Revision Notes: [1944 Revision] Par a, subds 11, 12. These subdivisions referred to class "A," "B" and "C" buildings but failed to define what was meant by such letter designations. The 1944 amendments clarified the intent of the use of the descriptive letters.

Subd 29(c). This amendment was suggested so as to leave no question that the proceeds of bond anticipation notes can be used for the payment of the judgments, claims, awards or sums referred to in item (c).

Pars b and c. The use of the words "capital improvement or equipment" in these paragraphs was broadened by the use of the words "object or purpose."

[1945 Revision] Par a. The insertion of several new periods of usefulness in this paragraph, and the elimination of hyphenated subdivision numbers, has necessitated renumbering the subdivisions. In the opening paragraph of paragraph a there has been inserted a provision that preliminary costs in connection with a capital improvement shall be deemed part of the cost of the object or purpose in connection with which they are incurred. A new subdivision 3 has been added, providing a period of usefulness for waterway improvement and drainage, at the request of the Department of Conservation. Amendments to former subdivisions 13 and 14 (now numbered 14 and 17) and new subdivisions 15, 16 and 18 provide periods of usefulness for airport improvements in accordance with the wishes of the New York City administration, these changes involving the repeal of similar provisions in the General Municipal Law, as amended and added by L, 1944, ch 532. A new subdivision 22 provides a period of usefulness for dredging and construction of dikes and bulkheads, deemed necessary to cover navigation improvements not within the jurisdiction of the Department of Conservation. An amendment to subdivision 26 (renumbered subdivision 30) provides that the purchase and installation of a water meter, in connection with the original construction of a water system, shall have the same period of usefulness as the system itself. In a new subdivision 38 a period of usefulness is provided for the financing of a county which is obliged to change its fiscal year upon the adoption of a uniform budget system.

[1949 Revision] This act [L 1949, ch 614], which relates only to New York City, was required by the 1949 amendment to § 2 of art 8 of the Constitution. This act conformed the local finance law to the 1949 amendment, which reduced the maximum period for which the city might issue bonds for dock and rapid transit purposes, from fifty years to forty years after nineteen hundred forty-nine.

[1956] (Paragraph a, sub 41) This act permits municipalities to take advantage of the exclusion provisions of the Local Finance Law in relating to local indebtedness when the same is incurred in connection with limited profit housing and is self-liquidating in nature.

[1957] Introduced at request of the Joint Legislative Committee to Study the New York State Employees' Retirement System.

[1959] (Par a, sub 41)] This act made possible lower rents in projects financed by municipal guarantees by excluding the period of lower cost temporary financing from the life of permanent financing bonds. Housing authority bonds guaranteed by a municipality were thus placed on the same basis as those issued for federally-aided and state-aided projects.

[1959, ch 269 (Par a, sub 61)] This act was recommended be the Joint Legislative Committee on Winter Tourists, to enable municipalities to finance expensive skiing developments. Most such municipalities could not be expected to retire large bond issues in the ten years prescribed by former law for parks and recreational areas.

[1961] This act comprised part of Governor Rockefeller's urban renewal program legislation and was developed by means of close co-ordination between the New York State Division of Housing, the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing and the Department of Audit and Control. It was designed to conform and harmonize the provisions of the Local Finance Law with the omnibus revision of the General Municipal Law relating to urban renewal. In particular, it would accelerate the progress of urban renewal programs in municipalities by facilitating the temporary financing of the cost of such programs and by clarifying the ability of municipalities to finance separately identifiable capital improvements for urban renewal areas within the periods of probable usefulness for such objects or purposes.

Laws 1945, ch 318, eff March 28, 1945, amending L 1943, ch 696, § 5 (also amended by L 1944, ch 594), provides: "§ 5. Sections one and two of this act [creating new Gen. Mun. Law, § 5-c and § 8-b, subd. 27] shall take effect immediately [Apr 22, 1943]. Sections three and four of this act [creating new Local Finance Law, § 11.00, par. a, subd. 39 and repealing Gen. Mun. Law, § 5-c as added by L 1943, ch 6961] shall take effect September first, nineteen hundred forty-five."

Laws 1953, ch 445, § 2 provides: The repeal by this act of the period of probable usefulness of the repairing of a highway, road, street, parkway or parking area shall not affect any resolution authorizing the issuance of bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes adopted prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty-three, for any such purpose; and bonds and capital notes may be executed, issued and sold for any such purpose pursuant to any such resolution after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred fifty-three. Such repeal shall not affect the power of any political subdivision to exclude from the tax limitation imposed by section ten of article eight of the state constitution the amount of any direct budgetary appropriation for any such repairs or the amount of any appropriation for the redemption of capital notes issued for such purpose, provided such appropriations were made before July first, nineteen hundred fifty-three, and, for the purpose of any such exclusion, such repairing shall continue to have the present period of probable usefulness during the fiscal year for which any such appropriation was made. Such repeal shall not extinguish any indebtedness created pursuant to section 122.00 of this chapter.

Laws 1957, ch 1051, § 4, provides: "This act shall take effect immediately and shall control notwithstanding any inconsistent general, special or local law."

Laws 1968, ch 1089, § 12, provides:

§ 12. Severability. If any clause, sentence, paragraph, section or part of this act shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid or unconstitutional, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, section or part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered.

Laws 1969, ch 183, § 10, eff July 1, 1969, provides:

§ 10. Notwithstanding any other provision of law and pursuant to the provisions of section 11.00 of the local finance law, the employer's share of the cost of current coverage and contribution to the New York State Employees' Retirement System, the New York State Teachers Retirement System and to the social security fund of the New York State Social Security Agency by any school district which is coterminous with or partly within or wholly within, a city having less than one hundred twenty-five thousand inhabitants according to the latest federal census, shall have a period of probable usefulness of three years and the taxes required to meet the cost of such coverage and contributions, shall be excluded from the tax limitations prescribed by section ten of article eight of the constitution. The provisions of this section shall apply for the period beginning July first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine and ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-five (amended L 1972, ch 553).

Laws 1970, ch 923, § 1, provides:

Section 1. Through an error in the determination of items properly excludable in computing the constitutionally permissible tax levy in its nineteen hundred seventy calendar fiscal budget, the city of Yonkers, without the authorization hereinafter provided, will suffer a substantial loss of state aid with grave consequenences to the welfare of the residents of said city.

Laws 1973, ch 587, § 11, § 1, provides:

§ 11. Notwithstanding any other provision of law and pursuant to the provisions of section 11.00 of the local finance law, the employer's share of the cost of current health and dental insurance coverage and payments made to a board of cooperative educational services for payment to the dormitory authority for the cost of acquiring and constructing a school facility by any school district which is coterminous with or partly within or wholly within, a city having less than one hundred twenty-five thousand inhabitants according to the latest federal census, shall have a period of probable usefulness of three years and the taxes required to meet the cost of such coverage and contributions, shall be excluded from the tax limitations prescribed by section ten of article eight of the constitution. The provisions of this section shall apply for the period beginning July first, nineteen hundred seventy-three and ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-nine (amended L 1976, ch 484, § 1).

Laws 1973, ch 890, § 2, provides:

§ 2. The city of New York may enter into contracts with any bank or trust company organized under the laws of the state of New York or national banking association doing business in the state of New York or any person, firm or corporation under which amounts required to be paid by such city in each of three or more consecutive fiscal years of such city to the New York state housing finance agency pursuant to any lease, sublease or other agreement with respect to a health facility constructed, acquired, reconstructed, rehabilitated or improved by the health and mental hygiene facilities improvement corporation are paid in advance to and held by such bank or trust company, person, firm or corporation for payment to such agency.

Laws 1973, ch 898, § 2, provides:

§ 2. The city of New York may enter into contracts with any bank or trust company organized under the laws of the state of New York or national banking association doing business in the state of New York or any person, firm or corporation under which amounts required to be paid in each of three or more consecutive fiscal years of such city to the lessor or sublessor of any real property leased or subleased for any public or municipal purpose are paid in advance to and held by such bank or trust company, person, firm or corporation for payment to such lessor or sublessor (amended L 1974, ch 688, § 2).

Laws 1980, ch 552, § 28, provides:

§ 28. Separability. If any provision of this act or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of this act or the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Laws 1980, ch 719, § 2, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately and the provisions of section one of this act shall remain in force and effect to and including June 15, 2023 (Amd, L 1985, ch 192, § 1, eff June 11, 1985; L 1992, ch 176, § 1, eff June 16, 1992; L 1997, ch 193, § 1, eff July 8, 1997; L 2003, ch 83, § 1, eff June 24, 2003; L 2008, ch 122, § 1, eff June 30, 2008; L 2013, ch 77, § 1, eff June 30, 2013; L 2018, ch 87, § 1, eff July 1, 2018).

Laws 1981, ch 850, § 7, added a sub 82 to par a of § 11.00 (first setout of sub 82 appearing in the parent volume), providing for the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation and improvement of a correctional facility, contingent upon passage of a bond issue at the general election in 1981. That bond issue was not approved and par a, sub 82 (first setout), as so enacted never became law.

Laws 1986, ch 220, §§ 1, 33, eff June 28, 1986, applicable to contracts in force and effect on and amended, executed, modified, renewed or altered on June 28, 1986, provide:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The legislature hereby finds, and declares that the state is in the midst of an insurance crisis which affects all aspects of the public and private sectors. Day care centers, not-for-profit organizations, volunteer groups, businesses, governmental entities, housing and transit authorities, professionals and others have experienced sudden and inexplicable cancellations and nonrenewals of their liability insurance policies with little, if any, notice. In other cases, policyholders and the public have been confronted by skyrocketing premiums or reductions in coverage. These events have disastrous effects on a multitude of public entities, groups and individuals, and threaten to undermine economic development and the delivery of essential and necessary services to residents, consumers and businesses throughout New York state. Because critical coverages have become unavailable or unaffordable, a comprehensive, balanced approach is imperative to provide stability and safeguard the public interest.

The legislature further finds and declares that, by the enactment of the provisions of this act, it is the intent of the legislature to fulfill its constitutional obligation to provide for the health, safety and welfare of the people of this state. It is imperative that this state provide stability, security and certainty for commercial risk, public entity and professional liability insurance policyholders and the public at-large by the enactment of this act.

This act is intended to alleviate the problems of unaffordability and unavailability of such insurance, to provide for increased security of rates and rating procedures, and to provide for increased disclosure and knowledge of insurance company financial practices, by, among other measures:

(a) establishing a flexible rating system, with prior approval of rate changes beyond flexibility bands, for certain liability insurance;.

(b) preventing unwarranted mid-term cancellations and affording policyholders minimum notice of nonrenewal of policies, reductions in coverage and premium increases;.

(c) allowing New York counties, towns, cities, villages, district corporations, school districts and boards of cooperative educational services to organize and subscribe to statewide municipal reciprocal insurers;.

(d) authorizing the issuance of property/casualty insurance policies on a group basis for public entities and not-for-profit organizations;.

(e) establishing stand-by joint underwriting authority by expanding the powers of the New York property insurance underwriting association;.

(f) instituting qualified immunity for uncompensated officers and directors of not-for-profit organizations;.

(g) increasing capacity by expediting access to alternative voluntary markets where appropriate;.

(h) providing for annual reports to the governor and legislature of insurance company rating and financial practices;.

(i) authorizing costs upon frivolous claims and counterclaims; and.

(j) authorizing the admissibility of recovery from collateral sources.

§ 33. A commercial risk policy insuring any municipality, school district or board of cooperative educational services (as defined in section 2.00 of the local finance law) which expires during the period commencing with the effective date of this act, and ending on the ninetieth day after such effective date, shall remain in full force and effect unless, at least sixty days prior to expiration of the policy, a written notice is mailed or delivered to the first-named insured at the mailing address shown on the policy and to the insured's authorized agent or broker indicating the insurer's intent not to renew the policy. If timely notice is not provided, coverage shall remain in effect at the prior policy's terms and conditions until sixty days after such notice is provided. The rates for any period that extends beyond the expiration date shall be determined pro rata based upon the current rates for a renewal policy.

Laws 1987, ch 348, § 2, eff Sept 21, 1987, provides:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the sixtieth day next succeeding the day on which it shall have become a law and shall apply to judgments, claims, awards and determinations occurring on or after such effective date.

Laws 1989, ch 62, § 101(f), eff April 19, 1989, provides as follows:

(f) Sections eighty-eight through ninety-five of this act shall apply to pension contributions by participating employers to the New York state and local employees' retirement system, the New York state and local police and fire retirement system and the New York state public employees' group life insurance plan, as appropriate, for periods of service beginning after March 31, 1987. The provisions of sections ninety and ninety-three of this act shall be deemed to fulfill the requirements of sections 17 and 317 of the retirement and social security law as they applied, after March 31, 1987, and prior to the effective date of this act, to contributions by participating employers to the retirement systems and the New York state public employees' group life insurance plan, as appropriate, for obligations incurred in fiscal years ending March 31, 1988 and March 31, 1989.

Laws 1989, ch 95, § 8, eff May 22, 1989, provides as follows:

§ 8. This act shall take effect immediately, and shall be deemed to have been in effect on and after July 1, 1988, provided that the provisions of section seven of this act shall take effect January 1, 1994 and shall apply to indebtedness contracted for on or after such date. (Amd, L 1989, ch 547, § 1, eff July 16, 1989).

Laws 1990, ch 175, §§ 2 and 5, eff May 21, 1990, provide as follows:

§ 2. Nothing contained in this act shall in any way impair or limit the constitutional, statutory or contractual authority of the retirement board to determine the amount of contributions required to fund the liabilities of the retirement system including any and all actuarial or other assumptions pertaining thereto, and to collect such contributions. The obligation to pay such contributions as determined by the retirement board shall constitute a contract and the rights of the New York state teachers' retirement system thereunder shall not be impaired in any way whatsoever.

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately, provided that the provisions of paragraphs h, i, k, l and m of subdivision 2 of section 521 of the education law as added by section one of this act and sections two and three thereof shall not be applicable until the retirement board adopts an eight per centum valuation rate of interest in the manner authorized in paragraph j of subdivision 2 of such section 521.

Laws 1993, ch 475, § 1, eff July 26, 1993, provides as follows:

Section 1. The remediation of hazardous waste sites in the city of Utica, Oneida county, pursuant to a consent agreement entered into with a federal or state governmental agency or authority is hereby determined to constitute a public purpose of the city.

Laws 1995, ch 570, § 2, eff Aug 8, 1995, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to indebtedness contracted for on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred ninety-four.

Laws 1996, ch 482, § 1, eff Aug 8, 1996, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature finds and declares that it is in the public interest to permit school districts which have determined to amortize their retirement contributions due and payable to the New York state teachers' retirement system in accordance with chapter 175 of the laws of 1990 to exercise their option to pre-pay the contributions and refinance the debt through the issuance of bonds without a referendum where such refinancing would result in cost savings to the school district and its taxpayers. The legislature further finds and declares that because the school district in such circumstance has already incurred the debt and determined to amortize and pay the contributions in annual installments without having to conduct a referendum, it would be unnecessary and wasteful for a school district and its taxpayers to bear the expense of a referendum upon refinancing of the debt.

Laws 1996, ch 680, § 1, eff Sept 27, 1996, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and declaration of purpose. The urban development action area act (the "act") has been instrumental in enabling municipalities to undertake and assist the rehabilitation and construction of private and multiple dwellings and to eliminate the substandard, insanitary, deteriorated or deteriorating housing conditions that contributed to the existence of slum or blighted areas. However, certain residential areas that have received substantial public and private assistance in furtherance of the policy and purposes of the act and pursuant to the rights and powers granted by the act lack the commercial and community facilities necessary for their stability, safety and vitality.

In order to further the policy and purposes of the urban development action area act and to facilitate a comprehensive revitalization of areas in which a substantial public and private investment in residential redevelopment has already occurred, it is necessary to authorize a department of housing preservation and development in a city having a population of one million or more, to make or contract to make mortgage loans or to participate with another lender in the making of mortgage loans for the development of neighborhood improvement projects, including commercial and community facilities, in urban development action areas, in proximity to urban development action areas or in proximity to urban development action area projects.

Laws 2001, ch 383, § 20 (Part F), eff Oct 29, 2001, deemed eff April 1, 2001, provides as follows:

§ 20. This act shall take effect immediately and shall be deemed to have been in full force and effect on and after April 1, 2001 and shall apply to school years commencing on or after July 1, 2001, provided, however, that section fourteen-a of this act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as section 1 of part B of chapter 149 of the laws of 2001 takes effect.

Laws 2002, ch 93, § 1, (Part A), eff June 25, 2002, provides as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "New York city debt modernization act of 2002".

Laws 2003, ch 96, § 1, eff July 1, 2003, amended Laws 1996, ch 680, § 4 (amd, L 1998, ch 126, § 1), so as to delete the provisions for authorization to make or contract to make loans or to participate in the making of loans only within targeted commercial corridors designated by the department of housing preservation and development of the city of New York prior to September 30, 2001.

Laws 2005, ch 622, § 1, eff Aug 30, 2005, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and declaration. The legislature hereby finds and declares that, under existing law, the objects and purposes for which local governments are authorized to issue their bonds include those with 35, 40 and 50-year periods of probably usefulness. The legislature further finds and declares that permitting the consolidation of currently authorized periods of probable usefulness will help local governments manage the proceeds of their bonds more effectively, thereby enhancing the efficiency of local borrowing programs, and further will not affect the final maturity of those bonds.

Laws 2013, ch 424, § 1, eff Oct 22, 2013, deemed eff on and after Oct 28, 2012, provides as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "Superstorm Sandy assessment relief act".

Laws 2014, ch 55, § 1 (Part T), eff March 31, 2013, provides as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "Mohawk Valley and Niagara county assessment relief act".

Laws 2017, ch 22, § 2, eff Nov 28, 2016, provides:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as a chapter of the laws of 2016 amending the local finance law relating to the issuance of bonds to finance airport improvements at the East Hampton Airport, as proposed in legislative bill numbers S. 3690 and A. 5245, takes effect.

Laws 2017, ch 85, § 10 (Part B), eff July 10, 2017, provides:

Section 10. This act shall take effect immediately and shall be deemed to have been in full force and effect on and after May 3, 2017.

Commission Notes: [1942] It was the intent of the Commission that only one period of probable usefulness should apply to an object or purpose.

This section is derived from General Municipal Law § 8-b, Education Law § 480 (9), Public Housing Law §§ 92, 94 and 211, Social Welfare Law § 93(7), Village Law § 199-a, and § 9 of chapter 791 of the Laws of 1928 as added by § 13 of chapter 544 of the Laws of 1940. This section of the Local Finance Law differs in some important respects from the provisions of the above-mentioned laws.

Amendment Notes The 2014 amendment by ch 422, § 1 added a107.

The 2015 amendment by ch 58, § 1 (Part BB), added a29-a.

The 2015 amendment by ch 377, § 1, in a13, deleted "heating" following "reconstruction of a" in the first sentence and added the second sentence.

The 2016 amendment by ch 265, § 1, added a108 [first set out].

The 2016 amendment by ch 309, § 1, added a108 [second set out].

The 2016 amendment by ch 446, § 1, added a14-a.

The 2017 amendment by ch 22, § 1, rewrote a14-a, which formerly read: "The construction, reconstruction, or extension of the East Hampton Airport, whether or not including buildings, hangars, runways, taxi-strips, paved areas, grading, filling, drainage, other site work, original furnishings, equipment, machinery or apparatus, thirty years; the acquisition or replacement of such equipment, machinery or apparatus, thirty years."

The 2017 amendment by ch 85, § 8 (Part B), added a33-d.

The 2020 amendment by ch 56, § 1 (Part III), added (a)14-b.

Repeal Notes: [1955] Item (d) of subdivision 33, of paragraph a of a section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law, which was repealed by section 1 of the act, made the provisions of items (a) and (b) of such subdivision inapplicable to any city having a population of one million or more.

[1961] Subdivision sixty-five of paragraph a of section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law, repealed by this act, duplicated the provisions of subdivision forty-one-a of such paragraph as herein amended.

[1974] Subdivision forty-two-a of paragraph a of section 11.00 of the local finance law, repealed by section two of this act, related to the period of probable usefulness of pension and social security costs for certain cities.

1. In general; period of probable usefulness

Section 11.00 subd 33 of ¶ (a) of the Local Finance Law provides means for borrowing to pay a judgment or claim. Sweet Associates, Inc. v Central School Dist., 24 A.D.2d 1065, 265 N.Y.S.2d 791, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2638 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1965).

The court construed a town board bond resolution, and found that the resolution stated with sufficient clarity (1) that the object or purpose was to acquire real property, (2) the maximum cost of the item to be purchased, (3) the plan for financing the purchase and the source of all the funds to be used. Mitchell v Shelter Island, 3 Misc. 2d 127, 148 N.Y.S.2d 212, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2175 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), aff'd, 2 A.D.2d 712, 153 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1956 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4874 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1956).

One of the requirements for contracting indebtedness is that the obigation must be amortized during a period of probable usefulness not longer than that specified in Local Finance Law § 11.00 for such object or purpose, and to the extent that the assets of a bus company which the city proposed to purchase are not included under § 11.00, it will be necessary that the city undertake alternative methods of financing to cover those items. Andrello v Dulan, 49 Misc. 2d 17, 266 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2252 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

When determining period of probable usefulness for $6.5 million project which involved purchase of computers in addition to reconstruction of infrastructure, board of education was not obligated to calculate weighted average period for each component of project as (1) CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a)(12)(b) specifically permits inclusion of equipment as part of building reconstruction within 20-year period of probable usefulness, and (2) neither Local Finance Law nor state constitution precludes inclusion of computers as "equipment" within renovation project. 1999 Op Comm Ed No. 14,271.

A village board of trustees may amend a bond resolution to increase from five to fifteen years the authorized maximum maturity of a proposed bond issue, provided that no bonds have been issued pursuant to the original bond resolution and the object or purpose for which the bonds are to be issued has a period of probable usefulness of at least fifteen years. The amended bond resolution would be subject to a permissive referendum. 1957 Ops St Compt File #402.

"Expected useful life" of energy facilities or equipment subject to energy performance contract, for purposes of CLS Energy § 9-103, is estimated period over which facilities or equipment are reasonably expected to be useful and is not necessarily equated to period of probable usefulness prescribed in CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a) for obligations issued for such facilities or equipment; estimate should be determined pursuant to generally accepted industry standards and should be based on evidence that will provide reasonable accuracy. 1999 Op St Compt No. 99-10.

CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a) sets forth "periods of probable usefulness" for various objects or purposes for which municipality, school district or district corporation may generally contract indebtedness; period of probable usefulness represents determination by state legislature that expenditure for object or purpose will generally provide current and future benefits, and sets maximum period over which object or purpose may be financed by issuance of indebtedness. 2004 Op St Compt No. 04-3.

Bond resolution adopted by village to authorize issuance of bonds to finance village's share of cost of closing landfill, as ordered by DEC and approved by Appellate Division, is not subject to referendum requirements under CLS Loc Fin § 36.00(a)(4), but bonds issued for this purpose may not exceed 10 years. 1986 Op St Comp No. 86-87.

2. Constitutionality

Local Finance L § 11.00, subd a (42-a) excepting pension and retirement payments levy from 2 percent constitutional real property tax limitation is without a rational basis and is arbitrary. Hurd v Buffalo (1973, 4th Dept) 41 AD2d 402, 343 NYS2d 950, affd 34 NY2d 628, 355 NYS2d 369, 311 NE2d 504 (prior to repeal of subdivision in 1974).

City taxpayer, who paid real property tax under protest on basis of decision of Appellate Division declaring section of Local Finance Law unconstitutional, was not entitled to refund even though Appellate Division's decision was subsequently affirmed by the Court of Appeals, since to require city, which was entitled to prepare and adopt its budget in reliance on revenues to be derived from previously devised tax formula, to restore taxes would be inequitable and contrary to sound policy considerations. Pellnat v Buffalo, 59 A.D.2d 1038, 399 N.Y.S.2d 788, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14326 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977) (disagreed with by Gandolfi v Yonkers, 101 A.D.2d 188, 475 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17801 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 604, 478 N.Y.S.2d 1023, 467 N.E.2d 532, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7710 (N.Y. 1984), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 882, 478 N.Y.S.2d 865, 467 N.E.2d 529, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4421 (N.Y. 1984), aff'd, 62 N.Y.2d 995, 479 N.Y.S.2d 517, 468 N.E.2d 699, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. 1984).

Taxpayer who paid real property tax under protest on basis of decision of Appellate Division declaring section of Local Finance Law imposing tax unconstitutional was not entitled to refund even though Court of Appeals affirmed Appellate Division's nonretroactive decision since governmental process of budget preparation and adoption and tax billing and collection could not possibly be halted when decision of Appellate Division was published. Pellnat v Buffalo (1976) 87 Misc 2d 742, 386 NYS2d 965, affd (4th Dept) 59 AD2d 1038, 399 NYS2d 788 (disagreed with by Gandolfi v Yonkers, 101 A.D.2d 188, 475 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17801 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 604, 478 N.Y.S.2d 1023, 467 N.E.2d 532, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7710 (N.Y. 1984), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 882, 478 N.Y.S.2d 865, 467 N.E.2d 529, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4421 (N.Y. 1984), aff'd, 62 N.Y.2d 995, 479 N.Y.S.2d 517, 468 N.E.2d 699, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4484 (N.Y. 1984).

3. Law governing

Former § 129 of the Village Law, relating to the issue and sale of bonds and other obligations, was a special law governing the affairs of villages and controlled over the provisions of the General Municipal Law. Balducci v Strough, 239 N.Y.S. 611, 135 Misc. 346, 1929 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1082 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1929).

Town board of suburban town, which established general reserve fund pursuant to § 55 of Town Law, may, subject to subdivision 3 of that section, authorize an expenditure therefrom for specific object or purpose having a period of probable usefulness of at least 5 years pursuant to § 11.00 of Local Finance Law. 1967 Ops St Compt File #846.

4. Authorization of indebtedness

Trial court properly granted summary judgment to a city, its mayor, and a ferry service in a challenger's declaratory judgment suit seeking to invalidate various agreements the city entered into via the creation of a limited liability company (LLC) to operate a ferry service and then to assume the debt of the LLC after it went under as there was no prohibition against the city creating a LLC, and the city's assumption of the LLC's debt did not violate to statutory or constitutional provisions addressing the length a municipality could incur an indebtedness for longer than the useful purpose of the object at issue, namely the ferry. Summers v City of Rochester, 60 A.D.3d 1271, 875 N.Y.S.2d 658, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2010 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2009).

Separate capital note resolutions must be adopted for each specific object or purpose. However, one issue of capital notes may be sold in the total amount of the separate authorizations. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-846.

Where plans, specifications, and estimates for a future school district capital improvement are financed pursuant to the authorization of section 99-d(1), the district cannot authorize the actual undertaking of the improvement until at least one year after the issuance of the obligations. 1968 Ops St Compt File #497.

A town board may make temporary advances of general fund moneys to special funds for capital purposes, after bonds or capital notes have been authorized by the said town board. 1969 Ops St Compt File #254.

5. Referendum

No notice or public hearing on town board's resolution to sell previously authorized water system bonds was required, and resolution was not subject to referendum. Larkin v Town Board of Fleming, 52 A.D.2d 1068, 384 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12994 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. denied, 41 N.Y.2d 802, 393 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2991 (N.Y. 1977), cert. denied, 434 U.S. 836, 98 S. Ct. 125, 54 L. Ed. 2d 97, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2969 (U.S. 1977).

The cost of a referendum held on a bond resolution may be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds. 1955 Ops St Compt 107.

Fixing a maturity date of five years or less on bonds to be issued pursuant to the supplemental bond resolution would not exempt such resolution from permissive referendum. 1967 Ops St Compt File #369.

The expenditure of moneys by a town from a capital reserve fund established for a type of improvement is subject to permissive referendum in the town under specified circumstances. 1968 Ops St Compt File #22.

Moneys in a capital reserve fund established for specific purpose of acquiring and developing park land could not be used for reconstruction of town hall unless town board [1] establishes capital reserve fund for that specific purpose, and [2] authorizes, subject to permissive referendum, transfer of all or part of money in park land reserve fund to reserve fund for reconstruction of town hall. 1986 Op St Compt No. 86-21.

Where an initial bond resolution is subject to permissive referendum in order for a town to finance the cost of land to be acquired by condemnation, and where the actual cost of such acquisition is to exceed the amount fixed in the initial bond resolution, a supplemental bond resolution for the excess sum is also subject to permissive referendum, notwithstanding the anticipated entry of judgment against the town for the award in condemnation. 1967 Ops St Compt File #369.

6. Fees associated with project

A village may issue serial bonds or capital notes for the purpose of financing the employment of experts to appraise the value of the real property within the village. 1952 Ops St Compt 258.

Where a town tax collector dies during his term of office, his legal representative may not be paid any portion of his annual salary for the period subsequent to his death. 1957 Ops St Compt File #311.

Engineering fees incurred in connection with a capital improvement may be paid from the proceeds of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes or deferred payment notes. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-737.

7. Architectural and legal fees

With the exception of plans for post-war projects, capital notes may not be issued to finance the cost of architects' fees in relation to school buildings. 1946 Ops St Compt 67.

Employment of architect to prepare plans for school district public library building discussed. 1953 Ops St Compt 95.

Architects' and legal fees in connection with school construction should ordinarily be included as an item of cost payable from bond proceeds issued to finance the construction. 1963 Ops St Compt #637.

The expense of architectural and legal fees incurred in connection with a capital improvement may be paid from the proceeds of bonds issued for the purpose of financing such capital improvement although the bond resolution does not mention such fees among the purposes to which the bond proceeds are to be applied. 1969 Ops St Compt File #127.

8. —Referendum upon subject of fees

Town expenditures for experts to appraise real property whether financed from budgetary funds or by the issuance of obligations, is not subject to a referendum. 1952 Ops St Compt 303.

In the absence of express authorization by the Legislature, a city may not hold advisory referendum on the question of whether the city should undertake a general revision of real property assessments. A city, by local law, may require that bond resolution, authorizing bonds to finance employment of experts to assist in any such revision of assessments, shall be subject to a mandatory or permissive referendum. 1952 Ops St Compt 349.

A referendum is not required to authorize the expenditure of funds for the services of a firm to make appraisals for assessment purposes. 1954 Ops St Compt 102.

Where the fees of a financial consultant and bond counsel have been incurred by a town as a preliminary expense for a general town project for which obligations are to issue, such expense should normally be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the obligations, unless the bond resolution is defeated and there are no such proceeds or earmarked moneys, in which case such expense is payable from the town general fund. 1967 Ops St Compt File #499.

The engagement of professional appraisers to make an appraisal of the real property in the town is not subject to either a mandatory or permissive referendum. 1968 Ops St Compt File #146.

9. Definitions

The word "apparatus" does not include within its meaning road-building materials, such as stone, gravel, and bituminous surfacing. 1946 Ops St Compt 591.

10. Permissibility of particular objects or purposes of indebtedness

A Board of Education of a union free school district may engage the services of a firm specializing in municipal surveys to make a survey of the school district to provide the Board and voters with proper statistical information in relation to the need for a school building for the district and other pertinent data, the reasonable cost therefor to be paid from bonds issued to finance the school building. 1947 Ops St Compt 300.

Where obligations are to be issued by a town to finance its share of a code enforcement program, each separate project within the program must be treated as a specific object or purpose. The determination whether such an item is a town-wide or part-town charge can be made only by reference to the nature of such specific object or purpose. 1959 Ops St Compt file #133.

General discussion of whether a village may issue bonds to finance payment of a refund allegedly owing to a public utility upon termination of an electric power purchase contract. 1961 Ops St Compt #384.

A town may finance the purchase of machinery and equipment for the operation of a landfill installation, as a general town charge, through a budgetary appropriation or through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #540.

Issuance of bonds by non-city school district is subject to mandatory referendum when bonds would be issued to finance prepayment of those contributions to State Retirement Systems that would otherwise be amortized and paid to Systems in annual installments; participating employer may issue bonds to finance prepayment of such contributions after employer has recorded amount as "current liability." 1993 Op St Compt No. 93-17.

City which has previously prepaid to State Policemen's and Fireman's Retirement System amount to be amortized under L 1989, ch 62 may not now issue bonds to finance that amount. 1995 Op St Compt No. 95-19.

In the event that the parts of the current surplus of the City of Rome to be used for the construction of an annex to the city hall, an annex to the Public Works barn, the paving and repairing of streets, and the construction of storm-water sewers are insufficient or unavailable to defray all of the cost of any of these objects or purposes, the city may borrow to defray all or part of such cost by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, subject to the limitations of par. d of § 104.00 and § 107.00. 1946 Ops St Compt 155.

11. —Water systems

Bonds issued by town for construction of water system were required to bear final redemption date no more than 40 years beyond date of completion of water system. Larkin v Town Board of Fleming, 52 A.D.2d 1068, 384 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12994 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. denied, 41 N.Y.2d 802, 393 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2991 (N.Y. 1977), cert. denied, 434 U.S. 836, 98 S. Ct. 125, 54 L. Ed. 2d 97, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2969 (U.S. 1977).

Serial bonds or capital notes may be issued to finance the local share of the cost of preparing preliminary plans for a water district to be constructed as a post-war Public Works project. 1946 Ops St Compt 348.

The maximum term of bonds issued for a supply of water is forty years. 1954 Ops St Compt 414.

The cost of increasing and improving the source of water supply in a town water district may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds. 1955 Ops St Compt 107.

Water district land may be sold without referendum, but a public hearing is required if the value exceeds $1,000. The seller has no authority to accept, as the purchase price, anything but money. The purchasing town has no authority to pay the purchase price by giving an installment contract. 1966 Ops St Compt File #1129.

The cost of construction of additions to and improvement of the water system of a water district may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. It is necessary to hold a public hearing on a proposition to increase or improve the facilities and appurtenances of the water system. No referendum, either mandatory or permissive is required. 1968 Ops St Compt File #812.

A county may issue obligations on behalf of a soil and water conservation district for the purchase of various types of machinery. 1974 Ops St Compt File #385.

Capital notes may not be issued to finance the cost of preliminary engineering studies in connection with the proposed rehabilitation of a water district water system unless the improvements are actually constructed. 1981 Op St Comp File #81-385.

12. —Flood control and drainage systems

A drainage district may be established for the purpose of constructing improvements designed to prevent silting of a creek outlet and consequent flooding of riparian real property. 1953 Ops St Compt 372.

Town may finance the cost of drainage facilities by the issuance of bonds having a maximum maturity of not more than thirty years. 1955 Ops St Compt 375.

Village may dredge privately owned pond within village where such pond is integral part of village's drainage system and where filled in condition is result of its drainage function; entire cost of dredging may be assessed against properties benefited; if village authorizes such dredging, cost may be financed through issuance of bonds if village has interest in property during time obligations are outstanding, such as easements from owners of pond to restrict owners from taking any actions which prevent pond from fulfilling its village draining function; such easements would ensure that pond is "drainage improvement" within meaning of CLS Local Fin Law § 11.00(a)(3). Ops St Comp 90-4.

13. —Sewer systems

A sewer system extension may be financed over a thirty-year period. 1947 Ops St Compt 319.

The cleaning of sewers constitutes repair or maintenance and may not be financed with bonds or capital notes. 1952 Ops St Compt 164.

Serial bonds and capital notes may be issued to finance town's share of cost of preliminary plans for sewer system prepared pursuant to Public Works Law, § 31(1). 1952 Ops St Compt 275.

14. —Incinerators and disposal facilities

Where a village wishes to finance a $15,000 addition to its incinerator over a period of five years it may do so by issuing serial bonds or bond anticipation notes or a statutory installment bond, but not by issuing a capital note. 1967 Ops St Compt File #379.

15. —Bridges, tunnels, viaducts and underpasses

When a bridge, over water, connects a city of the third class and a town, the cost of improvements may be shared among the city, town and county. To finance its share a town may issue bonds. Under such circumstances, the bond resolution is not subject to referendum and the bonds would have a maximum duration of twenty years where the cost of the improvement is under five million dollars. The town may finance such improvements by taxation. A levy, for this purpose, greater than ten thousand dollars in any one year is subject to referendum where taxation is the sole means of financing such improvements. 1968 Ops St Compt File #816.

16. —Buildings, additions, original furnishings and apparatus

A village may establish a capital reserve fund for the construction of a village hall. 1968 Ops St Compt File #968.

17. —School buildings and apparatus

CLS Loc § 11.00(a), which assigns 10-year period of probable usefulness to various types of computer systems, applies to entire computer systems not necessarily installed as part of building renovation, and thus did not preclude school district's inclusion of computers as "equipment" within renovated school building pursuant to CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a)(12). Friedman v Board of Educ., 259 A.D.2d 464, 686 N.Y.S.2d 84, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2019 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Where the bond resolutions of a school district were under attack as directed to financing the removal of 50 portable classroom units distributed among seven elementary schools where they were already upon permanent foundations and attached to the school buildings and attaching them for use in connection with certain high schools at different locations, it was held that the portable classrooms, when so removed and attached to the different schools, would amount to new, separate and distinct buildings and that the referendum was accordingly not invalid as not relating to financing new buildings. Szendy v Board of Education, 25 Misc. 2d 5, 205 N.Y.S.2d 668, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2340 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), aff'd, 13 A.D.2d 679, 215 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11509 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1961).

Resolution whereby board of education of central school district called for special district meeting to vote on single proposition authorizing levy of $22,062,000 tax (to be collected in installments and used to reconstruct buildings, parking lots and sidewalks, improve existing playground and recreational areas, purchase and install oil tanks, and purchase school buses) did not improperly include multiple objects and purposes in single proposition, under CLS St Fin § 11.00; board's actions complied with CLS Educ § 416 and CLS Loc Fin § 41.10, and were consistent with interpretations of those statutes by courts and Commissioner of Education. 1997 Op Comm Ed No. 13769.

The unexpended portion of the proceeds from the sale of bonds issued by a school district to finance construction of a school building may not be used to purchase original furnishings, equipment, machinery or apparatus required for the purposes for which the building is to be used when the proposition adopted by the voters and the bond resolution adopted by the board of education make no reference to the acquisition of such furnishings, equipment and apparatus in describing the object or purposes for which the bonds were issued. 1953 Ops St Compt 7.

School district may issue bonds or capital notes to finance construction of a building to house the public library established by the law district. 1953 Ops St Compt 95.

A public library building constructed by a school district is not a "school house" within the meaning of par (a) sub 11 of this section. 1954 Ops St Compt 17.

Subdivisions 12 and 35 cover expenditures for reroofing various buildings and replacing wooden floor in gymnasium with new wooden floor. 1955 St Compt File #7220.

A city school district may properly adopt separate bond resolutions for (1) the construction of a new school and construction of additions to 3 existing schools; (2) the construction of 3 schools and the construction to an existing school; and (3) the acquisition of cities for 2 of the additions mentioned in the first resolution. However, the object of resolutions (1) and (3) should be combined in a single resolution. 1959 Ops St Compt #13.

Textbooks and library books are original equipment and furnishings for a new school building. 1960 Ops St Compt File #375.

The proceeds of bonds, which are appropriated by a school district for the construction of a building for public library use, are under the control of the school district officials and accordingly the debt service on the bonds should be reflected in the budget of the school district. 1956 Ops St Compt 265.

While there is no specific period of probable usefulness for removal of asbestos from a building, the expense of such work may be financed through the issuance of bonds if it necessarily includes or requires other improvements, such as building alterations, which have periods of probable usefulness. 1984 Op St Comp File #84-28.

18. —Police and fire buildings and apparatus

A fire district may finance the construction of an addition to a fire house on land held under a conveyance for that purpose. 1960 Ops St Compt File #1129.

Fire district has no power to issue bonds to finance construction of addition to firehouse not owned by it. 1965 Ops St Compt File #244.

Town may issue obligations to finance construction of building for use by state police on land owned by state so long as town retains ownership interest in building during term of bonds. 1988 Op St Compt No 88-26.

19. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas

A county legislature's bond resolution would not be invalidated on the asserted ground that it lacked the specificity required under Loc Fin Law § 32.00(1) in that it merely designated "reconstructing various roads in said county" as the purpose for the issuance of bonds and notes rather than setting forth specific roads, since the county legislature was not prohibited from designating the reconstruction of roads within the county as a class of objects and purposes for the issuance of its obligations, and since the resolution sufficiently satisfied the objectives underlying the statutory requirement that the objects or purposes for the issuance of municipal obligations be described in that it reasonably insured that the funds derived from such issuance would be expended only for the stated class of objects or purposes, and sufficiently determined the period of probable usefulness of the class or specific object or purpose. Morris v Cahill, 96 A.D.2d 88, 469 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19878 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

County resolution to issue highway improvement bonds was sufficiently specific to permit determination as to whether periods of indebtedness contracted for would exceed probable usefulness of each particular project, as required by CLS NY Const Art VIII § 2 and CLS Loc Fin § 11.00, despite resolution's generally stated purpose of reconstructing "various county roads" and its failure to state maturity date of bonds issued, where resolution (1) referred to class of objects and purposes, not specific projects, (2) set forth maximum debt to be incurred and probable useful life for each class, and (3) expressly required that bonds mature "on or before the date of the expiration of the useful life of the object or purpose involved." Ayers v County of Greene, 132 A.D.2d 66, 521 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49544 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Budget notes, capital notes, or serial bonds may be issued for the resurfacing of a town highway. 1945 Ops St Compt 473.

The resurfacing of the pavement portion of a bridge over railroad tracks may be financed by the issuance of bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes. 1956 Ops St Compt 89.

The city may not acquire real property for municipal parking lot purposes and finance the purchase of the same by issuing a purchase money mortgage therefor. 1956 Ops St Compt 291.

A "Dix Seal" surface treatment of highways would have a period of probable usefulness of ten years. 1962 Ops St Compt #91.

A village may issue bond anticipation notes to finance, over a period of four years, a $7,000 street repaving project. 1968 Ops St Compt File #40.

Subdivision 20 covers re-surfacing of a parking area. 1955 St Compt File #7220.

20. —Highway construction and maintenance machinery and apparatus

A village may finance the purchase of snow-fighting equipment by the issuance of capital notes or bonds. Such bonds may not have a maturity exceeding five years. 1947 Ops St Compt 531.

A town may finance the purchase of highway machinery and equipment without the necessity of making a down payment. 1954 Ops St Compt 124.

A town which purchases highway machinery may issue bonds having a maturity of five years. Such period commences upon the date of such bonds. 1956 Ops St Compt 71.

Moneys raised by borrowing are not a charge against the limitation upon the amount which may be levied and collected in any one year for the purchase of highway machinery. Debt service on such borrowings will be a charge against such limitations. 1957 Ops St Compt File #287.

Bonds issued to finance the purchase of highway machinery have a maximum maturity of five years. 1957 Ops St Compt File #287.

No down payment is necessary on the purchase of highway machinery. 1957 Ops St Compt File #287.

Bonds may not be issued to finance cost of repairing highway machinery, since no period of probable usefulness is prescribed by Local Finance Law, § 11(a). 1960 Ops St Compt File #269.

A town may not finance the purchase of highway equipment by means of an installment loan through a bank. 1967 Ops St Compt File #963.

21. —Land acquisition

City may finance acquisition of real property pursuant to Military Law § 171-a by issuance of bonds. 1954 Ops St Compt 54.

The maximum maturity of bonds issued to acquire land for a town is 30 years. 1964 Ops St Compt #640.

Town may provide in its proposed budget appropriation of amount to be funded by real property tax and to be paid into capital reserve fund for purpose of accumulating monies for future purchase of development rights for open space preservation; if reserve fund is established for purchase of development rights of specific parcel, establishment of fund is subject to permissive referendum requirements. 2002 Op St Compt No. 2002-5.

Town may provide in its proposed budget appropriation of amount to be funded by real property tax and to be paid into capital reserve fund for purpose of accumulating monies for future purchase of development rights for open space preservation; if fund is established generally for acquisitions of rights in land for open space preservation, no referendum is required on establishment of reserve fund, but expenditures from fund to acquire development rights would be subject to permissive referendum requirements. 2002 Op St Compt No. 2002-5.

Town may provide in its proposed budget appropriation of amount to be funded by real property tax and to be paid into capital reserve fund for purpose of accumulating monies for future purchase of development rights for open space preservation; monies in fund may be invested in accordance with CLS Gen Mun § 11. 2002 Op St Compt No. 2002-5.

Town may issue bonds to finance acquisition of permanent development rights in land for open space preservation; bond resolution to authorize issuance of such obligations would be subject to permissive referendum if proposed maturity of bonds is more than 5 years. 2002 Op St Compt No. 2002-5.

In addition to other procedural requirements, expenditure of public funds for preservation of open spaces and areas may be made only after due notice and public hearing. 2002 Op St Compt No. 2002-5.

22. —Police and fire communication systems

Since subd. a-25 of this section gives the probable life of usefulness of police and fire communication systems as ten years, there is nothing to prevent the City of Cohoes from amending its charter to sanction contracts for rental of such equipment for periods in excess of one year, subject to the restrictions contained in § 17 of the City Home Rule Law. 1960 Ops St Compt #60-324.

23. —Fire fighting vehicles and equipment

Bonds issued by a village to finance the cost of four fire trucks, each of which costs less than $10,000, cannot be spread over a period in excess of five years. 1945 Ops St Compt 500.

Appropriations for the purchase of fire-fighting vehicles and apparatus may be raised outside the constitutional two per cent tax limit if serial bonds or capital notes are issued or if the purchase is made pursuant to the pay-as-you-go plan in accordance with the Constitution, Art. VIII, § 11. 1947 Ops St Compt 354.

Rules and regulations relative to purchase of fire apparatus are discussed herein. 1953 Ops St Compt File #6421.

A village board of trustees may establish a capital reserve fund to finance all or a portion of the cost of purchasing an ambulance. 1965 Ops St Compt File #738.

A fire district may establish a capital reserve fund to purchase a fire alarm system or establish a repair reserve fund to repair a fire alarm system under certain circumstances. A reserve fund may not be established to fund current expenses concerning, or maintenance of, a fire alarm system. 1973 Ops St Compt File #1015.

24. —Ambulances

A fire district may not expend money from a repair reserve fund to purchase a fire alarm siren. A transfer of funds may be made to a fire district capital reserve fund and then the siren may be purchased from such capital reserve fund, subject to applicable referendum provisions. 1968 Ops St Compt File #632.

25. —Other motor vehicles

Bonds may not be issued to finance the cost of a station wagon with a seating capacity of less than ten persons. 1955 Ops St Compt 388.

The purchase and installation of a truck motor costing in excess of $2,500 is subject to competitive bidding. The cost of a new truck motor may be financed by serial bonds or capital notes. 1956 Ops St Compt 176.

If police cars are to be purchased to replace similar police cars which were in service for one year or more, 3-year period of probable usefulness exists and purchase of such cars may be financed by issuance of capital note or bond; however, notwithstanding 3-year period of probable usefulness prescribed by CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a)(77), any capital notes issued to finance purchase of police cars must mature not later than last day of second fiscal year succeeding fiscal year in which notes are issued pursuant to CLS Loc Fin § 28.00[a]. Ops St Compt 88-37.

26. —Voting machines

Towns may finance voting machines by either bonds or capital notes. 1947 Ops St Compt 127.

Resolution of town board establishing capital reserve fund for acquisition of voting machines is subject to permissive referendum. 1964 Ops St Compt File #902.

27. —Equipment, machinery, apparatus and furnishings

Subdivision 32 covers expenditures for replacement of pupils' desks, teachers' desks and other furniture; replacement of shelving in storage rooms, bulletin boards in classrooms, filing equipment, laundry equipment, business machines in business office; and new library books. 1955 St Compt File #7220.

Proceeds of serial bonds issued pursuant to subpar. (32) (a) may be used to finance purchase of educational film strips. 1962 Ops St Compt #964.

28. —Judgments

In a dispute over a school construction contract an award of arbitrators in excess of the amount authorized to be expended by the voters of the school district was payable from funds obtained by taxation for the proceeds of a bond issue, and the judgment did not require satisfaction from funds in the hands of the appellant treasurer. Sweet Associates, Inc. v Central School Dist., 24 A.D.2d 1065, 265 N.Y.S.2d 791, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2638 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1965).

Where section 206 of the Second Class Cities Law requires that the amount of judgments against a city be appropriated in its next budget and where such amount was not appropriated therein, there is no authority for issuance of a budget not to finance such purpose. 1956 Ops St Compt 41.

Town board may authorize issuance of bonds to finance tax certiorari judgments; resolution authorizing issuance of bonds must be authorized by ⅔ vote of town board and is neither subject to mandatory referendum nor is town board authorized to provide for referendum on its own motion. 1993 Op St Compt No. 93-4.

A judgment against the city may not be satisfied by an abatement of the 1953-54 city tax levy on the property of the judgment creditor. Payment of the judgment may not be financed by bonds or capital notes. If the judgment against the city cannot be paid out of available moneys in the general fund in the current year, the amount must be included in the tax levy for the following year. In such case, the city may finance the payment by the issuance of budget notes pursuant to section 29.00(d) of the Local Finance Law. 1953 Ops St Compt 296.

29. —Tax and revenue anticipation obligations

Bond anticipation notes may be issued in anticipation of the future sale of bonds under § 23.00 after the adoption of a bond resolution. The length of the bond issue would depend upon the period of probable usefulness under this section. 1945 Ops St Compt 583.

Bonds may not be issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes or revenues to finance salary increases for teachers. 1946 Ops St Compt 614.

In a school district budget, interest on bond anticipation notes should be considered as part of the administrative expense of the bond issue and charged as such against the Construction Fund. 1955 Ops St Compt File #7756.

Where a municipality has insufficient funds to meet certain year-end costs, it may, subject to certain statutory limitations, borrow through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes, or capital notes, if for capital expenditures, and through issuing budget notes, if for current operating expenses. 1967 Ops St Compt File #643.

A school district may establish a reserve fund to pay tax certiorari claims, and may establish the fund prior to a court order determining the amount of a judgment or claim. Prior opinions inconsistent herewith are superseded 1984 Op St Comp File #84-32.

30. —Change of fiscal year

A village which will shift from a March 1 fiscal year to a June 1 fiscal year in 1956 may finance the three month interim period from March 1, 1956 to May 31, 1956 by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes. 1955 Ops St Compt 155.

31. —Urban renewal

A bond resolution, effectuating an urban renewal program in a village, is subject to a permissive referendum if the proposed maturity of the bonds is more than five years. 1969 Ops St Compt File #1015.

32. —Equipment associated with tax assessment

Subdivision 52 covers expenditures for certain business machines. 1955 St Compt File #7220.

33. —Swimming pools

A swimming pool to be constructed with steel walls set in a concrete floor does not fall within the provisions of this section, but such a project has a period of probable usefulness of ten years under subd. (a)(19). 1962 Ops St Compt #804.

34. —Boardwalks

Bonds may be issued for the reconstruction of a boardwalk in a park district. 1945 Ops St Compt 448.

35. —Skiing developments

The Town of North Elba, on behalf of the North Elba Parks and Play Grounds District, may properly finance certain expenditures relating to the John F. Kennedy 1968 Winter Games, to be held in said district, by the sale of bonds or capital notes. 1968 Ops St Compt File #84.

6. —School buildings and apparatus
7. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas
8. —Fire fighting vehicles and equipment
9. —Equipment associated with tax assessment

1. In general; period of probable usefulness

A town may appropriate the necessary funds (if funds are available) to pay a claim based upon a contract entered into in a prior year where no appropriation had been made in the year of the contract, provided that funds were available from which an appropriation could have been made in the year the contract was entered into and provided the statute of limitations has not run out. If such a claim is for preliminary work in connection with a capital project for which bonds are issued, the proceeds from such bond issue may be used to pay the claim. 1978 Op St Compt File #608.

2. Permissibility of particular objects or purposes of indebtedness

3. —Flood control and drainage systems

A village flood control project, whether undertaken by the village alone, or in participation with a federal program of flood control, is not subject to permissive referendum. However, the method of financing same may be subject to such referendum. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen July 21.

4. —Sewer systems

The Village of Southampton may not issue its bonds and assess the cost of the principal and interest thereof on "benefitted property" where the water mains to be constructed with the proceeds of the bonds will be owned by Suffolk County Water Authority. 1979 Op St Compt File #596.

5. —Buildings, additions, original furnishings and apparatus

The Village of Babylon does not have statutory authority to repair the facade of privately-owned condominiums. However, the Board of Trustees of the Village could request a special act giving it authority to use its credit to repair the facade and to recoup the cost by special assessments against the condominium owners. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 10 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 27.

6. —School buildings and apparatus

Local Finance Law § 11.00(a)(12-a) is not applicable to the demolishing of a building owned by a school district. 1979 Op St Compt File #829.

7. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas

Villages are authorized to acquire real property for parking purposes and to establish fees or charges for the use thereof. A bond resolution proposing maturity of more than five years to finance the cost of acquiring such a parking area is subject to a permissive referendum or may be submitted to a referendum by the village board. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen March 26 (informal).

8. —Fire fighting vehicles and equipment

The Town Board of the Town of Sullivan, acting as Fire Commissioners of said town, may purchase a fire truck without submission of a proposition to the electors for their approval, provided that the expenditure is to be made from cash on hand if the expenditure is within the district's spending limitation. If such purchase is not to be made from cash on hand or from cash on hand exceeding such imitation, approval by the electors of a proposition on referendum is necessary. 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 16 (informal).

The Town Board of the Town of Sullivan, acting as Fire Commissioners of said town under Town Law § 176(18), may purchase a fire truck without submission of a proposition to the electors for their approval, provided that the expenditure is to be made from cash on hand if the expenditure is within the district's spending limitation, but if such purchase is to be made under Town Law § 179 or Local Finance Law § 38.00, approval by the electors of a proposition on referendum is necessary. 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 16.

9. —Equipment associated with tax assessment

Town may issue municipal bonds to finance town data collection project. 9 Op Counsel SBEA No. 67.

The Village of Saranac Lake may not issue bonds for the purpose of creating mortgage money for the private housing sector, nor may it enact a local law granting special real property tax treatment to building owners who improve the facades of their buildings. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen May 8. (Informal).

Costs of a lawsuit, such as attorneys' fees, disbursements, expenses and the cost of appeals, may be financed by issuing budget notes, but not serial bonds. However, items which are included in a judgment against a municipality may be financed by issuing serial bonds. 1978 Op St Compt File #1012.

Whether the Village of Rockville Center may establish a cable television system which would provide special services (electric, water meter readings, fire and burglar alarms, etc.) and as an additional auxiliary service, recreational TV is a question which should be determined by the Commission on Cable Television; if such a system may be established, its capital costs should not be paid solely by the customers of the Village Electric Department; if such a system may be established, indebtedness may be contracted by the Village and obligations issued to finance its capital costs pursuant to Local Finance Law, § 11.00(a)(35). 1980 Op St Compt File #556.

Where a county initiates a revaluation of real property for tax purposes which does not include all towns in the county, the expense of financing the revaluation is levied on a county-wide basis. 1978 Op St Compt File #786.

The proceeds of bonds issued for the reconstruction of docks and bulkheads may not be used for the maintenance of channel markers and/or mooring piles which are re-set each spring because of winter ice. 1979 Op St Compt File #317.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1942, ch 424.

§ 20.00. Types of obligations which may be issued

a. Bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness authorized to be issued by municipalities, school districts or district corporations for any object or purpose shall hereafter be of the following nature and kind only and shall be denominated respectively as follows:

1. Serial bonds.
2. Sinking fund bonds or corporate stock.
3. Bond anticipation notes.
4. Tax anticipation notes.
5. Revenue anticipation notes.
6. Capital notes.
7. Budget notes.
8. Urban renewal notes.
9. Deferred payment notes.
10. [Expires and repealed July 31, 2021 (see 1996 note below)] Land installment purchase obligations.
11. Lease, sublease or other agreements entered into pursuant to subparagraph two of paragraph b of subdivision thirty-eight of section sixteen hundred eighty of the public authorities law.
12. Deficiency notes.

b. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prevent the prepayment of taxes to a municipality, school district or district corporation and the furnishing of a non-negotiable receipt of such prepayment whether or not interest is to be paid on the moneys so prepaid.

c. Nothing contained in this chapter shall prevent a municipality from issuing evidences of indebtedness to the state of New York or to the United States of America with respect to a project or projects undertaken by such municipality pursuant to any general law to effectuate any of the purposes of article eighteen of the state constitution.

d. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prevent a municipality from issuing evidence of indebtedness or entering into installment contracts to purchase equipment, machinery and apparatus pursuant to section one hundred nine-b of the general municipal law.

Commission Note: [1942] The Commission limited the types of obligations which might be issued to seven basic types to obviate the confusion inherent in giving different descriptive names to obligations which are fundamentally the same and vice versa. Cf., for example, former Village Law § 126-g which has substance transferred to Local Finance Law § 24.00 (authorizing the issuance of "tax notes," which are obligations issued in anticipation of the levy of taxes) with New York City Charter former § 249 (which authorize "tax notes" for budget deficiencies, certain emergencies and the financing of capital improvements). The first type of obligation in the example referred to is termed a "tax anticipation note" in this chapter and the second type is classified herein as a "budget note" or a "capital note."

No notice or public hearing on town board's resolution to sell previously authorized water system bonds was required, and resolution was not subject to referendum. Larkin v Town Board of Fleming, 52 A.D.2d 1068, 384 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12994 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. denied, 41 N.Y.2d 802, 393 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2991 (N.Y. 1977), cert. denied, 434 U.S. 836, 98 S. Ct. 125, 54 L. Ed. 2d 97, 1977 U.S. LEXIS 2969 (U.S. 1977).

School district's acceptance of advance payment, conditioned on pro rata repayment in event contract was prematurely terminated, did not constitute loan to district in violation of CLS Loc Fin §§ 20.00 et seq., or revenue anticipation note as defined in CLS Loc Fin § 25.00, where there was no absolute requirement of repayment at time contract was signed, obligation to repay advance arose only in subsequent year if contract was terminated, and amount of contingent repayment was unknown when contract was executed; advance payment was more similar to contingent gift subject to certain contractual obligations of repayment if conditions of gift were not met. 2000 Op Comm Ed No. 14,489.

Water district land may be sold without referendum, but a public hearing is required if the value exceeds $1,000. The seller has no authority to accept, as the purchase price, anything but money. The purchasing town has no authority to pay the purchase price by giving an instalment contract. 1966 Ops St Compt File #1129.

"Line of credit" transaction whereby bank offers to lend county money by making funds available to county up to predetermined amount and county would be permitted to draw against entire amount of line all at once or in increments, with interest payable monthly and entire principal balance payable on any payment date, is not type of municipal debt authorized by law; "line of credit" is not equivalent of capital note authorized by CLS Loc Fin § 28.00; use of term "line of credit" for transaction whereby bank lends county money, is improper under CLS Loc Fin § 20.00. Op St Compt 88-45.

2. Purposes for which indebtedness may be incurred

Fire district has no power to issue bonds to finance construction of addition to firehouse not owned by it. 1965 Ops St Compt File #244.

A county may not contract indebtedness for the purpose of constructing a county infirmary adjacent to a private hospital and operating the infirmary in conjunction with the hospital to the extent of furnishing heat, physical and occupational therapy, laundry and other facilities and services to the said private hospital, on a contract basis, nor may a county expend its funds for this purpose. 1965 Ops St Compt File #389.

A village may issue bond anticipation notes to finance, over a period of four years, a $7,000 street repaving project. 1968 Ops St Compt File #40.

3. Annual basis

Village board may not make a deposit of public moneys with a water corporation, or contract to make periodic payments in the future for materials or services to be furnished at this time; or pay now for materials and services to be furnished later. 1965 Ops St Compt File #175.

Strictly speaking, the mere existence of assets in a city's electric utility depreciation reserve fund, and the existence of surplus moneys in its electric light and water rent funds, would not require the use of such assets and surplus for related capital improvements in the place of issuing obligations therefor, except that a city is without authority to accumulate capital reserve fund assets solely for investment purposes or to carry over uncommitted surpluses into an ensuing fiscal year. 1967 Ops St Compt File #390.

Where a village board of trustees determines that benefit assessments are to be paid in annual installments, it must finance the cost of the improvement, or the part thereof to be defrayed by benefit assessments on an annual basis, pursuant to the requirements of the Local Finance Law. 1967 Ops St Compt File #522.

4. Purchase money mortgage

The city may not acquire real property for municipal parking lot purposes and finance the purchase of the same by issuing a purchase money mortgage therefor. 1956 Ops St Compt 291.

5. Rental of equipment

A municipality has no authority to rent equipment with the rental to be applied against purchase price, as such agreements not only contravene the purpose of laws requiring competitive bidding but are unauthorized as installment purchases. 1961 Ops St Compt File #301.

6. Installment purchase contract

None of the provisions of this law establish a method of financing an obligation by purchase agreement with installment payments and any contract entered into by a village, such as one for acquisition of property for a public parking lot, is void. Marine Midland Trust Co. v Waverly, 42 Misc. 2d 704, 248 N.Y.S.2d 729, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1722 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963), aff'd, 21 A.D.2d 753, 251 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5365 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

De facto lease-purchase, characterized as "lease agreement" by city school district and high school development corporation, was invalid where (1) it explicitly stated that neither full faith and credit nor district's taxing power were pledged to payment of any amount due or to become due, and that district's obligations did not and would not constitute indebtedness under CLS NY Const Art VII or Art VIII or CLS Loc Fin § 20.00, and (2) new high school was to be constructed on land owned by development corporation, not on district property. 2003 Op Comm Ed No. 14,857.

A fire district may not enter into an installment land contract for purchase of realty, since such a contract is not included in the enumeration of obligations authorized by this section. 1962 Ops St Compt #818.

Water district land may be sold without referendum, but a public hearing is required if the value exceeds $1,000. The seller has no authority to accept, as the purchase price, anything but money. The purchasing town has no authority to pay the purchase price by giving an installment contract. 1966 Ops St Compt File #1129.

An arrangement whereby a municipality agrees to "lease" developed real property for a specified time, with title to vest in the municipality at the conclusion thereof, would be void as an unauthorized instalment purchase. The municipality could purchase or lease land and develop it, or agree to a true lease of such developed property. 1969 Ops St Compt File #217.

A transaction whereby a not-for-profit corporation, without competitive bidding, constructs a public facility for use by a municipal corporation in the performance of its governmental functions and the municipal corporation acquires use of the facility under a lease agreement and has an option to purchase: (a) does not constitute indebtedness for purposes of the State Constitution and Local Finance Law if the lease agreement has an executory clause making the municipal corporation's obligation contingent on annual appropriations, although it is doubtful that a clause providing that, if the municipal corporation fails to appropriate money for the lease payments, the municipal corporation agrees not to purchase, lease or rent property to perform the same functions as the facility, would be enforceable; (b) constitutes a prohibited installment purchase contract if the total character of the transaction is that of a purchase rather than a lease; and (c) violates the competitive bidding requirements of General Municipal Law §§ 101, 103, if the total character of the transaction constitutes a contract for public work of the municipal corporation. 1991 Op St Compt No. 91-13.

Discussion concerning a village's purchase of a building and grounds from an American Legion post and of the use of the property thereafter for the post's meetings and social affairs. 1978 Op St Compt File #998.

A village may not use a multi-purpose credit card issued by one of the credit card firms, such as Master Charge. 1979 Op St Compt File #152.

If a multi-purpose credit card company which issues a card such as the VISA card, is able to comply with the certification of claim requirements of Town Law, § 118, it may issue its cards in the name of a town for the use of town employees and officers for, among other things, reimbursable travel expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. 1979 Op St Compt File #202.

An arrangement whereby a village leases a pistol range to several private organizations in exchange for repair and renovation work to be performed by the organizations could be viewed as a circumvention of statutory competitive bidding and/or local financing requirements. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-144.

Municipal hospitals may not establish a line of credit with a bank as a means of financing expenditures; municipal hospitals may not guarantee repayment of loans taken out by incoming patients as a means of paying their bills. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-152.

A village may sell unneeded real property to a fire company. The fire company may construct a building and lease part of the structure back to the village to house village fire equipment if the arrangement constitutes a true lease. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-341.

2. Rental of equipment

A town may not enter into a "lease" agreement to obtain a tractor where such agreement provides that rental payments be applied to an option purchase price and provides for rental payments to include a principal amount plus a finance charge. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-51.

3. Installment purchase contract

A multi-purpose credit card may be issued to a city school district for use by personnel in charging reimbursable travel expenses incurred while performing their duties. However, the credit card company must comply with Education Law, § 2524(1) when claiming payment. 1979 Op St Compt File #494.

A board of cooperative educational services may enter into an installment contract to purchase computer equipment. 1979 Op St Compt File #557.

A lease agreement pursuant to which the Town of Altamont pays an annual rental for real property used by the town as a ski area and which further provides that the lessor agrees to make a gift of the property to the town at the expiration of the lease term would appear to constitute an unauthorized installment purchase contract. 1980 Op St Compt File #243.

a. Any municipality, school district or district corporation may issue serial bonds for any object or purpose having a period of probable usefulness set forth in paragraph a of section 11.00 of this chapter and for which object or purpose it may contract indebtedness pursuant to section 10.00 of this chapter; provided, however, that serial bonds shall not be issued by such municipality, school district or district corporation (1) in those cases in which provision is made in sections 24.00 and 25.00 of this chapter for the issuance of tax anticipation notes and revenue anticipation notes to be issued in anticipation of the collection or receipt of taxes, revenues or assessments, as the case may be, or (2) in those cases in which provision is made in section 29.00 of this chapter for the issuance of budget notes other than paragraph n of such section, or (3) in those cases in which budget notes have been issued under such paragraph n; and further provided, however, that nothing contained herein shall prohibit the issuance of serial bonds by such municipality, school district or district corporation for the object or purpose specified in subdivision sixty of paragraph a of section 11.00 of this chapter.

b. Serial bonds shall mature in annual installments. The first installment shall mature not later than eighteen months after the date of such bonds or two years after the date of the first bond anticipation note or notes issued in anticipation of such bonds, whichever is the earlier, provided, however, that until July fifteenth, two thousand twenty-one, the first installment shall mature not later than two years after the date of such bonds or two years after the date of the first bond anticipation note or notes issued in anticipation of such bonds, whichever is the earlier. However, if bond anticipation notes are issued in anticipation of bonds and if a portion of such notes or the renewals thereof are redeemed from a source other than the proceeds of such bonds within two years from the date of the first such note or notes and a further portion thereof shall be so redeemed prior to the termination of each twelve months' period succeeding the date such original portion was so redeemed, the first installment of such bonds may, in the alternative, be made to mature not later than five years from the date of the first such note or notes.

b-1. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph b of this section, if bond anticipation notes are issued in anticipation of bonds for assessable improvements and if a portion of such notes or the renewals thereof are redeemed from a source other than the proceeds of such bonds within two years from the date of the first such note or notes and a further portion thereof shall be so redeemed prior to the termination of each twelve months' period succeeding the date such original portion was so redeemed, the first installment of such bonds shall mature not later than twelve months from the last preceding date such portion is so redeemed.

c. The last installment of serial bonds shall mature not later than the expiration of the period of probable usefulness of the object or purpose for which such bonds are issued, as computed from the date of such bonds or, if bond anticipation notes shall have been issued in anticipation thereof, as computed from the date of the earliest note or notes so issued.

d. No annual installment of serial bonds shall be more than fifty per centum in excess of the smallest prior installment. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, bond anticipation notes, which are redeemed from a source other than the proceeds of bonds, shall be deemed to be serial bonds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the finance board of any municipality, school district or district corporation may determine to issue bonds and provide for substantially level or declining annual debt service. The determination of whether annual debt service is substantially level or declining shall not take into account the first twelve months after issuance to the extent that no provision is to be made for the payment of principal during such period. If a municipality, school district or district corporation determines to issue bonds with a substantially level or declining annual debt service schedule, then the aggregate amount of debt service payable in each year shall not exceed the lowest aggregate amount of debt service payable in any prior year by more than the greater of five percent or ten thousand dollars. For purposes of this paragraph, debt service shall include all of the following scheduled to become due: principal, redemption price, sinking fund installments or contributions, and interest. For purposes of determining whether debt service is substantially level or declining on bonds issued with a variable rate of interest pursuant to section 54.90 of this article, the finance board shall estimate the average rate of interest at which fixed interest rate bonds of the same maturities would be sold and amortize principal based upon such interest rate assumption. The estimate by the finance board of such interest rate shall be deemed final and conclusive. If the finance board of the municipality, school district or district corporation determines that interest on such bonds shall be compounded and payable at maturity or prior redemption, such bonds may be issued only where such finance board has determined to issue the bonds pursuant to a substantially level or declining annual debt service schedule unless accrued interest is contributed at least annually to a sinking fund in accordance with section two of article VIII of the constitution and the procedures of section 22.10 of this title. A municipality, school district or district corporation providing for substantially level or declining debt service may provide for contracting such indebtedness as serial bonds, as sinking fund bonds, as term bonds, or as any combination thereof. Term bonds may be issued under the authority of this paragraph with a stated maturity and a schedule of mandatory redemptions prior thereto, providing (with other bonds of the same issue, if any) for substantially level or declining debt service.

e. Serial bonds shall be redeemed by an annual appropriation.

f. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs b and d of this section:

1. The first installment of serial bonds issued for the purpose of providing moneys out of which to make loans to or in aid of limited-profit housing companies pursuant to article two of the private housing finance law, or loans to owners of existing multiple dwellings pursuant to article eight of the private housing finance law, or issued for the purpose of providing moneys for the effectuating of any urban renewal program or part thereof pursuant to the general municipal law, may mature not later than five years after the date of issuance of such bonds or six years after the date of issuance of the first bond anticipation note or notes issued in anticipation of such bonds, whichever is earlier; provided, however, that if the bond anticipation notes or renewals thereof issued in anticipation of such serial bonds extend more than five years beyond the original date of such issue, pursuant to the provisions of paragraph b of section 23.00 of this chapter, the first installment of such serial bonds may mature not later than such number of years after the date of issuance of such bonds or such number of years plus one after the original date of issuance of such notes, whichever is earlier; and

2. The annual installments of serial bonds issued for such purpose and for the purpose of providing moneys out of which to make loans to owners of existing multiple dwellings pursuant to article eight of the private housing finance law may be computed in such manner that the total of principal and interest required to be paid in each year beginning with the year in which the first installment is due, will be approximately equal to the total of principal and interest required to be paid in each succeeding year of the period for which such bonds were issued.

Revision Notes: [1956] (Paragraph f) This act reduces the development cost and rentals by facilitating the use of municipal funds for building loans on limited profit housing projects for middle income families.

[1958] Because of the time which elapses from the inception of an urban renewal project to completion of land acquisition and demolition of buildings it is impractical to require the issuance of long term bonds within three years after the start of work on such projects. It was therefore deemed desirable to extend the permissible time for temporary financing so that bonds for permanent financing need not be issued prior to completion of the project. It is believed this procedure will also effect some savings on interest charges.

Notwithstanding the provisions of the local finance law as amended by this act, any bond anticipation notes heretofore issued in anticipation of bonds for an assessable improvement may be renewed from time to time for a period not exceeding one year for each such renewal, and without limitation as to the number of such renewals, provided that such notes, as renewed, shall not extend beyond the expiration of the period of probable usefulness of the object or purpose for which issued, as computed from the date of the first note or notes so issued, and provided further that such notes, as renewed, shall not extend more than two years from the date of the first note or notes so issued unless a portion thereof shall be redeemed from a source other than the proceeds of such bonds within two years from the date of the first note or notes so issued and unless a further portion thereof shall be so redeemed prior to the termination of each twelve months' period succeeding the date such original portion was so redeemed, if any of such notes, as renewed, are still outstanding at the termination of each such period. Every bond anticipation note resolution and certificate authorizing any such renewal note, in addition to the statements and provisions required by section 38.10 of the local finance law, shall contain a statement indicating that such note is issued in anticipation of bonds for an assessable improvement. All of the provisions of the local finance law not inconsistent with the provisions of this section shall apply to such notes and renewals thereof.

Laws 1958, ch 304, § 3, provides:

This act shall take effect immediately and shall control notwithstanding any inconsistent general, special or local law.

Amendment Notes: 2012. Chapter 91, § 1 amended:

Par b by deleting at fig 1 "twelve" and adding the matter in italics.

1994. Chapter 201, § 3 amended:

Par d by deleting at fig 1 "this paragraph" and adding the matter in italics.

The 2015 amendment by ch 77, § 1, substituted "two thousand eighteen" for "two thousand fifteen" in the second sentence of b.

The 2018 amendment by ch 113, § 1, substituted "two thousand twenty-one" for "two thousand eighteen" in the second sentence of b.

Commission Note: [1942] Under the provisions of paragraph c, serial bonds need not necessarily be redeemed by a budgetary appropriation. Thus, assessment bonds may be redeemed from assessable improvement funds, etc.

1. In general

By Laws 1909, c 365, the common council of Yonkers was vested with discretion to select the mode of city financing by which the cost of sites for educational purposes should be met, and that right was preserved to it by former § 879, subd. 2, of the Education Law. Yonkers Lodge No. 707 of B. P. O. E. v Condon, 287 N.Y. 44, 38 N.E.2d 123, 287 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 44, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1389 (N.Y. 1941), reh'g denied, 287 N.Y. 755, 40 N.E.2d 41, 287 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 755, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1770 (N.Y. 1942).

Bonds may be typewritten. 1945 Ops St Compt 458.

Water district land may be sold without referendum, but a public hearing is required if the value exceeds $1,000. The seller has no authority to accept, as the purchase price, anything but money. The purchasing town has no authority to pay the purchase price by giving an installment contract. 1966 Ops St Compt File #1129.

2. Partial financing of improvement through issuance of bonds

In the event that the parts of the current surplus of the city of Rome to be used for the construction of an annex to the city hall, an annex to the Public Works barn, the paving and repairing of streets, and the construction of storm-water sewers are insufficient or unavailable to defray all of the cost of any of these objects or purposes, the city may borrow to defray all or part of such cost by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, subject to the limitations of par. d of § 104.00 and § 107.00. 1946 Ops St Compt 155.

3. Budgeting of bond debts

Where a board of education of a school district in Westchester County has certified to the town supervisor the amount to be raised by tax for school purposes, it would seem that prior to the execution and delivery of the warrant, an amended certificate could be submitted providing for an increase in the tax levy because of the board's failure to include an appropriation in the budget for the payment of debt service as required by the Constitution. 1953 Ops St Compt 314.

The proceeds of bonds, which are appropriated by a school district for the construction of a building for public library use, are under the control of the school district officials and accordingly the debt service on the bonds should be reflected in the budget of the school district. 1956 Ops St Compt 265.

There is no requirement for establishment of sinking fund as to "zero coupon bonds" issued between July 19, 1991 and December 31, 1993 as part of issuance having overall discount of 25 percent or less; face amount at maturity of "zero coupon bonds" issued between those dates is chargeable against local government's debt limit. 1994 Op St Compt No. 94-19.

4. Consent of State Comptroller

The consent of the State Comptroller is not necessary to the issuance of bonds or bond anticipation notes by village except in certain refundings. After bonds have been authorized, bond anticipation notes may be issued from time to time as needed within the limitation of this section which requires bonds to be dates not later than two years after the date of the first such note. 1945 Ops St Compt 566.

A central school district may issue bonds in the amount of $2,700 without the permission of the State Comptroller. 1947 Ops St Compt 433.

A town may construct an additional lateral water main to serve a new street within a water district. The cost of such construction may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes, or surplus moneys of the water district may be used, if the district is on an "ad valorem basis". The construction may be undertaken by the town board without the consent of the State Comptroller. Where district is on an "ad valorem basis", the cost of construction shall be a general charge against the district and it shall be assessed, levied and collected from the several lots or parcels of real property within the district in the same manner as taxes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #398.

5. Term for which bonds may be issued

A town which purchases highway machinery may issue bonds having a maturity of five years. Such period commences upon the date of such bonds. 1956 Ops St Compt 71.

A town may not issue bonds which have a maximum maturity greater than the period of probable usefulness of the project. 1957 Ops St Compt File #757.

The maximum maturity of bonds issued to finance the construction of different objects or purposes depends on the periods of probable usefulness of each different object or purpose. 1969 Ops St Compt File #707.

6. Redemption

Surplus funds of a fire district may be used to redeem bonds or capital notes and interest thereon. 1946 Ops St Compt 600.

A village may not issue bonds that are payable on a semi-annual basis. 1967 Ops St Compt File #1033.

7. Renewal

For a discussion of power to renew bond anticipation notes beyond usual two-year maximum where issued in anticipation of sale of bonds for assessable improvements, see 1955 Ops St Compt 13.

8. Referendum

Water district land may be sold without referendum, but a public hearing is required if the value exceeds $1,000. The seller has no authority to accept, as the purchase price, anything but money. The purchasing town has no authority to pay the purchase price by giving an installment contract. 1966 Ops St Compt File #1129.

The cost of construction of additions to and improvement of the water system of a water district may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. It is necessary to hold a public hearing on a proposition to increase or improve the facilities and appurtenances of the water system. No referendum, either mandatory or permissive is required. 1968 Ops St Compt File #812.

A bond resolution, effectuating an urban renewal program in a village, is subject to a permissive referendum if the proposed maturity of the bonds is more than five years. 1969 Ops St Compt File #1015.

9. Issuance of serial bonds for specific purposes

Bonds may not be issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes or revenues to finance salary increases for teachers. 1946 Ops St Compt 614.

Where a municipality has insufficient funds to meet certain year-end costs, it may, subject to certain statutory limitations, borrow through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes, or capital notes, if for capital expenditures, and through issuing budget notes, if for current operating expenses. 1967 Ops St Compt File #643.

Town board may authorize issuance of bonds to finance tax certiorari judgments; resolution authorizing issuance of bonds must be authorized by ⅔ vote of town board and is neither subject to mandatory referendum nor is town board authorized to provide for referendum on its own motion. 1993 Op St Compt No. 93-4.

10. —Water systems

Serial bonds for capital notes may be issued to finance the local share of the cost of preparing preliminary plans for a water district to be constructed as a post-war Public Works project. 1946 Ops St Compt 348.

A new roof on a water district pump house may involve partial reconstruction which may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes. If repair alone is involved, borrowing would be under § 29.00(i). The same problem is involved in respect to machinery. A water district may not issue bonds to finance legal services. 1946 Ops St Compt 642.

The cost of the construction of additions to and the improvement of the water system of a water district may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. 1947 Ops St Compt 313.

The construction of new pipelines in a water district may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes. 1947 Ops St Compt 401.

A village may issue bonds to finance the cost of an auxiliary or additional water supply. 1954 Ops St Compt 414.

The cost of increasing and improving the source of water supply in a town water district may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds. 1955 Ops St Compt 107.

Where proposed water system for a water district was not constructed, legal and engineering fees and miscellaneous expenses of establishment of the district may nevertheless be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. 1957 Ops St Compt File #765.

A pipe line constructed by a village outside its own boundaries may be financed by bond issue or capital note. 1963 Ops St Compt #643.

The cost of construction of additions to and improvement of the water system of a water district may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. It is necessary to hold a public hearing on a proposition to increase or improve the facilities and appurtenances of the water system. No referendum, either mandatory or permissive is required. 1968 Ops St Compt File #812.

A town may construct an additional lateral water main to serve a new street within a water district. The cost of such construction may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes, or surplus moneys of the water district may be used, if the district is on an "ad valorem basis". The construction may be undertaken by the town board without the consent of the State Comptroller. Where district is on an "ad valorem basis", the cost of construction shall be a general charge against the district and it shall be assessed, levied and collected from the several lots or parcels of real property within the district in the same manner as taxes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #398.

11. —Sewer systems

Serial bonds or capital notes would be used to finance capital improvements in a sewer district. 1946 Ops St Compt 107.

Serial bonds and capital notes may be issued to finance town's share of cost of preliminary plans for sewer system prepared pursuant to Public Works Law, § 31(1). 1952 Ops St Compt 275.

12. —Incinerators

Where a village wishes to finance a $15,000 addition to its incinerator over a period of five years, it may do so by issuing serial bonds or bond anticipation notes or a statutory installment bond, but not by issuing a capital note. 1967 Ops St Compt File #379.

13. —Landfills

The cost of installing a town sanitary landfill operation is a town-wide charge against all taxable real property in the town, including incorporated villages within the town. 1968 Ops St Compt File #510.

A town may finance the purchase of machinery and equipment for the operation of a landfill installation, as a general town charge, through a budgetary appropriation or through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #540.

14. —Buildings

On and after Sept. 1, 1945, the cost of the construction of a town garage may be financed by the issuance of either serial bonds or capital notes, pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 342.

A village may issue bonds to finance the purchase of land and the construction of a municipal building thereon. 1946 Ops St Compt 396.

The cost of construction of a fire house may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. 1952 Ops St Compt 137.

School district may issue bonds or capital notes to finance construction of a building to house the public library established by the law district. 1953 Ops St Compt 95.

City may finance acquisition of real property pursuant to Military Law § 171-a by issuance of bonds. 1954 Ops St Compt 54.

15. —Parks and recreation facilities

A village recreation field may not be financed over a five-year period except by the issuance of serial bonds. For shorter periods capital notes may be used. 1945 Ops St Compt 477.

16. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas

A county may finance the purchase of highway machinery and equipment by the issuance of bonds or capital notes. 1945 Ops St Compt 378.

Budget notes, capital notes, or serial bonds may be issued for the resurfacing of a town highway. 1945 Ops St Compt 473.

While there is no authority for a village to purchase property on a land contract basis, a project for a village parking lot may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds and capital notes pursuant to the Local Finance Law. 1952 Ops St Compt 262.

17. —Vehicles

School buses may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes. 1945 Ops St Compt 257.

Appropriations for the purchase of fire-fighting vehicles and apparatus may be raised outside the constitutional 2% tax limit if serial bonds or capital notes are issued or if the purchase is made pursuant to the pay-as-you-go plan in accordance with the Constitution, Article VIII, section 11. 1947 Ops St Compt 354.

If police cars are to be purchased to replace similar police cars which were in service for one year or more, 3-year period of probable usefulness exists and purchase of such cars may be financed by issuance of capital note or bond; however, notwithstanding 3-year period of probable usefulness prescribed by CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a)(77), any capital notes issued to finance purchase of police cars must mature not later than last day of second fiscal year succeeding fiscal year in which notes are issued pursuant to CLS Loc Fin § 28.00[a]. Ops St Compt 88-37.

18. —Voting machines

Towns may finance voting machines by either bonds or capital notes. 1947 Ops St Compt 127.

19. —Appraisals

A village may issue serial bonds or capital notes for the purpose of financing the employment of experts to appraise the value of the real property within the village. 1952 Ops St Compt 258.

20. —Tax assessment equipment

Neither bonds nor capital notes may be issued to finance the cost of leasing I.B.M. equipment or the expense of assessment rolls prepared on such equipment. 1946 Ops St Compt 675.

21. Issuance of budget notes as alternative

Budget notes should not be issued under section 29.l00 (h) if serial bonds or capital notes may be issued. 1947 Ops St Compt 26.

22. Issuance of capital notes as alternative

A village recreation field may not be financed over a five-year period except by the issuance of serial bonds. For shorter periods capital notes may be used. 1945 Ops St Compt 477.

Where a village wishes to finance a $15,000 addition to its incinerator over a period of five years, it may do so by issuing serial bonds or bond anticipation notes or a statutory installment bond, but not by issuing a capital note. 1967 Ops St Compt File #379.

23. Issuance of bond anticipation notes

The consent of the State Comptroller is not necessary to the issuance of bonds or bond anticipation notes by village except in certain refundings. After bonds have been authorized, bond anticipation notes may be issued from time to time as needed within the limitation of this section which requires bonds to be dates not later than two years after the date of the first such note. 1945 Ops St Compt 566.

A village may issue bond anticipation notes to finance, over a period of four years, a $7,000 street repaving project. 1968 Ops St Compt File #40.

Analysis

1. Term for which bonds may be issued
2. Issuance of serial bonds for specific purposes
3. Issuance of budget notes as alternative
4. Issuance of bond anticipation notes

1. Term for which bonds may be issued

School district bonds were limited in respect to maximum terms by former § 8-a of the General Municipal Law and could not be issued for a maximum period of thirty years in accordance with the provisions of former § 480 of the Education Law. 1936 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 292.

2. Issuance of serial bonds for specific purposes

Where a county enters a contract for services to be performed for a county sewer district and the contract is terminated without cause by the district, any judgment for damages would be rendered against the county but the county must assess any judgment against the district. The county may sell bonds to pay such a judgment since the district is a unit of county government but the cost of debt service on the bonds must be charged back to the district. 1980 Op St Compt File #201.

3. Issuance of budget notes as alternative

Where a village has insufficient funds to pay operating expenses during a fiscal year as a result of having previously financed unanticipated capital expenditures from current funds, it may raise additional funds to meet operating expenses by the issuance of budget notes. It may not issue bonds to finance the capital purchases after current funds have already been expended to make such purchases. 1981 Op St Compt File #81-122.

4. Issuance of bond anticipation notes

An "assessable improvement" within the context of Local Finance Law, §§ 21.00(b-1) and 23.00(b-1) is a capital improvement the cost of which is assessed in whole or part against an area deemed benefited by the improvement. Bond anticipation notes issued by the Chautauqua Utility District are issued "in anticipation of bonds for assessable improvements" within the meaning of such provisions. 1983 Op St Compt File #83-157.

a. Bond anticipation notes may be issued by any municipality, school district or district corporation in anticipation of the sale of bonds. Such notes may be issued whenever bonds have been authorized and the proceeds of such notes shall be expended only for the same object or purpose, or class thereof for which the proceeds of such bonds may be expended.

b. Such notes shall mature at such time as the issuer may determine and may be renewed from time to time, provided, that in no event shall such notes or the renewals thereof extend more than two years beyond such original date of issue unless a portion of such notes or the renewals thereof shall be redeemed from a source other than the proceeds of bonds within two years from such original date of issue and unless a further portion thereof shall be so redeemed prior to the termination of each twelve months' period succeeding the date such original portion was so redeemed, if any of such notes, as renewed, are still outstanding at the termination of each such period, but such notes or the renewals thereof shall not extend more than five years beyond such original date of issue. Such redemption shall be consistent with the amortization requirements of article eight of the state constitution and section 21.00 of this title. If the finance board has determined to provide for substantially level or declining debt service on the bonds in anticipation of which such notes are authorized to be issued, such notes shall be redeemed in an amount at least equal in each year to the annual installment which would be paid in such year if such notes were serial bonds issued at a five percent rate of interest for the remaining period of probable usefulness of the object or purpose for which issued, or, if less, the remaining portion of the maximum authorized maturity of such bonds, and all annual debt service payments were equal over the life of such bonds. In any event, bond anticipation notes shall not be renewed after the receipt of the proceeds from the sale of the bonds in anticipation of which such notes were issued. Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph: 1. bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the receipt of the proceeds of the sale of bonds for the purpose of providing moneys out of which to make loans to limited profit housing companies pursuant to article two of the private housing finance law, or loans to owners of existing multiple dwellings pursuant to article eight of the private housing finance law, or for the purpose of providing moneys for the effectuating of any urban renewal program or part thereof pursuant to the general municipal law, or the renewals of such notes, may extend not more than five years beyond the original date of issue of such notes; and 2. renewals of bond anticipation notes issued originally during calendar years two thousand fifteen through two thousand twenty-one, inclusive may not extend more than seven years beyond the original date of issue of such bond anticipation notes.

b-1. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph b of section 21.00 of this title and the provisions of paragraph b of this section any bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of bonds for an assessable improvement may be renewed from time to time for a period not exceeding one year for each such renewal, and without limitation as to the number of such renewals, provided that such notes, as renewed, shall not extend beyond the expiration of the period of probable usefulness of the object or purpose for which issued, as computed from the date of the first note or notes so issued, and provided further that such notes, as renewed, shall not extend more than two years from the date of the first note or notes so issued unless a portion thereof shall be redeemed from a source other than the proceeds of such bonds within two years from the date of the first note or notes so issued and unless a further portion thereof shall be so redeemed prior to the termination of each twelve months' period succeeding the date such original portion was so redeemed, if any of such notes, as renewed, are still outstanding at the termination of each such period. Annual principal installments on notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of paragraph b of this section. Every bond anticipation note resolution and certificate authorizing any such renewal note, in addition to the statements and provisions required by section 38.10 of this chapter, shall contain a statement indicating that such note is issued in anticipation of bonds for an assessment improvement.

c. Bond anticipation notes shall not be issued in an amount which shall exceed the par value of the bonds in anticipation of which they are to be issued.

d. 1. Bond anticipation notes shall be redeemed from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds in anticipation of which they were issued. However, if such bonds are not sold, then such bond anticipation notes shall be redeemed:

(a) From any unencumbered balance in any fund which may be applied to the payment thereof, or

(b) By a budgetary appropriation.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this paragraph, bond anticipation notes may be redeemed, in whole or in part, prior to the sale of the bonds in anticipation of which such notes were issued, from any moneys which lawfully may be applied to the payment of such notes.

Revision Notes: [1944 Revision] Par a. The words "or class thereof" were inserted to aid in the interpretation of the section.

[1956] See 1956 note to § 11.00.

[1961] This legislation conformed the references to the Limited Profit Housing Law, the Limited Dividend Housing Law, and the Redevelopment Companies Law to reflect the enactment of chapter 803 of the Laws of 1961, which brought together as Chapter 44-B of the Consolidated Laws the various provisions formerly found in the Public Housing Law, the Unconsolidated Laws, the Local Finance Law and elsewhere relating to aids to private enterprise housing. It also repealed paragraph b of § 23.00 of the Local Finance Law to correct an error caused by the passage of two amendments to this paragraph without reference to each other at the 1958 Session. It further repealed subdivision 2 of paragraph c of § 23.00 of such law to correct an error caused by the passage of two amendments to this subdivision without reference to each other at the 1960 Session.

See 1961 note to § 11.00.

Editor's Notes: Based upon a review of L 1969, ch 62, and L 1969, ch 690, the Legislative Bill Drafting Commission has determined that the language and objective of the Legislature in 1969 was clearly to eliminate the additional limitation as contained in former sub 2 of par c of this section. Accordingly, par c, as above shown, represents the Commission's determination of the correct version of said par c.

See 1960 note to Pub Hous Law § 58.

Amendment Notes; 2012. Chapter 264, § 1 amended:

Par b, sub 2 by deleting at fig 1 "four", at fig 2 "five" and adding the matter in italics.

1994. Chapter 201, § 5 amended:

Par b-1 by deleting at fig 1 "twenty-one", at fig 2 "chapter" and adding the matter in italics.

Commission Note: As an aid for the reduction of long term borrowing for financing assessable improvements, the Commission has provided that bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of bonds for assessable improvements may be redeemed directly from the assessments levied upon and collected from the real property benefited thereby as well as from the other sources provided for in this section (i.e., bonds, budget appropriations and unencumbered funds). However, as a practical matter more than two years may lapse between the date of the issuance of such notes and the collection of such assessments. Thus, in order to facilitate such desirable method of redemption, the Commission has excepted such notes from the restriction that bond anticipation notes, including the renewals thereof, shall not extend more than two years from the date of their original issue, with the proviso, if the maturity of such notes extend beyond two years, that a portion of such notes be redeemed in accordance with the requirements of § 2 of Article 8 of the State Constitution, relating to serial retirement of indebtedness.

Amendment Notes The 2020 amendment by ch 157, § 1, substituted "years two thousand fifteen through two thousand twenty-one, inclusive" for "year two thousand seven or two thousand eight" in (b)(2).

Repeal Notes: [1963] Section 2 of this act repealed subdivision 2 of paragraph c of section 23.00 of the Local Finance Law, which was amended by Chapter 716 of the laws of 1962. This repeal corrects an error caused by the passage of two amendments to this subdivision without reference to each other at the 1962 Session.

5. Redemption of notes

1. In general; authorization of bond anticipation notes

The consent of the State Comptroller is not necessary to the issuance of bonds or bond anticipation notes by a village except in certain refundings. After bonds have been authorized, bond anticipation notes may be issued from time to time as needed within the limitation of § 21.00 which requires bonds to be dated not later than two years after the date of the first such note. 1945 Ops St Compt 566.

Bond anticipation notes may be issued in anticipation of the future sale of bonds under this section after the adoption of a bond resolution. 1945 Ops St Compt 583.

A fire district bond resolution must be adopted by at least a two-thirds vote of the voting strength of the finance board. In fire districts having a five member board of commissioners, at least four must vote for such resolution. 1957 Ops St Compt File #97.

Bond anticipation notes may be issued for any purpose for which a bond resolution has been adopted. The bond resolution would be subject to permissive referendum unless the proposed maturity date is not more than five years from the date of issue of the first bond anticipation note. No further referendum is needed for the issuance of the bonds. 1968 Ops St Compt File #683.

2. —Appropriation of surplus funds

Strictly speaking, the mere existence of assets in a city's electric utility depreciation reserve fund, and the existence of surplus moneys in its electric light and water rent funds, would not require the use of such assets and surplus for related capital improvements in the place of issuing obligations therefor, except that a city is without authority to accumulate capital reserve fund assets solely for investment purposes or to carry over uncommitted surpluses into an ensuing fiscal year. 1967 Ops St Compt File #390.

3. Purposes for which notes may be issued

Engineering fees incurred in connection with a capital improvement may be paid from the proceeds of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes or deferred payment notes. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-737.

Where a village wishes to finance a $15,000 addition to its incinerator over a period of five years, it may do so by issuing serial bonds or bond anticipation notes or a statutory installment bond, but not by issuing a capital note. 1967 Ops St Compt #379.

It would seem that, where a school district has procured voter approval and has adopted a bond resolution for the construction of one or more schools, including furnishings and equipment, and, where it needs such furnishings and equipment for use in temporary school quarters, pending completion of the new project, it may issue bond anticipation notes for the acquisition and temporary use of such furnishings and equipment. 1967 Ops St Compt File #573.

Where a municipality has insufficient funds to meet certain year-end costs, it may, subject to certain statutory limitations, borrow through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes, or capital notes, if for capital expenditures, and through issuing budget notes, if for current operating expenses. 1967 Ops St Compt File #643.

A village may issue bond anticipation notes to finance, over a period of four years, a $7,000 street repaving project. 1968 Ops St Compt File #40.

A town may finance the purchase of machinery and equipment for the operation of a landfill installation, as a general town charge, through a budgetary appropriation or through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #540.

4. Renewal of notes

For a discussion of power to renew bond anticipation notes beyond usual two-year maximum where issued in anticipation of sale of bonds for assessable improvements, see 1954 Ops St Compt 13.

With certain exceptions, bond anticipation notes may not be renewed so as to extend more than five years beyond the date of original issue, the prime exception, subject to statutory provisos, being where such notes have been issued in anticipation of bonds for an assessable improvement. 1967 Ops St Compt File #569.

5. Redemption of notes

Deferred payment notes may not be issued to redeem bond anticipation notes. 1959 Ops St Compt File #776.

The unneeded balance of a capital reserve fund may not be used to retire bond anticipation notes. 1967 Ops St Compt File #14.

Where a capital project has been temporarily financed by the issuance of bond anticipation notes, the finance board may issue bonds at any time thereafter and before the due date of the notes, and may invest the bond proceeds until such time as the notes mature. 1967 Ops St Compt File #636.

Analysis

1. In general; authorization of bond anticipation notes
2. Purposes for which notes may be issued

1. In general; authorization of bond anticipation notes

A town may not issue bond anticipation notes for the purchase of a snowplow where such notes would be extended or renewed beyond five years from the date the notes were first issued. 1980 Op St Compt File #198.

A bank, of which a village attorney is a director, may purchase a bond anticipation note issued by the village and agree to extend the date of maturity, so long as the village attorney does not have the power or duty to perform any of the functions listed in General Municipal Law, § 801(1). 1982 Op St Compt File #82-251.

2. Purposes for which notes may be issued

An "assessable improvement" within the context of Local Finance Law, §§ 21.00(b-1) and 23.00(b-1) is a capital improvement the cost of which is assessed in whole or part against an area deemed benefited by the improvement. Bond anticipation notes issued by the Chautauqua Utility District are issued "in anticipation of bonds for assessable improvements" within the meaning of such provisions. 1983 Op St Compt File #83-157.

§ 24.00. Tax anticipation notes

1. Tax anticipation notes may be issued by any municipality, school district or district corporation, other than a fire district,

(a) During a fiscal year in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments levied for such fiscal year,

(b) Within ten days prior to the commencement of a fiscal year or, where the fiscal year of the issuer is a calendar year, within thirty days prior to the commencement of a fiscal year, in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments levied for such fiscal year,

(c) During a fiscal year in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments to be levied in such fiscal year,

(d) Within ten days prior to the commencement of a fiscal year or, where the fiscal year of the issuer is a calendar year, within thirtydays prior to the commencement of a fiscal year, in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments to be levied in such fiscal year, or

(e) During any fiscal year in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments levied for any of the four preceding fiscal years.

The term "assessments" as used in this paragraph means assessments levied or to be levied for operation, maintenance or debt service.

2. Prior to the adoption of its annual budget any municipality, school district or district corporation which adopts an annual budget after the commencement of its fiscal year shall not issue such notes pursuant to items (c) or (d) of subdivision one of this paragraph in excess of the combined amounts of:

(a) The amount necessary for the payment of the principal of and interest on any indebtedness to become due during the first four months of its current fiscal year, and

(b) Thirty-five per centum of the difference between the amount of its annual budget for the preceding fiscal year and the amount provided therein for the payment of the principal of and interest on indebtedness.

3. In no event shall any municipality, school district or district corporation reduce the amount to be raised by taxes or assessments in its annual budget or other determination of taxes or assessments to be raised to an amount less than the amount of the outstanding notes which have been issued pursuant to items (c) and (d) of subdivision one of this paragraph.

4. In the case of such notes issued pursuant to items (a), (b) and (e) of subdivision one of this paragraph, such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of the amount of the taxes or assessments levied for a fiscal year which is uncollected at the time of such borrowing less:

(a) The amount of the outstanding tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such taxes or assessments, and

(b) The amount, if any, included in the annual budget for such fiscal year or in the levy of taxes or assessments for such fiscal year to offset, in whole or in part, an anticipated deficiency in the collection before the end of such fiscal year of the taxes or assessments levied for such fiscal year.

5. The proceeds of notes issued pursuant to items (c) and (d) of subdivision one of this paragraph shall be used only for the purposes for which the taxes or assessments are to be levied or for the redemption of notes in renewal of which they were issued. The proceeds of notes issued pursuant to items (a), (b) and (e) of subdivision one of this paragraph shall be used only for the purposes for which the taxes or assessments were levied or for the redemption of notes in renewal of which they were issued, provided, however, that the proceeds of such notes may be used for other lawful purposes if the purposes for which the taxes or assessments were levied have been satisfied and there are no unpaid claims arising therefrom or appropriate provision has already been made for the payment of such unpaid claims.

6. Tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall mature within one year from the date of their issuance and may be renewed from time to time, but each renewal shall be for a period not to exceed one year. Such notes or the renewals thereof shall be retired within five years after their date of original issue and in any event not later than five years after the close of the fiscal year for which were levied the taxes or assessments in anticipation of the collection of which such notes were issued; provided, however, that such notes issued pursuant to items (b) and (d) of subdivision one of this paragraph, or the renewals thereof, shall not extend beyond the close of the fourth fiscal year succeeding that in which the original notes were issued.

b. A municipality may issue tax anticipation notes in anticipation of the collection of the unpaid taxes or assessments of another municipality, a school district or a district corporation provided (1) such unpaid taxes or assessments are returned or certified to it, pursuant to law, and (2) such unpaid taxes or assessments are to be collected by or on behalf of the municipality to which such return or certification is made, and (3) such return or certification be accepted by such municipality. If a municipality is required by law to pay over to another municipality, a school district or district corporation all or part of the taxes or assessments of such other municipality, school district or district corporation, such municipality may issue tax anticipation notes in anticipation of the collection of such unpaid taxes or assessments in order to make such payment. Notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall mature within a period not to exceed one year from the date of their issuance and may be renewed from time to time, but each renewal shall be for a period not to exceed one year and in no event shall such notes or the renewals thereof extend beyond the close of the fourth fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year for which such taxes or assessments were levied. The proceeds of such notes shall be used as required by law, or for the redemption of notes in renewal of which they were issued.

c. If any tax district which is required by law to pay over to the county treasurer on or before October fifteenth of any calendar year the full amount of county or county district taxes or assessments due for such calendar year fails or neglects to pay to the treasurer of such county on or before such date the full amount of such taxes or assessments due for such calendar year, the county may issue tax anticipation notes in its own name to the amount of such deficiency. Such notes shall mature on or before June first of the next calendar year after such default and may be renewed from time to time but no renewal shall extend beyond eighteen months from the date of issue of the original note. Provision shall be made for the payment of the principal of and interest on said tax anticipation notes in the manner provided by section ninety-six of the tax law. the proceeds of such notes shall be used only for the purposes for which such taxes or assessments were levied or for the redemption of notes in renewal of which they were issued.

c-1. Any fire district in a town in the county of Westchester in which real estate taxes and assessments become payable on April first in each year may issue tax anticipation notes during any fiscal year prior to June first in such year in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments levied for such fire district for such year. Notes issued pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph shall mature on or before June first next following the date of their issuance and shall be redeemed from the taxes or assessments in anticipation of the collection of which such notes were issued. Such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of the difference between the amount of the fire district taxes or assessments remaining uncollected at the time of such borrowing and the amount of tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such taxes or assessments. Whenever the amount of tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall equal the amount of such taxes or assessments remaining uncollected, all of such taxes or assessments, as thereafter collected, shall be set aside in a special bank account to be used only for the payment of such notes as they become due. The proceeds of such notes shall be used only for the purposes for which such taxes or assessment were levied.

c-2. Any fire district in any town other than a town in the county of Westchester may issue tax anticipation notes at any time during the first three months of its fiscal year in anticipation of the collection of real estate taxes levied for such fire district for such fiscal year. Notes issued pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph shall mature on or before the fifteenth day of April next following the date of their issuance and shall be redeemed from the taxes in anticipation of the collection of which such notes were issued. Such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of the difference between the amount of the fire district taxes remaining uncollected at the time of such borrowing and the amount of tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such taxes. Whenever the amount of tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall equal the amount of such taxes remaining uncollected, all of such taxes, as thereafter collected, shall be set aside in a special bank account to be used only for the payment of such notes as they become due. The proceeds of such notes shall be used only for the purposes for which such taxes were levied. For the purpose of this paragraph such real estate taxes shall be deemed to be uncollected until the fire district receives cash therefor from the public officer required to pay such taxes to the fire district.

1. In the case of a newly created municipality, school district or district corporation, or in the case of any such unit of government which has elected a finance board for the first time, tax anticipation notes may be issued, prior to the first levy of taxes or assessments, for the necessary expenses incidental to its incorporation or creation and the other necessary expenses incurred or to be incurred prior to such levy. In the case of a municipality or school district, such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of two per centum of the assessed valuation of the taxable property therein as shown upon the last preceding assessment roll of any unit of government in which such property was evaluated. If, however, any part of such property was evaluated in the assessment roll of more than one unit of government its value, for the purposes of this section, shall be the lowest value assigned to it by any such assessment roll. In the case of a fire district, such notes shall not be issued in an amount exceeding one-twelfth of the amount of taxes which the fire district may raise annually without adopting a proposition pursuant to the provisions of the town law for each calendar month intervening between the date of the creation of the district and the first day of the fiscal year of the district for which an annual budget can be adopted, plus an amount not exceeding the actual and necessary expenses incidental to its creation. The phrase "the amount of taxes which the fire district may raise annually without adopting a proposition pursuant to the provisions of the town law," as used herein, shall mean two thousand dollars, except that in fire districts having a full valuation in excess of one million dollars it shall mean two thousand dollars plus one mill for each dollar of full valuation of the taxable real property of the fire district in excess of the first million dollars of full valuation of such taxable real property. In the case of any district corporation, other than a fire district, such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of one mill of the assessed valuation of the taxable property therein as shown upon the last preceding assessment roll of any unit of government in which such property was evaluated in addition to the necessary expenses incidental to incorporation. If, however, any part of such property was evaluated in the assessment roll of more than one unit of government, its value for the purpose of this section shall be the lowest value assigned to it by any such assessment roll.

2. In the case of the establishment of any improvement district of a county or of a town, which is to be financed by taxes or assessments levied upon an ad valorem or benefit basis, or in the case of the consolidation of special improvement districts, prior to the first levy in which such taxes or assessments are to be levied for such district or consolidated district the county or town, as the case may be, may issue tax anticipation notes for the necessary expenses incidental to the creation of such district or consolidation of such districts, and the other necessary expenses incurred or to be incurred for such district or consolidated district prior to such levy.

3. An appropriation for the redemption of notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall be included in the first levy of taxes or assessments of or for such municipality, school district, district corporation or improvement district. Such notes shall mature within one year from their date of issue and may be renewed from time to time, but each renewal shall be for a period not to exceed one year and in no event shall such notes or the renewals thereof extend beyond the close of the second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes were issued. The proceeds of such notes shall be used only to pay such necessary expenses incidental to such incorporation or creation and such other necessary expenses incurred or to be incurred prior to any such levy or for the redemption of notes in renewal of which they were issued.

e. Whenever the amount of tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to paragraphs a, b and d of this section in anticipation of the collection of the taxes or assessments levied or to be levied for a fiscal year shall equal the amount of such taxes or assessments remaining uncollected less the amount, if any, included in the annual budget for such fiscal year or in the levy of taxes or assessments for such fiscal year to offset, in whole or in part, an anticipated deficiency in the collection before the end of such fiscal year of the taxes or assessments levied for such fiscal year, all of such uncollected taxes or assessments, as thereafter collected, shall be set aside in a special bank account to be used only for the payment of such notes as they become due, unless other provision is made pursuant to law for the redemption of such notes. Any municipality, school district or district corporation may make budgetary appropriations for the redemption of such notes whether or not required or otherwise authorized by law to do so. In the event such an appropriation is made, such municipality, school district or district corporation shall not be required to pay into the special account the proceeds of the taxes or assessments against which such notes were issued but such proceeds may be used in the manner provided by law or if there is no provision of law pertaining to the use of such proceeds, such proceeds shall be treated as surplus moneys for the fiscal year in which they are collected. This paragraph shall not apply to notes issued pursuant to paragraph c of this section.

1. Where a tax anticipation note issued pursuant to paragraphs a, b or d of this section is to be renewed by the issuance of a renewal note, and the taxes or assessments in anticipation of which it was issued have been levied for a fiscal year, but remain uncollected, such renewal note shall not be issued for an amount in excess of the amount of such taxes or assessments remaining uncollected at the time of such renewal, less:

(a) The amount of any other outstanding tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such taxes or assessments, and

(b) The amount, if any, included in the annual budget for such fiscal year or in the levy of taxes or assessments for such fiscal year to offset, in whole or in part, an anticipated deficiency in the collection before the end of such fiscal year of the taxes or assessments levied for such fiscal year.

In no event shall such a renewal note be issued for an amount in excess of the original amount of the note in renewal of which it is to be issued.

2. Where a tax anticipation note issued pursuant to paragraphs a or d of this section is to be renewed, and the taxes or assessments in anticipation of which it was issued have not been levied, such renewal note shall not be issued for an amount in excess of the original amount of the note in renewal of which it is to be issued.

3. Where a tax anticipation note issued pursuant to paragraph c of this section is to be renewed, such renewal note shall not be issued in an amount in excess of the difference between the original amount of such note to be renewed, less the amount of moneys received and applied or to be applied to the payment of such note.

g. Tax anticipation notes may be issued by any municipality during any fiscal year thereof:

1. In anticipation of the collection of assessments levied for such fiscal year, or to be levied in such fiscal year, to pay the cost of capital improvements, if such assessments are to be collected in one installment; provided, however, that if such assessments have been levied, such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of the difference between the amount of such assessments remaining uncollected at the time of such borrowing and the amount of outstanding tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such assessments.

2. In anticipation of the collection of an installment of assessments levied for a capital improvement, if such assessments are to be collected in several annual installments and such installment becomes due and payable during such fiscal year; provided, however, that such notes shall not be issued in an amount in excess of the difference between the amount of such installment remaining uncollected at the time of such borrowing and the amount of outstanding tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such installment.

3. The proceeds of tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall be used only for the purposes for which such assessments were levied or are to be levied or for the redemption of notes in renewal of which they were issued.

4. Tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to this paragraph shall mature within one year from the date of their issuance and may be renewed from time to time but each renewal shall be for a period not to exceed one year and in no event shall such notes or the renewals thereof extend beyond the close of the second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes were issued.

5. Whenever the amount of tax anticipation notes issued pursuant to this paragraph in anticipation of the collection of assessments or an installment thereof levied for a capital improvement equals the amount of such assessments or such installment remaining uncollected, all of such assessments or such installment, as thereafter collected, shall be set aside in a special bank account to be used only for the payment of such notes as they become due, unless other provision is made, pursuant to law, for the redemption of such notes. Any municipality may make budgetary appropriations for the redemption of such notes whether or not required or otherwise authorized by law to do so. In the event such an appropriation is made, such municipality shall not be required to pay into the special account the proceeds of the assessments, or the installment thereof, against which such notes were issued but such proceeds may be used in the manner provided by law or if there is no provision of law pertaining to the use of such proceeds, such proceeds shall be treated as surplus moneys for the fiscal year in which they are collected.

(a) Where a tax anticipation note issued pursuant to this paragraph is to be renewed by the issuance of a renewal note, and the assessments or installment thereof in anticipation of which it was issued have been levied, but remain uncollected, such renewal note shall not be issued for an amount in excess of the amount of such assessments or installment thereof remaining uncollected at the time of such renewal, less the amount of any other outstanding tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of such assessments or installment thereof; but in no event shall such a renewal note be issued for an amount in excess of the original amount of the note in renewal of which it is to be issued.

(b) Where a tax anticipation note issued pursuant to this paragraph is to be renewed, and the assessments or installment thereof in anticipation of which it was issued have not been levied, such renewal note shall not be issued for an amount in excess of the original amount of the note in renewal of which it is to be issued.

h. Tax anticipation notes may be issued by any municipality during any fiscal year thereof in anticipation of the levy or distribution of assessments for work or services if the expenditures for such work or services are financed from a fund into which are paid the proceeds of such notes and if such assessments are required to be collected in one installment and included in the tax roll for the fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes were issued or in the tax roll for the second succeeding fiscal year. Any such municipality shall pay the proceeds of such assessments into any such fund. Notes issued pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph shall mature within one year from the date of their issuance and may be renewed from time to time but each renewal shall be for a period not to exceed one year and in no event shall such notes or the renewals thereof extend beyond the close of the second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes were issued. No such renewal note shall be issued for an amount in excess of the original amount of the note in renewal of which it was issued.

i. For the purpose of this section, taxes or assessments shall be deemed to be uncollected and not received by a municipality, school district or district corporation until cash is paid to such municipality, school district or district corporation for such taxes or assessments and such taxes or assessments are cancelled or the title to such taxes or assessments is transferred by such municipality, school district or district corporation, or until real property has been sold for such taxes or assessments and has been acquired by such municipality, school district or district corporation and such municipality, school district or district corporation has realized cash by the sale of such real property. For the purpose of this section the term "taxes" or the term "assessments" shall not include interest or penalties upon uncollected taxes or assessments.

j. Notwithstanding any provision of any other law, general or special, a central high school district may issue tax anticipation notes in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section applicable to a school district; provided, however, that the aggregate amount of taxes in anticipation of which a central high school district may issue tax anticipation notes shall not exceed the sum of the taxes levied or to be levied for central high school district purposes in each school district included within the central high school district and, provided further, that no such school district included within the central high school district shall be authorized to issue tax anticipation notes in anticipation of taxes levied or to be levied therein for central high school district purposes.

Commission Note: [1942] The Commission limited the maximum maturity of tax anticipation notes, including the renewals thereof, to a period not exceeding the termination of the fourth fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year for which the taxes (in anticipation of which such notes are issued) were levied. Such taxes outstanding and uncollected after the termination of such period are assets of doubtful value and consequently the notes issued in anticipation of their collection should be redeemed no later than the termination of such period.

The Commission also deemed it advisable to spell out clearly the power of a municipality to which the uncollected taxes of a school district, district corporation or another municipality are returned or certified, to issue tax anticipation notes in anticipation of the collection of such taxes.

Revision Notes: [1944] The Commission determined that as assets against which obligations might be issued taxes and assessments were in the same class. Accordingly, all obligations issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments are now termed tax anticipation notes and issued pursuant to section 24.00.

The Commission limited the maximum maturity of tax anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes or assessments upon real estate, including the renewals thereof, to a period not exceeding the termination of the fourth fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year for which the taxes or assessments (in anticipation of which such notes are issued) were levied. A shorter period of maximum maturity has been provided for notes issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments levied for a capital improvement.

Counties which heretofore in one fiscal year financed the payment of audited bills by the issuance of short term obligations payable from a tax to be levied for the succeeding fiscal year, will now issue budget notes to finance the payment of such bills.

[1955] (Paragraph d, sub 1) This amendment was made to harmonize the appropriate provisions of the local finance law with the provisions of subd 18 of § 176 of the town law, as amended by chap 706 of the laws of 1954, which latter increased the spending limitation of fire districts from $1500 to $2000.

[1958] This act embodied separate recommendations of the Association of Fire Districts of the State of New York and of the Joint Legislative Committee on Fire Laws. If separate bills had been introduced, there would have been considerable confusion to local officials and the fire service.

Editor's Notes: See 1954 note to Town Law, § 206, sub 11.

Laws 1949, ch 618, § 4, provides: The amendments effectuated by this act shall not apply to any tax anticipation note or renewal of a tax anticipation note which was issued or authorized to be issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred fifty.

Laws 2009, ch 74, §§ 1 and 18, eff March 21, 2010, provide as follows:

Section 1. Short Title. The act shall be known and may be cited as the "New N.Y. Government Reorganization and Citizen Empowerment Act".

§ 18. Savings clause. Notwithstanding the repeal or amendment of any law by this act, nothing in this act shall be construed to impair the consolidation or dissolution of any local government entity pursuant to any such repealed or amended law if there was commenced in or for such local government entity prior to the effective date of this act a consolidation or dissolution proceeding pursuant to such law, in which event the provisions of such former law shall govern such proceeding as though such former law had not been repealed hereby.

Amendment Notes: 2009. Chapter 74, § 16 amended:

Renewals of such notes may not extend beyond the close of second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes were issued. 1964 Ops St Compt File #1035.

5. —Fire districts

For an explanation of the borrowing limitation on newly created fire districts under para. d of this section, see 1946 Ops St Compt 673.

A fire district may not borrow in anticipation of taxes except in the special cases covered by this section. 1955 Ops St Compt 126.

A fire district may issue tax anticipation notes pursuant to statutorily prescribed terms. 1968 Ops St Compt File #1030.

6. Purposes for which notes may be issued

The Board of Supervisors of a county can raise additional money to defray unforeseen expenses in the building of a county hospital, but the money cannot be raised by a temporary loan not to be included in the tax budget, for so to permit would violate this section. People ex rel. Moody Engineering Co. v Hamilton, 178 N.Y.S. 702, 108 Misc. 585, 1919 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1079 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1919).

The Town Board may borrow sums of money sufficient to maintain a special improvement (such as a garbage district) until such time as money becomes available from taxes or assessments levied for such purpose. 1945 Ops St Compt 285.

Tax anticipation notes may be issued to finance the cost of operation and maintenance of water supply systems after the Town Board has taken them over and until taxes can be levied to pay for such cost of operation and maintenance. 1947 Ops St Compt 112.

Tax anticipation notes may not be issued to finance the purchase of fire apparatus. 1947 Ops St Compt 416.

A union free school district is not authorized to issue and sell tax anticipation notes for the purpose of securing funds to invest in time deposit accounts nor does it have power to invest proceeds of sale from such an issue in time deposit accounts. 1962 Ops St Compt #963.

Discussion of borrowing by school district for public library purposes. 1963 Ops St Compt #195.

School district may not issue revenue anticipation notes or tax anticipation notes in anticipation of receipt of payments in lieu of taxes from public authority; however, school district may issue revenue anticipation notes in anticipation of receipt of state aid payable under CLS RPTL § 545. 1999 Op St Compt No. 99-6.

7. —Garbage collection

The expenses of providing garbage collection prior to the first tax levy may be financed by the issuance of tax anticipation notes. 1947 Ops St Compt 125.

Where a garbage collection district has been in existence since 1949, tax anticipation notes may not be issued in 1953 to finance the cost of collection service for the remainder of the year, even though no budgetary appropriation has been made for district purposes and no assessments have been levied and collected for such purposes. 1953 Ops St Compt 254.

8. —Parks and recreation

It is possible that a village may borrow against uncollected taxes to provide all or a portion of the cost of a recreation field pursuant to this section. 1945 Ops St Compt 477.

An item may be included in the annual estimate to defray the cost of the maintenance and operation of a city's memorial park. Pending its inclusion, the necessary moneys may be obtained by authorized budgetary transfers or by appropriate borrowing. 1947 Ops St Compt 381.

9. Use of proceeds from issuance of notes

Board of education's practice of investing portions of proceeds from tax anticipation notes (TANS) was proper where investments were to defray operating expenses, not for sole purpose of investment, board only invested proceeds not immediately required in certificates of deposit, those deposits were timed to become due and payable at times when school district would require cash, and principal amount of TANS would not exceed school district's greatest cash flow deficit during term of TANS. 1994 Op Comm Ed No. 13136.

Proceeds of tax anticipation notes, as a general rule, may be used only for the purposes for which the taxes are levied or are to be levied. 1946 Ops St Compt 566.

If school district has issued tax anticipation notes in anticipation of taxes levied for library purposes, proceeds should be paid to library fund or to library treasurer, as case may be, as soon as practicable after receipt, and interest on such notes is charge for which school district, not library, is liable; however, it is permissible for library, in its discretion, to reimburse school district for interest costs with respect to such notes. 1992 Op St Compt No. 92-28, 1992 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 15.

10. Redemption of notes

A village was not required to impound taxes to pay a note which, by its terms, it was held must have been issued pursuant to former § 126-g of the Village Law, which provided for the issuance of tax anticipation notes but contained no provision for the segregation of funds, rather than pursuant to former § 128 thereof, which contained such a provision. First Nat'l Bank & Trust Co. v Saltaire, 256 A.D. 156, 9 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4662 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

A municipality or school district may issue RANS or TANS in an amount in excess of its immediate cash requirements and invest those proceeds not immediately needed for expenditure at a profitable rate of interest. In order to retain the tax exempt status of the obligations, the yield on such investments must be within the limits established by the Federal arbitrage rules. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-211.

§ 28.00. Capital notes

a. Any municipality, school district or district corporation may issue capital notes to finance all or part of the cost of any object or purpose for which serial or sinking fund bonds may be issued. Such capital notes may be renewed from time to time but such notes, including the renewals thereof, shall mature not later than the last day of the second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes are issued. However, an installment of not less than fifty per centum of the amount of such notes shall mature in the first fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes are issued, unless such notes are authorized and issued during a fiscal year at a time subsequent to the date of the adoption of the annual budget for the next succeeding fiscal year.

b. Capital notes shall be redeemed out of the taxes or assessments levied or to be levied for the fiscal year in which they mature or out of other revenues of that fiscal year legally available for that purpose.

Commission Note: [1942] This type of obligation provides a method whereby objects and purposes generally financed by the issuance of bonds may be financed by the issuance of notes having a maximum maturity of three years. Further, the proceeds of capital notes may be used as a source of the down payment which is required to be made available prior to the issuance of bonds or bond anticipation notes for certain capital improvements and types of equipment (see § 107.00 of this chapter).

1. In general; authorization of capital notes

Capital notes may be authorized in one fiscal year and issued in the next fiscal year. 1946 Ops St Compt 78.

"Line of credit" transaction whereby bank offers to lend county money by making funds available to county up to predetermined amount and county would be permitted to draw against entire amount of line all at once or in increments, with interest payable monthly and entire principal balance payable on any payment date, is not type of municipal debt authorized by law; "line of credit" is not equivalent of capital note authorized by CLS Loc Fin § 28.00; use of term "line of credit" for transaction whereby bank lends county money, is improper under CLS Loc Fin § 20.00. Op St Compt 88-45.

2. Issuance of capital notes

A town may issue a capital note in 1945 after the adoption of a budget payable in February, 1946, from item 3 moneys. 1945 Ops St Compt 526.

Budget notes should not be issued under § 29.00 (h) if serial bonds or capital notes may be issued. Budget notes may be issued under such paragraph to finance budgetary deficiencies in counties. 1947 Ops St Compt 26.

Where a village proposed to purchase real property for use in the village water system at a cost of $1,200, it is suggested in view of the small amount involved that a capital note be issued. 1947 Ops St Compt 515.

3. Permissibility of issuance for particular purposes

Neither bonds nor capital notes may be issued to finance the cost of leasing I.B.M. equipment or the expense of assessment rolls prepared on such equipment. 1946 Ops St Compt 675.

Towns may finance voting machines by either bonds or capital notes. No referendum is required in towns upon a bond resolution or capital note resolution in regard to financing voting machines. 1947 Ops St Compt 127.

A village may issue serial bonds or capital notes for the purpose of financing the employment of experts to appraise the value of the real property within the village. 1952 Ops St Compt 258.

A village which will shift from a March 1 fiscal year to a June 1 fiscal year in 1956 may finance the three month interim period from March 1, 1956 to May 31, 1956 by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes. 1955 Ops St Compt 155.

Engineering fees incurred in connection with a capital improvement may be paid from the proceeds of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes or deferred payment notes. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-737.

4. —Water systems

Capital notes may be issued to finance the cost of the repair, reconstruction, or improvement of facilities for a water district, and the consent of the State Comptroller is not required therefor. 1945 Ops St Compt 493.

In the event that the parts of the current surplus of the city of Rome to be used for the construction of an annex to the city hall, an annex to the Public Works barn, the paving and repairing of streets, and the construction of storm-water sewers are insufficient or unavailable to defray all of the cost of any of these objects or purposes, the city may borrow to defray all or part of such cost by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, subject to the limitations of par. d of § 104.00 and § 107.00 1946 Ops St Compt 155.

Serial bonds or capital notes may be issued to finance the local share of the cost of preparing preliminary plans for a water district to be constructed as a post-war Public Works project. 1946 Ops St Compt 348.

A new roof on a water district pump house may involve partial reconstruction which may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes. If repair alone is involved, borrowing would be under § 29.00 (i). The same problem is involved in respect to machinery. 1946 Ops St Compt 642.

The cost of the construction of additions to and the improvement of the water system of a water district may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. 1947 Ops St Compt 313.

Discussion in regard to financing construction of water system and administration of water district. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-992.

The cost of construction of additions to and improvement of the water system of a water district may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. It is necessary to hold a public hearing on a proposition to increase or improve the facilties and appurtenances of the water system. No referendum, either mandatory or permissive is required. 1968 Ops St Compt File #812.

A town may construct an additional lateral water main to serve a new street within a water district. The cost of such construction may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes, or surplus moneys of the water district may be used, if the district is on an "ad valorem basis". The construction may be undertaken by the town board without the consent of the State Comptroller. Where district is on an "ad valorem basis", the cost of construction shall be a general charge against the district and it shall be assessed, levied and collected from the several lots or parcels of real property within the district in the same manner as taxes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #398.

5. —Sewer systems

Serial bonds or capital notes would be used to finance capital improvements in a sewer district. Budget notes could be used to finance repairs in certain cases. 1946 Ops St Compt 107.

In the event that the parts of the current surplus of the city of Rome to be used for the construction of an annex to the city hall, an annex to the Public Works barn, the paving and repairing of streets, and the construction of storm-water sewers are insufficient or unavailable to defray all of the cost of any of these objects or purposes, the city may borrow to defray all or part of such cost by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, subject to the limitations of par. d of § 104.00 and § 107.00 1946 Ops St Compt 155.

Serial bonds and capital notes may be issued to finance town's share of cost of preliminary plans for sewer system prepared pursuant to Public Works Law, § 31(1). 1952 Ops St Compt 275.

6. Incinerators

Where a village wishes to finance a $15,000 addition to its incinerator over a period of five years, it may do so by issuing serial bonds or bond anticipation notes or a statutory installment bond, but not by issuing a capital note. 1967 Ops St Compt File #379.

7. —Landfills

The cost of installing a town sanitary landfill operation is a town-wide charge against all taxable real property in the town, including incorporated villages within the town. 1968 Ops St Compt File #510.

A town may finance the purchase of machinery and equipment for the operation of a landfill installation, as a general town charge, through a budgetary appropriation or through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes. 1969 Ops St Compt File #540.

8. —Buildings

With the exception of plans for post-war projects, capital notes may not be issued to finance the cost of architects' fees in relation to school buildings. 1946 Ops St Compt 67.

In the event that the parts of the current surplus of the city of Rome to be used for the construction of an annex to the city hall, an annex to the Public Works barn, the paving and repairing of streets, and the construction of storm-water sewers are insufficient or unavailable to defray all of the cost of any of these objects or purposes, the city may borrow to defray all or part of such cost by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, subject to the limitations of par. d of § 104.00 and § 107.00 1946 Ops St Compt 155.

School district may issue bonds or capital notes to finance construction of a building to house the public library established by the law district. 1953 Ops St Compt 95.

9. —Buildings: fire houses

The cost of construction of a fire house may be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. 1952 Ops St Compt 137.

Cost of capital improvement to fire house may be financed by capital notes. Capital note resolution is subject to referendum. 1954 Ops St Compt 383.

10. —Buildings: municipal garages

On and after Sept. 1, 1945, the cost of the construction of a town garage may be financed by the issuance of either serial bonds or capital notes, pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 342.

Village board may purchase land and building for a garage and finance transaction without referendum. 1953 Ops St Compt 260.

11. —Parks and recreation

A village recreation field may not be financed over a five-year period except by the issuance of serial bonds. For shorter periods capital notes may be used. 1945 Ops St Compt 477.

The Town of North Elba, on behalf of the North Elba Parks and Play Grounds District, may properly finance certain expenditures relating to the John F. Kennedy 1968 Winter Games, to be held in said district, by the sale of bonds or capital notes. 1968 Ops St Compt File #84.

12. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas

Budget notes, capital notes, or serial bonds may be issued for the resurfacing of a town highway. 1945 Ops St Compt 473.

13. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas: parking lots

While there is no authority for a village to purchase property on a land contract basis, a project for a village parking lot may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds and capital notes pursuant to the Local Finance Law. 1952 Ops St Compt 262.

A single capital note may be issued to finance the cost of a parking lot, and it may be redeemed by collections from parking meters. 1955 Ops St Compt 598.

14. —Highways, roads, streets, parkways and parking areas: machinery and equipment

A county may finance the purchase of highway machinery and equipment by the issuance of bonds or capital notes. 1945 Ops St Compt 378.

A village may issue a capital note to finance the cost of machinery for the construction and maintenance of highways. 1947 Ops St Compt 102.

15. —Motor vehicles

School buses may be financed by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes. 1945 Ops St Compt 257.

The city of Port Jervis may issue capital notes for a snow loader notwithstanding a local law enacted pursuant to § 34.00. 1946 Ops St Compt 664.

The purchase and installation of a truck motor costing in excess of $2,500 is subject to competitive bidding. The cost of a new truck motor may be financed by serial bonds or capital notes. 1956 Ops St Compt 176.

If police cars are to be purchased to replace similar police cars which were in service for one year or more, 3-year period of probable usefulness exists and purchase of such cars may be financed by issuance of capital note or bond; however, notwithstanding 3-year period of probable usefulness prescribed by CLS Loc Fin § 11.00(a)(77), any capital notes issued to finance purchase of police cars must mature not later than last day of second fiscal year succeeding fiscal year in which notes are issued pursuant to CLS Loc Fin § 28.00[a]. Ops St Compt 88-37.

16. —Motor vehicles: fire vehicles and apparatus

A capital note may be issued to finance the cost of fire apparatus for a village. 1947 Ops St Compt 315.

Appropriations for the purchase of fire-fighting vehicles and apparatus may be raised outside the constitutional 2% tax limit if serial bonds or capital notes are issued or if the purchase is made pursuant to the pay-as-you-go plan in accordance with the Constitution, Article VIII, section 11. 1947 Ops St Compt 354.

A village fire pumper may not be financed over a five-year period by the issuance of notes. 1947 Ops St Compt 360.

Discussion of rules and regulations relative to purchase of fire apparatus. 1953 Ops St Compt File #6421.

17. Permissibility of issuance to finance repairs

Serial bonds or capital notes would be used to finance capital improvements in a sewer district. Budget notes could be used to finance repairs in certain cases. 1946 Ops St Compt 107.

A new roof on a water district pump house may involve partial reconstruction which may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes. If repair alone is involved, borrowing would be under § 29.00 (i). The same problem is involved in respect to machinery. 1946 Ops St Compt 642.

The issuance of a capital note to be used to repair a pump house and machinery and to pay attorneys' fees is not authorized. 1946 Ops St Compt 676.

18. Redemption

A capital note issued for town highway machinery must be paid from moneys raised in Item 3 of the town highway budget, except as provided in § 266 of the Highway Law. 1946 Ops St Compt 17.

Surplus funds of a fire district may be used to redeem bonds or capital notes and interest thereon. 1946 Ops St Compt 600.

Capital notes which cannot legally be renewed must be paid from the first revenues received by the city. There is no authority to issue new obligations to obtain funds for such purpose. 1966 Ops St Compt File #684.

1. Any municipality or district corporation, other than a fire district, may issue budget notes during any fiscal year for any unforeseeable public emergency during such year such as epidemic, conflagration, riot, storm, flood, earthquake or other unusual peril to the lives and property of the citizens of such unit of government in such amount as the finance board shall determine to be necessary, but no municipality may issue such notes for emergencies in behalf of any local improvement district. Any school district may issue budget notes during any fiscal year to provide temporary school buildings or facilities in such year when such buildings or facilities are necessitated because of an unforeseeable public emergency during such year such as epidemic, conflagration, riot, storm, flood, earthquake or other unusual circumstance preventing the use in whole or in part, of the buildings or other facilities used by such school district.

2. Any municipality or district corporation which adopts an annual budget may issue budget notes during any fiscal year for expenditures for which an insufficient or no provision is made in the annual budget for such fiscal year in an amount not to exceed five per centum of the amount of such annual budget.

Notwithstanding the foregoing limitation, any fire district may issue budget notes pursuant to this subdivision in the amount of at least one thousand dollars. In addition, any county which adopts an annual budget may issue budget notes pursuant to this subdivision without limitation as to amount for necessary expenditures for the apprehension and prosecution of persons charged with the commission of crime and for which an insufficient or no provision has been made in the annual budget for such fiscal year. If, however, any such municipality or district corporation may issue budget notes for any such expenditures pursuant to the provisions of any other paragraph of this section, such municipality or district corporation shall not issue budget notes for any such expenditures pursuant to this subdivision. Any town, and any county, in computing "the amount of the annual budget" for the purposes of this subdivision shall not include any amounts which are to be paid in the first instance from improvement district assessments.

3. A school district may issue budget notes during the last nine months of any fiscal year for expenditures for which an insufficient or no provision is made in the annual budget for such fiscal year in an amount not to exceed five per centum of such annual budget. The foregoing limitation shall not be applicable in any case in which a budget note resolution has been adopted by the finance board of a school district and has been approved by a majority of the qualified voters of the school district present and voting at any annual or special meeting of the school district held pursuant to the provisions of the education law during the last nine months of such fiscal year. The notice for any such meeting, in addition to complying with applicable provisions of the education law, must state that such budget note resolution will be submitted for approval by the voters at such meeting; the purpose for which moneys are proposed to be borrowed under such resolution; the total amount proposed to be borrowed, and the fiscal year in which taxes are required to be levied for the payment of the budget note proposed to be issued. The vote at any such meeting on such proposition shall be by ballot, or ascertained by taking and recording the ayes and noes of such qualified voters attending and voting at such meeting.

3-a. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, where a school district can demonstrate to the satisfaction of the commissioner of education extenuating circumstances that a waiver is warranted for the adoption of a budget note resolution by its finance board, upon certification by the chief executive officer to the commissioner of education, in such form as the commissioner of education shall determine pursuant to guidelines developed, for the purpose of making additional accruals requirements in the two thousand four—two thousand five or two thousand five—two thousand six school years associated with changes in accounting methodologies for liabilities for employer and employee contributions due and payable to a public retirement system that will result in a tax increase to the residents of the district in the following school year, a school district may issue budget notes during the last nine months of the school year in which such resolution is adopted, or during the first three months of the following school year, in an amount not to exceed the amount of such additional accruals for public pension liabilities. The limitation on the amount of budget notes contained in subdivision three of this paragraph shall not be applicable to notes issued pursuant to this section and the amount of budget notes issued pursuant to this section shall not be included in the computation of such limitation.

4. Any fire district may issue budget notes for expenditures for necessary repairs to any fire-fighting apparatus, fire-fighting vehicles or other motorized equipment of such fire district which has been damaged as the result of an accident; but only to the extent that budgetary appropriations for such purpose and the proceeds of insurance received on account of such damage and on hand at the time the repairs are completed are insufficient to pay for such damage. Unless a budgetary appropriation for the payment of such notes is in existence at the time the proceeds of any such insurance are received, such proceeds shall be used only for the payment of such notes.

5. Any municipality or fire district may issue budget notes during any fiscal year to provide for the payment in such fiscal year of the cost of insurance secured to indemnify against liability for benefits payable under the volunteer firefighters' benefit law and for which cost an insufficient or no provision was made in the annual budget of the municipality or fire district for such fiscal year. The aggregate amount of any such notes which may be issued for such purpose in a fiscal year commencing after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-five, shall not exceed the sum by which the actual cost of such insurance to be paid in the fiscal year in which such notes are issued exceeds the actual cost of such insurance in the fiscal year prior to the fiscal year in which such notes are issued; provided, however, that this limitation shall not apply in a case where the municipality or fire district has not incurred any such cost in the fiscal year prior to that in which such notes are issued.

6. Any fire district may issue budget notes for expenditures for water supply and in relation to fire hydrant maintenance and rental costs; but only to the extent that budgetary appropriations for such purpose under subdivision twelve of section one hundred seventy-six of the town law are insufficient to pay increased charges which the public service commission has authorized and the fire district is required to pay in the fiscal year in which the budget note is issued for such maintenance or rental.

7. Any fire district which elects to become liable for payments in lieu of contributions pursuant to section five hundred sixty-five of the labor law and is required by the commissioner of labor to pay into the unemployment insurance fund an amount equal to the amount of benefits paid to claimants and charged to such fire district's account may issue budget notes for such expenditures for the amount required to be so paid in the fiscal year in which the budget note is issued, but only to the extent that budgetary appropriations for such purpose are insufficient to pay such claim.

8. [There are two sub a, paras 8] Any county, city, village, town, town on behalf of an ambulance district, or town on behalf of a fire protection district which contracts with an ambulance service which is not organized pursuant to section two hundred nine-b of the general municipal law, may issue budget notes during the first fiscal year in which it is required to pay contributions to the volunteer ambulance workers' service award program, but only to the extent that budgetary appropriations for such purpose are insufficient to pay such contributions.

8. [There are two sub a, paras 8] Any county, city, village, town, town on behalf of an ambulance district, or town on behalf of a fire protection district which contracts with an ambulance service which is not organized pursuant to section two hundred nine-b of the general municipal law, may issue budget notes during the first fiscal year in which it is required to pay contributions to the volunteer ambulance workers' service award program, but only to the extent that budgetary appropriations for such purpose are insufficient to pay such contributions.

b. Any municipality which adopts an annual budget may issue budget notes during any fiscal year for either or both the following purposes:

1. The payment of the expenses for the removal of snow and ice, exclusive of salaries and wages of regular employees except for overtime work and work on Sundays and holidays, or

2. The payment of the expenses for the demolition of unsafe buildings, to the extent that an insufficient provision shall have been made therefor in the annual budget for such fiscal year, if such municipality is required by statute, local law or ordinance to include in its annual budget for such fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter either (a) an amount equal to at least the average of all expenditures for such purpose during each of the five preceding fiscal years for each purpose for which such budget notes are to be issued, or (b) such amount as is prescribed in the schedule set forth below, for each purpose for which such budget notes are to be issued:

1. For such fiscal year, an amount equal to at least one-fifth of the average of all expenditures for such purpose during each of the five preceding fiscal years.

2. For the first fiscal year succeeding such fiscal year, an amount equal to at least two-fifths of the average of all expenditures for such purpose during each of the five preceding fiscal years.

3. For the second fiscal year succeeding such fiscal year, an amount equal to at least three-fifths of the average of all expenditures for such purpose during each of the five preceding fiscal years.

4. For the third fiscal year succeeding such fiscal year, an amount equal to at least four-fifths of the average of all expenditures for such purpose during each of the five preceding years.

5. For the fourth fiscal year succeeding such fiscal year and for each succeeding fiscal year thereafter, an amount equal to at least the average of all expenditures for such purpose during each of the five preceding fiscal years.

Any city, any county and any village having a population of five thousand or more, as determined pursuant to the latest available federal census, may adopt a local law or ordinance, and any other municipality may adopt an ordinance requiring the inclusions of such amounts set forth in the above schedule for either of or both such purposes in its annual budget.

c. Any city which is required pursuant to law to include annually in its annual budget an amount for:

1. Judgments which may be obtained against the city and which may become due and payable during the fiscal year for which the budget is adopted,

2. Claims which may be settled or compromised and become payable during such fiscal year, and

3. The repaving of streets may issue budget notes for any of such purposes during a fiscal year if the amount included in the annual budget for such fiscal year is insufficient therefor.

d. Any municipality, school district or district corporation which is required by law to include in its annual budget the amount of judgments or compromised or settled claims which are outstanding at the time such budget is prepared, may issue budget notes for the payment of any such judgment or claim. Such notes may be issued at any time prior to the earliest time at which tax anticipation notes may be issued by such municipality, school district or district corporation pursuant to section 24.00 of this chapter in anticipation of the levy or collection of taxes for such budget. If such notes are issued in a fiscal year prior to the preparation of an annual budget during such fiscal year, an appropriation for their redemption shall be included in such next budget when it is prepared. If such notes are issued after an appropriation has been included in an annual budget for the payment of the judgments or claims for which the notes are issued, such notes shall be redeemed from such appropriation. Such budget notes may be renewed from time to time, but such notes including renewals thereof shall mature not later than the close of the fiscal year for which such annual budget is adopted.

e. Any city, county or town, during any fiscal year or, in the case of the city of New York, within ninety days after the close of such fiscal year, for which it shall make a supplemental, deficiency or additional appropriation for one or more purposes authorized by or under the provisions of the social services law, including the administration thereof, may issue budget notes for the amount of the local share of the cost thereof.

e-1. If any town has made an appropriation in its annual budget for any fiscal year for its share of the cost of an approved project under article eight-A of the highway law, and the appropriation is insufficient, the town may issue budget notes in such fiscal year to finance such share in an amount not to exceed fifty per centum of the town's share of the cost of such project. Budget notes may not be issued under any other paragraph of this section to finance any portion of the town's share of the cost of an approved project under such article eight-A of the highway law.

f. If any municipality which is authorized or required by law to include in its annual budget an estimate of the amount of state, county district and other county taxes to be levied on the real property within such municipality for or during the fiscal year for which such budget is adopted, underestimates the amount that is actually levied, such municipality may issue budget notes for the payment of all or part of such deficiency.

g. If any portion of the taxes or assessments levied by a municipality, school district or district corporation in any fiscal year are cancelled prior to the collection thereof pursuant to a determination by a court in an action or proceeding brought by the taxpayer, or, in the case of a school district with the written approval and consent of the commissioner of education under section thirty-five hundred twelve* of the education law, such municipality, school district or district corporation may issue budget notes in the fiscal year in which any such cancellation occurs in an amount not in excess of the amount of taxes or assessments so cancelled. The proceeds of such notes shall be used only for the purposes for which such taxes or assessments so cancelled were levied, or for the redemption of tax anticipation notes which had been issued in anticipation of the collection of the taxes or assessments so cancelled and for the redemption of which notes no other provision has been made, or for the redemption of budget notes in renewal of which they were issued.

h. Any county which does not adopt an annual budget may issue budget notes during any fiscal year to pay accounts, claims, demands or charges which may be directed to be paid pursuant to the provisions of any law in an amount not in excess of the total amount of such accounts, claims, demands or charges directed to be paid in such fiscal year and for which an insufficient or no provision was made in the estimate upon which the tax levy for such fiscal year was based. No county shall issue budget notes pursuant to this paragraph on or after January first, nineteen hundred fifty-one; provided that budget notes issued prior to such date pursuant to this paragraph may be renewed as provided in paragraph j of this section.

i. Any town on behalf of a town improvement district situated therein, or any county on behalf of a county improvement district situated therein, may issue budget notes during any fiscal year for expenditures for which an insufficient or no provision is made in the annual estimate for such improvement district as finally adopted for such fiscal year in an amount not to exceed five per centum of the amount of such annual estimate.

j. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph d of this section, budget notes may be renewed from time to time, but such notes, including the renewals thereof, shall mature not later than the close of the fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes are issued. However, such notes, including the renewals thereof, may mature not later than the close of the second fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which such notes are issued, when authorized and issued during a fiscal year at a time subsequent to the date of the adoption of the annual budget for the next succeeding fiscal year, by a municipality, school district or district corporation in which the total amount of taxes or assessments levied for a fiscal year is determined pursuant to an annual budget adopted during the fiscal year preceding such fiscal year.

k. Budget notes shall be redeemed out of the taxes or assessments levied or to be levied for the fiscal year in which they mature or out of other revenues of that fiscal year legally available for that purpose.

l. Notwithstanding the provisions of any general, special or local law, any municipality, school district or district corporation, which has the power to issue budget notes under this section, shall to the same extent have the power to appropriate and expend money received from the proceeds of the sale of budget notes for the purposes for which such notes are issued.

m. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section or any other law, no city shall issue budget notes for the purpose of providing funds for the payment pursuant to section thirty-six-a of the rapid transit law, or otherwise, of the amounts which the board of transportation or any other agency of such city determines or estimates, claims (including claims reduced to judgment) or certifies to the board of estimate or other analogous local authority of such city, as the sum by which the revenues derived from operation of any railroad, as defined in section two of the rapid transit law, fail or will fail to provide for any costs and expenses of operation and maintenance of such railroad for any period or periods commencing on or after July first, nineteen hundred fifty-three. For the purpose of this paragraph, such costs and expenses shall also include the payments or contributions paid or payable by the board of transportation or the city during such period to any employees' pension or retirement system on account of membership therein of officers and employees of such board of transportation.

n. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, except where any obligations other than budget notes are or have been issued for the object or purpose described in subdivision fifty-nine of paragraph a of section 11.00 of this chapter, budget notes may be issued by a municipality, school district or district corporation, or by a county on behalf of a county improvement district situated therein or by a town on behalf of a town improvement district situated therein, pursuant to an irrevocable election to finance all or part of the employer's share of the cost of retroactive coverage provided to its employees under the federal old-age and survivors insurance system pursuant to section one hundred thirty-eight-a of the retirement and social security law where an insufficient or no provision is or has been made in the annual budget for such cost.

o. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, if any city in this state having a population of one million or more includes in its annual budget for the fiscal year nineteen hundred seventy-one-nineteen hundred seventy-two an estimate in an amount not to exceed one hundred million dollars of additional revenues available to it as a result of a federal program of general or special revenue sharing or any similar program or any combination of such programs which relieves a financial burden which would otherwise require expenditure from city tax receipts in such amount for the fiscal year, and if that estimate should exceed the amount of such revenue that actually becomes available to it, such city may issue during the last quarter of such fiscal year budget notes which shall have a maximum maturity of not more than one year for the payment of all or part of the amount of such overestimate, upon a determination by the state budget director of the amount of such overestimate.

Commission Note: This type of obligation is designed to enable municipalities and district corporations which estimate in advance the amounts to be expended for certain or all current expenditures for a fiscal year to issue notes payable out of the levy for the first or second succeeding fiscal year, to the extent that the amounts forecasted were insufficient.

