(b) A person who has previously been convicted of a violation of subparagraph (iv) of paragraph (a) of this subdivision within the preceding five years and who shall offer or expose for sale, sell or furnish, any dangerous fireworks to any person who is under the age of eighteen, shall be guilty of a class E felony.

(c) Possession of fireworks or dangerous fireworks valued at one hundred fifty dollars or more shall be a presumption that such fireworks were intended to be offered or exposed for sale.

3. Exceptions. (a) The provisions of this section shall not apply to:

(i) fireworks, dangerous fireworks, and sparkling devices while in possession of railroads, common or contract carriers, retailers, wholesalers, distributors, jobbers and transportation companies or transportation agencies for the purpose of transportation to points without the state, the shipment of which is not prohibited by interstate commerce commission regulations as formulated and published from time to time, unless they be held voluntarily by such railroads, common or contract carriers, retailers, wholesalers, distributors, jobbers and transportation agencies or transporting companies as warehousemen for delivery to points within the state;

(iv) the manufacture or sale of sparkling devices provided they are to be shipped directly out of such city and any such items are sold in accordance with the provisions of this article; or

(v) except in cities with a population of one million or more, possession of sparkling devices lawfully obtained in another jurisdiction.

4. Sales of ammunition not prohibited. Analysis

1. In general
2. Under former § 1894-a

1. In general

Where defendant had been observed by police officer apparently selling items from open trunk of his automobile, which items were in open view and included a starter's pistol and blank cartridges, and defendant was arrested for unlawfully dealing in fireworks upon the immediate search of an automobile, which search revealed a revolver in arm rest in front seat, was justified as incident to a valid arrest. People v McCaskey, 46 A.D.2d 692, 360 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3824 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

Although order purporting to deny the People's request for a reconsideration of prior order granting defendant's motion to suppress evidence was not appealable as such, an appeal would lie since the court reconsidered its prior order and adhered to original determination; and in seeking reconsideration the People's supporting papers included a request for alternative relief which had not been advanced on the prior motion and on the renewed motion the court considered for the first time that the defendant had initially been placed under arrest for allegedly unlawfully dealing with fireworks. People v McCaskey, 46 A.D.2d 692, 360 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3824 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

A manufacturer is not entitled to a judgment restraining and enjoining the defendant District Attorney from interfering with the sale, transportation, and distribution of its product, nor is it entitled to a declaration that the item in question does not fall within the definition of the term "fireworks" contained in section 270.00 of the Penal Law and therefore can be legally sold within the State, since the jurisdiction to render a declaratory judgment is discretionary in character and such discretion is not unlimited and is generally abused when a declaratory judgment is issued in an action which seeks to enjoin enforcement of the Penal Law, unless the sole issue is one of law, there would be irreparable injury, or there is a constitutional issue. Snap 'N' Pops, Inc. v Dillon, 66 A.D.2d 219, 412 N.Y.S.2d 646, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10003 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1979).

A claim against the State for allegedly having unlawfully seized and destroyed fireworks was properly dismissed where there was nothing in the record to establish that the plaintiff's interest in the property destroyed was sufficient to create a triable issue of fact. Clemens v State, 79 A.D.2d 772, 435 N.Y.S.2d 361, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14169 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1980), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 620, 446 N.Y.S.2d 264, 430 N.E.2d 1317, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3215 (N.Y. 1981).

In trial for unlawfully dealing in fireworks, evidence established defendants' possession of fireworks since (1) first defendant, who was manager of store in which fireworks were found, exercised sufficient dominion and control over fireworks to be deemed in constructive possession, and (2) second defendant, who was store employee, was also in constructive possession of fireworks that were situated next to or near her in Plexiglas enclosed area to which customers had no access. People v Whitehead, 159 A.D.2d 741, 552 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3594 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Model rocket engines containing sodium or potassium nitrate are not fireworks by definition of the statute proscribing unlawful dealing therein. People v Bochter, 63 Misc. 2d 249, 311 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1627 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1970).

Prohibition against unlawful possession of blank cartridge pistol in Penal Law § 270.00, subd 2 is constitutional on its face notwithstanding claim that it would make a criminal out of a starter at a track meet. People v Jackson, 76 Misc. 2d 872, 352 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1967 (N.Y. County Ct. 1974), aff'd, 36 N.Y.2d 726, 367 N.Y.S.2d 975, 328 N.E.2d 487, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1762 (N.Y. 1975).

Under Penal Law 1965 § 270.00 prohibiting the sale, possession or use of any fireworks and which defines "fireworks as including a blank cartridge pistol was sufficient to give adequate notice that the possession of a blank cartridge pistol was forbidden conduct and the statute was not unconstitutionally vague. Criminal intent was not element of offense of unlawfully dealing with fireworks by possessing a blank cartridge pistol. Therefore mere possession of a blank cartridge pistol constituted a violation. People v Johnson, 77 Misc. 2d 228, 354 N.Y.S.2d 85, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1112 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1974).

Subdivision 2 of section 265.02 of the Penal Law, providing that a person is guilty of criminal possession of a weapon in the third degree when he possesses any explosive or incendiary bomb, does not pertain to fireworks; as such, the possession of fireworks, covered by section 270.00 of the Penal Law, cannot be a lesser included offense of the crime of criminal possession of a weapon in the third degree. People v Santorelli, 95 Misc. 2d 886, 408 N.Y.S.2d 893, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2522 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

In prosecution for unlawfully dealing with fireworks, People violated CLS Penal § 405.05 where fireworks seized from defendant were destroyed prior to trial without permission from Magistrate after defendant twice informed People of their duty to preserve evidence and his intention to seek its return. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In prosecution under CLS Penal § 270.00, People's claim that depository where fireworks were kept was ill-equipped to store them for extended period of time did not justify depriving defendant of opportunity to inspect fireworks seized from him by destroying them without permission from Magistrate, in violation of CLS Penal § 405.05; People should have facility that can handle storage of explosive materials. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

Requirements of CLS Penal § 405.05 are not limited solely to owner of fireworks, as portion of statute concerning preservation of evidence for person accused of violating CLS Penal § 270.00 clearly concerns rights of person arrested. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In prosecution for unlawfully dealing with fireworks under CLS Penal § 270.00, where People destroyed fireworks in violation of CLS Penal § 405.05, proper sanction was for court to give adverse inference charge; dismissal of charges or suppression of evidence was not warranted where defendant did not specify how he was prejudiced and People did not destroy fireworks in bad faith or to try to dispose of exculpatory evidence. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In prosecution for unlawfully dealing with fireworks under CLS Penal § 270.00 and unlawful storage, sale and transportation of fireworks under NYC Admin Code § 27-4044(a), where People destroyed fireworks in violation of CLS Penal § 405.05, defendant was entitled to adverse inference charge with respect to both charges, even though no specific statutory duty existed to preserve fireworks when accused was charged only with violation of New York City Administrative Code, as People's intentional destruction of discoverable evidence violated defendant's due process rights. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

2. Under former § 1894-a

A fireworks company may not apply for a permit to exhibit, but it may contract to exhibit fireworks for an agricultural society which was granted a permit. Kingsland v Erie County Agr. Soc., 298 N.Y. 409, 84 N.E.2d 38, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 409, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1023 (N.Y. 1949).

The legislature contemplated that a contract for the exhibition of fireworks might be entered into by a fair company with a fireworks company as evidenced by sub 5 of the statute which provides that the permit authority shall require an adequate bond from the applicant or from the person to whom a contract for such display shall be awarded. It follows therefore that the fireworks company is not limited to a mere sale of the fireworks to a fair company so as to make the display of fireworks solely the work of the fair company. Kingsland v Erie County Agr. Soc., 298 N.Y. 409, 84 N.E.2d 38, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 409, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1023 (N.Y. 1949).

The Legislature has recognized that the unsupervised discharge of fireworks is so fraught with serious dangers that their possession or use, not in compliance with stringent requirements, has been made a crime. Caldwell v Island Park, 304 N.Y. 268, 107 N.E.2d 441, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 268, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 740 (N.Y. 1952).

The provisions of the Administrative Code of the City of New York requiring a permit for the storage of toy pistol caps containing less than *r20/100# grains of explosive mixture are inconsistent with the state law. Schranz & Bieber Co. v Quayle, 106 N.Y.S.2d 887, 201 Misc. 516, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2250 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

Evidence was sufficient to sustain a conviction under this section where the proof showed that the defendant had control of a car from which a companion threw a firecracker which exploded in front of a moving automobile and proof also showed that after this happened a second time, a police officer found firecrackers under the rear of the car. Upon such evidence a jury could properly infer that the defendant driver had knowledge and had been aiding the defendant who actually exploded the firecrackers. People v Armstrong, 114 N.Y.S.2d 871, 203 Misc. 105, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1584 (N.Y. County Ct. 1952).

In a prosecution under this section, criminal intent is always a necessary element. People v Armstrong, 114 N.Y.S.2d 871, 203 Misc. 105, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1584 (N.Y. County Ct. 1952).

Disallowing the defendant's demurrer and his motion to dismiss the indictment charging him with misdemeanor manslaughter, the court held that whether the commission of the misdemeanor was one that "affected" the person of the victim was a question of fact to be determined by the jury, and that the indictment sufficiently apprised the defendant of the crime charged. The court also held that the misdemeanor of possessing and/or firing and setting off a firecracker is separate and distinct from the homicide, and that there was no such merger as is commonly found in the case of assault followed by death. People v Carnrite, 55 Misc. 2d 1087, 287 N.Y.S.2d 571, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1719 (N.Y. County Ct. 1968).

A town may not issue a permit for a private display of fireworks for private family entertainment. 1952 Ops St Compt, 257.

LICENSING AND OTHER PROVISIONS RELATING TO FIREWORKS

HISTORY:
Add, L 1965, ch 1030, § 1, eff Sept 1, 1967.

§ 405.00. Permits for public displays of fireworks

1. Definition of "permit authority." The term "permit authority," as used in this section, means and includes the agency authorized to grant and issue the permits provided in this section. The permit authority on or within state property shall be the office of fire prevention and control. The permit authority for territory within a county park shall be the county park commission, or such other agency having jurisdiction, control and/or operation of the parks or parkways within which any fireworks are to be displayed. The permit authority in a city shall be the duly constituted licensing agency thereof and, in the absence of such agency, shall be an officer designated for the purpose by the legislative body thereof. The permit authority in a village shall be an officer designated for the purpose by the board of trustees thereof and the permit authority in the territory of a town outside of villages shall be an officer designated for the purpose by the town board thereof.

2. Permits for fireworks displays. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 270.00 of this chapter, the permit authority for state property, county parks, cities, villages, or towns may grant a permit for the display of fireworks to municipalities, fair associations, amusement parks, persons, or organizations of individuals that submit an application in writing. The application for such permit shall set forth:

(a) The name of the body sponsoring the display and the names of the persons actually to be in charge of the firing of the display who shall possess a valid certificate of competence as a pyrotechnician as required under the general business law and article sixteen of the labor law. The permit application shall further contain a verified statement from the applicant identifying the individuals who are authorized to fire the display including their certificate numbers, and that such individuals possess a valid certificate of competence as a pyrotechnician.

(b) The date and time of day at which the display is to be held.

(c) The exact location planned for the display.

(d) The number and kind of fireworks to be discharged.

(e) The manner and place of storage of such fireworks prior to the display.

(f) A diagram of the grounds on which the display is to be held showing the point at which the fireworks are to be discharged, the location of all buildings, highways and other lines of communication, the lines behind which the audience will be restrained and the location of all nearby trees, telegraph or telephone lines or other overhead obstructions.

(g) Such other information as the permit authority may deem necessary to protect persons or property.

3. Applications for permits. All applications for permits for the display of fireworks shall be made at least five days in advance of the date of the display and the permit shall contain provisions that the actual point at which the fireworks are to be fired be in accordance with the rules promulgated by the commissioner of labor pursuant to section four hundred sixty-two of the labor law and that all the persons in actual charge of firing the fireworks shall be over the age of eighteen years, competent and physically fit for the task, that there shall be at least two such operators constantly on duty during the discharge and that at least two approved type fire extinguishers shall be kept at as widely separated points as possible within the actual area of the display. For any applications made for the display of fireworks on state property, the state fire administrator shall coordinate the issuance of such permits with the head of the police or fire department or both, where there are such departments. The legislative body of a county park, city, village or town may provide for approval of such permit by the head of the police or fire department or both where there are such departments. No permit granted and issued hereunder shall be transferable. After such permit shall have been granted, sales, possession, use and distribution of fireworks for such display shall be lawful solely therefor.

3-a. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision three of this section, no permit may be issued to conduct a display of fireworks upon any property where the boundary line of such property is less than five hundred yards from the boundary line of any property which is owned, leased or operated by any breeder as defined in subdivision four of section two hundred fifty-one of the racing, pari-mutuel wagering and breeding law.

4. Bonds. Before granting and issuing a permit for a display of fireworks as herein provided, the permit authority shall require an adequate bond from the applicant therefor, unless it is a state entity, county park, city, village or town, in a sum to be fixed by the permit authority, which, however, shall not be less than one million dollars, conditioned for the payment of all damages, which may be caused to a person or persons or to property, by reason of the display so permitted and arising from any acts of the permittee, his or her agents, employees, contractors or subcontractors. Such bond shall run to the state if the permit is granted for a display on state property, or to the county park, city, village or town in which the permit is granted and issued and shall be for the use and benefit of any person or persons or any owner or owners of any property so injured or damaged, and such person or persons or such owner or owners are hereby authorized to maintain an action thereon, which right of action also shall accrue to the heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns of such person or persons or such owner or owners. The permit authority may accept, in lieu of such bond, an indemnity insurance policy with liability coverage and indemnity protection equivalent to the terms and conditions upon which such bond is predicated and for the purposes provided in this section.

5. Local ordinances superseded.

(a) All local ordinances regulating or prohibiting the display of fireworks are hereby superseded by the provisions of this section. Every city, town or village shall have the power to enact ordinances or local laws regulating or prohibiting the use, or the storage, transportation or sale for use of fireworks in the preparation for or in connection with television broadcasts.

(b) Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of law, a county may enact a local law to prohibit the sale and use of "sparkling devices", as such term is defined in section 270.00 of this chapter, provided, however, any such local law shall not establish:

(i) an offense greater than a violation for a person who shall use, explode or cause to be exploded a sparkling device; or

(ii) an offense greater than a class B misdemeanor for a person who shall offer or expose for sale, sell or furnish a sparkling device valued at less than five hundred dollars unless such offer, sale or furnishing is to a person less than eighteen years of age.

(c) Notwithstanding paragraph (b) of this subdivision, any city wholly contained within the county of Orange may enact a local law to prohibit the sale and use of "sparkling devices" as defined in section 270.00 of this chapter, in accordance with subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of paragraph (b) of this subdivision, notwithstanding that such county has not enacted a local law to prohibit the sale and use of such sparkling devices.

1. In general

In the absence of proof of a causal connection, municipality would not be liable for personal injuries for failure to require full compliance with statutory requirements prerequisite to issuance of permit for fireworks. Rill v Chiarella, 30 A.D.2d 852, 293 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3414 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 22 N.Y.2d 914, 295 N.Y.S.2d 43, 242 N.E.2d 81, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1137 (N.Y. 1968), aff'd, 25 N.Y.2d 702, 306 N.Y.S.2d 955, 255 N.E.2d 183, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 954 (N.Y. 1969).

In an action by a resident of a cooperative housing project against the corporate manager thereof and the manufacturer of a peephole in the door of the plaintiff's apartment, for damages resulting from serious eye injuries sustained when a firecracker exploded outside the door as plaintiff peered through the hole after an unidentified person had rung her doorbell, a verdict in favor of plaintiff would be reversed where plaintiff's evidence was that the project manager failed to take reasonable security precautions, in violation of Penal Law § 405.00, by encouraging the use of firecrackers in certain areas of the project, the nearest of which was a block from plaintiff's apartment building, in that the immediate effective cause of plaintiff's injuries was the intervening criminal act of the unknown person who ignited the firecracker, and plaintiff failed to show a causal connection between defendant's alleged tolerance of firecrackers in the project and the independent assault which caused plaintiff's injury. Bridges v Riverbay Corp., 102 A.D.2d 800, 477 N.Y.S.2d 157, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18960 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1984), aff'd, 64 N.Y.2d 1075, 489 N.Y.S.2d 904, 479 N.E.2d 249, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14208 (N.Y. 1985).

Plaintiff, who allegedly sustained ear injury from fireworks explosion in front of defendants' business, was not entitled to directed verdict on ground that defendants admittedly possessed fireworks without permit in violation of CLS Penal § 405.00, since fact issue existed as to whether defendants' failure to obtain permit was proximate cause of injury. Azzue v Galore Realty, Inc., 172 A.D.2d 467, 568 N.Y.S.2d 955, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5185 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 856, 574 N.Y.S.2d 937, 580 N.E.2d 409, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 3934 (N.Y. 1991).

Pursuant to state law, town's permit authority is authorized to issue permits for private display of fireworks, in response to qualified applications. 2010 NY Ops Atty Gen 2010-01 (Informal), N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2010-1, 2010 N.Y. AG LEXIS 2.

Approval and issuance of fireworks display permit is discretionary, but town may not impose additional permitting requirements or supersede fireworks permitting system established in Penal Law; failure of permitting authority to grant permit by time of planned display effectively functions as denial of application for permit. 2011 NY Ops Atty Gen 2011-08 (Informal), N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2011-8, 2011 N.Y. AG LEXIS 9.

2. Under former § 1894-a

By reason of the display site being located within the confines of the Village of Tuckahoe, the Village is the "permit authority" under this section. Rill v Chiarella, 50 Misc. 2d 105, 269 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2004 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966), modified, 30 A.D.2d 852, 293 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3414 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

The legislature by this provision was insuring the financial responsibility or solvency of the applicant, not creating absolute liability. Rill v Chiarella, 50 Misc. 2d 105, 269 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2004 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966), modified, 30 A.D.2d 852, 293 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3414 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

A village did not violate the statute by accepting an insurance policy written by a foreign corporation, since there is no express or implicit provision in the statute requiring the insurer to be a domestic corporation; nor was the village negligent in accepting insurance from a company which became insolvent, where there was no showing that the insurer was insolvent when the policy was written or when the village issued a permit for the fireworks display. Rill v Chiarella, 50 Misc. 2d 105, 269 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2004 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966), modified, 30 A.D.2d 852, 293 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3414 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

A village may not prohibit the public display of fireworks, nor adopt regulations more stringent than those provided by section 405 of the Penal Law. 1982 NY Ops Atty Gen March 11 (informal).

A city may not issue a permit for public display of fireworks pursuant to conditions which are violative of the requirements contained in CLS Penal § 405.00. 1987 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 87-34 (Informal).

A local government may not authorize and regulate the private display of fireworks. 1991 NY Ops Atty Gen I 91-17.

Adirondack Park Agency is not type of "state agency" having custody and control of state park within meaning of CLS Penal § 405.00. 2004 NY Ops Atty Gen F 04-7.

Hudson River-Black River Regulating District is not "permit authority" authorized to issue permit under CLS Penal § 405.00 for public fireworks display on District property subject to access permit; rather, city, town or village in which property is located is proper permit authority. 2004 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2004-F7, 2004 N.Y. AG LEXIS 24.

Town may not issue fireworks display permit to wedding party for fireworks display to be held as part of private wedding reception. 2006 NY Ops Atty Gen I 07-3.

Fact that fireworks display as part of private gathering on private property is visible from nearby public roads would not make such display "public display" under CLS Penal § 405.00. 2006 NY Ops Atty Gen I 07-3.

It is target audience, rather than status of property on which fireworks display is held, that renders display public or private. 2006 NY Ops Atty Gen I 07-3.

Wedding party is not included in "organization of individuals" under CLS Penal § 405.00(2). 2006 NY Ops Atty Gen I 07-3.

Town may not require that applicant for fireworks display permit also obtain noise permit; local provisions regarding regulating fireworks displays are superseded by CLS Penal § 405.00. 2006 NY Ops Atty Gen I 07-3.

Town's permit authority is authorized, pursuant to state law, to issue permits for private display of fireworks in response to qualified applications. 2010 NY Ops Atty Gen I 10-1.

The Town's permit authority is authorized, pursuant to state law, to issue permits for the private display of fireworks in response to qualified applications. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2010-1, 2010 N.Y. AG LEXIS 2.

Approval and issuance of a fireworks display permit is a discretionary act. Failure to grant a permit by the time of a planned display effectively functions as a denial of an application for a permit. A town may not impose additional permitting requirements or supersede the fireworks permitting system established in the Penal Law. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2011-8, 2011 N.Y. AG LEXIS 9.

§ 405.05. Seizure and destruction of fireworks

Fireworks possessed unlawfully may be seized by any peace officer, acting pursuant to his special duties, or police officer, who must deliver the same to the magistrate before whom the person arrested is required to be taken. The magistrate must, upon the examination of the defendant, or if such examination is delayed or prevented, without awaiting such examination, determine whether the fireworks had been possessed by the defendant in violation of the provisions of section 270.00; and if he finds that the fireworks had been so possessed by the defendant, he must cause such fireworks to be destroyed, in a way safe for the particular type of such fireworks, or to be delivered to the district attorney of the county in which the defendant is liable to indictment or trial, as the interests of justice and public safety may, in his opinion, require. Upon the conviction of the defendant, the district attorney must cause to be destroyed, in a way safe for the particular type of such fireworks, the fireworks in respect whereof the defendant stands convicted, and which remain in the possession or under the control of the district attorney.

Notes to Decisions

A claim against the State for allegedly having unlawfully seized and destroyed fireworks was properly dismissed where there was nothing in the record to establish that the plaintiff's interest in the property destroyed was sufficient to create a triable issue of fact. Clemens v State, 79 A.D.2d 772, 435 N.Y.S.2d 361, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14169 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1980), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 620, 446 N.Y.S.2d 264, 430 N.E.2d 1317, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3215 (N.Y. 1981).

In prosecution for unlawfully dealing with fireworks, People violated CLS Penal § 405.05 where fireworks seized from defendant were destroyed prior to trial without permission from Magistrate after defendant twice informed People of their duty to preserve evidence and his intention to seek its return. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In prosecution under CLS Penal § 270.00, People's claim that depository where fireworks were kept was ill-equipped to store them for extended period of time did not justify depriving defendant of opportunity to inspect fireworks seized from him by destroying them without permission from Magistrate, in violation of CLS Penal § 405.05; People should have facility that can handle storage of explosive materials. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

Requirements of CLS Penal § 405.05 are not limited solely to owner of fireworks, as portion of statute concerning preservation of evidence for person accused of violating CLS Penal § 270.00 clearly concerns rights of person arrested. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In prosecution for unlawfully dealing with fireworks under CLS Penal § 270.00, where People destroyed fireworks in violation of CLS Penal § 405.05, proper sanction was for court to give adverse inference charge; dismissal of charges or suppression of evidence was not warranted where defendant did not specify how he was prejudiced and People did not destroy fireworks in bad faith or to try to dispose of exculpatory evidence. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In prosecution for unlawfully dealing with fireworks under CLS Penal § 270.00 and unlawful storage, sale and transportation of fireworks under NYC Admin Code § 27-4044(a), where People destroyed fireworks in violation of CLS Penal § 405.05, defendant was entitled to adverse inference charge with respect to both charges, even though no specific statutory duty existed to preserve fireworks when accused was charged only with violation of New York City Administrative Code, as People's intentional destruction of discoverable evidence violated defendant's due process rights. People v Christopher, 167 Misc. 2d 468, 634 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

§ 405.10. Permits for indoor pyrotechnics

1. Definitions. For the purposes of this section, the following terms have the following meanings:

a. Airburst. A pyrotechnic device that is suspended in the air to simulate outdoor aerial fireworks shells without producing hazardous debris.

b. Areas of public assembly. All buildings or portions of buildings used for gathering together fifty or more persons for amusement, athletic, civic, dining, educational, entertainment, patriotic, political, recreational, religious, social, or similar purposes, the entire fire area of which they are a part, and the means of egress therefrom.

c. Assistant. A person who works under the supervision of the pyrotechnic operator.

d. Audience. Spectators whose primary purpose is to view a performance.

e. Building. A combination of any materials, whether portable or fixed, having a roof, to form a structure affording shelter for persons, animals, or property. The word "building" shall be construed for the purposes of this section as though followed by the words "or part or parts thereof", unless the context clearly requires a different meaning.

f. Concussion mortar. A device specifically designed and constructed to produce a loud noise and a violent jarring shock for dramatic effect without producing any damage.

g. Fallout area. The area in which any hazardous debris falls after a pyrotechnic device is fired. The fallout area is defined as a circle that, in turn, is defined by the fallout radius.

h. Fallout radius. A line that defines the fallout area of a pyrotechnic device. The line is defined by two points. The first point is at the center of a pyrotechnic device. The second point is the point most distant from the center of the pyrotechnic device at which any hazardous debris from the device can fall.

i. Fire area. The floor area of a story of a building within exterior walls, party walls, fire walls, or any combination thereof.

j. Hazardous debris. Any debris, produced or expelled by the functioning of a pyrotechnic device, that is capable of causing personal injury or unpredicted property damage. This includes, but is not limited to, hot sparks, heavy casing fragments, and unignited components. Materials such as confetti, lightweight foam pieces, feathers, or novelties are not to be construed as hazardous debris.

k. Owner. Any person, agent, firm, association, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation having a legal or equitable interest in the property.

l. Performance. The enactment of a musical, dramatic, operatic, or other entertainment production. The enactment may begin and progress to its end according to a script, plan, or other preconceived list of events, or deviate therefrom. A performance includes any encores.

m. Performer. Any person active in a performance during which pyrotechnics are used and who is not part of the audience or support personnel. Among others, performers include, but are not limited to, actors, singers, musicians, and acrobats.

n. Permit authority. The agency authorized to grant and issue the permits provided for in this section on or within state property shall be the office of fire prevention and control, in the territory within a county park shall be the county park commission, or such other agency having jurisdiction, control, and/or operation of the parks or parkways within which any pyrotechnics are to be used, in a city shall be the duly constituted licensing agency thereof and, in the absence of such agency, shall be an officer designated for the purpose by the legislative body thereof, in a village shall be an officer designated for the purpose by the board of trustees thereof, and, in the territory of a town outside of villages, shall be an officer designated for the purpose by the town board thereof.

o. Permittee. (1) The person or persons who are responsible, as provided in subparagraph two of this paragraph, for obtaining the necessary permit or permits for the use of indoor pyrotechnics in areas of public assembly or for a production, or who are responsible for obtaining such permit or permits under an applicable local law or ordinance authorized pursuant to subdivision five of this section.

(2) The owner of a place of public assembly or building in which pyrotechnics are to be used shall be responsible for obtaining such permit or permits; provided, however, that such owner, in writing, by agreement or lease, may require or otherwise authorize a lessee, licensee, pyrotechnic operator, or other party to be responsible for obtaining such permit or permits, in which case such other party or parties shall be deemed responsible for obtaining such permit or permits and shall be the permittee for purposes of this article; provided further that the structure is otherwise appropriate for such use under the New York state fire prevention and building code or other such applicable code.

p. Producer. An individual who has overall responsibility for the operation and management of the performance where the pyrotechnics are to be used. Generally, the producer is an employee of the promotion company, entertainment company, festival, theme park, or other entertainment group.

q. Production. All the performances of a musical, dramatic, operatic, or other show or series of shows.

r. Pyrotechnic device. Any device containing pyrotechnic materials and capable of producing a special effect as defined in this subdivision.

s. Pyrotechnic material (Pyrotechnic special effects material). A chemical mixture used in the entertainment industry to produce visible or audible effects by combustion, deflagration, or detonation. Such a chemical mixture consists predominantly of solids capable of producing a controlled, self-sustaining, and self-contained exothermic chemical reaction that results in heat, gas, sound, light, or a combination of these effects. The chemical reaction functions without external oxygen.

t. Pyrotechnic operator (Special effects operator). An individual who has responsibility for pyrotechnic safety and who controls, initiates, or otherwise creates special effects.

u. Pyrotechnic special effect. A special effect created through the use of pyrotechnic materials and devices.

v. Pyrotechnics. Controlled exothermic chemical reactions that are timed to create the effects of heat, gas, sound, dispersion of aerosols, emission of visible electromagnetic radiation, or a combination of these effects to provide the maximum effect from the least volume.

w. Rocket. A pyrotechnic device that moves by the ejection of matter produced by the internal combustion of propellants.

x. Special effect. A visual or audible effect used for entertainment purposes, often produced to create an illusion. For example, smoke might be produced to create the impression of fog being present, or a puff of smoke, a flash of light, and a loud sound might be produced to create the impression that a cannon has been fired.

y. Support personnel. Any individual who is not a performer or member of the audience. Among others, support personnel include the road crew of any production, stage hands, property masters, security guards, fire watch officers, janitors, or any other employee.

z. Venue manager. An individual who has overall responsibility for the operation and management of the facility where pyrotechnics are to be used in a performance.

2. Permit requirements. a. All uses of all pyrotechnics in areas of public assembly shall be approved by the permit authority. The permit authority shall determine that appropriate measures are established to provided [provide]* acceptable crowd management, security, fire protection, (including sprinklers), and other emergency services. All planning and use of pyrotechnics shall be coordinated with the venue manager and producer.

b. Before the performance of any production, the permittee shall submit a plan for the use of pyrotechnics to the permit authority. After a permit has been granted, the permittee shall keep the plan available at the site for safety inspectors or other designated agents of the permit authority. Any addition of pyrotechnics to a performance or any significant change in the presentation of pyrotechnics shall require approval by the permit authority, except that reducing the number or size of pyrotechnics to be used in a performance shall not be considered to be a significant change in the presentation.

c. (1) The plan for the use of pyrotechnics shall be made in writing or such other form as is required or approved by the permit authority.

(2) The plan shall provide the following:

(a) Name of the person, group, organization, or other entity sponsoring the production.

(b) Date and time of day of the production.

(c) Exact location of the production.

(d) Name of the person actually in charge of firing the pyrotechnics (i.e., the pyrotechnic operator).

(e) Number, names, and ages of all assistants who are to be present.

(f) Qualifications of the pyrotechnic operator.

(g) Pyrotechnic experience of the operator.

(h) Confirmation of any applicable local, state, and federal licenses held by the operator or assistant.

(i) Evidence of the permittee's insurance carrier or financial responsibility.

(j) Number and types of pyrotechnic devices and materials to be used, the operator's experience with those devices and effects, and a definition of the general responsibilities of assistants.

(k) Diagram of the grounds or facilities where the production is to be held. This diagram shall show the point at which the pyrotechnic devices are to be fired, the fallout radius for each pyrotechnic device used in the performance, the lines behind which the audience shall be restrained, and the placement of sprinkler systems.

(l) Point of on-site assembly of pyrotechnic devices.

(m) Manner and place of storage of the pyrotechnic materials and devices.

(n) Material safety data sheet (MSDS) for the pyrotechnic materials to be used.

(o) Certification that the set, scenery, and rigging materials are inherently flame-retardant or have been treated to achieve flame retardancy.

(p) Certification that all materials worn by performers in the fallout area during use of pyrotechnic effects shall be inherently flame-retardant or have been treated to achieve flame retardancy.

(3) All plans shall be submitted as soon as is possible so that the permit authority has time to be present and to notify other interested parties. In no event shall such advance notice be less than five business days.

d. A walk-through and a representative demonstration of the pyrotechnics shall be approved by the permit authority before a permit is approved. The permit authority may waive this requirement based on past history, prior knowledge, and other factors; provided that the authority is confident that the discharge of pyrotechnics can be conducted safely. The demonstration shall be scheduled with sufficient time allowed to reset/reload the pyrotechnics before the arrival of the audience.

e. All pyrotechnic operators shall be at least twenty-one years old and licensed or approved by the permit authority in accordance with all applicable laws, if any. All assistants shall be at least eighteen years old.

3. Conduct of pyrotechnic performances. a. Two or more fire extinguishers of the proper classification and size as approved by the permit authority shall be readily accessible while the pyrotechnics are being loaded, prepared for firing, or fired. In all cases, at least two pressurized water or pump extinguishers shall be available. Additional fire extinguishing equipment shall be provided as required by the permit authority. Personnel who have a working knowledge of the use of the applicable fire extinguishers shall be present while the pyrotechnics are being handled, used, or removed. No personnel shall use or handle pyrotechnic materials or devices while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, narcotics, controlled substances, and prescription or nonprescription drugs that can impair judgment. Fire detection and life safety systems shall not be interrupted during the operation of pyrotechnic effects.

b. (1) All pyrotechnic devices shall be mounted in a secure manner to maintain their proper positions and orientations so that, when they are fired, the pyrotechnic effects described in the plan submitted by the permittee are produced. Pyrotechnic devices shall be mounted so that no fallout from the device endangers human lives, results in personal injury, or damages property. Pyrotechnic materials shall be fired only from equipment specifically constructed for the purpose of firing pyrotechnic materials. The pyrotechnic operator shall be responsible for selecting equipment and materials that are compatible.

(2) Where rockets are launched before an audience, performers, or support personnel, the rockets shall be attached securely to a guide wire or cable with both ends securely attached and placed on an impact-resistant surface located at the terminal end of the guide. This guide wire or cable shall be of sufficient strength and flame resistance to withstand the exhaust from the rocket. An effective arrangement to stop the rocket shall be provided.

(3) Pyrotechnics shall be: (a) placed so that any hazardous debris falls into a safe, flame-resistant area; (b) fired so that the trajectory of their pyrotechnic material is not carried over the audience; and (c) placed for firing so that no flammable materials are within their fallout area.

(4) Pyrotechnic devices and materials used indoors shall be specifically manufactured and marked for indoor use by the manufacturer.

(5) Airbursts shall be permitted to be fired above the assembled audience, subject to the following conditions:

(a) The airburst shall be suspended by a minimum 30-gauge metal wire that is attached securely to a secure support acceptable to the authority having jurisdiction.

(b) The airburst shall occur at a minimum height of three times the diameter of the effect.

(c) Where the effect is demonstrated, there shall be no burning or glowing particles below the fifteen-foot level above the floor.

c. Each pyrotechnic device fired during a performance shall be separated from the audience by at least fifteen feet but not by less than twice the fallout radius of the device. Concussion mortars shall be separated from the audience by a minimum of twenty-five feet. There shall be no glowing or flaming particles within ten feet of the audience.

d. (1) The facility where pyrotechnic materials and devices are handled and used shall be maintained in a neat and orderly condition and shall be kept free of any conditions that can create a fire hazard.

(2) Smoking shall not be permitted within twenty-five feet of the area where pyrotechnics are being handled or fired; provided that smoking by performers as part of the performance shall be permitted as blocked in rehearsals and if expressly approved by the pyrotechnic operator and the permit authority.

e. (1) The pyrotechnic effect operator shall advise all performers and support personnel that they are exposed to a potentially hazardous situation when performing or otherwise carrying out their responsibilities in the vicinity of a pyrotechnic effect. Performers and support personnel familiar and experienced with the pyrotechnic effects being used shall be permitted to be in the area of a pyrotechnic effect, but only voluntarily and in the performance of their duties.

(2) No part, projectile, or debris from the pyrotechnic material or device shall be propelled so that it damages overhead properties, overhead equipment, or the ceiling and walls of the facility.

(3) Immediately before any performance, the pyrotechnic operator shall make a final check of wiring, positions, hook-ups, and pyrotechnic devices to ensure that they are in proper working order. The pyrotechnic operator also shall verify safety distances.

(4) The placement and wiring of all pyrotechnic devices shall be designed to minimize the possibility of performers and support personnel disturbing the devices during a performance.

(5) The pyrotechnic operator shall exercise extreme care throughout the performance to ensure that the pyrotechnic devices function correctly and that the performers, support personnel, and audience are clear of the devices.

(6) When pyrotechnics are fired, the quantity of smoke developed shall be controlled so as not to obscure the visibility of exit signs or paths of egress.

4. Bonds. Before granting and issuing a permit for a use of pyrotechnics as provided in this section, the permit authority shall require an adequate bond from the applicant therefor, unless such applicant is a state entity, county park, city, village, or town, or from the person to whom a contract for such use shall be awarded, in a sum to be fixed by the permit authority, which, however, shall not be less than five hundred thousand dollars, conditioned for the payment of all damages which may be caused to a person or persons or to property by reason of the use so permitted and arising from any acts of the permittee, his or her agents, employees, contractors, or subcontractors. Such bond shall run to the owner of the facility for which the permit is granted and issued and shall be for the use and benefit of any person or persons or any owner or owners of any property so injured or damaged, and such person or persons or such owner or owners are hereby authorized to maintain an action thereon, which right of action also shall accrue to the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of such person or persons or such owner or owners. The permit authority may accept, in lieu of such bond, an indemnity insurance policy with liability coverage and indemnity protection equivalent to the terms and conditions upon which such bond is predicated and for the purposes herein provided.

5. Local laws or ordinances superseded. All local laws or ordinances regulating the use of pyrotechnics within the contemplation of this section are hereby superseded by the provisions of this section, with the exception of:

a. all laws or ordinances enacted by a city of one million or more; and

§ 579. Scope and exceptions

1. This title is applicable to all clinical laboratories and blood banks operating within the state, except clinical laboratories and blood banks operated by the federal government and clinical laboratories operated by a licensed physician, osteopath, dentist, midwife, nurse practitioner, optometrist performing a clinical laboratory test that does not use an invasive modality as defined in section seventy-one hundred one of the education law or podiatrist who performs laboratory tests or procedures, personally or through his or her employees, solely as an adjunct to the treatment of his or her own patients; to the extent authorized by federal and state law, including the education law.

2. This title shall not be applicable to and the department shall not have the power to regulate pursuant to this title: (a) any examination performed by a state or local government of materials derived from the human body for use in criminal identification or as evidence in a criminal proceeding or for investigative purposes; (b) any test conducted pursuant to paragraph (c) of subdivision four of section eleven hundred ninety-four of the vehicle and traffic law and paragraph (c) of subdivision eight of section 25.24 of the parks, recreation and historic preservation law; (c) any examination performed by a state or local agency of materials derived from the body of an inmate, pretrial releasee, parolee, conditional releasee or probationer to (i) determine, measure or otherwise describe the presence or absence of any substance whose possession, ingestion or use is prohibited by law, the rules of the department of corrections and community supervision, the conditions of release established by the board of parole, the conditions of release established by a court or a local conditional release commission or the conditions of any program to which such individuals are referred and (ii) to determine whether there has been a violation thereof; or (d) any examination performed by a coroner or medical examiner for the medical-legal investigation of a death. Nothing herein shall prevent the department from consulting with the division of criminal justice services, the department of corrections and community supervision, the state police, or any other state agency or commission, at the request of the division of criminal justice services, the department of corrections and community supervision, the state police, or such other agency or commission, concerning examination of materials for purposes other than public health.

3. (a) This title shall not be applicable to any person, partnership, corporation or other entity performing any waived test or provider-performed microscopy procedure, provided such person, partnership, corporation or other legal entity: (i) holds a valid certificate of registration issued by the department authorizing the performance of one or more waived tests or provider-performed microscopy procedures; and (ii) only performs tests authorized by the certificate of registration; and (iii) otherwise complies with all applicable requirements of this subdivision.

(b) The department may issue a certificate of registration authorizing the performance of one or more waived tests or provider-performed microscopy procedures for a period of up to two years if the applicant: (i) files a completed application with the department on such forms as the commissioner may prescribe; (ii) provides documentation acceptable to the department demonstrating the ability to comply with the requirements of this subdivision; and (iii) pays a two hundred dollar biennial registration fee for each location where services are rendered; except that a voluntary ambulance service as defined in article thirty of the public health law and operated under section two hundred nine-b of the general municipal law shall be exempt from the requirement to pay a fee to obtain this certificate of registration; and except that the following may operate multiple locations under a single registration and pay a single registration fee: (A) not-for-profit, state or local government laboratories or programs engaged in limited public health testing not exceeding fifteen types of tests per registration; or (B) applicants that maintain a fixed location in the state and are approved by the department to move from testing site to testing site.

(c) Laboratory test registrants shall: (i) provide only the tests and services listed on the registration issued by the department hereunder; (ii) advise the department of any change in the registrant's name, ownership, location or qualified health care professional or laboratory director designated to supervise testing within thirty days of such change; (iii) provide the department with immediate access to all facilities, equipment, records, and personnel as required by the department to determine compliance with this subdivision; (iv) comply with all public health law and federal requirements for reporting reportable diseases and conditions to the same extent and in the same manner as a clinical laboratory; (v) perform one or more tests as required by the department to determine the proficiency of the persons performing such tests; and (vi) designate a qualified health care professional or qualified individual holding a certificate of qualification pursuant to section five hundred seventy-three of this title, who shall be jointly and severally responsible for: (A) establishing, approving and continuously updating policies, procedures and personnel qualifications for each test employed; (B) establishing a comprehensive quality assurance system which includes, but is not limited to, test selection, test quality, laboratory proficiency and personnel competency; (C) ensuring all tests are performed in accordance with the manufacturers' instructions and standards of practice in laboratory medicine; (D) maintaining complete and accurate records of the tests performed, including but not limited to, the patient's name, results, person performing the test, and quality control data; (E) ensuring that persons do not participate in diagnostic or treatment decisions using such test results unless such persons are authorized by law to do so; (F) ensuring that provider-performed microscopy procedures are performed only by a qualified health care professional operating within the scope of practice for his or her profession and as part of the physical examination performed by such professional; and (G) complying with other applicable laws, rules and regulations.

(d) A certificate of registration shall become void by a change in the owner of the laboratory test registrant or location of testing.

(e) Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the commissioner determines that the performance of a particular waived test or provider-performed microscopy procedure in a facility or location which does not possess a New York state clinical laboratory permit creates a risk of harm to the subjects of such test, the commissioner may issue an order prohibiting such test from being performed in any location other than a permitted clinical laboratory, physician's office or other location exempted by subdivision one or two of this section.

(f) Registration under this subdivision may be denied, limited, suspended, revoked or annulled by the department upon a determination that a laboratory services registrant: (i) failed to comply with the requirements of this subdivision; (ii) provided services that constitute an unwarranted risk to human health; (iii) intentionally provided any false or misleading information to the department relating to registration or performing laboratory services; or (iv) has demonstrated incompetence or shown consistent errors in the performance of examinations or procedures. A registration shall not be limited, suspended, revoked or annulled without a hearing conducted in accordance with subdivision four of section five hundred seventy-seven of this title. However, a registration may be temporarily limited, suspended, revoked or annulled without a hearing for a period not to exceed thirty days upon notice to the registrant following a finding by the department that the public health, safety or welfare is in imminent danger.

(g) The commissioner may adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this subdivision.

(h) Any person, partnership, corporation or other entity performing waived tests or provider-performed microscopy procedures without being authorized to do so pursuant to this title shall be subject to a civil penalty of up to five hundred dollars for each test performed, not to exceed two thousand dollars per day for each day tests are performed, in violation of this subdivision.

(i) All fees and civil penalties collected pursuant to this subdivision shall be deposited in the special revenue account established for the receipt of inspection and reference fees collected pursuant to section five hundred seventy-six of this title and shall be subtracted from the operating expenses of the department prior to calculation of such inspection and reference fees.

Notes to Decisions

The purpose of Public Health Law § 579 is not to restrict eligibility for a permit but to exclude certain specific categories of laboratories, such as that operated by a licensed physician, etc., for his own patrons from the need for licensing and the statute has no application to and does not proscribe a permit for an out-of-state laboratory. People by Lefkowitz v Biochemical Procedures, Inc., 38 A.D.2d 925, 329 N.Y.S.2d 878, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5145 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 31 N.Y.2d 792, 339 N.Y.S.2d 115, 291 N.E.2d 393, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 994 (N.Y. 1972).

The Pomeroy-Metcalf Act, which requires that persons acting as directors of clinical laboratories must secure a certificate of competence issued by the Department of Health, is not an unconstitutional denial of equal protection of the law, and the exemption of physicians who perform tests in connection with the treatment of their own patients and of licensed directors of State or Federal laboratories was not arbitrary or discriminatory. Derman v Ingraham, 47 Misc. 2d 346, 262 N.Y.S.2d 533, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1717 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965), aff'd, 25 A.D.2d 795, 269 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4388 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1966).

In considering whether N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 580(4) was ambiguous, the language of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 579 did not convince the court that § 580(4) was ambiguous, Scher v Bayer Corp., 258 F. Supp. 2d 190, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7711 (E.D.N.Y. 2003).

Farmer's action against town supervisor, zoning officer, town clerk, and court-appointed receiver must fail, where gist of complaint is that defendants all contributed to confiscation of "40 year collection of vehicles and other items" from farm, incarceration of farmer for not complying with order to clean up property, and exposure of farmer to cigarette smoke daily during his incarceration in violation of his due process rights and CLS Pub Health Law § 1399-n, because no named defendants had any responsibility for jail's rules or operation, so they were not personally involved in nor liable for allegedly wrongful involuntary exposure to environmental tobacco smoke. Brown v Costello, 905 F. Supp. 65, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16483 (N.D.N.Y. 1995), aff'd, 101 F.3d 685, 1996 U.S. App. LEXIS 39572 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1996).

New York State and New York City legislators had a rational basis to enact the smoking bans in Chapter 13 of the Laws of 2003, N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 1399-n et seq., which amended certain provisions of the New York State Clean Indoor Air Act (CIAA), and New York City Local Law 47 of 2002, New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 17-501 et seq., and such enactments were a valid exercise of the state's police powers over the health and welfare of its citizens. New York City C.L.A.S.H. v City of New York, 315 F. Supp. 2d 461, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5946 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

Notes to Decisions

CLS Pub Health Art 13-E does not preclude negotiation over issue of smoking on school buses in absence of pupils since statutory scheme contains no explicit or implied prohibition against smoking under such circumstance, CLS Pub Health § 1399-o(6)(d) permits smoking by driver of vehicle that has no passengers, and CLS Pub Health § 1399-o(6)(i) mandates that any smoking restrictions above statutory minimum be subject to collective bargaining. Newark Valley Cent. Sch. Dist. v Public Employment Relations Bd., 83 N.Y.2d 315, 610 N.Y.S.2d 134, 632 N.E.2d 443, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 281 (N.Y. 1994).

Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, does not infringe "right of liberty and privacy" to smoke since regulation of smoking is valid exercise of state's police power; there is no more fundamental right to smoke cigarettes than there is to ingest illegal drugs or run red light, and it is within province of state to prohibit sale of cigarettes entirely. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Article 78 proceeding was not proper vehicle to challenge constitutionality of Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas; however, proceeding would be converted into declaratory judgment action. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, does not unconstitutionally restrict access of smokers to public places, since it restricts only right to smoke therein. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Even if general "right of privacy" to smoke tobacco exists, Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, is not violative of such right, since it merely requires smokers to exercise right outdoors or in private. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Classification of smokers and nonsmokers created by Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, is rationally related to legislative objective of protecting health of nonsmokers, and since statute does not create suspect class or affect fundamental right, it is valid under Equal Protection Clause because rationally based. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Petitioners sufficiently demonstrated standing, in Article 78 proceeding brought to challenge constitutionality of Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, in alleging that they were citizens and taxpayers of New York who, as regular users of tobacco in public and private places, were prejudiced and adversely affected by statute and its implementation. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

In view of weight of scientific evidence showing that secondhand smoke represents significant health hazard to nonsmokers, Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, represents appropriate response by legislature to need to protect citizens from involuntary exposure to environmental tobacco smoke. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, does not unconstitutionally delegate police power or utilize vague definitions. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Employee established prima facie case of retaliatory action under CLS Labor § 740 based on her termination from employment for "excessive absenteeism" during 3-month probationary period after she filed complaint with county health officials concerning employer's failure to maintain smoke-free work area for nonsmoking employees, since exposure of office employees to secondhand smoke constitutes substantial and specific danger to public health or safety within meaning of statute, especially given CLS Pub Health § 1399-o, and county laws, regulating smoking in workplace. Bompane v Enzolabs, Inc., 160 Misc. 2d 315, 608 N.Y.S.2d 989, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 58 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

Substantial evidence supported a decision by a health board that a bar owner violated N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 1399-o where the evidence showed: (1) that a health department representative mentioned to a bartender in the bar that people were smoking in violation of the law, but the bartender told the representative that she would not enforce the smoking ban; (2) that when a deputy sheriff delivered a letter to the premises, several people were smoking and using beer cans with the tops removed as ashtrays; and (3) that a witness observed not only patrons, but the bartender, smoking and using ashtrays on the bar. Allen v Cattaraugus County Bd. of Health, 777 N.Y.S.2d 886, 4 Misc. 3d 383, 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 652 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2004).

When the language of N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 1399-o, 1399-s is taken together, it is clear that in order to avoid liability under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 1399-o, bar owners who control the premises where illegal smoking occurs must do more than provide notice of a violation to their customers; merely posting signs and informing patrons of the law is insufficient. Matter of Buies Inc. v Morrow, 812 N.Y.S.2d 862, 12 Misc. 3d 541, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 767 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

Determination of Commissioner of the Department of Health Services that three pubs violated Public Health Law § 1399-o was annulled as, inter alia, Public Health Law § 1399-o did not inform proprietors of what affirmative steps needed to be taken to insure smoking was not permitted and those pubs had prominently displayed "No Smoking" signs. Matter of Patricia Ann Cottage Pub, Inc. v Mermelstein, 36 A.D.3d 816, 830 N.Y.S.2d 184, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 750 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Location restrictions in New York City's youth-tobacco ordinance did not impose obligations "with respect to" advertising as that phrase is used in Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act (15 USCS § 1334(b)) where provisions restricted only physical placement of tobacco advertising signs in manner akin to run-of-the-mill zoning regulation. Greater N.Y. Metro. Food Council, Inc. v Giuliani, 195 F.3d 100, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 26815 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999), cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1066, 120 S. Ct. 1671, 146 L. Ed. 2d 481, 2000 U.S. LEXIS 2585 (U.S. 2000).

New York City's "tombstone" provision (NYC Admin Code §§ 27-508.1 to 27-508.6, known as "Article 17-A") banning all tobacco advertising except black-and-white signs stating "TOBACCO PRODUCTS SOLD HERE" was "requirement...based on smoking and health...with respect to advertising or promotion of cigarettes," and thus was preempted under Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act (15 USCS § 1334(b)). Greater N.Y. Metro. Food Council, Inc. v Giuliani, 195 F.3d 100, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 26815 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999), cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1066, 120 S. Ct. 1671, 146 L. Ed. 2d 481, 2000 U.S. LEXIS 2585 (U.S. 2000).

Where petitioner union sought review of an order of respondent Federal Labor Relations Authority that denied the union's exceptions to an arbitrator's decision denying a grievance as to a new policy by the New York Division of Military and Naval Affairs implementing a state-wide smoking ban at its facilities after the passage of N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 1399-o(1), -n(2), and the parties had not stipulated that an unfair labor practice (ULP) claim was before the arbitrator, and the arbitrator found the collective bargaining agreement was not violated because the smoking ban was a statutory requirement that did not have to be negotiated, because the Authority did not engage in any substantive discussion of a ULP claim in its order, but instead explicitly found that the arbitrator was justified in concluding that the substance of the ULP claim was not part of the dispute, the Authority's order did not "involve" a ULP and the court had no jurisdiction under 5 U.S.C.S. § 7123(a)(1) to review the order. Ass'n of Civilian Technicians v FLRA, 507 F.3d 697, 378 U.S. App. D.C. 335, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 25286 (D.C. Ct. 344, 172 L. Ed. 2d 30, 2008 U.S. LEXIS 6719 (U.S. 2008).

Challenge by three bars/restaurants to a determination by the board of health services that they had each violated the New York State Clean Indoor Act, at N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 1399-o, was not upheld by a court where the testimony of an investigator for the board established that each restaurant had posted the necessary "no smoking" signs and had removed the ashtrays; the investigator had indicated that when she walked into each restaurant, there were people already smoking and liquid-filled cups that acted as ashtrays for the smokers, but there was no indication whether the bartenders had previously informed the patrons to stop smoking and accordingly, the board's finding was deemed arbitrary and capricious. Matter of Patricia Ann Cottage Pub, Inc. v Mermelstein, 786 N.Y.S.2d 283, 6 Misc. 3d 492, 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2467 (N.Y. Sup. Notes to Decisions Determination of Commissioner of the Department of Health Services was modified with respect to one pub to find that pub guilty of violating Public Health Law § 1399-p(1), where there was conflicting testimony about whether the required "No Smoking" signs were displayed; the owner testified that one such sign was up over the cash register, but no evidence to the affect was presented. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Even if general "right of privacy" to smoke tobacco exists, Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, is not violative of such right, since it merely requires smokers to exercise right outdoors or in private. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Classification of smokers and nonsmokers created by Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, is rationally related to legislative objective of protecting health of nonsmokers, and since statute does not create suspect class or affect fundamental right, it is valid under Equal Protection Clause because rationally based. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Petitioners sufficiently demonstrated standing, in Article 78 proceeding brought to challenge constitutionality of Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, in alleging that they were citizens and taxpayers of New York who, as regular users of tobacco in public and private places, were prejudiced and adversely affected by statute and its implementation. In view of weight of scientific evidence showing that secondhand smoke represents significant health hazard to nonsmokers, Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, represents appropriate response by legislature to need to protect citizens from involuntary exposure to environmental tobacco smoke. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, does not unconstitutionally delegate police power or utilize vague definitions. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Clean Indoor Air Act, CLS Pub Health Art 13-E, which establishes comprehensive plan regulating smoking in public areas, does not infringe "right of liberty and privacy" to smoke since regulation of smoking is valid exercise of state's police power; there is no more fundamental right to smoke cigarettes than there is to ingest illegal drugs or run red light, and it is within province of state to prohibit sale of cigarettes entirely. Fagan v Axelrod, 146 Misc. 2d 286, 550 N.Y.S.2d 552, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

1. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, limited liability company, corporation or other entity that owns, manages, operates or otherwise controls the use of an area in which smoking and vaping is prohibited or restricted pursuant to section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-o of this article to fail to comply with the provisions of this article. For violations of this subdivision, it shall be an affirmative defense that during the relevant time period actual control of the area was not exercised by the respondent, but rather by a lessee, the sublessee or any other person. To establish an affirmative defense, the respondent shall submit an affidavit and may submit any other relevant proof indicating that the respondent did not exercise actual control of said area during the relevant time period. Such affidavit and other proof shall be mailed by certified mail to the appropriate enforcement officer within thirty days of receipt of such notice of violation.

2. It shall be unlawful for an employer whose place of employment is subject to subdivision one of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-o of this article to fail to comply with the provisions of such subdivision. For violations of such subdivision, it shall be an affirmative defense that the employer has made good faith efforts to ensure that employees comply with the provisions of this article.

3. It shall be unlawful for any person to smoke or vape in any area where smoking and vaping is prohibited or restricted under section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-o of this article.

When the language of N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 1399-o, 1399-s is taken together, it is clear that in order to avoid liability under N.Y. Pub. Determination that petitioner's restaurant violated Smoke-Free Air Act (NYC Admin Code tit 17, ch 5) lacked rational basis, where health inspector incorrectly had concluded that upstairs dining area was not in public use and thus excluded it for purposes of calculating proportion of smoking and nonsmoking areas, and hearing examiner did not reject petitioner's assertion that upstairs dining area was sometimes used for public dining, but permitted inspector to exclude upstairs dining area from space calculation because it was in limited or restricted use; there is no statutory exclusion for areas that are available only intermittently for public dining. § 2780. Definitions

As used in this article, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "AIDS" means acquired immune deficiency syndrome, as may be defined from time to time by the centers for disease control of the United States public health service.

2. "HIV infection" means infection with the human immunodeficiency virus or any other related virus identified as a probable causative agent of AIDS.

3. "HIV related illness" means any illness that may result from or may be associated with HIV infection.

4. "HIV related test or HIV related testing" means any laboratory test, tests or series of tests approved for the diagnosis of HIV.

4-a. "Rapid HIV test or testing" means any laboratory screening test or tests approved for detecting antibodies to HIV, that produce results in sixty minutes or less, and encompasses a confirmatory HIV related test if the screening test is reactive.

5. "Capacity to consent" means an individual's ability, determined without regard to the individual's age, to understand and appreciate the nature and consequences of a proposed health care service, treatment, or procedure, or of a proposed disclosure of confidential HIV related information, as the case may be, and to make an informed decision concerning the service, treatment, procedure or disclosure.

6. "Protected individual" means a person who is the subject of an HIV related test or who has been diagnosed as having HIV infection, AIDS or HIV related illness.

7. "Confidential HIV related information" means any information, in the possession of a person who provides one or more health or social services or who obtains the information pursuant to a release of confidential HIV related information, concerning whether an individual has been the subject of an HIV related test, or has HIV infection, HIV related illness or AIDS, or information which identifies or reasonably could identify an individual as having one or more of such conditions, including information pertaining to such individual's contacts.

8. "Health or social service" means any public or private care, treatment, clinical laboratory test, counseling or educational service for adults or children, and acute, chronic, custodial, residential, outpatient, home or other health care provided pursuant to this chapter or the social services law; public assistance or care as defined in article one of the social services law; employment-related services, housing services, foster care, shelter, protective services, day care, or preventive services provided pursuant to the social services law; services for the mentally disabled as defined in article one of the mental hygiene law; probation services, provided pursuant to articles twelve and twelve-A of the executive law; parole services, provided pursuant to article eight of the correction law; corrections and community supervision, provided pursuant to the correction law; detention and rehabilitative services provided pursuant to article nineteen-G of the executive law; and the activities of the health care worker HIV/HBV advisory panel pursuant to article twenty-seven-DD of this chapter.

Such release shall be dated and shall specify to whom disclosure is authorized, the purpose for such disclosure and the time period during which the release is to be effective. A general authorization for the release of medical or other information shall not be construed as a release of confidential HIV related information, unless such authorization specifically indicates its dual purpose as a general authorization and an authorization for the release of confidential HIV related information and complies with the requirements of this subdivision.

Notes to Decisions

Requiring client of Division of AIDS Services Income Support (DASIS) who suffered from clinical symptomatic HIV to submit to Eligibility Verification Review (EVR) investigation after completing his application and submitting all necessary documents constituted additional eligibility requirement which contravened NYC Admin Code § 21-128(a); NYC Local Law No. 49 mandates that DASIS staff, not EVR investigators, must ensure access to benefits and services, including establishing eligibility and elements required to maintain eligibility. Hernandez v Barrios-Paoli, 93 N.Y.2d 781, 698 N.Y.S.2d 590, 720 N.E.2d 866, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3430 (N.Y. 1999).

In action against decedent's estate arising out of decedent's alleged wrongful transmission of AIDS virus to plaintiff, cause of action for alleged violation of CLS Pub Health § 2307 (which punishes "any person who, knowing himself to be infected with an infectious venereal disease, has sexual intercourse with another") was properly dismissed, even if decedent knew that he was HIV positive when he had sex with plaintiff; CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, in providing separate statutory scheme for HIV-related testing, clearly excludes HIV infection from category of "venereal disease." Plaza v Estate of Wisser, 211 A.D.2d 111, 626 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4569 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Treating physician breached her duty under CLS Pub Health Art 27-F not to disclose confidential HIV-related records by releasing patient's medical records, including confidential information that he had tested positive for HIV, to Pennsylvania Workers' Compensation Board pursuant to subpoena, although workers' compensation system is "insurance institution" to which disclosure of otherwise confidential HIV-related information may be made under CLS Pub Health § 2780(16), since patient's "medical authorizations" accompanying subpoena, being general in nature, were insufficient under CLS Pub Health §§ 2780(9) and 2782(1)(j) to serve as waiver authorizing specific release of confidential HIV-related information. Doe v Roe, 155 Misc. 2d 392, 588 N.Y.S.2d 236, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 407 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992), modified, aff'd, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

Claimant inmate failed to establish that the State violated N.Y. Pub. Health Law art. 2F by disclosing his HIV-related information; that a prison nurse advised security staff, based on her interview with claimant, that he had sexual contacts with five other inmates in violation of prison regulations was not a release of information that reasonably could identify claimant's HIV status. § 2781. HIV related testing

1. Except as provided in section three thousand one hundred twenty-one of the civil practice law and rules, or unless otherwise specifically authorized or required by a state or federal law, no person shall order the performance of an HIV related test without first, at a minimum, orally advising the protected individual, or, when the protected individual lacks capacity to consent, a person authorized to consent to health care for such individual, that an HIV-related test is being performed, or over the objection of such individual or authorized persons. Such advisement and objection, when applicable shall be noted in the individual's record.

2. A person ordering the performance of an HIV related test shall provide either directly or through a representative to the subject of an HIV related test or, if the subject lacks capacity to consent, to a person authorized pursuant to law to consent to health care for the subject, an explanation that:

(a) HIV causes AIDS and can be transmitted through sexual activities and needle-sharing, by pregnant women to their fetuses, and through breastfeeding infants;

(b) there is treatment for HIV that can help an individual stay healthy;

(c) individuals with HIV or AIDS can adopt safe practices to protect uninfected and infected people in their lives from becoming infected or multiply infected with HIV;

(d) testing is voluntary and can be done anonymously at a public testing center;

(e) the law protects the confidentiality of HIV related test results;

(f) the law prohibits discrimination based on an individual's HIV status and services are available to help with such consequences; and

(g) the law requires that an individual be advised before an HIV-related test is performed, and that no test shall be performed over his or her objection.

Protocols shall be in place to ensure compliance with this section.

2-a. [Repealed]

3. [None]

4. A person authorized pursuant to law to order the performance of an HIV related test shall provide directly or through a representative to the person seeking such test, an opportunity to remain anonymous through use of a coded system with no linking of individual identity to the test request or results. A health care provider who is not authorized by the commissioner to provide HIV related tests on an anonymous basis shall refer a person who requests an anonymous test to a test site which does provide anonymous testing. The provisions of this subdivision shall not apply to a health care provider ordering the performance of an HIV related test on an individual proposed for insurance coverage.

5. At the time of communicating the test result to the subject of the test, a person ordering the performance of an HIV related test shall, directly or through a representative:

(a) in the case of a test indicating evidence of HIV infection, provide the subject of the test or, if the subject lacks capacity to consent, the person authorized pursuant to law to consent to health care for the subject with counseling or referrals for counseling: (i) for coping with the emotional consequences of learning the result; (ii) regarding the discrimination problems that disclosure of the result could cause; (iii) for behavior change to prevent transmission or contraction of HIV infection; (iv) to inform such person of available medical treatments; and (v) regarding the need to notify his or her contacts; and

(b) in the case of a test not indicating evidence of HIV infection, provide (in a manner which may consist of oral or written reference to information previously provided) the subject of the test, or if the subject lacks capacity to consent, the person authorized pursuant to law to consent to health care for the subject, with information concerning the risks of participating in high risk sexual or needle-sharing behavior.

5-a. With the consent of the subject of a test indicating evidence of HIV infection or, if the subject lacks capacity to consent, with the consent of the person authorized pursuant to law to consent to health care for the subject, the person who ordered the performance of the HIV related test, or such person's representative, shall provide or arrange with a health care provider for an appointment for follow-up medical care for HIV for such subject.

6. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the performance of an HIV related test:

(a) by a health care provider or health facility in relation to the procuring, processing, distributing or use of a human body or a human body part, including organs, tissues, eyes, bones, arteries, blood, semen, or other body fluids, for use in medical research or therapy, or for transplantation to individuals provided, however, that where the test results are communicated to the subject, post-test counseling, as described in subdivision five of this section, shall nonetheless be required; or

(b) for the purpose of research if the testing is performed in a manner by which the identity of the test subject is not known and may not be retrieved by the researcher; or

(c) on a deceased person, when such test is conducted to determine the cause of death or for epidemiological purposes; or

(d) conducted pursuant to section twenty-five hundred-f of this chapter; or

(e) in situations involving occupational exposures which create a significant risk of contracting or transmitting HIV infection, as defined in regulations of the department and pursuant to protocols adopted by the department,

(i) provided that:

(A) the person who is the source of the occupational exposure is deceased, comatose or is determined by his or her attending health care professional to lack mental capacity to consent to an HIV related test and is not reasonably expected to recover in time for the exposed person to receive appropriate medical treatment, as determined by the exposed person's attending health care professional who would order or provide such treatment;

(B) there is no person available or reasonably likely to become available who has the legal authority to consent to the HIV related test on behalf of the source person in time for the exposed person to receive appropriate medical treatment; and

(C) the exposed person will benefit medically by knowing the source person's HIV test results, as determined by the exposed person's health care professional and documented in the exposed person's medical record;

(ii) in which case

(A) a provider shall order an anonymous HIV test of the source person; and

(B) the results of such anonymous test, but not the identity of the source person, shall be disclosed only to the attending health care professional of the exposed person solely for the purpose of assisting the exposed person in making appropriate decisions regarding post-exposure medical treatment; and

(C) the results of the test shall not be disclosed to the source person or placed in the source person's medical record.

7. In the event that an HIV related test is ordered by a physician or certified nurse practitioner pursuant to the provisions of the education law providing for non-patient specific regimens, then for the purposes of this section the individual administering the test shall be deemed to be the individual ordering the test.

Notes to Decisions

Family Court properly denied law guardian's motion to compel respondent, man with whom child was living, to submit blood sample for HIV-related blood test, since proof that respondent was infected with HIV was not in any way probative of whether he perpetrated particular acts of sodomy and sexual abuse charged; only way to determine if child had been infected would be to test child himself, with result, if positive, providing some evidence that he was abused, thus tending to establish allegations of petition to much greater degree than would test of respondent, and possibly also providing probable cause, coupled with remainder of allegations of petition, for testing respondent to determine if he was possible source of child's infection. In re Michael WW., 203 A.D.2d 763, 611 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4091 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Defendant in rape prosecution, who told complainant that he had AIDS, would be ordered to provide blood samples as nontestimonial evidence under CLS CPL § 240.40(2)(b)(v), notwithstanding contention that such testing was prohibited by CLS Pub Health § 2781, since defendant himself placed his physical condition in issue, taking of blood sample would be done within constitutional limitations, and People's request was not detrimental to defendant's health or violative of his religious beliefs. People v Durham, 146 Misc. 2d 913, 553 N.Y.S.2d 944, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 107 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Law guardian for 8-year-old child was not entitled to order pursuant to CLS Family Ct Act § 1038-a for compulsory HIV test of respondent, notwithstanding child's fear that he had AIDS because respondent anally penetrated him, since (1) there was no basis set forth in pleadings or in guardian's affidavit to believe that respondent had AIDS, and (2) there was no nexus shown between allegations in petition, which alleged abuse and neglect, and need for testing. In re Harry G., 157 Misc. 2d 959, 599 N.Y.S.2d 425, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 235 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1993).

Language of CLS Family Ct Act § 1038-a did not provide authority for court to direct HIV testing of respondent to determine whether additional counts of abuse could be added to petition which alleged abuse and neglect of 8-year-old child. In re Harry G., 157 Misc. 2d 959, 599 N.Y.S.2d 425, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 235 (N.Y. Fam. Ct. 1993).

Claimant inmate failed to establish that the State violated N.Y. Pub. Health Law art. 2F by disclosing his HIV-related information; that a prison nurse advised security staff, based on her interview with claimant, that he had sexual contacts with five other inmates in violation of prison regulations was not a release of information that reasonably could identify claimant's HIV status. D.H. v State of New York, 54 Misc. 3d 390, 41 N.Y.S.3d 356, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5067 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 2015), aff'd, 144 A.D.3d 1559, 40 N.Y.S.3d 323, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7386 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2016).

2010 Recommendations of the Family Court Advisory and Rules Committee:

Following numerous statewide hearings and extensive research, in February, 2006, the Matrimonial Commission, which was appointed by former Chief Judge Judith S. Kaye and chaired by former Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Second Department Judge Sondra Miller, issued its comprehensive report. The Commission recommended, inter alia, that the title "law guardian" be replaced by "attorney for the child," which it characterized as a "necessary language change that more accurately reflects the attorney's role:"

From the testimony at the hearings and the written submissions received, it is clear that there exists a misconception that a law guardian plays a neutral role in these adversarial proceedings ….

The attorney for the child is not a mental health professional, a mediator, a fiduciary or, most importantly, an arm of the court ….

The Commission reiterates that at all times during the proceeding, the attorney for the child is subject to the same rules of good lawyering and professional responsibility applicable to any attorney in a civil proceeding or action, and must represent the client within those bounds.

Report of the Matrimonial Commission (Feb., 2006), at pps. 17, 18, 40.

The Family Court Advisory and Rules Committee has joined with the Statewide Advisory Committee on Attorneys for Children in recommending that the Legislature adopt the Commission's long-overdue change. The proposal would amend the Civil Practice Law and Rules, the Executive Law, the Judiciary Law, the Family Court Act, the Public Health Law and the Social Services Law to substitute "attorney" or "counsel" for "law guardian." With respect to the appointment of attorneys for children in voluntary foster care placement proceedings, it would correct a decade-old error. Although Family Court Act § 249 was amended in 1999 to require such appointments and such appointments have become routine, the references in section 358-a of the Social Services Law to these appointments as discretionary were never changed. See Laws of 1999, ch. 506.

New York State's tradition of affording legal representation to children in a variety of proceedings is long-standing and nationally recognized. Its Family Court Act, enacted in 1962, was cited by the United States Supreme Court in its seminal decision in Matter of Gault, 387 U.S. 1 (1967), which required counsel in juvenile delinquency proceedings and equated its role with counsel in criminal cases. However, almost from its inception, the ambiguous term "law guardian," although defined in Family Court Act § 242 as an attorney, has created debate and confusion. It suggests a role that combines attributes of the attorney-advocate with those of a guardian ad litem, functions that are inherently incompatible. This ambiguity has fostered uncertainty not only among children's lawyers but also among other participants in family law proceedings, including judges, parents, and parents' attorneys, on such fundamental issues as attorney-client confidentiality, ex parte communications and the impact of the child's preferences on litigation goals. The result has all too often been misunderstanding and clashing expectations about the actions and intentions of the child's lawyer, adding needless complexity and confusion to cases involving children.

Consistent with both Rule 7.2 of the Rules of the Chief Judge [22 NYCRR § 7.2] and the NYS Bar Association standards for the representation of children,47 this change in language is long overdue. In fact, in removing an appellate attorney for failing to consult with his 11 year old client, the Appellate Division, Third Dept., in its decision in Mark T. v. Joyanna U., 64 A.D.3d 1092 (3rd Dept., 2009), recently emphasized that client-informed advocacy, rather than guardian-type judgments in the abstract about a child client's best interests without consultation, must be the linchpin of representation. See also Van Dee v. Bean, 66 A.D.3d 1253 (3rd Dept., 2009). Clearly the terminology used to label the child's attorney should match the court's (and the court rule's) definition of the attorney's role. The term "law guardian" confuses the attorney's role; "attorney for the child" defines it. In proposing this important language change, the Committees are continuing a practice already begun by the Legislature. Chapters 473 and 476 of the Laws of 2009, Chapter 626 of the Laws of 2007 and Chapter 576 of the Laws of 2008, for example, use the term "attorney for the child." Further, shortly after the Matrimonial Commission report, Rule 7.2 of the Rules of the Chief Judge was promulgated, which also used the term "attorney for the child" and clarified the role as unquestionably that of an attorney. Along with Rule 7.2, the Administrative Board of the Courts approved the "Summary of Responsibilities of the Attorney for the Child," outlining the essential elements of effective legal representation. Appellate courts have continued the trend toward a change in terminology, both in its identification of counsel and in the text of opinions. In Naomi C. v. Russell A., 48 A.D.3d 203 (1st Dept., 2008), for example, the Appellate Division, First Department, referred to "Law Guardian (now called Attorney for the Child)." See also, Bonthu v. Bonthu, -A.D.3d-, 2009 WL 3859919 (2d Dept., 2009); Sarah Ann K. v. Armando Charles C., - A.D.3d-, 2009 WL 3818370 (1st Dept., 2009).

Clearly, the time has come for a comprehensive legislative change of title, a change that will provide a more consistent understanding of the function of the child's attorney and remove a major, persistent source of confusion about this vital role.

1. In general

In physician's action against county for negligent infliction of emotional distress arising out of fear of contracting AIDS resulting from his performance of surgical procedures on arrestee without knowing that arrestee had tested positive for HIV virus, county did not breach duty to disclose patient's HIV status to physician since (1) it had duty to protect confidentiality of such status under CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, which prohibits disclosure of HIV-related information solely to carry out infection control precautions, and (2) there was no indication that patient's treatment would have been altered if disclosure had been made. Ordway v County of Suffolk, 154 Misc. 2d 269, 583 N.Y.S.2d 1014, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 237 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

In class action on behalf of persons with mental illness who were treated on outpatient or inpatient basis both in city jails and while incarcerated in hospital psychiatric wards, claiming inadequate discharge planning in violation of CLS Men Hyg § 29.15(f) and 14 NYCRR §§ 587.1 et seq., documents sought by plaintiffs —mental health/discharge planning records of 500 former inmates of city jails who were likely class members, divided according to whether individuals were HIV positive or negative —would be material and necessary to prosecution of their motion to hold defendants in contempt for failure to comply with preliminary injunction where it was difficult for plaintiffs' attorneys to determine who were members of plaintiff class and to find and communicate with them regarding contempt motion. Brad H. v City of New York, 188 Misc. 2d 470, 729 N.Y.S.2d 348, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

In class action on behalf of persons with mental illness who were treated on outpatient or inpatient basis both in city jails and while incarcerated in hospital psychiatric wards, claiming inadequate discharge planning in violation of CLS Men Hyg § 29.15(f) and 14 NYCRR §§ 587.1 et seq., sealing provision in CLS CPL § 160.50 did not bar, by analogy, plaintiffs from obtaining disclosure of mental health/discharge planning records of 500 former inmates of city jails who were likely class members, divided according to whether individuals were HIV positive or negative, where § 160.50 applies only to court records of criminal actions or proceedings. Brad H. v City of New York, 188 Misc. 2d 470, 729 N.Y.S.2d 348, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

2. Applicability of disclosure bar

In action for damages arising out of defendant physician's disclosure, pursuant to subpoena, of plaintiff patient's HIV-positive status to attorney representing patient's employer in Pennsylvania workers' compensation proceeding, issues regarding propriety of disclosure would be determined by New York rather than Pennsylvania law, since (1) disclosure was made by New York physician from her office in New York, (2) physician's oral promise to patient to preserve confidentiality of information was allegedly made in New York, and (3) strong public policy concerns weighed in New York's favor given enactment of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F defining confidentiality rights of HIV-infected persons. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

Physician who, pursuant to subpoena, disclosed patient's HIV-positive status to attorney representing patient's employer in Pennsylvania workers' compensation proceeding violated confidentiality provisions of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, notwithstanding existence of authorizations for release of medical information executed by patient in past and fact that CLS Pub Health § 2782(1)(b) permits disclosure if there is "release of confidential HIV related information," since (1) authorizations in question were not dated, did not reveal time period during which they were to be effective and were not prepared on form approved by Commissioner of Health, and (2) although CLS Pub Health § 2782(1)(j) permits protected person to authorize disclosure of HIV related information to insurance institution, disclosures were made to attorney for patient's employer who had neither been retained nor was acting on behalf of employer's insurer. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

In action against decedent's estate arising out of decedent's alleged wrongful transmission of AIDS virus to plaintiff, plaintiff had compelling need for decedent's confidential HIV-related information, and thus was entitled to disclosure under CLS Pub Health § 2785; statute overcame physician-patient privilege, and purpose of preserving confidentiality of HIV-related information (to encourage voluntary HIV testing) was not implicated because medical records were those of deceased person. Plaza v Estate of Wisser, 211 A.D.2d 111, 626 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4569 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Statutes relating to confidentiality of AIDS and HIV diagnoses apply to health care providers and certain others; not news media. Cruz v Latin News Impacto Newspaper, 216 A.D.2d 50, 627 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6113 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

In negligence and malpractice action in which it was alleged that infant plaintiff, who suffered from hemophilia, sustained injury to his head at school, that injury was not properly diagnosed and treated, and that he thus sustained permanent injuries, defendant was entitled to determination that CLS Pub Health §§ 2780 et seq. did not prevent disclosure at trial of information that plaintiff was HIV positive since (1) in bringing action, plaintiff placed in issue not only his past and present medical condition, but also permanency of injuries, and (2) fact that plaintiff was HIV positive was relevant to his life expectancy. Dwight B. v Board of Educ., 157 Misc. 2d 1004, 600 N.Y.S.2d 414, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 249 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

In assault case in which defendant was accused of having bitten complainant, and in which People had inadvertently turned over to defense counsel medical report making reference to complainant's HIV status, court would grant People's motion for redaction from report of all references to complainant's HIV status, provided that People arranged to disclose such information to defendant through physician or health officer, but would deny People's request that defense counsel be ordered not to disclose HIV information to defendant; court could not bar defense counsel from making disclosure to her client, but would strongly recommend that disclosure be made through physician or health officer instead. People v Pedro M., 165 Misc. 2d 710, 630 N.Y.S.2d 208, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 290 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In class action on behalf of persons with mental illness who were treated on outpatient or inpatient basis both in city jails and while incarcerated in hospital psychiatric wards, claiming inadequate discharge planning in violation of CLS Men Hyg § 29.15(f) and 14 NYCRR §§ 587.1 et seq., plaintiffs were entitled to disclosure of mental health/discharge planning records of 500 former inmates of city jails who were likely class members, divided according to whether individuals were HIV positive or negative, where confidentiality of class members regarding their HIV status and possible substance abuse was protected by law, parties' confidentiality agreement, sensitive order proposed by plaintiffs' attorneys, and court's decision and order. Brad H. v City of New York, 188 Misc. 2d 470, 729 N.Y.S.2d 348, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 221 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

CLS Pub Health § 2872 was inapplicable to action challenging defendant pharmacists' purchase and sale of customers' medical and prescription information without customers' knowledge or consent, as pharmacists merely administer receipt of prescription drugs and do not provide medical treatment and, even assuming they were deemed to be providing medical services, their disclosure of prescription information to another pharmacist would be medically necessary so that customers who might suffer grave illnesses due to HIV and AIDS could continue to receive life-saving prescription medication. Anonymous v CVS Corp., 188 Misc. 2d 616, 728 N.Y.S.2d 333, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 227 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

Although an advocacy group that provided support for HIV-affected Hispanic people generally could not obtain protective orders that shielded it from providing all information about its clients, it was protected from discovery questions that could have forced it to identify persons infected with the virus. Hispanic Aids Forum v Estate of Bruno, 195 Misc. 2d 366, 759 N.Y.S.2d 291, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 172 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003).

Correctional officer is not an "authorized agent" of the N.Y. State Commission of Correction under either N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, § 7064.8 or N.Y. Pub. Health Law art. 27-F; thus, after a correction officer who worked at a drug treatment campus became aware of an inmate's HIV status, the hospital where the inmate was being seen for a determination of the efficacy of the inmate's HIV related medications should have served a N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2782(5)(a) written notice advising him that disclosure of the confidential information to other staff members at the drug treatment campus was prohibited. Melendez v Strong Mem. Hosp., Univ. of Rochester, Inc., 804 N.Y.S.2d 626, 9 Misc. 3d 938, 234 N.Y.L.J. 38, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1942 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

3. —Exception for disclosure to officials

Trial court properly granted a board's cross motion to compel compliance with its subpoena because allegations of physician misconduct at issue related directly to the treatment of patients with HIV whose files were sought, the board showed that it had a good faith basis to issue the subpoena, and disclosure was warranted under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2785(2)(d); however, in recognition of the need for confidentiality, any disclosure order had to provide for redactions of material that was not necessary for the conduct of the investigation and otherwise comply with § 2785(6). Anonymous v New York State Dep't of Health, 65 A.D.3d 491, 884 N.Y.S.2d 410, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6142 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009).

CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, and § 2782 thereof, dealing with confidentiality requirements for HIV- and AIDS-related information, did not bar release of patient records of deceased dentist who had been infected with HIV virus in response to subpoena duces tecum issued by Commissioner of Health in connection with epidemiological investigation of deceased dentist's patients, since commissioner did not seek HIV information, only patient records, and there was no showing that release of records would also result in release of HIV- and AIDS-related information regarding patients. McBarnette v Feldman, 153 Misc. 2d 627, 582 N.Y.S.2d 900, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 96 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, and § 2782 thereof, dealing with confidentiality requirements for HIV- and AIDS-related information, did not bar release of patient records of deceased dentist who had been infected with HIV virus in response to subpoena duces tecum issued by Commissioner of Health, which was engaged in epidemiological investigation of deceased dentist's patients, since § 2782(g) allows disclosure to be made to state health officer when mandated by state law, such as requirement of CLS Pub Health § 206 that commissioner conduct investigations, studies and research to protect public health. McBarnette v Feldman, 153 Misc. 2d 627, 582 N.Y.S.2d 900, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 96 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

4. Actions for breach of confidentiality

Court properly determined that patient had right to maintain private cause of action against physician for violating confidentiality provisions of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F by disclosing patient's HIV-positive status to attorney representing patient's employer in Pennsylvania workers' compensation proceeding, although CLS Pub Health § 2783, which authorizes civil and criminal penalties for certain violations of Art 27-F, contains no express provision authorizing private cause of action, since § 2783(3), which provides for grant of immunity for certain disclosures, would have meaning only if private right of action existed, legislative history indicated intention to create such right, recognition of private cause of action would promote legislative purpose and be consistent with common law cause of action for physician's breach of confidentiality, and patient was "protected individual" within meaning of CLS Pub Health § 2780(6) and thus was member of class for whose benefit statute was enacted. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

New York physician who disclosed plaintiff patient's HIV-positive status to attorney representing patient's employer in Pennsylvania workers' compensation proceeding violated confidentiality provisions of CLS Pub Health § 2782, notwithstanding fact that disclosure was made pursuant to subpoena, since (1) under 10 NYCRR 63.5(k) no disclosure of HIV related information may be made pursuant to subpoena, (2) subpoena in question had no compulsory effect on physician outside of Pennsylvania, (3) even if it did, subpoena directed defendant to bring medical records with her to hearing, not to deliver them to employer's attorney, and (4) physician's disclosure did not contain statement prohibiting redisclosure, as required by CLS Pub Health § 2782(5) and 10 NYCRR 63.4(b). Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

Punitive damages may be allowed in patient's private action against physician for violation of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, and specifically CLS Pub Health § 2782, by disclosing patient's HIV-positive status, although Art 27-F does not expressly authorize award of punitive damages for improper disclosure of HIV-related information, since award of punitive damages is consistent with legislative scheme and intent, and availability of punitive damages advances strong public policy of protecting confidentiality of patient's HIV status, and its condemnation of breach of physician's duty to protect that confidentiality; while CLS Pub Health § 2783 provides criminal sanction and civil penalty for violation of CLS Pub Health § 2782, recovery of punitive damages for violation of statutory duties is allowed despite availability of criminal and civil sanctions. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

In action for damages against New York physician for her disclosure, pursuant to subpoena, of patient's HIV-positive status to attorney representing patient's employer in Pennsylvania workers' compensation proceeding, in violation of CLS Pub Health § 2782, court erred in finding that physician's conduct did not rise to level of culpability required for imposition of punitive damages, although physician contended that she merely responded to subpoena, since subpoena had no compulsory effect in New York and inference could be drawn that she disclosed confidential information merely to avoid inconvenience of appearing at Pennsylvania hearing, and there was no reasonable basis for physician's reliance on authorizations executed by patient permitting disclosure of medical records, which were signed 2 years prior to physician's express promise to preserve confidentiality of patient's HIV status and were, in any event, insufficient to allow disclosure under CLS Pub Health § 2782. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

N.Y. Pub. Health Law art. 27-F was enacted to protect a vulnerable class of individuals and in this regard, is dissimilar to a standard personal injury action to which CLS Uncons Laws of New York § 7401 and N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e apply. Thus, the requirement of the Unconsolidated Laws for service of a notice of claim within a shortened statute of limitations does not apply to an action under art. 27-5. Doe v Belmare, 920 N.Y.S.2d 623, 31 Misc. 3d 904, 245 N.Y.L.J. 76, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1570 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011).

Although prison officials' act of disclosing a prisoner's medical records constituted a violation of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2782, the claims court properly determined the amount of the penalty to award under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2783 after prison officials improperly disclosed the prisoner's medical information to the prisoner's children; the disclosure was inadvertent, and was meant for the prisoner's wife, who was authorized to receive the information. Tatta v State, 20 A.D.3d 825, 799 N.Y.S.2d 610, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8105 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

§ 2783. Penalties; immunities

1. Any person who shall:

(a) perform, or permit or procure the performance of, an HIV related test in violation of section twenty-seven hundred eighty-one of this article; or

(b) disclose, or compel another person to disclose, or procure the disclosure of, confidential HIV related information in violation of section twenty-seven hundred eighty-two of this article; shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed five thousand dollars for each occurrence. Such penalty may be recovered in the same manner as the penalty provided in section twelve of this chapter.

2. Any person who willfully commits an act enumerated in subdivision one of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to the penalties provided in section twelve-b of this chapter.

3. There shall be no criminal sanction or civil liability on the part of, and no cause of action for damages shall arise against any physician, his or her employer, or a physician's designated agent, or health facility or health care provider with which the physician is associated, or public health officer, on account of:

(a) the failure to disclose confidential HIV related information to a contact or person authorized pursuant to law to consent to health care for a protected individual; or

(b) the disclosure of confidential HIV related information to a contact or person authorized pursuant to law to consent to health care for a protected individual, when carried out in compliance with this article; or

(c) the disclosure of confidential HIV related information to any person, agency, or officer authorized to receive such information, when carried out in good faith and without malice, and in compliance with the provisions of this article; or

(d) the municipal health commissioner or district health officer's failure to notify contacts pursuant to this chapter.

4. Any cause of action to recover damages based on a failure to provide information, explanations, or counseling prior to the execution of a written informed consent, or based on a lack of informed consent in the ordering or performance of an HIV related test in violation of this article shall be governed by the provisions of section two thousand eight hundred five-d of this chapter.

Notes to Decisions

Court properly determined that patient had right to maintain private cause of action against physician for violating confidentiality provisions of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F by disclosing patient's HIV-positive status to attorney representing patient's employer in Pennsylvania workers' compensation proceeding, although CLS Pub Health § 2783, which authorizes civil and criminal penalties for certain violations of Art 27-F, contains no express provision authorizing private cause of action, since § 2783(3), which provides for grant of immunity for certain disclosures, would have meaning only if private right of action existed, legislative history indicated intention to create such right, recognition of private cause of action would promote legislative purpose and be consistent with common law cause of action for physician's breach of confidentiality, and patient was "protected individual" within meaning of CLS Pub Health § 2780(6) and thus was member of class for whose benefit statute was enacted. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

Punitive damages may be allowed in patient's private action against physician for violation of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, and specifically CLS Pub Health § 2782, by disclosing patient's HIV-positive status, although Art 27-F does not expressly authorize award of punitive damages for improper disclosure of HIV-related information, since award of punitive damages is consistent with legislative scheme and intent, and availability of punitive damages advances strong public policy of protecting confidentiality of patient's HIV status, and its condemnation of breach of physician's duty to protect that confidentiality; while CLS Pub Health § 2783 provides criminal sanction and civil penalty for violation of CLS Pub Health § 2782, recovery of punitive damages for violation of statutory duties is allowed despite availability of criminal and civil sanctions. Doe v Roe, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 82 N.Y.2d 846, 606 N.Y.S.2d 597, 627 N.E.2d 519, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4307 (N.Y. 1993).

Statutes relating to confidentiality of AIDS and HIV diagnoses apply to health care providers and certain others; not news media. Cruz v Latin News Impacto Newspaper, 216 A.D.2d 50, 627 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6113 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Patient can maintain private cause of action against physician under CLS Pub Health Art 27-F for unauthorized disclosure of AIDS-related information, not limited by $5,000 penalty provision of CLS Pub Health § 2783(1)(b), which refers only to civil penalties recoverable by Commissioner of Health. Doe v Roe, 155 Misc. 2d 392, 588 N.Y.S.2d 236, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 407 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992), modified, aff'd, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

Although prison officials' act of disclosing a prisoner's medical records constituted a violation of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2782, the claims court properly determined the amount of the penalty to award under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2783 after prison officials improperly disclosed the prisoner's medical information to the prisoner's children; the disclosure was inadvertent, and was meant for the prisoner's wife, who was authorized to receive the information. Tatta v State, 20 A.D.3d 825, 799 N.Y.S.2d 610, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8105 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

§ 2785. Court authorization for disclosure of confidential HIV related information

1. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no court shall issue an order for the disclosure of confidential HIV related information, except a court of record of competent jurisdiction in accordance with the provisions of this section.

2. A court may grant an order for disclosure of confidential HIV related information upon an application showing: (a) a compelling need for disclosure of the information for the adjudication of a criminal or civil proceeding; (b) a clear and imminent danger to an individual whose life or health may unknowingly be at significant risk as a result of contact with the individual to whom the information pertains; (c) upon application of a state, county or local health officer, a clear and imminent danger to the public health; or (d) that the applicant is lawfully entitled to the disclosure and the disclosure is consistent with the provisions of this article.

3. Upon receiving an application for an order authorizing disclosure pursuant to this section, the court shall enter an order directing that all pleadings, papers, affidavits, judgments, orders of the court, briefs and memoranda of law which are part of the application or the decision thereon, be sealed and not made available to any person, except to the extent necessary to conduct any proceedings in connection with the determination of whether to grant or deny the application, including any appeal. Such an order shall further direct that all subsequent proceedings in connection with the application shall be conducted in camera, and, where appropriate to prevent the unauthorized disclosure of confidential HIV related information, that any pleadings, papers, affidavits, judgments, orders of the court, briefs and memoranda of law which are part of the application or the decision thereon not state the name of the individual concerning whom confidential HIV related information is sought.

4. (a) The individual concerning whom confidential HIV related information is sought and any person holding records concerning confidential HIV related information from whom disclosure is sought shall be given adequate notice of such application in a manner which will not disclose to any other person the identity of the individual, and shall be afforded an opportunity to file a written response to the application, or to appear in person for the limited purpose of providing evidence on the statutory criteria for the issuance of an order pursuant to this section.

(b) The court may grant an order without such notice and opportunity to be heard, where an ex parte application by a public health officer shows that a clear and imminent danger to an individual whose life or health may unknowingly be at risk requires an immediate order.

(c) Service of a subpoena shall not be subject to this subdivision.

5. In assessing compelling need and clear and imminent danger, the court shall provide written findings of fact, including scientific or medical findings, citing specific evidence in the record which supports each finding, and shall weigh the need for disclosure against the privacy interest of the protected individual and the public interest which may be disserved by disclosure which deters future testing or treatment or which may lead to discrimination.

6. An order authorizing disclosure of confidential HIV related information shall:

(a) limit disclosure to that information which is necessary to fulfill the purpose for which the order is granted; and

(b) limit disclosure to those persons whose need for the information is the basis for the order, and specifically prohibit redisclosure by such persons to any other persons, whether or not they are parties to the action; and

(c) to the extent possible consistent with this section, conform to the provisions of this article; and

(d) include such other measures as the court deems necessary to limit any disclosures not authorized by its order.

Add, L 1988, ch 584, § 2, eff Feb 1, 1989 (see 1988 note under § 2780).

Notes to Decisions

In action against decedent's estate arising out of decedent's alleged wrongful transmission of AIDS virus to plaintiff, plaintiff had compelling need for decedent's confidential HIV-related information, and thus was entitled to disclosure under CLS Pub Health § 2785; statute overcame physician-patient privilege, and purpose of preserving confidentiality of HIV-related information (to encourage voluntary HIV testing) was not implicated because medical records were those of deceased person. Plaza v Estate of Wisser, 211 A.D.2d 111, 626 N.Y.S.2d 446, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4569 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

In sexual abuse proceeding, father did not show compelling need for disclosure of any confidential HIV-related information as to child where abuse petition did not charge him with infecting her, there was no proof that he was HIV positive, and even if child were HIV negative, that fact would not undermine proof of abuse against father in view of incubation period of disease and nature of sexual activities involved. In re R. Children, 216 A.D.2d 6, 627 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5852 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Defendants and their attorneys did not compel plaintiff to disclose his health status at his deposition, or otherwise violate his right under CLS Pub Health Art 27-F to have his health status kept confidential, and thus motion to hold them in contempt on that basis was properly denied, where plaintiff was represented by counsel and could have refused to answer any question that might divulge his health status, thereby requiring defendants to put issue before court, but instead he volunteered information about his health status in response to proper question concerning whether his inability to work was due to his "liver problems or some other medical condition"; since plaintiff's status was already on record, his motion for protective order against use of his medical records was properly denied. Trevino v Davis, 283 A.D.2d 156, 724 N.Y.S.2d 56, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4270 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Supreme court erred in granting a motion to compel the release of medical and clinical records, including the results of HIV and hepatitis tests taken by a patient where the petition requesting the same failed to allege any material facts to demonstrate that the disclosure of the patient's confidential HIV information was warranted by a clear and imminent danger to the petitioner In re Garinger, 305 A.D.2d 677, 759 N.Y.S.2d 550, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5947 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Supreme court erred in granting a motion to compel the release of medical and clinical records, including the results of HIV and hepatitis tests taken by a patient where the petition requesting the same failed to allege any material facts to demonstrate that the disclosure of the patient's confidential HIV information was warranted by a clear and imminent danger to the petitioner, pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health § 2785(2)(b), or that the patient's clinical records should have been disclosed based on a finding that the interests of justice significantly outweighed the need for confidentiality, as required by N.Y. Mental Hyg. Law § 33.13(c)(1). In re Garinger, 305 A.D.2d 677, 759 N.Y.S.2d 550, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5947 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

In a dental malpractice action, the trial court had to reconsider a protective order request related to a discovery request for first plaintiff's medical records insofar as they contained HIV-related information because it had to apply the compelling need for disclosure standard in N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2785(5) rather than the general standard in N.Y. C.P.L.R. 3101(a). Catherine D. v Judy, 38 A.D.3d 258, 832 N.Y.S.2d 154, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2676 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2007).

Trial court properly granted a board's cross motion to compel compliance with its subpoena because allegations of physician misconduct at issue related directly to the treatment of patients with HIV whose files were sought, the board showed that it had a good faith basis to issue the subpoena, and disclosure was warranted under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2785(2)(d); however, in recognition of the need for confidentiality, any disclosure order had to provide for redactions of material that was not necessary for the conduct of the investigation and otherwise comply with § 2785(6). Anonymous v New York State Dep't of Health, 65 A.D.3d 491, 884 N.Y.S.2d 410, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6142 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009).

In a wrongful death action, defendants failed to offer any direct evidence suggesting that the decedent had HIV or AIDS; hence, they were not entitled to production of the decedent's medical records under Public Health Law § 2785(2) on that basis. Abdur-Rahman v Pollari, 107 A.D.3d 452, 967 N.Y.S.2d 31, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4031 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2013).

In action seeking damages arising out of decedent's fraudulent concealment of AIDS from plaintiff, with whom he had unprotected sexual relations, court would deny relief requested by decedent's personal representative, including (1) amendment of caption substituting pseudonyms for true names, (2) anonymity of defendants in perpetuity, (3) nondisclosure of identity of defendants and medical condition of decedent except by court order, (4) exclusion of persons except parties and counsel from all hearings, and (5) sealing of file in office of county clerk; neither CLS CPLR § 3103(a) nor CLS Pub Health § 2785 authorized such extraordinary relief. Flynn v Doe, 146 Misc. 2d 934, 553 N.Y.S.2d 288, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 115 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Claimant, who became contaminated with AIDS virus when correction officers failed to restrain HIV-infected inmate patient in hospital where she worked, was entitled to limited disclosure of inmate's medical and prison records and autopsy report containing references to HIV tests and infection; however, in order to carry out "maximum confidentiality" mandate of CLS Pub Health Art 27-F, records would be redacted to remove any reference to inmate's name and other identifying information. Doe v State, 152 Misc. 2d 922, 579 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 756 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1991).

In attempted murder prosecution of defendant who had AIDS, based on his having bitten police officer during his arrest for assault, 26-month preindictment delay did not violate defendant's due process right to speedy trial where delay resulted from time spent litigating privacy issue in connection with court proceedings that ultimately resulted in defendant being ordered to undergo AIDS blood test and to permit disclosure of results to grand jury; there was justifiable excuse for delay and lack of actual prejudice to defendant. People v Juan R., 153 Misc. 2d 400, 589 N.Y.S.2d 256, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 396 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

In attempted murder prosecution of defendant who had AIDS, based on his having bitten police officer while trying to avoid arrest, People were not chargeable for 202-day period spent litigating privacy issue in connection with court proceedings which ultimately resulted in defendant being ordered to undergo AIDS blood test and to permit disclosure of results to grand jury, since People had good-faith basis to investigate whether defendant had AIDS and they exercised due diligence to obtain such evidence; additionally, delay was excludable because of "exceptional circumstances" under CLS CPL § 30.30(4)(g). People v Juan R., 153 Misc. 2d 400, 589 N.Y.S.2d 256, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 396 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

County court had jurisdiction to compel defendant to submit to blood test for determination of HIV-related information where defendant, who was at high risk of AIDS and HIV infection due to her life-style as prostitute and intravenous drug user, allegedly bit 2 people while trying to avoid arrest and then publicly stated that she was HIV positive; statutory confidentiality protection pertaining to HIV-related information (CLS Pub Health Art 27-F) did not prevent disclosure of test results to district attorney's office for purposes of adjudicating criminal proceeding since (1) there was compelling need for disclosure, and clear and imminent danger to health of individuals who might unknowingly be at risk as result of contact with defendant, and (2) there was no evidence that disclosure would deter further testing or treatment, or lead to discrimination. People v Anonymous, 153 Misc. 2d 436, 582 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 70 (N.Y. County Ct. 1992).

In action against treating physician for breach of duty under CLS Pub Health Art 27-F not to disclose confidential HIV-related records, by releasing patient's medical records (including confidential information that he had tested positive for HIV) to Pennsylvania Workers' Compensation Board pursuant to subpoena, patient was not entitled to protective order preventing physician's discovery of information relating to his HIV illness, since physician demonstrated "compelling need" for disclosure of HIV-related information under CLS Pub Health § 2785(2)(a) in that determination of patient's pecuniary injury for wrongful disclosure necessarily involved his mental and HIV-related physical history. Doe v Roe, 155 Misc. 2d 392, 588 N.Y.S.2d 236, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 407 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992), modified, aff'd, 190 A.D.2d 463, 599 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5673 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

In wrongful death action arising out of blood bank's allegedly negligent screening of donors, resulting in decedent's contraction of AIDS from transfusion of contaminated blood from single, identifiable HIV-positive blood donor, plaintiff was not entitled to unlimited disclosure of donor's name for purpose of deposing donor since plaintiff failed to satisfy requirements of CLS Pub Health § 2785(2) where he (1) failed to establish sufficient relevance of proposed inquiry to show compelling need for desired discovery, (2) failed to adequately confine scope of disclosure request, and (3) did not profess willingness to limit access to information. Roth v New York Blood Ctr., Inc., 157 Misc. 2d 122, 596 N.Y.S.2d 639, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 97 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

In wrongful death action arising out of blood bank's allegedly negligent screening of donors, resulting in decedent's contraction of AIDS from transfusion of contaminated blood from single, identifiable HIV-positive blood donor, plaintiff was not entitled to depose donor's relatives, in event donor was deceased, regarding donor's prior health history since only blood bank's screening procedures were at issue. Roth v New York Blood Ctr., Inc., 157

People were entitled to order under CLS Pub Health § 2785(2)(a) directing disclosure of certified results of HIV test results of defendant charged with first degree reckless endangerment arising from incident in which defendant bit mental health worker since (1) there was compelling need for proof on issue of defendant's HIV status for adjudication of criminal proceeding as, without such proof, People would be unable to prove defendant's state of mind or existence of grave risk of death to victim, and (2) defendant effectively waived her privacy interest in test result as she announced publicly on more than one occasion that she was HIV positive. In re Gribetz, 159 Misc. 2d 550, 605 N.Y.S.2d 834, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 496 (N.Y. County Ct. 1993).

In assault case in which defendant was accused of having bitten complainant, and in which People had inadvertently turned over to defense counsel medical report making reference to complainant's HIV status, court would grant People's motion for redaction from report of all references to complainant's HIV status, provided that People arranged to disclose such information to defendant through physician or health officer, but would deny People's request that defense counsel be ordered not to disclose HIV information to defendant; court could not bar defense counsel from making disclosure to her client, but would strongly recommend that disclosure be made through physician or health officer instead. People v Pedro M., 165 Misc. 2d 710, 630 N.Y.S.2d 208, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 290 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1995).

In an effort to balance the discovery rights of defendants in motor accident cases against New York's strong public policy of encouraging HIV/AIDS testing by protecting against disclosure of HIV status, a court ordered that the injured person, whose HIV positive status, as it affected life expectancy, might well prove relevant to determination of future damages, submit medical records for in camera review by medical experts and the court; the court would determine, after a hearing, if there was a compelling need for further disclosure and, if so, would make all required redactions. Doe v G.J. Adams Plumbing, Inc., 794 N.Y.S.2d 636, 8 Misc. 3d 610, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 884 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

The trial court in a personal injury action appropriately referred the matter to a special referee to "hear and report" on the "statutorily required findings," which meant the required findings under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2785(2)(a), (5) for the discovery of confidential HIV-related information; plaintiff put his HIV status in issue by bringing this action and alleging that he suffered permanent injuries and a total disability as a result of the accident. Further, plaintiff's life expectancy was relevant to an award of damages, and ignoring plaintiff's HIV status would have violated the owner's right to a fair trial by seriously hindering the owner's ability to mount a defense based on a claimed shortened life expectancy. Doe v Sutlinger Realty Corp., 96 A.D.3d 898, 947 N.Y.S.2d 153, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4889 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2012).

§ 2785-a. Court order for HIV related testing in certain cases

1. Notwithstanding any contrary provision of law or regulation, a state, county or local public health officer to whom an order or a consent for an HIV test is addressed or sent, in accordance with section 390.15 of the criminal procedure law or section 347.1 of the family court act, must cause HIV related testing to be administered to the subject named therein and, if the test is pursuant to court order, must immediately provide to the court that issued the order a written report specifying the date on which such test was completed. Such report to the court shall not, however, disclose the results of such test. Such officer must disclose the results of the testing to the victim indicated in the order or consent and must also disclose the results to the person tested, unless the person tested has been asked to but declines to authorize such disclosure to himself or herself.

