not only statutorily authorized but was consistent with common-law principles and was constitutional. Lane v Mt. Vernon, 38 N.Y.2d 344, 379 N.Y.S.2d 798, 342 N.E.2d 571, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2245 (N.Y. 1976).

Where records of building code violations which resulted in assessment on property for city's abatement of violations were available for examination and stated expressly that failure to remedy violations would subject landowner to penalty outlined in building code, which outlined assessment procedure followed, subsequent purchaser of land was chargeable with constructive notice of assessment on property, even though property was debris-free at time of purchase and records of violations did not by themselves indicate how violation had been cleared or that there was outstanding charge for its clearance. Lane v Mt. Vernon, 38 N.Y.2d 344, 379 N.Y.S.2d 798, 342 N.E.2d 571, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2245 (N.Y. 1976).

City's Open Container Law was not unconstitutional, since it did not prohibit possession in public place of all open containers containing alcohol but only prohibited such possession "with the intent to consume the same" and, in adopting ordinance, city council made legislative findings that consumption of alcoholic beverages in public streets was detrimental to public good, and that there was significant relationship between (1) possession of open container in public place with intent to consume it and (2) consumption of alcohol in public place. People v Elhage, 147 A.D.2d 911, 537 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1207 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 1014, 541 N.Y.S.2d 768, 539 N.E.2d 596, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 1831 (N.Y. 1989).

Amendments to Johnson Act, 15 USCS § 1175, which relaxed former prohibition against shipboard gambling, did not deprive states or municipalities of prerogative to reasonably regulate conduct of shipboard gambling businesses operating from within their jurisdictional bounds, and thus New York City was entitled to declaratory judgment that L 1997, ch 57, adding NYC Admin §§ 20-950 et seq., did not conflict with Johnson Law amendments and was valid to that extent. Padavan v City of New York, 258 A.D.2d 266, 685 N.Y.S.2d 35, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 900 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

City Environmental Control Board's definition of "air contaminant" under NYC Admin Code § 24-141(b)(24), as encompassing usual and ordinary odors produced by spicy food escaping into complainant's residential apartment if detrimental to complainant's "health, safety, welfare or comfort," was reasonable and rational, and entitled to judicial deference. Burrito Factory, Inc. v City of New York, 270 A.D.2d 217, 706 N.Y.S.2d 383, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3293 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 848, 713 N.Y.S.2d 523, 735 N.E.2d 1288, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1790 (N.Y. 2000).

In proceeding under CLS Gen City § 20(22) to direct owner to allow city petitioners to enter his house to perform structural repairs so that work on nearby construction project could resume, court properly denied owner's motion to compel petitioners to make further repairs under stipulation of settlement until after resolution of all causation issues in related tort action commenced by owner against petitioners where stipulation only obligated petitioners to restore house to condition that it was in before start of construction project. City of New York v Barry, 273 A.D.2d 380, 710 N.Y.S.2d 917, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7044 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

City ordinance, which mirrored substantive provisions and procedures of CLS Real P § 231 and CLS RPAPL § 715 while expanding grounds for eviction to include illegal drug use and possession, was not preempted by Real Property Law and RPAPL where it placed no impediment on landowners' free access to courts or to remedies provided in RPAPL but merely supplemented state statutory scheme by providing additional ground for eviction, and it was not shown to expressly conflict with any provision of state law. Zorn v Howe, 276 A.D.2d 51, 716 N.Y.S.2d 128, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12207 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Both the State Constitution and the General City Law empower a city to adopt local laws within stated limits provided they are not inconsistent with the Constitution and general laws of the state. Di Paola v Reilly, 35 Misc. 2d 269, 231 N.Y.S.2d 317, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3190 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 22 A.D.2d 910, 255 N.Y.S.2d 532, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2463 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

Power of a city to enact local laws is subject to constitutional limitations, such as due process, applicable to state statutes, and to additional limitations peculiar to municipal legislation, two of which are that it shall not be inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the state and shall not relate to affairs exclusively those of the state. Schacht v New York, 40 Misc. 2d 303, 243 N.Y.S.2d 272, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963), aff'd, 27 A.D.2d 987, 281 N.Y.S.2d 973, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5833 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

The New York City Gun Control Law is within the power of the city to adopt and is constitutional. Grimm v New York, 56 Misc. 2d 525, 289 N.Y.S.2d 358, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1721 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

Local law proscribing gambling was beyond city's power to legislate under NY Const Art 9 § 2 subd c ¶ 10, and Art 9 § 3 subd d ¶ 1, and General City L § 20(13) where state had pre-empted field of anti-gambling laws by passage of Penal L § 225.00, and 225.30. People v Wilkerson, 73 Misc. 2d 895, 342 N.Y.S.2d 936, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1993 (N.Y. County Ct. 1973).

Although there was short-term economic benefit to city as result of passage and enforcement of waste disposal ordinance, ordinance would not be declared an illegal exercise of police power on ground that underlying purpose was solely economic, i.e., to avoid monetary penalty provided in waste disposal contract with county, since economic benefit was only secondary to the motivating intent of the city council, i.e., to establish long-range solution to refuse problem. People v A & C Trucking Co., 88 Misc. 2d 988, 390 N.Y.S.2d 987, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1819 (N.Y. City Ct. 1977).

City ordinance that regulated semiautomatic rifles and shotguns with ammunition feeding devices permitting them to be loaded with combination of more than 6 rounds did not violate Second Amendment right to bear arms because Second Amendment creates no bar to state or local action; furthermore, ordinance expressly exempted all military uses of firearms, banned semiautomatic weapons were in fact not military weapons, and plaintiffs did not allege that they were members of state or federal National Guard, or that banned weapons were in use by such military groups. Citizens for a Safer Community v City of Rochester, 164 Misc. 2d 822, 627 N.Y.S.2d 193, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 671 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

Definition of "air guns" in Rochester Ordinance No. 93-62 was vague and overbroad, as it did not give reasonable notice of prohibited conduct, and those charged with enforcing it would be compelled to enforce ordinance in discriminatory manner to avoid unintended result of arresting all house contractors, handymen, and many children for technical violations. Citizens for a Safer Community v City of Rochester, 164 Misc. 2d 822, 627 N.Y.S.2d 193, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 671 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

City noise code which prohibits, inter alia, use of amplified sound at level greater than 65 decibels unless otherwise exempted by code, is valid restriction of time, place or manner of protected speech in that (1) decibel meter, by definition, is content neutral, (2) claim that 65-decibel limit burdens more speech than necessary merely constitutes disagreement with legislature as to acceptable levels of noise, and (3) while volume restrictions may somewhat reduce potential audience for defendant's speech, ample alternative channels of communication exist. People v Toback, 170 Misc. 2d 1011, 652 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 501 (N.Y. City Ct. 1996).

City noise code which prohibits, inter alia, use of amplified sound at level greater than 65 decibels unless otherwise exempted by code, is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad on its face; decibel level limitation is clear and precise, deterrent effect is neither real nor substantial, and purpose of code is regulation of noise and is in no way directed at suppression of protected speech. People v Toback, 170 Misc. 2d 1011, 652 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 501 (N.Y. City Ct. 1996).

City noise code which prohibits, inter alia, use of amplified sound at level greater than 65 decibels unless otherwise exempted by code, does not violate equal protection of laws by prohibiting speech for some but not others, as all speakers are permitted to speak as long as they maintain volume of 65 decibels or less. People v Toback, 170 Misc. 2d 1011, 652 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 501 (N.Y. City Ct. 1996).

Municipal ordinance completely prohibiting use of power blowers was unconstitutional in absence of showing that it was enacted to achieve, promote or address any valid purpose or objective. People v Edinger, 179 Misc. 2d 104, 683 N.Y.S.2d 820, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 618 (N.Y. City Ct. 1998).

City code which prohibited animal owners from allowing their animals to cause "unnecessary noise," defined as that which disturbs "a considerable number of people," was unconstitutionally vague because it did not provide fair notice to animal owners or sufficiently clear standards to those charged with enforcing law, where it did not specify how many people constituted "a considerable number" or whether requisite number of people had to be disturbed all at once, and it did not specify what volume, intensity or duration of noise would disturb person of reasonable sensibilities. People v Donato, 179 Misc. 2d 192, 684 N.Y.S.2d 394, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 619 (N.Y. City Ct. 1998).

In action to enjoin defendants from operating their establishment ("Naked City") in residential zone on ground that it was adult establishment under Zoning Resolution § 12-10, New York City established its entitlement to preliminary injunctive relief, where almost every defined sex activity was openly conducted and displayed publicly to customers and, even if restaurant area (which was separated merely by double curtain) could be considered as separate use from live entertainment, stage and individual viewing areas constituted more than 40 percent of premises accessible to patrons. City of New York v J & J Tummy Yummies, Inc., 179 Misc. 2d 527, 679 N.Y.S.2d 807, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 529 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

City was judicially estopped from seeking closure of defendants' club under Nuisance Abatement Law based on alleged violation of adult use provisions of zoning resolution which restricted location of adult establishments in districts where residences were allowed, where defendants' club was situated in area previously identified by city, in legal proceeding involving another adult establishment, as area in which adult establishments could operate. City of New York v Garter, 179 Misc. 2d 597, 685 N.Y.S.2d 606, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 17 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999), aff'd, 273 A.D.2d 188, 709 N.Y.S.2d 110, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6306 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

State's asset forfeiture law (CLS CPLR Art 13-A) did not preempt Property Clerk Forfeiture Law (NYC Admin § 14-140) of city's policy of applying it to vehicle operated by individual arrested for nonfelony driving while intoxicated. Grinberg v Safir, 181 Misc. 2d 444, 694 N.Y.S.2d 316, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 259 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 266 A.D.2d 43, 698 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11379 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Forfeiture action under NYC Admin § 14-140, commenced against individual arrested for driving while intoxicated, did not constitute impermissible additional punishment or sentence imposed in violation of separation of powers, as forfeiture is not deemed criminal penalty if sought in separate civil action. Grinberg v Safir, 181 Misc. 2d 444, 694 N.Y.S.2d 316, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 259 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 266 A.D.2d 43, 698 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11379 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

While not condoning the violation of city laws by unpermitted cyclist participants in mass rides which snarled traffic, the court held that judicial interpretation of novel local regulations regarding parades, specifically New York City Admin. Code § 10-110(a) and New York City, N.Y., R. tit. 38, § 19-02(a), had to be made by a state court with primary jurisdiction over such matters. Thus, the court declined supplemental jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C.S. § 1367(a) over the city's counterclaims for an injunction pursuant to N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(22) enjoining further group rides by the cyclists Bray v City of New York, 356 F. Supp. 2d 277, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25722 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

30. Exercise of necessary and proper powers (subd. 23)

It is well settled that a city, as a municipal corporation, is not restricted to exercise of its specifically granted powers but possesses also such powers as are necessarily incidental to, or may be implied from those specifically granted. Albany v McMorran, 34 Misc. 2d 304, 230 N.Y.S.2d 421, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3160 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 16 A.D.2d 1021, 230 N.Y.S.2d 438, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8793 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1962).

Federal Aviation Act did not preempt prosecution of defendant for allegedly operating motorboat with platform from which another individual took off while cabled to parasail in violation of NYC Admin Code § 10-126(c) which makes it unlawful for any person "avigating an aircraft" to take off or land, except in emergency, at any place other than designated places of landing; while federal government classifies parasails as moored kites, no federal regulation of moored kites deals with issue of locations for landing or takeoff. People v Santoriello, 180 Misc. 2d 533, 689 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 169 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1999).

31. Power to enact zoning and other land use regulations (subds. 24 and 25)

A zoning law is a proper exercise of police power and not an incumbrance on real property. Lincoln Trust Co. v Williams Bldg. Corp., 229 N.Y. 313, 128 N.E. 209, 229 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 313, 1920 N.Y. LEXIS 685 (N.Y. 1920).

It is not an effective argument against ordinances, if otherwise valid, that they limit the use and may depreciate the value of premises. That frequently is the effect of police regulation and the general welfare of the public is superior in importance to the pecuniary profits of the individual. Wulfsohn v Burden, 241 N.Y. 288, 150 N.E. 120, 241 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 288, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 551 (N.Y. 1925).

A broad authority is given to the municipalities to regulate the height and bulk of buildings, to regulate and determine the area of yards, courts and open spaces and for such purposes to divide a city into districts and to adopt various other provisions classifying and regulating the use of land within its borders in the interest of the public health, safety and general welfare. Wulfsohn v Burden, 241 N.Y. 288, 150 N.E. 120, 241 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 288, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 551 (N.Y. 1925).

By subdivision 25, Saratoga Springs is empowered to enact a zoning ordinance and by § 83 the city council is empowered, on its own motion or on petition, to "amend, supplement or change regulations and districts established." Neddo v Schrade, 270 N.Y. 97, 200 N.E. 657, 270 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 97, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1517 (N.Y. 1936).

A zoning law is not necessarily invalid because its primary if not its exclusive objective is the esthetic enhancement of the particular area involved, so long as it is related if only generally to the economic and cultural settings of the regulating community. Cromwell v Ferrier, 19 N.Y.2d 263, 279 N.Y.S.2d 22, 225 N.E.2d 749, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1666 (N.Y. 1967) (ovrlg Mid-State Advertising Corp. v Bond, 274 N.Y. 82, 8 N.E.2d 286, 274 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 82, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1937), overruled, Cromwell v Ferrier, 19 N.Y.2d 263, 279 N.Y.S.2d 22, 225 N.E.2d 749, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1666 (N.Y. 1967).

New York City ordinance, designating portion of Chinatown as special zoning district, would be upheld as against state constitutional due process challenge, asserting that it did not bear reasonable relation to legislative goals of developing and rehabilitating housing in area, where it was not shown that ordinance was inconsistent with city's general planning or that city had failed to make provision for low-cost housing. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

"Well-considered plan" required by CLS Gen City § 20 in order for city to exercise power to zone need not be contained in single document and need not be written at all; zoning legislation and its amendments are tested not by whether they define well-considered plan but by whether they accord with well-considered plan for development of community, based on examination of all available and relevant evidence of city's land use policies. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

In determining whether governmental unit should be subject to its own or another unit's land use controls, "balancing of public interests" test should be applied, rather than traditional test of whether function of particular use in question is governmental or proprietary; balancing approach subjects encroaching governmental unit in first instance, absent contrary legislative intent, to zoning requirements of host unit where extraterritorial land use would be employed, and requires weighing of factors including, inter alia, kind of land use involved, impact on legitimate local interests, practical alternatives, and intergovernmental participation in project at issue. In re County of Monroe's Compliance with Certain Zoning & Permit Requirements, etc., 72 N.Y.2d 338, 533 N.Y.S.2d 702, 530 N.E.2d 202, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2697 (N.Y. 1988).

Patrons of adult establishments lacked standing to claim that amended zoning code, which included array of site limitations and anticlustering provisions with respect to adult entertainment establishments, was unconstitutional, because challenged legislation did not directly regulate their conduct. Stringfellow's of New York v City of New York, 91 N.Y.2d 382, 671 N.Y.S.2d 406, 694 N.E.2d 407, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 137 (N.Y. 1998).

A city possesses a general power to adopt ordinances regulating the construction of buildings so long as any such regulation bears a reasonable relationship to public health, safety, and the general welfare, but the exercise of the police power to locally legislate such enactments is limited by constitutional provisions and the general law of the state. Board of Education v Buffalo, 32 A.D.2d 98, 302 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3977 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1969).

The power of legislature to authorize adoption of general zoning ordinances in cities is now delegated to the municipalities by this section. Lees v Cohoes Motor Car Co., 203 N.Y.S. 65, 122 Misc. 373, 1924 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 663 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1924).

Power which the common council of Troy has to enact ordinances is limited in this instance by the specific provisions found in subdivision 25. No specific power having been conferred upon common council by legislature to make a restriction as to consents of property owners in a particular zone, such restriction is ultra vires. Coley v Campbell, 215 N.Y.S. 679, 126 Misc. 869, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 962 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1926).

The rezoning of a district is a matter of fact and should be determined only after a full opportunity to present the evidence bearing upon the propriety of the proposed change. Prescott v Pierce, 223 N.Y.S. 609, 130 Misc. 63, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 994 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

The power to establish set back lines does not arise out of power to enact zoning ordinances, but from subdivision 24 of this section which, however, does not relate to character of use to which property may be put. Van Auken v Kimmey, 252 N.Y.S. 343, 141 Misc. 117, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1641 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

Under subdivisions 24 and 25, the common council of a city has had duly delegated to it the power to adopt a zoning ordinance and to establish a residential district, excluding therefrom apartments or multi-family houses. MacEwen v New Rochelle, 267

N.Y.S. 36, 149 Misc. 251, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1366 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933).

The authority conferred by statute to divide a municipality into districts and to regulate buildings and structures therein implies the power to change districts from time to time as becomes necessary. Greenberg v New Rochelle, 129 N.Y.S.2d 691, 206 Misc. 28, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3209 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 284 A.D. 891, 134 N.Y.S.2d 593, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3968 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954).

Subdivision 24 of this section provides that regulations in one or more districts may differ from those in other districts, and it has long been recognized that zoning is not static and that change is a matter of proper exercise of legislative discretion. Chase v Glen Cove, 41 Misc. 2d 889, 246 N.Y.S.2d 975, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2157 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

The power given to the common council of a city under subdivisions 24 and 25 of this section to enact zoning regulations is a function of legislative character. Savatgy v Kingston, 51 Misc. 2d 251, 273 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1860 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 26 A.D.2d 978, 274 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3065 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1966).

Although this section empowered the City Council to adopt an ordinance regulating the location of trades and industries designed for specific uses, the regulation must be designed to promote public health, safety, and general welfare, and the Council was not empowered to restrict uses on the basis of need. Pomerantz v Lehmann, 55 Misc. 2d 315, 285 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1122 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

City may by virtue of provisions of Municipal Home Rule Law enact a zoning ordinance by local law so long as all of the requirements of that section of Municipal Home Rule Law conferring power on city to adopt zoning regulations are complied with. March v Port Jervis, 89 Misc. 2d 1086, 393 N.Y.S.2d 494, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2921 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

The power as to zoning ordinance is not restricted to regulating buildings and structures on land, but may also regulate the use of vacant land. People v Calvar Corp., 69 N.Y.S.2d 272, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1359 (N.Y. County Ct. 1940), aff'd, 286 N.Y. 419, 36 N.E.2d 644, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 419, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1457 (N.Y. 1941).

Zoning regulations are the product of farsighted planning calculated to promote the general welfare of the city at some future time. Little Falls v Fisk, 24 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1375 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

All zoning legislation is in derogation of commonlaw rights to the use of property. Little Falls v Fisk, 24 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1375 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

The basic test of zoning ordinance is—does it promote public health, safety and general welfare. People v Daly, 28 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1925 (N.Y. Spec. Sess. 1941).

Since a zoning ordinance is an exercise of police power, it must be strictly construed. People v Daly, 28 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1925 (N.Y. Spec. Sess. 1941).

The power to establish setback sideyard and rear yard restrictions is conferred by sub 24. Howell v Liebowitz, 116 N.Y.S.2d 537, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1910 (N.Y. City Ct. 1952).

The power to zone means districting for the purpose of location of trades, industries and buildings for specified uses and is conferred by sub 25. Howell v Liebowitz, 116 N.Y.S.2d 537, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1910 (N.Y. City Ct. 1952).

The provisions of the statute should be liberally construed: thus Board of Appeals had jurisdiction of property owners petition requesting interpretation of ordinance and elimination of violation thereof by another property owner. Crotty v Poersch, 129 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3231 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

32. —Particular regulations

City zoning ordinance which created special classification for commercial development of unique ecological area was neither vague nor improper delegation of authority, despite fact that it conferred power on site plan review agency to determine and approve conformance of development to land contour, where (1) ordinance limited agency's discretion to allow office buildings higher than one story by requiring examination of land contour, and (2) agency was powerless to act pursuant to ordinance until second ordinance was enacted which created site plan review district and set forth specific criteria to be considered by agency in passing on development applications. Save the Pine Bush, Inc. v Albany, 70 N.Y.2d 193, 518 N.Y.S.2d 943, 512 N.E.2d 526, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17997 (N.Y. 1987).

Designation of portion of New York City's Chinatown as special zoning district was not impermissible "piecemeal" legislation where entire city had been zoned, and designation at issue simply related to one of many amendments to city's comprehensive zoning law; piecemeal zoning exists only when part of land within municipality is regulated by zoning laws. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

Low-income residents of New York City's Chinatown failed to state claim of impermissible exclusionary zoning arising from city's designation of portion of area as special zoning district where city had not, nor had it ever, excluded low-cost housing in Chinatown or in city generally, and low-income families could continue to live in district, "hopefully in rehabilitated or newly constructed low-cost housing," once purposes of designation were fulfilled. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

Low-income residents of New York City's Chinatown were not entitled to order compelling city to amend zoning ordinance to provide more low-income housing in 14-block special zoning district within Chinatown since (1) city, in enacting zoning amendments affecting particular district, must also address needs of broader community, (2) to require city planners to include particular uses in such small district could be "truly obnoxious" to city's over-all development and could defeat purpose of special district zoning to preserve and enhance troubled areas of city, and (3) city had already made extensive allowance for variety of housing opportunities within its boundaries, and also provided for such opportunities within district itself. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

Airport terminal, parking facilities and air freight facilities would be embraced within immunity of county airport from requirements of land use laws of city in which they were located since such facilities constituted accessory uses customarily incidental to airport operation. In re County of Monroe's Compliance with Certain Zoning & Permit Requirements, etc., 72 N.Y.2d 338, 533 N.Y.S.2d 702, 530 N.E.2d 202, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2697 (N.Y. 1988).

Expansion of county airport should be free of land use oversight by city, even though airport was located substantially within city limits, since CLS Gen Mun § 350 impliedly exempts county from preapproval requirement of city, and balancing of public interests favored expansion given pre-existing use, lack of alternative location, opportunity of city to participate in county's land use oversight process, lack of detriment to adjoining landowners, and furtherance of interstate and intrastate commerce goals. In re County of Monroe's Compliance with Certain Zoning & Permit Requirements, etc., 72 N.Y.2d 338, 533 N.Y.S.2d 702, 530 N.E.2d 202, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2697 (N.Y. 1988).

A zoning ordinance which applies only to a small part of a single street in a city and is not adopted "in accord with a well considered plan" for zoning city, is invalid, and not within the power delegated by subdivision 25. Utica v Hanna, 202 A.D. 610, 195 N.Y.S. 225, 1922 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4945 (N.Y. App. Div. 1922).

In an action to enjoin the defendant from proceeding to erect a building in violation of the set-back regulation of a building zone ordinance, the plaintiffs, whose property is damaged, are not limited to their legal remedy for damages. Equity is available to compel, not only conformity with the ordinance nunc pro tunc, but also payment for the damage done to plaintiffs' property. Roock v Womer, 233 A.D. 566, 253 N.Y.S. 357, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11365 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

Pursuant to subdivision 25 the common council of Buffalo had adopted an ordinance setting aside particular area in which defendant's plant is situated as a district in which coke ovens might lawfully be located; such decision will not be set aside in the absence of bad faith, and an injunction will be denied. Bove v Donner-Hanna Coke Corp., 236 A.D. 37, 258 N.Y.S. 229, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5881 (N.Y. App. Div.), reh'g denied, 236 A.D. 775, 258 N.Y.S. 1075, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6864 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

Though the erection of an incinerator by the city may cause a depreciation of plaintiff's property and bring special hardship to plaintiffs, this is insufficient to invalidate a zoning regulation which promotes the general welfare. Hudson v Oyster Bay, 248 A.D. 737, 288 N.Y.S. 627, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7122 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

City zoning ordinance establishing land conservation district for lands lying within flood plain of river and not allowing any use as of right but only certain special uses by permit was in accord with a well-considered plan of city which established 14 zoning districts, and the provisions of ordinance with respect to land conservation district were not ultra vires. Dur-Bar Realty Co. v Utica, 57 A.D.2d 51, 394 N.Y.S.2d 913, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10477 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 804, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3719 (N.Y. 1977), aff'd, 44 N.Y.2d 1002, 408 N.Y.S.2d 502, 380 N.E.2d 328, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1978).

City zoning ordinance provision establishing land conservation district with respect to parcels within flood plain of river, and permitting no use as of right while requiring special permits for specified uses and enumerating criteria for issuance of special use permits, including requirement that the use be so designated, located and proposed to be operated that the public health, safety, welfare, and convenience will be protected and not substantially injure value of neighboring property did not constitute an improper delegation of legislative authority to zoning board of appeals. Dur-Bar Realty Co. v Utica, 57 A.D.2d 51, 394 N.Y.S.2d 913, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10477 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 804, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3719 (N.Y. 1977), aff'd, 44 N.Y.2d 1002, 408 N.Y.S.2d 502, 380 N.E.2d 328, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2174 (N.Y. 1978).

In an action by the owner of a certain parcel of land situated within the City of Yonkers, the trial court correctly held that a city zoning ordinance which changed the zoning designation of the parcel from apartment house use to residential use was unconstitutional as discriminatory where the ordinance was contrary to the city's comprehensive development plan and had been disapproved by the City Planning Board. H. Development Corp. v Yonkers, 80 A.D.2d 841, 436 N.Y.S.2d 776, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10670 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 54 N.Y.2d 605, 443 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 4439 (N.Y. 1981).

Provision of municipal ordinance keying demolition of buildings in protected historical districts to showing either that building in question was not of historical, archeological or aesthetic value, or that its owner would suffer hardship by being required to repair or maintain property incapable of yielding reasonable return, was constitutionally valid since it virtually replicated regulatory framework which had sustained constitutional attack. Historic Albany Foundation, Inc. v Coyne, 159 A.D.2d 73, 558 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8415 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Supreme Court erred in holding unconstitutional portion of city preservation ordinance which required owners of historic buildings to have plans for new development of site approved by municipal commission prior to demolishing building where county never showed economic impact of complying with ordinance, and thus court did not have specific facts before it to determine whether restrictions imposed on county's right to demolish were so severe as to amount to "taking." Historic Albany Foundation, Inc. v Coyne, 159 A.D.2d 73, 558 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8415 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

County, as owner of building in historic district, failed to show that city requirement of submission and approval of suitable plan of new development as condition for permitting demolition deprived county of all economically viable use of property since county was free to occupy, restore, use, rent or sell property, and it failed to avail itself of opportunities under demolition ordinance for obtaining administrative relief from strict enforcement. Historic Albany Foundation, Inc. v Coyne, 159 A.D.2d 73, 558 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8415 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Portion of city preservation ordinance which required owners of historic buildings to have plans for new development of site approved by municipal commission prior to demolishing building substantially advanced legitimate municipal purposes underlying ordinance, and thus did not constitute unconstitutional "taking," since permitting demolition without assurance that it would be followed by some form of development would create grave risk of site becoming overgrown and receptacle for litter, which was totally antithetical to aesthetic purposes of ordinance, and submitting plan in advance of demolition insured that owner was willing and capable of accomplishing necessary amelioration of effect of demolition. Historic Albany Foundation, Inc. v Coyne, 159 A.D.2d 73, 558 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8415 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

New York City zoning resolution which required listed theatres to obtain special permit for demolition was not unconstitutional since there was no evidence that zoning resolution was not based on comprehensive plan, and similar demolition permits were required in several other special districts. Shubert Organization, Inc. v Landmarks Preservation Com., 166 A.D.2d 115, 570 N.Y.S.2d 504, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7246 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 78 N.Y.2d 1006, 575 N.Y.S.2d 456, 580 N.E.2d 1059, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4181 (N.Y. 1991), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 751, 579 N.Y.S.2d 651, 587 N.E.2d 289, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 6083 (N.Y. 1991), cert. denied, 504 U.S. 946, 112 S. Ct. 2289, 119 L. Ed. 2d 213, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 3230 (U.S. 1992).

Amortization provisions, which require termination of nonconforming uses over specified period of time, are presumptively valid, unless owner can demonstrate that loss is so substantial that it outweighs public benefit gained by exercise of police power. Chekenian v Town Bd., 202 A.D.2d 542, 609 N.Y.S.2d 280, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2644 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Amortization provisions, which require termination of nonconforming uses over specified period of time, are generally sustained when time period allowed owner to recapture investment in use is deemed reasonable, and in determining whether certain amortization period is reasonable, one must examine all facts, including length of amortization period in relation to investment and nature of use. Chekenian v Town Bd., 202 A.D.2d 542, 609 N.Y.S.2d 280, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2644 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

New York City Board of Standards did not act arbitrarily in deciding that special permit had not lapsed under New York City Zoning Resolution § 11-42, and thus Resolution § 11-43, authorizing review of factual basis for renewing permit before its lapse, did not apply, where legislative history of § 11-42 supported board's finding that section not apply retroactively, especially given presumption against retroactivity. Landmark West! v New York City Bd. of Stds. & Appeals, 266 A.D.2d 119, 699 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12081 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

The New York city zoning ordinances are not intended to prevent a temporary or occasional use of property which is not of a permanent nature. Bartsch v Ragonetti, 207 N.Y.S. 142, 123 Misc. 903, 1924 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1034 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1924), aff'd, 214 A.D. 799, 210 N.Y.S. 825, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7860 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925).

A zoning ordinance, which arbitrarily establishes zoning line traversing, at an angle, two lots, so that portion of one lot is in "business" zone while remainder of lot is in "residence B" zone, and further provides for a twenty-five-foot "set-back" from all property lines, is not a "well-considered plan," and does not give reasonable consideration to "the conservation of property values," within meaning of subdivision 25 of this section, and in so far as ordinance affects said property it is unreasonable and void. Hecht-Dann Const. Co. v Burden, 208 N.Y.S. 299, 124 Misc. 632, 1924 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1109 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1924).

The zoning ordinance, passed by the common council of a city under authority of subdivision 25, which did not make a division of city into districts nor provide for regulation of trades and industries or prescribe what trades and industries should be excluded or subjected to special regulations, but delegated to the owners of four-fifths of street frontage in any block power to determine structures to be erected or altered in that block, effected an unlawful delegation of governmental power and is, therefore, void. The fact that said invalid ordinance has not been so declared by a court of competent jurisdiction does not prohibit city authorities from further legislating on the subject, except after notice and hearing as provided by § 83. Glens Falls v Standard Oil Co., 215 N.Y.S. 354, 127 Misc. 104, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 936 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1926).

Where permits to erect apartment houses were granted June 4, 1927, to defendant and ordinances adopted June 7, 1927, effective two weeks later placed defendant's property within the restricted residence district and at that time construction work had not commenced, the defendant had acquired no vested right and ordinance applies to the defendant. Furthermore plaintiffs owning nearby property may maintain an action since there is no adequate remedy at law. Rice v Van Vranken, 229 N.Y.S. 32, 132 Misc. 82, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 863 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1928), aff'd, 225 A.D. 179, 232 N.Y.S. 506, 1929 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11590 (N.Y. App. Div. 1929).

Where the "set-back line" provisions of an ordinance were not enacted with a view to public health, safety and general welfare and were arbitrary in that they gave no opportunity for variance or review, they were invalid. Van Auken v Kimmey, 252 N.Y.S. 343, 141 Misc. 117, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1641 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

Where fabricating plants have been removing sand and clay from adjacent property in a manufacturing district, ordinance which separates the land from which the clay and sand are procured and the plants, enacted pursuant to subdivision 25 is not a reasonable regulation. Heller v Alter, 255 N.Y.S. 627, 143 Misc. 10, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1390 (N.Y. Mun. Ct.), rev'd, 257 N.Y.S. 391, 143 Misc. 783, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1092 (N.Y. App. Term 1932).

Designation of zoning districts in an ordinance by plotting in on a comparatively small map, certain spaces in color to scale of 800 feet to an inch, without regard to whether divisional lines cut through the dwellings, industrial establishments or other buildings and properties, is not sufficient under subdivision 25. Cordts v Hutton Co., 262 N.Y.S. 539, 146 Misc. 10, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1772 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932), aff'd, 241 A.D. 648, 269 N.Y.S. 936, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8614 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1934).

Where the planning and zoning laws applicable to a city include subds. 24 and 25 of this section, an ordinance rezoning a particular site for a housing project is invalid if it does not conform to a well-considered plan. Chase v Glen Cove, 34 Misc. 2d 810, 227 N.Y.S.2d 131, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3588 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Under provision of New York City's adult entertainment zoning law prohibiting location of adult establishments within 500 feet from residence district, measurement was to be made in straight line from entrance of adult establishment to boundary line of residence district, not in straight line from entrance of adult establishment to entry to premises of nearest neighbor in residence district. City of New York v Scandals, 178 Misc. 2d 267, 678 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 463 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

Setback, side yard and rear yard restrictions of a City Building Zone Ordinance did not apply to a sewerage lift station where such a station was not one of the "uses" permitted by the ordinance. Howell v Liebowitz, 116 N.Y.S.2d 537, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1910 (N.Y. City Ct. 1952).

33. —Particular regulations; amendments and exceptions

When more restrictive zoning ordinance is enacted, owner will be permitted, under vested rights doctrine, to complete structure or development which amendment has rendered nonconforming only where owner has undertaken substantial construction and made substantial expenditures prior to effective date of amendment; doctrine applies alike to single building or to subdivision. Ellington Constr. Corp. v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 77 N.Y.2d 114, 564 N.Y.S.2d 1001, 566 N.E.2d 128, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 4421 (N.Y. 1990).

A zoning ordinance which gives the Common Council authority to grant special exceptions from height regulations did not violate General City Law §§ 20 (24) and § 81. Mandis v Gorski, 24 A.D.2d 181, 265 N.Y.S.2d 210, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2838 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

Amendment to city zoning resolution which created special zoning district was product of "well-considered plan" that took many factors into consideration, including needs of low-income residents, since it (1) was based on extensive research and analysis undertaken by department of city planning in conjunction with urban planners, architects, and engineers, (2) was designed to result in balance of income groups within community, (3) limited development to vacant or substantially vacant sites, rather than allowing wholesale redevelopment, and (4) provided mechanisms to insure that construction would proceed in controlled fashion, responsive to community needs. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 128 A.D.2d 99, 514 N.Y.S.2d 939, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43530 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

There was "reasonable relation" between city's rezoning of land from residential to light manufacturing to allow development of business park as site for new manufacturing facility, and city's goal of supporting economic development through retention of it largest employer and to reap associated economic and tax benefits in connection with development of business park, and thus court properly granted summary judgment to city respondents in combined Article 78 proceeding/declaratory judgment action seeking to annul alleged unlawful spot zoning. Save Our Forest Action Coalition, Inc. v City of Kingston, 246 A.D.2d 217, 675 N.Y.S.2d 451, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8581 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

A resolution by the common council of Buffalo granting to petitioner permission to erect a motion picture theatre on Hertel avenue on condition that he procure consent of authorities of a church on opposite side of the street is invalid. Wertheimer v Schwab, 210 N.Y.S. 312, 124 Misc. 822, 1925 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 844 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1925).

When the zoning ordinance was amended so as to take only the property of plaintiffs out of the business zone and place it in the residence zone, although premises across the way were left zoned for business such amendment constituted an invasion of property rights of the plaintiffs and judgment was granted in favor of plaintiffs in an action to declare unconstitutional the resolution so amending zoning map of the town. Evanns v Gunn, 29 N.Y.S.2d 368, 177 Misc. 85, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2641 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 262 A.D. 865, 29 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6309 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

An ordinance which altered the boundaries of the use district in which plaintiffs resided and changed the uses of property permitted in that district, was invalid where no public notice of the proposed change was given. Shefler v Geneva, 1 Misc. 2d 807, 147 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2266 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

City charter section permitting a referendum on amendments to zoning ordinances was invalid where the charter was adopted under the City Home Rule Law which gave no authority to city to provide for a referendum on such ordinances. Elkind v New Rochelle, 5 Misc. 2d 296, 163 N.Y.S.2d 870, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3332 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 4 A.D.2d 761, 165 N.Y.S.2d 709, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4813 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1957).

The City of Ogdensburg filed an application with the common council for permission to operate leased premises as a city dump in an area zoned as a residential district. Held: the common council, acting as a Board of Appeals, must disclose the facts known to its members personally or by way of evidence before adopting a resolution granting such permission or variance. Bresett v Ogdensburg, 14 Misc. 2d 912, 180 N.Y.S.2d 908, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2063 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

Where the relationship of a zoning amendment to public health, safety and welfare presents a fairly debatable question of fact, the amendment will not be declared unconstitutional. Mary Chess, Inc. v Glen Cove, 38 Misc. 2d 555, 237 N.Y.S.2d 607, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2291 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 23 A.D.2d 266, 260 N.Y.S.2d 293, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4065 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965).

34. —Particular regulations; establishment of residential districts

Subdivision 25 confers upon the city a right to regulate and restrict the location of buildings designed for specified uses, and for said purpose to divide the city into districts and to prescribe for each district use for which buildings may not be erected or altered. Where attempted division is not a division into districts within meaning of the statute, setting apart of residential districts must fail as unauthorized, and ordinance attempting to give the council control of the factory buildings in so-called residential districts which do not in fact exist must also fail. In re Kensington-Davis Corp., 239 N.Y. 54, 145 N.E. 738, 239 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 54, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 477 (N.Y. 1924).

Having the power to establish residential districts, the zoning authorities of Mount Vernon had the power to make such classification really effective by adopting such regulations as would be conducive to the welfare, health and safety of those desiring to live in such a district and enjoy the benefits thereof, by excluding big apartment houses whereby the enjoyment of adjoining premises might be impaired, the character and safety of the district as a residential one destroyed and the value of property already devoted to private residences impaired. Wulfsohn v Burden, 241 N.Y. 288, 150 N.E. 120, 241 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 288, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 551 (N.Y. 1925).

The zoning authorities of the city of Mount Vernon were entitled to assume and the courts have found that the orderly and advantageous development of that city and the welfare of its citizens would be promoted by a fundamental division of the city into districts devoted respectively to business and residential purposes and it cannot properly be said, as matter of law, that a zoning regulation excluding large apartment houses from residential districts cannot be justified. Wulfsohn v Burden, 241 N.Y. 288, 150 N.E. 120, 241 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 288, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 551 (N.Y. 1925).

The 22-year history of residential zoning, immediately adjoining residential properties to the west and south as well as presence of a park directly to the east and personal inspection by presiding justice sufficiently supported conclusion that there was no violation of comprehensive plan by zoning subject tract for residential purposes. Puzio v Yonkers, 55 A.D.2d 909, 390 N.Y.S.2d 452, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 41 N.Y.2d 804, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3051 (N.Y. 1977).

The zoning ordinance not violated by erection of temporary small shanties on property in residential district where they were erected solely as adjuncts and accessories to the work of removing sand from the property. Bartsch v Ragonetti, 207 N.Y.S. 142, 123 Misc. 903, 1924 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1034 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1924), aff'd, 214 A.D. 799, 210 N.Y.S. 825, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7860 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925).

Where the petitioner was not being interfered with in the use and occupancy of his property as it existed at the time when the district was converted into a residential district and where evidence failed to disclose any circumstances from which court could conclude that undue hardship was being worked upon petitioner in the operation of the zoning ordinance, petition for order of mandamus must be denied. Van Auken v Kimmey, 252 N.Y.S. 343, 141 Misc. 117, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1641 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

The zoning of properties solely for residential purposes, where they are not reasonably suited for such use, is not made "with reasonable consideration . . . to the character of the district, its peculiar suitability for particular uses . . . and the direction of building development, in accord with a well considered plan." Cordts v Hutton Co., 262 N.Y.S. 539, 146 Misc. 10, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1772 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932), aff'd, 241 A.D. 648, 269 N.Y.S. 936, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8614 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1934).

A zoning ordinance which provides that each and every city block, "being the lands lying between intersecting streets in both directions" and occupied only by buildings used exclusively for residence purposes, churches and schoolhouses, and outbuildings appurtenant thereto, in which there are not less than ten dwelling houses, is a residence district, violates subdivision 25. Olean v Conkling, 283 N.Y.S. 66, 157 Misc. 63, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1521 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1935).

City zoning ordinance which limited occupancy of single-family houses by defining family as "one or more persons . . . living together as a single housekeeping unit, subject to a limit of not more than three unrelated persons 18 years of age or over" did not violate due process since it did not unconstitutionally restrict living arrangements which were "functional equivalent of traditional family" and it was reasonably related to government objectives of reducing traffic, controlling population density, preventing noise, and preserving character of single-family neighborhoods. People v Multari, 135 Misc. 2d 913, 517 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2334 (N.Y. County Ct.), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 877, 523 N.Y.S.2d 504, 518 N.E.2d 15, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19218 (N.Y. 1987).

35. —Particular regulations; garages, parking lots and the like

Validity of ordinance prohibiting gasoline service stations within 150 feet of residence (§ 20, subds 24, 25). Burack v Mt. Vernon, 303 N.Y. 997, 106 N.E.2d 71, 303 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 997, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 1421 (N.Y. 1952).

A City has the power (§ 20, sub 25) to apply zoning ordinance so that owners and lessees of a garage in a business zone are prohibited from using an adjoining lot in a residence zone as a means of ingress and egress for the business area. Yonkers v Rentways, Inc., 304 N.Y. 499, 109 N.E.2d 597, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 499, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. 1952).

Where a city council had rezoned a prior residential district to one where gasoline stations were permitted as matter of right approximately one year prior to the filing of a petition by petitioner for a curb-lowering permit, the council could not properly deny the application without a finding that lowering of the curb would create a traffic hazard and change the character of the area so as not to be in the public interest, there being already 13 filling stations within a radius of four blocks. Adams Holding Corp. v Spitz, 17 A.D.2d 853, 233 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7359 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1962).

City planning commission improperly denied psychiatrist permission to conduct part-time practice as home occupation in area zoned for such use where zoning ordinance required that parking area be screened from adjoining residential lots, psychiatrist made prima facie showing of compliance by wall, fencing, shrubbery and embankment, and commission nonetheless contradicted its prior, long-standing application of statutory phrase "buffer area" by requiring additional buffer from neighbors where none was called for in residential zone. Major v Cohen, 126 A.D.2d 205, 513 N.Y.S.2d 271, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41144 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Syracuse, N.Y., General Ordinance 21 was enacted in violation of N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20(24) and Syracuse, N.Y., City Charter § 5-1302 because the ordinance was not uniform for each class of buildings within the district; the uniformity required by § 20(24) and § 5-1302 was uniformity for each class of buildings throughout any district. General Ordinance 21 treated buildings within the same class differently based on absentee property owners as opposed to owners who occupied the property. Tupper v City of Syracuse, 93 A.D.3d 1277, 941 N.Y.S.2d 383, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2167 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 96 A.D.3d 1514, 945 N.Y.S.2d 587, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4558 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2012).

A city ordinance which regulates the location and use of public garages within the city is invalid in absence of any grant by charter of city of power to council of the city to enact ordinances regulating public garages. Subdivision 25 does not grant such power. Hoffer v Schwab, 213 N.Y.S. 659, 126 Misc. 289, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 579 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1926).

The owner of a licensed garage opposite the premises of the defendants, who operate an open-air parking space for more than five cars in a restricted district, in violation of the zoning resolution and to the financial detriment of the plaintiff, is a proper party to prosecute an injunction action. Seidman & Sons, Inc. v Tilrose Camp Operating Co., 274 N.Y.S. 606, 153 Misc. 510, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1803 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

In an action wherein the plaintiff, whose home was located across the street from a sixty-foot parcel at the rear of a hotel and an apartment house, seeks to restrain the use thereof as a parking lot, on the ground that such use constitutes a private nuisance, the plaintiff is deemed to have established a cause of action based on the injury to his property as a result of the lawful but unreasonable and obnoxious use of the lot. Buffalo Park Lane v Buffalo, 294 N.Y.S. 413, 162 Misc. 207, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1574 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

A city's power to regulate the area of yards and courts under subd. 24 of this section is restricted to providing regulations uniform for each class of building throughout the many districts, and where a city provides separate regulations for off-street parking and parking lots, the parking lot regulations must be construed as applicable to all parking lots, including a non-accessory parking lot permitted in an R-3A district where the frontage is 70 feet with an area of 7000 feet. Airequipt Mfg. Co. v Gardner, 235 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4164 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

36. Particular regulations; prohibition of particular business or use

Amortization provisions of zoning ordinance regulating preexisting uses are presumptively valid under constitution unless owner can demonstrate that loss suffered is so substantial that it outweighs public benefit gained by exercise of police power. Islip v Caviglia, 73 N.Y.2d 544, 542 N.Y.S.2d 139, 540 N.E.2d 215, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 485 (N.Y. 1989).