Revision Note: [1945] Par a, subd. 2. This subdivision has been amended to remove the 1 per cent limitation upon the issuance of budget notes for expenditures for which an insufficient or no provision has been made in the annual budget for the fiscal year, in a county which adopts an annual budget, in the case of necessary expenditures for the apprehension and prosecution of persons charged with the commission of crime.

Par h. This paragraph has been amended to permit a county which does not adopt an annual budget to issue budget notes to pay accounts, claims, demands or charges which may be directed to be paid pursuant to any provision of the County Law, instead of being limited to accounts, etc., directed to be paid pursuant to sections 10-a or 10-b of such law. The amendment also provides that in a county which is hereafter required to adopt an annual budget the budget notes issued during the fiscal year immediately preceding the effective date of the first annual budget so adopted may have a maturity of three years, instead of the one-year limit normally provided for budget notes. Paragraph j of section 29.00 has been amended in conformity with this provision.

Par l. This is a new provision, to follow paragraph k, specifically setting forth that the power to appropriate and expend money for any of the purposes for which a budget note may be issued shall be coextensive with the power to issue such a note.

[1955] (Paragraph a, sub 5) This act is comparable in purpose to chapter 411 of the Laws of 1954, enacted on recommendation of the Temporary State Commission on Fire Laws. It authorized municipalities and fire districts to issue short-term budget notes, if necessary, to pay the cost of insurance purchased to indemnify against liabilities for mandatory financial benefits when volunteer firemen were killed or injured in line of duty. A flat 8.4 increase in the rate level for such insurance became effective July 1, 1954, to provide for increased benefits which became effective on such date. The premium increase took effect on the anniversary dates of various insurance contracts and may not have been adequately provided for in budgets adopted after June 30. Also an application for a substantial increase in the premiums for such insurance was pending before the Superintendent of Insurance when this act was passed. If granted, it would further increase the cost of such insurance. An extension of such temporary borrowing power seemed advisable.

[1963] This act was prepared under the direction of the New York State Department of Audit and Control and was introduced at its request. Budget notes for public general hospital, deposit and payment of proceeds, Gen. Mun. Law, § 126(4); tax and revenue anticipation funds and notes, County Law, §§ 367, 372, 838.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1953, ch 206, § 3, provides that section two [par n] of this act shall apply to any fiscal year of any municipality or district corporation commencing on or after July first, nineteen hundred fifty-two.

Laws 1957, ch 1051, § 4, provides: "This act shall take effect immediately and shall control notwithstanding any inconsistent general, special or local law."

Laws 1971, ch 415, § 2, provides:

§ 2. In the event the federal government does not make available to a city, through a federal program of general or special revenue sharing or any similar program or any combination of such programs which relieves a financial burden which would otherwise require expenditure from city tax receipts, sufficient additional revenues by February fifteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-three to provide for the payment of principal and interest on budget notes, issued pursuant to paragraph o of section 29.00 of the local finance law, the city budget director shall certify to the state budget director on or before the first day of March, nineteen hundred seventy-three, the amount by which such revenues are insufficient to provide for such payments. The state budget director shall review such certification and shall certify to the legislature the amount he determines such overestimate to be and the legislature shall appropriate such amount which shall be advanced in the first instance to such city by the state comptroller by June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-three.

Upon such appropriation by the legislature, such city shall be authorized until August first, nineteen hundred seventy-three to impose, by local law, any or all of the taxes prescribed in sections three, four and five of this act, which tax or taxes shall take effect no later than September first, nineteen hundred seventy-three, provided, however, that such city may not impose either of the taxes authorized in sections four or five of this act unless both such taxes are so imposed; and provided further that such city may not impose either of the taxes authorized in sections four or five of this act after the end of the fiscal year of such city in which final payment is made to the state of the amount advanced by the state comptroller to such city in accordance with this section.

The city shall repay to the state on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-three, thirty per centum or thirty million dollars of said advance whichever is less, and on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-four twenty-five per centum or twenty-five million dollars of said advance whichever is less, and on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, twenty-five per centum or twenty-five million dollars of said advance whichever is less, and on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, the balance of said advance.

In the event that such city fails to make the payments required to be made by December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-three or by December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-four, or by December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, or by December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, the state comptroller shall deduct an amount necessary to meet such payments from any moneys available from any succeeding payments of state aid apportioned to such city; except, however, that prior to any deductions from moneys available for payments of state aid apportioned to such city as per capita aid for the support of local government pursuant to section fifty-four of the state finance law, the moneys, if any, payable to the city university construction fund pursuant to the provisions of the city university construction fund act or to the New York city housing development corporation pursuant to the New York city housing development corporation act shall be paid in full to such fund or corporation.

Laws 1972, ch 669, § 2, provides:

§ 2. Prior to the issuance of any budget notes pursuant to section one of this act, and on or before March first, nineteen hundred seventy-three, the mayor of the city of New York shall submit to the council and the board of estimate of such city, and to the governor and the senate finance committee and the assembly ways and means committee copies of a detailed statement of the expense budget of such city setting forth the appropriations made for the current fiscal year, the expenditures made to date, the expenditures proposed to be made before the close of the current fiscal year, the anticipated expenditures for each of the three succeeding fiscal years and the moneys and revenues estimated to be available during the current and three succeeding fiscal years. Such statement shall make appropriate recognition of, and provision for, the redemption of any budget notes issued pursuant to subparagraph (e) of subdivision two of paragraph a of section 29.00 of the local finance law, chapter four hundred fifteen of the laws of nineteen hundred seventy-one entitled "An act to amend the local finance law, in relation to budget notes which may be issued by cities of one million or more and providing for state advances in relation to such notes, to amend the tax law, in relation to the imposition of taxes by cities of one million or more upon certain utilities, and to amend chapter seven hundred seventy-two of the laws of nineteen hundred sixty-six, entitled "An act to enable any city having a population of one million or more to raise tax revenue by authorizing the imposition of taxes on general, financial, insurance and transportation corporations and on unincorporated businesses to provide for the administration and review of such new taxes, to provide for the suspension of any tax on gross income of conduit companies imposed by such city and for the suspension and repeal of any general business and financial tax imposed by any such city, to amend the tax law in relation to authorizing an increase in the rates of tax which such city may impose on utilities and vendors of utility services, and to repeal article two-B of the general city law, authorizing the imposition of a general business and financial tax by such city", in relation to increasing the rates of tax on financial corporations", chapter seven of the laws of nineteen hundred seventy-two entitled "An act in relation to payment of loans made by New York city transit authority and the making of advances for the purposes of paying the operating expenses of the New York city transit authority", or subparagraph (f) of subdivision two of paragraph a of section 29.00 of the local finance law, as added by section one of this act.

Amendment Notes The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 83, substituted "firefighters'" for "firemen's" in a5.

Repeal Notes: [1955] (Paragraph n) Paragraph n of section 29.00 of the Local Finance Law, which was repealed by this act, imposed certain limitations on the aggregate amount of budget notes which may be issued by a municipality or district corporation in any fiscal year.

1. In general

In performing its statutory duties, the Board of Health may incur expenses although no provision to pay the same is contained in the budget. 1946 Ops St Compt 8.

Budget notes are available to aid a village as to its anticipated budgetary deficits. 1946 Ops St Compt 76.

A county board of supervisors may authorize the issuance of a budget note to finance an additional appropriation for a particular purpose even though there are unappropriated surplus moneys available for transfer. 1957 Ops St Compt File #511.

2. Issuance of budget notes

Budget notes should not be issued under para. h of this section if serial bonds or capital notes may be issued, but budget notes may be issued under said paragraph to finance budgetary deficiencies in counties. 1947 Ops St Compt 26.

Capital notes which cannot legally be renewed must be paid from the first revenues received by the city. There is no authority to issue new obligations to obtain funds for such purpose. 1966 Ops St Compt File #684.

The maximum amounts which may be borrowed by the issuance of budget notes are prescribed by section 29.00 of the Local Finance Law. 1967 Ops St Compt File #736.

3. Governmental bodies which may issue

Consolidated health districts created prior to January 1, 1939, are district corporations and may issue tax anticipation and budget notes pursuant to the Local Finance Law. 1947 Ops St Compt 90.

4. —Fire districts

A fire district may borrow pursuant to para. a (2) of this section, notwithstanding the provisions of para. 1 of this section. 1946 Ops St Compt 583.

A fire district may issue budget notes to supply a deficiency in budget appropriations. Where the annual budget is under fifty thousand dollars, the amount of budget notes is limited to five per centum of the amount of the annual budget. 1947 Ops St Compt 188.

A fire district may borrow by a budget note limited to not more than 5% of its annual budget. 1947 Ops St Compt 430.

Board of Fire Commissioners should not submit the entire fire district budget, item by item, for approval at a fire district election, but should, if necessary, submit a single proposition under § 179(1-d) calling for the expenditure of a given amount over and above the spending limitation for the district as computed under § 176(18). 1954 Ops St Compt 371.

Except as otherwise provided in this section budget notes may not be issued in 1955 to pay expenses of fire district incurred in 1954. 1955 Ops St Compt 126.

There is no authority for a town to borrow moneys on behalf of a fire protection district. 1956 Ops St Compt 56.

Fire protection district has no authority to issue obligations. Town has no authority to issue obligations for fire protection district purposes. 1964 Ops St Compt File #933.

5. Purposes for which budget notes may be issued; unbudgeted expenses, generally

Rental for rooms of the Marine Corps League may be provided from contingent or surplus funds or by a budget note when there is no item in the budget therefor. 1946 Ops St Compt 200.

An item may be included in the annual estimate to defray the cost of the maintenance and operation of a city's memorial park. Pending its inclusion, the necessary moneys may be obtained by authorized budgetary transfers or by appropriate borrowing. 1947 Ops St Compt 381.

A town which has made no provision in its budget for funds for the payment of a general ambulance service contract may obtain such funds from a surplus or unexpended balance (if one exists) or by issuing budget notes. 1967 Ops St Compt File #349.

Where no appropriation has been made for the operation of the public library, the town may obtain such funds from any true surplus, unexpended balance, the contingent fund, or the proceeds of budget notes. 1968 Ops St Compt File #508.

A village may expend village moneys for the publication of a local history and may raise the necessary funds by issuing budget notes. 1972 Ops St Compt File #16.

6. —Unbudgeted expenses: salaries

The issuance and sale, pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Estimate, of $18,500,000 in budget notes to cover a deficit in the operating expenses of the municipally-owned subway system, caused by wage increases of subway employees granted after the annual city budget for the period had been adopted, was authorized by subd. 2 of para. c of this section, providing for the payment of claims which may be settled or compromised. Wilmerding v O'Dwyer (1947) 272 AD 35, 69 NYS2d 90, revd on the ground that subd. c of § 136 of the Rapid Transit Law (now § 38), added subsequently to this decision, rendered the question moot, 297 N.Y. 664, 76 N.E.2d 325.

The resolution of the Board of Estimate authorizing the issuance and sale of budget notes for the purpose of meeting a deficiency resulting from retroactive salary increases granted to the employees of the New York City Transportation Board was valid. Timmerman v New York, 69 N.Y.S.2d 102, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3392 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd, 272 A.D. 758, 70 N.Y.S.2d 140, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3433 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

The salary of a newly created position may be paid from the proceeds of budget notes issued pursuant to this section. 1946 Ops St Compt 30.

Power of common council to fix salaries of officers and employees discussed. Retroactive salary increases forbidden. Budget notes may be issued to finance salary increases which may be granted. 1955 Ops St Compt #7190.

The salaries of school crossing guards may be paid from a budgetary appropriation therefor. Where no such appropriation exists such salaries may be paid from the contingent fund, surplus, unexpended balances or from the proceeds of a budget note issued for such purposes. 1960 Ops St Compt File #167.

Where the budget appropriation for the town constabulary has been exhausted, an appropriation therefor may be made from the contingent fund, or from surplus moneys or unexpended balances, or from the proceeds of a budget note issued for that purpose. 1960 Ops St Compt File #670.

When there is no specific budgetary appropriation for the salary of a particular officer or employee, such salary may be paid from the contingent fund, surplus, unexpended balances, or from the proceeds of a budget note, pursuant to §§ 107, 112, and 115 of the Town Law and § 20.00 of the Local Finance Law. 1960 Ops St Compt File #899.

A town may create the position of park superintendent subsequent to the adoption of the final budget for the fiscal year and pay the salary assigned thereto from legally available funds. 1968 Ops St Compt File #56.

7. —Unbudgeted expenses: other forms of compensation

Discussion of borrowing to pay Workmen's Compensation claims. 1946 Ops St Compt 580.

The town board may authorize payment of a claim for mileage only if moneys have been appropriated for such purpose and are available therefor. Such appropriation need not have been made in the original budget. 1953 Ops St Compt 414.

Highway fund moneys may not be transferred to the general fund to pay town's share of social security of highway employees. 1954 Ops St Compt 88.

Extra compensation may be paid by a village to the village attorney for extraordinary services performed by him, where an agreement to that effect exists. Where insufficient village moneys are available to pay such additional compensation, budget notes may be issued therefor, subject to statutory limitations. 1967 Ops St Compt File #674.

8. —Unbudgeted expenses: repairs

Additional moneys may be borrowed for the repair of town highway equipment pursuant to this section and § 273 of the Highway Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 258.

Where unforeseen damage has been caused to a bridge abutment maintained by a town and there are insufficient funds to repair the same, such repairs may, nevertheless, be made and the necessary funds borrowed therefor pursuant to this section and §§ 269, 271, and 273 of the Highway Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 271.

In the event that the appropriation therefor is insufficient, machinery repairs may be paid for by the issuance of budget notes pursuant to para. 2 of subd. a of this section. 1945 Ops St Compt 379.

Serial bonds or capital notes would be used to finance capital improvements in a sewer district. Budget notes could be used to finance repairs in certain cases. 1946 Ops St Compt 107.

A new roof on a water district pump house may involve partial reconstruction which may be financed by the issuance of bonds or capital notes. If repair only is involved, borrowing would be under para. i of this section. The same problem is involved in respect to machinery. 1946 Ops St Compt 642.

9. —Unbudgeted expenses: school districts

Removal of city school district officials was not warranted on ground that they passed resolution authorizing issuance of up to $4 million in budget notes in event that expenditures during year exceeded revenues, as no budget notes were actually issued, amount authorized was less than 5 percent of city school district's budget, and thus no violation of CLS Loc Fin § 29.00 occurred; moreover, even if violation occurred, respondents acted on advice of counsel and thus lacked requisite willfulness. 1996 Op Comm Ed No. 13535.

A school district, as defined in this chapter, may issue budget notes in the manner provided in para. 2, subd. 3, of this section to finance a grant by it to a recreation project made in accordance with L 1947, ch 449. 1947 Ops St Compt 406.

Subject to the limitations on amount prescribed in this section, a central school district may issue budget notes during last nine months of fiscal year, without a vote at a district meeting, to finance expenditures for the transportation of pupils when insufficient provision was made in budget. Notes issued in excess of limitations must be approved by voters. 1954 Ops St Compt 8.

10. —Unbudgeted expenses: fire districts

Fire districts may issue budget notes to finance repairs to a fire truck. 1947 Ops St Compt 157.

11. —Unbudgeted expenses: water districts

A Town Board may issue a budget note to raise moneys for the cost of the preparation of an estimate for additions and improvements to the water system of a water district. 1947 Ops St Compt 180.

Where proposed water system for a water district was not constructed, legal and engineering fees and miscellaneous expenses of establishment of the district may nevertheless be financed by the issuance of capital notes or serial bonds. 1957 Ops St Compt File #765.

12. —Unbudgeted expenses: municipal operating expenses

Where a municipality has insufficient funds to meet certain year-end costs, it may, subject to certain statutory limitations, borrow through the issuance of serial bonds, bond anticipation notes, or capital notes, if for capital expenditures, and through issuing budget notes, if for current operating expenses. 1967 Ops St Compt File #643.

Town may issue budget note to pay for unanticipated increase in amount of liability insurance premium over amount budgeted. 1986 Opn St Comp No. 86-84.

13. —Snow removal

A town which has a budgetary deficiency for snow removal purposes may issue budget notes within the limitations of this section. 1945 Ops St Compt 513.

Discussion of snow removal financing. 1946 Ops St Compt 154.

Village may not impose special assessment to pay cost of snow removal in excess of amounts appropriated, but it may issue budget notes to finance such excess costs; in addition, village has temporary authority to issue serial bonds to pay for "extraordinary expenses" for snow and ice removal incurred in its 1993-4 fiscal year. 1994 Op St Compt No. 94-20.

14. —Judgments

A judgment against the city may not be satisfied by an abatement of the 1953-54 city tax levy on the property of the judgment creditor. Payment of the judgment may not be financed by bonds or capital notes. If the judgment against the city cannot be paid out of available moneys in the general fund in the current year, the amount must be included in the tax levy for the following year. In such case, the city may finance the payment by the issuance of budget notes pursuant to this section. 1953 Ops St Compt 296.

15. —Claims

Where change orders and extras raise total cost of waterworks construction above amount which was appropriated and which was approved by referendum, village has no authority to pay claim for the additional amount in the absence of litigation or a special act of the Legislature. 1965 Ops St Compt File #340.

16. —Street repaving

Budget notes, capital notes, or serial bonds may be issued for the resurfacing of a town highway. 1945 Ops St Compt 473.

When Item 3 moneys are exhausted, no claim may be paid except from moneys received pursuant to § 266 of the Highway Law or § 29.00 (a, 2) of the Local Finance Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 504.

17. —Social welfare

A town which has made no budgetary appropriation for home relief for 1946 may spend moneys therefor. 1946 Ops St Compt 111.

18. —Social welfare: Child care and aid to dependent children

If an appropriate item for child care is not contained in a town budget, a town may provide such care with funds from budget notes. 1946 Ops St Compt 264.

"Aid to dependent children" does not include "child care." 1947 Ops St Compt 216.

19. —Revenue underestimates or cancellations

Where the clerk of a board of supervisors, prior to the levy and extension of town taxes on the rolls, has arbitrarily and without authority reduced the amount of the town's budget, causing the town to receive less tax revenue than anticipated, there is no legal principle upon which the town may recover the shortage from the county, and the town must simply cut its appropriations or possibly borrow permitted sums through the issuance of budget notes. 1967 Ops St Compt File #352.

Revenue anticipation notes, rather than budget notes, should be issued when the village needs funds due to a delay in the receipt of state aid. 1968 Ops St Compt File #778.

20. —Improvement district operating expenses

Cost of establishment of a refuse and garbage district may be financed by the issuance of tax anticipation notes. 1956 Ops St Compt 56.

Operating expenses incurred as a result of the extension of improvement districts may be financed only by the issuance of budget notes in amounts limited by the size of the district budget. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-1001.

A town which needs funds to pay for maps, plans and reports for the creation of an improvement area established under Town Law, section 54, may obtain funds by: (a) transferring available funds from part-town sources, to be repaid by the improvement area; (b) issuance of budget notes pursuant to Local Finance Law, section 29.00; or (c) issuance of bonds pursuant to General Municipal Law, section 99-d and the Local Finance Law. 1968 Ops St Compt File #624.

21. Redemption of budget notes

A budget note issued by a county may not be purchased with unappropriated cash surplus in either the general fund or the county road machinery fund. 1957 Ops St Compt File #511.

3. —Unbudgeted expenses: municipal operating expenses

1. In general

Although a county is not legally required to adopt a budget note resolution as a condition precedent to making a supplemental appropriation which it intends to finance from unappropriated fund balance, as a matter of sound fiscal policy it is advisable to do so whenever the amount of fund balance cannot be determined with exact certainty. 1984 Op St Compt File #84-9.

2. Purposes for which budget notes may be issued; unbudgeted expenses, generally

3. —Unbudgeted expenses: municipal operating expenses

Costs of a lawsuit, such as attorneys' fees, disbursements, expenses and the cost of appeals, may be financed by issuing budget notes, but not serial bonds. However, items which are included in a judgment against a municipality may be financed by issuing serial bonds. 1978 Op St Compt File #1012.

Where a village has insufficient funds to pay operating expenses during a fiscal year as a result of having previously financed unanticipated capital expenditures from current funds, it may raise additional funds to meet operating expenses by the issuance of budget notes. It may not issue bonds to finance the capital purchases after current funds have already been expended to make such purchases. 1981 Op St Compt File #81-122.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1942, ch 424.

§ 30.00. Agency authorizing issuance of obligations

a. The finance board shall have the power to authorize the issuance of bonds and notes. However, the finance board may, by resolution, delegate such power in relation to bond anticipation notes, tax anticipation notes, revenue anticipation notes or urban renewal notes or the renewals thereof, to the chief fiscal officer, in which event the chief fiscal officer shall exercise such power until the finance board, by resolution, shall elect to reassume the same.

b. Whenever the power to authorize the issuance of any of such notes, or the renewals thereof, has been delegated to the chief fiscal officer, no such note, or such renewal note, authorized by such officer pursuant to such power shall be issued unless such officer shall have first filed with the finance board a certificate authorizing the issuance of such note, or such renewal note. Such certificate shall contain in substance at least the same statements and provisions as a finance board would be required to incorporate in a resolution adopted by it in compliance with section 38.10 or section 39.00 of this chapter and, in addition, a statement that the power delegated to such officer to issue such note, or such renewal note, is in full force and effect and has not been modified, amended or revoked. Such certificate shall be properly dated and signed by the chief fiscal officer and the same shall be a public record. The failure to have first filed such certificate with the finance board as hereinbefore provided shall not invalidate the issuance of any such note.

c. In such instances in which the chief fiscal officer exercises such power, the same shall be exercised subject to such terms and conditions, not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, as the finance board may prescribe.

§ 31.00. Bond resolution and capital note resolution

a. The issuance of bonds shall be authorized by a "bond resolution." The issuance of capital notes or renewals thereof shall be authorized by "a capital note resolution." However, if capital notes are to be issued for the same object or purpose for which bonds are to be issued, the issuance of such capital notes may be authorized by the bond resolution authorizing the issuance of such bonds.

b. Any municipality, school district or district corporation may adopt one or more bond resolutions or capital note resolutions authorizing the issuance of bonds or capital notes for a specific object or purpose, for which object or purpose serial bonds may be issued. In addition thereto any municipality or school district may adopt one or more bond resolutions or capital note resolutions authorizing the issuance of bonds or capital notes for any class of objects or purposes, for which objects or purposes serial bonds may be issued.

c. The issuance of obligations for a capital improvement and for the acquisition of land or permanent rights in land for such improvement may be authorized by the same bond resolution or capital note resolution, notwithstanding the fact that the subdivision of paragraph a of section 11.00 of this chapter which sets forth the period of probable usefulness for such capital improvement does not include therein the acquisition of land or permanent rights in land for such improvement.

d. The issuance of bonds or capital notes for two or more specific objects or purposes or two or more classes of objects or purposes may be authorized by the same bond resolution or capital note resolution, notwithstanding the fact that such specific objects or purposes or classes of objects or purposes are described in separate subdivisions of paragraph a of section 11.00 of this chapter, provided:

1. The maximum period of probable usefulness is five years or less, as determined by paragraph a of such section 11.00 or pursuant to paragraph b of such section, or

2. The bond resolution or the capital note resolution, as the case may be, is not subject to either mandatory or permissive referendum.

Commission Note: This section requires that the authorization of bonds or capital notes be by a uniform type of enactment to be called a "bond resolution" or a "capital note resolution", as the case may be. The form of such resolution is prescribed in the following section. A bond resolution or capital note resolution may not contain an authorization for the issuance of obligations for more than one specific object or purpose or class of objects or purposes; however, such requirement does not prevent the sale of a single issue of bonds or capital notes for several specific objects or purposes or classes of objects or purposes or both.

Editor's Notes: For savings clause, see 1986 note to § 22.10.

Notes to Decisions

A county bond resolution would not be declared invalid on the asserted ground that it proposed reconstructing certain streets that did not qualify as connecting county or State highways in violation of High Law § 131-k, since the provisions of the Local Finance Law that authorize the issuance of municipal bonds and notes and those of the Highway Law that govern the expenditure of county funds to improve highways situated in the county are separate and distinct, and full compliance with the pertinent provisions of the Highway Law is not a condition precedent to the enactment of a county bond resolution. Morris v Cahill, 96 A.D.2d 88, 469 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19878 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

Balducci v Strough, 239 N.Y.S. 611, 135 Misc. 346, 1929 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1082 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1929).

A fire district may finance construction of a fire house by the issuance of serial bonds. Bond resolution must be adopted by at least a two-thirds vote of the board of commissioners and approved at a fire district election. 1953 Ops St Compt File #6144.

Separate capital note resolutions must be adopted for each specific object or purpose. However, one issue of capital notes may be sold in the total amount of the separate authorizations. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57846.

A city school district may properly adopt separate bond resolutions for (1) the construction of a new school and construction of additions to 3 existing schools; (2) the construction of 3 schools and the construction to an existing school; and (3) the acquisition of cities for 2 of the additions mentioned in the first resolution. However, the object of resolutions (1) and (3) should be combined in a single resolution. 1959 Ops St Compt #13.

Agency Opinions

Grouping of bond resolution for construction of new school building with bond resolution for reconstruction of existing school building under single proposition is not authorized under § 104.00(c). Estoppel procedure of §§ 80.00–84.00 eliminates objection based on such grounding; after this procedure has been followed, approval may be granted under § 104.00(c). 1955 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 158.

1. In general
2. Referendum procedure
3. Revision of project after referendum is held
4. Specific acts requiring referendum
5. —Fire house purchase and construction
6. —Purchase of apparatus

1. In general

A fire district need not obtain the consent of the State Comptroller to the issuance of bonds. 1947 Ops St Compt 105.

Discussion of the issuance of fire district bonds. 1947 Ops St Compt 435.

Both a capital note resolution and a serial bond resolution are subject to mandatory referendum. 1952 Ops St Compt 137.

A fire district may finance construction of a fire house by the issuance of serial bonds. Bond resolution must be adopted by at least a two-thirds vote of the board of commissioners and approved at a fire district election. 1953 Ops St Compt File #6144.

Fire commissioners may reject all bids and re-advertise for new bids. If condemnation proceeding is discontinued, fire district may be ordered to pay damages to owners of realty. Board may not expend in excess of estimate set forth in bond resolution. Board may issue bonds to an amount smaller than approved. Expenses incurred in connection with building construction project disapproved in referendum are legal liabilities and may be paid. 1966 Ops St Compt File #751.

2. Referendum procedure

A referendum on a bond resolution of the fire district Commissioners is not effective if held before the bond resolution is passed. 1947 Ops St Compt 490.

A special fire district election is held in the same manner as the annual fire district election. 1955 Ops St Compt 333.

Issuance of bond anticipation notes by fire district in connection with purchase of fire truck must be preceeded by bond resolution which is subject to mandatory referendum. 1987 Op St Compt No 87-74.

3. Revision of project after referendum is held

There is some doubt whether a board of fire commissioners can resubmit a bond resolution which has already been approved at a district election, at a second election. The board may, however, repeal a bond resolution which has been approved by the voters of the district, where no indebtedness has been contracted thereunder, and then adopt a new resolution and submit it at a second election. 1954 Ops St Compt 94.

4. Specific acts requiring referendum

The creation of a capital reserve fund by a fire district is subject to a permissive referendum. 1946 Ops St Compt 546.

5. —Fire house purchase and construction

Where the cost of a fire house is to be financed by the issuance of bonds, a referendum pursuant to this section is required. 1952 Ops St Compt 122.

Cost of capital improvement to fire house may be financed by capital notes. Capital note resolution is subject to referendum. 1954 Ops St Compt 383.

6. —Purchase of apparatus

The Board of Fire Commissioners of a fire district may accept a gift of an automobile for the use of the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department without the adoption of a proposition by the qualified electors of the fire district, even though the acceptance of the gift entails expenditures for its operation, maintenance, repair, and insurance. 1947 Ops St Compt 349.

Fire apparatus may not be purchased by a fire district unless a proposition has been adopted by the electors of the fire district pursuant to either § 179 of the Town Law or this section. 1947 Ops St Compt 416.

Discussion of rules and regulations relative to purchase of fire apparatus. 1953 Ops St Compt File #6421.

If the purchase of fire apparatus is to be financed by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, a referendum is necessary pursuant to this section and a referendum may not be held pursuant to Town Law § 179. 1957 Ops St Compt File #309.

Where a fire district intends to finance purchase of apparatus by issuance of serial bonds, it may advertise for bids on the proposed purchase before a proposition authorizing the financing has been approved, if a clause in the advertisement makes awarding of the contract subject to referendum approving the same. 1961 Ops St Compt #279.

A contract may not be entered into for the purchase of a fire engine unless the contract cost is available or provided for on the date the contract is signed. 1970 Ops St Compt File #82.

Fire district may purchase fire truck from its fire department utilizing current funds if spending limitation contained in CLS Town § 176 will not be exceeded or if proposition has been adopted pursuant to CLS Town § 179; alternatively, Reserve Funds may be used, subject to limitations of CLS Gen Mun § 6-g, CLS Local Fin § 38.00, or obligations may be issued subject to mandatory referendum under CLS Local Fin § 38.00. 1986 Op St Compt No. 86-67.

Fire district board of commissioners may determine to include in annual fire district budget amount to be paid into capital reserve fund established for purchase of equipment, and board may fix such amount each year at approximately same amount previously paid annually for principal on obligations issued to finance fire truck; establishment of capital reserve fund for acquisition of specific item of equipment, or expenditures from capital reserve fund established for type of equipment, would be subject to permissive referendum requirements. 1996 Op St Compt No. 96-24.

1. Revision of project after referendum is held

2. Specific acts requiring referendum

3. —Purchase of apparatus

A fire district may advertise for and open bids for purchase of fire apparatus but may not award a contract therefor until approval by referendum is secured of the bond issue or capital note resolution authorizing the purchase and financing. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 5.

The Town Board of the Town of Sullivan, acting as Fire Commissioners of said town under Town Law § 176(18), may purchase a fire truck without submission of a proposition to the electors for their approval, provided that the expenditure is to be made from cash on hand if the expenditure is within the district's spending limitation, but if such purchase is to be made under Town Law § 179 or Local Finance Law § 38.00, approval by the electors of a proposition on referendum is necessary. 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 16.

1. Any municipality may at any time, by resolution, repeal or revoke in whole or in part (a) any resolution heretofore or hereafter adopted authorizing the issuance of obligations, and (b) any certificate of a chief fiscal officer authorizing the issuance of obligations, dated on or after the effective date of this chapter, or

2. Any school district may, by resolution, repeal or revoke in whole or in part (a) any resolution hereto-

3. Any district corporation may at any time, by resolution, repeal or revoke in whole or in part (a) any resolution heretofore or hereafter adopted authorizing the issuance of obligations, and (b) any certificate of a chief fiscal officer authorizing the issuance of obligations, dated on or after the effective date of this chapter, except to the extent that any indebtedness shall already have been contracted or encumbrances made thereunder for the object or purpose for which such resolution or certificate authorizes the issuance of obligations, whether or not the voting of a special tax or a tax to be collected in installments or the approval of a proposition for the expenditure of money, at a regular or special election or meeting, was a condition precedent to the adoption of such resolution or such resolution subsequent to the adoption thereof was submitted and approved at a regular or special election or meeting.

b. Any resolution heretofore or hereafter adopted authorizing the issuance of obligations, or any certificate of a chief fiscal officer authorizing the issuance of obligations, dated on or after the effective date of this chapter, unless repealed or revoked at a prior date in the manner provided in paragraph a of this section, shall be deemed to be repealed ten years after the date it becomes effective, except to the extent that any indebtedness shall already have been contracted or encumbrances made thereunder for the object or purpose for which such resolution or certificate authorizes the issuance of obligations.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1942, ch 424; amd, L 1944, ch 608; L 1945, ch 837, eff Apr 18, 1945.

Commission Note: This section permits the repeal of such authorizations to the extent to which indebtedness has not been contracted or encumbrances made thereunder. It also provides for an automatic repeal ten years after the effective date of such authorizations. Otherwise, such unexpended authorizations will unnecessarily swell the "gross indebtedness" in the debt statement required to be filed by this chapter.

Notes to Decisions

Section 41.00 of the Local Finance Law is limited to the repeal or revocation of bond resolutions whether or not they were subject to a bond referendum pursuant to section 35.00 of the Local Finance Law, and, in essence, authorizes the repeal of unnecessary debt and has nothing to do with the repeal or revocation of the establishment of a public utility system created under section 360 of the General Municipal Law. Accordingly, a town could not amend its original bond resolution pursuant to section 360 of the General Municipal Law authorizing the establishment of a public utility system by using the procedures for amending the financing of the system set forth in section 41.00 of the Local Finance Law. Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. v Massena, 92 Misc. 2d 587, 400 N.Y.S.2d 430, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2591 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

There is some doubt whether a board of fire commissioners can resubmit a bond resolution which has already been approved at a district election, at a second election. The board may, however, repeal a bond resolution which has been approved by the voters of the district, where no indebtedness has been contracted thereunder, and then adopt a new resolution and submit it at a second election. 1954 Ops St Compt 94.

A village board of trustees may amend a bond resolution to increase from five to fifteen years the authorized maximum maturity of a proposed bond issue, provided that no bonds have been issued pursuant to the original bond resolution and the object or purpose for which the bonds are to be issued has a period of probable usefulness of at least fifteen years. The amended bond resolution would be subject to a permissive referendum. 1957 Ops St Compt File #402.

A central school district may finance purchase of buses through current funds, despite the fact that district voters have previously authorized a tax to be collected in installments and financing of the purchase by issuance of serial bonds. 1963 Ops St Compt #71.

Where a bond resolution is subject to permissive referendum, and no petition is filed within the thirty day period, the finance board may not thereafter, on its own motion, provide for a referendum on the bond resolution. It may repeal such bond resolution and adopt a new bond resolution, however. 1967 Ops St Compt File #634.

Where a bond resolution is subject to permissive referendum, and no petition is filed within the thirty day period, the finance board may not thereafter, on its own motion, provide for a referendum on the bond resolution. It may repeal such bond resolution and adopt a new bond resolution, however. 1967 Ops St Compt File #634.

Agency Opinions

A village board, upon repealing or revoking a resolution approved by the voters, is not required to proceed with the financing and construction of an improvement within the confines of the village. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 3 (informal).

TITLE 6 Local Obligations: Estoppel from Contesting Validity Thereof

HISTORY:

§ 80.00. Bond resolution, or note resolution or certificate, may contain estoppel clause

The resolution of a finance board authorizing the issuance of bonds or notes, or the certificate of a chief fiscal officer authorizing the issuance of notes, may, in the discretion of the finance board or such chief fiscal officer, as the case may be, contain a statement that the validity of such bonds or notes or any bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the sale of such bonds may be contested only if:

1. Such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which the municipality, school district or district corporation is not authorized to expend money, or

2. The provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of the publication of such resolution or summary thereof, or certificate, as the case may be, are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity, is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

3. Such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1942, ch 424; amd, L 1944, ch 608; L 1982, ch 471, § 7, eff July 7, 1982.

Commission Note: This section and §§ 81.00 through 83.00 provide a permissive procedure for the validation by resolution of obligations issued by any municipality, school district or district corporation. Upon the publication of the resolution together with the necessary notice, a twenty day period of limitation is commenced within which any action contesting the validity of the obligations authorized by such a resolution, other than on the grounds of unconstitutionality, must be instituted. This validation procedure is derived in part from the procedure contained in article 7 of the General City Law with minor revisions as to the data which such a resolution must contain and as to the requirement of compliance with the necessary provisions of law. The procedure in the General City Law requires full compliance whereas the instant procedure requires only substantial compliance. It should be noted that this procedure is reserved only to a municipality, school district or district corporation and cannot be availed of by a bondholder or taxpayer.

Notes to Decisions

Former Art. 2-A of the General Municipal Law, from which this Article was derived, was not an attempted delegation of legislative functions to the judiciary in violation of N. Y. Const., Art. III, § 1, and Art. VI, § 10. In re Common Council of Lackawanna, 158 A.D. 263, 143 N.Y.S. 198, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7328 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913).

Where the record did not indicate that a bond resolution authorizing the issuance of bonds to finance the cost of a water district was in fact published, the time limitations of the Local Finance Law were inapplicable. However, since the validity of the determination establishing a water district could not be questioned because it was barred by the statute of limitations, and since no challenge as to the bond resolution was made which would not depend upon a review of the determination establishing the water district, there was no basis in the record upon which a review of the bond resolution could be had. Niegocki v Brookhaven, 5 A.D.2d 999, 173 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6306 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1958).

No notice or public hearing on town board's resolution to sell previously authorized water system bonds was required, and resolution was not subject to referendum. Larkin v Town Board of Fleming, 52 A.D.2d 1068, 384 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12994 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. denied, 41 N.Y.2d 802, 393 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 1977 N.Y. Since a fire district is authorized to issue bonds, the provisions of former Art. 2-A of the General Municipal Law, from which this article was derived, are applicable and available to it. Petition of Board of Fire Comm'rs, 29 N.Y.S.2d 605, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2124 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

The estoppel provisions of this law will not preclude attack upon validity of bonds where the bond resolution was deliberately adopted by the Municipal Finance Board by less than the majority required by § 33.00. 1962 Ops St Compt #790.

Agency Opinions

Grouping of bond resolution for construction of new school building with bond resolution for reconstruction of existing school building under single proposition not authorized under § 104.00(c). Estoppel procedure of §§ 80.00–84.00 eliminates objection based on such grounding; after this procedure has been followed, approval may be granted under § 104.00(c). 1955 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 158.

§ 81.00. Bond resolution, or note resolution or certificate, containing estoppel clause; publication and notice

a. If a resolution of a finance board authorizing the issuance of bonds or notes or the certificate of a chief fiscal officer authorizing the issuance of notes contains the statement referred to in section 80.00 of this chapter, such resolution after adoption, or a summary of such resolution, or such certificate after its execution and filing, shall be published in full by the clerk of the municipality, school district or district corporation or such other official or person as the finance board or such fiscal officer may designate, together with a notice in substantially the following form:

"The resolution (or the resolution a summary of which is) (or certificate) published herewith has been adopted (or authorized) on the day of , 19, and the validity of the obligations authorized by such resolution (or certificate) may be hereafter contested only if such obligations were authorized for an object or purpose for which the (Here insert name of municipality, school district or district corporation) is not authorized to expend money or if the provisions of law which should have been complied with as of the date of publication of this notice were not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of publication of this notice, or such obligations were authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

If a summary of such resolution is published as provided in this section, such summary shall list the class or classes of objects or purposes for which the obligations to be authorized by such resolution are to be issued together with the period or periods of probable usefulness and the amount of obligations to be issued for each such class of objects or purposes, and in addition, such summary shall state an office of the municipality, school district or district corporation where the resolution summarized thereby shall be available for public inspection. Such resolution shall be kept available for public inspection at such office during normal business hours for twenty days following the publication of such summary as provided in this title.

b. However, if such resolution is subject to a mandatory or permissive referendum, or is submitted to a referendum by the finance board on its own motion, such resolution or summary thereof shall not be published together with such notice until it shall have been approved at such a referendum or, in the case of a resolution subject to a permissive referendum, until the period of time shall have elapsed for the submission and filing of a petition for a permissive referendum and a valid petition shall not have been submitted and filed, and such notice shall state that such resolution has been approved at such a referendum or, in the case of a resolution subject to a permissive referendum, that the period of time has elapsed for the submission and filing of a petition for a permissive referendum and a valid petition has not been submitted and filed, as the case may be.

c. If any bond resolution or capital note resolution does not contain a determination of the period of probable usefulness of the specific object or purpose or class of objects or purposes for which such resolution authorizes the issuance of obligations, there shall be published, together with such resolution or summary thereof and notice, the certificate of the appropriate body or official containing such determination.

d. Such publication as shall be required by this section shall be in the official newspaper or newspapers of the municipality, school district or district corporation or if there be no such newspaper or newspapers, then in such newspaper or newspapers having a general circulation in the municipality, school district or district corporation as the finance board shall designate.

Certain changes important to the marketing of city obligations and consistent with current market practices are necessary to assist the city in its effort to achieve a full fiscal recovery. Fiscal difficulties experienced by the city would substantially and adversely affect the state and other municipalities within this state. Under CLS Loc Fin § 82.00, any challenge to validity of resolution must be made within 20 days of publication, unless premised on constitutional grounds. Ayers v County of Greene, 132 A.D.2d 66, 521 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49544 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Taxpayer's action challenging validity of county resolution to issue highway improvement bonds was based on statutory rather than constitutional grounds, and thus was foreclosed by time limitations of CLS Loc Fin § 82.00, where taxpayer asserted, inter alia, that highway program incorporated by reference in resolution was not on file in county clerk's office, and that county treasurer did not properly file certificate of determination with finance board prior to issuance of notes. Ayers v County of Greene, 132 A.D.2d 66, 521 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49544 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Twenty-day limitation period set forth in CLS Loc Fin § 82.00 was not tolled by county's failure to properly publish resolution to issue highway improvement bonds where, despite claimed irregularities, resolution was published in full and provided adequate notice of county's road reconstruction plans. Ayers v County of Greene, 132 A.D.2d 66, 521 N.Y.S.2d 843, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49544 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

County bond resolution which failed to state a specific purpose, the proceeds of which were used to acquire land for reservoirs as part of a comprehensive water supply system was subject to attack for failure to comply with statutory requirement that maps and plans for such systems be filed with the New York State Water Resources Commission before condemning of any lands, but failure to raise such objections within the 20-day limitation contained in Local Finance Law § 82.00 rendered question moot. Blomquist v County of Orange, 69 Misc. 2d 1077, 332 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1973 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

Right to a public vote upon propositions involving the expenditure of funds by local government was intended to be fully afforded and safeguarded by the legislature in its enactment of the Local Finance Law. Richardson v Bohemia Fire Dist., 75 Misc. 2d 837, 349 N.Y.S.2d 582, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1383 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

Legislative intent in freeing a cause of action "alleging violations of the provisions of the Constitution" from the 20-day period of limitation was to permit unrestricted litigation of objections having constitutional dimension, including, but not limited to provisions of Article 8 of New York Constitution; thus, cause of action founded on constitutional objections within the framework of Local Finance Law § 82.00(3) was not barred by 20-day limitation period following publication of adoption of resolution approving bond issue. Richardson v Bohemia Fire Dist., 75 Misc. 2d 837, 349 N.Y.S.2d 582, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1383 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

Local Finance Law's 20-day statute of limitations did not apply to appeal challenging bond referendum and 2 implementing bond resolutions adopted by central school district's board of education where board, having amended its initial bond resolution to make certain corrections, approved supplemental bond resolutions that were never published in accordance with CLS Loc Fin § 81.00. 1999 Op Comm Ed No. 14,271.

§ 101.00. Giving or loaning of municipal credit and contracting indebtedness other than for municipal purposes prohibited

a. No municipality, school district or district corporation shall:

1. Give or loan its credit to or in aid of any individual, or public or private corporation or association, or private undertaking, or

2. Contract indebtedness except for the purposes of such municipality, school district or district corporation.

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph:

1. If any municipality or any county or town on behalf of an improvement district is authorized by a general law or by a special law (a) to provide a supply of water, in excess of its own needs, for sale to any other public corporation or improvement district, (b) to provide facilities, in excess of its own needs, for the conveyance, treatment and disposal of sewage, from any other public corporation or improvement district, or (c) to provide facilities, in excess of its own needs, for drainage purposes from any other public corporation or improvement district, the indebtedness contracted by the municipality for such an object or purpose shall be deemed to be for a county, city, town or village purpose, as the case may be.

2. If any two or more municipalities and county and town improvement districts are authorized by a general law or by a special law (a) to provide for a common supply of water, (b) to provide for the common conveyance, treatment and disposal of sewage or (c) to provide for a common drainage system, the joint indebtedness, or the several indebtedness for a specific proportion of the cost, contracted by the municipality for such an object or purpose shall be deemed to be for a county, city, town or village purpose, as the case may be.

3. If any two or more municipalities and school districts and county and town improvement districts are authorized by a general law or by a special law to join together to provide any municipal facility, service, activity or undertaking which each of such units has the power to provide separately, the joint indebtedness, or the several indebtedness for a specific proportion of the cost, contracted by the municipality or school district for such an object or purpose shall be deemed to be for county, city, town, village or school district purpose, as the case may be.

b. This section shall not be deemed to prevent:

1. A county from contracting indebtedness for the following purposes:

(a) Advancing to a city, town or school district, pursuant to law, the amount of unpaid taxes.

(b) Financing tax refunds required to be made by section seven hundred twenty-six of the real property tax law.

(c) Paying to the state the state tax levied against such county.

2. A town from contracting indebtedness for the following purposes:

(a) Advancing to a county or school district, pursuant to law, the amount of unpaid taxes.

(b) Paying to a county such town's share of the state tax levied against such county if such town is required by law to levy and collect such tax.

3. A city from contracting indebtedness for the following purposes:

(a) Advancing to a county or school district, pursuant to law, the amount of unpaid taxes.

(b) Paying to a county such city's share of the state tax levied against such county if such city is required by law to levy and collect such tax.

4. A municipality from making such provision for the aid, care and support of the needy, including the aid, care and support of neglected and dependent children and of the needy sick, as may be authorized by law.

5. A county, city or town from providing, pursuant to law, for the care, support, maintenance and secular education of inmates of orphan asylums, homes for dependent children or correctional institutions and of children placed in family homes by authorized agencies, whether under public or private control.

6. A municipality or school district, when authorized by law, from using its credit for

(a) The examination or inspection of any school or institution of learning wholly or in part under the control or direction of any religious denomination, or in which any denominational tenet or doctrine is taught, or

(b) The transportation of children to and from any school or institution of learning.

7. A city, town or village from giving or loaning its credit when authorized to do so by the legislature pursuant to the provisions of article eighteen of the state constitution.

8. A county, city or town from increasing, pursuant to law, pension benefits payable to retired members of a police department or fire department or to widows, dependent children or dependent parents of members or retired members of a police department or fire department.

9. A municipality, school district or district corporation from increasing, pursuant to law, the amount of pension of any member of a retirement system of the state, or of a subdivision of the state.

10. A municipality, school district or district corporation from providing, pursuant to law, for the protection by insurance or otherwise against the hazards of unemployment, sickness and old age.

11. A municipality or school district from providing, pursuant to law, for the education and support of the blind, the deaf, the mute, the physically handicapped and juvenile delinquents or for health and welfare services for all children.

12. A city, town or village from expending or loaning its money, property or credit as consideration for the effectuation of all or part of the public purpose provided for in sections eleven-a and thirty-six-a of the private housing finance law.

13. A municipality from making loans of money or credit to or in aid of any eligible corporation or association for the purpose of providing hospital or other facilities for the prevention, diagnosis or treatment of human disease, pain, injury, disability, deformity or physical condition, and for facilities incidental or appurtenant thereto, as may be authorized by law pursuant to section seven of article seventeen of the state constitution.

Commission Note: Sections 1 and 2 of article 8 of the State Constitution from which paragraph a of this section is derived, apply to municipalities and school districts. This section extends the scope of the prohibition, as set forth in those sections of the State Constitution, to district corporations as well.

Section 1 of article 8 of the State Constitution also contains a prohibition against the giving or loaning of money or property to or in aid of any individual or private corporation or association by a municipality or school district. That provision of the State Constitution has been omitted from this section because it does not relate to the contracting of indebtedness, with which topic this article is concerned. However, it is the intention of this Commission to add additional articles to the Local Finance Law from time to time. When an article on Financial Management is added to the Local Finance Law, there will be contained therein the constitutional prohibition against the giving or loaning of money or property.

Paragraph b of this section does not contain any grants or limitations of power. It contains only construction clauses which are inserted merely as a matter of caution lest the failure to include them might result in the inference that their omission was intentional and that consequently there would be repealed the power of various types of municipalities to lend their credit for the purposes set forth in this paragraph.

§ 104.00. Limitation on amount of local indebtedness which may be contracted

a. The term "indebtedness", as used in this section, shall mean in relation to a county, city, town, village, school district or fire district, any indebtedness other than an indebtedness which would be excluded, pursuant to law, in ascertaining the power of such county, city, town, village, school district or fire district to contract indebtedness. For purposes of any debt limitation contained in this title and title nine of this article, when obligations are sold by a county, city, town, village, school district or fire district at a discount, the term indebtedness shall only include the original amount of money actually received by such county, city, town, village, school district or fire district, irrespective of the face amount of the obligations at maturity.

b. No county, city, town, village or school district in a city shall contract indebtedness for any purpose or in any manner which, including existing indebtedness, shall exceed an amount equal to the following percentages of the average full valuation of such county, city, town, village or school district:

1. The county of Nassau, for county purposes, ten per centum;

2. Any county, other than the county of Nassau, for county purposes, seven per centum;

3. The city of New York, for city purposes, ten per centum;

4. Any city, other than the city of New York, having one hundred twenty-five thousand or more inhabitants according to the latest federal census, for city purposes; nine per centum;

5. Any city having less than one hundred twenty-five thousand inhabitants according to the latest federal census, for city purposes, excluding education purposes, seven per centum;

6. Any town, for town purposes, seven per centum;

7. Any village, for village purposes, seven per centum; and

8. Any school district in a city, for education purposes, five per centum.

c. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph b of this section any school district in a city may issue bonds, bond anticipation notes or capital notes for a specific object or purpose, and, where authorized by this chapter, for a class of objects or purposes, in an amount which, including existing indebtedness, shall exceed an amount equal to five per centum of the average full valuation of such school district, provided:

1. The tax voted to be collected in installments in relation thereto, or the proposition for the approval of a bond resolution or capital note resolution in relation thereto, shall have been voted or approved, as the case may be, by at least a sixty per centum vote of the qualified voters voting thereon in person at the meeting or election called for such purpose;

2. The proposition to authorize the tax to be collected in installments in relation thereto, or the proposition for the approval of a bond resolution or capital note resolution in relation thereto, contained a statement to the effect that the obligations to be issued may be issued in excess of the constitutional debt limitation of the school district; and

3. The board of regents and the state comptroller severally shall consent thereto.

d. A school district, other than a school district in a city, having an aggregate assessed valuation of taxable real property of one hundred thousand dollars or over, except for the payment of judgments, or compromised or settled claims against the school district, or awards or sums payable by the school district pursuant to a determination by a court, or an officer, body or agency acting in an administrative or quasi-judicial capacity, shall not issue bonds or bond anticipation notes, if the indebtedness of the school district determined pursuant to section 137.00 of this chapter will exceed ten per centum of the full valuation of the real property subject to taxation by the school district, unless:

1. The tax voted to be collected in installments in relation thereto, or the proposition for the approval of a bond resolution in relation thereto, shall have been voted or approved, as the case may be, before July first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, by at least a two thirds vote, or on and after July first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, by at least a sixty per centum vote, of the qualified voters voting thereon in person at the meeting or election called for such purpose;

2. The board of regents shall consent thereto; and

3. In a school district located wholly or partly in the Adirondack park which has within its boundaries state lands subject to taxation, the full valuation of which is more than thirty per centum of the full valuation of the real property subject to taxation by the school district, the state comptroller, on behalf of the state, also shall consent thereto.

e. No fire district shall contract idebtedness [indebtedness][*] for any purpose or in any manner to an amount which, including existing indebtedness, shall exceed three per centum of the full valuation of the taxable real property of such fire district, except that a fire district may contract indebtedness to an amount which, including existing indebtedness, shall not exceed five per centum of the full valuation of the taxable real property of the fire district if the proposition, when required, for the approval of the resolution authorizing the contracting of such indebtedness shall have been approved by a two-thirds vote of the qualified voters of the fire district voting thereon in person at the election called for that purpose and the state comptroller consents thereto. Before any such consent is granted, the state comptroller shall find and determine that it is in the public interest that the limitation of three per centum should be exceeded.

Commission Note: This section is derived from § 4 of article 8 of the State Constitution, Education Law § 480(1) and Town Law § 180.

This section will repeal any provision of a statute or local law containing any general limitations on the amount of indebtedness that may be contracted or any specific limitations on the amount of certain types of indebtedness that may be contracted by any municipality, school district or district corporation.

Revision Notes: [1951] This section implements in part, provisions of section 4 of article VIII of the Constitution relating to debt limitations for counties, cities, towns, villages and certain school districts, as amended in 1951.

Among other things, this section provides that the debt limitations prescribed are to be computed on the basis of average full valuation of taxable real estate rather than on the basis of average assessed valuation of taxable real estate.

This section also makes provision for separate debt limitations for all cities having less than 125,000 inhabitants and school districts coterminous with, partly within, or wholly within, any such city. This is accomplished by excluding indebtedness for "education purposes" from the debt limitation imposed upon these cities, and by providing a separate debt limitation for such school districts.

The term "education purposes", therefore, is employed in its narrower sense, being synonymous generally with "school district purpose". It is not intended, for example, to permit a city having less than 125,000 inhabitants to exclude indebtedness contracted by it for a city community college or city public library in ascertaining its power to contract indebtedness, although in the broad sense it may be argued that such indebtedness is for an educational purpose. Indebtedness contracted by the city for these purposes (i.e., a city community college or city public library), accordingly, would be considered as indebtedness for "city purposes".

It may be noted that in section 1 of this act, reference also is made to indebtedness for "education purposes". Again, such phrase was used in its more restrictive sense, and city indebtedness contracted for a city public library, for example, should not be treated as "city indebtedness for education purposes" which should be allocated to the city school district.

[1958] Chapter 778 of the Laws of 1957, which was enacted upon recommendation of the Joint Legislative Committee on Fire Laws, changed the statutory fire district debt limit from 5% of the five-year average of assessed valuations of taxable real property to 5% of the current full valuation of the taxable real property in the district. The new and more flexible base for the debt limit is comparable to that of most school districts, which, like fire districts, change their boundaries to fit local needs.

In 1957, the Committee pointed out that the new base for the fire district debt limit would have the result of increasing the borrowing power of many fire districts far beyond their needs. The Committee stated that further studies might show that the new debt limit base would permit a safe reduction in the percentage limitation from 5% to a lower percentage (Second Interim Report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Fire Laws, Leg Doc (1957) No. 42, pages 41–42, 75–80). Studies made by the State Comptroller indicate that the percentage might be lowered with safety to 2%. The Joint Legislative Committee on Fire Laws, however, believes that the percentage should not be reduced below 3% at this time and that there should be an "escape" clause to permit the contracting of debt in excess of the 3% limit, but not to exceed 5% of current full valuation. This act, therefore, provides that the 3% limit may be exceeded with a two-thirds vote of the voters and the consent of the State Comptroller. This "escape" clause is comparable to that for most school districts (Local Finance Law, § 104.00 (d)). The studies indicate that few fire districts will need to use the "escape" clause. It is intended primarily for the districts in which the total full valuation of taxable real property is very low.

Laws 1948, ch 826, § 2, provides:

The provisions of section one of this act shall not apply to bonds and bond anticipation notes duly authorized to be issued by a school district prior to July first, nineteen hundred forty-eight.

Laws 1950, ch 608, § 8, eff July 1, 1950, provides:

If the issuance of obligations by a school district has been approved by the board of regents and/or consented to by the state comptroller pursuant to the provisions of paragraph e of section 104.00 of the local finance law prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty, this act shall not be deemed to require the obtaining of another approval and/or consent in conformity with the provisions of law amended by this act, but such approval and/or consent shall continue to be effective on and after July first, nineteen hundred fifty.

Laws 1951, ch 831, § 45, provides:

The provisions of paragraph b of section 104.00 of the local finance law, as added by this act, shall not prevent a municipality or a school district issuing obligations in an amount which, including existing indebtedness, would exceed the applicable limitation of such paragraph for the purpose of providing for the payment of any indebtedness of the municipality or school district contracted prior to January first, nineteen hundred fifty-two, where the municipality or school district is otherwise authorized by such law or any other law to issue obligations for such purpose.

Laws 1951, ch 831, § 47, provides:

The provisions of the local finance law shall not prevent a district corporation issuing obligations on and after January first, nineteen hundred fifty-two, pursuant to a consent granted prior to such date under the provisions of such law as in force and effect prior to such date for the purpose of providing for the payment of any indebtedness of the district corporation contracted prior to such date, where the district corporation is otherwise authorized by such law or any other law to issue obligations for such purpose.

Laws 1951, ch 831, § 48, provides:

Where bonds are sold at public sale after January first, nineteen hundred fifty-two, any debt statement prepared and filed in relation to such sale prior to January first, nineteen hundred fifty-two, by a municipality or by a school district subject to the provisions of paragraph b of section 104.00 of the local finance law, as added by this act, shall be prepared in the manner provided by law as in force and effect on and after such date. The state comptroller shall prescribe the form of such debt statement and prepare printed forms thereof on or before December first, nineteen hundred fifty-one, and make such forms available for distribution to municipalities and such school districts.

Laws 1951, ch 831, § 49, provides:

Notwithstanding the provisions of the local finance law as amended by this act, any school district may prepare and file debt statements during the months of May and June of the year nineteen hundred fifty-one in accordance with the provisions of the local finance law as in force and effect prior to May first, nineteen hundred fifty-one and may issue bonds and bond anticipation notes subject to and in accordance with the provisions of paragraph e of section 104.00 of such law as in force and effect prior to such date.

Laws 1958, ch 235, §§ 2 and 3, provide:

§ 2. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph e of section 104.00 of the local finance law, as amended by this act, a fire district may issue obligations on or after July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight without such consent of the state comptroller, in an amount which, including existing indebtedness, shall not exceed five per centum of the full valuation of the taxable real property of the fire district for the purpose of providing for the cost of any object or purpose for which bonds, deferred payment notes or capital notes have been duly authorized prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight and are to be sold prior to July first, nineteen hundred sixty, or for the purpose of providing for the payment of any indebtedness of the fire district contracted prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight, which is to be financed in whole or in part from the proceeds of obligations sold on or after such date. [Eff July 1, 1958].

§ 3. Where fire district bonds are sold at public sale on or after July 1st, nineteen hundred fifty-eight, any debt statement prepared and filed in relation to such sale prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight, shall be prepared in the manner provided by the local finance law as in force and effect on July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight. The state comptroller shall prescribe the form of such debt statement and prepare printed forms thereof on or before June first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight, and make such forms available for distribution to fire districts. [Eff May 1, 1958].

Laws 1964, ch 641, § 2, provide:

§ 2. Notwithstanding the provisions of this chapter, any bonds issued by a school district, other than a school district in a city, having an aggregate assessed valuation of taxable real property of one hundred thousand dollars or over, on or after July first, nineteen hundred sixty-three and prior to the effective date of this act, shall be held to be valid provided that all other provisions of law have been complied with.

Laws 2003, ch 444, § 2, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the same date as a constitutional amendment proposed in a concurrent resolution entitled, "CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY proposing an amendment to section 4 of article 8 of the constitution, in relation to limitations on local indebtedness" and passed by the legislature for the second time in the year 2003, as proposed in legislative bills numbers S.2295 and A.3871 [The amendment was not approved by the electorate at the general election held in November 2003].

1. In general

This section, in determining the question of whether the ten per cent clause will be violated, controls Town Law, § 512-a, and in so far as it is inconsistent therewith will be considered as equivalent to a repeal of said law. Meyer & Meyer Corp. v Amherst, 217 A.D. 213, 216 N.Y.S. 529, 1926 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7778 (N.Y. App. Div. 1926).

Amendment of this section by ch 99 of the Laws of 1963 was not retroactive, and hence a 62% vote on a bond resolution at an election prior to July 1, 1963 will not authorize a school district to issue bonds in excess of its debt limit after that date. 1963 Ops St Compt #370.

Term "outstanding indebtedness" as used in CLS Gen Mun § 109-b(6)(c) includes only outstanding indebtedness which is not excludable pursuant to law. 1993 Op St Compt No. 93-11.

This provision does not prohibit expenditure of money nor other action in connection with proposed object or purpose but merely prohibits issuance of bonds or bond anticipation notes. Re Haber (1953) 74 NY St Dept 81.

2. Method of computing debt contracting power

Discussion of the method of computing the average assessed valuation in a fire district which has been extended or diminished in area. 1946 Ops St Compt 484.

Indebtedness of component districts need not be included in computing the debt contracting power of central high school district located outside a city. 1954 Ops St Compt 178.

3. Date of determining debt contracting power

At the time of the approval of a bond resolution authorizing the construction of a new high school, the bonded indebtedness of the school district was in excess of 10% of the total value of all the taxable property in the district. Thereafter, the resolution to finance the project by the issuance of serial bonds was adopted by the Board of Education and at that time, as a result of new equalization rates, the bonded indebtedness did not exceed the 10% limit. A proceeding to declare the bond resolution void and enjoining the schol from issuing the bonds was dismissed since the debt limitation requirement of this section does not come into play until issue of bonds is imminent. Hill v Board of Education, 286 A.D. 332, 143 N.Y.S.2d 415, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4043 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 309 N.Y. 945, 132 N.E.2d 315, 309 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 945, 1955 N.Y. LEXIS 1672 (N.Y. 1955).

The date controlling the validity of a bond issue under this section is the date when the bonds are issued and not the date of the school district meeting. Rigaud v Board of Education, 142 N.Y.S.2d 168, 207 Misc. 742, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2776 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Controlling date for determining whether more than simple majority vote is required for purposes of Local Finance Law is date bonds are issued, rather than date bonds are authorized by voters. 2011 Op Comm Ed No. 16,316.

Determination under paragraph d of this section cannot be made until such time as issuance of bonds or bond anticipation notes become immediately imminent and it is impossible for determination to be made at time of school district meeting. Re Haber (1953) 74 NY St Dept 81.

4. Limitation upon indebtedness; cities and villages

In the event that the parts of the current surplus of the city of Rome to be used for the construction of an annex to the city hall, an annex to the Public Works barn, the paving and repairing of streets, and the construction of storm-water sewers are insufficient or unavailable to defray all of the cost of any of these objects or purposes, the city may borrow to defray all or part of such cost by the issuance of serial bonds or capital notes, subject to the limitations of § 107.00 and par. d of this section. 1946 Ops St Compt 155.

A city's share of the cost of acquisition of rights of way for arterials under subd. 2.6 of § 349-c of the Highway Law must be included in computing its debt-contracting power notwithstanding it is to be paid to the state in installments. 1962 Ops St Compt #799.

There is no requirement for establishment of sinking fund as to "zero coupon bonds" issued between July 19, 1991 and December 31, 1993 as part of issuance having overall discount of 25 percent or less; face amount at maturity of "zero coupon bonds" issued between those dates is chargeable against local government's debt limit. 1994 Op St Compt No. 94-19.

5. —School districts

Bonds authorized by the mere act of passing a bond resolution did not have to be included in a school district's debt limit computations and did not violate the state constitution or the Local Finance Law because indebtedness was not incurred for purposes of the district's debt limit until the authorized bonds were actually sold, i.e., issued. Matter of O'Brien v New York State Commr. of Educ., 112 A.D.3d 188, 975 N.Y.S.2d 205, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7207 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013), app. dismissed, 22 N.Y.3d 1125, 983 N.Y.S.2d 485, 6 N.E.3d 603, 2014 N.Y. LEXIS 228 (N.Y. 2014), cert. denied, 574 U.S. 959, 135 S. Ct. 404, 190 L. Ed. 2d 290, 2014 U.S. LEXIS 7129 (U.S. 2014).

Voters' approval of school district bond resolution for issuance of obligations in excess of constitutional debt limit did not have immediate effect of putting school debt over constitutional limit, since obligations could not be issued without approvals from State Comptroller and Board of Regents, and it was possible that such approvals might not be obtained; term "existing indebtedness" in CLS Loc Fin § 104.00) does not include obligations authorized but not issued (CLS Loc Fin §§ 132.00, 135.00, 136.00). 2011 Op Comm Ed No. 16,316.

Contract characterized as "lease agreement" by high school development corporation and board of education was de facto lease-purchase agreement, where development corporation was created for express purpose of constructing high school to board's specifications, it retained few incidents of ownership in high school during lease period and none at end of period, board assumed many responsibilities that ordinarily attend ownership, board's obligation to make payments under lease was "absolute and unconditional," 30-year lease term corresponded to probable usefulness of building (CLS Loc Fin § 11.00), and circumstances strongly suggested that "lease" was designed to provide means for development corporation to finance construction of new high school to be owned by board. 2003 Op Comm Ed No. 14,857.

The approval of a school district bond resolution authorizing issuance of bonds in excess of the Constitutional debt limit has no immediate effect on the debt-contracting power of the district. 1955 Ops St Compt 634.

Judgment bonds issued pursuant to § 37.00 by school districts form part of the bonded indebtedness of such school districts. 1956 Ops St Compt 733.

Chairman of a school district meeting has no duty, right or authority to make a determination under this section. Re Haber (1953) 74 NY St Dept 81.

A fire district with an average assessed valuation of approximately $160,000 did not have borrowing power sufficient to issue bonds in the amount of $25,000. 1955 Ops St Compt File #7499.

The debt limit of a fire district is computed by adding the last five completed assessment rolls, dividing by five, and multiplying that average by .05. 1956 Ops St Compt 167.

In fire districts there is a three per cent debt limitation which may be exceeded, subject to certain conditions, to a maximum of five per cent of full valuation. 1967 Ops St Compt File #699.

a. Not more than fifteen nor less than three days before any municipality, fire district, or any school district having an aggregate assessed valuation of taxable real property of one hundred thousand dollars or more, sells any bonds which are required to be sold at public sale, it shall file with the state comptroller a verified statement of its debt-contracting power prepared as of a date not more than thirty days previous to the date of the sale of such bonds, except that in a city containing more than one county the statement of its debt-contracting power shall be prepared as of a date not more than sixty days previous to the date of the sale of such bonds. The statement shall show the amount of obligations proposed to be sold at such sale. A duplicate copy of every such debt statement shall be filed in the same respective periods of time with the clerk or corresponding officer of such municipality, fire district or school district. In the case of a city containing more than one county, such statements in addition to being filed with the city clerk shall also be filed in the same respective periods of time in the office of the chief fiscal officer thereof. Debt statements and duplicates thereof, filed pursuant to this section, shall be public records.

§ 162.00. Exemption from taxation

All bonds and notes of a municipality, school district or district corporation, until payable, and the interest thereon, shall be exempt from taxation for municipal and state purposes.

HISTORY:
Add, L 1942, ch 424, with substance transferred from Conser L § 466, and Gen Mun L § 9–b; amd, L 1944, ch 608; L 1950, ch 762.

Commission Note: This section is derived from General Municipal Law § 9-b. It differs therefrom in the following respects:

1. It includes notes as well as bonds.

2. It applies to all municipalities, school districts and district corporations.

Revision Notes: [1950]. Amendment made necessary by L 1950, ch 762, § 53, repealing § 26.00 of the Local Finance Law.

§ 165.00. Deposit and use of proceeds from sale of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes, urban renewal notes or budget notes

a. The proceeds, inclusive of premiums, from the sale of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes, urban renewal notes or budget notes shall be deposited and secured in a special account in the manner provided by section ten of the general municipal law, shall not be commingled with other funds of the issuer, and shall be expended only for the object or purpose for which such obligations were issued. In the event that any portion of the proceeds, inclusive of premiums, from the sale of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes, urban renewal notes or budget notes is not expended for the object or purpose for which such obligations were issued, such portion shall be applied only to the payment of the principal of and interest on such obligations, respectively. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, the finance board of any municipality, school district or district corporation may adopt any or all of the following resolutions to provide that:

1. The proceeds, inclusive of premiums, of capital notes issued in amounts of one hundred thousand dollars or less, and of budget notes, need not be deposited in a special account but may be deposited and commingled with other funds of the issuer in any account of the issuer in a bank or trust company located and authorized to do business in this state, but such power shall not be construed as authorizing the use of such proceeds for an object or purpose other than that for which the obligations were issued.

2. The proceeds, inclusive of premiums, from the sale of any two or more issues of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes, urban renewal notes or budget notes need not be deposited in separate special accounts but may be deposited in a single special account of the issuer in a bank or trust company located and authorized to do business in this state, but shall not be commingled with other funds of the issuer. The chief fiscal officer shall then maintain a separate accounting record of each issue to insure that the proceeds shall be used only for the object or purpose for which the obligation was issued.

3. Moneys appropriated for a purpose for which bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes or urban renewal notes have been authorized may be deposited in the same bank account with the proceeds from the sale of such obligations. Such power shall not be construed as authorizing the use of the proceeds of such obligations for an object or purpose other than that for which they were issued. Provided, however, that any moneys remaining in such bank account after the object or purpose has been completed or abandoned shall be applied to the payment of the principal of and interest on such obligations; any excess remaining thereafter may be used for any lawful purpose.

b. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph a of this section, the proceeds, inclusive of premiums, from the sale of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes and urban renewal notes may be invested in the manner provided by section eleven of the general municipal law.

Such investment shall be made by the finance board or the chief fiscal officer, if the finance board shall delegate such duty to that person. The separate identity of the proceeds from the sale of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes, urban renewal notes and budget notes shall be maintained at all times, whether such proceeds consist of cash or investments or both. Any interest earned or capital gain realized on any investment shall be applied to either the payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes, urban renewal notes or budget notes, as the case may be, the proceeds from the sale of which were used in making such investment or for any other purpose or purposes for which such issue of bonds, capital notes or urban renewal notes has been authorized. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, any interest earned or capital gain realized on any investment shall, to the extent necessary to maintain the exemption from federal income taxation of interest on the obligations the proceeds from the sale of which were used in making such investment, be paid to the United States treasury department, or any agency of the United States. Where the proceeds from the sale of bond anticipation notes have been invested and such notes have been retired from the proceeds from the sale of the bonds in anticipation of which they were issued, any interest earned or capital gain realized on any investment shall be applied only to the payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds.

c. Notwithstanding the provision of paragraph a of this section or the provision of subdivision three of section ninety-nine-o of the general municipal law, the proceeds of obligations issued for the partial refinancing of mass commuting vehicles by the county of Suffolk may be used to reimburse in whole or in part any accounts or funds from which moneys were disbursed to meet the cost of the original acquisition of such mass commuting vehicles. As used in this paragraph "mass commuting vehicles" means any bus, subway car, rail car, locomotive, or similar equipment used or to be used to provide mass commuting services, whether or not operated by a private operator under agreement with the county of Suffolk.

d. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph a of this section, if obligations issued by a school district or a city on behalf of a school district have been refunded with bonds issued by the dormitory authority of the state of New York pursuant to subdivision thirty-nine of section sixteen hundred eighty of the public authorities law, that portion of the proceeds that are allocable to obligations refunded with bonds issued by the dormitory authority of the state of New York and that have not been expended by the school for the object or purpose for which such obligations were issued shall be applied only to the payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds issued by the dormitory authority.

Editor's Notes: See 1961 note to § 25.10.

Laws 1976, ch 680, § 5, provides as follows:

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately provided that sections one and two of this act shall expire on June 30, 1998 and provided, however, that it is hereby declared to be the express intention of the legislature that the provisions of sections one and two of this act, except with respect to investments made pursuant to the provisions hereof, shall remain in full force and effect only until the date of such expiration at which time the provisions of law amended by this act, shall be continued in full force and effect as they existed prior to the enactment of this act. (Amd, L 1977, ch 630, § 1, L 1978, ch 90, 1983, ch 908, § 1, L 1988, ch 189, § 1, eff June 30, 1988, L 1993, ch 196, § 1, eff July 1, 1993.).

Laws 1992, ch 708, § 45, eff Nov 28, 1992, provides as follows:

§ 45. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, provided that section forty-three of this act shall take effect June 4, 1997; and provided, however, that the amendments to the opening paragraph of subdivision 2 of section 11 of the general municipal law, made by section thirteen of this act and the opening paragraph of paragraph b of section 165.00 of the local finance law, made by section twenty-six of this act shall not affect the expiration and reversion of such provisions as provided in chapter 680 of the laws of 1976, as amended. (Amd, L 1995, ch 109, § 1, eff June 30, 1995, deemed eff July 1, 1995, L 1996, ch 6, § 1, eff Jan 31, 1996, deemed eff Feb 1, 1996, L 1996, ch 70, § 1, eff April 30, 1996, deemed eff April 30, 1996, L 1996, ch 152, § 1, eff June 14, 1996, deemed eff June 15, 1996, L 1997, ch 13, § 1, eff Feb 14, 1997, deemed eff Feb 15, 1997, L 1997, ch 27, § 1, eff April 1, 1997, deemed eff March 27, 1997, L 1997, ch 67, § 1, eff May 21, 1997, deemed eff May 27, 1997.).

Laws 2001, ch 383, § 20 (Part F), eff Oct 29, 2001, deemed eff April 1, 2001, provides as follows:

§ 20. This act shall take effect immediately and shall be deemed to have been in full force and effect on and after April 1, 2001 and shall apply to school years commencing on or after July 1, 2001, provided, however, that section fourteen-a of this act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as section 1 of part B of chapter 149 of the laws of 2001 takes effect.

Amendment Notes: 2001. Chapter 383, § 10 (Part F) amended:

By adding par d.

1992. Chapter 708, § 26 amended:

Par a, opening par by deleting at fig 1 "a bank or trust company located and authorized to do business in this state," and adding the matter in italics.

By redesignating par b, first undesignating par, opening par as par b, first undesignated par.

Par b, first undesignated par by deleting at fig 1 "obligations of the United States of America, or in obligations guaranteed by agencies of the United States of America where the payment of principal and interest are guaranteed by the United States of America, or in obligations of the state of New York, or with the approval of the state comptroller in obligations issued pursuant to section 24.00 or 25.00 of this chapter by any municipality, school district or district corporation other than the municipality, school district or district corporation investing such proceeds pursuant to this paragraph, subject to the following conditions:" and adding the matter in italics.

By deleting par b, first undesignated par, subpars 1–3.

By redesignating former par b, third undesignated par as par b as second undesignated par.

By deleting former par b, second undesignated par.

Par c by deleting at fig 1 a comma and adding the matter in italics.

1. In general

The restrictions of the Local Finance Law (§ 32.00, subd 1; § 165.00, subd a), requiring that bond resolutions be for a specific object or purpose and that funds may only be expended for that purpose, are not applicable to a resolution to condemn property enacted pursuant to section 360 of the General Municipal Law, which does not direct that bonds or any form of borrowing will be used, but only that the resolution and referendum must specify the costs. Massena v Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., 60 A.D.2d 139, 400 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14366 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977), app. dismissed, 44 N.Y.2d 732, 1978 N.Y. Discussion of investments for town and village reserve and sinking funds and proceeds from sale of obligations. 1954 Ops St Compt 238.

An obligation of the particular municipality, school district or district corporation which makes a deposit of the proceeds of such obligation, may be used to secure such deposit. 1967 Ops St Compt File #274.

The guaranteed portion of SBA loans may be used as collateral for municipal and school district investments and deposits. 1976 Ops St Compt File #1155.

A city may deposit with the state comptroller the proceeds of bonds and notes issued by the city to finance the non-federal share of a federally-aided city bridge project. 1992 Op St Compt No. 92-8.

New York State higher education loans which have been reinsured by the Federal government pursuant to the Higher Education Act of 1965 may be accepted as collateral to the extent of the amount which has been reinsured. 1983 Op St Comp File #83-107.

2. Deposit in special account

Petition alleging, inter alia, that district superintendent improperly directed transfer of $400,000 from construction bond fund to new code or line item without reporting this action to board for informational purposes or approval, and seeking restoration $400,000 to district's general fund, was untimely where petition was served more than 10 to 12 months after allegedly improper transfer occurred. 2008 Op Comm Ed No. 15,740.

The down payment should be used for the purpose appropriated prior to the use of the bond proceeds; it may be deposited in a special bond account. 1946 Ops St Compt 670; 1947 Ops St Compt 129.

The proceeds of bond anticipation notes must be deposited in a special bank account. 1947 Ops St Compt 302.

When bonds of various issues are sold as a single bond issue at one rate of interest for all the bonds, the proceeds of each issue, together with the premium allocated to the issue, must be deposited in a special bank account as required by this section. 1947 Ops St Compt 386.

Moneys raised by tax for the purchase of town highway machinery shall be deposited to the credit of the town highway fund in a separate bank account. The proceeds of the sale of municipal obligations for machinery purchases should also be deposited in a separate bank account unless the town board resolves to commingle such funds. 1956 Ops St Compt 207.

This section governs the deposit of borrowing by the Syracuse City School District, requiring that they be deposited in a separate bank account except as the City Finance Department may authorize their commingling with other funds. 1961 Ops St Compt File #71.

Where two separate bond resolutions were passed, and the proceeds from the bonds are placed in a single, separate bank account, a single voucher for monthly progress payments to each contractor may be used only if the amount chargeable to each project is clearly allocated therein. Separate accounting records must be made of each issue so that the proceeds shall be used only for the object or purpose for which the obligation was issued. 1967 Ops St Compt File #515.

3. —Bank or trust company

Funds of a school district may not be deposited in a bank of which the trustee is an officer or director. 1947 Ops St Compt 116.

Proceeds of fire district obligations may be deposited in either federal or state banks but may not be deposited in savings and loan associations or savings banks. Such proceeds may be deposited in more than one qualified bank or trust company. 1947 Ops St Compt 439.

The term "bank" as used in these sections does not include a savings bank or savings and loan association regardless of whether such institutions are state chartered or federally chartered. 1983 Op St Comp File #83-69.

4. Investment of proceeds

Bond proceeds may not be invested. 1946 Ops St Compt 444.

A fire district may invest the proceeds of a bond sale pending their use to carry out the purpose for which they were issued. 1954 Ops St Compt 12.

Sale of school district bond anticipation notes in advance of need, for the deliberate purpose of investing sale proceeds at a profit, would be contrary to the spirit and intent of this section. 1961 Ops St Compt #366; 1961 Ops St Compt #372.

Where a capital project has been temporarily financed by the issuance of bond anticipation notes, the finance board may issue bonds at any time thereafter and before the due date of the notes, and may invest the bond proceeds until such time as the notes mature. 1967 Ops St Compt File #636.

5. —Federal and State of New York obligations

The Local Finance Law permits limited investment of bond proceeds in obligations of the United States of America and the State of New York. 1953 Ops St Compt 187.

A union free school district may invest the proceeds of a bond issue and should name a depositary for such proceeds pursuant to the Education Law. Federal and Land Bank bonds, Federal National Mortgage Association notes and debentures, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank debentures, and Federal Home Loan Bank bonds are not obligations of the United States of America. New York State Power Authority bonds, New York State Thruway Authority bonds and bonds of a subdivision of the State are not obligations of the State. 1960 Ops St Compt File #732.

Village may temporarily invest in short term United States Treasury Bills issued in book-entry form, which are registered in the name of the village, under the "Treasury Direct" program, where no physical security is issued, the security being evidenced only by an account master record and a description of the security in a securities portfolio associated therewith in the Federal Reserve's computer system. Ops St Compt 89-42.

6. —Time deposit accounts

A time deposit is an unconstitutional loan of municipal moneys. 1953 Ops St Compt 82.

Bond proceeds may be invested only pursuant to this section. Investment in time deposits would be unconstitutional loan of municipal money. 1954 Ops St Compt 423.

Capital reserve fund moneys may not be invested in special time deposit accounts at the present time. 1957 Ops St Compt File #485.

Bond proceeds may be deposited in special time deposit accounts. 1957 Ops St Compt File #485.

Cash deposits made by electric consumers may be deposited in special time deposit accounts. 1957 Ops St Compt File #485.

F.N.M.A. participation certificates are acceptable as collateral for deposits of bond or note proceeds in special time deposit accounts or certificates of deposit, but such proceeds cannot be invested in such participation certificates, directly. 1968 Ops St Compt File #347.

7. Application of proceeds to specific object or purpose

A county legislature's bond resolution would not be invalidated on the asserted ground that it lacked the specificity required under Loc Fin Law § 32.00(1) in that it merely designated "reconstructing various roads in said county" as the purpose for the issuance of bonds and notes rather than setting forth specific roads, since the county legislature was not prohibited from designating the reconstruction of roads within the county as a class of objects and purposes for the issuance of its obligations, and since the resolution sufficiently satisfied the objectives underlying the statutory requirement that the objects or purposes for the issuance of municipal obligations be described in that it reasonably insured that the funds derived from such issuance would be expended only for the stated class of objects or purposes, and sufficiently determined the period of probable usefulness of the class or specific object or purpose. Morris v Cahill, 96 A.D.2d 88, 469 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19878 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued by a union free school district to finance construction of a public library building must be held in the custody of the school district treasurer and may be expended only under direction of the library trustees for the object or purpose for which the bonds were issued. The board of education has no control over the expenditure of such proceeds. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6061.

Funds held as retained percentages due ultimately to contractors may be invested in certificates of deposit. If funds are proceeds of sale of obligations, interest earned or capital gain realized thereon shall be applied only to the payment of principal and interest related to such obligations in accordance with section 165.00 of the Local Finance Law. If moneys are reserve funds or proceeds of current appropriations, interest earned or capital gain realized thereon would belong to the city and could be used by it subject to the same requirements as in the case of unexpended balances. 1967 Ops St Compt File #825.

When county contracts with Facilities Development Corporation (FDC) to oversee its construction of jail project, and contract requires proceeds of county bonds issued to fund project to be paid to FDC to finance construction costs, FDC, pursuant to contract, may invest bond proceeds and use interest earned thereon to pay cost overruns on project. 1987 Op St Compt No. 87-90.

Where surplus bond proceeds are available to pay debt service for purposes of town improvement district and current assessments also have been raised and appropriated for purpose, debt service need not be paid from assessments. 1988 Op St Compt No. 88-7.

School district which has excess proceeds of outstanding bonds issued for completed capital project must retain those proceeds for payment of principal and interest on bonds, irrespective of whether bonds have "call" provision; such excess proceeds may not be used for any other school district purpose. 1995 Op St Compt No. 95-13.

8. —Application to another purpose

In the case of fully paid bonds issued for a purpose never accomplished, the village is either obligated to spend the proceeds in accordance with the original resolution or else it should secure the enactment of legislation authorizing the rescission of the original resolution and permitting the proceeds to be used for other capital purposes by the village. 1946 Ops St Compt 26.

A fire district may not divert bond proceeds to pay current operating expenses. 1946 Ops St Compt 583.

School district voters have no authority to authorize or direct the expenditure of bond proceeds for an object or purpose different than the object or purpose for which such bonds were issued. 1954 Ops St Compt 423.

Where a bond issue for school building construction has been authorized but the full amount of bonds have not been issued because costs were less than anticipated, the additional bonds may not be issued to finance some other project not included in the authorization. 1962 Ops St Compt #124.

9. Application of income from invested proceeds

Interest received from the temporary investment of bond proceeds by a central high school district may not be applied to the payment of interest due on bond anticipation notes. Such earned interest may be applied in the current year to the payment of debt service on the bonds the proceeds from the sale of which were invested, notwithstanding that the current budget contains provisions for the payment of such debt service. Such earned interest should be accounted for by the district on a cash basis. 1953 Ops St Compt 411.

Where the proceeds of bonds issued to finance the construction of school buildings have been invested, the income realized from such investment may be used only for paying the principal of or interest on such bonds. 1957 Ops St Compt File #234.

10. Application of bond premiums

Premiums on sales of village or other municipal bonds may be applied either to the payment of debt service on the bonds or, if the estimated maximum cost recited in the bond resolution is not exceeded, to the cost of the capital improvement for which the bonds were issued. 1967 Ops St Compt File #612.

11. Use of general fund monies in lieu of bond proceeds

When village moneys were improperly used to pay construction costs pending the sale of bonds, such moneys may be reimbursed from the bond proceeds under certain conditions. The same rule would not apply if the moneys were properly used. 1946 Ops St Compt 519.

Pending the issuance of bonds or capital notes, a village may not use general fund moneys temporarily to pay for water meters delivered to the village. 1947 Ops St Compt 276.

12. Payment of specific expenses out of proceeds

Proceeds of bonds issued by school district to finance library building are to be disbursed by chief fiscal officer of district in payment of claims audited and ordered paid by board of education. 1966 Op St Compt No. 66–728.

13. —Salaries

The salary of a newly created position may be paid from the proceeds of budget notes issued pursuant to § 29.00. 1946 Ops St Compt 30.

The proceeds of a budget note may be transferred to the budget item for assessors' salaries. 1946 Ops St Compt 495.

Salaries of regular village employees may be paid from the proceeds of sale of bonds issued for construction of a village garage, but only for work actually performed in constructing the garage. 1963 Ops St Compt #222.

14. —Fees

Legal services for a fire apparatus bond issue by a fire district may be paid from bond proceeds. 1946 Ops St Compt 215.

Engineering fees incurred in connection with a capital improvement may be paid from the proceeds of bonds, bond anticipation notes, capital notes or deferred payment notes. 1957 Ops St Compt File #57-737.

Where the fees of a financial consultant and bond counsel have been incurred by a town as a preliminary expense for a general town project for which obligations are to issue, such expense should normally be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the obligations, unless the bond resolution is defeated and there are no such proceeds or earmarked moneys, in which case such expense is payable from the town general fund. 1967 Ops St Compt File #499.

15. —Preliminary expenses

A Board of Education of a union free school district may engage the services of a firm specializing in municipal surveys to make a survey of the school district to provide the Board and voters with proper statistical information in relation to the need for a school building for the district and other pertinent data, the reasonable cost therefor to be paid from bonds issued to finance the school building. 1947 Ops St Compt 300.

The cost of a referendum held on a bond resolution may be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds. 1955 Ops St Compt 375.

16. Application of surplus proceeds

Resolution adopted by central school district, transferring balances from 2 unrelated bond referendum funds to district's debt service fund, did not contravene CLS Loc Fin § 165.00 where purpose of transfer was to offset future debt service payments on outstanding bond obligations, not to reduce anticipated debt service on project under consideration at special district meeting (so that district could claim that passage of propositions would not require tax increase) as petitioner alleged. 2000 Op Comm Ed No. 14,572.

Petition alleging that superintendent improperly purchased computers from construction bond fund approved by district voters, and seeking restoration of any misspent funds to district's general fund, was untimely where it was served more than 9 months after board meeting at which superintendent publicly announced his intent to issue purchase orders for computers using excess funds from construction bond; even if matter was deemed ongoing until superintendent forwarded letter from district's architect to board regarding expenditure for computers in March of 2007, petitioner still did not serve petition until July of 2007, more than 30 days later. 2008 Op Comm Ed No. 15,740.

The city council may not make unexpended bond moneys available for sewer construction but must apply such moneys to the retirement of the outstanding bonds of the issue. 1945 Ops St Compt 366.

Surplus bond proceeds must be used for debt service on the bonds and may not be diverted for other purposes. 1946 Ops St Compt 600.

Unexpended proceeds of a bond issue must be applied only to the payment of the principal and interest on such bonds. 1947 Ops St Compt 401.

The unexpended portion of the proceeds from the sale of bonds issued by a school district to finance construction of a school building may not be used to purchase original furnishings, equipment, machinery or apparatus required for the purposes for which the building is to be used when the proposition adopted by the voters and the bond resolution adopted by the board of education make no reference to the acquisition of such furnishings, equipment and apparatus in describing the object or purposes for which the bonds were issued. 1953 Ops St Compt 7.

Unexpended proceeds of a bond issue may be used only for payment of debt service on such bonds and until so used, such funds must remain segregated if not invested. 1955 Ops St Compt 96.

Surplus proceeds from the sale of bonds to finance construction of a firehouse may not be paid into a reserve fund established pursuant to General Municipal Law, § 6-h for the payment of bonded indebtedness. 1960 Ops St Compt File #721.

If any portion of the proceeds of a sale of obligations is not expended for the purpose for which such obligations were issued, such portion must be applied to the payment of principal and interest on such obligations. 1967 Ops St Compt File #661.

Proceeds of bonds not expended for the object for which the bonds were sold cannot be transferred, but must be applied to the payment of principal of and interest on such bonds. 1968 Ops St Compt File #104.

The entirety of excess bond anticipation note proceeds must be used to pay the interest on and principal of such notes as expeditiously as possible. 1969 Ops St Compt File #866.

ARTICLE 7 Office of Mental Health

HISTORY:
Add, L 1977, ch 978, § 4, eff April 1, 1978.

§ 7.21. Directors of facilities

(a) The director of a facility under the jurisdiction of the office of mental health shall be its chief executive officer. Each such director shall be in the noncompetitive class and designated as confidential as defined by subdivision two-a of section forty-two of the civil service law and shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the commissioner. He or she shall manage the facility subject to applicable law and the regulations of the commissioner of mental health. Before the commissioner shall issue any such regulation or any amendment or revision thereof, he or she shall consult with the facility directors regarding its suitability. The director shall maintain effective supervision of all parts of the facility and over all persons employed therein or coming thereon and shall generally direct the care and treatment of patients. Directors presently serving at office of mental health facilities shall continue to serve under the terms of their original appointment.

(b) [Until June 30, 2013] Such director shall have the responsibility of seeing that there is humane treatment of the patients at his facility and shall investigate every case of alleged patient abuse or mistreatment. The director shall notify immediately, and in any event within three working days, the board of visitors of the facility and the mental hygiene legal service located in the same judicial department as the hospital, school, or institution of every complaint of patient abuse or mistreatment and shall inform the board and the mental hygiene legal service of the results of his investigation. If it appears that a crime may have been committed, the director shall give notice thereof to the district attorney or other appropriate law enforcement official as soon as possible, and in any event within three working days unless it appears that the crime includes an employee, intern, volunteer, consultant, contractor, or visitor and the alleged conduct caused physical injury or the patient was subject to unauthorized sexual contact, or if it appears the crime is endangering the welfare of an incompetent or physically disabled person pursuant to section 260.25 of the penal law, or if the crime was any felony under state or federal law, then the district attorney or other appropriate law enforcement official must be contacted immediately, and in any event no later than twenty-four hours.

(b) [Eff June 30, 2013] Such director shall have the responsibility of seeing that there is humane treatment of the patients at his or her facility and shall investigate, or cause to be investigated, every reportable incident in accordance with article eleven of the social services law. Also in accordance with article eleven of the social services law, the director shall require allegations of reportable incidents to be reported to the vulnerable persons' central register, which shall screen and immediately forward reports that appear to allege crimes to the appropriate law enforcement agency. The vulnerable persons' central register shall notify immediately, and in any event within three working days, the board of visitors of the facility and the mental hygiene legal service located in the same judicial department as the hospital, school, or institution of every complaint of patient abuse or neglect and shall inform the board and the mental hygiene legal service of the results of his investigation.

(c) In any investigation into the treatment and care of patients or the conduct, performance, or neglect of duty of officers or employees, the director of a department hospital shall be authorized to subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance, administer oaths to witnesses, examine witnesses under oath, and require the production of any books or papers deemed relevant to the inquiry or investigation. A subpoena issued under this section shall be regulated by the civil practice law and rules.

(d) Each facility director of the office shall, upon notice from the commissioner or upon knowledge that programs of such facility may be contracted or terminated, implement procedures to ensure timely notification to affected employees. Such procedures shall include, but not be limited to:

(1) dissemination and posting of all decisions, policies and procedures with respect to all aspects of such actions and their impact on facility staff; and

(2) compliance with all requirements and protection of employee rights pursuant to collective bargaining agreements with the designated legal representative of the employees and the civil service law.

(e) Every facility director or designee thereof is authorized and empowered to grant leaves of absence to employees of such facility not involved in direct patient care who are volunteer firefighters as defined in subdivision one of section three of the volunteer firefighters' benefit law, responding to an emergency within the community for such periods as the volunteer firefighters are engaged in the actual performance of their duties as volunteer firefighters.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1978, ch 492, § 1, provides:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The legislature finds and declares that, consistent with the policy of the state that all of its residents who are disabled will receive services according to their individualized needs and, whenever possible, in their home communities to enable them to realize their fullest potential for self-fulfillment and independent living in society, the continued utilization of qualified and dedicated state employees, whose employment in a program of a facility of an office may be terminated because of planned contraction of such program, will help ensure the development of effective and efficient service delivery systems at the community level consistent with the needs of the mentally disabled. It is the intent of the legislature to foster the development of appropriate mechanisms to ensure the continuity of employment of state employees, in the state, local government and voluntary nonprofit service sectors in order to foster the development of improved community mental health services, encourage cooperative and responsible participation and staffing arrangements that take into consideration the retraining needs and the negotiated employment rights of state employees, and to maximize the utilization of the wide range of staff disciplines and experience in servicing the needs of the chronically, severely and profoundly disabled.

Laws 1985, ch 789, § 57, eff April 1, 1986, provides as follows:

§ 57. This act shall take effect April first, nineteen hundred eighty-six; provided, however, the presiding justice of the appellate division is hereby authorized to take such actions as are necessary and proper in order to effectuate the purposes of this act prior to such effective date. Such actions shall include, but not be limited to, the promulgation of rules or regulations, the designation of a person to serve as director of the mental hygiene legal service for such appellate division of the judicial department, the preparation and submission of budget requests and a staffing plan for the mental hygiene legal service. Officers or employees of the mental health information service shall be transferred to the mental hygiene legal service without further examination or qualification and shall retain their respective civil service classifications and statuses.

Laws 2012, ch 501, § 1, eff Dec 17, 2012, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "protection of people with special needs act".

Laws 2013, ch 56, § 3 (Part J), eff April 1, 2013, provides as follows:

§ 3. The amendments to sections 7.19 and 7.21 of the mental hygiene law pursuant to Part J of a chapter of the laws of two thousand thirteen shall not authorize the commissioner of mental health to make any decisions with respect to employees in contradiction of the civil service law and regulations, and applicable collective bargaining agreements, nor otherwise alter any geographically discrete layoff unit structures.

I. GENERALLY

1. In general

Court would order State Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities to conduct name-clearing hearing for benefit of former employee of not-for-profit social service agency, whose employment had been terminated for his alleged infliction of physical and psychological abuse on patient with developmental disabilities, since public disclosure or dissemination of reason for termination would occur by virtue of regulations requiring agency to report all incidents of abuse, and by fact that employee would be asked to reveal grounds for termination in future employment applications. Wright v Guarinello, 165 Misc. 2d 720 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

II. UNDER FORMER § 7.17

2. In general

Though a hearing officer's report is entitled to weight in determining existence of substantial evidence, particularly to extent that material facts in given case may depend on resolving credibility of witnesses as shown by their demeanor or conduct at hearing, findings of hearing officer are not conclusive and may be overruled by the official upon whom has been imposed power to remove or mete out discipline, provided, of course, that the latter's action is supported by substantial evidence. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

Where director of school for mentally retarded, in rendering account of his decision to discharge permanent employee who had been accused of sexual relations with a school resident, acknowledged that he had relied on matters not appearing in record of hearing at which hearing officer had concluded that employee was innocent of charge, director's action violated general proposition that it is not proper for an administrative agency to base an adjudicatory decision on evidence or information outside the record, where right to a hearing exists. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

Although it was not necessary that director of school for mentally retarded personally conduct hearing on charge that permanent employee at school had been guilty of misconduct, it was essential that any determination as to misconduct and penalty be made by the director, as that function may not be delegated. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

Employee of state facility for mentally retarded problem children was properly dismissed after striking several children. Merchant v New York State Dep't of Mental Hygiene, 41 A.D.2d 588, 340 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5298 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

III. UNDER EARLIER LAWS

3. Under former § 33

Application to compel father to support insane son in state hospital, as required by Men. Hyg. Law, § 128, and Code of Crim. Proc., §§ 914 and 915, must be brought in name of treasurer of institution where person confined rather than in name of superintendent and this procedure is not changed by Men. Hyg. L. § 33 or 38. In re Brinkler, 33 N.Y.S.2d 778, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1429 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

4. Under former § 34; generally

The report of injury required by sub 9 of this section as required of the director of a state institution by sub 9 of this section was not admissible into evidence in the trial of a case of a claimant injured while an inmate of a state hospital. Cox v State, 282 A.D. 815, 122 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5006 (N.Y. App. Div.), modified, 282 A.D. 912, 124 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5388 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

Under doctrine of state immunity for alleged injuries arising out of governmental functions or administrative decisions, claimant who was confined for 28 ½ years in state facility for criminally insane with little or no attention or medical consultation stated no cause of action for false imprisonment or involuntary servitude where there was no express or implied allegation that court orders directing claimant's confinement were invalid on their face or that court lacked in personam jurisdiction, and where claimant failed to allege that tasks assigned him during confinement were not reasonably related to his rehabilitation, or that said labors were involuntary. Ferrucci v State, 42 A.D.2d 359, 348 N.Y.S.2d 236, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3309 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973), aff'd, 34 N.Y.2d 881, 359 N.Y.S.2d 279, 316 N.E.2d 715, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1476 (N.Y. 1974).

The six-year Statute of Limitations (Civ. Prac. Act, § 48, subd. 2) in respect to action based upon liability created by statute was applicable in common-law action for damages against superintendent of mental institution for violation of this section, but did not bar such action where action was timely commenced, taking date of its accrual as time when superintendent released letter containing plaintiff's case record. Munzer v Blaisdell, 49 N.Y.S.2d 915, 183 Misc. 773, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2235 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944), aff'd, 269 A.D. 970, 58 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4798 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1945).

A state hospital may not be required upon application for production of records pursuant to this section to make or certify copies of the records since such records may be rendered available only under close supervision of the court. Greff v Havens, 66 N.Y.S.2d 124, 186 Misc. 914, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2999 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

An order of examination and discovery before trial is such an order of a court of record as is contemplated by this section. Scolavino v State, 62 N.Y.S.2d 17, 187 Misc. 253, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2172 (N.Y. Ct. Cl.), modified, 271 A.D. 618, 67 N.Y.S.2d 202, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2807 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Zoning ordinance which authorized the granting by the Zoning Board of Appeals of revocable permit for the use of existing building in particular district as boarding house for the boarding of mental patients and parolees, is not invalid on ground it tends to abrogate or nullify provisions of the Statute. Kanasy v Nugent, 135 N.Y.S.2d 128, 206 Misc. 826, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2894 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954), aff'd, 286 A.D. 1038, 145 N.Y.S.2d 638, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5092 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955), app. denied, 1 A.D.2d 681, 148 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3817 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1955).

The admission of incompetent evidence does not require the granting of a new trial unless the opponent of the evidence was prejudiced. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc. 2d 717, 305 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 35 A.D.2d 532, 314 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4190 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

In an action for personal injuries, where the plaintiff was in a mental institution, a motion to have him produced for examination by the court to determine whether he was competent to testify in an examination before trial was denied in the court's discretion, where it was not shown that plaintiff claimed his confinement was due to the accident, and the examination might tend to retard his recovery. Sobel v Feldhamer, 137 N.Y.S.2d 187, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3608 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

Mental hygiene commissioner may make available records of cases in hearings to determine claim of an employee of the department for occupational disease. 1941 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 325, 1941 N.Y. AG LEXIS 166.

Order contemplated is judge's order which although obtained without notice, must not, with certain exceptions, be disregarded. 1944 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 288, 1944 N.Y. AG LEXIS 134.

The directors of state institutions should furnish persons copies of commitments other than civil court commitments when they are required for the purpose of securing a writ. As to civil court commitments, the person requiring the same should be informed of the court granting the order of commitment and the date thereof and of the fact that such records are sealed pursuant to the Mental Hygiene Law. 1953 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 164, 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 46.

5. —Applicable law

This subdivision does not apply to hospitals, which are not state institutions. Petition of Maryland Casualty Co., 274 A.D. 211, 80 N.Y.S.2d 181, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3041 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

Former § 84, prior to amendment of 1944, was not applicable where applicant was inmate in school for mental defectives, because it expressly applied only to institution for the insane. Lee v State, 49 N.Y.S.2d 836, 183 Misc. 615, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2218 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1944).

The provisions of the section do not apply to privately owned institutions. In re Fitzgerald, 133 N.Y.S.2d 779, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

Provisions of § 34, subd. 14, do not apply to Dannemora state hospital, because that hospital is not one of the "state institutions in the department" of mental hygiene, as defined by § 12. 1940 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 368, 1940 N.Y. AG LEXIS 183.

6. —Appointment and removal of employees

Dismissal of assistant engineer at state hospital for neglect of duty, without formal hearing or trial, is proper, and, where employee had hearing and was given right to be represented by counsel, there appearing no evidence of bad faith in conduct of hearing, dismissal will be affirmed. Scott v Tobin, 219 A.D. 699, 220 N.Y.S. 924, 1927 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11004 (N.Y. App. Div. 1927).

Under subd. 2 of this section superintendent of Pilgrim state hospital is empowered "for cause stated in writing, after opportunity to be heard" to "discharge any of such employees in his discretion." In re Application of Thiel, 243 A.D. 787, 278 N.Y.S. 127, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

The acting senior director of a state institution is vested with all powers of "director" of such institution, including power to appoint and remove employees, in the absence of anyone appointed as director. Manzi v Kaplan, 35 Misc. 2d 793, 231 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3068 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), aff'd, 20 A.D.2d 791, 248 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

7. —Fire prevention powers

Director of State institution in Department of Mental Hygiene, may enter into reciprocal arrangement with town or village in which institution is located, for mutual assistance in fighting fires, and employees of institution, directed to fight fires off premises pursuant to such arrangement, would be covered by workmen's compensation; such direction should, however, be given to employees to whose title this duty would be appropriate. 1945 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 246, 1945 N.Y. AG LEXIS 126.

8. —Police of institution

"Safety officer" employed by the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene violated Penal Law § 265.05(3) by possessing an unlicensed firearm where there was no evidence that he was performing any duties in or arising out of the course of his employment at the time he was arrested in possession of the unlicensed firearm. People v Kortright, 62 Misc. 2d 141, 307 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1950 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1970).

Duly appointed state hospital special policemen have all the powers of peace officers upon the grounds and premises of the institution and also upon the entire region within a mile radius of the grounds. 1954 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 197, 1954 N.Y. AG LEXIS 60.

9. —Reporting of crimes

The requirement that the director of a department of Mental Hygiene hospital, school or institute notify the district attorney or other appropriate law enforcement official when it appears that a crime may have been committed is not limited to a crime involving patient abuse or mistreatment. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen May 29 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 127.

10. —Family care and convalescent status of patients

It seems implied in subdivision 12 that a patient on convalescent status is not a patient at the institution, and the statutory relation between the state and the custodian of a patient on convalescent status does not impose a liability on the state for an act of negligence of the custodian not foreseeable by the state in the exercise of reasonable care. Hawley v State, 16 N.Y.2d 809, 263 N.Y.S.2d 6, 210 N.E.2d 358, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1240 (N.Y. 1965).

The Workmen's Compensation Law does not authorize limiting an award of death benefits to a dependent child, confined as an incompetent, to $500 so that payment might be made without appointment of a committee where other payments in that amount or less are contemplated. La Burt v Ankara Perfumes, 273 A.D. 836, 75 N.Y.S.2d 878, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4848 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

Award of death benefits to a dependent incompetent adult daughter of a deceased employee is authorized to be paid to the director of the hospital for the benefit of the incompetent. La Burt v Ankara Perfumes, 274 A.D. 866, 81 N.Y.S.2d 795, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3728 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 274 A.D. 949, 84 N.Y.S.2d 927 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

Family care provided for in subd 12 of above statute is intermediate step between confinement in institution and release on community status under § 132. Hawley v State, 22 A.D.2d 357, 256 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5040 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), rev'd, 16 N.Y.2d 809, 263 N.Y.S.2d 6, 210 N.E.2d 358, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1240 (N.Y. 1965).

Under subd. 12 of this section the state was liable for injuries sustained by an institutional inmate, 62 years of age, who was simple minded and placed with a farm family under the family care program where the farmer permitted him to work around the motor driven buzz saw used for cutting up firewood, and finally, at patient's request, to operate the saw from which he sustained the injuries in question. Hendler v State, 33 Misc. 2d 171, 225 N.Y.S.2d 878, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3654 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1962).

11. —Fingerprinting and photographing of patients

The statute relating to the fingerprinting and photographing of mental patients is constitutional. Winters v Miller, 306 F. Supp. 1158, 1969 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8859 (E.D.N.Y. 1969), rev'd, 446 F.2d 65, 1971 U.S. App. LEXIS 9993 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1971).

12. —Funds and property of patients

Subd. 14 of this section does not expressly alter Civil Pr. Act, §§ 1356 and 1358, providing method for exercise of court's powers over person and property of incompetent. In re Rinn, 242 A.D. 523, 275 N.Y.S. 705, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6114 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

Where a direction to pay moneys due an incompetent to the superintendent of a state hospital was not given by the Commissioner of Mental Hygiene pursuant to subd. 14 of this section the superintendent of the hospital may not receive the funds until a committee has been appointed. In re McGuinness, 264 A.D. 944, 36 N.Y.S.2d 273 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942), aff'd, 290 N.Y. 117, 48 N.E.2d 286, 290 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 117, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1146 (N.Y. 1943).

Where the proceeds of an insurance policy on the life of a mother payable to her incompetent son were paid to the superintendent of a state hospital pursuant to subd. 14 of this section the amount thereof was not allowed as a credit against the claim of the state against the estate of the mother for care and maintenance of the son. In re Wright's Estate, 14 N.Y.S.2d 953, 172 Misc. 215, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2341 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1939).

Subdivision 14 of this section was intended to obviate the necessity for appointment of a committee for an incompetent where funds or other personal property, excepting jewelry, were due or belonging to a patient in a state institution, or where the balance remaining in the hands of a committee upon his discharge did not exceed the amount limited, but not to obviate necessity for appointment of a committee or continuance of a committee where future installments of income are payable to the incompetent in monthly installments. In re Arnold, 26 Misc. 2d 298, 203 N.Y.S.2d 335, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3083 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Mental Hygiene Law imposes an obligation on state agencies to conserve the rights and assets of those in its custody, and the reimbursement agent of a state institution is obligated to seek out sources of assets of its patients. Szostak v State, 51 Misc. 2d 739, 273 N.Y.S.2d 786, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1433 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1966), aff'd, 28 A.D.2d 1042, 284 N.Y.S.2d 31, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3170 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1967).

Superintendent has discretionary power on authorization from commissioner to receive or obtain personal effects of inmate for whom no committee has been appointed, and to sell same for his benefit. 1943 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 326, 1943 N.Y. AG LEXIS 163.

13. —Out-patient treatments

It is not permissible for commissioner of department of mental hygiene to direct superintendents of hospitals to establish out-patient clinics for the performance of spinal fluid examinations. 1940 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 342, 1940 N.Y. AG LEXIS 162.

Treatments may be given on an out-patient basis to persons not committed, and payment may be received, but must be paid to state treasurer. 1943 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 334.

14. —Records of patients

Where superintendent of mental institution has violated duty not to make case record of patient available except in accordance with statute, patient is entitled to maintain action for damages under common law since statute itself does not provide remedy. Munzer v Blaisdell, 49 N.Y.S.2d 915, 183 Misc. 773, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2235 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944), aff'd, 269 A.D. 970, 58 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4798 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1945).

Compliance with statutory provisions for waiver of privilege requires that the records of a deceased patient be produced on trial and any claim of privilege as to confidential communications or facts tending to disgrace the memory of the patient must be passed upon at the trial. Greff v Havens, 66 N.Y.S.2d 124, 186 Misc. 914, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2999 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

In a death action wherein it was claimed that decedent was intoxicated at the time of the accident, a new trial was granted because of the admission of hospital records showing treatment of decedent for alcoholism, even though there was other evidence that decedent had a drinking problem. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc. 2d 717, 305 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 35 A.D.2d 532, 314 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4190 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

As to information which would tend to disgrace the memory of the decedent there can be neither an express waiver nor a waiver by failure to object. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc. 2d 717, 305 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 35 A.D.2d 532, 314 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4190 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

15. —Records of patients: disclosure permitted

An order for inspection of a decedent's hospital record may be permitted under this section although such record may contain privileged and confidential communications to a doctor, the disclosure of which is barred by §§ 352 and 354 of the Civil Practice

Act, and which must be considered in applying this section. In re Warrington, 303 N.Y. 129, 100 N.E.2d 170, 303 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 129, 1951 N.Y. LEXIS 696 (N.Y. 1951).

Where an incompetent claims against the state for injury while confined in a state mental institution, the privilege attached to communications between patient and physician does not apply to inspection of hospital records under §§ 20 and 34(9). In re Warrington, 303 N.Y. 129, 100 N.E.2d 170, 303 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 129, 1951 N.Y. LEXIS 696 (N.Y. 1951).

An application to inspect and copy the state hospital records of an incompetent patient, who allegedly was injured as a result of a fall in the hospital, made by her committee, should be granted since the filing of such a verified application indicates that the privilege embodied in §§ 352 and 354 of the Civil Practice Act was waived by the patient, since this privilege was intended for the protection of the patient and no one else. Application of Warrington, 277 A.D. 1076, 100 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4530 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950), aff'd, 303 N.Y. 129, 100 N.E.2d 170, 303 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 129, 1951 N.Y. LEXIS 696 (N.Y. 1951).

An order of the Court of Claims allowing the committee of an incompetent person to inspect a state hospital's records to ascertain the facts of an alleged accident, on the hospital premises, whereby the incompetent sustained personal injuries so that the committee could determine whether a cause of action existed against the state should not have prohibited the committee from making notes or copies of the records. Civil Practice Act § 342 provides for such rights and the omission of similar provisions to implement the right of examination under this section was not significant. Application of Bradshaw, 5 A.D.2d 511, 173 N.Y.S.2d 406, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6144 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1958).

In a negligence action where the plaintiff put in issue his mental and psychological condition following the accident, and his attribution of those conditions to the accident, he was entitled to inspect and examine records of a state hospital pursuant to Mental Hygiene Law §§ 20 and 34, inasmuch as he had waived the privilege against disclosure. Mancinelli v Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., 34 A.D.2d 535, 308 N.Y.S.2d 882, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5258 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970).

Judge of a court of claims may order that the records of a state hospital be made accessible for inspection by legal representative of former inmate of hospital. Buchalter v State, 15 N.Y.S.2d 244, 172 Misc. 420, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2376 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1939); Manzi v State, 23 N.Y.S.2d 21, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2271 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1940); Lee v State, 49 N.Y.S.2d 836, 183 Misc. 615, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2218 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1944).

Hospital records of inmate of state institution for care of mentally ill enjoy no such absolute privilege against disclosure that only patient can waive it. Scolavino v State, 62 N.Y.S.2d 17, 187 Misc. 253, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2172 (N.Y. Ct. Cl.), modified, 271 A.D. 618, 67 N.Y.S.2d 202, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2807 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Sections 20 and 34 sub 9 of the Mental Hygiene Law create an exception to the privilege of physician and patient, and allow a disclosure, on the consent of the commissioner or upon order of a court of record, of a state hospital's records relating to an incompetent decedent, for the benefit of the special guardian of the decedent's surviving kin. In re Grabau's Will, 85 N.Y.S.2d 748, 193 Misc. 859, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3856 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1948).

Case records are privileged but may be ordered made accessible to a claimant acting as the committee for an injured inmate in an examination before trial but the examination of records of other persons or of witnesses in connection therewith will be denied. McGrath v State, 104 N.Y.S.2d 882, 200 Misc. 165, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2511 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1950).

In a proceeding by 14-year-old mental inmate to recover damages from the state wherein the Court of Claims appointed father of infant as guardian ad litem, the court exercised its legal discretion as a court of record in the interest of justice and granted motion by guardian for examination of hospital records, though the state contended that the guardian was not a proper party to the application. Kossar v State, 13 Misc. 2d 941, 179 N.Y.S.2d 71, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2760 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1958).

Where claimants seeks order for production of hospital records as to another person, the records shall be produced for use in accordance with CPA § 296. Torres v State, 14 Misc. 2d 246, 179 N.Y.S.2d 201, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2748 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1958).

In connection with a will contest involving mental competency of the testator, state hospital records with respect to him were ordered produced, regardless of their ultimate admissibility, notwithstanding he was admitted to the hospital in 1939 and the will was not executed until 1961. In re Will of Reardon, 36 Misc. 2d 307, 232 N.Y.S.2d 581, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2512 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1962).

Evidence of chronic alcoholism in a form not protected by CPLR 4504(c) is admissible notwithstanding that it disgraces memory. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc. 2d 717, 305 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 35 A.D.2d 532, 314 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4190 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

The attorney for a patient is not entitled to appointment of an impartial psychiatrist to examine the patient for the purpose of testifying before the commission appointed under § 85 but he is entitled to an order under § 34 permitting examination of records. In re Sullivan, 85 N.Y.S.2d 251, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

16. —Records of patients: disclosure not permitted

The records of a state hospital where decedent died, produced on the Surrogate's order made under this section, were properly excluded from evidence in a will contest involving mental capacity. Parts of the hospital records were the result of "confidential communications" and, therefore, the doctors could not have testified as to such matters had they been called to the stand. In re Coddington's Will, 307 N.Y. 181, 120 N.E.2d 777, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 181, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 991 (N.Y. 1954).

This section does not render the privilege given communications between physicians and patients by § 352 of the Civil Practice Act inapplicable in the case of state institutions. Westphal v State, 79 N.Y.S.2d 634, 191 Misc. 688, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2447 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1948).

This section was not intended to vitiate §§ 352 and 354 of the Civil Practice Act relating to confidential communications. Kinbacher v Schneider, 89 N.Y.S.2d 350, 194 Misc. 969, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

This section will not be deemed to create an exception to the privilege granted hospital records under § 352 of the Civil Practice Act. Jaffe v New York, 94 N.Y.S.2d 60, 196 Misc. 710, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3041 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

Where a wife was appointed guardian ad litem of an inmate of a state mental hospital to prosecute a claim for injuries received from another patient, she could not waive the privilege from disclosure attaching to hospital records, and her application for inspection was denied; the inmate himself should make the application, or if unable, his committee should do so. Application of Patarino, 142 N.Y.S.2d 891, 208 Misc. 16, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1955).

The application of the employer's insurance carrier for an order authorizing the physical examination of a claimant for workmen's compensation, who was a patient in a state hospital for the insane, and the production of hospital records, was denied where it was not shown that a committee had been appointed. In re Application of Lanham, 1 Misc. 2d 264, 144 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2339 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

In a proceeding by infant claimant to recover damages for assault by fellow inmate at state hospital, the claimant was entitled to examination of records pertaining to fellow inmate as to observations made of the activities of fellow inmate, his movements and what protection and custodial care he was given both with respect to himself and to his relations with other inmates, but was not entitled to examination of entries, which referred to his propensities and diagnosis of his conditions by hospital doctors, since their opinion as to his propensities was of a confidential nature. Boykin v State, 13 Misc. 2d 1037, 179 N.Y.S.2d 197, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3765 (N.Y. Ct. Cl.), aff'd, 7 A.D.2d 819, 180 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3753 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1958).

In connection with a claim against the State for damages sustained by claimant as the result of an assault by a person allegedly improperly or negligently released from a state mental institution, claimant is not entitled to an order for inspection of the institution's records concerning the released patient by motion pursuant to §§ 20 and 34 subd. 9 of the Mental Hygiene Law, but could request their production under § 296 of the Civil Practice Act. Peters v State, 32 Misc. 2d 407, 224 N.Y.S.2d 194, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3937 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1962).

A death certificate, though admissible to prove the fact of death, is as to cause of death subject to the same nonwaivable privilege against disgracing the memory of decedent as are hospital records. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc. 2d 717, 305 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 35 A.D.2d 532, 314 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4190 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Because the privilege accorded by CPLR 4504 to information disgracing decedent's memory cannot be waived, neither the bringing of a personal injury action nor the relevance of alcoholism to the issue of damages makes privileged hospital records admissible in proof of alcoholism. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc. 2d 717, 305 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 35 A.D.2d 532, 314 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4190 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Section 352 of the Civil Practice Act and §§ 20, 32 and 84 of this law indicate the intention of the Legislature to keep and protect the case records of a patient in a state hospital as a privileged communication and available only when the provisions of the statute as to release are met. No exception is made in favor of a member of the Board of Visitors and the mere coincidence that the visitor happens to be a physician makes no difference. Munzer v State, 41 N.Y.S.2d 98, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1792 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1943).

If medical records of an inmate of a state hospital, ordered produced before a referee in workmen's compensation, are to be introduced in evidence, there must be compliance with the Civil Practice Act. A statement in the moving papers that the attorney for the committee of the incompetent has agreed to waive any privilege is not sufficient. The waiver must be made by the appropriate person in open court upon the trial of the proceeding. Petition of Maryland Casualty Co., 78 N.Y.S.2d 651, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3760 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

A motion by the mother of an alleged incompetent to inspect hospital records will be denied since relief may be afforded only to a legal representative of the patient entitled to waive the statutory ban of patient and physician privilege. Application of Bryant, 105 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2519 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1950).

In an action for injuries sustained in an automobile accident, where plaintiff had since the accident been a patient at various mental institutions, a motion seeking to examine the records of his present hospital was denied, such records being confidential communications. Sobel v Feldhamer, 137 N.Y.S.2d 187, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3608 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

A petition on behalf of the state insurance fund for an order requiring the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch to produce the records of a former inmate of the institution who was a claimant before the Workmen's Compensation Board was denied because this section was not applicable. Since the institution was not in the Department of Health, but was under the jurisdiction of the Department of Correction, nothing in the Correction Law authorized or required such an order. In re Klein, 138 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2649 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Referee in workmen's compensation lacks authority to subpoena records of patients. 1946 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 270, 1946 N.Y. AG LEXIS 125.

§ 7.27. Facility services

(a) Chapels. The commissioner may permit any religious or missionary corporation or society or combination of such corporations and societies to erect a building on the grounds of any in-patient facility in the office of mental health for the holding of religious service, to be used exclusively for the benefit of the patients and employees of such facility, subject to such conditions as may be imposed by the commissioner.

(b) Fire mutual aid. In cooperation with the development and operation of plans for mutual aid in cases of fire and other public emergencies, the director of an in-patient facility in the office of mental health, with the approval of the commissioner of mental health, may authorize the fire department of the facility to furnish aid to such territory surrounding the facility as may be practical in cases of fire and such emergencies, having due regard to the safety of the patients and property of the facility and to engage in practice and training programs in connection with the development and operation of such mutual aid plans.

(c) Community stores. The commissioner may authorize the director of any facility in the office of mental health to operate a community store or to lease space in any of its buildings not inconsistent with the requirements of the facility for the operation of a community store for the use and benefit of the patients, visitors, and personnel of such facility. The moneys received by the director of such facility under or pursuant to any such operation shall be deposited in a special fund to be known as the community store fund and shall be used for the general purposes of the facility, subject to the provisions of section fifty-three of the state finance law.

(d) Laboratory services. Subject to the regulations of the commissioner, the director of a facility in the office of mental health may agree to make the laboratory service of such facility available to adjacent local governments and may receive, apply, and spend money for the extension of laboratory service according to the terms of the agreement as approved by such commissioner.

(e) Special employment programs. The director of any facility operated by the office of mental health may purchase goods and services produced by special employment programs, sheltered workshop programs or supported work programs, which are operated by any facility within such office, subject to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-five-c of the state finance law.

ARTICLE 13 Office For People With Developmental Disabilities

§ 13.27. Facility services

(a) Chapels. The commissioner may permit any religious or missionary corporation or society or combination of such corporations and societies to erect a building on the grounds of any facility in the office for the holding of religious service, to be used exclusively for the benefit of the patients and employees of such facility, subject to such conditions as may be imposed by the commissioner.

(b) Fire mutual aid. In cooperation with the development and operation of plans for mutual aid in cases of fire and other public emergencies, the director of a facility in the office for people with developmental disabilities, with the approval of the commissioner, may authorize the fire department of the facility to furnish aid to such territory surrounding the facility as may be practical in cases of fire and such emergencies, having due regard to the safety of the patients and property of the facility and to engage in practice and training programs in connection with the development and operation of such mutual aid plans.

(c) Community stores. The commissioner may authorize the director of any facility under his jurisdiction to operate a community store or to lease space in any of its buildings not inconsistent with the requirements of the facility for the operation of a community store for the use and benefit of the patients, visitors, and personnel of such facility. The moneys received by the director of such facility under or pursuant to any such operation shall be deposited in a special fund to be known as the community store fund and shall be used for the general purposes of the facility, subject to the provisions of section fifty-three of the state finance law.

(d) Laboratory services. Subject to the commissioner's regulations, the director may agree to make the laboratory service of a facility in the office for people with developmental disabilities available to adjacent local governments and may receive, apply, and spend money for the extension of laboratory service according to the terms of the agreement as approved by the commissioner.

The commissioner, in consultation with other appropriate agency representatives, shall prepare for publication and cause to be distributed to first responders, including emergency medical services personnel, firefighters and police officers, a booklet containing information on recognizing the behavioral symptoms and characteristics of children and adults with autism spectrum disorders. Such booklet also shall contain information on additional resources and any other information deemed necessary and appropriate by the commissioner.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2007, ch 475, § 1, eff Aug 1, 2007, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The legislature finds that, according to the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, one out of every 150 children in the United States has an autism spectrum disorder. The legislature therefore finds that emergency medical services personnel, firefighters and police officers may unexpectedly encounter or be asked to locate a person diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder. Given the high numbers of individuals affected by autism spectrum disorders, the legislature declares that it is altogether fitting and proper to ensure that first responders, at a minimum, are provided information on recognizing the behavioral symptoms and characteristics of a person with an autism spectrum disorder and on basic response techniques.

PART 1 The County Charter Law

HISTORY:
Add, L 1963, ch 843, eff Jan 1, 1964.

§ 33-a. Transfer of functions or duties of local governments and districts

1. Subject to restrictions in the constitution, in this article or in any other applicable law, the board of supervisors of any county may, by local law, transfer functions or duties of the county or of the cities, towns, villages, districts or other units of government wholly contained in such county to each other, or for the abolition of one or more units of government, including but not limited to offices, departments or agencies thereof, when the level and quality of ongoing services of all their functions or duties are transferred.

2. Any such local law, or an amendment or repeal of one or more provisions thereof which would have the effect of transferring or abolishing a function or duty of the county or of the cities, towns, villages, districts or other units of government wholly contained in the county, shall not become operative unless and until it is approved at a general election or at a special election, held in the county by receiving a majority of the total votes cast thereon: (a) in the area of the county outside of cities and (b) in the area of cities of the county, if any, considered as one unit, and if it provides for the transfer of any function or duty to or from any village or for the abolition of any office, department, agency or unit of government of a village wholly contained in the county, it shall not take effect unless it shall also receive a majority of all the votes cast thereon in all the villages so affected considered as one unit. Such a local law, amendment or repeal thereof, shall provide for its submission to the electors of the county at the next general election or at a special election, occurring not less than sixty days after the adoption thereof by the board of supervisors.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2009, ch 74, §§ 1 and 18, eff March 21, 2010, provide as follows:

Section 1. Short Title. The act shall be known and may be cited as the "New N.Y. Government Reorganization and Citizen Empowerment Act".

§ 18. Savings clause. Notwithstanding the repeal or amendment of any law by this act, nothing in this act shall be construed to impair the consolidation or dissolution of any local government entity pursuant to any such repealed or amended law if there was commenced in or for such local government entity prior to the effective date of this act a consolidation or dissolution proceeding pursuant to such law, in which event the provisions of such former law shall govern such proceeding as though such former law had not been repealed hereby.

Amendment Notes:

2009. Chapter 74, § 3 amended:

Sub 1, by deleting "offices, departments or agencies of such units of government when all their functions or duties are so transferred".

Notes to Decisions

§§ 33 and 33-a of the Municipal Home Rule Law make charter amendments and local laws transferring functions subject to the restrictions in the Constitution, in Article 4 of such law, or in any other applicable law. Smithtown v Howell, 31 N.Y.2d 365, 339 N.Y.S.2d 949, 292 N.E.2d 10, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 944 (N.Y. 1972).

CLS Tax § 1210-A and Suffolk County Resolution No. 823 of 1984, which permit funding of sewer district through countywide tax, were not improperly enacted merely because they became operative without referendum pursuant to NY Const Art IX § 1 and CLS Mun H R § 33-a. Lang v Cohalan, 127 A.D.2d 17, 513 N.Y.S.2d 726, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41329 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 744, 519 N.Y.S.2d 966, 514 N.E.2d 386, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18594 (N.Y. 1987).

A county may by local law adopt a fire prevention code to be applicable to all cities, towns and villages within the county, except that such code may not supersede similar codes adopted by local governing boards. A charter county may by local law transfer the power to enact such a code from municipalities therein to the county governing body. 1975 Ops St Compt File #485.

Cities, towns, and villages are prohibited from transferring the assessing function to a county unless such function is transferred by adoption or amendment of a county charter subject to referendum, including the "split referendum" requirement where transfer from cities or villages, as well as towns, is involved. 3 Op Counsel, SBEA #79.

Four-month limitation period applied to claims challenging a local agency's formation based on allegations of inadequate environmental review and failure to conduct a referendum. Village of Islandia v County of Suffolk, 162 A.D.3d 715, 79 N.Y.S.3d 188, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3981 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

Agency Opinions

Counties having alternate forms of county government may, by local law subject to mandatory referendum, transfer functions or duties of the county or of the cities, towns, villages, districts or other units of government wholly contained in such county, to each other. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 14.

The transfer of the public health functions of a county to any of its cities, towns, villages, districts or other units of government wholly contained in such county must be by local law subject to mandatory referendum as provided in Municipal Home Rule Law, § 33-a and subject also to the notice of hearing provisions of Public Health Law, § 355. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 16.

A charter county by charter amendment alone can transfer the function of administration and operation of its jail from the sheriff to a county commissioner of corrections. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen August 16 (informal).

If a non-charter county passes a local law pursuant to the authority of County Law § 575 and Municipal Home Rule Law § 10 to change from an elective county treasurer to an appointive county comptroller, the mandatory referendum provision required by County Law § 575 is to be conducted in all respects under the provisions of Municipal Home Rule Law § 23; a simple majority of the votes cast on the proposition in the area of the whole county is sufficient for passing. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen June 26. PART THREE New York Environmental Protection and Spill Compensation Fund; Liability; Third Party Compensation

HISTORY:
Add, L 1977, ch 845, § 2, eff April 1, 1978.

§ 181. Liability

1. Any person who has discharged petroleum shall be strictly liable, without regard to fault, for all cleanup and removal costs and all direct and indirect damages, no matter by whom sustained, as defined in this section. In addition to cleanup and removal costs and damages, any such person who is notified of such release and who did not undertake relocation of persons residing in the area of the discharge in accordance with paragraph (c) of subdivision seven of section one hundred seventy-six of this article, shall be liable to the fund for an amount equal to two times the actual and necessary expense incurred by the fund for such relocation pursuant to section one hundred seventy-seven-a of this article.

2. The fund shall be strictly liable, without regard to fault, for all cleanup and removal costs and all direct and indirect damages, no matter by whom sustained, including, but not limited to:

(a) The cost of restoring, repairing, or replacing any real or personal property damaged or destroyed by a discharge, any income lost from the time such property is damaged to the time such property is restored, repaired or replaced, any reduction in value of such property caused by such discharge by comparison with its value prior thereto;

(b) The cost of restoration and replacement, where possible, of any natural resource damaged or destroyed by a discharge;

(c) Loss of income or impairment of earning capacity due to damage to real or personal property, including natural resources destroyed or damaged by a discharge; provided that such loss or impairment exceeds ten percent of the amount which claimant derives, based upon income or business records, exclusive of other sources of income, from activities related to the particular real or personal property or natural resources damaged or destroyed by such discharge during the week, month or year for which the claim is filed;

(d) Loss of tax revenue by the state or local governments for a period of one year due to damage to real or personal property proximately resulting from a discharge;

(e) Interest on loans obtained or other obligations incurred by a claimant for the purpose of ameliorating the adverse effects of a discharge pending the payment of a claim in full as provided by this article.

3. (a) The owner or operator of a major facility or vessel which has discharged petroleum shall be strictly liable, without regard to fault, subject to the defenses enumerated in subdivision four of this section, for all cleanup and removal costs and all direct and indirect damages paid by the fund. However, the cleanup and removal costs and direct and indirect damages which may be recovered by the fund with respect to each incident shall not exceed:

(i) for a tank vessel, the greater of:

(1) one thousand two hundred dollars per gross ton; or

(2)(A) in the case of a vessel greater than three thousand gross tons, ten million dollars; or

(B) in the case of a vessel or [of][*] three thousand gross tons or less, two million dollars;

(ii) for any other vessel subject to the liability limits set forth in the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), six hundred dollars per gross ton or five hundred thousand dollars, whichever is greater;

(iii) for any other vessel not subject to the liability limits set forth in the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), three hundred dollars per gross ton for each vessel;

(iv) for a major facility that is defined as an "onshore facility" and covered by the liability limits established under the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), three hundred fifty million dollars. This liability limit shall not be considered to increase the liability above the federal limit of three hundred fifty million dollars per incident.[;][]

(v) for a major facility not covered in subparagraph (iv) of this paragraph, fifty million dollars.

(b) The liability limits established in subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall not be considered to increase liability above the federal limits for tank vessels or vessels as defined in the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.).

[*]The bracketed word has been inserted by the Publisher.
[]The bracketed punctuation has been inserted by the Publisher.

(c) (i) The department shall establish, by regulation, a limit of liability under this subdivision of less than three hundred fifty million dollars but not less than eight million dollars, for major facilities defined as "onshore facilities" under the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), taking into account facility size, storage capacity, throughput, proximity to environmentally sensitive areas, type of petroleum handled, and other factors relevant to risks posed by the class or category of facility.

(ii) The department shall establish, by regulation, a limit of liability under this subdivision of fifty million dollars or less for major facilities other than vessels that are not defined as "onshore facilities" under the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), taking into account facility size, storage capacity, throughput, proximity to environmentally sensitive areas, type of petroleum handled, and other factors relevant to risks posed by the class or category of facility.

(d) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall not apply and the owner or operator shall be liable for the full amount of cleanup and removal costs and damages if it can be shown that the discharge was the result of (i) gross negligence or willful misconduct, within the knowledge and privity of the owner, operator or person in charge, or (ii) a gross or willful violation of applicable safety, construction or operating standards or regulations. In addition, the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall not apply if the owner or operator fails or refuses:

(1) to report the discharge as required by section one hundred seventy-five of this article and the owner or operator knows or had reason to know of the discharge; or

(2) to provide all reasonable cooperation and assistance requested by the federal on-scene coordinator or the commissioner or his designee in connection with cleanup and removal activities.

(e) (i) The owner or operator of a vessel shall establish and maintain with the department evidence of financial responsibility sufficient to meet the amount of liability established pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision. The owner or operator of any vessel which demonstrates financial responsibility pursuant to the requirements of the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.), shall be deemed to have demonstrated financial responsibility in accordance with this paragraph.

(ii) The commissioner in consultation with the superintendent of financial services may promulgate regulations requiring the owner or operator of a major facility other than a vessel to establish and maintain evidence of financial responsibility in an amount not to exceed twenty-five dollars, per incident, for each barrel of total petroleum storage capacity at the facility, subject to a maximum of one million dollars per incident per facility in an aggregate not to exceed two million dollars per facility per year; provided, however, that if the owner or operator establishes to the satisfaction of the commissioner that a lesser amount will be sufficient to protect the environment and public health, safety and welfare, the commissioner shall accept evidence of financial responsibility in such lesser amount. In determining the sufficiency of the amount of financial responsibility required under this section, the commissioner and the superintendent of financial services shall take into consideration facility size, storage capacity, throughput, proximity to environmentally sensitive areas, type of petroleum handled, and other factors relevant to the risks posed by the class or category of facility, as well as the availability and affordability of pollution liability insurance. Any regulations promulgated pursuant to this subparagraph shall not take effect until forty-eight months after the effective date of this section.

(iii) Financial responsibility under this paragraph may be established by any one or a combination of the following methods acceptable to the commissioner in consultation with the superintendent of financial services: evidence of insurance, surety bonds, guarantee, letter of credit, qualification as a self-insurer, or other evidence of financial responsibility, including certifications which qualify under the Federal Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.).

(iv) The liability of a third-party insurer providing proof of financial responsibility on behalf of a person required to establish and maintain evidence of financial responsibility under this section is limited to the type of risk assumed and the amount of coverage specified in the proof of financial responsibility furnished to and approved by the department. For the purposes of this section, the term "third-party insurer" means a third-party insurer, surety, guarantor, person furnishing a letter of credit, or other group or person providing proof of financial responsibility on behalf of another person; it does not include the person required to establish and maintain evidence of such financial responsibility.

4. (a) The only defenses that may be raised by a person responsible for a discharge of petroleum are: an act or omission caused solely by (i) war, sabotage, or governmental negligence or (ii) an act or omission of a third party other than an employee or agent of the person responsible, or a third party whose act or omission occurs in connection with a contractual relationship with the person responsible, if the person responsible establishes by a preponderance of the evidence that the person responsible (a) exercised due care with respect to the petroleum concerned, taking into consideration the characteristics of petroleum and in light of all relevant facts and circumstances; and (b) took precautions against the acts or omissions of any such third party and the consequences of those acts or omissions. These defenses shall not apply to a person responsible who refuses or fails to (a) report the discharge, or (b) provide all reasonable cooperation and assistance in cleanup and removal activities undertaken on behalf of the fund by the department. In any case where a person responsible for a discharge establishes by a preponderance of the evidence that a discharge and the resulting cleanup and removal costs were caused solely by an act or omission of one or more third parties as described above, the third party or parties shall be treated as the person or persons responsible for the purposes of determining liability under this article.

(b) Nothing set forth in this subdivision shall be construed to hold a lender liable to the state as a person responsible for the discharge of petroleum at a site in the event: (i) such lender, without participating in the management of such site, holds indicia of ownership primarily to protect the lender's security interest in the site, or (ii) such lender did not participate in the management of such site prior to a foreclosure, and such lender:

(1) forecloses on such site; and

(2) after foreclosure, sells, re-leases (in the case of a lease finance transaction), or liquidates such site, maintains business activities, winds up operations, or takes any other measure to preserve, protect or prepare such site for sale or disposition; provided however, that such lender shall take actions to sell, re-lease (in the case of a lease finance transaction), or otherwise divest itself of such site at the earliest practicable, commercially reasonable time, on commercially reasonable terms, taking into account market conditions and legal and regulatory requirements.

(c) This exemption shall not apply to any lender that has (i) caused or contributed to the discharge of petroleum from or at the site, (ii) purchased, sold, refined, transported, or discharged petroleum from or at such site, or (iii) caused the purchase, sale, refinement, transportation, or discharge of petroleum from or at such site.

The terms "participating in management," "foreclosure," "lender" and "security interest" shall have the same meaning as those terms are defined in paragraph (c) of subdivision one of section 27-1323 of the environmental conservation law.

5. Any claim by any injured person for the costs of cleanup and removal and direct and indirect damages based on the strict liability imposed by this section may be brought directly against the person who has discharged the petroleum, provided, however, that damages recoverable by any injured person in such a direct claim based on the strict liability imposed by this section shall be limited to the damages authorized by this section.

6. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a volunteer firefighter, volunteer fire company, volunteer fire district, volunteer fire protection district, or volunteer fire department shall not be strictly liable for discharged petroleum when such discharge results from such volunteer firefighter, volunteer fire company, volunteer fire district, volunteer fire protection district, or volunteer fire department performing his, her, or their firefighting duties and there is not a showing of willful or gross negligence. This subdivision shall not be construed to provide an exemption from liability for a discharge of petroleum on or from real or personal property owned, leased, or operated by any such volunteer fire company, volunteer fire district, volunteer fire protection district, or volunteer fire department.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

CONSIDER ASSESSMENTS AND INSURANCE AS LIABILITY UNDER OIL SPILL ACT CAN BE SEVERE.

By Brook Boyd, Esq., New York, NY.

General Editor, Alfred C. Tartaglia, Esq., New York, NY.

INSIGHT

New York's Oil Spill Act is a broad statute that covers petroleum spills in New York State and affects practically everyone in New York. Nav. Law §§ 170—195. Landowners are particularly vulnerable to liability under the Oil Spill Act for acts of third parties, including tenants. To reduce this risk, a prospective purchaser of property should perform at least a Phase I assessment of the property, and consider procuring environmental insurance. Any party relying on an indemnity should make sure the indemnity specifically covers liability arising under the Navigation Law.

Any Type of Petroleum Discharge Is Covered Under Oil Spill Act.

The Oil Spill Act not only affects large oil companies, but also owners, lessees, drivers of cars, homeowners with oil tanks, and owners of office buildings or shopping centers with parking lots (from which oil-tainted run-off may be expected). Any discharge of petroleum is covered. Discharge is broadly defined in the Oil Spill Act to include any intentional or unintentional action or omission resulting in the releasing of petroleum into the waters of the state or onto lands from which it might flow or drain into those waters. Nav. Law § 172(8). No discharge is too small to escape the reach of the Oil Spill Act.

Petroleum Dischargers Are Strictly Liable for Direct and Indirect Damages.

Any person who has discharged petroleum shall be strictly liable, without regard to fault, for all cleanup and removal costs and all direct and indirect damages. Nav. Law § 181(1). A person can be liable for a discharge of petroleum merely because of such person's ownership of property where an oil spill occurred, even if the spill occurred before such person acquired the property. White v. Long, 85 N.Y.2d 564, 650 N.E.2d 836, 626 N.Y.S.2d 989 (1995).

Innocent Owners May Be Strictly Liable for Oil Spills by Tenants and Other Third Parties.

If a landowner has the ability to control a tenant's activities on its property and has reason to believe that a tenant would create an oil spill, the landowner will be liable for cleanup costs as a discharger under the Navigation Law. However, a landowner will not be liable for a midnight dumper since the landowner cannot control the events resulting from the discharge. State v. Green, 96 N.Y.2d 403, 754 N.E.2d 179, 729 N.Y.S.2d 420 (2001). Nav. Law § 181(4) was amended in 2003 to clarify the extent to which a discharger may raise the acts or omissions of a third party as a defense.

Oil Spill Act Fills Gaps in Other Environmental Laws.

New York's Oil Spill Act helps to fill gaps in other laws. For example, the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), 42 USCS § 9601 et seq., empowers the United States Environmental Protection Agency to order any owner or operator of a property to clean-up hazardous waste on the property. However, CERCLA generally does not apply to petroleum spills. 42 USCS § 9601(14).

The federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), 42 USCS § 6901 et seq., regulates storage and disposal of wastes, including underground storage tanks (other than storage tanks in cellars, and residential and farm tanks of less than 1,100 gallons) containing hazardous substances or petroleum. Petroleum is included within the broad scope of solid waste under RCRA. 42 USCS § 6903(27). However, while an existing owner of a property may have a cause of action under RCRA for contamination of such property by its prior owner, such existing owner may not sue for reimbursement of costs incurred in past cleanup efforts. Bologna v. Kerr-McGee Corp., 95 F. Supp. 2d 197 (S.D.N.Y. 2000). On the other hand, New York's Oil Spill Act does allow the existing owner to sue the prior owner for such reimbursement, and applies to small discharges of petroleum of any kind.

Obtain Phase I and Phase II Environmental Reviews to Evaluate Purchaser's Risk of Liability Under Oil Spill Act.

To determine the risk of liability under the Oil Spill Act and other laws, a prospective purchaser should obtain a Phase I site assessment before closing of title. A Phase I assessment is a limited review of the environmental aspects of a property based on an examination of publicly available records and a visit to the property without any soil sampling. It is now possible to do a free Internet search (www.epa.gov/echo) that will quickly reveal environmental compliance inspections, violations, and enforcement actions relating to a property that are likely to be disclosed in a Phase I report.

If the Phase I report identifies any potential problems, then a more detailed Phase II site assessment will be made to determine whether there is in fact contamination of the property. If there is contamination, then a Phase III report will determine the extent of the contamination to plan for its removal or remediation. E1527, Standard Practice for Environmental Site Assessments: Phase I (2000 revision) at www.astm.org.

It should be noted that the Court of Appeals has held that a purchaser of contaminated property was liable when the purchaser, with knowledge of its vendor's discharge of oil and the need for cleanup, did nothing. State v. Speonk Fuel Inc., 3 N.Y.3d 720, 786 N.Y.S.2d 375, 819 N.E.2d 991 (2004).

Consider Whether Client Should Obtain Environmental Insurance to Protect Against Unknown Property Hazards.

A prospective purchaser or mortgage lender should consider obtaining environmental insurance. This insurance will generally not cover known hazards, but only the risk of currently unknown hazards that manifest themselves in the future. Generally the insurer will insist on at least a Phase I report before issuing the insurance.

Ensure Any Contract Indemnities Specifically Cover Liabilities Arising Under Environmental Statutes.

If the contract of sale provides that the purchaser takes title to the property as is, this does not prevent the purchaser from suing the seller after the closing for contribution on account of Navigation Law claims. Even if a contract of sale provides that the seller is indemnified by the purchaser for any environmental liabilities with respect to the property, this may be construed as a mere contractual indemnification that will not protect the seller against any statutory liability under the Navigation Law. Umbra U.S.A., Inc. v. Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority, 262 A.D.2d 980, 693 N.Y.S.2d 371 (1999). On the other hand, sellers are usually unwilling to provide an indemnity, for environmental liabilities existing as of the closing, particularly in the case of sellers whose stock is publicly traded, since this liability may need to be disclosed on their financial statements post-closing. In any event, if any party gives an indemnity, the parties should specifically allocate, in the indemnity, any liabilities arising under the Navigation Law and other similar environmental statutes.

FOLLOW SPECIFIC PROCESS IN RESPONDING TO OIL SPILL.

By Brook Boyd, Esq., New York, NY.

General Editor, Alfred C. Tartaglia, Esq., New York, NY.

INSIGHT

If an oil spill occurs, then the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) must be immediately notified; and each party liable for the discharge (called discharger) has an obligation to contain the discharge. Notice and proof of loss should be promptly given under any applicable insurance policies. The parties involved in a cleanup should consider executing a settlement agreement among themselves, and consider the impact of such agreement on the liability of those parties who fail to consent to such agreement. Once cleanup is complete, each discharger should also seek to obtain a certificate of completion from the DEC, which will give the discharger the benefit of a limited covenant not to sue, and may help confirm eligibility for tax benefits.

Discharger Must Notify Dec of Discharge and Give Notice to Affected Parties to Reduce Tort Claims.

Any person liable for a discharge must notify the DEC within two hours of the discharge. Nav. Law § 175. Each landowner should also give notice to any other persons who may be adversely affected by the discharge to avoid, or at least reduce, the risk of premises liability and other tort claims.

Discharger Must Contain Discharge and Others Have Right to Respond to Discharge.

Any person responsible for a discharge shall immediately undertake to contain it. Nav. Law § 176(1). The DEC may undertake to cleanup and remove the discharge, or may direct the discharger to do so. Nav. Law § 176(2). Any person threatened by the discharge may also undertake such cleanup and removal as soon as reasonably possible with approval of the DEC. Nav. Law §§ 176(7), 178-a.

Discharger Must Give Notice and Proof of Loss Under Insurance Policies.

Each discharger should give notice and proof of loss to its insurers. However, most liability insurance policies contain exclusions for pollution of a gradual nature (for example, leaking underground tank) and the exclusion is generally enforceable. If coverage is available under a policy, an owner should consider performing at least an inspection, and potentially a full environmental assessment, to document the nature of the discharge and that the discharge was an occurrence during the term of the policy.

Two or More Dischargers Can Enter into Agreement to Settle Their Respective Liability for Discharge.

In the event there is more than one discharger, then ideally all the dischargers will enter into an agreement among themselves regarding their respective liability for the discharge, the resulting damages, cleanup cost, and joint hiring of the contractors to perform cleanup. Some parties may seek to extricate themselves from the process by making an advance payment and obtaining releases from all other parties. If a claimant gives a release to one of several dischargers, then one issue is the effect of the release on the liability of the remaining dischargers if all of the dischargers fail to give their consent to the release. When a release or a covenant not to sue is given to one of two or more persons liable or claimed to be liable in tort for the same injury, it does not discharge any of the other tortfeasors. GOL § 15-108.

Discharger Should Seek Covenant Not to Sue from Dec Once Cleanup Complete.

An owner of land where a discharge occurred is generally deemed a discharger even if such owner did not actually cause the discharge, so long as the owner reasonably could have prevented the discharge. State v. Green, 96 N.Y.2d 403, 754 N.E.2d 179, 729 N.Y.S.2d 420 (2001). The owner, and all other dischargers, should seek a covenant not to sue from the DEC once cleanup is complete. When a contaminated site (sometimes called brownfield) is cleaned-up in accordance with the Brownfield Cleanup Program under ECL § 27-1401 et seq., the DEC Commissioner shall issue a written certificate of completion once the brownfield is cleaned-up to DEC standards. ECL § 27-1419(3).