2. At the time of communicating the test results to the subject or the victim, such public health officer shall directly provide the victim and person tested with (a) counseling or referrals for counseling for the purposes specified in subdivision five of section two thousand seven hundred eighty-one of this article; (b) counseling with regard to HIV disease and HIV testing in accordance with law and consistent with subdivision five of section two thousand seven hundred eighty-one of this article; and (c) appropriate health care and support services, or referrals to such available services. If at the time of communicating the test results, the person tested is in the custody of the department of corrections and community supervision, office of children and family services, office of mental health or a local correctional institution, the counseling and services required by this subdivision may be provided by a public health officer associated with the county or facility within which the person tested is confined.

3. Unless inconsistent with this section, the provisions of this article regarding the confidentiality and disclosure of HIV related information shall apply to proceedings conducted pursuant to section 390.15 of the criminal procedure law or section 347.1 of the family court act.

The legislature further finds that there is a need to clarify and establish the rights and obligations of patients, their families, and health care providers regarding cardiopulmonary resuscitation and the issuance of orders not to resuscitate.

Agency Opinions

1. In general

Non-hospital do-not-resuscitate orders made under CLS Pub Health Art 29-B do not apply to health care staff at correctional facilities or at non-licensed medical center operated by Department of Correctional Services; department health care staff may, however, honor wishes of patients expressed in accordance with standards established by Court of Appeals, and patients may employ health care proxies to convey their wishes as to medical treatment or to designate third parties to make health care decisions. 1992 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 92-F4, 1992 N.Y. AG LEXIS 60.

Where patient is incapacitated and did not consent to entry of do-not-resuscitate order prior to becoming incapacitated, CLS Pub Health Law requires physician to obtain consent of patient's health care agent or surrogate before entering do-not-resuscitate order, even if physician concludes that administration of cardiopulmonary resuscitation would be "medically futile"; only where no health care agent was appointed by patient and no competent surrogate is reasonably available and willing to make decision may physician enter do-not-resuscitate order based on medical futility without obtaining agent's or surrogate's consent, and then only on concurrence of another physician that resuscitative efforts would be medically futile or after obtaining court order. 2003 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2003-F1, 2003 N.Y. AG LEXIS 7.

§ 2963. Determination of capacity to make a decision regarding cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

1. Every adult shall be presumed to have the capacity to make a decision regarding cardiopulmonary resuscitation unless determined otherwise pursuant to this section or pursuant to a court order or unless a guardian is authorized to decide about health care for the adult pursuant to article eighty-one of the mental hygiene law or article seventeen-A of the surrogate's court procedure act. The attending practitioner shall not rely on the presumption stated in this subdivision if clinical indicia of incapacity are present.

2. A determination that an adult patient lacks capacity shall be made by the attending practitioner to a reasonable degree of medical certainty. The determination shall be made in writing and shall contain such attending practitioner's opinion regarding the cause and nature of the patient's incapacity as well as its extent and probable duration. The determination shall be included in the patient's medical chart.

(a) At least one other physician, selected by a person authorized by the hospital to make such selection, must concur in the determination that an adult lacks capacity. The concurring determination shall be made in writing after personal examination of the patient and shall contain the physician's opinion regarding the cause and nature of the patient's incapacity as well as its extent and probable duration. Each concurring determination shall be included in the patient's medical chart.

(b) If the attending practitioner determines that a patient lacks capacity because of mental illness, the concurring determination required by paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall be provided by a physician licensed to practice medicine in New York state, who is a diplomate or eligible to be certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology or who is certified by the American Osteopathic Board of Neurology and Psychiatry or is eligible to be certified by that board.

(c) If the attending practitioner determines that a patient lacks capacity because of a developmental disability, the concurring determination required by paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall be provided by a physician or psychologist employed by a developmental disabilities services office named in section 13.17 of the mental hygiene law, or who has been employed for a minimum of two years to render care and service in a facility operated or licensed by the office for people with developmental disabilities, or who has been approved by the commissioner of developmental disabilities in accordance with regulations promulgated by such commissioner. Such regulations shall require that a physician or psychologist possess specialized training or three years experience in treating developmental disabilities.

4. Notice of a determination that the patient lacks capacity shall promptly be given (a) to the patient, where there is any indication of the patient's ability to comprehend such notice, together with a copy of a statement prepared in accordance with section twenty-nine hundred seventy-eight of this article, and (b) to the person on the surrogate list highest in order of priority listed, when persons in prior subparagraphs are not reasonably available. Nothing in this subdivision shall preclude or require notice to more than one person on the surrogate list.

5. A determination that a patient lacks capacity to make a decision regarding an order not to resuscitate pursuant to this section shall not be construed as a finding that the patient lacks capacity for any other purpose.

(a) During hospitalization, an adult with capacity may express a decision consenting to an order not to resuscitate orally in the presence of at least two witnesses eighteen years of age or older, one of whom is a physician, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant affiliated with the hospital in which the patient is being treated. Any such decision shall be recorded in the patient's medical chart.

(b) Prior to or during hospitalization, an adult with capacity may express a decision consenting to an order not to resuscitate in writing, dated and signed in the presence of at least two witnesses eighteen years of age or older who shall sign the decision.

(c) An attending practitioner who is provided with or informed of a decision pursuant to this subdivision shall record or include the decision in the patient's medical chart if the decision has not been recorded or included, and either:

(i) promptly issue an order not to resuscitate the patient or issue an order at such time as the conditions, if any, specified in the decision are met, and inform the hospital staff responsible for the patient's care of the order; or

(ii) promptly make his or her objection to the issuance of such an order and the reasons therefor known to the patient and either make all reasonable efforts to arrange for the transfer of the patient to another physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant, if necessary, or promptly submit the matter to the dispute mediation system.

(d) Prior to issuing an order not to resuscitate a patient who has expressed a decision consenting to an order not to resuscitate under specified medical conditions, the attending practitioner must make a determination, to a reasonable degree of medical certainty, that such conditions exist, and include the determination in the patient's medical chart.

3. If the patient is in or is transferred from a correctional facility, notice of the patient's consent to an order not to resuscitate shall be given to the facility director and reasonable efforts shall be made to provide notice to an individual designated by the patient to receive such notification prior to the issuance of the order not to resuscitate. Notes to Decisions

1. In general

Court properly dismissed complaint on ground that in absence of valid health care proxy, order not to resuscitate, or court order, there could be no action against hospital for saving plaintiff's life after she attempted to commit suicide; to extent that "living will" executed by plaintiff could be construed as order not resuscitate, it concededly contained signature of only one witness and thus did not comply with CLS Pub Health § 2964(2)(b). Haymes v Brookdale Hosp. Med. Ctr., 287 A.D.2d 486, 731 N.Y.S.2d 215, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9387 (N.Y. Court would grant request by mentally competent 88-year-old retired nurse (petitioner) for order to withhold all medical treatment except that necessary to alleviate pain where, inter alia, she was dependent on life support apparatus, almost 100 percent deaf, severely myopic, and incapable of speaking due to endotracheal tube, no compelling state interest had been identified, there was no showing of irresponsibility, overreaching, or financial gain by petitioner's grandson, and there was no indication whether respondents counseled petitioner as to her quality of life if she underwent tracheostomy surgery. Where patient is incapacitated and did not consent to entry of do-not-resuscitate order prior to becoming incapacitated, CLS Pub Health Law requires physician to obtain consent of patient's health care agent or surrogate before entering do-not-resuscitate order, even if physician concludes that administration of cardiopulmonary resuscitation would be "medically futile"; only where no health care agent was appointed by patient and no competent surrogate is reasonably available and willing to make decision may physician enter do-not-resuscitate order based on medical futility without obtaining agent's or surrogate's consent, and then only on concurrence of another physician that resuscitative efforts would be medically futile or after obtaining court order. 2003 N.Y. § 2965. Surrogate decision-making

1. (a) The consent of a surrogate or health care agent acting on behalf of an adult patient who lacks capacity or on behalf of an adult patient for whom consent by a surrogate or health care agent is authorized by subdivision three of section twenty-nine hundred sixty-four of this article must be obtained prior to issuing an order not to resuscitate the patient, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subdivision or section twenty-nine hundred sixty-six of this article.

(b) The consent of a surrogate or health care agent shall not be required where the adult had, prior to losing capacity, consented to an order not to resuscitate pursuant to subdivision two of section twenty-nine hundred sixty-four of this article.

(c) A decision regarding cardiopulmonary resuscitation by a health care agent on a principal's behalf is governed by article twenty-nine-C of this chapter and shall have priority over decisions by any other person, except the patient or as otherwise provided in the health care proxy.

2. (a) One person from the following list, to be chosen in order of priority listed, when persons in the prior subparagraphs are not reasonably available, willing to make a decision regarding issuance of an order not to resuscitate, and competent to make a decision regarding issuance of an order not to resuscitate, shall have the authority to act as surrogate on behalf of the patient. However, such person may designate any other person on the list to be surrogate, provided no one in a higher class than the person designated objects:

(i) a guardian authorized to decide about health care pursuant to article eighty-one of the mental hygiene law or a guardian of a person appointed under article seventeen-A of the surrogate's court procedure act, provided that this paragraph shall not be construed to require the appointment of a guardian for the purpose of making the resuscitation decision;

(ii) the spouse, if not legally separated from the patient, or the domestic partner;

(iii) a son or daughter eighteen years of age or older;

(iv) a parent;

(v) a brother or sister eighteen years of age or older; and

(vi) a close friend.

(b) After the surrogate has been identified, the name of such person shall be included in the patient's medical chart.

3.

(a) The surrogate shall make a decision regarding cardiopulmonary resuscitation on the basis of the adult patient's wishes including a consideration of the patient's religious and moral beliefs, or, if the patient's wishes are unknown and cannot be ascertained, on the basis of the patient's best interests.

(b) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the surrogate shall have the same right as the patient to receive medical information and medical records.

(c) A surrogate may consent to an order not to resuscitate on behalf of an adult patient only if there has been a determination by an attending practitioner with the concurrence of another physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant selected by a person authorized by the hospital to make such selection, given after personal examination of the patient that, to a reasonable degree of medical certainty:

(i) the patient has a terminal condition; or

(ii) the patient is permanently unconscious; or

(iii) resuscitation would be medically futile; or

(iv) resuscitation would impose an extraordinary burden on the patient in light of the patient's medical condition and the expected outcome of resuscitation for the patient.

(a) A surrogate shall express a decision consenting to an order not to resuscitate either (i) in writing, dated, and signed in the presence of one witness eighteen years of age or older who shall sign the decision, or (ii) orally, to two persons eighteen years of age or older, one of whom is a physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant affiliated with the hospital in which the patient is being treated. Any such decision shall be recorded in the patient's medical chart.

(b) The attending practitioner who is provided with the decision of a surrogate shall include the decision in the patient's medical chart and, if the surrogate has consented to the issuance of an order not to resuscitate, shall either:

(i) promptly issue an order not to resuscitate the patient and inform the hospital staff responsible for the patient's care of the order; or

(ii) promptly make the attending practitioner's objection to the issuance of such an order known to the surrogate and either make all reasonable efforts to arrange for the transfer of the patient to another physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant, if necessary, or promptly refer the matter to the dispute mediation system.

(c) If the attending practitioner has actual notice of opposition to a surrogate's consent to an order not to resuscitate by any person on the surrogate list, the physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant shall submit the matter to the dispute mediation system and such order shall not be issued or shall be revoked in accordance with the provisions of subdivision three of section twenty-nine hundred seventy-two of this article.

Appellate Division would modify Supreme Court's judgment by vacating its declaration that CLS Pub Health § 2965(3)(c)(iv) is unconstitutionally vague, since Supreme Court should not have reached constitutional issue given that there were alternative grounds on which to dispose of proceeding. § 2970. Physician, nurse practitioner and physician assistant review of the order not to resuscitate.

1. For each patient for whom an order not to resuscitate has been issued, the attending practitioner shall review the patient's chart to determine if the order is still appropriate in light of the patient's condition and shall indicate on the patient's chart that the order has been reviewed each time the patient is required to be seen by a physician but at least every sixty days.

Failure to comply with this subdivision shall not render an order not to resuscitate ineffective.

(a) If the attending practitioner determines at any time that an order not to resuscitate is no longer appropriate because the patient's medical condition has improved, the physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant shall immediately notify the person who consented to the order. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subdivision, if such person declines to revoke consent to the order, the physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant shall promptly (i) make reasonable efforts to arrange for the transfer of the patient to another physician or (ii) submit the matter to the dispute mediation system.

(b) If the order not to resuscitate was entered upon the consent of a surrogate, parent, or legal guardian and the attending practitioner who issued the order, or, if unavailable, another attending practitioner at any time determines that the patient does not suffer from one of the medical conditions set forth in paragraph (c) of subdivision three of section twenty-nine hundred sixty-five of this article, the attending practitioner shall immediately include such determination in the patient's chart, cancel the order, and notify the person who consented to the order and all hospital staff responsible for the patient's care of the cancellation.

(c) If an order not to resuscitate was entered upon the consent of a surrogate and the patient at any time gains or regains capacity, the attending practitioner who issued the order, or, if unavailable, another attending practitioner shall immediately cancel the order and notify the person who consented to the order and all hospital staff directly responsible for the patient's care of the cancellation.

Where patient is incapacitated and did not consent to entry of do-not-resuscitate order prior to becoming incapacitated, CLS

Pub Health Law requires physician to obtain consent of patient's health care agent or surrogate before entering do-not-resuscitate order, even if physician concludes that administration of cardiopulmonary resuscitation would be "medically futile"; only where no health care agent was appointed by patient and no competent surrogate is reasonably available and willing to make decision may physician enter do-not-resuscitate order based on medical futility without obtaining agent's or surrogate's consent, and then only on concurrence of another physician that resuscitative efforts would be medically futile or after obtaining court order. 2003 N.Y. § 2971. Interinstitutional transfers

If a patient for whom an order not to resuscitate has been issued is transferred from a hospital to a different hospital the order shall remain effective, unless revoked pursuant to this article, until the attending practitioner first examines the transferred patient, whereupon the attending practitioner must either:

1. Issue an order continuing the prior order not to resuscitate. Such order may be issued without obtaining further consent from the patient, surrogate or parent pursuant to this article; or

It may utilize existing hospital resources, such as a patient advocate's office or hospital chaplain's office, or it may utilize a body created specifically for this purpose, but, in the event a dispute involves a patient deemed to lack capacity pursuant to (i) paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section twenty-nine hundred sixty-three of this article, the system must include a physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant eligible to provide a concurring determination pursuant to such subdivision, or a family member or guardian of the person of a person with a mental illness of the same or similar nature, or (ii) paragraph (c) of subdivision three of section twenty-nine hundred sixty-three of this article, the system must include a physician, nurse practitioner or physician assistant eligible to provide a concurring determination pursuant to such subdivision, or a family member or guardian of the person of a person with a developmental disability of the same or similar nature.

4. If a dispute between a patient who expressed a decision rejecting cardiopulmonary resuscitation and an attending practitioner or the hospital that is caring for the patient is submitted to the dispute mediation system, and either:

(a) the dispute mediation system has concluded its efforts to resolve the dispute, or (b) seventy-two hours have elapsed from the time of submission without resolution of the dispute, whichever shall occur first, the attending practitioner shall either: (i) promptly issue an order not to resuscitate the patient or issue the order at such time as the conditions, if any, specified in the decision are met, and inform the hospital staff responsible for the patient's care of the order; or (ii) promptly arrange for the transfer of the patient to another physician, nurse practitioner, physician assistant or hospital.

1. The patient, an attending practitioner, a parent, non-custodial parent, or legal guardian of a minor patient, any person on the surrogate list, the hospital that is caring for the patient and the facility director, may commence a special proceeding pursuant to article four of the civil practice law and rules, in a court of competent jurisdiction, with respect to any dispute arising under this article, except that the decision of a patient not to consent to issuance of an order not to resuscitate may not be subjected to judicial review. In any proceeding brought pursuant to this subdivision challenging a decision regarding issuance of an order not to resuscitate on the ground that the decision is contrary to the patient's wishes or best interests, the person or entity challenging the decision must show, by clear and convincing evidence, that the decision is contrary to the patient's wishes including consideration of the patient's religious and moral beliefs, or, in the absence of evidence of the patient's wishes, that the decision is contrary to the patient's best interests. In any other proceeding brought pursuant to this subdivision, the court shall make its determination based upon the applicable substantive standards and procedures set forth in this article.

1. Minor patient

Since CLS Pub Health § 2976(2) authorizes court to issue "Do Not Resuscitate" (DNR) order for minor patient only after issuance of DNR order by attending physician, court has no authority to issue DNR order exclusively on application of guardian of minor patient. Application of director of county social services department, as guardian of terminally ill child suffering from multiple medical problems, for order directing natural and prospective adoptive parents to show cause why court should not authorize "Do Not Resuscitate" (DNR) order for child would be denied without prejudice to reapplication based on proof of full compliance with CLS Pub Health § 2976(2), including requirement that DNR order be issued by attending physician. In re Richardson, 153 Misc. 2d 376, 581 N.Y.S.2d 708, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 66 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

§ 2981. Appointment of health care agent; health care proxy

1. Authority to appoint agent; presumption of competence. (a) A competent adult may appoint a health care agent in accordance with the terms of this article.

(b) For the purposes of this section, every adult shall be presumed competent to appoint a health care agent unless such person has been adjudged incompetent or otherwise adjudged not competent to appoint a health care agent, or unless a committee or guardian of the person has been appointed for the adult pursuant to article seventy-eight of the mental hygiene law or article seventeen-A of the surrogate's court procedure act.

2. Health care proxy; execution; witnesses. (a) A competent adult may appoint a health care agent by a health care proxy, signed and dated by the adult in the presence of two adult witnesses who shall also sign the proxy. Another person may sign and date the health care proxy for the adult if the adult is unable to do so, at the adult's direction and in the adult's presence, and in the presence of two adult witnesses who shall sign the proxy. The witnesses shall state that the principal appeared to execute the proxy willingly and free from duress. The person appointed as agent shall not act as witness to execution of the health care proxy.

(b) For persons who reside in a mental hygiene facility operated or licensed by the office of mental health, at least one witness shall be an individual who is not affiliated with the facility and, if the mental hygiene facility is also a hospital as defined in subdivision ten of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law, at least one witness shall be a qualified psychiatrist or psychiatric nurse practitioner.

(c) For persons who reside in a mental hygiene facility operated or licensed by the office for people with developmental disabilities, at least one witness shall be an individual who is not affiliated with the facility and at least one witness shall be a physician, nurse practitioner, physician assistant or clinical psychologist who either is employed by a developmental disabilities services office named in section 13.17 of the mental hygiene law or who has been employed for a minimum of two years to render care and service in a facility operated or licensed by the office for people with developmental disabilities, or has been approved by the commissioner of developmental disabilities in accordance with regulations approved by the commissioner. Such regulations shall require that a physician, nurse practitioner, physician assistant, or clinical psychologist possess specialized training or three years experience in treating developmental disabilities.

3. Restrictions on who may be and limitations on a health care agent. (a) An operator, administrator or employee of a hospital may not be appointed as a health care agent by any person who, at the time of the appointment, is a patient or resident of, or has applied for admission to, such hospital.

(b) The restriction in paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall not apply to:

(i) an operator, administrator or employee of a hospital who is related to the principal by blood, marriage or adoption; or

(ii) a physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner, subject to the limitation set forth in paragraph (c) of this subdivision, except that no physician or nurse practitioner affiliated with a mental hygiene facility or a psychiatric unit of a general hospital may serve as agent for a principal residing in or being treated by such facility or unit unless the physician is related to the principal by blood, marriage or adoption.

(c) If a physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner is appointed agent, the physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner shall not act as the patient's attending practitioner after the authority under the health care proxy commences, unless the physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner declines the appointment as agent at or before such time.

(d) No person who is not the spouse, child, parent, brother, sister or grandparent of the principal, or is the issue of, or married to, such person, shall be appointed as a health care agent if, at the time of appointment, he or she is presently appointed health care agent for ten principals.

(b) The health care proxy may include the principal's wishes or instructions about health care decisions, and limitations upon the agent's authority.

(c) The health care proxy may provide that it expires upon a specified date or upon the occurrence of a certain condition. If no such date or condition is set forth in the proxy, the proxy shall remain in effect until revoked. If, prior to the expiration of a proxy, the authority of the agent has commenced, the proxy shall not expire while the principal lacks capacity.

(d) A health care proxy may, but need not, be in the following form:

This health care proxy shall take effect in the event I become unable to make my own health care decisions.

NOTE: Although not necessary, and neither encouraged nor discouraged, you may wish to state instructions or wishes, and limit your agent's authority. Unless your agent knows your wishes about artificial nutrition and hydration, your agent will not have authority to decide about artificial nutrition and hydration. If you choose to state instructions, wishes, or limits, please do so below:

Failure to state wishes or instructions shall not be construed to imply a wish not to donate.

6. Alternate agent. (a) A competent adult may designate an alternate agent in the health care proxy to serve in place of the agent when:

(i) the attending practitioner has determined in a writing signed by the physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner (A) that the person appointed as agent is not reasonably available, willing and competent to serve as agent, and (B) that such person is not expected to become reasonably available, willing and competent to make a timely decision given the patient's medical circumstances;

Analysis

1. In general
2. Temporary guardian

1. In general

Court properly dismissed complaint on ground that in absence of valid health care proxy, order not to resuscitate, or court order, there could be no action against hospital for saving plaintiff's life after she attempted to commit suicide; to extent that "living will" executed by plaintiff could be construed as order not resuscitate, it concededly contained signature of only one witness and thus did not comply with CLS Pub Health § 2964(2)(b). Haymes v Brookdale Hosp. Med. Ctr., 287 A.D.2d 486, 731 N.Y.S.2d 215, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9387 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 608, 739 N.Y.S.2d 97, 765 N.E.2d 300, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 49 (N.Y. 2002).

Trial court properly appointed an independent guardian for an incapacitated person and removed the incapacitated person's niece as a health care proxy pursuant to N.Y. Mental Hyg. Law §§ 81.02(a)(2), 81.19(d), and N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2981; the incapacitated person's niece had dissipated certain income and/or accounts, and transferred to herself certain stock, which constituted self-dealing. Nora McL. C. v Peggy D., 308 A.D.2d 445, 764 N.Y.S.2d 128, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9280 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

As a patient's siblings failed to establish any ground upon which his wife should be removed be removed as an agent and they had not established that the agent was acting in bad faith, having determined that the Health Care Proxy was valid, there was no need for a guardian pursuant to N.Y. Mental Hyg. Law § 81.02. S.I. v R.S., 877 N.Y.S.2d 860, 24 Misc. 3d 567, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

2. Temporary guardian

Court would lack authority to appoint temporary guardian with authority to appoint successor health care agent on behalf of incapacitated person under health care proxy law (CLS Pub Health art 29-C) even if petitioner made showing of necessity, as CLS Pub Health § 2981(1) expressly requires that principal be competent in first instance to appoint health care agent. In re Lowe, 180 Misc. 2d 404, 688 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 146 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

Non-hospital do-not-resuscitate orders made under CLS Pub Health Art 29-B do not apply to health care staff at correctional facilities or at non-licensed medical center operated by Department of Correctional Services; department health care staff may, however, honor wishes of patients expressed in accordance with standards established by Court of Appeals, and patients may employ health care proxies to convey their wishes as to medical treatment or to designate third parties to make health care decisions. 1992 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 92-F4, 1992 N.Y. AG LEXIS 60.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Guardian
3. Access to records

1. In general

Because the statute empowers health care agents "to make any and all decisions" that a principal can make, this means that health care agents must be able to make the kinds of decisions that do not take place in hospitals, and thus do not occur in hospital settings. N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2982 applies everywhere. Stein v County of Nassau, 642 F. Supp. 2d 135, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63794 (E.D.N.Y. 2009), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 419 Fed. Appx. 67, 2011 U.S. App. LEXIS 7296 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2011).

Only restrictions that N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2982 imposes upon the proxy's authority are (1) a procedural requirement that the agent first consult with one of the listed professionals before making a decision, and (2) a substantive requirement that the agent act in accord with the principal's wishes or, failing that, the principal's best interests. Stein v County of Nassau, 642 F. Supp. 2d 135, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63794 (E.D.N.Y. 2009), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 419 Fed. Appx. 67, 2011 U.S. App. LEXIS 7296 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2011).

Because the court's holding that emergency responders had to honor health care proxies outside of a hospital setting under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2982 was a matter of first impression, defendants did not violate clearly established law in refusing to honor plaintiff's status as her husband's health care agent, and defendants were entitled to qualified immunity on plaintiff's claims arising from that refusal. Stein v County of Nassau, 642 F. Supp. 2d 135, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63794 (E.D.N.Y. 2009), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 419 Fed. Appx. 67, 2011 U.S. App. LEXIS 7296 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2011).

2. Guardian

As a patient's siblings failed to establish any ground upon which his wife should be removed be removed as an agent and they had not established that the agent was acting in bad faith, having determined that the Health Care Proxy was valid, there was no need for a guardian pursuant to N.Y. Mental Hyg. Law § 81.02. S.I. v R.S., 877 N.Y.S.2d 860, 24 Misc. 3d 567, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

3. Access to records

Although the adult child of a former patient of an institutional health care provider did not fall under the definition of a qualified person within the meaning of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 18, the child was nonetheless entitled to be given access to the parent's records, even after discharge from the facility, under the terms of the medical directive that established the child as the parent's agent. Matter of Mougiannis v North Shore-Long Is. Jewish Health Sys. Inc., 25 A.D.3d 230, 806 N.Y.S.2d 623, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13296 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2005).

§ 2983. Determination of lack of capacity to make health care decisions for the purpose of empowering agent.

1. Determination by attending practitioner. (a) A determination that a principal lacks capacity to make health care decisions shall be made by the attending practitioner to a reasonable degree of medical certainty. The determination shall be made in writing and shall contain such attending practitioner's opinion regarding the cause and nature of the principal's incapacity as well as its extent and probable duration. The determination shall be included in the patient's medical record. For a decision to withdraw or withhold life-sustaining treatment, the attending practitioner who makes the determination that a principal lacks capacity to make health care decisions must consult with another physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner to confirm such determination. Such consultation shall also be included within the patient's medical record.

(b) If an attending practitioner of a patient in a general hospital or mental hygiene facility determines that a patient lacks capacity because of mental illness, the attending practitioner who makes the determination must be, or must consult, for the purpose of confirming the determination, with a qualified psychiatrist. A record of such consultation shall be included in the patient's medical record.

(c) If the attending practitioner determines that a patient lacks capacity because of a developmental disability, the attending practitioner who makes the determination must be, or must consult, for the purpose of confirming the determination, with a physician, nurse practitioner, physician assistant, or clinical psychologist who either is employed by a developmental disabilities services office named in section 13.17 of the mental hygiene law, or who has been employed for a minimum of two years to render care and service in a facility operated or licensed by the office for people with developmental disabilities, or has been approved by the commissioner of developmental disabilities in accordance with regulations promulgated by such commissioner. Such regulations shall require that a physician, nurse practitioner, physician assistant, or clinical psychologist possess specialized training or three years experience in treating developmental disabilities. A record of such consultation shall be included in the patient's medical record.

(d) A physician, physician assistant, or nurse practitioner who has been appointed as a patient's agent shall not make the determination of the patient's capacity to make health care decisions.

2. Request for a determination. If requested by the agent, an attending practitioner shall make a determination regarding the principal's capacity to make health care decisions for the purposes of this article.

3. Notice of determination. Notice of a determination that a principal lacks capacity to make health care decisions shall promptly be given: (a) to the principal, orally and in writing, where there is any indication of the principal's ability to comprehend such notice; (b) to the agent; (c) if the principal is in or is transferred from a mental hygiene facility, to the facility director; and (d) to the conservator for, or committee of, the principal.

4. Limited purpose of determination. A determination made pursuant to this section that a principal lacks capacity to make health care decisions shall not be construed as a finding that the patient lacks capacity for any other purpose.

5. Priority of principal's decision. Notwithstanding a determination pursuant to this section that the principal lacks capacity to make health care decisions, where a principal objects to the determination of incapacity or to a health care decision made by an agent, the principal's objection or decision shall prevail unless the principal is determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to lack capacity to make health care decisions.

6. Confirmation of lack of capacity. (a) The attending practitioner shall confirm the principal's continued incapacity before complying with an agent's health care decisions, other than those decisions made at or about the time of the initial determination made pursuant to subdivision one of this section. The confirmation shall be stated in writing and shall be included in the principal's medical record.

(b) The notice requirements set forth in subdivision three of this section shall not apply to the confirmation required by this subdivision.

7. Effect of recovery of capacity. In the event the attending practitioner determines that the principal has regained capacity, the authority of the agent shall cease, but shall recommence if the principal subsequently loses capacity as determined pursuant to this section.

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

Trial court erred in denying a nursing home operator's motion to dismiss a wife's fifth counterclaim because she lacked standing to assert a claim for relief based on the alleged failure of the operator to properly or timely invoke a health care proxy that was executed by the wife's husband before his death. Long Is. Care Ctr., Inc. v Goodman, 137 A.D.3d 874, 26 N.Y.S.3d 595, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1645 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

1. In general

Unpublished decision: Even assuming that plaintiff wife had authority pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2983(1) based on her health care proxy to direct defendant emergency responders to transport her husband to a particular hospital, her authority to do so was not clearly established, and defendants were entitled to qualified immunity on her claims for violation of the Fourth, Fifth, and Fourteenth Amendments. 3. Notwithstanding subdivision two of this section, nothing in this article shall be construed to require a private hospital to honor an agent's health care decision that the hospital would not honor if the decision had been made by the principal because the decision is contrary to a formally adopted policy of the hospital that is expressly based on religious beliefs or sincerely held moral convictions central to the facility's operating principles and the hospital would be permitted by law to refuse to honor the decision if made by the principal, provided:

(a) the hospital has informed the patient or the health care agent of such policy prior to or upon admission, if reasonably possible; and

(b) the patient is transferred promptly to another hospital that is reasonably accessible under the circumstances and is willing to honor the agent's decision and pending transfer the hospital complies with subdivision five of this section. Notwithstanding subdivision two of this section, nothing in this article shall be construed to require an individual as a health care provider to honor an agent's health care decision that the individual would not honor if the decision had been made by the principal because the decision is contrary to the individual's religious beliefs or sincerely held moral convictions, provided the individual health care provider promptly informs the health care agent and the hospital of his or her refusal to honor the agent's decision. In such event, the hospital shall promptly transfer responsibility for the patient to another individual health care provider willing to honor the agent's decision. The individual health care provider shall cooperate in facilitating such transfer of the patient and comply with subdivision five of this section.

5. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section or subdivision two of section twenty-nine hundred eighty-nine of this article, if an agent directs the provision of life-sustaining treatment, the denial of which in reasonable medical judgment would be likely to result in the death of the patient, a hospital or individual health care provider that does not wish to provide such treatment shall nonetheless comply with the agent's decision pending either transfer of the patient to a willing hospital or individual health care provider, or judicial review in accordance with section twenty-nine hundred ninety-two of this article.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Revocation
3. Modification
4. Guardian

1. In general

In proceeding under CLS Pub Health § 2992, withholding of certain medication from ward by his health care agents did not violate terms of his living will where living will showed that ward held firm and settled commitment to termination of life-supporting medicine that would only artificially prolong his life, his current condition was terminal, and he would want his medical care to cease. In re Albert S. , 286 A.D.2d 684, 730 N.Y.S.2d 128, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8429 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

2. Revocation

Daughters were properly appointed as guardians of their mother's person and property and a power of attorney the mother had executed in favor of her husband was properly revoked as the daughters showed that the mother was an incapacitated person and that the power of attorney was executed while the mother was incapacitated; the daughters also showed that the husband was no longer reasonably available, willing, and competent to fulfill his obligations under N.Y. Pub. Health Law art. 29-C, thereby warranting revocation of a health care proxy. Matter of Susan Jane G., 33 A.D.3d 700, 823 N.Y.S.2d 102, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12295 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Terminally ill patient's living will/power of attorney was deemed revoked and a health care proxy was deemed revoked by implication, pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2985(a)(1), where her agents under the power of attorney indicated that she had told them that she did not fully understand the implications of the documents, that it was against her religious beliefs to terminate life, and that she had intended to revoke the documents; accordingly, a hospital that sought to remove or override the agents' decision not to sign a do not resuscitate form was found to not meet its burden of proof in order to be granted the relief requested, pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2992. In re Uni v Hosp. of the State Univ. of N.Y. Upstate Med. Univ., 194 Misc. 2d 372, 754 N.Y.S.2d 153, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1701 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2002).

3. Modification

In proceeding under CLS Pub Health § 2992, imposition on ward's health care agents of condition that they forgo any steps to hasten his death unless and until death was imminent and inevitable was improper where condition was contrary to terms of ward's living will, and there is no authority in Public Health Law enabling court to modify living will. In re Albert S. , 286 A.D.2d 684, 730 N.Y.S.2d 128, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8429 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

4. Guardian

In proceeding under CLS Pub Health § 2992, establishment of guardianship for person and property of ward was improper where ward had made living will with durable power of attorney, and trust had been set up with sufficient funds to pay for his care; guardian is to be appointed solely as last resort—that is, when no available resources or other alternative will adequately protect person. In re Albert S. , 286 A.D.2d 684, 730 N.Y.S.2d 128, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8429 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

§ 3000-a. Emergency medical treatment

1. Except as provided in subdivision six of section six thousand six hundred eleven, subdivision two of section six thousand five hundred twenty-seven, subdivision one of section six thousand nine hundred nine and sections six thousand five hundred forty-seven and six thousand seven hundred thirty-seven of the education law, any person who voluntarily and without expectation of monetary compensation renders first aid or emergency treatment at the scene of an accident or other emergency outside a hospital, doctor's office or any other place having proper and necessary medical equipment, to a person who is unconscious, ill, or injured, shall not be liable for damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by such person or for damages for the death of such person alleged to have occurred by reason of an act or omission in the rendering of such emergency treatment unless it is established that such injuries were or such death was caused by gross negligence on the part of such person. Nothing in this section shall be deemed or construed to relieve a licensed physician, dentist, nurse, physical therapist or registered physician's assistant from liability for damages for injuries or death caused by an act or omission on the part of such person while rendering professional services in the normal and ordinary course of his or her practice.

2. (i) Any person or entity that purchases, operates, facilitates implementation or makes available resuscitation equipment that facilitates first aid, an automated external defibrillator or an epinephrine auto-injector device as required by or pursuant to law or local law, or that conducts training under section three thousand-c of this article, or (ii) an emergency health care provider under a collaborative agreement pursuant to section three thousand-b of this article with respect to an automated external defibrillator, or (iii) a health care practitioner that prescribes, dispenses or provides an epinephrine auto-injector device under section three thousand-c of this article, shall not be liable for damages arising either from the use of that equipment by a person who voluntarily and without expectation of monetary compensation renders first aid or emergency treatment at the scene of an accident or medical emergency, or from the use of defectively manufactured equipment; provided that this subdivision shall not limit the person's or entity's, the emergency health care provider's, or other health care practitioner's liability for his, her or its own negligence, gross negligence or intentional misconduct.

Analysis

2. Health clubs

1. In general

CLS Pub Health § 3000-a was not applicable to situation where plaintiff's companion allegedly informed train crew that plaintiff had not been hit by train, that he was all right, and that companion and another would take plaintiff home, and companion neither provided first aid nor emergency care to plaintiff at scene. Salvia v Long Island R.R., 207 A.D.2d 534, 616 N.Y.S.2d 93, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8603 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Doctor's motion for summary judgment in medical malpractice action is properly granted where doctor was called upon to come to aid of person and doctor merely took person's pulse and heart rate and called police in order to have ambulance come and take person to hospital, where person later died, and further, as doctor treated decedent in apparent emergency situation, and plaintiff does not allege gross negligence, doctor is protected from liability for damages for decedent's death pursuant to CLS Pub Health § 3000-a, Good Samaritan Law. Rodriguez v New York City Health & Hospitals Corp., 132 Misc. 2d 705, 505 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2763 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Although the court declined to stretch the good Samaritan provision in N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3000-a to include the emergency medical responders who worked on a correction officer, because the responders did not depart from the appropriate standard of care in their treatment of the officer, summary judgment was appropriate. King v St. Barnabas Hosp., 242 N.Y.L.J. 11, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2531 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. July 7, 2009), rev'd, 87 A.D.3d 238, 927 N.Y.S.2d 34, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5508 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2011).

2. Health clubs

N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 627-a does not create a duty running from a health club to its members to use an Automatic External Defibrillator (AED) required by that provision to be maintained onsite; the provisions of § 627-a, read together with N.Y. Public Health Law §§ 3000-a and 3000-b, to which they explicitly refer, and the words "volunteer," § 627-a(1), and "voluntarily," § 627-a(3), evince the Legislature's intent to protect health clubs and their employees from the risk of liability for ordinary negligence with respect to AEDs. Miglino v Bally Total Fitness of Greater N.Y., Inc., 20 N.Y.3d 342, 961 N.Y.S.2d 364, 985 N.E.2d 128, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 111 (N.Y. 2013).

N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 627-a imposes an inherent duty on health clubs and gyms to make use of a statutorily required automated external defibrillator device. Miglino v Bally Total Fitness of Greater N.Y., Inc., 92 A.D.3d 148, 937 N.Y.S.2d 63, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9478 (N.Y. (b) The public access defibrillation provider shall cause the automated external defibrillator to be maintained and tested according to applicable standards of the manufacturer and any appropriate government agency.

(c) The public access defibrillation provider shall notify the regional council of the existence, location and type of any automated external defibrillator it possesses.

(d) Every use of an automated external defibrillator on a patient shall be immediately reported to the appropriate local emergency medical services system, emergency communications center or emergency vehicle dispatch center as appropriate and promptly reported to the emergency health care provider.

(e) The emergency health care provider shall participate in the regional quality improvement program pursuant to subdivision one of section three thousand four-a of this article.

(f) The public access defibrillation provider shall post a sign or notice at the main entrance to the facility or building in which the automated external defibrillator is stored, indicating the location where any such automated external defibrillator is stored or maintained in such building or facility on a regular basis.

4. Application of other laws. (a) Operation of an automated external defibrillator pursuant to this section shall be considered first aid or emergency treatment for the purpose of any statute relating to liability.

(b) Operation of an automated external defibrillator pursuant to this section shall not constitute the unlawful practice of a profession under title VIII of the education law.

b. "Health club" means any commercial establishment offering instruction, training or assistance and/or the facilities for the preservation, maintenance, encouragement or development of physical fitness or well-being. "Health club" as defined herein shall include, but not be limited to health spas, health studios, gymnasiums, weight control studios, martial arts and self-defense schools or any other commercial establishment offering a similar course of physical training.

c. "Owner or operator" means the owner, manager, operator or other person having control of an establishment.

g. "Theater" means a motion picture theater, concert hall, auditorium or other building used for, or designed for the primary purpose of, exhibiting movies, stage dramas, musical recitals, dance or other similar performances.

2. The owner or operator of a public place shall have available in such public place resuscitation equipment in quantities deemed adequate by the department. Such equipment shall be readily accessible for use during medical emergencies. Any information deemed necessary by the commissioner shall accompany the resuscitation equipment. Resuscitation equipment shall be discarded after a single use.

3. The owner or operator of a public place shall provide notice to patrons, by means of signs, printed material or other means of written communication, indicating the availability of resuscitation equipment for emergency use and providing information on how to obtain cardiopulmonary resuscitation training. The type, size, style, location and language of such notice shall be determined in accordance with rules, promulgated by the commissioner. In promulgating such rules, the commissioner shall take into consideration the concerns of the public places within the scope of this section. If the department shall make signs available pursuant to this subdivision, it may charge a fee to cover printing, postage and handling expenses.

4. Any owner or operator of a public place, his or her employee or other agent, or any other person who voluntarily and without expectation of monetary compensation renders emergency treatment using the resuscitation equipment required pursuant to this section, to a person who is unconscious, ill or injured, shall only be liable pursuant to section three thousand-a of this article.

5. Nothing contained in this section shall impose any duty or obligation on any owner or operator of a public place, his or her employee or other agent, or any other person to provide resuscitation assistance to the victim of a medical emergency.

6. Nothing in this section shall be construed to restrict the power of any county, city, town, or village to adopt and enforce additional local laws, ordinances, or regulations which comply with at least the minimum applicable standards set forth in this article.

HISTORY:

Editor's notes Laws 2001, ch 349, §§ 1 and 3, eff March 18, 2002, provide as follows:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The legislature recognizes the need to support and develop policies which promote the good health of all the people in New York state. The legislature also finds that an essential element of such policies must be encouragement of public intervention and aid during medical emergencies.

Unfortunately, emergency medical professionals have discovered in responding to medical emergencies that many individuals, who are otherwise qualified to provide life saving assistance, such as mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, are afraid to do so because of the perceived health risks of such activities. Such hesitation can cost the lives of individuals who require prompt medical attention to insure recovery.

Therefore, the legislature, in order to encourage qualified persons to provide life saving assistance while reducing the risk of potential exposure to disease, deems it necessary to the health, safety and well-being of the public to require the availability of exhaled air resuscitation masks and disposable gloves in certain public places.

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized and directed to be made and completed on or before such effective date.

§ 3002. New York state emergency medical services council

1. There is hereby created in the department of health the New York state emergency medical services council. The state council shall consist of thirty-two members. Fourteen members to the state council shall be appointed by the commissioner and shall be representative of each geographic area of the state. At least one member shall be representative of the interests of the general public. Other members shall be knowledgeable in various aspects of emergency medical services and shall include, but not be limited to, representatives of voluntary ambulance services, advanced life support first response services, ambulance services operating for profit, municipal ambulance services, hospitals, a statewide organization representing volunteer fire services, municipal tax districts providing ambulance services, physicians, and nurses. The commissioner shall also appoint a representative from each regional council, from nominations received from the appropriate regional council. The members of the state council shall elect a chairperson from among the members of the state council by a majority vote of those present, who shall serve for a term of one year and until a successor is elected.

2. The state council shall have the power, by an affirmative vote of a majority of those present, subject to approval by the commissioner, to enact, and from time to time, amend and repeal, rules and regulations establishing minimum standards for ambulance services, ambulance service certification, advanced life support first response services, the provision of prehospital emergency medical care, public education, the development of a statewide emergency medical services system, the provision of ambulance services outside the primary territory specified in the ambulance services' certificate and the training, examination, and certification of certified first responders, emergency medical technicians, and advanced emergency medical technicians; provided, however, that such minimum standards must be consistent with the staffing standards established by section three thousand five-a of this article. Such training shall be made available by video or computer to the maximum extent possible. Until January first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, no minimum standards shall be established for services provided by a voluntary ambulance service operating solely pursuant to a statement of registration issued under section three thousand four. The curriculum for certified first responder training shall not exceed fifty-one hours including prerequisites. The state council shall have the same powers granted to regional councils by this article in any region of the state in which a regional council has not been established.

2-a. In furtherance of the powers set forth in subdivision two of this section, the state council shall provide to the trustees of the state university of New York such information and recommendations as may be requested by such trustees to assist such trustees' study of the feasibility of community colleges' and state university of New York agricultural and technical colleges' offering credit and noncredit courses which would satisfy the educational requirements for certification and recertification of emergency medical technicians and advanced emergency medical technicians.

2-b. [Expires and repealed July 1, 2021] The commissioner, in consultation with the state emergency medical services council, shall develop a program to allow certified first responders, emergency medical technicians and advanced emergency medical technicians who have been in continuous practice, who have demonstrated competence in applicable behavioral and performance objectives, and who have demonstrated completion of appropriate continuing education, to renew their certification under subdivision two of this section without requiring the completion of a written examination. In implementing this program, the commissioner shall contract with and use the standards established by a nationally recognized organization that certifies certified first responders, emergency medical technicians and advanced emergency medical technicians. Renewals of certification under the program shall be deemed equivalent to renewals under subdivision two of this section for purposes of this article.

3. Upon appeal from the appropriate regional council, the state council shall have the power, by an affirmative vote of a majority of those present, to amend, modify and reverse determinations of the regional councils made pursuant to subdivision five of section three thousand three and section three thousand eight of this article. All determinations of the state council respecting applications for ambulance service certificates or statements of registration or respecting the revocation, suspension (except temporary suspension), limitation or annulment of an ambulance service certificate shall be subject to review as provided in article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules. Application for such review must be made within sixty days after service in person or by registered or certified mail of a copy of the determination upon the applicant or holder of the certificate.

3-a. Upon appeal from the applicant, the department, or any concerned party, the state council shall have the power, by an affirmative vote of a majority of those present, to amend, modify and reverse determinations of the regional councils made pursuant to subdivision five-a of section three thousand three of this article. All determinations of the state council with respect to exemptions shall be subject to review as provided in article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules. Application for such review must be made within sixty days after service in person or by registered or certified mail.

4. The term of office of each member shall be two years. Vacancies shall be filled by appointment for the remainder of an unexpired term. The members shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms and until their successors are appointed and have qualified. No member shall be appointed to the state council for more than four consecutive terms.

5. The state council shall meet as frequently as its business may require. The presence of a majority of the members shall constitute a quorum. The members of the state council shall receive no compensation for their services as members, but each shall be allowed the necessary and actual expenses incurred in the performance of his or her duties under this section.

6. The commissioner, upon request of the state council, shall designate an officer or employee of the department to act as secretary of the state council, and shall assign from time to time such other employees as the state council may require.

7. No civil action shall be brought in any court against any member, officer or employee of the state council for any act done, failure to act, or statement or opinion made, while discharging his or her duties as a member, officer or employee of the state council, without leave from a justice of the supreme court, first had and obtained. In no event shall such member, officer or employee be liable for damages in any such action if he or she shall have acted in good faith, with reasonable care and upon probable cause.

8. The state council shall, after consultation with the department and the regional councils, forward to the commissioner not later than December first an estimate of the amounts needed to provide adequate funding for emergency medical services training including advanced life support at the local level, regional medical emergency services councils, emergency medical services program agencies, the state emergency medical services council or other emergency medical services training programs to carry out the purposes of this article and article thirty-A of this chapter. Such estimate shall be transmitted without change by the commissioner to the governor, the division of the budget, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, and the fiscal and health committees of each house of the legislature.

Amendment Notes The 2019 amendment by ch 87, § 1, in 2-b, substituted "develop a program to allow certified first responders" for "develop a pilot program in at least six regions of the state (including the western New York and capital regions) to allow" in the first sentence, added "certified first responders" in the second sentence, deleted the former third sentence: which said: "However, no pilot program shall include employees of a municipal ambulance service in cities with a population over one million," deleted "demonstration" preceding "program" in the last sentence, and deleted the former last sentence, which said: "Within one year of developing the demonstration program and annually thereafter, the commissioner shall report to the legislature on the impact of the program on the quality of patient care, the effectiveness of the program in retaining certified emergency medical technicians and advanced emergency medical technicians, and the feasibility of replacing the state's certification program with a national certification program"; and made a stylistic change.

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

County properly dismissed emergency services dispatchers who failed to acquire recertification as emergency medical technicians, despite their claim that, as former medical emergency dispatchers and radio operators, they were "covered in" to position of emergency services dispatcher when former positions were combined and reclassified as competitive position, where dispatchers were not required to pass examination to be appointed to reclassified title, they in fact met all requirements for that title at time of reclassification, including holding of certification, and thus rationale for "covering in" (which offers protection to employee in noncompetitive job whose position is reclassified and made competitive) did not apply. Naliboff v Davis, 133 A.D.2d 632, 519 N.Y.S.2d 740, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51672 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 805, 529 N.Y.S.2d 76, 524 N.E.2d 430, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 623 (N.Y. 1988).

City did not have capacity to bring declaratory judgment action to challenge the Department of Health's interpretation of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3008(7) and seek a declaration that it did not need to submit to a determination of public need from a regional emergency medical services council (REMSCO) pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5), 3005(6), 3008(1) prior to the renewal of its certification for ambulance services because the city could only appeal from a final determination as to public need for ambulance services administratively and then challenge by commencing a N.Y. 5. The regional council shall have the responsibility to make determinations of public need for the establishment of additional emergency medical services and ambulance services and to make the determinations of public need as provided in section three thousand eight. The regional council shall make such determination by an affirmative vote of a majority of all of those members consisting of voting members.

5-a. The regional emergency medical services council is authorized to grant an exemption from the staffing standards set forth in section three thousand five-a of this article to a voluntary ambulance service operating solely with enrolled members or paid emergency medical technicians which has demonstrated a good faith effort to meet the standards and is unable to meet such standards because of factors deemed appropriate by the regional council. An exemption shall be for a period not to exceed two years and shall be conditioned on the participation by the voluntary service in a program to achieve compliance which shall include technical assistance and support from the regional council tailored to the needs and resources at the local level, as provided by paragraph (m) of subdivision three of this section, to be funded by the New York state emergency medical services training account established pursuant to section ninety-seven-q of the state finance law, such account as funded by a chapter of the laws of nineteen hundred ninety-three. Nothing shall prevent the regional council from issuing subsequent exemptions. Such exemptions shall have no effect whatsoever on the insurability of the organization receiving such exemption and such exemption shall not be used as a basis for increasing insurance rates or premiums related thereto, notwithstanding any other provision of law, rule, regulation, or commissioner's ruling or advisory to the contrary. Prior to issuing an exemption, the regional council shall provide written notice by certified mail to the chief executive officers of all general hospitals and municipalities in the county or counties within which the service requesting an exemption operates. Such notice shall provide opportunity for comment on the issuance of the exemption. Notice of the determination of the regional council shall be provided within ten days of the determination to the applicant, the department, and any party receiving notification of the application who requests notice of the determination. The applicant, the department, or any concerned party may appeal the determination of the regional council to the state council within thirty days after the regional council makes its determination.

6. The term of office of members of the regional council shall be four years, except that of those members first appointed, at least one-half but not more than two-thirds shall be for terms not to exceed two years.

7. Each regional council shall meet as frequently as its business may require.

8. The commissioner, upon request of the regional council, may designate an officer or employee of the department to act as secretary of the regional council, and may assign from time to time such other employees as the regional council may require.

9. No civil action shall be brought in any court against any member, officer or employee of any designated regional council for any act done, failure to act, or statement or opinion made, while discharging his duties as a member, officer or employee of the regional council, without leave from a justice of the supreme court, first had and obtained. In any event such member, officer or employee shall not be liable for damages in any such action if he shall have acted in good faith, with reasonable care and upon probable cause.

10. (a) The department shall provide each regional council with the funds necessary to enable such regional council to carry out its responsibilities as mandated under this section within amounts appropriated therefor.

(b) Such funds shall be provided upon approval by the department of an application submitted by a regional council. The application shall contain such information and be in such form as the commissioner shall require pursuant to rules and regulations which he shall promulgate after consultation with the state council in order to effect the purposes and provisions of this subdivision.

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

City did not have capacity to bring declaratory judgment action to challenge the Department of Health's interpretation of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3008(7) and seek a declaration that it did not need to submit to a determination of public need from a regional emergency medical services council (REMSCO) pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5), 3005(6), 3008(1) prior to the renewal of its certification for ambulance services because the city could only appeal from a final determination as to public need for ambulance services administratively and then challenge by commencing a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3002(3). City of Utica v Daines, 53 A.D.3d 922, 862 N.Y.S.2d 173, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6164 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Although a regional council did not adhere to the Department of Health's policy to provide prompt written notification regarding a decision on a volunteer ambulance service's application under N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5) and 3008(1), such writing was not required by § 3008(4) and (5); further, a timely appeal was measured from the time of the actual decision. Matter of Richmondville Volunteer Emergency Squad, Inc. v New York State Dept. of Health, 107 A.D.3d 1098, 966 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3989 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 22 N.Y.3d 854, 977 N.Y.S.2d 183, 999 N.E.2d 548, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 2945 (N.Y. 2013).

As a volunteer ambulance service's administrative appeal to a state council of the Department of Health from a decision of the regional council, denying its application under N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5) and 3008(1), was not filed within 30 days of the actual decision, the determination of untimeliness was not arbitrary and capricious; the service's petition for review under N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 was properly dismissed. Matter of Richmondville Volunteer Emergency Squad, Inc. v New York State Dept. of Health, 107 A.D.3d 1098, 966 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. Article 30 of the Public Health Law applies to an emergency rescue squad whose members are volunteer firemen that transport sick, disabled or injured persons to or from facilities providing hospital services. A fire department rescue squad providing volunteer ambulance service is required to obtain an ambulance service statement of registration pursuant to section 3004 of the Public Health Law. A fire department rescue squad is not required to obtain an ambulance service certificate pursuant to section 3006 of the Public Health Law. Volunteer firemen who render emergency medical assistance are protected by section 205-b of the General Municipal Law, which relieves volunteer firemen engaged in the performance of duty from civil liability except for willful negligence or malfeasance. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen May 13 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. § 3005. Ambulance service certificates

1. No ambulance service operating for profit, hospital ambulance service or municipal ambulance service of a city of over one million population shall operate on or after September first, nineteen hundred seventy-five unless it possesses a valid ambulance service certificate issued pursuant to this article. Effective January first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, no ambulance service shall be operated unless it possesses a valid ambulance service operating certificate issued pursuant to this article or has been issued a statement of registration. No advanced life support first response service shall operate unless it possesses a valid advanced life support first responder service operating certificate. Effective January first, two thousand, no ambulance service shall be operated unless it possesses a valid operating certificate.

2. The department shall issue an initial certificate to an ambulance service certified prior to the effective date of this section upon submission of proof that it is the holder of a valid ambulance service certificate and is otherwise in compliance with provisions of section three thousand nine of this article.

2-a. Prior to January first, two thousand, the department shall issue an initial certificate to a registered ambulance service in possession of a valid registration provided that such service has been issued an exemption issued by a regional council pursuant to subdivision five-a of section three thousand three of this article.

3. The department shall issue an initial certificate to an advanced life support first response service upon submission of proof that such advanced life support first response service is staffed and equipped in accordance with rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this article and is otherwise in compliance with provisions of section three thousand nine of this article.

4. A certificate issued to an ambulance service or advanced life support first response service shall be valid for two years. The initial certification fee shall be one hundred dollars. Thereafter the biennial fee shall be in accordance with the schedule of fees established by the commissioner pursuant to this article. However, there shall be no initial or renewal certification fee required of a voluntary ambulance service or voluntary advanced life support first response service.

5. No initial certificate (except initial certificates issued pursuant to subdivision two of this section) shall be issued unless the commissioner finds that the proposed operator or operators are competent and fit to operate the service and that the ambulance service or advanced life support first response service is staffed and equipped in accordance with rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this article.

6. No ambulance service or advanced life support first response service shall begin operation without prior approval of the appropriate regional council, or if there is no appropriate regional council established such ambulance service or advanced life support first response service shall apply for approval from the state council as to the public need for the establishment of additional ambulance service or advanced life support first response service, pursuant to section three thousand eight of this article.

7. Applications for a certificate shall be made by the owner of an ambulance service or advanced life support first response service operating for profit or the responsible official of a voluntary ambulance service or advanced life support first response service upon forms provided by the department. The application shall state the name and address of the owner and such other information as the department may require pursuant to rules and regulations.

8. For purposes of this article, competent means that any proposed operator of any ambulance service or advanced life support first response service who is already or had been within the last ten years an incorporator, director, sponsor, principal stockholder, or operator of any ambulance service, hospital, private proprietary home for adults, residence for adults, or non-profit home for the aged or blind which has been issued an operating certificate by the state department of social services, or a halfway house, hostel, or other residential facility or institution for the care, custody, or treatment of the mentally disabled subject to the approval by the department of mental hygiene, or any invalid coach service subject to approval by the department of transportation, is rendering or did render a substantially consistent high level of care. For purposes of this subdivision, the state emergency medical services council shall adopt rules and regulations, subject to the approval of the commissioner, to establish the criteria to be used to define substantially consistent high level of care with respect to ambulance services, advanced life support first response services, and invalid coaches, except that the commissioner may not find that a consistently high level of care has been rendered where there have been violations of the state EMS code, or other applicable rules and regulations, that (i) threatened to directly affect the health, safety, or welfare of any patient, and (ii) were recurrent or were not promptly corrected. For purposes of this article, the rules adopted by the state hospital review and planning council with respect to subdivision three of section twenty-eight hundred one-a of this chapter shall apply to other types of operators. Fit means that the operator or proposed operator (a) has not been convicted of a crime or pleaded nolo contendere to a felony charge involving murder, manslaughter, assault, sexual abuse, theft, robbery, fraud, embezzlement, drug abuse, or sale of drugs and (b) is not or was not subject to a state or federal administrative order relating to fraud or embezzlement, unless the commissioner finds that such conviction or such order does not demonstrate a present risk or danger to patients or the public.

Notes to Decisions

1. In general

In Article 78 proceeding, court would reduce, from $6,750 to $2,000, civil penalty imposed on petitioner by Department of Health for violation of CLS Pub Health § 3005 in accordance with parties' stipulation whereby department agreed to limit penalty if petitioner admitted to underlying facts since (1) evidence that department's attorney stated on record that "the department would be willing to so stipulate" established that stipulation was made, (2) department's attorney was authorized to agree to limitation of penalty pursuant to 10 NYCRR § 51.10(a), (3) petitioner relied on stipulation, and (4) department benefitted from stipulation. Able Medical Transp., Inc. v Axelrod, 139 A.D.2d 921, 527 N.Y.S.2d 911, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4266 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Ambulance company lacked standing to challenge, in Article 78 proceeding, state health department's issuance of ambulance service certificate allowing another ambulance company to operate in same county where (1) legislative intent in enacting CLS Pub Health Art 30 was to protect public, not to shield ambulances services from competition, and thus company's claimed competitive injury was not within zone of interest protected by Article 30, and (2) company could not claim that its injury fell within zone of interest protected by any constitutional guarantee, because it had not proved that health department violated any such guarantee. Lasalle Ambulance v New York State Dep't of Health, 245 A.D.2d 724, 665 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12962 (N.Y. County resident, who was also member of local volunteer ambulance corp, lacked standing to maintain Article 78 proceeding challenging health department's amendment of respondent's ambulance service certificate to include entire county on basis that spreading existing call volume among additional providers, without first undertaking public need inquiry, would have adverse impact on services provided for county residents and would ultimately undermine availability of ambulances within county, as such conclusory allegations were insufficient to show injury different in kind or degree from that suffered by public at large.

Parkland Ambulance Serv., Inc. v State Dep't of Health, 261 A.D.2d 770, 689 N.Y.S.2d 769, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5329 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 818, 697 N.Y.S.2d 566, 719 N.E.2d 927, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2988 (N.Y. 1999).

City did not have capacity to bring declaratory judgment action to challenge the Department of Health's interpretation of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3008(7) and seek a declaration that it did not need to submit to a determination of public need from a regional emergency medical services council (REMSCO) pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5), 3005(6), 3008(1) prior to the renewal of its certification for ambulance services because the city could only appeal from a final determination as to public need for ambulance services administratively and then challenge by commencing a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3002(3). City of Utica v Daines, 53 A.D.3d 922, 862 N.Y.S.2d 173, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6164 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

If bill is for ambulance services, transportation company that has entered into subcontracting agreement with another transportation company to provide services to no-fault claimants may, if it has obtained valid assignment of benefits from no-fault claimants and if sub-contractor is properly registered or certified to provide such services (or is exempted from such requirements), bill no-fault insurer for such service that has been performed by sub-contractor for no-fault claimants, but not if bill is for other reasonable and necessary expenses; while no-fault claimant has right to be reimbursed for such expenses, he or she cannot assign such right to reimbursement to person who has not performed health services. N.Y. Ins. Dep't Gen. Counsel Op. No. 00-05-03, 2000 91.

Under CLS Ins §§ 3216(h)(24), 3221(l)(15) and 4303(aa), ambulance company issued certificate to operate under CLS Pub Health § 3005 may not bill patient directly for prehospital emergency ambulance services where New York authorized insurer or HMO has made partial payment of bill under insurance contract that provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage; however, if such contract is not involved, these provisions do not apply and there is no prohibition in Insurance Law against ambulance company billing patient directly for balance of bill. N.Y. Ins. Dep't Gen. Counsel Op. No. 06-06-02, 2006 113.

Medical provider, such as ambulance company issued certificate to operate under CLS Pub Health § 3005, may bill patient directly for prehospital emergency ambulance services where New York authorized insurer or health maintenance organization has denied payment entirely, subject to remedies available to patient. At least one member shall be a physician, and the others shall be nurses, or emergency medical technicians, or advanced emergency medical technicians, or other appropriately qualified allied health personnel. The quality improvement committee shall have the following responsibilities:

(a) to review the care rendered by the service, as documented in prehospital care reports and other materials. The committee shall have the authority to use such information to review and to recommend to the governing body changes in administrative policies and procedures, as may be necessary, and shall notify the governing body of significant deficiencies;

(b) to periodically review the credentials and performance of all persons providing emergency medical care on behalf of the service;

(c) to periodically review information concerning compliance with standard of care procedures and protocols, grievances filed with the service by patients or their families, and the occurrence of incidents injurious or potentially injurious to patients. A quality improvement program shall also include participation in the department's prehospital care reporting system and the provision of continuing education programs to address areas in which compliance with procedures and protocols is most deficient and to inform personnel of changes in procedures and protocols. Continuing education programs may be provided by the service itself or by other organizations; and

(d) to present data to the regional medical advisory committee and to participate in system-wide evaluation.

2. The information required to be collected and maintained, including information from the prehospital care reporting system which identifies an individual, shall be kept confidential and shall not be released except to the department or pursuant to section three thousand four-a of this article.

3. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, none of the records, documentation, or committee actions or records required pursuant to this section shall be subject to disclosure under article six of the public officers law or article thirty-one of the civil practice law and rules, except as hereinafter provided or as provided in any other provision of law. No person in attendance at a meeting of any such committee shall be required to testify as to what transpired thereat. The prohibition related to disclosure of testimony shall not apply to the statements made by any person in attendance at such a meeting who is a party to an action or proceeding the subject of which was reviewed at the meeting. The prohibition of disclosure of information from the prehospital care reporting system shall not apply to information which does not identify a particular ambulance service or individual.

4. Any person who in good faith and without malice provides information to further the purpose of this section or who, in good faith and without malice, participates on the quality improvement committee shall not be subject to any action for civil damages or other relief as a result of such activity.

Agency Opinions

1. In general

Article 30 of the Public Health Law applies to an emergency rescue squad whose members are volunteer firemen that transport sick, disabled or injured persons to or from facilities providing hospital services. A fire department rescue squad providing volunteer ambulance service is required to obtain an ambulance service statement of registration pursuant to section 3004 of the Public Health Law. A fire department rescue squad is not required to obtain an ambulance service certificate pursuant to section 3006 of the Public Health Law. Volunteer firemen who render emergency medical assistance are protected by section 205-b of the General Municipal Law, which relieves volunteer firemen engaged in the performance of duty from civil liability except for willful negligence or malfeasance. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen May 13 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. 1. Upon such filing, such municipal advanced life support first responder service or municipal ambulance service shall be deemed to have satisfied any and all requirements for determination of public need for the establishment of additional emergency medical services pursuant to this article for a period of two years following the date of such filing. Nothing in this article shall be deemed to exclude the municipal advanced life support first responder service or municipal ambulance service authorized to be established and operated pursuant to this article from complying with any other requirement or provision of this article or any other applicable provision of law.

(b) In the case of an application for certification pursuant to this subdivision, for a municipal advanced life support or municipal ambulance service, to serve the area within the municipality, where the proposed service meets or exceeds the appropriate training, staffing and equipment standards, there shall be a strong presumption in favor of approving the application. 1. In general

Although a regional council did not adhere to the Department of Health's policy to provide prompt written notification regarding a decision on a volunteer ambulance service's application under N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5) and 3008(1), such writing was not required by § 3008(4) and (5); further, a timely appeal was measured from the time of the actual decision. Matter of Richmondville Volunteer Emergency Squad, Inc. v New York State Dept. of Health, 107 A.D.3d 1098, 966 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3989 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 22 N.Y.3d 854, 977 N.Y.S.2d 183, 999 N.E.2d 548, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 2945 (N.Y. 2013).

New York State Emergency Medical Services Council failed to adhere to the statutory framework established by Public Health Law article 30, neglected to follow the Department of Health's interpretation thereof and, most notably, failed to actually afford petitioner city's application the strong presumption of approval to which it was entitled per Public Health Law § 3008(7)(b). Matter of City of Utica v Daines, 95 A.D.3d 1467, 944 N.Y.S.2d 361, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3684 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012), rev'd, 21 N.Y.3d 878, 965 N.Y.S.2d 777, 988 N.E.2d 513, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 582 (N.Y. 2013).

2. Standing

Ambulance company lacked standing to challenge, in Article 78 proceeding, state health department's issuance of ambulance service certificate allowing another ambulance company to operate in same county where (1) legislative intent in enacting CLS Pub Health Art 30 was to protect public, not to shield ambulances services from competition, and thus company's claimed competitive injury was not within zone of interest protected by Article 30, and (2) company could not claim that its injury fell within zone of interest protected by any constitutional guarantee, because it had not proved that health department violated any such guarantee. Lasalle Ambulance v New York State Dep't of Health, 245 A.D.2d 724, 665 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12962 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 810, 670 N.Y.S.2d 404, 693 N.E.2d 751, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 893 (N.Y. 1998).

3. Jurisdiction

Long line of precedent clearly limited the scope of permissible inquiries by a bankruptcy court into matters related to an exercise of police power; any proceeding addressing whether the ambulance operating authority could be reinstated would have involved a matter of vital concern affecting the public health, safety and welfare, N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3000. The bankruptcy court, accordingly, lacked jurisdiction to adjudicate this issue. In re Cabrini Med. Ctr., 440 B.R. 54, 2010 Bankr. LEXIS 1222 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2010).

4. Declaratory judgment

City did not have capacity to bring declaratory judgment action to challenge the Department of Health's interpretation of N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3008(7) and seek a declaration that it did not need to submit to a determination of public need from a regional emergency medical services council (REMSCO) pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5), 3005(6), 3008(1) prior to the renewal of its certification for ambulance services because the city could only appeal from a final determination as to public need for ambulance services administratively and then challenge by commencing a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding under N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3002(3). City of Utica v Daines, 53 A.D.3d 922, 862 N.Y.S.2d 173, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6164 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

5. Appeals

As a volunteer ambulance service's administrative appeal to a state council of the Department of Health from a decision of the regional council, denying its application under N.Y. Pub. Health Law §§ 3003(5) and 3008(1), was not filed within 30 days of the actual decision, the determination of untimeliness was not arbitrary and capricious; the service's petition for review under N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 was properly dismissed. Matter of Richmondville Volunteer Emergency Squad, Inc. v New York State Dept. of Health, 107 A.D.3d 1098, 966 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3989 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 22 N.Y.3d 854, 977 N.Y.S.2d 183, 999 N.E.2d 548, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 2945 (N.Y. 2013).

§ 3010. Area of operation; transfers

1. Every ambulance service certificate or statement of registration issued under this article shall specify the primary territory within which the ambulance service shall be permitted to operate. An ambulance service shall receive patients only within the primary territory specified on its ambulance service certificate or statement of registration, except: (a) when receiving a patient which it initially transported to a facility or location outside its primary territory; (b) as required for the fulfillment of a mutual aid agreement authorized by the regional council; (c) upon express approval of the department and the appropriate regional emergency medical services council for a maximum of sixty days if necessary to meet an emergency need; provided that in order to continue such operation beyond the sixty day maximum period necessary to meet an emergency need, the ambulance service must satisfy the requirements of this article, regarding determination of public need and specification of the primary territory on the ambulance service certificate or statement of registration; or (d) an ambulance service or advanced life support first response service organization formed to serve the need for the provision of emergency medical services in accordance with the religious convictions of a religious denomination may serve such needs in an area adjacent to such primary territory and, while responding to a call for such service, the needs of other residents of such area at the emergency scene. Any ambulance service seeking to operate in more than one region shall make application to each appropriate regional council. Whenever an application is made simultaneously to more than one regional council, the applications submitted to the regional councils shall be identical, or copies of each application shall be submitted to all the regional councils involved.

2. No ambulance service certificate shall be transferable unless the regional council and the department reviews and approves the transfer as follows:

a. Any change in the individual who is the sole proprietor of an ambulance service shall only be approved upon a determination that the proposed new operator is competent and fit to operate the service.

b. Any change in a partnership which is the owner of an ambulance service shall be approved based upon a determination that the new partner or partners are competent and fit to operate the service. The remaining partners shall not be subject to a character and fitness review.

c. Any transfer, assignment or other disposition of ten percent or more of the stock or voting rights thereunder of a corporation which is the owner of an ambulance service, or any transfer, assignment or other disposition of the stock or voting rights thereunder of such a corporation which results in the ownership or control of ten percent or more of the stock or voting rights thereunder by any person, shall be approved based upon a determination that the new stockholder or stockholder proposing to obtain ten percent or more of the stock or voting rights thereunder of such corporation is competent and fit to operate the service. The remaining stockholders shall not be subject to a character and fitness review.

d. Any transfer of all or substantially all of the assets of a corporation which owns or operates a certified ambulance service shall be approved based upon a determination that the individual, partnership, or corporation proposing to obtain all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation is competent and fit to operate the service.

e. Any transfer affected in the absence of the review and approval required by this section shall be null and void and the certificate of such ambulance service shall be subject to revocation or suspension.

3. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prohibit any voluntary ambulance service authorized by its governing authority to do so from transporting any sick or injured resident of its primary territory from any general hospital or other health care facility licensed by the department, whether or not such general hospital or health care facility is within the service's primary territory, to any other general hospital or health care facility licensed by the department for further care, or to such resident's home. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prohibit any proprietary ambulance service authorized by its governing body to do so from transporting any sick or injured patient from any general hospital or other health care facility licensed by the department whether or not such general hospital or health care facility is within the service's primary territory, to any other general hospital or health care facility licensed by the department within the service's primary territory for further care, or to such patient's home, if such patient's home is within its primary territory. Any ambulance service owned by or under contract to a general hospital licensed by the department may transport any specialty patient from any other general hospital or health care facility licensed by the department to the hospital owning such ambulance service, or with which it has a contract. Categories of specialty patients shall be defined by rule by the state emergency medical services council, subject to the approval of the commissioner.

4. No ambulance service certificate of an ambulance service which has discontinued operations for a continuous period in excess of thirty days shall be transferable without the approval of the appropriate regional council.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Standing
3. Jurisdiction
4. Transfer of assets

1. In general

Public Health Law § 3010 is merely a control measure which enables appropriate regional services council to be aware of various emergency medical units within region so that it may perform its responsibility of coordinating emergency medical services more efficiently; section does not limit ambulance service solely to area specified in statement of registration. Evidence did not support determination of Department of Health that ambulance service violated CLS Pub Health § 3010(1) by operating outside of its usual territory as specified in its registration, even though department's "enforcement guideline" restricted operation of services to territory specified in registration. Mohawk Valley Ambulance Corps., Inc. v New York State Dep't of Health, 164 A.D.2d 968, 559 N.Y.S.2d 414 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990), app. denied, 77 N.Y.2d 801, 566 N.Y.S.2d 586, 567 N.E.2d 980, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 44 (N.Y. 1991).

2. Standing

Neither competing ambulance service nor its individual employees had standing to bring Article 78 proceeding to challenge Department of Health's transfer of ambulance certificates where sole allegation of harm was competitive injury. Troy Ambulance Serv. v New York State Dep't of Health, 260 A.D.2d 715, 687 N.Y.S.2d 493, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3289 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

3. Jurisdiction

Long line of precedent clearly limited the scope of permissible inquiries by a bankruptcy court into matters related to an exercise of police power; any proceeding addressing whether the ambulance operating authority could be reinstated would have involved a matter of vital concern affecting the public health, safety and welfare, N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 3000. The bankruptcy court, accordingly, lacked jurisdiction to adjudicate this issue. In re Cabrini Med. Ctr., 440 B.R. 54, 2010 Bankr. LEXIS 1222 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2010).

4. Transfer of assets

Applicability of CLS Pub Health § 3010(2)(b) does not require transfer of corporate ownership but instead expressly refers to transfer of "all or substantially all" corporate assets. Schenectady Ambulance & Oxygen Serv. v New York State Dep't of Health, 267 A.D.2d 846, 700 N.Y.S.2d 762, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13583 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

§ 3011. Powers and duties of the department and the commissioner

1. The department may inquire into the operation of ambulance services and advanced life support first response services and conduct periodic inspections of facilities, communication services, vehicles, methods, procedures, materials, staff and equipment. It may also evaluate data received from ambulance services and advanced life support first response services.

2. The department may require ambulance services and advanced life support first response services to submit periodic reports of calls received, services performed and such other information as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article.

3. The commissioner, with the advice and consent of the state council, shall designate not more than eighteen geographic areas within the state wherein a regional emergency medical services council shall be established. In making the determination of a geographic area, the commissioner shall take into consideration the presence of ambulance services, hospital facilities, existing emergency medical services committees, trained health personnel, health planning agencies and communication and transportation facilities; and shall establish separate regional emergency medical services councils for the counties of Nassau and Westchester. The commissioner shall promote and encourage the establishment of a regional emergency medical services council in each of said designated areas.

3-a. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of this article:

a. The creation of any regional council or emergency medical services program agency on or after January first, two thousand shall not diminish any then existing funding appropriated after the effective date of this subdivision to regional councils or emergency medical services program agencies;

b. Subject to the provisions of paragraph c of this subdivision, funding for regional councils and emergency medical services program agencies existing on or after January first, two thousand shall be increased in proportion to any funding appropriated therefor by the department and in such proportion as determined by the department;

c. Funding for any regional council or emergency medical services program agency created on or after January first, two thousand shall be in addition to any funds appropriated on the effective date of this subdivision for regional councils or emergency medical services program agencies existing on January first, two thousand. Funding for any regional council or emergency medical services program agency created after January first, two thousand shall be in an amount at least equal to the minimum funding level appropriated to regional councils or emergency medical services program agencies existing on such date, or in an amount equal to the proportion that such new regional council or emergency medical services program agency represented on the basis of population in its former regional council or emergency medical services program agency, whichever is larger.

4. The commissioner may propose rules and regulations and amendments thereto for consideration by the state council. The commissioner shall establish a schedule of certification fees for ambulance services and advanced life support first response services other than voluntary ambulance services and voluntary advanced life support first response services.

5. For the purpose of promoting the public health, safety and welfare the commissioner is hereby authorized and empowered to contract with voluntary ambulance services and municipal ambulance services, or with the fire commissioners of fire districts operating voluntary ambulance services, upon such terms and conditions as he shall deem appropriate and within amounts made available therefor, for reimbursement of the necessary and incidental costs incurred by such ambulance services in order to effectuate the provisions of this article.

6. The commissioner is hereby authorized, for the purposes of effectuating the provisions of this article in the development of a statewide emergency medical service system, to contract with any ambulance service or with the fire commissioners of fire districts operating certified voluntary ambulance services for the use of necessary equipment upon such terms and conditions as the commissioner shall deem appropriate.

7. The commissioner may recommend to the state council minimum qualifications for certified first responders (which shall not exceed fifty-one hours), emergency medical technicians and advanced emergency medical technicians in all phases of emergency medical technology including but not limited to, communications, first aid, equipment, maintenance, emergency techniques and procedures, patient management and knowledge of procedures and equipment for emergency medical care.

8. The commissioner shall provide every certified ambulance service and advanced life support first response service with an official insignia which may be attached to every vehicle owned or operated by a certified ambulance service or advanced life support first response service.

9. The department shall provide the state council with such assistance as the council may request in order to carry out its responsibilities as set forth in subdivision two-a of section three thousand two of this article.

10. The commissioner is hereby authorized and empowered to extend the certification for emergency medical technicians, advanced emergency medical technicians or certified first responders who have been ordered to active military duty, other than for training, on or after the eleventh day of September, two thousand one and whose certification will expire during their military duty or within the six months immediately following separation from military service. The extended certification shall be for the period of military duty and for twelve months after they have been released from active military duty.

11. The commissioner, with the advice and consent of the state council, shall promulgate rules and regulations necessary to ensure compliance with the provisions of subdivision two of section sixty-seven hundred thirteen of the education law.

Laws 2003, ch 106, §§ 1 and 1-a, eff July 1, 2003, provide as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The legislature recognizes that the individuals who are members of the military make a tremendous sacrifice, especially in times like these when our military personnel are in many locations throughout the world and here in New York fighting against terrorism. This sacrifice is just as real for the men and women who comprise our reserve armed forces and state organized militia. For those who are not full-time active duty in the military, but instead are called to active duty as a member of the reserve armed forces or state organized militia, the rest of their lives must be put on hold to accommodate that service. However, such military personnel continue to be responsible for their own well-being and the well-being of their families and they must still face the obligations that exist in their everyday lives. Steps have been taken to ease some of the burdens that these brave men and women encounter, to allow them to focus their full energy on defending our country; however, the legislature recognizes that more must be done to ensure that military personnel engaged in active duty are not troubled by their obligations at home. In addition, the legislature recognizes that members of the military should not be discriminated against based upon their military status in areas such as housing, employment and education.

§ 1-a. Short title. This act shall be known as the "Patriot Plan".

Notes to Decisions

1. Hearing

In Article 78 proceeding to review determination that petitioner operated improperly equipped ambulance, court erred in ordering Commissioner of Health to conduct hearing as to whether petitioner violated any rules concerning operation of invalid coach, since Legislature had divested health commissioner of jurisdiction over invalid coach services (L 1981, ch 252). § 3012. Enforcement

1. Any ambulance service or advanced life support first response service certificate issued pursuant to section three thousand five of this article may be revoked, suspended, limited or annulled by the department upon proof that the operator or certificate holder or one or more enrolled members or one or more persons in his employ:

(a) has been guilty of misrepresentation in obtaining the certificate or in the operation of the ambulance service or advanced life support first response service; or

(b) has not been competent in the operation of the service or has shown inability to provide adequate ambulance services or advanced life support first response service; or

(c) has failed to pay the biennial certification fee as required except in the case of any voluntary ambulance service or voluntary advanced life support first response service; or

(d) has failed to file any report required by the provisions of this article or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder; or

(e) has violated or aided and abetted in the violation of any provision of this article, the rules and regulations promulgated or continued thereunder, or the state sanitary code; or

(f) had discontinued operations for a period in excess of one month; or

(g) a voluntary ambulance service or voluntary advanced life support first response service has failed to meet the minimum staffing standard and has not been issued an exemption, except that such certificate shall not be suspended or revoked unless the commissioner finds that an adequate alternative service exists. The commissioner shall consider the recommendation of the regional emergency medical services council in making a finding; or

(h) an ambulance service operating for profit has failed to meet the minimum staffing standard; or

(i) has been convicted of a crime or pleaded nolo contendere to a felony charge involving murder, manslaughter, assault, sexual abuse, theft, robbery, fraud, embezzlement, drug abuse, or sale of drugs, unless the commissioner finds that such conviction does not demonstrate a present risk or danger to patients or the public; or

(j) is or was subject to a state or federal administrative order relating to fraud or embezzlement, unless the commissioner finds that such order does not demonstrate a present risk or danger to patients or the public.

2. Proceedings under this section may be initiated by any person, corporation, association, or public officer, or by the department by the filing of written charges with the department. Whenever the department seeks revocation or suspension of a certificate of an ambulance service or an advanced life support first response service, a copy of the charges shall be referred to the appropriate regional council for review and recommendation to the department prior to a hearing. Such recommendation shall include a determination as to whether the public need would be served by a revocation, suspension, annulment or limitation. If there is no appropriate regional council established, the state council shall make such determination and present to the department its recommendations.

3. No certificate shall be revoked, suspended, limited or annulled without a hearing. However, a certificate may be temporarily suspended without a hearing and without the approval of the appropriate regional council or state council for a period not in excess of thirty days upon notice to the certificate holder following a finding by the department that the public health, safety or welfare is in imminent danger.

4. The commissioner shall fix a time and place for the hearing. A copy of the charges and the recommendations of the appropriate regional council or state council together with the notice of the time and place of the hearing, shall be mailed to the certificate holder by registered or certified mail, at the address specified on the certificate, at least fifteen days before the date fixed for the hearing. The appropriate regional council may be a party to such hearing. The certificate holder may file with the department, not less than five days prior to the hearing, a written answer to the charges.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Penalties

1. In general

Supreme Court erred in annulling determination by Commissioner of Health that vehicle used to transport nursing home patient to hospital was improperly equipped ambulance where vehicle was marked as ambulance, registered as ambulance, bore ambulance license plates, and was inspected as ambulance; although petitioner contended that he was operating vehicle as invalid coach, he produced no evidence showing that Transportation Department inspectors had approved of vehicle for that purpose as required by 17 NYCRR § 720.2. Commissioner of Public Health had rational basis to conclude that failure to transport unresponsive patient to hospital, on single occasion, demonstrated petitioner's inability to provide adequate ambulance service and sustained finding that it violated CLS Pub Health § 3012(1). 2. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to relieve any such voluntary ambulance service or voluntary advanced life support first response service from liability for damages or injuries or death caused by an act or omission on the part of any person other than a certified first responder, an emergency medical technician, advanced emergency medical technician or person acting under the direction of an emergency medical technician or advanced emergency medical technician acting in behalf of the voluntary ambulance service or voluntary advanced life support first response service.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Summary judgment
3. Affirmative defenses

1. In general

Action against volunteer ambulance squad for injuries allegedly sustained by plaintiff while he was being transported from site of accident to hospital emergency room was properly dismissed at close of plaintiff's case, since no reasonable view of evidence would support conclusion that ambulance squad or its employees were grossly negligent, and thus they were immune from liability for medical services rendered to plaintiff. Kapinos v Alvarado, 143 A.D.2d 332, 532 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9183 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Wife of deceased heart attack victim must show gross negligence by medics to recover from U.S., where medics who responded to emergency call at military academy were on duty for Army and received Army pay, and U.S. did not charge a fee or earn profit from such emergency medical services, because medics are shielded from liability for ordinary negligence pursuant to NY Pub Health Law § 3013 since military is under no duty to provide emergency relief to civilians on its property. Clarken v United States, 791 F. Supp. 1029, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15124 (D.N.J. 1992).

2. Summary judgment

Volunteer rescue squad was entitled to summary judgment on wrongful death claim where one of deceased's drinking companions called squad because deceased was shaking, shivering, vomiting and having seizure-like fits when drinking party arrived at one member's home, deceased appeared healthy and refused treatment when squad arrived, police arrived and excused rescue squad, police determined that deceased was not disabled and left him in care of his companions, and companions left deceased in stalled car at side of road where he died of exposure. Rider v Gaslight Tavern Corp., 125 A.D.2d 144, 512 N.Y.S.2d 553, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 40753 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Individual defendants' motion for summary judgment should have been granted where they established a prima facie entitlement to summary judgment by demonstrating that they were not grossly negligent in rendering medical assistance to the decedent. Estate of Klinger v Corona Cmty. Ambulance Corps., 301 A.D.2d 495, 753 N.Y.S.2d 126, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 218 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

3. Affirmative defenses

In action for negligence, inter alia, it was error to deny motion by ambulance company to amend its answer to assert 2 affirmative defenses under provisions of CLS Pub Health § 3013 exempting voluntary ambulance services from liability for ordinary negligence, since plaintiffs were not prejudiced or surprised by amendment and, notwithstanding that ambulance company billed plaintiffs for its services, proposed affirmative defenses were not clearly and patently insufficient on their face. Hopper v Hise, 131 A.D.2d 814, 517 N.Y.S.2d 178, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48259 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Agency Opinions

1. In general

Article 30 of the Public Health Law applies to an emergency rescue squad whose members are volunteer firemen that transport sick, disabled or injured persons to or from facilities providing hospital services. A fire department rescue squad providing volunteer ambulance service is required to obtain an ambulance service statement of registration pursuant to section 3004 of the Public Health Law. A fire department rescue squad is not required to obtain an ambulance service certificate pursuant to section 3006 of the Public Health Law. Volunteer firemen who render emergency medical assistance are protected by section 205-b of the General Municipal Law, which relieves volunteer firemen engaged in the performance of duty from civil liability except for willful negligence or malfeasance. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen May 13 (Informal), 1975 N.Y. AG LEXIS 120.

The immunity provisions contained in General Municipal Law §§ 205-b, 209-b and Public Health Law §§ 3000 through 3016 (Art 30) may both apply to a volunteer fireman, and in the event of suit, both should be pleaded as separate, affirmative defenses unless it is clear that only one applies. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 6 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 186.

A certified emergency medical technician, whether or not a member of a squad, has immunity when rendering medical assistance in an emergency to a person who is unconscious, ill or injured anywhere within the State. The immunity granted a voluntary ambulance service in Public Health Law § 3013, subdivision 1, does not apply to a squad. The liability or immunity of the squad, as such, is derived from and through the fire department or company of which it is a part. For this purpose, a squad is not a legal entity and the question is irrelevant. All members of duly organized volunteer fire companies, as well as members of squads, have immunity when transporting patients under emergency conditions and, if general ambulance service has been authorized, they also have immunity for transporting non-emergency patients. An emergency medical technician who is not a member of a squad has immunity under Public Health Law § 3013 only for acts in rendering emergency medical assistance to a person who is unconscious, ill or injured. However, if, during the course of transportation of a sick, disabled or injured person under conditions which are not an emergency, that person's condition develops into or reverts to an emergency condition, the technician would receive immunity for the acts done relating to the emergency condition. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 6 (Informal), 1976 N.Y. AG LEXIS 186.

It is the purpose of this article to promote the public health, safety and welfare by providing for development and maintenance of systems for emergency medical, trauma, and disaster care, and for expeditious transfer of patients in need of such care to facilities appropriately staffed and equipped to provide this care in a timely and effective manner.

HISTORY:

§ 3071. Declaration of purpose

Sudden illness and injury in children within the state of New York are responsible for five percent of all ambulance calls in children under ten years of age, ten percent of all ambulance calls in children under eighteen years of age, twenty-five percent of emergency department visits in urban areas, and forty percent of emergency department visits in rural areas. More than fifty percent of all such emergencies are caused by traumatic injuries, which alone are responsible for more than half of all childhood deaths within the state of New York regardless of cause. It is the purpose and intent of this article to ensure that such services are immediately available to all children within the state of New York.

HISTORY:

§ 3072. Description

Emergency medical services for children is a system for the immediate recognition and management of sudden illness and injury in children that embraces the continuum of pediatric emergency medical, trauma, and disaster care, from prevention through rehabilitation, and addresses emergency medical dispatch, prehospital emergency care, in-hospital emergency care, and primary, secondary, and tertiary health care, in support of pediatric care provided within the child's medical home. It is not separate from, but fully integrated with, the emergency medical services system at all levels of emergency medical services system organization, in the community, in the region, and in the state.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Project, project costs, and debt limit
3. Status of housing authority
4. Appointment of members of housing authority
5. Status of employees of housing authority
6. Income of tenants, low-cost housing
7. Local appropriations and taxes

1. In general

It is constitutional for the legislature to define such terms as "sanitary dwellings," "persons of low income" and "low rent housing," in general terms, and to leave their application to local authorities. Davidson v Elmira, 44 N.Y.S.2d 302, 180 Misc. 1052, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2433 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 267 A.D. 797, 46 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1943 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6261 (N.Y. App. Div. 1943).

The intention of the legislature as indicated by this and other sections was to place all authority in housing matters for the city of New York in the hands of the board of estimate and city planning commission. Neufeld v O'Dwyer, 79 N.Y.S.2d 53, 192 Misc. 538, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2361 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

2. Project, project costs, and debt limit

The term "project" in the Public Housing Law is to be interpreted broadly. Margulis v Lindsay, 31 N.Y.2d 167, 335 N.Y.S.2d 285, 286 N.E.2d 724, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1130 (N.Y. 1972).

The phrase "facilities . . . incidental or appurtenant to a project" may not be held to exclude in every case and in all circumstances a public school, so that the city may never resort to the 2 per cent housing debt limit in financing its cost. Diehl v O'Dwyer, 84 N.Y.S.2d 109, 193 Misc. 1032, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3514 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

Whether a particular public school is a facility incidental to a housing project, so that its cost may be charged to the special debt limit for housing projects, is a question involving many factual issues and cannot be answered on a motion for summary judgment. Diehl v O'Dwyer, 84 N.Y.S.2d 109, 193 Misc. 1032, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3514 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

Resident of middle-income housing developed under N.Y. Priv. Hous. Fin. Law art. 2 was entitled to disclosure of apartment waiting lists under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87 and 89 by a city housing department. Under N.Y. Pub. Hous. Law § 3(14), the exemptions of N.Y. Pub. Hous. Law § 159 applied only to public housing projects; disclosure would not constitute an unwarranted invasion of privacy because income information was not included in the lists and was not the type of personal information expressly excluded under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(2)(b); and New York City, N.Y., R. tit. 28, § 3-02(h)(10) expressly required that such lists be made available. Matter of Thomas v City of N.Y. Dept. of Hous. Preserv. & Dev., 817 N.Y.S.2d 864, 12 Misc. 3d 547, 235 N.Y.L.J. 81, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 783 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

3. Status of housing authority

The New York City Housing Authority, organized under the Municipal Housing Authorities Law, L 1934, ch 4, comprising §§ 60 to 78 inclusive, is a public corporation and as such is not subject to examination before trial. Smith v Citizens Sav. Bank, 2 N.Y.S.2d 213, 166 Misc. 843, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1271 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1938).

A municipal housing authority is not a public corporation as defined in the general corporation law, and accordingly chapter 694 of the laws of 1945, providing for correction of defects in notices of claims before trial, does not apply to such authorities. Kaufman v New York City Housing Authority, 67 N.Y.S.2d 174, 188 Misc. 877, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3473 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd, 272 A.D. 829, 70 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3824 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

The Municipal Housing Authority of the City of Utica is not an integral part of the municipal corporation known as the City of Utica, but rather is a public corporation with an independent corporate entity authorized by the legislature to conduct its affairs in the manner prescribed by this chapter, and accordingly a taxpayer's action will not lie against officers acting on behalf of the state, the State Housing Commissioner or the Municipal Housing Authority of the City of Utica, under § 51 of the General Municipal Law. Borek v Golder, 74 N.Y.S.2d 675, 190 Misc. 366, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3299 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

4. Appointment of members of housing authority

In cities having a city manager form of government the city manager is the chief executive officer of the city with power to appoint members of the municipal housing authority. Schlobohm v Municipal Housing Authority, 270 A.D. 1022, 62 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5176 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946), aff'd, 297 N.Y. 911, 79 N.E.2d 742, 297 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 911, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 1003 (N.Y. 1948).

5. Status of employees of housing authority

Although a public housing authority is stated to be an agent or instrumentality of the state under § 2 of the Public Housing Law, and under § 51 of such law may act as agent of the municipality in which it was established, such an authority is not an instrumentality of the state in the sense that its employees may be examined before trial as employees of the state, but is a public corporation having a distinct entity under art 18 § 2 of the Constitution and § 3 sub 2 of the Public Housing Law, as shown by an analysis of various of the sections of the Public Housing Law. Ciulla v State, 77 N.Y.S.2d 545, 191 Misc. 528, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2164 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1948).

6. Income of tenants, low-cost housing

It is not necessary that public housing be designed for the very lowest income group for it to come within the authorization of this section. Neufeld v O'Dwyer, 79 N.Y.S.2d 53, 192 Misc. 538, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2361 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

A proposed housing project which would provide dwellings for families with incomes up to $4,500 per year at a rental of $12.50 per room may be low rent housing within the meaning of this section if persons earning such a sum cannot afford to pay sufficient rent to cause private industry to build enough adequate dwellings to accommodate them. Neufeld v O'Dwyer, 79 N.Y.S.2d 53, 192 Misc. 538, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2361 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

The fact that the rents contemplated in a public housing project are equal to or in excess of those currently charged in privately owned dwellings of similar quality does not prevent such a project from coming within the definition of low-cost housing within the meaning of this section if such rents are too low to cause private enterprise to provide an adequate supply of satisfactory rental units at such rates. Neufeld v O'Dwyer, 79 N.Y.S.2d 53, 192 Misc. 538, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2361 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

It should be noted that the New York Constitution and Public Housing Law refer to "low income" persons as beneficiaries of such projects whereas the Federal Statute refers to persons of "lowest income," thus giving rise to a marked distinction in objective. Chelcy v Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority, 24 Misc. 2d 598, 206 N.Y.S.2d 158, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2300 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Standards of income and rent vary in different communities, in peace and war times, and leaving application of the general definitions in the Public Housing Law to the local authority is constitutional. Chelcy v Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority, 24 Misc. 2d 598, 206 N.Y.S.2d 158, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2300 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

7. Local appropriations and taxes

Municipal Housing Authority was subject to the levy of Westchester County sanitary sewer taxes in view of the fact that the state legislature, in enacting the Westchester County Sanitary Sewer Law specifically made all properties, other than those specifically exempted by the said statute, subject to the sewer tax. New Rochelle Municipal Housing Authority v New Rochelle, 53 Misc. 2d 1059, 280 N.Y.S.2d 604, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1521 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

The town of North Hempstead may turn over to the North Hempstead Housing Authority, in a lump sum, an amount not to exceed $10,000, appropriated by it for such Authority pursuant to Public Authorities Law, section 1275. 1946 Ops St Compt 295.

The provisions of General Construction Law § 41 are applicable to the Rochester Housing Authority. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 27.

2. Project, project costs, and debt limit

By authority of subd 25 of this section, and N. Y. Const., Art. VII, § 12, interest charges during the construction of a housing project may reasonably be included in the project cost and paid out of the proceeds of loans for the said construction period, "but not beyond the point of physical completion." 1940 NY Ops Atty Gen April 2.

In evaluating property included in a state project for the purpose of estimating the amount of the subsidy granted to the municipality in meeting its subsidy obligations pursuant to § 73, by way of tax exemption it is not proper to include offsite property which is ceded to the municipality, although it continues to serve the project purpose and is incidental thereto. The maximum assessment of property "included in a project" (§ 52, subd. 4) by a municipality is measured by the "actual cost of the project" which is construed as synonymous with entire cost of project. 1944 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 11.

3. Status of housing authority

The Municipal Housing Authority of Utica, New York is a public entity. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept. 11 (informal).

Municipal Housing Authorities are public benefit corporations, and as such are required to procure suitable products from qualified and approved charitable non-profit-making agencies for the blind and other severely handicapped whenever such products are available. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 9 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. Suffolk County is not authorized under New York State Law to actively engage in the development or operation of low-income housing and, therefore, may not act as a "public housing agency" under the Federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen May 12.

Municipal housing authorities in New York are subject to Freedom of Information Law since CLS Pub Hous § 3(2) states that municipal housing authorities are public corporations. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12634.

4. Appointment of members of housing authority

A member appointed to a municipal housing authority who is a tenant in a project under a lease entered into with the authority prior to his appointment, with full disclosure by him of such lease given to the authority before his appointment, may continue as a member of the authority and a tenant in the project during the duration of the lease, provided there be no renewal of such lease. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen May 18.

A common law conflict of interest would ensue if the same person at the same time served as an officer or employee and commissioner for a municipal housing authority. Pursuant to Public Housing Law, § 30(5), a tenant of the Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority, who is also an employee of said Authority, may lawfully seek the office of commissioner of said Authority and if successful may become a commissioner upon resigning his position of employment. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 22 (Informal).

5. Status of employees of housing authority

Where the project adviser, clerk and auditor for projects are named and assigned to a project by the commissioner and subject to his directions, they are state employees, despite their salaries being payable by the city housing authority pursuant to a loan contract, but for purposes of workmen's compensation alone they are regarded as employees of the authority. 1941 NY Ops Atty Gen March 29.

A city's contract to furnish municipal services such as fire, police and health protection, etc., is authorized as to all such services by this section and is not illegal or a waste of city money in the sense used in General Municipal Law, § 51. The State is not liable for the negligence of an employee of a city civil service commission in giving a test for the position of policeman. Sofka v State, 115 N.Y.S.2d 421, 202 Misc. 235, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1689 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1952).

The State is not liable for errors of a judicial officer, and hence the State is not liable, following the setting aside of a felony conviction for error of the judge in not informing the defendant of his right to counsel, in damages for the period of imprisonment endured before the conviction was vacated. 2. Who are public officers, generally

The indicia of a public officer, as opposed to an employee, are to be found in the nature of the office, the functions and duties performed, and the tenure of the occupant. Haller v Carlson, 42 A.D.2d 829, 346 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3884 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

3. —Persons holding school or educational positions

Community superintendent of school district was "public officer" since (1) superintendent's position was referred to in both Education Law and in his contract of employment as chief executive officer of community school board and educational system (CLS Educ §§ 2590-f and 2566), (2) although he was employed pursuant to contract, superintendent's position was created, and his powers and duties prescribed, by statute (CLS Educ §§ 2590-e and 2590-f), and (3) superintendent was vested with certain powers which he could exercise without school board's approval. Since members and officers of local boards of education are public officers within the definition of this section, and parents have an obvious interest in the school records of their children, in the absence of statute or regulation to the contrary a parent has the right, as matter of law, to inspect school records concerning his child. Comptroller correctly determined that individuals, who held respective positions of automobile facilities inspector, motor vehicle inspector and motor vehicle license examiner with Department of Motor Vehicles, and senior right-of-way agent with Department of Transportation, were merely public employees and not public officers since (1) there was no showing that their positions were created or their duties and responsibilities were prescribed by statute, (2) there was nothing to suggest that positions were other than administratively created and graded within competitive civil service class by employing state agency and Civil Service Commission under purely permissive general statutory authority, and (3) positions were subordinate in hierarchy of agencies in which they were created and individuals were always subject to direct and immediate supervision of superiors; thus, determination disallowing reimbursement under CLS NY Const Art XIII § 13 for expenses incurred in prosecuting those individuals for bribery was proper and should have been upheld. Myers v County of Orange, 157 F.3d 66, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 21598 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998), cert. denied, 525 U.S. 1146, 119 S. Ct. 1042, 143 L. Ed. 2d 49, 1999 U.S. LEXIS 1130 (U.S. 1999).

N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 2; N.Y. Const. art. 2001 Legislative Program of the New York State Judiciary: There are 61 City Courts outside New York City. These courts exercise limited civil jurisdiction: i.e., hearing causes for monetary damages no greater than $15,000, small claims, landlord and tenant disputes and small commercial claims. They also serve as local criminal courts for their respective communities - trying offenses of misdemeanor grade or less and non-felony traffic offenses, arraigning persons charged with felonies, and issuing orders of protection for family offense victims and search/arrest warrants. Many serve as drug courts. Despite these broad responsibilities, these courts have no uniform structure. Some are large, full-time courts situated in major metropolitan areas; some, in large, essentially suburban communities, have a blend of full-time and part-time judges; and some, in small cities, have but two part-time judges.

Nearly two decades ago, the Legislature put in place a special salary structure for part-time judges of the City Courts. It was designed to provide a fair measure of compensation for the attorneys whose service as judges, while limited, comes at the expense of a sacrifice in their law businesses. Times change, however, and the Legislature has been quick to recognize this. Acknowledging that evolving demographics and crime rates can have major impact upon the workload faced by part-time judges, the Legislature has regularly re-examined the part-time salary structure and made adjustments to it as appropriate. The last such re-examination occurred seven years ago and a further one now is in order. To this end, the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge for the Courts outside New York City empaneled a committee of City Court Judges, along with a representative of the Fund for Modern Courts, to study the workload and demographics of each of the 61 City Courts. The report of this committee recommends a number of changes in the part-time salary structure, including several changes in positions from part-time to full-time. We will submit legislation to implement these recommendations.

I. In General

1. In general

Qualifications for public office may be established by the Legislature so long as these qualifications do not work arbitrary exclusions from office. De Hond v Nyquist, 65 Misc. 2d 526, 318 N.Y.S.2d 650, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1892 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

The Public Officers Law deals primarily with the qualifications of those who shall hold public office in the state of New York, the manner and conditions which should govern their appointment and incidental details involved in the tenure of their office; it does not deal with the machinery whereby such officers shall be nominated and elected. Mark v Van Wart, 68 Misc. 2d 40, 325 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1216 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

The names and pay scales of public employees, both temporary and permanent, are matters of public record and are subject to inspection, but the employees' home addresses do not carry the same prima facie public importance and unless a specific private need is shown for them, they need not be disclosed. Winston v Mangan, 72 Misc. 2d 280, 338 N.Y.S.2d 654, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1297 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

A city has the power to enact local laws that are not inconsistent with the laws of the state in respect to the qualifications of its officers. A city may not adopt local laws inconsistent with the laws of the state. 1955 Ops St Compt 368.

Eligibility and qualifications for holding town office are set forth in Public Officers Law § 3 and Town Law § 23. 1955 Ops St Compt 586.

A town planning board may consist of five or seven members. 1957 Ops St Compt 38.

2. Qualification requirements and grounds for disqualification, generally

Rule which was promulgated by municipal civil service commission to induce young men to undertake police cadet program and which contained statement in capital letters and bold face that "WITHOUT ANY ADDITIONAL WRITTEN EXAMINATION, AUTOMATICALLY BECOME A PROBATIONARY PATROLMAN" was not ambiguous and was such as to entitle petitioners to employment upon their completion of police cadet program. Dougherty v Makowski, 47 A.D.2d 580, 363 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8675 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 36 N.Y.2d 644, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2512 (N.Y. 1975).

Absence of any reference to sex in this section indicates that it was never intended to bar either a man or woman from holding any office simply because of his or her sex. Burton v Schmidt, 218 N.Y.S. 416, 128 Misc. 270, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 778 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1926).