Functional interdependence of related structures, rather than economic interdependence or nature of use, is proper test for determining whether landowner is entitled to continue nonconforming use of parcel following accidental destruction of one structure which is part of larger complex; by that formulation, public interest in eliminating nonconforming uses at legally opportunistic time is placed in reasonable balance with owner's interest in not having property investment abruptly altered or terminated. Pelham Esplanade, Inc. v Board of Trustees, 77 N.Y.2d 66, 563 N.Y.S.2d 759, 565 N.E.2d 508, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3720 (N.Y. 1990).

There is no absolute entitlement to reestablishment of nonconforming use; thus, where owner's investment is extinguished by accidental destruction of structure which had constituted nonconforming use, it is not unreasonable thereafter to require compliance with current zoning requirements and to base denial of reestablishment on some significant percent of value or volume destroyed. Pelham Esplanade, Inc. v Board of Trustees, 77 N.Y.2d 66, 563 N.Y.S.2d 759, 565 N.E.2d 508, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3720 (N.Y. 1990).

"Amortization period" in zoning regulation simply designates period of time granted to owners of nonconforming uses during which they may phase out their operations as they see fit and make other arrangements. Village of Valatie v Smith, 83 N.Y.2d 396, 610 N.Y.S.2d 941, 632 N.E.2d 1264, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. 1994).

Length of "amortization period" during which property owners must phase out nonconforming use need not be based on municipality's land use objectives; to contrary, periods are routinely calculated to protect rights of individual owners (such as providing adequate time to recoup their investment in use) at temporary expense of public land use objectives. Village of Valatie v Smith, 83 N.Y.2d 396, 610 N.Y.S.2d 941, 632 N.E.2d 1264, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. 1994).

Right to continue nonconforming use runs with land in absence of amortization legislation; however, once valid amortization scheme is enacted, right ends at termination of amortization period, and thus, as practical matter, owner of record during amortization period will enjoy right that cannot be transferred to subsequent owner once period passes. Village of Valatie v Smith, 83 N.Y.2d 396, 610 N.Y.S.2d 941, 632 N.E.2d 1264, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. 1994).

Amortization period during which owners of nonconforming use must phase out use should not be deemed unreasonable merely because it might be too long; amortization periods are exceptions (in that, absent such scheme, owners of nonconforming uses are free to continue uses indefinitely and to transfer them to successor owners) and they have never been mandatory as matter of constitutional law. Village of Valatie v Smith, 83 N.Y.2d 396, 610 N.Y.S.2d 941, 632 N.E.2d 1264, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. 1994).

Municipality is not obliged to permit exploitation of any and all natural resources within its borders as permitted use if limiting that use is reasonable exercise of its police powers to prevent damage to rights of others and to promote interests of community as whole. Gernatt Asphalt Prods. v Town of Sardinia, 87 N.Y.2d 668, 642 N.Y.S.2d 164, 664 N.E.2d 1226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 313 (N.Y. 1996).

Adequate objective intelligible standard for administrative action by way of legislative rule making is provided by NYC Local Law No. 14 (NYC Admin Code § 20-465.1) which delegates legislative power to Street Vendor Review Panel to designate specific street locations where street vending will be prohibited or restricted due to excessive pedestrian or vehicular traffic congestion posing public safety risk, even though such rule making necessarily entails agency fact-finding component. Big Apple Food v Street Vendor Review Panel, 90 N.Y.2d 402, 660 N.Y.S.2d 846, 683 N.E.2d 752, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1997).

City zoning ordinance, which included array of site limitations and anticlustering provisions with respect to adult entertainment establishments, was not unconstitutionally vague where its definitional provisions were sufficiently specific to provide public with clear and reasonable notice of type of businesses that were covered; ordinance's distance requirements (e.g., requiring adult establishments to be located at least 500 feet from one another) were not too vague merely because they did not include statement indicating precise standard for measurement. Stringfellow's of New York v City of New York, 91 N.Y.2d 382, 671 N.Y.S.2d 406, 694 N.E.2d 407, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 137 (N.Y. 1998).

City defendants were properly granted summary judgment declaring that plaintiffs' rights of freedom of expression were not violated by provisions of amended zoning code whose enforcement would lead to forced relocation of 84 percent of city's 177 adult entertainment establishments, as reasonable alternative avenues of adult communication were shown to exist where city satisfied its initial burden of showing that space designated for adult uses would be adequate to accommodate 177 existing adult businesses, and affidavit of land-use planner (submitted by plaintiffs) was speculative and failed to raise triable question of fact with respect thereto. Stringfellow's of New York v City of New York, 91 N.Y.2d 382, 671 N.Y.S.2d 406, 694 N.E.2d 407, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 137 (N.Y. 1998).

City defendants were properly granted summary judgment declaring that plaintiffs' rights of freedom of expression were not violated by amended zoning code which, inter alia, barred adult entertainment establishments from manufacturing and commercial districts that permitted residential development while permitting them in other manufacturing districts and all high-density general commercial districts; amended code protected only those communities and institutions that were most vulnerable to problems associated with adult establishments by preventing adult businesses from locating in potential residential districts while allowing them to locate in manufacturing and commercial districts, and plaintiffs' argument that certain individual adult businesses might be shown to not contribute to urban blight did not impair constitutionality of challenged regulations. Stringfellow's of New York v City of New York, 91 N.Y.2d 382, 671 N.Y.S.2d 406, 694 N.E.2d 407, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 137 (N.Y. 1998).

Plaintiffs failed to establish that amended zoning code, which barred adult entertainment establishments from manufacturing and commercial districts that permitted residential development while permitting them in other manufacturing districts and all high-density general commercial districts, was impermissible attempt to regulate content of expression; legislative record established that decision to enact code was aimed at negative secondary effects caused by adult uses, which is legitimate governmental purpose, and plaintiffs' reliance on isolated comments of some city officials as evidence of alleged improper motive was unavailing because it is motive of legislature, not individual legislators, that is controlling. Stringfellow's of New York v City of

New York, 91 N.Y.2d 382, 671 N.Y.S.2d 406, 694 N.E.2d 407, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 137 (N.Y. 1998).

Video store catering to gay male community, which had only 24 percent of its stock dedicated to adult use, was improperly found to be "adult establishment" under city zoning resolution and guidelines which adopted 60:40 formula for defining whether "substantial portion" of business' stock-in-trade is dedicated to adult use, irrespective of whether store owner offered nonadult products only to comply with 60:40 formula, where nonadult videos were prominently displayed on racks in front of store and were "accessible and available for sale" within meaning of guidelines as written; definition of "stock," as used in administrative guidelines, did not include inquiry into whether nonadult videos were offered solely for sale, not for rent, or whether nonadult inventory was profitable. City of New York v Hommes, 94 N.Y.2d 267, 702 N.Y.S.2d 576, 724 N.E.2d 368, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3929 (N.Y. 1999).

New York City Board of Standards and Appeals (BSA) had rational basis to determine that no environmental impact statement was necessary prior to granting use variances permitting development of 2 properties located along northernmost boundary of SoHo Cast-Iron Historic District, where BSA took "hard look" at potential environmental effects of proposed development, sought input from several interested agencies including city's Department of Environmental Protection and Landmarks Preservation Commission, and required archaeological studies and soil and groundwater testing. SoHo Alliance v New York City Bd. of Stds. & Appeals, 95 N.Y.2d 437, 718 N.Y.S.2d 261, 741 N.E.2d 106, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3568 (N.Y. 2000).

Under New York City Zoning Resolution § 12-10, "substantial portion" component applied in determining whether defendants' club, only part of which was dedicated to adult activities, constituted "adult establishment" subject to municipal regulation. City of New York v Dezer Props, Inc., 95 N.Y.2d 771, 710 N.Y.S.2d 836, 732 N.E.2d 943, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 896 (N.Y. 2000).

Topless bar was not entitled to declaratory judgment that, because it purportedly admitted minors, it was "customarily open to the general public" and thus was not "adult eating or drinking establishment" under New York City amended zoning resolution § 12-10 as (1) "customary openness" requires openness that is usual, ordinary or habitual, rather than rare or occasional, and (2) petitioner's so-called "minors" policy, which involved elaborate 8-step protocol, represented obvious attempt to avoid restrictions of 12-10 and potential criminal liability, and was drawn so restrictively as to amount to de facto exclusion of minors. City of New York v Stringfellow's of N.Y., Ltd., 96 N.Y.2d 51, 725 N.Y.S.2d 617, 749 N.E.2d 192, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 628 (N.Y. 2001).

Alcoholic Beverage Control Law did not preempt New York City's amended zoning resolution § 12-10 regulating location of "adult establishments" in city, because zoning resolution was local law of general application, its thrust was zoning and not regulation of alcohol, it applied to all adult establishments whether they sold alcohol or not, it was directed at alleviating secondary effects of adult establishments, and any impact on sellers of alcoholic beverages was merely incidental to city's land use scheme. DJL Rest. Corp. v City of New York, 96 N.Y.2d 91, 725 N.Y.S.2d 622, 749 N.E.2d 186, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. 2001).

The City of Yonkers had the power to adopt a zoning ordinance prohibiting a business or commercial use of property (§ 20, sub 25). Yonkers v Rentways, Inc., 280 A.D. 821, 113 N.Y.S.2d 803, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3814 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 304 N.Y. 499, 109 N.E.2d 597, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 499, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. 1952).

Zoning ordinance which did not totally prohibit establishment of drug rehabilitation centers otherwise approved by state agency but which only required that such a facility conformed to certain criteria within competence of local zoning board to determine was not invalid as conflicting with Mental Hygiene Law. Ibero-American Action League, Inc. v Palma, 47 A.D.2d 998, 366 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9497 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

A city building commissioner improperly denied an application for a license to operate a rooming house on the asserted ground that the applicant had obtained a certificate of occupancy that limited the premises to single-family use, so that reconversion of the building into a rooming house would violate the applicable building code safety requirements for fireproof construction, since the ordinance that required fireproof construction of rooming houses was inapplicable to the subject application in that it applied only to those rooming houses that were "constructed or put into operation" after 1976, and the premises in question had been built several decades before that, since the standards governing the granting of licenses must be applied equitably to all applicants, and a rooming house operation license had been granted to the building's previous owner without reference to the fireproof construction requirement, since the applicant's application for the single-family certificate of occupancy had been made at the behest of the building commissioner after the applicant's first license application had been rejected and had expressly stated that it was being filed under protest and that the use of the house as a one-family dwelling would not be deemed to be a waiver of rooming house use in the event issuance of a rooming house license was later ordered, so that the application for a single-family certificate of occupancy did not constitute an abandonment of the building's use as a rooming house so as to render the fire construction ordinance applicable. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

City zoning ordinance that deemed abandoned any nonconforming use that had been discontinued for more than one year did not amount to "automatic reversion" to different zoning classification so as to subject ordinance to public notice and hearing requirements of CLS Gen City § 83, since loss of status as nonconforming use merely required use of such property to comply with existing restrictions applicable to particular zone. Carcuro v Madigan, 124 A.D.2d 294, 508 N.Y.S.2d 89, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 61331 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

Purchaser of premises that had been used as tavern in residential neighborhood for many years until owner's death knew or should have known both of tavern's nonconforming use status and that discontinuance of use for substantial period of time could affect right to reinstitute nonconforming use, and thus city's issuance of restaurant permit to purchaser did not estop city from invoking ordinance deeming such use abandoned due to discontinuance of use during period between owner's death and purchaser's reopening. Carcuro v Madigan, 124 A.D.2d 294, 508 N.Y.S.2d 89, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 61331 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

City planning commission had insufficient basis to deny psychiatrist permission to conduct part-time practice as home occupation in area zoned for such use where (1) commission found that proposed use would be inappropriate in its location and would have material adverse effect on existing development in zoning district, (2) there was nonetheless no evidence that use would have any visual impact, that it would detract from property values, or that minor influx of patients would be distinguishable from normal social visits to homes in area, and (3) commission, by restrictively identifying affected area as small group of homes on 2 adjoining streets, made nothing more than general objection to locating particular activity in area; zoning ordinance's inclusion of home occupations generally as permitted use acted to estop commission from finding that intrusion of any home occupation, no matter how innocuous, was undesirable. Major v Cohen, 126 A.D.2d 205, 513 N.Y.S.2d 271, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41144 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Decision of city zoning board of appeals denying property owner special use permit to operate car wash on same parcel containing tavern, restaurant, dancehall and apartments was not arbitrary or capricious, even though board denied application on ground that addition of car wash would violate provision of zoning ordinance which allowed only certain accessory uses in conjunction with lot's primary use, and nothing in ordinance prohibited multiple primary uses, since board was entitled to determine that, where primary use was already in place, any additional uses requiring board approval were to be limited to allowable accessory uses; construing ordinance to permit multiple primary uses through resort to special permit provisions would effectively nullify provision pertaining to accessory uses. Del Vecchio v Lalla, 136 A.D.2d 820, 523 N.Y.S.2d 654, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 276 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

In Article 78 proceeding to challenge rezoning of property, court erred in requiring city's lead agency to take another "hard look" at zoning once specific plans for site had been formulated, since city had already taken hard look at potential environmental impact of development of site. Neville v Koch, 173 A.D.2d 323, 575 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7272 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991), aff'd, 79 N.Y.2d 416, 583 N.Y.S.2d 802, 593 N.E.2d 256, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1297 (N.Y. 1992).

City's zoning provision, which excluded educational uses from class of special permit uses in district, thereby depriving educational institution of opportunity to demonstrate that educational use of its property did not pose threat to public welfare, was not designed to accomplish or advance legitimate public purpose. Trustees of Union College v Members of the Schenectady City Council, 230 A.D.2d 17, 656 N.Y.S.2d 425, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3733 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 91 N.Y.2d 161, 667 N.Y.S.2d 978, 690 N.E.2d 862, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3714 (N.Y. 1997).

Owner's use of residence as boarding house was never nonconforming use that could have been abandoned, where city zoning board did not deny her application for certificate of nonconforming use because it found that she had abandoned nonconforming use; rather, it denied her application because it found that her residence had never been used as boarding house before enactment of zoning ordinance, which had restricted her area to single-family residences. Tilmont v City of Middletown, 238 A.D.2d 598, 657 N.Y.S.2d 952, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4375 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

New York City was entitled to preliminary injunction and partial summary judgment on issue of whether defendant cabaret, which featured topless entertainment and lap dancing by female performers, was "adult establishment" as defined by city zoning resolution § 12-10 and thus constituted public nuisance, notwithstanding defendant's purported policy of admitting previously banned minors when accompanied by parent or guardian; it could not be said that defendant "customarily" admitted minors as that term is ordinarily used. City of New York v Stringfellow's of N.Y., Ltd., 253 A.D.2d 110, 684 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 935 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 916, 691 N.Y.S.2d 379, 713 N.E.2d 413, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1238 (N.Y. 1999).

City zoning resolution's "60-40 rule," which was used to determine whether "substantial portion" of commercial establishment's floor space was devoted to adult entertainment and thus subject to certain zoning restrictions, applied to single-use adult eating or drinking establishments and was not limited to adult book and video stores where resolution defined "adult establishment" as including any "commercial establishment where a 'substantial portion' of the establishment includes an . . . adult eating or drinking establishment," and there was no exemption for eating and drinking establishments, regardless of whether they were limited to those uses. City of New York v Dezer Props., Inc., 259 A.D.2d 116, 697 N.Y.S.2d 41, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10889 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Plaintiffs failed to state cause of action against owners of not-for-profit homeless shelter and alcohol crisis center for breach of city zoning ordinance requiring special permit where (1) owners had received certificate of operation from State Department of Social Services to operate "shelter for adults," (2) center's provision of services, including primary care for alcoholics, counseling, and advice on job training, were consistent with and ancillary to its function as "shelter for adults" as defined in CLS Soc Serv § 2(23), (3) center's operations were heavily regulated by state, and (4) thus, application of zoning ordinance to center was preempted by CLS Soc Serv Art 7 and 18 NYCRR Part 485. DeStefano v Emergency Hous. Group, Inc., 281 A.D.2d 449, 722 N.Y.S.2d 35, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2398 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 715, 729 N.Y.S.2d 442, 754 N.E.2d 202, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1456 (N.Y. 2001).

An ordinance prohibiting in a particular part of the city a business which is not a nuisance per se is unconstitutional. People v Levine, 198 N.Y.S. 328, 119 Misc. 766, 1922 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1658 (N.Y. County Ct. 1922).

A city does not place unreasonable or unnecessary restrictions upon the erection of apartment houses in residential districts of city since restrictions, in the light of existing social conditions and advancing social necessities, are properly within the powers of a municipality to limit and restrict the use of private property under legislative authority. Headley v Fennell, 210 N.Y.S. 102, 124 Misc. 886, 1924 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1127 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1924), aff'd, 214 A.D. 810, 210 N.Y.S. 861, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7930 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925).

Where thrust of city ordinance banning topless dancing was prohibition against any breast exposure in public, and ordinance was thus directed against nudity rather than obscenity, it infringed upon exercise of First Amendment rights; even if ordinance could have been constitutionally applied to activities of defendants, it could be challenged on basis of overbreadth in that it was drawn so as to sweep within its ambit the speech or expression of other persons not before the court. In re A., 89 Misc. 2d 109, 390 N.Y.S.2d 518, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2823 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1976).

Practice of electrolysis is not profession within meaning of city zoning ordinance, although practice requires some specialized training, since it does not involve long and extensive academic preparation and electrologists are not required to have either training or education to entitle them to be considered professionals. People v Marcus, 142 Misc. 2d 908, 538 N.Y.S.2d 928, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 149 (N.Y. City Ct. 1989).

Provisions of municipal zoning ordinance which city invoked to deny special use permit to operator of adult bookstore to conduct "peep show" were "content neutral" where they were not directed at specific types of expression or at businesses at which particular types of expression were conducted, and therefore they did not bear heavy presumption of unconstitutionality as matter of federal constitutional law, and were not presumptively invalid and subject to strict scrutiny under state constitutional standards; issue was whether challenged provisions were valid time, place and manner restrictions. Barbulean v City of Newburgh, 168 Misc. 2d 728, 640 N.Y.S.2d 935, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 687 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

"Content neutral" zoning ordinance, which city invoked to deny special use permit to operator of adult bookstore to conduct "peep show" in commercial district, did not impose unconstitutional time, place and manner restrictions where it promoted substantial governmental interest of ensuring that retail establishments were not adversely affected by influx of large number of individuals whose presence at theater-type business created pedestrian and vehicular traffic and parking burdens, and it permitted operation of theaters in other zoning districts as of right. Barbulean v City of Newburgh, 168 Misc. 2d 728, 640 N.Y.S.2d 935, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 687 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

"Content neutral" zoning ordinance which required special use permit to operate theater (or "peep show") in commercial zoning district was facially unconstitutional, although it promoted legitimate governmental interests associated with time, place and manner restrictions, where restrictions were broader than needed to achieve municipality's purpose of controlling traffic; ordinance listed 12 specific factors for zoning authority to consider when determining whether or not to grant special use permit, but it also permitted consideration of "other things," which gave zoning authority virtually unlimited discretion in making its decision. Barbulean v City of Newburgh, 168 Misc. 2d 728, 640 N.Y.S.2d 935, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 687 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

Provision of adult entertainment zoning law, prohibiting location of adult establishments within 500 feet from residence district, was not invalid as applied to topless bar simply because substantial portion of residence district consisted of cemetery which, by its very nature, contained no living residents who would need protection from negative secondary effects of adult eating or drinking establishment. City of New York v Scandals, 178 Misc. 2d 267, 678 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 463 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

In action to abate nuisance under New York City zoning resolutions regulating adult establishments, city was not entitled to preliminary injunctive relief on ground that respondents continued to fall within definition of "adult establishment" and did not make sufficient abatement efforts, where respondents had reduced area of their premises devoted to adult uses to less than 40 percent; under Zoning Resolution § 12-10, "60:40 ratio" is singular factor in determining whether "substantial portion" of premises is devoted to adult use, although respondents were not thereby deemed automatically in compliance with zoning resolutions. City of New York v Show World, Inc., 178 Misc. 2d 812, 683 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998), aff'd sub. nom., City of New York v Hommes, 258 A.D.2d 284, 685 N.Y.S.2d 49, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 891 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

"Cigar room" located within establishment that regularly featured live performances by nude women, in which bikini-clad women performed "private dances" for patrons, was inextricably connected with activity in main performance room even if dancers in cigar room did not expose intimate body parts, and thus it was included in calculation of customer-accessible floor space allocated to adult use for purpose of 60:40 formula for determining if establishment was "adult" establishment operating in C4 zoning district in violation of New York City zoning resolution § 32-01(a). City of New York v Wiggles, 178 Misc. 2d 1007, 682 N.Y.S.2d 824, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 570 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

"Certification of Waiver or Authorization" from Federal Aviation Administration, authorizing defendant's use of para-sails with banners on Hudson River, preempted NYC Admin Code § 10-126(d)(1) which makes it unlawful to advertise by towing banners from or on aircraft over New York City limits; because administrative code sought to entirely prohibit, rather than regulate, what federal government authorized, it was unconstitutional on its face. People v Santoriello, 183 Misc. 2d 54, 702 N.Y.S.2d 539, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 568 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1999).

Where defendant's adult establishment complied with New York City's zoning code as interpreted by administrative guidelines in existence when nuisance abatement action was commenced, city was not entitled to preliminary injunction and temporary closing order based on additional factors not specifically set forth in prior guidelines which established that defendant's literal compliance with then-existing guidelines was "sham" which would undermine adult use provisions of zoning code; court dimsissed action, without prejudice to future applications related to zoning code as interpreted by revised administrative guidelines. City of New York v Warehouse on the Block, Ltd., 183 Misc. 2d 489, 703 N.Y.S.2d 900, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 18 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

A zoning ordinance prohibiting businesses in specified area and excluding artists from the operation thereof was violated by defendant who made Neon signs at his residence. People v Daly, 28 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1925 (N.Y. Spec. Sess. 1941).

37. —Particular regulations; restriction on population density

Section of a zoning ordinance restricting the number of families that may lawfully be housed on an acre of ground or a fractional part thereof is not authorized by subdivision 24 and is invalid. Barker v Switzer, 209 A.D. 151, 205 N.Y.S. 108, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8570 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 238 N.Y. 624, 144 N.E. 918, 238 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 624, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 807 (N.Y. 1924).

Creation of single-family residence districts does not constitute an exercise of the power to regulate density of population. Hall v Leonard, 260 A.D. 591, 23 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4664 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940), aff'd, 285 N.Y. 719, 34 N.E.2d 893, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 719, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1711 (N.Y. 1941).

Under § 20, subdivision 24, as it existed in 1924, city of Albany had no authority to enact ordinance restricting number of families that might be lawfully housed on an acre of ground or a fractional part thereof. Albany v Anthony, 262 A.D. 401, 28 N.Y.S.2d 963, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5377 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

38. —Other matters

City of Rye is not empowered by zoning enabling provisions of General City Law (§§ 20, 37), historical preservation provisions of General Municipal Law (§ 96-a) or landmarks preservation provisions of Rye City Code (Chapter 117) to mandate manner in which property may be owned or held or to impose upon owner of tract containing historic structures, or purchasers of properties neighboring tract, cost of rehabilitation or enhancement of properties. FGL & L Property Corp. v Rye, 66 N.Y.2d 111, 495 N.Y.S.2d 321, 485 N.E.2d 986, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 17179 (N.Y. 1985).

City law, denying educational institution opportunity to apply for special use permits in single family historic district, was unauthorized and therefore unconstitutional; public interest in historic preservation does not as matter of law override competing educational interests, and thus decision to restrict proposed educational use can only be made after intended use is evaluated against other legitimate interests, with primary consideration given to over-all impact on public welfare. Trustees of Union College v Members of the Schenectady City Council, 91 N.Y.2d 161, 667 N.Y.S.2d 978, 690 N.E.2d 862, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3714 (N.Y. 1997).

Substantial evidence supported grant of use variances permitting development of 2 properties located along northernmost boundary of SoHo Cast-Iron Historic District where (1) City Planning Commission study established that idiosyncratic lot configuration of properties in question resulted in practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship not created by owners, (2) owners submitted expert evidence providing "dollars and cents" proof that no conforming uses or lesser nonconforming uses would yield reasonable rate of return of 9.9 percent, and (3) rational basis existed for New York City Board of Standards and Appeals to conclude that proposed development, which would bring only 185 new residents and conformed with Landmarks Preservation Commission's requirement that outward appearance of buildings be consistent with special architectural features of district, would not change essential character of neighborhood. SoHo Alliance v New York City Bd. of Stds. & Appeals, 95 N.Y.2d 437, 718 N.Y.S.2d 261, 741 N.E.2d 106, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3568 (N.Y. 2000).

The complaint does not show that plaintiff has requisite interest to maintain action in equity, for his property is not adjacent to defendant's property, although within zone, nor is there any allegation, other than the fact that the gasoline service station is to be erected, to show that the value of plaintiff's property will be materially reduced by the erection of a station or that the station will constitute a public nuisance. Nor is it alleged that gasoline service station is not of a good appearance or that its use will disturb the peace and quiet of the neighborhood or that it is within view of plaintiff's premises, or that any odors or disturbing noises therefrom will reach plaintiff's property. Nor is there any allegation that plaintiff will suffer irreparable damage by reason of erection of the station. Atkins v West, 222 A.D. 308, 226 N.Y.S. 335, 1928 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8061 (N.Y. App. Div. 1928).

The fact that the board had previously denied an application to extend a commercial building, a motion picture theatre, into a residence district, did not preclude it from considering a second application, where the plans on the second application were dissimilar from those submitted on the first application and contained provisions safeguarding the character of the restricted district. In the second application it was not sought to change the use of the district in any degree but merely to use a very small portion of the residence district in order to accommodate the rear of the theatre. Reed v Board of Standards & Appeals, 230 A.D. 21, 243 N.Y.S. 263, 1930 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8542 (N.Y. App. Div. 1930), aff'd, 255 N.Y. 126, 174 N.E. 301, 255 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 126, 1931 N.Y. LEXIS 656 (N.Y. 1931).

Though record amply supported determination that existing city zoning classification, insofar as it related to plaintiff's property and to property within "affected area," was confiscatory and therefore void, where the improper zoning was not discriminatory per se, new zoning should be determined not by the court but by the Board of Estimate. Stilbell Realty Corp. v New York, 54

A.D.2d 962, 388 N.Y.S.2d 648, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14880 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Complaint which challenged creation of special zoning district comprising 14-20 city blocks on ground that city did not affirmatively order construction of low- and moderate-income housing therein failed to state cause of action and should have been dismissed since (1) cities have no constitutional obligation to zone for low-to-moderate-income housing, (2) zoning board's community plan provided appropriate incentives to develop low- and moderate-income housing, and (3) zoning amendments in question were consistent with well-considered regional plan; there is no requirement that individual zoning districts contain housing balance so long as overall zoning resolution provides for balanced and integrated community. Asian Americans for Equality v Koch, 128 A.D.2d 99, 514 N.Y.S.2d 939, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43530 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 121, 531 N.Y.S.2d 782, 527 N.E.2d 265, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. 1988).

Planning, design and construction of proposed improvements to international airport located in city but owned and operated by county were not subject to site plan review process and permit requirements of city code since county is authorized to operate and maintain airport by CLS Gen Mun §§ 350, 352, 355 and 356, and airport expansion involves governmental rather than proprietary function; thus, city ordinances and permit requirements did not apply to expansion of airport terminal building, temporary and permanent parking facilities, and air freight facility. In re County of Monroe's Compliance with Certain Zoning & Permit Requirements etc., 131 A.D.2d 74, 520 N.Y.S.2d 676, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48597 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 338, 533 N.Y.S.2d 702, 530 N.E.2d 202, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2697 (N.Y. 1988).

Property owner was not required to take administrative appeal to city zoning board of appeals and thus could bring Article 78 proceeding to review determination of city historic district and landmarks preservation commission, which denied owner's application for preliminary site plan approval, since Article 78 was appropriate vehicle to challenge determination of landmark preservation commission, and relevant enabling statutes (CLS Gen City §§ 81(1), 20(24) and 20(25), and CLS Gen Mun § 96-a) did not empower city zoning board of appeals to hear and decide appeals from determinations of landmark preservation commission. Academy Mews, Inc. v Kane, 143 A.D.2d 960, 533 N.Y.S.2d 620, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10764 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. dismissed, 73 N.Y.2d 906, 539 N.Y.S.2d 292, 536 N.E.2d 621, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 162 (N.Y. 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding against city's zoning board of appeals, court erred in ordering hearing de novo before it on application for zoning use variance, since determination of whether to grant variance lies within discretion of zoning authorities and reviewing court may not conduct trial de novo. Cohen v Hahn, 155 A.D.2d 969, 547 N.Y.S.2d 780, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Defendant's use of his residential premises constituted "customary home occupation" within meaning of city zoning ordinance where (1) only use by defendant of residence in connection with his limousine service was to receive telephone calls in response to which he or his son utilized various limousines for transportation of paying passengers to airport, (2) no customers arrived at or departed from residence, and (3) no external indicia of transportation business were displayed at defendant's residence. White Plains v Deruvo, 159 A.D.2d 534, 552 N.Y.S.2d 399, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2709 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Owner of 4-story warehouse, who sought to convert it to restaurant on first floor and offices on remaining 3 floors, was not required to apply for variance for use of fourth floor as offices where (1) building was constructed in 1947 and was used continuously as warehouse until 1987, (2) building was in B-2 Central Business District, (3) in 1956, zoning code was changed to limit height of buildings in B-2 Central Business District to 3 stories and to prohibit warehouses, and (4) city zoning code provided that buildings which conformed in use but not in height would not be considered nonconforming. Elm Street Assoc. v Sniado, 159 A.D.2d 570, 552 N.Y.S.2d 432, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2744 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Petitioner was not entitled to annulment of determination of city zoning board of appeals which denied request for demolition permit on basis of city historic resources commission ordinance which required that person seeking to demolish structure in protected district must first submit and obtain approval for plans for new development; plans for new development were required even though impetus for request for demolition was fire which made structure unsound and order by city which required petitioner to barricade structure and to stabilize and restore it. Lemme v Dolan, 163 A.D.2d 717, 558 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8410 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Determination of Department of Consumer Affairs to discontinue consideration of petitioner's application for construction and maintenance of enclosed sidewalk cafe in front of leased restaurant premises was not arbitrary and capricious in light of ongoing dispute between petitioner and condominium building's board over control of sidewalk area, as well as community board's recommendation that application be denied because of expressed community concern regarding obstruction of pedestrian traffic. 600 West 115th Street Corp. v New York, 171 A.D.2d 425, 567 N.Y.S.2d 7, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2637 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991).

Assignment of out-of-sequence address to cooperative building was rational exercise of borough president's discretion since (1) borough president has full and final authority to make all determinations concerning designation of street addresses, and (2) NYC Admin Code §§ 3-506 and 3-507, governing numbering and renumbering of street addresses by borough president, do not require that internal street numbering for each block be in sequential or continuous order. Lincoln Plaza Tenants Corp. v Dinkins, 171 A.D.2d 577, 567 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991).

New York City regulation which prohibited installation of sidewalk structures for purpose of distribution of commercial speech was unconstitutional, even though city had substantial interest to be achieved by restrictions it would place on commercial speech distributed through sidewalk bins (namely, maintenance of safety, enjoyment and appearance of sidewalks), since (1) regulation did not advance such interest as it did not control installation of bins containing permitted publications, and (2) city failed to show that such interest could only be advanced through outright ban on sidewalk bins for commercial speech. New York v Learning Annex, Inc., 186 A.D.2d 475, 589 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12174 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992), app. dismissed, 81 N.Y.2d 880, 597 N.Y.S.2d 940, 613 N.E.2d 972, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 5290 (N.Y. 1993).

Court should have dismissed Article 78 proceeding to annul designation of college rectory as landmark, where respondents concluded that rectory met 6 of 9 criteria for landmark designation set out in city code, and their conclusion had rational basis and was not arbitrary or capricious. Canisius College v City of Buffalo, 217 A.D.2d 985, 629 N.Y.S.2d 886, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8422 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 443, 658 N.E.2d 221, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3731 (N.Y. 1995).

Respondents' designation of college rectory as landmark did not amount to "taking" where college (which sought to raze building to make way for additional student parking) failed to present evidence that designation physically or financially prevented or seriously interfered with, carrying out of college's charitable purpose. Canisius College v City of Buffalo, 217 A.D.2d 985, 629 N.Y.S.2d 886, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8422 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 443, 658 N.E.2d 221, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3731 (N.Y. 1995).

City properly issued stop-work order for addition to owner's residence where owner had not satisfied building permit condition to construct retaining wall to replace existing retaining wall which was in severe state of deterioration and disrepair, there was legitimate link between construction of addition and reconstruction of retaining wall, owner had refused to exercise her right under CLS RPAPL § 881 to gain access to retaining wall, and she did not need elaborate 20-foot permanent easement which she contended was necessary to reconstruct and to maintain her wall. Massa v City of Kingston, 235 A.D.2d 947, 652

N.Y.S.2d 857, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 745 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

City ordinance adopted in 1995, requiring owner of any structure used wholly or partially for residential purposes...to install and maintain smoke/heat detector or system," was inconsistent and in direct conflict with Uniform Building Code as set forth in CLS Exec art 18 insofar as it applied retroactively to pre-1984 buildings. Rabinor v City of Ithaca Bldg. Code Bd. of Appeals, 252 A.D.2d 290, 682 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14116 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Petitioner failed to establish that respondent's approval of project involving construction of 3 open air community pavilions and attendant structures in park situated within historic district violated deeds and letters patent conveying subject property to city, which required that property be used for "local park and recreational purposes" and that project comply with specific controls and uses set forth in urban renewal plan, where pavilions would be available for use by various community groups and they were consistent with "active or passive recreation facilities" and accessory buildings contemplated by urban renewal plan. J.B. Realty Enter. v City of Saratoga Springs, 270 A.D.2d 771, 704 N.Y.S.2d 742, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3096 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 758, 713 N.Y.S.2d 522, 735 N.E.2d 1287, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1802 (N.Y. 2000).

City zoning board of appeals' denial of area variance to apartment complex owner to allow construction of 32 additional apartment units on same property was rational and supported by substantial evidence where (1) those 32 units would have been 23 units in excess of minimum square footage requirement in city's code, (2) negative declaration under CLS ECL Art 8 regarding proposed addition was not dispositive of issue of addition's impact on neighborhood, because board could deny variance on other grounds, and (3) denial was not based on general or unsubstantiated concerns of residential neighbors. Chadwick Gardens Assocs., L.L.C. v City of Newburgh Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 273 A.D.2d 232, 709 N.Y.S.2d 450, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6298 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

City preservation board rationally held that owners of historical landmark building were not entitled to demolish it and redevelop site with retail business where (1) owners did not adequately explore alternative uses for building and thus did not prove economic hardship, and (2) owners neglected maintenance of building and made inadequate marketing efforts, and thus any hardship was self-created or self-imposed. Farash Corp. v City of Rochester, 275 A.D.2d 957, 713 N.Y.S.2d 423, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9773 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 701, 722 N.Y.S.2d 793, 745 N.E.2d 1015, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 18 (N.Y. 2001).

County, on determining that county-owned building located in historic district in city was risk to public safety and required demolition, was nevertheless subject to city ordinance which created Historic Resources Commission (HRC) and prohibited demolition of protected buildings without HRC consent. Historic Albany Found. v Breslin, 282 A.D.2d 981, 724 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4161 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 636, 735 N.Y.S.2d 489, 760 N.E.2d 1284, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3357 (N.Y. 2001).

In action to compel current owner of real property to comply with covenants agreed to by prior owner, court properly granted summary judgment awarding city relief not specifically requested in its complaint, where construction permits issued by city were expressly conditioned on owners' compliance with covenants, and relief requested in summary judgment motion was mandated by law. City of New York v Delafield 246 Corp., 236 A.D.2d 11, 662 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7823 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 811, 671 N.Y.S.2d 715, 694 N.E.2d 884, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 994 (N.Y. 1998).

A lessor, who leases premises for five years to be used as a rooming house, boarding house or hotel, which premises are situated in an apartment house zone or district, is not liable in damages to the lessee, although said lessor assisted in procuring amendment of the zoning ordinance so as to change the apartment house district to a business district and thereafter a garage was erected on adjoining premises, where it appears that the amendment in question did not legally depend upon lessor's consenting thereto or petitioning therefor. Geisler v Mitchell, 244 N.Y.S. 439, 137 Misc. 462, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1503 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1930).

The power to enact zoning ordinance under which defendant has been prosecuted is given by this section and provision for fine and imprisonment is not in excess of that authorized by Second Class Cities Law, § 42. People ex rel. Wolff v Margolies, 1 N.Y.S.2d 969, 166 Misc. 135, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1155 (N.Y. County Ct. 1937).

In an Article 78 proceeding, in which petitioner sought to annul a determination of the Landmarks Preservation Commission to include in a historic landmark district property purchased by petitioner, which petitioner intended for commercial redevelopment, the Commission adequately provided the requisite reasonable basis for approving the designation of the district to include petitioner's building, where the city planning commission and the city board of estimate had considered the relationship between historic district designation of the area, which included petitioner's building, and area zoning regulations, which permitted high-rise commercial development, and where this consideration was combined with an assessment of each building and the transitional function of petitioner's building between the low-scale townhouses of the historic district and the large-scale apartments and hotels south of the district. Omabuild N.V. v Board of Estimate, 116 Misc. 2d 566, 455 N.Y.S.2d 967, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3918 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

Portion of city zoning ordinance which provided that each day that violation was uncorrected constituted separate offense was invalid because imposition of cumulative penalties for single but continuing violation of zoning ordinance is not permitted. People v Multari, 135 Misc. 2d 913, 517 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2334 (N.Y. County Ct.), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 877, 523 N.Y.S.2d 504, 518 N.E.2d 15, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19218 (N.Y. 1987).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul decision of city planning board which rejected petitioner's site plan for commercial building to be located in commercial zone bordered by undeveloped floodway zone, court dismissed claim that decision unlawfully denied petitioner use of its property on pretext of environmental concerns, in that aesthetic impact of site plan is proper factor to be considered under State Environmental Quality Review Act, planning board took notice of pertinent facts and considered competent opinion evidence based on such facts, and there was no proof that visual effects were overblown and misused to cloak board's alleged ulterior purpose to frustrate new investment and new enterprise. East Coast Dev. Co. v Kay, 174 Misc. 2d 430, 667 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 594 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) did not exceed its jurisdiction in issuing certificate of appropriateness for project involving construction of 19-story hotel at site located outside historic district but physically connected to renovated warehouse located on edge of historic district, although jurisdiction of LPC is limited to structures situated within historic districts, where all structural components of project were totally integrated into single hotel building with single mechanical system. 67 Vestry Tenants Ass'n v Raab, 172 Misc. 2d 214, 658 N.Y.S.2d 804, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 124 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

In issuing certificate of appropriateness for renovation of warehouse and construction of hotel partially using renovated warehouse, Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) did not violate NYC Admin Code §§ 25-307(b) and 25-304(a) which prohibit LPC from creating regulations or requirements regarding height and bulk of buildings, although developer had reduced tower component from 31 stories to 19 stories as result of LPC's review and comments; LPC did not specifically limit height of tower to 19 stories, but merely approved over-all aesthetic design of proposed project, including towner's mass in relation to warehouse and project's relation to historic district. 67 Vestry Tenants Ass'n v Raab, 172 Misc. 2d 214, 658 N.Y.S.2d 804, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 124 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

Mandamus did not lie to compel New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) to entertain petitioners' application for landmark status for certain buildings, as LPC has unfettered discretion to decide whether to calendar items to be considered for landmark designation, and fact that it must apply stated statutory criteria in deciding whether calendared building ought to be landmark does not mean that it must employ lengthy formal consideration process with respect to every application. Deane v City of New York Dep't of Bldgs., 177 Misc. 2d 687, 677 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

Petitioners were not entitled to notice and opportunity to be heard before New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) decided whether or not to calendar their request for evaluation of certain buildings for landmark status, as entitlement to calendaring was subject to agency discretion, and petitioners had no protected property interest in obtaining landmark status or even in obtaining formal LPC consideration of their application. Deane v City of New York Dep't of Bldgs., 177 Misc. 2d 687, 677 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

Court dismissed Article 78 proceeding in which petitioners alleged that it was arbitrary and capricious for New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) to decline to consider their request to evaluate certain buildings for landmark status, as LPC had complete discretion to calendar request or deny application for calendaring, and thus there could be nothing arbitrary or capricious about not calendaring it. Deane v City of New York Dep't of Bldgs., 177 Misc. 2d 687, 677 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) was not required to publish proceedings or create full administrative record when considering petitioners' request to evaluate certain buildings for landmark status, in view of LPC's complete discretion whether or not to afford formal consideration to applications for landmark status. Deane v City of New York Dep't of Bldgs., 177 Misc. 2d 687, 677 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission's decision not to consider certain brownstone buildings for landmark status, residents of neighboring buildings were not entitled to preliminarily enjoin demolition of subject buildings and construction of 17-story tower by respondent developers, as they were not likely to succeed on merits, and developers stood to lose great deal of money (and their window of opportunity to build tower) if injunction issued whereas all neighbors stood to lose was some sunlight and charm. Deane v City of New York Dep't of Bldgs., 177 Misc. 2d 687, 677 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 328 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

On motion to preliminarily enjoin defendants' operation of topless bar within 500 feet from residence district, plaintiff municipality established that premises was "adult establishment" under local zoning ordinance where bar featured live performances on regular basis with emphasis on naked female breasts and additional emphasis on fondling or erotic touching of genitals and breasts, age restriction sign was posted at point of entry to bar area, drinks were served at bar surrounding circular stage, and dancers could be seen from almost any point within premises. City of New York v Scandals, 178 Misc. 2d 267, 678 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 463 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

Although music in petitioner's nightclub was never turned off, Environmental Control Board had rational basis to find that petitioners violated NYC Admin Code § 24-241.1(a) by causing and permitting excessive noise at nightclub based on measurements of sound made by New York City Department of Environmental Protection, utilizing procedure for taking ambient readings during lulls (periodic drops in volume) in music. Reminisce Bar & Lounge v City of New York Dep't of Envtl. Protection, 178 Misc. 2d 640, 680 N.Y.S.2d 143, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

City was proper defendant in discriminatory treatment action by substance abuse treatment program and clients, arising from refusal of planning board and zoning board of appeals to permit program to relocate to another zoning district; though complaint did not contain any allegations against city specifically, city was vested with authority to establish zoning regulations, and regulated use of property through planning board and zoning board of appeals. Innovative Health Sys. v City of White Plains, 931 F. Supp. 222, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9081 (S.D.N.Y. 1996), aff'd, in part, 117 F.3d 37, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 15361 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1997).

39. Sewer rents (subds. 26 and 26-a)

Since 1929, every city in this state has been empowered by express legislative provision to impose sewer rents based upon water use or "upon any other equitable basis." Black v General Wiper Supply Co., 305 N.Y. 386, 113 N.E.2d 528, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 386, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 807 (N.Y. 1953).

Cost of work done in connection with maintenance, operation and repair of New York City sewer system was non-assessable against adjacent property after city adopted sewer rent system as authorized by this section. Riverview Estates, Inc. v New York, 20 A.D.2d 890, 248 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4598 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1964), aff'd, 16 N.Y.2d 701, 261 N.Y.S.2d 895, 209 N.E.2d 552, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1295 (N.Y. 1965).

The fact that property is already served by a private sewer will not bar an assessment for construction of a public sewer to serve it. In re Improvement of Constr. of Lateral Sewer, 24 Misc. 2d 618, 194 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2772 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

Determination of a city council that particular properties were specially benefited to an extent justifying assessment on account of a sewerage system was conclusive and not subject to judicial review, unless shown to be fraudulent or arbitrary. In re Improvement of Constr. of Lateral Sewer, 24 Misc. 2d 618, 194 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2772 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

In an action by the City of New York against a property owner for certain water meter and sewer charges which it had properly entered in its books over a ten-year period and then submitted to plaintiff for payment the total accrued charges, which plaintiff property owner paid under protest, the property owner was not entitled to a refund of that portion of the charges paid which accrued more than six years prior to the time the corrected bills were entered under the theory that the six-year statute of limitations for contract actions was applicable, since the charges were duly entered in the city's books during the ten-year period and pursuant to administrative regulation the charges entered became liens upon the affected property and remained liens until paid, and the failure of the city to render bills or give notice of such charges did not affect the lien of those charges and they remained just debts; however, administrative regulations required that appropriate notice of said charges be given to the property owner before they became due and interest could accrue thereon and inasmuch as there was no evidence that the city rendered proper bills to anyone until the corrected bills were sent to the plaintiff property owner, interest did not commence accruing on the charges until that time. Marver Realty Corp. v New York, 117 Misc. 2d 763, 459 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3212 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

40. Licensing and regulation of electricians (subd. 27)

The licensing of electricians by the Master Electricians Board of Examiners and the adoption of the National Electrical Code to set the standard by which electrical work in the city of Syracuse should be done does not violate the constitutional rights of petitioner as an unlawful delegation of power, and the city was entitled to a preliminary injunction to enjoin petitioner from performing any electrical work on the ground that petitioner had not been licensed and had failed the required examination on three separate occasions. Syracuse v Penny, 59 Misc. 2d 818, 300 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1637 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969).