A covenant not to sue applies to successors and assigns in certain cases. ECL § 27-1421(3). Any prospective purchaser of a brownfield site, and any prospective mortgage lender, will need to review the certificate of completion to make sure it will protect the purchaser. However, the covenant not to sue does not protect against lawsuits by the federal government or private parties. Nothing in ECL § 27-1421 will affect the liability of any person with respect to any civil action brought by a party other than the state. ECL § 27-1421(8).

Taxpayer, Not Responsible for Discharge, Should Make Request to Dec Commissioner for Certificate of Completion to Obtain Tax Credit.

Tax credits are available if the DEC Commissioner has issued a certificate of completion with respect to the Brownfield Cleanup Program. Tax Law § 21(b)(1). Certain tax credits are available only if the DEC Commissioner, at the taxpayer's request, has made a certification both that the taxpayer is deemed to be a discharger solely by virtue of the operation of the property after the discharge occurs, and that the taxpayer is actually not responsible for the discharge. Tax Law § 21(a)(3). In addition, an additional tax credit is available if the certificate of completion indicates that the qualified site has been remediated to track 1 (most pure condition recognized by DEC). Tax Law § 21(a)(5).

MAKING CLAIMS AFTER OIL SPILL OCCURS.

By Brook Boyd, Esq., New York, NY.

General Editor, Alfred C. Tartaglia, Esq., New York, NY.

INSIGHT

If an oil spill (discharge) occurs, then all parties who actually caused the discharge, or who are deemed to be dischargers (including landowners who did not cause spill, but leased property to tenant who did), may be sued. A discharger may sue another discharger for contribution if the plaintiff discharger is not primarily responsible for the discharge. A person damaged by a discharge is entitled to reimbursement by the New York State Environmental Protection and Spill Compensation Fund (Fund) in certain cases, which in turn may file an environmental lien against the property where the discharge occurred. Since the Fund's lien will be subordinate to a then existing mortgage, the lender's strategy may be to do nothing, and then foreclose once the property is cleaned-up, since this will cut-off the Fund's lien and enable the lender to realize a windfall from the efforts of others.

Injured Persons and Blameless Dischargers May Seek Contribution Against Responsible Dischargers.

Any claim by any injured person for cleanup costs and removal, and direct and indirect damages based on the strict liability imposed by Nav. Law § 181(5) may be brought directly against the person who has discharged the petroleum. A faultless landowner may seek contribution from the party responsible for the discharge, even though the landowner is technically liable as a discharger under Nav. Law § 181(1). State v. Green, 96 N.Y.2d 403, 754 N.E.2d 179, 729 N.Y.S.2d 420 (2001).

Responsible Discharger Cannot Make Claim Against Other Dischargers for Contribution.

The party primarily responsible for the discharge generally cannot sue other parties for contribution under the Navigation Law. White v. Long, 85 N.Y.2d 564, 650 N.E.2d 836, 626 N.Y.S.2d 989 (1995). This does not necessarily bar a claim for contribution under other causes of action, for example, tort.

Blameless Non-Dischargers May Sue Fund for Reimbursement of Repairing Damage to Property.

The Fund finances state cleanup efforts when the discharger either is unknown or delinquent in paying these costs. Nav. Law § 179. Any innocent party not responsible for an oil spill, not deemed a discharger, and who has been damaged by or has cleaned-up an oil spill, may sue the Fund. Nav. Law §§ 181(2), 182. In addition to cleanup costs, these parties may be reimbursed for restoring or replacing damage to property, lost income, and impairment of property value. However, any party responsible for a spill, and any party deemed to be a discharger, may not sue the Fund. A purchaser who did not cause contamination that was discovered only after the purchaser acquired a property, and who then cleans it up, cannot recover the cleanup cost from the Fund since the purchaser is deemed a discharger. White v. Long, 85 N.Y.2d 564, 650 N.E.2d 836, 626 N.Y.S.2d 989 (1995). The Fund may also reject the claim when the claimant can collect from the discharger. Under Nav. Law § 182, claims must be filed with the Fund administrator no later than three years after the date of discovery of damage, and no later than 10 years after the date of the incident that caused the damage.

New York State May File Claims on Behalf of Fund Against Discharger for Claims Paid by Fund.

If the Fund pays any claim, then it is subrogated to the rights of the claimant against the discharger. Nav. Law § 188. New York State may then file claims on behalf of the Fund against the discharger under Nav. Law §§ 187, 188, and is entitled to a lien against culpable owners of property where a discharge occurred. Nav. Law § 181-a. The Fund is also given the right to direct access against any insurers with respect to the claim. Nav. Law § 190. Any such person who is notified of a discharge, and does not relocate persons accordingly, may be liable for two times the relocation costs incurred by the Fund. Nav. Law § 181(1).

Discharger May Raise Defense of Non-Liability for Acts or Omissions of Third Party.

A discharger is generally not liable for an act or omission of a third party if the discharger exercised due care with respect to the petroleum concerned, taking into consideration the characteristics of petroleum in light of all relevant facts and circumstances, and took precautions against the acts or omissions of any such third party and the consequences of those acts or omissions. Nav. Law § 181(4). While this defense is based on a 2003 amendment, it is not a defense consistent with the vague standard set forth in State v. Green, 96 N.Y.2d 403, 754 N.E.2d 179, 729 N.Y.S.2d 420 (2001).

Fund Has Environmental Lien on Property for Cleanup Costs and Payment of Claims.

The Fund has a lien for the costs incurred by the Fund for the cleanup and removal of a discharge and for payment of claims for direct and indirect damages as a result of a discharge upon real property located within the state. Nav. Law § 181-a(1). An environmental lien shall attach when a notice of environmental lien is filed. Nav. Law §§ 181-a(2), 181-c(1). An environmental lien is subject to the rights of any other person, including an owner, purchaser, holder of a mortgage or security interest, or judgment lien creditor, whose interest is perfected before a lien notice has been filed. Nav. Law § 181-a(4). The contents of the environmental lien, and the procedure for filing the notice of that lien, are as set forth under Nav. Law §§ 181-b, 181-c.

Lender Should Avoid Taking Title to Property if Possible Until Clean-Up Complete.

The environmental lien arising under the Navigation Law is not a super-lien, and will ordinarily be subject to any mortgage that has been recorded before the lien is filed. If a lender holds such a mortgage, then its strategy will often be to allow private parties or the Fund to clean-up the property, and then foreclose on the cleaned-up property, cutting-off any lien filed by the Fund and consequently realizing a windfall. Some commentators believe the government could sue a lender in this case for unjust enrichment, although there is disagreement as to whether there is actually unjust enrichment if the lender does not sell the property for more than the unpaid balance of the mortgage. Moreover, lenders should note that some cases have authorized the federal government to clean-up a property and then recover its costs from the proceeds of sale before the first mortgage is paid. In re Mowbray Engineering Co. Inc., 67 Bankr. 34 (Bankr. M.D. Ala. 1986).

Faultless landowner on whose property petroleum has spilled is "discharger" liable for cleanup costs where it can control activities occurring on its property and has reason to believe that petroleum products will be stored there. State v Green, 96 N.Y.2d 403, 729 N.Y.S.2d 420, 754 N.E.2d 179, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1981 (N.Y. 2001).

Fire department, which allegedly damaged above-ground kerosene or petroleum storage tank, causing contents to leak onto ground and flow onto plaintiffs' adjacent property, could be held strictly liable to plaintiffs under CLS Nav § 181(1); even though CLS Nav § 176(2) grants officials of Department of Environmental Conservation some immunity under CLS Nav Art 12, which contains § 181(1), it makes no similar provision for fire companies, and there is nothing in legislative history of Article 12 indicating intention to exempt fire companies from liability. Nicol v D.W. Jenkins Fire Co., 192 A.D.2d 164, 600 N.Y.S.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7257 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

In action for property damage and personal injuries arising from leak of gasoline from underground storage tanks at service station, oil company which owned service station was liable under CLS Nav § 181(5) as owner of underground tanks. Leone v Leewood Serv. Station, 212 A.D.2d 669, 624 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1734 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 443, 658 N.E.2d 221 (N.Y. 1995).

There is no cause of action for personal injuries under CLS Nav § 181. Strand v Neglia, 232 A.D.2d 907, 649 N.Y.S.2d 729, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11247 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 89 N.Y.2d 1086, 659 N.Y.S.2d 859, 681 N.E.2d 1306, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1251 (N.Y. 1997).

Regardless of whether defendant was owner of property from which petroleum allegedly was discharged onto plaintiffs' property, defendant still might be liable under CLS Nav § 181 if he were found to have discharged petroleum in violation of § 181. Berens v Cook, 263 A.D.2d 521, 694 N.Y.S.2d 684, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8389 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

In action under CLS Nav § 181 to recover petroleum discharge cleanup costs, defendant was not entitled to amend its answer to assert affirmative defense of sabotage where merit of that defense was dubious, and there was unexplained delay of about one year in making motion to amend. Amco Int'l, Inc. v Long Island R.R. Co., 273 A.D.2d 421, 713 N.Y.S.2d 119, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7406 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

In order to hold corporate stockholder, officer, or employee personally liable under Navigation Law for discharge occurring at site owned or operated by corporation, that individual must, at minimum, have been directly, actively, and knowingly involved in culpable activities or inaction that led to spill or allowed spill to continue unabated. State v Markowitz, 273 A.D.2d 637, 710 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7297 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 770, 722 N.Y.S.2d 473, 745 N.E.2d 393, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3872 (N.Y. 2000).

Where property owner is not owner of system from which discharge occurs, liability without regard to fault is properly imposed on system owner and not on faultless property owner under CLS Nav § 181.310 South Broadway Corp. v McCall, 275 A.D.2d 549, 712 N.Y.S.2d 206, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8402 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 701, 722 N.Y.S.2d 793, 745 N.E.2d 1015, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 7 (N.Y. 2001).

Supplier of residential heating oil was not strictly liable under CLS Nav § 181 to plaintiff who was injured as result of exposure to oil; statute, which was motivated by desire to ensure clean environment and prompt cleanup of unregulated discharges, contemplates only property damage. Lowenthal v Perkins, 164 Misc. 2d 922, 626 N.Y.S.2d 358, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 201 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

In action against defendant corporation for disposing of or arranging for disposal of steel and aluminum scrap containing hazardous substances at various sites owned by plaintiffs, affidavit of defendant's own expert stating that steel used by defendant would have been thinly coated with oil was enough to defeat motion to dismiss cause of action under CLS Nav § 181(1). Cooper Indus., Inc. v Agway, Inc., 987 F. Supp. 92, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19192 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

Where defendants brought claims against plaintiff power company alleging they are entitled to contribution from the power company for the removal costs of the petroleum it discharged on their property, taking the allegations as true, these defendants could have been entitled to relief; thus, the counterclaims brought pursuant to the New York Navigation Law were not dismissed. Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. v CONRAIL, 291 F. Supp. 2d 105, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19958 (N.D.N.Y. 2003), reaff'd, 565 F. Supp. 2d 399, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 85253 (N.D.N.Y. 2008), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 596 F.3d 112, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 3859 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2010).

2. Statute of limitations

An action by the State against defendant, who allegedly caused a petroleum discharge, to recover monies expended from the New York Environmental Protection and Spill Compensation Fund for the cleanup and removal of the discharged petroleum pursuant to Nav Law § 181, which requires the discharger to bear ultimate responsib1lity for the costs incurred, is properly characterized as a common law indemnity action based on a contract to reimburse implied by law, and is not a liability imposed by statute within the meaning of CPLR § 214(2); hence, the appropriate period of limitations is six years as specified by CPLR § 213(2). Accordingly, an action by the State against an alleged discharger, commenced within six years after the State expended funds for the cleanup, was timely as to all of the State's expenditures. State v Stewart's Ice Cream Co., 64 N.Y.2d 83, 484 N.Y.S.2d 810, 473 N.E.2d 1184, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4786 (N.Y. 1984).

Suit against discharger of gasoline initiated by damaged party is one for damages caused by injury to property and is subject to 3-year statute of limitations of CLS CPLR § 214(4). Guilderland v Texaco Refining & Marketing, Inc., 159 A.D.2d 829, 552 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2925 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

In action by lessors to recover from lessees past and future costs of cleaning up petroleum spill allegedly caused by lessees, demand for reimbursement for funds previously expended to pay for cleanup of spill constituted request for relief in nature of indemnification, and hence was governed by 6-year statute of limitations. 145 Kisco Ave. Corp. v Dufner Enters., 198 A.D.2d 482, 604 N.Y.S.2d 963, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11050 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

Cause of action for alleged violation of CLS Nav § 181, which imposes strict liability for improper discharge of petroleum, was governed by 6-year statute of limitations under CLS CPLR § 213(2); liberally construed, complaint stated cause of action for indemnification to extent that it sought recoupment of cleanup costs expended by plaintiff. 750 Old Country Rd. Realty Corp. v Exxon Corp., 229 A.D.2d 1034, 645 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9170 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Action brought under Navigation Law Article 12 against petroleum deliverer (defendant), brought in April 1997 alleging that defendant delivered petroleum to leaky underground tanks between 1986 and 1991, was time-barred under both 12-month contractual period of limitations and 3-year statute of limitations under CLS CPLR § 214-c(2). Kozemko v Griffith Oil Co., 256 A.D.2d 1199, 682 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14361 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Retail dealer agreement between plaintiffs and petroleum deliverer (defendant), providing that any claim arising under agreement or otherwise "shall be waived and barred unless asserted by the commencement of an action within twelve months after the event, action or inaction to which such claim relates," was reasonable contractual shortening of 3-year limitations period in action brought under Navigation Law Article 12 for defendant's conduct in delivering petroleum to allegedly leaky tanks at gas station. Kozemko v Griffith Oil Co., 256 A.D.2d 1199, 682 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14361 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Plaintiffs' action under Navigation Law Article 12, commenced in April 1997, was time-barred since injury should have been discovered either in September 1991, when Department of Environmental Conservation spill report indicated that tanks at gas station did not pass initial tank tightness test, or February 1992, when plaintiffs detected water in tanks; either event should have placed plaintiffs on notice of possible leaks. Kozemko v Griffith Oil Co., 256 A.D.2d 1199, 682 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14361 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Action by state under CLS Nav Art 12 to recover gasoline cleanup costs was timely where it was action for indemnification subject to 6-year limitations period, which did not begin to run until state last expended funds for cleanup of petroleum contamination. State v Speonk Fuel, Inc., 273 A.D.2d 681, 710 N.Y.S.2d 652, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7219 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000), app. dismissed, 98 N.Y.2d 721, 748 N.Y.S.2d 901, 778 N.E.2d 551, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 2438 (N.Y. 2004).

In action to recover hazardous waste and remediation costs, 6-year statute of limitations governed claim under Oil Spill Act (CLS Nav § 181(5)). AL Tech Specialty Steel Corp. v Allegheny Int'l Credit Corp., 104 F.3d 601, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 706 (3d Cir. Pa. 1997).

3. Damages

In action under CLS Nav § 181(1) to recover for damage to property caused by broken underground pipeline on adjoining property owned by state, claimant failed to proffer sufficient proof to show that injury to his property was permanent in nature or affected by stigma, where his appraiser assessed marketability without requesting documents relating to spill or testing of property and did not take into account that claimant might be able to successfully use or rent commercial portion of property. Putnam v State, 223 A.D.2d 872, 636 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 82 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In action against state under CLS Nav § 181(1), where property sustained temporary injury, claimant was entitled to be compensated for his loss of use as measured by decrease in rental value during pendency of injury; court properly utilized methodology proffered by expert who treated oil spill as temporary easement and calculated rental value of property both with and without encroachment, given claimant's complete failure to offer any alternative approach to assessment. Putnam v State, 223 A.D.2d 872, 636 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 82 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In action to recover for temporary injury to claimant's property due to contamination from broken underground pipeline located on adjoining property owned by state, claimant was not entitled to recover prospective costs of detailed environmental review and placement of additional monitoring wells, where court's conclusion that additional precautions urged by claimant were unnecessary was supported by experts' testimony that remediation was complete and there was no evidence of contamination to bedrock groundwater, which confirmed that samples taken from 3 existing monitoring wells were clean when last tested. Putnam v State, 223 A.D.2d 872, 636 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 82 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In actions and third party claims involving leaks from underground fuel storage tanks and associated piping, installer of system was entitled to partial summary judgment, limiting damages recoverable under Navigation Law strict liability causes of action to economic loss. Wever Petroleum v Gord's Ltd., 225 A.D.2d 27, 649 N.Y.S.2d 726, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11262 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In landlords' action against their former tenants for breach of lease and for discharge of petroleum in violation of CLS Nav § 181, case would be remitted for calculation of damages for lost rental income, including additional rent, for period from July 1, 1992, through October 31, 1993, where (1) landlords showed loss of rental income from their new tenant as result of contamination, (2) former tenants' lease terminated on June 30, 1992, (3) court awarded lost rent through March 5, 1994, when new tenant became obligated to pay rent, (4) State Department of Environmental Conservation accepted remediation plan in October 1993, (5) contaminated soil was removed from premises in about 2 days, (6) remediation thus could have been completed by November 1, 1993, at which time landlords' entitlement to damages ceased, and (7) remainder of period for which landlords did not receive rent was attributable to new tenant's work in reconstructing gas station to prepare for its tenancy. Gettner v Getty Oil Co., 266 A.D.2d 342, 701 N.Y.S.2d 64, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11572 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 791, 711 N.Y.S.2d 158, 733 N.E.2d 230, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1014 (N.Y. 2000), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 860, 714 N.Y.S.2d 704, 737 N.E.2d 946, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 2279 (N.Y. 2000), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 603, 735 N.Y.S.2d 492, 760 N.E.2d 1288, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3317 (N.Y. 2001).

In landlords' action against their former tenants for breach of lease and for discharge of petroleum in violation of CLS Nav § 181, landlords were not entitled to award of attorney fees, disbursements, and litigation support expenses where lease provisions at issue related exclusively to expenses incurred in litigation with third parties. Gettner v Getty Oil Co., 266 A.D.2d 342, 701 N.Y.S.2d 64, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11572 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 791, 711 N.Y.S.2d 158, 733 N.E.2d 230, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3317 (N.Y. 2001).

In action by state to hold individual and corporate defendants liable as dischargers of gasoline under CLS Nav §§ 172(8) and 181(1), court properly failed to instruct jury that statutory penalties could be imposed only if discharger acted "knowingly" in derogation of Navigation Law where "knowingly" limitation in CLS Nav § 192 applies only to giving of false information and not to phrase "or who otherwise violates any of the provisions of [Navigation Law art 12]," and thus any person or entity liable for cleanup costs as violator is liable for statutory penalties without any requirement that he, she, or it acted knowingly. State v Markowitz, 273 A.D.2d 637, 710 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7297 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 770, 722 N.Y.S.2d 473, 745 N.E.2d 393, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3872 (N.Y. 2000).

Landowners onto whose land oil from a damaged locomotive leaked were entitled to recover remediation and cleanup costs, as well as lost profits due to the railroad's long delay in taking action, and litigation costs, but they should not have been awarded prejudgment interest on amounts they had not yet spent. AMCO Int'l, Inc. v Long Island R.R. Co., 302 A.D.2d 338, 754 N.Y.S.2d 655, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 796 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Trial court erred in denying a property owner's motion for an award of attorney's fees incurred in the owner's action brought to recover damages resulting from the discharge of petroleum where the law did not require that, in order to recover such a fee, a plaintiff has to have either paid cleanup and removal costs or been held liable to the State for such costs. N.Y. Nave. Law § 181(5) provides a private right of action against a discharger to recover direct and indirect damages, including an attorney's fee incurred in such an action, in addition to damages related to the cleanup and removal of oil. Starnella v Heat, 14 A.D.3d 694, 789 N.Y.S.2d 227, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 803 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

Summary judgment was improperly granted In homeowners' action under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181 to recover damages from a city transit authority for a plume of diesel fuel that migrated under the homeowners' properties; though the authority met its initial burden of demonstrating that the homeowners sustained no damages, the homeowners raised triable issues of fact with evidence that the contamination could not be fully remediated and that the stigma of its continued presence had negatively affected the value of their homes. Turnbull v MTA N.Y. City Tr., 28 A.D.3d 647, 814 N.Y.S.2d 191, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4582 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

State's motion for summary judgment was properly granted in its action to recover its remediation costs and penalties because the possibility that other dischargers contributed to the off-site contamination was simply irrelevant to an owner's liability as an established discharger under N.Y. Nav. Law art. 12. State of New York v Slezak Petroleum Prods., Inc., 96 A.D.3d 1200, 947 N.Y.S.2d 189, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4766 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 19 N.Y.3d 814, 955 N.Y.S.2d 553, 979 N.E.2d 814, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 3268 (N.Y. 2012).

Owners were entitled to summary judgment on the issue of liability against the petroleum companies because the companies, as a matter of law, were strictly liable for the discharge of petroleum onto the owners' property during delivery because, while the Oil Spill Act did not set forth any minimum quantity of petroleum product that must be released before its provisions applied and they responded promptly, prevented further spillage, followed proper cleaning and reporting protocols, and succeeded in thoroughly cleaning the spill, the Act did not foreclose strict liability for de minimis spills, and required some nexus between the petroleum emission and the waters of the state, however minimal. Guidice v Oil, 51 Misc. 3d 313, 24 N.Y.S.3d 858, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 65 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

Defendants, prior owners of a service station, were strictly liable under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181 to owners of petroleum-contaminated property for any costs that could be established by the owners associated with the remediation of their property. However, the owners failed to offer admissible expert testimony regarding any diminution in value of their property. Hanna v Motiva Enters., LLC, 839 F. Supp. 2d 654, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 36807 (S.D.N.Y. 2012).

4. Discharge

Even if company which serviced underground fuel tanks could be deemed to be "discharger" of petroleum within meaning of CLS Nav § 181(5), owner of tanks could not recover from service company since owner was itself liable as discharger, and thus had no private right of action against service company. Busy Bee Food Stores v WCC Tank Lining Technology, 202 A.D.2d 898, 609 N.Y.S.2d 118, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2802 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 83 N.Y.2d 953, 615 N.Y.S.2d 877, 639 N.E.2d 418, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 1406 (N.Y. 1994).

Plaintiffs, merely by virtue of their status as landowners, were not "dischargers" of gasoline precluded from pursuing any statutory claims against tenant for leakage of gasoline from underground storage tank located on plaintiffs' property but owned and operated by tenant; liability as "discharger" is based on conduct, not status. Drouin v Ridge Lumber, 209 A.D.2d 957, 619 N.Y.S.2d 433, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11959 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Owner of service station was improperly granted leave to amend common-law negligence complaint to add claim for strict liability under CLS Nav § 181(5) against gas pump repair company since it was undisputed that plaintiff was "discharger" within meaning of CLS Nav § 181(1), and thus could not assert private right of action against another alleged discharge. Race Oil Corp. v Eastman, 213 A.D.2d 915, 623 N.Y.S.2d 964, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3078 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Defendant, operator of service station, was not entitled to summary judgment in action for strict liability under CLS Nav § 181(5), except to extent that plaintiffs sought to recover for personal injuries sustained in connection with gasoline discharge, where fact issue existed as to whether individual plaintiff contributed to spill and qualified as "discharger" for purposes of CLS Nav § 181(1). Strand v Neglia, 232 A.D.2d 907, 649 N.Y.S.2d 729, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11247 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 89 N.Y.2d 1086, 659 N.Y.S.2d 859, 681 N.E.2d 1306, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1251 (N.Y. 1997).

Defendant, which owned 4.4 percent interest as non-operator in oil and gas lease on land and did not control operations conducted under lease, could not be considered "discharger" subject to liability under CLS Nav § 181(1) and (5). Whitesell v Walchli, 237 A.D.2d 953, 654 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3548 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

In action for damages arising from significant discharge of oil from underground oil tanks, one which was cracked and one which collapsed, general contractor was not entitled to dismissal of complaint and cross claims under CLS Nav § 181(1) because its responsibility for overall supervision of installation of oil tanks in question might subject it to statutory liability as "discharger." Huntington Hosp. v Anron Heating & Air Conditioning, Inc., 250 A.D.2d 814, 673 N.Y.S.2d 456, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6147 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Individual defendant's roles as sole stockholder and sole officer of corporation that owned gas station at which gasoline leaked from overfilled storage tanks did not support imposition of personal liability on him or his estate as discharger under CLS Nav §§ 172(8) and 181(1) where neither he nor his fiduciaries wrongfully did or failed to do anything that led to or could have prevented spills, neither he nor his estate directly owned system from which discharge occurred, they were not involved in day-to-day operations of station, and they did not know of spills or of Department of Environmental Conservation's directives regarding those spills. State v Markowitz, 273 A.D.2d 637, 710 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7297 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 770, 722 N.Y.S.2d 473, 745 N.E.2d 393, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3872 (N.Y. 2000).

Trial court erred in failing to strike testimony relating to vapor contamination in an owner's N.Y. Nav. Law § 173 et seq. claim because that theory was not alleged in the owner's bill of particulars, and the owner knew of the vapor contamination theory for more than two years before the start of trial, but did not seek to amend its bill of particulars until trial; however, there was credible and admissible evidence of groundwater contamination of the corporation's property, from a discharge or discharges on that property, at a time which could not have been determined. The evidence further established that the groundwater contamination flowed from the corporation's property to the owner's property and that the corporation was liable as a discharger for purposes of the N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1) claim. Sunrise Harbor Realty, LLC v 35th Sunrise Corp., 86 A.D.3d 562, 927 N.Y.S.2d 145, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5834 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2011).

Two oil corporations that had been held to be contributing dischargers and strictly liable for cleanup and removal costs associated with the discharge of petroleum products at a property and the property owner failed to show that a scrap metal firm (SMF) was strictly liable as a discharger since they did not show that SMF owned or controlled the property; SMF's acceptance of scrap metal at a discounted rate from a scrap yard owner who dismantled vehicles on the property did not make SMF a landowner or give it the authority to control the property or the activities conducted thereon. One Flint St., LLC v Exxon Mobil Corp., 175 A.D.3d 1012, 107 N.Y.S.3d 577, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6322 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2019).

In action under CLS Nav § 181 to recover for damage to plaintiff's cows arising from their ingestion of oil that allegedly spilled from oil tank on land leased, in part, by defendant for purpose of developing gas and oil from land, defendant was not entitled to dismissal of complaint on ground that he was not "discharger" within meaning of § 181; defendant was not being sued because he owned interest in property, but because his company allegedly discharged oil. Whitesell v Walchli, 168 Misc. 2d 879, 644 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 220 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996), rev'd, 237 A.D.2d 953, 654 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3548 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Viable cause of action for strict liability under CLS Nav § 181 was stated against deliverer of fuel oil into fuel storage tank from which it spilled out onto ground via hose installed by former property owner for redistribution of oil to another storage tank, and former owner's act was not intervening or superseding cause of spill, given broad definition of "discharge" in CLS Nav § 172 and liberal construction and public policy considerations surrounding CLS Nav Art 12, where deliverer set in motion events that resulted in discharge. Premier Nat'l Bank v Effron Fuel Oil Co., 182 Misc. 2d 169, 698 N.Y.S.2d 434, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 460 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

When a fuel company spilled oil onto customers' premises when the company overfilled one of the customers' oil tanks, the customers were not entitled to bring a claim, under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5), against a burner company that serviced an oil burner and boilers in a separate room 70 feet away from the oil tanks, as the burner company did not cause or contribute to the discharge. Fuchs & Bergh, Inc. v Lance Enters., Inc., 22 A.D.3d 715, 802 N.Y.S.2d 749, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11435 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

Trial court properly granted partial summary judgment to the State in its action, seeking recovery of environmental cleanup costs due to a gasoline spill from a gasoline company's underground tanks, as the company did not rebut evidence that a discharge occurred while it owned the property, pursuant to N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1). State of New York v Passalacqua, 19 A.D.3d 786, 797 N.Y.S.2d 576, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6163 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Evidence was sufficient to support a verdict in favor of defendants, a town and a fire company, on a claim under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1) by owners of an industrial facility. Witnesses testified that they did not find indications that defendants discharged petroleum in the course of fighting a fire at the facility. AMW Materials Testing, Inc. v Town of Babylon, 584 F.3d 436, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 22893 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

Corporation's president was potentially liable under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) for having caused or contributed to the discharge, by failing to report past suspected dumping, or by failing to take some kind of remedial action to prevent the spread of contamination. Moreover, there were triable issues of fact precluding summary judgment on the claim. Emerson Enters., LLC v Kenneth Crosby N.Y., LLC, 781 F. Supp. 2d 166, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26388 (W.D.N.Y. 2011).

5. Homeowners

By virtue of ownership and control of heating system from which fuel oil leaked, homeowner was strictly liable to Environmental Protection and Spill Compensation Fund for clean-up costs of spill; proof of wrongful act or omission by homeowner or fuel oil supplier was not required. State v New York Cent. Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 147 A.D.2d 77, 542 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7136 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Provisions of Navigation Law Article 12 apply to residential properties as well as oil industry enterprises. State v Arthur L. Moon, Inc., 228 A.D.2d 826, 643 N.Y.S.2d 760, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6700 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 89 N.Y.2d 861, 653 N.Y.S.2d 282, 675 N.E.2d 1235, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4257 (N.Y. 1996).

Defendant was not entitled to summary judgment in action brought under CLS Nav Article 12, even though she made prima facie showing that oil spill on her property did not actually reach groundwater or threaten to do so, where state submitted affidavit of Department of Environmental Conservation technician stating that he visited defendant's home, that he found soil beneath her fuel tank to be saturated with fuel oil, and that he detected strong odor of fuel oil coming from her well, and comparison testing of samples of soil beneath fuel tank and water from well showed same No. 2 fuel oil to be present in both. State v Arthur L. Moon, Inc., 228 A.D.2d 826, 643 N.Y.S.2d 760, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6700 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 89 N.Y.2d 861, 653 N.Y.S.2d 282, 675 N.E.2d 1235, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4257 (N.Y. 1996).

Oil spill caused when fuel tank located in homeowner's basement was tipped over in flood constituted "discharge" under CLS Nav § 172(8) where, despite actual knowledge that flooding in her cellar was so severe that water was flowing from basement windows, homeowner took no action to prevent tank from being toppled by flooding waters; since homeowner could have had oil tank drained, or could have employed pumps to drain flood waters, her omission, unintentional or otherwise, was cause of spilling petroleum. State v Pawtucket Mut. Ins., 140 Misc. 2d 1041, 532 N.Y.S.2d 335, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 569 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Because an owner was the person who last winterized the oil pipes in the owner's house, and because there was conflicting evidence as to who authorized the delivery of kerosene to the premises, summary judgment was correctly denied on the owner's Navigation Law § 181(5) claim. Carter v Suburban Heating Oil Partners, L.P., 44 A.D.3d 1221, 845 N.Y.S.2d 482, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10853 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

6. Landlord-tenant

State was entitled to summary judgment in its action against owner of gasoline station, seeking reimbursement for cleanup costs and statutory penalties under CLS Nav Art 12 in connection with gasoline leakage from underground storage tanks located on defendant's property, since (1) CLS Nav § 181 provides for strict liability without regard to fault, (2) defendant's ownership of premises was established, as matter of law, by lease agreement which provided, inter alia, that all items attached to premises, islands, or underground, were to remain property of defendant, and that underground storage tanks were property of defendant, and (3) defendant submitted no proof in evidentiary form to support its claim that it had sold its tanks to lessor. State v Wisser Co., 170 A.D.2d 918, 566 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2461 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

Tenant was entitled to summary judgment dismissing landlord's action for reimbursement for costs incurred to remedy property damage caused by leakage of gasoline from deteriorated underground storage tanks and connecting piping at leased garage building where, under unambiguous terms of commercial lease involved, landlord was obligated to comply with all statutes and governmental orders at its sole expense, since landlord therefore bore financial responsibility for removing tanks and performing cleanup ordered by State Department of Environmental Conservation. 101 Fleet Place Assocs. v New York Tel. Co., 197

A.D.2d 27, 609 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3626 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 83 N.Y.2d 962, 616 N.Y.S.2d 13, 639 N.E.2d 752, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 1525 (N.Y. 1994).

Property owners were properly granted summary judgment declaring and holding tenant statutorily liable for all cleanup and removal costs and other damages incurred by leaking of gasoline from underground storage tank where it was established that tank, once abandoned by third party, became trade fixture owned by tenant, and that tenant was in exclusive possession control, use, and operation of tank throughout its tenancy. Drouin v Ridge Lumber, 209 A.D.2d 957, 619 N.Y.S.2d 433, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11959 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Sublessees, who operated gasoline service station under various sublease and franchise agreements with sublessors, were not entitled to summary judgment dismissing sublessors' third-party complaint based on stipulation executed in prior nonpayment proceeding releasing sublessees from all claims arising during their occupancy of premises, since it was undisputed that parties were unaware of property damage caused by petroleum leakage at time they settled summary nonpayment proceeding, and release was intended only to settle matters related to that proceeding and was not intended to release sublessees from potential liability for contamination of property due to discharge of petroleum products in violation of CLS Nav Art 12, which was subject of main action. Gettner v Getty Oil Co., 226 A.D.2d 502, 641 N.Y.S.2d 73, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

In landlords' action against their former tenants for breach of lease and for discharge of petroleum in violation of CLS Nav § 181, tenants unreasonably delayed investigation and remediation of environmental problems where (1) tenants were reluctant to undertake investigation of subsurface drains on premises because of their concern about costs and doubt that investigation was necessary, (2) drains were investigated without tenants' approval, at insistence of landlords' consultants and counsel, revealing subsurface contamination, and (3) tenants never conceded that landlords were entitled to certain basic remediation costs until they perfected present appeal. Gettner v Getty Oil Co., 266 A.D.2d 342, 701 N.Y.S.2d 64, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11572 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 791, 711 N.Y.S.2d 158, 733 N.E.2d 230, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1014 (N.Y. 2000), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 860, 714 N.Y.S.2d 704, 737 N.E.2d 946, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 2279 (N.Y. 2000), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 603, 735 N.Y.S.2d 492, 760 N.E.2d 1288, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3317 (N.Y. 2001).

Appeals court affirmed dismissal of gas station's third-party anticipatory breach of lease counterclaim against lessor; lessor's settlement with neighbor lessee to build access barrier was subject to station's supplier's approval so was not final repudiation; station had argued that the barrier or tire stop settlement stipulation restricted access to their leased land (in particular the use of the gas pumps) and was a unilateral modification of their lease; the neighbor lessee's original suit was for injunctive relief under the New York Navigation Law. Coney Island Exhaust, Inc. v Mobil Oil Corp., 304 A.D.2d 706, 758 N.Y.S.2d 389, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4286 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Lessor's stipulation (to build a barrier) with lessee that was neighbor to gas station lessee was not an anticipatory breach, because, by it terms, it required that the oil supplier had to consent to the stipulation before it became operative; therefore, the stipulation was not an unequivocal, definite and final repudiation of the lease agreement. Coney Island Exhaust, Inc. v Mobil Oil Corp., 304 A.D.2d 706, 758 N.Y.S.2d 389, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4286 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Landlord's claims for contribution and indemnification relating to a petroleum leak from an underground storage tank (UST) system on property it leased to a tenant for use as a gasoline service station were improperly dismissed as precluded by N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) because the parties' lease did not conclusively establish that the landlord was responsible for maintaining and repairing the UST system. Additionally, § 181(5) allowed a faultless landowner to seek contribution from the actual discharger even if the landowner itself was liable as a discharger under § 181(1). Union Turnpike Assoc., LLC v Getty Realty Corp., 27 A.D.3d 725, 812 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3851 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Lessor was strictly liable under N.Y. Nav. Law §§ 181(1), 172(8) for the remediation costs of a petroleum discharge on propety it owned even though it had leased the property to a lessee for use as a gasoline station; the lessor admittedly knew petroleum products would be stored on the property, and it had the requisite level of control over the property through the terms of the lease, which acknowledged that the property would be used as a gasoline station. State of New York v B & P Auto Serv. Ctr., Inc., 29 A.D.3d 1045, 814 N.Y.S.2d 367, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5875 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 7 N.Y.3d 864, 824 N.Y.S.2d 608, 857 N.E.2d 1139, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 3230 (N.Y. 2006).

Control over the terms of a lease is sufficient to establish the requisite level of control over a property to hold an otherwise faultless landowner liable for the remediation costs of petroleum discharges on the property under N.Y. Nav. Law §§ 172(8), 181(1); the landowner's contractual relationship through the lease with the party directly responsible for the spill conveys the requisite level of control over activities at the spill site to warrant the imposition of liability. State of New York v B & P Auto Serv. Ctr., Inc., 29 A.D.3d 1045, 814 N.Y.S.2d 367, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5875 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 7 N.Y.3d 864, 824 N.Y.S.2d 608, 857 N.E.2d 1139, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 3230 (N.Y. 2006).

7. Liens

Article 78 petition to annul and vacate environmental lien filed under CLS Nav § 181-a was properly dismissed on ground that another adequate remedy at law was available, in that (1) CLS Lien § 59 gave petitioner statutory remedy to effect vacatur of lien, and (2) in state's plenary civil action to recover clean-up costs, petitioner had opportunity to dispute its classification as entity liable for discharge, which was necessary predicate to validity of lien. Art-Tex Petroleum v New York State Dep't of Audit & Control, 93 N.Y.2d 830, 687 N.Y.S.2d 619, 710 N.E.2d 265, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 34 (N.Y. 1999).

Article 78 petition seeking to nullify and vacate notice of environmental lien filed by Department of Audit and Control against petitioner's property was properly dismissed since petitioner, as owner of contaminated property, was discharger based on CLS Nav § 181(1) liability, and petitioner failed to comply with provisions of CLS Lien § 59, which provides for means for vacating lien. Art-Tex Petroleum v New York State Dep't of Audit & Control, 248 A.D.2d 901, 670 N.Y.S.2d 605, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2811 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998), aff'd, 93 N.Y.2d 830, 687 N.Y.S.2d 619, 710 N.E.2d 265, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 34 (N.Y. 1999).

8. Private right-of-action

Oil Spill Prevention, Control and Compensation Law (CLS Nav Art 12) does not create private right of action, but rather provides injured parties with administrative remedy in lieu of their existing common-law and statutory remedies, so that claimant injured by discharge of petroleum must proceed against Oil Spill Fund administered by Department of Environmental Conservation, which alone has recourse against discharger through subrogation, or claimant may pursue his existing common-law remedies directly against discharger; thus, action based on CLS Nav Art 12 asserted by property owner against oil company for damages allegedly resulting from company's discharge of oil on nearby property which seeped into claimant's property would be dismissed. Snyder v Jessie, 164 A.D.2d 405, 565 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16406 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990), app. dismissed, 77 N.Y.2d 940, 569 N.Y.S.2d 613, 572 N.E.2d 54, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 581 (N.Y. 1991).

In action arising from seepage of petroleum into basement from adjoining property, court erred in refusing to permit plaintiff to amend her complaint to add cause of action against occupant of adjoining property premised on strict liability under CLS Nav Art 12 since (1) at time of motion, appellate court had already decided that private cause of action existed under CLS Nav § 181, (2) during pendency of motion, statute was amended to explicitly provide private cause of action, and (3) defendant presented no evidence of prejudice. Wheeler v National Sch. Bus Serv., 193 A.D.2d 998, 598 N.Y.S.2d 109, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5083 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Court properly allowed jury to consider private causes of action for strict liability for petroleum discharge based on CLS Nav § 181(5), even though leak and contamination originally occurred before effective date of statute, since statute was remedial in nature and simply extended common-law right to recover damages which previously existed in favor of any party injured as result of oil discharge. Leone v Leewood Serv. Station, 212 A.D.2d 669, 624 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1734 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 709, 634 N.Y.S.2d 443, 658 N.E.2d 221 (N.Y. 1995).

In action to recover for clean-up costs incurred by plaintiff in remediating petroleum-contaminated soil detected on property which he had purchased from defendant several years earlier, plaintiff's status as person responsible for discharge under CLS Nav § 181 did not preclude him from recovering in negligence as against defendant or any other third party, as negligence exists as substantive cause of action independent of Navigation Law. Calabro v Sun Oil Co., 276 A.D.2d 858, 714 N.Y.S.2d 781, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10478 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Because the insureds were faultless property owners who paid cleanup and related costs resulting from an oil discharge on their property, the insurer's complaint against the oil tank companies alleged viable causes of action under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) and for common-law indemnification based on the companies' alleged manufacture, design, assembly, and distribution of the tank that leaked; consequently, the companies' N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3211(a)(7) motion to dismiss the complaint was properly denied. General Cas. Ins. Co. v Kerr Heating Prods., 48 A.D.3d 512, 852 N.Y.S.2d 257, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

It was error to dismiss landowners' suit against an insurer under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) on grounds the landowners had no viable cause of action because (1) N.Y. Nav. Law § 190 let the landowners sue the insurer directly, and (2) the insurer could not disclaim coverage due to the landowners not giving the insurer notice of an accident, as this was not stated in the insurer's notice of disclaimer. Henner v Everdry Mktg. & Mgt., Inc., 74 A.D.3d 1776, 902 N.Y.S.2d 765, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5081 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2010).

Utility was not entitled to contribution for remediation of hazardous substance contamination from the owner to which it sold contaminated land on a peninsula, under N.Y. Lab. Law § 181; the court found, on testimony of former employees of the owner that it did not have any spills or leaks, that the utility did not show a release from the owner's property. Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. v Jones Chem., Inc., 315 F.3d 171, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 135 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2003).

9. Res judicata and collateral estoppel

Collateral estoppel did not apply to motion for summary judgment in action against insurance company commenced by state to recover amount paid to contractor for cleanup of spill of liquid asphalt from tanker truck owned by insured, notwithstanding prior action by contractor against insurance company in which it was determined that insurance company had right to question bills submitted by contractor, since, even though state could be considered to be in privity with contractor, state did not seek same relief as had been sought by contractor; while contractor had sought amount of its own unaudited invoices, state sought reimbursement of payments it was required to make pursuant to CLS Nav § 181(2). State v Gorman Bros., Inc., 166 A.D.2d 859, 563 N.Y.S.2d 187, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12837 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

State was not precluded by res judicata from maintaining action alleging that gas station owners, whose underground storage tanks leaked and resulted in cleanup expenditure from State Environmental Protection Spill Compensation Fund, were strictly liable for cleanup and removal costs plus penalties pursuant to CLS Nav Art 12, even though prior arbitration award between Fund and owners of contaminated wells determined that discharges occurred prior to effective date of CLS Nav Art 12, where cost of cleanup and removal were incurred subsequent to effective date, and CLS Nav Art § 190-a, added in 1980, provides that Art 12 applies to spills occurring either before or after effective date. State v Cities Service Co., 180 A.D.2d 940, 580 N.Y.S.2d 512, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2679 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

10. Strict liability

CLS Nav Art 12 imposes strict liability on any entity, large or small, commercial or residential, responsible for discharge of petroleum which threatens state's waters. State v New York Cent. Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 147 A.D.2d 77, 542 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7136 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

In action alleging defendants' strict liability for cleanup costs under CLS Nav Art 12 and liability for penalties in connection with discovery of gasoline in groundwater near their service station, court erred in dismissing third-party strict liability cause of action against defendants' immediate predecessors in title, as plaintiff's recovery did not depend on finding that discharge took place while defendants owned property, and defendants could pursue claim under CLS Nav § 181(5) against party who actually caused discharge. State v Tartan Oil Corp., 219 A.D.2d 111, 638 N.Y.S.2d 989, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2286 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In action alleging defendants' strict liability for cleanup costs under CLS Nav Art 12 and liability for penalties in connection with discovery of gasoline in groundwater near their service station, where defendants asserted third-party strict liability cause of action against their immediate predecessors in title, defendants could recover expense incurred in defending main action to extent that such expense constituted element of "indirect damage" under CLS Nav § 181(1) and (5). State v Tartan Oil Corp., 219 A.D.2d 111, 638 N.Y.S.2d 989, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2286 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In action alleging defendants' strict liability for cleanup costs under CLS Nav Art 12 and liability for penalties in connection with discovery of gasoline in groundwater near their service station, where defendants asserted third-party strict liability cause of action against their immediate predecessors in title, court properly dismissed defendants' claim concerning their liability for statutory penalties, which was based solely on defendants' failure to promptly contain discharges. State v Tartan Oil Corp., 219 A.D.2d 111, 638 N.Y.S.2d 989, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2286 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Defendant should have been granted summary judgment in action alleging strict liability under CLS Nav § 181 where plaintiff's primarily relied on one sentence in 7-page expert affidavit, which vaguely suggested that petroleum discharge may have occurred "at least during the late 1970's and continued through the 1980's." Hilltop Nyack Corp. v TRMI Holdings Inc., 272 A.D.2d 521, 708 N.Y.S.2d 138, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5801 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

CLS Nav § 181(1) imposes strict liability on corporations and individuals who directly own system from which discharge occurred, and such liability attaches despite lack of proof that owner caused or contributed to discharge; however, § 181(1) does not impose strict liability on stockholders or officers of corporation that owns or operates system from which discharge occurred, based solely on those statuses. State v Markowitz, 273 A.D.2d 637, 710 N.Y.S.2d 407, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7297 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 770, 722 N.Y.S.2d 473, 745 N.E.2d 393, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3872 (N.Y. 2000).

In absence of claim that property owners caused or contributed to discharges from underground tanks on their property, they were strictly liable as dischargers under CLS Nav Art 12 only if they owned tanks from which discharges occurred. 310 South Broadway Corp. v McCall, 275 A.D.2d 549, 712 N.Y.S.2d 206, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8402 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 701, 722 N.Y.S.2d 793, 745 N.E.2d 1015, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 7 (N.Y. 2001).

Summary judgment as to liability for owners' subrogee and against oil companies on the subrogee's N.Y. Nav. Law art. 12 claims was proper under circumstances in which the subrogee established that one of the oil companies pumped oil into an abandoned fill pipe that led to the owners' basement, thereby discharging oil into the house, and that the owners' property was damaged as a result of the discharge; the oil companies failed to raise a triable fact issue in opposition. Cleary v Wallace Oil Co., Inc., 55 A.D.3d 773, 865 N.Y.S.2d 663, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7964 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Because there were issues of fact as to whether the current owners contributed to the property's contamination, the trial court properly denied the parties' summary judgment motions with respect strict liability under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1), (5), and for common-law indemnification. Sweet v Texaco, Inc., 67 A.D.3d 1322, 890 N.Y.S.2d 233, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8108 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2009).

Because the owners did nothing after learning that a petroleum storage system on their property had discharged petroleum contaminating the property and that a cleanup was needed, they were strictly liable as dischargers under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1) as a matter of law. State of New York v C.J. Burth Servs., Inc., 79 A.D.3d 1298, 915 N.Y.S.2d 174, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9155 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Property owner was strictly liable as a discharger for cleanup and removal costs associated with the discharge of petroleum products at a property since: (1) he owned the property for a year; (2) petroleum discharge from the dismantling of vehicles by a scrap yard owner occurred during that year; and (3) the property owner was able to control the scrap yard owner's activities on the property. One Flint St., LLC v Exxon Mobil Corp., 175 A.D.3d 1012, 107 N.Y.S.3d 577, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6322 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2019).

Strict liability provisions of Oil Spill Act apply to homeowners. State v Pawtucket Mut. Ins., 140 Misc. 2d 1041, 532 N.Y.S.2d 335, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 569 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1), a fuel company, as discharger, was strictly liable to the State for the clean-up and removal costs made by a state fund and all direct and indirect damages; the fuel company was not entitled to a hearing on the reasonableness of the clean-up costs under N.Y. Nav. Law § 185(1) because the statute did not apply here where the fund sought reimbursement from the company for clean-up costs, and to the extent that the court's previous decisions suggested that a hearing might have been required where the State sought indemnification on behalf of the fund, they were either based on materially different older provisions of N.Y. Nav. Law § 185 or they inadvertently relied on such decisions rather than the present wording of the statute. State v Speonk Fuel, Inc., 307 A.D.2d 59, 762 N.Y.S.2d 674, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7701 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2003), aff'd, 3 N.Y.3d 720, 786 N.Y.S.2d 375, 819 N.E.2d 991, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 2438 (N.Y. 2004).

Where the New York State Thruway Authority established that a carrier discharged petroleum upon its involvement in an auto accident, that a gasoline discharge occurred, and that the Thruway's property was damaged as a result of said discharge, the carrier was liable for all direct and indirect damages sustained, pursuant to N.Y. Nav. Law §§ 181(1), (5). Matera v Mystic Transp., Inc., 308 A.D.2d 514, 764 N.Y.S.2d 458, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9711 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

In a case brought by homeowners against a corporation and its president, alleging that gasoline had been discharged from a service station onto the homeowners' property, questions of fact existed as to whether the president owned the petroleum tanks from which the gasoline discharged occurred, and whether the president had engaged in "active wrongful conduct or culpable inaction" so as to have rendered him personally liable as a discharger; partial summary judgment in favor of the homeowners and against the president was reversed. Golovach v Bellmont L.M., Inc., 4 A.D.3d 730, 773 N.Y.S.2d 139, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2021 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 2 N.Y.3d 793, 781 N.Y.S.2d 291, 814 N.E.2d 463, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 967 (N.Y. 2004).

Evidence that a fuel company overfilled some customers' oil tank, discharging oil onto the customers' premises, showed the customers were prima facie entitled to judgment against the fuel company, as a matter of law, because, under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1), the company was strictly liable for the discharge, but it was error to find that the fuel company raised a triable issue of fact as to whether a leak in the customer's second tank contributed to the discharge because the leak was not discovered until five months after the spill and was not shown to be related to the spill, nor was a later-discovered spill in the overfilled tank shown to be related to the spill. Fuchs & Bergh, Inc. v Lance Enters., Inc., 22 A.D.3d 715, 802 N.Y.S.2d 749, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11435 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

In a suit wherein the State was asserting strict liability against a gasoline station for contamination resulting from petroleum discharges, the trial court erred in granting summary judgment to a chemical corporation with regard to the gasoline station owner's fourth-party complaint asserting indemnification and contribution from the chemical corporation, because genuine issues of material fact existed with regard to whether a 1976 petroleum discharge at a nearby gas station, then owned by the chemical corporation, contributed to the contamination at the gasoline station owner's property, which was the subject property in the suit. State of New York v Metro Resources, Inc., 14 A.D.3d 982, 788 N.Y.S.2d 697, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 618 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Neither a petroleum product supplier nor its insurer could be held strictly liable under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1) for the costs of cleaning up a gasoline spill from a gas station's leaking underground tanks because the supplier could not have seen or known of the spill and no question of fact was raised as to whether the supplier caused the spill; liability under § 181(1) is predicated on a potentially responsible party's capacity to prevent an oil spill or to clean up resulting contamination, and read in conjunction with N.Y. Nav. Law § 172(8), an act or omission that results in a discharge is required. State of New York v Joseph, 29 A.D.3d 1233, 816 N.Y.S.2d 214, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6794 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 7 N.Y.3d 711, 823 N.Y.S.2d 770, 857 N.E.2d 65, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 2664 (N.Y. 2006).

Owner was entitled to summary judgment under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181 arising from a fuel oil spill from a new storage tank at the owner's home because the owner submitted evidence that a corporation and a subcontractor were petroleum dischargers and the corporation and the subcontractor submitted no evidence to show how the owner's actions or inactions actually caused or contributed to the oil discharge; the assertions the corporation and the subcontractor to that effect were based on pure speculation. Thus, the corporation and the subcontractor failed to raise a triable fact issue sufficient to preclude summary judgment for the owner under § 181. Tifft v Bigelow's Oil Serv., Inc., 70 A.D.3d 1248, 894 N.Y.S.2d 594, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1393 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Owner was strictly liable as a discharger and not entitled to reimbursement from the Fund because owner's liability under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1) was not predicated on his status as a landowner but, rather, as the owner of the system from which the discharge occurred at the time of discovery of the discharge, regardless of fault or knowledge; while the underground storage tank (UST) at issue was installed by an entity other than the owner and the owner took steps in an attempt to remove all USTs from the property before buying it, it was undisputed that the UST remained in the ground when the property was bought by the owner. The UST was a fixture, the owner bought the property in "as is" condition and failed to submit any proof that the transfer of the land did not include fixtures, and the record was otherwise devoid of any evidence that the owner was not the owner of the UST. Matter of Veltri v New York State Off. of The State Comptroller, 81 A.D.3d 1050, 916 N.Y.S.2d 315, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 762 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

11. Successor liability

Property owner who is deemed pollutant-discharger under Navigation Law has cause of action against previous owner-discharger for cost of cleaning up contaminated site. White v Long, 85 N.Y.2d 564, 626 N.Y.S.2d 989, 650 N.E.2d 836, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1029 (N.Y. 1995).

Seller was not entitled to summary judgment dismissing action for strict liability under CLS Nav § 181 arising from sale of property on which buyer found cracked underground gasoline storage tank, where buyer was not estopped from asserting a private right of action against seller simply because of his status as discharger. White v Long, 204 A.D.2d 892, 612 N.Y.S.2d 482, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5406 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, in part, 84 N.Y.2d 905, 621 N.Y.S.2d 508, 645 N.E.2d 1206, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 3484 (N.Y. 1994), aff'd, modified, 85 N.Y.2d 564, 626 N.Y.S.2d 989, 650 N.E.2d 836, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1029 (N.Y. 1995).

Purchasers of real property on which sellers had been operating motor vehicle repair shop were not entitled to summary judgment in sellers' mortgage foreclosure action on ground that sellers failed to satisfy their contractual obligation to deliver marketable title due to presence on property of possible sources of underground discharge of petroleum products, as to which cost of cleanup could be imposed on any owner pursuant to CLS Nav § 181; marketability of title to real property refers to purchaser's right to hold land free from probable claim by another, not to value of property. Vandervort v Higginbotham, 222 A.D.2d 831, 634 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12669 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Sellers, who had operated motor vehicle repair shop on property sold to defendants, were entitled to summary judgment defendants' claim for rescission predicated on mutual mistake and fraud arising from presence on property of possible sources of underground discharge of petroleum products as to which cost of cleanup could be imposed on any owner under CLS Nav § 181, where defendants admittedly were aware of prior use of property and existence of floor drains signaling presence of underground disposal or storage of oil before they purchased property, and there was no showing that they were prevented from conducting inspections or tests to allay concerns about property, or that sellers concealed anything that could not readily be discovered through reasonable inspection. Vandervort v Higginbotham, 222 A.D.2d 831, 634 N.Y.S.2d 800, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12669 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Plaintiffs failed to state action under Navigation Law Article 12 against defendants (petroleum deliverer and plaintiffs' predecessors in title) where defendants submitted documentary evidence (tank tightness tests) that showed that underground storage tanks were not leaking at time of transfer of title to plaintiffs, and plaintiff merely submitted affidavit asserting his "believe" that defendants knew about leaks in tanks when plaintiffs purchased gas station. Kozemko v Griffith Oil Co., 256 A.D.2d 1199, 682 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14361 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Defendant's summary judgment motion was properly denied in actions seeking indemnification or contribution for costs to clean up contaminated soil under strict liability provisions of Navigation Law Art 12, despite "as is" clause in parties' contract allocating to plaintiff risks associated with environmental problems on property, since clause in question precluded actions based on breach of warranty, not those based on statut- Umbra U.S.A., Inc. v Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth., 262 A.D.2d 980, 693 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7149 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

New owner of property on which prior owner had operated gas station was properly added as defendant in action under CLS Nav § 181 for discharge of gasoline from leaking tank where purchase included tanks, pipes, and other fixtures constituting system from which discharge occurred, and fact that leaking tank was removed shortly before closing of title was irrelevant. State v Speonk Fuel, Inc., 273 A.D.2d 681, 710 N.Y.S.2d 652, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7219 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000), app. dismissed, 98 N.Y.2d 721, 748 N.Y.S.2d 901, 778 N.E.2d 551, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 2335 (N.Y. 2002), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 766, 752 N.Y.S.2d 5, 781 N.E.2d 917, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3397 (N.Y. 2002), aff'd, 3 N.Y.3d 720, 786 N.Y.S.2d 375, 819 N.E.2d 991, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 2438 (N.Y. 2004).

In a diversity action in which a current owner sought recovery from a property's former owner of settlement money that the current owner paid to the State for cleanup of a petroleum discharge that occurred on the property, the current owner's claim under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) was dismissed on summary judgment because it was undisputed that the current owner owned the property at the time of the discharge and subsequently entered into a settlement agreement with the State concerning its voluntary payment for the remediation of the discharge, and, as such, the owner had not set forth any facts which would allow a reasonable juror to conclude that it lacked all culpability for the discharge. Furthermore, because at no time did the current owner ever conduct a survey to determine whether the property complied with all environmental laws and regulations, as it alleged that the former owner was required to do, it had failed to present evidence which would allow a reasonable jury to conclude that it was faultless with respect to the discharge. Dora Homes, Inc. v Epperson, 344 F. Supp. 2d 875, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26354 (E.D.N.Y. 2004).

12. Miscellaneous

In action to recover clean-up costs incurred as result of accidental discharge of petroleum from above-ground tank owned by tenant in defendant's trailer park and utilized by tenant for storage of residential heating fuel, summary judgment should not have been granted in favor of defendant, where it had the ability to control potential sources of contamination on its property. State v Green, 96 N.Y.2d 403, 729 N.Y.S.2d 420, 754 N.E.2d 179, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1981 (N.Y. 2001).

An insurance company was properly required to indemnify its liability policyholder for expenses incurred in cleaning up a fuel oil spill at a residence at which the policyholder had serviced a fuel oil tank and delivered fuel oil which subsequently leaked into the basement, since the policyholder was strictly liable pursuant to Nav Law § 181(1) for the cleanup costs; under the Navigation Law, no proof was required of specific wrongdoing which directly caused the spill in order to impose liability, and judicial notice of the common knowledge that oil can seep into subsurface waters obviated the necessity of specific proof that the oil was in danger of seeking into protected water. Domermuth Petroleum Equipment & Maintenance Corp. v Herzog & Hopkins, Inc., 111 A.D.2d 957, 490 N.Y.S.2d 54, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50231 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Court did not err in summarily awarding state full reimbursement for cleanup and removal costs under CLS Nav Art 12, although defendant owner was not given notice of receipt of cleanup cost claims by State Environmental Protection and Spill Compensation Fund, since absence of notice did not result in prejudice such that defendant was denied opportunity to contest validity or amount of costs through arbitration (CLS Nav § 185) where (1) letters from Department of Transportation (DOT) placed defendant on notice of leak, its responsibility for cleanup and removal, and its responsibility for reimbursement should DOT be required to undertake cleanup, and (2) defendant failed to respond to DOT's initial and subsequent notices. State v Wisser Co., 170 A.D.2d 918, 566 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2461 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

Complaint alleging that defendant lessee owned petroleum which leaked from premises it leased from plaintiff, contaminating local waterways, was sufficient to state cause of action under CLS Nav § 181(1), which provides that any person who has discharged petroleum shall be strictly liable for all cleanup and removal costs and all direct and indirect damages, no matter by whom sustained. 145 Kisco Ave. Corp. v Dufner Enters., 198 A.D.2d 482, 604 N.Y.S.2d 963, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11050 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

It was error to dismiss cause of action based on violation of CLS Nav § 181(5) where complaint alleged that defendants' property was contaminated with chemical compounds, that defendants "used, generated and disposed of" hazardous substances, and that defendants caused hazardous substances to come onto plaintiffs' property, since language in affidavit of plaintiffs' expert, which defined nature of hazardous substances as "hydrocarbons which are commonly associated with petroleum waste," fell within definition of "petroleum" in CLS Nav § 172(15). Henning v Rando Mach. Corp., 207 A.D.2d 106, 620 N.Y.S.2d 867, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13421 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

In action alleging defendants' strict liability for cleanup costs under CLS Nav Art 12 and liability for penalties in connection with discovery of gasoline in groundwater near their service station, where defendants asserted third-party strict liability cause of action against their immediate predecessors in title, third-party defendants' motion for partial summary judgment on cross-claim based on theory of contractual indemnity was properly denied, as agreement executed in connection with transfer of service station to defendants did not indicate that they agreed to indemnify their predecessors for leaking underground storage tanks regardless of their negligence or responsibility for spill. State v Tartan Oil Corp., 219 A.D.2d 111, 638 N.Y.S.2d 989, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2286 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In negligence action for oil spill affecting plaintiff's property, plaintiff was entitled, despite extensive delay, to amend complaint to add cause of action under CLS Nav § 181 where (1) defendant's bald statement that witnesses pertinent to new claim were not deposed and were no longer available was insufficient to support its claim of prejudice, absent identification of witnesses or documents that were no longer available or how they were necessary to defense of cause of action under § 181, and (2) amended complaint did not include any new facts but only different theory of liability. Danise v Agway Energy Prods., 255 A.D.2d 731, 680 N.Y.S.2d 723, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11918 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Defendants, company which removed underground storage tanks at gasoline service station and company hired to investigate extent of contamination and continued to monitor site for 6 years, were improperly granted summary judgment where they failed to raise issue of immunity under CLS Nav § 178-a, and they could be found strictly liable for discharge of petroleum under CLS Nav § 172(8). Hilltop Nyack Corp. v TRMI Holdings, Inc., 264 A.D.2d 503, 694 N.Y.S.2d 717, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8914 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999), aff'd in part, modified, 272 A.D.2d 521, 708 N.Y.S.2d 138, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5801 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Defendant, city which sold property to plaintiffs at public auction, was properly granted summary judgment in action under CLS Nav § 181(5) where plaintiff's conceded that defendant did not cause or contribute to discharge from underground petroleum storage tanks. Popolizio v City of Schenectady, 269 A.D.2d 670, 701 N.Y.S.2d 755, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1280 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Trial court erred, in customers' claim pursuant to N.Y. Nav. Law § 181 arising from a fuel spill, in precluding evidence of other oil conditions on the premises other than the overfill of the first oil tank, including a leak in a second oil tank, because the majority of the damages claim was that the customers' business inventory, which remained on the premises after the discharge at issue, became unmarketable as a result of petroleum vapors, the customers presented evidence that the premises still smelled of oil six months after the discharge, and the customers argued in summation that this showed that the spill was much larger than the fuel company admitted; under these circumstances, a new trial was warranted. Although an attorney's fee and litigation costs were recoverable in an action pursuant to N.Y. Nav. Law § 181, because the amount awarded for the attorney's fee was based upon the judgment, that award was subject to reversal as well. Fuchs & Bergh, Inc. v Lance Enters., Inc., 48 A.D.3d 626, 853 N.Y.S.2d 106, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1565 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

In plaintiff's action to recover petroleum cleanup costs from defendant owners of an oil storage facility, the supreme court held that plaintiffs were entitled to recover the $221,192 expended by the Leaking Underground Storage Tank Fund because the federal appropriation was not "compensation" for cleanup costs under Navigation Law § 193; recovery of the disputed funds would make plaintiff whole for the cleanup costs and replenish the Leaking Underground Storage Tank Fund so that the recovered funds could be used to pay for other remediation work. Plaintiff's recoupment of the $221,192 would not amount to a double recovery. State of New York v Ronney, 163 A.D.3d 1315, 81 N.Y.S.3d 647, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5313 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

Defendant was properly denied summary judgment, as plaintiffs' evidence could support the conclusion that defendant used certain pipes as part of an active fuel distribution system and that a large quantity of fuel oil spilled out of those pipes, plaintiffs' experts identified numerous flaws in the methodology used to date the contamination to some earlier spill, and plaintiffs' experts identified a particular "T-joint" that defendant could have capped. Plainview Props. SPE, LLC v County of Nassau, 181 A.D.3d 731, 121 N.Y.S.3d 338, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1681 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

Plaintiff, a company in the business of cleaning up petroleum spills hired by the State Department of Transportation to contain and clean up liquid asphalt emulsion from a tanker owned by defendant, could sue defendant directly to recover the cost of cleanup without first making a claim against the New York Environmental Protection and Spill Compensation Fund; however, a plaintiff could not sue defendant's insurer directly to recover the cost of cleanup. Domermuth Petroleum Equipment & Maintenance Corp. v Gorman Bros., Inc., 127 Misc. 2d 323, 485 N.Y.S.2d 705, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2597 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Mere delivery of gasoline to underground storage tank, absent other factors, was insufficient to render gasoline supplier liable as discharger under CLS Nav § 181(1); it would be unduly burdensome to extend liability for petroleum discharges to petroleum suppliers without some proof that supplier either caused or contributed to discharge, or that it possessed ability to anticipate and/or prevent discharge. State v Cronin, 186 Misc. 2d 809, 717 N.Y.S.2d 828, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 476 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

Where a property owner failed to establish as a matter of law that a gasoline spill from underground storage tanks did not occur during any of the time that he owned the property, the trial court erred in granting summary judgment to him on his claim of statutory indemnification against a gas company that previously owned the property, pursuant to N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5). State of New York v Passalacqua, 19 A.D.3d 786, 797 N.Y.S.2d 576, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6163 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

In an action filed by a property buyer to recover damages for fraud, negligence, and other claims arising out of contamination on his property from spills that took place before he bought it, the buyer's theory that the complaint stated a cause of action against a corporation for violating N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) was without merit; the theory was raised for the first time on appeal, and the complaint did not support it. Ozelkan v Tyree Bros. Envtl. Servs., Inc., 29 A.D.3d 877, 815 N.Y.S.2d 265, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6887 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Former operator of a manufactured gas plant could not pursue a claim under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(1) against property owners and former owners to recover the operator's cleanup costs related to petroleum discharges, as the operator was at fault for at least some of the petroleum discharge at the site. However, the operator could seek contribution under N.Y. Nav. Law § 176(8), which did not bar a responsible party from bringing a claim. Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. v Chevron U.S.A., Inc., 596 F.3d 112, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 3859 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2010).

Fire company was exempt from any liability under N.Y. Nav. Law § 181 because it did not act negligently when it extinguished the fire at plaintiffs' industrial facility and was not negligent when it used a pay loader to move debris around after the fire because in all likelihood, the kerosene that had been contained in the containers probably burned in the fire and did not contribute to the contamination of the storm drains or the recharge basin. AMW Materials Testing, Inc. v Town of Babylon, 348 F. Supp. 2d 4, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25511 (E.D.N.Y. 2004), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 187 Fed. Appx. 24, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 8545 (2d Cir. 2006).

Building owner's N.Y. Nav. Law § 181 claim against a bank failed because the record showed there was no evidence of a discharge of hazardous materials during the 10-day period the bank held the property to monitor its security, and the bank, as a mere secured creditor, was exempted from liability under navigation law. Schenectady Indus. Corp. v Upstate Textiles, Inc., 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 95910 (N.D.N.Y. Nov. 24, 2008).

Fact issues as to whether and to what extent the tenants contributed to or caused the discharge of petroleum in and around a landlord's buildings during their use and occupancy precluded summary judgment on the landlord's N.Y. Nav. Law §§ 176(8) and 181(5) claims. Schenectady Indus. Corp. v Upstate Textiles, Inc., 689 F. Supp. 2d 282, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6138 (N.D.N.Y. 2010).

Defendants' nonrenewal of a gas station operator's franchise was proper under the Petroleum Marketing Practices Act because there were no material issue of fact as to defendants having decided in good faith and in the normal course of business to sell the premises, defendants made a bona fide offer to sell the premises to the operator, and a tank-removal provision was not a creature of bad faith or some "conspiracy" to put the operator out of business. Scarsdale Cent. Serv. v Cumberland Farms, Inc., 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18850 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 13, 2015).

13. Defenses

Current property owner's action under this statue was barred by releases executed by the former owner and the gas station operator because although the releases were ambiguous on their faces as to whether they encompassed unknown claims for environmental contamination, the current owner failed to adduce evidence to support a finding that the releases did not, whereas the operator adduced evidence showing that the releases were intended to be general releases. Burnside 711, LLC v Amerada Hess Corp., 175 A.D.3d 557, 106 N.Y.S.3d 368, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6228 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

A former tenant established a defense to an assignee's action to recover purported remediation costs in connection with a 1992 petroleum spill, asserted under the common law, the contract between the former tenant and one of the intermediaries, and the Navigation Law because the former tenant performed its remediation obligations under the contract and received a "no further action" letter from the Department of Environmental Conservation. 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9267.

Trial court properly denied a borrower's motion for partial summary judgment in a surviving lender's action to foreclose on a purchase money mortgage because there were triable issues of fact as to whether the borrower's counterclaims under the innocent lender exemption to liability were precluded by the parties' completion agreement, and the borrower failed to establish as a matter of law that, by executing the completion agreement, he did not release the deceased lender and the lender's assignee. Mason v Caruana, 177 A.D.3d 1295, 110 N.Y.S.3d 763, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8052 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2019).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

1. Discharge

Unpublished decision: Statutory cross-claims were dismissed on the basis of defendant-appellee's previously established status as a "discharger." Under neither N.Y. Nav. Law § 181(5) nor § 176(8) was defendant-appellee's status as a "discharger" alone sufficient to bar its recovery, and defendant-appellant's cross-claims against defendant-appellee for damages under § 181(5) were improperly dismissed. Lambrinos v Exxon Mobil Corp., 349 Fed. Appx. 613, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 22879 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2009).

§ 102. Definitions

(a) As used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires, the term:

(1) "Bonds" includes secured and unsecured bonds, debentures, and notes.

(2) "By-laws" means the code or codes of rules adopted for the regulation or management of the affairs of the corporation irrespective of the name or names by which such rules are designated.

(3) "Certificate of incorporation" includes (A) the original certificate of incorporation or any other instrument filed or issued under any statute to form a domestic or foreign corporation, as amended, supplemented or restated by certificates of amendment, merger or consolidation or other certificates or instruments filed or issued under any statute; or (B) a special act or charter creating a domestic or foreign corporation, as amended, supplemented or restated.

(3-a) "Charitable corporation" means any corporation formed, or for the purposes of this chapter, deemed to be formed, for charitable purposes.

(3-b) "Charitable purposes" of a corporation means one or more of the following purposes: charitable, educational, religious, scientific, literary, cultural or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

(4) "Conducting of activities" of a corporation means the operations for the conduct of which such corporation is formed and may constitute "doing of business" or "transaction of business" as those terms are used in the statutes of this state.

(5) "Corporation" or "domestic corporation" means a corporation (1) formed under this chapter, or existing on its effective date and theretofore formed under any other general statute or by any special act of this state, exclusively for a purpose or purposes, not for pecuniary profit or financial gain, for which a corporation may be formed under this chapter, and (2) no part of the assets, income or profit of which is distributable to, or enures to the benefit of, its members, directors or officers except to the extent permitted under this statute.

(6) "Director" means any member of the governing board of a corporation, whether designated as director, trustee, manager, governor, or by any other title. The term "board" means "board of directors" or any other body constituting a "governing board" as defined in this section.

(6-a) "Entire board" means the total number of directors entitled to vote which the corporation would have if there were no vacancies. If the by-laws of the corporation provide that the board shall consist of a fixed number of directors, then the "entire board" shall consist of that number of directors. If the by-laws of any corporation provide that the board may consist of a range between a minimum and maximum number of directors, and the number within that range has not been fixed in accordance with paragraph (a) of section seven hundred two of this chapter, then the "entire board" shall consist of the number of directors within such range that were elected or appointed as of the most recently held election of directors, as well as any directors whose terms have not yet expired.

(7) "Foreign corporation" means a corporation formed under laws other than the statutes of this state, which, if formed under the statutes of this state, would be within the term "corporation or domestic corporation" as herein defined. "Authorized", when used with respect to a foreign corporation, means having authority under Article 13 (Foreign Corporations) to conduct activities of the corporation in this state.

(7-a) "Infant" or "minor" means any person who has not attained the age of eighteen years.

(8) "Insolvent" means being unable to pay debts as they become due in the usual course of the debtor's business.

(9) "Member" means one having membership rights in a corporation in accordance with the provisions of its certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

(9-a) "Non-charitable corporation" means any corporation formed under this chapter, other than a charitable corporation, including but not limited to one formed for any one or more of the following non-pecuniary purposes: civic, patriotic, political, social, fraternal, athletic, agricultural, horticultural, or animal husbandry, or for the purpose of operating a professional, commercial, industrial, trade or service association.

(10) "Not-for-profit corporation" means a corporation as defined in subparagraph (5).

(11) "Office of a corporation" means the office the location of which is stated in the certificate of incorporation of a domestic corporation, or in the application for authority of a foreign corporation or an amendment thereof. Such office need not be a place where activities are conducted by such corporation.

(12) "Process" means judicial process and all orders, demands, notices or other papers required or permitted by law to be personally served on a domestic or foreign corporation, for the purpose of acquiring jurisdiction of such corporation in any action or proceeding, civil or criminal, whether judicial, administrative, arbitrative or otherwise, in this state or in the federal courts sitting in or for this state.

(15) "Governing board" means the body responsible for the management of a corporation or of an institutional fund.

(16) "Historic dollar value" means the aggregate fair value in dollars of (i) an endowment fund at the time it became an endowment fund, (ii) each subsequent donation to the fund at the time it is made, and (iii) each accumulation made pursuant to a direction in the applicable gift instrument at the time the accumulation is added to the fund. The determination of historic dollar value made in good faith by the corporation is conclusive.

(17) [Repealed]

(18) "Authorized person" means a person, whether or not a member, officer, or director, who is authorized to act on behalf of a corporation or foreign corporation.

(19) An "affiliate" of a corporation means any entity controlled by, or in control of, such corporation.

(20) "Independent auditor" means any certified public accountant performing the audit of the financial statements of a corporation required by subdivision one of section one hundred seventy-two-b of the executive law.

(21) "Independent director" means a director who: (i) is not, and has not been within the last three years, an employee or a key person of the corporation or an affiliate of the corporation, and does not have a relative who is, or has been within the last three years, a key person of the corporation or an affiliate of the corporation; (ii) has not received, and does not have a relative who has received, in any of the last three fiscal years, more than ten thousand dollars in direct compensation from the corporation or an affiliate of the corporation; (iii) is not a current employee of or does not have a substantial financial interest in, and does not have a relative who is a current officer of or has a substantial financial interest in, any entity that has provided payments, property or services to, or received payments, property or services from, the corporation or an affiliate of the corporation if the amount paid by the corporation to the entity or received by the corporation from the entity for such property or services, in any of the last three fiscal years, exceeded the lesser of ten thousand dollars or two percent of such entity's consolidated gross revenues if the entity's consolidated gross revenue was less than five hundred thousand dollars; twenty-five thousand dollars if the entity's consolidated gross revenue was five hundred thousand dollars or more but less than ten million dollars; one hundred thousand dollars if the entity's consolidated gross revenue was ten million dollars or more; or (iv) is not and does not have a relative who is a current owner, whether wholly or partially, director, officer or employee of the corporation's outside auditor or who has worked on the corporation's audit at any time during the past three years. For purposes of this subparagraph, the terms: "compensation" does not include reimbursement for expenses reasonably incurred as a director or reasonable compensation for service as a director as permitted by paragraph (a) of section 202 (General and special powers) of this chapter; and "payment" does not include charitable contributions, dues or fees paid to the corporation for services which the corporation performs as part of its nonprofit purposes, or payments made by the corporation at fixed or non-negotiable rates or amounts for services received, provided that such services by and to the corporation are available to individual members of the public on the same terms, and such services received by the corporation are not available from another source.

(22) "Relative" of an individual means (i) his or her spouse or domestic partner as defined in section twenty-nine hundred ninety-four-a of the public health law; (ii) his or her ancestors, brothers and sisters (whether whole or half blood), children (whether natural or adopted), grandchildren, great-grandchildren; or (iii) the spouse or domestic partner of his or her brothers, sisters, children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren.

(23) "Related party" means (i) any director, officer or key person of the corporation or any affiliate of the corporation; (ii) any relative of any individual described in clause (i) of this subparagraph; or (iii) any entity in which any individual described in clauses (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph has a thirty-five percent or greater ownership or beneficial interest or, in the case of a partnership or professional corporation, a direct or indirect ownership interest in excess of five percent.

(24) "Related party transaction" means any transaction, agreement or any other arrangement in which a related party has a financial interest and in which the corporation or any affiliate of the corporation is a participant, except that a transaction shall not be a related party transaction if: (i) the transaction or the related party's financial interest in the transaction is de minimis, (ii) the transaction would not customarily be reviewed by the board or boards of similar organizations in the ordinary course of business and is available to others on the same or similar terms, or (iii) the transaction constitutes a benefit provided to a related party solely as a member of a class of the beneficiaries that the corporation intends to benefit as part of the accomplishment of its mission which benefit is available to all similarly situated members of the same class on the same terms.

(25) "Key person" means any person, other than a director or officer, whether or not an employee of the corporation, who (i) has responsibilities, or exercises powers or influence over the corporation as a whole similar to the responsibilities, powers, or influence of directors and officers; (ii) manages the corporation, or a segment of the corporation that represents a substantial portion of the activities, assets, income or expenses of the corporation; or (iii) alone or with others controls or determines a substantial portion of the corporation's capital expenditures or operating budget.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Gen Corp Law § 3, subd 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17, and Mem Corp Law § 2.

Revision Notes: § 102(a).

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: This provision was included to make clear that the context in which a defined term is used controls the applicability of the definition set forth in this section.

§ 102(a)(1).

Source: None.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: The Gen Corp L does not contain a definition of "bonds". For purposes of this chapter, the term "bonds" should include both secured and unsecured bonds, debentures and notes. This definition is taken from the Bus Corp L.

§ 102(a)(2).

Source: None.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: The definition of "by-laws" is substantially taken from § 2(e) of the Model Non-Profit Corporation Act of the American Bar Association. It includes the basic code of rules whether they be called "constitution", "constitution and by-laws", "by-laws" or "charter". It is intended to cover the basic code immediately subordinate to the certificate of incorporation.

Source: Gen Corp L § 3(14).

Changes: Revised and extended.

Comment: This is taken from the Bus Corp L § 102(a)(3). The definition in the Gen Corp L has been extended to encompass the original certificate of incorporation or any other instrument filed or issued to form a domestic or foreign corporation, or a special act creating a domestic or foreign corporation, as amended, supplemented or restated.

Source: Gen Corp L § 3(17).

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This is substantially similar to the definition of "business of a corporation" in the Gen Corp L. It is intended to be substantially the same as "doing of business" and "transaction of business".

Changes: Revised.

Comment: The definition of "corporation" and "domestic corporation", equating the two terms, has been included for convenience of drafting (see § 201). It includes any corporation which meets two tests, (1) formed for a purpose, not for pecuniary profit or financial gain, permitted under § 201 and (2) no flow-through of assets, income or profit to or for the benefit of its members, directors or officers except as permitted under this chapter. The use of these terms must be read with § 103 (Application) in determining the meaning of the terms as they are used in this chapter.

Changes: Revised and extended.

Comment: This is taken from Bus Corp L § 102(a)(5). The word "director" means a member of the governing board of the corporation regardless of his official title. The term "board" means "board of directors" (see § 708).

Source: Gen Corp L § 3(12).

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This is similar to the definition of "foreign corporation" in Bus Corp L § 102(a)(7). A requirement is added that, if it were to be formed under the statutes of this state, it would come within the definition of the term "corporation" or "domestic corporation" as defined in this chapter. Under this definition a corporation formed by or under the laws of the United States is a foreign corporation unless it otherwise comes within the definition.

§ 102(a)(8).

Source: None.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: This is the definition from the Bus Corp L § 102(a)(8). To avoid confusion between the "equity" and "bankruptcy" meanings of the word "insolvent", the term has been defined in the equity sense, which is the one that has greater applicability in this chapter. The wording of the definition is substantially that of Model Non-Profit Corporation Act § 2(n).

Source: Gen Corp L § 3(15).

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This is an adaptation of the definition "member of a corporation" in Gen Corp L § 3(15). It is verbatim from the Model Non-Profit Corporation Act.

§ 102(a)(10).

Source: None.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: See comment under definition of "corporation" or "domestic corporation" in subparagraph (5) above.

Source: Gen Corp L § 3(16).

Changes: Revised and reworded.

Comment: This is an adaptation of the definition in Bus Corp L § 102(a)(10). Defining "office of a corporation" (i.e., domestic corporation—see § 102(a)(5)) as the office the location of which is stated in the certificate of incorporation represents a change from Gen Corp L § 3(16) which defines the term as the "principal office within the state, or principal place of business within the state if it has no principal office therein". The same principle is applied to foreign corporations.

§ 102(a)(12).

Source: None.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: This is the definition from the Bus Corp L § 102(a)(11). The definition of the term "process" has been included for convenience of drafting.

Editor's Notes Laws 1978, ch 690, § 11, provides as follows:

§ 11. This act may be cited as the "New York management of institutional funds act".

Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes The 2016 amendment by ch 466, § 1, rewrote (a)(21), and (a)(23) through (a)(25).

The 2015 amendment by ch 555, § 1, in the last sentence of (a)(6-a), added "and the number within that range has not been fixed in accordance with paragraph (a) of section seven hundred two of this chapter," "or appointed," and "as well as any directors whose terms have not yet expired"; deleted "or under common control with" following "in control of" in (a)(19); in (a)(21), added "or (iv) is not and does not have a relative who is a current owner, whether wholly or partially, director, officer or employee of the corporation's outside auditor or who has worked on the corporation's audit at any time during the past three years" in the first sentence and rewrote the second sentence, which formerly read: "For purposes of this subparagraph, 'payment' does not include charitable contributions"; rewrote (a)(22) and (a)(23); added "to the extent such provisions are applicable" in (a)(25); and made a related change.

Plaintiff was entitled to summary judgment declaring null and void certain deeds conveying certain properties from plaintiff to defendant where (1) plaintiff was not-for-profit corporation whose board of directors never authorized challenged conveyances, (2) defendant's claim that plaintiff's then-president conveyed properties in order to satisfy his personal debt to defendant did nothing to advance, and even undermined, legitimacy of transactions, because no part of not-for-profit corporation's assets may inure to benefit of its members, and (3) no triable issue of fact was raised as to president's apparent authority, because sole evidence thereof was president's own representations at time of transactions. Stand Up Harlem Inc. v Miller, 286 A.D.2d 644, 730 N.Y.S.2d 437, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8820 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Holders' claims under the N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law challenging a board of trade merger were not viable because N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 102(a)(9) expressly delegated to the board of trade the right to designate members in its certificate of incorporation or by-laws, and the board of trade's by-laws clearly provided that the holders did not have any of the rights or privileges of members under the N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law. Altman v New York Bd. of Trade, Inc., 52 A.D.3d 396, 860 N.Y.S.2d 94, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5659 (N.Y. Parishioners lacked standing to challenge the sale of a church's property as they were not members of the religious corporation; the church was managed by a five-member board of trustees consisting of the diocesan bishop, the vicar general of the diocese, the rector of the church and two laypersons selected by the other trustees, and the custody and control of the religious corporation's real property was vested in the board of trustees. Citizens for St. Patrick's v Saint Patrick's Church of W. Troy, 117 A.D.3d 1213, 985 N.Y.S.2d 743, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3259 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2014).

Trial court properly granted a petition for judicial dissolution of a fire department (the FD) because its members presented affidavits or other competent evidence in support of their request to add two additional members of the FD as petitioners, a town and the Attorney General were necessary parties, the court's determination that the FD was no longer able to carry out the purpose or purposes for which it was formed was based on a fair interpretation of the evidence, the court properly considered the "paramount" issue of the benefit of dissolution to the members of the FD, and its determination that dissolution would benefit the members was supported by the evidence. Matter of Inzer v West Brighton Fire Dept., Inc., 173 A.D.3d 1826, 105 N.Y.S.3d 655, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5256 (N.Y. A charitable bequest made to petitioner nonprofit hospital under a 1924 will, presently valued at $850,000, "to be used by said hospital to endow charity beds . . . and for charitable purposes only," as a memorial to decedent and his sister would be an endowment under Not for Profit Corporation Law § 102(a)(13) in view of decedent's clear intent to bestow upon petitioner a permanent fund as memorial and, as such, would be governed by Not for Profit Corporation Law § 102(a)(16) requiring the governing board of the corporation to at all times retain the "historic dollar value" of the gift, representing principal payments received by petitioner between 1926 and 1962, and petitioner would be entitled to expend any amount in excess of the "historic dollar value" of the endowment for such hospital purposes as would be deemed prudent by its board of trustees under former Not for Profit Corporation Law § 513(c) where the will specifically stated that the fund was to be used for charity beds "and for charitable purposes," there no longer being a need for charity beds; since the very nature of petitioner's operation is charitable, any expenditure that is necessary to further its operation is within the framework of the "charitable purposes" intended by the testator. In re Estate of McKenna, 114 Misc. 2d 304, 451 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3473 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1982).

Business improvement district that was organized as a nonprofit entity but operated a taxi service was not immune from suit by a customer who claimed that the district's employees acted negligently when they established a taxi dispatch area near a defect in a roadway, and the trial court denied the district's motion for summary judgment on the customer's claim that she was injured when she stepped off a curb to enter a taxi because the customer raised issues of fact about whether the district knew or should have known about the condition which caused her injury. Hendryx v City of New York, 776 N.Y.S.2d 763, 3 Misc. 3d 512, 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 234 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2004).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 2

Since above statute limits membership corporations to those not organized for pecuniary profit and Insurance Law § 250 provides for organization of membership corporations for purpose of issuing medical expense indemnity policies, such corporations organized under that statute cannot operate for profit. Shapira v United Medical Service, Inc., 15 N.Y.2d 200, 257 N.Y.S.2d 150, 205 N.E.2d 293, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1581 (N.Y. 1965).

A corporation created by special statute and not organized under this law is not governed by its provisions. Petition of Sousa, 12 A.D.2d 956, 211 N.Y.S.2d 204, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12759 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), rev'd, 10 N.Y.2d 68, 217 N.Y.S.2d 58, 176 N.E.2d 77, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1167 (N.Y. 1961).

Mandamus will not issue to compel the respondent to accept an executed certificate of consolidation of a corporation created under provisions of the Stock Corporation Law with one created under provisions of the Membership Corporation Law, since that writ will only issue to compel performance of a prescribed act to which the petitioner had a clear legal right. Debs Memorial Radio Fund, Inc. v Lomenzo, 50 Misc. 2d 51, 269 N.Y.S.2d 632, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2253 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Fact that certain town fire corporations were legalized and other fire corporations created under general law made subject to the statute's provisions did not make the Firemen's Benevolent Fund Association of the City of Mount Vernon a membership corporation, for purpose of determining effectiveness of 1930 amendment to certificate of incorporation changing membership requirements, since the Association was created by special law. Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Ass'n, 79 Misc. 2d 536, 359 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Asso., 45 A.D.2d 955, 359 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

3. —Engaging in business for profit

The test of whether a corporation is engaged in business for a pecuniary profit cannot rest upon the financial results of its operations, retrospectively or currently or even prospectively; the court rather must regard the nature rather than the results of its activities. Kubik v American Composers Alliance, Inc., 54 N.Y.S.2d 764, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1763 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

A membership corporation made up of the composers of serious music, which takes assignments of performing rights to the compositions of its members and licenses such rights for a consideration, thereby producing some income for distribution to the members, is engaged in an activity for pecuniary profit which is not permitted to a membership corporation. Kubik v American Composers Alliance, Inc., 54 N.Y.S.2d 764, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1763 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

4. — —Right to own productive property

A membership corporation is not prohibited from owning productive property if the income is devoted to legitimate purposes of the corporation. Burton Potter Post v Epstein, 219 N.Y.S.2d 224, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3635 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

5. —Membership corporations; generally

A corporation which has no authorization either in its certificate of incorporation or by statute to connect it with a business for profit or to distribute profits among its stockholders, and whose certificates are not transferable and can only be assigned to another member of the corporation, and in case of the death of the member are purchasable by the corporation at their issued value, so that a member can in no case realize a profit, is a membership corporation within the meaning of this section rather than a stock corporation within the meaning of General Corporation Law § 3. Stationers' & Publishers' Board of Trade v Flynn, 226 A.D. 496, 235 N.Y.S. 58, 1929 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8759 (N.Y. App. Div. 1929).

The American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is not a membership corporation. Bailey v American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, 282 A.D. 502, 125 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4503 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953), aff'd, 307 N.Y. 679, 120 N.E.2d 853, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 679, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1423 (N.Y. 1954).

A corporation formed for "benevolent, charitable, literary and scientific purposes and mutual improvement of religious knowledge" is a membership corporation and its character as such is not affected by an insertion in the certificate of incorporation that "the amount of the capital stock of the said association is $20,000 and is divided into 2,000 shares at $10 each." Bartlett v Lily Dale Assembly, 249 N.Y.S. 482, 139 Misc. 338, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931), dismissed, Ackerman v Fletcher, 6 A.D.2d 758, 174 N.Y.S.2d 903, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5892 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1958), dismissed, 6 A.D.2d 758, 174 N.Y.S.2d 913, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7384 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1958)

6. — —Effect of issuance of stock

A corporation formed for educational purposes, and in which shares of stock have been issued, is not a membership corporation within the meaning of this section. Rye Country Day School v Lynch, 239 A.D. 614, 269 N.Y.S. 761, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10902 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934), aff'd, 266 N.Y. 549, 195 N.E. 194, 266 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 549, 1935 N.Y. LEXIS 1438 (N.Y. 1935).

7. — —Effect of excessive solicitor's commissions

The certificate of incorporation of a membership corporation will be revoked where it appears from an investigation of the Attorney General that 40 per cent of the sums collected ostensibly in the form of contributions by the organization to advance its charitable purposes, actually was used for the payment of solicitor's commissions, thereby violating the provision of this section that membership corporations must be operated for purposes other than pecuniary gain. Bennett v American-Canadian Ambulance Corps, 37 N.Y.S.2d 470, 179 Misc. 21, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2047 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

8. — —Right to maintain action for slander

A membership corporation, which is not permitted to engage in any business for pecuniary profit cannot maintain an action for slander in the absence of an allegation of special damages, since its credit could not be affected, and no pecuniary injury could be occasioned to it. Electrical Board of Trade v Sheehan, 214 A.D. 712, 210 N.Y.S. 127, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6950 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925).

9. — —Tax liability

The liability of a social club for tax, under the Revenue Act, on the sale of tickets to an amusement place depends on whether the club is the agent of its members in procuring theatre tickets for which a service charge is made, and this is a matter of intention between the parties, as manifested by their acts and by all surrounding circumstances. Columbia University Club v Higgins, 23 F. Supp. 572, 1938 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2228 (S.D.N.Y. 1938).

A social club is not liable for tax where the relationship of agent and principal existed between club and member where the member controlled the purchase of tickets, with respect to time, location and price, and had the final say as to whether it would accept those which the club was able to obtain although the ticket broker billed the club monthly for the tickets purchased. Columbia University Club v Higgins, 23 F. Supp. 572, 1938 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2228 (S.D.N.Y. 1938).

10. —Bankruptcy proceedings

A country club which operates a golf course for the pleasure of its members, and which was organized under this section, cannot be the object of involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy. In re Elmsford Country Club, 50 F.2d 238, 1931 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1383 (D.N.Y. 1931).

11. —Right of action of member

Minority members of a membership corporation could not complain that corporation had, by illegally adopting by-laws in 1900 and 1907, usurped excessive powers and made board of directors self perpetuating by permitting the then board to elect their successors and permitting further changes in by-laws without their consent. The 1900 and 1907 irregularities had been affirmed and ratified by the members, and in any event, by-laws of such a corporation organized for non-profit purposes permitting self-perpetuation of board of directors did not infringe on any property right or enforceable right of ordinary members. Bailey v American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, 307 N.Y. 679, 120 N.E.2d 853, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 679, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1423 (N.Y. 1954).

A member of a membership corporation, who has actively participated in activities of the corporation designed to promote pecuniary gain, is not thereby estopped from asserting the illegality of the activities of the corporation. Kubik v American Composers Alliance, Inc., 54 N.Y.S.2d 764, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1763 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

12. —Miscellaneous

An order granted on affidavits alone, without trial permanently enjoining a local non-profit trading association from using a name was not justified where respondent's affidavit alleged circumstances indicating good faith and a right to use the name. Association of Contracting Plumbers, Inc. v Contracting Plumbers Ass'n, 302 N.Y. 495, 99 N.E.2d 542, 302 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 495, 1951 N.Y. LEXIS 709 (N.Y. 1951).

A membership corporation conducting a collection agency for charitable hospitals is not a charitable corporation so as to exempt it from the prohibition against the practice of law by corporations. Hospital Credit Exchange, Inc. v Shapiro, 59 N.Y.S.2d 812, 186 Misc. 658, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1790 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1946).

§ 103. Application

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, this chapter applies to every domestic corporation as herein defined, and to every foreign corporation as herein defined which is authorized to conduct or which conducts any activities in this state. This chapter also applies to any other domestic corporation or foreign corporation of any kind to the extent, if any, provided under this chapter or any law governing such corporation and, if no such provision for application is made, to the extent, if any, that the membership corporations law applied to such corporation as of the effective date of this chapter. A corporation formed by a special act of this state which has as its principal purpose an education purpose and which is a member of the university of the state of New York, is an "education corporation" under section two hundred sixteen-a of the education law.

To the extent that the membership corporations law or the general corporation law applied to it as of the effective date of this chapter, the corresponding provisions of this chapter apply to a corporation heretofore formed by or pursuant to a special act of this state other than a religious corporation or an "education corporation" under clause (b) of subdivision one of section two hundred sixteen-a of the education law, if (1) its principal purpose is a religious, charitable or education purpose, and (2) it is operated, supervised or controlled by or in connection with a religious organization. Any such corporation may at any time after the effective date of this chapter file a restated certificate of incorporation under section 805 (restated certificate of incorporation) including a statement that it elects to have this chapter apply in all respects to it. The restated certificate of incorporation shall conform with the requirements of section 402 (certificate of incorporation; contents) for new corporations. Upon the filing of such certificate by the department of state, this chapter shall apply in all respects to such corporation.

This chapter also applies to any other corporation of any kind, formed not-for-profit under any other chapter of the laws of this state except a chapter of the consolidated laws, to the extent that provisions of this chapter do not conflict with the provisions of such unconsolidated law. If an applicable provision of such unconsolidated law relates to a matter embraced in this chapter but is not in conflict therewith, both provisions shall apply. Any corporation to which this chapter is made applicable by this paragraph shall be treated as a "corporation" or "domestic corporation" as such terms are used in this chapter, except that the purposes of any such corporation formed or formable under such unconsolidated law shall not thereby be extended. For the purpose of this paragraph, the effective date of this chapter as to corporations to which this chapter is made applicable by this paragraph shall be September one, nineteen hundred seventy-three.

(b) The general corporation law does not apply to a corporation of any kind to which this chapter applies. A reference in any statute of this state which makes a provision of the general corporation law applicable to a corporation of any kind to which this chapter is applicable or a reference in any statute of this state, other than the membership corporations law, which makes a provision of the membership corporations law applicable to a corporation of any kind shall be deemed and construed to refer to and make applicable the corresponding provision, if any, of this chapter.

(c) If any provision in articles one to thirteen inclusive of this chapter conflicts with a provision of any subsequent articles or of any special act under which a corporation to which this chapter applies is formed, the provision in such subsequent article or special act prevails. A provision of any such subsequent article or special act relating to a matter referred to in articles one to thirteen inclusive and not in conflict therewith is supplemental and both shall apply. Whenever the board of a corporation, formed under a special act, reasonably makes an interpretation as to whether a provision of the special act or this chapter prevails, or both apply, such interpretation shall govern unless and until a court determines otherwise, if such board has acted in good faith for a purpose which it reasonably believes to be in the best interests of the corporation, provided however, that such interpretation shall not bind any governmental body or officer.

(d) A corporation whose formation under this chapter is authorized by another corporate law is, unless otherwise provided by such corporate law, subject to all the provisions of this chapter that are applicable to a charitable corporation formed under this chapter.

(e) This chapter applies to commerce with foreign nations and among the several states, and to corporations formed by or under any act of congress, only to the extent permitted under the constitution and laws of the United States.

(f) The enactment of this chapter shall not affect the duration of a corporation which is existing on the effective date of this chapter. Any such existing corporation, its members, directors and officers shall have the same rights and be subject to the same limitations, restrictions, liabilities and penalties as a corporation formed under this chapter, its members, directors and officers.

(g) This chapter shall not affect any cause of action, liability, penalty or action or special proceeding, which on the effective date of this chapter, is accrued, existing, incurred or pending but the same may be asserted, enforced, prosecuted or defended as if this chapter had not been enacted.

Comment: Upon its effective date, this chapter applies to all existing corporations as defined in § 102(a)(5) as well as to corporations thereafter formed under this chapter. It applies to any corporations to the extent that the Mem Corp L applied as of the effective date. This chapter does not apply to any corporation to which the Education Law, Religious Corporations Law or Benevolent Orders Law is applicable or to certain corporations formed under special acts.

The application of this chapter is exclusive in that if it applies to a corporation the Gen Corp L does not apply. Any reference in any statute which makes a provision of the Gen Corp L applicable to a corporation under that statute or makes a provision of the Mem Corp L applicable to any corporation is deemed to refer to and make applicable the corresponding provision, if any, of this chapter.

Articles 1–13 are superseded if there is a contrary provision in Article 14 covering special not-for-profit corporations. If there are common but non-conflicting provisions, both apply.

This chapter applies to interstate and foreign activities and to federally formed corporations only to the extent permitted by the United States Constitution and federal law.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

§ 104. Certificates; requirements, signing, filing, effectiveness

(a) Every certificate or other instrument relating to a domestic or foreign corporation which is delivered to the department of state for filing under this chapter, other than a certificate of existence under section 1304 (Application for authority; contents), shall be in the English language, except that the corporate name may be in another language if written in English letters or characters.

(b) [Repealed]

(c) Whenever such instrument is required to set forth the date of incorporation or the date when a certificate of incorporation was filed, the original certificate of incorporation is meant. This requirement shall be satisfied, in the case of a corporation created by special act, by setting forth the chapter number and year of passage of such act.

(d) Every such certificate required under this chapter to be signed and delivered to the department of state shall, except as otherwise specified in the section providing for such certificate, be signed either by an officer, director, attorney-in-fact or duly authorized person and include the name and the capacity in which such person signs such certificate.

(e) If an instrument which is delivered to the department of state for filing complies as to form with the requirements of law and there has been attached to it the consent or approval of the supreme court justice, governmental body or officer, or, other person or body, if any, whose consent to or approval of such instrument or the filing thereof is required by any statute of this state and the filing fee and tax, if any, required by any statute of this state in connection therewith have been paid, the instrument shall be filed and indexed by the department of state. No certificate of authentication or conformity or other proof shall be required with respect to any verification, oath or acknowledgment of any instrument delivered to the department of state under this chapter, if such verification, oath or acknowledgment purports to have been made before a notary public, or person performing the equivalent function, of one of the states, or any subdivision thereof, of the United States or the District of Columbia. Without limiting the effect of section four hundred three of this chapter, filing and indexing by the department of state shall not be deemed a finding that a certificate conforms to law, nor shall it be deemed to constitute an approval by the department of state of the name of the corporation or the contents of the certificate, nor shall it be deemed to prevent any person with appropriate standing from contesting the legality thereof in an appropriate forum.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, such instrument shall become effective upon the filing thereof by the department of state.

(g) The department shall make, certify and transmit electronically a copy of each such instrument to the clerk of the county in which the office of the domestic or foreign corporation is or is to be located. The county clerk shall file and index such copy.

Analysis

1. Generally
2. Under former General Corporation Law § 8

1. Generally

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law mandates the Secretary of State to accept for filing a certificate of incorporation which meets the formal requirements of the statute and sets forth corporate purposes that are lawful. Gay Activists Alliance v Lomenzo, 31 N.Y.2d 965, 341 N.Y.S.2d 108, 293 N.E.2d 255, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1527 (N.Y. 1973).

Filing of an amendatory certificate of incorporation commences the effective date of the amendment; approval of a Supreme Court justice is a mere condition precedent to the right to file the amendment and is not conclusive on either the public or Secretary of State; however, such approval indicates that the purpose of the amendment is lawful and an acceptance by the Secretary enforces such view. Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Ass'n, 79 Misc. 2d 536, 359 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Asso., 45 A.D.2d 955, 359 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

2. Under former General Corporation Law § 8

Mere execution of a certificate of incorporation does not create a de facto corporation if the incorporators have not complied with this section and, therefore, where the incorporators, prior to any attempt made in good faith to comply with this section, transfer all the stock of the proposed corporation in exchange for certain rights under alleged contracts owned by a third party, the transfer is without consideration and it is error to dismiss a complaint of a judgment creditor seeking to sequester the assets of the corporation and to recover on the personal liability of the stockholders. Stevens v Episcopal Church History Co., 140 A.D. 570, 125 N.Y.S. 573, 1910 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2994 (N.Y. App. Div. 1910).

A corporation which had failed to comply with the requirements of this section was not a corporation authorized to do business nor a de facto corporation and the Secretary of State was not justified in refusing to file the certificate of another corporation on the grounds of similarity of name. Brooks Clothing of California, Ltd. v Flynn, 232 A.D. 346, 250 N.Y.S. 69, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13806 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

Where a company went out of existence as a result of merger and no new corporation was formed under § 85 of the Stk. Corp. Law, this section does not apply. O'Donnell v Milling & Lighting Co., 298 N.Y.S. 9, 163 Misc. 860, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1432 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

Article 78 of the Civil Practice Act is not available to review an alleged erroneous filing of a certificate of incorporation, for the statutory authority "to review a determination" relates only to the determination of a body or an officer exercising quasi-judicial functions and in receiving a certificate for filing the Department of State is acting in a ministerial capacity, except where there is some conflict of names. Where the certificate is in conformity with law there is a duty to receive and file it. New York State Soc. of Professional Engineers, Inc. v Department of State, 20 N.Y.S.2d 62, 174 Misc. 173, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1764 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

Filing of an amendatory certificate of incorporation commences the effective date of the amendment; approval of a Supreme Court justice is a mere condition precedent to the right to file the amendment and is not conclusive on either the public or Secretary of State; however, such approval indicates that the purpose of the amendment is lawful and an acceptance by the Secretary enforces such view. Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Ass'n, 79 Misc. 2d 536, 359 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Asso., 45 A.D.2d 955, 359 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

The existence of a corporation is not affected by the fact that no stock was ever actually issued, if its certificate of incorporation was duly filed and payment of the tax and filing fee was made. Gale-Hasslacher Corp. v Carmen Contracting Corp., 219 N.Y.S.2d 212 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Agency Opinions

A certificate with no statement of duration of corporation shall not be filed. 1926 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 128.

(a) Corrections prior to filing by department of state. Any certificate or other instrument relating to a domestic or foreign corporation submitted to the department of state under this chapter may be corrected with respect to any typographical, or similar non-material error apparent on the face of the certificate or instrument, prior to the filing of such certificate or instrument by the department of state. Such correction shall be effected by the department of state upon authorization in writing by the incorporator in a form acceptable to the department. Such authorization may be delivered by mail or sent by electronic mail to the department.

(b) Corrections following incorporation. Any certificate or other instrument relating to a domestic or foreign corporation filed by the department of state under this chapter may be corrected with respect to any typographical or similar non-material error apparent on the face or defect in the execution thereof including the deletion of any matter not permitted to be stated therein. A certificate, entitled "Certificate of correction of ..... (correct title of certificate and name of corporation)" shall be signed and delivered to the department of state by mail or electronic mail. It shall set forth the name of the corporation, the date the certificate to be corrected was filed by the department of state, the provision in the certificate as corrected or eliminated and if the execution was defective, the proper execution. The filing of the certificate by the department of state shall not alter the effective time of the instrument being corrected, which shall remain as its original effective time, and shall not affect any right or liability accrued or incurred before such filing.

(c) A corporate name may not be changed or corrected under this section other than to correct any typographical or similar non-material error.

Notes to Decisions

1. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 10

Membership corporations may amend their charter under this section so as to truly set forth the object and purpose of the corporation. In re Creditors' Audit & Adjustment Ass'n, 131 N.Y.S. 263, 72 Misc. 461, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 423 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

Agency Opinions

1. Generally

A certificate of a membership corporation may not be amended, without the approval of the state board of social welfare, to delete a condition set forth in the certificate. 1941 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 336, 1941 N.Y. AG LEXIS 172.

The failure of a membership corporation to obtain the necessary approval of the Board of Social Welfare to a certificate of extension of corporate existence is a defect which cannot be corrected by an amendatory certificate or by the Board's nunc pro tunc approval. However, a remedy lies in the filing of a certificate of revival of corporate existence pursuant to General Corporation Law § 49. 1952 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 159, 1952 N.Y. AG LEXIS 49.

§ 112. Actions or special proceedings by attorney-general

(a) The attorney-general may maintain an action or special proceeding:

(1) To annul the corporate existence or dissolve a corporation that has acted beyond its capacity or power or to restrain it from carrying on unauthorized activities;

(2) To annul the corporate existence or dissolve any corporation that has not been duly formed;

(3) To restrain any person or persons from acting as a domestic or foreign corporation within this state without being duly incorporated or from exercising in this state any corporate rights, privileges or franchises not granted to them by the law of the state;

(4) To procure a judgment removing a director of a corporation for cause under section 706 (Removal of directors);

(5) To dissolve a corporation under article 11 (Judicial dissolution);

(6) To restrain a foreign corporation or to annul its authority to carry on activities in this state under section 1303 (Violations).

(7) To enforce any right given under this chapter to members, a director or an officer of a charitable corporation. The attorney-general shall have the same status as such members, director or officer.

(8) To compel the directors and officers, or any of them, of a charitable corporation which has been dissolved under section 1011 (Dissolution for failure to file certificate of type of Not-for-Profit Corporation Law under section 113) to account for the assets of the dissolved corporation.

(9) Upon application, ex parte, for an order to the supreme court at a special term held within the judicial district where the office of the corporation is located, and if the court so orders, to enforce any right given under this chapter to members, a director or an officer of a non-charitable corporation. For such purpose, the attorney-general shall have the same status as such members, director or officer.

(10) To enjoin, void or rescind any related party transaction, seek damages and other appropriate remedies, in law or equity, in addition to any actions pursuant to section 715 (Related party transactions) of this chapter.

(b) In an action or special proceeding brought by the attorney-general under any of the provisions of this chapter:

(1) If an action, it is triable by jury as a matter of right.

(2) The court may confer immunity in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred nineteen-c of the code of criminal procedure.

(3) A temporary restraining order to restrain the commission or continuance of the unlawful acts which form the basis of the action or special proceeding may be granted upon proof, by affidavit, that the defendant or defendants have committed or are about to commit such acts. Application for such restraining order may be made ex parte or upon such notice as the court may direct.

(4) If the action or special proceeding is against a foreign corporation, the attorney-general may apply to the court at any stage thereof for the appointment of a temporary receiver of the assets in this state of such foreign corporation, whenever it has assets or property of any kind whatsoever, tangible or intangible, within this state.

(5) When final judgment in such action or special proceeding is rendered against the defendant or defendants, the court may direct the costs to be collected by execution against any or all of the defendants or by order of attachment or other process against the person of any director or officer of a corporate defendant.

(6) In connection with any such proposed action or special proceeding, the attorney-general may take proof and issue subpoenas in accordance with the civil practice law and rules.

(c) In any such action or special proceeding against a foreign corporation which has not designated the secretary of state as its agent for service of process under section 304 (Statutory designation of secretary of state as agent for service of process), any of the following acts in this state by such foreign corporation shall constitute the appointment by it of the secretary of state as its agent upon whom process against such foreign corporation may be served.

(1) As used in this paragraph the term "resident" shall include individuals, domestic corporations of any kind and foreign corporations of any kind authorized to do business or carry on activities in the state.

(2) Any act done, or representation made as part of a course of the solicitation of orders, or the issuance, or the delivery of contracts for, or the sale of, property, or the performance of services to residents which involves or promotes a plan or scheme to defraud residents in violation of the laws or the public policy of the state.

(3) Any act done as part of a course of conduct of business or activities in the solicitation of orders from residents for property, goods or services, to be delivered or rendered within this state to, or on their behalf, where the orders or contracts are executed by such residents within this state and where such orders or contracts are accompanied or followed by an earnest money deposit or other down payment or any installment payment thereon or any other form of payment, which payment is either delivered in or transmitted from the state.

(4) Any act done as part of the conduct of a course of business or activities with residents which defrauds such residents or otherwise involves or promotes an attempt by such foreign corporation to circumvent the laws of this state.

(d) Paragraphs (b), (c), (d) and (e) of section 307 (Service of process of unauthorized foreign corporation) shall apply to process served under paragraph (c).

Changes: Revised and extended.

Comment: This is an adaptation of Bus Corp L § 112 with certain additions to accommodate the attorney-general's concern with not-for-profit corporations. A new subparagraph (a)(7) has been included to in effect subrogate the attorney-general to any right given under this chapter to a member, director or officer of any Type B or Type C corporation. Thus the provisions of self-help given to such participants in a not-for-profit corporation are made available to the attorney-general in protecting the public interest in the operations of Type B and Type C corporations because of the high level of legitimate public concern.

The power which the Attorney-General has to take proof and issue subpoenas under Gen Corp L § 92(2) in an action to annul a corporation, has been expanded to apply to all actions and proceedings brought by him.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 358, § 1, substituted "damages and other appropriate remedies, in law or equity, in addition to any actions" for "or seek additional damages or remedies" in (a)(10).

1. Generally

Owner cited no authority for the proposition that any entity other than the attorney general had the right to take action against a not-for-profit foundation based upon a claimed violation of its legal obligations; neither the foundation's tax status nor case law allowing charities unique enforcement rights for charitable subscriptions gave the owner any rights. Thome v Alexander & Louisa Calder Found., 70 A.D.3d 88, 890 N.Y.S.2d 16, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8707 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009), app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 703, 906 N.Y.S.2d 817, 933 N.E.2d 216, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 1383 (N.Y. 2010).

Trial court declined to issue an order on the Attorney General's request that the trial court do so to allow the Attorney General to bring his four claims against the stock exchange chairman involving his alleged receipt of unreasonable compensation; the trial court had already denied the stock exchange chairman's motion to dismiss the four claims and, thus, an ex parte order was unnecessary. People v Grasso, 816 N.Y.S.2d 863, 12 Misc. 3d 384, 235 N.Y.L.J. 54, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 484 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006), rev'd, 42 A.D.3d 126, 836 N.Y.S.2d 40, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

CLS N-PCL § 513(c) does not override CLS N-PCL § 1507 restrictions on invading principal and thus, in action under CLS N-PCL § 112(a)(1), defendants were preliminarily enjoined from invading principal of cemetery's permanent maintenance trust fund or perpetual care trust fund, and from borrowing money from its perpetual care income fund (without prejudice to them if they applied for judicial approval under § 1507(a)), because (1) borrowing money that probably cannot be repaid is extra-statutory means of removing monies from funds without seeking court approval, (2) there would be continued invasion and arguably irreparable harm if injunction was not issued, and (3) balancing of equities favored issuance of preliminary injunction. People by Vacco v Woodlawn Cemetery, 173 Misc. 2d 846, 662 N.Y.S.2d 369, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 397 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

2. Subpoenas

Religious organization and its founder would be compelled to comply with subpoena issued by Attorney General in connection with investigation of fraudulent charitable solicitations since (1) religious corporations are subject to provisions of Not-for-Profit Corporation Law, (2) while not required to register with and report annually to Attorney General under CLS EPTL § 8-1.4(b)(3), religious corporations are within Attorney General's subpoena power, and (3) investigation in question was not being conducted in bad faith or in manner disruptive to respondents' religious activity. Abrams v Temple of Lost Sheep, Inc., 148 Misc. 2d 825, 562 N.Y.S.2d 322, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 557 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), dismissed, 1990 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13699 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 25, 1990).

Subpoena issued by Attorney General in connection with investigation of fraudulent charitable solicitations, requiring religious organization and its founder to produce corporate books and records, would not be quashed on Fourth Amendment grounds since documents sought were not overly broad, burdensome or irrelevant to proper inquiry. Abrams v Temple of Lost Sheep, Inc., 148 Misc. 2d 825, 562 N.Y.S.2d 322, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 557 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), dismissed, 1990 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13699 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 25, 1990).

Religious organization and its founder could not refuse to comply with subpoena, issued by Attorney General in connection with investigation of fraudulent charitable solicitations, on ground that compliance with subpoena would deprive them of Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination since neither religious organization nor its officers have Fifth Amendment rights against production of corporate records pursuant to lawful judicial order. Abrams v Temple of Lost Sheep, Inc., 148 Misc. 2d 825, 562 N.Y.S.2d 322, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 557 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990), dismissed, 1990 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13699 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 25, 1990).

3. Standing

The Attorney-General, purporting to represent the ultimate beneficiaries of a charitable organization, which is the donee of an unconditional gift of corporate stock, does not have standing pursuant to EPTL 8-1.1 (subd [f]), which provides that the Attorney-General shall represent the beneficiaries of dispositions of property for religious, charitable, educational or benevolent purposes and it shall be his duty to enforce the rights of such beneficiaries, to sue the corporation to compel both the declaration and payment of dividends and the payment of market value of those shares repurchased from the donee corporation at less than market value, since although the Attorney-General's powers of representation and enforcement are not limited to express trusts, but encompass those charitable dispositions where property has been donated for a specific purpose, this does not mean that the Attorney-General has standing to represent those who might eventually reap the benefit of gifts made without a specified purpose to charitable organizations; in such cases, the charity implicitly receives the gift for its own uses, consistent with its charitable purposes and there are no beneficiaries, legally cognizable, apart from the donee, and the charity may use the gift as it sees fit, in accordance with the laws of its creation. Where there has been a completed, unconditional, irrevocable gift of stock to a charity, there is neither any intention of the donor for the Attorney-General to protect, nor any beneficiaries to represent. Furthermore, the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law (§ 112, subd [a], par [7]; §§ 719, 720), which authorizes the Attorney-General to bring an action against the directors and officers of a charitable corporation for certain specified types of misconduct and to enforce any right afforded under the statute to members, a director or an officer of a charitable corporation, does not provide the Attorney-General with standing. Lefkowitz v Lebensfeld, 68 A.D.2d 488, 417 N.Y.S.2d 715, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10968 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1979), aff'd, 51 N.Y.2d 442, 434 N.Y.S.2d 929, 415 N.E.2d 919, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2739 (N.Y. 1980).

4. Venue

In action by Attorney-General under CLS N-PCL § 112(a)(1) and CLS EPTL Art 8 to obtain injunctive relief against Long Island Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (LISPCC), venue was properly in New York County where Charities Bureau of Attorney-General was located, and where LISPCC was required to annually file its financial reports or exemptions from filing. Koppell ex rel. People v Long Island Soc'y for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, 163 Misc. 2d 654, 621 N.Y.S.2d 762, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

5. Injunctive relief

Attorney-General has legal capacity to commence action to preserve cemetery's assets by seeking injunctive relief to restrain defendants from invading principal of cemetery's "permanent maintenance trust fund" and "perpetual care trust fund," and from borrowing money from its "perpetual care income fund" or otherwise carrying on unauthorized activities. People by Vacco v Woodlawn Cemetery, 173 Misc. 2d 846, 662 N.Y.S.2d 369, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 397 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

6. Administrative procedure

In action under CLS N-PCL § 112(a)(1) to restrain cemetery from invading principal of its permanent maintenance trust fund and perpetual care trust fund, and from borrowing money from its perpetual care income fund, Attorney General's failure to have followed every possible administrative procedure before commencing action did not warrant dismissal of complaint; when Attorney General or Cemetary Board are not challenging agency determinations, they are not bound to exhaust all of their own procedures before commencing actions to quell wrongdoing by entities they oversee. People by Vacco v Woodlawn Cemetery, 173 Misc. 2d 846, 662 N.Y.S.2d 369, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 397 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

§ 114. Visitation of supreme court

Charitable corporations, whether formed under general or special laws, with their books and vouchers, shall be subject to the visitation and inspection of a justice of the supreme court, or of any person appointed by the court for that purpose. If it appears by the verified petition of a member, director, officer or creditor of any such corporation, that it, or its directors, officers, members, key persons or agents, have misappropriated any of the funds or property of the corporation, or diverted them from the purpose of its incorporation, or that the corporation has acquired property in excess of the amount which it is authorized by law to hold, or has engaged in any business other than that stated in its certificate of incorporation, the court may order that notice of at least eight days, with a copy of the petition, be served on the corporation, the attorney general and the persons charged with misconduct, requiring them to show cause at a time and place specified, why they should not be required to make and file an inventory and account of the property, effects and liabilities of such corporation with a detailed statement of its transactions during the twelve months next preceding the granting of such order. On the hearing of such application, the court may make an order requiring such inventory, account and statement to be filed, and proceed to take and state an account of the property and liabilities of the corporation, or may appoint a referee for that purpose. When such account is taken and stated, after hearing all the parties to the application, the court may enter a final order determining the amount of property so held by the corporation, its annual income, whether any of the property or funds of the corporation have been misappropriated or diverted to any other purpose than that for which such corporation was incorporated, and whether such corporation has been engaged in any activity not covered by its certificate of incorporation. An appeal may be taken from the order by any party aggrieved to the appellate division of the supreme court, and to the court of appeals, as in a civil action. No corporation shall be required to make and file more than one inventory and account in any one year, nor to make a second account and inventory, while proceedings are pending for the statement of an account under this section.

Section 1. It is the purpose of this act to transfer certain direct administrative functions, powers and duties currently performed by the state board of social welfare, relating to operational and programmatic supervision of facilities, agencies and programs providing care or services to children and adults, and relating to the solicitation and collection of funds for charitable purposes, so that the board can more effectively perform its constitutional role of visitation and inspection of such facilities, agencies and programs and such new functions, powers and duties as may be conferred upon the board by this act, to help assure that state and local agencies having direct supervisory responsibilities for child and adult care or services appropriately utilize their resources to improve the quality of such programs. It is also the purpose of this act to more clearly delineate the respective responsibilities of the state departments of social services and mental hygiene, the division for youth, and other state and local government agencies having direct or indirect responsibilities for all or part of the resident population of such facilities, and to help assure by the provision of this act and by cooperative agreements entered into pursuant thereto that duplication of effort, overlapping of responsibilities, and the fragmentation of program planning and operational supervision are minimized.

§ 6. All of the functions and powers possessed by and all the obligations and duties of the board of social welfare relating to solicitation and collection of funds for charitable purposes and approval of certificates of incorporation which include the study and prevention of poverty; the relieving or reducing of unemployment among youth; the promoting or providing of employment of youth or the solicitation of contributions for any such purpose or purposes, are hereby transferred and assigned to, assumed and devolved upon the secretary of state. To effectuate such transfer there shall also be transferred such officers and employees as are necessary, all appropriations or reappropriations, to the extent of remaining unexpended or unencumbered balances thereof, whether allotted or unallotted or whether obligated or unobligated and all necessary books, papers, records and property. All rules, regulations, acts, determinations and decisions in force at the time of such transfer and proceedings or other business matters undertaken or commenced by or before the board of social welfare pertaining to the functions herein transferred and assigned, in force at the time of such transfer, assignment, assumption or devolution shall continue in force and effect until duly modified, obligated or completed by the secretary of state. References to the board of social welfare or office, bureau or other unit thereof contained in laws, rules, contracts and other documents relating to the functions herein transferred shall be deemed to be references to the secretary of state or the corresponding office, bureau or unit of the department of state as the case may be.

§ 17. § 18. All the functions and powers possessed by, and all the obligations and duties of, the state board of social welfare in relation to direct supervision of residential programs for children and adults which are transferred to the state department of social services by this act are hereby transferred and assigned to, assumed and devolved upon the state department of social services.

§ 19. All functions and powers possessed by, and all the obligations and duties of the state board of social welfare related to functions which are transferred to the department of social services, health or mental hygiene are hereby transferred and assigned to, assumed by and devolved upon each such department.

§ 24. All rules, regulations, determinations and decisions of the state board of social welfare pertaining to the functions herein transferred and assigned in force at the time of such transfer and assignment shall continue in force and effect as rules, regulations, determinations and decisions of the state department of social services. Whenever the terms "board" or "state board of social welfare" are referred to or indicated in any contract or document pertaining to the functions, powers and duties hereby transferred and assigned, such reference or designation shall be deemed to refer to the state department of social services.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1969, ch 1066, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1970.

§ 201. Purposes

(a) A corporation, as defined in paragraph (a) of § 102 (Definitions), may be formed under this chapter as a charitable corporation or a non-charitable corporation unless it may be formed under any other corporate law of this state, in which event it may not be formed under this chapter unless such other corporate law expressly so provides.

(b) A corporation formed under this chapter on or after July first, two thousand fourteen shall either be a charitable corporation or a non-charitable corporation. Any corporation formed for both charitable purposes and non-charitable purposes shall be deemed a charitable corporation for purposes of this chapter. A type A not-for-profit corporation formed prior to July first, two thousand fourteen shall be deemed a non-charitable corporation under this chapter. Any submission or filing by such corporation to any person or entity shall be deemed to have been submitted or filed by a non-charitable corporation, and any reference in any such filing or submission referring to the status of such corporation as a type A corporation shall be deemed to refer to a non-charitable corporation.

(c) A type B or C not-for-profit corporation formed prior to July first, two thousand fourteen shall be deemed a charitable corporation for all purposes under this chapter. Any submission or filing by such corporation to any person or entity shall be deemed to have been submitted or filed by a charitable corporation, and any reference in any such filing or submission referring to the status of such corporation as a type B or type C corporation shall be deemed to refer to a charitable corporation.

(d) A type D not-for-profit corporation formed prior to July first, two thousand fourteen for charitable purposes shall be deemed a charitable corporation. Any submission or filing by such corporation to any person or entity shall be deemed to have been submitted or filed by a charitable corporation, and any reference in any such filing or submission referring to the status of such corporation as a type D corporation shall be deemed to refer to a charitable corporation. Any other type D not-for-profit corporations formed prior to July first, two thousand fourteen shall be deemed a non-charitable corporation. Any submission or filing by such corporation to any person or entity shall be deemed to have been submitted or filed by a non-charitable corporation, and any reference in any such filing or submission referring to the status of such corporation as a type D corporation shall be deemed to refer to a non-charitable corporation.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Mem Corp Law § 10.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L §§ 2 and 10.

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This section relates to the purposes for which a corporation may be formed. "Corporation" is defined in § 102(a)(5) as a corporation which meets two tests: (1) formed for a purpose, not for pecuniary profit or financial gain, permitted under § 201, and (2) no flow-through of assets, income or profit to or for the benefit of its members, directors or officers except as permitted under this chapter. This section permits formation under this chapter as provided therein unless it may be formed under another corporate law. The section provides for a classification of not-for-profit corporations into four types, Type A, Type B, or Type C, or Type D. Type A is intended to cover the usual membership type organization where the support of the organization is derived from a limited class called "members" and where the non-pecuniary benefits flow primarily to such limited class. A nonexclusive list of purposes is included. Type B is a class limited to one or more of the following nonbusiness purposes: charitable, educational, scientific, literary, cultural or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. This is intended to encompass substantially the same class as qualify for exemption under IRC section 501c(3). The benefit group is the public or some broad segment of it. The supporting group often is the general public. Type C is intended to fill the present gap in the New York law by permitting a not-for-profit corporation to be formed to conduct a lawful business purpose. The corporation must still meet the requirements of the definition of "not-for-profit corporation" in section 102a(5) and (10) which requires that the purposes be non-pecuniary and that there be no flow-through to individuals except as permitted by this chapter. This means that although the corporation may be organized for a purpose normally carried on by business corporations for profit, the purpose must be non-pecuniary i.e. it must be formed with an objective other than the making of money.

This section provides for a Type D corporation. This is a so-called "adapter" provision. A Type D corporation is a not-for-profit corporation which may be formed under this chapter if and when authorized by any other corporate law of the state for any purposes specified by such other law and subject to the provisions of the other law. This is intended to permit the use of this chapter as a basic law for other corporate statutes. It will permit limiting the special corporate statute to the special provisions peculiar to a certain type of not-for-profit corporation. It eliminates the necessity of including in the special law all general provisions.

Paragraph (c) of this section provides that if a corporation is formed for both Type A and Type B purposes, it shall be considered a Type B corporation. If it has among its purposes any purposes within Type C, it shall be considered a Type C corporation. This results in the corporation being subjected to the classification representing the highest degree of legitimate public concern with appropriate regulatory supervision by the state under the various provisions of the chapter.

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY IS NOT BULLET-PROOF SHIELD

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corporation Law § 720-a confers qualified immunity from suit upon certain directors or officers of not-for-profits. Although it does offer protection for certain individuals, counsel must fully understand the limitations of that protection to represent the not-for-profit corporation and individual directors and officers adequately.

Qualified immunity is limited to directors and officers of entities eligible for tax exemption under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c)(3).

A director or officer sued for personal liability must raise the qualified immunity granted under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a as an affirmative defense in the answer. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). Best practices dictate that an attorney representing a director or officer sued under these circumstances review the complaint to ensure that it has been verified and that it affirmatively states that the director's actions constituted either gross negligence or intentional infliction of harm. See CPLR 3016(h).

Alternatively, the defendant may move to dismiss a complaint against which qualified immunity is a defense. This CPLR 3211(a)(11) motion must be made before the answer is filed. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). A claim will be dismissed if the defendant can show that the factors have been met, that is: (1) defendant can prove that there is no probability of meeting the statutory standard of gross negligence or intent to cause harm to the plaintiff; (2) the defendant can show that his or her service to the not-for-profit was uncompensated; and (3) the not-for-profit is eligible for tax exemption under IRC § 501(c)(3).

If defendant is paid, immunity is not available.

Although the law permits not-for-profits to compensate its directors (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(12)), most directors are volunteers who serve without compensation. If an IRC § 501(c)(3) organization chooses to compensate its directors for more than "actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of such office" (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a), any such director will lose the right to qualified immunity under this provision. This choice also affects the director's right to seek indemnification. This issue arises most frequently in the case of paid officers who also hold a seat on the board of directors and directors involved with a private foundation.

Know what actions qualified immunity will not protect.

Directors who otherwise meet the criteria for qualified immunity are not protected from every cause of action that may be filed by a third party. It is important for the practitioner to know what types of actions expose the director or officer to personal liability. For example, Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a does not immunize directors from federal claims or employment litigation (such as wrongful termination) to the extent the claims are based upon federal law. This section does not apply to actions taken by the Attorney General or actions commenced under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719 (director liability in certain defined transactions) or Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720 (actions brought on behalf of the organization).

In addition, directors may be held personally liable if the not-for-profit corporation does not follow the dissolution procedures set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 1002-a or if the not-for-profit does not adequately provide for known liabilities upon dissolution. In such an event, the directors will be held personally liable only if the creditors file claims within the time period provided for in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law Article 10 (Non-Judicial Dissolution and Article 11 (Judicial Dissolution) Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719.

1. Generally

Where formal requirements for filing a certificate of incorporation were complied with and the purposes for which corporation was to be formed offended against no law, secretary of state lacked authority to label those purposes (namely, furthering of homosexual's rights), violative of "public policy," and secretary's refusal to accept certificate was arbitrary. Gay Activists Alliance v Lomenzo, 31 N.Y.2d 965, 341 N.Y.S.2d 108, 293 N.E.2d 255, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1527 (N.Y. 1973).

Judicial approval of certificate of incorporation for proposed type B not-for-profit corporation would be withheld as unnecessary since proposed corporation was type A not-for-profit corporation, for which no judicial approval was necessary, where proposed corporation did not have charitable purpose but was intended for specific benefit of 3 named persons, and no provision was made for using any portion of funds raised for benefit of public or any class of public. In re Beach, 141 Misc. 2d 735, 534 N.Y.S.2d 341, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 670 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

In action against organization which operated residence for young single working women, there was nothing inconsistent in organization's claim to exemption from rent stabilization code, as charity, and to exemption from Human Rights Law, as religious institution, since entity may have different status under different statutes, and organization was religious order engaged in charitable work. Priolo v Saint Mary's Home for Working Girls, 157 Misc. 2d 494, 597 N.Y.S.2d 890, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 144 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993), modified, aff'd, 207 A.D.2d 664, 616 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8646 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Life insurer's claim against a purported beneficiary on grounds of an improper assignment should not have been dismissed because the insurer had raised litigable issues as to whether the assignee beneficiary was in fact the type of religious organization, Type B religious charitable corporation under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 201, that could have been an assignee under N.Y.

Ins. Law § 3205(b)(3) as it was constituted at that time. Am. Mayflower Life Ins. Co. v Moskowitz, 17 A.D.3d 289, 794 N.Y.S.2d 32, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4499 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2005).

Trial court denied the stock exchange chairman's motion to dismiss, as the Attorney General had the statutory responsibility to protect investors, had the authority to pursue the stock exchange chairman under the doctrine of parens patriae because they could not protect themselves from the allegedly unreasonable compensation that the New York Stock Exchange, a type A not-for-profit corporation, allowed him to receive, and the Attorney General stated four viable claims against him: for imposition of a constructive trust and for restitution for ultra vires payments allegedly received, for payment had and received, for violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 715 for benefits he received that were improperly approved, and for violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law for his allegedly receiving improper loans. People v Grasso, 816 N.Y.S.2d 863, 12 Misc. 3d 384, 235 N.Y.L.J. 54, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 484 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006), rev'd, 42 A.D.3d 126, 836 N.Y.S.2d 40, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

Plaintiff lacked standing to bring a declaratory judgment suit alleging discrimination in unmet housing needs, municipal services, and lack of representation on the planning and zoning boards on behalf of its shareholders as plaintiff, which was formed to assert the objectives of the shareholders, could not do so as a for-profit corporation under N.Y. Bus. Corp. Law § 201(a); plaintiff's claims were maintainable under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 201(b). United Fairness, Inc. v Town of Woodbury, 932 N.Y.S.2d 895, 34 Misc. 3d 725, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5478 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011), rev'd, in part, 113 A.D.3d 754, 979 N.Y.S.2d 365, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 333 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2014).

2. Construction with other statutes

An application for approval of a certificate of incorporation pursuant to the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, setting forth the purposes of the corporation as being "to print, mail, disseminate, Roman Catholic information . . . to conduct prayer vigils, and with divine guidance keep the knowledge of God and His plan for peace and security in the hearts of all mankind", brings the proposed corporation within the definition of an incorporated church making it subject to the provisions of the Religious Corporations Law as well as the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, and, as such, the application must be denied for failure to conform to the specific provisions of the Religious Corporations Law which govern the incorporation of groups associated with the Roman Catholic Church, including the requirement of an execution and acknowledgment by certain specific officials of that church. In re Lueken (Our Lady of Roses), 97 Misc. 2d 201, 410 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2770 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

3. Business purpose

Each certificate of incorporation for a not-for-profit corporation must be evaluated on the nature of proposed activities and not merely on the results, no matter how laudatory, to determine whether the proposed corporation would be a business purpose or nonbusiness purpose not-for-profit corporation. Bodell v Ghezzi, 50 A.D.2d 674, 375 N.Y.S.2d 426, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12511 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Despite the fact that buildings and improvements which proposed not-for-profit corporation proposed to construct for purposes of leasing, selling or giving would be so leased, sold, or given exclusively to voluntary agencies which were exempt from taxation under the Internal Revenue Code, the sale and lease of real property, without restriction, could only be considered a business purpose so that Secretary of State properly refused to accept proposed certificate of incorporation which stated that the proposed corporation would be a nonbusiness purpose not-for-profit corporation rather than a business purpose not-for-profit corporation. Bodell v Ghezzi, 50 A.D.2d 674, 375 N.Y.S.2d 426, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12511 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

4. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 10

Where a certificate of incorporation under this section provides for the holding of the annual meeting on Sunday, it will not be approved for the reason that transaction of secular business on Sunday is contrary to public policy. In re Hakehiloth, 42 N.Y.S. 985, 18 Misc. 717, 1896 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 741 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1896).

A corporation may not be incorporated under this law if it may be incorporated under any other general law. Hence, an organization basically religious in nature had to be incorporated under the Religious Corporations Law. Application of Basilio Scientific Spiritist Cult Asso., 9 Misc. 2d 389, 170 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3961 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A proposed corporation which has for its object the conduct of religious services may not be granted a certificate of incorporation under this section, inasmuch as a corporation organized for religious purposes must be organized under the Religious Corporations Law. Application for Temple of Joy, 86 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1811 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

5. —Vague and indefinite purpose clause

Court approval of an application to incorporate under the Membership Corporations Law for the objectives of promoting and fostering public understanding of insurance, insurance claims, policies, etc., was denied on the ground that the purposes stated were too general and vague, might invade the professional field of practice of law, failure to state necessity for incorporation under this act, and lack of any indication that applicants had the facilities or ability to attain their stated objectives. In re Policyholders Information Office, 23 Misc. 2d 1093, 206 N.Y.S.2d 897, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3035 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Approval was refused of a proposed certificate of incorporation of a membership corporation, to be known as "Aid Foundation," the vague purpose of which was to obtain funds to be distrubuted to worthwhile charitable and philanthropic endeavors, upon the ground that such an organization would merely duplicate the efforts of charities already in existence. In re Aid Foundation, Inc., 27 Misc. 2d 314, 210 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2186 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

An application for judicial approval of a certificate of incorporation was insufficient to enable the court to exercise its function of "judicial scrutiny" where it merely stated the proposed name of the organization and that its purpose was "to develop a program to meet the cultural, physical, mental and community needs of the individual." In re Fraternidad Hispana Americana, 39 Misc. 2d 106, 240 N.Y.S.2d 110, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2060 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Application for certificate of incorporation of membership corporation was denied where the purposes of the said corporation were too generalized and vague to warrant approval thereof. In re Council for Small Business, Inc., 155 N.Y.S.2d 530 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

6. —Existence of organization for similar purpose

A certificate of incorporation will not be granted to an organization which has for its purpose the perpetuation of the name of the late President Roosevelt, the proposed organization to be called the F.D.R. Social and Civic Club, in view of the fact that existing membership corporations are adequate for the laudable purposes sought to be attained, and in view of the danger that the unrestricted use of the name of the late president would lead to confusion and create the impression that the corporation has official sanction, and could readily result in unauthorized and uncontrolled solicitation of funds. Application of F. D. R. Social & Civic Club, 58 N.Y.S.2d 549, 185 Misc. 1015, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2475 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

An application for incorporation of a proposed membership corporation, designed to substantially duplicate the functions of an already well established organization, will not be looked upon with favor by the courts since the public interest will not be served by the economic waste and loss of efficiency which would result from approval. In re Boy Explorers of America, Inc., 21 Misc. 2d 114, 67 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1747 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

A proposed certificate of incorporation may not be approved where the objects of the new corporation are listed as helping soldiers in need of money, food and clothing, and sending them packages of food, cigarettes and books, since the present agencies are adequate to accomplish these purposes, and incorporation would mean the solicitation and collection of funds in competition with already existing organizations. In re East Flatbush Victory Club, Inc., 42 N.Y.S.2d 351, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2001 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

An organization will not be incorporated for the purpose of fostering friendship and good will among returning service men and women and their families and to engage in social events and patriotic rallies, parades, etc., since there are already many organizations doing this kind of work which need more money than they have been able to secure and the objects specified are obviously the basis of an appeal for funds. In re Victory Committee of Greenpoint of Patriotic, Social & Fraternal Club, Inc., 59 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2604 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

Application for approval of proposed certificate of incorporation was denied where proposed rabbinic corporation would merely lead to confusion and misunderstanding and tend to impair the work presently carried on by long established and well known rabbinic organizations. Application of Knesseth Harabonim D'America, Inc., 131 N.Y.S.2d 543, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3339 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

Court denied application for approval of proposed amended certificate of incorporation for membership corporation where the papers failed to show that any purpose could be achieved by the sponsors, or that they would not merely duplicate work done by other organizations. Application of Howard Memorial Fund, 155 N.Y.S.2d 126 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

Application for approval of proposed certificate of incorporation was denied where the existing agency with the same purpose was sufficient. In re Certificate of Incorporation of Humanity Club, 155 N.Y.S.2d 210 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

7. —Particular purposes

There is nothing unlawful in stated purposes of a corporation to promote rights of individual freedom of choice and association and the individual right to associate with only those persons with whom he desires to associate, to investigate the problems involved, assist in elimination of barriers to individual freedom of choice, etc., and an individual judge of the Supreme Court, on application for his approval of such a certificate, lacks power to deny the application. Association for Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v Shapiro, 9 N.Y.2d 376, 214 N.Y.S.2d 388, 174 N.E.2d 487, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1961), reh'g denied, 11 N.Y.2d 662, 225 N.Y.S.2d 740, 180 N.E.2d 898, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1478 (N.Y. 1962).

The Secretary of State may properly refuse to file a certificate of incorporation of an alleged membership corporation which is executed under this section, where the certificate states that the purpose or object of the corporation is to make loans out of the common funds of the corporation and to collect the same together with dues, assessments and other contributions. The certificate, as drawn, violates Stk. Corp. Law, § 5. A corporation for that purpose should be formed under the Bank. Law. Bernstein v Moses, 231 N.Y.S. 669, 133 Misc. 513, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1164 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1928).

Where the affidavit submitted in connection with an application to the Supreme Court for approval of a proposed certificate of incorporation contained repeated references to underbidding as one of the purposes of the proposed corporation, contrary to public policy as declared in General Business Law § 340, the court, in exercise of its discretion, declined to approve the proposed certificate. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, 208 N.Y.S.2d 364 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

The Secretary of State cannot be compelled to file a certificate of incorporation as a social club, when its objects are, in fact, of a business nature. People ex rel. Davenport v Rice, 22 N.Y.S. 631, 68 Hun 24 (1893).

8. — —Religious

Certificates of incorporation must be denied to a proposed corporation organized for the purpose of changing the religious beliefs of a specified religious group, in this case the object being to convert persons of the Jewish faith to Christianity. In re American Jewish Evangelization Soc., 50 N.Y.S.2d 236, 183 Misc. 634, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2294 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

9. — —Rehabilitation of prisoners

A certificate of incorporation will be granted under this section to a corporation organized to solicit, receive and apply funds "for the moral betterment, religious advancement, temporal improvement and rehabilitation of inmates of prisons or penal institutions", where the fund in question was the result of publicity attendant upon the construction by prisoners of Clinton Prison at Dannemora of a church within the walls of the prison. In re Good Thief Foundation, Inc., 47 N.Y.S.2d 511, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1806 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

10. — —Aid to displaced children

A certificate of incorporation for a charitable organization to be known as "German Jewish Children's Aid, Incorporated," submitted to the court for approval, pursuant to this section, will be approved where the certificate recites that the purposes of the corporation are, to facilitate the entry into the U.S. from Nazi Germany of German children of Jewish extraction, to give to the secretary of labor and others such bonds and undertakings as may be necessary without charge and without indemnity, to aid and care for such children, and to perform matters incidental to the foregoing purposes, all without profit to the corporation, its members or officers. The objects of the corporation are charitable. In re German Jewish Children's Aid, Inc., 272 N.Y.S. 540, 151 Misc. 834, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1392 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1934).

11. — —Foreign birth or ancestry

A certificate of incorporation will be denied for an organization, the incorporators of which are naturalized citizens, which has for its object to "instill in its members a double patriotic love for both their country of origin, Italy, and for their adopted country, the great and free United States of America" since there can be no dual citizenship or double patriotic love for both a country of origin and the United States. In re Societa Fra-E Nate-Di Torre-Faro, Inc., 22 N.Y.S.2d 688, 175 Misc. 373, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2196 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

Approval by the court of an application to form a membership corporation of "all New York City Transit System employees of Italian extraction" will be withheld, because there is no necessity for this membership corporation and because its existence under certain circumstances might prove embarrassing to its membership or to New York city. In re Columbia Ass'n of New York City Transit System, Inc., 24 N.Y.S.2d 901, 175 Misc. 876, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2548 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

A corporate body composed of city employees of one nationality formed "to promote unity," one of the objects of the proposed corporation, would not aid the orderly administration of a city's affairs. In re Columbia Ass'n of New York City Transit System, Inc., 24 N.Y.S.2d 901, 175 Misc. 876, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2548 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

Incorporation will be granted to an organization of German and Austria-Hungarian war veterans whether or not the members thereof were to be veterans of the armed forces of the United States or of the armies of Germany and Austria-Hungary in the late war, where the purposes specified in the certificate are laudable and patriotic, provided, however, the court is satisfied that the organization is not being used as a front for a bund, semi-military in character, secretly supporting Hitlerian views. In re German & Austrian-Hungarian War Veterans Post, 13 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2011 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

A certificate of incorporation for an organization to be known as the "Voters Alliance for Americans of German Ancestry, Inc." will not be approved where the purposes of the proposed corporation are the political education of Germans seeking or granted naturalization as American citizens since the court is not convinced of any need of politically educating Americans of German ancestry, and the other purposes set forth are adequately accomplished by the Steuben Society, and further the name is provocative of a notion that the organization is intended to unite persons resentful of the victory of the United States over Germany at a time when United States forces are in occupation of Germany and German leaders are on trial as war criminals. In re Voters Alliance for Americans of German Ancestry, Inc., 64 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2612 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

12. — —Mutual assistance

Notwithstanding grave concern expressed by the court as to the legality of purposes expressed by 21 milk distributors seeking to organize for mutual assistance in the milk industry field, the proposed certificate of incorporation was approved, following admonitions of the Court of Appeals as to the extent of the functions of a Supreme Court justice in passing upon approval applications, provided a clause relating to elimination of unfair competition was deleted. In re Wholesale Milk Distributors Asso., 39 Misc. 2d 738, 241 N.Y.S.2d 944, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1844 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Organizations for aid by voluntary assistance dependent upon dues or assessments of members have not been looked upon with favor unless they are subject to some supervision by a public authority such as the Insurance Department of the State of New York. In re Gold Star Parents Ass'n, 67 N.Y.S.2d 73, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3182 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

13. — —Legal action; aid to lawyers

Incorporation will be refused to an organization which has for its purpose to sponsor amendments to the United States Constitution and the constitutions of the various states which would bar from citizenship, from offices of trust and from old age benefits and unemployment insurance or other benefits persons advocating overthrow of the government by force or who knowingly circulates literature advocating such overthrow, and the deportation of naturalized citizens advocating such overthrow, since such amendments as outlined would be so drastic and sweeping as to be contrary to democratic principles. In re Patriotic Citizenship Ass'n, 26 Misc. 2d 995, 53 N.Y.S.2d 595, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1465 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

The application for a certificate of incorporation of the "Committee for the Preservation of the Constitutional Rights to Trial by Jury," was granted. In re Application of "Committee for Preservation, etc.", 1 Misc. 2d 548, 151 N.Y.S.2d 1005, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2238 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

A certificate of incorporation will be granted to an organization having among its objectives the advancement of knowledge and understanding of the law and research in jurisprudence, the promotion of a sound administration of justice and a grant of aid to members of the bar who may find themselves in need because of ill health, physical disability, or misfortune. In re Certificate of Incorporation of New York County Lawyers' Ass'n Fund, Inc., 81 N.Y.S.2d 724, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2932 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

14. — —Military

A membership corporation may not be formed for "the purpose of organizing, equipping and maintaining a voluntary local guard of citizen soldiers . . . subject at all times to the laws and general rules and regulations of the United States and of the state of New York." In re Proposed Incorporation of L. B. Defense Guards, Inc., 166 N.Y.S. 459, 100 Misc. 584, 1917 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 884 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1917).

A proposed certificate of incorporation for a membership corporation is not entitled to judicial approval where one of its recited purposes is the training of young persons "in military tactics, procedure and discipline," notwithstanding consents of various state executive officers are annexed to the proposed certificate, as authority for formation of military forces rests with the legislative bodies of the State and National Government. In re Bronx County Cadet Corps, Inc., 40 Misc. 2d 3, 242 N.Y.S.2d 669, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1726 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

15. —Powers

In view of provision of the General Corporation Law § 14 subd 3, that every corporation has power to acquire property for corporate purposes by devise, a membership corporation whose certificate of incorporation specified that it may "own and acquire land" falls within the exception to Decedent's Estate Law § 12 permitting corporation expressly authorized by its charter or by statute to take by devise. In re Battles' Estate, 45 Misc. 2d 348, 257 N.Y.S.2d 91, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2197 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1965).

Where membership corporation is formed for research purposes it obviously has implied power to solicit and collect funds from public since nature of research is such as to make it financially unproductive and corporation cannot carry out its authorized purposes without getting money from some source. Waldemar Medical Research Foundation, Inc. v Margolies, 45 Misc. 2d 887, 257 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2155 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965), aff'd, 25 A.D.2d 444, 267 N.Y.S.2d 483, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5165 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1966).