Application for order of mandamus to compel respondent's removal from office of commissioner of records, Kings county, is denied, where proof establishes that respondent was legally appointed, that he has qualifications required by law, that he is efficient officeholder, and that he has fulfilled his duties in capable manner. Pomerantz v Jacoby, 266 N.Y.S. 691, 149 Misc. 99, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1881 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933), aff'd, 241 A.D. 739, 270 N.Y.S. 948, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9303 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

A candidate possessing all the statutory and constitutional qualifications for office is qualified whether or not he be unfit for the office. Fitness is a matter for the elector. Aurelio v Cohen, 44 N.Y.S.2d 145, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2402 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 266 A.D. 603, 44 N.Y.S.2d 11, 1943 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3629 (N.Y. App. Div. 1943).

The mayor of a village was not holding his office illegally because at the time of his nomination to such office and his election thereto he was the owner of a business wherein alcoholic beverages were sold for off-premises consumption. Harrell v Goldin, 124 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2222 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

The fact that a person formerly held the office of village mayor does not disqualify him from appointment to fill a vacancy in such office if he is otherwise qualified and under no disability. 1957 Ops St Compt 214.

There is no authority for an arrangement by three villages for the employment of a single individual as village treasurer. 1960 Ops St Compt File #458.

A resident of the City of Dunkirk, owner of a sporting goods store within the city, may not be appointed deputy town clerk of the town of Dunkirk, for the sole purpose of issuing hunting and fishing licenses. 1960 Ops St Compt File #760.

3. —Health of officer

One who stands adjudicated an insane person cannot hold public office. In re Killeen, 201 N.Y.S. 209, 121 Misc. 482, 1923 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1234 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1923).

4. —Police or fire protection

A volunteer fireman is in "the public service" and a public servant, despite the fact that he receives no salary, in view of the fact that he is entitled to certain statutory benefits and exemptions, and an applicant to membership in a volunteer fire company may not be denied employment solely on racial grounds. Everett v Riverside Hose Co., 261 F. Supp. 463, 1966 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10491 (S.D.N.Y. 1966).

5. —Person holding another office

While there is no incompatibility between the offices of member of a village planning board and member of a town planning board, appointment of members of village planning board to town planning board is not recommended. 1957 Ops St Compt 38.

A village board of trustees may not legally appoint any of its number to membership on a regional planning board. 1968 Ops St Compt File #172.

A city, by the adoption of a local law, may authorize the city attorney to hold the office of acting city court judge. 1956 Ops St Compt 270.

6. —Conviction of crime or other indicia of prior misconduct as disqualification

Person to be nominated under Election Law must be one who, at time of his election, can take and hold his office and it is not contemplated that prison convict, who could not hold office if elected, can be a nominee. Application of Lindgren, 232 N.Y. 59, 133 N.E. 353, 232 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 59, 1921 N.Y. LEXIS 475 (N.Y. 1921).

Removal from office effected by operation of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) results in bar to officeholder's seeking same office for duration of term for which officer had been elected; thus, state senator convicted of federal felony was precluded from seeking election to unexpired term of very office from which he had been removed. Alamo v Strohm, 74 N.Y.2d 801, 545 N.Y.S.2d 689, 544 N.E.2d 608, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2708 (N.Y. 1989).

A person, to hold the office of village treasurer or village clerk, must be qualified as prescribed in Village Law § 42 and Public Officers Law § 3 and must be under no other disability resulting from previous wrongdoing. 1956 Ops St Compt File #7965.

7. Age

Public Officers Law § 3 means that no person shall be capable of holding a civil office who shall not have attained the age of 21 [now 18] years at the time of his appointment to public office or at the time he has been chosen for. Mark v Van Wart, 68 Misc. 2d 40, 325 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1216 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

Where petitioner had been nominated as an independent candidate for the office of councilman but would not meet age requirement of this section the 19th day of January, 1972, it was held that the petitioner, within the time for filing his oath for the office of councilman, would have all of the qualifications required for the office to which he had been nominated and his name should appear upon the ballot. Mark v Van Wart, 68 Misc. 2d 40, 325 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1216 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

Where Education Law, providing in pertinent part that no person was eligible for office of member of board of education who was not qualified voter of city school district and having effect of permitting 18-year-old person to seek such office by virtue of Twenty-Sixth Amendment's enfranchising of 18-year-olds, was in conflict with Public Officers Law, providing that no person could hold civil office without having attained the age of 21 [now 18] years, Education Law, under well established principle of statutory construction that general statute must yield to specific statute when both deal with same general subject matter, being more specific statute, took precedence to permit 18-year-old person to seek office of school board member. Spencer v Board of Education, 69 Misc. 2d 1091, 333 N.Y.S.2d 308, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1827 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 31 N.Y.2d 810, 339 N.Y.S.2d 461, 291 N.E.2d 585, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 976 (N.Y. 1972).

8. Citizenship

A person who is not a citizen of the United States may not be appointed to a village planning board. 1956 Ops St Compt 66.

9. Ownership of property

Trustees of a village public library must be residents of the village but are not required to be the owners of real property. 1956 Ops St Compt 168.

Appointees to a town hospital board of managers need not be property owners in the town. 1960 Ops St Compt File #755.

10. Ineligible persons holding office, de facto officers

The appropriate remedy to remove an incumbent town supervisor exercising the functions of his office under claim and color of right so as to constitute him a de facto officer on the ground of his ineligibility to hold office for lack of residence in the town is an action in the nature of quo warranto and mandamus is not an appropriate remedy. Holzberger v Schoentag, 54 Misc. 2d 547, 283 N.Y.S.2d 92, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1347 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

The acts of de facto public officers are valid and beyond challenge so far as third parties are concerned. Hence, the court would not disturb the election of a borough president in the City of New York upon the ground that a borough commissioner of borough works was not qualified to vote at such election although he had been in office more than six months and performed all the functions thereof. Schick v Impellitteri, 122 N.Y.S.2d 729, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1880 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 282 A.D. 663, 122 N.Y.S.2d 794, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4578 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

An ineligible person appointed to public office may not continue holding the office nor receive the salary for the balance of the term after discovery of the ineligibility. 1967 Ops St Compt File #474.

A person illegally purporting to occupy the office of village clerk-treasurer is not entitled to any reimbursement of expenses incurred in the performance of the duties of such office. 1967 Ops St Compt File #668.

II. Residency

11. In general

City was bound to comply with residence requirements of United States Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 as precondition for eligibility for federal funding. Carritue v Beame, 90 Misc. 2d 504, 395 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 61 A.D.2d 957, 402 N.Y.S.2d 1012, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10556 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1978).

12. State residency

Privileges and immunities clause of United States Constitution did not afford New York City firefighters living outside state "fundamental right" to be employed by city, in face of amendments to CLS Pub O §§ 3 and 30 requiring public officers living outside state to move to one of designated counties within one year of effective date, since public employment is not privilege which "bears upon the vitality of the Nation as a single entity." Winkler v Spinnato, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988), cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1005, 109 S. Ct. 1640, 104 L. Ed. 2d 155, 1989 U.S. LEXIS 1702 (U.S. 1989).

Equal protection clauses of United States and state constitutions did not afford New York City firefighters living outside state "fundamental right" to be employed by city, in face of amendments to CLS Pub O §§ 3 and 30 requiring public officers living outside state to move to one of designated counties within one year of effective date, since firefighters were not suspect class, and state has long-standing interest in requiring its officers to be state residents; moreover, amendments rationally required in-state officers to move to designated counties only if they should move from their current residences in non-designated counties, since such limited accommodation was extended only to those who had already satisfied in-state residency requirement. Winkler v Spinnato, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988), cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1005, 109 S. Ct. 1640, 104 L. Ed. 2d 155, 1989 U.S. LEXIS 1702 (U.S. 1989).

Residency requirements applicable to New York City firefighters, as embodied in CLS Pub O §§ 3(19) and 30(5-a), have rational basis, and thus do not violate equal protection provisions of federal and state constitutions, even though they arbitrarily discriminate against firefighters residing out of state, since state has legitimate economic self-interest in encouraging residency in state; those who reside in New York are more likely to spend money in state, to own New York real estate (and so pay property taxes), and to pay resident state income tax. Winkler v Spinnato, 134 A.D.2d 66, 523 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988).

CLS Pub O §§ 3(19) and 30(5-a), which require New York City firefighters to reside in state, do not violate privileges and immunities clause of U.S. Constitution since state and local employment is not "privilege" which bears on vitality of nation as single entity, and such laws directly implicate state's sovereignty and further state's rightful goal of limiting privilege of public employment to its own citizens. Winkler v Spinnato, 134 A.D.2d 66, 523 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988).

Submission by a political party's former nominee of his out-of-state driver's license and lease established his intent to reside outside of New York State, thereby disqualifying him under N.Y. Elec. Law § 6-122 and N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 3(1) for the office he had sought. Therefore, the New York State Board of Elections erred in not accepting the party's certificate of nomination and authorization as to its replacement nominee. Matter of Kryzan v New York State Bd. of Elections, 55 A.D.3d 1217, 865 N.Y.S.2d 793, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8129 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Only requirement imposed by New York State's Election Law is that the candidate be a resident at the time of the election. Accordingly, New York State's statutory provisions do not run afoul of the Qualifications Clause, U.S. Const. art. I, § 2, cl. 2. Matter of Kryzan v New York State Bd. of Elections, 55 A.D.3d 1217, 865 N.Y.S.2d 793, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8129 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

13. Local residency, generally

Local law establishing two-year residency requirement for eligibility to hold certain city offices invidiously discriminates against potential candidates and voters and violates equal protection and due process clauses of Federal and State Constitutions. Phelan v Buffalo, 54 A.D.2d 262, 388 N.Y.S.2d 469, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13765 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

City was not precluded from enacting a local code to adopt N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 3(12), 30(6), which required police officers employed by the city to reside within the city limits, as N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 3(12), 30(6), which regulated all other public officers did not conflict with N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(4)(3), which regulated the residency of police officers. Troy Police Benevolent & Protective Ass'n v City of Troy, 299 A.D.2d 710, 750 N.Y.S.2d 352, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10746 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2002), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 507, 763 N.Y.S.2d 813, 795 N.E.2d 39, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 1693 (N.Y. 2003).

A municipality may require that a candidate for a position be a resident prior to examination. Hanlon v Harrolds, 82 Misc. 2d 839, 371 N.Y.S.2d 223, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2048 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

In proceedings under N.Y. Elec. Law § 16-102, certificates of disqualification filed by a city council member who had been appointed to a state position after accepting the nomination for re-election were valid under N.Y. Elec. Law § 6-148(1) as the member would not be able to satisfy the residency requirements under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 3(1) at the time of the general election as the member had moved to another city to begin his position with the state. Matter of Justice v Gamache, 45 A.D.3d 508, 845 N.Y.S.2d 382, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11131 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

14. —Residency at time of petition or nomination

New York law does not require that candidate for public office be resident of election unit at time designating petition is filed; CLS Elec § 6-122 simply prohibits person from being designated or nominated for public office who cannot meet statutory or constitutional qualifications at "commencement of the term of such office," and CLS Pub O § 3(1) adds that candidates must satisfy residency requirements as of time they are elected. Weidman v Starkweather, 80 N.Y.2d 955, 590 N.Y.S.2d 873, 605 N.E.2d 360, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3477 (N.Y. 1992).

Where at time of nomination candidate was not resident of county, he was not "capable of holding" office within meaning of this section. Brickman v Board of Elections, 248 A.D. 467, 290 N.Y.S. 805, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6172 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

Court erred in determining that appellant did not meet residency requirements of CLS Elec § 6-122 because she was not resident of district to which she sought election, since there is no requirement that candidate be resident of district at time of filing petition, only requirement being that candidate be resident at time of election. Clark v McCoy, 196 A.D.2d 607, 601 N.Y.S.2d 190, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8145 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 653, 602 N.Y.S.2d 802, 622 N.E.2d 303, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3020 (N.Y. 1993).

Where there was no evidence that candidate in designating petitions was a resident of the political subdivision in question, the designating petitions were declared void. Aiello v Power, 9 Misc. 2d 523, 167 N.Y.S.2d 338, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2564 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 4 A.D.2d 833, 166 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4669 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1957).

Individual who is not resident of town may not be nominated as candidate for elective office in that town. 1987 Op St Compt No. 87-32.

15. Application of local residency requirement to particular persons

New York City may not, through Local Law No. 20 of 1978 (Administrative Code of City of New York, §§ B49-4.0–B49-4.2), make a residency requirement for municipal officers and employees applicable to members of its police, fire, correction and sanitation departments, since the law as applicable to these persons is inconsistent with exemptions from municipal residency requirements contained in section 3 (subds 2, 2-a, 9) and section 30 (subds 4, 4-a, 5) of the Public Officers Law, which sections may not be superseded by local law under municipal home rule as they do not relate "to the property, affairs or government" of the city by "special law" (NY Const, art IX, § 2); the provisions of said statutes are not infirm because they may affect less than all cities, since what is required is that the classification be defined by conditions common to the class and related to the subject of the statute, and it has long been recognized that New York City and other large municipal centers might reasonably receive different treatment. Uniformed Firefighters Asso. v New York, 50 N.Y.2d 85, 428 N.Y.S.2d 197, 405 N.E.2d 679, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2271 (N.Y. 1980).

Town did not err in adopting a local law changing the requirements for the position of commissioner of public works because the residency requirements of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 3(11)-(58) and N.Y. Town Law § 23(2)-(24) could be superseded by the local law, and the appointed commissioner was not engaged in or required to practice engineering while holding the position. Matter of Ricket v Mahan, 97 A.D.3d 1062, 949 N.Y.S.2d 272, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5712 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

16. —Building inspectors

Where statute creating position of town building inspector gave him power of general and executive administration of the zoning ordinance and Town Law § 138 gave him power of enforcement of various codes, ordinances, rules and regulations, and his functions and duties directly affected the citizens of the town and involved the exercise of police powers of the political subdivision, position was a public office requiring holder thereof to be resident of town. Haller v Carlson, 42 A.D.2d 829, 346 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3884 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Because an assistant building inspector was a public officer within the meaning of Public Officers Law § 3(1), she was subject to the residency requirement of that statute; nevertheless, the acts of the assistant building inspector were not thereby rendered null and void because the residency requirement of § 3(1) was not jurisdictional in nature, and a city had the authority to prosecute a citizen's violations of the New York State Uniform Fire Prevention and Building Code 19 NYCRR 1219.1 et seq. Matter of Ophardt v Vasquez, 74 A.D.3d 1742, 904 N.Y.S.2d 835, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4958 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 15 N.Y.3d 867, 910 N.Y.S.2d 33, 936 N.E.2d 915, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 2988 (N.Y. 2010).

17. —District attorneys, counsel for political subdivisions, etc.

Corporation counsel, who was "the official legal adviser of the council and all boards and officers of the city," and who, when directed by council, was required to defend all actions by and against city, and such counsel's assistants were not "public officials" within meaning of statutory provision that "no person shall be capable of holding a civil office who shall not, at the time he shall be chosen thereto, be . . . if it be local office, a resident of the . . . municipal corporation"; overruling Thompson v Hofstatter, 265 N.Y. 54, 191 N.E. 772, 265 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 54, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 995 (N.Y. 1934).

Residency requirements of CLS Pub O § 3(1) did not preclude Attorney General from appointing member of his staff as Assistant Attorney General to perform prosecutorial duties under direction of county district attorney in local criminal matter; eligibility features § 3(1) are not jurisdictional in nature. Haggerty v Himelein, 89 N.Y.2d 431, 654 N.Y.S.2d 705, 677 N.E.2d 276, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 102 (N.Y. 1997).

Section 3 of the Public Officers Law was not violated by the fact that a nonresident of the city of Cohoes acted as counsel on behalf of the city in a proceeding by the mayor to remove from his office for malfeasance the Commissioner of Public Works, since the attorney was neither appointed nor elected to office but retained in his professional capacity pursuant to an applicable section of the city charter. Senecal v Cohoes, 27 A.D.2d 773, 277 N.Y.S.2d 51, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4894 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1967).

Reappointment of individual as assistant district attorney for county violated CLS Pub O § 3 because individual had changed his residence to different county prior to reappointment. Brindisi v Donalty, 171 A.D.2d 1039, 579 N.Y.S.2d 614, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6768 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 855, 573 N.Y.S.2d 645, 578 N.E.2d 443, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1287 (N.Y. 1991).

Employment of corporation counsel and his two assistants for a limited term by city was within exception, from municipal code provision, that nonresidents could be temporarily employed for a specific project or undertaking requiring "special skill, technical knowledge or professional ability which in the opinion of the council is not possessed by any resident." Rappel v Roberts, 79 Misc. 2d 201, 359 N.Y.S.2d 133, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1270 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

Assistant district attorney who did not reside in Franklin County was not qualified to assist Franklin County district attorney in criminal proceeding in Franklin County Court, and was removed as Franklin County Assistant District Attorney, where defendant, who resided in Franklin County, objected to his appointment prior to conclusion of criminal proceeding. Mileto v Sleight, 178 Misc. 2d 562, 681 N.Y.S.2d 189, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 514 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998), app. denied, 260 A.D.2d 977, 690 N.Y.S.2d 149, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4419 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

A town may not appoint a non-resident as town attorney where there is an attorney residing in the town. 1971 Ops St Compt File #946.

18. —Firefighters

Requirement that applicants for proposed positions as Model Cities aides for police and firemen be residents of Model Cities violated constitutional and statutory requirements with respect to police and firemen. Maye v Lindsay, 33 N.Y.2d 552, 347 N.Y.S.2d 439, 301 N.E.2d 425, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1137 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 414 U.S. 1069, 94 S. Ct. 579, 38 L. Ed. 2d 474, 1973 U.S. LEXIS 4065 (U.S. 1973).

In Article 78 proceeding by candidates on then-current eligible list for appointment to firefighter position, cause of action alleging that respondents intended to appoint candidates from subsequent eligible list prior to expiration of current list, in violation of Civil Service Law, was properly dismissed where (1) no appointments had yet been made at time proceeding was commenced and claim consisted of wholly speculative assertion of anticipated illegal action, and (2) such claim became moot when petitioners' list expired without any intervening appointments from subsequent list. Altamore v Barrios-Paoli, 90 N.Y.2d 378, 660 N.Y.S.2d 834, 683 N.E.2d 740, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1369 (N.Y. 1997).

There was no need for judicial declaration that New York City firefighters whose families resided out of state could nevertheless establish in-state residence necessary to retain employment under CLS Pub O §§ 3 and 30 where fire department officials had not taken contrary position and had not established irrebuttable presumption that firefighter's residence was same as that of his family, and thus there was no genuine dispute between parties. Winkler v Spinnato, 134 A.D.2d 66, 523 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988).

A requirement that an appointee to a city fire department be a resident of the city violates Public Officers Law section providing that any law, ordinance or regulation requiring a person to be resident of political subdivision or municipal corporation within which his official functions are exercised does not apply to an appointment to a paid fire department of a city, or fire district if person resides in county in which political subdivision is located. Hanlon v Harrolds, 82 Misc. 2d 839, 371 N.Y.S.2d 223, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2048 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

A person who actually resides outside a fire district may not, by merely declaring himself a resident, qualify himself for election as a commissioner. 1955 Ops St Compt 584.

Because a fire surgeon is an employee of a city, and not an officer, the Public Officers Law does not require the incumbent of that position to be a resident of such city. 1967 Ops St Compt File #407.

19. — —Paid fighters

Provision of Public Officers Law allowing paid member of uniformed force of paid fire department to reside in specified areas outside political subdivision in which he performs his function was enacted for benefit of municipalities so that they would not encounter difficulties in recruiting firemen and had no relevancy to, and would not be allowed to thwart, rehiring under the United States Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 of those firemen who resided in city in satisfaction of residency requirements imposed under Act; grant of federal funding under Act to fiscally troubled city was made on temporary basis to provide "conditional employment" in areas of substantial unemployment within entire political subdivision, such as city, and was not intended to deal with problems in less affected suburban communities. Carritue v Beame, 90 Misc. 2d 504, 395 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 61 A.D.2d 957, 402 N.Y.S.2d 1012, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10556 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1978).

Paid firemen of a fire district may live outside the county in which the fire district is located and may live outside the state. 1967 Ops St Compt File #701.

A paid fireman in a fire district is not a public officer and may, therefore, reside outside the State of New York. 1970 Ops St Compt File #73.

A municipality may not require a paid fireman to reside within the city as a condition of appointment or retention, but it may require him to live within the county or counties in which the city is located. A city may impose reasonable residence qualifications applicable to employment and continuation in employment provided that such requirements are not inconsistent with any general law. 1983 Op St Comp File #83-118.

20. — —Residency credits

In Article 78 proceeding alleging that respondents violated CLS Pub O §§ 3(9) and 30(5) and constitutional requirements for civil service appointments (CLS NY Const Art V § 6) by letting prior eligible list for firefighter position expire for purpose of favoring New York City residents who would receive 5-point residency credit on subsequent firefighter examination, candidates on prior eligible list were not aggrieved by application of residency credit and thus lacked standing to seek to enjoin its use, where no residency credit was applied to their examination, they did not allege that they sat for subsequent examination, and they did not allege that all appointments could not lawfully be fulfilled from subsequent list unless residency credit was dropped as factor in determining that list. Altamore v Barrios-Paoli, 90 N.Y.2d 378, 660 N.Y.S.2d 834, 683 N.E.2d 740, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1369 (N.Y. 1997).

CLS Pub O §§ 3(9) and 30(5), which permit firefighters and certain other New York City employees to reside in nearby counties notwithstanding existence of other applicable statutory or regulatory local residency requirements, do not necessarily invalidate 5-point residency credit added to scores of qualifying New York City residents; thus, personnel director's motive in letting current eligible list expire in order to appoint from more recent eligible list reflecting residency credit did not, in and of itself, establish contrariness or bad faith, and therefore did not establish clear legal right to relief sought, as is required for mandamus to lie. Altamore v Barrios-Paoli, 90 N.Y.2d 378, 660 N.Y.S.2d 834, 683 N.E.2d 740, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1369 (N.Y. 1997).

State Constitution's merit and fitness standard for civil service was not violated by firefighters examination scoring credit for New York City residency, which, after calculating written and physical examination scores, simply added additional factor to various qualifications deemed pertinent, including economic and public safety benefits; further, credit did not violate CLS Pub O § 3(9) nor veteran's preference of CLS Civ S § 85. McGuinn v City of New York, 248 A.D.2d 282, 670 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3214 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

21. —Highways, streets and water officers

City of Ithaca cannot use its home rule authority to extend residency requirement established for members of Ithaca Housing Authority board by CLS Pub Hous § 429. 2011 NY Ops Atty Gen 2011-01 (Informal), N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2011-1, 2011 N.Y. AG LEXIS 2.

A village street commissioner must be a resident of the village as a qualification to the holding of his office, unless the board of trustees provides that he may reside within a town in which the village is wholly or partially situated. 1968 Ops St Compt File #197.

22. —Housing and urban renewal officers

General manager of a housing project is a public officer and required to reside within the municipality for which the project is established. 1954 Ops St Compt 142.

No requirement of village residency applies to executive director, administrative assistant or attorney of village urban renewal agency. 1965 Ops St Compt File #558.

Members of urban renewal agency are public officers and required to be residents of municipality for which such agency is established. 1966 Ops St Compt File #18.

23. —Judges and court personnel

Candidates who have passed state civil service examination for "supreme court stenographer, first and second judicial districts," in order to be entitled to appointment in Kings county, must be residents of that county. Hammond v Rice, 239 A.D. 539, 267 N.Y.S. 534, 1933 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8089 (N.Y. App. Div. 1933).

Court attendants in city of N.Y. are within provisions of this section, notwithstanding repeal of Greater N. Y. Charter, § 1394. People ex rel. Distler v McGuire, 125 N.Y.S. 90, 68 Misc. 516, 1910 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 465 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1910).

A nonresident of a town may not be appointed as clerk to a justice of the peace of the town. 1964 Ops St Compt #496.

24. —Members of local governing or legislative bodies

It was improper to invalidate petition designating resident of both town and incorporated village within town as candidate for town superintendent of highways since candidate met one of alternative requirements of CLS Pub O § 3(1) for civil office eligibility in that he was resident of political subdivision or municipal corporation for which he would be chosen, and although village charter barred village residents from voting for office of town superintendent of highways, it did not prohibit village resident from seeking such office. Bates v D'Apice, 153 A.D.2d 714, 544 N.Y.S.2d 881, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11057 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In the absence of any contrary statute, candidate for New York City councilman position was obliged to reside in the district from which he sought election during year in which councilmanic districts were reapportioned. Rudiano v Mattera, 73 Misc. 2d 983, 344 N.Y.S.2d 669, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1949 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, Verdi v Mattera, 41 A.D.2d 945, 343 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4454 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Where the politician was purchasing a house in the legislative district approximately a month and a half before the election, the politician was to satisfy the public office residency requirements of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 3 and N.Y. Elec. Law § 6-122. Campbell v Tunny, 196 Misc. 2d 860, 764 N.Y.S.2d 163, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 985 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003).

Because an incumbent's action to invalidate a candidate's designating petition was untimely under N.Y. Elec. Law § 16-102(2), and as the candidate's residency was valid under N.Y. Village Law § 3-300(2), N.Y. Elec. Law § 6-122, and N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 3(1), the incumbent was not entitled to the relief sought. De Caprio v Rockland County Bd. of Elections, 931 N.Y.S.2d 468, 33 Misc. 3d 217, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3913 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011).

Town board members may live within or outside a village. 1946 Ops St Compt 48.

A non-resident may not hold the office of town councilman. 1956 Ops St Compt 279.

A mayor or member of a board of trustees of a village must reside in the village and a village board cannot provide that a holder of either of these offices may reside outside of the village. 1967 Ops St Compt File #817.

25. —Planning and zoning board members

Representatives on regional planning board of municipalities are not "public officers" under subdivision 1 of Public Officers Law § 3, and there is no requirement (under subdivision (b) of General Municipal Law § 239) that each municipality involved should select a separate representative or that the representative need be a resident of the municipality selecting him, and there is no inference under paragraph 9 of subdivision (d) of General Municipal Law § 239 that regional planning board is exercising sovereign power. Lowell v Browner, 47 Misc. 2d 729, 263 N.Y.S.2d 93, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2190 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

City's charter, rather than CLS Gen City § 81, governs with respect to terms of office of zoning board of appeals members and date on which their terms commence. 2012 NY Ops Atty Gen 2012-02 (Informal), 2012 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2012-2, 2012 N.Y. AG LEXIS 2.

A "summer resident" and property owner in a village who votes in another municipality may not be appointed a member of the village board of zoning appeals. 1960 Ops St Compt File #610.

A resident of a village may serve on the planning board of a town in which the village is situate. 1968 Ops St Compt File #819.

26. —Police

Town board properly terminated policeman under a resolution, adopted pursuant to Public Officers Law § 30, subd 4, requiring that all town policemen reside in town, where evidence showed that policeman spent some time at his parents' in-town home, but spent most of his off-duty hours at the out-of-town residence of his wife and children. Contento v Kohinke, 42 A.D.2d 1025, 348 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3331 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

A patrolman of the New York City Housing Authority Police Department is a member of the police force of any "municipal corporation of the state" within the meaning of the Public Officers Law §§ 3, 30. Maye v Lindsay, 69 Misc. 2d 276, 330 N.Y.S.2d 14, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2133 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972), vacated, 41 A.D.2d 127, 341 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4941 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

Section 822 of the New York City Charter, which provides that all New York City employees who are or become nonresidents of the City of New York shall agree to pay to the city an amount equal to the New York City resident income tax less any city earnings or personal income tax imposed on them during the same taxable period, is a valid condition of city employment and does not constitute a de facto residency requirement as it is common knowledge that a large percentage of New York City employees reside out of the City of New York; consequently, the statute, in and of itself, is not inconsistent with subdivision 4 of section 30 of the Public Officers Law which prohibits certain municipalities from removing a police officer from his office on the grounds of nonresidency, nor is it inconsistent with subdivision 2 of section 3 of the Public Officers Law which prohibits a municipality from denying certain nonresidents appointment to its police force. Watts v McGuire, 102 Misc. 2d 711, 424 N.Y.S.2d 327, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979), aff'd, 81 A.D.2d

The apparent intent of a local law adopted by the City of Kingston was to require all members of the police force to reside in the city and non-compliance with or any violation of such law by a prospective appointee or member would prohibit an appointment to the force or would create a vacancy in the office. The law, however, needs to be clarified and is in conflict with the provisions of a certain statute and an examination announcement. 1968 Ops St Compt File #615.

27. — —Members of forces of less than 200

A village may pass a local residency law for members of the police department as long as the force does not consist of more than 200 full time members and the law does not apply to persons appointed prior to July 1, 1961 who then resided in the county or a contiguous county and continue to reside there. 1961 Ops St Compt #628.

A city may not limit application for appointment to its police force to residents of the city, but it may, if it has a police force of less than 200 full-time members, require those members appointed to the force after July 1, 1961, to become residents. 1963 Ops St Compt #223.

A village with a police force of less than 200 officers may require that its members reside within the village or within the town in which the village is located. 1974 Ops St Compt File #1329.

A city may not establish residency requirements for the appointment of members of a police force if they reside within certain geographic areas outside of the municipality, except that where a police force consists of less than two-hundred members, a municipality may require that the members reside within the municipality or within certain geographic areas. A city may impose reasonable residence qualifications applicable to employment and continuation in employment provided that such requirements are not inconsistent with any general law. 1983 Op St Comp File #83-118.

28. — —Length of residency

Where a city, pursuant to authority granted by this section, amended its charter, so as to permit residents of county to be members of police force of the city, a directive by county civil service commission requiring applicants for promotional examinations to be residents of the city for two years prior to examination, was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and illegal. Giacobbe v Onondaga County Civil Service Com., 21 Misc. 2d 188, 191 N.Y.S.2d 900, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2839 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

29. — —Village police

A person living outside the county may not be appointed as a village policeman even though he had previously, but invalidly, been appointed a deputy sheriff in the county wherein the village was situated. 1954 Ops St Compt 31.

Enactment of a village ordinance requiring local residency for members of its police department is permissible, but applicants for the police force need not be village residents prior to becoming members of the force. 1961 Ops St Compt #628.

In the absence of local legislation to the contrary, village police officers may reside outside of the village and within the geographical areas designated in Public Officers Law, § 30(4). 1974 Ops St Compt File #1329.

30. —Sealers of weights and measures

The sealer of weights and measures of a city is a public officer and must be a resident of the city. 1955 Ops St Compt 368.

31. —Sheriffs and constables

Sheriff's department is not a "police force of the county" for purpose of exemption from residence requirement of public officers law and sheriff may lawfully discipline or remove deputy who violates department rule requiring that deputies be residents of the county. Mazzo v County of Monroe, 58 A.D.2d 1017, 397 N.Y.S.2d 274, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13238 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Requirement that deputy sheriff be resident of county within which his official functions are to be exercised does not violate the equal protection clause. Mazzo v County of Monroe, 58 A.D.2d 1017, 397 N.Y.S.2d 274, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13238 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In an Article 78 proceeding seeking reinstatement of deputy sheriffs who were dismissed for failure to comply with the requirement that they reside in the county in which they held office, the deputy sheriffs were properly dismissed where they were not exempt from the residency requirements as were the members of the police force. Myles v Phillips, 87 A.D.2d 614, 448 N.Y.S.2d 31, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15916 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 692, 454 N.Y.S.2d 536, 440 N.E.2d 536, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3620 (N.Y. 1982).

A sheriff and his deputies must be residents of the county for which they were elected or appointed. People ex rel. Andrus v Board of Auditors, 37 N.Y.S. 633, 16 Misc. 92, 1896 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 131 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1896).

An appointee to the office of town constable must be a resident of the town in which he is appointed. 1967 Ops St Compt File #778.

32. —Town and village clerks

Village clerk must reside within village. State Comptroller has no authority to waive this provision of law. 1945 Ops St Compt 18.

35. —Treasurers, budget officers, etc.

A town board may not supersede by local law the statutory residency requirement for a town comptroller. 1985 Op St Compt No. 85-16.

36. Effect of change of residence

Where a provisional appointee to the position of assistant building inspector was not a resident of or elector in the town on the date of his appointment, and thus the town board acted improperly in appointing him to probationary status, the appointee became a permanent appointee on probationary status at the time he notified the town board by letter that he had become a town resident and stated an address which he declared to be his legal residence, and he could no longer be removed at will; thus, the termination of the appointee on the grounds of improper residency was ineffective. Winkler v Moore, 110 Misc. 2d 785, 442 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3160 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

A person who moves outside the village may not continue to hold the office of village police judge. 1954 Ops St Compt 15.

An immediate vacancy in the office of town constable occurs automatically when the incumbent ceases to be a resident of the town. 1967 Ops St Compt File #778.

Where a town clerk ceases to be a resident of the town, a vacancy occurs which may be filled by the town board. 1971 Ops St Compt File #992.

37. —Proof of change

Evidence in proceedings to invalidate candidacy of Democratic candidate for primary election was insufficient to show that he abandoned permanently and irrevocably his residence in the ward. Tucker v Donohue, 28 A.D.2d 739, 280 N.Y.S.2d 628, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3933 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 20

Unless it is proven that a duly elected town assessor has actually ceased to be a resident of the town, his office may not be declared vacant and his salary may not be discontinued. 1969 Ops St Compt File #579.

The County of Niagara is not authorized to enact a charter provision that, in the event of a vacancy, created other than by expiration of term, in the offices of County Legislator or elected County Executive, either of such offices could be filled by the County Legislature through the appointment of a qualified elector having the same political affiliation as the person last selected for such office. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug. 5.

Town may enact local law providing broader residency requirement for positions of superintendent of highways and deputy superintendent of highways. 2000 NY Ops Atty Gen I 00-5.

Members of town board of assessment review are appointed town officials and subject to provisions of both the Public Officers Law and Town Law. Proceeding pursuant to Article 78 of the CPLR is proper procedure by which to review qualifications of members of such board, where there are no questions of fact and no ambiguities in statutory law invoked. In any other circumstance, proper action would be one in the nature of quo warranto brought by attorney general. 7 Op Counsel SBEA No. 104 (1981, October 9).

2. Qualification requirements and grounds for disqualification, generally

3. —Health of officer

The town board may not require an elected town superintendent of highways to have a medical examination as a condition of holding office, and the town board may not require the town superintendent of highways to have a medical examination as a condition of operating town highway equipment. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen April 15.

4. —Police or fire protection

The Undersheriff of Tioga County who was in office on December 31, 1974, remains in office until the new Sheriff assuming office on January 1, 1975 has appointed, pursuant to County Law, § 652, a qualified person to become the new Undersheriff, and until such qualified person takes and files the required oath of office. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen March 12.

Members of the County Fire Safety Advisory Board are public officers who must comply with statutory requirements for holding public office. 1983 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 10 (Informal).

5. —Person holding another office

The Executive Director of the Batavia Housing Authority is a local officer within the purview of Public Officers Law § 2 and since his position is of a full-time nature he is disqualified from employment as a pari-mutuel clerk under the provisions of Pari-Mutuel Law § 63. 1969 NY Ops Atty Gen July 7.

The same person simultaneously may hold the two elective public offices of town superintendent of highways and commissioner of a fire district organized and operating under authority of Town Law Article 11. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 9 (informal).

It is against public policy for an appointing board to appoint one of its own members to a public office. 1983 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 10 (Informal).

New York State Commission on Uniform State Laws, which was established to promote uniformity of law among states, is "a public office or trust" as defined in CLS NY Const Art VI § 20(b) as it effectively serves as arm or instrument of other "public offices" in legislative branch, and its accountability to legislative branch implicates policy interest underlying § 20(b)'s restriction, barring certain judges from holding other such positions (namely, to conserve judges' time to perform their work, and to preserve separation of powers). 2002 NY Ops Atty Gen F 02-F2.

Positions of deputy supervisor and confidential secretary to town supervisor are incompatible, since, when exercising duties of deputy supervisor, such individual will be in direct supervisory role with respect to confidential secretary. 2006 NY Ops Atty Gen I 06-3.

6. —Conviction of crime or other indicia of prior misconduct as disqualification

A person convicted of a federal offense upon which sentence has been suspended is not barred from subsequently holding public office. 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen 96 (informal).

It would appear that a person with the part-time position of administrative aide to the town budget officer is an employee rather than an officer and therefore is exempt from the requirements of being an elector or resident of the town in which he has that position. 1978 Op St Compt File #427.

Discussion of training and background requirements for being appointed as public fiscal officer. 1978 Op St Compt File #596.

A town may not appoint a corporation to be its assessor. The Public Officers Law § 3(1) which refers to age and residency in qualifications for holding a public office, clearly describes a human being and not a corporation. (1990) 9 Op Counsel SBEA No 37.

Although there is no specific constitutional or statutory requirement that the Attorney General be an attorney at law, in view of his broad powers and duties as the chief legal officer of the State it is an implicit necessity that he be qualified as an attorney. 1950 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov. 22.

7. Age

Members of the County Youth Board are not public officers as described in Public Officers Law and, therefore, youths under the age of 21 [now 18] may be appointed to that Board. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb. 11 (informal).

Chapter 868 of the Laws of 1972, which amended Public Officers Law, § 3, by lowering the minimum age for holding public office in this State from 21 to 18, authorizes the appointment of notaries public at age 18. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen July 10.

An appointee to fill a vacancy in the office of town clerk and an appointee to fill a vacancy in the office of town justice must run for election to fill the unexpired portions of the terms. The fact that the appointees had previously been elected to and served in those offices has no relevancy to the question of whether an election must be held. An 18 year old who is otherwise qualified may be appointed to the office of deputy town clerk. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen July 27 (informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 118.

Special enrollments are effective immediately and such an enrollee, if otherwise qualified, may be appointed an inspector of election. Eighteen year old enrollees may hold this office. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen June 18 (informal).

The city of Ithaca cannot use its home rule authority to extend the residency requirement established for members of the Ithaca Housing Authority board by Public Housing Law § 429. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 2011-1, 2011 N.Y. AG LEXIS 2.

II. Residency

11. In general

Term "resident" is synonymous with "domicile." 1922 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 60.

Residence qualifications for holding village office are construed to mean domicile. A person may have several residences in the normal sense of the word but only one domicile. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug. 7.

Only a court can determine domicile. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 3.

Residency requirement of CLS Pub Off L § 3 is rendered "special" law only to extent of exception created by state legislature for particular office; however, local governments may not establish residency requirement that is broader than exception created by legislature. NY Ops Atty Gen 89-14 (Informal).

12. State residency

There is no precise statutory requirement that every state employee be a resident of the state although public officers and certain employees in the competitive class of civil service must be such residents. The establishment of a residence in this state requires no definite period of time. 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen 53 (informal).

N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 89-F4.

13. Local residency, generally

Residence requirements applicable to members of the authority; such members are public officers and, as their function is limited in geographic area, local officers; so, consequently, they must reside in the specific locality, namely, the City of Rome. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen July 25.

A local law may not modify the residency qualification contained in Public Officers Law, § 3. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan. 7.

Qualifications of officers and employees include residence. A city, by local law, may impose reasonable residence qualifications applicable to employment and continuation in employment of municipal employees but a local law requiring present employees living outside of the city to move into the city in order to continue to qualify to be city employees could well be construed by the Courts to be an improper exercise of the home rule power. The foregoing opinion does not apply to certain particular employments if the residence qualifications therefor are prescribed by a general state statute. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 23 (informal).

The term "political subdivision" as used in the Public Officers Law means the area from which an officer is selected and in the case of an elective officer, the area in which the people who elect him reside. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

15. —Building inspectors

Village Building Inspector is an employee, not an officer, of the village and Public Officers Law § 3 and Village Law § 4–404(2), as they relate to residence of village officers, do not apply unless the board of trustees has made such position a village office, pursuant to authority of Village Law § 4406(2[f]). 1968 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan. 5.

For a person to hold at the same time the several offices of Town Engineer and Town Zoning and Building Inspector that person must be a "resident" of the town and an "elector" of the town. To hold the offices of Town Zoning and Building Inspector he would have to be a "resident" of the town. To hold the office of Town Engineer he would have to be a "resident" of the town and an "elector" of the town, unless there is no "resident" engineer in the town. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 7.

A town may enact a local law authorizing its building inspector to reside anywhere in the county in which the town is located. 1991 NY Ops Atty Gen I 91-37.

Village building inspector is public officer, and thus must reside in village; board of trustees may, however, enact resolution to authorize building inspector to reside anywhere in county within which village is wholly or partially located. 1995 NY Ops Atty Gen I 95-40.

A town may employ a law firm as an independent contractor for the purpose of conducting prosecutions in the town justice court. The members of such law firm need not be residents of the town. To the extent that prior opinions are inconsistent, they are superseded (12 Opns St Comp, 1956, p 51; 2 Opns St Comp, 1946, p 470). 1980 Op St Compt File #379.

19. —Firefighters

20. — —Paid fighters

It is believed a paid city fireman is a public officer. 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen 47 (informal).

Paid firemen of paid fire departments are public employees and not public officers; their residence qualifications are determined on that basis. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug. 20.

In a fire district functioning under the provisions of Article 11 of the Town Law (§§ 170 through 189), a paid fireman is not a public officer unless some overt act has occurred or a positive step has been taken to convert the department from a voluntary to a professional department: such a paid fireman is an employee of the fire district. The board of commissioners of a fire district have no authority to impose residency restrictions upon employees. The state or local civil service commissions may require applicants for employment to live in a restricted area but can not control residence after appointment and such restrictions do not apply to promotional positions; however, the board of commissioners of the fire district may require that eligibles for appointment (as distinguished from promotion) who are residents of the fire district, be certified first. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb. 27.

CLS Pub O § 3(9) does not pertain to paid members of uniformed force of paid fire department of City of Syracuse; thus, such members are governed by CLS Pub O § 3(4) and must reside within Onondaga County. 2007 NY Ops Atty Gen I 07-10.

An elected commissioner of Sanitary District No. 2 in the Town of Hempstead in the County of Nassau is a public officer of a political subdivision and not of a municipality; such a commissioner must be a resident of the sanitary district at the time of election; and if the sanitary district commissioner moves from that district to a new residence outside of the district, even though in the same town, the office becomes vacant under Public Officers Law § 30 subdivision 1 paragraph d. The provision of Public Officers Law § 30 subdivision 4-a, by its own terms, is confined in its operation to members of the department of sanitation of a municipality so it is not applicable to an officer of this political subdivision. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

Officers and employees of a municipal department of sanitation who reside in a county contiguous to such municipality may not be required to reside within the municipality. 1980 Op St Compt File #11.

1. In general

Where assistant attorney-general alleged that his position was improperly classified as "exempt" under CLS Civ S § 41(1)(b) and that his dismissal violated hold-over provisions of CLS Pub O § 5, court held petitioner had no right of entitlement in the position, and thus no holdover status under § 5, which protects an appointee after expiration of "the term for which he shall have been chosen;" letter of appointment made clear that petitioner would hold his position at the pleasure of the Attorney-General, and specifically provided that the appointment was "terminable by me at will." Mayor is not required to go through formality of appointing successor in order to obtain judicial declaration as to whether office is vacant, and as long as declaratory judgment action is limited to resolving question of law it is appropriate alternative to Article 78 proceeding and does not thwart policies underlying restriction of remedy of quo warranto to actions brought by attorney general. La Polla v De Salvatore, 112 A.D.2d 6, 490 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50634 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

The purpose of this section is to insure a continuance of government where a vacancy occurs by expiration of term and there is a failure of election or appointment, and it applies whenever the office vacated can be identified with a particular incumbent, but not if the office vacated cannot be identified, even though those still in office try to effect the same result by all but one resigning. Foley v McNab, 42 Misc. 2d 460, 248 N.Y.S.2d 354, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2072 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

2. What officers hold over

School board members whose appointive terms expired December 31st pursuant to New York Constitution Article 13 § 3 were permitted to remain in office under provisions of Public Officers

Law § 5. Roher v Dinkins, 32 N.Y.2d 180, 344 N.Y.S.2d 841, 298 N.E.2d 37, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1360 (N.Y. 1973).

Petitioner had no right of entitlement in his position as assistant attorney general, and thus no holdover status under CLS Pub O § 5, where he was appointed by former Attorney-General, and his letter of appointment made clear that he would hold his position at pleasure of Attorney-General and that appointment was "terminable by me at will." Herman v Vacco, 234 A.D.2d 76, 650 N.Y.S.2d 232, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12379 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. dismissed, 89 N.Y.2d 1024, 658 N.Y.S.2d 239, 680 N.E.2d 612, 1997 N.Y. Until his successor was appointed and had qualified, relator would hold over as Commissioner of Elections and be entitled to discharge duties of office and receive its emoluments. People ex rel. Woods v Flynn, 142 N.Y.S. 230, 81 Misc. 279, 1913 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 960 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1913).

This section is broad enough to cover temporary as well as permanent state officers and accordingly permits members of the State Temporary Commission of Investigation to hold over after expiration of their terms in the absence of appointment of successors. In re Calise, 40 Misc. 2d 867, 243 N.Y.S.2d 802, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1511 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 19 A.D.2d 947, 245 N.Y.S.2d 312, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1963).

Since a reviewing court is guided by the principle that the construction of a statute by those charged with its execution should be followed unless there are compelling indications that it is clearly wrong, the court will not disregard the construction of section 5 of the Public Officers Law by prior Mayors of New York City, which interpretation included city marshals in the group of public officers who continue in office after the expiration of their terms until a successor is chosen and qualified, and will not, therefore, make a finding which would, in effect, declare all actions taken by marshals whose terms had expired to be without legal authority, since section 5 of the Public Officers Law is the only statute setting forth a legal basis for a public officer to hold over. Moses v Koch, 97 Misc. 2d 243, 411 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2778 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), aff'd, 67 A.D.2d 862, 413 N.Y.S.2d 404, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10589 (N.Y. Deputy commissioner of public welfare appointed by former commissioner holds over in office until successor is appointed and qualifies. 1953 Ops St Compt 109.

3. —County officers

County attorney is not public officer under this section and does not hold over after expiration of term. People ex rel. Dawson v Knox, 231 A.D. 490, 247 N.Y.S. 731, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16084 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931), aff'd, 267 N.Y. 565, 196 N.E. 582, 267 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 565, 1935 N.Y. LEXIS 1295 (N.Y. 1935).

Where county hospital superintendent was appointed by county executive during executive's first elected term but not reappointed after commencement of executive's new term of office following reelection, subsequent termination of superintendent's employment by written notice without pretermination hearing did not violate sections of county charter and county administrative code providing that such officer shall not be removed from office without hearing prior to end of term for which he was appointed; after last day of term for which he was appointed, hospital superintendent was "hold-over" in office, and his office was deemed vacant for purpose of choosing his successor, and he could be removed at the will of the appointing authority. Ause v Regan, 59 A.D.2d 317, 399 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13569 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

County hospital superintendent, who was appointed by county executive during executive's first elected term but not reappointed after commencement of county executive's new term of office following reelection, was occupying his position only as holdover and thus did not have sufficient expectancy of continued employment to constitute protected property interest, within due process guarantee. Ause v Regan, 59 A.D.2d 317, 399 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13569 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In the light of the history of the County Law, a county attorney is a public officer within the meaning of this section and holds over until his successor has been appointed. Des Pres v Niagara County Board of Supervisors, 37 Misc. 2d 1087, 236 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2342 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

4. —Judicial officers

Housing Court judges may hold over after expiration of their 5-year terms, even though amendments to CLS NYC Civil Ct Act § 110 changed references to "hearing officers" of Housing Part to "hearing judges," and judicial officers may not hold over under CLS Pub O § 5, since hearing officers were previously not prohibited from holding over after their terms expired, and amendments to Civil Court Act were enacted only to change title of "officers" to "judges" to improve stature and effectiveness of court, not to confer any additional jurisdiction, powers or benefits on Housing Part judges. Met Council v Crosson, 84 N.Y.2d 328, 618 N.Y.S.2d 617, 642 N.E.2d 1073, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 3386 (N.Y. 1994).

Although public officers may hold over and continue to discharge duties of their office after expiration of their term until successor is chosen, such provision does not apply to judicial officers since their term is prescribed by the legislature and fixed at four official years. Etelson v Jacaruso, 80 Misc. 2d 685, 364 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2238 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 47 A.D.2d 715, 366 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13136 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

5. —Municipal and town officers and boards

An employee of the municipal court of the city of New York legally appointed for a fixed term to an office in the exempt class may legally hold over at the expiration of his term as provided for in this section notwithstanding that prior to the expiration of the term the position had been transferred to the competitive class. Sanford v Finegan, 276 N.Y. 70, 11 N.E.2d 356, 276 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 70, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 1033 (N.Y. 1937).

In an Article 78 proceeding to compel reinstatement of petitioner to the position of town engineer, it was error for the trial court to award petitioner salary for one year while at the same time finding that he had no right to reinstatement as a permanent civil service employee; petitioner served at the will of the respondents pursuant to Pub O § 5, without the protections accorded by Civ S Law § 75, where he was appointed pursuant to Town Law §§ 20, 24 for the term of years prescribed therein, and where he was not reappointed when his initial term expired. Berg v Gerber, 78 A.D.2d 888, 433 N.Y.S.2d 42, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13619 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1980), aff'd, 54 N.Y.2d 854, 444 N.Y.S.2d 66, 428 N.E.2d 398, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3053 (N.Y. 1981).

Although the Mayor of New York City is authorized, but not required, to appoint successors to city marshals whose terms have expired (CCA, § 1601), the Mayor does not have the power to terminate the office of a marshal whose term has expired, since city marshals are public officers, each occupying a separate and distinct office which can only be abolished by the Legislature, and hold over in office until a successor is chosen and qualified (Public Officers Law, § 5). Accordingly, notices sent by the Mayor to marshals whose terms of office had expired, purporting to terminate those offices, are null and void. Moses v Koch, 97 Misc. 2d 243, 411 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2778 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), aff'd, 67 A.D.2d 862, 413 N.Y.S.2d 404, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10589 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1979).

6. — —Planning and zoning boards

7. — —Town or village attorneys

Petitioner was entitled to mandamus compelling town board to recognize him as holdover town attorney and to pay him salary and benefits until his successor was appointed, despite absence of statutory mandate to have town attorney, since petitioner had been appointed town attorney and thus was public officer who continued to hold office until appointment of his successor, as provided in CLS Pub O § 5. Riester v Reilly, 138 Misc. 2d 68, 524 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 14 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

8. Basis or reason for holding over

Where ineligible candidate had been appointed to fill unexpired term and was pretending to hold office at time of election, office was without incumbent at time of election because of ineligibility and this section providing for holding over does not apply. People ex rel. Stalter v Lynch, 219 A.D. 1, 219 N.Y.S. 52, 1926 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5832 (N.Y. App. Div. 1926), aff'd, 245 N.Y. 534, 157 N.E. 847, 245 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 534, 1927 N.Y. LEXIS 689 (N.Y. 1927).

The court has no authority to determine title to public office by way of a declaratory judgment that the elected successor to the office is not eligible and that the incumbent holds over under § 5 of this law. The rights of the incumbent may be protected by his awaiting an action pursuant to § 80 when the successor attempts to take office. Seavey v Van Hatten, 276 A.D. 260, 94 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3159 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

Appointments to municipal government postions whose terms were to expire on a specific date by a mayor whose term of office was to expire on the same date were valid but only for that portion of the unexpired term; however, the appointed individuals could continue to serve as holdovers pursuant to Pub O § 5 until their offices were appointed in order to prevent a lapse or disruption of essential governmental service. La Polla v De Salvatore, 124 Misc. 2d 788, 477 N.Y.S.2d 248, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3334 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984), modified, 112 A.D.2d 6, 490 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50634 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1985).

Where candidates for membership on school board are elected on at large basis, candidates do not fill specific vacancy and candidates are elected by receiving highest number of votes, there is no method by which it can be determined which vacancy particular candidate was elected to fill and former board member, contending that candidate did not timely file his oath of office, is not entitled to holdover status on basis that she was senior of two retiring members. Re Horne, Op Comr Educ No. 9985.

9. —Failure to hold election or to elect successor

When there is an ineffectual attempt to elect a candidate, the incumbent continues as a holdover under this section. Felice v Swezey, 278 A.D. 958, 105 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5368 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951).

Petitioner is entitled to mandamus in proceeding involving his right to exercise powers of town supervisor, where returns of biennial town meeting resulted in tie vote and no person has been certified as being elected to said office. Petitioner, incumbent of office, must hold over under this section, and is entitled to discharge duties of his office until such time as successor has been appointed or declared elected and qualified under Town Law, § 130. Williamson v Corscadden, 255 N.Y.S. 597, 143 Misc. 249, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1380 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

Where fire district fails to hold annual election, commissioners in office hold over until successors are appointed. 1947 Ops St Compt 520.

Where, through inadvertence, an office of the fire district is left off the ballot, the person holding the said office at the time of the election shall hold over until a successor is chosen. 1956 Ops St Compt 27.

10. —Failure to appoint successor

Where president of common council illegally casts deciding vote on appointment of city clerk, and issues certificate of election to supposed clerk, vote is a nullity and certificate invalid, and present incumbent continues as holdover as result of tie vote of those legally entitled to vote. In re Heafy, 247 A.D. 277, 285 N.Y.S. 188, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8240 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 270 N.Y. 616, 1 N.E.2d 357, 270 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 616, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1669 (N.Y. 1936).

A village attorney continued in office as a holdover after expiration of his term under Pub O § 5 where the village board of trustees' appointment of a successor was invalid in that the appointment resolution was not enacted in accord with a local law. D'Ambrosio v Reile, 106 A.D.2d 856, 483 N.Y.S.2d 555, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21757 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1984).

Employee who was not reappointed to position as Village Administrator properly continued to perform duties of that position while waiting for village mayor and board of trustees to appoint her successor, and mayor and trustees improperly removed employee from that position without appointing her successor. Enos v Vill. of Seneca Falls, 288 A.D.2d 853, 732 N.Y.S.2d 785, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10578 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Appointment of supervisor was unauthorized by a vote of two members of town board which was constituted by law at five members, and petition in a proceeding by one appointed to compel the respondent, who is holding over as supervisor (Pub Off Law, § 5), to surrender books, records and property pertaining to the office, is properly dismissed. Application of Crosby, 36 N.Y.S.2d 301, 178 Misc. 746, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 92, 37 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Where board of education consists of six members, the votes of four members for the same individual are necessary to appoint a clerk. In the absence of requisite four votes, former clerk continues in office until successor is appointed. 1947 Ops St Compt 368.

If Board of Supervisors fails to appoint Elections Commissioner for a party, former incumbent holds over and is entitled to salary. 1951 Ops St Compt 125.

11. —Failure to confirm or approve appointment of successor

County social services commissioner who was replaced on expiration of his term by acting commissioner was not entitled to hold over in office until permanent successor was chosen, confirmed and qualified, since acting commissioner constitutes successor within meaning of CLS Pub O § 5. Fiorella v Glenzer, 126 A.D.2d 937, 511 N.Y.S.2d 711, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 42036 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

12. Existence of vacancy

Where an officer is holding over after the expiration of his term the office is deemed vacant for the purpose of electing a successor. People ex rel. Lovett v Randall, 151 N.Y. 497, 45 N.E. 841, 151 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 497, 1897 N.Y. LEXIS 854 (N.Y. 1897).

Legislature intended by words in this section, "After expiration of such term, office shall be deemed vacant for purpose of choosing his successor" that office be deemed vacant in every respect so far as it relates to new incumbent as fully as if provision for holdover had not been therein included. People ex rel. Mitchell v Sohmer, 209 N.Y. 151, 102 N.E. 593, 209 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 151, 1913 N.Y. LEXIS 811 (N.Y. 1913).

Where person re-elected in November died before January first, person appointed under Town Law, § 130, by town board to fill vacancy held office until January first. Under §§ 5 and 30 of this statute, vacancy existed again after January first, and new town board had right to fill vacancy on January first and action of old town board in appointing person to hold office until next biennial election was illegal. People ex rel. Green v Black, 229 A.D. 47, 241 N.Y.S. 244, 1930 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10305 (N.Y. App. Div. 1930).

Office of school board member appointed to fill vacancy was deemed vacant as of January 1 of the year following appointment only for the purposes of choosing their successors. Roher v Dinkins, 40 A.D.2d 956, 338 N.Y.S.2d 441, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3216 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1972), aff'd, 32 N.Y.2d 180, 344 N.Y.S.2d 841, 298 N.E.2d 37, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1360 (N.Y. 1973).

Under this section, whether a vacancy arises by ineligibility or by failure to qualify the incumbent would ordinarily hold over and the office be deemed vacant only for the purpose of appointing a successor. Foley v McNab, 42 Misc. 2d 460, 248 N.Y.S.2d 354, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2072 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Appointments are vitiated and the offices ipso facto vacant where appointees fail to take and file official oaths. Where appointees take and file official oaths, the offices are not vacated by reason of their failure to act, and subsequent attempts to appoint to fill the same offices during their terms are invalid. Appointments to the board of appeals are for terms of three years from the date of appointment, unless to fill an unexpired term of former incumbent. Members of a planning board serve for various terms. 1954 Ops St Compt 332.

13. Filling of vacancy

In a proceeding under Art 78 of the Civil Practice Act, where it is alleged that the petitioner was appointed village trustee to fill an unexpired term until a definite time, and that the pseudo-successor was nominated for the office of trustee on a tie vote, the petition is prima facie sufficient, and where there is no disputed question of material fact the court must retain jurisdiction and may not remit the parties to relief by quo warranto. Felice v Swezey, 278 A.D. 958, 105 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5368 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951).

In an annual village election to fill the office of trustee, two of the candidates tied, and because of said tie were not able to take office, thereby creating a vacancy. Later the terms of two incumbent trustees expired and the mayor arbitrarily appointed one of the incumbents to act as a carry-over trustee until said vacancy created by the tie vote had been filled. In this action by a taxpayer to declare all matters voted upon by said appointed trustee null and void, the lack of an allegation setting forth the reason that the board of trustees did not determine by lot, as provided in § 53 of the Village Law, which of the two trustees should be deemed elected, is not fatal. Pansmith v Williams, 106 N.Y.S.2d 11, 201 Misc. 759, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1988 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

14. —Length of appointment

Under the above statute successors of officers holding over for part of a term are validly appointed only for the residue of such terms. Di Paola v Reilly, 22 A.D.2d 910, 255 N.Y.S.2d 532, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2463 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

15. —Who may fill vacancy

Where the office of town supervisor becomes vacant by reason of a tie in the election returns, the town board may appoint a qualified person to that office and upon such appointment, the encumbent will cease to be a holdover in the office. Furk v Board of Supervisors, 1 N.Y.2d 128, 151 N.Y.S.2d 12, 134 N.E.2d 104, 1956 N.Y. LEXIS 913 (N.Y. 1956).

Vacancy in the office of fire district commissioner may be filled by the Governor. 1964 Ops St Compt #788.

Board of fire commissioners should appoint a commissioner to fill a vacancy on the board where the annual election was not held because of failure, by oversight, to publish the required notice of election. 1968 Ops St Compt File #1027.

A vacancy in the elective office of fire district treasurer, resulting from an expiration of the term of the office and an erroneous exclusion by a board of fire commissioners of such office at the annual fire district election, thereby depriving district voters of the right to choose a new treasurer, may be filled by appointment of said board for a period ending on the thirty-first day of December next succeeding the first annual district election held thereafter. A new treasurer should be elected at said election to fill the unexpired term. 1969 Ops St Compt File #86.

16. Compensation of officers

Whether appointment was provisional or absolute is of no importance as to appointee's right to hold office and perform its functions and receive its salary. It only affects occupant's security of tenure. Such appointee is successor within meaning of that word as used in this section. People ex rel. Ewell v Robson, 253 A.D. 127, 1 N.Y.S.2d 476, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5125 (N.Y. App. Div. 1937), reh'g denied, 254 A.D. 635, 4 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6805 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938), aff'd, 278 N.Y. 585, 16 N.E.2d 112, 278 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 585, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1414 (N.Y. 1938).

Petitioner, although barred from performing his duties following expiration of his term, was entitled to back pay for holdover period in which successor had not been chosen. Cutrone v Village Bd. of Trustees, 226 A.D.2d 459, 640 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3587 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Where various town officers hold over in office after the expiration of their respective terms, due to the failure of the election inspectors to complete and file the election returns, such holdover officers are entitled to the salaries fixed for such offices. 1956 Ops St Compt 298.

A member of a town planning board, who has reached the mandatory retirement age, may not receive compensation as a holdover officer subsequent thereto. 1968 Ops St Compt File #846.

Where a holdover by a municipal officer is not in compliance with statutory provisions and is improper, he may not be compensated therefor. Payment of compensation shall be made to his successor who was chosen and qualified. 1969 Ops St Compt File #519.

17. Power to act, and effect of acts, during holdover period

The vote of a Civil Service Commissioner whose term had expired and who was holding over in office until his successor could be appointed was valid and sufficient to effect petitioner's discharge as the executive secretary of the commission. Williamson v Fermoile, 31 A.D.2d 438, 298 N.Y.S.2d 557, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4279 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1969), aff'd, 26 N.Y.2d 731, 309 N.Y.S.2d 35, 257 N.E.2d 285, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1673 (N.Y. 1970).

Under this section an officer holding over has full authority to act. Jennings v Wilson, 40 N.Y.S.2d 400, 179 Misc. 358, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2380 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.S.2d 418 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

Verification of tax roll by prior assessor 3 days after appointment of new assessor was valid, where new assessor had not filed oath of office, since by virtue of the provisions of § 25 of the town law, and § 5 of the Public Officers Law, the prior assessor held over and was authorized to discharge the duties of assessor until such time as the new assessor qualified. Dells, Inc. v Ossman, 15 Misc. 2d 237, 184 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2983 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A holdover officer does not have to execute and file a new oath. Vescio v City Manager of Yonkers, 69 Misc. 2d 68, 329 N.Y.S.2d 357, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2172 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972), aff'd, 41 A.D.2d 833, 342 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4819 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Holdover county commissioner of social services could continue to discharge duties of office until his successor was chosen and qualified. Boisvert v County of Ontario, 89 Misc. 2d 183, 391 N.Y.S.2d 49, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 57 A.D.2d 1051, 395 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12360 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Because a parole commissioner's authority to serve after the expiration of the commissioner's term fell within the holdover provision of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 5, and because the parole board considered the necessary factors in N.Y. Exec. Law § 259-i(1)(a), an inmate was not entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of Garofolo v Rosa, 891 N.Y.S.2d 899, 26 Misc. 3d 969, 243 N.Y.L.J. 3, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3470 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

An immediate special election to fill vacancies in village offices could not be held where the statutory time had elapsed for calling one; thus a special election to fill vacancies for the unexpired portion of the terms of two trustees would be held concurrently with the general village election. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

Where village fails to hold election for office of village justice prior to the expiration of the term of office of the present incumbent, the office becomes vacant on the first day of the next official year. The person who formerly served as justice may be appointed to fill the vacancy and, where a general village election is scheduled for the next year, a person should be elected to fill the remainder of the unexpired term at that election. 1980 Op St Compt File #305.

11. —Failure to confirm or approve appointment of successor

Official appointed by governor during recess of senate continues at least as de facto official after expiration of his term through failure of senate to confirm him, and his acts are valid as to third persons. 1943 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 443.

Effect of nonaction by Senate for 20 days after commencement of session on interim appointment by Governor is that the status of the appointee at most is that of a de facto officer and the validity of his acts is questionable. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen 117, 256, 257.

Constitutional provisions requiring senatorial confirmation of interim gubernatorial appointments must be given effect although the provision that such confirmation must be taken within 20 days after the Legislature convenes is statutory and may be changed but requires an emergency message from the Governor. 1955 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 257.

The incumbent city attorney of the City of Beacon does not hold over when the city council fails to consent to appointment by the mayor of a city attorney. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan. 10; 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 1.

If a village officer appointed by the mayor is not approved by the board of trustees pursuant to Village Law, § 3-301(3), the incumbent officer continues in office beyond the date of the expiration of his term. If the board of trustees fails to approve the officer's appointment, the board of trustees does not have independent authority to appoint a village officer. A local village law which transfers the power of appointment from the mayor to the board of trustees is subject to a mandatory referendum. Members of the village planning board are village officers appointed by the village board of trustees. If the board of trustees fails to approve appointments by the mayor to the board of fire commissioners pursuant to Village Law, § 3-308, the incumbent members continue in office beyond the date of the expiration of their term of office. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen April 11.

An acting village justice may not hold over in office where no attempt is made to appoint a successor or where an appointment is made of the same or another individual by the mayor of the village but the appointment has not been approved by the village board of trustees. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 13.

The mayor of a city is empowered to make appointments of appointive city officers only to the extent such power is conferred upon him by city charter or other statute (or local enactment). All other appointments are made by the governing body. Where the city charter requires the consent of the governing body of appointments made by the mayor, and the governing body does not confirm an appointment in a given instance, the incumbent holds over beyond the end of his term until a successor is duly appointed. Where the vote of the governing body with respect to an appointment results in a tie and the mayor, as a member thereof, is entitled by law to vote in the event of a tie, he may break the tie by voting for his nominee. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-23.

Where law is amended so as to postpone date for election of officer, person in office shall hold over beyond expiration of term, until successor is chosen and qualified. 1930 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 397.

Where the elected candidate for the office of village trustee is found to be ineligible to hold that office, the defeated candidate does not become entitled thereto, but the trustee whose office was the subject of the election holds over until his successor is chosen. 1949 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 5.

Where, under present city charter, candidates for two offices were elected at the general election to take office on January 1, and at same election new city charter was approved to be effective on following January 1, which new charter provided those offices would be appointive and filled for terms commencing on effective date, elective offices were abolished and appointive offices created on effective date; the successful candidates at the election will not take office; the offices are to be filled by appointment; if no appointments are made, present incumbents of the elective offices will hold over. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 14 (Informal).

Member of zoning board of appeals may be reappointed to succeed himself, and is required to file a new oath of office upon reappointment; failure to do so makes him a holdover. Board action is nevertheless legal. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen September 11 (informal).

Trustee whose term expired in 1979, and who was elected to succeed himself, but who failed to file his oath of office, continues in office as a holdover trustee. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

Trustee whose term expired in 1979, and who was elected Mayor, but who failed to file his oath of office, continues to be a trustee as a holdover in office. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

There is no authority for the trustees of a village scheduled to be dissolved to extend the terms of current elected officers until the date of dissolution. Upon failure to fill these offices, the incumbents will hold over beyond the expiration of their terms. The Governor could call a special election to fill these offices. 1985 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-14.

Appointment to Board of Assessment Review was consistent with CLS RPTL § 523(1)(c) where term of predecessor expired on September 30, successor was appointed in December, predecessor was holdover until successor was qualified to serve, and, on qualification, successor holds office for balance of unexpired term. 2008 NY Ops Atty Gen I 08-12.

Where an individual who was re-appointed to the office of village treasurer failed to take and file the oath of office on time but continued to perform the duties of the office, the individual would be deemed holding over to fill the vacancy in the office. 1978 Op St Compt File #833.

12. Existence of vacancy

By reason of the termination of their membership in the Legislature, former Senators and Assemblymen who were appointed as members of the Buffalo Port Facilities Commission cease to be such members. 1951 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 207.

Upon occurrence of a vacancy in an elective office, filled by appointment, failure to elect a successor for the balance of the unexpired term creates a continuing vacancy commencing on the next January first which cannot be filled by appointment and must be filled at a special election proclaimed by the Governor or ordered by a court. A person appointed to the office on or after the next January first is only a de facto officer. His acts as such cannot be attacked collaterally. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen July 2 (informal).

Where the elected town clerk and a councilman simultaneously resign in futuro and at same time town board passes a resolution appointing the councilman as town clerk, resolution has no effect, town councilman was still member of town board and vacancy in town clerk's office did not then exist. Elected town clerk's resignation must be filed with Secretary of State. When filed in town clerk's office, it has no effect so town clerk still holds office. Where resignation purported to be for balance of present and all of forthcoming term the resignation, even if properly filed, would be inoperative as to forthcoming term and present town clerk will hold over in office until qualifying for new term. If clerk fails to qualify for new term, town board may appoint. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 31 (informal).

When the office of village clerk becomes vacant because of expiration of the term, the appointment of a successor is made by the mayor with the approval of the board of trustees and in the event the trustees do not approve of the appointment, the office continues to be vacant; the former incumbent holds over until a new appointment is made and a hold-over officer has full authority to act and is entitled to the salary of the office. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen March 25.

Failure of the newly elected mayor and three trustees to qualify for office by filing their constitutional oaths of office within 30 days created vacancies in the offices of mayor, one trustee for one year and two trustees for two years. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Where a town clerk is re-elected and subsequently resigns prior to the expiration of his current term, two vacancies arise—one for the current term and one for the new term. The vacancies may not be filled until they actually occur, however, and an attempt to fill a prospective vacancy is null and void. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-30.

13. Filling of vacancy

14. —Anticipated or prospective vacancy

Village board has authority to appoint a village health officer to hold office for four years from date of his appointment, but such board has no power to appoint a health officer to fill an anticipated vacancy which will occur after such board has been replaced by a new village board. 1941 NY Ops Atty Gen April 23.

Where a town clerk is re-elected and subsequently resigns prior to the expiration of his current term, two vacancies arise—one for the current term and one for the new term. The vacancies may not be filled until they actually occur, however, and an attempt to fill a prospective vacancy is null and void. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-30.

15. —Length of appointment

An appointment to fill the position of a holdover is for the balance of the term. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 20.

Upon the failure to hold the required election to fill a vacancy in an elective office, the person appointed to temporarily fill the vacancy may not hold over beyond December 31 following the date on which the election should have been held. 1984 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-67.

16. —Special election to fill vacancy

If a board of trustees, consisting of a trustee whose term has not expired and two holdover trustees, cannot agree unanimously on an individual to be appointed to fill the office of mayor, then the village clerk should notify the office of the Governor that there are vacancies in four village elective offices and request the Governor to proclaim a special election to fill the vacancies. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

A vacancy in the office of alderman occurring at the end of the term by virtue of a tie vote at the preceding general election may be filled at a special election proclaimed by the Governor under Public Officers Law, § 42, subd 3; the vacancy may not be filled by appointment under section 3.9 of the Oneonta City Charter. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 21 (formal).

17. —Who may fill vacancy

Where a vacancy in the office of mayor of a village occurs by reason of failure to elect to that office, the incumbent thereof holds over until a successor is chosen and the board of trustees is empowered to fill such vacancy for the balance of the current official year prior to the expiration of which the vacancy should further be filled by election in accordance with Village Law § 4-422(4). 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen April 19.

Where there is a tie vote for an elective office a vacancy will exist at the expiration of the current term. The vacancy must be filled by the appointing board. If the appointing board fails to act, the Governor may require a special election. A special proceeding may be brought to compel the board to act, and if the board then fails, the judgment may require a special election. Appointing officer holds office until following December 31, and balance of term is filled at November election. Officer elected at special election holds for balance of unexpired term. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 30.

The mayor has the prerogative of filling the vacancy in elective village office. Where vacancy occurs less than twenty days before General Village Election, appointee serves until end of official year, at which time a second appointment may be made to complete the next official year. The first appointee may hold over in office for one year if the subsequent appointment is not made. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen April 10 (informal).

If a village officer appointed by the mayor is not approved by the board of trustees pursuant to Village Law, Section 3-301(3), the incumbent officer continues in office beyond the date of the expiration of his term. If the board of trustees fails to approve the officer's appointment, the board of trustees does not have independent authority to appoint a village officer. A local village law which transfers the power of appointment from the mayor to the board of trustees is subject to a mandatory referendum. Members of the village planning board are village officers appointed by the village board of trustees. If the board of trustees fails to approve appointments by the mayor to the board of fire commissioners pursuant to Village Law, Section 3-308, the incumbent members continue in office beyond the date of the expiration of their term of office. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen April 11 (informal).

Where there is a vacancy in the office of village mayor the board of trustees may fill that vacancy. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

Where the Schenectady County Sheriff was elected at the General Election of 1967 to a new term for a period of four years, his term will expire on December 31, 1970. Procedures for filling the vacancy outlined. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 28.

An appointee to fill a vacancy in the office of town clerk and an appointee to fill a vacancy in the office of town justice must run for election to fill the unexpired portions of the terms. The fact that the appointees had previously been elected to and served in those offices has no relevancy to the question of whether an election must be held. An 18 year old who is otherwise qualified may be appointed to the office of deputy town clerk. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen July 27 (informal), 1972 N.Y. AG LEXIS 118.

There is no such thing in the contemplation of the law as a hold over vacancy which continues beyond the normal expiration date of the term of the office. Where there is a difference in the means of filling a vacancy in office occurring before the expiration of the term thereof and the means of filling an office vacant because of the expiration of the term thereof, the means used must be appropriate to the vacancy which exists. Where a vacancy in office occurred prior to the expiration of the term thereof and was not filled before the commencement of the current village official year, the vacancy has been converted by the passage of time to a vacancy in office due to expiration of term and may be filled only pursuant to the provisions of Village Law, § 4-400, subdivision 1, paragraph c. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen July 19.

At the 1979 election, successors had to be elected for both trustees whose elective terms were expiring in 1979, and for the mayor and the trustee who occupied their offices by appointment. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

The trustees have no authority to make an appointment to fill a vacancy in the office of trustee, which is a power given only to the mayor. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (Informal), 1979 N.Y. AG LEXIS 69.

A newly appointed mayor may fill the vacancies on the village board of trustees, which appointments may be of any individuals qualified to hold the offices, including those who had been elected to the offices but who failed to qualify. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

When a member of a town zoning board of appeals holds over after the expiration of his term, a new five-year term commences at the expiration date and the town board should appoint a successor to fill the unexpired term. 1978 Op St Compt File #179.

18. Compensation of officers

Appointed justice of peace holds office to Election Day and should not be paid thereafter. Elected justice of peace to fill vacancy takes office as soon after Election Day as he files oath of office and as Board of Canvassers finds and certifies his election. His salary should commence when both these acts have been completed. 1969 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 22.

Where the Governor has made interim appointments while the Senate was not in session, such appointees serve for a term expiring 20 days after the Senate convenes. Until confirmed by the Senate (or until the appointment and qualification of a successor), they continue to serve as holdovers and in such capacity, remain on the State payroll. If the Senate disapproves their nomination for permanent appointment, such action terminates their holdover status and removes them from the payroll as of the end of the day on which the Senate acts. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 21.

19. Power to act, and effect of acts, during holdover period

The same person may not act at the same time in holding the elective town offices of councilman and while holding over as supervisor. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 7.

A municipal board consisting of five members can act only by the affirmative vote of at least three members; so if there are three people who can act on the village board of trustees, if they act unanimously, their acts have validity. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

Holdover trustees, by unanimous action, may appoint a village mayor but none of them may be appointed to that office (Wood v Whitehall (1923) 120 Misc 124, affd 197 NYS 789, on the opinion below 206 AD 786, 201 NYS 959 [1923]). 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

The acts of a board of trustees which are unanimously voted upon by a remaining trustee and two holdover trustees are valid unless more than a simple majority vote is required for passage. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 13 (informal).

§ 10. Official oaths

Every officer shall take and file the oath of office required by law, and every judicial officer of the unified court system, in addition, shall file a copy of said oath in the office of court administration, before he shall be entitled to enter upon the discharge of any of his official duties. An oath of office may be administered by a judge of the court of appeals, the attorney general, or by any officer authorized to take, within the state, the acknowledgment of the execution of a deed of real property, or by an officer in whose office the oath is required to be filed or by his duly designated assistant, or may be administered to any member of a body of officers, by a presiding officer or clerk, thereof, who shall have taken an oath of office. An oath of office may be administered to any state or local officer who is a member of the armed forces of the United States by any commissioned officer, in active service, of the armed forces of the United States. In addition to the requirements of any other law, the certificate of the officer in the armed forces administering the oath of office under this section shall state (a) the rank of the officer administering the oath, and (b) that the person taking the oath was at the time, enlisted, inducted, ordered or commissioned in or serving with, attached to or accompanying the armed forces of the United States. The fact that the officer administering the oath was at the time duly commissioned and in active service with the armed forces, shall be certified by the secretary of the army, secretary of the air force or by the secretary of the navy, as the case may be, of the United States, or by a person designated by him to make such certifications, but the place where such oath was administered need not be disclosed. The oath of office of a notary public or commissioner of deeds shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which he shall reside. The oath of office of every state officer shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state; of every officer of a municipal corporation, including a school district, with the clerk thereof; and of every other officer, including the trustees and officers of a public library and the officers of boards of cooperative educational services, in the office of the clerk of the county in which he shall reside, if no place be otherwise provided by law for the filing thereof.

1. In general

N.Y. C.P.L.R. 213(7) six-year statute of limitations governed a school district's claim against a member instead of the N.Y. C.P.L.R. 214(4) three-year period because N.Y. C.P.L.R. 213(7) extended the limitations period to six years for an action by a corporation against a present or former officer to recover damages for waste or for an injury to property, or for an accounting, and the school district was both a municipal corporation and a public corporation. Roslyn Union Free School Dist. v Barkan, 16 N.Y.3d 643, 926 N.Y.S.2d 349, 950 N.E.2d 85, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 654 (N.Y. 2011).

It was error to dismiss village fire chief's Article 78 petition for reinstatement on ground that his appointment as public officer was vitiated by his failure to have taken and filed oath of office as required by CLS Pub O § 10, since petitioner was not public officer in that his position was not created by statute but was administrative post requiring him to answer to village board of trustees on all personnel and budgetary matters. Stork v Board of Trustees, 179 A.D.2d 1058, 579 N.Y.S.2d 797, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2406 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Public officer within meaning of CLS Pub O § 10, in contrast to subordinate public employee, is person whose position is created, whose powers and duties are prescribed, by statute, and who exercises high degree of initiative and independent judgment.

Defendant member of city board of education is not required to take constitutional oath of office because of Education Law §§ 2 and 223. Donovan v Reynolds, 63 N.Y.S.2d 565, 187 Misc. 895, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2458 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946), app. dismissed, 296 N.Y. 885, 72 N.E.2d 615, 296 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 885, 1947 N.Y. LEXIS 1659 (N.Y. 1947).

Assuming arguendo that respondents vacated their positions by failing to file proper oaths of office in accordance with Public Officers Law, petitions to remove them from office were rendered moot by their subsequent reappointments followed by timely and proper filing of their oaths; likewise, removal petitions were moot as to respondents who, having failed to properly execute and file oaths of office, "resigned" their offices, were appointed to fill vacancies created by their resignations, and immediately took and filed oaths in compliance with law. 1999 Op Comm Ed No. 14,185.

The salaries of a town tax collector and a town justice of the peace elected to fill vacancies commence as of the date they qualify by filing their constitutional oaths and official bonds or undertakings. 1957 Ops St Compt 236.

Members and officers of school boards and library trustees are required to take a constitutional oath before assuming office and this must be filed in the office of either the clerk of the board or the county clerk as the case may be. Teachers are required to take a similar oath which must be filed with the clerk of the school district, and a record thereof must be kept by the school district. 1967 Ops St Compt File #1016.

Attorney whose nomination to position of judge of Court of Claims had been confirmed by New York State Senate could continue to practice law until oath of office was taken and filed under CLS Pub O §§ 10 and 30. Ops Adv Comm Jud Ethics No. 98-92.

5. —Oaths for successive terms

Village treasurer and superintendent of public works must take an oath of office at commencement of each term of office. A village policeman appointed pursuant to Section 188 of the Village Law is a public officer whose term expires at the end of each official year. Such policeman must take and file an oath of office with the commencement of each term. A member of a village police department appointed pursuant to Section 188-a of the Village Law does not serve for a fixed term and need only take and file an oath of office before the commencement of his official duties. 1945 Ops St Compt 95.

6. Who may administer oaths

Official oath may be administered to town officers by town clerk and must be filed in county clerk's office and in office of town clerk. 1946 Ops St Compt 7.

The form of oath of office required of members of fire police squads, is prescribed by the Constitution, Art XIII, Sec 1. It may be administered by the persons designated in this section and should be filed in the office of the clerk of the county where he resides. If a member of a fire police squad fails to take such oath, he holds office in a de facto capacity and is not prevented from discharging his duties as a fire policeman. 1955 Ops St Compt 507.

Members of a fire district fire police squad may take the constitutional oath of office before any notary public, the county clerk, or a judge of the Court of Appeals. 1955 Ops St Compt 585.

7. Filing of oaths

Timely filing of an oath of a town official in either the County Clerk's office or the Town Clerk's office is sufficient to satisfy the statutory requirements, and oaths taken before and in the possession of the Town Clerk were sufficient to constitute filing with him. Entwistle v Murtaugh, 17 N.Y.2d 6, 266 N.Y.S.2d 969, 214 N.E.2d 153, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1638 (N.Y. 1966).

8. Failure to take and file oath

Holdover Kings County Republican Commissioner to New York City Board of Elections was not entitled to occupy position for remainder of term where certificate of appointment filed in 1993 (which recommended that he continue in position) was invalid, and majority of Republican members of New York City Council voted in 1995 for another individual to be given position, as he was not choice of majority vote of Republican Party County Committee, and he neither took oath of office nor filed certificate of appointment as required by CLS Pub O § 10 and CLS Elec § 3-210. D'Angelo v Velella, 167 Misc. 2d 719, 634 N.Y.S.2d 1011, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

Furnia v Murphy, 31 N.Y.S.2d 875, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941), modified, 264 A.D. 809, 35 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4813 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Pub. Off. Law § 10. Cushman v Vill. of Ilion, 317 F. Supp. 2d 120, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1639 (N.D.N.Y. 2004).

School district officials who vacated their positions by operation of law, for failure to file proper oaths of office in accordance with Public Officers Law, were not "removed" from office so as to be ineligible under CLS Educ § 2103 to be reappointed by board of education within one year. 1999 Op Comm Ed No. 14,185.

Petitioner's seat on board of education was vacated as of August 1, 2001 and his execution of oath of office on August 8, 2001 did not permit him to fill entire 3-year term to which he was duly elected on May 15, 2001, although board supported his request to have his term of office reinstated through June 30, 2004, where he was originally elected to 3-year term in May 1998, and he was reelected in May 2001, but he did not attend board's reorganization meeting on July 2, 2001 and therefore did not complete and file oath of office within 30 days of commencement of term of office to which he was elected; when petitioner was appointed on September 5, 2001 and presumably executed and filed his oath properly, board had no authority to appoint him to term beyond next election. 2001 Op Comm Ed No. 14,710.

Special district attorney was not subject to disqualification, notwithstanding his late filing of oath of office, since (1) duties performed by special district attorney were enforceable and valid as performance by de facto officer, and (2) oath would be considered filed nunc pro tunc as of date of appointment. The failure of an incumbent member of a village planning board to take the required oath of office did not affect the action of the board in approving a subdivision plot. Waters v Connor, 11 Misc. 2d 174, 169 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2169 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

Defendant, who needed assistance of Spanish-English interpreter, did not knowingly, voluntarily, and intelligently relinquish his rights at plea proceeding, where court appointed defendant's wife as temporary interpreter without (1) ascertaining whether official interpreter was otherwise employed, as provided by CLS Jud § 387, (2) administering constitutional oath required by CLS Pub O § 10, and (3) assuring that defendant's wife had adequate language skills to understand and translate proceedings; consequently, defendant's conviction resulting from his guilty plea was unconstitutional, and defendant could not be sentenced as second felony offender based on such conviction. People v Medrano, 133 Misc. 2d 811, 508 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2955 (N.Y. County Ct. 1986).

Defendant was not entitled to dismissal of indictment on ground that special district attorney (SDA), who was appointed by court to investigate and present evidence of possible criminal acts involving defendant, neglected to take and file official oath of office as prescribed by CLS Pub O § 10 and CLS County § 402, for inasmuch as appointment of SDA was temporary in nature, limited in scope, and had no degree of permanency, SDA was not official required to take and file oath; moreover, even if SDA was public official required to take and file oath, his actions were nonetheless "as valid and of as full force and effect as if such oath had been duly taken and filed" as provided by CLS Pub O § 15. § 18. Defense and indemnification of officers and employees of public entities

1. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) The term "public entity" shall mean (i) a county, city, town, village or any other political subdivision or civil division of the state, (ii) a school district, board of cooperative educational services, or any other governmental entity or combination or association of governmental entities operating a public school, college, community college or university, (iii) a public improvement or special district, (iv) a public authority, commission, agency or public benefit corporation, or (v) any other separate corporate instrumentality or unit of government; but shall not include the state of New York or any other public entity the officers and employees of which are covered by section seventeen of this chapter or by defense and indemnification provisions of any other state statute taking effect after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine.

(b) The term "employee" shall mean any commissioner, member of a public board or commission, trustee, director, officer, employee, volunteer expressly authorized to participate in a publicly sponsored volunteer program, or any other person holding a position by election, appointment or employment in the service of a public entity, whether or not compensated, but shall not include the sheriff of any county or an independent contractor. The term "employee" shall include a former employee, his estate or judicially appointed personal representative.

(c) The term "governing body" shall mean the board or body in which the general legislative, governmental or public powers of the public entity are vested and by authority of which the business of the public entity is conducted.

2. The provisions of this section shall apply to any public entity:

(a) whose governing body has agreed by the adoption of local law, by-law, resolution, rule or regulation (i) to confer the benefits of this section upon its employees, and (ii) to be held liable for the costs incurred under these provisions; or

(b) where the governing body of a municipality, for whose benefit the public entity has been established, has agreed by the adoption of local law or resolution (i) to confer the benefits of this section upon the employees of such public entity, and (ii) to be held liable for the costs incurred under these provisions.

3. (a) Upon compliance by the employee with the provisions of subdivision five of this section, the public entity shall provide for the defense of the employee in any civil action or proceeding, state or federal, arising out of any alleged act or omission which occurred or allegedly occurred while the employee was acting within the scope of his public employment or duties. This duty to provide for a defense shall not arise where such civil action or proceeding is brought by or at the behest of the public entity employing such employee.

(b) Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, the employee shall be entitled to be represented by private counsel of his choice in any civil action or proceeding whenever the chief legal officer of the public entity or other counsel designated by the public entity determines that a conflict of interest exists, or whenever a court, upon appropriate motion or otherwise by a special proceeding, determines that a conflict of interest exists and that the employee is entitled to be represented by counsel of his choice, provided, however, that the chief legal officer or other counsel designated by the public entity may require, as a condition to payment of the fees and expenses of such representation, that appropriate groups of such employees be represented by the same counsel. Reasonable attorneys' fees and litigation expenses shall be paid by the public entity to such private counsel from time to time during the pendency of the civil action or proceeding with the approval of the governing body of the public entity.

(c) Any dispute with respect to representation of multiple employees by a single counsel or the amount of litigation expenses or the reasonableness of attorneys' fees shall be resolved by the court upon motion or by way of a special proceeding.

(d) Where the employee delivers process and a written request for a defense to the public entity under subdivision five of this section, the public entity shall take the necessary steps on behalf of the employee to avoid entry of a default judgment pending resolution of any question pertaining to the obligation to provide for a defense.

4. (a) The public entity shall indemnify and save harmless its employees in the amount of any judgment obtained against such employees in a state or federal court, or in the amount of any settlement of a claim, provided that the act or omission from which such judgment or claim arose occurred while the employee was acting within the scope of his public employment or duties; provided further that in the case of a settlement the duty to indemnify and save harmless shall be conditioned upon the approval of the amount of settlement by the governing body of the public entity.

(b) Except as otherwise provided by law, the duty to indemnify and save harmless prescribed by this subdivision shall not arise where the injury or damage resulted from intentional wrongdoing or recklessness on the part of the employee.

(c) Nothing in this subdivision shall authorize a public entity to indemnify or save harmless an employee with respect to punitive or exemplary damages, fines or penalties, or money recovered from an employee pursuant to section fifty-one of the general municipal law; provided, however, that the public entity shall indemnify and save harmless its employees in the amount of any costs, attorneys' fees, damages, fines or penalties which may be imposed by reason of an adjudication that an employee, acting within the scope of his public employment or duties, has, without willfulness or intent on his part, violated a prior order, judgment, consent decree or stipulation of settlement entered in any court of this state or of the United States.

(d) Upon entry of a final judgment against the employee, or upon the settlement of the claim, the employee shall serve a copy of such judgment or settlement, personally or by certified or registered mail within thirty days of the date of entry or settlement, upon the chief administrative officer of the public entity; and if not inconsistent with the provisions of this section, the amount of such judgment or settlement shall be paid by the public entity.

5. The duty to defend or indemnify and save harmless prescribed by this section shall be conditioned upon: (i) delivery by the employee to the chief legal officer of the public entity or to its chief administrative officer of a written request to provide for his defense together with the original or a copy of any summons, complaint, process, notice, demand or pleading within ten days after he is served with such document, and (ii) the full cooperation of the employee in the defense of such action or proceeding and in defense of any action or proceeding against the public entity based upon the same act or omission, and in the prosecution of any appeal.

6. The benefits of this section shall inure only to employees as defined herein and shall not enlarge or diminish the rights of any other party nor shall any provision of this section be construed to affect, alter or repeal any provision of the workers' compensation law.

Any public entity is hereby authorized and empowered to purchase insurance from any insurance company created by or under the laws of this state, or authorized by law to transact business in this state, against any liability imposed by the provisions of this section, or to act as a self-insurer with respect thereto.

9. All payments made under the terms of this section, whether for insurance or otherwise, shall be deemed to be for a public purpose and shall be audited and paid in the same manner as other public charges.

10. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to impair, alter, limit or modify the rights and obligations of any insurer under any policy of insurance.

11. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this section, the provisions of this section shall not be construed in any way to impair, alter, limit, modify, abrogate or restrict any immunity to liability available to or conferred upon any unit, entity, officer or employee of any public entity by, in accordance with, or by reason of, any other provision of state or federal statutory or common law.

12. Except as otherwise provided in this section, benefits accorded to employees under this section shall be in lieu of and take the place of defense or indemnification protections accorded the same employees by another enactment; unless the governing body of the public entity shall have provided that these benefits shall supplement, and be available in addition to, defense or indemnification protection conferred by another enactment.

13. The provisions of this section shall also be applicable to any public library supported in whole or in part by a public entity whose governing body has determined by adoption of a local law, ordinance, bylaw, resolution, rule or regulation to confer the benefits of this section upon the employees of such public library and to be held liable for the costs incurred under these provisions.

14. If any provision of this section or the application thereof to any person or circumstance be held unconstitutional or invalid in whole or in part by any court, such holding of unconstitutionality or invalidity shall in no way affect or impair any other provision of this section or the application of any such provision to any other person or circumstance.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1983, ch 737, § 2, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately; provided, however, that it shall not apply to a public entity as defined in section eighteen of the public officers law which has heretofore adopted the provisions of such section eighteen, unless such public entity shall hereafter adopt the provisions of this act.

Laws 1984, ch 532, § 2, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, except that any local law, ordinance, bylaw, resolution, rule or regulation specified in this act may be adopted or promulgated on or before the effective date of this act to take effect on or after such effective date.

1981 Recommondations of the Law Revision Commission: The enactment in 1978 of new section 17 of the Public Officers Law 1.Chapter 466 of the laws of 1978, § 1; amended L 1980, ch 704, § 1; L 1980, ch 366, § 8. (hereinafter referred to as "POL § 17') , which provides for the defense and indemnification of State officers and employees against claims arising out of their public employment or duties, failed to solve the problems noted in the Governor's 1976 veto message 2. July 26, 1976, Governor's Veto message Nos. 81 and 82. in which he referred to the confusing patchwork of indemnity provisions relating to municipal employees" and called for "comprehensive legislation which would deal with the indemnification of municipal employees in a uniform and logical way" (emphasis added). Notwithstanding this plea, municipal employees were left out of this 1978 defense and indemnification act, as were the officers and employees of other political subdivisions and civil divisions of the State, including school districts and other governmental entities operating public schools, colleges and universities, public improvement and special districts, public authorities, commissions and public benefit corporations and other public agencies, instrumentalities or units of government exercising governmental powers under the laws of the State. 3 POL § 17, as enacted in 1978, not only provides defense and indemnification protections for all officers and employees of the State but gives like protection to certain licensed medical professionals and certified social workers rendering professional services at the request of the Department of Correctional Services or Offices of the Department of Mental Hygiene, and to designated foster parents employed by the Division for Youth.

The Commission, since 1976, has been involved in the study of all laws which protect, in some manner, public officers and employees against claims arising out of their acts or omissions occurring within the scope of their public employment or duties. During this time, it has submitted to the Governor 4. See, 1977 Governor's Program Bill (S. 6603, A. 8091) and the 1978 Report of the Law Revision Commission to the Governor (1978 McKinney's Session Laws of New York, pp. 1605-1621). and to the Legislature5. See, Legislative Document (1979) No. 65[R], published in the 1979 McKinney's Session Laws of New York, pp. 1549-1555. various recommendations for statutes which would protect uniformly all such officers and employees. One of the statutes proposed by the Commission in 1978 became the basis of the bill 6. 1978 Senate Bill No. 10146, Assembly Bill No. 12927. that was enacted into law (chapter 466 of the laws of 1978) creating POL § 17. As this bill failed to include coverage for officers and employees of public entities, other than the State of New York, the Commission has continued its research into this area of law and to recommend legislation that would protect, in the same manner as POL § 17, all other public officers and employees.

Apart from POL § 17, there are at the present duties ,time various types of statutes giving defense and indemnification protection to specific public officers or employees. Some of these were enacted before 1978 and some after 1978. With two exceptions, all of the post-1978 statutes follow POL § 17 language with respect to provisions for defense and indemnification. The remaining two statutes also use POL § 17 language as to indemnification but do not provide for private counsel fees paid by the public employer where the counsel for the public employer cannot represent the employee due to a conflict of interest between employer and employee. 7. See, for example, General Municipal Law § 50-k (L. 1979, ch 673) and Pari-Mutuel Revenue Law § 158-a (L. 1980, ch 702 [McKinney's Unconsolidated Laws of New York, § 8099-a]).

Pre-1978 statutes, naturally, show no similarity to, or influence by, POL § 17 and vary widely in their protection of covered public employees. For example, they include (1) statutes conferring immunity against civil suit in State courts, 8. Correction Law § 24, Executive Law § 259-q, General Municipal Law § 50-j (set out second) , and Public Health Law § 230 (subd. 8) (2) statutes limiting personal liability,9. See, for example, Public Authorities Law §§ 666-a, 1071, 1111, 1171, 1225-in, 1249, 1691, 1985, 2034, 2333, 2417, 2448, 2482, 2520 and 2547. (3) statutes substituting public employer liability for that of the public employee,10 General Municipal Law §§ 50-a, 50-b, 50-c, 50-d and 50-j (set Out first) . (4) statutes to save harmless" and "protect" or "indemnify" public officers or employees when sued for acts occurring within their public employment or duties,11. See, for example, County Law § 533, Education Law §§ 507 and 3023, Executive Law § 257-a, and Mental Hygiene Law § 41.29. and (5) statutes providing for payment of private attorney fees and defense expenses by the public employe12. Education Law §§ 3028 and 3811, Executive Law § 257-a. in suits against public officers and employees. These older statutes also differ from POL § 17 and subsequent statutes in the scope of defense available to covered public employees and in the standards of employee conduct required to qualify for indemnification protection.

For example, many pre-1978 indemnification statutes contain no provisions for the defense of public employees who are sued for acts or omissions within the scope of their public employment or duties. Those that do, with few exceptions,13. Education Law §§ 3028 and 3811, Executive Law 257-a, and State Urban Development Act § 4 (L 1975, ch 61, § 5). limit such defense to representation by an attorney charged also with the duty of representing the public employer. 14. County Law § 501, Education Law § 507, General Municipal Law §§ 50-j (set out second), Workers' Compensation Law §§ 87-a, 87-b and 87-c. Also, indemnification under these statutes is subject to various standards of conduct. 15. County Law § 533, Education Law §§ 507, 3023, 3311, Executive Law § 257-a, General Municipal Law § 50-j (set out second) and Mental Hygiene Law § 41.29. For example, some permit indemnification as to any "accidental" damage while others prohibit indemnification where the act complained of was not done in"good faith" or constituted a willful and wrongful act or gross negligence.

The enactment of POL § 17 has not stemmed the Legislature's piecemeal approach to enacting defense and indemnification protection for various municipal employees and other public officers and employees omitted from POL § 17. Numerous proposals for the inclusion of additional persons within the protections of section 17, accompanied by a proliferation of proposed new indemnification and defense statutes, have been made since 1978. 16. 1979 Dept. of Health Legislative Proposal #H.D. 13-79, N.Y.S. Housing Finance Agency Legislative Proposal #2-79, Dept. of Mental Hygiene Legislative Proposals Nos. 2 and 4, Division of Military and Naval Affairs Legislative Proposal #10 (rev'd), 1980 Office of Public Health Legislative Proposal #H.D. 50-80, SUNY Legislative Proposal #1, 1979-80 Assembly Bill Nos. 2190, 5963, 5965-A and 11303-A, Senate Bill Nos. 2622, 5292, 5428-A, 6372, 8402, 8836-A, and 9049-A (to cite only those which have come to the attention of Commission Staff from late 1978 to mid-1980) . Only a fraction of those proposed have been enacted into law17. Chapters 305, 442 and 673 of the laws of 1979; chapters 454, 456, 457, 488, 702, 704 and 866 of the laws of 1980. but these are sufficient to illustrate the dangers of not having comprehensive legislation uniformly dealing with indemnification and defense of public employees.

For example, POL § 17 (subdivision 1) has been amended twice since its enactment, by chapters 704 and 866 of the laws of 1980. These amendments added to the definition of "employees", covered by section 17, the "members, officers and other persons in the employment of" the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority and "persons who assist the" Education Department or the Department of Health "as consultants or expert witnesses in the investigation or prosecution of alleged professional misconduct pursuant to title eight of the [E]ducation [L]aw or title II-A of the [P]ublic [H]ealth [L]aw". In addition, POL § 17 protections have been conferred upon physicians, dentists and nurses rendering professional treatment at the request of the Department of Health,18. Public Health Law § 14 (L 1979, ch 442). members of the Board of Trustees of the City University of New York and members of the teaching or supervising staff, officers and employees of senior colleges under its jurisdiction, 19. Education Law § 6205, subdivision 1 (L 1979, ch 305). and members, officers and employees of the New York State Housing Finance Agency.20. Private Housing Finance Law § 56-a (L 1980, ch 456). In this way, the Legislature has given section 17 defense and indemnification protections, at State expense, to a growing number of persons who are not employees of the State of New York. On the other hand, most employees of other such separate and distinct public corporate entities at all levels of government remain unprotected by section 17 or by similar statutes.

At the municipal level, the Legislature has mandated indemnification and defense protections (similar to that given by POL § 17) for members, officers and employees of the New York City Housing Authority,21. Public Housing Law § 402-a (L 1980, ch 488). at the Authority's expense, and to trustees, officers and employees of community colleges outside of New York City, 22. Education Law § 6308 (L 1980, ch 457). at the expense of the local sponsor of the employer-community college. Officers and employees of the City of New York (City) and of other public entities supported in whole or in part by the City (except public authorities, public benefit corporations and Boards of Education unless otherwise provided by law) are covered by General Municipal Law § 50-k 23.Chapter 673 of the laws of 1979. (hereinafter referred to as "GML § 50-k"). GML § 50-k differs from POL § 17 in that it does not provide for representation of City employees by private attorneys,24. Section 17 provides for the defense of state officers and employees in all civil actions or proceedings, state or federal, arising out of any act or omission which occurred or is alleged to have occurred within the scope of the defendant's public employment or duties except when such action or proceeding is brought by or on behalf of the State. This defense protection includes the payment of private attorneys' fees where representation by the Attorney General would be inappropriate. at City expense, where there is a conflict of interest between the City and the employee.25. See Canon 5 of the New York Bar Association's Code of Professional Responsibility. Under section 50-k, a conflict of interest could arise, for example, whenever the City is sued for the same alleged act or omission for which the defendant-employee is being sued and the possibility arises that the defendant-employee may have acted outside the scope of his or her public employment or that the act may have involved a violation of a rule or regulation of the employer. It is also noted that the defense available under section 50-k would be suspended while the City employee is involved in a disciplinary proceeding based upon the same act or omission until he or she has been exonerated. The only defense provided by section 50-k is that by the Corporation Counsel of the City. GML § 50-k also differs from POL § 17 in that the City's Corporation Counsel has the sole discretion for determining whether the act or omission occurred within the scope of the defendant-employee's public employment 26. Under POL § 17, should the Attorney General fail to determine that a conflict of interest exists, the court, upon appropriate motion or by a special proceeding, may find that a conflict does exist and that the employee is entitled to be represented by private counsel of his choice, with counsels' fees and expenses to be paid by the State. and GML § 50-k does not expressly preclude indemnification for punitive or exemplary damages assessed against the defendant-employee, or for fines or penalties or money recovered from an employee pursuant to § 51 of the General Municipal Law.