41. Insurance (subds. 29 and 29-a)

City of New York, by enacting Domestic Partners Law, which extends health and other benefits to domestic partners of city employees, did not transform domestic partnership into form of common-law marriage and thus did not impinge on state's exclusive right to regulate institution of marriage since there are enormous differences between marriage and domestic partnership. Slattery v City of New York, 266 A.D.2d 24, 697 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11158 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 897, 706 N.Y.S.2d 699, 727 N.E.2d 1253, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 231 (N.Y. 2000), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 823, 712 N.Y.S.2d 907, 734 N.E.2d 1208, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1865 (N.Y. 2000).

City of New York did not violate state or public policy by enacting Domestic Partners Law, which extends health and other benefits to domestic partners of city employees, where state has extended certain derivative health benefits to domestic partners of state employees and has allowed nonstate agencies that participate in state's health insurance program to offer same coverage to domestic partners of their employees. Slattery v City of New York, 266 A.D.2d 24, 697 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11158 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 897, 706 N.Y.S.2d 699, 727 N.E.2d 1253, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 231 (N.Y. 2000), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 823, 712 N.Y.S.2d 907, 734 N.E.2d 1208, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1865 (N.Y. 2000).

City of New York did not exceed its authority by enacting Domestic Partners Law, which extends health and other benefits to domestic partners of city employees, including retired and deceased employees, where (1) CLS Gen City § 20(29) empowers city to enter into insurance contracts or health plans that "shall permit any . . . employee . . . who is paid out of the city treasury voluntarily to subscribe to a plan or plans providing for medical and surgical services and hospital service to such . . . employees and their families," (2) term "family" has been defined expansively in context of eviction protection laws, (3) there was no reason to adopt more limited definition of "family in present context, and (4) CLS Gen City § 20(29-a) refers to "the widowed spouses and dependent children" of retired or deceased employees. Slattery v City of New York, 266 A.D.2d 24, 697 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11158 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 897, 706 N.Y.S.2d 699, 727 N.E.2d 1253, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 231 (N.Y. 2000), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 823, 712 N.Y.S.2d 907, 734 N.E.2d 1208, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1865 (N.Y. 2000).

Since neither the Department of Personnel of the City of New York nor its chief administrator has the authority to reduce the benefits available to the city's employees under the city's hospitalization contract pursuant to the authority to administer such hospitalization contract (General City Law, § 20, subd 29), a letter signed by the chief administrator purporting to exclude hospitalization benefits under the contract when mandatory no-fault benefits are available, is ineffective to limit hospitalization coverage and does not reduce the hospitalization benefits which plaintiff is entitled to receive pursuant to the applicable contract which contains no such exclusion of benefits. Bellmon v Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Greater New York, 98 Misc. 2d 445, 414 N.Y.S.2d 86, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2094 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1979).

NYC Local Law No. 27, which entitles registered domestic partners of current and retired city employees to certain medical, health and retirement benefits, does not constitute impermissible legislation in area of marriage and domestic relations which is under exclusive jurisdiction of state legislature. Slattery v City of New York, 179 Misc. 2d 740, 686 N.Y.S.2d 683, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 35 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), transferred, 93 N.Y.2d 883, 689 N.Y.S.2d 426, 711 N.E.2d 640, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 692 (N.Y. 1999).

City and mayor did not exceed their authority by enacting NYC Local Law No. 27, entitling registered domestic partners of current and retired city employees to certain medical, health and retirement benefits in that (1) power conferred by CLS NY Const Art IX § 2 on local governments to determine salary of employees encompasses such benefits, (2) CLS Gen City § 20(29) authorizes city to furnish medical benefits to current city employees "and their families," which is not restricted to those who have formalized their relationship by obtaining marriage certificate or adoption order, and (3) CLS Gen Mun § 92-a(2) gives city power to offer medical and related services or insurance to retired employees and their families. Slattery v City of New York, 179 Misc. 2d 740, 686 N.Y.S.2d 683, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 35 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), transferred, 93 N.Y.2d 883, 689 N.Y.S.2d 426, 711 N.E.2d 640, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 692 (N.Y. 1999).

42. Traffic control (subd. 32)

City was entitled to summary judgment in action for slip and fall on icy sidewalk while plaintiff was attempting to place money in parking meter maintained by city where (1) city's maintenance of parking meters was proper exercise of its police power and thus governmental rather than proprietary function, (2) in absence of prior written notice or showing that city affirmatively caused or created dangerous condition, its failure to timely remove accumulations of ice or snow was not actionable, and (3) provision of city's code requiring abutting landowner to remove snow and ice from sidewalks imposed no tort liability in absence of express provision therefor. Roser v City of Kingston, 251 A.D.2d 936, 674 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7755 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Presumed constitutionality of NYC Local Law No. 115, which prohibits commuter vans from dropping off and picking up passengers on bus routes and requires all commuter van passenger service to be prearranged, was not overcome where it bears rational relationship to legitimate governmental purposes of regulating transportation modalities and preventing conditions dangerous to public welfare. Ricketts v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 245, 722 N.Y.S.2d 25, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2445 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 897, 730 N.Y.S.2d 793, 756 N.E.2d 81, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1949 (N.Y. 2001), app. dismissed, 98 N.Y.2d 692, 747 N.Y.S.2d 409, 775 N.E.2d 1289, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1991 (N.Y. 2002).

City was entitled to summary judgment dismissing personal injury action where (1) there was no evidence that its alleged negligence in failing to post or replace overhead sign was proximate cause of accident, (2) plaintiff's expert evidence was speculative and conclusory, and (3) photos and sign card from city's Bureau of Traffic Operations, on which plaintiff relied, were inadmissible evidence of postaccident repairs or installations. Sosa v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 469, 721 N.Y.S.2d 565, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2375 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

City could enforce its 30-mile-per-hour speed limit without enforcing provision of same ordinance setting maximum fine for violation of speed limit since provision setting maximum fine had been preempted by CLS Veh & Tr § 1180; CLS Veh & Tr § 3002(a) and (b) provides that local laws are void if they conflict with Vehicle and Traffic Law. People v Fried, 153 Misc. 2d 764, 583 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 127 (N.Y. City Ct. 1992).

Defendant was not entitled to dismissal of speeding ticket on ground that speed limit was improperly set by city common council, rather than by city traffic commission, since (1) CLS Veh & Tr § 1643 authorizes legislative body of city to establish speed limits, and common council was legislative body of city, and (2) CLS Gen City § 20(32) authorized city to create traffic commission but did not authorize such commission to set speed limits. People v Fried, 153 Misc. 2d 764, 583 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 127 (N.Y. City Ct. 1992).

Maximum fine for violation of city speed limit was not limited to $50, notwithstanding provision of CLS Gen City § 20(32) that local traffic commission can set fine of not more than $50 for violations of its rules and regulations, since such statute had nothing to do with speeding violations, which are exclusively governed by CLS Veh & Tr § 1180. People v Fried, 153 Misc. 2d 764, 583 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 127 (N.Y. City Ct. 1992).

CLS Veh & Tr § 1180 has preempted local municipal field on fines for violations of speed limits. People v Fried, 153 Misc. 2d 764, 583 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 127 (N.Y. City Ct. 1992).

Notwithstanding validity of city ordinance establishing citywide 30 mile per hour speed limit, fine for violation of speed limit was not limited by provision of same ordinance, which set fine for first violation at $50, since CLS Veh & Tr § 1180(h) and (h)(4) preempted local municipal field on speeding fines and made provision of city ordinance regarding fines obsolete. People v Fried, 153 Misc. 2d 764, 583 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 127 (N.Y. City Ct. 1992).

New York City Department of Transportation (DOT) has authority to regulate pedestrian and cyclist access to city bridges by posting of signs, and thus court dismissed Article 78 proceeding seeking relief in nature of mandamus to compel DOT to follow proper rule-making procedures before closing lane on Queensboro Bridge to nonmotorized traffic on weekdays between 3:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m.; petitioners did not establish clear right to relief. Kaehny v Lynn, 172 Misc. 2d 295, 659 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 153 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

New York City Traffic Rule 4-12(j)(1), barring vehicles from using city streets solely for purpose of displaying commercial advertising, did not impermissibly restrict commercial speech, given government's substantial interest in reducing number of vehicles congesting city streets and fact that regulation was narrowly tailored to fit legislative purpose. People v Target Adver. Inc., 184 Misc. 2d 903, 708 N.Y.S.2d 597, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 168 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 2000).

34 RCNY 4-12(j)(1), which banned operation or parking of vehicles in New York City for purpose of commercial advertising except for advertising notices appearing on vehicles owned by advertised business, did not impermissibly regulate commercial speech where it was not adopted to suppress any particular advertised message and thus was neutral as to expression's content, it was narrowly tailored to remove class of vehicles from street, and it directly advanced city's interest in promoting traffic safety and alleviating traffic congestion. People v Professional Truck Leasing Sys., 185 Misc. 2d 734, 713 N.Y.S.2d 651, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 363 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 2000).

Traffic rule that banned operation or parking of vehicles in New York City for purpose of "commercial advertising," except for advertising notices appearing on vehicles owned by advertised business, was not unconstitutionally vague for failing to define "commercial advertising," as such term is well defined by United States Supreme Court commercial speech doctrine, and distinction between prohibited commercial advertising and noncommercial forms of advertising is clear; focus is not on whether fee is charged for advertising on vehicle, but on whether vehicle carries advertising which proposes economic transactions unrelated to business for which that vehicle is used. People v Professional Truck Leasing Sys., 185 Misc. 2d 734, 713 N.Y.S.2d 651, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 363 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 2000).

43. Repair or removal of unsafe structures (subd. 35)

City's notices and orders designating structures as an immediate danger to the health, safety, and welfare of the general public and ordering demolition constituted "demolition liens" within the meaning of the city's contracts with a tax lien purchaser; the notices and orders arguably were required to be filed with the county clerk's office under this section. Goldstein v Murphy, 267 A.D. 482, 47 N.Y.S.2d 438, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4757 (N.Y. App. Div.), rev'd, 293 N.Y. 927, 60 N.E.2d 132, 293 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 927, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 2333 (N.Y. 1944).

Statute which authorizes cities to adopt ordinances compelling removal of blighted structures, which provides that demolition costs incurred by city should be levied as an assessment against land and which provides that nothing in statute should be construed to amend or affect any applicable local law is a supplemental and not a restrictive statute and does not mandate that cost of city demolition projects be levied as an assessment against land. Buffalo v Dankner, 48 A.D.2d 572, 370 N.Y.S.2d 266, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9942 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), dismissed, City of Buffalo v Dankner, 38 N.Y.2d 826, 382 N.Y.S.2d 1033, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 3101 (N.Y. 1975).

1966 city ordinance which implemented city charter provision empowering city to recover costs of demolishing unsafe structures either by action or by local assessment and which expressly authorized city to recover demolition costs directly from owners of blighted structures as a supplement to assessing costs against land was valid and not in contravention of 1965 statute which provides that demolition costs should be assessed against the land and which expressly does not affect any existing local law pertaining to same subject matter or restrict city's power to amend existing local law. Buffalo v Dankner, 48 A.D.2d 572, 370 N.Y.S.2d 266, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9942 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), dismissed, City of Buffalo v Dankner, 38 N.Y.2d 826, 382 N.Y.S.2d 1033, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 3101 (N.Y. 1975).

While petitioner owner, whose building was demolished by city as being dangerous, urged that it was not accorded a fair and impartial hearing, and was deprived of its property without due process of law, because city engineer sat as hearing officer when he had prejudged the matter based on facts of which he had acquired knowledge prior to the hearing, it was clear from building inspector's testimony that the city engineer, in giving formal notice to petitioner that its building was dangerous, was relying on the inspector's report and had made no independent determination that the building was dangerous prior to the hearing. Seven South Main Street, Inc. v Seaboyer, 57 A.D.2d 1031, 395 N.Y.S.2d 257, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12333 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 809, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3877 (N.Y. 1977).

Substantial evidence supported city engineer's determination that petitioner's building was dangerous and had to be repaired or demolished, including evidence that petitioner's building was interconnected with several other buildings with common walls, that two of those structures had already collapsed on each other, and that one of the collapsed buildings had a common wall with petitioner's building. Seven South Main Street, Inc. v Seaboyer, 57 A.D.2d 1031, 395 N.Y.S.2d 257, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12333 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 809, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3877 (N.Y. 1977).

In an action brought by the city seeking the demolition of certain structures, a precept would be issued directing demolition where the structures and premises were structurally unsafe, dangerous, and a fire hazard. New York v Unsafe Bldgs. Rose-Polly Properties, Inc., 88 A.D.2d 924, 451 N.Y.S.2d 170, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17263 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 929, 457 N.Y.S.2d 240, 443 N.E.2d 488, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3805 (N.Y. 1982).

A building inspector's order that a certain building should be demolished on the ground it was unsafe was properly upheld, where the record contained substantial evidence that the building suffered severe damage from racking due to an explosion in a nearby building, which racking resulted in the destabilization of significant portions of the load-bearing southerly wall and other walls connecting therewith, and although the building inspector did not consider the alternative of repair, but upon an evaluation of the building in its total context determined that it constituted an actual and immediate danger that should be addressed by the removal of the building, the matter was properly left to the judgment of the building inspector, based upon the facts as he perceived them as an individual experienced in architectural and engineering matters, where there were no official guidelines or criteria to determine whether or not a building should be demolished. Berncolors-Poughkeepsie, Inc. v Poughkeepsie, 96 A.D.2d 595, 465 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19126 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 60 N.Y.2d 701, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 6248 (N.Y. 1983).

In proceeding under CLS Gen City § 20(22) to direct owner to allow city petitioners to enter his house to perform structural repairs so that work on nearby construction project could resume, court properly denied owner's motion to compel petitioners to make further repairs under stipulation of settlement until after resolution of all causation issues in related tort action commenced by owner against petitioners where stipulation only obligated petitioners to restore house to condition that it was in before start of construction project. City of New York v Barry, 273 A.D.2d 380, 710 N.Y.S.2d 917, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7044 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

In action by city to recover cost of removing asbestos from city buildings, there was de facto merger between first company and defendant sufficient to impose successor liability on defendant where (1) when defendant bought first company's building materials business, first company was in liquidation and soon dissolved, (2) first company had no substantial assets left after purchase, and (3) at minimum, there was cessation of first company's ordinary business coupled with continuation by defendant of purchased business at same physical location and with same assets, general business operation, and many of same employees. City of New York v Aaer Sprayed Insulations, 281 A.D.2d 228, 722 N.Y.S.2d 20, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2460 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

The action of the Board of Estimates in adopting a resolution changing the city map was legislative in character and not subject to attack in a proceeding for removal of structures and for restoration of streets. Asness Bros. v New York, 5 Misc. 2d 779, 160 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3493 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 4 A.D.2d 677, 164 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5269 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1957).

The decision of the Board of Zoning Appeals denying petitioner's application for a permit to construct a service station was arbitrary and capricious, where the Board's decision was based on a finding that the area was adequately served by existing facilities, since only in the event the board found the proposed use to be dangerous and detrimental to the public and to the property values nearby that the lack of need for the proposed use could be considered. Pomerantz v Lehmann, 55 Misc. 2d 315, 285 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1122 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

New York City, which hired contractor to demolish building pursuant to its emergency police powers (NYC Admin Code §§ 26-235 et seq.) without notifying current owner that building was "unsafe" and scheduled for demolition, was liable as trespasser for injuries sustained by worker during demolition work. Holman v City of New York, 181 Misc. 2d 15, 691 N.Y.S.2d 739, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 198 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1999).

City, which hired contractor to demolish building, was liable under common law and CLS Labor §§ 200, 240(1) and 241(6) for injuries sustained by worker during demolition work where (1) property owner had no supervision or control over demolition contractor, and (2) evidence established that demolition was negligently performed by or under city's direction and control, and that city and demolition contractor failed to enforce Industrial Code provisions regarding disposal of debris (12 NYCRR §§ 23-1.7, 23-2.1 and 23-3.3). Holman v City of New York, 181 Misc. 2d 15, 691 N.Y.S.2d 739, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 198 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1999).

Preliminary injunctive relief was appropriate where (1) New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation (HHC) failed to obtain city council's consent before constructively surrendering HHC facility to New York City, allegedly because HHC lacked funds to make necessary repairs, and (2) city apparently precluded structural engineer retained by city council from conducting on-site inspection of facility buildings, thereby preventing city council from gathering facts sufficient to prepare for unsafe building proceeding under NYC Admin Code § 26-239(b). Council of City of New York v Giuliani, 183 Misc. 2d 799, 705 N.Y.S.2d 801, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 639 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

44. Miscellaneous

Court properly dismissed Article 78 petition to annul determination of New York City Commissioner of Consumer Affairs, fixing maximum allowable rates for commercial refuse collection, since commissioner had rational basis for setting petitioner's profits as percentage of operating costs, without including "tipping" fees, even though profits previously had been calculated based on inclusion of tipping fees, where (1) petitioners' operating costs were $6 per cubic yard, (2) tipping fees had increased from $12 per cubic yard to $40 per cubic yard over short period of time, and (3) increase in tipping fees was unrelated to amount of work performed by petitioners. Presidents' Council of Trade Waste Ass'ns v New York, 159 A.D.2d 428, 553 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3081 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Failure of city court, which was component of state unified court system, to revoke bench warrant did not render city liable for false arrest and imprisonment. Shea v County of Erie, 202 A.D.2d 1028, 609 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3406 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 petition to invalidate New York City Department of Consumer Affairs' Home Improvement Business Trust Fund, and to recover contributions made by contractors, since fund comported with goals of NYC Admin Code § 20-115 whereby legislature intended to extend protection available to victims of unfair practices by contractors as fully as possible, and legislature expressly contemplated that compliance with § 20-115 might be achieved by methods other than traditional bond. Brooklyn Gen. Contracting Co. v Green, 205 A.D.2d 314, 613 N.Y.S.2d 15, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5823 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

The power of a city to directly operate a foreign trade zone obtained under a federal grant does not carry with it as incidental a concomitant right to operate it through the medium of a contract which diverts possession or use of grant to private corporation for private business, in absence of legislative flat. American Dock Co. v New York, 21 N.Y.S.2d 943, 174 Misc. 813, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2033, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2686 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 261 A.D. 1063, 26 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8753 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

Taking of property by New York City Transit Authority comported with due process where landowner had notice of hearing and full opportunity to be heard before New York City Site Selection Board; landowner was not entitled to notice of transit authority's site recommendations, nor to a hearing prior to mayor's approval of site, authority of Site Selection Board and mayor to choose site was not an illegal delegation of legislative power, members of Site Selection Board properly authorized deputies to act for them, and question of necessity and expediency of choice of site was not subject to judicial review. 6419 New Utrecht Realty Corp. v New York City Transit Authority, 76 Misc. 2d 711, 351 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2006 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

NYC Local Law No. 93, which added name "Kudirat Abiola Corner" to street corner in New York across from building owned by Nigerian government to commemorate slain wife of jailed Nigerian dissident, was not irrational or arbitrary on ground that it constituted "insult" to government of Nigeria and, as such, was disruptive, arbitrary and injurious; New York City has right to name its own streets, and it is not court's function to question whether street corner naming was sufficiently appropriate or discreet. Opusunju v Giuliani, 175 Misc. 2d 541, 669 N.Y.S.2d 156, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 657 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

Combined proceeding pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 and action for declaratory judgment alleging that the third, fourth, and fifth extensions of the option agreements violated the New York State Environmental Quality Review Act, N.Y. Envtl. Conserv. Law art. 8, failed as a City did not have eminent domain power where a proposed solid waste disposal site was located under N.Y. Gen. City Law § 20, and the municipality in which the site was located was opposed to a facility there, so the extensions of the options to purchase the site were necessary to keep the site as a possible site; the use of options and extensions were not actions that set a definite course under N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 6, § 617.2(b)(2). Matter of Marshall v City of Albany, 45 A.D.3d 1064, 845 N.Y.S.2d 855, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11693 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

City had authority to maintain a cause of action against defendants for alleged violations of the Clean Water Act, trespass, and nuisance, because it was clear that the city council had expressed its consent to bringing the lawsuit. City of Newburgh v Sarna, 690 F. Supp. 2d 136, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12269 (S.D.N.Y. 2010), aff'd in part, 406 Fed. Appx. 557, 2011 U.S. App. LEXIS 1232 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2011).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. Power of city to contract, defend and maintain actions (subd. 1)
2. Power of city to acquire and hold real property (subd. 2)
3. —Acquisition of land for sewerage treatment purposes
4. —Acquisition of property outside city limits
5. —Disposition of property held by city
6. —Operation of buslines
7. Leases of space in city buildings (subd. 2-a)
8. Power to hold property received by gift (subd. 3)
9. Levy and collection of taxes (subd. 4)
10. Power to spend money, pay claims and the like (subd. 5)
11. —Payment of equitable claims
12. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of streets, parks, sewers and the like (subd. 7)
13. —Alienation of land held for parks
14. Control and regulation of waterfront, docks and other facilities (subd. 8)
15. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of bridges, tunnels and ferries (subd. 9)
16. Franchises for use of public ways and places (subd. 10)
17. Construction of public buildings and works and assessment of costs (subd. 11)
18. Fire prevention and firefighting (subds. 12 and 12-a)

19. Enforcement of laws and regulation and licensing of businesses (subd. 13)
20. —Particular licensing requirements
21. —Other ordinances and regulations
22. Operation of hospitals, jails and other institutions (subd. 15)
23. Terms and conditions of employment for city employees (subd. 17)
24. —Automatic deduction of union dues and other contributions from pay
25. —Vacations, sick leaves and other leaves of absence
26. Municipal civil service (subd. 18)
27. Regulation of manner of transaction of city business (subd. 19)
28. Investigation into matters of concern to city (subd. 21)
29. —Subpoena power
30. Ordinances and penalties as to matters of concern to city (subd. 22)
31. Power to enact zoning and other land use regulations (subds. 24 and 25)
32. —Particular regulations
33. Particular regulations; prohibition of particular business or use
34. —Other matters
35. Sewer rents (subds. 26 and 26-a)
36. Insurance (subds. 29 and 29-a)
37. Traffic control (subd. 32)
38. Reimbursement of officers and employees for official travel (subd. 33)
39. Repair or removal of unsafe structures (subd. 35)
40. Miscellaneous

1. Power of city to contract, defend and maintain actions (subd. 1)

City of Glens Falls may retain expert to value its watershed properties outside city. Compensation for such expert on a contingent basis discussed 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 23 (Informal), 1955 N.Y. AG LEXIS 169.

A common council of a city may enter into a contract for the removal and disposal of garbage and trash for five years even though the contract will extend beyond the terms of office of its members. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7676.

Where the board of health awarded a contract for spraying of a city dump, but the mayor and the city engineer changed the contract, due to defective specifications and increased the requirements under the contract for the first spraying, and the contract price was thereby increased, the board should execute a new contract and rescind the old one. However, the board could ratify the actions of the mayor and the engineer, and approve payment of the first spraying. 1959 Op St Compt 59–607.

A city may enter into a contract with a professional person as an independent contractor to provide services for the purpose of promoting economic growth and development, including promotion of the city for industry, tourism, recreation, etc. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–295.

It would appear that a school district may agree to waive or release restrictive covenants it placed in a deed to a city, in exchange for the city agreeing to indemnify the school district and school board members for liability arising out of such waiver or release. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–414.

Under its general authority to compromise or settle claims arising under city contracts, city may waive imposition of penalties arising from property owner's nonpayment of water rents in context of compromising claim asserted by property owner relative to accuracy of his water bill. 1988 Op St Compt No. 88-71, 1988 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 64.

2. Power of city to acquire and hold real property (subd. 2)

The City of Cortland may finance construction of a dome or covering over existing tennis facilities located in a public park by means of a subscription plan which would entitle subscribers to reserve playing times ten years in advance. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-289, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 443.

A transaction whereby a not-for-profit corporation, without competitive bidding, constructs a public facility for use by a municipal corporation in the performance of its governmental functions and the municipal corporation acquires use of the facility under a lease agreement and has an option to purchase: (a) does not constitute indebtedness for purposes of the State Constitution and Local Finance Law if the lease agreement has an executory clause making the municipal corporation's obligation contingent on annual appropriations, although it is doubtful that a clause providing that, if the municipal corporation fails to appropriate money for the lease payments, the municipal corporation agrees not to purchase, lease or rent property to perform the same functions as the facility, would be enforceable; (b) constitutes a prohibited installment purchase contract if the total character of the transaction is that of a purchase rather than a lease; and (c) violates the competitive bidding requirements of General Municipal Law §§ 101, 103, if the total character of the transaction constitutes a contract for public work of the municipal corporation. 1991 Op St Compt No. 91-13, 1989 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 53.

3. —Acquisition of land for sewerage treatment purposes

Cities, counties, towns and villages may (a) accept industrial wastes for treatment; (b) require pretreatment of industrial wastes; (c) refuse wastes from particular users; and (d) refuse wastes from any community not complying with the applicable area-wide waste treatment plan. 1978 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 46, 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 51.

A municipality has the power of eminent domain to condemn real estate outside its territorial limits for the construction of a municipal sewerage disposal and treatment plant, irrespective of the zoning restrictions of the municipality in which the condemned real estate is located when the site is approved under the comprehensive plan of the State for the abatement and prevention of pollution. 1967 Op St Compt No. 67–156.

4. —Acquisition of property outside city limits

A city may accept a tract without city limits for forest purposes under § 21. 1925 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 103.

A city can purchase land outside city limits for airport. 1927 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 96.

A city may purchase real property without the limits of the city for municipal purposes. A town may enter into an agreement with a city for use of the city dump on such terms as may be agreed upon. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 27 (Informal), 1959 N.Y. AG LEXIS 229.

This section authorizes every city in the state to take, purchase, and hold real property outside its limits and does not limit the purchase to certain purposes or uses, hence such land can be purchased for a sewage disposal plant. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen June 8 (Informal), 1962 N.Y. AG LEXIS 143.

The City of Port Jervis may not lease, for recreational purposes, a paddle tennis facility located outside the city limits. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 2 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 364.

A City has the authority to regulate portions of a City park located in an adjacent Town. Town police have the authority to enforce the City park ordinance in those portions of the park located in the Town, but City police may do so only acting as private citizens. Jurisdiction over violations of the City park ordinance occurring in the area involved is in the Town Court and not in the City Court. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen July 17 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 85.

The City of Gloversville Water Department may acquire title to water mains located outside the City pursuant to a contractual agreement without the necessity of the execution and recording of a deed or deeds. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–719.

5. —Disposition of property held by city

The consent of the Legislature is necessary for a municipality to dispose of property held for public use. 1952 NY Ops Atty Gen (Informal) July 31, 1952 N.Y. AG LEXIS 272.

The terms of a city ordinance requiring that a sale of city-owned real property be at public auction and subject to referendum must be complied with 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 24 (Informal), 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 216.

Property held by a city for a public use may not be disposed of without the consent of the Legislature. 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen July 16 (Informal), 1954 N.Y. AG LEXIS 319.

The provision in subd. 2 of this section declaring "land under water" to be inalienable extends to lands formerly under water but now filled in, making an enabling act by the State Legislature necessary for conveyance of such lands. 1961 NY Ops Atty Gen July 26 (Informal), 1961 N.Y. AG LEXIS 124.

Under subds. 2 and 7 of this section, real property used for public purposes is inalienable. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 2 (Informal), 1963 N.Y. AG LEXIS 50.

City waterfront property may not be sold without a special act of the Legislature but it may be leased without such an act. If city waterfront property is leased, the consideration must be adequate. A city may amend General City Law § 23 subd 2 par b as to the manner of selling or leasing city property. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen May 12 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 124.

The City of Ithaca may not exchange real property owned by the city for real property owner by an individual. 1957 Op St Compt No. 57–355.

A city has no authority to exchange municipally owned property no longer needed for municipal purposes for privately owned property; nor may a city amend its charter to permit an exchange of such property. 1959 Op St Compt No. 59–654.

A special act of the Legislature is not needed to authorize the sale of city-owned park land and waterfront property to the city community development agency for urban renewal purposes. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-279, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 452.

A city may adopt a local law amending its charter superseding section 23(2)(b) to provide that city-owned real property may be sold at private sale. A city may discontinue a city street if no longer needed for public use and if it owns the fee, sell it as provided in the charter for the sale of real property. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-299, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 427.

6. —Operation of buslines

The City of Jamestown, as owner of a city motor bus transportation system, may contract with either a private individual or a corporation to operate its bus system, and bus operators employed by the operator would not be city employees. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen June 11 (Informal), 1962 N.Y. AG LEXIS 150.

The City of Troy is empowered to enact legislation regulating the sale of city-owned realty except where the enactment would operate unreasonably to lessen the price without commensurate benefit to the vendor. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 17 (Informal), 1967 N.Y. AG LEXIS 134.

Where the power of condemnation has been delegated to it by the State, a city may, by local law, adopt a method of procedure, other than that provided by the Condemnation Law, in the condemnation of real property for public use. Such local law may be subject to permissive referendum and therefore should be adopted pursuant thereto. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 18 (Informal), 1970 N.Y. AG LEXIS 130.

Except as otherwise provided in its charter, the City of Tonawanda has capacity to acquire by lease personal property necessary for the performance of its required functions. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 12 (Informal), 1973 N.Y. AG LEXIS 45.

Alienation legislation should be sought before parkland is transferred from county to town. 2008 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2008-11, 2008 N.Y. AG LEXIS 12.

City has power to acquire and dispose of real property in accordance with an urban renewal plan for a designated area. 1967 Op St Compt No. 67–906.

7. Leases of space in city buildings (subd. 2-a)

While the City of Yonkers by following the provisions of General City Law, Section 20, subdivision 2-a, may not lease excess space in any building owned by the City for a term exceeding three years, it is authorized to execute such lease for a greater period by following the procedures under Second Class Cities Law, Section 37. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen May 11 (Informal), 1971 N.Y. AG LEXIS 77.

The rental of space by a city (pursuant to General City Law, § 20(2-a)) under any one lease may not exceed $5,000, but the aggregate rental of several spaces separately leased may be in excess of $5,000. 1973 Op St Compt No. 73–1170.

A municipality is not authorized by General Municipal Law, § 139-c to build or purchase a building for the express purpose of leasing it to a private organization to use as a sheltered workshop. It is proper for a municipality to adapt space in an existing municipally-owned building for lease at fair consideration to a private organization for use as a sheltered workshop provided this space is not being used at all for municipal purposes. A city may not be a comaker or guarantor on a note for a building purchased or erected by the Association for Retarded Children. A city may not make a contribution to the Association for Retarded Children. Association for Retarded Children. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78-1078, 1979 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 263.

A city may enter into a lease agreement with a not-for-profit corporation for the long term lease of space in an historic building owned by the city whereby the city and the corporation will expend funds for structural and internal improvements. There is no authority for the city to solicit funds to assist in the financing of improvements to be made by it. There is no legal prohibition against the corporation's charging an admission fee for events held in the portion of the building leased by it. 1983 Op St Compt No. 83-230, 1983 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 255.

8. Power to hold property received by gift (subd. 3)

A town board, under Town Law § 64(17-a) does not have a right to obtain a historical landmark by condemnation or otherwise but might be authorized to acquire such by gift if Town Law § 64(8) is complied with. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 24 (Informal), 1967 N.Y. AG LEXIS 68.

$250,000 tax limitation in Charter § 71 the type that may not be removed or raised by local law, if enacted by the Legislature; if amount raised for library purposes is for school library, this should be grouped with appropriations for "school purposes" which are excluded from the $250,000 limitation; amount raised for sanitation purposes (sewer, street cleaning and garbage disposal) may not be classified among the items excluded from such limitation "for board of health purposes." 1945 Op St Compt No. 45–540.

A city may accept an offer to dedicate a private road. If this is done the road becomes publicly owned and snow removal work may be done as part of the city's general maintenance of all municipality owned streets. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–832.

9. Levy and collection of taxes (subd. 4)

Municipalities may not enter into agreement whereby taxing power is delegated to administrative agency. 1994 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 94-5, 1994 N.Y. AG LEXIS 2.

A village may finance or appropriate village funds toward the expenses of a celebration to be held in honor of those who served in the Armed Forces during "World War II," such celebration to be held at a time other than on Memorial Day. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–601.

A property owner may pay current taxes or water rents to the City of Rome when a previous tax or rent against the property is unpaid and outstanding. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81-95, 1981 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 800.

10. Power to spend money, pay claims and the like (subd. 5)

It is believed that city funds may properly be expended to commemorate the anniversary of the incorporation of the city 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen July 9 (Informal), 1954 N.Y. AG LEXIS 316.

11. —Payment of equitable claims

If City of Poughkeepsie employees, who are driving city trucks are arrested in a nearby town on charges of operating overweight vehicles, even though they had no knowledge of the overloading, no duties in relation to loading the trucks and no means of weighing their loaded trucks, the Corporation Counsel may not represent them. However, the city could pay claims submitted by them for reimbursement for their losses. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 4 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 73.

A city may not donate cash prizes to be awarded by a private art association in cooperation with the municipal art commission. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–7010.

A city, town or village may pay membership dues of its judges in the New York State Association of Magistrates. All prior inconsistent opinions are hereby superseded. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–848.

A town or village may pay membership dues of its judges in the New York State Association of Magistrates. Opn. No. 79-848 modified. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–848-A.

There is no violation of Article VIII, § 1 of the State Constitution when a city official is given full-time use of a city-owned vehicle as part of his compensation in exchange for services. Municipal officials who are subject to being called to perform official duties in situations such as emergencies, during hours other than regular established working hours, may be permitted, in the public interest, to use municipal vehicles on a full-time basis to ensure the ready availability of essential city personnel during such situations. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79-850, 1980 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 374.

As a general rule, there is no contractual obligation on the part of a city to pay the cost of ambulance charges incurred where city firemen or policemen summon ambulances of independent, private companies to the scene of a fire, accident or other emergency. In such an instance, the city would normally not be liable for the negligent acts or omissions of the ambulance company in rendering the services. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–596.

Where a municipal governing body has determined that the attendance at a dinner business meeting of its own municipal officers with business executives or other municipal or State officers or employees, will serve the interests of the municipality, then the cost of meals consumed by all persons in attendance may be paid for by the municipality as a proper municipal expenditure. Opn No. 75-420 and any other prior inconsistent opinions superseded. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81-38, 1981 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 859.

A municipal governing board may authorize reimbursement for meals consumed at a business luncheon or dinner if the board determines that the meeting will promote a valid municipal purpose but the board may not authorize reimbursement for the consumption of alcoholic beverages since these may not under any circumstances be considered a proper or necessary municipal expense. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-213, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 517.

Where a city manager intends to incur a business meal expense for a meal to be served at his home he may only receive an advance of funds for such an expenditure if the governing board has authorized it and an itemized voucher must be submitted after the meal, detailing the individuals who attended and the cost of the ingredients used in preparing the meal. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-298, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 432.

A city may not pay the legal fees incurred by a member of the city council for procuring an injunction enjoining the picketing by city employees of his business establishment to protest his vote on a matter affecting a labor contract between the city and the employees. 1984 Op St Compt No. 84-17, 1984 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 122.

The effect of the amendments to § 208-f of the General Municipal Law, Chapter 415 of Laws of 1982 and Chapter 348 of Laws of 1989, is to permit the special accidental death benefit to be paid to the deceased member's children under the age of 18 in both the situation where the deceased member is divorced at the time of his death and in the situation where the deceased member's spouse predeceases him. Further § 5 of Chapter 415 of the Laws of 1982 provided that payments to the children of deceased member may be made retroactive to September 1, 1978. While it appears that claims of eligible children, either retroactive from September 1, 1978 or thereafter, may be subject to a municipality obligation to interpose an appropriately statute of limitations defense, it should be noted that the 4 month statute of limitations contained in CPLR § 217 (subject to tolling for infancy), which would be applicable to the Article 78 proceeding in the nature of mandamus to compel payment, would not begin to run until there was a demand and a refusal, although a claim may be barred by laches even where no demand has been made if the claimant unreasonably delays in making the appropriate demand. 1990 Op St Compt No. 90-43, 1990 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 55.

12. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of streets, parks, sewers and the like (subd. 7)

13. —Alienation of land held for parks

A city may discontinue streets, not constituting part of a park, appearing on its official map and convey the street lands when title to such lands was acquired by the city through proper "in rem" proceedings. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 11 (Informal), 1966 N.Y. AG LEXIS 56.

A city may discontinue streets in accordance with such conditions as may be imposed by its charter upon the exercise of such power. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 23 (Informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 124.

The City of Dunkirk may not authorize the use of park lands for the purpose of public works contracts with drilling companies for the exploration, development and production of gas for its own use without a special act of the Legislature. If such purpose is authorized by a special act, such act may also provide for the method of financing the project. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 13 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 160.

Real Property dedicated for park purposes not alienable by city without express consent of legislature, even though premises never used as a park. However, city must first establish valid title, as dedication alone does not pass title. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen July 17 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 89.

The City of Fulton may discontinue use of city real property as a street. City owned real property, under the provisions of the Fulton City Charter, may be sold or leased only at public auction to the highest bidder. 1981 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 81–191, 981 N.Y. AG LEXIS 139.

City, periodically, may close streets in city park, provided that closures do not restrict access to park. 1986 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 86-60, 1986 N.Y. AG LEXIS 23.

City cannot abolish state-created water board or provide that water board commissioners be appointed by city officials. 2007 N.Y. Op. (Inf.) Att'y Gen. 6, 2007 N.Y. AG LEXIS 9.

Under city charter, city chamberlain does not have authority to determine amount of surplus funds held by state-created water board, and city lacks authority to amend charter to give city chamberlain such power. 2007 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2007-6, 2007 N.Y. AG LEXIS 9.

A municipality may not alienate park property without the consent of the Legislature. 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–8219.

When a city holds land in fee for park purposes, subject to condition that such land must always be used for such purposes, and there is a valid executory interest subject to vesting upon failure of such condition, use of the land for park purposes may be discontinued only by act of the Legislature subsequent to release of the executory interest to the city, but once the executory interest has been released, the city, with legislative authorization, may convey or lease the land for library purposes. 1963 Op St Compt No. 63–865.

When determining its water rents, a city may include as part of the operating expenditures an item for water rents which are anticipated to be uncollectible. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–755.

14. Control and regulation of waterfront, docks and other facilities (subd. 8)

The City of Newburgh may lease its water front property and public improvements thereon to a private concern so long as the benefit accrues to the public and the municipality retains ownership of the water front property and improvements thereon but such lease must satisfy the requirements of New York State Constitution, Article VIII, § 1. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen March 16 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 80.

15. Construction, maintenance and discontinuance of bridges, tunnels and ferries (subd. 9)

School buses are not public carriers but are in the nature of private conveyances and thus are not required to obtain a franchise to operate over city streets. 1965 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 1 (Informal), 1965 N.Y. AG LEXIS 163.

16. Franchises for use of public ways and places (subd. 10)

If the granting of an additional concession is within the scope of the original grant in a concession agreement entered into after competitive bidding, it may be accomplished without further advertising for bids. Construction of an improvement on municipal property by a licensee may be considered to be a municipal public works project under certain circumstances. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81–754.

17. Construction of public buildings and works and assessment of costs (subd. 11)

The Common Council of the City of Tonawanda upon proper notice is authorized on its own motion by a two-thirds vote of all of its members to provide for the paving of City streets and assessing the full cost for such paving against the abutting landowners. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 1 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 358.

A city may not contract to pay a portion of the moneys received from public subscriptions to build a city hospital, to a private agency soliciting such subscriptions. A city may not agree to underwrite the expenses of private committees seeking such subscriptions. 1947 Op St Compt No. 47–347.

A city may erect bulkheads outside the city limits for flood control and may charge the cost of construction as a special assessment against the property of a non-profit hospital whose property is benefited. 1967 Op St Compt File #693.

(1) There is no time limitation within which the city must assess the cost of an improvement. (2) The city council may not retroactively relieve property owners of an assessed charge for an improvement where the construction has already taken place and where the assessment roll has been completed. (3) It would not be possible to premise legislation retroactively relieving property owners of the assessments in this situation upon the theory of moral obligation. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–479.

If the granting of an additional concession is within the scope of the original grant in a concession agreement entered into after competitive bidding, it may be accomplished without further advertising for bids. Construction of an improvement on municipal property by a licensee may be considered to be a municipal public works project under certain circumstances. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81–754.

18. Fire prevention and firefighting (subds. 12 and 12-a)

The positions of member of Glens Falls city council and firefighter in the Glenns Falls city fire department are incompatible, and therefore a person may not serve simultaneously in such office or positions. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-15.

City empowered to acquire fire apparatus by gift or otherwise, to pay cost of maintenance and operation thereof, to pay rent for housing such apparatus and to have volunteer firemen fight fires. Contract may be made for such fire-fighting force to serve area in another city. 1947 Op St Compt No. 47–445.

A city may not enter into an agreement with a private individual or organization for the purpose of providing fire protection for a consideration without express statutory approval. 1968 Op St Compt No. 68–579.

Unless a city charter or the rules and regulations of the fire department provide otherwise, a city fireman may engage in firemanic duties outside his regular duty hours for a private organization and be compensated therefor. 1968 Op St Compt No. 68–579.

Villages, fire districts or cities may require that persons elected to membership in a volunteer fire company satisfactorily complete a physical examination. The cost of such a physical examination may be assumed by the respective municipality. l969 Op St Compt No. 69–597.

Where city volunteer firemen perform boating rescue work on the river adjoining the city, the city may not charge rescued persons or boat owners a rescue services fee nor may it impound rescued boats or charge for any damages to rescue equipment sustained during the course of rescue operations. 1972 Op St Compt No. 72–722.

It would seem that the provisions of a city fire prevention code, including restrictions therein with respect to blasting operations, are not applicable to the construction of a new school building for the city school district. 1977 Op St Compt No. 77–232.

Discussion of tuition reimbursement for paid city firemen who are also eligible to receive such reimbursement as a veteran's benefit. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–493.

19. Enforcement of laws and regulation and licensing of businesses (subd. 13)

20. —Particular licensing requirements

The licensing of "masseurs" and "masseuses" and the regulation of their practice has been preempted by the State of New York by virtue of provisions contained in the Education Law and the City of Schenectady is not authorized to adopt an ordinance requiring persons to carry on the business of "massage operator" to be licensed by the City since the use of the title of "masseur" or "masseuse" is restricted to those licensed under the provisions of the Education Law and no person, firm, partnership or corporation is authorized to describe its services in any manner under the title "massage" unless such services as specified under the law are performed by or under the direct supervision of a person duly licensed under said law. Title 8, subarticle 4, section 6512 of Article 130 of the Education Law provides a penalty of a Class A misdemeanor for the unauthorized practice of the massage profession. There are ample provisions in the Penal Law for prosecution of other illegal activities. The physical requirements for the building in which massage parlors may be operated are under the jurisdiction of the Education Department although subject to local zoning, health and building code regulations. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 18 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 163.

The City of Syracuse is not authorized to either adopt an ordinance or enact a local law which would increase the license fee and charge the license expiration date of a scrap processor as provided for in General Business Law, § 69-f. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 17 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 193.

A county may not enact regulations licensing plumbers and electricians. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7740.

City may not charge a licensing fee which discriminates against those city residents who pay to have their garbage removed by private collectors. 1968 Op St Compt No. 68–1041.

A city may enact local police legislation requiring the licensing of superintendents of multiple dwellings provided that such legislation is reasonably related to the public health, welfare or safety. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–748.

21. —Other ordinances and regulations

A city has power to license any business in which motor vehicles are used. 1919 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 189.

The city of Niagara Falls may not require a building permit for the erection of the international bridge across the Niagara River or for construction of the custom houses at entrance to the bridge. 1941 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 401, 1941 N.Y. AG LEXIS 209.

The City of Rochester has the authority to require hospitals and nursing homes to conform to local building and fire regulations as a condition of being able to operate. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen July 9 (Informal), 1973 N.Y. AG LEXIS 84.

The City of White Plains, for the promotion of the health, safety, and welfare of the community, may adopt an ordinance in the exercise of the city's police power prohibiting undesirable acts on school district property without the consent of the school district. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen June 12. (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 108.

A second class city may supersede any provision of the Second Class Cities Law except provisions dealing with subjects withheld from local-law power or, if other than property, affairs or government, specifically restricted by the Legislature under its constitutional power. 1983 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83–11, 1983 N.Y. AG LEXIS 85.

