Analysis

1. In general
2. Horse races
3. Tests of skill

1. In general

Certificate that gambling devices or immoral shows have not knowingly been permitted at an agricultural fair is not conclusive upon commissioner, and that official may go behind such certificate to investigate and consider the facts. 1927 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 183, 1927 N.Y. AG LEXIS 46.

2. Horse races

There is no provision in statutes of the state prohibiting the holding of horse races at which bookmaking and open betting are permitted at the state fair or at a county agricultural association fair. Provision in § 288 has no application to the registering or recording of bets on horse races. 1934 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 324; 1934 N.Y. AG LEXIS 622.

3. Tests of skill

Games involving ring throwing at knives or canes are tests of skill. 1910 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 754, 1910 N.Y. AG LEXIS 208.

Nothing contained in section thirteen of this act shall be construed as impairing or affecting the power of the state liquor authority to determine, in accordance with other provisions of the alcoholic beverage control law, whether public convenience and advantage will be promoted by the issuance of licenses to traffic in alcoholic beverages, the increase or decrease in the number thereof and the location of premises licensed thereby.

Laws 1988, ch 66, § 1, eff April 29, 1988, amended Laws 1984, ch 500, § 4, so as to delete an expiration date of May 1, 1988 previously applicable to the amendments of subs 5 and 11.

Laws 2003, ch 62, § 8 (Part W3), eff May 15, 2003, expires and repealed May 15, 2008, provides as follows:

§ 8. This act shall take effect immediately; provided, however, that section seven of this act shall expire and be deemed repealed 5 years after such date. (Amd, L 2008, ch 57, § 1 (Part NN-1), eff April 23, 2008.)

Laws 2004, ch 334, § 2, eff Sept 9, 2004, provides as follows:

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the thirtieth day after it shall have become a law, provided, however, that the amendments to subdivision 14 of section 105 of the alcoholic beverage control law made by section one of this act shall not affect the expiration of such subdivision and shall be deemed to expire therewith.

Laws 2008, ch 57, § 1 (Part NN-1), eff April 23, 2008, amended Laws 2003, ch 62, § 8 (Part W3), so as to delete an expiration provision applicable to the amendment of subdivision 14.

Amendment Notes The 2016 amendment by ch 297, § 11, substituted "subdivision three" for "subdivision two" in the third sentence of 5 and in the first sentence of 11; added the last sentence of 5; and added the second sentence of 11.

1. In general

The term "premises," as used in § 105, subds 2 and 4, means a store and not a building. Pierse v Zimmerman, 255 A.D. 708, 5 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4871 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938).

Plaintiff, on-premises licensee, had no standing to challenge validity of 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t), even though regulation impermissibly regulated off-premises licensees, since plaintiff was not aggrieved by regulation insofar as it affected off-premises licensees. Murray v State Liquor Authority, 139 A.D.2d 461, 527 N.Y.S.2d 384, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 72 N.Y.2d 951, 533 N.Y.S.2d 57, 529 N.E.2d 425, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2475 (N.Y. 1988), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 810, 534 N.Y.S.2d 938, 531 N.E.2d 658, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2919 (N.Y. 1988).

Suspension of off-premises liquor license for engaging in illegal wholesale transactions would be annulled and vacated where administrative law judge found that licensee had knowledge of illegal nature of sales on sole basis of fact that it sold much of its stock in case and multi-case lots to repeat customers and had at least one sales register specifically set aside for case lot sales; such evidence was insufficient to support finding of violation, and ignored fact that legislature had repealed former subdivision (13) of CLS Al Bev § 105, which had limited quantity of alcoholic beverages allowed to be sold by off-premises licensee on single occasion to 15 gallons or 5 cases. Merson v New York State Liquor Auth., 223 A.D.2d 436, 637 N.Y.S.2d 53, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 499 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

2. Constitutional questions

The word "main" in the statute is not ambiguous and the statute is not unconstitutional. Evers v Dimino, 61 N.Y.S.2d 504, 186 Misc. 136, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2072 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

Repeal of subd. 4 of this section by ch. 531 of the Laws of 1964 does not grant to the State Liquor Authority uncontrolled and unguided discretion in the licensing of retail liquor package stores, and such legislation is clearly constitutional. Martin v State Liquor Authority, 43 Misc. 2d 682, 252 N.Y.S.2d 365, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1528 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 707, 256 N.Y.S.2d 336, 204 N.E.2d 496, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1700 (N.Y. 1965).

3. Judicial review

On motion for reargument, appellate court would reverse its prior affirmance of judgment granted in favor of plaintiff, on-premises licensee, declaring that 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) was invalid exercise of Liquor Authority's rule-making powers because Alcoholic Beverage Control Law does not delegate to Authority any power to regulate off-premises licensees, since court was unaware when appeal was heard that plaintiff had no standing to challenge rule as it applied to off-premises licensees; although Authority did not previously challenge plaintiff's standing, issue could be addressed for first time on appeal. Murray v State Liquor Authority, 139 A.D.2d 461, 527 N.Y.S.2d 384, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 72 N.Y.2d 951, 533 N.Y.S.2d 57, 529 N.E.2d 425, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2475 (N.Y. 1988), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 810, 534 N.Y.S.2d 938, 531 N.E.2d 658, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2919 (N.Y. 1988).

Substantial evidence standard of review in CLS CPLR § 7803(4) did not apply in proceeding to review denial of application for retail liquor license since administrative hearing required by CLS Al Bev § 54(3) merely affords applicant opportunity to submit evidence that it wishes State Liquor Authority to consider. Capizzi v New York State Div. of Alcoholic Bev. Control, 231 A.D.2d 881, 647 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14299 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Substantial evidence supported determination that retail licensee violated CLS Al Bev §§ 100(1) and 105(12) by selling alcoholic beverages to other retail licensees for purpose of resale where receipts evidencing such sales were provided to investigator by 3 retail purchasers. 2 West 125th Liquors v New York State Liquor Auth., 217 A.D.2d 516, 630 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8123 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

The right to decide that a package store is on "main thoroughfare" is not confined exclusively to the State Liquor Authority but is also given to the Supreme Court. Evers v Dimino, 61 N.Y.S.2d 504, 186 Misc. 136, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2072 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

License granted to a package liquor store on a street considered by the authority as "main thoroughfare," since there was basis for the authority's determination it was reasonable, and the court will not disturb same. Sussman v Nappy, 61 N.Y.S.2d 318, 186 Misc. 139, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2033 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

A package liquor store operator has standing to attack the legality of a license issued to another operator on the ground that the issuance of the license to the second operator was in violation of sub 4 of this section. The Supreme Court has power to review the legality of the issuance of such a license. Reliable Wine & Liquor Shop, Inc. v Schimmelman, 115 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1697 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1952).

4. Powers and duties of State Liquor Authority

Where the State Liquor Authority denied an application to remove a licensed retail liquor package store from one location to another because the proposed new location was in a sparsely populated and undeveloped area and likewise because a modern shopping center was being constructed close to the proposed new location and the proposed removal would be to another borough, its determination should not have been annulled with a direction to approve the application, although some of the reasons stated for refusing it were untenable, and the matter was accordingly remitted to the authority for consideration of whether the application should be denied solely on the ground of public convenience. Kavanagh v Rohan, 13 A.D.2d 797, 215 N.Y.S.2d 639, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11038 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1961).

In a proceeding for the review of a determination of the State Liquor Authority suspending a retail liquor license, it cannot justify its action on the ground of violations of subd 8 or 9 of the above statute where such violations were not relied upon until this appeal. Winfield Flynn, Ltd. v New York State Liquor Authority, 23 A.D.2d 745, 258 N.Y.S.2d 669, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4392 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

State Liquor Authority (SLA) did not have either express or implied authority to suspend license of small grocery store/newsstand to sell beer for off-premises consumption on basis that store housed electronic "Joker Poker" video game since (1) CLS Al Bev § 106(6) only prohibits gambling within premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption on premises, and (2) CLS Al Bev §§ 2, 17, 114 and 118 did not confer implied authority on SLA to promulgate rules on its own. L. Newstand, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 151 A.D.2d 483, 542 N.Y.S.2d 275, 1989 N.Y.

App. Div. LEXIS 7476 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 710, 556 N.Y.S.2d 532, 555 N.E.2d 929, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 977 (N.Y. 1990).

Amendments to the ABC Law did not repeal, but on the contrary, reaffirmed "the power of the State Liquor Authority to determine, in accordance with other provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, whether public convenience and advantage would well be promoted by the issuance of licenses to traffic in alcoholic beverages, the increase or decrease in the number thereof and the location of premises licensed thereby." McNulty v State Liquor Authority, 48 Misc. 2d 653, 266 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 17 N.Y.2d 434, 266 N.Y.S.2d 522, 213 N.E.2d 802, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 923 (N.Y. 1965).

Because the prize awarded by a game was selected at random by the machine, pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 225.00(1), the overall game was a mixed game of skill and chance; therefore, because the State Liquor Authority did not err in finding that the game was a gambling device under N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law §§ 105(22), 106(6), the developer was not entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of Pace-o-matic, Inc. v New York State Liq. Auth., 72 A.D.3d 1144, 898 N.Y.S.2d 295, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2674 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

5. —Discretionary powers

An application to the State Liquor Authority for transfer of a liquor store to a new location involves exercise of discretion, and the mere fact that petitioner cannot profitably conduct his business at the licensed premises is no ground for mandating the grant of such an application. Lenward Liquor Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 19 A.D.2d 612, 241 N.Y.S.2d 11, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3524 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1963).

The crucial issue in a review of a determination of the authority is whether it acted arbitrarily and capriciously in disapproving the application for license for retail package liquor store. The finding of the authority was neither irrational or capacious where the evidence showed that the increase in the sales of the three nearby liquor stores amounted to five percent in the past year; that the area in question was not densely populated; that petitioner's business would have to draw from the same area; that the economy of the area was unlikely to be able to sustain an additional store, and that the area had a sufficient number of stores to serve the public. Hansen v State Liquor Authority, 77 A.D.2d 703, 430 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12438 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1980), aff'd, 53 N.Y.2d 693, 439 N.Y.S.2d 109, 421 N.E.2d 504, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2342 (N.Y. 1981).

In considering an action to annul the determination of the Authority to issue licenses for three additional package stores in a town where petitioner presently operated his store, the petition will be dismissed where it does not spell out facts evidencing abuse of or failure to exercise discretion on the part of the Authority, and it is to be remembered that the statutory standard in considering applications for additional package liquor stores is that of "public convenience and advantage" and not "public necessity," and competition rather than monopoly is the present policy in retail liquor selling. C. Van Deusen, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 47 Misc. 2d 1091, 263 N.Y.S.2d 980, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1505 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Though the liquor authorities are vested with considerable discretion and empowered to determine the location of premises licensed, their discretion is circumscribed by the law itself, viz., the 1500 foot provision. In re Greenfield, 32 N.Y.S.2d 471 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

6. —Rational basis; "arbitrary and capricious"

The State Liquor Authority's "policy" of refusing every petition to remove a package liquor store to a "modern shopping center" was invalid for want of a definite meaning of "modern shopping center". And even if the term "modern shopping center" had a definite meaning, there was no warrant for a policy which flatly excluded liquor stores from all such centers without regard to the facts of each particular case. Swalbach v State Liquor Authority, 7 N.Y.2d 518, 200 N.Y.S.2d 1, 166 N.E.2d 811, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1361 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 8 N.Y.2d 934, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1940 (N.Y. 1960).

The discretion of the state liquor authority in denying a new application for a license, or a renewal application, is broader than in revoking or suspending a license, and the court is limited to a determination of whether the record discloses circumstances which leave no possible scope for the reasonable exercise of that discretion, but even such broad discretion must rest on a foundation of rationality. Sled Hill Cafe, Inc. v Hostetter, 22 N.Y.2d 607, 294 N.Y.S.2d 497, 241 N.E.2d 714, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1096 (N.Y. 1968).

Denial of license by state liquor authority was arbitrary and capricious where based on no more than evidence that applicant knew three people who had police records concerning use of marijuana and there was no showing that applicant was a personal friend of either such persons but his association with them was solely that of a proprietor to a patron. Sled Hill Cafe, Inc. v Hostetter, 22 N.Y.2d 607, 294 N.Y.S.2d 497, 241 N.E.2d 714, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1096 (N.Y. 1968).

Where the holder of a retail store liquor license has been compelled to vacate the premises in which he has been doing business because of condemnation of the building and has been out of business for two years without being able to obtain a relocation permit, his petition for change of location for his licensed premises should be regarded as a hardship case and should not be denied except upon rational grounds. Camperlengo v State Liquor Authority, 16 A.D.2d 342, 228 N.Y.S.2d 115, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9812 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962).

The refusal of the State Liquor Authority to license a package store in an enclosed mall which contained 62 retail outlets selling merchandise of all descriptions was arbitrary and capricious, and its finding that the premises were not located on a public thoroughfare and that the physical layout of the proposed premises would not afford proper and adequate visibility for representatives of the Authority or enforcement authorities was without rational basis. Accordingly, an order instructing the Authority to grant the proposed license was affirmed. Alro Liquors, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 271, 288 N.Y.S.2d 179, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4562 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1968), aff'd, 27 N.Y.2d 984, 318 N.Y.S.2d 742, 267 N.E.2d 478, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 921 (N.Y. 1970).

It was neither arbitrary nor capricious to deny petitioner's application for retail liquor license on ground that premises were within 200 feet of building occupied exclusively as church (CLS Al Bev § 105(3)), even if bridal shower and birthday parties were held at church, since those secular activities were incidental and not inconsistent with use of building as church. Capizzi v New York State Div. of Alcoholic Bev. Control, 231 A.D.2d 881, 647 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14299 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

4.5. — Inspections

State Liquor Authority (SLA) properly found that a licensee violated the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law and Rules of State Liquor Authority by failing to permit an inspection and engaging in improper conduct because, while the SLA board erred in placing the case before a second ALJ rather than deciding the matter itself, the licensee could not limit the SLA's inspection of its books and records merely by unilaterally designating some of that material to be "personal" in nature, and there was substantial evidence in the record to support the board's determination sustaining the charges. Matter of Henry St. Liquors, Inc. v New York State Liq. Auth., 153 A.D.3d 1404, 62 N.Y.S.3d 417, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6653 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

7. Removal of licensed premises

Fact that the transfer of a liquor store license to a new location will increase competition is no ground for setting aside the Authority's decision to grant the removal application. Hub Wine & Liquor Co. v State Liquor Authority, 16 N.Y.2d 112, 262 N.Y.S.2d 457, 209 N.E.2d 788, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1189 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 16 N.Y.2d 992, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 2418 (N.Y. 1965).

Denial of petitioner's application to change location of his liquor store from a building in Manhattan which had been condemned by the city and must be vacated to a new location in Brooklyn on a predominantly business street, across from a public housing development, more than half a mile away from the nearest existing liquor store and much more than 200 feet away from any church or school was so arbitrary and unreasonable as to require reversal with directions to grant the application. Camperlengo v State Liquor Authority, 16 A.D.2d 342, 228 N.Y.S.2d 115, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9812 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962).

To obtain permission for the removal of a package liquor store to a new location it must appear that public convenience and advantage will be promoted by the removal. Lenward Liquor Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 19 A.D.2d 612, 241 N.Y.S.2d 11, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3524 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1963).

8. Transportation and delivery

A retailers license should not be revoked for failure to have his name, address and liquor license number on his vehicle where it fell off accidentally and caused no misunderstanding with third parties. 67 Liquor Shop, Inc. v O'Connell, 273 A.D. 68, 75 N.Y.S.2d 411, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2931 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

Subds 8 and 9 of the above statute relate solely to the transportation of liquor in vehicles and hence would not apply to a single delivery of liquor by messenger. Winfield Flynn, Ltd. v New York State Liquor Authority, 23 A.D.2d 745, 258 N.Y.S.2d 669, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4392 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

Substantial evidence clearly supported State Liquor Authority's determination that liquor store violated CLS Al Bev § 105 in delivering alcoholic beverages for resale, despite less than compelling testimony, where it was fairly inferable that store owner knew that purchases by manager of nearby tavern under continuing arrangement with store owner were made for benefit of tavern, and that liquor was being provided for resale to tavern's patrons, given manager's testimony that purchases were made on those occasions when tavern did not have brands of alcohol on hand necessary to service its customers. Lane v State Liquor Authority, 127 A.D.2d 922, 511 N.Y.S.2d 978, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43416 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

9. Entrances

Package liquor store which faced the parking lot of a shopping center adjacent to a public thoroughfare, provided free access to the street and satisfied requirements of this section that the "principal entrance" of a package store should be from the street level and located on a public thoroughfare. Hardy v Meyer, 28 A.D.2d 587, 279 N.Y.S.2d 637, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4201 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1967).

Under § 105, subd 2, it is unnecessary that the entrance be at actual street level if there is visibility into the store. Lipshitz v T & D Wine & Liquors, Inc., 75 N.Y.S.2d 321, 190 Misc. 261, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3397 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

The provisions of this section requiring that retail liquor stores have an entrance from street level and be located on a public thoroughfare are irrelevant to a concern which sells liquor exclusively for delivery in a foreign country. Idlewild Bon-Voyage Liquor Corp. v Epstein, 212 F. Supp. 376, 1962 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6027 (S.D.N.Y. 1962), aff'd, 377 U.S. 324, 84 S. Ct. 1293, 12 L. Ed. 2d 350, 1964 U.S. LEXIS 2170 (U.S. 1964).

10. Ownership interest

Determination which found petitioner guilty of permitting unauthorized person to have interest in petitioner annulled–petitioner's principal is sole officer, director, and shareholder of petitioner which is licensed to operate retail liquor store; State Liquor Authority (SLA) alleged that petitioner had violated Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 105 (16) by permitting individual, although not officer, director or shareholder of petitioner, to hold interest in that licensee corporation–petitioner had employed subject individual as consultant concerning purchasing and merchandising of wine, and as salesperson; in exchange for working 8 to 10 hours per week, petitioner paid him $150 per week; while he worked for petitioner, individual held liquor license to operate his own retail store– Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 105 (16) provides "No retail licensee to sell liquors and/or wines for off-premises consumption shall be interested . . . in any premises where liquors, wines or beer are manufactured or sold at wholesale or any other premises where liquor or wine is sold at retail for off-premises consumption"; mere evidence that individual worked as part-time employee of petitioner did not establish that he had direct or indirect interest in petitioner, so as to violate Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 105 (16); there is no substantial evidence to support conclusion that principal of petitioner had any knowledge that while individual worked for petitioner he was principal in another licensed premises, and therefore, principal of petitioner did not abet violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 105 (16). Skies The Limit Spirits, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 160 A.D.2d 534, 554 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4542 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 705, 559 N.Y.S.2d 984, 559 N.E.2d 678, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1961 (N.Y. 1990).

Evidence did not support Liquor Authority's determination that retail liquor store violated CLS Al Bev § 105(16) where store employed owner of another retail liquor store as part-time consultant and sales person; such employment did not constitute direct or indirect interest in employer store. Skies The Limit Spirits, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 160 A.D.2d 534, 554 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4542 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 705, 559 N.Y.S.2d 984, 559 N.E.2d 678, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1961 (N.Y. 1990).

There is no prohibition, expressly or by application, in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law regarding issuance of licenses to more than one member of a family, and the State Liquor Authority's refusal to grant a package store license on the ground that similar licenses had previously been granted to two other members of the same family was unjustified. Santillo v State Liquor Authority, 54 Misc. 2d 557, 283 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1378 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

The fact that various otherwise independently owned and operated liquor package stores jointly placed newspaper advertising did not give any one of the stores any interest in the business or operations of any other joint advertiser in violation of subd 16 of this section. Rosenblum v State Liquor Authority, 54 Misc. 2d 617, 283 N.Y.S.2d 288, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1274 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

11. —Landlord and tenant

The intent of the legislature, as gathered from the wording of this section, appears to be to prevent the concentration of revenues from retail liquor sales in a few hands, even though actual control of no one establishment might be involved, and where licensed petitioner owned 40 per cent of the voting stock and 38 per cent of the total outstanding stock in department store which owned all the stock in a licensed package store, and petitioner owned the same percentages of stock in a real estate corporation, the wholly owned subsidiary of which was the landlord of the licensed package store, such petitioner was properly denied a license to sell liquor for off-premises consumption, and the license was instead given to the package store. E. J. Korvette, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 26 A.D.2d 439, 275 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2929 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1966), aff'd, 21 N.Y.2d 766, 288 N.Y.S.2d 239, 235 N.E.2d 223, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1663 (N.Y. 1968).

The fact that a joint venturer having a one-fourth interest in the enterprise also had a one-fourth interest in land leased on a cash basis to a shopping plaza which had in turn leased one percent of the land area on a cash basis to a package liquor store, would not preclude the transfer of petitioner's retail off-premises liquor license to the joint venture. Jonas v New York State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 529, 285 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2669 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

Absent some clear showing to the contrary, the mere fact of a landlord-tenant relation does not suffice to establish that the landlord, who is a retail liquor store licensee, has a proscribed interest in the business of the tenant who also has, or seeks, a retail liquor store license. Tradesmen Wines & Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 45 A.D.2d 1014, 358 N.Y.S.2d 76, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4264 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 35 N.Y.2d 824, 362 N.Y.S.2d 859, 321 N.E.2d 781, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1181 (N.Y. 1974).

Mere fact that landlord of applicant for retail liquor store license was a partnership, one of whose partners was an officer, director, and stockholder in corporation which held its own retail liquor store license, was insufficient to show that landlord had a proscribed interest in the tenant's business, especially where rental payments were not to be based on percentage of sales. Tradesmen Wines & Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 45 A.D.2d 1014, 358 N.Y.S.2d 76, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4264 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 35 N.Y.2d 824, 362 N.Y.S.2d 859, 321 N.E.2d 781, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1181 (N.Y. 1974).

Retail liquor store license could not be revoked on basis that one of the officers of corporation which held the license was a partner in partnership which was landlord of applicant for another liquor license. Tradesmen Wines & Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 45 A.D.2d 1014, 358 N.Y.S.2d 76, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4264 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 35 N.Y.2d 824, 362 N.Y.S.2d 859, 321 N.E.2d 781, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1181 (N.Y. 1974).

Where the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board disapproved of petitioner's application for a "package store license" because petitioner's lease provided for a percentage of sales against a minimum rental and the landlord had leased another store to another applicant for a license upon a similar lease, the court held that petitioner's application should be remitted for further consideration since under such a lease arrangement, the landlord had no greater interest in the premises than if the lease had been on a monthly or yearly basis. The court noted that the landlord was not a "retail licensee" as referred to in § 105, nor was he a "person" having one or more licenses referred to in § 63 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, and that the instant decision rendered it unnecessary to consider whether the refusal was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Fraser v Hostetter, 47 Misc. 2d 534, 262 N.Y.S.2d 891, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1646 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Fact that proposed landlord was also landlord of four other retail package liquor stores would not present grounds for denial of application to move retail liquor store license to new location where lease provided for a flat annual rental. Metcalf v State Liquor Authority, 57 Misc. 2d 476, 292 N.Y.S.2d 945, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1302 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968), aff'd, 31 A.D.2d 890, 299 N.Y.S.2d 814, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5109 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1969).

The fact that the landlord of an applicant for a restaurant liquor license was, at one time a licensee of a retail liquor store at a different location from the premises sought to be licensed and during the time of his ownership of that store he was warned of illegal practices and his license was suspended, has no relation whatsoever as to the merits of the petitioner's application and especially where no error in the answering papers nor the affidavits is there shown any proof that the relation between the landlord and the petitioner is other than that of landlord and tenant. Munoz v O'Connell, 107 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2354 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

12. Prices

Evidence that sales were made above the OPA prices and entered on the books at the ceiling prices is sufficient to sustain a violation of this section. Glenram Wine & Liquor Corp. v O'Connell, 295 N.Y. 336, 67 N.E.2d 570, 295 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 336, 1946 N.Y. LEXIS 823 (N.Y. 1946).

The state liquor authority is without power to cancel or refuse to renew the petitioner's license because of sales above prices fixed by OPA. Ilsa Wine & Liquor Corp. v O'Connell, 271 A.D. 58, 63 N.Y.S.2d 217, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2693 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Advertisements of the price of beer or liquor for consumption off the retail premises which recite that particular brands are "priced under" or "pay less than" a certain figure violate Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 105(19). Rosenblum v Al's Liquors, Inc., 50 Misc. 2d 1036, 272 N.Y.S.2d 242, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1684 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 27 A.D.2d 521, 276 N.Y.S.2d 846, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2901 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1966).

13. —Advertising prices

The language of subdivision 19 of § 105 of the Alcoholic Beverage Law should not be read to impose greater restrictions on competition and on advertising of liquor than its words require. Its actual words prohibit advertising of "the price" and not comparative terms or selling arguments. Great Eastern Liquor Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 25 N.Y.2d 525, 307 N.Y.S.2d 441, 255 N.E.2d 704, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 909 (N.Y. 1969).

Licensee did not publicize "the price" of liquor by newspaper advertisements relative to percentages off and to savings. Great Eastern Liquor Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 25 N.Y.2d 525, 307 N.Y.S.2d 441, 255 N.E.2d 704, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 909 (N.Y. 1969).

The specific restriction on banners and signs on the licensed premises provided in Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 105, subdivision 20 does not limit the unamended provisions of subdivision 19 as to advertising "by any other means", for example newspaper advertising which does not itself state "the price." Great Eastern Liquor Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 25 N.Y.2d 525, 307 N.Y.S.2d 441, 255 N.E.2d 704, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 909 (N.Y. 1969).

Advertisement, by retail package liquor store, for sale of liquor "at wholesale" violated neither ABC Law § 105 nor ABC Law § 101-bb. Great Eastern Liquor Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 30 A.D.2d 307, 292 N.Y.S.2d 715, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3456 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968), aff'd, 25 N.Y.2d 525, 307 N.Y.S.2d 441, 255 N.E.2d 704, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 909 (N.Y. 1969).

Newspaper advertisements by retail package store advertising liquor as "22 percent off," "save over 1.20 quart," "save more than 22 percent," did not violate provisions of ABC Law § 105, subd 19. Jacoves Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 30 A.D.2d 820, 292 N.Y.S.2d 719, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3463 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968), aff'd, 25 N.Y.2d 525, 307 N.Y.S.2d 441, 255 N.E.2d 704, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 909 (N.Y. 1969).

Advertisement of a whisky "at cost price" does not violate § 105 of the Alcoholic Beverage Law. Anchor Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 31 A.D.2d 812, 297 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4688 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1969), app. dismissed, 26 N.Y.2d 694, 308 N.Y.S.2d 861, 257 N.E.2d 43, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1643 (N.Y. 1970).

Advertisements as to savings without advertising actual price did not violate statute prohibiting the advertising of the price of liquor. Samjack Liquors, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 32 A.D.2d 258, 301 N.Y.S.2d 101, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3609 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1969).

The use of the words "the price" and "such price" in subd 19 of this section clearly indicates that it is the specific price of a liquor item which the licensee is prohibited from displaying or advertising except in the interior of the licensed premises, and before it can be found that advertising matter violates the provisions of subd 19 of this section it must be made to appear that by reading such matter the prospective retail purchaser is able to know the amount he will be required to pay for the particular item advertised. Where the most a prospective purchaser would know after reading advertising material was that he would have to pay a price below that mentioned in the advertisement, and that such undetermined amount was not less than the cost to the retailer, the advertising material did not violate subd 19 of this section. Cohen v State Liquor Authority, 52 Misc. 2d 111, 275 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

The prohibitions of this section are confined and limited to and apply only on or adjacent to the licensed premises, so that respondent's advertisement of the price of liquor in local newspapers did not constitute a violation which could be enjoined. Retail Liquor Stores Ass'n v Hostetter, 52 Misc. 2d 947, 277 N.Y.S.2d 297, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1779 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

14. —Injunction of advertising

Taxpayer who lived in town which was within the county in which newspapers containing advertising allegedly in violation of subd 19 of this section, circulated, together with non-newspaper advertising material allegedly also in violation of subd 19 of this section, was a resident taxpayer in the town in which the allegedly illegal activity was taking place in contravention of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 123. Cohen v State Liquor Authority, 52 Misc. 2d 111, 275 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

Sections 123 and 124 do not provide for the granting of relief against the State Liquor Authority in a proceeding alleging violation on the part of retailers of subd 19 of this section. Cohen v State Liquor Authority, 52 Misc. 2d 111, 275 N.Y.S.2d 484, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

A retail liquor store association was "aggrieved party" entitled to seek a judgment directing the State Liquor Authority to enforce provisions of § 105(19) of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law to prohibit respondent from advertising the price of liquor. Retail Liquor Stores Ass'n v Hostetter, 52 Misc. 2d 947, 277 N.Y.S.2d 297, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1779 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

15. Location

Maintenance of required distances between licensed premises and churches and schools is mandatory, and the provisions relating thereto are to be liberally construed in favor of the schools and churches and strictly against license applicants. Tirdell v State Liquor Authority, 12 N.Y.2d 935, 238 N.Y.S.2d 513, 188 N.E.2d 788, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 1963).

Though the liquor authorities are vested with considerable discretion and empowered to determine the location of premises licensed, their discretion is circumscribed by the law itself, viz., the 1500 foot provision. In re Greenfield, 32 N.Y.S.2d 471 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

16. —Measurement of distance

In construing the provision prohibiting a liquor store within 200 feet of a school building, measurement must be made from the nearest entrance to building itself; gateway to playground is not "entrance." Thorne v Breese, 61 N.Y.S.2d 117, 186 Misc. 929, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1989 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

Section 105, subd. 4 does not set out a definite method of measurement but it is reasonable that the measurement should be made in a straight line from store to store. In re Greenfield, 32 N.Y.S.2d 471 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

The contention that only "safe-walking distances" should be used to measure the required 1500 foot distance would result in an inconclusive and unworkable procedure in the issuance of licenses. In re Greenfield, 32 N.Y.S.2d 471 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

17. —"Same street"

Two premises located on a street which is known by different names at different places involved but is physically one thoroughfare are situated on the same street or avenue within the meaning of this section. Frank v Hub Liquors, Inc., 244 A.D. 496, 279 N.Y.S. 636, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5856 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 268 N.Y. 688, 198 N.E. 559, 268 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 688, 1935 N.Y. LEXIS 1153 (N.Y. 1935).

However where Park Avenue, by resolution of the board of aldermen of New York City, begins at Thirty-second street, No. 2 Park avenue is not "on the same street or avenue" as No. 398 Fourth avenue, which is between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets, within the meaning of § 105, subd 4. The statute should be strictly construed since the penalties under §§ 112, 113, 126, 127 are severe for a violation thereof. Jacob Oberson, Inc. v Seyopp Corp., 251 A.D. 170, 295 N.Y.S. 346, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6887 (N.Y. App. Div. 1937).

Statutory construction of § 105, subd 3, by Authority which viewed corner premises as being located on both of intersecting thoroughfares held reasonable. Motto v State Liquor Authority, 28 A.D.2d 1101, 284 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3100 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

The fact that two avenues intersect at place which, because of this and other geographical factors, was given the name of "square," does not change or obliterate either of the avenues which continue to run, as before, up to, through and beyond so-called "square," so that the premises of the respondent, which are operated as a retail liquor store and designated as No. 66 Westchester square but which are actually located on East Tremont avenue, are not "located within 1,500 feet of any premises holding a similar license on the same street or avenue," where the petitioner's premises, also operated as a liquor store and designated as No. 127a Westchester square are actually located on Westchester avenue. Weber v Chrisamalis, 30 N.Y.S.2d 874, 177 Misc. 772, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2333 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 263 A.D. 806, 32 N.Y.S.2d 128, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5057 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

Where the name of Woodlawn Road was changed so that one portion became Bainbridge Avenue and the other East 204th Street, said two portions became separate and distinct streets. Pincus v Kall, 29 N.Y.S.2d 586, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2121 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 263 A.D. 807, 32 N.Y.S.2d 127, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5063 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

The words "on the same street or avenue" as used in this subdivision cannot, as a result of its amendment, now be given their natural and logical meaning in the light of the express and specific provision that licensed premises "shall be deemed to be located solely on the street or avenue from which the public entrance to such premises is situated, notwithstanding that such premises are situated in a building at the intersection of two thoroughfares." Reliable Wine & Liquor Shop, Inc. v Schimmelman, 115 N.Y.S.2d 474, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1697 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1952).

18. —"In a business center on a main thoroughfare"

An order enjoining the operation of a liquor store and directing the liquor authority to cancel its license because the store was not located "in a business center on a main thoroughfare" must be reversed where the store is on a public thoroughfare as comprehended by the 1946 amendment of this section. Kramer v Pearson, 270 A.D. 908, 61 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4591 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

The 1946 amendment of this section validates licenses previously issued, notwithstanding the provisions of Subdivision 2 of this section in effect prior to such amendment, inclusive of the phrase "in a business center on a main thoroughfare." The amendment therefore has rendered academic the construction of this latter phrase. Kramer v Pearson, 270 A.D. 908, 61 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4591 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

The word "main" as used in this section is not mere surplusage and is used in its usual sense as defining a principal or chief thoroughfare and not as contended to distinguish between public streets and private ways or alleys. Evers v Flanagan, 61 N.Y.S.2d 496, 186 Misc. 101, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945), rev'd, 270 A.D. 937, 62 N.Y.S.2d 591, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4777 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1946).

Although the petitioner paid for a retail package liquor store license when the interpretation of "main thoroughfare" in the statute excluded side-street locations, he received the license subject to possible side-street competitors since the statutory language was unsettled. Santoro v Margolis, 61 N.Y.S.2d 320, 186 Misc. 169, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2034 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

The term "business center" in the section which prohibits licensing of retail package liquor stores unless located "in a business center on a main thoroughfare" was construed by the State Liquor Authority to mean an area zoned for business; such practical construction was reasonable. Dobess Realty Corp. v Magid, 61 N.Y.S.2d 324, 186 Misc. 225, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2036 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

"Main" as applied to thoroughfare was construed by the authority to mean a public passageway open at both ends; such construction was reasonable. Dobess Realty Corp. v Magid, 61 N.Y.S.2d 324, 186 Misc. 225, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2036 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

A street need not be zoned entirely for business; it is sufficient if all side streets in this area are zoned for business for a short distance from the main thoroughfare. Dobess Realty Corp. v Magid, 61 N.Y.S.2d 324, 186 Misc. 225, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2036 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

An application to restrain the State Liquor Authority from licensing a retail package liquor store denied where the authority properly found the store to be located "in a business center on a main thoroughfare;" a restrictive construction of the law is inconsistent with purpose thereof and with the practical construction by the authority. Platt v Shapiro, 61 N.Y.S.2d 323, 186 Misc. 297, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2035 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

19. —Shopping malls

The State Liquor Authority's "policy" of refusing every petition to remove a package liquor store to a "modern shopping center" was invalid for want of a definite meaning of "modern shopping center". And even if the term "modern shopping center" had a definite meaning, there was no warrant for a policy which flatly excluded liquor stores from all such centers without regard to the facts of each particular case. Swalbach v State Liquor Authority, 7 N.Y.2d 518, 200 N.Y.S.2d 1, 166 N.E.2d 811, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1361 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 8 N.Y.2d 934, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1940 (N.Y. 1960).

Package liquor store which faced the parking lot of a shopping center adjacent to a public thoroughfare, provided free access to the street and satisfied requirements of this section that the "principal entrance" of a package store should be from the street level and located on a public thoroughfare. Hardy v Meyer, 28 A.D.2d 587, 279 N.Y.S.2d 637, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4201 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1967).

The refusal of the State Liquor Authority to license a package store in an enclosed mall which contained 62 retail outlets selling merchandise of all descriptions was arbitrary and capricious, and its finding that the premises were not located on a public thoroughfare and that the physical layout of the proposed premises would not afford proper and adequate visibility for representatives of the Authority or enforcement authorities was without rational basis. Accordingly, an order instructing the Authority to grant the proposed license was affirmed. Alro Liquors, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 271, 288 N.Y.S.2d 179, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4562 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1968), aff'd, 27 N.Y.2d 984, 318 N.Y.S.2d 742, 267 N.E.2d 478, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 921 (N.Y. 1970).

An enclosed shopping center which is open to the general public between the hours of 6 a.m. and midnight is not materially different from an unenclosed shopping center and should be reasonably construed to be a "public thoroughfare" within the meaning of subdivision 2 of this section. Rochdale Mall Wines & Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 647, 286 N.Y.S.2d 559, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4943 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968), aff'd, 27 N.Y.2d 995, 318 N.Y.S.2d 747, 267 N.E.2d 482, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 927 (N.Y. 1970).

Liquor store located in a fully enclosed mall shopping center which was locked between the hours of 12 midnight and 6 a.m. would nevertheless be considered to be located on a "public thoroughfare" within the meaning of subdivision 2 of this section since a shopping center which is open to the public between the hours of 6 a.m. and midnight is not materially different from an unenclosed shopping center. Rochdale Mall Wines & Liquors, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 647, 286 N.Y.S.2d 559, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4943 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968), aff'd, 27 N.Y.2d 995, 318 N.Y.S.2d 747, 267 N.E.2d 482, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 927 (N.Y. 1970).

20. —Near other liquor stores

Issuance of licenses for the sale of liquor on premises one hundred and twenty-five feet apart was in violation of this section and may be enjoined in suit by taxpayer. O'Brien v Rozza, 271 N.Y. 545, 2 N.E.2d 687, 271 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 545, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1276 (N.Y. 1936).

Section 105, subd. 4 prohibits the licensing of a store within 1,500 feet of a like store on the same street or avenue, but does not prohibit the licensing of a store within 1,500 feet of a like store on a different street or avenue. Pierse v Zimmerman, 255 A.D. 708, 5 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4871 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938).

State Liquor Authority lacks jurisdiction to grant a license to a retail package liquor store which, but for an alteration placing the entrance on a side street, could not have been licensed since it was within 1,500 feet of an already licensed store situated on a main street; besides, a store, opening on a residential street, not "in a business center on a main thoroughfare." Kramer v Pearson, 61 N.Y.S.2d 501, 186 Misc. 134, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2071 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 270 A.D. 908, 61 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4591 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Chapter 531, §§ 13 and 14 repealed § 105, subds 4 and 4[a], which had theretofore restricted the Authority from granting retail liquor store licenses within 1500 feet of each other in cities of one million or more. McNulty v State Liquor Authority, 48 Misc. 2d 653, 266 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 17 N.Y.2d 434, 266 N.Y.S.2d 522, 213 N.E.2d 802, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 923 (N.Y. 1965).

21. —Near schools

Where the State Liquor Authority was not advised at the time of granting a change of location permit to a liquor store to a place in the vicinity of a school building that certain exit doors of the school were located within the 200-foot limit, and granted the application because the main entrance to the school was more than 200 feet away, the transfer of location permit must be annulled when the true facts were brought to the attention of the Authority, the distance requirements being mandatory and not subject to exercise of administrative discretion. Tirdell v State Liquor Authority, 12 N.Y.2d 935, 238 N.Y.S.2d 513, 188 N.E.2d 788, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 1963).

Subdivision 3 of this section, dealing with required distance between liquor stores and school buildings as measured in a straight line from the center of the "nearest entrance" to the school and the nearest entrance of the store premises, was intended to include exit doorways as well as entrance doorways of schools, where such exit doors are equipped with panic bolts and can be used at any time as an exit from the school. Tirdell v State Liquor Authority, 12 N.Y.2d 935, 238 N.Y.S.2d 513, 188 N.E.2d 788, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 1963).

Refusal by the state liquor authority to grant petitioner a license for the operation of a liquor store within 200 feet from an entrance to a school does not entitle petitioner to a hearing as a matter of right. Millman v O'Connell, 275 A.D. 911, 90 N.Y.S.2d 277, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5013 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 300 N.Y. 539, 89 N.E.2d 255, 300 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 539, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1415 (N.Y. 1949).

Where, in connection with appellants' application for permission to move licensed premises to a new location, the State Liquor Authority was fully advised that the new location would be within the prohibited distance from two doors of a certain school, being so advised by the local board's recommendation for disapproval of the transfer, but nevertheless granted the application and permitted appellants to proceed with expensive alteration and improvement of the premises, the State Liquor Authority would not be permitted, thereafter, upon a false assertion that it was not aware of the situation, to reverse its determination. Tirdell v State Liquor Authority, 15 A.D.2d 773, 225 N.Y.S.2d 183, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962), aff'd, 12 N.Y.2d 935, 238 N.Y.S.2d 513, 188 N.E.2d 788, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 1963).

A determination which disapproved petitioner's application for a retail liquor store license because the premises were within 200 feet of a school was reversed and the cause remanded for a determination de novo where the premises were not on the same street or avenue as the school, and the matter remitted to the Authority to hold a hearing on the question of whether public convenience and advantage would be served by approval of the application. Bubany v State Liquor Authority, 27 A.D.2d 752, 277 N.Y.S.2d 451, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4755 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1967).

22. —Near places of worship

It did not violate equal protection to deny petitioner's application for retail liquor license on ground that premises were within 200 feet of building occupied exclusively as church (CLS Al Bev § 105(3)), even if there were other premises licensed to sell alcohol within proscribed area, since petitioner failed to show that those premises were licensed after date on which church acquired its building. Capizzi v New York State Div. of Alcoholic Bev. Control, 231 A.D.2d 881, 647 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14299 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

The State Liquor Authority was within its discretion in refusing to allow the relocation of a liquor license to a building within 200 feet of an empty lot on which a neighborhood church was in fact going to be constructed. Willmont Liquors, Inc. v Rohan, 2 Misc. 2d 768, 149 N.Y.S.2d 874, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2029 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

State Liquor Authority's refusal to grant a package store license on the ground that its proposed location was approximately 450 feet distant from a church housed in a "store" mission, without a congregation, and in a building used for other purposes and consequently not occupied exclusively as a school church was neither well founded nor reasonable. Santillo v State Liquor Authority, 54 Misc. 2d 557, 283 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1378 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

23. Punishment

State Liquor Authority properly imposed penalties of (1) suspension of retail liquor store license for 40 days, 25 days to be served forthwith and 15 days to be deferred, (2) suspension of eating place beer license for 20 days, 15 days to be served forthwith and 5 days to be deferred, and (3) bond forfeiture of $1,000 each against store and eating place, following determination that owner of liquor store and fast food establishment had sold alcoholic beverages to minor, sold bottles of alcohol on credit, and delivered alcoholic beverages for resale; penalties were not excessive given breadth of violations and owner's record as licensee, which included several warnings and previously-imposed penalty for selling alcoholic beverages to minor. Lane v State Liquor Authority, 127 A.D.2d 922, 511 N.Y.S.2d 978, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43416 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Penalty of license revocation and forfeiture of $1,000 bond, imposed on retail licensee that violated CLS Al Bev §§ 100(1) and 105(12) by selling alcoholic beverages to other retail licensees for purpose of resale, was excessive in view of technical nature of violation and fact that petitioner had never been charged with any other violation by any agency. 2 West 125th Liquors v New York State Liquor Auth., 217 A.D.2d 516, 630 N.Y.S.2d 299, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8123 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

This subdivision shall not apply to premises leased from government agencies, as defined under subdivision twelve-c of section three of this chapter; provided, however, that the appropriate administrator of such government agency provides some form of written documentation regarding the terms of occupancy under which the applicant is leasing said premises from the government agency for presentation to the state liquor authority at the time of the license application. Such documentation shall include the terms of occupancy between the applicant and the government agency, including, but not limited to, any short-term leasing agreements or written occupancy agreements.

Nor shall any person be permitted to consume any alcoholic beverages upon any such premises later than one-half hour after the start of the prohibited hours of sale provided for in this section.

Such records shall be available for inspection by any authorized representative of the liquor authority.

This section is penal in character, to be strictly construed, and every person is entitled to an unequivocal warning that the manner of conducting his licensed establishment seems to be in violation of the statute before proceeding to revoke his liquor license. This statute, being penal and dealing with a crime in the class of mala prohibita, must be strictly construed. People v Brasi, 118 N.Y.S.2d 608, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1470 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1953).

2. Constitutional questions

Order of Commissioner of Human Rights requiring private club, "unless otherwise in violation of law," to cease and desist from refusing or withholding service to anyone because of race, color or creed, and to make the services, accommodations, privileges, and facilities of club equally available without regard to race, color or creed, did not require club to exceed its liquor license authority under Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 8. Batavia Lodge No. 196, L. O. M. v New York State Div. of Human Rights, 43 A.D.2d 807, 350 N.Y.S.2d 273, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2914 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973), rev'd, 35 N.Y.2d 143, 359 N.Y.S.2d 25, 316 N.E.2d 318, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1377 (N.Y. 1974).

Where bar patrons testified that police had restrained them from taking beer off premises of several beer bars at state fair, officers had not engaged in discriminatory enforcement of Alcoholic Beverage Control Laws against licensee. Naples v State Liquor Authority, 43 A.D.2d 801, 350 N.Y.S.2d 262, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2909 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Regulation which authorized revocation, cancellation or suspension of a liquor license for permitting on the licensed premises any person to appear nude or attired in such a way as to expose to view the genital area was not unconstitutional since the state may constitutionally prohibit from licensed premises performances that partake more of gross sexuality than communication, and the regulation in question represented the state's continuing and legitimate effort to accomplish that goal. 92-07 Restaurant, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 80 A.D.2d 603, 435 N.Y.S.2d 989, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10295 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

In an action challenging the constitutionality of the Al Bev Law § 106(6), wherein petitioner's liquor license had been suspended for allowing lewd and indecent dancing on its premises in contravention of the statute and regulations promulgated thereunder, such statute would be upheld on the basis that an outright prohibition of all topless dancing in establishments that sold alcoholic beverages does not violate the First Amendment; nor would the statute be found violative of the State Constitution, where previous decisions holding that an outright prohibition of nonobscene topless dancing violated the guaranty of free expression did not extend to nude dancing. Moreover, the statute would not be found violative of due process on the ground of vagueness, since "lewd and indecent" is synonymous with "obscene," and antiobscentity statutes need be no more precise in their language to withstand such a challenge. Blau-Par Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 106 A.D.2d 503, 482 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21534 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

NYC Admin Code § 20-367, as applied to establishments which are also licensed to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, is preempted by CLS Al Bev § 106(5) since city ordinance directly affects sale and consumption of liquor by imposing restrictions on times when patrons may remain in cabarets which are regulated in this regard by state liquor laws, and matter is one within exclusive jurisdiction of state law. Lansdown Entertainment Corp. v New York City Dep't of Consumer Affairs, 141 A.D.2d 468, 530 N.Y.S.2d 574, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7908 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 72 N.Y.2d 1041, 534 N.Y.S.2d 939, 531 N.E.2d 659, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2946 (N.Y. 1988), aff'd, 74 N.Y.2d 761, 545 N.Y.S.2d 82, 543 N.E.2d 725, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 885 (N.Y. 1989).

Statute providing that no retail licensee for on premises consumption of alcoholic beverages shall suffer or permit any person to appear in such manner as to expose any portion of pubic area, anus, vulva or genitals, or any simulation thereof, nor shall suffer or permit any female to appear in such manner as to expose any portion of the breast below the top of the areola, or any simulation thereof, was constitutional. New York Topless Bar & Dancers Ass'n v New York State Liquor Authority, 91 Misc. 2d 780, 398 N.Y.S.2d 637, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2413 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

New-York statute prohibiting nude dancing in establishments licensed by state to sell liquor for on-premises consumption does not violate First Amendment since statute is within state's power conferred by Twenty-First Amendment to regulate sale of liquor within its boundries; state's power to ban sale of alcoholic beverages entirely includes lesser power to ban sale of liquor on premises where topless dancing occurs and whatever artistic or communicative value that might attach to topless dancing is overcome by state's exercise of its broad powers arising under Twenty-First Amendment. New York State Liquor Authority v Bellanca, 452 U.S. 714, 101 S. Ct. 2599, 69 L. Ed. 2d 357, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 119 (U.S. 1981), overruled in part, 44 Liquormart v Rhode Island, 517 U.S. 484, 116 S. Ct. 1495, 134 L. Ed. 2d 711, 1996 U.S. LEXIS 3020 (U.S. 1996).

Where officers stopped defendant on a road based on two 911 calls from an anonymous caller reporting that a man matching a certain description had a gun, the officers lacked reasonable suspicion to stop defendant because, inter alia, two 911 calls from an anonymous caller lacked any indicia of reliability, there was no report of an ongoing assault, and the fact that the encounter occurred late at night was a relatively weak and generic factor. United States v Freeman, 735 F.3d 92, 2013 U.S. App. LEXIS 22594 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2013).

3. Judicial review

A finding of the Liquor Authority, based on the testimony of two police officers, that horserace bets were taken in the presence of one of the owners of a bar, although disputed by him, may not be reversed by the court since, where the evidence is conflicting, it is for the administrative board to pass upon the credibility of the witnesses and to base its inferences on what it accepts as the truth. Avon Bar & Grill, Inc. v O'Connell, 301 N.Y. 150, 93 N.E.2d 573, 301 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 150, 1950 N.Y. LEXIS 790 (N.Y. 1950).

Liquor licensee commenced Article 78 proceedings to annul order of State Liquor Authority suspending petitioner's license on grounds of various violations of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 6. McCarthy v New York State Liquor Authority, 43 A.D.2d 789, 349 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2976 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Question whether licensed premises had been disorderly is factual and thus, if State Liquor Authority's determination is supported by substantial evidence, it must be affirmed. Peanut-butter Jam, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 58 A.D.2d 703, 396 N.Y.S.2d 104, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12808 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Proceeding against restaurant regarding gambling, disorderliness, and sale of liquor at unauthorized times would be remanded to State Liquor Authority for purpose of determining appropriate penalty where initial penalty was imposed that covered 4 violations of CLS Al Bev § 106 and only 3 violations were sustained on Article 78 review. O'Carroll Rest. Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 125 A.D.2d 212, 509 N.Y.S.2d 17, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62485 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

4. Private contracts

In a complaint by prospective purchasers for the return of a deposit paid on a contract for the purchase of a business for which the purchasers were to obtain a liquor license, it was contended that the plaintiffs never owned or held a lease of the premises and, therefore, by operation of law were estopped and prohibited from obtaining a license by reasons of the provisions of subdivision 1 of this section. Held: summary judgment denied where there were questions of fact: whether the application for license was a condition precedent to the contract becoming effective and, if it were so intended, whether purchasers were required to make an application or be guilty of a breach of the contract. Forgan v McKenzie, 12 Misc. 2d 508, 175 N.Y.S.2d 322, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1922 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

The complaint was dismissed in an action for specific performance of a contract for sale of certain premises, where the contract was expressly made contingent upon the granting of a license by the alcoholic beverage control board to the defendant to sell beer, wine and liquor in the premises to be purchased by him under the contract and the defendant, after making due application was refused the license. Shea v Newkirk, 21 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2791 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939), aff'd, 258 A.D. 1063, 18 N.Y.S.2d 1004, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8900 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

5. Violations by non-licensees

A defendant, although pleading guilty, may not be convicted of a violation of this section where he was not a licensee, and was not charged as a licensee. People v Corie, 93 N.Y.S.2d 781, 196 Misc. 1029, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2992 (N.Y. County Ct. 1949).

The violation proscribed by Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106(8) refers to the licensee, and a defendant who was not the licensee could not be held criminally responsible for a violation of this section. People ex rel. Cucinatta v Burger, 54 Misc. 2d 92, 281 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1505 (N.Y. City Ct. 1967).

6. —After-hours sale

The uncontradicted admission by the president of a liquor licensee that an employee was having a drink after work was sufficient to support a finding of actual knowledge by a person in authority of after-hours consumption, and thus of a violation of Al Bev Law § 106(5). Elmarth Bar & Grill, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 53 N.Y.2d 859, 440 N.Y.S.2d 181, 422 N.E.2d 826, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2436 (N.Y. 1981).

The prohibition against the sale of alcoholic beverages during certain hours does not apply exclusively to the licensee. Employees may be prosecuted thereunder (§ 106, subd 5). Since no specific punishment is contained in § 106, the words "any person" in subdivision 3 and subdivision 5 of § 130 include such employees and the offense is a misdemeanor. People v O'Neil, 280 A.D. 145, 112 N.Y.S.2d 756, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3415 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

The section heading stating that the provisions govern "licensees" is not part of the Act, so that defendant charged with an after hours sale was responsible for his own acts, although not a licensee. People ex rel. Cucinatta v Burger, 54 Misc. 2d 92, 281 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1505 (N.Y. City Ct. 1967).

7. —Off-premises consumption

Subds. 2 and 3 apply only to those persons to whom licenses have been issued pursuant to § 3, subd. 18. People ex rel. O'Connell v Flanagan, 275 N.Y.S. 121, 152 Misc. 916, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1766 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1934).

Subd. 3 does not apply to a mere employee in licensed premises. People ex rel. O'Connell v Flanagan, 275 N.Y.S. 121, 152 Misc. 916, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1766 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1934).

8. —Gambling

Alcoholic Beverage Control L § 106, subd 6 is applicable only to license holders and has no application to bartenders or patrons of the establishment. People v Monahan, 69 Misc. 2d 273, 329 N.Y.S.2d 889, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2125 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1972).

Because a company was licensed to sell alcoholic beverages, defendant, as the sole shareholder of the corporation and the manager of the premises, could not be held liable for permitting gambling on licensed premises in violation of N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law § 106(6). People v Knox, 887 N.Y.S.2d 759, 25 Misc. 3d 34, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2205 (N.Y. App. Term 2009).

A bartender employed by the licensee is a mere employee of such licensee and could not be convicted of a violation of subdivision 6 of this section prohibiting a person licensed to sell alcoholic beverages from suffering or permitting gambling on the licensed premises. People v Digiulio, 122 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1856 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1953).

9. Enforcement proceedings

State Liquor Authority and its licensees may use "offer in compromise" procedure to bargain for reduced penalties in exchange for "no contest" pleas so long as penalties remain within classes of sanctions, such as suspensions and bond forfeitures, that are authorized in statutory scheme. Nostima Foods, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 71 N.Y.2d 648, 529 N.Y.S.2d 270, 524 N.E.2d 871, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 690 (N.Y. 1988).

State Liquor Authority lacked power to impose fines for violations of rules and regulations governing licensees, even though licensee invoked authority's "offer in compromise" procedure to plead "no contest" in exchange for particular penalty, since legislature expressly withheld from authority power to assess fine; furthermore, licensee was not estopped from challenging authority's power to impose fine, despite fact that licensee had itself proposed fine as offer in compromise. Nostima Foods, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 71 N.Y.2d 648, 529 N.Y.S.2d 270, 524 N.E.2d 871, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 690 (N.Y. 1988).

State Liquor Authority is not limited to compromise procedure suggested by its rules (9 NYCRR § 54.1[c][2]) in light of broad powers given it by CLS St Adm P Act § 301 to dispose of any adjudicative proceeding "by stipulation, agreed settlement . . . or other informal method." Nostima Foods, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 71 N.Y.2d 648, 529 N.Y.S.2d 270, 524 N.E.2d 871, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 690 (N.Y. 1988).

A determination by the State Liquor Authority suspending petitioner's license for 60 days after finding it guilty of permitting a female to solicit for immoral purposes and permitting the place to become disorderly was remitted for reconsideration of the punishment where it was not clear whether, in imposing the suspension, the authority had considered a prior "warning letter" not sufficiently shown by the record. Vedes Rest., Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 8 A.D.2d 278, 187 N.Y.S.2d 236, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7910 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1959).

Petitioner, seeking review and annnulment by the State Liquor Authority of recommended suspension of petitioner's restaurant liquor license, should, upon its request, have been furnished with a copy of the hearing officer's report so as to be able to challenge it effectively prior to the Authority's determination. White House Restaurant, Inc. v Epstein, 19 A.D.2d 719, 242 N.Y.S.2d 438, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

Petitioner was entitled to annulment of determination which imposed suspension where (1) notice of pleading and hearing served by State Liquor Authority (SLA) stated that maximum penalty would be forfeiture of bond, (2) at commencement of hearing, SLA sought to amend notice to provide for maximum penalty of 30-day suspension, (3) petitioner objected to amendment, and administrative law judge (ALJ) gave petitioner chance to make offer in compromise, (4) SLA advised ALJ that any offer would be rejected, (5) amendment was permitted, and (6) 25-day suspension was imposed; SLA's failure to provide proper notice of maximum penalty and SLA's arbitrary decision that no compromise offer would be accepted represented material defect in proceeding that deprived petitioner of due process. Ginny Rest., Inc. v State Liquor Auth., 203 A.D.2d 973, 611 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4382 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

It was appropriate to impose 60-day liquor license suspension and $1,000 bond forfeiture where licensee had substantially altered premises without permission in violation of CLS Al Bev § 99-d(1), had effectuated corporate change in its stockholders in violation of CLS Al Bev § 99-d(2), had used trade name without Liquor Authority's permission in violation of 9 NYCRR § 53.1(p), had failed to maintain its books and records in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(12), and had allowed premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6). La Trieste Restaurant & Cabaret v New York State Liquor Auth., 228 A.D.2d 172, 644 N.Y.S.2d 7, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6295 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Revocation of petitioners' on-premises liquor license was appropriate sanction for their suffering or permitting narcotics sales to occur at licensed premises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6). Petillo v State Liquor Auth., 248 A.D.2d 541, 670 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2591 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 814, 681 N.Y.S.2d 475, 704 N.E.2d 228, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3987 (N.Y. 1998).

Revocation of petitioner's on-premises liquor license, $1,000 bond forfeiture, and 2-year proscription on relicensing of premises was appropriate penalty for knowingly encouraging or permitting improper conduct, including threats against and harassment of legal demonstrators, in violation 9 NYCRR § 53.1(n), and noise, disturbance, misconduct, and disorder on or adjacent to licensed premises that adversely affected health, welfare, and safety of local residents and resulted in premises becoming focal point for police attention in violation of 9 NYCRR § 53.1(q). La Trieste Restaurant & Cabaret v New York State Liquor Auth., 249 A.D.2d 156, 671 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4416 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 809, 680 N.Y.S.2d 54, 702 N.E.2d 839, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3161 (N.Y. 1998).

Cafe owner was not prejudiced by 6-year delay between first sale of cocaine from cafe and revocation of his liquor license, even though he expended substantial funds to renovate premises during interim—ostensibly in reliance on license renewal in interim—where renewal inured to his benefit by enabling him to continue to operate his business, and there was no evidence that he suffered any economic loss from delay, that delay was deliberate, or that delay hampered his ability to prepare or present his case. Kelly v Casale, 263 A.D.2d 889, 695 N.Y.S.2d 184, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8460 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 754, 701 N.Y.S.2d 340, 723 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3853 (N.Y. 1999).

A licensee charged with violation of this section is entitled to rely, at least to some extent, upon the promise of the commissioners of leniency in case he pleads "no contest" to the charges. Bomysoad v New York State Liquor Authority, 26 Misc. 2d 704, 204 N.Y.S.2d 325, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2548 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), rev'd, 13 A.D.2d 873, 215 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10699 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

In license revocation proceeding, State Liquor Authority exceeded its jurisdiction in accepting tavern's offer in compromise, because such offers are in violation of 9 NYCRR § 54.1 which provides for acceptance of compromise offers only in suspension proceedings; authority's construction of § 54.1 as extending routine use of offer and compromise procedure to revocation proceedings lacked rational basis, was not based on substantial evidence, and was arbitrary and capricious, and accordingly authority's determination with respect to tavern would be annulled. Nostima Foods, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 133 Misc. 2d 729, 507 N.Y.S.2d 815, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2937 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986), aff'd, 132 A.D.2d 452, 517 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49018 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

10. —Hearing

Where the president of a restaurant corporation was facing criminal charges for permitting gambling on the premises at the time a hearing before the State Liquor Authority on suspension or revocation of its restaurant liquor license on the same grounds came up, a request for adjournment of the hearing before the Authority pending disposition of the criminal charge should have been made, and any objection to proceeding with the matter of license suspension by the Authority under such circumstances was waived by failure to make such a request. White House Restaurant, Inc. v Epstein, 19 A.D.2d 719, 242 N.Y.S.2d 438, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

The State Liquor Authority would not be enjoined from proceeding with a hearing to revoke respondent's liquor license on charges alleging gambling and bribery on the premises, facts which also resulted in a criminal indictment presently pending against the respondent. Rejecting the contention that the licensee feared the loss of his constitutional rights and of prejudice if the hearing were permitted, the court pointed out that since the gambling charge had been dismissed from the criminal action, there was no reason why the authority might not conduct a hearing in that respect; and as to the bribery charge, it was clearly within the scope of the Authority's duty to inquire as to whether it should temporarily suspend the license pending outcome of the indictment. Oleshko v New York State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 84, 285 N.Y.S.2d 696, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2697 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967), aff'd, 21 N.Y.2d 778, 288 N.Y.S.2d 474, 235 N.E.2d 447, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1632 (N.Y. 1968).

Licensee was entitled to examine reports of police officers relative to the alleged violation of the law by the licensee prior to the commencement of cross-examination of the police officer. Garabendian v New York State Liquor Authority, 33 A.D.2d 980, 307 N.Y.S.2d 270 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 26 N.Y.2d 614, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1845 (N.Y. 1970).

In proceeding against licensee to enforce provisions of CLS Al Bev § 106, it was improper for secretary of State Liquor Authority's 5-member board to submit to other board members, after completion of hearings and without notice to licensee, memorandum recommending reversal of administrative law judge's finding in favor of licensee, and board improperly considered memorandum in its determination, since memorandum was not properly part of administrative record; at very least, if memorandum was to be considered, licensee should have been afforded opportunity to reply. Muidallap Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 143 A.D.2d 9, 532 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8432 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

Revocation of liquor license would be annulled, since notice of hearing was not properly served, where (1) notice prepared for licensee's principal was mailed to incorrect address, and (2) return receipt attached to notice mailed to licensee's place of business was not signed by licensee's principal. Zucco Grocery Corp. v New York State Liquor Auth., 203 A.D.2d 120, 610 N.Y.S.2d 45, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3865 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Where the state liquor authority found a violation of § 106, subd. 6, and ordered the license suspended for a period, and petitioner's attorney later requested opportunity to produce additional testimony which was denied, petition dismissed in so far as petitioner contends that respondents erred in refusing to hear additional testimony, since application was not made prior to determination by state liquor authority (Al. Bev. Law, § 119; Liquor Authority Rules, rules 8, 13) and also because evidence was not newly discovered. Crean v Bruckman, 33 N.Y.S.2d 570, 178 Misc. 231, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1391 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

Where the holder of a liquor license is merely notified by the State Liquor Authority that revocation of his license will be under consideration at a hearing to be held on a specified date for suffering or permitting the premises to become disorderly on a date stated, he has a right to demand a bill of particulars, and where he so demands and the bill is not furnished until the morning of the date of the hearing, it is unfair for the Authority to proceed with the hearing as against a request for continuance in order to have time to prepare to meet the charge. Belpe Rest., Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 42 Misc. 2d 374, 247 N.Y.S.2d 902, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1226 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

11. —Proof

Substantial evidence supported a ten-day suspension of a restaurant's liquor license for violation of Al Bev Law § 106(6) where testimony indicated that a loaded shotgun, for which the owner's father possessed a permit, had been constantly on the premises for at least one year, despite a law against possession of loaded shotguns in public within the City of New York, and where the owner's knowledge of illegal presence of the weapon could reasonably be concluded since it had been in plain view when seized; however, revocation of the license based upon the owner's allegedly permitting drug trafficking on the premises was not supported by substantial evidence where there was no proof that the owner knew or should have known of the transactions or that the bartender in charge at the time of the transactions was a manager or corporate principal, so as to impute his activities to the corporate licensee. Richjen Restaurant, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 51 N.Y.2d 847, 433 N.Y.S.2d 755, 413 N.E.2d 1170, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2697 (N.Y. 1980).

The State Liquor Authority properly revoked an on-premises liquor license and imposed a $1,000 bond forfeiture on the ground that the licensee had suffered or permitted females to solicit male patrons of the establishment for immoral purposes on an occasion when the bartender was in charge of the licensed premises where the licensee's testimony that the bartender left in charge was responsible for dealing with any disorder and for assuring that the premises were operating in an orderly fashion supported the hearing officer's determination that the bartender had been delegated sufficient managerial authority so as to impute his conduct to the licensee, and where the evidence also supported the hearing officer's determination that the licensee could have known of the events that gave rise to the violation through the exercise of due diligence and proper supervision. Awrich Rest., Inc. v N.Y. State Liquor Auth., 60 N.Y.2d 645, 467 N.Y.S.2d 564, 454 N.E.2d 1307, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3348 (N.Y. 1983).

Revocation of a hotel liquor license will be annulled where there is such a preponderance of proof against evidence of a violation of § 106, subd. 2, that the verdict of a jury finding such violation would be set aside as against the weight of the evidence. Lasher v State Liquor Authority, 245 A.D. 402, 284 N.Y.S. 643, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10319 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

Determination revoking petitioner's hotel liquor license annulled and the matter remitted for further proceedings. The findings, on charges that petitioner kept liquor on premises in containers, contents of which were not represented on labels and that he failed to keep bona fide hotel, were so inadequate and incomplete that they could not be judicially reviewed. New findings of fact should be made showing actual grounds of decision. Goldfinger v State Liquor Authority, 8 A.D.2d 694, 186 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8901 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1959).

Liquor licensee's mere absence from the premises is not a sufficient excuse for violation of the law when he could have discovered the violations by adequate supervision and inquiry. Cuti v Roth, 50 A.D.2d 1044, 377 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12195 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Suspension of liquor license and imposition of fine pursuant to CLS Al Bev § 106 were supported by hearing officer's finding that patrons were physically and violently removed from licensed premises after having done no more than to utter expletive. Irvington Enterprises, Inc. v Duffy, 155 A.D.2d 335, 547 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14332 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Substantial evidence supported determination of State Liquor Authority that petitioner had failed to maintain adequate books and records on premises, and had made substantial unauthorized alteration of premises which materially affected its character, where (1) petitioner's application for liquor license represented that premises would be full service restaurant and that there would be no "live entertainment," and diagram submitted showed large kitchen and dining area, (2) premises were in fact operated as bar with topless dancers on stage, kitchen was never operational, and kitchen area was converted into game room, and (3) petitioner admitted that he deliberately misled authority about his intentions and that books and records were never maintained on premises. Bull's Eye, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 181 A.D.2d 676, 580 N.Y.S.2d 782, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2986 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), amended, 183 A.D.2d 822, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9072 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Evidence did not support denial of liquor license to restaurant where (1) treasurer of restaurant testified that she and employee were working at restaurant when plain clothes officer searched refrigerator behind counter and found 2 cans or bottles of beer in refrigerator and, further, that beer was used for cooking and was located in bottom of refrigerator which also contained vegetables used for cooking, (2) summons showed that charge of unlicensed sale of alcohol was dismissed and matter was sealed, and (3) administrative law judge also relied on police report which alleged sale of beer to undercover officer, but report was not admitted into evidence. 705 Ninth Ave. Restaurant Corp. v State Liquor Auth., 187 A.D.2d 349, 589 N.Y.S.2d 466, 1992 N.Y. App.

Div. LEXIS 12942 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992), app. denied, 81 N.Y.2d 707, 597 N.Y.S.2d 937, 613 N.E.2d 969, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 724 (N.Y. 1993).

Structure built by petitioner to house large block of ice so patrons could consume alcoholic beverages poured by bartender down block constituted substantial evidence that petitioner constructed second bar, counter, or similar contrivance in its premises without requisite permission of State Liquor Authority. Oneshot, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 214 A.D.2d 416, 625 N.Y.S.2d 185, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4352 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Determination that licensee sold alcohol to intoxicated individual was supported by police officer's unequivocal testimony that, while he was standing in door frame at bar entrance, he saw, from distance of about 5 to 10 feet, and for about 15 minutes, extremely intoxicated man who had one drink in front of him and who was being served bottle of beer by bartender. T.K.O. Enters. v New York State Liquor Auth., 226 A.D.2d 646, 641 N.Y.S.2d 133, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4422 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Substantial evidence did not support determination of state liquor authority which concluded that petitioner's president violated 9 NYCRR § 53.1(n) when, after robber was shot to death by off-duty police officer on petitioner's premises, he tried to enter premises "around the body," where police officer who was only witness at revocation hearing testified that petitioner's president did not come closer than 10 feet to body. Gregory St. Pub, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 258 A.D.2d 937, 685 N.Y.S.2d 355, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1630 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Substantial evidence that petitioner violated CLS Al Bev § 65(1) was provided by (1) undercover officer's testimony that underage auxiliary police officer who accompanied him was served 6 alcoholic beverages from 3 different bartenders without being asked for identification, and (2) auxiliary officer's driver's license and police identification card which showed that he was under age of 21 on date in question. H.C. Entertainment Corp. v New York State Liquor Auth., 270 A.D.2d 159, 704 N.Y.S.2d 589, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3081 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Although a liquor license is referred to as a privilege and not a right, when it has been issued and acted upon by the licensee, it should not be revoked or suspended except on competent proof showing a clear violation of the statute involved. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

Sole evidence in support of the New York State Liquor Authority's finding that a bar owner violated N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law § 106(6) by permiting its premises to become disorderly was a hearsay statement. As that statement was seriously controverted by the sworn testimony of a bouncer, who was subject to cross-examination, the Authority's finding was not supported by substantial evidence. Matter of McGillicuddy's Tap House, Ltd. v New York State Liq. Auth., 57 A.D.3d 1052, 868 N.Y.S.2d 383, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9227 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

12. —Rational basis; "arbitrary and capricious"

The State Liquor Authority's decision denying the application of a motel restaurant lessee for a restaurant liquor license was not arbitrary or capricious, where prior lessees of the premises from the same landlord had used the premises for the purposes of prostitution. Moltzen v Hostetter, 24 A.D.2d 1018, 266 N.Y.S.2d 86, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2732 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965), aff'd, 18 N.Y.2d 629, 272 N.Y.S.2d 777, 219 N.E.2d 292, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1209 (N.Y. 1966).

Twelve-day deferred suspension imposed by State Liquor Authority on licensed premises, which permitted lewd or indecent conduct by allowing a female patron to expose her private parts while dancing and which permitted the premises to become disorderly by allowing the same female patron to become involved in an altercation with another patron, was not arbitrary and capricious or an abuse of discretion or so grave in its impact that it was disproportionate to the misconduct. MHC Airport Inn, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 78 A.D.2d 770, 434 N.Y.S.2d 482, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13326 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

Penalty imposed by State Liquor Authority which suspended petitioner's on-premises liquor license for 15 days was not arbitrary or capricious or so disproportionate to offense as to shock one's sense of fairness where petitioner's owner had argument with his girlfriend which resulted in his hitting her and causing various injuries. Pappy Jack's Pub, Inc. v Duffy, 148 A.D.2d 870, 539 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2811 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

It was proper to require petitioner to either pay $2,000 civil penalty or suffer 10-day license revocation, and to forfeit its bond in amount of $1,000 for having violated CLS Al Bev § 106(6), by suffering and permitting its premises to become disorderly, and CLS Al Bev § 114(6), by failing to conspicuously post its liquor license. Warehouse Entertainment, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 269 A.D.2d 278, 703 N.Y.S.2d 139, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2022 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 762, 715 N.Y.S.2d 215, 738 N.E.2d 363, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 2324 (N.Y. 2000).

Since the penalties to be imposed by the State Liquor Authority for offenses under this section are not fixed by law and rest in the reasonable discretion of the Authority, the only test of whether action of the Authority in a particular case is so arbitrary and capricious as to be an abuse of discretion is by comparing the penalty imposed in the particular case with that imposed in the past under reasonably similar circumstances. Bomysoad v New York State Liquor Authority, 26 Misc. 2d 704, 204 N.Y.S.2d 325, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2548 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), rev'd, 13 A.D.2d 873, 215 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10699 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

13. Mitigation of punishment

Where violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 3 was readily admitted, and was at best technical in that licensee failed to have oral permission of Alcoholic Beverage Control Board put in writing, 10 day license suspension and $1000 bond forfeiture was reduced to a letter of warning. Alvaro v State Liquor Authority, 43 A.D.2d 903, 351 N.Y.S.2d 248, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5954 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Pursuant to an Article 78 proceeding, termination of state liquor authority cancelling license for violations of Alcoholic Beverage Control L §§ 65, subd 1 and 106 was modified to 6 months suspension of license. Danchak v State Liquor Authority, 44 A.D.2d 638, 353 N.Y.S.2d 833, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5363 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

Penalty of cancellation of on-premises liquor license and grocery store beer license was excessive and constituted abuse of discretion to extent it exceeded penalty of suspension of such licenses for period of approximately one year. Lopez v State Liquor Authority, 53 A.D.2d 1016, 386 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15815 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Ten-day suspension of liquor license and $1,000 bond forfeiture (which would cost licensee some $300,000 in revenues and possibly force it out of business) would be disproportionate penalty where licensee allegedly violated CLS Al Bev § 106 by permitting illegal gambling on licensed premises, and by permitting premises to become disorderly by presence of gambling devices, since (1) licensee had unblemished record of compliance with applicable laws and regulations, (2) event at which alleged violations occurred was conducted as benefit for worthy cause and posed no danger to public health, safety, or welfare, and (3) liquor authority knew of planned event in advance and had registered no objection thereto. Muidallap Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 143 A.D.2d 9, 532 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8432 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

It was improper to revoke petitioner's on-premises liquor license for permitting overcrowding, extending license to separate unlicensed area, operating second stand-up bar, and allowing establishment to become disorderly by generating excessive noise where, inter alia, three quarters of complaints came from one person, petitioner had been very cooperative in attempting to resolve any problems, police had not received habitual complaints about disorderly conduct on petitioner's premises, petitioner had promised to take remedial steps to curtail noise, and there had been no prior warnings issued to petitioner. In re Verney, 254 A.D.2d 674, 679 N.Y.S.2d 198, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11469

(N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998), rev'd, 94 N.Y.2d 779, 699 N.Y.S.2d 696, 721 N.E.2d 946, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3431 (N.Y. 1999).

It was improper to revoke petitioner's liquor license, even though petitioner attempted to impede lawful investigation by Liquor Authority's representatives in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(15) and kept contaminated alcoholic beverages on its promises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(2), where petitioner had unblemished record prior and subsequent to isolated incident. Oak Beach Inn Corp. v New York State Liquor Auth., 269 A.D.2d 191, 703 N.Y.S.2d 98, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1322 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Where a licensee has his life's savings invested in a restaurant and bar business, power to revoke his license should be used with understanding discretion, particularly where he lacks experience in the business in which he has engaged. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

14. —Books and records

The State Liquor Authority revoked a liquor license for failure to keep adequate books. The Appellate Division annulled that determination on the ground that in the absence of more specific regulations or a warning or suggestion as to how books should be kept, it could not be said that the evidence supported the Authority's determination. The Court of Appeals modified by remitting the matter to the Authority because it thought the evidence was sufficient to sustain the Authority's finding in respect of books and records where the posting of the records was not current and, while books showed a breakdown of food and liquor sales, the cash register tape had only a single total for each day. Flo Inn, Inc. v O'Connell, 305 N.Y. 602, 111 N.E.2d 649, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 602, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 1182 (N.Y. 1953).

Sanctions of cancellation of liquor license, $250 bond penalty, and disapproval of renewal application imposed upon licensee which violated record keeping and ownership certification requirements of Alcholic Beverage Control Act by failing to disclose presence of one partner and fact that two persons had become corporate officers was an abuse of discretion where none of the persons involved had any criminal record and where there was no evidence of willful deception or corruption or the likelihood of either. Shore Haven Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 37 N.Y.2d 187, 371 N.Y.S.2d 710, 332 N.E.2d 883, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1946 (N.Y. 1975).

While the keeping of books at the central office of a chain of restaurants is a technical violation of this section it in no way impeded inspection by the Authority. Application of Restaurants & Patisseries Longchamps, Inc., 271 A.D. 641, 67 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5110 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 296 N.Y. 239, 72 N.E.2d 174, 296 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 239, 1947 N.Y. LEXIS 942 (N.Y. 1947).

Although petitioner was lax in the keeping of its books and records and in reporting changes of its stockholders and directors, which did not effect any change in management, and was chargeable with other technical violations, the penalty of cancellation of its license was excessive and modified to a 30-day suspension. L'Intrigue, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 29 A.D.2d 854, 288 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4433 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1968).

In light of fact that licensee's record was unblemished, penalty of cancellation and nonrenewal was so disproportionate to violations of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 12 (failure to keep adequate records) and § 99-d, subd 2 (principal of record not sole and true party in interest) as to constitute an abuse of discretion, and penalty was accordingly reduced to 30-day suspension plus $250 bond claim. Shore Haven Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 44 A.D.2d 593, 353 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5474 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974), aff'd, 37 N.Y.2d 187, 371 N.Y.S.2d 710, 332 N.E.2d 883, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1946 (N.Y. 1975).

Cancellation of petitioner's liquor license and forfeiture of $1,000 bond was proper penalty for petitioner's failure to keep and maintain adequate books and records on premises, and for making substantial unauthorized alterations of premises which materially affected its character, where (1) in his application for liquor license, petitioner represented that premises would be full service restaurant and that there would be no "live entertainment," and diagram submitted showed large kitchen and dining area, (2) premises were in fact operated as bar with topless dancers on stage, kitchen was never operational, and kitchen area was converted into game room, and (3) petitioner admitted that he deliberately misled authority about his intentions and that books and records were never maintained on premises. Bull's Eye, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 181 A.D.2d 676, 580 N.Y.S.2d 782, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2986 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), amended, 183 A.D.2d 822, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9072 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

15. —Refusal to allow inspection

In Article 78 proceeding to review and annul a determination of State Liquor Authority which cancelled petitioner's restaurant liquor license on ground that petitioner had refused to permit inspection of the licensed premises by representatives of the authority, penalty of cancellation was so disproportionate to the technical violation disclosed by the record as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness and therefore determination would be modified by striking out the provision cancelling petitioner's license, by annulling such cancellation and by substituting therefor a provision suspending petitioner's license for 10 days. Club Illusion, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 25 A.D.2d 865, 270 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4241 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1966).

16. —Gambling

Joker Poker machine is gambling device prohibited under Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6)–petitioner was found guilty of having suffered or permitted such gambling; penalty of 10-day deferred suspension of petitioner's liquor license plus $ 1,000 bond forfeiture was not disproportionate to offense. 2700 Tavern, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 146 A.D.2d 552, 537 N.Y.S.2d 34, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 497 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Petitioner pleaded "no contest" to violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6) by maintaining Joker Poker machine in operation on licensed premises; only issue involved is whether penalty imposed by New York State Liquor Authority, 15-day suspension of petitioner's liquor license and $1,000 bond forfeiture, is reasonable exercise of discretion; in view of all circumstances, including petitioner's virtually unblemished record of compliance with law, Supreme Court properly vacated penalty as excessive. 3275 Byron Ave. Corp. v New York State Liquor Auth., 161 A.D.2d 600, 555 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5319 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Cancellation of petitioner's restaurant liquor license for permitting gambling on the premises on three occasions was considered excessive and modified to license suspension for three months. Miller v New York State Liquor Authority, 20 A.D.2d 725, 248 N.Y.S.2d 91, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4328 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

Provision for payment of licensee's bond as an additional penalty for permitting gambling on licensed premises was excessive and an abuse of discretion and, thus, penalty for permitting or suffering gambling on licensed premises should have been limited to suspension of liquor license for period of ten days. McCoy v State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 670, 364 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8881 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Suspension of special on-premises liquor license for ten days was appropriate punishment for suffering or permitting gambling on licensed premises, but forfeiture of licensees' $1,000 bond was not warranted where licensees had an otherwise unblemished record. Seminaro v State Liquor Authority, 51 A.D.2d 680, 378 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11047 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Where one of four violations of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law upon which State Liquor Authority's penalty imposed on tavern operator was predicated was found to be unsupported, tavern had been operated for 41 years without prior violation, and, with exception of charge that gambling was permitted on premises, nature of acts giving rise to violations were of relatively minor consequence, penalty of 40-day license suspension imposed on tavern operator would be reduced to ten-day suspension. Hristo v State Liquor Authority, 52 A.D.2d 741, 381 N.Y.S.2d 938, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12438 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Penalty which included $500 bond forfeiture in connection with permitting gambling on the premises was too severe in light of all the circumstances; ten days' suspension without bond forfeiture was appropriate punishment. Flook v State Liquor Authority, 55 A.D.2d 1048, 391 N.Y.S.2d 238, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10408 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

It was unduly harsh to suspend petitioner's liquor license for 30 days and impose $1,000 bond forfeiture for having suffered or permitted gambling on licensed premises by maintaining video display game of type prohibited under rule 36.1(t) of Rules of State Liquor Authority (9 NYCRR § 53.1(t)) where (1) it was first time that "Big Apple" video game was considered to be "gambling device," (2) New York City Department of Consumer Affairs had reviewed and licensed "Big Apple" as approved common show game, and (3) prior cases involving "Joker Poker" machine had not imposed such severe penalties. Cos Dei San, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 147 A.D.2d 370, 537 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1280 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 611, 546 N.Y.S.2d 556, 545 N.E.2d 870, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2883 (N.Y. 1989).

Penalty of 20-day suspension of petitioner's liquor license and $1,000 bond forfeiture was excessive for having allowed patrons to utilize Joker Poker video game with knowledge that they could receive extension of playing time or credits without being charged therefor; matter would be remitted for imposition of new penalty not to exceed suspension of petitioner's license for more than 10 days. PJP Tavern Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 152 A.D.2d 578, 543 N.Y.S.2d 499, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9710 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 702, 552 N.Y.S.2d 108, 551 N.E.2d 601, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 2 (N.Y. 1990).

Revocation of petitioner's on-premises liquor license was excessive punishment for single conviction of promoting gambling on premises where revocation would entail loss of petitioner's livelihood, and he had well-regarded stature in community and distinguished military career. Mahr v Duffy, 171 A.D.2d 984, 567 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3849 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 855, 573 N.Y.S.2d 645, 578 N.E.2d 443, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1886 (N.Y. 1991).

17. —Disorderly premises

Cancellation of license on grounds of disorderliness of premises because of homosexual activity held excessive and penalty reduced to suspension of license for 60 days. Sayville Coachman Inn, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 27 N.Y.2d 607, 313 N.Y.S.2d 415, 261 N.E.2d 412, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1232 (N.Y. 1970).

Even if substantial evidence had supported finding that bar had permitted disorderly condition to exist on its premises, penalty of cancellation of liquor license would have been shocking to court's sense of fairness under circumstances. 4822 Bar & Grill, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 50 A.D.2d 889, 377 N.Y.S.2d 525, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11789 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 41 N.Y.2d 875, 393 N.Y.S.2d 993, 362 N.E.2d 623, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1920 (N.Y. 1977).

Penalty of cancellation plus $1,000 bond claim, imposed by state liquor authority for one violation of CLS Al Bev § 106 (disorderly premises), would have been remanded for reconsideration on grounds of excessiveness if court were not dismissing proceeding for lack of substantial evidence to support charge. La Bamba Bar, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 141 A.D.2d 403, 530 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6921 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

Revocation of petitioners' liquor license for 2 years for allowing disorderly premises was inappropriate where bar in question had existed at same location for some 70 years without any serious transgressions, incident in question involved civic event where sheer number of crowd was out of ordinary to bar's usual operation, and effort to close bar was not result of enraged community but rather action of one neighbor who had recently moved to community. Bonhomme v New York State Liquor Auth., 221 A.D.2d 882, 634 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12352 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Penalty of 20-day suspension and imposition of $1,000 bond forfeiture on licensee for permitting security guard to assault patron was shocking to court's sense of fairness where incident was isolated and brief; penalty would be reduced to 10-day deferred suspension and imposition of $500 bond forfeiture. Soca Paradise, Inc. v New York Liquor Auth., 232 A.D.2d 278, 649 N.Y.S.2d 9, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10354 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Where a liquor licensee enters a plea of "no contest" to a charge of maintaining disorderly premises, by way of first offense, a short suspension of his license is reasonable, but suspension or revocation of his liquor license, without prior warning, is excessive and an abuse of discretion. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

18. —Lewd conduct

That employee engaged by beer licensee to close licensees' restaurant and clean had twice returned to restaurant with girls and had intercourse did not justify cancellation of license and warranted only 30 day suspension. Votsis v State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 802, 365 N.Y.S.2d 304, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9122 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Conduct of liquor licensee in permitting lewdness or obscenity was not so heinous or dangerous to public as to justify cancellation of license, and penalty was reduced to suspension of license for three months and forfeiture of bond in the sum of $1,000. Rubinoff v State Liquor Authority, 53 A.D.2d 943, 385 N.Y.S.2d 212, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15734 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

19. —Fighting

Liquor license should not have been suspended on ground that licensee suffered or permitted its premises to become disorderly by virtue of incident in which bartender shot patron where licensee had had a license since 1950 and there had been no previous charges of disorderliness, the bartender had worked at the premises for only 3 weeks, on weekends, prior to the incident, with no acts of violence, the principal officer and stockholder of the licensed premises had been on the premises for 12 hours on the day in question and had left prior to the incident, and there was no evidence to impute the employee's illegal activities to the corporate licensee. Ivy Tavern, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 44 A.D.2d 568, 353 N.Y.S.2d 43, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5527 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

Defendant's motion to dismiss the disorderly count of the information was granted because the physical altercation began suddenly and unexpectedly and ended fairly rapidly and nothing within the four corners of the information alleged or implied the existence of advance notice of the potentiality of the confrontation, or of events that could lead to it, that would have provided defendant with actual or constructive knowledge mandating his intercession. People v Salgado, 58 Misc. 3d 820, 69 N.Y.S.3d 785, 2018 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 118 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 2018).

20. Advertising signs

Displaying two signs advertising dances to be held by certain organizations did not constitute a violation of § 106, subd 7. "No other sign" in the second sentence is construed with reference to the type of sign mentioned in the first sentence. The rule of ejusdem generis applies. People v Weinstein, 114 N.Y.S.2d 726, 202 Misc. 171, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2968 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1952).

The words "other sign" as used in sub 7 of this section refer to signs advertising alcoholic beverages only and do not prohibit the use of other signs such as those advertising dances to be held on certain dates at premises other than the licensed premises. People v Machalski, 115 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1601 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1952).

21. Containers

Where the State Liquor Authority suspended respondent's liquor license for 20 days upon its finding that a barrel of beer had been connected to a tap which did not bear the same name as the beer, the Appellate Division had no authority to annul that determination on the law and remit the proceeding to the Authority "for further action and reconsideration of the extent of the punishment imposed," since there is no provision for judicial review of the measure of punishment imposed by the State Liquor Authority. Sagos v O'Connell, 301 N.Y. 212, 93 N.E.2d 644, 301 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 212, 1950 N.Y. LEXIS 800 (N.Y. 1950).

In an Article 78 proceeding, a fine levied by the State Liquor Authority against a licensee for keeping liquor in mislabeled containers in violation of Al Bev Law § 106(2) was in excess of the Authority's jurisdiction and would be annuled; the provision in Al Bev Law § 112 that the bond furnished by a licensee shall be conditioned for payment of "all fines and penalties which shall accrue" refers to fines imposed by courts and does not furnish a basis for implying a power in the Authority to impose a fine. Dumbarton Oaks Restaurant & Bar, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 58 N.Y.2d 89, 459 N.Y.S.2d 564, 446 N.E.2d 128, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 2828 (N.Y. 1983).

An on-premises consumption license will be revoked, pursuant to § 118, where the petitioner had three partly filled bottles of whisky back of the bar along with other bottles of the same kind of whisky whose seals had not been broken, in violation of § 106, subd. 2, a proper hearing under § 119 having been held. Yates v Mulrooney, 245 A.D. 146, 281 N.Y.S. 216, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10247 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

Even assuming constitutional reasonable search restrictions on administrative proceedings, state liquor authority had right to inspect tavern, pursuant to complaint, for violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 2 where mislabeled bottles were owned by licensee and used in his business. Lacorazza v State Liquor Authority, 44 A.D.2d 555, 352 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5569 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1974).

22. Windows

Glass panels, facing the street and flush with the face of the building and completely painted with an opaque substance, are not windows within the meaning of sub 6 of this section. People v Brasi, 118 N.Y.S.2d 608, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1470 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1953).

The test of whether an object covers a window is whether it acts as a screen or shield, or in some similar manner so that the interior is so hidden, shielded, cloaked or concealed from view, that clear and full view into the interior of the licensed premises cannot be had from the sidewalk at all times. People v Brasi, 118 N.Y.S.2d 608, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1470 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1953).

23. Books and records

Sanction of 30-day suspension of liquor license and $250 bond penalty imposed upon licensee which violated record keeping and ownership certification requirements of Alcoholic Beverage Control Act by failing to disclose existence of one partner and fact that two persons had become corporate officers was appropriate. Shore Haven Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 37 N.Y.2d 187, 371 N.Y.S.2d 710, 332 N.E.2d 883, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1946 (N.Y. 1975).

The purpose of this provision is to assure convenient availability of books to the inspectors of the Authority. Application of Restaurants & Patisseries Longchamps, Inc., 271 A.D. 641, 67 N.Y.S.2d 362, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5110 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 296 N.Y. 239, 72 N.E.2d 174, 296 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 239, 1947 N.Y. LEXIS 942 (N.Y. 1947).

In proceeding to review determination of New York State Liquor Authority cancelling on-premises liquor license and imposing $1,000 bond claim, record supported findings that license holder permitted license to be availed of by two persons not named therein; that it failed to keep required books and records; and that it suppressed information as to loans; however, record did not support finding that license holder wrongfully permitted another to sign his name on two renewal applications. Cross County Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 51 A.D.2d 999, 380 N.Y.S.2d 751, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11753 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Although the State Liquor Authority may examine the books and records of a corporation possessing a liquor license, there is no provision for an indefinite surrender of these records to the Authority, and after making such copies of these records which it deems pertinent for its own proceedings, the Authority must immediately return said records to the licensee. Candlelight Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 54 Misc. 2d 393, 282 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1338 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967).

Reliance upon inspections by police officers of taverns is essential to effective enforcement of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, and thus, defendant tavern owner's failure to make available to policemen records of his purchases and sales of alcohol, which were requested while inspecting tavern, was interference within meaning of CLS Penal Law § 195.05, since policemen were engaged in authorized government function and power to inspect licensed premises includes power to inspect books and records. People v Stumpp, 129 Misc. 2d 703, 493 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2722 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1985), aff'd, 132 Misc. 2d 3, 505 N.Y.S.2d 758, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2626 (N.Y. App. Term 1986).

24. Refusal to allow inspection

A 60-day suspension rather than cancellation of liquor license was appropriate penalty for licensee's refusal to allow inspection of licensed premises during business hours by police officers, which refusal constituted a violation of the law. Corey v State Liquor Authority, 34 A.D.2d 1094, 312 N.Y.S.2d 829, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4389 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1970).

It was inappropriate to revoke petitioner's liquor license because petitioner's bartender improperly denied Liquor Authority's agents permission to inspect premises, given that petitioner had prior unblemished record. M.P.N. Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 206 A.D.2d 430, 614 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7281 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Defendant-bar owner's guilt of the crime of "obstructing governmental administration" would be established, as alleged in the information, challenged as not alleging an offense, if proof later showed that, when police officers sought to make an inspection pursuant to statute of premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages, defendant stood in officer's way and stated his bar was private and officer would have to lock him up if he wanted to check the bar. People v De Martino, 67 Misc. 2d 11, 323 N.Y.S.2d 297, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1521 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 1971).

Owner of premises which sold liquor for on-premises consumption was properly convicted of obstructing governmental administration for refusing police officer access to books and records, since police officer is permitted to inspect premises selling liquor for on-premises consumption and such inspection includes right to inspect books and records. People v Stumpp, 132 Misc. 2d 3, 505 N.Y.S.2d 578 (1986).

Information sufficiently alleged the charge of obstructing governmental administration in the second degree based on factual questions existing whether the bar was open for business at the approximately 3:30 a.m.-or-later hour, and whether the employee roster was actually available upon the premises at that time—or, indeed, whether such a roster existed at all—when the police officer sought to inspect. People v Salgado, 58 Misc. 3d 820, 69 N.Y.S.3d 785, 2018 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 118 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 2018).

25. Off-premises consumption

A charge that the licensee served drinks to customers at his bar and permitted them to walk out the front door of the premises between 1 o'clock a.m. and closing time, and stand on the sidewalk and engage in loud talk, yell and swear at passing motorists, and throwing their glasses and returning to the bar for further drinks, did not constitute a violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subdivision 3. Italiano v State Liquor Authority, 35 A.D.2d 455, 317 N.Y.S.2d 441, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4922 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1971).

Finding as to violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(3) was not supported by substantial evidence where civic benefit, run at licensee bar, brought out unexpectedly large and sympathetic crowd, exceedingly hot day and congestion of people in bar caused some customers to seek air outside bar during break in music, and several customers carried out their drinks to parking lot, through doors manned by volunteers who had been instructed not to allow anyone out carrying liquor; such circumstances indicated general disorderliness of premises. Bonhomme v New York State Liquor Auth., 221 A.D.2d 882, 634 N.Y.S.2d 241, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12352 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

26. —Cider

The holder of a license to sell wine at retail for consumption on premises under § 81, by delivering cider at complainant's farm did not violate § 106, subd. 3, which prohibits a retail licensee for on-premises consumption from selling or delivering any "liquors" or "wines" for consumption off the premises where sold. People v Tretneck, 22 N.Y.S.2d 720, 175 Misc. 41, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2205 (N.Y. County Ct. 1940).

Cider is neither liquor nor wine. People v Tretneck, 22 N.Y.S.2d 720, 175 Misc. 41, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2205 (N.Y. County Ct. 1940).

An information which charged the defendant, who was licensed to sell wine at retail for consumption on premises, with the delivery of cider at complainant's farm on Sunday was insufficient to charge a violation of § 106, subd. 5. People v Tretneck, 22 N.Y.S.2d 720, 175 Misc. 41, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2205 (N.Y. County Ct. 1940).

27. —Knowledge

The State Liquor Authority could properly conclude that petitioner, a corporation, violated subd. 3 of this section by permitting liquor to be delivered for consumption off its premises by reason of acts of one of its officers who was managing the premises, notwithstanding the sole stockholder of the corporation lacked knowledge of them. Maine Maid, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 18 A.D.2d 919, 238 N.Y.S.2d 184, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

The owner of inn, licensed to sell liquor for consumption on premises, may be convicted for selling and delivering or causing to be sold and delivered liquor for off-premises consumption, in violation of § 106, subd. 3, although the actual sale was made by a waiter of the defendant without his knowledge or consent. People v Hawk, 283 N.Y.S. 531, 156 Misc. 870, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1567 (N.Y. County Ct.), aff'd, 268 N.Y. 678, 198 N.E. 555, 268 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 678, 1935 N.Y. LEXIS 1146 (N.Y. 1935).

28. Hours and days

State Liquor Authority's determination that petitioner violated CLS Al Bev § 106(5) by permitting sale of alcoholic beverage during prohibited hours was supported by testimony of investigator who purchased beverage after ascertaining correct time by comparing time on his watch with that of clock on wall of premises. Rontim Restaurant v New York State Liquor Auth., 206 A.D.2d 485, 614 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7458 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Tavern owner's on-premises liquor license was properly cancelled pursuant to N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law §§ 106(5), 118(1) and (3), and N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, § 53.1(q) because the owner sold alcohol after hours, permitted the consumption of alcohol on its premises after hours, caused a continuing pattern of noise, disturbance, and misconduct that adversely affected the neighborhood, and operated its premises in such a manner that it became a focal point for police attention. Matter of Sherwyn Toppin Mktg. Consultants, Inc. v New York State Liq. Auth., 103 A.D.3d 648, 958 N.Y.S.2d 794, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 731 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 21 N.Y.3d 858, 970 N.Y.S.2d 495, 992 N.E.2d 423, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 1456 (N.Y. 2013).

A statute prohibiting the serving of an alcoholic beverage upon licensed premises after 4:30 A.M. (Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 106, subd 5, par [b]) applies to any person who violates the prohibition of the statute and is not limited to the licensee of the premises and, therefore, defendant, a barmaid, can properly be charged with a violation of this section for allegedly permitting the consumption of beer at 4:36 A.M.; since the trial court, in deciding the critical question of the time of the occurrence, improperly vouched for the integrity of the two police officers who testified on behalf of the People and gave their testimony credence based upon facts not disclosed by the evidence, a reversal of the judgment of conviction is warranted; in any event, the evidence adduced upon the trial that the officers relied upon the time announced by a radio station in making the arrest warrants a reversal in light of the fact that defendant's guilt hinges on a span of only a few minutes since, where conduct not otherwise criminal in nature becomes so by the mere passage of time, the shorter the elapsed time between the commencement of the alleged violation and the termination of the lawful conduct, the more precise the verification of the means used to ascertain the time required and, therefore, if the People intended to rely on the radio broadcast to verify the exact time, proof should have submitted as to accuracy of the station's time check. People v Shelley, 103 Misc. 2d 1087, 431 N.Y.S.2d 753, 1980 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2258 (N.Y. App. Term 1980).

29. —Regulation by municipalities

No town or municipality has the power to regulate hours for the sale of alcoholic beverages on Memorial Day so as to vary or conflict with the governing provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law or Rules of Local Alcoholic Beverage Control Boards. William Mullare, Inc. v Hempstead, 11 Misc. 2d 245, 176 N.Y.S.2d 55, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3215 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

The policy of the Legislature was to pre-empt the field of regulation and control of manufacture, sale, etc., of alcoholic beverages, and since subd. 5 of this section restricts hours for sale of such beverages only to the extent therein stated, a municipality has no authority, under § 86 of the General Municipal Law, to further restrict hours for sale of such beverages on Memorial Day. Blumfield v Ramapo, 30 Misc. 2d 678, 222 N.Y.S.2d 939, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2157 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Provision of New York City Cabaret Law, regulating business hours of certain establishments, was not merely local law of general application but was improper intrusion into area which was exclusive province of state and was preempted by CLS Al Bev § 106; since local law rendered illegal what was specifically allowed by state law, it was invalid exercise of local authority and its enforcement would be enjoined. In re Landsdown Entertainment Corp., 133 Misc. 2d 206, 506 N.Y.S.2d 825, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2850 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986), modified, 141 A.D.2d 468, 530 N.Y.S.2d 574, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7908 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

30. —Knowledge

Under the scheme of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, it is the licensee that is held exclusively liable with respect to consumption to alcoholic beverages on premises later than one-half hour after the start of prohibited hours of sale, but for violation to occur, licensee must know or should know that an alcoholic beverage is being consumed in the premises after the prescribed time. People v Stentella, 83 Misc. 2d 515, 373 N.Y.S.2d 278, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2932 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1975).

A Licensee could not be held liable for consumption of beer on premises five minutes after prescribed hour in absence of evidence that licensee had knowledge or should have known that beer was being consumed at that time, that licensee was in the public part of the premises, or that he could have prevented the beer from being consumed. People v Stentella, 83 Misc. 2d 515, 373 N.Y.S.2d 278, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2932 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1975).

31. Gambling

Subdivision 6 embraces both casual and professional betting and includes a social game of poker. Katz's Delicatessen, Inc. v O'Connell, 302 N.Y. 286, 97 N.E.2d 906, 302 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 286, 1951 N.Y. LEXIS 752 (N.Y. 1951).

State Liquor Authority properly relied on definition of "gambling" in CLS Penal Law § 225.00 in determining that licensee violated CLS Al Bev Law § 106 by permitting on its premises "Joker Poker" machine which awarded free games to winning players. Plato's Cave Corp. v State Liquor Auth., 68 N.Y.2d 791, 506 N.Y.S.2d 856, 498 N.E.2d 420, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20104 (N.Y. 1986).

While Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6) prohibits gambling within premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption on premises, there is no similar legislative prohibition concerning licensees who hold licenses to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption off premises; accordingly, as State Liquor Authority had neither express nor implied authority to apply instant rule prohibiting gambling on premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages to holder of license to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption off premises, its determination was properly annulled. L. Newstand, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 151 A.D.2d 483, 542 N.Y.S.2d 275, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7476 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 710, 556 N.Y.S.2d 532, 555 N.E.2d 929, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 977 (N.Y. 1990).

Uncontroverted testimony of undercover officers at statutory hearing furnished substantial evidence to support determination that petitioner suffered or permitted gambling on licensed premises, in violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, and that petitioner permitted keeping or maintaining on licensed premises of video display game machine of type prohibited under rule 36.1 (t) of Rules of State Liquor Authority (9 NYCRR 53.1 [t]); illegality of "Trivia Whiz" video game machine is uncontested. Ebbetts Field Cafe, Inc. v Duffy, 168 A.D.2d 309, 562 N.Y.S.2d 940, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15200 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

A determination suspending petitioner's restaurant liquor license for 10 days for violation of subdivision 6 of this section was confirmed. Corcoran v New York State Liquor Authority, 5 A.D.2d 840, 171 N.Y.S.2d 798, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6990 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 5 N.Y.2d 813, 181 N.Y.S.2d 209, 155 N.E.2d 119, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 715 (N.Y. 1958).

On the record, Special Term should not have annulled the determination of the state liquor authority which suspended the license of the petitioner for a period of 90 days less five days, 70 days to be served forthwith and 15 days deferred on the basis of petitioner's "no contest" plea to a charge of permitting gambling on the premises. Bomysoad v New York State Liquor Authority, 13 A.D.2d 873, 215 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10699 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

Penal Law § 225.00 definitions relating to gambling offenses are instructive in determining whether alcoholic beverage licensee has suffered or permitted gambling on premises in violation of Al Bev Law § 106. Re Plato's Cave Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 115 A.D.2d 426, 496 N.Y.S.2d 436, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), aff'd, 68 N.Y.2d 791, 506 N.Y.S.2d 856, 498 N.E.2d 420, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20104 (N.Y. 1986).

Mere possession or use of gambling device, as defined in Penal Law § 225.00, on premises of alcoholic beverage licensee, in violation of Al Bev § 106, is not disorderly conduct, as set forth in Penal Law § 240.20 and accordingly does not constitute operation of disorderly premises in violation of Al Bev § 106. Re Plato's Cave Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 115 A.D.2d 426, 496 N.Y.S.2d 436, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), aff'd, 68 N.Y.2d 791, 506 N.Y.S.2d 856, 498 N.E.2d 420, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20104 (N.Y. 1986).

State Liquor Authority properly determined that restaurant permitted gambling on its premises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106 by maintaining "Joker Poker" video game machine, even though nothing of value could be won from playing game except free plays, since game is one of chance, not skill. O'Carroll Rest. Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 125 A.D.2d 212, 509 N.Y.S.2d 17, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62485 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

Substantial evidence supported determination that liquor licensee suffered or permitted gambling on licensed premises and permitted keeping or maintaining of video display game machine of type prohibited under rule 36.1(t) of Rules of State Liquor Authority (9 NYCRR § 53.1(t)) where "Big Apple" video game present on premises rewarded winning poker hand with opportunity to prolong initial play by means of playing high-low double-up feature, which was not available to person who drew losing poker hand; such extension of play was "something of value" within meaning of CLS Penal § 225.00(6) and, therefore, "gambling" within meaning of § 225.00(2). Cos Dei San, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 147 A.D.2d 370, 537 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1280 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 611, 546 N.Y.S.2d 556, 545 N.E.2d 870, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2883 (N.Y. 1989).

Penalty consisting of 10-day deferred suspension of liquor license and forfeiture of $1,000 compliance bond was not excessive where State Liquor Control Authority found that tavern violated gambling prohibitions of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) by having "Sureshot" video machine on premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages. Guy's Tavern, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 151 A.D.2d 365, 542 N.Y.S.2d 612, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8113 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

State Liquor Authority (SLA) did not have either express or implied authority to suspend license of small grocery store/newsstand to sell beer for off-premises consumption on basis that store housed electronic "Joker Poker" video game since (1) CLS Al Bev § 106(6) only prohibits gambling within premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages for consumption on premises, and (2) CLS Al Bev §§ 2, 17, 114 and 118 did not confer implied authority on SLA to promulgate rules on its own. L. Newstand, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 151 A.D.2d 483, 542 N.Y.S.2d 275, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7476 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 710, 556 N.Y.S.2d 532, 555 N.E.2d 929, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 977 (N.Y. 1990).

Ten-day suspension of license to sell liquor was not excessive on finding that licensee suffered or permitted gambling on its premises. Tom's Log Cabin, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 186 A.D.2d 203, 587 N.Y.S.2d 1008, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10663 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Penalty of 60 days' suspension of petitioner's liquor license and $1,000 bondforfeiture, upon finding that petitioner suffered or permitted gambling on licensedpremises, was so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense offairness. Keenan v New York State Liquor Auth., 205 A.D.2d 359, 613 N.Y.S.2d 367, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6221 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Suspension of petitioner's on-premises liquor license for 30 days and imposition of $1,000 bond forfeiture was inappropriate penalty for having "suffered or permitted" gambling on premises in violation of Liquor Authority Rule 36.1(t) (CLS Al Bev Appx § 53.1(t); 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t)); any penalty greater than 10-day suspension and $1,000 fine would be disproportionate to offense and excessive under circumstances involving presence of "Park Avenue" video display machine, which would award patrons who placed money into device with free "points" or "hands." Tom's Log Cabin, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 214 A.D.2d 492, 625 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4612 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Penalty proscribing relicensing of premises for 2 years was shocking to one's sense of fairness for petitioner's allowing video gambling and gambling in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) and allowing its premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6). J A J K, Inc. v Division of Alcoholic Bev. Control, 272 A.D.2d 963, 711 N.Y.S.2d 367, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9927 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Although there was substantial evidence to support a determination that a restaurant violated N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law § 106(6) and Rule 54.2 of the Rules of the New York State Liquor Authority, there was insufficient evidence to support the charge that the restaurant failed to summon aid for an injured patron. Matter of Confetti, Inc. v New York State Liq. Auth., 44 A.D.3d 1041, 845 N.Y.S.2d 794, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11074 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Because the prize awarded by a game was selected at random by the machine, pursuant to N.Y. Penal Law § 225.00(1), the overall game was a mixed game of skill and chance; therefore, because the State Liquor Authority did not err in finding that the game was a gambling device under N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law §§ 105(22), 106(6), the developer was not entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of Pace-o-matic, Inc. v New York State Liq. Auth., 72 A.D.3d 1144, 898 N.Y.S.2d 295, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2674 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

32. —Proof

Determination of State Liquor Authority suspending restaurant liquor license upon finding that licensee had suffered or permitted gambling on licensed premises in violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law (§ 106, subd 6) annulled; finding not supported by substantial evidence. Hoban & Sullivan, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 304 N.Y. 712, 107 N.E.2d 656, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 712, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 915 (N.Y. 1952).

Evidence sustained a finding that the licensee suffered and permitted gambling on his licensed premises and justified suspension of his restaurant liquor license for 10 days. Danzo Estate, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 27 N.Y.2d 469, 318 N.Y.S.2d 736, 267 N.E.2d 474, 1971 N.Y. LEXIS 1673 (N.Y. 1971).

The testimony was insufficient to sustain suspension of petitioner's restaurant liquor license by the State Liquor Authority, on a charge of violating subd. 6 of this section by suffering or permitting gambling on the licensed premises, where it consisted merely of testimony of police officers who visited the premises once and observed two gambling transactions during a 50-minute stay, during which, however, no responsible agent or principal of petitioner was present. Conservative Grouping Corp. v Epstein, 13 A.D.2d 805, 215 N.Y.S.2d 777, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10896 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 10 N.Y.2d 956, 224 N.Y.S.2d 277, 180 N.E.2d 58, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 903 (N.Y. 1961).

There being substantial evidence to warrant a determination by the State Liquor Authority that petitioner violated subd. 6 of this section by permitting gambling on the licensed premises, it was not an abuse of discretion to revoke his restaurant liquor license and direct that no new license be issued for two years. Mazurczak v New York State Liquor Authority, 18 A.D.2d 920, 238 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4403 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 13 N.Y.2d 672, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 2096 (N.Y. 1963), app. denied, 13 N.Y.2d 595, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1932 (N.Y. 1963).

Where gambling evidence had been suppressed in a criminal court, such evidence could not form the basis for the cancellation of the petitioner's beer license. Gonzalez v State Liquor Authority, 36 A.D.2d 740, 320 N.Y.S.2d 490, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4496 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1971), rev'd, 30 N.Y.2d 108, 331 N.Y.S.2d 6, 282 N.E.2d 101, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1448 (N.Y. 1972).

Suspension of on-premises liquor license and claim on bond annuled where finding that gambling was suffered or permitted on petitioner's premises was not supported by substantial evidence, and furthermore, it appeared that if gambling did in fact occur, it was not of sufficient duration to warrant the implication that petitioner suffered or permitted gambling within the meaning of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 6. Kline v State Liquor Authority, 40 A.D.2d 855, 337 N.Y.S.2d 789, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3371 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972).

Presence of "Joker Poker" video game machine on premises licensed to serve alcoholic beverages, and testimony of State Liquor Authority investigator that he received cash from barmaid after winning games on machine, were sufficient to sustain authority's finding that licensee had violated CLS Al Bev § 106 in permitting gambling on licensed premises; however, mere permitting of gambling device did not support finding that licensee was also guilty of permitting premises to become disorderly in violation of § 106, absent independent evidence of disorderliness. Penoke Restaurant, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 121 A.D.2d 921, 504 N.Y.S.2d 431, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 59036 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

Determination by State Liquor Authority that "Joker-Poker" coin operated video game was gambling device and that its presence at petitioner's licensed restaurant constituted sufferance and permission of gambling therein was not arbitrary and capricious, especially since petitioner's managerial staff was fully aware that patrons who utilized game received extension of playtime or credits for sufficiently high score without being charged; however, requiring forfeiture of petitioner's $1,000 compliance bond was excessive and penalty would be limited to 10-day suspension of its liquor license. MNDN Restaurant, Inc. v Gazzara, 128 A.D.2d 781, 513 N.Y.S.2d 257, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44466 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 603, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 512 N.E.2d 552, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17445 (N.Y. 1987).

State Liquor Authority improperly determined that licensee violated CLS Al Bev § 106 by permitting gambling on its premises at benefit for Actor's Studio, based solely on evidence of presence of "gambling devices" (such as baccarat, blackjack and craps tables, and wheels of fortune) since there was no evidence that anyone wagered anything where (1) guests paid $250 admission price and received gambling chips primarily to support Actor's Studio and secondarily to gain entry to festivities, and (2) there was no evidence that any guests paid additional sums for more chips; although movie memorabilia awarded as prizes were "things of value" within applicable definition of gambling, nothing of value was placed at risk by those who competed for prizes. Muidallap Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 143 A.D.2d 9, 532 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8432 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

Substantial evidence supported determination that petitioner violated CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) by having suffered or permitted gambling, and keeping "Joker Poker" machine on its premises, even though petitioner was licensed by city department of consumer affairs to maintain "Joker Poker" machine. Turkey's Nest, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 151 A.D.2d 683, 542 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8205 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Substantial evidence supported suspension of liquor license of tavern on basis of gambling on premises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where investigator testified that tavern's principals were present on premises when video display game machines known as High-Low Joker Poker were being played by patrons, and that $6 payoffs were made to several unidentified patrons. Tego's Tavern, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 158 A.D.2d 900, 551 N.Y.S.2d 697, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1855 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Restaurant was properly found to have permitted gambling on premises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) on basis of maintenance of video display game machine which rewarded winning players with additional games free; however, 30-day suspension of liquor license and forfeiture of $1,000 bond was unduly harsh penalty and matter would be remitted for appropriate sanction. Bubba Restaurant, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 160 A.D.2d 539, 554 N.Y.S.2d 189, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4559 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Fact that free play was awarded in video poker game supported determination that holder of liquor license suffered or permitted gambling on its premises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6). Tom's Log Cabin, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 186 A.D.2d 203, 587 N.Y.S.2d 1008, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10663 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Court would annul State Liquor Authority's decision which suspended petitioner's liquor license for 10-day period, since evidence did not support finding that "Broadway" video poker game in operation on licensed premises was gambling device where there was no proof that it awarded player anything of value for drawing winning hand, such as extension of playing time or free game. Shell Lounge v New York State Liquor Auth., 206 A.D.2d 536, 615 N.Y.S.2d 82, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7586 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 84 N.Y.2d 812, 622 N.Y.S.2d 914, 647 N.E.2d 120, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4568 (N.Y. 1994).

Presence of "Park Avenue" video display machine on licensed premises was substantial evidence of licensee having "suffered or permitted" gambling on premises in violation of Liquor Authority Rule 36.1(t) (CLS Al Bev Appx § 53.1(t); 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t)), since patrons who placed money into device could be awarded free "points" or "hands" for having done so. Tom's Log Cabin, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 214 A.D.2d 492, 625 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4612 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Substantial evidence supported administrative determination that bar operator allowed gambling on its premises in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) where (1) operator installed vending machine that dispensed pull-tabs labeled "Lucky Shamrock Sweepstakes" that could be purchased for $1, (2) inside each pull-tab was calling card and game piece, (3) card allowed holder to place 2-minute phone call anywhere in continental United States, (4) game piece displayed series of horizontal and vertical rows of numbers and symbols, (5) piece displaying certain combinations of numbers and symbols entitled holder to prize ranging from $1 to $500, and (6) winning game pieces were redeemed by operator, which retained them as receipts. Black North Assocs. v Kelly, 281 A.D.2d 974, 722 N.Y.S.2d 666, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3046 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Fact that no purchase was necessary to participate in "Lucky Shamrock Sweepstakes" through vending machine at bar did not prevent sweepstakes from being gambling activity in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) where distribution of free promotional game pieces was limited to one per person per day "while supplies last," players could increase their chances of winning by making multiple purchases, and machine was designed to encourage multiple purchases because it accepted bills ranging from $1 to $20 and did not give change. Black North Assocs. v Kelly, 281 A.D.2d 974, 722 N.Y.S.2d 666, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3046 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

There was no merit in bar operator's claim that "Lucky Shamrock Vending Machine" installed in bar was passive dispensing device rather than gambling device in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) where machine, which allowed player to watch game being played, know that he or she had winning ticket before opening it, and use it only as receipt for redemption, was designed to resemble slot machine and for all intents and purposes operated as such. Black North Assocs. v Kelly, 281 A.D.2d 974, 722 N.Y.S.2d 666, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3046 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Fact that "Lucky Shamrock Vending Machine" installed in bar did not contain random number generator or other device to determine winners did not prevent it from being gambling device in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) where CLS Penal § 225.00(8) provides that "'[s]lot machine' means a gambling device which, as a result of the insertion of a coin or other object, operates, either completely automatically or with the aid of some physical act by the player, in such manner that, depending upon elements of chance, it may eject something of value" and that device is no "less a slot machine because, apart from its use or adaptability as such, it may also sell or deliver something of value on a basis other than chance." Black North Assocs. v Kelly, 281 A.D.2d 974, 722 N.Y.S.2d 666, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3046 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

An information charging a liquor licensee with violation of subd. 6 of this section as a misdemeanor must, to be sufficient, meet stricter requirements than would be required in proceedings before the Liquor Authority to cancel or suspend a license. People v Bart's Restaurant Corp., 42 Misc. 2d 1093, 249 N.Y.S.2d 344, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1790 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1964).

33. —Knowledge

To sustain a showing of violation of statute proscribing person licensed to sell alcoholic beverages from suffering or permitting any gambling on licensed premises as ground for suspension of license, it must be demonstrated that licensee had a knowledge, or opportunity through reasonable diligence to acquire knowledge, of the gambling. Leake v Sarafan, 35 N.Y.2d 83, 358 N.Y.S.2d 749, 315 N.E.2d 796, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1395 (N.Y. 1974).

Suspension of on-premises liquor license for ten days for suffering or permitting gambling on premises was not justified, in absence of showing of knowledge on part of licensee, or even on part of barmaid, the only employee present, that patron was gambling. Leake v Sarafan, 35 N.Y.2d 83, 358 N.Y.S.2d 749, 315 N.E.2d 796, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1395 (N.Y. 1974).

Evidence supported finding that licensee "suffered or permitted" gambling by maintaining "Joker Poker" machine on premises where license had been issued for machine, it was present on premises, barmaid had quarters available for use in playing machine, machine had been on premises for 8 months, and machine had "credit light" which went on to indicate that player had won free play; it could reasonably be inferred that licensee's managerial personnel were aware that free plays were provided. Plato's Cave Corp. v State Liquor Auth., 68 N.Y.2d 791, 506 N.Y.S.2d 856, 498 N.E.2d 420, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20104 (N.Y. 1986).

The evidence was insufficient to sustain a State Liquor Authority's suspension of petitioner's restaurant license for permitting gambling on the licensed premises where it was too insubstantial to sustain a finding that he knew or should have known that the gambling was going on. Gerbino v New York State Liquor Authority, 16 A.D.2d 655, 226 N.Y.S.2d 633, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10641 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1962), rev'd, 12 N.Y.2d 904, 237 N.Y.S.2d 1005, 188 N.E.2d 269, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1438 (N.Y. 1963).

Suspension of on premises liquor license for suffering gambling to be conducted on premises would be reversed where, although police officer saw woman take money and make notations on pieces of paper in tavern on three different occasions, owner of premises was only present during one of these periods and was during that time preoccupied with other matters; thus, evidence was insufficient to impute requisite knowledge on part of licensee. Leake v Sarafan, 42 A.D.2d 845, 346 N.Y.S.2d 593, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3618 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973), aff'd, 35 N.Y.2d 83, 358 N.Y.S.2d 749, 315 N.E.2d 796, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1395 (N.Y. 1974).

Where bartender was in effective charge of premises for bulk of period between 11:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. each day and had been so employed for approximately three years, bartender's knowledge that gambling was taking place on premises was chargeable to licensee and warranted suspension of liquor license, even though bartender did not have official managerial title. Falso v State Liquor Authority, 54 A.D.2d 817, 388 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14515 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 721, 401 N.Y.S.2d 484, 372 N.E.2d 325, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2521 (N.Y. 1977).

Mere possession or use of gambling device, as defined in Penal Law § 225.00, on premises of alcoholic beverage licensee, in violation of Al Bev § 106, is not disorderly conduct, as set forth in Penal Law § 240.20 and accordingly does not constitute operation of disorderly premises in violation of Al Bev § 106. Re Plato's Cave Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 115 A.D.2d 426, 496 N.Y.S.2d 436, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), aff'd, 68 N.Y.2d 791, 506 N.Y.S.2d 856, 498 N.E.2d 420, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20104 (N.Y. 1986).

Conduct of licensee's employee who is vested with managerial authority over licensed premises is properly considered in determining whether licensee has violated § 106 by permitting premises to become disorderly. Stonehedge Pub, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, Inc., 118 A.D.2d 559, 499 N.Y.S.2d 12, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54420 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Presence of "Joker Poker" video game machine on premises licensed to serve alcoholic beverages, and testimony of State Liquor Authority investigator that he received cash from barmaid after winning games on machine, were sufficient to sustain authority's finding that licensee had violated CLS Al Bev § 106 in permitting gambling on licensed premises; however, mere permitting of gambling device did not support finding that licensee was also guilty of permitting premises to become disorderly in violation of § 106, absent independent evidence of disorderliness. Penoke Restaurant, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 121 A.D.2d 921, 504 N.Y.S.2d 431, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 59036 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

Where tavern was found to have suffered or permitted gambling on its premises with Joker Poker machine and was penalized by State Liquor Authority by 10-day deferred suspension of its liquor license and $1,000 bond forfeiture, it could not be said that penalty was disproportionate to offense. 2700 Tavern, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 146 A.D.2d 552, 537 N.Y.S.2d 34, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 497 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

The gravamen of a charge of suffering or permitting gambling on licensed premises must be supported by a showing of circumstances raising an inference that the licensee knowingly allowed gambling to occur or continue, or by showing that he demonstrated an attitude of acquiescence in connection with it. 2125 Barney's Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 16 A.D.2d 252, 226 N.Y.S.2d 921, 266 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1962 N.Y. 34. —Acts by employees

The testimony of a detective that he made certain bets on horse races with an employee of the respondent when the president of the respondent was about eight feet away sorting and reading mail and conversing with various people in the restaurant was not sufficient to sustain a finding that the respondent permitted gambling on the premises within the meaning of subd. 6. Arnold Reuben, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 294 N.Y. 730, 61 N.E.2d 456, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 730, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 929 (N.Y. 1945).

State Liquor Authority's determination that licensee had suffered or permitted gambling on the licensed premises on six occasions within a month, based on her barmaid's acceptance of horse racing bets, was supported by insufficient evidence, as there was no evidence whatsoever that the licensee had actual knowledge of the gambling activity, as the barmaid did not have unequivocal supervisory responsibility and she therefore could not be deemed an agent whose knowledge was imputable to the licensee, and as the evidence was also insufficient to support a finding that, through due diligence, the licensee could have discovered and prevented the gambling activity. Martin v State Liquor Authority, 41 N.Y.2d 78, 390 N.Y.S.2d 880, 359 N.E.2d 389, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3209 (N.Y. 1976).

Where bartender accepted wagers on horse races and sold syndicated football tickets with the full knowledge and consent of licensee contrary to the provision of subd 6 of above statute, held that suspension of license for 10 days and forfeiture of $500 on bond did not constitute excessive penalty. Postiglione v State Liquor Authority, 23 A.D.2d 662, 256 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4770 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965).

Licensed tavern owner's failure to inquire whether a barmaid, who operated the tavern during brief absences by the owner and who during such absences and without the owner's knowledge accepted bets, had been engaged in previous gambling activities was not sufficient to sustain charges that the owner "suffered or permitted" gambling on the licensed premises within the meaning of the statute. Triple S. Tavern, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 40 A.D.2d 522, 334 N.Y.S.2d 289, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4042 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972), aff'd, 31 N.Y.2d 1006, 341 N.Y.S.2d 615, 294 N.E.2d 204, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 1489 (N.Y. 1973).

The evidence was sufficient to sustain finding that licensee had suffered or permitted gambling on the premises where it appeared that the bartender, as responsible agent or representative of the licensee, had participated in such gambling, and 10 days suspension of license and $500 bond claim was proper. Sheraton-Binghamton Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 40 A.D.2d 1048, 338 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3096 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1972).

Where barmaid, who was allegedly at the center of violations of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, was charged with the same responsibility of supervision and inquiry as to licensee, her violations were attributable to her employer. Cuti v Roth, 50 A.D.2d 1044, 377 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12195 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Revocation of a liquor license could not be sustained on the basis alone of a police officer's testimony that, for a ten-minute period, he watched a customer at the bar hand out slips of paper to various persons who approached him and engaged him in conversation, that the bartender was within about two feet of this customer on the other side of the bar, that the officer then went up and arrested the customer and found a considerable number of policy slips with notations on them in his possession, but had seen no money change hands. 2125 Barney's Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 16 A.D.2d 252, 226 N.Y.S.2d 921, 266 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10250 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962), aff'd, 13 N.Y.2d 662, 240 N.Y.S.2d 990, 191 N.E.2d 468, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1196 (N.Y. 1963).

Mere proof of open incidents of gambling for a brief period in view of a bartender, though he is in apparent charge of the premises, is not sufficient to sustain a license revocation for permitting gambling on the premises, as a bartender is not expected to act with the alacrity and definiteness of a law enforcement officer in making an arrest or putting a halt to the gambling. 2125 Barney's Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 16 A.D.2d 252, 226 N.Y.S.2d 921, 266 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10250 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1962), aff'd, 13 N.Y.2d 662, 240 N.Y.S.2d 990, 191 N.E.2d 468, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1196 (N.Y. 1963).

35. —Single incident or isolated events

That a bartender, on a single occasion, had two policy slips in his possession, for which he received a suspended sentence as a player, is not sufficient, standing alone, to sustain a charge that his employer, the licensee, had suffered or permitted gambling on the licensed premises, in violation of § 106, subd. 6. Abrams v Bruckman, 263 A.D. 593, 33 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6954 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

A liquor license should not have been suspended for permitting gambling on proof that on a single occasion a policewoman saw a patron receive money from other men to whom he gave alleged betting slips in what appeared to be bookmaking on baseball games. Proof must show that the management allowed such things to happen on more than a single occasion to establish that it knowingly suffered or permitted gambling. O'Day v O'Connell, 283 A.D. 644, 129 N.Y.S.2d 193, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4752 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954), aff'd, 308 N.Y. 769, 125 N.E.2d 116, 308 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 769, 1955 N.Y. LEXIS 1043 (N.Y. 1955).

Supreme Court properly vacated penalty of 15-day suspension of liquor license and $1,000 bond forfeiture for violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) by maintaining "joker poker" machine in operation on premises where license-holder had virtually unblemished record of compliance with law. 3275 Byron Ave. Corp. v New York State Liquor Auth., 161 A.D.2d 600, 555 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5319 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Penalty of liquor license suspension for 20 days and $1,000 bond forfeiture was excessive where licensee had unblemished record prior to its plea of no contest to violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR 53.1 by maintaining "Joker Poker" machine on licensed premises; under circumstances, penalty in excess of license suspension for 10 days would be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Pyramid Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 175 A.D.2d 131, 571 N.Y.S.2d 825, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9785 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

36. Disorderly premises

Denial of a liquor license by the State Liquor Authority on the speculation that the subject premises will be operated in violation of law is impermissible; the likelihood of future violations can furnish a basis for denial only when there are facts in the record which rationally support doing so. Accordingly, although noise generated by a licensed establishment may furnish a basis for suspending an issued license when its level is such as to affect adversely and unreasonably the repose of area residents (Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 106, subd 6), the authority's denial of a petitioner's license because of noise potential cannot be sustained where there is no evidence to support the authority's conclusion that adequate steps had not been taken to soundproof the premises. Circus Disco, Ltd. v New York State Liquor Authority, 51 N.Y.2d 24, 431 N.Y.S.2d 491, 409 N.E.2d 963, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2530 (N.Y. 1980).

The blanket proscription against topless dancing in premises licensed by the New York State Liquor Authority contained in Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, sub 6-A, although valid under the United States Constitution, in consequence of the provisions of the Twenty-First Amendment, is invalid under the guarantee of freedom of expression declared in the New York State Constitution, Article I, § 8. Bellanca v New York State Liquor Authority, 54 N.Y.2d 228, 445 N.Y.S.2d 87, 429 N.E.2d 765, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3125 (N.Y. 1981), cert. denied, 456 U.S. 1006, 102 S. Ct. 2296, 73 L. Ed. 2d 1300, 1982 U.S. LEXIS 2333 (U.S. 1982).

Determination which suspended petitioner's liquor license for 15 days and imposed $1,000 penalty confirmed–challenge to applicability of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6) is rejected; while finding by Hearing Officer that security agents used unreasonable force in removing unruly patron does not violate section, finding that patron was not unruly and in fact was ousted for uttering expletive does; thus, since Hearing Officer's assessment of facts was that patrons were physically and violently removed from licensed premises after having done no more than uttering expletive, sanctions under section 106 of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law are completely supported, as is imposition of penalty and suspension of premises' liquor license. Irvington Enterprises, Inc. v Duffy, 155 A.D.2d 335, 547 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14332 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Conviction of defendant for permitting licensed premises to become disorderly was not justified where the proof did not establish the kind of disorder contemplated by the statute. People v Vassilakou, 9 A.D.2d 221, 192 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5988 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1959).

A restaurant owner's liquor license was properly revoked and demand for the bond made for permitting premises to become disorderly when employee assaulted State employees there on official business, and for selling alcoholic beverages on credit, failing to keep adequate and accurate books and records on the premises, the punishment was not disproportionate. Margar Rest. Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 34 A.D.2d 828, 312 N.Y.S.2d 751, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4707 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

In Article 78 proceeding to review determination of State Liquor Authority issuing warning and imposing $100 bond claim on licensee, such action was supported by evidence that licensed premises was the scene of a brawl, that minors had purchased beer or had received it from patrons, that licensee personally interfered with and instigated harassment of officers, and that license was kept on shelf under bar. Naples v State Liquor Authority, 43 A.D.2d 801, 350 N.Y.S.2d 262, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2909 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1973).

Evidence that two investigators visited liquor licensee's premises and, through the efforts of a barmaid, placed bets on harness races and made arrangements for female company for the night was sufficient to sustain finding that licensee permitted the premises to become disorderly. Cuti v Roth, 50 A.D.2d 1044, 377 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12195 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Penalty in form of a 30-day suspension of petitioner's license imposed by State Liquor Authority with respect to lewd or indecent performance which occurred on premises and letter of warning with respect to altercation which thereafter took place on premises was appropriate and was not subject to being disturbed. Inside Straight, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 56 A.D.2d 720, 392 N.Y.S.2d 770, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10893 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 41 N.Y.2d 806, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3096 (N.Y. 1977).

Al Bev Law § 106(6) was violated when a female dancer on licensed premises shouted obscenities at a crowd during an altercation in an apparent effort to incite further fighting while she waved a pool cue and threw a pool ball into the crowd, with no attempt made by the manager to stop the disturbance. Although the incident was spontaneous and not foreseeable, the manager had actual knowledge of what was going on and permitted it to continue. Highway Tavern Corp. v McLaughlin, 105 A.D.2d 122, 483 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20682 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Licensee permitted its licensed premises to become disorderly, in violation of CLS Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106(6), when fight between 2 employees and patron resulted in serious injury to patron, where bartender, on night in question, would throw empty bottles from behind bar distance of 10 or 12 feet into garbage can in corner, and, on one such toss, bottle missed can, broke on floor and pieces of glass hit patron and his companion, leading to altercation, and where night manager in charge of promises was present throughout evening, even though during period that fit occurred he was in back room; conduct of bartender which gave rise to assault was not discrete, isolated incident, but was ongoing for period of 3 hours, and night manager knew or should have known that slip of hand could lead to broken glass and consequences of angry or injured patrons. P.M. Entertainment Industries, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 114 A.D.2d 457, 494 N.Y.S.2d 368, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53149 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985), aff'd, 67 N.Y.2d 834, 501 N.Y.S.2d 659, 492 N.E.2d 787, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 17585 (N.Y. 1986).

State Liquor Authority improperly determined that restaurant permitted premises to become disorderly, despite presence of one "Joker Poker" video game machine in violation of prohibition against gambling devices at licensed premises, since no independent evidence of disorderliness was presented and presence of one gambling machine did not ipso facto establish evidence of permitting premises to become disorderly. O'Carroll Rest. Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 125 A.D.2d 212, 509 N.Y.S.2d 17, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62485 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

Substantial evidence was lacking to find owners of bar guilty of suffering or permitting premises to become disorderly under CLS Al Bev § 106, even though, in course of investigation of complaints at bar, plain- clothed police officer had reached agreement with transvestite patron whereby patron would perform oral sex with officer for $20, and bartender had indicated to transvestite that officer was not policeman, where there was testimony of only one solicitation, no details were given about complaints of prostitution or arrests on previous occasions, there was no testimony that bartender had heard particular solicitation of sex, and owner-managers neither were at bar when solicitation occurred nor had knowledge of incident. La Bamba Bar, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 141 A.D.2d 403, 530 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6921 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

State Liquor Authority improperly determined that licensee permitted its premises to become disorderly by permitting gambling devices to be kept there (in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106) since (1) mere possession of gambling device does not constitute disorderly conduct as defined in CLS Penal § 240.20, and (2) even if gambling devices on premises were used for gambling, presence of gambling does not ipso facto establish that premises were disorderly. Muidallap Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 143 A.D.2d 9, 532 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8432 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

It was not excessive to suspend petitioner's on-premises liquor license for 20 days and to direct $1,000 bond forfeiture for violating CLS Al Bev § 106(6) by suffering or permitting assault to occur on premises, especially given that several letters of warning had been issued by state liquor authority in past regarding violations of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, including § 106(6). P.B.L. Entertainment, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 149 A.D.2d 512, 539 N.Y.S.2d 990, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4580 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Suspension of petitioner's liquor license for 30 days because noise, disturbance and disorder occurred on or adjacent to licensed premises was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness particularly in view of prior warnings received by petitioner. Czora v New York State Liquor Authority, 149 A.D.2d 927, 543 N.Y.S.2d 339, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5929 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding, petitioner's request for statement of specific reasons for his disqualification as candidate for position of state trooper was properly denied since (1) he had already been provided with document stating that he failed to meet requirements for position, and (2) in-camera inspection disclosed no record in file which contained specific statement of reasons for his disqualification, and respondent Division of State Police was under no obligation to create such record. O'Shaughnessy v New York State Div. of State Police, 202 A.D.2d 508, 609 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2584 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 84 N.Y.2d 807, 621 N.Y.S.2d 516, 645 N.E.2d 1216, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 3485 (N.Y. 1994).

Petitioner's violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) was supported by evidence that its security measures on certain date were inadequate and that premises was overcrowded and became scene of shooting and, in aftermath of shooting, premises became disorderly, and that premises had been overcrowded for sufficient length of time that petitioner's manager or owner should have known of condition and taken measures to ameliorate it so as to reduce considerable potential, subsequently realized, for disorder. Warehouse Entertainment, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 269 A.D.2d 278, 703 N.Y.S.2d 139, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2022 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 762, 715 N.Y.S.2d 215, 738 N.E.2d 363, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 2324 (N.Y. 2000).

Penalty proscribing relicensing of premises for 2 years was shocking to one's sense of fairness for petitioner's allowing video gambling and gambling in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) and 9 NYCRR § 53.1(t) and allowing its premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6). J A J K, Inc. v Division of Alcoholic Bev. Control, 272 A.D.2d 963, 711 N.Y.S.2d 367, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9927 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Substantial evidence of lewd or indecent conduct was provided by investigator's testimony that petitioner's employee removed her underpants and stuffed them in his mouth without first asking his permission to do so; this act could be reasonably found to be lewd or indecent per se and thus constituted disorderly conduct in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6). La Maison De Sade, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 276 A.D.2d 415, 714 N.Y.S.2d 295, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10714 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Summons was dismissed as fatally defective where it failed to demonstrate reasonable cause to believe the defendant committed the offense charged; there was no information to suggest that this was anything other than a single, isolated occurrence that could not have been foreseen by the defendant. Without such information the court was unable to determine how the licensee suffered or permitted an assault, or any other disorder, to occur. People v 229 Rest., Inc., 195 Misc. 2d 747, 761 N.Y.S.2d 775, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 382 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 2003).

37. —Knowledge

Knowledge of disorderly behavior in licensed premises sufficient in law to justify the revocation of a liquor license must be the subject of substantial evidence. It must have as its basis something more than suspicion. Migliaccio v O'Connell, 307 N.Y. 566, 122 N.E.2d 914, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 566, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 951 (N.Y. 1954).

State Liquor Authority could not take refuge in general rule-making authority as means of circumventing specific legislative requirement in CLS Al Bev § 106(6) that licensee be aware of disorderly conduct before sanctions may be imposed, and thus 9 NYCRR § 36.1(q) (which establishes no-fault rule for disorderly conduct) was invalid as applied, where there was no evidence that licensee was made aware that premises had become "focal point" for police attention. Beer Garden, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 79 N.Y.2d 266, 582 N.Y.S.2d 65, 590 N.E.2d 1193, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 817 (N.Y. 1992).

Findings of Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) with regard to charge that licensed premises had become "focal point" of police attention, which were dispositive of revocation and nonrenewal proceedings, required dismissal, even though ALJ remarked that licensee obviously was aware of what was going on on his premises, where ALJ had previously (and erroneously) ruled that strict liability, not knowledge, was governing standard; in light of his ruling on governing standard, it was impossible to determine what degree of "awareness" ALJ had in mind. Beer Garden, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 79 N.Y.2d 266, 582 N.Y.S.2d 65, 590 N.E.2d 1193, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 817 (N.Y. 1992).

The test of whether a restaurant liquor license is subject to suspension for permitting disorderly conduct to go on is what a reasonably perceptive and alert management ought to know about actions and behavior of patrons. Gilmer v Hostetter, 20 A.D.2d 586, 245 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2669 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1963).

The disorder involved need not have been known to the licensee to constitute a violation; it is sufficient if the licensee reasonably should have known of it. Show Boat of New Lebanon, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 33 A.D.2d 954, 306 N.Y.S.2d 859, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5694 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 27 N.Y.2d 676, 314 N.Y.S.2d 2, 262 N.E.2d 211, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1166 (N.Y. 1970).

Licensee had not permitted premises to become disorderly within the meaning of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 6 where there was no evidence that licensee knew her husband, the bartender, was committing oral sodomy in the basement, and where hearing officer concluded that basement was not part of licensed premises. Smith v State Liquor Authority, 43 A.D.2d 756, 350 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2952 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

Proof that liquor licensee has suffered or permitted premises to become disorderly need not show actual knowledge of the conduct charged to the licensee; it is sufficient if the licensee should have known of the alleged disorder. Chipman Associates, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 585, 363 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8683 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Al Bev Law § 106(6) was violated when a female dancer on licensed premises shouted obscenities at a crowd during an altercation in an apparent effort to incite further fighting while she waved a pool cue and threw a pool ball into the crowd, with no attempt made by the manager to stop the disturbance. Although the incident was spontaneous and not foreseeable, the manager had actual knowledge of what was going on and permitted it to continue. Highway Tavern Corp. v McLaughlin, 105 A.D.2d 122, 483 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20682 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Determination that licensees violated CLS Al Bev § 106 by permitting licensed premisses to become disorderly was not supported by evidence, and would be annulled, where charges were based on 3 sales of cocaine to undercover police officer by young bartender who was son of one licensee, but there was no evidence that licensees knew or should have known of sales, nor evidence that bartender was vested with managerial authority or unequivocal supervisory responsibility so as to impute his knowledge of disorderly conduct to licensees. JVC Tavern Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 123 A.D.2d 764, 507 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60903 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 70 N.Y.2d 805, 522 N.Y.S.2d 108, 516 N.E.2d 1221, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19288 (N.Y. 1987).

Evidence that employee was acting with apparent authority of "head bouncer" when he assaulted patron both inside and outside of premises, and that he was operating under set procedure established by management to ensure that premises were operated in orderly fashion, was sufficient to support charge of violating CLS Al Bev § 106(6) by suffering or permitting assault to occur on licensed premises, notwithstanding that there was no conclusive evidence that club's manager had actual knowledge of disorder at time it was occurring. P.B.L. Entertainment, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 149 A.D.2d 512, 539 N.Y.S.2d 990, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4580 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Court would annul determination of State Liquor Authority which revoked petitioner's liquor license based on violation of CLS Al Bev Appx § 53.1(q) since charge did not refer to culpable mental state on part of petitioner, and administrative law judge made no findings as to petitioner's knowledge or fault; regulation may not be applied so as to subject licensee to strict liability, and administrative law judge's finding that licensee was aware of what was going on did not obviate erroneous application of strict liability standard to licensee's conduct. Cityworld Enterprises, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 183 A.D.2d 402, 583 N.Y.S.2d 259, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6561 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Evidence supported determination that petitioner suffered or permitted licensed premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) by permitting sale and use of cocaine on premises where petitioner failed to exercise reasonable diligence in supervising premises, despite being advised by police that her bartenders were selling cocaine; petitioner was chargeable with knowledge she would have acquired if she had adequately supervised bar. Deane v New York State Liquor Auth., 212 A.D.2d 611, 622 N.Y.S.2d 543, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1458 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Permitting immoral acts upon licensed premises implies knowledge or opportunity by reasonable diligence to acquire knowledge, more than a mere "suspicion," and also a fair measure of continuity and permanence. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

A liquor licensee should not be punished or have his license revoked on the ground that he has permitted his premises to become disorderly without proof that he was conscious of the violation and that such violation was not merely technical. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

38. —Knowledge; "suffer or permit"

The power of the liquor authority to revoke the licenses of persons or corporations who suffer or knowingly permit premises to become disorderly should be exercised only where there is substantial evidence to sustain such a serious charge. Stanwood United, Inc. v O'Connell, 283 A.D. 79, 126 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1953), aff'd, 306 N.Y. 749, 117 N.E.2d 921, 306 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 749, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1104 (N.Y. 1954).

In a proceeding by liquor licensees to review a determination of the state liquor authority finding that the licensees had suffered or permitted their premises to become disorderly, revoking their license and imposing a bond claim in the amount of $12,000, the determination was not supported by substantial evidence where the licensees were not present on the premises at the time of the violative sale of cocaine, where the licensees did not have actual knowledge of the sale, and where it could not be concluded that they should have known of the sale in the exercise of reasonable diligence in that it constituted no more than a single, isolated incident that could not otherwise have been discovered; although it was beyond dispute that the licensees' bartender had actual knowledge of the sale, the licensees could not be charged with such knowledge where there was no evidence to support the liquor authority's finding that the bartender was a manager. De Palo v New York State Liquor Authority, 82 A.D.2d 831, 439 N.Y.S.2d 674, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14501 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 54 N.Y.2d 950, 445 N.Y.S.2d 154, 429 N.E.2d 833, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3151 (N.Y. 1981).

The fact that a bouncer had struck a patron did not support a finding that a tavern had suffered or permitted its licensed premises to become disorderly in violation of Al Bev Law § 106(6), where the patron had swung first, the bar was crowded, and the person in charge did not know of the incident until it was over. Doherty's New Dorp Tavern v New York State Liquor Authority, 82 A.D.2d 858, 440 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14544 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 1007, 449 N.Y.S.2d 473, 434 N.E.2d 709, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3176 (N.Y. 1982).

A determination by the State Liquor Authority that a licensee of a bar had suffered or permitted the licensed premises to become disorderly when a combative patron had his nose broken by a bouncer who was employed by the licensee and who ejected the patron from the premises was not supported by sufficient evidence, where the evidence indicated that the patron swung at the bouncer first, that the bar was crowded and the person in charge did not know of the incident until it was over, and where there was insubstantial evidence to support the conclusion that the force used to eject the unruly patron was unnecessary. Doherty's New Dorp Tavern v New York State Liquor Authority, 82 A.D.2d 858, 440 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14544 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 1007, 449 N.Y.S.2d 473, 434 N.E.2d 709, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3176 (N.Y. 1982).