The Commission feels that City employees are not adequately protected by the "defense" provisions of GML § 50-k, and that the City should not be required to indemnify for punitive or exemplary damages, fines or penalties levied against a defendant-employee, or money recovered pursuant to GML § 51.27. Section 51 of the General Municipal Law is the municipal equivalent of article 7-A of the State Finance Law (see, Public Officers Law § 17 [subdivision 3(c)]). In brief, GML § 51 provides for the "prosecution of officers for illegal acts" by way of taxpayer suits against such officers (and others) to prevent waste of municipal funds or to enforce restitution to the municipality of moneys wrongfully paid out of municipal funds through the collusion or connivance of such officers. The Commission's views are based on the following reasons: . (1) In its 1977 study, the Commission found that the most serious flaw in any defense and indemnification statute was the absence of a provision for financing the defense of employees where the counsel representing the public employer could not represent the defendant-employee due to a conflict of interest. This was brought to the attention of the Commission by State Assistant Attorneys General called upon to represent State officers and employees against claims arising out of the Attica incident when they also had the duty to represent and protect the State against claims arising out of the same acts or omissions. The section 17 of the Public Officers Law existing at that time did not provide for private counsel fees (paid for by the State) in such cases and, until the enactment of new POL § 17, such officers and employees paid for their own defense, a situation thought to be unjust; and (2) Punitive damages, fines and like assessments levied by the courts against defendants are intended to penalize defendants for aggravating behavior evidencing a high degree of misconduct causing damage to others, and to deter future misconduct. If these amounts are indemnified by public employers from public funds, the entire purpose of their imposition would be thwarted;

Another problem with recent legislation in this area is that at the time new GML § 50-k was enacted, 28. Chapter 673 of the laws of 1979. the Legislature also amended sections 50-a, 50-b, 50-c, 50-d, 50-j (L 1974, ch 406), and 50-j (L 1974, ch 1026) of the General Municipal Law (hereinafter referred to as the "GML") to expressly exclude "the city of New York" from their provisions. In the same bill, 29. Id. former sections 50-k (L 1976, ch 832), 50-1 (L 1976, ch 392) and 50-n (id.) of the General Municipal Law were repealed and section 2560 of the Education Law was amended. By such act, City employees were deprived of the save harmless, immunity or other protections against liability granted them by these earlier statutes.30. These statutes governed liability with respect to vehicular torts occurring within the scope of municipal employment (GML §§ 50-a, 50-b and 50-c), negligence of police officers (GML §§ 50-j [L 1974, ch 406], 50-k [L 1976, ch 832], and 50-1 [L 1976, ch 392]), negligence of firemen (GML §§ 50-1 and 50-m [L 1976, ch 392]) , negligence of city correction officers (GML § 50-j [L 1974, ch 1826]), and negligence of teachers, members and other employees of school boards of the City (Education Law § 2560) In exchange, all City employees, including police and firemen, correction employees, and teachers, received new indemnification and defense protections pursuant to new GML § 50-k. This constituted some reduction in protective rights for some of the persons previously protected by statute 31. For example, under some statutes, indemnification had been available: as to all vehicular negligence (GML §§ 50-a, 50-b, and 50-c) , negligence by policemen (GML § 50-j [L 1974, ch 406]), negligence by firemen (GML § 50-1 [L 1976, ch 392]), negligence by school board members and board employees (Education Law § 2560) , without regard to the degree of wrongdoing as to judgments of a U.S. court against correction officers, without regard to the degree of negligence, unless the act sued upon was found to be in violation of law or of a rule or regulation of the Department (GML § 50-j [L 1974, ch 1026]); or as to judgments of a U.S. court against police and firemen, without regard to the degree of negligence, unless the act sued upon was the basis of a departmental disciplinary proceeding and the employee was not exonerated (GML §§ 50-k [L 1976, ch 832], 50-m [L 1976, ch 392]). In addition, employees of the City Correction Department had immunity from civil suit in New York State courts under GML § 50-j (L 1974, ch 1026). This is no longer available to them.

Under new GML § 30-k, indemnification is available only if the act sued upon is not in violation of a rule or regulation of the City employer or did not result from intentional wrongdoing or recklessness on the part of the defendant-employee. but resulted in an increase in liability protection for those City officers and employees never before protected by indemnification, defense or immunity statutes.

In contrast to these legislative developments, the Commission has taken the position that public officers and employees should not receive less protection than they have had in the past 31. The Public Officers Law § 18 proposed by the Commission provides that there be no impairment of immunity available under any other provision of state or federal statutory or common law (subd. 11) and that its provisions shall apply in lieu of existing protections unless the governing body of the public entity has provided that this section shall supplement, and be available in addition to, such other defense or indemnification statutes. under such statutes. Also, chapter 466 of the laws of 1978, by which POL § 17 was enacted, was carefully drafted to avoid reducing protections held by certain state officers and employees under other statutes 33. See, Correction Law § 24 (subdivisions 1 and 2), Executive Law 7secmk;259-q (subdivisions 3 and 4), Mental Hygiene Law § 19.13 (subdivisions c and d), Public Authorities Law§ 3020 (subdivision 3) , and Workers Compensation Law §§ 87-a (subdivision 3) and 87-b (subdivision 3); as modified by sections 2, 3, 7, 8, 13, 14, 19, 22 and 23 of chapter 466 of the laws of 1978. by providing that the provisions of any other section "shall supplement, and be available in addition to, the provisions of section seventeen of the public officers law and, insofar as [such] section is inconsistent with section seventeen . . . , the provisions of [such] section shall be controlling." 34. See Executive Law § 259-q (subd. 4) and Mental Hygiene Law§ 19.13 (subd. d), as added by sections 8 and 14 of chapter 466 of the laws of 1978. Subdivision 9 of Public Officers Law § 17 also acts to prevent any reduction in protections previously acquired by public officers and employees covered by the section.

Other examples of recent piecemeal legislation in this area are: (1) the amendment to the Pari-Mutuel Revenue Law 35. Chapter 254 of the laws of 1940 (McKinney's Unconsolidated Laws of N.Y., § 7951 et seq.). to add a new section 158-a, 36.Chapter 702 of the laws of 1980 (Id., § 8099-a). giving indemnification and defense protections to officers, directors and employees of the New York City Off-Track Betting Corporation (Corporation); 37. Section 158-a provides that the Corporation "shall provide for the defense of the employee" and shall "indemnify and hold harmless its employees." However, it then indicates that the defense will be by the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York who, with the Comptroller of the City, must also approve indemnification funded by the Corporation. Like, GML § 50-k, there is no express provision for private counsels' fees should a conflict of interest arise. and (2) employees of community colleges under the jurisdiction of the City University of New York are given indemnification and defense protections under subdivision 2 of section 6205 of the Education Law. 38. Chapter 454 of the laws of 1980. This subdivision follows POL § 17 in its "defense" provisions (not GML § 50-k) except that the immediate employer (the City University) does not provide the defense or pay for the indemnification of its community college employees. Instead, the City of New York

(the local sponsor) pays for the defense, including private counsels' fees, and for the indemnification of these community college employees in claims arising out of their City University employment. This creates an inequity because, when there is a conflict of interest between the City and a defendant-employee of a community college under the jurisdiction of the City University (a separate corporate entity), private attorneys' fees will be paid at City expense (Education Law § 6205, subd. 2, para. [c]). On the other hand, if the City's own employees are sued for acts or omissions within the scope of their City employment, and a conflict of interest arises, private attorneys' fees will not by the responsibility of the City, but must be paid by the defendant-employee (GML § 50-k).

The Commission believes that it is piecemeal legislation that causes such inequities to exist and it again recommends the adoption of a uniform system for the defense and indemnification of all public employees. Piecemeal legislation may solve the problems of officers and employees of one specific city or of specific public agencies but it ignores the problems of equally deserving employees of other municipalities and governmental entities.

Costs.

In 1977, after the Commission recommended the adoption of a statute which would confer defense and indemnification protections uniformly on all public employees, 39. See footnote 4, supra. an objection was raised that the bill would "mandate additional costs upon local governments." It is recognized that local governments are facing rapidly increasing insurance costs for protection against claims arising out of the daily operation of government.40. The Commission believes that some thought should be given to a suggestion made during the course of its 1977 study that legislation be enacted to create a state-wide insurance "poo1" through which municipalities and other public governmental entities could obtain liability insurance coverage at reasonable costs. However, it should also be recognized that local governments and other public entities are already subject to liability for the acts of their officers and employees under existing State statutes,41. See footnotes 7, 9, 13, 15, 21, 22, 22, 29, 40 and 41 supra. under local laws,42. Barr v. County of Albany, 50 NY2d 247; Corning v. Village of Laurel Hollow, 48 NY2d 348 (dicta). under § 1983 of the Federal Civil Rights Act (42 U.S.C.), 43.Monell v. Dept. of Social Services of the City of New York, 436 U.S. 658; Fitzpatrick v. Bitzer, 427 U.S. 445. or under the theory of respondeat superior, particularly in areas where there is the greatest likelihood of suit (i.e., police and fire protection and the education of children). Because of this existing exposure to liability, it may well be that any additional costs to public entities would be minimal.

By reason of the reluctance on the part of the New York Legislature to mandate costs upon municipalities in 1978, the Commissions's 1979 recommendation for defense and indemnification of public officers and employees (those not covered by POL § 17) was put in the form of local option.44. See footnote 5, supra. Under such option, protection comparable to that mandated for state officers and employees (and others) pursuant to POL § 17 may be conferred by a municipality or other public entity by the adoption of local law, by-law, resolution, rule or regulation (a) upon its own employees, or (b) upon the employees of another public entity which has been established and exists for the benefit of the municipality.45. See prposed statute POL § 18 (subd. 2), p. 23, infra. This "local option" provision is again included in the Commission's recommendations for 1981 for the same reason as in 1979 (i.e., to avoid mandating costs upon municipalities and other public entities).

Conclusions.

The Commission remains convinced that there is a definite need for general legislation setting up uniform provisions for the defense and indemnification of public officers and employees, like those found in POL § 17 with respect to State officers and employees. Suits against public officers and employees are increasing, particularly at the municipal level of government. 46.Barr v. County of Albany, 50 NY2d 247; Corning v. Village of Laurel Hollow, 48 NY2d 349; 3/27/77, N.Y. Times, p. 5; 3/27/77, Albany Times Union, p. 3; and 8/17/78, N.Y. Law Journal, pp. 1, 4, 13. Defense and indemnification statutes are intended to offer protection to public officials and employees who are exposed to suits during the course of, and as a result of, their public employment. Without such statutes, it may be difficult for many public entities to attract and keep competent public officers and employees, especially in areas where the compensation is minimal or nonexistent. Government cannot effectively function without some assurance that its members will not be called upon to personally defend themselves against claims arising out of the daily operation of the government or to account in damages thereof or.

Under POL § 17, uniformity in protection is available to all state employees and to relatively few non-state public employees whose defense and indemnification has by statute been assumed by the State, or by their public entity-employer, or by local public sponsor (municipality). Similar benefits should be made available to all other public employees.47.Sheriffs are excluded from the Commission's proposed bill only because of the existence of § 13 of article 13 of the New York Constitution which provides that "the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff" (Barr v. County of Albany, 50 NY2d 247). The Commission believes that its proposed POL § 18 (infra) would promote uniformity in provisions and would give assurance to officers and employees covered by the act that they are adequately protected against most claims arising out of their governmental employment. It might also stem the flow of piecemeal legislation.

The Commission has also considered, and rejected, a proposal to expressly exclude "the City of New York" (and certain other public entities) from its proposed statute. Its reasons for rejecting this approach are that the proposed statute, merely by its enactment, would not conflict with existing CML § 50-k or any other statute (a) because it is written in terms of local option and (b) subdivisions 11 and 12 of proposed POL § 18 would cure any other potential conflict. No municipality or other public entity, including the City of New York, is covered by proposed POL § 18 unless and until its governing body affirmatively, by local law, resolution or other appropriate act, agrees to assume responsibility and cover its employees under the statute. If the governing body of New York City wishes POL § 18 protections for its employees, it would have to seek the repeal of GML § 50-k by the State Legislature and then, by its own act, adopt the provisions of POL § 18. The Commission has included in POL § 18 a provision to cover any possible inconsistency or conflict between its POL § 18 and any other statute, be it § 50-k or otherwise (see footnote 32, supra).

Recommendations.

The Commission's proposals for the defense and indemnification of public officers and employees (infra) follow the provisions of POL § 17 as closely as is possible under the circumstances. The Commission's statute differs only (a) in its "local option" Provision, which allows each local government or other public entity to "elect" coverage of its officers and employees, (b) in some of its definitions, and (c) in the manner in which it handles possible conflicts with other statutes (necessitated by the optional nature of this statute).

The Commission believes that the alternative defense at public expense found in POL § 17 should also available in its proposed POL § 18 in cases where the public employer must withdraw from or refuse to undertake the defense of the employee because of a conflict of interest. 48.Duverney v. State of New York, 96 Misc 2d 898; Rodriguez v. City of New York, 7/24/78 N.Y. Law Journal. It believes this because the cost of retaining outside counsel and out-of-pocket expenses to defend cannot fairly be imposed upon public officers and employees.

The Commission is of the view that the indemnification provisions of its POL § 18 should be those of POL § 17 in that there should be no duty to indemnify where the public employee has been guilty of intentional or reckless conduct. The Commission believes that the terms "intentional wrongdoing" and "recklessness" (found in POL § 17) are more meaningful than "willful and wrongful" and "gross negligence" (term found in some pre-1978 statutes).49. See also, Restatement, Second, Torts §§ 8A, 16 and 500 and Public Officers Law § 17 (subd. 3[a]). In addition, indemnification of amounts assessed in punitive or exemplary damages, fines and other penalties, or recovered against public officials pursuant to § 51 of the General Municipal Law should be expressly prohibited, as in POL § 17.50.POL § 17 necessarily uses Article 7-A of the State Finance Law instead of GML § 51, because it covers State officers and employees and not those of municipalities.

The Commission further believes that the procedural aspects of POL § 17 should be included in its POL § 18 insofar as they are applicable to municipalities and other public entities opting POL § 18 coverage for their employees.

Village, consistent with its obligations under this statute and Freeport, N.Y., Village Code § 130-6, could withdraw its defense and indemnification of village officials and officers in a civil action for their failure to accept a reasonable settlement offer; First Amendment, U.S. Const. amend. I, concerns with respect to the settlement's nondisclosure clause did not warrant a different conclusion. Matter of Lancaster v Incorporated Vil. of Freeport, 22 N.Y.3d 30, 978 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1 N.E.3d 302, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 3156 (N.Y. 2013).

Absence of a provision in this statute allowing a village to settle without the public employees' consent is not dispositive of the village's authority to do so as it is inconceivable that the New York legislature intends a restricted meaning of the cooperation provision so as to permit a current or former public employee to refuse a generous settlement offer and expose a municipality to potentially ruinous liability; public employees are required to cooperate in both the defense and the settlement of an action under this statute. Matter of Lancaster v Incorporated Vil. of Freeport, 22 N.Y.3d 30, 978 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1 N.E.3d 302, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 3156 (N.Y. 2013).

Provisions of CLS Pub A § 1020-bb providing for immunity, defense and indemnification of trustees and officers of Long Island Power Authority from personal or civil liability resulting from carrying out authority'spurposes do not violate CLS NY Const Art VII § 8, which proscribes giving or lending of credit of state in aid of public corporation, since statute creates no state debt, does not require any borrowing by state, and does not confer gift, regardless of whether authority is involved in governmental or proprietary activity. Long Island Lighting Co. v Mack, 137 A.D.2d 285, 529 N.Y.S.2d 502, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5490 (N.Y. Provisions of CLS Pub A § 1020-bb providing for immunity, defense and indemnification of trustees and officers of Long Island Power Authority from personal or civil liability resulting from carrying out authority's purposes do not conflict with Federal Securities Acts of 1933 and 1934, and thus do not violate Supremacy Clause, even though authority might sell bonds or float securities in order to finance acquisition of another company, since CLS Pub A § 1020-bb accomplishes its purpose by making provisions of CLS Pub O §§ 17 and 18 applicable to authority trustees, both CLS Pub O §§ 17 and 18 deny indemnification to employee who engages in intentional wrongdoing, and federal statutes apply to authority as political subdivision of state, if at all, only in cases of intentional wrongdoing. Long Island Lighting Co. v Mack, 137 A.D.2d 285, 529 N.Y.S.2d 502, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5490 (N.Y. In combined Article 78 proceeding and declaratory judgment action commenced by order to show cause which, by its terms, temporarily restrained town from expending any further amounts for payment of legal fees of town officials in their defense of 2 lawsuits, court properly dismissed petitioners' motion to hold respondents in contempt for allegedly violating terms of temporary restraining order, where evidence established only that town paid some legal fees during relevant period, not that amounts paid were attributable to lawsuits at issue. Bauernfeind v Doetsch (In re Schulz), 217 A.D.2d 861, 629 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8171 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Court properly dismissed, for failure to state cause of action, combined Article 78 proceeding and declaratory judgment action in which petitioners sought to recover from town officials amounts that town paid for legal fees in connection with 2 lawsuits against those officials, where local law authorized town to pay counsel fees incurred for defense of officers and employees "in any civil action or proceeding" arising out of that party's public employment or duties in accordance with CLS Pub O § 18; town did not improperly expend funds in underlying lawsuits, which arose out of officials' public employment, and town was not forbidden from providing defense simply because officials' acts could be characterized as intentional wrongdoing. Bauernfeind v Doetsch (In re Schulz), 217 A.D.2d 861, 629 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8171 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Simply because County District Attorney commenced grand jury proceeding and removal proceeding against town supervisor did not warrant conclusion that they were brought "by or at the behest of the public entity employing such an employee" (CLS Pub O § 18(3)(a) so as to justify refusal to defend supervisor. Hunt v Hamilton County, 235 A.D.2d 758, 652 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

In action for assault and battery, individual defendant was not entitled to compel city defendant pay his legal fees under CLS Pub O § 18(3) where he failed to commence timely Article 78 proceeding challenging corporation counsel's decision dated January 30, 1996. Local law which sets up procedure to provide sheriff and deputies defense and indemnification in accordance with CLS Pub O § 18, in accordance with collective bargaining agreement with county, does not waive county's absolute immunity against action for malicious prosecution and abuse of process arising out of alleged tortious acts of sheriff and deputies in performance of official duties. Nichols v County of Rensselaer, 132 Misc. 2d 489, 504 N.Y.S.2d 373, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2722 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986), aff'd, 129 A.D.2d 167, 517 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43957 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Since public officials were guaranteed a right to private counsel in lawsuits arising out of the performance of their duties, a trial court's award denying indemnification for fees and costs incurred in defending an appeal in an underlying proceeding was unreasonable per se; a stipulation of settlement between the public employee and the employing agency did not render moot the resolution of special proceedings for the award of counsel fees. Matter of Graziano v County of Albany, 25 A.D.3d 1059, 807 N.Y.S.2d 478, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 637 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Town councilpersons were necessary parties to a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 1001(a) as their interests could be adversely affected if a board resolution conferring a defense under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 18 for a defamation action was declared invalid; expiration of the statute of limitations did not remove the councilpersons from the court's jurisdiction, and thus, the proceeding could not be dismissed. Matter of Duquette v Town of Peru Town Bd., 843 N.Y.S.2d 916, 18 Misc. 3d 174, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 7251 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007).

Given the legislative history of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 18 and the general principles governing the duties to defend and indemnify, a school district did not err in determining that it did not have a duty to defend or indemnify an employee in an action brought by a school board against the employee. Matter of Barkan v Roslyn Union Free School Dist., 67 A.D.3d 61, 886 N.Y.S.2d 420, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6373 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Government lawyer assigned to represent individual constituent should be alert to statutes governing representation of agency employees and officials, and should advise individual client about them, as relevant, when discussing conflicts of interest. Asso Bar City of New York, Comm on Prof and Jud Ethics, Formal Opinions No. 2004-1.

In New York, payments of settlements of claims against corrections officers in prisoner civil rights cases, within certain limits, are subject to approval by senior officials of the N.Y. Department of Correctional and Community Services (DOCCS) and are made from DOCCS's departmental budget. Such settlements and payments are consistent with this statute, authorizing indemnification of state employees successfully sued for wrongful actions occurring within the scope of their employment. Gross v Lunduski, 304 F.R.D. 136, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 182239 (W.D.N.Y. 2014).

2. Failure of locality to adopt

City which did not adopt provisions of CLS Pub O § 18 authorizing public employee to retain counsel of his or her choice at public expense, in event of conflict of interest in action against city and public employee, was not required to pay for counsel of police officer's choice in § 1983 civil rights action against city and officer that arose from officer's alleged beating of handcuffed arrestee. Mothersell v City of Syracuse, 952 F. Supp. 112, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 555 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

County resolution did not adopt statutory reimbursement provision of CLS Pub O § 18 where it made no reference to such provision and did not formally adopt any law. Hennessy v Robinson, 985 F. Supp. 283, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18771 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

Private attorney representing county employees is not entitled to order setting reasonable attorney's fees to be paid by county under CLS Pub O Law § 18(3)(c), where county has adopted resolution setting up its own self-insurance program for legal defense of employees sued for actions within scope of their employment, because § 18 is inapplicable absent local enactment making specific and formal reference to § 18. Hennessy v Robinson, 985 F. Supp. 283, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18771 (N.D.N.Y. 1997).

3. Criminal proceedings

County could not refuse to defend county employee on ground that because grand jury proceeding might have resulted in criminal charges against employee, proceeding was not civil in nature, since District Attorney himself admitted that he did not intend to pursue criminal charges against employee in grand jury matter. Hunt v Hamilton County, 235 A.D.2d 758, 652 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

In absence of pre-existing authority under state statute, local law, or collective bargaining agreement provision, village may not pay legal expenses incurred by village police officers in connection with criminal proceedings; village may not pay as moral or equitable obligation legal expenses of village police officers arising out of allegations of misconduct. 2000 Op St Compt No. 00-1.

4. Notice requirements

Court improperly found that police officer's failure to comply with 10-day notice requirement of CLS Pub O § 18(5) released city from obligation to defend and indemnify, since even if city could have disclaimed obligation based on late notice of underlying action, it was precluded from doing so because such ground was not raised in letter of disclaimer sent to officer. Polak v Schenectady, 181 A.D.2d 233, 585 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8892 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Court improperly found that 10-day notice requirement of CLS Pub O § 18(5) constituted strict condition precedent, and that police officer's failure to comply therewith discharged city's obligation to defend and indemnify him, since purpose of 10-day notice requirement is merely to prevent default and afford municipality opportunity to promptly investigate incident. Polak v Schenectady, 181 A.D.2d 233, 585 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8892 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Police officer's failure to comply with 10-day notice requirement of CLS Pub O § 18(5) did not release city from obligation to defend and indemnify, even if notice requirement were condition precedent to city's obligation, since city's failure to plead officer's nonperformance of condition constituted waiver. Polak v Schenectady, 181 A.D.2d 233, 585 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8892 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Plaintiff was not required by CLS Gen Mun § 50-e(1)(a) to serve notice of claim as condition precedent to commencing action for false arrest, abuse of process and trespass against county sheriff since service of notice of claim on officer, appointee or employee of county is not condition precedent to commencement of action against such person unless county is required to indemnify such person, and while county is required to indemnify its employees for claims which arise while they are acting within scope of their employment, county sheriff is specifically excluded as person entitled to indemnification by CLS Pub O § 18(1)(b). Bardi v Warren County Sheriff's Dep't, 194 A.D.2d 21, 603 N.Y.S.2d 90, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10087 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Public employee's failure to comply with notice requirements of CLS Pub O § 18(5) did not warrant denial of his claim for reimbursement of expenses and counsel fees in connection with defense of grand jury proceeding and removal proceeding where both proceedings concerned employee's actions as public servant, county was well aware of both proceedings, employee personally notified County Attorney of his need for counsel in grand jury matter, removal proceeding was interconnected with grand jury proceeding, and county had not designated any other officer to serve as its agent for purpose of receiving statutory notice after County Attorney recused himself prior to employee's being summoned to appear. Hunt v Hamilton County, 235 A.D.2d 758, 652 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

County Treasurer's failure to tender required written notice for defense under CLS Pub O § 18(5) did not preclude representation thereunder where it was undisputed that Treasurer was acting within scope of his employment as public employee, that he was sued as result of acts taken by him in that capacity, and that County was aware of proceedings at their commencement and had ample opportunity to investigate. Walsh v County of Saratoga, 256 A.D.2d 953, 681 N.Y.S.2d 889, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13903 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Medical malpractice action against a physician who was acting as an unpaid designee of a non-physician county mental health director when he examined the patient was subject to the notice of claim and limitations requirements applicable to all actions against public officers; if the physician was entitled to indemnification by the county, the statutes applicable to actions against a local governmental entity applied. Anderson v House of the Good Samaritan Hosp., 194 Misc. 2d 171, 752 N.Y.S.2d 815, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1576 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2002), app. dismissed, 5 A.D.3d 1058, 773 N.Y.S.2d 687, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3122 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2004).

5. Action against officer or employee in personal or individual capacity

Benefit of § 18 is available to public employee in any proceeding arising out of official act, and is not limited to civil action against employee in personal capacity. Williams v Rensselaer County Bd. of Elections, 118 A.D.2d 966, 500 N.Y.S.2d 190, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54782 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 68 N.Y.2d 809, 507 N.Y.S.2d 1025, 499 N.E.2d 874, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20197 (N.Y. 1986).

Employee's failure to file a notice of claim pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-e as imposed by N.Y. County Law § 52, did not require dismissal of the sexual harassment action against a county library coworker or supervisor. Indeed, the conduct of the coworkers as alleged in the complaint amounted to intentional torts and, thus, fell outside the scope of their employment. Grasso v Schenectady County Pub. Lib, 30 A.D.3d 814, 817 N.Y.S.2d 186, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7968 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Commissioner of social services was required to provide for the defense of an employee in grand jury proceedings, as the commissioner had adopted this section, the grand jury subpoenas stemmed from actions undertaken in the course of the employee's public duties, and the grand jury proceeding constituted a "civil action or proceeding" since there was no indication that criminal charges were being contemplated. Matter of Mossman v County of Columbia, 127 A.D.3d 1352, 7 N.Y.S.3d 636, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2968 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015).

6. Scope of employment

In proceeding brought by police officer to require city employer to defend and indemnify him in civil action arising out of incident in which he placed loaded gun to forehead of fellow officer, city properly determined that officer was not acting within scope of his employment, thereby relieving city of its obligations under CLS Pub O § 18, in light of officer's admitted violation of respondent's rules regarding firearms and fact that officer's conduct was entirely unrelated to city's business. Polak v Schenectady, 181 A.D.2d 233, 585 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8892 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Record did not contain sufficient evidence on which to resolve issue as to whether individual defendants were acting within scope of their employment in committing alleged tortious acts for purposes of determining whether county employer was obligated to indemnify them, and whether CLS Gen Mun §§ 50-e and 50-i applied to claims against them, where there was no affidavit, deposition or documentary evidence identifying their employment positions, work duties associated therewith, or manner in which alleged conduct fell within scope of their employment. International Shared Servs. v County of Nassau, 222 A.D.2d 407, 634 N.Y.S.2d 722, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12583 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In Article 78 proceeding to compel city transit authority to pay employee's legal fees under CLS Pub O § 18(3)(b) in connection with his defense of underlying tort action, employee was not acting within scope of his employment, and thus petition was properly dismissed, where underlying incident had its origins in personal dispute that occurred while employee was off duty and on vacation. DeRespiris v New York City Transit Auth., 251 A.D.2d 503, 674 N.Y.S.2d 716, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6876 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

It was proper to deny New York City Transit Police Officer's request to compel City to assume cost of his defense in underlying personal injury action where altercation giving rise to action was personal in nature, and officer was not acting within scope of his employment, since altercation was caused by traffic dispute while officer was off-duty, and during course of confrontation, officer failed to identify himself as law-enforcement official. Sanchez v New York City Transit Auth., 254 A.D.2d 345, 678 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

In a proceeding filed pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78, because claims in two federal complaints filed against a Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety contained allegations that she was acting within the scope of her employment at the time of the alleged wrongdoing, the trial court properly found that she was entitled to a defense under the relevant city code, which was identical to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 18(3)(a). Matter of Dreyer v City of Saratoga Springs, 43 A.D.3d 586, 840 N.Y.S.2d 680, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8890 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

In action against city and three police officers arising out of incident where police officers abused their power and harassed plaintiff, city's duty to defend police officer pursuant to CLS Pub Off § 18(3)(a) is triggered by allegations made in complaint, and city's determination of whether defendant was acting within scope of his or her employment is not relevant. Hassan v Fraccola, 851 F.2d 602, 1988 U.S. App. LEXIS 9425 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1988).

City's duty to defend police officer under CLS Pub O § 18 is triggered by allegations in complaint; city's determination of whether officer was acting within scope of employment is not relevant. Hassan v Fraccola, 851 F.2d 602, 1988 U.S. App. LEXIS 9425 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1988).

Pub O § 18(3)(a) did not require city to indemnify police officers or to pay attorney's fees that officers incurred in connection with civil and criminal proceedings against them arising from their alleged rape of civilian police dispatcher, because alleged acts, even if consensual, occurred while officers were off-duty, and did not occur when officers were acting within scope of their employment. Fernandez v DeLeno, 71 F. Supp. 2d 224, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8001 (S.D.N.Y. 1999).

7. Conflict of interest

Police officers are not entitled to have city provide them with counsel of choice in pending federal civil action in which no present conflict of interest exist based on possibility that conflict of interest may arise in future. Galligan v Schenectady, 116 A.D.2d 798, 497 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51636 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 67 N.Y.2d 607, 502 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 494 N.E.2d 112, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18131 (N.Y. 1986).

Conflict of interest existed at time County Legislature adopted resolution authorizing payment of legal fees and expenses of sheriff's department personnel named as individual defendants in civil action, which fulfilled requirements of CLS Pub O § 18(3)(b), where, in second amended answer to underlying complaint, county attorney asserted defenses alleging that individual defendants "were not the agents of (the County)" and that conduct complained of was not "pursuant to a custom or policy adopted by (the County)." Merrill v County of Broome, 244 A.D.2d 590, 664 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11147 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Conflict of interest identified after finding is made that alleged act "occurred" or "allegedly occurred" within scope of employment invokes the CLS Pub O § 18(3)(b) and should not destroy determination made under CLS Pub O § 18(3)(a). Merrill v County of Broome, 244 A.D.2d 590, 664 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11147 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Town's police chief is denied substitute counsel under Pub O § 18(3)(a), where he and police officer are being sued by arrestee following incident in which they removed political campaign literature from parked cars after it had been placed there by arrestee's son and friend, because chief cannot show any actual or potential conflict of interest between himself and officer, and town retained right to select counsel for its employees. Fanelli v Town of Harrison, 46 F. Supp. 2d 254, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6252 (S.D.N.Y. 1999).

Defendant individual, a public employee, was afforded the full benefits of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 18 and, as such, was entitled to be represented in the action by private counsel of his choice. Whether defendant town was obligated to indemnify the individual was an issue of fact that would be determined at a later stage in the proceedings. Higgins v Town of Southampton, 613 F. Supp. 2d 327, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 41473 (E.D.N.Y. 2009).

8. Effectiveness of counsel

In a libel action brought against two District Attorneys and a County, the trial court properly granted a motion by one individual defendant to remove the County Attorney as her counsel, to substitute her own independent counsel, and to require that the County pay the reasonable fees of said independent counsel, where the County Attorney appeared to be less zealous in his defense of the individual defendant, than of the other defendants, which could prejudice the jury against her and increase the possibility that punitive damages might be assessed. Death v Salem, 111 A.D.2d 778, 490 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50033 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

In action against police officers and town defendants for alleged use of excessive force in arrest of plaintiff, town was directed under CLS Pub O § 18(3)(b) to permit police officers to be represented by counsel of their choice, as it was doubtful that multiple representation by town's counsel would effectively serve their interests where counsel failed to adequately advise them as to scope of their potential liability, counsel was not cooperative in providing them with copies of pleadings and motion papers, and answer interposed on their behalf did not assert good-faith immunity defense. England v Town of Clarkstown, 166 Misc. 2d 834, 634 N.Y.S.2d 958, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 563 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

9. Punitive damages

Punitive damages may be assessed against municipal employee who engages in intentional wrongdoing in excess of scope of his official duties; under such circumstances, employee will not be entitled to indemnification pursuant to CLS Pub O § 18(4)(b). Rosen & Bardunias v County of Westchester, 158 A.D.2d 679, 552 N.Y.S.2d 134, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2292 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 703, 559 N.Y.S.2d 982, 559 N.E.2d 676, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1378 (N.Y. 1990), cert. denied, 498 U.S. 1086, 111 S. Ct. 962, 112 L. Ed. 2d 1049, 1991 U.S. LEXIS 1131 (U.S. 1991).

In a tort action against a police officer whom a municipality has the duty to indemnify, the municipality is the real party in issue and, therefore, the ban against punitive damages being levied against the state or any of its political subdivisions would apply in an action against city police officers charged with assault and false imprisonment while acting within the scope of their employment, despite the apparent intent of the Legislature not to exclude punitive damages in actions against police officers covered by the indemnification provisions of Gen Mun Law § 50-j. Myers v Rochester, 116 Misc. 2d 83, 455 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3836 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

10. Application to particular positions or entities

Town's furnishing of defense to town assessors and town board members in 2 lawsuits arising out of those officials' public employment, in accordance with local law and CLS Pub O § 18, did not violate constitutional prohibition against municipality giving or lending money or property to individual (CLS NY Const Art VIII § 1) or laws governing municipal conflicts of interest (CLS Gen Mun §§ 800 et seq.) as amounts expended were viewed as additional remuneration for officials' services to town, which constituted lawful public expense. Bauernfeind v Doetsch (In re Schulz), 217 A.D.2d 861, 629 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8171 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Village code enforcement officer, who issued building permit that was subsequently invalidated by village zoning board of appeals, was entitled to representation at village's expense under CLS Pub O § 18 in proceeding to annul board's determination since officer did not volunteer to be named as party respondent in proceeding and, having been so named, it was incumbent on him to, at very least, serve answer, and there was no dispute that officer was sued by virtue of actions taken by him in scope of his public employment. Hogue v Zoning Bd. of Appeals, 239 A.D.2d 807, 657 N.Y.S.2d 462, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5553 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Municipality, by extending protection of CLS Pub O § 18 to municipal hospital, did not thereby assume role of primary insurer and effectively relegate hospital's liability insurance carriers to roles of excess insurance carriers, where statutory right of indemnification would be triggered if and only if insurance policies were insufficient to indemnify insureds, and policies issued to hospital referred to other insurance coverage in describing themselves as "excess" coverage, but did not explicitly refer to right of indemnification afforded by CLS Pub O § 18. Town of Massena v Healthcare Underwriters Mut. Ins. Co., 281 A.D.2d 107, 724 N.Y.S.2d 107, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4180 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001), aff'd in part, modified, 98 N.Y.2d 435, 749 N.Y.S.2d 456, 779 N.E.2d 167, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 2729 (N.Y. 2002).

Town may purchase liability insurance to protect town justices, however, town may not, pursuant to either CLS Gen Mun § 52 or CLS Pub O § 18, purchase insurance which provides coverage for disciplinary or removal proceedings brought against town or village justices. 1987 Op St Compt No. 86-89.

11. —Housing and community development

Town board, by local law or resolution, may agree to confer benefits of CLS Pub O § 18 on employees of housing authority and to be held liable for costs incurred under that statute. 1998 Op St Compt No. 98-17.

12. —Industrial development

Pursuant to CLS Pub Off Law § 18, city may defend and indemnify members and employees of industrial development agency established for benefit of city, as CLS Gen Mun Law § 856(2) provides that industrial development agency is corporate governmental agency, constituting public benefit corporation. Ops St Compt 90-7.

13. —Libraries

There are 2 alternatives for conferring benefits of CLS Pub O § 18 on employees of public library; either board of trustees may elect to confer such benefits as public library expense, or governing board of sponsoring municipality or school district may confer such benefits as direct expense of sponsor. 2001 Opns St Compt No. 01-12.

14. —Superintendent of highways

Town's superintendent of highways was not entitled to dismissal of defamation action on ground that plaintiff failed to timely file notice of claim against town pursuant to CLS Gen Mun § 50-e since (1) action was brought against superintendent individually, not in his capacity as town employee, and town was not named as defendant, (2) service of notice of claim was required only if town had statutory obligation to indemnify superintendent, and (3) town was not obligated to indemnify superintendent because CLS Pub O § 18 had never been adopted by local governing body; under local law, town had duty to defend defendant, not indemnify him. Wyman v Zeltins, 142 A.D.2d 913, 531 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8019 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Under local law which authorized representation of town employees under circumstances resembling those under which representation may be provided state or municipal employees under Public Officers Law §§ 17 and 18, in determining whether the town superintendent of highways, who, after being advised that the town attorney would not represent him in its individual capacity, retained his own counsel without the prior consent of the town board, should be reimbursed for legal expenses, consideration must be given to scope of employment issues and the effect of contrasting allegations in the complaint, i.e. (1) acting in scope of employment, and (2) acting in individual capacity. Also, absence of prior town board approval of retention of attorney to defend, the doctrine of ratification should also be considered. As to the duty of the state or a municipality to provide a legal defense to an employee under Public Officers Law § 17 or § 18 respectively, the courts have equated the duty under those sections to the duty of an insurance company to provide a defense under an insurance policy, and correspondently the duty to defend has been said to be broader than the duty to indemnify. 1982 Op St Compt 82-243 and other prior opinions are superseded to the extent they are inconsistent. 1990 Op St Compt 90-47.

Defense and indemnification of local employees under CLS Pub O § 18 may be adopted by local legislative body by either resolution or local law. 2000 NY Ops Atty Gen I 00-7.

3. Failure of locality to adopt

A village, as part of its parking regulations, may require that the owner or operator of a vehicle pay towing or impoundment charges. A village may not defend and indemnify an officer personally sued for acts or omissions committed during the course of his public duties unless it has enacted legislation authorizing such defense and indemnification. 1986 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 86-5.

4. Administrative proceedings

CLS Pub O § 18 does not authorize reimbursement of defense costs relating to defense of employee in administrative proceeding before local board of ethics. 1993 NY Ops Atty Gen I 93-23.

5. Criminal proceedings

Village may authorize reimbursement of legal expenses of employee incurred in successful defense of criminal action; such reimbursement, however, is not authorized by CLS Pub O § 18. 1988 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 88-6 (Informal).

Town may not reimburse costs incurred by town supervisor who pled guilty to criminal charges pending against him; town may not reimburse legal costs incurred by town employees called to assist in investigation and prosecution against town supervisor. 2003 NY Ops Atty Gen I 2003-16.

6. Action against officer or employee in personal or individual capacity

The defense and indemnification protections afforded by this section do not rest upon the plaintiff's characterization or title of the action, that is, whether the plaintiff names the employee in his "individual" or "official" capacity. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-243.

If a village has not adopted the provisions of Public Officers Law, § 18, and no other State or local legislation exists, it appears that, based on Corning v Village of Laurel Hollow, 48 NY2d 348, 422 NYS2d 932, 398 NE2d 537 [1979], a village may not defend or indemnify a village officer or employee who is sued in his or her individual capacity. 1983 Op St Compt File #83-5.

7. Scope of employment

Under § 18 of CLS Public Officers Law, a local public entity only may defend its employees in an action or proceeding in state or federal court arising out of an act or omission allegedly occurring while the employee was acting within the scope of his public employment or duties; a local government may extend its obligation to provide defense through the enactment of a local law. 1987 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 87-28 (Informal).

A local government by local law may provide for defense and indemnification of employees as to civil actions brought against them under the provisions of civil rights laws; defense and indemnification, however, is limited to actions committed within the scope of public employment. 1992 NY Ops Atty Gen I 92-12.

Under CLS Pub O § 18 and parallel provisions of town code, town is authorized to provide defense to one of its employees if complaint alleges behavior within scope of employee's duties, or if town board determines that such is case. 1995 NY Ops Atty Gen I 95-6.

Defense and indemnification of municipal employee, whether sued in individual or official capacity, may be provided on proper finding that employee acted within scope of his or her employment. 1997 NY Ops Atty Gen I 97-40.

8. Punitive damages

CLS Gen Mun § 50-j authorizes enactment of local legislation providing for defense and indemnification of police officers for punitive damages; local government by local law may provide for defense and indemnification of civilian employees of police department for punitive damages provided that employee was acting within scope of his employment at time of negligent act or tort. 1993 NY Ops Atty Gen I 93-22.

9. Application to particular positions or entities

10. —Housing and community development

Neither section 17 nor section 18 of the Public Officers Law covers officers and directors of Safe Affordable Housing, Inc., a not-for-profit community development corporation organized by the Division of Housing and Community Renewal, even though the officers and directors are also officers and employees of the division. The corporation is authorized to indemnify its officers and directors. 1982 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 32, 1982 N.Y. AG LEXIS 49.

The Yonkers Municipal Housing Authority is covered by the provisions of Public Officers Law § 18. 1992 NY Ops Atty Gen I 92-19.

11. —Industrial development

A county legislative body may provide for the defense and indemnity of the officers and employees of an industrial development agency formed for its benefit. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-41.

12. —Libraries

Board members named in lawsuit could participate in village and library boards' deliberations, as to village's and library's liability as named entities in lawsuit, and could be present when boards convened in executive session to receive advice of counsel. 1997 NY Ops Atty Gen I 97-32.

A school district public library may not limit the amount of liability it assumes under this section. In general, a school district may not issue bonds to pay a judgment or settlement against an employee of the school district public library, which liability the library has assumed. The board of trustees of a school district public library may call a special district meeting to vote on having the school district levy a supplemental tax to pay for a judgment or settlement against a library employee, the liability for which the library has assumed pursuant to Pub O, § 18. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-37.

An endorsement naming a fire department or company, fire commissioners and/or fire chiefs as additional insureds cannot be added to nor form a part of a fire district's Volunteer Firemen's Benefit Law insurance policy originally issued to take effect on or after March 1, 1962. A fire district may purchase liability insurance for the fire departments or companies, fire commissioners and fire chiefs serving the district. 1983 NY Ops Atty Gen April 14 (informal).

Labor Department employees serving as members of private industry councils receive defense and indemnification for these activities under CLS Pub O § 17; municipalities in service delivery area may elect to confer benefits of CLS Pub O § 18 upon members of incorporated private industry councils serving their areas. 1987 NY Ops Atty Gen No 87-F10.

Employees of Interest on Lawyer Account (IOLA) Fund are eligible for state-provided defense and indemnification for acts and omissions within scope of their employment, subject to limitations and procedural requirements set forth in CLS Pub O § 17(3) and (4). 2004 NY Ops Atty Gen F 04-6.

Directors of Independent Livery Driver Benefit Fund are not eligible for defense, indemnification, and immunity that may be accorded to public officers. 2011 N.Y. Op. (Inf.) Att'y Gen. 09.

ARTICLE 3 Creation and Filling of Vacancies

Section
30. Creation of vacancies
36. Removal of town, village, improvement district or fire district officer by court

HISTORY:

Add, L 1909, ch 51, eff Feb 17, 1909.

§ 30. Creation of vacancies

1. Every office shall be vacant upon the happening of one of the following events before the expiration of the term thereof:

a. The death of the incumbent;

b. His resignation;

c. His removal from office;

d. His ceasing to be an inhabitant of the state, or if he be a local officer, of the political subdivision, or municipal corporation of which he is required to be a resident when chosen;

e. His conviction of a felony, or a crime involving a violation of his oath of office, provided, however, that a non-elected official may apply for reinstatement to the appointing authority upon reversal or the vacating of such conviction where the conviction is the sole basis for the vacancy. After receipt of such application, the appointing authority shall afford such applicant a hearing to determine whether reinstatement is warranted. The record of the hearing shall include the final judgment of the court which reversed or vacated such conviction and may also include the entire employment history of the applicant and any other submissions which may form the basis of the grant or denial of reinstatement notwithstanding the reversal or vacating of such conviction. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, after review of such record, the appointing authority may, in its discretion, reappoint such nonelected official to his former office, or a similar office if his former office is no longer available. In the event of such reinstatement, the appointing authority may, in its discretion, award salary or compensation in full or in part for the period from the date such office became vacant to the date of reinstatement or any part thereof;

f. The entry of a judgment or order of a court of competent jurisdiction declaring him to be incompetent;

g. The judgment of a court, declaring void his election or appointment, or that his office is forfeited or vacant;

h. His refusal or neglect to file his official oath or undertaking, if one is required, before or within thirty days after the commencement of the term of office for which he is chosen, if an elective office, or if an appointive office, within thirty days after notice of his appointment, or within thirty days after the commencement of such term; or to file a renewal undertaking within the time required by law, or if no time be so specified, within thirty days after notice to him in pursuance of law, that such renewal undertaking is required. The neglect or failure of any state or local officer to execute and file his oath of office and official undertaking within the time limited therefor by law, shall not create a vacancy in the office if such officer was on active duty in the armed forces of the United States and absent from the county of his residence at the time of his election or appointment, and shall take his oath of office and execute his official undertaking within thirty days after receipt of notice of his election or appointment, and provided such oath of office and official undertaking be filed within ninety days following the date it has been taken and subscribed, any inconsistent provision of law, general, special, or local to the contrary, notwithstanding.

2. When a new or an additional office shall be created, such office shall for the purposes of an appointment or election, be vacant from the date of its creation, until it shall be filled by election or appointment.

3. When any member of a board, commission, committee or authority, holding office by appointment of the governor, fails to attend three consecutive regular meetings of such board, commission, committee or authority, unless such absence is for good cause and is excused by the chairman or other presiding officer thereof, or, in the case of such chairman or other presiding officer, by the governor, the office may be deemed vacant for purposes of the nomination and appointment of a successor.

4. Neither the provisions of this section, nor of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation, creating a vacancy in a local office of a political subdivision or municipal corporation if the incumbent thereof ceases to be a resident of such political subdivision or municipal corporation, shall apply in the case of a person who is a member of the police force of any political subdivision or municipal corporation of the state and who while a member of such force resides (a) in the county in which such political subdivision or municipal corporation is located; or (b) in a county within the state contiguous to the county in which such political subdivision or municipal corporation is located; or (c) in a county within the state contiguous to such political subdivision or municipal corporation; or (d) in a county within the state contiguous to a county described in item (c) hereof where the former is less than fifteen miles from such political subdivision or municipal corporation, measured from their respective nearest boundary lines; or (e) in a county within the state contiguous to a county described in item (d) hereof where the former is less than thirty miles from such political subdivision or municipal corporation, measured from their respective nearest boundary lines:

(1) If such person was appointed as a member of such police force prior to July first, nineteen hundred sixty-one, shall reside in any such county on such date and shall continue to reside in any such county after such date, or

(2) If the police force of which he is a member consists of two hundred or more full-time members or shall have consisted of two hundred or more full-time members when, as a member of such police force, he shall have resided in such county and shall continue to reside in any such county thereafter, or

(3) If the police force of which he is a member consists of less than two hundred full-time members; provided, however, that the local legislative body of such political subdivision or municipal corporation having such police force shall have power to adopt and amend local laws, ordinances or resolutions of general application requiring members of such police force, other than those members covered by paragraph one or paragraph two of this subdivision, to reside in such political subdivision or municipal corporation, or permitting them to reside in specified areas of such counties or within specified distances from the political subdivision or municipal corporation provided such local legislative body shall determine that a police officer may respond therefrom promptly and be available to render active service in such political subdivision or municipal corporation.

4-a. Neither the provisions of this section, nor of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation, creating a vacancy in a local office of a political subdivision or municipal corporation if the incumbent thereof ceases to be a resident of such political subdivision or municipal corporation, shall apply in the case of a member of the department of sanitation of any municipality who resides in a county within the state contiguous to such municipality.

4-b. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision five of this section, neither the provisions of this section, nor of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation, creating a vacancy in a local office of a political subdivision or municipal corporation of the state if the incumbent thereof ceases to be a resident of such political subdivision or municipal corporation shall apply to the appointment or continuance in office or position of an officer or member of a paid fire department in any political subdivision or municipal corporation of the state, if such person resides in the county, or one of the counties, in which such political subdivision or municipal corporation is located.

5. Neither the provisions of this section, nor of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation, creating a vacancy in a local office of a political subdivision or municipal corporation if the incumbent thereof ceases to be a resident of such political subdivision or municipal corporation, shall apply in the case of a paid member of the uniformed force of a paid fire department, who, for purposes of this section shall include persons employed as fire alarm dispatchers, or in the case of a person employed in a department of correction in the correction service of the classified civil service, or in the case of a member of the department of sanitation of any political subdivision or municipal corporation who has five or more years of service, or in the case of officers and inspectors employed in a department of health of a city of over one million population, or in the case of a member of the department of sanitation in a city with a population of one million or more who has two or more years of service to such city who resides (a) in the county in which said city is located; or (b) in a county within the state contiguous to the county in which said city is located; or (c) in a county within the state contiguous to such city; or (d) in a county within the state which is not more than fifteen miles from said city; or (e) in a county within the state contiguous to a county described in item (d) hereof where the former is less than thirty miles from such political subdivision or municipal corporation, measured from their respective nearest boundary lines.

5-a. Any person who resides in this state and who is currently employed as a member of the police force, a paid member of the uniformed force of a paid fire department, or department of corrections in the correctional service classification of the classified civil service, of a city of over one million population, shall be exempt from the provisions of paragraph (d) of subdivision one and subdivisions four and five of this section upon compliance with the procedure set forth in this subdivision. Any person seeking to benefit from the exemption created by this subdivision shall notify his respective employer in writing of said intention within thirty days from the effective date of this subdivision and shall specify his then current residence address. The exemption created by this subdivision shall be applicable only to said actual designated residence and not to any residence that any subject currently employed member may thereafter establish; provided, however, that any such currently employed member who resides outside this state shall have one year from the effective date of this subdivision within which to establish residence as required pursuant to paragraph (d) of subdivision one, and subdivisions four and five of this section and comply with the notice requirements of this subdivision. Said residence shall constitute a lawful residence for all purposes notwithstanding any provision to the contrary of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation.

6. Neither the provisions of this section, nor of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation, creating a vacancy in a local office of a political subdivision or municipal corporation if the incumbent thereof ceases to be a resident of such political subdivision or municipal corporation, shall apply in the case of appointed public officers in the city of Troy, except the city manager of such city, who reside in the county of Rensselaer.

7. Neither the provisions of this section, nor of any general, special or local law, charter, code, ordinance, resolution, rule or regulation, creating a vacancy in a local office of a political subdivision or municipal corporation of the state if the incumbent thereof ceases to be a resident of such political subdivision or municipal corporation, shall apply in the case of the city court judge in the city of Hudson, provided that such person resides in the county in which such city is located.

8. 1. In general

Section 1373 of Greater New York charter must be read in connection with §§ 30 and 38. People ex rel. Domschke v Messenger, 200 A.D. 418, 192 N.Y.S. 734, 1922 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8190 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 233 N.Y. 687, 135 N.E. 971, 233 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 687, 1922 N.Y. LEXIS 1115 (N.Y. 1922).

It is clear that N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) is a condition on which the job held; it is not within the control of the employer but is a limitation as explicit as a clause in an employment contract.

Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

When the legislature flatly determines that a felony or oath of office conviction is serious enough, without more, to justify automatic removal, it may decree, as it has under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1), that there is nothing more to hear and that no amount of mitigation or explanation can override a conviction of that tenor or abide the officer's continued employment. Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

In the context of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1), a public officer should understand that a public officer is vulnerable to summary dismissal if it appears that the public officer fails to meet the conditions of employment as specified in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1). Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

Removals pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1) do not require a pre-termination hearing in order to satisfy due process. Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

A city has the power to enact local laws that are not inconsistent with the laws of the state in respect to the qualifications of its officers. It may not adopt local laws inconsistent with the laws of the state. 1955 Ops St Compt 368.

Removal of public officer under CLS Pub O § 36 is for entire term of that office; however, officer may subsequently be elected to new term of same office. 1994 Op St Compt No. I 94-33.

Attorney whose nomination to position of judge of Court of Claims had been confirmed by New York State Senate could continue to practice law until oath of office was taken and filed under CLS Pub O §§ 10 and 30. Ops Adv Comm Jud Ethics No. 98-92.

2. Officers within purview of section

Section of the Public Officers Law providing that an office becomes vacant upon officeholder's conviction of a felony or a crime involving a violation of his oath of office does not apply to judicial officers. La Carrubba v Klein, 59 A.D.2d 99, 397 N.Y.S.2d 806, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12465 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), aff'd, 46 N.Y.2d 1009, 416 N.Y.S.2d 243, 389 N.E.2d 838, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 1923 (N.Y. 1979), limited, County of Broome v Conte, 120 Misc. 2d 1050, 466 N.Y.S.2d 1003, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3847 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Termination of petitioner's employment as county director of probation on ground that petitioner failed to take and file oath of office was illegal since director of probation was not public officer required to take oath within 30 days after commencement of his term, but was instead public employee required only to take oath on original appointment; significant to conclusion was fact that petitioner was promoted to position as director from position as assistant director by means of successful completion of competitive civil service examination and that petitioner's appointment was not for fixed term. Fanelli v O'Rourke, 146 A.D.2d 771, 537 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 855 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

City's assistant director of purchasing was "public officer" within CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e), and therefore was properly discharged without civil service hearing on his conviction of felony, where his duties included assisting in purchase of wide variety of commodities, analyzing informal bids, selecting suppliers, directing small number of clerical employees, contacting private companies to negotiate purchase of materials and equipment, preparing purchase orders, and maintaining records on vast array of financial transactions. Papa v DeLuca, 160 A.D.2d 876, 554 N.Y.S.2d 310, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4499 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

A receiver is not a public officer within the meaning of this law. Mechanics Lumber Co. v Cohen, 18 N.Y.S.2d 547, 173 Misc. 605, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1532 (N.Y. App. Term), aff'd, 260 A.D. 863, 23 N.Y.S.2d 557, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5107 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

City police captain is a public officer under this section. Smith v Noeppel, 120 N.Y.S.2d 466, 204 Misc. 49, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1632 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

Attendant in a state hospital for the criminally insane was not a "public officer" so that his commitment to a state mental hospital for observation and treatment would justify an order declaring his civil service position vacant without notice and hearing. Application of Sweeney, 1 Misc. 2d 125, 147 N.Y.S.2d 612, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2087 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

The statute applies equally to appointed and elected officials. Entwistle v Murtaugh, 44 Misc. 2d 1022, 255 N.Y.S.2d 422, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1129 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), aff'd, 24 A.D.2d 842, 264 N.Y.S.2d 230, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6062 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

A patrolman of the New York City Housing Authority Police Department is a member of the police force of any "municipal corporation of the state" within the meaning of the Public Officers Law §§ 3, 30. Maye v Lindsay, 69 Misc. 2d 276, 330 N.Y.S.2d 14, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2133 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972), vacated, 41 A.D.2d 127, 341 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4941 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1973).

Parole officer is public officer for purposes of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) and is automatically terminated upon conviction of felony, since parole officer serves important part in criminal justice system, is equivalent of police officer or correction officer, and must be held to same high standards of conduct in order to achieve respect of his parolees and public. Ring v Rodriguez, 141 Misc. 2d 164, 532 N.Y.S.2d 1009, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 556 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

3. Acts or circumstances creating vacancy, generally

Although provisions of this section do not include case where there is failure to elect and there is no incumbent at expiration of term preceding that for which election is held, nevertheless, there is vacancy in fact at beginning of term for which election is held. People ex rel. Stalter v Lynch, 219 A.D. 1, 219 N.Y.S. 52, 1926 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5832 (N.Y. App. Div. 1926), aff'd, 245 N.Y. 534, 157 N.E. 847, 245 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 534, 1927 N.Y. LEXIS 689 (N.Y. 1927).

Actions taken by board of regents of state university, in which certain regents who had been improperly elected participated, were valid acts and binding as against third parties despite fact that joint session of legislature convened in order to elect such members was declared invalid as not being duly convened. Anderson v Krupsak, 51 A.D.2d 229, 381 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10681 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), rev'd, 40 N.Y.2d 397, 386 N.Y.S.2d 859, 353 N.E.2d 822, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2898 (N.Y. 1976).

Section 30 does not include the expiration of a term of office by reason of adoption of the constitutional amendment, Art. IX, § 15. Fitzgerald v Cohen, 22 N.Y.S.2d 863, 175 Misc. 148, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2240 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 804, 22 N.Y.S.2d 527, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4731 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

The Mayor of a village was not holding his office illegally because at the time of his nomination to such office and his election thereto he was the owner of a business wherein alcoholic beverages were sold for off-premises consumption. Harrell v Goldin, 124 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2222 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

Because Cortland County, N.Y., Code of Ethics art. III(C)(5) was inconsistent with, and was superseded by, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 30, 34, N.Y. Elec. Law §§ 3-200(7), 3-204, the county legislature lacked the authority to declare a vacancy as a result of an election commissioner's apparent violation of the prohibition against dual office-holding; pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78, the commissioner was entitled to compensation for the remainder of the commissioner's term. Matter of Wood v County of Cortland, 874 N.Y.S.2d 359, 23 Misc. 3d 913, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 323 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009), aff'd, 72 A.D.3d 1447, 899 N.Y.S.2d 450, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3446 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

The removal of a town assessor from office is within the jurisdiction of the supreme court. 1956 Ops St Compt 31.

4. —Salary or reimbursement ineligibility

An official's right to salary ceases only when he ceases to hold the office, whether by expiration of term, death, disqualification, or removal, continuing, from the time he qualifies and takes charge of the office, as long as he rightfully holds it. 1961 Ops St Compt File #271.

An ineligible person appointed to public office may not continue holding the office nor receive the salary for the balance of the term after discovery of the ineligibility. 1967 Ops St Compt File #474.

A person illegally purporting to occupy the office of village clerk-treasurer is not entitled to any reimbursement of expenses incurred in the performance of the duties of such office. 1967 Ops St Compt File #668.

5. Death

Where person re-elected in November died before January first, person appointed under Town Law, § 130, by town board to fill vacancy held office until January first. Under §§ 5 and 30 of this statute vacancy existed again after January first, new town board had right to fill vacancy on January first, and action of old town board in appointing person to hold office until next biennial election was illegal. People ex rel. Green v Black, 229 A.D. 47, 241 N.Y.S. 244, 1930 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10305 (N.Y. App. Div. 1930).

6. Resignation

A public officer may resign at any time, even pending removal proceedings. People v Harris, 294 N.Y. 424, 63 N.E.2d 17, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 424, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 767 (N.Y. 1945).

Where at annual election of incorporated village, office of police justice was discontinued and abolished from and after expiration of term of then incumbent, then police justice resigned his office, action of trustees of village in appointing another in his stead upon theory that such resignation created vacancy in office was proper. People ex rel. Hoban v Bates, 142 N.Y.S. 893, 81 Misc. 12, 1913 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 647 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1913).

Sections 30 and 31 work vacancy in each office immediately upon delivery of resignations to proper officers, so that offices are vacant on filing of resignations. Statute makes no provision for resignation prospective or conditional in character. Cassedy v Wilkins, 244 N.Y.S. 445, 137 Misc. 748, 1930 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1504 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1930).

Where county judge resigned office by letter dated August 4, 1975, which letter stated that resignation was to be effective on such date, resignation was effective only on August 5, less than three months before 1975 general elections, and election for vacancy could therefore be held no earlier than Tuesday after first Monday of November, 1976. Rawlins v McCaughey, 83 Misc. 2d 986, 373 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3026 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 49 A.D.2d 1015, 374 N.Y.S.2d 468, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11369 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Appointment to fill a vacancy in a public office may not be made prior to the effective date of the resignation and subsequent vacancy. A member of the city council may not be appointed to the office of commissioner of assessments and taxation during the period for which he was elected. 1956 Ops St Compt 94.

In order for the resignation of a town officer to be effective, it must be submitted in writing. Whether an elected town officer has ceased to be an inhabitant of the town, thus creating a vacancy, is a question of fact. 1969 Ops St Compt File #79.

7. Conviction of crime

A statute which provides for the vacatur of a public office when its incumbent is convicted of a felony is not applicable to a municipal employee who, under a grant of immunity, admitted that he received unlawful gratuities. Binghamton Civil Service Forum v Binghamton, 44 N.Y.2d 23, 403 N.Y.S.2d 482, 374 N.E.2d 380, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1791 (N.Y. 1978).

Petitioner's office as a New York City policeman became vacant upon rendition of a verdict convicting him of the felony of bribe receiving in the second degree, pursuant to section 30 (subd 1, par e) of the Public Officers Law which provides that a public office shall become vacant upon the officeholder's conviction of a felony, and his retirement application, which was filed after the jury verdict but before entry of judgment on the verdict, was properly never processed; CPL 1.20 (subd 13) provides that a conviction occurs upon a verdict of guilty and there is no sound reason to differentiate between a conviction for purposes of criminal law and the Public Officers Law. To permit a public officer, found guilty by a jury of his peers, to remain in office pending sentencing and thereby afford him the opportunity to obtain a lifetime pension would circumvent the clearly defined purpose of section 30 of the Public Officers Law. Gunning v Codd, 49 N.Y.2d 495, 427 N.Y.S.2d 209, 403 N.E.2d 1208, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2168 (N.Y. 1980).

For misdemeanor convictions arising outside line of duty, CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) applies to crimes that, as defined in Penal Law, arise from knowing or intentional conduct indicative of lack of moral integrity; for crime to be one demonstrating lack of moral integrity, it must be one involving willful deceit or calculated disregard for honest dealings, and thus more than intent or criminal mens rea is needed for summary dismissal from office. Duffy v Ward, 81 N.Y.2d 127, 596 N.Y.S.2d 746, 612 N.E.2d 1213, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 635 (N.Y. 1993).

The word "conviction" as used in subd. 1, par. e, of this section requires not only an adjudication of guilt, by plea or verdict, but in addition, a judgment whether such judgment imposes a sentence or suspends sentence. Keogh v Wagner, 20 A.D.2d 380, 247 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4296 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 569, 254 N.Y.S.2d 833, 203 N.E.2d 298, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 843 (N.Y. 1964).

State senator, who automatically forfeited seat pursuant to CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) after having been convicted of felony of making false statement on loan application, was properly declared ineligible to participate as candidate in primary election to fill unexpired term of same office he forfeited. Alamo v Strohm, 153 A.D.2d 542, 545 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11207 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 74 N.Y.2d 801, 545 N.Y.S.2d 689, 544 N.E.2d 608, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2708 (N.Y. 1989).

The legislature enacted statute, providing that every office held by a public officer shall be vacant in the event of conviction of the office holder of a felony or a crime involving a violation of his oath of office, under the permissive portions of constitutional articles governing removal from office for misconduct and when an office is deemed vacant, and thus said statute applied to claimant seeking salary and fringe benefits from period of date of conviction of felony to date he resigned as Justice of the Supreme Court. Thaler v State, 79 Misc. 2d 621, 360 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1720 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1974).

New Jersey conviction of tenured New York City correction officer for possession of weapon as first-time offender, which did not subject him to imprisonment, could not be deemed "felony" for purposes of automatic termination provisions of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e). Quaranta v Jacobson, 167 Misc. 2d 1035, 641 N.Y.S.2d 1013, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

In an action pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78, the court determined that the denial of former police officers' petition for reinstatement to a city police department pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) was proper, as the officers had relayed inconsistent accounts of the events surround an assault on a prisoner by other police officers, and it did not matter that they were conviction free given the lingering doubts about their credibility. Matter of Bruder v Kelly, 844 N.Y.S.2d 621, 17 Misc. 3d 372, 238 N.Y.L.J. 25, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5881 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007).

Once a public officer is convicted and the condition of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) fulfilled, that employee loses any property interest in their job. Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1) does not offend due process because public officers convicted of felonies lose their property right in their jobs immediately upon conviction. Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

Dismissal pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) is proper since the public has a right to rest assured that its police officers are individuals of moral integrity. Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

8. —Automatic vacation, operation of law

When New York City police officer is convicted of felony or "oath of office" crime, police commissioner may proceed under CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) and result is automatic expulsion; however, for other convictions, administrative hearing is required under NYC Admin Code § 14-115(b). Foley v Bratton, 92 N.Y.2d 781, 686 N.Y.S.2d 359, 709 N.E.2d 100, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 24 (N.Y. 1999).

Upon the conviction of Justice of the Supreme Court of a felony, the office held by Justice became vacant by operation of law at time of the jury verdict of guilty, and no salary or fringe benefits were thereafter due. Thaler v State, 79 Misc. 2d 621, 360 N.Y.S.2d 986, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1720 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1974).

Where a former corrections officer's pled guilty to stalking (18 Pa.C.S. § 2709.1(a)), as that crime carried a possible penalty of over one year's imprisonment under Pennsylvania law and thus would have been in felony under New York law, pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e), his office became vacant automatically upon his conviction and without any required government action; therefore, he had not been entitled to a disciplinary hearing before he was discharged. Matter of Rodriguez v Schriro, 936 N.Y.S.2d 838, 34 Misc. 3d 781, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5816 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011), aff'd, 95 A.D.3d 634, 944 N.Y.S.2d 536, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3835 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012).

Pennsylvania's stalking statute, 18 Pa.C.S. § 2709.1(a), requires a course of conduct or repeated commission of the elements of the offense; therefore § 2709.1(a) is misdemeanor involving lack of moral integrity for purposes of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e). Therefore, upon a corrections officer's conviction of that crime, his office automatically became vacant and he had not been entitled to a disciplinary hearing before he was terminated. Matter of Rodriguez v Schriro, 936 N.Y.S.2d 838, 34 Misc. 3d 781, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5816 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011), aff'd, 95 A.D.3d 634, 944 N.Y.S.2d 536, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3835 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding, the dismissal of a veteran New York City police officer was neither arbitrary nor capricious because the officer was automatically terminated from service by operation of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) when he pleaded guilty to Offering a False Instrument for Filing in the Second Degree, N.Y. Penal Law § 175.30, which constituted a violation of the officer's oath of office, and, as such, no pretermination hearing was required. Matter of Depamphilis v Kelly, 944 N.Y.S.2d 861, 36 Misc. 3d 514, 2012 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2323 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2012), aff'd, 107 A.D.3d 611, 967 N.Y.S.2d 645, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4791 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2013).

Although the conduct that led to a police officer's conviction of endangering the welfare of a child, a misdemeanor, involved sex with a 16-year-old, the offense could be committed without the commission of any sexual or violent acts, so the offense was not a misdemeanor that resulted in the automatic termination of public employment; therefore, the officer was to be reinstated, with back pay, pending the holding of a due process hearing. Feola v Carroll, 25 A.D.3d 697, 810 N.Y.S.2d 92, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 6 N.Y.3d 891, 817 N.Y.S.2d 625, 850 N.E.2d 672, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 1352 (N.Y. 2006), rev'd, 10 N.Y.3d 569, 860 N.Y.S.2d 457, 890 N.E.2d 219, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1476 (N.Y. 2008).

On his claims of discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e et seq., 42 U.S.C.S. § 1981, and New York Human Rights Law, appellant's guilty plea to the charge of endangering the welfare of a child resulted in his automatic termination under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e), he could not prove an adverse employment action for any of the measures taken after his guilty plea; further, his suspension with pay pending the investigation was not, in these circumstances, an adverse employment action, and appellant had no constitutionally recognized cause of action for deprivation of professional courtesy that police sometimes extend to their fellow officers. His discrimination claims, therefore, failed as a matter of law. Brown v City of Syracuse, 673 F.3d 141, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 5281 (2d Cir. 2012).

Tenured employee was denied partial summary judgment on his claim that the board of education violated due process in terminating him and rescinding his executory contract to become school superintendent because disputed factual issues remained as to whether his duties as assistant superintendent rendered him a public officer under New York law whose position automatically became vacant upon a felony conviction; whether his state law claims were barred by his failure to participate in an examination under N.Y. Gen. Mun. Law § 50-h as requested by the board; and whether he failed to commence a proceeding challenging the board's actions. Nichiporuk v Bd. of Educ., 415 F. Supp. 2d 242, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6904 (W.D.N.Y. 2006).

Police officer's guilty plea conviction for a violation of N.Y. Penal Law § 260.10 was a crime that involved a violation of the officer's oath of office, and his position of a police officer was automatically terminated by an operation of law without benefit of a due process hearing. Brown v City of Syracuse, 648 F. Supp. 2d 461, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 78565 (N.D.N.Y. 2009).

9. —Hearing

Police officer who was terminated from his position when he was convicted of felony had no right to reinstatement hearing where his conviction was reversed on appeal; under CLS Pub O Law § 30, his position became vacant at time of his conviction, and he no longer had protectable property interest in his former office. Briggins v McGuire, 67 N.Y.2d 965, 502 N.Y.S.2d 985, 494 N.E.2d 90, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18591 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 479 U.S. 930, 107 S. Ct. 399, 93 L. Ed. 2d 353, 1986 U.S. LEXIS 4493 (U.S. 1986).

Any hearing into the facts underlying a police officer's conviction of endangering the welfare of a child, N.Y. Penal Law § 260.10(1), was unnecessary prior to his termination pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) because one who knowingly engaged in conduct likely to be injurious to a child's welfare was deemed wanting in moral integrity; dismissal of the police officer's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding against a city and a commissioner, seeking reinstatement and demanding a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 was proper. Matter of Feola v Carroll, 10 N.Y.3d 569, 860 N.Y.S.2d 457, 890 N.E.2d 219, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1476 (N.Y. 2008).

New York City Police Commissioner had discretion to dismiss police officers without administrative hearing under NYC Admin Code § 14-115(a) where each had been convicted of crime following full trial. Griffin v Bratton, 248 A.D.2d 242, 670 N.Y.S.2d 34, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2575 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), rev'd, 92 N.Y.2d 781, 686 N.Y.S.2d 359, 709 N.E.2d 100, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 24 (N.Y. 1999).

City correction officers were not entitled to pretermination hearing where they necessarily admitted in connection with their guilty pleas that "with intent to evade any tax imposed under ... (an) income or earnings tax statute, or any requirement thereof or any lawful requirement of the tax commission thereunder," they either "fail(ed) to make, render, sign, certify or file any return, or to supply any information within the time required by or under the provisions of such article or any such statute," or "with like intent, (did) supply any false or fraudulent information" (CLS Tax § 1801(a)), their public offices were vacated automatically on conviction, misdemeanors of which they were convicted having involved willful deceit or calculated disregard for honest dealings. Bowman v Kerik, 271 A.D.2d 225, 706 N.Y.S.2d 327, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3838 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Police officer, who was convicted of misdemeanor, was entitled to police department hearing prior to her discharge from office under NYC Admin Code § 14-115(a). Brapham v Safir, 172 Misc. 2d 767, 659 N.Y.S.2d 710, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 196 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

Police officer who was dismissed from police force upon conviction of crime without pre-dismissal hearing to determine if his conviction constituted violation of his oath of office was not denied equal protection or due process, where officer failed to show that any other officer who committed misdemeanor while on-duty was given pre-dismissal hearing or permitted to retain his job, and where conviction for violation of oath of office negated any property or liberty interest in prior position. Weissinger v Ward, 704 F. Supp. 349, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1117 (E.D.N.Y.), aff'd, 880 F.2d 1320, 1989 U.S. App. LEXIS 10938 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1989).

Because defendants, the department of corrections and its commissioner, and the city, did not invoke N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) until over two years after plaintiff former corrections officer's conviction for third degree sexual abuse, and instead elected a disciplinary process under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, provided counseling, and then engaged in a lengthy negotiation process, defendants indicated that the offense was insufficient for automatic termination under § 30(1)(e), and that a factual hearing would be necessary; once deciding that the offense did not fall under the purview of § 30(1)(e) and that disciplinary proceedings would be more appropriate, defendants could not later seek to revoke that determination in order to avoid the procedural requirements of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(1), and thus defendant's motion to dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) was denied. Whitfield v Fraser, 272 F. Supp. 2d 340, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12292 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

While a public officer, including one who may otherwise be removed only pursuant to the Civil Service Law, automatically forfeits his office upon conviction of a felony, or a crime involving a violation of his oath of office, a municipal employee may not be similarly dismissed upon such a conviction, but, rather, may be removed only pursuant to a hearing under the Civil Service Law. 1975 Ops St Compt File #643.

10. —Violation of federal law

Removal from office effected by operation of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) results in bar to officeholder's seeking same office for duration of term for which officer had been elected; thus, state senator convicted of federal felony was precluded from seeking election to unexpired term of very office from which he had been removed. Alamo v Strohm, 74 N.Y.2d 801, 545 N.Y.S.2d 689, 544 N.E.2d 608, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2708 (N.Y. 1989).

The word "felony" as used in par. 1-e of this section is restricted to crimes which are felonies under the laws of New York, and since the crime of conspiracy to obstruct justice is merely a misdemeanor under § 580 of the Penal Law, a conviction for such offense under federal law making it a felony could not give rise to a vacancy in the office of Supreme Court Justice which would preclude the Justice so convicted from applying for, and being entitled to, retirement allowance under the New York City Employees Retirement System, particularly where only a jury verdict had been returned in Federal Court, without sentence pronounced, when the application for retirement was duly made. Keogh v Wagner, 20 A.D.2d 380, 247 N.Y.S.2d 269, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4296 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 569, 254 N.Y.S.2d 833, 203 N.E.2d 298, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 843 (N.Y. 1964).

Petitioner's employment as correction officer was properly terminated under automatic vacatur provision of CLS Pub O § 30 on his conviction of federal felony of mail fraud (18 USCS § 1341). Graham v Coughlin, 135 A.D.2d 1014, 522 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52893 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 1014, 534 N.Y.S.2d 919, 531 N.E.2d 640, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2703 (N.Y. 1988).

A conviction in the Federal court of conspiring to teach the overthrow of the United States Government by force results in the vacatur of the office of city councilman under this section. Davis v Impelliteri, 94 N.Y.S.2d 159, 197 Misc. 162, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1336 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1950).

State Comptroller's removal of state senator from payroll upon his conviction of federal felony of making false statement on loan application did not impermissibly interfere with Senate's control over its own members or diminish separation of powers principle underlying CLS NY Const Art III § 9, since incumbent's conviction of felony or crime involving violation of oath of office abridges office and automatically terminates its duration under CLS Pub O § 30(1); thus, Article 78 petition for judgment directing comptroller to reinstate petitioner as state senator would be denied. Ruiz v Regan, 143 Misc. 2d 773, 542 N.Y.S.2d 469, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 299 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Where two former public officers were terminated from their jobs pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) after being convicted of violating 18 U.S.C.S. §§ 287, 3351, the public officers lost any property interest they had in their job, and the court granted the State of New York's Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) motion. Bolden v City of New York, 256 F. Supp. 2d 193, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5489 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

11. —Violation of oath of office

Criminal trespass is not sort of misdemeanor that can be construed facially as crime "involving violation of [the] oath of office" for purposes of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e), and thus police officer convicted of second degree criminal trespass was entitled to hearing rather than summary dismissal from office, since lack of moral integrity is not implicit in elements of offense. Duffy v Ward, 81 N.Y.2d 127, 596 N.Y.S.2d 746, 612 N.E.2d 1213, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 635 (N.Y. 1993).

Misdemeanor conviction for conduct outside line of duty is "a crime involving a violation of [the] oath of office" under CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) only if violation is apparent from Penal Law's definition of crime. Duffy v Ward, 81 N.Y.2d 127, 596 N.Y.S.2d 746, 612 N.E.2d 1213, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 635 (N.Y. 1993).

Automatic termination of Article 78 petitioner's employment as police officer under CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) could not be supported by petitioner's conviction of second degree criminal trespass for entering vestibule of residence to continue argument over off-duty traffic accident; a misdemeanor conviction for conduct outside the line of duty will be "a crime involving a violation of [the] oath of office" under § 30 (1) (e) only if the violation is misdemeanor that demonstrates a lack of moral integrity and for a crime to be one demonstrating a lack of moral integrity, it must be one involving willful deceit or a calculated disregard for honest dealings. Duffy v Ward, 81 N.Y.2d 127, 596 N.Y.S.2d 746, 612 N.E.2d 1213, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 635 (N.Y. 1993).

For purpose of statute providing that office shall be vacant upon incumbent's conviction of felony or crime involving violation of oath of office, conspiracy to bribe is no less a violation of police officer's oath of office than the acceptance or giving of the bribe itself. Sroka v Municipal Civil Service Com., 57 A.D.2d 1064, 395 N.Y.S.2d 854, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12376 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Receiving an unlawful gratuity (Penal Law 200.35) is a violation involving a uniformed officer's oath of office, and immediately upon an officer's conviction of the offense, his position automatically becomes vacant rendering any subsequent departmental proceeding related to that office without effect. Pesale v Beekman, 81 A.D.2d 590, 437 N.Y.S.2d 448, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11075 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 54 N.Y.2d 707, 442 N.Y.S.2d 989, 426 N.E.2d 483, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2635 (N.Y. 1981).

In view of strong public policy in favor of effectuating mandate of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e), automatic termination is not waived by commencement of disciplinary proceedings; thus, city was entitled to summary judgment dismissing action by police officer seeking back pay for period in which disciplinary proceedings were conducted following his conviction of perjury for making false statements in affidavit submitted in support of search warrant application. Lemieux v Niagara Falls, 138 A.D.2d 945, 526 N.Y.S.2d 281, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2752 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 806, 532 N.Y.S.2d 847, 529 N.E.2d 177, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2468 (N.Y. 1988).

Police officer violated his oath of office and was thus subject to automatic termination under CLS Pub O § 30 for making false statements in search warrant application. Lemieux v Niagara Falls, 138 A.D.2d 945, 526 N.Y.S.2d 281, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2752 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 806, 532 N.Y.S.2d 847, 529 N.E.2d 177, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2468 (N.Y. 1988).

City police commissioner properly determined not to reappoint petitioner as city police officer, and thus petitioner's Article 78 proceeding would be dismissed, where (1) petitioner admitted to ongoing relationship with, and acceptance of gratuity from, tow truck operator regulated by police commissioner, and (2) petitioner had been found present at tow truck operator's shop for personal reasons while on duty. Saporita v Brown, 180 A.D.2d 597, 580 N.Y.S.2d 306, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2809 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Second degree menacing is crime involving violation of police officer's oath of office under CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e). Segars v City of Buffalo, 237 A.D.2d 910, 654 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3505 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), app. denied, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6453 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't May 30, 1997).

Police officer, who lost his position automatically under CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) following his conviction of second degree menacing, was not entitled to pretermination hearing pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75. Segars v City of Buffalo, 237 A.D.2d 910, 654 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3505 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), app. denied, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6453 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't May 30, 1997).

Petitioner could be terminated from his position as New York City police officer without hearing after he was convicted of second degree aggravated harassment arising from conduct committed in line of duty, which constituted violation of his oath of office. Pirozzi v Safir, 270 A.D.2d 2, 703 N.Y.S.2d 185, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2263 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 756, 712 N.Y.S.2d 448, 734 N.E.2d 760, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1713 (N.Y. 2000).

The office of an election commissioner convicted of the misdemeanor of offering a false instrument for filing would be properly declared vacant, pursuant to Pub O § 30(1)(e), which applies to the public office of election commissioner, since the conviction was for a crime involving a violation of defendant's oath of office. County of Broome v Conte, 120 Misc. 2d 1050, 466 N.Y.S.2d 1003, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3847 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), aff'd, 101 A.D.2d 905, 476 N.Y.S.2d 261, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18628 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

New Jersey conviction of tenured New York City correction officer for possession of weapon as first-time offender did not involve violation of his oath of office for purposes of automatic termination provisions of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e), which contemplates conduct indicating lack of moral integrity; if commissioner sought to justify termination on that basis, he must first afford correction officer opportunity to present his version of incident. Quaranta v Jacobson, 167 Misc. 2d 1035, 641 N.Y.S.2d 1013, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

Although violations of N.Y. Tax Law § 1817(b)(1) were misdemeanors, a county legislator's plea of guilty properly resulted in the automatic vacatur of his seat under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) because the crime involved the filing of documents not believed to be true as to every material matter and, thus, demonstrated a calculated disregard for honest dealings and a violation of the legislator's oath of office. Matter of Holt v Marinelli, 45 A.D.3d 1317, 845 N.Y.S.2d 639, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11460 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2007), app. denied, 10 N.Y.3d 702, 853 N.Y.S.2d 543, 883 N.E.2d 370, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 192 (N.Y. 2008).

Councilmember could not continue to serve on the town board because he had pled guilty to attempted criminal contempt; one who engages in conduct likely to violate a court order is someone wanting in moral integrity for purposes of Public Officers Law § 30. The charge arose from an incident hours in which the councilmember allegedly pursued his wife aggressively on the thruway, hours after issuance of a stay away order. Matter of Town of Cheektowaga v Rogowski, 61 Misc. 3d 587, 84 N.Y.S.3d 332, 2018 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3960 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2018).

12. —Effect of vacatur or reversal

Abridgment of term of public officer upon his conviction of felony is not punishment for his offense. It is automatic limitation upon duration of his office, and application of statute is not defeated by possibility that judgment may be reversed. In re Obergfell, 239 N.Y. 48, 145 N.E. 323, 239 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 48, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 475 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 239 N.Y. 589, 147 N.E. 207, 239 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 589, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 633 (N.Y. 1924).

After a deputy police commissioner had been convicted of accepting bribes, a vacancy occurred in that office and petitioner was not reinstated after his conviction had been reversed. Thus, since petitioner's civil service had been discontinued through no fault or delinquency on his part he was entitled to a retirement allowance under Civil Service Law § 77. Pauley v McGovern, 1 N.Y.2d 261, 152 N.Y.S.2d 3, 134 N.E.2d 819, 1956 N.Y. LEXIS 875 (N.Y. 1956).

In accordance with section 30 of the Public Officers Law, every public office becomes vacant upon the officer's conviction of a felony, and the contingency of reversal of the judgment of conviction does not defeat the operation of this statutory directive. Toro v Malcolm, 44 N.Y.2d 146, 404 N.Y.S.2d 558, 375 N.E.2d 739, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1859 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 45 N.Y.2d 776, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 3339 (N.Y. 1978), cert. denied, 439 U.S. 837, 99 S. Ct. 121, 58 L. Ed. 2d 133, 1978 U.S. LEXIS 2757 (U.S. 1978), limited, Briggins v McGuire, 118 Misc. 2d 964, 462 N.Y.S.2d 357, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3429 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

City correction officer was not entitled to the compensation he would have received as a public officer from date his office was vacated by reason of his conviction to date of reinstatement after it was determined that his conviction was based on a mistaken identification and accordingly reversed. Toro v Malcolm, 44 N.Y.2d 146, 404 N.Y.S.2d 558, 375 N.E.2d 739, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1859 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 45 N.Y.2d 776, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 3339 (N.Y. 1978), cert. denied, 439 U.S. 837, 99 S. Ct. 121, 58 L. Ed. 2d 133, 1978 U.S. LEXIS 2757 (U.S. 1978), limited, Briggins v McGuire, 118 Misc. 2d 964, 462 N.Y.S.2d 357, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3429 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Where, by operation of law, the office held by the decedent became vacant upon his conviction of a felony, the reinstatement of the deceased to his former office was improper under evidence that the decedent appealed his conviction to the Appellate Division, which affirmed, he then appealed to the Court of Appeals and, while the appeal was pending, he died, and due to his death the Court of Appeals dismissed the appeal and directed a vacatur of the conviction and a dismissal of the indictment, since the vacatur, because of death while the appeal was pending, did not restore the decedent to his former office. Breslin v Leary, 35 A.D.2d 794, 315 N.Y.S.2d 766, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3461 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1970).

Reversal of officer's misdemeanor conviction and dismissal of indictment may have removed officer's disability to hold office but could not entitle him to reinstatement with back pay. Sroka v Municipal Civil Service Com., 57 A.D.2d 1064, 395 N.Y.S.2d 854, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12376 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Notwithstanding possibility that former officer's conviction may be reversed, CLS Public Officers Law § 30 automatically acts to vacate office upon conviction; legislature has differentiated between high standard that must be satisfied for serving in public office, and unrelated standard of proof necessary to support criminal conviction. Briggins v McGuire, 112 A.D.2d 827, 492 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), aff'd, 67 N.Y.2d 965, 502 N.Y.S.2d 985, 494 N.E.2d 90, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18591 (N.Y. 1986).

Petitioner, whose felony conviction had been reversed on appeal, was not entitled to a post-termination hearing on his application for reinstatement; the office having been vacated long before the application for reinstatement, all rights to the office disappeared at that time. Briggins v McGuire, 112 A.D.2d 827, 492 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), aff'd, 67 N.Y.2d 965, 502 N.Y.S.2d 985, 494 N.E.2d 90, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18591 (N.Y. 1986).

Reversal of a conviction and dismissal of an indictment may remove a disability to hold office, but it does not entitle one to automatic reinstatement. Discretion in such matters rightfully resides in the governmental agency in which the officer was employed. Briggins v McGuire, 112 A.D.2d 827, 492 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), aff'd, 67 N.Y.2d 965, 502 N.Y.S.2d 985, 494 N.E.2d 90, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18591 (N.Y. 1986).

CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) (which mandates reinstatement hearing where non-elected official is stripped of office based solely on his conviction of felony or crime involving violation of oath of office, and such conviction is later reversed or vacated) did not apply where petitioner's conviction of second degree manslaughter was reversed because of trial court's erroneous jury charge and, when retried, petitioner was found not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect; statute was not meant to encompass acquittal since one who is acquitted is not stripped of office and his office is not then vacant by operation of statute. Hays v Ward, 179 A.D.2d 427, 578 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 170 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 754, 587 N.Y.S.2d 906, 600 N.E.2d 633, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1804 (N.Y. 1992).

Police officer was not entitled to reinstatement hearing mandated by July 27, 1987 amendment to CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) where his conviction of second degree manslaughter was reversed on July 13, 1987 based on trial court's erroneous jury charge, since amendment was remedial and would be applied prospectively only. Hays v Ward, 179 A.D.2d 427, 578 N.Y.S.2d 168, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 170 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 754, 587 N.Y.S.2d 906, 600 N.E.2d 633, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1804 (N.Y. 1992).

Under this section a public office instantaneously becomes vacant upon conviction of incumbent of a felony, and a reversal of conviction and dismissal of indictment does not entitle former officer to resume position. Smith v Noeppel, 120 N.Y.S.2d 466, 204 Misc. 49, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1632 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

Former police officer, whose manslaughter conviction was reversed prior to effective date of amendment to CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) granting nonelected public official right to reinstatement hearing upon reversal of felony conviction resulting in vacatur of office, would be granted such hearing where he was retried and acquitted upon verdict of not responsible by reason of mental disease or defect after effective date of statutory amendment. Hays v Ward, 144 Misc. 2d 227, 542 N.Y.S.2d 949, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 339 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Condition of Public Officers Law 30(1)(e) is not unconstitutional for arbitrariness, and police officers were not deprived of any constitutionally protected property right as result of police commissioner's decison not to rehire them following reversal of their bribery convictions. Greene v McGuire, 683 F.2d 32, 1982 U.S. App. LEXIS 18387 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1982).

Police officer's property interest in position is extinguished by conviction of criminal offense, and property interest in employment is not revived upon later reversal of conviction. Santoli v New York, 612 F. Supp. 938, 1985 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18394 (S.D.N.Y. 1985).

13. Illness or insanity

County employee was unlawfully terminated by personal action of the County Executive acting without authority, since the power to remove an appointee is incident to the power to appoint, and that power resided with the director of the department, and since the County Executive lacked the power to appoint himself acting director, even though the director of the department was in the hospital, that disability not creating a vacancy in the position (Pub O § 30). Furthermore, the fact that the County Executive had notified the director that he would be replaced did not mean that he had been removed, since no qualified person had been found for the position of director and the director was still receiving compensation. Bosco v County of Oneida, 106 Misc. 2d 872, 435 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2794 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1980), aff'd, 79 A.D.2d 1092, 436 N.Y.S.2d 1021, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10031 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

A commitment order of a county judge pursuant to § 74 of the Mental Hygiene Law is not an order of a court of competent jurisdiction within the meaning of this section providing for forfeiture of office for insanity. Sullivan v Whitney, 25 N.Y.S.2d 762, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1494 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

Upon adjudication of insanity or incompetency the offices held by the petitioner immediately became vacant. Application of Carter, 72 N.Y.S.2d 666, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2833 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

When by reason of illness a town assessor is unable to temporarily perform his duties as such, supervisor or town board may not employ another person to perform such duties and direct the assessor to pay for such services from the salary received by him. 1945 Ops St Compt 400.

A Town Board has no authority to declare an office vacant and appoint a new incumbent, merely because a councilman or justice of the peace is incapacitated due to sickness, though it can do so if he has been judicially declared insane or incompetent. 1961 Ops St Compt #922.

14. Failure to file oath or undertaking

Where a public official failed to file his official oath of office within the time prescribed by this section, the appointment was vitiated and the office became vacant. Ginsberg v Long Beach, 286 N.Y. 400, 36 N.E.2d 637, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 400, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1452 (N.Y. 1941).

No vacancy is created if incumbent files oath as required by statute after delayed issuance of certificate of election even though more than the time prescribed by the statute has elapsed after term of office would otherwise have begun. Application of Cosgrove, 292 N.Y. 50, 54 N.E.2d 3, 292 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 50, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 1405 (N.Y. 1944).

It is only after the expiration of the statutory period that failure to file the oath and proof of eligibility would result in the office being declared vacant. Mazzotti v Swezey, 103 N.Y.S.2d 956, 199 Misc. 987, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1697 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 278 A.D. 958, 105 N.Y.S.2d 993, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5367 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951).

Though the treasurer of a school district was required by N.Y. Public Officers Law § 30(h)(1) to execute his oath of office within 30 days of his appointment, as the 30 days did not begin to run until the school district clerk provided him notice of his appointment, and he executed the oath less than 30 days thereafter, the execution was timely and he was thus entitled to all statutory protections afforded to that position. Matter of Scro v Board of Educ. of the Jordan-Elbridge Cent. School Dist., 921 N.Y.S.2d 795, 31 Misc. 3d 1029, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1881 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 87 A.D.3d 1342, 930 N.Y.S.2d 706, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6642 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2011).

School board position is not vacant for failure of elected official to file oath within 30 days of commencement of term where candidate left for Europe before he received notification of his election in writing from clerk and on his return 7 weeks later executed and filed oath on same day he was formally notified of his election. Re Horne, Op Comr Educ No. 9985.

Appointments are vitiated and the offices ipso facto vacant where appointees fail to take and file official oaths. Where appointees take and file official oaths, the offices are not vacated by reason of their failure to act, and subsequent attempts to appoint to fill the same offices during their terms are invalid. 1954 Ops St Compt 332.

15. —Particular offices

Upon refusal or neglect of city health officer to file official oath within the time prescribed after commencement of his term of office, office becomes ipso facto vacant, without judicial procedure or notice, and vacancy may be then filled by proper appointive power. People ex rel. Walton v Hicks, 173 A.D. 338, 158 N.Y.S. 757, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6006 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916), aff'd, 221 N.Y. 503, 116 N.E. 1069, 221 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 503, 1917 N.Y. LEXIS 1352 (N.Y. 1917).

The failure of the former members of the Lackawanna Housing Authority to file their oaths of office, as required by this section, made the offices vacant and the newly appointed officers, having filed their oaths, could maintain an action of mandamus compelling defendants to deliver all property of the authority to the petitioners and restraining defendants from acting as members of the authority, where the facts are not in dispute and the only question to be determined is a question of law, although ordinarily a proceeding in the nature of quo warranto is the only action which lies to try title to public office. Sylvester v Mescall, 277 A.D. 961, 99 N.Y.S.2d 984, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4001 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

Court erred in annulling city mayor's determination that position held by respondent as member of municipal housing authority was vacant and in refusing to uphold mayor's appointment of another to respondent's position since respondent did not file his oath of office within 30 days of his reappointment as required by CLS Pub O § 30, making him mere holdover until his successor was chosen and qualified. Staniszewski v Lackawanna Mun. Hous. Auth., 191 A.D.2d 1048, 595 N.Y.S.2d 160, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3061 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

County commissioner of social services was public officer not employee, was required to file oath of office within 30 days of reappointment to office, and office was vacant by reason of his failure to file required oath. Boisvert v County of Ontario, 89 Misc. 2d 183, 391 N.Y.S.2d 49, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 57 A.D.2d 1051, 395 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12360 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Action to preclude candidates from holding dual offices was timely because one candidate had already taken the oath of office as a county legislator, while two other candidates held off taking the oath pending the outcome of the actions; a failure to take and file an oath of office within 30 days of commencement of the term created a vacancy in that office. Spencer v Cristo, 893 N.Y.S.2d 761, 27 Misc. 3d 334, 2010 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 145 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 70 A.D.3d 1297, 895 N.Y.S.2d 598, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1652 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Petitioner's seat on board of education was vacated as of August 1, 2001 and his execution of oath of office on August 8, 2001 did not permit him to fill entire 3-year term to which he was duly elected on May 15, 2001, although board supported his request to have his term of office reinstated through June 30, 2004, where he was originally elected to 3-year term in May 1998, and he was reelected in May 2001, but he did not attend board's reorganization meeting on July 2, 2001 and therefore did not complete and file oath of office within 30 days of commencement of term of office to which he was elected; when petitioner was appointed on September 5, 2001 and presumably executed and filed his oath properly, board had no authority to appoint him to term beyond next election. 2001 Op Comm Ed No. 14,710.

16. — —Town offices

Town board properly declared office of assessor vacant where appointee did not file his oath of office until more than 30 days after both notification of his appointment and commencement of his term. Lombino v Town Bd., 206 A.D.2d 462, 614 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7488 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 84 N.Y.2d 807, 621 N.Y.S.2d 516, 645 N.E.2d 1216, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 3465 (N.Y. 1994).

Failure of one elected to office of Town Tax Collector to file undertaking as provided by Town Law § 25 results, in conjunction with this section, in office of tax collector being declared vacant. Longobardi v Oakley, 51 Misc. 2d 424, 273 N.Y.S.2d 367, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1781 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

A defect caused by the failure of one assessor, who nevertheless exercised the functions of office, to file his oath, thereby creating a vacancy in the office, and causing a town to have one less assessor than is called for by Town Law § 20, is overcome by Public Officers Law § 15 which validates and makes his acts of as much force and effect as if such oath had been taken and filed, notwithstanding any law declaring the office to be vacant. Wood v La Rose, 67 Misc. 2d 597, 324 N.Y.S.2d 788, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1237 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971), rev'd, 39 A.D.2d 469, 336 N.Y.S.2d 795, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3604 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1972).

17. — —Village offices

Where one appointed as village street commissioner failed to take the required oath and served for only a short time prior to becoming ill, the office could be treated as vacant. Furnia v Murphy, 31 N.Y.S.2d 875, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941), modified, 264 A.D. 809, 35 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4813 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Village treasurer and superintendent of public works must take an oath of office at commencement of each term of office. Such term, except in case of vacancy, commences at noon of the first Monday in the month following the annual village election and is for a period of two years. A village policeman appointed pursuant to § 188 of the Village Law is a public officer whose term expires at the end of each official year. Such policemen must take and file an oath of office with the commencement of each term. A member of a village police department appointed pursuant to § 188-a of the Village Law does not serve for a fixed term and need only take and file an oath of office before the commencement of his official duties. 1945 Ops St Compt 95.

A village street commissioner must take and file oath of office before commencement of each one-year term. A village health officer must take and file an oath of office before commencement of each four-year term. 1945 Ops St Compt 115.

A village treasurer and a village clerk must take and file the constitutional oath of office upon the commencement of each term of office. Such term of office, except in the case of a vacancy, is for a period of two official years. 1946 Ops St Compt 235.

Participation in a meeting of the village board by a trustee who has failed to file his oath of office, does not void any of the proceedings of the board. 1955 Ops St Compt 565.

18. Absence, military service

Absence on military service does not create a vacancy in the office of district attorney. People v Jackson, 48 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1949 (N.Y. County Ct. 1944).

Commissioner upheld determination that petitioner vacated his seat on board of education by missing 3 successive meetings where petitioner introduced no evidence, other than his own assertions, that he obtained board approval prior to his absences, and his claims were directly contradicted by sworn statements from board members and district clerk; petitioner did not offer personal illness as excuse but, rather, claimed that he was absent due to "an emotionally draining estrangement from [his] spouse [which] involved court proceedings." 2008 Op Comm Ed No. 15,757.

Village mayor is entitled to salary even though he absents himself from the village for extended periods of time. 1955 Ops St Compt 413.

19. Acceptance of second office, incompatible offices

Acceptance of office of member of board of health vacates offices held in educational system. Metzger v Swift, 258 N.Y. 440, 180 N.E. 112, 258 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 440, 1932 N.Y. LEXIS 1203 (N.Y. 1932).

Acceptance of a second office creates a vacancy in the first if the two offices are incompatible, and the offices of justice of the peace and town clerk are incompatible. People ex rel. Earwicker v Dillon, 38 A.D. 539, 56 N.Y.S. 416, 1899 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 561 (N.Y. App. Div. 1899).

There was no vacancy in the office of village police justice at the time a village council attempted to appoint petitioner to the position, merely because the prior police justice had been elected Family Court judge and his term of office as Family Court judge had already commenced, where such prior justice had not yet resigned from his office as police judge, taken the oath of office as Family Court judge, or otherwise taken any definitive step indicating acceptance of the Family Court office, and petitioner's appointment as police justice was accordingly premature and invalid. Fauci v Lee, 38 Misc. 2d 564, 237 N.Y.S.2d 469, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2301 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 19 A.D.2d 777, 242 N.Y.S.2d 630, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6046 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1963).

Offices of justice of the peace and coroner are incompatible. 1946 Ops St Compt 137.

20. Residency requirements, generally

Equal protection clauses of United States and state constitutions did not afford New York City firefighters living outside state "fundamental right" to be employed by city, in face of amendments to CLS Pub O §§ 3 and 30 requiring public officers living outside state to move to one of designated counties within one year of effective date, since firefighters were not suspect class, and state has long-standing interest in requiring its officers to be state residents; moreover, amendments rationally required in-state officers to move to designated counties only if they should move from their current residences in non-designated counties, since such limited accommodation was extended only to those who had already satisfied in-state residency requirement. Winkler v Spinnato, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988), cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1005, 109 S. Ct. 1640, 104 L. Privileges and immunities clause of United States Constitution did not afford New York City firefighters living outside state "fundamental right" to be employed by city, in face of amendments to CLS Pub O §§ 3 and 30 requiring public officers living outside state to move to one of designated counties within one year of effective date, since public employment is not privilege which "bears upon the vitality of the Nation as a single entity." Hearing panel of town board failed to apply proper construction of term "inhabitant" in CLS Pub O § 30(1)(d) in determining that petitioner vacated his position as town police officer under statute by virtue of having "resided" in Pennsylvania after certain date, since statutory term "inhabitant" refers to public officer's domicile rather than residence, and proof that petitioner continued his New York domicile for sole purpose of maintaining employment with town supported rather than defeated his cause. Larkin v Herbert, 185 A.D.2d 607, 586 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9596 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Where petitioner seeks respondent's removal from office as board of education member upon respondent's failure to maintain legal residence within school district, appeal will be dismissed since, inter alia, petitioner has offered no official record to support allegation. The sealer of weights and measures of a city is a public officer and must be a resident of the city. 1955 Ops St Compt 368.

An appointee to the office of town constable must be a resident of the town in which he is appointed. 1967 Ops St Compt File #778.

22. — —Village clerks and treasurers

Village clerk must reside within village. State Comptroller has no authority to waive this provision of law. 1945 Ops St Compt 18.

23. — —Police department

Determination that police officer had not established residence within town or village in compliance with village resolution and police regulations was supported by substantial evidence despite fact that officer, who continued to list his phone number as that of his wife's residence in Buffalo, had rented an unfurnished apartment in the village. Nigro v Board of Trustees, 57 A.D.2d 695, 395 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11731 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Village resolution and police regulation requiring residency in town or village contemplated continual or at least extended physical presence at an abode within the town or village. Nigro v Board of Trustees, 57 A.D.2d 695, 395 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11731 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

The in-State residence requirement for public officers set out in section 30 of the Public Officers Law was not enforced against 36 plaintiffs, New York City Housing Authority police officers who reside in New Jersey and Connecticut. Brennan v New York City Housing Authority, 72 A.D.2d 410, 424 N.Y.S.2d 687, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9696 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1980).

Subd 4 of this statute is a general law. General statute relating to matter of State concern and applying to all localities having a given population is not thereby rendered local. Act need not apply to all persons, places, or things in the State to be deemed general if it applies to class and class constituted by act may be based on population. Such a statute will be upheld if conditions caused by population can be recognized as possibly common to class and are reasonably related to subject of the statute. Hesselgrave v King, 45 Misc. 2d 256, 256 N.Y.S.2d 753, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2357 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Section 822 of the New York City Charter, which provides that all New York City employees who are or become nonresidents of the City of New York shall agree to pay to the city an amount equal to the New York City resident income tax less any city earnings or personal income tax imposed on them during the same taxable period, is a valid condition of city employment and does not constitute a de facto residency requirement as it is common knowledge that a large percentage of New York City employees reside out of the City of New York; consequently, the statute, in and of itself, is not inconsistent with subdivision 4 of section 30 of the Public Officers Law which prohibits certain municipalities from removing a police officer from his office on the grounds of nonresidency, nor is it inconsistent with subdivision 2 of section 3 of the Public Officers Law which prohibits a municipality from denying certain nonresidents appointment to its police force. Watts v McGuire, 102 Misc. 2d 711, 424 N.Y.S.2d 327, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979), aff'd, 81 A.D.2d 791, 441 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11438 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981).

The apparent intent of a local law adopted by the City of Kingston was to require all members of the police force to reside in the city and non-compliance with or any violation of such law by a prospective appointee or member would prohibit an appointment to the force or would create a vacancy in the office. The law, however, needs to be clarified and is in conflict with the provisions of a certain statute and an examination announcement. 1968 Ops St Compt File #615.

In the absence of local legislation to the contrary, village police officers may reside outside of the village and within the geographical areas designated in Public Officers Law, § 30(4). 1974 Ops St Compt File #1329.

24. — — —Police force under 200

A village may pass a local residency law for members of the police department as long as the force does not consist of more than 200 full time members and the law does not apply to persons appointed prior to July 1, 1961 who then resided in the county or a contiguous county and continue to reside there. 1961 Ops St Compt #628.

A municipal corporation or political subdivision having a police force of less than 200 full-time members can adopt regulations containing residence requirements for its police officers appointed prior to the adoption of the regulations, with certain exceptions. 1964 Ops St Compt #738.

A village with a police force of less than 200 officers may require that its members reside within the village or within the town in which the village is located. 1974 Ops St Compt File #1329.

A city may not establish residency requirements for the appointment of members of a police force if they reside within certain geographic areas outside of the municipality, except that where a police force consists of less than 200 members, a municipality may require that the members reside within the municipality or within certain geographic areas. A city may impose reasonable residence qualifications applicable to employment and continuation in employment provided that such requirements are not inconsistent with any general laws. 1983 Op St Comp File #83-118.

25. — —Fire department

In Article 78 proceeding alleging that respondents violated CLS Pub O §§ 3(9) and 30(5) and constitutional requirements for civil service appointments (CLS NY Const Art V § 6) by letting prior eligible list for firefighter position expire for purpose of favoring New York City residents who would receive 5-point residency credit on subsequent firefighter examination, candidates on prior eligible list were not aggrieved by application of residency credit and thus lacked standing to seek to enjoin its use, where no residency credit was applied to their examination, they did not allege that they sat for subsequent examination, and they did not allege that all appointments could not lawfully be fulfilled from subsequent list unless residency credit was dropped as factor in determining that list. Altamore v Barrios-Paoli, 90 N.Y.2d 378, 660 N.Y.S.2d 834, 683 N.E.2d 740, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1369 (N.Y. 1997).