A village that uses its meeting hall only occasionally or intermittently may rent it at other periods of time for fair and adequate consideration to private organizations such as the boys scouts. Such a rental must be subject to the stipulation that the village retains the option to use the facility at any time if an unforeseen emergency develops. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–757.

22. Operation of hospitals, jails and other institutions (subd. 15)

The expense of burial of an indigent person, whose death occurred on a steamer, may be assumed by the city to which the body was taken. 1922 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 186.

The City of Syracuse is not mandated to establish or to maintain a city jail. A county sheriff is mandated to receive any person lawfully committed to his custody. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen July 2 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 101.

A city is not prohibited from appointing jailkeepers at the city jail, and said jailkeepers do not have to be police officers, provided that such employees are under the general control of the city police department. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen May 8. (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 125.

City of Mount Vernon may not contract with the Mount Vernon Hospital for the furnishing of an emergency room, together with staff and equipment, in addition to furnishing of ambulance service. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–7029.

The cost of operation and maintenance of a city jail is an expense of that city, and not of the county in which the city is located. 1968 Op St Compt No. 68–290.

23. Terms and conditions of employment for city employees (subd. 17)

The mayor, aldermen and corporation counsel of Port Jervis, as salaried officers, are not in the absence of local law entitled to reimbursement for expenses incurred in performing their duties. 1963 Op St Compt No. 63–207.

A city council which has the power to appoint a city manager has the implied authority to enter a contract of employment with such manager and this would not abolish, transfer, or curtail any power of an elected officer. But such an employment contract may not be for a term longer than the term of the council since the council may not bind its successors. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-261, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 467.

A city may as part of an officer's compensation give the individual the use of a city owned vehicle which he may employ for both official and personal uses but the city may not agree to reimburse him for all expenses incurred in the use of the vehicle for personal purposes since the compensation he is to receive must be a fixed amount and the city could not ascertain the amount of money which it would be obligated to pay for such personal expenses. Op St Comp No 82-261, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 467.

A city governing board possesses the authority to adopt an ordinance or local law requiring that the zoning board of appeals hold monthly meetings on a prescribed day and at a specified hour. Op St Comp No. 84-34, 1984 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 103.

24. —Automatic deduction of union dues and other contributions from pay

Although there is no statutory provision authorizing municipalities to deduct pledges to charitable organizations from the salaries of municipal employees, local laws may be enacted, under this section, authorizing such deductions. 1961 Op St Compt No. 61–5.

25. —Vacations, sick leaves and other leaves of absence

The common council of Kingston has no power, under Home Rule Law, to change fees of the city marshal during his term of office. 1913 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 677.

The granting of annual vacations, sick leaves and leaves of absence to city officers and employees is not mandatory under this section 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen March 3 (Informal), 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 207.

Common Council of City of Ithaca may provide for leaves of absence to police officers where death occurs in the family. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 23 (Informal), 1958 N.Y. AG LEXIS 228.

Where the Commissioner of Finance in the City of White Plains is presently appointed by the Common Council of said City the transfer of his budgetary powers to a Budget Director to be appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the Common Council may only be effected by the adoption of a local law by the Common Council by at least the majority affirmative vote of its total voting power followed by its submission to a referendum and its approval by the electors. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen July 8 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 135.

The City Manager of the City of Troy is authorized, pursuant to provisions of the City Charter, to appoint the Corporation Counsel on a part-time basis. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 15 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 161.

For a discussion of liability of city to reimburse city judge and chief of detectives for expense of defending civil action for false arrest and for damages recovered against them, see 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6096.

City ordinance authorizing cash payments to employees in commutation of accrued sick leave upon resignation or retirement is invalid. It is questionable whether city may by ordinance authorize a vacation to be taken prior to the termination of employment equal in length to the amount of accrued sick leave 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6277.

Employees of department of public works may not ordinarily be employed on an overtime basis; however, local law may be adopted authorizing such employment where not prohibited by sections 160 and 220 of the Labor Law. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7462.

A city may grant an injured officer or employee a leave of absence with pay. 1957 Op St Compt No. 57–82.

The General Municipal Law authorizes a city to pay a separated employee for unused vacation time. A city may not authorize similar payment for unused sick leave. There is no authority for a city to enter into a collective bargaining agreement with a labor union which claims to represent employees of the city. 1964 Op St Compt No. 64–895.

Where the salaries of a city mayor and city judge are duly increased by ordinance during their terms of office, such ordinance is not subject to a permissive referendum. A local law which was not subject to a permissive referendum may not provide for a "cost-of-living" increase for city councilmen during their terms of office. 1973 Op St Compt No. 73–1170.

Discussion of the power of appointment to the office of city harbor master. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–322.

A city may, by resolution, provide that the city clerk shall have the additional duties of purchasing agent and it may also enact a local law amending its charter to give the city clerk the additional duties and powers of purchasing agent. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–472.

Dual employment by the same municipality of the same person in full-time and part-time positions is not prohibited per se under General Municipal Law, § 801, if not otherwise prohibited. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–946.

The city Director of Public Works is legally required to perform only such functions as are enumerated in the city charter or directed by the common council. The mayor cannot prescribe the director's duties. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–249.

The Common Council of the City of Hudson has power to eliminate the civil service position of clerk in the elected City Treasurer's office, provided that it is done in good faith for reasons of economy, efficiency, or better service to the public. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-171, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 553.

26. Municipal civil service (subd. 18)

Licensing officials are authorized to consider the fitness of an applicant. In considering the effect of a prior conviction, the licensing officer may deny a license only after making the determinations required by the Legislature. No public hearing is required in making such a licensing determination. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-37.

Unsalaried city civil service commissioners may be compensated, in the discretion of the city council, for serving as proctors at examinations and for attending meetings of the civil service commission. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–426.

27. Regulation of manner of transaction of city business (subd. 19)

Mandamus is available to a city council to compel the mayor to execute documents duly authorized by the council and required by law to be signed by the mayor. 1969 Op St Compt No. 69–879.

Discussion of whether the Mayor of the City of Utica has the power to enter into a contract without Common Council approval and bind the city to payment for professional services rendered with respect to examination of the fiscal affairs of the city. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–1031.

28. Investigation into matters of concern to city (subd. 21)

29. —Subpoena power

The City of White Plains may not by Local Law grant subpoena power to the White Plains Human Rights Commission. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen June 17 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 91.

City's authority to issue subpoenas for testimony of witnesses may extend to non-city entities in course of city's investigation into matters of concern to city or its inhabitants. 2007 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2007-9, 2007 N.Y. AG LEXIS 14.

Power to issue subpoenas under CLS Gen City § 20(21) may encompass authority to issue subpoenas duces tecum. 2007 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2007-9, 2007 N.Y. AG LEXIS 14.

30. Ordinances and penalties as to matters of concern to city (subd. 22)

The City of Rye may not adopt an ordinance or local law prohibiting hunting within the City Limits. However, an ordinance which prohibited the discharge of firearms except by law enforcement officers would likely constitute a reasonable exercise of the police power if its operation were restricted to certain densely populated areas or areas where the discharge of firearms would be hazardous to the general public or to nearby residents. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 13 (Informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 139.

A city may adopt a local law which imposes a mandatory surcharge for local offenses which are classified as violations under its regulatory code. The penalty, however, must bear a reasonable relationship to the severity of the violation. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-22.

Notwithstanding Article 240 of the Penal Law, a city may adopt an ordinance defining acts constituting disorderly conduct and impose a penalty for the violation thereof. 1973 Op St Compt No. 73–895.

Although the law is somewhat unclear, a city may impose a civil as well as a criminal penalty for a violation of its parking ordinance. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–465.

Wildlife conservation is an area pre-empted by State law, but a municipal ordinance or local law that prohibits trapping within a specified distance of buildings in residential areas might still be a valid exercise of police power. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78-956, 1979 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 253.

31. Power to enact zoning and other land use regulations (subds. 24 and 25)

32. —Particular regulations

Discussion of amendment of zoning ordinance to provide for creation of a historic district. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 14 (Informal), 1962 N.Y. AG LEXIS 92.

The Mayor of the City of Syracuse may remove or suspend members of the City Planning Commission and the Board of Zoning Appeals. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen March 16 (Informal), 1970 N.Y. AG LEXIS 48.

The provisions contained in General City Law, § 83, providing that, if a proper protest against a proposed amendment to a zoning ordinance be duly filed and acknowledged, such amendment shall not be passed except by a three-fourths vote of the common council, does not apply to the granting of a special permit by the Planning Commission and the Common Council of the City of Syracuse, since the amending of a zoning ordinance is a legislative act, while the granting of a special permit, under the Zoning Rules and Regulations of the City of Syracuse, consists of administrative action. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen May 23 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 82.

A city may adopt an ordinance to provide civil penalties for violations of the State Building Construction Code, except as otherwise expressly provided in article 18 of the Executive Law. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 27 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 157.

A city, whose local building code legislation is more restrictive than the applicable provisions of the Multiple Residence Law, may adopt local legislation to provide for civil penalties to enforce said local building code. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 13 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 52.

As a general rule a municipality in the exercise of its governmental, as distinguished from its proprietary, functions is not bound by its own municipal building code. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 2 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 37.

A city regulation, prohibiting the keeping of certain fowl or birds and applying the prohibition to persons possessing these animals at the time of enactment, is valid. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-7.

City is authorized to enact zoning regulations which include procedure for revocation of special permits. 1985 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-43, 1985 N.Y. AG LEXIS 52.

33. Particular regulations; prohibition of particular business or use

A zoning ordinance would be construed as authorizing construction of an addition to a nonconforming building. A commissioner of buildings may not change the character of a zoning district 1953 Op St Comp No. 53–6274.

34. —Other matters

Legislature has withdrawn localities' authority to use zoning to regulate some defined types of human services; state and local regulation of other types may exist, and federal law, including Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, Americans with Disabilities Act, and Rehabilitation Act must be considered in evaluating local zoning laws. 1997 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 97-F6, 1997 N.Y. AG LEXIS 56.

35. Sewer rents (subds. 26 and 26-a)

A city may levy a special sewer assessment on property benefited by public sewer installation, notwithstanding the property in question is already served by private sanitary sewer or septic tank. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 5 (Informal), 1964 N.Y. AG LEXIS 123.

Under the above sections, while a city is authorized to levy a special sewer assessment on property benefited even though the property is serviced by a septic tank, sewer rents must be fixed on the basis reflecting actual use of the sewerage system by property owners. 1969 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 25 (Informal), 1969 N.Y. AG LEXIS 75.

A city, by applying the provisions of the Sewer Rent Law or by local law, may collect unpaid sewer rents by adding them to the tax roll and collecting them at the same time and in the same manner as real property taxes. A city by local law may establish the same procedure for collection of unpaid water rents. Subject to due process requirements, city water service may be terminated for nonpayment of water rents. 1981 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 81–56, 1981 N.Y. AG LEXIS 97.

In the City of Ithaca water rent must be based on meter consumption of water except where a pre-existing contract provides otherwise. 1958 Op St Compt No. 58–286.

Sewer rentals are improperly charged against properties which have not been connected with the city sewer, and, where they have been paid, the City of Beacon may properly audit and repay claims for the amounts paid. 1961 Op St Compt No. 61–844.

Unless specially excepted, in the enactment establishing water and sewer rents and the penalties for late payment thereof, a school district and a State hospital are subject to the same penalties as private users of those services. 1968 Op St Compt No. 68–295.

Where a city has failed to bill water users for water rents, it may do so, and collect the unpaid rents, upon discovery of the error. 1972 Op St Compt No. 72–683.

Absent contrary provisions in city charter, partial payments may be made on current water and sewer rents. But when water and sewer rents become delinquent and are added to tax roll and levied as taxes, they are collected in same manner as taxes. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–342.

The City of Kingston may adopt a local law authorizing the Board of Water Commissioners to grant a partial exemption from water rents to senior citizens who earn $6,500 a year or less. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81-8, 1981 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 890.

A property owner, who was charged and paid for use of a public sewer system to which his property was not connected, is not entitled to a refund of those payments under the Real Property Tax Law. A refund may be available, however, under the provisions of section 20 of the General City Law. 7 Op Counsel SBEA #12 (1979, April 16).

36. Insurance (subds. 29 and 29-a)

A city may pay, as a maximum, only one-half of the cost of accident and hospital insurance of its city officers and employees. 1961 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 28 (Informal), 1961 N.Y. AG LEXIS 173.

There is no authority for a town to contribute to the cost of Blue Cross hospitalization insurance for its highway employees, as a part of their compensation. 1950 Op St Compt No. 50–4911.

City may contribute up to one-half of the cost of a family medical and surgical hospital policy covering families of employees 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6485.

In absence of clear statutory authority a village may not contribute toward the cost of group medical insurance for its employees. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7203.

There is no general provision of law permitting a city or a county to contribute to the cost of group life insurance for its employees. 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–8141.

A city other than New York City has the choice of proceeding under either § 92-a of the General Municipal Law or § 20, subd. (29) of the General City Law in taking care of hospital and medical insurance and expense for its officers and employees. 1962 Op St Compt No. 62–1016.

A city council which has the power to appoint a city manager has the implied authority to enter a contract of employment with such manager and this would not abolish, transfer, or curtail any power of an elected officer. But such an employment contract may not be for a term longer than the term of the council since the council may not bind its successors. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-261, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 467.

37. Traffic control (subd. 32)

Legislative power to regulate public streets and places for parking and parking meters may not be delegated by the municipality unless expressly authorized by statute. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 29 (Informal), 1964 N.Y. AG LEXIS 93.

Cities establishing a system of traffic control as authorized by General City Law § 20, subd 32, must do so strictly in accordance therewith whereupon exclusive power and authority to regulate traffic in that city vests in the body thereby created. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 19 (Informal), 1971 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

CLS Gen City L § 20(32) does not supersede local legislation establishing city traffic agencies. 1989 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 89-33, 1989 N.Y. AG LEXIS 40.

City may authorize policemen to "tag" vehicles for overtime parking. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–506.

38. Reimbursement of officers and employees for official travel (subd. 33)

City may not reimburse city officer for damage caused by third party to such official's personally owned car while such officer was using such car in performance of his official duties, the city having previously agreed to reimburse such officer at a fixed rate for use of such car in performance of his official duties. 1947 Op St Compt No. 47–422.

A city may reimburse a city officer or employee for the use of his automobile in the performance of his duties within the city. 1958 Op Ct Compt No. 58–73.

City may authorize policemen to "tag" vehicles for overtime parking. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–506.

39. Repair or removal of unsafe structures (subd. 35)

A village may adopt a local law to remove unsafe or dangerous buildings constituting a nuisance, provided that the local law is consistent with constitutional due process requirements, as, for example, shown by Multiple Dwelling Law, § 309(1)(a) through (f), Multiple Residence Law, § 305(2) or General City Law, § 20(35). 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 25 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 153.

A city board of health may order the abatement of a nuisance and may maintain court actions to enforce its orders and regulations. A city may enact a local law or ordinance providing a procedure pursuant to which the city may compel the removal or repair of unsafe buildings. 1960 Op St Compt File No. 60-145.

The City of Glens Falls may enact a valid ordinance empowering it to require repair or removal of unsafe buildings or structures, if the ordinance complies with constitutional requirements of due process of law. 1962 Op St Compt No. 62–1061.

A city ordinance which provides for repair by the city of private buildings which the city determines present a danger to public health and safety would be invalid if it fails to provide the owner of the building with notice of the alleged defects and an opportunity for a hearing. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-130, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 587.

The City of Niagara Falls may commence a special proceeding against a property owner to recover demolition costs incurred by the city in having an unsafe structure demolished. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-142, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 582.

40. Miscellaneous

The creation of the Newburgh Housing Authority does not pre-empt the City of Newburgh from acquiring property for the purpose of operation of low rent dwelling houses for persons of low income. 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen July 11 (Informal), 1968 N.Y. AG LEXIS 78.

General City Law § 20 authorizes cities of 50,000 or more population to expend funds to establish a publicity fund to further public or municipal purposes. 1979 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 37, 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 161.

City may enter private property to remove inoperable, unregistered motor vehicle and impose cost of vehicle's impoundment on car's owner or property owner. 1987 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 87-39, 1987 N.Y. AG LEXIS 65.

A city may not require all motor vehicle towing businesses to maintain a place of business within the city in order to obtain a license to do any business in the city. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 90-66, 1990 N.Y. AG LEXIS 71.

Municipality by local law may establish exception to common law prohibition on holding incompatible offices where public interest would be served. 1994 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 94-2, 1994 N.Y. AG LEXIS 5.

A city may not sell gasoline to private persons. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–236.

Municipalities may not retain bank stocks acquired upon bank reorganizations. Power to sell same, and procedure therefor outlined. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–341.

Cities may establish new departments by local law or ordinance. Special charter provisions might authorize establishment of such departments by resolution. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–430.

Power of city of Beacon to contract for survey of assessed valuations of real property; supersession of Charter sections by local law. 1946 Op St Compt No. 46–517.

Power of city of Rochester to invest certain trust funds; investments of funds of trusts (1) created pursuant to Article 7 of the General Municipal Law, or (2) where private trustees are designated. 1947 Op St Compt No. 47–131.

A city may not sell gasoline to a company which furnishes school buses for transporting children to and from their homes. 1958 Op St Compt No. 58–396.

A city council which has the power to appoint a city manager has the implied authority to enter a contract of employment with such manager and this would not abolish, transfer, or curtail any power of an elected officer. But such an employment contract may not be for a term longer than the term of the council since the council may not bind its successors. 1982 Op St Compt No. 82-261, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 467.

Fees so collected pursuant to an invalid ordinance may be refunded upon the adoption of a local law authorizing the payment of equitable claims against the town. 1967 Op St Compt File #765.

A city has the authority to act by resolution or local law to enable it to obtain a landowner's consent to strip a wooded area near the school district high school in order to prevent drug abuse and drug sales by high school students in this wooded area. 1978 Op St Compt File #408.

Discussion of the exercise of police power in a situation in which a so-called "dangerous tree" is located on private property away from sidewalks or streets. 1978 Op St Compt File #617.

Discussion of self-insurance by city for tort claims; "risk-management" plan whereby city pays tort claims up to $250,000 and insurance company pays claims greater than that amount and provides legal and investigatory services; and joint self-insurance by two or more municipalities. 1978 Op St Compt File #636.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in §§ 20-d, 20-e, 21, 30-a, 81, 83; CLS Pub A Law § 1206.

Notice of pendency, CLS CPLR Art 65, §§ 6501 et seq.

Local laws prohibiting disposal of earth, soil, refuse, or other solid substance in streams, ponds, or lakes, CLS ECL § 11-0503(6).

Control and maintenance of streets relocated or constructed by board of river regulating district, CLS ECL § 15-2113(3).

Removals and transportation of human remains, CLS ECL § 15-2117(5).

Powers of municipalities with respect to planning for construction of solid waste management facilities, CLS ECL § 27-0507.

Solid waste management facilities, CLS ECL §§ 27-0501 to 27-0511 (Law 1973 chs 399 and 400).

Solid waste recovery and management, CLS ECL §§ 51-0901 et seq.

Local highway safety programs, CLS Exec Law § 333.

Municipal assistance to public authorities furnishing transportation services, CLS Gen Mun Law § 98-b.

Control of aquatic plant growth, CLS Gen Mun Law § 99-j.

Mass transportation and airport and aviation facilities, CLS Gen Mun Law § 119-r.

Creation of conservation advisory council, CLS Gen Mun Law § 239-x.

Surrender of portion of state highway to city, CLS High Law § 10(32).

Maintenance and repair of highways, bridges, and culverts built with county aid, CLS High Law § 131-k.

Responsibility with state of developing plans, etc., to aid the mentally disabled, including alcoholics and narcotic addicts, CLS Men Hyg Law § 1.03.

Availability to local governments of laboratory services at facilities of department of mental hygiene, CLS Men Hyg Law § 9.23.

Fire corporations, CLS N-PCL § 1402.

Payments in aid of lower income elderly persons, CLS Priv Hous Fin Law §§ 31(9), 85-a(7), 126, 577-a.

Tax exemption of state urban development corporation project, CLS Priv Hous Fin Law §§ 93(6), 577(3).

Contracts with state commissioner of health for construction of sewer system, CLS Pub Health Law § 1263-d.

Contracts for consulting engineering services for solid waste management facilities, CLS Pub Health Law § 1383.

Tax abatement for rent controlled property occupied by senior citizens, CLS Real P Tax Law § 467-b.

Uniform ordinances, signs, signals, signal lights and markings, CLS Veh & Tr § 1610.

Duty to provide police, fire, sanitation, health protection and other services to State Urban Development and Research Corporation project, CLS Unconsol Laws Ch 252-A § 8(4).

Law Reviews:

Zoning—Equal Protection—Right of Privacy—Supreme Court Upholds Restrictive Definition of Family in Zoning Ordinance. 60 Cornell L Rev, No. 2, p. 299, January, 1975.

State Land Use Statutes: A Comparative Analysis. 45 Fordham L Rev, No. 5, p. 1154, April, 1977.

Rohan, Property Planning and the Search for a Comprehensive Housing Policy—The View from Mount Laurel. 49 St. John's L Rev, No. 4, p. 653, Summer, 1975.

1975 Survey of New York Law: Land Use Control. 27 Syracuse L Rev, No. 1, p. 167, 1976.

1976 Survey of New York Law: Land Use Control. 28 Syracuse L Rev, No. 1, p. 109, Winter, 1977.

1977 Survey of New York Law: Land Use Control. 29 Syracuse L Rev, No. 1, p. 187, Winter, 1978.

Straniere, Land use in New York: an evaluation of policy and performance. 40 Alb. L. Rev. 693.

Costonis, "Fair" compensation and the accommodation power: antidotes for the taking impasse in land use controversies. 75 Colum. L. Rev. 1021.

Legitimate use exclusions through zoning: applying a balancing test. 57 Cornell L. Rev. 461.

Sussna, Land use and zoning: the Staten Island experience. 42 N.Y. State Bar J. 626.

Zoning—standing, the right to travel and exclusionary zoning—phased-growth municipal zoning plan upheld as reasonable exercise of state police power. 50 NYU L Rev 1163.

Inapplicability of municipal zoning ordinances to governmental uses. 19 Syracuse L. Rev. 698.

Fonoroff and Terrill, Controlling traffic through zoning. 21 Syracuse L. Rev. 857.

Local government—a municipality has the power to regulate by local ordinance the emission of air pollutants. 22 Syracuse L. Rev. 1173.

GENERAL CONSTRUCTION LAW

Article
2. Meaning of Terms
2-A. Classification of Corporations and Definitions

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 27, eff Feb 17, 1909.

ARTICLE 2 Meaning of Terms

Section
20. Day, computation
24. Public holidays; half-holidays.
25-a. Public holiday, Saturday or Sunday in statutes; extension of time where performance of act is due on Saturday, Sunday or public holiday
33. Notice
41. Quorum and majority
60. Newspapers

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 27, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 20. Day, computation

A number of days specified as a period from a certain day within which or after or before which an act is authorized or required to be done means such number of calendar days exclusive of the calendar day from which the reckoning is made. If such period is a period of two days, Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday must be excluded from the reckoning if it is an intervening day between the day from which the reckoning is made and the last day of the period. In computing any specified period of time from a specified event, the day upon which the event happens is deemed the day from which the reckoning is made. The day from which any specified period of time is reckoned shall be excluded in making the reckoning.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 27; amd, L 1910, ch 347; L 1952, ch 821, § 3; L 1964, ch 855; L 1965, ch 848, eff Sept 1, 1965; L 1988, ch 172, § 1, eff June 27, 1988.

Editor's Notes Laws 1965, ch 848, § 4, provides:

§ 4. This act shall take effect September first, nineteen hundred sixty–five but shall not apply to or affect contracts or obligations entered into or rights acquired prior to such date.

Committee Comments

1988 Recommendations of the Law Revision Commission:

I. Introduction.General Construction Law § 20 is designed to provide a uniform method of computing periods of time specified for the doing of an act (1952 Leg. Doc. No. 65[D]; 1952 Report, Recommendations and Studies, pp.103,107). * The statute contains basically three rules, only one of which is relevant to this memorandum. That rule provides that where an act is authorized or required to be done within, after or before a two-day period, Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday must be excluded from the computation of the period if such a day falls between the day from which "the reckoning" is made and the last day of the period. For example, suppose a shipping contract provided that a buyer could reject goods shipped, but only if he or she did so within two days of their receipt. If the goods were received on a Monday, and the following Tuesday was a public holiday, the buyer would have up to and including Thursday within which he or she could reject the goods. Monday would be considered the "day from which the reckoning is made," and Wednesday would otherwise be the "last day of the period." Since Tuesday would be an intervening public holiday, it is excluded from the computation of the period.The problem with the statute as now written is that it contains the unnecessary word "in". The pertinent portion of the statute reads as follows: "If such period is a period of two days, Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday must be excluded from the reckoning if it is in an intervening day between the day from which the reckoning is made and the last day of the period." (Emphasis added)The Commission has concluded that the word "in" does not belong as it appears, and that its existence is the result of a scrivener's error which occurred when the statute was amended in 1965 (L 1965, c 848, § 3; compare, L 1964, c 855 § 1). Consequently, the Commission recommends that General Construction Law § 20 be amended by deleting the word "in" from the second sentence. No substantive changes are intended or anticipated by this amendment.

II. The word "in"— A scrivener's error.

The presence of the word "in" in the second sentence of General Construction Law § 20 is most likely the result of a scrivener's error. Three reasons support this conclusion. First, the purpose of the 1965 amendment to § 20 (L 1965,c 848, § 3), at which time "in" first appeared, was to add Saturday to the days excluded from the calculation of two-day periods, within which or before which an act was to be performed. Prior law excluded only Sunday and public holidays. Achieving this goal required nothing more than simply adding the word "Saturday" to the statute, to precede "Sunday", so the statute would read, "If such period is a period of two days, Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday must be excluded …." (Emphasis added) The addition of "in" was unnecessary and inappropriate.

Secondly, the word "in", as it appeared in the Assembly bill preceding the 1965 Amendment just mentioned, was not italicized. This was in contravention of Assembly Rules in effect in 1965 which required that all new matters to be added to or inserted in existing law be printed in italics (1965 Leg. Doc. No. 5, p 7). Consequently, the addition of "in" was apparently not purposeful.

Finally, it makes no sense for the statute to read "… Saturday … must be excluded from the reckoning if it is in an intervening day …."

For these reasons, it seems clear that "in" 's existence is the result of a scrivener's error. Deleting the word would effect no substantive change in the law, but would eliminate a potential source of confusion.

---

*The text of General Construction Law § 20 is set forth as follows:

20. Day, computation A number of days specified as a period from a certain day within which or after or before which an act is authorized or required to be done means such number of calendar days exclusive of the calendar day from which the reckoning is made. If such period is a period of two days, Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday must be excluded from the reckoning if it is in an intervening day between the day from which the reckoning is made and the last day of the period. In computing any specified period of time from a specified event, the day upon which the event happens is deemed the day from which the reckoning is made. The day from which any specified period of time is reckoned shall be excluded in making the reckoning.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Computation of time period
3. —Particular examples
4. Effect of Sundays and holidays on computation of time
5. —Half holidays
6. —Time periods measured other than by days
7. —Sundays and holidays as intervening days
8. Fractions of days
9. Miscellaneous

1. In general

Section 58 is by its terms made applicable to the construction of the word "year" in private instruments, and this makes §§ 20 and 30 applicable in construing the word "year." In re Bardol's Will, 253 A.D. 498, 254 A.D. 647, 4 N.Y.S.2d 795, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8480 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 278 N.Y. 543, 16 N.E.2d 96, 278 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 543, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1389 (N.Y. 1938).

Neither § 20 nor § 30 relates to the computation of a period of time but only to the construction of the meaning of a number of days within, after or before which an act is authorized, and of the number of months after or before a certain day, and these sections are not applicable to the computation of a period of time generally. In re Bardol's Will, 253 A.D. 498, 254 A.D. 647, 4 N.Y.S.2d 795, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8480 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 278 N.Y. 543, 16 N.E.2d 96, 278 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 543, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1389 (N.Y. 1938).

CLS Gen Const § 20 is guideline for statutory and contractual interpretation used in determining when performance is due under specified time constraint and has no application to judicial order which specifically provides otherwise. Property Clerk, New York City Police Dep't v Seroda, 131 A.D.2d 289, 521 N.Y.S.2d 233, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48921 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

Section 20 applies only where period specified in the statute is fixed in number of days. Jablon v New York, 31 N.Y.S.2d 764, 177 Misc. 838, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941), aff'd, 268 A.D. 859, 51 N.Y.S.2d 82, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3886 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

The provisions of sections 20 and 30 relate to limitations set forth in private agreements as well as to limitations set forth in statutes. Biloz v Tioga County Patrons' Fire Relief Ass'n, 21 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1993 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 976, 23 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940); Pomeranz v More, 63 N.Y.S.2d 111, 187 Misc. 383, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2330 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1946).

2. Computation of time period

The day from which any specified period of time is reckoned shall be excluded in making reckoning. First day is excluded in computation of years as well as in computation of days, weeks or months. Tismer v New York Edison Co., 228 N.Y. 156, 126 N.E. 729, 228 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 156, 1920 N.Y. LEXIS 921 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 228 N.Y. 585, 127 N.E. 923, 228 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 585, 1920 N.Y. LEXIS 1055 (N.Y. 1920).

The general rule of computation which excludes one of terminal days was not changed by this section. Sunday is excluded only where it is the last day of a specified period. H. E. & S. Transp. Corp. v Checker Cab Sales Corp., 271 N.Y. 239, 2 N.E.2d 642, 271 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 239, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1193 (N.Y. 1936).

When a specific period of time is mentioned in a statute as "within 30 days after the first day of the month," the first day of that month must be excluded in determining time. Bass v Board of Trustees, 226 A.D. 165, 235 N.Y.S. 250, 1929 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8674 (N.Y. App. Div. 1929).

In computing a lapse of time the first day is excluded and the last day is included. Fisk Discount Corp. v Brooklyn Taxicab Trans. Co., 270 A.D. 491, 60 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3725 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Proper method for computing time periods is to exclude day of event and to include last day up to midnight of that day. Bacalokonstantis v Nichols, 141 A.D.2d 482, 529 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6305 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Trial court properly dismissed an indictment for weapons violations on speedy trial grounds where the People were required to be ready for trial within 183 days, but a total of 191 days of pre-trial delay were properly chargeable to the People in keeping with the rule of N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 20 that, when computing a period of days, the first day was to be excluded but the last day was to be included. People v DiMeglio, 294 A.D.2d 239, 743 N.Y.S.2d 83, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5430 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2002).

The general rule in computing time "from" a day, when there is nothing to show contrary intention of the parties, is to exclude the day named and include the last day. Pomeranz v More, 63 N.Y.S.2d 111, 187 Misc. 383, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2330 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1946).

This section referring to a period of days excludes Sunday from the reckoning, if the last day falls thereon. Ekas v City Cab Co., 118 N.Y.S.2d 119, 203 Misc. 730, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1442 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

The date from which any reckoning of time is made is excluded in making the computation. Ekas v City Cab Co., 118 N.Y.S.2d 119, 203 Misc. 730, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1442 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

In computing period of time, general rule of construction is that inception period is to be excluded and termination period included. Leatherby Ins. Co. v Villafana, 82 Misc. 2d 144, 368 N.Y.S.2d 102, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2584 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Whether the period of time in question be measured by days, weeks, months or years, the day from which the reckoning is made must be excluded. Biloz v Tioga County Patrons' Fire Relief Ass'n, 21 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1993 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 976, 23 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Plaintiff failed to file a timely notice of claim pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e on a transit authority in relation to a personal injury action, because plaintiff was unable to serve the transit authority on the 89th day, which fell on a Saturday, or the 90th day which fell on a Sunday, and instead, plaintiff served the transit authority on the next succeeding business day as allowed by N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law §§ 20, 25-a. Stewart v New York City Transit Auth., 238 N.Y.L.J. 21, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5436 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. July 12, 2007).

Under § 20 of General Construction Law date of event in question is excluded from computation of limitations period; when applicable limitation period is measured in years, this rule results in anniversary date as last day for instituting action. Evans v Hawker-Siddeley Aviation, Ltd., 482 F. Supp. 547, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8012 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

3. —Particular examples

A life policy issued on March 24, 1945, pursuant to the Insurance Law § 155, which provided that the policy shall be incontestable when in force for 2 years from date of its issue, was controlled by § 20 of the General Construction Law as to computation of days, weeks, months or years and the date of issue would be excluded from computation of time within which rescission action could be brought thereby making March 24, 1947, the last day for action to rescind. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v Schmidt, 299 N.Y. 428, 87 N.E.2d 442, 299 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 428, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 954 (N.Y. 1949).

An employment contract which provides that a new employee is to be regarded as a temporary employee for the first 60 days and that this probationary period could be extended for an additional 30 days if the employee and the union are notified in writing 10 days before the expiration of the first 60 days of employment requires that, in computing the date on which notice is to be given to extend the probationary period, the final day of probation is to be excluded, since there is evidence that section 20 of the General Construction Law, which provides that a number of days specified as a period from a certain day within which or after or before which an action is authorized or required to be done means such number of calendar days exclusive of the calendar day from which the reckoning is made, was intended to encompass contracts as well as statutes. Messina v Lufthansa German Airlines, 47 N.Y.2d 111, 417 N.Y.S.2d 39, 390 N.E.2d 758, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 1988 (N.Y. 1979).

Where evidence in a case terminated on May 1, decision and judgment rendered on May 16, was within 15 days required by § 68 of the Schenectady city court practice act. Como v Murphy, 248 A.D. 656, 287 N.Y.S. 995, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6687 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

In view of this section, an application to permit late filing of an affidavit of intention to make claim against the MVAIC, made on September 11, was within the 120-day period since accrual of the cause of action on May 14. Rosante v Copenhaver, 15 A.D.2d 825, 225 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11280 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1962).

Applying this section to an accident and health policy stating that such policy should be incontestable after it had been in force for a period of two years, as to statements contained in the application, where the policy was issued on August 16, 1957, and insured suffered a heart attack on August 16, 1959, it was still contestable. Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Kevie, 17 A.D.2d 109, 232 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7915 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962), aff'd, 13 N.Y.2d 971, 244 N.Y.S.2d 777, 194 N.E.2d 686, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 935 (N.Y. 1963).

Notice of cancellation did not comply with 10 day notice requirement of Workmen's Compensation Law § 54, subd 5, where, excluding day of filing pursuant to General Construction Law § 20, only 9 days notice was given. Van Deurs v Regency Cabinet Corp., 42 A.D.2d 452, 349 N.Y.S.2d 133, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4570 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

Service of amended complaint on April 18, 1986 was not timely under terms of conditional order of dismissal, served on March 18, 1986, requiring that amended complaint be served within 30 days. Capoccia v Brognano, 132 A.D.2d 834, 517 N.Y.S.2d 622, 517 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49323 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Under rule that time is to be computed by excluding day of event and including last day up to midnight of that day, plaintiffs who were allegedly injured by city vehicle at 2:35 p.m. on July 22, 1985, and who had one year and 90 days within which to commence action under CLS Gen Mun § 50-i, were required to serve municipal defendants by midnight on October 20, 1986; exclusion of first full day and inclusion of last day did not result in period ending at 2:34 p.m. on October 21, 1986, as contended by plaintiffs. Bacalokonstantis v Nichols, 141 A.D.2d 482, 529 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6305 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Prison disciplinary hearing that was concluded on February 24 on basis of misbehavior reports written on February 10 was concluded within 14-day period required by 7 NYCRR 251-5.1(b), since day on which report was written was excluded from 14-day period pursuant to CLS Gen Const § 20. Afrika v Edwards, 160 A.D.2d 1212, 555 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4662 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Proceeding under Election Law was timely commenced "within 3 business days" after board made determination of invalidity with respect to petition where date of determination was Wednesday, July 27; thus, under CLS Gen Const § 20, first business day of statutory period was Thursday, July 28. Pericak v Hooper, 207 A.D.2d 950, 617 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10101 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Day on which alleged parole violator waived his right to preliminary hearing, which marked commencement of 90-day period within which hearing must be held, would be excluded from calculation of 90 days. People ex rel. Gray v Campbell, 241 A.D.2d 723, 660 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7439 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Under Civ Ser. Law, § 14, life of eligible list must be computed, under Gen. Const. Law, § 20, by excluding date when list was promulgated. Broderick v New York, 47 N.Y.S.2d 714, 182 Misc. 990, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1834 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 268 A.D. 856, 50 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3846 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

Petitioner restored to his position on September 1 and, who filed an application for examination on October 31, complied with 60 day requirement of § 243, subd 5 of the Military Law, since October 31 was the 60th day within the meaning of this section. O'Connor v Eppig, 14 Misc. 2d 641, 181 N.Y.S.2d 456, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2423 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

Where injury occurred on Aug. 21, 1957, a one year limitation period expired on Aug. 21, 1958. Kaplan v New York, 17 Misc. 2d 181, 181 N.Y.S.2d 411, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2403 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A lease provided for cancellation upon the mailing of a 90-day notice of registered mail and "the time shall be when the same is mailed." A notice was sent by registered mail on January 30th and fixed the cancellation date as of April 30th. Held: the notice was sufficient, and timely within the meaning of this section, since the time was not computed from the date of receipt but from the date of the mailing. Hartford v Regal Shoe Store No. 162, Inc., 20 Misc. 2d 1055, 192 N.Y.S.2d 167, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2746 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1959), aff'd, 10 A.D.2d 622, 197 N.Y.S.2d 426, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11682 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1960).

In view of the provisions of this section, effective date of nullification of a policy of automobile liability insurance did not start to run until the day subsequent to mailing of notice of cancellation by the insurer. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co., 34 Misc. 2d 486, 226 N.Y.S.2d 183, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3802 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Where a personal injury action was commenced by delivery of the summons to the Sheriff of the county of defendants' residence on October 11, 1965 and personal service of that summons by the Sheriff within 60 days thereafter, and defendants contended that the cause of action accrued on October 11, 1962, the action had been commenced within the three year statute of limitations because of the method of computing time mandated by General Construction Law § 20. Rush v Bauerle, 49 Misc. 2d 595, 268 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2152 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

The conviction of speeding in violation of the Vehicle and Traffic Law for offenses occurring March 9, 1962, July 15, 1963, and September 9, 1963, were convictions for offenses, all three of which occurred within a period of 18 months. Aretakis v Hults, 51 Misc. 2d 262, 273 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1958 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Where action governed by three year period of limitation accrued on October 17, 1964 and the summons and complaint were delivered to sheriff of Nassau County on October 17, 1967 and sheriff effected the service of the complaint within 60 days after delivery to him, service of summons and complaint were timely since date of accrual of the action must be excluded in computing the time. Brownstein v Schlanger, 55 Misc. 2d 904, 286 N.Y.S.2d 707, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1767 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1968).

A search warrant issued on November 25, 1969 which provided that it was to be executed within 10 days of the date of issuance had not expired at the time of its execution on 5 December, 1969. In re G., 64 Misc. 2d 129, 314 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1296 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1970).

Where notice was first published on September 19 and sale was held on October 3, excluding the first day and including the last, the sale took place 14 days from the first publication. Lewis v Jim's Boat Yard, Inc., 73 Misc. 2d 24, 341 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2190 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1973).

The function of the courts is to enforce statutes, not to usurp the power of the Legislature, and to interpret a statute where there is no necessity for interpretation, to conjecture, or to add to or to subtract from words having a definite meaning, constitutes judicial trespass upon the legislative domain. Accordingly, under subdivision (b) of section 739 of the Family Court Act, which sets forth two detention periods for a person alleged to be a juvenile delinquent or a person in need of supervision, an initial remand of "three days" prior to a determination of probable cause, and a subsequent remand of "not more than an additional three days exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays", it was the legislative intent to include the afore-mentioned days in the computation of the initial remand period; to imply the exclusionary view with respect to the "first" remand is to engraft both language and result, neither expressed nor intended by the Legislature, and, moreover, section 20 of the General Construction Law provides for the inclusion of Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays in reckoning periods of days for the purpose of computing a time period. In re D., 102 Misc. 2d 363, 423 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1979).

The 30-day period after which claims not paid by an insurer are considered overdue normally commences when a claimant submits the relevant forms, but when the insurer requests additional medical information, the period begins when the claimant has satisfied such requests and the insurer receives verification of all the relevant information in accordance with Ins Law § 675(1), so that the 30 days start the next day after the reckoning has been made; if payment is not made within the 30-day period, interest begins to accrue at a rate of two percent per month, compounded and calculated on a pro rata basis using a 30-day month. Hempstead Gen. Hosp. v Allstate Ins. Co., 120 Misc. 2d 303, 466 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3707 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), rev'd, 106 A.D.2d 429, 482 N.Y.S.2d 523, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21471 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Administrative review proceeding commenced on July 15, 1985, seeking review of zoning board of appeals determination filed on June 13, 1985, is timely under CLS General City Law § 82 since, under CLS General Construction Law § 20, first of 30 days within which proceeding may be commenced is June 14, and last day is July 13, 1985; since latter is Saturday, limitations period is extended by CLS General Construction Law § 25-a to next business day, Monday, July 15, 1985. Hoxsie v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 129 Misc. 2d 493, 493 N.Y.S.2d 535, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3074 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Day of arraignment should not be counted in determining whether prosecution's notice was timely under CLS CPL § 710.30(2), since arraignment is specified event, and, pursuant to CLS Gen Const § 20, day of "specified event" is explicitly excluded in computing applicable time period. People v Morales, 159 Misc. 2d 745, 610 N.Y.S.2d 720, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 115 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1994).

Employment search firm established its entitlement to commission conditioned on employment of placed employee for 30-day guarantee period, where employee started work on October 27, he worked his last day on November 25, November 26 was Thanksgiving, and he was not expected to return to work until Monday, November 30; only permissible inference was that employer allowed employee to take Friday after Thanksgiving as vacation day such that employee's abandonment was neither apparent nor unequivocal before November 30, and thus total period of his employment was 33 days. Marshall-Alan Assocs. v Warwick Hotel, 187 Misc. 2d 503, 723 N.Y.S.2d 815, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 598 (N.Y. App. Term 2000).

In an action to recover on a fire insurance policy the action was brought "within twelve months after the fire" within the meaning of the policy of insurance, where the fire occurred on premises on Oct. 1, 1935 and the action was commenced Oct. 1, 1936. Biloz v Tioga County Patrons' Fire Relief Ass'n, 21 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1993 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 976, 23 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Where a labor union rule required that a member in order to be eligible for office must have one year or more of continuous membership, on November 6, 1954, he was not qualified after having been a member from November 7, 1953. Clarke v Corr, 145 N.Y.S.2d 125, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3292 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Where a ground lease provided that quarterly rent payments had to be made by the first of a month, pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 20, a payment on the 31st of that month was within a 30-day default period; therefore, the trial court properly determined by summary judgment that the lease was in effect. JPMorgan Chase Bank v Lowell, 309 A.D.2d 541, 765 N.Y.S.2d 315, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10345 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2003).

Prison disciplinary hearing was timely, as the day the misbehavior report was written and the inmate was confined was excluded when calculating the limitations period of of N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 7, § 251-5.1 pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 20. Vasquez v Goord, 14 A.D.3d 903, 787 N.Y.S.2d 909, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 463 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Plaintiffs' motion pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 4404 to set aside a jury verdict in favor of defendants, made on December 9, 2004, was within 30 days from November 10, 2004, and was timely. A postmark dated December 11, 2004, on the envelope in which the motion was received did not establish that service was not completed on December 9, 2004. Kresch v Saul, 29 A.D.3d 863, 816 N.Y.S.2d 147, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6830 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Civil rights claims (pleaded under 42 USCS § 1983), to effect that court officer had conducted unlawful arrest and search on December 12, 1985, were time-barred due to fact that complaint was not filed until December 13, 1988; in calculating 3-year period during which action could be brought, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure § 6(a) had same result as CLS Gen Const § 20, which has been interpreted to mean that, "when the applicable limitations period is measured in years,...the anniversary date of the date of accrual is the last day for instituting an action." Day v Morgenthau, 909 F.2d 75, 1990 U.S. App. LEXIS 15642 (2d Cir. 1990).

4. Effect of Sundays and holidays on computation of time

Where the last of twenty days within which defendant must serve answer falls on Sunday, due service may be made on the following Monday. Gilbert v Johnson, 169 A.D. 840, 155 N.Y.S. 687, 1915 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5047 (N.Y. App. Div. 1915).