Determination by State Liquor Authority that licensee suffered or permitted his premises to become disorderly would be annulled where no substantial evidence existed that licensee had failed to take appropriate action once assault occurred or had merely stood by and allowed disorderly conduct to continue. Jacobi v New York State Liquor Authority, 124 A.D.2d 1005, 508 N.Y.S.2d 782, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62338 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1986).

Substantial evidence supported determination that owner suffered or permitted tavern to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where, on 2 occasions, undercover officer purchased what was believed to be cocaine at tavern from patron while bartender, with whom patron purportedly had some sort of relationship, was tending bar, even though none of principals of tavern were present on either occasion; although knowledge of cocaine sale could not be imputed to principals through bartender, principals could be charged with knowledge they would have obtained through reasonable diligence in supervising tavern. Mack Conroy, Inc. v Duffy, 155 A.D.2d 665, 548 N.Y.S.2d 54, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15095 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Licensee cannot avoid consequences of violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) merely by not being present and failing to provide supervision for premises. B.C.D. & S. Enters. v New York State Liquor Auth., 202 A.D.2d 785, 608 N.Y.S.2d 728, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2251 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Evidence supported determination that petitioner permitted licensed premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where confidential informant purchased drugs from bartender by first arranging sales in open areas of premises in normal tones of voice and then by entering men's room with bartender to consummate sales; under circumstances, it could be inferred that sales were part of continuous course of conduct in light of fact that sales were arranged in open areas and that they were arranged with relative ease. B.C.D. & S. Enters. v New York State Liquor Auth., 202 A.D.2d 785, 608 N.Y.S.2d 728, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2251 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Evidence supported determination that petitioner engaged in improper conduct by permitting licensed premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6), notwithstanding that improper conduct (selling of cocaine) was actually conducted by employee, since definition of licensee includes employee of license (9 NYCRR § 53.2), and crime of which employee was actually convicted (seventh degree possession of controlled substance) is not enumerated in 9 NYCRR § 53.1(g). B.C.D. & S. Enters. v New York State Liquor Auth., 202 A.D.2d 785, 608 N.Y.S.2d 728, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2251 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Court would annul revocation of liquor license where revocation was based on determination that tavern had become "focal point" of police activity, but there was no determination that owner had suffered or permitted activities which formed basis of focal point charge and, in fact, determination was made that evidence failed to show that owner suffered or permitted such activities. Dawson v New York State Liquor Auth., 202 A.D.2d 787, 608 N.Y.S.2d 730, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2291 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Club's liquor license was properly suspended for 60 days and club was properly required to forfeit $1,000 bond where evidence supported determination that there was ongoing established pattern of conduct at club whereby female dancer would sit down next to male customer and female bartender would then ask customer if he wanted to buy drink for dancer. Club 44 v New York State Liquor Auth., 203 A.D.2d 185, 610 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4245 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Evidence sustained finding by State Liquor Authority that licensee's manager "suffered or permitted" premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where (1) patron who had been barred from premises one year before for fighting was permitted to enter premises, (2) manager tolerated patron's continued presence when she engaged in conversation with her estranged husband, which eventually erupted into violence, and (3) manager failed to summon police when patron refused to leave and continued harassing her estranged husband. Franz, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 207 A.D.2d 592, 615 N.Y.S.2d 504, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8118 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Court would annul determination that petitioner suffered or permitted licensed premises to become disorderly when several bouncers at premises assaulted patron while ejecting him where (1) no principal of licensee was on premises at time of incident, (2) there was no evidence that bouncers were anything other than ordinary employees or that they had been involved in similar incidents in past, and (3) there was no evidence that manager was aware of conduct of bouncers at time when he could have intervened. S.B.C.L. v New York State Liquor Auth., 212 A.D.2d 797, 622 N.Y.S.2d 974, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2154 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 812, 631 N.Y.S.2d 289, 655 N.E.2d 402, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 2220 (N.Y. 1995).

Evidence supported determination finding that petitioners violated CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where, over 6-month period, undercover officer made 10 purchases of narcotics from 3 bartenders and 2 patrons at petitioners' establishment, notwithstanding that there was no evidence that petitioner licensees had actual knowledge of drug sales or were on premises when they occurred. Petillo v State Liquor Auth., 248 A.D.2d 541, 670 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2591 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 814, 681 N.Y.S.2d 475, 704 N.E.2d 228, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3987 (N.Y. 1998).

Finding that petitioner suffered or permitted licensed premises to become disorderly was supported by substantial evidence where petitioner's principal, petitioner's bartender, and 3 patrons were arrested on licensed premises for sale of controlled substance and other drug related charges, warranting cancellation of liquor license and $1,000 bond forfeiture. Night Owl Lounge, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 268 A.D.2d 277, 701 N.Y.S.2d 384, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 369 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Although the words "suffer or permit" in subd. 6 of this section are not defined, they have been given broader meanings in each case appearing before the courts as construed in light of the facts presented for consideration in the particular case. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

Because testimony that patrons were standing shoulder to shoulder was insufficient to support findings that a liquor licensee violated N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 9, §§ 48.2, 48.3, especially where the underlying charges were dismissed in criminal court, and because the Rules were ultra vires as applied and did not comply with N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law § 106(6), the licensee was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of 47 Ave. B. E. v New York State Liq. Auth., 65 A.D.3d 33, 880 N.Y.S.2d 22, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), rev'd, 13 N.Y.3d 820, 890 N.Y.S.2d 435, 918 N.E.2d 949, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3951 (N.Y. 2009).

39. —Single incident or isolated events

Single act of child molestation by employee of which licensee had no knowledge and no opportunity to acquire knowledge and which act was concealed and committed at a time when the premises were not open to the public, was insufficient to support the finding of permitting or suffering premises to become disorderly. Missouri Realty Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 22 N.Y.2d 233, 292 N.Y.S.2d 423, 239 N.E.2d 356, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1318 (N.Y. 1968).

A liquor licensee does not suffer or permit the licensed premises to become disorderly, within the meaning of Al Bev Law § 106(6), simply by using force to eject an unruly patron; rather, a violation of such statute occurs only if the licensee employs unnecessary force or if other improper conduct occurs. Thus, in an Article 78 proceeding initiated by a liquor licensee, the lower court erred in failing to annul a determination of the New York State Liquor Authority that the licensee had violated Al Bev Law § 106(6) where the determination had been based merely on the licensee's having used force to remove from the licensed premises an obstreperous patron. L.B.R. Enterprises, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 53 N.Y.2d 714, 439 N.Y.S.2d 331, 421 N.E.2d 823, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2357 (N.Y. 1981).

Suffering premises to become disorderly means something more than a mere happening on one occasion. A finding that the management knowingly allowed such things to occur and continue would have to be bottomed upon a showing either of more than a single event or a showing of a demonstrated attitude toward that happening indicating acquiescence. Stanwood United, Inc. v O'Connell, 283 A.D. 79, 126 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1953), aff'd, 306 N.Y. 749, 117 N.E.2d 921, 306 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 749, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1104 (N.Y. 1954).

There was rational basis to support respondent's determination sustaining charges 2 and 3 charging violations of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6-a) and certain rules of State Liquor Authority; there was unrefuted testimony that two of topless dancers exposed pubic hair to patrons and approached customers from within distance of less than six feet in violation of 9 NYCRR 53.1 (r), (s)–however, as to charge 1, alleging violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6) based upon performance of lewd acts by lone dancer on single occasion, it cannot be inferred that petitioner suffered or permitted premises to become disorderly; there is dearth of evidence that proprietor of establishment was aware of or should have had any knowledge that this dancer would engage in lewd conduct; respondent's determination as to this charge was not supported by substantial evidence. Richcar Tavern, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 160 A.D.2d 881, 554 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4494 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

A liquor license is not subject to suspension upon a showing that disorderly conduct occurred on the premises on one or more isolated occasions in the absence of a showing that the licensee should have known that a disorderly condition prevailed. St. Albans Bowl, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 20 A.D.2d 543, 245 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2810 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

The cancellation of petitioner's restaurant license was arbitrary and capricious, where the charges of improper supervision permitting the premises to become disorderly all were based upon one incident and the petitioner had been in business for 30 years without an adverse record. Therefore, the cancellation of the license was annulled and a 10 days' suspension imposed. Jeff's Bar & Restaurant, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 27 A.D.2d 805, 277 N.Y.S.2d 479, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4738 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

Suffering premises to become disorderly means something more than a mere happening on one occasion. A finding that the management knowingly allowed such things to occur and to continue would have to be bottomed upon a showing either of more than a single event or the showing of a demonstrated attitude toward that happening which indicated acquiescence. Inner Circle Restaurant, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 36 A.D.2d 585, 318 N.Y.S.2d 854, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4758 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1971), rev'd, 30 N.Y.2d 541, 330 N.Y.S.2d 389, 281 N.E.2d 183, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1516 (N.Y. 1972).

There was no evidence to support determination of State Liquor Authority that licensee suffered or permitted his premises to become disorderly, but rather incident out of which charge grew occurred without warning and was isolated and spontaneous event which no amount of supervision was likely to prevent. Peanutbutter Jam, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 58 A.D.2d 703, 396 N.Y.S.2d 104, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12808 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Liquor license was improperly suspended on basis of single incident in which, while licensee was absent, female patron solicited for immoral purposes; licensee's bartender's awareness of incident was not imputable to licensee. Italiano v Liquor Authority of New York, 59 A.D.2d 820, 399 N.Y.S.2d 727, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13909 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

A determination by the State Liquor Authority that a licensee suffered or permitted the subject premises to become disorderly in violation of Al Bev § 106(6) was not supported by substantial evidence where the evidence showed only a single, isolated altercation between a patron and a waiter, and where there was no evidence that the principal was present or that he knew or should have known that it would occur. La Vigna Restaurant Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 83 A.D.2d 867, 442 N.Y.S.2d 22, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15263 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review a determination of the State Liquor Authority finding that petitioner had permitted his premises to become disorderly and imposing a penalty, the determination was proper where the manager had engaged in an altercation with a patron using unreasonable force under the circumstances. Pro Ben Corp. v McLaughlin, 87 A.D.2d 871, 449 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16359 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

A penalty imposed by the New York State Liquor Authority consisting of the cancellation of petitioner's liquor license and a $1,000 bond forfeiture for allowing its premises to become disorderly by suffering or permitting a lewd and indecent show therein pursuant to Al Bev Law § 106 would be annulled and the cause remanded for reconsideration of the penalty, where in pleading "no contest", the licensee explained in mitigation that a video cassette movie showing explicit sexual acts between adult males was exhibited "without prior knowledge of the contents by him," that he was not present the first two nights that the video cassettes were shown, and on the third night, when he first saw them, he had them stopped. Eagle Open Kitchen, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 88 A.D.2d 508, 449 N.Y.S.2d 731, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16630 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1982).

In hearing on alleged violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) for permitting licensed premises to become disorderly, requirement that disorderly conduct be of continuous and permanent nature and not related to single incident only applies to incidents involving ordinary employees and not to employees left in charge of premises; thus, State Liquor Authority properly determined that single incident involving owner of premises could provide sufficient basis to find violation of statute. Pappy Jack's Pub, Inc. v Duffy, 148 A.D.2d 870, 539 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2811 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Performance of lewd acts by lone dancer on single occasion did not support inference that tavern owner suffered or permitted premises to become disorderly in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6), absent evidence that proprietor was aware of or should have known that dancer would engage in lewd conduct. Richcar Tavern, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 160 A.D.2d 881, 554 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4494 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported state liquor authority's determination that petitioner suffered or permitted licensed premises (disco club) to become disorderly, in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6), where police officers from 4 precincts were called to premises after patron who had been ejected began shooting at random, and one officer testified that on his arrival he saw numerous fights going on and large number of people inside premises, pushing, shoving, yelling, and striving to get outside. Hilly-Hand, Inc. v New York State Liquor Auth., 227 A.D.2d 996, 643 N.Y.S.2d 824, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6753 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

Substantial evidence supported finding that licensee's floor manager, who had managerial authority over licensed premises and whose actions were imputable to licensee, was instrumental in creating disorder on premises when one of licensee's security guards assaulted patron, in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6); although administrative law judge did not explicitly discredit floor manager's denial of involvement, his finding crediting patron's version of altercation implied that he did. Soca Paradise, Inc. v New York Liquor Auth., 232 A.D.2d 278, 649 N.Y.S.2d 9, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10354 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Evidence did not support respondent's finding that petitioner violated CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where events that culminated in patron striking band member were unexpected and of such brief duration that petitioner could not have prevented them through reasonable supervision. Moonwalkers Restaurant Corp. v New York State Liquor Auth., 250 A.D.2d 428, 673 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5600 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Evidence that a police officer saw a tavern patron smoking a marijuana cigarette on a single occasion did not constitute substantial evidence that the tavern owner "suffered or permitted its premises to become disorderly" within the meaning of N.Y. Alco. Bev. Cont. Law § 106(6); thus, the New York State Liquor Authority erred in revoking the owner's liquor license. Matter of Albany Manor Inc. v New York State Liq. Auth., 57 A.D.3d 142, 867 N.Y.S.2d 380, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8047 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

40. Prostitution

Evidence failed to show that the holder of a restaurant liquor license allowed premises to become disorderly within the meaning of this section, where there was no proof that the prostitute who testified in the proceeding solicited men or committed any act in the premises by which they tended to be disorderly. Olde Colony Restaurant Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 18 N.Y.2d 995, 278 N.Y.S.2d 228, 224 N.E.2d 732, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 913 (N.Y. 1966).

Single instance of permitting prostitution on licensed premises would not warrant cancellation of on-premises license but would warrant suspension for period of four months. Dwyer's Inn, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 30 A.D.2d 700, 291 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3652 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

Substantial evidence did not exist to support determination by State Liquor Authority that tavern suffered or permitted females on licensed premises to solicit male patrons for immoral purposes in violation of CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where (1) 2 undercover officers entered tavern, were joined by 2 females in tavern and drank and conversed for 2 hours, (2) females agreed to accompany officers "to have a good time," (3) subject and price of sexual activity were not discussed until officers and their companions were leaving tavern, and (4) there was no evidence that bartender or manager was aware of conversation of officers and their companions or that licensee or her employees were aware of any instance of solicitation on licensed premises. Lilpin Tavern, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 146 A.D.2d 484, 536 N.Y.S.2d 80, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 96 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 607, 545 N.Y.S.2d 103, 543 N.E.2d 746, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 989 (N.Y. 1989).

It is to be remembered that a liquor licensee is inhibited by §§ 40 and 41 of the Civil Rights Law from evicting persons from his place of business, and is legally required by subd. 15 of this section to allow police officers to inspect them, and hence his liquor license should not be suspended on the basis of testimony showing that police officers solicited immoral activities on the part of female customers. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

41. —Proof

A determination of the State Liquor Authority revoking a restaurant liquor license upon a finding that the licensees had violated § 106, subd 6 by permitting females to solicit male patrons for immoral purposes was annulled for lack of substantial evidence. Mihale v O'Connell, 279 A.D. 651, 108 N.Y.S.2d 221, 1951 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3335 (N.Y. App. Div. 1951), aff'd, 303 N.Y. 874, 105 N.E.2d 103, 303 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 874, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 1337 (N.Y. 1952).

In a proceeding to revoke petitioners liquor license for a violation of subdivision 6 of this section, the hearing commissioner found that, while in conversation with a police officer, a certain woman offered, within the hearing range of one of the petitioners, to commit prostitution and that said petitioner made no effort to stop such solicitation. This finding was insufficient to permit a revocation. Jackson v Rohan, 1 A.D.2d 89, 147 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3634 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1955).

Evidence that plainclothes officer's proposition to woman in tavern was rejected and that it was not until persuasive conversation by the officer and an offer of $100 that she allegedly agreed to engage in sexual act was insufficient to support finding, in support of cancellation of tavern license, that licensee "suffered or permitted" prostitution on the premises. Streber v State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 808, 365 N.Y.S.2d 580, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9134 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Suspension of petitioner's liquor license for permitting premises to become disorderly was not supported by substantial evidence, notwithstanding that two police officers had either solicited or were solicited by two females on premises, where conversations were not overheard by anyone connected with management, nor was there any circumstances shown to indicate that petitioner should have been aware of solicitation, and police officers left premises with females on both occasions without any action against or notice to petitioner. Pow Wow, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 48 A.D.2d 612, 367 N.Y.S.2d 291, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9590 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

42. —Knowledge

The term "suffer or permit" implies that the licensee must have had knowledge or that he could by the exercise of reasonable diligence have acquired knowledge of the disorderliness of the premises. Proof that females solicited patrons of the licensed establishment for immoral purposes on a single occasion was not in itself sufficient to sustain a revocation. Migliaccio v O'Connell, 307 N.Y. 566, 122 N.E.2d 914, 307 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 566, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 951 (N.Y. 1954).

The State Liquor Authority properly revoked an on-premises liquor license and imposed a $1,000 bond forfeiture on the ground that the licensee had suffered or permitted females to solicit male patrons of the establishment for immoral purposes on an occasion when the bartender was in charge of the licensed premises where the licensee's testimony that the bartender left in charge was responsible for dealing with any disorder and for assuring that the premises were operating in an orderly fashion supported the hearing officer's determination that the bartender had been delegated sufficient managerial authority so as to impute his conduct to the licensee, and where the evidence also supported the hearing officer's determination that the licensee could have known of the events that gave rise to the violation through the exercise of due diligence and proper supervision. Awrich Rest., Inc. v N.Y. State Liquor Auth., 60 N.Y.2d 645, 467 N.Y.S.2d 564, 454 N.E.2d 1307, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3348 (N.Y. 1983).

Evidence was insufficient to sustain charge that petitioner suffered licensed premises to become disorderly in that it allowed unescorted females to solicit male patrons. The only evidence was that on a single occasion, while on petitioner's premises, a female solicited a police officer during a conversation which could not be overheard by the bartender or anyone else present. Mur-Art-Sol, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 6 A.D.2d 683, 174 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5722 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1958).

Suspension of petitioner's restaurant liquor license for 20 days would not be allowed to stand where the evidence before the Liquor Authority showed only one instance of permitting the premises to become disorderly, in connection with alleged solicitation of a police officer by a woman patron, and there was nothing to indicate that petitioner's bartender had or should have had knowledge of this instance. Application of Ray's Tenderloin, Inc., 20 A.D.2d 695, 246 N.Y.S.2d 769, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4416 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1964).

Evidence was insufficient to sustain determination of State Liquor Authority that petitioner licensee permitted his premises to become disorderly in permitting females on the premises to solicit male patrons for immoral purposes where the evidence, though contradictory, boiled down to a single occasion where a police officer, who had been there several times before, scraped up an acquaintance with a woman and did his own soliciting. Abatz v State Liquor Authority, 21 A.D.2d 658, 249 N.Y.S.2d 709, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3771 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 643, 255 N.Y.S.2d 865, 204 N.E.2d 198, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 791 (N.Y. 1964).

Evidence that on a single occasion a female solicited a police officer for immoral purposes during a conversation conducted in a low tone where it did not appear that anyone conected with the licensee had knowledge of the occurrence was insufficient to support suspension of liquor license. Cat & Fiddle, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 24 A.D.2d 753, 263 N.Y.S.2d 839, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3173 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

Suspension of liquor license for 10 days would be annulled in absence of evidence to establish knowledge of licensee of single alleged act of solicitation or evidence to show circumstances such that licensee should have known of the alleged occurrence. Application of A. & C. Enterprises, Inc., 31 A.D.2d 527, 294 N.Y.S.2d 857, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2889 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1968).

There was insufficient basis for the suspension of a license for an alleged violation of § 106, subd 6 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law (permitting the premises to become disorderly) where it appeared that there was an alleged solicitation for immoral purposes of a police officer by an unescorted female on a single occasion, the alleged incident occurring in a very short space of time but it did not appear that any one concerned with the licensee had knowledge, or could reasonably have been expected to have knowledge of the occurrence. Baldwin Bar & Grill, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 31 A.D.2d 618, 295 N.Y.S.2d 941, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2711 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1968).

43. —Single incident or isolated events

A 30-day suspension of petitioner's restaurant liquor license was annulled for lack of substantial evidence to sustain the finding of the State Liquor Authority that petitioner "permitted and suffered" its premises to become disorderly and not properly supervised in violation of this section where the only evidence to support the charge was that of a policeman in plain clothes who claimed he was solicited for sexual intercourse by a woman who came into the restaurant, engaged in brief conversation with a man at the bar and three male patrons at a table, then sat down at the food counter where the policeman greeted her and finally bought her a drink, there being nothing to indicate that the manager heard any of the conversation or had reason to know or suspect that the woman was soliciting as a prostitute. Hotel Corp. of America v State Liquor Authority, 13 A.D.2d 733, 214 N.Y.S.2d 500, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11022 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961).

In order to suspend liquor licenses on basis of solicitation for immoral purposes, it is necessary that licensee knew or should have known the premises were disorderly in that respect. Cat & Fiddle, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 24 A.D.2d 753, 263 N.Y.S.2d 839, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3173 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1965).

The determination of the New York State Liquor Authority revoking the petitioner's on-premises liquor license on the ground that the petitioner suffered or permitted females on the licensed premises to solicit male patrons therein for immoral purposes would be affirmed, notwithstanding the absence of the petitioner from the premises at the time of the alleged incident, that there was no evidence in the record that the petitioner had actual knowledge of the disorder which occurred at his bar, and that it has been held that a single isolated act on the part of an employee will not ordinarily support a finding that the licensee suffered or permitted the premises to become disorderly, where the record indicated that the bartender involved in the instant disorder had been employed by the petitioner in a managerial capacity, and a licensee normally is chargable with the conduct of an employee who has been given managerial responsibility. Awrich Rest., Inc. v N.Y. State Liquor Auth., 92 A.D.2d 925, 460 N.Y.S.2d 347, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17335 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 60 N.Y.2d 645, 467 N.Y.S.2d 564, 454 N.E.2d 1307, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3348 (N.Y. 1983).

Evidence was sufficient to show that licensee's experienced bartender had requisite degree of control and managerial authority so as to impute to licensee liability for allowing premises to become disorderly where bartender overruled second, less experienced bartender and refused any further service to inebriated patron, and off-duty employee did not act to remove patron before conferring with bartender and obtaining his permission to try to remove patron; moreover, it was proper to conclude that bartender was instrumental in creating disturbance where, instead of calling police to assist in removing dangerous patron, bartender elected to have off-duty employee remove patron. Chestnut Tree of Ithaca, Inc. v Duffy, 140 A.D.2d 904, 528 N.Y.S.2d 723, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5868 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

The evidence was not sufficient to sustain revocation of petitioner's bar and restaurant license, where it merely appeared that different police officers, on three occasions, operating in plain clothes, had solicited, or been solicited by, female customers for purposes of prostitution, there being no proof that either the licensee himself or his employees were aware of what was happening. Guerra v New York State Liquor Authority, 35 Misc. 2d 564, 231 N.Y.S.2d 214, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2845 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 18 A.D.2d 868, 237 N.Y.S.2d 56, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4908 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1963).

44. Homosexual activity

Fondling of the primary sexual organs in licensed premises on a public dance floor clearly constitutes disorder, whether the fondling occurs between heterosexuals or homosexuals. Where defendant's bartender could have observed sexual fondling while homosexuals were dancing slow dances together if he had glanced at the dance floor, his failure to do so is a failure to exercise reasonable supervision. Becker v New York State Liquor Authority, 21 N.Y.2d 289, 287 N.Y.S.2d 400, 234 N.E.2d 443, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 982 (N.Y. 1967).

A determination of the State Liquor Authority revoking petitioner's liquor license and ordering that no new license be issued for 12 months was sustained by a finding, based upon evidence, that petitioner permitted the premises to become disorderly in violation of subd. 6 of this section, a witness having testified to having visited petitioner's place several times over a two-month period and on each occasion seeing males dancing with other males and kissing each other. De Simone v New York State Liquor Authority, 14 A.D.2d 508, 217 N.Y.S.2d 271, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9724 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 10 N.Y.2d 706, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 2059 (N.Y. 1961).

The mere congregation of homosexuals, where there is no breach of the peace, does not make the premises disorderly within the meaning of this section. Kerma Restaurant Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 27 A.D.2d 918, 278 N.Y.S.2d 951, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4416 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), rev'd, 21 N.Y.2d 111, 286 N.Y.S.2d 822, 233 N.E.2d 833, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1048 (N.Y. 1967).

45. —Proof

Ample proof was adduced before the State Liquor Authority to warrant finding that licensee knew or should have known the homosexual activities were being carried on on its premises and conclusion that licensee had suffered or permitted premises to become "disorderly" in violation of subdivision 6 of § 106 of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. The proof was not rendered less effective because the criminal charge based upon some of it had been dismissed. Lynch's Builders Restaurant, Inc. v O'Connell, 303 N.Y. 408, 103 N.E.2d 531, 303 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 408, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 803 (N.Y. 1952).

The mere congregation of homosexuals, where there is no breach of peace, does not make the premises disorderly within the meaning of this section. Where there was no evidence to attribute to the licensee knowledge that a police officer had been solicited by a customer for homosexual purposes, and the only other proof offered was based on the policeman's observations of the dress and appearance of several patrons, male customers wearing makeup, and "three instances" in which one male was sitting on another male's lap at the tables; the evidence was held insufficient to establish a finding of disorderly premises. Kerma Restaurant Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 21 N.Y.2d 111, 286 N.Y.S.2d 822, 233 N.E.2d 833, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1048 (N.Y. 1967).

Testimony of three different investigators for the Liquor Authority to observing on 12 different occasions over a six-months' period incidents in petitioner's restaurant between homosexuals was sufficient to sustain suspension of the restaurant liquor license. Gilmer v Hostetter, 20 A.D.2d 586, 245 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2669 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1963).

46. —Knowledge

A retail liquor license may be cancelled if the licensee has knowledge of homosexual solicitation upon the premises. Kerma Restaurant Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 21 N.Y.2d 111, 286 N.Y.S.2d 822, 233 N.E.2d 833, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1048 (N.Y. 1967).

Upon consideration of the record, the evidence disclosed amply sufficient ground for a finding by the State Liquor Authority that petitioner, upon specified dates, suffered and permitted its premises to become disorderly in violation of subd. 6 of this section, by knowingly permitting the premises to be used as a gathering place for homosexuals and degenerates who conducted themselves in an offensive and indecent manner, warranting revocation of a restaurant liquor license. Fulton Bar & Grill, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 11 A.D.2d 771, 205 N.Y.S.2d 37, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8690 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1960).

Where there was no evidence that gay dancing was indecent or involved fondling, and where instances of homosexual touching were in isolated, concealed areas unperceived by licensee's employees, knowledge of those acts could not be attributed to licensee and the acts could not be considered in determining whether licensee had suffered or permitted premises to become disorderly. Chipman Associates, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 585, 363 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8683 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

A determination of the State Liquor Authority that a petitioner suffered and allowed its premises to become disorderly was not supported by substantial evidence where, even though the proof offered to substantiate the charge was that an employee of petitioner, at the request of an investigator, obtained for him the services of a male prostitute who, in turn, procured the services of a second male prostitute, there was no proof that the licensee or his manager knew or should have known of the asserted disorderly conduct on the premises. 8 Christopher Street Corp. v McLaughlin, 88 A.D.2d 515, 450 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16648 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1982).

47. —Single incident or isolated events

The evidence was not sufficient to warrant a revocation of a restaurant liquor license where the only proof was the testimony of a police officer to the effect that on one occasion he saw 15 males at a bar acting in a female way, one of whom made him an indecent proposal. There was no proof that the management knew of or permitted such conduct. Stanwood United, Inc. v O'Connell, 283 A.D. 79, 126 N.Y.S.2d 345, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2983 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1953), aff'd, 306 N.Y. 749, 117 N.E.2d 921, 306 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 749, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1104 (N.Y. 1954).

Suspension of a bowling alley's liquor license by the State Liquor Authority was unwarranted where it was based on a single alleged occurrence taking place on the premises during a morning while the bar was closed and a junior bowling league supervised by adults was using the alleys, such instance being a sodomous occurrence in the relative privacy of the men's washroom and not shown to have been observed by the attendant in charge. St. Albans Bowl, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 20 A.D.2d 543, 245 N.Y.S.2d 111, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2810 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

A single incident of alleged solicitation of a police officer by a homosexual "in a very low and subdued voice" which was not overheard by employees of the licensee, and the mere fact that another customer had warned the officer not to speak to the homosexual because "he may be a copy; we don't want any trouble here" would not support a determination that the premises had become disorderly, where the record indicated the premises had been operated for forty years without any adverse history. F & C Holding Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 27 A.D.2d 806, 277 N.Y.S.2d 759, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4710 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

Evidence that on a single occasion a female solicited a police officer for immoral purposes in a conversation which took approximately two or three minutes during a period when the bar was in charge of a temporary employee and the licensee had no knowledge of the occurrence, did not render said premises disorderly within the provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law so as to justify suspension of license, since a single occurrence, in the absence of knowledge on the part of management, is insufficient to establish the violations of suffering the premises to become disorderly. Perry's Rest. Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 27 A.D.2d 922, 279 N.Y.S.2d 379, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4399 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967).

In view of evidence that liquor licensee employed bouncers and security system to detect and discourage overt sexual fondling and ejected patrons for overt sexual fondling, evidence of single occasion on which licensee's bartender observed homosexual contact between day cook and patron near the bar and smilingly approved was insufficient to demonstrate that the licensee permitted its premises to become disorderly and did not justify license revocation. Chipman Associates, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 585, 363 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8683 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

The owner of a bar and grill was not guilty of a violation of this section where it appeared that a patrolman one night had entered defendant's premises and for a period of ten minutes had observed men who appeared to be homosexuals hugging and kissing each other. The defendant was in the kitchen, but his bartender was present. People ex rel. Fasone v Arenella, 139 N.Y.S.2d 186 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1954).

48. Narcotics

Substantial evidence supported a ten-day suspension of a restaurant's liquor license for violation of Al Bev Law § 106(6) where testimony indicated that a loaded shotgun, for which the owner's father possessed a permit, had been constantly on the premises for at least one year, despite a law against possession of loaded shotguns in public within the City of New York, and where the owner's knowledge of illegal presence of the weapon could reasonably be concluded since it had been in plain view when seized; however, revocation of the license based upon the owner's allegedly permitting drug trafficking on the premises was not supported by substantial evidence where there was no proof that the owner knew or should have known of the transactions or that the bartender in charge at the time of the transactions was a manager or corporate principal, so as to impute his activities to the corporate licensee. Richjen Restaurant, Inc. v State Liquor

A restaurant owner who permits persons known to be narcotic peddlers and dispensers of marijuana cigarettes, to frequent his place of business with knowledge of their character, is a violator of this section and will have his license revoked. Kormann's Hofbrau, Inc. v O'Connell, 275 A.D. 930, 90 N.Y.S.2d 797, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5132 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 300 N.Y. 521, 89 N.E.2d 249, 300 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 521, 1949 N.Y. LEXIS 1405 (N.Y. 1949).

Undercover police officer purchased what was believed to be cocaine at bar operated by petitioner licensee; it was purchased from patron while barmaid, with whom patron purportedly had some sort of relationship, was tending bar; on each occasion, none of principals of licensee corporation was present–respondents properly determined that petitioner suffered or permitted its premises to become disorderly–although barmaid did not hold position that would result in her knowledge being imputed to petitioner, petitioner may be charged with knowledge it would have obtained through exercise of reasonable diligence in supervising licensed premises; one of two principals of petitioner admitted that second principal of petitioner, who was supposed to be present at bar on nights in question, was not present and did not take measures to have someone take his place; licensee cannot avoid consequences of violating Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106 (6) merely by failing to provide supervision at its premises–revocation of petitioner's liquor license and imposition of $1,000 bond claim was not excessive penalty. Matter of Mack Conroy, Inc. v Duffy, 155 A.D.2d 665, 548 N.Y.S.2d 54, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15095 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Cancellation of restaurant liquor license was proper under evidence that the person left in charge of the premises during the licensee's absence suffered the premises to become disorderly in that there was a sale of narcotics by the barmaid and porter, the proceeds thereof being rung up on the cash register. Rodriguez v New York State Liquor Authority, 36 A.D.2d 702, 318 N.Y.S.2d 753, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4541 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1971).

Under Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 106, subd 6, licensee who permitted open selling of drugs on premises was punished by 30-day suspension of license and $1000 bond forfeiture. Alvaro v State Liquor Authority, 43 A.D.2d 902, 351 N.Y.S.2d 246, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5953 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

Licensee could not be held responsible for sale of marijuana cigarette to undercover detective by bartender or by licensee's brother, who was a mere patron, where, at the time of the transactions, licensee was not present, time was one when he was regularly absent, and, though the bartender was "in charge," he did not possess managerial authority. Collins v State Liquor Authority, 48 A.D.2d 848, 368 N.Y.S.2d 859, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10070 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Determination that licensees violated CLS Al Bev § 106 by permitting licensed premisses to become disorderly was not supported by evidence, and would be annulled, where charges were based on 3 sales of cocaine to undercover police officer by young bartender who was son of one licensee, but there was no evidence that licensees knew or should have known of sales, nor evidence that bartender was vested with managerial authority or unequivocal supervisory responsibility so as to impute his knowledge of disorderly conduct to licensees. JVC Tavern Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 123 A.D.2d 764, 507 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60903 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 70 N.Y.2d 805, 522 N.Y.S.2d 108, 516 N.E.2d 1221, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19288 (N.Y. 1987).

Evidence supported determination finding that petitioners violated CLS Al Bev § 106(6) where, over 6-month period, undercover officer made 10 purchases of narcotics from 3 bartenders and 2 patrons at petitioners' establishment, notwithstanding that there was no evidence that petitioner licensees had actual knowledge of drug sales or were on premises when they occurred. Petillo v State Liquor Auth., 248 A.D.2d 541, 670 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2591 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 814, 681 N.Y.S.2d 475, 704 N.E.2d 228, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3987 (N.Y. 1998).

Substantial evidence supported State Liquor Authority's determination that cafe owner allowed premises to become disorderly where he was always on premises and opened and closed business each day, his son and girlfriend had ready and unfettered access to premises and were responsible for at least 5 drug sales consummated there, and owner should have known about illegal activity on premises and indicated to undercover investigator that he was aware of his son's activities. LEXIS 3853 (N.Y. 1999).

Penalty of revocation of cafe owner's liquor license did not shock one's sense of fairness where there were at least 7 instances of drug trafficking on premises, and owner assaulted intoxicated patron by pushing him out front door and over railing, with result that patron sustained broken arm. Kelly v Casale, 263 A.D.2d 889, 695 N.Y.S.2d 184, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8460 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 754, 701 N.Y.S.2d 340, 723 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3853 (N.Y. 1999).

49. Lewd conduct

The liquor authority was justified in revoking a license for a violation of subdivision 6 of this section on the testimony of a police officer who testified that a female was singing lewd songs in the premises and that she had solicited him. The licensee, his wife and bartender all denied hearing the song or the solicitation. Cota v New York State Liquor Authority, 306 N.Y. 761, 118 N.E.2d 361, 306 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 761, 1954 N.Y. LEXIS 1116 (N.Y. 1954).

Testimony of two investigators that in total viewing time of three hours, dancers performed actions which were allegedly lewd and indecent for a total of no more than one minute and perhaps as little as 12 seconds, and that there was no contact between performers and patrons of premises and no unusual conduct among patrons themselves are circumstances for consideration of factfinders, but do not render record insufficient to support determination that petitioner permitted or suffered licensed premises to become disorderly in violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. Salem Inn, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 43 N.Y.2d 713, 401 N.Y.S.2d 205, 372 N.E.2d 40, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2515 (N.Y. 1977).

Restaurant operator who employed waitresses attired in topless dresses, created a condition which tended the premises to become disorderly within the meaning of this section. J. D. H. Rest., Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 28 A.D.2d 521, 279 N.Y.S.2d 975, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4143 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1967), aff'd, 21 N.Y.2d 846, 288 N.Y.S.2d 1003, 236 N.E.2d 159, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 1592 (N.Y. 1968).

Two-year proscription against issuance of any liquor license for premises in question due to licensee's knowingly permitting lewd and indecent performance by entertainer in licensed premises was an abuse of discretion and punishment for such incident would be restricted to cancellation of licensee's on-premises liquor license and imposition of $1,000 bond claim where licensee had not, prior or subsequent to the incident, been involved in any violation of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law or any rule or regulation of the State Liquor Authority and the members of the Authority had been closely divided in their vote concerning the two-year proscription. See v State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 672, 365 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8888 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Evidence that entertainer at tavern was 17 years and three months old, that licensee permitted her to entertain, and that 45 seconds of a 15-minute performance by a dancer were lewd was sufficient to support finding that licensee suffered or permitted the premises to become disorderly, notwithstanding licensee's uncontradicted testimony that he did not know that entertainer was under 18 and his denial that he had any knowledge that dancer would exhibit herself as she did during dancing. Streber v State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 808, 365 N.Y.S.2d 580, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9134 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

In establishing that licensee violated Alcohol Beverage Control Law by permitting an obscene dance to be performed on the premises, liquor authority did not have burden of establishing a foreseeable pattern of conduct which would be actually known to the licensee. Streber v State Liquor Authority, 47 A.D.2d 808, 365

N.Y.S.2d 580, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9134 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Evidence tending to establish lewdness or obscenity, rather than merely nude dancing, permitted State Liquor Authority to find that licensee had violated Alcoholic Beverage Control Law section governing licensee's selling at retail for consumption on premises. Rubinoff v State Liquor Authority, 53 A.D.2d 943, 385 N.Y.S.2d 212, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15734 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Nude dancing by females on licensed premises was not enough to support State Liquor Authority's determinations of "lewd and indecent performances" within meaning of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law so as to sustain suspension of on-premise liquor licenses for 30 days, since nude dancing is not lewd or indecent per se and there had been no regulation by Authority giving notice to licensees that conduct not lewd or indecent per se was proscribed; mere fact that on one occasion a nude dancer assumed a supine position was inadequate for purpose of assigning to that posture a more lewd or indecent significance than mere nude dancing. Beal Properties, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 56 A.D.2d 982, 393 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11395 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

A determination by the State Liquor Authority which found that petitioner had permitted licensed premises to become disorderly because female entertainers were allowed to dance in the nude (see Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 106, subd 6), but which conduct was not found to be lewd or indecent per se and occurred prior to the adoption of statutes specifying various types of prohibited performances, should be annulled in the absence of a regulation by the agency giving notice that conduct not lewd or indecent per se was proscribed. TJPC Restaurant Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 61 A.D.2d 441, 402 N.Y.S.2d 483, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9758 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978), aff'd, 48 N.Y.2d 884, 424 N.Y.S.2d 896, 400 N.E.2d 1348, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2506 (N.Y. 1979).

Al Bev Law § 106(6), which provides that no person licensed to sell alcoholic beverages shall suffer or permit the licensed premises to become disorderly, is constitutional as applied to a situation where a licensee permitted a lewd and indecent performance by a nude dancer on the licensed premises. Highway Tavern Corp. v McLaughlin, 105 A.D.2d 122, 483 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20682 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

In an action challenging the constitutionality of the Al Bev Law § 106(6), wherein petitioner's liquor license had been suspended for allowing lewd and indecent dancing on its premises in contravention of the statute and regulations promulgated thereunder, such statute would be upheld on the basis that an outright prohibition of all topless dancing in establishments that sold alcoholic beverages does not violate the First Amendment; nor would the statute be found violative of the State Constitution, where previous decisions holding that an outright prohibition of nonobscene topless dancing violated the guaranty of free expression did not extend to nude dancing. Moreover, the statute would not be found violative of due process on the ground of vagueness, since "lewd and indecent" is synonymous with "obscene," and antiobscentity statutes need be no more precise in their language to withstand such a challenge. Blau-Par Corp. v New York State Liquor Authority, 106 A.D.2d 503, 482 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21534 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

There was substantial evidence to support determination that corporate licensee suffered or permitted dancers to perform on licensed premises in such manner as to expose to view their genital area in violation of 9 NYCRR § 53.1(r), (s) where (1) several dancers were observed at premises on 3 separate occasions over 10-month period, dancing and soliciting tips in such manner as to expose their genital area, and (2) such activities were advertised in newspaper of general circulation. Southside Pub, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 143 A.D.2d 899, 533 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10316 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 706, 539 N.Y.S.2d 299, 536 N.E.2d 628, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 187 (N.Y. 1989).

Court would vacate determination by State Liquor Authority (SLA) which found that licensee permitted person to appear unclothed or in manner so as to expose person's pubic hair, anus, vulva or genitals since (1) SLA found licensee guilty of such conduct on basis of lewd and indecent conduct which was not part of charge, and (2) licensee was not given notice that it was charged with lewd and indecent conduct. Ron Bob Pub, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 150 A.D.2d 173, 540 N.Y.S.2d 786, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5453 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 610, 546 N.Y.S.2d 555, 545 N.E.2d 869, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2824 (N.Y. 1989), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 842, 546 N.Y.S.2d 558, 545 N.E.2d 872, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2825 (N.Y. 1989).

Unrefuted testimony that 2 topless dancers exposed pubic hair to patrons and approached customers from within distance of less than 6 feet in violation of 9 NYCRR § 53.1(r) and (s) supported charges of tavern owner's violations of CLS Al Bev § 106(6-a). Richcar Tavern, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 160 A.D.2d 881, 554 N.Y.S.2d 313, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4494 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

A state statute prohibiting nude dancing in establishments licensed by the state to sell liquor for on-premises consumption, violation of which could cause an establishment to lose its liquor license, did not violate the First Amendment insofar as it prohibited all topless dancing on all licensed premises since the statute was within the state's power conferred by the Twenty-first Amendment to regulate the sale of liquor within its boundaries, since the state's power to ban the sale of alcoholic beverages entirely included the lesser power to ban the sale of liquor on premises where topless dancing occurs, and since whatever artistic or communicative value that may attach to topless dancing was overcome by the state's exercise of its broad powers arising under the Twenty-first Amendment. New York State Liquor Authority v Bellanca, 452 U.S. 714, 101 S. Ct. 2599, 69 L. Ed. 2d 357, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 119 (U.S. 1981), overruled in part, 44 Liquormart v Rhode Island, 517 U.S. 484, 116 S. Ct. 1495, 134 L. Ed. 2d 711, 1996 U.S. LEXIS 3020 (U.S. 1996).

50. Fighting

A finding that a licensee had permitted its premises to become disorderly was warranted by evidence that on a particular evening a bartender was accused by a drunken patron of having shortchanged him and after the patron left the barroom to call the police he returned, engaged in an altercation with another customer and was beaten in the presence of the bartender who did nothing to prevent the assault. Club 95, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 23 N.Y.2d 784, 297 N.Y.S.2d 147, 244 N.E.2d 713, 1968 N.Y. LEXIS 934 (N.Y. 1968).

Although it is not necessary to find a foreseeable pattern of conduct where the disorder is initiated by an employee left in charge of the premises, a licensee cannot properly control—and is not to be held responsible for—every single act of all persons in his employ; thus, the suspension of a license is not justified where on a single occasion an employee allegedly assaulted a boisterous customer. Playboy Club of New York, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 23 N.Y.2d 544, 297 N.Y.S.2d 926, 245 N.E.2d 697, 1969 N.Y. LEXIS 1608 (N.Y. 1969).

Restaurant liquor license properly revoked for permitting disorderliness consisting of altercations, brawls and fights, culminating in one instance in a stabbing and in another, a shooting affray. Tropical Bar & Grill, Inc. v O'Connell, 270 A.D. 865, 60 N.Y.S.2d 338, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4347 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

A single instance in which a liquor licensee found it necessary to use force to evict two patrons, a husband and wife, would not support a finding of and consequent punishment for, suffering or permitting the premises to become disorderly, as subd. 6 of this section presupposes a fair measure of continuity and permanence in such matters. Copacabana, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 20 A.D.2d 887, 249 N.Y.S.2d 151, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3901 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1964).

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board was not arbitrary or capricious in refusing to renew petitioner's license upon finding that he could not or would not operate the premises in accordance with the law, based on evidence of numerous altercations involving patrons and a large number of assaults, arrests, and police calls to the premises, although those same incidents were in a prior proceeding held insufficient to support revocation of the license on charges petitioner permitted the premises to become disorderly. The court pointed out that in cases of revocation an element constituting or approaching wilfulness had to be shown, but that upon the renewal proceeding the proven acts, which did not denote wilfulness, could be found to be evidence of petitioner's unfitness or passive ineptitude in such degree as to warrant denial of renewal. Rose Garden Restaurant Corp. v Hostetter, 32 A.D.2d 301, 300 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3613 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1969).

The disapproval of a renewal application for liquor license was a proper exercise of State Liquor Authority's discretion in view of the assault on the State employees as well as other prior incidents, which were properly taken into account in the nonrenewal proceedings, for selling liquor to a minor and police reports of assaults committed by president and employees. Margar Rest. Corp. v State Liquor Authority, 34 A.D.2d 828, 312 N.Y.S.2d 751, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4707 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Evidence that bartender struck patron on the head with an ax handle after patron had been restrained by another bartender following fight did not sustain finding by the State Liquor Authority that licensee permitted the premises to become disorderly, in light of fact that bartender who assaulted patron had been employed on a part-time basis for approximately four months, and in absence of any showing of a similar occurrence or that licensee participated in or sanctioned the conduct or was even aware of it until it was too late. Collins v State Liquor Authority, 48 A.D.2d 848, 368 N.Y.S.2d 859, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10070 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

In proceeding in which State Liquor Authority suspended license, finding that licensee, whose bouncer dragged sleeping patron out of licensed premises and assaulted him, had suffered or permitted premises to become disorderly was not supported by substantial evidence. Segan Entertainment, Inc. v State Liquor Authority, 56 A.D.2d 602, 391 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10680 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Universal summons was facially sufficient where it alleged that defendant violated CLS Al Bev § 106(6) by "fail[ing] to maintain adequate security resulting in a dispute where 2 participants received injuries"; duration of incident was factual issue to be resolved at trial. People v Serro, 179 Misc. 2d 54, 683 N.Y.S.2d 818, 1998 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 586 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1998).

51. Solicitation to buy drinks

The licensee violated § 106, subd. 6, by suffering or permitting the licensed premises to become disorderly, in that females induced male patrons to purchase alcoholic beverage upon the premises on various dates. Berlingieri v Bruckman, 256 A.D. 994, 11 N.Y.S.2d 367, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5805 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

The word "disorderly" as used in subd. 6 of this section means something contrary to public order or morality and which is disreputable and constitutes a nuisance, implying a breach of the peace or violation of public morals, and premises cannot be considered disorderly, for purposes of convicting the proprietor or licensee of permitting the premises to become disorderly as a misdemeanor, by simply charging that he has permitted entertainers to mingle with patrons and solicit the purchasing of alcoholic beverages by them. People v Bart's Restaurant Corp., 42 Misc. 2d 1093, 249 N.Y.S.2d 344, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1790 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1964).

An information charging violation of subd. 6 of this section as a misdemeanor in that the licensee permitted the premises to become disorderly by suffering and permitting entertainers to mingle with patrons soliciting their purchase of alcoholic beverages is insufficient to state a cause of action, as "disorderly conduct" is not defined in this section and solicitation of buying of drinks by entertainers is not, in and of itself, "disorderly conduct." People v Bart's Restaurant Corp., 42 Misc. 2d 1093, 249 N.Y.S.2d 344, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1790 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1964).

1. Effect of marriage

The refusal by the State Liquor Authority to permit a requested corporate change or to renew the present license unless and until the president of the corporation divested herself of a 50 percent interest she held prior to her marriage to her present husband, a police officer, was predicated on an arbitrary conclusion by the Authority—that the marriage between the licensee and her patrolman husband ipso facto bestowed an interest in the tavern business of the bridegroom. Sanspar Restaurant Corp. v Ring, 65 Misc. 2d 847, 319 N.Y.S.2d 230, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1822 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971), aff'd, 39 A.D.2d 595, 332 N.Y.S.2d 608, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4932 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972).

2. Effect of violation

The mayor of a village was not holding his office illegally because at the time of his nomination to such office and his election thereto he was the owner of a business wherein alcoholic beverages were sold for off-premises consumption. Harrell v Goldin, 124 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2222 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

It is a misdemeanor for a village trustee to sell or be interested in sale of beer or other alcoholic beverages, although he does not forfeit his office, and no official act on his part is invalidated, by procuring a beer or liquor license. 1964 Op St Compt #760.

3. Police and sheriff subordinates

The state liquor authority acted rationally in concluding that granting a grocery store beer license would give a police officer an indirect interest in the licensed sale of alcoholic beverages in violation of Al Bev Law § 128, where the applicant was married to a Deputy Sheriff who was a field officer performing criminal law enforcement duties. Wilson v New York State Liquor Authority, 52 N.Y.2d 741, 436 N.Y.S.2d 275, 417 N.E.2d 569, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2846 (N.Y. 1980), reh'g denied, 52 N.Y.2d 1073, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 5953 (N.Y. 1981).

Police officers were entitled to permanent injunction against enforcement of local regulation prohibiting off duty employment by officers at places licensed to sell alcoholic beverages where city relied on state rule, promulgated by State Liquor Authority (SLA), permitting such local regulation, and SLA, in turn, lacked authority to make such state rule under either CLS Al Bev § 128 or § 128-a; § 128 only defines criminal offense of officer involved in sale of alcoholic beverages, and SLA has no authority to declare what facts shall constitute crime, while § 128-a specifically directs SLA to promulgate rules relating to circumstances under which offduty officers may be lawfully employed at places that sell alcoholic beverages, not to circumstances under which they may be prohibited. Rotunno v Rochester, 120 A.D.2d 160, 507 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 59229 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1986), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 995, 529 N.Y.S.2d 275, 524 N.E.2d 876, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 717 (N.Y. 1988).

Al Bev Law § 128, which prohibits offices from being either directly or indirectly interested in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages, does not prohibit the employment of off-duty police officers as guards or security personnel at establishments licensed to sell alcohol, since the statute's intent was to prevent police officer's from owning bars or establishments that serve liquor or working in those places as one who actually dispenses liquor, and therefore the regulation creating a blanket prohibition preventing the employment of off-duty police officers in any capacity went beyond the legislative mandate of the statute, was arbitrary and excess of statutory authority. Rotunno v Rochester (1984) 124 Misc 2d 448, 477 NYS2d 941, later proceeding (4th Dept) 120 AD1d 160, 507 NYS2d 924, app gr 70 NY2d 601, 518 NYS2d 1023, 512 NE2d 549 and affd 71 NY2d 995, 529 NYS2d 275, 524 NE2d 876.

1. In general

A village police commissioner is barred from having a direct or indirect interest in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen May 5.

The same person simultaneously may be a political party county committee member or officer and a town tax receiver or collector. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 20 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 193.

A county representative for the State Liquor Authority is not by reason thereof prohibited from being a political party county committee member or officer. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 20 (Informal), 1978 N.Y. AG LEXIS 193.

2. Incidental employment

A mere clerk or employee in a grocery store licensed to sell beer, whose duties with respect to that item are only incidental to his general employment and who does not discharge any special or unusual duties in that connection, is not interested in the sale of alcoholic beverages within the contemplation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 128. However, every case must be decided on own facts. 1950 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 11.

An employee of a bottling company which sells beer may also be a village trustee where his duties with the company relate solely to supervising the loading of trucks, he is compensated on a fixed salary basis, and is not an officer or stockholder of the company. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 19 (informal).

A village patrolman engaged when off duty as a member of an orchestra in a restaurant selling alcoholic beverages but whose employment as such musician is not conditioned in any way upon the sale of alcoholic beverages is not "interested" in such sale within the contemplation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 128. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 9.

Part-time employment of a member of the police force of the City of Kingston would not conflict with the provisions of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 128, where his work would be in a warehouse wherein alcoholic beverages are stored and loaded for delivery to retail establishments when in such capacity he would have no contact whatsoever with the public nor would any monies be transferred in his presence and provided that he is compensated on a salary basis only and is not an officer or stockholder in the company for which he works. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 7 (Informal).

3. Effect of marriage

The wife of a stockholder in a corporation that holds a liquor license is not thereby disqualified from holding the office of town justice in the Town of Inlet. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen Apr 20 (informal).

A police officer, otherwise qualified, may work in a grocery store licensed to sell beer at retail for off-premises consumption where the officer has no direct or indirect interest in the sale of the beer. The fact that the officer's wife owns the grocery store which sells the beer at retail for off-premises consumption is not, per se, conclusive that the officer has either a direct or indirect interest in its sale. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen August 14.

4. Interest outside political subdivision

The prohibition that a village trustee may not be interested in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages applies even though the source of such interest is outside the village limits. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Jun 9 (informal).

The prohibition of interest by police officials in the alcohol trade is not restricted to that trade in the same political subdivision of which the official is a member. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 21.

Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 128(1) would not proscribe a village justice from being a licensee under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law to operate a premises for trafficking in alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption where such premises are not located within the jurisdiction of the court of the village justice. However, we do not pass on any ethical questions that may be involved; nor do we pass on the question of whether or not the State Liquor Authority may deny an application for such license in the exercise of its discretion. 1977 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 18.

5. Effect of violation

A corporation may not be denied a grocery beer license merely because it appears that an officer, director, and stockholder of the corporation is a probation officer attached to the New York City Criminal Court, Queens County. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 14.

The legality of the official acts of a village board of trustees is not affected by the fact that a member thereof violates the Alcoholic Beverage Law by being interested in the sale of alcoholic beverages. 1955 Op St Compt File # 7171.

A village trustee who applies for and receives a beer license commits a misdemeanor but does not forfeit his office. 1956 Op St Compt File #7964.

It is a misdemeanor for a member of a village board to sell or be interested in the sale of beer or other alcoholic beverage, although the holding of a license to sell same neither forfeits his office nor invalidates his official acts. 1964 Op St Compt File #921.

6. Police and sheriff subordinates

A deputy sheriff is not within the prohibition of this section. 1935 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 133.

Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 128 prohibits a Palisades Park patrolman from holding an eating place beer license. 1967 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 7, 1967 N.Y. AG LEXIS 1.

A park patrolman is not prohibited by Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 128, from dispensing alcoholic beverages in a catering establishment. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 3 (formal).

Sections 128 and 128-a of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law apply to deputy sheriffs. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 3 (informal).

On-duty police officers may be assigned by their commanding officers to provide security, crown and traffic control at places licensed for on-premises consumption of alcoholic beverages. The city may not seek payments from the licensee for the costs of providing these services. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-4.

Special policemen who regulate traffic at school crossings are subject to the provisions of this section. 1953 Op St Compt File #6336.

7. Correction officers

A Narcotic Correction Officer is not prohibited by Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, section 128, from receiving a retail liquor store license. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 17.

Correction officers employed by the New York State Department of Correctional Services are not prohibited by Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 128, from being either directly or indirectly interested in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages. 1973 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 22, 1973 N.Y. AG LEXIS 8.

8. City officials

9. —Mayors and councilmen

Whether the mayor of the City of Ithaca is a "police official" who may not be interested in a retail liquor store is a question which would appear to require a judicial determination. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 5.

A city mayor is not prohibited from continuing as a member of a partnership holding a retail on-premises license to sell liquors and wines. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 13.

A councilman in the City of Glens Falls is not prohibited from dealing in alcoholic beverages by Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 128. 1965 NY Ops Atty Gen June 8.

The mayor of the City of Auburn may own stock in a corporation which has a license issued by the State Liquor Authority to traffic in alcoholic beverages. 1973 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 12.

The Mayor of the City of Oneida may hold a liquor license without violating § 128 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. 1969 Op St Compt File #464.

10. —Public safety committee

A city councilman also a member of public safety committee is not disqualified under cited section from being an officer, director and stockholder of a licensee corporation. 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 5.

Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety ineligible to hold license under § 128. 1965 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug. 31.

The City Clerk of Dunkirk may hold a solicitor's permit and be employed by wholesale liquor licensee. 1954 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 1.

There is no prohibition against the City Court Marshal of the City of Schenectady holding a retail liquor store license. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 19.

The president of the common council of the City of Hudson is not disqualified from holding an off-premises beer license. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 11.

An alderman may act as a salesman for a retail liquor or beer distributor. 1960 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov. 9 (informal).

A member of a city fire department having no police powers or duties is not forbidden by said section from having an interest in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages. 1965 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept. 13.

11. Town and village officials

12. —Town supervisors

Town supervisor who also serves as town police commissioner should not be employed to supervise the operation of a bar in his capacity as house manager of a nonprofit corporation. 1957 NY Ops Atty Gen March 4 (informal).

A town supervisor is not prohibited from holding a liquor license unless he has been designated as a police commissioner under § 150 of the Town Law. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen May 23.

Absent additional authority or powers of a nature making him ineligible for licensing under A. B. C. Law § 128, a supervisor of a suburban town is not barred from holding a liquor license. 1965 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept. 1.

13. —Village mayors

Village mayor by virtue of his office is a village policeman and may not have interest in sale of alcoholic beverages; having such an interest is a misdemeanor but does not disqualify him from election or service as mayor. 1955 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 28 (informal).

The Mayor or a Trustee of the Village of Monticello is eligible, if otherwise qualified, to hold a restaurant liquor license, issued by the State Liquor Authority. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen May 17.

14. —Village trustees

A village trustee who is a stockholder, officer and director of an incorporated restaurant licensed to sell alcoholic beverages is within the contemplation of this provision prohibiting certain police officials from trafficking in alcoholic beverages. 1953 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 14.

A village trustee may be a clerk or employee in a grocery store licensed to sell beer. 1961 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 9.

15. —Justice of the peace

A justice of the peace is not disqualified from holding a grocery beer license. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen May 13.

16. —Incidental police functions of officials

Since, under the Suffolk County Charter, the Town Board of a town which has become part of the county police district has no police functions, a councilman in such a town is not disqualified from holding a wholesale beer license and the same is true of a corporation of which he is officer, director, and stockholder. 1963 NY Ops Atty Gen June 28.

The prohibition against interest of a police official in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages is not restricted to premises in the same political subdivision in which he holds office; however, under the Suffolk County Charter, a village voting by referendum to transfer police functions to the county police district thereby abolishes police powers of village officials, including the mayor. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen June 19.

There is no authority whereby the Village Board of the Village of Pawling is authorized to remove, by resolution, the ex officio police status conferred upon its Mayor by Village Law § 188 and thereby exempting such Mayor from the provisions of Alcoholic Beverage Control Law § 128, which provisions disqualify him from having a license issued to him by the State Liquor Authority to traffic in alcoholic beverages. 1970 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 19.

A village trustee of the Village of Watkins Glen is authorized to have an interest in a license issued by the State Liquor Authority to traffic in alcoholic beverages provided that prior to such issuance, he renounces and resigns his ex officio police status for the balance of his term of office. Upon such renunciation and resignation, he may, nevertheless, continue to serve as village trustee. 1971 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 15.

No conflict of interest or incompatibility arises when a member of a village zoning board of appeals also serves as an officer of a corporation which holds a New York State liquor license. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen March 3 (informal).

A dog warden has the powers of a constable or other peace officer in executing the appropriate provisions of the Agriculture and Markets Law but is not a constable or peace officer. A constable is a peace officer but is not a police officer except that under the definitions contained in the Vehicle and Traffic Law, a constable is a police officer within the ambit of that statute. For the purposes contemplated in Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, § 128(1), prohibiting interest in manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages by officials and subordinates in any police department, a town constable and a town dog warden are not police officers. 1976 NY Ops Atty Gen June 25.

A village police commissioner is barred from having a direct or indirect interest in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages. 1978 NY Ops Atty Gen May 5.

Notes to Decisions

Police officers were entitled to permanent injunction against enforcement of local regulation prohibiting off duty employment by officers at places licensed to sell alcoholic beverages where city relied on state rule, promulgated by State Liquor Authority (SLA), permitting such local regulation, and SLA, in turn, lacked authority to make such state rule under either CLS Al Bev § 128 or § 128-a; § 128 only defines criminal offense of officer involved in sale of alcoholic beverages, and SLA has no authority to declare what facts shall constitute crime, while § 128-a specifically directs SLA to promulgate rules relating to circumstances under which offduty officers may be lawfully employed at places that sell alcoholic beverages, not to circumstances under which they may be prohibited. Such criteria shall include but not be limited to:

(a) the development by the applicant of a written plan for a records management program;

(b) the condition of the records of the applicant;

(c) the geographic location of the applicant so as to provide, to the extent practicable, equitable geographic distribution of the grants;

(b) The department of records and information services or its successor agency and the city clerk of the city of New York shall submit applications to the commissioner of education at the same time as applications pursuant to subdivision two of this section are required to be submitted. Priority assignment of each project shall be a factor taken into consideration in addition to those outlined in subdivision two of this section when making grant awards.

(c) Upon receipt of grant monies, the commissioner of the department of records and information services or its successor agency and the city clerk of the city of New York shall direct the disbursement of grant monies to each project for which a grant has been approved.

Laws 1995, ch 203, § 6, eff July 26, 1995, provides as follows:

§ 6. This act shall take effect immediately provided, however, that the amendments made to subdivision 2 of section 57.33 and subdivision 1 of section 57.35 of the arts and cultural affairs law by this act shall not affect the expiration of certain provisions contained therein pursuant to section 31 of chapter 53 of the laws of 1992.

Laws 2014, ch 508, §§ 1 and 3, eff Dec 17, 2014, provide:

§ 1. The legislature hereby finds and declares that volunteer fire companies and volunteer ambulance companies perform vital services for the municipalities they serve. These not-for-profit volunteer emergency response organizations serve a meaningful public purpose by helping to ensure the health, safety, and welfare of our citizens. Further, these organizations work collaboratively with municipal officials in their respective localities and help to reduce the burdens on our local governments.

The records of volunteer fire companies and volunteer ambulance companies are important since they indicate the relationship, rights and responsibilities with respect to the communities they serve. And, proper records management assists municipalities and emergency response organizations with their legal obligations under the general municipal law. In addition, these records make appropriate information available to the public and to municipal officials with respect to fire and emergency services, and also reflect the historical development of the communities served by such volunteer fire and ambulance companies. For these reasons, the legislature hereby further finds and declares that not-for-profit volunteer fire companies and volunteer ambulance companies should be eligible for the records management improvement grant program in order to help them operate more effectively and efficiently in our local communities.

§ 3. The commissioner of education is hereby authorized and directed to promulgate any rules or regulations necessary to effectuate the provisions of this act.

A person described in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b), or paragraph (c), or paragraph (d), or paragraph (e) of this subdivision shall not be removed or otherwise subjected to any disciplinary penalty provided in this section except for incompetency or misconduct shown after a hearing upon stated charges pursuant to this section.

(a) A person holding a position by permanent appointment in the competitive class of the classified civil service, or

(b) a person holding a position by permanent appointment or employment in the classified service of the state or in the several cities, counties, towns, or villages thereof, or in any other political or civil division of the state or of a municipality, or in the public school service, or in any public or special district, or in the service of any authority, commission or board, or in any other branch of public service, who was honorably discharged or released under honorable circumstances from the armed forces of the United States including (i) having a qualifying condition as defined in section three hundred fifty of the executive law, and receiving a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service, or (ii) being a discharged LGBT veteran, as defined in section three hundred fifty of the executive law, and receiving a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service, having served therein as such member in time of war as defined in section eighty-five of this chapter, or who is an exempt volunteer firefighter as defined in the general municipal law, except when a person described in this paragraph holds the position of private secretary, cashier or deputy of any official or department, or

(c) an employee holding a position in the non-competitive or labor class other than a position designated in the rules of the state or municipal civil service commission as confidential or requiring the performance of functions influencing policy, who since his or her last entry into service has completed at least five years of continuous service in the non-competitive or labor class in a position or positions not so designated in the rules as confidential or requiring the performance of functions influencing policy, or

(d) an employee in the service of the City of New York holding a position as Homemaker or Home Aide in the non-competitive class, who since his last entry into city service has completed at least three years of continuous service in such position in the non-competitive class, or

(e) an employee in the service of a police department within the state of New York holding the position of detective for a period of three continuous years or more; provided, however, that a hearing shall not be required when reduction in rank from said position is based solely on reasons of the economy, consolidation or abolition of functions, curtailment of activities or otherwise.

2. Procedure. An employee who at the time of questioning appears to be a potential subject of disciplinary action shall have a right to representation by his or her certified or recognized employee organization under article fourteen of this chapter and shall be notified in advance, in writing, of such right. A state employee who is designated managerial or confidential under article fourteen of this chapter, shall, at the time of questioning, where it appears that such employee is a potential subject of disciplinary action, have a right to representation and shall be notified in advance, in writing, of such right. If representation is requested a reasonable period of time shall be afforded to obtain such representation. If the employee is unable to obtain representation within a reasonable period of time the employer has the right to then question the employee. A hearing officer under this section shall have the power to find that a reasonable period of time was or was not afforded. In the event the hearing officer finds that a reasonable period of time was not afforded then any and all statements obtained from said questioning as well as any evidence or information obtained as a result of said questioning shall be excluded, provided, however, that this subdivision shall not modify or replace any written collective agreement between a public employer and employee organization negotiated pursuant to article fourteen of this chapter. A person against whom removal or other disciplinary action is proposed shall have written notice thereof and of the reasons therefor, shall be furnished a copy of the charges preferred against him and shall be allowed at least eight days for answering the same in writing. The hearing upon such charges shall be held by the officer or body having the power to remove the person against whom such charges are preferred, or by a deputy or other person designated by such officer or body in writing for that purpose. In case a deputy or other person is so designated, he shall, for the purpose of such hearing, be vested with all the powers of such officer or body and shall make a record of such hearing which shall, with his recommendations, be referred to such officer or body for review and decision. The person or persons holding such hearing shall, upon the request of the person against whom charges are preferred, permit him to be represented by counsel, or by a representative of a recognized or certified employee organization, and shall allow him to summon witnesses in his behalf. The burden of proving incompetency or misconduct shall be upon the person alleging the same. Compliance with technical rules of evidence shall not be required.

3. Suspension pending determination of charges; penalties. Pending the hearing and determination of charges of incompetency or misconduct, the officer or employee against whom such charges have been preferred may be suspended without pay for a period not exceeding thirty days. If such officer or employee is found guilty of the charges, the penalty or punishment may consist of a reprimand, a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars to be deducted from the salary or wages of such officer or employee, suspension without pay for a period not exceeding two months, demotion in grade and title, or dismissal from the service; provided, however, that the time during which an officer or employee is suspended without pay may be considered as part of the penalty. If he is acquitted, he shall be restored to his position with full pay for the period of suspension less the amount of any unemployment insurance benefits he may have received during such period. If such officer or employee is found guilty, a copy of the charges, his written answer thereto, a transcript of the hearing, and the determination shall be filed in the office of the department or agency in which he has been employed, and a copy thereof shall be filed with the civil service commission having jurisdiction over such position. A copy of the transcript of the hearing shall, upon request of the officer or employee affected, be furnished to him without charge.

3-a. Suspension pending determination of charges and penalties relating to police officers of the police department of the city of New York. Pending the hearing and determination of charges of incompetency or misconduct, a police officer employed by the police department of the city of New York may be suspended without pay for a period not exceeding thirty days. If such officer is found guilty of the charges, the police commissioner of such department may punish the police officer pursuant to the provisions of sections 14-115 and 14-123 of the administrative code of the city of New York.

4. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no removal or disciplinary proceeding shall be commenced more than eighteen months after the occurrence of the alleged incompetency or misconduct complained of and described in the charges or, in the case of a state employee who is designated managerial or confidential under article fourteen of this chapter, more than one year after the occurrence of the alleged incompetency or misconduct complained of and described in the charges, provided, however, that such limitations shall not apply where the incompetency or misconduct complained of and described in the charges would, if proved in a court of appropriate jurisdiction, constitute a crime.

I. Generally

1. In general

This section has no application where removal is not sought. Tiernan v Walsh, 294 N.Y. 299, 62 N.E.2d 79, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 299, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 806 (N.Y. 1945).

This section has no relation to a situation where there is no dismissal, but removal for reasons of economy. O'Donnell v Sinnott, 266 A.D. 176, 41 N.Y.S.2d 674, 1943 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3514 (N.Y. App. Div. 1943), app. dismissed, 301 N.Y. 608, 93 N.E.2d 497, 301 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 608, 1950 N.Y. LEXIS 937 (N.Y. 1950).

In a proceeding to review a determination by the commissioner of a county department of social services which found petitioner guilty of misconduct and terminated her employment with the county, in which petitioner objected to the introduction in evidence at her hearing of her personnel benefit record, the determination would be confirmed and the proceeding dismissed, since business summaries are independent from the writings or documents upon which they are drawn, since the rules of evidence are not binding in administrative proceedings, and since otherwise the determination as to petitioner's misconduct was supported by substantial evidence, and the penalty imposed was not so disproportionate to the offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Barrett v D'Elia, 102 A.D.2d 890, 477 N.Y.S.2d 62, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19118 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

In Civil Service disciplinary matter, vice-president of Police Benevolent Association (petitioner) was not entitled to First Amendment protection with respect to letter he wrote to members of village board of trustees that was critical of chief of police, since close working relationship was mandated for efficient operation of small village police force, and village's interest in promoting efficiency of public services outweighed petitioner's interest in commenting on matter of public concern. MacFarlane v Village of Scotia, 241 A.D.2d 574, 659 N.Y.S.2d 351, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7204 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 1008, 666 N.Y.S.2d 102, 688 N.E.2d 1384, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3625 (N.Y. 1997).

Court annulled respondents' determination which confiscated badge and identification of village police officer for improperly using them while on "inactive status" due to disability because, regardless of whether officer was on "inactive status" due to disability at time of incident, respondents' decision constituted disciplinary action under auspices of CLS Civ S § 75 and CLS Vill § 8-804, entitling him to notice of charges and opportunity to be heard. Gore v Corwin, 185 Misc. 2d 825, 714 N.Y.S.2d 427, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 408 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

Decision dismissing proceedings initiated by a town against a police chief under N.Y. Civ. Rights Law § 75 was not construed as a dismissal of both the first set of charges and a second set of charges brought under N.Y. Town Law § 155; a disciplinary proceeding brought within about three weeks of the town acquiring knowledge of the factual basis underlying the charges through an independent investigation was timely. Rounds v Town of Vestal, 15 A.D.3d 819, 790 N.Y.S.2d 561, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1953 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

Petitioner brings the appeal complaining that the abolition of her position by the Board of Education is illegal and requests that the Board of Education continue her in the position of business manager at a salary no less than that which she received for the 1989-90 school year. The Board of Education abolished the business manager position, and later, amended the resolution not to fund the business manager's position which would necessitate laying off of the current incumbent, the petitioner. Petitioner contends that the reasons for the abolition, or decision not to fund a position, was retaliation for litigation which he commenced against the father of the president of the Board of Education. Petitioner was appointed pursuant to the provisions of Civil Service Law, and therefore her rights in that position are governed by the provisions of the Civil Service Law. The provisions of section 75 of the Civil Service Law prohibits termination of permanent employees for cause unless and until they are afforded an appropriate hearing. Section 75 would not, by its terms, apply to a discretionary decision to eliminate a position for budgetary reasons, and consequently terminate the employment of the incumbent. In view of the nature of the petitioner's claim and the central issue involved, the type of relief petitioner seeks should be obtained through commencement of a proceeding under Article 78 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules, or through an action for damages, and not through an appeal to the Commission of Education under Section 310 of the Education Law. Appeal of Cohen, 1991 Op Comr Educ No 12452.

2. Construction

In an article 78 proceeding, a determination reinstating a mental hygiene therapy aide trainee who was terminated during her probationary period by the deputy director of a developmental center would be affirmed, where under Men Hyg Law § 13.21 and Civ S Law § 75 only the director, not the deputy director, had the power to terminate an employee, and where even if the director had the authority to delegate to his deputy director his statutorily conferred power the record did not support the contention that he did so. Todriff v Shaw, 95 A.D.2d 775, 463 N.Y.S.2d 257, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18685 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

Although this section applies to civil service employees generally, it has been held that where specific provisions applicable to a different class of civil service employees are found elsewhere in the law, this section, subdivision 2 does not apply. Cugell v Monaghan, 107 N.Y.S.2d 117, 201 Misc. 607, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2291 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

The expression of legislative will in this section is so specific that there is no room for doubt as to what is intended, and only a like expression of legislative will to show a reversal of policy could establish such a change. Steger v Farrell, 35 Misc. 2d 614, 231 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2812 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 22 A.D.2d 729, 253 N.Y.S.2d 181, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2994 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

Pretextual reassignment and then abolition of position held by public employee entitled, under CLS Civil Service Law § 75(1), not to be removed from position except for incompetence or misconduct impermissibly deprives employee of property interest protected by due process clause of Fourteenth Amendment to United States Constitution. Dwyer v Regan, 777 F.2d 825, 1985 U.S. App. LEXIS 25150 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1985), modified, reh'g denied, 793 F.2d 457, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 37371 (2d Cir. 1986).

Where county civil service commission failed to prescribe rules pertaining to jurisdictional and position classification of district employees as it was required to do under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 20(1), employee was entitled to the protections of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 and could not be terminated without a pre-termination hearing. Wheeler v Parker, 546 F. Supp. 2d 7, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 49694 (N.D.N.Y. 2008).

3. —With other legislation

The provisions of this section are not in derogation of the provisions of the Domestic Relations Court Act. O'Kelly v Hill, 283 N.Y. 78, 27 N.E.2d 509, 283 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 78, 1940 N.Y. LEXIS 915 (N.Y. 1940).

New York Constitution, art 10, § 3 which provides that any office for which no duration is prescribed shall be deemed to be held at the pleasure of the appointing officer, must be read in connection with this section. Bramer v Board of Parole, 247 A.D. 414, 288 N.Y.S. 108, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8281 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

Section 31 is not overridden by this section. Schottke v Jeacock, 269 A.D. 242, 55 N.Y.S.2d 186, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2960 (N.Y. App. Div. 1945), aff'd, 295 N.Y. 812, 66 N.E.2d 586, 295 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 812, 1946 N.Y. LEXIS 974 (N.Y. 1946).

The provisions of this section governing the procedure to be followed in removals for misconduct or incompetency were not applicable to a removal under the Security Risk Law for refusing to answer questions concerning Communist affiliations. Lerner v Casey, 2 A.D.2d 1, 154 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1956 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4853 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1956), aff'd, 2 N.Y.2d 355, 161 N.Y.S.2d 7, 141 N.E.2d 533, 1957 N.Y. LEXIS 1210 (N.Y. 1957).

Whether position of civil defense safety representative was temporary or permanent, chapter 299 of the Laws of 1961 providing that at the election of the civil service commission the positions known as emergency defense positions could be made subject to civil service requirements for competitive permanent positions, abrogated any rights which the representative might have had under this section. Steger v Farrell, 22 A.D.2d 729, 253 N.Y.S.2d 181, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2994 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 994, 260 N.Y.S.2d 13, 207 N.E.2d 608, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1457 (N.Y. 1965).

In a proceeding to review a determination that a police officer, who had been injured in the line of duty, was fit to return to duty, to compel restoration of his vacation time which he used while absent from work as the alleged result of the service-related injuries, and to restrain the police commissioner from ordering him to return to duty as a police officer, the trial court erred in finding that the policeman was entitled to an evidentiary hearing under Civ S Law § 75(2), where the policeman had not been removed from his civil service position as a police officer, and no other disciplinary action had been taken against him for failure to report to work; however, he was entitled to an evidentiary hearing under Gen Mun Law § 207-c, before a hearing officer appointed by the police commissioner, with counsel participating, cross-examination of the police commissioner's witnesses, and presentation of his own evidence as to his entitlement to full wages under § 207-c, at which time evidence could be adduced on the issues of whether the policeman's present disability resulted from occupational injuries, and whether he was capable of returning to work and performing light police duty as directed by his commanding officer. Curley v Dilworth, 96 A.D.2d 903, 466 N.Y.S.2d 79, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19514 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 63 N.Y.2d 770, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 5984 (N.Y. 1984).

Public employer, in seeking to terminate civil servant for misconduct, was entitled to proceed under CLS Civ S § 75, and was not limited to proceeding under CLS Civ S § 72 merely because misconduct was not shown to have been willful and intentional. Rao v Gunn, 121 A.D.2d 618, 503 N.Y.S.2d 646, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58602 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 853, 523 N.Y.S.2d 492, 518 N.E.2d 4, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19063 (N.Y. 1987), rev'd, 73 N.Y.2d 759, 536 N.Y.S.2d 47, 532 N.E.2d 1275, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 3360 (N.Y. 1988).

It was appropriate for county to proceed under CLS Civ S § 75, rather than CLS Civ S §§ 72 and 73, where petitioner had been charged with misconduct due to, inter alia, excessive absences from work; latter statutes provide, respectively, for leaves of absence and separation from service for employees found to be medically unable to perform their duties, and affords certain rights for return to work upon recovery from disability. Abdalla v Fulton County, 208 A.D.2d 1168, 617 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10521 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 804, 626 N.Y.S.2d 755, 650 N.E.2d 414, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1259 (N.Y. 1995).

State Department of Labor's decision that probationary police officer did not commit misconduct disentitling him to unemployment insurance benefits had no collateral effect on officer's Article 78 proceeding challenging his discharge. People v Reynolds, 240 A.D.2d 210, 658 N.Y.S.2d 596, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6177 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 897, 662 N.Y.S.2d 440, 685 N.E.2d 221, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 2866 (N.Y. 1997).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging summary termination of petitioner from her position as confidential secretary, Supreme Court properly found that respondent's classification of petitioner's position as "exempt" was ineffective for failure to comply with procedural requirements of CLS Civ S § 20, thus requiring position to be classified as "competitive" by default, but it was error to grant petitioner reinstatement with back pay pending proper classification or hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, because position could not be deemed "permanent" where petitioner never took civil service examination relative to confidential secretary position. Grosh v City of Troy, 246 A.D.2d 235, 675 N.Y.S.2d 416, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8146 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Board did not err in giving collateral estoppel effect to arbitrator's factual finding that claimant was discharged from his employment as toll collector for being discourteous to customers, where claimant had full and fair opportunity to litigate issue at arbitration hearing under CLS Civ S § 75. In re Claim of Obafemi, 250 A.D.2d 905, 672 N.Y.S.2d 506, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5385 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Section of Rockland County Police Act (L 1936, ch 524, as amended by L 1946, ch 940) which gives police chiefs authority to assign officers to detective duty and to revoke such assignments "at any time" conflicts with L 1997, ch 134, amending CLS Civ S § 58(4)(c), and CLS Civ S § 75(1)(e); however, as special act, Rockland County Police Act takes precedence over inconsistent provisions of Civil Service Law. Steinmann v Village of Spring Valley, 261 A.D.2d 548, 691 N.Y.S.2d 66, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5389 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Hearing officer's finding, in CLS Civ S § 75 proceeding, that employer did not meet its burden of establishing that public health nurse cheated on competency examination, was not entitled to collateral estoppel effect in proceeding before Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board, as no factual findings were made specifically regarding whether she actually cheated on exam, and it was incumbent on board to draw its own conclusion as to whether claimant's behavior amounted to misconduct for purposes of qualifying for unemployment insurance benefits. In re Claim of Wachtmeister, 270 A.D.2d 556, 703 N.Y.S.2d 584, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2365 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Prehearing suspension of town police chief was not limited to 30 days under CLS Civ S § 75(3) where CLS Civ S § 76(4) preserved inconsistent local laws enacted before 1941, and thus CLS Town § 155 was still valid and controlling. Coscette v Town of Wallkill, 281 A.D.2d 479, 721 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2356 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 602, 735 N.Y.S.2d 491, 760 N.E.2d 1287, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. 2001).

Although Workers' Compensation Board has continuing jurisdiction to end or diminish compensation previously awarded (CLS Work Comp §§ 22 and 123), such power does not preclude employer from preferring disciplinary charges against employee who has been found to have sustained work-related injury, but has allegedly been derelict in returning to work and resuming his or her duties. Hofsiss v Bd. of Educ., 287 A.D.2d 566, 732 N.Y.S.2d 14, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

The owner conferred by Sec. Class Cities Law, § 94, upon the commissioner of public works in Binghamton, to appoint a superintendent of water works to hold office during the pleasure of the commissioner is not limited by this section. People ex rel. Johnson v La Roche, 181 N.Y.S. 611, 111 Misc. 465, 1920 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1327 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1920).

Educ Law, § 312-a, which provides that a supervisor appointed for a probationary period may be dismissed at any time on the recommendation of the superintendent of schools, is not in conflict with this section. Bemis v Board of Education, 14 N.Y.S.2d 182, 171 Misc. 957, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2181 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), rev'd, 258 A.D. 935, 16 N.Y.S.2d 553, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7639 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

This section and Surrogate's Court Act, § 21, are not in conflict and where such analogous statutes come into apparent conflict, the power of removal or revocation of appointment is not abolished but the incumbent has the right to be heard before removal is made. Cappon v Cleere, 32 N.Y.S.2d 845, 177 Misc. 1027, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1294 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

This section is to be construed with § 76, and a hearing held pursuant to it must be upon stated charges, fair, impartial, and free from prejudicial legal errors. Badrow v Common Council & City Clerk, 42 Misc. 2d 505, 248 N.Y.S.2d 615, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1890 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Where a permanent civil service employee is discharged by operation of Pub O Law § 30(1) as a result of a felony conviction and the conviction is subsequently reversed on the basis that no crime was in fact committed, the employee is entitled, as a matter of law, to a post-termination hearing under Civ S Law § 75 to determine whether the employee should be reinstated and the standards to be utilized in such determination are the same as those to determine if a civil service employee should be discharged in the first instance. Briggins v McGuire, 122 Misc. 2d 1026, 472 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4164 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), rev'd, 112 A.D.2d 827, 492 N.Y.S.2d 746, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985).

While federal case law governing the requirements for an actionable claim against an employer under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e et seq., was instructive, the coworker's failure to demonstrate those requirements did not preclude a finding that the former employee engaged in misconduct under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 justifying disciplinary measures before an actionable claim for harassment arose. Matter of Bayer v New York State Dept. of Labor, 28 A.D.3d 865, 812 N.Y.S.2d 691, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Arbitration of city police disciplinary disputes was required because the Taylor Law was applicable pursuant to a city charter provision that superseded the Second Class Cities Law (SCCL) and because the city's police manual expressly authorized arbitration of police disciplinary matters. Although municipalities can adopt police disciplinary procedures under the SCCL and under general laws enacted prior to this section allowing local control of police discipline, the city chose not to do so. City of Syracuse v Syracuse Police Benevolent Assn., Inc., 68 Misc. 3d 412, 124 N.Y.S.3d 523, 2020 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1926 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2020).

Hearing required before permanent civil service employee can be disciplined or terminated does not bar, on grounds of claim preclusion, federal civil rights action brought under 42 USCS § 1983, and while hearing afforded employee before his termination was quasi-judicial in nature, issues determined at hearing concerned employee's violation of chain of command by writing letter to county executive enumerating allegations of his supervisor's misconduct, while employee's federal claim is that he was terminated from employment because of views he expressed in letter to county executive, such that issues to be determined in federal action are not material and essential to decision rendered in pre-termination hearing. O'Malley v Nassau County Medical Center, 686 F. Supp. 62, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4844 (E.D.N.Y. 1988).

Tenured teacher's involuntary transfer was not disciplinary in nature because a transfer to another school within a school district was not a disciplinary penalty within the meaning of N.Y. Educ. Law § 3020-a(4), which governed the discipline of tenured teachers, and N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 did not apply to teachers who enjoyed the benefits of tenure. Rutherford v Katonah-Lewisboro Sch. Dist., 670 F. Supp. 2d 230, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 105872 (S.D.N.Y. 2009).

4. — —NYC provisions

Claimant, laborer employed by New York City Human Resources Administration, was properly disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance benefits after he was found guilty following hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 of submitting fraudulent overtime forms. In re Claim of Santiago, 224 A.D.2d 845, 637 N.Y.S.2d 813, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1278 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Court properly determined that savings clause in CLS Civ S § 76(4), providing that nothing in CLS Civ S § 75 shall be construed to "repeal or modify" any local laws, was unambiguous grand-fathering provision that did not apply to subsequently enacted NYC Admin Code § 9-112, providing that members of Department of Corrections' uniform force charged with crime may be suspended without pay for as long as criminal charges remain pending. Meringolo v Jacobson, 256 A.D.2d 20, 680 N.Y.S.2d 521, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12802 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342, 716 N.E.2d 177, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1999), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342, 716 N.E.2d 177, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1365 (N.Y. 1999).

Greater New York Charter, § 692, does not give a nurse at Bellevue Hospital a right to the protection of this section. Daly v Goldwater, 296 N.Y.S. 36, 163 Misc. 502, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1716 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

The one-month suspension period pending determination of charges provided for by subd. (3) of this section and § 884-1.0 of the New York City Administrative Code is inapplicable to school teachers employed by the City Board of Education whose rights are governed by § 2566 of the Education Law. Nash v Board of Education, 26 Misc. 2d 46, 198 N.Y.S.2d 180, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3849 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

New York City Administrative Code, and not Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3, governed permissible punishment of New York city policeman pursuant to disciplinary proceeding against officer for lying during course of official police investigation. Foran v Murphy, 73 Misc. 2d 486, 342 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2195 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

Plaintiffs' contention that Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority's (MABSTOA) failure to follow the provisions of Civ S Law §§ 75, 80 in filling employee positions as a result of its exemption under Pub A Law § 1203-a constituted a violation of the due process and equal protection clauses of the state and federal constitutions on the asserted ground that the Transit Authority (of which MABSTOA is a subsidiary) filled similar positions in accordance with the sections would be without merit since the two entities were created for substantially different purposes, which the Legislature took into account in making MABSTOA a subsidiary of the Transit Authority, so that for purposes of later sale or disposal the former would retain a separate identity, and there thus exists a reasonable relationship and basis for the Legislature's refusal to subject MABSTOA to the provisions of the Civil Service Law. Collins v Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Auth., 116 Misc. 2d 6, 453 N.Y.S.2d 289, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3503 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

Provisions of NYC Admin Code § 9-112, which authorize suspension without pay of members of uniformed forces charged with crime for so long as it takes to dispose of criminal charges, is invalid as violative of CLS Civ S § 75(3), which prohibits suspension without pay of civil service employee for more than 30 days. Meringolo ex rel. Members of the Correction Captains Ass'n v Jacobson, 173 Misc. 2d 650, 662 N.Y.S.2d 356, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 370 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997), aff'd, 256 A.D.2d 20, 680 N.Y.S.2d 521, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12802 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Police officer was properly suspended without pay for 30 days pending a determination of the disciplinary charges preferred against him; New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 14-123 made no distinctions based on the seriousness of the charges or severity of the penalty, and entitled a police officer to full back pay from the date of suspension only if he was not convicted of the charges. Buric v Safir, 4 A.D.3d 160, 772 N.Y.S.2d 36, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1649 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 2 N.Y.3d 706, 781 N.Y.S.2d 287, 814 N.E.2d 459, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 1061 (N.Y. 2004).

5. Constitutionality

The safeguards of sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law, which set forth disciplinary procedures for certain classes of public employees and provide for appeals by employees from adverse determinations, may be waived by an employee without violating the constitutional safeguards of due process and equal protection of the laws. Auburn Police Local 195, Council 82, AFSCME v Helsby, 62 A.D.2d 12, 404 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10411 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978), aff'd, 46 N.Y.2d 1034, 416 N.Y.S.2d 586, 389 N.E.2d 1106, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 1946 (N.Y. 1979).

In order to sustain constitutionality of arbitration provisions in collective bargaining agreement between the State and civil service employees association with respect to disciplining of employees, it would be necessary to read into the provisions the procedural safeguards of article governing arbitration generally, i. e., right to present evidence, right to cross-examine witnesses, right to have determination made on evidence produced, right to be represented by counsel, and right to have the award made in writing. Antinore v State, 49 A.D.2d 6, 371 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10325 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 921, 389 N.Y.S.2d 576, 358 N.E.2d 268, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3090 (N.Y. 1976).

Procedure established by Civil Service Law for determining charges of misconduct affords individual opportunity to be heard a meaningful time and in meaningful manner and conforms to essentials of due process. Marsh v Hanley, 50 A.D.2d 687, 375 N.Y.S.2d 409, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12530 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Mechanism set forth in 4 NYCRR 5.3(c), which provided that civil servant's resignation could not be withdrawn absent consent of appointing authority, was constitutional even though it did not permit permanent employee procedural safeguard of hearing prior to termination in cases where employee resigned rather than being terminated; moreover, voluntariness of resignation was not vitiated by employee's attempt to withdraw resignation prior to its effective date. Smith v Kunkel, 152 A.D.2d 893, 544 N.Y.S.2d 240, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10286 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 944, 550 N.Y.S.2d 277, 549 N.E.2d 480, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 3317 (N.Y. 1989).

The constitutional right to due process requires a hearing prior to even a temporary suspension of a public employee unless some "valid governmental interest" overrides the employee's Fourteenth Amendment rights. Randall v Toll, 73 Misc. 2d 451, 341 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2311 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

Provision of Civil Service Law calling for suspension without pay for a period not exceeding 30 days pending hearing and determination of charges of incompetency or misconduct reasonably accommodates competing interests involved and is not unconstitutional as depriving employee of property without due process. Palermo v Eisenberg, 81 Misc. 2d 1014, 367 N.Y.S.2d 378, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2517 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Procedures provided for in CLS Civ Serv § 75 satisfies requirement of due process in employment deprivation cases, and overlap of investigative and adjudicative functions alone, without further factual demonstration of bias or prejudice inherent in particular application of statutory scheme, does not violate due process; mere appointment as hearing officer of attorney with some past or present connection to administrative agency in charge of investigating, charging, prosecuting, or disciplining employee, in and of itself, is not denial of due process. Anderson v Dolce, 653 F. Supp. 1556, 1987 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1349 (S.D.N.Y. 1987).

Former employee, a school groundskeeper, charged N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 was unconstitutional, but, supplemented by by a CPLR art. 78 proceeding, the law was found constitutional and provided due process; thus groundskeeper did not state a claim under 42 U.S.C.S. § 1983. Chaffer v Bd. of Educ., 229 F. Supp. 2d 185, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21736 (E.D.N.Y. 2002), aff'd, 75 Fed. Appx. 12, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 18391 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2003).

6. Inapplicability absent legal certification and appointment

A discharged employee's rights under this section depend upon whether his appointment in the first instance was in accordance with the Constitution and the Civil Service Law. Verweire v Finch, 274 A.D. 1026, 86 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4527 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

Civil Service Commissioner's retroactive revocation of civil service employees' permanent status without adherence to provisional safeguards of CLS Civ S § 75 did not deprive employees of property interest without due process since, inasmuch as employees' appointments were constitutionally defective, due process standards of § 75 did not apply; it is beyond power and jurisdiction of commissioner or anyone else to confer on applicant eligibility for appointment which is illegal. Spring v Broadnax, 158 A.D.2d 240, 558 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8405 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 713, 563 N.Y.S.2d 769, 565 N.E.2d 518, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3744 (N.Y. 1990).

This section applies only after a legal appointment has been made and does not protect one who procured his appointment through fraud. Everhart v Robbins, 25 N.Y.S.2d 336, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

Where a certification or appointment is void ab initio because the appointee was never eligible, the provisions of this section as to charges, notice and hearing, are inapplicable; they apply only when there has been valid certification and legal appointment. Ferdinand v Moses, 26 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1563 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 262 A.D. 1001, 30 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6931 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

This section applies only to case where there was a legal and valid appointment. Daly v School Dist., 31 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2379 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

II. Hearings and Other Procedural Matters

A. Generally

7. In general

Statutes requiring hearings in civil service removals do not depend for their operative effect on good grounds shown to resist the removal, since they are operative without regard to the merit. Papasidero v Fasano, 19 N.Y.2d 440, 280 N.Y.S.2d 566, 227 N.E.2d 386, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1506 (N.Y. 1967).

This section, providing that an employee is entitled to notice of his proposed removal and the reasons therefor, and an opportunity to answer the same, means that there must be substance to the charges and that the explanation must be passed upon fairly and in good faith and not arbitrarily or from some ulterior motives. Application of Rox, 260 A.D. 260, 21 N.Y.S.2d 55, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4573 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 284 N.Y. 550, 32 N.E.2d 549, 284 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 550, 1940 N.Y. LEXIS 825 (N.Y. 1940).

A senior clerk stenographer was not entitled to a hearing under Civ S Law § 75 prior to inclusion of a letter in her personnel file which admonished her for insubordination. Tomaka v Evans-Brant Cent. School Dist., 107 A.D.2d 1078, 486 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 42900 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), aff'd, 65 N.Y.2d 1048, 494 N.Y.S.2d 697, 484 N.E.2d 1049, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16106 (N.Y. 1985).

Civil servant who was dismissed from job as school custodian engineer prior to expiration of his probationary period without notice of charges, statement of reasons, or hearing, was not entitled to name-clearing hearing, as there was no evidence of public disclosure of allegations affecting his good name or reputation. Bonacci v Quinones, 124 A.D.2d 659, 508 N.Y.S.2d 42, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 61959 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

County attorney was not entitled to name-clearing hearing where he failed to establish that his employer publicly disseminated charges against him. Testa v Valenza, 133 A.D.2d 540, 519 N.Y.S.2d 1012, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50039 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

County emergency services dispatchers were not improperly denied their right to hearing on issue of their removal for failure to acquire re-certification as emergency medical technicians, even though dispatchers were included in class of employees who were protected from being removed or disciplined without hearing, since, due to fact that dispatchers did not deny that their certification had lapsed, no factual issues existed, and thus hearing was not necessary. Naliboff v Davis, 133 A.D.2d 632, 519 N.Y.S.2d 740, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51672 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 805, 529 N.Y.S.2d 76, 524 N.E.2d 430, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 623 (N.Y. 1988).

Employee of Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority was not entitled to hearing on issue of whether he was, in fact, guilty of infractions for which he was terminated where, in exchange for having disciplinary charges dropped, he knowingly and voluntarily consented to be placed on probation for one-year period, during which time Authority had sole discretion to dismiss him "without the necessity of affording [employee] the right to a further hearing"; thus, it was error for Supreme Court to grant Article 78 petition to extent of remanding matter for hearing. Montiel v Kiley, 147 A.D.2d 402, 538 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1883 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989), aff'd, People v Vespucci, 75 N.Y.2d 434, 554 N.Y.S.2d 417, 553 N.E.2d 965, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 229 (N.Y. 1990).

It was not improper for Deputy Commissioner of Department of Transportation (DOT), on behalf of Commissioner of DOT, to determine that DOT employee was guilty of disciplinary charges brought against him and to impose punishment since, pursuant to CLS Trans § 16, Commissioner had ability to delegate his powers. Pelham v White, 166 A.D.2d 824, 563 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Proper termination of employment cannot be extended retroactively to cover prior period of termination annulled due to procedural failures. Ernst v Saratoga County, 251 A.D.2d 866, 674 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7332 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul termination of petitioner's employment with village, village and its mayor violated CLS Civ S § 75(2), which provides that hearing on charges preferred against employee "shall be held by the officer or body having the power to remove the person against whom such charges are preferred, or by a deputy or other person designated by such officer or body in writing for that purpose," where letter sent to petitioner informing him of date, time, and location of hearing and name of hearing officer was not requisite written delegation of authority. Pieczonka v Jewett, 273 A.D.2d 842, 709 N.Y.S.2d 302, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6835 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), reh'g denied, 715 N.Y.S.2d 206, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9575 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Workers' Compensation Board's termination of probationary civil service employment of claims referee without hearing was not in bad faith, unconstitutional, or otherwise improper where (1) board followed its established procedures by periodically advising referee of his progress, providing written evaluation at least 2 weeks before end of probationary period, and giving written notice at least one week before effective date of discharge, (2) bad faith was not shown by fact that earlier, more favorable progress reports were not furnished in writing before final, unfavorable written report, and (3) referee's dismissal was based on his inadequate understanding of workers' compensation law, his failure to respond to additional training to address that deficiency, and his improper conduct in requesting transportation from attorneys and posing inappropriate questions to witnesses. Scott v Workers' Compensation Bd., 275 A.D.2d 877, 713 N.Y.S.2d 571, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9473 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Petitioner's "reassignment" from permanent position of assigned driver to that of unassigned driver, which resulted in diminution in benefits, was form of demotion or discipline requiring compliance with CLS Civ S § 75 notwithstanding respondent's assertion that petitioner was placed on "Unassigned Bus Driver" status because she was unable to meet minimum qualifications of assigned driver position after she allegedly accepted another part-time job which resulted in her being "unavailable" to perform her regularly assigned bus routes on numerous occasions. Bailey v Susquehanna Valley Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 276 A.D.2d 963, 714 N.Y.S.2d 389, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10809 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Terminated school bus driver was entitled to hearing before his Article 78 proceeding could be dismissed, and case would be remitted for that purpose, where triable issue of fact existed as to whether he was exempt volunteer firefighter under CLS Civ S § 75(1)(b). Wamsley v E. Ramapo Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 281 A.D.2d 633, 723 N.Y.S.2d 53, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3049 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Probationary correction officer in county sheriff's department was entitled to hearing on issue of whether his discharge was unrelated to work performance, motivated by constitutionally impermissible purpose, or made in bad faith where (1) evaluation reports were conflicting as to whether his performance was "successful" or only "fair" and whether he had potential to develop into good correction officer, (2) he alleged that he was not afforded academy training as other newly hired correction officers were, that he was kept on midnight shift for first 10 months of his employment, and that he received no in-house training or guidance, and (3) termination of his employment for failure to meet standards when he had been denied training concerning those standards suggested lack of rational basis for termination. Higgins v La Paglia, 281 A.D.2d 679, 722 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2009 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 854, 729 N.Y.S.2d 669, 754 N.E.2d 772, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1460 (N.Y. 2001).

Petitioner adequately stated claim for violation of her rights under CLS Civ S § 75 and her due process rights, on ground that county improperly terminated her employment without hearing, where she alleged that (1) parties agreed that hearing on pending disciplinary charges would be held in abeyance while she applied for disability retirement, and that charges could be reinstated if she was not granted disability retirement, (2) after she applied for disability retirement, county terminated her employment based on her physician's diagnosis of permanent disability, and (3) her application for retirement was subsequently denied because she did not have requisite years of total service credit. White v County of Jefferson, 285 A.D.2d 964, 727 N.Y.S.2d 677, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6980 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Court annulled police commissioner's decision to terminate police officer's employment for using excessive force against prisoner and making false statement about incident where (1) hearing officer, in lauding credibility of allegedly beaten prisoner and 3 "corroborating" prisoner-witnesses, ignored facts that prisoner gave inconsistent stories to different people and prisoner-witnesses were not present in their cells when incident allegedly occurred, and (2) issues existed as to whether police officer's prior successful litigation to regain his position in unrelated matter was substantial or motivating factor in commissioner's decision to find him guilty of various charges and then terminate him. Buric v Safir, 285 A.D.2d 255, 736 N.Y.S.2d 342, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 458 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 688, 746 N.Y.S.2d 689, 774 N.E.2d 754, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1937 (N.Y. 2002).

While former N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 22(2) only required that a town provide a transcript of a hearing after an official or employee was found guilty, N.Y. Civ. Serv. § 75(3) removed that limitation; respondents, a town, a town board, and its officials, were therefore to required to reimburse petitioner for obtaining the transcript prior to issuance of a determination on charges against him. Matter of Canna v Town of Amherst, 28 A.D.3d 1254, 816 N.Y.S.2d 629, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5753 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2006).

Because there was no finding that an employee was medically incapable to perform her job functions, N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 72 was inapplicable to the employee's termination; a N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 hearing was proper to adjudicate incompetency charges based on the employee's excessive absences. The findings were supported by substantial evidence because, among other things, the employee never returned to work after her leave of absence ended, and she never informed her supervisor as to when she would return. Matter of Considine v Pirro, 38 A.D.3d 773, 832 N.Y.S.2d 620, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3725 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Ruling that a former employee was disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits was proper because, although the former employee did not appear at her N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 disciplinary hearing, she had the opportunity to be heard and witnesses were presented on the issue of her insubordination; therefore, the board properly accorded collateral estoppel effect to the hearing officer's relevant factual findings, and to the extent that the former employee implied that the hearing officer's factual findings were not properly adopted by the commissioner of the city's human resources administration, nothing in the record indicated that they were ever invalidated, overturned, or otherwise set aside. After the administrative law judge credited the factual findings, the board properly reached its own conclusion that the former employee's behavior amounted to misconduct disqualifying her from receiving unemployment insurance benefits. Matter of Agran v Commissioner of Labor, 54 A.D.3d 479, 863 N.Y.S.2d 295, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6386 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008).

Assistant fire chief was entitled to his regular compensation until the ruling on the disciplinary charges since the 30-day period for suspension without pay under this section had passed; however, the issue of compensation could not be definitively resolved until the record was developed on to whom the delay was attributable. Matter of Rea v City of Kingston, 110 A.D.3d 1227, 973 N.Y.S.2d 395, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6739 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

Part-time firefighter's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 petition seeking an order directing a village to reinstate him with back pay and benefits was in the nature of mandamus to compel inasmuch as he was entitled to a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, but no such hearing was held; although the firefighter allegedly lacked a qualification for his employment, a hearing was required as the missing qualification was not set forth in a rule, ordinance, or regulation, but was set forth in a collective bargaining agreement that applied only to full-time firefighters. Matter of Butkowski v Kiefer, 140 A.D.3d 1755, 34 N.Y.S.3d 312, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4687 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2016).

Civil service employee has an absolute right to a hearing on charges upon being terminated. Van Buskirk v Bleiler, 77 Misc. 2d 273, 354 N.Y.S.2d 93, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1122 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 46 A.D.2d 707, 360 N.Y.S.2d 88, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3866 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

Import of cases holding that a due process hearing is required prior to a non-final deprivation of property in absence of extraordinary circumstances has been limited to such an extent that focus of inquiry should now be on whether statutory procedures reasonably accommodate interests of all parties. Palermo v Eisenberg, 81 Misc. 2d 1014, 367 N.Y.S.2d 378, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2517 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

The salary of a police officer who is a permanent civil service appointee may not be suspended without an evidentiary hearing on the ground of the officer's failure to report for regular duty after he has been ceritified as physically able to work, pursuant to Gen Mun Law § 207-c, following a period of disability. Goglia v Sardino, 119 Misc. 2d 907, 464 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3613 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), aff'd, 101 A.D.2d 1013, 476 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18744 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1984).

Demoted county public works employee has no viable § 1983 procedural due process claim, even though he did not receive hearing generally required under Civ S § 75, where cause of demotion was prior promotion in violation of seniority provisions in collective bargaining agreement, because employee had no legitimate claim of entitlement to promotion. Ciambriello v County of Nassau, 137 F. Supp. 2d 216, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4281 (E.D.N.Y. 2001), aff'd in part, vacated in part, 292 F.3d 307, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 10722 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2002).

Former employee contended that her alleged constructive discharge violated the N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(1) because she was a covered civil service employee who was removed without being afforded a proper hearing; thus, the employee alleged facts sufficient to support this claim. Illiano v Mineola Union Free Sch. Dist., 585 F. Supp. 2d 341, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 91854 (E.D.N.Y. 2008).

8. Arbitration

Because the dismissals of two employees were plainly not disciplinary, but were for failure to meet qualifications of employment, the "reasonable relationship" test was not met; therefore, the employees were properly dismissed and not entitled to relief under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76 or N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 75. New York State Office of Children & Family Servs. v Lanterman, 14 N.Y.3d 275, 899 N.Y.S.2d 726, 926 N.E.2d 233, 2010 N.Y. LEXIS 48 (N.Y. 2010).

Submission to arbitration of disciplinary charges is contrary to both § 75 and to police department rules and regulations which state that resolution of disciplinary matters, except those warranting only minor penalties, must be in accordance with civil service rules and regulations. Niagara Falls Police Club, Inc. v Niagara Falls, 120 A.D.2d 963, 502 N.Y.S.2d 838, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 57062 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1986).

Arbitrator exceeded his authority, and his award would be vacated pursuant to CLS CPLR § 7511(b)(1)(iii), where arbitrator found that petitioner had violated collective bargaining agreement by imposing discipline without following procedure provided by CLS Civ S § 75, arbitrator reasoned that although agreement was silent as to discipline, provision on "fair working conditions" included, by virtue of past practice, compliance with § 75 in imposing discipline, but that provision was mere statement of purpose and did not by itself impose substantive obligations, and agreement contained neither express provision on discipline nor express provision allowing consideration of past practice. Canandaigua v Canandaigua Police Officers Ass'n, 174 A.D.2d 1048, 572 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9009 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1991).

Issues of whether police officer remained disabled under CLS Gen Mun § 207-c and whether collective bargaining agreement required arbitration before termination of his disability benefits were for arbitrator to decide, and thus judicial relief in Article 78 proceeding was not warranted, where (1) collective bargaining agreement provided that "if the [Union] and the Chief of Police fail to agree on an on-the-job injury or continuation of, then both sides agree to send the issue to grievance arbitration," and (2) neither that agreement nor due process required evidentiary hearing as condition precedent to arbitration or gave parties right to judicial review as alternative to arbitration. Gamma v Bloom, 274 A.D.2d 14, 711 N.Y.S.2d 464, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7859 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Confirmation of an arbitration award in an N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7510 proceeding was proper because the arbitrator correctly found that the decision to eliminate correction sergeants from the list of personnel who could take the exam for an assistant warden position ran afoul of the competitive process envisioned by the Civil Service Law and violated N.Y. Const. art. V, § 6; a county's personnel officer determinations were not immune from oversight or review. While N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 precluded removal of a person holding a position by permanent appointment in the competitive class except for cause, an employee may not have been removed when there was an illegality or irregularity in the examination process. Matter of Ulster County Sheriff's Empls. Assn., CWA Local 1105 (Ulster County Sheriff's Dept.), 100 A.D.3d 1327, 956 N.Y.S.2d 595, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8176 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012), app. denied, 20 N.Y.3d 859, 960 N.Y.S.2d 351, 984 N.E.2d 326, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 286 (N.Y. 2013).

9. Collective bargaining agreements

Collective bargaining agreement between New York City Transit Authority and bus drivers did not purport to alter or supersede CLS Civ S § 75(3) pertaining to suspension without pay pending hearing and determination of charges against permanent civil service employees. Gellman v Gunn, 143 A.D.2d 628, 533 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9497 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Arbitrator exceeded his authority, and his award would be vacated pursuant to CLS CPLR § 7511(b)(1)(iii), where arbitrator found that petitioner had violated collective bargaining agreement by imposing discipline without following procedure provided by CLS Civ S § 75, arbitrator reasoned that although agreement was silent as to discipline, provision on "fair working conditions" included, by virtue of past practice, compliance with § 75 in imposing discipline, but that provision was mere statement of purpose and did not by itself impose substantive obligations, and agreement contained neither express provision on discipline nor express provision allowing consideration of past practice. Canandaigua v Canandaigua Police Officers Ass'n, 174 A.D.2d 1048, 572 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9009 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1991).

School district did not impermissibly terminate school bus driver's employment without hearing in violation of CLS Civ S § 75, and thus court erred in annulling school district's determination to accept driver's "resignation," reinstating her to her position, and granting her back pay and benefits; district's acceptance of driver's constructive resignation, as provided by parties' collective bargaining agreement, was not disciplinary action as would entitle driver to prior notice or hearing. Barrera v Frontier Cent. Sch. Dist., 249 A.D.2d 927, 672 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5010 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Article 78 proceeding challenging city general services commissioner's ruling that petitioner was in violation of city code could not be transferred to Appellate Division where hearing was mandated by collective bargaining agreement and not by CLS Civ S § 75, and thus "arbitrary and capricious," rather than "substantial evidence," standard applied. Pierino v Brown, 281 A.D.2d 960, 722 N.Y.S.2d 845, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2917 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Because the exclusionary language of the parties' collective bargaining agreement relegated them to the N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 procedure for reviewing an employee's alleged misconduct rather than the grievance/arbitration procedures provided by the agreement, the trial court properly dismissed the union's N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7503 application to compel arbitration. Matter of Oxford Empl. Support Personnel Assn. (Oxford Academy & Cent. School Dist.), 40 A.D.3d 1297, 836 N.Y.S.2d 355, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6058 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 9 N.Y.3d 807, 843 N.Y.S.2d 536, 875 N.E.2d 29, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 2659 (N.Y. 2007).

Union was not entitled to arbitration of a dispute concerning a village's selection of disciplinary hearing officer because no reasonable relationship existed between the parties' collective bargaining agreement (CBA) and their dispute regarding the selection of a hearing officer and thus the CBA did not modify the village's N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) power to designate a hearing officer. Matter of Johnson City Professional Fire Fighters Local 921 v Village of Johnson City, 75 A.D.3d 805, 906 N.Y.S.2d 343, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5909 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Public Employment Relations Board erred under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7803(3) when it held that police disciplinary matters involving honorably discharged veterans and volunteer firefighters were an exception to the prohibition against bargaining for those subjects in a collective bargaining agreement, as the provisions regarding police discipline were enacted in the city charter prior to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75 and 76, such that they were preserved under § 76(4). Matter of City of Middletown v City of Middletown Police Benevolent Assn., 81 A.D.3d 1238, 917 N.Y.S.2d 389, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1358 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

School district's petition for a permanent stay of arbitration with respect to a grievance arising from its termination of an employee was properly dismissed because the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement did not violate public policy or provisions of the Civil Service Law. Matter of Kenmore-Town of Tonawanda Union Free Sch. Dist. (Ken-Ton Sch. Empls. Assn.),

110 A.D.3d 1494, 974 N.Y.S.2d 679, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6452 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2013).

Trial court's judgment annulling the determination of the city's collective bargaining board (board), which compelled the city to disclose certain materials requested by a nurses association in connection with employee disciplinary proceedings was reversed because the board's decision could not be said to have been taken without sound basis in reason since the collective bargaining agreement granted the union a right to limited information in the context of disciplinary proceedings. Matter of City of New York v New York State Nurses Assn., 130 A.D.3d 28, 10 N.Y.S.3d 78, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4360 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015), aff'd, 29 N.Y.3d 546, 82 N.E.3d 441, 60 N.Y.S.3d 100, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 2017).

Town improperly denied a police officer's request to arbitrate a disciplinary grievance pursuant to the terms of a collective bargaining agreement between the town and the officer's union, as such was authorized by the Taylor Law, N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2), and that procedure was not precluded by N.Y. Town Law § 155. Elias v Town of Crawford, 840 N.Y.S.2d 705, 17 Misc. 3d 176, 2007 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5086 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007).

10. Delays in hearings

If delay in discharge of permanent civil service city employee for misconduct was occasioned by his fault, he cannot be heard to complain nor be allowed recompense for the period in excess of 30 days. In ordinary situation, there is no burden upon suspended city employee to press for hearing on disciplinary charges, but if he makes attempt to impede administrative process for any significant period, as result of which prompt determination as statutorily intended has been prevented, he should be deemed to have abandoned both his position and any claim to back pay. Gerber v New York City Housing Authority, 42 N.Y.2d 162, 397 N.Y.S.2d 608, 366 N.E.2d 268, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2165 (N.Y. 1977).

Where delay in holding hearing which eventually resulted in discharge of village police department employee was due exclusively to employee's conduct in procuring repeated stays in his attempt to permanently enjoin hearing, employee was in no position to invoke statutory 30-day limit for suspension pending hearing. Brockman v Dordelman, 48 A.D.2d 670, 367 N.Y.S.2d 566, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9687 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Article 78 proceeding brought by former deputy sheriff seeking to compel sheriff to hold hearing with respect to deputy's suspension, was in nature of mandamus, and was not barred by applicable four-month statute of limitations, in view of fact that deputy's initial demand of sheriff for hearing was timely, and Article 78 proceeding was commenced one month after sheriff's refusal of such demand. Durham v Amico, 52 A.D.2d 724, 382 N.Y.S.2d 169, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12417 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Reviewing court would modify determination, which dismissed civil servant from his position, to add provision directing former employer to pay employee his salary for period beginning 30 days after commencement of his suspension and continuing until date of his dismissal less amount of compensation from other employment, since even if employee has been found guilty and later dismissed, employee is entitled, pursuant to Civ S Law § 75(3) to receive his full salary for any period of suspension in excess of $30 less sums earned elsewhere, especially in that no evidence existed that petitioner caused delay or contributed thereto. Horton v Kammerer, 84 A.D.2d 841, 444 N.Y.S.2d 176, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16079 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

A civil service employee would be entitled to back pay for the period beginning 30 days after his suspension until the date of the determination following the new hearing to which the employee was entitled, since Civ S Law § 75(3) permits suspension of an employee without pay for a period not to exceed 30 days. Chopay v Oyster Bay, 99 A.D.2d 810, 472 N.Y.S.2d 139, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17199 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

City firefighter discharged for misconduct was entitled to summary judgment in action seeking back pay and benefits due under CLS Civ S § 75 for period beginning 30 days from date of his initial suspension through date of his eventual dismissal since statute provides that civil service employee charged with misconduct may generally be suspended without pay for period not exceeding 30 days, and employee may be found to have waived his statutory claim only where he evaded service to delay hearing, requested repeated stays of hearing, or requested postponement of hearing, none of which occurred here. Hansen v Gloversville, 134 A.D.2d 657, 521 N.Y.S.2d 169, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50875 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

New York City Transit Authority bus operator was entitled to back pay for period beginning 30 days after his suspension and continuing until his subsequent dismissal, notwithstanding that his suspension was imposed pursuant to parties' collective bargaining agreement, since that agreement did not purport to alter or supersede CLS Civ S § 75(3) as to suspension without pay pending hearing and determination of charges against permanent civil service employees. Phifer v Gunn, 143 A.D.2d 992, 533 N.Y.S.2d 898, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10782 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 608, 545 N.Y.S.2d 104, 543 N.E.2d 747, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2363 (N.Y. 1989).

City school district worker with permanent civil service status, who was dismissed for various instances of unauthorized tardiness and absence from work, was improperly denied back pay for period of delay in imposition of dismissal sanction from date of hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, during which period he remained under suspension without pay. Diehsner v Schenectady City School Dist., 152 A.D.2d 796, 543 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9328 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

City employees who were discharged for misconduct were entitled to recover their wages for period of delay in disciplinary proceeding that was attributable to their attorneys, who were engaged in hearing and deposition; activities of counsel for accused cannot be attributed to accused. Dunning v City of Newburgh, 210 A.D.2d 404, 620 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12841 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Employee's right to be restored to payroll after 30 days of suspension was subject governed by collective bargaining agreement, not CLS Civ S § 75, where agreement stated that disciplinary grievance procedure "shall be in lieu of any other disciplinary procedure that may have previously applied to an employee covered by this Agreement including but not limited to the procedure specified in" CLS Civ S §§ 75 and 76. Robinson v New York City Transit Auth., 226 A.D.2d 467, 641 N.Y.S.2d 55, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3538 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Petitioner was entitled to mandamus relief to compel town to pay him his salary for period beginning 30 days after commencement of his suspension until final determination of charges against him where town did not dispute that petitioner's suspension without pay extended beyond permissible 30-day period of CLS Civ S § 75(2), and delay in bringing matter to hearing was not attributable to any bad-faith conduct on his part. DiMattina v Town of Huntington, 233 A.D.2d 393, 650 N.Y.S.2d 744, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11559 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Lapse of 3 months between administrative hearing, in which police officer was found guilty of violating departmental rules, and police commissioner's decision imposing penalties did not warrant vacatur of decision, even though collective bargaining agreement contained 60-day time limitation, where agreement did not contain specific language barring further action after 60 days, and there was no prejudice to officer. Covino v Kane, 273 A.D.2d 380, 710 N.Y.S.2d 600, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7136 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 701, 722 N.Y.S.2d 793, 745 N.E.2d 1015, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 29 (N.Y. 2001).

Where the employee commenced a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding more than two years after the employee was suspended without a hearing for more than 30 days allegedly in violation of N.Y. Village Law § 8-804 and N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, the proceeding was untimely under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 217, and the action was properly dismissed under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7804(f); the four-month statute of limitations began to run 30 days after the suspension without a hearing became effective, and the employee's demand for a hearing did not toll the statute of limitations, nor did the actions taken by the Village of Red Hook in conducting a hearing to consider the charges against the employee. Matter of Rapoli v Village of Red Hook, 29 A.D.3d 1007, 815 N.Y.S.2d 722, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7168 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Although an employee sought a brief adjournment of the original hearing date, the employee did not openly and knowingly agree to waive all rights to back pay or to a timely resolution; therefore, the town could not delay the hearing for an indefinite period without paying the employee backpay under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(3). Nabors v Town of Somers, 72 A.D.3d 769, 900 N.Y.S.2d 92, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3053 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

If delay in disciplinary proceedings against civil servant is occasioned by conduct of accused, he cannot justly be heard to complain nor be allowed a recompense for period involved. Shales v Rochester, 91 Misc. 2d 195, 397 N.Y.S.2d 566, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Transit authority employee is entitled to judgment for lost net wages for 26 day period in excess of 30 day suspension period without pay permitted by Civil Service Law § 75(3) even though employee invoked contractual grievance procedure prior to departmental trial of misconduct charges, as such action cannot be read as waiver of statutory 30 day limitation. Sanders v New York City Transit Authority, 130 Misc. 2d 719, 497 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3266 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1985), aff'd, 135 Misc. 2d 688, 517 N.Y.S.2d 854, 1987 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2290 (N.Y. App. Term 1987).

Supreme court erred in reinstating a state trooper with back pay based on a suspension that exceeded the 30-day time limit in N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(3). The trooper had precipitated the delay in his disciplinary hearing beyond 30 days by improperly refusing to authorize the release of certain medical records, and therefore, he was not entitled to back pay for the period of time between the expiration of the 30-day time limit and his eventual termination. Matter of Skrypek v Bennett, 31 A.D.3d 827, 817 N.Y.S.2d 452, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8637 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), rev'd, 7 N.Y.3d 919, 829 N.Y.S.2d 448, 861 N.E.2d 812, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 3749 (N.Y. 2006).

Because there was an exception to the statute of limitations in Civil Service Law § 75 if an officer allegedly committed misconduct constituting a crime, New York City Civilian Complaint Review Board (CCRB) Revised Rule 1-15(a) was rational in that it allowed the CCRB to investigate a late complaint to determine whether the alleged misconduct constituted a crime. It was irrelevant that the CCRB could not investigate complaints of criminal conduct. Lynch v New York City Civilian Complaint Review Bd., 98 N.Y.S.3d 695, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1405 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019).

11. —Criminal charges involved

Hearing officer, after granting 3 adjournments, did not violate employee's due process rights in proceeding with disciplinary proceeding in employee's absence while employee was in custody of Department of Mental Hygiene after having been found not responsible for stabbing death of his wife by reason of mental disease or defect, since employee's termination was based on same conduct that had been fully explored and established beyond reasonable doubt in criminal proceeding, and employee, although given opportunity to reopen hearing, never suggested what exculpatory evidence he might adduce if he were allowed to appear at hearing. Rao v Gunn, 73 N.Y.2d 759, 536 N.Y.S.2d 47, 532 N.E.2d 1275, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 3360 (N.Y. 1988).

Where petitioner was suspended without pay on March 7, 1957, pending a hearing on charges of public intoxication, driving while intoxicated, striking an officer, etc., and his counsel requested a further 30-day leave of absence without pay and the withholding of formal filing of charges, then an extension of time to prepare for hearing and a change of venue which was agreed to if petitioner would take an additional leave of absence without pay, which petitioner refused to do, delay in the receipt of formal charges was attributable to petitioner or his attorney and the Commissioner was acting in manner warranted by the circumstances in proceeding with the hearing, sustaining the charges, and dismissing petitioner from his position as a game protector notwithstanding refusal of petitioner or his counsel to participate. Perry v Mauhs, 14 A.D.2d 624, 218 N.Y.S.2d 297, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9399 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 10 N.Y.2d 886, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 2304 (N.Y. 1961).

Since acts involved in administrative disciplinary hearing would constitute crime of endangering welfare of an incompetent person, even though the civil servant was acquitted on such criminal charges, fact that the administrative charges were preferred more than one year after the incident did not bar disciplinary proceeding. Scales v Maxwell, 52 A.D.2d 719, 382 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12410 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

City firefighter, who was dismissed, in part, for failing to inform his superiors of earlier Florida criminal proceeding in which he pleaded nolo contendere to charge of driving while intoxicated, was estopped from asserting 18-month limitations period of CLS Civ Serv § 75(4) since it was his own wrongful concealment of incident which caused delay in administrative charge, and city commissioner of public safety promptly lodged charge on becoming aware of Florida prosecution. Longo v Dolce, 192 A.D.2d 157, 600 N.Y.S.2d 962, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7665 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 836, 606 N.Y.S.2d 589, 627 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4312 (N.Y. 1993).

Disciplinary proceeding with respect to fraud-related charges was not time-barred under CLS Civ S § 75(4) where facts alleged would, if proved in court, constitute larceny by false promise under CLS Penal § 155.05(2). Folborg v Bratton, 227 A.D.2d 108, 641 N.Y.S.2d 656, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 812, 649 N.Y.S.2d 379, 672 N.E.2d 605, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 2964 (N.Y. 1996).

Charge specifying "unauthorized exercise of (police officer's) official functions," in violation of New York City Police Department Patrol Guide's prohibition against "conduct prejudicial to good order, efficiency or discipline of the department," was not barred by 18-month Statute of Limitations in CLS Civ S § 75(4) since misconduct charged also constituted crime of official misconduct under CLS Penal § 195.00(1), which is expressly excluded from time bar of CLS Civ S § 75(4). Mieles v Safir, 272 A.D.2d 199, 707 N.Y.S.2d 437, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5660 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Hearing officer properly found that the charge against a building inspector was not time-barred because if proven, the allegations would constitute crimes. Matter of Snowden v Village of Monticello, 166 A.D.3d 1451, 89 N.Y.S.3d 366, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

Where hearing on suspension of police officer for alleged misconduct was delayed until disposition of criminal charges against him at request of police officer's own counsel, city was not responsible for delay and, lacking such responsibility, would not be forced to assume risk of liability for back pay. Shales v Rochester, 91 Misc. 2d 195, 397 N.Y.S.2d 566, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

12. Effect of provisions imposing automatic sanctions or presumptions based on specified conduct

The provisions of this section against removal of persons in Classified Civil Service except after hearing upon stated charges are violated by a rule adopted by the State Civil Service Commission under § 6 making unexplained absence without leave for ten work days constitute an employee's resignation. Civil service regulation providing: "When an employee is absent without leave and without an explanation therefor for a period of 10 work days, such absence shall be deemed to constitute a resignation effective on the date of the commencement of such absence," was inconsistent with Civil Service Law requirement of notice prior to termination and was therefore invalid. Johnson v Director, Downstate Medical Center, State University of New York, 41 N.Y.2d 1061, 396 N.Y.S.2d 172, 364 N.E.2d 837, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2060 (N.Y. 1977).

The decision in Johnson v Director, Downstate Medical Center, State University of New York (1977) 41 NY2d 1061, 396 NYS2d 172, 364 NE2d 837, invalidating a rule of the State Department of Civil Service (4 NYCRR 5.3 [d]), which provided that an employee was deemed to have resigned his position when he was absent without leave and without an explanation for a period in excess of 10 working days, does not hold that an unexplained absence may not be grounds for dismissal of an employee; the thrust of that decision is that the full panoply of procedural due process required by section 75 of the Civil Service Law may not be circumvented by an administrative rule creating an irrebuttable presumption of resignation. McGirr v Division of Veterans Affairs, Executive Dep't, 43 N.Y.2d 635, 403 N.Y.S.2d 212, 374 N.E.2d 123, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1781 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 439 U.S. 826, 99 S. Ct. 97, 58 L. Ed. 2d 119, 1978 U.S. LEXIS 2641 (U.S. 1978).

Criminal trespass is not sort of misdemeanor that can be construed facially as crime "involving violation of [the] oath of office" for purposes of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e), and thus police officer convicted of second degree criminal trespass was entitled to hearing rather than summary dismissal from office, since lack of moral integrity is not implicit in elements of offense. Duffy v Ward, 81 N.Y.2d 127, 596 N.Y.S.2d 746, 612 N.E.2d 1213, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 635 (N.Y. 1993).

Competitive permanent employee, who was terminated by industrial commissioner pursuant to invalid rule providing that classified civil service employee who is absent without leave and without explanation for period of ten working days shall be deemed to have automatically resigned, was, in accordance with policy adopted by state of reinstating all tenured civil service employees terminated pursuant to invalid rule, entitled to reinstatement with back pay as of date of her "resignation" under invalid rule. Bernstein v Industrial Comm'r of New York, 59 A.D.2d 678, 398 N.Y.S.2d 437, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13611 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1977).

Employees protected under section 75 of the Civil Service Law may not be deprived of their section 75 rights by rules establishing that certain acts of misconduct during employment result in automatic sanctions. Mandelkern v Buffalo, 64 A.D.2d 279, 409 N.Y.S.2d 881, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12254 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978).

County Department of Public Works was not entitled to terminate sewage treatment plant operator without hearing where previous disciplinary charges against operator had resulted in stipulation in which he agreed to be placed on probation for 6 months and to be terminated without another hearing if, during probationary period, his job performance was adversely affected by his consumption of alcohol, but Department then terminated him for sleeping on job and "failing to give a fair day's work"; notice of infraction, letter of termination, and testimony of individuals involved all established that operator was terminated for reasons other than his consumption of alcohol, and thus stipulation permitting dismissal without hearing was inapplicable. Taylor v Cass, 122 A.D.2d 885, 505 N.Y.S.2d 929, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 59370 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Petitioner's employment as correction officer was properly terminated under automatic vacatur provision of CLS Pub O § 30 on his conviction of federal felony of mail fraud (18 USCS § 1341). Graham v Coughlin, 135 A.D.2d 1014, 522 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52893 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), aff'd, 72 N.Y.2d 1014, 534 N.Y.S.2d 919, 531 N.E.2d 640, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2703 (N.Y. 1988).

Police officer, who lost his position automatically under CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e) following his conviction of second degree menacing, was not entitled to pretermination hearing pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75. Segars v City of Buffalo, 237 A.D.2d 910, 654 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3505 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), app. denied, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6453 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't May 30, 1997).

Town policy of terminating employee who tested positive for drug or alcohol use twice within 10-year period was not unconstitutional or violative of CLS Civ S § 75 by virtue of creating irrebuttable presumption of guilt without affording employee due process hearing, since town had negotiated with employee's union to enact policy, and employee received copy of it and agreed to its terms by signing it; termination was not arbitrary, capricious or unlawful. Grippo v Martin, 257 A.D.2d 952, 686 N.Y.S.2d 118, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 734 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Where one sentence of civil service rule provided for summary dismissal of both permanent and probationary civil service employees, but remainder of lengthy rule dealt entirely with probationary employees, rule did not apply to permanent employee so as to permit summary dismissal. Cornwall v Baxter, 46 Misc. 2d 769, 260 N.Y.S.2d 909, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1612 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964), modified, 23 A.D.2d 815, 258 N.Y.S.2d 569, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4499 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1965).

Because defendants, the department of corrections and its commissioner, and the city, did not invoke N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) until over two years after plaintiff former corrections officer's conviction for third degree sexual abuse, and instead elected a disciplinary process under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, provided counseling, and then engaged in a lengthy negotiation process, defendants indicated that the offense was insufficient for automatic termination under § 30(1)(e), and that a factual hearing would be necessary; once deciding that the offense did not fall under the purview of § 30(1)(e) and that disciplinary proceedings would be more appropriate, defendants could not later seek to revoke that determination in order to avoid the procedural requirements of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(1), and thus defendant's motion to dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) was denied. Whitfield v Fraser, 272 F. Supp. 2d 340, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12292 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

13. Hearings open to press and public

When a state or a subdivision thereof conducts a hearing which may result in deprivation of employment or in the imposition of a fine or other monetary penalty, affected employee is entitled to procedural due process; such procedural due process requires that the hearing be open to the press and the public when the employee so requests. While valid reasons may sometimes exist for denying an employee's request for an open or public hearing on charges of misconduct, where no reasons were set forth for denying employee's request for public hearing on charge that he neglected duty by allowing fire engine to be driven carelessly in violation of city fire department rules and where employee faced possible suspension, demotion, dismissal or monetary fine if he was found guilty of charge, denial of employee's request for public hearing violated his right to due process of law. Mosher v Hanley, 56 A.D.2d 141, 391 N.Y.S.2d 753, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10032 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Determination that state trooper violated CLS Penal § 175.30 by filing false registration form for firearms was supported by his own admission that, although he acquired firearms in June 1986, he falsely indicated on registration form that he acquired them in March 1987; despite his argument that that falsity was insignificant detail of his request under amnesty program, intent to defraud is not element of second degree offering false instrument for filing. Hricik v McMahon, 247 A.D.2d 935, 668 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1320 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Employment has been held to be "property" within meaning of due process clause of the Constitution, and where the state conducts a hearing which may result in deprivation of employment, the affected employee is entitled to due process of law, which further requires that hearing be open to press and public. Thus, civil service hearing officer exceeded jurisdiction in excluding public from hearing which could result in termination of employment in the absence of findings of exceptional circumstances justifying such exclusion. Randall v Toll, 74 Misc. 2d 315, 344 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2013 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

A newspaper publisher and two reporters would be denied access to "use of force" forms filed in the internal investigation unit of the city police department, which forms are used to evaluate an officer's performance, and excessive force and harassment complaints filed against the county sheriff's department personnel, which are part of personnel records used for disciplinary purposes, since these records were not "relevant and material" in a proceeding brought to require compliance with the Freedom of Information Law, falling within the scope of Civ R Law § 50-a which exempts police personnel records from the Freedom of Information Law. Gannett Co. v James, 108 Misc. 2d 862, 438 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2304 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981), aff'd, 86 A.D.2d 744, 447 N.Y.S.2d 781, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15305 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

14. Immunity

Substantial evidence supported Commissioner of Transportation's determination that civil servant willfully refused to answer questions at misconduct hearing regarding performance of his official duties, notwithstanding his claim that he acted on counsel's advice, where he invoked his privilege against self-incrimination and refused to respond to questions or to produce work-related diary, even though he was automatically entitled to use immunity. Civil servant's dismissal for insubordination for refusing to answer questions at hearing on misconduct charges did not violate fundamental fairness or his privilege against self-incrimination, even though he was not explicitly advised that his constitutional right to immunity attached automatically by operation of law or that his answers would not be used against him in criminal prosecution, since hearing was civil proceeding convened to investigate disciplinary charges of work-related misconduct, he was not requested to waive privilege against self-incrimination, only sanction he faced was dismissal for refusal to testify, and he was assisted by counsel at hearing. Matt v Larocca, 71 N.Y.2d 154, 524 N.Y.S.2d 180, 518 N.E.2d 1172, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19884 (N.Y. 1987), cert. denied, 486 U.S. 1007, 108 S. Ct. 1734, 100 L. Ed. 2d 197, 1988 U.S. LEXIS 2267 (U.S. 1988).

15. Jury trials

Special Term erred in removing from the Jury to the Nonjury Trial Calendar a proceeding by petitioner challenging the termination of his public employment, since petitioner, as a provisional employee at the time of his discharge, was not entitled to a hearing in connection therewith, and any attempt to challenge his discharge would be in the nature of mandamus to review, and since petitioner seeking Article 78 relief in the nature of mandamus to review is entitled to a trial by jury. Preddice v Callanan, 96 A.D.2d 613, 464 N.Y.S.2d 598, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19157 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

A petition by a civil service employee alleging that his position was abolished in violation of his right to permanent employment and the prohibitions contained in this section against removal except as herein provided was sufficient to require a jury trial on the issue of whether abolition of the position was in good faith. Seidel v Gaynor, 26 Misc. 2d 140, 205 N.Y.S.2d 27, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2488 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Where there are conflicting allegations as to the good faith of the appointing officer in discharging a civil service employee at the end of his probationary period, an issue of fact is raised requiring a jury trial. Polsenski v Montgomery, 71 N.Y.S.2d 386, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2563 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947), app. dismissed, 87 N.Y.S.2d 438 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

16. Nature of hearing; adequacy

An interview of petitioner, a war veteran lawfully appointed to a city civil service position, with the secretary of the municipal civil service commission, in which, it is alleged, the petitioner admitted that he had misstated his educational qualifications, does not constitute the kind of hearing to which he was entitled before he could be removed. Wolff v Hodson, 285 N.Y. 197, 33 N.E.2d 90, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 197, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1518 (N.Y. 1941).

Where discharged employee seeks only expungement of stigmatizing material in his personnel file, not reinstatement or damages, likelihood of dissemination is sufficient to trigger right to name-clearing hearing; actual dissemination is not essential. Swinton v Safir, 93 N.Y.2d 758, 697 N.Y.S.2d 869, 720 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3433 (N.Y. 1999).

Where police officer received written notice of his alleged misconduct, was advised that he could be represented by counsel, and was allowed to testify, to produce witnesses, and to cross-examine witnesses, record was developed which assured meaningful judicial review of charges of misconduct against police officer, and such officer was not discharged from employment without due process of law. Marsh v Hanley, 50 A.D.2d 687, 375 N.Y.S.2d 409, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12530 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Associate personnel administrator of developmental center, facility of Department of Mental Hygiene, was not accorded fair hearing in connection with determination by director of center finding him guilty of charges of misconduct and incompetence where it was admitted that there was contact by communication, between hearing officer and individual prosecuting the charges, which occurred after hearing was concluded and prior to making determination under review and where such communications, included discussions concerning evidence which had been adduced at hearing and certain additional information or evidence sought by hearing officer on disputed issue. Avery v Rechter, 56 A.D.2d 963, 392 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11372 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Civil servant's constitutional rights were violated by termination hearing pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75 where he was given notice of charges against him and of his right to be heard, but at time of hearing he was involuntarily committed to custody of State Commissioner of Mental Hygiene who denied him permission to attend hearing, and hearing nevertheless proceeded in his absence. Rao v Gunn, 121 A.D.2d 618, 503 N.Y.S.2d 646, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58602 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 853, 523 N.Y.S.2d 492, 518 N.E.2d 4, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19063 (N.Y. 1987), rev'd, 73 N.Y.2d 759, 536 N.Y.S.2d 47, 532 N.E.2d 1275, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 3360 (N.Y. 1988).

In civil service disciplinary proceeding, prosecutor's private consultation with witness during brief break in cross-examination was highly improper but did not deprive petitioner of fair hearing since review of testimony did not indicate that witness was in any way affected by such action. Wayering v County of St. Lawrence, 140 A.D.2d 838, 528 N.Y.S.2d 223, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5034 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

In disciplinary proceeding against site manager for town landfill and recycling center, separate penalty phase of hearing was not required where (1) parties stipulated that manager had no prior disciplinary matters in his record, and parties were put on notice that separate penalty hearing might not be held in light of such stipulation, (2) manager never sought separate penalty hearing, (3) hearing officer gave manager post-hearing opportunity to submit additional materials, and (4) manager did not claim that something favorable in his record was not considered by hearing officer. Finigan v Lent, 189 A.D.2d 935, 592 N.Y.S.2d 818, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 82 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 81 N.Y.2d 1067, 601 N.Y.S.2d 583, 619 N.E.2d 661, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1754 (N.Y. 1993), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 657, 604 N.Y.S.2d 47, 624 N.E.2d 177, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3294 (N.Y. 1993).

In employer's disciplinary proceeding against correction officer, due process was not violated by refusal to grant further adjournment where correction officer failed to appear on first 2 hearing dates, his absence could not be explained by his attorney, and there was no indication that he would appear at later hearing if adjournment were granted. Jackman v Schembri, 222 A.D.2d 293, 635 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12865 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 807, 647 N.Y.S.2d 164, 670 N.E.2d 448, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1596 (N.Y. 1996).

Teacher's aide's allegations of due process errors in connection with his termination would be rejected since CLS Civ S § 75 hearing accorded him same opportunities that would have been provided by school district's adherence to its sexual harassment policies and resultant investigation. Burkes v Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 257 A.D.2d 891, 684 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 506 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Court erred in granting plaintiff name-clearing hearing, even if defamatory statements were made about him in investigator's report, where plaintiff had been retired for 2 years when stigmatizing allegations were made, and he was not fired, suspended, or demoted. Aquilone v City of New York, 262 A.D.2d 13, 690 N.Y.S.2d 558, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6176 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 819, 697 N.Y.S.2d 566, 719 N.E.2d 927, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2958 (N.Y. 1999).

City correction officers were not entitled to pretermination hearing where they necessarily admitted in connection with their guilty pleas that "with intent to evade any tax imposed under ... (an) income or earnings tax statute, or any requirement thereof or any lawful requirement of the tax commission thereunder," they either "fail(ed) to make, render, sign, certify or file any return, or to supply any information within the time required by or under the provisions of such article or any such statute," or "with like intent, (did) supply any false or fraudulent information" (CLS Tax § 1801(a)), their public offices were vacated automatically on conviction, misdemeanors of which they were convicted having involved willful deceit or calculated disregard for honest dealings. Bowman v Kerik, 271 A.D.2d 225, 706 N.Y.S.2d 327, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3838 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

County social services department's termination of caseworker's employment was violation of lawful procedure where commissioner who reviewed hearing officer's report and made final termination decision also preferred charges, selected hearing officer, and testified at hearing, and thus was disqualified from acting on those charges; case would be remitted to department for de novo determination by person who was not involved in original hearing. Trahan v Jefferson County Dep't of Soc. Servs., 281 A.D.2d 984, 722 N.Y.S.2d 682, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2913 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 732 N.Y.S.2d 622, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10707 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 610, 740 N.Y.S.2d 694, 767 N.E.2d 151, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 174 (N.Y. 2002).

Petitioner was entitled to name-clearing hearing where he sufficiently raised issues of partial falsity and overall characterization of information included in his personnel file, dissemination of such information, both past and future, as well as presence of "stigma plus" (governmental defamatory action in conjunction with loss of employment). Umlauf v Safir, 286 A.D.2d 267, 730 N.Y.S.2d 218, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8139 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Even if the officers were correct in their contention that Civil Service Law § 75(2) applied, they nonetheless lacked standing because they had not demonstrated that the Division of State Police's policy of not allowing counsel at a critical incident investigation, as presently configured, was reasonably certain to result in disciplinary charges being brought against a member based on statements given during the initial critical incident inquiry. Police Benevolent Assn. of N.Y. State Troopers, Inc. v Division of N.Y. State Police, 43 A.D.3d 125, 840 N.Y.S.2d 828, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8725 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007), aff'd, 11 N.Y.3d 96, 863 N.Y.S.2d 387, 893 N.E.2d 803, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1930 (N.Y. 2008), app. dismissed, 10 N.Y.3d 952, 862 N.Y.S.2d 464, 892 N.E.2d 858, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 2165 (N.Y. 2008).

Although subd. 2 of this section provides that in case a deputy is designated to hold a hearing he shall make a "record" of the hearing to be referred to the Commissioner for review, there is no mandate that the Commissioner have before him a copy of the transcript of stenographic minutes before making his ultimate determination, and it is sufficient if the decision reached is a "considered" one on the basis of conferences with the hearing officer, study of such officer's report, and being well advised as to the facts. Warmack v Jacobs, 29 Misc. 2d 957, 213 N.Y.S.2d 683, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3238 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Findings adverse to a war veteran civil service employee resulting from his failure to appear at a hearing on charges against him will be set aside where it appears that he was present at his usual employment on the day of the hearing in the building occupied by the supervisory officer making the charges in an office adjoining that of such supervisory officer and connected therewith by a common door which was kept open, and no effort was made to call him to the hearing. Resler v Malone, 52 N.Y.S.2d 457, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2736 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

17. —Medical hearings

Where petitioner had successfully served his one-year probationary period as a patrolman prior to discharge on ground of discovery of petitioner's history of mental illness, a matter which had been set forth in application to join force, and there was nothing in record to cast shadow on his ability to perform as police officer except the report of police surgeon, the circumstances mandated holding of plenary hearing in the interest of justice. McShane v City Civil Service Com., 51 A.D.2d 521, 378 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10723 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Where permanent civil service employee had been granted leave of absence from his duties with pay, and doctor who conducted physical examination of employee before employee's return to duty informed employer that employee was not physically able to resume full duties of his position, but employee submitted statements from three other physicians indicating that he was able to return to duty without limitation, due process required that employee be given full adversary hearing on question of his physical disability, forum in which to offer his medical proof, and determination made thereof that could be reviewed on question of substantial evidence offered. Cooperman v Commissioner, Dep't of Correctional Services, 86 Misc. 2d 610, 382 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2494 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 57 A.D.2d 989, 394 N.Y.S.2d 324, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12281 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Notwithstanding his failure to exhaust administrative remedies, petitioner, a retired State employee on ordinary disability retirement, who was offered the alternative of either a disability retirement or dismissal but mistakenly filed for ordinary disability retirement and then failed to timely file for reconsideration of the decision to grant him ordinary disability retirement because he was not fully informed of the legal effect of his filing an application for ordinary disability retirement, is entitled to a hearing to first demonstrate that his health has improved sufficiently to remove him from ordinary disability retirement and put him back to work (Retirement and Social Security Law, § 74, subd d) before gaining the right to a disciplinary hearing (Civil Service Law, § 75); the withdrawal of petitioner's original timely request for a hearing by his counsel based upon faulty advice given by an attorney of the Employee's Retirement System, is a nullity and does not prevent petitioner from seeking reinstatement and back pay. Hamill v Melton, 98 Misc. 2d 334, 413 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2076 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

18. Notice of charges

A civil service employee may not be removed without compliance with statute requiring specific written charges of misconduct. Crosson v Golar, 45 A.D.2d 474, 359 N.Y.S.2d 301, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4089 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Statutory right to fair hearing and due process require, among other things, that party whose rights are being determined be fully apprised of claims or charges by opposing party. Bateman v Ogdensburg, 55 A.D.2d 781, 389 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15572 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Under section of Civil Service Law requiring that person suspected of misconduct be presented with stated charges, person suspected of misconduct must be sufficiently apprised of charges against him so as to enable him to prepare his defense; appropriate standard in determining whether charges are sufficiently specific is whether they are detailed enough to allow person charged to present a defense. Pachucki v Walters, 56 A.D.2d 677, 391 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10831 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Civil Service Law does not require absolute specificity of charge of incompetence. Fitzgerald v Libous, 56 A.D.2d 981, 393 N.Y.S.2d 122, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11394 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977), aff'd, 44 N.Y.2d 660, 405 N.Y.S.2d 32, 376 N.E.2d 192, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1883 (N.Y. 1978).