CLS Pub O §§ 3(9) and 30(5), which permit firefighters and certain other New York City employees to reside in nearby counties notwithstanding existence of other applicable statutory or regulatory local residency requirements, do not necessarily invalidate 5-point residency credit added to scores of qualifying New York City residents; thus, personnel director's motive in letting current eligible list expire in order to appoint from more recent eligible list reflecting residency credit did not, in and of itself, establish contrariness or bad faith, and therefore did not establish clear legal right to relief sought, as is required for mandamus to lie. Altamore v Barrios-Paoli, 90 N.Y.2d 378, 660 N.Y.S.2d 834, 683 N.E.2d 740, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1369 (N.Y. 1997).

In Article 78 proceeding by candidates on then-current eligible list for appointment to firefighter position, cause of action alleging that respondents intended to appoint candidates from subsequent eligible list prior to expiration of current list, in violation of Civil Service Law, was properly dismissed where (1) no appointments had yet been made at time proceeding was commenced and claim consisted of wholly speculative assertion of anticipated illegal action, and (2) such claim became moot when petitioners' list expired without any intervening appointments from subsequent list. Altamore v Barrios-Paoli, 90 N.Y.2d 378, 660 N.Y.S.2d 834, 683 N.E.2d 740, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1369 (N.Y. 1997).

Residency requirements applicable to New York City firefighters, as embodied in CLS Pub O §§ 3(19) and 30(5-a), have rational basis, and thus do not violate equal protection provisions of federal and state constitutions, even though they arbitrarily discriminate against firefighters residing out of state, since state has legitimate economic self-interest in encouraging residency in state; those who reside in New York are more likely to spend money in state, to own New York real estate (and so pay property taxes), and to pay resident state income tax. Winkler v Spinnato, 134 A.D.2d 66, 523 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988).

CLS Pub O §§ 3(19) and 30(5-a), which require New York City firefighters to reside in state, do not violate privileges and immunities clause of U.S. Constitution since state and local employment is not "privilege" which bears on vitality of nation as single entity, and such laws directly implicate state's sovereignty and further state's rightful goal of limiting privilege of public employment to its own citizens. Winkler v Spinnato, 134 A.D.2d 66, 523 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988).

There was no need for judicial declaration that New York City firefighters whose families resided out of state could nevertheless establish in-state residence necessary to retain employment under CLS Pub O §§ 3 and 30 where fire department officials had not taken contrary position and had not established irrebuttable presumption that firefighter's residence was same as that of his family, and thus there was no genuine dispute between parties. Winkler v Spinnato, 134 A.D.2d 66, 523 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 402, 534 N.Y.S.2d 128, 530 N.E.2d 835, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1988).

A person who is not a resident elector of a fire district may not serve as a fire district commissioner. 1974 Ops St Compt File #714.

A municipality may not require a paid fireman to reside within the city as a condition of appointment or retention, but it may require him to live within the county or counties in which the city is located. A city may impose reasonable residence qualifications applicable to employment and continuation in employment provided that such requirements are not inconsistent with any general law. 1983 Op St Comp File #83-118.

26. —Incorporation of area as a city

Where a police justice is required to be a resident of the town for which he was elected and a portion of such town is separated therefrom and made a city, the office of such police justice becomes vacant if after such division he resides in the city. People ex rel. Grogan v Glass, 19 A.D. 454, 46 N.Y.S. 572, 1897 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1453 (N.Y. App. Div. 1897).

27. Change of residence, removal from district

When a public officer ceases to be an inhabitant of the state, or if he be a local officer, of the political subdivision or municipal corporation of which he is required to be a resident when chosen, the office automatically becomes vacant and he need not resign. 1956 Ops St Compt 61.

Unless it is proven that a duly elected town assessor has actually ceased to be a resident of the town, his office may not be declared vacant and his salary may not be discontinued. 1969 Ops St Compt File #579.

30. — —Justices of the peace, police judges

A person who moves outside the village may not continue to hold the office of village police judge. 1954 Ops St Compt 15.

31. — —Members of governing body

A county legislator's action in moving outside his legislative district, thus creating a vacancy as of the date he moved pursuant to Pub O § 30(1)(d), and in submitting a letter of resignation effective approximately one and one-half months later, would not render the common council's appointment of a replacement within 30 days of the effective date of resignation invalid, notwithstanding the requirement that the office be filled by special election if the vacancy is not filled within 30 days of its creation, since the council's appointment was made in a timely manner. Poughkeepsie v County of Dutchess, 120 Misc. 2d 1024, 466 N.Y.S.2d 949, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3843 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

The reasonable cost of investigating whether a town board member is still a town resident is a proper town charge in order to determine whether a vacancy exists. 1978 Op St Compt File #239.

Officers and employees of a municipal department of sanitation who reside in a county contiguous to such municipality may not be required to reside within the municipality. 1980 Op St Compt File #11.

28. —Incorporation of area as a city

Town officers residing in a village which will be incorporated as a city will vacate their town offices upon such incorporation unless the Legislature specifically provides to the contrary. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen May 28.

Residence qualifications for holding village office are construed to mean domicile. A person may have several residences in the normal sense of the word but only one domicile. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug. 7 (informal).

Qualifications of officers and employees include residence. A city, by local law, may impose reasonable residence qualifications applicable to employment and continuation in employment of municipal employees but a local law requiring present employees living outside of the city to move into the city in order to continue to qualify to be city employees could well be construed by the Courts to be an improper exercise of the home rule power. The foregoing opinion does not apply to certain particular employments if the residence qualifications therefor are prescribed by a general state statute. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 23 (informal).

Only a court can determine domicile. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 3.

The term "political subdivision" as used in the Public Officers Law means the area from which an officer is selected and in the case of an elective officer, the area in which the people who elect him reside. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

A village in making appointments from promotional lists to positions in the competitive class of the civil service, may not give preference to village residents. Subject to certain restrictions, a village may establish a residency requirement for appointment of village employees. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal).

City may enact local law requiring that appointive city officers reside in county in which city is located. 1987 NY Ops Atty Gen No. 87-32 (informal).

It is unlikely that rational basis can be established for imposition of durational residency requirement on all employees of county government. 1993 NY Ops Atty Gen I 93-55.

29. Change of residence, removal from district

30. —Particular offices

31. — —Justices of the peace, police judges

When justice of peace moves from town in which he was elected, vacancy is created. 1921 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 283.

32. — —Members of governing body

A member of the Board of County Legislators of Oneida County elected from one of the Legislative Districts in the City of Rome vacates his office upon changing his residency from such district. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan. 15.

When in a village which has adopted the ward system for the election of trustees, a trustee moves to a different ward in the village, a vacancy in office is created. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 24 (informal).

A town board may not commence a proceeding for the removal of a town board member under Public Officers Law, § 36, or pay for the legal expense of such a proceeding but may commence an action at town expense for a declaratory judgment to determine whether a town board member has moved his residence and that as a result a vacancy exists on the board. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen June 22.

The office of a town board member who moves out of the town becomes vacant automatically when he ceases to reside in the town. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-259.

33. — —Members of planning board or urban renewal agency

Removal of domicile by member of municipal urban renewal agency vacates such office and authorizes appointment of successor thereto. Where special statute creating such agency prescribes definite terms of office of members thereof, they do not serve at pleasure of appointing authority. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 6.

Only in a county of over 300,000 population may one member of a city or village planning commission reside outside such city or village. Removal from the city or village by any other member vacates the office. 1966 NY Ops Atty Gen March 17.

Members of Village Planning Boards or Commissions are public officers and, as such, vacate their offices upon removal of their residences from the village unless the Village Board has, by resolution, provided that appointive officers may reside outside the village but in the town in which the village is located. One member of a Village Planning Commission in a county containing a population of over 300,000 may reside outside of such village. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 14.

34. — —Police and fire personnel

Where a fire district commissioner ceases to be a resident of the fire district he vacates his office. However, an "extended vacation" by a fire commissioner does not provoke a vacancy in that office. 1959 NY Ops Atty Gen June 17 (informal).

35. — —Town or village clerks

The fact that a town clerk has a temporary abode outside of the town does not necessarily mean that she has vacated her office, because residence in the town may depend on intent. 1978 Op St Compt File #515.

Removal from district of member of board of visitors of hospital creates vacancy in office. 1929 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 225.

An Assistant to the District Attorney of Onondaga County may maintain her residency in that County within the meaning of Section 3 of the Public Officers Law, despite the fact that she is temporarily living with her husband in assigned on-base housing in Seneca County while her husband is on active military duty. Living with her husband during this period is not in itself a change of domicile that would invoke the vacancy provision of Section 30 of the Public Officers Law. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 16.

A member of the Rochester-Monroe County Port Authority appointed by the Mayor of the City of Rochester, as a resident, to represent said City on said Authority, forfeits his office immediately by changing his residence from the City of Rochester to one of the towns within Monroe County. However, where a member's term expires and the appointing officer fails to appoint a successor, such member if otherwise qualified shall continue as a member of the Authority until his successor is appointed in accordance with Public Officers Law, § 5. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen May 11.

An elected commissioner of Sanitary District No. 2 in the Town of Hempstead in the County of Nassau is a public officer of a political subdivision and not of a municipality; such a commissioner must be a resident of the sanitary district at the time of election; and if the sanitary district commissioner moves from that district to a new residence outside of the district, even though in the same town, the office becomes vacant under Public Officers Law § 30 subdivision 1 paragraph d. The provision of Public Officers Law § 30 subdivision 4-a, by its own terms, is confined in its operation to members of the department of sanitation of a municipality so it is not applicable to an officer of this political subdivision. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 18 (Informal), 1977 N.Y. AG LEXIS 64.

A trustee of a cooperative library system vacates his office when he ceases to be a resident of the area served by the system. 1979 Op St Compt File #255.

The office of a special district commissioner becomes vacant when the office holder ceases to be a resident of the district. 1979 Op St Compt File #409.

Where an elected city officer ceases to be a resident of the city, a vacancy in his office is thereby created. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen 83 (informal).

36. Creation of new offices

Where village establishes new office, board may designate an acting officer until regularly elected officer can qualify. 1926 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 238.

Where a new office of judge of the Children's Court is created by resolution of a county board of supervisors and a certificate thereof is filed with the Secretary of State prior to August 1, a vacancy in office occurs which must be filled at the next general election. 1950 NY Ops Atty Gen June 22.

Upon the adoption of a resolution creating additional trustees in a village, vacancies in these offices may not be filled by appointment of the village board but by election at the next annual election. 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen 15 (informal).

Where a town has determined to increase the number of councilmen, the offices may not be filled as in the case of vacancies to newly created offices, but rather the offices should be filled at the next biennial town election. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen 213 (informal).

When a village establishes the new office of Village Justice and an appointment is made to fill the office until a successor can be elected in due course, the successor, who is the first elected incumbent of the office, holds that office for a full-four year term. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan. 18.

The term of office of a village justice is four years. Where, through error, a village justice was elected on a ballot which specified a two-year term, the village justice serves the legal four-year term. When the new office of village justice went into effect that office became vacant. The vacancy would be filled by an appointment until the next village election, at which time the office had to be filled for the statutory four-year term. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 3 (informal).

The eleven additional judgeships on the New York City Civil Court authorized by Chapter 500 of the Laws of 1982 may not be filled by appointment. It was the intent of the Legislature that these judges first be elected from districts established by law. Such districts never having been drawn, the offices were not created. 1983 NY Ops Atty Gen 83-F16.

Upon establishing the office of second village justice, the office may not be filled by appointment until such time as an election can be held. 1983 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83-32.

1. In general

CLS Pub O § 36 was not exclusive procedural vehicle for removal of village superintendent of public works on misconduct charges and, in any event, court was foreclosed from considering whether charges under CLS Civ S § 75 were improper since issue had been raised and rejected in prior Article 78 proceeding from which no appeal was perfected. Logan v New Paltz, 129 A.D.2d 935, 514 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45597 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Absent specific statutory authority to do so, public employer may not suspend employee, even where it has power to terminate his or her employment permanently, since power to suspend is not inherent lesser power included within power to terminate public employment. Whelan v Pitts, 150 A.D.2d 380, 540 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5481 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Proceeding under CLS Pub O § 36 to remove certain town officers was moot as to those individuals who no longer held public office; petitioner's request that court make findings of misconduct which could then be raised against those individuals should they seek reelection would improperly add aspects of punishment to such proceeding and would represent nothing more than pointless exercise, for such findings are not bar to reelection. DeFalco v Doetsch, 208 A.D.2d 1047, 617 N.Y.S.2d 415, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9842 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Court would dismiss petitions brought under CLS Pub O § 36 to remove public officers from their official positions for failing to execute waivers of immunity before testifying before grand jury where officials were subpoenaed to testify before grand jury investigating their conduct and were requested to execute waivers under penalty of removal from office. Curry v Rogers, 210 A.D.2d 784, 620 N.Y.S.2d 521, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13071 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Public employee's failure to comply with notice requirements of CLS Pub O § 18(5) did not warrant denial of his claim for reimbursement of expenses and counsel fees in connection with defense of grand jury proceeding and removal proceeding where both proceedings concerned employee's actions as public servant, county was well aware of both proceedings, employee personally notified County Attorney of his need for counsel in grand jury matter, removal proceeding was interconnected with grand jury proceeding, and county had not designated any other officer to serve as its agent for purpose of receiving statutory notice after County Attorney recused himself prior to employee's being summoned to appear. Hunt v Hamilton County, 235 A.D.2d 758, 652 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Simply because County District Attorney commenced grand jury proceeding and removal proceeding against town supervisor did not warrant conclusion that they were brought "by or at the behest of the public entity employing such an employee" (CLS Pub O § 18(3)(a) so as to justify refusal to defend supervisor. Hunt v Hamilton County, 235 A.D.2d 758, 652 N.Y.S.2d 402, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 350 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

In action under CLS Pub O § 36 to remove town supervisor from office, costs of $750 would be assessed against supervisor under CLS Unif Tr Ct Rls § 130-1.1(c)(2) (22 NYCRR § 130-1.1(c)(2)), for conduct "undertaken primarily to delay or prolong the resolution of the litigation," where, after supervisor and his attorney asserted that attorney's testimony would not be required and that therefore no conflict of interests existed, supervisor submitted affidavit stating for first time that he intended to call his attorney as witness, which necessitated change of counsel and caused delay and expense to petitioners. West v Grant, 238 A.D.2d 803, 656 N.Y.S.2d 516, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4139 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Where a town highway superintendent admitted to official misconduct in exercising his duties as a town officer in violation of N.Y. Penal Law § 195.00(1), summary removal under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 36 was warranted for the misconduct, which violated the public trust. Grady v Yeno, 302 A.D.2d 385, 754 N.Y.S.2d 562, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 776 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Grand jury's indictment of town supervisor for various crimes did not bar, under doctrine of collateral estoppel, bringing of proceeding to remove supervisor from office. Application of Baker, 87 Misc. 2d 592, 386 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Public officer appointed for fixed statutory term may be removed prior to expiration of term only by proceedings under this section; whether individual is public officer or employee depends on number of factors including whether, in carrying out duties of position, individual exercises some part of sovereign power. Ops St Compt 88-49.

2. Constitutionality

Statute authorizing Supreme Court to remove town officer for malfeasance, misconduct, maladminsitration and malversation in office is not an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power. Application of Baker, 87 Misc. 2d 592, 386 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Statute authorizing Supreme Court to remove a town officer for malfeasance, misconduct, maladministration and malversation in office is not unconstitutionally vague or overbroad. Application of Baker, 87 Misc. 2d 592, 386 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

3. Authority of town or village board

Town Law, § 20, provides that a town board may establish the office of "town attorney" and fix his salary, but no power is granted to such board to remove a town attorney, duly appointed and qualified, from his office, and he may be removed only by proceedings under Pub § 36. Sullivan v Taylor, 279 N.Y. 364, 18 N.E.2d 531, 279 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 364, 1939 N.Y. LEXIS 865 (N.Y. 1939).

Employee who was reappointed to position as Village Clerk was a public officer and village mayor and board of trustees improperly removed employee from that position by meeting in executive session and voting to terminate her employment. Enos v Vill. of Seneca Falls, 288 A.D.2d 853, 732 N.Y.S.2d 785, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10578 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

4. Who may make application for removal

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has no authority to entertain an original proceeding for removal of a town officer, under § 36 of the Public Officers Law, where the petitioner is an Assistant Attorney-General specially appointed under subd. 2 of § 63 of the Executive Law who is neither a resident of the town nor District Attorney of the county. Application of Tompkins, 11 A.D.2d 895, 202 N.Y.S.2d 894, 896, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8432 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1960).

Corporation composed of citizens of village was not "citizen resident" of village and therefore had no standing to bring action to remove village trustees. In re Citizens Council New Hyde Park, Inc., 55 A.D.2d 911, 390 N.Y.S.2d 438, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10156 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

A citizen and taxpayer of the City of New York had standing to bring an action for a judgment directing the mayor of the City of New York to discharge the corporation counsel of the city. Blaikie v Lindsay, 66 Misc. 2d 668, 321 N.Y.S.2d 388, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1667 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

5. Who may be removed

Water commissioner is not town officer within meaning of this section. Bryan v Town Board of Brighton, 232 N.Y.S. 18, 133 Misc. 315, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1171 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1928).

The chief engineer of a fire department is not a public officer within the meaning of § 2 but is an employee and § 36 has no application in respect of his removal from office. Application of Barber, 100 N.Y.S.2d 668, 198 Misc. 135, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2169 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1950), aff'd, 278 A.D. 600, 101 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4071 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951).

Procedure for removal of town officer, except justice of the peace. 1946 Ops St Compt 462.

Although a town comptroller is not within the protection of § 75 of the Civil Service Law, he can be removed from office, prior to expiration of his term, only pursuant to proceedings conforming to this section. 1961 Ops St Compt #550.

The chairman of the Board of Fire Commissioners, elected pursuant to § 176 of the Town Law, is subject to removal under this section. 1961 Ops St Compt #616.

A member of a board of assessment review may be removed from office pursuant to section 36 of the Public Officers Law and section 75 of the Civil Service Law. 4 Op Counsel, SBEA #27.

6. Grounds for removal

Where public officer is guilty of illegal act or omission with respect to his office, he may be removed whether or not act was done maliciously or corruptly. In re Moran, 145 A.D. 642, 130 N.Y.S. 432, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4810 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

Public Officers Law § 36 empowers court to remove public official for what amounts to intentional wrongdoing, moral turpitude, or a violation of a public trust. In re Pisciotta, 41 A.D.2d 949, 343 N.Y.S.2d 992, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

Section 36 of the Public Officers Law, which provides that a town officer may be removed for any misconduct, maladministration, malfeasance or malversation in office, was intended to improve public service, not to punish the offender, and, generally, the courts have declined to remove an officer where the charges are not based on any malicious or corrupt acts but involve minor neglect of duties, administrative oversights, or violations of law. Deats v Carpenter, 61 A.D.2d 320, 403 N.Y.S.2d 128, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9740 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

A petition to remove respondent from the office of village clerk would be dismissed, where the record did not establish the intentional wrongdoing, moral turpitude or violation of public trust required by Pub O § 36 to justify removal. In re Greco, 99 A.D.2d 810, 472 N.Y.S.2d 140, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17200 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Resident's allegations in a proceeding seeking to remove trustees, which claimed that the trustees, in a meeting addressing the proposed location of a skateboard park, improperly returned to open session after going into executive session, on the record but in the absence of members of the public, withdrew its informal, preliminary approval for the skateboard park at a location discussed with members of the public earlier, and failed to note a change of position in the board's minutes or notify the public of a change in the date of its next meeting, at which the board, in open session, voted to preliminarily approve another site, did not rise to the level of unscrupulous conduct or gross dereliction of duty or connote a pattern of misconduct and abuse of authority justifying removal. Matter of Hart v Trumansburg Bd. of Trustees, 41 A.D.3d 1025, 838 N.Y.S.2d 246, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7334 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

On proper application, proceedings may be instituted before the Appellate Division for removal of the fire district treasurer for nonfeasance. 1967 Ops St Compt File #1025.

7. —Acts prior to current term of office

Where petition to remove trustee or other village official sets up acts prior to election, court has no statutory authority to act. Court may only remove officer for misconduct while in office. In re Myers, 170 A.D. 947, 155 N.Y.S. 1126, 1915 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5642 (N.Y. App. Div. 1915).

Election of supervisor for his present third term is not bar to proceeding for his removal for alleged misconduct during his prior terms, where it appears that alleged misdeeds were not known to people of his town at time of election. Newman v Strobel, 236 A.D. 371, 259 N.Y.S. 402, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5975 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

In proceedings to remove from office a town Superintendent of Highways, who had been in office from 1952 to 1959, for allegedly taking kickbacks on various road oil purchases for the town in the years 1953 to 1957, a prosecution could not be considered as barred by the fact that his misconduct was not based on acts committed in his present or prior term of office, or by limitations found in §§ 50 and 52 of the Civil Practice Act. Corwin v Mercier, 14 A.D.2d 652, 218 N.Y.S.2d 718, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9439 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

It is clear that a public officer may be removed for acts within the purview of this section committed during his preceding term of office, such as larceny of public funds. Application of Abare, 21 A.D.2d 84, 248 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3998 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

Conviction of a public officer of larceny of public funds was prima facie evidence of misconduct on his part within the coverage of this section, including intent to defraud or appropriate, and his re-election to the same office while the charges were still pending against him, after informing the public that he would acquit himself of the charges, would not require dismissal of the proceedings to remove him under this section, particularly in view of the fact that he pleaded guilty to the charges after re-election. Application of Abare, 21 A.D.2d 84, 248 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3998 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

Court would grant application for removal of respondent from his position as town superintendent of highways following his conviction in federal court for violating 18 USCS § 1341, involving scheme to defraud town, notwithstanding that voters were fully informed of his conviction when they reelected him. Phillips v Dally, 143 A.D.2d 273, 532 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8912 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Removal of town supervisor was appropriate, even though his conviction for violation of CLS Gen Mun §§ 801 and 805 occurred and was well publicized prior to his last reelection, since he conveniently pleaded guilty 4 days prior to election, and he had no opponent. West v Grant, 243 A.D.2d 815, 662 N.Y.S.2d 863, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10114 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Reelection of town supervisor after his alleged violations of the public Officers Law did not constitute a condonation of his alleged acts of misconduct where citizens of town were not apprised of all charges made against town supervisor until after his election and supervisor emphatically denied any wrongdoing or misconduct on his part. Application of Baker, 87 Misc. 2d 592, 386 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

8. —Particular conduct

Despite evidence of technical violations of the Village Law, certain administrative oversights and some municipal accounting deficiencies, mayor of village would not be removed pursuant to Public Officers Law § 36 as most of the problems were attributable to his inexperience in handling affairs of newly incorporated village; however, should the technical violations of the Village Law and the municipal accounting deficiencies continue unabated, such continuation may well be deemed an intentional disregard of official responsibilities, sufficient to constitute a new basis for removal proceedings. In re Pisciotta, 41 A.D.2d 949, 343 N.Y.S.2d 992, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973).

A petition for the removal of a Town Supervisor and Town Clerk, whose actions resulted in delaying a duly scheduled special election, is dismissed; the petition contains no allegations of self-dealing, corrupt activities, conflict of interest, moral turpitude, intentional wrongdoing or violation of a public trust, and the conduct of the officers, while justifiably subject to criticism, is not such as to warrant their removal pursuant to section 36 of the Public Officers Law, which provides that a town officer may be removed for any misconduct, maladministration, malfeasance or malversation in office. Deats v Carpenter, 61 A.D.2d 320, 403 N.Y.S.2d 128, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9740 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

Removal of a village mayor from office pursuant to Pub O § 36 was warranted by his conviction of the crime of official misconduct for his attempt to use his office to influence a witness's testimony. Smith v Perlman, 105 A.D.2d 878, 482 N.Y.S.2d 77, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21007 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Summary disposition of proceeding under CLS Pub O § 36 to remove fire district commissioner for his "malicious or corrupt acts" was not warranted, and thus matter would be remitted for full hearing, even though commissioner had pleaded guilty to 2 counts of harassment, since such convictions were not sufficient, standing alone, to warrant imposition of sanction of removal from office without hearing; however, removal from office might be warranted if allegations concerning commissioner's involvement in transactions underlying convictions were proved true, and if some connection between transactions and his office were shown. Henry v Audette, 148 A.D.2d 452, 538 N.Y.S.2d 609, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2484 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Petition failed to state cause of action to remove Town Superintendent of Highways as allegations that respondent acted in derogation of his oath of office and Highway Law, by ordering discontinuation of portion of certain town road, did not constitute sort of unscrupulous conduct or gross dereliction of duty contemplated by CLS Pub O § 36. Salvador v Naylor, 222 A.D.2d 931, 635 N.Y.S.2d 769, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13373 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Removal of town supervisor was warranted where his personally owned insurance agency brokered town's insurance, he shared commissions therein, he took steps to disguise situation by having another broker named as broker of record, he was aware prior to being elected that there was conflict of interest, and he was convicted on his guilty plea to violation of CLS §§ 801 and 805 for willful and knowing violation of conflict of interest provisions as to his personal interest in town's insurance business. West v Grant, 243 A.D.2d 815, 662 N.Y.S.2d 863, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10114 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Removal from office was justified where village clerk/treasurer engaged in pattern of intentional misconduct over 2-year period involving misappropriation of village funds. Kenyon v Pifer, 255 A.D.2d 986, 679 N.Y.S.2d 859, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12264 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Pattern of routine disregard of mandates of law and procedure by various village officials was suggestive of gross dereliction or intentional disregard of duties that could justify their removal from public office under CLS Pub O § 36. Gumo v Canzoneri, 263 A.D.2d 456, 693 N.Y.S.2d 618, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7805 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

The Mayor of a village was not holding his office illegally because at the time of his nomination to such office and his election thereto he was the owner of a business wherein alcoholic beverages were sold for off-premises consumption. Harrell v Goldin, 124 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2222 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

Because neither a fire district commissioner's alleged misconduct in disclosing the confidential contents of a letter nor the treasurer's alleged shortcomings in managing records and transferring funds demonstrated unscrupulous conduct or gross dereliction of duty or otherwise connoted a pattern of misconduct and abuse of authority, removal under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 36 was not warranted. Matter of Chandler v Weir, 30 A.D.3d 795, 817 N.Y.S.2d 194, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7955 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Resident's petition to remove a town supervisor under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 36 failed to state a cause of action; even if true, the allegation that the supervisor failed to submit an officer's statement with a contract payment voucher, as required by N.Y. Town Law § 118, did not constitute the unscrupulous conduct or gross dereliction of duty needed for removal. Matter of Price v Evers, 45 A.D.3d 1075, 845 N.Y.S.2d 553, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11719 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

Removal of fire district commissioners who have authorized a contract between the district and a fire company of which they are members discussed. 1953 Ops St Compt 380.

A town officer, other than a justice of the peace, may be removed from office by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court on grounds of misconduct, maladministration, etc., and inability to perform the duties of office by reason of long illness might constitute maladministration. 1961 Ops St Compt #922.

A town superintendent of highways may be removed from office if he fails to perform his duties. The mere holding of a second position of employment or the failure to spend a definite number of hours performing the duties of his office are not sufficient reason for his removal. 1964 Ops St Compt File #880.

9. — —Assessment favoritism

Removal of 3 town officers (chair of tax assessors and 2 town board members) was appropriate where, inter alia, (1) they all improperly influenced town board of assessment review to alter certain decisions it had made as to properties in petitioner's development, (2) chair of tax assessors made at least some "red ink" changes to tentative assessment roll without following procedure under CLS RPTL § 552, (3) town board members improperly removed town attorney from office prior to expiration of his term,and they participated in several board meetings that were held in private, without notice, and for which no minutes were kept, and (4) board members, acting wholly on basis of suspicion and surmise, without making attempt to verify matters asserted, drafted and sent letter, containing allegations of conspiracy and wrongdoing on part of town supervisor, petitioner, and postal inspector who had been involved in pending investigation of officers' activities, to United States Attorney and United States Postal Service. DeFalco v Doetsch, 208 A.D.2d 1047, 617 N.Y.S.2d 415, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9842 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Town assessor may be removed from office for showing favoritism in assessing property. 1947 Ops St Compt 270.

10. — —Refusal to furnish reports

Where a town supervisor willfully refuses to furnish a monthly report pursuant to Town Law § 119 he may be removed from office and/or prosecuted for the violation of §§ 1841 and/or 1857 of the Penal Law. 1957 Ops St Compt 250.

11. — —Receipt of funds

Trustees of village should not be removed from office, under this section upon ground that they have received compensation from village for labor performed and for merchandise furnished, in violation of Vill. Law, §§ 332 and 333, where it appears that said trustees acted in good faith, without knowledge of illegality of transactions, and to best interests of village. Application of Slack, 234 A.D. 7, 254 N.Y.S. 669, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8279 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

On proceeding under this section for removal of village trustee for alleged misconduct in office, acceptance by trustee of twenty-five dollars from village for his services and expenses, in connection with organization of certain territory into water district is not in violation of Penal Law, § 1868 or Vill. Law, § 332. Wolfe v Trask, 249 A.D. 11, 290 N.Y.S. 970, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5021 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

Removal of a constable under this section was unjustified where he violated the form of the law in presentation of his bill for services but there was no question but that the services were actually rendered. In re Reidulski, 257 A.D. 962, 12 N.Y.S.2d 624, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8699 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

Where a town superintendent of highways appropriated money for his own personal use, such conduct constituted malfeasance in office justifying his removal. Application of Wilcox, 278 A.D. 1002, 105 N.Y.S.2d 634, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5482 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951).

Public officer's larceny of public funds constitutes grounds for his removal as does corrupt bargaining for appointment and bribery. Application of Baker, 87 Misc. 2d 592, 386 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

12. — —Failure to attend meetings

Defendant who while member of Congress and town supervisor was absent from town and county board meetings and left checks signed in blank for his clerk to use to pay town bills was not guilty of "misconduct, maladministration, malfeasance or malversation in office." Luce v Beiter, 239 A.D. 23, 265 N.Y.S. 61, 1933 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7940 (N.Y. App. Div. 1933).

Proceeding under CLS Pub O § 36 to remove certain village officials from public office was moot as to those individuals who no longer occupied public office. Gumo v Canzoneri, 263 A.D.2d 456, 693 N.Y.S.2d 618, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7805 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

13. Service of notice of petition and charges

Proceeding to remove respondent from his elected position as town supervisor would be dismissed since personal jurisdiction was not obtained where undated petition was served on respondent personally on or about June 28, 1990 and notice of petition was served by itself, by mail, on July 12, 1990; CLS Pub O § 36 requires that notice of petition and charges be served together. Campisi v Scelba, 166 A.D.2d 442, 560 N.Y.S.2d 495, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11748 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

14. Standard of proof

Special proceeding under CLS Pub O § 36 seeking removal of respondent as mayor of village would be dismissed where verified petition alleged 12 causes of action, each of which was based on hearsay, and respondent's verified answer was based on personal knowledge and was supported by affidavit of person with personal knowledge. Young v Costantino, 281 A.D.2d 988, 722 N.Y.S.2d 678, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2850 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Although a proceeding for removal of town officer because of misconduct, malfeasance, maladministration or malversation in office is quasi criminal in nature and requires a finding of wrongdoing and misconduct, petitioners are not required to prove the facts of the proceeding beyond a reasonable doubt. Application of Baker, 87 Misc. 2d 592, 386 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2261 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

15. Judicial review

In proceeding under CPLR § 7804(g) to review removal of member of village library and planning boards there was not substantial evidence to support removal of petitioner under charges of unauthorized tampering with materials in police custody and of improper criticism of officials. Gersh v Tuckahoe, 23 A.D.2d 258, 260 N.Y.S.2d 75, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4064 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965).

Trial court properly annulled a town's determination to remove petitioner as the assessor of the town, concluding that he was entitled to complete the term, because petitioner's term of office did not end when the town withdrew from the coordinated assessment program, thus, he held a right to continued employment until the expiration of his term. Matter of Rubeor v Town of Wright, 134 A.D.3d 1211, 20 N.Y.S.3d 730, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8987 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 902, 51 N.E.3d 564, 32 N.Y.S.3d 53, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 441 (N.Y. 2016).

A village treasurer may not be removed from office by the village board of trustees before his term of office has expired, except for misconduct. Should such an officer be removed he could challenge the removal by instituting a proceeding against the village board under Article 78 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules. 1966 Ops St Compt File #603.

16. Effect of removal on reelection

Removal of public officer under CLS Pub O § 36 is for entire term of that office; however, officer may subsequently be elected to new term of same office. 1994 Op St Compt No. I 94-33.

1. In general

Either procedure for removal is available, but the Court might require initial action by the Village Board of Trustees; if the Village Board of Trustees is the complainant the village attorney would prosecute, otherwise the complainant must provide his own attorney; the board member is responsible to provide his own defense. 1967 NY Ops Atty Gen July 18.

Different procedures govern the removal from office of an appointed town assessor and an elected town assessor. 1979 Op St Compt File #623.

2. Authority of town or village board

Village board of trustees may enact local law establishing procedure for removal for cause of appointive village offices. 1992 NY Ops Atty Gen I 92-45.

A town board is not authorized to conduct an investigation into allegations of misconduct raised against the town highway superintendent for the purpose of determining whether a proceeding under Public Officers Law, § 36, for the removal of the superintendent should be commenced. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83-42.

A town may not reimburse the town supervisor for legal expenses incurred in defending himself in removal and criminal proceedings. 1978 Op St Compt File #992.

A town board does not have the authority to remove the town clerk from office for failure to perform his duties. The board may withhold his salary for failure to submit monthly reports and revenues to the supervisor but may not withhold his salary for any other reason. 1980 Op St Compt File #555.

3. Who may make application for removal

A board of trustees may remove or suspend a village clerk in accordance with the procedure set out in this section. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen March 22 (informal).

A town board may not commence a proceeding for the removal of a town board member under Public Officers Law, § 36, or pay for the legal expense of such a proceeding but may commence an action at town expense for a declaratory judgment to determine whether a town board member has moved his residence and that as a result a vacancy exists on the board. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen June 22.

A town officer may be removed from office only upon an application to the Supreme Court by the district attorney of the town's county or by a citizen resident in the town. A town itself may not initiate removal proceedings. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 17 (informal).

Village trustee who believes that village clerk is failing to perform clerk's duties may, in his or her capacity as resident of village, apply to Appellate Division for removal of clerk under CLS Pub O § 36; alternatively, board of trustees may commence Article 78 proceeding against clerk to compel performance of statutory duties. 2005 NY Ops Atty Gen I 05-1.

Neither the town board nor any State agency is the proper party to initiate removal proceedings. 1978 Op St Compt File #239.

4. Who may be removed

A fire commissioner may be removed from office only in accordance with the provisions of Public Officers Law § 36. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan. 5.

The highway superintendent serves a fixed term of office and may only be removed from office during his term pursuant to section 36 of the Public Officers Law or section 160 of the Highway Law. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen May 6.

The terms "special district" and "improvement district" are synonymous and are used interchangeably in the statutes. The provisions of Public Officers Law § 36 for removal of town, village, improvement district or fire district officers are applicable to officers of what the Nassau County Civil Divisions Act refers to as "special districts" including removal of a commissioner of the Port Washington Police District. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen April 14 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 134.

New York State law does not provide for "recall" of a fire district commissioner, but does authorize removal for cause under specified circumstances and procedures. 1978 Op St Compt File #747.

A town board member who consistently neglects to attend board meetings might be removed from office under Public Officers Law, § 36. 1978 Op St Compt File #1057.

5. Grounds for removal

6. —Particular conduct

7. — —Assessment favoritism

A proceeding to remove an elected assessor from office must be brought pursuant to the provisions of section 36 of the Public Officers Law. If proven, a charge of favoritism in assessing property constitutes grounds for removal from office. 6 Op Counsel SBEA #113 (1980 May 1).

8. — —Holding more than one position

Assuming that the performance of the official duties of either office would not interfere with the other, the same person may at the same time hold the two public offices of Village Fire Chief and Town Superintendent of Highways. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 28.

The same person simultaneously may hold the office of town supervisor or town councilman in a town in Westchester County and the county office of deputy sheriff. This conclusion necessarily is subject to any provision of a local code of ethics or opinion of a local board of ethics having jurisdiction. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen May 28 (informal).

9. — —Refusal to furnish reports

Where a supervisor intentionally or willfully fails to submit his monthly and annual financial reports to the town board or fails to keep his books of account in proper order, (1) any citizen resident of the town may present to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court an application for removal of such officer from office, or (2) the town board may bring an Article 78 proceeding in the nature of mandamus seeking a court order requiring the supervisor to properly perform his official duties, or (3) the town board may create the position of town comptroller and designate him as the accounting officer of the town with responsibility for keeping detailed accounting records, filing the annual financial reports with the town clerk, and filing the monthly financial reports with the town board. 1982 Op St Compt File #82-252.

10. — —Failure to attend meetings

A town board does not have authority to pass a local law requiring town board members to attend regular board meetings and work sessions and, in default of such attendance, empowering the town board to declare the office vacant. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen June 22 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 106.

A city recreation commission may not include in its rules of procedure a provision for removal of a member upon his failure to attend a specified number of meetings. The legislative body of the city may establish attendance requirements for appointive city offices. 1985 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-31.

A town board member who consistently neglects to attend board meetings might be removed from office under Public Officers Law, § 36. 1978 Op St Compt File #1057.

I. "Judiciary"

1. Board of Law Examiners

State Board of Law Examiners exercises a judicial function and is therefore part of the "judiciary"; it is excluded from the definition of "agency" for purposes of the FOIL. Pasik v State Bd. of Law Examiners, 102 A.D.2d 395, 478 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18797 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1984).

2. Commissioner of Jurors

Newspaper publisher could not compel Commissioner of Jurors to release names and addresses of jurors in murder trial, even if CLS Jud § 509 did not apply, since commissioner, as court officer, is considered part of judiciary and therefore is not subject to CLS Pub O § 86. Newsday, Inc. v Sise, 120 A.D.2d 8, 507 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58997 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 146, 524 N.Y.S.2d 35, 518 N.E.2d 930, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 20000 (N.Y. 1987)).

3. Court-appointed receivers

Superintendent of Insurance, as liquidator, and Liquidation Bureau, as with any other court-appointed receiver, enjoy judicial privilege under CLS Pub O § 86(3) and thus are specifically exempted from disclosure requirements of Freedom of Information Law. Consolidated Edison Co. v Insurance Dep't of State, 140 Misc. 2d 969, 532 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 511 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

4. District Attorney's subpoenas

Respondent state agency was not required by Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) to release copies of subpoenas served by district attorney's office, as subpoenas are judicial records even if they are in possession of agencies other than district attorney's office, and judiciary is exempt from reach of FOIL. Newsday, Inc. v Empire State Dev. Corp., 283 A.D.2d 182, 724 N.Y.S.2d 62, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4296 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), rev'd, 98 N.Y.2d 359, 746 N.Y.S.2d 855, 774 N.E.2d 1187, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1625 (N.Y. 2002).

5. New York City public administrators

Public administrators in New York City fall within the scope of the definition of "judiciary" in Pub O § 86(1) in view of their capacity to issue subpoenas as authorized by SCPA § 1114. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1772.

II. "Agency"

6. In general

Private company which rehabilitates homes with government funds is not agency subject to Freedom of Information Law and individual member of public is not entitled to access to company records relating to survey of low income people. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2639.

7. Authorities, commissions and the like, generally

The New York State Association of Counties, while created to enhance the workings of government, is not a governmental entity since it does not perform a governmental or proprietary function for the state or any municipality, and the employees of the Association are not public employees for, while they have a relationship with government, they are not employed by government but rather by a corporate board of directors. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1919.

8. —Environmental entities, generally

9. — —Water-related, including New York/New Jersey Port Authority

Suffolk County Water Authority is an "agency" under Public Officers Law § 86(3) and subject to the Freedom of Information Law in all respects. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2412.

Port Authority, as bi-state entity whose jurisdiction and functions extend to New Jersey as well as New York, is not "agency" within meaning of Freedom of Information Law, since New York cannot generally impose its legislative enactments beyond its borders, Freedom of Information Law does not apply to Port Authority. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2728.

10. —Homeowner's association

The Steuben Rural Electric Co-operative, Incorporated, is neither an "agency" as defined in § 86(3) of the Public Officers Law nor a "public body" as defined in § 97(2) of the Public Officers Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2371.

11. —Municipal development corporations, generally

Buffalo Enterprise Development Corporation (BEDC) is "agency" within meaning of Freedom of Information Law since it is not-for-profit local development corporation which channels public funds into community, it enjoys many attributes of public entities, its purpose is governmental, it was created exclusively by and for city of Buffalo to attract investment and stimulate growth in city, it describes itself as "agent" of city, and it is required to publicly disclose its annual budget, which is subject to public hearing and is submitted to city for review. Buffalo News v Buffalo Enter. Dev. Corp., 84 N.Y.2d 488, 619 N.Y.S.2d 695, 644 N.E.2d 277, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4113 (N.Y. 1994).

12. — —Municipal housing authorities (MHAs)

New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development is covered by N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(2) as a "municipal department." Matter of Thomas v City of N.Y. Dept. of Hous. Preserv. & Dev., 817 N.Y.S.2d 864, 12 Misc. 3d 547, 235 N.Y.L.J. 81, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 783 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

13. —Other and miscellaneous

Boards of assessment review, although they have been described as quasi-judicial bodies, are not part of judiciary and thus are not excluded from definition of "agency" under CLS Pub O § 86(3). 11 Op. Counsel SBRPS No. 36 (2002).

14. Banks and other financial entities

Although the banking industry may be regulated in part by the state, banks are part of the private sector and do not constitute governmental entities; therefore, banks fall outside the scope of the Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2335.

15. Civic and community organizations, generally

Civic organization board, which drew two-thirds of its membership from the private sector and which never held itself out as an agent of the city, was not a public agency subject to information disclosure requirements even though, in fostering the city's economic development by overseeing the finances of a public arena, it was performing a governmental function. Matter of Ervin v Southern Tier Economic Dev., Inc., 26 A.D.3d 633, 809 N.Y.S.2d 268, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1708 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Community board is municipal entity that performs governmental function for municipality and is thus "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2564.

16. —Political committees

While political committee may be related to government, it cannot be considered governmental entity performing governmental function; therefore, political committee does not fall within definition of "agency" or scope of Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2593.

17. Corporations, generally

18. —Not-for-profit corporations

Freedom of Information Law did not apply to respondent not-for-profit corporation formed by private business leaders to improve quality of life of county residents by, inter alia, promoting employment opportunities, attracting new business and otherwise increasing economic growth in county, and thus court properly dismissed Article 78 petition to compel disclosure of records kept by respondent in connection with proposed landfill projects; respondent was not "agency" within meaning of CLS Pub O § 84. Farms First v Saratoga Economic Dev. Corp., 222 A.D.2d 861, 635 N.Y.S.2d 720, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12902 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Not-for-profit corporations which worked closely with Department of Environmental Conservation and Office of Parks, Recreation and Historical Preservation, and whose objectives coincided partly with those 2 agencies, were not themselves "agencies" subject to Freedom of Information Law where they were formed by private individuals, they were governed by self-selected board of directors, they were primarily privately funded, and their operating budgets were not subject to approval by any governmental body. Lugo v Scenic Hudson, Inc., 258 A.D.2d 626, 685 N.Y.S.2d 761, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1471 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

A newspaper may not obtain the financial record of a non-profit corporation which defaulted on bonds issued to cover the cost of leasing a large tract of land from a county agency, since the non-profit corporation is not an agency within the meaning of Public Officers Law § 86(3) and therefore falls outside the scope of the Freedom of Information Law; however, it is possible for the newspaper to obtain any records or reports submitted to the county governmental agency. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1812.

North East Area Development, as not-for-profit corporation, is not governmental entity performing governmental function and is not "agency", and its records do no fall within scope of Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2738.

19. Courts, generally

Court is not subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2657.

20. —Federal agencies

By its plain terms, the statutory definition of "agency" in Public Officers Law § 86(3) does not include federal agencies; rather, the definition of "agency" is limited to state and municipal entities. The argument that the definition of "agency" should not be applied to the distinct phrases "inter-agency" and "intra-agency" is meritless, as there is there is nothing particular to either the context or usage of those phrases that would indicate a legislative intent to treat the term "agency," as used in that section, separately from the rest of the Freedom of Information Law. Matter of Town of Waterford v New York State Dept. of Envtl. Conservation, 18 N.Y.3d 652, 944 N.Y.S.2d 429, 967 N.E.2d 652, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 510 (N.Y. 2012).

Definition of "agency" in Public Officers Law § 86(3) did not include federal agencies. Thus, the Department of Environmental Conservation's communications with the Environmental Protection Agency were not protected by the intra-agency exemption of Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g). Matter of Town of Waterford v New York State Dept. of Envtl. Conservation, 18 N.Y.3d 652, 944 N.Y.S.2d 429, 967 N.E.2d 652, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 510 (N.Y. 2012).

Documents shared with a federal agency were not exempt from disclosure because "agency" for freedom of information purposes does not include a federal agency, there was an express acknowledgment that the deliberative process exemption did not protect documents shared with a federal agency, and the common interest doctrine did not apply to non-confidential communications between agencies with separate counsel. Matter of Riverkeeper Inc. v Port Auth. of N.Y. & N.J., 66 Misc. 3d 250, 111 N.Y.S.3d 523, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5619 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019), aff'd, 187 A.D.3d 557, 130 N.Y.S.3d 659, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5965 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2020).

21. —Judicial personnel

Petitioner is not entitled to access to the records of the Mayor's Committee on the Judiciary concerning the committee's withdrawal of approval of him as a prospective judicial appointee since the committee, whose determinations have no legal effect, performs a purely advisory function merely making recommendations to the Mayor concerning judicial appointments, and entities which perform only advisory functions are not required to make their records available under the Freedom of Information Law. Baumgarten v Koch, 97 Misc. 2d 449, 411 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2819 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Third Department Judicial Screening Committee was not an agency under the New York Freedom of Information Law, specifically N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(3), and was not a "public body" under the New York Open Meetings Law, specifically N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 102(2), as the Governor could reject the advice of the Committee and leave a judicial position vacant until the next election; thus, the Committee's function was purely advisory. Hurley v Johnson, 779 N.Y.S.2d 771, 4 Misc. 3d 616, 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 867 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2004).

22. —Office of Court Administration (OCA)

The Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6), which applies to "agencies" and specifically excludes "the judiciary" from the definition of agency (Public Officers Law, § 86), is applicable to the Office of Court Administration, since the "judiciary" is defined as "the courts of the state" (Public Officers Law, § 86, subd 1), and the Office of Court Administration is not a court. Babigian v Evans, 104 Misc. 2d 140, 427 N.Y.S.2d 688, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2290 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1980).

27. Education-related entities, generally

Book lists compiled by individual professors in the state university system were records held for an agency within the meaning of the statute, and therefore subject to a request by a private bookstore owner who was operating in competition with the contractor that ran the agency's main bookstore. Mohawk Book Co. v State Univ. of N.Y., 288 A.D.2d 574, 732 N.Y.S.2d 272, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10355 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

30. —Cornell's statutory colleges

Colleges created by CLS Educ §§ 5711, 5712, 5714 and 5715 and operated by Cornell University on behalf of State University of New York (i.e., New York State College of Veterinary Medicine, New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, New York State College of Human Ecology, and New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations) may not categorically be deemed state agencies under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) given their hybrid character and significant indicia denoting private entity and function, notwithstanding general policy of liberal disclosure under FOIL and facts that colleges in question are funded by state money, are subject to some state oversight, are state agencies under CLS St Fin § 53-a(5) and are technically part of state university system. Stoll v New York State College of Veterinary Med. at Cornell Univ., 94 N.Y.2d 162, 701 N.Y.S.2d 316, 723 N.E.2d 65, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3738 (N.Y. 1999).

State University of New York (SUNY) Health Science Center at Brooklyn (HSC-B) is "agency" under CLS Pub O § 86(3) when it maintains records for purpose of federal inspection to comply with Federal Animal Welfare Act (7 USCS §§ 2131 to 2159) in that such records are kept in connection with biomedical research conducted by HSC-B, which is fulfilling SUNY's statutory mission to provide educational services to people of New York state under CLS Educ § 351(c). Citizens for Alternatives to Animal Labs, Inc. v Board of Trustees of the State Univ. of N.Y., 92 N.Y.2d 357, 681 N.Y.S.2d 205, 703 N.E.2d 1218, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3220 (N.Y. 1998).

Court should have dismissed Article 78 proceeding to review denial of petitioners' request for unredacted records of Laboratory Animal Users' Committee (LAUC) of State University of New York, since Freedom of Information Act applies only to entities performing governmental or proprietary function for state, and LAUC was not such entity. American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals v Board of Trustees of State University of New York, 184 A.D.2d 508, 584 N.Y.S.2d 198, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7615 (N.Y. Baldwin Educational Assembly is "agency" under § 86(3) of Public Officers Law, and thus records generated by or in possession of BEA are subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2503.

33. Fire departments and the like

If a fire department is operated by a municipality itself, the records of the department are subject to the Freedom of Information Law since the municipality is a public corporation that falls within the definition of "agency" in Public Officers Law § 86(3); furthermore, recent case law indicates that fire department records are subject to access under Public Officers Law § 87, even if the records are maintained by a volunteer fire company. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1780.

35. Insurance companies

Municipal cooperative health benefit plan established by several education entities under CLS Gen Mun § 119-o(1) and CLS Ins § 4702(e), which provided health insurance benefits to employees and retirees of participating entities pursuant to municipal cooperation agreement, was "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law, not private entity akin to private insurance company. III. "Record"

A. Generally

Personal or unofficial documents which are intermingled with official government files and are being "kept" or "held" by governmental entity are "records" maintained by "agency" under CLS Pub O § 86 and are thus subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O Art 6) absent specific statutory exemption. Capital Newspapers, Div. of Hearst Corp. v Whalen, 69 N.Y.2d 246, 513 N.Y.S.2d 367, 505 N.E.2d 932, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15362 (N.Y. 1987).

Information kept or held for government agency is within embrace of "records" under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O §§ 84 et seq.); to implement narrow definition of "records" adopted by federal courts would undermine legislative objective to provide maximum disclosure by enabling government agency to insulate its records from public access by delegating responsibility for creating or maintaining particular information to nongovernmental entity. Encore College Bookstores v Auxiliary Serv. Corp., 87 N.Y.2d 410, 639 N.Y.S.2d 990, 663 N.E.2d 302, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4751 (N.Y. 1995).

Because an agency's software enabled it to manipulate data and was more than just a delivery system or data warehouse, it was a "record," as defined by N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(4); therefore, because the agency failed to articulate a legitimate concern covered by the exemption in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(i), the software was subject to disclosure. Matter of TJS of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Dept. of Taxation & Fin., 89 A.D.3d 239, 932 N.Y.S.2d 243, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7602 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

Trial court erred in granting the motions of a town's planning board, town clerk, and a developer to dismiss a petition for certain architectural renderings because the renderings became "records" within the meaning of the Freedom of Information Law when a developer's owner left them in the possession of the town planner for a number of days and the planner displayed them at a planning board meeting, and it was unclear whether the renderings were still in the possession of the town planner when the petitioner made her request. Matter of Fanizzi v Planning Bd. of Patterson, 146 A.D.3d 98, 44 N.Y.S.3d 74, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8226 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

39. Blueprints

In view of the definition of "record" in Public Officers Law § 86(4) it would appear to be clear that a blueprint for a proposed office building that would replace a historic building constitutes a "record" subject to the Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1842.

40. Computer tapes or disks

In proceeding under Freedom of Information Law, court properly ordered disclosure of records in computer tape format instead of on hard copy where agency maintained requested files in computer format, files could be reproduced on computer tapes at minimal cost in few hours, and petitioner agreed to pay cost, while information provided on hard copy would use more than one million sheets of paper, cost more than $10,000, take 5-6 weeks to complete, and cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to reconvert to computer-usable format. Brownstone Publishers, Inc. v New York City Dep't of Bldgs., 166 A.D.2d 294, 560 N.Y.S.2d 642, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12056 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Freedom of Information Law is applicable to information found within computer tapes or discs as well as paper files. Comm Pub Ac Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2569.

41. Minutes of meetings; transcripts

Minutes of insurance company meetings that are given by the companies to the NYS Insurance Department for its examination constitute "records" within the meaning of the FOIL. Washington Post Co. v New York State Ins. Dep't, 61 N.Y.2d 557, 475 N.Y.S.2d 263, 463 N.E.2d 604, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4180 (N.Y. 1984).

42. Official correspondence, communication and the like

If a town or county supervisor receives communications from a county supervisors' association that relate to the performance of his or her official duties, such communications would constitute "records" under Public Law Officers Law § 86 and would be subject to rights of access granted by the Freedom of Information Law. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1878.

43. Photographs, film and the like

Nassau County Community College, 81 N.Y.2d 690, 603 N.Y.S.2d 294, 623 N.E.2d 15, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3264 (N.Y. 1993).

Trial court should have ordered disclosure the metadata associated with those photos that the agency had already disclosed to petitioner, as well as those photos deemed subject to disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6. Matter of Irwin v Onondaga County Resource Recovery Agency, 72 A.D.3d 314, 895 N.Y.S.2d 262, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1317 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2010).

44. "Preliminary" notes and the like

A request for documents to be discussed at an open meeting of the Permanent Commission on Public Employee Pension and Retirement System may not be denied on the ground that the report was a working paper only and not in final form, since Public Officers Law § 86(4) makes it clear that whether records are kept as "working papers" or whether records may not be "final" does not remove them from the scope of the definition of "record" accessible under the Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1832.

Preliminary economic report and executive summary pertaining to Hawkinsville Dam Project, if maintained by Hudson River-Black River Regulating District, constitutes "records" within meaning of Freedom of Information Law § 86(4) and is subject to public access unless it falls within one or more of exceptions contained in Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2743.

45. Tape recordings, generally

A tape recording of a hearing held before the Department of Motor Vehicles is a "record" under Public Officers Law § 86, regardless of whether the tape recording has been forwarded to a private reporting firm or not. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1904.

Tape recording produced by a town clerk in the performance of her official duty is a "record" subject to rights of access granted by the Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1918.

Tape recording may be destroyed or erased shortly after creation and when it has no further utility, however, it would be inappropriate to destroy or erase tape recording while request for tape recording is pending under Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2170.

Tape recording in possession of clerk used to aid her in performance of her duties is "record" that falls within scope of Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2698.

Once tape recording exist, it constitutes "record" subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law, and tape recording of open meeting is "record" that is available. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2724.

46. —Duplicate recordings

Decision of Superintendent of District Board of Education to permit duplication of tape recording of previous night's Board meeting is in compliance with Freedom of Information Law where citizen asks to tape previous night's meeting from official tape, superintendent grants request, and duplicate tape is made prior to time unapproved minutes are made available to public, since tape recording is clearly "record" that is subject to right of access as soon as it exists. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2673.

47. —Videotapes

Video tape of a news broadcast is not a "record," within the meaning of N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(4), and thus, does not have to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Law. Pennington v Clark, 194 Misc. 2d 381, 755 N.Y.S.2d 195, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1737 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2002).

B. Specific Records

48. Court records, generally

The Freedom of Information Law is not applicable to court records since Public Officers Law § 86(3) excludes the courts from the definition of "agency". Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 1885.

Court records in which person may be interested are not subject to right of access granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2629.

49. —Administrative records

Misc. LEXIS 494 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

50. —Jury matters

Newspaper publisher could not compel Commissioner of Jurors to release names and addresses of jurors in murder trial, even if CLS Jud § 509 did not apply, since commissioner, as court officer, is considered part of judiciary and therefore is not subject to CLS Pub O § 86. Newsday, Inc. v Sise, 120 A.D.2d 8, 507 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58997 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 146, 524 N.Y.S.2d 35, 518 N.E.2d 930, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 20000 (N.Y. 1987)).

51. — —Grand jury

Grand jury minutes are court records, rather than agency records, and thus are exempt from ambit of Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O §§ 86(1) and (3). Mullgrav v Santucci, 195 A.D.2d 786, 600 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7280 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Grand Jury minutes were court records, not agency records, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(1), (3); they were confidential, N.Y. Crim. Proc. Hall v Bongiorno, 305 A.D.2d 508, 761 N.Y.S.2d 63, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Grand jury minutes are court records which are exempt from ambit of Freedom of Information Law. Harvey v Hynes, 174 Misc. 2d 174, 665 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

52. Criminal matters, generally

Inventory of evidence used against petitioner in connection with criminal investigation resulting in his murder conviction was not exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, since evidence inventory list is record within meaning of CLS Pub O § 86(4). Dobranski v Houper, 154 A.D.2d 736, 546 N.Y.S.2d 180, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12412 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Police officers and firefighters were not entitled to declarative and injunctive relief barring respondents from releasing certain information contained in their disciplinary files because they advanced no persuasive arguments as to why controlling statutes, including this one, violated any other provision of the Federal and State Constitutions, and thus had not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits. Buffalo Police Benevolent Assn., Inc. v Brown, 69 Misc. 3d 998, 134 N.Y.S.3d 150, 2020 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 7199 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2020).

54. — —Physical evidence

Court properly dismissed proceeding to compel agency to disclose, under Freedom of Information Law, records and physical evidence compiled during criminal investigation culminating in petitioner's conviction, since physical evidence requested, such as tools and items of clothing, did not fall within definition of "record" under CLS Pub O § 86, and requests involving names, addresses, and statements of confidential witnesses, grand jury testimony, and reports which would reveal non-routine criminal investigative techniques for processing homicide scene were all exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87. Allen v Strojnowski, 129 A.D.2d 700, 514 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45390 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 871, 523 N.Y.S.2d 493, 518 N.E.2d 5, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19075 (N.Y. 1987).

Items presented in evidence in criminal trial requested by petitioner, consisting of "articles of clothing and alleged weapons," did not fall within definition of "record" subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law; such physical evidence is not part of "the documents and statistics leading (governmental determination" (CLS Pub O § 84 (2) (e) (i)). Sideri v Office of the DA, 243 A.D.2d 423, 663 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10842 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 808, 669 N.Y.S.2d 261, 692 N.E.2d 130, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 252 (N.Y. 1998).

55. Financial records, including banks

Bank records pertaining to issuance of industrial revenue bonds by city industrial development corporation (CIDC) were not records of agency within meaning of CLS Pub O § 86(4), for when bonds were issued, CIDC assigned all of its rights in bonds to bank, and bank acted as trustee for bondholders and not for CIDC. United Food & Commercial Workers, Dist. Union, Local One v City of Schenectady Indus. Dev. Agency, 204 A.D.2d 887, 612 N.Y.S.2d 477, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5431 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

56. Insurance records

Minutes of insurance company meetings that are given by the companies to the NYS Insurance Department for its examination constitute "records" within the meaning of the FOIL. Washington Post Co. v New York State Ins. Dep't, 61 N.Y.2d 557, 475 N.Y.S.2d 263, 463 N.E.2d 604, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4180 (N.Y. 1984).

57. Real property assessment data

Court properly determined that inventory data for all parcels contained on assessment roll of town constituted record within meaning of Freedom of Information Law. Comps, Inc. v Town of Huntington, 269 A.D.2d 446, 703 N.Y.S.2d 225, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1367 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 758, 713 N.Y.S.2d 522, 735 N.E.2d 1287, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1832 (N.Y. 2000).

Real property assessment revaluation data being compiled by independent appraisal company for eventual use in county-wide reassessment program are not "records" subject to public rights to access within Freedom of Information Law. 7 Op Counsel, SBEA #68, 1980 December 22.

Access to records of a private corporation currently engaged in a contractual relationship with the Saratoga County Board of Supervisors and the County Equalization and Assessment Committee performing a 100 percent assessment revaluation project for the county may not be denied on the basis that Freedom of Information Law is inapplicable to records of a private corporation, since Public Officers Law § 86(4) defines "record" as including "any information produced for an agency in any fiscal form whatsoever" and the private corporation involved was clearly producing information for a public corporation. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1783.

A request for real property assessment revaluation data being compiled by a private company for Saratoga County may not be denied on the ground that such data does not constitute "records" under Public Officers Law § 86 since if there are materials made available to public officials of Saratoga County it appears that they must be of necessity "records" subject to the Freedom of Information Law and, furthermore, the definition of "record" includes information "in any physical form whatsoever" and thereby covers preliminary drafts, other information that is nonfinal, or even information that is "in production". Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1857.

58. School records, generally

Sexually-explicit film and filmstrips from college-level course taught in public college and provided by college constituted agency "record" under Freedom of Information Law. Russo v Nassau County Community College, 81 N.Y.2d 690, 603 N.Y.S.2d 294, 623 N.E.2d 15, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3264 (N.Y. 1993).

59. —Student books and related documents

Booklist to be used by students at State University of New York (SUNY), compiled by bookseller under subcontract with corporation that provided auxiliary services for particular SUNY campus, and received by corporation and kept on university's behalf, constituted "record" within meaning of CLS Pub O § 86(4). Encore College Bookstores v Auxiliary Serv. Corp., 87 N.Y.2d 410, 639 N.Y.S.2d 990, 663 N.E.2d 302, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4751 (N.Y. 1995).

Invoices for textbooks purchased from publishing companies for sale at community college bookstore operated by faculty-student association were "records" under CLS Pub O § 86(4) and were kept or maintained by faculty-student association for "agency" under Freedom of Information Law. Gray v Faculty-Student Ass'n of Hudson Valley Community College, Inc., 186 Misc. 2d 404, 717 N.Y.S.2d 507, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 490 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

IV. Under Former § 87

As a public benefit corporation the State University Construction Fund is an "agency" which must comply with the Freedom of Information Law. Cavalier v McCue, 58 A.D.2d 729, 396 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12845 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Under the definition of "agency," the Division of the Budget came within application of the Freedom of Information Law. Dunlea v Goldmark, 85 Misc. 2d 198, 380 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1982 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 54 A.D.2d 446, 389 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

I. "Judiciary"

1. In general

If request involves records related to sentencing, record sought would be maintained by court rather than "agency"; if this is so, Freedom of Information Law would not be applicable. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4598.

Courts are not subject to either freedom of information law or personal privacy protection law; as such, request for minutes or transcripts of proceedings that took place in county court would properly be directed to clerk of court in which proceeding was conducted. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4760.

Courts and court records are outside scope of Freedom of Information Law; since other provisions of law grant significant rights of access to court records, request for trial transcript should be directed to clerk of appropriate court. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4769.

Freedom of Information Law pertains to records maintained by local and state government, except judiciary and state legislature; as such, Law does not apply to courts or to federal agencies, such as drug enforcement agency. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4778.

Freedom of Information Law does not apply to courts and court records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4790.

Freedom of Information Law does not apply to courts or court records and requests for court records should be directed to clerk of courts that maintain records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4823.

Freedom of Information Law is not applicable to court or court records; consequently, Committee on Open Government has neither jurisdiction nor expertise to provide guidance concerning court records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4825.

Freedom of Information Law is not applicable to courts and court records; further, since Freedom of Information Law does not apply, inquiry concerning courts and court records falls outside scope of Committee's jurisdiction. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4832.

Committee on Open Government is authorized to render advice on issues concerning Freedom of Information Law; since rights of access to records are governed by Judiciary Law, Committee cannot advise as to legal remedies available with respect to failure of court to respond to request for records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4846.

Although courts and court records are excluded from scope of Freedom of Information Law, other statutes often grant broad rights of access to court records; request for such records should be directed to court reporter, clerk of court or attorney. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4919.

Freedom of Information Law is not applicable to courts or court records; nevertheless, court records are often available pursuant to other provisions of law and requests should generally be directed to clerk of appropriate court. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4922.

Records held by court or court clerk fell outside scope of Freedom of Information Law; however, office of court administration is "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4931.

Freedom of Information Law does not apply to courts or court records; further, federal Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts apply only to records maintained by federal agencies; consequently they are also inapplicable to records maintained by Supreme Court in New York. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4935.

Freedom of Information Law does not apply to courts or court records; however, there are other statutes that may grant rights of access to court records and requests for those records should be directed to clerks of appropriate courts. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4940.

While the Freedom of Information Law is inapplicable to the courts or court records, other provisions of the law (e.g., Judiciary Law § 255) grant substantial rights of access to court records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6293 (1990).

2. Bronx Housing Court

Since the Bronx Housing Court is part of the civil court of New York City, which is a "court of record", records maintained by a clerk for the Housing Court were outside the scope of the Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6296 (1990).

3. Dismissal-related matters

Freedom of Information Law does not apply to courts or court records; however, many court records are available pursuant to other provisions of law; because criminal procedure law provides that when criminal action or proceeding is dismissed in favor of accused and records relating to event are sealed, records of dismissal of action cannot be provided based upon the exemption of Criminal Procedure Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4947.

4. District Attorney's subpoenas

Subpoenas issued by district attorney's office are agency records covered by Freedom of Information Law, rather than court records that fall beyond scope of that statute, as office of district attorney is "governmental entity" that performs a "governmental function"; as such, extent to which such records may be withheld is limited to grounds under CLS Pub O § 87(2). Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12027.

5. Judicial appointment matters

Access to records involving the appointment of temporary acting supreme court judges were properly denied pursuant to the provisions of the Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6296 (1990).

6. Special matrimonial referees

Special matrimonial referee is court official not subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12183.

County office of public defender is required to comply with Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12535.

II. "Agency"

7. In general

Term "agency" does not include federal agency. Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-3336.

While governmental entities are required to comply with FOIL, law does not apply to records of private firms or persons, such as private sector employers, insurance companies, and repair shop. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4105.

Freedom of Information Law pertains to records of both state agencies and local governments and all records of agency are available, except to extent that records or portions thereof fall within one or more grounds for denial appearing in law. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4602.

Freedom of Information Law is applicable to records of "agency", and term "agency" is defined in CLS Pub O § 86(3). Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4749.

Since definition of "agency" includes municipal entities, all municipalities are required to maintain records setting forth name, public office address, title and salary of every officer or public employee of agency. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4788.

Police department is "agency" required to comply with Freedom of Information Law; however, owner or operator of apartment building would not be "agency" if it is not governmental entity; if it is private entity, Freedom of Information Law would not apply and entity would not be required to disclose its records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4912.

Freedom of Information Law pertains to records of governmental entity; it does not apply to records or information maintained by private individual and in situation where private citizen contacts other private citizens using personal resources, rather than those of agency, Freedom of Information Law would not be applicable or irrelevant. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4949.

Even though consultants or consulting firms may be private entities rather than governmental entities, records maintained for agencies by consultants should be treated as if they were maintained by agency. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8899.

Freedom of Information Law applies to entities of state and local government, while Personal Privacy Protection Law applies only to state agencies. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12592.

Local government may opt to disclose personal information, even when disclosure would result in unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12594.

If relationship between agency and private developer is essentially that of agency and consultant, CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g) would be applicable in analyzing rights of access to documents involving both entities; if, however, relationship of that nature does not exist, that provision would not be pertinent in determining rights of access. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12727.

If committee is not public body subject to Open Meetings Law, it is also not "agency" for purposes of Freedom of Information Law. If Open Meetings Law does not apply to committee's meetings because it does not perform governmental function, to be consistent, it cannot be argued that same committee does perform governmental function and is agency when analyzing rights of access to records it prepares for agency. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2300.

If jury charged with selecting plan for memorial at World Trade Center site would not exist but for its relationship with public authority, and if it carries out its duties solely for or on behalf of agency, it, too, would constitute "agency" required to comply with Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-4200.

8. Authorities, commissions and the like, generally

9. —Environmental entities, generally

10. — —Water-related, including New York/New Jersey Port Authority

Port Authority of New York and New Jersey is not "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO-3586.

Since Port Authority is bi-state entity operating in New York and New Jersey, it is not subject to New York, New Jersey or federal freedom of information statutes. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7563.

Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor is bi-state agency and, therefore, is not subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7869.

Any documentation maintained by Hudson River-Black River Regulating District constitutes agency record subject to rights of access, and District is required to disclose its records to extent required by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7917.

Since environmental task force is part of Department of Environmental Conservation and since environmental task force performs many governmental functions, it is considered "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law; generally, not-for-profit corporations, which are not governmental entities, fall outside scope of Freedom of Information Law; nevertheless, some not-for-profit corporations, and certain corporations or foundations closely affiliated with specific state agencies and whose purposes are essentially to support, supplement or extend functions and programs of such agencies are agencies subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4913.

11. —Homeowner's association

Homeowners association organized as not for profit, type corporation as defined in CLS N-PCL § 102(a) is not required to conform to requirements of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7924.

All letters or other correspondence addressed to or prepared by a Mayor in capacity as Mayor constituted "records" that fall within the scope of the Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6295 (1990).

Irrespective of where records, such as "official letters" from state agencies, from firms and others, may be kept by town supervisor, they are kept due to and in performance of supervisor's official duties and in his capacity as supervisor, and, therefore, such records fall within scope of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8289.

Correspondence between state agency and member of village board of trustees, using his title of Village Trustee, was subject to Freedom of Information Law and provisions of CLS Art & Cult Affrs article 57-A dealing with management, retention, and disposition of government records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12182.

64. Photographs, film and the like

Written request for records should be directed to records access officer of agency or agencies that maintain records; further, Freedom of Information Law requires that applicant reasonably describe records sought so request should contain sufficient detail to enable agency officials to locate records; request for records kept at correctional facility may be directed to facility superintendent or his designee; photographs indicating extent of injuries to requester are clearly records subject to rights of access; ordinarily, medical information or records involving personal details may be withheld on ground that disclosure would result in unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; however, disclosure shall not be construed to constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy when, upon presenting reasonable proof of identity, person seeks access to records pertaining to him. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4824.

65. "Preliminary" notes and the like

66. —Unofficial documents; unsigned or undated

Solid waste management authority is required to respond to request for all records that it does maintain and disclose those records in accordance with Freedom of Information Law; therefore, if materials sought are maintained by solid waste management authority, irrespective of their function, use or origination, they constitute "records" subject to rights granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4921.

Whether document in possession of agency is signed or unsigned, undated or characterized as unofficial, it nonetheless falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8378.

Once plans for relevant documentation are in possession of town, they fall within scope of Freedom of Information Law, and even though plans may be "preliminary" communications, those factors do not necessarily indicate that records can be withheld. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4596.

Even if minutes have not been approved by committee, they are nonetheless public records and therefore subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4794.

If sub-committee compiles unofficial report and discloses such report to school board, sub-committee should have prepared minutes indicating nature of its action, even though that action does not represent final action of school board as whole; further, even though report is unofficial or draft, since it consists of information produced for agency, report clearly constitutes "record" subjects to rights granted under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4907.

Once document exists, it constitutes "record" subject to rights of access, even if record is characterized as "draft" or is unapproved. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8543.

Regardless of whether document is characterized as draft or internal, it still falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8942.

Any notes or minutes, including handwritten notes used to prepare typewritten minutes, that are prepared during executive session of public body constitute records subject to rights conferred by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9503.

Irrespective of its characterization as "draft," HUD audit of county's "Revolving Loan Fund" fell within coverage of Freedom of Information Law as soon as it came into county's possession. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10050.

Fact that document is characterized as "draft" is not determinative of rights of access, since Freedom of Information Law is applicable to all agency records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12607.

Notes pertaining to meetings of various town boards were "records" that fell within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12681.

Files "kept" by agency employees that fall within scope of request would, based on definition of "record" appearing in CLS Pub O § 86(4), constitute agency records subject to rights of access, irrespective of their characterization as personal, unofficial, draft or otherwise. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12849.

Although notes of meeting do not constitute minutes of meeting but rather serve as basis for preparing minutes, they constitute "records" as defined by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2512.

Notes taken by clerk are "records" covered by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3153.

67. Records mandated but not necessarily originated

If documents are kept for town by its attorney in conjunction with representation of town official, they are records subject to rights granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4753.

Documents concerning sewer projects and other legal business performed for village would be "records" of village subject to Freedom of Information Law; fact that records are kept in location other than municipal building should not affect village's legal custody of records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4783.

Any documentation, irrespective of its function or origin, maintained by agency constitutes "record" subject to rights of access under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7914.

Definition of "record" includes not only documents that are physically maintained by agency; it also refers to documents are that are "kept, held, filed, produced or reproduced by, with or for agency"; thus, where county does not have physical possession of records, but engages third party to receive certain records, records are nevertheless subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8899.

If document is produced for agency, it constitutes agency record, even if it is not in physical possession of agency. If committee is not public body for purposes of Open Meetings Law because it does not perform governmental function, then for same reason, it is not agency for purposes of Freedom of Information Law; however, report prepared by agency for public body would still constitute agency record based on fact that it was prepared for public body. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9297.

Although Department of Agriculture and Markets prepares various documents in conjunction with its statutory duties, when those documents come into physical custody of municipality, such as town, they become "records" of town. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9375.

Records maintained by village, irrespective of who or what agency might have prepared them, are village records under Freedom of Information Law; thus, village was required to respond to request for records relating to state Comptroller's recent audit of village, even though same records might be maintained by Comptroller. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10108.

Records maintained by Slate Valley Museum Foundation for Village of Granville, whether or not in physical possession of foundation and irrespective of whether foundation was "agency," were subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3433.

68. Tape recordings, generally

69. —Audiotapes

As to whether audio tape recording of meeting of board of elections may be erased when typed or written minutes become official, under CLS Pub Off § 86(4), such recording is "record" subject to rights of access as soon as it exists; under CLS Arts & Cult Aff § 57.11, records maintained by local government cannot be destroyed without consent of Commissioner of Education, and Education Department has developed schedules indicating minimum retention periods for certain records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4435.

If audiotapes are produced by and for town, they constitute "records" subject to rights of access; while stenographer might have physical custody of audiotapes of meetings, those tapes are in legal custody of town, and town clerk is required to respond to request for tapes as required by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4826.

Audiotape of judicial seminar/discussion conducted by Office of Court Administration was agency record subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9403.

70. —Duplicate recordings

Tape recording of meeting or public hearing is "record" subject to rights of access under Freedom of Information Law; with respect to means by which tape recording may be made available, equivalent of "inspection" of tape recording would involve listening to tapes; while agency need not relinquish physical custody of tape to enable member of public to listen to it, person could listen to tape in presence of agency official, who could maintain custody and control over tape; as alternative, agency could, upon payment of requisite fee, reproduce tape. Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO-3615.

A tape recording of an open meeting is accessible for listening and/or copying under the Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6268 (1990).

With regard to meetings of Town Board which are videotaped and aired on public access television, town was not required to purchase new equipment to acquire capacity to copy videotapes and, when copy of videotape was requested, local commercial service or perhaps school or library could reproduce tape and Town could charge for actual cost of reproduction. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8306.

If city has ability to prepare duplicate of tape recording of hearing, it must do so upon payment of actual cost of reproduction. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12149.

71. —Tape recordings of other transmissions

Tape recordings of dictaphone, dispatch and radio transmissions maintained by (or produced for) agencies constitute "records" and, while there may be no obligation to transcribe tape recordings, public has right to listen to or have copy of them unless there is basis for denial under CLS Pub O § 87(2). Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9935.

72. —Videotapes

Videotape recordings of village trustees meetings constitute "records" under CLS Pub O L § 86(4). Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO-3425.

Video tape constitutes "record" subject to rights granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4697.

Member of public may tape record open meetings of public bodies, so long as tape recording is carried out unobtrusively, in manner that does not detract from deliberative process; these same principles apply to video equipment; if advances in technology permit video equipment to be used without special lighting, in stationary location and in unobtrusive manner, it is questionable whether prohibition under those circumstances would be reasonable; tape recording of open meeting kept by town is clearly record subject to rights of access under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4960.

With regard to meetings of Town Board which are videotaped and aired on public access television, town was not required to purchase new equipment to acquire capacity to copy videotapes and, when copy of videotape was requested, local commercial service or perhaps school or library could reproduce tape and Town could charge for actual cost of reproduction. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8306.

Videotape maintained by agency constitutes "record" subject to rights of access conferred by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9365.

Tape or video recordings produced by village official in performance of his or her official duties constitute "records" subject to rights of access under Freedom of Information Law; however, if open meeting is taped or video recorded by member of public, tape would be private property of that person and would not be subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2219.

Notwithstanding a contention that a tape recording of a meeting of village board of trustees was not a public record because it was used merely as a tool for minutes of meeting, portion of tape reflective of open meeting and possibly portions reflective of discussion in executive session are accessible under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO 3109.

Tape recording of meeting prepared by or in possession of village clerk constitutes "record", even if tape recorder is personal property of clerk; if tape recording exists, it is available to public for either listening or reproduction. Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-3384.

Tape recording of open meeting held at town hall is "record" subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law. 1986 Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-4191.

If city maintains tape recording of public hearings or meetings, tape recording is "record" subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law, and whether or not tape recording is considered "official" or otherwise is irrelevant. 1986 Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-4216.

Tape recordings constitute "records" subject to rights conferred by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4716.

Tape recordings maintained by city constitute "records" subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4743.

While tape recording would likely contain elements of minutes, minutes should be reduced to writing in order that they constitute permanent, written record that can be viewed by public and so that town has permanent written record readily accessible to town officials who must refer to or rely upon minutes in performance of their duties. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4826.

Assuming that tape recordings of disciplinary hearing existed, they would constitute "records" subject to Freedom of Information Law, even if they were "sealed" and despite claim that they were "deemed not to exist." Applicant's rights of access to tape recordings of his disciplinary hearing did not change after determination arising out hearing was reversed. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8380.

Although applicant cannot "inspect" tape recording, equivalent of inspecting such record involves listening to it; thus, applicant has right under Freedom of Information Law to listen to such tape recording. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8565.

Tape recording of board of education executive session, prepared by member of board, fell within coverage of Freedom of Information Law, and thus could be destroyed or erased only in conjunction with provision of Arts and Cultural Affairs Law dealing with retention and disposal of records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10368.

Tape recording of meeting of town planning board clearly fell within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. When town maintains tape recording of meeting, tape would constitute "record" that falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law, irrespective of reason for which recording was prepared. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12696.

Those portions of audio tapes that consisted of recordings of town board meetings constituted "records" that fell within scope of Freedom of Information Law where tapes were prepared in conjunction with performance of preparer's duties as board member, even though he used his own tape recorder and purchased tapes. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12923.

When tape recording captures commentary made in public meeting, there is no basis to deny access under Freedom of Information Law; however, tape recordings of executive sessions reflecting deliberative process may constitute "intra-agency material" under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g) and, if there has been no final determination by town board indicating misconduct or imposing penalty in connection with ethics complaint, disclosure of tape recordings of deliberations of town ethics board would constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3712.

73. Wallets, including contents thereof

Freedom of Information Law pertains to rights of access to existing records maintained by governmental agencies and while definition of records is extremely broad, it does not include such items as wallets, contents of individual's wallet or money. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4932.

75. Building inspector reports

Since information kept, held, filed, produced or reproduced for or by town would constitute "records" subject to rights of access granted by Freedom of Information Law, contract between town and private corporation would be available because none of grounds for denial would apply; similarly, town records reflective of building inspections are generally available. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4601.

76. Court records, generally

77. —Administrative records

Fact that "criminal records database" was maintained by Office of Court Administration (OCA) did not transform it into court record; however, OCA was not required by Freedom of Information Law to honor request for "updates on a monthly basis" to extent that such request was prospective in nature. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12,343.

Records held by court or court clerk fell outside scope of Freedom of Information Law; however, Office of Court Administration is "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4931.

78. —County clerk's records

When county clerk is acting in his or her capacity as court clerk, records fall beyond coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8519.

79. —Judgment docket books

Where information sought exists in 2 forms, both forms are "records" that are equally available under law; accordingly, where judgment docket books are kept in print and microfiche, both forms should be made available to public for copying. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4063.

Felony conviction docket books maintained by county clerk and Supreme Court clerk are court records excluded from coverage of Freedom of Information Law; however, they are subject to disclosure under CLS Jud § 255-b, which states that "A docket-book, kept by a clerk of a court, must be kept open, during the business hours fixed by law, for search and examination by any person." Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9771.

80. —Licensing officer's records

Whether records maintained by "licensing officer" should be characterized as court records or agency records is conjectural; while functions of licensing officers are carried out by judges in most locations in state, in other locations, same functions are carried out by commissioners of police or county sheriff and, therefore, functions of licensing officers do not appear to be inherently judicial in nature. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7918.

Copies of court orders pertaining to New York City Department of Sanitation's "confiscation of topsoil and living vegetation in Rockaway" were accessible under Freedom of Information Law

81. Criminal matters, generally

82. —Correctional Department records

If request involves records related to sentencing, record sought would be maintained by court rather than "agency"; if this is so, Freedom of Information Law would not be applicable. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4598.

Freedom of Information Law pertains to records maintained by units of state and local government except state legislature and judiciary; law generally pertains to records of department of correctional services, including its correctional facilities; however, law pertains to access to existing records and does not require agency to answer questions or to provide "information". Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4695.

Since office of special prosecutor, department of correction and office of district attorney are "agencies", presumably any requested records would be equally available or exempt from disclosure, irrespective of which agency maintains records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4704.

Items of physical evidence (i.e., tools and clothing) do not constitute records and are beyond coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Envelope which contained birthday card mailed by inmate to individual who was discovered to be incarcerated in another state was record subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, rather than physical evidence to which Freedom of Information Law did not apply. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8510.

Arrest records in possession of Police Department constitute "records" subject to rights of access; arrest records are exempt to extent that they are sealed under CLS CPL § 160.50. Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-3359.

If records of the a Town Constable were not agency records, but rather court records, Freedom of Information Law justifies denial of access. On the other hand, CLS Uniform Justice Court Act § 2019-a confers rights of access to records and dockets of the court. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6203 (1990).

Except in unusual circumstances, accident reports prepared by police agencies are available under both Freedom of Information Law and CLS Pub O § 66-a. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12206.

Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4881.

Freedom of Information Law may not be used to obtain copies of all records pertaining to criminal charges that have been dismissed and sealed by court; Criminal Procedure Law contains correct procedure for obtaining such records. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4604.

Since office of district attorney is "governmental entity" that performs "governmental function" for state in public corporation or county, it is agency required to comply with Freedom of Information Law; therefore, to extent that office of district attorney maintains requested records, they are subject to rights of access, even though records may be kept by other entities such as court or police department. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4684.

Freedom of Information Law does not apply to courts or court records; however, many court records are available pursuant to other provisions of law; because criminal procedure law provides that when criminal action or proceeding is dismissed in favor of accused and records relating to event are sealed, records of dismissal of action cannot be provided based upon the exemption of Criminal Procedure Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4947.

87. Employment records

Records identifying public employees who work during given period, rates of pay and number of hours worked are available because those records are "relevant" to performance of duties; Freedom of Information Law deals specifically with payroll information. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4657.

Whether documents are characterized as "official" or "confidential", or whether they pertain to current or former employees, they constitute "records" that fall within requirements of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8930.

Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4617.

Clinical management practice program at state university is operated by and on behalf of state university and certain of its components and is "agency" because state university and components fall under this definition; further, records of or pertaining to clinical management practice plan are maintained by officers and employees of state university and therefore such records are subject to rights granted by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4763.

Written request for records should be directed to records access officer of agency or agencies that maintain records; further, Freedom of Information Law requires that applicant reasonably describe records sought so request should contain sufficient detail to enable agency officials to locate records; request for records kept at correctional facility may be directed to facility superintendent or his designee; photographs indicating extent of injuries to requester are clearly records subject to rights of access; ordinarily, medical information or records involving personal details may be withheld on ground that disclosure would result in unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; however, disclosure shall not be construed to constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy when, upon presenting reasonable proof of identity, person seeks access to records pertaining to him. 94. Real property assessment data

Online web application, whereby staff of Office of Real Property Services (ORPS) proposed to copy assessment data received in electronic form from municipalities into data warehouse to be accessed over internet, was "delivery system" rather than "record" subject to Freedom of Information Law, and thus online access could be restricted to assessors, who would only be able to sign on if agency provided valid usercode and password; original source of data would still be accessible to public from municipalities and ORPS on request. State Review Panel created by L 1995, ch 145 is "public body" subject to Open Meetings Law, and any documentation maintained by it constitutes "record" within coverage of Freedom of Information Law, as such records would have been acquired or produced by or for State Education Department or local school district. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2690.

Insofar as board's instructions to staff affect may public or final district policy, or involve records communicated between or among school district officials or prepared for district by consultant, those portions consisting of statistical or factual information must be disclosed. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3473.

97. Voting records

Since board of elections is component of county, Freedom of Information Law applies to all records of agency and all county records, including information kept on computer tapes or discs, which are subject to rights and access granted by Freedom of Information Law; data processing center serves as modern record storage, generating and retrieval center and these functions should not serve to impair capacity of agencies or public officers from carrying out statutory responsibilities under Freedom of Information Law. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4600.

Freedom of Information Law is applicable to all records of agency, such as town, and, as such, requests for minutes of town board are properly made pursuant to Freedom of Information Law; minutes of meetings of public bodies are available under Freedom of Information Law and Open Meetings Law; further, both laws require that record of votes indicating how each member of public body voted must be maintained and made available. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4773.

Pursuant to CLS Pub O § 89(6) and CLS Elec § 5-602, there was no basis to withhold list of persons who voted in Mattituck Park District from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, regardless of requester's intended use of list. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-16532.

98. Zoning records

Letters submitted by landowners to zoning board of appeals constitute "records" subject to rights of access and none of grounds of denial could justifiably be asserted; if record is denied, denial must be made in writing, stating reasons and informing applicant of name and address of person or body to whom appeal may be made. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4717.

99. Other and miscellaneous

Records prepared for agency by private consulting firm constitute intra-agency material subject to Freedom of Information Law and would be accessible or deniable depending upon their contents; further, although records may not be in physical possession of agency, since they were produced for county, they are records within county's legal custody; assuming documents in question are "records" subject to Freedom of Information Law, their status as preliminary would not alone remove them from scope of rights of access. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4798.

Fact that attorneys for village were given authority to hire consulting firm did not remove records prepared by consulting firm from coverage of Freedom of Information Law and, because records were not prepared solely for litigation, they were subject to same standards as records prepared by agency staff. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12124.

Many of local development corporation's records would remain subject to Freedom of Information Law, even if corporation were not itself subject to that statute as not-for-profit corporation, where corporation performed government function and several members of its board served due to their status as city officials. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12386.

If town official acting in his or her capacity as town official serves on local development corporation (LDC) board, records that he or she produces or receives in that capacity would be town records subject to rights conferred by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12401.

Even if entities in question (not-for-profit health research institute and university research foundation) were not "agencies," their records would fall within scope of Freedom of Information Law due to their relationships with state Department of Health and state university, respectively, both of which clearly were agencies. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12685.

Written materials comprising accident report, as well as other documentation, including photographs taken at scene by town employees, would constitute "records" subject to rights conferred by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12917.

Computer software, because it is reflective of information in physical form, constitutes "record" that falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12920.

Any "document" transferred or delivered to Rudolph W. Giuliani Center for Urban Affairs, Inc. by any New York City agency would constitute "record" that falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-13194.

Bid documents that were accessible through county's website, but were maintained by private contractor and were available to public only by registering and agreeing to terms developed by private contractor, constituted "agency records" within meaning of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-16508.

Record prepared by consultant for agency is accessible or deniable, in whole or in part, depending on its contents. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3165.

While volunteer ambulance corporation could deny access to portions of records identifying those to whom medical services were rendered, their ages and descriptions of their medical problems or conditions, because disclosure of name coupled with those details would reveal personal and somewhat intimate aspect of individual's life, other information (such as locations of calls) had to be disclosed; emergency call, particularly when sirens or flashing lights are used, is public event, and destination of fire truck or ambulance is or can be known to those in vicinity of event. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3508.

Since town ethics board did not have authority to decide or make binding or final determinations, opinion of board or its members could be withheld under Freedom of Information Law unless and until opinion was adopted by town board, or if local law required disclosure; further, to extent that misconduct charges were dismissed or allegations found to be without merit, they could be withheld. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3712.

Editor's Notes Laws 1987, ch 814, §§ 1, 2 and 14, provide as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "New York state governmental accountability, audit and internal control act of 1987".

§ 2. Legislative findings. The legislature hereby finds that the scope, size and complexity of state government make it necessary to assure that the state's systems of internal control provide reasonable control over all state operations, and provide the public, the governor, the state legislature, the judiciary and the heads of state agencies and authorities with assurance that state assets and resources, including but not limited to, cash, investments, facilities inventories, supplies, equipment, personal and contractual services are being utilized consistent with the requirements of law and duly established managerial policies and in an effective, economical and efficient manner.

The legislature further finds that the public has a right to know the extent to which state agencies and authorities, the legislature and the judiciary are achieving the objectives of internal control described herein and consequently to be fully informed of weaknesses identified through the conduct of external audits of internal controls.

The legislature further finds that prudent management of state government requires controls in all aspects of state government designed to assure that assets are properly safeguarded, that accounting entries and data are accurate and reliable, and that prescribed managerial policies are adhered to, including assurances that such assets and resources are used only for proper purposes. Therefore, this act requires systems of internal control throughout state government as well as the external audit thereof.

The legislature finds that the adequacy and effectiveness of existing state government internal controls and internal audit functions can be improved by the implementation of a more comprehensive system of internal control and internal audit that encompasses all of state government and will foster the effective and efficient use of government resources and ensure the integrity of accounting systems.

The legislature further finds that it is responsible for the generation of revenue and the appropriation of funds; and, in keeping with the constitutional principle of the separation of powers and the fact that it is directly chosen by the people, the legislature is itself directly responsible to the public for the proper use and application of the resources necessary for its operation; and the operational requirements of the legislature, which is a lateral, collegial institution rather than a hierarchical organization and is constitutionally charged with determining the rules of its own proceedings, differ in many respects from those agencies charged with the delivery of goods and services to the people of the state.

The legislature, therefore, finds that existing systems of internal control can be improved and made more comprehensive, and that it is desirable to build on and coordinate existing internal control efforts and provide a firm statutory foundation for an effective and continuing comprehensive system that will foster the effective and efficient use of government resources and ensure the integrity of accounting systems.

§ 14. This act shall take effect immediately and shall remain in full force and effect until January 1, 1999 at which time this act shall be deemed repealed, provided that sections seven, nine, ten, and eleven of this act shall take effect April 1, 1989, and section eight of this act shall take effect January 1, 1990, except that commencing on and after the date on which this act shall have become a law, the state comptroller, state agencies, covered authorities, the state legislature and the judiciary are authorized to take all actions necessary to implement their respective internal control and audit responsibilities under such sections of this act, and provided that paragraph a of subdivision 2-b of section 8 of the state finance law, as added by section five of this act, and subdivision 1 of section 953 and subdivision 1 of section 954 of the executive law, as added by section seven of this act, and subdivision 1 of section 249-c of the judiciary law, as added by section ten of this act, shall take effect April 1, 1989, and subdivision 1 of section 92 of the legislative law, as added by section eight of this act, shall take effect January 1, 1990. I. In General

A. Generally

1. In general

Freedom of Information Law is permissive; thus, while agency may withhold records under certain circumstances, agency may disclose even if records are deniable. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2524.

Freedom of Information Law is not vehicle by which member of public may cross-examine public officials but is vehicle by which member of public may gain access to records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2531.

Freedom of Information Law does not preclude official of agency from seeking views relative to request from others in agency or from those outside of agency, and such communication should be fostered where it enhances compliance with Law and capacity to render reasoned response. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2704.

2. Construction, generally

Information kept or held for government agency is within embrace of "records" under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O §§ 84 et seq.); to implement narrow definition of "records" adopted by federal courts would undermine legislative objective to provide maximum disclosure by enabling government agency to insulate its records from public access by delegating responsibility for creating or maintaining particular information to non-governmental entity. Encore College Bookstores v Auxiliary Serv. Corp., 87 N.Y.2d 410, 639 N.Y.S.2d 990, 663 N.E.2d 302, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4751 (N.Y. 1995).

3. —Presumptions

All government records are presumptively open for public inspection and copying unless they fall within enumerated exemptions of CLS Pub O § 87(2). Gould v New York City Police Dep't, 89 N.Y.2d 267, 653 N.Y.S.2d 54, 675 N.E.2d 808, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. 1996).

4. Consulting matters

Opinions and recommendations that would, if prepared by agency employees, be exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) as "intra-agency materials" (Pub O § 87[2][g]), do not lose their exempt status simply because they are prepared for the agency, at its request, by an outside consultant. Respondents' final determination being to take no action with respect to property revaluation, the consultant's opinion could not be considered a final agency determination subject to disclosure under Pub O § 87(2)(g)(iii), and the fact that respondents ultimately took no action did not divest the reports of their quality as "intra-agency materials," since FOIL protects against disclosure of pre-decisional memoranda or other non-final recommendations, whether or not action is taken. However, to the extent that real estate appraisal reports prepared for respondents by a private consulting firm in connection with possible revaluation of appellant's property after new construction contained "statistical or factual tabulations or data" (Pub O § 87[2][g][i]), or other material subject to production, they would be ordered redacted and made available to appellant. Xerox Corp. v Webster, 65 N.Y.2d 131, 490 N.Y.S.2d 488, 480 N.E.2d 74, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15741 (N.Y. 1985).

Finding in an N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding that the Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq., agency exception to disclosure, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2), did not apply to certain communications between an agency and its consultant was proper because the consultant's representation of a university regarding the same construction project created an inseparable conflict for purposes of FOIL and the agency exemption; these circumstances elevated the FOIL appeal beyond the average agency-consultant relationship that the FOIL exemptions were designed to foster and protect. Matter of Tuck-It-Away Assoc., L.P. v Empire State Dev. Corp., 54 A.D.3d 154, 861 N.Y.S.2d 51, 240 N.Y.L.J. 14, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6117 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

Petitioner, which challenged town's assessment of its real property, was not entitled under Freedom of Information Law to obtain information concerning retainer agreement between town and outside consultant, or to portion of consultant's appraisal containing information about comparable properties used in determining fair market value of petitioner's property. GMC, GM Powertrain Div. v Town of Massena, 180 Misc. 2d 682, 693 N.Y.S.2d 870, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 210 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

Access to records of a private corporation currently engaged in a consulting contractual relationship with the Saratoga County Board of Supervisors and the County Equalization and Assessment Committee performing a 100 percent assessment revaluation project for the county may not be denied on the basis that Freedom of Information Law is inapplicable to records of a private corporation since Public Officers Law § 86(4) defines "record" as including "any information produced for an agency in any fiscal form whatsoever" and the private corporation involved was clearly producing information for a public corporation; furthermore, the private corporation could not assert that such records were intra-agency or inter-agency records exempt from disclosure under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g) since the corporation does not fall within the definition of "agency" as defined by the Freedom of Information law and therefore could not assert § 87(2)(g) as a basis for denying access to records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1783.

Committee on Open Government is authorized to provide advice, but cannot "rule" or compel an agency to comply with Freedom of Information Law or other statutes within its advisory jurisdiction. Comm on Open Gov't F7967.

5. Custody and maintenance of records, generally

Court properly determined that village's Freedom of Information Law rules and regulations, regarding number of persons who could view public documents at given time and use of personal copiers, constituted valid and rational exercise of village's authority under CLS Pub O § 87(1)(b). Village regulation violated Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O § 87 et seq.) and regulations promulgated thereunder where it permitted village clerk to limit hours during which public documents could be inspected to period of time less than business hours of clerk's office. Murtha v Leonard, 210 A.D.2d 411, 620 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12851 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Archival tax maps must be permanently retained as public records along with tax rolls to which they relate. 10 Op. Counsel SBRPS No. 40.

6. —Stored records, generally

7. — —Home-stored records

There is no requirement that town records be kept in public building and town supervisor may not be prohibited by town board from allowing bookkeeper to keep town's financial records in bookkeeper's home so long as books are accessible to public. Northumberland v Eastman, 129 Misc. 2d 447, 493 N.Y.S.2d 93, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2637 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

8. — —Temporarily stored records

The fact that the records were not in the possession of either the village or its volunteer fire department does not warrant dismissal of the proceeding where the records were to be returned to the village, since temporary possession in another does not necessarily oust a permanent possessor of the control which would make it subject to the responsibilities imposed by the Freedom of Information Law and Special Term was fully justified in granting a right of inspection upon their retransfer to the village's custody. Westchester Rockland Newspapers, Inc. v Kimball, 50 N.Y.2d 575, 430 N.Y.S.2d 574, 408 N.E.2d 904, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2453 (N.Y. 1980).

9. Effect of other legal proceedings, generally

10. —Advisory opinions

The advisory opinion of the Committee on Public Access to Records is entitled to great weight and, if not irrational or unreasonable, should be upheld. Gannett Co. v James, 108 Misc. 2d 862, 438 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2304 (N.Y. Sup. 11. —Article 78 proceedings

Where applicable, relief under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) may be had regardless of availability of discovery through some other means; thus, petitioner in Article 78 proceeding was not precluded from seeking to compel State Insurance Department to comply with request under FOIL, even though petitioner could obtain similar discovery in plenary action. Consolidated Edison Co. v Insurance Dep't of State, 140 Misc. 2d 969, 532 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 511 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding brought by a publisher and a journalist challenging the denial of its Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq., records request for New York State employees' payroll records, the denial on the part of the State Comptroller, the Office of State Comptroller, and the State of New York was vacated and the State was ordered to disclose certain tables that did not use social security numbers as their primary key since they were not a trade secret as well as tables that used social security numbers as their primary key as such tables were retrievable through a simple computer manipulation. However, the State properly invoked the personal privacy exemption in refusing to disclose the State employees' birth dates as the court believed that a reasonable person would find the disclosure of their precise birth dates, taken together with their full name and other details of their State employment, to be offensive and objectionable. Matter of Hearst Corp. v State, 882 N.Y.S.2d 862, 24 Misc. 3d 611, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 868 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

In an action to obtain disclosure of correspondence between the county district attorney's (DA's) office and the county comptroller, judgment could not be entered in favor of the minority leader of the county legislature, despite a conclusory invocation by respondents, the DA and the county, of the exemption for inter-agency materials under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g), as N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 7804(f) required that respondents be permitted to answer. Benedict v Albany County, 867 N.Y.S.2d 906, 22 Misc. 3d 597, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6866 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008).

12. —Criminal proceedings

13. —Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV)

Although disclosure of hazardous intersections and locations might diminish the protection offered by 23 U.S.C.S. § 409, it would not be eliminated; consequently, § 409 did not render the documents sought by the media exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2) of the Freedom of Information Law. Newsday, Inc. v State DOT, 5 N.Y.3d 84, 800 N.Y.S.2d 67, 833 N.E.2d 210, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1215 (N.Y.), cert. dismissed, 546 U.S. 930, 126 S. Ct. 410, 163 L. Ed. 2d 313, 2005 U.S. LEXIS 7651 (U.S. 2005).

14. —Federal laws, generally

Bank (petitioner), which was target of hostile takeover by second bank, was not deprived of due process by State Banking Board's determination not to release certain confidential information regarding "hostile" bank's takeover application, since (1) petitioner had no "property" rights in proceeding because banking board's sole function was to decide whether to allow proposed offer and it did not play active part in transaction nor approve it as sound course of action for either bank, (2) CLS Bank § 142 did not require bank superintendent even to notify petitioner or to offer petitioner opportunity to take part in proceeding, (3) petitioner had received great bulk of material requested through use of Freedom of Information Law, (4) petitioner had been given notice of issues and had submitted extensive documentation in opposition to takeover application, and (5) even if application were approved, parallel federal application had to be considered and approved by Federal Reserve Board, wherein petitioner would have time to oppose it. Irving Bank Corp. v Considine, 138 Misc. 2d 849, 525 N.Y.S.2d 770, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 105 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

15. Format of records

In proceeding under Freedom of Information Law, court properly ordered disclosure of records in computer tape format instead of on hard copy where agency maintained requested files in computer format, files could be reproduced on computer tapes at minimal cost in few hours, and petitioner agreed to pay cost, while information provided on hard copy would use more than one million sheets of paper, cost more than $10,000, take 5-6 weeks to complete, and cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to reconvert to computer-usable format. Brownstone Publishers, Inc. v New York City Dep't of Bldgs., 166 A.D.2d 294, 560 N.Y.S.2d 642, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12056 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Format of the records provided in response to a FOIL records request was within the boundaries of proper procedure, as providing them in an original electronic format would have resulted in providing portions of the records that were exempt from disclosure. Prall v New York City Dept. of Corr., 971 N.Y.S.2d 821, 40 Misc. 3d 940, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 129 A.D.3d 734, 10 N.Y.S.3d 332, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2015).

16. Jurisdictional matters

The legislature has vested sole jurisdiction over claims under the Freedom of Information Law in the Supreme Court of the State of New York. Application of Strober (1990) Op Comr Educ No 12352.

Supreme Court is appropriate forum for addressing violation of Freedom of Information Law; thus, Commissioner of Education had no jurisdiction over such claims. 1996 Op Comm Ed No. 13596.

17. Physical evidence

Items presented in evidence in criminal trial requested by petitioner, consisting of "articles of clothing and alleged weapons," did not fall within definition of "record" subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law; such physical evidence is not part of "the documents and statistics leading (governmental determination" (CLS Pub O § 84 (2) (e) (i)). Sideri v Office of the DA, 243 A.D.2d 423, 663 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10842 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 808, 669 N.Y.S.2d 261, 692 N.E.2d 130, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 252 (N.Y. 1998).

18. Required records, generally

While Commissioner of Jurors cannot be compelled to disclose information regarding prospective jurors under CLS Pub O § 87, newspaper publisher could nevertheless apply for disclosure directly to Appellate Division pursuant to CLS Jud § 509. Newsday, Inc. v Sise, 120 A.D.2d 8, 507 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58997 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 146, 524 N.Y.S.2d 35, 518 N.E.2d 930, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 20000 (N.Y. 1987).

19. —Salary matters ($87(3)(b))

Public Officers Law § 87(3)(b) requires that a school district maintain on an ongoing basis a record that indicates the names, public office addresses, titles and salaries of all its officers and employees in order to ensure this type of information will be compiled and made available to the public upon request; moreover, such information is relevant to the performance of public employees' official duty and therefore may not be denied on the basis of the privacy rights of public employees. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1866.