16. —Miscellaneous

New York Soccer Association could not enjoin National Soccer Association from registering players of a league which was not a member or affiliated with the New York Association. New York State Soccer Football Ass'n v United States Soccer Football Asso., 8 Misc. 2d 729, 166 N.Y.S.2d 319, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2766 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

§ 202. General and special powers

(a) Each corporation, subject to any limitations provided in this chapter or any other statute of this state or its certificate of incorporation, shall have power in furtherance of its corporate purposes:

(1) To have perpetual duration.

(2) To sue and be sued in all courts and to participate in actions and proceedings, whether judicial, administrative, arbitrative or otherwise, in like cases as natural persons.

(3) To have a corporate seal, and to alter such seal at pleasure, and to use it by causing it or a facsimile to be affixed or impressed or reproduced in any other manner.

(4) To purchase, receive, take by grant, gift, devise, bequest or otherwise, lease, or otherwise acquire, own, hold, improve, employ, use and otherwise deal in and with, real or personal property, or any interest therein, wherever situated.

(5) To sell, convey, lease, exchange, transfer or otherwise dispose of, or mortgage or pledge, or create a security interest in, all or any of its property, or any interest therein, wherever situated.

(6) To purchase, take, receive, subscribe for, or otherwise acquire, own, hold, vote, employ, sell, lend, lease, exchange, transfer, or otherwise dispose of, mortgage, pledge, use and otherwise deal in and with, bonds and other obligations, shares, or other securities or interests issued by others, whether engaged in similar or different business, governmental, or other activities.

(7) To make capital contributions or subventions to other not-for-profit corporations.

(8) To accept subventions from other persons or any unit of government.

(9) To make contracts, give guarantees and incur liabilities, borrow money at such rates of interest as the corporation may determine, issue its notes, bonds and other obligations, and secure any of its obligations by mortgage or pledge of all or any of its property or any interest therein, wherever situated.

(10) To lend money, invest and reinvest its funds, and take and hold real and personal property as security for the payment of funds so loaned or invested.

(11) To conduct the activities of the corporation and have offices and exercise the powers granted by this chapter in any jurisdiction within or without the United States.

(12) To elect or appoint officers, employees and other agents of the corporation, define their duties, fix their reasonable compensation and the reasonable compensation of directors, and to indemnify corporate personnel. Such compensation shall be commensurate with services performed.

(13) To adopt, amend or repeal by-laws, including emergency by-laws made pursuant to subdivision seventeen of section twelve of the state defense emergency act, relating to the activities of the corporation, the conduct of its affairs, its rights or powers or the rights or powers of its members, directors or officers.

(14) To make donations, irrespective of corporate benefit, for the public welfare or for community fund, hospital, charitable, educational, scientific, civic or similar purposes, and in time of war or other national emergency in aid thereof.

(15) To be a member, associate or manager of other non-profit activities or to the extent permitted in any other jurisdiction to be an incorporator of other corporations, and to be a partner in a redevelopment company formed under the private housing finance law.

(16) To have and exercise all powers necessary to effect any or all of the purposes for which the corporation is formed.

(b) If any general or special law heretofore passed, or any certificate of incorporation, shall limit the amount of property a corporation may take or hold, or the yearly income from the corporate assets or any part thereof, such corporation may take and hold property of the value of fifty million dollars or less, or the yearly income derived from which shall be six million dollars or less, or may receive yearly income from such corporate assets of six million dollars or less, notwithstanding any such limitations. In computing the value of such property, no increase in value arising otherwise than from improvements made thereon shall be taken into account.

(c) When any corporation shall have sold or conveyed any part of its real property, the supreme court, notwithstanding a restriction in any general or special law, may authorize it to purchase and hold from time to time other real property, upon satisfactory proof that the value of the property so purchased does not exceed the value of the property so sold and conveyed within the three years next preceding the application.

(d) A corporation formed under general or special law to provide parks, playgrounds or cemeteries, or buildings and grounds for camp or grove meetings. Sunday school assemblies, cemetery purposes, temperance, missionary, educational, scientific, musical and other meetings, subject to the ordinances and police regulations of the county, city, town, or village in which such parks, playgrounds, cemeteries, buildings and grounds are situated, may appoint from time to time one or more special police officers, with power to remove the same at pleasure. Such special police officers shall preserve order in and about such parks, playgrounds, cemeteries, buildings and grounds, and the approaches thereto, and to protect the same from injury, and shall enforce the established rules and regulations of the corporation. Every police officer so appointed shall within fifteen days after his or her appointment and before entering upon the duties of his or her office, take and subscribe the oath of office prescribed in the thirteenth article of the constitution of the state of New York, which oath shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where such grounds are situated. A police officer appointed under this section when on duty shall wear conspicuously a metallic shield with the name of the corporation which appointed him or her inscribed thereon. The compensation of police officers appointed under this section shall be paid by the corporation by which they are appointed.

(e) Any wilful trespass in or upon any of the parks, playgrounds, buildings or grounds provided for the purposes mentioned in the preceding paragraph, or upon the approaches thereto, and any wilful injury to any of the said parks, playgrounds, building or grounds, or to any trees, shrubbery, fences, fixtures or other property thereon or pertaining thereto, and any wilful disturbance of the peace thereon by intentional breach of the rules and regulations of the corporation, is a misdemeanor.

(f) No corporation shall conduct activities in New York state under any name, other than that appearing in its certificate of incorporation, without compliance with the filing provisions of section one hundred thirty of the general business law governing the conduct of business under an assumed name.

(g) Every corporation receiving any kind of state funding shall ensure the provision on any form required to be completed at application or recertification for the purpose of obtaining financial assistance pursuant to this chapter, that the application form shall contain a check-off question asking whether the applicant or recipient or a member of his or her family served in the United States military, and an option to answer in the affirmative. Where the applicant or recipient answers in the affirmative to such question, the not-for-profit corporation shall ensure that contact information for the state division of veterans' services is provided to such applicant or recipient in addition to any other materials provided.

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This paragraph introduces an enumeration of general corporate powers which have been consolidated in part from scattered provisions of the Gen Corp L and Mem Corp L. The reference in this paragraph to limitations prescribed by the certificate of incorporation is only to valid limitations therein, that is, limitations "not inconsistent with this chapter or any other statute" (see § 402(c)). The general requirement that powers be in furtherance of corporate purposes is consistent with most of the present scattered powers provisions. The structure of this section substantially parallels the corresponding section of the Bus Corp L.

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This paragraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(1) and briefly relates to Gen Corp L § 14(1). It is qualified by the reference in the introductory paragraph to limitations described by the certificate of incorporation. Section 402(a)(6) provides that the certificate of incorporation set forth the duration of the corporation if it is to be other than perpetual.

§ 202(a)(2).

Source: NY Const Art X, § 4.

Changes: Elaborated.

Comment: This subparagraph parallels the present provision in the New York Constitution (Art X, § 4), with the insertion of the phrase, "and to participate in actions, suits and proceedings, whether judicial, administrative, arbitrative or otherwise", in conformity with existing New York statutes and case law. Although the subject is covered in the Constitution, its repetition in this chapter is convenient.

Changes: Reworded; omission.

Comment: This subparagraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(3) and a composite of Gen Corp L § 14(2) except for the substitution of the phrase "corporate seal" to conform to current usage and § 45 of the General Construction Law. The present provision in Gen Corp L § 14(2) on the corporate seal as evidence has been inserted, in modified language, in § 107.

Source: Gen Corp L §§ 14(3) and 17.

Changes: Reworded and slightly extended.

Comment: This subparagraph taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(4) restates and slightly broadens Gen Corp L § 14(3) and part of Gen Corp L § 17. With respect to property without the state, this paragraph is slightly broader than Gen Corp L § 17, which is limited to jurisdictions in which the corporation is doing business and to property "requisite" for the transaction of its business. This subparagraph is qualified by the phrase "in furtherance of its corporate purposes" in the introductory paragraph and by the reference therein to limitations prescribed by this chapter or any other statute. As to corporations to which this chapter applies, acting in furtherance of their corporate purposes, this subparagraph supplies the statutory authority required by § 3-1.3 of the Estates, Powers and Trusts Law, which invalidates a devise to a corporation unless the corporation is authorized by its charter or by statute to take by devise. Certain federal statutes limit the ownership by aliens, directly or indirectly of certain types of property (e.g., 30 USC § 181; 48 USC §§ 302a, 1501 et seq.). Section 1307 deals with the acquisition and tenure of real property in this state by foreign corporations. Section 202(a)(5) deals with the power to dispose of property.

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This subparagraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(5) and is a composite of part of Gen Corp L § 14(3) (the balance being covered by § 202(a)(4)). This subparagraph is qualified by the reference in the introductory paragraph to limitations prescribed by §§ 509 and 510 and by other applicable statutes.

§ 202(a)(6).

Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: This subparagraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(6). It has no specific counterpart in the existing law. Such broader power is, of course, subject to any limitations in the certificate of incorporation, pursuant to the introductory paragraph. This subparagraph also expressly empowers a corporation to acquire governmental obligations. The references in this subparagraph to sale are qualified by the limitation in the introductory paragraph (see §§ 509 and 510).

Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: The power to make capital contributions or subventions to other not-for-profit corporations is included as a general power. This is the equivalent in respect of not-for-profit corporations to the power to purchase bonds, shares or other securities as set forth in subparagraph (6). See Article 5 (Corporate Finance) for treatment of capital contributions and subventions.

§ 202(a)(8).

Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: This subparagraph covers the power to accept subventions from other persons or unit of government. This is the corollary of the power to make such subventions in subparagraph (7). See Article 5 (Corporate Finance) for treatment of subventions.

§ 202(a)(9).

Source: Bus Corp L § 202(a)(7).

Changes: Reworded and slightly extended.

Comment: This subparagraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(7). This subparagraph is qualified by the phrase "in furtherance of its corporate purposes" in the introductory paragraph, which also subjects this paragraph to limitations prescribed by this chapter or any other statute. Possible limitations imposed by this chapter are those in §§ 506, 509 and 510. Section 374 of the General Business Law prohibits a corporation from interposing the defense of usury.

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This subparagraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(8) and restates the proviso in Gen Corp L § 18 in more positive language. Present limitations on the exercise of banking powers by business corporations, imposed by § 131 of the Banking Law, apply by reason of the limitation in the introductory paragraph. This subparagraph is limited by the phrase "in furtherance of its corporate purposes" in the introductory paragraph, which by its reference to limitations prescribed by this chapter, subjects this subparagraph to the restrictions on loans to directors prescribed by § 716.

Source: Gen Corp L § 17.

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This is an adaptation of Bus Corp L § 202(a)(9). This subparagraph restates Gen Corp L § 17, making express the power to have offices without the state. Except for minor changes of terminology, this subparagraph follows § 5(j) of the Model Non-Profit Corp Act.

§ 202(a)(12).

Changes: Reworded; new provision.

Comment: This is an adaptation of Bus Corp L § 202(a)(10). The word "reasonable" has been added to qualify compensation of officers and of directors. A sentence has been added requiring that such compensation shall be commensurate with services performed. This subparagraph restates Gen Corp L § 14(4) with an added reference to employees and an express provision for fixing the compensation of directors and indemnifying corporate personnel. Such indemnification must conform to the requirements of Article 7 (Directors and Officers) of this chapter. This subparagraph is similar to § 5(k) of the Model Non-Profit Corp Act. § 715(c) provides that directors have authority to fix the compensation of directors unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws.

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This subparagraph empowers a corporation to adopt, amend and repeal by-laws, and is similar to § 5(1) of the Model Act with addition of authority to adopt emergency by-laws under State Emergency Defense Act § 12. Section 602 defines the respective functions of the incorporators, board of directors and members with respect to the exercise of this corporate power, and provides that the by-laws may contain any provision relating to the business of the corporation, the conduct of its affairs, its rights or powers or the rights or powers of its members, directors or officers, not inconsistent with this chapter or any other statute or the certificate of incorporation.

Source: Gen Corp L §§ 34 and 35.

Changes: Combined, reworded and slightly extended.

Comment: This subparagraph is a composite of Gen Corp L §§ 34 and 35 and § 5(m) of the Model Non-Profit Corporation Act, expressly broadened to comprehend national emergencies and to abrogate more fully the corporate benefit rule. Reference to national emergencies takes into account modern conditions and avoids the necessity of temporary legislation like that enacted in the state during and after World War II. Gen Corp L § 34 expressly limits contributions to defined activities within the states in which the corporation is operating or to similar activities within or without such states which the board of directors determines "may be beneficial to the business activities of the corporation or the well-being of its employees". Such vestige of the corporate benefit rule is eliminated by this subparagraph which recognizes no such distinctions and expressly permits donations "irrespective of corporate benefit". Contributions, of course, remain governed by the business judgment rule. This subparagraph is subject to limitations prescribed by the certificate of incorporation, as stated in the introductory paragraph. Present prohibitions on corporate political contributions (§ 460 of the Election Law) are not affected by this subparagraph.

Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: This is an adaptation of Bus Corp L § 202(a)(15). It permits a non-profit corporation to be a member, associate or manager of other non-profit corporations. It also expressly empowers a corporation to be an incorporator to the extent permitted in any other jurisdiction. § 401 of this chapter permits a corporation to be an incorporator. This subparagraph omits the general power to be a promoter found in Bus Corp L § 202(a)(15).

Changes: Reworded.

Comment: This subparagraph is taken from Bus Corp L § 202(a)(16) and rephrases in positive language the negative provision of Gen Corp L § 13(1). It is subject to the limitations referred to in the introductory paragraph.

[1971, ch 1097] This act was intended to complement the Criminal Procedure Law (Chapter 996, Laws 1970) which replaced the Code of Criminal Procedure on September 1, 1971. Throughout the consolidated and unconsolidated laws there were references to various provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. In this act, these references have been amended to reflect the appropriate provision of the Criminal Procedure Law or, if such be the case, the appropriate section outside the Criminal Procedure Law to which a companion act has transferred such Code provision. In addition, this act has deleted various statutes which either conflicted with or were otherwise treated in the Criminal Procedure Law.

Amendment Notes The 2016 amendment by ch 407, § 2, added (g).

The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 233, in (d), substituted "police officer" for "policeman" or variants wherever it appears; and added "or her" three times.

The 2019 amendment by ch 56, § 33 (Part AA), substituted "services" for "affairs" in the second sentence of (g).

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY IS NOT BULLET-PROOF SHIELD

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corporation Law § 720-a confers qualified immunity from suit upon certain directors or officers of not-for-profits. Although it does offer protection for certain individuals, counsel must fully understand the limitations of that protection to represent the not-for-profit corporation and individual directors and officers adequately.

Qualified immunity is limited to directors and officers of entities eligible for tax exemption under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c)(3).

A director or officer sued for personal liability must raise the qualified immunity granted under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a as an affirmative defense in the answer. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). Best practices dictate that an attorney representing a director or officer sued under these circumstances review the complaint to ensure that it has been verified and that it affirmatively states that the director's actions constituted either gross negligence or intentional infliction of harm. See CPLR 3016(h).

Alternatively, the defendant may move to dismiss a complaint against which qualified immunity is a defense. This CPLR 3211(a)(11) motion must be made before the answer is filed. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). A claim will be dismissed if the defendant can show that the factors have been met, that is: (1) defendant can prove that there is no probability of meeting the statutory standard of gross negligence or intent to cause harm to the plaintiff; (2) the defendant can show that his or her service to the not-for-profit was uncompensated; and (3) the not-for-profit is eligible for tax exemption under IRC § 501(c)(3).

If defendant is paid, immunity is not available.

Although the law permits not-for-profits to compensate its directors (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(12)), most directors are volunteers who serve without compensation. If an IRC § 501(c)(3) organization chooses to compensate its directors for more than "actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of such office" (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a), any such director will lose the right to qualified immunity under this provision. This choice also affects the director's right to seek indemnification. This issue arises most frequently in the case of paid officers who also hold a seat on the board of directors and directors involved with a private foundation.

Know what actions qualified immunity will not protect.

Directors who otherwise meet the criteria for qualified immunity are not protected from every cause of action that may be filed by a third party. It is important for the practitioner to know what types of actions expose the director or officer to personal liability. For example, Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a does not immunize directors from federal claims or employment litigation (such as wrongful termination) to the extent the claims are based upon federal law. This section does not apply to actions taken by the Attorney General or actions commenced under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719 (director liability in certain defined transactions) or Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720 (actions brought on behalf of the organization).

In addition, directors may be held personally liable if the not-for-profit corporation does not follow the dissolution procedures set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 1002-a or if the not-for-profit does not adequately provide for known liabilities upon dissolution. In such an event, the directors will be held personally liable only if the creditors file claims within the time period provided for in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law Article 10 (Non-Judicial Dissolution and Article 11 (Judicial Dissolution) Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719.

Trial court denied the stock exchange chairman's motion to dismiss, as the Attorney General had the statutory responsibility to protect investors, had the authority to pursue the stock exchange chairman under the doctrine of parens patriae because they could not protect themselves from the allegedly unreasonable compensation that the New York Stock exchange allowed him to receive, and the Attorney General stated four viable claims against him: for imposition of a constructive trust and for restitution for ultra vires payments allegedly received, for payment had and received, for violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 715 for benefits he received that were improperly approved, and for violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law for his allegedly receiving improper loans. People v Grasso, 816 N.Y.S.2d 863, 12 Misc. 3d 384, 235 N.Y.L.J. 54, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 484 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006), rev'd, 42 A.D.3d 126, 836 N.Y.S.2d 40, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

Absent a direct connection with the obligation of the Department of Health to oversee the expenditures of taxpayer funds for health care and services, and absent other specific statutory authority, the "soft cap" regulation, which imposes a limit on executive compensation, appears to be in tension with the legislative choices reflected in N-PCL § 202(a), Business Corporation Law § 202(a), Limited Liability Company Law § 202, giving corporations the power to set executive compensation. Matter of Leadingage N.Y. Inc. v Shah, 56 Misc. 3d 594, 53 N.Y.S.3d 804, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5181 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2015).

N-PCL § 202(a), Business Corporation Law § 202(a), Limited Liability Company Law § 202, do not preclude the Department of Health from promulgating regulations governing the administrative costs and executive compensation that are reimbursed by taxpayer funds; the statutes subject the corporations' general powers to more specific limitations imposed not only by other statutes, but also by regulations duly promulgated under other statutes. Matter of Leadingage N.Y. Inc. v Shah, 56 Misc. 3d 594, 53 N.Y.S.3d 804, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5181 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2015).

Because the Legislature authorized the Department of Health to establish limits on health care expenses paid for by State funds or State-authorized funds, the regulations pertaining to administrative costs and the "hard cap" on executive compensation are not in conflict with N-PCL § 202(a), Business Corporation Law § 202(a), Limited Liability Company Law § 202, generally governing corporate powers. Matter of Leadingage N.Y. Inc. v Shah, 56 Misc. 3d 594, 53 N.Y.S.3d 804, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5181 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2015).

State attorney general's complaint against stock exchange chairman was not properly removed where contrary to the chairman's argument, the complaint did not seek to hold him liable for the manner in which he enforced federal securities laws, but rather the state attorney general sought to hold the chairman liable for what the complaint alleged was the receipt of excessive and improperly determined compensation under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(12) and the validity of this claim did not depend on whether the chairman's enforcement of federal securities laws or of the exchange rules was proper or not. New York v Grasso, 350 F. Supp. 2d 498, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25044 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

2. Powers

Blue Cross has authority to enter into contracts, and contract with pharmacists is in furtherance of function to provide subscribers with prepaid prescription benefits; upon finding that corporation did not exceed its powers by offering agreement, its rationality is not proper subject for judicial inquiry. Pharmacists' Ass'n of Western N.Y., Inc. v Blue Cross of Western N.Y., Inc., 112 A.D.2d 728, 492 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56238 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Through application of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(2) and N.Y. Educ. Law §§ 2853(1) and 216-a(4), charter schools had the capacity to sue, as natural persons, the State and its comptroller to challenge the constitutionality of statutes requiring the comptroller to audit the charter schools. Matter of New York Charter Schools Assn., Inc. v DiNapoli, 857 N.Y.S.2d 450, 20 Misc. 3d 235, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2406 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008), rev'd, 60 A.D.3d 119, 871 N.Y.S.2d 497, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 154 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

3. Under former General Corporation Law § 13

A cemetery corporation organized under the membership corporation law has a general power to convey its property under this section even gratuitously, except when limitations are imposed by statute. Application of Kensico Cemetery, 83 N.Y.S.2d 73, 193 Misc. 479, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), rev'd, 275 A.D. 681, 86 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4009 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1949).

Mere issuance of registration certificates by a department will not confer a power on a corporation not set forth in its certificate of incorporation. John B. Waldbillig, Inc. v Gottfried, 43 Misc. 2d 664, 251 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 22 A.D.2d 997, 254 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2450 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

4. Under former General Corporation Law § 14

This section is apparently inapplicable to impose power to acquire and dispose of real property on an educational corporation whose powers in such matters are controlled by the Education Law. Board of Education v Board of Cooperative Educational Services, 41 Misc. 2d 699, 246 N.Y.S.2d 48, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2192 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

A cemetery association did not dedicate lands to the cemetery use where the land has not been surveyed or plotted for burial purposes, nor has it either been set apart for the burial of the dead, or marked and distinguished from the adjoining ground as a place of burial, and, as a result, it could sell the land. Diamond v Foote, 109 N.Y.S.2d 831, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2365 (N.Y. City Ct. 1952).

5. —Right to acquire property

A membership corporation duly incorporated has power under this section to take property by bequest. In re McQuirk's Estate, 224 N.Y.S. 431, 130 Misc. 336, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1138 (N.Y.

Sur. Ct. 1927), aff'd, 224 A.D. 724, 229 N.Y.S. 880, 1928 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10714 (N.Y. App. Div. 1928).

Subordinate post of Veterans of Foreign Wars which has filed certificate required by Benevolent Orders Law § 2, subd 38-b and final unnumbered paragraph, has power under terms of §§ 3 and 3-a of such law and those of General Corporation Law § 14, subd 3, to receive property by devise or bequest. And authority conferred by above statutes is sufficient to bring such post within exception to Decedent's Estate Law § 12 for corporations expressly authorized by statute to take by devise. In re Battles' Estate, 45 Misc. 2d 348, 257 N.Y.S.2d 91, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2197 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1965).

Power to acquire property by gift conferred on corporations generally by subd 3 of above statute includes power to solicit gifts. Waldemar Medical Research Foundation, Inc. v Margolies, 45 Misc. 2d 887, 257 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2155 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965), aff'd, 25 A.D.2d 444, 267 N.Y.S.2d 483, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5165 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1966).

6. —Meaning of take and hold

The words take and hold, as used in § 15, do not mean taking by devise when taking by such method is not authorized, but such words refer to all methods by which a corporation can acquire property set forth in § 14 so that a hospital corporation was entitled to take and hold real and personal property devised and bequeathed to it, the amount of which was within the limitations of § 15. In re Clark's Estate, 7 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2044 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1938), aff'd, 257 A.D. 982, 14 N.Y.S.2d 157, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8798 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

7. —Right to use or dispose of property

A soldiers' monument corporation was permitted to sell its real property where before closing, a majority of the whole number of directors authorized the sale under the terms contained in the contract. The evidence established the adequacy of the consideration and that the interests of the corporation would be promoted by the sale. Application of Staten Island War Memorial Asso., 286 A.D. 887, 143 N.Y.S.2d 100, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4441 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 286 A.D. 1017, 145 N.Y.S.2d 318, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5023 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

A cemetery corporation organized under the membership corporation law has a general power to convey its property under this section even gratuitously, except when limitations are imposed by statute. Application of Kensico Cemetery, 83 N.Y.S.2d 73, 193 Misc. 479, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), rev'd, 275 A.D. 681, 86 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4009 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1949).

8. —Miscellaneous

A religious corporation could not remove the pastor of a Baptist church on the theory that the power to appoint given in subd 4 of this section includes the power to remove, where the rules and regulations of that denomination show that the pastor is an officer of the religious society of the church and not of the religious corporation. Walker Memorial Baptist Church v Saunders, 285 N.Y. 462, 35 N.E.2d 42, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 462, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1487 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 286 N.Y. 607, 35 N.E.2d 944, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 607, 1941 N.Y. 9. Under former General Corporation Law § 15

A missionary society, incorporated by a special act under which it might take, receive, hold and enjoy by gift, devise or bequest any real estate or personal property within state "provided the annual value of such real estate . . . shall not exceed sum of ten thousand dollars," by reason of this section is entitled to hold and enjoy real and personal property, value of which would produce an income of not more than $2,000,000 yearly. In re Dooper's Will, 212 N.Y.S. 616, 125 Misc. 909, 1925 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1142 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1925).

The words take and hold, as used in § 15, do not mean taking by devise where taking by such method is not authorized, but such words refer to all methods by which a corporation can acquire property set forth in § 14 so that a hospital corporation was entitled to take and hold real and personal property devised and bequeathed to it, the amount of which was within the limitations of § 15. St. Compt. No. 82-119, 1982 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 614.

2. Tax exemptions

Purchase of condominium unit by petitioner, tax-exempt not-for-profit corporation, would be subject to real estate transfer tax; further, since petitioner was required to pay grantor's obligation for transfer tax as condition of contract, such payment of tax would be deemed to be additional consideration for real property. NY Adv Op Comm T & F TSB-A-90-(3)R, 1990 N.Y. Tax LEXIS 94.

If petitioner, tax-exempt not-for-profit corporation about to execute mortgage with lending institution, was organization that had established exemption under Internal Revenue Code § 501(a), petitioner would be exempt from portion of mortgage recording tax representing special additional tax, but would be subject to basic tax, additional tax, and tax on mortgages recorded in cities having population of one million or more. NY Adv Op Comm T & F TSB-A-90-(3)R, 1990 N.Y. Tax LEXIS 94.

Neither real estate transfer tax nor real estate transfer gains tax would apply to transfer of real property from petitioner, not-for-profit membership corporation, to second not-for-profit membership corporation formed for purposes of acquiring, holding, managing, and developing real property to serve petitioner's needs, since transfer in question, whereby second not-for-profit corporation would leaseback real property to petitioner for 99 years for nominal consideration, would effectuate mere change of identity or form of ownership or organization. NY Adv Op Comm T & F TSB-A-94-(5)R, 1994 N.Y. Tax LEXIS 758.

3. Under former General Corporation Law § 14

Fire district may acquire real estate for fire house purposes upon condition that the property be used for such purposes and will revert to donor on breach of such condition. The condition of such deed may provide that fire district shall remove the building in the event of breach of condition. The fire house upon such property so acquired may be financed by issuance of serial bonds. 1947 Op. St. Compt. No. 47–225.

4. —Right to use or dispose of property

While a membership corporation may acquire real property for its corporate purposes, it may not use such property, as by way of lease, for a purpose essentially of a business nature for profit. 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen May 14 (Informal), 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 422.

§ 204. Limitation on activities

Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter or any other general law, a corporation of any kind to which this chapter applies shall conduct no activities for pecuniary profit or financial gain, whether or not in furtherance of its corporate purposes, except to the extent that such activity supports its other lawful activities then being conducted.

Revision Notes: Source: None.
Changes: New.
Comment: This section is intended to limit the conduct of any activities which result in profit to the corporation, to an extent that such activities support the other lawful operations of the corporation then being carried on. This means that a non-profit corporation cannot engage in any profit making activity, whether or not in furtherance of its corporate purposes, unless such profit making activity actually supports the other lawful operations of the corporation currently being conducted. This does not mean that all profit must be currently expended, but it does mean that such activity resulting in profit cannot go beyond what is reasonably related to the requirements of the corporation's operations as they are then conducted. A moribund corporation which carries on profit making activities such as investments but nothing else will violate this section.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:
Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Notes to Decisions

1. Generally
A multiple listing service of a real estate brokers' trade association was held not a permissible activity under the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law where the substantial receipts of the Multiple Listing Service of the organization were devoted to continued promotion and generation of real estate sales through the Multiple Listing Service and in expanding the scope and effectiveness of that service. Santos v Chappell, 65 Misc. 2d 559, 318 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1875 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

Agency Opinions

1. Generally
It was not necessary for out-of-state non-profit 501(c)(3) corporation, licensed as debt management company without physical presence in New York, to become licensed under Banking Law in order to receive payments directly from debtor who had relocated to New York. ARTICLE 3 Corporate Name and Service of Process

Section
303. Reservation of name
304. Statutory designation of secretary of state as agent of domestic corporations formed under article four of this chapter and authorized foreign corporations for service of process
305. Registered agent for service of process
306. Service of process
309. Personal jurisdiction and service of process on non-domiciliary resident director, officer, key person or agent

HISTORY:
Add, L 1969, ch 1066, eff Sept 1, 1970.

§ 303. Reservation of name

(a) A corporate name may be reserved by:

(1) Any person intending to form a domestic corporation.

(2) Any domestic corporation intending to change its name.

(3) Any foreign corporation intending to apply for authority to conduct activities in this state.

(4) Any authorized foreign corporation intending to change its name.

(5) Any person intending to incorporate a foreign corporation and to have it apply for authority to conduct activities in this state.

(6) Any domestic corporation intending to file the consent of the attorney general to reinstate such corporation pursuant to section 1014 of this chapter.

(b) A fictitious name for use pursuant to section 1301 of this chapter may be reserved by:

(1) Any foreign corporation intending to apply for authority to do business in this state, pursuant to paragraph (d) of section 1301 of this chapter.

(2) Any authorized foreign corporation intending to change its fictitious name under which it conducts activities in this state.

(3) Any authorized foreign corporation which has changed its corporate name in its jurisdiction, which new corporate name is not available in this state.

(c) Application to reserve a corporate name shall be delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth the name and address of the applicant, the name to be reserved and a statement of the basis under paragraph (a) or (b) for the application. The secretary of state may require the applicant to set forth in his application the nature of the activities to be conducted by the corporation. If the name is available for corporate use, the department of state shall reserve the name for the use of the applicant for a period of sixty days and issue a certificate of reservation. The prohibitions, restrictions and qualifications set forth in section 301 (Corporate name; general), section 302 (Corporate name; exceptions) and section 404 (Approvals, notices and consents) are not waived by the issuance of a certificate of reservation. The certificate of reservation shall include the name of the applicant, the name reserved and the date of the reservation. The certificate of reservation (or in lieu thereof an affidavit by the applicant or by his agent or attorney that the certificate of reservation has been lost or destroyed) shall accompany the certificate of incorporation or the application for authority when either is delivered to the department of state.

(d) The secretary of state may extend the reservation for additional periods of not more than sixty days each, upon the written request of the applicant, his attorney or agent delivered to the department of state, to be filed before the expiration of the reservation period then in effect. Such request shall have attached to it the certificate of reservation of name. Not more than two such extensions shall be granted.

(e) Upon the request of the applicant, delivered to the department of state before the expiration of the reserved period, together with the certificate of reservation, the department shall cancel the reservation.

(f) Any application or request under this section shall be signed by the applicant, his attorney or agent.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Gen Corp Law §§ 40, 215.

Revision Notes: Source: Gen Corp L § 40.

Changes: Revised; new provisions.

Comment: Gen Corp L § 40 permitted reservation of corporate names only for a change of name. Paragraph (a) is based on Model Act § 7A. The statement as to the intention of the applicant is new and intended to discourage applicants who do not in good faith intend to use the reserved name. The secretary of state may request additional information as to the nature of the activities to be conducted by the applicant. The requirement for presentation of the certificate of reservation upon filing of the certificate of incorporation or application for authority would prevent filing on behalf of any one other than the applicant, during the reserved period. The section permits a cancellation of a reservation. An extension of the reservation is in the discretion of the secretary of state. Two extensions are permitted.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

§ 304. Statutory designation of secretary of state as agent of domestic corporations formed under article four of this chapter and authorized foreign corporations for service of process

(a) The secretary of state shall be the agent of every domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter and every authorized foreign corporation upon whom process against the corporation may be served.

(b) Any designation by a domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or foreign corporation of the secretary of state as such agent, which designation is in effect on the effective date of this chapter, shall continue. Every domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or foreign corporation, existing or authorized on the effective date of this chapter, which has not designated the secretary of state as such agent, shall be deemed to have done so.

(c) Any designation by a domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or foreign corporation of an agent other than the secretary of state which is in effect on the effective date of this chapter shall continue in effect until changed or revoked as provided in this chapter.

(d) Any designated post-office address to which the secretary of state shall mail a copy of process served upon him or her as agent of a domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or foreign corporation, shall continue until the filing of a certificate under this chapter directing the mailing to a different post-office address.

§ 305. Registered agent for service of process

(a) Every domestic corporation or authorized foreign corporation may designate a registered agent in this state upon whom process against such corporation may be served. The agent shall be a natural person who is a resident of or has a business address in this state or a domestic corporation or foreign corporation of any kind formed, or authorized to do business in this state, under this chapter or under any other statute of this state.

(b) Any such designation of a registered agent may be made, revoked or changed as provided in this chapter.

(c) A registered agent may resign as such agent. A certificate, entitled "Certificate of resignation of registered agent of ..... (name of designating corporation) under section 305 of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law", shall be signed by him and delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth:

(1) That he resigns as registered agent for the designating corporation.

(2) The date the certificate of incorporation or the application for authority of the designating corporation was filed by the department of state.

(3) That he has sent a copy of the certificate of resignation by registered mail to the designating corporation at the post-office address on file in the department of state specified for the mailing of process or if such address is the address of the registered agent, then to the office of the designating corporation in the jurisdiction of its formation or incorporation.

(d) The designation of a registered agent shall terminate thirty days after the filing by the department of state of a certificate of resignation or a certificate containing a revocation or change of the designation, whichever is filed earlier. A certificate designating a new registered agent may be delivered to the department of state by the corporation within the thirty days or thereafter.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: The section permits domestic and authorized foreign corporations to designate an agent upon whom process against it may be served. He is designated the registered agent. The corporation may designate an individual or corporate registered agent. The CPLR lists the officers, directors and agents upon whom process against a corporation may be served. Existing or authorized corporations may designate a registered agent, or revoke or change the designation or address of the agent by certificate of amendment or change under this chapter. Designations may be in a certificate of incorporation or application for authority. The agent is permitted to resign but he must notify his principal before the resignation is effective.

§ 306. Service of process

(a) Service of process on a registered agent may be made in the manner provided by law for the service of a summons, as if the registered agent was a defendant.

(b) Service of process on the secretary of state as agent of a domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or an authorized foreign corporation shall be made by personally delivering to and leaving with the secretary of state or his or her deputy, or with any person authorized by the secretary of state to receive such service, at the office of the department of state in the city of Albany, duplicate copies of such process together with the statutory fee, which fee shall be a taxable disbursement. Service of process on such corporation shall be complete when the secretary of state is so served. The secretary of state shall promptly send one of such copies by certified mail, return receipt requested, to such corporation, at the post office address, on file in the department of state, specified for the purpose. If a domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or an authorized foreign corporation has no such address on file in the department of state, the secretary of state shall so mail such copy to such corporation at the address of its office within this state on file in the department.

(c) If an action or special proceeding is instituted in a court of limited jurisdiction, service of process may be made in the manner provided in this section if the office of the domestic corporation formed under article four of this chapter or foreign corporation is within the territorial jurisdiction of the court.

(d) Nothing in this section shall affect the right to serve process in any other manner permitted by law.

1. Under former General Corporation Law § 217

An action brought in the justice court on a policy of insurance issued within the state, service having been effected on the superintendent of insurance pursuant to § 59 of the Insurance Law, is within the jurisdiction of such a court even though the defendant insurance company has no office within the jurisdiction and service was not made upon the Secretary of State under this section. Jackson v National Grange Mut. Liability Co., 274 A.D. 330, 83 N.Y.S.2d 602, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3075 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948), app. dismissed, 299 N.Y. 333, 87 N.E.2d 283, 299 N.Y. In a personal injury action arising out of an accident in another state, service of summons on a foreign corporation authorized to do business in the state must be made under the provisions of § 217; service made in accordance with Veh. & Traf. Law § 52 is ineffectual. Schlago v Seaboard Freight Lines, Inc., 65 N.Y.S.2d 369, 187 Misc. 732, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2827 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

Where foreign corporation maintained regular and established place of business in New York within jurisdiction of N. Y. Fed. Dist. F. Sturtevant Co., 61 F. Supp. 756, 1945 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2055 (D.N.Y. 1945).

2. —Service of process on secretary of state

Section 217, as amended by L 1941 c 538, permits service on the secretary of state of process of court of limited territorial jurisdiction if the cause of action arose and stated office of the defendant is within such territorial jurisdiction. Pohlers v Exeter Mfg. Co., 293 N.Y. 274, 56 N.E.2d 582, 293 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 274, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 1314 (N.Y. 1944).

Where the agent appointed to receive service of process died and no new agent had been appointed the federal district court in New York obtained jurisdiction where service was made on the secretary of state even though it was a foreign cause of action. Cohen v American Window Glass Co., 126 F.2d 111, 1942 U.S. App. LEXIS 4074 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1942).

3. — —Notice to corporation of service

Where a foreign corporation licensed to do business in this state has filed an instrument with the Secretary of State designating him as agent for service of process and specifying the address of its office within New York State, and this section is complied with in serving the Secretary of State, a default judgment obtained against the corporation is not subject to being set aside on the ground that the corporation inadvertently failed to provide the Secretary of State with its full address and accordingly did not receive the notice of service forwarded to it by the Secretary of State. General Crane Service, Inc. v Whiting-Turner Contracting Co., 27 Misc. 2d 403, 208 N.Y.S.2d 244, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2110 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

4. —Jurisdiction obtained by service

Jurisdiction in rem is obtained by the city court of New York by attachment levy in an action against a foreign corporation served with summons and complaint within thirty days after the granting of the warrant by service on the secretary of state at Albany. Swedosh v Belding Hosiery Mills, Inc., 6 N.Y.S.2d 532, 168 Misc. 673, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1886 (N.Y. City Ct. 1938).

Municipal court of New York city has no jurisdiction to enter a judgment against a foreign corporation which has been authorized to do business in this state and has designated the secretary of state to receive process, where the corporation was served by serving the secretary of state at Albany under § 217, because § 217 cannot extend the territorial jurisdiction of the municipal court beyond the territorial limits of New York city. McCulloch v American Carrier Corp., 15 N.Y.S.2d 566, 172 Misc. 450, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2432 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1939), app. denied, 260 A.D. 933, 24 N.Y.S.2d 129, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5517 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

5. —Miscellaneous

Under former § 16 where a foreign corporation doing business in this state had designated a person as agent upon whom process against the corporation might be served, the agency of such person was not limited to actions which arose out of business transacted in this state. Bagdon v Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 217 N.Y. 432, 111 N.E. 1075, 217 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 432, 1916 N.Y. LEXIS 1327 (N.Y. 1916).

Under former § 15 where a foreign corporation was authorized to do business in the state and had officers residing here and had a local bank account, its certificate never having been revoked, it was presumed to be subject to service of summons in this state in the absence of clear and convincing proof on its part that it was not transacting business here. Burke v Galveston, H. & H. R. Co., 173 A.D. 221, 159 N.Y.S. 379, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6580 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Under former § 16 where a foreign corporation had designated a person on whom process might be served process might be served on such person although the cause of action arose outside the state. Smolik v Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 222 F. 148, 1915 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1506 (D.N.Y. 1915).

Changes: Revised.
Comment: This section substantially changes existing law by reducing the minimum number of incorporators from five to one and by eliminating citizenship and residence requirements. In these respects the section follows the provisions of § 401 of the Bus Corp L and the ABA Model Non-profit Corp Act. By eliminating the requirements that incorporators be natural persons and of full age this section departs from the Bus Corp L and adopts the position of the ABA Model Non-profit Corporation.

The use of corporate incorporators in the non-profit area has received previous legislative sanction in the New York Cooperative Corporations Law. It is believed that the simplification of this section reflects the realities of modern corporate practice through the elimination of meaningless formalities and the substitution, in section 718, of a meaningful procedure for discovering and reaching the real parties in interest in not-for-profit corporations. That section makes available to state officials e.g. Attorney General and Secretary of State, and to creditors and members a list of the names and resident addresses of all directors and officers.

§ 402. Certificate of incorporation; contents

(a) A certificate, entitled "Certificate of Incorporation of ..... (name of corporation), under section 402 of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law," shall be signed by each incorporator with his name and address included in such certificate and delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth:

(1) The name of the corporation.

(2) That the corporation is a corporation as defined in subparagraph (5) of paragraph (a) of section 102 (Definitions).

(2-a) The purpose or purposes for which it is formed, it being sufficient to state that the purpose of the corporation is any purpose for which corporations may be organized under this chapter as a charitable or non-charitable corporation, and whether it is a charitable corporation or a non-charitable corporation under section 201 (Purposes). Any corporation may also set forth any activities that it intends to carry out in furtherance of such purpose or purposes; provided that this subparagraph shall not be interpreted to require that the certificate of incorporation set forth such activities or otherwise state how the corporation's purposes will be achieved.

(2-b) If it is not formed to engage in any activity or for any purpose requiring consent or approval of any state official, department, board, agency or other body, a statement that no such consent or approval is required. Such statement shall be deemed conclusive for purposes of filing by the department of state. If subsequent to submitting the certificate of incorporation for filing, the corporation plans to engage in any activity requiring consent or approval pursuant to section 404 (approvals, notices and consents) of this chapter, the corporation shall obtain such consent or approval and accordingly amend its certificate of incorporation pursuant to article eight of this chapter.

(3) The county within the state in which the office of the corporation is to be located. It may also set forth the post office address of an office without the state, at which, pursuant to section 621 (Books and records; right of inspection; prima facie evidence), the books and records of account of the corporation shall be kept.

(4) The names and addresses of the initial directors.

(5) The duration of the corporation if other than perpetual.

(6) A designation of the secretary of state as agent of the corporation upon whom process against it may be served and the post office address within or without this state to which the secretary of state shall mail a copy of any process against it served upon him.

(7) If the corporation is to have a registered agent, his name and address within this state and a statement that the registered agent is to be the agent of the corporation upon whom process against it may be served.

(8) The statements, if any, with respect to special not-for-profit corporations required under article 14 (Special not-for-profit corporations).

(b) If the certificate is for the incorporation of an existing unincorporated association or group it shall have annexed thereto an affidavit of the subscribers of such certificate stating that they constitute a majority of the members of a committee duly authorized to incorporate such association or group.

(c) The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision, not inconsistent with this chapter or any other statute of the state, which provision is (1) for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation, including types or classes of membership and the distribution of assets on dissolution or final liquidation, or (2) required by any governmental body or officer or other person or body as a condition for giving the consent or approval required for the filing of such certificate of incorporation.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

DRAFTING FOR TAX AND FINANCIAL NEEDS OF NOT-FOR PROFIT CORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Most not-for-profit corporations will apply for tax exempt status, usually under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c). Many will also seek state and federal funding. Although Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 402 does not require that the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") address these considerations, Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 406 requires that those not-for-profit corporations that will be private foundations need to specify that in the Certificate. Accordingly, the practitioner must anticipate these needs and address them in the drafting process.

Include required provisions in Certificate to qualify for certain federal tax exemptions.

Most not-for-profit corporations will apply for tax exempt status, usually under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c)(3). To do that, the Certificate must contain a statement that the assets of the corporation will not be distributed or inure to the benefit of any private individual. If, on the other hand, the organization is to be a private foundation under IRC § 509, the Certificate must satisfy the requirements to qualify for that status. Thus, if the entity plans to qualify for tax exempt status under the federal tax system, the practitioner is well-advised to examine the IRC and related regulations carefully when drafting the Certificate. Because the application seeking tax exempt status (the Form 1023 or Form 1024) does not need to be filed until 18 months into the corporation's existence, the entity may have by then grown to the point where making fundamental changes to the Certificate may be difficult to orchestrate.

Consider potential grant funding source requirements when drafting Certificate.

State and federal agencies often require incorporation of an entity before issuing grants to an organization. In some cases, grant agencies will require that an organization's Certificate contain certain language or safeguards before a grant will be issued. If counsel is contemplating applying for grant funding, he or she should investigate the potential grant agencies requirements before filing the Certificate. Given notice and quorum requirements to obtain membership and director authority, as well as the logistics typically involved with making structural changes, it may be difficult to make the change later in the short period of time that may be needed to satisfy a grant application deadline. If the attorney knows that a certain funding source is available, he or she should include the required language from the outset.

SPEED TRAPS IN AMENDING BYLAWS

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

The internal affairs of a not-for-profit corporation may be regulated by the provisions of either the certificate of incorporation (COI) or the bylaws. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 402(c), 602. The dynamics of an organization change over time and internal governance provisions may need to be amended accordingly. Although changes to the COI require governmental filing and approval, changes to the bylaws can usually be accomplished through a completely transparent and internal process. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 803, 602. Unless the organization has grown exponentially, amending the bylaws is a relatively painless process. Larger corporations, however, may run into some speed traps.

Consider expanding internal governance provisions in bylaws to account for future growth.

Under Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(f), which has historically been interpreted broadly, bylaws may contain any provision "relating to" the business of the corporation, the conduct of the corporation's affairs, and the rights or powers of the corporation, its members, directors and officers. Given the broad authority granted to a corporation to control its own internal affairs, the bylaws can be expanded at the outset to allow for future growth without formal changes to the organizational structure. For example, the bylaws may provide for the delegation of tasks to committees or for participation in meetings via telephone conference calls. These types of provisions allow for flexibility when the organization is working through a growth spurt and do not interfere with management when the corporation is in its infancy.

Conflict between members and board may cause stalemate.

It is not unusual for a conflict to arise between the members of the corporation and the board of directors. This creates an especially difficult situation when the issue of amending the bylaws is on the table. Unless otherwise provided for in the bylaws or the COI, the bylaws may be adopted, amended or repealed by either the members entitled to vote in the election of directors or by the board. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(b). Any bylaw adopted by the board may be amended or repealed by the members and vice versa. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(c). This creates a potentially endless loop of amendments that can result in a stalemate until the conflict is resolved. Type B corporations with no members avoid this difficulty.

Consider scheduling and other logistics when amending bylaws.

Although the process for amending the bylaws is not complicated, some formalities must be followed. It is easy to forget timing, scheduling and other logistics when proposing bylaw amendments. If time is of the essence, the logistics can be another speed trap for the unwary. For example, if the members are considering the amendment, a notice of meeting must be prepared and sent to the members. Counsel should factor into the equation such things as quorum requirements, minimum voting requirements, and the level of involvement of the members. In some instances, the members will be happy to delegate the drafting to a committee and pass the proposal without much discussion. In other organizations, membership is intimately involved in operations and a number of meetings may be needed to discuss, dissect and agree on the exact wording of the amendments.

Special care must be taken when the proposed amendment relates to the election of directors. The board may change the rules related to an impending election, but if it does so, the notice sent to the corporation's members related to the next meeting when directors would be elected must be modified. The notice of meeting must not only restate the affected bylaw provision but must also include a concise statement of the changes. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(e). If the members' notice is not properly issued, the bylaw amendments will not be enforceable with respect to that election of directors. Counsel should consider initiating any such amendments at the membership level to avoid the extra step in the process.

Notify IRS of changes to bylaws if exemption has been granted.

Federal tax exempt status is available to a not-for-profit Corporation under a variety of federal bases pursuant to (IRC) 26 USCS § 501(a). If the corporation amending its bylaws has been granted such a tax exemption, notify the IRS of changes to the bylaws. IRS regulations require that a tax-exempt organization immediately notify the local IRS district director whenever a change is made to the character, operations or purpose for which it was originally created. Reg. 1.6033-2(i). This rule applies even if the organization is not required to file an annual information return (the Form 990).

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

Although a temple's certificate of incorporation failed to fully comport with N.Y. Relig. Corp. Fire companies in a village are associations or corporations, which must operate in accordance with their certificates of incorporation, bylaws, and statutes; and, although fire companies are separate and distinct from the village, the statutes do permit village authorities to exercise a certain degree of control over their organization, incorporation, governance, and membership, including residency for membership. § 404. Approvals, notices and consents

(a) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among its purposes the formation of a trade or business association shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the consent of the attorney-general.

(b) (1) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among its purposes the care of destitute, delinquent, abandoned, neglected or dependent children; the establishment or operation of any adult care facility, or the establishment or operation of a residential program for victims of domestic violence as defined in subdivision four of section four hundred fifty-nine-a of the social services law, or the placing-out or boarding-out of children or a home or shelter for unmarried mothers, excepting the establishment or maintenance of a hospital or facility providing health-related services as those terms are defined in article twenty-eight of the public health law and a facility for which an operating certificate is required by articles sixteen, nineteen, twenty-two and thirty-one of the mental hygiene law; or the solicitation of contributions for any such purpose or purposes, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the commissioner of the office of children and family services or with respect to any adult care facility, the commissioner of health.

(2) A corporation whose statement of purposes specifically includes the establishment or operation of a child day care center, as that term is defined in section three hundred ninety of the social services law, shall mail a certified copy of the certificate of incorporation, each amendment thereto, and any certificate of merger, consolidation or dissolution involving such corporation to the office of children and family services within thirty days after receipt of confirmation of the filing of such certificate, amendment, merger, consolidation or dissolution with the department of state. This requirement shall also apply to any foreign corporation filing an application for authority under section thirteen hundred four of this chapter, any amendments thereto, and any surrender of authority or termination of authority in this state of such corporation.

(c) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among the purposes of the corporation, the establishment, maintenance and operation of a hospital service or a health service or a medical expense indemnity plan or a dental expense indemnity plan as permitted in article forty-three of the insurance law, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health.

(d) Every corporation whose certificate of incorporation includes among its purposes the operation of a school; a college, university or other entity providing post secondary education; a library; or a museum or historical society shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the commissioner of education, or in the case of a college or a university, the written authorization of the Regents of the university of the state of New York. Any other corporation the certificate of incorporation of which includes a purpose for which a corporation might be chartered by the regents of the university of the State of New York shall mail a certified copy of the certificate of incorporation to the commissioner of education within thirty days after receipt of confirmation of filing.

(e) Every certificate of incorporation of a cemetery corporation, except those within the exclusionary provisions of section 1503 (Cemetery corporations) shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the cemetery board.

(f) Every certificate of incorporation of a fire corporation shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval, signed and acknowledged, of the authorities of each city, village, town or fire district in which the corporation proposes to act. Such authorities shall be: in a city, the mayor; in a village, a majority of the trustees; in a town, a majority of the members of the town board; in a fire district, a majority of the fire commissioners. The members of the town board of a town, or the trustees of a village, shall not consent to the formation of a fire corporation as hereinbefore provided, until such board shall have held a public hearing on the question of whether the fire company should be incorporated. The notice shall be published at least once in each week for two successive weeks in the official newspaper published in the county in which such fire corporation intends to locate, prior to the regular meeting of such board designated by the chairman of the board to consider the matter. Such notice shall contain the name of the proposed company, the names of the persons signing the certificate of incorporation, a brief description of the territory to be protected by the fire company and that all persons interested shall be heard. If no newspaper is published in the county the publication of the notice shall be in a newspaper in an adjoining county selected by the chairman of such board. All expenses in connection with such publication shall be borne by the parties making the application and paid before the hearing.

(g) Every certificate of incorporation of a corporation for prevention of cruelty to animals shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, or, if such approval be withheld thirty days after application therefor, a certified copy of an order of a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district in which the office of the corporation is to be located, dispensing with such approval, granted upon eight days' notice to such society.

(h) Every certificate of incorporation of a Young Men's Christian Association shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the chairman of the national board of Young Men's Christian Associations.

(i) Every certificate of incorporation which indicates that the proposed corporation is to solicit funds for or otherwise benefit the armed forces of the United States or of any foreign country, or their auxiliaries, or of this or any other state or any territory, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the adjutant general. The department of state, in conjunction with the division of military and naval affairs, shall establish and maintain on the department's website a public listing of all approved not-for-profit corporations soliciting funds for or otherwise benefiting the armed forces of the United States or of any foreign country, or their auxiliaries, or of this or any other state or territory.

(j) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among its purposes the organization of wage-earners for their mutual betterment, protection and advancement; the regulation of hours of labor, working conditions, or wages; or the performance, rendition or sale of services as labor consultant, labor-management advisor, negotiator, arbitrator, or specialist; and every certificate of incorporation in which the name of the proposed corporation includes "union", "labor", "council" or "industrial organization", or any abbreviation or derivative thereof in a context that indicates or implies that the corporation is formed for any of the above purposes, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the industrial board of appeals. The board shall make such inquiry into the purposes of the proposed corporation as it shall deem advisable and shall order a hearing if necessary to determine whether or not such purposes are in all respects consistent with public policy and the labor law. Notice of the time and place of hearing shall be given to the applicants and such other persons as the board may determine.

(k) Every certificate of incorporation for a corporation which has as its exclusive purpose the promotion of the interests of savings bank life insurance or the promotion of the interests of member banks may, if the approval of the superintendent of financial services is endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, use as a part of the corporate name any of the words or phrases, or any abbreviation or derivative thereof, set forth in subparagraph (5) of paragraph (a) of section 301 (Corporate name; general).

(l) Every certificate of incorporation for a corporation which has as its exclusive purpose the creation of an association of licensed insurance agents, licensed insurance brokers, or licensed insurance underwriters and every application for authority of a foreign corporation which is an independent laboratory engaged in testing for public safety, or which has as its purpose the advancement of corporate, governmental, and institutional risk and insurance management, or which has as its exclusive purpose the creation of an association of insurers, each of which is duly licensed in this state or, if it does no business or is not licensed in this state, is duly licensed in another state or foreign jurisdiction may, if the approval of the superintendent of financial services is endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, use as a part of the corporate name any of the words or phrases, or any abbreviation or derivative thereof, set forth in subparagraph (5) of paragraph (a) of section 301 (Corporate name; general).

(m) Every certificate of incorporation in which the name of the proposed corporation includes the name of a political party shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the consent of the chairman of the county committee of such political party of the county in which the office of the corporation is to be located, except in cases where the supreme court finds that the withholding of such consent of the county chairman is unreasonable.

(n) Every certificate of incorporation in which the name of the proposed corporation includes the words "American Legion," shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the Department of New York, the American Legion, duly acknowledged by its commander or adjutant.

(o) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among its corporate purposes or powers the establishment or maintenance of any hospital, as defined in article twenty-eight of the public health law, or the solicitation of contributions for any such purpose, or purposes, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the public health and health planning council.

(p) Every certificate of incorporation of a medical corporation as defined in article forty-four of the public health law and organized pursuant thereto and pursuant to this chapter, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the consent of the commissioner of health and the approval of the public health and health planning council.

(q) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among its corporate purposes or powers the establishment, or operation of a facility for which an operating certificate from the commissioner of mental health is required by article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law, or the solicitation of contributions for any such purpose, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the commissioner of mental health.

(r) Every certificate of incorporation of a health maintenance organization as defined in article forty-four of the public health law and organized pursuant thereto and pursuant to this chapter, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the consent of the commissioner of health.

(t) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among its purposes and powers the establishment or maintenance of a hospital or facility providing health related services, as those terms are defined in article twenty-eight of the public health law, or the solicitation of contributions for any such purpose or two or more of such purposes, shall have endorsed thereon the approval of the public health and health planning council.

(u) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among the purposes of the corporation, the establishment or operation of a substance abuse, substance dependence, alcohol abuse, alcoholism, or chemical abuse or dependence program, or the solicitation of contributions for any such purpose, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the consent of the commissioner of the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services to its filing by the department of state.

(v) Every certificate of incorporation which includes among the purposes of the corporation, the establishment, maintenance and operation of a nonprofit property/casualty insurance company, pursuant to article sixty-seven of the insurance law, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the superintendent of financial services.

Comment: This section brings together all required consents and approvals required as a condition to filing a certificate of incorporation for a not-for-profit corporation. It preserves existing law except in that the requirement of the approval of a justice of the supreme court is eliminated in the case of corporations classified as Type A under section 201.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1970, ch 617, § 11, provides as follows:

§ 11. Transfer of functions. All of the functions and powers possessed by and all the obligations and duties of the department of social services and the board of social welfare relating to approval of certificates of incorporation, which include among their corporate purposes the establishment or maintenance of any hospital, and relating to the establishment of any hospital, as defined in article twenty-eight of the public health law, are hereby transferred and assigned to, assumed by and devolved upon the department of health and the public health council respectively. To effectuate such transfer there shall also be transferred such officers and employees as are necessary, all appropriations or reappropriations, to the extent of remaining unexpended or unencumbered balances thereof, whether allocated or unallocated and whether obligated or unobligated, and all necessary books, papers, records and property. All rules, regulations, acts, determinations and decisions in force at the time of such transfer and proceedings or other business or matters undertaken or commenced by or before the department of social services or the board of social welfare relating to approval of certificates of incorporation, which include among their corporate purposes the establishment or maintenance of any hospital, and relating to the establishment of any hospital, as defined in article twenty-eight of the public health law, and pending at the time of such transfer, shall continue in force and effect until duly modified, abrogated or completed by the department of health or the public health council. References to the department of social services, an office or bureau thereof, or the board of social welfare contained in laws, contracts and other documents relating to the approval of certificates of incorporation, which include among their corporate purposes the establishment or maintenance of any hospital, and relating to the establishment of any hospital, as defined in article twenty-eight of the public health law, shall be deemed to be references to the public health council or to the department of health or to the corresponding office, bureau or unit of such department, as the case may be.

Laws, 1971, ch 1139, § 1, provides as follows:

Section 1. The legislature hereby finds and declares that:

Improving the present method of delivering health care services is a matter of vital state concern. Without improving the present system, increased health insurance and other benefits will continue to drive up the cost of medical care and overload the delivery system.

Prepaid comprehensive health care plans, wherein the consumer receives comprehensive health services for a periodic charge and the providers are paid on a fixed per capita basis, represent a promising system for delivering a full-range of health care services at a reasonable cost.

Accordingly, it shall be the policy of this state to:

(a) expand the health care options available to the consumer and ensure that each New Yorker will have true freedom of choice in choosing that plan which is most compatible with his needs;.

(b) encourage the formation by physicians of non-profit medical corporations and the operation of such groups in connection with prepaid comprehensive health care plans by.

—granting preferred tax status to medical corporations participating in such plans;.

—making medical and hospital corporations eligible for seed money loans to cover expenses incurred in organizing such a plan;.

—making the capital facilities and equipment of medical corporations eligible for financing by the state housing finance agency under the hospital and nursing home loan program;.

—empowering health service corporations, governed by article nine-C of the insurance law, to organize and manage prepaid comprehensive health care plans;.

—directing the superintendent of insurance to modify insurance requirements applicable to health service corporations to enable them to use their assets to organize and manage prepaid comprehensive health care plans.

Laws 1985, ch 804, § 6, provides as follows:

§ 6. This act shall take effect on the first day of August, nineteen hundred eighty-five and shall remain in full force and effect until the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred eighty-nine. Registrations accepted and certificates and permits issued by programs funded pursuant to section three hundred ninety-a of the social services law prior to the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred eighty-nine shall continue in full force and effect for the period applicable to such registrations or specified in such certificates and permits and shall not automatically terminate as of the date of conclusion of the project established by this act. (Amd, L 1989, ch 20, § 1, eff March 31, 1989.).

Laws 1997, ch 468, § 2, eff Sept 25, 1997, provides as follows:

§ 2. Nothwithstanding any other provision of law, this act shall not require the amendment of any certificate of incorporation for which consent had been obtained pursuant to paragraph (s) of section 404 of the not-for-profit corporation law, and any such corporate purposes, powers, or provisions shall continue until duly amended or changed pursuant to law. Consent of the secretary of state shall not be required to effect such amendment or change.

Laws 1999, ch 558, §§ 55–57, eff Oct 5, 1999, provide as follows:

§ 55. Existing rules, policies, and regulations for the reimbursement of alcohol, substance abuse, or chemical dependence costs under the medical assistance program shall remain unchanged until an affirmative action is taken by the department of health, in consultation with the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services, and approved by the division of budget.

Laws 2010, ch 58, § 86 (f) (Part A), eff July 2, 2010, deemed eff on and after April 1, 2010, provides as follows:

§ 86. This act shall take effect immediately and shall be deemed to have been in full force and effect on and after April 1, 2010, provided however that:

(f) sections forty-three through eighty-five of this act shall take effect December 1, 2010, provided however, that the public health and health planning council shall be authorized to complete action on any application, regulation, complaint or other matter under consideration by the public health council or state hospital review and planning council on such effective date; and provided further that any final approval granted or regulation adopted by the public health council or state hospital review and planning council shall remain in effect according to its terms after the effective date of this act, unless otherwise lawfully annulled, revoked, modified, amended, limited or suspended.

Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Laws 2017, ch 405, § 3, eff Jan 1, 2019, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect January 1, 2019 (Amd, L 2018, ch 24, § 1, eff April 18, 2018).

Amendment Notes The 2015 amendment by ch 358, § 3, in the first sentence of (b)(2) and in the second sentence of (d), substituted "mail" for "provide" and added "receipt of confirmation of" and in (d), added "of the university of the state of New York" and substituted "business days after the corporation receives confirmation from the department of state that the certificate has been accepted for" for "days after."

The 2016 amendment by ch 134, § 1, substituted "adjutant general" for "chief of staff" in (i).

The 2017 amendment by ch 405, § 2, added the second sentence of (i).

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate.

For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

The name "Gay Activists Alliance" was not inappropriate. Owles v Lomenzo, 38 A.D.2d 981, 329 N.Y.S.2d 181 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1972), aff'd, 31 N.Y.2d 965, 341 N.Y.S.2d 108, 293 N.E.2d 255, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1527 (N.Y. 1973).

In a proceeding to review determinations of a town board of appeals granting a special use permit for a private boarding school to a not-for-profit corporation and its agent, the board erred in granting a permit to the agent where he was merely the nominal head of the school and where it was undisputed that the corporation did not have authorization as required by law to operate the school. McLain St. Area Ass'n v Bd. of Appeals, 82 A.D.2d 834, 439 N.Y.S.2d 668, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14506 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

Commissioner of Education properly determined that foreign non-profit corporation had no authority to operate a private school in New York under N-PCL §§ 404, subd d, 1301, and 1304, subd c where said school, although in existence prior to passage of N-PCL, had never been authorized to do business here within the meaning of N-PCL § 1302. Green Valley School, Inc. v Nyquist, 72 Misc. 2d 889, 340 N.Y.S.2d 234, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1394 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

An application for approval of a certificate of incorporation pursuant to the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, setting forth the purposes of the corporation as being "to print, mail, disseminate, Roman Catholic information . . . to conduct prayer vigils, and with divine guidance keep the knowledge of God and His plan for peace and security in the hearts of all mankind", brings the proposed corporation within the definition of an incorporated church making it subject to the provisions of the Religious Corporations Law as well as the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, and, as such, the application must be denied for failure to conform to the specific provisions of the Religious Corporations Law which govern the incorporation of groups associated with the Roman Catholic Church, including the requirement of an execution and acknowledgment by certain specific officials of that church. In re Lueken (Our Lady of Roses), 97 Misc. 2d 201, 410 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2770 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Although the Attorney-General failed to appear on two occasions when the court was to consider an amendment to the certificate of incorporation of petitioner not-for-profit corporation, petitioner may not compel the Attorney-General to respond to petitioner's application by a CPLR article 78 proceeding in the nature of mandamus since mandamus does not lie in the absence of a showing that the Attorney-General failed to perform a duty enjoined upon him by law and there is no statute or other requirement obligating the Attorney-General to furnish a waiver or consent in connection with the approval of an amendment to the certificate of incorporation of a not-for-profit corporation; the applicable statutes (Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, § 804, subd [a]; § 404, subd [a]) require only that the Attorney-General be given notice that a not-for-profit corporation is applying to an appropriate Justice to amend its certificate of incorporation, and the failure of the Attorney-General to appear after proper service of the notice should result in the court's approval of the application in the absence of an apparent defect in the certificate. Electrical Industry Ass'n v State, 102 Misc. 2d 494, 423 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2898 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Judicial approval of certificate of incorporation for proposed type B not-for-profit corporation would be withheld as unnecessary since proposed corporation was type A not-for-profit corporation, for which no judicial approval was necessary, where proposed corporation did not have charitable purpose but was intended for specific benefit of 3 named persons, and no provision was made for using any portion of funds raised for benefit of public or any class of public. In re Beach, 141 Misc. 2d 735, 534 N.Y.S.2d 341, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 670 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 10

Under former § 41 from which this section is derived the approval of a justice of the supreme court of a certificate of incorporation was an indispensable requisite to the creation of a membership corporation. People v Smith, 200 N.Y.S. 863, 121 Misc. 338, 1923 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1166 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1923).

3. —Court approval of certificate of incorporation

Public policy of the state is not violated where the purposes of a proposed corporation are lawful, and the grant of a charter should not be granted or denied on the basis of the personal notion of the justice of what is contrary to public policy or injurious to the community. Association for Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v Shapiro, 9 N.Y.2d 376, 214 N.Y.S.2d 388, 174 N.E.2d 487, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1961), reh'g denied, 11 N.Y.2d 662, 225 N.Y.S.2d 740, 180 N.E.2d 898, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1478 (N.Y. 1962).

This section, stripped of technical requirements and certain exceptions, authorizes five or more persons to become a membership corporation "for any lawful purpose," but requires that the certificate of incorporation be approved by a justice of the Supreme Court, thus setting up practically no standards to guide exercise of judicial power; and it would seem logical to assume that the function of judicial scrutiny as intended by the Legislature was merely to ascertain whether the proposed incorporation was for a lawful purpose. Association for Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v Shapiro, 9 N.Y.2d 376, 214 N.Y.S.2d 388, 174 N.E.2d 487, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1961), reh'g denied, 11 N.Y.2d 662, 225 N.Y.S.2d 740, 180 N.E.2d 898, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1478 (N.Y. 1962).

There is no basis for the view that this section authorizes a Supreme Court justice, for whose approval a membership corporation certificate is submitted, to grant or deny the application on his personal notion of what is contrary to public policy or injurious to the community, the basic test of whether the application is entitled to judicial approval being whether the stated purposes of the corporation are lawful. Association for Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v Shapiro, 9 N.Y.2d 376, 214 N.Y.S.2d 388, 174 N.E.2d 487, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1961), reh'g denied, 11 N.Y.2d 662, 225 N.Y.S.2d 740, 180 N.E.2d 898, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1478 (N.Y. 1962).

The fact that the aims of a proposed membership corporation are lawful is not alone sufficient for judicial sanction as a matter of course. In re Boy Explorers of America, Inc., 21 Misc. 2d 114, 67 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1747 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

Mere legality of aims is not sufficient for judicial sanction of a certificate of incorporation as a matter of course. Application of United Cadet Ass'n, 13 Misc. 2d 957, 178 N.Y.S.2d 479, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

4. — —As exercise of judicial function

The approval of a Supreme Court Justice as required by this section does not involve simply the performance of a ministerial act but the exercise of a judicial function to decide whether the special privilege of a corporate charter should be granted under all the circumstances surrounding the application. Hence, an application for approval of a proposed certificate of incorporation was denied an organization seeking the establishment of a hospital in Israel where the proposed corporation would merely lead to confusion and misunderstanding and tend greatly to impair the work now being carried on by long established and well-known agencies. Application of United Winograder Medical Center, 21 Misc. 2d 27, 125 N.Y.S.2d 279, 21 Misc. 27, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1407 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

The approval of a justice of the supreme court as required by this section does not simply involve the performance of a ministerial act, but the exercise of a judicial function to decide whether the special privilege of a corporate charter should be granted or conferred under all the circumstances surrounding the application. In re Boy Explorers of America, Inc., 21 Misc. 2d 114, 67 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1747 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

The approval by a justice of the Supreme Court required by this section does not involve simply the performance of a ministerial act, but the exercise of a judicial function, to decide whether the special franchise of a corporate charter should be granted or conferred under all the circumstances surrounding the application. Application of Council of Orthodox Rabbis, Inc., 10 Misc. 2d 62, 171 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3852 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

5. — —Discretion of court

A justice before approving an application for incorporation as a membership corporation as required by this section must draw freely on his own knowledge and experience as well as whatever sources of information may be available to him in determining whether the proper exercise of judicial discretion dictates approval or disapproval in any particular case. In re Boy Explorers of America, Inc., 21 Misc. 2d 114, 67 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1747 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

By reason of the ex parte nature of the application for approval of a certificate of incorporation, it is incumbent upon a justice considering it to draw freely upon his own knowledge and experience as well as other sources of information available to assist him in proper exercise of his discretion. Application of United Cadet Ass'n, 13 Misc. 2d 957, 178 N.Y.S.2d 479, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

The duty imposed upon the Justice of the Supreme Court to whom a certificate for leave to file articles of incorporation is presented is not clerical or ministerial, but requires exercise of judgment and discretion, the questions to be determined being whether objects of the corporation violate public policy, whether approval will permit irresponsible or unequipped citizens to operate under a corporate charter, and whether the proposed corporation will duplicate or conflict with existing corporations. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 419, 205 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

A justice who rules on the certificate of a trade association is exercising a semi-administrative discretion as a separate and distinct step in the procedure for incorporation, and in no sense merely reviewing the decision of the Attorney General; therefore, the court is not limited to matter presented by the applicant but may consider extraneous facts, including such facts as may be presented for its consideration by the Attorney General after his own investigation has been made. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 419, 205 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

6. — —Conclusiveness of approval

Approval of a judge is not conclusive upon the Secretary of State as to the regularity of a certificate. People ex rel. Blossom v

Nelson, 46 N.Y. 477, 46 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 477, 1871 N.Y. LEXIS 282 (N.Y. 1871).

The consent and approbation of a Justice of the Supreme Court, required as one of the conditions precedent to right to file a certificate of incorporation as a membership corporation of the types dealt with in §§ 10 and 11 of the Membership Corporation Law, is cumulative to the other requisites of the act, but decides nothing, and is not conclusive either upon the public or the Secretary of State. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 419, 205 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

7. — —Constitutionality of requirement

Neither § 10 of the Membership Corporation Law, nor subd. 2 of § 212 of the General Corporation Law, is unconstitutional in making an application for a certificate to do business in this state as a membership corporation subject to approval of a justice of the Supreme Court, and mandamus will not issue to compel the Secretary of State to accept and file such a certificate without the required judicial approval. Association for Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v Simon, 22 Misc. 2d 1016, 201 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3289 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 8 N.Y.2d 909, 204 N.Y.S.2d 150, 168 N.E.2d 826, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1178 (N.Y. 1960), aff'd, 11 A.D.2d 927, 206 N.Y.S.2d 532, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8210 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1960).

8. —Other requirements; notice to attorney general

The purpose of the 1958 amendment of this section, requiring the giving of five days' written notice of the application to the Attorney General where it relates to certain types of corporations, was to permit him to present to the court relevant facts at his disposal rather than to authorize him to make any independent ruling or determination on the application. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 419, 205 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

9. — —Incorporation of political club

This section confers a qualified veto power on county chairman in permitting the use of the word descriptive of a political party. The policy of this section has in some cases been extended to cover certain unincorporated associations on the theory that they are de facto corporations. However, the statute does not extend to every unincorporated association which may use the descriptive word or the name of a political party. So, a temporary injunction granted against 5 unincorporated associations of Republicans which prohibited them from using the word "Republican" in their organizational name was modified by permitting the use of the word "Republican" and also to use the party emblems and the initials "G. O. P." so long as it was clear that the 5 associations were opposed to the regular organization. Mele v Ryder, 8 A.D.2d 390, 188 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7775 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1959), app. dismissed, 7 N.Y.2d 1027, 200 N.Y.S.2d 69, 166 N.E.2d 859, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1423 (N.Y. 1960).

An unincorporated association formed for political purposes with offices, stationery, and the name of the club on office windows, is a de facto corporation and therefore subject to the prohibition of this section against the use of the name of a political party without the consent of the county chairman of that party. Gerlach v Good Government Republican Club, 16 Misc. 2d 1050, 123 N.Y.S.2d 902, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1411 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 282 A.D. 830, 123 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5050 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1953).

Republican county chairman could withhold consent to use of name "Metropolitan Republican Club, Inc." where the incorporators intended to appeal to all individuals. In re Application of Roosevelt, 9 Misc. 2d 205, 160 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3384 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 3 A.D.2d 988, 163 N.Y.S.2d 403, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5236 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1957).

Where the persons seeking to incorporate an organization to be known as the "7th Ward Democratic Club" of a particular city are, in the majority, not residents of that ward, are of undetermined residence and not even enrolled members of the party in the county, such danger of confusion exists as to warrant the county party chairman in withholding consent to incorporation of the organization. Application of Coles, 27 Misc. 2d 789, 211 N.Y.S.2d 751, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Subdivision 8 of this section recognizes the necessity of propriety of control, albeit a limited control, by the party chairman where the name of the proposed corporation includes the name of a political party, and only when the exercise of such power by the county chairman is patently unreasonable should the Supreme Court veto his withholding of consent. Application of Coles, 27 Misc. 2d 789, 211 N.Y.S.2d 751, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Secretary of state properly received certificate of incorporation of membership corporation with name containing name of political party where endorsement of county chairman was made when encumbent had resigned but still held office and certificate was approved by court before resignation of chairman took effect. Archinal v Reuss, 46 Misc. 2d 428, 260 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1967 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

An affidavit attached to an application for approval of a certificate of incorporation of a political club, stating that the county chairman has refused to give his consent because the leader of the assembly district in which the proposed club is to operate objects, does not take the place of the indorsement of consent required by this section, and approval must be withheld until the county chairman is given an opportunity to be heard before the court so that there may be a determination as to whether the withholding of consent is unreasonable. In re Independent Republican Club, 58 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2406 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

10. — —Incorporation of fire company

Incorporation of a fire company requires approval of a justice of the Supreme Court and consent of the Town Board after public hearing. 1964 Op St Compt No. 64–176.

11. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 11

Public hearing may not be held under this section until after expiration of 14 days from first publication of notice of such hearing. 1955 St Compt No. 55–7248.

12. —Required prior consent of various state agencies

Above statute providing for special prior consents from variety of State agencies for numerous activities affected with public interest, contains no such requirement as to solicitation of funds. Waldemar Medical Research Foundation, Inc. v Margolies, 45 Misc. 2d 887, 257 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2155 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965), aff'd, 25 A.D.2d 444, 267 N.Y.S.2d 483, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5165 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1966).

13. — —Commissioner of education; board of regents

The Commissioner of Education has no power to approve the incorporation of an educational organization known as the "Human Engineering Laboratory, Inc.", in view of the provisions of § 1461 of the Education Law which provides that the word "engineers" or "engineering" shall not be used in the title of any such corporation except a nonprofit group composed exclusively of professional engineers. New York State Soc. of Professional Engineers, Inc. v Education Dep't of New York, 262 A.D. 602, 31 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5436 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

Where the Commissioner of Education has improperly approved a certificate of incorporation and the Board of Regents has refused to correct the mistake, the courts will order such correction where the refusal to act is unfair, arbitrary or capricious. New York State Soc. of Professional Engineers, Inc. v Education Dep't of New York, 262 A.D. 602, 31 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5436 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

Under subd. 2 of this section, a certificate of incorporation for a membership corporation to establish professional standards for training and research in the field of psychoanalysis and to arrange lectures and discussions pertaining to relationship between that field and other fields of science and education clearly required the consent of the Commissioner of Education. Nat'l Psychological Ass'n for Psychoanalysis, Inc. v Allen, 14 A.D.2d 190, 217 N.Y.S.2d 893, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9367 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

The purposes referred to in subd. 2 of this section, requiring consent of the Commissioner of Education, are those found in § 216 of the Education Law. Nat'l Psychological Ass'n for Psychoanalysis, Inc. v Allen, 14 A.D.2d 190, 217 N.Y.S.2d 893, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9367 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

The Secretary of State was entitled to refuse to file a certificate of incorporation without express consent of the Commissioner of Education where one of the stated purposes of the corporation was "to promote and develop facilities for training and study for its members." Association for Psychoanalysis, Inc. v Simon, 21 A.D.2d 209, 250 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3655 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

Prior acceptance for filing by the Secretary of State of the certificate of organization of a membership corporation, without requiring consent of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to subd 2 of this section, did not mandate similar action in a later incident under pain of being charged with arbitrary conduct. Association for Psychoanalysis, Inc. v Simon, 21 A.D.2d 209, 250 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3655 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

Where the purposes enumerated in a certificate of incorporation of a membership corporation constituted no basis for incorporation by the Board of Regents, the Secretary of State improperly refused to file a certificate without the endorsement of consent of the Commissioner of Education. Lunderman v De Sapio, 9 Misc. 2d 322, 173 N.Y.S.2d 158, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2217 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

The Secretary of State was not required to file the certificate of incorporation of a group organized "to advise, encourage and assist local area (areas) in obtaining a betterment of methods, means, facilities, and operations in education matters" without the consent of the Commissioner of Education, since such an association could be incorporated by the Regents of the University. Lunderman v De Sapio, 19 Misc. 2d 679, 196 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3862 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958), aff'd, 9 A.D.2d 803, 193 N.Y.S.2d 1022, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6143 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1959).

14. — —Board of standards and appeals

The Board of Standards and Appeals may not refuse approval of a proposed certificate of incorporation of a labor organization because it disapproves of provisions in a tentative contract which may be offered to the employers by the proposed corporation. McNair v Picard, 262 A.D. 927, 29 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6509 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

The purpose specified in a proposed certificate of incorporation for the "Hotel Roosevelt Employees Welfare Association", that the corporation was designed to promote the well-being of the employees, brings the proposed corporation within subd. 1-a of this section and Gen. Corp. Law, § 9-a. Breen v Picard, 4 N.Y.S.2d 301, 167 Misc. 561, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1569 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1938).

The Board of Standards and Appeals may not refuse to approve the incorporation as a membership corporation of a formerly unincorporated association consisting of public employees, where the purpose of the organization set forth in its certificate is to benefit and advance the welfare and interest of the employees of the Park Department of the City of New York. Hagan v Picard, 12 N.Y.S.2d 873, 171 Misc. 475, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1964 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 258 A.D. 771, 14 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

The power vested by the statute and the Board of Standards and Appeals to approve or disapprove certificates of incorporation of organizations of workingmen is ministerial, and does not authorize action on the basis of some policy which the Board thinks should be followed by the state, and it is not competent for the Board to withhold approval because it is not in sympathy with the purposes of the corporation. Hagan v Picard, 12 N.Y.S.2d 873, 171 Misc. 475, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1964 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 258 A.D. 771, 14 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

An application for a certificate of incorporation which enumerates the following purposes: "To further the social and economic conditions of its members and to take over, carry on, and continue the affairs, property, obligations, business and objectives of the unincorporated association" needs no approval by the Board of Standards and Appeals, since the certificate contains no statement that the members of the corporation, whose social and economic ambitions are to be furthered, are workingmen or women or wage earners, as required by subdivision 1-a of this section. Wilson v Picard, 20 N.Y.S.2d 119, 173 Misc. 788, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1771 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

15. — —Board of social welfare

Where the Board of Social Welfare has refused to permit a membership corporation to amend its certificate of incorporation to permit it to operate a hospital, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of the Board where it clearly appears that there was no arbitrary or malicious exercise of power. Italian Hospitalization Soc. v State Department of Social Welfare, 34 N.Y.S.2d 385, 178 Misc. 183, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1522 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

16. —Court approval

The consent and approbation of a Justice of the Supreme Court, required as one of the conditions precedent to right to file a certificate of incorporation as a membership corporation of the types dealt with in §§ 10 and 11 of the Membership Corporation Law, is cumulative to the other requisites of the act, but decides nothing, and is not conclusive either upon the public or the Secretary of State. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 419, 205 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

The duty imposed upon the Justice of the Supreme Court to whom a certificate for leave to file articles of incorporation is presented is not clerical or ministerial, but requires exercise of judgment and discretion, the questions to be determined being whether objects of the corporation violate public policy, whether approval will permit irresponsible or unequipped citizens to operate under a corporate charter, and whether the proposed corporation will duplicate or conflict with existing corporations. In re Application of Excavating Machine Owners Ass'n, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 419, 205 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

17. —Incorporation and powers of particular corporations

Where the great council of New York was not given the power, by its charter, to erect and maintain a home for aged members, this section does not give it such power in the absence of a change in its charter to that effect. Kiowa Council, etc. v Great Council of New York, etc., 228 N.Y.S. 256, 132 Misc. 106, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 799 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1928).

Approval of certificate of incorporation under name "National Foundation for Diarrheal Diseases, Inc." was denied where the organization sought generally to foster, promote, and disseminate information. In re National Foundation for Diarrheal Diseases, 8 Misc. 2d 12, 164 N.Y.S.2d 177, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3497 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

18. — —Bar association; aid to lawyers

Activity of bar association in conducting poll of membership to determine fitness of candidates for judicial office and expending funds to support judicial candidates found to be fit was not ultra vires under this section. Pecora v Queens County Bar Asso., 46 Misc. 2d 530, 260 N.Y.S.2d 116, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1807 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

A certificate of incorporation will be granted to an organization having among its objectives the advancement of knowledge and understanding of the law and research in jurisprudence, the promotion of a sound administration of justice and a grant of aid to members of the bar who may find themselves in need because of ill health, physical disability, or misfortune. In re Certificate of Incorporation of New York County Lawyers' Ass'n Fund, Inc., 81 N.Y.S.2d 724, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2932 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

19. — —Labor union

The Secretary of State may properly refuse to approve a certificate of incorporation of a labor union where it appears that the union seeking incorporation is or will be dominated by the employer and therefor approval would be in conflict with the public policy of the state as set forth in the Labor Law. Campbell v Picard, 300 N.Y.S. 515, 165 Misc. 148, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1950 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

20. — —Prevention of cruelty to animals

The approval of the National Association for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals as a condition precedent to incorporation of a county society may be dispensed with upon evidence that the public interest required approval of the proposed certificate of incorporation. In re Warren County Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Inc., 123 N.Y.S.2d 419, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1981 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

21. —Tax liability

A membership corporation was entitled to exemption from real property taxes where its membership was open to the public as a little theater corporation and no officer, member or employee other than production directors received money. Little Theatre of Watertown, Inc. v Hoyt, 7 Misc. 2d 907, 165 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1607 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956), aff'd, 4 A.D.2d 853, 167 N.Y.S.2d 240, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4564 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1957).

The fact that none of the corporation papers on file contained a statement that the hospital was incorporated as a "charitable corporation" did not negate the actuality that the hospital was a charitable institution within the purport of § 189 of the Lien Law. The court pointed out there was no general charitable corporation statute in New York, and that the law contemplated, with respect to hospitals, that charitable pursuits may be pursued by an entity functioning under the Membership Corporation Law. Gonzalez v New York City Transit Authority, 27 A.D.2d 744, 277 N.Y.S.2d 527, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4816 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1967).

A will directing that a memorial to testator's wife be maintained, and setting aside from the remainder a certain sum for perpetual care, for the maintenance and exhibition of valuable art objects, and for which purpose a nonprofit corporation had been formed, will be given effect and the testator's intention will be determined as having established a charitable and educational bequest with a devise of the real property and improvements thereon to the corporation. In re Klauber's Will, 106 N.Y.S.2d 264, 201 Misc. 839, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2043 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1951).

8. — —Board of standards and appeals

A certificate of incorporation stating a purpose to assume the affairs, business and objects of the unincorporated Yard Workers Association and not disclosing what those affairs, business and objects were, and disclosing other purposes authorizing incorporation under § 10, may be accepted for filing without approval of the board of standards and appeals under subd 1-a of this section, if the clause disclosing the purpose to assume the affairs, business and objects of the unincorporated association is deleted. 1940 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 281.

9. — —Board of social welfare

Where a proposed certificate of incorporation states in its purpose clause that it is formed to give financial and other help, aid and assistance to existing institutions or organizations established for the care and treatment of the sick, needy and infirm, such proposed certificate does not require the approval of the state board of social welfare. 1940 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 361, 1940 N.Y. AG LEXIS 177.

It is permissible in stating the powers of a membership corporation subject to the jurisdiction of the state department of social welfare to attach a condition to the effect that any institution which if incorporated separately under a general law would require the approval of the state board of social welfare, shall not be established or maintained in this state unless the written approval of such state board shall first have been obtained; and such a certificate may not be amended, without the approval of the state board of social welfare, to delete the condition set forth in the certificate. 1941 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 336, 1941 N.Y. AG LEXIS 172.

Before a foreign corporation organized to maintain a home for the aged may take title to realty in this State it must obtain approval of the State Board of Social Welfare and file statement and designation with Secretary of State. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen April 20 (Informal), 1955 N.Y. AG LEXIS 209.

10. — —Board of charities

A hospital should be organized under the provisions of the Membership Corporations Law rather than under the Business Corporations Law, and the State Board of Charities is not authorized to approve certificates for incorporation under the latter statute. 1911 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 191.

The functions of public health authorities in considering the location of a new hospital as a public health matter are entirely different from those of the state board of charities in the same premises. The latter cannot base its refusal to approve the certificate of incorporation upon the grounds involved in a determination already made by the former. 1927 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 331.

11. —Incorporation and powers of particular corporations

12. — —Practice of medicine; practice of optometry

Formation of a corporation to engage in the practice of medicine is possible only under the provisions of this section. 1934 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 240.

A corporation other than one to organize a hospital or similar institution may not lawfully be formed, under the Mem. Corp. Law, for the purpose of engaging in the practice of optometry. 1935 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 373.

A hospital service corporation formed pursuant to Membership Corporations Law as provided under the cited article of the Insurance Law is a moneyed corporation and may use the word "Insurance" as part of its corporate name. 1965 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 46, 1965 N.Y. AG LEXIS 35.

The purposes stated in Soc. Wel. Law, § 35, subd. 1, are purposes for which a corporation must be formed under the provisions of the Membership Corporations Law. 1941 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 338, 1941 N.Y. AG LEXIS 173.

§ 405. Organization meeting

(a) After the corporate existence has begun, an organization meeting of the initial directors, or, if directors are not designated in the certificate of incorporation, of the incorporator or incorporators, shall be held within or without this state, for the purpose of adopting by-laws, electing directors to hold office as provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. The meeting may be held at the call of any director or, if directors are not designated in the certificate of incorporation, any incorporator who shall give at least five days' notice thereof by mail to each other director or incorporator, which notice shall set forth the time and place of the meeting. Notice need not be given to any director or incorporator who submits a signed waiver of notice before or after the meeting, or who attends the meeting without protesting, prior thereto or at its commencement, the lack of notice to him. If there are more than two directors or incorporators, a majority shall constitute a quorum and the act of the majority of those present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the directors or incorporators. For the purposes of this section an incorporator or director may act in person or by proxy signed by him or his attorney in fact.

(b) Any action permitted to be taken at an organization meeting may be taken without a meeting if each director or, if directors are not designated in the certificate of incorporation, each incorporator or his attorney-in-fact signs an instrument setting forth the action so taken.

(c) If a designated director or an incorporator dies or is for any reason unable to act, the other or others may act. If there is no designated director or incorporator able to act, any person for whom an incorporator is acting as agent may act in his stead, or if such other person also dies or is for any reason unable to act, his legal representative may act.

Comment: This section has no counterpart in existing law. It is derived from the ABA Model Non-profit Corp Act § 32 and Bus Corp L § 404. The section codifies the usual New York practice of having the incorporators or the initial directors adopt by-laws and complete the corporate organization. Paragraph (c) covers the situation where a designated director or an incorporator dies or is for any reason unable to act.

§ 501. Stock and shares prohibited; membership certificates authorized

A corporation shall not have stock or shares or certificates for stock or for shares, but may issue non-transferable membership certificates or cards to evidence membership, whether or not connected with any financial contribution to the corporation, as provided in section 601 (Members). The fact that the corporation is a not-for-profit corporation, and that the membership certificate or card is non-transferable shall be noted conspicuously on the face or back of each such certificate or card.

Changes: Reworded and revised; new provisions.

Comment: The section makes express the implied prohibition of Mem Corp L § 40 against the issuance of shares or certificates for shares. It follows Mem Corp L § 40 in authorizing the issuance of membership certificates or cards, and governs their terms. Membership may be evidenced otherwise than by certificates or cards as provided in section 601 (Members). A new provision specifies that membership certificates or cards shall be non-transferable.

Notes to Decisions

1. Generally

Non-profit corporation was statutorily prohibited from issuing shares, so a "shareholder's" assertion that she had acquired the shares of another member, giving her 50 percent of the shares in the corporation and creating a voting deadlock between herself and the corporation's directors, was incorrect. Spencer v Petrone, 297 A.D.2d 730, 747 N.Y.S.2d 569, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8671 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2002).

2003 amended by-laws of a non-profit corporation that owned an apartment building violated N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(f) and 611(e) because no shares could be issued pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 501 and each member could have only one vote; it was improper to give petitioner families entitlement to an additional vote because they possessed an additional unit. Matter of Thakur v 210 Forsyth St. Hous. Dev. Fund Corp., 844 N.Y.S.2d 686, 17 Misc. 3d 1012, 238 N.Y.L.J. 98, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 7261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

1. Generally

Unpublished decision: Because plaintiff's "equity interest" in defendant corporation was a forbidden "stock or share" in a not-for-profit corporation, the agreement was therefore invalid; plaintiff therefore did not allege the existence of a valid contract to support a claim for breach of contract, and its complaint was properly dismissed. § 507. Fees, dues and assessments; fines and penalties

(a) If authorized by its certificate of incorporation or by-laws and subject to any limitations stated therein a corporation may levy initiation fees, dues and assessments on its members, whether or not they are voting members, and may impose reasonable fines or other penalties upon its members for violations of its rules and regulations.

(b) Initiation fees, dues or assessments may be levied on all classes of members alike or in different amounts or proportions for different classes of members, as the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws may provide, but in all cases the fees, dues and assessments payable by members of one class shall be determined upon the same basis.

(c) The certificate of incorporation or the by-laws may contain such provisions as are deemed necessary to enforce the collection of fees, dues, assessments, fines or other penalties, including provisions for the termination of membership, upon reasonable notice, for non-payment of such fees, dues, assessments, fines or other penalties, and provisions for reinstatement of membership.

(d) Subject to the provisions of this chapter, the certificate of incorporation may provide that members paying initiation fees, dues or assessments shall, upon dissolution of the corporation, have distributive rights in its assets. The distributive rights may be different for different classes of members, but in all cases the rights of members of one class shall be the same.

Comment: This section expands the provisions of Mem Corp L § 20. Paragraph (a) permits a corporation to levy initiation fees, dues and assessments on its members if its certificate of incorporation or by-laws so provide and subject to any limitations contained in either. Paragraph (b), the language of which is in part adapted from 15 Pa Stat Ann § 7602, provides that the amounts levied may vary from class to class, as the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws may provide, but requires that the obligations of members of one class shall be the same. Paragraph (c) authorizes provisions to enforce the collection of fees, dues or assessments in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. These provisions may include termination of membership, upon reasonable notice, for nonpayment and provisions for re-instatement. Paragraph (d) authorizes provisions in the certificate of incorporation for distributive rights, upon dissolution of the corporation, to members paying initiation fees, dues or assessments. Such rights are subject to the provisions of this chapter. In all cases, however, the distributive rights of members of one class must be the same.

Townhouse developer was not collaterally estopped from challenging validity of foreclosure judgment for maintenance and special assessments entered against it following its voluntary filing for bankruptcy where central issue before Bankruptcy Court was motion of townhouse owners' association to lift stay of foreclosure sale, and parties did not litigate validity of association's underlying lien for assessments, which Bankruptcy Court simply presumed valid for purposes of resolving stay issue. Roxrun Estates, Inc. v Roxbury Run Village Asso., 136 A.D.2d 162, 526 N.Y.S.2d 633, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3389 (N.Y. Supreme Court properly imposed reduced assessment on townhouse developer for maintenance of its unimproved lots (as compared to full rate which individual townhouse owners were required to pay for their improved lots) under rules of owners' association in which developer and individual owners were members as same class, even though CLS N-PCL § 507(b) requires that assessments payable by members must be determined on same basis, since rates were based on actual cost of maintaining properties. While the defendant contends that a by-law authorizing an assessment and providing that "there shall be an annual assessment due and payable on April first, which assessment shall be determined upon a vote of the club on the report made at the annual meeting by the Treasurer," assumed to provide for an assessment without authority in law, it is clear that this so-called assessment was to cover the expenses for the ensuing year and not to cover expenses already incurred, and consequently constitutes "fees" or "dues," which the plaintiff is authorized to levy.

Comment: This section rewords the first paragraph of Mem Corp L § 21, by replacing the term "the whole number of directors" with "the entire board". It continues to require a vote of two-thirds of the entire board to authorize the purchase, sale, mortgage or lease of real property by the corporation. Other parts of Mem Corp L § 21 are revised by eliminating the requirement of court approval for all sales, mortgages, and leases of real property, except where such property constitutes all or substantially all the corporate assets, so that § 510 is applicable.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

BOARD AUTHORIZATION OF LEASES UNDER NPCL § 509.

By Annabelle V. Irey, Esq. and Karla L. Braun-Kolbe, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP.

INSIGHT

NPCL § 509 provides that a not-for-profit corporation may not purchase, sell, mortgage or lease real property unless authorized by two-thirds of its entire board of directors (or by a majority if there are twenty-one or more directors). A not-for-profit corporation entering into a lease should seek board approval of the arrangement regardless of whether the not-for-profit corporation will be the lessor or lessee. The board of directors should follow the statute closely when authorizing the arrangement and refrain from delegating its authority to authorize such arrangement.

NPCL § 509 states simply that a not-for-profit corporation may not "lease" real property unless authorized by two-thirds of its entire board of directors (or by a majority if there are twenty-one or more directors). The statutory language is less than clear as to whether board authorization is required only when a not-for-profit corporation is the lessor of real property or also when the not-for-profit corporation is the lessee. The legislative history of NPCL § 509 suggests authorization is required in both cases.

Prior to a 1991 amendment, NPCL § 509 read ". . . [n]o corporation shall sell, mortgage or lease its real property, unless authorized . . . ." (emphasis added). The pre-amendment language required board authorization only when a not-for-profit corporation was the lessor. The 1991 amendment deleted the possessive pronoun "its" suggesting that board authorization is now required regardless of whether a not-for-profit corporation enters into a lease as the lessor or lessee. See 1991 N.Y. Laws 145. Legislative materials support this interpretation. One memorandum in support of the amendment summarized the amendment as requiring board authorization for "any real property lease entered into by the corporation" and emphasized that a not-for-profit corporation's lease of real property "can have a significant impact on its fiscal integrity similar to the purchasing of real property . . . ." Mem. of Comm'n on Quality of Care for the Mentally Disabled.

Boards of not-for-profit corporations might be inclined to delegate their authority to authorize NPCL § 509 transactions to their executive committees or other committees. However, an informal opinion of the Attorney General of the State of New York recognized that such authority cannot be delegated: "Clearly the literal interpretation of section 509 precludes the delegation of the approval of real estate transactions to the executive committee or other standing committee." 1988 N.Y. Op's Att'y Gen. No. 88-35, 1988 N.Y. AG LEXIS 37, *2. The opinion describes how "Section 509 reflects a legislative intent to have a substantial number of the members of the board approve real estate transactions." Id. at *4. Moreover, since the language of NPCL § 509 requires authorization by two-thirds of the entire board, authorization by two-thirds of those present at a board meeting where not all directors are in attendance is insufficient.

A practitioner representing a not-for-profit corporation seeking to enter into a leasing arrangement (either as lessor or lessee) or other NPCL § 509 transaction should first determine whether the provisions of NPCL § 509 apply, as certain not-for-profit corporations are not subject to the provision. If NPCL § 509 is applicable, the practitioner should advise that the two-thirds of all directors (or a majority, if there are twenty-one or more directors) authorize the transaction.

7. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 22

1. Generally

In mortgage foreclosure action arising from loans made by plaintiff bank to member of defendant not-for-profit corporation who falsely represented that he was acting on behalf of and with authorization from defendant when he repeatedly borrowed money in defendant's name, court properly dismissed complaint and vacated mortgages following nonjury trial where (1) corporate resolutions on which plaintiff relied in granting loans were patently fraudulent and invalid, (2) member's fraudulent transactions were made without defendant's knowledge, (3) plaintiff made no factual showing that defendant was responsible for appearance of authority to conduct such transactions, and (4) plaintiff failed to take even minimal steps to discover actual scope of member's authority. Fleet Bank v Consola, Ricciteli, Squadere Post No. 17, Inc., 268 A.D.2d 627, 701 N.Y.S.2d 182, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 112 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Federal court determined that New York's highest court would likely hold that the provisions of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 509, 510 requiring a vote of directors or court approval to sell the assets of a not-for-profit corporation do not apply to transfers which are involuntary, such as foreclosure against the assets by a creditor or an involuntary transfer in bankruptcy. In re Machne Menachem, Inc., 371 B.R. 63, 2006 Bankr. LEXIS 4295 (Bankr. M.D. Pa. 2006).

In real estate broker's action for sale commission, not-for-profit corporation could not invoke provisions of N-PCL § 509 to avoid contract where statute did not prohibit corporate officers from contracting with brokers to procure a purchaser, where corporate committee responsible for selling property had authority under N-PCL § 712 to act on board's behalf, and where, under general agency principles, committee had apparent authority to bind corporation. Shear v NRA, 606 F.2d 1251, 196 U.S. App. D.C. 344, 1979 U.S. App. LEXIS 12492 (D.C. Cir. 1979).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 21

Compliance with the statute is absolutely necessary to the validity of any mortgage of real estate which corporations of the class described therein shall execute and deliver. Dudley v Congregation of Third Order of St. Francis, 138 N.Y. 451, 34 N.E. 281, 138 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 451, 1893 N.Y. LEXIS 858 (N.Y. 1893).

This section merely imposes a limitation on the power of a cemetery corporation organized under the Membership Corporations Law to convey away its property, and is in no sense to be considered a grant of power not previously enjoyed by such a corporation. Application of Kensico Cemetery, 83 N.Y.S.2d 73, 193 Misc. 479, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), rev'd, 275 A.D. 681, 86 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4009 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1949).

A chamber of commerce, although not specifically granted the power by its charter to own real property, had such power under either the Membership Corporations Law or the General Corporation Law, it being incorporated as a membership corporation. Corning Chamber of Commerce v Bohoy, 139 N.Y.S.2d 503, 207 Misc. 789, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3459 (N.Y. County Ct. 1955).

3. —Authority to purchase, lease, or sell; directors, trustees

A soldiers' monument corporation was permitted to sell its real property where, before title closing, a majority of the directors authorized the sale under the terms contained in the contract. The evidence established the adequacy of the consideration and that the interests of the corporation would be promoted by the sale. Application of Staten Island War Memorial Asso., 286 A.D. 887, 143 N.Y.S.2d 100, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4441 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 286 A.D. 1017, 145 N.Y.S.2d 318, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5023 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

The majority of directors of a membership corporation may authorize a sale of real estate, and provisions of Gen. Corp. Law, § 71, in regard to a two-thirds vote are inapplicable. In re Application of Diocesan Auxiliary, 197 N.Y.S. 750, 119 Misc. 610, 1922 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1773 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1922).

A buyer is entitled to inquire into the question of whether the required number of trustees approved the sale to the buyer, since this is a matter peculiarly within the knowledge of the seller. Bounding Home Corp. v Chapin Home for Aged & Infirm., 19 Misc. 2d 653, 191 N.Y.S.2d 722, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3087 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

4. — —President

Resolutions adopted by the directors of a membership corporation to the effect that the president "be empowered to take charge of the fiscal affairs of the corporation" and that he "has authority to sign and execute all documents," standing alone and without other evidence, are not sufficient to authorize him to enter into an agreement for the purchase of real property by the corporation. Catholic Foreign Mission Soc. v Oussani, 215 N.Y. 1, 109 N.E. 80, 215 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 1, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 976 (N.Y. 1915).

5. — —Members

A corporation could impose further requirements in its bylaws regarding the leasing of real property than those imposed by this section. So where a membership corporation's bylaws limited the powers of its directors to a great degree and required a majority vote of the members themselves on almost every conceivable problem, a lease of real property without membership approval never had a valid inception. In re Trapasso Oldsmobile, Inc., 4 N.Y.2d 133, 173 N.Y.S.2d 10, 149 N.E.2d 515, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1120 (N.Y. 1958).

6. —Actions involving lease or sale

A member of a membership corporation composed of the property holders of a certain community, which corporation performs many of the functions ordinarily performed by a municipal government, has the right to maintain an action in equity to restrain a contemplated sale of all the real property of the corporation to a business corporation in exchange for shares in the business corporation which are to be divided among the members of the membership corporation. Richter v Sea Gate Asso., 207 A.D. 573, 202 N.Y.S. 68, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

In an action for breach of an implied warranty of authority by the president and treasurer of a membership corporation to execute a lease for five years with a two year renewal and also a purchase option, the complaint must allege facts showing that the contract is one which the law would enforce against the principal, and the facts required by this section and Gen. Corp. Law, § 50. Yorkville Square Club, Inc. v Lichtenberger, 250 N.Y.S. 571, 140 Misc. 348, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1372 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

7. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 22

A membership corporation could convey portions of its real property to members of the corporation, but it could not give more than is authorized by law, and a power reserved to change restrictions could not be exercised to make certain substantial alterations. Resnick v Croton Park Colony, Inc., 3 Misc. 2d 109, 151 N.Y.S.2d 328, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2357 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

§ 510. Disposition of all or substantially all assets

(a) A sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of all, or substantially all, the assets of a corporation may be made upon such terms and conditions and for such consideration, which may consist in whole or in part of cash or other property, real or personal, including shares, bonds or other securities of any other domestic or foreign corporation or corporations of any kind, as may be authorized in accordance with the following procedure:

(1) If there are members entitled to vote thereon, the board shall adopt a resolution recommending such sale, lease, exchange or other disposition. The resolution shall specify the terms and conditions of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be received by the corporation and the eventual disposition to be made of such consideration, together with a statement that the dissolution of the corporation is or is not contemplated thereafter. The resolution shall be submitted to a vote at a meeting of members entitled to vote thereon, which may be either an annual or a special meeting. Notice of the meeting shall be given to each member and each holder of subvention certificates or bonds of the corporation, whether or not entitled to vote. At such meeting by two-thirds vote as provided in paragraph (c) of section 613 (Vote of members) the members may approve the proposed transaction according to the terms of the resolution of the board, or may approve such sale, lease, exchange or other disposition and may authorize the board to modify the terms and conditions thereof.

(2) If there are no members entitled to vote thereon, such sale, lease, exchange or other disposition shall be authorized by the vote of at least two-thirds of the entire board, provided that if there are twenty-one or more directors, the vote of a majority of the entire board shall be sufficient.

(3) If the corporation is, or would be if formed under this chapter, classified as a charitable corporation under section 201 (Purposes) such sale, lease, exchange or other disposition shall in addition require approval of the attorney general or the supreme court in the judicial district or of the county court of the county in which the corporation has its office or principal place of carrying out the purposes for which it was formed in accordance with section 511 (Petition for court approval) or section 511-a (Petition for attorney general approval) of this article.

(b) After such authorization the board in its discretion may abandon such sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of assets, subject to the rights of third parties under any contract relating thereto, without further action or approval.

Comment: This section marks a departure from the Membership Corporation Law by distinguishing a sale, lease, exchange or other distribution of all, or substantially all, the assets of a corporation, from transactions involving less than all or substantially all the assets, governed by the preceding section. Paragraph (a) is derived from Bus Corp L § 909(a). Authorization of the disposition of all or substantially all of the assets, and the terms, conditions and consideration therefor, shall be in accordance with subparagraph (1) if there are members entitled to vote; otherwise, in accordance with subparagraph (2).

The requirement in Mem Corp L § 21, second paragraph, of obtaining judicial approval for the sale, mortgage or lease of any of the corporation's real property has been modified and retained to the extent provided in subparagraph (3): judicial approval is required for the sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of all or substantially all the assets of a Type B or Type C corporation. Paragraph (b) is derived from Bus Corp L § 909(c).

1. Generally

Charitable foundation's sale of 34 acres of land to defendants fell within ambit of CLS N-PCL §§ 510 and 511 where property in question was foundation's largest, most significant and single most valuable possession, and its sale for inadequate consideration severely hampered foundation's ability to carry out its mission of constructing and operating senior citizens' center thereon; accordingly, contract of sale and deed were null and void where transaction was never subjected to requisite judicial scrutiny, and there was no proof that it was approved by foundation's membership or board of trustees. Rose Ocko Found., Inc. v Lebovits, 93 N.Y.2d 997, 696 N.Y.S.2d 107, 718 N.E.2d 412, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1964 (N.Y. 1999).

Prior arbitration proceeding before rabbinical panel and subsequent proceeding to confirm arbitration award were not res judicata to proceeding under CLS Relig Corp § 12 and CLS N-PCL § 511 since prior proceedings did not address issue of whether proposed sale of religious organization's real property met requirements of Religious Corporations Law and Not-for-Profit Corporation Law, and CLS Relig Corp § 12 and CLS N-PCL §§ 510 and 511 expressly make authorization by Supreme Court or County Court condition precedent to sale of property, so that rabbinical panel had no authority to give such authorization. Agudist Council of Greater New York v Imperial Sales Co., 158 A.D.2d 683, 551 N.Y.S.2d 955, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2290 (N.Y. When a court was asked to approve the sale of the assets of a not-for-profit corporation, under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 510(3), it also had to review, in the same proceeding, termination payment clauses or similar damages or reimbursement provisions in the sales contract under the standard in N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 511(d) of fairness, reasonableness and furtherance of corporate purpose, as provisions of this type could be valuable to not-for-profits but judicial scrutiny would protect not-for-profits against board actions that might be adverse to the entity's well-being. 64th Assocs., L.L.C. v Manhattan Eye, Ear & Throat Hosp., 2 N.Y.3d 585, 780 N.Y.S.2d 746, 813 N.E.2d 887, 2004 N.Y. Where a membership corporation leased a hall to be used as a theater and later relying upon the lease, the building was completely remodeled, the court would not void the lease on the ground that it was entered by the trustees improvidently by reason of their inexperience in business affairs and that the rent reserved in the lease was inadequate where no claim of fraud is made even though the provisions of this section was not followed in that no approval of the lease was obtained from the supreme court. A lease of cemetery lands for mining purposes is not only ultra vires but is in contravention of former § 13 from which this section is derived and inconsistent with the objects and purposes for which the lessor was organized, and the court is without power to sanction such a lease without explicit legislative authority. § 511. Petition for court approval

(a) To obtain court approval to sell, lease, exchange or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all its assets, a corporation shall present a verified petition to the supreme court of the judicial district, or the county court of the county, wherein the corporation has its office or principal place of carrying out the purposes for which it was formed. The petition shall set forth:

1. The name of the corporation, the law under or by which it was incorporated.

2. The names of its directors and principal officers, and their places of residence.

3. The activities of the corporation.

4. A description, with reasonable certainty, of the assets to be sold, leased, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of, or a statement that it is proposed to sell, lease, exchange or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all the corporate assets more fully described in a schedule attached to the petition; and a statement of the fair value of such assets, and the amount of the corporation's debts and liabilities and how secured.

5. The consideration to be received by the corporation and the disposition proposed to be made thereof, together with a statement that the dissolution of the corporation is or is not contemplated thereafter.

6. That the consideration and the terms of the sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of the assets of the corporation are fair and reasonable to the corporation, and that the purposes of the corporation, or the interests of its members will be promoted thereby, and a concise statement of the reasons therefor.

7. That such sale, lease, exchange or disposition of corporate assets, has been recommended or authorized by vote of the directors in accordance with law, at a meeting duly called and held, as shown in a schedule annexed to the petition setting forth a copy of the resolution granting such authority with a statement of the vote thereon.

8. Where the consent of members of the corporation is required by law, that such consent has been given, as shown in a schedule annexed to the petition setting forth a copy of such consent, if in writing, or of a resolution giving such consent, adopted at a meeting of members duly called and held, with a statement of the vote thereon.

9. A request for court approval to sell, lease, exchange or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all the assets of the corporation as set forth in the petition.

(b) Upon presentation of the petition, the court shall direct that a minimum of fifteen days notice be given by mail or in person to the attorney general, and in its discretion may direct that notice of the application be given, personally or by mail, to any person interested therein, as member, officer or creditor of the corporation. The court shall have authority to shorten the time for service on the attorney general upon a showing of good cause. The notice shall specify the time and place, fixed by the court, for a hearing upon the application. Any person interested, whether or not formally notified, may appear at the hearing and show cause why the application should not be granted.

(c) If the corporation be insolvent, or if its assets be insufficient to liquidate its debts and liabilities in full, the application shall not be granted unless all the creditors of the corporation shall have been served, personally or by mail, with a notice of the time and place of the hearing.

(d) If it shall appear, to the satisfaction of the court, that the consideration and the terms of the transaction are fair and reasonable to the corporation and that the purposes of the corporation or the interests of the members will be promoted, it may authorize the sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of all or substantially all the assets of the corporation, as described in the petition, for such consideration and upon such terms as the court may prescribe. The order of the court shall direct the disposition of the consideration to be received thereunder by the corporation.

14. Under former General Corporation Law § 52

1. Generally

Prior arbitration proceeding before rabbinical panel and subsequent proceeding to confirm arbitration award were not res judicata to proceeding under CLS Relig Corp § 12 and CLS N-PCL § 511 since prior proceedings did not address issue of whether proposed sale of religious organization's real property met requirements of Religious Corporations Law and Not-for-Profit Corporation Law, and CLS Relig Corp § 12 and CLS N-PCL §§ 510 and 511 expressly make authorization by Supreme Court or County Court condition precedent to sale of property, so that rabbinical panel had no authority to give such authorization. Agudist Council of Greater New York v Imperial Sales Co., 158 A.D.2d 683, 551 N.Y.S.2d 955, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2290 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 707, 560 N.Y.S.2d 989, 561 N.E.2d 889, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3095 (N.Y. 1990).

Religious corporation cannot invalidate ultra vires, but otherwise lawful, transfer of property if transfer was duly approved or authorized by judge; religious corporation's remedy is to sue its misbehaving corporate officers. Congregation Yetev Lev D'Satmar v 26 Adar N.B. Corp., 219 A.D.2d 186, 641 N.Y.S.2d 680, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4447 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 808, 647 N.Y.S.2d 713, 670 N.E.2d 1345, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1538 (N.Y. 1996).

Not-for-profit hospitals and not-for-profit corporations that sought to affiliate under newly created common parent corporation, which would assume certain statutory powers under Not-For-Profit Corporation Law including power to appoint and/or remove directors and approve amendments to respective certificates of incorporation and bylaws, were properly granted summary judgment declaring that proposed affiliation did not require notification to Attorney General and court approval under CLS N-PCL §§ 510, 511, 804 and 805. Nathan Littauer Hosp. Ass'n v Spitzer, 287 A.D.2d 202, 734 N.Y.S.2d 671, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12347 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 602, 744 N.Y.S.2d 762, 771 N.E.2d 835, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 940 (N.Y. 2002).

Former parishioners' notice of pendency and complaint seeking a declaratory judgment was an impermissible collateral attack on an order authorizing a sale of a church's real property under N.Y. Relig. Corp. Law § 12 and this section; the proper procedure for challenging an order authorizing a sale under this section and § 12 was to move to vacate the order, rather than commencing a second plenary action collaterally attacking an order in a prior action. Citizens for St. Patrick's v Saint Patrick's Church of W. Troy, 117 A.D.3d 1213, 985 N.Y.S.2d 743, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3259 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2014).

Lender was not entitled to nunc pro tunc confirmation of mortgage entered into with religious organization without court approval because lender had not submitted enough evidence to prove, before discovery had even begun, that nunc pro tunc approval of mortgage would promote purposes of corporation or interest of members as required by statute. Mosdos Chofetz Chaim, Inc. v RBS Citizens, N.A., 14 F. Supp. 3d 191, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 44039 (S.D.N.Y. 2014).

2. Petition for approval of sale

When a court was asked to approve the sale of the assets of a not-for-profit corporation, under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 510(3), it also had to review, in the same proceeding, termination payment clauses or similar damages or reimbursement provisions in the sales contract under the standard in N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 511(d) of fairness, reasonableness and furtherance of corporate purpose, as provisions of this type could be valuable to not-for-profits but judicial scrutiny would protect not-for-profits against board actions that might be adverse to the entity's well-being. 64th Assocs., L.L.C. v Manhattan Eye, Ear & Throat Hosp., 2 N.Y.3d 585, 780 N.Y.S.2d 746, 813 N.E.2d 887, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 1379 (N.Y. 2004), dismissed, 816 N.Y.S.2d 701, 11 Misc. 3d 1067(A), 235 N.Y.L.J. 75, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 536 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006)

In determining whether to approve religious corporation's sale of real property under CLS Relig Corp § 12 and CLS N-PCL § 511, court must consider whether bargain was fair and reasonable at time it was entered into and whether sale of property would presently benefit religious corporation (church) and promote best interests of its members, who were real parties in interest. Rende & Esposito Consultants, Inc. v St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church, 131 A.D.2d 740, 516 N.Y.S.2d 959, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48195 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Proceeding to authorize the sale of real property pursuant to N.Y. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 511 was remitted for a hearing to determine whether the premises' authorized sale would meet the principles of protecting the beneficiaries of a charitable organization from loss through unwise bargains and from perversion of the use of its property. Matter of Prospect Hgts. Hous. De v Fund Corp., 38 A.D.3d 781, 833 N.Y.S.2d 132, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3787 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

In determining pursuant to N-PCL § 511 whether a church had leave of court to sell a building, the court determined that the consideration in terms of the transactions were fair and reasonable to the church at the time the contract was made where the fair market value of the building at that time was $2,000,000 and the amended contract price was $2,200,000. In re Church of St. Francis de Sales, 110 Misc. 2d 511, 442 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3115 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

Court denied CLS N-PCL § 511 application to approve sale of acute care specialty teaching hospital to for-profit hospital which would open breast cancer facility and to real estate developer which planned to use remaining real estate for apartment building, as (1) transaction could not be deemed "fair and reasonable," even if real estate was fairly valued, where petitioner's board of directors failed to account for significant value of hospital as going concern, (2) proposed sale did not promote "purposes of the corporation," in absence of reasoned and studied determination that there was lack of need for hospital or that financial difficulties made it impossible to ensure hospital's survival, and (3) board failed to properly consider various alternatives which would have preserved hospital's mission. Manhattan Eye, Ear & Throat Hosp. v Spitzer, 186 Misc. 2d 126, 715 N.Y.S.2d 575, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 663 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

N.Y. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 511(a)(6) required that the terms of a proposed sale be fair and reasonable to the corporation, and that the purposes of the corporation, or the interests of its members, will be promoted thereby; in its decision, the New York State Supreme Court held that this requirement was not met by the proposed sale. The Appellate Division affirmed, adding that as a threshold issue, petitioners failed to show that the proposed sales of their properties were even possible; the Bankruptcy Court could not review these earlier state court determinations. In re 51-53 W. 129th St. HDFC, Inc., 475 B.R. 391, 2012 Bankr. LEXIS 3297 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2012).

3. Standing

Prospective purchaser of church property is not properly interested person under CLS N-PCL § 511 and purchaser's due process rights are not violated by failure to give purchaser notice of hearing at which court disapproves contract on basis of inadequate consideration or to allow purchaser to otherwise participate in hearing. Wolkoff v Church of St. Rita, 132 Misc. 2d 464, 505 N.Y.S.2d 327, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2719 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986), aff'd, 133 A.D.2d 267, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1020, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49756 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Where a not-for-profit seller had not met the requirements of N.Y. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law §§ 510(a), 511(d) by, inter alia, obtaining leave of court to sell certain property, a buyer could not obtain specific performance of a real property sale contract; therefore, the buyer's N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3215 motion for a default judgment was denied. Century 2000 Custom Home Builders & Developers, LLC. v United Muslim Org. of N.Y., Inc., 772 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1 Misc. 3d 890, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1395 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003)

4. Failure to obtain approval

Charitable foundation's sale of 34 acres of land to defendants fell within ambit of CLS N-PCL §§ 510 and 511 where property in question was foundation's largest, most significant and single most valuable possession, and its sale for inadequate consideration severely hampered foundation's ability to carry out its mission of constructing and operating senior citizens' center thereon; accordingly, contract of sale and deed were null and void where transaction was never subjected to requisite judicial scrutiny, and there was no proof that it was approved by foundation's membership or board of trustees. Rose Ocko Found., Inc. v Lebovits, 93 N.Y.2d 997, 696 N.Y.S.2d 107, 718 N.E.2d 412, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1964 (N.Y. 1999).

Deeds used by respondent-appellant to purportedly take title to certain property were null and void because respondent-appellant did not provide evidence showing that the putative grantors had an interest in the property that could be conveyed to respondent-appellant, and no evidence showed the putative grantors of the deed ever had legal title to the property. Furthermore, the conveyance of the property from the former owner/mortgagor religious not-for-profit corporation was ineffective because neither judicial consent nor consent from the state attorney general was obtained for the sale as required under N.Y. Relig. Corp. Law § 12 and N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 511. Wiggs v Williams, 36 A.D.3d 570, 828 N.Y.S.2d 397, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 878 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

A contract for the sale of real property owned by defendant, a nonprofit organization of fraternal lodges, which was properly executed by the corporation president but never delivered to plaintiff purchaser, would not be a valid contract, since the mere signing of the instrument by the parties, not in each other's presence, without more, did not evince the necessary intent, since the failure to satisfy an express condition precedent conditioning the sale upon a final determination of a pending action brought by a faction of defendant's organization opposed to the sale rendered the contract void, since the court had not approved of the sale, which represented substantially all the assets of the corporation, as required by N-PCL § 511, and since the proposed sale would not benefit the corporation or promote the best interests of its members at the present time. Manhattan Theatre Club, Inc. v Bohemian Benevolent & Literary Ass'n, 120 Misc. 2d 1094, 467 N.Y.S.2d 143, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3858 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), aff'd, 102 A.D.2d 788, 478 N.Y.S.2d 274, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18952 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1984).

5. Action to set aside sale

In action brought by plaintiff, religious organization, seeking, inter alia, to rescind sale of its property on ground that agreement with buyer, which made substantial changes to terms of court-approved sale, was not court-approved, and to void mortgages on property, court erred in dismissing counterclaims alleging that plaintiff negligently failed to inform mortgagee of agreement and that had he been informed of agreement he would not have made loans to buyer since fact issue existed as to whether mortgagee's reliance on plaintiff's negligent misrepresentation was justified. Salesian Soc'y, Inc. v Nutmeg Partners Ltd., 271 A.D.2d 671, 706 N.Y.S.2d 459, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4486 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

6. Specific performance of contract of sale

Plaintiff is not entitled to specific performance of a contract to sell real property owned by defendant and upon which its church edifice was erected where, despite the fact that the contract was fair and reasonable when made, the conveyance would be detrimental to the purpose of defendant corporation and the interests of its members. Church of God v Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, 76 A.D.2d 712, 431 N.Y.S.2d 834, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12185 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1980), aff'd, 54 N.Y.2d 742, 442 N.Y.S.2d 986, 426 N.E.2d 480, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2658 (N.Y. 1981).

In action by prospective purchasers for specific performance of religious corporation's contract to sell property, defended by religious corporation on ground that its trustees had not approved sale as required by CLS Relig Corp § 12 and CLS N-PCL § 511, prospective purchasers could not be bound by findings of rabbinical court (acting as arbitrator of internal dispute among trustees over issue of whether approval had been given) where prospective purchasers were not parties to arbitration and thus had no opportunity to litigate issue; accordingly, religious corporation was not entitled to dismissal of complaint, since "legitimate question" still existed as to whether trustees had validly voted to authorize sale. Levovitz v Yeshiva Beth Henoch, Inc., 120 A.D.2d 289, 508 N.Y.S.2d 196, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60614 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

At trial of action by prospective purchasers for specific performance of religious corporation's contract to sell property, it would not be necessary to litigate questions of fairness of contract's terms and its promotion of interests of religious corporation (as required by CLS N-PCL § 511), since such questions had been determined by prior Supreme Court order approving sale of property, and that order had never been challenged by parties. Levovitz v Yeshiva Beth Henoch, Inc., 120 A.D.2d 289, 508 N.Y.S.2d 196, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60614 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Where a not-for-profit seller had not met the requirements of N.Y. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law §§ 510(a), 511(d) by, inter alia, obtaining leave of court to sell certain property, a buyer could not obtain specific performance of a real property sale contract; therefore, the buyer's N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3215 motion for a default judgment was denied. Century 2000 Custom Home Builders & Developers, LLC. v United Muslim Org. of N.Y., Inc., 772 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1 Misc. 3d 890, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1395 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003)

Court was not allowed to direct specific performance of a contract for the sale of real property by a religious corporation without first determining that the proposed sale complied with N.Y. Relig. Corp. Law § 12 and N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 511. Scher v Yeshivath Makowa Corp., 20 A.D.3d 470, 799 N.Y.S.2d 106, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7764 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

7. Under former General Corporation Law § 50

A mere exchange of a member's right to share in the property of a membership corporation for a stock interest in a realty corporation to be formed, which interest would be less than the share in the property of the membership corporation, is not a "sale" within the contemplation of this section. Richter v Sea Gate Ass'n, 199 N.Y.S. 303, 120 Misc. 307, 1923 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 955 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 207 A.D. 573, 202 N.Y.S. 68, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

This section merely imposes a limitation on the power of a cemetery corporation organized under the membership corporation law to convey away its property, and is in no sense to be considered a grant of power previously not enjoyed by such a corporation. Application of Kensico Cemetery, 83 N.Y.S.2d 73, 193 Misc. 479, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), rev'd, 275 A.D. 681, 86 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4009 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1949).

8. —Authority to act for corporation

For an extension of a lease to be the act of a corporation, the person signing for the corporation must be authorized to do the act of the corporation, and whether or not he has been so authorized must be determined according to the general corporate law and is not affected by the General Obligations Law. Once it is determined that the signer was authorized to sign for the corporation, the corporation has signed and the statute is satisfied. Commission on Ecumenical Mission & Relations of United Presbyterian Church v Roger Gray, Ltd., 34 A.D.2d 94, 309 N.Y.S.2d 225, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5145 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970), rev'd, 27 N.Y.2d 457, 318 N.Y.S.2d 726, 267 N.E.2d 467, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1599 (N.Y. 1971).

A buyer is entitled to enquire into the question of whether the required number of seller's trustees approved of the sale to the buyer, since this is a matter peculiarly within the knowledge of the seller. Bounding Home Corp. v Chapin Home for Aged & Infirm., 19 Misc. 2d 653, 191 N.Y.S.2d 722, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3087 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

9. —Petition for approval of sale

Petition for approval of church conveyance did not comply with this section, where the secretary's certificate did not show that the sale was authorized by a vote of at least two thirds of the board of directors, and also failed to state, that the interests of the church corporation was promoted by the sale. Application of Margolin, 16 Misc. 2d 961, 183 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2068 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

The facts required to be set forth in a petition under this section are those facts which exist at the time of the presentment of the petition. Wilson v Ebenezer Baptist Church, Inc., 17 Misc. 2d 607, 187 N.Y.S.2d 861, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3443 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

10. — —Decision of court

The court in determining whether a sale of real property by a religious corporation is in the best interest of the corporation will take into consideration the circumstances surrounding the transaction. Sun Assets Corp. v English Evangelical Lutheran Church of Ascension, 19 Misc. 2d 187, 185 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4167 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

11. —Proceeding to confirm unauthorized sale

Where at the time of the sale of real property by a religious corporation, the corporation failed to obtain the permission of the court to sell the property, proceedings for confirmation of the conveyance were referred to a referee to inquire into whether it was for the best interest of the corporation to sell, the reasons for the sale, whether the corporation was solvent, whether consideration was adequate and how the proceeds were to be used, and the oral consent of the religious corporation's attorney was not sufficient. In re Application of Barusek, 1 Misc. 2d 950, 149 N.Y.S.2d 420, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2081 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

12. —Stockholder action to set aside sale

A stockholder's derivative action to set aside a conveyance of real property by the corporation on the ground that it was not made with unanimous approval of the directors and stockholders because plaintiff, one of them, had not consented to the sale, was properly dismissed on the merits where it appeared that plaintiff attended the closing and participated in the sale, her conduct being tantamount to formal approval of the sale. Bradley v East Williston Shopping Center, Inc., 15 A.D.2d 560, 222 N.Y.S.2d 943, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1961).

13. —Specific performance of contract of sale

Complaint for specific performance of a contract for the sale of church property, where no prior approval thereof has been obtained from the court, must plead the essential facts required by this section. Wilson v Ebenezer Baptist Church, Inc., 17 Misc. 2d 669, 185 N.Y.S.2d 1018, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3758 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

The court cannot bypass the submission of a petition under this section and grant specific performance of a contract of sale of church property contrary to the determination by the trustees that it would be against the best interests of the church to convey title. Sun Assets Corp. v English Evangelical Lutheran Church of Ascension, 19 Misc. 2d 187, 185 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4167 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

14. Under former General Corporation Law § 52

A contemplated sale is illegal where it appears that a membership corporation is to dispose of all its real property without any consideration which can be applied to its corporate purposes of municipal government, as interests of the corporation will not be promoted by the sale as required by § 50 and this section. Richter v Sea Gate Asso., 207 A.D. 573, 202 N.Y.S. 68, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

A soldiers' monument corporation was permitted to sell its real property where, before title closing, a majority of the directors authorized the sale under the terms contained in the contract. The evidence established the adequacy of the consideration and that the interests of the corporation would be promoted by the sale. Application of Staten Island War Memorial Asso., 286 A.D. 887, 143 N.Y.S.2d 100, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4441 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 286 A.D. 1017, 145 N.Y.S.2d 318, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5023 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

Where at the time of the sale of real property by a religious corporation, the corporation failed to obtain the permission of the court to sell the property, proceedings for confirmation of the conveyance were referred to a referee to inquire into whether it was for the best interest of the corporation to sell, the reasons for the sale, whether the corporation was solvent, whether consideration was adequate and how the proceeds were to be used, and the oral consent of the religious corporation's attorney was not sufficient. In re Application of Barusek, 1 Misc. 2d 950, 149 N.Y.S.2d 420, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2081 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

A petition for sale of hospital property must be approved by the court where it clearly appears that the terms of sale are fair and that the sale will be in the best interests of the corporation. Application of St. Luke's Hospital, 33 Misc. 2d 888, 228 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3664 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

§ 511-a. Petition for attorney general approval

(a) In lieu of obtaining court approval under section 511 (Petition for court approval) of this article to sell, lease, exchange or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all of its assets, the corporation may alternatively seek approval of the attorney general by verified petition, except in the following circumstances: (1) the corporation is insolvent, or would become insolvent as a result of the transaction, and must proceed on notice to creditors pursuant to paragraph (c) of section 511 of this article; or (2) the attorney general, in his or her discretion, concludes that a court should review the petition and make a determination thereon.

(b) The verified petition to the attorney general shall set forth (1) all of the information required to be included in a verified petition to obtain court approval pursuant to subparagraphs one through nine of paragraph (a) of section 511 of this article; (2) a statement that the corporation is not insolvent and will not become insolvent as a result of the transaction; and (3) a statement as to whether any persons have raised, or have a reasonable basis to raise, objections to the sale, lease, exchange or other disposition that is the subject of the petition, including a statement setting forth the names and addresses of such persons, the nature of their interest, and a description of their objections. The attorney general, in his or her discretion, may direct the corporation to provide notice of such petition to any interested person, and the corporation shall provide the attorney general with a certification that such notice has been provided.

(c) If it shall appear, to the satisfaction of the attorney general that the consideration and the terms of the transaction are fair and reasonable to the corporation and that the purposes of the corporation or the interests of the members will be promoted, the attorney general may authorize the sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of all or substantially all the assets of the corporation, as described in the petition, for such consideration and upon such terms as the attorney general may prescribe. The authorization of the attorney general shall direct the disposition of the consideration to be received thereunder by the corporation.

(d) At any time, including if the attorney general does not approve the petition, or if the attorney general concludes that court review is appropriate, the petitioner may seek court approval on notice to the attorney general pursuant to section 511 (Petition for court approval) of this article.

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

§ 513. Administration of assets received for specific purposes

(a) A corporation which is, or would be if formed under this chapter, a charitable corporation shall hold full ownership rights in any assets consisting of funds or other real or personal property of any kind, that may be given, granted, bequeathed or devised to or otherwise vested in such corporation in trust for, or with a direction to apply the same to, any purpose specified in its certificate of incorporation, and shall not be deemed a trustee of an express trust of such assets. Any other corporation subject to this chapter may similarly hold assets so received, unless otherwise provided by law or in the certificate of incorporation.

(b) Except as may be otherwise permitted under article eight of the estates, powers and trusts law or section 555 (Release or modification of restrictions on management, investment, or purpose), the governing board shall apply all assets thus received to the purposes specified in the gift instrument as defined in section 551 (Definitions) and to the payment of the reasonable and proper expenses of administration of such assets. The governing board shall cause accurate accounts to be kept of such assets separate and apart from the accounts of other assets of the corporation. Unless the terms of the particular gift instrument provide otherwise, the treasurer shall make an annual report to the members (if there be members) or to the governing board (if there be no members) concerning the assets held under this section and the use made of such assets and of the income thereof.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: This section provides increased flexibility in the administration of funds received by a not-for-profit corporation for specific purposes that fall within any of its corporate purposes. The section codifies St. Joseph's Hospital v Bennett, 281 NY 115, 22 NE2d 305 (1939), but goes beyond that decision in providing the framework for administration of such assets within the principles of the corporation law rather than the trust law. Even if trust language is used in the conveying instrument, the receiving corporation acquires full ownership of the fund or property, subject to the duty of the directors to follow the directions of the donor. As compared with trust law, the section gives the directors greater freedom of investment, including the pooling of two or more funds. In addition, the section removes some practical obstacles to the investment of endowment or similar funds in growth, rather than fixed income, securities. This is done by authorizing directors to include in the income of such funds that portion of the realized appreciation of principal as they deem prudent. The directors may therefore, after taking into account the effect of such factors as inflation, properly protect the availability of current income by realization of increased value of securities and similar properties in the fund. The section is made applicable both to existing funds and to funds created in the future.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

NOT ALL GIFTS ARE CREATED EQUAL - SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR ENDOWMENT FUNDS, NEW YORK'S PRUDENT MANAGEMENT OF INSTITUTIONAL FUNDS ACT.

By Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com.

INSIGHT

A donor may designate a gift as an "endowment fund," a label that is more important than it may appear at first glance. Essentially, an endowment is a gift that establishes a permanent source of income to a not-for-profit corporation for a designated purpose. It should be determined immediately upon receipt if a gift is (or could be) an endowment fund. If so, the funds should be administered and accounted for appropriately.

Prior to September 17, 2010, a not-for-profit corporation could not spend the principal, "historic dollar value", of endowment funds. The entity could only spend the "net appreciation" on principal. After adoption of the New York Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act ("NYPMIFA"), not-for-profit corporations now have greater flexibility in using these funds and in obtaining relief from restrictions imposed on use of these funds. The new law ought to be carefully reviewed in determining how to expend endowment funds created both before and after adoption of the NYPMIFA.

Determine Whether Fund in Question Is in Fact Endowment Fund.

The analysis begins with a look at the gift instrument itself. This instrument can be any written document in which the gift is made and defined (for example, will, trust, court order). See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 551. If the gift instrument expressly establishes an "endowment" or "permanent" fund that is "not wholly expendable by institution on a current basis" it is an endowment fund. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 551(b).

Expenditures from Endowment Funds Under New Nypmifa.

Prior to adoption of the NYPMIFA, a not-for-profit corporation was only permitted to spend the net income of a fund and net appreciation on a fund. The funds' "historic dollar value" or principal needed to be preserved. The NYPMIFA removes the prohibition on appropriations below the historical dollar value. However, donors who are "available" with respect to funds established before September 17, 2010 may elect to retain the old historical value limit by responding to a notice from the institution. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 553(e).

New § 553(a) of the Not-For-Profit Law provides that "In making a determination to appropriate or accumulate, the institution shall act in good faith, with the care that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise under similar circumstances, and shall consider, if relevant, the following factors:(1) the duration and preservation of the endowment fund;(2) the purpose of the institution and the endowment fund;(3) general economic conditions;(4) the possible effect of inflation or deflation;(5) the expected total return from income and the appreciation of investments;(6) other resources of the institution;(7) where appropriate and circumstances would otherwise warrant, alternatives to expenditure of the endowment fund, giving due consideration to the effect that such alternatives may have on the institution; and(8) the investment policy of the institution."

A donor may specifically limit the application of these new spending rules in the gift instrument. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 555. However, generally these new rules will provide not-for-profit boards with greater access to endowment fund monies to support their purposes.

Notification to Donors of Endowment Funds in Existence Prior to September 17, 2010.

Under the new NYPMIFA, all "available" donors of endowment gifts made pursuant to instruments executed before September 17, 2010 must be provided with notice prior to the first time an institution applies the new rules set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 553(a). A donor is "available" if the donor can be found with reasonable efforts and is living or is conducting activities (if an entity). Specific language must be included in such notice and during a 90 day period thereafter the donor may make an election to prohibit the application of new Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 553(a) to the gift.

Lifting Restrictions Under the New Nypmifa.

Under the new NYPMIFA, the NFP corporation also has more options to have restrictions lifted regarding use of funds. New Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 555 provides that the restrictions on management, investment or purpose can be released or modified (i) by donor consent, (ii) by a court, upon application of an institution, if the restriction has become impracticable or wasteful, if it impairs the management or investment of the fund or if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the donor, a modification of the restriction will further the purposes of the fund, and (iii) if a particular purpose or restriction becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible, or wasteful. In addition, under the new NYPMIFA an institution may modify or release restrictions on small ($100,000 or less) and old (over 20 years) funds upon appropriate prior notice to the Attorney General, provided the use is in a manner consistent with the purposes expressed in the gift instruction. Under the old law release of restrictions could only be obtained with donor consent, by court order after the donor's death (or if the donor could not be located).

Notes to Decisions

1. Generally

A charitable bequest made to petitioner nonprofit hospital under a 1924 will, presently valued at $850,000, "to be used by said hospital to endow charity beds . . . and for charitable purposes only," as a memorial to decedent and his sister would be an endowment under Not for Profit Corporation Law § 102(a)(13) in view of decedent's clear intent to bestow upon petitioner a permanent fund as memorial and, as such, would be governed by Not for Profit Corporation Law § 102(a)(16) requiring the governing board of the corporation to at all times retain the "historic dollar value" of the gift, representing principal payments received by petitioner between 1926 and 1962, and petitioner would be entitled to expend any amount in excess of the "historic dollar value" of the endowment for such hospital purposes as would be deemed prudent by its board of trustees under former Not for Profit Corporation Law § 513(c) where the will specifically stated that the fund was to be used for charity beds "and for charitable purposes," there no longer being a need for charity beds; since the very nature of petitioner's operation is charitable, any expenditure that is necessary to further its operation is within the framework of the "charitable purposes" intended by the testator. In re Estate of McKenna, 114 Misc. 2d 304, 451 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3473 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1982).

CLS N-PCL § 513(c) does not override CLS N-PCL § 1507 restrictions on invading principal and thus, in action under CLS N-PCL § 112(a)(1), defendants were preliminarily enjoined from invading principal of cemetery's permanent maintenance trust fund or perpetual care trust fund, and from borrowing money from its perpetual care income fund (without prejudice to them if they applied for judicial approval under § 1507(a)), because (1) borrowing money that probably cannot be repaid is extra-statutory means of removing monies from funds without seeking court approval, (2) there would be continued invasion and arguably irreparable harm if injunction was not issued, and (3) balancing of equities favored issuance of preliminary injunction. People by Vacco v Woodlawn Cemetery, 173 Misc. 2d 846, 662 N.Y.S.2d 369, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 397 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

§ 514. Delegation of investment management

(a) Except as otherwise provided by the applicable gift instrument as defined in section 551 (Definitions), the governing board may delegate to its committees, officers or employees of the corporation or the fund the authority to act in place of the governing board in investment and reinvestment of institutional funds as defined in section 551 (Definitions). Each contract, if any, pursuant to which authority is so delegated shall provide that it may be terminated by the governing board at any time, without penalty, upon not more than sixty days' notice. Section 554 (Delegation of management and investment functions) shall govern external delegation.

(b) The governing board shall exercise the standard of care required by section 717 (Duty of directors and officers) in the selection of persons to whom authority is delegated or with whom contracts are made under paragraph (a) of this section and in the continuation or termination of such delegation or contracts. The governing board shall be relieved of all liability for the investment and reinvestment of institutional funds by, and for the other acts or omissions of, persons to whom authority is so delegated or with whom contracts are so made.

(a) A corporation shall not pay dividends or distribute any part of its income or profit to its members, directors, or officers.

(b) A corporation may pay compensation in a reasonable amount to members, directors, or officers, for services rendered, and may make distributions of cash or property to members upon dissolution or final liquidation as permitted by this chapter. No person who may benefit from such compensation may be present at or otherwise participate in any board or committee deliberation or vote concerning such person's compensation; provided that nothing in this section shall prohibit the board or authorized committee from requesting that a person who may benefit from such compensation present information as background or answer questions at a committee or board meeting prior to the commencement of deliberations or voting relating thereto. Nothing in this section or in paragraph (h) of section seven hundred fifteen of this chapter shall be construed to prohibit a director from deliberating or voting concerning compensation for service on the board that is to be made available or provided to all directors of the corporation on the same or substantially similar terms.

(c) A corporation may confer benefits upon members or nonmembers in conformity with its purposes, may redeem its capital certificates or subvention certificates, and may make other distributions of cash or property to its members or former members, directors, or officers prior to dissolution or final liquidation, as authorized by this article, except when the corporation is currently insolvent or would thereby be made insolvent or rendered unable to carry on its corporate purposes, or when the fair value of the corporation's assets remaining after such conferring of benefits, or redemption, or other distribution would be insufficient to meet its liabilities.

Comment: This section is derived in part from Model Not-for-Profit Corp Act § 26. Paragraph (a) prohibits the payment of dividends and the distribution of any part of the corporation's income or profit to its members, directors or officers. Paragraph (b) authorizes the payment of reasonable compensation and distributions of cash or property upon dissolution or final liquidation as permitted by this chapter. Paragraph (c) sets forth the conditions under which a corporation may not confer benefits upon members or non-members, may not redeem its capital certificates or bonds, nor make other distributions prior to dissolution or final liquidation. It should be noted that the express limitations of this paragraph are in addition to the requirements for the redemption of capital certificates in § 502 (Members' capital contributions) and subvention certificates in § 504 (Subventions).

(a) Except as provided in this chapter or the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, the interest of a member in the property of a corporation shall terminate upon the termination of his membership, whether by expiration of the term of membership, or by the death, voluntary withdrawal, or expulsion of the member, or otherwise. Such termination shall be without prejudice to his rights, if any, as holder of a capital or subvention certificate.

(b) In the event of a termination of membership, whether voluntary or involuntary, and subject to any restrictions contained in this chapter or the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, a corporation may at its option thereafter call for redemption any capital certificate or certificates held by such former member, and redeem the same upon payment of a sum of money equal to the redemption price thereof if such certificates are by their terms redeemable, or upon payment of a sum of money equal to the amount of the capital contribution evidenced by such certificates if they are not by their express terms redeemable.

(c) If a member who would upon dissolution of the corporation have distributive rights in its assets under paragraph (d) of section 507 (Fees, dues and assessments; fines and penalties) is expelled other than for cause pursuant to a provision of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws authorizing such expulsion, and the corporation is dissolved within a period of five years after the date of such expulsion, the expelled member shall be entitled to share in the distribution of assets in the same manner as other members of the same class entitled to share at that time, except that his share shall be charged with any arrearages and all dues and assessments which he would have paid if he had remained a member, plus interest on all such items.

(d) Nothing in this section shall authorize a corporation to make a distribution of cash or property to a former member in contravention of the provisions of section 515 (Dividends prohibited; certain distributions of cash or property authorized).

Comment: Paragraph (a) states that the general rule, in the absence of a provision in this chapter, the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws providing otherwise, is that the interest of a member in the property of the corporation shall terminate upon the termination of his membership, however this may occur. Termination of membership shall not, however, prejudice a member's rights as holder of a capital or subvention certificate. Paragraph (b) provides that upon termination of membership and subject to any certificate or by-law restrictions, a corporation may call for redemption any capital certificate held by the former member and redeem the same by paying an amount equal to the redemption value, if any, or to the face value of the certificate, if the certificate is not by its terms redeemable. Paragraph (c), which is in part adapted from NC Gen Stat § 55A-29, sets forth provisions to protect the property rights of expelled members. Paragraph (d) makes clear that these provisions are subject to the prohibitions of sections 515 (Dividends prohibited; certain distributions of cash or property authorized).

(a) The board shall present at the annual meeting of members a report, verified by the president and treasurer or by a majority of the directors, or certified by an independent public or certified public accountant or a firm of such accountants selected by the board, showing in appropriate detail the following:

(1) The assets and liabilities, including the trust funds, of the corporation as of the end of a twelve month fiscal period terminating not more than six months prior to said meeting.

(2) The principal changes in assets and liabilities, including trust funds, during said fiscal period.

(3) The revenue or receipts of the corporation, both unrestricted and restricted to particular purposes during said fiscal period.

(4) The expenses or disbursements of the corporation, for both general and restricted purposes, during said fiscal period.

(5) The number of members of the corporation as of the date of the report, together with a statement of increase or decrease in such number during said fiscal period, and a statement of the place where the names and places of residence of the current members may be found.

(b) The annual report of directors shall be filed with the records of the corporation and either a copy or an abstract thereof entered in the minutes of the proceedings of the annual meeting of members.

(c) The board of a corporation having no members shall direct the president and treasurer to present at the annual meeting of the board a report in accordance with paragraph (a), but omitting the requirement of subparagraph (5). Changes: Revised and reworded; new provisions added.

Comment: This section is adapted from Mem Corp L § 46 with some revisions in procedure and content. Instead of statements about the amount of real and personal property owned by the corporation, the report is to include specific information about the assets and liabilities of the corporation, thus in effect requiring accounts to be kept in the current forms generally accepted and used today. Paragraph (b) continues the requirement in the Membership Corporation Law that the report be filed with the records of the corporation, with an abstract of the report entered in the minutes of the meeting at which it is presented. Paragraph (c), which is new, applies in the case of corporations without members. The report, omitting only the list of new members but otherwise complying with the requirements of subparagraph (a), is to be made by the president and treasurer and presented to the board.

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 46

1. Generally

Where purported accounting by nonprofit church corporation failed to comply with statutory requirement, church corporation was ordered to render an accounting of its assets and financial transactions for the period from October 1, 1974, to the date of the judgment. 2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 46

A bylaw of a membership corporation which precludes any and all access to the corporate records of lists of guild membership on the say-so of the guild council is so far inconsistent with the letter and spirit of § 46 as to be wholly void and without effect. This section does not make it necessary to furnish a copy of the membership list of the corporation to a director, since the names and addresses of those admitted to membership during the preceding year may be verified by the president and treasurer or by a majority of the directors. Javits v Investors League, Inc., 92 N.Y.S.2d 267, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2809 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

Where a director of a membership corporation seeks to inspect the membership list of the corporation for the purpose of enabling him to communicate his views to the members, and it appears that there are grounds for suspicion that the director is seeking to establish a new corporation in opposition to that of which he is a director, he will be allowed to inspect such records, but will be allowed to make no copies thereof and he will be required to submit correspondence to the corporation for transmission to the members. Javits v Investors League, Inc., 92 N.Y.S.2d 267, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2809 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

§ 519-a. Annual reports for certain transactions required

(a) A condominium created pursuant to the real property law or a cooperative housing corporation created pursuant to the business corporation law, shall, at least once each year:

(b) The annual report required by subdivision (a) of this section shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) a list of all contracts voted on by the board of directors, including information on the contract recipient, contract amount, and the purpose of entering into the contract;

(2) the record of each meeting including director attendance, voting records for contracts, and how each director voted on such contracts; and

(3) the date of each vote on each contract, and the date the contract would be and remain valid.

(c) If the annual report required by paragraph two of subdivision (a) of this section would, notwithstanding the requirements of this section, contain no information because of the absence of any actions taken by the board that would otherwise qualify for inclusion in such annual report, then the board shall instead submit to the members or to the governing board, if there are no members, a document, signed by each director, indicating: "No actions taken by the board were subject to the annual report required pursuant to section 519-a of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law".