When the last day in which plaintiff may have service of summons on defendant falls upon Sunday, the time for service will be extended to the next day under this section. Triangle Radio Supply Co. v De Forest Radio Tel. & Tel. Co., 208 A.D. 614, 204 N.Y.S. 72, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5100 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

The tenth day, if Sunday, is required to be excluded, as is January first, because it is holiday, in computing the time for the ten day notice required for a sale under a conditional sales contract. Carter v Brockway Motor Co., 248 A.D. 734, 288 N.Y.S. 720, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7114 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

Where a sheriff took possession of goods under a writ of replevin on Friday, December 23, the three day period for which he was required to retain possession, expired at midnight Tuesday, December 27 since Sunday the 25th was Christmas and therefore Monday the 26th was a holiday. Fisk Discount Corp. v Brooklyn Taxicab Trans. Co., 270 A.D. 491, 60 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3725 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Where copy of order appealed from, with notice of entry, was served by mail on June 1, appellant had 33 days, by reason of fact that service was made by mail, to service notice of appeal. Since 33rd day fell on July 4, a legal holiday, plaintiff was permitted to serve notice of appeal on next business day, and service of notice of appeal on July 5 was timely and late filing of notice would be excused by court (notice mailed on last day of period and filed on following day). Messner v Messner, 42 A.D.2d 889, 347 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3585 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

Court should not have denied application to stay arbitration allegedly mailed on September 29 on ground that it was not made within 20 days of service of demand for arbitration on September 8 as required by CLS CPLR § 7503(c) since (1) excluding day of service of demand in accordance with CLS Gen Const § 20, 20 calendar days from September 8 was September 28, which fell on Sunday, and (2) when period of time within which something must be done ends on Sunday, such act may be done on following business day (CLS Gen Const § 25-a). American Casualty Co. v McCoy, 138 A.D.2d 485, 525 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2835 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Where final day of 90-day period for conducting parole revocation hearing under CLS Exec § 259-i fell on Sunday, Division of Parole had until following day to complete hearing. People ex rel. Gray v Campbell, 241 A.D.2d 723, 660 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7439 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Trial court properly denied defendant's speedy trial motion because the People were required under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law §§ 1.20(17), 30.30(1)(a) to announce their readiness for trial by July 27, 2010 and filed a statement of readiness on July 23, 2010; the prearraignment statement of readiness was valid under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 210.10(2) because arraignment was possible on July 27, 2010, the second counted day after the indictment was filed and the last day within the six-month statutory period as July 23, 2010 was excluded as the day the indictment was filed and July 24 and 25, 2010 were excluded because they were a Saturday and Sunday, July 26, 2010 was the first counted day and July 27, 2010 was the second counted day. Although the trial court's later communication regarding the arraignment provided less than two days notice, the original communication was provided more than two days prior to the actual arraignment, and additionally, defendant and counsel appeared at the arraignment, and defendant did not complain to the trial court about the change in date or lack of sufficient notice. People v Prunier, 100 A.D.3d 1269, 954 N.Y.S.2d 689, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8155 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012), app. denied, 20 N.Y.3d 1064, 962 N.Y.S.2d 615, 985 N.E.2d 925, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 412 (N.Y. 2013).

Where by consent of plaintiff's attorneys stay of execution and proceedings upon judgment of municipal court of New York city is granted for ten days and ends upon Sunday which by this section must be excluded in computing the time, stay of execution continues all of following Monday; and filing of a transcript of judgment and issuing of execution on that day will be set aside as unauthorized. Heckman v Stein, 117 N.Y.S. 1026, 64 Misc. 144, 1909 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 246 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1909).

That this section is in disjunctive, excluding a Sunday "or" a public holiday, if it is last day of any period, from reckoning of period, does not require construction of statute so as to have last day of sixty-day period limited for appeal under Tax Law, § 249-x, fall on Saturday, fifty-ninth day. Legislature in granting period of sixty days to appeal from tax order considered such an interval a reasonable one; to permit time to be decreased to fifty-nine days would be unjust and unreasonable, and such a construction is not to be adopted unless inevitable. In re Kennedy's Estate, 271 N.Y.S. 469, 151 Misc. 292, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1288 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1934).

Where Sept. 1, when grace period expired, fell on Sunday, and Sept. 2 fell on Labor Day, both of which must be excluded in reckoning expiration of grace period under §§ 20 and 25, payment made Sept. 3 was made on time. Penrose v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 296 N.Y.S. 764, 163 Misc. 241, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1328 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

Where the last day for issuance of a citation fell on Sunday, the period was extended to the next business day. In re Braddell's Estate, 299 N.Y.S. 1021, 164 Misc. 893, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1898 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1937).

Note of issue for March, 1939, term of the supreme court, Kings county, beginning on March 6, 1939, must be served at least twelve days before the commencement of term, or not later than February 21, 1939; February 22, 1939, being a legal holiday, must be excluded from reckoning under provisions of § 20. Brooklyn Bus Corp. v Edwards, 11 N.Y.S.2d 875, 171 Misc. 85, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1814 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

Where a lease expired by its terms on December thirty-first, which was Sunday, and succeeding day, January first, a Monday, was a legal holiday, as specified in § 24, tenant had all day Tuesday, January second, to move. Kod-Rose Holding Corp. v Aglietti, 20 N.Y.S.2d 625, 174 Misc. 276, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1833 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1940).

An action for riot damage sustained on August 1 and 2, 1943, required to be commenced within 60 days, was timely as to the damage of August 2 when commenced on January 3, 1944 where the 60 day period ended on January 1 which was a holiday and January 2 was Sunday. Butchers' Mut. Casualty Co. v New York, 52 N.Y.S.2d 121, 182 Misc. 809, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2675 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

Where, under the Court of Claims Act, notice of intention to file a claim against a state was required to be filed within ninety days after the accrual of the claim, the notice was timely with the claim accrued on March 1 and the notice of intention was filed on May 31, since the first day, March 1, is excluded under § 20 and the ninetieth day May 30 was Memorial Day, a holiday under § 24 and thus excluded. Nodine v State, 79 N.Y.S.2d 834, 192 Misc. 572, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2471 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1948).

In the computation of the time of the running of the statute of limitations in an action for libel, the day of publication is excluded and if the date upon which such an action was required to be instituted fell on a Sunday, process could have been served on the following business day. Stella v James J. Farley Ass'n, 122 N.Y.S.2d 322, 204 Misc. 998, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1847 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953), aff'd, 284 A.D. 873, 135 N.Y.S.2d 234, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3876 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954).

Where order suspending motorist's license was served by mail, the four months within which motorist could bring proceeding to review the order was extended three days, and since the day to which his time was extended was a legal holiday, he had until the following day to institute proceeding. Soffer v MacDuff, 130 N.Y.S.2d 217, 205 Misc. 972, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2011 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

Where the thirtieth day of a 30-day grace period under a bond and mortgage fell on Sunday, the grace period included Monday. Fourth Section Corp. v Carton Enterprises, Inc., 29 Misc. 2d 746, 215 N.Y.S.2d 163, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2887 (N.Y. County Ct. 1961).

Where the personal injuries in question were sustained in an accident on February 24, 1960, plaintiff's action for damages was not barred where summons and complaint were served February 25, 1963, excluding the date of injury and the last day of the period, which was a Sunday, in computing the time. Farber v Besi Cab Corp., 41 Misc. 2d 296, 245 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1347 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Since plaintiff's accident occurred on November 8, 1963, the one-year statute of limitations prescribed by General Municipal Law § 50-e(5) began to run on November 9, 1963, and would normally expire on November 8, 1964, but where that day fell on a Sunday, the period expired on the following day, November 9, 1964. Conway v Board of Education, 47 Misc. 2d 172, 262 N.Y.S.2d 15, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1633 (N.Y. County Ct. 1965).

Under Real Property Actions and Proceedings Law § 735, subd 2, and General Construction Law § 20, notice of petition and petition was filed timely 6 days after personal delivery to respondent where a 3-day legal holiday was included in the 6 days. Shields v Benderson Development Co., 76 Misc. 2d 322, 350 N.Y.S.2d 549, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1474 (N.Y. County Ct. 1973).

Contrary to defendant's argument, the effective date of the Hate Crimes Act of 2000, N.Y. Penal Law § 485.00 et seq., was effective on the date of the incident, having the effective date commenced at midnight on the date of defendant's criminal conduct; that the effective date fell on a Sunday was of no moment, and N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a did not support defendant's position that the effective date had to have been on a business day rather than a Sunday. The legislature had the power to cause statutes to take effect on holidays or Sundays. People v Assi, 63 A.D.3d 19, 877 N.Y.S.2d 231, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2263 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009), aff'd, 14 N.Y.3d 335, 902 N.Y.S.2d 6, 928 N.E.2d 388, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 57 (N.Y. 2010).

5. —Half holidays

This section does not exclude half holiday from reckoning if it is last day of given period. Shaw v Lockport, 233 N.Y.S. 36, 133 Misc. 393, 1929 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 655 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1929).

Where the last day to serve a notice of claim against a city falls on a Saturday, in the absence of any disability of the claimant, it is improper to grant an extension of time to serve the notice since a half holiday is not excluded from the reckoning if it is the last day of the given period. Meier v New York, 106 N.Y.S.2d 278, 199 Misc. 305, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2047 (N.Y. App. Term 1951).

Under above statute fact that period of time computed from certain day within which act is required to be done, ends on half holiday does not permit such act to be done on next succeeding business day. Bedford Lake Park Corp. v Board of Assessors, 45 Misc. 2d 485, 257 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2337 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

6. —Time periods measured other than by days

In determining the period of one year the last day of the year may not be excluded because it falls on Sunday. Calagna v

Sheppard-Pollak, Inc., 264 A.D. 589, 35 N.Y.S.2d 934, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4211 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 289 N.Y. 753, 46 N.E.2d 355, 289 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 753, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1318 (N.Y. 1942).

Sunday, if it be the last day of a period, is not excluded where the period is measured by weeks, months or years. Russell v Kniffin, 194 N.Y.S. 792, 118 Misc. 808, 1922 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1298 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1922).

This section which calls for the exclusion of Sunday is applicable only when Sunday is the last day of a specified period of days not where it is the last day of a specified period of weeks, months or years. Foster v Thurber, 76 N.Y.S.2d 616, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3620 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

Where, under the Workmen's Compensation Law, a plaintiff was required to bring an action against third parties within six months after the awarding of compensation and the last day of the six month period fell on a Sunday, the action was barred where the plaintiff's attorney did not deliver the summons until the following day. Foster v Thurber, 76 N.Y.S.2d 616, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3620 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

7. —Sundays and holidays as intervening days

Cancelation of an insurance policy was effective although the date of cancelation fell on a holiday where the policy provided that it could be canceled on five days notice and the five day period expired the day previous to the holiday. Lesk v London & Lancashire Indem. Co., 286 N.Y. 443, 36 N.E.2d 655, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 443, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1460 (N.Y. 1941).

An option contained in a contract, which was delivered on December twenty-fourth, will be deemed a thirty-day option, in view of provisions of this section in the absence of agreement to the contrary, notwithstanding intervention of a holiday within thirty-day period. Frankfurter v Silverman, 208 N.Y.S. 405, 124 Misc. 751, 1925 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 662 (N.Y. City Ct. 1925).

An oral agreement made on a Saturday for personal services to be rendered for a period of one year (without fixing a calendar date as the terminating day) to commence on the following Monday is void under the Statute of Frauds (Pers. Prop. Law, § 31, subd. 1). The fact that the intervening day was a Sunday is irrelevant (Gen. Const., §§ 19, 20). Silverstein v Lehrfeld, 43 N.Y.S.2d 694, 181 Misc. 291, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2305 (N.Y. City Ct. 1943).

Objection and specifications to designating petitions filed on July 13, 1989 were timely filed pursuant to CLS Elec § 6-154(2), which requires filing of objection within 3 days and specifications within 6 days, where objection was filed on Monday, July 17, 1989, and specifications were filed on Monday, July 24, 1989; in computing time for filing of objection, day from which time is reckoned and Sunday are excluded from reckoning pursuant to CLS Gen Const § 20. McHoul v Sellick, 153 A.D.2d 721, 544 N.Y.S.2d 687, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11036 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 609, 545 N.Y.S.2d 692, 544 N.E.2d 611, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2731 (N.Y. 1989).

8. Fractions of days

Fractions of days are not considered in computing time periods unless the hour itself is material to resolution of competing claims. Bacalokonstantis v Nichols, 141 A.D.2d 482, 529 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6305 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In a prosecution for third degree burglary and third degree criminal mischief in which the alleged crimes had taken place five hours into the sixteenth anniversary date of defendant's birth but one-half hour before 16 years had elapsed from the exact moment of defendant's birth, defendant would be held to be an adult for purposes of prosecution within the adult criminal justice system, since age computation is controlled by the birth date itself rather than by fractions thereof, and fractions of a day will be disregarded except in cases in which the hour itself is material, such as cases in which priority of lien rights is in question, and since nothing in the General Construction Law indicates any legislative intent to alter such rule for purposes of computing the ages of human beings. People v Alouisa, 120 Misc. 2d 968, 466 N.Y.S.2d 1007, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3834 (N.Y. County Ct. 1983).

9. Miscellaneous

The provision of this section, which in computing time, excludes the first and includes the last day, has no application to a provision which is clear and explicit and can only be invoked where the act is to be done within a certain number of days or a specified period of time. When the statute says after the expiration of a time named, that time must fully expire. Marvin v Marvin, 75 N.Y. 240, 75 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 240, 1878 N.Y. LEXIS 853 (N.Y. 1878).

In calculating time in which misdemeanor complaint must be converted to information under CLS CPL § 170.70, day one of custody is counted, unless it precedes day of arraignment or is a Sunday, even though it does not run entire time from midnight to midnight, and thus suspect taken into custody and arraigned on Tuesday had been in custody "more than five days" by following Monday; CLS Gen Const § 20 does not apply to exclude initial day from calculation since CLS CPL § 170.70 does not involve measurement "from a certain day" or "a specified event." People ex rel. Neufeld v McMickens, 70 N.Y.2d 763, 520 N.Y.S.2d 744, 514 N.E.2d 1368, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18877 (N.Y. 1987).

First day of statutory period should be excluded in calculating delay for determining whether dismissal is required under CLS CPL § 30.30; since § 30.30 specifies event which begins running of statutory period, computation is governed by CLS Gen Const § 20 providing for exclusion of first day. People v Stiles, 70 N.Y.2d 765, 520 N.Y.S.2d 745, 514 N.E.2d 1368, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18887 (N.Y. 1987).

Section 20 is applicable to a period of one year, when specified by dates, as well as to the identical period, when designated as "one year." Goon v Fu Manchu's Restaurant, Inc., 253 A.D. 531, 2 N.Y.S.2d 879, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8488 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938).

This section is applicable to time limitations in insurance policies. Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Kevie, 17 A.D.2d 109, 232 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7915 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962), aff'd, 13 N.Y.2d 971, 244 N.Y.S.2d 777, 194 N.E.2d 686, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 935 (N.Y. 1963).

In calculating 5 day period within which misdemeanor must be converted to information or defendant released under CPL 170.70, in accordance with General Construction Law § 20, day of arraignment is not to be included in calculation. People ex rel. Neufeld v McMickens, 117 A.D.2d 243, 503 N.Y.S.2d 397, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52479 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), rev'd, 70 N.Y.2d 763, 520 N.Y.S.2d 744, 514 N.E.2d 1368, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18877 (N.Y. 1987).

Plaintiffs were entitled to summary judgment declaring that defendants violated administrative consent order where, under CLS Gen Const § 20, first day was excluded from 5-day period in CLS ECL § 70-0109(3)(b) for plaintiffs to respond to defendants' demand for order to allow mining on subject property, and thus defendants did not obtain permit by default. State v Hampton Sand Corp., 281 A.D.2d 536, 721 N.Y.S.2d 808, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3492 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Three-year statute of limitations was applicable to an N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 102(2) action to recover for salary allegedly improperly paid to a third party; accordingly, the action to recover sums allegedly illegally paid was limited to the money paid on or after June 2, 2006. Eldridge v Carmel Cent. School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 82 A.D.3d 1147, 920 N.Y.S.2d 155, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2552 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

The common law rule that a minor becomes of age on the day preceding the twenty-first anniversary of his birth has not been altered by Gen. Constr. Law. In re Bardol's Will, 300 N.Y.S. 60, 164 Misc. 907, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1909 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1937), modified, 254 A.D. 647, 4 N.Y.S.2d 795, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8480 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938).

This section is applicable in determining the time for service of notice of claim upon a municipality under § 50-e of the General Municipal Law, and the date on which the injury occurred is accordingly to be excluded in computing the statutory time limit. Aposporos v Poughkeepsie, 37 Misc. 2d 56, 232 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2488 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Provision of above statute for exclusion of calendar day from which reckoning is made, applied to provision of Real Property Tax Law § 702, subd 2, as to time for commencing proceeding to review assessment of real property. Bedford Lake Park Corp. v Board of Assessors, 45 Misc. 2d 485, 257 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2337 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Term "midnight," as used in automobile insurance policy, meant end of named day and not 12:01 a.m. on named day, and policy which was to become effective on midnight of December 31 therefore was not in effect at 11:15 p. m. on that day. Leatherby Ins. Co. v Villafana, 82 Misc. 2d 144, 368 N.Y.S.2d 102, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2584 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

In a medical malpractice action, where the patient failed to file a note of issue within the required time and did not move to extend this time until the day the note was due, which motion was denied, it was error for the trial court to dismiss the action where the patient explained that the delay was caused by problems at her attorney's office, attributable to the events of September 11, 2001, these problems were neither willful nor deliberate, and it appeared the patient had a meritorious cause of action. Storchevoy v Blinderman, 303 A.D.2d 672, 757 N.Y.S.2d 82, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3211 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Action was timely commenced because the accident victim established, through her counsel's testimony, the testimony of delivery couriers, and a court clerk, that her summons and complaint, in spite of the late date stamp appearing on the papers, were physically delivered to the county clerk's office prior to the expiration of the statute of limitations. Peace v Zhang, 15 A.D.3d 956, 789 N.Y.S.2d 362, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1092 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2005).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. Computation of time period
2. Fractions of days

1. Computation of time period

Where publication of a notice of hearing on the adoption of an amendment to a town zoning ordinance occurred on June 26, and the hearing was held on July 6, there was compliance with the statutory ten day notice requirement. 1974 Op St Compt No. 74–707.

Date of computation for 30-day time period during which notice of claim must be sent by eligible injured person to No-Fault insurer in order to be receiving benefits begins on day after accident. N.Y. Ins. Dep't, Gen. Counsel Op. No. 03-05-07, 2003 154.

CLS Gen Const § 20 does not apply to CLS Ins § 3425(b) for notice of cancellation. Insurance N.Y. Ins. Dep't, Gen. Counsel Op. No. 06-07-11, 2006 135.

CLS Gen Const § 20 applies to time periods established by CLS Ins § 3425(d) for conditional renewals, nonrenewals, and substitutions of policy forms. N.Y. Ins. Dep't, Gen. Counsel Op. No. 06-07-11, 2006 135.

2. Fractions of days

Unless the hour itself is material, fractions of days are not considered in computing the number of days specified as a period from a certain day within which or after or before which an act is authorized or required to be done. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 19 (Informal), 1964 N.Y. AG LEXIS 130.

Attendance at weekly military reserve meetings constitutes "ordered military service" and the leave prescribed in Military Law, § 242 applies. Any absence for ordered military leave counts as a day's absence whether such absence is for a full work day or not. 1970 Op St Compt No. 70–86.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Federal Aspects:

Day, 19 USCS § 1401.

Treatises

Matthew Bender's New York Civil Practice: 1 Cox, Arenson, Medina, New York Civil Practice: SCPA ¶307.31.

Matthew Bender's New York AnswerGuides: LexisNexis AnswerGuide New York Negligence § 2.17 Preparing Answer.

LexisNexis AnswerGuide New York Negligence § 3.27 Commencing Action.

LexisNexis AnswerGuide New York Negligence § 6.16 Understanding Requirements of Notice of Claim.

LexisNexis AnswerGuide New York Negligence § 6.26 Commencing Action.

LexisNexis AnswerGuide New York Negligence § 7.28 Responding to Complaint.

§ 24. Public holidays; half-holidays.

The term public holiday includes the following days in each year: the first day of January, known as New Year's day; the third Monday of January, known as Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. day; the twelfth day of February, known as Lincoln's birthday; the third Monday in February, known as Washington's birthday; the last Monday in May, known as Memorial day; the second Sunday in June, known as Flag day; the nineteenth day of June, known as Juneteenth; the fourth day of July, known as Independence day; the first Monday in September, known as Labor day; the second Monday in October, known as Columbus day; the eleventh day of November, known as Veterans' day; the fourth Thursday in November, known as Thanksgiving day; and the twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas day, and if any of such days except Flag day is Sunday, the next day thereafter; each general election day, and each day appointed by the president of the United States or by the governor of this state as a day of general thanksgiving, general fasting and prayer, or other general religious observances. The term half-holiday includes the period from noon to midnight of each Saturday which is not a public holiday.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1909, ch 27; amd, L 1909, ch 112; L 1934, ch 180; L 1939, ch 920; L 1940, ch 368; L 1942, ch 150; L 1946, ch 111; L 1947, ch 22; L 1955, ch 63; L 1964, ch 855; L 1969, ch 959; L 1974, ch 6; L 1975, ch 435; L 1975, ch 767; L 1976, ch 121, eff May 13, 1976; L 1980, ch 29, § 1, eff Mar 24, 1980; L 1984, ch 347, § 1, eff Jan 1, 1985; L 2020, ch 249, § 1, effective October 14, 2020.

Amendment Notes The 2020 amendment by ch 248, § 1, added "the nineteenth day of June, known as Juneteenth" in the first sentence.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Saturdays
3. Transaction of business on holidays
4. Effect of Sundays and holidays on computation of time periods
5. Miscellaneous

1. In general

Section 24 does not vest in a mayor of a city power to declare a public holiday postponing the operation of a statute of limitations. Hall v Leonard, 260 A.D. 591, 23 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4664 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940), aff'd, 285 N.Y. 719, 34 N.E.2d 893, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 719, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1711 (N.Y. 1941).

The definition of "holiday" in this section as including each day appointed by the President of the United States or the Governor of the State as a day of general thanksgiving, fasting, and prayer,

"or other general religious observances, does not include days of religious observance unless proclaimed by the Governor. Bloom v New York City Transit Authority, 19 A.D.2d 521, 240 N.Y.S.2d 124, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1963).

A day of religious observance is not to be deemed a public holiday unless so proclaimed by the President or the Governor. Bloom v New York City Transit Authority, 19 A.D.2d 521, 240 N.Y.S.2d 124, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1963).

National days of mourning declared for former Presidents Johnson and Truman were not "public holidays" within the contemplation of General Construction Law § 24 so as to entitle members of police department to extra pay under their labor agreement with county. Schmidt v Christ, 75 Misc. 2d 947, 348 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1345 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 42 A.D.2d 963, 347 N.Y.S.2d 950, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3493 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

2. Saturdays

This section and § 25 apply only where last day falls on a holiday and do not apply where it falls on half holiday. Andes Co-operative Dairy Co. v Commercial Casualty Ins. Co., 207 A.D. 102, 201 N.Y.S. 664, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5908 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923), aff'd, 237 N.Y. 622, 143 N.E. 767, 237 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 622, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 925 (N.Y. 1924).

Where broker procured lender able and willing to make a loan, and it was agreed to close loan on Saturday, no hour being named, and broker calling at defendant's office shortly after noon hour found that he had gone for day and subsequently refused to take loan, broker is entitled to his commissions, since he had whole of Saturday in which to close transaction. Van Orden v Simpson, 153 N.Y.S. 134, 90 Misc. 322, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 929 (N.Y. App. Term 1915).

Fact that summons was returnable on Saturday afternoon did not invalidate service thereof or deprive court of jurisdiction. Cole v Phelps, 248 N.Y.S. 655, 139 Misc. 431, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1159 (N.Y. County Ct. 1931).

Where the last day to serve a notice of claim against a city falls on a Saturday, in the absence of any disability of the claimant, it is improper to grant an extension of time to serve the notice since a half holiday is not excluded from the reckoning if it is the last day of the given period. Meier v New York, 106 N.Y.S.2d 278, 199 Misc. 305, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2047 (N.Y. App. Term 1951).

3. Transaction of business on holidays

Memorial Day is a legal holiday but any business may be transacted during it except such acts as are expressly excepted by the statute. Morel v Stearns, 75 N.Y.S. 1082, 37 Misc. 486, 1902 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 151 (N.Y. App. Term 1902).

The provision of this section declaring Saturday afternoon to be public holiday does not prohibit an officer from voluntarily performing an official act on such day, or render such act void or voidable, unless the act is such as to create an unlawful preference under the recording act, or is prohibited by some other statute. Cohn v Townsend, 94 N.Y.S. 817, 48 Misc. 47, 1905 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 364 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1905).

4. Effect of Sundays and holidays on computation of time periods

Intervening Sunday will be excluded in computation of time under uniform bill of lading which provides that freight not moved within forty-eight hours, exclusive of legal holidays, after due notice of its arrival, may be kept by carrier as therein provided subject to its "responsibility as warehouseman only." Cereal Products Co. v Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 198 A.D. 580, 190 N.Y.S. 698, 1921 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8144 (N.Y. App. Div. 1921).

Petitioner's proceeding pursuant to CLS Elec § 16-102 was timely where petitioner's 10-day period in which to commence proceeding ended on February 13, 1989, which was legal holiday, and proceeding was properly commenced on day thereafter. Lucariello v Commissioners of Chautauqua County Bd. of Elections, 148 A.D.2d 1012, 539 N.Y.S.2d 602, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2610 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 707, 540 N.Y.S.2d 238, 537 N.E.2d 623, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 306 (N.Y. 1989).

Certificate of substitution was timely filed within 10 days, as extended one day by reason of a public holiday, after the last day to file a declination with regard to a nomination made at the primary election. Matter of Kaufman v Poulos, 165 A.D.3d 1015, 85 N.Y.S.3d 150, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7034 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

Where a lease expired by its terms on December 31, which was a Sunday, and the succeeding day January 1 was a legal holiday as specified in this section the tenant had all day Tuesday January 2 to move. Kod-Rose Holding Corp. v Aglietti, 20 N.Y.S.2d 625, 174 Misc. 276, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1833 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1940).

Where, under the court of claims act, notice of intention to file a claim against a state was required to be filed within ninety days after the accrual of the claim, the notice was timely with the claim accrued on March 1 and the notice of intention was filed on May 31, since the first day, March 1, is excluded under § 20 and the ninetieth day May 30 was Memorial Day, a holiday under § 24 and thus excluded. Nodine v State, 79 N.Y.S.2d 834, 192 Misc. 572, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2471 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1948).

5. Miscellaneous

Motion for leave to appeal would be dismissed as untimely since CLS Gen Const § 25-a did not effect extension when time provided in CLS CPLR § 5513 expired on February 22 (date formerly celebrated as Washington's Birthday). Lee v Biderman, 77 N.Y.2d 936, 569 N.Y.S.2d 606, 572 N.E.2d 47, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 461 (N.Y. 1991).

In a personal injury action against a city transit authority, the trial court improperly granted plaintiff's motion to strike the authority's affirmative defense of failure to file a timely notice of claim, even though the period to file a notice of claim expired on February 14, Lincoln's birthday, and the claim was filed the next day, and even though Gen Const Law § 75-a authorizes the doing of an act on a day following a public holiday, where according to Gen Const Law § 24 February 12, not February 14, was Lincoln's birthday and the mere fact that Lincoln's birthday may have been celebrated for certain purposes by the city and state courts and agencies on February 14 did not make that day a public holiday. O'Leary v New York City Transit Authority, 97 A.D.2d 789, 468 N.Y.S.2d 531, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20544 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), aff'd, 64 N.Y.2d 813, 486 N.Y.S.2d 937, 476 N.E.2d 336, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14239 (N.Y. 1985).

Although the city of Utica has a right to select the holiday on which parking meters were to be in operation, the failure of the city to specify on the parking meters the holidays that were to be excepted made the city ordinance unenforceable, and therefore the term "holiday" as appearing on said parking meters would be interpreted to mean all of the holidays defined in § 24 of the General Construction Law including Washington's Birthday so that the defendant would not be required to insert a coin in the parking meter on said date, despite the fact that the city traffic ordinance did not include Washington's Birthday within the term "holiday". People v Abelove, 54 Misc. 2d 306, 282 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1327 (N.Y. City Ct. 1967).

Action was timely commenced because the accident victim established, through her counsel's testimony, the testimony of delivery couriers, and a court clerk, that her summons and complaint, in spite of the late date stamp appearing on the papers, were physically delivered to the county clerk's office prior to the expiration of the statute of limitations. Peace v Zhang, 15 A.D.3d 956, 789 N.Y.S.2d 362, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1092 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2005).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Saturdays
3. Alternate days for observance of holidays
4. Transaction of business on holidays
5. Miscellaneous

1. In general

A town is not legally obligated to close its offices on the holidays designated in General Construction Law, § 24. The closing of town offices in observance of public holidays is in the discretion of the town board. 1985 Op St Compt No. 85-33, 1985 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 110.

2. Saturdays

A County Clerk's office must be kept open for the transaction of business every day except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. General Construction Law § 24 makes no provision for an alternate day when a holiday falls on Saturday. In the absence of statutory provision, where a holiday falls on Saturday no other day may be observed in lieu thereof, except by express statutory provision. Therefore, it is my view that the County Clerk's office may not be closed on July 3rd or 6th. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen June 3 (Informal), 1959 N.Y. AG LEXIS 161.

Town offices must remain open until noon on Saturdays. 1952 Op St Compt No. 52–5849.

The office of town receiver of taxes and assessments must remain open until noon of each Saturday which is not a holiday. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6394.

3. Alternate days for observance of holidays

In 1974, Columbus Day is celebrated on October 14, and Veteran's Day is celebrated on November 11. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 19 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 130.

Veterans' Day is to be observed in New York State on the traditional date of November 11th in each year pursuant to New York General Construction Law, Section 24 and not on the Fourth Monday in October pursuant to the Federal definition of Veterans' Day contained in Public Law 90-363 (5 U.S.C. Section 6103). November 11 would also be the date for observance of Veterans' Day by all banks in this State as a bank holiday. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 9 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 143.

There is no authority for the County of Westchester to enact a local law declaring any day other than the third Sunday in January a public holiday in celebration of Martin Luther King's birthday. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 9 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 168.

In New York State, the 30th day of May is officially designated as Memorial Day, and county offices must close on that date. County offices must be open for business as usual on the fourth Monday in May. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–77.

Except as authorized by section 206(3), a county may not adopt a local law closing county offices on Fridays preceding a Saturday public holiday since such a local law would be inconsistent with general State statutes. 1983 Op St Compt No. 83-193, 1983 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 291.

4. Transaction of business on holidays

If the provisions of the Election Law with respect to the character of the polling place and the conduct of the election could be met, the Town of Penfield may leave its Town Hall open for official business on Election Day. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 23 (Informal), 1973 N.Y. AG LEXIS 121.

Non-charter county must keep its offices open on day after Thanksgiving and may not adopt local law authorizing closing of county offices on such day; although determination of particular personnel to be present on that day is, in first instance, to be made at local level, subject to terms and conditions of any collective bargaining agreement, sufficient staff must be available to reasonably permit transaction of ordinary business at county offices. 1993 Op St Compt No. 93-10, 1993 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 4.

5. Miscellaneous

County clerk's office should be closed Armistice Day. 1921 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 377.

There is no authority for county to close county offices on day after Thanksgiving since that day is not holiday, Saturday or Sunday. 1993 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 93-4, 1993 N.Y. AG LEXIS 4.

CLS Pub O § 62 relieves county employees from duty of performing official services on holidays. 1993 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 93-56, 1993 N.Y. AG LEXIS 54.

When summons is issued returnable on Sunday, in an action pursuant to section 113 of Agriculture and Markets Law, no claim may be made for fee for services of justice in issuing summons and fee and mileage for services of constable in serving summons. 1945 Op St Compt No. 54–344.

Open Meetings Law is silent with regard to legality of meeting of board of education held on holiday or when school is closed; thus, it appears that public body may in its discretion conduct meetings on public holidays or weekends, so long as it complies with applicable provisions of law, such as Open Meetings Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2458.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in Exec Law § 7.

§ 25-a. Public holiday, Saturday or Sunday in statutes; extension of time where performance of act is due on Saturday, Sunday or public holiday

1. When any period of time, computed from a certain day, within which or after which or before which an act is authorized or required to be done, ends on a Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday, such act may be done on the next succeeding business day and if the period ends at a specified hour, such act may be done at or before the same hour of such next succeeding business day, except that where a period of time specified by contract ends on a Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday, the extension of such period is governed by section twenty-five of this chapter.

2. Where time is extended by virtue of the provisions of this section, such extended time shall not be included in the computation of interest, except that when the period is specified as a number of months, such extended time shall be included in the computation of interest.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1952, ch 821, § 1; amd, L 1964, ch 855, eff Sept 27, 1964; L 1965, ch 848, eff Sept 1, 1965.

Prior Law: Former § 25–a, add, L 1920, ch 917, with substance transferred from Code Civ Proc § 3343, sub 10, renumbered § 25–b, L 1952, ch 821, § 5, eff Sept 1, 1952.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Particular applications
3. —Limitation period for commencement of actions
4. —Tax matters
5. Miscellaneous

1. In general

Agency's determination that change of retirement option was invalid because it was not received prior to retiree's death as required by CLS Educ § 513 (and regulations promulgated thereunder) was not irrational; CLS Gen Const § 25-a (which extends time for doing act when authorized period ends on Saturday, Sunday, or public holiday) did not render receipt of change on day after retiree's death timely and effective on ground that retiree died on Sunday, since date of one's death is not ascertainable in advance, thereby precluding its use as point of reference which would permit advance determination of period of time within, after, or before which act must be done. Whitehill v New York State Teachers' Retirement System, 142 A.D.2d 902, 531 N.Y.S.2d 403, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8047 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988), aff'd, 73 N.Y.2d 944, 540 N.Y.S.2d 236, 537 N.E.2d 621, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 291 (N.Y. 1989).

Trial court erred in denying a driver's motion to dismiss a passenger's personal injury action and in granting the passenger's cross-motion to extend the time to serve the complaint because the passenger failed to serve her complaint upon the driver after the driver served her with a notice of appearance and demand for a complaint, the passenger failed to demonstrate either a reasonable excuse for the delay in serving the complaint or that her causes of action were meritorious, and the uncertified police accident report constituted inadmissible hearsay and did not contain any admission by the driver against her interest bearing on how the accident occurred. Ganchrow v Kremer, 157 A.D.3d 771, 69 N.Y.S.3d 352, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 285 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018), overruled in part, Yassin v Blackman, 188 A.D.3d 62, 131 N.Y.S.3d 53, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5171 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

Where the last day for doing an act falls upon a Sunday and the next day is a public holiday, both days are to be excluded in computing the time limitation. In re Jefferson, 34 Misc. 2d 48, 226 N.Y.S.2d 523, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3696 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

This section did not apply to a proceeding under New York City Charter § 166 which provided that a proceeding to review a final determination of the tax commission must be commenced before a stated date. R. R. Heywood Co. v Boyland, 140 N.Y.S.2d 769, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2426 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

2. Particular applications

Motion for leave to appeal would be dismissed as untimely since CLS Gen Const § 25-a did not effect extension when time provided in CLS CPLR § 5513 expired on February 22 (date formerly celebrated as Washington's Birthday). Lee v Biderman, 77 N.Y.2d 936, 569 N.Y.S.2d 606, 572 N.E.2d 47, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 461 (N.Y. 1991).

Where copy of order appealed from, with notice of entry, was served by mail on June 1, appellant had 33 days, by reason of fact that service was made by mail, to service notice of appeal. Since 33rd day fell on July 4, a legal holiday, plaintiff was permitted to serve notice of appeal on next business day, and service of notice of appeal on July 5 was timely and late filing of notice would be excused by court (notice mailed on last day of period and filed on following day). Messner v Messner, 42 A.D.2d 889, 347 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3585 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

Where last day for timely filing of Article 78 petition was Sunday and next day was national holiday, filing deadline was extended to Tuesday. Scuderi v Board of Education, 49 A.D.2d 942, 374 N.Y.S.2d 130, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11228 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975), app. dismissed, 38 N.Y.2d 848, 382 N.Y.S.2d 55, 345 N.E.2d 598, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2290 (N.Y. 1976).

Pursuant to Gen Const Law § 25-a(1), when any period of time within which an act is required to be done ends on a Saturday, Sunday, or a public holiday, the act may be done on the next succeeding business day; accordingly, when the 40-day period provided by the county charter within which a county Legislature was required to fill a vacancy expired on a Saturday, the Legislature's appointment on the following Monday of a successor to fill the vacancy was timely, and, though such appointment was made after business hours, it remained timely since there was no further statutory time limitation on the Legislature's action. Morris v Cahill, 96 A.D.2d 88, 469 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19878 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

In a personal injury action against a city transit authority, the trial court improperly granted plaintiff's motion to strike the authority's affirmative defense of failure to file a timely notice of claim, even though the period to file a notice of claim expired on February 14, Lincoln's birthday, and the claim was filed the next day, and even though Gen Const Law § 75-a authorizes the doing of an act on a day following a public holiday, where according to Gen Const Law § 24 February 12, not February 14, was Lincoln's birthday and the mere fact that Lincoln's birthday may have been celebrated for certain purposes by the city and state courts and agencies on February 14 did not make that day a public holiday. O'Leary v New York City Transit Authority, 97 A.D.2d 789, 468 N.Y.S.2d 531, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20544 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), aff'd, 64 N.Y.2d 813, 486 N.Y.S.2d 937, 476 N.E.2d 336, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14239 (N.Y. 1985).

Respondents' claim for business damage suffered as a result of condemnation proceedings for the construction of reservoirs was timely presented, where the deadline provided in the applicable administrative regulations fell on a Sunday, and so was extended by Gen Const Law § 25-a(1) to the following Monday, the date respondents mailed their claim. In re Ford, 111 A.D.2d 951, 490 N.Y.S.2d 46, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50227 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Petitioner was timely served with notice of time, place and purpose of preliminary parole revocation hearing, despite reception of notice more than 3 days after service of parole detention warrant in apparent violation of CLS Exec § 259-i, where 3-day period ended on Sunday and notice arrived on next business day. People ex rel. Frost v Meloni, 124 A.D.2d 1032, 508 N.Y.S.2d 764, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62381 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 606, 514 N.Y.S.2d 1024, 507 N.E.2d 320, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15843 (N.Y. 1987).

Commissioner of Correctional Services was entitled to oppose prisoner's Article 78 petition brought to review disciplinary proceeding although commissioner's answering papers were not served 5 days prior to petitioner's original return date where Supreme Court, on original return date, had adjourned matter to later date; moreover, service of answering papers 3 days prior to new return date met requirements of CLS CPLR § 7804 because fourth and fifth days prior to new return date were Sunday and national holiday, respectively. Jones v Coughlin, 125 A.D.2d 883, 510 N.Y.S.2d 240, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 63072 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

Court should not have denied application to stay arbitration allegedly mailed on September 29 on ground that it was not made within 20 days of service of demand for arbitration on September 8 as required by CLS CPLR § 7503(c) since (1) excluding day of service of demand in accordance with CLS Gen Const § 20, 20 calendar days from September 8 was September 28, which fell on Sunday, and (2) when period of time within which something must be done ends on Sunday, such act may be done on following business day (CLS Gen Const § 25-a). American Casualty Co. v McCoy, 138 A.D.2d 485, 525 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2835 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Since 7-day period prescribed by 7 NYCRR § 251-5.1(a) ended on public holiday, prison disciplinary hearing commenced on next succeeding business day was timely. Dziedzic v Kelly, 143 A.D.2d 537, 533 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10882 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 706, 539 N.Y.S.2d 299, 536 N.E.2d 628, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 150 (N.Y. 1989).

Petitioner's proceeding pursuant to CLS Elec § 16-102 was timely where petitioner's 10-day period in which to commence proceeding ended on February 13, 1989, which was legal holiday, and proceeding was properly commenced on day thereafter. Lucariello v Commissioners of Chautauqua County Bd. of Elections, 148 A.D.2d 1012, 539 N.Y.S.2d 602, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2610 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 707, 540 N.Y.S.2d 238, 537 N.E.2d 623, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 306 (N.Y. 1989).

CLS Gen Const § 25-a did not apply with regard to computing when additional 90-day period commenced, under CLS St Adm P Act § 202, for filing of notice of proposed regulation, even though initial 180-day period expired on Saturday, since § 25-a generally only permits doing of act on Monday when act was otherwise required to be done on weekend, and notice of continuation (for which department had additional 90 days to file) had to be filed prior to 180-day deadline. Desmond-Americana v Jorling, 153 A.D.2d 4, 550 N.Y.S.2d 94, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15888 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 709, 555 N.Y.S.2d 691, 554 N.E.2d 1279, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 739 (N.Y. 1990).

Where final day of 90-day period for conducting parole revocation hearing under CLS Exec § 259-i fell on Sunday, Division of Parole had until following day to complete hearing. People ex rel. Gray v Campbell, 241 A.D.2d 723, 660 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7439 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Certificate of substitution was timely filed within 10 days, as extended one day by reason of a public holiday, after the last day to file a declination with regard to a nomination made at the primary election. Matter of Kaufman v Poulos, 165 A.D.3d 1015, 85 N.Y.S.3d 150, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7034 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

Probationary period of six months provided for policemen by municipal civil service commission, commenced on the date of appointment and was terminable six months from that date, even though such day was Sunday. Application of Going, 3 Misc. 2d 82, 151 N.Y.S.2d 77, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2057 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

Time for defendant to appeal, which expired on Thursday, January 1, was extended to Friday, January 2 by virtue of this section, but was not extended further, by the action of the Common Council in closing city offices including city court on Friday, January 2, or by the fact that offices were closed on Saturday. Palia v Ethridge, 16 Misc. 2d 1076, 191 N.Y.S.2d 754, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4026 (N.Y. County Ct. 1959).

Where the last day for serving notice of claim upon a municipality under § 50-e of the General Municipal Law falls on a Sunday, service on the next succeeding business day would meet the requirements of the statute. Aposporos v Poughkeepsie, 37 Misc. 2d 56, 232 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2488 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

When the 90-day period within which the Parole Board must hold a final parole revocation hearing, pursuant to Exec Law § 259-i(3)(f)(i), ends on a Sunday the hearing may properly be held on the next day in accord with Gen Const Law § 25-a(1). People ex rel. Williams v Johnson, 116 Misc. 2d 649, 456 N.Y.S.2d 33, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3935 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

In a summary proceeding, where petitioner effected service of process on respondent on a Friday and did not file proof of service until the following Wednesday, there was a lack of compliance with Real P Actions & Pr Law § 735(2), which requires filing of such proof within three days of service, since the intervening Saturday and Sunday could not be excluded from the computation of such period inasmuch as Gen Const Law § 25-a extends the time for the doing of an act only when the period of time for doing that act ended on a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday. However, the court would permit the filing of the notice of petition and petition, nunc pro tunc, so as to be valid, pursuant to NYC Civil Ct Act § 411, since the specific provision of § 411 should not be rendered nugatory by the more general provision of the Real P Actions and Pr Law which required strict compliance with the service statute. Metropolitan Transp. Authority v Terminal Drago Shine Stands, Inc., 119 Misc. 2d 10, 462 N.Y.S.2d 758, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3452 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1983).

An indictment voted by a lawfully impaneled Grand Jury, the term of which, through error or inadvertence on the part of the district attorney, had not been properly extended pursuant to CPL § 190.15, would nonetheless be valid as the action of a de facto Grand Jury, since the matter in question had been unfinished at the conclusion of the Grand Jury's term, and the Grand Jury had continued to sit on the matter until the conclusion of the investigation; additionally, an earlier extension of the Grand Jury, which had been granted upon timely application under the statute, was proper where the original term had expired on a Friday that was a legal holiday, and the application had then been granted on the following Monday. People v Heller, 120 Misc. 2d 85, 465 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3667 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

People's announcement of readiness for trial on ninety-first day after filing of accusatory instrument was not timely, even though day on which People would have been required to announce their readiness fell on Sunday; CLS CPL § 30.30(1)(b), which explicitly mandates 90-day period, makes no mention of exemptions of weekends or holidays, and thus invocation of CLS Gen Const § 25-a would contradict legislative intent. People v Powell, 174 Misc. 2d 907, 667 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 597 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1997), rev'd, 179 Misc. 2d 1047, 690 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 384 (N.Y. App. Term 1999).

People timely announced their readiness on 91st day after commencement of action where 90th day fell on Sunday; provisions of CLS Gen Const § 25-a(1) applied to CLS CPL § 30.30, which does not express contrary intent. People v Powell, 179 Misc. 2d 1047, 690 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 384 (N.Y. App. Term), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 928, 693 N.Y.S.2d 511, 715 N.E.2d 514, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1754 (N.Y. 1999).