20. —Answers to questions not required

21. — —In Individual document listing not required

Subject matter list required under § 87(3)(c) of Freedom of Information Law need not identify with particularity each and every record of agency, but need only refer to categories of records of agency in reasonable detail in order that applicant may identify category of records that may include records sought. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2508.

22. — —Lists about employment matters

State employees' retirement system was not required to create a detailed listing by subject matter of its final opinions referring to, reflecting, or relating to a retirement applicant's deadline for changing a retirement option, where, under Pub O § 87, the system was required only to maintain a reasonably detailed current list by subject matter of all records in the possession of the agency. Wattenmaker v New York State Employees' Retirement System, 95 A.D.2d 910, 464 N.Y.S.2d 52, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18882 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 60 N.Y.2d 555, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 5625 (N.Y. 1983).

23. — —Lists about prisons and prisoners

Freedom of Information Law does not require Department of Correctional Services to create master index with respect to each inmate. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-A Op 2578.

Under Freedom of Information Law § 87(3)(c), Department of Correctional Services subject matter list need not make reference to every record of agency, subject matter list need only make reference in reasonable detail to categories of records maintained by agency. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2660.

24. — —Lists required regardless of document availability

Although a cable company did not support its claim of competitive injury in order to prohibit disclosure of documents under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d), because the town was negotiating with the company and a competitor, premature disclosure of the documents would enable a competitor to obtain an unfair advantage in violation of § 87(2)(c). Verizon NY, Inc. v Bradbury, 803 N.Y.S.2d 409, 10 Misc. 3d 785, 234 N.Y.L.J. 102, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2439 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005), rev'd, in part, 40 A.D.3d 1113, 837 N.Y.S.2d 291, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6637 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

25. —Voting matters

Because the requisite record of the final vote of each member of a college's senate committee would be impossible were the final vote of each member anonymous or secret, under the Freedom of Information Law, voting by the senate and its executive committee could not be conducted by secret ballot. Perez v City Univ. of N.Y., 5 N.Y.3d 522, 806 N.Y.S.2d 460, 840 N.E.2d 572, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 3211 (N.Y. 2005).

Request by animal rights advocates under Freedom of Information Law for documents pertaining to final votes of university review committee responsible for approving use of animals in experiments would be granted to extent of requiring disclosure of all prospective votes, inasmuch as CLS Pub O § 87(3)(a), although not mandating that vote be taken in any particular instance, requires that record be kept of each member's vote if vote is taken. American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals v Board of Trustees of State University, 147 Misc. 2d 847, 556 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

Freedom of Information Law precludes public bodies from taking action by means of secret ballot; voting record identifying each member who voted and manner in which he or she voted must be prepared whenever final vote is taken. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL-A Op 2539.

While vote for election of school board president may constitute "board issue" it also constitutes "public issue" for which record of votes should be prepared pursuant to § 87(3) (a) of Freedom of Information Law since vote will clearly be taken by members of School Board in performance of their official duties. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2549.

Copies of electronic ballot images and cast vote records were ordered disclosed under the Freedom of Information Law because it could not be concluded that the records were included in the statutory term "voted ballots," which were exempt from disclosure, so there was no clear legislative intent to preserve the records' confidentiality. 26. Requester's identity and purpose, generally

Status or need of person seeking access is generally of no consequence in construing FOIL and its exemptions. Capital Newspapers Div. of Hearst Corp. v Burns, 67 N.Y.2d 562, 505 N.Y.S.2d 576, 496 N.E.2d 665, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19312 (N.Y. 1986).

Access to government records does not depend on purpose for which records are sought. Gould v New York City Police Dep't, 89 N.Y.2d 267, 653 N.Y.S.2d 54, 675 N.E.2d 808, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. 1996).

Where the department of education (DOE) decided to comply with a New York Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request for teacher data reports (TDRs) that included the teachers' names, a teachers union had standing to challenge the DOE's decision, even though it was not the entity which had requested the records, as it established that the administrative action would cause it harm and that it was within the zone of interest encompassed by FOIL. Record accessible under Freedom of Information Law is equally available to any person without regard to status or interest and individual seeking access to information need not indicate reason for requesting records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2645.

"Interest, connection and/or need" of applicant for records is largely irrelevant to right of access granted by Freedom of Information Law; police blotter, if available, should be made available for access to any person and demonstration of interest in, need for, or connection with records is unnecessary. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2722.

Chief of police could not properly condition release of accessible records on requester's stating reason for desiring copies of records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2799.

New York Freedom of Information Law was not applicable because defendants, an employer and an alleged supervisor, had not stated grounds that the documents were not discoverable under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Adams v Buffalo Pub. Schs, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 109642 (W.D.N.Y. July 10, 2014).

27. —Litigant as requester

Access to records of a government agency under the FOIL is not affected by the fact that there is pending or potential litigation between the person making the request and the agency; the court below erroneously concluded that the FOIL is unavailable to a litigant and that CPLR art. 31 is a blanket exemption from FOIL. Access to records of a government agency under the Freedom of Information Law, Pub O, Art 6, is not affected by the fact that there is pending or potential litigation between the person making the request and the agency involved, since the statutory mandate of open disclosure requires that an agency's public records remain as available to its litigation adversary as to any other person and the requirements of CPLR § 3120 that documents be "specifically designated" is inapplicable under the Freedom of Information Law, the latter statute requiring merely that the records be "reasonably described," as specified in Pub O § 89(3). M. Farbman & Sons, Inc. v New York City Health & Hospitals Corp., 62 N.Y.2d 75, 476 N.Y.S.2d 69, 464 N.E.2d 437, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4244 (N.Y. 1984).

Petitioners who sought Freedom of Information Law disclosure of police department records pertaining to sex crimes for which they had been convicted, for use in collateral review of their convictions, did not fit within exception to statutory privilege of CLS Civ R § 50-b for persons "charged with commission of an offense" (CLS Civ R § 50-b(2)(a)) and thus they would be treated in same manner as any other person seeking access to those records. Fappiano v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 95 N.Y.2d 738, 724 N.Y.S.2d 685, 747 N.E.2d 1286, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 573 (N.Y. 2001).

Fact that person requesting material pursuant to Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub Off §§ 84 et seq.) is in litigation with village from which materials have been requested does not affect propriety of request; furthermore, claim that request constitutes harassment cannot be sustained where there is no showing that records requested have been previously produced. Lucas v Pastor, 117 A.D.2d 736, 498 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53011 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

In civil action against owners of premises on which sex crime against minor allegedly took place, where plaintiffs sought disclosure from New York City Police Department of its file concerning incident, Special Term followed appropriate procedure under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O § 87) by reviewing police records in camera, and correctly applied standards of law by making police records available to plaintiffs only after redacting names and statements of confidential police witnesses and name of suspect identified by victim from police photograph. In re Radio City Music Hall Productions, Inc., 121 A.D.2d 230, 503 N.Y.S.2d 722, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58224 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

A civil litigant is unquestionably entitled, as against a claim of privilege, to obtain by way of discovery in a pending action at least the same documents that any member of the public could obtain by simply filing a Freedom of Information Law request; however, the FOIL does not entitle a member of the public to obtain a criminal investigation file. Wunsch v Rochester, 108 Misc. 2d 854, 438 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2303 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

Limitations upon disclosure found in CPLR § 4503 and § 3101 do not apply to disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law. In an Article 78 proceeding to deny disclosure of certain documents prepared by confidential technical consultants to four utility companies which were engaged in an adjudicatory administrative proceeding pending before an administrative law judge regarding permits issued pursuant to the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System, the disclosure would not be denied where defendants failed to claim a specific exemption, privilege or immunity and to demonstrate that the material sought was within such exemption, privilege or immunity and also failed to demonstrate that the documents in question were exempt from disclosure under any of the eight categories of exemption specified in Pub O § 87. Lawler, Matusky & Skelly Engineers v Abrams, 111 Misc. 2d 356, 443 N.Y.S.2d 973, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

In a civil action seeking to hold defendant landlord liable for plaintiff's rape by an intruder on the ground that defendant failed to comply with the nighttime lighting requirement of the administrative code of the city of New York, plaintiff could not employ Pub O § 87, which permitted access to certain agency records, as a discovery tool since the statute was not available to private litigants in matters not affected by a public interest or as a means of circumventing ordinary discovery procedures. Niederberg v Raleigh Realty Co., 118 Misc. 2d 1086, 462 N.Y.S.2d 149, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3446 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

In action against city by pedestrian who fell on city sidewalk, CLS Code of Prof Respons DR 7-104 did not prohibit pedestrian's attorney from contacting city employees to examine records respecting condition of sidewalk under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) without first clearing request with counsel for city, because FOIL authorizes such direct contact. Fusco v Albany, 134 Misc. 2d 98, 509 N.Y.S.2d 763, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3064 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Request for "evaluation property card" regarding the applicant's property is improperly denied on the basis that the municipality need not provide copies since it is involved in the litigation, since Public Officers Law § 87 provides access to copies of the record. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1774.

28. —Prison inmate or convict as requester

Regulation prohibiting inmates from providing unauthorized legal assistance (7 NYCRR § 270.2(B)(26)(vii)) affords sufficient notice of prohibited conduct and, in light of legitimate security interest in preventing inmates from gaining access to legal records of other inmates, does not unconstitutionally infringe on inmate's right to submit Freedom of Information Law request. Siao-Pao v Selsky, 274 A.D.2d 698, 711 N.Y.S.2d 189, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7775 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 767, 717 N.Y.S.2d 547, 740 N.E.2d 653, 2000 N.Y. 29. —Representative capacity of requester, generally

30. — —Family member

The divorced father having joint custody of the children of the marriage is entitled to the same information regarding his children as the children's mother, since Public Officers Law § 87(2)(a) provides for disclosure of records unless such disclosure is exempted by state or federal statute, and the federal statute involved (20 USCS § 1232g) specifically authorizes a parent, custodial or otherwise, to have access to education records of children unless a legally binding instrument, such as a divorce decree, specifically provides to the contrary. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1860.

A divorced parent who does not have custody of his daughter is nonetheless entitled to access to her school records under 20 USCS § 1232g since a parent, custodial or otherwise, enjoys rights under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, unless a legally binding instrument, such as a divorce decree, specifically provides to the contrary. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1875.

Fact that divorced parent might not have custody of his or her children is not determinative of right of access to student records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2677.

31. — —Public officers

Members of a county legislature are not required to comply with the Freedom of Information Law in order to gain access to certain public record where such public officers seek the information while acting in their capacity as a public officers and are requesting the information as representatives of government who have a need to know in order to carry out their official duties. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1781.

When a public officer seeks information while acting in his or her capacity as a public officer, that person should not be required to follow the procedures generally applicable to the public under the Freedom of Information Law; however, it would not be appropriate to provide public officers "carte blanche" or unrestricted access to records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2383.

Member of county legislature has right to use Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2491.

B. Agencies Subject To Disclosure

32. Courts and court-related entities. generally

33. —Administration of courts, including Office of Court Administration (OCA)

Petitioner is not entitled to access to the records of the Mayor's Committee on the Judiciary concerning the committee's withdrawal of approval of him as a prospective judicial appointee since the committee, whose determinations have no legal effect, performs a purely advisory function merely making recommendations to the Mayor concerning judicial appointments, and entities which perform only advisory functions are not required to make their records available under the Freedom of Information Law. Baumgarten v Koch, 97 Misc. 2d 449, 411 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2819 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

34. Fire departments, generally

If a fire department is operated by a municipality itself, the records of the department are subject to the Freedom of Information Law since the municipality is a public corporation that falls within the definition of "agency" in Public Officers Law § 86(3); furthermore, recent case law indicates that fire department records are subject to access under Public Officers Law § 87, even if the records are maintained by a volunteer fire company. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1780.

35. —Volunteers

Even though a volunteer fire company may be a not-for-profit corporation which exists separately from a municipality with which it maintains a contractual relationship, the fire company is subject to the Freedom of Information Law and therefore its books and records are subject to access in the same manner and to the same extent as the records in possession of any unit of government in New York State. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1896.

36. Health care entities, generally

37. —Health care insurers

Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Rochester's refusal to release a school district's loss ratios and specific claim information to a central school district is not violative of the Freedom of Information Law since Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Rochester is not a "agency" within the meaning of Public Officers Law § 86(3) and therefore not subject to the disclosure requirements of Public Officers Law § 87. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1804.

38. —Hospitals and medical centers, generally

State University of New York Health Science Center at Brooklyn was not "performing a governmental or proprietary function for the state," and thus was not acting as "agency" subject to Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O §§ 84 et seq.), in maintaining records under federal mandate and for federal review. Citizens for Alternatives to Animal Labs v Board of Trustees of the State Univ., 240 A.D.2d 490, 658 N.Y.S.2d 653, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6098 (N.Y. Non-profit, private hospitals receiving substantial amounts of government funds are not government agencies within the definition of Public Officers Law § 86(3) and therefore are not subject to the disclosure requirements of Public Officers Law § 87. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1795.

Request by prisoner for medical record kept at a private medical center of treatment for back injury he suffered in 1978 is properly denied despite his allegation that he needed the records to assist him in his defense against a charge of burglary in which it is alleged that he removed colored television sets since the private medical center is not subject to the Freedom of Information Law; however, upon request of a physician or hospital of the prisoner's designation under Public Health Law § 17, the private medical center must provide copies of medical records to the physician or hospital designated. Summary of the complaint and facts referring to hospital records involving a patient with no obvious connection to quality assurance goals, as well as a factual statement in the independent consultant's report, was purely factual information that was not within an intra-agency exemption for purposes of the Freedom of Information Law, such that disclosure thereof was required. 39. Industrial developments and the like, generally

Buffalo Enterprise Development Corporation (BEDC) is "agency" within meaning of Freedom of Information Law since it is not-for-profit local development corporation which channels public funds into community, it enjoys many attributes of public entities, its purpose is governmental, it was created exclusively by and for city of Buffalo to attract investment and stimulate growth in city, it describes itself as "agent" of city, and it is required to publicly disclose its annual budget, which is subject to public hearing and is submitted to city for review. Buffalo News v Buffalo Enter. Dev. Corp., 84 N.Y.2d 488, 619 N.Y.S.2d 695, 644 N.E.2d 277, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4113 (N.Y. 1994).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by representatives of various unions representing court officers and court clerks to obtain a declaration that the Office of Court Administration (OCA) was subject to the Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), the court determined that, pursuant to Pub O Law § 87, the functions of the OCA were largely concerned with staffing and physical operation as opposed to adjudicatory functions of the courts of New York State and, therefore, OCA could not be deemed to be one of the "courts of the state" so as to be exempt from FOIL; however, although subject to FOIL, OCA would be entitled to withhold records protected from disclosure by State or Federal statute as well as documents provided by those performing adjudicatory functions which are exempt regardless of where they repose. Quirk v Evans, 116 Misc. 2d 554, 455 N.Y.S.2d 918, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3916 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

Although the trial court held that it had the power to issue a subpoena requiring the New York State Unified Court System (UCS) to release records showing the amount of overtime it paid to court officers because the legislature invoked the powers of New York's Civil Practice Law and Rules when it gave the New York State Public Employees Relations Board power to issue subpoenas, the court refused to issue the subpoena because an association which requested the records for use prosecuting its claim that the UCS engaged in unfair labor practices did not show adequate justification of its need for the records or that the records could not be obtained under New York's Freedom of Information Law. State Supreme Court Officers Ass'n v State Unified Court Sys., 774 N.Y.S.2d 909, 2 Misc. 3d 960, 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 54 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2004).

Documents sought from district attorney by petitioner in Article 78 proceeding were no longer available to petitioner, and

Where a law enforcement agency was asked to disclose records relating to a police investigation and surveillance activities involving two specific individuals and associated organizations-information protected under the law enforcement and public safety exemptions of Public Officers Law § 87, an agency's response to neither confirm nor deny the existence of responsive documents was compatible with the FOIL statute and the precedent of the New York Court of Appeals interpreting it. Matter of Abdur-Rashid v New York City Police Dept., 31 N.Y.3d 217, 100 N.E.3d 799, 76 N.Y.S.3d 460, 2018 N.Y. Rare case where, due to the surrounding circumstances and the manner in which a Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request is structured, acknowledging that any responsive records exist would reveal information tethered to a narrow exemption; but when a FOIL request seeks to ascertain if a specific person or organization is under investigation by the New York City Police Department Intelligence Bureau, such a response is entirely consistent with the purpose and structure of the statute. Matter of Abdur-Rashid v New York City Police Dept., 31 N.Y.3d 217, 100 N.E.3d 799, 76 N.Y.S.3d 460, 2018 N.Y. 45. —Not-for-profit corporations

A newspaper may not obtain the financial record of a non-profit corporation which defaulted on bonds issued to cover the cost of leasing a large tract of land from a county agency since the non-profit corporation is not an agency within the meaning of Public Officers Law § 86(3) and therefore falls outside the scope of the Freedom of Information Law; however, it is possible for the newspaper to obtain any records or reports submitted to the county governmental agency. ii. Disclosure Fees

Where CLS Elec §§ 5-602 and 5-604 were constitutional to extent that they required county boards of election to compile voter registration and enrollment lists to aid ballot access by petition, but were unconstitutional to extent that they provided such records free of charge to some political entities but not others, court would adopt procedural device of severance, retaining information-compiling subsections, discarding payment subsections, and substituting relevant provisions of CLS Pub O § 87 for discarded payment provisions, as information compiling subsections were not inextricably intertwined with payment sections. Indigent state prison inmate seeking to corroborate claims made in habeas corpus petitions was not entitled to obtain free copies of court documents under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), and district attorney's refusal to waive copying fee on ground of absence of provision permitting such waiver in FOIL was reasonable; inmate's remedy was to proceed as poor person in habeas corpus proceedings and seek leave of court for disclosure. 64. Maximum charge not to exceed 25 cents per photocopy, generally

A fee of $572.16 sought to be charged by a town for services to a village which requested a copy of the tentative assessment list prepared by the town with respect to property that was within both the town and the village is both excessive and inappropriate since the town assessed the fee based on the "going fair market rate for 1 hour on IBM 3031 and the operator's time and paper costs" and, assuming that the initial computer printout had been made by the town prior to the village's request, the fee should be based upon the cost of photocopying existing records and thereby regulated by Public Officers Law § 87(1)(b)(iii). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1786.

While that part of Cheektowaga, N.Y., Code § 192-2, which charged a sum in excess of the amount authorized by N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(1)(b)(iii) for computer generated police and accident reports was invalid because the fees set forth in the town law were not "precribed by statute," a trial court improperly declared the entire law invalid because plaintiff only challenged the charges for police and accident reports and did not challenge the fees for local record checks and background investigations also included in the town law. N.Y. Cent. Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v Town of Cheektowaga, 13 A.D.3d 1189, 787 N.Y.S.2d 582, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16314 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2004).

66. — —Ordinance cannot create exception

Fee of $7 charged for certified copies of accident reports under City of Syracuse Revised General Ordinances § 19-4 violates Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O § 87), which provides that fees for copies of records shall not exceed 25 cents per photocopy, or actual cost of reproducing any other record, except when different fee is otherwise prescribed by "statute"; § 19-4 of Syracuse Revised General Ordinances is "ordinance," not statute, and therefore fee greater than that stated in Public Officers Law cannot be charged. Sheehan v Syracuse, 137 Misc. 2d 438, 521 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2647 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1987).

Agency may charge fee in excess of twenty-five cents per photocopy only where statute, act passed by State Legislature and signed by governor, specifically so provides; fees in excess of twenty-five cents per photo copy charged by town pursuant to ordinance are invalid because local law or ordinance is not considered "statute" with meaning of Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2552.

Enactment of local ordinance establishing fee in excess of $2 per photocopy cannot permit Village to legally charge more than 25 cents per photocopy in view of change in Freedom of Information Law which permits assessment of fee higher than 25 cents per photocopy only by act of state legislature. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2668.

67. — —Regulations of New York City

Under amendments of Chapter 73 of the Laws of 1982, only an act of the state legislature (a statute) permits assessment of a fee higher than 25 cents per photocopy; the intent behind the amendment was to establish a uniform maximum charge with respect to fees generally and not with respect to accident reports specifically, although $10 fee charged by New York City Police Department for accident reports may, under means by which New York City Charter provisions have been legislated, have the effect of a statute enacted by the legislature. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2791.

68. —Effect of specific state statutes, generally

69. — —Vehicle and Traffic Law

Provision in § 202 of the Vehicle and Traffic Law authorizing copying fee of $3.50 for accident reports obtained from the Department of Motor Vehicles does not provide a basis for agencies such as municipal police departments charging more than 25 cents for copies of accident reports requested under Freedom of Information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2825.

70. Photocopying fee; scanning charges, generally

Inmate could be charged a photocopying fee under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(1)(b)(iii) for materials requested pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6, as the records were properly redacted under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(2) to prevent an unwarranted invasion of privacy, and, thus, copies had to be provided, because identity of the recipients of other inmates' correspondence constituted "identifying details." Matter of Brown v Goord, 45 A.D.3d 930, 845 N.Y.S.2d 495, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10962 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007), app. dismissed, 10 N.Y.3d 796, 857 N.Y.S.2d 25, 886 N.E.2d 789, 2008 N.Y. In absence of a designated fee under CPLR § 8021(a)(11), the proper fee for photocopying deeds that are not certified is the fee provided for in Public Officers Law § 87(1)(b)(iii) rather than the fee established by the provisions of CPLR § 8021(a)(7) since that provision fixes a fee per page for preparing and certifying a copy of any paper or instrument filed or recorded and the documents in question were not certified. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1854.

Seven dollar labor cost for photocopying in connection with Freedom of Information Law request may not legally be assessed by town board before complying with request because fees characterized as labor costs may not assessed in connection with Freedom of Information Law request. Freedom of Information Law does not permit a police department to charge $5 for copies of accident and incident reports. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2818.

71. —Advance payment requirement

72. —Map copying

Because no specific provision governs copies of tax maps filed in the county office of the director of real property tax services, the Freedom of Information Law applies, and since there is no fee "otherwise prescribed by law," the county may charge only the actual cost of reproduction for copies of tax maps, excluding operator salaries. Moreover, the county under Real P Tax § 1534 has no authority to include in its charge for copying tax maps a levy for map maintenance expense. Szikszay v Buelow, 107 Misc. 2d 886, 436 N.Y.S.2d 558, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2108 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

73. Reproduction fee

The fee for reproducing a tape recording must be based upon the direction give in § 87(1)(b)(iii). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1904.

74. Search fee

A town may not justify the imposition of a search fee in addition to the photocopying fee based upon fact that some town employee must travel to a separate building where records older than 2 years are kept. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2813.

D. Sufficiency Of Response, Generally

75. In general

Petitioner was properly provided with photocopy of original line-up photograph rather than reprint as requested, even though CLS Pub O § 86(4) provides that a photograph is a record within meaning of statute, since CLS Pub O § 87(1)(b) merely requires agency to provide copies or reproductions of records. Adams v Hirsch, 182 A.D.2d 583, 582 N.Y.S.2d 724, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6335 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

There is no requirement that provider of computer generated printout also furnish requester with interpretation of codes entered thereon. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2814.

Trial court properly directed disclosure of the records at issue without redactions, awarded attorney's fee and costs, and denied a sheriff's department's motion for leave to renew because, while the department provided the requested records, it failed to proffer more than conclusory assertions supporting its claims for redaction of the signatures of the captains who approved overtime requests and failed to show that the information was exempt. Matter of Jaronczyk v Mangano, 121 A.D.3d 995, 996 N.Y.S.2d 291, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7122 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2014).

76. Appealability information

Any possible conclusion that school district had issued final and binding determination of Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request was negated by letter from district superintendent that advised petitioner of allegedly proper procedure to obtain material under FOIL, and superintendent's letter at later date that responded in part to FOIL request. School district's response to Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request became final and binding, and statute of limitations began to run against petitioner's Article 78 proceeding, on date when district's superintendent wrote letter to petitioner that responded in part to FOIL request. Petitioner seeking records from school district under Freedom of Information Law did not fail to exhaust its administrative remedies where school district did not advise it of availability of administrative appeal, and did not demonstrate in Article 78 proceeding that procedures for such appeal had even been established. Fact that petitioner, requesting records from school district under Freedom of Information Law, was aware, in theory, of availability of administrative review of denial of its request, did not relieve school district of its responsibility to advise petitioner that such review was available, and of procedures for securing it. Orange County Publ'ns v Kiryas Joel Union Free Sch. Dist., 282 A.D.2d 604, 724 N.Y.S.2d 167, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3819 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

77. Five-day response requirement

As the New York State Department of Transportation (DOT) acknowledged a request for documents within five days as required by under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(3)(a), and the request resulted in about 11,000 documents, many of which were still being used, three months was not an excessive time for DOT to allow inspection of some of them and to claim that others were exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g). Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

78. Inability to locate

Police lieutenant's mere statement that "(b)ased on the information you provided and after searching for the following requested document(s), this unit was unable to locate" certain documents was insufficient to establish that police department made diligent search for requested records where it was unclear what role, if any, lieutenant played in searching for documents and whether in fact diligent search had been conducted. Bellamy v New York City Police Dep't, 272 A.D.2d 120, 708 N.Y.S.2d 5, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5440 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), overruled in part, Rattley v N.Y. 79. Periodic or on-going disclosure

A shortage of staff does not constitute a sufficient basis for withholding agency records under Public Law Officers Law § 87; however, in cases in which great numbers of records have been requested, it has been suggested that the agency and the applicant might be able to agree to a schedule spreading disclosure over a period of weeks or even months. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1900.

80. Presumption of availability

Broad allegation that files contain exempt material is insufficient to overcome the presumption that records are open for inspection and categorically to deny petitioner all access to the requested material. Konigsberg v Coughlin, 68 N.Y.2d 245, 508 N.Y.S.2d 393, 501 N.E.2d 1, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20497 (N.Y. 1986).

In Article 78 proceeding to compel district attorney to disclose, pursuant to Freedom of Information Law, records in his possession that were compiled during criminal investigation which culminated in conviction of petitioner for murder in second degree, court erred in denying petition on ground that there was no statutory basis for requested relief since, unless they fall within one of 8 categories of exemptions provided for in CLS Pub O § 87(2), all agency records are presumptively available for public inspection and copying without regard to status, need, good faith or purpose of applicant requesting access. Moore v Santucci, 151 A.D.2d 677, 543 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8185 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

E. Denying Disclosure

i. Generally

81. Administrative or manpower burden as justifying denial

Although a city did not establish that its denial of a Freedom of Information Law request was supported by a specific statutory exemption, as required by N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87, 89, the petitioner was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief to the extent that a hearing was necessary to determine precisely what would be entailed were the city to attempt to retrieve the requested documents from electronic databases and whether an undue burden would be created by requiring the city to respond to the request. Matter of New York Comm. for Occupational Safety & Health v Bloomberg, 72 A.D.3d 153, 892 N.Y.S.2d 377, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 75 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2010).

82. Confidentiality, generally

State agency's long-standing promise of confidentiality to insurance companies which generated the requested documents is irrelevant to whether such documents fit within the definition of "records" under FOIL; the definition does not exclude or make any reference to information labeled "confidential" by the agency; confidentiality is relevant only when determining whether the record or a portion of it is exempt. Washington Post Co. v New York State Ins. Dep't, 61 N.Y.2d 557, 475 N.Y.S.2d 263, 463 N.E.2d 604, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4180 (N.Y. 1984).

Trial court properly denied a billing consultant's request for an award of counsel fees under Public Officers Law § 89(4)(c) because, while the response by the public service commission (PSC) to the consultant's administrative appeal—from the denial of its request under the Freedom of Information Law—was untimely and the consultant prevailed when the requested records were turned over to it, the PSC reasonably believed the case file to be exempt from disclosure when they denied the consultant access to it. Matter of Utility Rate Analysis Consultants (URAC) Corp. v Public Serv. Commn. of The State of N.Y., 171 A.D.3d 1279, 97 N.Y.S.3d 757, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2600 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2019).

As categories of value or amount were to be redacted from the annual statement of financial disclosure for all members of a town's board of ethics, disclosure and copying would not constitute an unwarranted invasion of privacy under the New York Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Neither request for nor promise of confidentiality can validly be asserted to withhold records that would otherwise be available. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2711.

83. —Attorney-client privilege

While most of the documents that the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation refused to disclose pursuant to a request under the New York Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law Art. 6, were privileged as they were either attorney work product or attorney-client communications, the privilege was lost as to two documents that the Department did not disclose because they were not confidential as they were revealed to or obtained from third parties. Morgan v N.Y. State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 9 A.D.3d 586, 779 N.Y.S.2d 643, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Police association was not entitled to reports it sought from a city under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a) of the New York Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6, because an in camera review of the reports showed that they were privileged attorney-client information under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 4503; they were primarily and predominantly legal in nature and, in their full content and context, were made to render legal advice or services. Matter of Rye Police Assn. v City of Rye, 34 A.D.3d 591, 824 N.Y.S.2d 163, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13482 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Trial court erred in ordering disclosure of certain emails because they were protected by the attorney-client privilege as each of the emails at issue were communications between counsel in the Governor's Office and New York Department of Transportation employees that contained or referenced factual information relevant to counsel providing legal advice regarding the proposed termination of the sublease. Matter of Gilbert v Office of the Governor of the State of N.Y., 170 A.D.3d 1404, 96 N.Y.S.3d 724, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2200 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2019).

Letters requested were drafts of the final termination notice that incorporated counsel's recommendations that were circulated in furtherance of the decision-making process prior to a final determination; accordingly, they were exempt from disclosure as inter-agency or intra-agency materials and as attorney work product. Matter of Gilbert v Office of the Governor of the State of N.Y., 170 A.D.3d 1404, 96 N.Y.S.3d 724, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2200 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2019).

84. —Employment matters

Town defendants were properly granted summary judgment in action alleging that town supervisor breached confidentiality clause of parties' settlement agreement when, in response to question at town board meeting, he revealed amount of plaintiff's severance payment, as confidentiality clause included exception for disclosure "required by law or legal process," settlement agreement was agency record presumptively accessible to public under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), and disclosure of amount of severance payment did not fall within any exception under FOIL. Hansen v Town of Wallkill, 270 A.D.2d 390, 705 N.Y.S.2d 246, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2948 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Department of education's alleged assurances that teacher data reports would remain confidential could not shield them from disclosure, as the department had no right to bargain away the public's right to access to public records. Mulgrew v Board of Educ. of the City School Dist. of the City of N.Y., 919 N.Y.S.2d 786, 31 Misc. 3d 296, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 128 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 87 A.D.3d 506, 928 N.Y.S.2d 701, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6218 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2011).

85. —School records

Educational institution need not obtain signed waiver from parents or students in order to disclose whether student has graduated or has been awarded degree. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2779.

School district may not except from disclosure a financial statement submitted in connection with a bid despite fact it is designated "private and confidential", and any promise of confidentiality would be all but meaningless; there is no procedure for an individual to request that records submitted to a school district be excepted from disclosure because disclosure would be an invasion of personal privacy. Com Pub Acc Rec OML-Ad Op 2787.

86. Effect of potential commercial use of requested information, including fund-raising

City erred in refusing to release unredacted copies of General Offense Reports to petitioner on ground that names and addresses of victims and witnesses were sought for commercial or fund-raising purpose since petitioner wanted those reports as evidence of landowner's knowledge of prior criminal activity before commencing action against owner following assault on petitioner in basement of apartment building where she was living; such use of information in maintenance of civil action to redress alleged tortuous wrong was not "commercial" activity. DeCorse v City of Buffalo, 239 A.D.2d 949, 659 N.Y.S.2d 604, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6376 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

New York City Department of Buildings would be required to provide publishing company (Article 78 petitioner) with computer tapes of information sought under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) instead of providing hard copy computer printouts since petitioner made strong showing that hard copy would not provide reasonable access to information, and department made no showing that employing one worker for few hours on overtime basis to copy information to computer tape at petitioner's expense posed hardship; fact that petitioner intended to sell information in computerized format to its subscribers did not alter its right to receive information under FOIL, which applies no differently to requests motivated by commercial interests than in other circumstances. Brownstone Publishers, Inc. v New York City Dep't of Bldgs., 146 Misc. 2d 376, 550 N.Y.S.2d 564, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 20 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 166 A.D.2d 294, 560 N.Y.S.2d 642, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. 87. Non-existent documents, generally

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding brought under Freedom of Information Law to compel State University of New York to produce booklist for upcoming semester's course materials as prepared by its faculty where petitioner failed to show that such information was either created or obtained by university, or was in its possession and control at time request was made. 88. —Burden of proof as to existence did not abuse its discretion in concluding that police department adequately established nonexistence of additional records requested by petitioner where police department's records access officer certified to Supreme Court that police department had provided petitioner with all responsive documents in its possession; petitioner was required to articulate demonstrable factual basis to support his contention that requested documents existed and were within police department's control, and his conjecture that documents existed some 10 years earlier was insufficient to warrant hearing on issue. Gould v New York City Police Dep't, 89 N.Y.2d 267, 653 N.Y.S.2d 54, 675 N.E.2d 808, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. 1996).

It was proper to deny petitioner's Freedom of Information request where his belief in existence of "confessions or statements" of certain individuals bearing on crimes for which he was convicted was based on book about prosecution that was closely related to his own prosecution, but Assistant District Attorney who headed related prosecution affirmed that he conducted diligent search of District Attorney's file and did not find requested documents, and there was nothing to indicate that author of book had knowledge of contents of District Attorney's file. Lugo v Galperin, 269 A.D.2d 338, 703 N.Y.S.2d 182, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2245 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 755, 711 N.Y.S.2d 833, 733 N.E.2d 1102, 2000 N.Y. Court improperly granted Freedom of Information Law petition directing Office of Emergency Management (OEM) to determine whether certain requested records existed as to spraying of Malathion and other pesticides and, if they did, provide them to petitioner or indicate why they could not be made available, where OEM explained that diligent search of its records had been conducted and that, after interviews with various OEM staff members, OEM determined that it had no other documents responsive to petitioner's request. 89. —Computerized records

Agency lacked rational basis to deny Freedom of Information Law request for redacted electronic records concerning mandated childhood blood lead level screening, on ground that redacting confidential information from computerized data involved preparation of records not "possessed or maintained" under CLS Pub O § 89(3), because to redact computerized data would take only hours, whereas to perform redaction manually would take weeks or months and probably would not be as accurate at computer-generated redactions. N.Y. Pub. Interest Research Group v Cohen, 188 Misc. 2d 658, 729 N.Y.S.2d 379, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 235 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

90. —No duty to create or prepare, generally

Agency need not create new record on behalf of applicant who requests information where information requested does not exist in form of record. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2666.

91. — —Employment-related records

The Office of Court Administration need not, pursuant to a request under the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6), supply petitioner, a court employee, with a variety of information regarding a 1966 reclassification of court employees, since although the Freedom of Information Law is applicable to the Office of Court Administration, the information sought has never been compiled; the Freedom of Information Law does not impose a duty upon an office of government to research files to compile statistics in response to an information request, and to impose such a duty would expose an agency to vast expense in response to a single request of information. Babigian v Evans, 104 Misc. 2d 140, 427 N.Y.S.2d 688, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2290 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1980).

93. — —Sentencing records

Supreme Court properly dismissed petition seeking judgment under Freedom of Information Law requiring Department of Correctional Services to provide "the Statewide Alphabetical Listing of all inmates currently in DOCS custody, showing facility of incarceration and DIN Numbers" on ground that requested record did not exist and that CLS Pub O § 89(3) does not require agency to create record; although Department of Correctional Services might maintain "Alpha Cell Book" for each correctional facility, listing every inmate incarcerated therein, it was under no obligation to compile requested data from such records. 95. Previously provided documents, generally

In Article 78 proceeding to compel district attorney to disclose, pursuant to Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), records in his possession that were compiled during criminal investigation which culminated in conviction of petitioner for murder in second degree, if district attorney could show that specific records had previously been provided, request for those records could be denied as moot in absence of allegation by petitioner or his attorney that such records were no longer in their possession. Matter of Rose v Albany County Dist. Attorney's Off., 111 A.D.3d 1123, 975 N.Y.S.2d 258, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7751 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

96. —Publicly available documents

Special prosecutor was not justified in refusing to produce requested record on basis that it constituted public record on file in county clerk's office, since Freedom of Information Law does not require showing of need for requested record. Muniz v Roth, 163 Misc. 2d 293, 620 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 559 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

97. Specificity of reasons for denial

State agencies, in attempting to meet their burden of establishing that certain requested documents were exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g), adequately described the records withheld, sufficiently set forth the reasons for withholding them, and properly submitted them to the trial court for in camera inspection. Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

County district attorney was not entitled to the dismissal of a proceeding filed by the minority leader of the county legislature to obtain correspondence from the DA's office to the county comptroller as N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(4)(b) provided the proper remedy and the leader did not have to establish a clear legal right to the relief sought; however, the DA and the county only made a conclusory invocation of the exemption under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g) for inter-agency materials. Benedict v Albany County, 867 N.Y.S.2d 906, 22 Misc. 3d 597, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6866 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008).

Explanation that "other specific information requested is not available to candidates" is insufficient rendition of reason for denial of access to records. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2518.

98. Waiver of denial

New York State Department of Transportation's statement indicating an intent to disclose documents to a citizen did not constitute a waiver of its right to later claim that some of those records were exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2) as interagency and intraagency documents. Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

ii. Specific Statutory Exemptions Justifying Denial

99. In general

Nothing in the Freedom of Information Law restricts the right of the agency if it so chooses to grant access to records within any of the statutory exceptions, with or without deletion of identifying details. Short v Board of Managers of Nassau County Medical Center, 57 N.Y.2d 399, 456 N.Y.S.2d 724, 442 N.E.2d 1235, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3787 (N.Y. 1982).

Exemptions are to be narrowly construed to provide maximum access, and agency seeking to prevent disclosure carries burden of demonstrating that requested material falls squarely within FOIL exemption by articulating particularized and specific justification for denying access; moreover, it is within agency's discretion to disclose records falling within statutory exemptions, with or without identifying details, if it so chooses. Capital Newspapers Div. of Hearst Corp. v Burns, 67 N.Y.2d 562, 505 N.Y.S.2d 576, 496 N.E.2d 665, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19312 (N.Y. 1986).

Respondents' request to Freedom of Information Law request bear independent burden of establishing that material requested falls squarely within ambit of statutory exemptions by articulating particularized and specific justification for denying access, and broad allegation that requested files contained exempt material was insufficient to overcome presumption that records were open for inspection, and could not justify categorical denial of all access to requested material. Konigsberg v Coughlin, 68 N.Y.2d 245, 508 N.Y.S.2d 393, 501 N.E.2d 1, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20497 (N.Y. 1986).

Blanket exemptions for particular types of documents are inimical to Freedom of Information Law's policy of open government; instead, to invoke one of exemptions of CLS Pub O § 87(2), agency must articulate "particularized and specific justification" for not disclosing requested documents. If court is unable to determine whether withheld documents fall entirely within scope of asserted exemption, it should conduct in camera inspection of representative documents and order disclosure of all nonexempt, appropriately redacted material. Gould v New York City Police Dep't, 89 N.Y.2d 267, 653 N.Y.S.2d 54, 675 N.E.2d 808, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. 1996).

In Article 78 proceeding to compel disclosure, failure of superintendent of correctional facility and Supreme Court to disclose underlying facts contained in agency records, so as to establish that they did in fact fall within ambit of statutory exemptions of CLS Pub O § 87, did not constitute error since such disclosure would effectively subvert purpose of statutory exemptions to preserve confidentiality of information. Nalo v Sullivan, 125 A.D.2d 311, 509 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62573 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 612, 517 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 511 N.E.2d 86, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16883 (N.Y. 1987).

Unauthorized disclosure made by subordinate officer of State Police concerning intra-agency disciplinary matter did not operate as waiver of exemptions under CLS Pub O § 87. Scaccia v New York State Div. of State Police, 138 A.D.2d 50, 530 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6870 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Report was not rendered exempt from disclosure by assertion that it could not be found after diligent search, since (1) respondent made only conclusory assertion that report could not be found, and (2) reliability of assertion had to be examined in light of prior assertion that petitioner's entire file could not be found, and concession that file was later found. Key v Hynes, 205 A.D.2d 779, 613 N.Y.S.2d 926, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6562 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994), overruled in part, Rattley v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 96 N.Y.2d 873, 730 N.Y.S.2d 768, 756 N.E.2d 56, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1868 (N.Y. 2001).

Town could not successfully defend against Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) requests by newspaper and radio station, asking for town records pertaining to constables suspected of sleeping on duty, by claiming that such information was rendered exempt by CLS Civ R § 50-a, since (1) § 50-a applies only to police officers and correction officers, whereas constables are not defined as police officers by CLS CPL § 1.20, and are considered to be peace officers as defined by CLS CPL § 2.10, and (2) when non-litigating member of media seeks personnel records through FOIL requests, CLS Civ R § 50-a does not create blanket exemption from disclosure. Woodstock v Goodson-Todman Enterprises, Ltd., 133 Misc. 2d 12, 505 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2959 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, § 9978, the rules and regulations enacted to guide the temporary state commission on local government ethics, does not constitute a "statute" sufficient to provide an exemption to the right of inspection and copying of pulbic records under the New York Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq. Matter of Archdeacon v Town of Oyster Bay, 813 N.Y.S.2d 289, 12 Misc. 3d 438, 235 N.Y.L.J. 51, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 597 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006).

Because a resident only sought non-confidential materials in a Freedom of Information Law, Public Officers Law art. 6, application, because a yacht club was not a necessary party under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 1001(a) with a right to intervene, and, aside from certain very limited exceptions, because a village did not prove that the materials sought were exempt under Public Officers Law § 87(2), the resident prevailed within the meaning of Public Officers Law § 89(4)(c). Matter of McCrory v Village of Mamaroneck, 932 N.Y.S.2d 850, 34 Misc. 3d 603, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5106 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2011).

Certain memoranda and accompanying e-mail were not records that were germane to the department's decision-making process or reflected opinions or evaluations related to the construction of this project; as such, these particular documents were not exempt from disclosure and had to be disclosed. Trial court erred in partially granting the petitioners' application to annul the respondents' partial denial of the petitioners' request for certain e-mail documents because the documents were inter-agency materials and privileged attorney-client communications inasmuch as they were clearly drafted for discussion purposes, did not constitute final policy decisions. and there was no factual basis in the record demonstrating that the communications were in furtherance of fraud or wrongful conduct. City telecommunications agency was not required to disclose the geographic location of conduits based on the exception of information technology from disclosure, since the conduits were electronic information systems and infrastructures and disclosure of maps would pose a substantial physical threat to the conduits and jeopardize the agency's ability to guarantee the security of its information technology assets. 100. Exempted by state or federal statute (§ 87(2)(a)), generally detective pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law—and dismissed the proceeding because the firm's own submissions showed that the detective had been called to testify numerous times since his retirement, and the Civilian Complaint Review Board met its burden of showing a substantial and realistic potential for the abusive use of the requested material against the detective. Matter of Hughes Hubbard & Reed, LLP v Civilian Complaint Review Bd., 171 A.D.3d 1064, 97 N.Y.S.3d 671, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

State Comptroller, the Director of Services for the Office of Unclaimed Funds, and the Records Appeals Officer, New York Office of the State Comptroller, met their burden of establishing that disclosure of records an asset finder requested was properly withheld because the requested records, a list of persons that had claims falling within a specified range of dollar values, were specifically exempted from disclosure under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(a), and the asset finder identified no principled basis for allowing access to the targeted ranges that it sought; the State Comptroller's construction of Abandoned Property Law § 1401 as prohibiting the disclosure of abandoned property claims that fall within targeted ranges of amounts is rational and reasonable method of giving effect to the legislature's expressed intent of withholding from third parties information concerning the value of abandoned property claims. Matter of U.S. Claims Servs. Inc. v New York State Dept. of Audit & Control, 873 N.Y.S.2d 897, 23 Misc. 3d 923, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 363 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

Denial of a Freedom of Information Law request was proper because the documents requested were exempt from disclosure pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a), (g), and, as a prior disclosure was inadvertent, there was no waiver of the department's right to claim that these documents were exempt from disclosure. Matter of Mazzone v New York State Dept. of Transp., 95 A.D.3d 1423, 943 N.Y.S.2d 648, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3515 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

Department of Corrections and Community Supervision erred in denying an inmate's Freedom of Information Law request for video footage of an event and incident that occurred at a correctional facility because the video was not a "personnel record" or confidential and personal inasmuch as it could be used for several purposes, and just depicted the actual acts and conduct of individuals, not unsubstantiated allegations or complaints. Court properly dismissed petition by legal services agency to review determination of Department of Correctional Services which denied request under Freedom of Information Law for access to documents pertaining to inmate grievances and official disciplinary actions taken against certain correction officer, since such documents were exempt from disclosure under CLS Civ R § 50-a(1) because they were part of officer's personnel record relied on in evaluating his performance, whether or not they had been physically placed in his file; legislative purpose to protect correction officers from use of personnel records in litigation was controlling, although no litigation had yet been commenced, since disclosure of such information to legal services agency could not reasonably be said to be unrelated to potential litigation. Prisoners' Legal Services v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 138 A.D.2d 712, 526 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3236 (N.Y. 103. — —Police matters

Derogatory and potentially injurious information contained in police officers' personnel records did not lose its statutory shield of confidentiality under CLS Civ R § 50-a and unqualifiedly become public knowledge merely because entity seeking Freedom of Information Law access was news-gathering organization which did not intend to use records in any legal proceeding. Daily Gazette Co. v City of Schenectady, 93 N.Y.2d 145, 688 N.Y.S.2d 472, 710 N.E.2d 1072, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 1999).

Respondent police departments failed to meet their burden of showing that statutory privilege of CLS Civ R § 50-b applied to Freedom of Information Law request for records pertaining to sex crimes for which petitioners were convicted, where no attempt was made to show that each requested document contained information that tended to identify victim of sex crime. Fappiano v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 95 N.Y.2d 738, 724 N.Y.S.2d 685, 747 N.E.2d 1286, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 573 (N.Y. 2001).

Documents constituting final determination of disciplinary action against State Police investigator were not exempt from disclosure on basis of CLS Civ R § 50-a, which provides for confidentiality of police personnel records, since statute is only intended to prevent access to such records by adversarial counsel for purposes of harassment on cross-examination or otherwise in context of litigation, and did not exempt such records from disclosure in nonlitigation context where petitioner was seeking access under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O Art 6) and was not involved in litigation with State Police. Scaccia v New York State Div. of State Police, 138 A.D.2d 50, 530 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6870 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

City police department lacked "reasonable basis in law" under CLS Pub O § 89(4)(c)(ii) to deny petitioner's request for investigatory and disciplinary records concerning incident in which on-duty officer left his assigned post without authorization to perform termite inspection for realtor at petitioner's house, and second officer refused to take statement from petitioner when she lodged complaint in regard thereto, notwithstanding that police department's refusal was based on CLS Civ R § 50-a, which provides that personnel records used to evaluate performance of police officers, inter alia, are not subject to inspection except by consent of officer, since (1) § 50-a does not create blanket exemption and was enacted to prevent vexatious investigations into irrelevant matters in context of civil or criminal litigation, and (2) petitioner had no cause of action as to second officer's failure to take her complaint, and any cause of action against other officer was time barred when petitioner made her Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request; thus, since records were otherwise of significant public interest and petitioner had substantially prevailed in her Article 78 proceeding challenging denial of her request to release records under FOIL, it was proper to award her reasonable counsel fees. Powhida v Albany, 147 A.D.2d 236, 542 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8132 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Defendant was not entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to obtain copies of complaints against, reprimands of, and incidents of misconduct by 3 state police officers involved in criminal investigation of homicides with which defendant was charged where such records were used to evaluate officers' performances for purposes of continued employment, and thus were exempt from disclosure by CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a) and CLS Civ R § 50-a. Police department's denial of Freedom of Information Law request for disclosure of documents relating to petitioner's prior arrests, based on prohibition found in CLS Civ R § 50-b, was improper where petitioner was arrested for rape, sodomy and assault, but rape and sodomy charges were dismissed and he was convicted only of assault charges. Documents pertaining to use of force by police officers were properly denied under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a) to the New York Civil Liberties Union under a Freedom of information request because the documents came within the exemption purview of N.Y. Civ. N.Y. Civ. Liberties Union v City of Schenectady, 306 A.D.2d 784, 761 N.Y.S.2d 704, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7424 (N.Y. Supreme court erred in dismissing a journalist's action seeking an order directing the New York State Police to turn over records he requested because the State Police failed to demonstrate that the requested records fell within the exemption set forth in N.Y. Civ. Trial court properly determined that the only portion of an internal affairs investigation report that should be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Law was a redacted citizen complaint summary because the report was a personnel record and the withheld portion of the report could not be disclosed in redacted form in a manner that would alleviate the potential that the information could be used in litigation to embarrass or humiliate the police officer who was the subject of the report. Civilian Complaint Review Board (CCRB) was not required under the Freedom of Information Law to disclose records relating to misconduct investigations involving a certain police officer because records of the CCRB relating to complaints and proceedings against police officers were exempt from disclosure as personnel records used to evaluate performance toward continued employment or promotion. Matter of Luongo v Records Access Officer, 161 A.D.3d 1079, 78 N.Y.S.3d 183, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3658 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

104. —Criminal Procedure Law (CPL)

Grand Jury minutes were court records, not agency records, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(1), (3); they were confidential, N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 190.25(4)(a), and accordingly, were exempt from the ambit of the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq. N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a). Hall v Bongiorno, 305 A.D.2d 508, 761 N.Y.S.2d 63, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Particularized reasons were provided for the proper withholding of a FOIL records request for sealed records of inmates, including the inmates' birth, home addresses, and photographs, as such records were within the specific statutory exemption from disclosure. Prall v New York City Dept. of Corr., 971 N.Y.S.2d 821, 40 Misc. 3d 940, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 129 A.D.3d 734, 10 N.Y.S.3d 332, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2015).

105. —Education Law

CLS Pub O Art 6 does not require Office of Professional Discipline of Education Department to disclose name, address and telephone number of complainant who did not testify at prior disciplinary hearing since CLS Educ § 6510(8) made requested information confidential. Murphy v New York State Education Dep't, Office of Professional Discipline, 148 A.D.2d 160, 543 N.Y.S.2d 70, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8166 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

106. —Executive Law

Inmate was entitled to receive the lab reports, raw data, logbook entries, chain of custody forms and other documentation related to the taking of the blood sample and transporting of the sample and results he requested under the New York Freedom of Information Act, except for the actual DNA results from the New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services that he had already received from another source, since the documents were not kept in the State's DNA identification index and were not exempt from disclosure as DNA records; the New York State Police Assistant Deputy Superintendent failed to prove the only ground he invoked for the denial of the inmate's request. Matter of Karimzada v O'Mara, 111 A.D.3d 1088, 975 N.Y.S.2d 248, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7741 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

In proceeding under Freedom of Information Law to compel production of certain statements made in special prosecutor's investigation of alleged fabrication of fingerprint evidence, statements that had been made during confidential hearings conducted pursuant to CLS Exec Art 6 were exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a). Muniz v Roth, 163 Misc. 2d 293, 620 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 559 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

107. —Federal laws, generally

108. — —Anti-trust laws

Electronics store owner who had commenced federal antitrust action against electronic products manufacturer alleging wrongful termination as distributor for failure to adhere to manufacturer's resale price maintenance scheme was entitled, under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), CLS Pub O Art 6, to documents and records in possession of Attorney General which were generated in state's settled federal price-fixing action against same manufacturer; requested materials were not exempt from FOIL disclosure by CLS Gen Bus § 343, which imposes confidentiality in antitrust matters on members of Attorney General's staff in order to protect ongoing investigation, since statute expressly authorizes Attorney General to reveal such information at any time during investigation. Ragusa v New York State Dep't of Law, 152 Misc. 2d 602, 578 N.Y.S.2d 959, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 698 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1991).

109. — —Highway Hazard Education Act

Where a newspaper requested information from the New York Department of Transportation for a purpose other than litigation, the exemption provisions of the federal highway Hazard Elimination Program, 23 U.S.C. S. § 409 were not applicable; therefore the federal statute did not prohibit disclosure of the requested priority intersection and highway location data to the newspaper pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a). Newsday, Inc. v State DOT, 10 A.D.3d 201, 780 N.Y.S.2d 402, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9272 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004), aff'd, 5 N.Y.3d 84, 800 N.Y.S.2d 67, 833 N.E.2d 210, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1215 (N.Y. 2005).

Where the news corporation, in a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 petition, sought disclosure from the State of New York Department of Transportation pursuant to the New York Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6, of information from priority investigation location lists and priority investigation intersection lists that was not discoverable in lawsuits pursuant to 23 U.S.C.S. § 409, the petition was granted; construing the New York Freedom of Information Law broadly and the exemption under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2) narrowly as required by N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(4)(b), 23 U.S.C.S. § 409 did not preempt the New York Freedom of Information Law, and 23 U.S.C.S. § 409 did not apply to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6 requests. Newsday, Inc. v N.Y. State DOT, 765 N.Y.S.2d 758, 1 Misc. 3d 321, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1263 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003), aff'd, 10 A.D.3d 201, 780 N.Y.S.2d 402, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9272 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

110. — —Indian Gaming Regulatory Act

Nothing in the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, 25 U.S.C.S. § 2701 et seq., or in the state-tribe compact, prevented the release under New York's Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 84-90, of the tribe's submissions of daily inspection reports and patron complaints by New York's State Racing and Wagering Board; the tribe was not a necessary party to the action where it had voluntarily declined to participate. Herald Co. v Feurstein, 779 N.Y.S.2d 333, 3 Misc. 3d 885, 2004 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 191 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2004).

111. —Judiciary Law

Court did not err in refusing to order Commissioner of Jurors to disclose to publisher of newspaper names and addresses of jurors in murder trial, since CLS Jud § 509 renders confidential all records used in juror selection process, including names and addresses of prospective jurors, and CLS Pub O § 87 prohibits disclosure of records which are specifically exempted by statute. Newsday, Inc. v Sise, 120 A.D.2d 8, 507 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58997 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 146, 524 N.Y.S.2d 35, 518 N.E.2d 930, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 20000 (N.Y. 1987).

112. —New York City laws, generally

Information services and publishing company was entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to access to statistical and factual information regarding transfers of cooperative apartments in New York City, including apartment numbers of transferred units since (1) city was not entitled to exemption from disclosure on basis of secrecy provision of NYC Admin Code § 11-2115 since secrecy provision was not state or federal statute as required by CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a), and (2) data sought was readily available to public. Brownstone Publishers, Inc. v New York City Dep't of Finance, 150 A.D.2d 185, 540 N.Y.S.2d 796, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5880 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989), app. denied, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11453 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't Sept. 7, 1989).

113. —Penal Law (PL)

Special State Prosecutor was not required to disclose, to newspaper, depositions of Attorney General staff members given in connection with investigation into unlawful "leak" of grand jury information since depositions were exempt because (1) they had been compiled for law enforcement purposes and their disclosure could interfere with investigations, and (2) they were exempted by state statute—CLS Penal § 215.70. New York News, Inc. v Office of Special State Prosecutor, 153 A.D.2d 512, 544 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10657 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Court denied Freedom of Information Law request for documents relating to "proper cause" accepted by county licensing officer as justification for issuance of pistol license, as CLS Penal § 400.00(5) limits disclosure to name and address of any person to whom any license has been granted. Sportsmen's Ass'n for Firearms Educ., Inc. v Kane, 178 Misc. 2d 185, 680 N.Y.S.2d 411, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 446 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1998).

114. —Public Authorities Law

Records in possession of New York City Transit Adjudication Bureau, which were compiled in connection with charges and disposition involving 2 separate and unrelated bureau hearings, were exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law by virtue of CLS Pub Authorities § 1209-a(4)(f). Reape v State Metro. Transp. Auth., 185 A.D.2d 275, 586 N.Y.S.2d 23, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8905 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992), app. denied, 81 N.Y.2d 710, 599 N.Y.S.2d 804, 616 N.E.2d 159, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1700 (N.Y. 1993).

115. —Public Health Law

CLS Pub Health § 18(3) and (4) did not exempt petitioner's medical records in possession of Department of Health from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, where there was no indication that records sought by petitioner contained harmful information or privileged doctors' notes. Mantica v New York State Dep't of Health, 94 N.Y.2d 58, 699 N.Y.S.2d 1, 721 N.E.2d 17, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3442 (N.Y. 1999).

Under Freedom of Information Law, law firm representing company which was being sued by neighboring residents for discharing chemicals and polluting water supply was not entitled to compel Department of Health (DOH) to disclose memorandum which summarized reports received from physicians regarding their examinations of residents, since DOH established that memorandum summarized results of study performed under CLS Pub Health § 206(1)(j), and thus was immune from public scrutiny under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a), by affidavit of DOH physician who had prepared memorandum, stating that medical information summarized by him was obtained pursuant to § 206(1)(j) study to reduce morbidity and mortality, and that he had assured physicians that information would be kept confidential. Williams & Connolly v Axelrod, 139 A.D.2d 806, 527 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3638 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Given that agencies were permitted under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a) to deny access to records if the records were specifically exempt from disclosure by a state or federal statute, respondent health department was justified in denying a request for cancer records under New York's Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law Art. 6, where the requested records either revealed, or could have led to the disclosure of, the identity of particular cancer patients, and, thus, were exempt from disclosure pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Health Law § 2402. Hassig v N.Y. State Dep't of Health, 294 A.D.2d 781, 742 N.Y.S.2d 442, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5376 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 99 N.Y.2d 502, 752 N.Y.S.2d 589, 782 N.E.2d 567, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3497 (N.Y. 2002).

CLS Pub Health § 2804-b does not justify denial of Freedom of Information law request for physician identifier information in Statewide Planning and Research Cooperative System. New York Times Co. v New York State Dep't of Health, 173 Misc. 2d 310, 660 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 243 A.D.2d 157, 674 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Exercise of rights of personal privacy under Freedom of Information Law is limited to living persons; however, Public Health Law and statutes otherwise conferring confidentiality pertaining to medical or hospital records may continue in effect after subject of those records dies. Comm on Open Gov't F7974.

116. —Public Officers Law

Statute provides the exclusive means for disclosure of confidential personnel records, and the parties cannot sidestep its mandate through the expedient of redacted Freedom of Information Law disclosure; as the requested records were exempt from disclosure under Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(a), which contained no statutory authorization for redaction, redacted disclosure could not be compelled. Matter of New York Civ. Liberties Union v New York City Police Dept., 32 N.Y.3d 556, 118 N.E.3d 847, 94 N.Y.S.3d 185, 2018 N.Y. LEXIS 3479 (N.Y. 2018).

Court properly dismissed proceeding to compel agency to disclose, under Freedom of Information Law, records and physical evidence compiled during criminal investigation culminating in petitioner's conviction, since physical evidence requested, such as tools and items of clothing, did not fall within definition of "record" under CLS Pub O § 86, and requests involving names, addresses, and statements of confidential witnesses, grand jury testimony, and reports which would reveal nonroutine criminal investigative techniques for processing homicide scene were all exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87. Allen v Strojnowski, 129 A.D.2d 700, 514 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45390 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 871, 523 N.Y.S.2d 493, 518 N.E.2d 5, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19075 (N.Y. 1987).

Memorialized discussions at duly convened executive sessions of county board of supervisors which do not result in formal vote, whether consisting of privileged attorney-client communications or otherwise, are not type of governmental records to which public has to be given access, as confidentiality has been specifically sanctioned by CLS Pub O §§ 105 and 106, and thus such records fall within exemption of CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a). Wm. J. Kline & Sons v County of Hamilton, 235 A.D.2d 44, 663 N.Y.S.2d 339, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10151 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Superintendent of Insurance, as liquidator, and Liquidation Bureau, as with any other court-appointed receiver, enjoy judicial privilege under CLS Pub O § 86(3) and thus are specifically exempted from disclosure requirements of Freedom of Information Law. Consolidated Edison Co. v Insurance Dep't of State, 140 Misc. 2d 969, 532 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 511 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

117. —Social Services Law

Court properly denied Article 78 petition to review denial of father's request under CLS Pub O § 87 for social service records concerning his daughter on basis that such information was protected under CLS Soc Serv § 372 where father could not demonstrate that disclosure to him would be "proper" under § 372(3), in that he had executed judicial surrender agreement terminating his parental rights and surrendering child for adoption. Wise v Battistoni, 208 A.D.2d 755, 617 N.Y.S.2d 506, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9884 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Petitioner, academic researcher, was not entitled to disclosure, in redacted form, of intake referral forms maintained by Visiting Psychiatric Service, unit of respondent's Office of Health and Mental Health Services; such records were exempt from disclosure under CLS Soc Serv § 136(2) and Pub Health § 18(6). Rabinowitz v Hammons, 228 A.D.2d 369, 644 N.Y.S.2d 726, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7484 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 802, 653 N.Y.S.2d 279, 675 N.E.2d 1232, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4248 (N.Y. 1996).

Investigative newspaper reporter was not entitled to disclosure of records and information held by social services agencies pertaining to agency actions in case involving child abuse victim, notwithstanding that CLS Soc Serv § 422(4)(A)(h) allows disclosure of such confidential material to "any person engaged in a bona fide research purpose," since it was not possible to release material sought and keep requisite confidentiality, even with redaction of names; it was irrelevant for purposes of disclosure that victim was deceased, that some material surrounding matter had been disclosed to press by various means, or that information sought would allegedly correct misinformation already revealed to public. New York News, Inc. v Grinker, 142 Misc. 2d 325, 537 N.Y.S.2d 770, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 47 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Law firm was entitled to written decisions of fair hearings into reports of child abuse conducted under Social Services Law § 422(8)(b), pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law, Public Officers Law § 84 et seq.; although § 422(4) barred the disclosure of investigative materials, release of the hearing decisions was required by State Administrative Procedure Act § 307[3][a]. Lansner & Kubitschek v New York State Off. of Children & Family Servs., 64 Misc. 3d 438, 103 N.Y.S.3d 743, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019).

118. —Tax Law

Tax records and exhibits or transcripts of tax hearings conducted by respondent Department of Taxation and Finance against petitioner's adversary in civil litigation were protected from disclosure under CLS Tax § 1146(a); thus, court denied Article 78 proceeding to review respondent's denial of Freedom of Information Law request under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a). Tartan Oil Corp. v State Dep't of Taxation & Fin., 172 Misc. 2d 322, 659 N.Y.S.2d 410, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 164 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 239 A.D.2d 36, 668 N.Y.S.2d 76, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

119. Unwarranted invasion of personal privacy (§ 87(2)(b)), generally

Because questions of fact existed as to whether a provider's Freedom of Information Law request for public land records would require the county clerk to disclose private information, and whether the clerk could comply with the request in the format sought by the provider, the matter was remitted to the trial court to determine whether the clerk could provide the records pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87(2)(b), 89(2)(c)(1), (3)(b). Matter of Data Tree, LLC v Romaine, 9 N.Y.3d 454, 849 N.Y.S.2d 489, 880 N.E.2d 10, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 3712 (N.Y. 2007).

Historian was entitled to disclosure of the names and identifying details of people, other than the people interviewed, mentioned in certain interview transcripts in her Freedom of Information Law request because such disclosure would not have been an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b); the diminished claims of privacy were weighed against the claims of history. However, the request for the names of interviewees who were promised that no one would find out they were being interviewed was denied because it would have been unacceptable for the government to break that promise, even after all these years. Matter of Harbatkin v New York City Dept. of Records & Info. Servs., 19 N.Y.3d 373, 948 N.Y.S.2d 220, 971 N.E.2d 350, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 1278 (N.Y. 2012), cert. denied, 568 U.S. 1157, 133 S. Ct. 1239, 185 L. Ed. 2d 177, 2013 U.S. LEXIS 1101 (U.S. 2013).

Because a county clerk determined that compliance with a petitioner's request for certain electronic documents was not possible without extraordinary efforts on its part to protect the privacy interests of its citizens, the trial court properly denied the petitioner's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 request under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b). Matter of Data Tree, LLC v Romaine, 36 A.D.3d 804, 828 N.Y.S.2d 512, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 713 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), rev'd, 9 N.Y.3d 454, 849 N.Y.S.2d 489, 880 N.E.2d 10, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 3712 (N.Y. 2007).

Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq., did not require disclosure of the home addresses of hate crime victims, even redacted as the trial court instructed, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b), as even the partial disclosure of an address could have revealed the identity of a victim; moreover, expert testimony regarding the sensitivity of hate crime victims and their frequent desire to remain private about the incidents was not controverted. Matter of New York Times Co. v City of N.Y. Police Dept., 103 A.D.3d 405, 959 N.Y.S.2d 171, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 689 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 22 N.Y.3d 854, 977 N.Y.S.2d 183, 999 N.E.2d 548, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 2941 (N.Y. 2013).

Portion of an inmate's Freedom of Information Law request for crime scene photographs of his female murder victim was denied under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b) as the inmate's personal interest in the photographs was irrelevant; the public had no interest in accessing the photographs, and the victim's family had a substantial privacy interest in not releasing the photographs of the victim's bloodied, partially clothed body. Matter of Edwards v New York State Police, 44 A.D.3d 1216, 843 N.Y.S.2d 729, 238 N.Y.L.J. 85, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10867 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

Trial court properly denied disclosure of unpublished photos of individuals other than petitioner and those relating to law enforcement because the agency established that those photos were exempt under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b); the individuals photographed by the agency consented to its use of their photos only for public education purposes. The record did not support the theory that there was a public interest in disclosure of either the unpublished photos of individuals other than petitioner or the unpublished photos relating to law enforcement investigations. Matter of Irwin v Onondaga County Resource Recovery Agency, 72 A.D.3d 314, 895 N.Y.S.2d 262, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1317 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2010).

Applying an erroneous standard to the denial of an individual's Freedom of Information Law request was reversible error because the error substantially prejudiced the individual, as (1) officials showed no unwarranted invasion of privacy under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(2), (2) there was a significant public interest in the requested materials, and (3) no privacy interests outweighed this public interest, as personally identifying information could be redacted. Matter of Thomas v Condon, 128 A.D.3d 528, 9 N.Y.S.3d 257, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4163 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

Decision denying a company's request for photographs of all arrested or booked individuals to allow it to charge a fee to persons to obtain the photographs over its website was upheld because the records were exempt from disclosure as an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b). Matter of Prall v New York City Dept. of Corrections, 129 A.D.3d 734, 10 N.Y.S.3d 332, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2015).

Record request under the Freedom of Information Law for numerous documents relating to a village's deer management activities was improperly redacted, as a claim that disclosure would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy lacked merit because there was no showing that the redacted information fell into any statutory category that qualified for exemption or that there were privacy interests at stake that outweighed the public interest in disclosure of the information. Matter of Laveck v Village Bd. of Trustees of the Vil. of Lansing, 145 A.D.3d 1168, 42 N.Y.S.3d 460, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7991 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

Executive Chamber offered no proof that the requested records fell into any enumerated categories and failed to specify the implicated privacy interests, if any, against which the public interest in disclosing the records were to be balanced. The Chamber's claim that innocent non-specified people may have their reputations besmirched in an unspecified manner failed to sustain its burden to provide a particularized and specific justification for not disclosing requested documents. Matter of New York Times Co. v New York State Exec. Chamber, 57 Misc. 3d 405, 56 N.Y.S.3d 821, 2017 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2711 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017).

120. —Deceased persons

Unofficial papers of deceased city mayor in custody of city would be subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O Art 6) without prescreening by city, even though they pertained to mayor's personal affairs and to his activities as county Democratic Committee Chairman, where those papers were intermingled with official papers. Capital Newspapers, Div. of Hearst Corp. v Whalen, 69 N.Y.2d 246, 513 N.Y.S.2d 367, 505 N.E.2d 932, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15362 (N.Y. 1987).

Public interest group was entitled to unedited body-worn camera footage of a police shooting of a person having a mental health crisis because redactions of police interactions with decedent after he was subdued were of significant public interest, and privacy objections were resolved by the family's support of public disclosure. New York Lawyers for the Pub. Interest v New York City Police Dept., 64 Misc. 3d 671, 103 N.Y.S.3d 275, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3240 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019).

121. —Employees and employments, generally

122. — —Application for employment

Public employment history of City University of New York's employees, insofar as revealed on their job applications, is not shielded from disclosure as unwarranted invasion of employees' privacy under CLS Pub O § 89(2)(b)(i). Dates of attendance at academic institutions is subject to disclosure, at least where employees did not meet licensing requirements for employment when hired and thus had to have worked minimum number of years in field in order to have qualified for job; in such circumstances, agency's need for information would be great and personal hardship of disclosure small. Kwasnik v City of New York, 262 A.D.2d 171, 691 N.Y.S.2d 525, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6756 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

123. — —Evaluation of job performance

Department of education did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in releasing teacher data reports (TDRs) listing the teachers' names, as it could have reasonably determined that releasing the unredacted TDRs would not be an unwarranted invasion of privacy under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(2), because the data did not relate to the teachers' personal lives and the public's interest in disclosure outweighed the teachers' privacy interest. Mulgrew v Board of Educ. of the City School Dist. of the City of N.Y., 919 N.Y.S.2d 786, 31 Misc. 3d 296, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 128 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 87 A.D.3d 506, 928 N.Y.S.2d 701, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6218 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2011).

Department of education did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in releasing teacher data reports (TDRs) listing the teachers' names, as it could have rationally determined that, while the unredacted TDRs were intra-agency records, they were statistical tabulations of data that had to be released under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g)(i), regardless of any flaws or unreliability. Mulgrew v Board of Educ. of the City School Dist. of the City of N.Y., 919 N.Y.S.2d 786, 31 Misc. 3d 296, 2011 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 128 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 87 A.D.3d 506, 928 N.Y.S.2d 701, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6218 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2011).

124. — —Salaries

Union employee's request for the names and addresses of non-union employees so that the union employee could verify that non-union contractors were paying employees the prevailing wage implicated significant personal privacy interests that prevailed over the public interest in disclosure of the information, particularly in light of the fact that information on employee titles and their corresponding wages had been provided to the union employee. Matter of Massaro v New York State Thruway Auth., 111 A.D.3d 1001, 974 N.Y.S.2d 636, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7216 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

125. — —Telephone records and the like

Because the people with unlisted telephone numbers were likely suggesting that disclosure of their numbers would be unnecessarily intrusive or result in an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, the petitioner was not entitled to disclosure of the unlisted telephone numbers under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b) of the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq. Matter of Hawley v Village of Penn Yan, 35 A.D.3d 1270, 827 N.Y.S.2d 390, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15663 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2006).

126. —Housing, homesteading and the like

Petitioner's request under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O Art 6, for specified Homestead Program applications submitted to town should not have been denied in its entirety, although disclosure of some material in applications would constitute unwarranted invasion of privacy, since petitioner had limited request to, and town would be required to disclose, applications involving past or present town employees redacted to reflect only employment history. Wilson v Islip, 179 A.D.2d 763, 578 N.Y.S.2d 642, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 679 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

127. —Licensing; licensees

Response given by applicant for driver's license to question on application as to whether he or she had received treatment for any disability, was not subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law. Hanig v State Dep't of Motor Vehicles, 168 A.D.2d 884, 564 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15767 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990), aff'd, 79 N.Y.2d 106, 580 N.Y.S.2d 715, 588 N.E.2d 750, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 209 (N.Y. 1992).

Citizen's request, pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 85, for information about persons issued deer management permits was denied because disclosure would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; the system containing the information included a broad range of personal information including the license holder's first and last name, middle initial, gender, height, eye color, date of birth, driver's license number, customer identification number, state of residency, residential address, telephone number, and other personal information. In addition, the court noted that, unlike professional/work-related licenses, disclosure of the personal information in relation to hunting licenses would not serve the public interest. Matter of Goyer v New York State Dept. of Envtl. Conservation, 813 N.Y.S.2d 628, 12 Misc. 3d 261, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3114 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2005).

Personal privacy exception of CLS Pub O § 89(2)(b)(iii) does not apply to names and business addresses of newly licensed New York insurance agents. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 00-08-01.

128. —Lists of names, addresses and the like, generally

Petition pursuant to Article 78 of CPLR to compel disclosure under Freedom of Information Act of certain documents and records is unanimously modified since deletion of such identified information as names, addresses and social security numbers will not impede petitioner's search, yet will protect individuals involved from unwarranted invasion of their personal privacy. Harris v City University of New York, Baruch College, 114 A.D.2d 805, 495 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53810 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985).

Records that exist that indicate amounts paid by town to engineering firm must be made available, because none of grounds of denial could appropriately be asserted, and if social security numbers or home addresses are included in records, these details may be withheld on ground that disclosure would constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL AO-4690.

Personal privacy exception of CLS Pub O § 89(2)(b)(iii) does not apply to names and business addresses of newly licensed New York insurance agents. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 00-08-01.

129. — —Commercial or fund-raising purposes

Nonprofit "pro-gun activist" organization was not entitled to obtain names and addresses of persons holding rifle or shotgun permits under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) in order to solicit membership dues to help support its informational, lobbying and other activities, since such solicitation is "fund-raising" and is thus exempted from FOIL's disclosure requirements as invasion of privacy. Federation of New York State Rifle & Pistol Clubs, Inc. v New York City Police Dep't, 73 N.Y.2d 92, 538 N.Y.S.2d 226, 535 N.E.2d 279, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 192 (N.Y. 1989).

Privacy exemption was properly applied to Freedom of Information Law request for inventory data for all parcels contained on assessment roll of town since petitioner intended to use information for commercial purposes; redaction of names and addresses from inventory data would not protect privacy interests since tax map numbers contained in that data would, nonetheless, enable petitioner to identify names and addresses of property owners through comparison of tax map numbers to assessment roll. Comps, Inc. v Town of Huntington, 269 A.D.2d 446, 703 N.Y.S.2d 225, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1367 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 758, 713 N.Y.S.2d 522, 735 N.E.2d 1287, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1832 (N.Y. 2000).

Police commissioner was exempt under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87(2)(b) and 89(2)(b)(iii) from having to comply with a rifle and pistol association's request under the New York Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq., for a list, in digital format, of the names and addresses of all pistol licensees in a city because the commissioner provided specific proof of the association's intent to use the requested material for the impermissible purposes of fund-raising and/or commercial gain. Matter of New York State Rifle & Pistol Assn., Inc. v Kelly, 55 A.D.3d 222, 863 N.Y.S.2d 439, 240 N.Y.L.J. 60, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6784 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

130. —Police, generally

Police officer did not meet burden of proving that his "Lost Time Report," showing dates of his absences from employment, requested by newspaper and reporter to verify information that some police officers were abusing sick leave privileges, was exempt from disclosure as unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under CLS Pub O Law §§ 87 and 89, since report sought was neither employment history nor medical history, nor did it come within other listed categories of exemptions, and officer's assertion that release of report would cause him to suffer "economic or personal hardship" was conclusory and not supported by facts. Capital Newspapers Div. of Hearst Corp. v Burns, 67 N.Y.2d 562, 505 N.Y.S.2d 576, 496 N.E.2d 665, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19312 (N.Y. 1986).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 matter, a legal defense fund and a Muslim advocacy group were not entitled to records under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87(2)(b) and 89(2), regarding the New York City Police Department's (NYPD's) surveillance of Muslim individuals, businesses, and organizations because disclosure that an individual or entity might have been named during the course of an investigation of possible terrorist activity or otherwise involved in the investigation could be quickly disseminated, causing harm to the reputation of such individual or entity, even though their connection to the investigation might later be determined to be purely coincidental. Asian Am. Legal Defense & Educ. Fund v New York City Police Dept., 964 N.Y.S.2d 888, 41 Misc. 3d 471, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1912 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 125 A.D.3d 531, 5 N.Y.S.3d 13, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1550 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

131. — —Confidential informants

Statements made by individuals alleged by petitioner in Article 78 proceeding to be "known informants" were exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b), (e)(iii), and (f) where disclosure of such documents, if they existed, would be unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, might endanger safety of informants, and necessarily would reveal documents compiled for law enforcement purposes that would identify confidential source. Scarola v Morgenthau, 246 A.D.2d 417, 668 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 357 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

132. — —Discipline, misconduct and the like

Documents constituting final determination of disciplinary action finding that State Police investigator abused his official authority in obtaining information for petitioner's personal use were not immune from disclosure under privacy exemption of Freedom of Information Law since determination was not disclosure of employment history under CLS Pub O § 89(2)(b)(i) nor information of personal nature under CLS Pub O § 89(2)(b)(iv). Scaccia v New York State Div. of State Police, 138 A.D.2d 50, 530 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6870 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

133. — —Work-related records, including attendance

Police officer's memo book was exempted from disclosure by CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b) since it remained officer's private property, notwithstanding its evidentiary value at trial. Scott v Chief Medical Examiner, 179 A.D.2d 443, 577 N.Y.S.2d 861, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 141 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 758, 584 N.Y.S.2d 446, 594 N.E.2d 940, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1277 (N.Y. 1992), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 758, 584 N.Y.S.2d 446, 594 N.E.2d 940 (N.Y. 1992), cert. denied, 506 U.S. 891, 113 S. Ct. 259, 121 L. Ed. 2d 190, 1992 U.S. LEXIS 6116 (U.S. 1992).

In proceeding under Freedom of Information Law seeking disclosure of complaint follow-up reports ("DD-5s") produced by police department in connection with homicide investigation, fact that petitioner knew identity of witnesses interviewed by police did not preclude application of privacy exemption because he did not necessarily know what witnesses told police, which could have been information imparted in confidence, and police were not required to show that particular witness was specifically promised confidentiality if circumstances gave rise to clear inference that promise was assumed. Johnson v New York City Police Dep't, 257 A.D.2d 343, 694 N.Y.S.2d 14, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7785 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 791, 700 N.Y.S.2d 422, 722 N.E.2d 502, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3646 (N.Y. 1999).

"Lead sheets," made in connection with inmate's arrest and conviction, regarding communications with victim's relatives, as well as information pertaining to contacts with individuals who did not provide information, were properly deemed exempt based on privacy exemption under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b). De Oliveira v Wagner, 274 A.D.2d 904, 711 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8284 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

134. —Prisons and prisoners, generally

Personal reference cards of other inmates who were in lineup with petitioner, who was convicted of murder, were not exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b), on ground that their disclosure would constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, since much of information in cards was already publicly accessible via arrest and conviction records; however, disclosure would be denied to data within cards not so publicly accessible, including inmates' prison identification numbers, dietary requirements, and name and address of next of kin. Handwritten notations identifying other inmates in petitioner's cell block were not exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b), on ground that their disclosure would constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Dobranski v Houper, 154 A.D.2d 736, 546 N.Y.S.2d 180, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12412 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Inmate was entitled to unredacted copies of inmate grievance log entries, log supplement forms, and inmate grievance monthly reports only concerning himself; however, inmate was entitled to same documents as to other inmates with name, number, and DIN of grievance redacted. Di Rose v New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs., 226 A.D.2d 846, 640 N.Y.S.2d 353, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3718 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Deputy Commissioner of Correctional Services properly denied inmate's Freedom of Information Law request for access to particular letter authored by his former paramour since inmate had twice been denied parole based, in part, on fact that while incarcerated he "communicated threats to kill the husband of (his) former paramour"; under circumstances, disclosure would constitute unwarranted invasion of privacy and could endanger life or safety of author (CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b)(f). Deane v Annucci, 248 A.D.2d 760, 669 N.Y.S.2d 696, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2217 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 804, 677 N.Y.S.2d 779, 700 N.E.2d 318, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1881 (N.Y. 1998).

Prison inmate's request for various documents, including investigator's reports and statement of witness who did not testify at trial, was properly denied since those documents were exempt from disclosure because they either were compiled for law-enforcement purposes or would constitute unwarranted invasion of privacy. Mulhall v Fitzgerald, 249 A.D.2d 852, 672 N.Y.S.2d 480, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4833 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Police department should have granted petitioner's Freedom of Information Law request for records pertaining to his arrest and conviction, despite department's claim that records identified victim of sex offense, and that petitioner stood convicted of sex offense on which he was charged and thus did not qualify as person "charged" with sex offense entitled to such records under CLS Civ R § 50-b(2)(a), since petitioner claimed to need records for purposes of planned proceedings in federal court to overturn his conviction, and he already knew victim's name. Fappiano v New York City Police Dep't, 267 A.D.2d 156, 700 N.Y.S.2d 20, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13203 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), rev'd, 95 N.Y.2d 738, 724 N.Y.S.2d 685, 747 N.E.2d 1286, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 573 (N.Y. 2001).

Request for access to names of prison guards accused of inappropriate behavior was improperly denied by State Commission of Correction on ground that release thereof would constitute unwarranted invasion of guards' personal privacy under CLS Pub O § 89(2), since such allegations did not fit within any of 5 statutory definitions of personal privacy exemption. Faulkner v Del Giacco, 139 Misc. 2d 790, 529 N.Y.S.2d 255, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 276 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Court would grant order permitting access by legal aid society to referrals by correctional institutions of prison inmates to specialist medical care where legal aid society asked that information be redacted to delete all identifying details such as names and institutional numbers; such disclosure would not be unwarranted invasion of personal privacy within CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b) since CLS Pub O § 89(2)(c)(i) states that disclosure is not invasion if identifying details are deleted. Rold v Coughlin, 142 Misc. 2d 877, 538 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 461 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Respondents demonstrated a particularized and specific justification for withholding the dates of birth and addresses of inmates from a FOIL records request, as such disclosure would result in an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy to the inmates, as well as potential harms such as identity theft. Prall v New York City Dept. of Corr., 971 N.Y.S.2d 821, 40 Misc. 3d 940, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 129 A.D.3d 734, 10 N.Y.S.3d 332, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2015).

Particularized reasons were provided for the proper withholding of a FOIL records request for photographs of inmates, as the disclosure would constitute an unwarranted invasion of privacy resulting in personal and/or economic hardship to inmates, and disclosure could endanger the lives and safety of inmates and their family members. Prall v New York City Dept. of Corr., 971 N.Y.S.2d 821, 40 Misc. 3d 940, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 129 A.D.3d 734, 10 N.Y.S.3d 332, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2015).

Disciplinary records relating to a physical altercation between a prisoner and a cellmate were exempt from disclosure to the prisoner under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(f) because the disclosure of the information provided by the cellmate regarding the incident might have exposed the cellmate to an increased risk of retribution. Matter of Argentieri v Goord, 25 A.D.3d 830, 807 N.Y.S.2d 445, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 81 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

135. —Location of specific prisoners

List of inmates housed in particular area of correctional facility, and who therefore may have been witnesses to assault, was not exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O §§ 87 and 89 pertaining to unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, nor under CLS Pub O § 95 pertaining information which could endanger life or safety of any person. Bensing v Le Fevre, 133 Misc. 2d 198, 506 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2848 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

136. —Videotapes

Videotapes taken by Department of Correctional Services at prison over multiyear period were not entirely exempt from disclosure as unwarranted invasion of inmate privacy since inmates at state correctional facilities, being well aware that their movements are monitored, have no legitimate expectation of privacy from any and all public portrayal of their persons; however, department could redact those portions of tapes disclosure of which would invade inmate's expectation of privacy, with department preparing and submitting description of redacted portions sufficient to allow court to determine applicability of exemption. Buffalo Broadcasting Co. v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 155 A.D.2d 106, 552 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2940 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

In proceeding by television station seeking to compel Department of Corrections to release videotapes of inmate uprising at state correctional facility, redactions were properly ordered to prevent invasions of personal privacy to extent that tapes involved strip frisks or other display of inmate nudity. Buffalo Broadcasting Co. v New York Dep't of Correctional Services, 174 A.D.2d 212, 578 N.Y.S.2d 928, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 759, 584 N.Y.S.2d 447, 594 N.E.2d 941, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1315 (N.Y. 1992).

137. Impairment of contract awards or collective bargaining negotiations (§ 87(2)(c)), generally

In a proceeding seeking access to certain records of an urban renewal agency consisting of reports by an independent appraiser on the potential use and value of certain buildings which the agency owned and planned to offer for sale to the public, the Appellate Division correctly determined that the appraiser's reports fell within the provision of the Freedom of Information Law excepting from disclosure to the public those materials which "if disclosed would impair present or imminent contract awards." Murray v Troy Urban Renewal Agency, Inc., 56 N.Y.2d 888, 453 N.Y.S.2d 400, 438 N.E.2d 1115, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3500 (N.Y. 1982).

When a provider submitted documents to a village in connection with negotiations for a cable television franchise, those documents were not exempt from disclosure to the provider's competitor, under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(c), because the provider and the competitor were not competitors for a single cable television franchise, so disclosure of the documents would not impair the provider's negotiations with the village. Matter Verizon N.Y., Inc. v Bradbury, 40 A.D.3d 1113, 837 N.Y.S.2d 291, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6637 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Exemption from disclosure of documents set forth in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(c) primarily protects the interests of an agency in achieving the optimum result in awarding a contract to a supplier of goods or services or in reaching a collective bargaining agreement. Matter Verizon N.Y., Inc. v Bradbury, 40 A.D.3d 1113, 837 N.Y.S.2d 291, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6637 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Privacy exception contained in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(b) was inapplicable because any privacy interest victims had in the information contained in the documents petitioner requested was extinguished; a computer disc containing electronic communications between an inmate and his victims was admitted into evidence at the inmate's criminal trial, and the victims testified about sexual conversations they had with the inmate through a social networking site, and substantial additional testimony was adduced regarding the sexually explicit conversations between the inmate and victims. Matter of MacKenzie v Seiden, 106 A.D.3d 1140, 964 N.Y.S.2d 702, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3060 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

Supreme court erred in dismissing petitioner's application to review a determination of respondent county district attorney's office denying his Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request because the district attorney's office made no showing that each requested document contained identifying information; to the extent that the requested records were determined to contain identifying information and were exempt under N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 50-b(1), they would fall under the FOIL exemption from disclosure by state statute, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87(2))(a). Matter of MacKenzie v Seiden, 106 A.D.3d 1140, 964 N.Y.S.2d 702, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3060 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

Entities subject to the requirements of the Freedom of Information Law should not be permitted to evade them on a bare assertion that withholding documents is in the public interest; in the context of the awarding of public contracts, even short delays in disclosure may have deleterious effects, because the timelines for challenges to the awarding of public contracts are so short. Matter of Acme Bus Corp. v County of Suffolk, 136 A.D.3d 896, 26 N.Y.S.3d 159, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

Respondents had no reasonable basis for denying appellant access to documents relating to an agency's request for proposals on the ground that disclosure would impair imminent contract awards because all of the proposals had been submitted and acted upon. Matter of Acme Bus Corp. v County of Suffolk, 136 A.D.3d 896, 26 N.Y.S.3d 159, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1169 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

138. —Bids and bidding

Court would order Department of Health (DOH) to supply unsuccessful bidder with copies of documents related to bidding process and award of public contract where there was no showing that successful bidder had any reasonable expectation that its bid would not be open to public, and DOH's request for proposals stated that DOH could use submitted materials for its own purposes without limitation. Professional Standards Review Council of Am. v New York State Dep't of Health, 193 A.D.2d 937, 597 N.Y.S.2d 829, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4836 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

139. —Collective bargaining negotiations

A copy of a report paid for by a Board of Cooperative Educational Services and designed to assist participating school districts in their collective bargaining negotiations with public employee unions will not be furnished to the executive director of a union representing school administrators and supervisors since the report comes within the exceptions to the Freedom of Information Law for, if disclosed, the report "would impair . . . collective bargaining negotiations"; such disclosure would only serve an inequitable one-sided ploy rather than the furnishing of information intended by the statute. Trauernicht v Board of Cooperative Educational Services, 95 Misc. 2d 394, 407 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Power company's failure to comply with CLS Pub O § 89(5) did not preclude it from relying on exemption contained in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d); § 89(5) was not intended to apply where confidentiality was agreed to by public entity in settlement of legal dispute. Glens Falls Newspaper, Inc. v Counties of Warren & Washington Indus. Dev. Agency, 257 A.D.2d 948, 684 N.Y.S.2d 321, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 779 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

In responding to Freedom of Information Law request for copies of test reports prepared by Department of Transportation (DOT) Materials Bureau during preceding 2 years relating to approval or disapproval of course aggregate, DOT met its burden of establishing likelihood of competitive harm sufficient to justify partial redaction of documents on ground that test results, which were produced as result of scientific examination of aggregate samples provided by commercial suppliers, were derived from information obtained from commercial enterprise with purview of CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d). Troy Sand & Gravel Co. v New York State DOT, 277 A.D.2d 782, 716 N.Y.S.2d 772, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12205 (N.Y. Municipal cooperative health benefit plan established under CLS Gen Mun § 119-o(1) and CLS Ins § 4702(e), which provided health insurance benefits to employees and retirees of participating entities pursuant to municipal cooperation agreement, was commercial enterprise by legislative design and, as such, records sought by petitioners were exempt from Freedom of Information Law disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d). Passino v Jefferson-Lewis, 277 A.D.2d 1028, 716 N.Y.S.2d 229, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11436 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96

Court upheld determination of Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) which denied request for trade secret exemption under Freedom of Information Law for "Nearby Source Verification Worksheets" submitted by petitioner pursuant to DEC's requirements for issuance of permit under CLS Pub Ser art 10, as information compiled in such worksheets reflected publicly available data, fact that petitioner had to verify and analyze such data did not make compiled information exempt where petitioner did not apply unique or proprietary methods but rather used DEC's standard methodology, and petitioner's expenditure of resources to screen out and specify emission source points to be included in its nearby source inventory did not produce information for worksheets that was not readily reproducible by third parties. Sunset Energy Fleet L.L.C. v State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 285 A.D.2d 865, 728 N.Y.S.2d 279, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7534 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

Although the case had to be remanded because of the inadequate record without a judicial determination being made as to the applicability of the exclusions under N.Y Pub. Off. Law § 87(2); documents produced by the city's accounting firm to the city in connection with an arbitration proceeding involving the city would have been exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d) to the extent such documents contained trade secrets of the accounting firm or other proprietary information whose disclosure would cause substantial injury to the accounting firm's competitive position. Similarly, to the extent interagency or intra-agency materials exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g) were produced or filed by the city in the arbitration, the exemption of such materials would not have been lost by virtue of such production or filing. When a provider submitted documents to a village in connection with negotiations for a cable television franchise, the provider did not show that those documents were exempt from disclosure to the provider's competitor, under N.Y. Exemption from disclosure of documents set forth in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d) protects the interests of a commercial enterprise in avoiding a significant competitive injury as a result of disclosure of information it provided to an agency, thereby fostering the state's economic development efforts to attract business to New York. After the agency prepared a special franchise full value assessment which was given to a city to calculate the tax to be paid by a utility for the use of rights-of-way under N.Y. Real Prop. Tax Law art. 6, the agency properly refused to produce the cost and inventory data used in the assessment to the city as a trade secret under N.Y Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d); the data at issue would be of value to potential competitors as it included a detailed inventory of the age, cost, and extent of the property employed by the utility along the rights-of-way and tracked the construction, installation, and retirement of the property. Village board of trustees' determination to grant a Freedom of Information Law request to release respondent corporation's franchise report to appellant corporation was arbitrary and capricious under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 7803(3) as respondent corporation demonstrated that the disclosure would cause substantial injury to its competitive position, and, thus, the exemption in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d) applied, and the board did not consider the facts underlying the request but only stated that it did not intend to become an arbiter of pending disputes between the corporations. Matter of Verizon N.Y., Inc. v Mills, 60 A.D.3d 958, 875 N.Y.S.2d 572, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2287 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Documents submitted by a telecommunications company in connection with a proposal to replace existing networks with a fully wireless network were exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law because the documents contained bona fide trade secrets, and, as such, the company did not have to show a likelihood of substantial competitive injury from disclosure. Matter of Verizon N.Y., Inc. v New York State Pub. Serv. Commn., 137 A.D.3d 66, 23 N.Y.S.3d 446, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 240 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

Electronics store owner who had commenced federal antitrust action against electronic products manufacturer alleging wrongful termination as distributor for failure to adhere to manufacturer's resale price maintenance scheme was entitled, under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), CLS Pub O Art 6, to documents and records in possession of Attorney General which were generated in state's settled federal price-fixing action against same manufacturer, since (1) Attorney General's mere general statement that materials sought contained "economically sensitive information" was insufficient to deny FOIL disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d), (2) Attorney General did not allege that there was agreement to treat information supplied by witnesses and target itself as confidential, and (3) there was no reason to maintain confidentiality of investigatory file to protect reputation of "innocent investigated entity." Ragusa v New York State Dep't of Law, 152 Misc. 2d 602, 578 N.Y.S.2d 959, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 698 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1991).

State insurance department superintendent did not show that the trade secret exemption applied to bar disclosure of certain reports that the borough president sought to determine whether insurance companies were engaged in an illegal practice called "redlining;" application of that exemption would thwart regulatory law aimed at stopping of that illegal practice. Matter of Markowitz v Serio, 812 N.Y.S.2d 841, 11 Misc. 3d 439, 235 N.Y.L.J. 12, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 81 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2006), rev'd, 39 A.D.3d 247, 833 N.Y.S.2d 444, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. Disclosure of a racing association's proposed changes to an above-$250,000 competitive bidding policy was exempted under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d) because even in a summarized state, the information could allow a competitor to potentially gain a competitive advantage which could significantly impinge the association's ability to effectively continue its operations; it was of no import that the information was being sought by a newspaper reporter. Matter of New York Racing Assn. Inc. v State of NY Racing & Wagering Bd., 863 N.Y.S.2d 540, 21 Misc. 3d 379, 240 N.Y.L.J. 51, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5160 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008).

A request by a corporation to the Social Services Department for access to proposals submitted by another corporation to administer the Medicaid program in New York City and upstate New York together with the contract entered into with the state by that corporation may be denied under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(d) if such disclosure would cause substantial injury to the competitive position of the contracting corporation. In a corporation's appeal of a decision of the Records Access Officer (RAO) that determined certain documents submitted by the corporation to an agency during the course of a regulatory proceeding were not exempt from disclosure as trade, the court held that the RAO and the agency erred as a matter of law by subjecting determined trade secrets to further review and that certain information, such as the corporation's cost information, were trade secrets under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(d). Matter of Verizon N.Y. Inc. v New York State Pub. Serv. Commn., 991 N.Y.S.2d 841, 46 Misc. 3d 858, 2014 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3886 (N.Y. Sup. 141. —Booklists Appropriate test for determining whether "substantial injury to the competitive position of the subject enterprise" would ensue from disclosure of commercial information so as to exempt information from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d) is federal standard whereby courts must consider how valuable information will be to competing business, as well as resultant damage to submitting enterprise. Booklist to be used by students at State University of New York (SUNY), compiled by bookseller under subcontract with corporation that provided auxiliary services—including bookstore—for particular SUNY campus, received by corporation and kept on university's behalf, was shielded from disclosure to subcontractor's competitor by exemption in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d) where (1) booklist would enable competitor to offer precise inventory that its target clientele—SUNY students—was required to purchase and that was currently offered by subcontractor, (2) subcontractor faced potential loss of student customers as result of disclosure, (3) likelihood of harm was enhanced by economic windfall conferred on competitor were it to receive booklist at mere cost of Freedom of Information Law fees, and (4) informa tion in booklist, accumulated by subcontractor's effort and expense, was also directly available to competitor. Encore College Bookstores v Auxiliary Serv. Corp., 87 N.Y.2d 410, 639 N.Y.S.2d 990, 663 N.E.2d 302, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4751 (N.Y. 1995).

Central booklist maintained on forms generated by a large bookstore and compiled from lists submitted by individual state university faculty members was not a trade secret of the large bookstore and was therefore subject to disclosure upon request of small bookstore owner who was attempting to compete with the large bookstore. Mohawk Book Co. v State Univ. of N.Y., 288 A.D.2d 574, 732 N.Y.S.2d 272, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10355 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

142. —Computer programs

A description of a computer program and details of mathematical models, procedures and statistical assumptions, submitted by an insurance company to the Insurance Department, at the latter's request and in confidence, in connection with an application by the company to use a certain method of computing dividends, not at variance with prescribed methods of accounting, are trade secrets and, if disclosed, would result in an unfair advantage to the company's competitors, and, accordingly, are exempt from disclosure under that provision of the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6, § 87) which exempts documents which constitute "trade secrets or are maintained for the regulation of commercial enterprise which if disclosed would cause substantial injury to the competitive position of the subject enterprise". Belth v Insurance Dep't of New York, 95 Misc. 2d 18, 406 N.Y.S.2d 649, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2688 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

143. —Responses to "Requests for Proposals" (RFPs)

Petitioner, which responded to "Request for Proposal" (RFP) issued by New York State Department of Family Assistance, waived its right to exemption from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(d) where RFP specifically advised petitioner, as to public information requirements, that "except for trade secrets and certain personnel information (both of which Department has reserved the right to disclose), all parts of proposals must be disclosed to those members of the general public making inquiry under the New York State Freedom of Information Law," and that "[s]hould an offeror wish to request exemption from public access to information contained in its proposal, the offeror must at the time (of) submission of its offer, specifically, identify in their submission the information and explain in detail why public access to the information would be harmful to the offeror," and petitioner did not request exemption at time of submitting its proposal. Lockheed Martin IMS Corp. v New York State Dep't of Family Assistance, 256 A.D.2d 847, 681 N.Y.S.2d 656, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13574 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

144. Law enforcement (§ 87(2)(e)), generally

New York Civil Liberties Union was entitled to certain police records as the freedom of information law request had been improperly denied based on misrepresentations by the city that the police used a "use of force" form. N.Y. Civ. Liberties Union v City of Schenectady, 2 N.Y.3d 657, 781 N.Y.S.2d 267, 814 N.E.2d 437, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 1602 (N.Y. 2004).

Information sought by the requester under the Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), as redacted, were exempt from disclosure because, considering the municipalities' submissions of audit plans in the context of the statutory and regulatory amendments aiming to uncover and curtail fraudulent and criminal reporting, the existence of reasonably anticipated investigations at the time of the FOIL request was clear. The redactions fit squarely within the exemption permitting an agency to deny access to records compiled for law enforcement purposes where their disclosure would interfere with an investigation. Matter of Madeiros v New York State Educ. Dept., 30 N.Y.3d 67, 86 N.E.3d 527, 64 N.Y.S.3d 635, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3073 (N.Y. 2017).

Government agency was held permitted to rely on the confidential exemption only if the agency establishes (1) that an express promise of confidentiality was made to the source, or (2) that the circumstances of the particular case are such that the confidentiality of the source or information can be reasonably inferred. Matter of Friedman v Rice, 30 N.Y.3d 461, 90 N.E.3d 800, 68 N.Y.S.3d 1, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3285 (N.Y. 2017).

Court of Appeals of New York notes that this provision also applies to confidential information without regard to source. In accordance with the statute's plain text, the rule the Court elaborates applies to sources and information alike. Matter of Friedman v Rice, 30 N.Y.3d 461, 90 N.E.3d 800, 68 N.Y.S.3d 1, 2017 N.Y. Defendant was entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to obtain copy of inventory list of evidence retrieved from scene of homicides with which defendant was charged where, in opposition to demand, state police merely made conclusory assertions that disclosure of such list would reveal non-routine criminal investigative procedures and techniques, and thus failed to satisfy burden under CLS Pub Off § 87(2). In a Freedom of Information Law proceeding in which petitioner inmate sought information from a city police department, while the age of the information sought could be relevant to the inquiry as to whether the exemptions under N.Y. Matter of Bellamy v New York City Police Dep't, 59 A.D.3d 353, 874 N.Y.S.2d 60, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1413 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009).

State Education Department properly denied petitioner's Freedom of Information Law request for audit guidelines and related documents related to special education preschool programs because they were exempt because they were compiled with law enforcement investigative purposes in mind. Matter of Madeiros v New York State Educ. Dept., 133 A.D.3d 962, 18 N.Y.S.3d 782, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8132 (N.Y. State Education Department properly redacted a petitioner's Freedom of Information Law request for audit guidelines and related documents related to special education preschool programs because the redactions were necessary in order to avoid revealing auditing techniques that would enable the providers of preschool special education programs to conceal their financial misdeeds more effectively. Matter of Madeiros v New York State Educ. Dept., 133 A.D.3d 962, 18 N.Y.S.3d 782, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8132 (N.Y. Proposed questions were not exempt from disclosure under the law enforcement exemption because an employer sought to ques-

Matter of Aurigemma v New York State Dept. of Taxation & Fin., 128 A.D.3d 1235, 9 N.Y.S.3d 711, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4300 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015).

Supreme court properly ordered the release of proposed questions because the pages at issue were not exempt from disclosure under the law enforcement exemption; even assuming the exemption applied, the questions at issue were routine in nature, the disclosure of which would not reveal detailed or specialized investigative techniques or procedures. Matter of Aurigemma v New York State Dept. of Taxation & Fin., 128 A.D.3d 1235, 9 N.Y.S.3d 711, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4300 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015).

Trial court properly dismissed an inmate's application to review a determination of the Office of Victim Services (OVS) denying his Freedom of Information Law request because the documentation and information requested by the inmate—services that the victims might have received as a result of his "alleged assault" upon them—were not subject to disclosure, the inmate did not establish that any of the information that he requested fell within one of the statutory exceptions, the statutory provisions were wholly unrelated to OVS's provision of services to crime victims, and redacted disclosure could not be compelled where OVS met its burden of demonstrating that the records were exempt from disclosure. Jamison v Watson, 176 A.D.3d 1405, 111 N.Y.S.3d 436, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7681 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2019).