HISTORY:

L 2017, ch 305, § 1, effective January 1, 2018; L 2018, ch 9, § 1, effective January 1, 2018.

Editor's Notes Laws 2017, ch 305, § 3, eff Jan 1, 2018, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the first of January next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law.

Laws 2018, ch 9, § 3, eff January 1, 2018, provides:

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the same date and in the same manner as a chapter of the laws of 2017, amending the not-for-profit corporation law and the business corporation law, relating to conflicts of interests for condominium and cooperative housing, as proposed in legislative bills numbers S.6652-A and A.8261-A, takes effect.

Amendment Notes The 2018 amendment by ch 9, § 1, substituted "A condominium created pursuant to the real property law or a cooperative housing corporation created pursuant to the business corporation law" for "Every condominium or cooperative housing corporation, incorporated pursuant to this chapter" in the introductory language of (a).

§ 520. Reports of corporation

Each domestic corporation, and each foreign corporation authorized to conduct activities in this state, shall from time to time file such reports on its activities as may be required by the laws of this state. All registration and reporting requirements pursuant to article seven-A of the executive law, and section 8-1.4 of the estates, powers and trusts law, or related successor provisions, are, without limitation on the foregoing, expressly included as reports required by the laws of this state to be filed within the meaning of this section. Willful failure of a corporation to file a report as required by law shall constitute a breach of the directors' duty to the corporation and shall subject the corporation, at the suit of the attorney-general, to an action or special proceeding for dissolution under article 11 (Judicial dissolution) in the case of a domestic corporation, or under section 1303 (Violations) in the case of a foreign corporation.

§ 601. Members

(a) A corporation shall have one or more classes of members, or, in the case of a charitable corporation, may have no members, in which case any such provision for classes of members or for no members shall be set forth in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. Corporations, joint-stock associations, unincorporated associations and partnerships, as well as any other person without limitation, may be members, provided however, that effective July first, two thousand nineteen, no corporation except a corporation that has no members, shall have a membership comprised of fewer than three persons. A corporation may have a corporation, joint-stock association, unincorporated association or partnership as a sole member, if such corporation, joint-stock association, unincorporated association or partnership is owned or controlled by no fewer than three persons.

(b) If the corporation has two or more classes of members, the designation and characteristics of each class and the qualifications and rights of, and limitations upon, the members of each class may be set forth in the certificate of incorporation, the by-laws or, if the by-laws so provide, a resolution of the board.

(c) If the corporation has members, membership may be effected and evidenced by:

(1) Signature on the certificate of incorporation.

(2) Designation in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws.

(3) Membership certificate or card or capital certificate.

(4) Such method, including but not limited to the foregoing, as is prescribed by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws.

(d) Membership certificates or cards shall not be transferable. If the certificate of incorporation or by-laws permits transfer of membership, upon each such transfer the certificate or card issued to a former member shall be surrendered, and a new certificate or card shall be issued to the new member.

(e) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter or the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, membership shall be terminated by death, resignation, expulsion, expiration of a term of membership or dissolution and liquidation under articles 10 and 11.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 40.

Changes: Virtually new.

Comment: This section, essentially a new codification for this state, provides a comprehensive treatment of the subject of membership in not-for-profit corporations, setting forth, generally, who may be members (paragraph (a)); how membership may be effected and evidenced (paragraph (c)); and how membership may be terminated (paragraph (e)).

The following features of the section should be especially noted:

(1) Type B corporations (described in section 201 as basically charitable in character) may exist without membership-statutory recognition of the current existence of certain charitable foundations without membership, which are managed by self-perpetuating boards of directors.

(2) Where there are two or more classes of members, the number of classes (paragraph (a)) and the designation and special characteristics of each such class (paragraph (b)) may be set forth in the by-laws as well as the certificate of incorporation.

(3) Membership, as such, may not be transferred (paragraph (d)), although capital contributions, represented by capital certificates, may be, to the extent authorized by paragraph (d) of section 502.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes The 2018 amendment by ch 411, § 1, added "provided however, that effective July first, two thousand nineteen, no corporation except a corporation that has no members, shall have a membership comprised of fewer than three persons. A corporation may have a corporation, joint-stock association, unincorporated association or partnership as a sole member, if such corporation, joint-stock association, unincorporated association or partnership is owned or controlled by no fewer than three persons" in (a).

1. Generally

Petitioner, who was a resident and taxpayer of town and who made annual charitable contributions to nursing home organized pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, but who was not a manager thereof under any of four tests specified by Law and who was not an officer or director and had no beneficial interest in corporation, had no right to inspect records of corporation. Getman v Mohawk Valley Nursing Home, Inc., 44 A.D.2d 392, 355 N.Y.S.2d 508, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4990 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Conflict between definition of "member" as used in restrictive covenants in deeds of subdivision to include an "entity" and the definition of membership in the by-laws of association incorporated under the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law must be governed by by-laws and would be construed to preclude corporation from membership in the Association. Procopio v Fisher, 83 A.D.2d 757, 443 N.Y.S.2d 492, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15075 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Complaint was properly dismissed due to plaintiff's lack of standing to bring derivative action on behalf of not-for-profit cemetery corporation where plaintiff was not member of corporation as set forth in its certificate or incorporation, and he did not otherwise come within categories of members defined by its by-laws; fact that plaintiff was land share certificate holder, and thus had voting rights under corporation's by-laws, was irrelevant where enumeration in by-laws of "members" did not include land share certificate holders. Harris v Lyke, 217 A.D.2d 982, 629 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8420 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4931 (N.Y. 1995).

Petitioner's expulsion from country club violated CLS N-PCL § 601 where board of governors failed to strictly comply with provision of club by-laws which required notifying petitioner, in writing, of charges against him and action that might be taken on those charges. Capossela v Wykagyl Country Club, 258 A.D.2d 522, 685 N.Y.S.2d 275, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1004 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

In Article 78 proceeding in which "inactive" members of respondent not-for-profit corporation involved in presentation of "Tony" Awards challenged respondent's decision to amend its bylaws to prevent inactive members from participating in Tony awards, respondent was directed to provide its official membership list of Tony award voters for season in question and to create such list if it did not already exist, as petitioners' disclosure demand was not frivolous or intended to harass, in light of issues presented. Wells v League of Am. Theatres & Producers, Inc., 183 Misc. 2d 915, 706 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 101 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

Since the sponsor was not a member under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law 601 of defendant company, there was no basis in N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law 706 for its attempted removal of the latter's directors. Alpha Phi Alpha Senior Citizens Ctr., Inc. v Zeta Zeta Lambda Co., Inc., 53 Misc. 3d 1066, 38 N.Y.S.3d 400, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3336 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016), aff'd, 180 A.D.3d 630, 119 N.Y.S.3d 181, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 892 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

By-laws of not-for-profit corporation which required each member to agree not to withdraw from the association without the consent of a majority of all members were valid despite fact that members were in effect locked into the association unless they could persuade a majority of the members to vote against their own economic interests to release them. Leon v Chrysler Motors Corp., 358 F. Supp. 877, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14734 (D.N.J.), aff'd, 474 F.2d 1340 (3d Cir. N.J. 1973).

2, Voluntary withdrawal

Under corporate trade association's bylaw providing that "Upon receipt at the principal place of business of the cooperative of a notice of intention to resign, the Secretary of the corporation shall mark such receipt in the records of the corporation, and sixty days after such receipt such resignation shall become effective, relieving the member of all liability and responsibility for assessments thereafter," secretary's marking the receipt of notice of intention to resign from membership in association on records of association was not a condition precedent to a valid resignation. New York New Jersey Producer Dealers Cooperative, Inc. v Mocker, 59 A.D.2d 970, 399 N.Y.S.2d 280, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14232 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

There is prima facie validity to any provision of a not-for-profit corporation by-law restricting right of member to withdraw voluntarily. Leon v Chrysler Motors Corp., 358 F. Supp. 877, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14734 (D.N.J.), aff'd, 474 F.2d 1340 (3d Cir. N.J. 1973).

3. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 20

The Medical Society of County of New York has jurisdiction to try a member on charges which, if proved, would show that he had committed acts unfavorably affecting the dignity, character and interests of the medical profession, of the society and its members, although the acts do not directly involve the relations of the member as such to the society. Ewald v Medical Soc. of New York County, 144 A.D. 82, 128 N.Y.S. 886, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1629 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

Where the bylaws and the constitution of a membership corporation provide for the determination of claims involving members, and a member voluntarily submits his case to the arbitration committee thereof and has appealed from the arbitration award, he cannot then dispute the authority of the arbitration committee to consider and pass upon the claim on the ground that the adversary party is not a member of the association. National League of Com. Merchants v Hornung, 148 A.D. 355, 132 N.Y.S. 871, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 209 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

This section provides that bylaws of a membership corporation may make provisions not inconsistent with law or its certificate of incorporation regulating admission and voluntary withdrawal of members, their dues, and termination of membership on nonpayment of dues or otherwise, and a member of such a corporation makes its valid bylaws part of his contract of membership and becomes bound by them. Associated General Contractors of America v Lapardo Bros. Excavating Contractors, Inc., 43 Misc. 2d 825, 252 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1491 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

In the absence of provisions in the bylaws to the contrary, members of one faction in a club may solicit and induct into membership, new members for the purpose of gaining their support in a forthcoming election. Petition of Serenbetz, 46 N.Y.S.2d 475, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2788 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 267 A.D. 836, 46 N.Y.S.2d 127, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5031 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

Where an association incorporated pursuant to former § 8 from which this section is derived sets up a private tribunal to determine whether a member has forfeited his rights of membership, the courts will interfere to keep such tribunals within its jurisdiction, and inquire into whether action was taken in bad faith, or in violation of law, but will not investigate the merits of the tribunal's decision. Stevenson v Holstein-Friesian Ass'n, 30 F.2d 625, 1929 U.S. App. LEXIS 2475 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1929).

4. —Reduction of membership

The number of members of a membership corporation may be reduced by an amendment in respect thereto to the bylaws, in the absence of a provision in the certificate of incorporation fixing the membership. Keeler v New York Hide Exchange, Inc., 231 A.D. 450, 247 N.Y.S. 482, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16073 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

5. —Voluntary withdrawal of member

A by-law of a membership corporation which states that any withdrawal must be approved by the board, and, if not so approved, the member may still have the benefit of his contract for a period of two years by continuing to receive service and pay for it, at the end of which period, automatically, his withdrawal shall become final is not invalid as arbitrary. Associated Press v Emmett, 45 F. Supp. 907, 1942 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2669 (D. Cal. 1942).

6. —Power to discipline, suspend, or expel

Where the bylaws of a society provide for the expulsion of a member for two specific offenses, and further recite that as to other infractions, the directing board has discretion to impose "disciplinary measures and punishments", the term disciplinary measures and punishments does not include the power of expulsion. Pepe v Missanellese Soc. of Mut. Aid, 252 N.Y.S. 70, 141 Misc. 7, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1807 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1930).

A membership corporation has no right to impose a fine on one of its members under a provision of its bylaws giving the corporation the right to expel, suspend or discipline a member for any violation of the bylaws of the corporation or any agreement made thereby. Merchants' Ladies Garment Ass'n v Coat House of William M. Schwartz, Inc., 273 N.Y.S. 317, 152 Misc. 130, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1487 (N.Y. Mun. Ct. 1934).

The power of expulsion, unless it appears by the most express and unambiguous language that such power has been transferred to the governing body of the organization, either in the bylaws or by the constitution, is in the membership of the organization as a whole. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

Where the bylaws of a membership corporation whose membership consisted of commercial discount companies provided that each member should inform the secretary of the organization of unusual or suspicious transactions involving clients, and the bylaws further provided for the punishment of a member failing to comply with such bylaws, the sole recourse of a member who feels that he has been injured by another member's nonobservance of the bylaw is by seeking the punishment of the offending member in the manner and to the extent authorized by the bylaws, and such member has no action either in breach of contract or in tort, even though such bylaws constitute a contract not only with the association and its members, but also between the members inter sese. Weissman v Birn, 56 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2000 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 270 A.D. 757, 59 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2863 (N.Y. App. Div. 1945).

7. — —Grounds

A membership corporation has the natural right of self-preservation and the inherent power to expell its members for disloyalty in joining or forming rival organizations. So, a complaint by members of a national society of decorators in their action for a judgment declaring illegal a resolution terminating their membership in the society if they did not resign from a competitive society, was dismissed. Bockman v American Institute of Decorators, 7 A.D.2d 495, 184 N.Y.S.2d 381, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9197 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 7 N.Y.2d 850, 196 N.Y.S.2d 988, 164 N.E.2d 862, 1959 N.Y. LEXIS 936 (N.Y. 1959).

Nothing in this section precludes the inclusion of a provision in the by-laws of a membership corporation, which is a trade organization composed of persons and entities engaged in the retail furniture business in New York State, automatically suspending any member who files a bankruptcy petition or makes an assignment for benefit of creditors and further provides for expulsion from membership in such case, nor is such a by-law in violation of general law or of federal law relating to bankruptcy. Schlossmans, Inc. v Associated Furniture Dealers, Inc., 31 Misc. 2d 938, 221 N.Y.S.2d 872, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2224 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961), aff'd, 17 A.D.2d 725, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8162 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962).

A local membership corporation is bound by the rules and decisions of the parent organization and the power to suspend or expel members is "for cause" when such conduct is destructive of the purpose of the organization. Paglia v Staten Island Little League, Inc., 66 Misc. 2d 626, 322 N.Y.S.2d 37, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1574 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 38 A.D.2d 575, 328 N.Y.S.2d 224, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2723 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1971).

8. —Procedure for expulsion

Where a bylaw provides that in order to expel a member, there must be a hearing at a regular meeting and the person charged must be found guilty by a two-thirds vote of the members present, the directors, or the governing body of the association, have no power to conduct a hearing, and expel a member at a directors' meeting. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

In the absence of any provision in the bylaws or constitution of an organization as to procedure regulating the filing of charges and subsequent preliminary procedure before trial of one charged with an offense which if proved would result in expulsion, such charges must be filed with the members of the association as a body at a meeting of the association, and they, as such body, must prescribe the preliminary procedure. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

9. — —Notice of charges

A bylaw permitting expulsion of a member without notice of charges and an opportunity to be heard is invalid. Briggs v Technocracy, Inc., 85 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3852 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

Expulsion of a member of a membership corporation without notice or a statement of charges or an opportunity to be heard is illegal, notwithstanding the fact that the bylaws of the corporation make no express provision for a hearing. Briggs v Technocracy, Inc., 85 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3852 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

10. —Readmission of expelled member

Where the bylaws of a union provided for readmission of members "on such terms as a local union or Executive Board . . . may determine upon a two-thirds vote of the members present at a meeting of the local or its executive or membership committee" an applicant for readmission cannot be considered to have been readmitted where no official action was taken by the union upon the application. Felman v Fur Dressers' Union, 29 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2005 (N.Y. App. Term 1941).

11. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 40

A bylaw restricting membership is valid. Matthews v Associated Press, 136 N.Y. 333, 136 N.Y. 662, 32 N.E. 981, 136 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 333, 1893 N.Y. LEXIS 607 (N.Y. 1893).

The language of this section compels the conclusion that where the sole method of termination has not been employed, membership would appear still to exist. In re Mt. Sinai Hospital, 219 N.Y.S. 505, 128 Misc. 476, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 846 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1926), aff'd, 223 A.D. 836, 228 N.Y.S. 855, 1928 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7539 (N.Y. App. Div. 1928).

A member upon joining a membership corporation accepts and agrees to abide by the bylaws of the corporation and the duly adopted amendments thereto; the by-laws are a contract between the corporation and the member. Buffalo Ass'n of Fire Underwriters v Noxsel-Dimick Co., 253 N.Y.S. 40, 141 Misc. 333, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1761 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931), rev'd, 235 A.D. 92, 256 N.Y.S. 263, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7890 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

Each person admitted to membership in a membership corporation pursuant to law or its bylaws shall be a member until his membership shall terminate by death, resignation or otherwise. Associated General Contractors of America v Lapardo Bros. Excavating Contractors, Inc., 43 Misc. 2d 825, 252 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1491 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

The by-laws of an incorporated volunteer fire department may provide for provisional appointment of new members for a probationary period. 1955 Ops St Compt File #7411.

12. —Applicant for membership

There is no rule of law which gives power to a court to compel a membership corporation or a voluntary association to accept an applicant as a member. Simons v Berry, 210 A.D. 90, 205 N.Y.S. 442, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6661 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

Where one who is a member of a suspended and subsequently dissolved local union and who is a party to such dissolution, seeks to join the international union of which the former local was affiliated, his status is that of an applicant for membership, not that of one seeking reinstatement, and upon rejection of his application, he cannot claim to have been improperly expelled. Simons v Berry, 210 A.D. 90, 205 N.Y.S. 442, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6661 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

13. —Reduction of membership

The number of members of a membership corporation may be reduced by an amendment in respect thereto to the bylaws, in the absence of a provision in the certificate of incorporation fixing the membership. Keeler v New York Hide Exchange, Inc., 231 A.D. 450, 247 N.Y.S. 482, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16073 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

A membership corporation may use its capital funds for the purchase of an outstanding certificate of membership, even though such a purchase reduces the outstanding membership of the corporation and such reduction increases the burden of assessment for operating expenses upon each of the remaining members. Keeler v New York Hide Exchange, Inc., 231 A.D. 450, 247 N.Y.S. 482, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16073 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

A creditor cannot complain of a reduction of membership resulting from the purchase by a membership corporation of an outstanding certificate of membership, at least in the absence of a provision in the certificate of incorporation fixing the number of members. Keeler v New York Hide Exchange, Inc., 231 A.D. 450, 247 N.Y.S. 482, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16073 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

14. —Voluntary withdrawal of member

By-law of membership corporation which states that any withdrawal must be approved by the board, and, if not so approved, the member may still have the benefit of his contract for a period of two years by continuing to receive service and pay for it, at the end of which period, automatically, his withdrawal shall become final is not invalid as arbitrary. Associated Press v Emmett, 45 F. Supp. 907, 1942 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2669 (D. Cal. 1942).

15. —Power to discipline or expel

Where the bylaws of a society provide for the expulsion of a member for two specific offenses, and further recite that as to other instances, the directing board has discretion to impose "disciplinary measures and punishments", the term disciplinary measures and punishments does not include the power of expulsion. Pepe v Missanellese Soc. of Mut. Aid, 252 N.Y.S. 70, 141 Misc. 7, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1807 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1930).

In the absence of an express provision in the constitution or bylaws of the society, the power of expulsion belongs to the association, that is, to the membership at large. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

A member cannot be expelled for failure to comply with a bylaw which conflicts with the statute or the constitution. People ex rel. Doyle v New York Benevolent Soc. of Operative Masons, 3 Hun 361 (N.Y.).

16. —Procedure for expulsion

Where the bylaws of a membership corporation provide that the nonpayment of dues shall render the delinquent member liable to expulsion, the latter retains his membership until corporate action is taken. Davis v Congregation Beth Tephilas Israel, 40 A.D. 424, 57 N.Y.S. 1015, 1899 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1136 (N.Y. App. Div. 1899).

Where a bylaw provides that in order to expel a member, there must be a hearing at a regular meeting and the person charged must be found guilty by a two-thirds vote of the members present, the directors or the governing body of the association, have no power to conduct a hearing and expel a member at a directors' meeting. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

In the absence of any provision in the bylaws or constitution of an organization as to procedure regulating the filing of charges and subsequent preliminary procedure before trial of one charged with an offense which if proved would result in expulsion, such charges must be filed with the members of the association as a body at a meeting of an association, and they, as such body, must prescribe the preliminary procedure. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

17. — —Notice of meeting to consider expulsion

Where the bylaws of an organization provide for the participation of the entire membership of the society in a vote for the expulsion of a member, or such bylaws omit to provide for the notice to the members of a meeting at which such a vote is to be taken, proper notice of the meeting and of the right of the members to participate in the trial and the vote for expulsion must nevertheless be given to the members; such notice should properly be given by mail, preferably by registered mail. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

An article in the newspaper of a society which merely reports that expulsion proceedings against certain delegates or directors who are unnamed, are scheduled at a delegate's meeting and inviting rank and file members to attend, does not constitute notice to the members of such a meeting, where the bylaws provided that the expulsion of any member must be by a vote at a meeting of the entire membership. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

18. — —Notice of charges

A member cannot be expelled without fair, adequate and sufficient notice, and an opportunity of meeting the accusation. People ex rel. Bartlett v Medical Soc. of County of Erie, 32 N.Y. 187, 32 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 187, 1865 N.Y. LEXIS 141 (N.Y. 1865).

A bylaw permitting the expulsion of a member without notice of charges and an opportunity to be heard is invalid. Briggs v Technocracy, Inc., 85 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3852 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

Expulsion of a member of a membership corporation without notice or a statement of charges or an opportunity to be heard is illegal, notwithstanding the fact that the bylaws of the corporation make no express provisions for a hearing. Briggs v Technocracy, Inc., 85 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3852 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

19. — —Waiver of notice

Where a notice of an extraordinary meeting called to consider the expulsion of a member fails to recite the object thereof, but the member whose expulsion was to be considered attended the meeting and raised no question in that regard nor was any objection made by other persons, the member must be deemed to have waived the defect in the notice. Pepe v Missanellese Soc. of Mut. Aid, 252 N.Y.S. 70, 141 Misc. 7, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1807 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1930).

20. —Remedy for improper expulsion

While the remedy of mandamus is available to a member who is improperly expelled, the remedies provided by the constitution and bylaws of the corporation should be first exhausted. Lafond v Deems, 81 N.Y. 507, 81 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 507, 1880 N.Y. LEXIS 267 (N.Y. 1880).

If a member is improperly expelled his remedy is by mandamus. People ex rel. Doyle v New York Benevolent Soc. of Operative Masons, 3 Hun 361 (N.Y.).

21. —Readmission of expelled member

Where the bylaws of a union provide for readmission of members "on such terms as a local union or Executive Board . . . may determine upon a two-thirds vote of the members present at a meeting of the local or its executive or membership committee" an applicant for readmission cannot be considered to have been readmitted where no official action was taken by the union upon the application. Felman v Fur Dressers' Union, 29 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2005 (N.Y. App. Term 1941).

22. —Membership as property

It has been generally held that, to the extent that an exchange seat or membership includes rights which are transferable and is subject to purchase and sale, it constitutes property, and the proceeds should be applied in payment of the debt of an insolvent debtor. Ulmann v Thomas, 255 N.Y. 506, 175 N.E. 192, 255 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 506, 1931 N.Y. LEXIS 707 (N.Y. 1931).

The membership of a judgment debtor in a produce exchange, though having a market value, is not property of which a receiver may be appointed to take possession, where the judgment debtor is in a foreign state and beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and the membership is represented by a certificate also beyond the reach of the court which, by the bylaws of the exchange, represents the sole means of transferring or assigning the membership. Ulmann v Thomas, 255 N.Y. 506, 175 N.E. 192, 255 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 506, 1931 N.Y. LEXIS 707 (N.Y. 1931).

Where in an action to recover dues and assessments alleged to be due from incorporation as a member of a membership corporation it is made to appear that the defendant under former § 41 from which the present § 10 is derived could not legally become a member of the plaintiff, the complaint will be dismissed. Doll & Stuffed Toy Mfg. Ass'n v Ideal Novelty & Toy Co., 195 N.Y.S. 71, 119 Misc. 63, 1922 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1351 (N.Y. App. Term 1922).

In an action to recover the face amount of certificates of indebtedness together with accrued interest thereon, where the certificates provided that no interest should be payable except as declared by the governors and in no event in excess of 6 percent per year, the holders were entitled to no more than the face amount of their certificates less any indebtedness which they might owe the club. Whatever remained after sale of the club would belong to the members. Kendall v Oakland Golf Club, 123 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2067 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 282 A.D. 1057, 126 N.Y.S.2d 379, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

§ 602. By-laws

(a) The initial by-laws of a corporation may be adopted by its incorporators at the organization meeting and, if not so adopted by the incorporators, by its board. Any reference in this chapter to a "by-law adopted by the members" includes a by-law adopted by the incorporators.

(b) Subject to section 612 (Limitations on right to vote), the by-laws may be adopted, amended or repealed by the members at the time entitled to vote in the election of directors and, unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws adopted by the members, by the board.

(c) Any by-law adopted by the board may be amended or repealed by the members and, unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws adopted by the members, any by-law adopted by the members may be amended or repealed by the board.

(d) In the case of a corporation which is subject, under any other law of this state, to regulation or control by a governmental body or officer, such body or officer may, to the extent provided in such other law, in furtherance of its or his authority to regulate or control:

(1) Adopt, amend or repeal by-laws.

(2) Amend or repeal any by-law adopted by the members or the board.

(e) If any by-law regulating an impending election of directors is adopted, amended or repealed by the board, there shall be set forth in the notice of the next meeting of the members for the election of directors the by-law so adopted, amended or repealed, together with a concise statement of the changes made.

(f) The by-laws may contain any provision relating to the business of the corporation, the conduct of its affairs, its rights or powers or the rights or powers of its members, directors or officers, not inconsistent with this chapter or any other statute of this state or the certificate of incorporation.

(g) In the case of residential not-for-profit corporations, changes including the adoption, amendment or repeal of the by-laws by the board of directors shall be provided to the members, stockholders, and delegates of such corporation in writing, by physical or electronic means, within ten days of such adoption.

Comment: This section, patterned after section 601 of the Bus Corp L, departs substantially from existing statutory law regulating by-laws in not-for-profit corporations. Two significant changes have been effected:

(1) Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws adopted by the members, the board of directors is authorized to adopt, amend or repeal by-laws (paragraph (b)) and to amend or repeal by-laws adopted by the members (paragraph (c)).

(2) If so provided in some other law of the state, any governmental body or officer authorized by such law to supervise a not-for-profit corporation created under such law, may adopt, amend or repeal by-laws and may amend or repeal by-laws adopted by the members or the board of directors (paragraph (d)).

Editor's Notes Laws 2019, ch 558, § 4, eff January 1, 2020, provides:

§ 4. This act shall take effect on the sixtieth day after it shall have become a law.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

SPEED TRAPS IN AMENDING BYLAWS

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

The internal affairs of a not-for-profit corporation may be regulated by the provisions of either the certificate of incorporation (COI) or the bylaws. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 402(c), 602. The dynamics of an organization change over time and internal governance provisions may need to be amended accordingly. Although changes to the COI require governmental filing and approval, changes to the bylaws can usually be accomplished through a completely transparent and internal process. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 803, 602. Unless the organization has grown exponentially, amending the bylaws is a relatively painless process. Larger corporations, however, may run into some speed traps.

Consider expanding internal governance provisions in bylaws to account for future growth.

Under Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(f), which has historically been interpreted broadly, bylaws may contain any provision "relating to" the business of the corporation, the conduct of the corporation's affairs, and the rights or powers of the corporation, its members, directors and officers. Given the broad authority granted to a corporation to control its own internal affairs, the bylaws can be expanded at the outset to allow for future growth without formal changes to the organizational structure. For example, the bylaws may provide for the delegation of tasks to committees or for participation in meetings via telephone conference calls. These types of provisions allow for flexibility when the organization is working through a growth spurt and do not interfere with management when the corporation is in its infancy.

Conflict between members and board may cause stalemate.

It is not unusual for a conflict to arise between the members of the corporation and the board of directors. This creates an especially difficult situation when the issue of amending the bylaws is on the table. Unless otherwise provided for in the bylaws or the COI, the bylaws may be adopted, amended or repealed by either the members entitled to vote in the election of directors or by the board. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(b). Any bylaw adopted by the board may be amended or repealed by the members and vice versa. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(c). This creates a potentially endless loop of amendments that can result in a stalemate until the conflict is resolved. Type B corporations with no members avoid this difficulty.

Consider scheduling and other logistics when amending bylaws.

Although the process for amending the bylaws is not complicated, some formalities must be followed. It is easy to forget timing, scheduling and other logistics when proposing bylaw amendments. If time is of the essence, the logistics can be another speed trap for the unwary. For example, if the members are considering the amendment, a notice of meeting must be prepared and sent to the members. Counsel should factor into the equation such things as quorum requirements, minimum voting requirements, and the level of involvement of the members. In some instances, the members will be happy to delegate the drafting to a committee and pass the proposal without much discussion. In other organizations, membership is intimately involved in operations and a number of meetings may be needed to discuss, dissect and agree on the exact wording of the amendments.

Special care must be taken when the proposed amendment relates to the election of directors. The board may change the rules related to an impending election, but if it does so, the notice sent to the corporation's members related to the next meeting when directors would be elected must be modified. The notice of meeting must not only restate the affected bylaw provision but must also include a concise statement of the changes. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(e). If the members' notice is not properly issued, the bylaw amendments will not be enforceable with respect to that election of directors. Counsel should consider initiating any such amendments at the membership level to avoid the extra step in the process.

Notify IRS of changes to bylaws if exemption has been granted.

Federal tax exempt status is available to a not-for-profit Corporation under a variety of federal bases pursuant to (IRC) 26 USCS § 501(a). If the corporation amending its bylaws has been granted such a tax exemption, notify the IRS of changes to the bylaws. IRS regulations require that a tax-exempt organization immediately notify the local IRS district director whenever a change is made to the character, operations or purpose for which it was originally created. Reg. 1.6033-2(i). This rule applies even if the organization is not required to file an annual information return (the Form 990).

In a proceeding by a member of a not-for-profit corporation providing free ambulance services in which the member sought to annul a determination expelling her for removing and copying a trip sheet from the corporate headquarters, the member would be reinstated where her conduct violated no rule of the corporation and constituted no breach of any obligation to the corporation. Ames v Central Oneida County Volunteer Ambulance Corps., 81 A.D.2d 1035, 440 N.Y.S.2d 122, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11797 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Trial court properly denied a tenant's motion for summary judgment on it claims for breach of the alleged agreements between an owner and a company that it founded because, while the owner also founded the tenant, the requirement that at least three-fourths of the directors of the company shall be members in good standing of the owner was not set forth in the landlord's certificate of incorporation, the amendment to the bylaws to remove the requirement was permissible under the not-for-profit corporation law, the owner was not a member of the landlord or a party to the bylaws that could enforce the bylaws as a contract, and the record revealed triable issues of fact as to the existence and terms of an alleged third-party agreement. Alpha Phi Alpha Senior Citizens Ctr., Inc. v Zeta Zeta Lambda Co., Inc., 180 A.D.3d 630, 119 N.Y.S.3d 181, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 892 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

In a personal injury action defendant ski club's motion for summary judgment would be denied, where, although an exculpatory clause contained in the by-laws of the ski club purporting to exempt the club from liability for "claims of any kind . . . including claims resulting from the negligence of an . . . employee of . . . the Club . . . arising out of the use of any of the Club's facilities" by a member or the member's family was sufficiently clear and unambiguous as to include within its scope the injuries sustained by plaintiff, the wife of a club member while using the club's chair lift, such exculpatory clause was nonetheless unenforceable against either plaintiff or her husband on his derivative claim, where plaintiff who was a nonmember of the club did not agree to indemnification nor was she apprised of the existence of the exculpatory clause and her husband never received the by-laws and had no notice of the exculpatory clause until after institution of the suit, where defendant club offered no proof that the exculpatory clause was properly enacted by the membership after sufficient notice had been sent to the members as required by N-PCL § 602, and where, in any event, the exculpatory clause was invalid under Gen Oblig Law § 5-326 which deems void as against public policy any agreement exempting a place of amusement or recreation or similar establishment from liability for damages caused by or resulting from its own negligence and defendant, at the time of the accident, was a "place of . . . recreation" within the plain meaning of the statute. Blanc v Windham Mountain Club, Inc., 115 Misc. 2d 404, 454 N.Y.S.2d 383, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3701 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982), aff'd, 92 A.D.2d 529, 459 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16741 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1983).

Automatic suspension provided by a not-for-profit corporation's by-laws was unenforceable because it violated N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 507(c); it was undisputed that no notice was given to the members that had not paid dues, and, thus, pursuant to § 507(c), the votes of members who had not paid dues could not have been disqualified from voting an amendments to the by-laws based solely on that basis. Abraham v Diamond Dealers Club, Inc., 896 N.Y.S.2d 848, 27 Misc. 3d 663, 2010 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 399 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2010), aff'd, 80 A.D.3d 461, 914 N.Y.S.2d 152, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 98 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2011).

2003 amended by-laws of a non-profit corporation that owned an apartment building violated N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(f) and 611(e) because no shares could be issued pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 501 and each member could have only one vote; it was improper to give petitioner families entitlement to an additional vote because they possessed an additional unit. Matter of Thakur v 210 Forsyth St. Hous. Dev. Fund Corp., 844 N.Y.S.2d 686, 17 Misc. 3d 1012, 238 N.Y.L.J. 98, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 7261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007).

Certificate of incorporation merely designated certain individuals as the initial directors of the company and was otherwise silent about the composition of the board; the amendment of the company's bylaws for the purpose of removing the requirement that three-fourths of the directors be members of the sponsor did not violate the certificate of incorporation under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law 602. Alpha Phi Alpha Senior Citizens Ctr., Inc. v Zeta Zeta Lambda Co., Inc., 53 Misc. 3d 1066, 38 N.Y.S.3d 400, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3336 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016), aff'd, 180 A.D.3d 630, 119 N.Y.S.3d 181, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 892 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

There is prima facie validity to any provision of a not-for-profit corporation by-law restricting right of member to withdraw voluntarily. Leon v Chrysler Motors Corp., 358 F. Supp. 877, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14734 (D.N.J.), aff'd, 474 F.2d 1340 (3d Cir. N.J. 1973).

By-laws of not-for-profit corporation which required each member to agree not to withdraw from the association without the consent of a majority of all members were valid despite fact that members were in effect locked into the association unless they could persuade a majority of the members to vote against their own economic interests to release them. Leon v Chrysler Motors Corp., 358 F. Supp. 877, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14734 (D.N.J.), aff'd, 474 F.2d 1340 (3d Cir. N.J. 1973).

2. Elections

Where original constitution of not-for-profit corporation provided that all officers should be elected for term of one year and that no officer should succeed himself for more than two successive years for same office, and term of office was increased to two years but it was neglected to amend time provided for succession, period of one year would be construed to mean "one term" in order to give meaning to constitutional provision on succession. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Where, though irregularities appeared to have taken place, there was no showing of fraud or wrongdoing and it appeared that, even if some delegates to convention of not-for-profit corporation members were barred, their vote or presence would not have changed results of election of officers, new election was denied. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

3. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 20

Bylaws must be reasonable. Matthews v Associated Press, 136 N.Y. 333, 136 N.Y. 662, 32 N.E. 981, 136 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 333, 1893 N.Y. LEXIS 607 (N.Y. 1893).

An amendment to the bylaws of a membership corporation organized for charitable purposes which permits amendments to the bylaws without notice to the members of the corporation may be unwise and contrary to the corporation's best interests, but it is not so unreasonable or unfair that it is beyond the power of the members to adopt, especially where no member has objected. In re Flushing Hospital & Dispensary, 288 N.Y. 125, 41 N.E.2d 917, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 125, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1064 (N.Y. 1942).

Where amended bylaws were adopted without proper notice, but for seven years had gone unchallenged by the membership of the corporation and the affairs of the corporation have been conducted in accordance therewith, there has been a waiver of the irregularity and the bylaws are valid. In re Flushing Hospital & Dispensary, 288 N.Y. 125, 41 N.E.2d 917, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 125, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1064 (N.Y. 1942).

Under § 20 the bylaws of a New York membership corporation may not make provisions inconsistent with law. Davids v Sillcox, 297 N.Y. 355, 79 N.E.2d 440, 297 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 355, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 845 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 298 N.Y. 618, 81 N.E.2d 353, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 618, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 1185 (N.Y. 1948).

Where the bylaws do not state whether they may be amended by a vote of the directors, or by a vote of electors and delegates, or by a vote of the members, the directors have no power to change the bylaws of a society which governs eligibility to membership. Croughan v New York Mut. Benevolent Soc., 179 A.D. 211, 166 N.Y.S. 161, 1917 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7330 (N.Y. App. Div. 1917).

A member of a membership corporation makes the by-laws thereof a part of his contract of membership and becomes bound by them. Cabana v Holstein-Friesian Ass'n, 196 A.D. 842, 188 N.Y.S. 277, 1921 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5620 (N.Y. App. Div. 1921), aff'd, 233 N.Y. 644, 135 N.E. 953, 233 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 644, 1922 N.Y. LEXIS 1067 (N.Y. 1922).

A purported election will be set aside where such election was not in accord with the corporation's bylaws. Brunone v Societa' Mutuo Soccorso, etc., 254 A.D. 753, 4 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7481 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938).

The bylaws of a corporation when legally adopted, which are reasonable and fair in character, have the force of law within the corporate body. In re Flushing Hospital & Dispensary, 27 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1711 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 262 A.D. 749, 28 N.Y.S.2d 155, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5726 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

The membership application, the constitution and by-laws of membership corporations are the contract by which each member is bound. Associated Press v Emmett, 45 F. Supp. 907, 1942 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2669 (D. Cal. 1942).

Agency Opinions

1. Generally

A fire company may adopt a bylaw providing that only firemen who attend at least 15 percent of all fire calls during the year may vote in an election of line officers of the fire company. 1982 NY Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82–17, 1982 N.Y. AG LEXIS 92.

An incorporated volunteer fire company may amend its by-laws and constitution to require that members of the company attend at least three meetings annually as a qualification to vote for company officers. 1983 Op. St. Compt. No. 83-65, 1983 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 420.

Under Sections 10-1000 et seq. of the Village Law, a village fire department is a corporation consisting of members of all the fire, hose, protective and hook and ladder companies of a village; it is administered by a board of fire commissioners or, where no board of fire commissioners has been appointed, by the village board of trustees and the council of the fire department. Fire companies in a village are associations or corporations, which must operate in accordance with their certificates of incorporation, bylaws, and statutes; and, although fire companies are separate and distinct from the village, the statutes do permit village authorities to exercise a certain degree of control over their organization, incorporation, governance, and membership, including residency for membership. A fire company must consent to a contract for the provision of fire protection outside the village and the fire chief of the village fire department cannot consent on behalf of members of the company. 1990 Op St Compt 90-19.

§ 603. Meetings of members

(a) [Eff until December 31, 2021] Meetings of members may be held at such place, within or without this state, as may be fixed by or under the by-laws or, if not so fixed, as determined by the board of directors. For the duration of the state disaster emergency declared by executive order two hundred two that began on March seventh, two thousand twenty, the board of directors may, in its sole discretion, determine that meetings of members be held partially or solely by means of electronic communication, the electronic service and/or platform by which the meeting is held shall be the place of the meeting for purposes of this article if a meeting is held solely by means of electronic communication. Meetings conducted partially or solely by means of electronic communications in reliance upon this paragraph and any member's electronic participation in such meetings shall be subject to those guidelines and procedures as the board adopts, provided the board shall implement reasonable measures to: (1) verify that each person participating electronically is a member or a proxy of a member; (2) provide each member participating electronically with a reasonable opportunity to participate in the meeting, including an opportunity to propose, object to, and vote upon a specific action to be taken by the members, and to see, read or hear the proceedings of the meeting substantially concurrently with those proceedings; and (3) record and maintain a record of any votes or other actions taken by electronic communication at the meeting.

(a) [Eff December 31, 2021] Meetings of members may be held at such place, within or without this state, as may be fixed by or under the by-laws or, if not so fixed, at the office of the corporation in this state.

(b) A meeting of the members shall be held annually for the election of directors and the transaction of other business on a date fixed by or under the by-laws. Failure to hold the annual meeting on the date so fixed or to elect a sufficient number of directors to conduct the business of the corporation shall not work a forfeiture or give cause for dissolution of the corporation, except as provided in paragraph (a) of section 1102 (Judicial dissolution; petition by directors or members; petition in case of deadlock among directors or members).

(c) Special meetings of the members may be called by the board and by such person or persons as may be authorized by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. In any case, such meetings may be convened by the members entitled to cast ten per cent of the total number of votes entitled to be cast at such meeting, who may, in writing, demand the call of a special meeting specifying the date and month thereof, which shall not be less than two nor more than three months from the date of such written demand. The secretary of the corporation upon receiving the written demand shall promptly give notice of such meeting, or if he fails to do so within five business days thereafter, any member signing such demand may give such notice. The meeting shall be held at the place fixed in the by-laws or, if not so fixed, at the office of the corporation.

(d) A corporation may provide in its certificate of incorporation or by-laws adopted by the members for the election of representatives or delegates, who, when assembled within or without the state as directed by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, shall have and may exercise all of the powers, rights and privileges of members at an annual meeting. When so exercising the powers, rights and privileges of members, such representatives or delegates shall be subject in all respects to the provisions of this chapter governing members.

Changes: Slightly revised.

Comment: This section, patterned after section 602 of the Bus Corp L, does not depart substantially from existing statutory law governing meetings of members in not-for-profit corporations. The provision for special meetings, in paragraph (c), is more explicit than its counterpart in the Mem Corp L in authorizing such meetings to be called by the board of directors and by such persons as may be authorized by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. An innovation appears in the provision that if the certificate or the by-laws do not provide for the convening of special meetings by the membership, such meetings may be called by members entitled to cast 10 % of the total number of votes entitled to be cast thereat.

The provision in paragraph (b) that failure to hold the annual meeting or to elect a sufficient number of directors does not work a forfeiture, or cause the dissolution, if the corporation re-enacts section 21 of the Gen Corp L.

The provision in paragraph (d), authorizing representative or delegate voting re-enacts section 44 of the Mem Corp L.

Editor's Notes Laws 2020, ch 122, § 6, eff June 17, 2020, provides:

§ 6. This act shall take effect immediately and shall expire and be deemed repealed December 31, 2021.

Amendment Notes The 2020 amendment by ch 122, § 3, in (a), substituted "as determined by the board of directors" for "at the office of the corporation in this state" in the first sentence, and added the second and third sentence.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

OPTIONS FOR MEMBERS IN THE MINORITY TO PUT AN END TO WRONGDOING

By Brendan J. Rich, Esq.

INSIGHT

Members in the minority of a not-for-profit corporation ("corporation") who want to stop those in control of the corporation from committing improper activities have various options available to them. A corporation must pursue the purposes for which it was formed as set forth in its certificate of incorporation, must follow those procedures established in its bylaws, and cannot distribute its funds for the private benefit of any director, officer or member. When those in control of a not-for-profit corporation cause it to deviate from any of these principles, those members in the minority may attempt to handle the situation internally, through the court system, or by putting the Attorney General on notice.

Call a special meeting of members to openly discuss the objectionable items.

A special meeting may be called by the members in the minority to bring the corporate malfeasance to the attention of all the members and to attempt to spur change. Members should review the corporation's organizational documents for the procedures pursuant to which such a meeting may be brought. If no such provision exists in the organizational documents or if the number of members needed to call such a meeting is an insurmountable impediment, such a meeting may be convened by ten percent (10%) of the members entitled to vote at such a meeting pursuant to N- PCL § 603(c). Such an action will force those in the majority to openly discuss the objectionable items. If the minority's concerns are not properly addressed after such a meeting, the members may resign from the corporation, bring a derivative action on behalf of the corporation, or even seek the dissolution of the corporation. The special meeting is important as it will memorialize the members' objections in the corporate record and may prove to be critical from a public relations standpoint and in any future litigation.

A derivative action may be commenced to recover funds on behalf of the corporation.

If minority members constitute five percent (5%) or more of the total membership, they can bring a derivative action in the name of the corporation pursuant to N-PCL §§ 623 and 720(b)(3). Such an action can take many forms, such as an action: (i) against an individual director or officer for fraud or breach of fiduciary duties; (ii) to set aside any action that was beyond the corporate "purposes"; or, (iii) to enjoin a proposed improper conveyance of corporate assets. In such an action the importance of the special meeting becomes apparent; pursuant to N-PCL § 623(c) the complaint must set forth, with particularity, the attempt to address the objectionable behavior presented in the complaint.

The practitioner should be aware that while a derivative action, if successful, can result in the recovery of funds for the corporation and the likely resignation or dismissal of the offending actors, it could also subject the corporation's affairs to public scrutiny, result in litigation expenses that may be unrecoverable, and could divert the corporation's funds and attention from its mission.

Minority members may seek dissolution and distribution of funds to an appropriate successor.

The members in the minority, specifically those making up ten percent (10%) of the total membership, can bring an action to dissolve the corporation pursuant to N-PCL § 1102(a)(2) and to distribute the corporation's funds to a similar entity. An action pursuant to N-PCL §1102(a)(2)(D) appears to be the best option available to a smaller number of members, as it deals with controlling members acting in a fraudulent manner and perpetuating the corporation solely for their personal benefit. In the face of the limited case law it appears to be a hard case to make, however, as it has been held that dissolution is a drastic measure and that even if excessive spending can be proven, in the absence of bad faith, dissolution is not appropriate. Application of John Luther & Sons Co., 52 A.D.2d 737, 381 N.Y.S.2d 934 (4th Dept, 1976). A larger obstacle for a petition based on N-PCL § 1102 is that it must be established that such dissolution would be beneficial to the membership as a whole, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(2). In a situation where the majority of the members agree with the inappropriate actions taken by those in the control of the corporation, meeting that threshold could present problems for the minority members. It is important to note that even if the action is successful and the corporation is dissolved and its funds released to another not-for-profit corporation with a similar purpose, the cost of litigation may be great and may deplete a large percentage of the corporation's funds.

Putting the Attorney General on notice of the improper activity.

An informal option available to the minority members would be to notify the Attorney General of the corporation's activities. Pursuant to N-PCL § 1101(a)(2), an action can be brought by the Attorney General to dissolve a corporation that has persistently acted fraudulently and contrary to public policy. In such an action, it must be demonstrated that the corporation exceeded its powers and that this abuse of power has threatened the public welfare. People v. North River Sugar Refining Co., 121 N.Y. 582 (1890). In addition, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(1), in such an action the public interest, rather than the benefit to the corporation's membership, is of supreme importance. There is a great deal of uncertainty involved with this course action, such as (i) the lack of control of the distribution of the corporation's funds following dissolution; and (ii) what the investigation will uncover, as all corporate actions, not just the objectionable ones complained of, are open to investigation. It is important for the practitioner to note that if the corporate actions come under scrutiny by the Attorney General, it is likely that an audit by the Department of Taxation and Finance will follow. Such an investigation could result in the corporation being stripped of its tax-exempt status and could jeopardize the deductibility of any donations made by the members in the minority if it is determined that the members knew that the improper activity was taking place.

1. Generally

Defendants' counterclaim to compel plaintiff church to call a special membership meeting for the purpose of voting on a proposed amendment to the church's by-laws that was submitted by an individual defendant church member at a parish meeting would be dismissed where the proposed resolution was not submitted in accordance with N-PCL Law § 603(c), which requires a written demand by 10 percent of the members eligible to vote to compel church officials to call such a meeting when the church charter or by-laws do not provide therefor. (a) If, for a period of one month after the date fixed by or under the by-laws for the annual meeting of members or, if no date has been so fixed, for a period of thirteen months after the formation of the corporation or the last annual meeting, there is a failure to elect a sufficient number of directors to conduct the business of the corporation, the board shall call a special meeting for the election of directors. If such special meeting is not called by the board within two weeks after the expiration of such period or if it is so called but there is a failure to elect such directors for a period of two months after the expiration of such period, members entitled to cast one hundred votes or ten per cent of the total number of votes entitled to be cast in an election of directors, whichever is lesser, may, in writing, demand the call of a special meeting for the election of directors specifying the date and month thereof, which shall not be less than two nor more than three months from the date of such written demand. (b) At any such special meeting called on the demand of members, notwithstanding section 608 (Quorum of members), the members attending, in person or by proxy, and entitled to vote in an election of directors shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing directors, but not for the transaction of any other business.

Comment: This section, patterned after section 603 of the Bus Corp L, departs only slightly from the provisions of sections 22 through 24 of the Gen Corp L presently regulating special meetings for the election of directors of not-for-profit corporations when the regular machinery for the election of directors has failed. Aside from the more precise timing procedures prescribed by this section, the sole substantive change is embodied in the provision which authorizes such special meetings to be initiated by members entitled to cast "one hundred votes or ten per cent of the total number of votes entitled to be cast in an election of directors, whichever is lesser". The "one hundred vote" provision is specially designed for the very large membership-type corporation, for which the "ten percent vote" provision would be unduly restrictive.

2. Under former General Corporation Law § 22

1. Generally

Defendants were entitled to summary judgment declaring that they were proper officers, directors and trustees of plaintiff nonprofit corporation where they established that "special annual membership meeting" at which those in attendance voted to remove them as members of board of trustees, and to elect new board, had been called without requisite notice and in violation of other sections of applicable by-laws. 2. Under former General Corporation Law § 22

The provisions of General Corporation Law § 22 are applicable where there is a claim failure to elect directors of a membership corporation. In re Election of Directors of FDR-Woodrow Wilson Democrats, Inc., 57 Misc. 2d 743, 293 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1470 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

Where due notice was given of annual membership meeting of membership corporation but directors of corporation were not elected on such date, subsequent election of directors at membership meeting, notice of which was insufficient in accordance with statute and by-laws was void. In re Election of Directors of FDR-Woodrow Wilson Democrats, Inc., 57 Misc. 2d 743, 293 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1470 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

This section is applicable to a membership corporation since its provisions are not in conflict with any provision of the Membership Corporation Law. Application of Atwater, 85 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3853 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), aff'd, 277 A.D. 766, 97 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3209 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

Where, under the conditions in the case, any member of a membership corporation could call a meeting pursuant to this section, petitioning members of such a corporation were not entitled to an order to compel the directors to call a meeting for the purpose of electing officers and directors. § 605. Notice of meeting of members.

(a) [Eff until December 31, 2021] Whenever under the provisions of this chapter members are required or permitted to take any action at a meeting, written notice shall state the place, date and hour of the meeting, for the duration of the state disaster emergency declared by executive order two hundred two that began on March seventh, two thousand twenty, the means of electronic communication, if any, by which members may participate in the proceedings of the meeting pursuant to paragraph (a) of section six hundred three of this article and, unless it is an annual meeting, indicate that it is being issued by or at the direction of the person or persons calling the meeting. Notice of a special meeting shall also state the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called. A copy of the notice of any meeting shall be given, personally, by mail, or by facsimile telecommunications or by electronic mail, to each member entitled to vote at such meeting. If the notice is given personally, by first class mail or by facsimile telecommunications or by electronic mail, it shall be given not less than ten nor more than fifty days before the date of the meeting; if mailed by any other class of mail, it shall be given not less than thirty nor more than sixty days before such date. If mailed, such notice is given when deposited in the United States mail, with postage thereon prepaid, directed to the member at his address as it appears on the record of members, or, if he shall have filed with the secretary of the corporation a written request that notices to him be mailed to some other address, then directed to him at such other address. If sent by facsimile telecommunication or mailed electronically, such notice is given when directed to the member's fax number or electronic mail address as it appears on the record of members, or, to such fax number or other electronic mail address as filed with the secretary of the corporation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, such notice shall not be deemed to have been given electronically (1) if the corporation is unable to deliver two consecutive notices to the member by facsimile telecommunication or electronic mail; or (2) the corporation otherwise becomes aware that notice cannot be delivered to the member by facsimile telecommunication or electronic mail. An affidavit of the secretary or other person giving the notice or of a transfer agent of the corporation that the notice required by this section has been given shall, in the absence of fraud, be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. Whenever a corporation has more than five hundred members, the notice may be served by publication in a newspaper published in the county in the state in which the principal office of the corporation is located, once a week for three successive weeks next preceding the date of the meeting, provided that the corporation shall also prominently post notice of such meeting on the homepage of any website maintained by the corporation continuously from the date of publication through the date of the meeting. A corporation shall send notice of meetings by first class mail to any member who requests in writing that such notices be delivered by such method.

(a) [Eff December 31, 2021] Whenever under the provisions of this chapter members are required or permitted to take any action at a meeting, written notice shall state the place, date and hour of the meeting and, unless it is an annual meeting, indicate that it is being issued by or at the direction of the person or persons calling the meeting. A corporation shall send notice of meetings by first class mail to any member who requests in writing that such notices be delivered by such method.

(b) [Eff until December 31, 2021] When a meeting is adjourned to another time or place, it shall not be necessary, unless the by-laws require otherwise, to give any notice of the adjourned meeting if the time and place to which the meeting is adjourned and, for the duration of the state disaster emergency declared by executive order two hundred two that began on March seventh, two thousand twenty, the means of electronic communications, if any, by which members may participate in the proceedings of the meeting pursuant to paragraph (a) of section six hundred three of this article are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken, and at the adjourned meeting any business may be transacted that might have been transacted on the original date of the meeting. However, if after the adjournment the board fixes a new record date for the adjourned meeting, a notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each member of record on the new record date entitled to notice under paragraph (a) of this section.

(b) [Eff December 31, 2021] When a meeting is adjourned to another time or place, it shall not be necessary, unless the by-laws require otherwise, to give any notice of the adjourned meeting if the time and place to which the meeting is adjourned are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken, and at the adjourned meeting any business may be transacted that might have been transacted on the original date of the meeting. However, if after the adjournment the board fixes a new record date for the adjourned meeting, a notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each member of record on the new record date entitled to notice under paragraph (a).

(c) [Eff until December 31, 2021] Nothing required in paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section shall limit, restrict or supersede other forms of voting and participation.

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This section, patterned after section 605 of the Bus Corp L, revises the existing statute regulating notice of meetings of members in not-for-profit corporations in two important respects: (a) it prescribes the procedure for giving notice to members of any meeting of members, not alone special meetings as in section 43 of the Mem Corp L; and (b) it makes explicit provision for adjourned meetings, in which case no additional notice is required unless the by-laws prescribe it or unless the board fixes a new record date after the adjournment, in which event notice must be given to each member of record on the new record date who is entitled to such notice.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Laws 2020, ch 122, § 6, eff June 17, 2020, provides:

§ 6. This act shall take effect immediately and shall expire and be deemed repealed December 31, 2021.

Amendment Notes The 2020 amendment by ch 122, § 4,added "for the duration of the state disaster emergency declared by executive order two hundred two that began on March seventh, two thousand twenty, the means of electronic communication, if any, by which members may participate in the proceedings of the meeting pursuant to paragraph (a) of section six hundred three of this article" in the first sentence of (a); in (b), added "and, for the duration of the state disaster emergency declared by executive order two hundred two that began on March seventh, two thousand twenty, the means of electronic communications, if any, by which members may participate in the proceedings of the meeting pursuant to paragraph (a) of section six hundred three of this article" in the first sentence and "of this section" in the second sentence; and added (c).

4. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 42
5. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 43

1. Generally

Where, though irregularities appeared to have taken place, there was no showing of fraud or wrongdoing and it appeared that, even if some delegates to convention of not-for-profit corporation members were barred, their vote or presence would not have changed results of election of officers, new election was denied. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Meeting of delegates of public employee labor union organized as not-for-profit corporation was nullity, and all actions taken at meeting were void, where union's constitution provided that each local chapter elect delegates who were, in effect, representatives of union rank and file, but only notice of meeting sent to all such delegates failed to set forth time and place of meeting and thus failed to comply with CLS N-PCL § 605. Simoni v Civil Service Employees Ass'n, Local 1000, etc., 133 Misc. 2d 1, 507 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2958 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

2. Board of directors

Congregation had the authority to discharge members of a not-for-profit corporation's board of directors because (1) N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 703(b) and the corporation's bylaws only let the board increase the board's number, (2) the congregation, as the corporation's sole member, could not be denied the right to vote except by the congregation's removal or resignation, under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 612 and 605(a), so bylaw amendments denying that right had no effect, (3) the bylaws in effect let the congregation veto the board's bylaw amendments, and (4) the congregation vetoed amendments denying the congregation the rights to vote, remove directors, and adopt, amend, or repeal bylaws. Gluck v Chevre Liady Nusach Hoary, 97 A.D.3d 787, 949 N.Y.S.2d 149, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5657 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2012), app. denied, 21 N.Y.3d 855, 967 N.Y.S.2d 688, 989 N.E.2d 970, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 1195 (N.Y. 2013).

Congregation had the authority to discharge members of a not-for-profit corporation's board of directors without notice because (1) the congregation was the corporation's sole member, (2) N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 605(a) only entitled members to notice, and (3) the corporation's certificate of incorporation and bylaws did not require notice. Gluck v Chevre Liady Nusach Hoary, 97 A.D.3d 787, 949 N.Y.S.2d 149, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5657 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2012), app. denied, 21 N.Y.3d 855, 967 N.Y.S.2d 688, 989 N.E.2d 970, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 1195 (N.Y. 2013).

3. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 20

Where the bylaws of a corporation provide for the expulsion of members by the rank and file members, after a hearing held at a regular meeting of members, the chance presence of certain members at a directors' meeting, and participation by them in a vote along with the directors present, resulting in a purported expulsion, does not lend validity to the proceedings. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

Where the bylaws of an organization provide for the participation of the entire membership of the society in a vote for the expulsion of a member, but such bylaws omit to provide for notice to the members of a meeting at which such a vote is to be taken, proper notice of the meeting and of the right of the members to participate in the trial and the vote for expulsion must nevertheless be given to the members; such notice should properly be given by mail, preferably by registered mail. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

An article in the newspaper of a society which merely reports that expulsion proceedings against certain delegates or directors who are unnamed are scheduled at a delegates' meeting, and inviting rank and file members to attend, does not constitute notice to the members of such a meeting, where the bylaws provided that the expulsion of any member must be by a vote at a meeting of the entire membership. Weinberg v Carton, 90 N.Y.S.2d 398, 196 Misc. 74, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

4. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 42

Where there is no provision in the constitution or the bylaws of an unincorporated association specifying the time or manner of giving notice of a meeting, such notice must be given a reasonable time before the date of the meeting at which authorization is given to incorporate the association. Heights Democratic Club, Inc. v Brewer, 272 A.D. 1009, 74 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4683 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

A notice of a meeting of an unincorporated association at which authorization was given to incorporate, is inadequate in the absence of any provision in the association's bylaws or constitution in regard thereto, where notice was mailed but two days before the meeting was held, and it does not appear that the notice was sent to all the members of the association insofar as they were known or could have been identified. Heights Democratic Club, Inc. v Brewer, 272 A.D. 1009, 74 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4683 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

5. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 43

Although the votes cast at a meeting of a membership corporation in favor of the consolidation with another membership corporation were not by at least ⅔ of its members entitled to vote thereon and the notice of meeting might have been defective in that it was not given at least 10 days before the meeting and was not signed by an executive officer, former treasurer of one of the consolidated clubs could not claim that consolidation should be upset on those grounds in the light of the fact that he took no steps to litigate his claim until after a lapse of almost a year after said meeting and seven months after the court approved the certificate of consolidation. Liberal Civic Club, Inc. v Poli, 284 A.D. 1057, 135 N.Y.S.2d 814, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4562 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954).

Where there was a substantial controversy between parties, and moving papers were voluminous, motion for injunction pendente lite was denied. Sorokin v Young Israel of Kings Bay, 133 N.Y.S.2d 242, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2158 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

§ 606. Waivers of notice

Notice of meeting need not be given to any member who submits a waiver of notice, in person or by proxy, whether before or after the meeting. Waiver of notice may be written or electronic. If written, the waiver must be executed by the member or the member's authorized officer, director, employee, or agent by signing such waiver or causing his or her signature to be affixed to such waiver by any reasonable means, including, but not limited to facsimile signature. If electronic, the transmission of the waiver must be sent by electronic mail and set forth, or be submitted with, information from which it can reasonably be determined that the transmission was authorized by the member. The attendance of any member at a meeting, in person or by proxy, without protesting prior to the conclusion of the meeting the lack of notice of such meeting, shall constitute a waiver of notice by him or her.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Gen Corp Law § 31.

Revision Notes: Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: This section, dealing with the subject of waiver of notice of meetings, is an adaptation of section 606 of the Bus Corp L and is new for not-for-profit corporations in this state. It authorizes membership action at a meeting without notice of such meeting to a member who waives such notice (1) by written waiver signed, in person or by proxy, either before or after the meeting, or (2) by attendance at such meeting, in person or by proxy, without protesting the lack of notice to him at some time prior to the close of the meeting.

It should be noted that section 31 of the Gen Corp L, which authorizes corporate action by the board of directors or a committee thereof on a written waiver of notice, has its counterpart in section 108 of this chapter.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 358, § 4, made a stylistic changes.

Under evidence, members of not-for-profit corporation acquiesced in action of previous convention in adopting constitutional amendment, and failure to question validity of amendment prior to application to court following election at 1974 convention constituted waiver of claim that improper notice had been given as to amendment. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

There could be no waiver, under CLS N-PCL § 606, of notice of special meeting of delegates of public employee labor union organized as not-for-profit corporation where delegate submitted affidavit stating that he did not attend meeting because of lack of notice, and no evidence was produced that such delegate received proper notice of meeting, leaving no factual dispute on issue. § 608. Quorum at meeting of members

(a) Members entitled to cast a majority of the total number of votes entitled to be cast thereat shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of members for the transaction of any business, provided that when a specified item of business is required to be voted on by a class of members, voting as a class, members entitled to cast a majority of the total number of votes entitled to be cast by such class shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of such specified items of business.

(b) The certificate of incorporation or the by-laws may provide for any lesser quorum not less than the members entitled to cast one hundred votes or one-tenth of the total number of votes entitled to be cast, whichever is lesser, and may, under section 615 (Greater requirement as to quorum and vote of members), provide for a greater quorum.

(c) Action to amend the certificate of incorporation or by-laws to conform to paragraph (b) may be taken at a special meeting of members at which the quorum requirements applicable to the corporation immediately prior to the effective date of this chapter are fulfilled, but action may be taken only once under this paragraph.

(d) The members present may adjourn the meeting despite the absence of a quorum.

(e) If for any reason it has proved to be impractical or impossible for a corporation to obtain a quorum in order to conduct a meeting of its members in the manner prescribed by its certificate or by-laws or by statute, then upon the petition of a director, officer or member to the supreme court in the judicial district where the office of the corporation is or was located on notice to the attorney general or by the attorney general, the supreme court may in its discretion dispense with the requirement as to quorums that would otherwise be imposed by the corporation's certificate of incorporation or by-laws or by statute. The petition shall set forth the reasonable efforts the corporation has made to obtain a quorum, including the manner in which the corporation provided notice to its members of prior meetings. The supreme court shall, in an order issued pursuant to this section, provide for a method of notice reasonably designed to give actual notice to all persons who would be entitled to notice of a meeting held pursuant to the certificate of incorporation or by-laws or the statute, whether or not the method results in actual notice to all such persons or conforms to the notice requirements that would otherwise apply. In a proceeding under this section the court may determine who are the members of the corporation.

(f) For purposes of this section "person" means any association, corporation, joint stock company, estate, general partnership (including any registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership), limited association, limited liability company (including a professional service limited liability company), foreign limited liability company (including a foreign professional service limited liability company), joint venture, limited partnership, natural person, real estate investment trust, business trust or other trust, custodian, nominee or any other individual or entity in its own or any representative capacity.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 20.

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This section, patterned after section 608 of the Bus Corp L, effects the following changes in the existing statutory law regulating the quorum at membership meetings in not-for-profit corporations:

(a) It fixes the quorum at meetings of members at a majority of the total number of votes entitled to be cast thereat, unless the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws prescribe a greater proportion or number of such votes, under section 615, or a lesser proportion or number, under paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) It reduces the minimum requirement for a quorum at membership meetings from the one-third provision under section 20 of the Mem Corp L to "the members entitled to cast one hundred votes or one-tenth of the total number of votes entitled to be cast, whichever is lesser". The provision for one hundred votes as a minimum requirement is specially designed for the very large membership-type corporation.

(c) Explicit provisions are made for the quorum when voting is by class (paragraph (a)), and adjournment of meetings in the absence of a quorum (paragraph (c)).

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 702 law requires that a not-for-profit corporation have no less than three directors. The law sets no maximum number of directors and permits the entity, through its bylaws or member action, to set the upper limit requirements. The qualifications of the board members are addressed in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701. Although the legal requirements related to the size and makeup of the board of directors may be easy to fulfill, the practical considerations are much more complicated and should be addressed periodically as the entity grows and changes.

Formally authorize board of directors with more than three members.

A not-for-profit corporation will be considered to have a three-person board of directors, unless the number is fixed in some authorized way. Custom, usage or acquiescence cannot establish the size of the board. In re Rye Psychiatric Hosp. Med. Ctr. Inc., 66 N.Y.2d 333, 497 N.Y.S.2d 317 (1985). Consequently, review of the Certificate of Incorporation and the bylaws of the organization is important if the corporation is considering increasing the size of the board. The appropriate amendments should be made before moving forward with the appointment or election of additional board members.

Fine balancing act must take place when determining size of board of directors.

Not-for-profits typically have larger boards of directors than their for-profit counterparts. There are certainly advantages to having a large number of directors. Since directors are typically large contributors and fundraisers for an organization, those organizations with larger boards usually raise more money. Larger boards can include directors with divergent skills (such as legal, financial, accounting) to which smaller boards may not have access.

That said, the larger the board, the more difficult it becomes to take action. For example, coaxing enough directors to a meeting as necessary to meet quorum requirements becomes more difficult, as does reaching a consensus at the required level (for example, majority or two-thirds) on important issues. Directors on a board that is too large may attach less importance to their individual role and, often, this leads to overburdened staff, an unfair distribution of work to those directors who make a commitment to participate actively, or both. Committees are essential when a large board is involved.

Recently, a provision was added to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608 to assist not-for-profit organizations that find it impossible or impractical to reach a quorum for meetings of members. There is no similar relief provided for meeting board quorum requirements. The best course for dealing with this difficulty remains in limiting the size of the board to a manageable number.

Certain Not-For-Profit Corp. Law provisions make it logistically difficult to manage large board of directors.

When representing an organization considering a move to a larger board of directors, counsel would be well-advised to review certain provisions of the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law that make a large board particularly difficult to work with. For example, under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 703(d), directors are not permitted to vote by proxy (although there is a very limited exception to allow voting through an alternate). Pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b), action may be taken by the board without a meeting only if all directors consent to the action in writing. Recent changes to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)made as part of the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013 have made this process a bit easier by providing that such "consent may be written or electronic". However, obtaining unanimous written consent can still be an administrative nightmare.

Telephone conferencing has been permitted for board meetings for some time where all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c). In addition, under the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c) has been revised to clarify that "electronic video screen communication", i.e. video conferencing, can be used for board meetings provided again that all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time and participate in all matters before the board. This alternative ought make working with a larger board more practical. These options are not available if otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

Consider honorary or advisory boards as alternative to large board of directors.

When logistical considerations weigh in favor of a more manageable number of directors, not-for-profits may want to address increased fundraising through the creation of an honorary or advisory board. Although honorary directors participate in fundraising efforts and projects that are very limited in scope, they do not get involved in the day-to-day decision-making of the organization and attendance requirements are not overwhelming. The management of the organization vests in a smaller, active board of directors that meets regularly. As a result, the not-for-profit enjoys most of the financial benefits of having a large board of directors, the practical benefits of having a committed active board of directors, and few of the disadvantages of working with a large number of directors.

REDUCING QUORUM REQUIREMENTS FOR MEMBER MEETINGS

By James W. Smyton, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608 establishes the requirements for a quorum at member meetings. It is critical that the practitioner drafting bylaws for a New York not-for-profit corporation (NFP) pay particular attention to the reduced quorum requirements permitted by this section. These requirements provide options to reduce the number of members needed to obtain a quorum at member meetings to less than a majority, thus assisting corporations with large memberships from the potential difficulty of obtaining a quorum.

By reducing number of members needed to constitute quorum at meetings to less than majority, not-for-profit corporations are spared an oppressive burden applicable to obtaining a quorum.

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608(a) provides that a majority of all members entitled to vote constitutes a quorum at a meeting of members for the purpose of conducting business. Section 608(b), however, allows the NFP to adopt a quorum requirement of less than a majority. This section provides that a quorum can be the lesser of:

1. One hundred members who are entitled to vote; or
2. One-tenth of the total members entitled to vote.

The ability to set a quorum of less than a majority can be critical to a NFP with a large voting membership. It is not uncommon to find that the local YMCA or performing arts center has a voting membership that numbers in the several thousand. Achieving attendance (in person or by proxy) of at least fifty percent of these members is a Herculean task.

Although the "standard" quorum requirement of a majority may work in some cases, the better practice is for the practitioner to consider the demographics and logistics of the membership group. Before a NFP's bylaws are finalized, the practitioner should discuss with the client the obstacles to achieving fifty percent of all members at a meeting. The practitioner may find that one of the alternatives set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608 makes sense.

Consider adopting bylaw language that sets quorum at less than majority.

If the client decides that less than a majority of members entitled to vote shall constitute a quorum, counsel should consider the following suggested bylaw language:

1. Ten percent (10%) of all members eligible to vote shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of members of the Corporation.

2. One Hundred (100) members eligible to vote shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of members of the Corporation.

Analysis

1. Generally
2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 20

1. Generally

Provision in a not-for-profit organization's revised bylaws setting a quorum at 90 members was void and unenforceable because it conflicted with N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 608(b). Since the provision was invalid, the quorum requirement for meeting, under § 608(a), was a majority of the members, and as a majority of the members were not present at the meeting, there was no valid quorum, thereby rendering the vote taken at that meeting null and void. Sealey v American Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 809 N.Y.S.2d 421, 10 Misc. 3d 572, 234 N.Y.L.J. 96, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2472 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005), aff'd, 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2056 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 608(c) did not justify a not-for-profit organization's actions taking a vote to adopt revised bylaws setting a quorum at 90 members because the organization was not in existence prior to the effective date of the statute. Sealey v American Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 809 N.Y.S.2d 421, 10 Misc. 3d 572, 234 N.Y.L.J. 96, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2472 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005), aff'd, 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2056 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

Plain words of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 608(c) make clear that its provisions are only applicable to those corporations that existed at the time of its enactment. Sealey v American Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 809 N.Y.S.2d 421, 10 Misc. 3d 572, 234 N.Y.L.J. 96, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2472 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005), aff'd, 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2056 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

Because the quorum provision in a society's revised bylaws was inconsistent with N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 608(a), the trial court properly determined that the bylaws were null and void and enjoined the society from exercising any powers or taking any action pursuant to the bylaws relating to the removal of the officers and directors. Sealey v American Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2056 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 20

A provision in the by-laws of a lodge that any number of delegates may be held to constitute a quorum at a "second call meeting" is void since it violates the provisions of the Mem. Corp. Law of 1909, § 8 (now this section). Mem. Corp. Law of 1909, § 8 controls although there is no statement in the Mem. Corp. Law of 1909, § 44 (now the Mem. Corp. Law of 1926, § 44) as to number of delegates necessary to constitute a quorum, where the meeting is held by delegates instead of by members. Di Silvestro v Sons of Italy Grand Lodge, 223 N.Y.S. 791, 130 Misc. 494, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1038 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

Where the membership of a membership corporation had dwindled to less than thirty persons, an event in which the bylaws of the corporation through an oversight failed to indicate what constituted a quorum, and where at least nine members were present and voted at a duly called meeting, election of officers at such a meeting is a valid act. Application of Havender, 44 N.Y.S.2d 213, 181 Misc. 989, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2935 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

§ 609. Proxies

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws:

(1) Every member entitled to vote at a meeting of members or to express consent or dissent without a meeting may authorize another person or persons to act for him by proxy.

(2) No proxy shall be valid after the expiration of eleven months from the date thereof unless otherwise provided in the proxy. Every proxy shall be revocable at the pleasure of the member executing it, except as otherwise provided in this section.

(3) The authority of the holder of a proxy to act shall not be revoked by the incompetence or death of the member who executed the proxy unless, before the authority is exercised, written notice of an adjudication of such incompetence or of such death is received by the corporate officer responsible for maintaining the list or record of members.

(4) Except when other provision shall have been made by written agreement between the parties, the record holder of capital certificates which he holds as pledgee or otherwise as security or which belong to another, shall issue to the pledgor or to such owner of such capital certificates, upon demand therefor and payment of necessary expenses thereof, a proxy to vote or take other action thereon.

(5) A member shall not sell his vote or issue a proxy to vote to any person for any sum of money or anything of value, except as authorized in this section and section 619 (Agreements as to voting).

(6) A proxy which is entitled "irrevocable proxy" and which states that it is irrevocable is irrevocable when it is held by any of the following or a nominee of any of the following:

(A) A pledgee.

(B) A person who has purchased or agreed to purchase the capital certificates.

(C) A creditor or creditors of the corporation who extend or continue credit to the corporation in consideration of the proxy if the proxy states that it was given in consideration of such extension or continuation of credit, the amount thereof, and the name of the person extending or continuing credit.

(D) A person who has contracted to perform services as an officer of the corporation, if a proxy is required by the contract of employment, if the proxy states that it was given in consideration of such contract of employment, the name of the employee and the period of employment contracted for.

(E) A person designated by or under an agreement under section 619.

(7) Notwithstanding a provision in a proxy, stating that it is irrevocable, the proxy becomes revocable after the pledge is redeemed, or the debt of the corporation is paid, or the period of employment provided for in the contract of employment has terminated, or the agreement under section 619 has terminated; and, in a case provided for in subparagraphs (6)(C) or (D), becomes revocable three years after the date of the proxy or the end of the period, if any, specified therein, whichever period is less, unless the period of irrevocability is renewed from time to time by the execution of a new irrevocable proxy as provided in this section. This paragraph does not affect the duration of a proxy under subparagraph (2).

(8) A proxy may be revoked, notwithstanding a provision making it irrevocable, by a purchaser of capital certificates without knowledge of the existence of the provision unless the existence of the proxy and its irrevocability is noted conspicuously on the face or back of the capital certificate.

(b) Without limiting the manner in which a member may authorize another person or persons to act for him as proxy pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, the following shall constitute a valid means by which a member may grant such authority:

(1) A member may execute a writing authorizing another person or persons to act for him as proxy. Execution may be accomplished by the member or the member's authorized officer, director, employee or agent signing such writing or causing his or her signature to be affixed to such writing by any reasonable means including, but not limited to, by facsimile signature.

(2) A member may authorize another person or persons to act for the member as proxy by providing such authorization by electronic mail to the person who will be the holder of the proxy or to a proxy solicitation firm, proxy support service organization or like agent duly authorized by the person, provided that any such authorization by electronic mail shall either set forth information from which it can be reasonably determined that the authorization by electronic mail was authorized by the member. If it is determined that such authorization by electronic mail is valid, the inspectors or, if there are no inspectors, such other persons making that determination shall specify the nature of the information upon which they relied.

(c) Any copy, facsimile telecommunication or other reliable reproduction of the writing or electronic mail created pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section may be substituted or used in lieu of the original writing or transmission for any and all purposes for which the original writing or transmission could be used, provided that such copy, facsimile telecommunication or other reproduction shall be a complete reproduction of the entire original writing or transmission.

Comment: This section, patterned after section 609 of the Bus Corp L, effects the following changes in the existing statute regulating proxies in not-for-profit corporations:

(1) The holder of a proxy is not precluded from exercising it by reason of the incompetence of the donor, unless written notice of an adjudication of incompetence is received by the corporate officer responsible for maintaining the list of members before the proxy is exercised (paragraph (c)).

(2) The record holder of capital certificates held by him as pledgee or otherwise as security, or which belong to another, must, upon demand therefor, issue a proxy to the pledgor or the beneficial owner of the certificates (paragraph (d)).

(3) A member is precluded from selling his vote or issuing a proxy for any sum of money or anything of value except as authorized in the section and in section 619 (paragraph (e)).

(4) Detailed provisions for irrevocable proxies are set forth in paragraphs (f), (g) and (h). These had formerly been made applicable to not-for-profit corporations by an oblique reference to former section 47-a of the Stock Corporation Law in paragraph 3 of section 19 of the Gen Corp L.

§ 611. Qualification of voters; fixing record date to determine eligibility to vote; voting entitlement

(a) The by-laws may provide or, in the absence of such provision, the board may fix, in advance, a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to notice of any meeting of members or any adjournment thereof. Such record date shall not be more than fifty nor less than ten days before the date of the meeting.

(b) Any member in good standing, otherwise eligible to vote, is entitled to vote at any meeting of members, except that, if the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws so provide, the by-laws may provide or, in the absence of such provision, the board may fix a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to vote at any meeting of members or any adjournment thereof, or to express consent to or dissent from any proposal without a meeting, or for the purpose of determining members entitled to receive any distribution or the allotment of any rights, or for the purpose of any other action by the members. Such record date shall not be more than fifty nor less than ten days before the date of the meeting.

(c) If the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws provide for a record date, as authorized by paragraph (b), and no record date is fixed:

(1) The record date for the determination of members entitled to vote at a meeting of members shall be at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which notice is given, or, if no notice is given, the day on which the meeting is held.

(2) The record date for determining members for any purpose other than that specified in subparagraph (1) shall be at the close of business on the day on which the resolution of the board relating thereto is adopted.

(d) When a determination of members of record entitled to notice of or to vote at any meeting of members has been made as provided in this section, such determination shall apply to any adjournment thereof, unless the board fixes a new record date under this section for the adjourned meeting.

(e) In any case in which a member is entitled to vote, he shall have no more than, nor less than, one vote; except that if a corporation has an organization as a member, the certificate of incorporation or by-laws may provide that such organization shall be entitled to votes substantially proportionate to its membership.

Comment: This section is an adaptation of section 604 and paragraph (a) of section 612 of the Bus Corp L. The provisions dealing with fixing the record date to determine the right to notice of, and voting eligibility at, any meeting of members, the right to receive any distribution or the allotment of any other rights, are entirely new for not-for-profit corporations in this state. The provision in paragraph (d) entitling every member of record to one vote on each matter submitted to a vote of members is presently found in section 41 of the Mem Corp L. The one member-one vote rule is, of course, subject to any contrary provision of the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. The remaining provisions of section 612 of the Bus Corp L were omitted as having minimal applicability to not-for-profit corporations.

By-law of not-for-profit corporation which provided for issuance of membership certificate for each lot owned in subdivision and permitted member to have one vote for each membership certificate issued violated statutory proscription providing that "members shall have no more than, nor less than, one vote" and was therefore invalid. Notes to Decisions

Congregation had the authority to discharge members of a not-for-profit corporation's board of directors because (1) N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 703(b) and the corporation's bylaws only let the board increase the board's number, (2) the congregation, as the corporation's sole member, could not be denied the right to vote except by the congregation's removal or resignation, under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 612 and 605(a), so bylaw amendments denying that right had no effect, (3) the bylaws in effect let the congregation veto the board's bylaw amendments, and (4) the congregation vetoed amendments denying the congregation the rights to vote, remove directors, and adopt, amend, or repeal bylaws. (a) Except as otherwise required by this chapter or by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws as permitted by this chapter, directors shall be elected by a plurality of the votes cast at a meeting of members by the members entitled to vote in the election.

(b) Whenever any corporate action, other than the election of directors, is to be taken under this chapter by vote of the members, it shall, except as otherwise required by this chapter or by the certificate of incorporation or by by-laws as permitted by this chapter, be authorized by a majority of the votes cast at a meeting of members by the members entitled to vote thereon.

(c) Except as provided in paragraph (b), any reference in this chapter to corporate action at a meeting of members by "majority vote" or "two-thirds vote" shall require the action to be taken by such proportion of the votes cast at such meeting, provided that the affirmative votes cast in favor of any such action shall be at least equal to the quorum. Blank votes or abstentions shall not be counted in the number of votes cast.

Comment: This section, dealing with the proportion of votes required for corporate action by members, is, in paragraphs (a) and (b), an adaptation of section 614 of the Bus Corp L and is new for not-for-profit corporations in this state. Paragraph (c) introduces an important change in the membership vote required to approve amendments to the certificate of incorporation (see, section 802(a)(1)), mergers and consolidations (see, section 903(a)(2)) and the disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation (see, section 510(a)(1)). Under the existing statutes, the vote required is, generally, two-thirds of all outstanding votes entitled to be cast at the meeting; under the new formula, the vote required is the requisite "majority" or "two-thirds" of the votes cast at the meeting (blank votes and abstentions not being counted in the number of votes cast), "provided that the affirmative votes cast in favor of any (such) action shall be at least equal to the quorum".

§ 614. Action by members without a meeting

(a) Whenever, under this chapter, members are required or permitted to take any action by vote, such action may be taken without a meeting upon the consent of all of the members entitled to vote thereon, which consent shall set forth the action so taken. Such consent may be written or electronic. If written, the consent must be executed by the member or the member's authorized officer, director, employee or agent by signing such consent or causing his or her signature to be affixed to such consent by any reasonable means including but not limited to facsimile signature. If electronic, the transmission of the consent must be sent by electronic mail and set forth, or be submitted with, information from which it can reasonably be determined that the transmission was authorized by the member. This paragraph shall not be construed to alter or modify any provision in a certificate of incorporation not inconsistent with this chapter under which the written consent of less than all of the members is sufficient for corporate action.

(b) Written or electronic consent thus given by all members entitled to vote shall have the same effect as a unanimous vote of members and any certificate with respect to the authorization or taking of any such action which is delivered to the department of state shall recite that the authorization was by unanimous written consent.

(c) When there are no members of record, such action may be taken on the written consent signed by a majority in interest of the subscribers for capital certificates whose subscriptions have been accepted or their successors in interest or, if no subscription has been accepted, on the written consent signed by the incorporator or a majority of the incorporators. When there are two or more incorporators, if any dies or is for any reason unable to act, the other or others may act. If there is no incorporator able to act, any person for whom an incorporator was acting as agent may act in his or her stead, or if such other person also dies or is for any reason unable to act, his or her legal representative may act.

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

§ 615. Greater requirement as to quorum and vote of members

(a) The certificate of incorporation or a by-law adopted by the members may contain provisions specifying either or both of the following:

(1) That the proportion of members, or of a class thereof, who shall be present in person or by proxy at any meeting of members, including a special meeting for election of directors under section 604 (Special meeting for election of directors), in order to constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business or of any specified item of business, including amendments to the certificate of incorporation, shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by this chapter in the absence of such provision.

(2) That the proportion of votes of the members, or of a class thereof, that shall be necessary at any meeting of members for the transaction of any business or of any specified item of business, including amendments to the certificate of incorporation, shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by this chapter in the absence of such provision.

(b) An amendment of the certificate of incorporation or a by-law adopted by the members which adds a provision permitted by this section or which changes or strikes out such a provision, shall be authorized at a meeting of members by vote of the members entitled to cast two-thirds of the total number of votes entitled to be cast thereon, or of such greater proportion of such total number of votes or the total number of votes of a class, as may be provided specifically in the certificate of incorporation or a by-law adopted by the members for adding, changing or striking out a provision permitted by this section.

(c) If the certificate of incorporation or a by-law adopted by the members contains a provision authorized by this section, the existence of such provision shall be noted conspicuously on the face or back of every membership certificate or card or capital certificate issued by such corporation.

Upon the petition of any member aggrieved by an election and upon notice to the persons declared elected thereat, the corporation and such other persons as the court may direct, the supreme court at a special term held within the judicial district where the office of the corporation is located shall forthwith hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and confirm the election, order a new election, or take such other action as justice may require.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1969, ch 1066, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1970.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Gen Corp Law § 25.

Revision Notes: Source: Gen Corp L § 25.

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This section, dealing with the power of the supreme court respecting elections, is an adaptation of section 619 of the Bus Corp L. It revises section 25 of the Gen Corp L, which presently regulates not-for-profit corporations in this area, by extending the power of the court with respect to elections "to take such other action (aside from merely confirming the election or ordering a new election) as justice may require". This additional power affords the court sufficient flexibility to pass upon questions of stock ownership and sundry other questions that may arise in connection with a corporate election.

1. Generally

A challenge by a candidate for the office of president of a union was not untimely for failure to exhaust his remedy within the union by filing a protest by a certain date where there was no evidence that such a deadline was properly adopted by the board of directors of the union and, assuming it was so adopted, a candidate should not be charged with knowledge of a deadline which does not appear in the election rules and regulations or the election timetable. Accordingly, said candidate, having exhausted his internal union remedies, was improperly barred from raising objections to the election. Wenzl v Civil Service Employees Asso., 62 A.D.2d 82, 404 N.Y.S.2d 426, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10421 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

Proceeding to annul action of stockholders in removing director was not the forum for approving an express agreement that director was to be retained as long as he or his designee was a stockholder. Teperman v Atcos Baths, Inc., 6 Misc. 2d 162, 163 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3078 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957), aff'd, 7 A.D.2d 854, 182 N.Y.S.2d 765, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10347 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1959).

Member of New York Mercantile Exchange who leased all her seats to obtain income therefrom is not granted injunction allowing her to reclaim right to vote, where member had been without vote for 2 years but waited until 3 weeks prior to election to seek relief, because (1) member did not show irreparable injury, and (2) member had adequate remedy at law in form of CLS N-PCL § 618 which provides judicial authority to overturn or modify results of improper election. Blanksteen v New York Mercantile Exch., 879 F. Supp. 363, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3267 (S.D.N.Y. 1995).

2. Determining validity of election

Because membership issues at the core of an election controversy between two rival factions of a religious congregation were an ecclesiastical matter, resolution of the controversy could not be achieved through N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 618 or N.Y. Relig. Corp. Law § 207 without judicial intrusion into matters of religious doctrine; therefore, the lower courts properly declined to review the controversy. Matter of Congregation Yetev Lev D'Satmar, Inc. v Kahana, 9 N.Y.3d 282, 849 N.Y.S.2d 463, 879 N.E.2d 1282, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 3284 (N.Y. 2007).

In a proceeding pursuant to Not-for-Profit Corp Law § 618 to compel a church to hold a membership meeting to elect officers and trustees, which dispute arose out of the alleged failure to hold a membership meeting pursuant to the church's bylaws, under the church's certificate of incorporation relating to membership, dues, active parishioners, and the governance of the church, the trial court properly found the church to have subjected itself to the hierarchical ecclesiastical authority, together with the right of the church to determine the qualifications of membership, so that the bishop had the power to determine who in fact was a member in good standing, and therefore the proceeding was properly dismissed as the matter of when there was to be a new meeting had to await the action of the bishop in determining membership issues. Kissel v Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Holy Trinity Church, 103 A.D.2d 830, 478 N.Y.S.2d 68, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19468 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Court would dismiss petition to declare church elections of trustees and officers to be null and void and to require new elections pursuant to CLS Relig Corp § 182 since petition was not filed within 4-month period mandated by CLS CPLR § 217. In re Uranian Phalanstery 1st New York Gnostic Lyceum Temple, 155 A.D.2d 302, 547 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

New election for president of dental society was required, under by-law requiring new election if result "could have been affected by the extra ballots," where 4 extra votes were cast, and margin of victory was only 3 votes; it did not matter that, when extra ballots were examined, they would not have changed result of election, because test was not whether outcome was changed but whether it "could have" been affected by number of excess votes. Jackson v First Dist. Dental Soc'y, 240 A.D.2d 265, 659 N.Y.S.2d 14, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6576 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

In special proceeding under CLS N-PCL § 618 to set aside results of election to parish council of church, injunctive relief would be granted against individuals purportedly elected to council where church's constitution and bylaws gave bishop authority to rule on challenges to election within 60 days, which he did by setting aside election results for irregularities and directing new election. Ionescu v Barbu, 255 A.D.2d 584, 680 N.Y.S.2d 653, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12892 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 809, 694 N.Y.S.2d 631, 716 N.E.2d 696, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1336 (N.Y. 1999).

Petition under CLS N-PCL § 618 to set aside petitioner's removal from not-for-profit corporation's board of trustees lacked merit to extent that it was based on claim that proceedings were tainted by "fraud" where (1) petitioner was present at and participated in challenged election and was fully able to communicate her views to other board members, (2) her mother's statement that petitioner no longer represented her family was prompted by petitioner's estrangement from her family, and (3) even if certain memoranda previously adopted by board and relied on by petitioner were enforceable, her removal complied with them. Nesbeda v Edna McConnell Clark Found., 266 A.D.2d 72, 698 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11611 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Where, though irregularities appeared to have taken place, there was no showing of fraud or wrongdoing and it appeared that, even if some delegates to convention of not-for-profit corporation members were barred, their vote or presence would not have changed results of election of officers, new election was denied. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

When petitioners challenged the conduct of an election for a not-for-profit corporation, the action was properly brought under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 618, not N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78. The action, however, could be deemed to have been brought under the proper statute pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 103(c). Cuva v United States Tennis Assn. E., Inc., 831 N.Y.S.2d 347, 13 Misc. 3d 1221(A), 236 N.Y.L.J. 62, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3712 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

3. Jurisdiction

New York City Civil Court lacked jurisdiction over action to enjoin not-for-profit organization and its executive committee from transferring power pursuant to recent elections and expending assets of organization, as such matters are reserved for Supreme Court. Koshy v Thomas, 185 Misc. 2d 102, 712 N.Y.S.2d 727, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 321 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 2000).

4. "Aggrieved" party

When respondents had not rebutted petitioners' assertion that individual petitioners had the right to vote in an election as the delegates of organizations that were members of a not-for-profit corporation, and the individual petitioners were defeated candidates, the individual petitioners had standing to institute a N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 618 proceeding. Organizations that were not listed in a membership report, though, were not members aggrieved and thus lacked standing. Cuva v United States Tennis Assn. E., Inc., 831 N.Y.S.2d 347, 13 Misc. 3d 1221(A), 236 N.Y.L.J. 62, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3712 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

5. Power of court

The Supreme Court properly declared a winner in an election for the position of editor-in-chief of a student publication, rather than ordering a new election, after disallowing proxy votes in the election pursuant to the publication's bylaws, which stated that the editor-in-chief would be elected at each annual meeting by "the members present" and that "[no] proxy votes may be counted," since N-PCL § 618 provides that the Supreme Court may "confirm the election, order a new election, or take such other action as justice may require," and since the votes that had been cast in person had already been fairly alloted and there was no claim of fraud or irregularity. In re Application of Kachic, 98 A.D.2d 965, 470 N.Y.S.2d 60, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21291 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983).

Court did not improperly interfere with internal affairs of petitioner not-for-profit corporation when it declared that petitioner had no authority to limit number of nominees for elective office, where petitioner had initially commenced proceeding to restrain respondents from engaging in disruptive and violent behavior at nomination meetings, and obtained such relief, and then invoked CLS N-PCL § 618 (which provides for judicial intervention in election matters) by specifically seeking judicial oversight of nomination meeting and extension of executive committee's authority until nominations and elections were completed. Sun Wei Ass'n v Wong, 222 A.D.2d 203, 634 N.Y.S.2d 475, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12624 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

In an action challenging, inter alia, the election of a religious corporation's board of directors and board of trustees, the court converted the action under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 103(c) to a special proceeding under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 618 as the allegations that synagogue members who failed to pay their dues were allowed to vote in contravention of the corporation's bylaws did not involve ecclesiastical matters and the special proceeding was the exclusive remedy for challenging the validity of the election of a director or trustee. Esformes v Brinn, 52 A.D.3d 459, 860 N.Y.S.2d 547, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5022 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

In passing upon election of officers of not-for-profit corporation, court sits as court of equity, and should not interfere in internal affairs of such corporation unless clear showing is made to warrant such action. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Court in passing upon election of officers of not-for-profit corporation has broad equitable powers and may direct new election where election under review is so clouded with doubt and tainted with questionable circumstances that standards of fair dealing require new, clear and adequate expression. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Where original constitution of not-for-profit corporation provided that all officers should be elected for term of one year and that no officer should succeed himself for more than two successive years for same office, and term of office was increased to two years but it was neglected to amend time provided for succession, period of one year would be construed to mean "one term" in order to give meaning to constitutional provision on succession. In re Election of Officers & Directors of F.I.G.H.T., Inc., 79 Misc. 2d 655, 360 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Petitioner's election to board of directors of her cooperative was not invalid on ground that she was delinquent on her carrying charges for August and September 1988 and thus ineligible under cooperative's by-laws to have her name placed in nomination on September 13, 1988 since (1) by allowing petitioner to make late payments of 3 to 4 weeks each month over past year without notifying her that future rent had to be paid on first of month, cooperative waived its right to enforce provision of by-laws that tenant nominated to run for directorship not be delinquent in payment of carrying charges at time of nomination, and (2) uncontroverted evidence established that petitioner's August carrying charge check was, through no fault of petitioner, incorrectly refused payment by her bank. Smith v Ellerbe, 141 Misc. 2d 699, 534 N.Y.S.2d 100, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 685 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

When competing members of a religious community sought the validation of their election of the community's board of directors and the invalidation of rival members' election, such a decision could not be made by reference to neutral principles of law, and the tangential issues that would have to be decided required the impermissible application of ecclesiastical doctrine or law, so the competing petitions were dismissed. Congregation Yetev Lev D'Satmar v Kahan, 799 N.Y.S.2d 159, 5 Misc. 3d 1023(A), 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2004), aff'd, in part, 31 A.D.3d 541, 820 N.Y.S.2d 62, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9177 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Petitioners, who challenged an election, were not entitled to relief under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 618. They had not supported their allegation that corporate funds had been improperly used in connection with the election, and there were no allegations that the expenditure influenced the result; they were not entitled to appoint representatives from their slate of candidates as election inspectors; they had failed to rebut respondents' showing that certain membership applications were never received; and respondents had shown that their treatment of other applications was in accordance with standard operating procedures and the corporation's bylaws, whereas petitioners had provided merely conclusory assertions. Cuva v United States Tennis Assn. E., Inc., 831 N.Y.S.2d 347, 13 Misc. 3d 1221(A), 236 N.Y.L.J. 62, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3712 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

6. Under former General Corporation Law § 25

The provisions of this section are not limited to stock corporations. In re Empire State Supreme Lodge D. of H., 118 A.D. 616, 103 N.Y.S. 1124, 1907 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 728 (N.Y. App. Div. 1907).

A federal savings and loan association is subject to this section although an agency of the federal government. In re Election of Directors of Baldwinsville Fed. S&L Ass'n, 268 A.D. 414, 51 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3188 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), modified, In re Election of Directors of Baldwinsville Federal Sa v & Loan Ass'n, 268 A.D. 1024 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1944).

7. —Purpose of section

The purpose of this section is to provide a summary review of a contested election, free from the procedural complications of a plenary proceeding. In re William Faehndrich, Inc., 2 N.Y.2d 468, 161 N.Y.S.2d 99, 141 N.E.2d 597, 1957 N.Y. LEXIS 1163 (N.Y. 1957).

This section was enacted to give the court power to test in a summary manner the title of corporate officers without resorting to the cumbersome action of quo warranto. In re Lake Placid Co., 274 A.D. 205, 81 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3040 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

8. — —Exclusiveness of remedy

If an election of directors by board of directors is illegal, petitioner's only remedy is to proceed under this section to have the election set aside and a new election ordered, and not by motion to reinstate him as director on the ground that he was illegally removed, since by force of the annual election, if that election is legal, he is not entitled to be reinstated as director. In re Moscowitz, 206 A.D. 289, 200 N.Y.S. 630, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7197 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

In an action by a corporation to restrain defendants who claimed to be directors from interfering with directors previously elected, remedy must be sought under Civil Practice Act, § 1208 or under this section. Merchants' Loan & Inv. Corp. v Abramson, 214 A.D. 252, 212 N.Y.S. 193, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10492 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925), aff'd, 242 N.Y. 587, 152 N.E. 438, 242 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 587, 1926 N.Y. LEXIS 1126 (N.Y. 1926).

The remedy afforded by this section is not exclusive and does not preclude an application for injunction against use of proxies allegedly obtained by defendants through fraud in connection with an election of directors. Segal v Bresnick, 30 Misc. 2d 569, 222 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1548 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1952).

This section has been referred to as a somewhat quicker method of determining right to corporate office than an action at law in the nature of quo warranto, but either remedy is available for such a purpose. Application of Porea, 29 Misc. 2d 48, 215 N.Y.S.2d 881, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2798 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

The remedy provided by this section is not exclusive for determining validity of election as director. Tabulating Card Co. v Leidesdorf, 32 Misc. 2d 720, 223 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3325 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

9. — —As authorizing mandamus

This section does not authorize mandamus. People ex rel. Putzel v Simonson, 16 N.Y.S. 118, 61 Hun 338, 1891 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 348 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 18 N.Y.S. 934, 63 Hun 630 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1891).

10. — —Stay of subsequent election

Tenant-owners of a cooperative apartment building brought a proceeding to set aside a 1956 election of its directors upon the ground of fraud allegedly perpetrated by the management, which was under the control of a former owner under a 10-year contract. During the course of the litigation, the time for the 1957 election approached, and the tenant-owners obtained a stay thereof. It was conceded that a new election would render the issues at bar moot and academic. However, similar issues might easily arise concerning the new election. In view of the nature of this corporation and the relationship of the parties, the court was justified in granting such a stay until a determination of partially tried issues could be had, although it should not have enjoined the solicitation of proxies for the prospective election. Ohrbach v Kirkeby, 3 A.D.2d 269, 161 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6253 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1957).

11. —Proceeding to determine validity of election; parties

In a proceeding under this section brought to set aside an election of directors, the corporation itself is a necessary party defendant. In re P. F. Keogh, Inc., 192 A.D. 624, 183 N.Y.S. 408, 1920 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7525 (N.Y. App. Div. 1920).

Under this section the corporation itself may complain of an illegal election of directors at directors' meeting. In re Election of Directors of Hammond Light & Power Co., 228 N.Y.S. 70, 131 Misc. 747, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 781 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 224 A.D. 684, 229 N.Y.S. 865, 1928 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10370 (N.Y. App. Div. 1928).

Petitioner, in order to set aside election which has been held in accordance with proper authority and upon due notice, must show only that he has been aggrieved by it, but where alleged election was illegal in that it was unauthorized or insufficient notice of it was given, no further showing is required. In re Green Bus Lines, Inc., 2 N.Y.S.2d 556, 166 Misc. 800, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1192 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

Only an aggrieved party may institute a proceeding under this section to determine validity of a concluded corporate election; such a proceeding may not be brought by the corporation. Veverka v Suffolk County Patrolemen's Benevolent Asso., 236 N.Y.S.2d 917 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

12. — —Who is party "aggrieved" by election

One who was a candidate for election and thus was directly affected by the outcome of an election was an aggrieved member within the meaning of this section. In re Workmen's Ben. Fund, 265 A.D. 176, 38 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5711 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942), app. denied, 265 A.D. 991, 39 N.Y.S.2d 990, 1943 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 1943).

Voting in a previous election and in the election complained of, knowing that no provision had been made for classification of directors as required by the charter, did not constitute such ratification of an illegal act that the petitioner was not an aggrieved person, particularly where he objected at the election and was assured that the directors would be classified after the election. In re Election of Directors of Baldwinsville Fed. S&L Ass'n, 268 A.D. 414, 51 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3188 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), modified, In re Election of Directors of Baldwinsville Federal Sa v & Loan Ass'n, 268 A.D. 1024 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1944).

Unless a petitioner has been injured by the proceedings he is not a party "aggrieved" by the election; and in order to have it set aside he must show that fact. Such a showing must amount to either an inequitable result or proof that the irregularity complained of would, if corrected, produce a different result. In re Workmen's Ben. Fund, 36 N.Y.S.2d 662 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 265 A.D. 176, 38 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5711 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

13. — —Petition

There are no grounds for ordering a new corporate election under this section where there was no allegation of fraud as to the original election, which was conducted by an impartial committee composed of supporters of both candidates and whose decision regarding a certain disputed proxy upon which the election turned could not be said to be arbitrary. Burke v Wiswall, 85 N.Y.S.2d 187, 193 Misc. 14, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3736 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

Petition for order annuling action of corporation whereby petitioner was removed as director was sufficient as a matter of pleading and the motion to dismiss was denied. Teperman v Atcos Baths, Inc., 4 Misc. 2d 738, 158 N.Y.S.2d 391, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1333 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

14. — —Limitations and laches

The four-month limitation period is inapplicable to a proceeding under this section and no statute or principle of equity precludes maintenance of proceeding where respondents were not injured by delay in commencement. Wyatt v Armstrong, 59 N.Y.S.2d 502, 186 Misc. 216, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2597 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

15. — —Nature and conduct of proceeding

A proceeding under this section is summary in nature and does not lend itself to the delays entailed by taking of depositions. In re Scharf, 28 Misc. 2d 869, 216 N.Y.S.2d 775, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2813 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 15 A.D.2d 563, 223 N.Y.S.2d 307, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6881 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1961).

This statute does not prescribe that the court hearing the application shall take oral proof; it is clearly within the power of the parties to agree on proof in written form; no statutory provision is made for trying the issue of fact by a jury. Petition of Serenbetz, 46 N.Y.S.2d 475, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2788 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 267 A.D. 836, 46 N.Y.S.2d 127, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5031 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

16. —Power of court; confirm or order new election

The court has no power to supervise an election which it has ordered. In re Flushing Hospital & Dispensary, 289 N.Y. 654, 44 N.E.2d 626, 289 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 654, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1225 (N.Y. 1942).

In a proceeding under this section, the court is not authorized to vacate a corporate election without ordering a new one. In re

William Faehndrich, Inc., 2 N.Y.2d 468, 161 N.Y.S.2d 99, 141 N.E.2d 597, 1957 N.Y. LEXIS 1163 (N.Y. 1957).

In a proceeding under this section, the court sits as a court of equity which may order a new election "as justice may require." Gearing v Kelly, 11 N.Y.2d 201, 227 N.Y.S.2d 897, 182 N.E.2d 391, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1258 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 11 N.Y.2d 1016, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 2275 (N.Y. 1962).

The supreme court has no authority, to act in advance of an annual election of a religious corporation to determine qualifications of voters or to supervise proceedings at an election to be thereafter held, but the limit of the court's authority is to pass upon the validity of an election that has been held and to confirm it or to order a new election. In re Trustees of Washington Ave. Baptist Church, 215 A.D. 529, 214 N.Y.S. 259, 1926 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11002 (N.Y. App. Div. 1926).

This section gives the court discretionary power to confirm an election or to order a new one, as justice may require. Application of Kaminsky, 251 A.D. 132, 295 N.Y.S. 989, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6878 (N.Y. App. Div.), reh'g denied, 251 A.D. 795, 298 N.Y.S. 171, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7571 (N.Y. App. Div. 1937), aff'd, 277 N.Y. 524, 13 N.E.2d 456, 277 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 524, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1019 (N.Y. 1938).

The power of a court under this section is to confirm an election or order a new election, as justice may require, and it has no authority to go beyond this by setting aside an election already held and ordering a new election where there is a deadlock in control and no possibility of a change in result. Jacobs v Ostow & Jacobs, Inc., 12 A.D.2d 613, 209 N.Y.S.2d 37, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6379 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1960).

The court's powers under this section are limited to confirming an election or ordering a new election as justice may require. Burke v Wiswall, 85 N.Y.S.2d 187, 193 Misc. 14, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3736 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

The court refused to undertake to substitute itself for the tellers of an election of directors where the claims of the adversary parties were in sharp conflict. Juster v Morrison, 15 Misc. 2d 998, 182 N.Y.S.2d 940, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1660 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

17. — —Determination of other issues

A summary proceeding to determine which of two slates of directors were validly elected was inappropriate to the determination of questions properly triable by plenary action such as the actual or equitable ownership of stock. In re Bruder's Estate, 302 N.Y. 52, 96 N.E.2d 84, 302 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 52, 1950 N.Y. LEXIS 775 (N.Y. 1950).

While this section confers ample authority upon court to determine any question relating to election of trustees, including such as are merely incidental thereto, if necessarily involved in controversy, proceeding is summary in its nature, and does not permit decision of equitable claims, or extraneous matters not necessarily involved in determination of primary question itself. Application of Kaminsky, 251 A.D. 132, 295 N.Y.S. 989, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6878 (N.Y. App. Div.), reh'g denied, 251 A.D. 795, 298 N.Y.S. 171, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7571 (N.Y. App. Div. 1937), aff'd, 277 N.Y. 524, 13 N.E.2d 456, 277 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 524, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1019 (N.Y. 1938).

Under this section, the court was limited to confirming an election of directors or ordering a new one and had no authority to pass on other issues, such as questions of stock ownership. Unbekant v Bohl Tours Travel Agency, Inc., 21 A.D.2d 317, 250 N.Y.S.2d 397, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3585 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 14 N.Y.2d 959, 253 N.Y.S.2d 996, 202 N.E.2d 377, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 955 (N.Y. 1964).

Proceeding to annul action of stockholders in removing director was not the forum for approving an express agreement that director was to be retained as long as he or his designee was a stockholder. Teperman v Atcos Baths, Inc., 6 Misc. 2d 162, 163 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3078 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957), aff'd, 7 A.D.2d 854, 182 N.Y.S.2d 765, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10347 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1959).

18. —Decision on election; confirming

Where the constitution of a fraternal benefit association consisting of subordinate councils, grand councils, and supreme council, provides that each grand council is entitled to send two representatives to meetings of the supreme council, and that subordinate councils shall have no representation in the supreme council, members of subordinate council are precluded from questioning the validity of election of officers at a meeting of the supreme council, in proceeding under this section where they acquiesced in the provisions of the constitution excluding them by failing to send representatives to the meeting and by not making a demand for representation. In re Triennial Election of Catholic R. & B. Ass'n, 142 A.D. 307, 127 N.Y.S. 143, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 303 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

In proceeding under § 25 to confirm claimed election of petitioner and others as duly elected officers and directors of membership corporation and to set aside claimed wrongful election of respondents as such officers and directors, where election meeting conducted by respondents was regularly called and members duly warned thereof, change of place of meeting from hotel suite announced in notice of meeting to another suite in same hotel, by notice posted at original suite, did not prejudice any of petitioner's group, all of whom attended meeting, or mislead any other member or deprive her of a vote. Application of Havender, 44 N.Y.S.2d 213, 181 Misc. 989, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2935 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

Election of a particular person as a director of a membership corporation would not be set aside, because of informality in the manner in which the election was held, upon petition of one who, up to that meeting, had personally dominated the affairs of the corporation, making the corporation a vehicle for his own personal use or abuse. Hungarian Freedom Fighters Federation, Inc. v Samson, 30 Misc. 2d 354, 219 N.Y.S.2d 348, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2571 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Since this section commands that the court confirm the election or order a new election, "as justice may require," an election will not be set aside merely because of informality in convening the meeting where all of those in active interest were present and took part. Hungarian Freedom Fighters Federation, Inc. v Samson, 30 Misc. 2d 354, 219 N.Y.S.2d 348, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2571 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Elections are not vitiated for mere irregularity; there must be fraud involved or such a degree of irregularity as to effect the result in a material respect. In re Workmen's Ben. Fund, 36 N.Y.S.2d 662 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 265 A.D. 176, 38 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5711 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

19. — —Setting aside

Where amendments adopted at the annual meeting were void, an election which followed thereunder must be set aside. In re Flushing Hospital & Dispensary, 288 N.Y. 125, 41 N.E.2d 917, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 125, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1064 (N.Y. 1942).

An election of directors of a membership corporation will be set aside and a new election ordered, where it appears that a small portion of the membership in attendance at an annual meeting separated from the main body and held an election of directors in strict accordance with their legal rights, but said election was contrary to long-continued, though illegal, practice of electing directors. In re Bogart, 215 A.D. 45, 213 N.Y.S. 137, 1925 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5363 (N.Y. App. Div. 1925).

Where a certificate of incorporation provided for unanimous vote or consent of all stockholders for transaction of corporate business, election of a board of directors by a plurality vote, pursuant to a by-law of the corporation was invalid, since the provision in the certificate took priority over the by-law. In re Election of Directors of Radiant Knitting Mills, Inc., 20 Misc. 2d 915, 194 N.Y.S.2d 232, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2415 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

20. —Miscellaneous

Even though directors and officers were illegally elected, they were nonetheless de facto directors and officers who could call a meeting required by the by-laws. Petition of Weinstein, 119 N.Y.S.2d 457, 203 Misc. 975, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1549 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

An agreement between two or more members, if in writing and signed by the parties thereto, may provide that in exercising their voting rights as members they shall vote as therein provided, or as they may agree, or as determined in accordance with a procedure agreed upon by them.

Revision Notes: Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: This section, dealing with agreements by members as to voting, is an adaptation of paragraph (a) of section 620 of the Bus Corp L and is new for not-for-profit corporations in this state. The section authorizes a very liberal vote-pooling arrangement among members which, when coupled with the irrevocable proxy device (see, section 619(f)(5)), effectively eliminates the need for the voting trust in not-for-profit corporations, and, accordingly, the latter vote-pooling device is not authorized in the new law.

Paragraph (b) of section 620 of the Bus Corp L has not been included in the new law because it was designed specially for the close-type of business corporation and also because unlimited sterilization of the management powers of the board of directors in not-for-profit corporations is authorized by section 701 of the new law, which provides that a corporation shall be managed by its board of directors "except as otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation."

§ 620. Preemptive rights

There shall be no preemptive rights in relation to membership certificates or cards, capital certificates, subvention certificates, or bonds. HISTORY:

Add, L 1969, ch 1066, § 1; amd, L 1971, ch 1058 § 19, eff Sept 1, 1971.

Revision Notes: Source: None.

Changes: New.

Comment: This section denies members of not-for-profit corporations any preemptive rights in unissued capital certificates or in bonds convertible into such certificates, except to the extent that such rights are granted by the certificate of incorporation. Existing statutory law in this state similarly makes no provision for preemptive rights in not-for-profit corporations. The comprehensive and detailed provisions for preemptive rights in section 622 of the Bus Corp L were rejected as generally inappropriate for the not-for-profit corporation, in which "control" factors are not likely to play the crucial role they do in the business corporation for profit. Whenever maintenance of a "ratio of control" may become important in a particular not-for-profit corporation, suitable preemptive rights can be provided in the certificate of incorporation.

§ 621. Books and records; right of inspection; prima facie evidence

(a) Except as otherwise provided herein, every corporation shall keep, at the office of the corporation, correct and complete books and records of account and minutes of the proceedings of its members, board and executive committee, if any, and shall keep at such office or at the office of its transfer agent or registrar in this state, a list or record containing the names and addresses of all members, the class or classes of membership or capital certificates and the number of capital certificates held by each and the dates when they respectively became the holders of record thereof. A corporation may keep its books and records of account in an office of the corporation without the state, as specified in its certificate of incorporation. Any of the foregoing books, minutes and records may be in written form or in any other form capable of being converted into written form within a reasonable time.

(b) Any person who shall have been a member of record of a corporation for at least six months immediately preceding his demand, or any person holding, or thereunto authorized in writing by the holders of, at least five percent of any class of the outstanding capital certificates, upon at least five days written demand shall have the right to examine in person or by agent or attorney, during usual business hours, its minutes of the proceedings of its members and list or record of members and to make extracts therefrom.

(c) An inspection authorized by paragraph (b) may be denied to such member or other person upon his refusal to furnish to the corporation, its transfer agent or registrar an affidavit that such inspection is not desired and will not be used for a purpose which is in the interest of a business or object other than the business of the corporation and that he has not within five years given, sold or offered for sale any list or record of members of any domestic or foreign corporation or aided or abetted, or attempted or offered to aid or abet, any person in procuring any such list or record of members for any such purpose.

(d) Upon refusal by the corporation or by an officer or agent of the corporation to permit an inspection of the minutes of the proceedings of its members or of the list or record of members, as herein provided, the person making the demand for inspection may apply to the supreme court in the judicial district where the office of the corporation is located, upon such notice as the court may direct, for an order directing the corporation, its officer or agent to show cause why an order should not be granted permitting such inspection by the applicant. Upon the return day of the order to show cause, the court shall hear the parties summarily, by affidavit or otherwise, and if it appears that the applicant is qualified and entitled to such inspection, the court shall grant an order compelling such inspection and awarding such further relief as to the court may seem just and proper.

(e) Upon the written request of any person who shall have been a member of record for at least six months immediately preceding his request, or of any person holding, or thereunto authorized in writing by the holders of, at least five percent of any class of the outstanding capital certificates, the corporation shall provide to such member an annual balance sheet and profit and loss statement or a financial statement performing a similar function for the preceding fiscal year, and, if any interim balance sheet or profit and loss or similar financial statement has been distributed to its members or otherwise made available to the public, the most recent such interim balance sheet or profit and loss or similar financial statement. The corporation shall be allowed a reasonable time to prepare such annual balance sheet and profit and loss or similar financial statement.

(e-1) In addition to those documents described in paragraph (e) of this section, members of a homeowners association incorporated pursuant to the provisions of this chapter shall also be entitled to review, upon request to the homeowners association's governing board, invoices, ledgers, bank accounts, reconciliations, contracts, and any documents related to the expenditure of homeowners association dues.

(f) Nothing herein contained shall impair the power of courts to compel the production for examination of the books and records of a corporation.

(g) The books and records specified in paragraph (a) shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated in favor of the plaintiff in any action or special proceeding against such corporation or any of its officers, directors or members.

(h) Nothing in this chapter shall require an employee organization certified or recognized for any collective negotiating unit of an employer pursuant to article fourteen of the civil service law to disclose the home address of any member or former member of such organization.

1. Generally

When asserting a common-law right of access to corporate books and records the shareholder must plead and prove that inspection is desired for a proper purpose. Crane Co. v Anaconda Co., 39 N.Y.2d 14, 382 N.Y.S.2d 707, 346 N.E.2d 507, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2371 (N.Y. 1976).

The manner of communication selected by stockholder desiring to discuss aspects of tender offer with fellow stockholders should be within the judgment of the shareholder. Crane Co. v Anaconda Co., 39 N.Y.2d 14, 382 N.Y.S.2d 707, 346 N.E.2d 507, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2371 (N.Y. 1976).

Qualified stockholder may inspect corporation's stock register to ascertain the identity of fellow stockholders for the avowed purpose of informing them directly of its exchange offer and soliciting tenders of stock. Crane Co. v Anaconda Co., 39 N.Y.2d 14, 382 N.Y.S.2d 707, 346 N.E.2d 507, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2371 (N.Y. 1976).

Petitioner was not entitled under common-law principles to compel not-for-profit corporation to make available to petitioner certain financial records and documents he sought where petition alleged nothing more than disagreement with corporation's officers as to expenditure of some of corporation's funds. Mathews v Onondaga County Deputy Sheriff's Benevolent Ass'n, 225 A.D.2d 1048, 639 N.Y.S.2d 613, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2876 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Right of "inactive" members of not-for-profit corporation to inspect its books and records, in connection with their challenge to its decision to amend its bylaws, was not as broad as disclosure permitted under CLS CPLR § 3101; better statute to compare to CLS N-PCL § 621 was CLS Bus Corp § 624 (describing for-profit corporation's obligation to shareholders who demand inspection of corporate books, records and minutes). Wells v League of Am. Theatres & Producers, Inc., 183 Misc. 2d 915, 706 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 101 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

2. Construction

Phrase "by one or more of the members," in statute providing that actions against corporate directors and officers for mismanagement, waste of corporate assets and unlawful conduct may be brought by one or more of its members, does not relate back to provisions of general statutory provision requiring that derivative action be instituted by at least five percent of members of corporation, but instead, authorizes bringing of such actions against corporate directors and officers by one or more of members; such construction gives effect to entire statute and gives recognition to apparent legislative intent to differentiate actions against officers and directors for misconduct or misfeasance in office from other derivative actions. Hoffert v Dank, 86 Misc. 2d 384, 382 N.Y.S.2d 421, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2452 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

3. Beneficial interest

Provision of Not-For-Profit Corporation Law reserving to court right to authorize inspection of corporate documents authorizes court to grant right to one entitled thereto on common-law principles, to a pledgee of stock, to a holder of a voting trust certificate, to an executor of a deceased stockholder, and to directors of corporation, but does not authorize court to grant such right to persons who have no beneficial interest in corporation and who are not officers or directors thereof. Getman v Mohawk Valley Nursing Home, Inc., 44 A.D.2d 392, 355 N.Y.S.2d 508, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4990 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Petitioner, who was a resident and taxpayer of town and who made annual charitable contributions to nursing home organized pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, but who was not a manager thereof under any of four tests specified by Law and who was not an officer or director and had no beneficial interest in corporation, had no right to inspect records of corporation. Getman v Mohawk Valley Nursing Home, Inc., 44 A.D.2d 392, 355 N.Y.S.2d 508, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4990 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Petitioners were not precluded from inspecting books and records of respondent not-for-profit corporation involved in presentation of Antoinette Perry ("Tony") Awards, on ground that their application was not made in good faith and for proper purpose; fact that petitioners were "inactive" members of respondent corporation, and had some personal interest in challenging its decision to amend its bylaws so as to prevent inactive members from participating in Tony awards process, did not preclude there being legitimate corporate interest involved in their claims. Wells v League of Am. Theatres & Producers, Inc., 183 Misc. 2d 915, 706 N.Y.S.2d 599, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 101 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

4. Good faith

In an Article 78 proceeding to inspect and copy certain minutes, reports and membership lists of a not-for-profit cemetery corporation from which petitioner had purchased a burial plot, a hearing to determine the good faith of petitioner in seeking the inspection was required, where the president of the corporation, in an affidavit in opposition to petitioner's application, averred that petitioner was an attorney employed by a law firm representing a former employee of the corporation in various actions against the corporation, that these actions had been based on charges of waste and conversion of corporate assets by the corporation's directors and that these charges had been investigated by the attorney general's office, the cemetery board and the county grand jury and in each instance no impropriety or wrongdoing was found and that the request to inspect was made in bad faith and for the improper purpose of aiding the former employee's continuing harassment of the corporation. De Paula v Memory Gardens, Inc., 90 A.D.2d 886, 456 N.Y.S.2d 522, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19155 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In proceeding under CLS N-PCL § 621(d) against not-for-profit corporation to inspect and copy various of its records, corporation properly raised issue as to bad faith of petitioners, who were residential members of corporation involved in long and bitter dispute with corporation regarding rent control status of residence units, and hearing was necessary to determine good faith of petitioners in their request; although ill will and desire to change corporation's management and policies did not render request improper, request would be improper if driving motive was personal gain. Mayer v National Arts Club, 192 A.D.2d 863, 596 N.Y.S.2d 537, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3747 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Although petitioner in action seeking inspection of corporation's membership lists filed the affidavit required by Not-For-Profit Corp L § 621, the court could, where the question was raised, go beyond the face of the affidavit to determine whether in fact the inspection was sought in good faith. Application of Santuccio, 70 Misc. 2d 587, 334 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1803 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

Because of the special relationship between the N.R.A. and The American Rifleman the fiduciary obligations of the association's directors and officers, as imposed by N.P.C.L. § 717, applied with equal vigor to the operation of The American Rifleman to the effect that the Board could not refuse to publish advertisements of candidates for N.R.A. directorships in order that they might retain control of the association for themselves; refusal of the Board to furnish a membership list to candidates and to publish a request for monetary support for a candidate raised the issue of directors' bad faith. Fitzgerald v National Rifle Asso., 383 F. Supp. 162, 1974 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6646 (D.N.J. 1974).

5. Elections

A candidate for vice-president of a union was entitled, under Not-For-Profit Corp Law § 621, to inspect and copy the membership list of the union, notwithstanding the federal preemption argument, since the Labor Management Reporting Disclosure Act requires yielding to more favorable remedies under State law. Frankland v Independent Ass'n of Publishers' Employees, Inc., 110 Misc. 2d 732, 442 N.Y.S.2d 951, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3150 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

Request to compel the inspection of election ballots for the purpose of conducting a recount fell within the right of inspection of corporate records afforded under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 621. Cuva v United States Tennis Assn. E., Inc., 831 N.Y.S.2d 347, 13 Misc. 3d 1221(A), 236 N.Y.L.J. 62, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3712 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

6. Pleadings

It was overly broad for petitioner to request "the corporate books, records, papers and contracts, including minute books, any and all cancelled checks, bills, bank statements, vouchers, correspondence, and any other documents or data which deal in any way with any entry on the books and records of said corporation." Mathews v Onondaga County Deputy Sheriff's Benevolent Ass'n, 225 A.D.2d 1048, 639 N.Y.S.2d 613, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2876 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Dismissal of a member's cause of action seeking to compel production of a church's books and records was error because the issue of whether the member, who sought to enforce a statutory right, was entitled to the production, could have been determined by resort to neutral principles of law; although the action was not brought as a special proceeding pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 621, it was appropriate to convert the action. Tae Hwa Yoon v New York Hahn Wolee Church, Inc., 56 A.D.3d 752, 870 N.Y.S.2d 42, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9041 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Although plaintiff did not cross move for summary judgment, in action seeking to enjoin defendants from paying any salary or other sums to executive director of corporation and to direct complete disclosure of names and addresses of all members and books of account of corporation, the trial court would grant plaintiff's request for complete disclosure where appropriate demand for production was made, there was sufficient showing that inspection was not desired and would not be used for purpose which was in interest of business or object other than business of corporation, and there was no proof that plaintiff had otherwise failed to comply with provisions of Not-for-Profit Corporation Law. Hoffert v Dank, 86 Misc. 2d 384, 382 N.Y.S.2d 421, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2452 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

7. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 26

The power of visitation vested in the supreme court by former § 16 from which this section is derived and other statutes where the word "visitation" is used confers no power to do anything other than as specifically stated in former § 16. In re Norton, 161 N.Y.S. 710, 97 Misc. 289, 1916 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 974 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1916).

This section may not be invoked for the investigation of the affairs of a religious corporation. Taylor v Day Star Baptist Church, Inc., 92 N.Y.S.2d 206, 196 Misc. 449, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2795 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

Where there has been a demand for relief in the form of an inventory and account with a detailed statement of transactions by a membership corporation, under this section, and the pleadings allege that one of the directors caused moneys to be paid to himself without the concurring vote of two-thirds of the Board of Directors as required by § 47 of the Membership Corporations Law, the court before granting such relief will direct a trial of the issues raised. Application of Atwater, 85 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3853 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), aff'd, 277 A.D. 766, 97 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3209 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

8. —Order appointing referee to investigate for court

An order appointing a referee to conduct the investigation in a proceeding instituted under former § 16 from which the section is derived to make visitation and inquiry into the affairs of a membership corporation should contain only the statutory provisions defining the scope and method of the referee's investigation and nothing in the way of adjudication upon the merits. People v Horowitz, 216 N.Y. 637, 110 N.E. 1046, 216 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 637, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 836 (N.Y. 1915).

9. — —Right to appeal order

An order appointing a referee to conduct the investigation in a proceeding instituted under former § 16 from which this section is derived to make visitation and inquiry into the affairs of a membership corporation, is not appealable to the appellate division. People v Horowitz, 216 N.Y. 637, 110 N.E. 1046, 216 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 637, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 836 (N.Y. 1915).

10. —Order requiring inventory and accounting

Under former § 16 from which this section is derived the supreme court had power to make an order requiring an inventory and account of the property, effects and liabilities of a cemetery corporation, with a detailed statement of its transactions during the twelve months next preceding the granting of said order. In re Norton, 161 N.Y.S. 710, 97 Misc. 289, 1916 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 974 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1916).

Directors of a membership corporation organized chiefly for charitable purposes were directed to file inventory, accounting and statement of transactions during 12 months next preceding the granting of the order, where it appeared that the members of the corporation, under the guise of voting compensation to themselves for past services, sought to divide the assets among themselves. Distribution of the assets of a membership corporation whose purposes were charitable among the membership, even on dissolution, would be improper. It was also immaterial that the petitioner, a member of the corporation, might be estopped to object to the resolution for payment of compensation since the supreme court may act on its own motion. In re Green, 10 Misc. 2d 557, 177 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2680 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

11. — —Provision restraining sale of property

In an order granted under former § 16 from which this section is derived, providing for visitation by the supreme court of a cemetery corporation and directing the filing of an inventory and account, a provision in the nature of an injunction restraining the sale of the property of such corporation is unauthorized. In re Greene, 153 A.D. 8, 138 N.Y.S. 95, 1912 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11097, 1912 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9206 (N.Y. App. Div. 1912).

12. —Investigation or attack by others; city

Where city is entitled to net revenues of membership corporation it has power to investigate the finances thereof under General City Law § 20, subds 19 and 21, although books and vouchers of such corporation are subject to visitation and inspection of justice of the Supreme Court or of any person appointed by such court under above statute. New York World's Fair 1964-1965 Corp. v Beame, 45 Misc. 2d 683, 257 N.Y.S.2d 543, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2241 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 22 A.D.2d 611, 257 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4535 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

13. — —Nonmembers

No procedure is afforded in law for an attack upon a budget regularly adopted by the directors of a membership corporation by one who is not a member of the corporation and has not taken advantage of opportunities to become a member. Sea Gate Assoc., v Fleischer, 211 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3988 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Persons who bought property in a private community with knowledge that its facilities, such as police protection, street repair, sewage disposal, and the like, were, and for many years had been, handled through a membership corporation open to all property owners on an annual assessment basis, having refused to pay such assessments and not having become members of the corporation, had no standing, in an action to collect service assessments, to attack the assessments as excessive or because they were denied use of certain facilities by reason of nonpayment. Sea Gate Assoc., v Fleischer, 211 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3988 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

14. —Bylaw precluding access to membership list

A bylaw of a membership corporation which precludes all access to the corporate record of lists of its members on the say-so of its governing body is so far inconsistent with the letter and spirit of section 46 of the Membership Corporations Law as to be wholly void and without effect. Davids v Sillcox, 297 N.Y. 355, 79 N.E.2d 440, 297 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 355, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 845 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 298 N.Y. 618, 81 N.E.2d 353, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 618, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 1185 (N.Y. 1948).

§ 622. Infant members

(a) If the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws provide that a member shall be of full age:

(1) A corporation may treat an infant who holds a membership certificate or card or capital certificate or a bond of such corporation as having capacity to receive and to empower others to receive payments or distributions, to vote or express consent or dissent, in person or by proxy, and to make elections and exercise rights relating to such certificates or bonds, unless, in the case of membership certificates or cards or capital certificates, the corporate officer responsible for maintaining the list or record of members or the transfer agent of the corporation or, in the case of bonds, the treasurer or paying officer or agent has received written notice that such holder is an infant.

(2) An infant holder of a membership certificate or card or capital certificate or a bond of a corporation who has received or empowered others to receive payments or distributions, voted or expressed consent or dissent, or made an election or exercised a right relating thereto, shall have no right thereafter to disaffirm or avoid, as against the corporation, any such act on his part, unless prior to such receipt, vote, consent, dissent, election or exercise, as to membership certificates or cards or capital certificates, the corporate officer responsible for maintaining the list or record of members or its transfer agent or, in the case of bonds, the treasurer or paying officer or agent had received written notice that such holder was an infant.

Comment: This section, dealing with the subject of infant members and which authorizes the corporation to treat such members as having power to receive and to empower others to receive corporate payments and distributions, to vote and exercise other rights and which disables the infant member from disaffirming and avoiding as against the corporation any such act on his part, unless the corporation is on written notice that the member is an infant, makes no essential change in section 12-a of the Gen Corp L which presently regulates not-for-profit corporations in this area. The elimination of any reference to "dividends" in the section coordinates this section with section 508 which precludes the division or distribution of incidental profits made by the corporation "in any manner whatsoever among the members, directors, or officers of the corporation".

§ 623. Members' derivative action brought in the right of the corporation to procure a judgment in its favor

(a) An action may be brought in the right of a domestic or foreign corporation to procure a judgment in its favor by five percent or more of any class of members or by such percentage of the holders of capital certificates or of the owners of a beneficial interest in the capital certificates of such corporation.

(b) In any such action, it shall be made to appear that each plaintiff is such a member, holder or owner at the time of bringing the action.

(c) In any such action, the complaint shall set forth with particularity the efforts of the plaintiff or plaintiffs to secure the initiation of such action by the board of the reason for not making such effort.

(d) Such action shall not be discontinued, compromised or settled without the approval of the court having jurisdiction of the action. If the court shall determine that the interests of the members or of any class or classes thereof will be substantially affected by such discontinuance, compromise or settlement, the court, in its discretion, may direct that notice, by publication or otherwise, shall be given to the members or class or classes thereof whose interests it determines will be so affected; if notice is so directed to be given, the court may determine which one or more of the parties to the action shall bear the expense of giving the same, in such amount as the court shall determine and find to be reasonable in the circumstances, and the amount of such expense shall be awarded as special costs of the action and recoverable in the same manner as statutory taxable costs.

(e) If the action on behalf of the corporation was successful, in whole or in part, or if anything was received by the plaintiff or plaintiffs or a claimant or claimants as the result of a judgment, compromise or settlement of an action or claim, the court may award the plaintiff or plaintiffs, claimant or claimants, reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, and shall direct him or them to account to the corporation for the remainder of the proceeds so received by him or them. This paragraph shall not apply to any judgment rendered for the benefit of injured members or non-record owners only and limited to a recovery of the loss or damage sustained by them.

Changes: New.

Comment: This section, dealing with the subject of derivative actions, is modeled after section 626 of the Bus Corp L and is new for not-for-profit corporations in this state. The following differences between this section and section 626 of the Bus Corp L should be carefully noted:

(a) No derivative action can be brought under this section unless the plaintiffs in such action consist of at least 5% of any class of members. This change was necessitated by the elimination from the new law of the "security for expenses" provision embodied in section 627 of the Bus Corp L.

(b) The "contemporaneous ownership" provision in paragraph (b) of section 626 of the Bus Corp L has been eliminated in the new law as inappropriate for not-for-profit corporations, since the likelihood is remote that an interest in such corporations would be purchased solely for the purpose of initiating a derivative suit.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

OPTIONS FOR MEMBERS IN THE MINORITY TO PUT AN END TO WRONGDOING

By Brendan J. Rich, Esq.

INSIGHT

Members in the minority of a not-for-profit corporation ("corporation") who want to stop those in control of the corporation from committing improper activities have various options available to them. A corporation must pursue the purposes for which it was formed as set forth in its certificate of incorporation, must follow those procedures established in its bylaws, and cannot distribute its funds for the private benefit of any director, officer or member. When those in control of a not-for-profit corporation cause it to deviate from any of these principles, those members in the minority may attempt to handle the situation internally, through the court system, or by putting the Attorney General on notice.

Call a special meeting of members to openly discuss the objectionable items.

A special meeting may be called by the members in the minority to bring the corporate malfeasance to the attention of all the members and to attempt to spur change. Members should review the corporation's organizational documents for the procedures pursuant to which such a meeting may be brought. If no such provision exists in the organizational documents or if the number of members needed to call such a meeting is an insurmountable impediment, such a meeting may be convened by ten percent (10%) of the members entitled to vote at such a meeting pursuant to N- PCL § 603(c). Such an action will force those in the majority to openly discuss the objectionable items. If the minority's concerns are not properly addressed after such a meeting, the members may resign from the corporation, bring a derivative action on behalf of the corporation, or even seek the dissolution of the corporation. The special meeting is important as it will memorialize the members' objections in the corporate record and may prove to be critical from a public relations standpoint and in any future litigation.

A derivative action may be commenced to recover funds on behalf of the corporation.

If minority members constitute five percent (5%) or more of the total membership, they can bring a derivative action in the name of the corporation pursuant to N-PCL §§ 623 and 720(b)(3). Such an action can take many forms, such as an action: (i) against an individual director or officer for fraud or breach of fiduciary duties; (ii) to set aside any action that was beyond the corporate "purposes"; or, (iii) to enjoin a proposed improper conveyance of corporate assets. In such an action the importance of the special meeting becomes apparent; pursuant to N-PCL § 623(c) the complaint must set forth, with particularity, the attempt to address the objectionable behavior presented in the complaint.

The practitioner should be aware that while a derivative action, if successful, can result in the recovery of funds for the corporation and the likely resignation or dismissal of the offending actors, it could also subject the corporation's affairs to public scrutiny, result in litigation expenses that may be unrecoverable, and could divert the corporation's funds and attention from its mission.

Minority members may seek dissolution and distribution of funds to an appropriate successor.

The members in the minority, specifically those making up ten percent (10%) of the total membership, can bring an action to dissolve the corporation pursuant to N-PCL § 1102(a)(2) and to distribute the corporation's funds to a similar entity. An action pursuant to N-PCL §1102(a)(2)(D) appears to be the best option available to a smaller number of members, as it deals with controlling members acting in a fraudulent manner and perpetuating the corporation solely for their personal benefit. In the face of the limited case law it appears to be a hard case to make, however, as it has been held that dissolution is a drastic measure and that even if excessive spending can be proven, in the absence of bad faith, dissolution is not appropriate. Application of John Luther & Sons Co., 52 A.D.2d 737, 381 N.Y.S.2d 934 (4th Dept, 1976). A larger obstacle for a petition based on N-PCL § 1102 is that it must be established that such dissolution would be beneficial to the membership as a whole, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(2). In a situation where the majority of the members agree with the inappropriate actions taken by those in the control of the corporation, meeting that threshold could present problems for the minority members. It is important to note that even if the action is successful and the corporation is dissolved and its funds released to another not-for-profit corporation with a similar purpose, the cost of litigation may be great and may deplete a large percentage of the corporation's funds.

Putting the Attorney General on notice of the improper activity.

An informal option available to the minority members would be to notify the Attorney General of the corporation's activities. Pursuant to N-PCL § 1101(a)(2), an action can be brought by the Attorney General to dissolve a corporation that has persistently acted fraudulently and contrary to public policy. In such an action, it must be demonstrated that the corporation exceeded its powers and that this abuse of power has threatened the public welfare. People v. North River Sugar Refining Co., 121 N.Y. 582 (1890). In addition, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(1), in such an action the public interest, rather than the benefit to the corporation's membership, is of supreme importance. There is a great deal of uncertainty involved with this course action, such as (i) the lack of control of the distribution of the corporation's funds following dissolution; and (ii) what the investigation will uncover, as all corporate actions, not just the objectionable ones complained of, are open to investigation. It is important for the practitioner to note that if the corporate actions come under scrutiny by the Attorney General, it is likely that an audit by the Department of Taxation and Finance will follow. Such an investigation could result in the corporation being stripped of its tax-exempt status and could jeopardize the deductibility of any donations made by the members in the minority if it is determined that the members knew that the improper activity was taking place.

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. Generally
2. Standing
3. Demand on board
4. Defenses
5. Procedure

1. Generally

Not-for-profit cemetery corporation did not owe fiduciary duty to plaintiff on basis that land share agreement between corporation and development corporation from which plaintiff obtained his land share certificates provided that proceeds from sale of cemetery lots would be placed into land purchase fund for distribution to land share certificate holders, and thus derivative action against defendants was properly dismissed where plaintiff's claim of standing was based on his fiduciary relationship with corporation; land purchase fund merely was account in which proceeds from sale of cemetery lots were placed until time when contractually-determined payments for sales were disbursed to land share certificate holders, and cemetery corporation merely acted as collector and disburser of land purchase funds. Harris v Lyke, 217 A.D.2d 982, 629 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8420 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4931 (N.Y. 1995).

2. Standing

An individual bringing a derivative action against directors or officers of a corporation for misconduct must meet requirement for standing by representing five percent or more of the membership of the corporation. Hoffert v Dank, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Phrase "one or more of the members thereof," within statute governing a member's derivative action brought in right of corporation to procure a judgment in its favor by one or more of the members thereof, does not eliminate requirement for standing in preceding statute that plaintiff represent five percent or more of the members. Hoffert v Dank, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

An individual bringing a derivative action on behalf of a corporation with a membership of 20 or less would meet the statutory requirement for standing that he represent five percent or more of the members. Hoffert v Dank, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Cause of action advancing derivative claim seeking to recover for alleged misconduct of board of governors of country club was properly dismissed since plaintiff did not represent 5 percent or more of any class of members of country club and therefore lacked standing. Bernbach v Bonnie Briar Country Club, 144 A.D.2d 610, 534 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12353 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 715, 543 N.Y.S.2d 401, 541 N.E.2d 430, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 798 (N.Y. 1989).

Complaint was properly dismissed due to plaintiff's lack of standing to bring derivative action on behalf of not-for-profit cemetery corporation where plaintiff was not member of corporation as set forth in its certificate or incorporation, and he did not otherwise come within categories of members defined by its by-laws; fact that plaintiff was land share certificate holder, and thus had voting rights under corporation's by-laws, was irrelevant where enumeration in by-laws of "members" did not include land share certificate holders. Harris v Lyke, 217 A.D.2d 982, 629 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8420 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4931 (N.Y. 1995).

Complaint against defendants was properly dismissed due to plaintiff's lack of standing to bring derivative action on behalf of not-for-profit cemetery corporation; plaintiff was not capital certificate holder under CLS N-PCL § 623(a) based on his status as land share certificate holder under CLS N-PCL § 1511(b) in that definition of capital certificates (CLS N-PCL § 503) does not include land share certificates, and land share certificates are not equivalent of capital certificates as they represent debt rather than equity. Harris v Lyke, 217 A.D.2d 982, 629 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8420 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4931 (N.Y. 1995).

Land share certificate holder did not have standing, on public policy grounds, to bring derivative action on behalf of not-for-profit cemetery corporation based on his claim that he had strong interest in policing corporate management, and thus complaint against defendants was properly dismissed; land share certificate holders such as plaintiff have other available remedies for management delinquency, plaintiff had already complained of corporate wrongdoing to district attorney's office and state's Division of Cemeteries which investigated matter and decided not to pursue it, and court had permitted plaintiff to commence new action under "contract theory." Harris v Lyke, 217 A.D.2d 982, 629 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8420 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4931 (N.Y. 1995).

Plaintiff did not have standing, in equity, to bring derivative action on behalf of not-for-profit cemetery corporation based on corporation's alleged fiduciary obligation to him due to his status as land share certificate holder, and thus complaint against defendants was properly dismissed; action was derivative, not equitable, and record did not establish any relationship that would make corporation trustee or agent for plaintiff. Harris v Lyke, 217 A.D.2d 982, 629 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8420 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4931 (N.Y. 1995).

Dismissal of a member's causes of action, pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720, to compel the a church's pastor and trustees to account for certain alleged misconduct, and for a judgment declaring that the pastor and the trustees had engaged in certain unlawful conduct, was proper because, inasmuch as the member sought to vindicate the church's rights by asserting those claims, they had to have been, but were not, asserted in the context of a derivative action brought by at least 5 percent of the church's members pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 623(a); further, the complaint failed to set forth the member's efforts to secure the initiation of a derivative action or the reason for not making such effort. Therefore, the member lacked standing to bring the claims. Tae Hwa Yoon v New York Hahn Wolee Church, Inc., 56 A.D.3d 752, 870 N.Y.S.2d 42, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9041 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Trial court properly found that an owner had standing to sue the homeowners association for violation of the declaration of covenants because the declaration specifically provided that any owner had the right to enforce the provisions of the declaration, and N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 623(a) did not operate to take away individual standing derived from other sources. In the Matter of St. Denis v Queensbury Baybridge Homeowners Assn., Inc., 100 A.D.3d 1326, 955 N.Y.S.2d 263, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8168 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

Lot owners lacked standing to assert any derivative claims on behalf of the homeowners' association (HOA) because the owners sought to vindicate the HOA's rights and recover damages on behalf of the HOA, and, as such, the owners' breach of contract cause of action had to be, but was not, asserted in the context of a derivative action brought by at least 5 percent of the HOA members. Schaefer v Chautauqua Escapes Assn., Inc., 158 A.D.3d 1186, 71 N.Y.S.3d 244, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 702 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), reh'g denied, app. denied, 160 A.D.3d 1507, 72 N.Y.S.3d 854, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3023 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th

Plaintiff failed to meet 5 percent standing requirement of CLS N-PCL § 623, warranting dismissal of derivative action against not-for-profit corporation, where he failed to name in complaint individuals who constituted requisite "5 percent or more of any class of members"; standing under § 623 must be shown to exist at time of bringing action. Segal v Powers, 180 Misc. 2d 57, 687 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 96 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

3. Demand on board

Derivative action, seeking to nullify sale of nonprofit organization's headquarters, was properly dismissed where plaintiffs alleged that unsuccessful demands were made on board of directors to initiate legal action but complaint provided no indication as to who made demands, when they were made, which board members they were made to, content of demands or why board refused to take action; nor did court err in denying plaintiffs' motion to amend complaint to allege contradictory claim that no demand was made on board because it would have been futile, as plaintiffs' conclusory allegation that board was not functionally constituted was plainly without merit in light of documentary evidence. Tomczak v Trepel, 283 A.D.2d 229, 724 N.Y.S.2d 737, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4804 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 930, 733 N.Y.S.2d 365, 759 N.E.2d 364, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3085 (N.Y. 2001).

Derivative action against not-for-profit corporation was dismissed under CLS CPLR § 3211(a)(3) due to lack of adequate demand on board of governors, where complaint merely alleged that plaintiff asked current president (who was one of 22 board members) to obtain board's authorization to initiate action, and that "this request has been denied"; complaint alleged that president failed to present issue to board, not that board considered demand and rejected it, and there was no showing that demand to board would have been futile. Segal v Powers, 180 Misc. 2d 57, 687 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 96 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

4. Defenses

Dissident fraternity members failed to establish prima facie case of bad faith or fraud in a derivative action under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 623 to protest the sale of a fraternity house to a university by the fraternity board because the evidence showed that the board obtained an independent appraisal and exacted significant concessions from the university and the board was thus protected by the business judgment rule. Sanford v Colgate Univ., 36 A.D.3d 1060, 828 N.Y.S.2d 633, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 254 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

Directors and officers were entitled to summary judgment on a corporation's cause of action pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 623, 720, asserting the improper transfer of real property because the claim was asserted in a prior action which was resolved by a stipulation, and, contrary to the corporation's claim, the identity requirement of res judicata was satisfied; however, although the issue of improper assessment of membership dues was raised in the prior action, any losses occasioned by assessments made after the discontinuance of that action constituted separate injuries for which recovery could not have been obtained in the prior action, and the stipulation did not prevent the corporation from asserting claims that accrued after the stipulation came into effect. Pawling Lake Prop. Owners Assn., Inc. v Greiner, 72 A.D.3d 665, 897 N.Y.S.2d 729, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

5. Procedure

Because a factual dispute existed as to whether the first director possessed standing to sue under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 623(a), 720, a cross-motion by the second director and a non-profit corporation to dismiss the complaint for lack of standing to sue was properly denied. Brach v Harmony Servs., Inc., 93 A.D.3d 748, 940 N.Y.S.2d 652, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2054 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2012).

§ 701. Board of directors

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation, a corporation shall be managed by its board of directors. Each director shall be at least eighteen years of age; provided, however, that a member of the board of directors of any girl scout council chartered by Girl Scouts of the United States of America, Inc., or any Camp Fire Girls club member serving as a member of the board of directors on the National Board and National Council of Camp Fire Girls, Inc. or on the local board of the Camp Fire Girls, Inc. or any member of Aspira of America Inc. or Aspira of New York Inc. serving on the board of directors, shall be at least sixteen years of age. Notwithstanding the above, a corporation organized for educational purposes primarily for the benefit of individuals below eighteen years of age may include one director below eighteen years of age who is at least sixteen years of age. Further, a corporation organized for recreational or youth development and delinquency prevention purposes primarily for the benefit of individuals below eighteen years of age may include one or more directors, the number of which shall not exceed one-half of the total number of directors for a quorum for the transaction of business, who are at least sixteen years of age but not over eighteen years of age. The certificate of incorporation or the by-laws may prescribe other qualifications for directors, provided, however, any corporation organized for recreation or youth development and delinquency prevention purposes, when increasing the number of directors between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years old to more than one, shall prescribe in its certificate of incorporation the number of such directors not to exceed the limitations of this paragraph.

(b) If the certificate of incorporation vests the management of the corporation, in whole or in part, in one or more persons other than the board, individually or collectively, such other person or persons shall be subject to the same obligations and the same liabilities for managerial acts or omissions as are imposed upon directors by this chapter.

Changes: Revised, new provisions.

Comment: The language of this section follows generally that of the Bus Corp L § 701, with modifications. The certificate of incorporation may provide for corporate management by others than the directors; but no specific reference is made to any particular form, as in the Bus Corp L § 701, since there is no equivalent in the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law to the "close" business corporation. The requirement of Gen Corp L § 27 that at least one director shall be a citizen and a resident of the United States has been omitted, but the certificate of incorporation or the bylaws may prescribe these or other qualifications for directors.