In Article 78 proceeding, court erred in ordering reinstatement of state employee on ground that his employer originally terminated him after sending notices of possible termination to out-of-date address, since employer thereafter wrote to him at correct address and gave him opportunity to submit facts and explanations on appeal, and appeal hearing was held at which he and others submitted written materials and made presentations; result of appeal was that earlier termination was essentially transformed into suspension with pay and employee was terminated as of date shortly after appeal hearing. Richie v Coughlin, 148 A.D.2d 178, 544 N.Y.S.2d 230, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10295 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 75 N.Y.2d 765, 551 N.Y.S.2d 906, 551 N.E.2d 107, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 4406 (N.Y. 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 707, 554 N.Y.S.2d 833, 553 N.E.2d 1343, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 600 (N.Y. 1990), cert. denied, 498 U.S. 824, 111 S. Ct. 76, 112 L. Ed. 2d 49, 1990 U.S. LEXIS 4341 (U.S. 1990).

Court properly annulled termination of petitioner from her employment where county failed to notify her that she would be terminated if she failed to return to work within one year after being placed on workers' compensation leave; such failure violated 4 NYCRR §§ 5.9(b) and 21.8(a)(2) and requirements of due process. La Joie v County of Niagara, 239 A.D.2d 908, 659

N.Y.S.2d 622, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6269 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Court annulled decision of Superintendent of Department of Highways which terminated petitioner's employment for having struck fellow employee, as hearing officer's report was fatally defective where (1) petitioner objected, on second day of disciplinary hearing, to lack of proper written designation, whereupon superintendent provided hearing officer with new written designation and hearing continued, and (2) hearing officer specifically stated in his recommendations that he credited testimony of 2 witnesses who testified on first day of hearing. Stein v County of Rockland, 259 A.D.2d 552, 686 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2319 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Although a police officer's termination pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(d) did not entitle the officer to a pre-termination hearing under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, because the officer was not given notice of, or an opportunity to respond to, an allegation, due process was not satisfied; therefore, the termination determination was properly annulled. Matter of Sorano v City of Yonkers, 37 A.D.3d 839, 830 N.Y.S.2d 590, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2321 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2007).

Under Civil Service Law § 75, tenured employees have protected property interest in their continued employment and cannot be removed or subjected to any disciplinary penalty "except for incompetency or misconduct shown after hearing upon stated charges"; employees are entitled to written notice of charges against them and of date and time of evidentiary hearing, to be represented by counsel and to call witnesses on their behalf; where plaintiffs in suit for preliminary injunctive relief against imposition of disciplinary penalties were not accorded these rights, injunction could be granted. Ostrowski v New York, 601 F.2d 629, 1979 U.S. App. LEXIS 14262 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1979).

Petitioner brings the appeal complaining that the abolition of her position by the Board of Education is illegal and requests that the Board of Education continue her in the position of business manager at a salary no less than that which she received for the 1989-90 school year. The appeal was dismissed. The Board of Education abolished the business manager position, and later, amended the resolution not to fund the business manager's position which would necessitate laying off of the current incumbent, the petitioner. Petitioner contends that the reasons for the abolition, or decision not to fund a position, was retaliation for litigation which he commenced against the father of the president of the Board of Education. Petitioner was appointed pursuant to the provisions of Civil Service Law, and therefore her rights in that position are governed by the provisions of the Civil Service Law. The provisions of section 75 of the Civil Service Law prohibits termination of permanent employees for cause unless and until they are afforded an appropriate hearing. Section 75 would not, by its terms, apply to a discretionary decision to eliminate a position for budgetary reasons, and consequently terminate the employment of the incumbent. In view of the nature of the petitioner's claim and the central issue involved, the type of relief petitioner seeks should be obtained through commencement of a proceeding under Article 78 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules, or through an action for damages, and not through an appeal to the Commission of Education under Section 310 of the Education Law. Appeal of Cohen, 1991 Op Comr Educ No 12452.

19. —Sufficiency of particular notices

Service of written copy of specific charges upon a suspended civil service employee against whom removal proceedings were pending, and notification to him to make an explanation either in writing or orally or both and that he had the right to counsel is a sufficient notice to answer such charges to satisfy this section. Mullaney v Stebbins, 295 N.Y. 837, 66 N.E.2d 852, 295 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 837, 1946 N.Y. LEXIS 1004 (N.Y. 1946).

A judgment of the Appellate Division sustaining the New York City Commissioner of Sanitation's dismissal of petitioner Sanitation Department Superintendent for facilitating the illegal dumping of liquid waste, but modifying the determination by directing that petitioner be granted a pension, would be affirmed where the hearing officer's findings of petitioner's misconduct were supported by substantial evidence, and where petitioner had sufficient notice to prepare an adequate defense despite respondent's failure to specify the dates of the transgressions with greater precision given the clandestine and protracted nature thereof. Cassiliano v Steisel, 64 N.Y.2d 674, 485 N.Y.S.2d 514, 474 N.E.2d 1182, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4907 (N.Y. 1984).

The state industrial commissioner is not required by this section in preferring charges against the assistant chief of claims in the bureau of workmen's compensation, a veteran, to specify charges or state specific acts or omissions; said section requires merely "stated charges." People ex rel. Davis v Sayer, 205 A.D. 562, 200 N.Y.S. 134, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5082 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

Charges accusing deputy comptroller, one of five employees in city comptroller's office, of intentional and wilful disobedience of directives to cooperate with his fellow employees and intentional and wilful disobedience of directives to complete bank reconciliation statements, a duty he failed to perform until ordered to do so in writing, sufficiently informed deputy comptroller of nature of proof he could expect at hearing and were not so infirm that dismissal of charges was required. Bateman v Ogdensburg, 55 A.D.2d 781, 389 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15572 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

In view of facts that town police officer made no request for bill of particulars nor did he request additional time to prepare defense, charges brought against town police officer by town, which included charge that police officer had taken and removed quantity of town's motor oil for personal use, were sufficiently specific so as to enable police officer to present a defense. Pachucki v Walters, 56 A.D.2d 677, 391 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10831 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Determination by board of education dismissing petitioner from his position as custodian would be annulled, charges dismissed, and petitioner restored to his position since petitioner was not afforded at least 8 days to answer charges as required by CLS Civ S § 75 and accusation which charged custodian only with "incompetence and misconduct" was patently insufficient to inform him of nature of charges and thus violated his due process rights. Rudy v Board of Education, 128 A.D.2d 881, 513 N.Y.S.2d 804, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44556 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 747, 519 N.Y.S.2d 1033, 514 N.E.2d 391, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18622 (N.Y. 1987).

Court properly vacated petitioner's dismissal from her position as New York City Transit Authority police officer and remitted matter for new determination of appropriate penalty where petitioner did not receive notice of hearing officer's intention to inspect her employment file prior to making his recommendation regarding appropriate penalty. Ferguson v Meehan, 141 A.D.2d 604, 529 N.Y.S.2d 525, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6588 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Court correctly annulled determination by New York City Transit Authority terminating petitioner's employment on ground of misconduct where (1) all notices of hearing were sent to address from which petitioner had moved and were returned unopened with notation that petitioner had moved and left no new address, (2) it was uncontroverted that petitioner was never apprised of hearing, and (3) although petitioner was aware that transit authority could not notify him at address it had on record, transit authority undertook no other steps to notify petitioner of pending charges and hearing, and regarded petitioner's failure to receive notice as "his problem." Delbello v New York City Transit Authority, 151 A.D.2d 479, 542 N.Y.S.2d 270, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7463 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Hearing officer's determination finding bus driver guilty of intentional misconduct would be annulled where formal charges against driver had alleged only negligent or incompetent conduct, in that she operated school bus "in an unsafe, uncontrolled, and negligent manner," and finding of misconduct would require showing of willfulness or intentional conduct. Benson v Board of Educ. of Washingtonville Cent. Sch. Dist., 183 A.D.2d 996, 583 N.Y.S.2d 594, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6712 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 756, 588 N.Y.S.2d 824, 602 N.E.2d 232, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3168 (N.Y. 1992).

This section was substantially complied with where employee was orally suspended and three days later received specifications of charges and notice of hearing by registered mail. Verdolino v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Authority, 4 Misc. 2d 130, 153 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1858 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

Where accounting clerk in county department of public works, a civil servant, was not given written notice of charges filed against him until almost 15 months after his first suspension and five months after his second suspension, suspension was improperly imposed and unjustifiably prolonged and accounting clerk was entitled to be reinstated. Fegert v Mulroy, 80 Misc. 2d 236, 363 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1879 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

In formulating a statement of charges in proceedings for the removal of a civil service employee, the time of the offense need be stated only within reasonable limits so that the party accused may be apprised with reasonable certainty of what he must be prepared to meet. Blum v Connelly, 24 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 262 A.D. 1056, 30 N.Y.S.2d 229, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7199 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

There was sufficient compliance with this section where in connection with proceedings for the removal for use of excessive force of one as supervisor of boys at the state school at Industry, the supervisor was notified of the charges against him and had an opportunity to file an answer thereto, even though a letter offering him a chance to modify his answer, failed to reach him prior to his ultimate removal. Indermill v Areson, 31 N.Y.S.2d 886, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2469 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

A notice of charges informing a civil service employee of the penalties, including dismissal, should the charges be sustained, although not stating that it was proposed to remove him, is sufficient to sustain his dismissal. Elwood v Department of Mental Hygiene, 72 N.Y.S.2d 648, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2830 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

No reasonable juror could conclude that discharged employee was actually fired without a pre-termination under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 hearing where the employee was not ignorant of the fact that her county employer had convened a § 75 hearing, her hearing officer advised the employee about the hearing date, and although the employee was given every opportunity to be heard and to present witnesses, she chose not to participate or attend the hearing. Pellegrino v County of Orange, 313 F. Supp. 2d 303, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6565 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

20. — —Notices of disciplinary proceedings

Notice of intention "to take disciplinary action" was notice of "proposed removal" within subd. 2. Strand Billiard Academy, Inc. v Moss, 294 N.Y. 865, 62 N.E.2d 490, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 865, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 1050 (N.Y. 1945).

Notice to a civil service employee in writing of charges against him and that it was proposed that disciplinary action be taken against him held to be sufficient. Lanzer v Moran, 268 A.D. 947, 51 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4350 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 293 N.Y. 759, 57 N.E.2d 838, 293 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 759, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 2181 (N.Y. 1944), aff'd, 294 N.Y. 864, 62 N.E.2d 489, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 864, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 1049 (N.Y. 1945).

Thruway toll collector was not deprived due process on ground that hearing officer, in sustaining charge of incompetence, relied in part on evidence of cash variances in collector's toll receipts and on collector's third unsatisfactory performance rating, although neither factor was set forth in formal charges or specifications, since (1) cash variances were specifically referred to in 2 prior unsatisfactory performance ratings that were served on and accepted by collector without objection, and incompetence charge was expressly based on those 2 prior ratings, and (2) collector was told 4 months prior to disciplinary proceeding that his continued absences would result in both disciplinary charges and third unsatisfactory performance rating, and third rating was offered and received in evidence at hearing as joint exhibit of collector and thruway authority. Kieffer v New York State Thruway Authority, 135 A.D.2d 1017, 522 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52895 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

County employee was not prejudiced by his employer's failure to cite specific violations of rules or regulations in disciplinary proceeding against him where he was charged with "Poor Performance" and "Failure to Report an Accident" in connection with his alleged participation in off-duty "practical jokes" performed on fellow county employees, which resulted in collision between his vehicle and county vehicle, and his failure to report collision. Sguanci v Commissioner of Public Works, 158 A.D.2d 788, 550 N.Y.S.2d 950, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 891 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Police officer was accorded full and fair opportunity to address his service record at disciplinary hearing prior to imposition of penalty where, in accordance with proper procedure, police commissioner sent officer copy of report and recommendation, together with cover letter advising officer of opportunity to submit written comments, several weeks prior to commissioner's determination. Cocozzo v Ward, 162 A.D.2d 202, 556 N.Y.S.2d 328, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7084 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Notice of discipline contained sufficient information to apprise county security guard of charges against him where subject notice charged him with 4 acts of misconduct—use of abusive language, excessive use of force, possession of noxious material, and carrying concealed weapon; failure to cite specific statutes, rules, or regulations was not, under circumstances, fatal to notice of discipline. Murphy v County of Ulster, 218 A.D.2d 832, 629 N.Y.S.2d 877, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8260 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 804, 639 N.Y.S.2d 782, 662 N.E.2d 1072, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 5702 (N.Y. 1995).

Where a real property clerk was terminated for alleged misconduct and insubordination, the charges set forth in the notice of discipline were not so vague as to deny her due process, as she was afforded adequate notice of the misconduct alleged with respect to the sustained specifications. Matter of Zlotnick v City of Saratoga Springs, 122 A.D.3d 1210, 997 N.Y.S.2d 809, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8228 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2014).

21. — —Notices of incompetence due to alcoholism

Charge against city fireman of incompetence due to alcoholism, with complete copy of personnel file offered in response to bill of particulars, gave fireman reasonable chance to meet charges and was sufficiently specific; evidence sustained determination to discharge city fireman for incompetence due to alcoholism. Fitzgerald v Libous, 56 A.D.2d 981, 393 N.Y.S.2d 122, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11394 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977), aff'd, 44 N.Y.2d 660, 405 N.Y.S.2d 32, 376 N.E.2d 192, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1883 (N.Y. 1978).

Notice charging employee with being under influence of alcohol on specific day while performing specific assignment sufficiently apprises employee of nature of misconduct as to allow adequate preparation of defense to charge of consuming alcohol on duty of which employee is ultimately found guilty. Gisbert v New York State Thruway Authority, 115 A.D.2d 934, 496 N.Y.S.2d 828, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 55292 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

22. Scheduling of hearings

Sheriff abused his discretion by denying a deputy's request to withdraw his resignation because the deputy was covered by this statute, was not provided with the requisite predisciplinary hearing, and tendered his resignation under the threat of wrongful termination, and, thus, the sheriff had no legal right to terminate the deputy. Matter of Ortlieb v Lewis County Sheriff's Dept., 155 A.D.3d 1628, 65 N.Y.S.3d 390, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8179 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2017).

Where attorney, who was member of the Jewish faith and observed its Sabbath, was retained prior to school board's decision to schedule Saturday hearing on charges of misconduct levied against permanent civil service employee and board, which scheduled Saturday meeting for its convenience, had available a number of alternatives, refusal of board to reschedule was arbitrary and capricious; decision to dismiss, which decision was reached at Saturday hearing and in absence of counsel, was a nullity. Romeo v Union Free School Dist., 82 Misc. 2d 336, 368 N.Y.S.2d 726, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2633 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

B. Evidentiary Matters

23. In general

A determination of the President of the New York City Transit Authority, which dismissed petitioner after finding him guilty of misconduct or incompetence concerning his role in the disappearance of a money bag, would be confirmed where the standard verification procedure used during collection assumed great significance in determining the instant issue, and a tally sheet together with the testimony concerning standard procedure provided sufficient evidence to support the determination of guilt, where the hearing referee was free to reject petitioner's testimony to the contrary, and where the penalty of dismissal did not shock the conscience, inasmuch as petitioner had already been given a last warning regarding a previous irregularity. Holmes v Simpson, 64 N.Y.2d 678, 485 N.Y.S.2d 516, 474 N.E.2d 1184, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4909 (N.Y. 1984).

Where persons in civil service are not entitled to trial but merely to notice of charges and an opportunity to make an explanation, the officer having power of removal may act upon his own knowledge or upon any information received from other sources. In re McGuire, 157 A.D. 351, 142 N.Y.S. 426, 1913 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6576 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 209 N.Y. 597, 103 N.E. 1126, 209 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 597, 1913 N.Y. LEXIS 986 (N.Y. 1913).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review a board of education's determination to dismiss a school-bus driver, after the board had overruled a hearing officer's recommendation to suspend him without pay for 45 days, the board properly determined that the driver be dismissed where, although there was a sharp conflict in the testimony, it could not be said that the board's decision rested on less than substantial evidence, where there was nothing in the record to support the driver's contention that the board had entertained matters outside the record, and where the driver's demonstrated refusal to cooperate with his superiors over an extended period of time supported the conclusion that his dismissal, although severe, was not a shockingly disproportionate penalty. Wood v Rice, 80 A.D.2d 973, 438 N.Y.S.2d 612, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10882 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

Evidence that truck-driver was assigned to operate snow plow at given section of highway during snowstorm, that supervisor found snow accumulating in all lanes of assigned area, that driver failed to respond to radio contact, that upon returning to garage area, supervisor confronted driver with discrepancies, noticed that driver's speech was slurred and observed several cans of beer in driver's vehicle, at least 3 of which were empty, supported by testimony of second supervisor that he smelled beer on driver's breath, provides ample basis for assessment of misconduct. Gisbert v New York State Thruway Authority, 115 A.D.2d 934, 496 N.Y.S.2d 828, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 55292 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Substantial evidence supported New York City Transit Authority's determination that token booth collector made unauthorized hand collections and converted $260 in agency funds to her own use where supervisors observed collector's actions and audited token booth funds. Brathwaite v Gunn, 125 A.D.2d 305, 508 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62567 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

There was substantial evidence to support determination finding city firefighter guilty of misconduct where, while on watch and responsible for receiving alarms and alerting other firefighters, he failed to answer initial call from dispatcher at emergency communications center regarding request for assistance to possible heart attack victim, and he only responded after dispatcher made additional telephone call, one 3-ring Centrex call, and 4 supplemental radio transmissions. Ross v Bringewatt, 134 A.D.2d 913, 522 N.Y.S.2d 68, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51113 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 801, 527 N.Y.S.2d 767, 522 N.E.2d 1065, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 231 (N.Y. 1988).

There was substantial evidence to support charge of incompetence against thruway toll collector where, despite repeated counseling concerning his excessive unscheduled and unsubstantiated absences, he received unsatisfactory performance ratings over 3 successive annual periods for his poor attendance record and other work deficiencies. Kieffer v New York State Thruway Authority, 135 A.D.2d 1017, 522 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52895 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Court would annul determination terminating petitioner's employment with city for violating provision of city charter, even though he had violated such provision, since (1) city failed to consider his claim that charter provision in question was being selectively enforced, (2) he was prevented from introducing evidence to support his defenses, (3) he was prevented from presenting evidence in mitigation and from cross-examining witnesses regarding documentary evidence, (4) he was prohibited from submitting closing briefs, and (5) city deliberated for only short time despite significant amount of documentary evidence that it had to review. Girard v Glens Falls, 173 A.D.2d 113, 577 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

Food service supervisor at county medical center was properly found guilty of misconduct and demoted where 2 county employees testified regarding incidents in which supervisor confronted and verbally abused them; contrary evidence merely created factual issue for hearing officer. Roberts v Stolzenberg, 202 A.D.2d 854, 609 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2550 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Evidence did not support finding that maintenance mechanic misrepresented himself as authority in asbestos matters where it was shown that he accurately stated that he was asbestos specialist or that he was experienced in asbestos matters. In re Christopher M., 218 A.D.2d 700, 630 N.Y.S.2d 940, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8675 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In firefighters' and union's Article 78 proceeding against city to require reinstatement of 2 firefighters and filling of vacant positions, city's submissions could not be considered on its pre-answer motion to dismiss petition for failure to state cause of action. Zumpano v City of Utica, 245 A.D.2d 1022, 666 N.Y.S.2d 62, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13763 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Admission of GPS evidence in an employee's misconduct hearing was not improper because neither the Office of the Inspector General nor the employer acted unreasonably in obtaining the evidence; the employer had reasonable grounds to suspect individual misconduct by the employee and traditional methods, such as tailing the employee, had been tried and had been thwarted. The standard for using or excluding evidence at administrative proceedings was not controlled by criminal law. Matter of Cunningham v New York State Dept. of Labor, 89 A.D.3d 1347, 933 N.Y.S.2d 432, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8335 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011), rev'd, 21 N.Y.3d 515, 974 N.Y.S.2d 896, 997 N.E.2d 468, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 1729 (N.Y. 2013).

County department of emergency response erred in adopting the findings of a hearing officer that a public safety dispatcher was guilty of certain charges of misconduct and/or incompetence and in terminating his employment because the specifications—failing to obtain a caller's name and telephone number, failing to verify the cross streets of the caller's location, and failing to transfer the call to the police department—were unsupported by substantial evidence where the record demonstrated that the call was disconnected abruptly by the caller, and the determination finding the dispatcher guilty of another charge could not be sustained, since the charges brought against the dispatcher contained no such specification. Matter of Kelly v County of Dutchess, 176 A.D.3d 1060, 111 N.Y.S.3d 51, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7644 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

24. Accident reconstruction testimony

Evidence supported determination that petitioner acted improperly by operating his sheriff's department vehicle in unsafe and imprudent manner, resulting in accident and damage to vehicle, where accident reconstructionist testified that, based on, inter alia, his measurements of skid marks and calculations derived therefrom, petitioner had approached curve at 49 miles per hour, at least 9 miles per hour over legal speed limit and 19 miles per hour over recommended speed limit for that curve posted on warning sign. Barresi v Mahoney, 230 A.D.2d 906, 647 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8672 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 804, 653 N.Y.S.2d 917, 676 N.E.2d 499, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 4308 (N.Y. 1996).

25. Admissions

Admissions made by correction officer to police during police investigation of criminal charges filed against her were properly admitted into evidence during correction officer's administrative disciplinary hearing under CLS Civ S § 75. Dacey v County of Dutchess, 121 A.D.2d 536, 503 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58514 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Evidence supported determination finding school building custodian guilty of misconduct where he admitted to investigators that he misappropriated various food items stored in locked area of cafeteria, and his admission was corroborated by testimony of several other witnesses. Sanchez v Board of Educ., 216 A.D.2d 303, 627 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5923 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Determination finding transit police officer guilty of failing to timely report discharge of his weapon was supported by evidence including his own admission that he did not report discharge of his weapon during some 8 hours following incident while he was in precinct, and fact that he revealed information about incident when confronted by desk sergeant as he was on his way out door. Cerio v New York City Transit Auth., 228 A.D.2d 676, 645 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Determination that firefighter used cocaine was supported by his admission to such use and positive results of EMIT and confirmatory GC/MS tests. EMIT test performed on August 4, 1994, which was direct result of firefighter's expulsion from compulsory drug counseling for "non-compliance," was sufficiently attenuated from suppressed April 18, 1994 test to withstand constitutional muster. Bassi v City of New York, 233 A.D.2d 269, 650 N.Y.S.2d 542, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12127 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Determination that state trooper violated CLS Penal § 400.05(1) was supported by his own admission that he retained 3 handguns as his own after they were surrendered to him while he was at scene of domestic disturbance; despite his alleged ignorance of law, he was required to retain and secure surrendered weapons for their eventual destruction. Hricik v McMahon, 247 A.D.2d 935, 668 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1320 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Charges against teacher's aide of inappropriate comments and physical contact with special education students was supported by testimony of students and eyewitnesses, documentary evidence, admission by aide, and testimony of Title XIV coordinator. Burkes v Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 257 A.D.2d 891, 684 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 506 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Determination finding that school district bus driver was under influence of alcohol at training workshop was supported by driver's concession that she consumed one 16-ounce can of light beer in bus garage before traveling to workshop, testimony that she actually may have consumed as many as 3 cans, witness' testimony that driver "was more giggly than usual" at workshop, and another witness' testimony that driver "might have been a little giggly or tee-hee type thing" at workshop. Collins v Parishville-Hopkinton Cent. Sch. Dist., 274 A.D.2d 732, 710 N.Y.S.2d 728, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

26. Alcohol test; breathalyzer

Alcohol technician was competent to perform breath alcohol screening tests, on which county highway department mechanic's suspension from employment was based, where technician successfully completed 3-day training program regarding use of approved "evidential breath testing device," she was familiar with pertinent regulatory requirements for breath alcohol testing procedures published in Federal Register, she had performed 478 breath alcohol tests, none of which had been questioned, and mechanic submitted no evidence that technician failed to comply with training or proficiency requirements of 49 CFR 40.51. Integrity of breath alcohol screening test results, on which county highway department mechanic's suspension from employment was based, was not impaired where (1) highway superintendent was entitled to believe technician who performed tests, rather than mechanic, as to whether mechanic was give fresh mouthpiece for second test, (2) although mechanic drank coffee during 15-minute waiting period between initial test and confirmatory test, there was no evidence that his ingestion of coffee increased his breath alcohol level, and (3) although unauthorized personnel had access to testing room, there was no evidence that any unauthorized person saw or heard results of either test. Aubin v County of Jefferson, 245 A.D.2d 1126, 667 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13953 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

27. —Refusal to take

Substantial evidence supported administrative determinations dismissing police and correction officers for their refusal to comply with orders to submit to urinalysis in connection with reported drug use where reliable confidential informants had reported officers' past drug use, there was partial verification of such information, and informants reported having seen officers use drugs just prior to urinalysis orders (however, court was not called upon to render opinion as to whether public agency may lawfully order employee to undergo urinalysis on reasonable suspicion of drug use). Perez v Ward, 69 N.Y.2d 840, 514 N.Y.S.2d 703, 507 N.E.2d 296, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15892 (N.Y.), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 985, 516 N.Y.S.2d 1028, 509 N.E.2d 363, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16780 (N.Y. 1987).

Court would affirm city's determination terminating petitioner's employment as parking lot attendant where he did not contest substantial evidence of his misconduct while on duty, including drinking and refusing to undergo breathalyzer test as directed by supervisor, and although he established prima facie case that conduct which formed basis for his discharge was causally related to his alcoholism, city showed that subsequent to his completion of alcohol treatment program, he had relapse while on duty and was immediately charged with misconduct. Myszczenko v City of Poughkeepsie, 239 A.D.2d 584, 657 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5639 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

28. Chain of custody of evidence

There was no need to show chain of custody for expense reports since those reports were not fungible evidence. Harlander-Insero v Glass, 228 A.D.2d 504, 643 N.Y.S.2d 684, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6633 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

29. Correction officer misconduct, evidence of Determination by Department of Correctional Services that deputy superintendent of correctional facility sexually harassed several subordinate female employees was supported by substantial evidence where (1) woman testified that he put his arm around her and fondled her breasts on at least 10 occasions despite her protests, (2) another woman testified that he often put his hand on her leg while she worked and that on one occasion he pulled her onto his lap, (3) several other women testified that on numerous occasions he called them into his office and placed his hands on various parts of their bodies (including genital areas), made frequent comments to other female employees about their bodies, exposed his genitals and caused female subordinates to touch his genital area, and (4) several women expressed their fear of his violent temper and did not report many incidents sooner because of their fear of him. Oare v Coughlin, 133 A.D.2d 943, 520 N.Y.S.2d 658, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51985 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 615, 526 N.Y.S.2d 436, 521 N.E.2d 443, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 700 (N.Y. 1988).

There was substantial evidence to support suspicion of drug use by correction officer, justifying conduct of urinalysis test which yielded positive results for marihuana, based on officer's numerous absences from work within brief period, physician's opinion that her claimed asthmatic condition was not serious enough to explain absences, and observations of psychiatrist. Palmer v Koehler, 156 A.D.2d 242, 548 N.Y.S.2d 502, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Substantial evidence supported Department of Correction's findings that correction officer was guilty of misconduct, and that termination of officer was not so disproportionate to offenses as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, where (1) officer had left his fully loaded service revolver in bodega, thus failing to safeguard it, (2) he moonlighted at bodega without department's knowledge or authorization, which were required by agency rules and regulations, (3) he falsely stated that weapon was in his home, and (4) he refused to undergo urinalysis, which was properly requested because his appearance and behavior at department interview indicated drug use. Department of Correction's discharge of correction officer for failure to take drug test would be upheld, even though he argued that his appearance and behavior were consistent with lack of sleep, not drug use, and that he would not have been discharged but for his refusal to take drug test, where acceptance of his argument would require court to substitute its judgment of evidence for that of department. Ryant v Commissioner of Dep't of Correction, 159 A.D.2d 224, 552 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2190 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination that corrections officer refused to obey lawful order to submit to urinalysis examination where there was undisputed testimony from several correction officials as to officer's dilated eyes, perspiring forehead and irrational behavior, and it was undisputed that officer refused to submit to test. Rice v Seilaff, 181 A.D.2d 502, 581 N.Y.S.2d 311, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3467 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Arbitrator's erroneous evidentiary ruling did not constitute misconduct sufficient to require vacatur of award finding correction officer guilty of kicking inmate in groin, even though arbitrator erroneously limited officer's evidence to those issues raised in opening statement and excluded evidence of inmate's suicide attempt (offered to prove that he was capable of self-inflicting injuries) where officer did not have any hard or conclusive evidence to support his contention that inmate's groin injury was self-inflicted, and fellow inmate testified that officer yelled "I will beat the shit out of you" before kicking injured inmate. In re New York State Inspection, Sec. & Law Enforcement Employees Dist. Council 82, etc., 183 A.D.2d 1034, 583 N.Y.S.2d 619, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6879 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Dismissal of correction officers was supported by substantial evidence that they used unreasonable force against inmate, submitted false reports about incident, and gave false statements to investigators. Mansfield v Sielaff, 184 A.D.2d 477, 585 N.Y.S.2d 425, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8631 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 760, 591 N.Y.S.2d 138, 605 N.E.2d 874, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3839 (N.Y. 1992).

Court would affirm determination that correction officer violated department rules and regulations by unlawfully ingesting cocaine, notwithstanding contention that positive test results resulted from officer's unwitting drinking of liquor that had been spiked with cocaine at bachelor party 2 days prior to drug test, and despite testimony by bartender that he had spiked some bottles of liquor with cocaine and that he might have served officer from one of such bottles; under circumstances, officer established only possibility of unwitting ingestion. Green v Sielaff, 198 A.D.2d 113, 603 N.Y.S.2d 156, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10635 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

Determination that correction officer used marijuana was supported by results of EMIT drug test as confirmed by GC-MS test, testimony of 2 other correction officers and laboratory director describing chain of custody of urine sample, and latter's testimony explaining that certain irregularities in test readings were intended and had no impact on validity of results. Fulton v Jacobson, 226 A.D.2d 215, 641 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3893 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Correction officer's guilt of conduct unbecoming correction officer and of failing to safeguard her shield was supported by evidence that officer and her companion refused to pay $10 fee, that companion then pulled silver shield from his pocket and stated that he was police officer and that attendant was in "trouble," that companion then forced his way into booth and retrieved keys, and that when another attendant tried to block officer's car from leaving lot, companion smashed windshield of attendant's car and then struck other attendant with club. Everett v Jacobson, 235 A.D.2d 279, 652 N.Y.S.2d 42, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 262 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Determination that correction officer (petitioner) used impermissible force against inmate and submitted false report about incident was supported by testimony of inmate, inmate's wife, and girlfriend of another inmate that, after inmate struck petitioner, he was restrained by other correction officers while petitioner repeatedly punched and kicked him in head and stomach, medical evidence detailing injuries consistent with type of beating described by witnesses, inconsistencies between written report submitted by petitioner and his hearing testimony as to how altercation with inmate started, and documentary evidence impeaching petitioner's testimony that he had never before submitted false report. Butler v New York City Dep't of Corrections, 254 A.D.2d 86, 678 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10670 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Court would affirm city's dismissal of probationary correction officer who tested positive for cocaine in urinalysis test, for inasmuch as test was part of certain established medical standards, and officer was given notice regarding departmental policy of drug testing during probationary period, her rights against unreasonable search and seizure were not violated. Odon v Koehler, 138 Misc. 2d 553, 524 N.Y.S.2d 614, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 59 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

30. Credibility of witnesses, generally

Though a hearing officer's report is entitled to weight in determining existence of substantial evidence, particularly to extent that material facts in given case may depend on resolving credibility of witnesses as shown by their demeanor or conduct at hearing, findings of hearing officer are not conclusive and may be overruled by the official upon whom has been imposed power to remove or mete out discipline, provided, of course, that the latter's action is supported by substantial evidence. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

Hearing officer's determination finding an employee guilty of misconduct relating to insubordination and unauthorized absences, and recommending termination, was proper because the testimony of two witnesses, and other documents admitted into evidence, established the facts necessary to sustain the charges; the hearing officer, before whom all the witnesses appeared, credited the testimony of the employer's witnesses and not the testimony of the employee and his witness. The penalty imposed was not so disproportionate to the offenses committed as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Matter of Morris v Calderone, 49 A.D.3d 741, 854 N.Y.S.2d 189, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2511 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

31. —Impeaching credibility

This section prohibits removal of an honorably discharged soldier except for cause after a hearing even when he occupies an exempt position from which others could be removed at the pleasure of the department head. Meenagh v Dewey, 286 N.Y. 292, 36 N.E.2d 211, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 292, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1441 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 286 N.Y. 707, 37 N.E.2d 147, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 707, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. 1941).

A determination dismissing petitioner from his position with a city police department after a finding that he had broken into a neighbor's window by hurling two object through them by the use of a slingshot would be annulled, where the transcript of a press conference held by the city's mayor, an ex officio member of the board and the hearing officer in this case, indicated that the board had considered unsubstantiated complaints against petitioner which were outside of the record in its decision, where the board failed to make any findings of fact, and where petitioner's right to a fair hearing was compromised when petitioner's counsel was not permitted to impeach the credibility of a witness whose testimony was crucial to linking petitioner to the breaking of the windows. Spetalieri v Quick, 96 A.D.2d 611, 464 N.Y.S.2d 601, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19155 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

Sanitation commissioner properly dismissed sanitation worker for solicitation and receipt of $20 bribe, even though worker argued that undercover investigator's credibility was undermined by videotape, where video was inconclusive except to establish that worker was standing within earshot of his partner when negotiation for money was commenced, and, in any event, sanitation department had prior disciplinary problems with worker. Cranford v Sexton, 159 A.D.2d 348, 552 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Disciplinary hearing for state employee accused of assault at state hospital was not privileged, and although such statements taken under oath at said hearing may not be admissible in trial of claim for assault by attendant at state hospital, such statements would be admissible for impeachment purposes and claimant was entitled to examine the record of the civil service disciplinary hearing at an examination before trial. Bennett v State, 53 Misc. 2d 1038, 280 N.Y.S.2d 294, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1483 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1967).

32. Deposition by third party

Finding that deputy sheriff court attendant committed misconduct by falling asleep in courtroom while on duty was supported by substantial evidence, although judge who witnessed him fall asleep did not testify at administrative hearing, where judge's written deposition memorandum fully describing incident was admitted in evidence and corroborated by other testimony adduced at hearing. Grossman v Kralik, 217 A.D.2d 625, 629 N.Y.S.2d 467, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7795 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

33. —By family member

Thirty-day suspension of probation officer, and requirement that he continue receiving professional help, was justified where probation officer was found to have threatened wife and children, which was job-related misconduct due to his law enforcement position; supporting deposition of wife was properly admitted into evidence because technical rules of evidence are not required in hearings such as one afforded defendant and where sufficient foundation for deposition was presented through testimony of investigating officer. Stiles v Phelan, 111 A.D.2d 591, 489 N.Y.S.2d 656, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51623 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

34. Drug tests

Evidence sustained discharge of firefighter where 2 samples of his urine taken 4 days apart showed presence of marihuana; Article 78 relief was not warranted on ground that such evidence constituted hearsay since (1) hearsay evidence is admissible in administrative proceedings, and findings of fact may be based on hearsay alone, and (2) in any event, laboratory records of urinalyses were within business records exception to hearsay rule. Lumsden v New York City Fire Dep't, 134 A.D.2d 595, 522 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50803 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Compelling employees in titles in Groups I and II of Rapid Transit Railroad Service Classifications to submit to blood or urine test for purpose of detecting use of alcohol or drugs violates proscriptions against unreasonable searches and seizures unless predicated on reasonable suspicion with respect to particular employee; hearsay is admissible on issue of whether directive to submit to test is predicated on reasonable suspicion. Fiorenza v Gunn, 140 A.D.2d 295, 527 N.Y.S.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4636 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Finding that police officer was justifiably subjected to drug testing, on reasonable suspicion of drug abuse, was amply supported by substantial evidence that he had glassy, bloodshot and watery eyes, slurred speech, and history of suspicious mood swings, coupled with anonymous tips that he was one of several officers using drugs. Shepard v Ward, 155 A.D.2d 293, 547 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14008 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

There was substantial evidence to support suspicion of drug use by correction officer, justifying conduct of urinalysis test which yielded positive results for marihuana, based on officer's numerous absences from work within brief period, physician's opinion that her claimed asthmatic condition was not serious enough to explain absences, and observations of psychiatrist. Palmer v Koehler, 156 A.D.2d 242, 548 N.Y.S.2d 502, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

New York City Transit Authority was justified in ordering transit police officer to undergo drug testing after he was involved in automobile accident while on duty, although involvement in automobile accident did not by itself provide reasonable suspicion that he was unfit for duty on account of illegal drug use, since he was member of joint terrorist task force and thus his job was particularly sensitive; Fourth Amendment proscribes only unreasonable searches and seizures. Barretto v City of New York, 157 A.D.2d 116, 555 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5354 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported housing authority's determination that housing officer was guilty of incompetency and misconduct, and should be dismissed, even though he claimed that there was no reasonable basis for suspecting him of drug use and that he had never knowingly used drugs, where (1) officer's handwritten, notarized letter together with his wife's allegation of drug use provided reasonable basis to order drug test, (2) officer tested positive for cocaine, and (3) trier of fact did not believe girlfriend's testimony that she slipped cocaine into officer's soft drink before drug test. Taylor v Raiford, 159 A.D.2d 309, 552 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2688 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Police commissioner's determination that police officer wrongfully possessed and ingested quantity of marijuana was supported by evidence, including 2 EMIT tests performed on officer's urine samples and additional test known as bonded phase TLC. Trotta v Ward, 163 A.D.2d 182, 559 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8365 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990), rev'd, 77 N.Y.2d 827, 566 N.Y.S.2d 199, 567 N.E.2d 241, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 70 (N.Y. 1991).

Court would affirm determination that correction officer violated department rules and regulations by unlawfully ingesting cocaine, notwithstanding contention that positive test results resulted from officer's unwitting drinking of liquor that had been spiked with cocaine at bachelor party 2 days prior to drug test, and despite testimony by bartender that he had spiked some bottles of liquor with cocaine and that he might have served officer from one of such bottles; under circumstances, officer established only possibility of unwitting ingestion. Green v Sielaff, 198 A.D.2d 113, 603 N.Y.S.2d 156, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10635 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

Determination that correction officer used marijuana was supported by results of EMIT drug test as confirmed by GC-MS test, testimony of 2 other correction officers and laboratory director describing chain of custody of urine sample, and latter's testimony explaining that certain irregularities in test readings were intended and had no impact on validity of results. Fulton v Jacobson, 226 A.D.2d 215, 641 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3893 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Determination that firefighter used cocaine was supported by his admission to such use and positive results of EMIT and confirmatory GC/MS tests. EMIT test performed on August 4, 1994, which was direct result of firefighter's expulsion from compulsory drug counseling for "non-compliance," was sufficiently attenuated from suppressed April 18, 1994 test to withstand constitutional muster. Bassi v City of New York, 233 A.D.2d 269, 650 N.Y.S.2d 542, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12127 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Police commissioner's finding that police officer was properly subjected to drug testing on reasonable suspicion of drug use would be upheld where commissioner rationally could have credited testimony concerning mistake in transcription of numbers for urine samples, absent other evidence of flawed chain of custody for such samples. Allen v Police Dep't, 240 A.D.2d 229, 658 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6490 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Determination finding New York City Housing Authority officer guilty of ingesting illicit narcotics was supported by positive results of EMIT drug test as confirmed by GC-MS test. Casey v New York City Hous. Auth., 249 A.D.2d 230, 672 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4758 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Court would affirm city's dismissal of probationary correction officer who tested positive for cocaine in urinalysis test, for inasmuch as test was part of certain established medical standards, and officer was given notice regarding departmental policy of drug testing during probationary period, her rights against unreasonable search and seizure were not violated. Odon v Koehler, 138 Misc. 2d 553, 524 N.Y.S.2d 614, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 59 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

35. —Refusal to take

Substantial evidence supported Department of Correction's findings that correction officer was guilty of misconduct, and that termination of officer was not so disproportionate to offenses as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, where (1) officer had left his fully loaded service revolver in bodega, thus failing to safeguard it, (2) he moonlighted at bodega without department's knowledge or authorization, which were required by agency rules and regulations, (3) he falsely stated that weapon was in his home, and (4) he refused to undergo urinalysis, which was properly requested because his appearance and behavior at department interview indicated drug use. Department of Correction's discharge of correction officer for failure to take drug test would be upheld, even though he argued that his appearance and behavior were consistent with lack of sleep, not drug use, and that he would not have been discharged but for his refusal to take drug test, where acceptance of his argument would require court to substitute its judgment of evidence for that of department. Ryant v Commissioner of Dep't of Correction, 159 A.D.2d 224, 552 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2190 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Dismissal of police officer for attempting to purchase crack cocaine while off duty and refusing to submit to urinalysis was supported by substantial evidence, even though vial recovered from officer contained soap powder, where (1) narcotics officers observed officer receive vial from known drug dealer, shake hands with dealer, put vial in his pocket, enter his car and make U-turn across 3 lanes of traffic, (2) after arrest officer stated "This is going to mean my job," (3) officer was distant, disoriented and slow in responding to questions, and (4) he refused to undergo urinalysis after being advised twice that refusal would result in suspension. Gaul v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 380, 553 N.Y.S.2d 9, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2913 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination that corrections officer refused to obey lawful order to submit to urinalysis examination where there was undisputed testimony from several correction officials as to officer's dilated eyes, perspiring forehead and irrational behavior, and it was undisputed that officer refused to submit to test. Rice v Seilaff, 181 A.D.2d 502, 581 N.Y.S.2d 311, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3467 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Urine test yielding positive results for presence of marijuana, which was administered to city firefighter 2 days after his arrest for driving while intoxicated, did not constitute unreasonable search and seizure under New York or U.S. Constitution, and was therefore properly considered in administrative proceeding resulting in petitioner's dismissal, since (1) firefighter was involved in spectacular car accident after which he was observed to be incoherent and with smell of alcohol, (2) he refused to submit to blood test, and (3) even without individualized suspicion, governmental interest in testing firefighter was highly compelling given nature of his profession. Longo v Dolce, 192 A.D.2d 157, 600 N.Y.S.2d 962, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7665 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 836, 606 N.Y.S.2d 589, 627 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4312 (N.Y. 1993).

Determination that police officer failed to supply requested urine sample was supported by evidence of test results showing that specimen officer submitted for testing contained yellow food dye, not urine. Blount v Bratton, 216 A.D.2d 6, 627 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5849 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

36. Emergency vehicle involved

Evidence support city manager's determination that firefighter involved in collision while responding to first aid call in emergency vehicle failed to exercise reasonable care, and $100 fine was proportionate to offense, where firefighter had entered intersection controlled by stop signs at approximately 10 miles per hour with stopping or obtaining unobstructed view of oncoming traffic; fact that employer did not formally train firefighter in operation of emergency vehicles would not alleviate his failure to exercise due care. Remillard v Watervliet, 124 A.D.2d 912, 508 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62233 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

37. Eyewitness testimony

Eyewitness testimony was properly credited by hearing officer in disciplinary proceeding against police officers, despite fact that it conflicted with officers' testimony, since weighing of evidence and choosing between conflicting evidence is solely within province of administrative agency; thus, officers were properly found to have knowingly made false statements to their superiors, both at accident scene and at official department interview, regarding their chase of vehicle. Freeman v Ward, 162 A.D.2d 127, 556 N.Y.S.2d 563, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6789 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 706, 560 N.Y.S.2d 988, 561 N.E.2d 888, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3026 (N.Y. 1990).

Termination of petitioner's employment based on charges of physically attacking her supervisor and verbally yelling at her supervisor, using obscene language, was supported by supervisor's statement that petitioner "grabbed my neck and hit me" and called her "bitch," which was corroborated by eyewitness who indicated that petitioner told supervisor that she was "gonna f___ you up." Langhorne v Jackson, 213 A.D.2d 909, 623 N.Y.S.2d 962, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Determination that petitioner abused his authority as police officer by falsely charging individual with assault, and that he made false memo book entry and false oral statement about incident to investigating sergeant, was supported by eyewitness testimony as well as sergeant's investigative report. Aliberti v O'Connor, 231 A.D.2d 472, 647 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

In Article 78 proceeding, police commissioner's determination that officer assaulted prisoner while in isolation cell was supported by substantial evidence where determination was supported by testimony of 2 eyewitnesses and corroborated in all major respects by testimony of medical technician and another officer. Clark v Bratton, 242 A.D.2d 486, 662 N.Y.S.2d 123, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9121 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 810, 670 N.Y.S.2d 404, 693 N.E.2d 751, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 880 (N.Y. 1998).

Charges against teacher's aide of inappropriate comments and physical contact with special education students was supported by testimony of students and eyewitnesses, documentary evidence, admission by aide, and testimony of Title XIV coordinator. 38. False statements

Eyewitness testimony was properly credited by hearing officer in disciplinary proceeding against police officers, despite fact that it conflicted with officers' testimony, since weighing of evidence and choosing between conflicting evidence is solely within province of administrative agency; thus, officers were properly found to have knowingly made false statements to their superiors, both at accident scene and at official department interview, regarding their chase of vehicle. Dismissal of correction officers was supported by substantial evidence that they used unreasonable force against inmate, submitted false reports about incident, and gave false statements to investigators. Determination that petitioner abused his authority as police officer by falsely charging individual with assault, and that he made false memo book entry and false oral statement about incident to investigating sergeant, was supported by eyewitness testimony as well as sergeant's investigative report. Aliberti v O'Connor, 231 A.D.2d 472, 647 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Determination that correction officer (petitioner) used impermissible force against inmate and submitted false report about incident was supported by testimony of inmate, inmate's wife, and girlfriend of another inmate that, after inmate struck petitioner, he was restrained by other correction officers while petitioner repeatedly punched and kicked him in head and stomach, medical evidence detailing injuries consistent with type of beating described by witnesses, inconsistencies between written report submitted by petitioner and his hearing testimony as to how altercation with inmate started, and documentary evidence impeaching petitioner's testimony that he had never before submitted false report. Butler v New York City Dep't of Corrections, 254 A.D.2d 86, 678 N.Y.S.2d 617, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10670 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

County and a deputy commissioner properly terminated an employee for making false statements to a subordinate employee and to the commissioner about her friend's Medicaid application because the commissioner was careful to confine her findings of guilt and rationale for terminating the employee to the accusations as set forth in the notice of charges, and in light of the responsibilities inherent in the employee's high-level position in which she supervised approximately 45 employees, termination of her employment was not so disproportionate to the offenses as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Matter of Nitti v County of Tioga, 149 A.D.3d 1332, 53 N.Y.S.3d 378, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2832 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2017).

A fireman who was dismissed from his position following his conviction on 10 felony counts of offering a false instrument for filing and two misdemeanor counts of violating the Tax Law with respect to sales taxes on the fireman's private business would not be entitled to annulment of his dismissal on the basis of a certificate of relief from disabilities that was issued to him pursuant to Correc Law § 701, since, though criminal activity may form the basis for disciplinary action under Civ S Law § 75, such dismissal is discretionary rather than mandatory, and Correc L § 701 specifically provides that certificates issued pursuant to its terms will not prevent any administrative board from relying on the underlying convictions as a basis for exercising its discretion; furthermore, the fireman would not be entitled to reinstatement under the terms of Correc Law § 752, since the statute applies only to applications for a license or employment by persons previously convicted of crimes, and has no bearing on persons who are already licensed or employed. Pisano v McKenna, 120 Misc. 2d 536, 466 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Appeals court affirmed town's termination of employee for fraudulent TTD claims (based on understating his other employment) and for getting benefits based on that claim and for his personal use of town vehicle; substantial evidence supported the disciplinary determinations. Tottey v Varvayanis, 307 A.D.2d 652, 762 N.Y.S.2d 543, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8532 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 1 N.Y.3d 501, 775 N.Y.S.2d 239, 807 N.E.2d 289, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3915 (N.Y. 2003).

Fact that the hearing officer recommended a penalty of only an unpaid suspension for the employee's fraudulent workers' compensation claims did not compel a different result; while the hearing officer's recommendation was entitled to deference, the town's highway department superintendent remained free to disregard the recommendation, to make new findings and to impose different discipline. Tottey v Varvayanis, 307 A.D.2d 652, 762 N.Y.S.2d 543, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8532 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 1 N.Y.3d 501, 775 N.Y.S.2d 239, 807 N.E.2d 289, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3915 (N.Y. 2003).

39. Hearsay statements

Hearsay testimony supported only by circumstantial evidence did not constitute substantial evidence sufficient to support a determination of the Commissioner of Social Services that petitioner, a nurse's aide, was guilty of inappropriate physical contact with a female patient causing injury to the patient's left thumb where careful examination of the testimony led to the inescapable conclusion that the patient suffered from mental disorders, that there were no witnesses present at the time of the alleged incident and that all of the testimony of each witness concerning the incident was based on pure hearsay and incompetent opinion testimony improperly solicited by the hearing officer as to how the injury could have occurred. Eppler v Van Alstyne, 93 A.D.2d 930, 462 N.Y.S.2d 320, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17824 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

At a hearing before the police commission regarding a police officer's suspension without pay following charges of insubordination for failure to return to work after an injury, it was reasonable to assume that the commission was materially influenced by testimony of the department's doctor as to hearsay statements of other doctors who did not testify and whose reports were not admitted into evidence, since the conclusions of the non-testifying doctors significantly strengthened the department's case, and, under the circumstances, receipt of the hearsay statements without the opportunity of cross-examining the other doctors deprived the police officer of a fair hearing. Multari v Stony Point, 99 A.D.2d 838, 472 N.Y.S.2d 439, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17247 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Hearsay evidence of employee's refusal to work on particular occasion, which consisted of bare conclusory statement, was admissible in administrative hearing but was insufficient to support charge of misconduct where employee's own version of incident was otherwise uncontradicted. Drayton v Hasl, 121 A.D.2d 631, 503 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58615 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Compelling employees in titles in Groups I and II of Rapid Transit Railroad Service Classifications to submit to blood or urine test for purpose of detecting use of alcohol or drugs violates proscriptions against unreasonable searches and seizures unless predicated on reasonable suspicion with respect to particular employee; hearsay is admissible on issue of whether directive to submit to test is predicated on reasonable suspicion. Fiorenza v Gunn, 140 A.D.2d 295, 527 N.Y.S.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4636 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In disciplinary proceeding under CLS Civ S § 75, substantial evidence supported dismissal of city school district worker with permanent civil service status for various instances of unauthorized tardiness and absence from work, although partially based on hearsay, where hearsay in question, consisting of oral reports from staff persons to assistant school superintendent, were fact specific, narrowly drawn to issues of petitioner's violations, and contemporaneously made, and there was no reason to doubt that staff members had duty to report accurately to assistant superintendent. Diehsner v Schenectady City School Dist., 152 A.D.2d 796, 543 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9328 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Hearsay testimony of prisoner with whom complainant shared holding cell immediately after alleged assault by members of New York City Transit Police Department was properly admitted in department's disciplinary proceeding against them. Luciano v Brattan, 192 A.D.2d 658, 597 N.Y.S.2d 104, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3873 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

Transit authority officer was properly discharged for violation of departmental rules and regulations where testimony of eyewitness and hearsay testimony of store clerk and his assistant established that officer menaced clerk with his firearm and discharged firearm without authorization. Maloney v Suardy, 202 A.D.2d 297, 609 N.Y.S.2d 179, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2522 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

At police officer's dismissal hearing, commissioner properly accepted hearsay statements of 2 informants whose reliability was corroborated by police surveillance observations and investigation. Brinson v Safir, 255 A.D.2d 247, 680 N.Y.S.2d 500, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12683 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 805, 689 N.Y.S.2d 707, 711 N.E.2d 983, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 825 (N.Y. 1999).

Specifications against teacher's aide of inappropriate comments and physical contact with special education students were properly dismissed where they were either contradicted by students involved or were supported solely by hearsay testimony. Burkes v Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 257 A.D.2d 891, 684 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 506 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Admission and consideration of a written statement given by a custodian's girlfriend to police was not error in the custodian's disciplinary hearing; although the officer who took the statement from the girlfriend did not testify, the girlfriend testified at the hearing, admitted making the statement and offered an explanation as to why she gave the officer information that she now contended was not an accurate account of what transpired. Matter of James v Hoosick Falls Cent. School Dist., 93 A.D.3d 1131, 941 N.Y.S.2d 335, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2367 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

40. —Business records exception

Evidence sustained discharge of firefighter where 2 samples of his urine taken 4 days apart showed presence of marihuana;

Article 78 relief was not warranted on ground that such evidence constituted hearsay since (1) hearsay evidence is admissible in administrative proceedings, and findings of fact may be based on hearsay alone, and (2) in any event, laboratory records of urinalyses were within business records exception to hearsay rule. Lumsden v New York City Fire Dep't, 134 A.D.2d 595, 522 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50803 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

41. Illegally obtained evidence

Evidence of marihuana possession seized by city police officers from vehicle occupied by state trooper was properly admitted against trooper in state police administrative disciplinary proceeding, even though evidence was product of illegal search and required suppression in prior criminal prosecution, where city police could not have foreseen that trooper would be subject to disciplinary proceeding when they made seizure, they did not know of trooper's occupation prior to seizure, they did not act as agents of state police, and thus only negligible deterrence would result from exclusion of evidence; on other hand, suppression of such evidence would have significant adverse impact on truth-finding process in administrative proceedings concerning police officers involved in drug-related incidents. Boyd v Constantine, 81 N.Y.2d 189, 597 N.Y.S.2d 605, 613 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 697 (N.Y. 1993).

Illegally obtained evidence was inadmissible in proceeding before hearing officer on charges that patrolman employed by city housing authority illegally possessed dangerous drugs and hypodermic instruments. McPherson v New York City Housing Authority, 47 A.D.2d 828, 365 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9168 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Police officer's dismissal was based on substantial evidence where officer violated Patrol Guide by (1) not requesting presence of sergeant before searching body and premises of dead person, (2) not properly safeguarding or vouchering currency found in deceased's pocket, (3) placing currency in another location, (4) knowingly and falsely telling sergeant that he had not recovered currency, and (5) not making proper activity log entries of his assignment. Ward v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 287, 552 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

42. Incompetent evidence

County police officer was not denied a fair hearing, on charges asserted as ground for dismissal, by the admission, over objection, of legally incompetent evidence. Buttacavoli v Guido, 59 A.D.2d 891, 399 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14080 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. denied, 44 N.Y.2d 643, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 4291 (N.Y. 1978).

43. Matters outside record

Where director of school for mentally retarded, in rendering account of his decision to discharge permanent employee who had been accused of sexual relations with a school resident, acknowledged that he had relied on matters not appearing in record of hearing at which hearing officer had concluded that employee was innocent of charge, director's action violated general proposition that it is not proper for an administrative agency to base an adjudicatory decision on evidence or information outside the record, where right to a hearing exists. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

While compliance with strict evidentiary standards is not required in administrative hearing, it is clearly improper for administrative agency to base decision of adjudicatory nature, where there is right to hearing, upon evidence or information outside record. Avery v Rechter, 56 A.D.2d 963, 392 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11372 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

A Board of Education erred in considering un-established allegations concerning a school custodian's employment history, which allegations were contained in a confidential memorandum prepared by the superintendent of schools, since even though a governmental body has the right to consider other instances of misconduct or incompetence revealed in the employee's record, it was improper to impose a penalty determined in whole or in part on the basis of un-established allegations, the error was compounded by the fact that custodian was not informed that the board was going to consider these old allegations and so had no opportunity to refute or explain them, and the employment file was not part of the proceeding record. Lee v Board of Education, 90 A.D.2d 775, 455 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18980 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

44. Newly discovered evidence

The Commissioner of Conservation was justified in denying a motion to reopen his decision discharging petitioner as a game protector on charges of intoxication, etc., for alleged newly discovered evidence not produced until nearly four years after the hearing and determination, and dubious in character. Perry v Mauhs, 14 A.D.2d 624, 218 N.Y.S.2d 297, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9399 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 10 N.Y.2d 886, 1961 N.Y. LEXIS 2304 (N.Y. 1961).

45. Personnel record of employee considered as evidence

In proceeding to review determination of New York City Housing Authority discharging officer for incompetence and misconduct, psychiatric report sought by officer's superiors in order to determine whether officer's condition warranted termination was part of officer's reviewable employment record, since employee counseling unit's confidentiality requirement attached only where counseling was for purposes of remedying personal employment problems; in any event, officer waived issue of lack of notice of use of his employment record by failing to raise issue in his initial petition. David v Christian, 134 A.D.2d 349, 520 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50526 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Determination of city mayor dismissing petitioner from his city job was unreasonable where such penalty was determined in whole or in part on basis of unestablished allegations of unauthorized absences from work contained in memoranda in petitioner's personnel file; despite notice to petitioner that personnel file would be reviewed and inspected, mayor's reliance on file was improper and denied petitioner his due process rights. Segrue v Schenectady, 152 A.D.2d 826, 544 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9417 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989), rev'd, 76 N.Y.2d 758, 559 N.Y.S.2d 235, 558 N.E.2d 37, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1337 (N.Y. 1990).

Where a real property clerk was terminated for alleged misconduct and insubordination, there was no impropriety in the hearing officer's consideration of her overall employment record or a prior disciplinary proceeding in fashioning a penalty. Matter of Zlotnick v City of Saratoga Springs, 122 A.D.3d 1210, 997 N.Y.S.2d 809, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8228 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2014).

In two civil actions relating to an alleged assault by a police officer against the plaintiff, the internal investigation file consisting of the officer's personnel record was confidential and protected from discovery by Civ R Law § 50-a since the purpose of an internal investigation is to gather all pertinent information relating to possible police misconduct to enable the police department to evaluate the conduct of the officer and to determine appropriate disciplinary action, and since the internal investigation file is used as the basis for the department's case if a departmental hearing is conducted against the officer pursuant to Civ Serv Law § 75. Wunsch v Rochester, 108 Misc. 2d 854, 438 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2303 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

46. —Criminal matters

At disciplinary hearing wherein court officer was found guilty of misconduct and his employment was terminated, he was not denied due process when hearing officer conducted in camera review of Office of Court Administration's investigative file where file was subject of concurrent criminal investigation; in camera review protected both integrity of on-going criminal investigation and court officer's need to determine whether file contained any exculpatory material. Connolly v Williams, 210 A.D.2d 19, 618 N.Y.S.2d 808, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11874 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

47. Police misconduct, evidence of

A determination dismissing petitioner from his position with a city police department after a finding that he had broken into a neighbor's window by hurling two object through them by the use of a slingshot would be annulled, where the transcript of a press conference held by the city's mayor, an ex officio member of the board and the hearing officer in this case, indicated that the board had considered unsubstantiated complaints against petitioner which were outside of the record in its decision, where the board failed to make any findings of fact, and where petitioner's right to a fair hearing was compromised when petitioner's counsel was not permitted to impeach the credibility of a witness whose testimony was crucial to linking petitioner to the breaking of the windows. Spetalieri v Quick, 96 A.D.2d 611, 464 N.Y.S.2d 601, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19155 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer broke into store, stole food stamps, and failed to report fellow officers who performed same actions in his presence, despite officer's claim that evidentiary sources of questionable character were not corroborated by other reliable evidence, where hearing officer credited testimony of police department's sole eyewitness and its one informant, and testimony of department's witnesses was corroborated by tape-recorded conversation implicating police officer as participant in store break-in and theft. Scaturico v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 221, 552 N.Y.S.2d 24, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2180 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer broke into store, stole coins, failed to properly supervise officers under his command, and failed to report other officers who broke into store and committed theft in his presence, despite officer's claim that evidentiary sources of questionable character were not corroborated by other reliable evidence, where hearing officer credited testimony of police department's sole eyewitness and its one informant, and testimony of department's witnesses was corroborated by tape recorded conversation implicating dismissed officer in store break-in and theft. Jervas v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 222, 552 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Police officer's dismissal was based on substantial evidence where officer violated Patrol Guide by (1) not requesting presence of sergeant before searching body and premises of dead person, (2) not properly safeguarding or vouchering currency found in deceased's pocket, (3) placing currency in another location, (4) knowingly and falsely telling sergeant that he had not recovered currency, and (5) not making proper activity log entries of his assignment. Ward v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 287, 552 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that 2 police officers violated department rules of conduct and were subject to suspension, irrespective of who began altercation with complainant, where officers brushed complainant with their automobile, kicked complainant, beat him about head and face, "perhaps" pistol-whipped him, and failed to identify themselves as police officers until after altercation. Duncan v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 400, 553 N.Y.S.2d 99, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3026 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence did not support determination that police officer (petitioner) violated department rule requiring filing of report whenever officer drew "his weapon" where there was evidence that petitioner's fellow officers had drawn their weapons, but there was no evidence that petitioner had drawn his weapon; rule did not require that petitioner file report that his subordinates drew their weapons. Ligreci v Honors, 171 A.D.2d 1058, 568 N.Y.S.2d 992, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6801 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 853, 573 N.Y.S.2d 466, 577 N.E.2d 1058, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 904 (N.Y. 1991).

Substantial evidence supported determination that officers used unnecessary and excessive force while effectuating arrest, and thus suspension and disciplinary probation would be confirmed, where (1) complainant testified that he was held and struck with club, and (2) independent witness testified that he saw one officer hold complainant and another striking him on head with club, and witness then went to home of friend and called 911. Nunez v Ward, 172 A.D.2d 241, 567 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4466 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 855, 573 N.Y.S.2d 644, 578 N.E.2d 442, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 1333 (N.Y. 1991).

Substantial evidence supported determination that petitioner was guilty of conduct unbecoming police officer where he needlessly broadcast name and address of certain lieutenant on primary band fifth precinct radio frequency and posted 2 copies of summonses issued to lieutenant on "PBA bulletin board" at fifth precinct, acts which served no legitimate purpose and were solely to harass, embarrass and annoy lieutenant. Gang v Guido, 185 A.D.2d 272, 586 N.Y.S.2d 22, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8902 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Police officer's failure to remove his firearm in booking area did not, as matter of law, violate provision of police department code of ethics that "law enforcement officer shall conduct his official life in a manner such as will inspire confidence and trust"; hearing officer's contrary finding was clearly erroneous. Dicaprio v Trzaskos, 203 A.D.2d 759, 610 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4082 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Determination that petitioner abused his authority as police officer by falsely charging individual with assault, and that he made false memo book entry and false oral statement about incident to investigating sergeant, was supported by eyewitness testimony as well as sergeant's investigative report. Aliberti v O'Connor, 231 A.D.2d 472, 647 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9505 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Determination that state trooper violated CLS Penal § 400.05(1) was supported by his own admission that he retained 3 handguns as his own after they were surrendered to him while he was at scene of domestic disturbance; despite his alleged ignorance of law, he was required to retain and secure surrendered weapons for their eventual destruction. Hricik v McMahon, 247 A.D.2d 935, 668 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1320 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Finding that police officer stole money seized at illegal gambling location during police raid was supported by videotape surveillance of location, officer's failure to report allegations of corruption that were made against her in integrity tests conducted by Internal Affairs, and her admittedly false statements as to integrity tests given in departmental interview. Renna v Safir, 256 A.D.2d 219, 683 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13756 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

In a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, substantial evidence supported a hearing officer's findings of misconduct by a police officer because (1) the detailed sworn statement of the officer's 20-year-old girlfriend, prepared shortly after the alleged incident, related, among other things, that she and the officer drank alcoholic beverages at three bars that evening, they quarreled, the officer shoved her out the door, and he punched the right side of her chin; (2) the hearsay nature of the girlfriend's statement did not preclude it from being considered at the hearing; and (3) the officers who viewed the girlfriend's injuries, took her statement on the day of the incident, and photographed her injuries testified at the hearing. Correll v Bucci, 19 A.D.3d 919, 798 N.Y.S.2d 157, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7110 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

In two civil actions relating to an alleged assault by a police officer against the plaintiff, the internal investigation file consisting of the officer's personnel record was confidential and protected from discovery by Civ R Law § 50-a since the purpose of an internal investigation is to gather all pertinent information relating to possible police misconduct to enable the police department to evaluate the conduct of the officer and to determine appropriate disciplinary action, and since the internal investigation file is used as the basis for the department's case if a departmental hearing is conducted against the officer pursuant to Civ Serv Law § 75. Wunsch v Rochester, 108 Misc. 2d 854, 438 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2303 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

In a suit challenging both the legality of a city's Police Accountability Board's (PAB's) role in police discipline and its affect on collective bargaining with the police union, the court held Local Law No. 2 was unlawful and invalid only for the purpose of conducting hearings and disciplining officers of the city because state law bound the city since 1985, and the Council therefore acted ultra vires when it enacted portions of Local Law No. 2 that contradicted state law. Matter of Rochester Police Locust Club Inc. v City of Rochester, 2020 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 10983 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2020).

48. —Automobile involved

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer wrongfully possessed 10 forged parking permits, threatened witness and her family, knowingly made inaccurate entries in his activity log regarding number of summonses he issued, and wrongfully drove his private automobile while in uniform, where, inter alia, (1) witness testified that officer possessed forged permits and threatened her and her family, (2) officer subsequently attempted to submit forged permit for renewal, (3) tape recording had been made of telephone call threatening witness, children and mother, (4) officer claimed 334 summonses served when, in fact, he had issued only 225, (5) expert testified that officer presented expired and forged permit for renewal, and (6) officer admitted that he wrongfully drove his private automobile while in uniform. Suggs v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 381, 552 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2928 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination that police officer violated order of superior officer and willfully mistreated or assaulted another police officer where (1) petitioner, with permission of superior officer, placed bumper stickers on numerous police vehicles, (2) on next day, he found that about 20 such bumper stickers had been placed on bumpers, headlights, door handles and windows of his personal vehicle, (3) petitioner's superior officer said that he would take care of matter and that petitioner was not to get involved, and (4) petitioner confronted another police officer, had argument, and punched other police officer. Hammond v Amsterdam, 185 A.D.2d 495, 586 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8945 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Evidence supported determination that police officer drove vehicle in improper, unsafe, reckless, careless, or negligent manner, endangered safety and welfare of himself and others, caused damage to police vehicle, and failed to follow proper police rules and regulations where, in response to emergency call that child was not breathing, officer created near head-on collision, went off roadway onto shoulder and hit no-parking sign, sheering it off and shattering windshield, and then continued to proceed to location with limited visibility out of windshield. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 235 A.D.2d 698, 652 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

49. —Drugs involved

Determination of Superintendent of State Police that state trooper knowingly possessed marihuana was supported by substantial evidence for purposes of disciplinary hearing where marihuana was found by city police on console between front seats of vehicle, and vehicle was occupied by trooper and another man sitting in back seat. Boyd v Constantine, 81 N.Y.2d 189, 597 N.Y.S.2d 605, 613 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 697 (N.Y. 1993).

Finding that police officer was justifiably subjected to drug testing, on reasonable suspicion of drug abuse, was amply supported by substantial evidence that he had glassy, bloodshot and watery eyes, slurred speech, and history of suspicious mood swings, coupled with anonymous tips that he was one of several officers using drugs. Shepard v Ward, 155 A.D.2d 293, 547 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14008 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

New York City Transit Authority was justified in ordering transit police officer to undergo drug testing after he was involved in automobile accident while on duty, although involvement in automobile accident did not by itself provide reasonable suspicion that he was unfit for duty on account of illegal drug use, since he was member of joint terrorist task force and thus his job was particularly sensitive; Fourth Amendment proscribes only unreasonable searches and seizures. Barretto v City of New York, 157 A.D.2d 116, 555 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5354 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Dismissal of police officer for attempting to purchase crack cocaine while off duty and refusing to submit to urinalysis was supported by substantial evidence, even though vial recovered from officer contained soap powder, where (1) narcotics officers observed officer receive vial from known drug dealer, shake hands with dealer, put vial in his pocket, enter his car and make U-turn across 3 lanes of traffic, (2) after arrest officer stated "This is going to mean my job," (3) officer was distant, disoriented and slow in responding to questions, and (4) he refused to undergo urinalysis after being advised twice that refusal would result in suspension. Gaul v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 380, 553 N.Y.S.2d 9, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2913 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Police commissioner's determination that police officer wrongfully possessed and ingested quantity of marijuana was supported by evidence, including 2 EMIT tests performed on officer's urine samples and additional test known as bonded phase TLC. Trotta v Ward, 163 A.D.2d 182, 559 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8365 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990), rev'd, 77 N.Y.2d 827, 566 N.Y.S.2d 199, 567 N.E.2d 241, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 70 (N.Y. 1991).

Determination that police officer failed to supply requested urine sample was supported by evidence of test results showing that specimen officer submitted for testing contained yellow food dye, not urine. Blount v Bratton, 216 A.D.2d 6, 627 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5849 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Police commissioner's finding that police officer was properly subjected to drug testing on reasonable suspicion of drug use would be upheld where commissioner rationally could have credited testimony concerning mistake in transcription of numbers for urine samples, absent other evidence of flawed chain of custody for such samples. Allen v Police Dep't, 240 A.D.2d 229, 658 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6490 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

50. —Insubordination

A county deputy police commissioner improperly dismissed an off-duty county police officer from his position based on reports from two psychiatrists who had concluded that the officer was not fit, since such finding was not the equivalent of a finding of guilt pursuant to Civ S Law § 75, and the deputy commissioner had failed to follow the procedures applicable to findings of unfitness specified in Civ S Law §§ 72, 73. A county police officer who had been dismissed from his position on the asserted ground that he had disobeyed an order by the police commissioner that he refrain absolutely from taking any official action while off duty against apparent violations of law in his neighborhood would be ordered reinstated where, though the commissioner's version of what had transpired during his meeting with the officer supported the charge that had led to the officer's dismissal, the commissioner had failed to record his conversation with the officer as required by the collective bargaining agreement between the county and the police officers' union in the case of investigation of citizen complaints, and where the fact that the commissioner had intervened in the investigation in the belief that he was doing so informally did not eliminate the need for compliance with such recording requirement, so that the allegation that the officer had disobeyed a lawful order was unsupported by substantial evidence in the record. Cymbalsky v Dilworth, 97 A.D.2d 543, 467 N.Y.S.2d 902, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

Evidence did not support determination finding police officer guilty of insubordination for using profanity while engaging in off-duty conversation with superior officer over private phone line where, inter alia, town code of rules and regulations stated that members of police department were to be courteous to superior officers "while on duty," and superior officer in question often heard such language used and he had never instructed any of his subordinates to desist from using such profanity unless it was being used in dealing with civilian complaint. Curley v Town Bd., 218 A.D.2d 799, 631 N.Y.S.2d 51, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8951 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Substantial evidence supported a determination by a village board of trustees to terminate a police officer for insubordination under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 because the officer, almost immediately after being given an order to discontinue an investigation of a restaurant owner, who allegedly touched the daughter of the officer's paramour inappropriately, went to a female employee and obtained a statement as to the owner's inappropriate touching of female employees. Matter of Longton v Village of Corinth, 57 A.D.3d 1273, 869 N.Y.S.2d 682, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9799 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2008), app. denied, 13 N.Y.3d

51. —Off-duty misconduct

A county deputy police commissioner improperly dismissed an off-duty county police officer from his position based on reports from two psychiatrists who had concluded that the officer was not fit, since such finding was not the equivalent of a finding of guilt pursuant to Civ S Law § 75, and the deputy commissioner had failed to follow the procedures applicable to findings of unfitness specified in Civ S Law §§ 72, 73. A county police officer who had been dismissed from his position on the asserted ground that he had disobeyed an order by the police commissioner that he refrain absolutely from taking any official action while off duty against apparent violations of law in his neighborhood would be ordered reinstated where, though the commissioner's version of what had transpired during his meeting with the officer supported the charge that had led to the officer's dismissal, the commissioner had failed to record his conversation with the officer as required by the collective bargaining agreement between the county and the police officers' union in the case of investigation of citizen complaints, and where the fact that the commissioner had intervened in the investigation in the belief that he was doing so informally did not eliminate the need for compliance with such recording requirement, so that the allegation that the officer had disobeyed a lawful order was unsupported by substantial evidence in the record. Cymbalsky v Dilworth, 97 A.D.2d 543, 467 N.Y.S.2d 902, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

At a hearing before the police commission regarding a police officer's suspension without pay following charges of insubordination for failure to return to work after an injury, it was reasonable to assume that the commission was materially influenced by testimony of the department's doctor as to hearsay statements of other doctors who did not testify and whose reports were not admitted into evidence, since the conclusions of the non-testifying doctors significantly strengthened the department's case, and, under the circumstances, receipt of the hearsay statements without the opportunity of cross-examining the other doctors deprived the police officer of a fair hearing. Multari v Stony Point, 99 A.D.2d 838, 472 N.Y.S.2d 439, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17247 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Dismissal of police officer for attempting to purchase crack cocaine while off duty and refusing to submit to urinalysis was supported by substantial evidence, even though vial recovered from officer contained soap powder, where (1) narcotics officers observed officer receive vial from known drug dealer, shake hands with dealer, put vial in his pocket, enter his car and make U-turn across 3 lanes of traffic, (2) after arrest officer stated "This is going to mean my job," (3) officer was distant, disoriented and slow in responding to questions, and (4) he refused to undergo urinalysis after being advised twice that refusal would result in suspension. Gaul v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 380, 553 N.Y.S.2d 9, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2913 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination finding police officers guilty of misconduct while investigating accident by failing to report that off-duty officer was involved, failing to safeguard citizens involved in accidents who where assaulted and verbally abused by crowd of onlookers, and failing to properly investigate and document occurrence. McKean v Ward, 167 A.D.2d 117, 561 N.Y.S.2d 205, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13016 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Evidence supported sheriff's determination that deputy was guilty of, inter alia, conduct bringing discredit on sheriff's department, notwithstanding deputy's argument that there had been no evidence of media coverage causing adverse publicity or discredit following his participation in off-duty assault on 2 persons, since victims of assault, their relatives, hospital employees, and members of sheriff's department were "certainly" aware of assault, and such awareness was sufficient to discredit department. Evidence supported sheriff's determination that deputy was equally responsible with his companion (city police officer) for off-duty assault on innocent pedestrian where it was shown that deputy participated in assault by restraining victim's girlfriend from assisting victim, by giving warnings to victim, by failing to obtain medical care, and by failing to report incident. Robertson v Eccleston, 183 A.D.2d 1045, 583 N.Y.S.2d 630, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7165 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Police commissioner properly found that officer committed misconduct by obstructing traffic on bridge while he was off duty, and by participating in demonstration, where officer violated rules of city department of transportation prohibiting use of bridge by pedestrians. Loeffel v Kelly, 214 A.D.2d 431, 625 N.Y.S.2d 39, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4362 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 706, 632 N.Y.S.2d 499, 656 N.E.2d 598, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3436 (N.Y. 1995).

Evidence did not support determination finding police officer guilty of insubordination for using profanity while engaging in off-duty conversation with superior officer over private phone line where, inter alia, town code of rules and regulations stated that members of police department were to be courteous to superior officers "while on duty," and superior officer in question often heard such language used and he had never instructed any of his subordinates to desist from using such profanity unless it was being used in dealing with civilian complaint. Curley v Town Bd., 218 A.D.2d 799, 631 N.Y.S.2d 51, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8951 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

City police commissioner's accountability to public for integrity of police department justifies inquiries into inappropriate conduct of police officers while off duty and outside jurisdiction, particularly where alleged misconduct involves criminal acts. Martinez v Safir, 251 A.D.2d 62, 673 N.Y.S.2d 690, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

52. —Shooting involved

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer violated department regulations by failing to safeguard revolver where (1) officer regularly left revolver unattended on bedroom nightstand, (2) shooting victim twice obtained possession of weapon and pointed it at officer, and (3) officer's conduct indirectly contributed to shooting incident in which victim was rendered paraplegic. Rinando v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 303, 552 N.Y.S.2d 581, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2679 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 709, 561 N.Y.S.2d 913, 563 N.E.2d 284, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3281 (N.Y. 1990).

Substantial evidence did not support determination that police officer attempted to cause physical injury to neighbor when he discharged round from shotgun where (1) officer discharged round as neighbor, who was drunk, attempted to enter officer's house, and (2) officer testified that he fired through top of screen door after giving neighbor time to duck and in order to scare him away. Evidence did not support determination that police officer (petitioner) "wrongfully engage(d) in a physical altercation with an individual known to this (police) department" where (1) during altercation with another police officer, who lived next door, petitioner responded to neighbor's call to approach him, and (2) neighbor punched petitioner in face without justification, and friend of neighbor then kicked petitioner in head while he was down. Eng v Brown, 196 A.D.2d 89, 608 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 83 N.Y.2d 758, 615 N.Y.S.2d 875, 639 N.E.2d 416, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 1353 (N.Y. 1994).

Determination finding transit police officer guilty of failing to timely report discharge of his weapon was supported by evidence including his own admission that he did not report discharge of his weapon during some 8 hours following incident while he was in precinct, and fact that he revealed information about incident when confronted by desk sergeant as he was on his way out door. Cerio v New York City Transit Auth., 228 A.D.2d 676, 645 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

53. Polygraph test

Testimony regarding polygraph test of complainant was admissible at hearing on whether town police officer should be dismissed from his employment for, inter alia, allegedly subjecting complainant to unwanted sexual contact where such testimony was relevant, and there was substantial evidence of reliability of machine and qualifications of operator. Any error in receiving testimony regarding polygraph test of complainant at hearing on whether town police officer should be dismissed from his employment for, inter alia, allegedly subjecting complainant to unwanted sexual contact was harmless where neither hearing officer nor town board relied on that testimony in deciding charges that formed basis for penalty imposed. Ost v Supervisor of Woodstock, 251 A.D.2d 724, 673 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 488, 707 N.E.2d 443, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4260 (N.Y. 1998).

54. Prior proceedings, record of

After patrolman employed by city housing authority was found guilty of charges made against him, trial officer could properly consider patrolman's prior disciplinary record in determining whether to recommend that patrolman be dismissed. McPherson v New York City Housing Authority, 47 A.D.2d 828, 365 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9168 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Although standard of proof necessary to support finding of guilt in a civil service employee disciplinary proceeding is clearly different from standard applicable in criminal proceeding, acquittal on criminal charges which arose out of same incident as led to disciplinary charges is some evidence as to seriousness of conduct complained of, even though such acquittal cannot be conclusive against determination of guilt on disciplinary charges. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Petitioner's plea allocution statements, when she pled guilty to attempted criminal possession of controlled substance, was substantial evidence supporting determination of serious misconduct during petitioner's tenure as civil servant within meaning of Civ Serv Law § 75, notwithstanding petitioner's testimony that she pled guilty to save her fiancee from jail sentence. Cromwell v Bates, 105 A.D.2d 699, 481 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Transit authority was not precluded from discharging bus driver for making illegal sales of bus transfers to undercover agent on ground that he had been acquitted of criminal charges based on same sales transactions, since burden of proving guilt beyond reasonable doubt at criminal trial is inapplicable to administrative proceeding, wherein "substantial evidence" standard applies. Duran v Gunn, 135 A.D.2d 628, 522 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52565 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Sanitation worker's conviction of attempted third degree sale of controlled substance constituted misconduct. Telesco v Village of Port Chester, 211 A.D.2d 723, 622 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 461 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Public employee's pre-rehabilitation dependency related misconduct and absenteeism should not have been considered in determining penalty for altercation he had with civilian. Hutchinson v Lloyd, 216 A.D.2d 3, 627 N.Y.S.2d 46, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5877 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 710, 635 N.Y.S.2d 947, 659 N.E.2d 770, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4389 (N.Y. 1995).

A fireman who was dismissed from his position following his conviction on 10 felony counts of offering a false instrument for filing and two misdemeanor counts of violating the Tax Law with respect to sales taxes on the fireman's private business would not be entitled to annulment of his dismissal on the basis of a certificate of relief from disabilities that was issued to him pursuant to Correc Law § 701, since, though criminal activity may form the basis for disciplinary action under Civ S Law § 75, such dismissal is discretionary rather than mandatory, and Correc L § 701 specifically provides that certificates issued pursuant to its terms will not prevent any administrative board from relying on the underlying convictions as a basis for exercising its discretion; furthermore, the fireman would not be entitled to reinstatement under the terms of Correc Law § 752, since the statute applies only to applications for a license or employment by persons previously convicted of crimes, and has no bearing on persons who are already licensed or employed. Pisano v McKenna, 120 Misc. 2d 536, 466 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

55. —Sealed record

Prior Appellate Division determination that county erred in unsealing records of criminal proceeding did not compel conclusion that evidence thereby released could not be admitted at disciplinary hearing of police officer since evidence in question was lawfully obtained. Charles "Q" v Charles "Q" v Constantine, 204 A.D.2d 904, 612 N.Y.S.2d 687, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5434 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), aff'd, 85 N.Y.2d 571, 626 N.Y.S.2d 992, 650 N.E.2d 839, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1031 (N.Y. 1995).

56. Privileged information

Disciplinary hearing for state employee accused of assault at state hospital was not privileged, and although such statements taken under oath at said hearing may not be admissible in trial of claim for assault by attendant at state hospital, such statements would be admissible for impeachment purposes and claimant was entitled to examine the record of the civil service disciplinary hearing at an examination before trial. Bennett v State, 53 Misc. 2d 1038, 280 N.Y.S.2d 294, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1483 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1967).

While New York City is not listed as a "competent authority" under CPL § 619-c, subd. 4, to grant transactional immunity, it could nonetheless grant an employee use immunity, since Civil Service Law § 75 provides for disciplinary proceedings against state and city employees. Since use and derivative use immunity, not transactional immunity, are the full extent of protection which is constitutionally required to compel testimony over a claim of privilege, the Police Department's offer of use immunity to two suspended officers at a departmental hearing regarding their official duties was sufficient to meet the constitutional requirements to overcome their assertion of Fifth Amendment privilege. Hank v Codd, 424 F. Supp. 1086, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12636 (S.D.N.Y. 1975).

57. Sexual harassment, evidence of Determination by Department of Correctional Services that deputy superintendent of correctional facility sexually harassed several subordinate female employees was supported by substantial evidence where (1) woman testified that he put his arm around her and fondled her breasts on at least 10 occasions despite her protests, (2) another woman testified that he often put his hand on her leg while she worked and that on one occasion he pulled her onto his lap, (3) several other women testified that on numerous occasions he called them into his office and placed his hands on various parts of their bodies (including genital areas), made frequent comments to other female employees about their bodies, exposed his genitals and caused female subordinates to touch his genital area, and (4) several women expressed their fear of his violent temper and did not report many incidents sooner because of their fear of him. Oare v Coughlin, 133 A.D.2d 943, 520 N.Y.S.2d 658, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51985 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 615, 526 N.Y.S.2d 436, 521 N.E.2d 443, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 700 (N.Y. 1988).

Employee was properly found to have violated county's sexual harassment policy as result of 2 incidents in which she and another female employee pulled down, or attempted to pull down, trousers of male co-workers; however, such facts did not furnish any grounds for concluding that employee violated county's ethics code, which consisted of guidelines and rules governing topics such as receipt of gifts, disclosure of confidential information, conflicts of interest, and financial disclosure, but which contained no provision as to type of behavior in which employee was found to have engaged. Richards v Stolzenberg, 226 A.D.2d 818, 640 N.Y.S.2d 352, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3448 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Fact that county employee was found guilty of pulling down, or attempting to pull down, trousers of male coworkers did not thereby support conclusion that she violated County's Code of Employee Ethics and Standards of Conduct since Code contained no prohibition against type of conduct at issue. Davis v Stolzenberg, 228 A.D.2d 770, 643 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6436 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In a proceeding pursuant to pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78, it was determined that a school district erred in discharging a bus driver for sexual harassment pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, because the bus driver's conduct was not so pervasive as to permeate the workplace and alter the conditions of employment for the two female complainants. Macksel v Riverhead Cent. Sch. Dist., 2 A.D.3d 731, 769 N.Y.S.2d 585, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13874 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

Where the former employee was discharged for sexual harassment under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, substantial evidence supported the findings of guilty; the hearing testimony, including the former employee's own admissions, established that the former employee directed sexually-oriented comments to the coworker regarding the coworker's appearance, subjected the coworker to detailed conversations about the former employee's sex life, and demeaned the coworker in front of colleagues by making sexist and inappropriate statements about the coworker's work. Matter of Bayer v New York State Dept. of Labor, 28 A.D.3d 865, 812 N.Y.S.2d 691, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

58. Tapes as evidence; audio and video

In transit authority hearing on charge that bus driver illegally sold transfer books, it was not improper for audio and videotapes of illegal sale to be admitted into evidence since they contained relevant and reliable material which contributed to informed result. Gellman v Gunn, 143 A.D.2d 628, 533 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9497 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer broke into store, stole food stamps, and failed to report fellow officers who performed same actions in his presence, despite officer's claim that evidentiary sources of questionable character were not corroborated by other reliable evidence, where hearing officer credited testimony of police department's sole eyewitness and its one informant, and testimony of department's witnesses was corroborated by tape-recorded conversation implicating police officer as participant in store break-in and theft. Scaturico v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 221, 552 N.Y.S.2d 24, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2180 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer broke into store, stole coins, failed to properly supervise officers under his command, and failed to report other officers who broke into store and committed theft in his presence, despite officer's claim that evidentiary sources of questionable character were not corroborated by other reliable evidence, where hearing officer credited testimony of police department's sole eyewitness and its one informant, and testimony of department's witnesses was corroborated by tape recorded conversation implicating dismissed officer in store break-in and theft. Jervas v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 222, 552 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported dismissal of city tow operator for violation of agency procedures designed to protect cars and other property where (1) he pleaded guilty to 5 specifications involving 2 charges, (2) evidence included vouchers which had been filled out improperly, videotapes of employee, and statements of various inspectors and fellow employees, (3) administrative law judge determined that employee's actions were not merely negligent but purposeful, and recommended termination, and (4) employee did not testify or present witnesses, although he was represented by counsel. Orkopoulos v Sandler, 159 A.D.2d 285, 552 N.Y.S.2d 290, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2665 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Sanitation commissioner properly dismissed sanitation worker for solicitation and receipt of $20 bribe, even though worker argued that undercover investigator's credibility was undermined by videotape, where video was inconclusive except to establish that worker was standing within earshot of his partner when negotiation for money was commenced, and, in any event, sanitation department had prior disciplinary problems with worker. Cranford v Sexton, 159 A.D.2d 348, 552 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's finding that police officer wrongfully possessed 10 forged parking permits, threatened witness and her family, knowingly made inaccurate entries in his activity log regarding number of summonses he issued, and wrongfully drove his private automobile while in uniform, where, inter alia, (1) witness testified that officer possessed forged permits and threatened her and her family, (2) officer subsequently attempted to submit forged permit for renewal, (3) tape recording had been made of telephone call threatening witness, children and mother, (4) officer claimed 334 summonses served when, in fact, he had issued only 225, (5) expert testified that officer presented expired and forged permit for renewal, and (6) officer admitted that he wrongfully drove his private automobile while in uniform. Suggs v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 381, 552 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2928 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Finding that police officer stole money seized at illegal gambling location during police raid was supported by videotape surveillance of location, officer's failure to report allegations of corruption that were made against her in integrity tests conducted by Internal Affairs, and her admittedly false statements as to integrity tests given in departmental interview. Renna v Safir, 256 A.D.2d 219, 683 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13756 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

59. Uncontroverted testimony; uncontroverted evidence

Evidence, in hearing before city housing authority to dismiss housing fireman on the ground that he tampered with time clock on 66 occasions over a period of more than one year, was not sufficient to prove misconduct of the fireman who offered uncontradicted evidence that the time clock in question was malfunctioning during the relative time. Crosson v Golar, 45 A.D.2d 474, 359 N.Y.S.2d 301, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4089 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

A determination after a hearing of the Village of East Rochester terminating a police officer's employment based on the findings that he violated a General Order issued by the Police Chief prohibiting police personnel from taking calls out of the Village limits unless requested to do so by the dispatcher or unless "a state of emergency or a serious problem exists where life or property loss is at stake" was not supported by substantial evidence where the officer had left the village limits to pursue a speeding vehicle which had refused to pull over and was running in excess of the speed limit through stop signs and traffic signals at a time when bars were closing and people were on the streets, and where the evidence was uncontradicted that contrary to the Police Chief's contention there were no other police cars available to assist in the arrest. Bush v East Rochester, 80 A.D.2d 987, 437 N.Y.S.2d 472, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10899 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Hearsay evidence of employee's refusal to work on particular occasion, which consisted of bare conclusory statement, was admissible in administrative hearing but was insufficient to support charge of misconduct where employee's own version of incident was otherwise uncontradicted. Drayton v Hasl, 121 A.D.2d 631, 503 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58615 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Court would annul determination finding that petitioner, high school hall monitor, was not physically unable to perform his duties and that he should not have been absent from work due to severe ankle sprain where there was no support for hearing officer's implicit conclusion that, because petitioner "traveled outside the country on three separate occasions to perform services for a company owned or operated by his wife," he was physically capable of performing his assigned duties, hearing officer ignored uncontroverted evidence that "extensive" travel involved very little standing or walking, and petitioner's physician testified that little walking petitioner was required to do on his trips was actually beneficial, whereas demands of his work were too severe and could worsen his injury. Miller v Board of Educ., 239 A.D.2d 768, 657 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5214 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 808, 664 N.Y.S.2d 269, 686 N.E.2d 1364, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3098 (N.Y. 1997).

Because employee did not object to a supervisor's memorandum, produced after-the-fact, that she did not have permission to alter a time off slip or to take a different day off, there was sufficient evidence to support the hearing officer's determination of guilt and suspension without pay. King v State Dep't of Corr. Servs., 289 A.D.2d 824, 735 N.Y.S.2d 218, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12331 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

60. Unsworn testimony

In face of legislative direction that there is no necessity for imposition of technical rules of evidence in administrative proceeding involving discipline of government employees, there is no justification for imposing a more rigid standard as to admission of unsworn testimony in such cases than applies in civil cases generally. Although, given a proper foundation, unsworn testimony is admissible in administrative proceeding, such as proceedings involving discipline of a government employee, such fact does not obviate the requirement that there be substantial evidence in support of the administrative determination. Brown v Ristich, 36 N.Y.2d 183, 366 N.Y.S.2d 116, 325 N.E.2d 533, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1728 (N.Y. 1975).

C. Hearing Participants

i. Generally

61. Counsel

While the hearing may be more or less informal, the trial must be fair in all substantial respects. While some latitude is allowed as to rules of evidence, methods of examination and the like, no essential element of a fair trial—including the right to counsel and consultation with such counsel—can be dispensed with unless waived. Fusco v Moses, 304 N.Y. 424, 107 N.E.2d 581, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 424, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 757 (N.Y. 1952).

N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) has established a kind of Weingarten (NLRB v J. Weingarten, Inc., 420 U.S. 251 (1975)), right for public employees to which it applies, but a violation does not result in an improper practice proceeding before the New York State Public Employment Relations Board but in an exclusion from a disciplinary hearing of statements made at a disciplinary interview with the employee without an union representative present and evidence obtained as a result. New York City Tr. Auth. v New York State Pub. Empl. Relations Bd., 8 N.Y.3d 226, 832 N.Y.S.2d 132, 864 N.E.2d 56, 2007 N.Y. LEXIS 163 (N.Y. 2007).

City and police lieutenant had standing to challenge an attorney's representation of an officer in a disciplinary proceeding pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 because the lieutenant had previously consulted the attorney with respect to potential charges of insubordination against the same officer, creating an issue of a conflict of interest under N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 22, § 1200.27(a). Falk v Chittenden, 11 N.Y.3d 73, 862 N.Y.S.2d 839, 893 N.E.2d 116, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1822 (N.Y. 2008).

Troopers were not entitled to representation during critical incident reviews under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) or otherwise because such reviews did not relate to discipline, and, although the right to representation for administrative interrogations was included in the parties collective bargaining agreement (CBA), no such right was enumerated in CBA with regard to critical incident reviews. Police Benevolent Assn. of N.Y. State Troopers, Inc. v Division of N.Y. State Police, 11 N.Y.3d 96, 863 N.Y.S.2d 387, 893 N.E.2d 803, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1930 (N.Y. 2008).

Plea agreement between correction department and correction officer disposing of drug use charges was valid and enforceable, even though officer was not represented by counsel, where (1) departmental advocate advised officer of her right to adjournment of hearing to obtain counsel, or alternatively to consult with her union's attorney (who was present in building), (2) she refused these offers, and (3) she signed waiver of counsel and then entered plea agreement. Nedd v Koehler, 159 A.D.2d 344, 552 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2870 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Nonappearance of correction officer's counsel on first day of hearing on charges of misconduct did not taint hearing where (1) when hearing resumed on subsequent date, counsel did not ask to cross examine lone witness who testified on first day, and (2) correction officer did not contradict any statements made by that witness. McDowell v Koehler, 159 A.D.2d 424, 553 N.Y.S.2d 116, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3121 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Statement given by trooper during interview with police investigators was not inadmissible at disciplinary hearing, even though he was not represented by counsel at interview as required by collective bargaining agreement, since such interview constituted "ordinary supervisory inquiry," and thus was not governed by procedural requirements of collective bargaining agreement. Reid v State Executive Dep't, Div. of State Police, 208 A.D.2d 747, 617 N.Y.S.2d 510, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9873 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

The right of an employee against whom charges are preferred to be "represented by counsel" means by an attorney at law, not any person of his choosing. Manzi v Kaplan, 35 Misc. 2d 793, 231 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3068 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), aff'd, 20 A.D.2d 791, 248 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

Tenured school teacher was entitled to vacatur of arbitration award removing him from employment because his rights were prejudiced by arbitrator's interim decision which precluded him from speaking to his attorney about his testimony during lengthy delays in hearing that took place periodically over period of 10 weeks, interfering with his right to meaningful representation by counsel. Elmore v Plainview-Old Bethpage Cent. Sch. Dist., Bd. of Educ., 180 Misc. 2d 762, 690 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 232 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999), aff'd in part, modified, 273 A.D.2d 307, 708 N.Y.S.2d 713, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6507 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Trial court erred in a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding in directing a town board to determine whether an officer was entitled to representation under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) during certain questioning by his department because the Westchester County Police Act, N.Y. Laws 104, was a special law and provided that proceedings to discipline police officers in Westchester County, New York, be conducted by the boards of police commissioners; thus, under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(4), police disciplinary procedures were not a proper subject of collective bargaining and N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 did not apply. Matter of Town of Harrison Police Benevolent Assn., Inc. v Town of Harrison Police Dept., 69 A.D.3d 639, 892 N.Y.S.2d 495, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 111 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

62. Hearing officers

Although it was not necessary that director of school for mentally retarded personally conduct hearing on charge that permanent employee at school had been guilty of misconduct, it was essential that any determination as to misconduct and penalty be made by the director, as that function may not be delegated. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

A determination by an acting director of Pilgrim State Hospital, dismissing petitioner as staff attendant, was annulled on the law and the matter remitted for making written findings of fact as to grounds of decision and a written determination based upon such findings, and for admission in evidence of the written designation or authorization of the hearing officer. Klein v Department of Mental Hygiene, 15 A.D.2d 562, 222 N.Y.S.2d 1010, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6877 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1961).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review a determination of the Commissioner of the Department of Buildings which found petitioner guilty of certain specified charges of misconduct and incompetency and dismissed him from his position as a plumbing code enforcement officer, the trial court properly affirmed the determination of the Commissioner since the determination was supported by substantial evidence on the record taken as a whole, it was neither arbitrary, capricious, nor affected by error of law, and the penalty of termination was not so disproportionate to the offenses in light of all the circumstances as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness; however, the petitioner would be entitled to back pay and benefits from the date that he was initially terminated under a prior determination until the date of the determination at issue herein. O'Reilly v White Plains, 92 A.D.2d 920, 460 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17326 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

In proceeding by which school district terminated employment of school custodian, requirement of CLS Civ S § 75 that hearing officer be designated in writing was satisfied by written record of school district's adoption of resolution appointing hearing officer. Salley v Hempstead School Dist., 121 A.D.2d 547, 504 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58524 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

City mayor had authority, without city council's authorization, to conduct disciplinary hearing and determine punishment of employee, even though city charter provided that mayor must have city council's consent to appoint such employees, since mayor possessed power of appointment and thus had power of removal, which was not subject to consent of council. Waters v Glen Cove, 181 A.D.2d 783, 580 N.Y.S.2d 796, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3702 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Town highway superintendent should have disqualified himself from making final determination of misconduct charges against highway foreman (petitioner) where superintendent, who had previously attempted unsuccessfully to appoint his son to replace petitioner, conducted investigatory inspection, preferred charges against petitioner, designated hearing officer, presented evidence in support of charges, and testified against petitioner at hearing. Memmelaar v Straub, 181 A.D.2d 980, 581 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Petitioner, who was charged with accepting $20 for removal of bulk waste, was deprived of fair hearing when hearing officer who heard primary witness against him was unable to complete hearing, and second hearing officer was assigned to complete hearing and render decision, as inability of hearing officer who rendered decision to actually view demeanor of witness and evaluate his credibility significantly undermined fairness of hearing, in light of discrepancies in witness' description of sanitation worker. Pesce v Commissioner of Sanitation, 234 A.D.2d 77, 650 N.Y.S.2d 700, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12380 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Court would restore petitioner to his former position, together with back pay and benefits, where there was no record of written designation appointing hearing officer who presided over disciplinary hearing. Perez v New York State DOL, 244 A.D.2d 844, 665 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11975 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Terminated village motor equipment operator was not denied independent appraisal of his disciplinary proceeding, even though village mayor, who testified against him, participated in review of hearing officer's recommendation, where mayor did not participate in review process conducted by village board of trustees. Hussey v Incorporated Village of Farmingdale, 251 A.D.2d 579, 674 N.Y.S.2d 757, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7519 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Sheriff, alone, properly designated a hearing officer in a disciplinary hearing against a deputy sheriff filed under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) as the sheriff was the officer with the power under N.Y. County Law § 652(2) to remove the deputy, even though the deputy was employed by both the sheriff and a county. Matter of Eck v County of Delaware, 36 A.D.3d 1180, 828 N.Y.S.2d 682, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 678 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

Sheriff's appointment of hearing officer to preside over employee's disciplinary proceeding alleging, among other things, that the employee had threatened the sheriff, was proper; the conflict for the sheriff was self-evident and required that he disqualify himself from conducting the necessary review of the findings and recommendations made by the hearing officer, and, additionally, the only officers within the department, aside from the sheriff, who had command authority over the employee were disqualified because of his status as a material witness who testified at the hearing. The sheriff not only had the authority to deputize the administrator, and make him a member of the sheriff's department, but also had the right to delegate to him the authority to conduct the review. Matter of Guynup v County of Clinton, 74 A.D.3d 1552, 903 N.Y.S.2d 580, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4810 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Hearing officer was validly appointed because (1) an employer's board of trustees' (board) minutes showed a resolution to appoint the officer, and (2) a letter to the officer from the board's president on the employer's letterhead said the officer was appointed. Matter of Tinter v Board of Trustees of the Pound Ridge Lib. Dist., 155 A.D.3d 1054, 66 N.Y.S.3d 526, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8437 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

Acting senior director of state mental hospital need not be designated in writing as hearing officer in order to hold a hearing on charges against an employee, and make his decision and determination in the matter. Manzi v Kaplan, 35 Misc. 2d 793, 231 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3068 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), aff'd, 20 A.D.2d 791, 248 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

Purpose of provision in Retirement and Social Security Law that service of any person retained after age 70 may be terminated at any time by the head of the department is to give a head of department absolute authority to dismiss such an employee without benefit of hearing provided by Civil Service Law. Nurenberg v Ward, 84 Misc. 2d 80, 375 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3054 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), rev'd, 51 A.D.2d 1022, 381 N.Y.S.2d 412, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11806 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

In a termination hearing concerning a city employee, the fact that the hearing officer had been employed by the city more than 15 years earlier did not create a due process violation or deprive the employee of a fair hearing. McLean v City of Albany, 13 A.D.3d 851, 785 N.Y.S.2d 801, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15293 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Town justice may serve as hearing officer where such service is occasional, whether compensated or uncompensated, in disciplinary proceeding brought by county or county department against county employee pursuant to CLS Civil Service Law § 75, which requires hearing officer to make findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommendation to be submitted to appropriate county official. Op Adv Com Jud Ethics, Vol III, (/89) Op No. 89-40.

63. —Disqualification, generally

City commissioner of public safety was not obliged to disqualify himself as hearing officer in disciplinary proceeding against fireman where commissioner had no particular knowledge of material disputed facts, even though charges preferred against fireman chiefly concerned disobedience of commissioner's departmental policy; moreover, it was immaterial whether actual order fireman disobeyed originated from commissioner before being spoken by fireman's superior officer, since fireman remained bound to follow order. Dejnozka v Saratoga Springs, 68 N.Y.2d 947, 510 N.Y.S.2d 85, 502 N.E.2d 1000, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20890 (N.Y. 1986).

To establish bias of administrative hearing officer as matter of fact, there must be support for bias in record and proof that outcome of hearing flowed from bias; petitioner's unsworn memorandum asserting that civil service hearing officer was respondent's employee was insufficient. Hughes v Suffolk County Dep't of Civil Service, 74 N.Y.2d 833, 546 N.Y.S.2d 335, 545 N.E.2d 625, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2834 (N.Y. 1989).

Employee's termination was properly annulled in an N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding because the parks commissioner, being conflicted due to testimony he and his family gave at the employee's disciplinary hearing, improperly designated the public works commissioner to review the record and render the final decision; under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, the only individual authorized to act in the absence of the parks commissioner was his deputy commissioner. The employee was entitled to be reinstated with back pay and benefits. Matter of Gomez v Stout, 13 N.Y.3d 182, 889 N.Y.S.2d 509, 918 N.E.2d 99, 2009 N.Y. LEXIS 3867 (N.Y. 2009).

This section contemplates a hearing before the head of the department involved, and, therefore, there is no merit in the criticism that the industrial commissioner acted as accuser, prosecutor and judge in a hearing involving a member of his department. People ex rel. Davis v Sayer, 205 A.D. 562, 200 N.Y.S. 134, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5082 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

In hearing on charges against employee of department of audit and control, employment of deputy comptroller as hearing officer when witnesses called on behalf of department were subordinates complied with statute and was not prejudicial. Greaney v Bahou, 57 A.D.2d 646, 393 N.Y.S.2d 211, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11673 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Where referee at disciplinary hearing granted transit authority employee had been named a technical defendant in Article 78 proceeding by employee, referee was under obligation to grant motion to change hearing referee to avoid even the appearance of impropriety. Yeampierre v Gutman, 57 A.D.2d 898, 394 N.Y.S.2d 450, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12137 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

The fact that the hearing officer at the hearing at which petitioner was dismissed from her civil service position was the supervisor of petitioner's attorney did not deny her a fair and impartial hearing where the officer was properly appointed, and petitioner failed to show that the officer's supervisorial position gave him access to confidential information. Pollman v Fahey, 106 A.D.2d 771, 483 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21698 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Individual dismissed from his position as maintainer was not denied his right to fair hearing and impartial hearing officer merely because hearing officer was attorney for respondent school district since there was nothing to indicate that officer became aware of any facts of case prior to hearing, nor was there evidence of bias or personal involvement on his part. Gioe v Board of Education, 126 A.D.2d 723, 511 N.Y.S.2d 129, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41870 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

In civil service disciplinary proceeding, fact that assistant commissioner of Department of Transportation signed statement of charges against department employee did not by itself mandate that she disqualify herself from reviewing hearing officer's findings and recommendations as to employee. City properly appointed retired county judge from another county to act as hearing officer at petitioner's disciplinary hearing even though judge was not employee of city department of public safety, as required by CLS Unconsol Ch 51 § 1, since (1) petitioner (city deputy chief of police) had close relationship with police chief, who thus could not act as hearing officer, (2) public safety commissioner had disqualified himself for bias, (3) only remaining candidates were subordinates, and (4) judge had background and ability to conduct fair hearing. Fraccola v Utica, 135 A.D.2d 1112, 523 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52972 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 533 N.Y.S.2d 56, 529 N.E.2d 424, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2614 (N.Y. 1988), cert. denied, 489 U.S. 1053, 109 S. Ct. 1313, 103 L. Ed. 2d 582, 1989 U.S. LEXIS 1054 (U.S. 1989).

Police officer's challenge to hearing officer's impartiality in dismissal hearing would be denied where police officer made no showing that hearing officer bore any animosity towards him or was personally involved in investigation. Jervas v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 222, 552 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Mere fact that hearing officer had presided over prior disciplinary proceeding against county employee did not require that hearing officer recuse himself in later disciplinary proceeding. Roberts v Stolzenberg, 202 A.D.2d 854, 609 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2550 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Mere fact that hearing officer was formerly employed as police officer by respondent village was not sufficient to disqualify him from presiding over disciplinary hearing involving village police officer; thus, where record as whole did not substantiate petitioner's claim of bias, Article 78 proceeding to review termination of his employment as police officer would be dismissed. Nichols v Village of Malone, 229 A.D.2d 721, 645 N.Y.S.2d 906, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7818 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Authority to decide whether a city employee should be terminated in disciplinary proceedings was improperly delegated by a mayor to a decisionmaker who had no affiliation with the city; inherent in the requirement of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) that such decisions are to be made by an official with authority to remove the employee is a requirement that there be some connection between the person by whom the employment decision is made and the governmental employment at issue. Matter of McComb v Reasoner, 29 A.D.3d 795, 815 N.Y.S.2d 665, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6546 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

An administrative official to whom the legislature has confided the power of removal may conduct a hearing where the charges are made or instigated by him, and even where it is clear that the accused cannot have a fair trial, the courts have no power to disqualify the officer the legislature has chosen from hearing the charges. Haskins v Warner, 46 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1640 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

Hearing officer's recusal from a former employee's disciplinary hearing under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 was not mandated because the employee made no factual showing that the hearing examiner was biased or that the outcome flowed from bias because of the hearing examiner's involvement in the employee's previous disciplinary hearing or his representation by the prosecuting attorney in a separate civil proceeding. Matter of Compasso v Sheriff of Sullivan County, 29 A.D.3d 1064, 814 N.Y.S.2d 773, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5877 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

64. — —Knowledge of information concerning charges

In hearing on charges of misconduct by town employee where deputy superintendent of highways who acted as hearing officer possessed vital information concerning the charges but refused to disqualify himself or to give testimony, petitioner was deprived of substantial right which invalidated the entire hearing. Cross v Pearsall, 29 A.D.2d 553, 286 N.Y.S.2d 136, 1967 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2714 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1967).

Hearing conducted before warden, which resulted in the dismissal of prison guard, was invalid, where, prior to the hearing, warden had knowledge of most of the relevant facts, had caused the precipitating incident to be investigated and had caused the charges to be referred, and petitioner had made a formal request for the designation of a hearing officer other than the warden. Waters v McGinnis, 29 A.D.2d 969, 289 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4245 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

Under Civil Service Law § 75, subd 2, corporation counsel, an appointee of city manager, was properly designated hearing officer in proceedings for dismissal of chief building inspector for misconduct in office, absent a showing that such hearing officer possessed knowledge which would require him to disqualify himself, or that inspector was treated unfairly. O'Neil v De Santis, 40 A.D.2d 924, 338 N.Y.S.2d 153, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3237 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1972).

Associate personnel administrator of developmental center, facility of Department of Mental Hygiene, who was found guilty following hearing of various charges of misconduct and incompetence, was not deprived of fair hearing on theory that officer who presided at hearing was deputy director of another facility within Department of Mental Hygiene and was personally acquainted with certain parties involved in proceeding where designation of hearing officer was properly made in accordance with Civil Service Law and where there was no indication that he was possessed with any vital information concerning charges against petitioner that would require him to disqualify himself. Avery v Rechter, 56 A.D.2d 963, 392 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11372 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

A county clerk who had formally charged an employee with misconduct and incompetency should have disqualified himself not only from acting as the hearing officer, as he did, but also from reviewing the hearing officer's recommendations. Sander v Owens, 82 A.D.2d 968, 440 N.Y.S.2d 489, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14703 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

Disciplinary charge against firefighter, alleging that he used listening device to eavesdrop on fellow firefighters, should not have been dismissed on ground that firefighter had previously been suspended with pay for same activity, since suspension with pay was not among prescribed penalties which could be imposed after civil service hearing, and thus consideration of charge was not barred. Schuttak v Board of Trustees, 187 A.D.2d 916, 590 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13456 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

In county administrative proceeding to determine whether senior nursing aide at county medical center had engaged in misconduct, hearing officer need not have disqualified himself as matter of due process because he had heard testimony concerning similar charges in prior proceeding where there was no indication that hearing officer had prejudged specific facts in dispute because of his involvement in prior proceeding. Joseph v Stolzenberg, 198 A.D.2d 506, 604 N.Y.S.2d 198, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11051 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

Disciplinary proceeding against plaintiff was not tainted on ground that hearing officer was improperly advised prior to hearing that police officer had been previously issued letter of reprimand where letter was not introduced either at hearing or prior to determination of discipline, hearing officer never saw letter or read its contents, and there was no suggestion that hearing officer, who made specific and detailed findings, impermissibly considered letter in reaching his determination. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 235 A.D.2d 698, 652 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Despite substantial evidence of police officer's misconduct, penalty of dismissal from his employment would be annulled where 4 members of town board of trustees who voted for dismissal also preferred charges and testified against him at hearing. Norton v Village of Phoenix Bd. of Trustees, 245 A.D.2d 1143, 667 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13995 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

Order of Superintendent of Department of Highways, which terminated petitioner's employment after disciplinary hearing in which he was found to have struck fellow employee, was annulled on ground that superintendent should have disqualified himself from making final determination because of his personal involvement, where he was present when incident occurred, he made statements as to what he heard and saw, and he conducted initial investigation, preferred charges against petitioner and appointed hearing officer. Stein v County of Rockland, 259 A.D.2d 552, 686 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2319 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

65. —Jurisdiction

A hearing officer's failure to include recommendations as to discipline when preparing his or her report after a disciplinary hearing pursuant to Civil S Law § 75(2) does not strip the subject agency of jurisdiction to impose sanctions upon its employee, since the failure to recommend discipline is important only to the extent that it omits a suggested starting point from which the removing entity may begin to fashion the appropriate sanction, and since, though a disciplinary proceeding will be voided and the status quo ante restored when there has been some error that has tainted the entire proceeding, such situation simply does not arise when a hearing officer acts pursuant to a valid deligation, prepares a detailed report, and provides such report along with a transcript to the removing board or officer but omits to include recommendations as to discipline. Wiggins v Board of Education, 60 N.Y.2d 385, 469 N.Y.S.2d 652, 457 N.E.2d 758, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3457 (N.Y. 1983).

Requirements of this section, that the designation of a deputy for hearing of charges shall be "in writing," and that such deputy shall refer the record of the hearing to his superior "with his recommendations," are both jurisdictional, and failure to comply with either is fatal to the proceedings for the commissioner or his deputy, undertaking the trial of a subordinate on charges, constitutes a court of inferior jurisdiction, jurisdiction of which must be demonstrated when challenged. Blount v Forbes, 250 A.D. 15, 293 N.Y.S. 319, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8253 (N.Y. App. Div. 1937).

There was entire absence of jurisdiction to conduct hearing or to discipline petitioner where (1) hearing officer designated in writing by village disqualified himself and orally designated as hearing officer another person who was seated in hearing room, and (2) there was no evidence that designation of second hearing officer was in writing in compliance with CLS Civ S § 75(2). Bozeman v Greenport, 154 A.D.2d 372, 545 N.Y.S.2d 849, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989), app. denied, 75 N.Y.2d 703, 552 N.Y.S.2d 108, 551 N.E.2d 601, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 37 (N.Y. 1990).

Jurisdiction was not lacking in disciplinary proceedings against a city employee on the ground that the mayor was not the employee's appointing authority and therefore should not have preferred the charges against her; N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) requires only that the person faced with disciplinary action be provided with written notice of the charges and be given an opportunity to answer, and does not specify by whom charges are to be preferred. Matter of McComb v Reasoner, 29 A.D.3d 795, 815 N.Y.S.2d 665, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6546 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Hearing examiner lacked jurisdiction to preside over disciplinary proceedings against a city employee because the hearing examiner was improperly designated by the mayor, who was neither a person with the authority to remove the employee nor a person designated in writing for that purpose as required by N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2); although the city officials who did have that power testified as witnesses during the hearing, they were not unavailable to designate a hearing examiner. Matter of McComb v Reasoner, 29 A.D.3d 795, 815 N.Y.S.2d 665, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6546 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2006).

Determination terminating an employee was annulled and the employee was reinstated because there was no evidence that the district attorney ever designated the hearing officer in a writing sufficient to satisfy the N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 statutory requirement; the employee's failure to object to the absence of such written designation was of no moment inasmuch as this jurisdictional defect could not have been waived. Matter of Arthur v Soares, 95 A.D.3d 1619, 945 N.Y.S.2d 782, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5394 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

66. Witnesses

For the purpose of a hearing under this section, no statutory authority exists for an order directing the issuance of an open commission to take the testimony of a nonresident witness. Corporation Counsel of New York v Smith, 1 N.Y.2d 813, 153 N.Y.S.2d 72, 135 N.E.2d 603, 1956 N.Y. LEXIS 855 (N.Y. 1956).

In an administrative proceeding, such as a proceeding involving discipline of a government employee, where the administration of an oath would be unavailing for the purpose for which an oath is normally administered, unsworn testimony may be received provided a sufficient foundation exists to support a hearing officer's determination that the witness possesses rudimentary testimonial capacity. Unsworn testimony of two patients at hospital for mentally retarded was properly received at hearing concerning discipline of hospital attendant for striking one of the patients where although patients had I.Q. levels of 43 and 50 the school psychologist testified that they were able to relate to reality, and could explain what was going on around them and understood the difference between telling the truth and telling a lie; reliance on unsworn testimony, which was consistent with circumstantial evidence indicating that injury resulted from a blow by a hard object, did not deprive attendant of a fair administrative hearing. Although attendant at state hospital for mentally retarded had right to a fair disciplinary hearing, the court, in determining whether unsworn testimony of the inmate could properly be received and considered in the administrative proceeding, could not overlook the rights of the institutional residents, especially those incapable of eloquent expression and abstract thought; such individuals also deserve a fair hearing. Brown v Ristich, 36 N.Y.2d 183, 366 N.Y.S.2d 116, 325 N.E.2d 533, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1728 (N.Y. 1975).

Due process did not require production of laboratory personnel at disciplinary hearing of police officer where (1) no question was raised as to general reliability of procedures used by personnel to test officer's urine for cocaine, (2) supervisor who did testify under direct and cross-examination was familiar with each step in procedure, and (3) no claim was made of any particular defect in testing. Gordon v Brown, 84 N.Y.2d 574, 620 N.Y.S.2d 749, 644 N.E.2d 1305, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4196 (N.Y. 1994).

Because the testimony of two board of education members, concerning the charges levied against an employee pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, rendered them personally involved in the disciplinary process, the employee's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 petition was properly granted and the witnesses disqualified from subsequently acting upon any of the charges related to the hearing. Matter of Baker v Poughkeepsie City School Dist., 18 N.Y.3d 714, 945 N.Y.S.2d 589, 968 N.E.2d 943, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 507 (N.Y. 2012).

Refusal of permission to call the wife of a veteran at a hearing in proceedings for his removal from his position as guard at Sing Sing prison on intoxication charges, does not violate his rights under this section, where he had full opportunity to testify in his own behalf and his wife, who was not a witness to the occurrence, sought only to plead for leniency. Smith v Lyons, 262 A.D. 374, 29 N.Y.S.2d 574, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5370 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 262 A.D. 976, 30 N.Y.S.2d 112, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6750 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

In disciplinary proceeding instituted against patrolman employed by city housing authority, it was province of trial officer and administrative body to pass upon credibility of witnesses. McPherson v New York City Housing Authority, 47 A.D.2d 828, 365 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9168 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Administrative law judge did not improperly admit testimony of 12-year-old and 6-year-old children without foundation as to their ability to understand meaning of oath where (1) there was nothing to indicate that children's testimony was unreliable, (2) both children testified with considerable clarity and detail, (3) employer's counsel specifically elicited from 6-year-old child prior to her unsworn testimony that she knew difference between truth and lie, and that she knew importance of telling truth at hearing, and (4) 12-year-old child's sworn testimony was clear and straightforward and was substantiated in great part by his mother's testimony. Heslop v Board of Educ., Newfield Cent. Sch. Dist., 191 A.D.2d 875, 594 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2383 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

67. Subpoenas

A petitioner, war veteran, was dismissed from his Civil Service position after a hearing by the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority for misclassifying trucks. Where his dismissal resulted largely from hearsay testimony, and he was not granted the right of subpoena, the determination of the authority will be annulled and the petitioner is entitled to a new hearing with the right of subpoena. Reynolds v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Authority, 276 A.D. 388, 94 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4869 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

Although the evidence received at a hearing charging petitioner with incompetence and misconduct supported the determination of the industrial commissioner to discharge the petitioner, a new hearing was ordered where the hearing officer refused to sign subpoenas for certain persons requested by the petitioner. The requirements of subdivision 2 constitute a substantial right, and a refusal to issue subpoenas upon the request of a petitioner is sufficient to invalidate the entire hearing. Julien v Lubin, 8 A.D.2d 704, 185 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8651 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1959).

At disciplinary hearing wherein court officer was found guilty of misconduct and his employment was terminated, he was not denied due process when hearing officer denied application for adjournment to subpoena additional witnesses where court officer was aware of existence of witnesses on first day of hearing but waited until next day to request adjournment, and he did not make sufficient showing that witnesses would provide relevant testimony. Connolly v Williams, 210 A.D.2d 19, 618 N.Y.S.2d 808, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11874 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

A civil service employee on a disciplinary trial was not entitled to an order directing a hearing officer to issue a subpoena for records on which she relied, since an Article 78 proceeding would protect her rights and said Article 78 proceeding prohibits a review where there has been no final determination of the rights of the parties. Schwartz v Naftalison, 11 Misc. 2d 439, 173 N.Y.S.2d 157, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3698 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A motion by a state agency to compel an employee to comply with a subpoena issued in connection with the agency's investigation into alleged mismanagement and misconduct would be granted, since the agency has broad power to issue subpoenas for the purpose of making inquiry as to the official conduct of any employee under Pub O Law § 61, and Civ S Law § 75 makes no mention of questioning the person against whom a disciplinary proceeding has been proposed previous to the commencement of the proceeding and after disciplinary charges are filed; due process does not require any investigation and questioning of an employee to be stayed until the § 75 hearing is complete. New York State Dep't of Transp. v Matt, 124 Misc. 2d 1080, 478 N.Y.S.2d 1007, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3311 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

ii. Particular Employees

68. In general

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a former associate counsel with the Temporary State Commission on Regulation of Lobbying to challenge his dismissal without a hearing, the former counsel demonstrated no procedural violation in the manner in which his employment was terminated, where he was not entitled to a due process hearing in that he never alleged that there was public dissemination of the reasons for his dismissal, and where reports of his active assistance to two public interest lobbying groups regulated by the commission were not improper bases for termination of employment. Thomas v New York Temporary State Com. on Regulation of Lobbying, 56 N.Y.2d 656, 451 N.Y.S.2d 708, 436 N.E.2d 1310, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3334 (N.Y. 1982).

A proceeding to annul a determination removing petitioner from a "functional title" (an intradepartmental non-civil service title established for administrative convenience) of "Division Head of Continuing Services" would be dismissed. Although petitioner lost some duties and responsibilities, he did not lose his civil service grade or title, nor was he subjected to any disciplinary penalty provided for in Civ S Law § 75; consequently, although petitioner may have been demoted in the sense of dismissal from his functional position, he was not demoted within the meaning of Civ S Law § 75(3), and thus was not entitled to a hearing. Galatti v County of Dutchess, 64 N.Y.2d 1163, 491 N.Y.S.2d 89, 480 N.E.2d 678, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14672 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 65 N.Y.2d 924, 493 N.Y.S.2d 1030, 483 N.E.2d 136, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15219 (N.Y. 1985).

An allegation that petitioner held a position as investigator in the office of the district attorney for a period during which he was paid his salary by the county auditor upon certification by the commission does not as a matter of law constitute a permanent position from which he cannot be legally removed without charges under this section. Budd v Hill, 243 A.D. 735, 277 N.Y.S. 534, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8011 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

Petitioners, employed in civilian capacities as National Guard technicians at a federal missile base, could not claim the protection of this section against discharge without a hearing, as they could not be considered state civil service employees. Application of Anselmo, 19 A.D.2d 761, 241 N.Y.S.2d 761, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3284 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 13 N.Y.2d 599, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 2071 (N.Y. 1963).

Although provision of public employees' bargaining agreement was silent with regard to certain rights guaranteed by Civil Service Law, such as employee's right to be represented by counsel and to call witnesses in his own behalf, it was to be presumed that such basic rights would be accorded the employee; hence, it would have been premature for court to hold that subject article was violative of plaintiff's constitutional rights where no disciplinary proceedings had as yet been conducted. Hackett v State, 50 A.D.2d 80, 375 N.Y.S.2d 895, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11442 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

County medical center's dismissal of new resident without hearing was in violation of its own policies, and thus dismissal would be annulled and due-process hearing would be ordered, where resident became employee when he began his duties as resident in accordance with terms of his contract, and his contractual rights included right to due-process hearing as stated in center's policy manual. Adler v County of Nassau, 246 A.D.2d 542, 667 N.Y.S.2d 393, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 144 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Upon petitioner's appointment to permanent title of Staff Analyst, she was probationary employee who was not entitled to notice and hearing before she could be terminated, but respondent's refusal to reinstate her to her old position without notice and hearing, on ground that her leave from her old position had been canceled, violated CLS Civ S § 75(1); while petitioner was not "promoted" to her new position but voluntarily sought appointment to it, she never resigned from her old position and, while she did not object to cancellation of leave from her old position, it was unlikely that she was aware that cancellation would result in forfeiture of civil service protections afforded by her status as permanent employee. Bethel v McGrath-McKechnie, 258 A.D.2d 316, 685 N.Y.S.2d 211, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1135 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. denied, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7533 (N.Y. N.Y.2d 7, 709 N.Y.S.2d 888, 731 N.E.2d 604, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 905 (N.Y. 2000).

Sheriff was a necessary party to the portion of the proceeding challenging his determination pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 finding an officer guilty of misconduct; as a court was not allowed to adjudicate a dispute raised in an N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding unless the governmental agency or official which performed the challenged action was a party thereto, the sheriff was joined as a party. Matter of White v County of Sullivan, 101 A.D.3d 1552, 957 N.Y.S.2d 468, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

An honorably discharged soldier appointed from a civil service list as special agent in the department of excise, who for fifteen years has faithfully discharged duties of position, no charge of misconduct having been preferred against him, cannot be summarily discharged from his position, even though it be a confidential one. In re Weaver, 131 N.Y.S. 144, 72 Misc. 438, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 417 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

Under the saving clause of § 376 of the charter of Lockport, the repeal by said charter of the provisions of this section, relative to removal of volunteer fireman, did not affect or impair the right to hearing before removal of one who before the charter by appointment of the water board held the position of chief electrical engineer. Murray v Water Board of Lockport, 151 N.Y.S. 419, 88 Misc. 625, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1180 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1915).

Civil service employee against whom quasi-criminal charges were brought involving financial mismanagement but who was not employed in connection with financial affairs of state institution at time charges were brought was improperly suspended pending determination of charges pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3, without notice or hearing, as there was no valid governmental interest overriding the employee's constitutional rights of due process. Randall v Toll, 73 Misc. 2d 451, 341 N.Y.S.2d 994, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2311 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

An employee of a regional off-track betting corporation, which corporation independently transacts its business and hires and compensates its personnel outside of the civil service system, is not within the classified service under the Civil Service Law and is not entitled to the protection of section 75 of the Civil Service Law, which provides that certain employees shall not be removed except for incompetency or misconduct shown after a hearing upon stated charges. Russell v Nassau Regional Off-Track Betting Corp., 94 Misc. 2d 774, 406 N.Y.S.2d 235, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2361 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), aff'd, 70 A.D.2d 790, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17184 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1979).

Dismissal of an appeal of an armed service, firefighter, managerial employee's at will employment termination by the New York Division of Military and Naval Affairs with no hearing was proper as N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 and a state handbook did not apply to him since he was not a civil servant—he was a serviceman; regulations did not require hearing for termination of at will employment; and he was no longer in a union since he had previously been promoted to a managerial position. Le Brun v Maguire, 12 A.D.3d 1007, 785 N.Y.S.2d 563, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14288 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

When public employee entitled, under CLS Civil Service Law § 75(1), to retain position in absence of showing of incompetence or misconduct, receives notice of elimination of position, employee has due process right to pre-termination hearing on issue of whether elimination of position is sham and pretext for deprivation of employee's property right in position. Dwyer v Regan, 777 F.2d 825, 1985 U.S. App. LEXIS 25150 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1985), modified, reh'g denied, 793 F.2d 457, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 37371 (2d Cir. 1986).

69. Corrections officers

Negotiated plea agreement, by which correction officer accepted as disciplinary penalty 12-month probation limited to violations of internal rules concerning lateness, absence without leave and sick leave, and further agreed to waive his rights as tenured employee for probationary period and subject himself to "termination as any other probationary employee," only permitted his discharge without notice of charges and hearing as "probationary employee" if it were undisputed that he was absent without leave or late for work, or wrongfully absented himself from work claiming to be ill, or otherwise violated relevant sick leave directives during probationary term; there was no right to discharge officer as "any other probationary employee" for any other reasons. Tankard v Abate, 159 Misc. 2d 339, 603 N.Y.S.2d 951, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 450 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993).

Under a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding, petitioner was entitled to a hearing to contest an assertion by a corrections commissioner that an employee's reassignment was based on a violation of trust rather than misconduct, which required a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(1) prior to such reassignment. Schwartzbaum v Horn, 233 N.Y.L.J. 125, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3390 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. June 30, 2005), app. dismissed, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8590 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't June 29, 2006).

70. Employees of state hospital, training center and the like

In an Article 78 proceeding by a mental hygiene therapy aide, seeking to be rehired at a local developmental center, after resigning from his permanent tenured position at the center in expectation of being instated to the same position at a local psychiatric center on a promise of employment there, the developmental center would be directed to rehire the aide where the psychiatric center had withdrawn its offer of employment, and where the developmental center improperly refused to allow the aide to withdraw his resignation, on the ground of unproven allegations of patient abuse. Farrar v State, 92 A.D.2d 546, 459 N.Y.S.2d 114, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16769 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

Attendant in a state hospital for the criminally insane was not a "public officer" so that his commitment to a state mental hospital for observation and treatment would justify an order declaring his Civil Service position vacant without notice and hearing. Application of Sweeney, 1 Misc. 2d 125, 147 N.Y.S.2d 612, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2087 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

Manager of state hospital community store, who had resigned civil service position with the hospital to take the managership, was not covered by civil service and thus was not entitled to a hearing prior to termination by hospital director who rather than leasing out the store operated it himself. O'Shea v Zwerling, 72 Misc. 2d 163, 338 N.Y.S.2d 846, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 983 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), aff'd, 40 A.D.2d 628, 335 N.Y.S.2d 926, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5784 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1972).

Petitioner's civil service employment as a hospital aide at county medical center was a property right which could not be taken from her without satisfying the dictates of due process. Palermo v Eisenberg, 81 Misc. 2d 1014, 367 N.Y.S.2d 378, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2517 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Due process required that probationary state employee receive hearing before his employment was terminated where charges against such employee, which involved brutality against resident of New York State's schools, were such as to stigmatize the employee so that he might not be able to find other employment. Hill v Edelman, 92 Misc. 2d 485, 399 N.Y.S.2d 565, 401 N.Y.S.2d 697, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2573 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

71. —Law enforcement officers, generally

One who is appointed special policeman from an appropriate eligible list cannot be summarily removed since although the appointment purportedly was to "continue at the pleasure of the board of public safety" it was neither provisional nor temporary within the meaning of the civil service law and the appointee came within the protection of this section. Healey v Bazinet, 291 N.Y. 430, 52 N.E.2d 936, 291 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 430, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1013 (N.Y. 1943).

Hearing officer's report to police commissioner recommending dismissal of police officer did not deny officer due process, even though it did not list each and every inconsistency in evidence, since commissioner is not required to make independent assessment of each witness' credibility; commissioner is entitled to rely on hearing officer who, as fact finder, is in best position to assess and evaluate evidence presented. Jervas v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 222, 552 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Statement made by petitioner police officer to superior officer during noncustodial interview was not inadmissible on grounds that he was not given Miranda warnings and interview was not recorded, as allegedly required by § 16.2 of Police Benevolent Association (PBA) Agreement, since record established that interview was "ordinary supervisory inquir[y]" and was therefore not governed by procedural requirements of PBA Agreement § 16.2. Roman v Constantine, 185 A.D.2d 701, 587 N.Y.S.2d 885, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9268 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 80 N.Y.2d 971, 591 N.Y.S.2d 139, 605 N.E.2d 875, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3813 (N.Y. 1992), app. denied, 81 N.Y.2d 708, 598 N.Y.S.2d 767, 615 N.E.2d 224, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 1208 (N.Y. 1993).

Hearing officer erred in denying police officer's application to suppress all evidence derived from viewing of subsequently altered portion of videotape that was alleged to have portrayed his alleged physical abuse of prisoner where (1) officer served notice to produce videotape and, upon police chief's noncompliance therewith, judicial subpoena duces tecum, (2) following chief's unsuccessful effort to quash subpoena, videotape was delivered to video store for copying, (3) during copying process (and for no compelling reason), video professional arbitrarily stopped lengthy tape at precise location portraying alleged physical abuse and then restarted it, inadvertently pressing record button instead of play button, and (4) following erasure of critical 50-second portion of videotape, video professional resumed copying process. Dicaprio v Trzaskos, 203 A.D.2d 759, 610 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4082 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Petitioner was not entitled to pre-termination hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 where (1) he was hired for noncompetitive position of community service aide, (2) he thereafter took and passed competitive examination to become police officer, (3) he was appointed as police officer, and he signed letter of appointment specifying that his appointment was for 52-week probationary term, and (4) letter was sent to him stating that he would be terminated due to "unsatisfactory performance during [his] probationary period." Juan v County of Suffolk, 209 A.D.2d 523, 618 N.Y.S.2d 833, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11173 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

It was improper for county under sheriff to issue written reprimand to deputy sheriff without hearing where there was no language in collective bargaining agreement waiving deputy sheriff's right to hearing under CLS Civ S § 75; fact that sheriff's department had long-standing practice of issuing written reprimands without hearing was irrelevant. Delmage v Mahoney, 224 A.D.2d 688, 639 N.Y.S.2d 66, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1996 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 812, 649 N.Y.S.2d 379, 672 N.E.2d 605, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 2957 (N.Y. 1996).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding in which petitioner sought reinstatement as police officer on ground that his resignation was involuntary, where settlement agreement resolving prior disciplinary proceeding (which petitioner voluntarily executed after consultation with union representative) expressly allowed for summary termination if he did not comply with its terms "to the satisfaction of the chief of police," and police chief's finding that he failed to satisfactorily carry out his obligations under agreement was not arbitrary or unreasonable, or product of bad faith; petitioner's resignation could not be considered involuntary merely because he was offered unpalatable choice of resigning or being discharged, unless respondents had no right to discharge him. Wolfe v Jurczynski, 241 A.D.2d 88, 671 N.Y.S.2d 864, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4528 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Court erred in prohibiting District Attorney's representatives from attending Internal Affairs (IA) interviews of county police officers who were not represented by counsel or union official since subject collective bargaining agreement did not grant right to counsel to officer who was directed to appear before IA unit as witness, and did not prohibit member of DA's office from being present at witness interviews; further, use immunity afforded police officers at departmental interviews was sufficient to compel testimony over claim of privilege against self-incrimination, and police department was not prohibited from sharing information obtained from such interviews with DA's office. Court erred in directing county police department, in future cases, to formally advise police officers who were not represented by counsel at Internal Affairs (IA) interviews that they were entitled to use immunity; while officers compelled to appear at IA interviews were automatically afforded use immunity by operation of law, no due process right to formal notification of right was implied by 71 N.Y.2d 154.Cortes v County of Nassau, 248 A.D.2d 616, 670 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2884 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

The salary of a police officer who is a permanent civil service appointee may not be suspended without an evidentiary hearing on the ground of the officer's failure to report for regular duty after he has been ceritified as physically able to work, pursuant to Gen Mun Law § 207-c, following a period of disability. Goglia v Sardino, 119 Misc. 2d 907, 464 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3613 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), aff'd, 101 A.D.2d 1013, 476 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18744 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1984).

As the conduct of the lieutenant, who worked for the Sheriff's Department, was clearly at odds with the strict discipline necessary to effectively operate a Sheriff's Department and supported the decision imposing termination as his penalty, the decision to terminate his employment was appropriate. Matter of Guynup v County of Clinton, 90 A.D.3d 1390, 935 N.Y.S.2d 681, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9067 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

A policeman who is neither a member of the Police Pension Fund nor entitled to benefits under the Retirement and Social Security Law cannot be removed from the force without written notice of charges and hearing. 1962 Op St Compt #668.

72. —Detectives

Court properly annulled determinations of police commissioner which summarily terminated detective status of petitioners who had served as detectives for at least 3 years, because their detective status could only be removed in cases of incompetency or misconduct shown after hearing even though they had been designated as detectives at discretion of prior police commissioner and not as result of competitive examination; CLS Civ S § 75(1)(e) applies to all detectives, no matter how they arrived at their detective status. Cave v Zaleski, 237 A.D.2d 517, 655 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2854 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Article 78 petition to review determination removing petitioner as "lieutenant detective" and reassigning him to his former position as supervisor of village's uniformed patrol force, without any diminution of compensation, was properly denied as (1) "lieutenant detective" position was supervisory and did not involve investigative duties, and thus petitioner was not entitled to benefits of L 1997, ch 134, and (2) petitioner's reassignment was within hearing exception provisions of CLS Civ S § 75(1)(e). Steinmann v Village of Spring Valley, 261 A.D.2d 548, 691 N.Y.S.2d 66, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5389 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

73. —NYC police officers

New York City Police Commissioner had discretion to dismiss police officers without administrative hearing under NYC Admin Code § 14-115(a) where each had been convicted of crime following full trial. Griffin v Bratton, 248 A.D.2d 242, 670 N.Y.S.2d 34, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2575 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), rev'd, 92 N.Y.2d 781, 686 N.Y.S.2d 359, 709 N.E.2d 100, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 24 (N.Y. 1999).

Police officer was entitled to administrative hearing with regard to termination of her employment, pursuant solely to NYC Admin Code § 14-115, based on her conviction for failure to file federal income tax returns for 2 years. Farrell v Safir, 259 A.D.2d 328, 687 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2768 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Petitioner could be terminated from his position as New York City police officer without hearing after he was convicted of second degree aggravated harassment arising from conduct committed in line of duty, which constituted violation of his oath of office. Pirozzi v Safir, 270 A.D.2d 2, 703 N.Y.S.2d 185, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2263 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 95

N.Y.2d 756, 712 N.Y.S.2d 448, 734 N.E.2d 760, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1713 (N.Y. 2000).

In an Article 78 proceeding, the court determined that petitioners, New York City police officers who were automatically dismissed from their permanent civil service positions by operation of law upon their felony convictions pursuant to Pub O Law § 30(1)(e), retained a property interest in their former positions upon their reversal of their convictions entitling them to due process protection and a post-termination hearing, but not to back pay for the period between conviction and reversal or automatic reinstatement by court order prior to a determination after hearing, since the operation of § 30 vacating the "office" of a "public officer" upon a felony conviction is subject to the condition that a "conviction" exists and, upon reversal of the convictions, petitioners should, so far as reasonably possible, be treated as though they had never been accused at all and given the same opportunity to be heard prior to termination as any other civil service employee who is charged with misconduct, under Civ S Law § 75; even if petitioners are not entitled to a full disciplinary hearing, they would be at least entitled to a name-clearing hearing. Briggins v McGuire, 118 Misc. 2d 964, 462 N.Y.S.2d 357, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3429 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

74. —Parole officers

The discharge of a parole officer after written charges had been filed against him and he had been given an opportunity to answer the same in writing was proper although no hearing was held and parole board acted upon information before it as a result of its own investigation and the explanation of the petitioner as contained in his answer. Corgel v Loos, 286 A.D. 583, 146 N.Y.S.2d 116, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4096 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

75. —Town or village police officers

Town policeman who was removed from his position by police commissioners for physical disability without notice or a hearing, was entitled to a hearing on the issue of the source and continuance of the disability before he could be removed. Papasidero v Fasano, 19 N.Y.2d 440, 280 N.Y.S.2d 566, 227 N.E.2d 386, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1506 (N.Y. 1967).

Village patrolman was improperly removed from police department for misconduct in a proceeding pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75, where evidence indicating that patrolman's acts of misconduct may have been the result of mental illness mandated a hearing pursuant to Civil Service Law §§ 72 and 73. Brockman v Skidmore, 43 A.D.2d 572, 349 N.Y.S.2d 120, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3162 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1973), rev'd, 39 N.Y.2d 1045, 387 N.Y.S.2d 426, 355 N.E.2d 386, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 2974 (N.Y. 1976).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by part-time policemen seeking reinstatement to their positions with the combined police force of a town and village, the policemen were properly reinstated where they were terminated for misconduct without a hearing, where their right to a hearing was not waived under a collective bargaining agreement that did not cover part-time policemen, and where they were not "special policemen" in that they were employed on a regular, rather than temporary, basis. Goldfluss v Bonali, 89 A.D.2d 708, 453 N.Y.S.2d 832, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17839 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Disciplinary proceeding against police officer employed by village in Rockland County was governed by Rockland County Police Act (L 1936, ch 524), which permits officer to be suspended without pay until completion of disciplinary hearing, and thus officer had no right to be paid during period of his suspension in excess of 30 days pursuant to CLS Vill § 8-804 and CLS Civ S § 75; county act was passed after village's police department was reformed under CLS Vill former § 188, and was controlling to extent that it conflicted with Village Law and Civil Service Law. Nieves v Haera, 165 A.D.2d 201, 566 N.Y.S.2d 731, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2451 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

"Letter of Reprimand" placed in police officer's personnel file was mere critical admonition and not so formal as to trigger hearing requirement of CLS Civ S § 75, especially since subject matter of letter dealt with minor infraction of village's rules of conduct, and no punishment was imposed. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 235 A.D.2d 698, 652 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Although town supervisor nominally preferred charges against town police officer, who was dismissed from his employment, supervisor's participation in disciplinary process was not so pervasive as to require that he refrain from taking part in town board's review of hearing officer's decision. Ost v Supervisor of Woodstock, 251 A.D.2d 724, 673 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 488, 707 N.E.2d 443, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4260 (N.Y. 1998).

Article 78 petition to review determination removing petitioner as "lieutenant detective" and reassigning him to his former position as supervisor of village's uniformed patrol force, without any diminution of compensation, was properly denied as (1) "lieutenant detective" position was supervisory and did not involve investigative duties, and thus petitioner was not entitled to benefits of L 1997, ch 134, and (2) petitioner's reassignment was within hearing exception provisions of CLS Civ S § 75(1)(e). Steinmann v Village of Spring Valley, 261 A.D.2d 548, 691 N.Y.S.2d 66, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5389 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

City did not violate CLS Civ S § 75(1)(e) where it did not act in bad faith in eliminating title/position of police detective. Moshier v City of Little Falls, 281 A.D.2d 913, 721 N.Y.S.2d 848, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2696 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Petitioner, a civil service employee with permanent status employed by the respondent village as a police officer, who was injured in the performance of his duties and was subsequently ordered to report for limited duties although his physician stated that petitioner was unable to perform any sort of work, cannot be removed from the payroll without a hearing; he must first be afforded the full panoply of procedural due process rights under section 75 of the Civil Service Law. Fiorella v Scarsdale, 96 Misc. 2d 406, 409 N.Y.S.2d 489, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2616 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Officer was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief from a determination terminating his employment because, although the officer's driver's license had been revoked, possession of a valid driver's license was not an express condition or requirement of his employment, and the police chief erred in terminating the officer without a hearing; the failure to maintain a minimum qualification of employment was not an act of misconduct or one related to job performance that would have invoked the disciplinary procedures mandated by N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75. Rather, an employee charged with failing to possess a minimum qualification of his or her position was only entitled to notice of the charge and the opportunity to contest it. Matter of Lutz v Krokoff, 102 A.D.3d 146, 954 N.Y.S.2d 658, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7895 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012), app. denied, 20 N.Y.3d 860, 961 N.Y.S.2d 378, 985 N.E.2d 143, 2013 N.Y. LEXIS 236 (N.Y. 2013).