Where the parties negotiated a settlement of the claimant's workers' compensation claim pursuant to N.Y. Workers' Comp. Law § 32 and a notice of approval was filed on September 12, 2001, and where the settlement funds were mailed to the claimant on September 24, 2001, the workers' compensation board erred in imposing a penalty on the employer for late payment pursuant to N.Y. Workers' Comp. Law § 25(3)(f); because the last day of the 10-day payment period fell on Saturday, September 22, 2001, under N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1), that deadline was extended to Monday, September 24, 2001, which was when the payment was made. Johnson v Shelmar Corp., 2 A.D.3d 1010, 768 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13150 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2003).

Plaintiff was required to "move" to confirm an ex parte order of attachment by Monday November 28, 2005, where the fifth day after levy was Saturday, November 26, 2005. Voice Communications, Inc. v Bello, 813 N.Y.S.2d 295, 12 Misc. 3d 318, 235 N.Y.L.J. 74, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 573 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

Where decedent died on September 19th and two years later September 19th fell on a Sunday, decedent's estate's wrongful death claim, which was commenced the next day, was timely. Rodriguez v Saal, 43 A.D.3d 272, 841 N.Y.S.2d 232, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8879 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

Contrary to defendant's argument, the effective date of the Hate Crimes Act of 2000, N.Y. Penal Law § 485.00 et seq., was effective on the date of the incident, having the effective date commenced at midnight on the date of defendant's criminal conduct; that the effective date fell on a Sunday was of no moment, and N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a did not support defendant's position that the effective date had to have been on a business day rather than a Sunday. The legislature had the power to cause statutes to take effect on holidays or Sundays. People v Assi, 63 A.D.3d 19, 877 N.Y.S.2d 231, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2263 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009), aff'd, 14 N.Y.3d 335, 902 N.Y.S.2d 6, 928 N.E.2d 388, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 57 (N.Y. 2010).

Insured and a beneficiary under life insurance policies argued that commencement of the insurer's action contesting the policies was not a "condition" under the policies because it was not an event that must have occurred before performance by the insured and the beneficiary under the policies became due, and that the policies' incontestability clause therefore barred the action because the extension afforded by N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25 was unavailable; however, the incontestability clause was mandated by a statute, N.Y. Ins. Law § 3203(a)(3). Thus, N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a applied to the time to contest the policies and extended the end of that period such that the action was not barred by the incontestability clause. Sec. Mut. Life Ins. Co. of N.Y. v Rodriguez, 65 A.D.3d 1, 880 N.Y.S.2d 619, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3986 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009).

Plaintiff failed to file a timely notice of claim pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e on a transit authority in relation to a personal injury action, because plaintiff was unable to serve the transit authority on the 89th day, which fell on a Saturday, or the 90th day which fell on a Sunday, and instead, plaintiff served the transit authority on the next succeeding business day as allowed by N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law §§ 20, 25-a. Stewart v New York City Transit Auth., 238 N.Y.L.J. 21, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5436 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. July 12, 2007).

Student's default judgment motion against a university was properly denied because (1) the 20th day following service of the summons in the student's suit fell on a holiday, so the university's time to respond was extended, and (2) the university timely responded. Mitchell v New York Univ. ("NYU"), 129 A.D.3d 542, 12 N.Y.S.3d 30, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5039 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 26 N.Y.3d 908, 40 N.E.3d 577, 18 N.Y.S.3d 599, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 3483 (N.Y. 2015).

Lender was entitled to reargue its earlier application for summary judgment because its motion was timely filed, the lender's counsel established that the indorsement provided to the court was the reverse side of the signature page, not a separate, unadorned paper, and the borrowers were deemed ineligible by the lender for a loan modification where their accumulated arrears—including untolled interest, late charges and fees—were too high. One Westbank, FSB v Rodriguez, 57 Misc. 3d 756, 57 N.Y.S.3d 667, 2017 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2584 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017).

3. —Limitation period for commencement of actions

Plaintiff failed to serve complaint within one-year-and-30-day limitation period provided for in CLS Pub A § 1276 where accident occurred on September 2, 1988 and complaint was served on October 3, 1989; fact that accident occurred on Friday evening did not entitle plaintiff to 3-day extension of limitation period since CLS Gen Const § 25-a provides that extension is permitted only when limitation period "ends" on Saturday, Sunday or public holiday. Burgess v Long Island R. Authority, 172 A.D.2d 302, 568 N.Y.S.2d 385, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4734 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 79 N.Y.2d 777, 579 N.Y.S.2d 631, 587 N.E.2d 269, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5093 (N.Y. 1991).

Because extension of a juvenile's pre-petition detention under N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1) would be inconsistent with the legislative intent underlying N.Y. Fam. Ct. Act § 307.4(7), a family court erred in extending the juvenile's pre-petition detention to accommodate the occurrence of a weekend and the court's calendar without a showing of good cause or special circumstances. Matter of Kevin M., 85 A.D.3d 920, 925 N.Y.S.2d 194, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5161 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

In the computation of the time of the running of the statute of limitations in an action for libel, the day of publication is excluded and if the date upon which such an action was required to be instituted fell on a Sunday, process could have been served on the following business day. Stella v James J. Farley Ass'n, 122 N.Y.S.2d 322, 204 Misc. 998, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1847 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953), aff'd, 284 A.D. 873, 135 N.Y.S.2d 234, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3876 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954).

Where the personal injuries in question were sustained in an accident on February 24, 1960, plaintiff's action for damages was not barred where summons and complaint were served February 25, 1963, excluding the date of injury and the last day of the period, which was a Sunday, in computing the time. Farber v Besi Cab Corp., 41 Misc. 2d 296, 245 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1347 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Since plaintiff's accident occurred on November 8, 1963, the one-year statute of limitations prescribed by General Municipal Law § 50-e(5) began to run on November 9, 1963, and would normally expire on November 8, 1964, but where that day fell on a Sunday, the period expired on the following day, November 9, 1964. Conway v Board of Education, 47 Misc. 2d 172, 262 N.Y.S.2d 15, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1633 (N.Y. County Ct. 1965).

In a summary proceeding for the collection of rent, the filing of the affidavit of service by petitioner landlord on October 13, 1981, more than three days after the "nail and mail" service performed on October 8 and 9, 1981, would not be violative of Real P Actions & Pr Law § 735(2), where October 12, 1981 was a legal holiday thereby making the filing on the next day proper. Dedvukaj v Madonado, 115 Misc. 2d 211, 453 N.Y.S.2d 965, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3662 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1982).

Administrative review proceeding commenced on July 15, 1985, seeking review of zoning board of appeals determination filed on June 13, 1985, is timely under CLS General City Law § 82 since, under CLS General Construction Law § 20, first of 30 days within which proceeding may be commenced is June 14, and last day is July 13, 1985; since latter is Saturday, limitations period is extended by CLS General Construction Law § 25-a to next business day, Monday, July 15, 1985. Hoxsie v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 129 Misc. 2d 493, 493 N.Y.S.2d 535, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3074 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Action was timely commenced because the accident victim established, through her counsel's testimony, the testimony of delivery couriers, and a court clerk, that her summons and complaint, in spite of the late date stamp appearing on the papers, were physically delivered to the county clerk's office prior to the expiration of the statute of limitations. Peace v Zhang, 15 A.D.3d 956, 789 N.Y.S.2d 362, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1092 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2005).

Where the deadline for holding the prison disciplinary hearing fell on a holiday, that day, pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1), was excluded from determining whether the hearing was timely. Matter of James v Goord, 28 A.D.3d 885, 812 N.Y.S.2d 713, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4284 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

As a proceeding was commenced on Monday, and the Court took judicial notice of the fact that the last day for purposes of .Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1) was a Sunday, the proceeding was timely. Pursuant to General Construction Law § 25-a (1) Asch v New York City Board/Department of Educ., 927 N.Y.S.2d 836, 32 Misc. 3d 886, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3104 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011), rev'd, 104 A.D.3d 415, 960 N.Y.S.2d 106, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1314 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2013).

4. —Tax matters

Provision of subd 1 of above statute to effect that when any period of time computed from certain date, within which act is required to be done, ends on Sunday, applies to provision of New York City Charter providing that an application for correction of assessment may be filed during time that assessment books are opened for public inspection which time is defined by another provision of such charter as being from February 1 until March 15, so that application received on Monday, March 16, is valid and effective. Elbin Realty No. 2, Inc. v Boyland, 22 A.D.2d 913, 255 N.Y.S.2d 543, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2468 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964), aff'd, 16 N.Y.2d 599, 261 N.Y.S.2d 56, 209 N.E.2d 103, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1383 (N.Y. 1965).

Owners' N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law art. 7 suit challenging property assessments was timely filed because N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law § 702(2) required that a N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law art. 7 proceeding be commenced within 30 days after the final completion and filing of the assessment roll, but, for the purposes of N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law § 702(2), an assessment roll was not considered finally completed and filed until the last day for the filing of the assessment roll or until notice thereof had been given as required by law, whichever was later; N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law § 516(1) required an assessor to complete and file the final assessment roll on or before July 1, but, in the year at issue, July 1 fell on a Saturday. Because July 1 fell on a Saturday, under N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1), July 3 was the last day for the final assessment roll, regardless of the fact that the assessor did so earlier, and, thus, the owners had until that date to file their N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law art. 7 proceeding. Matter of Mandel v Board of Assessors for Town of Woodbury, 60 A.D.3d 1063, 876 N.Y.S.2d 460, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2766 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Pursuant to the intention of the Legislature in enacting this section, a taxpayer may file a tax protest on the next succeeding business day, if the final day for filing a tax protest falls on a Sunday or a legal holiday. Fay v Boyland, 18 Misc. 2d 150, 187 N.Y.S.2d 504, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3881 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

5. Miscellaneous

Where the objections to probate were due in 10 days and where the 10th day fell on a Sunday, N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1) provided that the objections were to be filed the next day. Matter of Esteves, 31 A.D.3d 1028, 819 N.Y.S.2d 181, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9446 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Objections to order of hearing examiner on modification of child support were timely filed with court where (1) time for filing objections ended on Saturday, and therefore filing could be accomplished on Monday, which was next business day, (2) petitioner attorney delivered objections to home of court clerk on Friday evening, and (3) objections were actually received by court on Monday morning when they were delivered by clerk; while court could probably rationally hold that manner of transmittal of papers was nullity, fact remained that merits of support case involved support rights of 2 young children whose weekly support was reduced by hearing examiner from $175 per week to $110 per week. Doris B. v Michael B., 141 Misc. 2d 962, 535 N.Y.S.2d 343, 538 N.Y.S.2d 410, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 723 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1988), rescinded, 538 N.Y.S.2d 410 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1989).

Notice of mechanic's lien was timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.Y. Lien Law § 10(1), where it was filed within eight months after the last item of work was performed, based on the fact that the last day to file was a Saturday, which extended the time for filing to the next business day pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 25-a(1). Fibernet Telecom Group, Inc. v E. Coast Optical Servs., 195 Misc. 2d 461, 760 N.Y.S.2d 621, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1969 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2002).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. Particular applications

2. —Tax matters
3. Miscellaneous

1. Particular applications

Petitioners whose terms as board members began on July 1, 2006, and who were removed on June 30, 2007 for failing to complete training mandated by CLS Educ § 2102-a, were entitled to reinstatement to board where June 30 fell on Saturday, and thus under CLS Gen Const § 25-a(1) they had until following business day (July 2) to complete their training, and (2) while they may not have taken statutory requirements seriously at first, once they were notified of removal proceedings, they made every effort to take required course as soon as possible and completed it within 28 days of end of first year of their terms. 2008 Op Comm Ed No. 15,732, 2008 25.

If insured's directors and officers liability policy expired at specific time on weekend, insured could purchase extended reporting period coverage endorsement at or before same time on following business day; where policy expiration ends at end of day on weekend, right to purchase such coverage will be in effect until end of work day on following business day. N.Y. Ins. Dep't Gen. Counsel Op. No. 01-12-09, 2001 249.

2. —Tax matters

Where the first day of a month is a legal holiday and holder of liquor license surrenders it on the next succeeding business day, a refund upon such surrendered license should be calculated as of the first day of such month. 1952 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 98, 1952 N.Y. AG LEXIS 9.

If a tax due date falls on a Sunday or a public holiday, payments may be made on the following business day without additional charge. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6554; 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–958.

Where the fifteenth day of April falls on a Sunday, the public hearing on the tentative budget may be held on the following Monday. 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–8026.

Where a tax due date falls on a Saturday, payment may be made without penalty on the following Monday. 1967 Op St Compt No. 67–566.

a mailed tax payment received after the expiration of a warrant but postmarked prior to the expiration must be accepted by a collecting officer; similarly, where the last day for the payment of a tax before the expiration of a warrant falls on a Saturday, Sunday or public holiday, a collecting officer must accept a tender of taxes on the next succeeding business day. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80-346, 1980 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 324.

When last day of penalty-free period for payment of real property taxes falls on Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, penalty-free period is automatically extended the next business day, and real property tax payment received in envelope postmarked on that next business day, and otherwise meeting requirements of CLS RPTL § 925, is considered timely. 1998 Op St Compt No. 98-11, 1998 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 11.

3. Miscellaneous

The date of the postmark on an envelope containing tax payments is not determinative for imposing a charge of interest since the date on which the taxes are actually received is controlling. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 2 (Informal), 1955 N.Y. AG LEXIS 146.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in § 24-a.

Treatises

Matthew Bender's New York Civil Practice:

3 Rohan, New York Civil Practice: EPTL ¶ 5-4.1.

Matthew Bender's New York AnswerGuides: LexisNexis AnswerGuide New York Negligence § 6.16 Understand Requirements of Notice of Claim.

§ 33. Notice

When a notice is required to be given to a board or body, service of such notice upon the clerk or chairman thereof shall be sufficient.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1909, ch 27, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 41. Quorum and majority

Whenever three or more public officers are given any power or authority, or three or more persons are charged with any public duty to be performed or exercised by them jointly or as a board or similar body, a majority of the whole number of such persons or officers, gathered together in the presence of each other or through the use of videoconferencing, at a meeting duly held at a time fixed by law, or by any by-law duly adopted by such board or body, or at any duly adjourned meeting of such meeting, or at any meeting duly held upon reasonable notice to all of them, shall constitute a quorum and not less than a majority of the whole number may perform and exercise such power, authority or duty. For the purpose of this provision the words "whole number" shall be construed to mean the total number which the board, commission, body or other group of persons or officers would have were there no vacancies and were none of the persons or officers disqualified from acting.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1909, ch 27, eff Feb 17, 1909; amd, L 1948, ch 320, eff Mar 21, 1948; L 2000, ch 289, § 5, eff Aug 23, 2000.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Definitions
3. Purpose
4. Actions of body distinguished
5. Absences
6. Disqualifications
7. Vacancies
8. Abstentions
9. Consequences of invalid vote
10. Applicability of other laws and by-laws
11. —Supremacy of section
12. —Permitting less than majority vote
13. —Requiring greater than majority vote
14. Actions of particular public bodies
15. —County board of supervisors
16. —City council
17. —Town board
18. —Village board and mayor
19. —Village board
20. —Zoning board
21. —Planning board
22. —Board of education
23. —Water authority
24. —Board of Health
25. —Condemnation commission

1. In general

Gen Const Law § 41 is inapplicable to a hearing before an academic grievance tribunal at a State University college in disciplinary proceedings of a student on a charge of cheating on examinations since the statute refers to functions of public officers or persons charged with a public duty, public officers being persons whose duties involve the exercise of a portion of the State's sovereign power, in that the grievance tribunal's members discharge no such function, nor are they persons charged with performing any public duty but are called upon instead to enforce the internal rules and regulations of a university and their actions as tribunal members do not affect the public at large.

Mary M. v Clark, 100 A.D.2d 41, 473 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16976 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 110 permitted variance from the quorum requirements of N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 41, since the Roosevelt Island Operating Corporation (RIOC) Act, N.Y. CLS Unconsol. Ch. 196, § 1 et seq., provided for action by a majority vote of the directors then in office, N.Y. CLS Unconsol. Ch. 196, § 3[2]; although N.Y. CLS Unconsol. Ch. 196 § 3[2] provided that the RIOC Board was to be composed of nine members, the unanimous vote by the four members who voted, out of the six members then in office, was sufficient for quorum purposes. Roosevelt Islanders for Responsible Southtown Dev. v Roosevelt Island Operating Corp., 291 A.D.2d 40, 735 N.Y.S.2d 83, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12509 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 613, 742 N.Y.S.2d 606, 769 N.E.2d 353, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 556 (N.Y. 2002), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 608, 746 N.Y.S.2d 692, 774 N.E.2d 757, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1903 (N.Y. 2002).

2. Definitions

In defining the "whole number" of a meeting of persons empowered to take certain action as the total number if there were no vacancies and no disqualifications, it is the sense of this section that as long as the lawfully required proportion of the whole number exercises the power, authority or duty which the Commission is designed to execute, a vacancy does not, per se, render the Commission powerless to perform its obligation. In re Farmingdale, 17 A.D.2d 655, 230 N.Y.S.2d 863, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8585 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1962).

A "quorum" of a board consisting of five members is constituted by the presence of three of the five. Tabak v Holmes, 11 Misc. 2d 848, 174 N.Y.S.2d 857, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3152 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

"Majority" required for board to take action is majority of total membership of board, not merely majority of those voting on action. Reiff v New York City Conciliation & Appeals Bd., 128 Misc. 2d 851, 491 N.Y.S.2d 565, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3010 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

When establishing a final state equalization rate for a municipality, the New York State Board of Real Property Services is subject to the quorum requirements of N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 41. Thus, in order for the Board to validly exercise a public duty, at least three board members must be gathered together in the presence of each other or through the use of a video conference and assent to a proposed resolution. City of White Plains v N.Y. State Bd. of Real Prop. Servs., 18 A.D.3d 549, 795 N.Y.S.2d 292, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

3. Purpose

General Construction Law § 41 was designed to abrogate the common-law rule requiring the presence of the whole body to act. Smithtown v Howell, 31 N.Y.2d 365, 339 N.Y.S.2d 949, 292 N.E.2d 10, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. 1972).

The purpose of Gen Const L § 41 is to insure that before official action is taken by a public body, there is clear and express approval by a majority of its members. Rockland Woods, Inc. v Suffern, 40 A.D.2d 385, 340 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5138 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

4. Actions of body distinguished

The words "a majority of the members" of town board, as used in Town Law, § 64, if limited to acts of members as distinguished from acts of town boards, are not otherwise defined in Town Law, and, accordingly, what constitutes a majority of the members of board is governed by Gen. Const. Law, § 41. Application of Crosby, 36 N.Y.S.2d 301, 178 Misc. 746, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 92, 37 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

5. Absences

Where two members of seven-member zoning board of appeals voted to grant application for special exception permit, two voted to deny such application, two members abstained and one was absent, board's action was not valid and was equivalent to nonaction. Walt Whitman Game Room, Inc. v Zoning Board of Appeals, 54 A.D.2d 764, 387 N.Y.S.2d 698, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14430 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), overruled in part, Tall Trees Constr. Corp. v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 97 N.Y.2d 86, 735 N.Y.S.2d 873, 761 N.E.2d 565, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3413 (N.Y. 2001).

Tax Appeals Tribunal was not a nullity and did not lack jurisdiction to hear an appeal due to a vacancy on the three-member board. CS Integrated, LLC v Tax Appeals Tribunal, 19 A.D.3d 886, 798 N.Y.S.2d 166, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7073 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

6. Disqualifications

Where a quorum of four out of five members of Village Board were present at meeting, and one member disqualified himself, a vote of less than a majority of the board was sufficient to defeat a petition for a change of zone. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp. v Village Bd. of Northport, 129 N.Y.S.2d 403, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3147 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

7. Vacancies

Where, in proceeding to condemn land for highway purposes, one of three commissioners died after all evidence had been received, surviving commissioners are not authorized to act under this section since High. Law, § 151 (now § 33), provides for filling of vacancy. Board of Sup'rs v Sawitz, 236 A.D. 268, 259 N.Y.S. 4, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5950 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

In defining the "whole number" of a meeting of persons empowered to take certain action as the total number if there were no vacancies and no disqualifications, it is the sense of this section that as long as the lawfully required proportion of the whole number exercises the power, authority or duty which the Commission is designed to execute, a vacancy does not, per se, render the Commission powerless to perform its obligation. In re Farmingdale, 17 A.D.2d 655, 230 N.Y.S.2d 863, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8585 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1962).

Candidate's nomination was invalid where (1) according to party's own rules and regulations, executive committee was to consist of 12 members, of which 8 members constituted quorum, and quorum was required to transact business, (2) at time committee met to nominate candidate, only 7 members were present, and (3) in attempt to remedy situation, chairman of committee appointed new member to fill vacancy. Hervey v Greene County Bd. of Elections, 166 A.D.2d 743, 563 N.Y.S.2d 110, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12582 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 710, 563 N.Y.S.2d 62, 564 N.E.2d 672, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3318 (N.Y. 1990).

Amendments to county sanitary code were not rendered invalid by 2 vacancies on 13-member health board when it adopted amendments where vote of members present was 10 to one. Empire State Restaurant & Tavern Ass'n v Rapoport, 240 A.D.2d 576, 658 N.Y.S.2d 687, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6614 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Where after three commissioners appointed in condemnation proceedings to appraise damages caused by taking of land for railroad purposes had viewed premises and pending hearing to take testimony one commissioner died, surviving commissioners, under former Civil Code, § 3370 (now Condemnation Law 914) and this section, have ample power to continue work of commission. Lake S. & M. S. R. Co. v Mahle, 129 N.Y.S. 288, 72 Misc. 129, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 344 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911), rev'd, 158 A.D. 889, 143 N.Y.S. 1126, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7750 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913).

Where statute provides for a five member board, there must be five appointed, and neither provision of Village Law that concurring vote of a majority of such board is sufficient to make a determination nor provision of General Construction Law that majority of board shall constitute a quorum authorize three members of a five member board to act, when only four members have been appointed. Gray v Maislen, 17 Misc. 2d 161, 130 N.Y.S.2d 466, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1913 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

8. Abstentions

Abstaining vote on proposed zoning ordinance change could not be counted as an affirmative vote for the purposes of majority approval under Gen Const L § 41 where, of four out of possible five trustees present at board meeting, two trustees voted for and one against said change. Rockland Woods, Inc. v Suffern, 40 A.D.2d 385, 340 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5138 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Where two members of seven-member zoning board of appeals voted to grant application for special exception permit, two voted to deny such application, two members abstained and one was absent, board's action was not valid and was equivalent to nonaction. Walt Whitman Game Room, Inc. v Zoning Board of Appeals, 54 A.D.2d 764, 387 N.Y.S.2d 698, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14430 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), overruled in part, Tall Trees Constr. Corp. v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 97 N.Y.2d 86, 735 N.Y.S.2d 873, 761 N.E.2d 565, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3413 (N.Y. 2001).

Where only three members of five-man zoning board were present on application for zoning variance, and one member did not participate, the hearing was invalid. Giuliano v Entress, 4 Misc. 2d 546, 158 N.Y.S.2d 961, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3589 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

Disapproval of proposed downzoning, pursuant to § 1608 of the County Government Law, by a vote of three members of a county planning board with one abstention was ineffective to veto the downzoning, where the law creating the board provided for five members and a ⅔ vote of the whole board was required to defeat the proposed zoning change, since § 41 of the General Construction Law required ⅔ of the "whole number" authorized by statute and an abstention should be counted in opposition to the board's resolution. Downing v Gaynor, 47 Misc. 2d 535, 262 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1620 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

9. Consequences of invalid vote

County planning commission disapproval of town zoning change was ineffective for lack of two-thirds majority of the entire commission where commission was to be composed of 15 members, 13 had been appointed, and 8 of 9 members present voted against such change; 10 votes would be necessary to obtain two-thirds majority. Smithtown v Howell, 31 N.Y.2d 365, 339 N.Y.S.2d 949, 292 N.E.2d 10, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. 1972).

Supreme Court correctly annulled denial of petitioner's application for area variance; pursuant to General Construction Law § 41, majority of whole number of persons comprising board is required to constitute quorum and to exercise board's power, authority or duty; review of proceeding in this case reveals requisite majority of Zoning Board did not vote with respect to petitioner's application; with two members abstaining and only two members voting, Zoning Board vote was invalid action and was ineffectual to deny petitioner's application; however, appropriate remedy was not to direct issuance of building permit, but to remit matter to Zoning Board for vote by duly constituted impartial majority in accordance with General Construction Law § 41. Matter of Hoffis v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 166 A.D.2d 850, 563 N.Y.S.2d 183, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12802 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Where town planning board's denial of landowners' application for special permit for excavation and removal of soil material from their property was denied by less than majority of board's seven members, vote was ineffectual to deny application, was equivalent to nonaction and, by virtue of town's own zoning ordinance which required action within 45 days on such application, planning board was deemed to have approved landowners' application. Squicciarini v Planning Bd. of Chester, 48 A.D.2d 687, 367 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9719 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 38 N.Y.2d 958, 384 N.Y.S.2d 152, 348 N.E.2d 609, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2597 (N.Y. 1976).

Where two members of seven-member zoning board of appeals voted to grant application for special exception permit, two voted to deny such application, two members abstained and one was absent, board's action was not valid and was equivalent to nonaction. Walt Whitman Game Room, Inc. v Zoning Board of Appeals, 54 A.D.2d 764, 387 N.Y.S.2d 698, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14430 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), overruled in part, Tall Trees Constr. Corp. v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 97 N.Y.2d 86, 735 N.Y.S.2d 873, 761 N.E.2d 565, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3413 (N.Y. 2001).

Where there was an unfilled vacancy on the State Board of Real Property Services, one member of the Board was not present at a meeting, and one participated by telephone conference call, which was a method not sanctioned by N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 41, the quorum and voting requirements of § 41 were not met for purposes of the Board's determination of the final State equalization rates for a variety of cities and towns; accordingly, those rate determinations were annulled as invalid, pursuant to a review proceeding brought under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7801 and N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law § 1218. Matter of Town of Eastchester v New York State Bd. of Real Prop. Servs., 23 A.D.3d 484, 808 N.Y.S.2d 90, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13055 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

Appointment of supervisor was unauthorized by a vote of two members of town board which was constituted by law at five members, and petition in a proceeding by one appointed to compel the respondent, who is holding over as supervisor (Pub. Off. Law, § 5), to surrender to books, records and property pertaining to the office, is properly dismissed. Application of Crosby, 36 N.Y.S.2d 301, 178 Misc. 746, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 92, 37 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Whether local school board membership was originally 16 or 10 members, an affirmative vote by five of all the permissible members was insufficient to exercise the power to hire a unit administrator. Board of Education v Alonso, 60 Misc. 2d 709, 303 N.Y.S.2d 932, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1234 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969).

10. Applicability of other laws and by-laws

The definition of "quorum" in this section does not detract from the validity of tax equalization proceedings by such members of the new State Board of Equalization set up by §§ 200 et seq., of the Real Property Tax Law, prior to appointment of the full number of members called for. Smithtown v Moore, 11 N.Y.2d 238, 228 N.Y.S.2d 657, 183 N.E.2d 66, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. 1962).

Where, in proceeding to condemn land for highway purposes, one of three commissioners died after all evidence had been received, surviving commissioners are not authorized to act under this section since High. Law, § 151 (now § 33), provides for filling of vacancy. Board of Sup'rs v Sawitz, 236 A.D. 268, 259 N.Y.S. 4, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5950 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

Where after three commissioners appointed in condemnation proceedings to appraise damages caused by taking of land for railroad purposes had viewed premises and pending hearing to take testimony one commissioner died, surviving commissioners, under former Civil Code, § 3370 (now Condemnation Law 914) and this section, have ample power to continue work of commission. Lake S. & M. S. R. Co. v Mahle, 129 N.Y.S. 288, 72 Misc. 129, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 344 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911), rev'd, 158 A.D. 889, 143 N.Y.S. 1126, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7750 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913).

Educ. Law, § 1143-c, subd. 10, indicates that legislature intended that Gen. Const. Law, § 41, should not apply to proceedings and vote of board. McArdle v Board of Higher Education, 49 N.Y.S.2d 333, 181 Misc. 766, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2866 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

11. —Supremacy of section

The words "a majority of the members" of town board, as used in Town Law, § 64, if limited to acts of members as distinguished from acts of town boards, are not otherwise defined in Town Law, and, accordingly, what constitutes a majority of the members of board is governed by Gen. Const. Law, § 41. Application of Crosby, 36 N.Y.S.2d 301, 178 Misc. 746, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 92, 37 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

12. —Permitting less than majority vote

Section 41 does not limit right of city council to act by majority of quorum in intracameral matters. Morris v Cashmore, 253 A.D. 657, 3 N.Y.S.2d 624, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8529 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 278 N.Y. 730, 17 N.E.2d 143, 278 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 730, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1547 (N.Y. 1938).

13. —Requiring greater than majority vote

County planning commission disapproval of town zoning change was ineffective for lack of two-thirds majority of the entire commission where commission was to be composed of 15 members, 13 had been appointed, and 8 of 9 members present voted against such change; 10 votes would be necessary to obtain two-thirds majority. Smithtown v Howell, 31 N.Y.2d 365, 339 N.Y.S.2d 949, 292 N.E.2d 10, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. 1972).

Although this section covers only majority votes, to hold that it does not also apply to greater than majority votes would create an anomalous situation which could not have been intended by the legislature, and where a zoning amendment was required to be approved by three-fourths vote of the city council, approval by three-fourths of the total number of members on the council was required, and approval by nine out of eleven members present was insufficient to adopt the amendment where the number or members on the council was thirteen. Savatgy v Kingston, 26 A.D.2d 978, 274 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3065 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1966), aff'd, 20 N.Y.2d 258, 282 N.Y.S.2d 513, 229 N.E.2d 203, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1273 (N.Y. 1967).

Disapproval of proposed downzoning, pursuant to § 1608 of the County Government Law, by a vote of three members of a county planning board with one abstention was ineffective to veto the downzoning, where the law creating the board provided for five members and a ⅔ vote of the whole board was required to defeat the proposed zoning change, since § 41 of the General Construction Law required ⅔ of the "whole number" authorized by statute and an abstention should be counted in opposition to the board's resolution. Downing v Gaynor, 47 Misc. 2d 535, 262 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1620 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Since a majority of all the members in office must initially approve a zoning ordinance, and indeed pass an amendment in the absence of a protest, it should not be the rule that fewer votes than a majority of all the members might conceivably enact an amendment over a property owner's protest where § 83 of the General City Law provides that a "three-fourths vote of the council" is necessary; and an amendment to a zoning ordinance before a common council composed of 13 members, which received the affirmative approval of 9 members, was defeated. Savatgy v Kingston, 51 Misc. 2d 251, 273 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1860 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 26 A.D.2d 978, 274 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3065 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1966).

14. Actions of particular public bodies

The provisions of Canon Law in respect of the requisite quorum for vestry meetings and not the quorum rule of Religious Corporation Law § 42 applied to the election of a new rector. Church of Holy Trinity v Melish, 3 N.Y.2d 476, 168 N.Y.S.2d 952, 146 N.E.2d 685, 1957 N.Y. LEXIS 709 (N.Y. 1957).

The definition of "quorum" in this section does not detract from the validity of tax equalization proceedings by such members of the new State Board of Equalization set up by §§ 200 et seq., of the Real Property Tax Law, prior to appointment of the full number of members called for. Smithtown v Moore, 11 N.Y.2d 238, 228 N.Y.S.2d 657, 183 N.E.2d 66, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1204 (N.Y. 1962).

Quorum requirement of CLS Gen Const § 41 applies to decisions of Administrative Review Board for Professional Medical Conduct (ARB); thus, decision made by 3 physician members of ARB, without its 2 lay members, was valid. Wolkoff v Chassin, 89 N.Y.2d 250, 652 N.Y.S.2d 712, 675 N.E.2d 447, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3165 (N.Y. 1996).

Under this section it is not necessary for all three of local liquor commissioners to join in determination. People ex rel. Nally v Sisson, 182 A.D. 428, 169 N.Y.S. 706, 1918 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7878 (N.Y. App. Div. 1918).

Failure of majority of Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board to affirm decision assessing employer for additional unemployment insurance benefits does not constitute violation of CLS Gen Const § 41 or 12 NYCRR 464.1(a); board's practice of assigning cases to panels is valid. In re Lincoln Storage of Buffalo, Inc., 156 A.D.2d 832, 550 N.Y.S.2d 69, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15988 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989), app. dismissed, 76 N.Y.2d 871, 560 N.Y.S.2d 984, 561 N.E.2d 884, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3048 (N.Y. 1990), aff'd, 77 N.Y.2d 823, 566 N.Y.S.2d 198, 567 N.E.2d 240, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 3 (N.Y. 1991).

Under statute requiring majority of six affirmative votes from ten commissioners for adoption of resolution by city board of elections, resolution supported by five affirmative votes was ineffective. Temporary State Charter Revision Com. v Board of Elections, 83 Misc. 2d 1029, 374 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3036 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 37 N.Y.2d 859, 378 N.Y.S.2d 43, 340 N.E.2d 475, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2239 (N.Y. 1975).

The vote on rent guidelines for rent stabilized apartments taken by the nine-member Rent Guidelines Board of the City of New York (Administrative Code of City of New York, § YY51-5.0, subd a) supported by only four of the eight members then on the board rather than by the affirmative vote of at least five board members necessary for the board to exercise any power, authority or duty by majority vote (General Construction Law, § 41), is invalid; the board is not foreclosed from setting the "maximum rate or rates of rent adjustment" after July 1 of each year (Administrative Code, § YY51-5.0, subd b) if no such rate was previously adopted assuming that the board's acts are otherwise in order. Rent Stabilization Ass'n v Rent Guidelines Board, 98 Misc. 2d 312, 413 N.Y.S.2d 950, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2884 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Order establishing legal rent for apartment issued by 3 to 2 vote of 9 member Conciliation and Appeals Board is invalid since less than majority of members of board have voted in support of order. Reiff v New York City Conciliation & Appeals Bd., 128 Misc. 2d 851, 491 N.Y.S.2d 565, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3010 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Operation of Surrogate Decision-Making Committee panels (established to expedite major medical treatment for mentally ill patients) with only 3 members present would be enjoined, in view of specific requirement of CLS Men Hyg § 80.05 that 4 panel members be selected from distinctly different categories, to afford different points of view and perspectives; legislature apparently considered presence of 4 panel members essential as substitute for judicial intervention, and thus "quorum rule" provided in CLS Gen Const § 41, permitting body charged with public duty to perform with majority (rather than all) of its members present, did not apply. Savastano v Sundram, 138 Misc. 2d 23, 523 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2771 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1987).

15. —County board of supervisors

Member's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding against a county legislature and an officer presented a nonjusticiable controversy because it was not the province of the courts to direct the legislature how to do its work, and the question of whether the county legislature violated its own internal rules was not subject to court oversight; even if there were a misinterpretation of the county legislature's own rules, it would not have contravened N.Y. County Law § 153(8), which simply granted authority to the county legislature to adopt its internal rules. There was no merit to the member's contention, in effect, that the county legislature's and the officer's interpretation of its rules contravened N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 41. Matter of Montano v County Legislature of County of Suffolk, 70 A.D.3d 203, 891 N.Y.S.2d 82, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8470 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

16. —City council

Section 41 does not limit right of city council to act by majority of quorum in intracameral matters. Morris v Cashmore, 253 A.D. 657, 3 N.Y.S.2d 624, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8529 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 278 N.Y. 730, 17 N.E.2d 143, 278 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 730, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1547 (N.Y. 1938).

Although this section covers only majority votes, to hold that it does not also apply to greater than majority votes would create an anomalous situation which could not have been intended by the legislature, and where a zoning amendment was required to be approved by three-fourths vote of the city council, approval by three-fourths of the total number of members on the council was required, and approval by nine out of eleven members present was insufficient to adopt the amendment where the number or members on the council was thirteen. Savatgy v Kingston, 26 A.D.2d 978, 274 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3065 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1966), aff'd, 20 N.Y.2d 258, 282 N.Y.S.2d 513, 229 N.E.2d 203, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1273 (N.Y. 1967).

17. —Town board

Signing so-called consent to abandon and discontinue highway by 3 of the members of town board of six was by less than legal quorum of its members. Greene v Goodwin Sand & Gravel Co., 129 N.Y.S. 709, 72 Misc. 192, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 357 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

Under this section majority of members of town board may hear and determine charges against member of board of water commissioners of said town. Bryan v Town Board of Brighton, 232 N.Y.S. 18, 133 Misc. 315, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1171 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1928).

The words "a majority of the members" of town board, as used in Town Law, § 64, if limited to acts of members as distinguished from acts of town boards, are not otherwise defined in Town Law, and, accordingly, what constitutes a majority of the members of board is governed by Gen. Const. Law, § 41. Application of Crosby, 36 N.Y.S.2d 301, 178 Misc. 746, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 92, 37 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Appointment of supervisor was unauthorized by a vote of two members of town board which was constituted by law at five members, and petition in a proceeding by one appointed to compel the respondent, who is holding over as supervisor (Pub. Off. Law, § 5), to surrender to books, records and property pertaining to the office, is properly dismissed. Application of Crosby, 36 N.Y.S.2d 301, 178 Misc. 746, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 92, 37 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

18. —Village board and mayor

A village mayor does not have the right to postpone a regular meeting of the Village board to a subsequent date. 1955 Op St Comp File #7640.

19. —Village board

Village board's denial of petitioner's application for subdivision plat approval, based on concurrence of only 2 of its 5 members, was not in accordance with CLS Gen Const § 41 and was thereby invalid since statute requires that power or authority be exercised by "not less than a majority of the whole number," notwithstanding that one board member was absent and one abstained. D.E.P. Resources, Inc. v Planning Bd. of Monroe, 131 A.D.2d 757, 516 N.Y.S.2d 954, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48203 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Where statute provides for a five member board, there must be five appointed, and neither provision of Village Law that concurring vote of a majority of such board is sufficient to make a determination nor provision of General Construction Law that majority of board shall constitute a quorum authorize three members of a five member board to act, when only four members have been appointed. Gray v Maislen, 17 Misc. 2d 161, 130 N.Y.S.2d 466, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1913 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

Where a quorum of four out of five members of Village Board were present at meeting, and one member disqualified himself, a vote of less than a majority of the board was sufficient to defeat a petition for a change of zone. Steers Sand & Gravel Corp. v Village Bd. of Northport, 129 N.Y.S.2d 403, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3147 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

20. —Zoning board

When quorum of town zoning board of appeals is present and participates in vote on variance application by actually casting votes, vote of less than majority of board is deemed denial of variance. Tall Trees Constr. Corp. v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 97 N.Y.2d 86, 735 N.Y.S.2d 873, 761 N.E.2d 565, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3413 (N.Y. 2001).

Abstaining vote on proposed zoning ordinance change could not be counted as an affirmative vote for the purposes of majority approval under Gen Const L § 41 where, of four out of possible five trustees present at board meeting, two trustees voted for and one against said change. Rockland Woods, Inc. v Suffern, 40 A.D.2d 385, 340 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5138 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Where two members of seven-member zoning board of appeals voted to grant application for special exception permit, two voted to deny such application, two members abstained and one was absent, board's action was not valid and was equivalent to nonaction. Walt Whitman Game Room, Inc. v Zoning Board of Appeals, 54 A.D.2d 764, 387 N.Y.S.2d 698, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14430 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), overruled in part, Tall Trees Constr. Corp. v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 97 N.Y.2d 86, 735 N.Y.S.2d 873, 761 N.E.2d 565, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3413 (N.Y. 2001).

Court would annul of denial of petitioner's application for area variance from setback requirement where (1) petitioner's neighbor, who was commissioner on city zoning board of appeals, opposed request for variance, (2) neighbor disqualified himself from vote and 2 other members of zoning board of appeals abstained, and (3) of 2 remaining members of zoning board of appeals, one voted for variance and one voted against variance; zoning board of appeals acted without quorum, and petitioner was entitled to have matter remitted for vote by duly constituted impartial majority in accordance with CLS Gen Const § 41. Hoffis v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 166 A.D.2d 850, 563 N.Y.S.2d 183, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12802 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Where only three members of five-man zoning board were present on application for zoning variance, and one member did not participate, the hearing was invalid. Giuliano v Entress, 4 Misc. 2d 546, 158 N.Y.S.2d 961, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3589 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

Since a majority of all the members in office must initially approve a zoning ordinance, and indeed pass an amendment in the absence of a protest, it should not be the rule that fewer votes than a majority of all the members might conceivably enact an amendment over a property owner's protest where § 83 of the General City Law provides that a "three-fourths vote of the council" is necessary; and an amendment to a zoning ordinance before a common council composed of 13 members, which received the affirmative approval of 9 members, was defeated. Savatgy v Kingston, 51 Misc. 2d 251, 273 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1860 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 26 A.D.2d 978, 274 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3065 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1966).

Where a proposed change in a zoning ordinance received only four votes out of eight possible votes, the resolution failed to pass. Iannarone v Caso, 59 Misc. 2d 212, 298 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1760 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 33 A.D.2d 658, 306 N.Y.S.2d 404, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5795 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1969).

21. —Planning board

County planning commission disapproval of town zoning change was ineffective for lack of two-thirds majority of the entire commission where commission was to be composed of 15 members, 13 had been appointed, and 8 of 9 members present voted against such change; 10 votes would be necessary to obtain two-thirds majority. Smithtown v Howell, 31 N.Y.2d 365, 339 N.Y.S.2d 949, 292 N.E.2d 10, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. 1972).

Turning down petitioners' final plat application for failure to gain supermajority approval constituted dispositive planning board action under relevant statutes. Aloya v Planning Bd., 93 N.Y.2d 334, 690 N.Y.S.2d 475, 712 N.E.2d 644, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 777 (N.Y. 1999).

Where town planning board's denial of landowners' application for special permit for excavation and removal of soil material from their property was denied by less than majority of board's seven members, vote was ineffectual to deny application, was equivalent to nonaction and, by virtue of town's own zoning ordinance which required action within 45 days on such application, planning board was deemed to have approved landowners' application. Squicciarini v Planning Bd. of Chester, 48 A.D.2d 687, 367 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9719 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 38 N.Y.2d 958, 384 N.Y.S.2d 152, 348 N.E.2d 609, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2597 (N.Y. 1976).

Court would affirm town planning board's determination which disapproved petitioners' application for final subdivision plat approval since only 4-member majority of board voted to approve plat and override county planning board's negative recommendation, instead of requisite 5-member majority under CLS Gen Mun § 239-m(5); town planning board's vote was not equivalent to "non action" or failure to take action for purposes of "deemed granted approval" language in CLS Town § 276(8). Aloya v Planning Bd., 230 A.D.2d 790, 646 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8365 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Disapproval of proposed downzoning, pursuant to § 1608 of the County Government Law, by a vote of three members of a county planning board with one abstention was ineffective to veto the downzoning, where the law creating the board provided for five members and a ⅔ vote of the whole board was required to defeat the proposed zoning change, since § 41 of the General Construction Law required ⅔ of the "whole number" authorized by statute and an abstention should be counted in opposition to the board's resolution. Downing v Gaynor, 47 Misc. 2d 535, 262 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1620 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Legislative mandate imposed on municipal bodies that they, before taking final action on zoning regulations, refer same to county planning agency, is a condition precedent to "final action" by municipalities on zoning proposal following which municipality may, if planning agency fails to act within applicable time period or approves proposal, adopt proposal by bare majority vote, or if planning agency disapproves proposal, adopt proposal by vote of majority plus one. Schaus v Town Bd. of Clifton Park, 83 Misc. 2d 726, 372 N.Y.S.2d 952, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2972 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

22. —Board of education

Acts of board of education of New York city must be by a majority of the members thereof pursuant to § 41. Talbot v Board of Education, 14 N.Y.S.2d 340, 171 Misc. 974, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2222 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

Educ. Law, § 1143-c, subd. 10, indicates that legislature intended that Gen. Const. Law, § 41, should not apply to proceedings and vote of board. McArdle v Board of Higher Education, 49 N.Y.S.2d 333, 181 Misc. 766, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2866 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

The school board cannot suspend a pupil for a period of more than five days without a hearing before a full board, and a hearing before a "Trial Commission" consisting of two of the five board members was insufficient, since the commission was less than a quorum or majority of the full board required to exercise its authority. Curry v Board of Education, 60 Misc. 2d 651, 303 N.Y.S.2d 760, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1238 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969).

Whether local school board membership was originally 16 or 10 members, an affirmative vote by five of all the permissible members was insufficient to exercise the power to hire a unit administrator. Board of Education v Alonso, 60 Misc. 2d 709, 303 N.Y.S.2d 932, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1234 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969).