The express provisions of Mem Corp L § 45(1), that directors and officers need not be members has been omitted as unnecessary; membership may be prescribed in the certificate of incorporation or the bylaws as a qualification for directors and officers.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

PRACTICAL CONSIDERATIONS WHEN DEVELOPING AND FILLING NOT-FOR-PROFIT BOARD OF DIRECTORS

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 702 law requires that a not-for-profit corporation have no less than three directors. The law sets no maximum number of directors and permits the entity, through its bylaws or member action, to set the upper limit requirements. The qualifications of the board members are addressed in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701. Although the legal requirements related to the size and makeup of the board of directors may be easy to fulfill, the practical considerations are much more complicated and should be addressed periodically as the entity grows and changes.

Formally authorize board of directors with more than three members.

A not-for-profit corporation will be considered to have a three-person board of directors, unless the number is fixed in some authorized way. Custom, usage or acquiescence cannot establish the size of the board. In re Rye Psychiatric Hosp. Med. Ctr. Inc., 66 N.Y.2d 333, 497 N.Y.S.2d 317 (1985). Consequently, review of the Certificate of Incorporation and the bylaws of the organization is important if the corporation is considering increasing the size of the board. The appropriate amendments should be made before moving forward with the appointment or election of additional board members.

Fine balancing act must take place when determining size of board of directors.

Not-for-profits typically have larger boards of directors than their for-profit counterparts. There are certainly advantages to having a large number of directors. Since directors are typically large contributors and fundraisers for an organization, those organizations with larger boards usually raise more money. Larger boards can include directors with divergent skills (such as legal, financial, accounting) to which smaller boards may not have access.

That said, the larger the board, the more difficult it becomes to take action. For example, coaxing enough directors to a meeting as necessary to meet quorum requirements becomes more difficult, as does reaching a consensus at the required level (for example, majority or two-thirds) on important issues. Directors on a board that is too large may attach less importance to their individual role and, often, this leads to overburdened staff, an unfair distribution of work to those directors who make a commitment to participate actively, or both. Committees are essential when a large board is involved.

Recently, a provision was added to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608 to assist not-for-profit organizations that find it impossible or impractical to reach a quorum for meetings of members. There is no similar relief provided for meeting board quorum requirements. The best course for dealing with this difficulty remains in limiting the size of the board to a manageable number.

Certain Not-For-Profit Corp. Law provisions make it logistically difficult to manage large board of directors.

When representing an organization considering a move to a larger board of directors, counsel would be well-advised to review certain provisions of the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law that make a large board particularly difficult to work with. For example, under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 703(d), directors are not permitted to vote by proxy (although there is a very limited exception to allow voting through an alternate). Pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b), action may be taken by the board without a meeting only if all directors consent to the action in writing. Recent changes to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)made as part of the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013 have made this process a bit easier by providing that such "consent may be written or electronic". However, obtaining unanimous written consent can still be an administrative nightmare.

Telephone conferencing has been permitted for board meetings for some time where all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c). In addition, under the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c) has been revised to clarify that "electronic video screen communication", i.e. video conferencing, can be used for board meetings provided again that all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time and participate in all matters before the board. This alternative ought make working with a larger board more practical. These options are not available if otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

Consider honorary or advisory boards as alternative to large board of directors.

When logistical considerations weigh in favor of a more manageable number of directors, not-for-profits may want to address increased fundraising through the creation of an honorary or advisory board. Although honorary directors participate in fundraising efforts and projects that are very limited in scope, they do not get involved in the day-to-day decision-making of the organization and attendance requirements are not overwhelming. The management of the organization vests in a smaller, active board of directors that meets regularly. As a result, the not-for-profit enjoys most of the financial benefits of having a large board of directors, the practical benefits of having a committed active board of directors, and few of the disadvantages of working with a large number of directors.

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

1. Generally

The business of corporations shall be managed by the board of directors, the only exception being a provision contrary to the rule in its charter. Weiss v Opportunities for Cortland County, Inc., 40 A.D.2d 45, 337 N.Y.S.2d 409, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3428 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1972).

Under CLS N-PCL § 701, public employee labor union organized as not-for-profit corporation was to be managed by its board of directors despite provision in union's constitution that board's authority to transact business of union was "subject to the power and authority of the delegates at meetings of the Association," and any attempt by delegates to place general management responsibility in another person without so specifying in certificate of incorporation would be violation of § 701; however, if delegates desired to limit management authority of board of directors by amending certificate of incorporation, they could, after proper notice, vote to do so at general or special meeting, and if delegates believed board of directors, either individually or as group, failed to abide by union's constitution and bylaws, they could, after proper notice, vote to remove board of directors in whole or in part. Simoni v Civil Service Employees Ass'n, Local 1000, etc., 133 Misc. 2d 1, 507 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2958 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Resolutions passed by board of directors of public employee labor union organized as not-for-profit corporation, by which board reorganized union's staff in manner inconsistent with union president's organizational plan, were in conflict with provision of union's bylaws stating that "President shall be responsible for the organization and direction of the staff of the Association," constituted attempt to usurp authority given by members to president, and were therefore void. Simoni v Civil Service Employees Ass'n, Local 1000, etc., 133 Misc. 2d 1, 507 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2958 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Because not-for-profit corporations were given statutory authority to exercise all powers necessary to affect their purposes, and this power could be curtailed only if restricted by another statute or its own certificate of incorporation or bylaws, unless there was a specific prohibition in the documents or another statute, the corporation could act in any appropriate way in pursuit of its purposes. Suburban Scholastic Council v Section 2 of N. Y. State Pub. High School Athletic Assn., Inc., 23 A.D.3d 728, 803 N.Y.S.2d 270, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11693 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

2. Business judgment rule

Business judgment rule prohibits judicial inquiry into actions of corporate directors taken in good faith and in exercise of honest judgment in lawful and legitimate furtherance of corporate purposes; so long as directors have not breached their fiduciary obligation to corporation, exercise of their powers for common and general interests of corporation may not be questioned, even if results show that what they did was unwise or inexpedient. Levandusky v One Fifth Ave. Apartment Corp., 75 N.Y.2d 530, 554 N.Y.S.2d 807, 553 N.E.2d 1317, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 753 (N.Y. 1990).

Action by board of directors of corporation that comes within business judgment rule cannot be characterized as arbitrary and capricious, or abuse of discretion, for purpose of Article 78 proceeding. Levandusky v One Fifth Ave. Apartment Corp., 75 N.Y.2d 530, 554 N.Y.S.2d 807, 553 N.E.2d 1317, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 753 (N.Y. 1990).

Members of board of cooperative residential association were not entitled to summary judgment in shareholder's derivative action brought by board member, despite business judgment doctrine which bars judicial inquiry into actions of corporate directors, where triable issues of fact were raised regarding good faith of board's actions including, inter alia, whether voting proxies were improperly used, whether one member was coerced into voting certain way, and whether remodeling application at issue was evaluated in good faith. Van Camp v Sherman, 132 A.D.2d 453, 517 N.Y.S.2d 152, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49019 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987), aff'd, Nostima Foods, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 71 N.Y.2d 648, 529 N.Y.S.2d 270, 524 N.E.2d 871, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 690 (N.Y. 1988).

3. Under former General Corporation Law § 27

Vacancies on a Board of Directors are to be filled as the by-laws of the corporation may provide, subject to statutory limitations. Gearing v Kelly, 15 A.D.2d 219, 222 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7003 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961), aff'd, 11 N.Y.2d 201, 227 N.Y.S.2d 897, 182 N.E.2d 391, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1258 (N.Y. 1962).

The court would not entertain a petition for an order setting aside a special meeting of the board of directors of a corporation, and vacating the removal of a corporate officer. Heller v Clark Merchandisers, Inc., 9 Misc. 2d 106, 154 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2316 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

4. —Bylaws; relating to vote of stockholders

A by-law requiring unanimous vote of stockholders for any action by them is invalid as contrary to decree of § 27. Benintendi v Kenton Hotel, Inc., 294 N.Y. 112, 60 N.E.2d 829, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 112, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1945).

5. — —Relating to quorum of directors

By § 27 every corporation is given privilege of enacting a by-law fixing its own quorum requirement at any fraction not less than one-third, nor more than a majority, of its directors. Benintendi v Kenton Hotel, Inc., 294 N.Y. 112, 60 N.E.2d 829, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 112, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1945).

Reading together § 27 and § 28 and examining their legislative history, court concluded that there never was legislative intent so to change common-law rule as to quorums as to authorize a by-law requiring unanimous vote of directors. Benintendi v Kenton Hotel, Inc., 294 N.Y. 112, 60 N.E.2d 829, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 112, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1945).

This section and § 28 do not forbid a bylaw requiring a two-thirds' vote of a quorum of directors. In re Lake Placid Co., 274 A.D. 205, 81 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3040 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

A by-law provision that a "majority of the directors shall constitute a quorum" is ambiguous as to whether the reference is to a majority of the remaining directors in case of a vacancy or to a majority of the authorized number of members, but where other by-law provisions indicate a distinction between action which can only be taken by a majority of the "whole" board, or by a certain fraction of the whole board, it can be implied that in instances where the whole board is not called for the "board" consists of the directors actually in office. Gearing v Kelly, 15 A.D.2d 219, 222 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7003 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961), aff'd, 11 N.Y.2d 201, 227 N.Y.S.2d 897, 182 N.E.2d 391, 1962 N.Y. LEXIS 1258 (N.Y. 1962).

6. —Management of corporation by board of directors

Directors have power to manage the corporation only when acting as a board. Acting singly the directors cannot bind the corporation. Knapp v Rochester Dog Protective Ass'n, 235 A.D. 436, 257 N.Y.S. 356, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7981 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

The directors of a corporation may not be bound by an agreement requiring that any question involving removal be submitted to a board of arbitrators, nor may their authority be delegated to others. In re Allied Fruit & Extract Co., 243 A.D. 52, 276 N.Y.S. 153, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5481 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

7. — —Veto of litigation instituted by president

Any actual or implied authority which the president of a corporation may have to institute litigation is terminated when the board of directors refuses to sanction it, the management of a corporation being in its board of directors. Sterling Industries, Inc. v Ball Bearing Pen Corp., 298 N.Y. 483, 84 N.E.2d 790, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 483, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1007 (N.Y. 1949).

8. — —Authorization of bankruptcy

A petition in bankruptcy, in order to justify adjudication in voluntary bankruptcy and consequent transfer of all property of the corporation, real and personal, to a trustee, should at least allege and show corporate action by the board of directors authorizing the petition and its execution by an officer signing the name of the corporation thereto. In re Jefferson Casket Co., 182 F. 689, 1910 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 160 (D.N.Y. 1910).

9. —Directors meeting; required notice

The provision of this section that a majority of the Board of Directors at a meeting "duly assembled" shall constitute a quorum infer that each director shall receive proper notice of the meeting unless he waives it. Cirrincione v Polizzi, 14 A.D.2d 281, 220 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8260 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1961).

10. — —Action by majority of quorum

It appears to be the legislative intent that a board of directors can act by a majority of a quorum, irrespective of the number of other directors who may merely be present at the meeting. Crowley v Commodity Exchange, Inc., 141 F.2d 182, 1944 U.S. App. LEXIS 3625 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1944).

11. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 46

The authority of directors of a membership corporation are similar to those of directors of other corporations, except that the authority of the directors of membership corporations to deal with property is restricted by § 21. Van Campen v Olean General Hospital, 210 A.D. 204, 205 N.Y.S. 554, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6689 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924), aff'd, 239 N.Y. 615, 147 N.E. 219, 239 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 615, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 1007 (N.Y. 1925).

The directors of a hospital incorporated under this law may deprive a physician of the privilege of treating his patients in the hospital, the latter not being within the definition of a public corporation even though it is sustained in part by charitable gifts. Van Campen v Olean General Hospital, 210 A.D. 204, 205 N.Y.S. 554, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6689 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924), aff'd, 239 N.Y. 615, 147 N.E. 219, 239 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 615, 1925 N.Y. LEXIS 1007 (N.Y. 1925).

In a membership corporation the power of control is vested in the board of directors and stockholders cannot bind the corporation by contract. Clifford v Firemen's Mut. Benevolent Ass'n, 232 A.D. 260, 249 N.Y.S. 713, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13783 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931), aff'd, 259 N.Y. 547, 182 N.E. 175, 259 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 547, 1932 N.Y. LEXIS 1025 (N.Y. 1932).

The Board of Directors cannot impose an obligation on a corporation long after their term of office, and accordingly a contract to pay a former president a salary for life cannot be enforced. Clifford v Firemen's Mut. Benevolent Ass'n, 232 A.D. 260, 249 N.Y.S. 713, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13783 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931), aff'd, 259 N.Y. 547, 182 N.E. 175, 259 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 547, 1932 N.Y. LEXIS 1025 (N.Y. 1932).

The indebtedness of a membership corporation for rent is not contracted, within the meaning of former § 11 from which this section is derived, when the lease is made, but when the instalments of rent come due. Dunn v Neustadtl, 129 N.Y.S. 161, 72 Misc. 1, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 303 (N.Y. App. Term 1911).

If permitted in the by-laws or the certificate of incorporation of a not-for-profit corporation, minors may be members and hold office in the corporation. 1984 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-64.

Under Sections 10-1000 et seq. of the Village Law, a village fire department is a corporation consisting of members of all the fire, hose, protective and hook and ladder companies of a village; it is administered by a board of fire commissioners or, where no board of fire commissioners has been appointed, by the village board of trustees and the council of the fire department. Fire companies in a village are associations or corporations, which must operate in accordance with their certificates of incorporation, bylaws, and statutes; and, although fire companies are separate and distinct from the village, the statutes do permit village authorities to exercise a certain degree of control over their organization, incorporation, governance, and membership, including residency for membership. § 702. Number of directors

(a) The number of directors constituting the entire board shall be not less than three. Subject to such limitation, such number may be fixed by the by-laws or by action of the members or of the board under the specific provisions of a by-law allowing such action, or by any number within a range set forth in the by-laws. If not otherwise fixed under this paragraph, the number shall be three.

(b) The number of directors may be increased or decreased by amendment of the by-laws or by action of the members, or of the board under the specific provisions of a by-law, subject to the following limitations:

(1) If the board is authorized by the by-laws to change the number of directors, whether by amending the by-laws or by taking action under the specific provisions of a by-law, such amendment or action shall require the vote of a majority of the entire board.

(2) No decrease shall shorten the term of any incumbent director.

Changes: Reworded and revised; new provisions.

Comment: This section expands the provisions found in the Mem Corp L but retains the requirement of a minimum of three directors on the board. Based on Bus Corp L § 702, the new provisions provide for increase or decrease in the number of directors, subject to limitations designed to prevent the unqualified power of directors to control the structure of the board. The provision in the Bus Corp L authorizing a lesser number than three directors where all the shares are owned beneficially and of record by less than three shareholders has been omitted as inappropriate to the non-profit corporation. The expression "specific provision of a by-law adopted by the members" used in this section and elsewhere in this article, has the same meaning as in the Bus Corp L: that is, a by-law that the members themselves adopt for the particular occasion, and not a by-law adopted by the board pursuant to any general authority conferred on the board by the members to adopt, amend, or repeal by-laws.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 555, § 3, deleted "in the case of a corporation having members" following "by-laws or" in the introductory language of (b); and deleted "adopted by the members" following "a by-law" in the introductory language of (b) and in (b)(1).

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

PRACTICAL CONSIDERATIONS WHEN DEVELOPING AND FILLING NOT-FOR-PROFIT BOARD OF DIRECTORS

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 702 law requires that a not-for-profit corporation have no less than three directors. The law sets no maximum number of directors and permits the entity, through its bylaws or member action, to set the upper limit requirements. The qualifications of the board members are addressed in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701. Although the legal requirements related to the size and makeup of the board of directors may be easy to fulfill, the practical considerations are much more complicated and should be addressed periodically as the entity grows and changes.

Formally authorize board of directors with more than three members.

A not-for-profit corporation will be considered to have a three-person board of directors, unless the number is fixed in some authorized way. Custom, usage or acquiescence cannot establish the size of the board. In re Rye Psychiatric Hosp. Med. Ctr. Inc., 66 N.Y.2d 333, 497 N.Y.S.2d 317 (1985). Consequently, review of the Certificate of Incorporation and the bylaws of the organization is important if the corporation is considering increasing the size of the board. The appropriate amendments should be made before moving forward with the appointment or election of additional board members.

Fine balancing act must take place when determining size of board of directors.

Not-for-profits typically have larger boards of directors than their for-profit counterparts. There are certainly advantages to having a large number of directors. Since directors are typically large contributors and fundraisers for an organization, those organizations with larger boards usually raise more money. Larger boards can include directors with divergent skills (such as legal, financial, accounting) to which smaller boards may not have access.

That said, the larger the board, the more difficult it becomes to take action. For example, coaxing enough directors to a meeting as necessary to meet quorum requirements becomes more difficult, as does reaching a consensus at the required level (for example, majority or two-thirds) on important issues. Directors on a board that is too large may attach less importance to their individual role and, often, this leads to overburdened staff, an unfair distribution of work to those directors who make a commitment to participate actively, or both. Committees are essential when a large board is involved.

Recently, a provision was added to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608 to assist not-for-profit organizations that find it impossible or impractical to reach a quorum for meetings of members. There is no similar relief provided for meeting board quorum requirements. The best course for dealing with this difficulty remains in limiting the size of the board to a manageable number.

Certain Not-For-Profit Corp. Law provisions make it logistically difficult to manage large board of directors.

When representing an organization considering a move to a larger board of directors, counsel would be well-advised to review certain provisions of the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law that make a large board particularly difficult to work with. For example, under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 703(d), directors are not permitted to vote by proxy (although there is a very limited exception to allow voting through an alternate). Pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b), action may be taken by the board without a meeting only if all directors consent to the action in writing. Recent changes to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)made as part of the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013 have made this process a bit easier by providing that such "consent may be written or electronic". However, obtaining unanimous written consent can still be an administrative nightmare.

Telephone conferencing has been permitted for board meetings for some time where all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c). In addition, under the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c) has been revised to clarify that "electronic video screen communication", i.e. video conferencing, can be used for board meetings provided again that all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time and participate in all matters before the board. This alternative ought make working with a larger board more practical. These options are not available if otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

Consider honorary or advisory boards as alternative to large board of directors.

When logistical considerations weigh in favor of a more manageable number of directors, not-for-profits may want to address increased fundraising through the creation of an honorary or advisory board. Although honorary directors participate in fundraising efforts and projects that are very limited in scope, they do not get involved in the day-to-day decision-making of the organization and attendance requirements are not overwhelming. The management of the organization vests in a smaller, active board of directors that meets regularly. As a result, the not-for-profit enjoys most of the financial benefits of having a large board of directors, the practical benefits of having a committed active board of directors, and few of the disadvantages of working with a large number of directors.

(a) A corporation may provide in its certificate of incorporation or by-laws for directors to be elected or appointed at large, or by special districts or membership sections, or by virtue of their office or former office in the corporation or other entity, public or private, or by bondholders pursuant to paragraph (c) of section 506 (Bonds and security interests) voting as a class, or any combination thereof.

(b) Directors shall be elected or appointed in the manner and for the term of office provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. The term of office of directors, other than those elected or appointed by virtue of their office or former office in the corporation or other entity, public or private, shall not exceed five years; and, if the board is classified under section 704 (Classification of directors), such term shall not exceed a number of years equal to the number of classes into which the board is classified. In the absence of a provision fixing the term, it shall be one year.

(c) Each director shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which he is elected or appointed, and until his successor has been elected or appointed and qualified.

(d) If the certificate of incorporation or by-laws so provide, a special district or membership section entitled to elect or appoint one or more directors may elect or appoint an alternate for each such director. In the absence of a director from a meeting of the board, his alternate may, upon written notice to the secretary of the corporation, attend such meeting and exercise therein the rights, powers, and privileges of the absent director. When so exercising the rights, powers, and privileges of the absent director, such alternate shall be subject in all respects to the provisions of this chapter governing directors.

Comment: This section continues the provisions of the Mem Corp L for directors elected at large or by membership sections (§ 45(1)) or by bondholders (§ 20) and adds directors elected or appointed by virtue of their office or former office. Except in the latter group, the maximum term of office is four years, as in the Bus Corp L (§ 704), instead of five years permitted under Mem Corp L § 20. Paragraph (c) is derived from Bus Corp L § 703(b); it retains the substance of Gen Corp L § 21 on tenure of directors. Paragraph (d) is new; its provision for alternate directors for special membership sections is of particular advantage to national corporations.

1. Generally

Congregation had the authority to discharge members of a not-for-profit corporation's board of directors because (1) N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 703(b) and the corporation's bylaws only let the board increase the board's number, (2) the congregation, as the corporation's sole member, could not be denied the right to vote except by the congregation's removal or resignation, under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 612 and 605(a), so bylaw amendments denying that right had no effect, (3) the bylaws in effect let the congregation veto the board's bylaw amendments, and (4) the congregation vetoed amendments denying the congregation the rights to vote, remove directors, and adopt, amend, or repeal bylaws. Gluck v Chevre Liady Nusach Hoary, 97 A.D.3d 787, 949 N.Y.S.2d 149, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5657 (N.Y. 2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 45

The office of director confers certain responsibilities of management and control upon such officers, but they are merely representatives of their associates, and their action is subject to fair criticism by any such associate. People ex rel. Ward v Uptown Ass'n, 26 A.D. 297, 49 N.Y.S. 881, 1898 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 391 (N.Y. App. Div. 1898).

The provisions of this section providing that directors of such corporations need not be members is permissive rather than mandatory and the by-laws may require that directors be members. Thus, a non-member of a hospital corporation which required payment of dues as a condition of membership could not be elected to the office of director where the by-laws limited such offices to members. In re Tri-County Memorial Hospital, 4 A.D.2d 304, 165 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4769 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1957).

Members of a charitable membership corporation have no vested right to choose its directors, nor is "self-perpetuation" of the board of such a corporation per se invalid in the absence of clear showing that it violates fundamental principles of justice. Petition of Sousa, 12 A.D.2d 956, 211 N.Y.S.2d 204, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12759 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), rev'd, 10 N.Y.2d 68, 217 N.Y.S.2d 58, 176 N.E.2d 77, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1167 (N.Y. 1961).

Where a cemetery corporation has elected an entire slate of six directors but has failed to specify the terms of such directors, and the bylaws of the corporation as well as a statute in effect at the time of the election, provided that one-third of the directors were to be elected each year, upon agreement of the elected directors that the terms of two of them were to expire at the end of the first year, at the first subsequent annual election only two new directors are to be elected, rather than an entire new slate as urged upon the theory that the original election was invalid. In re Washington Cemetery, 238 N.Y.S. 664, 135 Misc. 763, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 935 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1930).

Directors cannot vote by proxy. Craig Medicine Co. v Merchants' Bank of Rochester, 14 N.Y.S. 16, 59 Hun 561, 1891 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1834 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1891).

§ 704. Classification of directors

(a) The certificate of incorporation or a by-law adopted by the members may provide that directors elected or appointed at large shall be divided into either two, three, four or five classes for the purpose of staggering their terms of office and that all or some of the directors elected or appointed otherwise than at large shall be divided into the same or a different number of classes, not exceeding five, for the same purpose. All classes of each type shall be as nearly equal in number as possible and, if provision has been made for cumulative voting under section 617 (Cumulative voting), no class shall include less than three directors.

(b) The terms of office of the directors initially classified shall be as follows: that of the first class shall expire at the next annual meeting of members if there be members, or of the board if there be no members, the second class at the second succeeding annual meeting, the third class, if any, at the third succeeding annual meeting, the fourth class, if any, at the fourth succeeding annual meeting and the fifth class, if any, at the fifth succeeding annual meeting. After such initial classification, directors to replace those whose terms expire at each annual meeting shall be elected or appointed at such meeting to hold office for a full term in accordance with such classification.

(c) If directors are classified and the number of directors is thereafter changed by action of the board:

(1) Any newly created directorships or any decrease in directorships shall be so apportioned among the classes as to make all classes as nearly equal in number as possible.

(2) If newly created directorships are filled by the board in a corporation having members, there shall be no classification of the additional directors until the next annual meeting of members.

Comment: This section reduces the number of possible classes of directors elected at large from the five permitted under the Mem Corp L § 20 to the four authorized by Bus Corp L § 704. However, this limitation does not apply to directors elected by bondholder or by membership sections, or by virtue of their office or former office. The provisions for avoiding impairment of cumulative voting rights, where authorized, are derived from the Bus Corp L § 704.

(a) Newly created directorships resulting from an increase in the number of directors elected or appointed at large, and vacancies among such directors for any reason, may be filled by vote of a majority of the directors then in office, regardless of their number, unless the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws provide that such newly created directorships or vacancies shall be filled by vote of the members.

(b) Vacancies among directors elected or appointed by special districts or membership sections, or by bondholders voting as a class, shall be filled by action of the persons entitled to vote thereon; except that, if a vacancy remains unfilled for six months after it occurs, and by reason of the absence, illness, or other inability of one or more of the remaining directors a quorum of the board cannot be obtained, the remaining directors, or a majority of them, may appoint a director to fill such vacancy.

(c) A director elected or appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold office until the next annual meeting at which the election of directors is in the regular order of business, and until his successor is elected or appointed and qualified.

Changes: Revised and reworded; new provisions.

Comment: Paragraph (a) of this section follows the language of Bus Corp L § 705(a) in giving equal treatment to newly created directorships and vacancies among directors at large. The Mem Corp L provision in § 20 authorizing the by-laws to define a vacancy has been superseded by the provision that this section applies to a "vacancy for any reason." In paragraph (b), vacancies in directorships elected other than at large are to be filled by the appropriate electoral body, except that if a vacancy remains unfilled for six months and a quorum cannot be obtained in consequence, the provisions of Mem Corp L § 45(2) are applied to permit the remaining directors to fill the vacancy. Paragraph (c) follows Bus Corp L § 705(c) except in the important respect that a director elected to fill a vacancy does not serve for the unexpired term, which may run up to four years, but only until the next annual meeting at which a director may be elected.

§ 706. Removal of directors

(a) Except as limited in paragraph (c), any or all of the directors may be removed for cause by vote of the members, or by vote of the directors provided there is a quorum of not less than a majority present at the meeting of directors at which such action is taken.

(b) Except as limited in paragraph (c), if the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws so provide, any or all of the directors may be removed without cause by vote of the members.

(c) The removal of directors, with or without cause, as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) is subject to the following:

(1) In the case of a corporation having cumulative voting, no director may be removed when the votes cast against his removal would be sufficient to elect him if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast and the entire board, or the entire class of directors of which he is a member, were then being elected; and

(2) When by the provisions of the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws the members of any class or group, or the holders of bonds, voting as a class, are entitled to elect one or more directors, any director so elected may be removed only by the applicable vote of the members of that class or group, or the holders of such bonds, voting as a class.

(d) An action to procure a judgment removing a director for cause may be brought by the attorney-general or by ten percent of the members whether or not entitled to vote. The court may bar from re-election any director so removed for a period fixed by the court.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Gen Corp Law §§ 60, 136.

Revision Notes: Source: Gen Corp L § 60(4) and § 136. Changes: Revised; new provisions.

Comment: These provisions, reworded in part, are derived from Bus Corp L § 706, which combined statutory provisions of the Gen Corp L on the power of the attorney-general to procure a judgment ousting a derelict director with provisions essentially codifying the decisional law and also added some new substantive provisions. Paragraphs (a) and (b) have been reworded in part to simplify the language, but no change in substance is effected thereby. A director elected by cumulative voting may be removed, with or without cause, only by vote of the members of the corporation and in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (c)(1). Similarly, a director elected by the members of any class or group may be removed only by vote of the members of that class or group. The provision in Bus Corp L § 706(d), extending the right to initiate judicial proceedings to remove a director for cause to the holders of ten per cent of the outstanding shares, has been given to ten per cent of the members whether or not these members are entitled to vote.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, any reference in this chapter to corporate action to be taken by the board shall mean such action at a meeting of the board.

(b) Unless otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, any action required or permitted to be taken by the board or any committee thereof may be taken without a meeting if all members of the board or the committee consent to the adoption of a resolution authorizing the action. Such consent may be written or electronic. If written, the consent must be executed by the director by signing such consent or causing his or her signature to be affixed to such consent by any reasonable means including, but not limited to, facsimile signature. If electronic, the transmission of the consent must be sent by electronic mail and set forth, or be submitted with, information from which it can reasonably be determined that the transmission was authorized by the director. The resolution and the written consents thereto by the members of the board or committee shall be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the board or committee.

(c) Unless otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, any one or more members of the board or of any committee thereof who is not physically present at a meeting of the board or a committee may participate by means of a conference telephone or similar communications equipment or by electronic video screen communication. Participation by such means shall constitute presence in person at a meeting as long as all persons participating in the meeting can hear each other at the same time and each director can participate in all matters before the board, including, without limitation, the ability to propose, object to, and vote upon a specific action to be taken by the board or committee.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the vote of a majority of the directors present at the time of the vote, if a quorum is present at such time, shall be the act of the board. Directors who are present at a meeting but not present at the time of a vote due to a conflict of interest or related party transaction shall be determined to be present at the time of the vote for purposes of this paragraph.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

PRACTICAL CONSIDERATIONS WHEN DEVELOPING AND FILLING NOT-FOR-PROFIT BOARD OF DIRECTORS

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 702 law requires that a not-for-profit corporation have no less than three directors. The law sets no maximum number of directors and permits the entity, through its bylaws or member action, to set the upper limit requirements. The qualifications of the board members are addressed in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701. Although the legal requirements related to the size and makeup of the board of directors may be easy to fulfill, the practical considerations are much more complicated and should be addressed periodically as the entity grows and changes.

Formally authorize board of directors with more than three members.

A not-for-profit corporation will be considered to have a three-person board of directors, unless the number is fixed in some authorized way. Custom, usage or acquiescence cannot establish the size of the board. In re Rye Psychiatric Hosp. Med. Ctr. Inc., 66 N.Y.2d 333, 497 N.Y.S.2d 317 (1985). Consequently, review of the Certificate of Incorporation and the bylaws of the organization is important if the corporation is considering increasing the size of the board. The appropriate amendments should be made before moving forward with the appointment or election of additional board members.

Fine balancing act must take place when determining size of board of directors.

Not-for-profits typically have larger boards of directors than their for-profit counterparts. There are certainly advantages to having a large number of directors. Since directors are typically large contributors and fundraisers for an organization, those organizations with larger boards usually raise more money. Larger boards can include directors with divergent skills (such as legal, financial, accounting) to which smaller boards may not have access.

That said, the larger the board, the more difficult it becomes to take action. For example, coaxing enough directors to a meeting as necessary to meet quorum requirements becomes more difficult, as does reaching a consensus at the required level (for example, majority or two-thirds) on important issues. Directors on a board that is too large may attach less importance to their individual role and, often, this leads to overburdened staff, an unfair distribution of work to those directors who make a commitment to participate actively, or both. Committees are essential when a large board is involved.

Recently, a provision was added to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 608 to assist not-for-profit organizations that find it impossible or impractical to reach a quorum for meetings of members. There is no similar relief provided for meeting board quorum requirements. The best course for dealing with this difficulty remains in limiting the size of the board to a manageable number.

Certain Not-For-Profit Corp. Law provisions make it logistically difficult to manage large board of directors.

When representing an organization considering a move to a larger board of directors, counsel would be well-advised to review certain provisions of the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law that make a large board particularly difficult to work with. For example, under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 703(d), directors are not permitted to vote by proxy (although there is a very limited exception to allow voting through an alternate). Pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b), action may be taken by the board without a meeting only if all directors consent to the action in writing. Recent changes to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)made as part of the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013 have made this process a bit easier by providing that such "consent may be written or electronic". However, obtaining unanimous written consent can still be an administrative nightmare.

Telephone conferencing has been permitted for board meetings for some time where all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c). In addition, under the Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c) has been revised to clarify that "electronic video screen communication", i.e. video conferencing, can be used for board meetings provided again that all directors participating in the meeting are able to hear each other at the same time and participate in all matters before the board. This alternative ought make working with a larger board more practical. These options are not available if otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

Consider honorary or advisory boards as alternative to large board of directors.

When logistical considerations weigh in favor of a more manageable number of directors, not-for-profits may want to address increased fundraising through the creation of an honorary or advisory board. Although honorary directors participate in fundraising efforts and projects that are very limited in scope, they do not get involved in the day-to-day decision-making of the organization and attendance requirements are not overwhelming. The management of the organization vests in a smaller, active board of directors that meets regularly. As a result, the not-for-profit enjoys most of the financial benefits of having a large board of directors, the practical benefits of having a committed active board of directors, and few of the disadvantages of working with a large number of directors.

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

ANALYSIS

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

1. Under former General Corporation Law § 28

Reading together § 27 and § 28 and examining their legislative history, court concluded that there never was legislative intent so to change common-law rule as to quorums as to authorize a by-law requiring unanimous vote of directors. Benintendi v Kenton Hotel, Inc., 294 N.Y. 112, 60 N.E.2d 829, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 112, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1945).

This section and § 27 do not forbid a bylaw requiring a two-thirds' vote of a quorum of directors. In re Lake Placid Co., 274 A.D. 205, 81 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3040 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

The court would not entertain a petition for an order setting aside a special meeting of the board of directors, and vacating the removal of a corporate officer by a majority vote of the board. Heller v Clark Merchandisers, Inc., 9 Misc. 2d 106, 154 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2316 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Court vacated determination of respondent not-for-profit corporation which found petitioner guilty of inappropriate behavior at its recreational club and suspended his membership privileges for 6 weeks where (1) petitioner was not provided any written notice of date, time and place of hearing, he was not afforded opportunity to testify, submit evidence, call witness or examine any complaining witness, and (2) informal meetings between club president and petitioner did not satisfy fundamental due process requirement of Not-For-Profit Corporation Law or "substantially" comply with club's by-laws and rules. Anderson v Board of Dirs. of the Powelton Club, 183 Misc. 2d 200, 702 N.Y.S.2d 762, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 600 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

Failure to notify library trustees of a meeting in accordance with the Education Law was such a defect as could be cured or waived by the actual presence of the trustees at the meeting. Kahn v Blinn, 60 N.Y.S.2d 413, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1877 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

Corporation which had been dissolved could not maintain action for specific performance of alleged undertaking to effectuate a lien on realty. Dieselcraft Corp. v Joca Realty Corp., 161 N.Y.S.2d 761 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

It appears to be the legislative intent that a board of directors can act by a majority of a quorum, irrespective of the number of other directors who may merely be present at the meeting. Crowley v Commodity Exchange, Inc., 141 F.2d 182, 1944 U.S. App. LEXIS 3625 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1944).

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. (a) Unless otherwise provided by the by-laws, regular meetings of the board may be held without notice if the time and place of such meetings are fixed by the by-laws or the board. Special meetings of the board shall be held upon notice to the directors.

(b) The by-laws may prescribe what shall constitute notice of meeting of the board. A notice, or waiver of notice, need not specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the board, unless required by the by-laws.

(c) Notice of a meeting need not be given to any alternate director, nor to any director who submits a waiver of notice whether before or after the meeting, or who attends the meeting without protesting, prior thereto or at its commencement, the lack of notice to him. Such waiver of notice may be written or electronic. If written, the waiver must be executed by the director signing such waiver or causing his or her signature to be affixed to such waiver by any reasonable means including but not limited to facsimile signature. (a) The certificate of incorporation, the by-laws, or the board may create committees of the board, each consisting of three or more directors. The board shall appoint the members of such committee of the board, except that in the case of any executive committee or similar committee however denominated, the appointment shall be made by a majority of the entire board, provided that in the case of a board of thirty members or more, the appointment shall be made by at least three-quarters of the directors present at the time of the vote, if a quorum is present at that time. In addition, the by-laws may provide that directors who are the holders of certain positions in the corporation shall be ex-officio members of specific committees. Each such committee shall have the authority of the board to the extent provided in a board resolution or in the certificate of incorporation or by-laws, except that no committee of any kind shall have authority as to the following matters:

(1) The submission to members of any action requiring members' approval under this chapter.

(2) The filling of vacancies in the board of directors or in any committee.

(3) The fixing of compensation of the directors for serving on the board or on any committee.

(4) The amendment or repeal of the by-laws or the adoption of new by-laws.

(5) The amendment or repeal of any resolution of the board which by its terms shall not be so amendable or repealable.

(6) The election or removal of officers and directors.

(7) The approval of a merger or plan of dissolution.

(8) The adoption of a resolution recommending to the members action on the sale, lease, exchange or other disposition of all or substantially all the assets of a corporation or, if there are no members entitled to vote, the authorization of such transaction.

(9) The approval of amendments to the certificate of incorporation.

(b) The board may designate one or more directors as alternate members of any committee, who may replace any absent member or members at any meeting of such committee.

(c) [Repealed]

(d) Each committee of the board shall serve at the pleasure of the board. The designation of any such committee and the delegation thereto of authority shall not alone relieve any director of his duty to the corporation under section 717 (Duty of directors and officers).

(e) Committees, other than committees of the board, whether created by the board or by the members, shall be committees of the corporation. No such committee shall have the authority to bind the board. Members of such committees of the corporation, who may be non-directors, shall be elected or appointed in the manner set forth in the by-laws, or if not set forth in the by-laws, in the same manner as officers of the corporation.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 20.

Changes: Revised; new provisions.

Comment: This section expands Mem Corp L § 20 which simply authorized the bylaws to provide for the creation of an executive committee of the board. The section is the same, both in substance and in language, as Bus Corp L § 712. Bus Corp L § 712, in part adapted from the Model Business Corporation Act § 38, changed the decisional law by authorizing delegation of policy-making power as well as ministerial duties to a committee of the board, with express restrictions on delegation of certain powers. New language has been added to make clear that other committees of the Board may be created with more limited powers, and that the appointment of committees does not relieve directors of the duties to the corporation.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 555, § 5, in (e), deleted "Such committees of the corporation may be elected or appointed in the same manner as officers of the corporation, but" at the beginning of the second sentence and in the last sentence, added "Members of" and "who may be non-directors"; and made stylistic changes.

The 2016 amendment by ch 466, § 4, rewrote the introductory paragraph of (a); added (a)(6) through (a)(9); and deleted the former third sentence of (e), which read:

"Provisions of this chapter applicable to officers generally shall apply to members of such committees."

APPLYING PUBLIC-COMPANY CONCEPTS TO NOT-FOR-PROFIT BOARD COMMITTEES.

INSIGHT

Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation (See, Not-For-Profit Corporation Law § 402), the business of the corporation shall be managed by its board of directors. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 701. The board of directors of a not-for-profit corporation may designate executive and other committees if the corporation's certificate of incorporation and bylaws so provide. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 712. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 712 also sets forth certain duties that cannot be delegated to these committees. Practitioners can use lessons learned from Sarbanes-Oxley to better advise their clients regarding the formation of not-for-profit board committees.

ANALYSIS

Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 Can Help Practitioners Advise Clients About Not-For-Profit Committee Formation.

Most provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 (SOX) apply only to publicly-traded corporations. Nevertheless, attorneys advising not-for-profit corporations should be familiar with the provisions of SOX for several reasons. First, SOX provides a roadmap for accepted standards of corporate governance. Second, some efforts have been made to apply at least some Sarbanes-Oxley provisions to New York not-for-profit corporations. Then New York Attorney General, Eliot Spitzer, initially proposed to apply SOX-like requirements to not-for-profit corporations. Although that initiative has been abandoned, the Attorney General's office continues to scrutinize activities and governance of not-for-profits. On April 5, 2005, the Senate Finance Committee held hearings on "Charities and Charitable Giving: Proposals for Reform."

SOX § 301 requires that each publicly traded corporation have an audit committee. Each member of the audit committee must be a director and must be independent (that is, not an officer or manager and not receiving compensation from the corporation for activities other than for service on the board of directors). SOX § 407 states that each audit committee should have a financial expert. If no financial expert serves on the audit committee, the reason for such failure must be disclosed.

Although not yet required by law to do so, not-for-profits should seriously consider creating audit committees and using the SOX standards as guidelines. These committees can serve an important function in overseeing the financial activities of not-for-profits and in protecting the corporation, its officers and directors, and the constituents they serve.

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

ANALYSIS

Include Certain Powers in Certificate if They Are Contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider Adding Certain Permissive Powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708[b]) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708[c]). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay Particularly Close Attention to "Purposes" Section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause because the Department typically scrutinizes this section closely. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, if the Certificate required initial approval or consent from a governmental entity, the Certificate may not be amended without first obtaining court approval upon notice to the attorney general. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

That said, unlike its for-profit counterpart, where broad purposes clauses are routinely accepted, the department will not accept a Not-For-Profit Certificate if its proposed purposes are too broad.

Avoid Certain Buzz Words when Drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It May Be Advisable to Limit Internal Governance Provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval - at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership - a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

(a) The board, or a designated audit committee of the board comprised solely of independent directors, of any corporation required to file an independent certified public accountant's audit report with the attorney general pursuant to subdivision one of section one hundred seventy-two-b of the executive law shall oversee the accounting and financial reporting processes of the corporation and the audit of the corporation's financial statements. The board or designated audit committee shall annually retain or renew the retention of an independent auditor to conduct the audit and, upon completion thereof, review the results of the audit and any related management letter with the independent auditor.

(b) The board, or a designated audit committee of the board comprised solely of independent directors, of any corporation required to file an independent certified public accountant's audit report with the attorney general pursuant to subdivision one of section one hundred seventy-two-b of the executive law and that in the prior fiscal year had or in the current fiscal year reasonably expects to have annual revenue in excess of one million dollars shall, in addition to those duties set forth in paragraph (a) of this section:

(1) review with the independent auditor the scope and planning of the audit prior to the audit's commencement;

(2) upon completion of the audit, review and discuss with the independent auditor: (A) any material risks and weaknesses in internal controls identified by the auditor; (B) any restrictions on the scope of the auditor's activities or access to requested information; (C) any significant disagreements between the auditor and management; and (D) the adequacy of the corporation's accounting and financial reporting processes;

(3) annually consider the performance and independence of the independent auditor; and

(4) if the duties required by this section are performed by an audit committee, report on the committee's activities to the board.

(c) [Repealed]

(d) If a corporation controls a group of corporations, the board or designated audit committee of the board of the controlling corporation may perform the duties required by this section for one or more of the controlled corporations and, if independent directors, directors from one or more of such controlled corporations may serve on any designated audit committee of the board of such controlling corporation, and perform the duties required by this section for each corporation and any controlled corporations.

(e) Only independent directors may participate in any board or committee deliberations or voting relating to matters set forth in this section, provided that nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit the board or designated audit committee from requesting that a person with an interest in the matter present information as background or answer questions at a committee or board meeting prior to the commencement of deliberations or voting relating thereto.

(f) Any corporation that is a state authority or a local authority as defined in section two of the public authorities law and that has complied substantially with sections twenty-eight hundred two and twenty-eight hundred twenty-four of such law shall be deemed in compliance with this section.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

NEW AUDIT OVERSIGHT REQUIREMENTS

By Kelly E. Marks, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Prior to the adoption of the New York Non-Profit Revitalization Act of 2013 ("Revitalization Act"), many practitioners used lessons learned from Sarbanes-Oxley ("SOX") to advise their clients regarding the formation of not-for-profit corporation board committees — in particular audit committees because the New York Not-for-Profit Corporation Law provided no guidance on audit oversight or audit committees. As of July 1, 2014, the effective date of the Revitalization Act's amendments, the New York Not-for-Profit Corporation Law now expressly addresses audit and financial process oversight and audit committees for certain not-for-profits. Practitioners ought carefully review these new requirements and ought advise those not-for profit corporation's covered by the statute of these new requirements. In addition, practitioners may wish to use these new requirements to guide other not-for-profits as to best practices.

ANALYSIS

The Revitalization Act amendments require New York not-for-profit corporations that file independent certified public accountant audit reports with the Attorney General's office to perform certain audit oversight functions through an audit committee or the board. Like SOX, Section 712-a of the New York Not-for-Profit Corporation Law requires an audit committee to be comprised solely of independent directors, which is a new defined term added by the Revitalization Act (see N-PCL § 102(a)(21)). The audit and financial process oversight required under the Revitalization Act is comparable to the requirements independent public accountants would require of the corporation, the board and an audit committee.

In particular, the board, or the board's audit committee, in either case comprised solely of independent directors, of a New York not-for-profit corporation registered in New York to make charitable solicitations and filing independent certified public accountant's audit reports with the Attorney General's office if the corporation has gross revenues of more than $750,000 (from July 1, 2017 through June 30, 2021 and $1 million thereafter) have the responsibility to:

- "oversee the accounting and financial reporting process of the corporation and audit of the corporation's financial statements."
- "annually retain or renew the retention of the independent auditor to conduct the audit, review the results of the audit and any management letter with the independent auditor."

In addition, the board or designated audit committee of a not-for-profit corporation subject to the charitable solicitation registration and Attorney General reporting requirements that "in the prior fiscal year had or in the current fiscal year reasonably expects to have annual revenues in excess of one million dollars," have heighted oversight responsibilities. These responsibilities include:

- before the audit begins, review the scope and planning of the audit with the independent auditor.
- conduct a review and discussion with the independent auditor of "material risks and weaknesses in internal controls identified by the auditor," "any restrictions on the scope of the auditor's activities or access to requested information," "any significant disagreements between the auditor and management," and "the adequacy of the corporation's accounting and financial reporting processes.

• "annually consider the performance and independence of the auditor."

• the audit committee must make a report of its activities to the board.

The Revitalization Act permits the board or audit committee of a parent organization that controls multiple not-for-profit corporations subject to the new audit oversight requirements to perform the audit oversight duties on behalf of its subsidiary organizations.

For those organizations not subject to the Revitalization Act's audit oversight rules, i.e. because they are not required to file independent certified public accountant audit reports with the Attorney General's office, practitioners may want to counsel clients to follow the audit oversight rules because they represent best practices.

Matthew Bender's New York Business Entities: 6-7 White, New York Business Entities ¶ N712–a.01 et seq.

§ 713. Officers

(a) The board may elect or appoint a chair or president, or both, one or more vice-presidents, a secretary and a treasurer, and such other officers as it may determine, or as may be provided in the by-laws. These officers may be designated by such alternate titles as may be provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws. Any two or more offices may be held by the same person, except the offices of president and secretary, or the offices corresponding thereto.

(b) The certificate of incorporation or a by-law adopted by the members may provide that all officers or that specified officers shall be elected by the members instead of by the board, or it may authorize the president to appoint the other officers, or some of them, subject to approval by the board.

(c) Each officer shall hold office for the term for which he is elected or appointed, and until his successor has been elected or appointed and qualified. Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, all officers shall be elected or appointed annually.

(d) The certificate of incorporation or the by-laws may provide that any one or more officers shall be ex-officio members of the board, with voting rights unless specified otherwise.

(e) All officers as between themselves and the corporation shall have such authority and perform such duties in the management of the corporation as may be provided in the by-laws or, to the extent not so provided, by the board. The board may require any officer to give security for the faithful performance of his duties.

(f) No employee of the corporation shall serve as chair of the board or hold any other title with similar responsibilities, unless the board approves such employee serving as chair of the board by a two-thirds vote of the entire board and contemporaneously documents in writing the basis for the board approval; provided, however, that no such employee shall be considered an independent director for the purposes of this chapter.

(a) Any officer elected or appointed by the board may be removed by the board with or without cause. An officer elected by the members or a class of members may be removed, with or without cause, only by the vote of the members or such class of members, but his authority to act as an officer may be suspended by the board for cause.

(b) The removal of an officer without cause shall be without prejudice to his contract rights, if any. The election or appointment of an officer shall not of itself create contract rights.

(c) An action to procure a judgment removing an officer for cause may be brought by the attorney-general, by any director, by ten percent of the members, whether or not entitled to vote, or by the holders of ten percent of the face value of the outstanding capital certificates, subvention certificates or bonds having voting rights. The court may bar from re-election or reappointment any officer so removed for a period fixed by the court.

Changes: Reworded and revised; new provisions.

Comment: This section, derived from Bus Corp L § 716, retains, with additions, the substance of existing statutory and case law. Paragraph (c) includes new provisions extending the right to institute an action to remove a director for cause to any director, the holders of ten per cent of the face value of outstanding securities with voting rights, and to ten per cent of the members whether or not entitled to vote in order to insure that these interested persons will have standing to protect the corporation.

§ 715. Related party transactions

(a) No corporation shall enter into any related party transaction unless the transaction is determined by the board, or an authorized committee thereof, to be fair, reasonable and in the corporation's best interest at the time of such determination. Any director, officer or key person who has an interest in a related party transaction shall disclose in good faith to the board, or an authorized committee thereof, the material facts concerning such interest.

(b) With respect to any related party transaction involving a charitable corporation and in which a related party has a substantial financial interest, the board of such corporation, or an authorized committee thereof, shall:

(1) Prior to entering into the transaction, consider alternative transactions to the extent available;

(2) Approve the transaction by not less than a majority vote of the directors or committee members present at the meeting; and

(3) Contemporaneously document in writing the basis for the board or authorized committee's approval, including its consideration of any alternative transactions.

(c) The certificate of incorporation, by-laws or any policy adopted by the board may contain additional restrictions on related party transactions and additional procedures necessary for the review and approval of such transactions, or provide that any transaction in violation of such restrictions shall be void or voidable.

(d) Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws, the board shall have authority to fix the compensation of directors for services in any capacity.

(e) The fixing of compensation of officers, if not done in or pursuant to the by-laws, shall require the affirmative vote of a majority of the entire board unless a higher proportion is set by the certificate of incorporation or by-laws.

(f) The attorney general may bring an action to enjoin, void or rescind any related party transaction or proposed related party transaction that violates any provision of this chapter or was otherwise not reasonable or in the best interests of the corporation at the time the transaction was approved, or to seek restitution, and the removal of directors or officers, or seek to require any person or entity to:

(1) Account for any profits made from such transaction, and pay them to the corporation;

(2) Pay the corporation the value of the use of any of its property or other assets used in such transaction;

(3) Return or replace any property or other assets lost to the corporation as a result of such transaction, together with any income or appreciation lost to the corporation by reason of such transaction, or account for any proceeds of sale of such property, and pay the proceeds to the corporation together with interest at the legal rate; and

(4) Pay, in the case of willful and intentional conduct, an amount up to double the amount of any benefit improperly obtained.

(g) The powers of the attorney general provided in this section are in addition to all other powers the attorney general may have under this chapter or any other law.

(h) No related party may participate in deliberations or voting relating to a related party transaction in which he or she has an interest; provided that nothing in this section shall prohibit the board or authorized committee from requesting that a related party present information as background or answer questions concerning a related party transaction at a board or committee meeting prior to the commencement of deliberations or voting relating thereto.

(i) In an action by any person or entity other than the attorney general, it shall be a defense to a claim of violation of any provisions of this section that a transaction was fair, reasonable and in the corporation's best interest at the time the corporation approved the transaction.

(j) In an action by the attorney general with respect to a related party transaction not approved in accordance with paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section at the time it was entered into, whichever is applicable, it shall be a defense to a claim of violation of any provisions of this section that (1) the transaction was fair, reasonable and in the corporation's best interest at the time the corporation approved the transaction and (2) prior to receipt of any request for information by the attorney general regarding the transaction, the board has: (A) ratified the transaction by finding in good faith that it was fair, reasonable and in the corporation's best interest at the time the corporation approved the transaction; and, with respect to any related party transaction involving a charitable corporation and in which a related party has a substantial financial interest, considered alternative transactions to the extent available, approving the transaction by not less than a majority vote of the directors or committee members present at the meeting; (B) documented in writing the nature of the violation and the basis for the board's or committee's ratification of the transaction; and (C) put into place procedures to ensure that the corporation complies with paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section as to related party transactions in the future.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Mem Corp Law § 47.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 47.

Changes: Revised; new provisions.

Comment: This section eliminates the provisions of Mem Corp L § 47 permitting contracts with interested directors and officers if authorized in the bylaws or by the concurring vote of two-thirds of the directors. It follows generally Bus Corp L § 713, extended to apply to officers as well as to directors. As with the Bus Corp L, the function of this section is not to provide a basis for validating for all purposes a contract or other transaction between an interested director or officer and his corporation, but simply to establish that such contract or transaction is not automatically void or voidable by reason alone of the director's or officer's interest. However, the Bus Corp L provided three independent criteria to be applied in this respect: disclosure to shareholders (members), disclosure to directors, or fairness of the transaction to the corporation. This section requires fairness in all cases, and then provides for disclosure in the alternative to members or to directors. Paragraph (c) follows the Bus Corp L with respect to compensation to directors. Paragraph (d) is new; it is designed to impede syphoning of corporate funds to officers.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 555, § 7, substituted "compensation" for "salaries" in (e); redesignated the former second version of (f) as (g); redesignated former (g) as (h); and in (h), substituted "a related party transaction in which he or she has an interest" for "matters set forth in this section" and added "as background or answer questions."

The 2016 amendment by ch 466, § 7, in (a), added "or an authorized committee thereof" in the first sentence and substituted "key person" for "key employee" in the second sentence; and added (i) and (j).

Analysis

1. Generally
2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 47

1. Generally

Attorney general could not challenge the compensation of the former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange as not being approved in accordance with N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 715(f) as § 715 provided that only the non-profit corporation had the power to avoid contracts or transactions between the corporation and its officers or directors. People v Grasso, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

Dismissal of petitioner's action seeking rescission of management fees for a non-profit was reversed because that cause of action was dependent upon resolution of issues of fact related to whether respondents engaged in improper related party transactions or otherwise transferred the senior living facility's surplus to benefit the non-profit and its other affiliates. Matter of The People of The State of New York v The Lutheran Care Network, Inc., 167 A.D.3d 1281, 92 N.Y.S.3d 154, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8666 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

Trial court denied the stock exchange chairman's motion to dismiss, as the Attorney General had the statutory responsibility to protect investors, had the authority to pursue the stock exchange chairman under the doctrine of parens patriae because they could not protect themselves from the allegedly unreasonable compensation that the New York Stock Exchange, a type A not-for-profit corporation, allowed him to receive, and the Attorney General stated four viable claims against him: for imposition of a constructive trust and for restitution for ultra vires payments allegedly received, for payment had and received, for violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 715 for benefits he received that were improperly approved, and for violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law for his allegedly receiving improper loans. People v Grasso, 816 N.Y.S.2d 863, 12 Misc. 3d 384, 235 N.Y.L.J. 54, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 484 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006), rev'd, 42 A.D.3d 126, 836 N.Y.S.2d 40, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 47

Where the plaintiff was a director and an officer of the defendant membership corporation, she should be denied a recovery on a lease under this section, for the by-laws of the defendant do not authorize the making of a contract with any officer or director, and it is not claimed that any such authority was given by resolution of the board which was concurred in by two-thirds of the directors. Knapp v Rochester Dog Protective Ass'n, 235 A.D. 436, 257 N.Y.S. 356, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7981 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

Directors of a membership corporation organized chiefly for charitable purposes were directed to file inventory, account and statement of transactions during 12 months next preceding the granting of the order, where it appeared that the members of the corporation, under the guise of voting compensation to themselves for past services, sought to divide the assets among themselves. Distribution of the assets of a membership corporation whose purposes were charitable among the membership, even on dissolution, would be improper. It was also immaterial that the petitioner, a member of the corporation, might be estopped to object to the resolution for payment of compensation since the supreme court, may act on its own motion. In re Green, 10 Misc. 2d 557, 177 N.Y.S.2d 933, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2680 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

1. Generally

Unpublished decision: Other than a notation of "loan" on some deposit slips and checks issued by appellant director to a nonprofit corporate debtor, lack of documentation as to the terms of a loan, and lack of evidence the debtor intended to accept a loan, supported bankruptcy court's finding that the advances were donations, not loans; it was unreasonable to interpret an injunction preventing other directors from interfering with administration of the corporation's children's camp as authorizing the director to both make the loan to the corporation and accept the loan on its behalf because N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 715(a), (b), prohibited such self-dealing, unless, at a minimum, the board was informed of the material facts of the transaction and there was no evidence the old board or a properly constituted new board was so informed as to the purported loans or that any board authorized the loans at any time. § 715-a. Conflict of interest policy

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, the board shall adopt, and oversee the implementation of, and compliance with, a conflict of interest policy to ensure that its directors, officers and key persons act in the corporation's best interest and comply with applicable legal requirements, including but not limited to the requirements set forth in section seven hundred fifteen of this article.

(b) The conflict of interest policy shall include, at a minimum, the following provisions:

(1) a definition of the circumstances that constitute a conflict of interest;

(2) procedures for disclosing a conflict of interest or possible conflict of interest to the board or to a committee of the board, and procedures for the board or committee to determine whether a conflict exists;

(3) a requirement that the person with the conflict of interest not be present at or participate in board or committee deliberation or vote on the matter giving rise to such conflict, provided that nothing in this section shall prohibit the board or a committee from requesting that the person with the conflict of interest present information as background or answer questions at a committee or board meeting prior to the commencement of deliberations or voting relating thereto;

(4) a prohibition against any attempt by the person with the conflict to influence improperly the deliberation or voting on the matter giving rise to such conflict;

(5) a requirement that the existence and resolution of the conflict be documented in the corporation's records, including in the minutes of any meeting at which the conflict was discussed or voted upon; and

(6) procedures for disclosing, addressing, and documenting related party transactions in accordance with section seven hundred fifteen of this article.

(c) The conflict of interest policy shall require that prior to the initial election of any director, and annually thereafter, such director shall complete, sign and submit to the secretary of the corporation or a designated compliance officer a written statement identifying, to the best of the director's knowledge, any entity of which such director is an officer, director, trustee, member, owner (either as a sole proprietor or a partner), or employee and with which the corporation has a relationship, and any transaction in which the corporation is a participant and in which the director might have a conflicting interest. The policy shall require that each director annually resubmit such written statement. The secretary of the corporation or the designated compliance officer shall provide a copy of all completed statements to the chair of the audit committee or, if there is no audit committee, to the chair of the board.

(d) A corporation that has adopted and possesses a conflict of interest policy pursuant to federal, state or local laws that is substantially consistent with the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section shall be deemed in compliance with provisions of this section. In addition, any corporation that is a state authority or a local authority as defined in section two of the public authorities law, and that has complied substantially with section twenty-eight hundred twenty-four and subdivision three of section twenty-eight hundred twenty-five of such law, shall be deemed in compliance with this section.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to require a corporation to adopt any specific conflict of interest policy not otherwise required by this section or any other law or rule, or to supersede or limit any requirement or duty governing conflicts of interest required by any other law or rule.

§ 715-b. Whistleblower policy

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, the board of every corporation that has twenty or more employees and in the prior fiscal year had annual revenue in excess of one million dollars shall adopt, and oversee the implementation of, and compliance with, a whistleblower policy to protect from retaliation persons who report suspected improper conduct. Such policy shall provide that no director, officer, key person, employee or volunteer of a corporation who in good faith reports any action or suspected action taken by or within the corporation that is illegal, fraudulent or in violation of any adopted policy of the corporation shall suffer intimidation, harassment, discrimination or other retaliation or, in the case of employees, adverse employment consequence.

(b) The whistleblower policy shall include the following provisions:

(1) Procedures for the reporting of violations or suspected violations of laws or corporate policies, including procedures for preserving the confidentiality of reported information;

(2) A requirement that an employee, officer or director of the corporation be designated to administer the whistleblower policy and to report to the board or an authorized committee thereof, except that directors who are employees may not participate in any board or committee deliberations or voting relating to administration of the whistleblower policy;

(3) A requirement that the person who is the subject of a whistleblower complaint not be present at or participate in board or committee deliberations or vote on the matter relating to such complaint, provided that nothing in this subparagraph shall prohibit the board or committee from requesting that the person who is subject to the complaint present information as background or answer questions at a committee or board meeting prior to the commencement of deliberations or voting relating thereto; and

(4) A requirement that a copy of the policy be distributed to all directors, officers, key persons, employees and to volunteers who provide substantial services to the corporation. For purposes of this subdivision, posting the policy on the corporation's website or at the corporation's offices in a conspicuous location accessible to employees and volunteers are among the methods a corporation may use to satisfy the distribution requirement.

(c) A corporation that has adopted and possesses a whistleblower policy pursuant to federal, state or local laws that is substantially consistent with the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section shall be deemed in compliance with provisions of this section. In addition, any corporation that is a state authority or local authority as defined in section two of the public authorities law, and that has complied substantially with section twenty-eight hundred twenty-four of such law and is subject to the provisions of section twenty-eight hundred fifty-seven of such law, shall be deemed in compliance with the provisions of this section.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to relieve any corporation from any additional requirements in relation to internal compliance, retaliation, or document retention required by any other law or rule.

The 2019 amendment by ch 445, § 1, added "key person" in the second sentence of (a); and added "key persons" in the first sentence of (b)(4).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Trial court erred by dismissing an employee's claim because this section creates an implied private right of action for employees who are retaliated against or subject to adverse employment consequences as a result of whistleblowing activities. Dismissal on the grounds that the employer had fewer than 20 employees was improper because the submissions did not conclusively establish the number of employees or that the single employer doctrine or the joint employer doctrine did not apply. § 716. Loans to directors, officers and key persons

No loans, other than through the purchase of bonds, debentures, or similar obligations of the type customarily sold in public offerings, or through ordinary deposit of funds in a bank, shall be made by a corporation to its directors, officers or key persons, or to any other corporation, firm, association or other entity in which one or more of its directors, officers or key persons are directors, officers or key persons or hold a substantial financial interest, except a loan by one charitable corporation to another charitable corporation. Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 47.

Changes: Completely revised.

Comment: This section is derived in part from Model Nonprofit Corporation Act § 27 and in part from Bus Corp L § 714. The prohibition applies both to directors and officers. The Mem Corp L did not expressly refer to loans, and it is not clear whether a loan would be properly included in the expression "salary, compensation or emolument" or in the expression "contract relating to the operations conducted by the corporation" or "contract for furnishing supplies." To the extent that the Mem Corp L did not prohibit loans to officers and directors, the existing law is changed.

Editor's Notes Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes The 2019 amendment by ch 445, § 2, added "and key persons" in the section heading; added "or key persons" three times in the first sentence; and made related changes.

1. Generally

While the attorney general had the authority to pursue a claim that alleged that certain advance payments from a supplemental retirement plan for the former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange constituted an improper loan under N.Y. § 717. Duty of directors, officers and key persons

(a) Directors, officers and key persons shall discharge the duties of their respective positions in good faith and with the care an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise under similar circumstances. The factors set forth in subparagraph one of paragraph (e) of section 552 (Standard of conduct in managing and investing an institutional fund), if relevant, must be considered by a governing board delegating investment management of institutional funds pursuant to section 514 (Delegation of investment management) For purposes of this paragraph, the term institutional fund is defined in section 551 (Definitions).

(b) In discharging their duties, directors, officers and key persons, when acting in good faith, may rely on information, opinions, reports or statements including financial statements and other financial data, in each case prepared or presented by: (1) one or more officers or employees of the corporation, whom the director believes to be reliable and competent in the matters presented, (2) counsel, public accountants or other persons as to matters which the directors, officers or key persons believe to be within such person's professional or expert competence or (3) a committee of the board upon which they do not serve, duly designated in accordance with a provision of the certificate of incorporation or the bylaws, as to matters within its designated authority, which committee the directors, officers or key persons believe to merit confidence, so long as in so relying they shall be acting in good faith and with that degree of care specified in paragraph (a) of this section. Persons shall not be considered to be acting in good faith if they have knowledge concerning the matter in question that would cause such reliance to be unwarranted. Persons who so perform their duties shall have no liability by reason of being or having been directors, officers or key persons of the corporation.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: This section is the same as Bus Corp L § 717, revised only in that the single paragraph of Bus Corp L § 717 has been divided into paragraph (a), stating the standard of care, and paragraph (b), creating a presumption that a director or officer performs his duties as defined if his decisions are made in good faith reliance on reports of properly designated corporate officers and accountants. As the comments to Bus Corp L § 717 make clear, the standard of care may vary according to the kind of corporation involved, and the particular circumstances in which the director is called upon to act. Accordingly, the standard as set forth in paragraph (a) is considered flexible enough to meet the many differing circumstances of the various types of nonprofit corporations.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1978, ch 690, § 11, provides as follows:

§ 11. This act may be cited as the "New York management of institutional.funds act".

Amendment Notes The 2019 amendment by ch 445, § 3, added "and key persons" in the section heading; added "and key persons" in the first sentence of (a) and in the introductory language of (b); added "or key persons" three times in (b); and made related changes.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

NOT ALL GIFTS ARE CREATED EQUAL — SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR ENDOWMENT FUNDS, NEW YORK'S PRUDENT MANAGEMENT OF INSTITUTIONAL FUNDS ACT

By Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

A donor may designate a gift as an "endowment fund," a label that is more important than it may appear at first glance. Essentially, an endowment is a gift that establishes a permanent source of income to a not-for-profit corporation for a designated purpose. It should be determined immediately upon receipt if a gift is (or could be) an endowment fund. If so, the funds should be administered and accounted for appropriately.

Prior to September 17, 2010, a not-for-profit corporation could not spend the principal, "historic dollar value", of endowment funds. The entity could only spend the "net appreciation" on principal. After adoption of the New York Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act ("NYPMIFA"), not-for-profit corporations now have greater flexibility in using these funds and in obtaining relief from restrictions imposed on use of these funds. The new law ought be carefully reviewed in determining how to expend endowment funds created both before and after adoption of the NYPMIFA.

Determine whether fund in question is in fact endowment fund.

The analysis begins with a look at the gift instrument itself. This instrument can be any written document in which the gift is made and defined (for example, will, trust, court order). See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 551. If the gift instrument expressly establishes an "endowment" or "permanent" fund that is "not wholly expendable by institution on a current basis" it is an endowment fund. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 551(b).

Expenditures from endowment funds under new NFPMIFA.

Prior to adoption of the NFPMIFA, a not-for–profit corporation was only permitted to spend the net income of a fund and net appreciation on a fund. The funds' "historic dollar value" or principal needed to be preserved. The NFPMIFA removes the prohibition on appropriations below the historical dollar value. However, donors who are "available" with respect to funds established before September 17, 2010 may elect to retain the old historical value limit by responding to a notice from the institution. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law §553(e).

New § 553(a) of the Not-For-Profit Law provides that "In making a determination to appropriate or accumulate, the institution shall act in good faith, with the care that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would exercise under similar circumstances, and shall consider, if relevant, the following factors:

(1) the duration and preservation of the endowment fund;

(2) the purpose of the institution and the endowment fund;

(3) general economic conditions;

(4) the possible effect of inflation or deflation;

(5) the expected total return from income and the appreciation of investments;

(6) other resources of the institution;

(7) where appropriate and circumstances would otherwise warrant, alternatives to expenditure of the endowment fund, giving due consideration to the effect that such alternatives may have on the institution; and

(8) the investment policy of the institution."

A donor may specifically limit the application of these new spending rules in the gift instrument. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 555. However, generally these new rules will provide not-for-profit boards with greater access to endowment fund monies to support their purposes.

Notification to Donors of Endowment Funds in Existence Prior to September 17, 2010.

Under the new NFPMIFA, all "available" donors of endowment gifts made pursuant to instruments executed before September 17, 2010 must be provided with notice prior to the first time an institution applies the new rules set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 553(a). A donor is "available" if the donor can be found with reasonable efforts and is living or is conducting activities (if an entity). Specific language must be included in such notice and during a 90 day period thereafter the donor may make an election to prohibit the application of new Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 553(a) to the gift.

Lifting restrictions under the new NFPMIFA.

Under the new NYPMIFA, the NFP corporation also has more options to have restrictions lifted regarding use of funds. New Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 555 provides that the restrictions on management, investment or purpose can be released or modified (i) by donor consent, (ii) by a court, upon application of an institution, if the restriction has become impracticable or wasteful, if it impairs the management or investment of the fund or if, because of circumstances not anticipated by the donor, a modification of the restriction will further the purposes of the fund, and (iii) if a particular purpose or restriction becomes unlawful, impracticable, impossible, or wasteful. In addition, under the new NYPMIFA an institution may modify or release restrictions on small ($100,000 or less) and old (over 20 years) funds upon appropriate prior notice to the Attorney General, provided the use is in a manner consistent with the purposes expressed in the gift instruction. Under the old law release of restrictions could only be obtained with donor consent, by court order after the donor's death (or if the donor could not be located).

Board of not-for-profit residential cooperative corporation owes its duty of loyalty to cooperative—that is, it must act for benefit of residents collectively and, so long as board acts for purposes of cooperative, within scope of its authority and in good faith, courts will not substitute their judgment for board's; unless resident who is challenging board's action is able to demonstrate breach of duty, judicial review is unavailable. Levandusky v One Fifth Ave. Apartment Corp., 75 N.Y.2d 530, 554 N.Y.S.2d 807, 553 N.E.2d 1317, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 753 (N.Y. 1990).

Proprietary lessee failed to show that board of not-for-profit residential cooperative corporation acted improperly in issuing "stop-work" order in response to renovation work in which lessee relocated certain heating pipes, and thus his Article 78 petition to have order set aside was properly dismissed, even though lessee claimed that he had relied on board's initial approval of his plans and that, in any case, no harm was done to building, where lessee failed to comply with provisions either of alteration agreement or of renovation guidelines which required explicit written notice to board of any proposed changes in building's heating system, board promptly consulted its engineer when it learned of lessee's intent, and board notified lessee that it would not depart from its policy of refusing to permit movement of pipes. Levandusky v One Fifth Ave. Apartment Corp., 75 N.Y.2d 530, 554 N.Y.S.2d 807, 553 N.E.2d 1317, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 753 (N.Y. 1990).

CLS N-PCL § 717 did not prohibit church from expending sums necessary to renovate existing landmark building, and thus did not require granting of "hardship exception" under Landmarks Law (NYC Admin Code §§ 207-4.0 and 207-8.0, redesignated NYC Admin Code § 25-309) that would permit replacement of existing building with commercial office tower, since § 717 does no more than impose on church fiduciary duty of care to manage congregation's money in prudent and responsible fashion, and would be implicated only if expenditures in question unacceptably impaired church's financial condition. Rector, Wardens, & Members of Vestry of St. Bartholomew's Church v New York, 914 F.2d 348, 1990 U.S. App. LEXIS 16005 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1990), cert. denied, 499 U.S. 905, 111 S. Ct. 1103, 113 L. Ed. 2d 214, 1991 U.S. LEXIS 1447 (U.S. 1991).

2. Fiduciary duty

Yacht club member failed to sufficiently plead a breach of fiduciary duty claim against the club's board of directors because the complaint did not allege that the board failed to act in good faith on behalf of the club or its members' collective interests, but merely alleged that the board failed to act in the individual member's personal best interest. Nachbar v Cornwall Yacht Club, 160 A.D.3d 972, 75 N.Y.S.3d 494, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2744 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

Court awarded attorney general damages on the breach of fiduciary duty/waste claim against the foundation's officer/director in the amount of $2,000,000 because although the $2,823,000 raised at a fundraiser was used for the officer's political campaign and disbursed by his campaign staff, rather than by the foundation, in violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 717 and 720 and N.Y. Est. Powers & Trusts Law §§ 8-1.4 and 8-1.8, the funds ultimately reached their intended destinations. People v Trump, 66 Misc. 3d 200, 112 N.Y.S.3d 467, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5936 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019).

District court had ample evidence indicating that the sole beneficiary of a choreographer breached his fiduciary duty to a dance school and a dance center. There was evidence that the beneficiary ignored questions that surfaced from several sources about his ownership of the choreographer's dances, sets, and costumes, and made assertions regarding ownership of these items to the center's board of directors and to third parties; moreover, the court had ample evidence that the beneficiary sought to register as unpublished works in his own name works that he knew to be published and to belong to the center. Martha Graham Sch. & Dance Found., Inc. v Martha Graham Ctr. of Contemporary Dance, Inc., 380 F.3d 624, 2004 U.S. App. LEXIS 17452 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2004), amended, reprinted, 2004 U.S. App. LEXIS 20904 (2d Cir. N.Y. Aug. 18, 2004), cert. denied, 544 U.S. 1060, 125 S. Ct. 2518, 161 L. Ed. 2d 1110, 2005 U.S. LEXIS 4372 (U.S. 2005).

Because of the special relationship between the N.R.A. and The American Rifleman the fiduciary obligations of the association's directors and officers, as imposed by N.P.C.L. § 717, applied with equal vigor to the operation of The American Rifleman to the effect that the Board could not refuse to publish advertisements of candidates for an N.R.A. directorships in order that they might retain control of the association for themselves; refusal of the Board to furnish a membership list to candidates and to publish a request for monetary support for a candidate raised the issue of directors' bad faith. Fitzgerald v National Rifle Asso., 383 F. Supp. 162, 1974 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6646 (D.N.J. 1974).

3. Business judgment rule

Business judgment rule prohibits judicial inquiry into actions of corporate directors taken in good faith and in exercise of honest judgment in lawful and legitimate furtherance of corporate purposes; so long as directors have not breached their fiduciary obligation to corporation, exercise of their powers for common and general interests of corporation may not be questioned, even if results show that what they did was unwise or inexpedient. Levandusky v One Fifth Ave. Apartment Corp., 75 N.Y.2d 530, 554 N.Y.S.2d 807, 553 N.E.2d 1317, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 753 (N.Y. 1990).

Action by board of directors of corporation that comes within business judgment rule cannot be characterized as arbitrary and capricious, or abuse of discretion, for purpose of Article 78 proceeding. Levandusky v One Fifth Ave. Apartment Corp., 75 N.Y.2d 530, 554 N.Y.S.2d 807, 553 N.E.2d 1317, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 753 (N.Y. 1990).

Nonstatutory claims for, inter alia, constructive trust against the former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) regarding his compensation could not be pursued by the attorney general as those claims required a lower burden of proof as knowledge or good faith did not have to be shown as in the statutory claims pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720(a)(b); directors and officers of a non-profit corporation, such as the NYSE, were provided with the protection of the business judgment rule under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 717. People v Grasso, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

Director and the officers were entitled to summary judgment in an N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720(a)(1) proceeding because they established, inter alia, that payments made by the director and the officers to a law firm to dissolve the corporation were either authorized or made in good faith and the attorney general failed to raise a triable fact issue in opposition; because officers of a not-for-profit corporation are protected by the business judgment rule, N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 717, liability pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720(a)(1) required a showing that the officer or director lacked good faith in executing his or her duties. The absence of a majority vote of all members to dissolve the corporation, did not demonstrate a lack of good faith because, pursuant to N-PCL 1102(a)(2), ten percent of the total number of members may commence a proceeding for judicial dissolution of a corporation under certain circumstances, and thus a minority interest had the power to dissolve a corporation. People v Lawrence, 74 A.D.3d 1705, 903 N.Y.S.2d 618, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4940 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2010).

Corporations which determined eligibility for nomination for annual "Tony" awards concerning excellence in theatre could not be held liable in damages for their refusal to categorize comedian's one-man theatrical comedy show as "play" eligible for award where they complied with their internal, published threshold requirements as to eligibility, within scope of their broad discretionary authority; in absence of any evidence of bad faith or discriminatory enforcement of rules, business judgment rule precluded court from inquiring into wisdom of such corporate action. Mason v American Theatre Wing, 165 Misc. 2d 432, 627 N.Y.S.2d 539, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 241 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

It is improper to dismiss a suit at the motion to dismiss stage on the basis of the business judgment rule if the plaintiff's pleadings allege that directors or officers did not act in good faith. Levy v Young Adult Inst., Inc., 103 F. Supp. 3d 426, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 57216 (S.D.N.Y. 2015).

4. Summary judgment

In action for injunction prohibiting townhouse homeowners' association from enforcing rule restricting parking on private streets of development, association was entitled to summary judgment since (1) bylaws of association gave broad discretion to board of directors to enact reasonable regulations governing use of development property, (2) business judgment rule applied to review of regulations, and (3) there was no evidence that parking restriction was unreasonable or enacted in bad faith. Gillman v Pebble Cove Home Owners Ass'n, 154 A.D.2d 508, 546 N.Y.S.2d 134, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12778 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In action by homeowners' association and individual homeowners against construction company and individuals for breach of contract and warranties regarding quality of workmanship and materials, individual defendants were not entitled to summary judgment where it had been established that they were officers of construction company as well as directors of homeowners' association, and that they failed to disclose and failed to take steps to correct purported misconduct by construction company. Pebble Cove Homeowners' Ass'n v Shoratlantic Dev. Co., 191 A.D.2d 544, 595 N.Y.S.2d 92, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2339 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 802, 604 N.Y.S.2d 559, 624 N.E.2d 697, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3878 (N.Y. 1993).

Because the chairman of a compensation committee might not have effectively communicated a former chief executive officer's compensation to the board of directors, and his recommendations might not have been in the best interest of the New York Stock Exchange, the chairman was not entitled to summary judgment as the chairman did not establish that the chairman fulfilled the chairman's obligations under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 717. People v Grasso, 50 A.D.3d 535, 858 N.Y.S.2d 23, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3592 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 53 A.D.3d 403, 859 N.Y.S.2d 563, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5846 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008), app. dismissed, 53 A.D.3d 404, 859 N.Y.S.2d 564, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5850 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

With respect to a cause of action alleging breach of fiduciary duty by the former CEO of the New York Stock Exchange under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 717(b), the trial court improperly decided a disputed issue of fact as to the compensation committee's and board's knowledge of the extent of the CEO's supplemental executive retirement plan (SERP) benefit. People v Grasso, 54 A.D.3d 180, 861 N.Y.S.2d 627, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5853 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

§ 718. List of directors, officers and key persons

(a) If a member or creditor of a corporation, in person or by his attorney or agent, or a representative of the district attorney or of the secretary of state, the attorney general, or other state official, makes a written demand on a corporation to inspect a current list of its directors, officers and key persons, the corporation shall, within two business days after receipt of the demand and for a period of one week thereafter, make the list available for such inspection at its office during usual business hours.

(b) Upon refusal by the corporation to make a current list of its directors, officers and key persons available, as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, the person making a demand for such list may apply, ex parte, to the supreme court at a special term held within the judicial district where the office of the corporation is located for an order directing the corporation to make such list available. The court may grant such order or take such other action as it may deem just and proper.

Notes to Decisions

1. Generally

Although plaintiff did not cross move for summary judgment, in action seeking to enjoin defendants from paying any salary or other sums to executive director of corporation and to direct complete disclosure of names and addresses of all members and books of account of corporation, the trial court would grant plaintiff's request for complete disclosure where appropriate demand for production was made, there was sufficient showing that inspection was not desired and would not be used for purpose which was in interest of business or object other than business of corporation, and there was no proof that plaintiff had otherwise failed to comply with provisions of Not-for-Profit Corporation Law. § 719. Liability of directors in certain cases

(a) Directors of a corporation who vote for or concur in any of the following corporate actions shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the benefit of its creditors or members or the ultimate beneficiaries of its activities, to the extent of any injury suffered by such persons, respectively, as a result of such action, or, if there be no creditors or members or ultimate beneficiaries so injured, to the corporation, to the extent of any injury suffered by the corporation as a result of such action:

(1) The distribution of the corporation's cash or property to members, directors or officers, other than a distribution permitted under section 515 (Dividends prohibited; certain distributions of cash or property authorized).

(2) The redemption of capital certificates, subvention certificates or bonds, to the extent such redemption is contrary to the provisions of section 502 (Member's capital contributions), section 504 (Subventions), or section 506 (Bonds and security interests).

(3) The payment of a fixed or contingent periodic sum to the holders of subvention certificates or of interest to the holders or beneficiaries of bonds to the extent such payment is contrary to the provisions of section 504 or section 506.

(4) The distribution of assets in violation of section 1002-a (Carrying out the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets) or without paying or adequately providing for all known liabilities of the corporation, excluding any claims not filed by creditors within the time limit set in a notice given to creditors under articles 10 (Non-judicial dissolution) or 11 (Judicial dissolution).

(5) The making of any loan contrary to section 716 (Loans to directors and officers).

(b) A director who is present at a meeting of the board, or any committee thereof, at which action specified in paragraph (a) is taken shall be presumed to have concurred in the action unless his dissent thereto shall be entered in the minutes of the meeting, or unless he shall submit his written dissent to the person acting as the secretary of the meeting before the adjournment thereof, or shall deliver or send by registered mail such dissent to the secretary of the corporation promptly after the adjournment of the meeting. Such right to dissent shall not apply to a director who voted in favor of such action. A director who is absent from a meeting of the board, or any committee thereof, at which such action is taken shall be presumed to have concurred in the action unless he shall deliver or send by registered mail his dissent thereto to the secretary of the corporation or shall cause such dissent to be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the board or committee within a reasonable time after learning of such action.

(c) Any director against whom a claim is successfully asserted under this section shall be entitled to contribution from the other directors who voted for or concurred in the action upon which the claim is asserted.

(d) Directors against whom a claim is successfully asserted under this section shall be entitled, to the extent of the amounts paid by them to the corporation as a result of such claims:

(1) Upon reimbursement to the corporation of any amount of an improper distribution of the corporation's cash or property, to be subrogated to the rights of the corporation against members, directors or officers who received such distribution with knowledge of facts indicating that it was not authorized by this chapter, in proportion to the amounts received by them respectively.

(2) Upon reimbursement to the corporation of an amount representing an improper redemption of a capital certificate, subvention or bond, to have the corporation rescind such improper redemption and recover the amount paid, for their benefit but at their expense, from any member or holder who received such payment with knowledge of facts indicating that such redemption by the corporation was not authorized by this chapter.

(3) Upon reimbursement to the corporation of an amount representing all or part of an improper payment of a fixed or contingent periodic sum to the holder of a subvention certificate, or of interest to the holder or beneficiary of a bond, to have the corporation recover the amount so paid, for their benefit but at their expense, from any holder or beneficiary who received such payment with knowledge of facts indicating that such payment by the corporation was not authorized by this chapter.

(4) Upon payment to the corporation of the claim of the attorney general or of any creditor by reason of a violation of subparagraph (a)(4), to be subrogated to the rights of the corporation against any person who received an improper distribution of assets.

(5) Upon reimbursement to the corporation of the amount of any loan made contrary to section 716 (Loans to directors and officers), to be subrogated to the rights of the corporation against a director or officer who received the improper loan.

(e) A director or officer shall not be liable under this section if, in the circumstances, he discharged his duty to the corporation under section 717 (Duty of directors and officers).

(f) This section shall not affect any liability otherwise imposed by law upon any director or officer.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 46.

Changes: Revised; new provisions.

Comment: The language of this section is derived from Bus Corp L § 719, modified to accord with the substantive provisions in this chapter and to take account of the differences between a business corporation and a not-for-profit corporation. The section is designed to group in one section every instance in which liability is imposed upon directors for violation of substantive requirements prescribed by other sections. The remedy for the enforcement of directors' liability is given exclusively to the corporation for the benefit of creditors or members to the extent of their respective injuries. If there are neither creditors nor members injured by the unlawful director action, the remedy is given to the corporation to the extent of any injury suffered by the corporation, and an action may be brought as provided in § 723. Paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) have the same purpose as in Bus Corp L § 719.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY IS NOT BULLET-PROOF SHIELD

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corporation Law § 720-a confers qualified immunity from suit upon certain directors or officers of not-for-profits. Although it does offer protection for certain individuals, counsel must fully understand the limitations of that protection to represent the not-for-profit corporation and individual directors and officers adequately.

Qualified immunity is limited to directors and officers of entities eligible for tax exemption under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c)(3).

A director or officer sued for personal liability must raise the qualified immunity granted under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a as an affirmative defense in the answer. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). Best practices dictate that an attorney representing a director or officer sued under these circumstances review the complaint to ensure that it has been verified and that it affirmatively states that the director's actions constituted either gross negligence or intentional infliction of harm. See CPLR 3016(h).

Alternatively, the defendant may move to dismiss a complaint against which qualified immunity is a defense. This CPLR 3211(a)(11) motion must be made before the answer is filed. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). A claim will be dismissed if the defendant can show that the factors have been met, that is: (1) defendant can prove that there is no probability of meeting the statutory standard of gross negligence or intent to cause harm to the plaintiff; (2) the defendant can show that his or her service to the not-for-profit was uncompensated; and (3) the not-for-profit is eligible for tax exemption under IRC § 501(c)(3).

If defendant is paid, immunity is not available.

Although the law permits not-for-profits to compensate its directors (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(12)), most directors are volunteers who serve without compensation. If an IRC § 501(c)(3) organization chooses to compensate its directors for more than "actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of such office" (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a), any such director will lose the right to qualified immunity under this provision. This choice also affects the director's right to seek indemnification. This issue arises most frequently in the case of paid officers who also hold a seat on the board of directors and directors involved with a private foundation.

Know what actions qualified immunity will not protect.

Directors who otherwise meet the criteria for qualified immunity are not protected from every cause of action that may be filed by a third party. It is important for the practitioner to know what types of actions expose the director or officer to personal liability. For example, Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a does not immunize directors from federal claims or employment litigation (such as wrongful termination) to the extent the claims are based upon federal law. This section does not apply to actions taken by the Attorney General or actions commenced under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719 (director liability in certain defined transactions) or Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720 (actions brought on behalf of the organization).

In addition, directors may be held personally liable if the not-for-profit corporation does not follow the dissolution procedures set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 1002-a or if the not-for-profit does not adequately provide for known liabilities upon dissolution. In such an event, the directors will be held personally liable only if the creditors file claims within the time period provided for in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law Article 10 (Non-Judicial Dissolution and Article 11 (Judicial Dissolution) Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719.

1. Generally

While the attorney general had the authority to pursue a claim that alleged that certain advance payments from a supplemental retirement plan for the former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange constituted an improper loan under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 716, the claim pleaded disregarded the knowledge element that other statutory claims under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 719(3) and 720(a)(2) had to allege and, thus, had to be dismissed. People v Grasso, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

New York Not-for-Profit-Corporation Law (N-PCL) forbade the New York Attorney General from suing a chief executive officer (CEO) of a non-profit corporation on four non-statutory causes of action, as the N-PCL delineated the specific circumstances under which he could sue officers or directors, and he could not use his parens patriae-based authority to avoid the N-PCL's requirement that he prove fault on the CEO's part. People v Grasso, 42 A.D.3d 126, 836 N.Y.S.2d 40, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007), aff'd, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 46

The office of director confers certain responsibilities of management and control upon such officers, but they are merely representatives of the associates, and their action is subject to fair criticism by any of such associates. People ex rel. Ward v Uptown Ass'n, 26 A.D. 297, 49 N.Y.S. 881, 1898 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 391 (N.Y. App. Div. 1898).

Where, in an action to enforce the liability of a director of a membership corporation, under former § 11 from which this section is derived, the plaintiff for a first cause of action alleges all necessary jurisdictional facts, and states that the defendant was a director at the time the debt was contracted, and for a second cause of action repeats the same facts, but instead of stating that the defendant was a director, alleges that the defendant and his codefendants were held out by the corporation with the permission and consent of the defendants as being the directors of said corporation, and the credit for the indebtedness mentioned and described in a certain paragraph was extended by said plaintiff on the belief and reliance of the fact and the holding out thereof to the public, the second cause of action is insufficient under the statue and does not contain the necessary allegations for an action based upon fraud or misrepresentation, since the allegations of "holding out" are mere conclusions and there are no averments that the representations were false. Edward Davis, Inc. v Albee, 172 A.D. 414, 158 N.Y.S. 623, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Where a membership corporation is organized under this law, the treasurer of a subordinate branch, called a "court," which is not incorporated, but which consists of more than seven persons, is not entitled to sue to recover moneys alleged to be due to the local court, for the title to the money and the right of action is in the corporation itself, there being nothing to show that the subordinate court has any derivative rights. Conboy v Mathews, 174 A.D. 523, 160 N.Y.S. 538, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7665 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Directors of a membership corporation who were active in the promulgation of a prospectus designed to interest investors in purchasing the notes of the corporation, which prospectus contained statements which the directors knew or should have known to be false, are liable for the loss occasioned to investors resulting therefrom. First Nat'l Bank v Level Club, Inc., 241 A.D. 433, 272 N.Y.S. 273, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8272 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

The scope of this section is imprecise, but its basic purpose is clearly to charge directors in circumstances of "fraud or bad faith" with a liability which they would otherwise escape because it was exclusively a corporate liability, but where the same cause of action lies against both the corporation and against its directors personally, the statute would seem needless and should therefore be interpreted as inapplicable. Faulk v Milton, 25 A.D.2d 314, 268 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4463 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1966), aff'd, 20 N.Y.2d 894, 285 N.Y.S.2d 864, 232 N.E.2d 860, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1100 (N.Y. 1967).

A complaint in an action to enforce the liability of a trustee of a club upon a note given by such club is sufficient, although it does not state when the debt for which the note was given was contracted; it must be assumed that the debt was contracted simultaneously with the giving of the note. Straus v Sage, 30 N.Y.S. 905, 10 Misc. 118, 1894 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 902 (N.Y.C.P. 1894).

Directors are jointly and severally liable, and the plaintiff may sue one, any or all. Kugelman v Hirschman, 49 N.Y.S. 1012, 22 Misc. 533, 1898 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 84 (N.Y. City Ct.), aff'd, 53 N.Y.S. 1107, 23 Misc. 773, 1898 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 400 (N.Y. App. Term 1898).

The appointment of a permanent receiver of a dissolved membership corporation neither vests in him the personal right of its creditors to enforce the liability of directors under former § 11 from which this section is derived nor does it enable him to assert or enforce the rights of the corporation under Gen. Fordham v Poor, 179 N.Y.S. 367, 109 Misc. 187, 1919 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 615 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1919).

An officer of a membership corporation may not be held criminally liable for the violation of a penal statute by the corporation. People v Smith, 74 N.Y.S.2d 845, 190 Misc. 871, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3319 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1947).

Directors cannot vote by proxy. Craig Medicine Co. v Merchants' Bank of Rochester, 14 N.Y.S. 16, 59 Hun 561, 1891 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1834 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1891).

§ 720. Actions against directors, officers and key persons

(a) An action may be brought against one or more directors, officers, or key persons of a corporation to procure a judgment for the following relief:

(1) To compel the defendant to account for his official conduct in the following cases:

(A) The neglect of, or failure to perform, or other violation of his duties in the management and disposition of corporate assets committed to his charge.

(B) The acquisition by himself, transfer to others, loss or waste of corporate assets due to any neglect of, or failure to perform, or other violation of his duties.

(2) To set aside an unlawful conveyance, assignment or transfer of corporate assets, where the transferee knew of its unlawfulness.

(3) To enjoin a proposed unlawful conveyance, assignment or transfer of corporate assets, where there are reasonable grounds for belief that it will be made.

(b) An action may be brought for the relief provided in this section and in paragraph (a) of section 719 (Liabilities of directors in certain cases) by the attorney general, by the corporation, or, in the right of the corporation, by any of the following:

(1) A director or officer of the corporation.

(2) A receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or judgment creditor thereof.

(3) Under section 623 (Members' derivative action brought in the right of the corporation to procure a judgment in its favor), by one or more of the members thereof.

(4) If the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws so provide, by any holder of a subvention certificate or any other contributor to the corporation of cash or property of the value of $1,000 or more.

(c) In a corporation having no members, an action may be brought by a director against third parties to obtain a judgment in favor of the corporation. The complaint shall set forth with particularity the efforts of the plaintiff to secure the initiation of such action by the board or the reason for not making such efforts. The court in its discretion shall determine whether it is in the interest of the corporation that the action be maintained, and if the action is successful in whole or in part, what reimbursement if any should be made out of the corporate treasury to the plaintiff for his reasonable expenses including attorney's fees, incurred in the prosecution of the action.

Changes: Combined and reworded; new provisions.

Comment: This section is a substantial re-enactment of Gen Corp L §§ 60 and 61 with certain modifications and additions. Paragraph (a) corresponds to Bus Corp L § 720(a) which re-enacted Gen Corp L § 60 with slight changes in language. Paragraph (b) of Bus Corp L § 720 does not carry over the Gen Corp L § 61 provisions authorizing the attorney-general to bring an action as provided in the section. However, the authority of the attorney-general to bring such actions in connection with a not-for-profit corporation has been expressly retained. In addition to a director or officer of the corporation, and a receiver, trustee in bankrputcy or a judgment creditor of the corporation, one or more members under § 623 (Members' derivative action brought in the name of the corporation to procure a judgment in its favor) and, if the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws so provide, any contributor to the corporation of cash or property of the value of $1,000 or more are given standing to institute an action for the relief provided in § 723 and in § 722(a) (Liability of directors in certain cases). It is believed that these additional persons should be recognized as having legitimate interests in protecting the corporation and its property. The provisions in paragraphs (3) and (4) of Gen Corp L § 60 dealing, respectively, with the suspension from office and the removal from office of a defendant have been omitted from this section as they have been provided for in § 706 (Removal of directors) and § 715 (Removal of officers).

Editor's Notes Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes The 2016 amendment by ch 466, § 12, substituted "key persons" for "key employees" in the section heading; and substituted "key persons" for "key employees" in the introductory language of (a).

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY IS NOT BULLET-PROOF SHIELD

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corporation Law § 720-a confers qualified immunity from suit upon certain directors or officers of not-for-profits. Although it does offer protection for certain individuals, counsel must fully understand the limitations of that protection to represent the not-for-profit corporation and individual directors and officers adequately.

Qualified immunity is limited to directors and officers of entities eligible for tax exemption under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c)(3).

A director or officer sued for personal liability must raise the qualified immunity granted under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a as an affirmative defense in the answer. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). Best practices dictate that an attorney representing a director or officer sued under these circumstances review the complaint to ensure that it has been verified and that it affirmatively states that the director's actions constituted either gross negligence or intentional infliction of harm. See CPLR 3016(h).

Alternatively, the defendant may move to dismiss a complaint against which qualified immunity is a defense. This CPLR 3211(a)(11) motion must be made before the answer is filed. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). A claim will be dismissed if the defendant can show that the factors have been met, that is: (1) defendant can prove that there is no probability of meeting the statutory standard of gross negligence or intent to cause harm to the plaintiff; (2) the defendant can show that his or her service to the not-for-profit was uncompensated; and (3) the not-for-profit is eligible for tax exemption under IRC § 501(c)(3).

If defendant is paid, immunity is not available.

Although the law permits not-for-profits to compensate its directors (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(12)), most directors are volunteers who serve without compensation. If an IRC § 501(c)(3) organization chooses to compensate its directors for more than "actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of such office" (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a), any such director will lose the right to qualified immunity under this provision. This choice also affects the director's right to seek indemnification. This issue arises most frequently in the case of paid officers who also hold a seat on the board of directors and directors involved with a private foundation.

Know what actions qualified immunity will not protect.

Directors who otherwise meet the criteria for qualified immunity are not protected from every cause of action that may be filed by a third party. It is important for the practitioner to know what types of actions expose the director or officer to personal liability. For example, Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a does not immunize directors from federal claims or employment litigation (such as wrongful termination) to the extent the claims are based upon federal law. This section does not apply to actions taken by the Attorney General or actions commenced under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719 (director liability in certain defined transactions) or Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720 (actions brought on behalf of the organization).

In addition, directors may be held personally liable if the not-for-profit corporation does not follow the dissolution procedures set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 1002-a or if the not-for-profit does not adequately provide for known liabilities upon dissolution. In such an event, the directors will be held personally liable only if the creditors file claims within the time period provided for in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law Article 10 (Non-Judicial Dissolution and Article 11 (Judicial Dissolution) Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719.

OPTIONS FOR MEMBERS IN THE MINORITY TO PUT AN END TO WRONGDOING

By Brendan J. Rich, Esq.

INSIGHT

Members in the minority of a not-for-profit corporation ("corporation") who want to stop those in control of the corporation from committing improper activities have various options available to them. A corporation must pursue the purposes for which it was formed as set forth in its certificate of incorporation, must follow those procedures established in its bylaws, and cannot distribute its funds for the private benefit of any director, officer or member. When those in control of a not-for-profit corporation cause it to deviate from any of these principles, those members in the minority may attempt to handle the situation internally, through the court system, or by putting the Attorney General on notice.

Call a special meeting of members to openly discuss the objectionable items.

A special meeting may be called by the members in the minority to bring the corporate malfeasance to the attention of all the members and to attempt to spur change. Members should review the corporation's organizational documents for the procedures pursuant to which such a meeting may be brought. If no such provision exists in the organizational documents or if the number of members needed to call such a meeting is an insurmountable impediment, such a meeting may be convened by ten percent (10%) of the members entitled to vote at such a meeting pursuant to N- PCL § 603(c). Such an action will force those in the majority to openly discuss the objectionable items. If the minority's concerns are not properly addressed after such a meeting, the members may resign from the corporation, bring a derivative action on behalf of the corporation, or even seek the dissolution of the corporation. The special meeting is important as it will memorialize the members' objections in the corporate record and may prove to be critical from a public relations standpoint and in any future litigation.

A derivative action may be commenced to recover funds on behalf of the corporation.

If minority members constitute five percent (5%) or more of the total membership, they can bring a derivative action in the name of the corporation pursuant to N-PCL §§ 623 and 720(b)(3). Such an action can take many forms, such as an action: (i) against an individual director or officer for fraud or breach of fiduciary duties; (ii) to set aside any action that was beyond the corporate "purposes"; or, (iii) to enjoin a proposed improper conveyance of corporate assets. In such an action the importance of the special meeting becomes apparent; pursuant to N-PCL § 623(c) the complaint must set forth, with particularity, the attempt to address the objectionable behavior presented in the complaint.

The practitioner should be aware that while a derivative action, if successful, can result in the recovery of funds for the corporation and the likely resignation or dismissal of the offending actors, it could also subject the corporation's affairs to public scrutiny, result in litigation expenses that may be unrecoverable, and could divert the corporation's funds and attention from its mission.

Minority members may seek dissolution and distribution of funds to an appropriate successor.

The members in the minority, specifically those making up ten percent (10%) of the total membership, can bring an action to dissolve the corporation pursuant to N-PCL § 1102(a)(2) and to distribute the corporation's funds to a similar entity. An action pursuant to N-PCL §1102(a)(2)(D) appears to be the best option available to a smaller number of members, as it deals with controlling members acting in a fraudulent manner and perpetuating the corporation solely for their personal benefit. In the face of the limited case law it appears to be a hard case to make, however, as it has been held that dissolution is a drastic measure and that even if excessive spending can be proven, in the absence of bad faith, dissolution is not appropriate. Application of John Luther & Sons Co., 52 A.D.2d 737, 381 N.Y.S.2d 934 (4th Dept, 1976). A larger obstacle for a petition based on N-PCL § 1102 is that it must be established that such dissolution would be beneficial to the membership as a whole, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(2). In a situation where the majority of the members agree with the inappropriate actions taken by those in the control of the corporation, meeting that threshold could present problems for the minority members. It is important to note that even if the action is successful and the corporation is dissolved and its funds released to another not-for-profit corporation with a similar purpose, the cost of litigation may be great and may deplete a large percentage of the corporation's funds.

Putting the Attorney General on notice of the improper activity.

An informal option available to the minority members would be to notify the Attorney General of the corporation's activities. Pursuant to N-PCL § 1101(a)(2), an action can be brought by the Attorney General to dissolve a corporation that has persistently acted fraudulently and contrary to public policy. In such an action, it must be demonstrated that the corporation exceeded its powers and that this abuse of power has threatened the public welfare. People v. North River Sugar Refining Co., 121 N.Y. 582 (1890). In addition, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(1), in such an action the public interest, rather than the benefit to the corporation's membership, is of supreme importance. There is a great deal of uncertainty involved with this course action, such as (i) the lack of control of the distribution of the corporation's funds following dissolution; and (ii) what the investigation will uncover, as all corporate actions, not just the objectionable ones complained of, are open to investigation. It is important for the practitioner to note that if the corporate actions come under scrutiny by the Attorney General, it is likely that an audit by the Department of Taxation and Finance will follow. Such an investigation could result in the corporation being stripped of its tax-exempt status and could jeopardize the deductibility of any donations made by the members in the minority if it is determined that the members knew that the improper activity was taking place.

Assuming plaintiff to be trustee or officer of not-for-profit corporation, her removal without validly called meeting was nullity, and her right of action against other officers and directors of corporation could not be challenged for lack of standing; thus, court properly denied motion to dismiss her complaint for breach of fiduciary duty and for declaration of her status as officer and director. Chang v Fa-Yun, 265 A.D.2d 265, 697 N.Y.S.2d 31, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10886 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Directors and officers were entitled to summary judgment on a corporation's cause of action pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 623, 720, asserting the improper transfer of real property because the claim was asserted in a prior action which was resolved by a stipulation, and, contrary to the corporation's claim, the identity requirement of res judicata was satisfied; however, although the issue of improper assessment of membership dues was raised in the prior action, any losses occasioned by assessments made after the discontinuance of that action constituted separate injuries for which recovery could not have been obtained in the prior action, and the stipulation did not prevent the corporation from asserting claims that accrued after the stipulation came into effect. Pawling Lake Prop. Owners Assn., Inc. v Greiner, 72 A.D.3d 665, 897 N.Y.S.2d 729, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

Phrase "by one or more of the members," in statute providing that actions against corporate directors and officers for mismanagement, waste of corporate assets and unlawful conduct may be brought by one or more of its members, does not relate back to provisions of general statutory provision requiring that derivative action be instituted by at least five percent of members of corporation, but instead, authorizes bringing of such actions against corporate directors and officers by one or more of members; such construction gives effect to entire statute and gives recognition to apparent legislative intent to differentiate actions against officers and directors for misconduct or misfeasance in office from other derivative actions. Hoffert v Dank, 86 Misc. 2d 384, 382 N.Y.S.2d 421, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2452 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. While pending statutory claims against, inter alia, the former CEO of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) were not completely extinguished by virtue of N.Y. Bus. Corp. Law § 906(b)(3) following the NYSE's merger into a for-profit entity from a non-profit corporation as the NYSE could bring the claims itself, the public policy concerns supporting the state attorney general's authority under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. § 720(b) to bring the claims no longer existed as the public interest was not involved in the NYSE as a private corporation. People v Grasso, 54 A.D.3d 180, 861 N.Y.S.2d 627, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5853 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

2. Actions by attorney general

Nonstatutory claims for, inter alia, constructive trust against the former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) regarding his compensation could not be pursued by the attorney general as those claims required a lower burden of proof as knowledge or good faith did not have to be shown as in the statutory claims pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720(a)(b); directors and officers of a non-profit corporation, such as the NYSE, were provided with the protection of the business judgment rule under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 717. People v Grasso, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

The Attorney-General, purporting to represent the ultimate beneficiaries of a charitable organization, which is the donee of an unconditional gift of corporate stock, does not have standing pursuant to EPTL 8-1.1 (subd [f]), which provides that the Attorney-General shall represent the beneficiaries of dispositions of property for religious, charitable, educational or benevolent purposes and it shall be his duty to enforce the rights of such beneficiaries, to sue the corporation to compel both the declaration and payment of dividends and the payment of market value of those shares repurchased from the donee corporation at less than market value, since although the Attorney-General's powers of representation and enforcement are not limited to express trusts, but encompass those charitable dispositions where property has been donated for a specific purpose, this does not mean that the Attorney-General has standing to represent those who might eventually reap the benefit of gifts made without a specified purpose to charitable organizations; in such cases, the charity implicitly receives the gift for its own uses, consistent with its charitable purposes and there are no beneficiaries, legally cognizable, apart from the donee, and the charity may use the gift as it sees fit, in accordance with the laws of its creation. Where there has been a completed, unconditional, irrevocable gift of stock to a charity, there is neither any intention of the donor for the Attorney-General to protect, nor any beneficiaries to represent. Furthermore, the Not-For-Profit Corporation Law (§ 112, subd [a], par [7]; §§ 719, 720), which authorizes the Attorney-General to bring an action against the directors and officers of a charitable corporation for certain specified types of misconduct and to enforce any right afforded under the statute to members, a director or an officer of a charitable corporation, does not provide the Attorney-General with standing. Lefkowitz v Lebensfeld, 68 A.D.2d 488, 417 N.Y.S.2d 715, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10968 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1979), aff'd, 51 N.Y.2d 442, 434 N.Y.S.2d 929, 415 N.E.2d 919, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2739 (N.Y. 1980).

New York Not-for-Profit-Corporation Law (N-PCL) forbade the New York Attorney General from suing a chief executive officer (CEO) of a non-profit corporation on four non-statutory causes of action, as the N-PCL delineated the specific circumstances under which he could sue officers or directors, and he could not use his parens patriae-based authority to avoid the N-PCL's requirement that he prove fault on the CEO's part. People v Grasso, 42 A.D.3d 126, 836 N.Y.S.2d 40, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007), aff'd, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

Serious constitutional questions under N.Y. Const. art. VII, § 8(1), regarding state subsidization of a nongovernmental entity, would be raised if N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720(b) were construed to permit the continued prosecution of statutory claims by the state attorney general against, inter alia, the former CEO of the New York Stock Exchange after the Exchange was involved in a merger converting it from a non-profit corporation into a for-profit entity. People v Grasso, 54 A.D.3d 180, 861 N.Y.S.2d 627, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5853 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

Term "constituent corporation" under N.Y. Bus. Corp. Law § 901(b)(3) plainly excluded an entity such as a non-profit subsidiary of the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) that was created at the time of or after the merger of the NYSE from a non-profit corporation into a for-profit entity; thus, the state attorney general did not have the authority to pursue claims against the former CEO of the NYSE under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720(b). People v Grasso, 54 A.D.3d 180, 861 N.Y.S.2d 627, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5853 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

When the Attorney General sued a non-profit corporation's executive and board members, under N.Y. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720(a) and (b), for, inter alia, various breaches of fiduciary duty, a six year limitations period applied, under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 213(7), as the action was on behalf of the corporation to recover damages for waste or injury to property. Spitzer v Schussel, 792 N.Y.S.2d 798, 7 Misc. 3d 171, 233 N.Y.L.J. 18, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 83 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

Court awarded attorney general damages on the breach of fiduciary duty/waste claim against the foundation's officer/director in the amount of $2,000,000 because although the $2,823,000 raised at a fundraiser was used for the officer's political campaign and disbursed by his campaign staff, rather than by the foundation, in violation of N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 717 and 720 and N.Y. Est. Powers & Trusts Law §§ 8-1.4 and 8-1.8, the funds ultimately reached their intended destinations. People v Trump, 66 Misc. 3d 200, 112 N.Y.S.3d 467, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5936 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019).

3. Standing

An individual bringing a derivative action against directors or officers of a corporation for misconduct must meet requirement for standing by representing five percent or more of the membership of the corporation. Hoffert v Dank, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

An individual bringing a derivative action on behalf of a corporation with a membership of 20 or less would meet the statutory requirement for standing that he represent five percent or more of the members. Hoffert v Dank, 55 A.D.2d 518, 389 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15153 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Dismissal of a member's causes of action, pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720, to compel the a church's pastor and trustees to account for certain alleged misconduct, and for a judgment declaring that the pastor and the trustees had engaged in certain unlawful conduct, was proper because, inasmuch as the member sought to vindicate the church's rights by asserting those claims, they had to have been, but were not, asserted in the context of a derivative action brought by at least 5 percent of the church's members pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 623(a); further, the complaint failed to set forth the member's efforts to secure the initiation of a derivative action or the reason for not making such effort. Therefore, the member lacked standing to bring the claims. Tae Hwa Yoon v New York Hahn Wolee Church, Inc., 56 A.D.3d 752, 870 N.Y.S.2d 42, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9041 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Because a factual dispute existed as to whether the first director possessed standing to sue under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 623(a), 720, a cross-motion by the second director and a non-profit corporation to dismiss the complaint for lack of standing to sue was properly denied. Brach v Harmony Servs., Inc., 93 A.D.3d 748, 940 N.Y.S.2d 652, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2054 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2012).

4. Pleadings

While the attorney general had the authority to pursue a claim that alleged that certain advance payments from a supplemental retirement plan for the former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange constituted an improper loan under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 716, the claim pleaded disregarded the knowledge element that other statutory claims under N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 719(3) and 720(a)(2) had to allege and, thus, had to be dismissed. People v Grasso, 11 N.Y.3d 64, 862 N.Y.S.2d 828, 893 N.E.2d 105, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 2008).

5. Under former General Corporation Law § 60

Under an agreement whereby the corporate defendant agreed to employ plaintiff as an officer, plaintiff had a right of action for specific performance and damages. He also might have a right of action for fraud, but the court was without power to intervene in the management of the corporation and set aside the action of the board of directors in dismissing plaintiff. Heller v Clark Merchandisers, Inc., 9 Misc. 2d 106, 154 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2316 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Officers of a membership corporation could not be barred from examining its books and records because of their participation in formation of an allegedly competing and hostile organization, and membership therein, as long as they had not been removed from office or resigned their existing positions. Pino v United Democratic Regular Organization, 195 N.Y.S.2d 860 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

This section applies to a foreign corporation and an action under it may be tried in a federal court. Schwarz v Artcraft Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., 110 F.2d 465, 1940 U.S. App. LEXIS 4569 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1940).

6. —Cause of action

This section does not create any new cause of action except as to removal or suspension of directors. Rights and remedies conferred are cumulative but not exlcusive rights. Bailey v Colleen Products Corp., 198 N.Y.S. 418, 120 Misc. 297, 1923 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 790 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1923).

A cause of action pursuant to this action and § 61 may be maintained only by a judgment creditor. Kendall v Oakland Golf Club, 123 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2067 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 282 A.D. 1057, 126 N.Y.S.2d 379, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

7. — —Transfer of assets

The transfer of assets of a debtor corporation, made by an officer subsequent to the date when the plaintiff secured a judgment against the corporation, such transfers whether made to another corporation, without consideration, or to select creditors in preference to others at a time when he knew the corporation to be insolvent, all fall within the prohibition of this section. Beol, Inc. v Dorf, 22 Misc. 2d 798, 193 N.Y.S.2d 394, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2530 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959), aff'd, 12 A.D.2d 459, 209 N.Y.S.2d 267, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7135 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1960).

Where a judgment creditor sued the debtor corporation, its secretary, her mother, and others and proved a conspiracy to fraudulently convey, conceal, and dispose of the assets of the corporation by means of a fraudulent chattel mortgage and foreclosure, bills of sale, disregard of the corporate entity and other acts, the intent to defraud creditors was actual and affirmative, and the plaintiff established causes of action under the fraudulent conveyance statute and Art 6 of this chapter. Lazar v Towne House Restaurant Corp., 142 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2796 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), aff'd, 5 A.D.2d 794, 171 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7167 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1958).

8. — —Waste of assets

Under §§ 60 and 61, a creditor may maintain an action if any misconduct has resulted in waste of any money or property of the corporation even though the money or property comes out of surplus, but general creditors have no right to rely on the assumption that all of the surplus assets of the corporation have in the past been fully conserved. New York Credit Men's Ass'n v Harris, 11 N.Y.S.2d 435, 170 Misc. 988, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1744 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939), aff'd, 262 A.D. 826, 29 N.Y.S.2d 505, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6052 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

9. — —Accounting

The plaintiff is not entitled to an accounting personally but only to an accounting by the defendants to the corporation. Wangrow v Wangrow, 211 A.D. 552, 207 N.Y.S. 132, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9918 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

In New York, an action brought under this section is in equity and in the nature of an action for an accounting, rather than a legal action for damages. Chambers v Blickle Ford Sales, Inc., 313 F.2d 252, 1963 U.S. App. LEXIS 6345 (2d Cir. Conn. 1963).

10. — —Removal of officers

The attorney-general cannot proceed under this section and § 136 to remove vestrymen and church wardens from their office on the ground of violation of their official duties, in view of § 130. Fiske v Beaty, 206 A.D. 349, 201 N.Y.S. 441, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7209 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923), aff'd, 238 N.Y. 598, 144 N.E. 907, 238 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 598, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 778 (N.Y. 1924).

Subd 4 of § 60 deals with the removal by the corporation of its officers. But by the precise words of § 130, § 60 does not apply to religious corporations. Walker Memorial Baptist Church, Inc. v Saunders, 17 N.Y.S.2d 842, 173 Misc. 455, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1463 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 259 A.D. 1010, 21 N.Y.S.2d 512, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7748 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

11. — —Cause of action as bar to voluntary dissolution

Where a corporation and its creditors have an apparent cause of action against the officers and directors of the corporation for maladministration of its affairs, a petition for voluntary dissolution should be denied. In re Great Northern Trading Co., 168 A.D. 536, 153 N.Y.S. 213, 1915 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8232 (N.Y. App. Div. 1915).

12. —Parties; plaintiff

The property of a corporation is a trust fund in the hands of its directors for payment of its debts and an action at law cannot be brought against an officer or director under this section. An action brought pursuant to said section is maintainable only in equity and must be brought in a representative capacity for the benefit of the plaintiff and all other creditors similarly situated. Schwartzreich v Bauman, 183 N.Y.S. 440, 112 Misc. 464, 1920 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1588 (N.Y. App. Term 1920).

A single stockholder may not, under this section, maintain an individual proceeding against officers and directors for misconduct. In re Tama, 137 N.Y.S.2d 248, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2530 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

In an action by a judgment creditor for himself and on behalf of all other creditors of a corporation, since under Debtor and Creditor Law § 278 the action may be maintained only by a creditor in his own right and since under General Corporation Law § 133 the court need not make an order requiring all creditors to prove their claims, the court granted judgment to plaintiff only as an individual and not as a representative of other creditors. Lazar v Towne House Restaurant Corp., 142 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2796 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), aff'd, 5 A.D.2d 794, 171 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7167 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1958).

13. — —Defendant

Liability of directors in an action brought under this section is several, and plaintiff may proceed against one or more of them without joining all. Buckley v United Cloak & Suit Co., 155 A.D. 735, 140 N.Y.S. 953, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5184 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913), aff'd, 214 N.Y. 679, 108 N.E. 1090, 214 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 679, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 1391 (N.Y. 1915).

Where an action is brought against defendant officers, and the complaint states no cause of action against the corporation itself, it states but a single cause of action, although the corporation is properly made party defendant to whom the individual defendants will be directed to account and pay over. Higgins v Applebaum, 183 A.D. 527, 170 N.Y.S. 228, 1918 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5006 (N.Y. App. Div. 1918).

14. —Pleadings; complaint

While subd 1 of this section permits an action to be brought to compel a director or officer to account to plaintiff for official conduct, including negligence or misconduct in management and disposition of funds, a complaint which merely alleges a discrepancy in the corporate books over a two-month period for which, it is asserted, only the president of the corporation can be responsible, fails to state a cause of action. Cirrincione v Polizzi, 14 A.D.2d 281, 220 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8260 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1961).

Dismissal of petitioner's action seeking rescission of management fees for a non-profit was reversed because that cause of action was dependent upon resolution of issues of fact related to whether respondents engaged in improper related party transactions or otherwise transferred the senior living facility's surplus to benefit the non-profit and its other affiliates. Matter of The People of The State of New York v The Lutheran Care Network, Inc., 167 A.D.3d 1281, 92 N.Y.S.3d 154, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8666 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

A complaint in an action by a trustee in bankruptcy, which is brought to compel former officers and directors of the bankrupt to account for funds misappropriated, is insufficient in failing to allege that there were any creditors in existence at the time of the alleged misconduct or that misappropriation was for the purpose of defrauding creditors then existing and for whom the plaintiff is now acting, or in furtherance of a scheme to defraud subsequent creditors. Garrison v Pope, 223 N.Y.S. 737, 130 Misc. 290, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1026 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

Complaint, in action brought under § 60, which alleges merely that the assets of the corporation were misappropriated, but does not allege that these assets constituted the capital stock of the corporation and also does not allege any fraudulent transfer as against subsequent creditors, is insufficient and must be dismissed in absence of an allegation that there were creditors in existence at time of alleged unlawful transaction, who are still creditors. New York Credit Men's Ass'n v Harris, 11 N.Y.S.2d 435, 170 Misc. 988, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1744 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939), aff'd, 262 A.D. 826, 29 N.Y.S.2d 505, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6052 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

15. — —Counterclaim

In an action by a director of a corporation in which it is alleged that the defendant, president, treasurer and manager of the corporation, mismanaged its business and appropriated and wasted its assets, it seems that the defendant is not entitled to counterclaim for moneys loaned and advanced to the corporation. Burgess v Stevens, 266 N.Y.S. 79, 148 Misc. 450, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933).

In an action by a corporation against a former officer and director for an accounting, a money judgment for funds allegedly converted, and other relief, defendant's counterclaim against the corporation and another officer and director would substantially change the litigation to a stockholder's derivative suit, and the counterclaim was therefore dismissed without prejudice to new action because a derivative action is a class suit and in many respects is in a technical class by itself. Orto Theatres Corp. v Newins, 138 N.Y.S.2d 550, 207 Misc. 414, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2641 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

16. — —Defenses

In an action under this section brought on the theory that the directors of the corporation were guilty of negligence and waste in conveying all the assets without other security than exaction from the grantee of a covenant to assume debts and pay them, held, there was no breach of duty since the plaintiff had assented and concurred in the breach of trust or had subsequently acquiesced in it. Darcy v Brooklyn & N. Y. Ferry Co., 196 N.Y. 99, 89 N.E. 461, 196 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 99, 1909 N.Y. LEXIS 803 (N.Y. 1909).

In an action by directors of a corporation to compel defendant directors to restore to said defendant corporation moneys and assets which were allegedly wasted or fraudulently transferred at grossly inadequate prices, it was not a defense that the plaintiffs were estopped because they might have participated in or ratified said wrongs. Williams v Robinson, 9 Misc. 2d 774, 169 N.Y.S.2d 811, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957), aff'd, 5 A.D.2d 823, 170 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6927 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1958).

Ratification is not a defense to acts of directors which are unequivocally prohibited by law. Cowin v Jonas, 43 N.Y.S.2d 468, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2249 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 267 A.D. 947, 48 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5647 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

17 —Service of process

The only valid method of affecting service on a foreign corporation which was the subject of a stockholder's derivative action and had surrendered its authority to do business in the State by a certificate in which it consented that process in any action on a liability incurred before filing of the certificate might be served on the Secretary of State, was by such service on the Secretary of State. The wrongs complained of occurred before the corporation surrendered its authority, and jurisdiction was properly secured. Herold v Wills, 110 N.Y.S.2d 321, 201 Misc. 114, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2412 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1952).

18. —Statute of limitations

In an action for waste where the profits obtained by officers and directors do not exceed the losses to the corporation the legal remedy is adequate and the action is governed by the three year statute of limitations. Corash v Texas Co., 264 A.D. 292, 35 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4134 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

The gravamen of the cause of action, not the prayer for relief, determines the statute of limitations applicable. The fact that the action is in equity and equitable relief is demanded does not make the ten year statute of limitations applicable. Corash v Texas Co., 264 A.D. 292, 35 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4134 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Action by judgment creditors under §§ 60, 61, and 70, because of alleged waste committed by individual defendants, as directors of a corporation against which plaintiffs held an unsatisfied judgment were actions at law and having come into being in favor of judgment creditors perforce the statute, under Civ. Pr. Act, § 48, subd 2, six-year statute of limitations (since reduced to three years) is applicable to them. Luke v Polstein, 268 A.D. 921, 51 N.Y.S.2d 427, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4258 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1944), aff'd, 294 N.Y. 896, 63 N.E.2d 27, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 896, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 1074 (N.Y. 1945).

The three year statute of limitations applies to actions for corporate waste where the individual directors have not profited personally through the transaction. Purdy v Humphrey, 82 N.Y.S.2d 92, 192 Misc. 309, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3805 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947), aff'd, 274 A.D. 841, 82 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3578 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

The six year period of limitations applies to actions for waste of corporate funds where the director has profited by the transaction. Purdy v Humphrey, 82 N.Y.S.2d 92, 192 Misc. 309, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3805 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947), aff'd, 274 A.D. 841, 82 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3578 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

The six year statute of limitations applies to actions against directors and officers of a corporation for an accounting for misfeasance in office. Baker v Cohn, 42 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2396 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942), modified, 266 A.D. 715, 40 N.Y.S.2d 623, 1943 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4025 (N.Y. App. Div. 1943).

Since, under New York law, an action in behalf of the corporation against its directors is an equitable one, in the nature of one to require an accounting, the tort statute of limitations is inapplicable and the longer period of limitations on time to seek an accounting is applicable. Chambers v Blickle Ford Sales, Inc., 313 F.2d 252, 1963 U.S. App. LEXIS 6345 (2d Cir. Conn. 1963).

19. — —Accrual of cause of action

Where an action is brought under this section no cause of action accrues to a creditor with certain exceptions until judgment has been obtained and execution returned unsatisfied. The statute of limitations does not commence to run until the cause of action is accrued to the creditor. Buttles v Smith, 281 N.Y. 226, 22 N.E.2d 350, 281 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 226, 1939 N.Y. LEXIS 1003 (N.Y. 1939).

An action by a creditor to secure an accounting for losses caused by the wrongful acts of the defendant can be maintained, pursuant to this section, only after entry of judgment in return of execution unsatisfied and therefore the statute of limitations does not commence to run until entry of judgment and return of execution unsatisfied. Hastings v H. M. Byllesby & Co., 38 N.Y.S.2d 201, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2167 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

20. —Burden of proof

In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy against officers, directors and stockholders of a corporation who disposed of the corporate assets at an auction sale, held without notice to creditors and without compliance with any statutory procedure designed to protect the rights of creditors, the burden of showing that full value was realized, and that the creditors therefor did not sustain a loss by virtue of the defendant's unilateral action, is upon the defendants, and they must account and respond in damages for the amount, if any, by which less than full value was realized upon the sale. New York Credit Men's Adjustment Bureau, Inc. v Weiss, 278 A.D. 501, 105 N.Y.S.2d 604, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3848 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951), aff'd, 305 N.Y. 1, 110 N.E.2d 397, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 1, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 844 (N.Y. 1953).

21. —Right to and questions for jury

Order setting issues to be tried by jury in an action brought under this section against officers for neglect and misconduct, which is alleged to have consisted in wrongfully excluding plaintiff from participating in management of corporation, jury should not be allowed to determine damage to corporation caused by such acts as it is wholly a matter of speculation. Momand v Landers, 174 A.D. 227, 160 N.Y.S. 1053, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7707 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Defendants were entitled to a jury trial of causes of action at law contained in a complaint for an accounting under §§ 60, 61. Duane Jones Co. v Burke, 280 A.D. 889, 115 N.Y.S.2d 529, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4041 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

In an action by a director of a corporation against other directors of same corporation for damages for negligent transactions, the question whether the plaintiff-director acquiesced in and ratified the transactions complained of is a question for the jury. Kehaya v Axton, 30 F. Supp. 838, 1940 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3658 (D.N.Y. 1940).

22. —Liability of officers and directors

In an action under this section, where it has been adjudged that one of the defendants has misappropriated a stated sum, his refusal to pay the receiver of the corporation does not entitle the plaintiff, as a matter of law, to an order committing such defendant for contempt, where no specific fund has been directed to be paid over and it does not appear that the money cannot be collected by execution. Nelson v Hirsch, 264 N.Y. 316, 190 N.E. 653, 264 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 316, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 1433 (N.Y. 1934).

Officers and directors of a solvent corporation who, confronted with unfavorable business conditions, sold all the corporate property at public auction without notice to creditors, are prima facie liable to creditors for waste of the corporate assets if the proceeds of the property at the auction were less than its full value. New York Credit Men's Adjustment Bureau, Inc. v Weiss, 305 N.Y. 1, 110 N.E.2d 397, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 1, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 844 (N.Y. 1953).

Corporate assets constitute a trust fund for payment of corporate debts, and when two directors of a stock corporation transfer all corporate property to a third director for nominal consideration they commit a breach of duty toward creditors, and become personally liable for existing claims. Cullen v Friedland, 152 A.D. 124, 136 N.Y.S. 659, 1912 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8493 (N.Y. App. Div. 1912).

Directors of a defunct corporation, who distribute all of its assets among themselves without formal dissolution proceeding and notice to creditors of the corporation, are not liable to such creditors on the ground that they have wrongfully and unlawfully distributed assets of the corporation, where it does not appear that the creditors would have been entitled to payment of their claims if the corporation had been regularly dissolved, and there is no proof of fraud or bad faith. Curran v Oppenheimer, 164 A.D. 746, 150 N.Y.S. 369, 1914 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8513 (N.Y. App. Div. 1914), aff'd, 222 N.Y. 615, 118 N.E. 1055, 222 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 615, 1918 N.Y. LEXIS 1496 (N.Y. 1918).

Action by judgment creditors of corporate debtor to set aside transfers made by corporation to another corporation, money judgment against individual defendants who were officers and directors of both corporations sustained as a breach of their duties as directors of corporate debtor. Thorne Neale & Co. v New York Southern Coal Terminal Corp., 270 A.D. 816, 59 N.Y.S.2d 833, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4085 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 295 N.Y. 977, 68 N.E.2d 56, 295 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 977, 1946 N.Y. LEXIS 1114 (N.Y. 1946).

Diversion of corporate funds by a director-officer of a corporation to his personal use is in flagrant dereliction of his duty and violation of his trust, rendering him liable to a trustee in bankruptcy of the corporation. Newfield v Ettlinger, 22 Misc. 2d 769, 194 N.Y.S.2d 670, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2554 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959), app. dismissed, 10 A.D.2d 947, 205 N.Y.S.2d 908, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9529 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1960).

Where the individual defendant, an officer in the debtor corporation, controlled and dominated the corporation, the individual defendant was liable to a judgment-creditor for the money and value of the corporate debtor's assets disbursed by him with knowledge of its actual or impending insolvency. This liability includes, but is not limited to, the preferential repayments of loans made by the individual defendant to the debtor corporation or to the corporation's customers in behalf of the debtor corporations. Beol, Inc. v Dorf, 22 Misc. 2d 798, 193 N.Y.S.2d 394, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2530 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959), aff'd, 12 A.D.2d 459, 209 N.Y.S.2d 267, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7135 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1960).

In an action by a judgment creditor attacking the transfer of assets of a debtor corporation, where the evidence established that the secretary of the corporation and others fraudulently transferred the corporation's assets and also that the secretary fraudulently transferred her interest in certain real estate, such transfer of title was vitiated and the secretary's interest in the property was made subject to the lien of the judgment. Lazar v Towne House Restaurant Corp., 142 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2796 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), aff'd, 5 A.D.2d 794, 171 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7167 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1958).

Although New York law holds directors liable for misappropriations of assets and provides a remedy to require them to account, it does not go so far as to make them actual trustees of the corporate assets, even in liquidation. Chambers v Blickle Ford Sales, Inc., 313 F.2d 252, 1963 U.S. App. LEXIS 6345 (2d Cir. Conn. 1963).

23. —Appointment of receiver pendente lite

A receiver pendente lite cannot be appointed in the absence of any allegation in the complaint that the corporation is insolvent or that insolvency threatens. Lichtenstadter v Lichtenstadter Bros., Inc., 224 N.Y.S. 459, 130 Misc. 772, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1144 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

24. Under former General Corporation Law § 61

An action by corporate directors and stockholders against other directors and the corporation for an accounting was a representative suit. Handler v Belmare Lighting Co., 8 Misc. 2d 687, 168 N.Y.S.2d 288, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2331 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

An action against officers of a corporation for waste and breach of fiduciary duty can only be maintained by the corporation or in its behalf. Hyde v Everett Van Kleeck & Co., 17 Misc. 2d 375, 190 N.Y.S.2d 914, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4092 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

Waste, mismanagement and inference with the corporation's business are wrongs to the corporation, and such wrongs must be redressed by means of a suit by, or in behalf of the corporation. It gives no rise to a cause of action in favor of the individual stockholders. Weinstein v Behn, 65 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2874 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd, 272 A.D. 1045, 75 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4875 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

25. —Action by corporation

Plaintiff membership corporations may assert a cause of action for an accounting (§§ 60, 61). Kang Jai Ass'n, Inc. v Poon Gee Datt, 279 A.D. 872, 110 N.Y.S.2d 424, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5154 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

Where causes of action against directors and officers for breach of contract or fiduciary duties are sought to be enforced by the corporation directly, they are not controlled by limitations prescribed by this section with respect to maintenance of derivative actions. Platt Corp. v Platt, 21 A.D.2d 116, 249 N.Y.S.2d 75, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3973 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1964), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 705, 256 N.Y.S.2d 335, 204 N.E.2d 495, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1699 (N.Y. 1965).

26. —Stockholder's derivative action

In a stockholder's derivative action, the corporation is an indispensable party. The corporation cannot be made a party simply by act of the defendant in inserting the name of the corporation in his answer as an additional defendant. Thus, a motion to dismiss a counter-claim seeking an accounting by the plaintiff was granted with leave to file an amended answer after compelling the plaintiff to join the corporation as a party defendant. Meier v Holmes, 282 A.D. 1030, 126 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5726 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

Action by stockholder of co-operative corporation to obtain order requiring officers to call a meeting for election of directors or that a meeting to consider his charges be held, was a representative action. Lazar v Knolls Cooperative Section No. 2, Inc., 130 N.Y.S.2d 407, 205 Misc. 748, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2044 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954).

27. — —Complaint

A complaint in a stockholder's derivative suit that "plaintiff brings this action derivately in the right and for the benefit of" the designated corporation is sufficient to fully apprise all parties of plaintiff's position. Abramson v Blakeley, 25 Misc. 2d 967, 202 N.Y.S.2d 586, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2997 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

A complaint in a stockholders' derivative suit is insufficient to state a cause of action against individual directors and officers of the corporation for alleged mismanagement and wasting of the corporate funds where its allegations are wholly conclusory, vague and general, and fail to allege when the acts complained of occurred. Arvonio v Arvonio, 31 Misc. 2d 5, 219 N.Y.S.2d 635, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2754 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

28. —Action by officer or director

Under § 61 third persons to whom property was transferred are properly joined in such action and a director of a corporation may bring an action wthout prior demand that the corporation bring the action. Katz v Braz, 66 N.Y.S.2d 722, 188 Misc. 581, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3126 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd, 271 A.D. 970, 69 N.Y.S.2d 324, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5447 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

This section expressly authorizes an action by a director of a corporation against its officers for an accounting. Wyckoff v Sagall, 16 Misc. 2d 630, 56 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1461 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

An officer or director of a corporation may maintain an action to compel other officers or directors to account for their conduct in management of the corporation. Scott v Funaroff, 84 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3527 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

Under § 61 a director of a foreign corporation may bring an action against such corporation for misconduct of other directors. Kehaya v Axton, 32 F. Supp. 266, 1940 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3343 (D.N.Y. 1940).

29. — —Complaint

It is not necessary for a director of a corporation, bringing an action under this section, to state in the title of the action that he sues in a representative capacity if complaint itself alleges that he is a director. Higgins v Applebaum, 183 A.D. 527, 170 N.Y.S. 228, 1918 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5006 (N.Y. App. Div. 1918).

An action under this section only lies when the plaintiff is a director at the time of commencement of the action, which fact he should allege specifically, or by an allegation of other facts which by necessary inference will show him to be such. Rothbart v Star Wet Wash Laundry Co., 185 A.D. 807, 174 N.Y.S. 76, 1919 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5797 (N.Y. App. Div. 1919).

Under the provisions of this section permitting an action by an officer or director, an allegation that the plaintiff is and has been treasurer of the corporation is sufficient to enable him to maintain an action for conversion and misappropriation of corporate property in his own name. Peets v Manhasset Civil Engineers, Inc., 68 N.Y.S.2d 335, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3364 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

30. — —Defense

In an action by directors of a corporation to compel defendant directors to restore to said defendant corporation moneys and assets which were allegedly wasted or fraudulently transferred at grossly inadequate prices, it was not a defense that the plaintiffs were estopped because they might have participated in or ratified said wrongs to the corporation. Williams v Robinson, 9 Misc. 2d

774, 169 N.Y.S.2d 811, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2107 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957), aff'd, 5 A.D.2d 823, 170 N.Y.S.2d 991, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6927 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1958).

31. — —Abatement

An action by a director of a corporation against other directors does not abate when the plaintiff ceases to be a director of the corporation and the action which is one for the benefit of the corporation may be continued in the director's name after he ceases to be such. Manix v Fantl, 209 A.D. 756, 205 N.Y.S. 174, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8730 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

The fact that the plaintiff was illegally ousted as a director of the corporation after commencement of an action under this section does not abate the action. Wangrow v Wangrow, 211 A.D. 552, 207 N.Y.S. 132, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9918 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

Action commenced by director of corporate defendant to compel individual defendants, directors and officers of corporate defendant, to account for and to set aside certain corporate transactions did not abate the cause, after commencement of action, plaintiff ceased to be a director. Tenney v Rosenthal, 6 A.D.2d 510, 179 N.Y.S.2d 728, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4130 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1958), aff'd, 6 N.Y.2d 204, 189 N.Y.S.2d 158, 160 N.E.2d 463, 1959 N.Y. LEXIS 1134 (N.Y. 1959).

An illegal attempted removal of an officer or director would not prevent his maintaining an action as such. Wyckoff v Sagall, 16 Misc. 2d 630, 56 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1461 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

Director who commenced an action against other directors of corporation for negligence and waste under § 60, could not continue to maintain action after he was ousted as a director. Kehaya v Axton, 32 F. Supp. 266, 1940 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3343 (D.N.Y. 1940).

32. —Action by judgment creditor

Suit by creditor to recover moneys misappropriated by directors or other officers of corporation, should be brought by plaintiff in a representative capacity. Davis v Wilson, 150 A.D. 704, 135 N.Y.S. 825, 1912 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7197 (N.Y. App. Div. 1912).

Judgment creditor of a corporation may maintain an individual action against directors who have caused the assets of the corporation to be transferred to another corporation without providing for payment of plaintiff's claim, if the rights of no other creditors are involved. Buckley v United Cloak & Suit Co., 155 A.D. 735, 140 N.Y.S. 953, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5184 (N.Y. App. Div. 1913), aff'd, 214 N.Y. 679, 108 N.E. 1090, 214 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 679, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 1391 (N.Y. 1915).

A creditor of a corporation seeking to hold liable its trustees in dissolution for alleged wrongful distribution of assets of the corporation must not only proceed under §§ 60, 61, but must be a judgment creditor. Bristol Mfg. Corp. v Elk Textile Co., 200 N.Y.S. 860, 121 Misc. 138, 1923 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1553 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1923), aff'd, 209 A.D. 95, 204 N.Y.S. 427, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8559 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

A creditor who is not a judgment creditor may not maintain an action against corporate directors to compel them to account for their official conduct. Levy v Paramount Publix Corp., 266 N.Y.S. 271, 149 Misc. 129, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1260 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933), aff'd, 241 A.D. 711, 269 N.Y.S. 997, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9067 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

To maintain an action either under § 276 of the Debtor and Creditor Law or § 61 of the General Corporation Law, the plaintiff must have status as a creditor, and he cannot maintain such an action after his claim has been fully paid. Lazar v Libby, 28 Misc. 2d 131, 219 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2142 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

A cause of action pursuant to this section and § 60 may be maintained by a judgment creditor. Kendall v Oakland Golf Club, 123 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2067 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 282 A.D. 1057, 126 N.Y.S.2d 379, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

In an action by a judgment creditor for himself and on behalf of all other creditors of a corporation, since under Debtor and Creditor Law § 278 the action may be maintained only by a creditor in his own right and since under General Corporation Law § 133 the court need not make an order requiring all creditors to prove their claims, the court granted judgment to plaintiff only as an individual and not as a representative of other creditors. Lazar v Towne House Restaurant Corp., 142 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2796 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), aff'd, 5 A.D.2d 794, 171 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7167 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1958).

33. —Action by receiver for corporation

The receiver of corporation, appointed on application of one creditor may recover in an action to recover the value of property alleged to have been illegally transferred to certain directors thereby denuding the corporation and defeating and impairing the rights of creditors. Hitz v Garfinkel, 246 A.D. 728, 283 N.Y.S. 872, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9952 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

A receiver appointed in supplementary proceedings has the same power as a general receiver and may maintain an action against officers and directors of a corporation to recover property wrongfully conveyed and dividends improperly declared. Klages v Cohen, 146 F.2d 641, 1945 U.S. App. LEXIS 3101 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1945).

34. —Action by attorney general

An action for the removal of the officers and directors of a corporation may be brought only by the attorney general. Purdy v Humphrey, 82 N.Y.S.2d 92, 192 Misc. 309, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3805 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947), aff'd, 274 A.D. 841, 82 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3578 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

35. — —Complaint

A complaint by the attorney general, which alleges matters concerning the internal management of a corporation as between itself and its stockholders or individuals with whom private contractual rights are involved, might be sustainable as a derivative action under §§ 60 and 61 but could not be sustained as affecting the public interest under § 134. People v Singer, 85 N.Y.S.2d 727, 193 Misc. 976, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1693 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

36. —Right to jury trial

Defendants were entitled to a jury trial of causes of action at law contained in a complaint which also alleged a cause of action for an accounting under §§ 60, 61. Duane Jones Co. v Burke, 280 A.D. 889, 115 N.Y.S.2d 529, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4041 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

Agency Opinions

1. Generally

The attorney general or one or more members of the Medina Firemen's Benevolent Association having standing to bring an action to challenge improper disbursements by this not-for-profit corporation. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–238-A.

§ 720-a. Liability of directors, officers, trustees and key persons

Except as provided in sections seven hundred nineteen and seven hundred twenty of this chapter, and except any action or proceeding brought by the attorney general or, in the case of a charitable trust, an action or proceeding against a trustee brought by a beneficiary of such trust, no person serving without compensation as a director, officer, key person or trustee of a corporation, association, organization or trust described in section 501 (c) (3) of the United States internal revenue code shall be liable to any person other than such corporation, association, organization or trust based solely on his or her conduct in the execution of such office unless the conduct of such director, officer, key person or trustee with respect to the person asserting liability constituted gross negligence or was intended to cause the resulting harm to the person asserting such liability. For purposes of this section, such a director, officer, key person or trustee shall not be considered compensated solely by reason of payment of his or her actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of such office.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1986, ch 220, § 11, eff June 28, 1986, applicable to causes of action arising on or after June 28, 1986; L 2019, ch 445, § 5, effective November 8, 2019.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1986, ch 220, § 1, eff June 28, 1986, applicable to contracts in force and effect on and amended, executed, modified, renewed or altered on June 28, 1986, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The legislature hereby finds and declares that the state is in the midst of an insurance crisis which affects all aspects of the public and private sectors. Day care centers, not-for-profit organizations, volunteer groups, businesses, governmental entities, housing and transit authorities, professionals and others have experienced sudden and inexplicable cancellations and nonrenewals of their liability insurance policies with little, if any, notice. In other cases, policyholders and the public have been confronted by skyrocketing premiums or reductions in coverage. These events have disastrous effects on a multitude of public entities, groups and individuals, and threaten to undermine economic development and the delivery of essential and necessary services to residents, consumers and businesses throughout New York state. Because critical coverages have become unavailable or unaffordable, a comprehensive, balanced approach is imperative to provide stability and safeguard the public interest.

The legislature further finds and declares that, by the enactment of the provisions of this act, it is the intent of the legislature to fulfill its constitutional obligation to provide for the health, safety and welfare of the people of this state. It is imperative that this state provide stability, security and certainty for commercial risk, public entity and professional liability insurance policyholders and the public at-large by the enactment of this act.

This act is intended to alleviate the problems of unaffordability and unavailability of such insurance, to provide for increased security of rates and rating procedures, and to provide for increased disclosure and knowledge of insurance company financial practices, by, among other measures:

(a) establishing a flexible rating system, with prior approval of rate changes beyond flexibility bands, for certain liability insurance;

(b) preventing unwarranted mid-term cancellations and affording policyholders minimum notice of nonrenewal of policies, reductions in coverage and premium increases;

(c) allowing New York counties, towns, cities, villages, district corporations, school districts and boards of cooperative educational services to organize and subscribe to statewide municipal reciprocal insurers;

(d) authorizing the issuance of property/casualty insurance policies on a group basis for public entities and not-for-profit organizations;

(e) establishing stand-by joint underwriting authority by expanding the powers of the New York property insurance underwriting association;

(f) instituting qualified immunity for uncompensated officers and directors of not-for-profit organizations;

(g) increasing capacity by expediting access to alternative voluntary markets where appropriate;

(h) providing for annual reports to the governor and legislature of insurance company rating and financial practices;

(i) authorizing costs upon frivolous claims and counterclaims; and

(j) authorizing the admissibility of recovery from collateral sources.

Amendment Notes The 2019 amendment by ch 445, § 5, added "and key persons" in the section heading; and added "key person" three times.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY IS NOT BULLET-PROOF SHIELD

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corporation Law § 720-a confers qualified immunity from suit upon certain directors or officers of not-for-profits. Although it does offer protection for certain individuals, counsel must fully understand the limitations of that protection to represent the not-for-profit corporation and individual directors and officers adequately.

ANALYSIS

Qualified immunity is limited to directors and officers of entities eligible for tax exemption under Internal Revenue Code § 501(c)(3).

A director or officer sued for personal liability must raise the qualified immunity granted under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a as an affirmative defense in the answer. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). Best practices dictate that an attorney representing a director or officer sued under these circumstances review the complaint to ensure that it has been verified and that it affirmatively states that the director's actions constituted either gross negligence or intentional infliction of harm. See CPLR 3016(h).

Alternatively, the defendant may move to dismiss a complaint against which qualified immunity is a defense. This CPLR 3211(a)(11) motion must be made before the answer is filed. Woodford v. Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415 (3d Dep't 1991). A claim will be dismissed if the defendant can show that the factors have been met, that is: (1) defendant can prove that there is no probability of meeting the statutory standard of gross negligence or intent to cause harm to the plaintiff; (2) the defendant can show that his or her service to the not-for-profit was uncompensated; and (3) the not-for-profit is eligible for tax exemption under IRC § 501(c)(3).

If defendant is paid, immunity is not available.

Although the law permits not-for-profits to compensate its directors (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 202(a)(12)), most directors are volunteers who serve without compensation. If an IRC § 501(c)(3) organization chooses to compensate its directors for more than "actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of such office" (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a), any such director will lose the right to qualified immunity under this provision. This choice also affects the director's right to seek indemnification. This issue arises most frequently in the case of paid officers who also hold a seat on the board of directors and directors involved with a private foundation.

Know what actions qualified immunity will not protect.

Directors who otherwise meet the criteria for qualified immunity are not protected from every cause of action that may be filed by a third party. It is important for the practitioner to know what types of actions expose the director or officer to personal liability. For example, Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a does not immunize directors from federal claims or employment litigation (such as wrongful termination) to the extent the claims are based upon federal law. This section does not apply to actions taken by the Attorney General or actions commenced under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719 (director liability in certain defined transactions) or Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 720 (actions brought on behalf of the organization).

In addition, directors may be held personally liable if the not-for-profit corporation does not follow the dissolution procedures set forth in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 1002-a or if the not-for-profit does not adequately provide for known liabilities upon dissolution. In such an event, the directors will be held personally liable only if the creditors file claims within the time period provided for in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law Article 10 (Non-Judicial Dissolution and Article 11 (Judicial Dissolution) Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 719.

1. Generally

Trustees and officers of religious corporation were not entitled to dismissal of action under CLS CPLR § 3211(a)(11) where (1) they did not present affidavit of chief financial officer as to their uncompensated status, and (2) it was alleged that certain individual defendant, who had nearly absolute authority over church, its trustees and officers, its membership, and related churches, raped, sodomized, and sexually abused infant plaintiffs while they were under his religious guidance. Karen S. v Streitferdt, 172 A.D.2d 440, 568 N.Y.S.2d 946, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5187 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991).

Defendants were not entitled to dismissal of action on ground that they had immunity under CLS N-PCL § 720-a as uncompensated directors of not-for-profit corporation where plaintiff, not-for-profit religious corporation, alleged in detail that defendants formed second not-for-profit corporation so as to assist in deceptive scheme to appropriate property for themselves; such allegation came within statutory exception for intentional misconduct. American Baptist Churches v Galloway, 271 A.D.2d 92, 710 N.Y.S.2d 12, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5373 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Appellate court found that tax returns and other financial documents which plaintiff requested from defendant in her lawsuit alleging sexual discrimination, negligent supervision, and breach of contract were relevant to defendant's claim that he was entitled to qualified immunity, pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a, and held that defendant's claim of qualified immunity under § 720-a should be stricken if he did not provide those documents. Samide v Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn, 5 A.D.3d 463, 773 N.Y.S.2d 116, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2472 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2004).