76. NYC non-police employees

Since New York City, N.Y., Charter § 487(a) and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 15-113, gave the city fire department commissioner exclusive power to discipline firefighters, the city's civil service commission erroneously ruled that it had jurisdiction to hear a firefighters appeal of his termination; the fire department's discipline was outside the scope of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76, and, thus, was not subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. The fire commissioner's N.Y. art. 78 proceeding to annul the commission's determination that it had jurisdiction was improperly dismissed. Von Essen v N.Y. City Civ. Serv. Comm'n, 4 N.Y.3d 220, 791 N.Y.S.2d 887, 825 N.E.2d 128, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 2005).

A veteran of the world war, appointed to the position of "assistant commissioner of public works of Borough of Queens," may be removed, under § 383 of the Greater New York City Charter, without charges or a hearing as provided by this section. MacMaster v Harvey, 239 A.D. 553, 268 N.Y.S. 115, 1933 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8095 (N.Y. App. Div. 1933), aff'd, 265 N.Y. 555, 193 N.E. 318, 265 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 555, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 1163 (N.Y. 1934).

A determination dismissing director of airports of the New York City Department of Marine and Aviation, for violation of the city

An employee of the N. Y. C. Transit Authority waived the procedure set forth in this section when after his removal from position of conductor on the ground of mental illness he failed to deny such disability until after he had accepted position as watchman. Jones v New York City Transit Authority, 285 A.D. 1054, 139 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6656 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

Where a petition sought reinstatement of petitioner as permanent incumbent of the position of Metropolitan Realty Appraiser in the New York City office of the State Tax Commission, alleging that he was an honorably discharged veteran of World War I and was duly appointed April 1, 1955, exercising the duties of the position under direct supervision of the Estate Tax Appraiser and the Assistant Estate Tax Appraiser, etc., the test of whether he was protected from discharge without a hearing and notice was to be found in the precise nature of his duties under § 249-u of the Tax Law, which would require a hearing and could not be decided on the basis of motion papers. Morton v Murphy, 11 A.D.2d 880, 203 N.Y.S.2d 222, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8414 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1960).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a former NYC bus operator who had been demoted to the position of railroad clerk, the petition would be dismissed where the clerk had waived his rights to a hearing and to any appeal when he elected to proceed to arbitration pursuant to the optional grievance provisions of his collective bargaining agreement. Dye v New York City Transit Authority, 88 A.D.2d 899, 450 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17227 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 917, 456 N.Y.S.2d 760, 442 N.E.2d 1271, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3792 (N.Y. 1982).

NYC Department of Health personnel bulletin, granting contractual disciplinary rights to part time employees if they had worked at least 35 hours per week for at least 2 years, applied only to employees who were authorized to work and compensated for at least 35 hours per week; thus, disciplinary rights did not apply to employee who was authorized to work only 30 hours per week but who asserted that she actually worked at least 35 hours per week in order to get her work done properly, even though she was not paid for her extra hours. Roy v City of New York Dep't of Health, 202 A.D.2d 294, 609 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2538 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Hearing was not warranted by NYC Emergency Medical Service employee's unsupported claim that his misconduct, which otherwise was mostly left unexplained, was deliberately "set up" by New York City Health and Hospital Corporation in order to derail his reelection campaign for union president. Bernardo v New York City Health & Hosps. Corp., 240 A.D.2d 278, 659 N.Y.S.2d 7, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6592 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Terminated provisional employee of NYC housing authority was not entitled to hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 where he was terminated for failing to report to work and thereafter failing to return, request leave, or provide sufficient explanation for his absence. Misir v New York City Hous. Auth., 245 A.D.2d 88, 666 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12910 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997), app. dismissed, 92 N.Y.2d 915, 680 N.Y.S.2d 53, 702 N.E.2d 838, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3083 (N.Y. 1998).

Judgment affirming determination reassigning petitioner from her position of NYC Transit Authority Supervisor (Stations) Level II to Supervisor (Stations) Level I would be reversed and matter remitted for hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 since petitioner was not transferred from Supervisor Level II to Supervisor Level I based on appraisal of her abilities and temperament in lieu of written examination, but rather based on specific misconduct, for which she incurred additional penalty of suspension and was reprimanded. Campbell v New York City Transit Auth., 253 A.D.2d 813, 677 N.Y.S.2d 632, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9551 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 805, 689 N.Y.S.2d 707, 711 N.E.2d 983, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 850 (N.Y. 1999).

77. School district employees

In an Article 78 proceeding by a school bus driver, challenging her dismissal by the school district after complaints were received from parents as to the driver's safety and disciplinary problems, dismissal without a hearing was proper since the driver, as a permanent employee of a school district in the noncompetitive class, was an "at will" employee who was not entitled to tenure protections under Civ S Law § 75. Voorhis v Warwick Valley Cent. School Dist., 92 A.D.2d 571, 459 N.Y.S.2d 325, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16808 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

School district did not impermissibly terminate school bus driver's employment without hearing in violation of CLS Civ S § 75, and thus court erred in annulling school district's determination to accept driver's "resignation," reinstating her to her position, and granting her back pay and benefits; district's acceptance of driver's constructive resignation, as provided by parties' collective bargaining agreement, was not disciplinary action as would entitle driver to prior notice or hearing. Barrera v Frontier Cent. Sch. Dist., 249 A.D.2d 927, 672 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5010 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of school bus driver's employment for misconduct, driver was improperly found guilty of having "prompted" removal of broom from its secure location on bus and having "engaged" one or more students to sweep bus while it was moving where evidence proved only that driver had "permitted" students to sweep bus while it was moving, there was no evidence that he "prompted" or "engaged" such conduct, and thus he was found guilty of acts not charged; however, other charges against driver were supported by substantial evidence, including his admissions, testimony of students and his supervisor, and documentary evidence. Brown v Saranac Lake Cent. Sch. Dist., 273 A.D.2d 785, 709 N.Y.S.2d 706, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7452 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

School district employee was properly required to participate in a disciplinary hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 because this was the proper vehicle to adjudicate a charge of incompetence against the employee. Matter of McVetty v Valley Stream Union Free Sch. Dist., 154 A.D.3d 764, 63 N.Y.S.3d 388, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7147 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

Substantial evidence supported the school district's determination finding a bus driver guilty of three disciplinary charges because the Hearing Officer was entitled to resolve any issues of credibility whether the driver deliberately slapped a special needs student, who lost control of his behavior and was significantly disrupting the other students on the bus, some of whom were also struggling to behave. Matter of Ansley v Jamesville-DeWitt Cent. Sch. Dist., 174 A.D.3d 1289, 103 N.Y.S.3d 735, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5434 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 34 N.Y.3d 942, 134 N.E.3d 135, 110 N.Y.S.3d 394, 2019 N.Y. LEXIS 2927 (N.Y. 2019).

A substitute teacher is not entitled to a hearing before termination of license under any provision of the Education Law or under this section, nor do the requirements of due process mandate a formal hearing for a substitute teacher. Council v Donovan, 40 Misc. 2d 744, 244 N.Y.S.2d 199, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1542 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Collective bargaining agreement which provides that "in case of employee release, at least one-day notice of release and reason for such action to incorporate evaluation reports will be given to employee, employee if he/she feels such reasons for release are inadequate or inaccurate, may request immediate audience with Chief School Administrator to explain his/her reasons for contradicting release order does not change discharged employee's status from employee who served at will to one who can be dismissed solely for cause; thus, probationary employee possesses no property interest in his continued employment as school cleaner under collective bargaining agreement and he is not denied due process of law for lack of hearing on termination of his employment. Goetz v Windsor Cent. School Dist., 698 F.2d 606, 1983 U.S. App. LEXIS 31123 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1983).

78. Town or village non-police employees

The phrase "any public or special district or . . . any authority, commission, or board" of cities, counties, towns or villages, within

Civil Service Law, although broad, does not include a public benefit corporation such as water commissioners of town, and thus former water treatment plant operator was not entitled to benefits of such law on his claim of improper dismissal without notice of charges and a hearing. Rogers v Water Comm'rs of Waterford, 58 A.D.2d 728, 396 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12844 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Town employee could not be removed from his position without being afforded hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 where his position was not abolished for purposes of economy or efficiency, and he was separated or dismissed from service due to purported delays in receipt of funds from county. O'Reilly v Nedelka, 212 A.D.2d 714, 622 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1667 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Petitioner's employment as town lifeguard was not continuous for 5 years, and thus he was not entitled to protection of CLS Civ S § 75(1)(c) since he filed new summer employment application and new tax forms each year, was required to elect whether to participate in retirement system each year, and each year town sent him letter of appointment which specified that he was employed for that season only. Igneri v Town of Brookhaven, 232 A.D.2d 638, 648 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11337 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Town's mayor was authorized to review and overturn a hearing officer's recommendation that a firefighter not be found guilty of misconduct and be reinstated, as the department rules provided that the town's board was entitled to review departmental disciplinary actions, the mayor was a member of the board, and the board endorsed his decision. Matter of Rauschmeier v Village of Johnson City, 91 A.D.3d 1080, 937 N.Y.S.2d 373, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 139 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 19 N.Y.3d 802, 946 N.Y.S.2d 104, 969 N.E.2d 221, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 923 (N.Y. 2012).

In an action brought against a town by its former comptroller following his termination, the town was entitled to summary judgment because the comptroller was not a member of a collective bargaining unit, he did not have an employment contract with the town and, the town was free to terminate his employment, without a hearing. Phillips v Town of Glenville, 160 A.D.3d 1264, 75 N.Y.S.3d 629, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2651 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

Substantial evidence in the record sustained the charge that a building inspector committed acts constituting crimes, namely, endangering public health, safety or the environment in the fourth degree, official misconduct and criminal nuisance in the second degree; thus, the evidence supported the hearing officer's determination terminating the inspector's employment. Matter of Snowden v Village of Monticello, 166 A.D.3d 1451, 89 N.Y.S.3d 366, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8160 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

D. Appeal and Review

79. In general

A proceeding to review a determination of a local Commissioner of Social Services, finding petitioner employee guilty of negligent breach of security at a youth shelter, which resulted in the escape of a juvenile detainee, would be dismissed on the merits where petitioner's testimony by itself constituted substantial evidence to support the determination to affix blame on petitioner for her obvious carelessness and to find that such carelessness during the shift was a causative factor in the escape. McCaskill v D'Elia, 64 N.Y.2d 636, 485 N.Y.S.2d 41, 474 N.E.2d 249, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4965 (N.Y. 1984).

The refusal of a sheriff to remit a deputy's 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay in connection with the disposition of disciplinary proceedings against the deputy in which he was found guilty of misconduct and reprimanded, could be considered a penalty or punishment within Civil Service Law § 76(1) for which judicial review could be sought. Civil Service Law § 75(3), permitting a 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay, also provides that upon a finding of guilt a post-hearing penalty or punishment may include a suspension without pay, and the time during which an officer or employee had previously been suspended without pay could be considered as part of the penalty. Sinnott v Finnerty, 65 N.Y.2d 780, 492 N.Y.S.2d 945, 482 N.E.2d 563, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16192 (N.Y. 1985).

The court will not interfere with a determination of the fire commissioner imposing a fine for unauthorized absence upon a fireman who was an honorably discharged veteran even though no hearing was held, where the controversy involved merely a difference of opinion as to whether the fireman was properly absent for medical reasons. Tiernan v Walsh, 268 A.D. 962, 51 N.Y.S.2d 528, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4415 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944), aff'd, 294 N.Y. 299, 62 N.E.2d 79, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 299, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 806 (N.Y. 1945).

Where police officer, following termination of employment ordered by chief of police, elected to appeal the determination of penalty to the county civil service commission, court could not thereafter review the decision of the county civil service commission even to consider claim that action of the commission upholding the determination of employment was arbitrary. Schrader v Civil Service Comm'r, 53 A.D.2d 210, 385 N.Y.S.2d 644, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12509 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In proceeding to review civil service commission's dismissal of state employee, scope of judicial review was limited to whether determination was "purely arbitrary." Greaney v Bahou, 57 A.D.2d 646, 393 N.Y.S.2d 211, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11673 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

A determination demoting petitioner from the position of automotive equipment operator to that of laborer with a reduction in pay would be annuled, where, in light of the minor nature of the offenses of which petitioner was found guilty, the penalty of demotion was so disproportionate as to shock one's sense of fairness; a suspension not to exceed 30 days would be the maximum penalty the evidence would support, and petitioner was entitled to be reinstated to his former position with back pay until such time as a new determination could be rendered. Farrell v Dowling, 90 A.D.2d 849, 456 N.Y.S.2d 97, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19116 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982), app. dismissed, 58 N.Y.2d 1113, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 4325 (N.Y. 1983).

The penalty imposed by the Commissioner of Public Safety upon two police officers of suspension without pay for 60 days was not unduly harsh or disproportionate to the offense found, where the police officers were charged with enlarging and obliterating a bullet hole in the left rear fender of a vehicle with a halogen bar while the vehicle was in the custody of the county sheriff's department and being held for evidence following a high speed chase between its drivers and police officers from a number of surrounding towns and counties, where the officers made no report of their activity, and where the officers admitted probing the vehicle with the bar without permission or authority but denied knowing at the time that a shot had been fired or that the vehicle was impounded, in that their credibility was for the fact finders to determine, and it could not be said that other witnesses for the city were unworthy of belief or that the record lacked substantial evidence of the officers' misconduct. Nuttall v Troy, 99 A.D.2d 916, 473 N.Y.S.2d 38, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17325 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Department commissioner who files charges and testifies at disciplinary proceeding must disqualify himself from reviewing recommendations of hearing officer and acting on charges; review and action must be taken by department official authorized to act during absence or inability of commissioner. Hicks v Fortier, 117 A.D.2d 930, 499 N.Y.S.2d 236, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53182 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

Supreme Court mistakenly applied arbitrary and capricious standard in proceeding to annul county's determination demoting county employee for misconduct since county's action was taken as result of adjudicatory hearing held under CLS Civ S § 75(2), and employee raised substantial evidence question by challenging hearing officer's factual assessment of misconduct. Secreto v County of Ulster, 228 A.D.2d 932, 644 N.Y.S.2d 439, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7309 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Determination denying state trooper's application for reinstatement following leave of absence due to back injury was improperly annulled since most of medical evaluations made during 4-year period leading up to determination indicated that trooper suffered from mild partial disability, and many of those reports concluded that trooper would only be able to perform light-duty work, regimen not available to state troopers; although trooper did not suffer from herniated disc, his MRI had been interpreted as indicating mild disc bulge at L4-5 and L5-S1, with some arthritic changes at L5-S1. Stitt v McMahon, 244 A.D.2d 811, 666 N.Y.S.2d 253, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11970 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. denied, 91 N.Y.2d 813, 674 N.Y.S.2d 278, 697 N.E.2d 179, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1310 (N.Y. 1998).

Proper standard of review into charges of misconduct by school bus driver was substantial evidence, not fair preponderance evidence, since bus driver was not barred from seeking employment as bus driver in another school district or from trying to get another driving related job, he was not subject to registry and information about school district's charges, and disposition was not readily accessible to public at-large, and thus did not trigger "stigma plus" analysis. Malloch v Ballston Spa Cent. Sch. Dist., 249 A.D.2d 797, 671 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4518 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 810, 680 N.Y.S.2d 55, 702 N.E.2d 840, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3081 (N.Y. 1998).

In disciplinary proceeding against police department employee wherein Appellate Division dismissed police department's appeal from unfavorable ruling after employee unilaterally rendered matter academic by resigning from department, thereby preventing Appellate Division from reviewing order in his favor, Appellate Division vacated underlying order on which appeal was predicated (preliminary injunction suppressing eavesdropping evidence) where there was no indication that parties settled matter or that employee received any benefit from department in exchange for his resignation. Ruskin v Safir, 257 A.D.2d 268, 692 N.Y.S.2d 356, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7434 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

In Article 78 proceeding by petitioner who was terminated from his job as school bus driver for misconduct, fact that petitioner sought only reinstatement to his former position, as opposed to reinstatement coupled with back pay and benefits, did not exempt him from requirements of CLS Educ § 3813, because he was seeking primarily to enforce private right. Stevens v Board of Educ., 261 A.D.2d 698, 689 N.Y.S.2d 730, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4666 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 816, 697 N.Y.S.2d 563, 719 N.E.2d 924, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2804 (N.Y. 1999).

Police officer's Article 78 proceeding challenging his reassignment from investigator to patrolman as violative of CLS Civ S §§ 58(4)(c) and 75 was moot where (1) primary relief requested was reinstatement as investigator, which position was no longer available, (2) he retained rank of sergeant, and thus there was no indication that his salary or benefits were adversely affected, (3) to extent that he claimed deprivation of overtime, he declined overtime opportunities after his reassignment, (4) there was no evidence of duress or coercion making his retirement involuntary, and (5) there was no applicable exception to mootness doctrine. Cannon v City of Watervliet, 263 A.D.2d 920, 693 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8465 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 756, 703 N.Y.S.2d 73, 724 N.E.2d 769, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3975 (N.Y. 1999).

The clerk of a municipal civil service commission, under this section is entitled merely to service of charges and the opportunity to reply, but no right to appeal exists. People ex rel. Eberle v La Guardia, 21 N.Y.S.2d 239, 175 Misc. 272, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1907 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 856, 23 N.Y.S.2d 467, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5047 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Upon remand of civil service disciplinary proceedings for imposition of an appropriate penalty, no penalty in excess of that permitted by Civ S Law § 75 may be imposed. Lee v Board of Education, 120 Misc. 2d 809, 466 N.Y.S.2d 650, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3800 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Because N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(1) explicitly limits appeals pursuant to that section to penalties imposed pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, the firefighter was limited, in seeking judicial review of any punishment imposed pursuant to New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 15-113, to the remedies provided by N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78. Von Essen v N.Y. City Civ. Serv. Comm'n, 3 A.D.3d 115, 769 N.Y.S.2d 260, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13677 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2003), app. denied, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4043 (N.Y. 80. Article 78 proceeding, generally

Supreme Court, which upheld police department's discharge of probationary police officer, erred by dismissing discharged officer's Article 78 petition without giving parties opportunity to submit competent evidence on controverted allegations of likely dissemination of discharged officer's personnel file to other law enforcement agencies; matter was remitted to Supreme Court for further factual exploration of likelihood of dissemination of discharged officer's personnel file and any other issues pertinent to his entitlement to name-clearing hearing, including actual content of his file. Swinton v Safir, 93 N.Y.2d 758, 697 N.Y.S.2d 869, 720 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3433 (N.Y. 1999).

Although Appellate Division in previous Article 78 proceeding annulled penalty of termination and remanded for imposition of new penalty after dismissing 4 charges against petitioner, standard of review based on charges sustained, not on those dismissed, applied in subsequent Article 78 proceeding challenging respondent's decision to impose same penalty based on 2 sustained charges. Gillen v Smithtown Library Bd. of Trustees, 94 N.Y.2d 776, 699 N.Y.S.2d 695, 721 N.E.2d 945, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3432 (N.Y. 1999).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul police commissioner's determination that petitioner engaged in unauthorized off-duty employment as New York State Certified Instructor for Security Guard Training and, in exchange for money, falsely certified that 2 armed security guards had completed required firearms training, court improperly disregarded principles enunciated in Matter of Pell v Board of Education, 34 NY2d 222, where it concluded that substantial evidence supported commissioner's determination but, relying on facts "outside the record," remanded matter for imposition of lesser penalty on grounds that both guards were licensed to carry firearms and were otherwise qualified for certificates, and petitioner (who had previously unblemished disciplinary record) would lose his pension as result of dismissal. Kelly v Safir, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

Article 78 proceeding to review dismissal of school district custodian would be remitted to Supreme Court for trial where fact issue existed as to whether determination was ever referred to board of education for its approval or whether district superintendent alone made determination to terminate; since school district failed to demonstrate that its superintendent was authorized to make determination without board approval, fact question was crucial to resolution of proceeding. Smith v Greater Amsterdam School Dist., 128 A.D.2d 929, 512 N.Y.S.2d 584, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44604 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Article 78 petition should have been dismissed for failure to exhaust administrative remedies where collective bargaining agreement which governed petitioner's civil service employment provided 4-step grievance procedure, petitioner participated in step I hearing and subsequently requested step II hearing but failed to appear at second hearing, and petitioner never requested that union initiate step III appeal. Cantres v Board of Education, 145 A.D.2d 359, 535 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13338 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

In Article 78 proceeding to review determination which discharged correctional employee for physically attacking her supervisor (specification 5) and verbally yelling at her supervisor (specification 6), case would be remitted for development of appropriate findings where only support for hearing officer's finding of guilt as to specification 5 was his conclusory statement that there was physical contact, and he did not refer to any testimony to substantiate finding of guilt as to specification 6. Langhorne v Jackson, 206 A.D.2d 666, 614 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Article 78 proceeding for wrongful termination, commenced on October 7, 1994, was improperly dismissed as time barred on ground that claim accrued on August 25, 1993 when Administrative Law Judge determined that petitioner was eligible for unemployment benefits since NYC employer's earliest unequivocal oral notification of termination was given on June 10, 1994, when petitioner reported for physical evaluation; determination that petitioner was entitled to unemployment benefits was collateral proceeding insufficient to satisfy employer's obligation to provide required notice of termination. Vadell v City of New York Health & Hosps. Corp., 233 A.D.2d 224, 649 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11999 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

In Article 78 proceeding arising from disciplinary discharge of county employee, record revealed that board of supervisors failed to conduct independent review before sustaining hearing officer's findings of fact and recommendations, where every board members did not receive complete copy of transcript before board rendered its decision, and there was no proof that each member had in fact reviewed full transcript. Ernst v Saratoga County, 234 A.D.2d 764, 651 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12492 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

In Article 78 proceeding by former data processing director to review termination of his employment with county, hearing officer's findings were sufficient for judicial review and for their acceptance without comment by county board of supervisors where hearing officer found that director's actions, including touching and comments to his subordinates, were "wholly inappropriate in the workplace" and constituted misconduct, and hearing officer linked employees' discomfort and stress under those conditions to director's inability to competently supervise them. Ernst v Saratoga County, 251 A.D.2d 866, 674 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7332 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of school bus driver's employment for misconduct, case would be remitted solely for reconsideration of penalty where Appellate Division upheld some charges of misconduct but not others, and penalty of termination was not assessed separately for each charge. Brown v Saranac Lake Cent. Sch. Dist., 273 A.D.2d 785, 709 N.Y.S.2d 706, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7452 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Reversal a judgment upholding a school board's termination of an employee was not required on the ground that affidavits from the school board's superintendent and individual members of the school board were attached to the verified answer; the affidavits of the school board's members merely averred that the members had considered the administrative record and the hearing officer's recommendation and supported the termination, but the trial court made no reference to these documents, and the court's reference to the superintendent's affidavit concerned facts that were fully set forth in the hearing testimony and exhibits, pertaining to the timing of the charges against the employee and the contractual nature of her reassignment as a bus driver. As there was nothing in any of the affidavits that might have provided new reasons for the termination or otherwise attempted to correct deficiencies in the administrative record, which, as the employee conceded, contained substantial evidence supporting the hearing officer's determination, this claim was without merit. Matter of Thornton v Edwards-Knox Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 105 A.D.3d 1206, 963 N.Y.S.2d 452, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2384 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

In a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding brought to review a determination to terminate an employee's employment as a social welfare examiner, substantial evidence supported the findings, and the termination was confirmed where, at the hearing conducted pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, inter alia, the employee's supervisor testified regarding numerous deficiencies in the employee's work, the employee's failure to respond to training and repeated efforts at improvement, and the employee's inability to meet deadlines and issue benefits correctly and in compliance with known regulations and/or advisory reports and/or counseling memoranda, resulting in financial hardship to recipients. Phillips v Le Page, 4 A.D.3d 704, 772 N.Y.S.2d 422, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2030 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

Employee's breach of employment contract claim and N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 against her former employer were dismissed; the gravamen of the employee's complaint was a challenge of the employer's decision to terminate her employment and as a result, her claims should have been presented first by way of a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding for which the four-month statute of limitations in N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 217 had expired. Ingrassia v County of Sullivan, 262 F. Supp. 2d 116, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7857 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

81. —Collective bargaining agreement

Correction officer was barred from seeking Article 78 judicial review of dismissal where, through his own deliberate conduct, he failed to pursue the administrative remedy authorized in collective bargaining agreement. Merante v Burns, 47 A.D.2d 671, 365 N.Y.S.2d 27, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8882 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

State Department of Correctional Services was entitled to dismissal of Article 78 proceeding brought by correction officer seeking review of his dismissal from service as result of his excessive absenteeism since officer had knowingly and voluntarily entered into prior agreement whereby he could be "terminated without further appeal" if department determined his attendance to be unsatisfactory during disciplinary period; officer waived any right he may have had, at least in absence of actual bad faith, under either collective bargaining agreement or CLS Civ S §§ 75 and 76, to review termination decision. Miller v New York State Dep't of Corr. Servs., 126 A.D.2d 831, 510 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41966 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), aff'd, 69 N.Y.2d 970, 516 N.Y.S.2d 659, 509 N.E.2d 354, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16741 (N.Y. 1987).

Court properly ruled that petitioner's failure to utilize collective bargaining contract grievance procedure mandated dismissal of Article 78 petition to challenge termination of his employment by school district since substantive issue presented by petitioner was not beyond broad scope of grievance procedure set forth in contract and petitioner had not demonstrated that participation in grievance procedure would be futile. Elliott v Arlington Cent. School Dist., 143 A.D.2d 662, 532 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10006 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Article 78 petition, alleging that police officer was summarily deprived of his rank of detective when he was transferred to patrol squad and another officer was assigned to his former position, should not have been dismissed based on petitioner's failure to invoke grievance arbitration procedures in parties' collective bargaining agreement since (1) grievance arbitration procedures of collective bargaining agreement were not intended to supersede police officer's statutory right to hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, and (2) petitioner did not assert that his demotion violated terms of collective bargaining agreement, and was not seeking judicial resolution of dispute over meaning of any of its provisions. Dombroski v Bloom, 170 A.D.2d 805, 565 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1548 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

Civil service employee's failure to exhaust administrative remedies provided by collective bargaining agreement precluded him from bringing Article 78 proceeding. Robinson v New York City Transit Auth., 226 A.D.2d 467, 641 N.Y.S.2d 55, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3538 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Article 78 petition alleging that school district impermissibly terminated petitioner's employment without granting her hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 should not have been dismissed for failure to exhaust remedies under grievance procedures of collective bargaining agreement, because petitioner did not allege that district violated agreement but that it violated Civil Service Law. Barrera v Frontier Cent. Sch. Dist., 227 A.D.2d 890, 643 N.Y.S.2d 275, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6779 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1996).

In Article 78 proceeding, court properly concluded that transfer of petitioner from position of plainclothes detective to uniformed lieutenant's position resulted in change in his compensation because he no longer received additional stipend for detectives detailed in collective bargaining agreement, and where court further determined that issue of fact remained as to whether such "reassignment" was retaliatory in nature, referee was properly appointed to determine whether provisions of collective bargaining agreement, mandating protections accorded by CLS Civ S § 75, were triggered. Whalen v Hogue, 276 A.D.2d 975, 714 N.Y.S.2d 577, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10795 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Arbitrator's award finding the employee guilty of disciplinary charges and terminating the employee's employment was improperly vacated on the ground that the state agency failed to comply with the transcription requirement under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7804(e); the collective bargaining agreement between the parties, which did not require the agency to provide a transcript of the arbitration hearing upon judicial review, replaced, pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(4), the statutory provisions of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76. Simon v N.Y. State Office of Parks, Rec. & Historic Pres., 303 A.D.2d 413, 755 N.Y.S.2d 858, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2101 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

82. —Jurisdiction

In Article 78 proceeding, Court of Appeals had jurisdiction to review Appellate Division's holding that municipal employer abused its discretion by failing to reinstate petitioner to her previous permanent position after she was fired from her probationary position, where appeal raised legal question of whether petitioner received "promotion" as that term is used in Civil Service Law. Bethel v McGrath-McKechnie, 95 N.Y.2d 7, 709 N.Y.S.2d 888, 731 N.E.2d 604, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 905 (N.Y. 2000).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 petition seeking declaration that it was arbitrary, capricious, and contrary to law for Civil Service Commission (CSC) to decline jurisdiction of petitioner's probationary termination appeal, even though State Department of Civil Service Personnel Management Manual Advisory Memorandum, in reiterating that CSC does not accept appeals challenging accuracy of employer's evaluation of probationary performance, added that CSC "will, however, exercise jurisdiction to review in matters alleging procedural defects in an agency's administration of" 4 NYCRR 4.5(a)(5)(iii), since such language merely advised of CSC's existing discretion under CLS Civ Serv § 6(3) to exercise jurisdiction in appropriate cases, and did not give petitioner (who was terminated from probationary appointment as psychiatric social worker for State Office of Mental Health) right of appeal to CSC. Hawkes v Bennett, 155 A.D.2d 766, 547 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13927 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul termination of petitioner's employment with village, Supreme Court erred in deciding whether village and its mayor violated CLS Civ S § 75(2) where resolution of that issue would not have terminated proceeding within meaning of CLS CPLR § 7804(g); however, Appellate Division would decide issue de novo where matter was presently before it. Pieczonka v Jewett, 273 A.D.2d 842, 709 N.Y.S.2d 302, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6835 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), reh'g denied, 715 N.Y.S.2d 206, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9575 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Commissioner of Education lacked subject matter jurisdiction over appeal from 30-day suspension by school bus driver, who, in Article 78 proceeding, alleged that respondent central school district filed misconduct charges against him in retaliation for grievances and complaints he made against management practices; discipline of school employees in classified services is governed by CLS Civ S Art 5. 1996 Op Comm Ed No. 13571.

83. Constitutional considerations

Issue of whether police officer's right to due process was violated (because rule he was charged with violating was overbroad and vague) was not raised before administrative tribunal, and therefore was not properly before court in Article 78 proceeding. Turzyn v Rozzi, 134 A.D.2d 268, 520 N.Y.S.2d 601, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50451 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court would annul determination finding deputy sheriff guilty of violating departmental rule where rule itself was unconstitutional. Holland v Dillon, 140 Misc. 2d 667, 531 N.Y.S.2d 467, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 486 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

84. Pending arbitration proceedings

Pending arbitration proceeding on issue of which union represented petitioner did not toll limitations period for proceeding to challenge petitioner's discharge from her employment. Majka ex rel. Mungari v Utica City Sch. Dist., 247 A.D.2d 845, 668 N.Y.S.2d 831, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1145 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

85. Polygraph test at issue

Where petitioner, who was information aide at city airport, was accused of stealing money from wallet turned into him as lost property, hearing officer in disciplinary proceeding did not err in receiving results of polygraph examination to which petitioner voluntarily submitted since record contained substantial evidence of reliability of machine and qualifications of administrator. Motell v Napolitano, 186 A.D.2d 989, 588 N.Y.S.2d 452, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11515 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Dismissed town police officer's complaint that he was not offered opportunity to take polygraph test similar to that taken by complainant, and results of which were admitted at officer's disciplinary hearing, would not be heard on appeal, even though he had mentioned that he would be willing to submit to such examination, where he never requested that one be scheduled for him, and he took no steps to arrange for one on his own. Ost v Supervisor of Woodstock, 251 A.D.2d 724, 673 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 488, 707 N.E.2d 443, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4260 (N.Y. 1998).

86. Relationship to Civil Service Law § 76

CLS Civ S § 76 authorizes Civil Service Commission to hear appeals only in connection with disciplinary proceedings under CLS Civ S § 75, and thus commission had no jurisdiction to review petitioner's discharge which was effected without hearing pursuant to agreement settling prior disciplinary proceeding whereby petitioner waived hearing and appeal authorized by §§ 75 and 76 and agreed to probationary period of 12 months; petitioner could have brought Article 78 proceeding at time of his dismissal, challenging respondent's conclusion that he was probationary employee at that time. Johnson v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 97 N.Y.2d 627, 735 N.Y.S.2d 861, 761 N.E.2d 553, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. 2001).

A NYC transit employee who, after a hearing pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75 has received a penalty or punishment of a reprimand is not within the class of aggrieved employees who may appeal pursuant to Civil Service Law § 76. Mercer v New York City Transit Authority, 56 Misc. 2d 974, 290 N.Y.S.2d 789, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1483 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

Although the punishment of permanent demotion imposed by petitioner New York City Housing Authority on two long-time permanent competitive civil service employees found guilty of misconduct not involving serious misbehavior following disciplinary proceedings (Civil Service Law, § 75) was appropriate under the circumstances, the determination of respondent New York City Civil Service Commission on appeal by the aggrieved employees (Civil Service Law, § 76, subd 1) modifying the penalties imposed by petitioner by substituting temporary demotions in place of the permanent demotions ordered by the authority, cannot be set aside or disturbed since the commission's exercise of its discretion in modifying the penalties imposed by the authority cannot be said to be "purely arbitrary" and "shocking to one's sense of fairness". The focus of judicial review in the proceedings to set aside the commission's modifications of the authority's punishment is the penalty as modified by the commission rather than the original penalty imposed by the authority and the test to be applied is whether the commission's determination was "purely arbitrary". New York City Housing Authority v New York City Civil Service Com., 94 Misc. 2d 183, 403 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2214 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), aff'd, New York City Housing Auth. v New York City Civ. Serv. Comm., 72 A.D.2d 973, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16249 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1979).

Since Civil Service Law § 76 provides the sole method of review of an employee dismissal pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75, school bus driver dismissed for misconduct under Civil Service Law § 75 could not bring an appeal to the Commissioner of Education. Re Marut, Op Comr Ed #9576.

87. Remit requirement

Where town board failed to set forth any findings of fact in dismissing town police officer and where it was impossible to determine if board found petitioner guilty of all the charges, some of them, or only one of them, failure to state findings of fact precluded adequate judicial review and required that matter be remitted to town board for statement of factual grounds for the determination. Pachucki v Walters, 56 A.D.2d 677, 391 N.Y.S.2d 917, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10831 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Penalty of dismissal of civil servant for misconduct would be vacated where it was based on 6 specifications of misconduct, but 3 specifications were not supported by evidence; matter would be remitted to Commissioner of County Department of Public Works for imposition of penalty appropriate to specifications sustained by evidence. Drayton v Hasl, 121 A.D.2d 631, 503 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58615 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Article 78 proceeding to review dismissal of school district custodian would be remitted to Supreme Court for trial where fact issue existed as to whether determination was ever referred to board of education for its approval or whether district superintendent alone made determination to terminate; since school district failed to demonstrate that its superintendent was authorized to make determination without board approval, fact question was crucial to resolution of proceeding. Smith v Greater Amsterdam School Dist., 128 A.D.2d 929, 512 N.Y.S.2d 584, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44604 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

In civil service disciplinary proceeding, sheriff should have disqualified himself from reviewing hearing officer's determination based on his personal involvement in matter where he had preferred charges and appointed hearing officer, he was present throughout hearing, and he noticeably aligned himself with prosecution by consulting with county attorney on strategy and conduct of case; under circumstances, matter would be remitted to county for de novo determination by county official authorized to act on disqualification of sheriff. Wayering v County of St. Lawrence, 140 A.D.2d 838, 528 N.Y.S.2d 223, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5034 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Outright annulment of public safety board's termination of petitioner, and reinstatement of petitioner to his former position, were appropriate relief, notwithstanding that usual procedure was to remit for new hearing, where provision of municipal charter which petitioner allegedly violated had been repealed, and case had been characterized by questionable hearing tactics and allegations of politically motivated revenge. Girard v Glens Falls, 173 A.D.2d 113, 577 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

County commissioner who preferred disciplinary charges against employee, and thereafter testified as witness at his hearing, should have disqualified himself as matter of propriety and because of his personal involvement, and court would remit matter for de novo determination by impartial decision-maker based on original hearing where he failed to do so; in reviewing hearing officer's determination, commissioner was in position of passing on his own credibility as witness. Lowy v Carter, 210 A.D.2d 408, 620 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12847 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

88. Review of NYC determination

Since New York City, N.Y., Charter § 487(a) and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 15-113, gave the city fire department commissioner exclusive power to discipline firefighters, the city's civil service commission erroneously ruled that it had jurisdiction to hear a firefighters appeal of his termination; the fire department's discipline was outside the scope of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76, and, thus, was not subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. The fire commissioner's N.Y. art. 78 proceeding to annul the commission's determination that it had jurisdiction was improperly dismissed. Von Essen v N.Y. City Civ. Serv. Comm'n, 4 N.Y.3d 220, 791 N.Y.S.2d 887, 825 N.E.2d 128, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 2005).

Forfeiture of 15 vacation days and $1,500 fine imposed on employee by New York City Department of Correction would be annulled and remanded, even though there was substantial evidence that, while on sick leave, employee left his residence without properly notifying his institution, where there was question regarding parties' consent to penalty, which was otherwise illegal; it would be preferable that department impose appropriate penalty rather than have court substitute hearing officer's original recommendation of 30-day suspension without pay. Cepeda v Koehler, 159 A.D.2d 290, 552 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2658 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Where New York City Police Commissioner's dismissal of police officer for failure to take proper action to prevent sexual assault while off duty was necessarily based on determination that assault complainant's testimony was more credible than officer's testimony, Appellate Division could not find otherwise in officer's Article 78 proceeding. Sadler v Bratton, 219 A.D.2d 517, 631 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9508 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Article 78 proceeding for wrongful termination, commenced on October 7, 1994, was improperly dismissed as time barred on ground that claim accrued on August 25, 1993 when Administrative Law Judge determined that petitioner was eligible for unemployment benefits since NYC employer's earliest unequivocal oral notification of termination was given on June 10, 1994, when petitioner reported for physical evaluation; determination that petitioner was entitled to unemployment benefits was collateral proceeding insufficient to satisfy employer's obligation to provide required notice of termination. Vadell v City of New York Health & Hosps. Corp., 233 A.D.2d 224, 649 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11999 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

New York City Civil Service Commission has subject matter jurisdiction to entertain appeals of disciplinary determinations made by Commissioner of New York City Police Department and taken by uniformed members of force. Montella v Bratton, 248 A.D.2d 134, 670 N.Y.S.2d 10, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2077 (N.Y. LEXIS 1289 (N.Y. 1999).

A NYC transit employee who, after a hearing pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75 has received a penalty or punishment of a reprimand is not within the class of aggrieved employees who may appeal pursuant to Civil Service Law § 76. Mercer v New York City Transit Authority, 56 Misc. 2d 974, 290 N.Y.S.2d 789, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1483 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

Although the punishment of permanent demotion imposed by petitioner New York City Housing Authority on two long-time permanent competitive civil service employees found guilty of misconduct not involving serious misbehavior following disciplinary proceedings (Civil Service Law, § 75) was appropriate under the circumstances, the determination of respondent New York City Civil Service Commission on appeal by the aggrieved employees (Civil Service Law, § 76, subd 1) modifying the penalties imposed by petitioner by substituting temporary demotions in place of the permanent demotions ordered by the authority, cannot be set aside or disturbed since the commission's exercise of its discretion in modifying the penalties imposed by the authority cannot be said to be "purely arbitrary" and "shocking to one's sense of fairness". The focus of judicial review in the proceedings to set aside the commission's modifications of the authority's punishment is the penalty as modified by the commission rather than the original penalty imposed by the authority and the test to be applied is whether the commission's determination was "purely arbitrary". 89. Time limitations for appeal

Article 78 proceeding for wrongful termination, commenced on October 7, 1994, was improperly dismissed as time barred on ground that claim accrued on August 25, 1993 when Administrative Law Judge determined that petitioner was eligible for unemployment benefits since NYC employer's earliest unequivocal oral notification of termination was given on June 10, 1994, when petitioner reported for physical evaluation; determination that petitioner was entitled to unemployment benefits was collateral proceeding insufficient to satisfy employer's obligation to provide required notice of termination. Proceeding challenging change in police officer's shift without prior negotiation was time barred where officer took his grievance through steps one and 2 of grievance procedure, administrative determination was final on completion of step 2 on November 3, 1994, date village safety committee denied grievance, and petition was not brought until April 24, 1995. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 235 A.D.2d 698, 652 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Invocation of administrative grievance procedure in accordance with petitioner's union's collective bargaining agreement did not toll statute limitations as to proceeding to review determination terminating petitioner from his position as laboratory specialist. E. Other Procedural Matters

No person may lose substantial rights because of wrong doing proved at administrative hearing but not charged. Bateman v Ogdensburg, 55 A.D.2d 781, 389 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15572 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Civil service employees of the Department of Sanitation of the City of New York were not entitled to an evidentiary hearing provided under § 75 of the Civ S Law, nor were they deprived of any statutory or constitutional rights thereby, on their claims that sick leave benefits were improperly withheld for noncompliance with the rules promulgated by the department where they had not contended they had complied with the regulations nor utilized the opportunity to present valid excuses for any such noncompliance, and where they had available a grievance procedure under their collective bargaining agreement as their exclusive remedy for such disputes. Ostrowski v New York, 80 A.D.2d 815, 437 N.Y.S.2d 318, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10621 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1981).

A county deputy police commissioner improperly dismissed a county police officer from his position based on reports from two psychiatrists who had concluded that the officer was not fit, since such finding was not the equivalent of a finding of guilt pursuant to Civ S Law § 75, and the deputy commissioner had failed to follow the procedures applicable to findings of unfitness specified in Civ S Law §§ 72, 73. Cymbalsky v Dilworth, 97 A.D.2d 543, 467 N.Y.S.2d 902, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

Determination sustaining charge of insubordination for employee's failure to supply medical documentation to substantiate his absences was not invalid on ground that employer could not, under collective bargaining agreement, direct employee to furnish such documentation, since hearing officer ruled that contract authorized such direction to any employee who claimed sick leave for absences either before or after regular day off and for any absence once employee had been placed on restrictive leave, both of which applied here, and employee never resorted to contract's grievance procedure to dispute employer's interpretation of contract that it had right to make such direction. Kieffer v New York State Thruway Authority, 135 A.D.2d 1017, 522 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52895 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Court would annul determination discharging petitioner from her position with State Thruway Authority where there was no evidence establishing that Authority's chairperson, who was officer with primary responsibility for discharge of Authority's administrative functions, personally made or approved determination to terminate petitioner, or that (if he could) he delegated power to do so. Sassone v New York State Thruway Authority, 171 A.D.2d 308, 576 N.Y.S.2d 384, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14534 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

County did not lack authority to discharge county employee for insubordination which violated county work rule, on ground that rule was not validly enacted or approved by county legislature, since insubordination is customarily recognized as providing basis to punish public employees under CLS Civ S § 75. Plante v Buono, 172 A.D.2d 81, 576 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 756, 583 N.Y.S.2d 192, 592 N.E.2d 800, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1024 (N.Y. 1992).

It was not inconsistent to find police investigator guilty of acting in manner which tended to bring discredit on State Police in connection with his son's arrest at college for driving while intoxicated, while finding him not guilty in connection with charge that he sought special treatment for his son and violated CLS Pub O § 74. Brown v Constantine, 199 A.D.2d 912, 606 N.Y.S.2d 65, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12385 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

School district was not precluded from discharging petitioner from her employment as school bus driver on her conviction of violating CLS Veh & Tr § 1180(e) merely because she had earlier signed agreement consenting to 20-day suspension in connection with same incident, since suspension was authorized by administrative regulation contained in district's school bus drivers' handbook, based on petitioner's receipt of citation, while her termination was mandated by different section of same regulation, following her conviction for speeding. Herbison v Board of Educ., 224 A.D.2d 618, 638 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1375 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Court properly granted respondents' motion for leave to renew prior judgment annulling respondents' termination of petitioner as probationary correction officer where ground on which determination was annulled—that petitioner was terminated after his period of probation had expired—was first raised by petitioner only in his reply papers, rendering excusable respondents' omission of facts relevant to reckoning of such period. McKenzie v Schembri, 235 A.D.2d 351, 653 N.Y.S.2d 545, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 615 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Claim by terminated counsel to New York State Crime Victims Board that board's chairperson lacked authority to terminate him was vitiated by board's ratification of chairperson's action. >Nothing in either former Governor Mario Cuomo's Executive Order No. 6 (9 NYCRR § 4.6) or New York State Crime Victims Board's affirmative action plan impinged on board's authority to terminate board counsel's employment. Oakley v New York State Crime Victims Bd., 245 A.D.2d 761, 665 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12939 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Initial letter decision dismissing town police officer from his employment was not defective, even though it was written and signed by town supervisor alone, where it was intended to convey decision of entire town board after its independent review of record of disciplinary hearing before hearing officer. Ost v Supervisor of Woodstock, 251 A.D.2d 724, 673 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 488, 707 N.E.2d 443, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4260 (N.Y. 1998).

Penalty of demotion of Assistant Director of Personal Tax Processing Bureau to lesser, nonsupervisory position would not be set aside, even though Commissioner of Taxation and Finance, without making findings, imposed harsher penalty than that recommended by hearing officer, where requirement that administrative official provide findings of fact when rejecting hearing officer's findings did not apply where commissioner adopted hearing officer's findings and, in valid exercise of discretion, merely deviated from hearing officer's recommendation as to discipline, and hearing officer's findings amply supported penalty imposed by commissioner. Miller v State Dep't of Taxation & Fin., 263 A.D.2d 604, 692 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7704 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

School employee who was terminated on very first day of 1998-1999 school year did not earn any vacation days for that school year, where his employment contract did not provide that vacation time would "fully" accrue at commencement of contract/school year. Gratto v Board of Educ., 271 A.D.2d 175, 711 N.Y.S.2d 574, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8076 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

County administrator erred in terminating a nurse's employment because the record did not support the conclusion that the supervising nurse had vested the county administrator with the power to remove the nurse from her employment at the time of the determination where the designation occurred seven days after the county administrator made the determination. Matter of Bruso v County of Clinton, 139 A.D.3d 1166, 31 N.Y.S.3d 281, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3429 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

Question of proper appointment to position could not be raised in action by a civil service laborer for reinstatement following wrongful discharge by city where court had previously determined that laborer had been wrongfully discharged and had ordered his reinstatement. Burke v Hayden, 2 Misc. 2d 1040, 158 N.Y.S.2d 81, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1682 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 156 N.Y.S.2d 1021 (N.Y. App. Div. 1956).

City manager, as chief administrative officer of all departments of city government, was proper removing authority to initiate disciplinary hearing against city police officer, rather than city's governing body, which had sole authority to appoint police officers, notwithstanding that there was no explicit provision in city charter designating city manager as removing authority of member of police department; general rule that power to remove appointee is incident of power to appoint was superseded by provision of city charter granting manager general removal authority "except as herein provided" in absence of any other provision in charter limiting such authority. Rine v Sherrill, 152 Misc. 2d 19, 574 N.Y.S.2d 641, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 570 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1991).

91. Arbitration

School district is not entitled to order pursuant to CPLR § 7503 staying arbitration between district and employee association regarding district's discharge of school bus driver after hearing pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75 in which it was found that evidence supported charges that busdriver had sexually molested young girls riding his bus, since employee association filed grievance pursuant to its collective bargaining agreement with district claiming that district lacked "just cause" to discharge busdriver; there is no merit to district's contention that driver's participation in Civil Service Law § 75 hearing and failure to appeal therefrom pursuant to § 76 constituted waiver of his right to arbitration, since collective bargaining agreement afforded additional remedy of pursuing to resolution by arbitration "just cause" grievances, in that such grievance provisions of collective bargaining agreement do not supplant, but rather augment, statutory methods of appeal detailed in Civil Service Law § 76. Granville Cent. School Dist. v Granville Non-Instructional Employee's Asso., 114 A.D.2d 626, 494 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53315 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Court erred in refusing to confirm arbitration award on ground that arbitrators failed to make complete award by directing that petitioner be reinstated to his former position or awarded back pay since it was undisputed that arbitrators properly found that petitioner's discharge was without proper reason, and respondents failed to provide any legal basis for vacating or modifying award. Patry v Village of Tupper Lake, 262 A.D.2d 757, 691 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6506 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 753, 700 N.Y.S.2d 427, 722 N.E.2d 507, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3701 (N.Y. 1999).

Provision of labor contract that "No Board of Arbitrators shall have power or jurisdiction to modify the Board of Trustees' action" did not preclude arbitrators (and courts on judicial review) from restoring petitioner to his prior employment based on arbitrators' conclusion that his discharge was without proper reason, where prior 6 paragraphs of contract established hierarchy of penalties that might be imposed under varying circumstances; subject language merely precluded arbitrators's modification of penalty (e.g., reduction of penalty of discharge to one of suspension that had been permissibly imposed by Board). Patry v Village of Tupper Lake, 262 A.D.2d 757, 691 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6506 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 753, 700 N.Y.S.2d 427, 722 N.E.2d 507, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3701 (N.Y. 1999).

92. Burden of proof

In a proceeding to remove an executive officer of a county alcoholic beverage control board the burden of proving the officer's incompetency or misconduct rests upon the person alleging the same. Ryan v New York State Liquor Authority, 273 A.D. 576, 79 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4640 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

In attorney's Article 78 proceeding for reinstatement to his prior employment as Community Development Attorney for city, attorney had burden of proving that abolition of his position was brought on by bad faith or in effort to circumvent Civil Service Law. In order to satisfy burden of proving that abolition of position was brought on by bad faith or in effort to circumvent Civil Service Law, Article 78 petitioner must eliminate bona fide reasons for elimination of his position and show either that no savings were accomplished or that someone was hired to replace him. Mucci v City of Binghamton, 245 A.D.2d 678, 664 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12570 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. dismissed, 91 N.Y.2d 921, 669 N.Y.S.2d 262, 692 N.E.2d 131, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 256 (N.Y. 1998), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 802, 677 N.Y.S.2d 72, 699 N.E.2d 432, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1770 (N.Y. 1998).

Teachers' association claiming, in Article 78 proceeding, that probationary teacher was unlawfully terminated by school district because of her protected union activity had burden of proving that (1) she was engaged in protected activity, (2) such activity was known to person making adverse employment decision, and (3) adverse action would not have been taken but for protected activity. Rockville Centre Teachers Ass'n v N.Y. State Pub. Empl. Rels. Bd., 281 A.D.2d 425, 721 N.Y.S.2d 112, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2130 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Hearing officer properly based his determination in a custodian's disciplinary hearing upon substantial evidence rather than a preponderance of the evidence. Matter of James v Hoosick Falls Cent. School Dist., 93 A.D.3d 1131, 941 N.Y.S.2d 335, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2367 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

Pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2), the Jamestown Board of Public Utilities, in order to discharge the former employee for misconduct, was required to prove that the employee engaged in misconduct, but it did not have to prove the specific misconduct of criminal conspiracy to defraud, as the Board had initially alleged. Parla v Jamestown Bd. of Pub. Utils., 17 A.D.3d 1151, 793 N.Y.S.2d 854, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4663 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2005).

93. Constitutional matters

Employee was not deprived due process of law on ground that Department of Correctional Services violated its own rules by allowing its Bureau of Labor Relations (Bureau), rather than its Affirmative Action Office (AAO), to process charges of sexual harassment against him, since language of regulation, stating that "affirmative action office shall have responsibility for processing complaints," was not meant to preclude Bureau from initiating disciplinary action for sexual harassment independent of AAO as it could under CLS Civ S § 75 prior to issuance of regulation, and even if matter had been referred to AAO, employee would have received same procedural protections afforded by Bureau. Oare v Coughlin, 133 A.D.2d 943, 520 N.Y.S.2d 658, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51985 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 615, 526 N.Y.S.2d 436, 521 N.E.2d 443, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 700 (N.Y. 1988).

Transit authority's requirement that subway car conductor submit to return-to-work drug test pursuant to collective bargaining agreement did not violate Fourth Amendment; in any event, drug testing in absence of individualized suspicion was reasonable because employee's position was safety sensitive. Briggs v Stangl, 222 A.D.2d 672, 635 N.Y.S.2d 687, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13901 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In bus mechanic's Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of his employment with school district, due process required reconsideration of that penalty, imposed for misconduct and insubordination in violation of CLS Civ S § 75, where mechanic had been employed by district for 29 years with otherwise unblemished record, and penalty was based on finding of systematic fraud covering "period of months and possibly even years" even though mechanic was not so charged, and proof did not support that conclusion. Rice v Hilton Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 1104, 667 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13901 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), modified, 258 A.D.2d 900, 685 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1542 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

In a hybrid proceeding, reimbursement of a corrections officer's improperly withheld disability benefits was just and proper relief because the sheriff terminated the officer's statutory benefits during the pendency of the disciplinary hearing without a pretermination evidentiary hearing, and, as such, the officer was not provided due process; the unclean hands doctrine did not apply to the termination of benefits. 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8990.

School district's director of operations was deprived of constitutional liberty interest, and was entitled to name-clearing hearing, where he was terminated from his noncompetitive position after audit report identified him as having engaged in fiscal improprieties, gross mismanagement and theft; petitioner was not required to establish falsity of charges to be entitled to name-clearing hearing, as that was function of hearing itself. Okebiyi v Cortines, 167 Misc. 2d 1008, 641 N.Y.S.2d 791, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 112 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996), app. dismissed, 239 A.D.2d 421, 658 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5084 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

In action against county employer brought in federal court by former county employee who claimed that she was wrongfully discharged during her probationary term and sought to recover damages for deprivation of procedural due process under 42 USCS § 1983, court correctly dismissed pendent state claim for alleged breach of contract as such claim depended on whether plaintiff was entitled to reinstatement, which had to be addressed first in Article 78 proceeding, and such proceeding was time-barred. Finley v Giacobbe, 79 F.3d 1285, 1996 U.S. App. LEXIS 294 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1996).

94. —Double jeopardy

Subsequent administrative hearing does not violate constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy even though the civil servant has previously been acquitted on criminal charges arising out of the same incidents of alleged misconduct. Scales v Maxwell, 52 A.D.2d 719, 382 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12410 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Fact that nurse's aide had been orally counseled for each act which formed basis of subsequent disciplinary proceeding did not constitute prior discipline within meaning of CLS Civ S § 75, and thus county's determination terminating her employment did not subject her to double jeopardy. Yerry v Ulster County, 128 A.D.2d 941, 512 N.Y.S.2d 592, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44610 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

95. Criminal case, effect of Any hearing into the facts underlying a police officer's conviction of endangering the welfare of a child, N.Y. Penal Law § 260.10(1), was unnecessary prior to his termination pursuant to N.Y. Pub. Off. Law § 30(1)(e) because one who knowingly engaged in conduct likely to be injurious to a child's welfare was deemed wanting in moral integrity; dismissal of the police officer's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding against a city and a commissioner, seeking reinstatement and demanding a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 was proper. Matter of Feola v Carroll, 10 N.Y.3d 569, 860 N.Y.S.2d 457, 890 N.E.2d 219, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 1476 (N.Y. 2008).

Order denying petitioner reinstatement to her former position was affirmed because she was terminated for failing to maintain a minimum qualification of her employment, namely, continued eligibility for the Medicaid program and not the disposition of her pending criminal action, therefore, the disciplinary procedures mandated by the Civil Service Law and the collective bargaining agreement were not applicable. Matter of Crittenden v New York State Off. for People With Dev. Disabilities, 167 A.D.3d 1394, 92 N.Y.S.3d 159, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8906 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2018).

Determination of a criminal charge by a court against an employee of New York city board of transportation is in no way controlling in disciplinary proceedings conducted by the board against the employee, under provisions of Rap. Tr. Law, § 14, subd. b, and this section, based on the same incident which gave rise to criminal charge. Application of Sheehan, 43 N.Y.S.2d 778, 182 Misc. 57, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2321 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

Indefinite suspension of city corrections officers without pay pending resolution of criminal charges against them, pursuant to NYC Admin Code § 9-112, was not inconsistent with CLS Civ S §§ 75(3) and 76(4). Seabrook v Jacobson, 970 F. Supp. 252, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9630 (S.D.N.Y. 1997), vacated, 153 F.3d 70, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 20509 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998).

96. Drug testing

In Article 78 proceeding to annul discharge of firefighter after test revealed large quantities of cocaine metabolite in his urine, court erred in concluding that employer lacked objective evidence to justify compulsory drug testing where, in addition to anonymous letter stating that firefighter had been reporting to work under influence of alcohol, employer presented evidence of physical manifestations of substance abuse on day he was tested, his reputation for showing up at work under influence, his long record of excessive absences, his prior substance abuse problems, and his understanding that he could be tested if he showed any signs of recurring substance abuse. Wilson v City of White Plains, 95 N.Y.2d 783, 710 N.Y.S.2d 303, 731 N.E.2d 1111, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 904 (N.Y. 2000).

Random drug testing procedures to which city housing police officers were subject were not unconstitutional given diminished expectation of privacy of public employees and more greatly diminished expectation of privacy of police officers. Clark v New York City Housing Authority, 168 A.D.2d 305, 562 N.Y.S.2d 637, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15196 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990), app. dismissed, 77 N.Y.2d 938, 569 N.Y.S.2d 611, 572 N.E.2d 52, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 585 (N.Y. 1991).

It was reasonable for deputy fire chief to order firefighter to submit to urine test where, by all accounts, firefighter appeared to be impaired and unable to perform duties of his employment without risk of injury to himself and to those whose safety he was employed to safeguard; thus, firefighter's failure to comply with order properly served as ground for disciplinary action. Washington v Dolce, 208 A.D.2d 937, 617 N.Y.S.2d 533, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10611 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Transit police officer was properly ordered to submit to urinalysis predicated on reasonable suspicion of his drug use, based on information supplied by 2 confidential informants, although neither informant had past history of supplying reliable information, where first informant's information was corroborated by other events observed by transit police investigators, and second informant's credibility was established by his relationship with petitioner. Canty v Spooner, 216 A.D.2d 463, 628 N.Y.S.2d 754, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6393 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In disciplinary proceeding against police officer, administration of drug test was justified by reasonable suspicion on part of sergeant who observed police officer engaging in strange behavior suggestive of attempt to steal cocaine seized from drug suspect arrested by fellow officer. Cantwell v Bratton, 222 A.D.2d 281, 635 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12852 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Substantial evidence supported employer's finding of reasonable suspicion justifying direction that employee undergo drug test where (1) employer's physician (to whom employee was told to report because of his complaint of inability to perform his normal job duties) testified that, on examining employee, he detected alcohol on employee's breath, nasal congestion, swollen glands, throat soreness, and eye condition called "nystagmus" which was known to be indicative of substance abuse, and (2) while in physician's waiting room, employee was agitated and hostile to clinic workers. Jackman v Schembri, 222 A.D.2d 293, 635 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12865 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 807, 647 N.Y.S.2d 164, 670 N.E.2d 448, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1596 (N.Y. 1996).

Transit authority's requirement that subway car conductor submit to return-to-work drug test pursuant to collective bargaining agreement did not violate Fourth Amendment; in any event, drug testing in absence of individualized suspicion was reasonable because employee's position was safety sensitive. Briggs v Stangl, 222 A.D.2d 672, 635 N.Y.S.2d 687, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13901 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In Article 78 proceeding by petitioner who was dismissed as correction officer for using cocaine, where petition alleged that respondent violated department directive requiring that initial positive urinalysis for drug use be confirmed by second, more sophisticated test, court properly upheld respondent's interpretation that directive was satisfied by positive EMIT test followed by positive GC/MS test of petitioner's first urine sample; respondent had rational basis to reject petitioner's claim that testing of second sample, which was negative, constituted "confirmatory" test where negative result of second test was accounted for by fact that second urine sample was produced 30 minutes after first sample and was diluted by water ingested by petitioner. Johnson v Schembri, 227 A.D.2d 179, 642 N.Y.S.2d 9, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Respondents' use of hair analysis drug testing to support termination of employment of probationary police officer for illicit cocaine use, while tenured employees were tested for drugs by means of urinalysis, did not constitute evidence of bad faith or denial of due process or equal protection, because probationary and tenured employees are not similarly situated and therefore not entitled to equivalent protections. Brown v City of New York, 250 A.D.2d 546, 673 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6159 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 810, 680 N.Y.S.2d 54, 702 N.E.2d 839, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3204 (N.Y. 1998).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging police officer's dismissal, reasonable suspicion supported order requiring officer to undergo drug testing where statements of 2 informants were corroborated by police surveillance observations and investigation. There was no basis to disturb finding that hair analysis drug tests were accurate where reliability of such testing has been upheld, and neither mistake in transcribing identification number nor improper placement of test tubes in centrifuge, which resulted in retesting, affected accuracy of test results. Brinson v Safir, 255 A.D.2d 247, 680 N.Y.S.2d 500, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12683 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 805, 689 N.Y.S.2d 707, 711 N.E.2d 983, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 825 (N.Y. 1999).

Discharged highway maintenance equipment operator received adequate notice of consequences of county highway department's random drug test, and thus he was not denied due process, where he underwent prior mandatory training concerning county's drug and alcohol testing policy and was informed that positive drug test could result in loss of employment. Catlin v Orleans County Highway Dep't, 255 A.D.2d 966, 680 N.Y.S.2d 35, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12228 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Informant's statement that she observed police officer using drugs on numerous occasions, which was reasonably detailed and included declaration against penal interest, constituted substantial evidence of reasonable suspicion required for order directing drug test for cause. Roy v City of New York, 258 A.D.2d 348, 685 N.Y.S.2d 668, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1355 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

97. Estoppel

Law enforcement officers were estopped from asserting limitations period of CLS Civ S § 75 as bar to disciplinary proceedings against them for their failure to report knowledge of crimes by fellow officers where accused officers' own concealment of such knowledge prevented filing of charges within statutory period. In re Steyer, 70 N.Y.2d 990, 526 N.Y.S.2d 422, 521 N.E.2d 429, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 89 (N.Y. 1988).

Judgment of Supreme Court at Special Term granting motion to dismiss former State Department of Taxation and Finance estate tax attorneys' application for reinstatement and dismissing, as moot, motion for class action treatment, was affirmed, notwithstanding contention that cause of action was different from that in prior case and thus petitioners were only precluded, under principles of res judicata or collateral estoppel, from litigating issues which were actually determined in prior case. Gowan v Tully, 58 A.D.2d 936, 397 N.Y.S.2d 427, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13137 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977), aff'd, 45 N.Y.2d 32, 407 N.Y.S.2d 650, 379 N.E.2d 177, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2068 (N.Y. 1978).

Mayor properly refused to reopen fault phase of disciplinary proceeding brought against police officer where issue of fault had been litigated and decided at hearing 2 years earlier and determination had been confirmed on appeal, especially in absence of any newly discovered evidence. Smith v Tomlinson, 136 A.D.2d 646, 523 N.Y.S.2d 604, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 428 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 802, 530 N.Y.S.2d 554, 526 N.E.2d 45, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1117 (N.Y. 1988).

Fact that employee was sent "counseling memorandum" from his supervisor (warning him that reporting of one or more incidents of violence would result in "further disciplinary action") did not preclude or estop institution of disciplinary proceedings based on same conduct; such letter constituted warning and admonishment to comply with employer's policy and was not form of punishment in and of itself. Heslop v Board of Educ., Newfield Cent. Sch. Dist., 191 A.D.2d 875, 594 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2383 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Administrative law judge at unemployment insurance hearing properly accorded collateral estoppel effect as to factual findings of misconduct at CLS Civ S § 75 disciplinary hearing where claimant was given full and fair opportunity to litigate issue of misconduct at prior disciplinary hearing, during which she was represented by counsel, testified on her own behalf, cross-examined employer's witnesses, and had opportunity to present and examine relevant evidence. In re Claim of Dimps, 274 A.D.2d 625, 710 N.Y.S.2d 448, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7604 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Correction officer, who unsuccessfully challenged Department of Correctional Services' enforcement of hair length policy directive and was dismissed in earlier grievance and arbitration hearings, was not barred by principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel from maintaining Article 78 proceeding, which did not seek to overturn or review arbitrator's decision or outcome of grievances, but merely sought determination that hair length policy violated his state and federal constitutional rights to free exercise of his religion, as well as reinstatement to his former position. Rourke v New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs., 159 Misc. 2d 324, 603 N.Y.S.2d 647, 1993 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 417 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1993), aff'd, 201 A.D.2d 179, 615 N.Y.S.2d 470, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8009 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Hearing officer's decision after a N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 hearing about a county employee's misconduct did not preclude a finding that the employee's termination was discriminatory in his later discrimination suit; the factual findings that the employee had committed misconduct, however, precluded the employee from arguing otherwise. The failure to instruct the jury on the preclusive effect of the § 75 hearing, however, was not materially prejudicial to the defendants. Matusick v Erie County Water Auth., 739 F.3d 51, 2014 U.S. App. LEXIS 192 (2d Cir. N.Y.), reprinted, 757 F.3d 31, 2014 U.S. App. LEXIS 3683 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2014).

98. Failure of hearing officer to make recommendations

A hearing officer's failure to include recommendations as to discipline when preparing his or her report after a disciplinary hearing pursuant to Civil S Law § 75(2) does not strip the subject agency of jurisdiction to impose sanctions upon its employee, since the failure to recommend discipline is important only to the extent that it omits a suggested starting point from which the removing entity may begin to fashion the appropriate sanction, and since, though a disciplinary proceeding will be voided and the status quo ante restored when there has been some error that has tainted the entire proceeding, such situation simply does not arise when a hearing officer acts pursuant to a valid deligation, prepares a detailed report, and provides such report along with a transcript to the removing board or officer but omits to include recommendations as to discipline. Wiggins v Board of Education, 60 N.Y.2d 385, 469 N.Y.S.2d 652, 457 N.E.2d 758, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3457 (N.Y. 1983).

99. Grand jury matters

Hearing officer's determination not to remove grand jury report from official record of disciplinary proceeding or to direct that testimony related thereto be stricken was abuse of discretion where Justice of Supreme Court had issued order sealing report, and hearing was thereafter terminated before any determination on disciplinary charges was reached. Walden v Village of Greenport, 235 A.D.2d 544, 653 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

100. Harmless procedural error

Court would affirm determination removing petitioner from his position as deputy police chief even though mayor did not have copy of hearing transcript prior to rendering his determination, since mayor's affidavit stated that he reviewed transcript on day after making determination and that it confirmed what he had already been advised by corporation counsel, who informed mayor daily of evidence introduced at hearing, and mayor further averred that he fully reviewed appropriate material, thus curing any error. Fraccola v Utica, 135 A.D.2d 1112, 523 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52972 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 533 N.Y.S.2d 56, 529 N.E.2d 424, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2614 (N.Y. 1988), cert. denied, 489 U.S. 1053, 109 S. Ct. 1313, 103 L. Ed. 2d 582, 1989 U.S. LEXIS 1054 (U.S. 1989).

101. Insubordination alleged

Disciplinary charges for misconduct and/or incompetence against police officer with New York City Transit Police Department were not time-barred by virtue of 18-month limitation provision of CLS Civ Serv § 75(4) since such limitation period is inapplicable where incompetence or misconduct complained of and described in charges would constitute crime if proven in court of competent jurisdiction, and instant allegations, if proven, would have constituted crime of petit larceny on basis of obtaining money by false pretenses (CLS Penal § 155.25). In re Sunja S., 175 A.D.2d 132, 571 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9786 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 861, 576 N.Y.S.2d 219, 582 N.E.2d 602, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4730 (N.Y. 1991).

In bus mechanic's Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of his employment with school district, due process required reconsideration of that penalty, imposed for misconduct and insubordination in violation of CLS Civ S § 75, where mechanic had been employed by district for 29 years with otherwise unblemished record, and penalty was based on finding of systematic fraud covering "period of months and possibly even years" even though mechanic was not so charged, and proof did not support that conclusion. Rice v Hilton Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 1104, 667 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13901 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), modified, 258 A.D.2d 900, 685 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1542 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

102. Jurisdictional matters

The Police Department of the City of New York lacked jurisdiction to commence disciplinary proceedings against a police officer with regard to conduct that occurred prior to her appointment and at a time when she had been a civilian employee in the competitive civil service, a position from which she had resigned before disciplinary proceedings were commenced (Civ Serv Law § 75); authority to inquire into alleged misconduct attributed to the police officer prior to her appointment was vested in the Personnel Director of the City of New York (Civ Serv Law § 50(4)(h)). Borges v McGuire, 107 A.D.2d 492, 487 N.Y.S.2d 737, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49770 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985).

Disciplinary charges for misconduct and/or incompetence against police officer with New York City Transit Police Department were not time-barred by virtue of 18-month limitation provision of CLS Civ Serv § 75(4) since such limitation period is inapplicable where incompetence or misconduct complained of and described in charges would constitute crime if proven in court of competent jurisdiction, and instant allegations, if proven, would have constituted crime of petit larceny on basis of obtaining money by false pretenses (CLS Penal § 155.25). In re Sunja S., 175 A.D.2d 132, 571 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9786 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 861, 576 N.Y.S.2d 219, 582 N.E.2d 602, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4730 (N.Y. 1991).

State of New York Civil Service Commission acted in excess of its statutory authority and, thus, its jurisdiction by disciplining an employee in 2012 for charges based upon conduct occurring in 2007 and 2008 because the charges did not allege the employee acted with the mens rea requirements for the crime of official misconduct and, as such, the charges were time-barred. Matter of De Guzman v State of New York Civ. Serv. Commn., 129 A.D.3d 1189, 11 N.Y.S.3d 296, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4634 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 26 N.Y.3d 913, 43 N.E.3d 375, 22 N.Y.S.3d 165, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 3709 (N.Y. 2015).

Trial court erred in adopting an administrative law judge's (ALJ's) recommendation to terminate a corrections officer because the former Department of Corrections (DOC) commissioner did not make a written designation of the ALJ as statutorily required, and, as such, the ALJ lacked authority and jurisdiction to conduct the disciplinary hearing involving the officer; the 1992 designation letter was outside the record and not relied upon by the DOC. Matter of Lindo v Ponte, 150 A.D.3d 1244, 57 N.Y.S.3d 163, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4210 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

103. Notice requirement

After a civil service employee has been found guilty of misconduct, the public employer may consider material included in his employment record in determining an appropriate sanction; however, the employee must first be given notice and an opportunity to submit a written response. Accordingly, the dismissal of a village police officer by the Village Board, after finding the officer guilty of a bad check charge, and after consideration of his employment record without notice to the officer, would be remitted for re-etermination of an appropriate sanction after giving the officer prior notice of the adverse employment record material to be considered and an opportunity for a written response. Bigelow v Board of Trustees, 63 N.Y.2d 470, 483 N.Y.S.2d 173, 472 N.E.2d 1001, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4680 (N.Y. 1984).

104. Preliminary injunction

Plaintiff seeking preliminary injunction prohibiting her continued suspension from employment failed to show clear likelihood of success on merits of underlying claim against employer where there was heavily contested issue as to whether plaintiff resigned as part of settlement agreement, in which case she would not be entitled to back pay. Plaintiff seeking preliminary injunction prohibiting her continued suspension from employment failed to show that irreparable injury would befall her without protection of injunction where her underlying claim against employer sought only monetary damages that could be readily computed and for which she would be fully compensated if she ultimately prevailed on merits. Plaintiff seeking preliminary injunction prohibiting her continued suspension from employment failed to show that balance of equities favored her where she would be fully compensated for her loss of back pay if she prevailed on merits of underlying claim against employer, but it was much less certain that employer would be able to recoup its payments if it were required to pay plaintiff's salary pending outcome of litigation, and plaintiff had not articulated any severe consequence that would result if injunction were denied. Winkler v Kingston Hous. Auth., 238 A.D.2d 711, 656 N.Y.S.2d 421, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3736 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

105. Recusal

"Rule of necessity" required town superintendent of highways to render final determination in disciplinary proceeding, despite his personal involvement in matter, where only individual authorized to act in his stead was deputy superintendent of highways, who had also testified against petitioner at hearing and was either present at or involved in many of incidents giving rise to misconduct charges. Martin v Platt, 191 A.D.2d 758, 594 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2185 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 652, 601 N.Y.S.2d 581, 619 N.E.2d 659, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 2248 (N.Y. 1993).

County commissioner who preferred disciplinary charges against employee, and thereafter testified as witness at his hearing, should have disqualified himself as matter of propriety and because of his personal involvement, and court would remit matter for de novo determination by impartial decision-maker based on original hearing where he failed to do so; in reviewing hearing officer's determination, commissioner was in position of passing on his own credibility as witness. Lowy v Carter, 210 A.D.2d 408, 620 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12847 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Member of county board of supervisors should have recused himself from participating in board's final determination in disciplinary proceeding, where he signed notice of charges against employee under CLS Civ S § 75, voted to prefer charges and to appoint hearing officer, and testified at hearing. Ernst v Saratoga County, 234 A.D.2d 764, 651 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12492 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Commissioner of County Labor Department should have disqualified himself from reviewing recommendation of hearing officer and acting on any of charges where he had been involved in initial investigation, preferred charges, and testified at hearing. Pryor v O'Donnell, 262 A.D.2d 648, 693 N.Y.S.2d 187, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7671 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

City commissioner of accounts improperly terminated petitioner's employment as a real property clerk; as the commissioner investigated and deemed unfounded her allegations of preferential assessment treatment, brought the resulting misconduct charges against her, and testified against her at her disciplinary hearing, he should have disqualified himself from reviewing the hearing officer's recommendation and rendering a final determination in the matter. Matter of Zlotnick v City of Saratoga Springs, 122 A.D.3d 1210, 997 N.Y.S.2d 809, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8228 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2014).

Recusal of members of an employer's board of trustees who reviewed a hearing officer's recommendation and acted on charges against an employee was not required because the members were not so personally or extensively involved in the disciplinary process as to compel a conclusion that the members could not fairly consider the evidence and recommendation resulting from a hearing. Matter of Tinter v Board of Trustees of the Pound Ridge Lib. Dist., 155 A.D.3d 1054, 66 N.Y.S.3d 526, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8437 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2017).

106. Retroactivity

A school district erred in denying petitioner retroactive pay to the date of the district's first determination to terminate her employment as a clerk typist, which determination had been annulled by court order, since petitioner was entitled to maintain her position until the matter was finally decided by the district following remand by the court. McLaughlin v North Bellmore Union Free School Dist., 86 A.D.2d 870, 447 N.Y.S.2d 304, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15505 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

In law enforcement officer's Article 78 proceeding against officials of county civil service commission and county personnel department, period during which officer acted as investigator before effective date of CLS Civ S §§ 58(4)(c) and 59-a had to be included in 18-month period necessary for permanent designation as detective/investigator where language of CLS Civ S § 58(4)(c)(iv) shows that it applies retroactively to persons who were designated detectives during period between passage of § 58(4)(c) and decision in Matter of Wood v Irving, 85 NY2d 238, which struck down original statute as unconstitutional. Pleakis v Peterson, 281 A.D.2d 910, 722 N.Y.S.2d 458, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2857 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

107. Service of process

Show cause order obtained by employee of state university against whom charges pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75 had been levied containing a direction continuing him in his position without suspension would be dismissed where service of process was not made on state attorney general pursuant to requirements of CPLR 2214, subd d. Randall v Toll, 72 Misc. 2d 305, 339 N.Y.S.2d 72, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1285 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1972).

108. Settlement of claim

Court would enforce plea agreement by which correction officer settled disciplinary charges alleging violation of sick leave regulations, despite her claimed unawareness of terms of plea agreement, where officer executed agreement on advice of counsel. Simpson v Abate, 213 A.D.2d 190, 625 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2522 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Stipulation of settlement, which disposed of charges against petitioner and terminated disciplinary hearing against her, was valid although its existence and terms were not placed on record despite presence of court reporter, as agreement on record or in writing was not required by CLS Civ S § 75, case law or statute of frauds, and parties' collective bargaining agreement did not require signed agreement. Winkler v Kingston Hous. Auth., 259 A.D.2d 819, 686 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2108 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

109. Temporary injunction; temporary restraining order

Corrections officer was not entitled to temporary restraining order barring implementation of disciplinary proceedings based on directive aimed at curbing sick leave abuses since he would be entitled to back pay and reinstatement if he were terminated for sick leave abuses and such termination was later annulled; furthermore, allegation that possible loss of health benefits constituted showing of irreparable harm was speculative and not supported. Valentine v Schembri, 212 A.D.2d 371, 622 N.Y.S.2d 257, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1247 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

In a disciplinary trial of an employee of the State, the employee was granted a temporary injunction directing the State Industrial Commissioner to preserve records needed for her defense which would otherwise be destroyed as obsolete. Schwartz v Lubin, 10 Misc. 2d 819, 173 N.Y.S.2d 548, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3608 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 6 A.D.2d 108, 175 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5286 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1958).

110. Time limitations

Language in a collective bargaining agreement making "final and binding" the final step of a grievance procedure did not preclude a nurse, charged in a disciplinary proceeding with abandoning a wheelchair patient in a bathroom, from pursuing judicial review of her right to a transcript of the grievance hearing (Civ S Law §§ 76[1], 75[3]); the words "final and binding" merely triggered the running of the four-month time limit within which proceeding must be brought. Stoker v Tarentino, 64 N.Y.2d 994, 489 N.Y.S.2d 43, 478 N.E.2d 184, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16685 (N.Y. 1985).

Disciplinary charges against state employee were not time-barred under CLS Civ S § 75(4), which requires that charges be brought within 18 months except where alleged misconduct would constitute crime, since employee's act of falsely representing that he had college degree on his employment application would constitute second degree offering false instrument for filing (CLS Penal § 175.30), and charge that he operated private business from his state workplace would constitute theft of services (CLS Penal § 165.15). Dean v Bradford, 158 A.D.2d 772, 551 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 911 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Disciplinary charges for misconduct and/or incompetence against police officer with New York City Transit Police Department were not time-barred by virtue of 18-month limitation provision of CLS Civ Serv § 75(4) since such limitation period is inapplicable where incompetence or misconduct complained of and described in charges would constitute crime if proven in court of competent jurisdiction, and instant allegations, if proven, would have constituted crime of petit larceny on basis of obtaining money by false pretenses (CLS Penal § 155.25). In re Sunja S., 175 A.D.2d 132, 571 N.Y.S.2d 826, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9786 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 78 N.Y.2d 861, 576 N.Y.S.2d 219, 582 N.E.2d 602, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 4730 (N.Y. 1991).

Chief of town police force was not state employee for purposes of CLS Civ S § 75(4); thus, general 18-month statute of limitations would govern all disciplinary specifications against police chief except those which "if proved in a court of appropriate jurisdiction, (would) constitute a crime," in which case no limitations period would apply. No limitations period applied to disciplinary specifications against town chief of police alleging misconduct which, if established at trial, would have constituted third degree sexual abuse in violation of CLS Penal § 130.55 or second degree harassment in violation of CLS Penal § 240.30(1). Wade v Town of Ticonderoga Town Bd., 256 A.D.2d 860, 681 N.Y.S.2d 833, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13566 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 804, 689 N.Y.S.2d 16, 711 N.E.2d 201, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 742 (N.Y. 1999).

Petitioner's filing of second amended complaint in his federal discrimination action, which demanded reinstatement, constituted his demand, and his employer's answer thereto constituted refusal; as such, instant proceeding, claiming entitlement to pretermination hearing, was properly dismissed as time barred since it was commenced 11 months after second amended complaint was filed. Thomas v Stone, 284 A.D.2d 627, 725 N.Y.S.2d 749, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5987 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 935, 733 N.Y.S.2d 370, 759 N.E.2d 369, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3210 (N.Y. 2001), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 608, 739 N.Y.S.2d 98, 765 N.E.2d 301, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 47 (N.Y. 2002), cert. denied, 536 U.S. 960, 122 S. Ct. 2664, 153 L. Ed. 2d 839, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4958 (U.S. 2002).

Suspended police officer could not pursue reinstatement of his position or a hearing under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 because he was aggrieved when the 30-day period of unpaid suspension ended in January 2004; thus, his demand for reinstatement in November 2004 was outside the four-month limitations period in N.Y. C.P.L.R. 217. Matter of Dorsey v Coleman, 40 A.D.3d 1187, 834 N.Y.S.2d 743, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5446 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

Charge that a sheriff's department employee threatened the sheriff was properly dismissed because the alleged threat against the sheriff occurred more than two years before the charge was filed, beyond the N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(4) time period for bringing misconduct charges; there was insufficient evidenced that the employee committed the crimes of menacing in the third degree and reckless endangerment in the second degree, because no evidence was presented establishing that, during the struggle, the rifle held by the employee was loaded with ammunition or that he threatened his wife with it. What threats the employee was alleged to have made were directed at the sheriff, and, as a result, even if the wife's testimony regarding the threats and ensuing struggle were fully accepted, the crimes of reckless endangerment and menacing were not committed by the employee and the statutory exception to the 18-month rule did not apply. Matter of Guynup v County of Clinton, 74 A.D.3d 1552, 903 N.Y.S.2d 580, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4810 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Where allegations in two sexual harassment specifications against the former employee of the New York State Labor Department contained conduct that occurred both during and before the statutory limitations period of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(4) and where the hearing officer considered the untimely incidents, the matter had to be remitted because it could not be determined if the untimely allegations influenced the determination of guilt. Matter of Bayer v New York State Dept. of Labor, 28 A.D.3d 865, 812 N.Y.S.2d 691, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Where the allegations against the former employee included incidents that took place within one year of the commencement of the disciplinary proceedings taken against the former employee by the New York State Department of Labor, which was the employer, those allegations fell within the one-year statute of limitations period under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(4). Matter of Bayer v New York State Dept. of Labor, 28 A.D.3d 865, 812 N.Y.S.2d 691, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Where some of the sexual harassment allegations occurred within a few days after the coworker began working for the New York State Department of Labor and years before the disciplinary action was brought by the Department against the former employee, those allegations were barred by the one-year limitations period under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(4). Matter of Bayer v New York State Dept. of Labor, 28 A.D.3d 865, 812 N.Y.S.2d 691, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4106 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Disciplinary charges against a police officer were not time-barred, as the violations concerned charges of sexually inappropriate conduct which, if proved, would have constituted the crime of sexual abuse in the third degree, in violation of N.Y. Penal Law § 130.55, and accordingly, the charge was within the statutory exception under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(4). Matter of McKinney v Bennett, 31 A.D.3d 860, 817 N.Y.S.2d 767, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8628 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Misconduct charge against an investigator was time-barred by N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(4) because the charges were brought more than 18 months after the alleged misconduct, and the statutory crime exception did not apply; the alleged misconduct did not allege that the investigator acted with the intent to gain a benefit, which was an essential element required for a conviction of official misconduct, N.Y. Penal Law § 195.00. Thus, since the conduct described in the charge would not have, if proven in court, constituted a crime, the 18-month statute of limitations governed and the charge should have been dismissed as untimely. Matter of Rodriguez v County of Albany, 105 A.D.3d 1124, 962 N.Y.S.2d 801, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2247 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

Misconduct disciplinary charge against an assistant fire chief was not time-barred as most of the specifications for that charge involved conduct that could be construed to constitute a crime, and other specifications were not clearly completed more that 18 months before the charges were filed as they appeared to be continuing in nature; however, two specifications under the incompetence and/or dereliction of duty charges were more than 18 months old and were time-barred. Matter of Rea v City of Kingston, 110 A.D.3d 1227, 973 N.Y.S.2d 395, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6739 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2013).

111. Uncharged misconduct

Hearing officer erred in finding school bus driver guilty of 2 uncharged specifications of misconduct and basing his recommendation as to penalty thereon. Collins v Parishville-Hopkinton Cent. Sch. Dist., 256 A.D.2d 700, 681 N.Y.S.2d 132, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12998 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

112. Waiver

Resignation of affirmative action administrator for State Thruway Authority did not waive her claim for back wages, to which she would be entitled if she could prove her innocence of charges for which she was suspended without pay pending determination of those charges. Figueroa v New York Thruway Auth., 251 A.D.2d 773, 674 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6780 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Provision of a collective bargaining agreement (CBA) containing the ostensible waiver of a predisciplinary hearing was ambiguous and thus unenforceable because it was impossible to provide the deputy with a predisciplinary hearing after he had already been disciplined, and, in any event, the CBA provision at issue appeared to preserve the deputy's rights, not waive them. Matter of Ortlieb v Lewis County Sheriff's Dept., 155 A.D.3d 1628, 65 N.Y.S.3d 390, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8179 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2017).

In a proceeding by an employee of the city transit authority seeking an order reinstating him to a former position and directing payment by the authority to the employee for his loss of salary from the date of the motion to the day of reinstatement, the claim by the employee that his union breached its duty of fair representation by acting arbitrarily or in bad faith was not substantiated where, although the employee claimed that he was misled by his union representative as to the rate of pay he would receive in a new demoted position, the employee's "belief" that the new rate of pay would be slightly higher than what he actually received was not significant enough to invalidate the employee's written waiver of his right to a formal hearing in light of the fact that the schedule setting forth the actual rates of pay for the demoted position was equally available to all parties present at the hearing including the employee, who made no specific request for a review of the rate schedule before signing the waiver; likewise, the employee's allegation that the union further breached its duty of fair representation in misleading him as to the duration of his demotion was not substantiated by evidence where, although the employee testified that he believed that he would be reinstated to his former position in six months, it was established that the rule governing reinstatement was clearly presented to him during the disciplinary proceeding and that such a rule provided that a demotion was usually effective for a period of one year. Allen v New York City Transit Authority, 109 Misc. 2d 178, 439 N.Y.S.2d 811, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2373 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

113. Writ of prohibition

Until civil servant, who had been suspended but whose reinstatement had been ordered by court, had exhausted administrative remedies with respect to his claim that he should not be disciplined on the basis of prior conduct because he had not been given a hearing within 30 days of his suspension, court would not issue writ of prohibition to enjoin servant's superiors from holding such a hearing and disciplining the civil servant. Fegert v Mulroy, 80 Misc. 2d 236, 363 N.Y.S.2d 67, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1879 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

III. Applicability To Particular Classifications

114. In general

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a former nontenured laborer in the Office of General Services, who sought reinstatement after being terminated as a result of an incident in which he used abusive language and made unsolicited advances toward a woman being interviewed with respect to unemployment compensation benefits, the Office of General Services was free to affect the termination without reasons and without a hearing due to the employee's nontenured status where the employee failed to demonstrate that the termination was for constitutionally impermissible reasons or prohibited by statute or policies established by decisional law. Stanziale v Executive Dep't of Office of General Services, 55 N.Y.2d 735, 447 N.Y.S.2d 150, 431 N.E.2d 635, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 3273 (N.Y. 1981).

Rights of tenure to position in the civil service is not determined by the name given to the position; rather, it is the duties of the position that determine the status of the position. Nolan v Tully, 52 A.D.2d 295, 383 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11999 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), dismissed, 40 N.Y.2d 844, 356 N.E.2d 492, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 5319 (N.Y. 1976).

In an Article 78 proceeding challenging a 60-day suspension of a sergeant in a police department jointly created and maintained by a town and a village, on the grounds of incompetency, improper conduct, and falsifying records, objections alleging that disciplinary charges were brought more than 60 days after the date of the incident on which the charges were based, and alleging that suspension of a disciplined officer should be limited to 20 days, were foreclosed by a collective bargaining agreement that provided for application of Civ S Law § 75 to disciplinary proceedings affecting members of the police department. Luedeke v Board of Police Comm'rs, 87 A.D.2d 669, 448 N.Y.S.2d 832, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16010 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a city bus driver to review his two-months suspension without pay, the suspension was properly confirmed where the driver allowed his bus to run out of gas on five separate occasions, where he smoked while operating his bus in violation of rules and regulations, and where he knew of a defective gas gauge but failed to take precautionary measures. Bollin v Kingston, 89 A.D.2d 658, 453 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17777 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a dog control officer to challenge his dismissal by the town board, the officer would be reinstated where charges had been brought against him after an election resulted in his party assuming a minority status on the board, and where the charges against him, including the police department's inability to contact him, his failure to respond to a call in a timely fashion, and his harboring unlicensed dogs, were not supported by "substantial evidence." Finch v Town Bd. of Webster, 89 A.D.2d 797, 453 N.Y.S.2d 506, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17915 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

An employee of the Facilities Development Corporation was an employee of a public benefit corporation and was not protected by the provisions of Civ S Law § 75. Razzano v Crook, 101 A.D.2d 625, 474 N.Y.S.2d 883, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18166 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Special Term properly denied Article 78 petition brought by former state police "Sergeant-Station Commander" who sought review of State Police Superintendent's decision, made without hearing, to remove him from that post, where sergeant failed to exhaust his administrative remedies in that he did not seek timely fourth stage review of his grievance on issue; case was not governed by CLS Civ S § 75(1), which would not have required exhaustion of administrative remedies under these circumstances, but by CLS Exec § 215, which does require completion of grievance procedure before court review can be obtained. Ward v Chesworth, 125 A.D.2d 912, 510 N.Y.S.2d 273, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 63088 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 610, 516 N.Y.S.2d 1025, 509 N.E.2d 360, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16435 (N.Y. 1987).

The requirement of notice and hearing in subd. 1 of this section is limited to persons holding positions in the "competitive class of the Civil Service," and even war veterans are not entitled to notice of hearing unless holding positions in the classified service. Application of Lee, 32 Misc. 2d 114, 223 N.Y.S.2d 417, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4070 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Court would dismiss Article 78 proceeding to review discharge of petitioner from his position as legal counsel to county legislature since he was at-will employee subject to termination at any time for any reason or no reason at all, and no constitutionally impermissible purpose was shown. Parr v Onondaga County Legislature, 139 Misc. 2d 975, 529 N.Y.S.2d 672, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 300 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988), aff'd, 156 A.D.2d 985, 550 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16168 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

In the N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78, the New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation was properly directed to amend its policy under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(1)(c) to include part-time employees among those protected by § 75(1), as the reference to continuous in N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(1)(c) did not limit the protections of that statute to full-time employees. Saunders v N.Y. City Health & Hosps. Corp., 6 A.D.3d 241, 774 N.Y.S.2d 330, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4524 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2004).

Petition alleging that petitioner's position was classified, and that she was therefore entitled to pre-termination hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, was outside jurisdiction of Commissioner of Education; parties' dispute as to whether petitioner's position was classified or unclassified must be raised before local or state civil service commission and before Supreme Court in Article 78 proceeding. 1994 Op Comm Ed No. 13271.

115. Classified positions

Where a world war veteran was appointed "guard-county jail" and was later sworn in as a deputy sheriff, having taken no civil service examination, he cannot assert that he was under classified civil service, and consequently his removal without a hearing was not contrary to this section. Fuller v Walsh, 245 A.D. 797, 281 N.Y.S. 405, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10926 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1935).

Public school bus driver was not member of classified civil service entitled to pre-termination hearing pursuant to section of Civil Service Law and fact that she was offered and granted pre-termination hearing which substantially afforded her protections of that statute could not serve as basis for valid complaint on her part that hearing was not in technical compliance with the statute. Brown v North Syracuse Cent. School Dist., 55 A.D.2d 813, 390 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15618 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Decision to terminate Article 78 petitioner from his position as "Medical Specialist II (surgery)" for budgetary reasons based at least in part on that parenthetical designation was proper where Department of Civil Service had uniformly taken position that different parenthetical designations are different positions in lay-off situation, petitioner offered only conclusory allegations that he was targeted for termination because of his involvement in investigation of quality of care offered at facilities where he had worked, and he offered no concrete evidence that might be indicative of bad faith. Dos v Pataki, 238 A.D.2d 338, 655 N.Y.S.2d 652, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3394 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

An employee in the classified municipal civil service of New York city is not entitled, prior to his removal, to an oral hearing and to be confronted by the witnesses against him, but only to a written statement of the charges, the service of a notice of his proposed removal and the reasons therefor, with a copy of the charges, and a reasonable time to answer. Walsh v Goldwater, 12 N.Y.S.2d 908, 171 Misc. 463, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1968 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

Appeal to Commissioner of Education, contending that petitioner was improperly terminated as school custodian and was entitled to whistle-blower protection, was dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, as CLS Civ S art 5 governs discipline of school employees in classified service. 1998 Op Comm Ed No. 14080.

116. Competitive positions

Removal of one from the position of deputy tax commissioner of New York city, to which position he had been regularly appointed from a competitive civil service list, without giving him an opportunity of making an explanation, or entering grounds of his removal upon records of the department, is a violation of the city charter. People ex rel. Van Tine v Purdy, 221 N.Y. 396, 117 N.E. 609, 221 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 396, 1917 N.Y. LEXIS 1313 (N.Y. 1917).

The tenure of office of an employee of New York city, legally appointed to position in exempt class, is not affected by a reclassification placing the position in competitive class. He is transferred without examination (New York City Charter, § 605-v; Local Laws of 1929, No. 13) and where, as a veteran of the world war, he was entitled to a hearing upon charges before removal, the fact that the civil service commission refused to classify the position in the exempt class does not warrant his summary discharge from office. Fornara v Schroeder, 261 N.Y. 363, 185 N.E. 498, 261 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 363, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1295 (N.Y. 1933).

While all appointees of a sheriff whose duties are solely within realm of criminal matters are subject to civil service provisions of the constitution and related statutes, those employees whose duties include civil matters are employed by the sheriff personally and are not subject to civil service regulations. Sirles v Cordary, 49 A.D.2d 330, 374 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10907 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 950, 390 N.Y.S.2d 413, 358 N.E.2d 1038, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3131 (N.Y. 1976).

Town should have granted employee hearing on stated charges before discharging him from his position as building inspector and code enforcement officer since employee held that position when he passed competitive examination and qualified for permanent employment, and, on reappointment by town board, acquired permanent status by operation of law. Seeley v Ellicottville, 132 A.D.2d 993, 518 N.Y.S.2d 521, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49467 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

The prohibition against removal without notice of the reasons therefor contained in this section applies only to those holding a position in the competitive class. Rohr v Kenngott, 29 N.Y.S.2d 988, 176 Misc. 838, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2645 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 262 A.D. 944, 29 N.Y.S.2d 992, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6552 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

A typist for a Board of Education who held her position by appointment in a competitive class of the classified civil service was not subject to summary dismissal without complying with this section. Vanderbrook v Cooke, 40 Misc. 2d 81, 242 N.Y.S.2d 686, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2148 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

117. —Deputies, generally

For a position to be deemed that of "deputy," it is sufficient, if a statute authorizes the delegation of such types of duties, as ordinarily would be exercised by one occupying a position of "deputy." Behringer v Parisi, 5 N.Y.2d 147, 182 N.Y.S.2d 365, 156 N.E.2d 71, 1959 N.Y. LEXIS 1629 (N.Y. 1959).

Petitioner, an honorably discharged veteran, is not entitled to a hearing prior to removal from office where subd. 1 of this section specifically excludes "deputies" from its protection. Nowicki v Heafy, 44 N.Y.S.2d 482, 180 Misc. 184, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2468 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

Even though an employee may be called a deputy, he is not a deputy within the meaning of the exclusionary provision of this section unless he is authorized by statute to act for and on behalf of the principal officer or unless his duties are prescribed by statute in such a manner as to make him in legal effect a deputy. Heath v Creagh, 96 N.Y.S.2d 247, 197 Misc. 537, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3192 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949), aff'd, 276 A.D. 948, 94 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5255 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

In determining whether appointee is entitled to benefit of veteran's discharge statute, appointee's status as "deputy" is determined not by what appointee in fact does, but by what he is directed or authorized to do by statute, i. e., whether there is statute authorizing principal officer to delegate his duties to subordinate, and definition of "deputy" in context of veteran's discharge statute may be broader than definition used in jurisdictional classification sections. Clarke v O'Brien, 91 Misc. 2d 190, 397 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3389 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 56 A.D.2d 869, 392 N.Y.S.2d 383, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11233 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

118. — —Deputy attorneys

Under the charter of New York city an assistant corporation counsel is a deputy within exception of this section. An order of mandamus to compel reinstatement of petitioner, an honorably discharged sailor of the world war, in the position of assistant corporation counsel of New York city, from which he had been removed summarily, without cause, was, therefore, properly denied. Byrnes v Windels, 265 N.Y. 403, 193 N.E. 248, 265 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 403, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 1052 (N.Y. 1934).

An Assistant Attorney-General, who was suspended without pay following his indictment for perjury and bribe receiving and who was a veteran of the armed forces, is not entitled to a hearing pursuant to paragraph (b) of subdivision 1 of section 75 of the Civil Service Law for, while that statute requires that a veteran be given a hearing, it excepts a person who holds the position of "deputy" and Assistant Attorneys-General are deputies within the meaning of paragraph (b); sections 62 and 63 of the Executive Law contemplate delegation of the Attorney-General's authority to Assistant Attorneys-General. In addition, the general nature of the position—the responsibilities, duties and functions—dictates that Assistant Attorneys-General be held to be deputies of the Attorney-General. De Lucia v Lefkowitz, 62 A.D.2d 674, 406 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10893 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978), aff'd, 48 N.Y.2d 901, 424 N.Y.S.2d 897, 400 N.E.2d 1349, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 2516 (N.Y. 1979).

The Secretary of the Investigation Department and Examining Attorneys are Deputies whose employment could be terminated without charges. Darcy v Fraiman, 49 Misc. 2d 319, 267 N.Y.S.2d 455, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2247 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 25 A.D.2d 951, 270 N.Y.S.2d 374, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7461 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1966).

Assistant district attorney was "deputy" and was not entitled to procedural safeguards of veteran's discharge statute. Clarke v O'Brien, 91 Misc. 2d 190, 397 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3389 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 56 A.D.2d 869, 392 N.Y.S.2d 383, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11233 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Attorney was not protected from discharge by CLS Civ S Law § 75(1)(b), where attorney was discharged from his Deputy County Attorney position, but contended that, as a veteran, he was protected from discharge by the statute, but the issue was whether he was a "deputy" and therefore excluded from the statute's protection, because county attorney may delegate his duties to deputy attorneys and direct them to act in his absence. Tranello v Frey, 758 F. Supp. 841, 1991 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3394 (W.D.N.Y. 1991), aff'd, 962 F.2d 244, 1992 U.S. App. LEXIS 27263 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1992).

119. — —Deputy sheriffs

Deputy sheriff was entitled to hearing with respect to his suspension prior to termination, in absence of proof that deputy's duties were related to noncriminal functions. Durham v Amico, 52 A.D.2d 724, 382 N.Y.S.2d 169, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12417 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Article 78 petition for review of sheriff's action in terminating petitioner's employment as civil deputy sheriff without cause, in violation of collective bargaining agreement which afforded civil deputy sheriffs same rights and privileges as competitive class employees under CLS Civ S § 75, should not have been dismissed on ground that sheriff is not subject to contract provision limiting his power to discharge deputy sheriffs performing civil functions because he is personally responsible for their actions since (1) exception to this rule exists where, by legislative enactment, county has assumed liability for civil deputies, and (2) county had, by local law, assumed liability for county employees, including civil deputy sheriffs. Oneida County Deputy Sheriff's Benevolent Asso. v Hasenauer, 145 A.D.2d 984, 536 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14087 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Penalty of dismissal of deputy sheriff was so disproportionate to his offense of failing to safeguard his privately owned weapon as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, and thus would be reduced to suspension without pay for 18 months. Barresi v

Mahoney, 240 A.D.2d 570, 658 N.Y.S.2d 451, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6598 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 812, 666 N.Y.S.2d 100, 688 N.E.2d 1382, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3664 (N.Y. 1997).

120. — —Other specific deputies

The Workmen's Compensation Law § 141, by authorizing the Chairman to delegate her powers of administration to the heads of bureaus and sections, provided for the creation of deputies within the meaning of this section of the Civil Service Law. The question, as to whether a District Administrator appointed by the Chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board was a deputy, could not be disposed of summarily, since there was an issue as to the actual exercise by the District Administrator of the powers and duties of the Chairman. Behringer v Parisi, 5 N.Y.2d 147, 182 N.Y.S.2d 365, 156 N.E.2d 71, 1959 N.Y. LEXIS 1629 (N.Y. 1959).

Petitioner, a deputy county clerk, comes within the exception noted in this section, and his duties, as defined by law, are conclusive that in supervising work of indexing and re-indexing conveyances, mortgages, etc., he acted within the scope of a deputy. WISNER v THORP, 243 A.D. 709, 243 A.D. 710, 277 N.Y.S. 2, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7868 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1935).

Where duties of petitioner, a world war veteran, consisted solely of ministerial and subordinate acts, a title of "Deputy" did not bring him within exemption of this section, subd. 2, but petitioner is protected in his position by subd. 1 to extent that he may not be removed save upon proven charges of incompetence or misconduct. Petrillo v Lynn, 243 A.D. 796, 278 N.Y.S. 11, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8348 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 268 N.Y. 673, 198 N.E. 552, 268 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 673, 1935 N.Y. LEXIS 1142 (N.Y. 1935).

In creating the position of deputy commissioner of the state athletic commission and plainly designating the persons to be appointed thereto "deputies," the legislature must have intended the position to be excluded from the protection afforded by the Civil Service Law; The position of deputy commissioner of the State Athletic Commission is a deputy position within the meaning of this section. Hence, petitioner could be removed from that position without charges or a hearing. Erikson v Helfand, 1 A.D.2d 59, 147 N.Y.S.2d 157, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3708 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1955), aff'd, 1 N.Y.2d 775, 153 N.Y.S.2d 48, 135 N.E.2d 586, 1956 N.Y. LEXIS 885 (N.Y. 1956).

A trial was properly ordered in an Art 78 proceeding brought by the former executive assistant for legislative affairs to the State Superintendent of Insurance, who challenged his removal from such position on the ground that, as a veteran, he could not be removed except for incompetency or misconduct after a hearing upon stated charges under Civ S Law § 75(1)(b), where an issue of fact existed as to whether petitioner was excepted as a deputy from the claimed protection; respondent superintendent was authorized to delegate his duties under Ins Law §§ 10, 11, 16, but, although petitioner had been empowered to represent respondent before various public and private organizations and committees, it was unclear from the record to what extent petitioner was authorized to so represent respondent, and much of the work he performed, such as tracking legislation and preparing testimony, was not of an administrative type and not particular to respondent given the closeness of the issue, the actual exercise of authority by petitioner would be ordered scrutinized in the trial and considered in resolving the question of deputyship. Sullivan v Superintendent of Ins., 103 A.D.2d 914, 478 N.Y.S.2d 153, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19582 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984), aff'd, 64 N.Y.2d 1074, 489 N.Y.S.2d 904, 479 N.E.2d 249, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 14215 (N.Y. 1985).

Petitioner, whose duties consisted of inspecting properties, measuring plots, and miscellaneous assessing and clerical work, and who was not authorized to act in place of any of the members of the board of assessors in their absence or inability to act, was not a "deputy" within purview of statute. Steen v Nassau County, 38 N.Y.S.2d 496, 179 Misc. 821, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2210 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 858, 37 N.Y.S.2d 1023, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6199 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Petitioner, who was appointed Metropolitan Realty Appraiser, was discharged. He applied for exemption granted veterans under subsection 1(b) of this section, which subsection excludes deputies. Held: since there was another person in the same tax office with the title of Metropolitan Estate Tax Supervisor, the petitioner was a deputy appraiser, and could not qualify for exemption. Also, the petitioner was appointed under the provision in § 249-u of the Tax Law, providing for appointment of deputy appraisers, instead of under the phrase "other employees." Morton v Murphy, 19 Misc. 2d 272, 188 N.Y.S.2d 799, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3838 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959), rev'd, 11 A.D.2d 880, 203 N.Y.S.2d 222, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8414 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1960).

Whether a veteran who was discharged from a civil service position without filing of charges against him or being given a hearing, was a "deputy" of a borough president while acting as Superintendent of Sewers, so as to be subject to summary discharge, required further inquiry into the nature of his duties and the facts. Levy v Periconi, 35 Misc. 2d 1012, 231 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3022 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

The duties of the petitioner as executive director and secretary of the Housing Authority in complete charge of the management of housing projects were neither as a private secretary nor a deputy within the exceptions of the statute but rather the incumbent by appointment of a position which was under the control of and subordinate to the Authority and therefore entitled to protection, notwithstanding the existence of an expired contract. McGarry v Syracuse Housing Authority, 64 Misc. 2d 578, 315 N.Y.S.2d 465, 1970 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1286 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1970).

121. Department heads, directors and the like

The chief examiner in the office of the president of the board of aldermen of New York city was a legislative employee, and removable by the president summarily without a hearing upon charges, notwithstanding that he was an honorably discharged soldier of U.S. McEneny v McKee, 262 N.Y. 494, 188 N.E. 35, 262 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 494, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1010 (N.Y. 1933).

The City of New York had the right to fire a director of the City Veteran's Service Agency where the petitioner wholly failed to meet and overcome the documentary proof showing that he was the head of a department and not a subordinate employee. Hence, the provisions of this section [limiting the power to remove veterans and those in the classified civil service] do not apply. This section did not prohibit the Mayor of the City of New York from firing, without a hearing, the director of the City Veteran's Service Agency where the proof showed that petitioner was the head of a department and not a subordinate employee. Brickman v Wagner, 284 A.D. 942, 134 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4140 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954), aff'd, 309 N.Y. 921, 131 N.E.2d 915, 309 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 921, 1955 N.Y. LEXIS 1659 (N.Y. 1955).

In a proceeding against a county and certain of its officers in which the petitioner claimed that the respondents had taken part in a conspiracy, in a malicious attempt to force him to resign from his position as director of the county water agency, and that such actions resulted in a de facto suspension without pay and without any disciplinary proceeding having been held, such actions being allegedly in violation of Civ S Law § 75 and of the New York State Constitution, Art V, § 6, an order dismissing the petition on the ground that administrative remedies had not been exhausted under applicable local personnel rules would be reversed and the petition reinstated with the matter being remitted to Special Term for further proceedings, since the nature of petitioner's claim was such that it fit none of the categories specified in the local rules referred to as a basis for dismissal and since, inasmuch as the petitioner claimed that the county had violated his statutory and constitutional rights in its conduct toward him, the rule of exhaustion of administrative remedies was not applicable. Dineen v Borghard, 100 A.D.2d 547, 473 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17519 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Determination by town board, reducing petitioner's salary grade as to his permanent appointment as Commissioner of Public Works, was improperly annulled on ground that there existed no allegations that his work performance was anything other than adequate since there was evidence indicating need to tend to budgetary concerns, coupled with changes noted in petitioner's responsibilities and his failure to show that action was done in contravention or in attempt to circumvent protections afforded by CLS Civ S § 75. Kent v Town of Niskayuna, 244 A.D.2d 829, 665 N.Y.S.2d 718, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12103 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Since, under § 9 of this law, a head of department receives no civil service protection, and, under this section (former § 22), a veteran is not entitled to any protection if he is a head of department, under the terms of the Charter of the City of North Tonawanda, a war veteran, appointed as Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, could be replaced by another appointee without filing of written charges against him or a hearing. Kropp v Common Council of North Tonawanda, 26 Misc. 2d 127, 207 N.Y.S.2d 411, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2199 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

122. Exempt positions, generally

Positions in the exempt class are included in the protection afforded by this section. Fornara v Schroeder, 261 N.Y. 363, 185 N.E. 498, 261 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 363, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1295 (N.Y. 1933).

Appellate Division lacked jurisdiction to review petitioner's termination as county attorney because, as exempt employee, he had no right to hearing under CLS Civ S § 75. Testa v Valenza, 133 A.D.2d 540, 519 N.Y.S.2d 1012, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50039 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

Court would dismiss Article 78 proceeding challenging petitioner's dismissal as executive director of thruway authority on ground that he could not be dismissed without charges and hearing as provided by CLS Civ S § 75 since (1) he was exempt employee not protected by § 75, (2) resolution approved by thruway authority, granting statutory protection to exempt employees, was void as attempt to reclassify exempt positions without following procedures of CLS Civ S § 20, and (3) resolution was also void as ultra vires attempt to bind future boards of authority. Martin v Hennessy, 147 A.D.2d 800, 537 N.Y.S.2d 676, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1451 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Trial court properly remitted a disciplinary matter to a fire department for further proceedings because, while a volunteer firefighter's exempt status, standing alone, did not entitle him to the Civil Service Law protection where he was neither a permanent employee nor a permanent appointee, and the fire department officials were required to comply with the procedures set forth in the General Municipal Law. Matter of McEvoy v Oyster Bay Fire Co. No. 1, 117 A.D.3d 953, 986 N.Y.S.2d 187, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3628 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2014).

Board of Elections had power to remove its administrative officer at will where all board positions were classified in the exempt class. Quinto v Havens, 6 Misc. 2d 639, 163 N.Y.S.2d 713, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

123. —Secretaries

The provision "Nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to the position of private secretary of any official or department" contained in subd. 2, embraces every person holding the position of secretary under § 13 of this chapter. Glassman v Fries, 271 N.Y. 116, 2 N.E.2d 281, 271 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 116, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1174 (N.Y. 1936), reh'g denied, 273 N.Y. 498, 6 N.E.2d 422, 273 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 498, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 1234 (N.Y. 1937).

Subd. 2 of this section does not apply to the position of executive secretary of the commissioners of Allegheny State Park, where such official, in addition to clerical work, had supervision of the work of all employees in three state parks, and his duties were those of a superintendent rather than of a secretary within the exceptions to be found in § 13, subd. 2. Mercer v Dowd, 288 N.Y. 381, 43 N.E.2d 452, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 381, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1001 (N.Y. 1942).

A veteran who is a secretary in the exempt class of civil service and who derives his duties and functions from his appointing board or commission is entitled to protection of Civil Service Law and, hence, to a hearing before he can be discharged. Switzer v Sanitary Dist. No. 7, 59 A.D.2d 889, 399 N.Y.S.2d 43, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14076 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. dismissed, 43 N.Y.2d 845, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2671 (N.Y. 1978).

The secretary or assistant secretary of the state architect is not entitled to a writ of mandamus to compel his reinstatement after removal, though he be an exempt fireman and no charges were made against him. Willard v Pilcher, 155 N.Y.S. 913, 92 Misc. 30, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 654 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1915).

An individual need not stand in a confidential relation to the appointing officer to come within the designation of a private secretary. Where the petitioner, a secretary to the Commissioner of the Department of Marine and Aviation of the City of New York, acted in conjunction with and under the immediate direction of the Commissioner and had activities which were elastic and varied according to the exigencies of the day-to-day operations of the department, he performed the normal functions of a private secretary and hence was not protected by this section. Schwartz v Board of Estimate, 118 N.Y.S.2d 364, 203 Misc. 701, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1447 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 282 A.D. 663, 122 N.Y.S.2d 136, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4575 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

124. —Veterans

The facts that a position in state civil service has been placed in the exempt class and that the appointing power is authorized by law to remove employees at pleasure do not preclude an honorably discharged soldier of the World War, when notified of his discharge from such a position, from assertion of his rights as a veteran under this section. Mercer v Dowd, 288 N.Y. 381, 43 N.E.2d 452, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 381, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1001 (N.Y. 1942).

A part-time lieutenant in a town's police department was entitled to the additional protection of the Civil Service Law pursuant to Civ S Law § 75 during a disciplinary hearing before the town board, where the lieutenant was an honorably discharged veteran who had served during time of war. Owen v Town Board of Wallkill, 94 A.D.2d 768, 462 N.Y.S.2d 715, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18227 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 60 N.Y.2d 560, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 5745 (N.Y. 1983).

Positions of associate attorney in the Department of Taxation and Finance, were in the exempt class, not covered by the Civil Service Law prohibiting removal of veterans except for misconduct or incompetency after a hearing. Bass v Bragalini, 143 N.Y.S.2d 490, 207 Misc. 1055, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2865 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 286 A.D. 944, 143 N.Y.S.2d 494, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4557 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955), app. denied, 286 A.D. 979, 144 N.Y.S.2d 723, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4771 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

The fact that petitioner was classified "exempt" does not prevent his assertion of rights as a veteran since that classification is subject to the Civil Service Law. Gellman v County of Nassau, 52 Misc. 2d 732, 276 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), aff'd, 29 A.D.2d 1049, 290 N.Y.S.2d 708, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6025 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

125. Independent officers, generally

A person holding a position in the noncompetitive class falls into the category of an "independent officer" and, hence, is not entitled to protection of Civil Service Law governing removal and other disciplinary action where his position is created and his powers and duties are prescribed by statute and he exercises a high degree of initiative and independent judgment. Nolan v Tully, 52 A.D.2d 295, 383 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11999 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), dismissed, 40 N.Y.2d 844, 356 N.E.2d 492, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 5319 (N.Y. 1976).

Fact that duties of counsel to New York State Crime Victims Board were not statutorily defined, but were left to board to prescribe under CLS Exec § 623(2), was not determinative of whether counsel was independent officer for whom CLS Civ S § 75(1)(b) offered no protection from termination. Oakley v New York State Crime Victims Bd., 245 A.D.2d 761, 665 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12939 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

To the exceptions created by this section has been added another judicial interpretation, specifically, that of an "independent officer". Although the determination of whether a particular person is an independent officer or a subordinate employee must depend in each case upon its own facts, the following guidelines are to be used in making that determination: (1) was his office created by statute; (2) are his powers and duties defined by statute; (3) does he exercise a high degree of initiative and independent judgment. Gellman v County of Nassau, 52 Misc. 2d 732, 276 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), aff'd, 29 A.D.2d 1049, 290 N.Y.S.2d 708, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6025 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

Exception to veteran's discharge statute for "independent officer" is applicable to those positions where appointee exercises independent judgment and discretion in discharge of his duties. Clarke v O'Brien, 91 Misc. 2d 190, 397 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3389 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 56 A.D.2d 869, 392 N.Y.S.2d 383, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11233 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

126. —Specific independent officers

A transfer tax appraiser, appointed pursuant to § 229 of this tax law, is an independent official and not a subordinate employee. He may, therefore, be removed from office without charges or a hearing even though he be a veteran of World War. Mylod v Graves, 274 N.Y. 381, 9 N.E.2d 18, 274 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 381, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 857 (N.Y. 1937).

A village attorney occupied an independent rather than a subordinate position and therefore, although a war veteran, was not entitled to protection from removal under this section. Pinkus v Hempstead, 294 N.Y. 719, 61 N.E.2d 453, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 719, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 920 (N.Y. 1945).

The Clerk of the Surrogate's Court of Erie County is an independent officer and not a subordinate employee entitled to the protection of this section. O'Day v Yeager, 308 N.Y. 580, 127 N.E.2d 585, 308 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 580, 1955 N.Y. LEXIS 965 (N.Y. 1955).

A compensation claims referee employed by the Workmen's Compensation Board was not entitled to the protection of subdivision 1 of this section. The referee's duties closely approached the judicial function and required a high degree of independent judgment. Elterman v Parisi, 7 A.D.2d 771, 180 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4090 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1958).

Duties performed by petitioners, who were in positions in the noncompetitive class of the civil service as estate tax attorneys (part-time), were those of independent officers and, hence, petitioners were not protected by provision of Civil Service Law governing removal and other disciplinary action since decisions which petitions were called upon to make involved use of discretionary powers and independent determination; fact that some of their duties might be more or less than ministerial did not affect their status as an "independent officer" since, to fall into such category, it is only necessary that some sovereign power, whether great or small, be exercised. Nolan v Tully, 52 A.D.2d 295, 383 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11999 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), dismissed, 40 N.Y.2d 844, 356 N.E.2d 492, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 5319 (N.Y. 1976).

Town's authority to terminate petitioner's service was not limited by CLS Civ S § 75 since, as town building inspector, petitioner was not public employee, but was public officer who held her position at pleasure of town board; further, town did not remove petitioner from office during her term, but instead declined to reappoint her to another term. Cathy v Prober, 195 A.D.2d 999, 600 N.Y.S.2d 561, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7796 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 660, 605 N.Y.S.2d 5, 625 N.E.2d 590, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4242 (N.Y. 1993).

City's elimination of position of Community Development Attorney was done in good faith in response to fiscal considerations, not as subterfuge for disciplinary action, where (1) city was faced with financial crisis in view of declining revenues, (2) although attorney's salary was paid by federal funds, its elimination allowed those funds to be used for other purposes, (3) city largely shifted attorney's work to either City Corporation Counsel or outside private counsel, (4) no one was hired in attorney's place, and no other position was created to perform his duties, (5) number of urban renewal projects had dropped sharply, (6) evaluation of attorney's position by outside source indicated that his position was not needed, and (7) city achieved savings in abolishing 20 positions, including attorney's, and thus was able to reduce its tax burden and make more efficient use of limited federal funding. Mucci v City of Binghamton, 245 A.D.2d 678, 664 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12570 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997), app. dismissed, 91 N.Y.2d 921, 669 N.Y.S.2d 262, 692 N.E.2d 131, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 256 (N.Y. 1998), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 802, 677 N.Y.S.2d 72, 699 N.E.2d 432, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 1770 (N.Y. 1998).

Permanent appointee to position of counsel to New York State Crime Victims Board was independent officer for whom CLS Civ S § 75(1)(b) offered no protection from termination, even though he performed some ministerial tasks and was required to follow board's rules and regulations, where he occupied policy making position that shaped and guided board's agenda and actions, so that board's full trust and confidence in him was essential, and his duties included providing legal assistance and advice to board, coordinating its response to its legal and administrative duties, developing, formulating, and finalizing adoption of rules and regulations, working with attorney general in handling litigation involving board, and developing and formulating policies and programs to promote rights and interests of crime victims. Oakley v New York State Crime Victims Bd., 245 A.D.2d 761, 665 N.Y.S.2d 463, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12939 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Warden failed to prove that real reason for his demotion to assistant deputy warden was retaliation for his union activities and his filing of discrimination complaint where warden, after questioning policy concerning hospital visits to wounded correction officers, reacted with aggressive defiance to superior's attempt to "correct" his reluctance, twice failed to follow protocol of saluting superior officer, and was evaluated by psychologist as having questionable ability to follow authority. Meehan v Schembri, 251 A.D.2d 200, 675 N.Y.S.2d 858, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7375 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 809, 678 N.Y.S.2d 595, 700 N.E.2d 1231, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 2872 (N.Y. 1998).

General Counsel for State Energy Office was independent officer in policy-making or advisory position, was not entitled to limited tenure protection afforded by CLS Civ S § 75(1)(b), and thus was disqualified by CLS Labor § 565(2)(e) from receiving unemployment insurance benefits when his position was abolished where (1) absence of statutory provision creating his position did not preclude finding that he was independent officer, (2) his position in organization of State Energy Office was not that of subordinate employee, and (3) all of his duties and responsibilities required high degree of initiative and independent judgment. In re Claim of Fromer, 286 A.D.2d 816, 730 N.Y.S.2d 365, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8622 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001).

The mere fact that petitioner actually hired and discharged employees and generally conducted affairs of two departments, does not warrant a determination that he was an officer of village. Naughton v Boyle, 223 N.Y.S. 432, 129 Misc. 867, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 960 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

Principal assistant district attorney did not come within "independent officer" exception to veteran's discharge statute. Clarke v O'Brien, 91 Misc. 2d 190, 397 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3389 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), aff'd, 56 A.D.2d 869, 392 N.Y.S.2d 383, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11233 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

A town comptroller, being an "independent officer" rather than a "subordinate employee," is not protected by the provisions of this section; however, he can be removed from office prior to expiration of his term only pursuant to § 36 of the Public Officers Law. 1961 Op St Compt #550.

127. Laborers

An honorably-discharged World War veteran employed as laborer in non-competitive class is not entitled, under subds. 1 or 2 of this section, to a hearing as a condition precedent to imposition of fine, inasmuch as fine of ten days' pay is not tantamount to removal within meaning of subd. 1 of this section. Greenfield v Moses, 7 N.Y.S.2d 356, 169 Misc. 389, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2051 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1938), aff'd, 257 A.D. 809, 12 N.Y.S.2d 585, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7930 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

128. Non-competitive positions

In a proceeding under Civil Pr Act, Art 78, to compel reinstatement, on the ground that removal from a position was violative of Civ Ser Law, §§ 22 and 25, it is error for the court at special term to dismiss a petition upon ground that § 22 is not applicable to position of cashier and that § 25 has no application to one in the exempt or noncompetitive class. Rohr v Kenngott, 288 N.Y. 97, 41 N.E.2d 905, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 97, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1061 (N.Y. 1942).

Petitioner, former Chief Cancer Research Clinician at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, a permanent noncompetitive civil service position, was not entitled to a hearing before termination of his services for shortcomings as a departmental administrator and his job performance in a supervisory position. He was not entitled to a hearing by § 75 of the Civil Service Law, and he could not establish a sufficient property interest in continued public employment deserving due process protection. Moreover, the reasons for his discharge were not so stigmatizing as to warrant a hearing to protect his good name and reputation. Carter v Murphy, 80 A.D.2d 960, 437 N.Y.S.2d 344, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10860 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

In an Article 78 proceeding by a school bus driver, challenging her dismissal by the school district after complaints were received from parents as to the driver's safety and disciplinary problems, dismissal without a hearing was proper since the driver, as a permanent employee of a school district in the noncompetitive class, was an "at will" employee who was not entitled to tenure protections under Civ S Law § 75. Voorhis v Warwick Valley Cent. School Dist., 92 A.D.2d 571, 459 N.Y.S.2d 325, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16808 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

Employment for indefinite term is presumed to be hiring at will which may be freely terminated by either party at anytime for any reason or even for no reason; employer, public or private has unqualified right to terminate at-will employee without any kind of hearing, absent constitutionally impermissible purpose, statutory proscription, or express limitation in individual contract of employment; unclassified civil service employee has no right to pre-termination hearing; public employees in noncompetitive class are protected from bad-faith discharge but remain "at will" employees subject to dismissal upon proper exercise of appointing authority's discretion; part-time school bus driver may be dismissed for dropping 4-year-old pre-kindergarten student approximately 2 miles away from designated drop-off point. Tyson v Hess, 109 A.D.2d 1068, 487 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47559 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), aff'd, 66 N.Y.2d 943, 498 N.Y.S.2d 778, 489 N.E.2d 747, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 18246 (N.Y. 1985).

Employee discharged from his position as division engineer with New York City Transit Authority was not entitled to hearing under CLS Civ S § 75 since his status as noncompetitive employee did not afford him protections of that statute. Garner v Gunn, 131 A.D.2d 632, 516 N.Y.S.2d 718, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48098 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 608, 521 N.Y.S.2d 225, 515 N.E.2d 910, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18934 (N.Y. 1987).

Rights afforded to permanent, competitive employee under CLS Civ S § 75 did not extend to county Superintendent of Highways after expiration of his 4-year term of office pursuant to CLS High § 100. Wheeler v County of Wash., 259 A.D.2d 902, 686 N.Y.S.2d 531, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2375 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

If terminated school bus driver were not exempt volunteer firefighter, he would not be entitled to any rights under CLS Civ S § 75 where he had not completed at least 5 years of continuous service in his noncompetitive class position as required by CLS Civ S § 75(1)(c). Wamsley v E. Ramapo Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 281 A.D.2d 633, 723 N.Y.S.2d 53, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3049 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

School bus driver's probationary term of employment expired long before he was discharged, and thus his employment had become permanent at time of discharge, where that term began on October 5, 1998, and ended 26 weeks later as permissibly extended by his 5 ½ days of absence, and his discharge was effective on August 25, 1999. Wamsley v E. Ramapo Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 281 A.D.2d 633, 723 N.Y.S.2d 53, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3049 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

One who was appointed in 1928 as a nurse at Bellevue Hospital, which position is included within a non-competitive civil service class, is not entitled to receipt of charges in writing and opportunity to reply thereto, in writing, as provided by this section. Daly v Goldwater, 296 N.Y.S. 36, 163 Misc. 502, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1716 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

Petitioner, whose noncompetitive position as secretary to a Judge of the Court of Claims was properly classified as confidential by the Administrative Board, is not entitled to a hearing upon her discharge since, under the rules of the Administrative Board (22 NYCRR 25.32 [a] [3]) only those noncompetitive employees in the unified court system holding positions other than those "designated by the administrative board as confidential" for five continuous years of service, are entitled to such a hearing prior to termination. In view of the long-standing concept that the relationship between Judge and secretary is confidential, the designation of petitioner's position as confidential is not arbitrary and capricious. Rodman v Bartlett, 93 Misc. 2d 292, 402 N.Y.S.2d 773, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2053 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), aff'd, 69 A.D.2d 1013, 415 N.Y.S.2d 1021, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11795 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1979).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of school district's director of operations from his noncompetitive position without duly noticed public meeting of community school board trustees, respondents' claim that district administrator had informally "conferred" with certain members of board of trustees before terminating petitioner, or that board members "proposed" that his services be terminated, did not satisfy CLS Educ § 2566(6), whose purpose is to protect persons from being discharged by unilateral action of superintendent without ratification of such action by board of education. Okebiyi v Cortines, 167 Misc. 2d 1008, 641 N.Y.S.2d 791, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 112 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996), app. dismissed, 239 A.D.2d 421, 658 N.Y.S.2d 894, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5084 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Passage of Civil Service Law § 75, subd 1(c) reflects a laudable decision of the legislature that employees in the noncompetitive class should not be forever barred from the protection afforded persons in the competitive class merely because it was impracticable to devise an examination for their positions. The requirement of 5 years of service was intended to provide a probationary period to evaluate the performance of these employees. Russell v Hodges, 470 F.2d 212, 1972 U.S. App. LEXIS 6399 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1972).

129. Probationary employees, generally

City employee who accepted original appointment to position of Staff Analyst after passing open competitive examination effectively resigned her permanent position as Contract Specialist, and thus CLS Civ S § 75(1)(a) was inapplicable and she was not entitled to hearing before employer cancelled her leave of absence from her former position. Bethel v McGrath-McKechnie, 95 N.Y.2d 7, 709 N.Y.S.2d 888, 731 N.E.2d 604, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 905 (N.Y. 2000).

A disabled veteran of Spanish American War, who passed a competitive examination conducted by the Nassau county civil service commission for the office of senior account clerk in the department of public welfare of Nassau county, was required to serve a probationary term to enable the appointing officer or commission to determine his merit and fitness. Losee v Wallace, 259 A.D. 722, 18 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6410 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 259 A.D. 817, 19 N.Y.S.2d 771, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6843 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

This section does not require that a probationary appointee, even a disabled veteran, be accorded a hearing on charges. Silverman v Taylor, 270 A.D. 1040, 63 N.Y.S.2d 193, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5246 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 271 A.D. 827, 66 N.Y.S.2d 418, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946), app. dismissed, 296 N.Y. 827, 72 N.E.2d 17, 296 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 827, 1947 N.Y. LEXIS 1605 (N.Y. 1947).

The appointing authority has the discretion to dismiss a probationer without a hearing and without stating a reason therefor, so long as such discretion is exercised in good faith. Safran v Wallace, 41 A.D.2d 793, 341 N.Y.S.2d 326, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4961 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

Where employee was dismissed prior to expiration of probationary period of service, he was not entitled to benefit of termination procedures set forth for permanent employees. Odenz v Director, Creedmoor Psychiatric Center, 51 A.D.2d 584, 378 N.Y.S.2d 755, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10878 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Days of absence from employment in civil service shall not be considered as part of probationary period unless appointing authority exercises discretion to so consider them. Woltjen v Burke, 52 A.D.2d 679, 382 N.Y.S.2d 140, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12349 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Written probation reports, which were received by petitioners within eight weeks of their appointment to permanent positions in Department of Social Services subject to probationary period of not less than eight weeks nor more than 26 weeks and which indicated that probation was being continued, were sufficient to constitute notice of extension of probation beyond the eight-week period, contrary to contention that reports were not sufficient notice because they were "recommendations" from the immediate supervisor of petitioners and the "bureau of office head" to someone else. Clark v Commissioner, New York State Dep't of Social Services, 53 A.D.2d 122, 385 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12487 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976), aff'd, 42 N.Y.2d 1054, 399 N.Y.S.2d 215, 369 N.E.2d 771, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2393 (N.Y. 1977).

A former public employee's petition for reinstatement to her former position with back pay was properly denied where it was undisputed that petitioner had been a probationary employee, so that she was subject to dismissal without the necessity of filing charges and conducting a hearing in light of the fact that the employer had acted in good faith in discharging her. Gray v Director, Bronx Developmental Services, 98 A.D.2d 631, 469 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20918 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1983), aff'd, 62 N.Y.2d 729, 476 N.Y.S.2d 817, 465 N.E.2d 356, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4329 (N.Y. 1984).

Court properly dismissed, without hearing, Article 78 proceeding to challenge termination by county of petitioner's probationary employment as engineering aide where county submitted affidavit which indicated that decision to terminate was made after discussions with 3 of petitioner's supervisors who were apparently familiar with petitioner's work performance, and fact that petitioner's immediate supervisor favored his retention did not raise triable issue of fact as to county's bad faith. McCabe v County of Dutchess, 143 A.D.2d 670, 533 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9321 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Termination of probationary city employee was not made in bad faith where (1) affidavits by petitioner's supervisors established that petitioner became disgruntled and uncooperative following transfer, and that his work performance slipped to unsatisfactory level, and (2) petitioner acknowledged that he objected to transfer because of resulting longer commute and its effect on his child care duties at home. Rivoli v Stern, 160 A.D.2d 601, 554 N.Y.S.2d 244, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4621 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Determination dismissing probationary firefighter was improperly annulled since false representations by firefighter as to his residence at time of his employment with city provided sufficient basis for his termination. Munich v City of Lackawanna Dep't of Pub. Safety, 262 A.D.2d 959, 692 N.Y.S.2d 555, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7123 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Absent bad faith, municipal agency may summarily terminate probationary employee for any reason, including lateness. Wilson v Bratton, 266 A.D.2d 140, 699 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12325 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Probationary employee in Department of Motor Vehicles was properly discharged without hearing or statement of reasons, absent showing of discrimination or bad faith by competent evidence, not speculation. Negron v Jackson, 273 A.D.2d 241, 709 N.Y.S.2d 437, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6246 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Caseworker's probationary employment with City Administration for Children's Services was properly terminated where her claim of retaliation for complaint about her supervisors' communication skills was speculative in light of her unacceptable work performance, and no issue of bad faith was raised by her claim that she never received written performance evaluations. Johnson v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 322, 722 N.Y.S.2d 156, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3035 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Trial court properly denied the petitioners' petition and dismissed the proceedings because their motion to discontinue was an apparent attempt to evade a determination on the merits in the proceeding adverse to a favorable determination obtained in arbitration inasmuch as termination of a firefighter's employment without notice of charges, a statement of reasons, or a hearing was proper where the firefighter's probationary period was properly extended to reflect the amount of time that he spent absent from performing the duties attendant to the position of firefighter and the termination of his employment occurred while he was a probationary employee. Matter of Yonkers Firefighters v City of Yonkers, 165 A.D.3d 816, 86 N.Y.S.3d 100, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6713 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 165 A.D.3d 815, 82 N.Y.S.3d 899, 2018 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6698 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2018).

At the time of his termination, an employee was still a probationary employee and, therefore, had no right to challenge his termination by way of a hearing or otherwise because the employee did not request a determination as to whether his temporary or provisional service would be counted toward his probationary term and, therefore, he did not trigger the appointing authority's regulatory obligation to issue a written determination as to how it would exercise its discretion. Matter of Civil Serv. Employees Assn., Local 1000, AFSCME AFL-CIO v New York State Off. of Children & Family Servs., 174 A.D.3d 1206, 106 N.Y.S.3d 202, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5732 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2019).

Probationary employee's unsupported allegations of bad faith and retaliation were insufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing on his termination because there was no proof that the employee's supervisor or any other employee of the appointing authority was aware that the employee had in fact made a neglect report. Matter of Civil Serv. Employees Assn., Local 1000, AFSCME AFL-CIO v New York State Off. of Children & Family Servs., 174 A.D.3d 1206, 106 N.Y.S.3d 202, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5732 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2019).

A civil service employee's probationary period had not expired at the time he was summarily discharged without compliance with this section where less than six months had elapsed since his appointment to the position, notwithstanding his earlier certification and eligibility for such appointment. Guiliano v Thomas, 36 Misc. 2d 338, 232 N.Y.S.2d 328, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2774 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Although the applicable county civil service rule provided that a probationer be notified "that his services will terminate on the last date of a given payroll period" and petitioner's termination did not coincide with that date, and was before the end of his probationary period, he was not entitled to a hearing pursuant to this section. Kreyer v Board of Trustees, 52 Misc. 2d 384, 275 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1186 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1966).

A probationary civil service employee may be removed without a hearing on charges. Polsenski v Montgomery, 71 N.Y.S.2d 386, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2563 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947), app. dismissed, 87 N.Y.S.2d 438 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

Because an employee admitted to improperly gaining unauthorized entry to an agency's computer system while on a one-year probationary period following a promotion, the employee's dismissal following demotion was not so disproportionate to the offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness; the employee was not subjected to dual punishment in violation of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(3). Matter of Patel v New York City Hous. Auth., 26 A.D.3d 172, 809 N.Y.S.2d 22, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 980 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

Although probationary public employee may usually be discharged with or without cause, he or she may not be discharged in violation of his or her First Amendment rights, and will be entitled to redress for such violation. Sagendorf-Teal v County of Rensselaer, 100 F.3d 270, 1996 U.S. App. LEXIS 29349 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1996).

130. —Bridge construction worker as probationary employee

Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority (TBTA) properly terminated petitioner's probationary employment as tunnel officer based on finding that he was occasionally late for second job at New York City Transit Authority (NYCTA) and that on 2 occasions his time card at NYCTA was punched to indicate purported arrival time which was earlier than time he punched out from TBTA; probationary employee may be discharged without hearing or statement of reasons in absence of demonstration that dismissal was for constitutionally impermissible purpose or in violation of statutory or decisional law. Moran v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 188 A.D.2d 601, 591 N.Y.S.2d 201, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14428 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Bridge authority properly terminated petitioner's employment without formal hearing pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75 where (1) petitioner was permanent civil service employee with another city agency, but was relegated to probationary status as result of stipulation which resolved disciplinary matter, (2) petitioner was laid off for economic reasons and thereafter transferred to bridge authority, and (3) petitioner was found guilty of disciplinary violations and terminated before end of probationary period. Bridge authority was not estopped from acting without formal hearing in terminating employment of petitioner, who had agreed with another city agency to return to probationary status as result of disciplinary proceeding, notwithstanding that bridge authority had mistakenly informed petitioner that he would have permanent civil service status on transfer, since (1) it was not alleged that petitioner relied on mistaken assurances by bridge authority, and (2) doctrine of equitable estoppel cannot be used to create right or to place petitioner in better position. Jackson v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 155 Misc. 2d 715, 589 N.Y.S.2d 748, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 481 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

131. —Charges potentially damaging to reputation; destigmatizing or name-clearing charges

General rule is that whereas a permanent civil service employee must be given notice and afforded a hearing on specific charges prior to dismissal, no such hearing is required prior to dismissal of a probationer; such principles apply in case of a probationer when such dismissal is grounded on unsatisfactory performance of his duties; however, where dismissal is predicated on considerations reaching beyond the scope of his job performance and where such considerations affect his good name, reputation, honor or integrity, due process requires that he be afforded an opportunity to refute the allegations. Perry v Blair, 49 A.D.2d 309, 374 N.Y.S.2d 850, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10902 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Where dismissed probationary employee's employment card simply stated that his employment was terminated during his probationary period, and such was only information which would be furnished to any prospective employer, governmental or otherwise, there was no serious stigma attached to his reputation by reason of dismissal, by reason of which procedures set forth for dismissal of permanent employees would be required as matter of due process. Odenz v Director, Creedmoor Psychiatric Center, 51 A.D.2d 584, 378 N.Y.S.2d 755, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10878 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

A terminated probationary employee was not entitled to a name-clearing hearing, where the employee had failed to establish that the charges against him had been made public or made available to potential future employers. Lentlie v Egan, 94 A.D.2d 839, 463 N.Y.S.2d 542, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18313 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 60 N.Y.2d 551 (N.Y. 1983), aff'd, 61 N.Y.2d 874, 474 N.Y.S.2d 467, 462 N.E.2d 1185, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4134 (N.Y. 1984).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review a determination of the Director of Personnel of the New York State Department of Correctional Services terminating a correctional facility employee's employment, the employee was not entitled to a so-called name-clearing hearing on the basis of the stigma attaching to his dismissal, where a review of the record indicated that the reasons articulated for the employee's discharge were not stigmatic, and where the employee failed to allege public dissemination of the reasons for his dismissal; further, the employee's argument that he had raised issues of fact entitling him to a trial was without merit, where, as a probationary employee, he could be terminated without a hearing and without specific reasons being stated, where a review of the record supported the conclusion that his performance was unsatisfactory and established that his discharge was made in good faith, and where, as a probationary employee, he failed to establish a property interest in continued public employment deserving of due process protection. Cardo v Murphy, 104 A.D.2d 884, 480 N.Y.S.2d 726, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20344 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

In article 78 proceeding to review petitioner's dismissal as safety and security officer with Developmental Disabilities Services Office and Developmental Center, Supreme Court erred in granting petition to extent of directing that destigmatization hearing be held since petitioner failed to allege that he had been openly defamed or in some manner held up to ridicule. Carrion v Webb, 131 A.D.2d 806, 517 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48252 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Discharged employee was not entitled to destigmatization hearing where (1) only references to reasons for employee's discharge were contained in unofficial, confidential files kept by agency under lock and key, (2) future employers were not given access to these files nor information contained therein, (3) matters in these files were not contained in employee's personnel file and all internal memos were deliberately kept out of official channels, (4) no stigmatizing reasons for employee's termination were stated in his discharge letter, and (5) employee failed to show that agency publicly disseminated stigmatizing reasons for his termination. Ranus v Blum, 132 A.D.2d 983, 518 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49457 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 926, 524 N.Y.S.2d 433, 519 N.E.2d 344, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19967 (N.Y. 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 802, 527 N.Y.S.2d 768, 522 N.E.2d 1066, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1185 (N.Y. 1988).

Court erred in ordering name-clearing hearing and directing agency to justify termination of petitioner's employment since petitioner was probationary employee, his discharge was result of unsatisfactory performance, and he did not show that agency disseminated false impression about reason for his termination. Miller v Siraguse, 134 A.D.2d 910, 522 N.Y.S.2d 66, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51110 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

Probationary police officers were not entitled to name-clearing hearings following their dismissals where there was no proof that police commissioner or department created and disseminated false and defamatory impression regarding reasons for terminations. Jessamy v Fernandes, 145 A.D.2d 486, 536 N.Y.S.2d 696, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Petitioner entitled to reinstatement after wrongful discharge as probationary city police officer was not entitled to name-clearing hearing where statement employer disseminated in connection with his dismissal was neither stigmatizing nor substantially false. Pastore v Troy, 152 A.D.2d 808, 543 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9357 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Probationary correction officer was not entitled to hearing before Department of Correction to determine whether her dismissal was in bad faith, even if her dismissal was predicated on considerations which would affect her reputation, since review of termination of probationary employee is limited to inquiry as to whether termination was made in bad faith, and officer failed to meet her burden of raising and proving bad faith since she admitted to having been off post and going to unauthorized section of prison in order to visit with inmate. Medina v Sielaff, 182 A.D.2d 424, 582 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5643 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Discharged probationary employee failed to state cause of action for name-clearing hearing where complaint alleged only that "false and defamatory charges...are contained in plaintiff's personnel file and remain there today," with no allegation of public dissemination. Meyers v City of New York, 208 A.D.2d 258, 622 N.Y.S.2d 529, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1101 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Petitioner was not entitled to name-clearing hearing where there had been no public disclosure of any allegations affecting his good name or reputation. Macina v North Salem Cent. Sch. Dist., 221 A.D.2d 538, 633 N.Y.S.2d 596, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11858 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Police officer was not entitled to name-clearing hearing where he failed to show that city publicly disclosed false and stigmatizing reasons for his discharge. Green v New York City Police Dep't, 235 A.D.2d 475, 653 N.Y.S.2d 26, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Although, normally, probationary public employees are not deemed to have a sufficient "property" interest in their jobs to be entitled to due process protections prior to being relieved of their employment, such probationary employees must be afforded a due process hearing to clear their reputations when the charges which form the basis for employment termination could damage name and reputation thereby diminishing the possibility for obtaining future employment. Accordingly, petitioner, who was discharged from his noncompetitive Youth Division Aide position with the State Division for Youth because of his alleged involvement in incidents of brutality against residents in a State institution, is entitled to an opportunity to clear himself at a hearing since the brutality charges may leave a blot on petitioner's character which encompasses and transcends his job property interest. A probationary public employee terminated on the basis of stigmatizing charges which tend to impugn such employee's reputation, is only entitled to a due process hearing to clear his name and may not be reinstated with back pay pending such hearing (see Codd v Velger, 429 US 624). Accordingly, upon reargument, petitioner, who was discharged from his noncompetitive position with the State Division for Youth for his alleged involvement in incidents of brutality against residents in a State institution, is not entitled to reinstatement with back pay pending a due process hearing for the sole purpose of clearing his name. Hill v Edelman, 92 Misc. 2d 485, 399 N.Y.S.2d 565, 401 N.Y.S.2d 697, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2573 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Public employer would be directed to grant hearing to any discharged provisional employee, or any employee whose probationary period was extended, to determine whether such employee had valid excuse for not being present at work on day following issuance of temporary restraining order barring strike, work stoppage or "sickout" by employees represented by defendant union, even though names of discharged employees had not been publicly disseminated, since it was stigmatizing to have been discharged for violation of CLS Civ S Art 14 (Taylor Law), prohibiting strikes by public employees, and there had been sufficient publicity surrounding alleged sickout to find that liberty interest had been affected so as to require hearing; further, although Taylor Law limitations on right to terminate striking employees are not applicable to provisional employees, employer should consider immediate rehiring of any such employee found to have valid reason for absence, and if probationary employee was found to have had valid excuse for absence, extension of his or her probationary period would be in bad faith and thus should be rescinded. New York City Health & Hospitals Corp. v Local 2507 of Dist. Council 37 of American Federation of State, etc., 139 Misc. 2d 376, 526 N.Y.S.2d 1002, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 103 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

132. — —Criminal charges

Probationary police officer whose personnel file included findings of assault, attempted rape and dishonesty to department investigators made preliminary showing of his entitlement to name-clearing hearing; these findings of criminality and immoral and dishonest conduct were stigmatizing in constitutional sense because of their inevitable effect, if revealed, of foreclosing employment opportunities in field of law enforcement. Swinton v Safir, 93 N.Y.2d 758, 697 N.Y.S.2d 869, 720 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3433 (N.Y. 1999).