23. —Water authority

Claim for cost of installing water mains will be denied where it is based solely on private conversations with two members of water district board inferring that claim would be satisfied, and it does not appear that board, acting as such, ever agreed officially to pay for mains. Amity Holding Corp. v Eden, 238 A.D. 628, 265 N.Y.S. 23, 1933 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 1933).

24. —Board of Health

Where under this section board of health at time of adoption of resolution was lawfully composed of six members, including mayor, four affirmative votes were required to legally pass resolution and its adoption by a three to one vote was ineffective. Moll v Lockport, 194 N.Y.S. 250, 118 Misc. 573, 1922 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1224 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1922).

Board of health must adopt resolution by majority vote of full board before retiring petitioner, employee, from city health department for alleged misconduct in his official duties, and placing his name on pension roll. McMeekan v Department of Health, 283 N.Y.S. 358, 157 Misc. 620, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1553 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1935), aff'd, 249 A.D. 609, 292 N.Y.S. 177, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5175 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

25. —Condemnation commission

Where, in proceeding to condemn land for highway purposes, one of three commissioners died after all evidence had been received, surviving commissioners are not authorized to act under this section since High. Law, § 151 (now § 33), provides for filling of vacancy. Board of Sup'rs v Sawitz, 236 A.D. 268, 259 N.Y.S. 4, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5950 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

Where after three commissioners appointed in condemnation proceedings to appraise damages caused by taking of land for railroad purposes had viewed premises and pending hearing to take testimony one commissioner died, surviving commissioners, under former Civil Code, § 3370 (now Condemnation Law 914) and this section, have ample power to continue work of commission. Lake S. & M. S. R. Co. v Mahle, 129 N.Y.S. 288, 72 Misc. 129, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 344 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911), rev'd, 158 A.D. 889, 143 N.Y.S. 1126, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7750 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Definitions
3. Actions of body distinguished
4. Absences
5. Vacancies
6. Abstentions
7. Consequences of invalid vote
8. Applicability of other laws and by-laws
9. —Supremacy of section
10. —Requiring greater than majority vote
11. Actions of particular public bodies
12. —County board of supervisors
13. —City council
14. —Town board
15. —Village board and mayor
16. —Village board
17. —Zoning board
18. —Planning board
19. —Board of education
20. —Police and fire commissions
21. —Water authority
22. —Board of Health

1. In general

Two members of a three-man Board constitute a quorum which may act as the full Board. Action by the Board requires a majority vote which is two votes. 1969 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 12, 1969 N.Y. AG LEXIS 4.

Majority vote of whole number of common counsel is necessary to take action, such that five to four vote of city common council composed of 10 members is insufficient to take action. 1989 NY Ops Atty Gen 89-33, 1989 N.Y. AG LEXIS 40.

General Construction Law governs provisions of Oneonta City Charter as to quorum and voting requirements; non-voting absent council members are not considered as having cast votes against provision so as to create tie vote that would permit mayor to break tie. 2001 N.Y. Op. Atty' Gen. No. 2001-6, 2001 N.Y. AG LEXIS 77.

A committee formed to operate a joint airport pursuant to General Municipal Law § 353-a, consisting of a member from each town board of the 7 participating towns, must act by majority vote of the entire committee. The participating towns may not, by local law, authorize the committee to act by majority of the quorum present at a meeting. 1990 Op St Compt 90-31, 1990 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 38.

Public body, such as town board or public library board of trustees, cannot carry out its powers or duties except by means of affirmative vote of majority of its total membership taken at meeting duly held on reasonable notice to all of members. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8330.

Open Meetings Law applies only if quorum is present; even when meeting is scheduled and reasonable notice is given to all members, but less than majority attends, gathering does not constitute "meeting" and public has no right to attend. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2489.

Agency cannot validly take action outside of meeting held in accordance with Open Meetings Law, during which quorum is present and by means of affirmative vote of majority of its total membership; thus, agency cannot adopt new administrative fee schedule by unanimous written consent. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2569.

Since local workforce investment boards (LWIBs), which are authorized by 7 USCS § 2143, consist of at least 3 persons, and those persons "are charged with [a] public duty to be performed or exercised by them jointly or as a board", LWIBs are subject to requirements of CLS Gen Const § 41, as well as Open Meetings Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3480.

Even when meeting is scheduled and reasonable notice is given to all members of public body in manner consistent with requirements of CLS Gen Const § 41, but less than majority attends, gathering would not constitute "meeting" and public would have no right to attend. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-4067.

Public body may not take action or vote by means of series of telephone calls or, for example, by e-mail. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-4113.

2. Definitions

A committee formed to operate a joint airport pursuant to General Municipal Law § 353-a, consisting of a member from each town board of the 7 participating towns, must act by majority vote of the entire committee. The participating towns may not, by local law, authorize the committee to act by majority of the quorum present at a meeting. 1990 Op St Compt 90-31, 1990 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 38.

"Quorum" consists of majority of total membership of body for purpose of Open Meetings Law; thus, if, for example, school board consists of 7, its quorum would be 4, and in case of committee consisting of 3, quorum would be 2. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12405.

Public body may not take action or vote by means of e-mail, telephone conference, or series of telephone conversations. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3787.

3. Actions of body distinguished

It is not necessary that each parcel of real property be viewed and appraised by each member of a three-man board of assessors. It is proper for a three-man board of assessors to assign specific areas of the assessing unit to each member and for each to submit appraisals at a meeting of the board. Likewise, appraisers may be employed to perform field appraisals and to submit their appraisals to the board for final action by it. 2 Op Counsel, SBEA #77. Each of the three duly appointed park commissioners of a village has equal authority where the commission acts as a body in the discharge of its public duty. General Construction Law, § 41: 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6020.

4. Absences

Where there is a village board made up of the mayor and four trustees, it is necessary to have the affirmative votes of three of those officers to carry any resolution or matter coming before the village board unless there is statutory authority or requirement for a different number or proportion. This is the case even though there are vacancies in one or more such offices or there are absences at a meeting of the village board of trustees. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 1 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 47.

An affirmative vote for four members of the seven member town of Indian Lake Planning Board is required to exercise the powers of such Board regardless of vacancies on said Board, absences or disqualifications from acting, except in those instances where, by law, more than a majority of the whole number of the members of the Board is required for affirmative action. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 29 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 62.

A committee formed to operate a joint airport pursuant to General Municipal Law § 353-a, consisting of a member from each town board of the 7 participating towns, must act by majority vote of the entire committee. The participating towns may not, by local law, authorize the committee to act by majority of the quorum present at a meeting. 1990 Op St Compt 90-31, 1990 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 38.

Board of assessment review, which cannot comply with statutory minimum number of hours for its hearing because of religious observances of majority of its members, must reconvene on another date; new complaints may be filed at such recessed hearing. 9 Op Counsel SBEA No. 111 (1993).

5. Vacancies

Where a vacancy occurs in a town zoning commission by reason of the death of one of its members, the remaining members may function as provided by this section. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 22 (Informal), 1957 N.Y. AG LEXIS 218.

Where there is a village board made up of the mayor and four trustees, it is necessary to have the affirmative votes of three of those officers to carry any resolution or matter coming before the village board unless there is statutory authority or requirement for a different number or proportion. This is the case even though there are vacancies in one or more such offices or there are absences at a meeting of the village board of trustees. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 1 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 47.

An affirmative vote for four members of the seven member town of Indian Lake Planning Board is required to exercise the powers of such Board regardless of vacancies on said Board, absences or disqualifications from acting, except in those instances where, by law, more than a majority of the whole number of the members of the Board is required for affirmative action. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 29 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 62.

A public officer holds over and continues to perform the duties of his office until a successor is chosen and qualified but the office is vacant for the purpose of selecting a successor. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Failure of the newly elected mayor and three trustees to qualify for office by filing their constitutional oaths of office within 30 days created vacancies in the offices of mayor, one trustee for one year and two trustees for two years. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Where there is a vacancy in the office of village mayor the board of trustees may fill that vacancy. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

The trustees have no authority to make an appointment to fill a vacancy in the office of trustee, which is a power given only to the mayor. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

The newly appointed mayor may fill the three vacancies on the village board of trustees, which appointments may be of any individuals qualified to hold the offices, including those who had been elected to the offices but who failed to qualify. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

The authorization for an immediate special election to fill vacancies in these village offices cannot be utilized because the statutory time has elapsed for calling one; thus the special election to fill vacancies for the unexpired portion of the terms of two trustees will be held in March, 1980, concurrently with the general village election at which will be elected successors to the mayor, Trustee West and the other trustee to be appointed now. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

If the board of trustees consisting of the trustee whose term has not expired and the two holdover trustees cannot agree unanimously on an individual to be appointed to fill the office of mayor, then the village clerk should notify the office of the Governor that there are vacancies in four village elective offices and request the Governor to proclaim a special election to fill the vacancies. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

In situations where majority vote is required, 7 member planning board may take action only through vote of 4 members of board, so that where 2 members are absent and 2 others abstain, planning board can take no action. 1988 NY Ops Atty Gen 88-83, 1988 N.Y. AG LEXIS 89.

There is no provision in state law which provides remedy to Love Canal Area Revitalization Agency in event there is deadlock in filling vacancy on board; Agency may act even with vacancy provided quorum and majority requirements of CLS Gen Const § 41 have been met. 1998 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 98-9, 1998 N.Y. AG LEXIS 10.

A town zoning board of appeals may function although there is a vacancy on the board. Three members constitute a quorum and the concurring vote of three members is necessary for a decision of the board. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7179.

6. Abstentions

A resolution to appoint a member of the village planning and zoning board by a five member village board, all members being present at an organization meeting, said resolution being properly moved and seconded but receiving only two affirmative votes, one negative vote and two trustees voting "present", was defeated. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen May 11 (Informal), 1966 N.Y. AG LEXIS 74.

In situations where majority vote is required, 7 member planning board may take action only through vote of 4 members of board, so that where 2 members are absent and 2 others abstain, planning board can take no action. 1988 NY Ops Atty Gen 88-83, 1988 N.Y. AG LEXIS 89.

A city charter granting to the mayor the authority to vote in the event of a tie vote of the common council may, consistent with State law, also provide that abstentions are to be treated as negative votes; it is necessary that city officials review the charter and, if necessary, local legislative intent, to determine whether abstentions are to be treated in this fashion. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 90-79, 1990 N.Y. AG LEXIS 84.

Where three members of the board of fire commissioners retire from a meeting, the remaining two commissioners may not transact any fire district business. General Construction Law, § 41: 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6086.

Where voting on resolutions granting applications for zoning changes resulted in nays and abstentions of town board members so that the resolutions did not receive an affirmative vote of the majority of the board, the resolutions are deemed defeated. 1974 Op St Compt No. 74–99.

A town board by resolution may provide that a member's abstention from voting shall be considered an affirmative vote. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–122.

7. Consequences of invalid vote

Where board of education consists of six members, the votes of four members for the same individual are necessary to appoint a clerk. In the absence of requisite four votes, former clerk continues in office until successor is appointed. 1947 Op St Compt 368.

Local laws were not duly adopted by the board of supervisors of Schoharie County where only 10 or 11 members were present at a meeting duly convened, though eight voted affirmatively for adoption of the particular laws. 1960 Op St Compt No. 60–220.

Where voting on resolutions granting applications for zoning changes resulted in nays and abstentions of town board members so that the resolutions did not receive an affirmative vote of the majority of the board, the resolutions are deemed defeated. 1974 Op St Compt No. 74–99.

8. Applicability of other laws and by-laws

A committee formed to operate a joint airport pursuant to General Municipal Law § 353-a, consisting of a member from each town board of the 7 participating towns, must act by majority vote of the entire committee. The participating towns may not, by local law, authorize the committee to act by majority of the quorum present at a meeting. 1990 Op St Compt No. 90-31, 1990 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 38.

9. —Supremacy of section

A provision in the Charter of the City of Rochester which sets forth in general that all sales of real estate belonging to the City must be authorized by ordinance of the Council and passed by three-fourths vote of all the members is not applicable to lands owned and sold by the Rochester Urban Renewal Agency. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen May 6 (Informal), 1971 N.Y. AG LEXIS 75.

The requirement in Village Law, § 7-708, subdivision 1, requiring a four-to-one majority rather than a three-to-two majority to amend the village zoning law following a protest, yields to the overriding requirement of the State policy that urban renewal, stated by General Municipal Law, § 501, to be a public purpose essential to the public interest, be expedited and effective. A simple majority vote, three-to-two, is sufficient to amend the village zoning law to provide for an urban renewal project. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 25 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 184.

The statute makes no provision for the number of members on a town zoning commission which may consist of any reasonable number of members decided upon by the town board and the town board may, from time to time, increase or diminish the number of members. Bylaws or rules of procedure of a zoning commission can not supersede the provisions of General Construction Law § 41 concerning quorum and majority. A future change in the number of members will not have any effect upon prior actions of the commission which would have to stand or fall upon the quorum and majority requirements then in effect. Such a commission may reconsider any matter previously having come before it. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen July 30 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 135.

School board does not have power to enact a resolution stating that four out of five votes are necessary to change its policies, regulations and bylaws. In re Miller, N.Y. Op Comr Ed No. 9600.

Since resolution requiring the vote of four of five members of the school board in order to modify its policies, regulations and bylaws was void ab initio, appeal challenging the right of three members of the school board to rescind the resolution was moot. In re Miller, N.Y. Op Comr Ed No. 9600.

10. —Requiring greater than majority vote

A local governing body or board of a city, town or village in Monroe County may not, pursuant to section 397 of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, authorize the Law Enforcement Council of Monroe County to issue permits for the equipping of motor vehicles with radio receiving sets. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 21 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 58.

Public Officers Law, § 42(1), is a general law and may not be amended by an inconsistent local law. Accordingly, where a City Councilman of the City of Port Jervis, was elected at the general election in November of 1977 for a two-year term commencing on January 1, 1978 and terminating on December 31, 1979, and resigned his office effective as of May 1, 1978, such resignation created a vacancy in said office which must be filled at the general election in November of 1978 for the remainder of said Councilman's term. The person appointed in 1978 to fill such vacancy may hold such office only until January 1, 1979. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen May 11 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 130.

Three trustees and the mayor constitute a quorum for transaction of village business in a village having six trustees and a mayor on its board of trustees. However, five votes are required to pass a bond resolution or capital note resolution. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6946.

Provision of central school district's code of ethics, requiring super-majority (majority plus one) of board of education for removal of member of ethics board, was unlawful because neither Education Law nor General Construction Law authorizes school board to adopt requirements in excess of those already provided by CLS Gen Const § 41. 1998 Op Comm Ed No. 13,914, 1998 236.

Public body may not take action or vote by means of telephone calls or e-mail, since such action or vote would violate quorum requirements of CLS Gen Const § 41. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3732.

If notice requirement of CLS Gen Const § 41 does not occur, even if majority is present, valid meeting could not be held or action could not validly be taken. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3732.

11. Actions of particular public bodies

A committee formed to operate a joint airport pursuant to General Municipal Law § 353-a, consisting of a member from each town board of the 7 participating towns, must act by majority vote of the entire committee. The participating towns may not, by local law, authorize the committee to act by majority of the quorum present at a meeting. 1990 Op St Compt No. 90-31, 1990 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 38.

A quorum of the Board of Managers of a public general hospital, for passage of resolutions, transaction of business, or election of officers, is a majority of the whole number of the board. 1963 Op St Compt No. 63–161.

Power or duty vested in three person board of assessors may only be exercised by majority of members of that board; chairman of board of assessors may not act unilaterally. 7 Op Counsel, SBEA #51, 1979 March 6.

12. —County board of supervisors

Local laws were not duly adopted by the board of supervisors of Schoharie County where only 10 or 11 members were present at a meeting duly convened, though eight voted affirmatively for adoption of the particular laws. 1960 Op St Compt No. 60–220.

County legislature's quorum rule is inconsistent with CLS Gen Const § 41 where rule states that "all voting shall be decided by a majority of those present and voting," while § 41 states that "not less than a majority of the whole number may perform and exercise such power, authority or duty." Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3989.

13. —City council

Under the charter of the City of Amsterdam election of the vice-president of the Common Council by resolution rather than by ballot is invalid. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 10 (Informal), 1967 N.Y. AG LEXIS 40.

The phrase "approved by the governing body" as used in Section 507 (2) (d) of the General Municipal Law means approval by a concurrence of a majority of the common council of the City of Rochester when it is approving a disposition of real property owned by the Rochester Urban Renewal Agency. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen May 14 (Informal), 1970 N.Y. AG LEXIS 73.

A provision in the Charter of the City of Rochester which sets forth in general that all sales of real estate belonging to the City must be authorized by ordinance of the Council and passed by three-fourths vote of all the members is not applicable to lands owned and sold by the Rochester Urban Renewal Agency. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen May 6 (Informal), 1971 N.Y. AG LEXIS 75.

The above section addresses itself to "public officers" and "persons" and the majority of the whole number of Supervisors comprising the Board of Supervisors of Putnam County constitutes a quorum when assembled at a duly convened meeting. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 11 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 106.

The appointed City Manager of the City of Niagara Falls, and not the Mayor of that City, with the concurrence of the legislative body of the City Council, may request the Legislature to pass a specific bill relating to the property, affairs or government of the City of Niagara Falls. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 15 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 175.

14. —Town board

A person named to fill a vacancy in the office of town supervisor or town councilman must receive not less than a majority of the votes of the entire authorized membership of the town board. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 13 (Informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 157.

In situations where majority vote is required, 7 member planning board may take action only through vote of 4 members of board, so that where 2 members are absent and 2 others abstain, planning board can take no action. 1988 NY Ops Atty Gen 88-83, 1988 N.Y. AG LEXIS 89.

If supervisor of town makes home rule request, town board can approve request through majority vote of its total membership; if supervisor fails to make home rule request, ⅔ vote of total membership is necessary to make request. 1993 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 93-43, 1993 N.Y. AG LEXIS 63.

An individual must receive three votes to be appointed to fill a vacancy on the town board of a town of the second class. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–1054.

15. —Village board and mayor

Where a village board consists of a mayor and four trustees, three members thereof constitute a quorum. 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 22 (Informal), 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 295.

A vacancy in a village board of trustees must be filled by a majority of the entire authorized membership of such board. The mayor has no authority to fill such vacancy. 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 1 (Informal), 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 300.

Where there is a village board made up of the mayor and four trustees, it is necessary to have the affirmative votes of three of those officers to carry any resolution or matter coming before the village board unless there is statutory authority or requirement for a different number or proportion. This is the case even though there are vacancies in one or more such offices or there are absences at a meeting of the village board of trustees. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 1 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 47.

In any event, the acts of the village board of trustees since April 2, 1979, were the acts of a de facto board and as such are valid (Schick v Impellitteri (1953, Sup) 122 NYS2d 729, affd 282 AD 663, 122 NYS2d 794; Sylvia Lake Co. v Northern Ore Co. (1926) 242 NY 144, 151 NE 158, cert den 273 US 695, 71 L Ed 844, 47 S Ct 92). 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Trustee West, holdover Trustee Dibble and holdover Trustee Leslie, by unanimous action, may appoint a village mayor but none of those three may be appointed to that office (Wood v Whitehall (1923) 120 Misc 124, 197 NYS 789, affd on the opinion below 206 AD 786, 201 NYS 959). 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

The acts of the board of trustees which were unanimously voted upon by the remaining trustee and the two holdover trustees are valid unless more than a simple majority vote is required for passage. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

No such appointees can hold office beyond the end of the official year in 1980 even though the term for two of them, if they had been elected, would otherwise have continued until 1981. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

A municipal board consisting of five members can act only by the affirmative vote of at least three members. So if there are three people who can act on the village board of trustees, if they act unanimously, their acts have validity. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Trustee Leslie, whose term expired in 1979 and who was elected Mayor but who failed to file his oath of office, continues to be a trustee as a holdover in office. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Trustee Dibble, whose term expired in 1979 and who was elected to succeed himself but who failed to file his oath of office, continues in office as a holdover trustee. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

At the 1979 election, successors had to be elected for both trustees whose elective terms were expiring in 1979, and for the mayor and the trustee who occupied their offices by appointment. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

General discussion of the powers of a village mayor and board of trustees in obtaining legal services. 1981 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 81-75, 1981 N.Y. AG LEXIS 79.

Three trustees and the mayor constitute a quorum for transaction of village business in a village having six trustees and a mayor on its board of trustees. However, five votes are required to pass a bond resolution or capital note resolution. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6946.

16. —Village board

Where a Village Board of Trustees consists of five members, three trustees may properly enact a resolution. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 22 (Informal), 1958 N.Y. AG LEXIS 227.

A resolution to appoint a member of the village planning and zoning board by a five member village board, all members being present at an organization meeting, said resolution being properly moved and seconded but receiving only two affirmative votes, one negative vote and two trustees voting "present", was defeated. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen May 11 (Informal), 1966 N.Y. AG LEXIS 74.

While any official action of the board should be taken at a meeting open to the public, including the news media, a village board of trustees may adopt proper legislation by the affirmative vote of a majority of all its members prohibiting the use of tape recorders by the public during sessions of its board meetings. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen March 18 (Informal), 1970 N.Y. AG LEXIS 50.

The village Board of Trustees of the Village of Honeoye Falls is authorized to adopt a resolution by an affirmative vote of a majority of all its members prohibiting the use of a tape recorder by one of its members during sessions of its Board meetings if in its judgment the recording distracts from the true deliberative process of the Board. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 27 (Informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 152.

A local board may take action only by a majority of the whole membership of the board. Villages by local law may establish "alternate" members of the zoning board of appeals, who could serve in a case where conflicts of interest of regular board members would preclude action by the board. 1982 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-61, 1982 N.Y. AG LEXIS 40.

In the event of a protest of a proposed change in zoning regulations, action must be taken by three-fourths of the whole number of a board of trustees consisting of seven members. Six votes are necessary for action. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-6.

Regardless of the composition of a village board of review, a majority of its members must be present when the board meets to hear complaints with respect to assessments. 8 Op Counsel SBEA No. 54 (1985, April 25).

17. —Zoning board

Where a vacancy occurs in a town zoning commission by reason of the death of one of its members, the remaining members may function as provided by this section. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 22 (Informal), 1957 N.Y. AG LEXIS 218.

A town board of zoning appeals consisting of five members may hold a meeting at which three members are present to consider the overruling of a recommendation of the Rockland County Planning Board and thereafter at a later or adjourned meeting legally provided for and properly assembled vote on such measure or through proper procedures reconsider a previous vote and if four votes are cast at such meeting on a proper resolution in the affirmative for overruling the recommendation of the Rockland County Planning Board, such action is valid. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 20 (Informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 75.

The requirement in Village Law, § 7-708, subdivision 1, requiring a four-to-one majority rather than a three-to-two majority to amend the village zoning law following a protest, yields to the overriding requirement of the State policy that urban renewal, stated by General Municipal Law, § 501, to be a public purpose essential to the public interest, be expedited and effective. A simple majority vote, three-to-two, is sufficient to amend the village zoning law to provide for an urban renewal project. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 25 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 184.

The statute makes no provision for the number of members on a town zoning commission which may consist of any reasonable number of members decided upon by the town board and the town board may, from time to time, increase or diminish the number of members. Bylaws or rules of procedure of a zoning commission can not supersede the provisions of General Construction Law § 41 concerning quorum and majority. A future change in the number of members will not have any effect upon prior actions of the commission which would have to stand or fall upon the quorum and majority requirements then in effect. Such a commission may reconsider any matter previously having come before it. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen July 30 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 135.

Action by a zoning board of appeals to reopen a public hearing is required to be taken by a majority vote of the whole number of such board. The reopening of a public hearing by a zoning board of appeals must be noticed in accordance with provisions of the Town Law. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-25.

A town zoning board of appeals may function although there is a vacancy on the board. Three members constitute a quorum and the concurring vote of three members is necessary for a decision of the board. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7179.

Where voting on resolutions granting applications for zoning changes resulted in nays and abstentions of town board members so that the resolutions did not receive an affirmative vote of the majority of the board, the resolutions are deemed defeated. 1974 Op St Compt No. 74–99.

18. —Planning board

An affirmative vote for four members of the seven member town of Indian Lake Planning Board is required to exercise the powers of such Board regardless of vacancies on said Board, absences or disqualifications from acting, except in those instances where, by law, more than a majority of the whole number of the members of the Board is required for affirmative action. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 29 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 62.

A regional planning board is subject to the provisions of section 41 of the General Construction Law governing quorum and majority vote requirements for public bodies. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-4.

Regional planning board is subject to provisions of CLS Gen Const Law § 41 governing quorum and majority vote requirements for public bodies. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-4.

19. —Board of education

School board does not have power to enact a resolution stating that four out of five votes are necessary to change its policies, regulations and bylaws. In re Miller, N.Y. Op Comr Ed No. 9600.

Since resolution requiring the vote of four of five members of the school board in order to modify its policies, regulations and bylaws was void ab initio, appeal challenging the right of three members of the school board to rescind the resolution was moot. In re Miller, N.Y. Op Comr Ed No. 9600.

Where board of education consists of six members, the votes of four members for the same individual are necessary to appoint a clerk. In the absence of requisite four votes, former clerk continues in office until successor is appointed. 1947 Op St Compt No. 47–368.

School board's collective determination—based on telephone calls from school superintendent in which he apparently solicited responses from school board members concerning salary range offered for new position—as to what salary range should be, should have occurred during open meeting held in accordance with provisions of Open Meetings Law; because decision to offer certain salary range was made, such action should be memorialized in minutes. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-4113.

20. —Police and fire commissions

Two members of a three man police board must agree before official board action can be taken. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen May 8 (Informal), 1959 N.Y. AG LEXIS 149.

Under CLS Town § 176(3) (and not CLS Gen Const § 41), 2 fire commissioners then in office may appoint qualified persons to fill 3 vacancies on board of fire commissioners; on filling of first vacancy, 3 should appoint fourth, and so on. 2008 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2008-1, 2008 N.Y. AG LEXIS 1.

The attendance of three fire district commissioners is necessary for a quorum and the affirmative vote of three such commissioners is necessary for the adoption of any resolution. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–5967.

Where three members of the board of fire commissioners retire from a meeting, the remaining two commissioners may not transact any fire district business. General Construction Law, § 41: 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6086.

One member of a town board which serves as board of police commissioners has no power to make an investigation of the police department. 1967 Op St Compt No. 67–559 and 67–584.

21. —Water authority

The powers of the Great Neck Water Authority, a public benefit corporation consisting of three members, may be exercised by the concurrence of any two of its members at a meeting duly called and held and attended by all three members, the statutory quorum. 1960 NY Ops Atty Gen May 25 (Informal), 1960 N.Y. AG LEXIS 120.

22. —Board of Health

Two members of the three-man Crime Victims Compensation Board constitute a quorum which may act as the full Board. Action by the Board requires a majority vote which is two votes. 1969 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 12, 1969 N.Y. AG LEXIS 4.

The State Hospital Review and Planning Council is a board charged with a public duty and therefore a majority of the whole number of such persons shall constitute a quorum, and not less than a majority of the whole number may perform and exercise such power, authority or duty. 1978 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 56, 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 229.

The provisions of General Construction Law, § 41 are applicable to the Rochester Housing Authority. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 27 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 375.

Majority of number of trustees authorized by law constitutes quorum of board of trustees of Higher Education Services Corporation. 1985 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-F9.

Quorum and voting requirements for Love Canal Area Revitalization Agency are set forth in CLS Gen Const § 41. 1993 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 93-41, 1993 N.Y. AG LEXIS 68.

A majority of the voting members of the Soil and Water Conservation Committee constitutes a quorum for the conduct of business. Ex officio members may hold offices but may not make motions. 1994 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-F19, 1984 N.Y. AG LEXIS 8.

New York State Independent Living Council is subject to appointment provisions of Public Officers Law and quorum requirements of CLS Gen Const § 41. 1997 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 97-F11, 1997 N.Y. AG LEXIS 92.

Thirteen voting members of state Independent Living Council constitute quorum. 2008 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2008-F1, 2008 N.Y. AG LEXIS 8.

Notwithstanding Robert's Rules of Order, CLS Gen Const § 41 provides that action of state Independent Living Council must have affirmative vote of majority of whole, i.e., at least 13 voting members. 2008 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2008-F1, 2008 N.Y. AG LEXIS 8.

Provisions of CLS Pub A § 3402(2)(c) govern number of Nassau Health Care Corporation directors needed to convene quorum and transact business, and those numbers vary depending on number of directors then in office and number of directors attending meeting at which quorum is present. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2011-3, 2011 N.Y. AG LEXIS 4.

It is not necessary that each parcel of real property be viewed and appraised by each member of a three-man board of assessors. It is proper for a three-man board of assessors to assign specific areas of the assessing unit to each member and for each to submit appraisals at a meeting of the board. Likewise, appraisers may be employed to perform field appraisals and to submit their appraisals to the board for final action by it. 2 Op Counsel, SBEA #77. Each of the three duly appointed park commissioners of a village has equal authority where the commission acts as a body in the discharge of its public duty. General Construction Law, § 41. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6020.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in §§ 13, 41-a; CLS Alt Co Gov Law § 4; CLS Pub A Law § 878.

§ 60. Newspapers

a. In any case in which notice of any fact is required by law to be published or advertised in a newspaper, the term "newspaper" shall mean a paper of general circulation which is printed and distributed ordinarily not less frequently than once a week, and has been so for at least one year immediately preceding such publication or advertisement, and which contains news, articles of opinion (as editorials), features, advertising, or other matter regarded as of current interest, has a paid circulation and (except for such a paper which has been printed and distributed not less frequently than once a week for a period of ten years prior to January one, nineteen hundred seventy-five) has been entered at United States post-office as second-class matter. A publication which is distributed or made available primarily for advertising purposes to the public generally without consideration being paid therefor shall not be deemed to be a "newspaper" for the purpose of publication or advertisement of such notice required by law. Notwithstanding any provision of this subdivision to the contrary, a publication which was designated and publishing notice as an official newspaper prior to the year nineteen hundred forty and continued to be so designated and publishing for at least thirty years after such year shall be deemed to be a newspaper within the meaning of this subdivision.

b. The terms "daily newspaper" and "newspaper published each business day" in a statute, contract, or any public or private instrument, mean, respectively, a newspaper customarily published on each business day of the year, whether or not such newspaper is published on any other day. The term "business day" when used herein does not include Saturdays, Sundays or legal holidays.

c. The term "newspaper of a county, city, town or village" when used in a statute shall mean a newspaper published, circulated, printed or distributed in the county, city, town or village.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1941, ch 166; amd, L 1944, ch 62; L 1958, ch 639; L 1973, ch 586, eff June 11, 1973; L 1975, ch 724; L 1975, ch 725, eff Aug 9, 1975; L 2005, ch 767, § 19, eff June 1, 2006.

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

Respondent, which published biweekly rental news publication bulletin containing data pertaining to apartments allegedly available for rent and which had approximately 2700 subscribers who were charged $20 each for one year's subscription to bulletin, was engaged in furnishing, for a fee, information concerning location and availability of apartment housing and fact that such information was furnished through device of published bulletin did not convert referral business into a newspaper and respondent would therefore be enjoined from engaging in apartment referral business until duly licensed. State by Lefkowitz v Harrell's Employment Guide, Inc., 89 Misc. 2d 807, 392 N.Y.S.2d 529, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1944 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

A newspaper which has been designated by a town as an official newspaper does not cease to be an official newspaper if it changes its name, changes its format, or if it closes down with no publication for one week in order to retool. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-49.

While a town board may designate a "pennysaver" as an "additional newspaper", it would be impractical to do since the town may not pay for notices and advertisements placed in such a publication. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–461.

A newspaper without a paid circulation and without a second class mailing permit may not be an official village newspaper. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78–862.

Discussion of official newspaper. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–41.

A newspaper which has general circulation in the town by subscription, but is not available at news stands, may be designated as the official newspaper. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–123.

A town may not designate as the official newspaper, a periodical that has not been entered as second class matter. Postal regulations prevent a publication designed primarily for advertising or having free circulation from being entered as second class matter. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81-70, 1981 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 818.

A publication which is entered in the post office as second-class matter but which has no paid circulation may not be utilized for notices required by law to be published or advertised in a newspaper. 1984 Op St Compt No. 84-58, 1984 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 81.

Publication must be "newspaper" as defined in CLS Gen Const § 60 and must satisfy conditions precedent set forth in CLS Pub O § 70-a before it can be designated as "official newspaper" of town pursuant to CLS Town § 64(11); place of publication of newspaper is question of fact. 1988 Op St Compt No 88-28, 1988 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 24.

Publication which does not satisfy threshold requirements of CLS Gen Const § 60 and CLS Pub O § 70-a, because it is mailed as third class matter and does not have paid subscription, may not be designated as official newspaper. 1992 Op St Compt No. 92-24, 1992 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 11.

Publication which was designated as official newspaper of village from prior to 1940 through 1970, and which would otherwise qualify as newspaper under CLS Gen Const § 60-a except that it was not registered as second-class matter, could be designated by county as one of its official newspapers, and could submit claims for compensation under CLS Pub O § 70-a. 1994 Op St Compt No. 94-9, 1994 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 7.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Texts: Weinstein, Korn, Miller, CPLR Manual (Matthew Bender) § 27.19[d].

ARTICLE 2-A Classification of Corporations and Definitions

Section
66. Definitions

HISTORY:
Add, L 1973, ch 451, eff Sept 1, 1974.

§ 66. Definitions

1. A "public corporation" includes a municipal corporation, a district corporation, or a public benefit corporation.

2. A "municipal corporation" includes a county, city, town, village and school district.

3. A "district corporation" includes any territorial division of the state, other than a municipal corporation, heretofore or hereafter established by law which possesses the power to contract indebtedness and levy taxes or benefit assessments upon real estate or to require the levy of such taxes or assessments, whether or not such territorial division is expressly declared to be a body corporate and politic by the statute creating or authorizing the creation of such territorial division.

4. A "public benefit corporation" is a corporation organized to construct or operate a public improvement wholly or partly within the state, the profits from which inure to the benefit of this or other states, or to the people thereof.

4-a. A "benefit corporation" means a business corporation incorporated under article seventeen of the business corporation law and whose status as a benefit corporation has not been terminated as provided in article seventeen of the business corporation law.

5. A "religious corporation" is either (a) a Religious Corporations Law corporation as defined in section two of such law or (b) a corporation formed under any other general law or by a special act of this state which is organized and operated principally for religious purposes.

6. An "education corporation" is a corporation as defined in subdivision one of section two hundred sixteen-a of the education law.

7. A "not-for-profit corporation", if a domestic corporation, is a corporation as defined in subparagraph five of paragraph (a) of section one hundred two of the not-for-profit corporation law. A "not-for-profit corporation", if formed under laws other than the statutes of this state, is a foreign not-for-profit corporation as defined in subparagraph seven of paragraph (a) of such section.

8. A "business corporation", if a domestic corporation, is a corporation as defined in subparagraph four of paragraph (a) of section one hundred two of the business corporation law. A "business corporation", if formed under laws other than the statutes of this state, is a foreign business corporation as defined in subparagraph seven of paragraph (a) of such section.

9. A "moneyed corporation" is a corporation to which the banking law or the insurance law is made applicable by the provisions of such laws.

10. A "railroad corporation" is a corporation to which the railroad law is made applicable by a provision of such law.

11. A "transportation corporation" is a corporation to which the transportation corporations law is made applicable by a provision of such law.

12. A "cooperative corporation" is a corporation to which the cooperative corporations law is made applicable by a provision of such law.

13. The term "corporation formed other than for profit" includes every corporation other than a corporation formed for profit or a public corporation.

14. A "domestic corporation" is a corporation incorporated by or under the laws of the state or colony of New York. Every corporation which is not a domestic corporation is a foreign corporation, except as provided by the civil practice law and rules with respect to the construction of such law and rules.

15. The term "director", when used in relation to corporations, means any member of the governing board of such corporation, whether designated as director, trustee, manager, governor, or by any other title, designated to manage the affairs of a corporation.

16. The term "certificate of incorporation" includes (a) the original certificate of incorporation or any other instrument filed or issued under any statute to form a domestic or foreign corporation, as amended, supplemented or restated by certificates of amendment, merger or consolidation or other certificates or instruments filed or issued under any statute; or (b) a special act or charter creating a domestic or foreign corporation, as amended, supplemented or restated.

17. The term "member of a corporation" means one having membership rights in a corporation in accordance with the provisions of its certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

18. The term "office of a corporation" means the office the location of which is stated in the certificate of incorporation of a domestic corporation, or in the application for authority of a foreign corporation or an amendment thereof. Such office need not be a place where business or activities are conducted by such corporation.

19. The term "business of a corporation" when used with reference to a corporation formed for profit means the operations for the conduct of which the corporation is formed and may constitute "doing of business" or "transaction of business" as those terms are used in the statutes of this state.

20. The term "conducting of activities" when used with reference to a corporation formed not for profit means the operations for the conduct of which the corporation is formed and may constitute "doing of business" or "transaction of business" as those terms are used in the statutes of this state.

21. The term "corporate law" when used in any law means the general statutes relating to corporations included in the consolidated laws of which this chapter is a part.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1973, ch 451, eff Sept 1, 1974; amd, L 1974, ch 326, eff May 13, 1974; L 2011, ch 599, § 2, eff Feb 10, 2012.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former Gen Corp L § 3
3. —Public corporations
4. —Municipal corporations
5. —District corporations
6. —Public benefit corporations
7. —Religious corporations
8. —Moneyed corporations
9. —Stock corporations
10. —Membership corporations
11. —Officers and Members
12. —Office of corporation

1. In general

Particularized inquiry is necessary to determine whether—for specific purpose at issue—public benefit corporation should be treated like state since, although such corporations are created by state for general purpose of performing functions essentially governmental in nature, they are not identical to state or any of its agencies and rather enjoy, for some purposes, separate existence. Clark-Fitzpatrick, Inc. v Long Island R. Co., 70 N.Y.2d 382, 521 N.Y.S.2d 653, 516 N.E.2d 190, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18964 (N.Y. 1987).

N.Y. C.P.L.R. 213(7) six-year statute of limitations governed a school district's claim against a member instead of the N.Y. C.P.L.R. 214(4) three-year period because N.Y. C.P.L.R. 213(7) extended the limitations period to six years for an action by a corporation against a present or former officer to recover damages for waste or for an injury to property, or for an accounting, and the school district was both a municipal corporation and a public corporation. Roslyn Union Free School Dist. v Barkan, 16 N.Y.3d 643, 926 N.Y.S.2d 349, 950 N.E.2d 85, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 654 (N.Y. 2011).

Under the capacity rule, public benefit corporations have no greater stature to challenge the constitutionality of State statutes than do municipal corporations or other local governmental entities and that courts need not engage in a particularized inquiry to determine whether a public benefit corporation should first be treated like the State and, unlike in other contexts, for purposes of our capacity bar, every public benefit corporation is the State. Matter of World Trade Ctr. Lower Manhattan Disaster Site Litigation., 30 N.Y.3d 377, 89 N.E.3d 1227, 67 N.Y.S.3d 547, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3286 (N.Y. 2017).

Petitioners, as taxpayers residing within school district, had standing under CLS Gen Mun § 51 to challenge support management services contract for custodial and maintenance needs entered into by district, as involving expenditure of taxpayers' funds in violation of competitive bidding requirements of CLS Gen Mun § 103; in view of fact that school district is now classified as municipal corporation under CLS Gen Const § 66(2), it is fair and reasonable to remove barrier which previously excluded local citizen-taxpayers from using judicial process to challenge fiscal policies and expenditures of their school districts. Schulz v Cobleskill-Richmondville Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 197 A.D.2d 247, 610 N.Y.S.2d 694, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4143 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), aff'd, Schulz v State, 217 A.D.2d 393, 634 N.Y.S.2d 780, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12301 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

State urban development corporation is a "public corporation" as that term is defined in the Lien Law, and liens filed as private improvement liens against property of the corporation would be discharged. New York State Urban Development Corp. v Memphis Constr., Inc., 82 Misc. 2d 232, 368 N.Y.S.2d 765, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2607 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Town fire district is not a "municipality," but it is a territorial division of state designated a "district corporation" and, as such, like a municipal corporation, it has no independent sovereignty of its own and its immunity from liability in suit, being merely an extension of state's immunity, was terminated by enactment of Court of Claims Act. Thomas v Consolidated Fire Dist. No. 1, 91 Misc. 2d 651, 398 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2382 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977), aff'd, 64 A.D.2d 472, 410 N.Y.S.2d 176, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12750 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

Public school districts were among the "educational institutions" over which the New York State Division of Human Rights had jurisdiction for N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(4) purposes; to adopt the school district's premise that the General Construction Law definitions of "educational corporation" and "educational association" should have been applied to N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(4) would have been to accept that, in enacting the Human Rights Law, the legislature intended to provide its protection against discrimination only to the relatively minuscule percentage of students whose families can afford to send them to private, non-religious schools, relegating public school students to other more onerous and/or less comprehensive remedies. Such a result was so clearly contrary to the express purpose of the Human Rights Law that resort to the General Construction Law definitions was inappropriate and unreasonable. Matter of Ithaca City School Dist. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 87 A.D.3d 268, 926 N.Y.S.2d 686, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 19 N.Y.3d 481, 950 N.Y.S.2d 67, 973 N.E.2d 162, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 2012).

Plaintiff fire and water district is a political, territorial and civil division of the State, designated a "district", public corporation (Local Finance Law, § 2.00, subd 3, par [c]; General Construction Law, § 66, subd 3), created for a public purpose, supported by public funds, governed by parties deriving their authority from government, possessing the power to contract indebtedness and levy taxes but having no independent sovereignty of its own, and as such, it falls under the jurisdiction of the County Civil Service Commission operating within its territorial area and must therefore make all appointments and promotions of employees from a civil service list. Hyde Park Fire & Water Dist. v County of Dutchess, 97 Misc. 2d 104, 410 N.Y.S.2d 783, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2755 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

A complaint alleging that by providing untimely service and unsanitary conditions metropolitan and city transit authorities had breached implied contracts to transport plaintiff would be dismissed for failure to state a cause of action, where the transport authorities, as public benefit corporations, rendered services to and for the benefit of the public as a whole, and absent a special relationship or a showing that a private obligation existed, those services were not owed to any specific individual and thus individual relief could not be granted, where it was not the court's function to reorder governmental priorities, and where the ultimate public remedy for poor government management was through the electoral process. Leeds v Metropolitan Transp. Auth., 117 Misc. 2d 329, 460 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3158 (N.Y. App. Term 1983).

Action against Facilities Development Corporation are governed by General Municipal Law § 50-e, as corporation is public benefit corporation included within term "public corporation" as defined in General construction Law § 66; late filing provisions of § 50-e are applicable to action against corporation, despite absence of complementary provision in corporation's incorporating act (CLS Unconsolidated Laws, Chapter 214). Kroupa v Facilities Dev. Corp., 128 Misc. 2d 904, 491 N.Y.S.2d 908, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3022 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Applicable rate of interest on judgment against New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation (HHC) was 9 percent, rather than 3 percent as provided in New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation Act, CLS Unconsol § 7401, since 1982 amendment changing interest rate paid by governmental bodies to uniform rate of 9 percent, embodied in CLS Gen Mun § 3-a, applies to HHC as public benefit corporation under CLS Gen Const § 66. Pjetri v New York City Health & Hosp. Corp., 147 Misc. 2d 636, 558 N.Y.S.2d 818, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 315 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), aff'd, 169 A.D.2d 100, 571 N.Y.S.2d 934, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8581 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991), disapproved, Carson v New York City Health & Hosp. Corp., 178 A.D.2d 265, 578 N.Y.S.2d 134, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16345 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991)).