Petitioner would be granted disclosure under Freedom of Information Law of all statements of witnesses which had been made to law enforcement personnel in connection with his murder conviction and had not been previously delivered to him, except grand jury statements and hearing or trial transcripts of witness testimony that were court records, as well as all investigative reports not previously delivered to him; district attorney could provide petitioner with detailed listing of any documents believed to be exempt from disclosure along with affidavit specifying in nonconclusory terms basis for any claimed exemption. Although an inmate's Freedom of Information Law request relating to records created in response to his allegation that he was sexually assaulted by a correction officer was denied on other grounds, the exemptions in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(e)(iii) and (iv) did not apply because there was no indication that the participating witnesses qualified as "confidential sources" or that the records would reveal any source or disclose any information which would be deemed confidential or reveal any nonroutine criminal investigative techniques or procedures. Matter of John H. v Goord, 27 A.D.3d 798, 809 N.Y.S.2d 682, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2313 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

145. —Confidential source or disclosure (§ 87(2)(e)(iii))

Records concerning State Police investigator's disciplinary proceeding, consisting of written report of accusation under 9 NYCRR § 479.1 and written notification of proposed imposition of penalty under 9 NYCRR § 479.3, were not subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law since former document was report of internal investigation of complaint against investigator, which constituted data for law enforcement purposes exempt under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(i) and (iii) or as pre-decisional, intra-agency materials under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g), and latter document was intermediate step leading to decision to proceed to formal disciplinary hearing exempt under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). Documents constituting final determination of disciplinary action against State Police investigator were not immune from disclosure as intra-agency material since that exemption does not apply to "final agency policy or determination" under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(iii), and State Police had not met their burden of showing that disclosure of final decision sustaining charges of misconduct would interfere in law enforcement investigation or reveal confidential sources in order to qualify for exemption under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e). Scaccia v New York State Div. of State Police, 138 A.D.2d 50, 530 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6870 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Statements made by individuals alleged by petitioner in Article 78 proceeding to be "known informants" were exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b), (e)(iii), and (f) where disclosure of such documents, if they existed, would be unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, might endanger safety of informants, and necessarily would reveal documents compiled for law enforcement purposes that would identify confidential source. Scarola v Morgenthau, 246 A.D.2d 417, 668 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 357 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Statements of witnesses who did not testify at petitioner's criminal trial were confidential, and would not be disclosed under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(iii). Johnson v Hynes, 264 A.D.2d 777, 695 N.Y.S.2d 380, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9142 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Trial court erred in ordering that the district attorney produce certain documents because the district attorney met her burden of demonstrating that the witness statements and other documents provided to law enforcement officials during a criminal investigation by witnesses who did not testify at trial were exempt from disclosure, and the fact that petitioner had pled guilty did not remove the cloak of confidentiality from statements. Matter of Friedman v Rice, 134 A.D.3d 826, 20 N.Y.S.3d 600, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9126 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2015), rev'd, 30 N.Y.3d 461, 90 N.E.3d 800, 68 N.Y.S.3d 1, 2017 N.Y. In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 matter, a legal defense fund and a Muslim advocacy group were not entitled to records under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(e)(iii), regarding the New York City Police Department's (NYPD's) surveillance of Muslim individuals, businesses, and organizations because disclosure could potentially undermine the effectiveness of the NYPD's undercover programs and reveal the identity of undercover officers and informants. Asian Am. Legal Defense & Educ. Fund v New York City Police Dept., 964 N.Y.S.2d 888, 41 Misc. 3d 471, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1912 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 125 A.D.3d 531, 5 N.Y.S.3d 13, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1550 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

In response to a request for documents regarding a homicide investigation, the police department failed to establish the pages pertaining to an unnamed informant fell under the Freedom of Information Law's confidentiality exemption because there was no evidence the person received an express or implied promise of confidentiality. Matter of Exoneration Initiative v New York City Police Dept., 114 A.D.3d 436, 980 N.Y.S.2d 73, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2014).

146. —Investigations or judicial proceedings (§ 87(2)(e)(i)), generally

Records concerning State Police investigator's disciplinary proceeding, consisting of written report of accusation under 9 NYCRR § 479.1 and written notification of proposed imposition of penalty under 9 NYCRR § 479.3, were not subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law since former document was report of internal investigation of complaint against investigator, which constituted data for law enforcement purposes exempt under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(i) and (iii) or as pre-decisional, intra-agency materials under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g), and latter document was intermediate step leading to decision to proceed to formal disciplinary hearing exempt under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). Documents constituting final determination of disciplinary action against State Police investigator were not immune from disclosure as intra-agency material since that exemption does not apply to "final agency policy or determination" under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(iii), and State Police had not met their burden of showing that disclosure of final decision sustaining charges of misconduct would interfere in law enforcement investigation or reveal confidential sources in order to qualify for exemption under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e). Scaccia v New York State Div. of State Police, 138 A.D.2d 50, 530 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6870 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Information maintained by police department, relating to incident in which off-duty police officer was shot in head while drinking and gambling with other off-duty officers, was exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(i) where department asserted that disclosure might interfere with its open investigation of incident because injured officer might be interrogated at some future time and might provide information leading to further investigation along new lines of inquiry; accordingly, Freedom of Information Law request by injured officer's family and their attorney was dismissed, without prejudice to renew after police department either interviewed injured officer or received sufficient medical evidence to establish his incapacity to be interviewed. DeLuca v New York City Police Dep't, 261 A.D.2d 140, 689 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4581 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Electronics store owner who had commenced federal antitrust action against electronic products manufacturer alleging wrongful termination as distributor for failure to adhere to manufacturer's resale price maintenance scheme was entitled, under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), CLS Pub O Art 6, to documents and records in possession of Attorney General which were generated in state's settled federal price-fixing action against same manufacturer, since Attorney General failed to demonstrate that there was any judicial proceeding or law enforcement investigation in progress involving manufacturer to warrant FOIL exemption under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(i). Ragusa v New York State Dep't of Law, 152 Misc. 2d 602, 578 N.Y.S.2d 959, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 698 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1991).

New York City's fire department failed to carry its burden of establishing that law enforcement, specifically, the prosecution of a notorious terrorist, would be prejudiced if it provided a newspaper with access to oral histories and other records it had preserved of firefighters' activities and memories of the events of September 11, 2001; private feelings and deliberative opinions expressed by firefighters were, however, exempt. N.Y. Times Co. v City of New York Fire Dep't, 195 Misc. 2d 119, 754 N.Y.S.2d 517, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 94 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003), aff'd in part, modified, 3 A.D.3d 340, 770 N.Y.S.2d 324, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 143 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2004).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 matter, a legal defense fund and a Muslim advocacy group were not entitled to records under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(e)(i), regarding the New York City Police Department's (NYPD's) surveillance of Muslim individuals, businesses, and organizations because the high level of detail in the records made it relatively easy to connect strands of information, which in turn, provided a factual basis from which the identity of sources, the size and capabilities of the NYPD undercover program, and methods used by the NYPD could be determined; the exemption also applied to completed investigations because the records could provide the NYPD with a basis for further investigation. Asian Am. Legal Defense & Educ. Fund v New York City Police Dept., 964 N.Y.S.2d 888, 41 Misc. 3d 471, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1912 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 125 A.D.3d 531, 5 N.Y.S.3d 13, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1550 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

Executive Chamber established that the requested records were compiled for law enforcement purposes when the reply to the requests under the Freedom of Information Law, Public Officers Law § 84 et seq., had to be performed. Matter of New York Times Co. v New York State Exec. Chamber, 57 Misc. 3d 405, 56 N.Y.S.3d 821, 2017 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2711 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017).

147. — —Grand jury matters

Special State Prosecutor was not required to disclose, to newspaper, depositions of Attorney General staff members given in connection with investigation into unlawful "leak" of grand jury information since depositions were exempt because (1) they had been compiled for law enforcement purposes and their disclosure could interfere with investigations, and (2) they were exempted by state statute—CLS Penal § 215.70. New York News, Inc. v Office of Special State Prosecutor, 153 A.D.2d 512, 544 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10657 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Fact that records of county sheriff's department were in temporary possession of U.S. Attorney for presentation to federal grand jury did not warrant dismissal of action to compel production of records pursuant to Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 84 et seq. Buffalo Broadcasting Co. v County of Erie, 190 A.D.2d 1086, 593 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1335 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

Grand jury minutes are court rather than agency records and are accordingly exempt from ambit of Freedom of Information Law. Gibson v Grady, 192 A.D.2d 657, 597 N.Y.S.2d 84, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3871 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

148. —Investigative techniques or procedures (§ 87(2)(e)(iv)), generally

Identikit papers and notations in connection with criminal investigation resulting in petitioner's murder conviction were exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(iv), as records compiled for law enforcement purposes which, if disclosed, would reveal non-routine criminal investigative techniques, since their disclosure might alert prospective criminals to characteristics important in composite artistry and thus encourage them to tailor their appearance in order to evade detection. Inventory of evidence used against petitioner in connection with criminal investigation resulting in his murder conviction was not exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, since evidence inventory list is record within meaning of CLS Pub O § 86(4). Dobranski v Houper, 154 A.D.2d 736, 546 N.Y.S.2d 180, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12412 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

In responding to petitioner's Freedom of Information Law request for certain records relating to trained police dog formerly assigned to transit police department's canine unit, respondents properly redacted documents provided to petitioner so as to delete canine training categories, as those would reveal non-routine criminal investigative techniques and procedures. O'Donnell v Donadio, 259 A.D.2d 251, 688 N.Y.S.2d 117, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2316 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. denied, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5569 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't May 6, 1999), app. dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 1032, 697 N.Y.S.2d 554, 719 N.E.2d 914, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2839 (N.Y. 1999).

Police lieutenant's denial of release of requested DD-5 (Complaint Follow-up Report) on ground that its release "would reveal non-routine investigatory techniques" was insufficient where police department did not even articulate what type of information was contained in DD-5. Bellamy v New York City Police Dep't, 272 A.D.2d 120, 708 N.Y.S.2d 5, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5440 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), overruled in part, Rattley v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 96 N.Y.2d 873, 730 N.Y.S.2d 768, 756 N.E.2d 56, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1868 (N.Y. 2001).

Documents requested by petitioner under Freedom of Information Law relating to his murder conviction, consisting of statements made to law enforcement personnel and investigative reports, including notebook records, would not be ordered turned over to court for in camera inspection to determine whether any were subject to exemption from disclosure in absence of specific allegations by district attorney as to which documents contained privileged, confidential or investigative technique information. Brownell v Grady, 147 Misc. 2d 105, 554 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 153 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 matter, a legal defense fund and a Muslim advocacy group were not entitled to records under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(e)(iv), regarding the New York City Police Department's (NYPD's) surveillance of Muslim individuals, businesses, and organizations because the NYPD's intelligence gathering and counterterrorism activities constituted detailed, specialized methods of conducting an investigation into potential future terrorist attacks and disclosure of the requested documents would provide a roadmap of investigation decisions, techniques and information that could be prepared to undermine future investigations, and avoid detection, arrest, and prosecution. Asian Am. Legal Defense & Educ. Fund v New York City Police Dept., 964 N.Y.S.2d 888, 41 Misc. 3d 471, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1912 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 125

A.D.3d 531, 5 N.Y.S.3d 13, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1550 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

Police department properly denied a journalist's request for when and in what situations certain vans could not be used because the information clearly came within the ambit of investigative techniques or procedures. Matter of Grabell v New York City Police Dept., 996 N.Y.S.2d 893, 47 Misc. 3d 203, 2014 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5353 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2014), aff'd in part, modified, vacated, in part, 139 A.D.3d 477, 32 N.Y.S.3d 81, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3540 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2016).

149. — —Autopsies

Defendant was not entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to obtain copies of autopsy reports and laboratory analyses of evidence relating to police officers' criminal investigation of homicides for which defendant was charged, where (1) CLS County § 677 governed disclosure of autopsy reports and no county officers were made parties to proceeding, and (2) other reports and evidence were compiled for law enforcement purposes and, if disclosed, would reveal non-routine criminal investigative techniques or procedures. Lyon v Dunne, 180 A.D.2d 922, 580 N.Y.S.2d 803, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2694 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 758, 584 N.Y.S.2d 446, 594 N.E.2d 940, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1270 (N.Y. 1992).

Petitioner was not entitled to disclosure of certain documents, worksheets and audiotape allegedly created by New York City Department of Health in connection with autopsy of certain person whom petitioner was convicted of murdering, since exemption exists for records relating to deaths due to criminal behavior under New York City Charter § 557(g). Mitchell v Borakove, 225 A.D.2d 435, 639 N.Y.S.2d 791, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2789 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 88 N.Y.2d 919, 646 N.Y.S.2d 987, 670 N.E.2d 228, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1749 (N.Y. 1996).

150. —Prisons; prisoners

Petitioner, inmate serving prison sentence for killing man, was not entitled to disclosure of records as to his victim's criminal history since such records, which were in possession of Division of Criminal Justice Services, were exempt from disclosure provisions of Freedom of Information Law. Bennett v Girgenti, 226 A.D.2d 792, 640 N.Y.S.2d 307, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3449 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 805, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1687 (N.Y. 1996).

Prison inmate's request for various documents, including investigator's reports and statement of witness who did not testify at trial, was properly denied since those documents were exempt from disclosure because they either were compiled for law-enforcement purposes or would constitute unwarranted invasion of privacy. Mulhall v Fitzgerald, 249 A.D.2d 852, 672 N.Y.S.2d 480, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4833 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

It was proper to deny inmate's request for disclosure of another individual's parole records; requested parole documents were confidential and thus exempt from disclosure. Zarvela v New York State Div. of Parole, 252 A.D.2d 696, 675 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8150 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

151. Endangerment of life or safety (§ 87(2)(f)), generally

Petitioner, who sought Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) disclosure of complaint follow-up reports ("DD-5s") produced by police department in connection with homicide investigation, was not required to demonstrate compelling and particularized need for such information that outweighed potential harm to public good asserted by respondent, as public safety provisions of FOIL are quite explicit, and it is by these provisions that FOIL request is to be judged. Johnson v New York City Police Dep't, 257 A.D.2d 343, 694 N.Y.S.2d 14, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7785 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 791, 700 N.Y.S.2d 422, 722 N.E.2d 502, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3646 (N.Y. 1999).

Trial court erred in ordering a city to release the home addresses of handgun licensees in electronic form because the fact that N.Y. Penal Law § 400.00(5) made the name and address of a handgun license holder "a public record" was not dispositive of whether the city could have asserted the privacy and safety exemptions to Freedom of Information Law disclosure, especially when the newspaper sought the names and addresses in electronic form; in addition, disclosing a person's home address implicated a heightened privacy concern. Furthermore, the city submitted a deputy inspector's affidavit, which the newspaper failed to controvert, detailing its privacy and safety concerns implicated by disclosure of the addresses in electronic form, and, at a minimum, the affidavit demonstrated a possibility of endangerment sufficient to invoke the exemption set forth in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(f). Matter of New York Times Co. v City of N.Y. Police Dept., 103 A.D.3d 405, 959 N.Y.S.2d 171, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 689 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 22 N.Y.3d 854, 977 N.Y.S.2d 183, 999 N.E.2d 548, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 2941 (N.Y. 2013).

Record request under the Freedom of Information Law for numerous documents relating to a village's deer management activities was improperly redacted based, in part, on a statutory exemption because there was no evidence to support the determination that the safety of the property owners who participated in the deer management program could be endangered by the release of their identities. Matter of Laveck v Village Bd. of Trustees of the Vil. of Lansing, 145 A.D.3d 1168, 42 N.Y.S.3d 460, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7991 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

Supreme court erred in directing the Records Access Officer, Civilian Complaint Review Board (CCRB) to produce records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law because the documents constituted "personnel records" and fell squarely within a statutory exemption of the statute; the CCRB's findings and recommendations were of significance to superiors in evaluating police officers' performance, and all complaints filed with the CCRB remained in an officer's CCRB history. Matter of Luongo v Records Access Officer, Civilian Complaint Review Bd., 150 A.D.3d 13, 51 N.Y.S.3d 46, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2463 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 30 N.Y.3d 908, 93 N.E.3d 1213, 70 N.Y.S.3d 448, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3771 (N.Y. 2017).

Because of the widespread notoriety of an arrestee's death and the officer's role therein, and the fact that hostility and threats against the officer had been significant enough to cause an order of around-the-clock police protection for him and his family, the gravity of the threats to the officer's safety demonstrated that disclosure of the records sought carries a substantial and realistic potential for harm; thus, nondisclosure of the requested records was warranted. Matter of Luongo v Records Access Officer, Civilian Complaint Review Bd., 150 A.D.3d 13, 51 N.Y.S.3d 46, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2463 (N.Y. In granting request by animal rights advocates under Freedom of Information Law for access to applications submitted to university review committee responsible for approving use of animals in experiments, court would allow redaction of name, department, location, telephone number and grant or application number of funding source pursuant to CLS Pub O § 87(2)(f), but would not order redaction of those sections of applications relating to procedures to be performed on animals, including their treatment and disposal, since such information could not be considered trade secret. American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals v Board of Trustees of State University, 147 Misc. 2d 847, 556 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 matter, a legal defense fund and a Muslim advocacy group were not entitled to records under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(f), regarding the New York City Police Department's (NYPD's) surveillance of Muslim individuals, businesses, and organizations because release of the requested documents could impair the lives and safety of the law enforcement community, undercover officers, confidential informants, and members of the public who cooperated with the NYPD's investigations and anti-terrorism efforts. Asian Am. Legal Defense & Educ. Fund v New York City Police Dept., 964 N.Y.S.2d 888, 41 Misc. 3d 471, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1912 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 125 A.D.3d 531, 5 N.Y.S.3d 13, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1550 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

Police department properly redacted identifying information from statements given by a testifying witness and a nontestifying witness pertaining to a homicide investigation before disclosing some of the requested documents under the Freedom of Information Law because disclosure of such information could potentially endanger the witnesses' safety or result in an unwarranted invasion of their personal privacy. Matter of Exoneration Initiative v New York City Police Dept., 114 A.D.3d 436, 980 N.Y.S.2d 73, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2014).

Although building plans and similar records maintained by New York City Department of Buildings generally must be made available under Freedom of Information Law, exemption under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(f), which authorizes an agency to withhold records to extent that disclosure "would endanger the life or safety of any person," may apply where such records include reference to alarms or security systems. Comm on Open Gov't F7966.

152. —Confidential sources of information, generally

Statements made by individuals alleged by petitioner in Article 78 proceeding to be "known informants" were exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b), (e)(iii), and (f) where disclosure of such documents, if they existed, would be unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, might endanger safety of informants, and necessarily would reveal documents compiled for law enforcement purposes that would identify confidential source. Scarola v Morgenthau, 246 A.D.2d 417, 668 N.Y.S.2d 174, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 357 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Organization was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief because there was no basis under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87(2)(e)(iii), (2)(f), or 89(1)(b) to withhold the information sought where the witnesses at issue might have exculpatory information that would help an inmate, and nothing in the record indicated that an explicit assurance of confidentiality was given or that the witnesses would be in danger. Matter of Exoneration Initiative v New York City Police Dept., 966 N.Y.S.2d 825, 39 Misc. 3d 962, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1342 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd in part, modified, 114 A.D.3d 436, 980 N.Y.S.2d 73, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2014).

153. — —Complainant; victim

Supporting deposition and criminal information underlying unpursued criminal complaint for trespass filed against petitioner were exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87(2), since (1) names and addresses of complainants need not be disclosed where such disclosure would endanger their lives and safety, and (2) information would identify source promised confidentiality. Dobranski v Houper, 154 A.D.2d 736, 546 N.Y.S.2d 180, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12412 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

154. —Prisoners; prisons, generally

Confidential records of Department of Correctional Services referring to inmate as member of organized crime and dealing with escape risk were properly exempted from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87, since all records were either interagency or intra-agency materials, or were materials disclosure of which could endanger lives or safety of certain individuals. Nalo v Sullivan, 125 A.D.2d 311, 509 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62573 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 612, 517 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 511 N.E.2d 86, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16883 (N.Y. 1987).

Respondents did not improperly deny disclosure of unredacted copies of program and security assessment summaries compiled at time of inmate's transfer to different correctional facility, since proof that disclosure of information to public would create danger to person's life or safety is not required in order to invoke exemption from disclosure of CLS Pub O § 87(2)(f); rather, there need only be possibility that such information would endanger lives or safety of individual. Stronza v Hoke, 148 A.D.2d 900, 539 N.Y.S.2d 528, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4102 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 611, 546 N.Y.S.2d 555, 545 N.E.2d 869, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2871 (N.Y. 1989).

Inmates were not entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to disclosure of specifications and other data relating to electrical and security transmission systems of prison since information fell within exemption for records which could endanger life or safety of any person; disclosure, especially to inmates, could impair effectiveness of systems and compromise safe and successful operation of prison. Flowers v Sullivan, 149 A.D.2d 287, 545 N.Y.S.2d 289, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11068 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), app. dismissed, in part, 75 N.Y.2d 850, 552 N.Y.S.2d 924, 552 N.E.2d 172, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 207 (N.Y. 1990), app. dismissed, 75 N.Y.2d 1004, 557 N.Y.S.2d 311, 556 N.E.2d 1118, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1078 (N.Y. 1990).

It was proper to deny inmate's request to obtain name of individual(s) who had transmitted or forwarded certain reports as to interviews with 2 prosecution witnesses to law enforcement officials, date reports were sent, and name or names of those persons to whom reports were sent since information sought pertained to criminal investigation surrounding inmate's conviction for murdering fellow inmate, disclosure of which could subject certain individuals to retribution. Howard v Malone, 247 A.D.2d 665, 668 N.Y.S.2d 418, 247 A.2d 665, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 969 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Where many of a prosecutor's interview notes had been provided to an inmate's trial counsel and there was no showing that a witness would be endangered by disclosure pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(f), the notes would be reviewed in camera before disclosure to the inmate under N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78. Chebere v Johnson, 3 A.D.3d 365, 770 N.Y.S.2d 357, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 337 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 2 N.Y.3d 778, 780 N.Y.S.2d 304, 812 N.E.2d 1252, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 1002 (N.Y. 2004).

Inmate's Freedom of Information Law request for documents created in response to his allegation that he was sexually assaulted by a correction officer was denied because disclosure of those records could endanger the life or safety of a person and, thus, the exemption in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(f) applied. Matter of John H. v Goord, 27 A.D.3d 798, 809 N.Y.S.2d 682, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2313 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Portions of corrections officers' accident reports in which they described the accident and/or injury had to be provided to an inmate, but only after making redactions under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(f) to protect the confidentiality of the officers' personal information, including home addresses, dates of birth, telephone numbers and social security numbers, which could endanger their life or safety. Matter of Canty v Office of Counsel, N.Y. State Dept. of Correctional Servs., 913 N.Y.S.2d 528, 30 Misc. 3d 705, 2010 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6095 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2010).

155. — —Parole documents

Parole documents relating to 2 former inmates who testified against petitioner in his criminal trial were not subject to Freedom of Information Law disclosure, given that parole records have been held to be confidential under CLS Exec § 259-k and, even if redacted, their release could endanger life and safety. Carty v New York State Div. of Parole, 277 A.D.2d 633, 716 N.Y.S.2d 125, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12045 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

156. — —Videotapes

Inmate was not entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to obtain copy of videotape depicting his transfer to special housing unit since disclosure would endanger life or safety of prison employees and inmates as videotape revealed geographical layout of special housing unit and disclosed identities of inmates and officers who occupied that portion of prison. Lonski on behalf of Collins v Kelly, 149 A.D.2d 977, 540 N.Y.S.2d 114, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6022 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Videotapes taken by Department of Correctional Services at prison over multiyear period were not entirely exempt from disclosure on grounds that disclosure to public of videotapes of inmates and correction officers in facility, and of physical layout of facility's special housing unit, would endanger safety and security, since there was no showing that tapes would reveal anything more to inmates than would be personally observed during their actual confinement; however, department could redact those portions of tapes disclosure of which would create serious safety consideration, with department preparing and submitting description of redacted portions sufficient to allow court to determine applicability of exemption. Buffalo Broadcasting Co. v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 155 A.D.2d 106, 552

N.Y.S.2d 712, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2940 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

In proceeding by television station seeking to compel Department of Corrections to release videotapes of inmate uprising at state correctional facility, court properly rejected department's claim that certain tapes should be redacted or withheld because disclosure would create concerns for personal safety of inmates or correctional personnel, since depictions which department sought to suppress were of scenes witnessed by general prison population, and techniques and equipment used by correctional officers were observable by inmates and were completely conventional in nature. Court properly rejected attempt by Department of Corrections to shield, in their entirety, tapes of facility's special housing unit, on ground that extreme dangerousness of inmate population of that unit required that operations of unit and its physical configuration be shrouded in total secrecy; however, redaction was justified with respect to techniques for storming cells and administration of tear gas, as well as for tape showing security system switchboard at facility. Buffalo Broadcasting Co. v New York Dep't of Correctional Services, 174 A.D.2d 212, 578 N.Y.S.2d 928, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 552 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 759, 584 N.Y.S.2d 447, 594 N.E.2d 941, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1315 (N.Y. 1992).

157. Inter-agency and intra-agency materials (§ 87(2)(g)), generally

Definition of "agency" in Public Officers Law § 86(3) did not include federal agencies. Thus, the Department of Environmental Conservation's communications with the Environmental Protection Agency were not protected by the intra-agency exemption of Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g). Matter of Town of Waterford v New York State Dept. of Envtl. Conservation, 18 N.Y.3d 652, 944 N.Y.S.2d 429, 967 N.E.2d 652, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 510 (N.Y. 2012).

Certain portions of one document requested under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6 consisted of inter- and intra-agency discussions, recommendations, and opinions that were exempt from disclosure, pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g), and the trial court properly ordered that it be redacted before release. Matter of Humane Socy. of United States v Brennan, 53 A.D.3d 909, 861 N.Y.S.2d 234, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6156 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 711, 872 N.Y.S.2d 73, 900 N.E.2d 556, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3449 (N.Y. 2008).

State agencies' records of communications with people outside the agency, press releases, and a New York Department of State entity information form were not exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g), but those portions of the records containing material exempt from disclosure had to be redacted before disclosure. Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

Because the Department of Taxation and Finance complied with N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(4)(a) by providing a sufficient description of the withheld documents and by articulating a basis for its denial, and because the withheld documents fell squarely within the inter-agency and intra-agency exemption as predecisional, nonfinal discussions and recommendations by employees within the agency used to assist the decision makers in formulating a determination, the taxpayers were not entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of Bass Pro, Inc. v Megna, 69 A.D.3d 1040, 892 N.Y.S.2d 642, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 189 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Access to records of a private corporation performing an assessment revaluation project for the county cannot be denied on the ground that such records are intra-agency or inter-agency records exempt from disclosure under Pub O § 87(2)(g), since the corporation is not an "agency" for FOIL purposes. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1783.

Intra-agency exception to a Freedom of Information Law request by a patient's spouse for documents prepared in the course of the Department of Health investigation into the hospital's treatment of the patient applied because the information was collected by the hospital for quality assurance purposes. Matter of Pasek v New York State Dept. of Health, 151 A.D.3d 1250, 56 N.Y.S.3d 627, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4443 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2017).

Patients' bill of rights directs the hospital to afford certain rights to a patient and has no applicability to a request under the Freedom of Information Law directed toward the Department of Health. Matter of Pasek v New York State Dept. of Health, 151 A.D.3d 1250, 56 N.Y.S.3d 627, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4443 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2017).

In an estate administrator's (EA) wrongful death action against a county, denial of disclosure of certain documents that were created after the decedent's death was error, as the EA was entitled to disclosure, they were not made solely in anticipation of litigation, and the deliberative process privilege was inapplicable to discovery requests. Mosey v County of Erie, 148 A.D.3d 1572, 50 N.Y.S.3d 641, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2202 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2017).

Trial court properly found that communications between a mayor and/or his office and a private consultant were exempt from the statutory exemption for inter-/intra-agency materials because the consultant was not retained by the mayor's office, the documents at issue included examples of the mayor and the consultant discussing issues important to the consultant's private clients, which were the types of communications that the Freedom of Information Law meant to make available to the public, and the attempts to withhold them ran counter to the public interest in transparency and ability to participate on important issues of municipal governance. Matter of Rauh v de Blasio, 161 A.D.3d 120, 75 N.Y.S.3d 15, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3064 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2018).

Trial court erred in denying petitioner's Freedom of Information Law petition insofar as it sought to compel the production of records and materials related to a residential valuation model used by a town in generating real property assessments because, while the town established that certain information in the model might be exempt from disclosure as a nonfinal intra-agency record, it could not be determined from the record whether the model material fell wholly or only partially within that exemption, and any material subject to production under any subsection in that exemption should be redacted. Matter of Gedan v Town of Mamaroneck, 170 A.D.3d 833, 94 N.Y.S.3d 178, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1765 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

Where the Joint Commission on Public Ethics (JCOPE) investigated respondent to determine if it had violated the Lobby Act by failing to register as a lobbyist, respondent was ordered to respond to JCOPE's subpoena and disclose communications and records of meetings between respondent and the mayor, because assuming without deciding that the mayor's office properly invoked the deliberative process privilege, respondent failed to demonstrate that the documents sought had to protected, as it claimed that disclosure would chill deliberations but did not explain how. New York State Joint Commn. on Pub. Ethics v Campaign for One N.Y., Inc., 53 Misc. 3d 983, 37 N.Y.S.3d 851, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3277 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

Documents shared with a federal agency were not exempt from disclosure because "agency" for freedom of information purposes does not include a federal agency, there was an express acknowledgment that the deliberative process exemption did not protect documents shared with a federal agency, and the common interest doctrine did not apply to non-confidential communications between agencies with separate counsel. Matter of Riverkeeper Inc. v Port Auth. of N.Y. & N.J., 66 Misc. 3d 250, 111 N.Y.S.3d 523, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5619 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019), aff'd, 187 A.D.3d 557, 130 N.Y.S.3d 659, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5965 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2020).

158. —Environmental matters

In Article 78 mandamus proceeding, petitioner was not entitled to access to preliminary draft of study by State Department of Environmental Conservation (ENCON) of chemical waste dump site where draft had been inadvertently produced by ENCON in response to initial request under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O Law Art 6) and where ENCON subsequently took position that portions of draft were exempt from disclosure as inter-agency document within meaning of CLS Pub O § 87; inadvertent production of draft did not operate as waiver of any privilege that may have attached to document, and privilege was properly asserted since portions of draft fell within exemption from disclosure for pre-decisional intra-agency communications which contain no final determinations and do not affect public welfare. McGraw-Edison Co. v Williams, 133 Misc. 2d 1053, 509 N.Y.S.2d 285, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3027 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

159. —Family matters

Exemption for inter-agency documents was enacted to foster open and candid discussion among public officials and to protect uninhibited recommendations made within the family from being scrutinized by those affected and by the public. Shaw v Lerer, 112 Misc. 2d 260, 446 N.Y.S.2d 855, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3420 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

160. —Legal matters, generally

161. — —Court-related

Court properly granted petitioners' application for disclosure under Freedom of Information Law of portion of administrative law judge's memorandum that addressed their request for oral argument before respondent Public Service Commission (PSC), which was expressly adopted by PSC in denying oral argument; that portion of memorandum was not pre-decisional intra-agency document exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). Century House Historical Soc'y v State PSC, 237 A.D.2d 844, 655 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2764 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

162. —Medical and health matters

Rating given by each member of Department of Health committee to each bid on public contract was subject to disclosure, but subjective comments, opinions and recommendations written in by committee members were exempt from disclosure pursuant to CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). Professional Standards Review Council of Am. v New York State Dep't of Health, 193 A.D.2d 937, 597 N.Y.S.2d 829, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4836 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

163. —Municipal affairs, generally

Town documents consisting of evaluations, deliberations, proposals, policy formulations, conclusions, recommendations, opinions and advice were exempt from public access under Freedom of Information Law, since government agency deliberative functions would be hindered by disclosure of such subjective matter. Oyster Bay v Williams, 134 A.D.2d 267, 520 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50450 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

President of Borough of Staten Island could not withhold disclosure of investigator's memorandum outlining investigation and determination of guilt regarding employee of President's office since memorandum became final agency policy record when President adopted it as basis for his decision, and memorandum was purely factual. New York 1 News v Office of the President, 231 A.D.2d 524, 647 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8820 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

164. —Police and related law enforcement activities, generally

Petitioner's request for all records relating to his disqualified application for position of state trooper was properly denied, since such records were exempt from disclosure pursuant to Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g), in that, aside from documents provided by petitioner himself, records consisted of opinions, advice, evaluations, deliberations, conclusions or recommendations. O'Shaughnessy v New York State Div. of State Police, 202 A.D.2d 508, 609 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 84 N.Y.2d 807, 621 N.Y.S.2d 516, 645 N.E.2d 1216, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 3485 (N.Y. 1994).

Exemption to FOIL under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g) for pre-decisional intra-agency materials would not protect information given to police department internal affairs unit and interviews of police officers conducted in connection with investigation where interviews appeared to comprise factual accounts of incident in which 16-year-old student was shot while making sale of crack cocaine to undercover officer. Svaigsen v City of New York, 203 A.D.2d 32, 609 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3296 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

While a county executive argued that the posting of the arrest of petitioner arrestee for drunk driving was public information such as that provided in requests under the Freedom of Information Law, the court could not consider such an argument or whether the posting of the information on an Internet website was, inter alia, an unwarranted invasion of privacy under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g) as the information was provided voluntarily by the posting on an Internet website. Bursac v Suozzi, 868 N.Y.S.2d 470, 22 Misc. 3d 328, 240 N.Y.L.J. 94, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6576 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 matter, a legal defense fund and a Muslim advocacy group were not entitled to records under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g), regarding the New York City Police Department's (NYPD's) surveillance of Muslim individuals, businesses, and organizations because the NYPD had undertaken intelligence and counterterrorism efforts in conjunction with the New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission (TLC), and documents provided by the TLC to the NYPD in connection with counterterrorism investigations or information gathering activities, and records reflecting the NYPD's request for such records from the TLC were withheld pursuant to the inter and intra-agency exemption. Asian Am. Legal Defense & Educ. Fund v New York City Police Dept., 964 N.Y.S.2d 888, 41 Misc. 3d 471, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1912 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2013), aff'd, 125 A.D.3d 531, 5 N.Y.S.3d 13, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1550 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

165. —Prisons and prisoners, generally

Confidential records of Department of Correctional Services referring to inmate as member of organized crime and dealing with escape risk were properly exempted from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87, since all records were either inter-agency or intra-agency materials, or were materials disclosure of which could endanger lives or safety of certain individuals. Nalo v Sullivan, 125 A.D.2d 311, 509 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62573 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 612, 517 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 511 N.E.2d 86, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16883 (N.Y. 1987).

Inmate was not entitled to disclosure of unredacted portions of program security and assessment summary forms, prepared semiannually or on transfer of inmate from one facility to another, which contained information to assist prison officials in determining placement of inmate in most appropriate facility, since those documents are exempted from disclosure under intra-agency memorandum exemption in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g); further, inmate was not entitled to disclosure of such documents under 7 NYCRR § 5.50 to challenge accuracy of material contained therein since that regulation permits challenge to accuracy only as to records relating to inmate's "correctional supervision history" or his "personal history." Rowland D. v Scully, 152 A.D.2d 570, 543 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9629 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), aff'd, 76 N.Y.2d 725, 557 N.Y.S.2d 876, 557 N.E.2d 112, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1268 (N.Y. 1990).

166. — —Parole matters

Division of Parole properly denied application to disclose 2 letters of recommendation contained in file of former inmate, who was prosecution witness in petitioner's murder trial; letters were exempt from disclosure as inter-agency materials under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(iii). Mingo v New York State Div. of Parole, 244 A.D.2d 781, 666 N.Y.S.2d 244, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12614 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Trial court erroneously ordered disclosure of a District Attorney's letter to the parole division, which outlined background information on an inmate who was requesting parole release and factors to be considered as part of their recommendations on whether to release the inmate, to said inmate, as such information did not constitute a statement of the crime victim or the victim's representative, as such was exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law contained in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g)(iii), thus, no basis existed to order that it be expunged from the inmate's institutional file. Grigger v N.Y. State Div. of Parole, 11 A.D.3d 850, 783 N.Y.S.2d 689, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12724 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004), app. denied, 4 N.Y.3d 704, 792 N.Y.S.2d 1, 825 N.E.2d 133, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 95 (N.Y. 2005).

167. —Real estate matters

Certain "significant/insignificant" notations, denominating whether particular real estate transfer should be deemed "significant" or "insignificant" by assessor, contained in real estate transfer data provided to State Board of Equalization and Assessment by New York City, did not fall within purview of statistical or factual tabulations or data, but rather were opinions exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g) since words "significant" and "insignificant" do not denote facts but simply report tentative opinions of city assessors resulting from their review of real estate transfer tax returns, and opinions were not transformed into statistical data when communicated to state board; moreover, notations were not instructions to staff of state board that affect public inasmuch as they were simply convenience for state board and their use was within discretion of each appraiser. David v Lewisohn, 142 A.D.2d 305, 535 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13234 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 610, 546 N.Y.S.2d 554, 545 N.E.2d 868, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2804 (N.Y. 1989).

Respondent was not required to disclose draft appraisal report of real estate parcels respondent acquired under Eminent Domain Procedure Law, which respondent used to determine amount at which it would settle claims regarding parcels, since report was never adopted by agency as final agency policy or determination; however, given sparse description of document, in camera inspection would be held to determine whether any part of it was nonexempt. Greco v Supp, 171 Misc. 2d 425, 654 N.Y.S.2d 560, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 20 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

168. —Schools, teachers and the like

Sexually-explicit film and filmstrips from college-level course taught in public college and provided by college did not constitute "deliberative material" (communications exchanged for discussion purposes not constituting final policy decisions) that would be exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law as "inter-agency materials," despite college's characterization of classroom environment as one of "deliberation," where materials had been used in course for years. Russo v Nassau County Community College, 81 N.Y.2d 690, 603 N.Y.S.2d 294, 623 N.E.2d 15, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3264 (N.Y. 1993).

Court properly concluded that documents sought by petitioner in connection with his failure to achieve rank of professor at Queens College, consisting of recommendations of various committees concerning promotional candidates, were exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(i), since such recommendations were purely advisory in nature and rendered only to aid actual decision-maker, Board of Trustees, in reaching determination on particular candidate. Under Freedom of Information Law, CLS Pub O § 87, school records consisting of opinions, advice, valuations, deliberations, proposals, policy formulations, conclusions, or recommendations are exempt from disclosure so as to protect deliberative process of government by ensuring that persons in advisory role are able to express their opinions freely to agency decision-makers. Rothenberg v City Univ. of N.Y., 191 A.D.2d 195, 594 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2065 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 81 N.Y.2d 710, 600 N.Y.S.2d 197, 616 N.E.2d 854, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1773 (N.Y. 1993).

In proceeding by teacher who sought disclosure pursuant to Freedom of Information Law of various documents related to his termination, court properly found that CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g) precluded disclosure of chancellor's committee reports, CLS Educ § 3020-a reports, and "unsatisfactory" lesson observation reports in possession of school district, since all such material was inter-agency materials which were not statistical or factual tabulations or data, instructions to staff that affected public, or final agency policy or determinations. Elentuck v Green, 202 A.D.2d 425, 608 N.Y.S.2d 701, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1956 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 84 N.Y.2d 809, 621 N.Y.S.2d 519, 645 N.E.2d 1219, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4222 (N.Y. 1994).

Request by animal rights advocates under Freedom of Information Law seeking access to applications submitted to but not approved by university review committee responsible for authorizing use of animals in experiments would not be denied on ground that disapproved applications do not fall within category of agency records under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g); disclosure of such documents would be no more injurious to consultative functions of government than disclosure of approved applications. American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals v Board of Trustees of State University, 147 Misc. 2d 847, 556 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

169. Statistical or factual tabulations or data (§ 87(2)(g)(i)), generally

Intra-agency documents that contain "statistical or factual tabulations or data" are subject to Freedom of Information Law disclosure, whether or not embodied in final agency policy or determination. "Factual data," as used in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(i), means objective information in contrast to opinions, ideas, or advice exchanged as part of consultative or deliberative process of government decision making. Gould v New York City Police Dep't, 89 N.Y.2d 267, 653 N.Y.S.2d 54, 675 N.E.2d 808, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. 1996).

The Freedom of Information Law exempts as "intra-agency materials" only opinions and recommendations not "statistical or factual tabulations or data" and the mere fact that some of the data might be an estimate or recommendation does not convert it into a expression of opinion. Ingram v Axelrod, 90 A.D.2d 568, 456 N.Y.S.2d 146, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18634 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Agency was not required by Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) to comply with applicant's request for statistical information where data necessary to compile statistical information was included in data in agency's computer, and agency did not ordinarily compile or maintain particular statistical information requested; agency would not be required to compile statistical information from written documents or records, and FOIL does not differentiate between records maintained in written form and records maintained in form of computerized tapes or discs. Guerrier v Hernandez-Cuebas, 165 A.D.2d 218, 566 N.Y.S.2d 406, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1564 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 853, 573 N.Y.S.2d 466, 577 N.E.2d 1058, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 896 (N.Y. 1991).

Records of state agencies containing statistical or factual tabulations had to be disclosed under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g)(i), but before disclosure, the portions of those documents containing material exempt from disclosure had to be redacted. Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

Correspondence among or between agencies may be characterized as intra-agency materials and such materials may be withheld where they consist of advice, recommendation or suggestion; however, portions of such materials consisting of statistical or factual information, instructions to staff that affect public or final agency policy or determinations must be made available. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2649.

170. —Financial data, generally

Records reflective of the manner in which a renovation project is funded, as well as the wage and hours labor standards applicable to the project, would constitute statistical or factual information available under the Freedom of information Law. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1791.

Records that exist that indicate amounts paid by town to engineering firm must be made available, because none of grounds of denial could appropriately be asserted. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL AO-4690.

171. —Telephone numbers

Disclosure of certain agency records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 6-c, was proper because the information contained in the records constituted factual data not exempt from disclosure; however, disclosure of two telephone numbers contained therein would have constituted an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and were redacted. Matter of Humane Socy. of United States v Brennan, 53 A.D.3d 909, 861 N.Y.S.2d 234, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6156 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 11 N.Y.3d 711, 872 N.Y.S.2d 73, 900 N.E.2d 556, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3449 (N.Y. 2008).

172. Instructions to staff (§ 87(2)(g)(ii)), generally

State agencies' records of instructions to staff that affected the public had to be disclosed under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g)(ii), but the portions of those documents containing material exempt from disclosure had to be redacted before disclosure. Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

173. —Police

Although New York State Police manual can be characterized as "intra-agency" materials, its contents may be reflective of instructions to staff that affect the public and are therefore available under Freedom of Information Law § 87(2)(g)(ii). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2749.

174. Final agency policy or determination (§ 87(2)(g)(iii)), generally

A memorandum prepared by a public agency for internal use addressing a position it might take in pending or prospective collective bargaining negotiations to which it is a party is not a "final agency policy or determination" by the agency, access to which is obtainable under the Freedom of Information Law, Pub O § 87(2)(g), as an exception to the provision exempting intra-agency materials. Kheel v Ravitch, 62 N.Y.2d 1, 475 N.Y.S.2d 814, 464 N.E.2d 118, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4212 (N.Y. 1984).

Agency's properly withheld documents fell within the N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(g)(iii) exemption for predecisional, nonfinal discussion and recommendations by employees within and among agencies to assist decision makers in formulating a policy or determination. Matter of Stein v New York State Dept. of Transp., 25 A.D.3d 846, 807 N.Y.S.2d 208, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

175. —Finances, generally

A decision to approve a loan, loan guaranty or grant would be reflective of a "final determination" available under § 87(2)(g)(iii). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1791.

176. —Police matters

New York State Police Manual can be characterized as "intra-agency" materials; however, its contents may be reflective of policy of Division of State Police and therefore available under Freedom of Information Law § 87(2)(g)(iii). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2749.

177. Examination questions and answers (§ 87(2)(h)), generally

Public Officers Law § 87(2)(h) permits agencies to withhold questions and answers regarding examination administered by Department of Civil Service if questions are to be administered at some time in future. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2548.

178. Computer access codes (§ 87(2)(i))

Because an agency's software enabled it to manipulate data and was more than just a delivery system or data warehouse, it was a "record," as defined by N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 86(4); therefore, because the agency failed to articulate a legitimate concern covered by the exemption in N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(i), the software was subject to disclosure. Matter of TJS of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Dept. of Taxation & Fin., 89 A.D.3d 239, 932 N.Y.S.2d 243, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7602 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

F. Judicial Review

The fact that the records were not in the possession of either the village or its volunteer fire department does not warrant dismissal of the proceeding where the records were to be returned to the village, since temporary possession in another does not necessarily oust a permanent possessor of the control which would make it subject to the responsibilities imposed by the Freedom of Information Law, and Special Term was fully justified in granting a right of inspection upon their retransfer to the village's custody. Westchester Rockland Newspapers, Inc. v Kimball, 50 N.Y.2d 575, 430 N.Y.S.2d 574, 408 N.E.2d 904, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2453 (N.Y. 1980).

In a proceeding to review a refusal by the state police to permit a newspaper reporter to have access to records reflecting the identity of persons arrested for speeding in a certain county, the Deputy Superintendent of State Police, as appellant, would be permitted to raise for the first time on appeal contentions, under CPL § 160.50, that such records should be sealed, where the rights of third parties are implicated, and an order granting the petition to the extent of permitting inspection of copies of traffic tickets issued and lists of violation of the Vehicle and Traffic Law compiled by the state police from a specified date would be modified to exempt from the records permitted to be examined any records sealed pursuant to CPL § 160.50. Johnson Newspaper Corp. v Stainkamp, 61 N.Y.2d 958, 475 N.Y.S.2d 272, 463 N.E.2d 613, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4187 (N.Y. 1984).

A motion by certain landlords, who were the subjects of an Attorney General's investigation concerning alleged fraudulent or illegal activity in violation of applicable rent stabilization laws, for an order directing the Attorney General to surrender certain information pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law (Pub O, Art 6) would be denied, since the Attorney General had complied in part with the landlords' request for disclosure and had denied others of their requests, so that if the landlords were dissatisfied the proper course would be to pursue the administrative remedies provided by Pub O §§ 89(4)(a), 89(4)(b). Wiener v Abrams, 119 Misc. 2d 970, 464 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3629 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Bank (petitioner), which was target of hostile takeover by second bank, failed to exhaust its administrative remedies and thus could not maintain proceeding seeking access to all confidential information submitted to State Banking Board by "hostile" bank in its takeover offer, since banking board had previously denied petitioner's request for information and petitioner failed to appeal that determination to Superintendent of Banks within 7 days as required by CLS Pub O § 89; in view of fact that any extension of time for petitioner to appeal denial of its request would be act directly prejudicing or weakening position of takeover bank, superintendent could not unilaterally extend time set forth in statute. Irving Bank Corp. v Considine, 138 Misc. 2d 849, 525 N.Y.S.2d 770, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 105 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

180. Article 78 proceedings, generally

In Article 78 proceeding to compel district attorney to produce certain documents under Freedom of Information Law, district attorney could not be heard to complain that petitioner had failed to exhaust his administrative remedies where district attorney had failed to advise petitioner of availability of administrative appeal within district attorney's office, and failed to demonstrate in Article 78 proceeding that procedures for such appeal had, in fact, been established. Barrett v Morgenthau, 74 N.Y.2d 907, 549 N.Y.S.2d 649, 548 N.E.2d 1300, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 3180 (N.Y. 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding to compel Nassau County District Attorney to disclose all documents in his possession relating to petitioner's arrest in Ulster County, which culminated in judgment of conviction in Ulster County Court, Nassau County Supreme Court properly dismissed proceeding without hearing where assistant district attorney of Nassau County submitted affirmation demonstrating that his office had searched for and was not in possession of any such information, and petitioner failed to articulate any factual basis for his claim to contrary. Ahlers v Dillon, 143 A.D.2d 225, 532 N.Y.S.2d 22, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8737 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding to compel police department to produce certain information pertaining to petitioner's arrest, where department had answered petitioner's Freedom of Information Law request with its own request for additional pedigree information needed to process request, petitioner claimed that he sent pedigree information in letter which department claimed it never received, and petitioner failed to exhaust his administrative remedies by appealing pursuant to CLS Pub O § 89(4)(a). Sanders v Bratton, 258 A.D.2d 422, 685 N.Y.S.2d 722, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1847 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Article 78 proceeding to review denial of Freedom of Information Law request was properly dismissed as time-barred where request duplicated earlier request, and thus constituted belated attempt to seek judicial review of denial of first request. Mendez v New York City Police Dep't, 260 A.D.2d 262, 688 N.Y.S.2d 538, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4184 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Article 78 petition to compel production of documents under Freedom of Information Law request was properly dismissed for failure to exhaust administrative remedies where petitioner's administrative appeal respecting requested records alleged to have been improperly withheld had not yet been determined. Tellier v New York City Police Dep't, 267 A.D.2d 9, 698 N.Y.S.2d 490, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12392 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Convict's failure to take timely administrative appeal from police department's failure to turn over ballistics reports in response to his Freedom of Information Law request would not justify dismissal of his Article 78 proceeding for failure to exhaust administrative remedies where he had already waited longer than time department had set, and he commenced proceeding before he had received department's belated and incomplete response. Coleman v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 282 A.D.2d 390, 723 N.Y.S.2d 494, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4146 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

In personal injury action, plaintiff who was wrongfully denied access to defendant city's records under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) was not entitled to order directing disclosure under CLS CPLR § 3124, since there was no outstanding Article 31 discovery demand against city, but court would convert plaintiff's motion to Article 78 proceeding (pursuant to CLS CPLR § 103), which was plaintiff's proper remedy inasmuch as city regulations did not provide administrative remedy for citizen denied FOIL request. Fusco v Albany, 134 Misc. 2d 98, 509 N.Y.S.2d 763, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3064 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Community Board of Borough of Manhattan had standing to maintain Article 78 proceeding to obtain disclosure from New York City Department of City Planning pursuant to Freedom of Information Law, notwithstanding contention that boards only existed pursuant to New York City Charter provision which enumerated activities which could be pursued by boards but which conferred no powers on them, since (1) if members of board had brought petition in their individual capacities, they would have had standing, and (2) board only sought limited relief and did not seek to overturn decision or recommendation of Department of City Planning. Community Bd. 7 v Schaffer, 150 Misc. 2d 770, 570 N.Y.S.2d 769, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 265 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1991), aff'd, 183 A.D.2d 422, 585 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6621 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

In Article 78 proceeding to review denial of petitioner's Freedom of Information law requests for physician identifier information contained in Statewide Planning and Research Cooperative System, issues related to privacy interests of physicians could not be used by court to justify agency's determination, where Department of Health had denied petitioner's requests solely on basis of privacy interests of patients, without comment on need to protect privacy of physicians. New York Times Co. v New York State Dep't of Health, 173 Misc. 2d 310, 660 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 243 A.D.2d 157, 674 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Respondent was not precluded from raising, for first time in Article 78 proceeding, additional ground for denying petitioner's request under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL); rationale behind rule limiting court's review to ground invoked by agency does not apply to FOIL review, which has its own substantive law and does not fit into traditional writs. Harvey v Hynes, 174 Misc. 2d 174, 665 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

181. Attorney fees

Court properly denied petitioners' request for counsel fees under CLS Pub O § 89(4)(c), even though petitioners substantially prevailed in their Freedom of Information Law request for survey maps of their respective parcels and county respondent lacked reasonable basis in law for withholding surveys, since surveys, which were obtained in connection with proposed flood control project, were not of clearly significant interest to general public, despite fact that 6 other individuals and national environmental organization sought access to same surveys. Grace v Chenango County, 256 A.D.2d 890, 681 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13583 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding by landowners against town board members, even if members lacked reasonable basis to withhold worksheets used in completing tax assessment roll, court did not abuse its discretion in denying landowners' request for counsel fees under CLS Pub O § 89(4)(c) where worksheets were small part of landowners' total Freedom of Information Law requests, with which members otherwise fully complied. Todd v Craig, 266 A.D.2d 626, 697 N.Y.S.2d 722, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11242 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 760, 706 N.Y.S.2d 80, 727 N.E.2d 577, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 121 (N.Y. 2000).

Some records that state agencies withheld from a citizen were not interagency and intraagency documents that were exempt from disclosure under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2). But as the agencies had a rational basis for believing the exemption applied, the citizen's request for counsel fees under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 89(4)(c)(i) was properly denied. Miller v New York State DOT, 58 A.D.3d 981, 871 N.Y.S.2d 489, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 12 N.Y.3d 712, 882 N.Y.S.2d 397, 909 N.E.2d 1235, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 1786 (N.Y. 2009).

Attorney's fees would not be granted in the courts discretion for litigation under the Freedom of Information Law where, after the commencement of the proceeding but before the affected agency answered, the desired records were disclosed by the agency at the request of a third party who was the subject of the records, in that it was evident that the agency acted in an apparent good-faith effort to protect the confidences of the third party, and there did not appear to be the type of vigorous defense or the specter of ultimate loss on the merits after intermediate appeal, which had been present in cases cited by the petitioner. William J. Kline & Sons, Inc. v Fallows, 124 Misc. 2d 701, 478 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3316 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

In Article 78 proceeding wherein court found that Department of Health lacked reasonable basis to deny Freedom of Information law requests for physician identifier information contained in Statewide Planning and Research Cooperative System (SPARCS), award of attorney's fees was not warranted although petitioner substantially prevailed and SPARCS records appear to be matters of significant interest to general public, as department's argument related to scope of "identifying details" subject to personal privacy protection, while overly broad, was not wholly lacking in merit. New York Times Co. v New York State Dep't of Health, 173 Misc. 2d 310, 660 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 248 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 243 A.D.2d 157, 674 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

182. Burden of proof

Agency or other party opposing Freedom of Information Law disclosure of personnel records, on ground that disclosure is specifically exempted under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a) by reason of CLS Civ R § 50-a, must demonstrate "substantial and realistic potential of the requested material for the abusive use against the officer or firefighter." Daily Gazette Co. v City of Schenectady, 93 N.Y.2d 145, 688 N.Y.S.2d 472, 710 N.E.2d 1072, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 1999).

Special Term properly granted petitioner access to certain materials requested under the Freedom of Information Law, where respondent municipality failed to meet its burden of proof that the materials were exempt under Pub O § 87(2)(a) in that the sole proof submitted concerning the purported exemption from discovery consisted of conclusory allegations of counsel for the municipality and there was no indication in the record that any of the parties requested the trial court to conduct an in-camera inspection. Niagara Environmental Action v Niagara Falls, 100 A.D.2d 742, 473 N.Y.S.2d 653, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17749 (N.Y. Individual did not have to show the denial of the individual's Freedom of Information Law request was "arbitrary and capricious," "an abuse of discretion," "irrational," or "unlawful" because (1) the standard was whether an error of law affected the denial, and (2) officials had to show an exemption under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87[2]. Matter of Thomas v Condon, 128 A.D.3d 528, 9 N.Y.S.3d 257, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4163 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015).

Appellate court would not consider employees' alternative grounds for denying disclosure of proposed interrogation questions because merely attaching the privilege log to the records appeal officer's affidavit, without any corresponding reference to the cited exemptions or any explanation as to the manner in which exemptions applied to the documents at issue, did not satisfy the employees' burden to articulate "a particularized and specific justification for denying access. Matter of Aurigemma v New York State Dept. of Taxation & Fin., 128 A.D.3d 1235, 9 N.Y.S.3d 711, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4300 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015).

The Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6) requires every public agency to provide access to all records, with certain exceptions; the burden is placed upon an agency resisting disclosure to prove that the material sought comes within the statutory exemptions. Herald Co. v School Dist., 104 Misc. 2d 1041, 430 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2446 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1980).

183. Default judgment

In proceeding to review New York City Law Department's lack of response to petitioner's Freedom of Information Law requests, court should have granted Department's motion to vacate default judgment entered against it after its request for further adjournment was denied since there was existing departmental backlog of unprocessed information requests, and Department's position that it had absolute defense as to much of material sought was correct when its application for adjournment was made. Murray v Matusiak, 247 A.D.2d 303, 669 N.Y.S.2d 278, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1587 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

State college must release copy of its proposal to offer master's degree program that was submitted to board of regents since proposal is reflective of final determination made by agency and, therefore, available under § 87(2)(g)(iii) of Freedom of Information Law. 184. In camera inspection

It was well within the discretion of the Appellate Division to order Special Term to conduct an in camera hearing to excise privacy impinging references to needy individuals in village records inasmuch as though the Freedom of Information Law specifies no procedures for implementing its guarantees, decisional law has repeatedly acknowledged the efficacy of this technique in appropriate circumstances, and there is no abuse of discretion as a matter of law in withholding the prerogative of deletion from the village where it had its opportunity to do so before the commencement of the litigation, but refused. Westchester Rockland Newspapers, Inc. v Kimball, 50 N.Y.2d 575, 430 N.Y.S.2d 574, 408 N.E.2d 904, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2453 (N.Y. 1980).

In a CPLR Art 78 proceeding to compel a public hospital corporation to comply with a request under the Freedom of Information Law, Pub O, Art 6, in which it was claimed that certain items of the request were exempt from production under Pub O § 87(2), which protects inter-agency or intra-agency materials, where the public hospital corporation did not demonstrate as a matter of law that all of the records requested were in fact inter-agency or intra-agency materials or, even if so, that they were not statistical or factual tabulations, or instructions to staff that affect the public, or final agency policy or determination, an in camera inspection was required. M. Farbman & Sons, Inc. v New York City Health & Hospitals Corp., 62 N.Y.2d 75, 476 N.Y.S.2d 69, 464 N.E.2d 437, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4244 (N.Y. 1984).

In an action by the developer of a proposed suburban shopping center wherein it is alleged that various actions by the respondent municipality constituted a deliberate effort to ruin the project, an in camera inspection of documents maintained as records by the municipality relating to the proposed center which the municipality claimed were exempt from disclosure (Public Officers Law, § 87, subd 2, par [g]) was proper since the parties had unequal knowledge of the documents sought and the municipality failed to give sufficiently detailed information with respect to the material allegedly exempt to permit the trial court to decide the issue. Miracle Mile Associates v Yudelson, 68 A.D.2d 176, 417 N.Y.S.2d 142, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10536 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 48 N.Y.2d 606 (N.Y. 1979).

In article 78 proceeding to compel disclosure, failure of superintendent of correctional facility and Supreme Court to disclose underlying facts contained in agency records, so as to establish that they did in fact fall within ambit of statutory exemptions of CLS Pub O § 87, did not constitute error since such disclosure would effectively subvert purpose of statutory exemptions to preserve confidentiality of information. Nalo v Sullivan, 125 A.D.2d 311, 509 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62573 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 612, 517 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 511 N.E.2d 86, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16883 (N.Y. 1987).

In Article 78 proceeding, court should not have directed Department of Motor Vehicles to grant petitioner's request under Freedom of Information Law for disclosure of investigative report prepared by Inspector-General in response to petitioner's allegations that department employees had engaged in corrupt conduct in awarding contract to supply department with automobile emission analyzers, although department's opposition (which consisted of general denials and conclusory allegation that materials sought were exempt from disclosure) failed to particularize that report fell within any statutory exemption; court should have granted in camera inspection. Allen Group, Inc. v New York State Dep't of Motor Vehicles, 147 A.D.2d 856, 538 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1968 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding for release of documents under Freedom of Information Law, inmate was entitled to have court conduct in camera inspection of records pertaining to his transfers from one correctional facility to another, notwithstanding contention that records were exempt predecisional evaluations and recommendations, where there were no detailed affidavits or other exhibits to show type of information generally contained in allegedly exempt material. Grune v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 166 A.D.2d 834, 562 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

On review of a respondent's denial of petitioners' Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) requests, the lower court erred in conducting an in camera inspection of the withheld documents and determining in the first instance that the documents were statutorily protected from disclosure; because the record demonstrated that additional documents responsive to petitioners' FOIL requests existed and were not yet produced or examined by respondent's FOIL Appeals Officer, the case was remitted to the lower court to direct respondent to respond to petitioners' FOIL requests by reviewing the additional subject documents and to determine in the first instance whether they were statutorily exempted from disclosure Matter of Union Carbide Corp. v New York State Dept. of Envtl. Conservation, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7648 (December 10, 2020).

In Article 78 proceeding by newspaper reporter who sought description of legal services provided to county by outside law firm in connection with environmental lawsuit, court would conduct in camera review to determine whether descriptive material contained in billing records was protected under Freedom of Information Law, where county failed to articulate particularized and specific justification for refusing requested disclosure. Orange County Publs. v County of Orange, 168 Misc. 2d 346, 637 N.Y.S.2d 596, 1995 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 617 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1995).

185. Jurisdiction

Supreme Court had jurisdiction to consider newspaper's application for order compelling social service agency to disclose certain records regarding agency actions in child abuse case, notwithstanding newspaper's failure either to make formal application to agency itself for ruling pursuant to CLS Pub O § 89(3) and (4)(a) or to appeal agency's first decision to deny disclosure, since, based on agency's public statements that disclosure would not be granted, such administrative procedure would be futile. New York News, Inc. v Grinker, 142 Misc. 2d 325, 537 N.Y.S.2d 770, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 47 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Federal court lacked subject matter jurisdiction to decide whether officer violated Freedom of Information Law. Schuloff v Fields, 950 F. Supp. 66, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 339 (E.D.N.Y. 1997), aff'd, 159 F.3d 1348, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 20187 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998).

An appeal to the Commissioner of Education is not the proper jurisdictional forum for addressing claims relating to violations of the Freedom of Information Law. The appropriate jurisdictional forum for challenging alleged violations of the Freedom of Information Law is the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and not in an appeal before the Commissioner of Education. Appeal Alexandreena D, 1990 Op Comr Educ No 12433.

Appropriate jurisdictional forum for addressing alleged Freedom of Information Law violations is Supreme Court of State of New York, not appeal to Commissioner of Education under CLS Educ § 310. 1996 Op Comm Ed No. 13719.

186. Mootness

Article 78 proceeding seeking to compel police department to comply with Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request for "serial numbers" or "lot numbers" of photographs introduced into evidence at petitioner's criminal trial was dismissed as academic, where petitioner conceded that he received "most" requested documents by means of another contemporaneous FOIL request to district attorney's office. Fappiano v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 95 N.Y.2d 738, 724 N.Y.S.2d 685, 747 N.E.2d 1286, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 573 (N.Y. 2001).

Article 78 petition to compel police department to respond to inmate's Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) request for documents relating to his conviction was properly dismissed as moot, where counsel to police department submitted affirmation averring that department conducted diligent search for documents it could not locate, and that all responsive documents had been disclosed, thereby satisfying FOIL certification requirement. Rattley v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 96 N.Y.2d 873, 730 N.Y.S.2d 768, 756 N.E.2d 56, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1868 (N.Y. 2001).

The issues raised by a prisoner seeking review of the deletion on security grounds of information relating to the location in the correctional facility of the documents sought under the Freedom of Information Law were moot where the prisoner was granted permission to examine and copy the lists under staff supervision; the deleted material was properly excluded on the ground that its revelation would jeopardize prison security. Fournier v Fish, 83 A.D.2d 979, 442 N.Y.S.2d 823, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15443 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

Appeal from judgment denying petition to compel respondent to disclose certain documents under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O § 84 et seq.) was academic where respondent turned over documents demanded, and sufficiency of that production was determined in subsequent proceeding by judgment from which no appeal was taken. Majid v Brown, 218 A.D.2d 802, 631 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8957 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In Article 78 proceeding to compel Division of Parole to comply with petitioner's request under Freedom of Information Law for copy of his parole file, appeal was moot where petitioner was subsequently provided with copy of his file with certain items redacted; challenge to propriety of redactions was separate issue which must be pursued before respondent and, if not satisfactorily resolved, made subject of separate Article 78 proceeding. Di Rose v New York State Div. of Parole, 222 A.D.2d 900, 635 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13314 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Proceeding to compel compliance with petitioner's Freedom of Information Law request was moot where respondent had complied with request by providing petitioner with certain documents. Almodovar v Altschuller, 232 A.D.2d 700, 647 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10023 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Petitioner's request to compel town to produce certain records which supported tentative real property assessment was moot where there was no evidence that assessor's initial response lacked any documents to which petitioner was entitled, and petitioner's subsequent requests related to tentative assessment that was admittedly based on clerical error, which error had been corrected. Corvetti v Town of Lake Pleasant, 239 A.D.2d 841, 657 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5564 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Although labor union's proceeding to compel Department of Transportation (DOT) to disclose copy of lease it had negotiated was rendered moot by DOT's production of lease at commencement of proceeding, exception to mootness doctrine applied where DOT conceded that it had "longstanding practice" of delaying disclosure in similar circumstances, DOT was in position to almost invariably render such proceedings moot, and issue presented was novel. Laborers' Int'l Union of N. Amer., Local Union No. 17 v New York State DOT, 280 A.D.2d 66, 719 N.Y.S.2d 354, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 480 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

A petition seeking disclosure pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law (Pub O § 84 et seq.) of certain records of a local industrial development agency would be dismissed as moot where, after the proceeding was commenced but before the agency filed its answer, the desired records were made available to petitioners by the agency at the request of the corporation which was the subject of the records, in that there was no liklihood of repetition between the instant parties or among other members of the public as once petitioners had access to the records there would be no further request for them, and the initial denial to produce the records was based on specific grounds which would not necessarily exist every time a freedom of information request was made. William J. Kline & Sons, Inc. v Fallows, 124 Misc. 2d 701, 478 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3316 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

Application under Freedom of Information Law was moot insofar as petitioner sought disclosure of photographs taken by police of 78 members of antiabortion organization who were arrested at demonstration where (1) judge had sealed records of those 78 members and ordered return of photographs to them, and (2) photographs were not marked into evidence and were not made part of public trial record. Planned Parenthood of Westchester, Inc. v Town Bd. of Greenburgh, 154 Misc. 2d 971, 587 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 346 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

187. Necessary parties

Supreme court erred in dismissing a journalist's action seeking an order directing the New York State Police to turn over records he requested regarding an alleged hit-and-run committed by an off-duty State trooper because the State trooper was a necessary party to the proceeding as he could be adversely or inequitably affected by a judgment, N.Y. C.P.L.R. 1001(a); the State trooper was a defendant in a pending wrongful death civil lawsuit arising from the alleged hit-and-run incident. Matter of Hearst Corp. v New York State Police, 109 A.D.3d 32, 966 N.Y.S.2d 557, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3838 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

A tenured teacher who is the respondent in a disciplinary hearing must be made a party to a CPLR article 78 proceeding commenced by a newspaper to annul the school district's determination denying disclosure of the teacher's name and the charges against her, since the teacher "might be inequitably affected by a judgment in the action" (CPLR 1001, subd [a]) and is therefore a necessary party to the proceeding, since she is entitled to protect herself from an "unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" pursuant to section 87 (subd 2, par [b]) of the Public Officers Law, and since the school district may not present the teacher's interests with the same adversary vigor as might the teacher herself; however, the teacher may not be included by name as a party respondent since this would reveal her identity.

188. Res judicata

Where a doctor under investigation by the State Board of Professional Medical Conduct sought, in an Article 78 proceeding, access to certain medical records, patient interviews, and interviews with other doctors obtained by the board commissioner during the investigation, the doctor's request for the information made under the 1977 version of the Freedom of Information Law (Pub O §§ 84–90) was separate and independent from his earlier request made when the 1974 version of the statute was in effect, in that §§ 87(2) and 89(4) of the 1977 Act materially changed the parties' rights by giving the board discretion to provide access to sensitive information rather than excluding it entirely and by placing on the board the burden of proving the propriety of denying access to information. Consequently, under the transactional analysis approach to res judicata, the parties were not bound by the determination made on the doctor's first request. John P. v Whalen, 54 N.Y.2d 89, 444 N.Y.S.2d 598, 429 N.E.2d 117, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3071 (N.Y. 1981).

Although records in question were held not exempt from disclosure in prior litigation, city is not precluded from asserting in instant case that certain notations contained in such records are exempt as interagency expressions of opinion within the deliberative process of fixing assessments, where city did not become a party to prior litigation until case was on appeal, and issue of exemption of notations had not been raised before trial court. New York v New York State Bd. of Equalization & Assessment, 65 N.Y.2d 656, 491 N.Y.S.2d 610, 481 N.E.2d 242, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14769 (N.Y. 1985).

Doctrine of res judicata barred Article 78 proceeding to review determination denying petitioner access to records requested under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) where same records were subject of petitioner's prior FOIL requests, and Supreme Court's first disposition denying such requests involved same parties and was not appealed by petitioner. Ferrara v Superintendent, N.Y. State Police, 235 A.D.2d 874, 652 N.Y.S.2d 432, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 525 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 829, 660 N.Y.S.2d 551, 683 N.E.2d 16, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1557 (N.Y. 1997).

189. Standing

NYC Finance Department, as governmental agency, cannot act on behalf of taxpayers to raise and assert freedom of information law, and therefore lacks standing for such an action. Michael v Communications Workers of America, 130 Misc. 2d 424, 495 N.Y.S.2d 569, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3213 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

II. Application To Particular Documents

190. Accidents, generally

In personal injury action, plaintiff was entitled to resort to Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) to obtain city records regarding any written notice of defective sidewalk received prior to her fall while walking on it, even though note of issue and statement of readiness were already filed, since FOIL's mandate of open disclosure requires that government agency's public records be as available to litigation adversary as to any other member of public. Fusco v Albany, 134 Misc. 2d 98, 509 N.Y.S.2d 763, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3064 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

In action against nursing home owner and its construction contractor on behalf of resident who died in fall through construction hole, plaintiff was entitled to use plan of correction that defendants allegedly submitted in response to statement of deficiencies issued by Department of Health (DOH) where (1) plaintiff obtained such information through Freedom of Information Law demand made to DOH, (2) plan, although discussed at meeting between members of home's quality assurance committee and contractor's representatives, was not exempt from disclosure under CLS Educ § 6527(3), and (3) neither CLS Pub Health § 2805-l nor CLS Pub Health § 2805-m(2) applies to nursing facilities. Hale v Odd Fellow & Rebekah Health Care Facility, 188 Misc. 2d 498, 728 N.Y.S.2d 649, 2001 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 220 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2001).

191. —Motor vehicle accidents

In a proceeding brought by a law firm to gain access to all accident reports in the possession of a city police department, the trial court properly granted such access where, while the law firm had not demonstrated that it had the requisite interest to warrant inspection under Pub O § 66-a, it was entitled to access under the Freedom Of Information Law; however, the police department would be directed to delete the names and addresses of the victims from the accident reports it made available to the law firm so as to protect the privacy of the accident victims. Scott, Sardano & Pomeranz v Records Access Officer, 104 A.D.2d 733, 480 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20168 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1984), aff'd, 65 N.Y.2d 294, 491 N.Y.S.2d 289, 480 N.E.2d 1071, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15078 (N.Y. 1985).

The victim of a collision with a bus will be allowed access to records of an investigation and findings relating to the accident, and held in the custody of the Commissioner of Transportation; petitioner is entitled to inspect the records under the Freedom of Information Law as the records are public and as the provision which bars notice of bus involvement in an accident from being used in an action growing out of the accident (Transportation Law, § 142, sub 8) does not specifically bar the records with respect to such an accident from being disclosed. McAuley v Commissioner of Dep't of Transp., 99 Misc. 2d 83, 415 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2211 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

While the language of section 117 of the Transportation Law exempts accident reports prepared by carriers from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, § 87, subd 2, par [a]), no such protection is provided for accident reports prepared by the Department of Transportation; however, because the agency's report may contain material from the carrier's report, the court will inspect both the agency's and carrier's reports in camera. Bloomberg v Hennessy, 99 Misc. 2d 958, 417 N.Y.S.2d 593, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2368 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

192. Animals; animal control, generally

Records pertaining to sources through which animals were acquired for laboratory experiments, maintained by State University of New York Health Science Center at Brooklyn pursuant to Federal Animal Welfare Act, fell within definition of records that were presumptively discoverable under Freedom of Information Law. Citizens for Alternatives to Animal Labs v Board of Trustees of the State Univ. of N.Y., 169 Misc. 2d 210, 643 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 172 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996), rev'd, 240 A.D.2d 490, 658 N.Y.S.2d 653, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6098 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

While an applicant requesting a copy of a complaint resulting in a visit from an animal warden may not be denied access under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(e), since a complaint submitted by a member of the public cannot be characterized as a record "compiled for law enforcement purposes", and since such record was not held by a criminal law enforcement agency, access to the information could be properly denied under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b) as "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy". Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1819.

Although the names of persons who adopt dogs after they have been held in city dog pounds for the statutory waiting period are not protected under any confidentiality standard, they may be withheld because disclosure could result in unnecessary or unwarranted intrusions, harassment or personal hardship. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2796.

In most instances, names, addresses and phone numbers of people complaining about dogs may be withheld from disclosure by Dog Control Officer under Freedom of Information Law, on ground that disclosure would result in unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; what is relevant to work of agency is substance of complaint, and inasmuch as identity of complainant is irrelevant, such identifying details may be deleted. Comm on Open Gov't F7976.

193. —Animal research

In Article 78 proceeding, respondent research facility of State University of New York, which conducted biomedical research using dogs and cats, was properly directed to disclose under Freedom of Information Law (CLS Pub O Art 6) records kept pursuant to Federal Animal Welfare Act (7 USCS §§ 2131 to 2159) absent any claim of specific statutory exemption. Citizens for Alternatives to Animal Labs, Inc. v Board of Trustees of the State Univ. of N.Y., 92 N.Y.2d 357, 681 N.Y.S.2d 205, 703 N.E.2d 1218, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3220 (N.Y. 1998).

Request by animal rights advocates under Freedom of Information Law for list of all records kept by university review committee responsible for approving use of animals in experiments would be denied where such list was maintained not by committee but, as permitted under CLS Pub O § 87(3)(c), by university proper. However, request would not be denied on ground that disclosure would have chilling effect on university research, where information sought did not require detailed descriptions of projects for which approval was requested. American Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals v Board of Trustees of State University, 147 Misc. 2d 847, 556 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1990 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1990).

194. Athletics, games and the like

A petition by an ice hockey official to inspect individual rating sheets prepared by high school coaches and used by a hockey officials' association and by an office of interscholastic athletics to assign officials to high school ice hockey games would be denied where the rating sheets were interagency documents made to assist in a selective process, not in a statistical one, and were thus exempt from disclosure under Pub O § 87 (Freedom of Information Law), since a revelation of the ratings would disrupt the deliberative process of the agencies involved and be injurious to their consultative functions. The exemption was enacted to foster open and candid discussion among public officials and to protect uninhibited recommendations made within the family from being scrutinized by those affected and by the public; the rating process provides useful advisory opinions which would become meaningless or nonexistent if the cloak of confidentiality were removed with the result being a detrimental impact upon the public's interest and participation in high school functions. Shaw v Lerer, 112 Misc. 2d 260, 446 N.Y.S.2d 855, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3420 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

It is questionable whether agency's disclosure of boxing promotion contract will result in unwarranted invasion of privacy since boxing is regulated by state and persons involved in boxing are likely required to submit substantial amount of information to state athletic commission for their protection as well as protection of public. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2524.

195. Consumer affairs

The substance of a complaint filed with the county against a vendor is available to an inquiring consumer provided that any identifying details regarding a complaint which may constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy be withheld pursuant to Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b); and third parties may have access to stenographic transcripts of hearings concerning the revocation by the county of a license of a person or firm engaged in commercial activity but identifying detail constituting an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy must be deleted pursuant to Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b). Third parties may have access to stenographic transcripts of hearings concerning the revocation by the county of a license of a person or firm engaged in commercial activity but inter-agency or intra-agency material that are not statistical or factual tabulations or data must be deleted as required by § 87(2)(g). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1828.

196. Financial matters, generally

Monthly financial statement requested by a town board member from the town supervisor must be made available since, although the records may be characterized as "intra-agency", such records consist solely of factual information available under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g)(i). Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1870.

197. —Audits and budgets, generally

The major portions of forms used by field auditors in an audit of a town were "factual tabulations or data" referred to in Pub O § 87(2)(g)(i) and as such were not exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act. However, spaces for "remarks" and "explanations" indicated some non-final intra-agency matters exempt from disclosure might have been present. Thus, in an action requesting access to all field auditors' work papers relating to the examination, the court should have directed that any specific material identified as exempt be submitted for an in camera inspection. Pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law, petitioners, residents of the Town of Oyster Bay, are entitled to access and inspection of field auditor's reports and work papers which are not specifically exempted under § 87, subd. 2, produced in connection with a State audit of the town. Polansky v Regan, 81 A.D.2d 102, 440 N.Y.S.2d 356, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10495 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

A memorandum by the Budget Director of Oneida County to the Interim County Executive regarding the projected condition of the county general fund at the end of the year, which is not a statistical or factual tabulation within the meaning of the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6), the Oneida County Freedom of Information Regulations, article 12 of the County Law, or 9 NYCRR 145.1 (a) (2), but rather contains opinions, policy options or recommendations, is not subject to public inspection. Bartlett v Nassar, 100 Misc. 2d 904, 420 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2574 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Access may be had to budget documents prepared for discussion at an annual session of a county legislature unless such documents are intra-agency or inter-agency materials which are not available under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g); in any event, while intra-agency and inter-agency materials may be withheld, portions of such materials consisting of statistical or factual data, instructions to staff that affect the public, or final agency policy or determination must be made available. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1765.

Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2567.

199. —Bank records

Bank records pertaining to issuance of industrial revenue bonds by city industrial development corporation (CIDC) were not records of agency within meaning of CLS Pub O § 86(4), for when bonds were issued, CIDC assigned all of its rights in bonds to bank, and bank acted as trustee for bondholders and not for CIDC. 200. —Bids for public contracts

Court properly directed Department of Transportation (DOT) to release, under Freedom of Information Law, documents submitted by successful bidder in response to request for proposals (RFP) inviting contract bids for development and operation of high-speed ferry service, where requested documents did not include any intra-agency confidential information that would assist in DOT's contract negotiations, and petitioner specifically stated that it was not seeking any evaluative material or internal analyses that could reveal DOT's "thinking"; even if release of actual proposals prior to DOT's selecting successful bidder would have undermined negotiating process, successful bidder's RFP response was not competitively sensitive once contract was awarded. 201. Grant programs

In an action under the Freedom of Information Law to compel disclosure of certain records of the New York State Council on the Arts relative to grants made by the Council, disclosure would not be ordered as to records which were not final opinions, which did not set forth the reasons for the Council's decisions, and the disclosure of which would impinge on the Council's predecisional processes. Other records, however, which represented final agency determinations would, with the deletion of certain comments, be required to be furnished. Empire State Development Corporation (ESDC) approved a farm's application for a grant to construct manure treatment plants. Under N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87 of the New York Freedom of Information Law, ESDC had to disclose to a humane society portions of a finance memorandum and a cost-benefit analysis that contained purely factual data regarding the farm's financial and operating history, but ESDC's opinions and projections as to economic issues, which were exempt intra-agency materials, could be redacted from those documents. Matter of Humane Socy. of U.S. v Empire State Dev. Corp., 53 A.D.3d 1013, 863 N.Y.S.2d 107, 240 N.Y.L.J. 28, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6332 (N.Y. 202. —New York City financial matters

Taxicab medallion owners were not entitled to preliminary injunction barring enforcement of financial disclosure requirements set forth in regulation promulgated by New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission where commission stipulated that it would not release private financial information (including addresses and telephone numbers of filers) contained in forms at issue and would notify filers of any request under Freedom of Information Law for information in such forms. Statharos v New York City Taxi & Limousine Comm'n, 198 F.3d 317, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 32213 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999).

Although public administrators in New York City fall within the scope of the definition of "judiciary" in Public Officers Law § 86(1) in view of their capacity to issue subpoenas as authorized by SCPA § 1114 and are therefore outside of the scope of the Freedom of Information Law, many of the records of public administrators are likely to be available under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b)(i) since SCPA § 1109 requires each public administrator to file a monthly statement of accounts with the mayor and comptroller of the New York City and since the mayor and comptroller represent agencies that fall within the scope of the Freedom of Information Law. 208. Guns; gun permits

Trial court properly granted a newspaper owner's petition to compel the production of the names and addresses of all pistol permit holders in a county pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law and the Secure Ammunition and Firearms Enforcement Act because, while the court did not consider whether any of the statutory exemptions applied, the county did not demonstrate the applicability of the asserted exemptions or that disclosure would be offensive and objectionable to a reasonable person of ordinary sensibilities, and the owner had standing to challenge the county's refusal to disclose where the request was made by a reporter in his professional capacity as an employee of the owner's newspaper. Matter of Gannett Satellite Info. Network v County of Putnam, 142 A.D.3d 1012, 37 N.Y.S.3d 299, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5890 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

Since Public Officers Law § 89(5) preserves rights of access to records granted by other provisions of the law or judicial determination and Penal Law § 400.00(5) specifically makes application for licenses to carry handguns and firearms a public record, denial of a request for approved licenses for handguns is improper; such records may not be withheld on the basis of Public Officers Law § 87(2)(e)(i) since it is questionable whether an approved application could be characterized as a record compiled for law enforcement purposes and since the application was for only approved licenses such disclosure would not interfere with any law enforcement investigation; furthermore, the records could not be denied under § 87(2)(g) as the request was for statistical or factual information. 209. Insurance

Minutes of insurance company meetings that are given by the companies to the NYS Insurance Department for its examination constitute "records within the meaning of the FOIL. Even though Liquidation Bureau of State Insurance Department and Superintendent of Insurance, as liquidator of insolvent insurance company, were not subject to Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), documents filed by insolvent insurance company with State Insurance Department were subject to disclosure under FOIL since superintendent would have received those documents in normal course of his duties as regulator of insurance industry; claim that documents were confidential under CLS Ins § 1504 was irrelevant in view of defunct status of company. License applications filed by various entities with State Insurance Department were "records" kept by Superintendent of Insurance in his regulatory capacity subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law. 210. Labor matters; employees, generally

In an Article 78 proceeding, the trial court properly denied an application to compel a state employees' retirement system to produce all documents referring, reflecting or relating to a retirement applicant's deadline for changing a retirement option, where the system's method of record keeping was a reasonable one, and where the system was not required to prepare records not then in existence for the convenience of an applicant. Wattenmaker v New York State Employees' Retirement System, 95 A.D.2d 910, 464 N.Y.S.2d 52, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18882 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 60 N.Y.2d 555, 1983 N.Y. In Article 78 proceeding, petitioner's request for statement of specific reasons for his disqualification as candidate for position of state trooper was properly denied since (1) he had already been provided with document stating that he failed to meet requirements for position, and (2) in-camera inspection disclosed no record in file which contained specific statement of reasons for his disqualification, and respondent Division of State Police was under no obligation to create such record. O'Shaughnessy v New York State Div. of State Police, 202 A.D.2d 508, 609 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2584 (N.Y. 211. —Attendance and leave records

A person claiming an exception to disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law has the burden of proving entitlement to the exception (Pub O § 89(5)(e)); hence, in an Article 78 proceeding to review the denial of access to certain records of a county police department pertaining to the absences of a certain detective, the usual standard of review in Article 78 proceeding that the agency's determination will not be set aside unless arbitrary, capricious or without rational basis was not applicable, and detective bore the burden of proving entitlement to any exception. Disclosure to petitioners, a newspaper and a reporter, of the dates the detective was absent from scheduled employment would not constitute an unwarranted invasion of privacy in that the public had a right to know facts concerning public employees on whom its tax dollars are spent. Further, although the information sought did not constitute a personnel record within the meaning of Civ Rights Law § 50-a, which exempts such records from disclosure as to police officers, the legislative intent in enacting that statute was for the narrow purpose of preventing time-consuming and vexatious investigation into irrelevant collateral matters in a civil or criminal action, not to create a blanket exemption from disclosure of personnel records of police officers, and thus the exemption was inapplicable. Disclosure to petitioners, a newspaper and a reporter, of the dates a county police detective was absent from scheduled employment would not constitute an unwarranted invasion of privacy in that the public has a right to know facts concerning public employees on whom its tax dollars are spent. Capital Newspapers Div. of Hearst Corp. v Burns, 109 A.D.2d 92, 490 N.Y.S.2d 651, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56643 (N.Y. Payroll records of municipal housing authority were not exempted from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law by CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b) since (1) records regarding days worked, leave taken with or without pay and leave accrued were relevant to day-to-day operations of authority, and (2) authority failed to show how release of records would result in economic or personal hardship, as possibility that records could be used to discover other financial information was insufficient and claim that newspaper might use information to create embarrassing article was also insufficient. Buffalo News v Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority, 163 A.D.2d 830, 558 N.Y.S.2d 364 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990).

Access to an absence report used by a central school district may not be denied on the basis that disclosure would constitute "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b) since the absence report form indicates that it is relevant to the performance of a public employee's official duties in that it bears upon the manner in which a public employee performs those duties in view of the fact that a public employee can be absent with pay for only a certain number of days for illness or for vacation. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1766.

In a citizen investigation as to whether a municipal employee illegally applied for and was granted unauthorized days off in order to serve with his military reserve unit, records reflective of the days taken off by the employee are accessible under Public Officers Law since records that are relevant to the performance of the official duties of a public employee are accessible and absence records are clearly relevant to the performance of the official's official duties. 212. —Civil service matters

In a proceeding in which petitioner sought access to validity studies and job analyses prepared in connection with certain specified examinations, judgment would be affirmed where respondents acted properly under Pub O § 87 in refusing to disclose the requested material. Public Education Asso. v Board of Examiners of Bd. of Education, 93 A.D.2d 838, 461 N.Y.S.2d 60, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17689 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 60 N.Y.2d 612, 1983 N.Y. Documents prepared by county civil service department regarding petitioner's request for job reclassification were not exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Act even though they fell within exception to disclosure for "inter-agency or intra-agency materials" where, after redactions made by court, they consisted of factual data to which access should be provided pursuant to CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(i). In an Article 78 proceeding brought under the Freedom of Information Law to permit inspection and copying of examination questions in the Civil Service Examination, the "test release" policy adopted by the Department of Personnel pursuant to Freedom of Information Law § 87(2)(h) was not arbitrary or capricious in denying access to questions which the department intended to reuse and which therefore had not been "finally administered" and were exempt from disclosure under § 87(2)(h) and Educ Law § 340. Rainey v Levitt, 138 Misc. 2d 962, 525 N.Y.S.2d 551, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 196 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

213. —Collective bargaining

An application for access to a memorandum prepared by the Metropolitan Transit Authority documenting recent decisions with respect to the designated impartial arbitrator in disputes between various transit authorities and unions in the city that were unfavorable to management was properly denied, since a memorandum prepared by a public agency for internal use addressing a position it might take in pending or prospective collective bargaining negotiations to which it is a party is not a "final agency policy or determination" by the agency, access to which is obtainable under the Freedom of Information Law, Pub O § 87(2)(g), as an exception to the provision exempting intra-agency materials. Kheel v Ravitch, 62 N.Y.2d 1, 475 N.Y.S.2d 814, 464 N.E.2d 118, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4212 (N.Y. 1984).

Refusal of Department of Transportation to disclose lease it had negotiated could not be justified on basis that, pending approval by Attorney General and Comptroller, disclosure would impair contract awards or collective bargaining negotiations (CLS Pub O § 87(2)(c)), since terms of contract were not competitively sensitive, Comptroller's role was not to prevent competition, contractor's competitors were already aware of project, and petitioner had consented to redaction of contract price. Laborers' Int'l Union of N. Amer., Local Union No. 17 v New York State DOT, 280 A.D.2d 66, 719 N.Y.S.2d 354, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 480 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

A copy of a report paid for by a Board of Cooperative Educational Services and designed to assist participating school districts in their collective bargaining negotiations with public employee unions will not be furnished to the executive director of a union representing school administrators and supervisors since the report comes within the exceptions to the Freedom of Information Law for, if disclosed, the report "would impair . . . collective bargaining negotiations"; such disclosure would only serve an inequitable one-sided ploy rather than the furnishing of information intended by the statute. Trauernicht v Board of Cooperative Educational Services, 95 Misc. 2d 394, 407 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

214. —Disciplinary actions, misconduct and the like, generally

New York State's Freedom of Information Law (CLS Public Officers Law §§ 84 et seq.) entitles press to ascertain results of disciplinary action against public employee even though matter was concluded by settlement which municipality agreed would remain confidential. Geneva Printing Co. v Lyons (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Mar. 25, 1981).

215. — —Education employees

A newspaper publisher is not entitled to compel a school district to produce the name of and charges against a teacher charged with misconduct in a private disciplinary proceeding since subdivision 2 of section 3020-a of the Education Law, which provides that a disciplinary hearing may be instituted against a teacher only after the board of education makes a finding of probable cause in executive session, which is closed to the public (Public Officers Law, § 97, subd 3), and section 3020-a (subd 3, par c) of the Education Law, which provides a teacher with the option of a private or public hearing, together with 8 NYCRR 82.9, which provides that a disciplinary hearing shall be private except on the request of the accused teacher, indicate a clear intent to assure the privacy of the entire hearing procedure; disclosure of the teacher's name would completely subvert the statutory intent by creating a likelihood that the teacher's effectiveness and reputation would be severely damaged in advance of any finding of fault; such disclosure is exempted by section 3020-a of the Education Law by mandating privacy for the entire proceeding tantamount to an executive session, and therefore, the school district properly denied disclosure of the name and the charges against the teacher; and, an exemption from disclosure may be expressed in a rule or regulation and still be within the ambit of a specific exemption by statute (Public Officers Law, § 87, subd 2, par [a]); therefore, an advisory opinion of the Committee on Public Access to Records which states otherwise lacks the rational basis necessary to support disclosure. An agency may deny access to records that "are specifically exempted from disclosure by state or federal statute" (Public Officers Law, § 87, subd 2, par [a]); the exemption must be clearly delineated and the statute narrowly construed, but clear intent to mandate confidentiality of the proceedings or material is a sufficiently specific denial of disclosure. A newspaper publisher is not entitled to compel a school district to disclose the name of and charges against a teacher charged with misconduct in a disciplinary proceeding since that information is inter-agency or intra-agency material which is exempted from the operation of the Freedom of Information Law pursuant to section 87 (subd 2, par [g]) of the Public Officers Law since those records are not statistical or factual data, instructions to staff or final agency policy or determinations; the nature of the name and charges, which are part and parcel of an unproved allegation of misconduct, is nonfinal and further, any findings or recommendations of the hearing panel are not binding on the board of education or the commissioner; the name of and charges against the teacher constitute part of unproven predetermination materials exempt from disclosure. Herald Co. v School Dist., 104 Misc. 2d 1041, 430 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2446 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1980).

Negotiated settlement of teacher disciplinary proceeding brought under CLS Educ § 3020-a, in which some charges were sustained by teacher's express admission of guilt, was not exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law since CLS Educ § 3020-a did not provide for privacy of hearing, and negotiated settlement was not protected as employment record. Anonymous v Board of Educ., 162 Misc. 2d 300, 616 N.Y.S.2d 867, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 402 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

Results of disciplinary proceeding under CLS Educ § 3020-a were matter of public record and did not fall within "employment history" exception of CLS Pub O § 89, and thus dissemination of such information to media did not implicate teacher's liberty interest. DeMichele v Greenburgh Cent. Sch. Dist. No. 7, 167 F.3d 784, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 2344 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1999).

216. — —Housing employees

Where newspaper sought disciplinary records of municipal housing authority including each employee's name, address, job title, specific charges brought, disposition of charges, penalty imposed and level at which case was adjudicated, authority could not deny access under Freedom of Information Law on basis of CLS Pub O § 87(2)(b) since records were clearly relevant to work of authority, and therefore access was required. Buffalo News v Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority, 163 A.D.2d 830, 558 N.Y.S.2d 364 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990).

217. — —Police and related law enforcement employees

Local newspapers were not entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to comprehensive access to all records of disciplinary action taken against 18 polices officers (including their identities and individual punishments) arising from off-duty incident in which they pelted 2 civilians with raw eggs, given risk of use of such information to embarrass or humiliate officers involved. Daily Gazette Co. v City of Schenectady, 93 N.Y.2d 145, 688 N.Y.S.2d 472, 710 N.E.2d 1072, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 1999).

Petitioner, a member of the New York State Police who was removed as an investigator in the Bureau of Criminal Investigation and reassigned as a trooper in the uniform service because of violations of departmental regulations, is not entitled to inspect and copy records, reports and statements concerning the investigation of his conduct by the State Police, since disclosure of the records could result in an unwarranted invasion of the privacy of certain informants and would be prejudicial to law enforcement and governmental administration, and, accordingly, his petition to compel disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6) is denied. Petix v Connelie, 99 Misc. 2d 343, 416 N.Y.S.2d 167, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2257 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

Applicant may be properly denied access to record in possession of the Internal Affairs Section of the New York City Police Department of an investigation made with respect to the possibility of bribery of officers and the disciplinary action which may be brought, where Civil Rights Law § 50-a specifically exempts police officers' personnel record used to evaluate performance for continued employment or promotion from disclosure. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 1768.

City and its police department (city) failed to show that employment records requested by a retired police officer were exempt under the Freedom of Information Law because city did not establish that there was any criminal investigation, that criminal non-routine investigative techniques and procedures were employed, or that disclosure of the materials would "provide a step-by-step guide" to evade criminal detection; the retiree requested records that involved allegations of corruption. Matter of Gallogly v City of New York, 51 Misc. 3d 296, 21 N.Y.S.3d 867, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 18 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

City and its police department failed to show that employment records requested by a retired police officer were exempt under the Freedom of Information Law or the Civil Rights Law because the retiree only requested records related to himself and did not seek information related to any other police officer. Matter of Gallogly v City of New York, 51 Misc. 3d 296, 21 N.Y.S.3d 867, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 18 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

218. —Employment applications

Access to the contents of a personnel file pertaining to an applicant which included letters of recommendation in possession of a county community college may be denied under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g) since letters of recommendation may constitute inter-agency or intra-agency materials not required to be disclosed. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1764.

Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2701.

219. —Lists of employees' names, addresses, payroll information and the like, generally

A county is not obligated to disclose the home address of an employee when an attorney's office requests such address to serve legal papers since the home address had no relevance to the performance of the official duties of a public employee and therefore may be withheld on the ground that disclosure would constitute an "unwarranted invasion of personal privacy"; however, the county must furnish full personnel information when ordered to do so by a court. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1928.

Records of public employees consisting of social security numbers, number of dependents claimed, garnishees and union information can be withheld with justification for they are irrelevant to performance of employees' duties and, therefore, disclosure of such would constitute unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2486.

Salary of public employee is accessible by way of Freedom of Information Law even if particular public employee objects to disclosure of his or her salary. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2531.

220. — —Education employees

A school district is not required to release information regarding its employees' identification, social security and retirement numbers since such information has no bearing upon the manner in which the public employees perform their official duties and constitutes an "unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b) but information as to the name, position, gross pay, fiscal year gross pay and other information relevant to the manner in which employee and the school district perform their respective duty is accessible to the public since public employees have a lesser right of privacy than any other identifiable group since such employees are required to be more accountable for their activities. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad OP 1803.

Public Officers Law § 87(3)(b) requires that a school district maintain on an ongoing basis a record that indicates the names, public office addresses, titles and salaries of all its officers and employees in order to ensure this type of information will be compiled and made available to the public upon request; moreover, such information is relevant to the performance of public employees' official duty and therefore may not be denied on the basis of the privacy rights of public employees. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1866.

Records reflective of the current salary of the president of a community college, the salary of a professional negotiator under contract with the college and the final and official report of the Middle States Accreditation Team are available under Public Officers Law § 87 since the legislature has made specific reference to payroll information pertaining to public employees in § 87(3)(b) based upon the tacit finding that disclosure of such information would result in permissible rather than an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and since the accreditation report does not fall within any of the grounds for denial listed in § 87(2). Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1926.

Contract salary figures that appear on pay stubs for particular School District employees for designated pay periods may properly be withheld from disclosure under § 87(2)(b) of the Public Officers Law on the ground that disclosure would constitute an "unwarranted invasion of personal privacy". Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2328.

221. —Performance evaluations

Special Term properly decided that information requested by a newspaper publisher and some reporters concerning harassment and the use of force by police officers need not be disclosed, since the information constituted personnel records used to evaluate performance toward continued employment or promotion and fell within the exemption contained in Pub O § 87. Gannett Co. v James, 86 A.D.2d 744, 447 N.Y.S.2d 781, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15305 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 56 N.Y.2d 502, 435 N.E.2d 1099, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 5255 (N.Y. 1982).

A defendant charged with a speeding traffic violation is entitled to disclosure of certain personnel records of the arresting police officer relating to the officer's ability to use radar equipment and to visually estimate the speed of moving vehicles as an aid in cross-examination on the issue of credibility. The information sought by defendant in the officer's personnel records is properly discoverable under section 50-a of the Civil Rights Law, which provides a means to obtain all "personnel records, used to evaluate performance toward continued employment or promotion, under the control of any police agency or department", and is not exempted from public disclosure under any provisions of the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6). To protect against the unbridled disclosure of police personnel records, each determination of applications for disclosure must be made on an ad hoc basis with the court being the final arbiter as to whether the defendant has demonstrated the relevancy and materiality of the information in the personnel records to warrant disclosure. People v Gutterson, 93 Misc. 2d 1105, 403 N.Y.S.2d 998, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2182 (N.Y. J. Ct. 1978).

Any document which the Freedom of Information Law, now Pub O §§ 84 et seq., requires to be disclosed on the request of any member of the public is no longer protected by the common-law public interest privilege; however, police personnel records subject to Civ R § 50-a, which are used to evaluate performance toward continued employment or promotion, are exempt from Pub O § 89 and the common-law privilege remains applicable except as to certain material such as the employee's own statements. Wunsch v Rochester, 108 Misc. 2d 854, 438 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2303 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

Subject to disclosure under CLS Pub O § 89 is "memorandum of understanding" between public school superintendent and high school principal, which set forth superintendent's evaluation of principal's job performance and his expectations for future job performance, and which served as basis for superintendent's decision to recommend principal for tenure. Geneva Printing Co. v South Seneca Cent. School Dist. (N.Y. Sup. Ct. July 12, 1982).

222. —Personnel records, generally

Disclosure of the identity and ages of employees of the Office for the Aging constitutes an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and therefore deniable under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(b) since, although courts have held that records that are relevant to the performance of public employee's official duties are accessible for disclosure, courts would probably find that the portion of a record identifying a public employee and indicating his or her age may be deleted as having minimal relevance to the performance of that person's official duties. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1848.

Contents of a personnel file must be made available to the subject of such file unless the contents of the records are intra-agency materials that do not consist of factual or statistical information or the records identify other persons in such a way as to constitute an invasion of that person's privacy. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1927.

Denial of access to records indicating employee's employment status may be appropriate on ground that disclosure will result in unwarranted invasion of personal privacy where public employee's status as temporary, provisional, or permanent is irrelevant to manner in which employee performs his or her official duties. 223. — —Parole officers' personnel records

In actions against the State for false arrest and false imprisonment, based upon the alleged acts of a parole officer who was responsible for the arrests, his personnel records, except as to any matters specifically relating to ongoing criminal investigation, are subject to examination by the claimants, pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law which became effective January 1, 1978 (Public Officers Law, art 6, as added by L 1977, ch 933), and which permits access to all governmental records other than those specifically exempted. Also, those portions of his personnel records that concern complaints and incidents which may have occurred during his employment are not exempt from disclosure under the provision of the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6) which exempts, as an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, disclosure of employment, medical or credit histories or personal references of applicants for employment. Montes v State, 94 Misc. 2d 972, 406 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2329 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1978).

224. — —Prisoners' personnel records

Inmate grievances against state correction officers and administrative decisions relating thereto constitute "personnel records" under CLS Civ R § 50-a, and are thus exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, since they are relied on in evaluating officers' performance. Prisoners' Legal Services v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 73 N.Y.2d 26, 538 N.Y.S.2d 190, 535 N.E.2d 243, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 3359 (N.Y. 1988).

225. — —School personnel records

Not-for-profit corporation, whose primary purpose is to provide its members with services and information concerning pensions and other matters, is not entitled to access to names and addresses of all retirees of the New York City Police Department currently receiving pensions and annuities, in view of 1983 amendment to § 89 to the effect that disclosure of such information is not required. New York Veteran Police Ass'n v New York City Police Dep't Article I Pension Fund, 61 N.Y.2d 659, 472 N.Y.S.2d 85, 460 N.E.2d 226, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3613 (N.Y. 1983).

The Teachers' Retirement System of the City of New York was required [under former law] to disclose the names and addresses of retired New York City school teachers to a not-for-profit corporation which investigated legislation and other government action affecting the pension funds of the retirement system, since the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6), pursuant to which the request for the names and addresses was made, was enacted in recognition of the principle that government is the public's business and the public should have access to the records of government, and the most significant portion of the public affected by, and interested in, the workings of retirement system were the retirees; the names and addresses were not exempt from disclosure under section 87 (subd 2, par [b]) or section 89 (subd 2, par [b], cl iii) of the Public Officers Law, which deny access to information which would invade personal privacy and to information to be used for commercial or funding-raising purposes, inasmuch as a nonprofit organization cannot have as its purpose a design to reap a pecuniary profit or financial gain, and dues solicitation by the corporation is not a form of fund-raising within the meaning of the Freedom of Information Law because it is merely a device to achieve the primary and acceptable purpose of information distribution. Moreover, the retirement system failed to meet its burden of showing that the material sought was protected (Public Officers Law, § 89, subd 4, par [b]), since the argument that the corporation might sell the list of retirees' names and addresses to other organizations, not-for-profit or otherwise, was speculative and did not suffice to overcome the corporation's interest in obtaining the information. New York Teachers Pension Asso. v Teachers' Retirement System, 71 A.D.2d 250, 422 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13466 (N.Y. In a proceeding to compel the disclosure of correspondence between a town, its architects and its engineers in connection with the town's public improvement project, the trial court erred in finding that such correspondence was not intra-agency correspondence and in ordering disclosure, since, under the New York Freedom of Information Law, such correspondence was an intra-agency communication and was not subject to disclosure unless the correspondence was a statistical or factual tabulation of data, instructions to staff that might affect the public, or a final agency policy or determination. Sea Crest Constr. Corp. v Stubing, 82 A.D.2d 546, 442 N.Y.S.2d 130, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11388 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

Petitioner's request, under Freedom of Information Law, for inventory of all privately owned real property in certain area was properly denied, even though deletion from inventory of names and addresses of property owners ordinarily would be sufficient remedy, where release of inventory's map numbers would still allow petitioner to identify names and addresses of listed property owners, and it was reasonable to infer that petitioner was seeking inventory for commercial purposes. 229. —Appraisals; appraisers

In a proceeding seeking access to certain records of an urban renewal agency consisting of reports by an independent appraiser on the potential use and value of certain buildings which the agency owned and planned to offer for sale to the public, the Appellate Division correctly determined that the appraiser's reports fell within the provision of the Freedom of Information Law excepting from disclosure to the public those materials which "if disclosed would impair present or imminent contract awards." Murray v Troy Urban Renewal Agency, Inc., 56 N.Y.2d 888, 453 N.Y.S.2d 400, 438 N.E.2d 1115, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3500 (N.Y. 1982).