Police officer stripped of position due to manslaughter conviction which was subsequently reversed would be denied name-clearing hearing, without prejudice to re-plead, where although petition alleged that police department issued press release and conducted press conference, there was no allegation that department created or disseminated false or defamatory impression about petitioner's termination. Hays v Ward, 144 Misc. 2d 227, 542 N.Y.S.2d 949, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 339 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

133. — —Ethical charges

Civil service employee was not deprived of due process on ground that he was not given posttermination opportunity to refute statements made during removal process charging him with unethical conduct and conflict of interest, where he had been afforded pretermination opportunity to refute charges, and since there was no evidence that he ever demanded postremoval opportunity to refute charges, there was no showing the employer refused to grant him such request. Parr v Onondaga County Legislature, 139 Misc. 2d 975, 529 N.Y.S.2d 672, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 300 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988), aff'd, 156 A.D.2d 985, 550 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16168 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

134. —Corrections officer as probationary employee

Court properly dismissed Article 78 petition alleging that employee was victim of anti-Semitism, and that he was demoted from rank of Correction Captain to Correction Officer in retaliation for filing discrimination complaint against his African-American supervisor, since (1) petitioner was probationary employee who could have been demoted without hearing unless he established that demotion was for improper reason or in bad faith, and (2) court's conclusion that petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory, and that his demotion was in good faith, was supported by evidence that he failed to inspect roll call, failed to respond to breach of security, disobeyed direct order, and sexually harassed subordinate. Cohen v Koehler, 82 N.Y.2d 882, 609 N.Y.S.2d 171, 631 N.E.2d 113, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4358 (N.Y. 1993).

Where the petitioner was summarily dismissed from his position as a prison guard during his probationary period and no charges had been filed against him, he was entitled to reinstatement from the date of his discharge to the expiration date of his probationary period; however, at the end of his probationary period the petitioner's discharge was within the discretionary power of the appointing authorities acting in good faith, and where their evidence sustains the conclusion that his conduct should not entitle him to a permanent appointment, the courts will decline to interfere. Wolf v Conway, 276 A.D. 798, 92 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3352 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

Probation officer trainee who was discharged prior to completion of 24 month training/probation period required for such position was not entitled to reinstatement as a trainee under general provisions of civil service rules and regulations which set a maximum 1 year probationary period for either trainee appointment or promotion, where the obvious purpose of the 2 year probationary period was to allow a trainee appointee to complete the required training before serving his probationary term as trainee promotee. Safran v Wallace, 41 A.D.2d 793, 341 N.Y.S.2d 326, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4961 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

Petitioner was properly dismissed as probationary correction officer since record supported conclusion that neither disability nor injury was reason for dismissal, and that he was dismissed for misuse and evasion of liberal leave and restricted duty policies of Correction Department, where petitioner took advantage of 1986 knee injury to remain on restricted duty for excessively long time and then improperly sought full duty assignment at location with minimal, if any, inmate contact. De Sapio v Koehler, 158 A.D.2d 307, 551 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1066 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

It was improper to dismiss probationary correction officer without hearing where officer raised sufficient factual allegations to show that her discharge was attributable to sex discrimination and bad faith. Garrison v Koehler, 161 A.D.2d 322, 555 N.Y.S.2d 87, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5300 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding to annul determination of city correction commissioner which terminated petitioner from his probationary employment without hearing after he was arrested for possession of controlled substance and weapon, since subsequent dismissal of criminal charges after petitioner successfully completed 12-week placement in diversionary program for first-time offenders did not raise issue of fact to support petitioner's claim that he was terminated in bad faith or for constitutionally impermissible purpose. Holder v Sielaff, 184 A.D.2d 228, 584 N.Y.S.2d 304, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7663 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging county sheriff's termination of petitioner's employment as correction officer in sheriff's department, petitioner's probationary status had not ended at time of his termination, even though county employees' handbook, which had been furnished to him on his employment, defined probationary term as being 8 to 26 weeks, where that provision had to yield to provision in county civil service rules defining probationary term as being 12 to 52 weeks. Higgins v La Paglia, 281 A.D.2d 679, 722 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2009 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 854, 729 N.Y.S.2d 669, 754 N.E.2d 772, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1460 (N.Y. 2001).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging county sheriff's termination of petitioner's employment as probationary correction officer in sheriff's department, petitioner's conclusory assertions were insufficient to prove prima facie case of age discrimination where he was hired at age 41 and terminated at age 42. Higgins v La Paglia, 281 A.D.2d 679, 722 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2009 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 854, 729 N.Y.S.2d 669, 754 N.E.2d 772, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1460 (N.Y. 2001).

In Article 78 proceeding challenging county sheriff's termination of petitioner's employment as probationary correction officer in sheriff's department, union did not breach its duty of fair representation, despite petitioner's claim that union knew or should have known that he was not afforded adequate training and failed to act to correct that problem, where (1) there was no evidence that union had such knowledge, (2) even if it did, its mere failure to act regarding petitioner's lack of training would not prove breach of its duty of fair representation, and (3) mere fact that senior rater who gave petitioner his only unfavorable evaluation was also president of union provided no support for petitioner's claim, because senior rater only reluctantly reached that evaluation and nevertheless preferred extension of petitioner's probationary term over termination of his employment. Higgins v La Paglia, 281 A.D.2d 679, 722 N.Y.S.2d 592, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2009 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 96 N.Y.2d 854, 729 N.Y.S.2d 669, 754 N.E.2d 772, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1460 (N.Y. 2001).

Correction officer was still probationary employee at time of his termination, and thus termination did not violate CLS Civ S § 75, where (1) officer was notified by letter in January 1997 that his probationary period had been extended until March 2, 1997, due to absences from work, (2) officer received no other notification that his probationary period had been extended, (3) January 1997 letter was incorrect because it did not comply with directive of State Department of Correctional Services requiring that probationary period be extended by one work day for each work day missed, (4) because January 1997 letter was based on administrative error, prison superintendent and other correctional authorities were not bound by it, (5) officer's continued absence from work even after issuance of January 1997 letter automatically extended his probationary period beyond June 17, 1997, date of his termination, and (6) no notice of that extension was required. Beck v Walker, 286 A.D.2d 996, 730 N.Y.S.2d 658, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8925 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Personnel director established that respondent's discharge of petitioner from a probationary position was made in good faith and was based on an independent investigation of the inspector general (IG) into an incident in which petitioner either observed and/or participated in threatening an inmate and then denied such observation or participation, even though a separate investigative report conducted by a lieutenant reached a different conclusion; petitioner's bald speculation that the personnel director waited to demote him to his former position until just after he completed the eighth week of his probationary period to avoid having to establish under this section that the demotion was based on incompetence or misconduct was rejected. Matter of Messenger v State of New York Dept. of Corr. & Community Supervision, 151 A.D.3d 1433, 58 N.Y.S.3d 680, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5087 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2017).

Termination of an employee's appointment as a corrections officer without notice of charges, a statement of reasons, or a hearing pursuant to this statute was proper because the termination occurred while he remained a probationary employee. Matter of Gagedeen v Ponte, 170 A.D.3d 1013, 96 N.Y.S.3d 349, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2070 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 34 N.Y.3d 948, 134 N.E.3d 1154, 110 N.Y.S.3d 860, 2019 N.Y. LEXIS 3214 (N.Y. 2019).

135. —Health services worker as probationary employee

Supreme Court erred in granting hearing to probationary employee who was discharged from her position as county nurse since employee had failed to allege that county acted in bad faith, and county adequately demonstrated that employee was discharged because of her inappropriate disruptive behavior and her failure to return to work following her suspension. Intemann v County of Hamilton, 132 A.D.2d 871, 518 N.Y.S.2d 70, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49348 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation's decision not to terminate probationary status of Emergency Medical Service employee on receipt of Department of Vehicles' Notice of Restoration, indicating that suspension of employee's license had been "rescinded," was rationally based on agreement settling previous charges of misconduct, which required employee to show that license suspension was not his fault but solely result of error by DMV. Bernardo v New York City Health & Hosps. Corp., 240 A.D.2d 278, 659 N.Y.S.2d 7, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6592 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

136. —Police officer as probationary employee

Court dismissed Article 78 proceeding contending that, because tenure on modified duty was part of police officer's 2-year probationary period, she was not probationary employee at time of her termination and was therefore entitled to pre-termination hearing under CLS Civ S § 75; restrictions of modified duty deprive police department of reasonable opportunity to evaluate police officer's ability to perform complete range of duties of that office. Garcia v Bratton, 90 N.Y.2d 991, 665 N.Y.S.2d 621, 688 N.E.2d 495, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3225 (N.Y. 1997).

Probationary police officer did not demonstrate basis to annul police department's determination of his misconduct and discharge as (1) department's finding that he assaulted and attempted to rape his former girlfriend and was dishonest to investigators provided independent reason to discharge him notwithstanding former girlfriend's recantation, and (2) there was no proof of differential treatment of other probationary officers for same or similar misconduct. Swinton v Safir, 93 N.Y.2d 758, 697 N.Y.S.2d 869, 720 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3433 (N.Y. 1999).

Where even if petitioner should have been appointed a patrolman following expiration of one-year probationary period as community law enforcement peace officer on December 16, 1972, such fact did not mean that petitioner, who had not been appointed patrolman as of his termination on April 10, 1973, was no longer a probationary employee and, hence, had right to hearing prior to discharge, since under city civil service rules he had become merely a probationary patrolman and would have had to face an additional probationary period from three to 12 months before achieving permanent status. Provision of municipal civil service rule that community peace officer would be appointed for probationary period until he completed at least one year of service was controlling over six-month probationary notice received from police department, for purpose of determining whether petitioner was a probationary employee and entitled to a hearing prior to being discharged. Although petitioner, a community peace officer, was only a probationary employee, he was entitled to a hearing in connection with his discharge following arrest on charge of rape and unlawful imprisonment since dismissal was predicated on considerations reaching beyond scope of his job performance and affected his good name, reputation, honor and integrity. Perry v Blair, 49 A.D.2d 309, 374 N.Y.S.2d 850, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10902 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Termination of probationary New York City Transit Police Officer was permissible without hearing and without specific reasons being stated for dismissal, in absence of bad faith or other reasons prohibited by law. Caminiti v New York City Transit Authority Police Dep't, 125 A.D.2d 306, 508 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62568 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding to review city police commissioner's decision to terminate employment of 2 probationary police officers, since termination of probationary employee without statement of reasons or hearing must be upheld in absence of demonstration that dismissal was violative of constitution, illegal, or made in bad faith, and petitioners' conclusory allegations did not sustain their burden of raising genuine factual issues as to unconstitutionality or arbitrariness of their terminations. Jessamy v Fernandes, 145 A.D.2d 486, 536 N.Y.S.2d 696, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

City's determination to discharge petitioner without cause as probationary police officer would be annulled due to noncompliance with procedural requirements where, inter alia, respondents conceded that petitioner was not advised periodically of his status and progress and was not given one week of notice prior to termination. Pastore v Troy, 152 A.D.2d 808, 543 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9357 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

There was rational basis to terminate employment of 2 probationary status police officers (one female and her male boyfriend) where evidence established that they had inflicted excessive corporal punishment on female officer's sons by handcuffing them and by repeatedly striking them with belt, and that each of them was present during punishment but neither attempted to stop other's actions. Dash v Brown, 199 A.D.2d 41, 604 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11686 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993), app. denied sub. nom., Patrick v Brown, 83 N.Y.2d 753, 612 N.Y.S.2d 107, 634 N.E.2d 603 (N.Y. 1994).

New York City police officer who, prior to expiration of her 2-year probationary term, was placed on modified duty for 14 months pending investigation of alleged misconduct, was still on probation when she was terminated at conclusion of investigation; department of personnel rules extend employee's probationary term "by the number of days when the probationer does not perform the duties of the position," and petitioner was not performing "police duties" when she was on modified leave because her weapon and shield had been removed and her merit and fitness as police officer could not be evaluated. Garcia v Bratton, 225 A.D.2d 123, 649 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11981 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), aff'd, 90 N.Y.2d 991, 665 N.Y.S.2d 621, 688 N.E.2d 495, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3225 (N.Y. 1997).

Probationary police officers were properly dismissed without hearing where they refused to obey direct order by superior officer to answer questions at investigative hearing despite having been granted use immunity as to their answers, and there was no indication that police commissioner's determinations were made in bad faith. Martinez v Safir, 251 A.D.2d 62, 673 N.Y.S.2d 690, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Substantial evidence supported good-faith termination of probationary city police officer's employment where she arrived one hour and 14 minutes late for appointment with Psychological Services Unit doctor, falsely signed in as having arrived earlier, previously was late for duty at least 15 times during last year of her probation, was warned by her commanding officer that continued tardiness could lead to her dismissal, and had signed probation agreement acknowledging that she could be fired "at any time without further proceedings, pursuant to Administrative Code Section 14-115(d)." Wilson v Bratton, 266 A.D.2d 140, 699 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12325 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

City police department was entitled to rely on probationary officer's history and her commanding officer's recommendation of termination, without conducting further investigation, where officer's history of at least 15 instances of lateness for duty and other disciplinary infractions gave credibility to her commanding officer's version of her latest tardiness, and she had signed probation agreement acknowledging that she could be fired "at any time without further proceedings, pursuant to Administrative Code Section 14-115(d)." Wilson v Bratton, 266 A.D.2d 140, 699 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12325 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Police officer who was on one-year disciplinary probation under NYC Admin Code § 14-115(d) could be terminated summarily, without statement of reasons, following hearing on charges of excessive use of force because (1) CLS Unconsol Ch § 51 § 1 (L 1940, ch 834), which provides that police officers can be terminated only for incompetence or misconduct shown after hearing, does not apply to probationary officers, and (2) disciplinary record, showing problems other than his underlying probation, established that respondent's termination decision was made with good faith. Dillon v Safir, 270 A.D.2d 116, 704 N.Y.S.2d 568, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2865 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Proceeding to annul city police commissioner's termination of probationary officer's employment was properly dismissed for failure to state cause of action where officer's failure to correct his report of loss of his shield and identification badge after learning that it was incorrect provided legitimate reason to question his honesty and candor. Morgan v Safir, 281 A.D.2d 376, 722 N.Y.S.2d 542, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3193 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001), app. denied, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7152 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't June 14, 2001), app. dismissed, 97 N.Y.2d 601, 735 N.Y.S.2d 490, 760 N.E.2d 1286, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3249 (N.Y. 2001).

137. —School worker as probationary employee

An Article 78 proceeding brought by a former state university campus security officer who sought reinstatement to such position would be remanded to the trial court for a hearing and determination on the question of whether the director of the Department of Public Safety, upon whose direct order petitioner had been terminated, had acted in bad faith and had lacked a rational basis for the termination, where petitioner had been exonerated of any misconduct in both of the incidents relied upon by the director, and a third incident, which involved an alleged after-the-fact breach of a rule prohibiting possession of a firearm on campus, had not surfaced until after the date of petitioner's termination notice, where the director had ordered petitioner's immediate supervisor to change petitioner's job performance evaluation from "outstanding" to "excellent" without stated reasons, and where petitioner's supervisor had himself raised a question regarding the director's motivation in an affidavit which alleged that the supervisor had been retaliated against by the director for giving petitioner a favorable memorandum. Rollick v Ambach, 97 A.D.2d 637, 468 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20267 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

School custodian's one-year probationary period pursuant to CLS Educ § 2509 began on his appointment date and not upon declaration of civil service eligible list, as list was neither immediately exhausted nor inadequate, and probationary period was further extended by number of work days custodian was absent from job; consequently, termination of his employment without notice of charges, statement of reasons, or hearing pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75 was proper since it occurred within probationary period, and in absence of allegation that his dismissal was in bad faith his Article 78 petition would be dismissed. Bonacci v Quinones, 124 A.D.2d 659, 508 N.Y.S.2d 42, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 61959 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Civil servant within NYS Education Department was not entitled to hearing prior to discharge since termination took place within 2-year probationary term properly measured from time petitioner, who was sixth on eligible list, became entirely eligible for permanent appointment when third, fourth, and fifth candidates on eligible list opted for other positions. Van Dyke v New York State Dep't of Education, 144 A.D.2d 85, 537 N.Y.S.2d 332, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 480 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 607, 545 N.Y.S.2d 103, 543 N.E.2d 746, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 963 (N.Y. 1989).

Letter notifying probationary school employee of her termination, which cited her failure to resolve outstanding travel accounts, her improper conduct in attempting to claim compensatory time, and misstatements she had made as to her employment history, was sufficient to show employer's good faith in terminating her, despite her efforts to refute those allegations. Cleary v New York State Dep't of Educ., 239 A.D.2d 649, 656 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4510 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Public employer substantially complied with 4 NYCRR § 4.5 (b) (5) (iii) where school employee was given oral notice of her discharge 5 business days prior to effective date of her discharge, she subsequently received written confirmation of her termination prior to expiration of her probationary period, which had been extended additional 7 days under 4 NYCRR § 4.5 (g), and she had been previously notified orally and in writing of her unsatisfactory performance, and warned of possibility of termination. Glenn v State Univ. of N.Y., Purchase College, 243 A.D.2d 712, 663 N.Y.S.2d 633, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10756 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Substantial evidence supported decision by State Public Employment Relations Board that probationary teacher was not unlawfully terminated by school district because of her protected union activity where (1) sufficient reasons for termination were teacher's failure to follow instructions and proper school procedures and to adequately protect safety of student who fell down flight of stairs, and (2) no nexus was proved between teacher's union activity and decision to terminate her employment. Rockville Centre Teachers Ass'n v N.Y. State Pub. Empl. Rels. Bd., 281 A.D.2d 425, 721 N.Y.S.2d 112, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2130 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Collective bargaining agreement which provides that in case of employee release, at least one-day notice of release and reason will be given to employee, and employee may request immediate audience with Chief School Administrator to explain reasons for opposing release order, does not change discharged employee's status from employee who serves at will to one who can be dismissed solely for cause; thus, probationary employee possesses no property interest in continued employment as school cleaner under collective bargaining agreement and is not denied due process for lack of hearing on termination of his employment. Goetz v Windsor Cent. School Dist., 698 F.2d 606, 1983 U.S. App. LEXIS 31123 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1983).

138. —Termination of probationary period

A proceeding by former probationary employees challenging their termination was properly dismissed where there was evidence that their work performances were less than satisfactory and that the dismissals were for reasons relating to fitness rather than inadequate skills; the employment of a probationary appointee may be terminated at the end of the probationary term without a hearing and without specific reasons being stated. Sargeant v Director, Brooklyn Developmental Center, 56 N.Y.2d 628, 450 N.Y.S.2d 482, 435 N.E.2d 1097, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3294 (N.Y. 1982).

Probationary employee's termination without hearing was proper even though it occurred one year and 6 days after he began his employment, since his one-year probationary period was extended for 23 days he spent on jury during his first year of work; extension of probationary period, under circumstances, was not penalty as contemplated by Judiciary Law § 519. Tomlinson v Ward, 66 N.Y.2d 771, 497 N.Y.S.2d 368, 488 N.E.2d 114, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 17913 (N.Y. 1985).

County caseworker, who served 16-week probationary period under terms of collective bargaining agreement that was in force on date he was hired, and who was given permanent employment after expiration of that agreement, could not be discharged without benefit of procedural protections guaranteed by CLS Civ S § 75 even though parties negotiated new agreement establishing longer probationary period and purporting to be effective retroactively to date on which previous agreement had expired, since new agreement applied only to employees who were still within their probationary period and could not be applied to one who had acquired permanent status before new agreement was executed. Harris v Nassau County Dep't of Social Services, 73 N.Y.2d 886, 538 N.Y.S.2d 241, 535 N.E.2d 294, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 3356 (N.Y. 1988).

Civil service employee's probationary period commenced on date he was appointed permanent employee, not on earlier date when he passed qualifying examination; thus, he was not entitled to protection of CLS Civ S § 75 until one year after his permanent employment, and agency was entitled to remove him within that time without formal charges or hearing. Reis v New York State Housing Finance Agency, 74 N.Y.2d 724, 544 N.Y.S.2d 812, 543 N.E.2d 77, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 834 (N.Y. 1989).

In a Article 78 proceeding brought by a police officer to challenge the termination of his probationary appointment to the position of police lieutenant and consequent demotion, the trial court erred in refusing to dismiss those aspects of the petition which alleged that the town had improperly failed to follow the procedural requirements of Civ S Law § 75 for the termination of permanent civil servants, and that the town had acted in bad faith in demoting petitioner, where the evidence showed that the town had properly extended petitioner's probationary appointment by 14 working days due to his absence on 14 working days during his probationary term, and had adopted the resolution terminating petitioner three days prior to such extended probationary term, and where petitioner's allegations that the police chief had not filled the lieutenant vacancy within the time required by the applicable labor contract, that the police chief had made it known that he would abolish the lieutenant position if compelled to appoint any of the top three individuals, including petitioner, on the eligibility list, that the police chief had filled the vacancy only after the police union had threatened to file a grievance, and that the police chief had made it known to the police club that he did not desire to appoint petitioner were irrelevant to the issue of whether the termination was in bad faith in that no nexus was pleaded between the filling of the vacancy, an event that occurred approximately six months prior to petitioner's discharge, and petitioner's termination, where petitioner's allegation that, prior to his appointment, a personality conflict had existed between himself and the police chief failed to specify what the conflict was, and where petitioner's allegation that the police chief did not personally counsel petitioner during his probationary term failed to specifically allege how such fact evidenced a bad faith termination. Mazur v Ryan, 98 A.D.2d 974, 470 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21311 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 61 N.Y.2d 832, 473 N.Y.S.2d 974, 462 N.E.2d 151, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4094 (N.Y. 1984).

Petitioner's proceeding to compel his reinstatement to employment with the New York State Office of Parks and Recreation was properly dismissed, where petitioner was terminated at the end of his probationary term, which had been extended pursuant to regulatory authority to reflect his absence while on jury duty; such extension was not a "penalty" within the intendment of Jud Law § 519. Schwartz v Cuomo, 111 A.D.2d 759, 489 N.Y.S.2d 786, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50003 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 66 N.Y.2d 758, 497 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 488 N.E.2d 119, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 17660 (N.Y. 1985), app. denied, 67 N.Y.2d 605, 501 N.Y.S.2d 1023, 492 N.E.2d 400, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 17514 (N.Y. 1986).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding to review determination by commissioner of police terminating petitioner's employment as police officer at completion of his probationary term where petitioner conceded that he was never given reason for his termination and his testimony as to reasons was mere speculation. Whelan v Rozzi, 155 A.D.2d 603, 547 N.Y.S.2d 660, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14386 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Police officer was still probationary officer at time he was terminated where (1) 4 days before end of probationary period, officer was arrested following altercation at discotheque and charged with, inter alia, assault and resisting arrest, and (2) officer was immediately suspended and was terminated 27 days later; officer's probationary period was extended by virtue of suspension pursuant to Rule 5.2.8(b) of Rules and Regulations of New York City Personnel Director. DiFiglia v Ward, 158 A.D.2d 411, 551 N.Y.S.2d 245, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1869 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 701, 557 N.Y.S.2d 878, 557 N.E.2d 114, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1247 (N.Y. 1990).

Termination of employee by county director of developmental disabilities services office fell within employee's probationary period, and thus hearing was not required, since probationary period was not extended by virtue of employee's absence on 3 days which she took off "in lieu of" 3 contractual holidays; agency rationally interpreted "workdays" as used in 4 NYCRR § 4.5(g) as including all days when employee's presence would normally have been required. Sheffield v Howe, 223 A.D.2d 544, 636 N.Y.S.2d 128, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 152 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 806, 646 N.Y.S.2d 985, 670 N.E.2d 226, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1720 (N.Y. 1996).

Petitioner, who was terminated from his position beyond completion of 52-week maximum probationary term, was improperly denied reinstatement where there was no evidence that responsible administrator exercised any discretion in defining "different assignment" for purpose of fresh evaluation of petitioner during extension of probationary term, and petitioner was merely reassigned to same assignment that had produced unsatisfactory evaluations during initial 52-week term; since petitioner's probationary appointment ripened into permanent appointment, he could not be terminated without requirements of filing charges and holding hearing. Civil Serv. Emples. Ass'n v Venugopalan, 228 A.D.2d 767, 643 N.Y.S.2d 715, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6419 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Petitioner, appointed by Department of Education to position of Associate in Education Improvement Services, did not attain permanent status when her immediate supervisor initially recommended probationary evaluation report that she be permanently retained since decision to permanently retain employee belonged to Associate Commissioner in New York City Office of School And Community Services, who personally reviewed petitioner's probationary evaluation report and notified petitioner that she would continue under probation. Cleary v New York State Dep't of Educ., 239 A.D.2d 649, 656 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4510 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Where there was a question whether or not a municipal employee's employment was terminated after the expiration of his probationary period in violation of his rights under this section the issue should be tried. Edell v Municipal Broadcasting System, 9 Misc. 2d 220, 169 N.Y.S.2d 993, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4020 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A probationary appointee in the Classified Civil Service who was not given written notice that her services were unsatisfactory at least one week prior to termination of her probationary period, as required by Rule 24 of the Rules for Classified Civil Service as amended effective September 9, 1959, acquired permanent status and could not be removed except upon grounds and pursuant to procedure set forth in this section. Application of De Cecca, 25 Misc. 2d 425, 205 N.Y.S.2d 457, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2734 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

Officer for New York City Transit Police Department did not become tenured at expiration of maximum 24-month probationary period since 109-day period in which officer was unable to perform his duties was automatically added to his probationary term under city rules, which extended probationary term to October 24, 1987; thus, officer was properly terminated without hearing on October 19, 1987. Cacamese v Del Castillo, 140 Misc. 2d 497, 531 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 457 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Fact that appointment as special officer was allegedly a prerequisite to employment did not prevent security officers from obtaining status as permanent civil employees entitled to protection of a hearing upon written charges served in advance before they could be dismissed, where alleged failure of city security officers to fulfill conditions of employment concerning appointment as special officer did not take place until after the probationary period had expired and the officers had become permanent employees. Keyer v Civil Service Com., 397 F. Supp. 1362, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11184 (E.D.N.Y. 1975).

139. —Waiver of permanent employee status

Petitioner, discharged for violation of terms of settlement agreement whereby he waived his right to disciplinary hearing and appeal authorized by CLS Civ S §§ 75 and 76 and agreed to probationary period of 12 months, could have brought Article 78 proceeding at time of his dismissal to challenge respondent's conclusion that he was probationary employee at that time, but Civil Service Commission had no jurisdiction to hear his appeal. Johnson v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 97 N.Y.2d 627, 735 N.Y.S.2d 861, 761 N.E.2d 553, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. 2001).

Evidence supported finding that plumber and steam fitter had openly, knowingly, and voluntarily waived his permanent status as employee of Long Island State Park and Recreation Commission, and that commission was therefore entitled to terminate his employment without hearing, where dismissal occurred during probationary period which he had accepted in settlement of certain disciplinary charges against him, he was aware of ramifications of accepting probation as demonstrated by fact that he had served probationary term prior to achieving permanent position, and he did not allege that his signature was obtained on settlement agreement involuntarily, or that he was denied assistance of his union representative, whose signature also appeared on settlement agreement. Sepulveda v Long Island State Park & Recreation Com., 123 A.D.2d 703, 507 N.Y.S.2d 69, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60844 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

140. Provisional employees

A provisional employee does not come within the protection of this section and is therefore subject to summary removal. Benon v La Guardia, 285 N.Y. 560, 33 N.E.2d 243, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 560, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1591 (N.Y. 1941).

Where provisional employee qualified for permanent appointment by passing examination, he obtained permanent status on day he was notified that he was first on civil service list and was entitled to notice and hearing prior to dismissal three months after that date. Smith v Hoyt, 59 A.D.2d 1058, 399 N.Y.S.2d 818, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14350 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

A provisional employee cannot claim the protection of section 75 of the Civil Service Law which provides that certain employees can only be removed for incompetency or misconduct after a hearing. McBride v Griffin, 62 A.D.2d 520, 405 N.Y.S.2d 353, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10871 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978).

Reinstatement and back pay are not appropriate remedies for provisional employee whose services have been determined by jury to have been terminated in bad faith, since status of provisional employee is significantly different from that of probationary employee, and, additionally, remedies sought would produce anomalous result of awarding back pay for period of over 3 years to provisional employee who is expressly limited to appointment of 9 months. Preddice v Callanan, 114 A.D.2d 134, 498 N.Y.S.2d 533, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49853 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986), aff'd, 69 N.Y.2d 812, 513 N.Y.S.2d 958, 506 N.E.2d 529, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15448 (N.Y. 1987).

Since provisional employees may be discharged at any time without charges preferred, reinstatement is not remedy available to such employee absent violation of constitutional or statutory provision. Iritano v New York City Transit Authority, 175 A.D.2d 918, 573 N.Y.S.2d 756, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11306 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

Workers' Compensation Board's termination of probationary civil service employment of claims referee without hearing was not in bad faith, unconstitutional, or otherwise improper where (1) board followed its established procedures by periodically advising referee of his progress, providing written evaluation at least 2 weeks before end of probationary period, and giving written notice at least one week before effective date of discharge, (2) bad faith was not shown by fact that earlier, more favorable progress reports were not furnished in writing before final, unfavorable written report, and (3) referee's dismissal was based on his inadequate understanding of workers' compensation law, his failure to respond to additional training to address that deficiency, and his improper conduct in requesting transportation from attorneys and posing inappropriate questions to witnesses. Scott v Workers' Compensation Bd., 275 A.D.2d 877, 713 N.Y.S.2d 571, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9473 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Petitioner who held provisional position of Assistant Architect for city's parks and recreation department for almost 9 months in 1985-1986 was not entitled to order compelling his reinstatement, despite 1990 Civil Service Commission order directing department to offer him first available provisional position of Assistant Architect "if that is consistent with the provisions of the Civil Service Law," where he no longer had minimum educational qualifications for position of Assistant Architect, which were raised in 1988, no other provisionals had been appointed since commission's orders, new eligible list established in 1999 precluded any provisional appointments, and thus his reinstatement would violate CLS Civ S § 65. Brown v City of New York Dep't of Parks & Rec., 281 A.D.2d 195, 721 N.Y.S.2d 354, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2246 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Evidence that provisional employee had received only one performance evaluation, which was favorable, during his 1 ½ years of employment with city did not satisfy his burden of showing that his termination was in bad faith or arbitrary and capricious where there was evidence of his substandard performance and no evidence that city was required to give him periodic performance evaluations. Bynoe v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 340, 722 N.Y.S.2d 517, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3189 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Where provisional civil service employee was charged with misconduct in public office involving public funds, which charge might seriously damage his standing and associations in community and carry implication of guilt of either immorality or dishonesty, employee was entitled to hearing prior to dismissal. Mengrone v New York City Off-Track Betting Corp., 83 Misc. 2d 105, 371 N.Y.S.2d 525, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2047 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

Petitioner, who was appointed on a provisional basis to position of principal psychologist-grade 27 in competitive class of classified civil service, was not protected by collective bargaining agreement between state and civil service employees association and, as such, derived no benefits guaranteed by grievance procedures of agreement and was subject to being removed from his provisional appointment and demoted to his former, permanent position of principal psychologist-grade 23 without a hearing or without a statement of reasons. Sirohi v Merges, 88 Misc. 2d 201, 387 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2649 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 58 A.D.2d 645, 396 N.Y.S.2d 58, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12729 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Trial court properly dismiss a worker's petition pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 to compel a school district to reinstate the worker with back pay; the worker was terminated during his probationary period, and thus was not entitled to protections of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75. Easling v Odessa-Montour Cent. Sch. Dist., 10 A.D.3d 839, 782 N.Y.S.2d 144, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11174 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

141. Subordinate employees, generally

This section applies only to those holding positions of a subordinate nature. Fornara v Schroeder, 261 N.Y. 363, 185 N.E. 498, 261 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 363, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1295 (N.Y. 1933).

A "deputy," like a cashier or a private secretary, holds a position of a subordinate nature. Behringer v Parisi, 5 N.Y.2d 147, 182 N.Y.S.2d 365, 156 N.E.2d 71, 1959 N.Y. LEXIS 1629 (N.Y. 1959).

This section, which was formerly subd. 1 of § 22, in protecting a state employee from removal from his position except for incompetency or misconduct after a hearing upon notice, does not apply to the position of private secretary, cashier, or deputy of an official or department, or to what certain decisions refer to as an "independent" officer, and is intended to apply only to persons holding positions of a subordinate nature. Morton v Murphy, 11 A.D.2d 880, 203 N.Y.S.2d 222, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8414 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1960).

The test to determine whether an employee is a subordinate is whether, in the performance of his various duties, he is subject to the direction and control of a superior officer or whether he is an independent officer, subject only to such directions as the statute gives. The veteran's protection is not extended to all positions in the exempt class but only to those holding positions of a subordinate nature and not to independent officers. Heath v Creagh, 96 N.Y.S.2d 247, 197 Misc. 537, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3192 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949), aff'd, 276 A.D. 948, 94 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5255 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

142. —Specific subordinate employees

A police surgeon, an honorably discharged soldier of the World War, who rendered occasional and intermittent service to the police department whenever a prisoner or victim of accident might need speedy medical attention, was a subordinate employee in such department and could not be legally removed from office under this section except for incompetency or misconduct shown, after a hearing, upon stated charges. Johnson v Robbins, 259 A.D. 980, 20 N.Y.S.2d 520, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7518 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

The duties of a physician seeking reinstatement as city physician and police surgeon were not indicative of those of a subordinate employee subject to the direction and control of a superior officer so as to entitle him to the protection against removal afforded under § 75 of the Civil Service Law. Wayne v Vogel, 24 A.D.2d 1001, 265 N.Y.S.2d 1013, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2817 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965), aff'd, 20 N.Y.2d 901, 285 N.Y.S.2d 869, 232 N.E.2d 863, 1967 N.Y. LEXIS 1104 (N.Y. 1967).

The Superintendent of State Police properly dismissed an officer where substantial evidence supported findings that a superior officer had given the officer a direct order not to become involved in a particular investigation and that the officer failed to obey this lawful order. Zeggert v Connelie, 86 A.D.2d 952, 448 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15637 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

A county map room supervisor was properly dismissed from his position pursuant to Civ S Law § 75, where he disregarded repeated warnings by his supervisors not to engage in specific acts of misconduct and demonstrated a persistent unwillingness to accept the directives of his superiors. Palmer v County of Oneida, 86 A.D.2d 957, 448 N.Y.S.2d 314, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15649 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 56 N.Y.2d 507, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 5417 (N.Y. 1982).

Specifications of misconduct and insubordination were supported by testimony and numerous detailed memoranda advising sanitation worker of poor job performance and insubordination in failing to follow instructions as to waxing of floor and failing to exercise diligent care in moving equipment, causing chemical leakage and discoloration to floor. Fact that sanitation worker was authorized to take days off did not preclude finding that he was guilty of excessive absenteeism where he had been repeatedly informed by memoranda that his pattern of absences was disruptive and burdensome to his employer and co-workers. Gradel v Lilholt, 257 A.D.2d 972, 684 N.Y.S.2d 339, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 725 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

The position of chief of police is a subordinate one and the holder thereof is entitled to the protection of this section, even though the village charter directly after making provision for the appointment of the police chief contains the words "the trustees may also create such subordinate offices as they shall deem necessary." Dickinson v Monroe, 44 N.Y.S.2d 86, 180 Misc. 714, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2392 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

An honorably discharged veteran, formerly holding the position of director of the Buffalo stadium and memorial auditorium, is not entitled to an order reinstating him to his former position notwithstanding his removal without a hearing, since he was not a subordinate employee and thus is not protected by this section. Smith v Board of Stadium & Memorial Auditorium, 96 N.Y.S.2d 571, 197 Misc. 529, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3990 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

143. Temporary employees

Where maintenance and supervision of a bridge and employees thereof are, by resolution of board of supervisors, made subject to the county superintendent of highways, and laborers are to perform their work under his direction and control "until further direction in the premises," and there is nothing in resolution to support a contention that appointment of a laborer or his continuance in the performance of his duties is to be dependent on further direction of the board, the appointment cannot be deemed a temporary one, and an honorably-discharged soldier so appointed cannot be removed, except as provided by this section. McNeles v Board of Sup'rs, 173 A.D. 411, 159 N.Y.S. 1009, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6665 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 219 N.Y. 578, 114 N.E. 1071, 219 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 578, 1916 N.Y. LEXIS 903 (N.Y. 1916).

On March 13th, 1958, the petitioner was given a temporary appointment as senior surplus food inspector. On July 10th, 1958, the petitioner was notified that his services would be terminated effective July 16th, 1958. The petitioner was not entitled to reinstatement, since the documentary evidence established conclusively that the appointment was temporary, that the petitioner knew it to be temporary, was never misled, and in fact so regarded it. Daub v Coupe, 9 A.D.2d 260, 193 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1959).

Where Department of Civil Service properly rejected petitioner's initial appointment, he was temporary employee, rather than probationary employee, until appointment was accepted, and there was no occasion to send notice of extension of probationary period. Odenz v Director, Creedmoor Psychiatric Center, 51 A.D.2d 584, 378 N.Y.S.2d 755, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10878 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Where position which had been held by petitioner for over eight years on temporary employment basis until he was dismissed as result of staff reduction was not named as noncompetitive position, position was in competitive class, temporary appointment to which may be made only in exceptional cases without examination and only on temporary basis for period not to exceed 18 months, and thus dismissal of petitioner, whose status was no more than that of temporary employee, was proper. Roberts v Parker, 52 A.D.2d 651, 381 N.Y.S.2d 556, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12308 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

County hospital superintendent, who was appointed by county executive during executive's first elected term but not re-appointed after commencement of executive's new term of office following reelection, was not entitled to protection afforded by provision of Civil Service Law to honorably discharged members of the armed forces holding positions by permanent appointment or employment in classified service, although his position was listed in noncompetitive class, in that, at end of term for which superintendent was appointed by county executive, superintendent had no more tenure than provisional or temporary appointee. Provisional or temporary county employees have no tenure of office and are not entitled to any review of their discharge under provisions of section of Civil Service Law providing protection to honorably discharged member of the armed forces holding position by permanent appointment or employment in classified service. Ause v Regan, 59 A.D.2d 317, 399 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13569 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

In a proceeding by a dismissed temporary civil service employee seeking reinstatement to his position with back pay from the date of discharge, the trial court erred in failing to remand the matter for the purpose of conducting a hearing at which the employee would be afforded an opportunity to clear his name where, although it is a general rule that a nontenured public employee may be discharged without a hearing, a temporary employee is entitled to a hearing where the discharge is for reasons that may cast a stigma upon the employee's good name, reputation, honor or integrity, and where the letter notifying the temporary employee of his discharge clearly attributed dishonesty to him. Salvatore v Nasser, 81 A.D.2d 1012, 440 N.Y.S.2d 92, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11766 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1981).

Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) correctly found that employer discriminated against police officer when it demoted him from sergeant to patrolman in response to his exercise of protected Taylor Law rights, but PERB improperly ordered employer to restore officer to rank of sergeant where (1) officer's temporary appointment to sergeant position had not yet become permanent when he was demoted, (2) after he was demoted, another officer was appointed from new eligibility list to sergeant's position, and (3) demoted officer was not on new eligibility list; appointment of individual from constitutionally valid expired list would violate CLS NY Const Art V § 6, and matter was remitted to PERB for further consideration of that aspect of its remedial order. Village of Scotia v New York State Pub. Empl. Rels. Bd., 241 A.D.2d 29, 670 N.Y.S.2d 602, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2818 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Temporary emergency employment of a veteran in a position declared to be permanent without attaining eligibility in a subsequent competitive examination does not entitle veteran to retain that position, since this section, protecting a veteran from discharge except on charges did not apply to one who had never been legally appointed after taking a competitive examination, and since "Three Year Fidelity" clause in § 14 was unavailable because it presupposes three years' service by an incumbent who has passed a competitive examination. Smith v Wynkoop, 25 N.Y.S.2d 452, 175 Misc. 645, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2589 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

Only persons holding civil service positions permanently, whether by appointment or employment, are entitled to the protection of this section against discharge without filing of charges and a hearing. Villani v County of Nassau, 36 Misc. 2d 766, 233 N.Y.S.2d 667, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2342 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Temporary appointments to a civil service position, no matter how long continued, never ripen into permanent appointments and entitle the holders to none of the advantages secured by period of tenure under the civil service rules. Hennessey v Farrell, 43 Misc. 2d 1045, 252 N.Y.S.2d 699, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2077 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), aff'd, 19 A.D.2d 698, 242 N.Y.S.2d 192, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5917 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1963).

Civil defense safety representatives who failed to qualify for permanent appointment were not entitled to the protection of this section against summary dismissal. O'Brien v Farrell, 44 Misc. 2d 438, 253 N.Y.S.2d 961, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1758 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 22 A.D.2d 746, 253 N.Y.S.2d 534, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2948 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964).

Although a probationary employee may be terminated at any time without charges, hearing, or reasons stated if his conduct or performance is not satisfactory so long as the decision to dismiss is not arbitrary or capricious, where the dismissal of a permanent appointee on probationary status to the position of assistant building inspector was not due to unsatisfactory conduct or performance but due to residency, and where the appointee had become a resident prior to the time of his dismissal, the termination was ineffective and the appointee was to be reinstated to his former position with back pay. Winkler v Moore, 110 Misc. 2d 785, 442 N.Y.S.2d 937, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3160 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

A war veteran who was released from his position was not deprived of any rights under this section where he was a temporary employee who had not been removed arbitrarily for personal or political reasons, and he had failed to establish the existence of a particular position to which his qualifications were suitable. Subd. 1 of this section does not apply to an honorably discharged soldier, who was appointed to the public service for a temporary purpose. Bentley v Jeacock, 14 N.Y.S.2d 366, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

144. Unclassified positions

School busdriver whose annual salary notice specifies 10 month period of employment is unclassified employee who may be terminated at will without hearing; in any event, termination of employment when busdriver leaves 4 year old child at child's home, rather than at home of babysitter, some 2 miles distant, without checking either route sheet or tag worn by child, both of which indicate place where child is to be let off, is not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to sense of fairness. Tyson v Hess, 66 N.Y.2d 943, 498 N.Y.S.2d 778, 489 N.E.2d 747, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 18246 (N.Y. 1985).

The provisions of this section granting veterans the privilege of a hearing in dismissal proceedings do not apply to a veteran in unclassified civil service. Bemis v Board of Education, 258 A.D. 935, 16 N.Y.S.2d 553, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7639 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

Community college employee whose position was in the unclassified civil service had no right, either at law or by contract, to be dismissed solely for misconduct or incompetency shown after a hearing on stated charges pursuant to the Civil Service Law. Glazer v Hankin, 50 A.D.2d 924, 377 N.Y.S.2d 616, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11850 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975), app. dismissed, 39 N.Y.2d 743, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3486 (N.Y. 1976).

Employees of county boards of election are in unclassified civil service and are not subject to civil service laws and regulations, including CLS Civ Serv § 75, being removable at pleasure of board pursuant to CLS Elec § 3-300. County of Chautauqua v Chautauqua County Employees' Unit 6300 of Local 807, 181 A.D.2d 1052, 581 N.Y.S.2d 967, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4665 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Petitioner, who held unclassified and at-will position, was not entitled to pre-termination or post-termination hearings under

CLS Civ S § 75. Macina v North Salem Cent. Sch. Dist., 221 A.D.2d 538, 633 N.Y.S.2d 596, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11858 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In law enforcement officer's Article 78 proceeding against officials of county civil service commission and county personnel department, officer's reassignment from detective to uniform officer was demotion where his rate of pay was lower, and Court of Appeals had classified assignment of uniform officer to detective as promotion. Pleakis v Peterson, 281 A.D.2d 910, 722 N.Y.S.2d 458, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2857 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

In law enforcement officer's Article 78 proceeding against officials of county civil service commission and county personnel department, judgment would be modified by vacating portion that required respondents to reimburse petitioner for mileage expenses, even though petitioner lost use of county vehicle when respondents reassigned him from detective to uniform officer, where (1) respondents could have denied him use of county vehicle even while he acted as detective, and (2) under CLS CPLR § 7806, commuting mileage is not incidental expense that court may award as part of judgment in Article 78 proceeding. Pleakis v Peterson, 281 A.D.2d 910, 722 N.Y.S.2d 458, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2857 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

One who holds the position of President of the Long Island Center, which is a higher educational institution established and operated by the State University, is not, even though a war veteran, in the unclassified Civil Service and accordingly is not entitled to notice and hearing in connection with removal from office. Application of Lee, 32 Misc. 2d 114, 223 N.Y.S.2d 417, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4070 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

IV. Veteran's And Volunteer Firemen's Rights

145. In general

Although military veteran, plaintiff was not entitled to protection of CLS Civ S § 75 where he was not employed within "classified service" under § 75. Bal v City of New York, 266 A.D.2d 79, 698 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11603 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

In unemployment insurance proceeding by claimant who was employed as general counsel for State Energy Office until agency was abolished and his position was terminated, nature or status of claimant's position as nontenured within meaning of CLS Labor § 565(2)(e) could not be determined without first determining whether, as veteran, he was entitled to limited tenure afforded by CLS Civ S § 75(1)(b). In re Claim of Fromer, 268 A.D.2d 707, 701 N.Y.S.2d 508, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 260 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

This section protects honorably discharged soldiers from summary discharge from official positions as well as from positions of mere employment. In re Weaver, 131 N.Y.S. 144, 72 Misc. 438, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 417 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

Preferential employment created by this section has no regard to the duration, place, dangers, risks, or nature of the military service. Lore v Forbes, 19 N.Y.S.2d 631, 173 Misc. 1066, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2774 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939), aff'd, 259 A.D. 806, 19 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6754 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Where no claim is made that an employee is a veteran or a volunteer fireman, the provisions of subd. 1 of § 22 of the Civil Service Law, which alone provide for hearings as a condition precedent of discharge or removal, are inapplicable. In re Costello's Will, 114 N.Y.S.2d 525, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2934 (N.Y. Sur. Ct. 1952).

For a disabled veteran to have rights of preference in case of a demotion he must be holding a permanent position according to the provisions of § 75 of the Civil Service Law. Application of Cuzzivoglio, 202 N.Y.S.2d 402 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), aff'd, 13 A.D.2d 614, 214 N.Y.S.2d 670, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11738 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1961).

146. Constitutionality

Former subd. 1-a of this section was void because it granted a privilege to one class of veterans and volunteer firemen and discriminated arbitrarily and unreasonably against all other veterans and volunteer firemen. Former subd. 1-a of this section provided in substance that no person holding a provisional or temporary position, who was a veteran or exempt volunteer fireman and who was employed on or before December 31, 1937, in a position in a public welfare department or emergency relief bureau, and whose salary was being paid wholly or in part from special emergency relief taxes, should be removed from such position, except for incompetency or misconduct shown after a hearing upon due notice upon stated charges, was unconstitutional under NY Const. Art V. § 6. McCann v Kern, 262 A.D. 109, 28 N.Y.S.2d 321, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5303 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 287 N.Y. 581, 38 N.E.2d 383, 287 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 581, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 2467 (N.Y. 1941).

Preference accorded honorably discharged members of the Armed Forces who served during time of war did not constitute denial of equal protection by virtue of fact that such preference was not extended to those persons who served in the Armed Forces in peacetime. Russell v Hodges, 470 F.2d 212, 1972 U.S. App. LEXIS 6399 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1972).

147. Construction; honorably discharged member of armed forces

A person, who was inducted into military service of the United States on September 3, 1918 and on the following day reported at a camp and received regular army equipment and thereafter drilled under the supervision of, and received military instructions and information from, duly commissioned officers of the United States army, and on September eleventh was honorably-discharged from the military service, was an honorably-discharged soldier and entitled to the benefits of subd. 1 of this section. Donohue v Huie, 259 A.D. 645, 20 N.Y.S.2d 347, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6229 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940), aff'd, 285 N.Y. 557, 33 N.E.2d 241, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 557, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1589 (N.Y. 1941).

A nurse in the United States Army Nurse Corps, who served in the World war, was not "an honorably-discharged soldier, sailor or marine" within the meaning of former subd. 1 of this section. But see amendment of subd. 1 by L 1940 c 572 which negatives this decision. Hutton v Heitzmann, 14 N.Y.S.2d 234, 171 Misc. 1023, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2197 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

To be "an honorably discharged soldier . . . having served in the army . . . of the United States . . . in the World War" was sole qualification for privilege of preference under former § 22. Lore v Forbes, 19 N.Y.S.2d 631, 173 Misc. 1066, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2774 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939), aff'd, 259 A.D. 806, 19 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6754 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

148. —Time of service

One who first became a member of the U. S. Army in May, 1919, is not a world war veteran entitled to the veterans' privileges granted by this section. Baade v Glen Cove, 263 A.D. 999, 33 N.Y.S.2d 421, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7830 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1942).

A civil service employee who served in the United States armed forces from March, 1920 to March, 1921, was not in service "during the World War" within the meaning of former § 22 and not entitled to the benefits prescribed therein. Zinno v Marsh, 30 Misc. 2d 171, 36 N.Y.S.2d 866, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1226, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1905 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

149. Effect of non-residence

The fact that petitioner was not a citizen of this country while he served as a member of the volunteer fire department, does not deprive him of the rights given to him by this section. Pettit v Boyle, 223 N.Y.S. 521, 129 Misc. 873, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1339 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

A veteran employed as a civil servant was entitled to tenure benefits accorded to qualified war veterans under Civ S Law §§ 75, 86, even though he was not a resident of the state at the time he entered into military service, since although Civ S Law § 85 includes a residency requirement in its definition of veteran, the incorporation of the definition of veteran in § 85 into § 86 was meant only to include the reference in § 85 to veterans who had served in time of war. Mathiasen v Niagara County Legislature, 126 Misc. 2d 937, 484 N.Y.S.2d 397, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

150. Particular positions

Director of security for neighborhood family care center operated by New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation (NYCHHC) was not entitled, on termination, to notice and hearing protections of CLS Civ S Law § 75, since he was managerial employee; although legislature did not expressly exempt NYCHHC from dictates of Civil Service Law, legislative intent to exclude managerial employees from rules "consistent with Civil Service Law" is implicit in CLS Unconsol Laws Chap 214-A §§ 5 and 9, which grant NYCHHC authority to make personnel rules and regulations with respect to employees other than managerial employees, as long as such rules are consistent with Civil Service Law. Burns v Quinones, 68 N.Y.2d 719, 506 N.Y.S.2d 316, 497 N.E.2d 683, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19489 (N.Y. 1986).

A veteran who is appointed as inspector of construction for a particular building, cannot upon the completion of the structure compel his appointment under this section to a like position as to other buildings currently under construction by the same department. People ex rel. Barton v Brannan, 141 A.D. 295, 126 N.Y.S. 47, 1910 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3859 (N.Y. App. Div. 1910).

The provision of this section, providing for removal of veterans in civil employment only upon trial for incompetency and misconduct, is not applicable to appointees of the board of elections. Blondheim v Cohen, 248 A.D. 75, 288 N.Y.S. 984, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6078 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 272 N.Y. 520, 4 N.E.2d 427, 272 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 520, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1016 (N.Y. 1936).

A veteran who was appointed to fill a vacancy in the position of assistant attendance officer created when the previous holder of that position was erroneously promoted, has no right to retain the position where the appointing officer, upon learning of the invalidity of the promotion, restores the person thus promoted to his former status as an assistant attendance officer, thus displacing the veteran. Stryker v Board of Education, 250 A.D. 319, 294 N.Y.S. 66, 1937 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8335 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 274 N.Y. 620, 10 N.E.2d 579, 274 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 620, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 1003 (N.Y. 1937).

A veteran validly appointed to a position in the labor class cannot be removed from his job except for incompetency or misconduct after a hearing even though his position is placed in the competitive class upon civil service commission reclassification. The preference given honorably discharged veterans applies to laborers. O'Brien v Hughes, 270 A.D. 1072, 63 N.Y.S.2d 780, 1946 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5343 (N.Y. App. Div. 1946).

Where an honorably discharged war veteran had held a position as principal attorney at the Kingston office of the New York City Water Supply Service for five years, following his appointment under a rule exempting appointments for that position from examination, he could not be removed without filing charges of misconduct against him and being granted a hearing. Murphy v Larkin, 17 A.D.2d 87, 230 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8457 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1962), cert. denied, 382 U.S. 903, 86 S. Ct. 237, 15 L. Ed. 2d 156, 1965 U.S. LEXIS 342 (U.S. 1965).

Petitioner, an honorably discharged World War veteran and an exempt volunteer fireman, was not subject to dismissal as clerk of surrogate's court by a newly appointed surrogate, except for incompetency or misconduct shown after a hearing pursuant to this section, notwithstanding that, under Surrogates' Court Act, § 21, a surrogate may "revoke at pleasure" the appointment of clerk. Cappon v Cleere, 32 N.Y.S.2d 845, 177 Misc. 1027, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1294 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942).

Assistant superintendent of operations and maintenance, an honorably discharged veteran, could not be discharged from his position without a hearing and without charges of misconduct or incompetency. Walsh v Johnson, 5 Misc. 2d 744, 163 N.Y.S.2d 821, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2857 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957), app. dismissed, 8 A.D.2d 664, 185 N.Y.S.2d 771, 1959 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9039 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1959).

The fact that a tenured teacher is also a war veteran does not afford him any special rights as against removal on the basis of charges preferred against him and signed by all members of the Board of Education, upon a hearing before the same Board which preferred the charges, pursuant to § 3013 of the Education Law. Widger v Board of Education, 35 Misc. 2d 529, 230 N.Y.S.2d 973, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2877 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Petitioner, a veteran entitled to tenure benefits under Civ S Law §§ 75, 86 on abolishment of his job as a county Director of Economic Development and Planning, was not entitled to be transferred to the newly created position of Director of Planning and Industrial Development, since the new position was not a "similar position" in that it required duties over and above those performed by petitioner, nor was petitioner entitled to a transfer to the "similar" vacant position of chief planner, since that position was not funded; however, petitioner was entitled to a trial on his claim that his position was abolished for the "sole purpose" of hiring another to perform substantially the same work in violation of Civ S Law § 75. Mathiasen v Niagara County Legislature, 126 Misc. 2d 937, 484 N.Y.S.2d 397, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

Where honorably discharged soldier, appointed a conductor in transit system, was instructed not to work until further notice following a physical examination, continuance of this status for six months was in effect a removal without a hearing, and illegal. Jones v New York City Transit Authority, 135 N.Y.S.2d 298, 1954 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2929 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1954), rev'd, 285 A.D. 1054, 139 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6656 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

The town superintendent of highways may summarily dismiss highway employees under civil service, unless such employees are veterans (or volunteer firemen) or classified in the competitive class. 1947 Op St Compt 544. See also 1947 Op St Compt 532.

A town building inspector may not be summarily removed from office where he is an honorably discharged wartime veteran of the United States Armed Forces or an exempt volunteer fireman. 1961 Op St Compt #160.

151. —Law enforcement officers

A veteran, appointed to the office of county detective in the district attorney's office and entitled to the protection of this section, could be reclassified as a process server where he had been performing only process serving duties for 7 years and reclassification simply recognized specialization which had developed in the office. This section protected him only against removal and abolition of position. Here, a reclassification did not abolish the job but simply formalized its specialization. Under a reclassification survey conducted by the Civil Service Commission with respect to employees in a district attorney's office, petitioner, an honorably discharged veteran, was transferred from his position as county detective to that of process server, which in various respects constituted a demotion. The duties of eleven county detectives were substantially preserved under a new title, detective investigator. In practical effect, this constituted a summary removal of petitioner from his position of county detective, without charges of incompetency or misconduct, and was illegal. Clare v Silver, 4 N.Y.2d 107, 172 N.Y.S.2d 801, 149 N.E.2d 323, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1114 (N.Y. 1958).

A police officer, who was a Korean War veteran was entitled to receive formal charges and a hearing upon sworn testimony before his discharge for incompetency by reason of physical disability. Papasidero v Murphy, 38 A.D.2d 575, 328 N.Y.S.2d 558, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2724 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1971), app. denied, 30 N.Y.2d 481, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1898 (N.Y. 1972).

In Article 78 proceeding to review termination of state police officer's employment, substantial evidence supported finding that he was guilty of fourth degree grand larceny where fellow officer, while responding to call at residence, was given .32-caliber semiautomatic pistol by resident who did not want it in house, gun was not registered to anyone in household and was nuisance weapon that should have been surrendered to police superintendent, fellow officer instead sold gun to accused officer, who attempted to convert it as his own property by filling out false form and thus was guilty of larceny by intending to appropriate gun from its original owner, who had superior right to its possession. Substantial evidence alsosupported finding that he was guilty of offering false instrument for filing, even though instrument might not have been filed personally by him, where fellow officer, while responding to call at residence, was given .32-caliber semiautomatic pistol by resident who did not want it in house, gun was not registered to anyone in household and was nuisance weapon that should have been surrendered to police superintendent, fellow officer instead sold gun to accused officer, who attempted to convert it as his own property by filling out false form stating that he had acquired gun directly from resident. Further, substantial evidence supported finding that he was guilty of knowingly engaging in official misconduct by buying .32-caliber semiautomatic pistol from fellow officer while knowing that fellow officer did not lawfully possess it and that gun was nuisance weapon that should have been surrendered to police superintendent. Penalty of dismissal from employment as state police officer was not so disproportionate as to shock one's sense of fairness where officer committed crimes of fourth degree grand larceny, offering false instrument for filing, and official misconduct by purchasing .32-caliber semiautomatic pistol from fellow officer, while knowing that fellow officer did not lawfully possess it and that gun was nuisance weapon that should have been surrendered to police superintendent, and by attempting to convert it as his own property by filling out false form. Doolittle v McMahon, 245 A.D.2d 736, 665 N.Y.S.2d 739, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12957 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

A court officer, appointed by the sheriff, is exempt from civil service regulations, and may be removed at will as provided in the act pursuant to which he was appointed and is not protected by this section on the ground that he is an honorably discharged soldier of Spanish-American war. Connery v Sewell, 213 N.Y.S. 602, 126 Misc. 418, 1926 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 577 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1926).

Deputies of the sheriff of Erie County, who are subject to be called on by the sheriff to perform any of the civil or criminal duties of his office, must be regarded as employees of sheriff and not as employees of county. Accordingly, a petition on behalf of such deputies, who were displaced by appointees of a new incumbent in the office of sheriff, for an order of mandamus directing their reinstatement and certification of a payroll containing their names on the ground that as war veterans and volunteer firemen they are protected against removal by this section is dismissed. Bates v Offerman, 264 N.Y.S. 547, 147 Misc. 800, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1538 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933).

152. Purpose

The purpose of this section is to prevent summary removal of a veteran who is holding under an appointment for an indefinite term. Williams v Darling, 122 N.Y.S. 534, 67 Misc. 205, 1910 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 226 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1910).

The principal object of this statute is to protect a veteran from arbitrary removal by requiring notice and a hearing where it is sought to oust him from his position for personal or political reasons, but every separation from service is not tantamount to a removal. Bentley v Jeacock, 14 N.Y.S.2d 366, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

153. Veterans; hearing rights

In the case of an honorably-discharged soldier, if the position held by him was of a permanent character, he could not be removed therefrom except after presentment of charges of incompetency or misconduct and their determination against him after a hearing thereupon. Buehler v Board of Sup'rs, 260 N.Y. 268, 183 N.E. 384, 260 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 268, 1932 N.Y. LEXIS 687 (N.Y. 1932).

Power to appoint carried with it power to remove, and a veteran removed by the body which appointed him was removed properly "by the officer or body having the power to remove" after due notice and a full opportunity to be heard, as required by this section. Shatter v Moses, 266 N.Y. 413, 195 N.E. 132, 266 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 413, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 916 (N.Y. 1934).

Under this section, forbidding removal from the civil service of an honorably discharged soldier of the World War except for incompetency or misconduct shown after a hearing upon stated charges, the burden of proving incompetency or misconduct rests upon the person alleging it. Meyer v Goldwater, 286 N.Y. 461, 36 N.E.2d 663, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 461, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1462 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 286 N.Y. 697, 37 N.E.2d 139, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 697, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 2249 (N.Y. 1941).

The right accorded to petitioners (war veterans employed in the competitive class of civil service), to be represented by counsel at hearings on formal charges of misconduct involved more than the mere privilege of being accompanied by an attorney. It included the right of private consultation with an attorney of their own choice. Deprivation of such right to counsel and to a fair trial is in itself a basis for annulment of a determination resulting therefrom. Fusco v Moses, 304 N.Y. 424, 107 N.E.2d 581, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 424, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 757 (N.Y. 1952).

A rule of the New York City Civil Service Commission exempting from competitive examination any person appointed for service in a locality outside the city who was a resident of such locality, when appointment from an eligible list was found to be not practicable, was not in conflict with former § 15, and, under this section, the appointee, if a war veteran who has been employed in classified service for several years, cannot be removed except upon charges of misconduct and following a hearing upon such charges. Murphy v Larkin, 17 A.D.2d 87, 230 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8457 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1962), cert. denied, 382 U.S. 903, 86 S. Ct. 237, 15 L. Ed. 2d 156, 1965 U.S. LEXIS 342 (U.S. 1965).

In an Art 78 proceeding, the state Civil Service Commissioner did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in terminating a veteran's appointment without a hearing, even though under Civ S Law § 75 a veteran who holds a permanent civil service appointment cannot be discharged except for incompetence or misconduct after a hearing pursuant to that section, where the veteran was first given a temporary appointment, where that appointment was later made permanent but subject to a probationary term, where representations as to the permanency of the veteran's appointment, made by a deputy director of the veteran's department, exceeded the deputy director's authority, and where the veteran's termination from his probationary period was timely, even though the actual termination date fell after the expiration of the probationary term, in that the letter of termination was both dated and received before the end of the term and it was permissible to serve a period of short duration past the end of a probationary term. Further, the trial court properly refused the veteran's request for a rehearing where allegedly new evidence presented by the veteran did not indicate any bad faith on his employer's part that could justify a change in the determination. Mendez v Valenti, 101 A.D.2d 612, 474 N.Y.S.2d 868, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18152 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 62 N.Y.2d 606, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7763 (N.Y. 1984).

Although CLS Civ S § 75(1) provides that person holding position in certain employment categories may not be terminated "except for incompetency or misconduct shown after a hearing upon stated charges," and CLS Civ S & 75(1)(b) extends such protection to employees in competitive class who are honorably discharged veterans, statute does not abrogate provisions of CLS Civ S § 63 requiring completion of probationary term, nor well-established judicial authority denying right to pretermination hearing even to veteran in probationary status. Vaillancourt v New York State Liquor Authority, 153 A.D.2d 531, 544 N.Y.S.2d 609, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10996 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989), aff'd, 75 N.Y.2d 889, 554 N.Y.S.2d 474, 553 N.E.2d 1022, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 612 (N.Y. 1990).

Petitioner, appointed to permanent position as civil service employee, was not, by virtue of his status as honorably discharged veteran who served in time of war, entitled to notice and hearing prior to his termination for unsatisfactory work performance after 18 weeks on probation. Fox v New York State Dep't of Vehicles, 161 A.D.2d 346, 554 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5294 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Court rule permitting removal of honorably discharged veteran from his nonjudicial position without hearing if he holds position designated as "confidential or requiring the performance of functions influencing policy" (CLS Stds & Adm Policies § 25.29 (22 NYCRR § 25.29)) is consistent with general principles of Civil Service Law, even though CLS Civ S § 75 provides that honorably discharged veteran may not be removed without hearing unless he holds position of "private secretary, cashier or deputy of any official or department," since CLS Jud § 211 gives Chief Judge discretion and power to adapt general principles of Civil Service Law to needs of court system. Dismissal of honorably discharged veteran from his position as associate law assistant with Supreme Court without hearing did not violate his right to due process of law since he did not have property right to continued employment. Conigland v Rosenblatt, 171 A.D.2d 864, 567 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3908 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

A petition alleging that petitioner is an honorably discharged war veteran in exempt classification for civil service employment and was dismissed on November 18, 1946, without preferment of charges against him or a hearing, was barred by laches where a demand for preferment of charges and a hearing was not made until April 1, 1960, where it must have been evident to petitioner, as early as June 25, 1959, that respondent had taken a final and nonyielding position regarding his discharge. Weeden v Senior, 24 Misc. 2d 333, 203 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3023 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960), aff'd, 12 A.D.2d 906, 212 N.Y.S.2d 998, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12702 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961).

An instrument notifying a war veteran civil service employee of the termination of his services and giving him the right to make a reply to charges stated therein within five days indicates a pre-judgment inconsistent with the spirit of this section which requires a fair hearing or trial and a dismissal pursuant to such a notice will be set aside. Resler v Malone, 52 N.Y.S.2d 457, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2736 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

A civil service employee who is neither a veteran nor volunteer fireman is not entitled to a hearing or to confront or cross examine witnesses against him. Elwood v Department of Mental Hygiene, 72 N.Y.S.2d 648, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2830 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

154. Volunteer firemen

The board of fire and police commissioners should not be allowed to so construe this section as to permit it to summarily discharge relator, without a hearing, from his office in the police department, while he has in his possession an honorable discharge from the fire department of the city signed by said board and recommended by the chief engineer of the fire department. People ex rel. Conley v Beach, 203 N.Y. 620, 97 N.E. 39, 203 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 620, 1911 N.Y. LEXIS 1502 (N.Y. 1911).

Where a veteran volunteer fireman has been appointed to the position of chief probation officer of the court of special sessions in Yonkers, as said position is classified in the competitive class by the municipal commission with the approval of the mayor and of the state commission, said probation officer cannot be removed without charges and without a hearing at the pleasure of the city judge under this law. People ex rel. Garrity v Walsh, 181 A.D. 118, 168 N.Y.S. 440, 1917 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9144 (N.Y. App. Div. 1917).

A laborer appointed by the board of supervisors of Rensselaer county as a bridge tender is in classified civil service, and, being an exempt volunteer fireman, is entitled to the protection of this section. Stowe v Board of Sup'rs, 236 A.D. 212, 259 N.Y.S. 503, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5936 (N.Y. App. Div.), rev'd, 260 N.Y. 662, 184 N.E. 136, 260 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 662, 1932 N.Y. LEXIS 858 (N.Y. 1932).

Volunteer fireman qualifies for exemptions. Brown v Stephan, 245 A.D. 588, 283 N.Y.S. 31, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10363 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

A civil service employee, an exempt volunteer fireman, who was a clerk in the county treasurer's office, was held not within the protection of this section. Penny v Kirk, 260 A.D. 886, 22 N.Y.S.2d 996, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5227 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Petitioner was reinstated to the position of Principal Park Superintendent and should not have been dismissed from employment except for incompetency or misconduct found after a hearing where evidence showed that he secured a certificate after his dismissal that he was an exempt volunteer fireman and the affidavits of the fire company's officers past and present left no room for triable issue of fact as to whether he was honorably discharged or whether he was not in good standing at the time he applied for his certificate. Badman v Falk, 4 A.D.2d 149, 163 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5112 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1957), aff'd, 4 N.Y.2d 839, 173 N.Y.S.2d 813, 150 N.E.2d 240, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1080 (N.Y. 1958).

Chapter 299 of the Laws of 1961 abrogates any rights which a previously exempt volunteer fireman previously had under this section to hold a position as civil defense safety representative with the status of permanent employee. Steger v Farrell, 22 A.D.2d 729, 253 N.Y.S.2d 181, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2994 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1964), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 994, 260 N.Y.S.2d 13, 207 N.E.2d 608, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1457 (N.Y. 1965).

Volunteer firefighters were denied due process in connection with charges that they improperly conducted live-burn training exercise where charges did not specify rule, regulation, bylaw, or policy that they allegedly breached. Ritz v Board of Fire Comm'rs, 212 A.D.2d 949, 622 N.Y.S.2d 830, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2117 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Court dismissed Article 78 petition by volunteer firefighter who was found guilty of misconduct and suspended for one year based on his refusal to participate in sexual harassment training provided by fire district, where he conceded that he was aware of training requirement and district's position that training was mandatory for all firefighters, but he maintained that he was not made aware of district's formal adoption of special rule or regulation which mandated training; record provided rational basis for respondent's determination that mandatory sexual harassment training had been established by district rule or regulation and that petitioner knowingly violated such requirement, and penalty imposed was not disproportionate to offense. Crawford v Jonesville Bd. of Fire Comm'rs, 229 A.D.2d 773, 645 N.Y.S.2d 586, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7866 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Under this section a veteran volunteer fireman has the right to a hearing before removal, but, upon completion of the work he was employed to do, he may be dismissed. Cottam v New York, 131 N.Y.S. 617, 74 Misc. 67, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 589 (N.Y. App. Term 1911).

An exempt volunteer fireman who was temporarily employed as a fireman and later as an assistant engineer in the power plant of the court-house building, a position in competitive class of classified service, before an eligible list was made, is not entitled to protection of this section and may be displaced by appointment of another from an eligible list thereafter furnished. Faulkner v Board of Sup'rs, 131 N.Y.S. 998, 74 Misc. 502, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 687 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

This section protects an exempt fireman against removal without cause from the office of the commissioner of public safety of a municipality. People ex rel. Kennedy v Foley, 172 N.Y.S. 279, 104 Misc. 684, 1918 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 893 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1918).

An appointee to the position of special police officer in the town of Gates without examination does not gain the benefits of this section by virtue of being an exempt fireman since this section is applicable only if the appointment is made in conformity with § 6 of Art. V of the Constitution. Ver Weire v Finch, 93 N.Y.S.2d 743, 198 Misc. 424, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2986 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

A shop foreman employed in the Conservation Department garage should not have been discharged where he was a volunteer fireman, not engaged as a temporary or provisional employee and was removed for reasons other than incompetency or misconduct. Berry v Conservation Dep't, 11 Misc. 2d 686, 175 N.Y.S.2d 198, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1887 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

Fire district board's failure to provide exempt volunteer firemen with pre-termination hearing constitutes deprivation of property interest without due process of law guaranteed by Fourteenth Amendment; however, fire district board is subject to liability only from date of termination to date decision was handed down in firemen's state court actions brought pursuant to CLS CPLR Article 78, as such proceeding provided firemen with requirements of due process. Leonardi v Board of Fire Comm'rs, 643 F. Supp. 610, 1986 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20291 (E.D.N.Y. 1986).

155. —Recordation requirement

Petitioner should not have been discharged from his civil service job where no charges were filed against him and he was not accorded a hearing, since there is no mandate in the statute that requires a civil service employee to record a certificate of exemption as a volunteer fireman as a prerequisite for his protection against removal under this section. Stark v McHugh, 4

A.D.2d 738, 164 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5154 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 4 A.D.2d 843, 168 N.Y.S.2d 929, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4607 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1957), app. denied, 4 N.Y.2d 676, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1423 (N.Y. 1958).

156. —Time of service

Summary dismissal of a laborer in the light department of the village of Solvay, was illegal, under this section, and he is entitled to be reinstated, where it appears that he was a member of the volunteer fire department of the village of Solvay from 1895 to 1905, and has received from the village an exemption certificate based on five years' service, as provided by § 209 of the Village Law of 1897. Pettit v Boyle, 223 N.Y.S. 521, 129 Misc. 873, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1339 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

This section applies to the janitor of a building owned by a village, who has served the term required by law in the volunteer fire department of a village. Goold v Vosburg, 273 N.Y.S. 918, 152 Misc. 599, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1587 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1934), aff'd, 243 A.D. 679, 277 N.Y.S. 932, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7624 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

An exempt volunteer fireman who has been annually appointed chief of police for a one year term for seventeen consecutive years may not be removed without a hearing even though in accordance with the village charter each appointment was made "during the pleasure of the board." Dickinson v Monroe, 44 N.Y.S.2d 86, 180 Misc. 714, 1943 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2392 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1943).

V. Sanctions

A. Generally

A hearing officer's failure to include recommendations as to discipline when preparing his or her report after a disciplinary hearing pursuant to Civil S Law § 75(2) does not strip the subject agency of jurisdiction to impose sanctions upon its employee, since the failure to recommend discipline is important only to the extent that it omits a suggested starting point from which the removing entity may begin to fashion the appropriate sanction, and since, though a disciplinary proceeding will be voided and the status quo ante restored when there has been some error that has tainted the entire proceeding, such situation simply does not arise when a hearing officer acts pursuant to a valid delegation, prepares a detailed report, and provides such report along with a transcript to the removing board or officer but omits to include recommendations as to discipline. Wiggins v Board of Education, 60 N.Y.2d 385, 469 N.Y.S.2d 652, 457 N.E.2d 758, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3457 (N.Y. 1983).

The refusal of a sheriff to remit a deputy's 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay in connection with the disposition of disciplinary proceedings against the deputy in which he was found guilty of misconduct and reprimanded, could be considered a penalty or punishment within Civil Service Law § 76(1) for which judicial review could be sought. Civil Service Law § 75(3), permitting a 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay, also provides that upon a finding of guilt a post-hearing penalty or punishment may include a suspension without pay, and the time during which an officer or employee had previously been suspended without pay could be considered as part of the penalty. Sinnott v Finnerty, 65 N.Y.2d 780, 492 N.Y.S.2d 945, 482 N.E.2d 563, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16192 (N.Y. 1985).

Disciplinary determinations by police commissioner are entitled to substantial deference because commissioner, and not courts, is accountable to public for integrity of police department. Trotta v Ward, 77 N.Y.2d 827, 566 N.Y.S.2d 199, 567 N.E.2d 241, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 70 (N.Y. 1991).

Where a correctional officer was found guilty of certain misconduct that involved his being intoxicated while in possession of a loaded pistol, the penalty imposed by the sheriff, dismissal from employment, was so disproportionate to his misconduct in light of all the circumstances, including the fact that the officer never displayed the weapon and that it was never a factor in the incident, as to shock one's sense of fairness; thus the penalty of dismissal would be reversed. Fox v Finnerty, 96 A.D.2d 905, 466 N.Y.S.2d 83, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19516 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 60 N.Y.2d 860, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 6534 (N.Y. 1983), rev'd, 62 N.Y.2d 796, 477 N.Y.S.2d 324, 465 N.E.2d 1259, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4372 (N.Y. 1984).

Demotion in rank was proper penalty for city employee who wrongfully appropriated property of city Christmas Bureau to himself and to third parties who were not intended recipients thereof. Schmidt v Ryan, 133 A.D.2d 536, 519 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50024 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987).

Penalty imposed on police officer who failed to safeguard her revolver was not so disproportionate to offense as to shock one's sense of fairness where officer was suspended without pay and benefits for 3 years, and was required to be on disciplinary probation for one year on reinstatement. Rinando v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 303, 552 N.Y.S.2d 581, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2679 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 709, 561 N.Y.S.2d 913, 563 N.E.2d 284, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3281 (N.Y. 1990).

Formal reprimand placed in school custodian's personnel file was disciplinary reprimand within meaning of CLS Civ S § 75, not mere warning, and thus court would annul school district's determination to reprimand custodian without statutory due process protections, where (1) reprimand referred to investigation of serious charge, findings of fact, and ultimate decision that custodian should be reprimanded for misconduct, and (2) reprimand also stated that matter would be resolved by placement of formal reprimand in file. Civil Serv. Employees Ass'n v Southold Union Free Sch. Dist., 204 A.D.2d 445, 611 N.Y.S.2d 895, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4757 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

County sheriff should be disqualified from determining appropriate penalty following imposition of excessive punishment on correction officer where sheriff had been involved in bringing charges against officer. Stapleton v LaPaglia, 207 A.D.2d 945, 616 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8949 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Penalty of probationary dismissal was appropriate where police officer was absent without leave for her scheduled tour of duty, she failed to perform her assigned duties despite several directives, and she engaged in verbal altercation and was discourteous to superior officer. Police officer's termination within probationary period was validly premised on misconduct predating commencement of probationary period. Garrett v Safir, 253 A.D.2d 700, 677 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9695 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 489, 707 N.E.2d 444, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4330 (N.Y. 1998).

Substantial evidence, including primarily testimony of complainant and his wife, supported findings that first officer used excessive force in arresting complainant and that second officer addressed complainant inappropriately during same arrest. Nicastro v Safir, 266 A.D.2d 167, 698 N.Y.S.2d 481, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12357 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Penalty of 10-day loss of vacation time was not disproportionate to offense where police officer used excessive force to effect arrest. Nicastro v Safir, 266 A.D.2d 167, 698 N.Y.S.2d 481, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12357 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Penalty of 15-day loss of vacation time was not disproportionate to offense where police officer, while participating in arrest made with excessive force, addressed arrestee inappropriately. Nicastro v Safir, 266 A.D.2d 167, 698 N.Y.S.2d 481, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12357 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Forfeiture of 15 vacation days was appropriate sanction for police officer's discourteous behavior toward police sergeant. Sanders v Safir, 284 A.D.2d 163, 726 N.Y.S.2d 844, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6148 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

There was no violation of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) where: (1) the police chief delegated the authority to conduct a hearing on disciplinary charges against a police officer; (2) the hearing transcript and the hearing officer's recommendations were forwarded to the chief for his review; and (3) there was no clear revelation that the chief made no independent appraisal and reached no independent conclusion. Pignato v City of Rochester, 288 A.D.2d 825, 732 N.Y.S.2d 302, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10518 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001), app. dismissed, 97 N.Y.2d 725, 740 N.Y.S.2d 696, 767 N.E.2d 153, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 219 (N.Y. 2002), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 604, 746 N.Y.S.2d 278, 773 N.E.2d 1016, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1492 (N.Y. 2002).

The Civil Service Law confers on an employee a vested right in his position of which he cannot be deprived except in conformity with its provisions, but the statute gives no one a vested interest in an office which he cannot fill with competency, dignity or humanity. Insley v Shanahan, 17 N.Y.S.2d 25, 173 Misc. 33, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1380 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

Civil Service Law § 75, subd 4 does not require a conviction on the acts of misconduct charged to the officer to make the exception operative. Dati v Gallagher, 68 Misc. 2d 692, 327 N.Y.S.2d 472, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 999 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

Disciplinary proceedings initiated pursuant to section 75 of the Civil Service Law and section 155 of the Town Law are administrative in nature carrying the loss of employment as their harshest sanction, and are not the type of proceedings upon which an action for malicious prosecution can be based, since such an action requires a proceeding before a court or a Judge that is either a civil action that interferes with one's property or person by way of a provisional remedy, or a criminal action containing the threat of incarceration. Groat v Town Board of Glenville, 100 Misc. 2d 326, 418 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2461 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

The salary of a police officer who is a permanent civil service appointee may not be suspended without an evidentiary hearing on the ground of the officer's failure to report for regular duty after he has been certified as physically able to work, pursuant to Gen Mun Law § 207-c, following a period of disability. Goglia v Sardino, 119 Misc. 2d 907, 464 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3613 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983), aff'd, 101 A.D.2d 1013, 476 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18744 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1984).

Discharged worker's N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 action challenging the trial court's denial of a motion seeking back wages and benefits was granted, and the worker was granted back wages for the periods of time which the worker was eligible for such wages pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(3). Trahan v Jefferson County Dep't of Soc. Servs., 2 A.D.3d 1309, 768 N.Y.S.2d 893, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14169 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2003).

Public employee does not have property right under CLS Civ S § 75 with respect to discretionary benefits such as preference as to when she can take her vacation time, her preference as to what holidays she can take, her assignment to steady tour and post, and access to voluntary overtime. McNill v New York City Dep't of Correction, 950 F. Supp. 564, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17739 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

158. Admissions; self-incriminating statements

Corrections officer was entitled to reinstatement where he was discharged for his self-incriminating testimony at trial of suspected murderer after Correction Department officials had agreed to impose certain limited disciplinary measures not involving loss of employment if he testified fully; although officer may have deserved more severe penalties for his egregious conduct, department officials were bound, as state agents, to fulfill their promises. Rahilly v Coughlin, 134 A.D.2d 353, 520 N.Y.S.2d 831, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50532 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 616, 526 N.Y.S.2d 437, 521 N.E.2d 444, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 174 (N.Y. 1988).

Twenty-day suspension without pay and demotion of building maintenance foreman for using employer's vehicles for his own personal purposes was not disproportionate to offense, although foreman had 20-year employment record without prior disciplinary action, other employees used such vehicles for personal purposes, and no rule or regulation specifically proscribed what he had done, where foreman admitted in statement made to sheriff that he knew he was not authorized to take vehicles off of employer's premises. Howland v Schuyler-Chemung-Tioga Bd. of Coop. Educational Services, 179 A.D.2d 955, 578 N.Y.S.2d 723, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 894 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 756, 588 N.Y.S.2d 825, 602 N.E.2d 233, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3188 (N.Y. 1992).

Discharge of probationary correction officer was rationally based, despite officer's conclusory allegations that her discharge was based on sex discrimination, and regardless of whether she was in fact engaged in improper personal relationship with inmate, where she admitted that she was away from her post in violation of department rules and regulations when she went to unauthorized section of prison in order to visit with inmate. Medina v Sielaff, 182 A.D.2d 424, 582 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5643 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Dismissal from employment with county vocational education agency was justified where employee admitted that she met with client to conduct mortgage business on agency property and on agency time, and 2 coworkers testified that she typed mortgage documents on agency property during agency time. Ficken v Vocational Educ. & Extension Bd., 238 A.D.2d 589, 656 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4424 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 809, 664 N.Y.S.2d 270, 686 N.E.2d 1365, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3183 (N.Y. 1997).

159. Article 78 proceedings

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a fireman to review his demotion after being found guilty of having knowingly submitting false reports and neglect of duty, the City Fire Commissioner acted in excess of his authority when he imposed a penalty authorized by Civ S Law § 75 but not by the city's administrative code. Wein v New York, 56 N.Y.2d 758, 452 N.Y.S.2d 16, 437 N.E.2d 275, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3407 (N.Y. 1982).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a laundry worker who was employed by the county and who was suspended for taking an unauthorized leave of absence, reimbursement of back pay and benefits was properly denied where the worker was not acquitted of the charges against him. Hernandez v County of Sullivan, 87 A.D.2d 702, 448 N.Y.S.2d 858, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16037 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 56 N.Y.2d 652, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 5806 (N.Y. 1982).

In an Article 78 proceeding challenging the dismissal of petitioner from the police department, the penalty imposed would be vacated and the matter remitted for the imposition of a new penalty since the penalty of dismissal had been so disproportionate to the offenses as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, and since the trial commissioner had incorrectly believed that he was bound to impose one of the limited penalties listed in the city's charter rather than in the general state statute that took precedence over the inconsistent local charter. Dillon v City Manager of Yonkers, 87 A.D.2d 890, 449 N.Y.S.2d 530, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review the dismissal of an employee of a county social services department, the employee would be entitled to full reimbursement of salary and benefits for the period of time between the initial annulment of the determination of dismissal and the subsequent redetermination of dismissal where the employee had been suspended without pay for 30 days prior to the initial determination of dismissal, and where he should have been reinstated to his position after annulment of the initial determination inasmuch as he had not been legally determined to have been guilty of misconduct until the matter had been remitted and a redetermination made, despite the fact that dismissal had been proper in view of the employee's fight with a coemployee in front of patients in the department's infirmary. Ortiz v Lesser, 88 A.D.2d 1105, 453 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17519 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review the suspension and demotion of a psychiatric aide on finding of misconduct, the penalty imposed would be either suspension or demotion, but not both, where Civ S Law § 75(3) indicated an alternative of penalties by the use of the word "or." Brabham v Weinstein, 89 A.D.2d 566, 452 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17620 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

An Article 78 proceeding brought by a police officer to challenge a police commissioner's determination that had required the officer to forfeit six days' vacation pay due to his unjustified violation of a reasonable order would be dismissed where the evidence showed that the officer, due to his knowledge of English and Spanish, had been instructed to report to the detective room to aid in a homicide investigation by interpreting at the interview of a Spanish-speaking witness, that the officer had failed to do so and had failed to notify his superior officer that he had not done so, that the officer had previously interpreted on approximately 40 ocassions in police situations, and that the officer's motivation in failing to obey the order had apparently been based upon his desire to be compensated or to be recognized with a detective designation for what he felt was a special skill, and where the penalty imposed upon the officer for his acts was not so disproportionate to the offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Yanis v McGuire, 98 A.D.2d 669, 469 N.Y.S.2d 736, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20961 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1983), aff'd, 62 N.Y.2d 723, 476 N.Y.S.2d 828, 465 N.E.2d 367, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4325 (N.Y. 1984).

Although a petitioner in an Article 78 proceeding was entitled under Civ S Law § 75(3) to back pay for the period in excess of the initial 30 days after his suspension, he could only recover wages to the extent that any delay beyond the 30-day period was not attributable to him. Thus, where petitioner's attorney sought a more than one month adjournment of the disciplinary hearing after petitioner was suspended from duty without pay, petitioner could not be recompensed for the delay which he caused. Valerio v Scannell, 105 A.D.2d 791, 481 N.Y.S.2d 733, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20911 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

In Article 78 proceeding to review determination that petitioner committed misconduct while employed by city, court would vacate penalties imposed and would remit for further proceedings where multiple penalties were imposed on petitioner in violation of CLS Civ S § 75(3), which provided for choice of penalties and thus prohibited imposition of restitution and demotion in addition to suspension without pay. Matteson v Oswego, 186 A.D.2d 1017, 588 N.Y.S.2d 472, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11569 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Petitioner in Article 78 proceeding, who was suspended without pay from his position as village police officer retroactive to August 28, 1992 following his indictment on criminal charges, was entitled to recover his full salary and benefits retroactive to September 29, 1992 and until determination of charges against him, since respondents could not suspend his pay for more than 30 days pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75(3) and CLS Vill § 8-804; fact that evidence necessary for final disposition of disciplinary charges was in exclusive control of district attorney was not relevant, nor was it relevant that petitioner requested extension of time to answer charges against him, since respondents had burden of scheduling hearing. Conde v Aiello, 204 A.D.2d 1029, 613 N.Y.S.2d 94, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6857 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

School district's discharge of custodian was so disproportionate to his offenses as to shock one's sense of fairness, and penalty would be reduced to suspension for one year, where (1) custodian's 3 offenses were failing to clean his assigned rooms adequately, sweeping orange peels from side of cafeteria for which he was responsible to side for which coworker was responsible, and leaving work 20 minutes early, (2) each offense involved single occurrence on separate date, and (3) custodian was 12-year employee of district. Brown v Murphy, 275 A.D.2d 931, 713 N.Y.S.2d 798, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9579 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Termination of certified occupational therapy assistant's employment with multicounty cooperative educational services board was not so disproportionate to her offenses as to shock one's sense of fairness where she abused her sick and personal leave several times in violation of employer-employee professional agreement, and she submitted false claim for reimbursement. Knight v Board of Coop. Educ. Servs., 275 A.D.2d 1038, 714 N.Y.S.2d 166, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9540 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2000).

Penalties of suspension without pay for 15 days and forfeiture of 25 vacation days did not shock Appellate Division's sense of justice where police officer was found guilty of 3 counts of improper searches, one count of failing to give his shield number when requested to do so, and one count of use of excessive force. Schaefer v Safir, 281 A.D.2d 163, 721 N.Y.S.2d 231, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1924 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Penalty of dismissal of 14-year employee from his position as Supervisor II with city's Administration for Children's Services did not shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness where employee had committed repeated acts of insubordination and disrespectful behavior over period of more than one year, including incident that occurred after employee was already under first set of disciplinary charges. Martinez v City of New York, 281 A.D.2d 187, 721 N.Y.S.2d 235, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2196 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Penalty of dismissal of Supervisor of Housing Caretakers by city housing authority did not shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness where supervisor possessed and used illicit drugs and knowingly allowed her son to use apartment, leased to her by authority, to sell drugs. Fuller v N.Y. City Hous. Auth., 281 A.D.2d 231, 721 N.Y.S.2d 768, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2439 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

While substantial evidence under N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 7803(4) supported a finding that petitioner committed misconduct in her position as a teacher's aide pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, petitioner was improperly terminated from her position as that sanction was disproportionate to her misconduct Matter of DeStefano v Board of Coop. Educ. Servs. of Nassau County, 50 A.D.3d 898, 857 N.Y.S.2d 174, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3422 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Because a hearing officer was properly appointed by a village board of trustees in executive session to investigate a N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) disciplinary matter against a police chief, because the none of the board's actions taken violated N.Y. Pub. Off. Law art. 7, and because there was substantial evidence supporting the hearing officer's report and recommendations, the chief was not entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of Perryman v Saranac Lake, 64 A.D.3d 830, 881 N.Y.S.2d 693, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5362 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

160. Burden of proof

The trial court improperly granted respondent's petition seeking reinstatement to the position of police sergeant after respondent's probationary appointment was revoked, where at the time the Police Department revoked respondent's appointment, it had ample reasonable grounds to believe that respondent was engaged in unauthorized and prohibited employment, had lied at an interview when he was advised of the investigation against him, and had conducted himself in an unprofessional manner by shouting an obscenity in front of the Internal Affairs Division building while on duty, and thus respondent failed to bear the burden of showing that the demotion was made in bad faith. Rainey v McGuire, 111 A.D.2d 616, 490 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49882 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985).

Plaintiff's first and second causes of action, which alleged that his due process rights were violated when he was terminated from his position as fire chief based upon a quantum of proof lower than preponderance of the evidence, was barred by collateral estoppel. While plaintiff's "property interest" in the fire chief position was not expressly discussed by the state court in the Article 78 proceeding, it plainly held that the substantial evidence standard applied to any decision to terminate his employment under New York Civil Service Law. Marentette v City of Canandaigua, 351 F. Supp. 3d 410, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3383 (W.D.N.Y. 2019), app. dismissed, 799 Fed. Appx. 48, 2020 U.S. App. LEXIS 3328 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2020).

All three of the U.S. Supreme Court's Matthews factors favored the application of a substantial evidence standard of proof rather than a preponderance of the evidence standard at a pre-termination hearing under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 where, while the loss of a protected position of public employment implicated a property interest, any such deprivation did not rise to the level, in and of itself, of impacting a protected liberty interest; the pre-termination hearing was not intended to be the final adjudication on the merits; and the government clearly had an interest in quickly removing from service an unsatisfactory employee. Marentette v City of Canandaigua, 351 F. Supp. 3d 410, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3383 (W.D.N.Y. 2019), app. dismissed, 799 Fed. Appx. 48, 2020 U.S. App. LEXIS 3328 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2020).

161. Collective bargaining agreement

Appellate court properly affirmed the trial court's finding that police discipline could not be a subject of collective bargaining under the Taylor Law when the legislature had expressly committed disciplinary authority over a police department, as was true in the present cases involving the city and the city police officers' union, and the town and the town police officers' union; while statutory law expressed a strong presumption that the terms and conditions of employment were subject to mandatory bargaining, that presumption could be overcome by evidence that the legislature had given local officials the authority to discipline police, and, in each case, the evidence showed that the local officials had expressly been given such authority. Matter of Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. of City of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Pub. Empl. Relations Bd., 6 N.Y.3d 563, 815 N.Y.S.2d 1, 848 N.E.2d 448, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 584 (N.Y. 2006).

New York State Public Employment Relations Board erred in finding a city's improper employer practice for adopting police disciplinary procedures other than those in a collective bargaining agreement with police officers because (1) the more general N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law art. 14, on public employees' collective bargaining, was superseded by the more specific N.Y. Second Class Cities Law §§ 131 and 133, providing detailed police discipline procedures, so police discipline was not a collective bargaining subject, and (2) N.Y. Second Class Cities Law § 4's supersession clause showed no legislative intent for that Law to expire. Matter of City of Schenectady v New York State Pub. Empl. Relations Bd., 30 N.Y.3d 109, 86 N.E.3d 536, 64 N.Y.S.3d 644, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3074 (N.Y. 2017).

Court would affirm determination finding petitioner guilty of misconduct and terminating him from his employment with New York City Transit Authority (TA), but matter would be remanded for computation as to amount of back pay owed to petitioner for approximate 18-month period while he was suspended without pay prior to his dismissal, less 30 days authorized under CLS Civ S § 75(3) and any periods of delay attributable to him; existence of "substitute disciplinary procedure" in collective bargaining agreement between Transit Workers Union and TA, which petitioner was required to follow until he was permitted to elect hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, did not serve to forestall TA's obligation as to back pay, since collective bargaining agreement contained no provision relating to that obligation. Kemp v Gunn, 143 A.D.2d 915, 533 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10288 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Provisions of CLS Vill § 8-804, limiting suspension of disciplined police officer to 20 days, did not apply where agreement executed by officer's union representative and village required that disciplinary action be administered under CLS Civ S § 75, allowing for 30-day suspension without pay pending hearing and determination of charges, and permitting suspension without pay for period not exceeding 2 months if such officer was found guilty of charges. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 235 A.D.2d 698, 652 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Where petitioners were indicted for an alleged ticket-fixing scheme, the trial court erred by granting petitioners a preliminary injunction enjoining the city from denying or revoking release time pending resolution of arbitration proceedings as they failed to make the requisite showing of a likelihood of success on the merits on their claim that the sanction violated the collective bargaining agreement. An executive order required all employees on leave conduct themselves in a responsible manner, and the only reasonable inference was that there were consequences for non-compliance. Matter of Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. of the City of New York, Inc. v City of New York, 119 A.D.3d 1, 987 N.Y.S.2d 308, 2014 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3405 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2014), rev'd, 26 N.Y.3d 1044, 43 N.E.3d 765, 22 N.Y.S.3d 408, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 3551 (N.Y. 2015), in part, 25 N.Y.3d 982, 31 N.E.3d 591, 9 N.Y.S.3d 175, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 970 (N.Y. 2015).

A city transit employee would not be entitled to back wages for the period of suspension he incurred for electing a hearing pursuant to Civ S Law § 75 to review a determination terminating his employment following a bargaining agreement disciplinary proceedings during which he also was suspended without pay, where the employee was a union member and was bound by a provision of a collective bargaining agreement that permitted the suspension period provided for by § 75 to be imposed upon an employee who was the subject of a disciplinary action in addition to the suspension period provided for by the agreement when the employee sought review under § 75 of the results of a disciplinary action conducted in accordance with the agreement, where § 75 was silent as to the relation of its own suspension provisions on any independent and prior suspension provided for by collective bargaining agreements, and where the union was free to bargain away certain statutory rights in disciplinary actions and the members of the union were bound by the terms of any such agreement. Ferro v New York City Transit Authority, 121 Misc. 2d 716, 468 N.Y.S.2d 812, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3988 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1983).

162. Dual penalties

Civil Service Law § 75(3) provides choice of penalties: reprimand, fine, suspension without pay, demotion in grade and title, or dismissal from service, and thus, prohibits imposition of dual penalties such as reprimand as well as suspension without pay. Sinnott v Finnerty, 113 A.D.2d 836, 493 N.Y.S.2d 504, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52479 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

163. Duplicative charges

Two charges against fireman for disobeying orders and violating his oath of office, covering identical conduct, were duplicative and, upon remittal for new penalty determination, fireman would not be subject to enhanced punishment because he was separately charged for same offense. Donofrio v Spinnato, 144 A.D.2d 672, 534 N.Y.S.2d 705, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12436 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

164. Effect of money received from other sources

Police officer, who was dismissed from his position for attempting to fix traffic ticket, was entitled to back pay for period of his second suspension, less any earnings he might have received from other sources during period. Cohen v Bratton, 232 A.D.2d 304, 648 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10579 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

165. —Disability benefits

Correction officer's entitlement to disability benefits under CLS Gen Mun § 207-c prior to her termination constituted property right protected by constitutional guarantees of due process and could not be summarily discontinued or suspended without prior evidentiary hearing, notice, and opportunity to be heard, and correction officer was therefore entitled to receive uninterrupted disability benefits pending hearing and final determination of charges of misconduct justifying her termination; however, there was no merit to correction officer's contention that she could not be divested of disability benefits on termination of her employment after disciplinary hearing and determination that she was guilty of misconduct, since disability benefit provisions of CLS Gen Mun § 207-c do not limit sanctions authorized to be imposed in disciplinary proceedings under CLS Civ S § 75. Dacey v County of Dutchess, 121 A.D.2d 536, 503 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 58514 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Police department acted in bad faith by terminating probationary police officer after he suffered permanent injuries in line of duty, thereby frustrating officer's application for disability retirement benefits, despite department's assertion that it was already considering terminating officer due to preexisting knee injury prior to accident, since (1) department continued officer on full active duty, with all risks and hazards incidental to that status, for substantial period of time after department was supposedly concerned about his physical unfitness, (2) officer did not deceitfully withhold any material facts from department on his employment applications, and (3) even after disabling accident, department failed to act on its alleged recommendation to dismiss officer until officer submitted his application for accident disability retirement. Bellman v McGuire, 140 A.D.2d 262, 528 N.Y.S.2d 834, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5591 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

City's failure to inform police officer that his "line-of-duty" injury was so severe that he would be unable to return to full duty status amounted to bad faith termination, since officer was thereby precluded from applying for disability retirement benefits. Connolly v Kelly, 213 A.D.2d 272, 624 N.Y.S.2d 24, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2974 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 702, 631 N.Y.S.2d 606, 655 N.E.2d 703, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 2598 (N.Y. 1995).

166. —Unemployment benefits

Although court properly ordered employer to reinstate petitioner in his job, award of back pay should have been reduced by amount of unemployment insurance benefits received by petitioner. Walker v Roach, 195 A.D.2d 563, 600 N.Y.S.2d 485, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7357 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

167. False statements

In view of strong public policy in favor of effectuating mandate of CLS Pub O § 30(1)(e), automatic termination is not waived by commencement of disciplinary proceedings; thus, city was entitled to summary judgment dismissing action by police officer seeking back pay for period in which disciplinary proceedings were conducted following his conviction of perjury for making false statements in affidavit submitted in support of search warrant application. Lemieux v Niagara Falls, 138 A.D.2d 945, 526 N.Y.S.2d 281, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2752 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 806, 532 N.Y.S.2d 847, 529 N.E.2d 177, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2468 (N.Y. 1988).

Substantial evidence supported city police department's decision that police captain violated its rules by failing to answer truthfully questions posed to him during internal investigation, refusing to cooperate fully in that investigation, and refusing to comply with police chief's orders, including order to provide statement under oath, where (1) during internal investigation of allegations of bribes by police officers to political officials, captain was ordered by police chief to appear and testify under oath, (2) after being interviewed on 2 occasions and being offered immunity from administrative action, captain refused to answer questions under oath, and (3) his statements during interviews denying knowledge of bribery schemes were contradicted by testimony and tape-recorded conversations introduced at CLS Civ S § 75 hearing. Sanction of demoting police captain to lieutenant and discharging him from city police department was not shocking to one's conscience where he violated department's rules by failing to answer truthfully questions posed to him during internal investigation, refusing to cooperate fully in that investigation, and refusing to comply with police chief's orders, including order to provide statement under oath Rotolo v City of N. Tonawanda, 251 A.D.2d 1044, 674 N.Y.S.2d 190, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7118 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

168. Intentional acts

Building inspector who intentionally violates building department's policy of prohibiting use of plastic pipe for certain plumbing uses by informing homeowners, contractors and members of general public that it is legally permissible to install plastic pipe in various buildings has committed misconduct for which penalty of demotion may be imposed. Ehmann v Whalen, 118 A.D.2d 1023, 500 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54818 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 68 N.Y.2d 663, 505 N.Y.S.2d 1027, 496 N.E.2d 240, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19058 (N.Y. 1986), app. denied, 68 N.Y.2d 607, 506 N.Y.S.2d 1032, 498 N.E.2d 433, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20053 (N.Y. 1986).

Penalty of dismissal imposed on city tow operator was not excessive where operator violated agency procedures designed to protect cars and other property, and his actions were found to be purposeful. Orkopoulos v Sandler, 159 A.D.2d 285, 552 N.Y.S.2d 290, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2665 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

169. —Assault

Suspension of public works employee for 75 days without pay was not excessive penalty where evidence supported finding that employee put fellow worker in fear of bodily harm and carried out violent attack on him. Sangiorgi v Hasl, 123 A.D.2d 434, 506 N.Y.S.2d 563, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60191 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

It was neither harsh nor excessive to suspend police officer for 30 days and place him on one-year probation for striking civilian and wrongfully issuing summonses for disorderly conduct and harassment; sanction was extremely lenient compared to penalties meted out for less serious infractions. Flowers v Ward, 138 A.D.2d 242, 525 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2042 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988).

Substantial evidence supported determination of city police commissioner finding police officer guilty of addressing woman in discourteous and disrespectful manner and imposing sanction of written reprimand where (1) officer responded to radio call of man with gun, who was complainant's husband, and found himself thrust into volatile and disorderly situation created by complainant who, screaming and flailing her arms wildly, physically assaulted him on at least 2 separate occasions, (2) complainant also struck and kicked other officers that were present at time, (3) when complainant came back again and slapped officer in face, he pushed her to ground and eventually had to punch her to subdue her, and (4) officer then handcuffed complainant and placed her in patrol car; although officer was injured in incident and was truly victim, it was administrative agency's duty to weigh evidence and court had no choice but to confirm determination. Bravakos v Ward, 146 A.D.2d 504, 537 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 332 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 601, 541 N.Y.S.2d 984, 539 N.E.2d 1112, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. 1989).

Substantial evidence supported dismissal of officer by New York City Transit Police Department for striking civilian; police force is quasi-military organization demanding strict discipline, and great deference is to be accorded determinations regarding internal discipline of members. Hickey v Bratton, 180 A.D.2d 682, 579 N.Y.S.2d 724, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1455 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 756, 588 N.Y.S.2d 824, 602 N.E.2d 232, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3187 (N.Y. 1992).

It was proper to suspend New York City police officer for 12 days for having punched civilian without just cause and using discourteous language. Altreche v Safir, 287 A.D.2d 409, 732 N.Y.S.2d 332, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10182 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

170. —Theft

School district's termination of account clerk for her unauthorized transfer of public monies to herself was not harsh and excessive since clerk held position of trust and district could rationally determine that she was unfit for further employment. Van Gorder v Board of Education, 140 A.D.2d 774, 527 N.Y.S.2d 654, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4670 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Demotion of petitioner from his position of grade IV head cleaner to grade II head cleaner was appropriate sanction for his guilt to charge of theft on job. Secreto v County of Ulster, 228 A.D.2d 932, 644 N.Y.S.2d 439, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7309 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

171. No sanctions in excess of statute

Imposition of a "one-year leave without pay because of an ordinary disability not work related" would be reversed following a disciplinary action under Civ S Law § 75, since this section enumerates the authorized penalties following a determination of guilt and the imposition of a one year's leave without pay is not among them. Hermance v Pritchard, 87 A.D.2d 962, 451 N.Y.S.2d 210, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16493 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Upon remand of civil service disciplinary proceedings for imposition of an appropriate penalty, no penalty in excess of that permitted by Civ S Law § 75 may be imposed. Lee v Board of Education, 120 Misc. 2d 809, 466 N.Y.S.2d 650, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3800 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

School custodian was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief because, absent a directive from the Appellate Division, the school board, school district, and superintendent of schools had no authority on remand to depart from the provisions of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(3) and impose a suspension against the custodian in excess of two months. Matter of James v Hoosick Falls Cent. Sch. Dist., 950 N.Y.S.2d 897, 37 Misc. 3d 635, 2012 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4464 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2012).

172. Notice requirement

After a civil service employee has been found guilty of misconduct, the public employer may consider material included in his employment record in determining an appropriate sanction; however, the employee must first be given notice and an opportunity to submit a written response. Accordingly, the dismissal of a village police officer by the Village Board, after finding the officer guilty of a bad check charge, and after consideration of his employment record without notice to the officer, would be remitted for redetermination of an appropriate sanction after giving the officer prior notice of the adverse employment record material to be considered and an opportunity for a written response. Bigelow v Board of Trustees, 63 N.Y.2d 470, 483 N.Y.S.2d 173, 472 N.E.2d 1001, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4680 (N.Y. 1984).

173. Prior misconduct

In an Article 78 proceeding brought to review a mayor's decision dismissing petitioner from his position with the city's department of public works, the court improperly annulled the mayor's determination and ordered petitioner reinstated to his former position where the record indicated that the penalty of dismissal imposed by the mayor was "fair" in that petitioner had received two prior suspensions without pay and had been warned that any further violations of department policies and work rules would result in his termination. Dismissal is not an excessive penalty where an employee's record reveals a consistent pattern of misconduct. Gunther v Cahill, 90 A.D.2d 995, 456 N.Y.S.2d 908, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19286 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

A police officer was properly disciplined for conduct unbecoming a police officer where the evidence showed that the officer had, on three prior occasions, written derogatory remarks with sexual or ethnic connotations about two fellow police officers on the door of a stall located in the men's room of a precinct. The sanction imposed (a fine of 10 days' pay for each charge and specification of which petitioner was found guilty) was not so disproportionate to the offenses as to shock one's sense of fairness. Meyer v Rozzi, 108 A.D.2d 859, 485 N.Y.S.2d 363, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43187 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Dismissal was appropriate sanction against firefighter who, while on watch and responsible for receiving alarms and alerting other firefighters, failed to answer emergency call and only responded after numerous further attempts were made to contact him, resulting in significant delay in responding to request for assistance to heart attack victim; serious nature of such misconduct and firefighter's prior history of disciplinary violations warranted such sanction. Ross v Bringewatt, 134 A.D.2d 913, 522 N.Y.S.2d 68, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51113 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 801, 527 N.Y.S.2d 767, 522 N.E.2d 1065, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 231 (N.Y. 1988).

Dismissal of police officer was not inappropriate where misconduct charge was third such incident involving officer which impaired good order and efficiency of police department. Smith v Tomlinson, 136 A.D.2d 646, 523 N.Y.S.2d 604, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 428 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 802, 530 N.Y.S.2d 554, 526 N.E.2d 45, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1117 (N.Y. 1988).

Penalty of suspension from position as correction officer for 60 days was not disproportionate to offense where officer filed false report of inmate possessing razor, and he had been found guilty of filing false reports twice before. Winslow v Sielaff, 179 A.D.2d 523, 579 N.Y.S.2d 20, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 496 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Correction corporal's demotion to correction officer was excessive punishment, and lesser penalty should be imposed, even though he was found guilty of sleeping while on duty on 2 occasions, where his supervisor had condoned such conduct. Stapleton v LaPaglia, 207 A.D.2d 945, 616 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8949 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Affirmative action administrator for State Thruway Authority was properly suspended for 30 days without pay on each of 4 separate occasions where second, third, and fourth sets of charges were each based on events that occurred after administrator had returned to work from previous suspension, and employer did not deliberately sever charges for sole purpose of imposing multiple suspensions. Figueroa v New York Thruway Auth., 251 A.D.2d 773, 674 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6780 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

174. Remand for reconsideration

Demotion from relatively high managerial position of warden to non-nmanagerial position of assistant deputy warden was so disproportionate to his conduct as to shock one's sense of fairness, and matter would be remanded for reconsideration of proper penalty, where warden, after questioning policy concerning hospital visits to wounded correction officers, reacted with aggressive defiance to superior's attempt to "correct" his reluctance, twice failed to follow protocol of saluting superior officer, and was evaluated by psychologist as having questionable ability to follow authority. Meehan v Schembri, 251 A.D.2d 200, 675 N.Y.S.2d 858, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7375 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 809, 678 N.Y.S.2d 595, 700 N.E.2d 1231, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 2872 (N.Y. 1998).

Article 78 proceeding by terminated town employee would be remitted for imposition of appropriate penalty not to exceed 6-month suspension without pay, even though employee failed to complete his road plowing route after dinner break during severe snowstorm and lied to his supervisor regarding completion of his duties, where penalty of termination was so disproportionate to misconduct as to shock one's sense of fairness. Johnson v Town of Arcade, 281 A.D.2d 894, 721 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Penalty of termination for school teacher's failure to protect student from harm was so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, and thus case would be remitted for imposition of appropriate penalty not to exceed one-year suspension without pay, where incident was isolated one in teacher's 22 years of service, and she took steps to follow return-to-duty procedures. Will v Frontier Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 281 A.D.2d 902, 722 N.Y.S.2d 201, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2854 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 284 A.D.2d 1018, 730 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. Dismissal of police officer was excessive sanction for improperly issuing summonses for parking violations and for unauthorized use of department scooter where officer's sergeant testified that she never noticed deficiencies in summonses officer wrote, nor did she speak to him as to same, although she spoke to 30 to 40 other officers about their deficiencies, officer's performance evaluation rated him between competent and highly competent, and officer could not have taken scooter without having obtained supervisor's consent Lagala v N.Y. Employee's termination had to be reconsidered because, compared to charges and specifications supported by substantial evidence, termination was so disproportionate to the offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. 175. —Retaliatory discharge defense

Defense of retaliatory discharge under CLS Civ S § 75-b cannot be sustained when public employer has independent basis for action taken. Brey v Board of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 613, 664 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12575 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

School district business manager did not sufficiently prove defense of retaliatory discharge, because district board had independent basis for its action, where manager was guilty of a number of incidents of incompetence and misconduct in form of insubordination. Brey v Board of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 613, 664 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12575 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

176. Settlement; plea bargain

Plea agreement between correction department and correction officer disposing of drug use charges was not void for indefiniteness, even though it did not specify commencement date of one-year probationary period; where time for performance is unstated in agreement, the law supplies missing term and imposes what is reasonable. Nedd v Koehler, 159 A.D.2d 344, 552 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2870 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

In action alleging that defendant employer deprived plaintiff civil service employee of her due compensation by not paying her after her 30-day disciplinary suspension ended, testimony of all 5 witnesses who participated in negotiations (including plaintiff and her attorneys) supported court's finding, after non-jury trial, that plaintiff verbally consented to settlement fully aware of its material terms, including requirement that she would resign her position in exchange for dismissal of disciplinary charges and other inducements; conclusion that parties entered into binding verbal agreement was not precluded by their subsequent failure to execute contemplated written agreement, plaintiff's refusal to tender letter of resignation did not entitle her to renegotiate verbal agreement, and she effectively resigned by never trying to return to work. Winkler v Kingston Hous. Auth., 259 A.D.2d 819, 686 N.Y.S.2d 513, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2108 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

177. Zero tolerance drug policy

County's zero tolerance drug policy for its employees was not arbitrary. Catlin v Orleans County Highway Dep't, 255 A.D.2d 966, 680 N.Y.S.2d 35, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12228 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

B. Grounds For Dismissal

i. Generally

178. In general

A tenured county employee who was dismissed for cause was properly held entitled to her salary between the date of an initial invalid dismissal and a subsequent valid dismissal, since the employer's determination to terminate the employee was supported by substantial evidence and did not constitute a disproportionate penalty, but the employee was not entitled to termination pay, since the collective bargaining agreement between the employer and the employee's union, which was binding on the employee, provided that termination pay would not be awarded if termination of an employee was for cause. Sinicropi v Bennett, 60 N.Y.2d 918, 470 N.Y.S.2d 580, 458 N.E.2d 1257, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3559 (N.Y. 1983).

Section of Town Law providing that "the town engineer . . . whenever appointed, shall hold [his] respective offices until the first day of January next succeeding the first biennial town election held after the time of . . . appointment" is not in conflict with provision of Civil Service Law enumerating sole grounds for dismissal of permanent civil service employees since it is entirely practicable to select appointee after competitive civil service examination whether term of office is for fixed period or for indefinite one. Berg v Gerber, 59 A.D.2d 906, 399 N.Y.S.2d 244, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14109 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Evidence was insufficient to establish that employee obtained position by fraud where letter offering position did not specify any information which would have alerted employee to fact that letter was intended for father, who had same name and did not identify Social Security Number of person for whom it was intended, and employee was reasonable in assuming that he qualified for position as result of having presumptively qualified on other examinations he had previously taken, such that determination finding that employee had assumed position fraudulently was arbitrary and capricious and must be annulled. D'Ornellas v Ortiz, 119 A.D.2d 459, 500 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 55411 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 68 N.Y.2d 805, 506 N.Y.S.2d 868, 498 N.E.2d 432, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20122 (N.Y. 1986), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 694, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1031, 512 N.E.2d 557, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17990 (N.Y. 1987).

Court would annul determination terminating petitioner's employment as city firefighter for violating city charter where other firefighters had engaged in same conduct with city's knowledge, yet petitioner was only person to be prosecuted under charter provision in question. Court would annul determination terminating petitioner's employment as city firefighter for engaging in allegedly proscribed political activity in violation of CLS Gen Mun § 801, CLS Gen City § 3, and unnamed "common-law rules" since (1) it was conceded that literal terms of statutes were not violated, (2) petitioner fell within exception to CLS Gen Mun § 801 provided by CLS Gen Mun § 802, (3) petitioner was appointed as firefighter not by common council, as described in CLS Gen City § 3, but by municipal board of public safety, and (4) there was no satisfactory explanation of what was meant by claim that petitioner violated "common-law rules." Girard v Glens Falls, 173 A.D.2d 113, 577 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

City mayor properly terminated petitioner's employment as city engineer due to petitioner's failure to obtain state engineering license for more than 3 ½ years after his appointment, in violation of sole condition of his employment, especially given mayor's generous allowance of 9-month period to permit petitioner to obtain license after mayor learned that petitioner did not have such license; doctrine of laches did not apply, since establishing and ensuring level of professional competence for city engineer exercising duties is governmental, not propriety, function. Fowler v City of Saratoga Springs, 215 A.D.2d 819, 626 N.Y.S.2d 306, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4799 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Penalty of forfeiture of 10 days' pay was appropriate sanction for petitioner's violation of Regulations of Uniformed Force of Fire Department of City of New York §§ PA/ID 1-77R, 25.1.1, and 25.1.10. Kolanik v Safir, 231 A.D.2d 720, 647 N.Y.S.2d 995, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9684 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

It was appropriate to dismiss police officer for posing nude, using her position, uniform, and police equipment, without authorization, for her personal commercial benefit, and actively promoting commercial product in manner likely to hold department up to public ridicule. Shaya-Castro v New York City Police Dep't, 233 A.D.2d 233, 649 N.Y.S.2d 711, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11992 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Indisputable evidence that probationary police officer failed to meet academic standards required of police recruits proved that his discharge was in good faith where nothing was alleged to justify judicial interference with city personnel department's evaluation of officer's academic performance, despite his allegations that academic standards were revised after he began training and that he should have been held to standards applicable to prior classes for which he claimed to be eligible but to which he was not admitted. Guida v New York City Dep't of Personnel, 238 A.D.2d 170, 672 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3213 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

County's former director of data processing failed to establish that abolition of his position was subterfuge to avoid civil service law where record indicated that county legislature had relied on consultant's reports in finding that expansion of operation was needed and in creating new, noncompetitive position with higher salary, requiring certain qualifications of education and experience and entailing greater responsibilities. Belvey v Tioga County Legislature, 257 A.D.2d 967, 684 N.Y.S.2d 341, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 777 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

It was proper to terminate petitioner from his position with city department of sanitation (DOS), even if DOS employee had promised petitioner reinstatement on his completion of drug treatment program, since such promise was unauthorized and DOS was not bound by it, particularly given petitioner's prior execution and violation of final termination agreement, which agreement was concealed from DOS employee. Carson v New York City Dep't of Sanitation, 271 A.D.2d 380, 707 N.Y.S.2d 93, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4613 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Although school custodian was guilty of misconduct, penalty of dismissal was so disproportionate to his offense as to shock one's sense of fairness where he had received "outstanding" rating in his 7-year service with school district, and his misconduct, although serious, was isolated event; thus, case would be remitted for imposition of less severe penalty. Rapkiewicz v Middle Country Sch. Dist., 273 A.D.2d 392, 711 N.Y.S.2d 326, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7087 (N.Y. Although school custodian was guilty of misconduct, penalty of dismissal was so disproportionate to his offense as to shock one's sense of fairness where he had over 10 years of satisfactory service with school district, and his misconduct, although serious, was isolated event; thus, case would be remitted for imposition of less severe penalty. Tiano v Middle Country Sch. Dist., 273 A.D.2d 396, 710 N.Y.S.2d 923, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7097 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 766, 716 N.Y.S.2d 640, 739 N.E.2d 1145, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 3795 (N.Y. 2000).

Penalty of dismissal from police force was justified where officer associated with criminal, failed to safeguard his weapon, and failed to comply with orders on 5 separate occasions in 8 months. O'Keefe v Safir, 275 A.D.2d 684, 713 N.Y.S.2d 525, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10057 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 716, 730 N.Y.S.2d 31, 754 N.E.2d 1114, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1882 (N.Y. 2001).

Imposition of the sanction of dismissal of a policeman based on charges of the untimely filing of incident reports was an abuse of discretion since it was so disproportionate to the offense as to shock the court's sense of fairness where the incidents underlying the charges were minor, there had been no prior discipline of the policeman during his 25 years of service, his employment record since the initiation of the charges was unblemished, and he did not refuse to complete the reports but simply failed to meet the deadline. Sickler v Town of Hunter, 3 A.D.3d 727, 769 N.Y.S.2d 662, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 307 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

A member of a board of assessment review may be removed from office pursuant to section 36 of the Public Officers Law and section 75 of the Civil Service Law. 4 Op Counsel, SBEA #27.

179. Absences, generally

Dismissal was not excessive punishment for attendant at children's psychiatric hospital who pursuant to a hearing was found guilty of 4 specifications of misconduct which included numerous absences and striking a boy patient. Hayes v Mashikian, 40 A.D.2d 521, 333 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4041 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1972).

Dismissal of municipal employee was warranted where he, while on call list for emergency service, could not be located and when found was in no condition to carry on his duties, and employee had earlier spent time in bar while on regular duty and had been warned that another such offense would bring about discharge. Donovan v Cronin, 46 A.D.2d 976, 362 N.Y.S.2d 43, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3326 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

Since there was no question as to admitted facts pertaining to police officer's nine day absence from duty, there could be no finding that decision of county civil service commission upholding termination of the police officer's employment which had been ordered by the chief of police was either arbitrary or purely arbitrary, even if such a characterization of the decision of the civil service commission would provide the basis for court review of the decision. Schrader v Civil Service Comm'r, 53 A.D.2d 210, 385 N.Y.S.2d 644, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12509 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In proceeding to review determination of town board that employee had absented himself from work, without explanation, for a period in excess of ten working days and was thus deemed to have resigned his position, determination was supported by substantial evidence, despite employee's explanation that he had been absent because he thought he had been fired. Record established that employee had been accorded all procedural and substantive rights guaranteed by Civil Service Law, notwithstanding that charges never used the word "misconduct" as such, since allegations of unauthorized absence from work constituted charges of misconduct. Koch v Bulson, 57 A.D.2d 625, 394 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11638 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

In an Article 78 proceeding challenging the discharge of petitioner from her position as a nurse's aide due to incompetence, the discharge was proper where petitioner was absent over 50 percent of the time for the nine-month period immediately prior to her discharge. Graham v Sands, 87 A.D.2d 912, 449 N.Y.S.2d 353, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16435 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1982).

Dismissal of thruway toll collector was appropriate sanction based on incompetence and misconduct consisting of poor attendance and work performance over 3-year period, failure to provide medical documentation to substantiate absences as requested by thruway authority, and extending his time off without authorization on at least 12 separate occasions. Kieffer v New York State Thruway Authority, 135 A.D.2d 1017, 522 N.Y.S.2d 747, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52895 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Termination of sewer treatment plant operator was properly annulled, notwithstanding fact that he had received 3 warning letters relating to absenteeism, where he had been terminated solely for being absent without leave on December 5-7 but he presented compelling evidence in form of written statements from his physician and hospital attesting to his in-patient care from December 7-10, and he had informed his supervisor of his illness and inability to work on December 4. Gryska v Chemung County Elmira Sewer Dist., 149 A.D.2d 849, 540 N.Y.S.2d 39, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4848 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Summary termination of probationary civil service employee within 3 weeks of his successful completion of employer's alcohol abuse program, based partly on his "unauthorized" absences, was unwarranted since (1) employee was not AWOL when he was absent in order to seek help for his alcoholism problem from employer's Employees' Assistance Unit, and (2) only other instance of his being AWOL was sufficiently disciplined by warning letter and was not sufficient predicate for termination. Kroboth v Sexton, 160 A.D.2d 126, 560 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10157 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Petitioner failed to establish prima facie case of either quid pro quo sexual harassment or harassment based on existence of hostile work environment where her claims were supported only by bald conclusory statements; thus, she was properly terminated by city transit authority for excessive absences, inability to get along with her subordinates and fellow managers, and poor job performance. Watts v New York City Transit Auth., 213 A.D.2d 253, 624 N.Y.S.2d 124, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2796 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

It was abuse of discretion to dismiss heavy equipment operator who voluntarily reported for work on Saturday morning due to snowstorm and then left work within minutes after punching in on learning that he had not been assigned to his normal snow removal duties since he had nearly three decades of service to County which included only one prior incident of misconduct. Lane v County of Fulton, 249 A.D.2d 750, 672 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4114 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Police officer's termination was justified by incident during probationary period in which she was late in relieving another officer of her post. Garrett v Safir, 253 A.D.2d 700, 677 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9695 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 489, 707 N.E.2d 444, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4330 (N.Y. 1998).

Substantial evidence supported misconduct charge against discharged employee of school district where he did not comply with established call-in procedure to report his absences. McKinnon v Board of Educ., 273 A.D.2d 240, 709 N.Y.S.2d 104, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6293 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Substantial evidence supported incompetence charge against discharged employee of school district where his absences were excessive, even though validity of reasons for absences was not contested. McKinnon v Board of Educ., 273 A.D.2d 240, 709 N.Y.S.2d 104, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6293 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Penalty of dismissal of school district employee was not so disproportionate to his misconduct as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where his absences were excessive, and he did not comply with established call-in procedure for reporting them. McKinnon v Board of Educ., 273 A.D.2d 240, 709 N.Y.S.2d 104, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6293 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

180. —Absences "without leave"

The determination of the commissioners of taxes and assessments removing a veteran from his position as deputy commissioner of taxes will be sustained where the employee was admittedly absent without leave and apparently reported for work after indulging in liquor and to some extent under its effect, even though a notice of hearing was "exceedingly short" and the hearing was not entirely confined to the stated charges. Shanley v Miller, 277 N.Y. 704, 14 N.E.2d 635, 277 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 704, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1161 (N.Y. 1938).

An arbitrary and capricious dismissal of a recording clerk in the county clerk's office is a violation of subd. 2, where it appears that the grounds state for dismissal was absence without leave of said recording clerk when said absence was caused by illness and notice of said illness was phoned to the county clerk's office but was not given to him personally because of his absence on personal business. Crowley v Fowler, 217 A.D. 16, 215 N.Y.S. 690, 1926 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7730 (N.Y. App. Div. 1926).

In determining whether city employee, whose "resignation" was "accepted" by city manager on grounds that employee had been absent without leave for period in excess of ten consecutive work days without explanation, notified department that he was unable to work on certain dates due to illness, inquiry into bona fides of employee's "explanation" was neither necessary nor proper. Horne v Scher, 47 A.D.2d 943, 367 N.Y.S.2d 318, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9413 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

Evidence supported finding of misconduct and justified dismissal where Social Services Department employee failed to report to her new assignment and remained absent without leave for more than 10 days, despite personnel officer's warnings that she would be subject to discipline if she did not report to work within 10 days. Collins v Amrhein, 134 A.D.2d 346, 520 N.Y.S.2d 823, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50524 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Correction officer was properly terminated where (1) he agreed to probationary period as part of plea agreement arising from charges based on excessive lateness, absence without leave, and sick leave, as well as other disciplinary problems, and (2) while on probation, officer forgot to attend scheduled appointment at health management division, and instead went to work and worked full tour, and failed to call to reschedule appointment. Tankard v Abate, 213 A.D.2d 320, 624 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3277 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 702, 631 N.Y.S.2d 606, 655 N.E.2d 703, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 2741 (N.Y. 1995).

It was proper to dismiss New York City Transit Authority police officer for failing to report for medical examination on time, failing to take required urinalysis, and failing to report for duty for approximately one month without leave. Morales v New York City Transit Auth., 230 A.D.2d 859, 646 N.Y.S.2d 571, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8544 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

New York City properly terminated petitioner from her employment as Houseparent in Administration for Children's services based on her 3-month absence without leave that was in flagrant violation of City's time and leave rules. Renaud v City of New York, 269 A.D.2d 283, 703 N.Y.S.2d 136, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2016 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Petitioner is not entitled to an order of peremptory mandamus directing the city manager of the city of Niagara Falls to reinstate him to the position of engineer's helper in the bureau of water in the department of public service of said city, where it appears that petitioner absented himself from duty for three days without notice, in violation of a reasonable rule of the department, and that charges against him were reduced to writing, and he was given an opportunity to explain his actions as required by this section. O'Malley v Robbins, 255 N.Y.S. 161, 142 Misc. 305, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1766 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

As the absence of an employee of a city sanitation department had been involuntary based on his arrest and did not constitute misconduct due to his acquittal of the charge, the department commissioner's refusal to reinstate him was tantamount to a discharge unsupported by misconduct in violation of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 16-106; thus, the commissioner's decision to deny reinstatement was arbitrary and capricious. Silberzweig v Doherty, 873 N.Y.S.2d 461, 23 Misc. 3d 618, 241 N.Y.L.J. 50, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 271 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

Because plaintiff was away without leave for more than five working days, and her collective bargaining agreement precluded her employer from initiating proceedings under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 72 (placing her on involuntary medical leave), no reasonable trier of fact could conclude that her employer's decision to charge plaintiff under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 (incompetency or misconduct), instead of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 72 (medical leave), was evidence of the employer's discriminatory intent under the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, 42 U.S.C.S. § 2000e(k). Pellegrino v County of Orange, 313 F. Supp. 2d 303, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6565 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

181. —Disability-related absences

Statute authorizing termination of employment status of employee who has been continuously absent for one year or more by reason of disability did not authorize thruway authority to discontinue employment status of tenured employee whose continuous one-year absence was forced upon him by authority which denied him permission to return to work, although his physician stated that he could return to work, and which refused to conduct a demanded physical examination of employee after unilaterally determining that such examination would be fruitless. Bodnar v New York State Thruway Authority, 52 A.D.2d 345, 383 N.Y.S.2d 923, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12027 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

It was appropriate to terminate petitioner's employment as food service worker where (1) through use of leave accruals, disability leave, and unpaid leave of absence for medical reasons, she was absent continuously for nearly 10 months, and (2) it was undisputed that she failed to comply with notification and documentation requirements of collective bargaining agreement during such period. Abdalla v Fulton County, 208 A.D.2d 1168, 617 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10521 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 804, 626 N.Y.S.2d 755, 650 N.E.2d 414, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 1259 (N.Y. 1995).

Determination terminating petitioner's employment due to her cumulative absences would be annulled where there was no indication exactly when, without counting designated leave under Family and Medical Leave Act (29 USCS § 2601 et seq.), 365-day cumulative leave under CLS Civ S § 71 was reached as to October 29, 1991 work-related injury. Jacobsen v New York State DOL, 274 A.D.2d 809, 711 N.Y.S.2d 61, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8059 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

182. —Intended absences

In an Article 78 proceeding, a library clerk was improperly dismissed from her position in which she had been employed for 18 years, where her dismissal stemmed from isolated conduct involving her failure to call in and report her intended absences from work in a timely fashion on only two occasions, and where the maximum sanction supportable by the record would be a suspension without pay for a period of two weeks. Rathburn v Kinchen, 90 A.D.2d 971, 456 N.Y.S.2d 900, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19248 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

183. —Previous absences

Where relator, a Spanish War veteran, was discharged for failing to appear for duty for several successive days and for failing to notify the office of an alleged illness, and he had been previously warned to report to the office if he were unable to attend, relator was properly dismissed. People ex rel. Lenahan v Griffenhagen, 164 A.D. 180, 149 N.Y.S. 636, 1914 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7740 (N.Y. App. Div. 1914), app. dismissed, 214 N.Y. 652, 108 N.E. 1104, 214 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 652, 1915 N.Y. LEXIS 1345 (N.Y. 1915).

Termination of petitioner's employment as licensed practical nurse at facility operated by Department of Mental Hygiene was not arbitrary and capricious where petitioner had assumed probationary status with regard to her time and attendance as result of settlement of previous disciplinary proceeding, and evidence supported finding by director of facility that her attendance and punctuality were unsatisfactory. Clayton v Dominguez, 134 A.D.2d 345, 520 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50523 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Termination of sewer treatment plant operator was properly annulled, notwithstanding fact that he had received 3 warning letters relating to absenteeism, where he had been terminated solely for being absent without leave on December 5-7 but he presented compelling evidence in form of written statements from his physician and hospital attesting to his in-patient care from December 7-10, and he had informed his supervisor of his illness and inability to work on December 4. Gryska v Chemung County

Elmira Sewer Dist., 149 A.D.2d 849, 540 N.Y.S.2d 39, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4848 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Summary termination of probationary civil service employee within 3 weeks of his successful completion of employer's alcohol abuse program, based partly on his "unauthorized" absences, was unwarranted since (1) employee was not AWOL when he was absent in order to seek help for his alcoholism problem from employer's Employees' Assistance Unit, and (2) only other instance of his being AWOL was sufficiently disciplined by warning letter and was not sufficient predicate for termination. Kroboth v Sexton, 160 A.D.2d 126, 560 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10157 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

New York City Transportation Authority properly dismissed employee who failed to report for duty as directed, failed to report his absence from duty, and submitted false reports in connection with such failures, especially since he had disciplinary history that included prior false report for which he was suspended. Rodriguez v New York City Transit Auth., 247 A.D.2d 250, 668 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1045 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

184. —Sick leave-related absences

Penalty of dismissal imposed on public school custodian was not so disproportionate to charges as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where substantial evidence supported determination that custodian had failed to maintain 2 boilers, misused his sick leave on 2 occasions, and unnecessarily disrupted kindergarten orientation program. Cirillo v Board of Education, 124 A.D.2d 1003, 508 N.Y.S.2d 784, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62333 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1986).

Fact that village employee had used all of his sick days did not, ipso facto, establish that he abused his sick leave; thus, substantial evidence did not support determination that village employee was guilty of misconduct. Auer v Village of Westbury, 202 A.D.2d 1059, 609 N.Y.S.2d 133, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3547 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Police officer's employment with city was properly terminated where, although he was notified on 20 separate occasions that he was prohibited from performing outside work because of his excessive use of sick days, he nevertheless admittedly engaged in outside employment, both before and after his suspension, without receiving permission to do so. Lugo v City of Newburgh, 209 A.D.2d 414, 618 N.Y.S.2d 420, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10939 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

It was improper for employer to find employee guilty of misconduct for altering dates in doctor's certificate submitted to substantiate his use of sick leave where it was undisputed that alteration was made only after consultation with doctor's office, and that employee acted in good-faith belief that alteration was authorized. Town employee was improperly found guilty of misconduct for failing to substantiate his use of sick leave with doctor's certificate where he submitted doctor's certificate stating that he should be excused from work "due to illness in the family," even though sickness in family did not justify use of sick leave. Town employee was properly found guilty of unauthorized absence from his job based on his use of sick leave to care for his sick girlfriend, even if he had never been told that he could not use sick leave to care for his girlfriend, since employer could rationally conclude that such absence was unauthorized given fact that sick leave provisions of parties' collective bargaining agreement contained no reference to use of sick leave to care for others who were sick. Glinka v Town of Poughkeepsie, 209 A.D.2d 773, 618 N.Y.S.2d 131, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10864 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate where probation officer was absent 72 times which had disruptive and burdensome effects on functioning of probation department, and he failed to show that all of his absences were due to illness. Macy v Suffolk County Probation Dep't, 234 A.D.2d 298, 651 N.Y.S.2d 63, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12840 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

New York City Commissioner of Department of Sanitation improperly dismissed petitioner in light of numerous instances cited by administrative law judge in which Commissioner imposed penalties less severe than termination for violations of Department's sick leave policy similar to that for which petitioner was disciplined. Kinlock v Doherty, 256 A.D.2d 93, 681 N.Y.S.2d 264, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13255 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

It was error to annul determination terminating petitioner's employment as bridge and tunnel officer on ground that he was not given notice that his approved absences could ultimately be considered "excessive," and thus misconduct, where Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority's rules clearly stated that "excessive absence ... will be cause for dismissal," governing collective bargaining agreement guaranteed employees only 12 days sick leave per year, termination letter specifically noted serious negative impact petitioner's absences had on budgetary and personnel matters, as well as employee morale, and petitioner's 80 percent absentee rate over 19-month period, albeit approved and medically justified, was excessive under any standard. Cicero v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 264 A.D.2d 334, 694 N.Y.S.2d 51, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8660 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 931, 708 N.Y.S.2d 350, 729 N.E.2d 1149, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. 2000).

185. —Unauthorized absences

The commissioner of the department of public markets, weights and measures of New York city did not sustain the burden of proving misconduct of an inspector in being absent from his position without authorization where employee showed that his leaving his post and remaining away were justified upon the grounds of "Assigned lunch hour" and "Personal necessity." In re Walsh's Estate, 256 A.D. 164, 9 N.Y.S.2d 50, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4667 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

Imposition of penalty of dismissal on car maintainer for New York City Transit Authority would be so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where only sustainable charges against him in 4 years were one official caution and charge of being away from his work station without authorization for approximately 30 minutes. Fiorenza v Gunn, 140 A.D.2d 295, 527 N.Y.S.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4636 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In disciplinary proceeding under CLS Civ S § 75 resulting in finding that city school district worker with permanent civil service status had engaged in various instances of unauthorized tardiness and absence from work, imposition of sanction of dismissal was justified by worker's prior record of similar unauthorized absences and tardinesses, for which he had been warned and suspended. Diehsner v Schenectady City School Dist., 152 A.D.2d 796, 543 N.Y.S.2d 576, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9328 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Penalty of dismissal was not so disproportionate to offense as to shock one's conscience where petitioner absented herself from her duties as parks maintenance crew member for about ½ of work days during 1984, and continuously from November 1984 through February 1985, without having requested or obtained permission. Baugh v Stern, 160 A.D.2d 617, 559 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4679 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 709, 561 N.Y.S.2d 913, 563 N.E.2d 284, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3271 (N.Y. 1990).

Substantial evidence supported city board of education's discharge of purchasing agent where agent had been absent from work without authorization for nearly one year, he failed to tender any acceptable excuse, and he failed to attend hearing or offer any proof, even though he was aware of time and place of hearing. Clarke v New York City Bd. of Educ., 251 A.D.2d 403, 674 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6572 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Substantial evidence supported termination of village motor equipment officer for misconduct and incompetence where he committed criminal offense of driving while intoxicated as felony, drove village-owned vehicles with revoked license, and took unauthorized leave of absence. Hussey v Incorporated Village of Farmingdale, 251 A.D.2d 579, 674 N.Y.S.2d 757, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7519 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Court upheld termination of petitioner's employment in noncompetitive, nontenured position of Houseparent with Administration for Children's Services, where petitioner claimed that it was bad faith for employer to involuntarily transfer her to night shift without giving her reasonable opportunity to arrange for child care, but she did not seek accommodation or invoke hardship provisions of collective bargaining agreement, instead she absented herself from work while she pursued unsuccessful grievance asserting that more junior employees should have been made to work night shift, and her unauthorized absence negated any inference of employer's bad faith. Kennedy v City of New York, 270 A.D.2d 93, 704 N.Y.S.2d 248, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2810 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Substantial evidence supported hearing officer's finding of misconduct by town employee where employee failed to complete his road plowing route after dinner break during severe snowstorm and lied to his supervisor regarding completion of his duties. Johnson v Town of Arcade, 281 A.D.2d 894, 721 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Article 78 proceeding by terminated town employee would be remitted for imposition of appropriate penalty not to exceed 6-month suspension without pay, even though employee failed to complete his road plowing route after dinner break during severe snowstorm and lied to his supervisor regarding completion of his duties, where penalty of termination was so disproportionate to misconduct as to shock one's sense of fairness. Johnson v Town of Arcade, 281 A.D.2d 894, 721 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

186. —Vacation-related absences

Charges that one holding a position in the county clerk's office as supervisor of motor vehicles overstayed his vacation without permission; made errors in scheduling appointments for applicants' tests; left his office and stayed home without permission; was guilty of insubordination; and did not handle his mail efficiently, are sufficiently substantial to justify the removal of the employee from his position. Miller v Kling, 291 N.Y. 65, 50 N.E.2d 546, 291 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 65, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1064 (N.Y. 1943).

187. Attitude problem; conduct toward others

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by an elementary school custodian challenging his dismissal, the dismissal would be appropriate where the custodian, who had been otherwise a satisfactory worker, had a long-standing attitude problem that caused him to be abusive and intimidating to others, where he had interfered with the teaching staff in the performance of their duties, and where the principal had been required to spend substantial time resolving personnel problems arising from the custodian's attitude and conduct. Koch v Webster Cent. School Dist. Bd. of Education, 89 A.D.2d 778, 453 N.Y.S.2d 491, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17892 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 1028, 457 N.Y.S.2d 477, 443 N.E.2d 951, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3859 (N.Y. 1982).

Dismissal was not shockingly unfair in view of village superintendent of public works' rude and abusive conduct toward citizens and fellow employees, his professional incompetence, and his pervasive departure from established village policies (including allowing unlicensed, uninsured minor to drive village-owned truck); individually, charges did not appear serious, but cumulatively they confirmed that superintendent lacked requisite leadership ability. Logan v New Paltz, 129 A.D.2d 935, 514 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45597 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Evidence sustained dismissal of thruway authority supervisor for misconduct where he enlisted aid of his subordinates in plot to trick toll workers into believing that asbestos removal had commenced without appropriate precautions, when in fact it had not yet started, since toll workers were thereby caused to believe that their health was in danger, producing panic and threats by union to pull workers off job, and such conduct caused authority to be placed in position whereby toll lanes would be unmanned. Keith v New York State Thruway Authority, 132 A.D.2d 785, 517 N.Y.S.2d 334, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49293 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Clerk employed by respondent school district was properly found guilty of misconduct on ground that she intentionally harassed and annoyed assistant to superintendent of schools by making numerous annoyance telephone calls to his home during early morning hours without legitimate communication purpose, although there was no direct evidence that she made calls herself, since evidence supported hearing officer's finding that calls emanated from her household and it was reasonable to infer that she made calls herself, or that she consented to another member of her family making them. Schuster v Babylon Union Free School Dist., 138 A.D.2d 608, 526 N.Y.S.2d 191, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3162 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Substantial evidence supported determination of county commissioner of hospitals finding county medical center laundry employee guilty of misconduct where 3 witnesses testified that employee and co-worker were involved in argument over use of particular "hot-head presser," and that employee activated presser, which caused it to descend, preventing co-worker from placing shirt inside machine, thus resulting in burn to arm of co-worker. Torres v County of Westchester, 182 A.D.2d 689, 582 N.Y.S.2d 451, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6018 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Substantial evidence supported a hearing officer's recommendation of termination of employment for a police department electrician who aggressively threatened and used profanity toward a member of the public. McLean v City of Albany, 13 A.D.3d 851, 785 N.Y.S.2d 801, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15293 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004).

188. —Anger mismanagement

Substantial evidence supported determination to suspend police officer without pay for 9 days where, while safeguarding injured prisoner in hospital emergency room, officer wrongfully jeopardized prisoner's health by failing to comply with medical instructions of X-ray technician, engaging in verbal altercation with physician, and unjustifiably grabbing physician's smock. Carmody v Ward, 165 A.D.2d 687, 564 N.Y.S.2d 252, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11039 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

New York City Transit Authority properly dismissed police officer where (1) officer met with his commanding officer to discuss negative evaluation report, (2) during course of discussion, officer became angry and upset and twice threatened to kill commanding officer, and (3) officer then reached for his service revolver and had to be physically restrained and disarmed by several other officers. Moorehead v New York City Transit Auth., 190 A.D.2d 674, 593 N.Y.S.2d 263, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 800 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

School district properly terminated petitioner's employment as part-time school bus driver based on 2 separate, but similar, incidents of overreaction and loss of control when he used physical force against 5- and 12-year-old children. Heslop v Board of Educ., Newfield Cent. Sch. Dist., 191 A.D.2d 875, 594 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2383 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

It was appropriate to dismiss petitioner from his position as senior psychiatric aide for acts including punching and kicking patient. Gonzalez v Carter, 208 A.D.2d 924, 617 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10593 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Termination of sanitation department employee for altercation with civilian was improper where incident was precipitated by civilian's conduct. Hutchinson v Lloyd, 216 A.D.2d 3, 627 N.Y.S.2d 46, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5877 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 710, 635 N.Y.S.2d 947, 659 N.E.2d 770, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4389 (N.Y. 1995).

Dismissal of licensed practical nurse was appropriate sanction stemming from her abuse of 2 patients, one who was mentally retarded and other who suffered from Alzheimer's disease. Marrello v Carter, 226 A.D.2d 911, 640 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3722 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

Police Commissioner's determination that petitioner wrongfully kicked civilian was supported by videotape showing petitioner raising his foot and bringing it forward and back while standing inches from civilian's torso, even though tape did not show petitioner's foot hitting civilian, where motion of petitioner's foot was perceived by administrative law judge as "completely consistent with a kick, and completely inconsistent with a step."