Public improvement lien was not enforceable against corporation created by Indian Tribal Council to provide low-cost housing on reservation for tribe members, and lien would be vacated, as tribal "authority" was not "public corporation" (CLS Gen Const § 66), and thus was not subject to CLS Lien § 5; benefits of tribal corporation are meant to exclusively benefit members of tribe, and do not flow to state or to people of state generally. Seneca Nation Hous. Auth. v Flynn Battaglia Architects, P.C., 167 Misc. 2d 1040, 642 N.Y.S.2d 476, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 125 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

Although CLS Pub A §§ 1596 et seq. does not specifically authorize court to allow service of late notice of claim against Yonkers Parking Authority, court may permit service of late notice in accordance with CLS Gen Mun § 50-e; Yonkers Parking Authority is public corporation as defined in CLS Gen Const § 66(1), and CLS Gen Mun § 50-e(5) is not actually inconsistent with any provision of Public Authorities Law (CLS Pub A § 1596-s). Michael v Yonkers Parking Auth., 172 Misc. 2d 304, 658 N.Y.S.2d 194, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 181 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

City of New York is "municipal corporation" under CLS Gen Const § 66(2), and is therefore "public corporation" under CLS Gen Const § 66(1), to which CLS Gen Mun § 50-e(1)(a), setting forth requirements of notice of claim, applies. Viruet v City of New York, 181 Misc. 2d 958, 695 N.Y.S.2d 663, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 366 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999), aff'd, 277 A.D.2d 33, 715 N.Y.S.2d 406, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11296 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation is public benefit corporation (CLS Unconsol Ch 214-A § 4(1)), and is therefore "public corporation" under CLS Gen Const § 66(1), to which CLS Gen Mun § 50-e(1)(a), setting forth requirements of notice of claim, applies. Viruet v City of New York, 181 Misc. 2d 958, 695 N.Y.S.2d 663, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 366 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999), aff'd, 277 A.D.2d 33, 715 N.Y.S.2d 406, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11296 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

In an employment discrimination action, a local board of education was not entitled to Eleventh Amendment immunity as an arm of the state because (1) N.Y. Educ. Law §§ 1701 and 1709, N.Y. Gen. Constr. Law § 66(1) and (2), and N.Y. Const. art. X, § 5 could be construed to identify boards of education as municipal corporations; (2) board members were elected locally pursuant to N.Y. Educ. Law § 1804(2); (3) under N.Y. Educ. Law § 1709(20), school districts were funded by state appropriations and local property taxes; (4) education was a shared state and local responsibility even though N.Y. Const. art. XI, § 1 imposed upon the legislature the duty of providing a system of free common schools; (5) N.Y. Educ. Law §§ 305(2), 306(1) and (2), 308, 309, 310, and 1706 did not provide the New York State Commissioner of Education with veto power over the board's actions, and (6) N.Y. Educ. Law § 1709(8-c) and (26) required that any judgment against the board be paid from the board's funds rather than from the state treasury. Woods v Rondout Valley Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 466 F.3d 232, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 25333 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2006).

2. Under former Gen Corp L § 3

A determination of the Public Service Commission disapproving a restricted stock option plan for key personnel of a gas corporation was beyond the administrative function of the Commission because it invaded the field of management. But the Public Service Commission's order was nonetheless confirmed where the proposed stock issue for the plan was not one within the purposes specified by § 69 of the Public Service Law. Brooklyn Union Gas Co. v Public Service Com., 8 A.D.2d 210, 187 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8212 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1959), aff'd, 8 N.Y.2d 815, 202 N.Y.S.2d 322, 168 N.E.2d 390, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1233 (N.Y. 1960).

Since the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor is neither a private nor a public corporation, there is no statutory authority for its examination before trial. Connolly v O'Malley, 17 A.D.2d 609, 229 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8610 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962).

The County Law contains no provision empowering a county sewer district established thereunder to contract indebtedness in its own name and to levy taxes or benefit assessments upon real estate or to require the levy of such taxes or assessments. Therefore, Chemung County Sewer District No. 1 is not a separate legal entity nor a body politic separate and apart from the municipal corporation, County of Chemung, and cannot be held to be a "District Corporation." Tom Sawyer Motor Inns, Inc. v Chemung County Sewer Dist., 33 A.D.2d 720, 305 N.Y.S.2d 408, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2797 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1969).

The Board of Water Commissioners is not a public benefit corporation nor de facto corporation possessing status as an independent entity allowing it to sue or be sued within the meaning of General Corporation Law § 3, subdivision 4, as no certificate of incorporation was ever drawn nor legislation enacted establishing the board as a corporation and since there is no authorization upon which the board could become a de jure corporation it could not be deemed even a de facto corporation. Rathbun v Waverly, 35 A.D.2d 227, 315 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3501 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1970).

The state insurance fund is an agency of the state and not a public corporation within any statutory definition of that term. Commissioners of State Ins. Fund v Lapidus, 50 N.Y.S.2d 589, 182 Misc. 368, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2891 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

Under the definition of "public corporation" in this section the Waterfront Commission cannot be considered a public corporation for purposes of being subjected to examination under § 292-a of the Civil Practice Act. Application of Waterfront Com., 26 Misc. 2d 767, 206 N.Y.S.2d 123, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2576 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), aff'd, 13 A.D.2d 725, 217 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11110 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961).

3. —Public corporations

A public corporation contemplates ownership thereof by the state or a subdivision thereof and is essentially a public benefit corporation and is to be distinguished from a civil division such as a school district. Union Free School Dist. v Rye, 256 A.D. 456, 10 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4755 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 280 N.Y. 469, 21 N.E.2d 681, 280 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 469, 1939 N.Y. LEXIS 1340 (N.Y. 1939).

By § 3 the legislature has defined the terms "municipal corporation" and "public benefit corporation" and has recognized a difference between such corporations and had the legislature intended to place public benefit corporations as well as municipal corporations within Civil Pr. Act, § 292-a, it would have done so by express inclusion. Kennedy v Fehlhaber Pile Co., 263 A.D. 819, 31 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5135 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

The term "public corporation" as defined by this section includes both municipal corporations and district corporations. Black River Regulating Dist. v Adirondack League Club, 282 A.D. 161, 121 N.Y.S.2d 893, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4424 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), rev'd, 307 N.Y. 475, 121 N.E.2d 428, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 475, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 977 (N.Y. 1954), app. dismissed, 309 N.Y. 798, 130 N.E.2d 599, 309 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 798, 1955 N.Y. LEXIS 1541 (N.Y. 1955).

The New York City Housing Authority is a public corporation within the meaning of the General Corporation Law. Hence, the time limitation of General Municipal Law § 50-e applied to a personal injury action brought against the authority. Robinson v New York City Housing Authority, 8 A.D.2d 747, 188 N.Y.S.2d 262, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8470 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1959), aff'd, 7 N.Y.2d 908, 197 N.Y.S.2d 476, 165 N.E.2d 425, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1514 (N.Y. 1960).

While the New York City Housing Authority is a public corporation it is not a public corporation as defined in the General Corporation Law. Kaufman v New York City Housing Authority, 67 N.Y.S.2d 174, 188 Misc. 877, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3473 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd, 272 A.D. 829, 70 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3824 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

The New York City Housing Authority is a public corporation within the purview of § 50-e of the General Municipal Law. Valente v New York City Housing Authority, 109 N.Y.S.2d 883, 201 Misc. 24, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2759 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

The New York Port Authority being a public corporation within the definition thereof in this section is subject, in a tort action against it, to examination before trial pursuant to § 292-a of the Civil Practice Act. Estrada v Parking Associates Corp., 37 Misc. 2d 1033, 236 N.Y.S.2d 403, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2193 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Although district corporations such as library boards of trustees and school districts are included within the definition of public corporations under subdivision 1 of the above statute, a school district constitutes a municipal corporation under subdivision 2 of the same statute whereas a district corporation includes any territorial division of the state other than a municipal corporation according to the provision of subdivision 3 thereof. The two districts consequently are separate and distinct corporate entities so that a notice of claim served on a board of education cannot be deemed to convey notice under § 50-e of the General Municipal Law to the board of trustees of the library district of such school district. Maik v Massapequa Library Board of Trustees, 46 Misc. 2d 159, 258 N.Y.S.2d 916, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2089 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

The Nassau Hospital Association is not a public corporation. Osborne v Nassau Hospital Ass'n, 61 N.Y.S.2d 623, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2099 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

The distinct definitions of "municipal corporation" and "public benefit corporation" in this section constitutes legislative recognition of a difference between such corporations. Percudani v Westchester County Playland Com., 226 N.Y.S.2d 517, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4249 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

4. —Municipal corporations

A county is literally a municipal corporation. In re Westchester County, 246 N.Y. 314, 158 N.E. 881, 246 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 314, 1927 N.Y. LEXIS 879 (N.Y. 1927).

County farm bureau association is not a municipal corporation. State Bank of Commerce v Stone, 261 N.Y. 175, 184 N.E. 750, 261 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 175, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1272 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 262 N.Y. 522, 188 N.E. 47, 262 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 522, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1040 (N.Y. 1933).

A town is a municipal corporation and as such may sue in all courts in like case as a natural person. Hempstead v Lawrence, 138 A.D. 473, 122 N.Y.S. 1037, 1910 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1557 (N.Y. App. Div. 1910).

The Albany port district commission is a municipal corporation and has much broader powers than a public benefit corporation. Callanan Road Improv. Co. v Arthur McMullen Co., 253 A.D. 424, 2 N.Y.S.2d 666, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8463 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938), amended, 257 A.D. 875, 12 N.Y.S.2d 761, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8236 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939), aff'd, 280 N.Y. 536, 20 N.E.2d 7, 280 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 536, 1939 N.Y. LEXIS 1370 (N.Y. 1939).

A statute authorizing a town supervisor to pay to each school district the amount of unpaid school taxes by borrowing upon the credit of the town does not violate the constitutional provision prohibiting towns from loaning credit to a public corporation as a school district is not a public corporation. It is a municipal corporation. Union Free School Dist. v Rye, 256 A.D. 456, 10 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4755 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 280 N.Y. 469, 21 N.E.2d 681, 280 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 469, 1939 N.Y. LEXIS 1340 (N.Y. 1939).

The board of education is a municipal corporation and in the absence of specific mention of municipal corporations those sections of the Civil Practice Act which make provision for discovery and examination before trial are inapplicable. Berryman v Board of Education, 257 A.D. 915, 12 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8384 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

School districts are municipal corporations. Buchanan v Town of Salina, 270 A.D. 207, 58 N.Y.S.2d 797, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2842 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1945), reh'g denied, 270 A.D. 800, 60 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3979 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946); Board of Education v Stoddard, 49 N.Y.S.2d 38, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2049 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 268 A.D. 936, 51 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4314 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

The fact that school districts are treated as municipal corporations for certain purposes under subd 2 of this section is not controlling as to applicability of § 3 of the General Municipal Law to school districts, in view of failure to include them in the definition of municipal corporation in § 2 of that act. Central School Dist. v State, 18 A.D.2d 943, 237 N.Y.S.2d 682, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4425 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 13 N.Y.2d 1031, 245 N.Y.S.2d 602, 195 N.E.2d 311, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 894 (N.Y. 1963).

A board of education and a village are municipal corporations. Mack v President & Trustees of School Board, 11 N.Y.S.2d 311, 171 Misc. 165, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1721 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

A local board of education is a corporation; and the district, not the board, is defined as a municipal corporation in General Corporation Law § 3(2), but not in General Municipal Law § 2. Board of Education v Pace College, 50 Misc. 2d 806, 271 N.Y.S.2d 773, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1777 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 27 A.D.2d 87, 276 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2716 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1966).

5. —District corporations

A corporation chartered by the Board of Regents under the provisions of Education Law § 261 is a district corporation within the purview of subdivision 3 of the above statute. Maik v Massapequa Library Board of Trustees, 46 Misc. 2d 159, 258 N.Y.S.2d 916, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2089 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

6. —Public benefit corporations

The Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority is a public benefit corporation within the definition in subd 4 of this section, and, as such, its books and records are not subject to inspection upon demand of a citizen or taxpayer under general statutes relating to inspection of public books and records. New York Post Corp. v Moses, 10 N.Y.2d 199, 219 N.Y.S.2d 7, 176 N.E.2d 709, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1088 (N.Y. 1961).

7. —Religious corporations

Although subd 15 of § 3 of the General Corporation Law and § 195 of the Religious Corporations Law contain certain definitions of membership, an allegation of membership in a religious corporation is sufficient, without more, to sustain a complaint against the trustees of such a corporation to compel them to call a meeting of members for adoption of by-laws and to render an accounting where it is alleged that there is no functioning church organization and no rules or regulations governing membership. Eisenberg v Fauer, 25 Misc. 2d 98, 200 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3374 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

8. —Moneyed corporations

Under the definition of "moneyed corporation" in this section, and the clear cut distinction between moneyed and business corporations, a direction in a will limiting investments by trustees to securities authorized as savings bank investments in "stock of moneyed corporations of any kind" merely empowers them to invest in corporations of the "moneyed" type as herein defined. In re Estate of Thomas, 26 Misc. 2d 633, 209 N.Y.S.2d 230, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2317 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1960).

When question arises in New York whether a foreign corporation is or is not a moneyed corporation as defined in subd 6 of above statute, it is to be determined by reference to meaning given to term by the New York legislature or courts rather then by reference to legislation of foreign state. State Nat'l Bank v Laura, 45 Misc. 2d 430, 256 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2339 (N.Y. County Ct. 1965).

9. —Stock corporations

Refusal to accept certificate of change of name of sales finance company to include word "finance" proper. The word "finance" in the name of any stock corporation is prohibited except for a moneyed corporation. The enactment of Article 11-B of the Banking Law requiring sales finance companies to obtain license from superintendent of bank did not bring said companies within the definition of "moneyed" corporations. Retailers Collateral Sec. Trading Corp. v Department of State, 6 A.D.2d 975, 176 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5040 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), reh'g denied, 6 A.D.2d 1018, 178 N.Y.S.2d 639, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4762 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1958), app. denied, 5 N.Y.2d 709, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1667 (N.Y. 1958).

10. —Membership corporations

An association is a membership corporation notwithstanding the fact that the certificate of incorporation contained a provision for capital stock and the issuance and increase of so-called shares of stock, where the association was created as and has at all times remained, and still is a membership corporation, and the shares were and are merely certificates of membership. Bartlett v Lily Dale Assembly, 249 N.Y.S. 482, 139 Misc. 338, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931), dismissed, Ackerman v Fletcher, 6 A.D.2d 758, 174 N.Y.S.2d 903, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5892 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1958), dismissed, 6 A.D.2d 758, 174 N.Y.S.2d 913, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7384 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1958).

11. —Officers and Members

29. The signature of the president of a corporation to a contract which provided that the terms of the contract were binding upon members of the corporation as "member . . . pres." indicated clearly that the parties intended to bind the defendant individually even though the defendant was not a stockholder of the corporation. In a disclosed principal-agent relationship, the agent is personally bound where the intention of substituting his liability to that of the principal is clear. Mencher v Weiss, 306 N.Y. 1, 114 N.E.2d 177, 306 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 1, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 779 (N.Y. 1953).

By subdivision 15 of this section, the Legislature has defined "member of a corporation" as including a stockholder of record having the right to vote. Mencher v Weiss, 306 N.Y. 1, 114 N.E.2d 177, 306 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 1, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 779 (N.Y. 1953).

The trustees of an educational corporation chartered by the Board of Regents have the same status, under this subdivision, as directors. In re Lake Placid Co., 274 A.D. 205, 81 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3040 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

Corporate vice-president had the right to sign a notice of meeting for the election of directors and officers, where he had caused a letter to be addressed to the attorneys for the corporation demanding that a meeting of the stockholders be called. In re Petition of Shulman, 2 Misc. 2d 896, 151 N.Y.S.2d 819, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1984 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

Under the definition of "director" in this section as a person duly chosen or designated to manage the affairs of a corporation, the so-called "Spiritual Leader" of an incorporated society who is only an ex-officio member of the Board of Directors without right to vote or in any manner conduct business affairs of the organization, is not a director upon whom process may be served pursuant to § 228 subd 8 of the Civil Practice Act. Plainview Plumbing & Heating Co. v Ethical Culture Soc., 24 Misc. 2d 1005, 205 N.Y.S.2d 419, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2428 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

12. —Office of corporation

For purposes of judicial procedure the residence or domicile of a corporation is the seat of government, and it makes no difference where the administrative departments and physical property of the corporation happen to be located. Gould v Texas & P. R. Co., 176 A.D. 818, 163 N.Y.S. 479, 1917 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5154 (N.Y. App. Div. 1917).

The terms "principal place of business" and "principal office" are not synonymous and are not used synonymously in this section. Mason & Hanger Co. v Sharon, 231 F. 861, 1916 U.S. App. LEXIS 1721 (2d Cir. N.Y.), cert. denied, 241 U.S. 670, 36 S. Ct. 554, 60 L. Ed. 1230, 1916 U.S. LEXIS 1809 (U.S. 1916).

Corporations are residents of the county where the office of the company is located and its general business is carried on. Wienbroer v United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp., 299 F. 972, 1924 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1595 (D.N.Y. 1924).

Agency Opinions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former Gen Corp L § 3
3. —Public corporations
4. — —District corporations
5. — —Public benefit corporations
6. —Moneyed corporations
7. —Stock corporations

1. In general

A fire district is a public corporation and may hold title to real property. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 22 (Informal), 1974 N.Y. AG LEXIS 135.

The Auburn Industrial Development Authority is a "State agency" (as said term is defined in section 8-0105[1] of the Environmental Conservation Law, as amended by chapter 228 of the Laws of 1976) and was required to comply with the first step of the phased implementation of the State Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQR) on September 1, 1976. The Auburn Industrial Development Authority is not mandated to comply with the provisions of Executive Law, §§ 101-a and 102. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 15 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 174.

An employee or public officer of a school district receiving annual compensation in excess of one thousand dollars may not serve as a grand juror pursuant to Judiciary Law, § 664. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen June 14 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 93.

The term "political subdivision" as used in the Public Officers Law means the area from which an officer is selected and in the case of an elective officer, the area in which the people who elect him reside. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

An elected commissioner of Sanitary District No. 2 in the Town of Hempstead in the County of Nassau is a public officer of a political subdivision and not of a municipality; such a commissioner must be a resident of the sanitary district at the time of election; and if the sanitary district commissioner moves from that district to a new residence outside of the district, even though in the same town, the office becomes vacant under Public Officers Law § 30 subdivision 1 paragraph d. The provision of Public Officers Law § 30 subdivision 4-a, by its own terms, is confined in its operation to members of the department of sanitation of a municipality so it is not applicable to an officer of this political subdivision. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

Municipal Housing Authorities are public benefit corporations, and as such are required to procure suitable products from qualified and approved charitable non-profit-making agencies for the blind and other severely handicapped whenever such products are available. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 9 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 21.

Construction projects to improve privately owned property that are funded by the Federal government under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, and administered by the Yonkers Community Development Agency, are public works contracts within the meaning of section 554-a of the General Municipal Law and public improvements within the meaning of section 2 of the Lien Law. 1981 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 81-20, 1981 N.Y. AG LEXIS 140.

A commissioner of the Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority who also serves as corporation counsel for the City of Lockport, may not receive compensation for services rendered to the Authority. 1981 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 65, 1981 N.Y. AG LEXIS 130.

The possession and rehabilitation of wildlife, as well as the restoration of wildlife to their natural habitat, are governed exclusively by the Environmental Conservation Law. Agents or officers of an incorporated society for the prevention of cruelty to animals or other humane societies may not engage in such activities, except in accordance with the procedures set forth in that statute. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-78, 1982 N.Y. AG LEXIS 22.

A member of the board of education of a central school district is not disqualified under Judiciary Law, § 511(2) or (3) from serving as a juror. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83-40.

A central school district may not convey a building no longer needed for district purposes to a not-for-profit corporation for a nominal consideration. 1975 Op St Compt No. 75–1230.

The New York State Thruway Authority, being a "public benefit corporation", would come within section 103(6) of the General Municipal Law and, therefore, a town may purchase second-hand and surplus supplies, material or equipment from the Authority without competitive bidding. 1977 Op St Compt No. 77-238, 1977 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 151.

A joint garbage and refuse district created pursuant to L 1934, ch 787 may participate in a county self-insurance plan. 1984 Op St Compt No. 84-14, 1984 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 126.

Board of commissioners of fire district is public body subject to Open Meetings Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2282.

If entity is district corporation or public benefit corporation, it constitutes "public corporation" that falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law and Open Meetings Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2598.

Governing body of special district library—its Board of Trustees—constitutes public body required to comply with Open Meetings Law, since library functions as district corporation, which, according to CLS Gen Const § 66, is kind of public corporation. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3740.

Public corporations and public benefit corporations in New York are all governmental entities. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3903.

Board of Roosevelt Island Operating Corporation (RIOC) is public body required to comply with Open Meetings Law, since according to CLS Unconsol Ch 196 § 3, RIOC "shall be a body corporate and politic constituting a public benefit corporation and a political subdivision of the state of New York," and public benefit corporation is type of public corporation. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-4190.

2. Under former Gen Corp L § 3

A water district is not a municipality and therefore such water district within Westchester county must obtain approval of the water power and control commission in order to use water from a New York city reservoir within that county. 1927 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 186.

A water district subject to Town Law, Article 12 has no authority to contract indebtedness and, therefore, is not a public corporation as defined by General Corporation Law § 3. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 14 (Informal), 1959 N.Y. AG LEXIS 217.

By virtue of their fundamentally dissimilar purposes and powers, a cooperative corporation may not consolidate with a business corporation. 1961 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 47, 1961 N.Y. AG LEXIS 32.

A city may not legislate by charter provision, local law or otherwise, regarding the composition or functions of an urban renewal agency created by a special act of the State Legislature. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen July 1 (Informal), 1966 N.Y. AG LEXIS 91.

A fire district is not authorized to provide disability benefits coverage for its employees pursuant to the Workmen's Compensation Law. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 22 (Informal), 1967 N.Y. AG LEXIS 142.

3. —Public corporations

Counties, being municipal corporations, may lease properties owned by them and not devoted to public uses or purposes. 1945 Op St Compt No. 45–430.

4. — —District corporations

All real property owned by a school district, situated within a village, is subject to special ad valorem levies and special assessments of a fire district. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 22 (Informal), 1966 N.Y. AG LEXIS 106.

5. — —Public benefit corporations

The term "municipality" contained in Highway Law § 10 does not apply to the Erie County Water Authority which is a "public benefit corporation." 1955 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 215, 1955 N.Y. AG LEXIS 73.

6. —Moneyed corporations

A hospital service corporation formed pursuant to Membership Corporations Law as provided under the cited article of the Insurance Law is a moneyed corporation and may use the word "Insurance" as part of its corporate name. 1965 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 46, 1965 N.Y. AG LEXIS 35.

7. —Stock corporations

An educational corporation authorized to issue stock, in which holders share in surplus profits, is a stock corporation. 1910 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 548.

RESEARCH REFERENCES AND PRACTICE AIDS

Cross References:

This section referred to in CLS ECL § 15- 2103; CLS Exec Law §§ 20, 151; CLS Gen Mun Law §§ 78-a, 302; CLS N-PCL § 102; CLS Pub O Law §§ 97, 102.

Treatises

Matthew Bender's New York Civil Practice:

3 Rohan, New York Civil Practice: EPTL ¶ 5-4.1.

GENERAL MUNICIPAL LAW

Article

2.	General Municipal Finances
3.	Report of Financial Condition
4.	Negligence and Malfeasance of Public Officers; Taxpayers' Remedies
5.	Powers, Limitations and Liabilities
5-A.	Public Contracts
5-G.	Municipal Cooperation
6.	Public Health and Safety
9-A.	Local Option for Conduct of Games of Chance by Certain Organizations
10.	Firefighters and Police Officers
11-A.	Service Award Programs
11-AA.	Defined Contribution Service Award Programs for Volunteer Ambulance Workers
11-AAA.	Defined Benefit Service Award Program for Volunteer Ambulance Workers
11-AAAA.	Supplemental Service Awards for Volunteer Ambulance Workers and Firefighters
14-G.	Interlocal Agreements with Governmental Units of Other States
14-H.	Local Option for Conduct of Bingo by Certain Organizations
17.	Municipal Annexation Law
17-A.	Consolidation and Dissolution of Local Government
18.	Conflicts of Interest of Municipal Officers and Employees

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 29, eff Feb 17, 1909.

ARTICLE 2 General Municipal Finances

Section

3-c.	Limit upon real property tax levies by local governments
5-a.	Electronic or wire transfers
5-b.	Collection of fines, civil penalties, rent, rates, taxes, fees, charges and other amounts via the internet
6-d.	Repair reserve funds for municipal corporations, school districts, district corporations and improvement districts
6-e.	Contingency and tax stabilization reserve fund for municipal corporations
6-f.	Snow and ice removal and road repair reserve funds for municipal corporations
6-g.	Capital reserve funds for fire districts
6-h.	Reserve fund for payment of bonded indebtedness in counties, cities, villages, towns and fire districts
6-l.	Mandatory reserve fund for municipal corporations, fire districts and school districts
6-n.	Insurance reserve fund.
6-r.	Retirement contribution reserve funds
10.	Deposits of public money; security
11.	Temporary investments.
12.	Deposits of public authorities, public benefit corporations and other corporations
22.	Claims against fire insurance proceeds; procedure

HISTORY:
Add, L 1909, ch 29, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 3-c. Limit upon real property tax levies by local governments.

1. Unless otherwise provided by law, the amount of real property taxes that may be levied by or on behalf of any local government, other than the city of New York and the counties contained therein, shall not exceed the tax levy limit established pursuant to this section.

2. When used in this section:

(a) "Allowable levy growth factor" shall be the lesser of: (i) one and two one-hundredths; or (ii) the sum of one plus the inflation factor; provided, however, that in no case shall the levy growth factor be less than one.

(b) "Available carryover" means the amount by which the tax levy for the prior fiscal year was below the tax levy limit for such fiscal year, if any, but no more than an amount that equals one and one-half percent of the tax levy limit for such fiscal year.

(c) "Coming fiscal year" means the fiscal year of the local government for which a tax levy limit shall be determined pursuant to this section.

(d) "Inflation factor" means the quotient of: (i) the average of the national consumer price indexes determined by the United States department of labor for the twelve-month period ending six months prior to the start of the coming fiscal year minus the average of the national consumer price indexes determined by the United States department of labor for the twelve-month period ending six months prior to the start of the prior fiscal year, divided by: (ii) the average of the national consumer price indexes determined by the United States department of labor for the twelve-month period ending six months prior to the start of the prior fiscal year, with the result expressed as a decimal to four places.

(e) "Local government" means a county, city, town, village, fire district, or special district including but not limited to a district created pursuant to article twelve or twelve-A, or governed by article thirteen of the town law, or created pursuant to article five-A, five-B or five-D of the county law, chapter five hundred sixteen of the laws of nineteen hundred twenty-eight, or chapter two hundred seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred thirty-nine, and shall include town improvements provided pursuant to articles three-A and twelve-C of the town law but shall not include the city of New York or the counties contained therein.

(f) "Prior fiscal year" means the fiscal year of the local government immediately preceding the coming fiscal year.

(g) "Tax levy limit" means the amount of taxes authorized to be levied by or on behalf of a local government pursuant to this section, provided, however, that the tax levy limit shall not include the following:

(i) a tax levy necessary for expenditures resulting from court orders or judgments against the local government arising out of tort actions for any amount that exceeds five percent of the total tax levied in the prior fiscal year;

(ii) in years in which the system average actuarial contribution rate of the New York state and local employees' retirement system, as defined by paragraph ten of subdivision a of section nineteen-a of the retirement and social security law, increases by more than two percentage points from the previous year, a tax levy necessary for expenditures for the coming fiscal year for local government employer contributions to the New York state and local employees' retirement system caused by growth in the system average actuarial contribution rate minus two percentage points;

(iii) in years in which the system average actuarial contribution rate of the New York state and local police and fire retirement system, as defined by paragraph eleven of subdivision a of section three hundred nineteen-a of the retirement and social security law, increases by more than two percentage points from the previous year, a tax levy necessary for expenditures for the coming fiscal year for local government employer contributions to the New York state and local police and fire retirement system caused by growth in the system average actuarial contribution rate minus two percentage points;

(iv) in years in which the normal contribution rate of the New York state teachers' retirement system, as defined by paragraph a of subdivision two of section five hundred seventeen of the education law, increases by more than two percentage points from the previous year, a tax levy necessary for expenditures for the coming fiscal year for local government employer contributions to the New York state teachers' retirement system caused by growth in the normal contribution rate minus two percentage points.

(h) "Tax" or "taxes" shall include (i) a charge imposed upon real property by or on behalf of a county, city, town, village or school district for municipal or school district purposes, and (ii) special ad valorem levies and special assessments as defined in subdivisions fourteen and fifteen of section one hundred two of the real property tax law.

3. (a) Subject to the provisions of subdivision five of this section, beginning with the fiscal year that begins in two thousand twelve, no local government shall adopt a budget that requires a tax levy that is greater than the tax levy limit for the coming fiscal year. Provided however the tax levy limit shall not prohibit a levy necessary to support the expenditures pursuant to subparagraphs (i) through (iv) of paragraph (g) of subdivision two of this section.

(b) (i) The commissioner of taxation and finance shall calculate a quantity change factor for each local government for the coming fiscal year based upon the physical or quantity change, as defined by section twelve hundred twenty of the real property tax law, reported to the commissioner of taxation and finance by the assessor or assessors pursuant to section five hundred seventy-five of the real property tax law. The quantity change factor shall show the percentage by which the full value of the taxable real property in the local government has changed due to physical or quantity change between the second final assessment roll or rolls preceding the final assessment roll or rolls upon which taxes are to be levied, and the final assessment roll or rolls immediately preceding the final assessment roll or rolls upon which taxes are to be levied. The commissioner of taxation and finance shall, as appropriate, promulgate rules and regulations regarding the calculation of the quantity change factor which may adjust the calculation based on the development on tax exempt land.

(ii) After determining the quantity change factor for the local government, the commissioner of taxation and finance shall proceed as follows:

(A) If the quantity change factor is negative, the commissioner of taxation and finance shall not determine a tax base growth factor for the local government.

(B) If the quantity change factor is positive, the commissioner of taxation and finance shall determine a tax base growth factor for the local government which is equal to one plus the quantity change factor.

(iii) The commissioner of taxation and finance shall notify the state comptroller and each local government of the applicable tax base growth factors, if any, as soon thereafter as such factors are determined.

(c) Each local government shall calculate the tax levy limit applicable to the coming fiscal year which shall be determined as follows:

(i) Ascertain the total amount of taxes levied for the prior fiscal year.

(ii) Multiply the result by the tax base growth factor, calculated pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subdivision, if any.

(iii) Add any payments in lieu of taxes that were receivable in the prior fiscal year.

(iv) Subtract the tax levy necessary to support expenditures pursuant to subparagraph (i) of paragraph (g) of subdivision two of this section for the prior fiscal year, if any.

(v) Multiply the result by the allowable levy growth factor.

(vi) Subtract any payments in lieu of taxes receivable in the coming fiscal year.

(vii) Add the available carryover, if any.

(d) Whenever the responsibility and associated cost of a local government function is transferred to another local government, the state comptroller shall determine the costs and savings on the affected local governments attributable to such transfer for the first fiscal year following the transfer, and notify such local governments of such determination and that they shall adjust their tax levy limits accordingly.

4. (a) When two or more local governments consolidate, the state comptroller shall determine the tax levy limit for the consolidated local government for the first fiscal year following the consolidation based on the respective tax levy limits of the component local governments that formed such consolidated local government from the last fiscal year prior to the consolidation.

(b) When a local government dissolves, the state comptroller shall determine the tax levy limit for the local government that assumes the debts, liabilities, and obligations of such dissolved local government for the first fiscal year following the dissolution based on the respective tax levy limits of such dissolved local government and such local government that assumes the debts, liabilities, and obligations of such dissolved local government from the last fiscal year prior to the dissolution.

(c) The tax levy limit established by this section shall not apply to the first fiscal year after a local government is newly established or constituted through a process other than consolidation or dissolution.

5. A local government may adopt a budget that requires a tax levy that is greater than the tax levy limit for the coming fiscal year, not including any levy necessary to support the expenditures pursuant to subparagraphs (i) through (iv) of paragraph g of subdivision two of this section, only if the governing body of such local government first enacts, by a vote of sixty percent of the total voting power of such body, a local law to override such limit for such coming fiscal year only, or in the case of a district or fire district, a resolution, approved by a vote of sixty percent of the total voting power of such body, to override such limit for such coming fiscal year only.

6. In the event a local government's actual tax levy for a given fiscal year exceeds the tax levy limit as established pursuant to this section due to clerical or technical errors, the local government shall place the excess amount of the levy in reserve in accordance with such requirements as the state comptroller may prescribe, and shall use such funds and any interest earned thereon to offset the tax levy for the ensuing fiscal year. If, upon examination pursuant to sections thirty-three and thirty-four of this chapter, the state comptroller finds that a local government levied taxes in excess of the applicable tax levy limit, the local government, as soon as practicable, shall place an amount equal to the excess amount of the levy in such reserve in accordance with this subdivision.

7. All local governments subject to the provisions of this section shall, prior to adopting a budget for the coming fiscal year, submit to the state comptroller, in a form and manner as he or she may prescribe, any information necessary for calculating the tax levy limit for the coming fiscal year.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2011, ch 97, § 1 (Part A), eff June 24, 2011; L 2015, ch 20, § 2 (Part C, Subpart C), effective June 26, 2015.

Prior Law: § 3-c, add, L 1940, ch 592, § 1; repealed, L 1943, ch 712, § 3, eff Sept 2, 1945, with substance covered by Local Finance Law § 122.00.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2011, ch 97, § 13 (Part A), eff June 24, 2011, provides as follows:

§ 13. This act shall take effect immediately (Amd, L 2015, ch 20, § 18 (Part A), eff June 26, 2015; L 2019, ch 59, §1 (Part NNN), eff April 12, 2019).

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 20, § 2 (Part C, Subpart C), added the last sentence of 3(b)(i).

§ 5-a. Electronic or wire transfers

1. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, whenever an officer of a local government, as that term is defined in section ten of this article, is authorized or directed pursuant to law to disburse or transfer on behalf of the local government funds in the custody of the officer, that officer shall be authorized to disburse or transfer such funds by means of electronic or wire transfer. Such disbursement shall be otherwise subject to applicable laws, provided that:

(a) the governing board of the local government has entered into a written agreement with the bank or trust company in which such funds have been deposited, prescribing the manner in which electronic or wire transfer of such funds shall be accomplished, identifying by number and name those accounts from which electronic or wire transfers may be made, identifying which officer or officers are authorized to order the electronic or wire transfer of funds from those accounts, and implementing a security procedure as defined in section 4-A-201 of the uniform commercial code; and

(b) the bank or trust company processing the transfer shall provide to the officer ordering the electronic or wire transfer of funds written confirmation of each such transaction no later than the business day following the day on which the funds are transmitted.

2. It shall be the duty of the governing board of the local government to adopt a system of internal controls for the documentation and reporting of all transfers or disbursements of funds accomplished by electronic or wire transfer.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1996, ch 140, § 14, eff June 11, 1996; amd, L 1998, ch 469, § 9, eff July 22, 1998.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1996, ch 140, § 24, eff June 11, 1996, provides as follows:

§ 24. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to all budgets which are adopted after the date on which it shall have become a law.

Prior Law: Former § 5–a, add, L 1939, ch 221, § 1; repealed, L 1943, ch 712, § 3, eff Sept 2, 1945, with substance covered by Local Finance Law § 23.00, 53.00 and 100.00.

§ 5-b. Collection of fines, civil penalties, rent, rates, taxes, fees, charges and other amounts via the internet

1. The governing board of any local government, as that term is defined in section ten of this article, may, by local law, ordinance or resolution, determine that it is in the public interest and authorize such local government to provide for the acceptance of penalties, rents, rates, taxes, fees, charges, revenue, financial obligations or other amounts, including penalties, special assessments or interest via a municipal internet website or the website of a third-party vendor that has contracted with the local government to receive such payments on its behalf. Submission via the internet may not, however, be required as the sole method for the collection of fines, civil penalties, rent, rates, taxes, fees, charges and other amounts. Such payments shall be accepted via the internet in a manner and condition defined by such local government. Any method used to receive internet payments shall comply with article three of the state technology law and any rules and regulations promulgated and guidelines developed thereunder and, at a minimum must (a) authenticate the identity of the sender; and (b) ensure the security of the information transmitted.

2. Any local government authorizing the payment of taxes via the internet shall provide or direct its vendor to provide a confirmation page to the taxpayer following the completion of the internet transaction. Such confirmation page shall include, at least, the following:

(a) the date the internet transaction was completed and sent by the taxpayer;

(b) the amount paid;

(c) a unique confirmation number; and

(d) a notice advising the taxpayer to print out and retain the confirmation page as his or her receipt.

3. Payments received via the internet shall be considered received by the appropriate officer and paid by the taxpayer at the time the internet transaction is completed and sent by the taxpayer.

4. The underlying debt, lien, obligation, bill, account or other amount owed to the local government for which payment by internet is accepted by the local government shall not be expunged, cancelled, released, discharged or satisfied, and any receipt or other evidence of payment shall be deemed conditional, until the local government has received final and unconditional payment of the full amount due.

5. The governing board, in enacting a local law, ordinance or resolution pursuant to this section, shall designate which of its officers, charged with the duty of collecting or receiving moneys on behalf of the local government, shall be authorized to accept such payments via the internet.

6. The state comptroller shall issue such guidelines as he or she deems appropriate governing the use of third-party vendors for this purpose. Any local government contracting with a third-party vendor for this purpose shall follow the guidelines issued by the state comptroller.

HISTORY:

Add, L 2003, ch 62, § 10 (Part X), eff May 15, 2003; amd, L 2005, ch 741, § 3, eff Oct 18, 2005; L 2011, ch 61, § 10 (Part U), eff March 31, 2011.

Prior Law: Former § 5-b, add, L 1939, ch 442, § 1; repealed, L 1943, ch 712, § 3, eff Sept 2, 1945, with substance covered by Local Finance Law §§ 25.00, 53.00 and 100.00.

Amendment Notes: 2011. Chapter 61, § 10 (Part U) amended:

Sub 1, by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, opening par by adding the matter in italics.

Sub 2, par (a) by deleting at fig 1 "and".

By redesignating former sub 2, par (b) as sub 2, par (d).

By adding sub 2, par (b).

By adding sub 2, par (c).

Sub 2, par (d) by deleting at fig 1 "to" and adding the matter in italics.

By adding sub 6.

§ 6-d. Repair reserve funds for municipal corporations, school districts, district corporations and improvement districts

1. The governing board of any municipal corporation, school district, district corporation, or town or county improvement district, may establish a special fund which shall be known as the repair reserve fund of such municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district. There may be paid into such fund an amount as may be provided therefor by budgetary appropriation or such revenues as are not required by law to be paid into any other fund or account.

2. In cases of emergency, moneys in such fund may be expended pursuant to a resolution approved by not less than two-thirds of the members of the governing body of such municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district providing that not less than one-half of the moneys so expended shall be repaid in the fiscal year immediately following the fiscal year in which such moneys were expended and the total amount shall be repaid not later than the last day of the second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which the moneys were expended.

Prior to the adoption of any other resolution, act, ordinance or local law by the governing board of such municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district, appropriating money from such fund, the governing board shall cause to be published in the official newspaper or newspapers, if any, or otherwise in a newspaper or newspapers designated for such purpose, a notice stating in substance that it is proposed to appropriate a specified amount from the repair reserve fund for a particular purpose, and that a public hearing on such proposed appropriation will be held at a time and place stated therein. At least five days shall elapse between the publication of such notice and the date specified for the hearing. The hearing shall be held at the time and place so specified.

3. Moneys in such fund may be appropriated only:

a. For repairs of capital improvements or equipment, which repairs are of a type not recurring annually or at shorter intervals.

b. In the case of a municipal corporation, to a capital reserve fund established pursuant to section six-c of this article or to a contingency and tax stabilization reserve fund established pursuant to section six-e of this article.

c. In the case of a fire district, to a capital reserve fund established pursuant to section six-g.

d. In the case of a school district, to a reserve fund established pursuant to section thirty-six hundred fifty-one of the education law.

4. The moneys in such fund shall be deposited and secured in the manner provided by section ten of this article. The moneys in such fund so deposited shall be accounted for separate and apart from all other funds of the municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district, in the same manner as provided in subdivision ten of section six-c of this article. The governing board or the chief fiscal officer of such municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district, if the governing board shall delegate such duty to him, may invest the moneys in such fund in the manner provided in section eleven of this article. Any interest earned or capital gains realized on the moneys so deposited or invested shall accrue to and become part of such fund.

5. The members of the governing board of such municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district are hereby declared trustees of such fund and shall be subject to all the duties and responsibilities imposed by law on trustees, and such duties and responsibilities may be enforced by such municipal corporation, school district, district corporation or improvement district, as the case may be, or by any board, commission, agency, officer or taxpayer thereof.

6. The members of the governing board of such municipal corporation, school district or district corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if they:

a. Authorize a withdrawal from a repair reserve fund for any other purpose except as provided in this section.

b. Expend any money withdrawn from a repair reserve fund for a purpose other than that as provided in this section.

7. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, in any town which is located wholly or partly within the Adirondack park and has within its boundaries state lands subject to taxation assessed at more than thirty per centum of the total taxable assessed valuation of town as determined from the assessment rolls of the town as completed from time to time, or in any district corporation or improvement district situated in whole or in part in any such town, a repair reserve fund shall not be established unless the state comptroller, on behalf of the state, shall consent thereto, and in any such town or district corporation or improvement district no appropriation shall be made from a repair reserve fund unless the state comptroller, on behalf of the state, shall consent thereto.

8. Moneys of a municipal corporation, school district or district corporation which, upon June thirtieth, nineteen hundred fifty, constitute a repair reserve fund of such municipal corporation, school district or district corporation, shall continue to so constitute a special fund and be known as the repair reserve fund of such municipal corporation, school district or district corporation. From and after such date, payments to, and appropriations from, such fund shall be subject to the foregoing provisions of this section.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1950, ch 383, § 1, eff July 1, 1950; amd, L 1952, ch 693, § 1, eff April 14, 1952; L 1957, ch 740, § 1, eff April 19, 1957; L 1961, ch 828, § 1, eff April 22, 1961; L 1992, ch 708, § 2; L 1996, ch 140, § 5, eff June 11, 1996 (see 1996 note below),6, eff June 11, 1996 (see 1996 note below); L 2001, ch 424, § 2, eff Oct 31, 2001.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1996, ch 140, § 24, eff June 11, 1996, provides as follows:

§ 24. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to all budgets which are adopted after the date on which it shall have become a law.

Prior Law: Former § 6–d, add, L 1943, ch 542, § 6; amd, L 1946, ch 524, § 2; repealed, L 1950, ch 383, eff July 1, 1950.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. In general
2. Government bodies authorized to establish fund
3. Moneys constituting fund; surpluses
4. Use of funds; fire district purposes
5. —Highways
6. —Investment
7. —Miscellaneous uses
8. Procedure; establishment of fund; public hearing
9. —Issuance of bonds
10. —Separate bank account for fund
11. Violations

1. In general

The Repair Reserve Fund established in reliance upon General Municipal Law, § 6-d is created for use in cases of emergency and may be expended only for special purposes upon special resolution following a public hearing, and provided that repayment thereof is made within the two ensuing fiscal years. Among the limited permitted purposes are repairs of capital improvements or equipment, which repairs are of a type not recurring annually. Sweeney v Farrington, 38 Misc. 2d 882, 239 N.Y.S.2d 254, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2156 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

The "Repair Reserve Fund" contemplated by this section is created only for use in cases of emergency and expenditures can be made from it only upon special resolution following a public hearing with repayment to be made within two ensuing fiscal years; it does not permit any expenditures for repairs or improvements which are not of a type recurring annually. Sweeney v Farrington, 38 Misc. 2d 882, 239 N.Y.S.2d 254, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2156 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Moneys in repair reserve fund may be appropriated to duly authorized capital reserve fund; moneys in capital reserve fund may be expended to debt service on obligations only as authorized by CLS Gen Mun Law § 6-c (9-a). Ops St Compt 89-25.

Where all moneys in repair reserve fund have been expended and town board has determined that there is no longer need for such fund, fund may be abolished by board resolution; however, where moneys remain in fund, those moneys must be appropriated pursuant to subdivision 3 of CLS Gen Mun § 6-d before fund may be abolished. Ops St Compt 88-51.

2. Government bodies authorized to establish fund

The South Farmingdale Water District may establish a repair reserve fund but may not establish a capital reserve fund. 1982 St Compt File #82-230.

School district located within Adirondack Park may establish repair reserve fund pursuant to CLS Gen Mun Law § 6-d without prior consent of Office of State Comptroller. Ops St Compt 89-8.

A town board may establish a capital reserve fund and repair reserve fund. It may deposit surplus moneys of a public general hospital in such funds, and may authorize the investment of moneys in such funds. 1956 Ops St Compt File #8207.

3. Moneys constituting fund; surpluses

An unexpended village balance may be used to reduce levy or establish reserve funds pursuant to Sections 6-c, 6-d and 6-e of the General Municipal Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 125.

Fire district may establish by means of surplus money a repair reserve fund. 1947 Ops St Compt 465.

Unexpended balances of appropriations in the current fiscal year or surplus funds may be transferred to a fire district capital reserve fund or repair reserve fund. 1954 Ops St Compt File #6773.

A town board may establish a capital reserve fund and repair reserve fund. It may deposit surplus moneys of a public general hospital in such funds, and may authorize the investment of moneys in such funds. 1956 Ops St Compt File #8207.

4. Use of funds; fire district purposes