Complaint could not proceed against the individual defendants, who were entitled to qualified immunity pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 720-a, in view of the affidavit by the foundation's chairman and director establishing that they served without compensation, and because, as provided by N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3211(a)(11), there was no "reasonable probability" that their conduct constituted gross negligence or was intended to cause harm; although the chairman was not the chief financial officer (CFO) of the foundation, the Civil Practice Law and Rules did not require that it be the CFO who submitted a letter, but, rather, stated only that the evidence "may consist" of a letter from the CFO. Thome v Alexander & Louisa Calder Found., 70 A.D.3d 88, 890 N.Y.S.2d 16, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8707 (N.Y. Board of governors of country club is not entitled to qualified immunity conferred upon uncompensated officials of not-for-profit corporations pursuant to CLS CPLR § 3211 (a)(11) and CLS N-PCL § 720-a since those provisions only grant qualified immunity to tax exempt organizations which are largely charitable or otherwise socially beneficial in nature. Bernbach v Bonnie Briar Country Club, 144 A.D.2d 610, 534 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12353 (N.Y. 3. Qualified immunity

Cause of action for allegedly defamatory remarks made by members of board of governors of country club was improperly dismissed on ground that plaintiff failed to overcome qualified immunity of board of governors since country club was not organization entitled to qualified immunity pursuant to CLS CPLR § 3211 (a)(11) and CLS N-PCL § 720-a. Bernbach v Bonnie Briar Country Club, 144 A.D.2d 610, 534 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12353 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 715, 543 N.Y.S.2d 401, 541 N.E.2d 430, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 798 (N.Y. 1989).

Uncompensated trustee defendants were entitled to summary judgment dismissing employee's cause of action for fraud where those defendants were immune from liability under CLS N-PCL § 720-a. Goldsmith v Fight for Sight, Inc., 251 A.D.2d 120, 674 N.Y.S.2d 649, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6948 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Unpaid directors of California not-for-profit organization were immune from suit under CLS N-PCL § 720-a and CLS CPLR § 3211(a)(11), absent allegations of their gross negligence or intention to cause harm. Pontarelli v Shapero, 231 A.D.2d 407, 647 N.Y.S.2d 185, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9204 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Members of a board of trustees of a Jewish congregation were not entitled to qualified immunity under this statute in a defamation action by a former rabbi and the congregation because there was a reasonable probability the rabbi and the congregation could establish the trustees' actions in refusing to allow the congregation to vote on the issue of extending or renewing the rabbi's contract constituted gross negligence or were intended to cause the resulting harm. Kamchi v Weissman, 125 A.D.3d 142, 1 N.Y.S.3d 169, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9021 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2014).

Individual defendants are not liable for federal copyright infringements under CLS N-PCL § 720-a, where photographer does not prove that their actions in posting 2 of his photographs on corporation's Internet site were grossly negligent or intended to cause him harm, because § 720-a provides that individual director of not-for-profit corporation can only be held liable for act undertaken as director if that person's act "constituted gross negligence or was intended to cause resulting harm to person asserting such liability." Scanlon v Kessler, 11 F. Supp. 2d 444, 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10201 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

4. Motion to dismiss

CLS CPLR § 3211(a)(11) motion to dismiss complaint must be made before service of answer, and inclusion of statutory defense in answer neither preserves nor extends time within which to make dismissal motion. Woodford v Benedict Community Health Center, 176 A.D.2d 1115, 575 N.Y.S.2d 415, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13359 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

In defamation action against directors of not-for-profit corporation by plaintiffs who were removed from their positions as executive director and treasurer of corporation due to alleged fiscal improprieties, where defendants sought dismissal under CLS CPLR § 3211(a)(11) on ground that they were immune from liability under CLS N-PCL § 720-a, plaintiffs were required to come forward with evidentiary proof showing fair likelihood that they would be able to prove that defendants were grossly negligent or intended to cause resulting harm. Rabushka v Marks, 229 A.D.2d 899, 646 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7936 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

§ 721. Nonexclusivity of statutory provisions for indemnification of directors and officers

The indemnification and advancement of expenses granted pursuant to, or provided by, this article shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights to which a director or officer seeking indemnification or advancement of expenses may be entitled, whether contained in the certificate of incorporation or the by-laws or, when authorized by such certificate of incorporation or by-laws, (a) a resolution of members, (b) a resolution of directors, or (c) an agreement providing for such indemnification, provided that no indemnification may be made to or on behalf of any director or officer if a judgment or other final adjudication adverse to the director or officer establishes that his acts were committed in bad faith or were the result of active and deliberate dishonesty and were material to the cause of action so adjudicated, or that he personally gained in fact a financial profit or other advantage to which he was not legally entitled. Nothing contained in this article shall affect any rights to indemnification to which corporate personnel other than directors and officers may be entitled by contract or otherwise under law.

Comment: This section is the same, both in substance and in language, as Bus Corp L § 721. The purpose of this section is to make clear that the provisions which follow relating to indemnification of directors and officers are exclusive and establish a policy from which no material deviation is permissible. The indemnifcation of corporate personnel, other than directors and officers, is left to common law formulation.

§ 722. Authorization for indemnification of directors and officers

(a) A corporation may indemnify any person, made, or threatened to be made, a party to an action or proceeding other than one by or in the right of the corporation to procure a judgment in its favor, whether civil or criminal, including an action by or in the right of any other corporation of any kind, domestic or foreign, or any partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, which any director or officer of the corporation served in any capacity at the request of the corporation, by reason of the fact that he, his testator or intestate, was a director or officer of the corporation, or served such other corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise in any capacity, against judgments, fines, amounts paid in settlement and reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees actually and necessarily incurred as a result of such action or proceeding, or any appeal therein, if such director or officer acted, in good faith, for a purpose which he reasonably believed to be in, or, in the case of service for any other corporation or any partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, not opposed to, the best interests of the corporation and, in criminal actions or proceedings, in addition, had no reasonable cause to believe that his conduct was unlawful.

(b) The termination of any such civil or criminal action or proceeding by judgment, settlement, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere, or its equivalent, shall not in itself create a presumption that any such director or officer did not act, in good faith, for a purpose which he reasonably believed to be in, or, in the case of service for any other corporation or any partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, not opposed to, the best interests of the corporation or that he had reasonable cause to believe that his conduct was unlawful.

(c) A corporation may indemnify any person made, or threatened to be made, a party to an action by or in the right of the corporation to procure a judgment in its favor by reason of the fact that he, his testator or intestate, is or was a director or officer of the corporation, or is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director or officer of any other corporation of any kind, domestic or foreign, of any partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, against amounts paid in settlement and reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees, actually and necessarily incurred by him in connection with the defense or settlement of such action, or in connection with an appeal therein, if such director or officer acted, in good faith, for a purpose which he reasonably believed to be in, or, in the case of service for any other corporation or any partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, not opposed to, the best interests of the corporation, except that no indemnification under this paragraph shall be made in respect of (1) a threatened action, or a pending action which is settled or otherwise disposed of, or (2) any claim, issue or matter as to which such person shall have been adjudged to be liable to the corporation, unless and only to the extent that the court in which the action was brought, or, if no action was brought, any court of competent jurisdiction, determines upon application that, in view of all the circumstances of the case, the person is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnity for such portion of the settlement amount and expenses as the court deems proper.

(d) For the purpose of this section, a corporation shall be deemed to have requested a person to serve an employee benefit plan where the performance by such person of his duties to the corporation also imposes duties on, or otherwise involves services by, such person to the plan or participants or beneficiaries of the plan; excise taxes assessed on a person with respect to an employee benefit plan pursuant to applicable law shall be considered fines; and action taken or omitted by a person with respect to an employee benefit plan in the performance of such person's duties for a purpose reasonably believed by such person to be in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan shall be deemed to be for a purpose which is not opposed to the best interests of the corporation.

REVIEW ALLEGATIONS AND FACTS BEFORE CONCLUDING THAT NOT-FOR-PROFIT CORPORATION SHOULD PROVIDE INDEMNIFICATION TO OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

By Gregory J. Champion, Esq., Bond, Schoeneck & King, PLLC www.bsk.com

INSIGHT

Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 722 allows corporations to indemnify officers and directors in certain circumstances, but only if the director or officer acted in good faith, for a purpose which he or she reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the corporation, and, in criminal actions or proceedings, in which he or she had no reasonable cause to believe the conduct was unlawful. Practitioners should be cautious when counseling their not-for-profit clients regarding indemnification of an officer or director convicted of a crime.

ANALYSIS

Exercise caution when counseling not-for-profit clients about indemnification of officer or director convicted of crime.

Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 722(b) cautions that termination of either a civil or criminal action by a judgment, settlement, conviction, or nolo contendere plea, shall not necessarily create a presumption that the officer or director failed to act in good faith or that he or she had reasonable cause to believe the conduct was unlawful. Statements made under oath in the course of a guilty plea, however, may make it difficult to argue that an officer or director did not have reason to know his or her actions were unlawful.

Unless ordered by a court, a person who has not successfully defended a criminal action may be indemnified by a corporation only if indemnification is authorized by the board, acting in a quorum of uninterested directors, upon a finding that the director or officer to be indemnified (1) acted in good faith, (2) acted in the best interests of the corporation, and (3) did not have reason to believe that his conduct was unlawful.

If a quorum of disinterested directors cannot be obtained, or if a quorum of disinterested directors deems it advisable, the board may authorize indemnification following receipt of a written opinion by independent legal counsel opining that indemnification is proper because the independent legal counsel has determined that the director or officer to be indemnified acted in good faith, in the best interests of the corporation, and did not have reasonable cause to believe that his conduct was unlawful.

Alternatively, the members may authorize indemnification upon a finding by the members that the director or officer to be indemnified acted in good faith, in the best interests of the corporation, and did not have reasonable cause to believe that director's or officer's conduct was unlawful. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 721, 722, 723.

All indemnification payments must be repaid if recipient is found "not to be entitled."

Furthermore, all indemnification payments advanced by a corporation must be repaid in the event that the person receiving the advancement is found "not to be entitled to indemnification or, where indemnification is granted, to the extent the expenses so advanced by the corporation … exceed the indemnification to which he is entitled." Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 725(a).

If corporation indemnifies officer or director for expenses, corporation must mail statement providing notice of indemnification payments and circumstances from which they arise.

If the corporation does indemnify an officer or director for expenses (other than pursuant to court order or direct authorization by the corporation's members), the corporation must mail to all members a statement providing notice of the indemnification payments and the circumstances from which those payments arise. This statement must be sent by the next annual meeting of members, unless the meeting is to be held within three months from the date of payment, in which event the notice must be sent no later than 15 months from the date of payment. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 725(c).

Practitioners must exercise caution when counseling their corporate clients regarding indemnification of an officer or director convicted of a crime.

When advising a client regarding indemnification, caution is warranted. Attorneys must carefully review all statements made by the officers and directors in question, including statements made in depositions and in the course of court proceedings. Furthermore, seeking reimbursement of funds already expended, if it is determined that the officer or director was not entitled to indemnification, can be extremely difficult. Consequently, counsel must make a proper determination as to the propriety of indemnification in the first instance, especially because improper indemnification could result in allegations of impropriety on the part of the corporation.

2. Under former General Corporation Law § 63

This section, changing the common-law rule that each party pays his own lawyer, is to be construed strictly. Diamond v Diamond, 307 N.Y. 263, 120 N.E.2d 819, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 263, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 988 (N.Y. 1954).

As to assessment of attorney's fees against a corporation for legal services in successfully defending an officer of the corporation against charges of misconduct, although some of the language in § 68 might indicate that the attorney is entitled to apply directly for the assessment, the implication from § 63 and other sections of this article is that the assessment and allowance can only be made by way of indemnity or reimbursement to the officer charged with the allegedly objectionable conduct, and that the application must be in his name notwithstanding both he and the attorney are residents of New York. Buchman & Buchman v Lanston Industries, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 818, 200 N.Y.S.2d 445, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3367 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

The statute which provides for the reimbursement of litigation expenses of corporation officials in a suit, action or proceeding to which the official is made a party by reason of the fact that he is such a corporation official does not apply to criminal actions. Petition of Schwarz, 94 F. Supp. 129, 1950 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2074 (D.N.Y. 1950).

Analysis

1. Under former § 722
2. Under former General Corporation Law § 63

1. Under former § 722

Neither section 17 nor section 18 of the Public Officers Law covers officers and directors of Safe Affordable Housing, Inc., a not-for-profit community development corporation organized by the Division of Housing and Community Renewal, even though the officers and directors are also officers and employees of the division. The corporation is authorized to indemnify its officers and directors. 1982 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 32, 1982 N.Y. AG LEXIS 49.

The directors of the Independent Livery Driver Benefit Fund are not eligible for the defense, indemnification, and immunity that may be accorded to public officers. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2011-9, 2011 N.Y. AG LEXIS 10.

2. Under former General Corporation Law § 63

A certificate of incorporation which excepts only cases wherein a director, etc., is adjudged "guilty of wilful misfeasance or malfeasance in the performance of his duties" violates this section which excepts all cases wherein it is adjudged that the director, etc., is "liable for negligence or misconduct in the performance of his duties". 1953 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 182, 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 58.

A certificate of incorporation may provide for the indemnification of a director officer or employee for expenses if an action brought against him as such as been settled with the approval of a court. But a certificate which provides for indemnification upon settlement without court approval does not comply with the statute and should be refused filing. 1953 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 182, 1953 N.Y. AG LEXIS 58.

§ 723. Payment of indemnification other than by court award

(a) A person who has been successful, on the merits or otherwise, in the defense of a civil or criminal action or proceeding of the character described in section 722 shall be entitled to indemnification as authorized in such section.

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (a), any indemnification under section 722 or otherwise permitted by section 721, unless ordered by a court under section 724 (Indemnification of directors and officers by a court), shall be made by the corporation, only if authorized in the specific case:

(1) By the board acting by a quorum consisting of directors who are not parties to such action or proceeding upon a finding that the director or officer has met the standard of conduct set forth in section 722 or established pursuant to section 721, as the case may be, or,

(2) If a quorum under subparagraph (1) is not obtainable or, even if obtainable, a quorum of disinterested directors so directs:

(A) By the board upon the opinion in writing of independent legal counsel that indemnification is proper in the circumstances because the applicable standard of conduct set forth in such sections has been met by such director or officer, or

(B) By the members upon a finding that the director or officer has met the applicable standard of conduct set forth in such sections.

(c) Expenses incurred in defending a civil or criminal action or proceeding may be paid by the corporation in advance of the final disposition of such action or proceeding upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of such director or officer to repay such amount as, and to the extent, required by paragraph (a) of section 725.

§ 724. Indemnification of directors and officers by a court

(a) Notwithstanding the failure of a corporation to provide indemnification, and despite any contrary resolution of the board or of the members in the specific case under section 723 (Payment of indemnification other than by court award), indemnification shall be awarded by a court to the extent authorized under section 722 (Authorization for indemnification of directors and officers), and paragraph (a) of section 723 (Payment of indemnification other than by court award). Application therefor shall be made on notice to the attorney general and may be made, in every case, either:

(1) In the civil action or proceeding in which the expenses were incurred or other amounts were paid, or

(2) To the supreme court in a separate proceeding, in which case the application shall set forth the disposition of any previous application made to any court for the same or similar relief and also reasonable cause for the failure to make application for such relief in the action or proceeding in which the expenses were incurred or other amounts were paid.

(b) The application shall be made in such manner and form as may be required by the applicable rules of court or, in the absence thereof, by direction of a court to which it is made. Such application shall be upon notice to the corporation. The court may also direct that notice be given at the expense of the corporation to the members and such other persons as it may designate in such manner as it may require.

(c) Where indemnification is sought by judicial action, the court may allow a person such reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees, during the pendency of the litigation as are necessary in connection with his defense therein, if the court shall find that the defendant has by his pleadings or during the course of the litigation raised genuine issues of fact or law.

1. Generally

Director was not entitled to the advancement of fees under this statute because the documentation presented by the director lacked probative value, the director did not provide any affirmed statement that he acted in good faith, and the director did not make any showing whatsoever as to irreparable harm. Kaloyeros v Fort Schuyler Mgt. Corp., 157 A.D.3d 1152, 69 N.Y.S.3d 739, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 359 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

Former university trustees were not entitled to advance indemnification by university for cost of their legal defense in action brought by Attorney General where Board of Regents, in its investigation, found that trustees had engaged in grossly negligent conduct and extreme breaches of fiduciary duties in, inter alia, awarding compensation package to trustee as university president, and permitting conflicts of interest in purchasing goods and services for university. Vacco v Diamandopoulos, 185 Misc. 2d 724, 715 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 716 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

2. Under former General Corporation Law § 64

This section was not applicable to a consolidated action brought in the right of an insurance society by nine out of its more than 1,750,000 policy holders. Imberman v Alexander, 116 N.Y.S.2d 609, 203 Misc. 576, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1917 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 281 A.D. 656, 117 N.Y.S.2d 682, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3131 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

This section was not controlling with respect to a petition of attorneys for allowance of fees and expenses against a corporation whose trustees in bankruptcy sued their clients, directors of the corporation, to recover damages for alleged breach of duties owed to the corporation. The question whether allowances could or should be made depended on the Bankruptcy Act. Le Boeuf v Austrian, 240 F.2d 546, 1957 U.S. App. LEXIS 4372 (4th Cir.), cert. denied, 353 U.S. 965, 77 S. Ct. 1049, 1 L. Ed. 2d 914, 1957 U.S. LEXIS 908 (U.S. 1957).

3. —Construction and constitutionality

This section, being in derogation of both the common law and the contract rights of the parties, must be strictly construed. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 305 N.Y. 395, 113 N.E.2d 533, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 395, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 1953).

Former section 61-a provided for the assessment of the plaintiff's expenses against the corporation and the amount of such expenses could not be added to the amount of the recovery and the entire amount charged to the individual defendants. Masholie v Salvator, 46 N.Y.S.2d 596, 182 Misc. 523, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1663 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944), modified, 269 A.D. 846, 55 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1945).

The purpose of § 64 was to broaden the scope of former § 61-a in order to make it consistent with former § 27-a, which was amended and renumbered as § 63. Tichner v Andrews, 85 N.Y.S.2d 760, 193 Misc. 1050, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1695 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 275 A.D. 749, 90 N.Y.S.2d 920, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4321 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

Nothing in the legislative history of Section 61-b indicates the intention of the Legislature to make co-extensive Section 61-b and this section. Imberman v Alexander, 116 N.Y.S.2d 609, 203 Misc. 576, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1917 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 281 A.D. 656, 117 N.Y.S.2d 682, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3131 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

Enactments awarding attorney's fees and including them in the classification of costs are valid exercises of the police power and are immune from attack upon the ground that they are unconstitutional legislation. Hayman v Morris, 37 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2111 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

Former section 61-a was not invalid as being extraterritorial legislation as applied to a foreign corporation. Hayman v Morris, 37 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2111 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

Former section 61-a was constitutional. Shielcrawt v Moffett, 49 N.Y.S.2d 64, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2059 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 268 A.D. 352, 51 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3171 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

4. —Common law right to reimbursement

Directors have no common law right to reimbursement for expenses. Bailey v Bush Terminal Co., 46 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2813 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 267 A.D. 899, 48 N.Y.S.2d 324, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6188 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

5. —Right of individual defendant to reimbursement

The court-mandated reimbursement under this article can never be had as to expenses of one defending himself against criminal charges. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 305 N.Y. 395, 113 N.E.2d 533, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 395, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 1953).

An officer, director, employee and substantial stockholder of a corporation could not be reimbursed for his litigation expenses from his corporation in a damage action against the corporation and the officer as an individual where the proof showed that the officer could be liable only if he participated as an individual. Spring v Moncrieff, 10 Misc. 2d 731, 173 N.Y.S.2d 86, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3756 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

Directors named as defendants purely for procedural reasons are not entitled to attorney fees under this section. Warnecke v Forty Wall Street Bldg., Inc., 16 Misc. 2d 467, 183 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4406 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959), aff'd, 13 A.D.2d 630, 215 N.Y.S.2d 720, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11440 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961).

If a defendant seeks to impose upon a corporation the responsibility of meeting the expenses of contesting an action against him, it is an indispensable condition that the corporation have been a party defendant to the action by reason of his being or having been a director or officer or employee of the corporation. People v Uran Mining Corp., 26 Misc. 2d 957, 206 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2844 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), aff'd, 13 A.D.2d 419, 216 N.Y.S.2d 985, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9856 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1961).

Under this section providing for and authorizing reimbursement and compensation, there is no reason why the successful defendants in a derivative stockholders' action should not have the benefit of this enactment even though an award was also made to plaintiffs or their counsel. Cohn v Columbia Pictures Corp., 117 N.Y.S.2d 809, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2079 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1952).

6. — —Absence of adjudication of negligence or misconduct

The words "negligence or misconduct" as used in this section refer back to sections 60 and 61, setting up civil actions by or on behalf of corporations against their officers or directors who have injured the corporation by wrongdoing or inattention to duty. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 305 N.Y. 395, 113 N.E.2d 533, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 395, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 1953).

This section, read in conjunction with § 61-b, authorizes assessment of "reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, actually and necessarily incurred in connection with the defense of" a stockholder's derivative suit by an individual defendant where there has been no adjudication rendering him liable for negligence or misconduct, and such a defendant is accordingly entitled to apply for such an assessment where the action has been dismissed by reason of plaintiff's failure to give security for expenses pursuant to an order under § 61-b. Tyler v Gas Consumers Asso., 35 Misc. 2d 801, 231 N.Y.S.2d 15, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3110 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

7. — —Conviction on plea of nolo contendere

A conviction upon a plea of nolo contendere was an adjudication that the director was liable for misconduct in the performance of his duties within the statute. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 102 N.Y.S.2d 325, 198 Misc. 1046, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1504 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951), aff'd, 279 A.D. 996, 112 N.Y.S.2d 146, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5588 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

8. —Action or proceeding

Section 65, the complement of this section, being thus limited to a basic civil action or proceeding, the legislative intention, therefore, clearly was to limit similarly this section to a civil action or proceeding. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 305 N.Y. 395, 113 N.E.2d 533, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 395, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 1953).

9. — —Martin Act proceeding

The fact alone that a petitioner, seeking to recover reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred in defending Martin Act proceedings involving his acts as a director and officer of a corporation, was successful in defending the underlying suit, it not sufficient to require granting of his petition, as against the receiver who was not a party. People v Uran Mining Corp., 13 A.D.2d 419, 216 N.Y.S.2d 985, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9856 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1961).

In connection with an application by an officer and director of a corporation for reimbursement of expenses, under this section, incurred in defending Martin Act proceedings against the corporation, a Referee's finding that petitioner was only a truck driver who was hired to operate and maintain motor vehicles would not aid his position where he was likewise an officer and director at the scene of field operations which were the subject of the Martin Act proceeding, knew or should have known what was going on, and lent his name and activities to fraudulent operations of the corporation. People v Uran Mining Corp., 14 A.D.2d 481, 216 N.Y.S.2d 992, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9857 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1961).

10. — —Joinder of causes of action

Sections 61-b, 64, apply where the complaint alleges several causes of action for the benefit of the corporation notwithstanding the fact that some causes of action alleged in the complaint appear to be personal to the plaintiff. Sherman v P & Q Shops, Inc., 275 A.D. 788, 87 N.Y.S.2d 759, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4482 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

11. — —Effect of severance

Upon severance of an action each cause of action becomes a separate action and terminates in a distinct judgment and this must be considered in the award of reasonable expenses under this section. Diamond v Davis, 62 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2750 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

12. —Jurisdiction of United States District Court

The United States District Court had no jurisdiction of an application under this article for expenses and attorney's fees incurred by them in the defense of an action brought by the trustees of a corporation in reorganization although the petitioners successfully defended themselves in that court for their conduct as stockholders, officers and directors. The award of allowances was exclusively for the reorganization court. Austrian v Williams, 216 F.2d 278, 1954 U.S. App. LEXIS 3925 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1954), cert. denied, 348 U.S. 953, 75 S. Ct. 441, 99 L. Ed. 745 (U.S. 1955).

13. Under former General Corporation Law § 65

The court-mandated reimbursement under this article can never be had as to expenses of one defending himself against criminal charges. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 305 N.Y. 395, 113 N.E.2d 533, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 395, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 1953).

This section, the complement of section 64, being thus limited to a basic civil action or proceeding, the legislative intention therefore clearly was to limit similarly section 64 to a civil action or proceeding. Schwarz v General Aniline & Film Corp., 305 N.Y. 395, 113 N.E.2d 533, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 395, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 808 (N.Y. 1953).

Assessment and award to stockholders of reasonable expenses incurred in prosecution of actions on behalf of the corporation is incidental to the action and is properly applied for therein. The rule that a proceeding to fix attorney's fees is a special proceeding does not apply to such actions. Smith v Bradlee, 37 N.Y.S.2d 512, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2057 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 265 A.D. 931, 38 N.Y.S.2d 379, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6617 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

The statute which provides for the reimbursement of litigation expenses of corporation officials in a suit, action or proceeding to which the official is made a party by reason of the fact that he is such a corporation official does not apply to criminal actions. Petition of Schwarz, 94 F. Supp. 129, 1950 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2074 (D.N.Y. 1950).

14. Under former General Corporation Law § 66

This section does not offend the due process clause of the national and state constitution in failing to provide for the giving of notice to the corporation, or for opportunity to be properly represented and heard. Hayman v Morris, 37 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2111 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

15. Under former General Corporation Law § 67

Where there is doubt as to whether the judgments against the individual defendants will be substantially or wholly collected the fixation of the allowance for the plaintiff's attorney should be deferred until it can be determined if the corporation has benefited. Masholie v Salvator, 269 A.D. 846, 55 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1945).

Plaintiffs who create fund for benefit of corporation are entitled to their expenses and reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees out of fund; former § 61-a was declaratory in this respect. Neuberger v Barrett, 39 N.Y.S.2d 575, 180 Misc. 222, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2353 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

To warrant assessment of expenses against corporations pursuant to former § 61-a, corporations must have been benefited. Masholie v Salvator, 46 N.Y.S.2d 596, 182 Misc. 523, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1663 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944), modified, 269 A.D. 846, 55 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1945).

Former § 61-a was intended to reward, out of corporate treasury, those who either brought money to the treasury or prevented others from taking money out of it. Drivas v Lekas, 48 N.Y.S.2d 785, 182 Misc. 567, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1999 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

A successful party was entitled to allowance of expenses under former § 61-a regardless of specific demand therefor in complaint on principle that those sharing benefits should share expenses of producing benefit. Gildener v Lynch, 54 N.Y.S.2d 827, 184 Misc. 427, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1773 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

A vindication on the merits is not a condition precedent to granting an application for assessment of expenses allowed by § 64. A dismissal of an action for failure to furnish security for cost is a sufficient determination that the defendant has been successful in whole or in part as required by § 67. Tichner v Andrews, 85 N.Y.S.2d 760, 193 Misc. 1050, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1695 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 275 A.D. 749, 90 N.Y.S.2d 920, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4321 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

Since this section permits a party to be reimbursed for expenses where successful either "in whole or in part," the fact that he has only been partially successful at the stage of trial when plaintiff is required to give security pursuant to § 61-b, and has been ordered to account with respect to certain matters, will not entitle plaintiff to an order cancelling a prior order requiring the posting of security pursuant to § 61-b. Sorin v Shahmoon Industries, Inc., 34 Misc. 2d 1008, 231 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3814 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Under this section the only test for the granting of allowances is that of success in the prosecution or defense of the action. The creation or production of a fund is not a prerequisite for an award of compensation for services. Bysheim v Miranda, 45 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2641 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

16. Under former General Corporation Law § 68

As to assessment of attorney's fees against a corporation for legal services in successfully defending an officer of the corporation against charges of misconduct, although some of the language in § 68 might indicate that the attorney is entitled to apply directly for the assessment, the implication from § 63 and other sections of this article is that the assessment and allowance can only be made by way of indemnity or reimbursement to the officer charged with the allegedly objectionable conduct, and that the application must be in his name notwithstanding both he and the attorney are residents of New York. Buchman & Buchman v

Lanston Industries, Inc., 25 Misc. 2d 818, 200 N.Y.S.2d 445, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3367 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

§ 725. Other provisions affecting indemnification of directors and officers

(a) All expenses incurred in defending a civil or criminal action or proceeding which are advanced by the corporation under paragraph (c) of section 723 (Payment of indemnification other than by court award) or allowed by a court under paragraph (c) of section 724 (Indemnification of directors and officers by a court) shall be repaid in case the person receiving such advancement or allowance is ultimately found, under the procedure set forth in this article, not to be entitled to indemnification or, where indemnification is granted, to the extent the expenses so advanced by the corporation or allowed by the court exceed the indemnification to which he is entitled.

(b) No indemnification, advancement or allowance shall be made under this article in any circumstance where it appears:

(1) That the indemnification would be inconsistent with the law of the jurisdiction of incorporation of a foreign corporation which prohibits or otherwise limits such indemnification; or

(2) That the indemnification would be inconsistent with a provision of the certificate of incorporation, a by-law, a resolution of the board or of the members, an agreement or other proper corporate action, in effect at the time of the accrual of the alleged cause of action asserted in the threatened or pending action or proceeding in which the expenses were incurred or other amounts were paid, which prohibits or otherwise limits indemnification; or

(3) If there has been a settlement approved by the court, that the indemnification would be inconsistent with any condition with respect to indemnification expressly imposed by the court in approving the settlement.

(c) If any expenses or other amounts are paid by way of indemnification, otherwise than by court order or action by the members, the corporation shall prepare a statement specifying the persons paid, the amounts paid, and the nature and status at the time of such payment of the litigation or threatened litigation, and

(1) Not later than the next annual meeting of members, unless such meeting is held within three months from the date of such payment, and, in any event, within fifteen months of the date of such payment, shall mail the statement to its members of record entitled at the time to vote for the election of directors; or

(2) If the corporation has no members, shall include the statement in the records of the corporation open to public inspection, or

(3) If the corporation is a cemetery corporation, as defined in paragraph (a) of section 1502 (Definitions), which term, for the purposes of this section, shall include a religious corporation having members, (i) by including the statement required by this paragraph or paragraph (d) of section 726 (Insurance for indemnification of directors and officers), as the case may be in the records of the corporation open to public inspection; (ii) by including the information required by the statement in any notice published pursuant to the provisions of section 605 (Notice of meeting of members), except as otherwise provided by law; (iii) by enclosing the statement with the notice of annual meeting if such notice is in fact mailed to the members; and (iv) by raising the issue for approval at the next annual meeting of the members.

(d) If any action with respect to indemnification of directors and officers is taken by way of amendment of the by-laws, resolution of directors, or by agreement, then the corporation shall, not later than the next annual meeting of members, unless such meeting is held within three months from the date of such action, and, in any event, within fifteen months from the date of such action, mail to its members of record at the time entitled to vote for the election of directors a statement specifying the action taken. If the corporation has no members, the statement shall be included in the records of the corporation open to public inspection.

(e) The provisions of this article relating to indemnification of directors and officers and insurance therefor shall apply to domestic corporations and foreign corporations conducting activities in this state, except as provided in section 1321 (Exemption from certain provisions).

Comment: This section is derived from Bus Corp L § 726, with modifications and deletions to accommodate the different circumstances of a non-profit corporation. The provisions of this section are generic and, except as otherwise specifically indicated, are intended to apply whether indemnification is made voluntarily by the corporation or by court proceedings. Paragraph (a) which imposes an obligation of repayment on the director or officer who is advanced litigation expenses as authorized, but to which he is ultimately found not to be entitled, is the same as in the Bus Corp L. Paragraph (b), continuing parallel provisions of Gen Corp L § 67, is modified only by the insertion of "or" at the conclusion of paragraph (b)(1). Paragraph (c) is modified to make provision for a statement of expenses or other amounts paid by way of indemnification in the case of a corporation having no members.

§ 726. Insurance for indemnification of directors and officers

(a) Subject to paragraph (b), a corporation shall have power to purchase and maintain insurance:

(1) To indemnify the corporation for any obligation which it incurs as a result of the indemnification of directors and officers under the provisions of this article, and

(2) To indemnify directors and officers in instances in which they may be indemnified by the corporation under the provisions of this article, and

(3) To indemnify directors and officers in instances in which they may not otherwise be indemnified by the corporation under the provisions of this article provided the contract of insurance covering such directors and officers provides, in a manner acceptable to the superintendent of financial services, for a retention amount and for co-insurance.

(b) No insurance under paragraph (a) may provide for any payment, other than cost of defense, to or on behalf of any director or officer:

(1) if a judgment or other final adjudication adverse to the insured director or officer establishes that his acts of active and deliberate dishonesty were material to the cause of action so adjudicated, or that he personally gained in fact a financial profit or other advantage to which he was not legally entitled, or

(2) in relation to any risk the insurance of which is prohibited under the insurance law of this state.

(c) Insurance under any or all subparagraphs of paragraph (a) may be included in a single contract or supplement thereto. Retrospective rated contracts are prohibited.

(d) The corporation shall, within the time and to the persons provided in paragraph (c) of section 725 (Other provisions affecting indemnification of directors and officers), mail a statement in respect to any insurance it has purchased or renewed under this section, specifying the insurance carrier, date of the contract, cost of the insurance, corporate positions insured, and a statement explaining all sums, not previously reported in a statement to members, paid under any indemnification insurance contract. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a cemetery corporation or a religious corporation having members which purchases or renews any insurance under this section after the effective date of the act which added this sentence to this paragraph, which corporation had two hundred fifty or more interments in the calendar year preceding such purchase or renewal, shall mail the statement required by this section to every person to whom a care notice or solicitation for services has been sent during such calendar year and to every person to whom a notice of annual meeting was mailed during such calendar year, but in no event to less than ten per centum of the lot owners of record during such calendar year. Such corporation shall not be required to mail such statement during any subsequent year, unless such corporation elects to mail notices of annual meeting to its members in which event the statement shall be enclosed as provided in clause (iii) of paragraph (c)(3) of section 725 (Other provisions affecting indemnification of directors and officers). A corporation having less than two hundred fifty interments in the calendar year preceding such purchase or renewal shall not be required to mail such statement unless such corporation elects to mail notices of annual meeting to its members in which event the statement shall be enclosed as provided in clause (iii) of paragraph (c)(3) of section 725 (Other provisions affecting indemnification of directors and officers).

HISTORY:
Add, L 1969, ch 1066, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1970.

§ 801. Right to amend certificate of incorporation

(a) A corporation may amend its certificate of incorporation, from time to time, in any and as many respects as may be desired, if such amendment contains only such provisions as might be lawfully contained in an original certificate of incorporation filed at the time of making such amendment.

(b) In particular, and without limitation upon such general power of amendment, a corporation may amend its certificate of incorporation, from time to time, so as:

(1) To change its corporate name.

(2) To enlarge, limit or otherwise change its corporate purposes.

(3) To strike out, change or add any provision not inconsistent with this chapter or any other statute relating to the affairs of the corporation, its rights or powers or the rights or powers of its members, directors or officers, including any provision required or permitted to be set forth in the by-laws.

(4) To extend its duration, or revive its existence if it has ceased to exist because of the expiration of its period of duration. A corporation may not however reduce its corporate duration.

(5) To specify, change or revoke the voting rights of its directors or members or of any class of members.

(6) To specify or change the location of the office of the corporation.

(7) To specify or change the post office address to which the secretary of state shall mail a copy of any process against the corporation served upon him.

(8) To make, revoke or change the designation of a registered agent, or to specify or change the address of its registered agent.

(9) To authorize the issuance of capital certificates and to fix the face value and terms of such certificates and the rights and privileges of their holders and the manner in which the terms, rights and privileges may be amended and to confer upon the holders of such certificates the right to vote in the election of directors and upon any other matters as may be set forth.

(c) A corporation created by special act may accomplish any or all amendments permitted in this article, in the manner and subject to the conditions provided in this article.

HISTORY:

Comment: The section combines the sections of the Gen Corp L and of the Mem Corp L relating to amendments and permits one or more amendments or changes to be included in a single certificate. The listing of the amendments is illustrative only, but not exclusive of any other amendments or changes that may be effected by amendment.

The section permits a change in the address for mailing of process and the designation of a registered agent for service of process.

The section also permits an amendment authorizing the corporation to issue capital certificates and to fix their face amount and their terms and the privileges of the certificate holders.

A corporation formed by or under a special act of the legislature may make any of the changes or amendments permitted in this section.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

ANALYSIS

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

(a) To accomplish any amendment, a certificate of amendment entitled "Certificate of amendment of the certificate of incorporation of ..... (name of corporation) under section 803 of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law" shall be signed and delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth:

(1) The name of the corporation and, if it has been changed, the name under which it was formed.

(2) The date its certificate of incorporation was filed by the department of state and the law under which it was formed.

(3) That the corporation is a corporation as defined in subparagraph (a) (5) of section 102 (Definitions).

(4) Each amendment effected thereby, setting forth the subject matter of each provision of the certificate of incorporation which is to be amended or eliminated and the full text of the provision or provisions, if any, which are to be substituted or added.

(5) The manner in which the amendment of the certificate of incorporation was authorized.

(6) A designation of the secretary of state as agent of the corporation upon whom process against it may be served and the post office address within or without this state to which the secretary of state shall mail a copy of any process against it served upon the secretary.

(b) Any number of amendments or changes may be included in one certificate under this section. Such certificate may also include any amendments or changes permitted by other sections and in that case the certificate shall set forth any additional statement required by any other section specifying the contents of a certificate to effect such amendment or change.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

SPEED TRAPS IN AMENDING BYLAWS

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

The internal affairs of a not-for-profit corporation may be regulated by the provisions of either the certificate of incorporation (COI) or the bylaws. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 402(c), 602. The dynamics of an organization change over time and internal governance provisions may need to be amended accordingly. Although changes to the COI require governmental filing and approval, changes to the bylaws can usually be accomplished through a completely transparent and internal process. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 803, 602. Unless the organization has grown exponentially, amending the bylaws is a relatively painless process. Larger corporations, however, may run into some speed traps.

Consider expanding internal governance provisions in bylaws to account for future growth.

Under Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(f), which has historically been interpreted broadly, bylaws may contain any provision "relating to" the business of the corporation, the conduct of the corporation's affairs, and the rights or powers of the corporation, its members, directors and officers. Given the broad authority granted to a corporation to control its own internal affairs, the bylaws can be expanded at the outset to allow for future growth without formal changes to the organizational structure. For example, the bylaws may provide for the delegation of tasks to committees or for participation in meetings via telephone conference calls. These types of provisions allow for flexibility when the organization is working through a growth spurt and do not interfere with management when the corporation is in its infancy.

Conflict between members and board may cause stalemate.

It is not unusual for a conflict to arise between the members of the corporation and the board of directors. This creates an especially difficult situation when the issue of amending the bylaws is on the table. Unless otherwise provided for in the bylaws or the COI, the bylaws may be adopted, amended or repealed by either the members entitled to vote in the election of directors or by the board. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(b). Any bylaw adopted by the board may be amended or repealed by the members and vice versa. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(c). This creates a potentially endless loop of amendments that can result in a stalemate until the conflict is resolved. Type B corporations with no members avoid this difficulty.

Consider scheduling and other logistics when amending bylaws.

Although the process for amending the bylaws is not complicated, some formalities must be followed. It is easy to forget timing, scheduling and other logistics when proposing bylaw amendments. If time is of the essence, the logistics can be another speed trap for the unwary. For example, if the members are considering the amendment, a notice of meeting must be prepared and sent to the members. Counsel should factor into the equation such things as quorum requirements, minimum voting requirements, and the level of involvement of the members. In some instances, the members will be happy to delegate the drafting to a committee and pass the proposal without much discussion. In other organizations, membership is intimately involved in operations and a number of meetings may be needed to discuss, dissect and agree on the exact wording of the amendments.

Special care must be taken when the proposed amendment relates to the election of directors. The board may change the rules related to an impending election, but if it does so, the notice sent to the corporation's members related to the next meeting when directors would be elected must be modified. The notice of meeting must not only restate the affected bylaw provision but must also include a concise statement of the changes. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 602(e). If the members' notice is not properly issued, the bylaw amendments will not be enforceable with respect to that election of directors. Counsel should consider initiating any such amendments at the membership level to avoid the extra step in the process.

Notify IRS of changes to bylaws if exemption has been granted.

Federal tax exempt status is available to a not-for-profit Corporation under a variety of federal bases pursuant to (IRC) 26 USCS § 501(a). If the corporation amending its bylaws has been granted such a tax exemption, notify the IRS of changes to the bylaws. IRS regulations require that a tax-exempt organization immediately notify the local IRS district director whenever a change is made to the character, operations or purpose for which it was originally created. Reg. 1.6033-2(i). This rule applies even if the organization is not required to file an annual information return (the Form 990).

(a) Any one or more of the changes authorized by paragraph (c) of section 802 (Authorization of amendment or change, class vote) may be accomplished by filing a certificate of change which shall be entitled "Certificate of Change of ..... (name of corporation) under section 803-A of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law" and shall be signed and delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth:

(1) The name of the corporation and if it has been changed, the name under which it was formed.

(2) The date its certificate of incorporation was filed by the department of state.

(3) Each change effected thereby.

(4) The manner in which the change was authorized.

(b) A certificate of change which changes only the post office address to which the secretary of state shall mail a copy of any process against the corporation served upon him or the address of the registered agent, provided such address being changed is the address of a person, partnership or other corporation whose address, as agent, is the address to be changed or who has been designated as registered agent for such corporation, may be signed and delivered to the department of state by such agent. The certificate of change shall set forth the statements required under subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) of paragraph (a) of this section; that a notice of the proposed change was mailed to the corporation by the party signing the certificate not less than thirty days prior to the date of delivery to the department and that such corporation has not objected thereto; and that the party signing the certificate is the agent of such corporation to whose address the secretary of state is requried to mail copies of any process against the corporation served upon him or the registered agent, if such be the case. A certificate signed and delivered under this paragraph shall not be deemed to effect a change of location of the office of the corporation in whose behalf such certificate is filed.

§ 804. Approvals, notices and effect

(a) (i) A certificate of amendment shall not be filed if the amendment adds, changes or eliminates a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in a certificate of incorporation requires consent or approval of a governmental body or officer or any other person or body, or if the amendment changes the name of a corporation whose certificate of incorporation had such consent or approval endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, unless such consent or approval is no longer required or is endorsed on or annexed to the certificate of amendment. A certificate of amendment adding, changing or eliminating a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in a certificate of incorporation requires the incorporator to send such certificate to a governmental body or officer or any other person or body, or if the amendment changes the name of a corporation whose certificate of incorporation was required to be delivered by the incorporator to a governmental body or officer or any other person or body, shall be delivered by the person or entity filing the certificate of amendment within thirty business days after the corporation receives confirmation from the department of state that the certificate has been accepted for filing.

(ii) Every certificate of amendment of a charitable corporation which seeks to change or eliminate a purpose or power enumerated in the corporation's certificate of incorporation, or to add a power or purpose not enumerated therein, shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of either (A) the attorney general, or (B) a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district in which the office of the corporation is located. At any time, including if the attorney general does not approve a certificate of amendment submitted pursuant to clause (A) of this subparagraph, or if the attorney general concludes that court review is appropriate, the corporation may apply for approval of the amendment to a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district in which the office of the corporation is located. Any application for approval of a certificate of amendment by the supreme court pursuant to this paragraph shall be on ten days' written notice to the attorney general.

(b) The department of state shall not file a certificate of amendment reviving the existence of a corporation unless the consent or approval of a governmental body or officer or any other person or body required to be endorsed on or annexed to the certificate of incorporation of a corporation formed for similar purposes, is attached thereto, or, if notice to the attorney-general was required prior to the filing of its certificate of incorporation, the certificate of amendment should indicate that such notice has been given as required by law.

(c) The department of state shall not file a certificate of amendment reviving the existence of a corporation if the name of the corporation being revived is not available under section 301 (Corporate name; general) for use by a corporation then being formed under this chapter, unless the certificate of amendment shall change the name to one which is available for such use.

(d) No amendment or change shall affect any existing cause of action in favor of or against the corporation, or any pending suit to which it shall be a party, or the existing rights of persons other than members; and in the event the corporate name shall be changed, no suit brought by or against the corporation under its former name shall abate for that reason.

(e) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, a certificate of amendment of a corporation whose statement of purposes specifically includes the establishment or operation of a child day care center, as that term is defined in section three hundred ninety of the social services law, shall provide a certified copy of such certificate to the office of children and family services within thirty days after the filing of such certificate with the department of state.

SET UP FOR SUCCESS RIGHT FROM THE START — STRATEGIES FOR PREPARING NOT-FOR PROFIT CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq.

General Editor, Glenn J. Bobeck, Esq., Phillips Lytle LLP www.phillipslytle.com

INSIGHT

Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402 sets forth the requirements for the contents of the Certificate of Incorporation (the "Certificate") which is filed with the Department of State (the "Department") to formally create a not-for-profit corporation. The practitioner should carefully consider the contents of the Certificate before filing it with the Department to get the entity started off on the right foot. Specifically, counsel should ensure that any contemplated powers are included in the Certificate, carefully draft the statement of purpose, avoid certain buzz words, and consider limiting internal governance provisions.

ANALYSIS

Include certain powers in Certificate if they are contemplated.

Certain powers must be included in the Certificate if they are going to be granted to the corporation. For example, if the management of the not-for-profit corporation is vested in individuals other than the Board of Directors (see Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 701), this power must be included in the Certificate. Similar requirements exist for the following powers: if members are required to make capital contributions other than the payment of dues (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 502); if the corporation can accept subventions (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 505); or if written consent of less than all members is permitted for certain types of corporate action (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 614).

Consider adding certain permissive powers to Certificate.

The Not-For-Profit Corporation Law permits, but does not require, the inclusion of certain provisions in the Certificate. For example, Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 709(a) permits a corporation to specify that the proportion of directors or the proportion of votes of directors that shall constitute a quorum or be necessary for the transaction of business or of any specified item of business shall be greater than the proportion prescribed by statute. The Certificate may also restrict the taking of action by the Board of Directors without a meeting and by written consent (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(b)) or permit directors to participate in meetings via telephone conference (Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 708(c)). If these actions are contemplated, the authority may be granted in the Certificate.

Pay particularly close attention to "purposes" section of Certificate.

The Certificate must include a statement of the purpose for which the corporation has been formed. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(a)(2). The practitioner should exercise caution when drafting the purposes clause. The purposes clause must be broad enough to cover not only the acts the proposed directors envision at the corporation's infancy, but also those acts the corporation may need to take as the organization matures and builds up steam. Failure to stay within the stated purposes of the entity can later create a liability for the entity and its directors, officers and members. This can easily occur if the purposes clause is narrowly constructed. It is possible to broaden the purposes clause at a later time by amending the Certificate. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802. The larger the organization, however, the more difficult it becomes to make sweeping changes to the fundamental structure of the organization, such as changing its charter. Also, pursuant to Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804, amendments to Certificates which add, change or eliminate a purpose, power or provision the inclusion of which in an initial Certificate require approval or consent from a governmental entity will require such approval or consent to be obtained. Also, certificates of amendments of charitable corporations which change, eliminate or add a power or purpose require approval of either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 804.

Avoid certain buzz words when drafting Certificate.

Any reference to certain buzz words will typically trigger a requirement for pre-approval or consent from a state agency prior to filing the Certificate. For example, Education Department consent may be required if the Certificate is drafted using the terms "education," "research," or "school." Private foundations seeking not-for-profit status should be sure to include a disclaimer of Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 404 activities that necessitate agency approval as well as the disclaimers required in Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 406. Pre-approval requirements can delay the process significantly, particularly if the agency requires revisions to the proposed Certificate (that will in turn require internal approvals as well). If state agency consent is necessary, counsel should consider reserving the chosen name for the entity. Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 303. A relatively small fee buys 60 days and may be well worth the investment if the approval process is stalled at any point and the name of the entity is important to the client.

It may be advisable to limit internal governance provisions in Certificate.

The certificate of incorporation may set forth any provision for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation that is consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law or any other New York law. Although it is permissible to add provisions relating to internal governance to the Certificate under Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 402(c), it may be more advisable to add those types of provisions to the bylaws. The dynamics of an organization change over time, and changes to operating procedures are inevitable. Changes to the Certificate require governmental filing and approval — at minimum, the Department's. Changes to the bylaws, however, require only proposal by the Board of Directors and vote of the membership — a completely transparent and internal process that is relatively painless unless the organization has grown exponentially. See Not-For-Profit Corp. Law § 802.

When adding internal governance provisions to the Certificate or the bylaws, ensure that those provisions are consistent with the Not-For-Profit Corp. Law. Inconsistencies can lead a court to stop the corporation in its tracks. See Sealey v. Amer. Socy. of Hypertension, Inc., 26 A.D.3d 254, 810 N.Y.S.2d 48 (1st Dep't 2006).

Notes to Decisions

Analysis

1. Generally
2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 30

1. Generally

Because The Not-For Profit Corporation Law Provisions governing Type B corporations, expressly incorporates a quasi-cy pres principle with respect to both the administration and use of assets (N-PCL §§ 513(6), 522) and the transfer of assets on dissolution (N-PCL §§ 1005(a)(3)(A), 1008(a)(15)), N-PCL § 804, which permits amendment of the certificate of incorporations of such corporation, cannot be construed to authorize an amendment inconsistent with the purposes for which funds were given to the corporation without compliance with such quasi-cy pres principles. Thus, the amendment of the certificate of incorporation of defendant The Knapp Foundation, a Type B not-for-profit corporation, authorizing its trustees "in their absolute discretion" to transfer its assets to another foundation for the purpose of furthering the good works of that organization without the Supreme Court passing upon said quasi-cy pres considerations, was improper. Alco Gravure, Inc. v Knapp Foundation, 64 N.Y.2d 458, 490 N.Y.S.2d 116, 479 N.E.2d 752, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15719 (N.Y. 1985).

Not-for-profit hospitals and not-for-profit corporations that sought to affiliate under newly created common parent corporation, which would assume certain statutory powers under Not-For-Profit Corporation Law including power to appoint and/or remove directors and approve amendments to respective certificates of incorporation and bylaws, were properly granted summary judgment declaring that proposed affiliation did not require notification to Attorney General and court approval under CLS N-PCL §§ 510, 511, 804 and 805. Nathan Littauer Hosp. Ass'n v Spitzer, 287 A.D.2d 202, 734 N.Y.S.2d 671, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12347 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 602, 744 N.Y.S.2d 762, 771 N.E.2d 835, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 940 (N.Y. 2002).

Delineation of nonprofit corporate powers was not an addition of powers triggering review and approval procedures; reservation of enumerated powers to sole corporate member did not change, eliminate or add to corporate powers warranting judicial intervention. Nathan Littauer Hosp. Ass'n v Spitzer, 287 A.D.2d 202, 734 N.Y.S.2d 671, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12347 (N.Y. Although the Attorney-General failed to appear on two occasions when the court was to consider an amendment to the certificate of incorporation of petitioner not-for-profit corporation, petitioner may not compel the Attorney-General to respond to petitioner's application by a CPLR article 78 proceeding in the nature of mandamus since mandamus does not lie in the absence of a showing that the Attorney-General failed to perform a duty enjoined upon him by law and there is no statute or other requirement obligating the Attorney-General to furnish a waiver or consent in connection with the approval of an amendment to the certificate of incorporation of a not-for-profit corporation; the applicable statutes (Not-For-Profit Corporation Law, § 804, subd [a]; § 404, subd [a]) require only that the Attorney-General be given notice that a not-for-profit corporation is applying to an appropriate Justice to amend its certificate of incorporation, and the failure of the Attorney-General to appear after proper service of the notice should result in the court's approval of the application in the absence of an apparent defect in the certificate. Electrical Industry Ass'n v State, 102 Misc. 2d 494, 423 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2898 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

New York Attorney General must be given notice of any application for approval to dilute the influence of a college and its president on the governance of a not-for-profit foundation, in effect transforming the foundation into an independent entity unaccountable to the college. Herbert H. Lehman College Found., Inc. v Fernandez, 292 A.D.2d 227, 739 N.Y.S.2d 375, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2465 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2002).

2. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 30

Where the original certificate of incorporation as a membership corporation was such as to require the consent of the Commissioner of Education under subd 2 of § 1, as specifying a purpose of establishing training and research in the field of psychoanalysis, an amendment of the certificate, under this section, which made it a purpose of the corporation to maintain an institution of learning for instruction of students in psychoanalysis and related subjects, would still require approval of the Board of Regents under § 224. Nat'l Psychological Ass'n for Psychoanalysis, Inc. v Allen, 14 A.D.2d 190, 217 N.Y.S.2d 893, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9367 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

An increase of the board of a membership corporation did not become legally effective until the filing of the certificate in the proper offices required by former § 14 from which this section is in part derived. Cabana v Holstein-Friesian Ass'n, 182 N.Y.S. 658, 112 Misc. 262, 1920 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1465 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1920), modified, 196 A.D. 842, 188 N.Y.S. 277, 1921 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5620 (N.Y. App. Div. 1921).

The statute of limitations runs from the time an application for a proposed amended certificate of incorporation is denied rather than from the date of a subsequent hearing granted as a matter of courtesy by the Board of Social Welfare at which the original decision was adhered to, and accordingly an application for an order under Civil Practice Act §§ 1283 et seq. annulling the determination which was made more than four months after the original disapproval is barred. Italian Hospitalization Soc. v State Department of Social Welfare, 34 N.Y.S.2d 385, 178 Misc. 183, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1522 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

Where the Board of Social Welfare has refused to permit a membership corporation to amend its certificate of incorporation to permit it to operate a hospital, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of the Board where it clearly appears that there was no arbitrary or malicious exercise of power. Italian Hospitalization Soc. v State Department of Social Welfare, 34 N.Y.S.2d 385, 178 Misc. 183, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1522 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

When the statute refers to "each public office", what is meant is the office of the Secretary of State and the office of the clerk of the county in which the corporation is located as specified in its certificate of incorporation. In re Daughters of Bilitis, Inc., 52 Misc. 2d 1075, 277 N.Y.S.2d 709, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1747 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

§ 805. Restated certificate of incorporation

(a) A corporation, when authorized by the board, may restate in a single certificate the text of its certificate of incorporation without making any amendment or change thereby, except that it may include any one or more of the amendments or changes which may be authorized by the board without a vote of members under this chapter. Alternatively, a corporation may restate in a single certificate the text of its certificate of incorporation as amended thereby to effect any one or more of the amendments or changes authorized by this chapter, when authorized as required by section 802 (Authorization of amendment or change, class vote).

(b) A restated certificate of incorporation, entitled "Restated certificate of incorporation of ..... (name of corporation) under section 805 of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law", shall be signed and delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth:

(1) The name of the corporation and, if it has been changed, the name under which it was formed.

(2) The date its certificate of incorporation was filed by the department of state.

(3) If the restated certificate restates the text of the certificate of incorporation without making any amendment or change, then a statement that the text of the certificate of incorporation is thereby restated without amendment or change to read as therein set forth in full.

(4) If the restated certificate restates the text of the certificate of incorporation as amended or changed thereby, then a statement that the certificate of incorporation is amended or changed to effect one or more of the amendments or changes authorized by this chapter, specifying each such amendment or change and that the text of the certificate of incorporation is thereby restated as amended or changed to read as therein set forth in full.

(5) The manner in which the restatement of the certificate of incorporation was authorized.

(c) A restated certificate need not include statements as to the incorporator or incorporators, or the first directors.

(d) Any amendment or change under this section shall be subject to any other section, not inconsistent with this section, which would be applicable if a separate certificate were filed to effect such amendment or change.

(e) Notwithstanding that the corporation would be required by any statute to secure from any supreme court justice, governmental body or officer, or other person or body, any consent or approval to the filing of its certificate of incorporation or a certificate of amendment, such consent or approval shall not be required with respect to the restated certificate if such certificate makes no amendment and if any previously required consent or approval had been secured.

(f) Upon filing by the department, the original certificate of incorporation shall be superseded and the restated certificate of incorporation, including any amendments and changes made thereby, shall be the certificate of incorporation of the corporation.

Changes: Completely new.

Comment: The section provides for the filing of a restated certificate of incorporation restating the provisions as previously amended. It may also include additional amendments permitted by statute. Authorization is by the board unless an amendment requiring shareholder authorization is included.

Paragraph (c) removes the necessity of including outdated statements as to the original incorporators and directors.

In paragraph (e), the approval of a public officer is made unnecessary if it had been previously obtained and the certificate is restated without further change.

Under paragraph (f), the restated certificate, after filing by the department of state, becomes the certificate of incorporation, rather than presumptive evidence of incorporation. This is consistent with the provision in § 106(a) that the restated certificate is prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

§ 1001. Plan of dissolution and distribution of assets

(a) The board shall adopt a plan for the dissolution of the corporation and the distribution of its assets. Such plan shall implement any provision in the certificate of incorporation prescribing the distributive rights of members.

(b) If the corporation is a charitable corporation and has no assets to distribute and no liabilities at the time of dissolution, the plan of dissolution shall include a statement to that effect.

(c) If the corporation has no assets to distribute, other than a reserve not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars for the purpose of paying ordinary and necessary expenses of winding up its affairs including attorney and accountant fees, and liabilities not in excess of ten thousand dollars at the time of adoption of the plan of dissolution, the plan of dissolution shall include a statement to that effect.

(d) If the corporation has assets to distribute or liabilities, the plan of dissolution shall contain:

(1) a description with reasonable certainty of the assets of the corporation and their fair value, and the total amount of debts and other liabilities incurred or estimated by the corporation, including the total amount of any accounting and legal fees incurred or estimated, in connection with the dissolution procedure.

(2) a statement as to whether any gifts or other assets are legally required to be used for a particular purpose.

(3) if there are assets received and held by the corporation either for a charitable purpose or which are legally required to be used for a particular purpose, a statement that the assets owned by the corporation, subject to any unpaid liabilities of the corporation, shall be distributed as required by any gift instrument or to a charitable corporation or organization or organizations exempt from taxation pursuant to federal and state laws and engaged in activities substantially similar to those of the dissolved corporation. Each such recipient organization shall be identified and the governing instrument and amendments thereto of each of the proposed recipient organizations shall be annexed to such statement, along with the most recent financial report of each recipient organization and a sworn affidavit from a director and officer of each recipient organization stating the purposes of the organization, and that it is currently exempt from federal income taxation.

(4) if any of the assets of the corporation are to be distributed to a recipient for a particular legally required purpose, an agreement by the recipient to apply the assets received only for such purpose shall be included.

Comment: This section, patterned in part after the Model Non-Profit Corporation Act, departs from existing statutory law regulating the dissolution of not-for-profit corporations by requiring the board of directors to initiate informal dissolution proceedings by preparing a plan for the dissolution of the corporation and the distribution of its assets in liquidation. No such board action was required or authorized by section 55 of the Mem Corp L which presently regulates the dissolution of not-for-profit corporations.

THE BENEFITS OF USING THE SIMPLIFIED METHOD OF DISSOLUTION.

By Kelly Mooney Lester, Esq. and Anat Alon-Beck, Esq.

INSIGHT

N-PCL Article 10 now provides a simplified method of dissolution for a not-for-profit corporation (the "Corporation") that has minimal assets and liabilities at the time the decision to dissolve is made. The simplified process requires administrative consent from the Attorney General, but keeps the dissolution process out of court.

ANALYSIS

Traditionally, all not-for-profit Corporations that commenced dissolution proceedings were required to seek judicial approval. This method requires a formal petition, administrative consent, filing fees and court proceedings (all at considerable time and expense to the Corporation). By taking advantage of the new simplified method offered by N-PCL § 1002, certain not-for-profit Corporations may avoid the expensive and time-consuming step of judicial approval.

In both cases, the Corporation must complete paperwork and seek approval from the Attorney General prior to filing a certificate of dissolution with the Department of State. N-PCL §§ 1002(d) and 1003. Even so, the paperwork for the simplified method is less cumbersome and the process can proceed more quickly and with much less formality.

A couple of steps can be taken prior to adoption of a plan of dissolution to position a Corporation for dissolution using the simplified method. First, reduce the Corporation's liabilities to less than $10,000. Second, at the time the petition is filed, the Corporation's assets must consist solely of a reserve fund (less than $25,000) for legal fees and other anticipated dissolution expenses. N-PCL §§ 1001 and 1002.

If the assets of the Corporation are greater than that allowed at the time dissolution is first discussed, the Corporation may consider spending-down its excess resources on projects that fit within the established purposes of the Corporation. The practitioner is well-advised to take some time to review the organizational documents to determine if charitable gifts or sponsorships are an appropriate use of Corporation funds before disposing of assets in that manner. If the Corporation plans to use the simplified dissolution method, the plan for dissolution should not be formally adopted until the Corporation's funds have been appropriately reduced.

It may be that the formal, judicial dissolution process is the best option for the Corporation. However, best practices dictate that this new, simplified process of dissolution be explored to determine if it offers a more advantageous solution for a dissolving Corporation.

§ 1002. Authorization of plan

(a) Upon adopting a plan of dissolution and distribution of assets, the board shall submit it to a vote of the members, if any, and such plan shall be approved at a meeting of members by two-thirds vote as provided in paragraph (c) of section 613 (Vote of members) of this chapter; provided, however, that if the corporation is a charitable corporation, other than a corporation incorporated pursuant to article 15 (Public cemetery corporations) of this chapter, the vote required by the corporation's board of directors for adoption of the plan of dissolution of such a corporation or by the corporation's members for the authorization thereof shall be:

(1) In the case of a vote by the board of directors: (i) the number of directors required under the certificate of incorporation, by-laws, this chapter and any other applicable law; or

(ii) if the number of directors actually holding office as such at the time of the vote to adopt the plan is less than the number required to constitute a quorum of directors under the certificate of incorporation, the by-laws, this chapter or any other applicable law, the remaining directors unanimously;

(2) In the case of a vote by the members, (i) the number of members required under the certificate of incorporation, by-laws, this chapter and any other applicable law; or (ii) by the vote of members authorized by an order of the supreme court pursuant to section 608 (Quorum at meeting of members) of this chapter permitting the corporation to dispense with the applicable quorum requirement.

Notice of a special or regular meeting of the board of directors or of the members entitled to vote on adoption and authorization or approval of the plan of dissolution shall be sent to all the directors and members of record entitled to vote. Unless otherwise directed by order of the supreme court pursuant to section 608 (Quorum at meeting of members) of this chapter, the notice shall be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the last known address of record of each director and member not fewer than thirty, and not more than sixty days before the date of each meeting provided, however, that if the last known address of record of any director or member is not within the United States, the notice to such director shall be sent by any other reasonable means.

(b) If there are no members entitled to vote on the dissolution of the corporation, the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets shall be deemed authorized upon its adoption by the board.

(c) Whenever a statute creating, or authorizing the formation of, a corporation requires approval by a governmental body or officer for the formation of such corporation, dissolution shall not be authorized without the approval of such body or officer.

(d) (1) The plan of dissolution and distribution of assets shall have annexed thereto the approval of the attorney general in the case of a charitable corporation, and in the case of any non-charitable corporation which at the time of dissolution holds assets legally required to be used for a particular purpose.

(2) Application to the attorney general for such approval shall be by verified petition, with the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets and certified copies of the consents prescribed by this section annexed thereto.

(3) The attorney general may approve the petition if the corporation has adopted a plan in accordance with the requirements of section 1001 (Plan of dissolution and distribution of assets) of this article, and any other requirements imposed by law or rule. At any time, including if the attorney general does not approve the petition, or the attorney general concludes, in his or her discretion, that court review of the petition is appropriate, the corporation may apply for approval to the supreme court in the judicial district in which the principal office of the corporation is located, or in which the office of one of the domestic constituent corporations is located, for an order dissolving the corporation. Application to the supreme court for an order for such approval shall be by verified petition upon ten days written notice to the attorney general, and shall include all information required to be included in the application to the attorney general pursuant to this section.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Gen Corp Law § 101 and Mem Corp Law § 55.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 55.

Changes: Revised.

Comment: This section, setting forth the procedure for authorizing the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets adopted by the board, departs from existing statutory law by requiring approval for such plan by two-thirds of the votes cast at a duly convened meeting of the members (blank votes and abstentions not being counted as votes cast), provided that the votes cast in favor of the plan be at least equal to the requisite quorum for convening the meeting. Under § 55 of the Mem Corp L, which presently regulates the dissolution of not-for-profit corporations, a vote of two-thirds of all members entitled to vote thereon is required to authorize the dissolution.

In the case of a Type B corporation in which there are no members, the plan is deemed authorized upon its adoption by the board.

Paragraph (c) perpetuates the present requirement that the dissolution be approved by any governmental body or officer whose approval was required for the formation of the corporation.

Paragraph (d) departs from existing law to the extent that approval of the dissolution by a justice of the supreme court is not generally required for the Type A corporation. Such approval is required for Type B corporations, or for any corporation, whatever its type, which holds assets for distribution under the plan that are legally required to be used for a particular purpose ("cy pres" assets—see, § 1005(a)(3)(A)), and for Type C corporations which are those organized and conducted for business purposes. Since only the foregoing special types of not-for-profit corporations require supreme court approval, a provision has been added that application to the court for such approval be on notice to the attorney-general.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

N-PCL Article 10 now provides a simplified method of dissolution for a not-for-profit corporation (the "Corporation") that has minimal assets and liabilities at the time the decision to dissolve is made. The simplified process requires administrative consent from the Attorney General, but keeps the dissolution process out of court.

Traditionally, all not-for-profit Corporations that commenced dissolution proceedings were required to seek judicial approval. This method requires a formal petition, administrative consent, filing fees and court proceedings (all at considerable time and expense to the Corporation). By taking advantage of the new simplified method offered by N-PCL § 1002, certain not-for-profit Corporations may avoid the expensive and time-consuming step of judicial approval.

In both cases, the Corporation must complete paperwork and seek approval from the Attorney General prior to filing a certificate of dissolution with the Department of State. N-PCL §§ 1002(d) and 1003. Even so, the paperwork for the simplified method is less cumbersome and the process can proceed more quickly and with much less formality.

A couple of steps can be taken prior to adoption of a plan of dissolution to position a Corporation for dissolution using the simplified method. The practitioner is well-advised to take some time to review the organizational documents to determine if charitable gifts or sponsorships are an appropriate use of Corporation funds before disposing of assets in that manner. If the Corporation plans to use the simplified dissolution method, the plan for dissolution should not be formally adopted until the Corporation's funds have been appropriately reduced.

It may be that the formal, judicial dissolution process is the best option for the Corporation. However, best practices dictate that this new, simplified process of dissolution be explored to determine if it offers a more advantageous solution for a dissolving Corporation.

OPTIONS FOR MEMBERS IN THE MINORITY TO PUT AN END TO WRONGDOING

By Brendan J. Rich, Esq.

INSIGHT

Members in the minority of a not-for-profit corporation ("corporation") who want to stop those in control of the corporation from committing improper activities have various options available to them. A corporation must pursue the purposes for which it was formed as set forth in its certificate of incorporation, must follow those procedures established in its bylaws, and cannot distribute its funds for the private benefit of any director, officer or member. When those in control of a not-for-profit corporation cause it to deviate from any of these principles, those members in the minority may attempt to handle the situation internally, through the court system, or by putting the Attorney General on notice.

Call a special meeting of members to openly discuss the objectionable items.

A special meeting may be called by the members in the minority to bring the corporate malfeasance to the attention of all the members and to attempt to spur change. Members should review the corporation's organizational documents for the procedures pursuant to which such a meeting may be brought. If no such provision exists in the organizational documents or if the number of members needed to call such a meeting is an insurmountable impediment, such a meeting may be convened by ten percent (10%) of the members entitled to vote at such a meeting pursuant to N- PCL § 603(c). Such an action will force those in the majority to openly discuss the objectionable items. If the minority's concerns are not properly addressed after such a meeting, the members may resign from the corporation, bring a derivative action on behalf of the corporation, or even seek the dissolution of the corporation. The special meeting is important as it will memorialize the members' objections in the corporate record and may prove to be critical from a public relations standpoint and in any future litigation.

A derivative action may be commenced to recover funds on behalf of the corporation.

If minority members constitute five percent (5%) or more of the total membership, they can bring a derivative action in the name of the corporation pursuant to N-PCL §§ 623 and 720(b)(3). Such an action can take many forms, such as an action: (i) against an individual director or officer for fraud or breach of fiduciary duties; (ii) to set aside any action that was beyond the corporate "purposes"; or, (iii) to enjoin a proposed improper conveyance of corporate assets. In such an action the importance of the special meeting becomes apparent; pursuant to N-PCL § 623(c) the complaint must set forth, with particularity, the attempt to address the objectionable behavior presented in the complaint.

The practitioner should be aware that while a derivative action, if successful, can result in the recovery of funds for the corporation and the likely resignation or dismissal of the offending actors, it could also subject the corporation's affairs to public scrutiny, result in litigation expenses that may be unrecoverable, and could divert the corporation's funds and attention from its mission.

Minority members may seek dissolution and distribution of funds to an appropriate successor.

The members in the minority, specifically those making up ten percent (10%) of the total membership, can bring an action to dissolve the corporation pursuant to N-PCL § 1102(a)(2) and to distribute the corporation's funds to a similar entity. An action pursuant to N-PCL §1102(a)(2)(D) appears to be the best option available to a smaller number of members, as it deals with controlling members acting in a fraudulent manner and perpetuating the corporation solely for their personal benefit. In the face of the limited case law it appears to be a hard case to make, however, as it has been held that dissolution is a drastic measure and that even if excessive spending can be proven, in the absence of bad faith, dissolution is not appropriate. Application of John Luther & Sons Co., 52 A.D.2d 737, 381 N.Y.S.2d 934 (4th Dept, 1976). A larger obstacle for a petition based on N-PCL § 1102 is that it must be established that such dissolution would be beneficial to the membership as a whole, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(2). In a situation where the majority of the members agree with the inappropriate actions taken by those in the control of the corporation, meeting that threshold could present problems for the minority members. It is important to note that even if the action is successful and the corporation is dissolved and its funds released to another not-for-profit corporation with a similar purpose, the cost of litigation may be great and may deplete a large percentage of the corporation's funds.

Putting the Attorney General on notice of the improper activity.

An informal option available to the minority members would be to notify the Attorney General of the corporation's activities. Pursuant to N-PCL § 1101(a)(2), an action can be brought by the Attorney General to dissolve a corporation that has persistently acted fraudulently and contrary to public policy. In such an action, it must be demonstrated that the corporation exceeded its powers and that this abuse of power has threatened the public welfare. People v. North River Sugar Refining Co., 121 N.Y. 582 (1890). In addition, pursuant to N-PCL § 1109(b)(1), in such an action the public interest, rather than the benefit to the corporation's membership, is of supreme importance. There is a great deal of uncertainty involved with this course action, such as (i) the lack of control of the distribution of the corporation's funds following dissolution; and (ii) what the investigation will uncover, as all corporate actions, not just the objectionable ones complained of, are open to investigation. It is important for the practitioner to note that if the corporate actions come under scrutiny by the Attorney General, it is likely that an audit by the Department of Taxation and Finance will follow. Such an investigation could result in the corporation being stripped of its tax-exempt status and could jeopardize the deductibility of any donations made by the members in the minority if it is determined that the members knew that the improper activity was taking place.

Prior to filing the certificate of dissolution with the department of state, a corporation, as applicable, shall:

(a) Carry out the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets, pay its liabilities and distribute its assets in accordance therewith within two hundred seventy days from the date the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets shall have been (1) authorized as provided in section 1002 (Authorization of plan) of this article, (2) approved by any governmental body or officer whose approval is required pursuant to paragraph (c) of section 1002 (Authorization of plan) of this article, and (3) approved by either the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court pursuant to paragraph (d) of section 1002 (Authorization of plan) of this article. Evidence of the disposition of its assets and payment of its liabilities pursuant to the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets shall be submitted by the corporation to the attorney general and any other governmental body or officer, as required under applicable laws. If the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets cannot be carried out within the prescribed time, the attorney general may upon good cause shown extend such time, or any extended period of time, by not fewer than thirty days nor more than one year;

(b) Pursuant to the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets, fulfill or discharge its contracts, collect and sell its assets for cash at public or private sale, discharge or pay its liabilities, and do all other acts appropriate to liquidate its business;

(c) Distribute the assets of the corporation that remain after paying or adequately providing for the payment of its liabilities, in the following manner:

(1) assets received and held by the corporation either for a charitable purpose or which are legally required to be used for a particular purpose, shall be distributed to one or more domestic or foreign corporations or other organizations engaged in activities substantially similar to those of the dissolved corporation pursuant to the plan of dissolution and distribution or, if applicable, as approved by the attorney general or ordered by the supreme court pursuant to section 1002 (Authorization of plan) of this article. Any disposition of assets contained in a will or other instrument, in trust or otherwise, made before or after the dissolution, to or for the benefit of any corporation so dissolved shall inure to or for the benefit of the corporation or organization acquiring such assets of the dissolved corporation as provided in this section, and so far as is necessary for that purpose the corporation or organization acquiring such disposition shall be deemed a successor to the dissolved corporation with respect to such assets; provided, however, that such disposition shall be devoted by the acquiring corporation or organization to the purposes intended by the testator, donor or grantor.

(2) assets other than those described by subparagraph one of this paragraph, if any, shall be distributed in accordance with the specifications of the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets or, to the extent that the certificate of incorporation prescribes the distributive rights of members, or of any class or classes of members, as provided in such certificate;

(d) Within six months from the date fixed for the payment of the final liquidating distribution pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, pay any assets distributable to a creditor or member who is unknown or cannot be found, to the state comptroller pursuant to the abandoned property law;

(e) Distribute assets that are not subject to subparagraph one of paragraph (c) of this section under a plan of distribution, in accordance with the following order of priorities:

(1) holders of certificates of subvention.

(2) holders of capital certificates.

(3) members, if permitted by law.

Matthew Bender's New York Business Entities: 7-10 White, New York Business Entities ¶ N1002-a.01 et seq.

§ 1003. Certificate of dissolution; contents; approval

(a) After the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets has been adopted, authorized, approved and carried out pursuant to the terms of the plan within the time period set forth pursuant to section 1002-a (Carrying out the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets), a certificate of dissolution, entitled "Certificate of dissolution of . . . . . (name of corporation) under section 1003 of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law" shall be signed and, if required pursuant to subparagraph two of paragraph (b) of this section, after the attorney general has affixed thereon his or her consent to the dissolution, such certificate of dissolution shall be delivered to the department of state. It shall set forth:

(1) The name of the corporation and, if its name has been changed, the name under which it was formed.

(2) The date its certificate of incorporation was filed by the department of state.

(3) The name and address of each of its officers and directors.

(4) A statement as to whether the corporation is a charitable corporation or a non-charitable corporation.

(5) A statement as to whether or not the corporation holds assets at the time of authorization of its plan of dissolution and distribution of assets as provided in section 1002 of this article (Authorization of plan) which are legally required to be used for a particular purpose.

(6) That the corporation elects to dissolve.

(7) The manner in which the dissolution was authorized. If the dissolution of the corporation is authorized by a vote of the directors and/or members of the corporation that is less than that ordinarily required by the certificate of incorporation, the bylaws, this chapter or any other applicable law, as permitted by paragraph (a) of section 1002 (Authorization of plan) of this article, then the certificate of dissolution shall so state.

(8) A statement that prior to delivery of such certificate of dissolution to the department of state for filing, the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets has been approved by the attorney general or by a justice of the supreme court, if such approval is required pursuant to section 1002 (Authorization of plan) of this article. A copy of the approval of the attorney general or of the court order shall be attached to the certificate of dissolution. In the case of a corporation, other than a corporation incorporated pursuant to article 15 (Public cemetery corporations), having no assets to distribute, or having no assets to distribute other than a reserve not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars for the purpose of paying ordinary and necessary expenses of winding up its affairs including attorney and accountant fees, and liabilities not in excess of ten thousand dollars at the time of dissolution, a statement that a copy of the plan of dissolution which contains the statement prescribed by paragraph (b) of section 1001 (Plan of dissolution and distribution of assets) has been duly filed with the attorney general, if required.

(b) Such certificate of dissolution shall have endorsed thereon or annexed thereto the approval of the dissolution:

(1) By a governmental body or officer, if such approval is required. A corporation whose statement of purposes specifically includes the establishment or operation of a child day care center, as that term is defined in section three hundred ninety of the social services law, shall provide a certified copy of any certificate of dissolution involving such corporation to the office of children and family services within thirty days after the filing of such dissolution with the department of state.

(2) By the attorney general in the case of a charitable corporation, or any other corporation that holds assets at the time of dissolution legally required to be used for a particular purpose.

(c) The application to the attorney general for approval of the certificate of dissolution pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section shall be by verified petition and shall include a final financial report showing disposition of all of the corporation's assets and liabilities, the requisite governmental approvals and the appropriate fees, if any, accompanied by the certificate of dissolution.

Derivation Notes: Derived from Mem Corp Law § 55.

Revision Notes: Source: Mem Corp L § 55.

Changes: Slightly revised.

Comment: This section, which prescribes the contents of the certificate of dissolution and the requisite approvals for filing, expands § 55 of the Mem Corp L, presently regulating not-for-profit corporations, by requiring inclusion in the certificate of three additional items: (a) a statement as to the type of corporation; (b) a statement indicating whether or not the corporation holds assets for distribution which are legally required to be used for a particular purpose ("cy-pres" assets —see, § 1005(a)(3)(A)); and (c) where necessary, statement whether supreme court approval for the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets has been obtained. The inclusion of the foregoing items is designed to alert the department of state to the fact that the approval of a supreme court justice must be endorsed on or attached to the certificate of dissolution before it can be filed.

Editor's Notes: Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes: The 2015 amendment by ch 358, § 8, added "approval of the attorney general or of the court" in the second sentence of (a)(8).

THE BENEFITS OF USING THE SIMPLIFIED METHOD OF DISSOLUTION.

INSIGHT

N-PCL Article 10 now provides a simplified method of dissolution for a not-for-profit corporation (the "Corporation") that has minimal assets and liabilities at the time the decision to dissolve is made. The simplified process requires administrative consent from the Attorney General, but keeps the dissolution process out of court.

ANALYSIS

Traditionally, all not-for-profit Corporations that commenced dissolution proceedings were required to seek judicial approval. This method requires a formal petition, administrative consent, filing fees and court proceedings (all at considerable time and expense to the Corporation). By taking advantage of the new simplified method offered by N-PCL § 1002, certain not-for-profit Corporations may avoid the expensive and time-consuming step of judicial approval.

In both cases, the Corporation must complete paperwork and seek approval from the Attorney General prior to filing a certificate of dissolution with the Department of State. N-PCL §§ 1002(d) and 1003. Even so, the paperwork for the simplified method is less cumbersome and the process can proceed more quickly and with much less formality.

A couple of steps can be taken prior to adoption of a plan of dissolution to position a Corporation for dissolution using the simplified method. First, reduce the Corporation's liabilities to less than $10,000. Second, at the time the petition is filed, the Corporation's assets must consist solely of a reserve fund (less than $25,000) for legal fees and other anticipated dissolution expenses. N-PCL §§ 1001 and 1002.

If the assets of the Corporation are greater than that allowed at the time dissolution is first discussed, the Corporation may consider spending-down its excess resources on projects that fit within the established purposes of the Corporation. The practitioner is well-advised to take some time to review the organizational documents to determine if charitable gifts or sponsorships are an appropriate use of Corporation funds before disposing of assets in that manner. If the Corporation plans to use the simplified dissolution method, the plan for dissolution should not be formally adopted until the Corporation's funds have been appropriately reduced.

It may be that the formal, judicial dissolution process is the best option for the Corporation. However, best practices dictate that this new, simplified process of dissolution be explored to determine if it offers a more advantageous solution for a dissolving Corporation.

1. Generally

In view of the special circumstances relating to the block of stock in the trust, requiring protracted arrangements for its sale or disposition, there was no reason to disapprove a plan of dissolution and distribution of charitable trust assets merely because liquidation required a step by step process. In re Martin Foundation, Inc., 73 Misc. 2d 985, 343 N.Y.S.2d 518, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1265 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972), aff'd, 41 A.D.2d 905, 342 N.Y.S.2d 643 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

2. Under former N-PCL § 1005

Under quasi cy pres standard of CLS N-PCL § 1005, Supreme Court Justice, in determining whether to approve plan of distribution proposed by corporation's board of directors, and if not to what other charitable organization distribution should be made, should consider (1) source of funds to be distributed, whether received through public subscription or under trust provision of will or other instrument, (2) purposes and powers of corporation as enumerated in its certificate of incorporation, (3) activities in fact carried out and service actually provided by corporation, (4) relationship of activities and purposes of proposed distributees to those of dissolving corporation, and (5) bases for distribution recommended by board of directors. In re Multiple Sclerosis Service Organization, Inc., 68 N.Y.2d 32, 505 N.Y.S.2d 841, 496 N.E.2d 861, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19365 (N.Y. 1986).

Standard governing distribution of assets of charitable corporation being dissolved under CLS N-PCL § 1005 ("engaged in activities substantially similar to") is less restrictive and accords greater authority to corporation's board of directors and to courts than standard governing distribution of assets held by trustee under will or other instrument making distribution for charitable purposes under CLS EPTL § 8-1.1 ("will most effectively accomplish its general purposes") or standard governing distribution of assets held by officers and trustees of voluntary association which has received by public subscription fund for charitable purposes from more than 1,000 contributors under CLS EPTL § 8-1.1 ("will most effectively accomplish the general purpose for which such fund was collected") or cy pres standard at common law ("as nearly as possible"). In re Multiple Sclerosis Service Organization, Inc., 68 N.Y.2d 32, 505 N.Y.S.2d 841, 496 N.E.2d 861, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19365 (N.Y. 1986).

Legislation, primarily involving the amendment of N.Y. Ins. Law § 4301 and the enactment of N.Y. Ins. Law § 7317, which permitted New York State's historic hospital-linked not-for-profit health insurer to reorganize as a for-profit and, pursuant to N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 1005, to place some of its assets in a charitable trust to promote accessible health care, did not unconstitutionally deprive subscribers of any property right, did not impair contracts, did not confer an exclusive privilege, and did not involve allowing the corporation's board members to breach any fiduciary duties; it was legislation aimed at allowing the corporation to survive, while assuring that some of its assets promoted its historic values. Consumers Union of U.S., Inc. v State, 5 N.Y.3d 327, 806 N.Y.S.2d 99, 840 N.E.2d 68, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1433 (N.Y. 2005).

Cy pres doctrine, codified at CLS N-PCL §§ 1005 et seq., requires that corporation be dissolved either voluntarily or through proceeding brought by Attorney General; thus, doctrine had no relevance in mortgage foreclosure proceeding wherein defendant mortgagor alleged that mortgagee corporation's invalid assignment of mortgage operated to automatically dissolve corporation. Aquarian Ctr. for Initiation Corp. v Church of God, 193 A.D.2d 708, 598 N.Y.S.2d 69, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4925 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

In ordering distribution under the dissolution statutes, the Supreme Court is not concerned with the directions or intentions of the creator or testator but only that the funds be transferred to a charitable recipient having similar purposes to the dissolved charitable corporation. In re Will of Goehringer, 69 Misc. 2d 145, 329 N.Y.S.2d 516, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2132 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1972).

Testamentary bequests to not-for-profit charitable corporations who had been dissolved either through bankruptcy or otherwise had to be distributed to those who acquired the corporation's assets, as long as these successors were engaged in activities substantially similar to those of the dissolved corporation. In re Estate of Thurston, 192 Misc. 2d 344, 746 N.Y.S.2d 343, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1014 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 2002).

When the operator of a children's hospital's simply amended its corporate name and purpose after the hospital's assets and facilities were purchased by medical centers, N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law §§ 1005 and 905 did not apply to a bequest under a charitable trust because the hospital had not been formally dissolved and because there had not been a merger. Matter of Hummel, 30 A.D.3d 802, 817 N.Y.S.2d 424, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7960 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 7 N.Y.3d 713, 824 N.Y.S.2d 605, 857 N.E.2d 1136, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 3303 (N.Y. 2006).

3. Under former General Corporation Law § 29

The statutory procedures for dissolution of corporations were set up to avoid the injustices of the common-law rule that, upon dissolution of a corporation, its assets escheated to the sovereign. Northern Properties, Inc. v Kuf Realty Corp., 30 Misc. 2d 1, 217 N.Y.S.2d 355, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2923 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Mere dissolution of a corporation does not totally destroy its existence, but it continues its corporate character for liquidation of its assets and payment of its debts and may be sued in its corporate name. Bloedorn v Washington Times Co., 89 F.2d 835, 1937 U.S. App. LEXIS 3601 (D.C. 1937).

4. —Directors as trustees for liquidation

After dissolution directors, by this section, become trustees for the creditors and are personally liable for corporate debts to the extent of corporate property coming into their hands. But an action by a creditor of a dissolved corporation must be brought against the corporation, not against the directors alone. Cunningham v Glauber, 133 A.D. 10, 117 N.Y.S. 866, 1909 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2089 (N.Y. App. Div. 1909).

The directors of a corporation become, upon dissolution of the corporation, trustees for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the corporation, and the statute of limitations does not begin to run in their favor so as to bar a proceeding to require the surviving directors of a dissolved corporation to present and file an account unless and until the trust is terminated or unless and until the trust is repudiated or denied. In re Baldwin Trading Corp., 8 A.D.2d 968, 190 N.Y.S.2d 949, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7503 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1959), aff'd, 8 N.Y.2d 144, 202 N.Y.S.2d 312, 168 N.E.2d 383, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1142 (N.Y. 1960).

On application for appointment of a receiver pendente lite of assets of a corporation in dissolution, defendant directors, in possession of any administering assets of corporation, under this section, are not trustees of an express trust, as such a trust is defined by Real Prop. Law, § 96, and Pers. Prop. Law, § 11. Hassett v Kimball, 258 N.Y.S. 17, 144 Misc. 50, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1157 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

5. — —Delegation of powers

Under this section the president of a de facto corporation, who is also one of the trustees in liquidation, may be delegated to effectuate a sale of the corporation. Gaillard Realty Co. v Manhattan Brass Co., 238 A.D. 84, 263 N.Y.S. 397, 1933 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9427 (N.Y. App. Div. 1933).

Under the provisions of this section authorizing the directors of a corporation in dissolution to settle its affairs and distribute its assets and to elect or appoint officers who may execute transfers and conveyances in the corporate name, upon authority of the directors, an assignment of mortgage executed by the president of a corporation in dissolution and reciting that its execution is by order of the directors is sufficient, prima facie, to establish transfer to the assignee. Northern Properties, Inc. v Kuf Realty Corp., 30 Misc. 2d 1, 217 N.Y.S.2d 355, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2923 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

This section, in providing that upon a corporate dissolution that directors may appoint officers, fill vacancies on the board, etc., does not contemplate, after dissolution, any "de facto" officers or that persons in interest may merely "assume" official positions. A. & R. Theatre Corp. v Azteca Films, Inc., 218 F. Supp. 893, 1962 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3069 (S.D.N.Y. 1962).

6. — —Appointment of liquidator on failure to agree

A sanatorium, although its corporate existence had expired, was entitled by reason of § 29 to receive the residuary estate of a decedent. In re Mohr's Estate, 24 N.Y.S.2d 977, 175 Misc. 706, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1403 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1941).

Under § 29 the directors are authorized to settle the corporate affairs of a corporation undergoing dissolution, but where the directors are evenly divided, making agreement on conduct impossible, the court has implied power to appoint a liquidator. Gutwirth & Errante Homes, Inc. v Jacobowitz, 81 N.Y.S.2d 607, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2895 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

7. —Continuing corporate powers

Under this section a corporation which has filed a certificate of voluntary dissolution may lawfully enter into an agreement of retainer fixing attorney's fees to be paid for legal services required to be rendered in prosecuting claims for damages. Application of Peters, 271 A.D. 518, 67 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2789 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946), modified, 296 N.Y. 974, 73 N.E.2d 560, 296 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 974, 1947 N.Y. LEXIS 1720 (N.Y. 1947).

8. — —Right to maintain action

Dissolution of a corporation had no effect upon a cause of action for damages sustained before dissolution of said corporation. I. Kalfus Co. v Ad Press, Ltd., 53 N.Y.S.2d 496, 184 Misc. 285, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1536 (N.Y. Mun. Ct.), rev'd, 56 N.Y.S.2d 373, 185 Misc. 214, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2026 (N.Y. App. Term 1945).

An educational corporation which had a provisional charter which had expired could maintain an action for an accounting for a large sum of money allegedly belonging to it which defendant had received as its fiduciary if the action was brought for the purpose of settling the corporate affairs. School of Music of Brooklyn Free Musical Society, Inc. v Moritt, 145 N.Y.S.2d 645, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3820 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Corporation which had been dissolved could not maintain action for specific performance of alleged undertaking to effectuate a lien on realty. Dieselcraft Corp. v Joca Realty Corp., 161 N.Y.S.2d 761 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

9. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 55

This section is not mandatory and is not retroactive. St. John of Vizzini v Cavallo, 234 N.Y.S. 683, 134 Misc. 152, 1929 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 810 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1929).

Where a charitable society, which was remainderman under a testamentary trust, was dissolved prior to the death of the life beneficiary, the remainder gift vested irrevocably in the society upon the death of the testatrix. The trustee was directed to make inquiry and join in the proceeding for judicial settlement of his accounts the successors in interest or surviving directors of such society. In re Tapper's Will, 139 N.Y.S.2d 110, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3637 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1954).

10. Under former Membership Corporations Law § 56

The mere fact that, in proceedings by directors of a dissolved charity organized under this act, a particular corporation or association is suggested by petitioners as a proper successor to funds and property of the dissolved corporation, gives that organization no legal right to any of the funds, and such corporation is not a person aggrieved entitled to appeal from disposition of the funds to other charities. Application of Richmond County Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, 11 A.D.2d 236, 204 N.Y.S.2d 707, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8437 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1960), aff'd, 9 N.Y.2d 913, 217 N.Y.S.2d 86, 176 N.E.2d 97, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1229 (N.Y. 1961).

In a proceeding instituted under this section by the directors of a dissolved charitable corporation, known as the Richmond County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, for an order authorizing transfer of all funds, etc., to appellant, likewise a charitable corporation organized under this act, or to such other corporation as to the court might seem just and proper, it was the duty of the court to transfer the funds to such other corporation or association as, in its best judgment, would best accomplish the general purposes for which the original society was organized, requiring application of the cy pres doctrine and involving exercise of a large measure of discretion. Application of Richmond County Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, 11 A.D.2d 236, 204 N.Y.S.2d 707, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8437 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1960), aff'd, 9 N.Y.2d 913, 217 N.Y.S.2d 86, 176 N.E.2d 97, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1229 (N.Y. 1961).

Where will bequeathed property to three charities, one of which was nonexistent, and will disclosed a general charitable intent, court divided the bequest between the two remaining charitable legatees. In re Sanders' Estate, 7 Misc. 2d 800, 161 N.Y.S.2d 982, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3351 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1957).

An application pursuant to this section is premature where it is made before a membership corporation has been dissolved pursuant to Article VIII of the Membership Corporation Law or where it is made before the corporation is dissolved by the expiration of its corporate existence. Madden v Atkins, 14 Misc. 2d 813, 179 N.Y.S.2d 748, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2628 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A proceeding under this section for the retention of moneys to satisfy claims against a corporation should have been initiated by an order to show cause and not by a notice of motion in the action giving rise to the claims. Madden v Atkins, 14 Misc. 2d 813, 179 N.Y.S.2d 748, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2628 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

Where a membership corporation sought leave upon its dissolution to transfer its assets to another institution with purposes most clearly comporting with original beneficent purposes and where there was a conflict in the papers in respect of the appropriate successorship to the purposes the matter would be referred to a referee to hear and report as to the appropriate corporation or association to which should be transferred the property and assets of the dissolved membership corporation. Application of Italian Benevolent Institute, 127 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2566 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

Under the Cy Pres doctrine, a bequest to a hospital was paid to the society operating the hospital, with directions to apply the income as nearly as possible in accordance with intent of testator. In re Estate of Stern, 159 N.Y.S.2d 308 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1953).

Comment: This section, an adaptation of § 1004 of the Bus Corp L, revises the existing statutory law regulating not-for-profit corporations by precluding the filing of a certificate of dissolution without the consent thereto of the state tax commission. This additional requirement is particularly significant in the case of Type C corporations which were organized and conducted for business purposes.

§ 1006. Corporate action and survival of remedies after dissolution

(a) After dissolution, a corporation shall not commence any new activities. A dissolved corporation, its directors, officers and members may continue to function for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the corporation in the same manner as if the dissolution had not taken place, except as otherwise provided in this chapter or by court order. In particular and without limiting the generality of the foregoing:

(1) The directors of a dissolved corporation shall not be deemed to be trustees of its assets; title to such assets shall not vest in them, but shall remain in the corporation until transferred by it in its corporate name.

(2) Dissolution shall not change quorum or voting requirements for the board or members, or provisions regarding election, appointment, resignation or removal of, or filling vacancies among, directors or officers, or provisions regarding amendment or repeal of by-laws or adoption of new by-laws.

(3) Capital certificates may be transferred and determination of members for any purpose may be made without closing the record of members until such time, if any, as such record may be closed, and either the board or the members may close it.

(4) The corporation may sue or be sued in all courts and participate in actions and proceedings, whether judicial, administrative, arbitrative or otherwise, in its corporate name, and process may be served by or upon it.

(b) The dissolution of a corporation shall not affect any remedy available to or against such corporation, its directors, officers or members, for any right or claim existing or any liability incurred before such dissolution, except as provided in sections 1007 (Notice to creditors; filing or barring claims) or 1008 (Jurisdiction of supreme court to supervise dissolution and liquidation.)

Comment: This section, which sets forth the ground rules for the conduct of corporate affairs and the survival of remedies after dissolution, is an adaptation of § 1006 of the Bus Corp L. Aside from spelling out the rules for conducting corporate affairs during liquidation in greater detail than under existing statutory law, and preserving, for or against the corporation, any remedies available on a claim existing or liability incurred before dissolution, the section adopts from the Bus Corp L the rule that the directors of a dissolved corporation are not trustees of its assets, title to such assets remaining in the dissolved corporation until transferred in the corporate name.

1. Generally

Inactive corporation was entitled to recover surplus funds from a foreclosure when the funds had been turned over to the State Comptroller as abandoned. Because the corporation had acquired the subject property before it became inactive, its inactive status did not preclude it from prosecuting the proceeding; under N.Y. Bus. Corp. Law § 1006(a)(4) and N.Y. Not-for-Profit Corp. Law § 1006(a)(4), a dissolved corporation could sue or be sued and participate in actions and proceedings. § 1007. Notice to creditors by corporations intending to dissolve; filing or barring claims

(a) At any time after the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets shall have been (1) authorized as provided in section 1002 of this article (Authorization of plan), (2) approved by any governmental body or officer whose approval is required pursuant to paragraph (c) of section 1002 of this article, and (3) approved by either by the attorney general or a justice of the supreme court pursuant to paragraph (d) of section 1002 of this article, and prior to filing the certificate of dissolution, the corporation may give a notice requiring all creditors and claimants, including any with unliquidated or contingent claims and any with whom the corporation has unfulfilled contracts, to present their claims in writing and in detail at a specified place and by a specified day, which shall not be less than six months after the first publication of such notice. Such notice shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the office of the corporation was located at the date of authorization of its plan of dissolution and distribution of assets as provided in section 1002 of this article (Authorization of plan). On or before the date of the first publication of such notice, the corporation shall mail a copy thereof, postage prepaid, to each person believed to be a creditor of or claimant against the corporation whose current name and address are known to or can with due diligence be ascertained by the corporation. The giving of such notice shall not constitute a recognition that any person is a proper creditor or claimant, and shall not revive or make valid, or operate as a recognition of the validity of, or a waiver of any defense or counterclaim in respect of any claim against the corporation, its assets, directors, officers or members, which has been barred by any statute of limitations or become invalid by any cause, or in respect of which the corporation, its directors, officers or members, has any defense or counterclaim.

(b) Any claims which shall have been filed as provided in such notice and which shall be disputed by the corporation may be submitted for determination to the supreme court under section 1008 (Jurisdiction of supreme court to supervise dissolution and liquidation) or pursuant to article 11 (Judicial dissolution). A claim filed by the trustee or paying agent for the holders of bonds or coupons shall have the same effect as if filed by the holder of any such bonds or coupons. Any person whose claim is, at the date of the first publication of such notice, barred by any statute of limitations is not a creditor or claimant entitled to any notice under this section or such section 1008. The claim of any such person and all other claims which are not timely filed as provided in such notice except claims which are the subject of litigation on the date of the first publication of such notice and all claims which are so filed but are disallowed by the court under such section 1008, shall be forever barred as against the corporation, its assets, directors, officers and members, except to such extent, if any, as the court may allow them against any remaining assets of the corporation in the case of a creditor who shows satisfactory reason for failure to file a claim as so provided. If the court requires a further notice under such section 1008, any reference to a notice in this section shall, to the extent that the court so orders, mean such further notice, except that a claim which has been filed in accordance with a notice under this section need not be refiled under such further notice.

(c) Notwithstanding this section and section 1008 (Jurisdiction of supreme court to supervise dissolution and liquidation), tax claims and other claims of this state, of the United States and of the department of finance of the city of New York shall not be required to be filed under those sections, and such claims shall not be barred because not so filed, and distribution of the assets of the corporation, or any part thereof, may be deferred until determination of any such claims.

(d) Laborer's wages shall be preferred claims and entitled to payment before any other creditors out of the assets of the corporation in excess of valid prior liens or encumbrances.

§ 1008. Jurisdiction of supreme court to supervise dissolution and liquidation

(a) At any time after the filing of a certificate of dissolution under this article, the supreme court in the judicial district where the office of the corporation was located at the date of its dissolution, in a special proceeding instituted under this section, upon the petition of the corporation or, in a situation approved by the court, upon the petition of a creditor, claimant, director, officer, member, subscriber for capital certificates, incorporator or the attorney general, may suspend or annul the dissolution or continue the liquidation of the corporation under the supervision of the court and may make all such orders as it may deem proper in all matters in connection with the dissolution or the winding up of the affairs of the corporation, and in particular, and without limiting the generality of the foregoing, in respect of the following:

(1) The determination of the validity of the authorization of the dissolution of the corporation and of the execution and delivery of the certificate of dissolution under this article.

(2) The adequacy of the notice given to creditors and claimants and, if it is determined to have been inadequate, the requirement of such further notice as the court may deem proper.

(3) The determination of the validity and amount of invalidity of any claims which have been presented to the corporation.

(4) The barring of all creditors and claimants who have not timely filed claims as provided in any such notice, or whose claims have been disallowed by the court, as against the corporation, its assets, directors, officers and members.

(5) The determination and enforcement of the liability of any director, officer, member or subscriber for capital certificates, to the corporation or for the liabilities of the corporation.

(6) The presentation and filing of intermediate and final accounts of the directors, the hearing thereon, the allowance or disallowance thereof, and the discharge of the directors, or any of them, from their liabilities.

(7) The administration of any trust, or the disposition of any property held in trust by or for the corporation.

(8) The adequacy of a plan of distribution.

(9) The payment, satisfaction or compromise of claims against the corporation, the retention of assets for such purpose, and the determination of the adequacy of provisions made for payment of the liabilities of the corporation.

(10) The disposition or destruction of records, documents and papers of the corporation.

(11) The appointment and removal of a receiver under article 12 (Receivership) who may be a director, officer or member of the corporation.

(12) The issuance of injunctions for one or more of the purposes and as provided in section 1113 (Injunction).

(13) The return of subscription payments to subscribers for capital certificates, and the making of distributions, in cash or in kind or partly in each, to the members.

(14) The payment to the state comptroller, as abandoned property, of assets under paragraph (d) of section 1002-a (Carrying out the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets).

(15) Where assets were received and held by the corporation either for a charitable purpose or legally required to be used for a particular purpose, the distribution of such assets to one or more domestic or foreign corporations or other organizations engaged in activities substantially similar to those of the dissolved corporation, on notice to the attorney general and to such other persons, and in such manner, as the court may deem proper.

(b) No order annulling a dissolution shall be made under this section if the name of the corporation whose dissolution is to be annulled is no longer available for use by such corporation, unless such corporation submits with its petition for the annulment of the dissolution a certificate of reservation of another available name.

(c) Orders under this section may be entered ex parte, except that if such special proceeding was not instituted upon petition of the corporation, notice shall be given to the corporation in such manner as the court may direct. Notice shall be given to other persons interested, and in such manner, as the court may deem proper, of any hearings and of the entry of any orders on such matters as the court shall deem proper. All orders made by the court under this section shall be binding upon the attorney-general, the corporation, its directors, officers, members, subscribers for capital certificates, incorporators, creditors and claimants.

§ 1012. Certificate of annulment of dissolution and reinstatement of corporate existence

(a) Any corporation dissolved under former section 57 of the membership corporations law may, at any time after the effective date of this chapter, deliver to the department of state a signed certificate which shall be entitled, "certificate of annulment of dissolution and reinstatement of corporate existence of ..... (name of corporation) pursuant to section 1012 of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law", and shall set forth:

(1) The name of the corporation and, if it has been changed, the name under which it was formed.

(2) The date of the filing of its certificate of incorporation by the department of state.

(3) The law under which it was formed.

(4) That it failed to deliver to the department of state a certificate, as required by subdivision 1 of section 57 of the membership corporations law.

(5) That it elects to be reinstated and to continue its corporate existence.

(6) That it is a charitable corporation or a non-charitable corporation, as applicable.

(b) Notwithstanding subparagraph one of paragraph (a) of section 1006 (Corporate action and survival of remedies after dissolution), the directors of a corporation whose dissolution is annulled under this section shall be deemed trustees of its assets, unless such assets have been distributed pursuant to section 1002-a (Carrying out the plan of dissolution and distribution of assets).

(c) The filing of such certificate by the department of state shall have the effect of annulling all of the proceedings theretofore taken for the dissolution of such corporation, and it shall thereafter have such corporate powers, rights, privileges, immunities, duties and liabilities as it had on the date of publication of the proclamation of dissolution, as if such proclamation had not been made and published.

(d) The department of state shall not file a certificate of annulment of dissolution and reinstatement of corporate existence if the name of the corporation being reinstated is not available under section 301 (Corporate name; general) for use by a corporation then being formed under this chapter, unless such certificate shall change the name to one which is available for such use.

(e) If, after the publication of the proclamation of dissolution, it shall appear that the name of any corporation was erroneously included therein, the secretary of state shall make an appropriate entry on the records of the department of state, which entry shall have the effect of annulling all of the proceedings theretofore taken for the dissolution of the corporation under this section, and it shall have such corporate powers, rights, privileges, immunities, duties and liabilities as it had on the date of such publication of the proclamation, as if such proclamation had not been made and published.

(f) Whenever a corporation has complied with paragraph (a) or the action specified in paragraph (e) has been taken, the secretary of state shall publish a notice thereof in the state advertising bulletin and shall send a copy of such bulletin to the clerk of the county in which the office of the corporation is located. The county clerk shall file such copy and make appropriate entry on his record without charge.

(g) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to extend the duration of any corporation as stated in its certificate of incorporation.

(h) The fee of the secretary of state for filing a certificate under this section shall be ten dollars.

ARTICLE 14 Special Not-For-Profit Corporations

Section
1402. Fire corporations

HISTORY:

Add, L 1969, ch 1066, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1970.

§ 1402. Fire corporations

(a) Certificate of incorporation; additional contents.

In addition to the requirements of section 402 (Certificate of incorporation; contents), the certificate of incorporation of a fire corporation shall state the precise boundaries of the territory in which the corporation intends to operate.

(b) Type of corporation.

A fire corporation is a charitable corporation under this chapter.

(c) Appointment of firefighters.

(1) A person shall not be eligible to be named in the certificate of incorporation of a fire corporation unless he shall be at least eighteen years of age and a resident of a city, village, fire district, or town outside of villages and fire districts, where the fire corporation intends to operate.

(2) If the fire corporation becomes part of the fire department of a city, village or fire district, a person shall not be eligible to be elected as a member or to continue as a member except as provided by law for volunteer members of the fire companies in such city, village or fire district.

(3) In towns outside of villages and fire districts, the consent of a majority of the members of the town board to the formation of a fire corporation shall constitute an appointment of the persons named in the certificate of incorporation as town firefighters. Thereafter, other eligible persons may be elected as members pursuant to the by-laws of the fire corporation, but the election of a member must be approved by the town board of each town which consented to the formation of the fire corporation. Such a person shall be a resident of the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation or of territory outside such boundaries which is afforded fire protection by the fire corporation pursuant to a contract for fire protection under which a cash consideration is received by the corporation or for which negotiations for renewal of such a contract are pending. The membership of any volunteer member shall terminate when he or she ceases to be a resident of such inside or outside territory, except that the corporation may authorize his or her continued membership where he or she notifies the secretary of the fire corporation (a) that he or she plans to change his or her residence to a territory which is not in such inside or outside territory, and (b) that by reason of his or her residence in the vicinity or his or her usual occupation he or she will be available to render active service as a volunteer firefighter in either such inside or such outside territory. Voting for such authorization shall be pursuant to the by-laws. Such authorization shall not become effective unless approved by resolution of the town board of each town which consented to the formation of the corporation. Any membership so continued shall terminate when the member can no longer meet the requirements of this subparagraph. A person who cannot meet the residence requirements of this subparagraph may be elected to membership as a volunteer member if by reason of his or her residence in the vicinity or his or her usual occupation he or she will be available to render active service as a volunteer firefighter in such inside or outside territory. Voting for such election shall be pursuant to the by-laws. Such election shall not become effective unless approved by resolution of the town board of each town which consented to the formation of the corporation. Such membership shall terminate when the member can no longer meet the requirements of this subparagraph. The election or continuance of any person as a member shall be deemed to have been approved by the town board pursuant to this subparagraph in the event that no action is taken by the town board, either approving or disapproving, within forty days in the case of residents of the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation or of outside contract territory, and within seventy days in the case of all others, after service of written notice of such election or continuance of membership shall have been made by the secretary of the corporation upon the town clerk, either personally or by mail. The membership of any volunteer firefighter shall not be continued pursuant to this subparagraph, and persons who do not reside in the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation or in territory protected pursuant to a contract for fire protection shall not be elected to membership, if, by so doing, the percentage of such nonresident members in the fire corporation would exceed forty-five per centum of the actual membership thereof, provided, however, that the forty-five percent limit on non-resident members shall not apply to the membership of the Huguenot Fire Company, Inc., within the town of Deerpark, Orange county, to the membership of the Prospect Terrace Fire Company, Inc., within the town of Dickinson, Broome county, to membership of the Hopewell Volunteer Fire Department, Inc., to membership of the Wales Center Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., within the town of Wales, Erie county, to the membership of the Nedrow Fire Department, within the town of Onondaga, Onondaga county, to the membership of the Howlett Hill Fire Department, within the town of Onondaga, Onondaga county, to the membership of the East Syracuse Fire Department, within the town of Dewitt, Onondaga county, to the membership of the Pleasant Square Fire Company, Inc. within the town of Johnstown, Fulton county, or to membership of the fire departments within the town of Fleming, Cayuga county. Nonresidents of the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation whose volunteer membership has been authorized or continued pursuant to this subparagraph may be elected or appointed to any office in the fire corporation and shall have all the powers, duties, immunities, and privileges of resident volunteer members except a non-resident of this state whose membership has been continued pursuant to this subparagraph, or who was elected to membership pursuant to this subparagraph, shall not be considered to be performing any firefighting duty, or to be engaged in any firefighting activity, as a member of the fire company while he or she is outside of this state unless and until he or she has first reported to the officer or firefighter in command of his or her fire department, or any company, squad or other unit thereof, engaged or to be engaged in rendering service outside this state, or has received orders or authorization from an officer of the fire department or fire company to participate in or attend authorized activities outside of this state in the same manner as resident members of the fire company. A person shall not be eligible to volunteer membership in any other fire corporation or fire company at one time. The provisions of this subparagraph shall not be deemed to authorize the election or the continuance of any person as a member of the corporation if such election or continuance of membership shall be contrary to the by-laws, rules or regulations of the fire corporation.

(4) A person who has been convicted of arson in any degree shall not be eligible to be named in the certificate of incorporation of a fire corporation, or to be elected or appointed as a volunteer member of a fire corporation. The membership of any volunteer member of a fire corporation shall immediately terminate if he is convicted of arson in any degree while a member of a fire corporation.

(5) Upon application by any person for membership in a fire corporation operating pursuant to this section, the fire chief shall cause the applicant's background to be checked pursuant to section eight hundred thirty-seven-o of the executive law for a criminal history involving a conviction for arson and conviction of a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law. Where such criminal history information includes conviction of a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law, a fire company shall determine whether or not such person shall be eligible to be elected or appointed as a volunteer member of such fire company. Such determination shall be made in accordance with the criteria established in sections seven hundred fifty-two and seven hundred fifty-three of the correction law.

(d) Incorporation of fire corporations in towns legalized.

Any fire, hose, protective or hook and ladder corporation heretofore organized under any general law with the consent of the town board in the territory served by such corporation is hereby legalized and confirmed, notwithstanding the omission of any town board to appoint or confirm the members of such corporations as town firefighters. Any such corporation shall hereafter be subject to the provisions of this section.

(e) Powers. (1) A fire, hose, protective or hook and ladder corporation heretofore incorporated under any general law or a fire corporation hereafter incorporated under this section shall be under the control of the city, village, fire district or town authorities having, by law, control over the prevention or extinguishment of fires therein. Such authorities may adopt rules and regulations for the government and control of such corporations. Notwithstanding the provisions of any such local law, a person who has been convicted of arson in any degree shall not be eligible for nomination, election or appointment to any office of the corporation, nor may such person serve as director of the corporation. Any fire corporation officer or director who is convicted of arson in any degree during his term of office shall be disqualified from completing such term of office.

(2) Where a fire corporation formed outside of a city, village or fire district furnishes fire protection to territory outside of the boundaries specified in its certificate of incorporation, the fire corporation and the members thereof shall be under the exclusive control of the town board of the town in which the fire corporation maintains its apparatus.

(3) The emergency relief squad of a fire corporation incorporated under this section or subject to the provisions thereof shall have power to furnish general ambulance service when duly authorized under the provisions of section two hundred nine-b of the general municipal law.

(4) Any fire company incorporated under this section or subject to the provisions thereof shall have power to engage in fund raising activities pursuant to section two hundred four-a of the general municipal law.

(5) Any fire company incorporated under this section or subject to the provisions thereof shall have power, subject to the approval or authorization of the town board, to attend a funeral.

(6) Fire, hose, protective or hook and ladder corporations heretofore incorporated under any general law or fire corporations hereafter incorporated under this section or volunteer fire companies or fire departments as defined in section three of the volunteer firefighters' benefits [benefit]* law are hereby authorized to enter into contracts among themselves and among municipal corporations for the joint purchase of goods, supplies and services. Provided that the provisions of article five-A of the general municipal law shall be controlling for any proposed joint purchase between such fire corporation, company, or department and a municipal corporation. For the purposes of this subparagraph the term "municipal corporation" shall mean a county, city, town, village, fire district, or ambulance district.

(f) Directors to file report.

It shall be the duty of the directors of all fire, hose, protective or hook and ladder corporations incorporated under a general law or of a fire corporation formed under this section in territory outside of cities or villages, or a majority of them, on or before the fifteenth day of January in each year, to make and file in the county clerk's office, where the certificate of incorporation is filed a verified certificate, stating the names of the directors and officers of the corporation, containing an inventory of its property, a statement of its liabilities and that the corporation has not engaged, directly or indirectly, in any business other than that set forth in its certificate of incorporation.

(g) Firefighters' exemption.

Every active firefighter who shall be a member of a corporation subject to the provisions of this section shall be entitled to all the rights granted by law to volunteer firefighters and every such active firefighter who shall meet the requirements of section two hundred of the general municipal law shall be entitled to the additional rights granted by law to exempt volunteer firefighters.

(h) Legalization of membership of fire corporations in towns outside villages and fire districts.

(1) Any person:

(A) who was recognized prior to the first day of July, nineteen hundred fifty-four, as a volunteer member of a fire corporation subject to the provisions of this section located in a town outside villages and fire districts by the town board or by the officers and members of the fire corporation, and

(B) who rendered active service with such fire corporation prior to such date, and

(C) who was, at the time of his or her election to membership, a resident of the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation or of territory outside such boundaries which was afforded fire protection by the fire corporation pursuant to a contract for fire protection, shall for all purposes in law be considered to have been duly elected and confirmed as a member in such fire corporation as of the date of such confirmation, if any, and, if none, then as of the date of such election; notwithstanding that there may have been some legal defect in such election, or the proceedings precedent thereto, or a failure of the town board to confirm such member, as provided by the law in force at the time of such election, and the status of such person as a volunteer firefighter as of the date of such confirmation or election is hereby legalized, validated and confirmed. This subparagraph shall not apply to a person, if any, whose volunteer membership in a fire corporation was declared invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction prior to the first day of January, nineteen hundred fifty-five.

(2) Any person:

(A) who was recognized on or after the first day of July, nineteen hundred fifty-four and prior to the first day of January, two thousand eleven as a volunteer member of a fire corporation subject to the provisions of this section located in a town outside villages and fire districts by the town board or by the officers and members of the fire corporation, and

(B) who rendered active service with such fire corporation between such dates, and

(C) who was, at the time of his or her election to membership, a resident of the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation or of territory outside such boundaries which was afforded fire protection by the fire corporation pursuant to a contract for fire protection, or who was a nonresident elected to membership or who was continued as a member, pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (A) shall for all purposes in law be considered to have been duly elected and confirmed, or continued, as a member in such fire corporation as of the date of such confirmation, if any, and, if none, then as of the date of such election or, in the case of a continuance, as of the date of approval, if any, by the town board and, if none, as of the date of authorization of continuance by the fire corporation; notwithstanding that there may have been some legal defect in such election, or the proceedings thereto, or a failure of the town board to confirm the election, or approve the continuance of membership, of such member, as provided by the law in force at the time of such election or continuance, and the status of such person as a volunteer firefighter as of such date is hereby legalized, validated and confirmed. This subparagraph shall not apply to a person, if any, whose volunteer membership in a fire corporation was declared invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction prior to the first day of January, two thousand eleven.

(i) Discrimination because of race, color, creed or national origin prohibited.

*The bracketed word has been inserted by the Publisher.

(1) It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any volunteer fire department, fire company or fire corporation, through any member or members thereof, directors, officers, members of a town board, board of fire commissioners or other body or office having power of appointment of volunteer firefighters in any fire department, fire company or fire corporation pursuant to this section, because of the race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status of any individual, to exclude or to expel from its volunteer membership such individual, or to discriminate against any of its members because of the race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status of such volunteer members.

(2) Any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice pursuant to this paragraph may by himself or his attorney at law make, sign and file with the state division of human rights, a verified complaint which shall set forth the particulars of the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice and contain such other information as the division of human rights may require. The division shall thereupon cause to be made an investigation and disposition of the charges pursuant to the provisions of article fifteen of the executive law.

Changes: Slightly revised.

Comment: This section, which sets forth provisions for regulating fire corporations, is verbatim from Article 10 of the Mem Corp L with two additions: (a) provision for additional contents in the certificate of incorporation (see, paragraph (a)); and (b) a statement that a fire corporation is a Type B corporation under § 201.

Editor's Notes Laws 1999, ch 423, § 1, eff April 1, 2000, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The efforts of volunteer firefighters in New York state embody many of the values and traditions long respected and admired by our citizens. Volunteer firefighters devote many hours acquiring necessary training and then expend their energies to protect lives and property while placing their own lives and physical well being in jeopardy. They are heroes to our children, are trusted in our hour of need and provide role models for dedication and discipline.

Laws 2003, ch 393, § 1, eff Aug 19, 2003, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. This legislation is designed to update certain provisions of the village law, the town law, the general city law and the not-for-profit corporation law relating to recognition of volunteer firefighters as duly elected or approved members of their respective fire companies. Periodically, these provisions of law should be updated to ensure that firefighters recently recognized as volunteers are considered to be duly elected and approved members in their respective fire companies, notwithstanding any legal defect in the election or approval process. This bill updates the relevant statutory provisions and ensures that more recently elected or approved volunteer members of fire companies are recognized as duly elected or approved for all purposes in law, including but not limited to coverage under the volunteer firefighters' benefit law.

Laws 2011, ch 373, § 1, eff Aug 3, 2011, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. This legislation is designed to update certain provisions of the village law, the town law, the general city law and the not-for-profit corporation law relating to recognition of volunteer firefighters as duly elected or approved members of their respective fire companies. Periodically, these provisions of law should be updated to ensure that firefighters recently recognized as volunteers are considered to be duly elected and approved members in their respective fire companies, notwithstanding any legal defect in the election or approval process. This act updates the relevant statutory provisions and ensures that more recently elected or approved volunteer members of fire companies are recognized as duly elected or approved for all purposes in law, including but not limited to coverage under the volunteer firefighters' benefit law.

Laws 2013, ch 549, § 1, eff July 1, 2014, provides as follows:

Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "non-profit revitalization act of 2013".

Amendment Notes The 2014 amendment by ch 149, § 1 added "to membership of the Wales Center Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., within the town of Wales, Erie county" in the fourth to the last sentence of (c)(3).

The 2014 amendment by ch 198, § 4, in (c)(5), added "and conviction of a crime which requires the person to register as a sex offender under article six-C of the correction law" at the end of the first sentence and added the last two sentences.

The 2016 amendment by ch 276, § 1, added "to the membership of the Prospect Terrace Fire Company, Inc., within the town of Dickinson, Broome county" in the thirteenth sentence of (c)(3).

The 2018 amendment by ch 476, § 235, substituted "firefighters" for "firemen" in the subsection heading of (c); substituted "Firefighters' exemption" for "Firemen's exemption" in the subsection heading of (g); substituted "firefighter" for "fireman" or variants wherever it appears in (d), (g), (h)(1)(c), (h)(2)(C) and in (i)(1); and substituted "his or her" for "or her" in the first sentence of (h)(1)(C) and (h)(2)(C).

The 2018 amendment by ch 500, § 1, added "to the membership of the Nedrow Fire Department, within the town of Onondaga, Onondaga county" in the fourth to the last sentence of (c)(3).

The 2018 amendment by ch 513, § 1, added "to the membership of the Pleasant Square Fire Company, Inc. within the town of Johnstown, Fulton county" in the fourth to the last sentence of (c)(3).

The 2019 amendment by ch 275, § 1, added "to the membership of the Howlett Hill Fire Department, within the town of Onondaga, Onondaga county" in the twelfth sentence of (c)(3).

The 2019 amendment by ch 276, § 1, added "to the membership of the East Syracuse Fire Department, within the town of Dewitt, Onondaga county" in the twelfth sentence of (c)(3).

1. Generally

In action by plaintiff who was injured in accident involving vehicle driven by volunteer firefighter responding to fire alarm, fire company incorporated under CLS N-PCL § 1402 was properly granted summary judgment on ground that it was not proper party to action, where town had chosen to establish "fire protection district" (which, unlike "fire district," is not political subdivision independent of town), fire company provided fire protection services within fire protection district pursuant to contract with town, and town retained complete control over fire company and ultimate responsibility for fire protection pursuant to § 1402. Miller v Savage, 237 A.D.2d 695, 654 N.Y.S.2d 215, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2265 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Trial court properly granted a petition for judicial dissolution of a fire department (the FD) because its members presented affidavits or other competent evidence in support of their request to add two additional members of the FD as petitioners, a town and the Attorney General were necessary parties, the court's determination that the FD was no longer able to carry out the purpose or purposes for which it was formed was based on a fair interpretation of the evidence, the court properly considered the "paramount" issue of the benefit of dissolution to the members of the FD, and its determination that dissolution would benefit the members was supported by the evidence. Matter of Inzer v West Brighton Fire Dept., Inc., 173 A.D.3d 1826, 105 N.Y.S.3d 655, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5256 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, reh'g denied, 175 A.D.3d 1852, 107 N.Y.S.3d 740, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6929 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2019), app. denied, 35 N.Y.3d 903, 148 N.E.3d 524, 125 N.Y.S.3d 60, 2020 N.Y. LEXIS 826 (N.Y. 2020).

2. Control of city, town, village or fire district

In actions arising out of an automobile collision in which it was alleged that the accident was caused by the negligence of a volunteer fireman who, while operating his own automobile, was answering a mutual aid call, causes of action are stated against the town which established a fire protection district and which entered into a contract with the volunteer fire department of which the volunteer fireman was a member. By the terms of section 1402 (subd [e], par 1) of the Not-for-Profit Corporation Law the volunteer fire department is under the control of the town which has control over fire prevention and extinguishment and, consequently, the town can be held liable for the acts of the volunteer firemen. Cuddy v Amsterdam, 62 A.D.2d 119, 403 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10426 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

Volunteer fire company, which is private not-for-profit corporation, is not liable to plaintiff for damages sustained to his business property allegedly caused by negligence of fire company, since company was discharging public function over which municipality exercised control. Helman v County of Warren, 114 A.D.2d 573, 494 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53275 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Fire company could not be held vicariously liable for alleged negligence of firefighter in operating her vehicle in response to emergency since, under statute, (1) fire district, not fire company, employs, supervises and controls individual firefighters, (2) district is responsible for prevention and extinguishment of fires, (3) district possesses virtually total supervision and control over all aspects of creation and staffing of fire companies as well as over rules and regulations governing firefighting practices and procedures, and (4) district is answerable for negligence of its firefighters committed in course of their duties. Knapp v Union Vale Fire Co., 141 A.D.2d 509, 529 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6348 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In negligence action by homeowners whose residence was destroyed by rekindling of fire after fire chief had assured them that earlier fire had been extinguished, defendant town was not entitled to summary judgment on basis that fire company was independent contractor over which it exercised no control, since CLS N-PCL § 1402(e) specifies that fire company incorporated under statute is under control of town authorities having, by law, control over prevention or extinguishment of fires, and town's concession that it had established fire protection district pursuant to CLS Town § 184(1) made it responsible for providing fire protection. Miller v Morania Oil, O.C.P., 194 A.D.2d 770, 599 N.Y.S.2d 303, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6724 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

Volunteer fire company was not liable for the alleged negligence of its members because the Fire District was responsible for preventing and extinguishing fires within its jurisdiction and trained and supervised the company's members, who acted under the direction of the Chief of the Fire District, the company and the fire district were separate entities, and the company did not exert control over its members. Roberts v Coeymans Hollow Volunteer Fire Co., 168 A.D.3d 1144, 91 N.Y.S.3d 590, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 33 N.Y.3d 903, 124 N.E.3d 256, 100 N.Y.S.3d 706, 2019 N.Y. LEXIS 1299 (N.Y. 2019).

A volunteer fire company located entirely within city limits would be held covered under the city's excess liability policy in an action to recover for personal injuries sustained in an automobile accident while plaintiff was a passenger in a car owned and operated by a volunteer fireman responding to a fire in the city, since, although the city's three volunteer fire companies were otherwise independent corporations free to carry on their internal affairs without interference by the city, once a fire alarm sounded, the fire chief, a paid civil service employee of the city, by virtue of the city charter assumed command of the city's volunteer companies to coordinate and direct the firefighting efforts (see also, N-PCL § 1402[e][1]; Gen Mun Law § 209-l), thus making the volunteer company a "named insured" as an organization under the "control and management" of the city during a fire; such holding is consistent with the rule that fire districts may be held liable for the negligence of volunteer fireman while operating privately-owned vehicles in responding to an alarm; even if the volunteer company were not a "named insured," it would nevertheless be entitled to coverage as an insured under the city's primary policy. Cook v Geneva, 127 Misc. 2d 261, 485 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2583 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

3. Discrimination

By changing its membership requirements from members of any fire company to volunteer members the Firemen's Benevolent Fund Association of the City of Mount Vernon did not unlawfully discriminate against professional firemen individually or as a class. Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Ass'n, 79 Misc. 2d 536, 359 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Asso., 45 A.D.2d 955, 359 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

4. Fundraising activities

City was entitled to summary judgment dismissing consolidated actions for personal injuries and wrongful death arising out of alcohol-related automobile accident which occurred after intoxicated driver consumed beer at fund-raising event to benefit volunteer fire companies, although city was vested with authority to control activities of its volunteer fire company under CLS N-PCL § 1402(e)(1) and CLS Gen Mun § 204-a(6)(b), since participation by volunteer firefighters in fund-raising activities was not deemed to constitute "duty as volunteer firemen" within meaning § 204-a(7); moreover, city submitted evidentiary proof that it had not received prior written notice of fire company's fund-raising activities as required by § 204-a(8)(a). Haskell v Chautauqua County Fireman's Fraternity, Inc., 184 A.D.2d 12, 590 N.Y.S.2d 637, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14048 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992), app. dismissed, 81 N.Y.2d 954, 597 N.Y.S.2d 939, 613 N.E.2d 971, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 5289 (N.Y. 1993).

5. Membership

Where denial of membership would work an irreparable injury an action will lie to compel a membership corporation or a voluntary association to accept an applicant. Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Ass'n, 79 Misc. 2d 536, 359 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Asso., 45 A.D.2d 955, 359 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

6. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 110

Fact that certain town fire corporations were legalized and other fire corporations created under general law made subject to the statute's provisions did not make the Firemen's Benevolent Fund Association of the City of Mount Vernon a membership corporation, for purpose of determining effectiveness of 1930 amendment to certificate of incorporation changing membership requirements, since the Association was created by special law. Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Ass'n, 79 Misc. 2d 536, 359 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, Crohn v Firemen's Benevolent Fund Asso., 45 A.D.2d 955, 359 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

7. —Municipal consent; incorporation of voluntary fire company

An unincorporated fire company with its headquarters in a village may, with the consent of the village board, incorporate as a village fire company. The persons named in the certificate of incorporation should be residents of the village. 1968 Op St Compt No. 68–635.

8. — —To operation outside limits

The fire department of the village of Bergen may operate outside of the village limits only if the village has authorized such operation. The town of Bergen may contract with the village of Bergen for the furnishing of fire protection outside of the village limits only if a fire protection or fire alarm district has been established. 1947 Ops St Compt 441.

9. —Ownership of fire apparatus and equipment

An incorporated fire company may purchase with its own funds and retain ownership of fire apparatus and equipment although it is located in a fire district. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7480.

10. —Insurance; purchase by town board

Where there is no fire district in a town and no tax for fire protection purposes is levied, the town board may not expend town funds for the purchase of public liability insurance upon a truck owned by and licensed in the name of an unincorporated volunteer fire company furnishing fire protection services in the town. The town board may, however, expend town fund for the purchase of insurance indemnifying the town against any loss by reason of the liability imposed by § 205 of the General Municipal Law. 1945 Ops St Compt 176.

11. — —County self-insurance plan

The members of a volunteer fire company organized and incorporated in an area of a town not within a village or fire district will be covered under a county self-insurance plan. The cost of this coverage is included as part of the town's apportionate share. 1958 Op St Compt No. 58–366.

12. —Membership in fire company

A volunteer fireman may not be a member of two volunteer fire companies on or after July 1, 1954. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6669.

13. — —Women

Women may be elected to membership in an incorporated fire company, if the by-laws do not prohibit such membership and if their election is approved by the board of fire commissioners or town board. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7128.

14. — —Nonresidents

For a general explanation of Chapter 699 of Laws of 1954 in relation to non-resident members of volunteer fire departments see 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–7063.

Admission of non-resident volunteer members in fire district fire department discussed. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7275.

A fire company may not restrict the powers, duties, immunities and privileges of a nonresident member to a greater extent than is provided by statute. 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–7850.

15. —Liability for torts of firemen

A town which contracts on behalf of a fire protection district for fire protection is liable for injuries to a third person caused by the negligent act of a member of an incorporated fire company located within the fire protection district, in answering an alarm pursuant to contract. However, if the tort was committed by a member of a village fire company under contract, located outside the fire protection district, the village would be liable. 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–7984.

A municipality or district being aided by an outside fire company is not liable to third parties for torts of firemen rendering assistance where such firemen are not under the control of the officials of the municipality or district being aided. 1956 Op St Compt No.. 56–7984.

16. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 111

The term "fire district" as used in § 205-b of the General Municipal Law, referring to liability for negligence of fire district and volunteer firemen, has a specific meaning in law and does not include fire companies. Heifetz v Rockaway Point Volunteer Fire Dep't, 124 N.Y.S.2d 257, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2150 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 282 A.D. 1062, 126 N.Y.S.2d 604, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5825 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

17. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 112

A fire corporation organized under the Membership Corporations Law may make a gift of money to a fire district to be used to purchase fire apparatus. 1947 Ops St Compt 61.

The funds of a fire corporation are under the exclusive control of the directors of such corporation. 1959 Op St Compt No. 59–665.

18. —Village control of voluntary fire company

Incorporation of a volunteer fire company of a village will not affect the control which the village exercises over the fire company, nor will it affect the duties and liabilities of the village in regard to its volunteer firemen. 1947 Ops St Compt 414.

The village board of fire commissioners is not required to include in its annual report moneys raised by an incorporated volunteer fire company constituting the fire department of the village. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6225.

19. — —Fire company located in village

Incorporated fire companies situated within a village are under the control of village authorities having control over prevention and extinguishment of fires therein. 1945 Ops St Compt 215.

An incorporated fire company located in a village is subject to the control of the village authorities irrespective of the fact it existed before incorporation of the village. Such fire company may not contract to furnish fire protection outside the village independently of the village board. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6358.

An incorporated fire company located in a village is subject to control of the village board of fire commissioners. 1961 Op St Compt No. 61–266.

20. —Contract; between incorporated fire company and village

The making of a contract between an incorporated fire company and village will not operate to make the fire company a paid fire company. 1947 Ops St Compt 414.

21. — —To provide fire protection outside village

An incorporated fire company of a village cannot contract to furnish fire protection outside of the village independently of the village board of trustees. 1947 Ops St Compt 414; 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6358.

A village must be a party to all contracts to provide fire protection outside the limits of said village between a fire company, located in said village, and those desiring fire protection outside said village. 1956 Op St Compt No. 56–7934.

22. — —Money received under contract

Both village and fire department or fire company should be parties to contract to furnish fire protection outside of village. Village may retain moneys received pursuant to such contract or pay over a portion to the fire department or fire company. 1954 Op St Compt No. 54–6769.

23. —Powers of board of fire commissioners

A fire district created pursuant to former § 38 of the County Law must function through a board of fire commissioners, which shall have the management and control of all of the property and affairs of such district, including control of the activities of all fire companies situated within such district. 1945 Ops St Compt 196.

For a discussion re control of board of fire commissioners over "jeep" purchased with fire company funds, see 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6388.

24. — —Organize fire company

The board of fire commissioners may not disband an incorporated fire company constituting the fire department of the district, but may organize other companies. 1953 Op St Compt 53–6282.

25. — —Require physical examination of firemen

A Board of Fire Commissioners may require volunteer firemen of the district to undergo physical examinations at expense of the district. 1963 Op St Compt No. 63–849.

26. —Power of municipality to acquire and house equipment

A city is empowered to acquire fire apparatus by gift or otherwise, to pay the cost of maintenance and operation thereof, to pay rent for housing such apparatus and to have volunteer firemen fight fires. A contract may be made for such fire-fighting force to serve an area in another city. 1947 Ops St Compt 445.

A town may sell a portion of its property to an incorporated fire company for the construction of a firehouse and subsequently lease space therein for town purposes. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6153.

A village may construct an addition to the village owned firehouse for the purpose of housing fire equipment, owned by the incorporated fire company and to be used outside of the village. Providing the arrangement is provident for the village, rental need not be charged the fire company for such use. 1965 Op St Compt No. 65–320.

27. —Eligibility for membership in fire company

If a member of a volunteer fire company located within fire district moves outside such district, he is no longer a member of such company unless there is compliance with provisions of subdivision 24 of Section 176 of Town Law. 1947 Op St Compt No. 47–317.

A person is eligible for membership in a fire corporation organized outside a city, village or fire district if he resides either (1) in the territory specified in the certificate of incorporation of the corporation or (2) in an area furnished fire protection by the corporation pursuant to contract. 1953 Op St Compt No. 53–6442.

28. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 113

Fire apparatus and equipment purchased by an incorporated fire company is its own property and not the property of the village. 1955 Op St Compt No. 55–7135.

The funds of a fire corporation are under the exclusive control of the directors of such corporation. 1959 Op St Compt No. 59–665.

The fact that a fire corporation undertakes to render fire protection to an area located in another county does not require it, or the Secretary of State, to file a copy of its certificate of incorporation in such other county. 1962 Op St Compt No. 62–575.

29. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 114

Where there is no proof that a city employee, upon his dismissal May 15, 1935, had qualified as an exempt volunteer fireman under Gen Mun Law, § 200, he cannot invoke this section, because this section (as amended by L 1935, ch 771, eff May 6), adopts requirements of Gen Mun Law, § 200. Brown v Stephan, 245 A.D. 552, 284 N.Y.S. 403, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10355 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

A village employee who had qualified as an exempt volunteer fireman under this section, although he had not so qualified under Gen Mun Law, § 200, was entitled to a hearing under Civil Ser Law, § 22 upon his summary dismissal April 2, 1935. Brown v Stephan, 245 A.D. 588, 283 N.Y.S. 31, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10363 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

A member of a volunteer fire company which has not been incorporated, is not entitled to a hearing upon his removal from a civil service position, where he had not served for a five year period, even though had the company been incorporated he would have been entitled under this section to such a hearing in spite of his failure to serve for five years. Mahan v Bacon, 277 N.Y.S. 390, 154 Misc. 291, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2008 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1934), aff'd, 277 N.Y.S. 393, 154 Misc. 535, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 958 (N.Y. App. Term 1935).

A volunteer fireman in a fire company subject to this section is not entitled to a hearing prior to his removal, where he has not served the five year "term required by law" under Civil Ser Law, § 22, subd. 1, and Gen Mun Law, § 200. Huber v Stephan, 282 N.Y.S. 154, 156 Misc. 131, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1935).

30. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 115

Petitioner was reinstated to the position of Principal Park Superintendent and should not have been dismissed from employment except for incompetency or misconduct found after a hearing where evidence showed that he secured a certificate after his dismissal that he was an exempt volunteer fireman and the affidavits of the fire company's officer past and present left no room for triable issue of fact as to whether he was honorably discharged or whether he was not in good standing at the time he applied for his certificate. Badman v Falk, 4 A.D.2d 149, 163 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5112 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1957), aff'd, 4 N.Y.2d 839, 173 N.Y.S.2d 813, 150 N.E.2d 240, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1080 (N.Y. 1958).

A person who claims membership in a fire company, the home territory of which is a fire protection district located in two towns, is protected by the Volunteer Firemen's Benefit Law although one town has not confirmed his membership by proper resolution, if his membership has been legalized under this section. 1963 Op St Compt No. 63–391.

1. Generally

In constructing a firehouse to be utilized for fire fighting or fire prevention, a fire corporation in a fire district need not comply with town zoning and building regulations. 1983 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83-33.

A fire district in which a fire company is located is a necessary party to a fire protection contract under which such company provides protection to a fire protection district, notwithstanding the fact that the fire company owns all the buildings and equipment necessary in connection with such fire protection contract. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78-300.

A village may not transfer title to its real property without consideration to an incorporated fire company. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78-451.

A town may not make an outright gift or transfer of moneys to the emergency rescue and first aid squad of a volunteer fire department or fire company. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80–271.

The Hewlett Fire Department of the Hewlett Bay Fire District as presently constituted, in terms of its corporate status, is a fire department rather than a fire company and it is the Fire Department of the Hewlett Bay Fire District. However, for purposes of Article 11 of the Town Law, the Hewlett Fire Department should be considered a fire company. 1981 Op St Compt No. 81-53.

Under Section 10-1000 et seq. of the Village Law, a village fire department is a corporation consisting of members of all the fire, hose, protective and hook and ladder companies of a village; it is administered by a board of fire commissioners or, where no board of fire commissioners has been appointed, by the village board of trustees and the council of the fire department. Fire companies in a village are associations or corporations, which must operate in accordance with their certificates of incorporation, bylaws, and statutes; and, although fire companies are separate and distinct from the village, the statutes do permit village authorities to exercise a certain degree of control over their organization, incorporation, governance, and membership, including residency for membership. A fire company must consent to a contract for the provision of fire protection outside the village and the fire chief of the village fire department cannot consent on behalf of members of the company. 1990 Op St Compt 90-19.

By operation of law, mere existence of fire companies in village results in corporation known as village fire department. 1994 Op St Compt No. 94-18.

Board of volunteer fire company is "public body" subject to Open Meetings Law; volunteer fire companies, which generally are not-for-profit corporations that perform their duties by means of contractual relationships with municipalities, perform governmental function and their records are subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3311.

Board of volunteer fire company is "public body" subject to Open Meetings Law despite its status as not-for-profit corporation. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3904.

Volunteer fire companies are subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3904.

2. Control of city, town, village or fire district

When the entire unincorporated area of a town comprises a fire protection district and is served by several volunteer fire companies within the district by contract with the town, the town board may require volunteer firemen to have physical examinations before the town board approves them as members of the fire companies. 1980 Op St Compt No. 80-325.

Village must be party to any contract for fire protection provided by volunteer fire company situated within the village. 1987 Op St Compt No 87-73.

While there is no statute requiring fire company which constitutes village fire department to submit its books and records pertaining to receipt and expenditure of proceeds from fire protection contracts and fund raising to village board for audit, village board may make such requirement condition to entering into fire protection contracts for outside service or to allowing company to undertake fund raising activities; financial information concerning fire department may also be obtained under provisions of CLS Not-For-Profit Corporation Law and Freedom of Information Law; board of fire commissioners or, if there is no board of fire commissioners, board of trustees of village may require submission of report by chief of fire department. 1988 Op St Compt No. 88-55.

In general, a board of fire commissioners, or if there is no board of fire commissioners, the village board of trustees and the council of the fire department, has control of the external affairs of a fire company within the village, and the constitution and by-laws of the fire company regulate the internal affairs of the company. In addition, the by-laws of a fire company within the village should not be inconsistent with the rules and regulations enacted by the board of fire commissioners, or the village board of trustees and the council of the fire department. There is, however, no statutory requirement that the latter approve the by-laws of the fire company. 1990 Op St Compt 90-19.

3. Discrimination

By-law provisions for the admission of members of volunteer fire companies which provide that three negative votes or black balls will defeat election to membership appear to be valid but if they are used in a manner contrary to the Constitutions of the United States or of the State of New York or the anti-discrimination statutes of the state, such a by-law would be invalid. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen May 9 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 114.

A woman may be admitted to membership in a volunteer fire company to participate in all firemanic activities. 1974 Op St Compt No. 74–1171.

Whether a woman may be excluded from membership in a volunteer fire company, in the face of a claim of unconstitutional discrimination, is a matter for judicial determination. 1974 Op St Compt No. 74–1171.

4. Membership

A volunteer fireman may not be a member of a fire company within New York State and a volunteer fire company located out of New York State at the same time. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 24 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 74.

When a volunteer fireman is removed from membership in a volunteer fire company by vote of the members themselves based on the company's constitution and bylaws, rather than by village fire authorities, then the village may not provide a legal defense to the fire department when sued by the discharged fireman for wrongful removal. 1980 Op St Compt File No. 80-366.

A volunteer firefighter may not simultaneously be a member of 2 fire companies, regardless of whether the companies are part of the same fire department or different fire departments. 1991 Op St Compt No. 91-23.

There is no statutory prohibition on individual becoming member of fire company and member of volunteer ambulance corps at same time. 1997 Op St Compt No. 97-23, 1997 N.Y. Comp. LEXIS 23.

5. Fundraising activities

A village can be held vicariously liable for Dram Shop Act violations committed by volunteer firefighters during fundraising events, but not for misconduct during social activities. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 90-64, 1990 N.Y. AG LEXIS 68.

6. Offices

An alien may not be a fire district officer; an alien may not vote in a fire district election; an alien may be a volunteer fireman; an alien may be appointed fire chief or assistant fire chief and may be elected to fire company corporate office. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 6 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 152.

Establishment of qualifications to hold line offices in fire department of fire district are established solely by board of fire commissioners of fire district. 1997 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 97-49, 1997 N.Y. AG LEXIS 76.

An individual may be appointed or elected to any office in a volunteer fire company located in a fire protection district if he is a member of the volunteer fire company and a resident of the State. In the area of towns outside of villages and fire districts, election of a member to the volunteer fire company must be approved by the town board of each town which consented to formation of the fire corporation. 1983 Op St Compt No. 83-60.

An incorporated volunteer fire company may amended its by-laws and constitution to require that members of the company attend at least three meetings annually as a qualification to vote for company officers. 1983 Op St Compt No. 83-65.

7. Powers

A fire district has no authority to pay the cost of construction of a memorial monument in memory of deceased volunteer firemen. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Jun 11 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 104.

Debts incurred by an incorporated fire company are the responsibility of such corporation and a municipality would not be liable therefor in the event of default by the corporation. 1978 Op St Compt No. 78-451.

An incorporated volunteer fire company performing services in a fire protection district may set aside part of the payment received each year under the contract to accumulate money for a new fire truck. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79–648.

Competitive bidding would not be required if volunteer fire company expended moneys received from donations and membership dues to improve village fire hall and then made gift of improvement to village. 1987 Op St Compt No. 87-87.

8. Territory

A volunteer fire department may not secede or separate itself from the village in which it is located. 1983 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 83–21, 1983 N.Y. AG LEXIS 78.

The exclusive firefighting jurisdiction of a village fire department does not automatically expand upon annexation by the village of territory in a neighboring fire district; an agreement by which a village fire department would provide services to the annexed portion of a fire district is possible under Town Law § 176(22). 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-59.

(1) A village fire department or a volunteer fire company serving territory outside a village may respond to a call for assistance to a fire outside its designated area even if the call is not made pursuant to a mutual aid agreement. However, there is no authority to respond to a fire outside the area usually served when no call for assistance is made. (2) A village fire department or volunteer fire company has no authority to contract to provide fire protection to a business establishment or school located outside its designated area. 1979 Op St Compt No. 79-568.

9. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 110

There appears to be no statutory prohibition against a town board consenting to the formation of a volunteer fire company which proposes to operate in a territory already served by a volunteer fire department where the territory is outside the limits of a village or fire district. 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 16 (Informal), 1954 N.Y. AG LEXIS 365.

A village fire company, under the direction of the chief, may respond to emergency calls from outside the area regularly protected, until such outside service is restricted by action of the governing board of the village. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 4 (Informal), 1957 N.Y. AG LEXIS 354.

Where a volunteer fire company has purchased apparatus for corporate purposes from company funds, such apparatus remains the property of the company. Board of Fire Commissioners has no control over expenditure of fire company moneys. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen April 28 (Informal), 1955 N.Y. AG LEXIS 213.

10. Under former Membership Corporation Law § 112

The offices of village trustee and chief engineer of the village fire department may not be held by the same person at the same time. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 25 (Informal), 1964 N.Y. AG LEXIS 139.

§ 21.05. Definitions

As used in this article, unless the context requires otherwise:

1. "Governmental agency" shall mean any agency of the state of New York and all municipalities within the state.

2. "Executive officer" shall mean:

(a) In the case of a county, the county executive unless there is none, in which case it shall mean the county manager if there is one, or the chairman of the county legislative body if there is neither a county executive nor county manager.

(b) In the case of cities, the mayor, except in those cities having a city manager it shall mean such city manager.

(c) In the case of towns, the supervisor or presiding supervisor.

(d) In the case of villages, the mayor, except in those villages having a president or manager it shall mean such president or manager.

3. "Snowmobile" shall mean a self-propelled vehicle equipped with a motor, originally manufactured and designed for travel on snow or ice, steered by skis or runners and supported in whole or in part by one or more skis, belts or tracked cleats.

4. "Owner" shall mean any person having title to a snowmobile. If a snowmobile is sold under a contract of conditional sale whereby the title remains in the vendor, such vendor or his assignee shall not, after delivery of such snowmobile, be deemed an owner within the provisions of this section, but the vendee or his assignee, upon receipt of possession thereof, shall be deemed such owner notwithstanding the terms of such contract, until the vendor or his assignee shall retake possession. A person holding only a security interest in a snowmobile shall not be deemed an owner unless such person also has possession of such snowmobile.