Gatto v Brown, 234 A.D.2d 22, 650 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12254 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

It was proper to dismiss police officer who initiated physical altercation with his captain in course of which officer struck captain several times. Palumbo v New York City Police Dep't, 247 A.D.2d 348, 669 N.Y.S.2d 206, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1848 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

189. Drug test

Penalty of discharge was not excessive where urine samples, taken from firefighter while he was serving 90-day suspension for stealing and cashing paycheck of fellow firefighter, indicated presence of marijuana. Lumsden v New York City Fire Dep't, 134 A.D.2d 595, 522 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50803 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Dismissal of New York City Transit Authority bus driver, based on positive result for marijuana in urine test administered on day following his completion of 30-day drug rehabilitation program, was not supported by substantial evidence and would be annulled where (1) driver testified that he stopped using marijuana immediately after receiving positive result in first drug test on same day he entered drug program, (2) toxicology expert, who supervised transit authority's drug testing program, testified that it was possible for marijuana to remain in urine for considerable length of time which could vary widely from person to person, and (3) there was no evidence of driver's continued use of marijuana other than doubtful results of second test. Hall on behalf of Canty v New York City Transit Authority, 138 A.D.2d 350, 525 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2126 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 810, 534 N.Y.S.2d 938, 531 N.E.2d 658, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2944 (N.Y. 1988).

It was not unduly harsh to dismiss petitioner from his position as bus operator for New York City Transit Authority based on his use of controlled substances without authorization, in violation of authority's regulations. Phifer v Gunn, 143 A.D.2d 992, 533 N.Y.S.2d 898, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10782 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 608, 545 N.Y.S.2d 104, 543 N.E.2d 747, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 2363 (N.Y. 1989).

Correction officer's supervisors were justified in directing him to submit to drug test, and in dismissing him when test result was positive, where (1) officer had tested positive for drug use in past, (2) officer was absent without explanation for 2-hour period, (3) officer could not determine reason for his prisoner miscount or explain why 2 prisoners were not readied for their court appearances, and (4) officer's appearance was disheveled and his behavior was erratic; while supervisors' suspicion was partly based on past drug test which had been declared invalid, exclusionary rule did not preclude such reliance. Gibson v Koehler, 165 A.D.2d 768, 564 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11245 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Petitioner's dismissal from his position as police officer was supported by substantial evidence where (1) petitioner's urine sample tested positive for presence of cocaine and urine test was confirmed by 2 additional test procedures, and (2) there was no support for petitioner's explanation that positive EMIT test results could have been caused by ingestion of cough medication or cocaine dust during drug arrest. Jones v Ward, 166 A.D.2d 323, 560 N.Y.S.2d 781, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12753 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Penalty of dismissal, although severe, was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where highway maintenance equipment operator tested positive for marijuana during county highway department's random drug test, and his duties included operation of heavy equipment in excess of 75,000 pounds in proximity to other employees and general public. Catlin v Orleans County Highway Dep't, 255 A.D.2d 966, 680 N.Y.S.2d 35, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12228 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Dismissal of police officer was properly based on random drug test results showing officer had ingested cocaine. Seeley v City of New York, 269 A.D.2d 205, 702 N.Y.S.2d 299, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1307 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Report from random drug test performed by outside agency, notifying that petitioner tested positive for cocaine, supported determination terminating his employment as city Motor Equipment Operator. Powell v City of Newburgh, 284 A.D.2d 334, 725 N.Y.S.2d 883, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5609 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 720, 733 N.Y.S.2d 372, 759 N.E.2d 371, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3146 (N.Y. 2001).

190. —Refusal to take

Substantial evidence supported administrative determinations dismissing police and correction officers for their refusal to comply with orders to submit to urinalysis in connection with reported drug use where reliable confidential informants had reported officers' past drug use, there was partial verification of such information, and informants reported having seen officers use drugs just prior to urinalysis orders (however, court was not called upon to render opinion as to whether public agency may lawfully order employee to undergo urinalysis on reasonable suspicion of drug use). Perez v Ward, 69 N.Y.2d 840, 514 N.Y.S.2d 703, 507 N.E.2d 296, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15892 (N.Y.), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 985, 516 N.Y.S.2d 1028, 509 N.E.2d 363, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 16780 (N.Y. 1987).

Corrections officers who refuse to comply with order to submit urine samples after confidential informant has alleged involvement of officers in illegal drug activities are properly dismissed. King v McMickens, 120 A.D.2d 351, 501 N.Y.S.2d 679, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56484 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986), aff'd, 69 N.Y.2d 840, 514 N.Y.S.2d 703, 507 N.E.2d 296, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15892 (N.Y. 1987).

Substantial evidence supported city police commissioner's dismissal of petitioner from position as police sergeant where record showed that petitioner had (1) failed to comply with lieutenant's order to submit to drug test, (2) failed to safeguard department property, (3) wrongfully possessed bogus sergeant's shield, and (4) knowingly associated with known criminal. Giannelli v Ward, 156 A.D.2d 136, 548 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15208 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989), app. dismissed, 75 N.Y.2d 946, 555 N.Y.S.2d 692, 554 N.E.2d 1280, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 733 (N.Y. 1990), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 702, 559 N.Y.S.2d 239, 558 N.E.2d 41, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1351 (N.Y. 1990).

Court would annul that part of determination finding Department of Correction employee guilty of refusing lawful order to submit to urinalysis where department had no reasonable suspicion to afford basis on which to order employee to submit to such test, and employee was not being tested under random drug testing program; mere absence of any medical explanation for employee's absenteeism did not warrant department in requiring test to rule out involvement of drugs as contributing factor. Wilder v Koehler, 161 A.D.2d 331, 556 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5273 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 887, 561 N.Y.S.2d 547, 562 N.E.2d 872, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3195 (N.Y. 1990), app. dismissed, 77 N.Y.2d 858, 568 N.Y.S.2d 14, 569 N.E.2d 873, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 205 (N.Y. 1991).

Evidence supported determination that police officer engaged in conduct unbecoming officer where he refused to comply with order to submit to drug test on day that his eyes were bloodshot and after confidential informant and 2 anonymous telephone callers provided specific objective facts that created reasonable inference of officer's involvement in narcotics. Liska v Ward, 170 A.D.2d 412, 566 N.Y.S.2d 621, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2423 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1991).

Correction officer was properly dismissed for refusing direct order by superior officer to submit to urinalysis examination after being observed behaving irrationally, with dilated eyes and perspiring forehead, especially in view of officer's unsatisfactory employment record and psychological problems. Rice v Seilaff, 181 A.D.2d 502, 581 N.Y.S.2d 311, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3467 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Dismissal of firefighter was appropriate sanction for his refusal to obey legitimate command to submit to urine test after he appeared to be impaired and unable to perform duties of his employment without risk of injury to himself and to those whose safety he was employed to safeguard. Washington v Dolce, 208 A.D.2d 937, 617 N.Y.S.2d 533, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10611 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Dismissal was appropriate sanction for police officer's refusal to supply requested urine sample. Blount v Bratton, 216 A.D.2d 6, 627 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5849 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

It was proper to dismiss New York City Transit Authority police officer for failing to report for medical examination on time, failing to take required urinalysis, and failing to report for duty for approximately one month without leave. Morales v New York City Transit Auth., 230 A.D.2d 859, 646 N.Y.S.2d 571, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8544 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

191. Economic reasons; staff reduction

Petitioner was entitled to an order reinstating him to the position of assistant comparer in the office of the register of Kings county at the salary to which he was entitled at the time of his discharge, where it appeared that petitioner was discharged because the appropriation by the board of estimate for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1939, was for two assistant comparers instead of three; that the action of the board was an abortive attempt to abolish one of the positions; that the position continued to exist and that the register acted illegally in discharging petitioner in the absence of charges and an opportunity to answer in writing. Burke v McGoldrick, 260 A.D. 505, 23 N.Y.S.2d 123, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4640 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940), reh'g denied, 261 A.D. 836, 25 N.Y.S.2d 999, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7689 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

Record, in proceeding to compel reinstatement of petitioner to position of town engineer with back pay, contained no support for finding that town's actions in discharging petitioner were motivated by anything other than sincere desire to economize. Berg v Gerber, 59 A.D.2d 906, 399 N.Y.S.2d 244, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14109 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Although public employer has inherent right to abolish positions in good faith for economic reasons labor class employees who are veterans or exempt volunteer firemen cannot be terminated when their positions are abolished if there are vacancies in similar positions. Jones v Carey, 84 Misc. 2d 505, 377 N.Y.S.2d 378, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3163 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975), rev'd, 55 A.D.2d 260, 389 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14559 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

In spite of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, public employers are entitled to eliminate competitive civil service positions for reasons having nothing to do with discipline or job performance, such as for fiscal reasons. Brennan v Straub, 246 F. Supp. 2d 360, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2728 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

Where an employee alleged that there was a denial of due process in violation of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 when the employee was terminated and defendants asserted that the employee was terminated because the position was eliminated for budgetary concerns, the court denied defendants' Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) motion because the employee was terminated four days before the decision was made to eliminate the employee's position. Brennan v Straub, 246 F. Supp. 2d 360, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2728 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

192. Failure to inform employer of change in status

Evidence was insufficient to support finding that city's water maintenance supervisor was guilty of grossly endangering the life and property of persons and of causing great possible liability to the board of water supply by failing to notify superior of suspension of his driver's license. Bernhard v Board of Water Supply, 50 A.D.2d 1061, 376 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12072 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

Evidence on charge of failure to promptly notify county police department of change of status was inconclusive and thus insufficient to support a determination sustaining the charge and dismissal from county police department. Buttacavoli v Guido, 59 A.D.2d 891, 399 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14080 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. denied, 44 N.Y.2d 643, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 4291 (N.Y. 1978).

Penalty of termination of civil servant's employment was neither abuse of discretion nor shocking to one's sense of fairness where he was properly found guilty, at discipinary hearing, of (1) falsely reporting that he was struck by vehicle when he never came in contact with it, and (2) filing false police report based on that incident. Catalano v Village of Kenmore, 255 A.D.2d 948, 680 N.Y.S.2d 375, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12193 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

193. False claim, report or statement

Courts properly upheld penalty of dismissal where petitioner was found guilty of 2 charges of submitting reports to Department of Civil Service, falsely indicating that several employees were working at lower titles after he had temporarily promoted them and paid them at higher title rate, which violated CLS Civ S §§ 97(1) and 100(1) because those employees were not on civil service eligible list. Gillen v Smithtown Library Bd. of Trustees, 94 N.Y.2d 776, 699 N.Y.S.2d 695, 721 N.E.2d 945, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3432 (N.Y. 1999).

Penalty of dismissal from New York City police department's office of Internal affairs was not so disproportionate as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, where petitioner wrongfully made false and misleading statements while under oath at official interview regarding his activities in connection with matter under Internal Affairs investigation. Harp v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 96 N.Y.2d 892, 730 N.Y.S.2d 786, 756 N.E.2d 74, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1984 (N.Y. 2001).

Civ S Law § 75 does not preclude the imposition of discipline on a civil service employee for misconduct during off-duty hours; thus a fire department's civilian employee was properly discharged, where while serving as a part-time police officer he executed a complaint falsely accusing a citizen of a crime. Zazycki v Albany, 94 A.D.2d 925, 463 N.Y.S.2d 614, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18376 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 60 N.Y.2d 558, 469 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 5696 (N.Y. 1983).

Dismissal of New York City Department of Consumer Affairs inspector for making false statements to department and failing to comply with department regulations involving outside employment was not shocking to one's sense of fairness and would be affirmed considering impact of petitioner's dishonesty on performance of his duties as inspector, his short length of employment at department, his relatively young age, and his alternate skill as X-ray technologist. Wickert v Aponte, 129 A.D.2d 803, 514 N.Y.S.2d 794, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45492 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Dismissal was excessive penalty, even though town investigator misused his position on one occasion by falsely representing that he was on official business in order to avoid paying $10 boat ramp usage charge; matter would be remitted for imposition of new penalty which should not exceed 2-month suspension without pay, and for calculation of award of back pay consisting of salary investigator would have earned had he not been dismissed, less amount of compensation which he might have earned in any other employment, and any unemployment benefits he might have received during such period. RRI Realty Corp. v Hattrick, 132 A.D.2d 558, 517 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49081 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Penalty of dismissal was not excessive where transit authority employee filed fraudulent claims for overtime and meal allowances, in view of employee's supervisory position, his careful plan to defraud, and transit authority's need to deter similar false claims. Antignano v Gunn, 134 A.D.2d 344, 520 N.Y.S.2d 820, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50521 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 804, 528 N.Y.S.2d 829, 524 N.E.2d 149, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 685 (N.Y. 1988).

Dismissal of county employee was appropriate for having prepared and filed false insurance document with county and lying to his superiors when first questioned about origin of certificate. Winn v Eschweiler, 149 A.D.2d 716, 540 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5407 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Substantial evidence supported determination of correction commissioner that petitioner filed false report of inmate possessing razor where various officers testified that after diligent search they found no razor, petitioner did not warn other officers already in room that inmate was armed with razor, and finding that there was no razor undermined petitioner's rationale that threat of weapon justified allowing unauthorized officers onto his post. Winslow v Sielaff, 179 A.D.2d 523, 579 N.Y.S.2d 20, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 496 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Evidence supported respondent school district's determination that senior custodian at district's primary building engaged in misconduct by falsely reporting and verifying time sheets for himself and another employee, and reentering building and removing folder of documents, and penalty of dismissal was not excessive in light of custodian's supervisory position, fact that he had falsified records for some time, and respondent's need to deter similar false reporting in future. Clark v Canandaigua City School Dist., 179 A.D.2d 1006, 579 N.Y.S.2d 275, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2337 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), aff'd, 80 N.Y.2d 912, 588 N.Y.S.2d 820, 602 N.E.2d 228, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3162 (N.Y. 1992).

Petitioner was properly dismissed from position as police officer, despite previously unblemished record, where substantial evidence supported determination that he participated in attempt to defraud auto insurance carrier by making false statements to insurance carrier. Giordano v Brown, 182 A.D.2d 582, 585 N.Y.S.2d 702, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6334 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Substantial evidence supported determination that county employee made false claim that he was injured when he fell from ladder in county clerk's office where (1) co-worker testified that he saw employee trip and fall in front of delicatessen, that employee appeared to hurt his shoulder or arm, and that employee approached him later that day and asked him not to say anything about fall because he was going to claim work-related injury, and (2) second co-worker testified that employee told him that he had hurt himself in fall in front of delicatessen but that he was going to claim that he had done it in county clerk's office. Riley v Schles, 185 A.D.2d 437, 585 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8886 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Dismissal of police officer did not shock court's sense of fairness, because officer lied with respect to matters of self-identification particularly important to police work and integrity, where officer, in filing petition with American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, used false name, badge number, and precinct and lied concerning origin of dog he brought there to avoid potential unpleasantness concerning fellow officer who owned and cared for dog, which was precinct mascot. Ildefonso v Bratton, 238 A.D.2d 142, 655 N.Y.S.2d 507, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3104 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 810, 665 N.Y.S.2d 401, 688 N.E.2d 257, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3253 (N.Y. 1997).

Substantial evidence supported hearing officer's finding of misconduct by town employee where employee failed to complete his road plowing route after dinner break during severe snowstorm and lied to his supervisor regarding completion of his duties. Johnson v Town of Arcade, 281 A.D.2d 894, 721 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Article 78 proceeding by terminated town employee would be remitted for imposition of appropriate penalty not to exceed 6-month suspension without pay, even though employee failed to complete his road plowing route after dinner break during severe snowstorm and lied to his supervisor regarding completion of his duties, where penalty of termination was so disproportionate to misconduct as to shock one's sense of fairness. Johnson v Town of Arcade, 281 A.D.2d 894, 721 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2916 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

194. —Job application

In disciplinary proceeding, administrative finding that petitioner falsely stated on his application for state employment that he had received bachelor's degree from Morgan State College was sustained by letter from director of office of records and registration of Morgan State University (formerly Morgan State College) stating that there was no record of petitioner being registered as student, or of his graduation from that institution. Dean v Bradford, 158 A.D.2d 772, 551 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 911 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

IAS court erred in determining that respondent acted arbitrarily and capriciously in deciding to dismiss petitioner as director of hospital's audio-visual department in 1989 because of material misrepresentations he had made regarding criminal history and educational qualifications on both original employment application in 1977 and 1983 application for director position, where although respondent retained petitioner notwithstanding knowledge of his misrepresentations on 1977 application, it promptly terminated him on discovering that he repeated misrepresentations on application for director position, petitioner's deceit on latter application not having been discovered until anonymous letter complaint prompted investigation 6 years later. Moran v Baxter, 193 A.D.2d 460, 597 N.Y.S.2d 688, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4831 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

It was proper to dismiss police officer based on undisputed evidence, obtained during investigation following his appointment, that he had committed fraud on his employment application to conceal his fraudulent use of Social Security number not his own to obtain second New York State driver's license after his first license had been revoked. Martin v Marchiselli, 262 A.D.2d 171, 691 N.Y.S.2d 528, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6752 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

195. —Omissions

Police commissioner did not act in bad faith in terminating officer's probationary employment on basis of recommendation of medical experts who examined officer; moreover, independent basis for termination was provided by officer's failure to mention material incident in application which was later discovered during background check. Lukas v Brown, 181 A.D.2d 612, 581 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4129 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

It was neither arbitrary nor capricious to terminate petitioner's employment as city police officer where he did not answer questions about his psychological history on original employment application forms but admitted when questioned by staff psychologist 3 years later that he had been seeing psychologists since he was youth; truthful responses to questions relating to petitioner's psychological history had direct bearing on his ability to perform duties as police officer. Gray v Department of Personnel, 189 A.D.2d 682, 592 N.Y.S.2d 376, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 356 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate penalty where transit authority police officer struck civilian and improperly displayed his weapon in off-duty incident, he made false denials to his superiors about details of incident, and he failed to disclose that his driver's license had been suspended, thereby posing threat to public confidence and evincing willingness to deceive. Dabulis v New York City Transit Auth., 222 A.D.2d 433, 634 N.Y.S.2d 529, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12494 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Court denied Article 78 petition to annul determination of respondent police commissioner which dismissed petitioner from his position as police officer as (1) substantial evidence, including testimony of other police officers, supported findings that petitioner removed vest from suspect, failed to turn it over to arresting officers, and gave false and misleading statements at official interviews concerning incident, and (2) penalty was not unfair. Botte v Safir, 261 A.D.2d 315, 691 N.Y.S.2d 415, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5824 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

196. —Time records

It was proper to dismiss stenographic secretary for making false entries on her time sheets. Roach v Plainedge Union Free Sch. Dist., 230 A.D.2d 861, 646 N.Y.S.2d 704, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8560 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

197. Incompetence, generally

The power of the board of police and fire commissioners of a city to remove a patrolman in the police department is limited by provisions of this section, but it may be assumed that a charge of inefficiency and neglect of duty means same as incompetency or misconduct, as those words are used in this section. Eisle v Woodin, 205 A.D. 452, 199 N.Y.S. 559, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5050 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923), aff'd, 238 N.Y. 551, 144 N.E. 887, 238 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 551, 1924 N.Y. LEXIS 718 (N.Y. 1924).

198. —Supported by record

Evidence supported conclusion that job performance of treatment team leader at psychiatric center was unsatisfactory, and that her discharge was in good faith, where affidavits of her supervisors detailed continuing problems concerning her relationships with other staff members, as well as meeting with her at which such problems were discussed, and where Special Term also had before it performance appraisal of employee prepared 2 months before her termination showing comparatively low rating regarding her ability to communicate, and record also included employee's own lengthy correspondence explaining various problems she had with fellow employees; no material issue of fact was raised by employee's disputed assertion that facility deputy director told her she was being discharged to protect other employees from scheduled layoffs. Johnson v Katz, 68 N.Y.2d 649, 505 N.Y.S.2d 64, 496 N.E.2d 223, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 19041 (N.Y. 1986).

Evidence supported board of education's finding that janitor was incompetent in performance of his duties and should therefore be dismissed. Gibson v Board of Education, 59 A.D.2d 963, 399 N.Y.S.2d 296, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14221 (N.Y. LEXIS 2308 (N.Y. 1978).

In a disciplinary hearing before a board of education, the record supported the board's termination of a bus driver's employment on the basis of unsafe driving where the record contained testimony from bus driver's supervisor and several other witnesses concerning the driver's unsafe driving, and where the driver had been found guilty of seven incidents of unsafe driving. Ronkese v Board of Education, 82 A.D.2d 1011, 442 N.Y.S.2d 176, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14745 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

City transit authority's dismissal of train operator was not so disproportionate to 2 specifications of charges of "misconduct and/or incompetence" as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where operator had extensive prior disciplinary record. Taylor v New York City Transit Authority, 133 A.D.2d 635, 519 N.Y.S.2d 637, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51674 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

School district's decision to terminate account clerk for incompetence or misconduct based on her unauthorized transfer of public monies to herself was supported by substantial evidence where clerk had prepared, and obtained signatures on, certain budget amendments which resulted in money from federal programs being paid to her as compensation for work she did on the programs, although no budget funds had been approved for that purpose. Van Gorder v Board of Education, 140 A.D.2d 774, 527 N.Y.S.2d 654, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4670 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Substantial evidence supported termination of petitioner's employment as licensed practical nurse at county nursing home where (1) it was established through testimony of several registered nurses employed at nursing home that she failed to perform required fasting blood sugar test on diabetic resident, failed to prepare chart renewals on 2 residents, and failed to orally report condition of residents assigned to her care to oncoming day-shift nurses, and (2) hearing officer found her testimony and explanations for her inactions to be incredible. Williams v County of Fulton, 270 A.D.2d 613, 704 N.Y.S.2d 349, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2620 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Workers' Compensation Board's termination of probationary civil service employment of claims referee without hearing was not in bad faith, unconstitutional, or otherwise improper where (1) board followed its established procedures by periodically advising referee of his progress, providing written evaluation at least 2 weeks before end of probationary period, and giving written notice at least one week before effective date of discharge, (2) bad faith was not shown by fact that earlier, more favorable progress reports were not furnished in writing before final, unfavorable written report, and (3) referee's dismissal was based on his inadequate understanding of workers' compensation law, his failure to respond to additional training to address that deficiency, and his improper conduct in requesting transportation from attorneys and posing inappropriate questions to witnesses. Scott v Workers' Compensation Bd., 275 A.D.2d 877, 713 N.Y.S.2d 571, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9473 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

199. — —Failure or refusal to act as incompetence

A determination by a library's board of trustees dismissing the director of the library on the grounds of misconduct and incompetency would be upheld where the hearing officer's determinations that the director had persistently failed to comply with appropriate civil service procedures in connection with the promotion of one of his subordinates based simply on his disagreement with such procedures and despite his knowledge of the applicable regulations, and that he had deliberately engaged in other acts of misconduct despite being aware of his wrongdoing, were supported by substantial evidence. Johnson v Board of Trustees, 97 A.D.2d 413, 467 N.Y.S.2d 247, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19991 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), modified, 61 N.Y.2d 1014, 475 N.Y.S.2d 372, 463 N.E.2d 1224, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4232 (N.Y. 1984).

Substantial evidence supported administrative determination that petitioner was incompetent in performance and execution of his supervisory duties where petitioner was given assignment to prepare training program for one of his assistants, he was offered guidance to assist him in completing his task, and he refused to carry out assignment. Dean v Bradford, 158 A.D.2d 772, 551 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 911 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Sheriff's termination of deputy sheriff's employment was neither arbitrary nor capricious where, regarding deputy's handling of violent disturbance by jail inmates, available medical staff was not called, proper riot gear was available but not used, inmate property and evidence were improperly identified and preserved, dry inmate clothing was not distributed, temperature of jail after disturbance was not properly maintained, and source of needed ventilation was not used despite request by inmate and direction by acting correctional administrator, all of which supported sheriff's conclusion that deputy could not be trusted to act properly in sensitive supervisory capacity. Christopher v Phillips, 160 A.D.2d 1165, 554 N.Y.S.2d 370, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4523 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 706, 560 N.Y.S.2d 988, 561 N.E.2d 888, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 2992 (N.Y. 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination that petitioner was guilty of incompetence in discharge of his duties as supervisor within Department of Transportation where (1) testimony established that drug usage was widespread in petitioner's section, that petitioner was at least somewhat aware of possible drug problem, and that he was specifically informed by one employee that another employee had drug problem and that drugs were being sold at work, and (2) petitioner failed to request more specific information from employee that gave him such information, and failed to follow up on her information. Pelham v White, 166 A.D.2d 824, 563 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported termination of school custodian where (1) his immediate supervisor testified as to various deficiencies in his work, including failure to properly clean areas, and his apparent inability to improve his performance after deficiencies were called to his attention, (2) principal of school testified to his poor performance, (3) his performance evaluations were received in evidence, and (4) he was advised through numerous memoranda and direct conversations of deficiencies in his performance; custodian's claim that he was fired due to personality conflict with his supervisor merely presented credibility issue for hearing officer to resolve. Rowley v Board of Educ. of Gloversville Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 192 A.D.2d 814, 596 N.Y.S.2d 561, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3782 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Dismissal of petitioner from his position as account clerk was appropriate for his failure to initially report automobile accident in which he had been involved while he was purportedly on county business, his completion and submission of misleading accident reports, and his substandard job performance for 3-month period. Smith v Delaney, 208 A.D.2d 932, 617 N.Y.S.2d 896, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10608 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Dismissal of school district custodial employee was appropriate where his performance was poor, he failed to improve his work despite oral and written warnings, and he had excessive absences. Smith v Board of Educ., 231 A.D.2d 528, 647 N.Y.S.2d 99, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8847 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 811, 657 N.Y.S.2d 404, 679 N.E.2d 643, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 370 (N.Y. 1997).

Complaint alleging that plaintiff was denied appointment to permanent status, and was terminated from his employment with county agency as result of race discrimination, was properly dismissed where (1) several agency employees who had frequent contact with plaintiff testified that he was ill-prepared for meetings, failed to participate in discussions, had difficulty communicating and sharing information, and was generally unable to function as team member of work force, and (2) plaintiff failed to show that stated reason for his discharge was pretextual based on 3 witnesses' general testimony about his efficient and professional managerial style, and unsubstantiated assertions of animus toward him because of his race. Broome v Keener, 236 A.D.2d 498, 654 N.Y.S.2d 618, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1343 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Substantial evidence supported determination that business administrator employed by school district was guilty of incompetence in failing to report ongoing misuse of school district credit card, in authorizing payment of school board president's personal expenses with school district funds, and in failing to take necessary steps to stop school board president's misuse of school district credit card. Weatherlow v Board of Educ., 236 A.D.2d 855, 653 N.Y.S.2d 778, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1791 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

School district's termination of cashier for misconduct and incompetence was supported by substantial evidence that she failed to record numerous purchases of milk and juice by kindergarten class, to record adult food purchases on numerous occasions, and to account for preidentified bills, where cashier's coworkers, at instruction of their supervisor, had recorded their observations of cashier's cash transactions for period of time, and documentary evidence was presented in addition to testimony of coworkers and supervisor. Penalty of termination, on grounds of misconduct and incompetence, was not shocking or disproportionate to school cashier's offenses where she violated position as employee entrusted with school district's money by failing to record numerous purchases of milk and juice by kindergarten class, to record adult food purchases on numerous occasions, and to account for preidentified bills. Stewart v Board of Educ., 238 A.D.2d 838, 656 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4129 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Dismissal of security guard was appropriate sanction for his numerous acts of misconduct, which included refusing to assist fellow security guards and Social Services employees on 3 occasions when threatening situations arose. Schurr v Wingate, 243 A.D.2d 571, 663 N.Y.S.2d 116, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9821 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Substantial evidence supported finding that school district business manager incompetently failed to timely file state aid forms with state education department where manager's duties included preparing all state and federal fiscal reports and forms, she knew filing deadlines, she failed to timely submit district's SA-100/19, SA-129B, and ST-3 reports for school year, numerous letters from education department and state comptroller confirmed that district's state aid had been frozen pending receipt of overdue forms, and district superintendent testified that he gave manager copies of those letters and directed her to complete and forward those forms, that he suggested persons who could offer assistance, and that he offered to allow manager to work different hours when there would be fewer interruptions. Substantial evidence supported finding that school district business manager incompetently failed to timely file reports necessary to obtain federal and state grants in contradiction of district superintendent's directives to do so where state education department notified superintendent that grant forms were overdue and that failure to submit them within 30 days would result in stop payment on all grants, superintendent thereafter directed manager, on more than one occasion, to complete those forms, and manager's failure to do so caused district to hire temporary employee to do so. Substantial evidence supported finding that school district business manager incompetently failed to make timely interest payment of $145,000 on district's serial bonds where district superintendent testified, and there was documentary evidence, that trust company demanded $667.38 as additional interest compensation because manager's payment was 54 days late. Brey v Board of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 613, 664 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12575 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Court upheld discharge of school custodian for misconduct and incompetence as (1) substantial evidence supported hearing officer's finding that waste paper in trash pail which had not been emptied was ignited by cigarettes, causing fire in custodian's area and necessitating evacuation of students, and (2) termination was not disproportionate to offense. Russo v Board of Educ., 259 A.D.2d 703, 686 N.Y.S.2d 836, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2721 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

Authority to remove magistrates for cause does not warrant removal of a magistrate for a single act of negligence, particularly where he is a veteran protected by this section. People ex rel. Long v Whitney, 143 A.D. 17, 127 N.Y.S. 554, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 755 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

Failure of a veteran, serving as prison storekeeper, to keep his purchases for the warden's table within an alleged monthly allowance was not sustained by the evidence. People ex rel. Kelly v Kirchwey, 177 A.D. 706, 164 N.Y.S. 511, 1917 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5762 (N.Y. App. Div. 1917).

Charges that the commissioner of public markets failed to properly supervise the operation of a market area under this supervision, permitted several floaters to operate in the market contrary to the rules of the department, and absented himself from the market, were trivial in character and did not indicate that the petitioner should be removed for incompetency or misconduct, within meaning of subd. 1 of this section. Joyce v Morgan, 259 A.D. 630, 20 N.Y.S.2d 354, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6224 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Where record established that for 13 years petitioner was an exemplary police officer, that his behavior altered markedly within six months preceding the making of disciplinary charges against him, and that he became depressed and inattentive, disciplinary charges for incompetence or misconduct seemed misplaced under the circumstances, although the evidence warranted proceedings under those sections of the Civil Service Law pertaining to an inquiry into mental health issues. Penebre v Dzaluk, 51 A.D.2d 574, 378 N.Y.S.2d 767, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10856 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Discharge of city employee, subsequent to a fire in basement of pumping station where he was working night shift as sole relief operator, on the two grounds that he had either committed arson or was grossly negligent in maintaining building's security, and that, in connection with an investigation into the fire's cause, he had wrongfully refused to submit to a lie detector examination, was not supported by substantial evidence, since firemen had to be let into the building and the employee thus did properly maintain its security, since a finding, even circumstantially, that he was an arsonist lacked substantial evidence on the record, and since he was justified in refusing to be tested on B & W psychometer, a machine of highly questionable reliability. McGinigle v Greenburgh, 59 A.D.2d 908, 399 N.Y.S.2d 250, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14112 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. dismissed, 43 N.Y.2d 949, 1978 N.Y. The determination of a board of education finding a stenographer guilty of charges of incompetence and misconduct and dismissing her from her employment was annulled, the charges dismissed and the board of education directed to reinstate the stenographer to her position with back pay, where the sole witness testifying that the stenographer's job performance had been unsatisfactory was the school principal for whom she worked, he produced memoranda he had written to the stenographer in which recorded her errors, the stenographer testified that the principal was upset that she had through seniority replaced the secretary with whom he had been perfectly satisfied that he was not at all pleased to have her placed in the school as his secretary, and that his attitude towards her was so difficult and abusive that she complained about it to higher officials following which the principal began to record every typographic error and other mistake he could find, the record did not contain substantial evidence to support the findings of incompetence and misconduct in that the errors complained of were essentially trivial and had to be evaluated in light of the inherent nature of typographical errors in a typed product, and what emerged from the record as a whole was a retaliatory effort by the principal to have the stenographer dismissed after she complained about him, as well as a clash of personalities between the stenographer and the principal from their first contact. Silberfarb v Bd. of Coop. Educ. Servs., 92 A.D.2d 921, 460 N.Y.S.2d 138, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17327 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 59 N.Y.2d 970, 1983 N.Y. Penalty was disproportionate to offense where petitioner was discharged from her job as school bus driver after she was involved in accident that occurred when her foot slipped off brake pedal and onto gas pedal as she was backing up and parking school bus in bus garage where petitioner had been employed as school bus driver for 5 years with clean record, no schoolchildren were involved in accident, and petitioner was operating 44-passenger bus with express approval of her superiors despite fact that she had not been formally trained or tested on large bus (of which her superiors were aware); furthermore, while not determinative, other school bus drivers involved in similar mishaps or misconduct had received suspension rather than discharge. Benson v Board of Educ., 209 A.D.2d 693, 619 N.Y.S.2d 153, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11672 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994), app. dismissed, 85 N.Y.2d 847, 624 N.Y.S.2d 366, 648 N.E.2d 785, 1995 N.Y. A physician duly certified and appointed police surgeon cannot be removed by the city manager upon the charge that he is not qualified to perform major surgical operations. Polsenski v Montgomery, 71 N.Y.S.2d 386, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2563 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947), app. dismissed, 87 N.Y.S.2d 438 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

201. Insubordination, generally

A charge that a clerk in the district attorney's office is arrogant, dictatorial and offensive to his fellow-employees and superiors, if established, shows insubordination, which justifies his removal. People ex rel. Rudd v Cropsey, 173 A.D. 714, 159 N.Y.S. 641, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10396 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 219 N.Y. 641, 114 N.E. 1080, 219 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 641, 1916 N.Y. LEXIS 984 (N.Y. 1916).

County's decision to discharge clerk-typist was supported by substantial evidence where clerk-typist failed to complete priority work assignment, delayed performance of priority work assignment, and was excessively absent without prior permission and in violation of county civil service rules. Neira v Sgroi, 132 A.D.2d 703, 518 N.Y.S.2d 355, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49244 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Termination of petitioner's employment as correction officer did not violate CLS Exec §§ 291 and 296, which prohibit discharge of employee due to marital status, although petitioner's undisclosed marriage to inmate and parolee was mentioned in notice of discipline, where basis for her termination was violation of Employees' Manual rules prohibiting employees from engaging in relationship with any inmate in manner or form not necessary or proper for discharge of duties, and requiring that any such relationship be reported. Vega v Department of Correctional Services, 186 A.D.2d 340, 588 N.Y.S.2d 202, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10816 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992), app. dismissed, 81 N.Y.2d 782, 594 N.Y.S.2d 718, 610 N.E.2d 391 (N.Y. 1993).

Despite firefighter's 13-year unblemished record, there was no basis to interfere with respondent's decision to terminate his employment, in light of substantial evidence that he violated departmental rules and regulations by operating outside pool maintenance business for 3 years without seeking necessary department approval, and by engaging in outside employment while on medical leave on 4 separate dates. Cook v Von Essen, 283 A.D.2d 214, 724 N.Y.S.2d 841, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4806 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

On appeal under § 76 from the decision of the director of a state school under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mental Hygiene removing the petitioner from his position in such school, it was held that where the worker's work record has been basically good and the matter of which he is found guilty is not of such a nature that the operation and function of the institution is totally disrupted, is not of a repetitive nature, and a number of serious breaches of conduct have not occurred after full and adequate warning, dismissal from the service is an excessive penalty. Consequently the court annulled the respondent's determination in respect to the punishment imposed for three specific acts of disobedience and insubordination and returned the matter to him for reconsideration and imposition of an appropriate lesser penalty in accordance with the above statute. Wansart v Feinstein, 48 Misc. 2d 12, 264 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1421 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

Determination of the commissioner of the department of welfare of New York city, removing a social investigator in the department on charges of insubordination and unsatisfactory work was sustained, where there had been no evidence of bad faith on the part of the commissioner and there was a full compliance with the provisions of subd. 2 of this section. Scheiber v Hodson, 259 A.D. 1073, 21 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8034 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1940).

Penalty of dismissal following finding that teacher, who admitted underlying acts, was guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher, insubordination and neglect of duty was not shockingly disproportionate to offense. Feldman v Board of Education, 55 A.D.2d 619, 389 N.Y.S.2d 409, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15345 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

A police officer was properly dismissed from his position, where he had an opportunity to prepare a defense, prepare evidence, and there was substantial evidence that he had been derelict in his duty, insubordinate and disobedient. Francis v West, 81 A.D.2d 714, 439 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11266 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

Police officer was properly demoted in rank from detective to patrolman as penalty for insubordination, since police force is quasi-military organization demanding strict discipline, and officer's showing of disrespect to his superiors posed serious threat to discipline and efficiency of agency's operation. Richichi v Galligan, 136 A.D.2d 616, 523 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 407 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Determination of New York City Transit Authority to terminate employment of porter was not shockingly unfair where porter's disciplinary record revealed that, over 15-year period of employment, he had received 87 cautions, 4 suspensions and 2 "final warnings." Copelin v New York City Transit Authority, 184 A.D.2d 698, 585 N.Y.S.2d 89, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8467 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

It was appropriate to demote petitioner from his position as car appearance supervisor to his former position of cleaner based on his insubordination and attempts to shirk work, which set poor example for employees under his supervision. DiPalma v Suardy, 207 A.D.2d 397, 615 N.Y.S.2d 719, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8233 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

In bus mechanic's Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of his employment with school district, substantial evidence supported charges of misconduct and insubordination in violation of CLS Civ S § 75 where mechanic had been reassigned to light duty because of alleged chronic tendonitis in his right arm, and district's private investigator videotaped mechanic performing yard work at his home without apparent discomfort. Rice v Hilton Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 1104, 667 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13901 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997), modified, 258 A.D.2d 900, 685 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1999 N.Y. It was proper to dismiss police officer for threatening one or more persons, insubordination, and disrespect toward superior officer. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 252 A.D.2d 844, 675 N.Y.S.2d 448, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8618 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Termination was not disproportionate penalty for sanitation worker in light of his misconduct and insubordination demonstrating pattern of poor work performance and disruptive behavior burdening both employer and co-workers. Gradel v Lilholt, 257 A.D.2d 972, 684 N.Y.S.2d 339, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 725 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Substantial evidence supported termination of police officer's employment for misconduct where he wrongfully discharged his firearm and then lied about it and tried to conceal evidence of his misconduct. Gonzalez v Safir, 273 A.D.2d 140, 710 N.Y.S.2d 898, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7156 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

203. — —Abusive or obscene language

Petitioner, veteran, was properly removed from his position as custodian in school system following public hearing on charges of using abusive language and causing personal injuries to assistant principal, failing to keep school in clean and proper condition, and having insubordinate attitude towards those in authority. Attitude of petitioner was prejudicial to orderly conduct of school. Catone v Hopkins, 6 A.D.2d 972, 176 N.Y.S.2d 738, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5037 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1958).

Termination of employment of maintenance mechanic at school district would be confirmed where mechanic engaged in course of misconduct over 3-month period during which he used obscene language to fellow employee before district assemblage of custodians and 2 local vendors, refused to obey supervisor's orders on various occasions, and was dilatory in his assigned duties; penalty imposed was logical result of mechanic's behavior and was not so disproportionate to his offenses so as to shock conscience. Secor v Hyde Park Cent. School Dist., 142 A.D.2d 682, 530 N.Y.S.2d 599, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7932 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Petitioner, who was probationary correction officer, failed to satisfy his burden to show that he was discharged in bad faith or for constitutionally impermissible reasons where it was clearly established that he was discharged for excessive absences, lengthy periods of restricted duty, and insubordination consisting of violent outbursts and use of abusive and profane language in dealing with superiors. Dolcemaschio v New York, 180 A.D.2d 573, 580 N.Y.S.2d 289, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2926 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

It was proper to dismiss police officer who parked illegally and refused to move when asked to do so by another city's police officer, acted in rude and aggressive manner, made racial remarks about second officer, and thereafter lied about his conduct during departmental investigation and trial, and in separate incident, officer in question made threatening remarks at neighborhood meeting and thereafter lied about his conduct during departmental investigation and trial. Cannata v Safir, 269 A.D.2d 327, 703 N.Y.S.2d 177, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2212 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Board of fire commissioners properly adopted the findings of a hearing officer and terminated an employee's employment as a firehouse maintainer because any credibility issues were resolved by the hearing officer, substantial evidence in the record supported the determination that the employee was guilty of the alleged misconduct and/or incompetence, and the penalty of termination was not so disproportionate to the offense so as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness especially in light of the disturbing nature of the employee's statement about "going postal."Matter of Cupo v Uniondale Fire Dist, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1546 (March 4, 2020).

204. — —Assault on superior

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate sanction for having struck another officer despite direct order from superior officer to stay out of matter which led to altercation. Hammond v Amsterdam, 185 A.D.2d 495, 586 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8945 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Dismissal of employee for physically attacking her supervisor was not shocking to one's sense of fairness. Langhorne v Jackson, 213 A.D.2d 909, 623 N.Y.S.2d 962, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3061 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

205. — —Insubordination at misconduct hearing

Civil servant was properly dismissed for insubordination for failure to respond to questions or to produce work-related diary at misconduct hearing, even though he had served 34 years and hearing officer recommended only 2-month suspension without pay, where Commissioner of Transportation found that civil servant had benefit of constitutionally sufficient use immunity and his actions had thwarted orderly process of investigation and administration; penalty was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Matt v Larocca, 71 N.Y.2d 154, 524 N.Y.S.2d 180, 518 N.E.2d 1172, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 19884 (N.Y. 1987), cert. denied, 486 U.S. 1007, 108 S. Ct. 1734, 100 L. Ed. 2d 197, 1988 U.S. LEXIS 2267 (U.S. 1988).

For insubordination amounting to misconduct, in refusing to attend meeting with school board to attempt to stabilize her status, dismissal of school district employee from service was an abuse of discretion as a measure of discipline, and was modified to suspension without pay for six months. Where prior to time for meeting with school board no formal charges of misconduct had been made or contemplated against school district employee, but rather meeting was scheduled in effort to stabilize her status without requiring her to transfer to another position, her refusal to attend meeting, being intentional, deliberate and willful, was insubordination amounting to misconduct, even though she received mistaken advice not to attend the meeting. Ector v Salzmann, 54 A.D.2d 1017, 388 N.Y.S.2d 363, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14981 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

Police department, as quasi-military organization, demands strict discipline, and commissioner of public safety and chief of police would be severely hampered in performing their obligation to maintain effective and disciplined police force if they could not terminate police officers who deliberately make false statements during course of formal investigations. Donofrio v Rochester, 144 A.D.2d 1027, 534 N.Y.S.2d 630, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14594 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 708, 540 N.Y.S.2d 1003, 538 N.E.2d 355, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 320 (N.Y. 1989).

Probationary police officers were properly dismissed without hearing where they refused to obey direct order by superior officer to answer questions at investigative hearing despite having been granted use immunity as to their answers, and there was no indication that police commissioner's determinations were made in bad faith. Martinez v Safir, 251 A.D.2d 62, 673 N.Y.S.2d 690, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6521 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

206. — —Insubordination in dealing with media

County properly terminated petitioner's employment as associate public health engineer on grounds of insubordination where petitioner refused in writing to conform to county policy pertaining to media requests for information, he refused to comply with his supervisor's requests to furnish certain technical information, and he failed to respond to official requests to substantiate his charge that his supervisor and former county engineers had committed errors which undermined integrity of county's environmental health programs. Plante v Buono, 172 A.D.2d 81, 576 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 756, 583 N.Y.S.2d 192, 592 N.E.2d 800, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1024 (N.Y. 1992).

207. — —Refusal or failure to complete required forms

Employee who is absent from work on number of days due to illness, who has no sick leave available, who refuses to co-operate with county's request to charge absences to accrued vacation time in accordance with collective bargaining agreement, and insists instead that absences be considered as "no pay" days is properly fined $100 for misconduct. Haney v County of Sullivan, 118 A.D.2d 896, 499 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54747 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 68 N.Y.2d 601, 505 N.Y.S.2d 1025, 496 N.E.2d 238, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18959 (N.Y. 1986).

Transit Authority's dismissal of railroad clerk for refusing to obey supervisor's order was supported by substantial evidence where clerk admitted that he had refused to obey order to provide written statement concerning prior incident, and penalty did not shock one's sense of fairness in view of clerk's extensive prior disciplinary record. Linzy v New York City Transit Authority, 125 A.D.2d 571, 510 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62862 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

County security officer was properly found guilty of misconduct where (1) he participated in off-duty "practical jokes" performed on fellow security officers, undertaken with other off-duty security officers, which included entering county parks, turning certain park lights on and other lights off, and moving park vehicle, resulting in collision between his vehicle and county vehicle driven by on-duty security officer who was following him, and (2) he subsequently failed to report incident. Sguanci v Commissioner of Public Works, 158 A.D.2d 788, 550 N.Y.S.2d 950, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 891 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Petitioner was properly terminated from probationary appointment as correction sergeant and returned to his position as correction officer where (1) he received 2 formal counseling sessions, one following repeated errors despite interim retraining after original errors were brought to his personal attention by his supervisor, and second, 5 days later, after he misplaced pair of handcuffs, (2) he refused to sign either counseling memorandum despite fact that his signature was merely acknowledgement of receipt of document and did not indicate that he agreed with contents, and (3) he was unable to provide supervisor with current address and telephone number as required by employer. Tyner v Harvey, 191 A.D.2d 924, 594 N.Y.S.2d 916, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2466 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

It was proper to discharge transit police officer for failing to timely report discharge of his weapon in view of nature of charge, seriousness with which transit authority police department treated occurrence of discharge of officer's weapon, and officer's poor disciplinary record. Cerio v New York City Transit Auth., 228 A.D.2d 676, 645 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7399 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1996).

Substantial evidence supported finding that school district business manager was guilty of 4 charges of insubordination where she failed to comply with district superintendent's repeated directives to complete fiscal form SA-100/19 and to file it with state education department. School district business manager did not sufficiently prove defense of retaliatory discharge, because district board had independent basis for its action, where manager was guilty of a number of incidents of incompetence and misconduct in form of insubordination. Penalty of discharge was not so disproportionate to offenses as to shock one's sense of fairness, even though school district business manager claimed that her failure to timely file reports and make interest payment was unintentional, where she was guilty of a number of incidents of incompetence and misconduct in form of insubordination. Brey v Board of Educ., 245 A.D.2d 613, 664 N.Y.S.2d 496, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12575 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Dismissal of police chief was appropriate sanction for his insubordination in willfully refusing to comply with proper directives to provide town supervisor with investigative report into allegations of police misconduct. Marden v Town Bd., 249 A.D.2d 547, 672 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4602 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

208. — —Refusal or failure to obey direct order

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that water maintenance supervisor of city was guilty of charges dealing with unauthorized use of his assigned vehicle, with refusing to obey orders concerning vacation and compensatory time and sick leave, with repeated failure to report for work, and with negligence in operation of the vehicle and in reporting improperly the consequence of accidents. Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate to the proven offense nor shocking to one's sense of fairness. Bernhard v Board of Water Supply, 50 A.D.2d 1061, 376 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12072 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975).

The Commissioner of the Department of Transportation properly dismissed a Transportation Safety Director who was responsible for the health and safety of many employees in the department who failed to carry out satisfactorily complete reasonable directions given by the assistant commissioner, including a direction to warn and instruct employees on the use of a highly toxic chemical. The director had not absolved himself from blame by delegating tasks to his assistants. Dougherty v Hennessy, 82 A.D.2d 967, 440 N.Y.S.2d 363, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14702 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

A city employee was properly dismissed from his employment on the basis of misconduct constituting insubordination arising out of the employee's refusal for ten successive working days to drive the dump truck to which he was assigned at the employer's landfill, notwithstanding that the employee contended that the dump truck when fully loaded weighed in excess of that permitted under his vehicle driver's license, where there was evidence that the employee was to operate the dump truck on the landfill site and not on a public highway except when the truck was not loaded and therefore was within his license restrictions, and where the employee testified that he had operated dumptrucks in his own excavation business for 20 years. Strokes v Albany, 101 A.D.2d 944, 475 N.Y.S.2d 635, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18672 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Penalty of dismissal was not excessive where superintendent of maintenance and inspection for city was found guilty of 16 charges of misconduct, including charge that he repeatedly ignored his superior's directions to perform specific duties. Felski v Larson, 139 A.D.2d 967, 527 N.Y.S.2d 1018, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4203 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 804, 532 N.Y.S.2d 755, 528 N.E.2d 1228, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2771 (N.Y. 1988).

Evidence supported determination of Division of State Police which terminated petitioner's employment as state trooper based on 5 incidents of misconduct and violation of state police regulations, including recklessness while driving off duty in his private vehicle, leaving his assigned revolver in unsecured locker at police station, patrolling outside his assigned area, driving while off duty in uninsured and unregistered vehicle bearing unauthorized dealer plates, and showing reluctance to perform his assigned desk duties; petitioner failed to show that charges were unsupported by evidence based on his contention that they stemmed from misunderstandings between him and his fellow officers. Novotny v Constantine, 150 A.D.2d 852, 540 N.Y.S.2d 605, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5472 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Transit authority police officer was properly discharged for failing to comply with order to undergo drug screening test and disobeying orders of superior officer, since he had been advised that he was required to submit to test and would be subject to disciplinary sanctions if he failed to do so, and his actions in leaving health center after being told to stay, without informing clinic personnel, further supported conclusion that he was intentionally seeking to avoid submitting to test. Barretto v City of New York, 157 A.D.2d 116, 555 N.Y.S.2d 382, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5354 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

It was not excessive for board of education to dismiss clerical employee with 20 years of service where (1) she had serious difficulties in accepting authority and in responding to her supervisor's directives, (2) she had refused to perform certain tasks, had processed purchase orders without authority, and had failed to follow school district's policies and practices, and (3) she had written hostile and threatening letters to her supervisor in which she described her as incompetent, incapable of giving direction concerning work, like 6-year-old child who tattled to her mother whenever something disagreeable occurs, and like dictator. Case v Fleming, 189 A.D.2d 1070, 593 N.Y.S.2d 108, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 754 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Evidence supported determination of county sheriff dismissing petitioner from her position as correction officer for misconduct where testimony established that petitioner violated sheriff's department operations and procedures guide by fraternizing with inmate and continuing that relationship after inmate's release. Laspisa v Mahoney, 198 A.D.2d 279, 603 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10357 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993).

Police officer properly received 5-day suspension since evidence supported finding that he left his assigned sector for "personal necessity," rather than "police necessity," to try to locate another police officer at request of third police officer, without first obtaining supervisor's approval and making entry in his memo book as required by departmental rule, where third police officer was neither his supervisor nor in same chain of command. Colotti v Armiento, 206 A.D.2d 474, 614 N.Y.S.2d 574, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7446 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Determination that firefighter was guilty of subordination was sustained by substantial evidence where (1) he initiated argument with superior officer, refused to cease arguing when ordered to do so by 2 superior officers, repeatedly shouted expletives at officer and made threatening hand gestures, and stated that he refused to accept punishment of suspension, and (2) after suspension was lifted, he disobeyed orders to refrain from responding to alarms on fire department apparatus and to remain at firehouse to monitor radio until further notice. Parker v Blauvelt Volunteer Fire Co., 222 A.D.2d 437, 634 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12498 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 812, 644 N.Y.S.2d 145, 666 N.E.2d 1059, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 1152 (N.Y. 1996).

Dismissal was not disproportionate sanction for insubordination where volunteer firefighter repeatedly refused to accept directives from superior officers, and disobeyed direct order regarding his assigned duty post during emergency. Parker v Blauvelt Volunteer Fire Co., 222 A.D.2d 437, 634 N.Y.S.2d 524, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12498 (N.Y. It was proper to dismiss court assistant for insubordination consisting of verbal abuse of her supervisors, refusal to obey direct order, and defiance of authority, and for misconduct involving unauthorized activity, altercations with other employees, unauthorized absences, and abuse of leave time. Crossman-Battisti v Traficanti, 235 A.D.2d 566, 651 N.Y.S.2d 698, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 23 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

Substantial evidence supported finding that affirmative action administrator for State Thruway Authority was guilty of misconduct, despite her claim that her supervisors engaged in pattern of harassment and discrimination, where, inter alia, she admitted reading confidential material despite having been told not to do so, and multiple instances of her insubordination were supported by proof that she engaged in conduct ranging from explicit refusal to obey orders to verbal abuse of supervisors in front of other workers, displaying defiance of authority. Figueroa v New York Thruway Auth., 251 A.D.2d 773, 674 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6780 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

County office for aging properly terminated petitioner's employment as site manager for failing and refusing to perform numerous client assessments and reassessments, and her repeated and unequivocal refusal to ever again perform such job function. Lassiter v County of Dutchess, 256 A.D.2d 578, 683 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14021 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

It was appropriate to dismiss New York City Police officer who refused to answer questions directly and narrowly relating to his official duties, although duly called upon to do so under mandate of Patrol Guide § 118-9. Dombrowski v Safir, 269 A.D.2d 161, 701 N.Y.S.2d 906, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1043 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

209. — —Refusal or failure to take medical examination or treatment

In a proceeding by a deputy sheriff seeking to review a determination by the county sheriff dismissing the deputy from service for misconduct, there was substantial evidence to support the county sheriff's determination where the record revealed that the deputy had been guilty of insubordination in refusing to comply with the direct order of his superior officer to undergo a mental examination, that the deputy had previously been disciplined for abuse of sick leave, that the deputy had previously refused to obey other direct orders, and that the deputy had neglected the duties and responsibilities of his job. Lucheso v Dillon, 80 A.D.2d 988, 439 N.Y.S.2d 783, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10900 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 54 N.Y.2d 601, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 4332 (N.Y. 1981).

In an Article 78 action brought by a fire department lieutenant challenging his disciplinary action and suspension for 60 days in addition to a previous 30-day suspension after the commissioner had found him guilty of charges of engaging in conduct tending to bring reproach on the department by gross disrespect for a superior officer, refusing to explain his absence from post, and refusing to obey orders relieving him of duty and directing him to report to the medical division would be confirmed where department findings were based on substantial evidence, and where the directive that petitioner report to the medical division was reasonable in light of the petitioner's outburst of emotional and disparaging remarks about his superior officer and did not violate petitioner's constitutional rights in that it had not required a psychiatric examination in the formal sense. Rivera v Beekman, 86 A.D.2d 1, 448 N.Y.S.2d 492, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1982).

A penalty of three weeks suspension without pay for an eight-year veteran of the fire department, who was placed on sick leave and failed to report for the second of two medical examinations he had been ordered to appear for, was not so disproportionate to the offense so as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, particularly in light of the need to deter others from similar misconduct. Driscoll v Department of Fire, 89 A.D.2d 1056, 454 N.Y.S.2d 562, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18346 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1982).

Dismissal of Department of Mental Health social worker was appropriate sanction where she admittedly elected to miss psychiatric evaluation despite likely consequences, and she had been subject of other disciplinary charges that culminated in stipulation of settlement wherein parties acknowledged, inter alia, that settlement would constitute her "last chance." Lago v County of Ulster, 228 A.D.2d 905, 644 N.Y.S.2d 418, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7280 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 815, 651 N.Y.S.2d 17, 673 N.E.2d 1244, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3301 (N.Y. 1996).

It was proper to suspend police officer for 28 days based on facts that he was intoxicated and unfit for duty on particular night, and that he failed to comply with direct order to attend alcohol rehabilitation program. Roberts v Bratton, 233 A.D.2d 102, 649 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11422 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), app. denied, 89 N.Y.2d 815, 659 N.Y.S.2d 856, 681 N.E.2d 1303, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 1247 (N.Y. 1997).

Petitioner was properly discharged from his position as police officer for refusing to enter departmental counseling program in disobedience of 4 direct orders, notwithstanding his alleged good faith reliance on private psychiatrist's advice that such would be harmful to his mental health, and his claim that respondent never explicitly warned him that he faced termination if he continued to disobey orders, as (1) proof concerning his precarious mental condition tended to support rather than undermine his unfitness to serve, (2) each infraction resulted in suspension that should have made it clear that disobedience would not be tolerated indefinitely, and (3) charges were serious, involving respondent's requirements for order, authority and discipline. Siciliano v Safir, 259 A.D.2d 366, 687 N.Y.S.2d 61, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

210. — —Secret taping of meeting

In hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, determination of misconduct on part of assistant hospital administrator was supported by evidence that he secretly taped meeting after hospital's chief executive officer told him not to; such insubordination was willful, intentional, and deliberate. O'Malley v Nassau County Medical Center, 143 A.D.2d 426, 532 N.Y.S.2d 578, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9282 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

211. — —Wearing offensive clothing

City's determination finding firefighter guilty of disruption of company harmony and insubordination was not arbitrary, capricious, and abuse of discretion, nor was it affected by error of law because charges allegedly were brought in violation of firefighter's constitutional right of freedom of expression, where he displayed in firehouse T-shirt containing racial message that was offensive to number of his fellow firefighters and he refused to obey direct orders from his superiors to remove shirt; even assuming that message on T-shirt was expression of opinion protected by First Amendment, firefighter was not disciplined for message expressed on shirt, but rather was disciplined for misconduct in refusing direct orders of his superiors. Nelson v City of Buffalo Fire Dep't, 254 A.D.2d 761, 678 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10463 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

212. —Not supported by record

A Spanish War veteran, a storekeeper in Sing Sing prison, was charged with making an authorized offer to trade a calf belonging to prison, and with speaking disrespectfully of the warden. Charges were trivial and insufficient to justify removal, and relator should be reinstated. People ex rel. Kelly v Kirchwey, 177 A.D. 706, 164 N.Y.S. 511, 1917 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5762 (N.Y. App. Div. 1917).

In an Article 78 proceeding reviewing the dismissal of a senior stenographer in the Saratoga County Clerk's office, where offending conduct, although repetitive, was essentially of a technical nature and not deliberately disruptive of the office and not insubordinate, dismissal of the employee was too severe a punishment in view of the nature of the offenses and the employee's prior satisfactory 14-year record; suspension of 6 months without pay was sufficient. Escher v Hall, 37 A.D.2d 1013, 325 N.Y.S.2d 511, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3095 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1971).

Civil service executive's issuing memorandum which could properly be described as overzealous and broad application of judicial decision, and dropping the matter when his memorandum was countermanded, did not constitute insubordination or dereliction of duty, nor was such conduct shown to have prejudiced discipline, good order and efficiency of his department or his employment so as to authorize dismissal. Short v Nassau County Civil Service Com., 59 A.D.2d 157, 398 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13280 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. dismissed, 43 N.Y.2d 843, 402 N.Y.S.2d 812, 373 N.E.2d 992, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1761 (N.Y. 1978), rev'd, 45 N.Y.2d 721, 408 N.Y.S.2d 471, 380 N.E.2d 298, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2183 (N.Y. 1978).

An allegedly scurrilous letter written by petitioner, an employee of a city, to his manager does not constitute insubordination as a matter of law, inasmuch as insubordination implies intentional and willful disobedience in the performance of duty. Pilawa v Utica, 76 A.D.2d 103, 429 N.Y.S.2d 959, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11733 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

A determination that petitioner was guilty of the charge of gross insubordination was not supported by substantial evidence and would be annulled, where there was no showing of wilful disobedience of an order, directive, rule, regulation, policy or law and where the evidence did not relate to the charge. Herod v Board of Education, 90 A.D.2d 841, 456 N.Y.S.2d 84, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19100 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Determination of commissioner of fire department that fireman feigned illness was not supported by evidence, and fireman was justified in refusing to comply with captain's order to take detail, where only expert medical evidence demonstrated that fire department's medical officer found fireman unfit for duty on his scheduled tour due to stomach ailment. Donofrio v Spinnato, 144 A.D.2d 672, 534 N.Y.S.2d 705, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12436 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Supervisor's peremptory attempt to verify police officer's presence at his assigned post did not provide substantial evidence to uphold respondent's finding of guilt as to dereliction of duty charge arising from officer's purported absence from his assignment to patrol subway station, where supervisor did not look very far in contrast with prior instances that day, but only walked along southbound platform without physically checking northbound platform or mezzanine level that bridged platforms, parts of which were not visible from southbound platform. Cotterel v City of New York, 258 A.D.2d 396, 685 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1890 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

An employee cannot be charged with intentional and wilful disobedience where she was physically unable to respond to an order directing her to return to work on the date specified and consequently her failure to do so fell far short of stating a case of insubordination and consequent misconduct such as would justify her discharge. Reisig v Kirby, 62 Misc. 2d 632, 309 N.Y.S.2d 55, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1404 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968), aff'd, 31 A.D.2d 1008, 299 N.Y.S.2d 398, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5390 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1969).

213. Intoxication

Where a patrolman was charged with neglect of duty in failing to patrol the street, drinking intoxicating liquors while on patrol, and associating with a married woman the order of dismissal was not disturbed where there was substantial evidence before the village board. Even though there was some conflict as to the evidence, it was for the board to determine its weight. Mack v Cramer, 285 A.D. 925, 137 N.Y.S.2d 435, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6116 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

Penalty of discharge of deputy sheriff for violation of rules against drinking on duty and requiring that deputy give number where he can be reached when "out of service" was not excessive. Deputy sheriff who was discharged for violation of rules against drinking on duty and requiring that deputy give number where he can be reached when "out of service" was not denied due process on ground that rules were not written where the rules were well known by all the deputies and understood by petitioner. Suchocki v Amico, 55 A.D.2d 814, 390 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15619 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In an Article 78 proceeding, a determination of a city's mayor dismissing plaintiff from his position of assistant chief of the city's fire department would be confirmed where termination was not so disproportionate to the offenses of which plaintiff had been found guilty in a hearing, namely failing to respond to an alarm, failing to provide the fire department with his telephone number, and reporting to work while intoxicated, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Moreover, the appointment of the city's Corporation Counsel as the hearing officer for plaintiff's hearing was proper where there was nothing in the record to indicate that the counsel had any prior knowledge of the charges against plaintiff. Foley v Plattsburgh, 81 A.D.2d 677, 437 N.Y.S.2d 798, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11220 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981).

Directive to car maintainer for New York City Transit Authority to submit to blood and urine test was not predicated on reasonable suspicion, and thus his failure to comply did not constitute grounds for disciplinary action, where no witness had seen him drinking although superintendent had been observing him for 30 minutes, there was no evidence to link car maintainer with tool locker in which vodka bottle was found, and there was no evidence that car maintainer had been in accident, had bloodshot eyes, alcoholic breath or incoherent speech, or that he was staggering; car maintainer's mere presence in area allegedly used by employees for alcohol consumption did not establish reasonable suspicion. Fiorenza v Gunn, 140 A.D.2d 295, 527 N.Y.S.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4636 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

In proceeding to discipline deputy sheriff for conduct unbecoming police officer, determination of guilt was amply supported by record showing that deputy purchased alcoholic beverages for 18-year-old and witnessed others purchasing alcoholic beverages for same youth, who was seriously injured in fight on night in question, and that other alcohol-related complaints had been lodged against deputy in past. Wayering v County of St. Lawrence, 154 A.D.2d 824, 546 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12686 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

While laborer could not be discharged solely because of his alleged alcoholism, his employment was properly terminated when his alcoholism prevented him from coming to work on inordinate number of occasions, since Human Rights Law does not bar dismissal of one whose disability prevents him from performing his assigned duties. McEniry v Landi, 198 A.D.2d 417, 604 N.Y.S.2d 124, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10864 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1993), rev'd, 84 N.Y.2d 554, 620 N.Y.S.2d 328, 644 N.E.2d 1019, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4122 (N.Y. 1994).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate to offense where city employees were drinking beer while on duty after they had notice that employees found drinking alcohol while on duty were subject to immediate dismissal. Dunning v City of Newburgh, 210 A.D.2d 404, 620 N.Y.S.2d 105, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12841 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

City manager's determination, which rejected hearing officer's recommendation and dismissed petitioner from his position as police officer for violation of department rules and regulations re alcohol, was supported by substantial evidence (including state trooper's testimony as to his observations and results of scientific tests he performed, testimony of city police sergeant, testimony of individual whose vehicle was hit by vehicle driven by petitioner, and petitioner's admissions). Corcoran v City of Newburgh, 237 A.D.2d 518, 656 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2841 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1997).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding in which petitioner alleged that he was discriminated based on his alcoholism when, following second incident in which he caused disturbance while intoxicated, he was given choice of resigning or being discharged without any proof that he would be unable to perform his job after completing alcohol abuse treatment program, as discipline which resulted in petitioner's eventual loss of his job was imposed prior to second incident, 6 weeks before he even entered treatment, when he agreed to be bound by conditions of settlement agreement resolving first incident, including enrollment in treatment program, and to accept consequences outlined in agreement, including summary discharge for failure to comply with terms of agreement as alternative to ordinary disciplinary process. Wolfe v Jurczynski, 241 A.D.2d 88, 671 N.Y.S.2d 864, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4528 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Termination of petitioner's employment as school district bus driver was appropriate on finding that she was under influence of alcohol at safety workshop, and that on her return to school district property, she drove out of parking lot at high rate of speed, spinning her tires, and performing "doughnut" and "fishtailing" in parking lot. Collins v Parishville-Hopkinton Cent. Sch. Dist., 274 A.D.2d 732, 710 N.Y.S.2d 728, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

214. —Participation in treatment program

The dismissal of a former employee of a city transit authority would be affirmed, where the employee had an extensive prior disciplinary record, where under Civ S L § 75 the employee's employer was not bound by the recommendations of an advisory board concerning the employee's fate, and where the employee's participation in an alcohol treatment program was not grounds for disturbing his employer's determination, in that Men Hyg Law § 19.01, though declaring that state and local governments have a responsibility to detect and prevent alcohol abuse problems and treat individuals who have them, does not guarantee continued public employment. Turner v Simpson, 60 N.Y.2d 959, 471 N.Y.S.2d 56, 459 N.E.2d 165, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3583 (N.Y. 1983).

215. Non-residency

Determination terminating petitioner from her employment with city because she failed to maintain her permanent residence within city as required under city code would be annulled since she had been city employee for over 20 years and she was city resident at time of her employment; in absence of fraud, municipal civil service commission was not authorized to direct petitioner's termination for non-residence more than 3 years after her employment. Harvey v Rubino, 252 A.D.2d 981, 676 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8496 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

216. Off-duty misconduct

A mere technical breach of the rules without wrongful intent on part of a world war veteran protected by this law, employed in the county treasurer's office, is not sufficient to warrant his dismissal. People ex rel. Rigby v Anderson, 198 A.D. 283, 190 N.Y.S. 300, 1921 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8078 (N.Y. App. Div. 1921).

Fact that patrolman employed by city housing authority was off duty at time of alleged acts giving rise to disciplinary proceeding did not preclude dismissal of the patrolman in light of nature and character of his employment. McPherson v New York City Housing Authority, 47 A.D.2d 828, 365 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9168 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Under CLS Civ S § 75, village superintendent of public works was subject to discipline for off-duty misconduct, and his apology did not excuse abusive conduct in after-hours, work-related phone call to fellow employee. Logan v New Paltz, 129 A.D.2d 935, 514 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45597 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Determination finding 3 city police officers guilty of misconduct was supported by facts that 2 officers, at behest of third officer, engaged in off-duty employment without seeking and obtaining permission therefor as required by police department's rules and regulations, and third officer failed to make certain that officers he solicited had followed proper procedures as he was affirmatively obligated to do. Forfeiture of 15 vacation days imposed against 2 police officers found guilty of misconduct for engaging in off-duty employment without seeking and obtaining required permission therefor was not authorized under CLS Civ S § 75(3) and thus would be vacated and matter remitted for appropriate penalty; further, it was excessive to impose 60-day suspension on third police officer, who solicited other officers to engage in off-duty employment without making certain that those officers had followed proper procedures, and such penalty would be vacated and remanded for imposition of appropriate sanction. Geberth v Augustine, 143 A.D.2d 910, 533 N.Y.S.2d 504, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10287 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 601, 541 N.Y.S.2d 984, 539 N.E.2d 1112, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 565 (N.Y. 1989).

Penalty imposed was not disproportionate to correction officer's misconduct where sheriff suspended him without pay for 10 days and suspended his right to carry weapon for one year as penalty for having drawn his weapon, while off duty, and pointing at 4 teenagers after one of them had thrown package of lighted firecrackers in his direction; sheriff did not abuse his discretion in imposing greater penalty than $100 fine recommended by hearing officer. Reynolds v Dooley, 146 A.D.2d 575, 536 N.Y.S.2d 499 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Substantial evidence supported determination that correction officer was guilty of misconduct where it was shown that, while off duty, he drew his weapon and pointed it at 4 teenagers after one of them threw package of lighted firecrackers in his direction. Reynolds v Dooley, 146 A.D.2d 575, 536 N.Y.S.2d 499 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Suspension without pay for 2 weeks was unduly harsh in case of vice-president of police benevolent association (petitioner) who wrote letter to members of village board of trustees that was critical of chief of police and mayor where petitioner had performed 16 years of exemplary, unblemished public service, letter did not flow from his performance of his police responsibilities but rather was attributable to his efforts to advance agenda of police benevolent association, and he did not publish letter or attempt to foment dissension within police force; simple reprimand should have sufficed. MacFarlane v Village of Scotia, 241 A.D.2d 574, 659

N.Y.S.2d 351, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7204 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 90 N.Y.2d 1008, 666 N.Y.S.2d 102, 688 N.E.2d 1384, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3625 (N.Y. 1997).

Penalty of dismissal of petitioner as police officer, and denial of his application for disability retirement based on his dismissal, was not excessive where he engaged in prohibited off-duty employment while on sick report, possessed blackjack, had unauthorized ammunition in his firearm, and attempted to facilitate sale of steroids. Ranalli v Safir, 250 A.D.2d 507, 672 N.Y.S.2d 872, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5862 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

It was proper to dismiss New York City Housing Authority police officer who acted unlawfully and in manner unacceptable for police officer in off-duty encounter with civilian motorist, knowingly and inappropriately associated with individual reasonably believed to have been, or likely to be, engaged in criminal activity, and made false and misleading statements to Housing Authority investigator. Saliba v New York City Hous. Auth., 254 A.D.2d 202, 679 N.Y.S.2d 121, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11407 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Court would annul determination that petitioner, school custodian, committed misconduct by improperly failing to return to work after his accident although physically capable of resuming his duties where only medical evidence consisted of testimony of petitioner's treating neurologist, who concluded that petitioner was suffering from post concussion syndrome, which was consistent with his complaints of dizziness, weakness, and fatigue, and surveillance videotape on which hearing officer relied in sustaining charge did not show that petitioner was indeed capable of fully resuming his duties during 8-hour shift. Hofsiss v Bd. of Educ., 287 A.D.2d 566, 732 N.Y.S.2d 14, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

Although substantial evidence supported the hearing officer's determination of a custodian's misconduct in a domestic incident with his girlfriend, termination was improper because the custodian had been employed by the district for 20 years without any prior incidents of misconduct, the misconduct in question occurred off premises, it did not involve anyone associated with the school, and the custodian did not hold a high profile job at the school; moreover, even under the version of events found credible by the hearing officer, it was apparent that the girlfriend was intoxicated, she instigated the physical conduct during their fight and struck the custodian before he pushed her to the floor, and the prosecutor determined not to pursue any criminal charges for the incident. There was no legal basis for making discipline more severe based on the size of the community. Matter of James v Hoosick Falls Cent. School Dist., 93 A.D.3d 1131, 941 N.Y.S.2d 335, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2367 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2012).

217. Unauthorized on-job acts

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate where correction officer engaged in unauthorized procurement and sale of reproduced shields of county department of correction to fellow officer, in contravention of department policy which warned that violation "may result in...forfeiture of employment," and where he was further derelict in his duties in engaging in business unrelated to his responsibilities while on duty. Roberti v Maffucci, 135 A.D.2d 821, 522 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52751 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 808, 533 N.Y.S.2d 57, 529 N.E.2d 425, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2668 (N.Y. 1988).

Substantial evidence supported determination of New York City Transit Authority which dismissed petitioner from his position as bus driver for illegal sale of transfer books where evidence adduced at hearing included audio and videotape of sale made by transit authority officer who personally observed sale and who testified at hearing. Penalty of dismissal of bus driver for illegal sale of transfer books was not so disproportionate as to shock one's sense of fairness. Gellman v Gunn, 143 A.D.2d 628, 533 N.Y.S.2d 113, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9497 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

It was arbitrary and capricious for police commissioner to discharge police officers who were found guilty of wrongfully repossessing automobile since conclusion that officers participated in wrongdoing for money, rather than out of their friendship with employee of bank that was endeavoring to repossess automobile, was unsupported by evidence in record that they had asked for or received any fee; additionally, penalty was disproportionate, inasmuch as neither officer had prior disciplinary record. McAvoy v Ward, 145 A.D.2d 378, 535 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13465 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1988), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 606, 544 N.Y.S.2d 820, 543 N.E.2d 85, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 931 (N.Y. 1989), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 607, 544 N.Y.S.2d 820, 543 N.E.2d 85, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 943 (N.Y. 1989).

Substantial evidence supported termination of petitioner's employment for misconduct where testimony and other evidence established that petitioner improperly transferred bus passes and retained proceeds therefrom. Termination of petitioner's employment for improperly transferring bus passes and retaining proceedings therefrom was not excessive punishment, even in light of petitioner's years of service and lack of prior disciplinary charges, since his acts were properly characterized as breach of trust and moral turpitude, and termination was not so disproportionate to offense so as to shock one's sense of fairness. Moorehead v Langloh, 146 A.D.2d 777, 537 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 864 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

It was not improper to dismiss petitioner from his position as town housing inspector for failing to issue 2 summonses for violations of town code with respect to outstanding violations at 2 sites that he purportedly visited, for issuing summons to individual who was not in fact owner of record of premises in question, and for using town car as transportation to court on personal matter; town appropriately considered petitioner's incompetence and misconduct as evidencing indifference to his public trust and responsibilities. Amato v Babylon, 151 A.D.2d 662, 543 N.Y.S.2d 99, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8126 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

In disciplinary proceeding, administrative finding that employee of Department of Public Service (DPS) operated private business from his state workplace was sustained by hearsay evidence that he managed private business venture from his office at DPS, and documentary evidence that he made numerous local and long-distance phone calls to persons having no apparent connection with DPS. Dean v Bradford, 158 A.D.2d 772, 551 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 911 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Dismissal of police officer was not disproportionate to offenses where officer failed to safeguard his police department shield and identification card in that he handed them over to unauthorized individual, failed to take proper action despite knowledge of illegal drug activity by 2 individuals, and failed to cooperate with police department by refusing to answer questions at official departmental interview. Turkoanje v Ward, 160 A.D.2d 534, 554 N.Y.S.2d 185, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4568 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Dismissal of police officer was warranted by fact that, while engaging in horseplay with fellow officer, he placed his gun in fellow officer's mouth, and thereafter, withdrawing unholstered gun from his waistband, caused it discharge, injuring fellow officer. Villarini v Safir, 247 A.D.2d 247, 669 N.Y.S.2d 21, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1041 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Penalty of dismissal of teacher's aide would not be disturbed since allegations of his inappropriate comments and physical contact were particularly egregious in light of special education population on which his infractions were targeted. Burkes v Enlarged City Sch. Dist., 257 A.D.2d 891, 684 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 506 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Sanitation worker was properly dismissed for violating general order prohibiting loading of more than 3 cans, bags, bundles, or boxes for collection service of trade waste where he participated in loading renovation debris far in excess of 3-bag limit with assistance of persons who were not occupants of residence he was servicing under circumstances that should have at least caused doubt as to nature of material he was loading, especially since general order provided that its violation was ground for termination regardless of whether violator received any payment. Mallon v Doherty, 269 A.D.2d 282, 703 N.Y.S.2d 137, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2014 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Termination of a typist's employment was upheld because there was sufficient evidence of the typist's misconduct to support the hearing officer's determination in a N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 proceeding sustaining the charges pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7803(4); despite the typist's allegations that an altercation with the coworker was not her fault, the typist admitted that she participated in such an exchange, and also admitted the factual allegations of other charges, such as keeping a calendar of the coworker's late arrivals and early departures from work, and being a member of the hate club directed at the coworker. The typist was also charged with making threatening comments to certain other employees who testified that they were concerned about their physical safety and the safety of their personal property as a result of speaking out against typist. Matter of Sindoni v County of Tioga, 67 A.D.3d 1183, 889 N.Y.S.2d 285, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7974 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2009).

County administrator properly terminated a nurse's employment because the administrator's determination was independent and fully informed, the administrator was not required to read the entirety of the hearing transcript, the nurse knowingly possessed an internal quality assurance form and the attached prescription—containing confidential information relating to one of the nursing home's residents—without permission and in violation of the nursing home's policies, and termination of the nurse's employment was not so disproportionate to the offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Matter of Bruso v Clinton County, 139 A.D.3d 1169, 31 N.Y.S.3d 277, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3423 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2016).

218. —Automobile involved

It was appropriate to suspend police officer for 5 days without pay for operating police vehicle at excessive rate of speed and failing to exercise due care. Dwyer v City of White Plains Dep't of Pub. Safety, 205 A.D.2d 534, 613 N.Y.S.2d 44, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6001 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Suspension of police officer for 60 days without pay was appropriate sanction based on his driving police vehicle in improper, unsafe, reckless, careless, or negligent manner, endangering safety and welfare of himself and others, causing damage to police vehicle, and failing to follow proper police rules and regulations. Hoffman v Village of Sidney, 235 A.D.2d 698, 652 N.Y.S.2d 346, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

It was improper to dismiss petitioner from his employment as school district bus driver merely based on one instance of speeding in fast-moving section of highway with no students in vehicle, especially since he had been licensed driver for about 43 years and received prior traffic ticket, and he was employed with district for 14 years with good disciplinary record. Smith v Board of Educ., 235 A.D.2d 912, 652 N.Y.S.2d 666, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 586 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1997).

219. —Breach of trust

Penalty of dismissal imposed on city architect for using his position, in return for payment of fee, to assist community organization in obtaining grant moneys was not excessive since infraction, which violated NYC Charter § 2604(C)(1) and (2), involved breach of trust for which termination is appropriate. Sullivan v New York Dep't of Housing Preservation & Dev., 162 A.D.2d 147, 556 N.Y.S.2d 568, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6998 (N.Y. 220. —Failure to act

School busdriver whose annual salary notice specifies 10 month period of employment is unclassified employee who may be terminated at will without hearing; in any event, termination of employment when busdriver leaves 4 year old child at child's home, rather than at home of babysitter, some 2 miles distant, without checking either route sheet or tag worn by child, both of which indicate place where child is to be let off, is not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to sense of fairness. Tyson v Hess, 66 N.Y.2d 943, 498 N.Y.S.2d 778, 489 N.E.2d 747, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 18246 (N.Y. 1985).

Dismissal was appropriate sanction against firefighter who, while on watch and responsible for receiving alarms and alerting other firefighters, failed to answer emergency call and only responded after numerous further attempts were made to contact him, resulting in significant delay in responding to request for assistance to heart attack victim; serious nature of such misconduct and firefighter's prior history of disciplinary violations warranted such sanction. Ross v Bringewatt, 134 A.D.2d 913, 522 N.Y.S.2d 68, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51113 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1987), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 801, 527 N.Y.S.2d 767, 522 N.E.2d 1065, 1988 N.Y. State police officer was properly dismissed from employment where (1) while he and 2 other officers were at topless bar while off duty, employee of bar observed concealed weapon on one of them and reported such fact to local police officers, (2) not knowing that respondent and his companions were state police officers, local officers approached them and asked companion who carried gun to accompany him outside, (3) scuffle ensued and state police officers were ultimately taken to police headquarters, and (4) state police officers were violent and abusive at police headquarters and threatened local officers with future retribution when they used highways. Petry v Constantine, 210 A.D.2d 866, 621 N.Y.S.2d 131, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13254 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

It was inappropriate to dismiss maintenance mechanic for failing to turn in his keys on particular day and for disobeying written directive prohibiting use of elevator manual override key during business hours, especially considering his 8-year unblemished disciplinary record; under circumstances, penalty should not exceed 30-day suspension. In re Christopher M., 218 A.D.2d 700, 630 N.Y.S.2d 940, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8675 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Dismissal is entirely appropriate penalty for police officer who allows friend to commit what officer knows to be rape. Sadler v Bratton, 219 A.D.2d 517, 631 N.Y.S.2d 664, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9508 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Penalty of termination for school teacher's failure to protect student from harm was so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, and thus case would be remitted for imposition of appropriate penalty not to exceed one-year suspension without pay, where incident was isolated one in teacher's 22 years of service, and she took steps to follow return-to-duty procedures. Will v Frontier Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 281 A.D.2d 902, 722 N.Y.S.2d 201, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2854 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 284 A.D.2d 1018, 730 N.Y.S.2d 888, 2001 N.Y. In an action pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78, it was determined that an agency erred in terminating a worker upon a finding of misconduct in a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75; the misconduct, in which the worker made an error with respect to the chemical solutions used in a water treatment plant and intentionally withheld the information from his supervisor until the next day, did not warrant such a penalty, and in consideration of the worker's length of service and other factors, a one year suspension was the maximum penalty. Murray v Ilion Water Comm'n, 9 A.D.3d 903, 780 N.Y.S.2d 262, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9570 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2004).

221. —Sexual harassment

In an Article 78 proceeding by a school custodian to review his termination on charges of harassment of a female teacher, termination was proper where, as part of a recurring course of misconduct, the custodian telephoned the teacher in order to arrange a rendezvous for the purpose of having sex, after the school district had ordered him to refrain from further contact with the teacher. Brais v Board of Education, 92 A.D.2d 706, 460 N.Y.S.2d 387, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16992 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

A determination of the Commissioner of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, which terminated petitioner's employment as a chief of services at a particular development center following a hearing during which petitioner was found guilty of 22 specifications of sexual harassment against six women complainants, all of whom were dependent upon petitioner's recommendation to either retain their jobs or gain promotion, would be affirmed where there was no error in the fact that the commissioner disagreed with the lesser recommended penalty of the hearing officer. Petties v New York State Dep't of Mental Retardation & Developmental Disabilities, 93 A.D.2d 960, 463 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17859 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983).

Evidence supported finding that building maintenance foreman committed sexual harassment of 2 female employees where (1) employees, who were dependent on his recommendation to either retain their jobs or gain promotion, recounted many instances when he engaged them in sexually oriented conversations to which they objected, including detailed narratives about his vasectomy, and (2) there was ample proof that he kissed one employee against her will and offered to falsify her attendance record in return for sexual favors, and that he expressed sexual desire to other employee while touching her in suggestive manner. Crookston v Brown, 140 A.D.2d 868, 528 N.Y.S.2d 908, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5332 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

School transportation supervisor was properly discharged for sexually harassing several female subordinate employees by kissing them and patting their buttocks on several occasions without their consent, on one occasion squeezing complainant's breast, and repeatedly using vulgar language despite warnings to stop. Comeau v Board of Educ. of Ballston Spa Cent. School Dist., 160 A.D.2d 1150, 554 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4518 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

It was proper to dismiss police officer who sexually harassed fellow officer over lengthy time period and, on one occasion, threatened to throw her off roof of building for lodging complaints against him. Daly v Bratton, 243 A.D.2d 367, 663 N.Y.S.2d 182, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10314 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

Town board acted reasonably in dismissing town police officer from his employment, despite officer's denial of having subjected complainant to unwanted sexual contact, where (1) board was justified in crediting, instead, testimony of complainant and other witnesses, which was essentially consistent, and (2) even if officer's denial of that charge were believed, his termination was necessitated by his later act of informing complainant that she was subject of narcotics investigation, thus compromising safety and operations of police department. Ost v Supervisor of Woodstock, 251 A.D.2d 724, 673 N.Y.S.2d 768, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6464 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 488, 707 N.E.2d 443, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4260 (N.Y. 1998).

Substantial evidence supported termination of county data processing director for misconduct and lack of competence in supervising his employees where (1) one female employee testified that director gave her $50 gift certificate to Victoria's Secret, kissed her on lips, asked her clothing and underwear sizes, gave her gifts of clothing and perfume, touched her on hip/thigh area, asked her to rub his neck, pulled her onto his lap, and inappropriately touched or grabbed her almost daily, (2) second female employee testified that director called her his "sexretary" and inappropriately touched her, and (3) those allegations were corroborated by testimony by director or other employees. Termination of county data processing director for misconduct and lack of competence in supervising his employees was not so disproportionate to his offense as to shock one's sense of fairness where, over extended period, he clearly exhibited great disregard for female employees under his direct supervision by subjecting them to wholly inappropriate touching and sexual comments. Ernst v Saratoga County, 251 A.D.2d 866, 674 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7332 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

222. —Smoking

Dismissal of court officer did not shock one's sense of fairness where he committed acts of misconduct directed against 3 female co-workers, including unwanted physical contact and sexually suggestive remarks. Connolly v Williams, 210 A.D.2d 19, 618 N.Y.S.2d 808, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11874 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Court upheld discharge of elementary school custodian for misconduct in that (1) substantial evidence supported finding that he was guilty of smoking on school grounds, and (2) termination was not disproportionate to offense where cigarettes igniting waste paper in plastic trash pail near his desk, causing fire in school basement and necessitating evacuation of students. Smith v Board of Educ., 259 A.D.2d 704, 686 N.Y.S.2d 835, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2722 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

223. —Use of excessive force by officer-employee

New York City Civil Service Commission properly dismissed correction officer for use of excessive force against inmates and failure to make proper notification regarding use of force against inmate, notwithstanding officer's lack of disciplinary record. Perez v New York Civil Service Com., 140 A.D.2d 224, 528 N.Y.S.2d 73, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5279 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 533 N.Y.S.2d 56, 529 N.E.2d 424, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2564 (N.Y. 1988).

It was not excessive to dismiss correction officers who used unreasonable force against inmate, submitted false reports of incident, and gave false statements to investigators. Mansfield v Sielaff, 184 A.D.2d 477, 585 N.Y.S.2d 425, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8631 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 760, 591 N.Y.S.2d 138, 605 N.E.2d 874, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 3839 (N.Y. 1992).

It was appropriate to dismiss police officer who, in course of integrity test, performed illegal search and used excessive force in assault on undercover police officer. Kennedy v Safir, 254 A.D.2d 61, 679 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10162 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

It was proper to dismiss police officer who instigated altercation with complainants and used excessive and unjustified force both before and after illegally arresting them. Morrissey v Safir, 254 A.D.2d 150, 679 N.Y.S.2d 293, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10995 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

It was improper to require police officer (petitioner) to forfeit 10 vacation days as penalty for using excess of force in making arrest where there was no basis for differential penalties imposed on 2 police officers involved in incident, other officer was penalized with loss of only 5 vacation days, Administrative Law Judge attributed administrative penalty imposed on other officer to petitioner, who had prior unblemished disciplinary record, and First Deputy Commissioner improperly cited petitioner's election to pursue administrative trial as justification for higher penalty; thus, penalty would be reduced to forfeiture of 5 vacation days. Meagher v Safir, 272 A.D.2d 114, 707 N.Y.S.2d 422, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5409 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), modified, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

It was proper for police commissioner to direct that petitioner forfeit 15 vacation days for having attempted to coerce detainee not to file complaint with Civilian Complaint Review Board. Driscoll v Safir, 284 A.D.2d 106, 725 N.Y.S.2d 546, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5658 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

ii. Criminal Misconduct

224. In general

A determination of commissioner of hospitals of New York city removing an honorably discharged soldier of the World war from a position in the department of hospitals on a charge that he had received from a contracting company or the president thereof sums of money at a time when he had been inspecting work done by that company, must be annulled, where no evidence was offered that he had inspected any work done by such contracting company or that he was an inspector or that the city had suffered injury or damage. Meyer v Goldwater, 286 N.Y. 461, 36 N.E.2d 663, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 461, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1462 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 286 N.Y. 697, 37 N.E.2d 139, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 697, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 2249 (N.Y. 1941).

Evidence sustained administrative finding that correction officer was guilty of misconduct stemming from charge that he delivered tobacco to inmate in demeaning fashion, causing disturbance in cell block, where several inmates testified that they saw him unzip his pants, put tobacco in his pants, and then offer it to inmate; further, there was sufficient basis for to discredit portions of officer's testimony and to determine that he had lied about incident during ensuing investigation, where he initially did not deny incident but stated that tobacco was in his pants pocket, and later stated that he could not specifically recall incident. Billings v County of St. Lawrence, 139 A.D.2d 809, 526

N.Y.S.2d 677, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Sanction of dismissal imposed on police officer was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where officer violated Patrol Guide by (1) not requesting presence of sergeant before searching body and premises of dead person, (2) not properly safeguarding or vouchering currency found in deceased's pocket, (3) placing currency in another location, (4) knowingly and falsely telling sergeant that he had not recovered currency, and (5) not making proper activity log entries of his assignment; officer's conduct was similar to that of thief and was not in conformity with responsibilities of police officer. Ward v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 287, 552 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2668 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination that police officer wrongfully made use of police department's computer system, and failed to safeguard computer printout of license plate number assigned to confidential automobile used by organized crime investigation division, where (1) computer memory records and precinct computer logbook placed police officer at exact place and time that printout was generated, and (2) printout was found in possession of reputed organized crime figure. Tuzzio v Ward, 160 A.D.2d 583, 554 N.Y.S.2d 227, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4613 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Determination that county employee obstructed governmental administration lacked rational basis where (1) charge arose from allegations concerning telephone conversation employee had with his wife and subsequent conversation wife had with co-worker, (2) wife and co-worker both denied that conversation had occurred, (3) only contrary evidence was contained in police investigation report concerning conversation between wife and co-worker, which was overheard by third party, (4) neither officer who prepared report nor third party testified at hearing, (5) there was no evidence from which it could be concluded that third party was actually in position to overhear conversation between people who denied that conversation took place, and (6) there was no evidence concerning either reliability of third person or statement made to police. Riley v Schles, 185 A.D.2d 437, 585 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8886 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

State Police investigator was properly found guilty of acting in manner which tended to bring discredit on State Police in connection with his son's arrest at college for driving while intoxicated where investigator telephoned sergeant of campus police and stated that he sought some "slack" with regard to charge because of his position. Brown v Constantine, 199 A.D.2d 912, 606 N.Y.S.2d 65, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12385 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Respondent police commissioner's determination that petitioner was unfit for position of special patrolman was supported by substantial evidence, including testimony concerning petitioner's history of harassment and assault which culminated in incidents that resulted in his arrest for violating order of protection and aggravated harassment, and police detective's testimony that petitioner had lied when he denied making threatening phone call to his children's mother; petitioner's acquittal of criminal charges did not preclude respondent's finding of guilt and revocation of "special patrolman" designation. Gonzalez v Police Comm'r, 227 A.D.2d 287, 642 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5379 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Penalty of dismissal imposed on police officer who attempted to fix traffic ticket by harassing and intimidating fellow officer into making false statements was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to court's sense of fairness. Cohen v Bratton, 232 A.D.2d 304, 648 N.Y.S.2d 588, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10579 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

It was proper to dismiss of correction officer on basis of single incident of bringing dangerous contraband into facility, particularly since his misconduct endangered safety of others. Collins v Jacobson, 247 A.D.2d 269, 667 N.Y.S.2d 903, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1422 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

It was appropriate to dismiss police officer who utilized various improper tactics to enable his uncle to monopolize corner where he operated his food cart and who provided false testimony at departmental interview. Spiratos v Safir, 249 A.D.2d 240, 672 N.Y.S.2d 311, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4754 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Penalty of termination of police officer's employment was not shockingly unfair and disproportionate to his misconduct where (1) he participated in what he knew to be illegal search, seizure, and arrest, and (2) he consistently lied to superior officers, prosecutors, and other officials concerning circumstances of that arrest. McDonough v Bratton, 251 A.D.2d 51, 674 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6418 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Arbitrator, in upholding discharge of police officer, did not err by giving collateral estoppel effect to judgment in criminal matter, convicting officer of various offenses arising from same conduct at issue in arbitration, even though criminal judgment was still under appeal at time award was made; however, court properly vacated arbitration award and directed new hearing of issues before arbitrator based on subsequent reversal of criminal judgment, which was sole factual basis for award. Beard v Town of Newburgh, 259 A.D.2d 613, 686 N.Y.S.2d 809, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2467 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 958, 694 N.Y.S.2d 635, 716 N.E.2d 700, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1388 (N.Y. 1999).

225. Assault

The registrar in the department of health of New York city may be removed after trial and upon proof of an indecent assault upon a woman whom he was treating as a physician in private practice and while acting outside his official duties, although he has been previously indicted and acquitted upon a criminal charge of rape founded upon same assault. People ex rel. Wood v Department of Health, 144 A.D. 628, 129 N.Y.S. 255, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4204 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 202 N.Y. 610, 95 N.E. 823, 202 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 610, 1911 N.Y. LEXIS 1183 (N.Y. 1911).

Petitioner's dismissal as a clerk typist for a county social services department was justified where she had pled guilty to assaulting a security officer at her workplace, and had demonstrated an uncontrollable and violent temper. Pollman v Fahey, 106 A.D.2d 771, 483 N.Y.S.2d 805, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21698 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1984).

Department of Correction's decision to discharge correction officer was supported by substantial evidence and was proper sanction where officer used knife to stab prisoner in buttock following prisoner's trivial and short-lived failure to follow rules, even where administrative law judge had recommended only suspension; even if officer's allegations that stabbing was accidental had not been incredible, proper sanction would still have been discharge, since even inadvertent wielding of knife while initiating coercive physical contact would evidence grave failure of judgment. Johnson v Ward, 124 A.D.2d 466, 507 N.Y.S.2d 852, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 61798 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986).

Court would annul determination of police commissioner which dismissed officer from police department since dismissal was arbitrary, capricious and irrational, and shocked conscience, where misconduct of officer consisted of wrongfully striking woman in face with his fist while off duty and in civilian clothes, and wrongfully submitting altered sick return slip and being absent from duty for 3 days without leave; police commissioner's disciplinary determinations showed disturbing pattern of inconsistency of punishment where 2 other officers who had committed much more violent assaults on civilians had been punished by minor suspensions. In re Application of Trotman, 146 A.D.2d 236, 540 N.Y.S.2d 774, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4882 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 609, 545 N.Y.S.2d 105, 543 N.E.2d 748, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 1040 (N.Y. 1989).

Evidence did not support mayor's determination that petitioner was guilty of misconduct, warranting his dismissal as city police officer, for allegedly having assaulted his girlfriend, where girlfriend had recanted accusations and hearing officer recommended dismissal of charges, although he found "faint suspicion" that recantation was not credible, and there was nothing in record to indicate that girlfriend was lying in connection with recantation other than fact that she and petitioner had recommenced dating. Pocengal v Crabb, 154 A.D.2d 772, 546 N.Y.S.2d 225, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12386 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Court would dismiss Article 78 proceedings brought by police officers to review determinations finding them guilty of misconduct and imposing forfeiture of 20 days' vacation time each where determinations were supported by evidence that (1) first officer physically assaulted individual outside school in presence of 2 students and one teacher, and then arrested individual without cause, and (2) second officer was present during incident and gave false description of events to investigating officer. Evans v Ward, 155 A.D.2d 249, 546 N.Y.S.2d 624, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13699 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding to review determination by police commissioner that officer was guilty of charges and specifications lodged against him for assaulting his former girlfriend, court would reject officer's argument that testimony of witnesses was incredible where testimony was supported by medical evidence to effect that girlfriend could not have sustained her injuries if officer had only sought to defend himself. Cosentino v Ward, 155 A.D.2d 362, 547 N.Y.S.2d 331, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14328 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Dismissal of correction officer did not shock one's sense of fairness where correction officer, who had recently completed his probationary training, engaged in unprovoked physical attack on individual, causing serious injury to individual, and following attack, offered physical resistance and threats against uniformed arresting officers who responded to scene. Islar v Koehler, 160 A.D.2d 575, 554 N.Y.S.2d 219, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4611 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Penalty of dismissal imposed on deputy sheriff was not disproportionate to his offense where he had participated, after night of drinking, in off-duty interdiction of 2 innocent persons lawfully on public highway, had given no reason or cause for vicious, callous assault on them, and had tried to conceal offense. Robertson v Eccleston, 183 A.D.2d 1045, 583 N.Y.S.2d 630, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7165 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

Substantial evidence supported termination of police officer's employment, and penalty of dismissal did not shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness, where officer verbally and physically assaulted detective, causing injuries to his groin, without provocation and as result of officer's belief that detective was involved in undercover Internal Affairs investigations. McGaughey v Safir, 266 A.D.2d 100, 698 N.Y.S.2d 471, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11650 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. denied, 94 N.Y.2d 760, 706 N.Y.S.2d 80, 727 N.E.2d 577, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 107 (N.Y. 2000).

It was proper to impose forfeiture of 20 vacation days on finding that police officer unjustifiably and without provocation struck individual with nightstick during course of arrest. Potter v Safir, 284 A.D.2d 156, 728 N.Y.S.2d 428, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6151 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

In a hearing pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, the police officer was on suspension for excessive use of force on the job when he engaged in the physically abusive conduct toward his 20-year-old girlfriend; that, alone, was sufficient to sustain the penalty of termination even without considering his additional misconduct of providing alcohol to and using the influence of his position to get alcohol served to an individual under the age of 21. Correll v Bucci, 19 A.D.3d 919, 798 N.Y.S.2d 157, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7110 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

226. Automobile involved

In a proceeding by an employee seeking to review a determination of a town superintendent of highways dismissing the employee after making a finding that the employee drove with a suspended license and failed to notify the highway department about the suspension, the determination of guilty on the charges could not be sustained where, although a police department computer print-out indicated that the employee's license was suspended twice for failure to answer a summons, nothing in the record demonstrated that the employee knew that his license had been suspended; the employee's dismissal, likewise, could not be sustained where his termination was recommended by the hearing officer and affirmed by the superintendent because of the seriousness of the charges involving driving without a license. Farrell v Dowling, 82 A.D.2d 918, 440 N.Y.S.2d 685, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14638 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

Determination dismissing petitioner from his position as firefighter would be modified to extent of annulling determinations of guilt on charges and specifications involving petitioner's plea of nolo contendere to charge of driving while intoxicated in Florida since nolo contendere plea in criminal proceeding cannot be relied on in subsequent civil or administrative action as proof of facts alleged in indictment. Longo v Dolce, 192 A.D.2d 157, 600 N.Y.S.2d 962, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7665 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 836, 606 N.Y.S.2d 589, 627 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4312 (N.Y. 1993).

Substantial evidence supported termination of village motor equipment officer for misconduct and incompetence where he committed criminal offense of driving while intoxicated as felony, drove village-owned vehicles with revoked license, and took unauthorized leave of absence. Hussey v Incorporated Village of Farmingdale, 251 A.D.2d 579, 674 N.Y.S.2d 757, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7519 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

227. —Leaving scene of accident

Substantial evidence supported dismissal of police department employee on finding that she was guilty of wrongfully leaving scene of accident, failing to report accident, and knowingly filing false report that her vehicle had been stolen, where employee's vehicle struck motorcycle driven by complainant, employee denied charges at hearing and claimed that her vehicle had been stolen and that someone who resembled her had driven vehicle which struck motorcycle, and eyewitness identified employee at hearing as person who operated vehicle. Homenick v Ward, 162 A.D.2d 135, 556 N.Y.S.2d 81, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6802 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 76 N.Y.2d 706, 560 N.Y.S.2d 988, 561 N.E.2d 888, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3044 (N.Y. 1990).

Police officer was not entitled to annulment of police commissioner's termination of officer's probationary employment, despite his subsequent acquittal on charges of violating Vehicle and Traffic Law, where officer had left scene of accident and refused to take breathalyzer test when ordered to do so by superior officer; acquittal did not satisfy officer's burden of establishing that he was terminated in bad faith. Brown v Condon, 186 A.D.2d 43, 587 N.Y.S.2d 648, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10585 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate penalty for his reckless driving, his involvement in accident, and his leaving scene. Kidney v Bratton, 224 A.D.2d 226, 637 N.Y.S.2d 152, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 948 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

228. Bribery

Dismissal of sanitation worker for solicitation and receipt of $20 bribe was not so disproportionate as to shock sense of fairness where worker had prior disciplinary problems. Cranford v Sexton, 159 A.D.2d 348, 552 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2873 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

229. Check involved

A village police officer was properly dismissed from his position based on a finding that he was guilty of the crime of issuing a bad check where, though the decision by the village board of trustees was based in part on the officer's employment record, which was not introduced at his hearing and to which he had had no opportunity to respond, so that such decision was based in part on evidence that was outside the record, the officer's issuance of a bad check indicated moral turpitude in that he had obtained property when he issued the bad check, so that the officer's conduct tended to have a destructive impact on the confidence the public must have in its police force, and dismissal was thus not so disproportionate to the charged violation as to shock one's conscience. Bigelow v Board of Trustees, 98 A.D.2d 933, 470 N.Y.S.2d 925, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 21253 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1983), rev'd, 63 N.Y.2d 470, 483 N.Y.S.2d 173, 472 N.E.2d 1001, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4680 (N.Y. 1984).

Dismissal of police officer for misconduct was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where officer (1) forged endorsement on and cashed check belonging to fellow officer, and (2) took unauthorized leave and made false entry as to time he reported for work. Mamarella v Ward, 155 A.D.2d 372, 548 N.Y.S.2d 159, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14581 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Petitioner was properly dismissed from her position as police officer where substantial evidence supported determination that she passed 41 bad checks to 2 supermarkets, and in light of her previous disciplinary record and destructive impact that her conduct had on confidence of public in police officers. Marhold v Brown, 189 A.D.2d 573, 592 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

230. Credit car crime

It was not inappropriate to dismiss petitioner from her employment as typist with Department of Social Services based on her guilty pleas to 2 counts of second degree possession of forged instrument arising from incident in which she drove co-worker in her car to certain business and accompanied co-worker while co-worker made purchases with credit card stolen from another co-worker. Calloway v Glass, 203 A.D.2d 800, 610 N.Y.S.2d 973, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4101 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

231. Domestic violence

Thirty-day suspension of probation officer, and requirement that he continue receiving professional help, was justified where probation officer was found to have threatened wife and children, which was job-related misconduct due to his law enforcement position; supporting deposition of wife was properly admitted into evidence because technical rules of evidence are not required in hearings such as one afforded defendant and where sufficient foundation for deposition was presented through testimony of investigating officer. Stiles v Phelan, 111 A.D.2d 591, 489 N.Y.S.2d 656, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51623 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

232. Drugs

Police commissioner's dismissal of police officer for using illegal drugs was not so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Trotta v Ward, 77 N.Y.2d 827, 566 N.Y.S.2d 199, 567 N.E.2d 241, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 70 (N.Y. 1991).

Penalty of dismissal imposed by Superintendent of State Police was not so disproportionate to state trooper's offense of marihuana possession as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness. Boyd v Constantine, 81 N.Y.2d 189, 597 N.Y.S.2d 605, 613 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 697 (N.Y. 1993).

Though charge that patrolman employed by city housing authority had illegally possessed dangerous drugs and hypodermic instruments was dismissed because it was based on illegally obtained evidence, finding of guilt with respect to remaining charges was supported by substantial evidence and would not be disturbed. McPherson v New York City Housing Authority, 47 A.D.2d 828, 365 N.Y.S.2d 862, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9168 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

It was not improper for transit authority to discharge assistant train dispatcher as result of his conviction of third degree sale of controlled substance, based on its finding that his criminal conduct violated transit authority rules, since (1) relationship between drug conviction and job performance was readily inferable, (2) there was no evidence that he was dismissed solely because of his conviction, and (3) certificate of relief from disabilities granted to him under CLS Correc § 701 did not prohibit employer from relying on his conviction as basis for exercising its discretionary power to dismiss him. Barreto v Gunn, 134 A.D.2d 495, 521 N.Y.S.2d 448, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50690 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Substantial evidence supported discharge of police officer where (1) he was absent from duty without leave for 3 hours and, on same date, he failed to obey lawful order to submit to urinalysis examination, (2) 6 weeks before drug test order, vial was found on driver's side of patrol car assigned to him, (3) he was observed several times, on and off duty, in known drug area, (4) his behavior was noticeably erratic during prior 6-month period, and (5) several anonymous reports received by precinct provided information consistent with his suspected drug activity. Martinez v Ward, 166 A.D.2d 392, 561 N.Y.S.2d 195, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12993 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Court would affirm dismissal of police officers, despite hearing officer's refusal to allow further cross-examination as to one complainant's drug and weapon conviction, and despite inconsistencies in testimony of both complaining witnesses, where substantial evidence supported determination that officers, having responded to radio run of drugs being sold, encountered complainants who were engaged in gambling activity and took money from them at gunpoint. Diaz v Ward, 181 A.D.2d 594, 581 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4021 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Finding of misconduct on part of transit authority police officer was supported by evidence that he was seen in parked automobile, holding pistol in his lap, accompanied by target of undercover narcotics investigation just before target left car to discuss drug transaction with undercover officer, at time when he was aware of impending drug transaction. Russell v Del Castillo, 181 A.D.2d 680, 580 N.Y.S.2d 788, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2992 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1992).

Termination of petitioner's employment as transit patrol officer was appropriate sanction for his use of controlled substance. Murphy v New York City Transit Auth., 205 A.D.2d 634, 613 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6139 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Police detective was properly dismissed where (1) her police identification card was once found at known drug location, and controlled substance was found in her bedroom, (2) she had history of absence and lateness, and (3) she was ordered to submit to drug testing, but she refused. Felder v Kelly, 210 A.D.2d 78, 619 N.Y.S.2d 45, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12403 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Village sanitation worker was properly dismissed where he was convicted of attempted third degree sale of controlled substance in 1990, and he failed to report for work on 2 days in March, 1993, and also failed to report for work on third day in same month after having been directed to report for work. Telesco v Village of Port Chester, 211 A.D.2d 723, 622 N.Y.S.2d 78, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 461 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

In Article 78 proceeding, court confirmed petitioner's dismissal from his position as police officer where (1) substantial evidence supported respondent's finding that petitioner had telephone conversations with police informant who said he was interested in purchasing drugs from petitioner's wife, and that petitioner gave this message to his wife who later sold drugs to informant in petitioner's home, and (2) petitioner admitted separate charge that he failed to report his conversation with informant. Schneider v Bratton, 237 A.D.2d 155, 655 N.Y.S.2d 360, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2416 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 90 N.Y.2d 807, 664 N.Y.S.2d 269, 686 N.E.2d 1364, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3041 (N.Y. 1997).

233. —Cocaine

Police officer was properly terminated on finding at administrative hearing that he had tested positive, following random urine test, for ingestion of cocaine. Gordon v Brown, 84 N.Y.2d 574, 620 N.Y.S.2d 749, 644 N.E.2d 1305, 1994 N.Y. LEXIS 4196 (N.Y. 1994).

Petitioner's plea allocution statements, when she pled guilty to attempted criminal possession of a controlled substance, was substantial evidence supporting a determination of serious misconduct during petitioner's tenure as a civil servant within the meaning of Civ Serv Law § 75, notwithstanding petitioner's present testimony, in an Article 78 proceeding to reverse the determination of misconduct, that she pled guilty to save her fiancee from a jail sentence. However, the plea alone, without independent evidence, did not support a second determination of misconduct (that petitioner had lied when she denied having witnessed her fiancee possess cocaine in his apartment or make a sale); the penalty of dismissal from employment would be deleted from the determination and the matter remitted for penalty as to the first specified instance of misconduct only. Cromwell v Bates, 105 A.D.2d 699, 481 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20809 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984).

Petitioner was properly dismissed from police force for use of cocaine where 2 enzyme multiplied immunoassay technique tests and one gas chromatography mass spectrometry test were used, and all 3 resulted in positive finding for cocaine ingestion.

Gregory v New York City Police Dep't, 155 A.D.2d 382, 548 N.Y.S.2d 12, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15073 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Substantial evidence supported determination terminating petitioner's employment as state trooper where (1) 2 plain clothes housing authority police officers observed petitioner, who was off-duty State Trooper, seated in passenger seat of parked vehicle with piece of paper containing white powder cupped in his left hand and small straw being brought up to his nose with his right hand, (2) as officers approached petitioner, he passed paper and straw to driver, who surrendered them to officers, (3) search of vehicle produced drug paraphernalia and cocaine-laced cigarette, (4) white substance in paper was found to be cocaine, and (5) petitioner and driver were charged with drug and other offenses, but were acquitted. Garnes v New York State Police, 156 A.D.2d 907, 549 N.Y.S.2d 876, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16409 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Correction officer was properly discharged on basis of urinalysis which proved positive for cocaine, since substantial evidence supported reasonable suspicion of drug usage sufficient to sustain testing order where (1) her eyes were glassy and bloodshot, (2) she was hyperactive, sweating, speaking loudly, slurring her words, and waving her arms, (3) she was not in regulation dress and was unresponsive when questioned about her appearance, and (4) her time sheet reflected lateness and absences. Jeffrey v Koehler, 166 A.D.2d 356, 561 N.Y.S.2d 417, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12776 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

It was reasonable for correction department to order correction officer to take drug test, and to discharge him when he tested positive for cocaine, where he had been arrested in apparent drug-related incident and investigators, who observed correction officer at precinct, noted that he appeared to be under influence "of something" due to his unsteadiness, slurred speech and red, glassy eyes. Torres v Koehler, 168 A.D.2d 362, 562 N.Y.S.2d 696, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15502 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Police officer's employment was properly terminated where (1) despite indicating that she would respond to her tour of duty but would be late, officer never appeared, (2) after numerous telephone calls from friends, co-workers and supervisors, and attempt to enter apartment by friend, police were given key to apartment by building manager and gained entry, (3) officer conceded that police were beneficially motivated in entering apartment, (4) on entry, police saw officer unconscious on couch, apparently intoxicated, and bottle of rum on floor, (5) after regaining consciousness, officer went to change, leaving fellow officers in living room, where they observed cocaine residue and straw in plain view, and (6) urine test yielded positive result. Roman v New York City Police Dep't, 198 A.D.2d 143, 603 N.Y.S.2d 856, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10828 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

Evidence sustained dismissal of correction officer, on ground that she knowingly ingested cocaine, where (1) officer was randomly chosen to submit to drug testing and was asked to provide urine samples, (2) she personally sealed and initialed 2 vials of urine, (3) technician thought that specimens appeared suspicious and required officer to provide another specimen under observation, (4) all samples tested positive, (5) officer claimed that latter specimen was not sealed by her or in front of her, and (6) concerned over what she perceived to be irregularities, officer went to hospital emergency room for toxicology screening and presented evidence that those tests had negative results, but there was no evidence of chain of custody in regard to those tests. Joyner v Abate, 199 A.D.2d 56, 605 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11720 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

It was appropriate to dismiss New York City Transit Authority police officer for having ingested cocaine. Danese v New York City Transit Auth., 256 A.D.2d 464, 683 N.Y.S.2d 860, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13490 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 811, 695 N.Y.S.2d 540, 717 N.E.2d 699, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1899 (N.Y. 1999).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate based on officer's possession and use of cocaine. Davis v Safir, 262 A.D.2d 107, 691 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6437 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

234. —Marijuana

Evidence supported hearing officer's finding that school employee had engaged in misconduct where employee was found in enclosed area near his residence where marihuana was being grown, and he admitted to arresting officer that he was in control of area. Penalty of dismissal was not excessive where school custodian-bus driver was found to be in control of enclosed area near his residence where marihuana was being grown, in view of his sensitive position as school employee and his duty as school bus driver. Holsapple v Arlington Cent. School Dist., 136 A.D.2d 639, 523 N.Y.S.2d 600, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 444 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 71 N.Y.2d 805, 529 N.Y.S.2d 76, 524 N.E.2d 430, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 632 (N.Y. 1988).

Determination of New York City Transit Authority, finding that bus driver used controlled substance in violation of Authority's regulations, was supported by substantial evidence where medical exam revealed driver's marihuana use, he was suspended without pay for 30 days and entered counseling program, his urine test at conclusion of program showed negative and he was reinstated, and on next day he was again tested and urine showed positive for marihuana. McCoy v Gunn, 153 A.D.2d 863, 545 N.Y.S.2d 583, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11554 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

Dismissal of New York City Police officer for using marihuana was proper where reasonable suspicion for drug test was established by testimony of several medical experts that officer's delusions, severe mood swings, and tendency toward violence could have been caused either by drug use or mental illness, or by both. Baldini v Ward, 157 A.D.2d 627, 550 N.Y.S.2d 645, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 816 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Dismissal of city firefighter was appropriate where urine test administered to him yielded positive results for presence of marijuana. Longo v Dolce, 192 A.D.2d 157, 600 N.Y.S.2d 962, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7665 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 836, 606 N.Y.S.2d 589, 627 N.E.2d 511, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 4312 (N.Y. 1993).

Use of marijuana by correction officer warranted his dismissal. Fulton v Jacobson, 226 A.D.2d 215, 641 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3893 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Determination that petitioner purchased and possessed marijuana while on meal break, within few blocks of his work location, was supported by substantial evidence where police officer testified that he received radio transmission from officer who saw described individual purchase marijuana, and that petitioner matched description and, when approached by several officers, admitted to having marijuana in his possession and was arrested after giving it to police. Garrison v New York City Hous. Auth., 234 A.D.2d 150, 650 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12529 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

It was proper to dismiss police officer for his possession and ingestion of marijuana. Adams v Police Dep't, 256 A.D.2d 28, 680 N.Y.S.2d 508, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12915 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 818, 697 N.Y.S.2d 565, 719 N.E.2d 926, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2890 (N.Y. 1999).

Substantial evidence supported termination of police officer's employment, and penalty of dismissal did not shock Appellate Division's sense of fairness, where officer tested positive for marijuana, and there was no basis for his claim that his ingestion of marijuana was unknowing and involuntary. McGovern v Safir, 266 A.D.2d 107, 698 N.Y.S.2d 477, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11680 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

235. Extortion

Dismissal of police officers was appropriate sanction for extorting money from complainant by instilling fear that criminal charges for gun possession would be instituted should complainant not comply. Sangiuolo v Kelly, 221 A.D.2d 191, 633 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11565 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 811, 644 N.Y.S.2d 144, 666 N.E.2d 1058, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 642 (N.Y. 1996).

Dismissal of state trooper was appropriate sanction for his failing to surrender weapons for destruction (CLS Penal § 400.05(1)), committing larceny by extortion by using intimidation to obtain firearms (CLS Penal § 155.30(7)), and committing second degree offering false instrument for filing (CLS Penal § 175.30), especially in light of his conflicting statements and conduct during investigation. Hricik v McMahon, 247 A.D.2d 935, 668 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1320 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

Police officer was properly dismissed for knowingly accepting cash payments representing proceeds of brothel business on behalf of his incarcerated brother, notwithstanding officer's prior unblemished record. Tsang v Safir, 256 A.D.2d 7, 680 N.Y.S.2d 518, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12804 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

236. Fraud; deceit

Punishment of dismissal was not so disproportionate as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where petitioner was found guilty of charges involving deceitful actions that had negative impact on integrity of police department. Ruggio v Hammill, 207 A.D.2d 991, 616 N.Y.S.2d 842, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10207 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

Petitioner was properly discharged from his position as police officer based on evidence that, while off-duty, he violated department rules and regulations by engaging in scheme to defraud complainant by falsely representing that he would provide her with diamonds from Africa for manufacture and resale for profit, and in doing so he misappropriated $67,000 and assisted his girlfriend defraud complainant of $8,000. Folborg v Bratton, 227 A.D.2d 108, 641 N.Y.S.2d 656, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4773 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 812, 649 N.Y.S.2d 379, 672 N.E.2d 605, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 2964 (N.Y. 1996).

Dismissal from service of a social investigator employed by the New York City Welfare Department was sustained for admitted violation of the Code of Ethics provisions of the Administrative Code in subleasing an unoccupied four-room apartment to tenants who were recipients of public assistance and one of whom was his own client and thereby receiving aggregate rent in better than double the maximum fixed by the State Rent Commission. Dover v Dumpson, 220 N.Y.S.2d 102 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

237. Harboring fugitive

Petitioner was properly terminated from her employment as correction officer for city department of corrections based on evidence showing that she harbored fugitive wanted by New Jersey for 2 shotgun robberies and lied about her knowledge of fugitive's presence in her apartment when confronted by police seeking to execute arrest warrants for him there, notwithstanding fact that fugitive was petitioner's estranged husband and father of her 2 daughters, since if fugitive had in fact committed offenses with which he was charged, petitioner's actions would at least facially constitute crime of hindering prosecution, either Class A misdemeanor under CLS Penal § 205.55 or Class E felony under CLS Penal § 205.60. Fludd v Sielaff, 184 A.D.2d 362, 584 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8149 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

238. Perjury

Substantial evidence supported police commissioner's dismissal of police officer for knowingly giving false testimony to grand jury, even though officer argued that false testimony was not material to function of grand jury and should not have been considered perjurious, where officer had falsely testified that he saw suspect sell drugs in order to legitimize his search and arrest for drug possession and sale; officer's testimony was material to element of intent to sell, and met patrol guide's requirement that it be "knowingly" given. Police commissioner's dismissal of police officer for giving false testimony before grand jury (which led to a defendant's indictment) was not "so disproportionate to the offense, in light of all the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness" since officer's offense clearly diminished his credibility and reflected on his integrity as police officer. Richardson v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 277, 552 N.Y.S.2d 279, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2637 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate sanction for having lied while under oath at judicial proceeding regarding suppression hearing to determine reasonableness of arresting officer's conduct, and for knowingly filing false statement with department to obtain merit award based on that arrest. Freyre v Ward, 161 A.D.2d 349, 555 N.Y.S.2d 102, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5284 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Police officer was properly dismissed for knowingly making false statements, in police reports and grand jury testimony, that he was victim of gunpoint robbery of his fiancee's car when, in fact, car was simply stolen from street when officer left it double-parked with keys in ignition and engine running. Sweeney v Safir, 267 A.D.2d 99, 700 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13026 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 753, 711 N.Y.S.2d 155, 733 N.E.2d 227, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 2000).

Policeman's contention that disciplinary proceeding was not "criminal in nature" due to grand jury's failure to return indictment against him for lying during official police investigation, and thus that said disciplinary proceeding was barred by 3-year limitation prescribed by Civil Service Law § 75, subd 4, was without merit where facts alleged, if proven, would have established crime of perjury. Foran v Murphy, 73 Misc. 2d 486, 342 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2195 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

239. Tax crime

Substantial evidence supported demotion of Assistant Director of Personal Tax Processing Bureau to lesser, nonsupervisory position where he was guilty of misconduct in willfully failing to timely file state personal income tax returns for 1993 and 1994 and federal personal income tax return for 1994, his conduct would be crime if proved in court, and to allow him to remain in his position after engaging in such conduct would undermine public's confidence in its officials. Miller v State Dep't of Taxation & Fin., 263 A.D.2d 604, 692 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7704 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

A fireman who was dismissed from his position following his conviction on 10 felony counts of offering a false instrument for filing and two misdemeanor counts of violating the Tax Law with respect to sales taxes on the fireman's private business would not be entitled to annulment of his dismissal on the basis of a certificate of relief from disabilities that was issued to him pursuant to Correc Law § 701, since, though criminal activity may form the basis for disciplinary action under Civ S Law § 75, such dismissal is discretionary rather than mandatory, and Correc L § 701 specifically provides that certificates issued pursuant to its terms will not prevent any administrative board from relying on the underlying convictions as a basis for exercising its discretion; furthermore, the fireman would not be entitled to reinstatement under the terms of Correc Law § 752, since the statute applies only to applications for a license or employment by persons previously convicted of crimes, and has no bearing on persons who are already licensed or employed. Pisano v McKenna, 120 Misc. 2d 536, 466 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

240. Theft

Removal of a guard at an institution for defective delinquents on charges that he conspired with an inmate to steal property belonging to the institution must be set aside as against the weight of credible evidence, where the only testimony against the guard was that of one characterized as "a high grade moron" and this evidence was corroborated only indirectly by testimony of other mental defectives. Charles v Lyons, 263 A.D. 1027, 33 N.Y.S.2d 472, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7944 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Correction officer was properly dismissed where (1) she was arrested for, and convicted of, petit larceny, (2) she did not notify department of correction of arrest, and (3) on 3 separate occasions while on sick leave, she left her residence without permission and without notifying department. McDowell v Koehler, 159 A.D.2d 424, 553 N.Y.S.2d 116, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3121 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported termination of petitioner's employment as site manager for town landfill and recycling center, on ground that he sold camper trailer from landfill for $90 and kept money for personal use, where (1) consent of town board for removal of trailer from landfill was never given, (2) petitioner admitted selling trailer but claimed that it was his property, (3) petitioner admitted that he never paid for trailer and that he charged person who had dumped trailer for recycling, and (4) testimony of other witnesses supported determination that trailer was town property. Finigan v Lent, 189 A.D.2d 935, 592 N.Y.S.2d 818, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 82 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 81 N.Y.2d 1067, 601 N.Y.S.2d 583, 619 N.E.2d 661, 1993 N.Y. Dismissal of state trooper was appropriate sanction for violating state police regulation by committing petit larceny in violation of CLS Penal § 155.25. Moore v Constantine, 191 A.D.2d 769, 594 N.Y.S.2d 395, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2120 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

School district properly terminated petitioner's employment as maintainer for stealing video cassette recorder. Pesantes v Freund, 247 A.D.2d 391, 667 N.Y.S.2d 919, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 861 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

241. —Food; food stamps

Dismissal of police officer found guilty of breaking into store, stealing food stamps, and failing to report fellow officers who did same in his presence was not sanction so disproportionate as to be shocking to sense of fairness. Scaturico v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 221, 552 N.Y.S.2d 24, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2180 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

It was proper to dismiss school custodian, whose position placed him in charge of night cleaning crew, where he aided and abetted another employee's theft of food from storage room, and he entered without authorization or permission into area of school not within his job possibilities (food storage room) on more than one occasion. Breu v Board of Educ., 215 A.D.2d 969, 627 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5621 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 86 N.Y.2d 708, 634 N.Y.S.2d 442, 658 N.E.2d 220, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 3682 (N.Y. 1995).

Dismissal of school building custodian was appropriate sanction for his participation in theft of food items from locked area of school cafeteria. Sanchez v Board of Educ., 216 A.D.2d 303, 627 N.Y.S.2d 741, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5923 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

242. —Money

Evidence given by an informer that bridge officers (veterans) employed by the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority had bought unused and misappropriated toll tickets at half price and substituted them for money due for collections was sufficient to sustain finding of misconduct but the petitioners were entitled to a new hearing where they had been denied right of counsel. Fusco v Moses, 304 N.Y. 424, 107 N.E.2d 581, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 424, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 757 (N.Y. 1952).

Penalty of dismissal was not abuse of transit authority's discretion in view of determination that token booth collector had made unauthorized hand collections and converted $260 in transit authority funds to her own use. Brathwaite v Gunn, 125 A.D.2d 305, 508 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62567 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Evidence supported transit authority's finding that bus driver made illegal sales of bus transfers to paid informant where transit police officer testified that she observed informant converse with driver, enter bus after all passengers had disembarked, and give money to driver in exchange for tickets that looked like bus transfers, and that, on exiting bus, informant gave her 3 books of bus transfers whose serial numbers matched those specifically issued to driver; although informant did not testify at administrative hearing, testimony corroborated informant's prior inculpatory testimony at bus driver's criminal trial based on same sales transactions. It was not abuse of discretion for transit authority to discharge bus driver who made illegal sales of bus transfers to paid informant. Duran v Gunn, 135 A.D.2d 628, 522 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52565 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court would dismiss Article 78 petition to review fire commissioner's finding that fire prevention inspector was guilty of misconduct since determination was supported by inspector's plea of guilty to criminal charge of attempted receipt of unlawful gratuities and by his admission at his plea allocution that he was in fact guilty; inspector's guilty plea was properly given collateral estoppel effect, and thus administrative law judge properly refused to receive evidence offered by him to show that he did not receive any unlawful gratuity. Meades v Spinnato, 138 A.D.2d 579, 526 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Police officers were properly dismissed for failing to conduct proper investigation following reported disturbance at apartment where (1) on entering apartment, officers met unidentified male, whom they allowed to leave, (2) search of apartment produced drugs and unaccounted amount of money, (3) officers allowed other tenants and building superintendent to take some money, and (4) officers also pocketed money found in apartment. Eberhart v Ward, 161 A.D.2d 396, 555 N.Y.S.2d 329, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5564 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Court would affirm dismissal of police officers, despite hearing officer's refusal to allow further cross-examination as to one complainant's drug and weapon conviction, and despite inconsistencies in testimony of both complaining witnesses, where substantial evidence supported determination that officers, having responded to radio run of drugs being sold, encountered complainants who were engaged in gambling activity and took money from them at gunpoint. Diaz v Ward, 181 A.D.2d 594, 581 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4021 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

Substantial evidence supported New York City Housing Authority's finding that petitioner stole money from suspected drug dealers on 2 occasions and committed 4 other internal regulation violations, where victims testified that petitioner took their money while holding gun to them, investigating officer testified that petitioner failed to make required memo book recordings of incidents, and petitioner admitted facts establishing internal regulation violations; penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate. Acosta v New York City Hous. Auth., 236 A.D.2d 337, 655 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1666 (N.Y. It was proper to dismiss police officer who wrongfully solicited money from 2 rabbis for engaging in required official conduct, failed to voucher money thus obtained, and who had information relative to corruption involving member of police force and failed to report it. Brovakos v Bratton, 254 A.D.2d 32, 678 N.Y.S.2d 21, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9935 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate based on her having stolen money seized at illegal gambling location during police raid. Renna v Safir, 256 A.D.2d 219, 683 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13756 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Police officer was properly dismissed on finding that he patronized prostitute in violation of police department patrol guide. McDonald v Safir, 254 A.D.2d 234, 679 N.Y.S.2d 60, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11401 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 819, 685 N.Y.S.2d 421, 708 N.E.2d 178, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2059 (N.Y. 1999).

Wade v Town of Ticonderoga Town Bd., 256 A.D.2d 860, 681 N.Y.S.2d 833, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13566 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 804, 689 N.Y.S.2d 16, 711 N.E.2d 201, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 742 (N.Y. 1999).

Court upheld dismissal of petitioner from his employment as New York City police officer based on gravity of his offense of soliciting sex for money from person he believed to be prostitute, and his prior disciplinary history. Di Giovanni v Safir, 277 A.D.2d 36, 715 N.Y.S.2d 312, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11297 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Although the conduct that led to a police officer's conviction of endangering the welfare of a child, a misdemeanor, involved sex with a 16-year-old, the offense could be committed without the commission of any sexual or violent acts, so the offense was not a misdemeanor that resulted in the automatic termination of public employment; therefore, the officer was to be reinstated, with back pay, pending the holding of a due process hearing. Feola v Carroll, 25 A.D.3d 697, 810 N.Y.S.2d 92, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 719 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 6 N.Y.3d 891, 817 N.Y.S.2d 625, 850 N.E.2d 672, 2006 N.Y. Termination of a therapist after a finding of misconduct was proper, and was supported by substantial evidence which included the therapist's admission that he had been arrested for soliciting a minor, and plea minutes from a court hearing during which the therapist admitted that he had offered to engage in sexual intercourse and sexual activity with a 13-year-old girl for money; the hearing officer sustained the charge and recommended that the therapist be terminated from his employment, noting, inter alia, that his duties could bring him into unsupervised contact with minors. Matter of Furtado v Israel, 49 A.D.3d 644, 854 N.Y.S.2d 434, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2159 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2008).

Mayor erred in terminating a firefighter for masturbating before an open window in his apartment, as he could be found guilty of misconduct only if he engaged in lewd conduct with the intent to be seen by members of the public (N.Y. Penal Law § 245.00), and he denied without contradiction that he intended to be witnessed by others. Matter of Rauschmeier v Village of Johnson City, 91 A.D.3d 1080, 937 N.Y.S.2d 373, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 139 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 19 N.Y.3d 802, 946 N.Y.S.2d 104, 969 N.E.2d 221, 2012 N.Y. LEXIS 923 (N.Y. 2012).

244. —Sodomy

A nonveteran city civil engineer was properly dismissed on charges (1) that he had committed crime of sodomy and (2) that he had been late and absent. The lower courts had refused to disturb dismissal although sodomy indictment was dismissed (278 AD 907, 105 S2d 902). The dismissal was affirmed over a claim that the hearing officer was prejudiced and prejudged petitioner's case. Lateness charge was sustained by evidence of tardiness on 28 days out of four months. Berman v Gillroy, 305 N.Y. 688, 112 N.E.2d 771, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 688, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 1229 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 305 N.Y. 797, 113 N.E.2d 305, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 797, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 1303 (N.Y. 1953), cert. denied, 347 U.S. 921, 74 S. Ct. 521, 98 L. Ed. 1076, 1954 U.S. LEXIS 2396 (U.S. 1954).

Substantial evidence supported determination that police officer was guilty of various charges and specifications where eyewitness testified that officer attempted to utilize his position as officer to solicit oral sex at massage parlor and, when rebuffed, had gone on drunken rampage with his companions, which included urinating on table containing food, and damaging walls, doors and light fixtures. Boyce v Ward, 158 A.D.2d 319, 551 N.Y.S.2d 7, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1227 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Substantial evidence supported determination of police commissioner dismissing petitioner from force where petitioner's handgun was stolen from his apartment and used in subsequent bank robberies, petitioner engaged prostitute to perform oral sex and then consummated transaction, and petitioner failed to take action against prostitute; hearing officer properly found petitioner's claims—that he and prostitute were friends and that he made payments solely out of friendship—were incredible. Ruiz v Brown, 179 A.D.2d 543, 579 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 662 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

245. Threatening witnesses

Dismissal of police officer found guilty of possessing forged parking permits, threatening witness and her family, knowingly making inaccurate entries in his activity log regarding number of summonses he had issued, and wrongfully driving his private automobile while in uniform, was not sanction so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to sense of fairness. Suggs v Ward, 159 A.D.2d 381, 552 N.Y.S.2d 636, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2928 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

246. Trespass

Substantial evidence supported determination by commissioner of public safety and chief of police that police officer had unlawfully attempted to gain entrance to apartment in Florida with lock picks, and that he possessed lock picks with intention to use them to commit trespass, even though occupant of apartment testified that officer had permission to enter apartment, since police recording of her telephone complaint and testimony of Florida police indicated otherwise. Substantial evidence supported determination by commissioner of public safety and chief of police that police officer lied to professional standards section of police department during formal investigation of his arrest in Florida for unlawfully attempting to gain entry to apartment where (1) record showed that officer told police investigator that he did not possess lock picks on day of arrest and had not previously secluded himself in closet of complainant, but (2) record showed that Florida police saw officer attempt to gain entry to apartment with lock picks and took lock picks from officer, and that officer admitted to 2 witnesses that he had entered complainant's apartment without her knowledge and secluded himself in her closet. Donofrio v Rochester, 144 A.D.2d 1027, 534 N.Y.S.2d 630, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14594 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988), app. denied, 73 N.Y.2d 708, 540 N.Y.S.2d 1003, 538 N.E.2d 355, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 320 (N.Y. 1989).

247. Wagering

Commissioner of New York City Department of Environmental Protection acted reasonably within scope of his authority in terminating employee from city service for illegally collecting football bets while on duty at sewage treatment plant outside city, despite severity of penalty in light of his length of service and effect of losing his accumulated pension benefits, since penalty was not disproportionate to offense given notoriety of employee's activities in small community, their independent illegality, and their tendency to bring disrepute to agency. Ivory v New York, Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 125 A.D.2d 217, 509 N.Y.S.2d 25, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62492 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1986), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 602, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1024, 512 N.E.2d 550, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17395 (N.Y. 1987).

Court would affirm dismissal of police officers, despite hearing officer's refusal to allow further cross-examination as to one complainant's drug and weapon conviction, and despite inconsistencies in testimony of both complaining witnesses, where substantial evidence supported determination that officers, having responded to radio run of drugs being sold, encountered complainants who were engaged in gambling activity and took money from them at gunpoint. Diaz v Ward, 181 A.D.2d 594, 581 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4021 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

248. Weapon-related crime

Penalty of dismissal was not so disproportionate to police officer's offenses as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness where officer, while off duty, wrongfully carried .45 caliber automatic firearm and threatened individual therewith, and officer had unsatisfactory employment record. Cocozzo v Ward, 162 A.D.2d 202, 556 N.Y.S.2d 328, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7084 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Deputy sheriff should not be dismissed, but rather should be subject to maximum allowable penalty short of dismissal, on findings that he pointed unloaded service revolver at fellow officer's stomach, left his assigned post unattended, violated written directive not to leave one's post, and exercised inappropriate behavior and judgment; although deputy's transgressions were serious and full of potential for harm, they did not warrant dismissal given facts that it quickly became apparent that gun was empty and that deputy's actions were ill-advised horseplay, there were no negative ramifications from his leaving post, and deputy had prior clean record. Blatt v Wasser, 172 A.D.2d 971, 568 N.Y.S.2d 488, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4585 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

Court would affirm dismissal of police officers, despite hearing officer's refusal to allow further cross-examination as to one complainant's drug and weapon conviction, and despite inconsistencies in testimony of both complaining witnesses, where substantial evidence supported determination that officers, having responded to radio run of drugs being sold, encountered complainants who were engaged in gambling activity and took money from them at gunpoint. Diaz v Ward, 181 A.D.2d 594, 581 N.Y.S.2d

Substantial evidence supported determination that petitioner violated rules and regulations of county police department by engaging in "conduct unbecoming an officer" and "illegal conduct" warranting his dismissal from force where he created grave risk of serious bodily injury or death by instigating confrontation at bar, drawing loaded weapon and pointing it at one or more persons while threatening to shoot. Diaz v Rozzi, 199 A.D.2d 1081, 607 N.Y.S.2d 503 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1993).

Suspension of police officer for 30 days and placing him on disciplinary probation for one year was appropriate sanction for wrongfully pointing his firearm at 2 civilians without just cause. McKernan v Kelly, 216 A.D.2d 17, 627 N.Y.S.2d 634, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6027 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

Dismissal of transit authority police officer was not disproportionate penalty, although he had no prior disciplinary record, where he threatened to kill civilian while off-duty and improperly pointed his off-duty handgun at another civilian, he possessed unregistered handgun, he left both handguns in trunk of his car, he was convicted of menacing and fined $500, and he made false statements about incident to Internal Affairs Unit. Brooks v Suardy, 222 A.D.2d 502, 635 N.Y.S.2d 74, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12731 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

It was excessive to dismiss police sergeant on ground that he twice sold and registered false firearms training certificates while engaged in unauthorized off-duty employment where he was 29-year veteran with unblemished disciplinary record, he had been awarded numerous exemplary service medals, individuals to whom training certificates were sold were all then currently licensed to carry firearms, as well as qualified for certificates in all other respects, and dismissal would result in complete divestiture of sergeant's pension. Kelly v Safir, 271 A.D.2d 326, 706 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4396 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), modified, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

Substantial evidence supported dismissal of police officer where, in course of traffic-related altercation while off duty, he deliberately aimed and fired his weapon at complainant's vehicle. Kissoon v Safir, 273 A.D.2d 180, 711 N.Y.S.2d 722, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7474 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

In a disciplinary proceeding brought before the Common Council of the City on complaint of the Mayor against a City employee where hearings on the charges were held by the Common Council, with the Alderman-at-Large acting as presiding officer, the fact that one or two members of the Council did not attend all the hearings, does not in and of itself disqualify the Council from making a decision based on sufficient proof. 1965 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 25.

B. Other Procedural Matters

9. In general

The mayor of a village appoints the village attorney subject to the approval of the board of trustees. Upon a failure to appoint a village attorney, the incumbent continues to carry out the duties of the position. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83-31.

10. Settlement of claim

There is no prohibition against a village board of trustees removing a reprimand from an employee's personnel file that had been placed there in settlement of charges against the employee. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 24 (informal).

III. Applicability To Particular Classifications

11. Competitive positions

The purchasing agent of a city who occupies his office as the result of a competitive civil service examination, and is not a term appointee, can be removed only pursuant to the procedure prescribed in this section, notwithstanding the adoption of a new city charter. 1960 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 18 (informal).

A police officer holding a position by permanent appointment in the competitive class of the civil service may not be denied an automatic pay increment except after notice of charges and a hearing in accordance with section 75 of the Civil Service Law. The penalties which may be assessed upon a finding of guilt are those specified in section 75. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen March 12 (informal).

A physician employed by a county hospital who occupies a position in the competitive class of the civil service may be removed or disciplined only in accordance with the provisions of sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law, or in accordance with an alternate procedure provided by an agreement between the employees' union and management under the Taylor Law. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 26 (Informal).

An employee carried under the competitive class of civil service may be suspended without pay for a period of thirty days. If the suspension continues beyond thirty days and the employee is ready, willing and able to work the employer must pay the employee's salary. If the charges are dismissed, the employee is entitled to payment of his salary during the thirty-day suspension. 1967 Op St Compt File #851.

12. Independent officers, generally

A Village Board of Trustees may establish a village manager form of government under §§ 18-1820 et seq. of the Village Law or under § 10 of the Municipal Home Rule Law. Questions such as permissive or mandatory referendum, civil service status of manager, and delegation of authority by Village Board of Trustees, may arise under either method depending upon procedure selected. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. I90-25.

13. Laborers

The provisions of par. (b) of this section apply to the position of "laborer," and a person described in either par. (a) or (b) may not ordinarily be suspended before receiving written notice thereof stating the reasons and giving the charges preferred against him. 1964 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 18.

14. Non-competitive positions

Subd. 2 of this section does not give the power to a superintendent of an institution under the control of the mental hygiene department to fine, suspend or demote a non-competitive employee who has been in the service six months. 1941 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 24.

County Veterans' Service Agency Directors are appointed and removed in accordance with the provisions of Executive Law, § 357(1). The director in each county of the state has been classified as a non-competitive service with the exception of the County of Erie, where the director is unclassified, and Westchester, where the director is in the exempt service. Each Director of a County Veterans' Service Agency is an independent officer and is not protected against removal pursuant to Civil Service Law, § 75 even though he be an honorably discharged veteran or an exempt volunteer fireman. To the extent that County Veterans' Service Agency Directors are classified in non-competitive service, the inquiry is academic. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 29.

21. Effect of non-residence

Nonresidence of a veteran in New York State at the time of entering military service does not preclude him from the protection afforded veterans under § 75. 1962 NY Ops Atty Gen May 31.

22. Particular positions

23. —Law enforcement officers

28. —Taylor Law

An agreement between a local government and an employee organization under the Taylor Law may include provisions on discipline and removal that supplement, modify or replace sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law. § 76. Appeals from determinations in disciplinary proceedings

1. Appeals. Any officer or employee believing himself aggrieved by a penalty or punishment of demotion in or dismissal from the service, or suspension without pay, or a fine, or an official reprimand, unaccompanied by a remittance of said officer or employee's prehearing suspension without pay, imposed pursuant to the provisions of section seventy-five of this chapter, may appeal from such determination either by an application to the state or municipal commission having jurisdiction, or by an application to the court in accordance with the provisions of article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules. If such person elects to appeal to such civil service commission, he shall file such appeal in writing within twenty days after service of written notice of the determination to be reviewed, such written notice to be delivered personally or by registered mail to the last known address of such person and when notice is given by registered mail, such person shall be allowed an additional three days in which to file such appeal.

2. Procedure on appeal. Where appeal is taken to the state or municipal commission having jurisdiction, such commission shall review the record of the disciplinary proceeding and the transcript of the hearing, and shall determine such appeal on the basis of such record and transcript and such oral or written argument as the commission may determine. The commission may direct that such appeal shall be heard by one or more members of the commission or by a person or persons designated by the commission to hear such appeal on its behalf, who shall report thereon with recommendations to the commission. Upon such appeal the commission shall permit the employee to be represented by counsel.

3. Determination on appeal. The determination appealed from may be affirmed, reversed, or modified, and the state or municipal commission having jurisdiction may, in its discretion, direct the reinstatement of the appellant or permit the transfer of such appellant to a vacancy in a similar position in another division or department, or direct that his name be placed upon a preferred list pursuant to section eighty-one of this chapter. In the event that a transfer is not effected, the commission is empowered to direct the reinstatement of such officer or employee. An employee reinstated pursuant to this subdivision shall receive the salary or compensation he would have been entitled by law to have received in his position for the period of removal including any prior period of suspension without pay, less the amount of any unemployment insurance benefits he may have received during such period. The decision of such civil service commission shall be final and conclusive, and not subject to further review in any court.

4. Nothing contained in section seventy-five or seventy-six of this chapter shall be construed to repeal or modify any general, special or local law or charter provision relating to the removal or suspension of officers or employees in the competitive class of the civil service of the state or any civil division. Such sections may be supplemented, modified or replaced by agreements negotiated between the state and an employee organization pursuant to article fourteen of this chapter. Where such sections are so supplemented, modified or replaced, any employee against whom charges have been preferred prior to the effective date of such supplementation, modification or replacement shall continue to be subject to the provisions of such sections as in effect on the date such charges were preferred.

The New York City Personnel Director had standing to maintain an Article 78 proceeding challenging decisions of the New York City Civil Service Commission awarding veterans' preference credits to police officers who, as Armed Forces reservists, were summoned to active duty to help maintain mail service during a postal workers' strike that occurred during the Vietnam hostilities, but were released a few hours later because of their essential civilian occupations, since the Personnel Director has both policy-making authority and functional responsibility for civil service matters in New York City under Civ S Law § 15(4), since the only powers reserved to the Commission are those of an appeals board under Civ S Law § 76, and since the fact that the Commission may serve as an appeals board for the Personnel Director's determinations did not preclude him from seeking review of those decisions by which he was aggrieved. New York v City Civil Service Com., 60 N.Y.2d 436, 470 N.Y.S.2d 113, 458 N.E.2d 354, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3504 (N.Y. 1983), reh'g denied, 61 N.Y.2d 759, 472 N.Y.S.2d 1029, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 7233 (N.Y. 1984).