Where the Department of Transportation acquired property for a highway project but later abandoned the project and offered the former owner the opportunity to repurchase the property, the date the State abandoned the project was the decisive date for determining whether the State was required to offer the property at the amount of its fair market value (EDPL § 406(A)) or on terms beneficial to the State (High Law § 30(18)); if the project had been abandoned after July 1, 1978, which was the effective date of EDPL § 406(A), the former owner was entitled to repurchase the property at its fair market value. The former owner was not entitled to disclosure of the appraisal reports and related data relied on by the State, since these constituted intra-agency materials rendered for the State's use and access thereto was properly denied under Pub O § 87(2)(g).124 Ferry Street Realty Corp. v Hennessy, 82 A.D.2d 981, 440 N.Y.S.2d 419, 1981 N.Y. Public Officers Law § 87(2)(a) may not be used to deny access to a report compiled by the state Department of Labor concerning the inspection of certain town library buildings where the applicable provisions of the Labor Law relied on to deny disclosure (Labor Law § 2(12)) does not in any way pertain to the access of the public to records. 231. —Eminent domain

Respondent had to disclose amount of settlements reached for real estate parcels acquired under Eminent Domain Procedure Law, even though some owners had not reached settlement; negotiations to settle ongoing litigation do not fall within exemption for matters which would impair present or imminent contract awards (CLS Pub O § 87(2)(c)). 232. —Housing

Housing authority board of commissioners' use of secret ballot for voting purposes in executive session violated Freedom of Information Law and Open Meetings Law, but did not warrant annulment of board's decision to discharge employee, and thus employee's Article 78 proceeding was properly dismissed; claim that board would have voted differently had they done so in open session was of no consequence since board clearly had authority to determine employment issue at executive session, under CLS Pub O § 105. Community Board 7 of Borough of Manhattan had standing under Freedom of Information Law to compel New York City Planning Board to produce certain documents requested to enable community board to review and make recommendations as to proposed land use, since assessment of proposed project founded on incomplete information would prevent community board from effectively representing those who lived or worked in project area; since there was no clear legislative intent to negate review of planning board's denial of access, motion to dismiss community board's Article 78 petition was properly denied. Even if Internal Affairs Bureau file can be said to constitute personnel record under CLS Civ R § 50-a, it is still subject to court's in camera review for purpose of ascertaining whether it contains discoverable information. Showing was sufficient to warrant court's in camera review of Internal Affairs Bureau file in wrongful death action asserting failure of defendants to properly enforce order of protection against husband who allegedly killed his wife where wife's administrator presented 911 tapes, interviews with Internal Affairs officer and depositions demonstrating materiality and relevancy of materials sought. Requested Freedom of Information Law disclosure of Criminal Records Information Management System (CRIMS) data base maintained by Office of Court Administration (OCA) to commercial venture selling electronic records, which planned to resell CRIMS data base for profit over Internet at per transaction prices substantially below those charged by OCA, would contravene clear legislative intent of CLS St Fin § 94-b that OCA will sell electronically kept court data and collect proceeds to defray costs of data processing function. Withholding of information relating to "911 tape" which apparently led to applicant's arrest cannot be justified under Freedom of Information Law § 87(2)(e) since effects of tape recording pertaining to applicant's arrest will not result in harmful effects of disclosure envisioned by language of § 87(2)(e) where trial has already been held and judicial proceedings have been completed. 236. — —Attorney work product

In action against nursing home owner and its construction contractor on behalf of resident who died in fall through construction hole, defendants failed to prove that copies of consultant's memoranda, which defendants identified as plan of correction, were privileged where (1) it was unclear whether those materials were copies of documents that plaintiff obtained from Department of Health (DOH) through Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), (2) there was no explanation as to why DOH would release information specifically exempted from FOIL disclosure by CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a), and (3) although defendants claimed that plan was prepared by consultant retained by their attorney to assist in defense of anticipated enforcement proceedings, it was unclear whether defendants had waived right to claim litigation privilege by discussing plan with representatives of defendant contractor. 237. — —District Attorney's office

Portions of the office manual of the Deputy Attorney-General and Special Prosecutor for Nursing Homes that reveal confidential methods used for investigating nursing home fraud are exempt from disclosure pursuant to section 87 (subd 2, par [e], cl iv) of the Public Officers Law, which provides that an agency may deny access to records that reveal criminal investigative techniques or procedures, except routine techniques and procedures, one of the criteria for determining whether investigative techniques are non-routine being whether disclosure of those procedures would give rise to a substantial likelihood that violators could evade detection by deliberately tailoring their conduct in anticipation of avenues of inquiry to be pursued by agency personnel; to permit disclosure of these confidential methods which have led to numerous successful prosecutions would have a dramatic impact on law enforcement investigations by alerting prospective defendants to the course those inquiries would be likely to take. Fink v Lefkowitz, 47 N.Y.2d 567, 419 N.Y.S.2d 467, 393 N.E.2d 463, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2168 (N.Y. 1979).

Records of a district attorney's office would not be exempt from discovery by the State Commission on Judicial Conduct under Pub O § 87(2), since Jud § 42(3) provides that the Commission may request and receive from any agency of the state or political subdivision thereof or any public authority such assistance, information and data as will enable it properly to carry out its function. Disclosure by district attorney of names of persons involved in previously disposed of criminal case will not result in unwarranted invasion of personal privacy since such individuals have already been identified by any number of means including judicial proceedings and records and through statements which police officers may have provided in performance of their official duties; thus, disclosure of such information cannot be justifiably withheld. Comm Pub Acc Rec FOIL-Ad Op 2644.

238. —Criminal investigations, generally

A criminal prosecution is a particular kind of enforcement proceeding where disclosure of particular kinds of investigatory records while a case is pending would generally "interfere with enforcement proceedings." This does not mean that every document in a law enforcement agency's criminal case file is automatically exempt from disclosure simply because kept there; the agency must identify the generic kinds of documents for which the exemption is claimed, and the generic risks posed by disclosure of these categories of documents. Lesher v Hynes, 19 N.Y.3d 57, 945 N.Y.S.2d 214, 968 N.E.2d 451, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 621 (N.Y. 2012).

N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87(2)(e)(i) ceases to apply after enforcement investigations and any ensuing judicial proceedings have run their course. Thus, the exemption does not bar disclosure of records compiled for law enforcement purposes in a criminal matter where the prosecution has been completed, absent some unusual circumstance such as the prospect that disclosure might compromise a related case. Lesher v Hynes, 19 N.Y.3d 57, 945 N.Y.S.2d 214, 968 N.E.2d 451, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 621 (N.Y. 2012).

Petitioner, whose proposal to construct and operate an amusement park has not been acted upon, allegedly as the result of a character investigation of petitioner conducted by the New York City Department of Investigation, is entitled to inspect a document in the department's possession containing his own testimony; however, the report of the Organized Crime Control Bureau in connection with the character investigation of petitioner, although not requested in a criminal investigation, is nonetheless exempt from disclosure as an investigatory report compiled for law enforcement purposes (Public Officers Law, § 87, subd 2, par [e]) since the report contains numerous criminal activities of alleged organized crime figures useful in the work of the police and would, if disclosed, reveal "confidential information relating to a criminal investigation", critically impede police investigation of organized crime and possibly result in harm to innocent individuals. Glantz v Lupkin, 100 Misc. 2d 453, 419 N.Y.S.2d 34, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2483 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

A motion by certain landlords, who were the subjects of an Attorney General's investigation concerning alleged fraudulent or illegal activity by the landlords in violation of applicable rent stabilization laws, for an order directing the Attorney General to surrender certain information pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law (Pub O, Art 6) would be denied, since the Attorney General had complied in part with the landlords' request for disclosure and had denied others of their requests, so that if the landlords were dissatisfied the proper course would be to pursue the administrative remedies provided by Pub O §§ 89(4)(a), 89(4)(b). Wiener v Abrams, 119 Misc. 2d 970, 464 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3629 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Pub O § 87(2)(e)(i), (iii) does not automatically prevent disclosure of records pertaining to investigation of decedent's death to decedent's parents in connection with efforts to prevent decedent's husband from obtaining letters of administration since FOIL exemptions do not create evidentiary privilege of their own force and petitioner should not, therefore, be deprived of opportunity to demonstrate that their interest outweighs common law "public interest" privilege in confidentiality; decedent's parents are not entitled to disclosure of records pertaining to investigation of decedent's death at this time since government's interest in preserving confidentiality of investigation into possible homicide in which decedent's husband has not been excluded as suspect far outweighs petitioners' interest in securing information in support of their application for letters of administration relative to the estate of their deceased daughter. Appellants' contentions that settlement must be rejected because its provisions limiting access to New York City police department's intelligence files violate New York's FOIL, is without merit, since District Court correctly noted that New York statute deals with access to, rather than preservation of, public documents, and such limitation of public access as District Court approved is temporary, maximum of one year, and seems essence of reasonable compromise of parties' wishes. 347 affidavits compiled during the Westchester District Attorney's investigation of the Ossining Fire Department 50/50 Lottery are accessible under Public Officers Law § 87 since, although the affidavits were obtained in connection with a criminal investigation, such investigation is closed and no criminal charges resulted from it and therefore the harmful effects of disclosure envisioned by § 87(2)(e) would not arise and since CPL § 240.20 does not mandate denial of access since that section concerns information that may be disclosed by a prosecutor to a defendant in the context of an ongoing criminal proceeding and does not apply to a request unrelated to a criminal trial where the person requesting the information is not the defendant. Criminal defendant was not entitled to Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) disclosure of arrest records and documents relating to investigation of his case and documents of related cases involving his accomplices, as requested materials were compiled for law enforcement purposes, FOIL disclosure would interfere with orderly process of disclosure under CLS CPL art 240, and FOIL disclosure would create substantial likelihood of delay in adjudication of criminal proceeding. 241. — —Criminal histories

Witness' criminal convictions and any pending criminal action against him were not protected from disclosure under invasion of privacy exception to Freedom of Information Law, since they were matters of public record, and all governmental agency records are presumptively available for public inspection without consideration of status, need, good faith or purpose. Thompson v Weinstein, 150 A.D.2d 782, 542 N.Y.S.2d 33, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7232 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Although criminal history records or "rap sheets" compiled by Division of Criminal Justice Services are exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), CLS CPL § 240.45(1) requires disclosure to defendant of statements, criminal convictions, and pending criminal charges pertaining to witnesses whom prosecutor intends to call at trial; FOIL exempts such material from disclosure if witness does not testify, but once such material is handed over by prosecutor and witness testifies, it is no longer exempt. In convicted murderer's Article 78 proceeding under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) to compel district attorney to disclose criminal history records of prosecution witnesses who testified at his trial, those records were not exempt from disclosure by reason of invasion of privacy exceptions to FOIL where request was narrowed on appeal by agreement that records be redacted of personal information. Petitioner could not obtain such information under FOIL if he or his attorney obtained it from prosecutor in prior proceeding, unless he and his attorney no longer possessed that information. District Attorney had burden of proving that copies of requested records were previously furnished to petitioner or his attorney. If copies of requested records were previously furnished to petitioner or his attorney in prior proceeding, but petitioner and his attorney no longer possessed them, other copies had to be furnished unless district attorney no longer possessed them and thus could not comply. Williams v Erie County DA, 255 A.D.2d 863, 682 N.Y.S.2d 316, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12053 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

In proceeding under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) to compel records access officer of district attorney's office to produce certain records related to indictment underlying petitioner's conviction of certain crimes, there was no merit in officer's claim that anti-contact rule in CLS Code of Prof Respons DR 7-104 prohibited her from directly communicating with petitioner and thus from responding to his FOIL request, because petitioner was represented by attorney in pending appeal from his conviction, his request concerned subject of that representation, and his attorney had refused to waive anticontact rule, where (1) standing of one who seeks access to records under FOIL is as member of the public and is neither enhanced nor restricted because he is also litigant or potential litigant, (2) thus, petitioner's status as criminal defendant under prosecution by officer's office was not legitimate concern for officer, and (3) although criminal prosecution and FOIL request may involve same "subjects," they are clearly different "matters" under anti-contact rule. Mims v Chichester, 281 A.D.2d 256, 722 N.Y.S.2d 30, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

242. — —Fingerprints

In proceeding under Freedom of Information Law to compel production of fingerprint tests related to fabrication of fingerprint evidence in petitioner's criminal case, special prosecutor failed to establish that requested information was exempt from disclosure because it related to continuing criminal investigation of allegations against state police officers, and would reveal non-routine criminal investigative techniques, since (1) process of locating and identifying fabricated fingerprints apparently constitutes routine methodology, and (2) mere assertion that special prosecutor's investigation was continuing, without particularity, did not justify exemption. Muniz v Roth, 163 Misc. 2d 293, 620 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1994 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 559 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1994).

On FOIL application to compel police department's disclosure of records pertaining to investigation of harassing telephone calls made to applicant at her home and at her office at United Nations, interviews of persons recorded who had no connection with applicant's harassment complaint implicated personal privacy concerns and were not subject to disclosure. FOIL applicant was entitled to disclosure of videotape of alleged perpetrator making telephone calls and written records of investigation conducted by United Nations but turned over to New York law enforcement authorities in connection with latter's investigation where such information was not exempt under federal law in present circumstances involving neither search of United Nations premises nor interference with United Nations property or assets. Letters and reports describing investigation should be provided in redacted form, with deletion of any information regarding placement of telephone "traps" and surveillance cameras, because deleted information did not describe "routine" criminal investigation techniques or procedures under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(e)(iv), and any information that was "internal government exchange" would be protected by inter/intra agency exemption in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). Burtis v New York Police Dep't, 240 A.D.2d 259, 659 N.Y.S.2d 875, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6568 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Police were ordered to produce 911 call recordings and other materials related to a woman's death in estates' civil case against a doctor because the records were material and necessary and the police failed to show disclosure would affect personal safety, or any expectation of confidentiality, under the statutory exemptions. 247. — —Warrants; "use of force" records

Police department's "Use of Force" forms, while not personnel records, were nonetheless exempt from disclosure as intra-agency materials which were not statistical or factual tabulations or data, instructions to staff that affect the public or final agency policy or determinations. Gannett Co. v James, 86 A.D.2d 744, 447 N.Y.S.2d 781, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15305 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 56 N.Y.2d 502, 435 N.E.2d 1099, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 5255 (N.Y. 1982).

Newspaper was properly denied disclosure, under Freedom of Information Law, of police reports regarding firearms discharge. Newsday, Inc. v New York City Police Dep't, 133 A.D.2d 4, 518 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49560 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

In tort action against city arising from shooting of plaintiff by city police officer, court should not have directed city to produce for in camera inspection Police Department Internal Affairs Division records relating to previous incidents involving officer, since such records constituted predecisional intra-agency materials subject to CLS Civ R § 50-a(2) and CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g), and plaintiff failed to set forth any facts from which court could conclude that intrusion into their confidentiality was warranted where shooting was not alleged to be unprovoked and plaintiff offered only conclusory allegations of negligent training and supervision. Court properly directed city to turn over Civilian Complaint Review Board (CCRB) records concerning 3 prior incidents involving officer, and properly permitted plaintiff to conduct deposition on certain events that occurred earlier than incident in which plaintiff was shot, since prior incidents were relevant to issue of notice regarding officer's need for training in appropriate use of force. Records concerning a conviction of a prisoner are available to the prisoner where the records apparently pertain to a closed case; information pertaining to the search warrant involved and any surveillance activity by police, although not available under the Freedom of Information Law since such information would be in possession of a court, is available under Judiciary Law § 255 upon the prisoner's request to the clerk of the appropriate court. While denial of access to files of a district attorney giving the names of members of surveillance team employed in New York and in Pontiac, Michigan on basis of Public Officer Law § 87(2)(e) is improper, since it appeared the criminal investigation to which the requested records relate had been completed, access to the records in question may properly be denied under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(f) since the disclosure of such information would "endanger the life or safety of a particular person". 248. — —Witness matters Complaint follow-up reports (commonly referred to as DD5's) are not categorically exempt from disclosure as intra-agency material under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g), since they contain such factual data as names, addresses, and physical descriptions of crime victims, witnesses and perpetrators, certain checklists, police officers' notes of "details," and factual accounts of witnesses' observations (regardless of whether such observations are reliable or not); however, any impressions, recommendations, or opinions recorded in complaint follow-up report would not constitute factual data and would be exempt from disclosure. Gould v New York City Police Dep't, 89 N.Y.2d 267, 653 N.Y.S.2d 54, 675 N.E.2d 808, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3575 (N.Y. 1996).

Substance of District Attorney's investigators' interviews with 36 witnesses, under a promise of confidentiality, is not subject to disclosure, notwithstanding that no criminal charges were filed as a result of the investigation, and notwithstanding that the names and addresses of the witnesses have been provided. Court properly dismissed proceeding to compel agency to disclose, under Freedom of Information Law, records and physical evidence compiled during criminal investigation culminating in petitioner's conviction, since physical evidence requested, such as tools and items of clothing, did not fall within definition of "record" under CLS Pub O § 86, and requests involving names, addresses, and statements of confidential witnesses, grand jury testimony, and reports which would reveal non-routine criminal investigative techniques for processing homicide scene were all exempt from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87. It was abuse of discretion for police commissioner to deny inmate's request under Freedom of Information Law based on possibility that information sought was exempt from disclosure on personal privacy grounds, on confidential information grounds, and on intra-agency grounds, where inmate sought copy of statements given to police officers involving certain arrestees because he believed that arrangement had been made between one or more of them which resulted in testimony against him; thus, inmate's Article 78 petition would be granted to extent of directing police commissioner to review requested records and either release them to inmate or specify, with particularity, reasons for refusing to do so. Even assuming the applicability of the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, § 84 et seq.), the public interest functions of the Mayor's Committee on the Judiciary, which makes recommendations to the Mayor concerning judicial appointments, and the necessity for confidentiality bar petitioner from access to the records of the committee regarding the committee's withdrawal of approval of him as a prospective judicial appointee; the interest of an individual in gaining access to confidential information must give way to the overriding public interest in assuring that only the most qualified candidates are appointed to judicial office. 252. —Police matters, generally

Petitioner was entitled to vacatur of police commissioner's denial of his request for records under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) where (1) records sought were reasonably described so that search could be made, but commissioner's denial implied that records could not be located, (2) records were not directly addressed by commissioner, and (3) applicable FOIL exemptions were not identified by commissioner; commissioner failed to establish that requested material fell within ambit of statutory exemptions. Cromwell v Ward, 183 A.D.2d 459, 584 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6812 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

City police department was entitled to dismissal of Freedom of Information Law application challenging denial of petitioner's request for documents pertaining to results of investigations of her complaints to department's Internal Affairs Bureau (IAB) where (1) petitioner failed to articulate demonstrable factual basis for believing that requested documents existed, after records access officer had certified that petitioner's complaints did not generate investigation and that diligent and thorough search had located no such documents, and (2) although petitioner's complaints were logged in by IAB and then forwarded to proper precinct, one complaint was against civilian and was deemed civil rather than criminal, and the other claimed only police officer's refusal to take complaint against civilian. 253. — —Arrest records

Petition in Article 78 proceeding to compel production, under New York State Freedom of Information Law (FOIL), of police records concerning release of persons arrested in riot was properly dismissed where (1) police chief's failure to perform ministerial act of filing certificate of disposition under CLS CPL § 160.50(3)(j) did not negate legislative intent, in enacting CLS CPL § 160.50, that records of persons arrested and never prosecuted be sealed, (2) thus, records sought were exempt from FOIL disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a), and (3) requested information might also be exempt from public disclosure as "unwarranted invasion of personal liberty" under CLS Pub O § 89(2)(a). Defendants' request for disclosure and inspection of statistical data relating to the arrest and prosecution of persons for prostitution-related offenses, for the purpose of establishing their claim that the law under which they are charged (Penal Law, art 230) is unconstitutionally enforced by the District Attorney and city police, who allegedly routinely enforce section 230.00 of the Penal Law against female prostitutes while they do not enforce section 230.03 against their male patrons, is denied since it does not fit under the categories of discoverable material described in CPL 240.20 and 240.40, is not discoverable on the authority of Brady v Maryland (373 US 83), as it does not address the guilt or innocence of the defendants, and, moreover, the claim of discriminatory enforcement should not be treated as a defense to the criminal charge, but as an application to the court for a dismissal or quashing of the prosecution upon constitutional grounds; however, if defendants should seek and obtain the data under the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6, §§ 85-90), the court will allow them to renew their motions for an evidentiary hearing and for dismissal of the accusatory instruments, if they should then decide that such motions would be appropriate. Employee who was discharged from position as railroad policeman, but reinstated following determination that he had been wrongfully discharged was entitled to discovery of information and documents in possession of superintendent of state police upon which superintendent determined not to reinstate employee's certificate of appointment and designation, which was necessary for employee's complete reinstatement, since there has been no showing of any factual basis on which to determine whether objectives of protecting confidentiality of investigative sources and encouraging perspective witnesses to come forward in future would be impeded by disclosure of items requested. Since a police department may, under the Freedom of Information Law, promulgate rules denying access to intra-agency records which are not final agency policy or determinations (Public Officers Law, § 87) and since the Civilian Complaint Review Board only hears and recommends action upon civilian complaints against members of the police department to the Police Commissioner and does not make final determinations in the matters which come before it (New York City Charter, § 440), the New York City Police Department has the power to exempt records of proceedings before the board from disclosure. Freedom of Information Law § 87(2)(e) may not be justifiably cited to withhold transcript of police calls made on particular dates to 32nd precinct in Manhattan since records were likely compiled in ordinary course of business rather than for law enforcement purposes. Court erred in ordering disclosure of records relating to past deployments, policies, procedures, training materials, aggregate cost and total number of mobile X-ray unit vans that the New York Police Department "NYPD" used to combat terrorism because the materials were exempt from disclosure under the law enforcement and public safety exemptions, as terrorists could have exploited this information. The court properly directed the NYPD to disclose tests or reports regarding the radiation dose or other health and safety effects of the vans. A newspaper editor may have access to police blotters and complaint reports reporting names of persons from prominent families involved in burglaries since Public Officers Law § 89(5) makes it clear that nothing in the Freedom of Information Law may be cited to limit or abridge rights of access granted either by other privileges of law or by means of judicial determination and Scheehan v City of Binghamton specifically holds that police blotters are accessible. Although tapes or transcripts of radio communications made by officers of a police department concerning the charges for which a prisoner was booked at the time of his arrest may properly be withheld from the prisoner under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(e) as records compiled for law enforcement purposes, the actual booking record of the prisoner's arrest is available to him since the Freedom of Information Law is more expansive in terms of right of access than the former law and the former law specifically granted access to police blotters and booking records. Where inmate was transferred to different correctional facility after sending letter to daughter of facility employee, soliciting personal relationship, Commissioner of Correctional Services properly denied his Freedom of Information Law request for copies of all institutional records relating to his transfer on ground that requested records were exempt as containing information that might endanger individual's life or safety. Petitioner, an inmate at a State correctional facility, is not entitled to receive copies of State Police records relating to his attempted escape which was aborted by the State Police, inasmuch as the records are exempt from disclosure under section 87 (subd 2, par [g]) of the Public Officers Law, as they are intra-agency records of the investigation of the incident. State Commission of Correction properly denied request for access to documents categorized as staff handwritten notes, comments and observations, and interoffice memorandum, and report concerning commission's investigation of prison melee, since documents contained subjective comments and observations prepared to assist commission in making final determination, thus exempting them from disclosure under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). However, State Commission of Correction improperly denied access to statements of 4 inmates made during commission's investigation of prison melee since statements merely recited factual claims made by alleged assault victims and did not constitute investigator's notes exempt from disclosure as intra-agency material under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g); moreover, there was no proof that such statements were gathered specifically for law enforcement purposes, and there was no indication that any criminal proceedings had been initiated nor that confidentiality was promised or expected so as to exempt statements from disclosure under § 87(2)(e). Petitioners, 2 members of legal services corporation and inmate, were not entitled under Freedom of Information Law to names of Muslim inmates at certain correctional facility who had filed grievances based on being pat-frisked by female correction officers since facility's grievance program and procedures provided that its papers and information were to be confidential; thus, it was proper for facility to refuse request for identifying information after having supplied name-redacted grievance documents. This section did not preclude the disclosure in a civil suit to a claimant who was injured by his cellmate of the name of an inmate who was housed with the cellmate immediately prior to his placement with the claimant as there was no showing as to why releasing the information would result in a risk to the safety and security of the prison, and any privacy interest of the inmate in keeping his identity confidential was outweighed given the seriousness of the claimant's injuries and his burden of proof. Prison inmate was not entitled, under Freedom of Information Law, to disclosure of certain provisions of State Department of Correctional Services Employee Manual where in-camera review of those provisions revealed that they pertained to supervision and security of inmates and thus fell within exemption, in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(f), for materials that "if disclosed would endanger the life or safety of any person." Buffalo Broadcasting Co. v New York State Dep't of Correctional Services, 155 A.D.2d 106, 552 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2940 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Trial court properly found that the evidence submitted by the department of correction (DOC) was insufficient to establish that disclosure of the electronic video surveillance record from one camera angle from one particular day showing a former detainee's slip and fall accident could endanger the life or safety of any person by exposing limits in the surveillance system for purposes of the N.Y. Pub. Off. Law §§ 87(2)(f) Freedom of Information Law exemption; the trial court also properly found, however, that the DOC established, through a sergeant's affidavit, that disclosure of the remaining electronic video surveillance records requested could expose such limitations and thus endanger the life or safety of any person. 263. —Sentencing, generally

In an Article 78 proceeding to compel the director of the Temporary Release Program, Department of Correctional Services to comply with petitioner's request for certain specified information following the denial of petitioner's request for a furlough from a correctional facility, Special Term erred in order-

264. — —Parole

Parole board would not be required to submit for in camera inspection letters sought by petitioner, who had been denied parole, from persons opposed to his release, since the letters, which were received from private citizens, were exempt from disclosure and would remain confidential and protected in order to permit private citizens to express freely their opinions for or against an individual's parole. Jordan v Hammock, 86 A.D.2d 725, 447 N.Y.S.2d 44, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15282 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 57 N.Y.2d 674, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 7345 (N.Y. 1982).

While not specifically establishing exemption from Freedom of Information Law, CLS Exec § 259-k provides clear legislative intent to establish and maintain confidentiality of parole records. Prison inmate was not entitled to disclosure of another individual's parole records under Freedom of Information Law, even if certain information were redacted; CLS Exec § 259-k directs that parole case record information be confidential, and parole board promulgated rules prohibiting release of information sought. Collins v New York State Div. of Parole, 251 A.D.2d 738, 674 N.Y.S.2d 145, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6491 (N.Y. Prison inmate who was denied parole was not entitled to disclosure, under Freedom of Information Law, of county district attorney's letter to Division of Parole furnishing background information and setting forth factors recommended for consideration in deciding whether to release inmate on parole where letter fit squarely within interagency communications exemption in CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g)(iii). LEXIS 3511 (N.Y. 2000).

Prison inmate's Article 78 proceeding, seeking copies of parole release interview transcripts of 2 former inmates who testified at his criminal trial and any parole recommendations made by district attorney and judge, would be dismissed for failure to state cause of action where (1) CLS Exec § 259-k and Board of Parole's implementing rules clearly direct that parole records remain confidential, (2) records sought by inmate were thus exempt from disclosure under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) because releasing them would be unwarranted invasion of privacy, and (3) contrary result was not required by fact that respondents might have previously released parole records of another inmate in response to FOIL request. Robles v Tracy, 275 A.D.2d 837, 713 N.Y.S.2d 776, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9343 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 702, 722 N.Y.S.2d 794, 745 N.E.2d 1016, 2001 N.Y. 267. —Traffic violations

The disclosure of records of a public lottery sponsored by a volunteer fire department is proper where it is not demonstrated that the material requested falls within one of the eight categories of exemptions contained in subdivision 2 of section 87 of the Public Officers Law, there being no provision which specifically exempts volunteer fire departments from the Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6), since the policies motivating the enactment of the Freedom of Information Law center or goals as broad as the achievement of a more informed electorate and a more responsible and responsive officialdom, regardless of the purpose for which a document was produced or the function to which it relates; the fact that the records were not in the possession of either the village or its volunteer fire department does not warrant dismissal of the proceeding where the records were to be returned to the village since temporary possession in another does not necessarily oust a permanent possessor of the control which would make it subject to the responsibilities imposed by the Freedom of Information Law and Special Term was fully justified in granting a right of inspection upon their retransfer to the village's custody; furthermore, it was well within the discretion of the Appellate Division to order Special Term to conduct an in camera hearing to excise privacy impinging references to needy recipients of the lottery funds inasmuch as though the Freedom of Information Law specifies no procedures for implementing its guarantees, decisional law has repeatedly acknowledged the efficacy of this technique in appropriate circumstances and there is no abuse of discretion as a matter of law in withholding the prerogative of deletion from the village where it had its opportunity to do so before the commencement of the litigation, but refused. 347 affidavits compiled during the Westchester District Attorney's investigation of the Ossining Fire Department 50/50 Lottery are accessible under Public Officers Law § 87 since, although the affidavits were obtained in connection with a criminal investigation, such investigation is closed and no criminal charges resulted from it and therefore the harmful effects of disclosure envisioned by § 87(2)(e) would not arise and since CPL § 240.20 does not mandate denial of access since that section concerns

However pages of the report which contained opinions and recommendations would be exempt from disclosure. Ingram v Axelrod, 90 A.D.2d 568, 456 N.Y.S.2d 146, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18634 (N.Y. It was error to dismiss law firm's Article 78 petition for review of Department of Health (DOH) determination denying firm's request under Freedom of Information Law for disclosure of internal DOH memorandum (requested by firm in connection with lawsuit against firm's client brought by neighboring residents and alleging that client discharged chemicals and polluted water supply), since portions of memorandum dealt with public health matters and could be found to be instructions to staff which affected public, where memorandum contained legal opinions on state's right to obtain physicians' reports of their examinations of residents, legal interpretations of CLS Pub Health § 206, directions to be provided to DOH employee responsible for reviewing physicians' reports, and opinions on use by DOH of examination information and its compliance with Public Health Law; matter would be remitted to court for in camera inspection and determination as to which portions of memorandum should be redacted and which parts released. Fact that petitioner expended 2,200 hours and $225,000 over 10-month period in researching, screening, analyzing and compiling air emissions data prior to submitting its "Nearby Source Verification Worksheets" to Department of Environmental Conservation, as condition of obtaining permit under CLS Pub Ser art 10, did not entitle it to "trade secret" exemption under Freedom of Information Law on ground that disclosure of worksheets to other prospective developers of electric generation facilities in area would result in substantial competitive injury, as every facility has regulatory costs attached to its operation, and petitioner failed to show that cost of compiling data in question was considerable relative to entire cost of project, or that disclosure would decrease its ability to secure proper permits. Sunset Energy Fleet L.L.C. v State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 285 A.D.2d 865, 728 N.Y.S.2d 279, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7534 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

The attorney for an association of property owners would be entitled, pursuant to Pub O §§ 84 et seq., to the production of certain public documents in the possession of the Department of Health, including handwritten weekly field reports for specified periods, draft reports on air monitoring for the installation of landfill overburden monitoring wells in connection with a landfill maintained by a chemical and plastics company, and an internal departmental memorandum, since such production was not precluded by the fact that the factual information contained in some of the documents may have been supplied to the attorney in other records, and the material contained in the memorandum was not integral to the agency's deliberative process and contained no opinions or other subjective material; however, the attorney would not be entitled to production of a copy of a memorandum from an agency attorney to the agency's general counsel concerning communications with the agency's staff in connection with health problems suffered by an area resident and attributed to drilling activity at the landfill, since the contents of the memorandum were protected by the attorney-client privilege, and the memorandum was prepared for ongoing litigation; petitioner attorney would additionally be entitled to recover his reasonable attorney's fees, since the agency lacked a reasonable basis in law for withholding those records that were subject to production. 270. —Environmental records

In an Article 78 proceeding, Special Term's granting of a petition seeking disclosure of 29 medical records pursuant to the Freedom of Information Law after deletion of all personal identifying details was held improper, where the principle of selective deletion could have no application to the 29 medical records as they were exempted from disclosure pursuant to Pub O §§ 87 and 89 exception for medical records. Medical records, except for statistical data, are not records "otherwise available", so that the furnishing of such records is an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Short v Board of Managers of Nassau County Medical Center, 57 N.Y.2d 399, 456 N.Y.S.2d 724, 442 N.E.2d 1235, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3787 (N.Y. 1982).

Patients may obtain their own medical records from state agency pursuant to Freedom of Information law despite prohibition of CLS Pub Health § 18(6) against redisclosure of patient information by third parties; intent of § 18(6) was not to prevent disclosure to patients of their own medical records, but to prevent disclosure of confidential medical records to third parties. Fact that petitioner could obtain his medical records from hospital pursuant to CLS Pub Health § 18 did not diminish his right to obtain them from Department of Health under Freedom of Information Law. Mantica v New York State Dep't of Health, 94 N.Y.2d 58, 699 N.Y.S.2d 1, 721 N.E.2d 17, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3442 (N.Y. 1999).

Hospital records of witnesses who testified against petitioner at grand jury proceeding were not disclosable under Freedom of Information Law since access to such records would constitute "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." State Department of Health failed to show that unwarranted invasion of patients' personal privacy would result from Supreme Court's order directing it to disclose to news companies, under Freedom of Information Law, identity of physicians involved in medical records maintained by Statewide Planning and Research Cooperative System (SPARCS) where wealth of information about patients, except for their names and their physicians' names, was already being disclosed by SPARCS, and department conceded that "even without the physician identifier, it is conceivable that one could attempt to connect the disclosable SPARCS data outlined above to invade a patient's medical privacy." State Department of Health could not invoke CLS Pub Health §§ 2804-b and 2807-n as justification for denying news companies access, under Freedom of Information Law, to identity of physicians involved in medical records maintained by Statewide Planning and Research Cooperative System; Appellate Division's review in Article 78 proceeding is limited to specific grounds invoked by administrative agency, and post-determination legislative enactment could not serve as basis for department's actions and would not be considered. Members of the uniformed forces, including New York City Police, Housing, Transit, Fire, Collection, and Sanitation officers, may have access to those materials in medical records containing statistical or factual information, such as laboratory test results, but may be denied access to records prepared by departmental doctors since such records could properly be characterized as "intra-agency materials" exempted by Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g) from disclosure; however, Public Health Law § 17 requires the release of medical records, including records prepared by departmental doctors, upon request by a private doctor or hospital designated by the subject of such tests or records. Disclosure of MV-105 forms, which county medical examiner submits to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles under CLS County § 677(5), is governed by CLS County § 677(3)(b), and thus is not permitted under Freedom of Information Law absent showing of "substantial interest" by party requesting disclosure. Prison inmate's grievance regarding his Freedom of Information Law request for copies of his medical records was properly denied where (1) he was not denied copies of his medical records because of his inability to pay for them but, rather, his refusal to sign form that would encumber his inmate account for cost of copies of his records, and (2) that condition was consistent with CLS Pub Health § 18(2)(e). Under the liberality to be accorded to the Freedom of Information Law, which mandates the disclosure of all records of public agencies subject only to claimed exemption (Public Officers Law, § 87, subd 2) with the agency carrying the burden of establishing such exemption, the notes made by the secretary to the New York State Board of Regents during the course of open and public meetings are official public records, taken by the secretary in his official, not private capacity, subject to compulsory disclosure and do not constitute personal memoranda of the secretary or exempt intra-agency materials which are not statistical or factual tabulations or data or instructions to staff that affect the public or final agency policy or determinations. 283. —Student lists; directories

An individual's request that a community college furnish him with the names and addresses of all students enrolled at the college was properly refused, pursuant to 20 USCS § 1232g and Pub O § 87(2), where the individual did not designate such information "directory information," which would make it available to the public and, further, because the person requesting the information did not demonstrate a need for the requested disclosure, he would not be entitled to court-ordered access pursuant to the federal statute and, since a privacy right is thus established, access could also be withheld pursuant to Pub O § 87(2), particularly since the individual requesting the information failed to show that the names and addresses were not sought for" commercial or fund-raising purposes," under Pub O Law § 89(2). 284. —Tests; test scores

Interim report by State Education Department, detailing petitioner's allegations that teachers at certain school had inflated student test results, summarizing departmental investigation which followed, and concluding by noting that meeting to discuss any further action or investigation would be desirable, was not subject to disclosure under Freedom of Information Act, since it was non-final agency determination falling within exemption contemplated by CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). 287. Social services

Under Soc Serv § 372, the petitioner bears the burden of convincing the court that disclosure of the information sought would be proper. Thus, in a proceeding by an incarcerated 17-year old with violent tendencies who had spent almost his entire life under foster care seeking disclosure of his confidential records and certain information relating to his younger sisters pursuant to Pub O § 84 and Soc Serv § 372, the court did not abuse its discretion in limiting disclosure by excluding all material regarding the infant sisters where, in requesting the information, the petitioner never informed the agency that he wished to use the information to reinstitute contact with his sisters, and thus failed to show that disclosure of the information would be proper. Moreover, insofar as the petitioner's application would affect the welfare of his sisters, the court should have appointed a guardian to determine and represent their interest, rather than have the agency assume an adversary role on the theory that nondisclosure would always be in the best interests of the children. A request for "information, records and other materials" relating to a particular individual maintained by the Suffolk County Department of Social Services generated in 1959 may be properly denied since Social Services Law § 136 provides that records identifiable to an applicant for or recipient of public assistance are confidential and the exemption from disclosure carries over to the Freedom of Information Law since Public Officers Law § 87(2)(a) states that an agency may withhold records or portions thereof that are "specifically exempted from disclosure by state or federal statute". 288. Taxation, generally

Service station's financial records, which were in possession of Department of Taxation and Finance as result of department's audits of station, were exempt from disclosure under CLS Tax § 1146(a); although statute specifically prohibits disclosure only of "return or report" filed with department, statutory purpose of encouraging taxpayers to make full and truthful declarations would be thwarted if materials and records compiled by taxpayers in support of their returns and reports were subject to disclosure. 290. — —Computerized records

In Article 78 proceeding challenging real property assessments, court improperly ordered town assessor to either furnish copy of computer tape file or permit petitioner to inspect or copy it where computer tape file contained information derived partly from Real Property Transfer Reports, which are exempt from public disclosure under CLS RPTL § 574(5); computer data management system derived from exempt information is protected under CLS Pub O § 87(2)(a). Corporation which purported to represent property owners before board of assessment review pursuant to CLS RPTL § 524(3), but lacked authority to do so, nevertheless had standing to institute Article 78 proceeding to compel disclosure under Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) based on rights held by it independent of its status as property owners' representative, since requested information did not fall within any FOIL exemption, there was no authority for restricting access to such information solely to property owners, and it was not precluded by doctrine of "unclean hands" on ground that it engaged in unauthorized legal practice by seeking to represent property owners in judicial proceedings. Property Valuation Analysts, Inc. v Williams, 164 A.D.2d 131, 563 N.Y.S.2d 545, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13069 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Assessment records are public information and the form of the records or the petitioner's purpose in seeking them does not alter their public character or petitioner's concomitant right to inspect and copy them. Therefore, it was improper for the county to deny petitioner's request for copies of the county's assessment rolls and computer tape format. Szikszay v Buelow, 107 Misc. 2d 886, 436 N.Y.S.2d 558, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2108 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

Preliminary assessments included on assessment inventory notices are available for public inspection and copying. 10 Op. Counsel SBRPS No. 4.

291. — —Consultant reports

Opinions and recommendations that would, if prepared by agency employees, be exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) as "intra-agency materials" (Pub O § 87[2][g]), do not lose their exempt status simply because they are prepared for the agency, at its request, by an outside consultant. Respondents' final determination being to take no action with respect to property revaluation, the consultant's opinion could not be considered a final agency determination subject to disclosure under Pub O § 87(2)(g)(iii), and the fact that respondents ultimately took no action did not divest the reports of their quality as "intra-agency materials," since FOIL protects against disclosure of pre-decisional memoranda or other non-final recommendations, whether or not action is taken. However, to the extent that real estate appraisal reports prepared for respondents by a private consulting firm in connection with possible revaluation of appellant's property after new construction contained "statistical or factual tabulations or data" (Pub O § 87[2][g][i]), or other material subject to production, they would be ordered redacted and made available to appellant. Access to records of a private corporation currently engaged in a consulting contractual relationship with the Saratoga County Board of Supervisors and the County Equalization and Assessment Committee performing a 100 percent assessment revaluation project for the county may not be denied on the basis that Freedom of Information Law is inapplicable to records of a private corporation since Public Officers Law § 86(4) defines "record" as including "any information produced for an agency in any fiscal form whatsoever" and the private corporation involved was clearly producing information for a public corporation; furthermore, the private corporation could not assert that such records were intra-agency or inter-agency records exempt from disclosure under Public Officers Law § 87(2)(g) since the corporation does not fall within the definition of "agency" as defined by the Freedom of Information law and therefore could not assert § 87(2)(g) as a basis for denying access to records. In a proceeding to enjoin the release under the Freedom of Information Law of entire sales data lists concerning real estate transactions in New York City on the grounds that a portion of the lists containing notations of significance or insignificance ("S/I" notations) made by assessors was exempt from disclosure, the trial court erred in determining that such lists were not exempt where the potential exemption of the S/I notation was never fully litigated below. 295. —Death certificates

Disclosure of death certificate of person who allegedly died of AIDS would not constitute invasion of personal privacy, and thus would not be exempt from mandates of disclosure under Freedom of Information Law. City's determination that newspaper's request for death certificate of person who allegedly died of AIDS was for other than "proper purpose" (within meaning of CLS Pub Health § 4174) would not be sustained, and thus newspaper was entitled to disclosure under Freedom of Information Law, since newspaper's investigative reporting of possible AIDS case in locality which it served was legitimate reportage, given great public concern about disease. Request by spouse for death certificate, amended or otherwise, meets "proper purpose" standard of New York City Administrative Code, and provision requiring confidentiality of medical examiner's records generally prepared in conjunction with criminal investigation cannot appropriately be cited as basis for withholding such certificate when death which has occurred is not subject of criminal investigation by law enforcement agency. Dunlea v Goldmark, 54 A.D.2d 446, 389 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 754, 401 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 372 N.E.2d 798, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2546 (N.Y. 1977).

Contrary to contention of respondents, executive director of State Consumer Protection Board, who petitioned to have Supreme Court overrule State Education Department's refusal to provide certain information to Board on ground that such refusal contravened the former Freedom of Information Law, had power to conduct investigations, research, studies and analysis of matters affecting the interest of consumers; and was "relevant or essential to the ordinary work" of Board, and, thus, was not exempt from disclosure under certain provisions of the former Freedom of Information Law; and, Goal of the former Freedom of Information Law is to give the public free access to the documents involved in government decision making, not to ease the research burden of private litigants, although this may well have been the intention of the separate federal sanction, under the federal Freedom of Information Act, for the failure to index final opinions; and it would be an unwarranted enlargement of the purpose of the the former Freedom of Information Law to require every agency to break down every final order into component topics and index it topically; accordingly, the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board conformed to the spirit and letter of the law by labeling and separately listing by each label the broad variety of records it maintains, and by making them available for public inspection. D'Alessandro v Unemployment Ins. Appeal Board, 56 A.D.2d 762, 392 N.Y.S.2d 433, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11024 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

If county had never compiled a list of names of terminated employees sought, Freedom of Information Law did not require that one be prepared, but applicant was required to be granted access to those lists and documents which specifically identify the employees to be terminated and which effectuate their removal. Gannett Co. v County of Monroe, 59 A.D.2d 309, 399 N.Y.S.2d 534, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13567 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 45 N.Y.2d 954, 411 N.Y.S.2d 557, 383 N.E.2d 1151, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2339 (N.Y. 1978).

Since all documents are not presumptively available for public inspection and copying under the Freedom of Information Law, in order for public access to be mandatory the requested document must be included in one of the nine enumerated categories in the Law. Freedom of Information Law does not make all records of government generally available but, rather, provides that only certain enumerated categories are available. Sheehan v Binghamton, 59 A.D.2d 808, 398 N.Y.S.2d 905, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13885 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Matters relating to specific documents, data and information should be settled through discovery process as much as possible rather than resorting to the Freedom of Information Law. Burke v Yudelson, 81 Misc. 2d 870, 368 N.Y.S.2d 779, 1975 N.Y. Misc.

LEXIS 2477 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 51 A.D.2d 673, 378 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11034 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Mere fact that agency which seeks disclosure of information pursuant to the former Freedom of Information Law, would conclude, after receiving such information, that the information should not be acted on does not make the information "irrelevant to the work of the agency" so as to render the information exempt from disclosure to the agency. Pooler v Nyquist, 89 Misc. 2d 705, 392 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2861 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

School district regulations, as submitted by school district, did not comply with the former Freedom of Information Law and school district was therefore ordered to comply which such law by revising its regulations within 30 days. Duncan v Savino, 90 Misc. 2d 282, 394 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2040 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Where malfeasance of a public officer is in issue, and the necessary confidentiality of criminal investigation will not be impaired thereby or national security threatened, maximum freedom of information must be provided whether the proceeding is criminal or civil. Montes v State, 94 Misc. 2d 972, 406 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2329 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1978).

303. Requests for information

Description of material sought to be discovered under former Freedom of Information Law as "budget examiner's file" was not too vague since readily identifiable material was sought; although there were allegations that the files contained some material which should be exempt, there was no such a showing as to establish that the public was to be denied access to the whole file. Dunlea v Goldmark, 54 A.D.2d 446, 389 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 754, 401 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 372 N.E.2d 798, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2546 (N.Y. 1977).

304. Standing

Since Freedom of Information Law directs that certain records be made available to "any persons" on request, petitioning attorney had standing to maintain Article 78 proceeding seeking disclosure of certain documents, regardless of whether he might represent interests other than the corporation directly requesting the records. Cavalier v McCue, 58 A.D.2d 729, 396 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12845 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Attorney representing client being sued by city was entitled to and could have access to municipal records sought under the Freedom of Information Law and to make appropriate arrangements for obtaining copies thereof at his expense, notwithstanding that discovery proceedings had been held in connection with pending lawsuit. Burke v Yudelson, 81 Misc. 2d 870, 368 N.Y.S.2d 779, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2477 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 51 A.D.2d 673, 378 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11034 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Teacher, who had brought proceeding alleging that school district had failed to comply with the former Freedom of Information Law, and her attorney, as well as other persons whether or not voters or in any associated with the school district, were intended to be benefited by the former Freedom of Information Law. Duncan v Savino, 90 Misc. 2d 282, 394 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2040 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

305. Sufficiency of response

Statement by director of the Division of the Budget that there was a valid need for protection of communication between high government officials and those who advise and assist them was insufficient to show how disclosure of certain worksheets and files prepared by budget examiner on the Cable Television Commission would be harmful to the public interest. In order to preclude disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law there must be specific support for the claim of privilege; this requires the governmental agency to come forward and show that public interest would indeed be jeopardized by disclosure. Dunlea v Goldmark, 85 Misc. 2d 198, 380 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1982 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 54 A.D.2d 446, 389 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

306. Confidentiality

Information "specifically exempted by statute" from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act does not contemplate exemptions of article governing disclosure, but rather refers to such information as income tax and juvenile and youthful offender proceedings. Burke v Yudelson, 81 Misc. 2d 870, 368 N.Y.S.2d 779, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2477 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 51 A.D.2d 673, 378 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11034 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Under the former Freedom of Information Act, all Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals survey reports delivered in confidence to the State Department of Health, whether submitted in lieu of a Public Health Law survey or in connection with such survey, shall not be available for public disclosure; however, all Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals survey reports delivered to the State Department of Health without such agreement of confidentiality may be available for public disclosure. Nassau-Suffolk Hospital Council, Inc. v Whalen, 89 Misc. 2d 304, 390 N.Y.S.2d 995, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1842 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

307. Enforcement

Landowner's right to compel certain pretrial disclosures from the condemnor under the Freedom of Information Law was a matter to be pursued in an Article 78 proceeding rather than by way of motion in the condemnation proceeding. In re Oyster Bay, 54 A.D.2d 762, 387 N.Y.S.2d 881, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14428 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Where more than four months elapsed from time of denial of appeals of applications for information pursuant to the former Freedom of Information Law to time of commencement of special proceedings to compel disclosure, judicial review of denials was barred by statute of limitations; and where it was possible that, if applicant for information pursuant to the former Freedom of Information Law had initially applied to records access officer of town, his application might have been granted, thereby obviating need for any request to courts, judicial review of denial of applications was barred by doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies, particularly in view of fact that denial of previous requests for information did not establish that new application for different information would have been fruitless. Cosgrove v Klingler, 58 A.D.2d 910, 396 N.Y.S.2d 498, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13102 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

County officials had burden of demonstrating applicability of exemption under Gannett Co. v County of Monroe, 59 A.D.2d 309, 399 N.Y.S.2d 534, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13567 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 45 N.Y.2d 954, 411 N.Y.S.2d 557, 383 N.E.2d 1151, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2339 (N.Y. 1978).

Under Freedom of Information Act, court, on proper application, is forum to determine validity of public official's classification of materials as confidential. Dillon v Cahn, 79 Misc. 2d 300, 359 N.Y.S.2d 981, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1651 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

In Article 78 proceeding in which executive director of State Consumer Protection Board sought overruling of State Education Department's refusal to provide certain information to Board on ground that such refusal contravened the former Freedom of Information Law, respondents had burden of demonstrating the applicability of an exemption from disclosure.; and respondents' mere conclusory recitations that information was confidentially received, that its release might result in unfair advantage to competitors and would unwarrantably invade personal privacy were not sufficient to sustain respondents' burden of proof that certain exemptions from disclosure were applicable; and where respondent only summarily asserts the exemption issue, court is not required to conduct an "in camera" review of every challenged document for purpose of determining whether the exemption is applicable. Pooler v Nyquist, 89 Misc. 2d 705, 392 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2861 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Commissioner of Education will not entertain appeals alleging that school contracts with photographers violated Gen Bus L §§ 340, 349 relating to monopolies and unfair business practices, and that request to inspect contracts was improperly refused under the former Freedom of Information Law, as these laws provide other methods of review. Re Jones, Op Comr Ed #9456.

B. Particular Matters

308. In general

Public Officers Law entitled petitioner and other bona fide members of news media to inspect and copy village payroll records. Miller v Freeport, 51 A.D.2d 765, 379 N.Y.S.2d 517, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11328 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

On motion of newspaper editor for release of the record of disciplinary proceeding against judge, those materials to be released consisted of briefs in the Appellate Division, the referee's report insofar as it related to charges which he sustained and the charges themselves to that extent, and testimony and exhibits bearing on such charges. In re Mertens, 58 A.D.2d 527, 395 N.Y.S.2d 195, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12487 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

Certified representative of bargaining unit of state employees was not entitled to examine "showing of interest" submitted on behalf of employee organization challenging representation status of certified representative, where Public Employee Relation Board's director had power to pass upon sufficiency of the "showing of interest" and revealing names of employees who signed challenger's petitions might subject signators to harassment and reprisal and would violate policy of secrecy of employee's choice in such matters. Police Benevolent Ass'n of New York State Police, Inc. v Helsby, 84 Misc. 2d 17, 374 N.Y.S.2d 262, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3078 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Petitioner, which ran review course preparatory to the state certified public accountants examination, could not compel education commissioner to continue his long-established practice of supplying petitioner with lists of exam applicants for use in its business, as the Freedom of Information Law provides that an agency may delete identifying details to prevent an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and the legislature has defined "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" to include the sale or release of lists of names and addresses if such a list would be used for private, commercial or fund-raising purposes. Person-Wolinsky Associates, Inc. v Nyquist, 84 Misc. 2d 930, 377 N.Y.S.2d 897, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3219 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Assessors' workbooks or field books constitute public records which may be inspected or copied. 4 Op Counsel, SBEA #25.

309. Accident and investigation reports

Investigatory files exemption from the former Freedom of Information Law should be narrowly construed. Zuckerman v New York State Bd. of Parole, 53 A.D.2d 405, 385 N.Y.S.2d 811, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13069 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Where police report on events surrounding prisoner's death in city's detention center had multiple purposes which included enabling district attorney to determine whether any crime or offense had been committed, and enabling police department to determine whether any of its personnel were guilty of breach of duty and whether proceedings were adequate to prevent any recurrence, and investigation resulting in such report was conducted in regular course of official police business, newspaper was entitled to disclosure of only so much of such report as represented purely factual matter, with names of police officers and jail personnel deleted. Westchester Rockland Newspapers, Inc. v Mosczydlowski, 58 A.D.2d 234, 396 N.Y.S.2d 857, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11862 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

"Chief's Report" about fire was within purview of Freedom of Information Law and was discoverable, and city did not have right to refuse to disclose unless applicant would sign affirmation that notice of claim was not filed and would not be filed and that cause of action was not and would not be brought against city. Application of Dwyer, 85 Misc. 2d 104, 378 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3279 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Under Multiple Residence Law, apartment tenant was entitled to building code enforcement bureau's reports concerning her apartment and common areas of apartment building, in that disclosure would not violate right of privacy of other individuals, nor would it in any manner hamper future code enforcement efforts by bureau. Martinez v Libous, 85 Misc. 2d 186, 378 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3286 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

The former Freedom of Information Law's broad policy in favor of disclosure mandated rejection of argument that town building department records compiled during investigation of complaint that construction work at certain town facilities was performed improperly and in violation of town code were not public records under the law. Sole beneficiaries of exemption provided by Freedom of Information Law, which was intended to provide unimpaired access to governmental information, for information that is part of investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes are criminal law enforcement authorities, and thus building department could not rely on such exemption for its refusal to permit examination of records compiled during investigation of complaint that construction work at certain town facilities was performed improperly and in violation of town code. Where town building department's investigation of complaint that construction work at certain town facilities was performed improperly and in violation of town code was alleged to be ongoing but no facts were alleged demonstrating how public interest would be jeopardized if inspection of records compiled during investigation took place, and assertion of privilege was wholly based upon conclusory use of terms "executive privilege" and "attorneys' work product," records were not privilege under common-law public interest privilege. Young v Huntington, 88 Misc. 2d 632, 388 N.Y.S.2d 978, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2715 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

310. Audits and budgets

Fact that city was in litigation with one of its contractors did not bar contractor from availing himself of right granted by Freedom of Information Law to inspect and copy audits with respect to the contracts at issue, contractor was not required to resort to discovery rules to attain such material; absent any proof that documents were not exempt from disclosure by the Freedom of Information Law petition for access to such record was properly granted. Burke v Yudelson, 51 A.D.2d 673, 378 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11034 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Budget examiner's files and work sheets for Cable Television Commission were subject to discovery under former Freedom of Information Law; however, the agency was entitled to an opportunity to establish specific exemptions, preferably by a sufficiently detailed affidavit to enable special term to determine the validity of the exemption claimed. Even assuming that in spite of Freedom of Information Law public agencies retain a common-law privilege to deny access on a showing that disclosure would be highly detrimental to the overall public interest, refusal to disclose budget examiner's files and work sheets for Commission on Cable Television could not be justified on common-law grounds absent any showing of the requisite detriment to the public interest. Dunlea v Goldmark, 54 A.D.2d 446, 389 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 754, 401 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 372 N.E.2d 798, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2546 (N.Y. 1977).

One agency may not discover the budgetary estimates prepared by a separate agency, both functioning under the auspices of a County Executive and a Budget Director, prior to the adoption of a formal budget proposal by the County Executive for consideration by the county's Board of Legislators, since neither a public official's right to know, nor the former Freedom of Information Law, authorizes access to the information sought within the context of the provisions of article XIV of the Westchester County Charter (L 1937, ch 617) dealing with the procedure for the preparation and adoption of the county budget. Delaney v Del Bello, 62 A.D.2d 281, 405 N.Y.S.2d 276, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10452 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1978).

A budget document transmitted by a county executive to the clerk of the county legislature containing recommendations for salaries regarding various managerial positions in the county government is accessible under Public Officers Law § 87 since the document in question is a necessary incident to the budget review process and represents an addendum to the tentative budget. Com Pub Acc Rec FOIL—Ad Op 1879.

311. Criminal justice system records

Claimant, who had brought action against state for conscious pain and suffering and wrongful death alleging negligent parole of person, who while on parole from state hospital allegedly murdered claimant's father, was entitled to discover only final determinations and dissenting opinions of members of governing body of parole board since all other records of board were confidential. Dowling v State, 49 A.D.2d 982, 374 N.Y.S.2d 148, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11300 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Minutes of business meeting of Parole Board were not per se exempt from disclosure either under Correction Law, as unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, under investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes exemption to Freedom of Information Law, or under common-law privilege for official information; Supreme Court would be required to inspect minutes in camera to determine to what extent, if any, minutes were exempt from disclosure for those reasons. Zuckerman v New York State Bd. of Parole, 53 A.D.2d 405, 385 N.Y.S.2d 811, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13069 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Federal penitentiary inmate's petition to compel state police to furnish inmate with copies of all its files relating to inmate would be denied, in view of indication that such information constituted part of investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes, and, thus, was exempt from availability for public inspection. Marshall v New York State Police, 89 Misc. 2d 529, 391 N.Y.S.2d 953, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1889 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

312. Law enforcement agencies

Report of investigation made by state police as to cause of certain fire and results of certain polygraph tests constituted part of investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes and were therefore exempt from availability for public inspection and copying. V. F. V. Constr. Co. v Kirwan, 51 A.D.2d 753, 379 N.Y.S.2d 166, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11301 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

County district attorney's trial sheet and witnesses' statements obtained by his office in course of preparing criminal case for trial were exempt from disclosure under the former Freedom of Information Law, as information which was part of investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes, and were exempt from disclosure under common-law privilege. Knight v Gold, 53 A.D.2d 694, 385 N.Y.S.2d 123, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13446 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), app. dismissed, 43 N.Y.2d 841, 402 N.Y.S.2d 811, 373 N.E.2d 991, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1756 (N.Y. 1978).

Requested document or "complaint" of CB radio theft was a field officer's report and, as such, might well include hearsay, reports and names of confidential informants, suspicions or rumors; since no reasonable definition of "police blotter," as enumerated in the Freedom of Information Law, would call for the inclusion of such information thereon, the requested document was not subject to disclosure under the Law, and its availability should have been denied. Sheehan v Binghamton, 59 A.D.2d 808, 398 N.Y.S.2d 905, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13885 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Sole beneficiaries of exemption provided by the former Freedom of Information Law, which was intended to provide unimpaired access to governmental information, for information that is part of investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes are criminal law enforcement authorities, and thus building department could not predicate its refusal to permit examination of records compiled during investigation of complaint that construction work at certain town facilities was performed improperly and in violation of town code on such exemption. Young v Huntington, 88 Misc. 2d 632, 388 N.Y.S.2d 978, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2715 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Federal penitentiary inmate's petition to compel state police to furnish inmate with copies of all its files relating to inmate would be denied, in view of indication that such information constituted part of investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes and, thus, was exempt from availability for public inspection. Marshall v New York State Police, 89 Misc. 2d 529, 391 N.Y.S.2d 953, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1889 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

313. Educational institution records

The Freedom of Information Law (Public Officers Law, art 6) does not except from its disclosure requirement salary and fringe benefit data compiled as part of a subscription service by respondent Board of Cooperative Educational Services for member school districts; nothing in section 84 or 87 of the Public Officers Law requires that the agency from which the information is sought be the agency making the decision to which the information relates, there is no evidence that disclosure of the data requested would impair present or imminent collective bargaining within the meaning of section 87, and although the Education Law makes the information sought available only to school districts that pay for it, petitioner, president-elect of a school administrators association, is not such a district and any conflict between the Education Law and the Public Officers Law will be resolved when a school district seeks to use the latter law to avoid the restriction of the former; moreover, disclosure would not be contrary to public policy concerning governmental disclosure, which is fixed by the Freedom of Information Law, since the common-law interest privilege cannot protect from disclosure materials which that law requires to be disclosed, and disclosure would not constitute an unlawful contribution of public funds contrary to section 1 of article VIII of the New York Constitution, since meeting the public's legitimate right of access to information concerning government is fulfillment of a governmental obligation, not the gift of, or waste of, public funds. Doolan v Board of Cooperative Educational Services, Second Supervisory Dist., 48 N.Y.2d 341, 422 N.Y.S.2d 927, 398 N.E.2d 533, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2404 (N.Y. 1979).

Tenured teachers whose positions as department heads had been abolished were entitled to inspect, pursuant to the state freedom of information law, official minutes of school board's meetings pertaining to its decision to eliminate the teachers' positions and pertaining to the teachers' competency, but board was not obliged to disclose minutes of its executive sessions. Gabriel v Turner, 50 A.D.2d 889, 377 N.Y.S.2d 527, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11790 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Provision of Education Law defining words "public records" does not fall within scope of provision of the former Freedom of Information Law mandating disclosure of any files, records, papers or documents "required by any other provision of law to be made available" for public inspection and copying since it does not mandate that the defined records be made available for public inspection and copying. Cavalier v McCue, 58 A.D.2d 729, 396 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12845 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Disclosure of drop-out and placement rates of private schools and private business schools would not permit an unfair advantage to competitors so as to exempt such information from disclosure under the former Freedom of Information Law. Information, with respect to disposition of each complaint received by Commissioner of Education after effective date of law concerning private schools and private business schools and with respect to drop-out rates and placement rates of certain private schools and information consisting of copies of field inspection reports and field supervisors' factual reports was discoverable pursuant to the former Freedom of Information Law provisions pertaining to final opinions made in adjudication of cases and pertaining to audits and statistical or factual tabulations, unless such information was exempted by succeeding provisions of the statute. Pooler v Nyquist, 89 Misc. 2d 705, 392 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2861 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

The former Freedom of Information Law broadens category of those to whom records are required to be made available, by school district beyond disclosure required by the Education Law. Duncan v Savino, 90 Misc. 2d 282, 394 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2040 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

314. Election records

Ballots in referendum on extension of dairy promotion order and cooperative milk producer lists related thereto were subject to disclosure. Gates v Dyson, 55 A.D.2d 705, 389 N.Y.S.2d 154, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15478 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

315. Litigation

Material which is exempt from disclosure pursuant to statute governing scope of disclosure because prepared solely for purposes of litigation is similarly exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Law. Westchester Rockland Newspapers, Inc. v Mosczydlowski, 58 A.D.2d 234, 396 N.Y.S.2d 857, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11862 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

The former Freedom of Information Law did not entitle claimant, which brought wrongful death action arising from prisoner take-over of portion of Attica Correctional Facility, to access to records of state commission which investigated incident and whose records were protected from disclosure by public interest privilege. Jones v State, 58 A.D.2d 736, 395 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12855 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

Engineer's report, which contained opinion of a potential expert witness who might be called on behalf of county upon a trial to resist contract's claim for additional compensation to repair a break in sewer line, and which had been obtained by county for such express purpose, was not subject to disclosure under former Freedom of Information Law; and where there is a dispute arising out of a public contract from which a claim for a large sum of money may be made against the county, any information and material obtained by the county at the suggestion of the county attorney in order to resist such claim will not be made the subject matter of disclosure under the former Freedom of Information Law. Fitzpatrick v County of Nassau, Dep't of Public Works, 83 Misc. 2d 884, 372 N.Y.S.2d 939, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3007 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Fact that material is prepared by a lawyer prior to commencement of an action does not render privilege against disclosure of material prepared for litigation under the former Freedom of Information Law inapplicable to such material if it is prepared in contemplation of litigation. Cavalier v McCue, 86 Misc. 2d 1074, 386 N.Y.S.2d 281, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2583 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Material, consisting of expert appraisal opinions prepared by state and Metropolitan Transportation Authority for negotiation or litigation of condemnation claims, did not fit into any one of categories of information available for inspection and copying under the Public Officers Law and specifically did not consist of statistical or factual data or internal or external audits and, thus, petitioners, who were litigants in condemnation proceedings, would not be entitled to obtain such appraisal opinions. Novack v Schuler, 88 Misc. 2d 796, 389 N.Y.S.2d 223, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2746 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Information, with respect to disposition of each complaint received by Commissioner of Education after effective date of law concerning private schools and private business schools and information consisting of copies of field inspection reports and field supervisors' factual reports would be exempt from disclosure under the former Freedom of Information Law to extent that it was part of any investigatory file which Commissioner established for purpose of considering whether or not enforcement proceedings should be instituted or for purpose of instituting such proceedings. Pooler v Nyquist, 89 Misc. 2d 705, 392 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2861 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

316. Personnel records

Disclosure of names, job titles and salary levels of county employees who were terminated due to substantial budget reductions was not exempt under the former Freedom of Information Law on ground that information sought was of a personal nature, or that type of records sought were not relevant and essential to ordinary work of agency and in absence of documentation of economic or personal hardship. Records regarding the termination of employees and their removal from the payroll are, by their very nature, relevant and essential to the ordinary work of county, and thus exception in the former Freedom of Information Law applicable where records are not relevant or essential to the ordinary work of the agency or instrumentality is not in such case applicable. Gannett Co. v County of Monroe, 59 A.D.2d 309, 399 N.Y.S.2d 534, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13567 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 45 N.Y.2d 954, 411 N.Y.S.2d 557, 383 N.E.2d 1151, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2339 (N.Y. 1978).

Plaintiffs in proceedings before Civilian Complaint Review Board were entitled to obtain records of complaints and investigations of civilian complaints against police officer, so long as confidential sources and ongoing investigations are endangered. Walker v New York, 64 A.D.2d 980, 408 N.Y.S.2d 811, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12955 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1978).

Although freedom of information law did not provide for the copying of payrolls of officers and employees of village, legislature intended that bona fide members of the news media should be afforded the opportunity to make copies of the payrolls which they were authorized by statute to inspect. Miller v Freeport, 81 Misc. 2d 81, 365 N.Y.S.2d 444, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2334 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 51 A.D.2d 765, 379 N.Y.S.2d 517, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11328 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Disclosure of written reprimands for police officers, contained in report concerning investigation into alleged wrongdoing involving on-duty employment of city police officers, would not result in an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and would not harm overall public interest, and thus such reprimands should be made available for public inspection and copying under former Freedom of Information Law. Farrell v Village Bd. of Trustees, 83 Misc. 2d 125, 372 N.Y.S.2d 905, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2815 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

City council resolution ordering commissioner of public safety to provide all reports and files of professional standards unit of city police department to standing committee on public safety of city council for review in confidential manner was not unlawful. Kilgallon v City Council of Troy, 86 Misc. 2d 106, 382 N.Y.S.2d 271, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 53 A.D.2d 976, 385 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15775 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

317. Invasion of privacy

Disclosure of written reprimands of police officers, contained in report concerning investigation into alleged wrongdoing involving on-duty employment of city police officers, would not result in an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and would not harm overall public interest, and thus such reprimands should be made available for public inspection and copying under former Freedom of Information Law. Farrell v Village Bd. of Trustees, 83 Misc. 2d 125, 372 N.Y.S.2d 905, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2815 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

318. Statistical and factual tabulations

Mere fact that a statistical or factual tabulation forms the basis for a subsequent opinion does not mean that the tabulation is not subject to discovery under the former Freedom of Information Law; fact that the document is part of the "deliberative" process is irrelevant since the law makes the back up factual or statistical information to a final decision available to the public and there is no statutory requirement that such data be limited to "objective" information. Phrase "statistical or factual" tabulation, within meaning of disclosure requirements of former Freedom of Information Law, means something other than an expression of opinion or naked argument for or against a certain position. Even though director of the Division of the Budget might claim that data contained in worksheet prepared by budget examiner with reference to Cable Television Commission were recommendations rather than statistical or factual material, the data came within the definition of "statistical and factual tabulations" and material was thus available under the Freedom of Information Law. Dunlea v Goldmark, 85 Misc. 2d 198, 380 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1982 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 54 A.D.2d 446, 389 N.Y.S.2d 423, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

IV. Under Former § 66

319. In general

This section and § 144 of the Education Law, §§ 255 and 255-b of the Judiciary Law, § 925 of the County Law, and § 51 of the General Municipal Law manifest the general policy of New York to make available to public inspection and access all records or other papers kept in a public office, at least where secrecy is not enjoined by statute or rule. Werfel v Fitzgerald, 23 A.D.2d 306, 260 N.Y.S.2d 791, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3932 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965).

Where a court grants a taxpayer's application to inspect the village records, such as those concerning an urban renewal project, the officials having custody of the records may impose reasonable rules and regulations as to when and how the inspection may be made in order to avoid undue interference with official functions. Sorley v Lister, 33 Misc. 2d 471, 218 N.Y.S.2d 215, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2694 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

This section expresses a strong legislative policy to make available to public inspection all records or other papers kept in the public office, save where secrecy is enjoined by statute or rule or overriding considerations. Bernkrant v City Rent & Rehabilitation Administration, 40 Misc. 2d 157, 242 N.Y.S.2d 753, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1886 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963), aff'd, 20 A.D.2d 682, 246 N.Y.S.2d 170, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4671 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1964).

The policy of this section in making available to public inspection documents kept in any public office is further evidenced by the broad definition of "public records" in § 144 of the Education Law and § 51 of the General Municipal Law. This section expresses a strong legislative policy to make available to public inspection and access all records or other papers kept in a public office, if secrecy is not enjoined by statute or rule. Scott v County of Nassau, 43 Misc. 2d 648, 252 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1534 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Effectuation of the policy in favor of full publicity of public records accordingly demands the broadest possible interpretation of the scope and content of this section, so far as some overriding consideration of policy does not forbid. C. Van Deusen, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 47 Misc. 2d 1094, 263 N.Y.S.2d 984, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1414 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

The right of the public to know of governmental operations and to inspect public records is fundamental to the workings of a democratic society. All documents classified as public records are open for public inspection and absent a contrary statute or rule the public policy of New York favors making all records and papers kept in a public office available for inspection. Winston v Mangan, 72 Misc. 2d 280, 338 N.Y.S.2d 654, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1297 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

Education Law § 144, Public Officers Law § 66, Judiciary Law §§ 266 and 255-b, and General Municipal Law § 51 express a strong and forthright legislative policy to make available to public inspection and access all records or other papers where there is no compelling reason for secrecy or where secrecy is not enjoined by statute or rule. Cline v Board of Trustees, 76 Misc. 2d 536, 351 N.Y.S.2d 81, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1528 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, 45 A.D.2d 823, 357 N.Y.S.2d 1022, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7188 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

320. Fees

Town clerk is entitled to collect five cents for each year searched for each name, and ten cents for each instrument set up, where he makes a search of judgment dockets filed in his office. 1946 Ops St Compt 226.

A town clerk furnishing copies of records and papers on file in his office for which no fee is expressly allowed by law, should charge fees at the rate payable to the county clerk for a similar service. 1952 Ops St Compt 376.

The fee to be charged for a village tax search is five cents for each name searched against for each year and ten cents for each instrument necessarily set up. 1954 Ops St Compt 224.

Where a town uses an I.B.M. punch card file for chattel mortgages and conditional sales contracts instead of the ordinary indices, the fees for preparing and furnishing lists of chattel mortgages and conditional sales filed during a particular period should be the fees for preparing certified copies of records. 1956 Ops St Compt 118.

A public officer having custody of public records and papers must furnish copies of those records and papers on file in his office. If no fee is expressly allowed by law, fees at the rate payable to county clerk for a similar service may be charged. 1958 Ops St Compt File #155.

A town police department may charge a fee for supplying certified copies of police reports of accidents. 1960 Ops St Compt File #555.

Fees for furnishing marriage license transcripts, certifications and searches, being payable to the town clerk, are the property of the town, and neither these functions nor fees are within the province of a registrar of vital statistics. 1965 Ops St Compt File #186.

A county treasurer must, upon request and tender of fees, prepare and certify a search of the tax records in his office. 1969 Ops St Compt File #472.

A town clerk must furnish as many certified copies of town planning board meeting minutes as are requested. A fee of one dollar per page, or portion thereof, may be charged for such copies. 1969 Ops St Compt File #528.

321. Applicability to particular officers or agencies

An official court-appointed stenographer is a "public officer" and his office is a "public office" within the meaning of this section, thus any of the stenographer's original notes may reasonably be regarded as "records" or other "papers" of which he has custody in his office. New York Post Corp. v Leibowitz, 2 N.Y.2d 677, 163 N.Y.S.2d 409, 143 N.E.2d 256, 1957 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 1957).

This section will not sustain an application by a citizen and taxpayer for leave to inspect the books, records and files of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, since that agency is a public benefit corporation within the definition of that term in subd 4 of § 3 of the General Corporation Law, created by special act, and no provision of such legislation or of the Public Authorities Law authorizes a citizen or taxpayer to demand inspection of its records. New York Post Corp. v Moses, 10 N.Y.2d 199, 219 N.Y.S.2d 7, 176 N.E.2d 709, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 1088 (N.Y. 1961).

Motor vehicle bureau is public office within this state, within meaning of this section. People ex rel. Stenstrom v Harnett, 224 A.D. 127, 230 N.Y.S. 28, 1928 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9947 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 249 N.Y. 606, 164 N.E. 602, 249 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 606, 1928 N.Y. LEXIS 965 (N.Y. 1928).

The Municipal Civil Service Commission of the City of New York is a "city department" and its records are "public records" so that the provisions of this section are applicable. Walker v Watson, 115 N.Y.S.2d 93, 201 Misc. 556, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1616 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), modified, 280 A.D. 760, 113 N.Y.S.2d 676, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3609 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

322. Availability of particular documents, generally

City treasurer's records of court funds on deposit are not public records in the sense that, under § 66, transcripts thereof must be furnished to all who apply and tender the fee allowed by law. Natelson v Portfolio, 291 N.Y. 290, 52 N.E.2d 440, 291 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 290, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1019 (N.Y. 1943).

Not all records kept by public officers are "public records," and, in the absence of statute expressly stating that items sought to be examined are public records, nature and purpose of the record and possibly custom and usage must be the guide in determining whether a particular record is public in nature. Sorley v Lister, 33 Misc. 2d 471, 218 N.Y.S.2d 215, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2694 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

The policy of full publicity demands the broadest possible interpretation of this section, including making available to newspapers upon request pursuant to § 4174 of the Public Health Law certified copies of records of deaths under circumstances which make them newsworthy. Rome Sentinel Co. v Boustedt, 43 Misc. 2d 598, 252 N.Y.S.2d 10, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1566 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Above statute is inapplicable to request to permit taxpayer to inspect records, vouchers, cash receipts, disbursements and other written records evidencing expenditures of public funds by Board of Higher Education of City of New York or any unit thereof. Dabrowski v Rosenberg, 44 Misc. 2d 877, 255 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1178 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

In an action to direct the Secretary of State of the state of New York to allow the petitioner access to the corporate card index files in the Corporation Bureau of the Secretary of State, the petition must show that the Secretary of State is specifically enjoined by law to permit the petitioner to inspect the corporate card index files. The corporate card index file maintained in the office of the Secretary of State is not a public record. Such file is not kept pursuant to any statutory mandate but rather is an office procedure simplifying and expediting performance of the duties of the

Town clerk has duty to furnish, upon request and upon payment of lawful fees, copy of list of dog owners filed in his office by dog enumerator. List must be certified and fees therefor are property of the town. Fees for preparing and certifying list are $.20 per folio plus $.25 for certificate. 1955 Ops St Compt 372.

Confidential claims for investigative expenses submitted by the Nassau County District Attorney to the County Comptroller are not available for inspection by the public until the investigation is complete. 1968 Ops St Compt File #748.

323. —Minutes of meetings of boards or authorities

By virtue of Education Law § 6306, board of trustees of community college was a "board" within the meaning of General Municipal Law § 51, and records thereof were matters of public record discoverable by county taxpayers where said board failed to establish any compelling reason why minutes of board were not matters of public record, or cite any statute or rule enjoining secrecy of records. Resident and taxpayer of county in which community college was located had legal standing to bring Article 78 petition to compel college board of trustees to permit examination of minutes of board meetings; it was immaterial that petitioner was also an employee of college and a member of its faculty association. Cline v Board of Trustees, 76 Misc. 2d 536, 351 N.Y.S.2d 81, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1528 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), aff'd, 45 A.D.2d 823, 357 N.Y.S.2d 1022, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7188 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

The minutes of a municipal housing authority are open to inspection only by parties showing a special interest to be served. 1967 Ops St Compt File #331.

Tape recordings used as an aid in compiling official minutes of village board meetings are not public records. 1968 Ops St Compt File #525.

324. —Motor vehicle records

Such records of police commissioner of city of Buffalo as are public records must be produced pursuant to Pub. Off. Law, § 66, and petitioner, who was involved in motor vehicle accident, is entitled to inspect and to copy such records and any other statement signed by a person involved in the motor vehicle accident as are on file with the commissioner pursuant to Veh. and Tr. Law, § 70, subd. 5-a. Blandford v McClellan, 16 N.Y.S.2d 919, 173 Misc. 15, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1373 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

Inspection of a medical officer's report on an autopsy performed on a deceased motorist might be obtained under this section, at the office of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles where filing of the report was required by § 603 of the Vehicle and Traffic Law. Walsh v Beckman, 29 Misc. 2d 591, 215 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2963 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

325. —Police records

Notwithstanding statutory provisions for unrestricted searches, examinations and the procurement of transcripts of public records, disclosure of certain records of police department would be denied where such records were the object of an investigation of serious crime by an Assistant Attorney General. Nunziata v Police Dep't of New York, 73 Misc. 2d 29, 341 N.Y.S.2d 22, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2244 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

Photographs taken by a village police department and kept in its files are part of the reports of the occurrences at which they were taken. While they are not open to the inspection of the general public, accident reports, including any photographs must be available to interested parties. A fee of one dollar per copy may be charged, or where necessary, a different fee may be established by local law. 1967 Ops St Compt File #639.

326. —Prison records

Pre-parole records of inmates of state institution are confidential and are not "public records" within the meaning of this section. The board of parole does not have a mandatory duty to make them available for inspection and copy. Jordan v Loos, 125 N.Y.S.2d 447, 204 Misc. 814, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2334 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953), aff'd, 283 A.D. 983, 130 N.Y.S.2d 904, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5998 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954).

327. —Tax records

Property appraisal information data accumulated in connection with an urban renewal project are not public records which taxpayers and property owners have a right to inspect, being mere opinions for guidance on whether to acquire the property by purchase or condemnation, the disclosure of which to property owners would tend to hinder rather than to promote the program without serving any useful or beneficial public purpose. Sorley v Lister, 33 Misc. 2d 471, 218 N.Y.S.2d 215, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2694 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

This section does not cover records, reports and audits prepared by employees of a State Tax Commission in connection with checking records of the New York Racing Association in determining the proper franchise tax to be paid by that association, and such records are not "public records" within the intendment of this section. Thaler v Murphy, 42 Misc. 2d 1, 247 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1973 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

The county treasurer issues copies of town and county tax receipts: the town clerk provides copies of school tax receipts. 1954 Ops St Compt 64.

A card file kept by a town receiver of taxes listing names of property owners and addresses to which tax bills are to be sent is not open to public inspection. 1969 Ops St Compt File #587.

A town clerk is required, on demand and on payment of fee, to furnish a properly certified copy of assessment roll. 1967 Ops St Compt File #672.

328. —Other and miscellaneous

The state traffic commission has legal authority to promulgate rules regarding the speed at which one may travel on the New York State highways and the director of the commission can issue under seal a certificate stating that there is no rule or regulation permitting a speed greater than 50 miles per hour along any highway within the state. People v Thomas, 105 N.Y.S.2d 611, 199 Misc. 163, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2522 (N.Y. County Ct. 1950).

A certificate signed by the State Traffic Commission which certified that the Commission had not fixed a maximum speed greater than 50 miles per hour along any highway within the State of New York could properly be received in evidence in a prosecution for violation of Vehicle and Traffic Law § 56(4). People v Martin, 136 N.Y.S.2d 777, 207 Misc. 127, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3382 (N.Y. County Ct. 1955).

A town clerk may not provide periodic lists of documents filed in his office to a private credit bureau. 1967 Ops St Compt File #651.

1. Requests for photocopied records

Unpublished decision: While N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 87 did have provisions for photocopying records sought under the Freedom of Information Law, N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 84 et seq., it also allowed the agency from which records were sought to make its own rules as to the manner of access. Humane Soc'y of the United States v Fanslau, 237 N.Y.L.J. 25, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 322 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Jan. 26, 2007).

2. Miscellaneous

Unpublished decision: Bankruptcy court acted within its equitable authority when it stayed a state court action that sought disclosure of records related to the closure of a hospital owned by a bankruptcy debtor; the bankruptcy court reasonably found that the purpose of the state court action was to investigate causes of action within the bankruptcy court's exclusive purview, as documents filed in the state court action alleged fraud, waste, and improper transfers. I. In General

A. Generally

1. In general

Freedom of Information Law does not require agency to provide information or answer questions, but only to make existing records available upon request where such records do not fall under one or more of grounds for denial. 1986 Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-4187.

Freedom of Information Law pertains to rights of access to records, and does not deal with accuracy of contents of records such that it does not provide applicant with right to challenge any and all errors contained in records requested. 1986 Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-4309.

To extent that news media obtains police blotters or complaint reports pursuant to Freedom of Information Law, individual, as member of public, would enjoy same rights; when records are accessible under Freedom of Information Law, they should be made available to any person, without regard to status or interests. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4585.

Freedom of Information Law requires that each agency make available for public inspection and copying all records, except those records or portions thereof that fall within grounds for denial, as such, applicant may use his or her photocopy machine to prepare copies of town records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4759.

Since agency is generally obliged to maintain custody and control of its records, applicant may be required to review records in presence of official of agency; since agency must grant or deny access to records within prescribed periods of time, as long as records are made available for inspection or copying within those time periods, agency could wait until official of agency could be present; however, if agency official cannot be present during course of time period, access cannot be delayed or denied until that person becomes available. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4869.

Freedom of Information Law requires that each agency shall make available for public inspection and copying all records, except those records or portions thereof that fall within one or more grounds for denial; as such, applicant for records may use his or her photocopy machine to prepare copies of town records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4936.

Freedom of Information Law pertains to records of governmental entity; it does not apply to records or information maintained by private individual and in situation where private citizen contacts other private citizens using personal resources, rather than those of agency, Freedom of Information Law would not be applicable or irrelevant. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4949.

Freedom of Information Law does not require that agency transfer records from location where record is available for inspection and copying to another location. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4984.

Although Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) requires agencies to respond to requests for existing records and disclose those records in accordance with its provisions, FOIL is not vehicle that requires agencies to provide information by responding to questions. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7549.

Whether document in possession of agency is signed or unsigned, undated or characterized as unofficial, it nonetheless falls within coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8378.

Insofar as record is disclosed at open meeting, agency waives any right to withhold it that might otherwise have existed; even though there may have been basis for withholding prior to public disclosure of record, that activity precludes agency from withholding any portion of document that was disclosed. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9178.

Introductory language of CLS Pub O § 87(2), which refers to ability of agency to withhold "records or portions thereof" that fall within scope of grounds for denial that follow, indicates recognition on part of drafters of statute that there may be situations in which single record or report includes both information that must be disclosed and information that may be withheld; that phrase also imposes obligation upon agency to review records sought in their entirety to determine which portions, if any, may properly be withheld. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9214.

Freedom of Information Law governs records of local boards of ethics. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12169.

Claim or promise of confidentiality is irrelevant to analysis of rights of access to records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12605.

Regulations of Committee on Open Government and local laws enacted under CLS Pub O § 87(1) can deal only with procedural implementation of Freedom of Information Law; neither may govern extent to which records may be withheld. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12829.

Former mayor has no "right" to determine which documents are accessible to public, despite agreement between city and mayor's private entity to which documents were transferred, where such documents are city records, and all such records are subject to rights of access conferred on public by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-13194.

2. Access officers, generally

3. —Duties of access officers, generally

4. — —Staff duties

Pursuant to regulations and to implement CLS Pub O § 89(3) concerning agency's duty to provide certification, records access officer has duty of ensuring that town personnel certify that copies of records are true copies. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8378.

Records access officer has duty of coordinating responses to requests for records under Freedom of Information Law; as such, records access officer may designate staff to carry out functions associated with implementation of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9248.

Not every official or staff person within agency must be expert with respect to Freedom of Information Law; it is duty of records access officer to coordinate agency's response to requests, and each official or staff person in possession of records should not have authority to determine whether or when those records should be disclosed. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12681.

One duty of designated records access officer is to assist requestor, upon request, to identify records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4086.

Records access officer has duty of coordinating an agency's response to requests; requests should generally be directed to records access officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4630.

Freedom of Information Law requires each agency to have "records access officer" to whom requests may be directed and who has duty of coordinating agency's response to request for records; therefore, requests should be sent to "records access officer" in relevant agency; request should be made in writing and should reasonably describe record so that there is sufficient detail to enable agency officials to locate records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4693.

Agency's regulations must include reference to designation of one or more "record access officers", person or persons to whom request may be directed and who have duty of coordinating agency's response to request. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4698.

Agency must appoint records access officer who has duty of coordinating agency's response to request for records sought under Freedom of Information Law; request should be directed to records access officer of agency that maintains records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4704.

Agency must appoint records access officers who has duty of coordinating agency's response for requests for records made under Freedom of Information Law; as such, requests for records should generally be directed to records access officer of agency that maintains records requested. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4721.

Request for records should be directed to records access officer at agency or agencies that maintain records sought; records access officer has duty of co-ordinating agency's response to request for records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4754.

Requests for records should generally be directed to records access officer of agency whose duty is to coordinate agency's response to request for records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4766.

Freedom of Information Law requires that each agency designate one or more records access officers whose duty is to coordinate agency's response to request; requests for records should be directed to that person. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4770.

Request or requests should be directed to records access officer at agency or agencies which maintain records sought because each agency has designated representative as officer who has duty of coordinating agency's response to requests for records made under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4774.

Records access officer has duty of coordinating agency's response to request for records; board of each community school district has designated records access officer who is required to respond to request for records maintained by district. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4780.

Requests made under Freedom of Information Law should be directed to records access officers of agencies where records are sought; each agency should have designated records access officer having duty of coordinating agency's response to requests made under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4790.

Requests for records should be directed to agency's designated records access officer who has duty of coordinating agency's response to requests; records access officer has duty to respond within 5 business days of receipt of request and if request is denied, reasons must be stated in writing, and applicant must be informed of right to appeal. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4952.

Agency is required to designate one or more records access officers who have duty of coordinating agency's response to requests because often employees of agency are unfamiliar with law and might not even recognize that request has been made; single records access officer generally has opportunity to develop degree of expertise and requests or inquiries involving access to records should generally be funneled to that person. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4955.

Each agency must designate one or more records access officers who is person having duty for coordinating agency's response to requests; therefore, requests should be directed to records access officer of agency that maintains records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4957.

Designated records access officer of each agency is required to assist request in identifying records if necessary. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4975.

Agency's records access officer has duty individually, or in that person's role of coordinating response to request under Freedom of Information Law, to inform person denied access of right to appeal as well as name and address of person or body to whom appeal may be directed. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9722.

5. —Effect of failure to designate access officer

Failure to designate particular person as records access officer constitutes deficiency in city's regulations under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO 2972.

Absence of freedom of information officer does not constitute valid basis for delaying access beyond time required for response; shortage of staff does not constitute valid basis for delaying or denying access to records. Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-3400.

6. —Specific access officers; For appeals

7. — —For correctional facility

Regulations of department of correctional services pursuant to Freedom of Information Law require that superintendent of correctional facility acts as records access officer. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4606.

Even though department of correctional services, pursuant to Freedom of Information Law, permits custodian of department records to waive copy and fee, there is no requirement that fee must be waived; superintendent of correctional facility is "custodian of records". Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4621.

Requests for records should be directed to records access officer of agency that maintains records; requests for records kept at correctional facility may be directed to facility superintendent or his designee. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4823.

Written request for records should be directed to records access officer of agency or agencies that maintain records; request for records kept at correctional facility may be directed to facility superintendent or his designee. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4824.

Under Freedom of Information Law, requests for records kept at correctional facility may be directed to facility superintendent; Freedom of Information Law requires that applicant reasonably describe records sought and include sufficient detail to enable agency officials to locate records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4845.

Freedom of Information Law request for records of correctional facility's purchase orders and related records, and Inspector General's report, should have been submitted to Department of Correctional Services' records access officer rather than facility's inmate records coordinator. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10100.

8. — —For District Attorney's office

Agency is required to appoint records access officer who has duty of coordinating agency's response to requests for records under Freedom of Information Law; request for records should be directed to records access officer in office of district attorney that maintains record. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4701.

9. — —For health care facility

Request by patient to inspect or copy his or her medical records should be made to director of medical records of health care facility that maintains records or to health care provider who treated patient. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4633.

10. — —For library

It was inappropriate for library board of trustees to serve as records access officer since duties to be performed in that role could then be carried out by unspecified board member. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8330.

11. — —For municipality

The rules and regulations of a town with regard to its public records may designate the town clerk as the individual to issue copies of town records, including town ordinances. 1979 Op St Compt File #546.

Where records access officer is also town clerk, and information requested is in physical custody of town library, person requesting information does not have to go to library to review information, since town clerk, as records access officer, has authority to obtain records from library director in order to carry out responsibilities under FOIL. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4084.

In most towns, records access officer is town clerk, for CLS Town § 30 specifies that clerk is legal custodian of all town records, even though town clerk might not have physical custody or possession of all town records, clerk nonetheless maintains legal custody of such records and, assuming that town clerk is records access officer, she has duty to respond to request and make records available to extent required by Freedom of Information Law, regardless of which town official physically maintains records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4492.

Since it is responsibility of county attorney to act as legal counsel to county departments, it is proper for county attorney to respond to request for records on behalf of officials of county department; as such, fact that county legislature (governing body of county, public corporation) was advised of request for records and asked that county attorney respond, while not common practice, did not appear to be inconsistent with Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4951.

If an agency has designated a series of records access officers, a request should be initially made to the records access officer for the department maintaining the record sought. On the other hand, if there is one records access officer for the entire municipality, that person would have the responsibility of coordinating responses to requests for records physically kept or maintained in any office or by any department within the municipality. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-6231 (1990).

Failure of town supervisor to share records or to inform clerk of their existence may effectively preclude clerk from carrying out her duties as records management officer, or if she or someone else is so designated as records access officer for purposes of responding to requests under Freedom of Information Law; if records access officer does not know existence or location of town records, that person may not have ability to grant or deny access to records in manner consistent with requirements of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8289.

When county clerk is acting in his or her capacity as court clerk, records fall beyond coverage of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8519.

Failure of town supervisor to share records or to inform clerk of their existence might effectively preclude clerk from carrying out her duties as records management officer or, if she or someone else is so designated, as records access officer for purposes of responding to requests under Freedom of Information Law; if records access officer does not know existence or location of town records, that person may not have ability to grant or deny access to records in manner consistent with requirements of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9422.

County government records may be requested from county officials generally, as well as from records access officer who has duty of coordinating responses to requests. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10004.

Payroll records were in possession of town supervisor only in his capacity as government official acting in performance of his duties, and thus were subject to rights conferred by Freedom of Information Law; town clerk, not supervisor, was records access officer with legal custody of payroll records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10025.

Records access officer's response to request for records maintained by Albany County Department of Public Works, that "all Freedom of Information requests must be filed through the Albany County Clerk's Office," was inconsistent with Freedom of Information Law and unnecessarily delayed issuance of determination to grant or deny applicant's request. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10222.

Because town clerks are both legal custodians of town records under CLS Town § 30 and records management officer, they are in most circumstances also designated as records access officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12910.

Governing body must appoint records access officer and appeals officer or body, who must be identified by name, title, business address and business telephone number; records access officer shall not be appeals officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4725.

Records access officer should not be appeals officer and if appeals officer is not known, appeal should be directed to head or governing body of agency maintaining records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4730.

Agency is required to designate records access officer who has duty of responding to requests for records and appeals person or body responsible for making determinations on appeals; Freedom of Information Law provides that the appeals officer should be head, chief executive or governing body of agency or person designated by head, chief executive or governing body; however, records access officer cannot be appeals officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4810.

Initial request for records should be directed to records access officer of agency and appeals will be directed to appeals officer of that agency. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4847.

Although there may be more than one records access officer, each such records access officer is generally responsible for records maintained by separate units within agency; furthermore, person cannot serve as both records access officer and appeals officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4916.

Where records request is received by office of agency other than records access office, office receiving request should forward it to records access officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4162.

Under Freedom of Information Law, written request for records should be directed to records access officer of agency maintaining records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4578.

Head of agency must designate appeals officer or body, who must be identified by name, title, business address and business telephone number; further, records access officer shall not be appeals officer. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4723.

Requests for record should be directed to records access officer at agency or agencies that maintain records which are sought; further, when making request, sufficient detail should be included so to enable officials to locate records, such as names, dates, descriptions of events and similar details. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4737.

Requests for records should be directed to records access officer at agency or agencies that maintain records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4749.

Any request for records under Freedom of Information Law should be directed to records access officer of agency maintaining records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4750.

Request for records should be directed to records access officer of agency that maintains records sought, and request should reasonably describe records sought so that there is sufficient detail to enable agency officials to locate records sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4762.

Request for records should be directed to records access officer and agency that maintains record sought and applicant must reasonably describe records sought and include sufficient detail to enable officials to locate records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4865.

Request for records should be directed to records access officer at agency that maintains record sought. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4881.

Request for records should be directed to agency that maintains records and such request should be addressed to agency's records access officer; Freedom of Information Law requires that applicant reasonably describe records sought and include sufficient detail to enable agency officials to locate records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4974.

Agency's records access officer is not required to be present or participate personally with respect to every facet of dealing with request made under Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9248.

There is nothing in Freedom of Information Law or regulations of Committee on Open Government that focuses on qualifications of records access officer or those who may assist records access officer in carrying out his or her duties; records access officer has authority, and perhaps obligation in some instances, to consult with others in effort to ensure compliance with law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12699.

If Mohawk & Hudson River Humane Society maintains records for any municipality, Freedom of Information Law request should be made to that municipality's records access officer, who will then either direct society to disclose municipality's records in its possession or acquire records from society to review them for purpose of determining requester's rights of access. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3490.

Town clerk, not Secretary to Ethics Board or member of Board, has authority to determine rights of access in response to request made under Freedom of Information Law where town clerk has been designated records access officer. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-3712.

12. Accuracy of requested records

Mere characterization of record as "intra-agency material" would not serve to enable agency to withhold record in its entirety because portions containing statistical or factual information, instructions to staff that affect public, or final agency policy or determination must be made available; even though record or portions of record may be withheld under Freedom of Information Law, there is no requirement that record must be withheld, even if basis for denial can be asserted; certification made under Freedom of Information Law would not pertain to validity of contents of record, but rather would involve assertion that copy provided is true copy. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4666.

Although Freedom of Information Law pertains to records of agency, that statute deals with the rights of access to records; nothing in Freedom of Information Law deals specifically with right to amend or correct records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4880.

13. Construction, generally

14. —Presumptions

Freedom of Information Law is applicable to all records of agency, including sheriff's department, and is based upon presumption of access. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4872.

15. Consulting matters

Preliminary materials compiled by private firm acting as consultant for agency are subject to Freedom of Information Law when materials are not submitted to agency, but are used in preparing final report. 1986 Committee on Open Government FOIL-AO-4297.

Report made by consultant, that was hired by county, is likely to be accessible in part and deniable on part based upon its contents; report should be viewed in its entirety for purpose of disclosing those portions that are accessible in conjunction with CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g). Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4624.

There is nothing in Freedom of Information Law that precludes representative of one agency from conferring with or seeking advice of representative of another agency; consequently, if city appeals officer rendered determination after seeking advice of district attorney, there would not be any impropriety. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4800.

Representatives of agency may consult or confer with representatives of other agencies prior to granting or denying access to records; nevertheless, it is responsibility of agency to grant or deny access to its records and it would be inappropriate to transfer request for its records to another agency. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-7917.

Records prepared by town advisory commissions should not be viewed as consultant's report and would not fall within scope of CLS Pub O § 87(2)(g), unless commission were "agency" because it performed necessary function in decision-making process. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12641.

16. Custody and maintenance of records, generally

17. —Attorney-maintained records

Blanket denial of interim clerk's request for contents downloaded from former village clerk's computer, which had been removed and were in possession of village trustee and village attorney, was inconsistent with Freedom of Information law because, while some aspects of records in question might properly be withheld based on their specific contents, records themselves would not have come into possession of village trustee or attorney but for their roles in village government. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12,354.

Agency's records in possession of outside counsel should be available to individual to same extent that they would be available when they are in possession of agency. Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO-3705.

Records maintained away from village premises by its attorney fall within coverage of Freedom of Information Law; whether such records are available to public depends on their specific nature and content. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-10016.

18. —Stored records, generally

19. — —Computerized records

Blanket denial of interim clerk's request for contents downloaded from former village clerk's computer, which had been removed and were in possession of village trustee and village attorney, was inconsistent with Freedom of Information law because, while some aspects of records in question might properly be withheld based on their specific contents, records themselves would not have come into possession of village trustee or attorney but for their roles in village government. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12,354.

Since board of elections is component of county, Freedom of Information Law applies to all records of agency and all county records, including information kept on computer tapes or discs, which are subject to rights and access granted by Freedom of Information Law; data processing center serves as modern record storage, generating and retrieval center and these functions should not serve to impair capacity of agencies or public officers from carrying out statutory responsibilities under Freedom of Information Law. Comm On Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4600.

20. — —Home-stored records

There is no provision that requires that town records be kept in town offices at all times, and clerk may maintain temporary possession of records at her home, so long as that person complies with Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8489.

Town planning board could not restrict ability to view or copy its records to times when board met since, even if records were in physical possession of planning board, they were in legal custody of town clerk who, as records access officer pursuant to CLS Town § 30, had duty to coordinate response to Freedom of Information Law requests. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2227.

There is no provision that requires that town records be kept in town offices at all times, and clerk may maintain temporary possession of records at his or her home, so long as that person complies with Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't OML-AO-2407.

21. — —Temporarily stored records

A municipal (or fire district) governing board may retain private consultants and computer service companies for the purpose of assisting the chief fiscal officer in maintaining the financial records of the municipality. The financial records cannot be permanently removed from municipal custody, although they may be temporarily removed for the purpose of working on them consistent with the right of inspection accorded the general public under the Freedom of Information Law. Op St Comp, 1969, No. 69-509 is superseded to the extent that it is inconsistent with this opinion. 1980 Op St Compt File #540.

There is no provision that requires that town records be kept in town offices at all times, and clerk may maintain temporary possession of records at her home, so long as that person complies with Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-8489.

22. — —Unavailable records

Payroll record, which is required to be compiled, identifies faculty as part-time at community college; furthermore, it is implicit that payroll record required to be compiled pursuant to CLS Pub O § 87(3)(b) be current; if payroll record has not been prepared, proceeding could likely be commenced pursuant to CLS CPLR Article 78 to compel agency to perform duty that is required to be performed by law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4656.

All agencies, including police departments, must maintain reasonably detailed current list by subject matter, of all records in possession of agency and these subject matter lists will be available for disclosure; however, if police department does not maintain one or more of lists sought, Freedom of Information Law would not require that it create or prepare such lists in response to request; to extent that police department does maintain lists sought, they are likely to be available. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4660.

County police department's disposal of original record after it was microfilmed was consistent with CLS Art & Cult Affrs § 57.29 and rendered record unavailable from department under Freedom of Information Law; microfilmed record could be obtained from State Archives and Records Administration. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-9970.

Freedom of Information Law requires that agency search for records in its possession, whether or not they are on premises and even if they are kept in storage. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4481.

City was not prohibited from maintaining counseling memos and related personnel information in off-site location other than central personnel files. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12078.

It is duty of New York City Housing Development Corporation (HDC) to ensure that records be maintained in manner that gives effect to requirements of Local Government Records Law (CLS Art & Cult Affrs Art 57-A); law requires that such records must be kept, preserved and protected for minimum of 6 years. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12822.

Records cannot be destroyed without consent of Commissioner of Education, and local officials cannot destroy or dispose of records until minimum period for retention of records has been reached. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-12849.

Minutes of meetings of village board of trustees, which are in possession of village District Attorney, are subject to access under Freedom of Information Law, since minutes had been available from village clerk to any person since their creation. Comm on Open Govt FOIL-AO-3534.

Freedom of Information Law requires that each agency make available for public inspection and copying all records, except those records or portions thereof that fall within grounds for denial, as such, applicant may use his or her photocopy machine to prepare copies of town records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4759.

Documents concerning sewer projects and other legal business performed for village would be "records" of village subject to Freedom of Information Law; fact that records are kept in location other than municipal building should not affect village's legal custody of records. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4783.

Clerk is required to prepare minutes and make them available within 2 weeks of meetings to which they relate and if minutes cannot be provided within 2 weeks, clerk, in order to comply with Open Meetings Law, should prepare minutes within legal time limits and mark them as "unimproved", "draft" or "nonfinal". Town records need not necessarily be kept at town hall, nevertheless, if records are kept elsewhere they must be accessible to public in accordance with Freedom of Information Law at reasonable times; therefore, while a stenographer might have physical custody of audiotapes of meetings, those tapes are in legal custody of town, and town clerk is required to respond to request for tapes as required by Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4826.

Since agency is generally obliged to maintain custody and control of its records, applicant may be required to review records in presence of official of agency; since agency must grant or deny access to records within prescribed periods of time, as long as records are made available for inspection or copying within those time periods, agency could wait until official of agency could be present; however, if agency official cannot be present during course of time period, access cannot be delayed or denied until that person becomes available. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4869.

Freedom of Information Law deals with access to, rather than preservation of, public documents; therefore, although files in question have been preserved during period in which settlement guidelines are in effect, it is possible that, following expiration of effective date of settlement, some files might be destroyed; if documents in question are kept, held or filed by agency, they are "records" that fall within scope of Freedom of Information Law. Comm on Open Gov't FOIL-AO-4882.