5. "Operate" shall mean to ride in or on, other than as a passenger, or use or control the operation of a snowmobile in any manner, whether or not said snowmobile is under way.

6. "Operator" shall mean every person who operates or is in actual physical control of a snowmobile.

7. "Register" shall mean the act of assigning a registration number to a snowmobile.

8. "Roadway" shall mean that portion of a highway improved, designed, or ordinarily used for vehicular travel, exclusive of the shoulder.

9. "Highway" shall mean the entire width between the boundary lines of any way or place when any part thereof is open to the use of the public, as a matter of right, for the purpose of vehicular traffic.

10. "Shoulder" shall mean that portion of a highway which lies outside the paved or unpaved roadway immediately adjacent to the portion of the roadway which may be used by motor vehicles.

11. "Bank" shall mean a mound, pile or ridge of snow on the edge of a highway accumulated from natural snowfall or by snowplowing operations.

12. "Inside bank" shall mean the portion of a snowbank immediately adjacent to the shoulder of the roadway.

13. "Outside bank" shall mean the portion of a snowbank outside the crest thereof and farthest removed from the roadway.

14. "Cowling" shall mean the forward portion of the snowmobile usually surrounding the motor and clutch assembly.

15. "Dealer" shall mean a person engaged in the business of selling snowmobiles at wholesale or retail.

16. "Special event" shall mean an organized rally, race, exhibition or demonstration of limited duration which is conducted according to a prearranged schedule and in which general public interest is manifested.

17. "Snowmobile operator's certificate" shall mean a certificate issued by the commissioner evidencing that the holder thereof has successfully completed an approved course of instruction in snowmobile operation and safety as hereinafter provided.

18. "Authorized ambulance snowmobile" shall mean a snowmobile designated as such in writing and filed with the commissioner by the chief executive officer of any duly organized volunteer ambulance company, fire department, or paid fire department, operated by a member thereof and equipped with emergency lights as provided in subdivision four of section 25.17 of this chapter.

19. "Authorized police snowmobile" shall mean a snowmobile operated by a police or other peace officer while engaged in the performance of his official duties within the area of his territorial jurisdiction and equipped with emergency lights as provided in subdivision four of section 25.17 of this chapter.

20. "Authorized civil defense snowmobile" shall mean a snowmobile designated as such in writing and filed with the commissioner by the chief executive officer of a municipality and operated by a member of a civil defense organization of the municipality and equipped with emergency lights as provided in subdivision four of section 25.17 of this chapter.

21. "Operation as emergency vehicle." The operation or parking of an authorized ambulance, police or civil defense snowmobile, including attendant equipment, displaying one or more lighted, red or combination red or white lights which is revolving, rotating, flashing, oscillating or constantly moving light and which snowmobile is engaged in transporting a sick or injured person, pursuing an actual or suspected violator of the law or responding to, or working or assisting at the scene of an accident, disaster, police call, alarm or other emergency but shall not include returning from such service.

ARTICLE 25 Control Provisions

HISTORY:

Add, L 1972, ch 660, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1972, with substance derived from Conserv Law Art 8 Title 3.

§ 25.03. Operation of snowmobiles; general

It shall be unlawful for any person to drive or operate any snowmobile in the following unsafe or harassing ways:

1. Imprudent speed. At a rate of speed greater than reasonable or proper under the surrounding circumstances provided, however, that in no case shall a snowmobile be operated at a speed in excess of fifty-five miles per hour upon public trails or lands, unless (a) participating in a special event authorized by the commissioner pursuant to section 25.11 of this article or (b) engaged in operation as an emergency vehicle as defined in subdivision twenty-one of section 21.05 of this title.

2. Reckless operation. In a careless, reckless or negligent manner so as to unreasonably endanger the person or property of another or to cause injury or damage thereto.

3. Intoxication and drugs. While in an intoxicated condition or under the influence of narcotics or drugs as defined by section one hundred fourteen-a of the vehicle and traffic law.

4. Lights. (a) Between sunset and sunrise or when lights are required for safety without displaying at least one lighted head light and tail light.

(b) Operating other than as an emergency vehicle and displaying one or more lighted red or combination red or white lights which is revolving, rotating, flashing, oscillating or constantly moving light.

5. Railroad tracks. On the tracks of an operating railroad.

6. Plantings. In any tree nursery or planting in a manner which damages or destroys growing stock, or creates a substantial risk thereto.

7. On lands of another. On private property, except for operation as emergency vehicle, without the consent of the owner or lessee thereof. Any person operating a snowmobile upon lands of another in violation of this section shall stop and identify himself or herself upon the request of the landowner, the landowner's duly authorized representative or lessee, and, if requested to do so by said landowner, representative or lessee shall promptly remove said snowmobile from the premises.

8. Snowmobiles towing a sleigh, sled or toboggan. The towing of a sleigh, sled or toboggan, unless attached by a rigid support, connection or towbar.

9. Failure to stop and yield. In any place at any time failing to stop and yield to an authorized ambulance, civil defense, or police snowmobile or police vehicle being operated as an emergency vehicle and approaching from any direction.

9-a. Failing to yield to trail grooming equipment. Failure by the operator of a snowmobile upon any snowmobile trail to yield the right of way to the operator of trail grooming equipment upon such trail, whether such snowmobile operator is approaching or overtaking.

10. Failure and refusal to comply. In any place at any time failure or refusal to comply with any lawful order or direction of any police officer or other person duly empowered to enforce all laws of the state relating to snowmobiles.

Notes to Decisions

Because questions of fact existed under N.Y. Parks Rec. & Hist. Preserv. Law § 25.03(1), (2) as to whether a passenger assumed the risk of riding on a snowmobile, the driver and the owner of the snowmobile were not entitled to summary judgment. Pantalone v Talcott, 52 A.D.3d 1148, 861 N.Y.S.2d 166, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5821 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Trial court properly granted summary judgment to a rider on an injured party's claims that the rider's negligent use of a snowmobile caused injuries; even if the rider violated N.Y. Parks Rec. & Hist. Preserv. Law 25.03 by operating a snowmobile while intoxicated, the possibility that the injured party would grab the rider's jacket and that his foot would be caught in the snowmobile treads was not foreseeable, and the injured party's actions constituted an intervening cause. Kemper v Arnow, 18 A.D.3d 939, 795 N.Y.S.2d 138, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4858 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 5 N.Y.3d 708, 803 N.Y.S.2d 28, 836 N.E.2d 1151, 2005 N.Y. § 25.17. Equipment

1. All snowmobiles operating within the state of New York shall be equipped with:

(a) Head lights. At least one white or amber head-lamp having a minimum candlepower of sufficient intensity to reveal persons and vehicles at a distance of at least one hundred feet ahead during hours of darkness under normal atmospheric conditions.

(b) Tail light. At least one red tail-lamp having a minimum candlepower of sufficient intensity to exhibit a red light plainly visible from a distance of five hundred feet to the rear during hours of darkness under normal atmospheric conditions.

(c) Brakes. A brake system in good mechanical condition.

(d) Reflector material. Reflector material of a minimum area of sixteen square inches mounted on each side of the cowling. Registration numbers must be reflectorized, and such numbers or decorative material may be included in computing the required sixteen square inch area.

(e) Mufflers. An adequate muffler system in good working condition. On and after June first, nineteen seventy-two, no snowmobile manufactured after June first, nineteen seventy-two shall be sold or offered for sale unless it is equipped in such a way as to limit noise produced by the snowmobile to not more than eighty-two decibels as measured on the "A" scale at fifty feet. On and after June first, nineteen seventy-five, no such snowmobile manufactured after June first, nineteen seventy-five shall be sold or offered for sale unless it is equipped in such a way as to limit noise produced by the snowmobile to not more than seventy-eight decibels on such scale. On and after June first, nineteen eighty, no such snowmobile manufactured after June first, nineteen eighty, shall be sold or offered for sale unless it is equipped in such a way as to limit noise produced by the snowmobile to not more than seventy-three decibels on such scale. On or after November first, two thousand thirteen, a person shall not operate a snowmobile unless the snowmobile is equipped with a muffler in good working order and in constant operation from which noise emission does not exceed either seventy-eight decibels at fifty feet at full throttle, as measured using a generally accepted test for a snowmobile manufactured after July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven and sold or offered for sale in this state, or eighty-eight decibels, as measured at four meters from an inline position from the exhaust and four thousand rpm using a generally accepted test for using a stationary snowmobile manufactured after July first, nineteen hundred eighty and sold or offered for sale in this state. Should the federal government adopt snowmobile noise level standards different from those contained in this paragraph and require that the state conform thereto, the commissioner shall be authorized to adopt rules and regulations superseding the noise level requirements of this paragraph to achieve compliance with federal standards. No snowmobile shall be modified by any person in any manner that shall amplify or otherwise increase total noise emission to a level greater than that emitted by the snowmobile as originally constructed, regardless of date of manufacture.

2. Inspection and testing. The commissioner may adopt rules and regulations with respect to the inspection and testing of snowmobiles.

3. No person shall have for sale, sell or offer for sale in this state any snowmobile which fails to comply with the provisions of subdivision one, or which does not comply with the specifications for such equipment required by the rules and regulations of the commissioner after the effective date of such rules and regulations.

4. No person shall operate an authorized ambulance, police or civil defense snowmobile as an emergency vehicle unless it is equipped with one or more lighted, red or combination red or white lights which is revolving, rotating, flashing, oscillating or constantly moving light having a minimum candle power of sufficient intensity to be plainly visible from a distance of five hundred feet in all directions under normal atmospheric conditions.

5. No person shall operate a snowmobile or ride as a passenger on a snowmobile unless he or she is wearing a protective helmet of a type approved by the commissioner, except when operating a snowmobile or riding as a passenger on private lands owned by the operator or passenger, or to which the operator or passenger has a contractual right other than as a member of a club or association, and for which no compensation is paid to the owner with respect to such operation.

AUTHORIZED DISPOSITIONS OF OFFENDERS

HISTORY:
Add, L 1967, ch 791, § 6, eff Sept 1, 1967.

§ 60.27. Restitution and reparation

1. In addition to any of the dispositions authorized by this article, the court shall consider restitution or reparation to the victim of the crime and may require restitution or reparation as part of the sentence imposed upon a person convicted of an offense, and after providing the district attorney with an opportunity to be heard in accordance with the provisions of this subdivision, require the defendant to make restitution of the fruits of his or her offense or reparation for the actual out-of-pocket loss caused thereby and, in the case of a violation of section 190.78, 190.79, 190.80, 190.82 or 190.83 of this chapter, any costs or losses incurred due to any adverse action taken against the victim. The district attorney shall where appropriate, advise the court at or before the time of sentencing that the victim seeks restitution or reparation, the extent of injury or economic loss or damage of the victim, and the amount of restitution or reparation sought by the victim in accordance with his or her responsibilities under subdivision two of section 390.50 of the criminal procedure law and article twenty-three of the executive law. The court shall hear and consider the information presented by the district attorney in this regard. In that event, or when the victim impact statement reports that the victim seeks restitution or reparation, the court shall require, unless the interests of justice dictate otherwise, in addition to any of the dispositions authorized by this article that the defendant make restitution of the fruits of the offense and reparation for the actual out-of-pocket loss and, in the case of a violation of section 190.78, 190.79, 190.80, 190.82 or 190.83 of this chapter, any costs or losses incurred due to any adverse action, caused thereby to the victim. In the event that restitution or reparation are not ordered, the court shall clearly state its reasons on the record. Adverse action as used in this subdivision shall mean and include actual loss incurred by the victim, including an amount equal to the value of the time reasonably spent by the victim attempting to remediate the harm incurred by the victim from the offense, and the consequential financial losses from such action.

2. Whenever the court requires restitution or reparation to be made, the court must make a finding as to the dollar amount of the fruits of the offense and the actual out-of-pocket loss to the victim caused by the offense. In making this finding, the court must consider any victim impact statement provided to the court. If the record does not contain sufficient evidence to support such finding or upon request by the defendant, the court must conduct a hearing upon the issue in accordance with the procedure set forth in section 400.30 of the criminal procedure law.

3. The provisions of sections 420.10, 420.20 and 420.30 of the criminal procedure law shall apply in the collection and remission of restitution and reparation.

4. For purposes of the imposition, determination and collection of restitution or reparation, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) the term "offense" shall include the offense for which a defendant was convicted, as well as any other offense that is part of the same criminal transaction or that is contained in any other accusatory instrument disposed of by any plea of guilty by the defendant to an offense.

(b) the term "victim" shall include the victim of the offense, the representative of a crime victim as defined in subdivision six of section six hundred twenty-one of the executive law, an individual whose identity was assumed or whose personal identifying information was used in violation of section 190.78, 190.79 or 190.80 of this chapter, or any person who has suffered a financial loss as a direct result of the acts of a defendant in violation of section 190.78, 190.79, 190.80, 190.82 or 190.83 of this chapter, a good samaritan as defined in section six hundred twenty-one of the executive law and the office of victim services or other governmental agency that has received an application for or has provided financial assistance or compensation to the victim. A victim shall also mean any owner or lawful producer of a master recording, or a trade association that represents such owner or lawful producer, that has suffered injury as a result of an offense as defined in article two hundred seventy-five of this chapter.

5. (a) Except upon consent of the defendant or as provided in paragraph (b) of this subdivision, or as a condition of probation or conditional discharge as provided in paragraph (g) of subdivision two of section 65.10 of this chapter, the amount of restitution or reparation required by the court shall not exceed fifteen thousand dollars in the case of a conviction for a felony, or ten thousand dollars in the case of a conviction for any offense other than a felony. Notwithstanding the provisions of this subdivision, if an officer of a school district is convicted of violating any section of article one hundred fifty-five of this chapter where the victim of such crime is such officer's school district, the court may require an amount of restitution up to the full amount of the fruits of the offense or reparation up to the full amount of the actual out-of-pocket loss suffered by the victim, provided further that in such case the provisions of paragraph (b) of this subdivision shall not apply.

(b) The court in its discretion may impose restitution or reparation in excess of the amounts specified in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, provided however that the amount in excess must be limited to the return of the victim's property, including money, or the equivalent value thereof; and reimbursement for medical expenses actually incurred by the victim prior to sentencing as a result of the offense committed by the defendant.

6. Any payment made as restitution or reparation pursuant to this section shall not limit, preclude or impair any liability for damages in any civil action or proceeding for an amount in excess of such payment.

7. In the event that the court requires restitution or reparation to be made to a person and that person dies prior to the completion of said restitution or reparation, the remaining payments shall be made to the estate of the deceased.

8. The court shall in all cases where restitution or reparation is imposed direct as part of the disposition that the defendant pay a designated surcharge of five percent of the entire amount of a restitution or reparation payment to the official or organization designated pursuant to subdivision eight of section 420.10 of the criminal procedure law. The designated surcharge shall not exceed five percent of the amount actually collected. Upon the filing of an affidavit of the official or organization designated pursuant to subdivision eight of section 420.10 of the criminal procedure law demonstrating that the actual cost of the collection and administration of restitution or reparation in a particular case exceeds five percent of the entire amount of the payment or the amount actually collected, as the case may be, the court shall direct that the defendant pay an additional surcharge of not more than five percent of the entire amount of a restitution or reparation payment to such official or organization, or the actual cost of collection or administration, whichever is less unless, upon application of the defendant, the court determines that imposition of such additional surcharge would cause undue hardship to the defendant, or any other person who is financially supported by the defendant, or would otherwise not be in the interest of justice. Such additional surcharge, when added to the initial five percent surcharge, shall not exceed ten percent of the amount actually collected.

9. If the offense of which a person is convicted is a class A, class B, class C, or class D felony involving the sale of a controlled substance, as defined in article two hundred twenty of this chapter, and no other victim who is a person is seeking restitution in the case, the term "victim" as used in this section, in addition to its ordinary meaning, shall mean any law enforcement agency of the state of New York or of any subdivision thereof which has expended funds in the purchase of any controlled substance from such person or his agent as part of the investigation leading to such conviction. Any restitution which may be required to be made to a law enforcement agency pursuant to this section shall be limited to the amount of funds expended in the actual purchase of such controlled substance by such law enforcement agency, less the amount of any funds which have been or will be recovered from any other source, and shall not include a designated surcharge pursuant to subdivision eight of this section. Any law enforcement agency seeking restitution pursuant to this section shall file with the court and the district attorney an affidavit stating that funds expended in the actual purchase of a controlled substance for which restitution is being sought have not been and will not be recovered from any other source or in any other civil or criminal proceeding. Any law enforcement agency receiving restitution pursuant to this section shall promptly transmit to the commissioner of the division of criminal justice services a report stating the dollar amount of the restitution received.

10. If the offense of which a person is convicted is defined in section 150.10, 150.15 or 150.20 of this chapter, and no other victim who is a person is seeking restitution in the case, the term "victim" as used in this section, in addition to its ordinary meaning, shall mean any municipality or volunteer fire company which has expended funds or will expend funds for the purpose of restoration, rehabilitation or clean-up of the site of the arson. Any restitution which may be required to be made to a municipality or volunteer fire company pursuant to this section shall be limited to the amount of funds reasonably expended or to be expended for the purpose of restoration, rehabilitation or cleanup of the site of the arson, less the amount of any funds which have been or will be recovered from any other source, and shall not include a designated surcharge pursuant to subdivision eight of this section. Any municipality or volunteer fire company seeking restitution pursuant to this section shall file with the court, district attorney and defense counsel an affidavit stating that the funds reasonably expended or to be expended for which restitution is being sought have not been and will not be recovered from any other source or in any other civil or criminal proceeding. For the purposes of this subdivision, "volunteer fire company" means a fire company as defined in paragraph a of subdivision two of section one hundred of the general municipal law.

11. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, when a person is convicted of harming an animal trained to aid a person with a disability in the second degree as defined in section 195.11 of this chapter, or harming an animal trained to aid a person with a disability in the first degree as defined in section 195.12 of this chapter, the court, in addition to any other sentence, shall order the payment of restitution to the person with a disability who was aided by such animal.

12. If the offense of which a person is convicted is defined in section 155.25, 155.30, 155.35, 155.40 or 155.42 of this chapter, and the property taken is timber, the court may upon conviction, in addition to any other sentence, direct the defendant to pay the rightful owner of such timber an amount equal to treble the stumpage value of the timber stolen as defined in section 71-0703 of the environmental conservation law and for any permanent and substantial damage caused to the land or the improvements thereon as a result of such violation. Such reparations shall be of such kind, nature and extent as will reasonably restore the lands affected by the violation to their condition immediately before the violation and may be made by physical restoration of such lands and/or by the assessment of monetary payment to make such restoration.

13. If the offense of which a person is convicted is defined in section 240.50, subdivision one or two of section 240.55, section 240.60, section 240.61, section 240.62 or section 240.63 of this chapter, and no other victim who is a person is seeking restitution in the case, the term "victim" as used in this subdivision, in addition to the ordinary meaning, shall mean any school, municipality, fire district, fire company, fire corporation, ambulance association, ambulance corporation, or other legal or public entity engaged in providing emergency services which has expended funds for the purpose of responding to a false report of an incident or false bomb as defined in section 240.50, subdivision one or two of section 240.55, section 240.60, section 240.61, section 240.62, or section 240.63 of this chapter. Any restitution which may be required to be made to a victim pursuant to this subdivision shall be limited to the amount of funds reasonably expended for the purpose of responding to such false report of incident or false bomb, less the amount of any funds which have been or will be recovered from any other source and shall not include a designated surcharge pursuant to subdivision eight of this section. Any victim seeking restitution pursuant to this subdivision shall file with the court, district attorney and defense counsel an affidavit stating that the funds reasonably expended for which restitution is being sought have not been and will not be recovered from any other source or in any other civil or criminal proceeding, except as provided for by section 3-112 of the general obligations law.

14. Where a transfer of probation has occurred pursuant to section 410.80 of the criminal procedure law and the probationer is subject to a restitution condition, the department of probation in the county in which the order of restitution was imposed shall notify the appropriate district attorney. Upon notification by the department of probation, such district attorney shall file a certified copy of the judgment with the clerk of the county in the receiving jurisdiction for purposes of establishing a first lien and to permit institution of civil proceedings pursuant to the provisions of subdivision six of section 420.10 of the criminal procedure law.

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "false reporting act of 1999".

Laws 2003, ch 602, § 1, eff March 1, 2004, provides as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and purposes. The forest resources of this state have increased in size and quality in every decade since the turn of the century. Today, nearly two-thirds of the state's land cover, 18.5 million acres, is forestland, and the quality and quantity of forests found today continues to improve. At the same time this remarkable resource has provided clean water, a diversity of habitat for wildlife, abundant outdoor recreational activities, and a wide-range of wood and paper products.

The forest-based economy in New York provides employment for over 122,000 people, forty percent of which jobs are tied to wood product manufacturing. The practice of forestry, including the manufacture of wood and paper products and nurturing, harvesting and management of these forests, is an important way of life that has been sustained for generations in many areas of the state. It also provides for the range of goods and forest conditions that are desired by all residents of the state.

It is then the general purpose of this act: (1) to respect the existing common law right to engage in forestry practices in order to maintain such practices for the benefit of the state; (2) to protect the existence and operation of existing forest activities; (3) to encourage the initiation and expansion of additional forestry businesses; (4) to discourage inadvertent impediments to the practice of forestry that may result from well meaning but poorly constructed local ordinances concerning forestry activities; (5) to improve understanding of the economic and environmental contributions that well managed forests bring to the state; and (6) to deter the unlawful taking of trees by increasing criminal and civil penalties.

PRACTICE INSIGHTS:

Issues Involved With Seeking Restitution and Reparations.

By Spiros A. Tsimbinos, Esq., Member of New York Bar.

General Editor, John M. Castellano, Esq., Member of New York Bar.

INSIGHT

Restitution and reparations can be an important part of any authorized disposition, often providing a defendant with an opportunity to mitigate culpability by giving up the fruits of his or her crime and providing compensation to an injured victim. As such, restitution and reparations can also be an invaluable tool in seeking to obtain either a reduced incarceratory sentence or a non-incarceratory sentence. Over time, the Legislature and courts have expanded the scope of restitution and reparations as being a fair way of making the offender pay for his or her crimes while providing adequate compensation to the victim. Therefore, defense counsel should become thoroughly familiar with the provisions of Penal Law § 60.27. and also refer to its companion sections in CPL Article 420.. Always advise the defendant that payment of restitution does not bar subsequent civil action and that the failure to pay could result in imprisonment.

ANALYSIS

Penal Law § 60.27 Addresses Basis for Restitution and Victims Entitled to Receive It.

Penal Law § 60.27 provides that, in addition to any other sentence imposed, the court may order restitution or reparations to the victim. Restitution is limited to the fruits of the offense, and reparations are limited to out-of-pocket loss (not loss or damage that would include pain or suffering). The term victim has an expanded meaning that includes designated representatives of a victim and governmental agencies. Article 420 of the Criminal Procedure Law. dictates the methods of payment and collection of monies owed.

Certain Procedures Must Be Followed to Obtain Restitution.

When either restitution or reparations are sought, the defendant must have advance notice and the court, if ordering such relief, must find as to the dollar amount in question. The court is required, under a 1992 amendment, to order restitution or reparations if the victim is seeking this relief unless the court finds that the interests of justice dictate otherwise. The sentencing court alone has authority to determine the amount and propriety of restitution or reparation and may not delegate its power to set the conditions of restitution or reparations to the Department of Probation, as was held by the Court of Appeals in People v. Fuller, 57 N.Y.2d 152, 455 N.Y.S.2d 253, 441 N.E.2d 563 (1982).

Designated Amounts of Restitution Are Established Unless Special Circumstances Exist.

Unless special circumstances are involved, restitutions or reparations shall not exceed $15,000 for a felony and $10,000 for a misdemeanor or violation. However, the court, in its discretion, may impose restitution or reparation in excess of these amounts to cover the reasonable return of the victim's property, including money and reimbursement for medical expenses actually incurred by the victim prior to sentencing as a result of the offense committed by the defendant. An additional five percent surcharge of the amount of restitution or reparations is imposed as an administrative fee payable to the established restitution agency.

Courts and Legislature Have Recently Been More Inclined to Order Restitution as Means of Compensating Victims and Making Defendants Accept Responsibility for Recent decisions from the appellate courts and further actions by the State Legislature have all served to enlarge the parameters of restitution and reparations as a justified means of making offenders take responsibility for their actions and compensating losses sustained by victims. A recent decision the Court of Appeals gave a broad interpretation to Penal Law § 60.27 relating to the ability of a sentencing court to order restitution. The Court also ruled that each defendant is jointly and severally liable for the actions of co-defendants. People v. Kim, 91 N.Y.2d 407, 671 N.Y.S.2d 420, 694 N.E.2d 421 (1998). The Court viewed the goal of the restitution statute as "to insure, to the maximum extent possible, that victims will be made whole and offenders will be rehabilitated and deterred, by requiring all defendants to confront concretely, and take responsibility for, the entire harm resulting from their acts."

In 1999, the legislature also added a special provision to provide restitution for loss of a seeing-eye dog or other animal trained to assist a person with a disability with respect to a defendant who harms such an animal. The legislature also enlarged the category of victims to clearly include schools, municipalities, and other government units who expend monies as a result of false reports made by an offender.

Willingness and Ability of Defendant to Make Restitution and Reparations Often Leads to Imposition of More Lenient and Favorable Sentence.

Prosecutors and judges are often anxious to obtain restitution and reparations to compensate a victim or recoup monies for governmental treasuries. When defense counsel has a client who is able to make restitution, this factor can be used to either obtain a sentence with no incarceration or obtain a short definite or intermittent sentence. Emphasize that if the defendant is to make restitution or reparations, he or she must be able to continue work or to run a business and that a lengthy period of imprisonment will be counterproductive to the goal of making restitution. Even if a long payout schedule has to be arranged, the defendant's ability and willingness to make restitution can go a long way toward obtaining a favorable plea disposition. The ability and willingness to make restitution is also an affirmative and positive act by which a defendant acknowledges the wrongdoing and that he or she is willing to pay for the actions.

Warn Defendant that Civil Action May Follow and Failure to Pay May Result in Jail.

Payment of restitution or reparations to the victim does not impair the right of any victim to proceed with a civil action. Accordingly, before counsel negotiates a sentence involving either of these terms, counsel should be sure to warn the client about a possible future civil action, at least where all of the relevant parties have not been fully compensated. Counsel may also attempt to obtain a release from the appropriate parties for any uncompensated amounts.

Counsel must also realistically assess the defendant's ability to pay, and if payments are to be made over time, the defendant's reliability. Counsel should warn the defendant that the failure to pay may result in prison time. If a court imposes restitution as a condition of probation, probation may be revoked and any incarceratory sentence authorized for the original offense may be imposed upon resentence. If a court simply imposes a sentence of imprisonment as an alternative to payment, the sentence upon non-payment will be more limited because it must be in accord with Penal Law § 420.10, which specifies that not more than one year may be imposed for a felony and also places limits on alternative sentences for misdemeanor and petty offenses. While restitution and reparations can be powerful tools to obtain favorable sentences through negotiation, counsel should be aware that some clients are not well suited to these types of sentences and could end up worse off if they do not pay in a timely manner.

1. In General

CLS CPL § 420.10(4)(a) does not prohibit court from initially imposing prison term and restitution on defendant who has been convicted of felony; rather, such sanctions are expressly authorized by CLS Penal § 60.27(1). People v Travis, 88 N.Y.2d 970, 647 N.Y.S.2d 724, 670 N.E.2d 1356, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. 1996).

Whether defendant will be required to make restitution to crime victim is matter within discretion of court. People v Consalvo, 89 N.Y.2d 140, 651 N.Y.S.2d 963, 674 N.E.2d 672, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3577 (N.Y. 1996).

In a prosecution for grand larceny in the second degree, the trial court erred in sentencing defendant to an indeterminate term of imprisonment of from two and one-third to seven years to run concurrently with a federal term of zero to seven years, and ordering defendant to make restitution and pay a fine, where the record reflected a strong likelihood that the defendant possessed considerable assets which would be available for restitution purposes, and where the term of state imprisonment might never in fact be served, in that it was concurrent with the federal prison sentence. People v Kolman, 88 A.D.2d 549, 450 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16690 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 57 N.Y.2d 686, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 4216 (N.Y. 1982).

Court is required to consider whether defendant should be required to make restitution to victim under CLS Penal § 60.27 irrespective of whether district attorney requests it. People v Turco, 130 A.D.2d 785, 515 N.Y.S.2d 853, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 46818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Where pistol permit clerk pleaded guilty to felony of first degree offering of false instrument for filing in satisfaction of investigation arising from apparently embezzled pistol permit fees, clerk was improperly ordered to pay restitution in amount of missing fees where (1) accusatory instrument did not allege monetary gain to clerk or damage to state, and (2) clerk steadfastly denied taking any money. People v Buza, 166 A.D.2d 774, 563 N.Y.S.2d 134, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12046 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

County Court's failure to fix amount and terms of restitution at time it pronounced sentence of which restitution was to be part, and improper deferral of restitution issues, did not deprive court of jurisdiction to thereafter impose restitution. People v Jackson, 180 A.D.2d 755, 580 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2637 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Filing of affidavit by law enforcement agency seeking restitution is not matter that affects court's authority to order restitution, but relates to amount of restitution. People v Perez, 203 A.D.2d 665, 610 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3869 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 83 N.Y.2d 970, 616 N.Y.S.2d 23, 639 N.E.2d 763, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 2517 (N.Y. 1994).

While restitution may be ordered for offenses contained in any accusatory instrument disposed of by guilty plea by defendant to an offense, defendant cannot be ordered to pay restitution for uncharged criminal acts of which he or she denies guilt. People v Jody M., 208 A.D.2d 1019, 618 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9678 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Order directing defendant to pay restitution was not barred by automatic stay which resulted from his filing of petition in bankruptcy since court ordered restitution in connection with criminal proceeding which was pending against him at time of filing of bankruptcy petition and in accordance with plea agreement voluntarily entered into by him after filing of that petition; defendant could invoke automatic stay to enjoin authorities from collecting payments under restitution order only via adversary proceeding in Bankruptcy Court. People v Clouser, 221 A.D.2d 727, 633 N.Y.S.2d 658, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11137 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 920, 641 N.Y.S.2d 602, 664 N.E.2d 513, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 447 (N.Y. 1996).

Order of restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27(9) was not illegal simply because it was district attorney's office that originally provided funds that were expended by law enforcement personnel invoked in undercover drug operation that led to defendant's convictions for third degree sale and possession of controlled substance. People v Tracey, 221 A.D.2d 738, 633 N.Y.S.2d 645, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11163 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 943, 647 N.Y.S.2d 177, 670 N.E.2d 461, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 2662 (N.Y. 1996).

On conviction of second degree murder, imposition of both mandatory surcharge of $150 and restitution of $2,000 was improper. People v Richter, 223 A.D.2d 734, 637 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 645 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 852, 644 N.Y.S.2d 698, 667 N.E.2d 348, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1983 (N.Y. 1996).

Defendant may not be ordered to pay restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27(1) for conduct that is not offense within meaning of CLS Penal § 60.27(4)(a). People v Taylor, 242 A.D.2d 925, 662 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10505 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Physician convicted of failure to file corporate tax returns for his dissolved medical services corporation was properly ordered, as restitution, to personally pay corporate taxes for years in question; as "alter ego" of medical services corporation, physician profited from failure to timely file corporate tax returns and pay taxes thereon. People v Brigham, 261 A.D.2d 43, 702 N.Y.S.2d 119, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13538 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 900, 707 N.Y.S.2d 145, 728 N.E.2d 341, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1779 (N.Y. 2000).

Court lacked authority to order criminal defendant to pay as restitution cost of extraditing him from California where no charge of bail jumping was ever brought against him; cost of extradition did not constitute "actual out-of-pocket loss caused by" defendant's offense, county was not "victim" thereof, and cost of extradition was part of county's normal law enforcement operating costs. People v La Fave, 265 A.D.2d 740, 698 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10948 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 881, 705 N.Y.S.2d 13, 726 N.E.2d 490, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 367 (N.Y. 2000).

Court erred in modifying conditions of defendant's probation by requiring him to pay reparation where People had failed to provide notice under CLS Penal § 60.27(1) that they were seeking reparation. People v Kevin C., 265 A.D.2d 828, 697 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9873 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

CLS Penal § 65.10(2)(g), authorizing court to impose restitution or reparation as condition of probation, did not allow court to impose reparation where People did not provide notice under CLS Penal § 60.27(1) that they were seeking reparation. People v Kevin C., 265 A.D.2d 828, 697 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9873 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

CLS CPL § 410.20(1), authorizing court to modify or enlarge conditions of probation, did not allow court to impose reparation where People did not provide notice under CLS Penal § 60.27(1) that they were seeking reparation. People v Kevin C., 265 A.D.2d 828, 697 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9873 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Court could not modify conditions of defendant's probation by requiring him to pay reparation without giving him opportunity to withdraw his plea, and thus such modification was improper where defendant had changed his position in reliance on plea by beginning his "work Saturdays," making vacatur of plea unavailable. People v Kevin C., 265 A.D.2d 828, 697 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9873 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

In prosecution for third and fifth degree possession of stolen property, defendant was properly ordered to pay restitution for stolen chainsaws, despite his contention that he did not steal them and there was no evidence produced or any hearing conducted as to their value, since defendant's "offense" included theft of chainsaws, victim impact statement and trial evidence on issue of valuation provided court with valid basis for fixing monetary value of chainsaws, and defendant made no request for hearing on restitution prior to sentencing. People v Sheehy, 274 A.D.2d 844, 711 N.Y.S.2d 856, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8295 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 938, 721 N.Y.S.2d 615, 744 N.E.2d 151, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 4107 (N.Y. 2000).

Court's failure to order restitution at time of sentencing does not necessarily deprive court of jurisdiction to impose restitution thereafter, so long as People properly state at sentencing that they intend to seek restitution. People v Swiatowy, 280 A.D.2d 71, 721 N.Y.S.2d 185, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1083 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 868, 730 N.Y.S.2d 43, 754 N.E.2d 1126, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2664 (N.Y. 2001).

Judicial modification or correction of sentence, such as addition of restitution, must occur within reasonable time following sentencing proceeding; unreasonable delay will result in loss of jurisdiction over defendant. People v Swiatowy, 280 A.D.2d 71, 721 N.Y.S.2d 185, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1083 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 868, 730 N.Y.S.2d 43, 754 N.E.2d 1126, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2664 (N.Y. 2001).

Court properly severed issue of restitution at sentencing, and imposed restitution 13 months later, where information as to assault victim's medical expenses was not available at time of sentencing and both prosecutor and defense counsel consented to severance; delay did not divest court of jurisdiction. People v Swiatowy, 280 A.D.2d 71, 721 N.Y.S.2d 185, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1083 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 868, 730 N.Y.S.2d 43, 754 N.E.2d 1126, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2664 (N.Y. 2001).

Trial court's order at sentencing for each defendant to pay $81,045 in restitution did not render inconsistent the jury's verdict of guilt for grand larceny in the second degree, 6 counts of criminal possession of a forged instrument in the second degree, and 48 counts of offering a false instrument for filing in the first degree; the restitution hearing was not part of the jury trial, but was a different proceeding pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2) and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30(4), before a different fact-finder, and addressing different issues. People v DiCarlo, 293 A.D.2d 279, 741 N.Y.S.2d 508, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3450 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 767, 752 N.Y.S.2d 7, 781 N.E.2d 919, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3884 (N.Y. 2002), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 767, 752 N.Y.S.2d 7, 781 N.E.2d 919, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3883 (N.Y. 2002).

Restitution order was improper because, although a victim gave a statement at sentencing that he was "out" $1,018, no detailed evidence was presented as to the losses covered by this amount, the manner in which it was computed, or defendant's ability to pay, and thus there was insufficient evidence to order restitution. People v Durant, 41 A.D.3d 976, 838 N.Y.S.2d 699, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7312 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007), overruled, People v Henry, 64 A.D.3d 804, 881 N.Y.S.2d 701, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5375 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

Trial court erred in enhancing defendant's sentence of incarceration based on his failure to pay restitution arising from previous convictions. People v Maliszewski, 49 A.D.3d 1165, 853 N.Y.S.2d 792, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2334 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2008).

It was error to direct defendant to pay restitution for the $2,400 used for a controlled drug buy, which was recovered from defendant. People v Danford, 88 A.D.3d 1064, 931 N.Y.S.2d 137, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7210 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), app. denied, 18 N.Y.3d 882, 939 N.Y.S.2d 752, 963 N.E.2d 129, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 369 (N.Y. 2012).

All undisbursed restitution payments, as defined by statute, regardless of one collected by the designated restitution agency, must be used for the purposes set forth in CPL § 420.10(7). A county, whose probation department is a designated restitution agency, may not deposit into its general fund unclaimed restitution payments collected by the county probation department prior to November 1, 1984, the effective date of CPL § 420.10(7). 1990 Op St Compt 90-29.

2. Retroactive application

In a prosecution for criminal possession of stolen property, defendant would be remanded to the trial court for resentencing where he had received a sentence of one year imprisonment, together with the requirement that he make restitution, where the activities for which he had been convicted had occurred prior to the effective date of Penal Law § 60.27, and where the statute could not be applied retroactively. People v Winston, 92 A.D.2d 740, 461 N.Y.S.2d 89, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17063 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983).

CLS Penal § 60.27 cannot be applied retroactively because it authorizes court to require restitution in addition to other forms of punishment, and thus provides for harsher sentence than permitted under former law. Agoney v Feinberg, 132 A.D.2d 829, 517 N.Y.S.2d 834, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49320 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Probationer was entitled to Appellate Division order prohibiting enforcement of County Court's order of restitution since such order, as part of sentence which had included term of imprisonment, was illegal on date of sentencing (May 27, 1980); prior to effective date of CLS Penal § 60.27, and corresponding amendment to CLS CPL § 420.10, restitution could not be ordered where sentence of incarceration was imposed. Agoney v Feinberg, 132 A.D.2d 829, 517 N.Y.S.2d 834, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49320 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Five percent surcharge imposed under CLS CPL § 60.27(8) on amount of restitution to be paid by defendant following second degree grand larceny conviction would be vacated in interest of justice where crimes occurred prior to effective date of statute (November 1, 1984). People v Pani, 138 A.D.2d 532, 525 N.Y.S.2d 912, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2894 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 900, 527 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 523 N.E.2d 317, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1525 (N.Y. 1988).

Provision in CLS Penal § 60.27 for 5 percent surcharge could not be applied retroactively to punish conduct that occurred before its effective date. People v Zinke, 147 A.D.2d 106, 541 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7125 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 749, 545 N.Y.S.2d 124, 543 N.E.2d 767, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2706 (N.Y. 1989), rev'd, 76 N.Y.2d 8, 556 N.Y.S.2d 11, 555 N.E.2d 263, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1031 (N.Y. 1990).

3. Relationship to civil actions

State was entitled to summary judgment awarding it $150,000 on its cause of action for treble damages under CLS Soc Serv § 245-b because defendant's criminal conviction and sentence, ordering him to pay $50,000 in restitution, collaterally estopped him from contesting accuracy of restitution amount as reflecting amount of fruits of offense. State v Stokols, 234 A.D.2d 222, 652 N.Y.S.2d 7, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12956 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Where criminal defendant's plea of guilty incorporated restitution of $500,000 for Medicaid fraud, and restitution funds were held in escrow pending further proceedings in his case, his former attorney was not entitled to recover her legal fees from restitution funds, and court properly dismissed her petition for judgment under CLS CPLR §§ 6221 and 5239 because criminal defendant had no interest in restitution funds at time his former attorney obtained confession of judgment and perfected her interest therein. Lang v State, 258 A.D.2d 165, 696 N.Y.S.2d 3, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8929 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

City's acceptance of restitution in a criminal action against company owners for violations of N.Y. Envt'l. Conserv. Law § 71-2703(2)(c)(i) did not constitute an accord and satisfaction disallowing a crime victim cause of action under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 213-b because N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(6) did not preclude liability for damages in any civil action for an amount in excess of the restitution payment. City of New York v College Point Sports Assn., Inc., 61 A.D.3d 33, 876 N.Y.S.2d 409, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 405 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Payment of restitution as part of sentence for criminal trespass does not collaterally estop victim of criminal trespass from seeking damages in civil action based upon same underlying conduct involved in criminal action since discretionary order of restitution in criminal case under CLS Penal § 60.27 in no way decides amount of damages so as to preclude relitigation of that issue in civil action. Farber v Stockton, 128 Misc. 2d 560, 490 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2958 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1985), app. dismissed, 131 Misc. 2d 470, 502 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2519 (N.Y. App. Term 1986).

Payment of reparation award by court in criminal proceeding does not bar subsequent action against defendant to recover damages in excess of reparation award, but subsequent action is not controlled by doctrine of collateral estoppel since victim of crime does not have full and fair opportunity to litigate amount of reparation in criminal proceeding. Farber v Stockton, 131 Misc. 2d 470, 502 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2519 (N.Y. App. Term 1986).

Defendant's successful defense of civil action for damages based on expiration of statute of limitations did not affect his liability for restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27 as part of sentencing for criminal activity that was basis of civil suit. People v Lightfoot, 147 Misc. 2d 918, 559 N.Y.S.2d 936, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 435 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1990).

Defendant, who was convicted of altering freshwater wetland without permit, and was ordered to pay fine, was not required to pay restitution to town which incurred expense for cleaning debris and unplugging culverts since restitution is not available remedy in freshwater wetland cases; also, CLS Penal § 60.27, which authorizes court to order restitution to victim, is inapplicable to freshwater wetland cases. People v De Witt, 171 Misc. 2d 622, 655 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 556 (N.Y. County Ct. 1996).

Plea bargain under which victims of defendant stockbroker's larceny and other crimes were precluded from suing him later for those amounts not covered by restitution was modified to remove that illegal provision but was otherwise allowed to stand. People v Wein, 294 A.D.2d 78, 743 N.Y.S.2d 439, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5843 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2002).

4. Relationship to mandatory surcharge and forfeiture

Until defendant has in fact made restitution, sentencing court has power to order both restitution to crime victim and mandatory surchargecrime victim assistance fee. People v Quinones, 95 N.Y.2d 349, 717 N.Y.S.2d 86, 740 N.E.2d 231, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3499 (N.Y. 2000).

Court erred in ordering defendant both to make restitution and to pay mandatory surcharge, since imposition of surcharge is inconsistent with requirement that defendant make restitution. People v Turco, 130 A.D.2d 785, 515 N.Y.S.2d 853, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 46818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

It was error to direct defendant to make both restitution and pay surcharge; those directives are inconsistent with each other. People v Mela, 172 A.D.2d 630, 568 N.Y.S.2d 432, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Court erred in ordering payment of restitution, as term and condition of defendant's probation, beyond period of his probation, and in ordering defendant both to make restitution and to pay mandatory surcharge. People v Meade, 195 A.D.2d 756, 600 N.Y.S.2d 353, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7264 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993), overruled in part, People v Quinones, 95 N.Y.2d 349, 717 N.Y.S.2d 86, 740 N.E.2d 231, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3499 (N.Y. 2000).

It was error for sentencing court to direct defendant to both make restitution and to pay mandatory surcharge, since imposition of surcharge was inconsistent with requirement that defendant make restitution. People v Bailey, 209 A.D.2d 709, 619 N.Y.S.2d 682, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11692 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Imposition of mandatory surcharge and crime victim assistance fee under CLS Penal § 60.35 on second degree robbery conviction was inconsistent with requirement that defendant pay restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27. People v Espola, 238 A.D.2d 281, 656 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4301 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 904, 663 N.Y.S.2d 516, 686 N.E.2d 228, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3355 (N.Y. 1997), overruled in part, People v Quinones, 95 N.Y.2d 349, 717 N.Y.S.2d 86, 740 N.E.2d 231, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3499 (N.Y. 2000).

Court did not err in directing petit larceny defendant to pay both restitution and mandatory surcharge. People v McElrath, 241 A.D.2d 932, 661 N.Y.S.2d 361, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7868 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Where defendant has not made restitution prior to imposition of sentence, it is not error for sentencing court to direct payment of mandatory surcharge and crime victim assistance fee in addition to restitution; to extent that People v Neff, 110 AD2d 721, and its progeny may suggest otherwise, they are no longer to be followed. People v Cabrera, 243 A.D.2d 720, 664 N.Y.S.2d 308, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10814 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Trial court erred by imposing a surcharge of 10% of the total amount of restitution ordered rather than the surcharge of 5% that was directed by N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(8) because the record did not contain the affidavit required by N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 420.10(8), and there was no showing or assertion that one was filed. People v Stachnik, 101 A.D.3d 1590, 956 N.Y.S.2d 777, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8797 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2012), app. denied, 20 N.Y.3d 1104, 965 N.Y.S.2d 800, 988 N.E.2d 538, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 934 (N.Y. 2013).

Civil forfeiture of crime proceeds under CLS CPLR Art 13-A does not preclude subsequent order requiring defendant to make restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27 since requirements of restitution of fruits of offense, or reparation for damage caused thereby, and civil forfeiture serve different purposes and are not mutually exclusive remedies. People v Ten Eyck, 146 Misc. 2d 132, 549 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 822 (N.Y. County Ct. 1989).

5. Role of probation department

In a prosecution for grand larceny in the second degree stemming from the unlawful receipt of public assistance moneys by defendant's concealing the fact that she was gainfully employed, the sentencing court could not delegate to the probation department the power to fix the conditions of restitution or reparation since Pen L §§ 60.27, 65.10 specify that the court alone must fix the amount of restitution and the manner of performance. People v Fuller, 57 N.Y.2d 152, 455 N.Y.S.2d 253, 441 N.E.2d 563, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3692 (N.Y. 1982).

The trial court in a burglary prosecution erred in delegating to the Probation Department the authority to determine the amount, time, and manner of defendant's payment of restitution to one of his victims, since it is the sentencing court rather than the Probation Department that must fix the amount and method of restitution payments under Penal L § 60.27. People v Mark R.S., 98 A.D.2d 755, 469 N.Y.S.2d 466, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21078 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

When ordering restitution pursuant to CLS CPL § 60.27, court has duty to fix not only amount thereof but also manner of performance, and thus it was improper delegation of court's duty to require restitution from defendant in amount of $5,358 to be made "if, how and when [the Department of Probation] can decide you can pay it." People v Minutoli, 128 A.D.2d 813, 513 N.Y.S.2d 517, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44500 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court erred in sentencing defendant by simply directing restitution "as mandated" by probation department, for while court may use probation department as preliminary fact-finder to determine actual amount of loss due to crime or defendant's ability to pay, it is for court alone to impose sentence and fix amount of restitution and manner of performance. People v Bowden, 131 A.D.2d 581, 516 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48037 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Where defendant was convicted of 19 criminal counts, court erred in failing to fix amount of restitution at time of defendant's sentencing, and in delegating task to probation authorities; matter would be remitted for hearing as to proper amount of restitution since record was insufficient to support finding of proper amount of restitution where (1) court failed to conduct hearing, either at time of sentencing or at defendant's request to be resentenced, to determine victims' losses or to consider defendant's claim that he could not afford to make restitution, and (2) defendant was convicted on his plea of guilty and thus no proof was developed as to loss sustained by victims. People v Bentivegna, 145 A.D.2d 899, 536 N.Y.S.2d 280, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13890 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

In prosecution for welfare fraud in which defendant pleaded guilty to lesser charge of fourth degree grand larceny and agreed to serve definite sentence and make restitution in amount of $22,168, court improperly exceeded statutory limit on its discretion when it ordered restitution in such amount with payment schedule to be set by probation department, thereby delegating power to fix terms and conditions of sentence to probation department. People v Baker, 156 A.D.2d 766, 549 N.Y.S.2d 187, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15499 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Defendant was deprived of his right to be sentenced in accordance with law when sentencing court made no independent finding with respect to amount and manner of restitution, but merely accepted recommendation of probation department without hearing; while probation department can serve as preliminary fact-finder with respect to issue of restitution, sentencing court has duty to set amount and manner of restitution, and matter would be remitted for hearing notwithstanding defendant's waiver of hearing. People v Kronenberg, 167 A.D.2d 483, 562 N.Y.S.2d 154, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14019 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Appellate Division would reverse portion of sentence that required defendant to make restitution in unspecified amount since County Court erred in delegating to probation department its responsibility to fix amount of restitution. People v Willis, 168 A.D.2d 470, 562 N.Y.S.2d 711, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15016 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Court erred in allowing probation report to be dispositive of amount of restitution to be paid by defendant; even though court may use probation department as preliminary factfinder in directing restitution, it must also require production of competent evidence sufficient to support independent judicial findings as to amount of loss and defendant's ability to pay amount in issue. People v Byrd, 175 A.D.2d 170, 572 N.Y.S.2d 59, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9482 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Court did not exceed its authority in fixing restitution in amount exceeding recommendation of probation department; while probation department can serve as preliminary fact finder on issue of restitution, sentencing court has duty to set amount of restitution and manner in which restitution condition is to be satisfied. People v Chaulk, 192 A.D.2d 669, 598 N.Y.S.2d 719, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3889 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 81 N.Y.2d 1071, 601 N.Y.S.2d 590, 619 N.E.2d 668, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 2710 (N.Y. 1993).

Matter would be remanded for hearing to determine amount of restitution to be paid by defendant where court did not determine exact amount to be paid, but only set ceiling of $22,000 with exact amount to be fixed at later date; court was required to set amount to be paid and could not delegate matter to probation department. People v Beaudoin, 195 A.D.2d 996, 600 N.Y.S.2d 558, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7791 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 891, 610 N.Y.S.2d 158, 632 N.E.2d 468, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4830 (N.Y. 1993).

County Court erred in failing to conduct hearing to determine amount of restitution, and improperly delegating task of determining that amount to Departments of Probation and Social Services. People v Bernier, 197 A.D.2d 882, 604 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9288 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

6. Effect of plea bargain

It was not improper to impose full restitution as part of defendant's sentence, despite his assertion that restitution was not part of plea bargain, since sentencing court must consider according restitution to victim whether or not encompassed in plea bargain, prosecutor specifically reserved right to seek restitution, and court gave defendant opportunity to withdraw plea due to confusion as to whether restitution was included in plea agreement. People v Jackson, 143 A.D.2d 473, 532 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9218 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 892, 538 N.Y.S.2d 805, 535 N.E.2d 1345, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 1146 (N.Y. 1989).

It was not improper to direct defendant pay restitution in addition to sentencing him to period of confinement promised in plea bargain where probation report, which included copy of victim impact statement, provided sufficient basis for departure from original sentencing promise; in any event, having failed to accept court's offer to withdraw plea, defendant had no claim to specific performance of original sentencing representation. People v Richards, 158 A.D.2d 627, 551 N.Y.S.2d 597, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2019 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 741, 558 N.Y.S.2d 903, 557 N.E.2d 1199, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 2293 (N.Y. 1990).

Court would vacate provision of defendant's sentence directing him to make restitution where People specifically indicated that no restitution would be sought with regard to any charges encompassed by defendant's plea agreement. People v Allen, 170 A.D.2d 686, 567 N.Y.S.2d 99, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3247 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Court's consideration of amount of restitution paid by defendant in tailoring final sentence pursuant to plea bargain did not violate defendant's right to equal protection. People v Connell, 188 A.D.2d 825, 591 N.Y.S.2d 563, 188 A.2d 825, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13895 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992), app. denied, 81 N.Y.2d 883, 597 N.Y.S.2d 944, 613 N.E.2d 976, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1350 (N.Y. 1993).

In sentencing defendant on his plea of guilty to fifth degree possession of controlled substance, court's imposition of "restitution in the form of the forfeiture agreement of $145" was lawful where (1) to extent that court required defendant to make restitution of $20 used by undercover police officer to purchase controlled substance from defendant, restitution was permissible under CLS Penal § 60.27(9), and (2) remainder of payment was civil forfeiture that defendant had agreed to pay as condition of his plea agreement. People v Ford, 246 A.D.2d 665, 666 N.Y.S.2d 947, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 678 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 897, 680 N.Y.S.2d 61, 702 N.E.2d 846, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3374 (N.Y. 1998).

In prosecution for second degree forgery, second degree possession of forged instrument, and petty larceny, order that defendant pay restitution would be vacated, despite defendant's consent to restitution during plea allocution, where restitution was intended to compensate for uncharged crimes, and record was insufficient to determine whether restitution satisfied requirements of CLS Penal § 60.27(4). People v Miller, 251 A.D.2d 747, 674 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6771 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Restitution was properly imposed, without hearing, as part of sentence for second degree grand larceny where defendant agreed to amount of restitution at his plea allocution. People v Vazquez-tell, 273 A.D.2d 328, 710 N.Y.S.2d 539, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6467 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 908, 716 N.Y.S.2d 649, 739 N.E.2d 1154, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3729 (N.Y. 2000).

Defendant's sentence would be vacated, and case would be remitted for either imposition of promised sentence or opportunity for defendant to withdraw his plea, where he pleaded guilty to second degree assault with understanding that he would be sentenced as second felony offender to incarceration for 3 years, and court imposed that sentence but further ordered him to pay restitution of $1,664.52. People v Austin, 275 A.D.2d 913, 715 N.Y.S.2d 173, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9697 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Since defendant's plea agreement did not mention restitution, a county court erred by ordering restitution as part of the sentence on defendant's guilty plea to arson without offering defendant an opportunity to either withdraw the guilty plea or accept the greater sentence that included restitution. On remand, a hearing under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30 on the proper amount to impose as restitution was required since the original amount set by the county court was not sufficiently supported by the record to satisfy N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2). People v Snyder, 23 A.D.3d 761, 803 N.Y.S.2d 779, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12445 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Where a plea agreement does not include any mention of restitution, and restitution is imposed as part of a sentence, a defendant must be given the opportunity to either withdraw his plea or accept the greater sentence of restitution. People v Snyder, 23 A.D.3d 761, 803 N.Y.S.2d 779, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12445 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Record failed to reflect that defendant was adequately apprised that restitution would be imposed pursuant to the plea agreement and defendant did not knowingly agree to it, requiring that his sentence be vacated and he be given an opportunity to withdraw his plea or to accept restitution as a component of his sentence; at the outset of the plea, the trial court merely stated that restitution would be reduced to a civil judgment, and while defendant subsequently indicated generally that he understood the plea terms and had no questions, restitution was not otherwise specifically mentioned, and neither defendant nor defense counsel agreed that it would be imposed at sentencing as part of the negotiated agreement. Further, the record was silent as to whether defendant was ever advised prior to sentence being imposed of the amount (or scope) of restitution, or if defendant or defense counsel ever received a copy of the itemized list of restitution that appeared in the record. People v Sawyer, 55 A.D.3d 949, 865 N.Y.S.2d 378, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Although a restitution award at the time of sentencing was supported by depositions in the record and letters from the victims, and the sentencing court properly corrected its failure to consider the victims' timely requests, because the post-sentence restitution orders raised the total amount that defendant would be required to pay beyond the anticipated range presented in defendant's plea agreement, defendant could either withdraw the plea or consent to the higher restitution amount in accordance with N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1); since the conditions required for imposition of restitution were not met with respect to two claims, they had to be vacated. People v Naumowicz, 76 A.D.3d 747, 907 N.Y.S.2d 353, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6466 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Because defendant pleaded guilty to the indictment, after rejecting a proposed plea offer, sentencing remained within the county court's discretion, with the qualifier that the county court represented that it would not impose a sentence in excess of 48 years or a fine, and the county court did not err in requiring that defendant pay $500 in restitution, which was separate and distinct from a fine. People v Brandon, 133 A.D.3d 901, 20 N.Y.S.3d 432, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8101 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 992, 59 N.E.3d 1215, 38 N.Y.S.3d 103, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1235 (N.Y. 2016), app. denied sub. nom., People v Kareem, 27 N.Y.3d 1000, 59 N.E.3d 1222, 38 N.Y.S.3d 110, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1289 (N.Y. 2016).

7. Application to codefendants

Imposing joint and several liability on all perpetrators for entire loss of crime victim caused by their concerted action is more consistent with, and better promotes, dual purposes of restitution statute to ensure, to maximum extent possible, that victims will be made whole and offenders will be rehabilitated and deterred; thus, court correctly refused to divide restitution amount equally between defendant and his accomplice. People v Kim, 91 N.Y.2d 407, 671 N.Y.S.2d 420, 694 N.E.2d 421, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 596 (N.Y. 1998).

Under procedure for collection of restitution, official designated by court to receive payment should be obligated to apply to court for modification or elimination of restitution in case involving one or more defendants where restitution has been partially or wholly paid by another defendant, and should also report to court amount of restitution paid by any defendant in case that could result in duplicative or inequitable apportionment of payments; in order to facilitate this procedure, it is imperative that defendant who made restitution be given notice, similar to that provided to victim under CLS CPL § 420.10(5), of (1) any other payments made by codefendants, or (2) any application to modify or eliminate restitution portion of sentence. People v Turco, 130 A.D.2d 785, 515 N.Y.S.2d 853, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 46818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

On conviction of attempted robbery, defendant was properly made to pay entire amount of victim's loss, even though 4 defendants were convicted for their parts in crime and both she and another perpetrator were required to make restitution, since legislative intent of restitution statutes is to make victim whole and to serve rehabilitative purpose of requiring defendant to appreciate economic consequences of his crime, and intent would be fostered by requiring each defendant to be jointly and severally responsible for entire amount of damage caused; however, defendant should receive notice of any further proceeding affecting restitution to be paid to victims, which notice should be similar to that provided to victim under CLS CPL § 420.10(5). People v Turco, 130 A.D.2d 785, 515 N.Y.S.2d 853, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 46818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Following conviction for attempted unauthorized use of vehicle, defendant would be required to pay restitution for ½ of amount of damages caused by accident in which he was passenger in subject vehicle, even though codefendant driver had testified that defendant had told him to stop vehicle just prior to accident, since defendant nonetheless had aided codefendant in unauthorized use and thus was liable for codefendant's conduct while driving. People v Rivera, 135 Misc. 2d 350, 515 N.Y.S.2d 397, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2225 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1987).

Under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(4)(a), liability need not be apportioned among accomplices according to their percentage of fault or the precise harm that their individual actions caused, and while § 60.27(4)(a), is silent on the issue, imposing joint and several liability on all perpetrators for the entire loss of the victim caused by their concerted action is more consistent with the purposes of N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1). People v Stone, 307 A.D.2d 387, 761 N.Y.S.2d 722, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7692 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 645, 769 N.Y.S.2d 211, 801 N.E.2d 432, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 4352 (N.Y. 2003).

8. Who is entitled to restitution

Security firm guard who pleaded guilty to fourth-degree attempted arson and third-degree criminal mischief after setting fire to photocopy room of building she was assigned to guard could be ordered to make restitution to her employer as term of probation where employer had already reimbursed company whose property was destroyed, and since neither CLS Penal § 60.27 nor § 65.10 precluded restitution to someone other than direct victim of crime and security firm's liability was dependent on its employment relationship with defendant. People v Hall-Wilson, 69 N.Y.2d 154, 513 N.Y.S.2d 73, 505 N.E.2d 584, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15326 (N.Y. 1987).

Despite a welfare recipient's acquittal of theft offenses, jury's determination that she was guilty of three counts of filing false instruments in which she omitted to mention earned income supported the trial court's award of restitution, in the amount of benefits overpayments, to the county social services department. People v Horne, 97 N.Y.2d 404, 740 N.Y.S.2d 675, 767 N.E.2d 132, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 488 (N.Y. 2002).

Defendant was properly ordered to pay restitution to victim's parents, who were billed for hospital services rendered to victim and for his funeral expenses, since amount of loss was readily ascertainable from bills for those services, which were appended to presentence report. People v Canada, 156 A.D.2d 1001, 549 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16197 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 964, 556 N.Y.S.2d 249, 555 N.E.2d 621, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1772 (N.Y. 1990).

Defendant may be compelled to pay restitution to murder victim's family for hospital or funeral expenses. People v Evans, 242 A.D.2d 948, 662 N.Y.S.2d 651, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10554 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 834, 667 N.Y.S.2d 687, 690 N.E.2d 496, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 4323 (N.Y. 1997).

Business tenant of building vandalized by defendant was "victim" for purpose of receiving restitution where defendant damaged windows in building and computer used by tenant in his business. People v Christman, 265 A.D.2d 856, 696 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9936 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 878, 705 N.Y.S.2d 10, 726 N.E.2d 487, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 276 (N.Y. 2000).

Defendant's objection to an order of restitution in his criminal matter which directed that he make payment to individuals who were not named in the indictment and/or who did not testify lacked merit pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27. People v DeDeo, 59 A.D.3d 846, 874 N.Y.S.2d 291, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1363 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 782, 879 N.Y.S.2d 59, 906 N.E.2d 1093, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1580 (N.Y. 2009).

Drug addicts are victims for purposes of restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27. People v Lopez, 139 Misc. 2d 448, 528 N.Y.S.2d 748, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988), amended, aff'd, 162 A.D.2d 621, 557 N.Y.S.2d 93, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7691 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

With regard to the order requiring defendant to pay $3,600 in arson reparations to the resident of the adjacent home, defendant did not request a hearing and the neighbor's uncontroverted testimony sufficiently established the cost of repairs necessitated by the offenses, obviating the need for a hearing. People v Wojes, 306 A.D.2d 754, 763 N.Y.S.2d 103, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7431 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 600, 766 N.Y.S.2d 176, 798 N.E.2d 360, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3676 (N.Y. 2003).

Since arson restitution was sought on behalf of the neighbor, the trial court lacked the authority to also order restitution to the city. People v Wojes, 306 A.D.2d 754, 763 N.Y.S.2d 103, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7431 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 600, 766 N.Y.S.2d 176, 798 N.E.2d 360, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3676 (N.Y. 2003).

9. —Judgment creditors

Judgment creditors were not entitled to collect judgment from restitution fund held by county Probation Department pursuant to plea-bargained sentence by which judgment debtor was required to establish restitution fund under CLS Penal § 60.27 where judgment establishing restitution fund was prior in time to money judgment obtained by judgment creditors, and judgment debtor, having surrendered money to Probation Department, had no interest in restitution account that could be executed against; proper remedy for judgment creditors was to appeal from decision which had denied their application to share in restitution fund on pro rata basis with other claimants. Hanrahan v Albany County Probation Dep't, 119 A.D.2d 334, 508 N.Y.S.2d 283, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60629 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

Under CLS Penal § 60.27, County Court improperly dismissed claim of criminal defendant's judgment creditors against restitution fund established after defendant was convicted of fraud in connection with operation of one of his several businesses, where dismissal was based on fact that incident which led to creditors' judgment involved fraudulent scheme in another of defendant's businesses, and neither that business nor incident were subject of any criminal indictment; second definitional category of "offense" in § 60.27(4) is not limited to conduct which has resulted in conviction or even filing of formal charges, and matter would therefore be remanded to County Court for determination as to whether factual basis of creditors' claim was part of same criminal transaction underlying defendant's criminal conviction. People v Prewett, 126 A.D.2d 86, 513 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41128 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 693, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1028, 512 N.E.2d 554, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17961 (N.Y. 1987).

Judgment creditors of criminal who pleaded guilty to charges of criminal fraud and who established restitution fund with county probation department pursuant to terms of plea bargain are not entitled to attach restitution fund since moneys paid by criminal to fund do not constitute property in which criminal, as judgment debtor, has interest since he can neither assign nor transfer any of fund; by limiting claimants to fund to those who were defrauded by specific corporate identity of criminal rather then several other corporate identities maintained, sentencing judge improperly created separate class of preferred creditors, and action may be instituted to compel inclusion of petitioners in any restitution award. Hanrahan v Albany County Probation Dep't, 128 Misc. 2d 604, 490 N.Y.S.2d 709, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2964 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985), aff'd, 119 A.D.2d 334, 508 N.Y.S.2d 283, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60629 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

10. —Insurers

In light of strong legislative policy favoring restitution for all actual monetary losses caused by criminal conduct, insurer's payment of injured crime victim's medical expenses is sufficient to bring insurer within category of representatives of victim eligible for restitution, and it was not error for court to require defendant to make restitution for portion of victim's medical expenses paid by health insurer; moreover, insurer was legally obligated under its insurance contract to pay for victim's medical expenses and, as such, was properly classified as victim in its own right. People v Kim, 91 N.Y.2d 407, 671 N.Y.S.2d 420, 694 N.E.2d 421, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 596 (N.Y. 1998).

It was not abuse of discretion to require defendant convicted of third degree criminal mischief to pay portion of restitution to victim's insurance carrier since carrier had reimbursed victim for damage to her car and was therefore "victim" under CLS Penal §§ 60.27 and 65.10. People v Chery, 126 A.D.2d 659, 511 N.Y.S.2d 88, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41789 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court properly made portion of restitution payable to insurer of victim where victim had been reimbursed by insurer for portion of total monetary loss suffered due to defendant's criminal conduct. People v Turco, 130 A.D.2d 785, 515 N.Y.S.2d 853, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 46818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court properly directed defendant to make restitution for cost of medical care paid by victim's insurer and for sick leave borne by victim's employer; but it was improper to direct that those sums be paid to assault victim, rather than to insurer and employer respectively. People v McDaniel, 219 A.D.2d 861, 631 N.Y.S.2d 957, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10994 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 850, 644 N.Y.S.2d 697, 667 N.E.2d 347, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1944 (N.Y. 1996).

In ordering restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27, it is proper exercise of sentencing court's discretion to require restitution to insurance company which has paid actual victim of defendant's criminal activity. People v Lightfoot, 147 Misc. 2d 918, 559 N.Y.S.2d 936, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 435 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1990).

11. —Employer of injured victim

Sentencing court acted properly in requiring defendant, convicted of burglary and attempted burglary, to make restitution of $500.34 to Nassau County, as employer of off-duty police officer, since county had become legally obligated to incur expenses for medical costs and sick leave because of injuries sustained by officer in attempting to arrest defendant. People v Cruz, 81 N.Y.2d 996, 599 N.Y.S.2d 533, 615 N.E.2d 1017, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1171 (N.Y. 1993).

Sentencing court properly required defendant to pay restitution to police department which had borne loss of sick time taken by off-duty detective who was injured by defendant during course of defendant's arrest since (1) department suffered loss in its role as employer, not as result of operational law enforcement activities, and (2) detective, who interrupted burglary which led to one of defendant's convictions, clearly was victim of offense arising from same criminal transaction as one of crimes for which defendant was convicted. People v Cruz, 80 N.Y.2d 928, 184 A.D.2d 521, 584 N.Y.S.2d 184, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7632 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992), aff'd, 81 N.Y.2d 996, 599 N.Y.S.2d 533, 615 N.E.2d 1017, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1171 (N.Y. 1993).

12. —Law enforcement agancy

Law enforcement agency is not "victim" as defined in CLS Penal § 60.27 and thus is not entitled to receive restitution from defendant of drug "buy" money expended in effectuating arrest; such expenditure is part of agency's normal operating costs. People v Rowe, 152 A.D.2d 907, 544 N.Y.S.2d 97, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9739 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989), aff'd, 75 N.Y.2d 948, 555 N.Y.S.2d 689, 554 N.E.2d 1277, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 945 (N.Y. 1990).

Defendant could not be required as condition of probation to reimburse county for expense of transporting her back from Florida, since no provision of Penal Law vests court with such authority, and since county did not fall within coverage of victims' compensation statute; county was not party standing in shoes of "victim of crime" as contemplated by CLS Penal § 60.27, nor did transportation expense constitute "loss or damage" within meaning of that statute. People v Raines, 157 A.D.2d 874, 550 N.Y.S.2d 142, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 40 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Part of defendant's sentence which ordered restitution in sum of $20 to reimburse police department for pre-recorded buy money used in crack-cocaine sale on which prosecution was premised required vacation since law enforcement agency is not "victim" within meaning of CLS Penal § 60.27; because such restitution is unauthorized by statute, it required vacation even though defendant agreed to it as part of plea bargain. People v Simmons, 171 A.D.2d 822, 567 N.Y.S.2d 765, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3687 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

In prosecution for first degree attempted possession of controlled substance, court erred in ordering defendant to make restitution of unrecovered "buy" money in addition to imposing promised sentence; it is improper for court to order defendant to pay restitution for moneys expended in apprehending him. People v Vigoya, 173 A.D.2d 582, 570 N.Y.S.2d 1015, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8307 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

In prosecution for second degree sale of controlled substance, court improperly required defendant to make restitution of $700, which represented money used by undercover officer to purchase controlled substances from defendant, since police department was not victim within meaning of CLS Penal § 60.27, notwithstanding that defendant failed to protest directive at time it was issued. People v Hernandez, 173 A.D.2d 643, 570 N.Y.S.2d 224, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8237 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

In prosecution for fourth degree grand larceny in which defendant was arrested in Nebraska for auto theft, County Court erred in directing defendant to make reparations to county for expense of transporting arresting officer from Nebraska for trial, since county did not stand in shoes of victim. People v Stacey, 173 A.D.2d 960, 569 N.Y.S.2d 470, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5613 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 832, 580 N.Y.S.2d 213, 588 N.E.2d 111, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5809 (N.Y. 1991).

Restitution plus surcharge was improperly imposed for expenses incurred in returning defendant to state, even though Legislature had amended CLS Penal § 60.27 so that law enforcement agency could be considered victim under restitution statute, where (1) restitution was ordered prior to effective date of amendment, and (2) amendment only authorized restitution of funds expended in purchase of controlled substance. People v Snow, 180 A.D.2d 698, 579 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1428 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

In imposing plea-bargained prison sentence for second degree criminal sale of controlled substance, court erred in also ordering defendant to make restitution for unrecovered "buy money"; it was improper for court to order defendant to pay restitution for moneys expended in apprehending him. People v Murphy, 180 A.D.2d 763, 580 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2635 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Where defendant's sentence of probation was revoked on finding that he had violated condition of probation, court improperly required defendant to pay $40 in restitution to district attorney's office since district attorney's office was not "victim" of crime pursuant to CLS Penal § 60.27. People v Logan, 185 A.D.2d 994, 587 N.Y.S.2d 998, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10354 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Court would delete provision of sentence which required that defendant pay restitution in amount of $2,000, which represented "buy" money used in drug transaction with undercover officers, where sentence was imposed before passage of amendment to CLS Penal § 60.27 which authorized such restitution. People v Dubner, 186 A.D.2d 580, 588 N.Y.S.2d 802, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11098 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Court improperly directed defendant to repay fees of assigned counsel as condition of probation since there is no statutory authority for such directive. People v Palmeri, 186 A.D.2d 1075, 588 N.Y.S.2d 227, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11744 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Court erred in ordering defendant to pay restitution to reimburse sheriff for monies expended to secure defendant's return to New York on warrant issued for his failure to appear on DWI charge, for inasmuch as no bail jumping charge was ever filed, defendant did not commit "offense" within meaning of CLS Penal § 60.27(4)(a) for which restitution could properly be ordered; further, sheriff's department was not "victim" within meaning of CLS Penal § 60.27(4)(b), since expenditure of public monies by sheriff's department in returning defendant to jurisdiction of court for prosecution is part of normal law enforcement operating costs. People v Watson, 197 A.D.2d 880, 602 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9286 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

On defendant's conviction of third degree sale of drugs, court did not err in imposing $40 in restitution to reimburse police for funds used to purchase drugs, and court was not required to conduct hearing to determine amount of restitution. People v Mesquite, 234 A.D.2d 395, 651 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13042 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 1013, 658 N.Y.S.2d 251, 680 N.E.2d 625, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1123 (N.Y. 1997), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 1013, 658 N.Y.S.2d 251, 680 N.E.2d 625 (N.Y. 1997).

Defendant who pleaded guilty to third degree criminal sale of controlled substance pursuant to negotiated plea bargain including sentence of imprisonment and $5,000 fine would also be ordered to make restitution to Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) for $8,200 DEA paid to purchase controlled substance from defendant, since CLS Penal § 60.27(1) allows court to consider restitution in addition to any other dispositions authorized by CLS Penal Art 60, and DEA could be considered "victim" within meaning of § 60.27(1). People v Brown, 145 Misc. 2d 724, 547 N.Y.S.2d 987, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 720 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Defendant could not be ordered to reimburse county for investigative costs as condition of probation, pursuant to CLS Penal §§ 60.27(1) and 65.10(2)(g), because such reimbursement would not constitute "restitution" as that term has been interpreted and defined by case law; however, such condition was authorized under CLS Penal § 65.10(5). People v Patino, 174 Misc. 2d 359, 664 N.Y.S.2d 406, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 475 (N.Y. County Ct. 1997).

13. Need for hearing and findings

Where defendant's attorneys strenuously urged before sentencing that restitution amount was not adequately supported by record and sought hearing, court was required to grant hearing pursuant to CLS Penal § 60.27(2) irrespective of level of evidence in record, and to provide defendant with reasonable opportunity to contest People's evidence or supply evidence on his own behalf. People v Consalvo, 89 N.Y.2d 140, 651 N.Y.S.2d 963, 674 N.E.2d 672, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3577 (N.Y. 1996).

Court would reverse defendant's sentence which directed restitution of $7,242.49 to be paid over 52-month period as condition of 5-year term of probation, and new hearing would be ordered regarding those issues, where record and probation department's restitution summary were insufficient to enable court to determine amount of restitution and manner of performance. People v Miller, 133 A.D.2d 784, 520 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51823 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 934, 524 N.Y.S.2d 686, 519 N.E.2d 632, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19751 (N.Y. 1987).

Sentencing memorandum prepared by assistant district attorney was not sufficient basis on which to order restitution without hearing where no proof was otherwise presented as to amount of loss caused by offense; thus, order of restitution would be vacated and matter remitted for hearing thereon. People v Dixon, 134 A.D.2d 877, 522 N.Y.S.2d 49, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51067 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

Hearing was required on amount of loss caused by defendant in order to determine proper amount of restitution where (1) defendant was convicted on his plea of guilty, (2) defense counsel contested amount of loss claimed by People and expressly requested hearing, (3) record was insufficient to support finding of proper amount of restitution and (4) court improperly relied upon amounts recited in presentence report or in sentencing memorandum prepared by district attorney. People v Millar, 144 A.D.2d 1032, 534 N.Y.S.2d 631, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14620 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

No hearing was necessary to fix amount of restitution required by defendant who pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property where (1) at time of plea, court stated that defendant would be required to make restitution for any moneys received in amount agreed on between parties or, in absence of agreement, fixed by court after hearing, and (2) at time of sentencing, defense counsel stated for record that defendant and People had agreed that $40,000 in restitution was acceptable amount. People v Palella, 148 A.D.2d 838, 539 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2816 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 795, 545 N.Y.S.2d 556, 544 N.E.2d 234, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 5062 (N.Y. 1989).

Sentence imposing restitution as part of sentence on conviction of fourth degree grand larceny, on plea of guilty, was inappropriate where defendant did not explicitly admit amount of victim's monetary loss, and thus hearing with respect to amount of restitution was required as matter of law. People v Kade, 153 A.D.2d 907, 545 N.Y.S.2d 609, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11841 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In robbery prosecution, court did not err in failing to conduct hearing on amount of restitution before imposing sentence requiring defendant to pay $900 to victim, since record was sufficient to allow court to make finding as to fruits of offense. People v Welsher, 154 A.D.2d 915, 545 N.Y.S.2d 870, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12917 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 952, 550 N.Y.S.2d 287, 549 N.E.2d 489, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4614 (N.Y. 1989).

Court erred in ordering defendant to pay restitution without conducting hearing to determine correct amount where sole basis for restitution order was statement of assistant district attorney that insurance company had sustained loss in amount of $1,661.04 based on its reimbursement of one crime victim. People v Williams, 154 A.D.2d 945, 547 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13091 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 819, 552 N.Y.S.2d 569, 551 N.E.2d 1247, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 344 (N.Y. 1990).

In prosecution for second degree grand larceny arising from theft of over $1,000,000, defendants were entitled to vacatur of their sentences and hearing on restitution where (1) at time of guilty pleas, court declared its intention to impose sentence of one to 3 years, stated that it would hold restitution hearing, and also stated that it would impose harsher sentences if defendants failed to appear or had further trouble with law, and (2) at sentencing hearing, court noted that $700,000 remained unaccounted for, found that defendants had not complied with condition of restitution or even indicated location of assets which could be used for restitution, and sentenced defendants to harsher term than specified in plea agreement; court neither fulfilled promise to hold restitution hearing nor conformed to CLS Penal § 60.27(2) which requires such hearing. People v Alonzo, 155 A.D.2d 233, 546 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13706 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

In robbery prosecution in which defendant pleaded guilty, Appellate Division would delete provision of judgment which required defendant to make restitution in amount of $560.84 since plea record and presentence report were insufficient to enable court to determine proper amount of restitution, and thus hearing was required. People v Gudat, 155 A.D.2d 554, 547 N.Y.S.2d 585, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14245 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In prosecution for welfare fraud in which defendant pleaded guilty to lesser charge of fourth degree grand larceny and agreed to serve definite sentence and make restitution in amount of $22,168, sentencing court erred in imposing restitution without making requisite findings of fact as to amount thereof where only information supplied to court was presentence probation report indicating that defendant stole estimated $22,168 in cash assistance and food stamps by falsely reporting her income. People v Baker, 156 A.D.2d 766, 549 N.Y.S.2d 187, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15499 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Colloquy between court and counsel, and review of insurance company bill concerning cost of variety of repairs, which defendant did not concede warranted restitution and for which court did not determine responsibility, did not satisfy requirement that court conduct hearing and determine amount of loss and manner of payment. People v Mela, 172 A.D.2d 630, 568 N.Y.S.2d 432, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Matter would be remitted for hearing with respect to appropriate amount of restitution where sentencing court improperly relied on figures in defendant's probation report in calculating amount of restitution and failed to require production of competent evidence sufficient to support independent findings of fact. People v Jones, 172 A.D.2d 693, 570 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4887 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Hearing was warranted, as matter of law, with respect to proper amount of restitution since adequate basis for determining amount of loss caused by defendant's crime of third degree unauthorized use of motor vehicle was not sufficiently provided by (1) review of vehicle's repair bill, and (2) reluctant consent of defendant, who stated that he was unable to make restitution, to entry of civil judgment. People v Jackson, 180 A.D.2d 755, 580 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2637 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Defendant was entitled to vacatur of sentencing provision which required him to make restitution of $16 million, and matter would be remitted for hearing in accordance with CLS CPL § 400.30 on issue of restitution, where court never made express finding that fruits of offenses amounted to $16 million, jury's verdict established only that defendant had stolen in excess of $1 million, and defendant's attorney raised issue at sentencing, even though defendant himself failed to appear. People v Weinberg, 183 A.D.2d 932, 586 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7600 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 977, 591 N.Y.S.2d 147, 605 N.E.2d 883, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 4366 (N.Y. 1992).

Sentencing court properly ordered defendant to pay restitution without first conducting hearing where (1) defendant agreed with county probation department's report that restitution in specified amount was appropriate to compensate insurance company which had paid claim made by homeowner from whom defendant had stolen various items, and (2) defendant agreed to pay specified amount to police department which had borne loss of sick time taken by off-duty detective injured by defendant during course of his arrest. People v Cruz, 80 N.Y.2d 928, 184 A.D.2d 521, 584 N.Y.S.2d 184, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7632 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992), aff'd, 81 N.Y.2d 996, 599 N.Y.S.2d 533, 615 N.E.2d 1017, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1171 (N.Y. 1993).

Restitution hearing was not required where parties stipulated as to amount that defendant received for illegal acts, and there was nothing in record to establish that he was entitled to offset against that amount. People v Feldman, 204 A.D.2d 347, 611 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4526 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Court did not violate CLS Penal § 60.27 by imposing restitution without conducting hearing to determine proper amount where defendant, who was represented by counsel, voluntarily, knowingly and intelligently waived her right to hearing and stipulated to amount of restitution. People v Hill, 207 A.D.2d 1029, 617 N.Y.S.2d 676, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10360 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Absent defendant's express consent to, or explicit admission or concession of, victim's monetary loss, and absent sufficient evidence in record as basis for court's determination, sentencing court must hold hearing to determine amount of restitution. People v Jody M., 208 A.D.2d 1019, 618 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9678 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Where both the defendant and his counsel consented to amount of restitution ordered, court did not err in refusing to conduct hearing pursuant to CLS Penal § 60.27(2), or in relying on figures recited in 2 letters from victim, where defendant's extensive experience in numismatics, and his position as generous benefactor of his victim, provided him with unparalleled understanding of "tangible and intangible" damages which resulted from his theft of coins from victim. People v Suros, 209 A.D.2d 203, 618 N.Y.S.2d 532, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10799 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 943, 627 N.Y.S.2d 1005, 651 N.E.2d 930, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 2022 (N.Y. 1995), cert. denied, 516 U.S. 862, 116 S. Ct. 172, 133 L. Ed. 2d 113, 1995 U.S. LEXIS 6081 (U.S. 1995).

There was no need to conduct hearing as to proper amount of restitution where defendant explicitly admitted amount of victims' monetary loss. People v Stauss, 221 A.D.2d 387, 633 N.Y.S.2d 204, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11215 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 908, 641 N.Y.S.2d 237, 663 N.E.2d 1267, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 5580 (N.Y. 1995), app. denied sub. nom., People v Strauss, 87 N.Y.2d 908, 641 N.Y.S.2d 238, 663 N.E.2d 1268, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 5901 (N.Y. 1995).

Hearing must be conducted by court where trial or plea record and probation report do not provide sufficient basis on which to calculate proper restitution figure. People v Lambert, 221 A.D.2d 1015, 633 N.Y.S.2d 897, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13541 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995).

Court erred in ordering restitution without hearing to determine proper amount and defendant's ability to pay it, where trial evidence was insufficient to support finding as to dollar amount of fruits of offense and actual out-of-pocket loss to victims, and no evidence was adduced concerning defendant's financial situation or manner in which she should make restitution. People v Dominique, 229 A.D.2d 719, 645 N.Y.S.2d 625, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7863 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996), aff'd, 90 N.Y.2d 880, 661 N.Y.S.2d 597, 684 N.E.2d 27, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1401 (N.Y. 1997).

Court erred in summarily determining amount of restitution to reimburse New York State Police Department for cost of repairing police car damaged as direct result of defendant's criminal conduct, based on damage estimate provided by department during presentence investigation, where defendant did not make any statement at either plea hearing or sentencing sufficient to support determination of amount of restitution. People v Barnett, 237 A.D.2d 917, 654 N.Y.S.2d 918, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3511 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 855, 661 N.Y.S.2d 181, 683 N.E.2d 1055, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2379 (N.Y. 1997).

Court properly determined amount of restitution without conducting hearing where defendant agreed to amount during plea colloquy and did not object to amount at sentencing, and court had presentence report that detailed larceny victim's loss. People v McElrath, 241 A.D.2d 932, 661 N.Y.S.2d 361, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7868 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Reversal of burglary conviction was not required by County Court's failure to conduct hearing to ascertain proper amount of restitution and to decide defendant's ability to pay, where defendant agreed, as part of his plea agreement, to waive hearing on restitution issue under CLS Penal § 60.27(2) and to pay restitution of $16,362.63, which was precise amount ordered by County Court, without objection, at sentencing. People v Ormsby, 242 A.D.2d 840, 662 N.Y.S.2d 619, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8839 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 895, 669 N.Y.S.2d 10, 691 N.E.2d 1036, 1998 N.Y. Defense counsel's statement that burglary defendant "doesn't wish to contest [the amount of restitution] any further" was express waiver of defendant's right to restitution hearing. People v Chambers, 242 A.D.2d 860, 665 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10382 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

No hearing was required on amount of restitution where defendant agreed to amount. People v Aldinger, 242 A.D.2d 955, 665 N.Y.S.2d 373, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10569 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

In sentencing for first degree robbery, court properly imposed restitution without conducting hearing where amount of restitution ordered was condition of defendant's guilty plea, and defendant agreed to that amount at his plea allocution. People v Bushati, 246 A.D.2d 663, 666 N.Y.S.2d 953, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 580 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 940, 671 N.Y.S.2d 720, 694 N.E.2d 889, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1098 (N.Y. 1998).

Victim witness statement, although properly considered in setting amount of restitution for third degree robbery, was insufficient basis on which to order restitution without hearing. People v Lynch, 255 A.D.2d 1001, 681 N.Y.S.2d 183, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12300 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 1051, 685 N.Y.S.2d 429, 708 N.E.2d 186, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 333 (N.Y. 1999).

On remission of case for resentencing, defendant convicted of second degree assault was entitled to hearing on amount of restitution where there was no evidence in plea agreement or in minutes of plea allocution to support amount of restitution ordered. People v Austin, 275 A.D.2d 913, 715 N.Y.S.2d 173, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9697 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

In prosecution for third degree arson, second degree criminal mischief, and child endangerment, defendant was entitled to hearing on amount of restitution to be paid, and case would be remitted for that purpose, where record did not contain sufficient evidence to support amount ordered. People v Wilson, 275 A.D.2d 1035, 714 N.Y.S.2d 920, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9588 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 808, 726 N.Y.S.2d 386, 750 N.E.2d 88, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1817 (N.Y. 2001).

Sentence conditioned on payment of $19,501.23 in restitution would be remanded for hearing, although defendant had pleaded guilty and agreed to make restitution in that amount, where he made no statement to support amount of restitution ordered by court, record was otherwise devoid of basis for amount, and there was no waiver of restitution hearing. People v White, 282 A.D.2d 396, 723 N.Y.S.2d 665, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4121 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2), a sentencing court must hold a hearing on the amount of restitution to be imposed if the record does not contain sufficient evidence to establish the amount or a hearing is requested by the defendant. People v Wright, 288 A.D.2d 899, 732 N.Y.S.2d 760, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10779 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 689, 738 N.Y.S.2d 306, 764 N.E.2d 410, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 4586 (N.Y. 2001).

Trial court did not err in ordering defendant to pay restitution without holding a hearing because, under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2), no hearing was required as defendant did not request a hearing and the record contained sufficient evidence to support the trial court's determination of the amount of the victims' out-of-pocket losses. People v Charles, 309 A.D.2d 873, 766 N.Y.S.2d 42, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10883 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003), app. denied, 1 N.Y.3d 625, 777 N.Y.S.2d 24, 808 N.E.2d 1283, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 704 (N.Y. 2004).

Since defendant's plea agreement did not mention restitution, a county court erred by ordering restitution as part of the sentence on defendant's guilty plea to arson without offering defendant an opportunity to either withdraw the guilty plea or accept the greater sentence that included restitution. On remand, a hearing under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30 on the proper amount to impose as restitution was required since the original amount set by the county court was not sufficiently supported by the record to satisfy N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2). People v Snyder, 23 A.D.3d 761, 803 N.Y.S.2d 779, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12445 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Imposition of a restitution order for the first time at a reconvened sentence proceeding did not comply with N.Y. Penal Laws § 60.27. People v Donnelly, 23 A.D.3d 921, 804 N.Y.S.2d 459, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13333 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Because the fines imposed on defendant exceeded the maximum authorized by N.Y. Penal Law § 80.00(1)(a) and because N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(5)(b) required a hearing to establish the medical expenses actually incurred by the victim, the trial court erred in imposing the fines and restitution as part of defendant's sentence. People v Pena, 41 A.D.3d 250, 838 N.Y.S.2d 533, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7557 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 9 N.Y.3d 880, 842 N.Y.S.2d 792, 874 N.E.2d 759, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 3001 (N.Y. 2007).

Trial court erred in imposing restitution without conducting a hearing to determine the amount thereof. People v Carter, 51 A.D.3d 1139, 857 N.Y.S.2d 356, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4038 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Award of restitution was contrary to law because the trial court had to make the final determination based on record evidence, and could not rely on solely on the Probation Department's recommendations or delegate to the Probation Department its authority to set the amount of restitution; a hearing was required to determine the amount. The award of extradition costs as part of the restitution was also unsupported by law. People v Pelkey, 63 A.D.3d 1188, 879 N.Y.S.2d 842, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4156 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 748, 886 N.Y.S.2d 102, 914 N.E.2d 1020, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3699 (N.Y. 2009).

Because the trial record and presentence report did not contain sufficient information to accurately determine the proper amount of restitution under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2), the trial court should have conducted a hearing upon receipt of the probation department's report. People v Rodriguez, 73 A.D.3d 815, 900 N.Y.S.2d 402, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3893 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 777, 907 N.Y.S.2d 466, 933 N.E.2d 1059, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 2411 (N.Y. 2010).

Since defendant specifically requested a hearing on the issue of restitution, the county court erred in determining the amount of restitution without holding a hearing in accordance with N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2). People v Butti, 294 A.D.2d 591, 742 N.Y.S.2d 570, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5550 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 729, 749 N.Y.S.2d 479, 779 N.E.2d 190, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3592 (N.Y. 2002).

The trial court erred in imposing restitution against defendant without holding a hearing, as a restitution hearing was required when there was insufficient evidence in the record to support a finding of the actual amount of losses or when a hearing was requested by the defendant, N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2), and there was not sufficient evidence in the record to support the finding of restitution in the amount imposed by the trial court. People v Peters, 299 A.D.2d 663, 749 N.Y.S.2d 608, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10750 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2002).

Since defendants did not request a restitution hearing, the record clearly established an evidentiary basis for the specific amounts the trial court ordered, and defendants did not object, the trial court properly ordered that restitution be made even though it did not hold a hearing and make specific findings. People v Lisyansky, 302 A.D.2d 278, 756 N.Y.S.2d 160, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1532 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 622, 767 N.Y.S.2d 405, 799 N.E.2d 628, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3806 (N.Y. 2003).

While defendant did not request a hearing regarding the amount of restitution he was ordered to pay, a hearing had to be held under N.Y. Penal Code § 60.27(2) and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30 because the plea minutes and record did not contain sufficient evidence to support a finding of the amount of restitution that was ordered. People v Harrington, 3 A.D.3d 737, 770 N.Y.S.2d 792, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 633 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Court vacated a restitution order because the trial court did not holding a hearing as was required under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2) in cases where the record did not contain sufficient information to allow the court to make a finding as to restitution. People v Thomas, 6 A.D.3d 754, 773 N.Y.S.2d 621, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3691 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Trial court improperly imposed restitution on defendant without a hearing under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1) because the figure proposed by the People was not based entirely on the trial evidence but also upon an unsworn summary by the assistant attorney general of amounts invested by persons who did not testify at trial as well as upon an estimation of the amount the investors would have received if the project at issue had performed in accordance with defendant's representations. People v Rosado, 28 A.D.3d 215, 811 N.Y.S.2d 664, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3975 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

As correctly conceded by the People, the trial court erred in failing to conduct a hearing on the issue of restitution where the record did not contain sufficient evidence to accurately determine the proper amount of restitution and the proper manner of payment and there was no showing as to how the trial court determined the amount of restitution; the matter was remitted to the trial court to conduct a hearing on the issues with due consideration given to whether defendant had the ability to pay. People v Myron, 28 A.D.3d 681, 814 N.Y.S.2d 198, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4600 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 7 N.Y.3d 850, 823 N.Y.S.2d 780, 857 N.E.2d 75, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 3464 (N.Y. 2006), app. dismissed, 7 N.Y.3d 886, 826 N.Y.S.2d 178, 859 N.E.2d 918, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. 2006), cert. denied, 549 U.S. 1326, 127 S. Ct. 1919, 167 L. Ed. 2d 572, 2007 U.S. LEXIS 3862 (U.S. 2007).

It was error to order defendant to pay restitution without conducting a hearing because defendant specifically requested a hearing. People v Perillo, 144 A.D.3d 1399, 41 N.Y.S.3d 776, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7728 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016), app. denied, 29 N.Y.3d 948, 76 N.E.3d 1082, 54 N.Y.S.3d 379, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 863 (N.Y. 2017), app. denied, 29 N.Y.3d 951, 76 N.E.3d 1085, 54 N.Y.S.3d 382, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 868 (N.Y. 2017).

Trial court erred in imposing restitution as part of defendant's sentence without a hearing because defendant contested the amount of restitution at sentencing and requested a hearing. People v Tyler, 140 A.D.3d 1617, 32 N.Y.S.3d 764, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4384 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 28 N.Y.3d 1127, 73 N.E.3d 364, 51 N.Y.S.3d 24, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 4121 (N.Y. 2016).

Trial court erred in denying defendant's request for a restitution hearing because once the appellate court reversed the prior judgment and granted defendant a new trial, she was restored to the status obtained before the initial trial and, as a result, it was irrelevant that a hearing was held following the first trial. People v Case, 160 A.D.3d 1448, 76 N.Y.S.3d 696, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2971 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 31 N.Y.3d 1146, 108 N.E.3d 501, 83 N.Y.S.3d 427, 2018 N.Y. 14. —Effect of failure to request hearing

Court was not required to hold hearing to determine actual amount of "out-of-pocket loss" in medical costs where (1) defendant did not request hearing on dollar amount of victim's medical expenses, (2) presentence probation report recited documented itemized-by-provider medical expenses as well as amount reimbursed by victim's health insurer, and (3) defense counsel stated in sentencing colloquy concerning restitution that there was no dispute over accuracy of amount of victim's medical expenses set forth in presentence report. People v Kim, 91 N.Y.2d 407, 671 N.Y.S.2d 420, 694 N.E.2d 421, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 596 (N.Y. 1998).

A sentence directing defendant convicted of criminal mischief to make restitution of $1,290 would be remitted for a hearing to determine the proper amount of restitution and manner of performance, even though Penal Law § 65.10 permitted the sentencing court to condition the sentence of probation on the requirement that defendant make restitution or reparation in an amount to be fixed by the court, where Penal Law § 60.27 required the trial court to conduct a hearing on the issue of the amount of reparation or restitution if the record was insufficient to enable the court to make a finding as to the fruits of the offense or the loss or damage caused thereby, and where the record and the presentence report were clearly insufficient to enable the court to determine that amount; moreover, defendant's failure at the time of sentencing to request a hearing on the issue of restitution did not constitute a forfeiture of his right to review, in that the failure to accord him a hearing on that issue constituted a departure from the essential nature of the right to be sentenced as provided by law. People v Clougher, 95 A.D.2d 860, 464 N.Y.S.2d 535, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18812 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

Defendant's failure to request hearing on matter of restitution did not constitute waiver, since hearing is required if record is insufficient to determine restitution. People v Dixon, 134 A.D.2d 877, 522 N.Y.S.2d 49, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51067 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

Notwithstanding defendant's failure to request it, hearing to determine amount of restitution to be made to victim was required where record did not contain sufficient evidence on which to premise finding as to value of stolen items. People v Andrea, 141 A.D.2d 740, 529 N.Y.S.2d 837, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7009 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 888, 538 N.Y.S.2d 801, 535 N.E.2d 1341, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 1050 (N.Y. 1989).

Matter would be remitted for hearing to determine proper amount of restitution where sentencing court had relied on probation or presentence report in fixing amount of restitution since such reports do not provide sufficient basis on which to order restitution without hearing, and no proof had been developed as to amount of loss sustained by victim because defendant had pleaded guilty; defendant's failure to request hearing at time of sentencing or object to court's summary imposition of restitution condition did not relieve court of its obligation to conduct hearing sua sponte because of essential nature of defendant's right to be sentenced as prescribed by law. People v West, 145 A.D.2d 980, 536 N.Y.S.2d 620, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14078 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Assault conviction would be remitted for hearing and redetermination of proper amount of restitution to be paid by assailant to victim where trial court had calculated amount, based on lost wages and damage to victim's vehicle, after off-the-record discussion with probation officer; trial court's method of calculation was legally insufficient notwithstanding purported waiver of hearing by defendant's failure to request it. People v Bohart, 153 A.D.2d 963, 545 N.Y.S.2d 613, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11526 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Defendant's failure at time of sentencing to request hearing on issue of proper amount of restitution did not constitute forfeiture of his right to appellate review of restitution order, as failure to accord him hearing on that issue constituted departure from essential nature of right to be sentenced as provided by law. People v Jackson, 175 A.D.2d 930, 573 N.Y.S.2d 630, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11296 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Although defendant neither requested hearing as to amount of restitution nor objected to amount offered, she did not thereby forfeit or waive her right of review given essential nature of right to be sentenced in accordance with law. People v Lambert, 221 A.D.2d 1015, 633 N.Y.S.2d 897, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13541 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995).

Court did not err in imposing restitution without conducting evidentiary hearing as to victim's actual out-of-pocket losses and defendant's ability to pay where he never requested hearing, and there was sufficient evidence to support court's finding as to victim's actual out-of-pocket loss consisting of unreimbursed medical expenses. People v Gahrey M.O., 231 A.D.2d 909, 647 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10777 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Defendant's failure to request hearing in accordance with CLS Penal § 60.27(2) did not constitute forfeiture of his right to have such issue reviewed by appellate court. People v Leonidow, 256 A.D.2d 917, 683 N.Y.S.2d 310, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13965 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 875, 689 N.Y.S.2d 437, 711 N.E.2d 651, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 996 (N.Y. 1999).

In third degree arson prosecution arising from fire at trailer home owned by defendant and his wife, matter was remitted for hearing on restitution because, although defendant did not request hearing, record was insufficient for sentencing court to have ordered restitution as it did where (1) insurance company representative testified as to limits of insurance policy but stated that no money was actually paid to defendant because his claim was denied, and (2) lienholder, who was loss payee for damage to structure and had financial interest of $14,856, testified that insurance company paid him "around $8,500." People v Mangan, 258 A.D.2d 819, 686 N.Y.S.2d 506, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1959 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 927, 693 N.Y.S.2d 510, 715 N.E.2d 513, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1723 (N.Y. 1999).

Restitution was properly ordered without hearing where defendant stipulated to amount of restitution and did not seek hearing to which he was entitled. People v Rocklin, 265 A.D.2d 920, 698 N.Y.S.2d 119, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10050 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 906, 707 N.Y.S.2d 391, 728 N.E.2d 990, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 769 (N.Y. 2000).

In prosecution for third and fifth degree possession of stolen property, defendant was properly ordered to pay restitution for stolen chainsaws, despite his contention that he did not steal them and there was no evidence produced or any hearing conducted as to their value, since defendant's "offense" included theft of chainsaws, victim impact statement and trial evidence on issue of valuation provided court with valid basis for fixing monetary value of chainsaws, and defendant made no request for hearing on restitution prior to sentencing. People v Sheehy, 274 A.D.2d 844, 711 N.Y.S.2d 856, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8295 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 938, 721 N.Y.S.2d 615, 744 N.E.2d 151, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 4107 (N.Y. 2000).

In prosecution for third degree criminal mischief, court properly fixed amount of restitution without hearing where defendant did not request hearing, and record contained sufficient evidence to support finding as to out-of-pocket loss that defendant caused. People v Stubbs, 281 A.D.2d 498, 721 N.Y.S.2d 562, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 908, 730 N.Y.S.2d 806, 756 N.E.2d 94, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2957 (N.Y. 2001).

Judgment convicting defendant of second degree robbery would be modified by vacating amount of restitution and remitting case for restitution hearing, even though defendant neither requested hearing nor objected to amount ordered, where neither plea agreement nor minutes of plea allocution supported amount ordered, and victim impact statement was unsworn and thus unreliable. People v Young, 281 A.D.2d 950, 723 N.Y.S.2d 588, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2806 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 909, 730 N.Y.S.2d 808, 756 N.E.2d 96, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2995 (N.Y. 2001).

Defendant's contention that the trial court erred in making a restitution determination under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27 without a hearing was unavailing; the calculated restitution was a part of the plea bargain. Inasmuch as defendant failed to challenge the trial court's restitution determination or request a hearing on the issue, her current argument was unpreserved. People v Giovanni, 53 A.D.3d 778, 861 N.Y.S.2d 214, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6532 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 832, 868 N.Y.S.2d 606, 897 N.E.2d 1090, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3535 (N.Y. 2008).

15. Amount of restitution

Normally, court should determine amount of restitution at time of sentencing. People v Consalvo, 89 N.Y.2d 140, 651 N.Y.S.2d 963, 674 N.E.2d 672, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3577 (N.Y. 1996).

Defendant may concede facts necessary to establish amount of restitution as part of plea allocution; however, where there is no concession of facts, guilty plea alone is not sufficient to support determination of restitution contained in court's statements during plea allocution. People v Consalvo, 89 N.Y.2d 140, 651 N.Y.S.2d 963, 674 N.E.2d 672, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3577 (N.Y. 1996).

If court's determination is based on defendant's statement, amount of restitution must reflect more than just court's statement of dollar figure or defendant's conclusory admissions accompanying plea; defendant's statements must contain facts from which victim's actual out-of-pocket loss from offense can be inferred. People v Consalvo, 89 N.Y.2d 140, 651 N.Y.S.2d 963, 674 N.E.2d 672, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3577 (N.Y. 1996).

Award to the county social services department of an amount in excess of the $15,000 cap was permissible where the award reflected the actual amount by which the welfare recipient convicted of three counts of filing false instruments had been overpaid. People v Horne, 97 N.Y.2d 404, 740 N.Y.S.2d 675, 767 N.E.2d 132, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 488 (N.Y. 2002).

When defendant, a general contractor, was convicted of criminal offenses in connection with submitting false subcontractor invoices to a city for which defendant performed work, the People, at a restitution hearing, had to deduct the value of the work defendant actually performed from the face amount of the improper invoices, and it was improper to place the burden of producing this evidence on defendant, under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27 and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30. People v Tzitzikalakis, 8 N.Y.3d 217, 832 N.Y.S.2d 120, 864 N.E.2d 44, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2007).

At a restitution hearing, once the People had established a prima facie case of the victim's out-of-pocket loss, the burden of going forward fell to the defendant to offer evidence contradicting the People's calculation. People v Tzitzikalakis, 8 N.Y.3d 217, 832 N.Y.S.2d 120, 864 N.E.2d 44, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2007).

Restitution was the sum necessary to compensate a victim for out-of-pocket losses, under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1), so courts had to consider not only the amount taken by a defendant but also the value of any benefit received by the victim, and a restitution order had to include appropriate offsets or other factors which could properly reduce the total amount. People v Tzitzikalakis, 8 N.Y.3d 217, 832 N.Y.S.2d 120, 864 N.E.2d 44, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2007).

N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27 was designed to require a sentencing court to determine and fix the amount of restitution and reparation based upon the dollar amount of the fruits of an offense and the actual out-of-pocket loss to the crime victim, without respect to the extent to which the defendant profited by the offense, and if the court was unable to make a finding as to the actual out-of-pocket loss based on the record before it, or if the defendant so requested, the court had to conduct a hearing in accordance with the procedure set forth in N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30, under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2). People v Tzitzikalakis, 8 N.Y.3d 217, 832 N.Y.S.2d 120, 864 N.E.2d 44, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2007).

At a restitution hearing, the People bore the burden of proving the victim's out-of-pocket loss - the amount necessary to make the victim whole - by a preponderance of the evidence, and, to meet that burden, the People had to show both components of the restitution equation, the amount taken minus the benefit conferred, as to hold otherwise would contravene both the words and the intent of the statute to prevent the victim from enjoying an unjust enrichment, and the defendant from suffering under an unduly harsh and unreasonable restitution order. People v Tzitzikalakis, 8 N.Y.3d 217, 832 N.Y.S.2d 120, 864 N.E.2d 44, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2007).

People's burden of proof at a restitution hearing encompassed both the burden of producing evidence sufficient to establish a prima facie case of the proper restitution amount (the out-of-pocket loss, which included appropriate reductions) as well as the burden of persuasion - that is, the ultimate burden of convincing the hearing court, after all the evidence was submitted, that its restitution figure was, more likely than not, correct. People v Tzitzikalakis, 8 N.Y.3d 217, 832 N.Y.S.2d 120, 864 N.E.2d 44, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 117 (N.Y. 2007).

Procedures employed at defendant's second restitution hearing were sufficient to comport with the statutory requirements because defendant was given the opportunity to cross-examine the People's witness and put his own witness on the stand at the initial hearing, and the county court offered him the opportunity to call witnesses or put in proof during the second hearing, as well; the trial court did not shift the burden of proof to defendant; and the county court, alone, determined the proper amount of restitution based upon relevant evidence not legally privileged, and after affording defendant a reasonable opportunity to contest the People's evidence and submit his own proof. People v Connolly, 27 N.Y.3d 355, 52 N.E.3d 1170, 33 N.Y.S.3d 144, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1099 (N.Y. 2016).

Amount and manner of restitution ordered by court was not excessive, and court properly determined that defendant was able to pay it, where defendant did not contest amount of damages caused by her criminal act and manner in which restitution was to be paid was suggested by her counsel and conceded to be within her means. People v Hall-Wilson, 129 A.D.2d 960, 514 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45614 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

Court would reduce amount defendant was required to pay for restitution to amount alleged in indictment to have been misappropriated, together with 5 percent surcharge, since defendant could not be ordered to make restitution of greater amount. People v Smith, 146 A.D.2d 722, 537 N.Y.S.2d 65, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 739 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Court properly ordered defendant to pay restitution of $180, even though defense counsel noted that he had seen no restitution figures other than those stated by district attorney (DA), since defendant was thereafter advised that he had right to hearing on amount of restitution and that one would be held if he disputed $180 figure stated by DA to have been expended by undercover officers, and defendant expressly consented to that amount; however, it was error to impose 5 percent surcharge, as prohibited by CLS Penal § 60.27(9). People v Perez, 203 A.D.2d 665, 610 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3869 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 83 N.Y.2d 970, 616 N.Y.S.2d 23, 639 N.E.2d 763, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 2517 (N.Y. 1994).

Court improperly fixed amount of restitution without requiring People to provide documentation as to amount of victim's loss, even though defendant consented to pay restitution as part of his sentence, since he did so with proviso that People be required to provide some documentation as to amount of restitution that they requested court impose. People v Dunn, 224 A.D.2d 708, 638 N.Y.S.2d 744, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1826 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 984, 649 N.Y.S.2d 391, 672 N.E.2d 617, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3469 (N.Y. 1996).

Court erred in imposing surcharge of 10 percent of amount of total restitution ordered rather than surcharge of 5 percent directed by CLS Penal § 60.27(8) where there was no affidavit of official or organization designated pursuant to CLS CPL § 420.10(8); it was irrelevant that defendant agreed to amount of restitution and additional surcharge as part of plea agreement. People v Gahrey M.O., 231 A.D.2d 909, 647 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10777 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

In proceeding to determine amount of restitution defendant should be required to make following his plea of guilty to first degree offering false instrument for filing, court properly refused to consider evidence with respect to any obligations of defendant's girlfriend, or payments by her, because she was not before court and (unlike codefendant) was not legally responsible for paying restitution. People v Frisco, 237 A.D.2d 824, 655 N.Y.S.2d 200, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2753 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 1011, 666 N.Y.S.2d 106, 688 N.E.2d 1389, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3952 (N.Y. 1997).

People did not seek restitution in amount greater than that requested at sentencing where victim impact statement indicated that People might seek restitution in excess of their initial request, defense counsel had opportunity to litigate additional amount at restitution hearing, and information as to full extent of damages was not available for presentation to court at sentencing. People v Holden, 244 A.D.2d 961, 665 N.Y.S.2d 990, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12364 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), app.

Sentence of $2^1/_3$ to 7 years for third degree grand larceny, $1^1/_3$ to 4 years for 2 counts of first degree offering false instrument for filing and 2 counts of first degree falsifying business records, one year for second degree offering false instrument for filing and second degree falsifying business records, with all sentences to run concurrently, and payment of $21,062.20 plus surcharge of 5 percent in restitution would not be disturbed where defendant's criminal record included misdemeanor convictions for unauthorized use of motor vehicle and criminal mischief, 3 misdemeanor convictions for driving while intoxicated, and 2 for disorderly conduct. People v Burt, 246 A.D.2d 919, 668 N.Y.S.2d 413, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 729 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 1005, 676 N.Y.S.2d 133, 698 N.E.2d 962, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1924 (N.Y. 1998).

Court erred in not determining amount of restitution that defendant was required to pay before sentencing date in order to receive bargained-for concurrent sentence were defendant himself did not concede facts necessary to show amount of restitution, and defense counsel's estimate did not bind defendant to make restitution in specific amount. People v Visser, 256 A.D.2d 1251, 683 N.Y.S.2d 466, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14495 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Appellate Division would reverse sentence insofar as it directed defendant to pay restitution in unspecified amount and gave People 90 days to "verify" amount to be paid, and would remit matter to County Court for its determination of amount, manner and time for payment. People v Dickson, 260 A.D.2d 931, 690 N.Y.S.2d 282, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4446 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 1017, 697 N.Y.S.2d 576, 719 N.E.2d 937, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3093 (N.Y. 1999).

Despite the fact that the trial court granted defendant's request for an adjournment and granted defendant's motion for funds to employ a private investigator in preparation for a restitution hearing, defendant failed to offer any evidence to counter the People's evidence of the victim's out-of-pocket expenses; consequently, the amount of restitution owed by defendant under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2) and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30(4) was proven by a preponderance of the evidence. People v Howell, 46 A.D.3d 1464, 847 N.Y.S.2d 811, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12997 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2007), app. denied, 10 N.Y.3d 841, 859 N.Y.S.2d 400, 889 N.E.2d 87, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1701 (N.Y. 2008).

Because it could be inferred under N.Y. Lien Law § 79-a(1) that defendant intended to permanently deprive an owner of funds paid in trust to defendant's company, defendant's N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 440.20 motion to set aside a restitution order was properly denied because, under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1), (5)(a), the amount was limited to the fruits of the offense, which were to be returned to the owner. People v Melino, 52 A.D.3d 1054, 860 N.Y.S.2d 660, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5530 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 791, 866 N.Y.S.2d 617, 896 N.E.2d 103, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3779 (N.Y. 2008).

Because the probation department provided an affidavit indicating that the actual cost of the collection and administration of restitution exceeded the initial 5% surcharge, pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(8), the trial court properly directed defendant to pay a 10% surcharge on the restitution ordered. People v Boyzuck, 72 A.D.3d 1530, 900 N.Y.S.2d 530, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3482 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2010).

Because the victim authorized defendant to sign the victim's name as the victim's attorney-in-fact to 40 checks, which purported to be the authentic creations of the victim under N.Y. Penal Law § 170.00(4), it could not be said that the checks in question violated N.Y. Penal Law §§ 170.10(1), 170.25 even though the recitals in the instrument might have been false or defendant might have exceeded the scope of authority delegated to defendant by the victim; consequently, pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2), defendant was entitled to a hearing on restitution. People v Ippolito, 89 A.D.3d 1369, 932 N.Y.S.2d 603, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7950 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2011), aff'd, 20 N.Y.3d 615, 964 N.Y.S.2d 499, 987 N.E.2d 276, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 612 (N.Y. 2013).

County court erred in imposing a 10 percent surcharge upon the amount of restitution to be collected from defendant in the absence of an affidavit indicating that the actual cost of collection exceeded 5 percent. People v Smith, 121 A.D.3d 1297, 995 N.Y.S.2d 280, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7156 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2014), app. denied, 25 N.Y.3d 1172, 36 N.E.3d 106, 15 N.Y.S.3d 303, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 2013 (N.Y. 2015).

People did not sufficiently establish the amount of restitution to be paid by defendant, as it failed to admit the client records into evidence, such that the auditor's testimony regarding defendant's gain from his alleged fraudulent Medicaid billing was conclusory and lacked a proper evidentiary basis. People v Pettersen, 130 A.D.3d 1536, 14 N.Y.S.3d 255, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5926 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 26 N.Y.3d 1010, 42 N.E.3d 221, 20 N.Y.S.3d 551, 2015 N.Y. Defendant's challenge to the amount of the restitution award survived his appeal waiver but was unpreserved given his failure to request a restitution hearing and his ultimate agreement to the amount awarded to the victim at sentencing. Amount of restitution payable to the Crime Victims Board for the family of the victim improperly exceeded $15,000 and violated the statutory cap. Restitution payable to the Crime Victims Board for a second victim's family, the amount in excess of $15,000 did not meet the requirements of this section, since the amount of the defendant's restitution set by the Supreme Court was not intended as reimbursement for the value of the property destroyed. People v Grant, 185 A.D.3d 608, 127 N.Y.S.3d 120, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3746 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 35 N.Y.3d 1045, 151 N.E.3d 536, 127 N.Y.S.3d 855, 2020 N.Y. Defendant convicted of conspiracy to sell heroin would be directed to make restitution of over $2 million to drug rehabilitation agency, designated by New York City mayor under CLS CPL § 420.10, based on amount of drugs seized at defendant's arrest, number of addicts drugs would have reached, and lowest annual cost of treating addict on outpatient basis. Outside attorney fees expended by crime victim in connection with criminal proceedings reflect "actual out-of-pocket loss to the victim caused by the offense" within meaning of CLS Penal § 60.27(2), and may properly be awarded to victim as part of sentence. People v Young, 163 Misc. 2d 72, 618 N.Y.S.2d 983, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 505 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

Since the standard of proof at a restitution hearing is preponderance of the evidence, not beyond a reasonable doubt, there is no reason why statistics should not be used in a restitution hearing just as they are used in civil proceedings; therefore, the trial court did not err in considering statistical evidence to determine the amount of loss that was caused by defendant's Medicaid fraud for purposes of setting the amount of defendant's restitution. People v Consalvo, 303 A.D.2d 202, 756 N.Y.S.2d 541, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2418 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 593, 766 N.Y.S.2d 168, 798 N.E.2d 352, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3486 (N.Y. 2003).

Where significant proof against defendant was supplied by defendant's own admissions and by the testimony of defendant's receptionist, and where the trial court properly used statistical evidence and properly weighed conflicting testimony, the People established by a preponderance of the evidence that the loss caused by defendant's Medicaid fraud was at least $500,000; the trial court's consideration of the fact that defendant produced only 347 of the 2,147 patient charts that defendant was required to keep pursuant to Medicaid regulations did not mean that defendant was improperly "punished" for failing to produce the records, as the trial court simply drew appropriate inferences from the absence of the records within the context of other evidence. People v Consalvo, 303 A.D.2d 202, 756 N.Y.S.2d 541, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2418 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 593, 766 N.Y.S.2d 168, 798 N.E.2d 352, 2003 N.Y. Court vacated a restitution order in excess of $15,000 because defendant did not consent to it, as required under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(5)(a) for restitution orders in excess of $15,000. People v Thomas, 6 A.D.3d 754, 773 N.Y.S.2d 621, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3691 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

When defendant, who pleaded guilty to possessing two forged checks, was ordered to pay restitution not only for the amount of the checks but also for the amount of another check and for damages to the office from which the forged checks were stolen, the record did not allow the appellate court to determine that the additional check and the property damage were part of the same criminal transaction to which defendant pleaded guilty, so the restitution order, as it related to these additional amounts, had to be vacated. People v Casiano, 8 A.D.3d 761, 779 N.Y.S.2d 259, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7923 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Because a trial court improperly relieved the People of their burden of proving actual out-of-pocket loss and precluded defendant from introducing evidence of the fair market value of the goods and services, it violated N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27 and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30; therefore, defendant was entitled to a new restitution hearing. People v Tzitzikalakis, 25 A.D.3d 404, 807 N.Y.S.2d 360, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. Trial court found that the juvenile, who committed six separate offenses which if committed by an adult would have amounted to six separate crimes, could be ordered to pay restitution of a statutory maximum of $1,500 for each separate offense provided that the juvenile agreed to an ACOD disposition on the five offenses not admitted or, in the alternative, that he specifically agree to restitution as to those five petitions if they were to be dismissed. Matter of K.L., 819 N.Y.S.2d 652, 13 Misc. 3d 319, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1918 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 2006).

Victim's sworn testimony that the out-of-pocket expenses for counseling services sought for him and his wife between January 2010 and May 2010 totaled approximately $1,000 for each of them was sufficient to establish the loss incurred for purposes of restitution following defendant's arson conviction; a spreadsheet compiled by another victim itemizing the losses sustained by a business as a result of the fire, together with testimony that each item that was destroyed was located inside the building at the time of the fire, sufficiently established the losses claimed. People v Stevens, 84 A.D.3d 1424, 922 N.Y.S.2d 596, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3601 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 17 N.Y.3d 822, 929 N.Y.S.2d 811, 954 N.E.2d 102, 2011 N.Y. Amount of restitution ordered under CLS Penal § 60.27 on conviction of second degree grand larceny by false pretense, arising from physician's commission of Medicaid fraud, was not conclusive on amount of damage caused for purposes of applying doctrine of collateral estoppel to amount of state's treble damages claim under CLS Soc Serv § 145-b, as physician did not have full and fair opportunity to litigate issue in prior criminal proceedings in that (1) issue at trial was his guilt within certain range of damages, not precise amount of those damages, (2) his trial strategy was dedicated to proving his innocence, and he did not deny amount stolen, and (3) he was not allowed to litigate amount of damages at sentencing because sentencing court denied request for CLS Penal § 60.27(2) hearing. New York v Sokol (In re Sokol), 113 F.3d 303, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 21193 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1997).

16. —Crimes of theft

In a prosecution for three counts of petit larceny, the trial court's order that defendant make restitution in the amount of $958.80 would be reversed and the matter remitted for a hearing on the question of the amount of restitution owed by defendant where, as to the two counts on which defendant had been charged with third degree grand larceny, the jury's finding that defendant was guilty of only petit larceny necessarily implied that he had not stolen not more than $250 in each instance, so that, considering the fact that defendant was also found guilty of petit larceny in the amount of $117.85, the most defendant could have been found guilty of stealing was $617.85, and where, though defendant stipulated to an amount of restitution of "around a thousand dollars" at sentencing, he was not thereby foreclosed from challenging the amount of restitution set by the trial court in that, due to the "essential nature" of the right to be sentenced as provided by law, defendants may raise issues relating to sentencing on appeal even though such issues were not formerly raised at trial. People v Ramirez, 98 A.D.2d 985, 470 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21327 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983), app. denied, 61 N.Y.2d 911, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7577 (N.Y. 1984), app. denied, 61 N.Y.2d 911, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7568 (N.Y. 1984).

On conviction of attempted second degree robbery, record before court was sufficient to support finding as to $4,810 in restitution to be paid either to victim or its insurer, even though defendant did not request hearing as to extent of restitution and court accepted finding by county probation department as to victim's monetary loss, where department had inquired of victim and was advised that its loss was $4,810, of which it had been reimbursed for $4,310 by its insurer. People v Turco, 130 A.D.2d 785, 515 N.Y.S.2d 853, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 46818 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

People established that defendant, in addition to uncontested $64,715.10 that he illegally obtained from complainant's general and payroll accounts, also embezzled cash received directly from complainant's customers given that (1) defendant's duties as bookkeeper included handling of virtually all checks and cash received from customers, (2) analysis of cash receipts journal revealed substantial discrepancies between amounts recorded as received and those actually deposited in complainant's account, and (3) there was $53,262.52 net shortage in complainant's account even after defendant had deposited $39,274.91 from his personal account; thus, since preponderance of evidence established that gain realized by defendant from his criminal activities exceeded $80,792.81 restitution ordered by court, defendant's request for reduction of restitution would be denied. People v Reiter, 133 A.D.2d 901, 520 N.Y.S.2d 274, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51957 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 901, 527 N.Y.S.2d 1011, 523 N.E.2d 318, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1548 (N.Y. 1988).

Evidence at restitution hearing was sufficient to establish victims' loss from burglary where (1) they itemized their losses, which included cash, jewelry, and other personal property, and provided evidence as to value of items, (2) defendant's written admissions to police and other documentary evidence coincided with and supported victims' testimony as to both items and their value, and (3) defendant was allowed complete cross examination of witnesses and opportunity, which he declined, to call witnesses on his own behalf. People v David N., 140 A.D.2d 460, 527 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4983 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Court properly relied on hearsay evidence to establish value of stolen property at restitution hearing. People v David N., 140 A.D.2d 460, 527 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4983 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In second degree grand larceny prosecution, prison sentence of 3 ½ to 7 years and restitution of $30,000 was not unduly harsh and excessive given that defendant specifically acknowledged during plea allocution that such prison term could be imposed on his failure to satisfy original restitution terms, and as much as $81,000 had been stolen. 141 A.D.2d 889, 529 N.Y.S.2d 400.

Restitution ordered in amount of $40,000 did not impermissibly exceed defendant's gain from crimes involving filing of fraudulent insurance claims where (1) defendant acknowledged that he benefitted not only from crimes charged in indictment, but that he was involved in certain diverse other similar transactions, (2) defendant entered his plea of guilty in full satisfaction of indictment and, in addition, any charges that could arise under investigation from which indictment arose, (3) there was no indication that defendant did not benefit from all his related crimes to extent of $40,000 or more, and (4) plea and sentence were bargained for and assented to by defendant. People v Palella, 148 A.D.2d 838, 539 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2816 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 795, 545 N.Y.S.2d 556, 544 N.E.2d 234, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 5062 (N.Y. 1989).

In prosecution involving defendant's receipt of public assistance to which she was not entitled, court erred in requiring defendant, as condition of probation, to make restitution representing interest on cost of benefits provided to her where she had paid such cost in full prior to sentencing, which corresponded to amount set forth in indictment as fruits of crime. People v Martinez, 202 A.D.2d 735, 608 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1798 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

It was neither harsh nor excessive to impose $7,030 for restitution to be made to victim bank for robbery masterminded by defendant, who was bank's employee at time. People v Foster, 216 A.D.2d 115, 628 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6507 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 794, 632 N.Y.S.2d 507, 656 N.E.2d 606, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3904 (N.Y. 1995).

Fine of $1,000 was properly imposed on defendant, in addition to his prison sentence for first degree aggravated operation of unlicensed vehicle and fourth degree grand larceny, where court had informed defendant, before accepting his guilty plea, that imposition of $1,000 fine was possible, so that defendant had opportunity to withdraw his plea, there was no agreed-on sentence to which defendant pleaded, and defense counsel stated at sentencing that fines and restitution were still at issue. People v Pritchard, 238 A.D.2d 633, 656 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3176 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 862, 661 N.Y.S.2d 189, 683 N.E.2d 1063, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2567 (N.Y. 1997).

In prosecution of inn manager for first degree falsification of business records and second degree grand larceny, based on manager's computer entries of fictitious credits to customers, matter would be remitted for sole purpose of fixing restitution to inn owner in amount consistent with evidence where inn's comptroller testified on cross-examination that he made one $900 error, and there might have been other errors in comptroller's figures adopted by court. People v Potter, 255 A.D.2d 763, 682 N.Y.S.2d 238, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12488 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Sentence of insurance agency office manager to $1^1/_3$ to 4 years for third degree grand larceny, with order to pay $35,000 restitution, was not excessive since term of imprisonment was within statutory range for class D felony, defendant's contentions that she was punished for going to trial rather than accepting plea offer were belied by sentencing minutes, and amount of restitution was less than amount shown by evidence to have been stolen from agency. People v Bisner, 260 A.D.2d 665, 688 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3302 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 1014, 697 N.Y.S.2d 573, 719 N.E.2d 934, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3023 (N.Y. 1999).

In prosecution for attempted second degree burglary, part of sentence requiring defendant to pay $3,573.90 in restitution would be vacated, and case would be remitted for hearing on amount of restitution, where defendant did not expressly agree to amount of restitution in his plea allocution, it was improper to rely exclusively on amounts recited in presentence investigation report, and fact that defendant neither requested hearing nor objected to amount was not waiver, given essential nature of right to be sentenced in accordance with law. People v White, 266 A.D.2d 831, 698 N.Y.S.2d 803, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11846 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

In prosecution for attempted second degree burglary, part of sentence requiring defendant to pay $3,573.90 in restitution would be vacated, and case would be remitted for hearing on amount of restitution, where (1) total amount sought was inconsistent with total of individual items in list supplied by victim, and thus it was not clear how court determined amount of restitution, (2) there was no sworn testimony sufficient to prove amount of lost wages, and (3) victim impact statement was not sworn and thus could not be relied on. People v White, 266 A.D.2d 831, 698 N.Y.S.2d 803, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11846 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Because defendant's outstanding tax liabilities, interest, and penalties, were neither a "fruit" of the crime of third-degree grand larceny nor an "actual out-of-pocket loss caused" by the offense, pursuant to Penal Law § 60.27(1). the trial court erred in ordering restitution in that amount. People v Nelson, 38 A.D.3d 472, 833 N.Y.S.2d 53, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3891 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 9 N.Y.3d 879, 842 N.Y.S.2d 791, 874 N.E.2d 758, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 2988 (N.Y. 2007).

County court properly fixed the amount of restitution under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(2) and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30(4) and ordered defendant to pay a portion of it to the victim's insurance company because the victim testified regarding her costs as a result of defendant stealing her bag, including the amount of cash and stamps in her bag, the costs of obtaining a new cell phone and car keys and replacing the exterior locks on her house, and the value of items which she did not replace. People v Russell, 41 A.D.3d 1094, 838 N.Y.S.2d 710, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7938 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007), app. denied, 10 N.Y.3d 964, 863 N.Y.S.2d 148, 893 N.E.2d 454, 2008 N.Y. Restitution and reparation provisions of Penal Law do not include appreciated value of property held and then sold by defendant after commission of crime which involved obtaining of that property. People v Young, 163 Misc. 2d 72, 618 N.Y.S.2d 983, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 505 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

Although a loan from a real estate broker to defendant constituted an out-of-pocket loss within the meaning of N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1), in determining the restitution due, defendant was entitled to additional credits for a referral fee and commissions received by the broker's company from three transactions. People v Evens, 837 N.Y.S.2d 848, 16 Misc. 3d 392, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3661 (N.Y. County Ct. 2007).

Defendant was improperly ordered to pay restitution for conduct that was not an offense within the meaning of N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(4)(a) where the trial court ordered defendant to pay restitution (1) in an amount in excess of that which was alleged in the indictment; (2) to a victim not mentioned in the indictment, in addition to the victim mentioned in the indictment; and (3) for an offense that was not part of the same criminal transaction as defendant's offense of grand larceny in the third degree or contained in any other accusatory instrument disposed of by a guilty plea by defendant. People v Diola, 299 A.D.2d 962, 750 N.Y.S.2d 716, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2002), app. denied, 99 N.Y.2d 581, 755 N.Y.S.2d 717, 785 N.E.2d 739, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 759 (N.Y. 2003).

Defendant's confession of judgment was a critical aspect of defendant's plea agreement and the trial court erred by accepting defendant's initial plea of guilty to grand larceny in the third degree, convicting defendant of that offense, sentencing defendant to five years probation, and entering a confession of judgment not to exceed $100,000 after defendant refused to sign a confession of judgment. People v Hong Ping Lou, 299 A.D.2d 559, 751 N.Y.S.2d 44, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11405 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2002).

Trial court employed the correct methodology in calculating the amount of restitution under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(1) for defendant's conviction of grand larceny in the third degree as the out-of-pocket loss of a store owner was not the amount of lottery winnings taken but the retail value of the lottery tickets stolen; the trial court did not err in ordering restitution over the $15,000 statutory cap under N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(5) as in its discretion, the trial court could order additional restitution where that amount represented the return of the victim's property. People v Ayers, 45 A.D.3d 1290, 845 N.Y.S.2d 646, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11478 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2007), app. denied, 10 N.Y.3d 808, 857 N.Y.S.2d 41, 886 N.E.2d 806, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1245 (N.Y. 2008).

17. —Property damage

Court failed to conform to CLS Penal § 60.27 in requiring defendant to make restitution in sum of $4,468 for damage to car he stole where only information before court regarding restitution consisted of statement of assistant district attorney that sales manager of automobile dealership, who inspected car, gave it value of $2,800 before damage was done. People v Asch, 155 A.D.2d 735, 547 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13855 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Sentence of 15 years, with payment of $16,362.63 in restitution plus surcharges and fees, for second degree burglary as second felony offender was neither harsh nor excessive where defendant had extensive criminal history, including similar prior felonies, he appeared to lack remorse, his guilty plea enabled him to substantially reduce his sentencing exposure if convicted of outstanding charges, and there was no evidence that sentencing court failed to consider mitigating factors. People v Ormsby, 242 A.D.2d 840, 662 N.Y.S.2d 619, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8839 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 895, 669 N.Y.S.2d 10, 691 N.E.2d 1036, 1998 N.Y. Court properly directed restitution of repair expenses not yet incurred, since defendant's vandalism "caused" victim to sustain "out-of-pocket loss" although victim was uninsured and financially limited, and had thus been delayed in repairing damage. People v Christman, 265 A.D.2d 856, 696 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9936 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 878, 705 N.Y.S.2d 10, 726 N.E.2d 487, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 276 (N.Y. 2000).

Court properly directed restitution for both interim and final repairs of windows broken by defendant on evidence that temporary repairs were necessary, in stages, to protect interior of building from elements and prevent further loss, and later to enable victim to resume his business. People v Christman, 265 A.D.2d 856, 696 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9936 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 878, 705 N.Y.S.2d 10, 726 N.E.2d 487, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 276 (N.Y. 2000).

Amount of restitution ordered on conviction of third degree criminal mischief was not excessive where ordinary meaning of "restitution" is restoring someone to position occupied before particular event. People v Stubbs, 281 A.D.2d 498, 721 N.Y.S.2d 562, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 908, 730 N.Y.S.2d 806, 756 N.E.2d 94, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 2957 (N.Y. 2001).

In prosecution for third degree criminal mischief, collection surcharge imposed under CLS Penal § 60.27(8) on amount of restitution was improperly calculated and would be reduced from 10 to 5 percent, absent affidavit indicating that actual cost of collection exceeded 5 percent. People v Arquette, 281 A.D.2d 652, 720 N.Y.S.2d 852, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2041 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

There was nothing plainly illegal about the $ 40,000 restitution award; first, defendant failed to preserve the issue, and preservation was required as defendant claimed restitution was about the statutory cap and was directed to a person or entity that was not a victim of the crime, and second, imposing joint and several liability on all perpetrators for the entire loss promoted the purposes of the restitution statute. People v Graves, 163 A.D.3d 16, 78 N.Y.S.3d 613, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4439 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2018), app. denied, 35 N.Y.3d 970, 148 N.E.3d 509, 125 N.Y.S.3d 45, 2020 N.Y. LEXIS 1220 (N.Y. 2020).

In prosecution for operating motor vehicle while under influence of alcohol in violation of CLS Veh & Tr § 1192 resulting in property damage to another vehicle, proper amount of restitution defendant would be required to make to owner of other vehicle was sum which, when added to amount owner of damaged vehicle received from defendant's insurance carrier, would equal defendant's proportional liability for damage, since CLS Penal § 60.27 directs that restitution be ordered in amount representing loss or damage caused by defendant's offense, and payment from defendant's insurance carrier was not "collateral source" to be barred from use in mitigation of damages. People v Crossley, 134 Misc. 2d 742, 512 N.Y.S.2d 756, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2098 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1987).

Good cause existed to order defendant, who was found guilty of driving while intoxicated during course of his employment as bus driver, to pay restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27(5)(b) beyond usual $5,000 limit for misdemeanors, and to cover victim's actual loss where defendant drove his bus into wall of victim's house causing over $25,000 damage. People v Lightfoot, 147 Misc. 2d 918, 559 N.Y.S.2d 936, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 435 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1990).

18. —Personal injury

During the victim's leave resulting from injuries inflicted by defendant in an assault, an amount was deducted from his pay for three days on which he would have received holiday pay if he had been working; this amount thus represented an out-of-pocket loss incurred by the victim as a direct result of defendant's actions and was properly ordered as restitution. However, meal and uniform allowances were reimbursements for expenses and losses actually incurred by working officers, and thus were not properly awarded to the victim as he was not required to forgo meal breaks nor wear his uniform during his disability leave and, thus, he did not incur these losses. People v Johnson, 91 A.D.3d 1121, 936 N.Y.S.2d 748, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 267 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 18 N.Y.3d 959, 944 N.Y.S.2d 487, 967 N.E.2d 712, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1052 (N.Y. 2012).

Amount of restitution imposed was supported by the evidence and not excessive because the People submitted bills representing approximately $ 13,000 for the victim's initial medical care and an additional charge of approximately $ 7,000 for her subsequent care, obtained when the victim sought treatment for increased pain after an impact in the area of the existing orbital fracture caused by defendant. People v Baber, 182 A.D.3d 794, 123 N.Y.S.3d 222, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2363 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 35 N.Y.3d 1064, 152 N.E.3d 1167, 129 N.Y.S.3d 365, 2020 N.Y. LEXIS 2036 (N.Y. 2020).

Restitution or reparation ordered under § 60.27 is not limited to provable compensatory damages for medical expenses or lost wages but may include sum, within statutory limits, to compensate victim for fact of injury whether termed compensation for pain and suffering, punitive damages, general damages or some similar term; complainant who was struck in hand by barstool thrown at her by convicted defendant may be granted $100 in restitution despite absence of medical bill. People v Corey, 130 Misc. 2d 228, 495 N.Y.S.2d 620, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3164 (N.Y. City Ct. 1985).

Court would award insurance salesman $750 as compensation for loss of earning capacity during 3-week period when his mouth was injured by defendant's assault even though salesman was claiming nearly $1,500 in lost earnings since salesman failed to establish any particular sales which were irretrievably lost, but nonetheless was entitled to some business loss as self-employed person; additionally, court would award $1,000 in general or punitive damages because salesman was subjected to unprovoked assault while conducting business meeting in restaurant. People v Spector, 136 Misc. 2d 30, 517 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2371 (N.Y. City Ct. 1987).

19. —Ability to pay as factor

Sentencing court erred by ordering defendant to pay restitution in amount of $61,097.93 based on probation department's determination of victim's monetary loss, where defense counsel indicated that defendant lacked financial resources to pay restitution; matter would be remitted for hearing on proper amount of restitution, with due consideration for defendant's ability to pay, since there was no indication in record or presentence report as to whether calculation of victim's loss was proper restitution figure, and there was no showing as to how restitution was calculated. People v Barnes, 135 A.D.2d 825, 522 N.Y.S.2d 930, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52756 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Restitution provision of defendant's sentence would be vacated and matter remanded for new determination of amount of restitution required and manner of payment where, apart from victim's statements, record contained no evidence to support probation department's assessment of damages caused by crime, and there was no evidence that probation department considered defendant's financial situation in fixing amount and manner of payment. People v Credidio, 141 A.D.2d 661, 529 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6841 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app.

Court would vacate portion of sentence which required defendant to pay reparation in amount of $6,050, since presentence report of probation department did not provide sufficient basis on which to calculate proper reparation figure without hearing, and insufficient consideration was given to whether defendant had ability to pay. People v Robinson, 156 A.D.2d 731, 549 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16525 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Court failed to conform to CLS Penal § 60.27 in requiring defendant to make restitution where (1) court simply accepted amounts of damages contained in probation report, which were based on statements made to probation officer by victim and representative of insurance carrier which paid victim for her loss, (2) while probation officer apparently had access to proofs of loss, nothing indicated that court was privy to such material, and court made no finding as to loss or damage caused by offense, and (3) there was no evidence that defendant's financial situation was considered in determining restitution. People v Monette, 199 A.D.2d 589, 604 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11203 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

In ordering restitution as part of sentence for second degree burglary, court did not fail to consider defendant's ability to pay where court ordered immediate transfer of defendant's car to victim but postponed any scheduled payments until defendant was released from prison, during which period defendant would be unable to make any significant restitution. People v Chiera, 255 A.D.2d 685, 681 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11926 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Court properly directed defendant to make complete restitution in 3 years, rather than over 5-year period of his probation; court gave adequate consideration to defendant's ability to pay by imposing small $65 monthly obligation, and defendant could apply for resentencing if unable to pay. People v Christman, 265 A.D.2d 856, 696 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9936 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 878, 705 N.Y.S.2d 10, 726 N.E.2d 487, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 276 (N.Y. 2000).

Defendant could apply to reduce a 10% surcharge, imposed pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(8), to 5% of the amount of restitution imposed on the ground of undue hardship. People v Bennett, 52 A.D.3d 1236, 859 N.Y.S.2d 826, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5162 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 785, 866 N.Y.S.2d 612, 896 N.E.2d 98, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3660 (N.Y. 2008).

Because defendant violated a protection order by going to the victim's apartment and hitting the victim with a hammer, defendant was properly convicted of aggravated criminal contempt and first-degree criminal contempt under N.Y. Penal Law §§ 215.52, 215.51(b)(v); however, there was no evidence of defendant's ability to pay the N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27 restitution order. People v Coston, 55 A.D.3d 943, 865 N.Y.S.2d 702, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7762 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 924, 874 N.Y.S.2d 9, 2009 N.Y. Defendant's sentence included incarceration and it did not require defendant to pay restitution as a probation condition; further N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 420.10 (5) provided that a defendant was allowed, at anytime, to request to be resentenced if it was subsequently determined that he was unable to pay the restitution as ordered. As a result, even if defendant preserved the issue, the trial court was not required to consider his ability to pay at the time it imposed restitution. People v Henry, 64 A.D.3d 804, 881 N.Y.S.2d 701, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5375 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d 860, 891 N.Y.S.2d 694, 920 N.E.2d 99, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 4779 (N.Y. 2009).

16. —Crimes of theft.

Trial court erroneously included the amount of $ 31,000 as restitution to the owner of restaurant B because the superior court information was the sole accusatory instrument filed and it covered crimes related only to restaurant A. People v Suits, 158 A.D.3d 949, 71 N.Y.S.3d 664, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1085 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

20. Defendant's failure to pay

In prosecution of attorney on charges in connection with his law practice, court properly ordered lump sum payment by attorney as restitution for various offenses against his clients, and also properly later revoked probation and imposed sentence of imprisonment after he failed to make payment, where (1) attorney conveyed marital residence to his wife at height of criminal investigation, when his financial problems had become quite apparent, (2) no consideration was paid by wife, and attorney continued to reside in residence after conveyance, and (3) residence was sold to third party and profit was realized; court properly found that conveyance was sham. People v Modjeska, 159 A.D.2d 873, 553 N.Y.S.2d 216, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 792, 559 N.Y.S.2d 998, 559 N.E.2d 692, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 2806 (N.Y. 1990).

Attorney found guilty of second degree grand larceny for stealing money from estate of which he was executor, who had been sentenced to term of 2 to 6 years and ordered to make restitution to estate, would be resentenced to term of $2^1/_3$ to 7 years pursuant to CLS CPL § 420.10 and CLS Penal § 60.27 for his failure to make restitution, in view of his testimony that he owned real property worth in excess of amount of restitution ordered, and court would also direct district attorney to file civil suit to collect restitution under CLS CPL § 420.10. People v Bertucci, 132 Misc. 2d 1051, 506 N.Y.S.2d 399, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2833 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

21. Appellate review

Defendant's purported waiver of hearing as to amount of restitution and manner of performance thereof did not constitute waiver of his right to review by appellate division, as failure to accord him such hearing was departure from essential nature of right to be sentenced as provided by law. People v Miller, 133 A.D.2d 784, 520 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51823 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 934, 524 N.Y.S.2d 686, 519 N.E.2d 632, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19751 (N.Y. 1987).

Court would delete that portion of defendant's sentence as to restitution and remit matter for new determination on proper amount of restitution and manner of payment thereof where there was insufficient information regarding manner in which amount of restitution was determined and manner in which defendant was to comply therewith. People v Walker, 140 A.D.2d 655, 528 N.Y.S.2d 998, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5620 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Sentence of restitution would be vacated and remanded where sentencing court failed to fix time and manner of payment of restitution. People v Watkins, 155 A.D.2d 997, 549 N.Y.S.2d 625, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14950 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Although record amply supported trial court's finding as to value of vehicle in prosecution for fourth degree grand larceny arising from theft of automobile from dealership, uncertainty as to disposition of recovered vehicle and whether dealership realized any proceeds therefrom required remission of matter to trial court for restitution hearing. People v Stacey, 173 A.D.2d 960, 569 N.Y.S.2d 470, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5613 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 832, 580 N.Y.S.2d 213, 588 N.E.2d 111, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5809 (N.Y. 1991).

Court would modify judgment by vacating condition of probation that ordered defendant to make restitution and would remit matter to conduct hearing to determine appropriate amount of restitution where there was no basis in record for finding that additional sum was sustained by 4 victims who did not complete victim statements and restitution claim forms, and court failed to consider that several items in defendant's possession that were "fruits" of offense were turned over to district attorney and sold at auction. People v Lambert, 221 A.D.2d 1015, 633 N.Y.S.2d 897, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13541 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1995).

Portion of court's restitution order requiring defendant to return entire salary paid to him by his employer would be set aside as not authorized under CLS Penal § 60.27. People v Calvi, 224 A.D.2d 705, 638 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS

Sentence of restitution under CLS Penal § 60.27(1) would be vacated for failure to fix time and manner of payment, and matter would be remitted to decide time and manner of payment. People v Taylor, 242 A.D.2d 925, 662 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10505 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Judgment convicting defendant of second degree burglary, petit larceny, and fifth degree possession of stolen property would be modified by vacating part of sentence that ordered defendant to pay 10 percent surcharge on amount of restitution rather than 5 percent directed by CLS Penal § 60.27(8) where additional 5 percent was thus unauthorized. People v Hodge, 255 A.D.2d 943, 681 N.Y.S.2d 718, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12185 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 874, 689 N.Y.S.2d 436, 711 N.E.2d 650, 1999 N.Y. Judgment convicting defendant of attempted second degree mischief would be modified by vacating amount of restitution, and matter would be remitted for determination of amount of victim's out-of-pocket loss, where record did not support amount of restitution ordered. People v Linscott, 255 A.D.2d 1007, 679 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12317 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Matter was remitted for resentencing where County Court ordered defendant to pay restitution in addition to negotiated sentence, it was unclear what court intended when it waived "court costs" on directing defendant to pay restitution, and People conceded that restitution was not warranted. People v Dunn, 270 A.D.2d 284, 705 N.Y.S.2d 376, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2508 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Where sentencing is bifurcated by deferring issue of restitution, defendant may properly appeal as of right from both judgment of conviction and sentence as amended without need to seek leave to appeal from order of restitution. People v Swiatowy, 280 A.D.2d 71, 721 N.Y.S.2d 185, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1083 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 868, 730 N.Y.S.2d 43, 754 N.E.2d 1126, 2001 N.Y. Defendant's failure to request restitution hearing did not bar review by Appellate Division. People v White, 282 A.D.2d 396, 723 N.Y.S.2d 665, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4121 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Because defendant did not request a hearing or otherwise challenge the amount of restitution during the sentencing proceeding, her various claims that the trial court did not comply with the provisions of N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27 when ordering restitution were not preserved. People v Waugh, 52 A.D.3d 853, 859 N.Y.S.2d 318, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4839 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 796, 866 N.Y.S.2d 622, 896 N.E.2d 108, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3788 (N.Y. 2008).

Where the trial court ordered defendant to pay restitution without first affording the opportunity to withdraw a guilty plea, imposed a restitution surcharge of 10 percent in the absence of a request by the People along with the requisite evidentiary showing as required by N.Y. Penal Law § 60.27(8), and defendant contented that the amount and the recipient of the restitution were improper under § 60.27(2) and N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 400.30, the appellate court exercised its power to review the contention as a matter of discretion in the interest of justice pursuant to N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 470.15(6)(a) and vacated the sentence. People v Delair, 6 A.D.3d 1152, 775 N.Y.S.2d 664, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6228 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2004).

When defendant, who pleaded guilty to possessing two forged checks, was ordered to pay restitution not only for the amount of the checks but also for the amount of another check and for damages to the office from which the forged checks were stolen, his waiver of appeal and his consent and failure to object to the restitution amount did not preclude him from arguing that part of the restitution order was unauthorized, as he could not waive an objection to the legality of his sentence. People v Casiano, 8 A.D.3d 761, 779 N.Y.S.2d 259, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7923 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Appellate court exercised its interest of justice discretion to take corrective action with respect to the amount of restitution ordered because, inter alia, at sentencing, the People stated that restitution would total $ 2,379.30, which the trial court indicated would be imposed in two orders, but the record contained three restitution orders totaling over $ 6,000 and the uniform sentence and commitment form reflected restitution of $ 4,006. People v Gardner, 129 A.D.3d 1386, 12 N.Y.S.3d 353, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5392 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015).

Trial court's order of restitution stemming from the December 18, 2014, uncharged burglary was not authorized because there were three separate burglaries, each committed days apart in which distinct materials were stolen, and each was completed when the perpetrator left the premises with the stolen materials; thus, the evidence established that the burglaries were separate "criminal transactions" and not integral parts of a single criminal venture. People v Pixley, 150 A.D.3d 1555, 56 N.Y.S.3d 578, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4126 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 30 N.Y.3d 952, 89 N.E.3d 526, 67 N.Y.S.3d 136, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3503 (N.Y. 2017).