CLS Civ S § 76 deals exclusively with appeals and has no relevance to effective date of termination from employment for purpose of determining whether pension has vested under NYC Admin Code § 13-173.1; date of effectiveness of determination is distinct from date on which determination becomes final for purposes of statute of limitations or appeal. Waldeck v New York City Employees' Retirement Sys., 81 N.Y.2d 804, 595 N.Y.S.2d 374, 611 N.E.2d 275, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 83 (N.Y. 1993).

An award of a public arbitration panel which, inter alia, granted a police association's demand as to disciplinary procedures was in excess of its power and was properly vacated where, while under the Taylor law discipline is a permissible subject of negotiation between public employers and employee associations, the Taylor law was inapplicable pursuant to Civ S Law § 76, since local law provided that the town board's authority to suspend an officer without pay and its obligation to try disciplinary charges were not subject to collective bargaining. In re Greenburgh, 94 A.D.2d 771, 462 N.Y.S.2d 718, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18229 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 60 N.Y.2d 551, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 5495 (N.Y. 1983).

Public employee who initially files notice of appeal under CLS Civ Serv § 76, but shortly thereafter commences Article 78 proceeding has not irrevocably elected to pursue administrative appeal process and may be allowed to withdraw notice of administrative appeal where no steps have been taken to pursue administrative appeal other than filing of letter of intent to appeal. Haney v County of Sullivan, 118 A.D.2d 896, 499 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 54747 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 68 N.Y.2d 601, 505 N.Y.S.2d 1025, 496 N.E.2d 238, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 18959 (N.Y. 1986).

Court properly determined that savings clause in CLS Civ S § 76(4), providing that nothing in CLS Civ S § 75 shall be construed to "repeal or modify" any local laws, was unambiguous grandfathering provision that did not apply to subsequently enacted NYC Admin Code § 9-112, providing that members of Department of Corrections's uniform force charged with crime may be suspended without pay for as long as criminal charges remain pending. Meringolo v Jacobson, 256 A.D.2d 20, 680 N.Y.S.2d 521, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12802 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342, 716 N.E.2d 177, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1999), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342, 716 N.E.2d 177, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1365 (N.Y. 1999).

Under this section, a civil service employee suspended following a determination by department head that charges against her were sustained, in order to test the validity of the suspension must either appeal to the Civil Service Commission or proceed under art. 78 of the Civil Practice Act. Paris v New York, 74 N.Y.S.2d 584, 189 Misc. 445, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3288 (N.Y. App. Term 1947), disapproved, Sinicropi v Bennett, 92 A.D.2d 309, 460 N.Y.S.2d 809, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16623 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

The common-law rule of damages recognized in this section is not supplanted by anything contained herein or in the Administrative Code of New York City. La Forge v New York, 36 Misc. 2d 130, 231 N.Y.S.2d 830, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3101 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), rev'd, 20 A.D.2d 693, 246 N.Y.S.2d 1012, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4410 (N.Y. There is nothing unconstitutional in the Legislature excluding from review the punishment of a reprimand. Mercer v New York City Transit Authority, 56 Misc. 2d 974, 290 N.Y.S.2d 789, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1483 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

2. Power of removal, generally

Where the power to appoint probation officers is placed in the hands of the judges of the county court (§ 938, Code of Criminal Procedure) and there are two such judges in the county involved, such probation officers can be removed only by the joint action of both judges. Kreppein v Downs, 272 A.D. 452, 72 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3319 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

CLS Pub O § 36 was not exclusive procedural vehicle for removal of village superintendent of public works on misconduct charges and, in any event, court was foreclosed from considering whether charges under CLS Civ S § 75 were improper since issue had been raised and rejected in prior Article 78 proceeding from which no appeal was perfected. Logan v New Paltz, 129 A.D.2d 935, 514 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45597 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

New York City Police Commissioner had discretion to dismiss police officers without administrative hearing under NYC Admin Code § 14-115(a) where each had been convicted of crime following full trial. Griffin v Bratton, 248 A.D.2d 242, 670 N.Y.S.2d 34, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2575 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), rev'd, 92 N.Y.2d 781, 686 N.Y.S.2d 359, 709 N.E.2d 100, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 24 (N.Y. 1999).

An honorably-discharged World War veteran was improperly dismissed from his position in the department of parks of New York city, where proof shows that the dismissal was ordered by the consulting park engineer rather than by the park commissioner, because only the power to hear charges, and not the power of dismissal itself, is capable of delegation by the removing power. Morrison v Moses, 14 N.Y.S.2d 67, 172 Misc. 129, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2160 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939), aff'd, 258 A.D. 955, 17 N.Y.S.2d 997, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8403 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

City manager lacks authority to remove employees appointed by city judge where such appointment has been duly approved by the city manager, where budgetary approval exists and where the proper civil service line has been designated. Petrone v Miller, 77 Misc. 2d 1028, 355 N.Y.S.2d 287, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1293 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

3. Exhaustion of remedies requirement

City police officers could not maintain an action to stay a departmental hearing to be held on charges filed against them since they had made no effort to exhaust their administrative remedies prior to the institution of the action and had failed to show that they would suffer irreparable injury unless the court entertained the action or that they had no adequate remedy, and the right of judicial review of the final action taken in the disciplinary proceeding would be a sufficient procedural safeguard of their rights. Sardino v Finch, 35 A.D.2d 686, 314 N.Y.S.2d 690, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3892 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1970).

Probationary employees' suspensions were not "final" for purposes of rule requiring exhaustion of administrative remedies since administrative appeals to Civil Service Commissioner (available under NY City Charter § 812) were unresolved at time Article 78 proceeding was commenced; thus, court properly dismissed employees' non-constitutional claims. Court properly refused to dismiss Article 78 petition to review drug-testing procedures conducted as part of New York City Transit Authority's pre-employment medical exam, despite petitioners' failure to exhaust their administrative remedies, since valid and reviewable constitutional issue was raised; civil service commissioner lacks power to decide constitutional questions. Dozier v New York City, 130 A.D.2d 128, 519 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45074 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court would dismiss, for failure to exhaust administrative remedies, Article 78 petition for review of sheriff's action in discharging civil deputy sheriff without cause in violation of collective bargaining agreement which afforded him same rights and privileges as competitive class employees under CLS Civ S § 75, where collective bargaining agreement entered into between sheriff and deputy sheriffs during pendency of proceeding contained grievance procedure covering dispute in issue. Oneida County Deputy Sheriff's Benevolent Asso. v Hasenauer, 145 A.D.2d 984, 536 N.Y.S.2d 622, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14087 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1988).

Court erred in concluding that public employee was required to exhaust her administrative remedies by submitting matter to arbitration under grievance procedure in parties' collective bargaining agreement where employee's application did not constitute "grievance" as defined in agreement. Van Tassel v County of Orange, 204 A.D.2d 560, 614 N.Y.S.2d 193, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5243 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Employee's failure to file specific grievance with regard to second notice of discipline did not bar his Article 78 petition to annul respondent's determination denying his request for reinstatement and related relief, where employee timely grieved first notice of discipline which included proposed penalty of termination, he received second notice of discipline at time when hearing had already been scheduled on first notice of discipline, and it was undisputed that all of his absences during period encompassed by 2 notices of discipline arose out of same psychiatric condition. West v New York State DOT, 229 A.D.2d 730, 645 N.Y.S.2d 619, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7843 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1996).

4. Effect of collective bargaining provisions

The New York State Thruway Authority properly found petitioner guilty of failing to comply with his supervisor's instructions to perform an overtime assignment, and properly suspended him for two days without pay, where nothing in the contract provisions so explicitly limited the Authority's power to order mandatory overtime as to make indisputably clear that it had no such power and, thus, to excuse petitioner's failure to accept the assignment. Ferreri v New York State Thruway Authority, 62 N.Y.2d 855, 477 N.Y.S.2d 616, 466 N.E.2d 156, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 4398 (N.Y. 1984).

Petitioner, who was discharged from his position as correction officer based on arbitrator's finding that he violated 2 departmental rules, was not entitled to vacatur of arbitration award on basis that charges against him had been initiated in retaliation for his having testified in federal court action regarding pervasive racial bias at Department of Correctional Services facility, in violation of CLS Civ S § 75-b, where such argument was not raised in arbitration proceeding (allegedly because petitioner's union attorney refused to pursue it); contention that arbitration award violated public policy rested on unproven premise that employer had retaliatory motive, which was factual matter that bore directly on validity of charges, and thus was issue for arbitrator to resolve. Even assuming that petitioner had viable claim for violation of union's duty of fair representation, proceeding to vacate arbitration award was not proper forum for asserting it. Obot v New York State Dep't of Correctional Servs., 89 N.Y.2d 883, 653 N.Y.S.2d 245, 675 N.E.2d 1197, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3591 (N.Y. 1996).

New York State Public Employment Relations Board erred in finding a city's improper employer practice for adopting police disciplinary procedures other than those in a collective bargaining agreement with police officers because (1) the more general N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law art. 14, on public employees' collective bargaining, was superseded by the more specific N.Y. Second Class Cities Law §§ 131 and 133, providing detailed police discipline procedures, so police discipline was not a collective bargaining subject, and (2) N.Y. Second Class Cities Law § 4's supersession clause showed no legislative intent for that Law to expire. Matter of City of Schenectady v New York State Pub. Empl. Relations Bd., 30 N.Y.3d 109, 86 N.E.3d 536, 64 N.Y.S.3d 644, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 3074 (N.Y. 2017).

There was no reasonable basis for a determination by the Public Employment Relations Board that disciplinary procedures were prohibited subjects of collective bargaining negotiations except as to negotiations involving the State, which determination was based on what the board erroneously believed to be an implicit prohibition in subdivision 4 of section 76 of the Civil Service Law, providing that sections 75 and 76 of that law, which set forth disciplinary procedures for certain classes of public employees and provided for appeals by employees from adverse determinations, might be supplemented, modified or replaced by agreements "negotiated between the state and an employee organization". Auburn Police Local 195, Council 82, AFSCME v Helsby, 62 A.D.2d 12, 404 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10411 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978), aff'd, 46 N.Y.2d 1034, 416 N.Y.S.2d 586, 389 N.E.2d 1106, 1979 N.Y. LEXIS 1946 (N.Y. 1979).

Public employee who sought to challenge constitutionality of arbitration provisions governing disciplining of employees had waived his right to assert unconstitutionality by virtue of fact that he belonged to the civil service employees association which had, after arms' length negotiation, entered into contract which contained the binding arbitration provisions; fact that individual employee did not himself approve the agreement negotiated by his representative did not make it any less binding upon him. Where Civil Service Employees Association had entered collective bargaining agreement with state providing for binding arbitration of disciplinary disputes to the exclusion of administrative and judicial remedies, civil service employee was precluded from challenging constitutionality of arbitration agreement and statute permitting such agreement, notwithstanding employee's objection to the collective bargaining agreement. In order to sustain constitutionality of arbitration provisions in collective bargaining agreement between the State and civil service employees association with respect to disciplining of employees, it would be necessary to read into the provisions the procedural safeguards of article governing arbitration generally, i.e., right to present evidence, right to cross-examine witnesses, right to have determination made on evidence produced, right to be represented by counsel, and right to have the award made in writing. Antinore v State, 49 A.D.2d 6, 371 N.Y.S.2d 213, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10325 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1975), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 921, 389 N.Y.S.2d 576, 358 N.E.2d 268, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3090 (N.Y. 1976).

In regard to discharge of deputy who was appointed by sheriff's predecessor, whose duties included civil matters and for whose acts and omissions sheriff was liable, newly elected sheriff was not subject to collective bargaining agreement provision that Civil Service Law requiring a pre-removal hearing was applicable to discharge of any county employee. Although county sheriff may be a public employer required to negotiate with and enter into written agreements with recognized employee organization representing his staff as to terms and conditions of employment, he is not, absent a contrary legislative expression, subject to contractual provision limiting his power to terminate employment of employees and deputies performing civil functions. Sirles v Cordary, 49 A.D.2d 330, 374 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10907 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 950, 390 N.Y.S.2d 413, 358 N.E.2d 1038, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3131 (N.Y. 1976).

Where, at time that notice of discipline was given, new collective bargaining agreement was in force which provided for grievance procedure designed to operate in lieu of Civil Service Law provisions, notice of discipline should have conformed to mandates of that agreement; failure to do so did not require dismissal of the charges but did require that further proceedings be in accordance with the collective bargaining agreement. Scales v Maxwell, 52 A.D.2d 719, 382 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12410 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Termination of teacher employed by Department of Correctional Services was proper where she was terminated pursuant to prior disciplinary settlement which specified that she could be terminated during 12-month disciplinary evaluation period if her time and attendance record was unsatisfactory, notwithstanding contention that settlement agreement was void and unenforceable because it denied her due process, since (1) teacher's collective bargaining agreement allowed for disciplinary matters to be resolved by written agreement instead of procedures in CLS Civ S §§ 75 and 76, and (2) agreement was made with participation of teacher's union. Millon v Coughlin, 147 A.D.2d 765, 537 N.Y.S.2d 645, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 774 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 74 N.Y.2d 602, 541 N.Y.S.2d 985, 539 N.E.2d 1113, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 572 (N.Y. 1989).

School district's petition for a permanent stay of arbitration with respect to a grievance arising from its termination of an employee was properly dismissed because the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement did not violate public policy or provisions of the Civil Service Law. Matter of Kenmore-Town of Tonawanda Union Free Sch. Dist. (Ken-Ton Sch. Empls. Assn.), 110 A.D.3d 1494, 974 N.Y.S.2d 679, 2013 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6452 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2013).

Trial court's judgment annulling the determination of the city's collective bargaining board (board), which compelled the city to disclose certain materials requested by a nurses association in connection with employee disciplinary proceedings was reversed because the board's decision could not be said to have been taken without sound basis in reason since the collective bargaining agreement granted the union a right to limited information in the context of disciplinary proceedings. Matter of City of New York v New York State Nurses Assn., 130 A.D.3d 28, 10 N.Y.S.3d 78, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4360 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2015), aff'd, 29 N.Y.3d 546, 82 N.E.3d 441, 60 N.Y.S.3d 100, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 1454 (N.Y. 2017).

In referring to sections of Civil Service Law regarding disciplinary procedures, amended section providing that such sections may be supplemented, modified or replaced by agreements negotiated between state and employee organization does not prohibit negotiations between a municipal employer and an employee organization on issues relating to disciplinary proceedings, and thus prior determinations of Public Employment Relations Board that discipline is mandatory subject of negotiation between a municipal employer and employee organization should not be disturbed. Auburn Police Local 195, etc. v Helsby, 91 Misc. 2d 909, 398 N.Y.S.2d 934, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2446 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977), aff'd, 62 A.D.2d 12, 404 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10411 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1978).

Trial court erred in a N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding in directing a town board to determine whether an officer was entitled to representation under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75(2) during certain questioning by his department because the Westchester County Police Act, N.Y. Laws 104, was a special law and provided that proceedings to discipline police officers in Westchester County, New York, be conducted by the boards of police commissioners; thus, under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(4), police disciplinary procedures were not a proper subject of collective bargaining and N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75 did not apply. Matter of Town of Harrison Police Benevolent Assn., Inc. v Town of Harrison Police Dept., 69 A.D.3d 639, 892 N.Y.S.2d 495, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 111 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2010).

Appellate court properly affirmed the trial court's finding that police discipline could not be a subject of collective bargaining under the Taylor Law when the legislature had expressly committed disciplinary authority over a police department, as was true in the present cases involving the city and the city police officers' union, and the town and the town police officers' union; while statutory law expressed a strong presumption that the terms and conditions of employment were subject to mandatory bargaining, that presumption could be overcome by evidence that the legislature had given local officials the authority to discipline police, and, in each case, the evidence showed that the local officials had expressly been given such authority. Matter of Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn. of City of N.Y., Inc. v New York State Pub. Empl. Relations Bd., 6 N.Y.3d 563, 815 N.Y.S.2d 1, 848 N.E.2d 448, 2006 N.Y. LEXIS 584 (N.Y. 2006).

Although collective bargaining agreement limits suspension of civil service employees charged with criminal acts to those situations where there is probable cause to believe that employee's continued presence on job represents potential danger to persons or properties or would severely interfere with operations, less protective subsection 3 of Civil Service Law § 75 permits suspension without pay for 30 days pending hearing and determination of charges of misconduct, far broader "cause" for suspension than collective bargaining agreement and lacks collective bargaining agreement's "probability" safeguard; § 75(3) is not unconstitutional since it is reasonable for agency charged with management of prisons and prisoners to be able to suspend corrections officer who has been charged with crime, crime that perhaps is more serious than conduct of prisoners he attends. Smith v Carey, 473 F. Supp. 268, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11144 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

5. —Article 78 proceedings

Where the Drug Abuse Control Commission, in Article 78 proceeding brought to compel the reinstatement of petitioner to his position of Vocational Instructor IV in the Brooklyn Central Community Rehabilitation Center operated by the Commission, affirmatively asserted that collective bargaining agreement was not applicable to petitioner, it could not thereafter attempt to argue that petitioner should have sought relief pursuant to the provisions of that agreement. Flomenbaum v Drug Abuse Control Com., 50 A.D.2d 20, 377 N.Y.S.2d 211, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11420 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a former bus operator who had been demoted to the position of railroad clerk, the petition would be dismissed where the clerk had waived his rights to a hearing and to any appeal when he elected to proceed to arbitration pursuant to the optional grievance provisions of his collective bargaining agreement. Dye v New York City Transit Authority, 88 A.D.2d 899, 450 N.Y.S.2d 587, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17227 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 57 N.Y.2d 917, 456 N.Y.S.2d 760, 442 N.E.2d 1271, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3792 (N.Y. 1982).

Article 78 proceeding to review determination of grievance committee which upheld dismissal of county employee was governed by arbitrary and capricious standard, not by substantial evidence standard, since grievance committee hearing was held pursuant to parties' collective bargaining agreement, which modified and superseded conflicting provisions of CLS Civ S § 75; grievance committe hearing was not equivalent to hearing under § 75 inasmuch as it was held after penalty was imposed, whereas § 75 requires hearing before penalty can be imposed. Marin v Benson, 131 A.D.2d 100, 520 N.Y.S.2d 642, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48575 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Correction officer was not entitled to judicial review of department's decision to terminate him after he was arrested for driving while intoxicated, and his Article 78 petition was properly dismissed in absence of showing that department acted in bad faith, since his conduct fell within provisions of parties' prior disciplinary settlement agreement whereby he could be terminated without appeal if he engaged in conduct which discredited department or its personnel, or which constituted misdemeanor or felony; under parties' collective bargaining agreement, disciplinary settlement agreement constituted enforceable contract. Shannon v State Dep't of Corr. Servs., 131 A.D.2d 915, 516 N.Y.S.2d 518, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48346 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 607, 521 N.Y.S.2d 224, 515 N.E.2d 909, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18916 (N.Y. 1987).

Disciplinary procedures establshed in city charter many years before the Civil Service Law mandated subjects for collective bargaining were protected from inclusion in mandatory subjects for bargaining. City of Mt. Vernon v Cuevas, 289 A.D.2d 674, 733 N.Y.S.2d 793, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11678 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2001), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 613, 742 N.Y.S.2d 606, 769 N.E.2d 353, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 874 (N.Y. 2002).

Where contract of employment between employee and school district provided that employee dissatisfied with employer's imposition of discipline could file grievance and thus obtain hearing as to fairness, employee was not entitled to complain in Article 78 proceeding to review such determination that he was not afforded notice and hearing pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75, as contract of employment grievance procedure constituted replacement for such hearing. Green v Board of Education, 75 Misc. 2d 64, 347 N.Y.S.2d 342, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1651 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973).

6. Individual liability for dismissing official

A former volunteer fireman wrongfully discharged from his position in civil service and reinstated in his position pursuant to peremptory writ of mandamus, under this section, may maintain an action against the officer who removed him for the amount of salary of which plaintiff has been deprived by defendant's wrongful act. McGraw v Gresser, 226 N.Y. 57, 123 N.E. 84, 226 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 57, 1919 N.Y. LEXIS 832 (N.Y. 1919).

Where school board members who wrongfully discharged employee were acting in their official capacity, they could not be held individually liable for mental distress, loss of business, or legal expenses incurred as result of discharge by employee even if charged with malicious intent. Van Buskirk v Bleiler, 46 A.D.2d 707, 360 N.Y.S.2d 88, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3866 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1974).

7. Effect of employee resignation or retirement

A motion to vacate a subpoena duces tecum, served in a proceeding under this section for removal of a civil service employee from office on charges, was properly denied where based upon the resignation of said employee from office. Such resignation, during the pendency of charges, does not terminate the proceeding. Brooklyn Audit Co. v Department of Taxation & Finance, 275 N.Y. 284, 9 N.E.2d 930, 275 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 284, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 1429 (N.Y. 1937).

State troopers who retired from service when misconduct charges were pending against them were entitled to be compensated for up to 30 days accrued annual leave, although regulation of Superintendent of State Police disqualified member who resigns from receiving maximum of 30 days of accrued annual leave provided for in regulations, since distinct and disparate regulation unconditionally granted such annual leave to member who separates from service by retirement or death. Degnan v Constantine, 189 A.D.2d 423, 596 N.Y.S.2d 867, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4008 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Probationary police officer who was given choice of resigning or being discharged was not entitled to annulment of his resignation, as threat of termination did not constitute duress or coercion which rendered his resignation involuntary where employer had legal right to discharge him based on his unsatisfactory performance. Manel v Mosca, 216 A.D.2d 468, 628 N.Y.S.2d 188, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Employer's refusal to reinstate petitioner was not arbitrary and capricious or abuse of discretion where petitioner resigned after being told that disciplinary charges would be brought against him based on internal investigation; threat to do that which one has legal right to do does not constitute duress. Hopkins v Governale, 222 A.D.2d 435, 634 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12496 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Article 78 proceeding, challenging termination of petitioner's employment as New York City correction officer, was properly dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction where petitioner, as part of his agreement to plead guilty in New Jersey to unlawful weapon possession, consented to forfeit his job and thereafter tendered his resignation; furthermore, petitioner was collaterally estopped from claiming that his resignation was involuntary where his criminal conviction was affirmed on ground that he voluntarily entered into plea agreement requiring his resignation. Quaranta v Jacobson, 250 A.D.2d 544, 675 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6158 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

The right to automatic retirement does not give a member of a police department immunity from a departmental disciplinary proceeding which was commenced while he was a member and which was pending when he retired. Flood v Monaghan, 108 N.Y.S.2d 414, 201 Misc. 560, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2517 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

Police commissioner could try suspended officer on charges and specifications filed against him, though such officer had retired from the force while criminal proceedings, based on the same incident, were pending. Baker v Kennedy, 6 Misc. 2d 589, 161 N.Y.S.2d 720, 1957 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3340 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

8. Interrogation of employees

Even though city police officer's failure to respond to his superior in departmental inquiry concerning altercation with fellow officer may have resulted in disciplinary action affecting officer's status in the department, officer still had no constitutional right to counsel during preliminary investigation. Donofrio v Hastings, 54 A.D.2d 1110, 388 N.Y.S.2d 779, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15090 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976), app. dismissed, 40 N.Y.2d 1087, 392 N.Y.S.2d 422, 360 N.E.2d 1104, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1821 (N.Y. 1977).

Provisions of this section did not apply to questioning of hospital employee as to alleged theft of property, where the employee was not removed from his position at the hospital. Hook v State, 15 Misc. 2d 672, 181 N.Y.S.2d 621, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2986 (N.Y. Ct. Cl. 1958).

Where petitioner was deprived of due process of law when he was effectively denied his right to advice of counsel before interrogation by city police department officials, invalidity of interrogation, insubordination at which formed basis for petitioner's dismissal from police department, tainted and rendered invalid decision reached at subsequent administrative hearing and petitioner was therefore ordered reinstated. May v Shaw, 87 Misc. 2d 808, 386 N.Y.S.2d 625, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2310 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 58 A.D.2d 807, 396 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12971 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Where subject matter of investigation was of some four to five years' vintage and had been subject of discussion with prior district attorney well before petitioner's initial suspension from city police department, purpose of interrogation was to obtain evidence to bolster pending charges against petitioner or, if he refused to answer, to bring new charges based on insubordination, and it would not have burdened investigation, commenced without notice late one afternoon, to permit petitioner reasonable time to seek advice of counsel, petitioner was deprived of due process of law when he was effectively denied his right to advice of counsel before interrogation. May v Shaw, 87 Misc. 2d 808, 386 N.Y.S.2d 625, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2310 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 58 A.D.2d 807, 396 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12971 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

9. Waiver of rights

Petitioner seeking reinstatement as village plumbing inspector is not entitled to benefits of this section where it appears that he failed to inform the village trustees that he was an exempt volunteer fireman, and in interviews with trustees in connection with seeking "reappointment" for the following year, made no assertion that he was entitled to the privileges of an exempt volunteer fireman and where petitioner has not shown that his employment was legal in its inception. Place v Estabrook, 278 N.Y. 728, 17 N.E.2d 143, 278 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 728, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 1546 (N.Y. 1938).

Petitioner, discharged for violation of terms of settlement agreement whereby he waived his right to disciplinary hearing and appeal authorized by CLS Civ S §§ 75 and 76 and agreed to probationary period of 12 months, could have brought Article 78 proceeding at time of his dismissal to challenge respondent's conclusion that he was probationary employee at that time, but Civil Service Commission had no jurisdiction to hear his appeal. Johnson v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 97 N.Y.2d 627, 735 N.Y.S.2d 861, 761 N.E.2d 553, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. 2001).

Acceptance of another civil service job by one unlawfully discharged from a previous civil service appointment does not prejudice his right to reinstatement in his original position, but serves only to reduce his claim to damages arising from his discharge. People ex rel. Barton v Brannan, 141 A.D. 295, 126 N.Y.S. 47, 1910 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3859 (N.Y. App. Div. 1910).

Petitioner's application for refund of salary deductions paid into a city retirement system, was a waiver of whatever invalidity attended his dismissal from service. He also was at liberty to and did waive any question of whether he could be dismissed from the department upon the ground of insanity, and, if so, whether he was entitled to notice and a hearing upon specified charges, as provided in this section. Piani v Davidson, 240 A.D. 383, 270 N.Y.S. 44, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10656 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

Petitioner, who failed to claim prior to or upon a hearing before the commissioner his status as a veteran, waived such status and is not entitled to the benefit of this section. In re Sullivan, 248 A.D. 779, 289 N.Y.S. 225, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7295 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936).

A laborer in employ of New York city by failure to claim, prior to or upon a hearing before the commissioner of the fire department, his veteran's status as an honorably-discharged soldier who served in the world war, thereby waived that status and was not entitled to the benefits thereof under this section. Wallace v McElligott, 249 A.D. 753, 291 N.Y.S. 866, 1936 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5872 (N.Y. App. Div. 1936), app. dismissed, 273 N.Y. 635, 7 N.E.2d 731, 273 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 635, 1937 N.Y. LEXIS 1358 (N.Y. 1937).

Petitioner, a conductor, had been removed in 1953 because of mental illness. In 1954, his condition improved and his request to be assigned as railroad watchman (at lesser pay) was granted. Petitioner's subsequent action to be restored to his former position on the ground that he had never been served with formal charges nor had he been granted a hearing pursuant to this section was dismissed because petitioner never denied the finding of unfitness nor did he claim that a hearing would have caused a different result. Further, petitioner waived his rights hereunder. Jones v New York City Transit Authority, 285 A.D. 1054, 139 N.Y.S.2d 371, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6656 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

The safeguards of sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law, which set forth disciplinary procedures for certain classes of public employees and provide for appeals by employees from adverse determinations, may be waived by an employee without violating the constitutional safeguards of due process and equal protection of the laws. Auburn Police Local 195, Council 82, AFSCME v Helsby, 62 A.D.2d 12, 404 N.Y.S.2d 396, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10411 (N.Y. State Department of Correctional Services was entitled to dismissal of Article 78 proceeding brought by correction officer seeking review of his dismissal from service as result of his excessive absenteeism since officer had knowingly and voluntarily entered into prior agreement whereby he could be "terminated without further appeal" if department determined his attendance to be unsatisfactory during disciplinary period; officer waived any right he may have had, at least in absence of actual bad faith, under either collective bargaining agreement or CLS Civ S §§ 75 and 76, to review termination decision. Miller v New York State Dep't of Corr. Servs., 126 A.D.2d 831, 510 N.Y.S.2d 745, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41966 (N.Y. Exempt fireman who had been annually appointed for an indefinite term as an engineer of municipal water works, which officer village trustees are authorized to appoint and remove at pleasure, by requesting village clerk to present his application for reappointment to the trustees did not waive his right to continue in the occupation of his office under this section. People ex rel. McBride v Atchinson, 123 N.Y.S. 577, 68 Misc. 115, 1910 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 362 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1910), aff'd, 142 A.D. 927, 126 N.Y.S. 1142, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 503 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

Where an honorably discharged veteran of the Civil War, occupying a position classified as competitive in the civil service of a municipality, is so injured in performance of his duties as to be disabled; and where after having been carried on the pay-roll for six months his salary is discontinued and, after having filed a claim for compensation for the injuries he has received, his name is restored to the pay-roll for a period of six months, upon his executing a formal release to city from all causes of action by reason of such injuries, such release does not constitute a bar to his claim to be reinstated in his position after he has recovered from effect of his injuries. People ex rel. Williams v Ward, 130 N.Y.S. 290, 72 Misc. 446, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 419 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), app. dismissed, 146 A.D. 901, 133 N.Y.S. 1140, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3642 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

The consent by the motorman of a subway train to demotion to the rank of conductor for being responsible for two subway accidents amounts to a waiver of any rights conferable upon him under this section. Quinlan v Reid, 91 N.Y.S.2d 441, 195 Misc. 970, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2623 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 275 A.D. 1034, 92 N.Y.S.2d 401, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5658 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

App. Div. 3d Dep't 1956).

Civil service provisions with regard to retention rights of city employees are for benefit of employees and employees may waive such rights or lose them by laches or by the running of statute of limitations. Brayer v Lapple, 80 Misc. 2d 159, 362 N.Y.S.2d 961, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1864 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974), rev'd, 52 A.D.2d 1034, 384 N.Y.S.2d 584, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12940 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

10. Veterans and volunteer firemen

Under this section an honorably discharged soldier of the world war is entitled to review by certiorari of a determination of the presiding justice of domestic relations court of New York city, removing him from the position of probation officer, after a hearing, upon charges of misconduct. O'Kelly v Hill, 283 N.Y. 78, 27 N.E.2d 509, 283 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 78, 1940 N.Y. LEXIS 915 (N.Y. 1940).

A veteran is expressly given the right by this section to a review of the action of the state industrial commissioner by certiorari and he is entitled to the judgment of the court as to the sufficiency of the charges made and whether there was evidence justifying his dismissal. People ex rel. Davis v Sayer, 205 A.D. 562, 200 N.Y.S. 134, 1923 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5082 (N.Y. App. Div. 1923).

A world war veteran, under this section, was entitled to "a hearing upon due notice upon stated charges, and with the right to a review by writ of certiorari. . . . Burden of proving incompetency or misconduct shall be upon the person alleging the same." In re Application of Thiel, 243 A.D. 787, 278 N.Y.S. 127, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8310 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

Public Employment Relations Board erred under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7803(3) when it held that police disciplinary matters involving honorably discharged veterans and volunteer firefighters were an exception to the prohibition against bargaining for those subjects in a collective bargaining agreement, as the provisions regarding police discipline were enacted in the city charter prior to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75 and 76, such that they were preserved under § 76(4). Matter of City of Middletown v City of Middletown Police Benevolent Assn., 81 A.D.3d 1238, 917 N.Y.S.2d 389, 2011 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1358 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2011).

It is not necessary for the protection of an exempt fireman's rights that he should have made a formal claim of his rights and privileges under this section, where the board of trustees knew or was in position to ascertain his qualifications for enjoyment of such rights and privileges. People ex rel. McBride v Atchinson, 123 N.Y.S. 577, 68 Misc. 115, 1910 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 362 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1910), aff'd, 142 A.D. 927, 126 N.Y.S. 1142, 1911 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 503 (N.Y. App. Div. 1911).

It is immaterial whether or not village authorities knew that petitioner was an honorably discharged soldier, for it was their duty to know of his service. Warner v Hall, 252 N.Y.S. 451, 141 Misc. 294, 1931 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1664 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1931).

An administrative trial prior to removal need not be afforded a civil service employee unless he be a veteran or volunteer fireman; and the court will not interfere with the exercise of discretion on the part of the removing authority where all the formalities of subd. 2 of this section have been complied with and there is substantial evidence to sustain the removal. Plunkett v Wilson, 37 N.Y.S.2d 959, 179 Misc. 149, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2124 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942), aff'd, 269 A.D. 743, 54 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1945 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3567 (N.Y. App. Div. 1945).

Where charges are brought against a veteran which may result in his removal, he is given the right under this section to a statutory hearing, and if found guilty is entitled to a review of the evidence directly by the Appellate Division, although the punishment inflicted consisted merely of reprimands and a two months' suspension. Brown v Moses, 77 N.Y.S.2d 680, 191 Misc. 360, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2180 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), aff'd, 275 A.D. 834, 89 N.Y.S.2d 922, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4700 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

11. Review rights of particular employees

Language in a collective bargaining agreement making "final and binding" the final step of a grievance procedure did not preclude a nurse, charged in a disciplinary proceeding with abandoning a wheelchair patient in a bathroom, from pursuing judicial review of her right to a transcript of the grievance hearing (Civ S Law §§ 75, 76; the words "final and binding" merely triggered the running of the four-month time limit within which an Article 78 proceeding must be brought. Stoker v Tarentino, 64 N.Y.2d 994, 489 N.Y.S.2d 43, 478 N.E.2d 184, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16685 (N.Y. 1985).

The refusal of a sheriff to remit a deputy's 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay in connection with the disposition of disciplinary proceedings against the deputy in which he was found guilty of misconduct and reprimanded, could be considered a penalty or punishment within Civil Service Law § 76(1) for which judicial review could be sought. Civil Service Law § 75(3), permitting a 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay, also provides that upon a finding of guilt a post-hearing penalty or punishment may include a suspension without pay, and the time during which an officer or employee had previously been suspended without pay could be considered as part of the penalty. Sinnott v Finnerty, 65 N.Y.2d 780, 492 N.Y.S.2d 945, 482 N.E.2d 563, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16192 (N.Y. 1985).

The chief of police of the city of Geneva, an honorably-discharged World War veteran, holds a position subordinate in nature and is entitled, under subd. 1 of this section to a review of the determination of the mayor of the city dismissing him from the force on charges of selling equipment and retaining the money received therefor, notwithstanding the provisions of the Geneva City Charter, § 90, which states that the decision of the mayor shall be final and conclusive and not subject to review by any court. Morris v Neider, 259 A.D. 49, 18 N.Y.S.2d 207, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6046 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

A policeman disciplined for violation of departmental regulation had the right to appeal from the determination of the acting police commissioner, and the county civil service commission was ordered to hear the action on its merits. Proverb v Niesley, 32 A.D.2d 657, 300 N.Y.S.2d 780, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3941 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1969), aff'd, 26 N.Y.2d 875, 309 N.Y.S.2d 608, 258 N.E.2d 101, 1970 N.Y. LEXIS 1471 (N.Y. 1970).

Proper standard of review into charges of misconduct by school bus driver was substantial evidence, not fair preponderance evidence, since bus driver was not barred from seeking employment as bus driver in another school district or from trying to get another driving related job, he was not subject to registry and information about school district's charges, and disposition was not readily accessible to public at-large, and thus did not trigger "stigma plus" analysis. Malloch v Ballston Spa Cent. Sch. Dist., 249 A.D.2d 797, 671 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4518 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 810, 680 N.Y.S.2d 55, 702 N.E.2d 840, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3081 (N.Y. 1998).

A clerk of a Municipal Civil Service Commission is entitled to service of charges and opportunity to reply, but has no right of appeal. People ex rel. Eberle v La Guardia, 21 N.Y.S.2d 239, 175 Misc. 272, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1907 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 856, 23 N.Y.S.2d 467, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5047 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Since New York City, N.Y., Charter § 487(a) and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 15-113, gave the city fire department commissioner exclusive power to discipline firefighters, the city's civil service commission erroneously ruled that it had jurisdiction to hear a firefighters appeal of his termination; the fire department's discipline was outside the scope of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76, and, thus, was not subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. The fire commissioner's N.Y. art. 78 proceeding to annul the commission's determination that it had jurisdiction was improperly dismissed. Von Essen v N.Y. City Civ. Serv. Comm'n, 4 N.Y.3d 220, 791 N.Y.S.2d 887, 825 N.E.2d 128, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 2005).

In a suit challenging both the legality of a city's Police Accountability Board's (PAB's) role in police discipline and its affect on collective bargaining with the police union, the court held Local Law No. 2 was unlawful and invalid only for the purpose of conducting hearings and disciplining officers of the city because state law bound the city since 1985, and the Council therefore acted ultra vires when it enacted portions of Local Law No. 2 that contradicted state law. Matter of Rochester Police Locust Club Inc. v City of Rochester, 2020 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 10983 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2020).

12. Miscellaneous

If subd. 2 has been complied with and charges of substance have been duly served and the employee afforded an opportunity to explain them, a jury may not be called upon to determine an alleged issue of fact involving the sufficiency of charges or the motives of the removing officer. Rosengarten v Knapp, 236 A.D. 743, 258 N.Y.S. 585, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6589 (N.Y. App. Div.), reh'g denied, 236 A.D. 757, 258 N.Y.S. 1039, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6695 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

Petitioner did not suffer damages to his property rights by virtue of his discharge from his probationary status with state in absence of evidence that discharge imposed a stigma of immorality or dishonesty or other disability that operated to foreclose freedom of petitioner from obtaining other employment. Quraishi v Nyquist, 55 A.D.2d 775, 389 N.Y.S.2d 649, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15561 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976), app. dismissed, 41 N.Y.2d 1008, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3422 (N.Y. 1977), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 801, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3646 (N.Y. 1977).

Court properly dismissed proceeding by town board seeking to prohibit administrative appeal by discharged police officer for his failure to serve and file notice of appeal pursuant to CLS Civ S § 76, and to prohibit county commissioner of personnel from hearing such appeal, since prohibition did not lie where town board could seek review of its claim of jurisdictional defects through administrative appeal process before county commissioner of personnel. Town Bd. of Wallkill v Owen, 127 A.D.2d 589, 511 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 43058 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Petitioners' action seeking declaration that Transit Authority's preemployment drug tests were unconstitutional was ripe for review, although proceeding was commenced prior to agency's issuance of final termination notices and agency could have ultimately decided to vacate petitioners' suspensions, since petitioners suffered actual injury by virtue of their suspensions without pay before proceeding was commenced, it was unlikely that they would be reinstated, and harm sought to be enjoined was not contingent on future developments or resolution of facts at administrative level, but involved purely legal issues; even if case were not fully ripe when proceeding was commenced, it ripened when petitioners were terminated prior to Special Term's consideration of case. Dozier v New York City, 130 A.D.2d 128, 519 N.Y.S.2d 135, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45074 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Court should have dismissed Article 78 proceeding against school district, challenging termination of petitioner's employment as typist, since (1) petitioner's failure to serve notice of claim on board of education within 3 months of her discharge, as required by CLS Educ § 3813, meant that personal jurisdiction was not obtained over board, and (2) petitioner's failure to timely include return date on notice of petition constituted jurisdictional defect under CLS CPLR § 403(a). Harder v Board of Educ.,

Binghamton City Sch. Dist., 188 A.D.2d 783, 591 N.Y.S.2d 230, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13879 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

In Article 78 proceeding to review determination which discharged correctional employee for physically attacking her supervisor (specification 5) and verbally yelling at her supervisor (specification 6), case would be remitted for development of appropriate findings where only support for hearing officer's finding of guilt as to specification 5 was his conclusory statement that there was physical contact, and he did not refer to any testimony to substantiate finding of guilt as to specification 6. Langhorne v Jackson, 206 A.D.2d 666, 614 N.Y.S.2d 627, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1994).

Supreme Court properly denied motion to hold police commissioner and other city respondents in contempt for failing to comply with Appellate Division order which, after invalidating respondents' waiver program, allegedly directed them to award retroactive credit toward detective status for time between petitioners' loss of temporary detective assignments until their court-ordered reinstatement, as (1) remedy for lost opportunity was restoration of opportunity, not retroactive credit for service petitioners never performed, and (2) in any case, claimed directive to award retroactive credit was hardly so clear and unequivocal as to warrant holding respondents in contempt. Scotto v Giuliani, 259 A.D.2d 412, 687 N.Y.S.2d 142, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2849 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

In Article 78 proceeding to review decision which denied reinstatement to petitioner discharged from his position as state trooper for making material misrepresentations on his employment application, court properly denied petitioner's request for disclosure of background investigation file consisting entirely of evaluative documents gathered by state police in conjunction with their investigation into his background and qualifications, in view of prejudice to respondents if records containing information imparted by interviewees under promise of confidentiality were disclosed. Grossman v McMahon, 261 A.D.2d 54, 699 N.Y.S.2d 582, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12730 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Public employee who was involuntarily terminated was not entitled to cash value of 45 unpaid vacation days which accrued during his final year of employment, notwithstanding his claim that he could not use all of his vacation days because of his heavy work load, where he failed to show that any superior or supervisor induced him to forego any vacation time during that year for any reason, or that he refrained from using vacation time that entire year because of "noncontractual" duties. Gratto v Board of Educ., 271 A.D.2d 175, 711 N.Y.S.2d 574, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8076 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Court improperly dismissed Article 78 proceeding alleging that county violated petitioner's due process rights and rights under CLS Civ S § 75 by terminating her employment without hearing, where petitioner alleged that county had agreed to hold hearing on pending disciplinary charges against her in abeyance while she applied for disability retirement, she further alleged that parties agreed that charges could be reinstated if she did not receive disability retirement, county terminated her employment after she applied for disability retirement based on her physician's diagnosis of permanent disability, and her application for retirement was denied because she did not have requisite years of total service credit. White v County of Jefferson, 285 A.D.2d 964, 727 N.Y.S.2d 677, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6980 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 2001).

Court annulled police commissioner's decision to terminate police officer's employment for using excessive force against prisoner and making false statement about incident where (1) hearing officer, in lauding credibility of allegedly beaten prisoner and 3 "corroborating" prisoner-witnesses, ignored facts that prisoner gave inconsistent stories to different people and prisoner-witnesses were not present in their cells when incident allegedly occurred, and (2) issues existed as to whether police officer's prior successful litigation to regain his position in unrelated matter was substantial or motivating factor in commissioner's decision to find him guilty of various charges and then terminate him. Buric v Safir, 285 A.D.2d 255, 736 N.Y.S.2d 342, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 458 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 98 N.Y.2d 688, 746 N.Y.S.2d 689, 774 N.E.2d 754, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 1937 (N.Y. 2002).

Arbitration of city police disciplinary disputes was required because the Taylor Law was applicable pursuant to a city charter provision that superseded the Second Class Cities Law (SCCL) and because the city's police manual expressly authorized arbitration of police disciplinary matters. Although municipalities can adopt police disciplinary procedures under the SCCL and under general laws enacted prior to this section allowing local control of police discipline, the city chose not to do so. City of Syracuse v Syracuse Police Benevolent Assn., Inc., 68 Misc. 3d 412, 124 N.Y.S.3d 523, 2020 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1926 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2020).

Article 78 proceeding was sufficient to provide constitutional due process for municipal employee who alleged denial of her procedural due process under Fourteenth Amendment in connection with termination and denial of her retirement benefits; thus, employee failed to state due process claim under 42 USCS § 1983. Julian v New York City Transit Auth., 857 F. Supp. 242, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9601 (E.D.N.Y. 1994), aff'd, 52 F.3d 312, 1995 U.S. App. LEXIS 9349 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1995).

Applicant for public employment had private right of action under CLS Civ S § 61 where she alleged that town officials unlawfully manipulated hiring process by dismissing top scorer on civil service exam from pool of top 3 scorers without his declining job, and by bribing fourth highest scorer to decline job so that fifth highest scorer could be appointed; however, sole relief available to plaintiff was to have her application reconsidered, which was properly sought by Article 78 proceeding in New York Supreme Court. Eisert v Town of Hempstead, 918 F. Supp. 601, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2657 (E.D.N.Y. 1996).

Public employees have right, albeit not unqualified one, to speak on matters of public concern; government has discretion to limit speech of its employees in certain instances. Walsh v City of Auburn, 942 F. Supp. 788, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15335 (N.D.N.Y. 1996).

Former police officer had protected property interest in his position for due process purposes, where his initial dismissal (arising from alleged wrongful discharge of firearm) was overturned in Article 78 proceeding and he was found legally entitled to reinstatement, but police commissioner placed him on probation pending psychological evaluation. Eng v New York City Police Dep't, 977 F. Supp. 668, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15503 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

II. Review Of Particular Actions

13. Demotion

Demotion of town Superintendent of Water and Sewer Department to water and sewer department laborer for accepting gift from chemical supplier in return for using that supplier's chemicals and for being derelict and incompetent in performance of official duties in failing to notify appropriate officials that malfunctioning pumping station was causing raw sewage to be dumped into river was not arbitrary or capricious. Merrin v Town Board of Kirkwood, 48 A.D.2d 992, 369 N.Y.S.2d 878, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10299 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

Substantial evidence supported action of New York City Transit System in demoting employee to position of railroad clerk after finding that he had violated system's rules and regulations; demotion was not sanction which was shocking to one's sense of fairness. Shipman v New York City Transit Authority, 56 A.D.2d 934, 392 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11335 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Statute prohibiting, inter alia, removal of person holding position by permanent appointment in competitive class, except for incompetency or misconduct shown after hearing upon stated charges, was not applicable to prohibit summary demotion of psychologist from position of principal psychologist, to which he had been promoted by way of provisional appointment to his permanently appointed position of associate psychologist; provisional appointee may be discharged from such position without hearing or cause shown. Sirohi v Merges, 58 A.D.2d 645, 396 N.Y.S.2d 58, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12729 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Penalties imposed upon a school custodian in civil service of demotion to watchman and suspension without pay for two months, because of his purchase and retention of pornographic material, were not excessive under this section. The course of conduct by a school employee over a period of several years involving purchase and retention of possession of pornographic materials bears upon his individual fitness to hold the position of a school custodian during hours when students are in attendance, and will sustain his suspension pending trial, and, if established, his demotion to a lower grade of service. Demotion of petitioner, a school employee, to a lower grade of service wherein he would not so frequently come in contact with pupils, was permissible upon charges and findings that he had become possessed of a large amount of pornographic material, some of it purchased from a fellow employee, notwithstanding he had already been acquitted of a charge of violation of § 1141 of the Penal Law in possessing such material with attempt to sell, etc., it. Petition of Rice, 40 Misc. 2d 1092, 244 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1396 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

In an Article 78 proceeding by a probationary city employee challenging his demotion in rank, the employer's determination that the employee's job performance was unsatisfactory was neither arbitrary nor capricious, and would be upheld, where the mere unsubstantiated claim that the employee was a scapegoat for unsatisfactory office performance and religious prejudice was insufficient as a matter of law to raise an issue of bad faith unrelated to job performance, where there was no indication that the employer acted arbitrarily in failing to furnish periodic evaluations to the employee, and where the fact that the employee did not receive an evaluation for his performance every three months during the probationary period, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the city personnel department, did not prevent the employer from terminating the employee, in that the employee, as a probationer, could have terminated at any time after four months. Smith v New York, 118 Misc. 2d 227, 459 N.Y.S.2d 1007, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3297 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Employee was not entitled to reinstatement to his former position; pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(1), there was no penalty or punishment imposed by a city on the employee, but instead, the actions of the employee were the cause of his demotion, as the employee's actions of being arrested for felony driving while intoxicated and his subsequent loss of his driver's license was the cause of his demotion, and the employee thus failed to demonstrate a clear legal right to the relief demanded. Ramsey v Town of Hempstead, 193 Misc. 2d 278, 750 N.Y.S.2d 439, 2002 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1294 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2002).

14. Transfer or reassignment

The reassignment of an individual entails a demotion in grade and title and constitutes a disciplinary action requiring compliance with section 75 of the Civil Service Law where the effect of the action taken by a county civil service commission was a retroactive demotion from his position of investigator to the position of Deputy Sheriff, the latter position having a lower salary and involving the possibility of being assigned by the Sheriff to the duties of an investigator at the higher salary, inasmuch as the commission's action, although not purporting to be a reclassification, resulted in a de facto reclassification of the individual's position, thereby accomplishing indirectly what could not be done directly; furthermore, the commission's actions caused a reduction on the annual salary grade of persons having tenure in the position of investigator and would, therefore, offend section 121 (subd 2, par [a]) of the Civil Service Law. Borrell v County of Genesee, 73 A.D.2d 386, 426 N.Y.S.2d 361, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10061 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

Transfer of housing police officer from office work back to field work was management decision, not disciplinary action, and thus housing authority was not required to conduct hearing before effecting transfer. Pelt v New York City Hous. Auth., 199 A.D.2d 26, 605 N.Y.S.2d 11, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11693 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993).

In Article 78 proceeding, court properly concluded that transfer of petitioner from position of plainclothes detective to uniformed lieutenant's position resulted in change in his compensation because he no longer received additional stipend for detectives detailed in collective bargaining agreement, and where court further determined that issue of fact remained as to whether such "reassignment" was retaliatory in nature, referee was properly appointed to determine whether provisions of collective bargaining agreement, mandating protections accorded by CLS Civ S § 75, were triggered. Whalen v Hogue, 276 A.D.2d 975, 714 N.Y.S.2d 577, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10795 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Where a civil service employee was transferred to a different position with her written consent, this transfer did not violate the civil service law as a demotion or removal. Papert v Conway, 107 N.Y.S.2d 638, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2401 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951), aff'd, 279 A.D. 892, 111 N.Y.S.2d 605, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5212 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

15. Suspension, generally

Mere suspension of a civil service hospital employee by the New York City Hospital Commissioner for five days without pay, as punishment for lateness in reporting for duty on ten different days, is not subject to review under this section and by art. 78 proceeding. Winn v Department of Hospitals, 20 A.D.2d 856, 248 N.Y.S.2d 184, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4101 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1964).

An order which dismissed a petition for judicial review of a ten-day suspension of civil service city employees on the theory that at the time the charges were filed against the employees and the determination made there was no authority to review punishments which did not exceed ten days was reversed, where the statute had been amended to authorize a proceeding to review regardless of the penalty imposed. Badrow v Common Council & City Clerk of Tonawanda, 26 A.D.2d 611, 271 N.Y.S.2d 57, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3978 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1966).

Where misconduct which led to disciplinary action against city fire captain occurred during his off-duty hours and where the motivation of misconduct was legitimately subject to variety of interpretations, penalty of 30-day suspension without pay and two-month demotion in rank and pay was not so insubstantial as to shock the sense of fairness. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Although there was substantial evidence to support determination that county employee engaged in misconduct resulting in safety hazard, 30-day suspension imposed by county was improper since (1) county rules of conduct provided that oral warning was appropriate sanction for first offense of engaging in conduct which may result in safety hazard, and (2) even if rules were merely intended as guidelines, sanction was so disproportionate as to shock one's sense of fairness. Smith v Hager, 185 A.D.2d 612, 586 N.Y.S.2d 41, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9123 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1992).

Where substantial evidence did not support respondents' finding of guilt as to all 4 disciplinary charges against police officer, court annulled 3 unsupported charges, vacated penalty of 40 days' suspension without pay, and remanded matter for imposition of appropriate penalty. Cotterel v City of New York, 258 A.D.2d 396, 685 N.Y.S.2d 712, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1890 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Where a petitioner seeks to enjoin the entry of a sub-standard rating on records by reason of suspension, the petition is insufficient where there is no allegation that such action was threatened by the commission. Storrier v Moses, 102 N.Y.S.2d 987, 199 Misc. 718, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1582 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

A petition by subway operators which alleged that they had been suspended for from five to seven days and subjected to probation for six months for reporting "sick" and paralyzing the transit system on a certain date, stated a cause of action against the transit authority. Horvath v Patterson, 3 Misc. 2d 960, 151 N.Y.S.2d 183, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2069 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956), aff'd, 3 A.D.2d 730, 160 N.Y.S.2d 816, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6402 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1957).

The purpose of the provision in this section, that an employee may be suspended without pay for a period of 30 days pending hearing and determination of charges against him, is to assure that the matter be promptly disposed of, but the fact that the employee filed an answer which required investigation by the municipality does not constitute a delay occasioned by the employee and he is not deprived of compensation to which he would otherwise be entitled. Schmidt v MacEdonio, 47 Misc. 2d 889, 263 N.Y.S.2d 434, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1509 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

A municipal employee may be suspended pending a hearing and, if he is suspended, his pay can be cut off immediately only if there is an enabling statute. Gould v Looney, 60 Misc. 2d 973, 304 N.Y.S.2d 537, 1969 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1155 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1969), modified, 34 A.D.2d 807, 311 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4827 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

One of purposes of legislature in enacting section of Civil Service Law providing that officer or employee against whom charges have been preferred may be suspended without pay for period not exceeding 30 days was to afford some protection to property rights of its civil servants and those protections are clearly specified in the statutes and should not be enlarged upon. Shales v Rochester, 91 Misc. 2d 195, 397 N.Y.S.2d 566, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

16. —Suspension pending hearing and determination of charges

Although Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3 limits suspension without pay for a period not exceeding 30 days pending hearing and determination of charges of incompetency or misconduct, it does not prohibit suspension for a longer period nor require reinstatement after such period if the charges have not been determined. Prezio v De Santis, 38 A.D.2d 772, 328 N.Y.S.2d 32, 1972 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5561 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1972).

State police officer was improperly suspended without pay for over 2 years pending a hearing on departmental charges, even though delay in bringing said charges was occasioned by pendency of criminal prosecution in federal court. Sabatini v Kirwan, 42 A.D.2d 1004, 348 N.Y.S.2d 377, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3395 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1973).

With respect to suspension without pay imposed on police officer by city pending hearing, failure of city commissioner of public safety to remit such suspension when he gave notice of his final determination to impose 2-month post-hearing suspension penalty permitted court to review both pre-hearing and post-hearing suspensions. Panella v Dolce, 203 A.D.2d 465, 610 N.Y.S.2d 860, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3924 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Court properly determined that savings clause in CLS Civ S § 76(4), providing that nothing in CLS Civ S § 75 shall be construed to "repeal or modify" any local laws, was unambiguous grand-fathering provision that did not apply to subsequently enacted NYC Admin Code § 9-112, providing that members of Department of Corrections' uniform force charged with crime may be suspended without pay for as long as criminal charges remain pending. In proceeding brought by petitioners, Correction Captains Association and correction captain, challenging Department of Correction's suspension of individual petitioner for more than 30 days pending disposition of administrative charges against him, court properly denied Correction Officers' Benevolent Association's motion to intervene, notwithstanding correction officers' interest in matter, since purported collective bargaining agreement that correction officers wished to challenge as ineffective to bring them within savings clause of CLS Civ S § 76(4) affected only Department's rank and file, not its captains, such as individual petitioner, and its adjudication in instant proceeding would have prejudicially delayed determination as to individual petitioner, who had already been suspended without pay for over year. Meringolo v Jacobson, 256 A.D.2d 20, 680 N.Y.S.2d 521, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12802 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342, 716 N.E.2d 177, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1364 (N.Y. 1999), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342, 716 N.E.2d 177, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1365 (N.Y. 1999).

The Chief of Police of the Village of Hasting-on-Hudson, can suspend a policeman, without pay, for a period of 30 days, pending the filing of formal charges. McElroy v Trojak, 21 Misc. 2d 145, 189 N.Y.S.2d 824, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3512 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

The 30-day limit on suspension of civil service employees pending hearing and determination of charges against them is mandatory, in the absence of a showing of special circumstances, and where charges have not been preferred within such time the employee has a mandatory right to reinstatement. Morris v Reid, 210 N.Y.S.2d 868, 1960 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3922 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1960).

17. — —Effect of delay in hearing

Even if a civil service employee is found guilty and ultimately dismissed, he must be paid his salary during any period of suspension, except to extent of imposition of a 30-day suspension without pay pending the determination of the charges; however, where the delay in proceeding is occasioned by the conduct of the employee, he will be denied the right to recover wages for the period involved. Lytle v Christian, 47 A.D.2d 824, 365 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9162 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1975).

Where New York City transit authority employee, who had been suspended following his arrest and charge of criminal sale of controlled substance in the first degree, was ready to proceed with administrative hearing but the respondents, on their own initiative, chose to delay the proceedings, the employee was entitled to receive his full salary during any period of suspension in excess of the initial 30 days; however, reduction was to be had for such sums as he may have earned from other employments during the subject period. Delays in disciplinary hearing against transit authority employee who had been suspended without pay after arrest on criminal charge were not ground for offset against award of back pay where one delay was properly occasioned by motion to change hearing referee and other delays were occasioned by counsel's actual engagement at trial. If transit authority could have demonstrated that petitioner who was suspended without pay after arrest on criminal charge obtained adjournments of criminal proceeding for frivolous reasons, or in bad faith merely to increase his award of back pay, an offset against the award would have been justified. Yeampierre v Gutman, 57 A.D.2d 898, 394 N.Y.S.2d 450, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12137 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Suspension of petitioner in excess of 30 days without pay, pending hearing and investigation of charges of possession of pornographic material, was not unwarranted where part of a delay in filing and hearing the charges had been at petitioner's own request. Petition of Rice, 40 Misc. 2d 1092, 244 N.Y.S.2d 536, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1396 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

18. —Duration of suspension

Although subd. 3 of this section authorizes only, in the event a penalty of suspension is imposed on a civil service employee for misconduct, suspension for a period not exceeding two months, in view of subd. 5-a of § 1296 of the Civil Practice Act, added in 1955, the Appellate Division, in modifying an order of dismissal for misconduct, had discretion to order suspension for a longer period. Mitthauer v Patterson, 8 N.Y.2d 37, 201 N.Y.S.2d 321, 167 N.E.2d 731, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 1223 (N.Y. 1960).

Where Article 78 proceeding is brought to review punishment imposed on fireman by fire commissioner, court, on finding that such punishment was abuse of discretion and was excessive, could assess suspension for the period it deemed appropriate without being limited by the 2 month period specified in Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3. Lo Bello v McLaughlin, 31 N.Y.2d 782, 339 N.Y.S.2d 108, 291 N.E.2d 388, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1031 (N.Y. 1972).

Under subdivision 2 of this section the maximum suspension without pay pending determination of charges is 30 days. Loos v New York City Transit Authority, 4 A.D.2d 751, 164 N.Y.S.2d 884, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4865 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1957).

Where court finds punishment of dismissal to be excessive and orders suspension, it is not limited in assessing the length of such suspension to the 2 month period specified in Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3. Boddie v County of Westchester, 41 A.D.2d 546, 339 N.Y.S.2d 692, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5346 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 33 N.Y.2d 835, 351 N.Y.S.2d 975, 307 N.E.2d 47, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 878 (N.Y. 1973).

Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3 purporting to limit the length of suspension of a civil service employee found guilty of charges to a period of not exceeding 2 months is no longer valid. Court in Article 78 proceeding to review determination of commissioner of corrections dismissing corrections officer could, on finding that such punishment was excessive and an abuse of discretion, impose suspension from March 21, 1972 through January 10, 1973 despite 2 month limit on length of suspension proscribed in Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3. Boddie v County of Westchester, 41 A.D.2d 546, 339 N.Y.S.2d 692, 1973 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5346 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), aff'd, 33 N.Y.2d 835, 351 N.Y.S.2d 975, 307 N.E.2d 47, 1973 N.Y. LEXIS 878 (N.Y. 1973).

Where Civil Service Law section provided that officer or employee found guilty of charges might be penalized by suspension without pay for period not exceeding two months, suspension for period of 180 working days, with credit for those working days which accrued during 30-day suspension period immediately prior to hearing, was in violation of statute. Carlstrom v Hauser, 54 A.D.2d 705, 387 N.Y.S.2d 447, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14283 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Court will affirm 44 day suspension imposed by New York City Civil Service Commission upon sanitation man found guilty of violations of Department of Sanitation's rules governing sick leave, as result of his activities at bar in which he had one-half interest, where commission reduced penalty of dismissal to suspension in light of person's "commendable" work record and fact that he was never seen working in bar but merely on premises. New York City Dep't of Sanitation v New York City Civil Service Com., 114 A.D.2d 320, 494 N.Y.S.2d 312, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 52998 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1985), rev'd, 68 N.Y.2d 978, 510 N.Y.S.2d 551, 503 N.E.2d 107, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20936 (N.Y. 1986).

Prehearing suspension of town police chief was not limited to 30 days under CLS Civ S § 75(3) where CLS Civ S § 76(4) preserved inconsistent local laws enacted before 1941, and thus CLS Town § 155 was still valid and controlling. Coscette v Town of Wallkill, 281 A.D.2d 479, 721 N.Y.S.2d 784, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2356 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 602, 735 N.Y.S.2d 491, 760 N.E.2d 1287, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3276 (N.Y. 2001).

It was proper for police commissioner to direct that petitioner forfeit 15 vacation days for having attempted to coerce detainee not to file complaint with Civilian Complaint Review Board. Driscoll v Safir, 284 A.D.2d 106, 725 N.Y.S.2d 546, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5658 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

The inherent right of the Board of Police Commissioners to remove a member of the Police Department after sustained charges does not give it the right to suspend a police officer for a period in excess of thirty days and the reinstatement of such an officer with back pay will be ordered retroactively as of a date thirty days after his original suspension. Webber v Tunney, 59 N.Y.S.2d 455, 186 Misc. 270, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2593 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

Where the Appellate Division, in reviewing a civil service determination dismissing an employee for misconduct, decides that the penalty is too severe and remits the matter for imposition of a lesser penalty, it must be assumed that the Appellate Division had in mind the provisions of subd. 3 of this section, which would permit only a two-months' suspension without pay, and, in view of imposition of such a lesser punishment by the director, petitioner's pay should not have been withheld for a longer period. Application of Fuller, 33 Misc. 2d 708, 230 N.Y.S.2d 943, 1961 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1924 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1961).

Subdivision 3 of this section limiting the fine which may be imposed upon a civil service employee to $100, is not a limitation upon the hearing officer's power to suspend him without pay for a period during which his salary would exceed $100. Manzi v Kaplan, 35 Misc. 2d 793, 231 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3068 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), aff'd, 20 A.D.2d 791, 248 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4271 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1964).

A state trooper cannot be suspended more than thirty days and is entitled to reinstatement with back pay for the period in excess of the term of lawful suspension, even though the determination of charges against him was delayed and the suspension accordingly prolonged in part because of legal action instituted by him. Haskins v Warner, 46 N.Y.S.2d 400, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1640 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

An employee of the Board of Education may be suspended for a period in excess of thirty days notwithstanding the provisions of this section under §§ 870 and 872 of the Education Law. Baker v Board of Education, 62 N.Y.S.2d 372, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2242 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

New York City Administrative Code § 434a-2.0, which gives New York City Police Commissioner power to suspend police officers without pay and for indefinite period pending hearing of charges against them is rationally related to legitimate legislative aim of insuring integrity and appearance of integrity of New York City Police Department; power of indefinite suspension does not offend equal protection clause, notwithstanding fact that all civil service employees except for New York City police officers are protected from payless suspensions for more than 30 days by Civil Service Law § 75, subd 3. Baker v Cawley, 459 F. Supp. 1301, 1978 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14639 (S.D.N.Y. 1978), aff'd, 607 F.2d 994, 1979 U.S. App. LEXIS 14767 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1979).

19. —Entitlement to pay for period of suspension exceeding 30 days, generally

While section (former § 22) only provides for suspension of a civil service employee, without pay, for 30 days pending determination of charges, if a suspended employee claims back pay by reason of suspension pending hearing of charges for more than that length of time, his remedy is by independent action or proceeding, not upon court review of propriety of the decision on the charges. Bentley v Henninger, 10 A.D.2d 900, 200 N.Y.S.2d 117, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10421 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 11 A.D.2d 974, 209 N.Y.S.2d 541, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8158 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1960).

Where a civil service employee is suspended without pay for a period in excess of 30 days, and eventually discharged, he is entitled to recover wages for excess period when delay in disposition of the charges is not occasioned by his fault. Amkraut v Hults, 21 A.D.2d 260, 250 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1964 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3617 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 15 N.Y.2d 627, 255 N.Y.S.2d 672, 203 N.E.2d 923, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 821 (N.Y. 1964).

Under Civil Service L § 75, subd 3, petitioner who was suspended without pay in excess of 30 days was entitled to pay from end of 30-day period to date of final discharge less outside earnings, if any. In Article 78 proceeding to compel town to pay petitioner's salary and fringe benefits pending determination of disciplinary charges, town bore burden of proof on affirmative defense that petitioner's position was abolished, but petitioner then bore burden of proof to show that abolition was not undertaken in good faith. Young v Supervisor of Lloyd, 159 A.D.2d 828, 552 N.Y.S.2d 981, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2935 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 76 N.Y.2d 761, 559 N.Y.S.2d 237, 558 N.E.2d 39, 1990 N.Y. Where an employee has been lawfully dismissed, he is not entitled to any pay for the period of his suspension pending preferment of charges and an opportunity to make answer thereto before dismissal. Whalen v Corsi, 105 N.Y.S.2d 30, 201 Misc. 39, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1858 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951), aff'd, 279 A.D. 1113, 112 N.Y.S.2d 499, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6010 (N.Y. The provision in subd. 3 of this section that an employee may be suspended for not more than one month without pay pending hearing and determination of charges against him, but, if removed, shall not be entitled to salary or compensation after suspension, will not entitle an employee to pay where he was removed by order of the commissioner following a hearing, the commissioner's order was remanded for further consideration upon court review, but the Commissioner reaffirmed the order of removal nunc pro tunc. 20. — —Particular non-NYC cases

Where commissioner of police had power to suspend patrolman without pay for a period not exceeding 30 days, and patrolman was subsequently dismissed, patrolman was entitled to full pay from end of 30-day period to date of dismissal. Gould v Looney, 34 A.D.2d 807, 311 N.Y.S.2d 695, 1970 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4827 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1970).

Where a senior stenographer in the county clerk's office was dismissed after the hearing officer found that she failed to "tumble" deeds as instructed, failed to prepare bank deposits as instructed, and that she failed to take any steps to correct her poor typing, the penalty was reduced from dismissal to a suspension of 6 months considering the nature of the offenses and the prior satisfactory record of the employee, and the respondent was directed to reinstate the petitioner and to compensate her for the amount she would have earned but for her dismissal, less 6 months and less such amounts as petitioner may have otherwise earned in any other employment, and any unemployment insurance benefits she may have received during such period. Escher v Hall, 37 A.D.2d 1013, 325 N.Y.S.2d 511, 1971 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3095 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1971).

Even though police officer was found guilty of charges and ultimately dismissed, he was entitled to receive full salary for any period of suspension in excess of 30 days, less sums he had earned from other employment and any unemployment benefits he had received during subject period; and his recovery could not be defeated absent evidence that he caused delay or contributed thereto. Cassidy v Police Dept., County of Nassau, 54 A.D.2d 682, 387 N.Y.S.2d 266, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14225 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Even if police officer's suspension without pay prior to determination of town board to take disciplinary action unlawfully exceeded 30 days, court would nonetheless hold that his suspension without pay for six months, the punishment which the court had ruled was reasonable, would be applied to a period subsequent to the town board's determination. Yodice v Shaw, 58 A.D.2d 730, 395 N.Y.S.2d 869, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12847 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977).

A public employee who was dismissed from her tenured position with the Nassau County Department of Probation was entitled to be paid her salary for the 37-month period between the county's initial determination dismissing her from her position, which termination was annulled by the Appellate Division for procedural error, and a subsequent determination, made upon remittitur, which also dismissed the employee and which was properly made, notwithstanding that the employee performed no services and was guilty of the misconduct causing her suspension and eventual dismissal, since a public employee suspended for a period in excess of 30 days who is thereafter dismissed can recover wages or salary for the excess period if the delay in reaching the dismissal determination is not caused by the fault of the employee, the public employee was entitled to continue to receive her salary pending a prompt disciplinary determination, and the substantive right to confrontation could not be limited or defeated by affording the employee an initial quick but sham hearing and determination. Sinicropi v Bennett, 92 A.D.2d 309, 460 N.Y.S.2d 809, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16623 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 59 N.Y.2d 967, 1983 N.Y. Petitioner in Article 78 proceeding, who was suspended without pay from his position as village police officer retroactive to August 28, 1992 following his indictment on criminal charges, was entitled to recover his full salary and benefits retroactive to September 29, 1992 and until determination of charges against him, since respondents could not suspend his pay for more than 30 days pursuant to CLS Civ S § 75(3) and CLS Vill § 8-804; fact that evidence necessary for final disposition of disciplinary charges was in exclusive control of district attorney was not relevant, nor was it relevant that petitioner requested extension of time to answer charges against him, since respondents had burden of scheduling hearing. Conde v Aiello, 204 A.D.2d 1029, 613 N.Y.S.2d 94, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6857 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

21. — —Particular NYC cases

Even though permanent NYC civil service employee suspended for period in excess of 30 days is eventually discharged for misconduct, he may recover wages for such excess period, provided that delay in disposition of charges was not occasioned by his fault, and he may make the claim for accrued salary by way of action at law; it is not necessary to commence Article 78 proceeding. 22. —Reinstatement and back pay following suspension

Court of Appeals would annul determination of New York City Civil Service Commission insofar as it awarded back pay to probationary police officer who had been terminated, since commission has power only to hear and decide appeals by aggrieved persons, and to hear and decide appeals in disciplinary proceedings, and may only "affirm, modify or reverse" determinations; power to award back pay is not expressly given, nor may it necessarily be implied as part of commission's delegated powers. Department of Personnel v New York City Civil Service Com., 79 N.Y.2d 806, 580 N.Y.S.2d 173, 588 N.E.2d 71, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 5158 (N.Y. 1991).

Where an employee in the highway department was discharged after having been given an opportunity to explain an allegedly false expense voucher filed by him, the highway commissioner being at time ignorant of the fact that the employee was a Spanish war veteran and entitled to preferential consideration, and the commissioner reinstated him after learning that he was a veteran, but employee, who had been idle for four months, delayed another twenty days, and then applied for a writ of mandamus requiring payment of his salary during time of his discharge, the writ should be denied. Whether a civil service employee is entitled, upon re-employment in a lower category, to recover pay loss for a period in excess of the 30-day suspension pending hearing and determination of charges against him, depends upon whether delay in re-employing him was attributable to any extent to his own fault. Carville v Board of Education, 11 A.D.2d 1092, 206 N.Y.S.2d 868, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7459 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1960).

A youth group worker aide in a county children's shelter who had been suspended without pay based on her alleged incompetency in leaving a set of keys unattended on a table in the staff lounge at the end of her shift due to the fact that her replacement had arrived late, which act had allegedly enabled a juvenile who had been confined in the shelter to abscond, would be ordered reinstated and would be entitled to back pay for the period of her suspension where the record showed that, at the time of the juvenile's escape, the employee's replacement had already taken responsibility for her shift so that she, rather than the suspended employee, had been on duty at the time of the escape, where, though the employee had acted improperly in leaving the keys on the staff lounge table, her replacement had also been negligent in failing to count the keys upon her arrival, and no actual rule forbade such action by the employee, where testimony at the suspension hearing indicated that workers had previously left their keys on the staff lounge table on occasion when shift changes had occurred in that room, where there was no conclusive testimony that could support a finding that any door other than the staff lounge door had been open at the time of the escape, and the record further indicated that such door had usually been open during shift changes and had additionally been known to malfunction, where the record contained no credible evidence to show that the escaping juvenile had been "wandering the hallways" as alleged, or that there was a specific rule that had required that the juvenile be locked in her room at the time of her escape, where the employee's actions had not been the proximate cause of the escape in that, despite the employee's improper actions, her replacement had also been negligent and could have prevented the escape had she attended to her duty, and where the employee had never before had any complaints made against her, no previous escape had ever resulted in any disciplinary action against an employee of the facility, and several other employees who had arguably been at least equally responsible for the escape had not been charged. McCaskill v D'Elia, 97 A.D.2d 436, 467 N.Y.S.2d 404, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20022 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. dismissed, 61 N.Y.2d 669, 1983 N.Y. Petitioner is entitled to a peremptory order of mandamus compelling the village of Solvay to pay him wages for the period between the time he was unlawfully discharged from his employment by said village and his reinstatement, where it appears that petitioner, who is an honorably discharged veteran of the world war, was voluntarily reinstated by village board after it was convinced that he was an honorably discharged soldier and entitled to preference as such, under this section. Where a fire captain, a veteran of both world wars, was suspended in accordance with the statute and, on hearing, found guilty of intoxication and insubordination while on duty, but upon review by the Appellate Division it was determined that while the evidence sustained the charge of insubordination it did not sustain the charge of intoxication, and the case was sent back for rehearing but the fire captain was not reinstated, it was held that he was not entitled to back salary unless the charges were dismissed upon rehearing. Application of Lindquist, 81 N.Y.S.2d 12, 192 Misc. 906, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2689 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), disapproved, Sinicropi v Bennett, 92 A.D.2d 309, 460 N.Y.S.2d 809, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. 23. — —Back pay offset for other earnings

Where it not only appeared that housing authority patrolman, who was arrested and charged with the crime of murder, was suspended from his position, and continued under suspension without pay for a period in excess of two and one-half years, was ready to proceed with hearing on departmental charges, but that housing authority officials on their own initiative chose to delay the proceedings, patrolman was entitled to accumulated salary for the period involved, less sums earned from other employment during such period. Sassone v New York State Thruway Auth., 189 A.D.2d 86, 594 N.Y.S.2d 882, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2377 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 658, 604 N.Y.S.2d 557, 624 N.E.2d 695, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3809 (N.Y. 1993).

Where charges upon which petitioner's first suspension from city police department was based were dismissed, petitioner was entitled to recoupment of salary which was withheld from that date until date of his second suspension, less any compensation from outside employment received for that period. May v Shaw, 87 Misc. 2d 808, 386 N.Y.S.2d 625, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2310 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976), aff'd, 58 A.D.2d 807, 396 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12971 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

24. — —Backpay offset for vacation days, maintenance payment and other benefits

Supreme Court erred in determining that petitioner was entitled to night differential pay during period he was wrongfully dismissed from his employment with respondent New York City Transit Authority, since applicable collective bargaining agreement provided that if charges preferred against employee were not sustained employee would be paid at regular rate of pay for time lost by reason of charges, and that night differential pay was available only "for hours worked" after 6:00 p.m. Campbell v Kiley, 162 A.D.2d 685, 557 N.Y.S.2d 399, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8223 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Plaintiff, upon his reinstatement to the police force, is only entitled to receive the full salary he would have earned during the period of his suspension and not an additional cash equivalency payment for vacation days and personal leave days he allegedly lost during the period of his suspension since neither the statutes which authorize the payment of full salary to a reinstated employee (Civil Service Law, §§ 77, 75, subd 3; Administrative Code of City of New York, § 434a-20) nor the collective bargaining agreement authorize a cash equivalency payment for vacation days and personal leave days allegedly lost during a period of suspension. Alongi v New York, 92 Misc. 2d 1082, 402 N.Y.S.2d 99, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2637 (N.Y. App. Term 1977).

A state trooper, unlawfully suspended, is entitled upon reinstatement to have the sum of $50 per month added in the computation of the back pay due him since this sum is received by troopers on active duty in the form of free uniforms, room and board, medical care, and allowances. Haskins v Warner, 47 N.Y.S.2d 793, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1855 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

25. —Other particular suspension matters

Where there was an honest difference of opinion between a civil service employee and a transit authority as to whether his physical disability was due to a spinal injury and as to whether such disability justified his absence from duty for some 14 months, and employee's opinion was supported by the decision and award of the workmen's compensation board but the court of appeals held that the board's decision and award were not controlling upon the transit authority, a six year suspension would be entered. Gormley v New York City Transit Authority, 23 A.D.2d 880, 259 N.Y.S.2d 665, 1965 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4172 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1965).

Court reporter of the Family Court would be required to reimburse the county for improper telephone toll calls and for overcharges for transcripts and would be suspended for 60 days without pay, in addition to the 30 days' suspension without pay imposed upon him by the court clerk of the Family Court, for making improper toll charges to county, for incorrect computations of number of folios in his transcript, for charges for transcripts which he was required to furnish to judge without charge, but for which he billed the county and accepted payments, and for his false answers and misrepresentations to the court clerk and to the administrative judge when confronted with said charges. In re Miceli, 55 A.D.2d 96, 389 N.Y.S.2d 714, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14549 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In view of petitioner's 26 years of service and prior unblemished record, penalty of two-month suspension without pay, imposed by city comptroller for insubordination, was disproportionate, and would be reduced to suspension without pay for 15 days. Silverstein v Goldin, 55 A.D.2d 561, 389 N.Y.S.2d 609, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15243 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Five-day working suspension without pay imposed upon deputy city comptroller, who had been found to have intentionally and wilfully disobeyed directives of his superior, was wholly reasonable and would not be disturbed. Bateman v Ogdensburg, 55 A.D.2d 781, 389 N.Y.S.2d 486, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15572 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

After court annulled discharge of police officer due to lack of substantial evidence for several charges, and remanded to respondent for redetermination of penalty on confirmed charge of wrongfully discharging firearm and failing to report discharge, respondent had discretion to condition officer's reinstatement on result of psychological evaluation; however, reinstated officer was entitled to restoration to duty with back pay, retroactive to his dismissal date, upon final judicial determination annulling his dismissal. Eng v Bratton, 236 A.D.2d 234, 653 N.Y.S.2d 333, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 893 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997), modified, app. denied, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5956 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't May 13, 1997).

Penalty of probationary dismissal was appropriate where police officer was absent without leave for her scheduled tour of duty, she failed to perform her assigned duties despite several directives, and she engaged in verbal altercation and was discourteous to superior officer. Garrett v Safir, 253 A.D.2d 700, 677 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9695 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 489, 707 N.E.2d 444, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4330 (N.Y. 1998).

It was appropriate to suspend firefighter for 2 months without pay where he chose to continue challenging his employer's policy against further display of T-shirts at firehouse after he was specifically ordered to take T-shirts down. Nelson v City of Buffalo Fire Dep't, 254 A.D.2d 761, 678 N.Y.S.2d 209, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10463 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1998).

New York City Transit Authority could not place conductor on sick leave without pay, without suspending him, and without serving written charges of incompetency or misconduct upon him. O'Connor v New York City Transit Authority, 144 N.Y.S.2d 409, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3757 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), dismissed, 4 N.Y.2d 850, 173 N.Y.S.2d 818, 150 N.E.2d 244, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1085 (N.Y. 1958).

Indefinite suspension of city corrections officers without pay pending resolution of criminal charges against them, pursuant to NYC Admin Code § 9-112, was not inconsistent with CLS Civ S §§ 75(3) and 76(4). Seabrook v Jacobson, 970 F. Supp. 252, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9630 (S.D.N.Y. 1997), vacated, 153 F.3d 70, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 20509 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1998).

26. Reinstatement, generally

City employer's decision not to reinstate petitioner to her former permanent position, after she was fired from probationary position to which she had been appointed through open competitive examination, was not abuse of discretion under New York City Personnel Rule (55 RCNY Appendix A) 6.2.7. Bethel v McGrath-McKechnie, 95 N.Y.2d 7, 709 N.Y.S.2d 888, 731 N.E.2d 604, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 905 (N.Y. 2000).

Where plaintiff, a world war veteran, was appointed a cook in a former sheriff's office, without reference to civil service, and was later sworn in as a deputy, and where the present sheriff summarily dismissed him without preferring charges, plaintiff cannot claim reinstatement under this section. Nerling v Walsh, 245 A.D. 796, 281 N.Y.S. 427, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10924 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

A discharged civil service employee cannot compel his reinstatement as a laborer in a city water department where it does not appear that a labor list was kept for the position as required by this section and there is no evidence that the employee ever asked to have his name placed on such a list, if one existed. Walsh v Patterson, 257 A.D. 917, 12 N.Y.S.2d 259, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8391 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

Petitioner was entitled to an order directing the commissioner of public welfare to cause her to be reinstated in the permanent position of case supervisor in the bureau of old age assistance, where she was originally appointed on May 19, 1937, after having been offered the position "for a period of six months," and after serving in the position until December 15, 1937, commissioner requested the department of civil service to consider her appointment as permanent and thereafter dismissed her on May 14, 1938. Graae v Ahern, 258 A.D. 686, 18 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8272 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Where some of the charges were not substantial and other charges were not proved by the evidence, a determination discharging the petitioner was annulled, and petitioner was reinstated in his former position. Dunning v Turner, 285 A.D. 742, 140 N.Y.S.2d 481, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5575 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 309 N.Y. 933, 132 N.E.2d 311, 309 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 933, 1955 N.Y. LEXIS 1666 (N.Y. 1955).

Court was without authority to order reinstatement of improperly dismissed railroad clerk who had retired. Koegan v Yunich, 51 A.D.2d 744, 379 N.Y.S.2d 468, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11268 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976).

Petitioner was not entitled to reinstatement to her permanent position of county probation officer after she resigned her position to accept employment with county department of social services as child care social worker and was subsequently terminated for unsatisfactory performance, notwithstanding her contention that she was probationary employee entitled to reinstatement to her permanent position pursuant to Article 9 of collective bargaining agreement, since Article 1 of that agreement unambiguously stated that it covered permanent employees, and county personnel records showed that she was employed as child care social worker on provisional basis; by law, she could not be permanent employee because she had not been appointed as result of competitive exam. Thrasher v Genesee County Civil Service Com., 156 A.D.2d 966, 549 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16130 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Court erroneously ordered fire district commissioners to readmit firefighters as members of fire department where commissioners' denial of firefighters' applications for readmission was based on their undisputed failure to meet requirements of district's newly amended by-laws; fact that commissioners had previously granted applications for readmission of candidates who did not meet requirements of old by-laws did not establish that determination was arbitrary and capricious. Kammerer v Crouchley, 205 A.D.2d 629, 613 N.Y.S.2d 263, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6135 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) correctly found that employer discriminated against police officer when it demoted him from sergeant to patrolman in response to his exercise of protected Taylor Law rights, but PERB improperly ordered employer to restore officer to rank of sergeant where (1) officer's temporary appointment to sergeant position had not yet become permanent when he was demoted, (2) after he was demoted, another officer was appointed from new eligibility list to sergeant's position, and (3) demoted officer was not on new eligibility list; appointment of individual from constitutionally valid expired list would violate CLS NY Const Art V § 6, and matter was remitted to PERB for further consideration of that aspect of its remedial order. Village of Scotia v New York State Pub. Empl. Rels. Bd., 241 A.D.2d 29, 670 N.Y.S.2d 602, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2818 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Where it appeared that petitioner, a competitive civil service employee, was suspended from his position because of his participation in a felony and that he was subsequently indicted for grand larceny and pleaded guilty to petit larceny, petitioner's application to be restored to his position should be denied notwithstanding that he was never formally removed from his position and was not accorded a hearing or given notice. Fiorini v Parkhurst, 100 N.Y.S.2d 569, 198 Misc. 796, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2158 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1950).

Where the statutory requirements are fulfilled in dismissing the employee, the Supreme Court may not issue a mandate for his reinstatement merely because there may be disagreement between the appointing officer and the employee as to the justification or wisdom of the dismissal. Whalen v Corsi, 105 N.Y.S.2d 30, 201 Misc. 39, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1858 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951), aff'd, 279 A.D. 1113, 112 N.Y.S.2d 499, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6010 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952), disapproved, Sinicropi v Bennett, 92 A.D.2d 309, 460 N.Y.S.2d 809, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16623 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983).

A petition which states that a civil service employee was removed when "by reason of departmental interference he [the appointing officer] was denied the right to act upon his judgment and experience" is not a sufficient allegation of bad faith to state a cause of action to compel reinstatement. Marasco v Morse, 9 Misc. 2d 296, 22 N.Y.S.2d 315, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1348 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 263 A.D. 1063, 34 N.Y.S.2d 823, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8057 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

Civil service commission has no authority to direct reinstatement of municipal employee where no appeal from suspension has been taken. Brayer v Lapple, 80 Misc. 2d 159, 362 N.Y.S.2d 961, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1864 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974), rev'd, 52 A.D.2d 1034, 384 N.Y.S.2d 584, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12940 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

A civil service employee is entitled to maintain an action to compel his reinstatement under this section where his position was abolished not for purposes of economy but in bad faith as a device to eliminate him. Graef v Maltbie, 49 N.Y.S.2d 102, 1944 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2064 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944).

Attempted discharge of school district employee whose appointment was on a permanent basis in the competitive class of civil service warranted the institution of proceedings to compel reinstatement. However, an order requiring reinstatement was unnecessary where the board admitted the discharge was invalid. Cantilli v Giblyn, 157 N.Y.S.2d 766 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

27. —After dismissal or suspension without hearing

A civil service employee charged with submitting false reports as to working hours and false claims as to meals, is not entitled to reinstatement because he was removed without a hearing. Lanzer v Moran, 268 A.D. 948, 51 N.Y.S.2d 390, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4351 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 293 N.Y. 759, 57 N.E.2d 838, 293 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 759, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 2181 (N.Y. 1944).

Although civil service employee who resigns generally has no right to reinstatement, court properly reinstated petitioner so that he could defend against disciplinary charges at hearing, particularly since he had been summarily denied opportunity to prove his contentions at trial. Davila v New York City Hous. Auth., 190 A.D.2d 511, 593 N.Y.S.2d 12, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 887 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1993), app. denied, 87 N.Y.2d 801, 637 N.Y.S.2d 688, 661 N.E.2d 160, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 4925 (N.Y. 1995).

Probationary New York City police officer was not entitled to hearing before she was discharged as result of police department investigation into allegations that she failed to take proper police action and to cooperate in investigation of double homicide, and thus her Article 78 proceeding seeking reinstatement was properly dismissed where it was not shown that she was discharged in bad faith. Garcia v Bratton, 225 A.D.2d 123, 649 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11981 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996), aff'd, 90 N.Y.2d 991, 665 N.Y.S.2d 621, 688 N.E.2d 495, 1997 N.Y. LEXIS 3225 (N.Y. 1997).

Though relator was not de jure removed from his position, having had no hearing before the officer, board or body having power of removal under this section, he was de facto separated from his position, and it was proper to consider his application for reinstatement as if he had in terms been removed from office. Burke v Connolly, 135 N.Y.S. 179, 76 Misc. 337, 1912 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 819 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1912).

A veteran who was removed from office as deputy director of public works without any charges having been preferred against him and without a hearing, in contravention of this section, was ordered reinstated. Heath v Creagh, 96 N.Y.S.2d 247, 197 Misc. 537, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3192 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949), aff'd, 276 A.D. 948, 94 N.Y.S.2d 901, 1950 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5255 (N.Y. App. Div. 1950).

28. —Article 78 proceedings

In Article 78 proceeding for reinstatement as probationary employee, court erred in ordering reinstatement for period of 5 weeks, which was equivalent to remainder of petitioner's minimum 8-week probationary period, since local civil service rule required that probationary employee be given 2 weeks' written notice of termination and right to hearing, and therefore 2 weeks was minimum period by law to which petitioner was entitled to reinstatement. Saulpaugh v Diehl, 148 A.D.2d 928, 539 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2558 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding in which former fire dispatcher, who was charged with misconduct by wrongfully retaining firearm found at scene of fire, sought to compel fire department to reinstate him to his former employment, court properly concluded that grand jury's return of "no bill" in connection with decision not to indict petitioner was equivalent to "not guilty" verdict (as opposed to mere decision not to prosecute) within meaning of hearing officer's penalty recommendation, as adopted by respondent, that reinstatement should be allowed if there was "not guilty verdict or judgment." Greiner v Greene County Dep't of Fire Prevention & Control, 188 A.D.2d 880, 591 N.Y.S.2d 864, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14374 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

29. —Mandamus proceedings

Petitioner is not entitled to a peremptory mandamus order compelling his reinstatement to position of senior income tax examiner, where the record shows that he was directed to make a field audit in order to ascertain facts as to taxable income of a certain taxpayer, and that from his own statement he not only failed to ascertain true situation as to taxpayer's income, but made a report which did not state facts which should have been included in it, namely, that information which he provided came from a fellow examiner. Singer v Graves, 254 A.D. 37, 4 N.Y.S.2d 318, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6333 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 279 N.Y. 573, 17 N.E.2d 445, 279 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 573, 1938 N.Y. LEXIS 837 (N.Y. 1938).

Petitioner, who, until directed to report to a superior officer as a patrolman in the department of police of Saratoga Springs, held position of "sergeant of police," is not entitled to a peremptory order of mandamus directing his reinstatement as sergeant, in the absence of anything to show his clear legal right to the protection of this law. Dorsey v Sweeney, 228 N.Y.S. 277, 131 Misc. 784, 1928 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 802 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1928).

Where a veteran was removed from his civil service post summarily and charges were mailed to him thereafter, the fact that these charges were dismissed and the veteran reinstated when he commenced mandamus proceedings to compel his reinstatement, does not prevent the appointing officer from thereafter removing the veteran in compliance with subdivision 1 of this section on the same charges, where the original dismissal was not on the merits and the veteran accepted reinstatement on that basis. MacCready v Fagal, 285 N.Y.S. 852, 158 Misc. 462, 1936 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 972 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1936).

30. —Necessary parties

Failure to join state comptroller as a party in Article 78 proceeding against the civil service commission by discharged attorney seeking reinstatement to former position with the Department of Audit and Control would be excused so as not to require dismissal of petition in that interests of the comptroller would be protected by the Commission, any possible prejudice to comptroller could be avoided by his intervention in the proceeding and an effective order could be rendered in absence of the comptroller. Greaney v Poston, 50 A.D.2d 653, 374 N.Y.S.2d 815, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12480 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975).

In a proceeding by mandamus under this section to compel reinstatement of an officer or employee protected by law and illegally removed, the person appointed in place of the relator is a necessary party to the proceeding. Cooper v Paris, 130 N.Y.S. 1043, 73 Misc. 244, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 505 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

31. Dismissal on particular grounds, generally

In view of the consistent pattern of misconduct which was found by the hearing officer, the penalty of dismissal was not so disproportionate to petitioner's offenses as to mandate modification of the determination of the Commissioner of Correction, even though the necessary aims of departmental discipline could have been achieved by a less severe sanction. Santarella v New York City Dep't of Correction, 53 N.Y.2d 948, 441 N.Y.S.2d 444, 424 N.E.2d 278, 1981 N.Y. LEXIS 2500 (N.Y. 1981).

Dismissal of New York City Department of Social Services employee who had been with the department for eight years and who engaged in one act of misconduct not involving venality, corruption or moral turpitude was an unreasonably harsh and excessive sanction and was shocking to one's sense of fairness and justified modification to suspension without pay for a period of approximately eighteen months from date of dismissal to five days after modification. Pauling v Smith, 46 A.D.2d 759, 361 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3600 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Civil service commission's dismissal of petitioner from his position in department of audit and control was not purely arbitrary and was supported by substantial evidence. Greaney v Bahou, 57 A.D.2d 646, 393 N.Y.S.2d 211, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11673 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Punishment of dismissal of county police officer, although harsh, was not shocking to one's sense of fairness, where officer's conduct, while perhaps understandable, was inconsistent with overriding public interest of maintaining an efficient and honest police force deserving of public's trust and confidence. Buttacavoli v Guido, 59 A.D.2d 891, 399 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14080 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. denied, 44 N.Y.2d 643, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 4291 (N.Y. 1978).

In an Art 78 proceeding, a determination of a city manager who, after a hearing, found a police sergeant guilty of certain charges of misconduct and dismissed him would be confirmed, where the record of the hearing held pursuant to Civ S Law § 75 contained substantial evidence to support the finding that the police sergeant had committed various acts of misconduct, and where the penalty of dismissal was not so disproportionate to the misconduct as to shock the conscience of the court. Budnik v Culross, 104 A.D.2d 988, 481 N.Y.S.2d 2, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20420 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984), app. denied, 65 N.Y.2d 606, 493 N.Y.S.2d 1028, 483 N.E.2d 134, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 15160 (N.Y. 1985).

It was not arbitrary or unreasonable to dismiss New York City sanitation worker in light of worker's record of 9 prior violations, including one for same infraction. Morlano v New York, 133 A.D.2d 829, 520 N.Y.S.2d 201, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51865 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Termination of employment of school bus driver was so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, although substantial evidence supported determination that she was guilty of 3 charges of misconduct, where she had excellent driving record for 20 years and had received awards and commendations for her work. Borkhuis v Quinn, 158 A.D.2d 917, 551 N.Y.S.2d 82, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1410 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990).

Discharge of water authority employee was clearly disproportionate to offense and inequitable where (1) employee was found to be guilty of malingering, and failing (in his supervisory capacity) to prevent similar malingering by his crew, (2) malingering was for only short period of time and was in response to harassment by supervisory personnel to expedite completion of job, (3) job was completed well within time guidelines for such work, and (4) incident was first instance of misconduct by employee. Burgwardt v Erie County Water Authority, 158 A.D.2d 998, 551 N.Y.S.2d 724, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1560 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1990).

Police officer's termination within probationary period was validly premised on misconduct predating commencement of probationary period. Garrett v Safir, 253 A.D.2d 700, 677 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9695 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 489, 707 N.E.2d 444, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4330 (N.Y. 1998).

New York City Commissioner of Department of Sanitation improperly dismissed petitioner in light of numerous instances cited by administrative law judge in which Commissioner imposed penalties less severe than termination for violations of Department's sick leave policy similar to that for which petitioner was disciplined. Kinlock v Doherty, 256 A.D.2d 93, 681 N.Y.S.2d 264, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13255 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Respondent's determination that petitioner was unfit for position of special patrolman was supported by substantial evidence, including petitioner's own admission that he knocked down complainant's door and assaulted her, which supported hearing officer's conclusion that his threshold for violence was unacceptably low. Miller v Safir, 259 A.D.2d 337, 687 N.Y.S.2d 28, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3043 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Sanitation worker was properly dismissed for violating general order prohibiting loading of more than 3 cans, bags, bundles, or boxes for collection service of trade waste where he participated in loading renovation debris far in excess of 3-bag limit with assistance of persons who were not occupants of residence he was servicing under circumstances that should have at least caused doubt as to nature of material he was loading, especially since general order provided that its violation was ground for termination regardless of whether violator received any payment. Mallon v Doherty, 269 A.D.2d 282, 703 N.Y.S.2d 137, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2014 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Termination of petitioner's employment as licensed practical nurse at county nursing home was not disproportionate where (1) she previously was found guilty of several charges of misconduct and suspended without pay, (2) 1*r1/2#-year period of retraining and supervision imposed as result of previous discipline had just ended when subject acts of incompetence and misconduct took place, and (3) subject acts placed at least one patient's health in serious jeopardy. Williams v County of Fulton, 270 A.D.2d 613, 704 N.Y.S.2d 349, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2620 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

It was excessive to dismiss police sergeant on ground that he twice sold and registered false firearms training certificates while engaged in unauthorized off-duty employment where he was 29-year veteran with unblemished disciplinary record, he had been awarded numerous exemplary service medals, individuals to whom training certificates were sold were all then currently licensed to carry firearms, as well as qualified for certificates in all other respects, and dismissal would result in complete divestiture of sergeant's pension. Kelly v Safir, 271 A.D.2d 326, 706 N.Y.S.2d 113, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4396 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), modified, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

Court upheld dismissal of police officer for being discourteous to point of being threatening to his sergeant when discussing reprimand against him, and for failing to safeguard firearm recovered at crime scene and note recovery of firearm in his log, which was "extraordinarily irresponsible" and resulted in evidence of crime being lost and weapon remaining in public domain. Bonifacio v Safir, 277 A.D.2d 8, 715 N.Y.S.2d 244, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11042 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 706, 725 N.Y.S.2d 277, 748 N.E.2d 1073, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1838 (N.Y. 2001).

Dismissal of police officer was excessive sanction for improperly issuing summonses for parking violations and for unauthorized use of department scooter where officer's sergeant testified that she never noticed deficiencies in summonses officer wrote, nor did she speak to him as to same, although she spoke to 30 to 40 other officers about their deficiencies, officer's performance evaluation rated him between competent and highly competent, and officer could not have taken scooter without having obtained supervisor's consent Lagala v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 286 A.D.2d 205, 729 N.Y.S.2d 31, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7744 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 97 N.Y.2d 605, 737 N.Y.S.2d 52, 762 N.E.2d 930, 2001 N.Y. Police officers who refused to sign waivers of immunity from prosecution could not be summarily dismissed under Article I § 6 of the New York Constitution and § 1123 of the New York City Charter, but those provisions must be read together with this section and would be construed to afford police officers a hearing and an opportunity to explain. Gardner v Murphy, 46 Misc. 2d 728, 260 N.Y.S.2d 739, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1780 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965), rev'd, Koutnik v Murphy, 25 A.D.2d 197, 268 N.Y.S.2d 265, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4654 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1966).

Where petitioner had been continuously and satisfactorily employed by school district for period of almost eight years, it would be gross miscarriage of justice to terminate her employment on mere technicality or clerical error, and where petitioner had been number one on civil service list but through "oversight" had never been appointed, county personnel office would be directed to certify payroll of district and petitioner's appointment and continuation in her employment. Hansen v Three Village Cent. School Dist., 87 Misc. 2d 1077, 387 N.Y.S.2d 45, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2364 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Arbitrator's award finding the employee guilty of disciplinary charges and terminating the employee's employment was improperly vacated on the ground that the state agency failed to comply with the transcription requirement under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 7804(e); the collective bargaining agreement between the parties, which did not require the agency to provide a transcript of the arbitration hearing upon judicial review, replaced, pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(4), the statutory provisions of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76. Simon v N.Y. State Office of Parks, Rec. & Historic Pres., 303 A.D.2d 413, 755 N.Y.S.2d 858, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2101 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2003).

32. —Absences

Penalty of dismissal of police officer was not so disproportionate to offenses as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, particularly in light of officer's prior discipline for loss of his service revolver, where officer failed to report for work for 5 consecutive duty days, he failed to report to his resident precinct after being suspended, he was not present at his residence after calling in sick, and he failed to report loss of his off-duty revolver and similarly failed to safeguard it. Mellette v Ward, 155 A.D.2d 272, 547 N.Y.S.2d 35, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13859 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1989).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate to offense, where police officer was found guilty of taking possession of property that did not belong to him under circumstances evidencing knowledge that he had no right to items taken, and of abusing sick leave by being absent from his residence without permission while on sick report, and where he had previously been disciplined for abusing sick leave regulations and making false statement. Morocco v Kelly, 205 A.D.2d 401, 613 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6372 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

It was abuse of discretion to dismiss heavy equipment operator who voluntarily reported for work on Saturday morning due to snowstorm and then left work within minutes after punching in on learning that he had not been assigned to his normal snow removal duties since he had nearly three decades of service to County which included only one prior incident of misconduct. Lane v County of Fulton, 249 A.D.2d 750, 672 N.Y.S.2d 144, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4114 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding in which petitioner alleged that his probationary employment was terminated based on perceived disability in violation of anti-discrimination laws where (1) in order to settle disciplinary charges relating to extensive history of absenteeism, petitioner agreed that, during stipulated probationary period, he could be terminated "without recourse to Article 33 of the State-CSEA Agreement or any other provision or law," and (2) during next 6 months, he was absent from work 7 times. Williams v Commissioner of the Office of Mental Health, 259 A.D.2d 623, 686 N.Y.S.2d 788, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2496 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

It was error to annul determination terminating petitioner's employment as bridge and tunnel officer on ground that he was not given notice that his approved absences could ultimately be considered "excessive," and thus misconduct, where Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority's rules clearly stated that "excessive absence ... will be cause for dismissal," governing collective bargaining agreement guaranteed employees only 12 days sick leave per year, termination letter specifically noted serious negative impact petitioner's absences had on budgetary and personnel matters, as well as employee morale, and petitioner's 80 percent absentee rate over 19-month period, albeit approved and medically justified, was excessive under any standard. Cicero v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 264 A.D.2d 334, 694 N.Y.S.2d 51, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8660 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. dismissed, 94 N.Y.2d 931, 708 N.Y.S.2d 350, 729 N.E.2d 1149, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 533 (N.Y. 2000).

New York City properly terminated petitioner from her employment as Houseparent in Administration for Children's services based on her 3-month absence without leave that was in flagrant violation of City's time and leave rules. Renaud v City of New York, 269 A.D.2d 283, 703 N.Y.S.2d 136, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2016 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Determination terminating petitioner's employment due to her cumulative absences would be annulled where there was no indication exactly when, without counting designated leave under Family and Medical Leave Act (29 USCS § 2601 et seq.), 365-day cumulative leave under CLS Civ S § 71 was reached as to October 29, 1991 work-related injury. Jacobsen v New York State DOL, 274 A.D.2d 809, 711 N.Y.S.2d 61, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8059 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Where classified civil servant had been absent from work for total of more than one year because of occupational injury, her employment should not have been terminated, but medical examination should have been administered to determine her fitness to perform duties of former position. Crestwood v Director, Creedmoor Psychiatric Center, 88 Misc. 2d 492, 388 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2691 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

33. —Alcohol-related

Imposition of penalty of termination on deputy sheriff found guilty of conduct unbecoming police officer was not so disproportionate to offense as to shock conscience, although hearing officer recommended lesser punishment, where record showed that deputy purchased alcoholic beverages for 18-year-old and witnessed others purchasing alcoholic beverages for same youth, who was seriously injured in fight on night in question, and that other alcohol-related complaints had been lodged against deputy in past. Wayering v County of St. Lawrence, 154 A.D.2d 824, 546 N.Y.S.2d 258, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12686 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Termination of petitioner's employment as school district bus driver was appropriate on finding that she was under influence of alcohol at safety workshop, and that on her return to school district property, she drove out of parking lot at high rate of speed, spinning her tires, and performing "doughnut" and "fishtailing" in parking lot. Collins v Parishville-Hopkinton Cent. Sch. Dist., 274 A.D.2d 732, 710 N.Y.S.2d 728, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

34. —Automobile involved

Discharge of state trooper was not disproportionate, in light of high profile nature of his violations and seriousness and repetitiveness of his offenses, where 5 charges of misconduct and violation of various state police regulations were sustained against him, including recklessness while driving off duty in his private vehicle, leaving his assigned revolver in unsecured locker at police station, patrolling outside his assigned area, driving while off duty in uninsured and unregistered vehicle bearing unauthorized dealer plates, and showing reluctance to perform his assigned desk duties. Novotny v Constantine, 150 A.D.2d 852, 540 N.Y.S.2d 605, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5472 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Dismissal of school bus driver was appropriate penalty where his personnel records were replete with numerous incidents of traffic infractions and accidents, and he was found guilty of 6 separately charged safety violations based on observations of his driving on six separate occasions within short period of time. Malloch v Ballston Spa Cent. Sch. Dist., 249 A.D.2d 797, 671 N.Y.S.2d 845, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4518 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 810, 680 N.Y.S.2d 55, 702 N.E.2d 840, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3081 (N.Y. 1998).

Court upheld dismissal of police officer who, among other things, operated unregistered, uninspected and uninsured car with suspended driver's license and stole registration and inspection stickers from vouchered and abandoned cars to replace his own expired stickers. Costa v Police Dep't, 277 A.D.2d 81, 715 N.Y.S.2d 65, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12007 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

35. —Credit card matter

Dismissal of petitioner from his position as school district's business administrator was disproportionate to his offense of failing to exercise good business judgment in connection with isolated series of events involving school board president's misuse of district credit card, where he had relied on school board president's explanation and had no reason to believe at outset that he was being misled, and he had sterling record as business administrator; 2 months' suspension without pay was maximum sanction supported by record. Weatherlow v Board of Educ., 236 A.D.2d 855, 653 N.Y.S.2d 778, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1791 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1997).

36. —Domestic dispute

Penalty of dismissal was not unduly harsh where correction officer had been involved in "domestic dispute" to which police were called, he knowingly and willingly entered false and inaccurate information in official records during subsequent investigation of incident, and this was not first time disciplinary charges had been sustained against him; offenses in question manifested unwillingness or inability to adapt to discipline required of law enforcement officer, both on and off duty. Williams v Dooley, 148 A.D.2d 541, 538 N.Y.S.2d 871, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2746 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

37. —Drugs

In Article 78 proceeding, court erred in vacating penalty of automatic dismissal imposed on employee pursuant to transit authority's then-operative policy respecting employees with less than 2 years of service who tested positive for marihuana use, on ground that policy was not uniformly applied, since less severe punishment imposed on fellow worker whose urine tested positive for marihuana when he had less than 2 years of service occurred after transit authority promulgated more lenient policy regarding punishment for employees with between one and 2 years of service at time they tested positive for marihuana use. Gray v New York City Transit Auth., 128 A.D.2d 528, 512 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 44219 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Discharge of transit police officer, for using cocaine and failing to adequately perform his duties, was not disproportionate to offense. Canty v Spooner, 216 A.D.2d 463, 628 N.Y.S.2d 754, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6393 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Termination of petitioner's employment, which was to provide after-school activities for children and teenagers in housing authority community center, was not disproportionate where petitioner, who had unsatisfactory work record, was found to have purchased and possessed marijuana while on meal break, within few blocks of his work location. Garrison v New York City Hous. Auth., 234 A.D.2d 150, 650 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12529 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1996).

Court properly dismissed Article 78 proceeding to annul discharge of correction officer for use of marihuana, where record did not support petitioner's contentions that delay in conducting drug test following his random selection for testing violated departmental policy, or that his supervisor targeted test day to coincide with his return from vacation. Binnie v City of New York Dep't of Correction, 236 A.D.2d 264, 654 N.Y.S.2d 297, 1997 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1272 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1997).

It was proper to dismiss police officer for his possession and ingestion of marijuana. Adams v Police Dep't, 256 A.D.2d 28, 680 N.Y.S.2d 508, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12915 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 818, 697 N.Y.S.2d 565, 719 N.E.2d 926, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2890 (N.Y. 1999).

It was appropriate to dismiss New York City Transit Authority police officer for having ingested cocaine. Danese v New York City Transit Auth., 256 A.D.2d 464, 683 N.Y.S.2d 860, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13490 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 811, 695 N.Y.S.2d 540, 717 N.E.2d 699, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1899 (N.Y. 1999).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate based on officer's possession and use of cocaine. Davis v Safir, 262 A.D.2d 107, 691 N.Y.S.2d 487, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6437 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Dismissal of police officer was properly based on random drug test results showing officer had ingested cocaine. Seeley v City of New York, 269 A.D.2d 205, 702 N.Y.S.2d 299, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1307 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

It was proper to terminate petitioner from his position with city department of sanitation (DOS), even if DOS employee had promised petitioner reinstatement on his completion of drug treatment program, since such promise was unauthorized and DOS was not bound by it, particularly given petitioner's prior execution and violation of final termination agreement, which agreement was concealed from DOS employee. Carson v New York City Dep't of Sanitation, 271 A.D.2d 380, 707 N.Y.S.2d 93, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4613 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Report from random drug test performed by outside agency, notifying that petitioner tested positive for cocaine, supported determination terminating his employment as city Motor Equipment Operator. Powell v City of Newburgh, 284 A.D.2d 334, 725 N.Y.S.2d 883, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5609 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 96 N.Y.2d 720, 733 N.Y.S.2d 372, 759 N.E.2d 371, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3146 (N.Y. 2001).

38. —Illegal appointment

Where a veteran serving as a laborer in the public works department of Yonkers was dismissed without charges or a hearing as required by this section, his service in the position to which he sought reinstatement did not cure an illegal appointment. De Salvo v Murray, 262 N.Y. 573, 188 N.E. 70, 262 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 573, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1097 (N.Y. 1933).

Evidence was insufficient to establish that employee obtained position by fraud where letter offering position did not specify any information which would have alerted employee to fact that letter was intended for father, who had same name and did not identify Social Security Number of person for whom it was intended, and employee was reasonable in assuming that he qualified for position as result of having presumptively qualified on other examinations he had previously taken, such that determination finding that employee had assumed position fraudulently was arbitrary and capricious and must be annulled. D'Ornellas v Ortiz, 119 A.D.2d 459, 500 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 55411 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 68 N.Y.2d 805, 506 N.Y.S.2d 868, 498 N.E.2d 432, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20122 (N.Y. 1986), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 694, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1031, 512 N.E.2d 557, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17990 (N.Y. 1987).

Where relator, a veteran fireman, was appointed by the city engineer to a subordinate position neither named nor provided for by the charter governing the city, and it does not appear that the board of estimate and apportionment took action looking to the creation of such position, or with reference to fixing salary thereof, such appointment is illegal and relator is not protected from removal by this chapter. People ex rel. Keenan v Schultze, 143 N.Y.S. 303, 81 Misc. 287, 1913 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 965 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1913).

Petitioner was not entitled to invoke the protection of this section where it appeared that at the time of his dismissal he was not in the exempt class of the civil service and that his appointment without competitive examination was illegal. Neary v O'Connor, 18 N.Y.S.2d 634, 173 Misc. 696, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1547 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 986, 24 N.Y.S.2d 134, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5697 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

This section affords no protection to an individual who has been illegally appointed. Romanchuk v Murphy, 103 N.Y.S.2d 704, 200 Misc. 987, 1951 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1666 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1951).

Petitioner was subject to removal without a hearing where he never participated in a competitive test and was not appointed from an eligible list. Mercado v New York City Youth Board, 21 Misc. 2d 228, 195 N.Y.S.2d 969, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3587 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

Where no civil service line was created when petitioner was appointed accounts clerk in December to replace a clerk who was expected to leave in April because of childbirth and no civil service line or certification had been granted for legal intern to assist court with legal research, jobs of petitioner and intern were not validly created and there was no restraint on their removal by city manager. Petrone v Miller, 77 Misc. 2d 1028, 355 N.Y.S.2d 287, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1293 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974).

A holder of a civil service position who was illegally appointed cannot take advantage of the provisions of chapter 885 of the Laws of 1941, which continued in office incumbents in positions to which civil service was extended and gave them civil service status as of July 1st, 1942, where he was removed from the position in June of 1942. 39. —Insubordination

Dismissal of assistant hospital administrator for gross insubordination was warranted by evidence that he secretly taped certain hospital meeting after hospital's chief executive officer told him not to, since such obduracy cast serious doubt over his ability to hold managerial position at hospital; additionally, record demonstrated that assistant was upset with being transferred to another position, which supported conclusion that his disruptive attitude would not change. O'Malley v Nassau County Medical Center, 143 A.D.2d 426, 532 N.Y.S.2d 578, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9282 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate where associate public health engineer was found guilty of insubordination for failing to comply with direct requests of his supervisors; in cases involving internal discipline, as distinct from external regulation, administrative agency has broader discretion because of complexity and sensitiveness of personnel administration in continuing intraorganizational relationships. Plante v Buono, 172 A.D.2d 81, 576 N.Y.S.2d 924, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16063 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991), app. denied, 79 N.Y.2d 756, 583 N.Y.S.2d 192, 592 N.E.2d 800, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1024 (N.Y. 1992).

Penalty of termination was not shocking to one's sense of fairness where senior personnel analyst with county department of civil service was found guilty of misconduct and incompetence in connection with 35 instances of shoddy work, insubordination, tardiness, failure to follow directives, and inability to perform adequately. Tinney v Schneider, 216 A.D.2d 474, 628 N.Y.S.2d 385, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

County office for aging properly terminated petitioner's employment as site manager for failing and refusing to perform numerous client assessments and reassessments, and her repeated and unequivocal refusal to ever again perform such job function. Lassiter v County of Dutchess, 256 A.D.2d 578, 683 N.Y.S.2d 103, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14021 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

It was appropriate to dismiss New York City Police officer who refused to answer questions directly and narrowly relating to his official duties, although duly called upon to do so under mandate of Patrol Guide § 118-9. Dombrowski v Safir, 269 A.D.2d 161, 701 N.Y.S.2d 906, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1043 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

It was proper to dismiss police officer who parked illegally and refused to move when asked to do so by another city's police officer, acted in rude and aggressive manner, made racial remarks about second officer, and thereafter lied about his conduct during departmental investigation and trial, and in separate incident, officer in question made threatening remarks at neighborhood meeting and thereafter lied about his conduct during departmental investigation and trial. Cannata v Safir, 269 A.D.2d 327, 703 N.Y.S.2d 177, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2212 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Court upheld penalty of dismissal based on substantial evidence that petitioner violated supervisory instructions and police department's rules and regulations by leaving his duty post without approval of superior in his chain of command. Gamma v City of Newburgh, 277 A.D.2d 236, 716 N.Y.S.2d 684, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11242 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

Court upheld discharge of county employee for incompetence, insubordination, serious misconduct and unauthorized use of facility property, although hearing officer recommended demotion rather than discharge, where employee had already received progressive discipline, adequate notice of problems with her job performance, and sufficient opportunity to take corrective action. Spry v Delaware County, 277 A.D.2d 779, 716 N.Y.S.2d 728, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12243 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Despite firefighter's 13-year unblemished record, there was no basis to interfere with respondent's decision to terminate his employment, in light of substantial evidence that he violated departmental rules and regulations by operating outside pool maintenance business for 3 years without seeking necessary department approval, and by engaging in outside employment while on medical leave on 4 separate dates. Cook v Von Essen, 283 A.D.2d 214, 724 N.Y.S.2d 841, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4806 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

On appeal under the above statute from the decision of the director of a state school under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mental Hygiene removing the petitioner from his position in such school, it was held that where the worker's work record has been basically good and the matter of which he is found guilty is not of such a nature that the operation and function of the institution is totally disrupted, or is not of a repetitive nature, and a number of serious breaches of conduct have not occurred after full and adequate warning, dismissal from the service is an excessive penalty. Consequently the court annulled the respondent's determination in respect to the punishment imposed for three specific acts of disobedience and insubordination and returned the matter to him for reconsideration and imposition of an appropriate lesser penalty in accordance with § 75. Wansart v Feinstein, 48 Misc. 2d 12, 264 N.Y.S.2d 30, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1421 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

40. —Irregularity in examination or eligibility test

The State Civil Service Commission had no power to cancel a municipal civil service appointment on the ground that the examinations given therefor were not practical and were insufficient tests for capacity and fitness for particular positions, unless the examinations were so obviously inadequate and so completely unrelated to the duties of the positions as to be on their face a nullity. Ebling v New York State Civil Service Com., 305 N.Y. 221, 112 N.E.2d 203, 305 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 221, 1953 N.Y. LEXIS 827 (N.Y. 1953).

Where a petitioner's certification and appointment were founded on a promotional examination rendered invalid by a decision of the Court of Appeals in a case involving another employee, the petitioner could not invoke the provisions of subdivision 2 of this section and his summary removal by the municipal civil service commission was a valid and lawful termination of his appointment. McCully v Brennan, 121 N.Y.S.2d 549, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1762 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953).

41. —Lying

Penalty of dismissal from New York City police department's office of Internal affairs was not so disproportionate as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, where petitioner wrongfully made false and misleading statements while under oath at official interview regarding his activities in connection with matter under Internal Affairs investigation. Harp v N.Y. City Police Dep't, 96 N.Y.2d 892, 730 N.Y.S.2d 786, 756 N.E.2d 74, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1984 (N.Y. 2001).

Penalty of termination was not excessive where correction officer was found guilty of charges that he offered tobacco to inmate in demeaning fashion by unzipping his pants, putting tobacco in pants, and offering it to inmate, and that he lied during ensuing investigation, since (1) officer's record was not unblemished, although he had been employed for less than 3 years, and (2) his actions were totally inconsistent with goals of treating inmates with respect and discipline, and dealing with co-workers in cooperative and straightforward way. Billings v County of St. Lawrence, 139 A.D.2d 809, 526 N.Y.S.2d 677, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3639 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate to offense, where police officer was found guilty of taking possession of property that did not belong to him under circumstances evidencing knowledge that he had no right to items taken, and of abusing sick leave by being absent from his residence without permission while on sick report, and where he had previously been disciplined for abusing sick leave regulations and making false statement. Morocco v Kelly, 205 A.D.2d 401, 613 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6372 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

It was appropriate to dismiss police officer who utilized various improper tactics to enable his uncle to monopolize corner where he operated his food cart and who provided false testimony at departmental interview. Spiratos v Safir, 249 A.D.2d 240, 672 N.Y.S.2d 311, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4754 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Penalty of termination of police officer's employment was not shockingly unfair and disproportionate to his misconduct where (1) he participated in what he knew to be illegal search, seizure, and arrest, and (2) he consistently lied to superior officers, prosecutors, and other officials concerning circumstances of that arrest. McDonough v Bratton, 251 A.D.2d 51, 674 N.Y.S.2d 292, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6418 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Police officer was properly dismissed for knowingly making false statements, in police reports and grand jury testimony, that he was victim of gunpoint robbery of his fiancee's car when, in fact, car was simply stolen from street when officer left it double-parked with keys in ignition and engine running. Sweeney v Safir, 267 A.D.2d 99, 700 N.Y.S.2d 4, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13026 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999), app. denied, 95 N.Y.2d 753, 711 N.Y.S.2d 155, 733 N.E.2d 227, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 1009 (N.Y. 2000).

Penalty of dismissal and forfeiture of petitioner's pension rights, for making false or misleading statement in context of investigation of fellow police officer's alleged use of police department computer program, was shockingly excessive where false statement given by petitioner (that he had no contact with fellow officer after learning that she was subject of internal investigation) was of relatively minor significance, and petitioner had 15 years of excellent service with no prior disciplinary record and "Exceeds Standards" rating. Harp v New York City Police Dep't, 277 A.D.2d 147, 717 N.Y.S.2d 108, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12429 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), rev'd, 96 N.Y.2d 892, 730 N.Y.S.2d 786, 756 N.E.2d 74, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 1984 (N.Y. 2001).

Notwithstanding petitioner's otherwise unblemished record as police officer, penalty of dismissal was not shockingly unfair where substantial evidence supported finding that he gave false information to another police officer, knowing that other officer would rely on it and incorporate it in felony complaint. Foy v Safir, 277 A.D.2d 169, 717 N.Y.S.2d 126, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12403 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

42. —Malingering

Court would annul determination that petitioner, school custodian, committed misconduct by improperly failing to return to work after his accident although physically capable of resuming his duties where only medical evidence consisted of testimony of petitioner's treating neurologist, who concluded that petitioner was suffering from post concussion syndrome, which was consistent with his complaints of dizziness, weakness, and fatigue, and surveillance videotape on which hearing officer relied in sustaining charge did not show that petitioner was indeed capable of fully resuming his duties during 8-hour shift. Hofsiss v Bd. of Educ., 287 A.D.2d 566, 732 N.Y.S.2d 14, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9577 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001).

43. —Medical condition; physical or mental

In a proceeding to annul a determination of the Commissioner of Education dismissing a tenured kindergarten teacher from her position after she had been found guilty of misconduct since the commissioner is empowered to substitute his judgment of the proper penalty for that of the hearing panel whose action he was reviewing, in fixing dismissal as the appropriate penalty, his decision to disregard the testimony of petitioner's psychiatrist, who concluded that petitioner had been suffering from involuntary depression which may have led to her aberrant conduct and that with proper treatment the depression would not interfere with her future work, was not arbitrary or capricious in that the psychiatrist had commenced treatment after the events in question and had refused to express any opinion as to petitioner's functions as a teacher. Levyn v Ambach, 56 N.Y.2d 912, 453 N.Y.S.2d 410, 438 N.E.2d 1125, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3507 (N.Y. 1982).

Dismissal of a fireman was considered too drastic action, although it was shown that he was physically incompetent by reason of a heart condition and had violated certain fire department rules, where he had been employed for over 18 years with an otherwise good record and dismissal would deprive him of his retirement rights under § 62 of the Retirement and Social Security Law. McCurdy v Cade, 19 A.D.2d 627, 241 N.Y.S.2d 473, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3635 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

Probationary New York City Transit Police Officer who was unable to reasonably do what position required because of disability was not improperly terminated pursuant to CLS Exec § 296; under CLS Exec § 292 term "disability" is limited to disabilities which do not prevent complainant from performing in reasonable manner activities involved in job or occupation, and since officer could not be placed on patrol duty (his most important function as police officer), termination of his employment was proper. Caminiti v New York City Transit Authority Police Dep't, 125 A.D.2d 306, 508 N.Y.S.2d 590, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62568 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Where classified civil servant had been absent from work for total of more than one year because of occupational injury, her employment should not have been terminated, but medical examination should have been administered to determine her fitness to perform duties of former position. Crestwood v Director, Creedmoor Psychiatric Center, 88 Misc. 2d 492, 388 N.Y.S.2d 546, 1976 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2691 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1976).

Petitioner, a civil service employee with permanent status employed by the respondent village as a police officer, who was injured in the performance of his duties and was subsequently ordered to report for limited duties although his physician stated that petitioner was unable to perform any sort of work, cannot be removed from the payroll without a hearing; he must first be afforded the full panoply of procedural due process rights under section 75 of the Civil Service Law. Fiorella v Scarsdale, 96 Misc. 2d 406, 409 N.Y.S.2d 489, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2616 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

44. —Misrepresentation

An honorably discharged soldier of the United States in the World War, who has been appointed to a position in the civil service of New York city from an eligible list furnished by the municipal civil service commission after he had passed a competitive examination held by the commission, may not be discharged without a hearing upon charges, upon the ground that he had misstated his prior education, at least where such misstatements are not material and did not induce the commission to admit the applicant to the examination. Wolff v Hodson, 285 N.Y. 197, 33 N.E.2d 90, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 197, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1518 (N.Y. 1941).

A civil service employee whose appointment resulted from erroneous statements contained in her application and who was in fact ineligible may be summarily removed, even though the incorrect representations were made in good faith and without fraudulent intent. One who was ineligible to take a civil service examination but who was admitted to the examination upon reliance upon misstatements in her application, may be summarily removed upon discovery of the misstatement subsequent to appointment. Katz v Goldwater, 285 N.Y. 830, 35 N.E.2d 500, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 830, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1798 (N.Y. 1941).

One who was appointed to a civil service position in reliance upon a material misrepresentation in his original application may be summarily removed. The Municipal Civil Service Commission must rescind a certification when the applicant has made a material misstatement of fact upon which the commission has relied in concluding that the applicant was eligible to take an examination, and the absence of fraudulent intent on the part of the applicant is immaterial. Shraeder v Kern, 287 N.Y. 13, 38 N.E.2d 110, 287 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 13, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1405 (N.Y. 1941), reh'g denied, 287 N.Y. 760, 40 N.E.2d 44, 287 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 760, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1776 (N.Y. 1942).

Courts properly upheld penalty of dismissal where petitioner was found guilty of 2 charges of submitting reports to Department of Civil Service, falsely indicating that several employees were working at lower titles after he had temporarily promoted them and paid them at higher title rate, which violated CLS Civ S §§ 97(1) and 100(1) because those employees were not on civil service eligible list. Gillen v Smithtown Library Bd. of Trustees, 94 N.Y.2d 776, 699 N.Y.S.2d 695, 721 N.E.2d 945, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3432 (N.Y. 1999).

Where evidence supported police commissioner's determination that petitioner engaged in unauthorized off-duty employment as New York State Certified Instructor for Security Guard Training and, in exchange for money, falsely certified that 2 armed security guards had completed required firearms training, penalty of dismissal did not shock "one's sense of fairness," notwithstanding petitioner's commendations, prior exemplary service, fact that 2 guards involved were licensed to carry firearms and were otherwise qualified for certificates, and fact that petitioner would lose his pension as result of dismissal. Kelly v Safir, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

Petitioner was not entitled to an order directing the commissioner of the department of hospitals of New York city to reinstate her to the position of stenographer-typist, grade 1, where the record showed that while she had completed her six months' probationary period in the position, it appeared that at a hearing before the municipal civil service commission, of which she had notice, it was conceded that petitioner falsely stated in the application for the examination for the position in question that she was eighteen years of age, which was the minimum age permitted, and did not deny the statement by the commission that she was sixteen years of age at the time she filed the application. Application of Katz, 260 A.D. 495, 23 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4637 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940), aff'd, 285 N.Y. 830, 35 N.E.2d 500, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 830, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1798 (N.Y. 1941).

Charges that a civil service employee made false reports as to working hours and false claims for meals are sufficiently substantial to justify dismissal if proved. Lanzer v Moran, 268 A.D. 947, 51 N.Y.S.2d 389, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4350 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. dismissed, 293 N.Y. 759, 57 N.E.2d 838, 293 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 759, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 2181 (N.Y. 1944), aff'd, 294 N.Y. 864, 62 N.E.2d 489, 294 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 864, 1945 N.Y. LEXIS 1049 (N.Y. 1945).

Civil Service Law § 50, and not Civil Service Law § 75, was proper section under which to disqualify permanent civil service appointee for alleged false statements concerning 20-year old criminal record, and thus such false statements could not properly form basis for disqualification of village building inspector over 3 years following date of appointment where inspector was not guilty of misconduct or incompetence in office. Giangiacomo v Village of Liberty, 50 A.D.2d 666, 375 N.Y.S.2d 223, 1975 N.Y.

App. Div. LEXIS 12503 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1975), aff'd, 40 N.Y.2d 957, 390 N.Y.S.2d 918, 359 N.E.2d 426, 1976 N.Y. LEXIS 3161 (N.Y. 1976).

Dismissal was excessive penalty, even though town investigator misused his position on one occasion by falsely representing that he was on official business in order to avoid paying $10 boat ramp usage charge; matter would be remitted for imposition of new penalty which should not exceed 2-month suspension without pay, and for calculation of award of back pay consisting of salary investigator would have earned had he not been dismissed, less amount of compensation which he might have earned in any other employment, and any unemployment benefits he might have received during such period. RRI Realty Corp. v Hattrick, 132 A.D.2d 558, 517 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 49081 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Superintendent of State Police had rational basis to deny petitioner's application for reinstatement where, after accepting conditional offer of employment which was dependent on his satisfactory completion of remaining phases of application process, including medical examination and background investigation, he made material misrepresentations on form which explicitly stated that willful failure to supply complete information, or any false statement, could result in disqualification for employment. Grossman v McMahon, 261 A.D.2d 54, 699 N.Y.S.2d 582, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12730 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

It was proper to dismiss police officer based on undisputed evidence, obtained during investigation following his appointment, that he had committed fraud on his employment application to conceal his fraudulent use of Social Security number not his own to obtain second New York State driver's license after his first license had been revoked. Martin v Marchiselli, 262 A.D.2d 171, 691 N.Y.S.2d 528, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6752 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Where a petitioner was not eligible to take an examination for police patrolman because he had mistakenly misstated his age, all subsequent acts on his part or on the part of the civil service commission and the police commissioner in relying on the premise that he was eligible were null and void and no rights accrued therefrom. Walden-El v Brennan, 125 N.Y.S.2d 95, 205 Misc. 351, 1953 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2286 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1953), aff'd, 283 A.D. 771, 128 N.Y.S.2d 578, 1954 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5214 (N.Y. App. Div. 1954).

45. —Racial matter

Commissioner of Division of Human Rights finding that black policeman's dismissal from city police force was not the result of unlawful discrimination but based on proven acts of misconduct and finding that such penalty was appropriate to the misconduct charged and was not discriminatory were supported by substantial evidence. State Div. of Human Rights v Syracuse, 57 A.D.2d 452, 394 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11822 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1977), aff'd, 43 N.Y.2d 958, 404 N.Y.S.2d 343, 375 N.E.2d 409, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1857 (N.Y. 1978).

The dismissal of petitioner from his position as a stationary engineer with respondent City was grossly excessive, and admonition, reprimand or some other penalty is more appropriate, where the only supportable charges against petitioner were that he was critical of the allegedly slow work of laborers at his job and that he uttered a racial slur to a coemployee; accordingly, the dismissal of petitioner should be annulled and the matter should be remitted to respondent to reconsider the penalty, if any, which it may properly administer to petitioner by reason of the supportable charges. Pilawa v Utica, 76 A.D.2d 103, 429 N.Y.S.2d 959, 1980 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11733 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1980).

46. —Refusal to take examination

Where the civil service position or watchman, a noncompetitive class, was abolished under the direction of the civil service system, and was expanded by reclassification, to the position of building guard, a competitive position requiring written examination and appointment pursuant to and from an approved civil service list, dismissal of watchman was authorized upon his failure to take the examination under the new classification. Szewczuk v Moore, 53 Misc. 2d 940, 280 N.Y.S.2d 284, 1967 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1501 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1967), aff'd, 31 A.D.2d 1008, 300 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1969 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5392 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1969).

47. —Residency requirements

City ordinance if interpreted as mandating automatic removal of city employee, for "misconduct", upon finding of non-residency would be invalid as in conflict with Civil Service Law provisions setting forth lawful procedure to be followed when charges of incompetence or misconduct are raised, and in view of actual language of ordinance, it would be interpreted as providing that non-residency, absent more, might be grounds for removal. Commissioner of department of inspections and licenses of city acted well within his authority as established by Civil Service Law, in laying off plumbing inspector in course of overall reduction in city's work force, though certain other employees were allegedly nonresidents of the city. Giliforte v Buffalo, 54 A.D.2d 170, 388 N.Y.S.2d 392, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13746 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

A city ordinance which provides that employees of the city who fail to reside in the city shall forfeit their employment is valid and does not conflict with section 75 of the Civil Service Law which provides that certain civil service employees may not be removed except for misconduct or incompetence, inasmuch as residency is unrelated to job performance, misconduct or competency, and section 75 has nothing to do with eligibility for employment; there is nothing unlawful about a local government requiring that its employees reside within its territorial limits. A city ordinance which provides that employees of the city who fail to reside in the city shall forfeit their employment is valid and does not conflict with section 75 of the Civil Service Law which provides that certain civil service employees may not be removed except for misconduct or incompetence, inasmuch as residency is unrelated to job performance, misconduct or competency, and section 75 has nothing to do with eligibility for employment; there is nothing unlawful about a local government requiring that its employees reside within its territorial limits. Mandelkern v Buffalo, 64 A.D.2d 279, 409 N.Y.S.2d 881, 1978 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12254 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1978).

In Article 78 proceeding to compel town to pay petitioner's salary and fringe benefits pending determination of disciplinary charges, town was estopped from raising affirmative defense that petitioner failed to meet residency requirement where town originally acquiesced in her employment as nonresident. Young v Supervisor of Lloyd, 159 A.D.2d 828, 552 N.Y.S.2d 981, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2935 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 76 N.Y.2d 761, 559 N.Y.S.2d 237, 558 N.E.2d 39, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1343 (N.Y. 1990).

Court confirmed determination of county department of civil service which revoked petitioner's certification and appointment as village police officer on ground that he perpetrated fraud by claiming residency in village, where petitioner presented driver's license, voter registration cards and hearing testimony by owner of property on which he allegedly resided, but hearing officer chose to credit conflicting documentary evidence which supported finding that petitioner did not in fact reside in village during 6-month period in question. Schindlar v Incorporated Village of Lloyd Harbor, 261 A.D.2d 626, 690 N.Y.S.2d 673, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5708 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1999).

48. —Sexual misconduct, including harassment

School district is not entitled to order pursuant to CPLR § 7503 staying arbitration between district and employee association regarding district's discharge of school bus driver after hearing pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75 in which it was found that evidence supported charges that busdriver had sexually molested young girls riding his bus, since employee association filed grievance pursuant to its collective bargaining agreement with district claiming that district lacked "just cause" to discharge busdriver; there is no merit to district's contention that driver's participation in Civil Service Law § 75 hearing and failure to appeal therefrom pursuant to § 76 constituted waiver of his right to arbitration, since collective bargaining agreement afforded additional remedy of pursuing to resolution by arbitration "just cause" grievances, in that such grievance provisions of collective bargaining agreement do not supplant, but rather augment, statutory methods of appeal detailed in Civil Service Law § 76.

Granville Cent. School Dist. v Granville Non-Instructional Employee's Asso., 114 A.D.2d 626, 494 N.Y.S.2d 218, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 53315 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

Despite employee's unblemished 22-year record with Department of Correctional Services, punishment of dismissal was not so disproportionate as to shock one's sense of fairness given evidence of his long and consistent pattern of grievous sexual harassment against subordinate female employees. Oare v Coughlin, 133 A.D.2d 943, 520 N.Y.S.2d 658, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 51985 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 615, 526 N.Y.S.2d 436, 521 N.E.2d 443, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 700 (N.Y. 1988).

Petitioner was properly discharged from his position as building maintenance foreman where he exploited his capacity as supervisor by sexual harassment of 2 female employees; sexual harassment in work place is among most offensive and demeaning torments employee can undergo. Crookston v Brown, 140 A.D.2d 868, 528 N.Y.S.2d 908, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5332 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1988).

It was appropriate to dismiss town chief of police for conduct unbecoming police officer involving his unprovoked, unwelcome, and unwarranted sexual advances, sexual contact, and demeaning comments of sexual nature directed at 2 present or former town employees and against 2 female town residents. Wade v Town of Ticonderoga Town Bd., 256 A.D.2d 860, 681 N.Y.S.2d 833, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13566 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1998), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 804, 689 N.Y.S.2d 16, 711 N.E.2d 201, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 742 (N.Y. 1999).

49. —Sleeping on job

Evidence supported school district's finding that head custodian was guilty of sleeping on duty, although custodian was not scheduled to be on duty at time of incident, where 2 police officers testified that they entered school room to investigate setting off of school's burglar alarm and found custodian asleep on table, and second custodian, who had been scheduled to be on duty at that time, testified that he had switched shifts with discharged custodian at discharged custodian's request; penalty was not shockingly disproportionate to offense. Smith v Board of Education, 125 A.D.2d 813, 510 N.Y.S.2d 29, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 63020 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1986).

Penalty of dismissal was not excessive where deputy sheriff court attendant was derelict in his duties, in that he fell asleep in courtroom while on duty, and where record indicated that he had been repeatedly disciplined in past for same conduct. Grossman v Kralik, 217 A.D.2d 625, 629 N.Y.S.2d 467, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7795 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Court upheld dismissal of city firefighter who, within relatively short period of being hired, violated department rules by sleeping on duty during day shift, by failing to conduct himself in manner that reflected favorably on department, and by engaging in behavior that brought discredit or disgrace upon department. Dewey v Powley, 261 A.D.2d 901, 690 N.Y.S.2d 365, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4956 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

50. —Tardiness

Penalty of termination was not shocking to one's sense of fairness where senior personnel analyst with county department of civil service was found guilty of misconduct and incompetence in connection with 35 instances of shoddy work, insubordination, tardiness, failure to follow directives, and inability to perform adequately. Tinney v Schneider, 216 A.D.2d 474, 628 N.Y.S.2d 385, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

Police officer's termination was justified by incident during probationary period in which she was late in relieving another officer of her post. Garrett v Safir, 253 A.D.2d 700, 677 N.Y.S.2d 570, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9695 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 817, 684 N.Y.S.2d 489, 707 N.E.2d 444, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4330 (N.Y. 1998).

51. —Theft

Penalty of dismissal was not abuse of transit authority's discretion in view of determination that token booth collector had made unauthorized hand collections and converted $260 in transit authority funds to her own use. Brathwaite v Gunn, 125 A.D.2d 305, 508 N.Y.S.2d 589, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 62567 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986).

Punishment of dismissal was not excessive where fire prevention inspector pleaded guilty to crime of attempted receipt of unlawful gratuity in amount of $45, in view of nature of fire inspector's job of insuring fire safety. Meades v Spinnato, 138 A.D.2d 579, 526 N.Y.S.2d 161, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3136 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Penalty of termination imposed on State Thruway Authority toll collector was not excessive where evidence showed that, seemingly for her own financial benefit, she processed tickets with punch holes that did not correlate to vehicles exiting through her lane, and that leather punch was found in her car, supporting reasonable inference that she punched extra holes herself. Sassone v New York State Thruway Auth., 189 A.D.2d 86, 594 N.Y.S.2d 882, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2377 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 82 N.Y.2d 658, 604 N.Y.S.2d 557, 624 N.E.2d 695, 1993 N.Y. LEXIS 3809 (N.Y. 1993).

Penalty of dismissal was not disproportionate to offense, where police officer was found guilty of taking possession of property that did not belong to him under circumstances evidencing knowledge that he had no right to items taken, and of abusing sick leave by being absent from his residence without permission while on sick report, and where he had previously been disciplined for abusing sick leave regulations and making false statement. Morocco v Kelly, 205 A.D.2d 401, 613 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6372 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate for his having conspired with tow truck driver to steal battery from towed car and attempting to facilitate scheme by indicating in his paperwork that he found car without its battery. Perez v Safir, 249 A.D.2d 176, 672 N.Y.S.2d 677, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4404 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

It was proper to dismiss police officer who wrongfully solicited money from 2 rabbis for engaging in required official conduct, failed to voucher money thus obtained, and who had information relative to corruption involving member of police force and failed to report it. Brovakos v Bratton, 254 A.D.2d 32, 678 N.Y.S.2d 21, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9935 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Police officer was properly dismissed for knowingly accepting cash payments representing proceeds of brothel business on behalf of his incarcerated brother, notwithstanding officer's prior unblemished record. Tsang v Safir, 256 A.D.2d 7, 680 N.Y.S.2d 518, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12804 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Dismissal of police officer was appropriate based on her having stolen money seized at illegal gambling location during police raid. Renna v Safir, 256 A.D.2d 219, 683 N.Y.S.2d 18, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13756 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

52. —Use of excessive force

In an Article 78 proceeding by a former senior special officer of the Human Resources Administration seeking review of his dismissal from employment, the determination of the commissioner of the Human Resources Administration would be affirmed where the petitioner was charged with using excessive force on a disruptive client of the center, engaging in actions that endangered persons at the Center and interfered with the maintenance of the public peace, and setting a bad example for his subordinates, there was substantial evidence that petitioner was guilty of the charges, a finding of excessive use of force against a client is among the most serious offenses that can be committed by a special officer whose job is to protect clients, and in light of the seriousness of the offense committed the penalty imposed upon the petitioner was neither irrational nor shocking to the conscience of the court. Rothstein v Brezenoff, 92 A.D.2d 808, 460 N.Y.S.2d 542, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 17190 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), aff'd, 59 N.Y.2d 1003, 466 N.Y.S.2d 965, 453 N.E.2d 1254, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 3277 (N.Y. 1983).

New York City Civil Service Commission properly dismissed correction officer for use of excessive force against inmates and failure to make proper notification regarding use of force against inmate, notwithstanding officer's lack of disciplinary record. Perez v New York Civil Service Com., 140 A.D.2d 224, 528

N.Y.S.2d 73, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5279 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 72 N.Y.2d 807, 533 N.Y.S.2d 56, 529 N.E.2d 424, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2564 (N.Y. 1988).

53. Abolition of position

After abolishment by the board of estimate and apportionment of New York city, under authority of the Economy Act, of the position of "nurse's assistant" in the bureau of child hygiene of the department of health, the assignment, with consent of department, of three workers from emergency relief rolls, and the performance by them of all of the work of the former incumbent of the abolished position, constitute a violation of this section. Danker v Department of Health, 266 N.Y. 365, 194 N.E. 857, 266 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 365, 1935 N.Y. LEXIS 1383 (N.Y. 1935).

Where seasonal holders of position of pari-mutuel examiner were in the classified service at the time state decided that no further seasonal appointments were to be made for the positions they held, but instead full-time positions were to be utilized having exactly the same "requirements for entrance," they were entitled to be placed on a preferred list for appointment. Application of Apsel, 12 A.D.2d 220, 209 N.Y.S.2d 890, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13020 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1961).

It was error to dismiss Article 78 petition to review administrative determination abolishing petitioner's job, on basis that there was no evidence that respondents had acted in bad faith, in light of evidence of respondents' treatment of petitioner before her job was abolished, fact that she was discharged just prior to vesting in state retirement system, fact that there did not appear to be any urgent need to automate her job, and evidence that person hired for newly titled position performed substantially same duties as she did. Rosenthal v Gilroy, 208 A.D.2d 748, 617 N.Y.S.2d 509, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9875 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

An art. 78 proceeding would not lie where the petition merely alleged abolition of the position of senior clerk to the Town Board of Assessors but failed to allege taking over of the duties of the position by another, it appearing merely that a different office with different standards of qualifications was set up. McCanless v Brieant, 35 Misc. 2d 1018, 231 N.Y.S.2d 995, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3189 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962), modified, 19 A.D.2d 736, 242 N.Y.S.2d 841, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3323 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1963).

54. Salary reduction

Provisions of this section protecting war veterans from removal from civil service positions without trial or an opportunity to be heard, do not apply to a reduction of salary made in good faith. Newell v City of Buffalo, 261 N.Y. 369, 185 N.E. 499, 261 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 369, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1296 (N.Y. 1933).

This law does not prevent the board of aldermen from reducing the salary to be paid for a certain position. Brigham v New York, 191 A.D. 866, 182 N.Y.S. 145, 1920 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4822 (N.Y. App. Div. 1920).

Where relator, a Spanish War veteran, withdrew from his position as mortgage tax appraiser, when his salary was reduced from $1800 to $900 a year, and salary of other tax appraisers was not reduced, he was entitled to restoration of salary to $1800 and reinstatement. People ex rel. Jones v Saxe, 156 N.Y.S. 975, 92 Misc. 409, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1012 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1915).

Reduction of the salary of a war veteran civil service employee from $4000 to $3300 per annum did not constitute a dismissal, which under this section could have been brought about only after a hearing on charges. Gerard v McDonald, 66 N.Y.S.2d 882, 188 Misc. 749, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3163 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

55. Change in mode of payment

Changing the mode of payment of employees from a "per annum" basis to a "per session" basis does not amount to an abolition of the original positions of such employees thereby contravening the provisions of this section and § 31. Lewin v La Guardia, 22 N.Y.S.2d 409, 175 Misc. 165, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2142 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 261 A.D. 940, 26 N.Y.S.2d 493, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8176 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

56. Other sanctions

Forfeiture of 10 vacation days was not so disproportionate as to shock "one's sense of fairness," where New York City police officer with previously unblemished disciplinary record used excessive force in arrest of complainant. Kelly v Safir, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

Subdivision 3 of this section, in specifying the penalties which may be imposed on a civil service employee found guilty of charges filed against him, among others, a fine not to exceed $100 to be deducted from his salary or wages, was not intended to make possible the confiscation of earnings of an offending officer or employee and does not authorize accumulation of fines for multiple offenses, each in amount not exceeding $100, to permit a salary deduction in excess of that amount. Fitzmaurice v Moses, 12 A.D.2d 304, 210 N.Y.S.2d 938, 1961 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12524 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1961), app. dismissed, 12 N.Y.2d 884, 237 N.Y.S.2d 995, 188 N.E.2d 262, 1963 N.Y. LEXIS 1477 (N.Y. 1963).

A determination resulting in a mere reprimand is not reviewable under Civ S Law § 76(1). In providing for the imposition of a pre-hearing payless suspension, Civ S Law § 75(3) does not mandate that the suspension be remitted after a hearing if the employee is found guilty of disciplinary charges. Accordingly, a decision not to remit the pre-hearing payless suspension did not constitute post-hearing penalty entitling a petitioner to an Article 78 proceeding reviewing respondents' determination that petitioner was guilty of misconduct. Sinnott v Finnerty, 105 A.D.2d 790, 481 N.Y.S.2d 429, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20908 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1984), rev'd, 65 N.Y.2d 780, 492 N.Y.S.2d 945, 482 N.E.2d 563, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16192 (N.Y. 1985).

Fine of 3 days' pay and 2 days' suspension without pay was not excessive as against police officer who violated departmental rules and regulations by operating his patrol car in careless and negligent manner, resulting in collision with another vehicle. Spillman v Ramapo, 134 A.D.2d 266, 520 N.Y.S.2d 598, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50449 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Fine of 5 days' pay was not excessive as against police officer who violated departmental rules and regulations by failing to immediately report damage to his patrol car sustained during his tour of duty. Turzyn v Rozzi, 134 A.D.2d 268, 520 N.Y.S.2d 601, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50451 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Penalty of demotion from laborer II to laborer I, imposed by county department of public works, was not excessive where employee had pattern of continuing improper behavior and persistent lack of respect for supervisors; department did not have duty to warn employee that his conduct was improper before commencing disciplinary proceeding. Leotta v Hasl, 134 A.D.2d 429, 521 N.Y.S.2d 52, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50614 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Penalty of 30-day suspension and demotion, with 6-month probationary period, was not disproportionately harsh where county security officer participated in off-duty "practical jokes" performed on fellow county employees, undertaken with other off-duty county employees, which resulted in collision between his vehicle and county vehicle, and failed to report collision; petitioner was not erroneously singled out for harsher punishment, given his position as supervisor and nature of his misconduct. Sguanci v Commissioner of Public Works, 158 A.D.2d 788, 550 N.Y.S.2d 950, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 891 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Forfeiture of 15 vacation days and $1,500 fine imposed on employee by New York City Department of Correction would be annulled and remanded, even though there was substantial evidence that, while on sick leave, employee left his residence without properly notifying his institution, where there was question regarding parties' consent to penalty, which was otherwise illegal; it would be preferable that department impose appropriate penalty rather than have court substitute hearing officer's original recommendation of 30-day suspension without pay. Cepeda v Koehler, 159 A.D.2d 290, 552 N.Y.S.2d 295, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2658 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Although supervisor employed by Department of Transportation was properly found to have been guilty of incompetence in discharge of his duties on basis that he failed to follow up on information regarding widespread drug use in his section, penalty imposed was so disproportionate to offense as to shock one's sense of fairness where (1) petitioner had unblemished 24-year record, (2) petitioner's conduct was of unwillful nature, (3) penalty included demotion in position and salary loss of about $11,000 per year, and (4) those who admitted to drug use were given less severe penalties. Pelham v White, 166 A.D.2d 824, 563 N.Y.S.2d 171, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12819 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1990).

Imposition of 60-day suspension for deputy sheriff's refusal to answer and untruthful answers to questions posed to him during official investigation of internal affairs unit was not so disproportionate to offense so as to shock one's sense of fairness since his behavior posed serious threat to discipline and efficiency of sheriff's department. Steinberg v Dooley, 168 A.D.2d 499, 562 N.Y.S.2d 742, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15339 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1990).

Formal reprimand placed in school custodian's personnel file was disciplinary reprimand within meaning of CLS Civ S § 75, not mere warning, and thus court would annul school district's determination to reprimand custodian without statutory due process protections, where (1) reprimand referred to investigation of serious charge, findings of fact, and ultimate decision that custodian should be reprimanded for misconduct, and (2) reprimand also stated that matter would be resolved by placement of formal reprimand in file. Civil Serv. Employees Ass'n v Southold Union Free Sch. Dist., 204 A.D.2d 445, 611 N.Y.S.2d 895, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4757 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1994).

It was improper to require police officer (petitioner) to forfeit 10 vacation days as penalty for using excess of force in making arrest where there was no basis for differential penalties imposed on 2 police officers involved in incident, other officer was penalized with loss of only 5 vacation days, Administrative Law Judge attributed administrative penalty imposed on other officer to petitioner, who had prior unblemished disciplinary record, and First Deputy Commissioner improperly cited petitioner's election to pursue administrative trial as justification for higher penalty; thus, penalty would be reduced to forfeiture of 5 vacation days. Meagher v Safir, 272 A.D.2d 114, 707 N.Y.S.2d 422, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5409 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000), modified, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

It was proper to impose forfeiture of 20 vacation days on finding that police officer unjustifiably and without provocation struck individual with nightstick during course of arrest. Potter v Safir, 284 A.D.2d 156, 728 N.Y.S.2d 428, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6151 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Forfeiture of 15 vacation days was appropriate sanction for police officer's discourteous behavior toward police sergeant. Sanders v Safir, 284 A.D.2d 163, 726 N.Y.S.2d 844, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6148 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

The words "except as otherwise provided by law," contained in New York City Administrative Code § 1103-1.0(2) with reference to a fine for delinquency or misconduct of employees, renders the provision by its own terms inapplicable to permanent competitive Civil Service employees, because Civil Service Law § 75 does provide otherwise as to such employees. Coleman v Ginsberg, 66 Misc. 2d 46, 319 N.Y.S.2d 338, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1870 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971).

Superiors of members of capitol police did not abuse their discretion or act unreasonably or arbitrarily in awarding unsatisfactory performance ratings on basis of excessive tardiness and excessive amount of sick leave used, with result that salary increments or other benefits were withheld. Watson v Wilson, 80 Misc. 2d 822, 364 N.Y.S.2d 348, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2270 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Where civil service employee's violation of work rule regarding time clock had been found not to be incompetence or misconduct in hearing conducted pursuant to Civil Service Law, deduction of two hours pay for such violation was contrary to Civil Service Law provision prohibiting any disciplinary penalty except for incompetency or misconduct shown after hearing on stated charges and was therefore vacated and annulled. Sette v McCambridge, 84 Misc. 2d 591, 377 N.Y.S.2d 923, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3182 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Petition to review respondents' determination which confiscated badge and identification of police officer for improperly using them while on "inactive status" due to disability, and to compel respondents to comply with CLS Civ S § 75 and CLS Vill § 8-804, was within parameters of Article 78. Gore v Corwin, 185 Misc. 2d 825, 714 N.Y.S.2d 427, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 408 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

III. Procedure On Appeal

57. Procedure for initiating appeal

Relator, under this section, should have proceeded by mandamus for reinstatement, unless he was entitled to hearing on ground that he was an exempt volunteer fireman, in which case, he could have proceeded by certiorari. Morgan v Smith, 224 A.D. 203, 230 N.Y.S. 97, 1928 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9963 (N.Y. App. Div. 1928).

Grant of a peremptory writ of mandamus is discretionary with the court and such a writ will not be granted where its effect would be contrary to the public interest. A veteran volunteer fireman "suspended" from his position pending the outcome of criminal charges against him, cannot compel his reinstatement by mandamus, where the uncontroverted evidence indicates clearly his unfitness for civil service employment, and if the writ were granted, it is obvious that the employee would be removed after a hearing. Burke v Connolly, 135 N.Y.S. 179, 76 Misc. 337, 1912 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 819 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1912).

A proceeding under article 78 of the Civil Practice Act takes the place of mandamus as the appropriate remedy prescribed by this section. Moreland v Areson, 19 Misc. 2d 385, 22 N.Y.S.2d 309, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1349, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2125 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

58. Review jurisdiction

The refusal of a sheriff to remit a deputy's 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay in connection with the disposition of disciplinary proceedings against the deputy in which he was found guilty of misconduct and reprimanded, could be considered a penalty or punishment within Civil Service Law § 76(1) for which judicial review could be sought. Civil Service Law § 75(3), permitting a 30-day pre-hearing suspension without pay, also provides that upon a finding of guilt a post-hearing penalty or punishment may include a suspension without pay, and the time during which an officer or employee had previously been suspended without pay could be considered as part of the penalty. Sinnott v Finnerty, 65 N.Y.2d 780, 492 N.Y.S.2d 945, 482 N.E.2d 563, 1985 N.Y. LEXIS 16192 (N.Y. 1985).

In Article 78 proceeding, Court of Appeals had jurisdiction to review Appellate Division's holding that municipal employer abused its discretion by failing to reinstate petitioner to her previous permanent position after she was fired from her probationary position, where appeal raised legal question of whether petitioner received "promotion" as that term is used in Civil Service Law. Bethel v McGrath-McKechnie, 95 N.Y.2d 7, 709 N.Y.S.2d 888, 731 N.E.2d 604, 2000 N.Y. LEXIS 905 (N.Y. 2000).

Court has no discretionary authority or interest of justice jurisdiction when reviewing disciplinary determinations by New York City Police Commissioner, and great leeway must be accorded to commissioner's determination concerning punishment, as it is commissioner, not court, who is accountable to public for integrity of police department. Kelly v Safir, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

CLS Civ S § 76 authorizes Civil Service Commission to hear appeals only in connection with disciplinary proceedings under CLS Civ S § 75, and thus commission had no jurisdiction to review petitioner's discharge which was effected without hearing pursuant to agreement settling prior disciplinary proceeding whereby petitioner waived hearing and appeal authorized by §§ 75 and 76 and agreed to probationary period of 12 months; petitioner could have brought Article 78 proceeding at time of his dismissal, challenging respondent's conclusion that he was probationary employee at that time. Johnson v Triborough Bridge & Tunnel Auth., 97 N.Y.2d 627, 735 N.Y.S.2d 861, 761 N.E.2d 553, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 3310 (N.Y. 2001).

The supreme court has jurisdiction under the general jurisdiction of that court and also under subd. 2 to hear mandamus proceedings resorted to by a discharged state employee to remedy his wrongful discharge. Whaley v Perkins, 231 A.D. 502, 248 N.Y.S. 64, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16087 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

Where a proceeding before a county judge was of no effect, the Appellate Division is not limited in its right of review by provisions of subd. 3 of this section. Kreppein v Downs, 272 A.D. 452, 72 N.Y.S.2d 150, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3319 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

Petition to review action of New York City's Civil Service Commission, which affirmed the dismissal of petitioner from Department of Social Services, should have been heard and determined by Supreme Court at Special Term, as opposed to Appellate Division, since the test of the decision was that of arbitrariness rather than substantial evidence. Pauling v Smith, 46 A.D.2d 759, 361 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3600 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Human Rights Appeal Board had jurisdiction of complaint by former employee of city housing authority charging racial discrimination even after determination of the Civil Service Commission of no discrimination in that no court action based upon alleged grievance had been instituted nor was there any action pending before any state administrative agency. New York City Housing Authority v State Div. on Human Rights, 53 A.D.2d 844, 385 N.Y.S.2d 785, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13674 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1976).

Appellate Division, as well as the Court of Appeals, is vested with power to deal as a matter of law with the measure of discipline imposed on a civil service employee. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In a proceeding brought by a police officer to review a determination of an acting city manager finding the officer guilty of violating certain rules and regulations of the police department but assessing no penalty for such violations, the proceeding would be dismissed since, in the absence of the imposition of any penalty and despite the officer's allegation that the failure to impose any penalty constituted a deliberate effort to deny him judicial review, the court was not empowered to review the determination of the acting city manager. Wohlrab v Miles, 82 A.D.2d 836, 439 N.Y.S.2d 666, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14509 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1981).

In an action brought by a former employee against a county hospital, the employee's contention that the hearing officer conducted the proceeding upon which his termination was based in an arbitrary and capricious manner by it when the employee was "not ready" to proceed did not state a cause of action, since such contentions regarding the actual propriety of hearings must be presented to the courts in the context of a CPLR Article 78 proceeding pursuant to Civil Service Law § 73(1). Carney v Memorial Hospital & Nursing Home, 101 A.D.2d 990, 477 N.Y.S.2d 735, 1984 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18706 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 63 N.Y.2d 770, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 5973 (N.Y. 1984).

Article 78 petition, alleging that police officer was summarily deprived of his rank of detective when he was transferred to patrol squad and another officer was assigned to his former position, should not have been dismissed based on petitioner's failure to invoke grievance arbitration procedures in parties' collective bargaining agreement since (1) grievance arbitration procedures of collective bargaining agreement were not intended to supersede police officer's statutory right to hearing under CLS Civ S § 75, and (2) petitioner did not assert that his demotion violated terms of collective bargaining agreement, and was not seeking judicial resolution of dispute over meaning of any of its provisions. Dombroski v Bloom, 170 A.D.2d 805, 565 N.Y.S.2d 907, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1548 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1991).

New York City Civil Service Commission has subject matter jurisdiction to entertain appeals of disciplinary determinations made by Commissioner of New York City Police Department and taken by uniformed members of force. Montella v Bratton, 248 A.D.2d 134, 670 N.Y.S.2d 10, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2077 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed sub. nom., Muniz v Giuliani, 92 N.Y.2d 973, 683 N.Y.S.2d 757, 706 N.E.2d 745 (N.Y. 1998), rev'd, 93 N.Y.2d 424, 691 N.Y.S.2d 372, 713 N.E.2d 406, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 1289 (N.Y. 1999).

The Security Risk Law, being a special law within a specific field, modifies the provisions of subd. 2 of this section in regard to judicial review of an administrative determination, and where the petitioner was dismissed under the Security Risk Law the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction to review the determination. Lerner v Casey, 138 N.Y.S.2d 777, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2681 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955), aff'd, 2 A.D.2d 1, 154 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1956 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4853 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1956).

Since New York City, N.Y., Charter § 487(a) and New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 15-113, gave the city fire department commissioner exclusive power to discipline firefighters, the city's civil service commission erroneously ruled that it had jurisdiction to hear a firefighters appeal of his termination; the fire department's discipline was outside the scope of N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law §§ 75, 76, and, thus, was not subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. The fire commissioner's N.Y. art. 78 proceeding to annul the commission's determination that it had jurisdiction was improperly dismissed. Von Essen v N.Y. City Civ. Serv. Comm'n, 4 N.Y.3d 220, 791 N.Y.S.2d 887, 825 N.E.2d 128, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 2005).

Civil Service Law § 76 provides that employee may appeal determination of Commissioner either to New York City Civil Service Commission or to New York Supreme Court; in either type of appeal transcript of hearing is prepared and submitted to reviewing body. Ostrowski v New York, 601 F.2d 629, 1979 U.S. App. LEXIS 14262 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1979).

Since Civil Service Law § 76 provides the sole method of review of an employee dismissal pursuant to Civil Service Law § 75, school bus driver dismissed for misconduct under Civil Service Law § 75 could not bring an appeal to the Commissioner of Education. Re Marut, Op Comr Ed #9576.

Because N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 76(1) explicitly limits appeals pursuant to that section to penalties imposed pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 75, the firefighter was limited, in seeking judicial review of any punishment imposed pursuant to New York City, N.Y., Admin. Code § 15-113, to the remedies provided by N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78. Von Essen v N.Y. City Civ. Serv. Comm'n, 3 A.D.3d 115, 769 N.Y.S.2d 260, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13677 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2003), app. denied, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4043 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't Apr. 6, 2004), aff'd, 4 N.Y.3d 220, 791 N.Y.S.2d 887, 825 N.E.2d 128, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 224 (N.Y. 2005).

59. —After appeal to Civil Service Commission

If aggrieved employee chooses to appeal disciplinary decision to Civil Service Commission rather than seeking review in courts through Article 78 proceeding, CLS Civ S § 76(3) clearly precludes judicial review of commission's decision; however, judicial review of commission's decision must be afforded aggrieved party if constitutional right is implicated or when agency has acted illegally, unconstitutionally or in excess of its jurisdiction. Substance of Civil Service Commission's determination in disciplinary proceeding was unreviewable in courts, even though commission disregarded credibility determinations of administrative law judge, where there was no showing that commission's actions were unconstitutional, illegal or outside commissioner's jurisdiction. N.Y. City Dep't of Envtl. Prot. v N.Y. City Civil Serv. Comm'n, 78 N.Y.2d 318, 574 N.Y.S.2d 664, 579 N.E.2d 1385, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 3914 (N.Y. 1991).

Although it is provided in subdivision 3 of this section that a determination on appeal of an allegedly aggrieved employee shall not be subject to court review, there remains for court determination the question of a disposition by the commission which is "purely arbitrary". Santella v Hoberman, 29 A.D.2d 655, 286 N.Y.S.2d 647, 1968 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4926 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1968).

If an appeal in a disciplinary proceeding is taken to the Civil Service Commission for the City of New York, review of the decision is permitted if it is claimed that the action of the Commission was purely arbitrary, notwithstanding statutory provision that the decision of the Commission shall be final and conclusive. Pauling v Smith, 46 A.D.2d 759, 361 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3600 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Where police officer, following termination of employment ordered by chief of police, elected to appeal the determination of penalty to the county civil service commission, court could not thereafter review the decision of the county civil service commission even to consider claim that action of the commission upholding the determination of employment was arbitrary. Schrader v Civil Service Comm'r, 53 A.D.2d 210, 385 N.Y.S.2d 644, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12509 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

In an Article 78 proceeding to review municipal civil service commission's modification of penalty imposed on city fire captain, question for court is not whether original penalty is shocking to the sense of fairness but rather whether commission's modification of penalty shocks the sense of fairness. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Penalty imposed upon state employee by civil service commission can only be set aside where as matter of law it is so harsh and excessive and so disproportionate to offense as to be shocking to one's conscience. Greaney v Bahou, 57 A.D.2d 646, 393 N.Y.S.2d 211, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11673 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1977).

Result in an administrative personnel disciplinary proceeding is "shocking to one's sense of fairness" and hence reviewable by court if sanction imposed is so grave in its impact on individual subjected to it that it is disproportionate to misconduct, incompetence, failure or turpitude of the individual, or to the harm or risk of harm to agency or institution, or to public generally visited or threatened by derelictions of the individual. There is judicial review of decisions of civil service commission confirming dismissal, though review is limited to determining whether dismissal was purely arbitrary. Short v Nassau County Civil Service Com., 59 A.D.2d 157, 398 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13280 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977), app. dismissed, 43 N.Y.2d 843, 402 N.Y.S.2d 812, 373 N.E.2d 992, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1761 (N.Y. 1978), rev'd, 45 N.Y.2d 721, 408 N.Y.S.2d 471, 380 N.E.2d 298, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 2183 (N.Y. 1978).

Appeal of Civil Service Commission finding affirming Personnel Director's determination to dismiss employee from position for fraud was improperly transferred to appellate division, as hearing before Civil Service Commission must be reviewed by lower court, and direct appeal from determination of commission to this court is unavailable under CLS CPLR 7804(g), however, once proceeding is improperly transferred to this court, court is required to determine all issues. D'Ornellas v Ortiz, 119 A.D.2d 459, 500 N.Y.S.2d 671, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 55411 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. dismissed, 68 N.Y.2d 805, 506 N.Y.S.2d 868, 498 N.E.2d 432, 1986 N.Y. LEXIS 20122 (N.Y. 1986), app. dismissed, 70 N.Y.2d 694, 518 N.Y.S.2d 1031, 512 N.E.2d 557, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17990 (N.Y. 1987).

Proceeding by Department of Correction employee, seeking review of disciplinary determination, would be dismissed by Appellate Division where she had chosen to appeal to Civil Service Commission pursuant to CLS Civ S § 76, making judicial review available only if constitutional right is implicated, or if agency has acted illegally, unconstitutionally, or in excess of its jurisdiction. Griffin v New York City Dep't of Correction, 179 A.D.2d 585, 579 N.Y.S.2d 350, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 914 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1992).

State of New York Civil Service Commission acted in excess of its statutory authority and, thus, its jurisdiction by disciplining an employee in 2012 for charges based upon conduct occurring in 2007 and 2008 because the charges did not allege the employee acted with the mens rea requirements for the crime of official misconduct and, as such, the charges were time-barred. Matter of De Guzman v State of New York Civ. Serv. Commn., 129 A.D.3d 1189, 11 N.Y.S.3d 296, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4634 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 26 N.Y.3d 913, 43 N.E.3d 375, 22 N.Y.S.3d 165, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 3709 (N.Y. 2015).

A petition seeking judicial review of a determination of a Civil Service Commission which states that the local authority whose decision was affirmed by the Commission acted in violation of § 75, without authority in writing to act as a hearing officer, and imposed an excessive fine, sufficiently indicates that the affirmance of his determination by the State Civil Service Commission was arbitrary and therefor open to judicial review. The prohibition is subd. 3 of this section against judicial review of a determination of a Civil Service Commission does not preclude judicial review of decisions which are purely arbitrary. Manzi v Kaplan, 34 Misc. 2d 468, 226 N.Y.S.2d 167, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3713 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1962).

Under subd. 3 of this section, a determination on appeal to the Civil Service Commission is final and conclusive and not subject to judicial review even though it is contended that such determination was arbitrary. Mancuso v Mauriello, 41 Misc. 2d 385, 246 N.Y.S.2d 122, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1513 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

Where the claim was made that a determination of the Civil Service Commission is arbitrary, the Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review notwithstanding provisions of Civil Service Law § 76 that the decision of such commission shall be final and conclusive and not subject to further review in any court. Trotman v Hoberman, 56 Misc. 2d 915, 290 N.Y.S.2d 680, 1968 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1524 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1968).

Although the punishment of permanent demotion imposed by petitioner New York City Housing Authority on two long-time permanent competitive civil service employees found guilty of misconduct not involving serious misbehavior following disciplinary proceedings (Civil Service Law, § 75) was appropriate under the circumstances, the determination of respondent New York City Civil Service Commission on appeal by the aggrieved employees (Civil Service Law, § 76, subd 1) modifying the penalties imposed by petitioner by substituting temporary demotions in place of the permanent demotions ordered by the authority, cannot be set aside or disturbed since the commission's exercise of its discretion in modifying the penalties imposed by the authority cannot be said to be "purely arbitrary" and "shocking to one's sense of fairness". The focus of judicial review in the proceedings to set aside the commission's modifications of the authority's punishment is the penalty as modified by the commission rather than the original penalty imposed by the authority and the test to be applied is whether the commission's determination was "purely arbitrary". Although the decision of the Civil Service Commission in a disciplinary proceeding is "final and conclusive, and not subject to further review in any court" (Civil Service Law, § 76, subd 3), appeals to the courts are permissible in the form of an article 78 proceeding where it is alleged that the commission's decision was "purely arbitrary". New York City Housing Authority v New York City Civil Service Com., 94 Misc. 2d 183, 403 N.Y.S.2d 966, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2214 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978), aff'd, New York City Housing Auth. v New York City Civ. Serv. Comm., 72 A.D.2d 973, 1979 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 16249 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1979).

60. Res judicata effect

In an Article 78 proceeding to review a police officer's dismissal, the court erroneously held that the police commission was bound by a plea bargain that had been negotiated by the trial commissioner, and the officer, and that provided for the officer's forfeiture of 30 days' pay and his placement on probation for one year since no authority had been delegated to the trial commissioner to enter into a binding plea arrangement, and the Administrative Code made no reference to the extent to which a trial commissioner could make an agreement binding in the police commissioner; CPLR § 2104, which makes an oral stipulation in open court binding, does not apply to police department disciplinary proceedings; furthermore, the police commissioner was not estopped by the plea arrangement since the officer had suffered no detriment through the loss of a witness or otherwise. Silverman v McGuire, 51 N.Y.2d 228, 433 N.Y.S.2d 1002, 414 N.E.2d 383, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2702 (N.Y. 1980).

Petitioner's motion for summary judgment in an article 78 proceeding to compel reinstatement was denied and his petition dismissed. On appeal, petitioner urged that his motion for summary judgment was improper and that he should have moved under section 1293 and 1295 of the former Civil Practice Act. The Appellate Division held that he could not assert such a position after an adverse decision. Though his procedure was incorrect, petitioner adopted it by making such a motion. Whalen v Corsi, 279 A.D. 1113, 112 N.Y.S.2d 499, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6010 (N.Y. App. Div.), reh'g denied, 280 A.D. 901, 115 N.Y.S.2d 312, 1952 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4101 (N.Y. App. Div. 1952).

Where minutes of criminal proceeding against transit authority employee were before Appellate Division and were the subject of argument in earlier appeal from judgment awarding employee back pay, the "law of the case" operated to foreclose reexamination of question whether petitioner had wrongfully delayed his criminal proceeding in order to effect a greater award. Yeampierre v Gutman, 57 A.D.2d 898, 394 N.Y.S.2d 450, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12137 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1977).

Employer was not collaterally estopped from opposing civil service employee's Article 78 petition for reinstatement by Administrative Law Judge's determination that conduct for which employee was discharged did not amount to misconduct for purposes of unemployment insurance benefits eligibility, in view of lack of issue identity. Clayton v Dominguez, 134 A.D.2d 345, 520 N.Y.S.2d 822, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50523 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Transit authority was entitled to dismissal of Article 78 proceeding for review of its decision to summarily discharge petitioner from his position as car inspector for unsatisfactory performance during his probation period, where petitioner claimed that he was entitled to hearing prior to being discharged because he was permanent employee, since identical claim had been presented to and argued before arbitrator pursuant to grievance procedure under petitioner's collective bargaining agreement and had been resolved by arbitrator in favor of transit authority, and thus Article 78 proceeding was barred by doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel. Sharp v Kiley, 136 A.D.2d 644, 523 N.Y.S.2d 603, 1988 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 427 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1988).

Outcome of unemployment compensation proceeding was irrelevant in Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of petitioner's employment by city correction commissioner. Gault v Abate, 210 A.D.2d 56, 620 N.Y.S.2d 943, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12414 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1994), app. denied, 85 N.Y.2d 803, 624 N.Y.S.2d 373, 648 N.E.2d 793, 1995 N.Y. LEXIS 325 (N.Y. 1995).

61. Time limitations, generally

Where a civil service employee takes an administrative appeal to the Civil Service Commission from a determination of his employing agency, as provided for in section 76 of the Civil Service Law, but fails to take it within the 20-day period of limitation prescribed by that section, administrative review of the merits of the agency's determination by the commission is time-barred, and the employee may not resurrect the same question by means of an article 78 proceeding for judicial review of the commission's dismissal of his belated appeal. McGirr v Division of Veterans Affairs, Executive Dep't, 43 N.Y.2d 635, 403 N.Y.S.2d 212, 374 N.E.2d 123, 1978 N.Y. LEXIS 1781 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 439 U.S. 826, 99 S. Ct. 97, 58 L. Ed. 2d 119, 1978 U.S. LEXIS 2641 (U.S. 1978).

Invocation of administrative grievance procedure in accordance with petitioner's union's collective bargaining agreement did not toll statute limitations as to proceeding to review determination terminating petitioner from his position as laboratory specialist. Levine v Board of Educ., 272 A.D.2d 328, 707 N.Y.S.2d 475, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4867 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2000).

An action to review the dismissal of a civil service employee is not barred by the four month statute of limitations upon such actions established by § 1286 of the former Civil Practice Act where the action is commenced more than four months after the employee's suspension, but less than four months after her dismissal. Bohan v Corsi, 77 N.Y.S.2d 706, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2183 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948).

62. —Accrual of action

In an action by petitioners, who were exempt volunteer firemen, to compel their reinstatement on the ground that they were illegally dismissed the four months' period of limitation did not accrue on the dates of their dismissal, but rather after a written demand for reinstatement, this being made within reasonable time. Wilsey v Johnson, 4 A.D.2d 734, 163 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1957 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5148 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1957).

Petitioner, volunteer fireman, was dismissed from position in village because his duties had become unnecessary. If dismissal was result of determination made in exercise of judicial or quasi-judicial discretion, 4-month period commenced to run at time of dismissal. However, if he was denied any rights under this section, it might be found there had been continuing failure of duty specifically enjoined by law in which event 4-month period was to run from time of refusal of demand for performance of duty. Cowper v Lynbrook, 5 A.D.2d 851, 171 N.Y.S.2d 528, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6885 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), reh'g denied, 5 A.D.2d 1007, 174 N.Y.S.2d 883, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6150 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1958), app. denied, 5 N.Y.2d 705, 1958 N.Y. LEXIS 1548 (N.Y. 1958).

Petitioner's properly converted Article 78 proceeding in nature of mandamus to compel her reinstatement was not barred by 4-month limitations period of CLS CPLR § 217 since limitations period did not begin to run until demand for reinstatement was refused and letter from county attorney to petitioner's attorney did not evidence refusal or demand for reinstatement because letter did not constitute clear and explicit refusal. Saulpaugh v Diehl, 148 A.D.2d 928, 539 N.Y.S.2d 165, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2558 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

In Article 78 proceeding by petitioner who alleged that he resigned under duress and challenged respondent's denial of his application for reinstatement, 4-month statute of limitations began to run when petitioner received notice of denial of his application for reinstatement, not on date of his resignation. Hopkins v Governale, 222 A.D.2d 435, 634 N.Y.S.2d 526, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12496 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

63. —Time for seeking reinstatement or back pay

Where discharged employee took no proceeding to secure his reinstatement for two years and two months after his dismissal, laches barred the granting of a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel his reinstatement. On application for an alternative order of mandamus directing the commissioner of agriculture and markets to reinstate petitioner to a competitive civil service position, laches of petitioner in failing to make application for two years and two months after his dismissal, without reason or excuse, bars any relief, under this section. Williams v Pyrke, 233 A.D. 345, 252 N.Y.S. 801, 1931 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11288 (N.Y. App. Div. 1931).

A state civil servant employed as a foreman in the Correction Department was not entitled to an order directing the Civil Service Commission to reinstate him where he had been suspended for conniving with a fellow employee on the audit of an unlawful claim against the state although charges of misconduct and incompetency were not served until three years after his suspension. While subdivision 2 of this section requires that charges be preferred and determined promptly, Special Term had the power to deny a mandatory order of reinstatement in the light of the employee's laches in moving for reinstatement and his conceded misconduct. Fay v Lyons, 282 A.D. 90, 121 N.Y.S.2d 878, 1953 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4402 (N.Y. App. Div. 1953).

Where civil servant was wrongfully dismissed without hearing on finding that he had been absent from his employment without authorization, he was not required to seek reinstatement within four months from discharge but could delay until such time as he demanded reinstatement and had been refused; his Article 78 proceeding to review his discharge was therefore timely where, although it was instituted more than four months after his dismissal, it was filed ten days prior to expiration of four months from date of his demand for reinstatement. State civil servant's delay of some two months in demanding reinstatement after allegedly wrongful discharge did not constitute laches sufficient to deny him relief in action to review such discharge. Johnson v Director, Downstate Medical Center, State University of New York, 52 A.D.2d 357, 384 N.Y.S.2d 189, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12030 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1976), aff'd, 41 N.Y.2d 1061, 396 N.Y.S.2d 172, 364 N.E.2d 837, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 2060 (N.Y. 1977).

Application for an order for the reinstatement of petitioner as a registered nurse in the noncompetitive class of civil service in a state hospital was denied, where petitioner failed to assert his rights from the time of his dismissal on January 14, 1939, until September 15, 1939, although the superintendent of the hospital in dismissing petitioner failed to obey the express provisions of Civ. Ser. Law, subd. 2, of this section, which applies to petitioner by virtue of Men Hyg. Law, § 34, subd. 2. Insley v Shanahan, 17 N.Y.S.2d 25, 173 Misc. 33, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1380 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940).

A civil service employee may not waive his rights to back pay and reinstatement after a period of suspension in excess of thirty days by failure to bring an action promptly under this section where the employee was ignorant of his rights and was not informed thereof. Webber v Tunney, 59 N.Y.S.2d 455, 186 Misc. 270, 1945 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2593 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1945).

64. Scope of review, generally

In proceedings for dismissal the determination upon the facts is for the agency upon which the duty of supervising the position involved is placed and such determination will not be set aside by the courts unless it is unsupported by proof sufficient to satisfy a reasonable man of all the facts necessary to be proved in order to authorize the determination, or unless there is such a preponderance of proof against the existence of any of the facts necessary to be proved as would require the setting aside of the verdict of a jury. Weber v Cheektowaga, 284 N.Y. 377, 31 N.E.2d 495, 284 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 377, 1940 N.Y. LEXIS 800 (N.Y. 1940).

In reviewing the removal of a civil service employee after a duly conducted hearing the court has no power to review the facts except to discover whether the administrative determination is supported by substantial evidence. Miller v Kling, 291 N.Y. 65, 50 N.E.2d 546, 291 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 65, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1064 (N.Y. 1943).

Although Appellate Division in previous Article 78 proceeding annulled penalty of termination and remanded for imposition of new penalty after dismissing 4 charges against petitioner, standard of review based on charges sustained, not on those dismissed, applied in subsequent Article 78 proceeding challenging respondent's decision to impose same penalty based on 2 sustained charges. Gillen v Smithtown Library Bd. of Trustees, 94 N.Y.2d 776, 699 N.Y.S.2d 695, 721 N.E.2d 945, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3432 (N.Y. 1999).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul police commissioner's determination that petitioner engaged in unauthorized off-duty employment as New York State Certified Instructor for Security Guard Training and, in exchange for money, falsely certified that 2 armed security guards had completed required firearms training, court improperly disregarded principles enunciated in Matter of Pell v Board of Education, 34 NY2d 222, where it concluded that substantial evidence supported commissioner's determination but, relying on facts "outside the record," remanded matter for imposition of lesser penalty on grounds that both guards were licensed to carry firearms and were otherwise qualified for certificates, and petitioner (who had previously unblemished disciplinary record) would lose his pension as result of dismissal. Kelly v Safir, 96 N.Y.2d 32, 724 N.Y.S.2d 680, 747 N.E.2d 1280, 2001 N.Y. LEXIS 566 (N.Y. 2001).

Where civil service employee aggrieved by a penalty elects to appeal to a civil service commission rather than to a court, scope of judicial review in subsequent attack on commission's determination must focus on the actions of the commission. Where appeal before city civil service commission was largely focused on appropriateness of penalty which city manager imposed on fire captain, seriousness of conduct which gave rise to disciplinary charges was legitimate issue on which civil service commission could exercise its discretion. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Court dismissed Article 78 proceeding challenging termination of petitioner from his employment as police officer as (1) police commissioner's finding that petitioner, on 3 occasions, engaged in unlawful searches in violation of Fourth Amendment, was supported by substantial evidence notwithstanding that 3 witnesses against him were corrupt former police officers, and (2) penalty did not shock one's sense of fairness. Goodman v Safir, 259 A.D.2d 344, 687 N.Y.S.2d 36, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2997 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

In Article 78 proceeding alleging that "reassignment" of employee violated CLS Civ S § 75(1)(e), court did not err in addressing issue of retaliatory transfer first detailed in employee's reply affidavit, as Supreme Court has discretion under CLS CPLR § 7804(d) to permit further pleadings and, moreover, employer's answer asserting that § 75(1)(e) was not implicated because no disciplinary action occurred triggered employee's response directly addressing issue of retaliatory transfer. Whalen v Hogue, 276 A.D.2d 975, 714 N.Y.S.2d 577, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10795 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2000).

Where the requirements of this section are complied with in the removal of a person holding a position in the competitive class of civil service on charges of willful disobedience of department orders, the court will not, on an application for an order of mandamus to compel the reinstatement of the employee, consider the charges on the merits. MacMillan v Morgenthau, 263 N.Y.S. 568, 146 Misc. 588, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1053 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933).

Courts will not interfere with the exercise of discretion by the removing authority where procedure outlined in subd. 2 of this section has been followed. Jennings v Wilson, 40 N.Y.S.2d 400, 179 Misc. 358, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2380 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1942), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.S.2d 418 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947).

Review by the court is restricted to a determination as to whether statutory procedure has been followed and whether the charges were substantial. Blum v Connelly, 24 N.Y.S.2d 175, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1940), aff'd, 262 A.D. 1056, 30 N.Y.S.2d 229, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7199 (N.Y. App. Div. 1941).

65. —Reversal of arbitrary or unreasonable actions

The criterion for determining whether punishment administratively imposed upon civil servant is to be disturbed by reviewing court is whether the punishment is so disproportionate to the offense, in the light of all the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness, and is based upon a test of arbitrariness rather than substantial evidence. Pauling v Smith, 46 A.D.2d 759, 361 N.Y.S.2d 16, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3600 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1974).

Since there was no question as to admitted facts pertaining to police officer's nine day absence from duty, there could be no finding that decision of county civil service commission upholding termination of the police officer's employment which had been ordered by the chief of police was either arbitrary or purely arbitrary, even if such a characterization of the decision of the civil service commission would provide the basis for court review of the decision. Schrader v Civil Service Comm'r, 53 A.D.2d 210, 385 N.Y.S.2d 644, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12509 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

Correction Department's conclusion that officer violated rule against leaving post without prior authorization by briefly leaving his post to help less experienced officer deal with disobedient inmate was based on arbitrary and capricious interpretation and application of rule, and matter would be remanded for further consideration, where (1) head of facility had issued oral directive for senior officers to assist junior officers in handling minor matters, (2) supervisor stated that there was "no real violation" if officer had good cause for temporarily leaving his post, and (3) officer's job description indicated that his official duties may have conflicted with rule which he allegedly violated. Rosenkrantz v McMickens, 131 A.D.2d 389, 517 N.Y.S.2d 501, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 47870 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987).

Provision of CLS Civ S § 76(3) that determination of Civil Service Commission is "final and conclusive, and not subject to further review in any court" does not bar judicial review of commission action which is alleged to be purely arbitrary. New York City Dep't of Environmental Protection v New York City Civil Service Com., 164 A.D.2d 834, 560 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990), aff'd, 78 N.Y.2d 318, 574 N.Y.S.2d 664, 579 N.E.2d 1385, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 3914 (N.Y. 1991).

New York City Housing Authority's finding that maintenance worker improperly solicited money from tenant to do repair work in tenant's apartment was supported by substantial evidence, but penalty of dismissal was disproportionate and matter was remanded for imposition of lesser penalty, where worker had 17-year record of employment with only 2 minor infractions. Zirino v Diamond, 259 A.D.2d 443, 687 N.Y.S.2d 349, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3235 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Court would not substitute its judgment for that of medical examiner, who dismissed petitioner from his office, though punishment of petitioner was drastic, in the absence of proof that action of medical examiner was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or unlawful. Shapiro v Helpern, 14 Misc. 2d 757, 180 N.Y.S.2d 47, 1958 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2602 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1958).

A city council may not arbitrarily impose a penalty or punishment of demotion, dismissal, suspension or fine, no matter how temporary or modest, upon a civil service employee, without such action being subject to review in an art. 78 proceeding, if the action taken is alleged to have been arbitrary, unreasonable and unlawful. Badrow v Common Council & City Clerk, 42 Misc. 2d 505, 248 N.Y.S.2d 615, 1964 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1890 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1964).

Dismissal of a civil service employee will not be set aside except when the removing authority has acted unreasonably or arbitrarily. Elwood v Department of Mental Hygiene, 72 N.Y.S.2d 648, 1947 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2830 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1947).

66. Evaluation of evidence and witnesses

Since hearing examiner saw and heard witnesses, observed their intelligence range and their comprehension of questions and nature of their responses, his assessment of such matters was entitled to considerable deference on judicial review of dismissal of attendant at hospital for the mentally retarded. Brown v Ristich, 36 N.Y.2d 183, 366 N.Y.S.2d 116, 325 N.E.2d 533, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 1728 (N.Y. 1975).

Supreme Court, which upheld police department's discharge of probationary police officer, erred by dismissing discharged officer's Article 78 petition without giving parties opportunity to submit competent evidence on controverted allegations of likely dissemination of discharged officer's personnel file to other law enforcement agencies; matter was remitted to Supreme Court for further factual exploration of likelihood of dissemination of discharged officer's personnel file and any other issues pertinent to his entitlement to name-clearing hearing, including actual content of his file. Swinton v Safir, 93 N.Y.2d 758, 697 N.Y.S.2d 869, 720 N.E.2d 89, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 3433 (N.Y. 1999).

The sufficiency of an employee's explanation in his answer to charges by the parole board to remove him as a member thereof was a question for the parole board alone to determine and the court will not interfere with its discretion in this regard. Jerum v Moore, 267 A.D. 931, 46 N.Y.S.2d 885, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5569 (N.Y. App. Div.), app. denied, 267 A.D. 1017, 48 N.Y.S.2d 810, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6051 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944).

Where there has been no hearing in connection with the removal of a civil service employee the court upon review cannot pass generally on the weight of evidence but only upon whether or not the charges are substantial and whether there is any evidence to support them. Harvey v Catherwood, 268 A.D. 1016, 52 N.Y.S.2d 264, 1944 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4681 (N.Y. App. Div. 1944), aff'd, 295 N.Y. 843, 66 N.E.2d 854, 295 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 843, 1946 N.Y. LEXIS 1008 (N.Y. 1946).

Determination of Civil Service Commission, reversing administrative law judge's conclusion that employee was guilty of misconduct, could not be said to be arbitrary as matter of law where contradictory testimony had been given by employee and his accuser, and commission decided that inconsistencies in testimony should be resolved in employee's favor. New York City Dep't of Environmental Protection v New York City Civil Service Com., 164 A.D.2d 834, 560 N.Y.S.2d 137, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10818 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990), aff'd, 78 N.Y.2d 318, 574 N.Y.S.2d 664, 579 N.E.2d 1385, 1991 N.Y. LEXIS 3914 (N.Y. 1991).

In Article 78 proceeding to annul termination of petitioner's employment as probationary police officer following positive hair sample drug test for cocaine, negative second hair drug analysis proffered by petitioner was of minimal probative value where it was not certified and was unsupported by evidence documenting test procedures, controls or chain of custody of hair sample used. Brown v City of New York, 250 A.D.2d 546, 673 N.Y.S.2d 643, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6159 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 810, 680 N.Y.S.2d 54, 702 N.E.2d 839, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 3204 (N.Y. 1998).

67. —Evidence limited to that which employee had opportunity to hear and explain

Where director of school for mentally retarded, in rendering account of his decision to discharge permanent employee who had been accused of sexual relations with a school resident, acknowledged that he had relied on matters not appearing in record of hearing at which hearing officer had concluded that employee was innocent of charge, director's action violated general proposition that it is not proper for an administrative agency to base an adjudicatory decision on evidence or information outside the record, where right to a hearing exists. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

Evidence which may be considered in determining whether or not the removal of a civil service employee is supported by "substantial evidence" is limited to that with which the employee was confronted at the hearing and had an opportunity to deny or explain. Lindquist v Swanson, 273 A.D. 802, 76 N.Y.S.2d 431, 1947 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3191 (N.Y. App. Div. 1947), reh'g denied, 273 A.D. 941, 78 N.Y.S.2d 557, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5370 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

City civil service commission acted in excess of its authority by soliciting information and evidence not included in record of disciplinary proceeding. DeMuro v Board of Educ., 219 A.D.2d 716, 631 N.Y.S.2d 749, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9538 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

68. —Admissibility of evidence

While generally all relevant, material, and reliable evidence which will contribute to an informed result should be admissible in disciplinary proceedings, no essential element of a fair trial can be dispensed with, unless waived, without rendering administrative determination subject to annulment upon review. Simpson v Wolansky, 38 N.Y.2d 391, 380 N.Y.S.2d 630, 343 N.E.2d 274, 1975 N.Y. LEXIS 2359 (N.Y. 1975).

It was not such an abuse of discretion as to be "purely arbitrary" for city civil service commission, in considering city fire captain's appeal from penalty imposed by city manager in disciplinary proceeding, to consider fact that fire captain had been acquitted of criminal charges which arose out of the same incident as led to the disciplinary proceeding. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

69. Standard of proof

Although standard of proof necessary to support finding of guilt in a civil service employee disciplinary proceeding is clearly different from standard applicable in criminal proceeding, acquittal on criminal charges which arose out of same incident as led to disciplinary charges is some evidence as to seriousness of conduct complained of, even though such acquittal cannot be conclusive against determination of guilt on disciplinary charges. City Council of Watertown v Carbone, 54 A.D.2d 461, 389 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14065 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1976).

70. Representation of parties by counsel

The statute (Civil Practice Act § 1296) providing that one of the questions to be determined in an article 78 proceeding is whether any rule of law has been violated to prejudice of petitioner, does not change the fundamental rule that any deprivation of the right to counsel and to a fair trial is, in itself, a basis for annulment of the determination resulting therefrom. Fusco v Moses, 304 N.Y. 424, 107 N.E.2d 581, 304 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 424, 1952 N.Y. LEXIS 757 (N.Y. 1952).

I. Generally

1. Power of removal, generally

Every public officer having power of appointment has power of removal, unrestricted except for express restrictions on that power imposed by this section consistent with N. Y. Const., Art V, § 9. 1913 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 65.

The appointment of a village attorney is a mayor's appointment, subject only to approval by the board of trustees, but the village mayor alone has the power to remove the village attorney and this power is not subject to consent or approval by the board of trustees. 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 6 (informal).

In the absence of a local regulation mandating retirement of public employees at age 70, the assistant chief of the City of Fulton fire department cannot be summarily retired, terminated or discharged upon his reaching age 70, and may be removed from his position only upon a showing of incompetence or misconduct under sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 83-70.

2. Effect of collective bargaining provisions

A physician employed by a county hospital who occupies a position in the competitive class of the civil service may be removed or disciplined only in accordance with the provisions of sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law, or in accordance with an alternate procedure provided by an agreement between the employees' union and management under the Taylor Law. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Aug 26 (Informal).

A town board may establish the specific responsibilities of town constables. The board may set the conditions and procedures for the dismissal or discipline of town constables, subject to the possible applicability of provisions of the Civil Service Law and collective bargaining agreements negotiated under the Taylor Law. 1982 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept. 7 (informal).

3. Waiver of rights

An agreement between a local government and an employee organization under the Taylor Law may include provisions on discipline and removal that supplement, modify or replace sections 75 and 76 of the Civil Service Law. An employee represented by such an employee organization would, through the organization's assent to the agreement, waive his rights under sections 75 and 76. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec 31.

4. Review rights of particular employees

No right of appeal is granted by this section, to a non-competitive employee of the mental hygiene department. 1941 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct. 24.

5. Miscellaneous

The State is an employer subject to the Human Rights Law. The Commissioner of Human Rights may award compensatory damages in cases of discrimination by the State as employer. A person awarded damages does not have to sue in the Court of Claims in order to enforce the award. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 28 (formal).

Deputy sheriffs who are in the competitive class of the civil service are not required to file successive oaths of office subsequent to each election of a sheriff. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-2.

9. —Entitlement to pay for period of suspension exceeding 30 days, generally

10. — —Particular non-NYC cases

Where a county highway superintendent has suspended a highway employee without pay, pending a civil service hearing, the county board may not provide for payment of salary to such employee during the first 30 days of such suspension, but it must pay him his salary for any period in excess of 30 days. 1976 Op St Compt File #351.

11. —Reinstatement and back pay following suspension

12. — —Back pay offset for other earnings

Compensation earned by a police officer from other employment while under suspension pending departmental hearings, must be deducted from his police pay upon reinstatement. 1953 Op St Compt File #6028.

Where village policemen have been suspended pending a hearing on charges, the village may deduct from wages paid to them, subsequent to the initial thirty day suspension period, such amounts as they earn in outside employment. 1975 Op St Compt File #154.

13. Dismissal on particular grounds, generally

14. —Medical condition; physical or mental

85-c. Additional credits allowed the children and siblings of emergency medical technicians and paramedics killed in the line of duty

HISTORY:
Add, L 1958, ch 790, § 1, eff April 1, 1959; L 2018, ch 476, § 1, effective December 28, 2018.

§ 85-a. Additional credits allowed children and siblings of firefighters, police officers, emergency medical technicians and paramedics killed in the line of duty

1. Additional credit authorized. Additional credits shall be allowed children and siblings of firefighters, police officers, emergency medical technicians and paramedics killed in the line of duty, as "child" and "sibling" in this section in competitive examinations for original appointment. (a) On all eligible lists resulting from competitive examinations, the names of eligible persons shall be entered in the order of their respective final earned ratings on examinations, with the name of the eligible person with the highest final earned ratings at the head of such list, provided, however, that for the purpose of determining final earned ratings, children and siblings of firefighters, police officers, emergency medical technicians and paramedics killed in the line of duty shall be entitled to receive an additional ten points in a competitive examination for original appointment in the same municipality in which his or her parent or sibling has served. For the purposes of this paragraph, a police officer or firefighter shall be deemed to have "served" in a municipality if he or she was employed by, or worked primarily in, that municipality.

(b) Such additional credit shall be added to the final earned rating of such child or sibling, as the case may be, after he or she has qualified in the competitive examination and shall be granted only at the time of establishment of the resulting eligible list.

2. Application for additional credit; proof of eligibility; establishment of eligible list. Any candidate, believing himself or herself entitled to additional credit in a competitive examination as provided in this section, may make application for such additional credit at any time between the date of his or her application for examination and the date of the establishment of the resulting eligible list. Such candidates shall be allowed a period of not less than two months from the date of the filing of his or her application for examination in which to establish by appropriate documentary proof his or her eligibility to receive additional credit under this section. At any time after two months have elapsed since the final date for filing applications for a competitive examination for original appointment, the eligible list resulting from such examination may be established, notwithstanding the fact that a child or sibling who has applied for additional credit has failed to establish his or her eligibility to receive such additional credit. A candidate who fails to establish, by appropriate documentary proof, his or her eligibility to receive additional credit by the time an eligible list is established shall not thereafter be granted additional credit on such eligible list.

3. Use of additional credit. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this subdivision, no person who has received a permanent original appointment in the civil service of the state or of any city or civil division thereof from an eligible list on which he or she was allowed the additional credit granted by this section as a child or sibling, shall thereafter be entitled to any additional credit under this section as a child or sibling.

(b) Where, at the time of establishment of an eligible list, the position of a child or sibling on such list has not been affected by the addition of credits granted under this section, the appointment of such child or sibling from such eligible list shall not be deemed to have been made from an eligible list on which he or she was allowed the additional credit granted by this section.

(c) If, at the time of appointment from an eligible list, a child or sibling is in the same relative standing among the eligible persons who are willing to accept appointment as if he or she had not been granted the additional credits as provided by this section, his or her appointment from such eligible persons shall not be deemed to have been made from an eligible list on which he or she was allowed such additional credits.

(d) Where a child or sibling has been originally appointed from an eligible list on which he or she was allowed such additional credit, but such appointment is thereafter terminated either at the end of the probationary term or by resignation at or before the end of the probationary term, he or she shall not be deemed to have been appointed, as the case may be, from an eligible list on which he or she is allowed additional credit, and such appointment shall not affect his or her eligibility for additional credit in other examinations.

4. Withdrawal of application; election to relinquish additional credit. An application for additional credit in a competitive examination under this section may be withdrawn by the applicant at any time prior to the establishment of the resulting eligible list. At any time during the term of existence of an eligible list resulting from a competitive examination in which a child or sibling has received the additional credit granted by this section, such child or sibling may elect, prior to permanent original appointment, to relinquish the additional credit theretofore granted to him or her and accept the lower position on such eligible list to which he or she would otherwise have been entitled; provided, however, that such election shall thereafter be irrevocable. Such election shall be in writing and signed by the child or sibling, and transmitted to the department or the appropriate municipal civil service commission.

5. Roster. The department and each municipal commission shall establish and maintain in its office a roster of all such children or siblings appointed as a result of additional credits granted by this section to positions under its jurisdiction. The appointment of a child or sibling as a result of additional credits shall be void if such child or sibling, prior to such appointment, had been appointed as a result of additional credits granted by this section.

1. The right given a veteran by this section to be transferred to such other position as he may be fit to fill if his job is abolished is not a right to preference to appointment in a different position but a right of tenure and there is no violation of the constitutional requirements regarding civil service appointment and promotion. Determination by Superintendent of State Police that state park police officer was unfit for service as state trooper did not violate CLS Civ S §§ 80, 81 or 86, which apply when existing position is abolished, since officer was entitled to retain his current position under authority of office of Parks and Recreation. Zigarelli v New York State Police, 126 A.D.2d 822, 510 N.Y.S.2d 740, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 41962 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 69 N.Y.2d 611, 517 N.Y.S.2d 1026, 511 N.E.2d 85, 1987 N.Y. A veteran employed as a civil servant was entitled to tenure benefits accorded to qualified war veterans under Civ S Law §§ 75, 86, even though he was not a resident of the state at the time he entered into military service, since although Civ S Law § 85 includes a residency requirement in its definition of veteran, the incorporation of the definition of veteran in § 85 into § 86 was meant only to include the reference in § 85 to veterans who had served in time of war. A position created by the city council and made subject to the civil service law cannot be abolished by the city commissioner of public works, and the holder of such position is entitled to reinstatement since he can be removed only in accordance with the provisions of this section. O'Rourke v Graul, 261 A.D. 87, 24 N.Y.S.2d 819, 1941 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7257 (N.Y. App. Div.), aff'd, 285 N.Y. 755, 34 N.E.2d 908, 285 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 755, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1743 (N.Y. 1941).

The action of the commissioner of the department of water supply, in reducing the number of employees in the department in the interest of economy will not be interfered with by the court. People ex rel. Osterhout v Williams, 154 N.Y.S. 331, 91 Misc. 95, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 776 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1915), aff'd, 173 A.D. 981, 158 N.Y.S. 1127, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6371 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Relator is entitled to an alternative writ of mandamus to determine whether the position held by him became unnecessary or was abolished for reasons of economy. In re Delahunt, 160 N.Y.S. 900, 96 Misc. 548, 1916 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1134 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1916).

3. —Good faith requirement

A civil service employee who was suspended and whose name was placed on a preferred list pursuant to § 31, ostensibly for reasons of economy, is entitled to reinstatement if his position was not in fact abolished but rather was filled by civil service employees transferred from other departments. Schottke v Jeacock, 295 N.Y. 812, 66 N.E.2d 586, 295 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 812, 1946 N.Y. LEXIS 974 (N.Y. 1946).

Where it is admitted that the state superintendent of public works, by abolishing the position of one of three reservoir tenders and placing his duties upon the other two employees, saved $300 a year to the state, the good faith of superintendent in abolishing the position is established, and indicates that the discharge of the employee was not made because of political bias. Edkins v Wotherspoon, 173 A.D. 330, 158 N.Y.S. 710, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5996 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Petitioner, a disabled veteran, is not entitled to a peremptory order of mandamus requiring the defendant board of supervisors to reinstate him to the position of assistant engineer, where it appears that the position has been abolished and no appropriation to cover the salary has been made; that the duties which he formerly performed have been absorbed by an employee holding the position of secretary, and there is no claim that the board acted in bad faith. Alexander v McLaughlin, 246 A.D. 189, 285 N.Y.S. 261, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8690 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

Where there is an issue as to the good faith of the state superintendent of public buildings in abolishing the position of paymaster in the department of public buildings, held by a veteran fireman, an alternative writ of mandamus may properly be granted on application of the veteran. Where a position held by a veteran fireman is abolished in bad faith and not in the interest of economy, and fireman is entitled to be restored; if the position is abolished in good faith and the duties created are similar to those of the position abolished, the veteran is entitled to transfer to such position. In re Hay, 130 N.Y.S. 337, 72 Misc. 434, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 416 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

Petitioner, a veteran entitled to tenure benefits under Civ S Law §§ 75, 86 on abolishment of his job as a county Director of Economic Development and Planning, was not entitled to be transferred to the newly created position of Director of Planning and Industrial Development, since the new position was not a "similar position" in that it required duties over and above those performed by petitioner, nor was petitioner entitled to a transfer to the "similar" vacant position of chief planner, since that position was not funded; however, petitioner was entitled to a trial on his claim that his position was abolished for the "sole purpose" of hiring another to perform substantially the same work in violation of Civ S Law § 75. Mathiasen v Niagara County Legislature, 126 Misc. 2d 937, 484 N.Y.S.2d 397, 1984 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3730 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1984).

4. Reclassification of positions

Tenure of office of New York City employee in exempt class is not affected by reclassification of his position as competitive; he is transferred without examination. Fornara v Schroeder, 261 N.Y. 363, 185 N.E. 498, 261 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 363, 1933 N.Y. LEXIS 1295 (N.Y. 1933).

Where, by order of the civil service commission, with the approval of the governor, a position which had been in the exempt class, was reclassified and placed in competitive class, the incumbent became entitled to the same security of tenure he would have had if he had been appointed after a competitive examination. Rohr v Kenngott, 288 N.Y. 97, 41 N.E.2d 905, 288 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 97, 1942 N.Y. LEXIS 1061 (N.Y. 1942).

An employee of New York City, cannot be deprived of the position to which he has been appointed by a subsequent resolution of the municipal civil service commission which transfers his position to the competitive class. Wolfson v Cruise, 15 N.Y.S.2d 787, 172 Misc. 577, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2452 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 258 A.D. 790, 15 N.Y.S.2d 788, 1939 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6934 (N.Y. App. Div. 1939).

5. Transfers

Under this section, an honorably discharged soldier of U. S. who served in the war of the rebellion, the war with Spain or the World War, may not be removed from a civil service position in this state except for incompetency or misconduct. If his work be no longer needed in the department to which he had been appointed, he must be transferred to any branch of civil service for duty in such position as he may be able to fill. Dorsa v Forbes, 270 N.Y. 443, 1 N.E.2d 841, 270 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 443, 1936 N.Y. LEXIS 1567 (N.Y. 1936).

The right of a veteran, whose position in the public service has been abolished, to be transferred to any branch of the service for duty in such position as he may be able to fill, receiving the same compensation therefor, is not conditioned upon the immediate existence of a vacancy but continues for a reasonable time after it accrues. McNamara v Holling, 282 N.Y. 109, 25 N.E.2d 867, 282 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 109, 1940 N.Y. LEXIS 980 (N.Y. 1940).

Under this section a veteran should have been transferred to any vacant position which he was fit to fill that existed at time the office which he occupied was abolished. White v Harrell, 236 A.D. 206, 259 N.Y.S. 1, 1932 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5934 (N.Y. App. Div. 1932).

This section must be read in connection with §§ 14 and 16 and the position of fireman is not "a similar position," within the meaning of this section to that of pumping engineer. In re Owens, 137 N.Y.S. 308, 76 Misc. 610, 1912 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 897 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1912).

All that a veteran who loses his position through its abolishment can demand, under this section, is that he shall not be discharged from public service if there is in any branch of that service a vacant position with equal emolument which he is qualified to fill. Pettis v Brearton, 261 N.Y.S. 55, 145 Misc. 913, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1668 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

When the duty is imposed by this section upon the commissioner to transfer a veteran to another position and he has neglected, or refused, to perform that duty, the burden is upon the veteran to establish the commissioner's failure, by showing that a particular position did exist and that he is fitted to fill it. Bentley v Jeacock, 14 N.Y.S.2d 366, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2229 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

6. —Compensation

An honorably discharged soldier of U. S., whose position in a municipal department has been abolished for economic reasons, and who is thereafter transferred at his own request to a different position carrying a lower emolument, is not entitled under this section to receive for his services in second position the emolument carried by the original position. Pettis v Brearton, 261 N.Y.S. 55, 145 Misc. 913, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1668 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

Under this section a veteran was entitled only to be offered any position having the same or similar requirements for entrance as that from which he was discharged and was not entitled also to receive the same salary he had received at the time he was separated from service. Brizzolara v McKenzie, 2 N.Y.S.2d 455, 166 Misc. 282, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1187 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937), modified, 253 A.D. 886, 2 N.Y.S.2d 460, 1938 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9093 (N.Y. App. Div. 1938).

A world war veteran who, on reorganization made in district attorney's office, was placed as a messenger at $840 per annum, whereas he previously held the position of process server at $2,940 per annum, is entitled to a hearing on his rights, since the phrase "receiving the same compensation therefor," as used in this section, is somewhat obscure and there is a contention that the veteran is filling a position of lower rank and emolument. Meenagh v Dewey, 11 N.Y.S.2d 858, 9 N.Y.S.2d 97, 170 Misc. 192, 1938 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2270 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1938), rev'd, 286 N.Y. 292, 36 N.E.2d 211, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 292, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1441 (N.Y. 1941).

7. —Necessity of demand for transfer

If veteran or exempt volunteer fireman terminated from labor class position has found other employment because no vacancy existed in similar position at time of termination, employee must demand transfer to such similar position if it opens up after he has found other employment to be entitled to such position. Veterans or exempt volunteer firemen were not to be terminated when their labor class positions were abolished if there were vacancies open in similar positions; and such employees had no duty to demand transfer upon termination, but it was duty of persons clothed with responsibility of appointment to effectuate such transfer. Jones v Carey, 55 A.D.2d 260, 389 N.Y.S.2d 921, 1976 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14559 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1976).

8. —Exempt or noncompetitive positions

A veteran whose position has been abolished cannot compel his appointment to a vacancy in a noncompetitive position, since such a position must be filled on the basis of personal qualities and fitness is a matter for the determination of the department head, who has been given a broad discretion. A veteran whose civil service job has been abolished is entitled under this section to appointment in such other vacancy as he may be fitted to fill, even though the abolished position was in the exempt class and the veteran was appointed thereto without an examination. Meenagh v Dewey, 286 N.Y. 292, 36 N.E.2d 211, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 292, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1441 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 286 N.Y. 707, 37 N.E.2d 147, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 707, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. 1941).

A war veteran is not entitled to appointment to the position of a secretary assistant to the city manager under this section, since said position is confidential in nature and should be deemed in the exempt class. Mancuso v Harrell, 296 N.Y.S. 723, 163 Misc. 270, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1324 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

9. —Newly created positions

A veteran whose position is abolished must be appointed under this section to a newly created position embracing the same duties as those formerly performed by the veteran. Powers v Dahl, 219 N.Y. 578, 114 N.E. 1079, 219 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 578, 1916 N.Y. LEXIS 904 (N.Y. 1916).

A world war veteran, discharged from his position in the conservation department bureau of state publicity because of a reduction in the bureau's appropriation, is entitled to maintain an action under the section to compel his transfer to an allegedly similar position available in a newly created publicity bureau in the division of commerce. Thacher v Catherwood, 263 A.D. 484, 33 N.Y.S.2d 503, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6922 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

In an Article 78 proceeding seeking a judgment reinstating petitioners to their former employment positions with the New York Transit Authority or transfers to similar positions with back pay and benefits, petitioners would be entitled to transfers where the newly created position of special investigator with the Authority is a "similar position" to that of special inspector, within the meaning of Civ S Law § 86 and the respondent violated such section by failing to transfer petitioners, all veterans of the armed forces, to vacancies which existed in the new title at the time of the abolition of the 23 special inspector positions held by petitioners. The specifications for each job title indicated essentially similar duties including investigation of employee misconduct or violation of rules, preparation of reports, and testifying at hearings. Laverpool v New York City Transit Authority, 114 Misc. 2d 1051, 453 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3610 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

10. —Qualifications

Where an honorably-discharged veteran held the position of deputy sealer of weights and measures, which position was abolished, and vacancies thereafter occurred in the position of assistant deputy assessor, the veteran's fitness to fill the position of assistant deputy assessor could not be attested by the fact that his name was on an expired civil service list for a similar position, since the expired list was without significance, and inasmuch as the position formerly held and the position sought were essentially different, the veteran could not be shifted from one position to the other without violation of the provisions of N. Y. Const., Art. V, § 6. McNamara v Holling, 282 N.Y. 109, 25 N.E.2d 867, 282 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 109, 1940 N.Y. LEXIS 980 (N.Y. 1940).

An honorably-discharged soldier whose position has been abolished, though entitled to be transferred to any branch of the civil service for duty in such position as he may be fitted to fill, is not entitled to transfer or appointment to such a position unless, in the manner authorized by the constitution, he has shown his fitness to fill the position. A veteran appointed to the position of process server has no right to be transferred to a new position upon the abolition of his former job, which involves duties different than those appropriate to the title of process server. An honorably-discharged soldier, appointed to a position under a given title, regardless of whether such position was in the exempt or in the competitive class, has no right to be transferred to a new position which involves duties different from those which the honorably-discharged soldier could lawfully perform under his original appointment, and, therefore, evidence that the incumbent of a position is fitted by experience and training to perform duties not appropriate to the title of his position would not provide ground for sanctioning the employment of the incumbent in such duties. A veteran appointed to the position of process server has no right under this section upon abolition of his position to compel his appointment to a new position on the ground that he is fitted for the new job because while serving as process server he performed duties "far beyond and not related" to that title but rather carried out duties similar to those of the new position. Meenagh v Dewey, 286 N.Y. 292, 36 N.E.2d 211, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 292, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 1441 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 286 N.Y. 707, 37 N.E.2d 147, 286 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 707, 1941 N.Y. LEXIS 2272 (N.Y. 1941).

County did not violate CLS Civ S § 86 by refusing to transfer veterans, whose positions as Senior Motor Equipment Operator I had been abolished, to "similar position" of Laborer since latter position was entry level requiring only willingness "to perform routine manual work" and necessary physical capabilities, whereas motor equipment operator was one of highest graded positions requiring "knowledge of the operation of tractors, power shovels, cranes and other automotive equipment...mechanical aptitude [and] ability to operate complex automotive equipment." Bartholomew v Columbia County, 191 A.D.2d 881, 594 N.Y.S.2d 878, 1993 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2373 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1993).

Relator, an honorably discharged veteran, who, having passed the required examination was certified from an eligible list and appointed engineer at a pumping station of a municipal water plant, was not entitled under this section to a transfer to the position of fireman without having first passed the examination therefor. In re Owens, 137 N.Y.S. 308, 76 Misc. 610, 1912 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 897 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1912).

An employee in classified civil service, an honorably discharged veteran, who was removed on abolition of his position for reasons of economy, is not entitled, under this section, to be transferred to a vacancy in a permanent position which he is not in fact fitted to fill, though he is as well qualified as the person provisionally appointed thereto. Friedman v Delaney, 263 N.Y.S. 502, 147 Misc. 154, 1933 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1041 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1933), aff'd, 241 A.D. 711, 269 N.Y.S. 995, 1934 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9065 (N.Y. App. Div. 1934).

A world war veteran, whose position was abolished by the repeal of an ordinance creating said position, is not entitled to order of peremptory mandamus directing his appointment, under this section to the position of assessor, which was vacant, where there is an issue presented as to his qualifications for said position. Mancuso v Harrell, 296 N.Y.S. 723, 163 Misc. 270, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1324 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

11. —Existance of vacancy

Although this section requires that upon abolishment of a place or position in civil service, held by an honorably-discharged soldier, sailor or marine, he "shall be transferred to any branch of said service for duty in such position as he may be fitted to fill, receiving same compensation therefor," there must be another position vacant, to entitle him to a transfer and the burden of proving that a vacancy in another position exists, which he is competent to fill, rests upon him. A public official is not obliged to discharge another employee in order to open a position for a veteran. Clancy v Halleran, 263 N.Y. 258, 188 N.E. 746, 263 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 258, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 1269 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 264 N.Y. 670, 191 N.E. 618, 264 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 670, 1934 N.Y. LEXIS 1704 (N.Y. 1934).

Although this section requires a veteran employee to be transferred for duty in such position as he may be fitted to fill, there must be another position vacant to entitle him to transfer, and a public official is not obliged to discharge other employees to open a position for a veteran. Edkins v Wotherspoon, 173 A.D. 330, 158 N.Y.S. 710, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5996 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

Where a veteran of U. S. navy had been demoted from his position as lieutenant in the police department by reason of abolition of the position, he was entitled to be transferred to a vacancy occurring in the position of lieutenant. Tierney v Wynne, 209 A.D. 401, 204 N.Y.S. 836, 1924 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8642 (N.Y. App. Div. 1924).

A veteran, a civil service employee, whose particular position in the county clerk's office, bearing the title of "laborer" was abolished by amendment to law, could not require that the county clerk discharge another laborer in his office and retain the veteran, since a public official is not obliged to discharge other employees to open a position for veterans. Pielsticker v Livoti, 24 N.Y.S.2d 195, 175 Misc. 592, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2459 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 1043, 24 N.Y.S.2d 1016, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5992 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

An exempt volunteer fireman, whose position is abolished for reasons of economy, has the right to be appointed to any vacancy existing within a reasonable time after he makes demand therefor, but the village employing him is not required to discharge other employees in order that a vacancy be created. Loefler v Power, 96 N.Y.S.2d 578, 198 Misc. 585, 1950 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1572 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1950).

12. Retention and reinstatement

This section gives a veteran no right to be retained in preference to non-veterans doing the same work when his position is abolished for reasons of economy. Devins v Sayer, 233 N.Y. 690, 135 N.E. 972, 233 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 690, 1922 N.Y. LEXIS 1118 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 234 N.Y. 531, 138 N.E. 434, 234 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 531, 1922 N.Y. LEXIS 698 (N.Y. 1922).

A nondisabled veteran is not given an implied right of preference in retention by $22. O'Donnell v Sinnott, 266 A.D. 176, 41 N.Y.S.2d 674, 1943 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3514 (N.Y. App. Div. 1943), app. dismissed, 301 N.Y. 608, 93 N.E.2d 497, 301 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 608, 1950 N.Y. LEXIS 937 (N.Y. 1950).

Petitioners are not entitled to a peremptory mandamus order to compel their reinstatement to the position of engineer and bridge operator in the service of Buffalo, on the ground that they are honorably discharged soldiers, where it appears that they were part of a group of the seven youngest bridge tenders in point of service who were relieved of their positions on completion of a new bridge. Franklin v Rathmann, 258 N.Y.S. 351, 143 Misc. 786, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1446 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

An honorably discharged soldier of the World War is entitled to a peremptory order of mandamus reinstating him as a laborer in employ of the superintendent of highways where superintendent discharged him because, on account of the general business depression, he gave preference to married over single men, and petitioner is unmarried. Ziolkowski v Holstein, 257 N.Y.S. 559, 143 Misc. 819, 1932 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1104 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1932).

This section does not require the retention of veterans in case of lay-offs in preference to others having seniority in service. Smith v Board of Education, 36 N.Y.S.2d 968, 178 Misc. 988, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1930 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 917, 39 N.Y.S.2d 352, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6506 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

13. —Formation of preferred list for reinstatement

This section does not give veterans preference in the forumulation of a preferred list after the suspension of employees for reasons of economy. Smith v Board of Education, 36 N.Y.S.2d 968, 178 Misc. 988, 1942 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1930 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 265 A.D. 917, 39 N.Y.S.2d 352, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6506 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

A veteran whose position was abolished for reasons of economy and who failed to show the existence of a vacant position to which he could be transferred, was only entitled to have his name placed on the preferred list. Bateman v Fullen, 28 N.Y.S.2d 230, 1941 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1878 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1941).

14. Firemen

While there is nothing in this law which prevents abolishment of a position in the civil service of the state held by a veteran fireman who has properly and satisfactorily discharged his duties, he must be provided with a similar position. In re Hay, 130 N.Y.S. 337, 72 Misc. 434, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 416 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

The provisions of this section are to be taken as intending service in a volunteer fire department for five consecutive years, and do not protect an engineer of a steam fire engine employed by board of trustees of a village, where the employment or position is not a position created by statute, but is created by the board, and the term of employment is at the pleasure of the board. Cooper v Paris, 130 N.Y.S. 1043, 73 Misc. 244, 1911 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 505 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1911).

A volunteer fireman is in "the public service" and a public servant, despite the fact that he receives no salary, in view of the fact that he is entitled to certain statutory benefits and exemptions, and an applicant to membership in a volunteer fire company may not be denied employment solely on racial grounds. Everett v Riverside Hose Co., 261 F. Supp. 463, 1966 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10491 (S.D.N.Y. 1966).

15. —Preference in retention; particular applications

Where the number of laborers in the department of water supply of New York city was reduced on account of a lack of appropriations, a volunteer fireman is not entitled to be retained in preference to other laborers, but where it appears that, at the time of the reduction, two other city employees, under the same appropriation were demoted from another department, reclassified as laborers and retained as such, a laborer is entitled to preference and should be reinstated. People ex rel. Davison v Williams, 213 N.Y. 130, 107 N.E. 49, 213 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 130, 1914 N.Y. LEXIS 739 (N.Y. 1914).

A veteran volunteer fireman holding the position of assistant engineer in the department of water supply of New York city, was not entitled, upon a reduction of the force, to be retained until all non-veterans holding positions similar to his had been dismissed. People ex rel. Osterhout v Williams, 154 N.Y.S. 331, 91 Misc. 95, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 776 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1915), aff'd, 173 A.D. 981, 158 N.Y.S. 1127, 1916 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6371 (N.Y. App. Div. 1916).

A veteran fireman is not entitled to be retained in the service of New York city as a captain in department of docks and ferries in preference to others who are neither veterans nor firemen when it becomes necessary to reduce the number of persons in that position. Randolph v Smith, 155 N.Y.S. 991, 92 Misc. 291, 1915 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 907 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1915).

16. —Hearing prior to discharge

Where there is no proof that a city employee had, upon his dismissal May 15, 1935, qualified as an exempt volunteer fireman under Gen. Mun. Law, § 200, he cannot claim the benefits of this section, and his discharge without a hearing was legal. Brown v Stephan, 245 A.D. 552, 284 N.Y.S. 403, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10355 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

A village employee dismissed April 2, 1935, was entitled to hearing under this section where he had qualified as an exempt volunteer fireman under Mem. Corp. Law, § 114, although he had not so qualified under Gen. Mun. Law, § 200. Brown v Stephan, 245 A.D. 552, 284 N.Y.S. 403, 1935 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10355 (N.Y. App. Div. 1935).

The right to a hearing given by this section does not extend to a volunteer fireman who has not served the required five-year period under Gen. Mun. Law, § 200, or who is not a member of a fire company subject to Mem. Corp. Law, § 114. Mahan v Bacon, 277 N.Y.S. 390, 154 Misc. 291, 1934 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2008 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1934), aff'd, 277 N.Y.S. 393, 154 Misc. 535, 1935 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 958 (N.Y. App. Term 1935).

17. Particular positions

A veteran whose position as cashier was abolished has no right under this section to compel his transfer to a similar position in a new office, since the position of cashier is expressly exempted from the scope of subdiv. 1 of this section. Walsh v Marsh, 292 N.Y. 515, 54 N.E.2d 204, 292 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 515, 1944 N.Y. LEXIS 1678 (N.Y. 1944).

The office of superintendent of water works of Binghamton is not a "position" within the meaning of this section. People ex rel. Johnson v La Roche, 181 N.Y.S. 611, 111 Misc. 465, 1920 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1327 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1920).

The superintendent of light and water held a "position" within the meaning of this section, where village trustees administered the affairs of both departments, under Vil. Law, § 89. Naughton v Boyle, 223 N.Y.S. 432, 129 Misc. 867, 1927 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 960 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1927).

The office of assessor is not a subordinate one in the city government of Schenectady, and a change in the form of city government to the city manager plan has not effected a change in the function of such office, entitling a war veteran whose position was abolished to appointment under this section. Mancuso v Harrell, 296 N.Y.S. 723, 163 Misc. 270, 1937 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1324 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1937).

ARTICLE XI Health Benefits for State and Retired State Employees

Section
163. Eligibility for benefits

HISTORY:

Formerly Art VII, add, L 1956, ch 461, § 1; renumbered Art XI, L 1958, ch 790, § 6, eff April 1, 1959; L 2010, ch 56, § 14 (Part T), eff June 22, 2010, deemed eff on and after April 1, 2010.

§ 163. Eligibility for benefits

1. All persons in the service of the state, whether elected, appointed or employed, who elect to participate in such health benefit plan shall be eligible to participate therein, provided, however, that the president may adopt such regulations as he or she may deem appropriate excluding temporary, part time or intermittent employment.

2. The contract or contracts shall provide for health benefits for retired employees of the state and of the state colleges of agriculture, home economics, industrial labor relations and veterinary medicine, the state agricultural experiment station at Geneva, and any other institution or agency under the management and control of Cornell university as the representative of the board of trustees of the state university of New York, and the state college of ceramics under the management and control of Alfred university as the representative of the board of trustees of the state university of New York, and their spouses and dependent children as defined by the regulations of the president, on such terms as the president may deem appropriate, and the president may authorize the inclusion in the plan of the employees and retired employees of public authorities, public benefit corporations, school districts, special districts, district corporations, municipal corporations excluding active employees and retired employees of cities having a population of one million or more inhabitants whose compensation is or was before retirement paid out of the city treasury, or other appropriate agencies, subdivisions or quasi-public organizations of the state, including active members of volunteer fire and volunteer ambulance companies serving one or more municipal corporations pursuant to subdivision seven of section ninety-two-a of the general municipal law, and their spouses and dependent children as defined by the regulations of the president. Any such corporation, district, agency or organization electing to participate in the plan shall be required to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of administration of the plan in such amounts and at such times as determined and fixed by the president. All amounts payable for such expenses of administration shall be paid to the commissioner of taxation and finance and shall be applied to the reimbursement of funds previously advanced for such purposes. Neither the state nor any other participant in the plan shall be charged with the particular experience attributable to the employees of the participant, and all dividends or retroactive rate credits shall be distributed pro-rata based upon the number of employees of such participant covered by the plan.

3. The president shall adopt regulations prescribing the conditions under which an employee or retired employee may elect to participate in or withdraw from the plan. Such regulations may also prescribe conditions under which an employee whose service terminates and who is entitled to a vested retirement allowance may continue to participate in the plan; such condition shall include a requirement that such person pay the full cost of such coverage following termination of his employment and prior to commencement of the payment of his retirement allowance, unless such person becomes currently entitled to, but defers receipt of, a retirement allowance or pension from a retirement or pension plan or system administered and operated by the state of New York, or a civil division thereof, including the New York state teachers' retirement system and the optional retirement programs established under article three, part V, and article eight-B of the education law.

4. Any public authority, public benefit corporation, school district, special district, district corporation, municipal corporation, or other agency, subdivision or quasi-public organization of the state, whose employees and retired employees are authorized to be included in the plan as provided by subdivision two, may elect to participate in such plan. Any such election shall be exercised by the adoption of a resolution by its governing body and, in the case of any municipal corporation where a resolution of its governing body is required by law to be approved by any other body or officer, such resolution shall also be approved by such other body or officer. Any such election may be made with respect to inclusion in the plan of both its employees and its retired employees at the same time, or may be made only with respect to its employees alone and at another time with respect to its retired employees. Any such authority, corporation, district, agency, subdivision or organization making such election shall become a participating employer under such plan, subject to and in accordance with the regulations of the president relating thereto.

5. The chief fiscal officer of any such participating employer shall be authorized to deduct from the wages or salary paid to its employees who are participants in such health benefit plan the sums required to be paid by them under such plan. Each such participating employer is authorized to appropriate such sums as are required to be paid by it as its share in connection with the operation of such plan.

6. The president shall have power and authority to make such inspection of the employment and payroll records of any participating employer concerning any of its employees who are participants in the health insurance fund as he may deem necessary.

7. For purposes of eligibility for participation in the health benefit plan no person shall be deemed to be a state officer or employee or to be in the service of the state unless his salary or compensation is paid directly by the state, and no person shall be deemed to be a retired officer or employee of the state unless his salary or compensation immediately preceding his retirement was paid directly by the state; provided, however, that all active and retired justices, judges, officers and employees of the supreme court, surrogate's court, county court, family court, civil court of the city of New York, criminal court of the city of New York and district court in any county, officers and employees of the office of probation for the courts of New York city shall be eligible for participation in the health benefit plan whether or not their salaries are paid or before retirement were paid directly by the state.

8. Notwithstanding any other law, rule or regulation to the contrary, where the state and an employee organization representing state officers and employees who are in positions which are in the collective negotiating unit established by chapter four hundred three of the laws of nineteen hundred eighty-three enter into a collectively negotiated agreement pursuant to article fourteen of this chapter providing that officers and employees who hold positions in such unit on or after April first, nineteen hundred eighty-four and who immediately upon termination from such position are eligible to receive a retirement benefit from either the New York state or New York city retirement systems shall continue to be eligible to participate in the employee benefit fund established by section two hundred six-a of the state finance law, such officers and employees upon retirement shall continue to participate in and receive the benefits of such fund as provided in such collectively negotiated agreement and shall not be eligible to receive and shall not receive from the statewide health benefit plan established pursuant to this article coverage for benefits covered by such employee benefit fund.

Analysis

1. In general
2. Retirees

1. In general

Employees of the Supreme Court in New York City, though their salaries were paid by the city, were nonetheless "persons in the service of the state" under subd. 1 of this section so as to be eligible to participate in the health insurance plan set up for such employees. Shea v Falk, 8 N.Y.2d 1071, 207 N.Y.S.2d 285, 170 N.E.2d 415, 1960 N.Y. LEXIS 950 (N.Y. 1960).

An action involving the recovery from the State Employees Health Insurance Program of a sum which a former member agency alleged was due it as its pro rata share of a distribution of unused insurance premium monies returned to the State by health insurance carriers was properly brought in the Court of Claims, since the language of Civ S Law § 163(2) makes any distribution mandatory on a pro rata basis; the State's argument that the claim should have been dismissed on the basis that the actions of the officer in charge of the distribution were discretionary and reviewable only in an Article 78 proceeding would be unavailing, since the only possible discretion vested in the officer was the timing of distributions to meet adverse fluctuations in premium charges. A former member agency of the State Employees Health Insurance Program would not be able to recover its pro rata share of accumulated dividends which were distributed to the State by health insurance carriers after the agency's withdrawal from the program, since moneys received from the insurance carriers in the form of "dividends, and retroactive rate credits," would have to be, pursuant to Civ S Law § 163(2), used for payment of premiums for all members in the ensuing years, and moneys received by the insurance fund called "income from investments and made by the fund with the monies in its control" would have to be credited to and retained by the fund, pursuant to Civ S Law § 167(6), as a special reserve for adverse premium fluctuations in future years, and in neither instance could cash refunds be distributed to contributing employers. Syracuse Urban Renewal Agency v State, 106 A.D.2d 23, 484 N.Y.S.2d 688, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 42494 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1985).

A member of a board of fire commissioners of a fire district may not be provided health insurance through the state health insurance plan at the expense of the district. 1991 Op St Compt No. 91-44.

2. Retirees

Administrative denial of retirement credit in New York City Employees' Retirement System for time worked by employee for private employer before her appointment to civil service title was not arbitrary where NYC Admin Code § 13-101(3)(a) defines "city-service" as "service, whether appointive or elective, as an officer or employee of the city or state of New York1/4so far as such service is paid for by the city," and thus employee was not city employee before her appointment from open competitive list. Eastman v Department of Citywide Admin. Servs., 266 A.D.2d 53, 698 N.Y.S.2d 456, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11591 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1999).

Former employee of a school district who had been fired for cause but who eventually received a retirement benefit after a settlement had a protected due process interest in receiving a retirement health insurance benefit under N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 163(4), N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 4, § 73.2(a)(3)(iv)-(vii), and Ch. 729, 1994 N.Y. Laws, as amended by Ch. 43, 2008 N.Y. Laws, S. 6650. Jackson v Roslyn Bd. of Educ., 652 F. The amendments made by ch 230 Laws of 1961 in §§ 163 and 168 of the Civil Service Law abrogated the Attorney General's Opinion of January 17, 1961 except as to officers and employees insured under the State Health Insurance Plan on or before April 1, 1961, and the county treasurer is required to pay the employer's share of premium charge for coverage for Supreme and Surrogate Court officers and employees whose salary or compensation is not paid in whole or in part from the State Treasury. 1961 NY Ops Atty Gen Oct 10.

Surrogates and their employees, district attorneys and their assistants, county judges, judges of the Court of General Sessions, county clerks and their employees, justices of the peace and employees of election boards are all "in the service of the state" and, as such, eligible to participate in the State Health Insurance Plan. 1961 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 17.

Village may join State Health Plan during fiscal year although annual budget contained no provision for expense of participating. 1964 Op St Compt File #1097.

Employees of a municipality which participates in the State health insurance program may not, with certain exceptions, participate in such program unless they are employed at least twenty hours per week. There is no such restriction in health insurance programs contracted for by a municipality pursuant to General Municipal Law, § 92-a. 1966 Op St Compt File #156.

Ordinarily, a State employee who enlists or is inducted into the armed services would have no interest in continuing in the State Employees Health Insurance Plan; however, if the employee chooses to do so, the policy and Civil Service Regulations provide that he pay the entire premium during his leave of absence without pay. 1968 Op St Compt File #142.

A school district is authorized to purchase group life, accident or health insurance for its teachers but may not purchase group income protection insurance. Where the salary of a town justice is withheld for his failure to file a monthly report, he may not continue to be covered under the State health insurance plan during the period of such withholding. 1969 Op St Compt File #569.

A fire district may purchase group hospital and medical insurance for its prior retired employees and their dependents. 1972 Op St Compt File #846.

The commissioners of an improvement district which provides health insurance through the State Health Plan may be included in such plan. 1980 Op St Compt File #576.

2. Retirees

A municipality may undertake the payment of the full cost of Blue Cross and Blue Shield health insurance for its retired employees, under a plan entered into pursuant to section 92-a of the General Municipal Law or section 163(2) of the Civil Service Law, provided such retired employees retire subsequent to the adoption of such increased benefit plan. 1969 Op St Compt File #431.

A village board may discontinue its policy of paying the premiums for health insurance covering retired employees and, therefore, terminate such payments upon giving reasonable notice to those employees affected. General Municipal Law § 92-a authorizes expenditure of village funds to pay health insurance premiums for retired employees. A village may cease paying premiums for health insurance providing benefits for retirees who have not as yet retired, although contractual obligations should be taken into consideration. 1978 Op St Compt File #826.

3. Dependents of deceased government employees

Section 92-a of the General Municipal Law does not authorize the provision of health insurance for dependents of deceased retired local government employees. Such coverage is available if a local government participates in the State health insurance plan. A local government, through agreement with an employee organization authorized by the Taylor Law, may provide health insurance coverage to dependents of deceased retired employees. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-19.

Medical, surgical and hospital insurance for surviving dependents of deceased retired municipal employees may not be provided by a municipality which carries such insurance for officers and employees and retired officers and employees and their families under the authority of General Municipal Law, § 92-a. 1975 NY Ops Atty Gen June 6.

ARTICLE XI-B Medical Examination of Public Protection Officials to Detect and Identify the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (Hiv)

Section
178. Medical examination of public protection officials to detect and identify the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV)

HISTORY:

Add, L 2005, ch 390, § 1, eff Jan 29, 2006 (see 2005 note below).

§ 178. Medical examination of public protection officials to detect and identify the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV)

1. Definitions. For the purposes of this section:

(a) "Assailant" means a person arrested and charged with a crime, as defined in section 10.00 of the penal law, or a person committed to, certified to, or placed in the custody of the department of corrections and community supervision or any other correctional facility or county jail.

(b) "Medical examination" includes a physical examination or test performed by a physician or other appropriate health care worker to determine if a public protection official has been exposed to or infected by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). Tests may include, but need not be limited to, the most accurate, sensitive, and timely tests available used for the early identification of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV).

(c) "Public protection official" means any state, county or municipal police officer, peace officer, firefighter, emergency medical technician, corrections officer, or sheriff who is acting under the scope of authority of his or her official position.

(d) "Significant risk of transmission" means the alleged conduct of or actions taken by an assailant or any other action, situation or event that occurs while a public protection official is performing his or her official duties that has created a recognized and significant risk of infection of a public protection official with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), as determined by the commissioner of health, consistent with guidelines, protocols, and findings of the United States centers for disease control and prevention.

2. Examination of public protection officials. (a) Whenever a public protection official has been exposed to a significant risk of transmission of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) while performing his or her official duties, the employer of such official shall provide to such public protection official an appropriate medical examination to determine if such official has been exposed to or infected with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). Such medical examination of a public protection official should be provided within eight hours of notification to the employer or designated agent of the employer of an incident that has created an exposure risk to the official.

(b) Should it be determined by the examining physician or other attending health care worker that a significant risk of transmission has occurred, or should any medical examination conclude that a public protection official has been exposed to or infected with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), then such official shall be offered counseling and additional testing, as appropriate and consistent with treatment guidelines issued by the commissioner of health. Such counseling may include a discussion of the risk of the transmission of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) from the exposure he or she may have experienced and the spectrum of tests commercially available for the prompt and reliable diagnosis of such infection. Information from any such medical examination of a public protection official shall be confidential information pursuant to article twenty-seven-F of the public health law and shall not be made available to the employer without the written authorization of the affected public protection official.

3. Payment for medical examinations. Payment for medical examinations, additional testing, treatment services, counseling services, and any other additional services provided pursuant to subdivision two of this section shall be covered by subdivision three of section ten of the workers' compensation law; provided that any employer which is not required to and does not provide coverage pursuant to subdivision three of section ten of the workers' compensation law may finance such payments for all of the foregoing services provided for by this section from municipal funding sources, including, but not limited to, employee accident and disability benefit programs, workers' compensation funds, health insurance benefits, accident and disability retirement plans, or any other source of funds that the municipal employer deems appropriate.

4. Guidelines. The commissioner of health shall issue guidelines to facilitate the identification of circumstances potentially exposing a public protection official to a significant risk of transmission of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). Such guidelines shall be consistent with criteria accepted by the federal centers for disease control and prevention. Such guidelines shall also provide information regarding related counseling and testing procedures available to such individuals.

5. Confidentiality. Any information gathered pursuant to the provisions of this article which is deemed confidential under any other provision of law shall be treated in a confidential manner and shall not be distributed, be made available or be disclosed by the employer.

ARTICLE I
BILL OF RIGHTS

Section
9. [Right to assemble and petition; divorce; lotteries; pool-selling and gambling; laws to prevent]

History:

§ 9. [Right to assemble and petition; divorce; lotteries; pool-selling and gambling; laws to prevent]

1. No law shall be passed abridging the rights of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government, or any department thereof; nor shall any divorce be granted otherwise than by due judicial proceedings; except as hereinafter provided, no lottery or the sale of lottery tickets, pool-selling, book-making, or any other kind of gambling, except lotteries operated by the state and the sale of lottery tickets in connection therewith as may be authorized and prescribed by the legislature, the net proceeds of which shall be applied exclusively to or in aid or support of education in this state as the legislature may prescribe, except pari-mutuel betting on horse races as may be prescribed by the legislature and from which the state shall derive a reasonable revenue for the support of government, and except casino gambling at no more than seven facilities as authorized and prescribed by the legislature shall hereafter be authorized or allowed within this state; and the legislature shall pass appropriate laws to prevent offenses against any of the provisions of this section.

2. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, any city, town or village within the state may by an approving vote of the majority of the qualified electors in such municipality voting on a proposition therefor submitted at a general or special election authorize, subject to state legislative supervision and control, the conduct of one or both of the following categories of games of chance commonly known as: (a) bingo or lotto, in which prizes are awarded on the basis of designated numbers or symbols on a card conforming to numbers or symbols selected at random; (b) games in which prizes are awarded on the basis of a winning number or numbers, color or colors, or symbol or symbols determined by chance from among those previously selected or played, whether determined as the result of the spinning of a wheel, a drawing or otherwise by chance. If authorized, such games shall be subject to the following restrictions, among others which may be prescribed by the legislature: (1) only bona fide religious, charitable or non-profit organizations of veterans, volunteer firefighter and similar non-profit organizations shall be permitted to conduct such games; (2) the entire net proceeds of any game shall be exclusively devoted to the lawful purposes of such organizations; (3) no person except a bona fide member of any such organization shall participate in the management or operation of such game; and (4) no person shall receive any remuneration for participating in the management or operation of any such game. Unless otherwise provided by law, no single prize shall exceed two hundred fifty dollars, nor shall any series of prizes on one occasion aggregate more than one thousand dollars. The legislature shall pass appropriate laws to effectuate the purposes of this subdivision, ensure that such games are rigidly regulated to prevent commercialized gambling, prevent participation by criminal and other undesirable elements and the diversion of funds from the purposes authorized hereunder and establish a method by which a municipality which has authorized such games may rescind or revoke such authorization. Unless permitted by the legislature, no municipality shall have the power to pass local laws or ordinances relating to such games. Nothing in this section shall prevent the legislature from passing laws more restrictive than any of the provisions of this section.

1. Right of assembly

NYC Charter § 2604(b)(15), which requires high city officers to forego certain political offices as qualification for holding public office, does not impair state constitutional rights of association and free speech of political parties, and thus city need not demonstrate compelling necessity for adopting provision, since it does not deprive political parties or their members of right to associate with individuals of their own choosing or right to identify people who constitute political party, and it does not prohibit political parties from expressing their opinions or selecting their own style of political organization. Golden v Clark, 76 N.Y.2d 618, 563 N.Y.S.2d 1, 564 N.E.2d 611, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3411 (N.Y. 1990).

NYC Charter § 2604(b)(15), which requires high city officers to forego certain political offices as qualification for holding public office, does not impair state constitutional rights of association and free speech of individual officers since provision is much less restrictive than those governing political activities by civil servants, and it permits officers to engage in broad range of personal or financial activity in support of candidate or cause. Golden v Clark, 76 N.Y.2d 618, 563 N.Y.S.2d 1, 564 N.E.2d 611, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 3411 (N.Y. 1990).

Where publicly owned auditorium and park facility have been opened to general public use by all kinds of organizations, including political ones, it has become "public forum" and all persons and groups have constitutional right of access; accordingly, village may not preclude political groups from using facilities to conduct meetings or to gather informally to hold discussions pertaining to their respective organizations. Hempstead Democratic Club v Hempstead, 112 A.D.2d 428, 492 N.Y.S.2d 89, 1985 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 56175 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1985).

Fire district officials have the right to limit, by regulation, the use of the fire house auditorium to residents and non-profit organizations of the district for social and recreational purposes, and a refusal to issue a permit to a political organization for a public meeting, to be "educational for public interest," was not a deprivation of the rights of free speech and assembly or of equal protection of the laws. Hooker v Conte, 143 N.Y.S.2d 750, 208 Misc. 188, 1955 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2901 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1955).

In order to preserve constitutionality of unlawful assembly statute, CLS Penal § 240.10, court would read into statute requirement that individual's actions must constitute incitement which is both directed towards and likely to produce imminent violent and tumultuous conduct. People v Biltsted, 150 Misc. 2d 872, 574 N.Y.S.2d 272, 1991 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 441 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1991).

Subpoenas issued for union membership lists were not overbroad under First Amendment right of association, despite primary focus of grand jury investigation on illegal activities of union leaders and stewards, where information was required to identify and locate potential witnesses, only alternative sources would be more intrusive search through personal records, random selection of names would not serve grand jury's purpose, and it was not demonstrated that organizational activity would be curtailed by delivery of lists. In re Grand Jury Subpoenas for Locals 17, 135, 257 & 608 of United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners, 72 N.Y.2d 307, 532 N.Y.S.2d 722, 528 N.E.2d 1195, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 1659 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 488 U.S. 966, 109 S. Ct. 492, 102 L. Ed. 2d 529, 1988 U.S. LEXIS 5200 (U.S. 1988).

2. —Disorderly conduct

Where it was shown that the defendant addressed a crowd of between 75 and 80 people, both colored and white, which blocked the sidewalk forcing pedestrians to walk in the street, making disparaging remarks about the Mayor of the city, the President of the United States and the American Legion, that he urged the colored people to rise up and fight for equal rights which caused excitement and angry mutterings, that the crowd was restless and getting to a point where it would be unruly, that one of the officers present asked the defendant twice to stop and finally arrested him for violating former § 722 subsection 2 of the Penal Law, dealing with disorderly conduct the defendant's conviction was not an unconstitutional suppression of the right to free speech. People v Feiner, 300 N.Y. 391, 91 N.E.2d 316, 300 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 391, 1950 N.Y. LEXIS 859 (N.Y. 1950), aff'd, 340 U.S. 315, 71 S. Ct. 303, 95 L. Ed. 295, 1951 U.S. LEXIS 2249 (U.S. 1951).

Where defendants were charged with violating Penal Law former § 722, subd 2 and 3, providing that any person who acts in such manner as to annoy, disturb, interfere with, obstruct, or be offensive to others, or who congregates with others on a public street and refuses to move on when ordered by the police, is guilty of disorderly conduct, and there was evidence that the defendants with the purpose of protesting against alleged racial discrimination in building trades unions at a housing project, engaged in picketing, placed themselves on the ground in the path of oncoming cement trucks, and refused to move when they were informed by police officers that they were blocking the lawful delivery of concrete to the construction site, and that at the time of such occurrence the number of pedestrians in the area increased from about 100 to about 200, a conviction under such statute was sustained by the Court of Appeals which held: (1) that the rights of the defendants were not violated as against their contention that their conduct was protected as acts of free expression, and (2) that Penal Law former § 722 was not unconstitutional as applied to them. People v Penn, 16 N.Y.2d 581, 260 N.Y.S.2d 847, 208 N.E.2d 789, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 1374 (N.Y.), reh'g denied, 16 N.Y.2d 883, 1965 N.Y. LEXIS 2364 (N.Y. 1965), cert. denied, 383 U.S. 969, 86 S. Ct. 1275, 16 L. Ed. 2d 309, 1966 U.S. LEXIS 2895 (U.S. 1966).

Former section 722 of the Penal Law, relating to disorderly conduct, is not unconstitutional in that it deprives the defendant of his liberty of assembly, freedom of speech and of the press, and his liberty to worship according to the dictates of his conscience. People v Hussock, 6 Misc. 2d 182, 23 N.Y.S.2d 520, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1346 (N.Y. Spec. Sess. 1940), cert. denied, 312 U.S. 659, 61 S. Ct. 733, 85 L. Ed. 1107, 1941 U.S. LEXIS 887 (U.S. 1941).

3. —Picketing or demonstrating

New York City charter provisions prohibiting the carrying of placards in city parks without a permit, are permissible minor infringement of constitutional provisions in art 1 § 8 and this section and a conviction for carrying without permit the placards criticizing a former British premier upon the occasion of his visit to such park, is upheld. People v Nahman, 298 N.Y. 95, 81 N.E.2d 36, 298 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 95, 1948 N.Y. LEXIS 806 (N.Y. 1948).

Peaceful picketing cannot be dogmatically equated with the constitutionally protected freedom of speech. Lewis v American Federation of Television & Radio Artists, 34 N.Y.2d 265, 357 N.Y.S.2d 419, 313 N.E.2d 735, 1974 N.Y. LEXIS 1507 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 419 U.S. 1093, 95 S. Ct. 688, 42 L. Ed. 2d 687 (U.S. 1974).

Court properly granted injunction limiting teachers' union from picketing annual "Work Appreciation for Youth" dinners where interest in plaintiff organization in protecting its residents, emotionally-disturbed boys, from exposure to conflict which could cause them emotional harm was significant and unrelated to content of speech. Children's Village v Greenburgh Eleven Teachers' Union Fed'n of Teachers, Local 1532, 249 A.D.2d 433, 671 N.Y.S.2d 504, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4250 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998).

Defendant union had the right to picket peacefully at plaintiff's place of business for organizational purposes, even though it did not represent plaintiff's employees: but it was enjoined from representing that plaintiff's employees were on strike. Cornell Beverages, Inc. v Engar, 3 Misc. 2d 526, 150 N.Y.S.2d 497, 1956 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2080 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1956).

Temporary restraining order issued to protect public from threatened massive demonstration intended to shut down airport to protest supersonic aircraft landings at airport would include injunction against one of the architects of the demonstration, despite such individual's assertion that his presence at demonstration was necessary to insure that demonstration proceeded reasonably and properly. Port Authority of New York & New Jersey v SST Concorde Alert Program, 90 Misc. 2d 295, 394 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2044 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Temporary restraining order would be issued to protect public from threatened massive demonstration which was intended to shut down airport to protest supersonic aircraft landings at such airport, in view of facts that airport was one of the largest international airports in the world, that threatened demonstration would have severe impact upon air traffic safety and emergency vehicle access to airport, and that planned demonstration would create massive safety and traffic problems for innocent residents of surrounding community. Port Authority of New York & New Jersey v SST Concorde Alert Program, 90 Misc. 2d 295, 394 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2044 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Manifestation and physical projection of widespread feeling within community opposed to supersonic aircraft landings at airport was protected under First Amendment of United States Constitution, but such right was not absolute. Port Authority of New York & New Jersey v SST Concorde Alert Program, 90 Misc. 2d 295, 394 N.Y.S.2d 364, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2044 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Defendants, members of an organization of militant homosexuals dedicated to the advancement of homosexual interests, are permanently enjoined from picketing at the residential home of plaintiff in protest over newspaper opinion article written by plaintiff opposing the enactment of a "gay-rights" bill, since, where picketing of a residential home of a private citizen occurs to advance a social goal as opposed to picketing in a labor dispute or picketing of a public official, the private homeowner's right of privacy, to keep the family home peaceful and free of unwanted disturbance, must prevail over the rights of the picketers in exercising free speech. The fact that the public streets have traditionally been used as a public forum does not grant residential picketers the right to violate the sanctity of the private home, which can be protected from threatening picketers and demonstrators. Walinsky v Kennedy, 94 Misc. 2d 121, 404 N.Y.S.2d 491, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2678 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Defendants, members of an organization of militant homosexuals dedicated to the advancement of homosexual interests, are permanently enjoined from picketing at the residential home of plaintiff in protest over a newspaper opinion article written by plaintiff opposing the enactment of a "gay-rights" bill, since the coercive pressures brought against a private individual such as plaintiff near his family home by social protestors attempting to change his views on an important social issue by intimidation involving an emotional confrontation rather than "pure speech", fraught with danger and threatening the peace and tranquility of the entire neighborhoods, cannot be sanctioned. Walinsky v Kennedy, 94 Misc. 2d 121, 404 N.Y.S.2d 491, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2678 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

Defendants, members of an organization of militant homosexuals dedicated to the advancement of homosexual interests, are permanently enjoined from picketing at the residential home of plaintiff in protest over a newspaper opinion article written by plaintiff opposinging the enactment of a "gay-rights" bill, since more appropriate alternative demonstration sites such as plaintiff's law office or the newspaper offices are available and would provide a greater public forum for defendants. Only by prohibition can plaintiff's right to privacy be protected. The fact that defendants sought picket at plaintiff's home rather than at alternate sites is evidence of the impermissible attempt to force him to change his views rather than to persuade him by force of logic to do so. Walinsky v Kennedy, 94 Misc. 2d 121, 404 N.Y.S.2d 491, 1977 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2678 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1977).

4. Right to petition government

In an action challenging the state's provisions for financing public schools set forth in Educ Law § 2022 (provision for local district financing), and Educ Law § 3602 (apportionment of state aid) as violating the equal protection clause of the Constitution and the education clause of the State Constitution in that the system results in grossly disparate financial support in the school districts, the present statutory provisions for allocation of state aid to local school districts for the maintenance and support of public elementary and secondary education would be declared not violative of the equal protection clause of either the Federal or State Constitution, and would be declared constitutional under the education article of the State Constitution, notwithstanding disparities in per pupil expenditures among the state's school districts resulting largely from the differences in the revenue available for educational purposes in consequence of unequal real property tax bases or unequal demands on local revenue. Applying the rational basis standard of equal protection review, no impermissible discrimination against pupils in the less property-wealthy districts was found, there being a rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose, (the permission and encouragement of participation in and control of public schools at the local district level), nor did the present school finance system discriminate against large city school districts, since any inequalities existing in cities are the product of demographic, economic and political factors intrinsic to the cities themselves, and cannot be attributed to legislative action or inaction. Bd. of Educ. v Nyquist, 57 N.Y.2d 27, 453 N.Y.S.2d 643, 439 N.E.2d 359, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3535 (N.Y. 1982), app. dismissed, 459 U.S. 1138, 103 S. Ct. 775, 74 L. Ed. 2d 986, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 3048 (U.S. 1983).

The exercise of the right to petition the governor under this section, to reopen a criminal case, and the printing of a part of such petition in a newspaper, is not a basis for a libel suit against the newspaper, by the district attorney who tried the case. Tracy v Wm. J. Kline & Son, Inc., 274 A.D. 149, 81 N.Y.S.2d 1, 1948 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3030 (N.Y. App. Div. 1948).

CLS Town § 81 does not unconstitutionally abridge people's right to petition government for redress of grievances. Greene v Town Bd., Warrensburg, 159 A.D.2d 781, 552 N.Y.S.2d 62, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2201 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 76 N.Y.2d 771, 559 N.Y.S.2d 984, 559 N.E.2d 678, 1990 N.Y. LEXIS 1336 (N.Y. 1990), cert. denied, 498 U.S. 941, 111 S. Ct. 348, 112 L. Ed. 2d 313, 1990 U.S. LEXIS 5430 (U.S. 1990).

Plaintiffs, challenging validity of legislation (L 1995 ch 119 §§ 13 and 16) affecting retirement benefits to be paid to former public employees under CLS Retire & S S §§ 78 and 378, were not entitled to preliminary injunction on basis of their contention that legislation improperly conditioned receipt of benefits on wavier of their constitutional right to petition courts for redress, since legislation merely required, as condition of plaintiffs' exercise of right to bring suit, that they forfeit certain monetary benefits, and such detriment could be fully redressed by monetary award. McCall v State, 215 A.D.2d 1, 632 N.Y.S.2d 725, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10677 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1995).

Liberal interpretation is to be given to all laws passed in furtherance of this section in order to preserve the rights of people to petition the government. Potash v Molik, 35 Misc. 2d 1, 230 N.Y.S.2d 544, 1962 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2913 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 17 A.D.2d 111, 232 N.Y.S.2d 993, 1962 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7911 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1962).

A guideline issued by the Administrative Judge of the Civil Court of the City of New York, created and prescribed for the court without legislative sanction, which requires a tenant to make a deposit of rents as a condition to the signing of an order to show cause to open a default judgment against him, is a denial of defendant's right to be heard in defense of the claim made against him in violation of his right to peacefully petition the government and to due process and equal protection of the laws under the United States and New York Constitutions (US Const, 5th, 14th Amdts; NY Const, art I, §§ 6, 9, 11) and, notwithstanding the fact that the guideline specifically excludes deposits into court in matters where the tenant alleges lack of service of process or payment of rent, is illegal in any situation, since the court becomes a rent collector, even before it is determined whether or not the rent is due and whether or not there was jurisidiction in the first instance. Parkway Co. v Washington, 97 Misc. 2d 881, 412 N.Y.S.2d 757, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2013 (N.Y. Civ. Ct. 1979).

A petition served upon the State by certified mail would be dismissed without prejudice to the re-serving of the petition in accordance with CPLR §§ 403(c), 307, where the requirement that the notice of petition be delivered in person to an Assistant Attorney General at an office of the Attorney General or to the Attorney General within the State in order to effect service upon the State properly did not unconstitutionally infringe upon the citizen's right to petition the government for a redress of grievances inasmuch as the requirement, although regulating the right of the citizen to institute a lawsuit against the State, was minimal in comparison to the important governmental interest which was protected by insuring that the State, through its counsel, be notified of lawsuits brought against it, and where the sending of the petition by certified mail was insufficient to effect service upon the State respondents. Pickering v Flacke, 115 Misc. 2d 264, 453 N.Y.S.2d 1016, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3671 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

5. Requirement of judicial proceedings to grant of divorce

Indigent parties in divorce proceedings had no constitutional due process or equal protection right to appointed counsel. Menin v Menin, 79 Misc. 2d 285, 359 N.Y.S.2d 721, 1974 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1647 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1974), aff'd, 48 A.D.2d 904, 372

N.Y.S.2d 985, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10171 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

In view of this section rabbinical divorce granted by rabbi in this state was void and second marriage contracted after such divorce was bigamous. In re Spiegel, 24 F.2d 605, 1928 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1003 (D.N.Y. 1928).

6. —Divorce obtained by false evidence

The public policy expressed in this section that no divorce should be granted otherwise than by judicial proceedings is paramount to the interests of an innocent second wife who marries a party to a prior fraudulent divorce, obtained upon collusive and false evidence of the wife's misconduct, and there being children of the first marriage. Furst v Furst, 78 N.Y.S.2d 608, 191 Misc. 699, 1948 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2285 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1948), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 275 A.D. 991, 91 N.Y.S.2d 202, 1949 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5359 (N.Y. App. Div. 1949).

7. Prohibition against lotteries, pool-selling, book-making, etc.

General public policy against wagering would not overcome incontestability provision of life insurance policy, so as to permit insurer to avoid liability on ground that beneficiary had no insurable interest in insured's life at time policy was issued, since such policy is not void ab initio and beneficiary could justifiably believe that, if he paid premiums and incontestability period elapsed without challenge to his insurable interest, policy would be enforced; if insurer doubts beneficiary's interest, burden rests on it to investigate in timely manner or ignore matter at its peril. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Caruso, 73 N.Y.2d 74, 538 N.Y.S.2d 217, 535 N.E.2d 270, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 193 (N.Y. 1989).

Former section 53 of the Village Law, requiring the trustees of a village to proceed by lot in choice of a candidate to fill a vacancy on the board as between candidates receiving the greatest number of votes and tied for election, does not contravene Art. I § 9 of the State Constitution as resulting in a lottery, nor does it conflict with Art. IX § 9 respecting election or appointment of local officers. Petition of Devoe, 11 A.D.2d 602, 200 N.Y.S.2d 610, 1960 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9966 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1960).

Charitable organization which sponsored raffle could not be compelled to award winning prize or value thereof where it was uncontroverted that raffle of new car did not fall within exceptions to prohibitions against illegal gambling under CLS NY Const Art I § 9(2), and raffle, in which "contribution" of $10 purchased 5 chances to win car, constituted lottery proscribed by CLS Penal § 225.00(10); under circumstances, raffle constituted illegal contract in violation of CLS Gen Oblig § 5-417 and was void and unenforceable. Harris v Economic Opportunity Comm'n, Inc., 171 A.D.2d 223, 575 N.Y.S.2d 672, 1991 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 13739 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1991).

State was entitled to summary judgment in action alleging breach of contract and negligence brought by claimant, who maintained that he won $10 million dollar prize for "pick six" lottery held on July 17, 1993, even though he filled out and mailed to Division of Lottery application to participate in Division's subscription program, since it was undisputed that he did not receive his confirmation notice until after July 17, 1993 drawing, there was no record of his subscription in Division's computer files immediately subscription application was date-stamped as received by Division 4 days after drawing in question. Ramesar v State, 224 A.D.2d 757, 636 N.Y.S.2d 950, 1996 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 810 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 88 N.Y.2d 811, 649 N.Y.S.2d 378, 672 N.E.2d 604, 1996 N.Y. LEXIS 3037 (N.Y. 1996).

As commercialized Las Vegas-style gambling authorized by the 1993 tribal-state compact and the 1999 amendment to it was inconsistent with New York's constitutional and statutory restrictions on gambling, the governor violated the separation of powers doctrine in executing the compact. Saratoga County Chamber of Commerce Inc. v Pataki, 293 A.D.2d 20, 740 N.Y.S.2d 733, 2002 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4215 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2002), aff'd in part, modified, 100 N.Y.2d 801, 766 N.Y.S.2d 654, 798 N.E.2d 1047, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 1470 (N.Y. 2003).

Lottery provision of above section does not forbid drawing to determine order of granting liquor license applications or position of candidates on ballot where such drawing is authorized by statute, since there is no element of gambling in connection therewith. Daub v New York State Liquor Authority, 45 Misc. 2d 833, 257 N.Y.S.2d 655, 1965 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2233 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1965).

State-operated lottery exception contained in CLS NY Const Art I § 9 sanctions only lotteries operated by New York State and does not sanction sale of tickets for lotteries operated by sister states. People v Kim, 154 Misc. 2d 346, 585 N.Y.S.2d 310, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 261 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1992).

Attorney General had authority to bring proceeding under CLS Exec § 63(12) to enjoin foreign corporation legally licensed to operate casino offshore from offering gambling to Internet users in New York in violation of CLS NY Const Art I § 9(1), which expressly prohibits any gambling not authorized by legislature. People v World Interactive Gaming Corp., 185 Misc. 2d 852, 714 N.Y.S.2d 844, 1999 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 425 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1999).

Video lottery gaming, as implemented by the Division of Lottery, constitutes a valid, state-operated lottery and, thus, falls within the exception of such lotteries from the general ban on gambling in N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9(1); however, the requirement in 2001 N.Y. Laws 383, pt. C that a portion of video lottery terminal (VLT) vendor fees be dedicated to breeding funds and enhanced purses violates the constitutional mandate that "the net proceeds" of state-operated lotteries be applied exclusively to or in aid or support of education in this state as the Legislature may prescribe. N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9(1). Moreover, severing the portion of part C directing reinvestment does not cure the constitutional defect because severance would result only in an inflated vendor fee; thus, while video lottery gaming itself is a "lottery" within the meaning of N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9, the entirety of 2001 N.Y. Laws 383, pt. C is unconstitutional due to the impermissible revenue distribution scheme set forth therein. Dalton v Pataki, 11 A.D.3d 62, 780 N.Y.S.2d 47, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004), aff'd in part, modified, 5 N.Y.3d 243, 802 N.Y.S.2d 72, 835 N.E.2d 1180, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1059 (N.Y. 2005).

2001 N.Y. Laws 383, pt. D is constitutional because New York retains sufficient control over the operation of the multistate lottery within its borders to meet the constitutional requirement that lotteries be "operated by the state," N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9(1); the net proceeds generated by the multistate lottery remain in New York and are dedicated "exclusively to or in aid or support of education in this state" as required by N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9(1). Dalton v Pataki, 11 A.D.3d 62, 780 N.Y.S.2d 47, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004), aff'd in part, modified, 5 N.Y.3d 243, 802 N.Y.S.2d 72, 835 N.E.2d 1180, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1059 (N.Y. 2005).

Fantasy sports contests (IFS) were games determined by skill and chance, and IFS therefore constituted gambling within the prohibition in N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9; N.Y. Racing, Pari-Mutuel Wagering and Breeding Law § 1400 et seq., was unconstitutional to the extent that it authorized IFS, but not to the extent it defined gambling in the penal law. White v Cuomo, 62 Misc. 3d 877, 87 N.Y.S.3d 805, 2018 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 5158 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2018), reh'g denied, 2019 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 4811 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Mar. 5, 2019), rev'd, in part, modified, 181 A.D.3d 76, 118 N.Y.S.3d 775, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 956 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2020).

The policy of the New York gambling laws is that the mere player or bettor is not criminally liable but anyone, who, in some capacity other than that of a player, operates, promotes or advances any gambling activity is guilty of a crime and such is in accord with Federal Code § 1084 making it unlawful to use a telephone to transmit wagering information. United States v Borgese, 235 F. Supp. 286, 1964 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9598 (S.D.N.Y. 1964), vacated, 372 F.2d 950, 1967 U.S. App. LEXIS 7329 (2d Cir. N.Y. 1967).

8. Regulation of pari-mutuel betting on horse races

A law, enacted in 1940 permitting the selling of "daily-double" tickets on horse races without the use of mechanical or electrical vending devices or without requiring the computation of pool totals by a totalizer, is not a violation of this section. Mellman v

Metropolitan Jockey Club, Inc., 89 N.Y.S.2d 64, 195 Misc. 121, 1949 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2220 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1949).

9. —Effect of town ordinances on horse race tracks

Neither lessor of land on which quarter horse racing track was to be constructed, nor party having license from state racing board, were required to obtain building permit and certificate of occupancy pursuant to town zoning ordinance. Brookhaven v Parr Co. of Suffolk, Inc., 76 Misc. 2d 378, 350 N.Y.S.2d 529, 1973 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1492 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1973), modified, 47 A.D.2d 554, 363 N.Y.S.2d 640, 1975 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8625 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1975).

10. —Off-track betting

Penal Law, former § 986 continues in effect outside of race tracks and operates to render transmission of bets to a race track unlawful, notwithstanding amendment to this section effective January 1, 1940, which excepts "pari-mutuel betting on horse races as may be prescribed by legislature" from general constitutional prohibition against gambling, and L 1940 c 254, § 2, enacted pursuant thereto, which permits pari-mutuel betting only at a race track. Application of Stewart, 22 N.Y.S.2d 164, 174 Misc. 902, 1940 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2090 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 260 A.D. 979, 23 N.Y.S.2d 226, 1940 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5677 (N.Y. App. Div. 1940).

Former section 986 of the Penal Law prohibiting receipt of money for bets does not apply to pari-mutuel betting at a race track, but the forwarding of bets to the pari-mutuel machines from outside the track by those who are not patrons is illegal. People v Hebert, 117 N.Y.S.2d 415, 203 Misc. 173, 1952 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2031 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1952).

The fact that, under this section, only the State Legislature may authorize pari-mutuel betting on horse races does not make it illegal or unconstitutional to submit to the voters of New York City a proposed local law for appointment of a committee to formulate a plan for conducting off-track pari-mutuel betting on horse races and report its recommendations for enactment of such legislation. Young v Wagner, 41 Misc. 2d 230, 245 N.Y.S.2d 180, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1502 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.), aff'd, 19 A.D.2d 825, 243 N.Y.S.2d 1014, 1963 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3044 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1963).

A scheme of reasonable revenue return provided to the state in the off-track betting laws, and the fact that distribution to other entities are provided for, does not constitute a violation of New York Constitution Article 1, § 9. Finger Lakes Racing Ass'n v New York State Off-Track Pari-Mutuel Betting Comm'n, 65 Misc. 2d 946, 320 N.Y.S.2d 801, 1971 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1656 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1971), aff'd, 30 N.Y.2d 207, 331 N.Y.S.2d 625, 282 N.E.2d 592, 1972 N.Y. LEXIS 1394 (N.Y. 1972).

11. Authorization of games of chance by localities

This section specifically authorizes the submission of the question of bingo games "at a general or special election." Hence, an ordinance providing for the conduct of such games could be passed upon in an even-numbered year. Buffalo v Lawley, 6 A.D.2d 66, 175 N.Y.S.2d 547, 1958 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5469 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1958).

Under the January 1, 1958, amendment of this section, and implementing legislation, no bingo, free or otherwise, is legally permissible unless the local area votes its approval. Fedin v Hanifin, 22 Misc. 2d 570, 198 N.Y.S.2d 453, 1959 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3287 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1959).

In addition to the elements of consideration, chance, and prize traditionally employed by New York's case law in defining the term "lottery" for law enforcement purposes, N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9(1) sanctions only those state-run lotteries that involve tickets and multiple participation. Dalton v Pataki, 11 A.D.3d 62, 780 N.Y.S.2d 47, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9338 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2004), aff'd in part, modified, 5 N.Y.3d 243, 802 N.Y.S.2d 72, 835 N.E.2d 1180, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1059 (N.Y. 2005).

Where an Indian tribe argued that it had sovereign immunity with respect to state anti-gaming and environmental laws that would have otherwise applied to the tribe's construction and operation of a casino on a parcel of nonreservation property, the tribe was permanently enjoined from developing a casino that did not comply with New York law because (1) the tribe had not obtained authority to conduct gaming, had not applied for permits required under N.Y. Envtl. Conserv. Law § 17-0807(4) and other environmental laws, and had not commenced an environmental review that was necessary under N.Y. Envtl. Conserv. Law § 8-0109(2) to obtain the required permits; (2) the aboriginal title held by the tribe to the land at issue had been extinguished; (3) the tribe could not conduct gaming pursuant to 18 U.S.C.S. § 1166(c) insofar as the tribe was not recognized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs as required by 25 U.S.C.S. § 2703(5)(A) of the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act and the property at issue did not constitute Indian land within the meaning of 25 U.S.C.S. §§ 2703(4) and 2710(d)(1); and (4) the construction and operation of the proposed casino would have had severe disruptive consequences to the administration of governmental affairs and the health, safety, and long-settled expectations of the residents of the town. New York v Shinnecock Indian Nation, 523 F. Supp. 2d 185, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 80443 (E.D.N.Y. 2007), vacated, 686 F.3d 133, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 12948 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2012).

12. —Organizations which may conduct such games

Those holding a license to conduct bingo games are cast in the role of trustees and must be held to strict accountability for all funds taken in. In re Disabled American Veterans, 41 Misc. 2d 206, 246 N.Y.S.2d 234, 1963 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1804 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1963).

In a small claims action in which plaintiff sought to recover the winning prize money of $1,400 awarded by a military veteran's organization to a non-party, the court found that the organization's raffle was permitted under N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9. Paz v Goldstein, 961 N.Y.S.2d 913, 39 Misc. 3d 764, 2013 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1090 (N.Y. Dist. Ct. 2013).

13. Standing to challenge statutes or regulations governing betting, book-making or the like

Individual residents' challenges to the fiscal consequences of State actions involving an agreement that, inter alia, allowed gambling at certain facilities lacked merit because the towns' constitutional home rule authority was not violated, the provision was not an illegal vote-buying agreement, and the legislation was not invalid. Matter of Town of Verona v Cuomo, 136 A.D.3d 36, 22 N.Y.S.3d 241, 2015 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9341 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2015), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 908, 56 N.E.3d 902, 36 N.Y.S.3d 622, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1671 (N.Y. 2016).

Trustee in bankruptcy of a bookmaker and betting commissioner cannot invoke question of the constitutionality of penal statutes where neither he nor his bankrupt is a person whose rights have been prejudiced or impaired thereby. Andrews v Empire City Racing Ass'n, 9 N.Y.S.2d 987, 170 Misc. 338, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1540 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

Constitutionality of former § 986 of the Penal Law dealing with pool-selling, book-making, bets and wagers et cetera limiting penalty for its violation to civil action can be raised only by one who has sustained a loss or has a fundamental right violated, and so city police department may not raise constitutionality of section. People v Mumford, 12 N.Y.S.2d 925, 171 Misc. 397, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1973 (N.Y. Magis. Ct. 1939).

14. Taxation of betting or gambling

A tax on admissions to any race track is not a tax on betting, and is not affected by Article 1, § 9 of the State Constitution. Roosevelt Raceway, Inc. v County of Nassau, 18 N.Y.2d 30, 271 N.Y.S.2d 662, 218 N.E.2d 539, 1966 N.Y. LEXIS 1275 (N.Y. 1966), app. dismissed, 385 U.S. 453, 87 S. Ct. 614, 17 L. Ed. 2d 510, 1967 U.S. LEXIS 2586 (U.S. 1967).

While State of New York enjoys privilege of taxing incomes from whatever source derived, whether legal or illegal, there is no clear language used to delegate such power to New York City, or to allow municipal corporations to share in proceeds of illegal and immoral businesses by levying gross business taxes. Application of Bromberger, 62 N.Y.S.2d 47, 187 Misc. 593, 1946 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2180 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1946).

15. Recovery of money illegally gambled; enforcement of gambling debts

Omission of seized moneys from forfeiture provisions of Penal Law, former §§ 977, 978 and 979 does not make gamblers' possession lawful. Hofferman v Simmons, 290 N.Y. 449, 49

N.E.2d 523, 290 N.Y. (N.Y.S.) 449, 1943 N.Y. LEXIS 1083 (N.Y. 1943).

The general prohibition against gambling found in this section does not prevent enforcement in New York of a gambling debt validly contracted and enforceable in the jurisdiction where it arose. Intercontinental Hotels Corp. v Golden, 15 N.Y.2d 9, 254 N.Y.S.2d 527, 203 N.E.2d 210, 1964 N.Y. LEXIS 831 (N.Y. 1964).

In action by trustee in bankruptcy of a bookmaker and betting commissioner at race track of defendant association to recover a sum of money allegedly received by the association from the bankrupt in violation of this section and Penal Law, former §§ 973 and 986, against bookmaking, bookmaker and defendant association were in pari delicto and plaintiff was not entitled to restitution under Penal Law, former § 986, as it existed prior to amendment by L 1934 c 233. Andrews v Empire City Racing Ass'n, 9 N.Y.S.2d 987, 170 Misc. 338, 1939 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1540 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1939).

16. Miscellaneous

By failure to pass legislation explicitly abolishing the Bingo Control Commission or to specifically provide therefor in budget, though not specifically appropriating any funds for the Commission, the legislature could be deemed to have expressed an intent not to eliminate the Commission or the office of chairman, and chairman was entitled to his salary. Ball v State, 41 N.Y.2d 617, 394 N.Y.S.2d 597, 363 N.E.2d 323, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 1971 (N.Y. 1977).

The assessment of a percentage of "breakage" at racetracks to finance operations of the Agriculture and New York State Horse Breeding Development Fund is levied ostensibly to achieve a public purpose and it could not be said that "government" was not being supported by the assessment. Saratoga Harness Racing Ass'n v Agric. & New York State Horse Breeding Dev. Fund, 27 A.D.2d 631, 276 N.Y.S.2d 52, 1966 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2710 (N.Y. To the extent that it authorizes interactive fantasy sports contests, N.Y. Rac. Pari-Mut. Wag. & Breed. Law art. 14 permits gambling in violation of N.Y. Const. art. I, § 9. White v Cuomo, 181 A.D.3d 76, 118 N.Y.S.3d 775, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 956 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2020).

This section is not violated by creation of Agriculture and New York State Horse Breeding Development Fund in Chapter 103 Unconsolidated Laws § 55, Laws 1965, Ch 567 subd 2, since the State should derive additional revenue from the administration of that section. Saratoga Harness Racing Ass'n v Agric. & New York State Horse Breeding Dev. Fund, 51 Misc. 2d 591, 273 N.Y.S.2d 611, 1966 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1542 (N.Y. Sup. Saratoga Harness Racing, Inc. v New York State Quarter Horse Racing Com., 74 Misc. 2d 1096, 347 N.Y.S.2d 613, 1972 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1261 (N.Y. Sup. Under Laws 1973 Ch 346, § 121, subd 4, racetrack which had interfacing agreement with regional off-track betting office prior to effective date of Laws 1973 Ch 346 § 24 was not entitled to accept interfacing with said office while another racetrack in same betting region was conducting a pari-mutuel race meeting within the region, nor to retain 4 percent of gross receipts of such interfacing pursuant to Laws 1972 Ch 534 § 3. Symbiosis between state and racing association, a nonprofit corporation created by statute for the acquisition and operation of racetracks to enable state to derive reasonable revenue for support of government did not require the termination of state action relationship between state and association but only that the association refrain from acting in ways barred to state, that is, from denying those with whom it dealt that fair play and equality of opportunity encompassed in due process of law. Halpern v Lomenzo, 81 Misc. 2d 467, 367 N.Y.S.2d 653, 1975 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2408 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1975).

Emergency resolution of commissioner of health authorizing local officials to close any facilities in which high risk sexual activity takes place was not unconstitutional as applied to defendant in view of proof that high risk sexual activity connected with transmission of AIDS was taking place at defendant's bathhouse, and plaintiffs demonstrated compelling state interest in acting to preserve health of population that takes precedence over any constitutional rights of privacy and free association; remedy adopted by plaintiffs is least intrusive reasonably available remedy and privacy protection of sexual activity conducted in private home does not extend to commercial establishment. 2001 N.Y. Laws ch. 383, Parts B, C, and D were declared to be constitutional as casino gaming permitted by tribal-state compacts, video lottery gaming, and a multi-state lottery did not violate N.Y. Where plaintiffs sought to build a rabbinical college, to include on-campus housing for rabbinical students and their families, they established a violation of the free association clause of the New York Constitution where the challenged ordinances directly and substantially interfered with their associational rights because the laws completely barred the rabbinical college from the village by requiring that the college be accredited before it could obtain a special use permit, which could not happen under the challenged laws and where, even if it could be accredited, the prohibition on student family housing represented a substantial burden to plaintiffs' sincere religious beliefs. Congregation Rabbinical Coll. of Tartikov, Inc. v Vill. of Pomona, 280 F. Supp. 3d 426, 2017 U.S. Dist. Trial court erred in granting the State Land Title Association's petition to annul Insurance Regulation 208 because it had a rational basis of clarifying a statute intended to prevent consumers from being required to subsidize unscrupulous exchanges of valuable things for real estate professionals, and that interest was unrelated to the suppression of free expression. 5. Authorization of games of chance by localities

6. —Organizations which may conduct such games

The Dante Alighiere Lodge No. 436, Sons of Italy, an unincorporated association, non-profit in nature, which provides sickness, funeral, and death benefits for its members could apply for a license to conduct bingo. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen June 17 (informal).

The Buffalo Convention Center Management Corporation is an authorized games of chance lessor under General Municipal Law, § 186(4)(8). 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 29 (Formal).

A negative vote by the town electors on a townwide referendum regarding the conduct of bingo would have no effect upon the approval of the conduct of bingo by the village electors. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Mar 6 (informal).

The word "town," as used in subdivision 2 of this section means a "municipal corporation comprising the inhabitants within its boundaries," as defined in Town Law § 2. The Legislature may not define the term to mean less than the entire area of the town. 1958 NY Ops Atty Gen Jan 21.

A town ordinance permitting the playing of bingo would not affect the playing of bingo under an ordinance legally adopted by a village wholly within the town (General Municipal Law, § 477; Town Law, § 132); electors of the entire town are authorized to vote on a proposed town bingo ordinance (New York State Constitution, Art. I, § 9; General Municipal Law, § 478[2]). 1974 NY Ops Atty Gen May 22.

A town in which the licensing of games of chance has been authorized pursuant to General Municipal Law, § 188, may not delegate to a village within the town the enforcement duties of the chief legal officer of the town with respect to games of chance conducted in the village. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 10 (formal).

Article 9-A of the General Municipal Law dealing with games of chance, does not permit the utilization of vending machines to dispense bell jar type gambling tickets or cards. 1990 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. F90-5.

Racing and Wagering Board may authorize use and distribution of electronic computer aide to assist in play of bingo, provided that game is played as described in proposal. 1999 NY Ops Atty Gen F 99-2.

7. Miscellaneous

A municipality may enact a local law or ordinance authorizing qualified organizations to conduct "limited period Bingo" without thereby authorizing the conduct of other forms of the game. NY Ops Atty Gen 85-F 17.

It is unlawful in the State of New York to raffle off a parcel of real estate. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Nov 13 (Formal).

The proposed Bingo Bucks advertising program is outside the scope of existing statutory authority. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Sept 21 (Formal).

The operation of video games that electronically simulate the play of card and dice games involving a material element of chance, with a pay-off consisting of extended play, constitutes gambling as defined under section 225.00 of the Penal Law. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-12.

Section
168-q. Subdirectory; internet posting

HISTORY:
Add, L 1995, ch 192, § 2, eff Jan 21, 1996 (see 1995 note below).

§ 168-q. Subdirectory; internet posting

1. The division shall maintain a subdirectory of level two and three sex offenders. The subdirectory shall include the exact address, address of the offender's place of employment and photograph of the sex offender along with the following information, if available: name, physical description, age and distinctive markings. Background information including all of the sex offender's crimes of conviction that require him or her to register pursuant to this article, modus of operation, type of victim targeted, the name and address of any institution of higher education at which the sex offender is enrolled, attends, is employed or resides and a description of special conditions imposed on the sex offender shall also be included. The subdirectory shall have sex offender listings categorized by county and zip code. Such subdirectory shall be made available at all times on the internet via the division homepage. Any person may apply to the division to receive automated e-mail notifications whenever a new or updated subdirectory registration occurs in a geographic area specified by such person. The division shall furnish such service at no charge to such person, who shall request e-mail notification by county and/or zip code on forms developed and provided by the division. E-mail notification is limited to three geographic areas per e-mail account.

2. Any person who uses information disclosed pursuant to this section in violation of the law shall in addition to any other penalty or fine imposed, be subject to a fine of not less than five hundred dollars and not more than one thousand dollars. Unauthorized removal or duplication of the subdirectory from the offices of local, village or city police department shall be punishable by a fine not to exceed one thousand dollars. In addition, the attorney general, any district attorney, or any person aggrieved is authorized to bring a civil action in the appropriate court requesting preventive relief, including an application for a permanent or temporary injunction, restraining order, or other order against the person or group of persons responsible for such action. The foregoing remedies shall be independent of any other remedies or procedures that may be available to an aggrieved party under other provisions of law.

Editor's Notes: Laws 1995, ch 192, §§ 1, 3, eff Jan 21, 1996, provide as follows:

Section 1. Legislative purpose or findings: The legislature finds that the danger of recidivism posed by sex offenders, especially those sexually violent offenders who commit predatory acts characterized by repetitive and compulsive behavior, and that the protection of the public from these offenders is of paramount concern or interest to government. The legislature further finds that law enforcement agencies' efforts to protect their communities, conduct investigations and quickly apprehend sex offenders are impaired by the lack of information about sex offenders who live within their jurisdiction and that the lack of information shared with the public may result in the failure of the criminal justice system to identify, investigate, apprehend and prosecute sex offenders.

The system of registering sex offenders is a proper exercise of the state's police power regulating present and ongoing conduct. Registration will provide law enforcement with additional information critical to preventing sexual victimization and to resolving incidents involving sexual abuse and exploitation promptly. It will allow them to alert the public when necessary for the continued protection of the community.

Persons found to have committed a sex offense have a reduced expectation of privacy because of the public's interest in safety and in the effective operation of government. In balancing offenders due process and other rights, and the interests of public security, the legislature finds that releasing information about sex offenders to law enforcement agencies and, under certain circumstances, providing access to limited information about certain sex offenders to the general public, will further the primary government interest of protecting vulnerable populations and in some instances the public, from potential harm.

Therefore, this state's policy, which will bring the state into compliance with the federal crime control act 42 U.S.C. 170101, is to assist local law enforcement agencies' efforts to protect their communities by requiring sex offenders to register and to authorize the release of necessary and relevant information about certain sex offenders to the public as provided in this act.

§ 3. This act shall take effect 180 days after the date on which it shall have become a law, provided, however, that any rules and regulations necessary for the timely implementation of this act on such date shall be promulgated immediately.

Laws 2002, ch 11, § 24, sub (c), eff March 11, 2002, provides as follows:

§ 24. This act shall take effect immediately provided, however, that:

(c) the provisions of sections four, fifteen, nineteen, twenty and twenty-one of this act and subdivision 3 of section 168-d of the correction law, as amended by section eight of this act and the opening paragraph of subdivision 6 of section 168-l of the correction law, as amended by section seventeen of this act shall apply to sex offenders for whom an initial risk level determination has not been made prior to such effective date or who, on the effective date of this act, are not members of the plaintiff class in the U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York case entitled Doe v. Pataki, Index Number 96 CIV 1657 (DC).

Laws 2003, ch 10, § 6, eff May 30, 2003, repealed L 2002, ch 694, § 4 which amended sub 1 of this section.

Amendment Notes: 2011. Chapter 532, § 3 amended:

Sub 1 by deleting at fig 1 "A copy of the subdirectory shall annually be distributed to the offices of local village, town, city, county or state law enforcement agencies for purposes of public access. The division shall distribute monthly updates to the offices of local village, town, city, county or state law enforcement agencies for purposes of public access. Such departments shall require that a person in writing provide their name and address prior to viewing the subdirectory. Any information identifying the victim by name, birth date, address or relation to the sex offender shall be excluded from the subdirectory distributed for purposes of public access. The subdirectory provided for herein shall be updated monthly to maintain its efficiency and usefulness and shall be computer accessible."

2006. Chapter 106, § 2 amended:

Section heading by deleting at fig 1 "of level three sex offenders" and adding the matter in italics.

The 2014 amendment by ch 462, § 1 substituted "including all of the sex offender's crimes of conviction that require him or her to register pursuant to this article" for "including the sex offender's crime of conviction" in the third sentence of 1.

Notes to Decisions

Designation of defendant as a level two sex offender under the Sex Offender Registration Act, N.Y. Correct. Law art. 6-C, based on his conviction for attempted promoting of a sexual performance by a child was proper because the Risk Assessment Guidelines Factor 7 (Factor 7) correctly tracked the N.Y. Correct. Law § 168-a(9) definition of "predatory" and applied to defendant; although it did not seem that Factor 7 was written with individuals, like defendant, who possessed child pornography in mind, it was not possible to read Factor 7 in a way that excluded defendant from its coverage. Defendant's crime was unquestionably directed at strangers. People v Johnson, 11 N.Y.3d 416, 872 N.Y.S.2d 379, 900 N.E.2d 930, 2008 N.Y. LEXIS 3397 (N.Y. 2008).

Trial court properly exercised its discretion in granting the People's application for an upward departure because the record demonstrated that defendant's underlying sex offense was particularly violent and of a prolonged nature and the People provided clear and convincing evidence of an aggravating factor that was not adequately taken into account by the Sex Offender Registration Act, N.Y. Correct. Law § 168-n(3), Guidelines. People v Shim, 139 A.D.3d 68, 28 N.Y.S.3d 87, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1817 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 910, 62 N.E.3d 118, 39 N.Y.S.3d 378, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1784 (N.Y. 2016).

Appeal should not be dismissed on the ground that defendant has been deported because the People failed to show how defendant's involuntary absence from New York rendered review of the order designating him a level two sex offender academic since his designation required his identifying information to be placed on the internet. People v Shim, 139 A.D.3d 68, 28 N.Y.S.3d 87, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1817 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 910, 62 N.E.3d 118, 39 N.Y.S.3d 378, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1784 (N.Y. 2016).

Classification and registration provisions of Sex Offender Registration Act (CLS Correc §§ 168 et seq.) do not violate prohibition against enactment of ex post facto laws, as applied to convicted sex offenders whose criminal conduct occurred prior to effective date of statute; challenged provisions are not punitive but remedial, and involve ministerial acts that do not constitute punishment. People v Cropper, 170 Misc. 2d 631, 651 N.Y.S.2d 1019, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 469 (N.Y. County Ct. 1996).

Petitioner, convicted sex offender on probation, was not denied due process when he was designated risk level 3, or sexually violent predator, under Sex Offender Registration Act (CLS Correc § 168 et seq.) since he was notified of his classification and reasons therefore, Division of Probation and Correction Alternatives had established administrative review process, petitioner could seek judicial review of administrative decision through CLS CPLR Article 78 proceeding, and he could bring petition for relief in sentencing court, as provided under CLS Correc § 168-o. Doe v Division of Probation & Correction Alternatives, 171 Misc. 2d 210, 654 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 7 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

Petitioner, convicted sex offender on probation, was not denied equal protection because he was designated risk level 3 under Sex Offender Registration Act (CLS Correc § 168 et seq.) by Division of Probation and Correction Alternatives (DPCA), rather than court, which classifies sex offenders who were incarcerated or institutionalized at time Act was enacted; there was rational basis for statutory requirement that individual who was already under DPCA supervision be classified by that agency. Doe v Division of Probation & Correction Alternatives, 171 Misc. 2d

It was proper to classify petitioner probationer as level 3, sexually violent predator, since he met one of child victims when victim participated in residential camp at which petitioner was employed, second child victim was cousin of first victim, and petitioner did not show that Board of Examiners of Sex Offender's inclusion of history of drug or alcohol abuse as factor was arbitrary and capricious. Doe v Division of Probation & Correction Alternatives, 171 Misc. 2d 210, 654 N.Y.S.2d 268, 1997 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 7 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1997).

New York Division of Criminal Justice Services is required to distribute a subdirectory of all Risk Level Three sex offenders to local law enforcement agencies, where it is to be made available for public inspection through the internet. People v Ramos, 889 N.Y.S.2d 402, 25 Misc. 3d 533, 2009 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1955 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2009).

Court overruled defendant's argument the classification of risk level one was for all purposes, including the personal validation of defendant's address and therefore that requirement did not apply to defendant until after his reclassification hearing and defendant could not be charged with a violation, because the injunction in U.S. District Court case of Doe v Pataki related only to the community notification provisions of the Sex Offender Registration Act. People v Welch, 809 N.Y.S.2d 882, 11 Misc. 3d 794, 2006 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 299 (N.Y. County Ct. 2006).

Notes to Decisions

In denying convicted felon's application for restoration to longshoremen's register as checker, Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor did not err in failing to apply relevant provisions of CLS Correc Art 23-A, since Article 23-A contains no reference to Waterfront Commission nor any express statement that legislature intended to amend or supplement interstate compact by which Waterfront Commission was established, and thus Article 23-A does not apply to Waterfront Commission. Malverty v Waterfront Comm'n, 71 N.Y.2d 977, 529 N.Y.S.2d 67, 524 N.E.2d 421, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 689 (N.Y. 1988).

When legislature enacted provisions, effective January 1, 1977, of Correction Law entitled "Licensure and Employment of Persons Previously Convicted of One or More Criminal Offenses," aimed at removing senseless discrimination regarding criminal offenders, it was deemed to have notice of its own prior enactment of Judiciary Law provisions requiring automatic disbarment upon conviction and empowering Appellate Division to vacate or modify order or debarment upon reversal of felony conviction or pardon by designated officials, and there was nothing to warrant conclusion that latter provisions of Judiciary Law were superseded or ameliorated in any way. In re Glucksman, 57 A.D.2d 205, 394 N.Y.S.2d 191, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10950 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 804, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3722 (N.Y. 1977).

Commissioner's determination to suspend license of practical nurse for three years, with the execution of the last two years stayed, was supported by substantial evidence and was not shocking to one's sense of fairness or unreasonably harsh and excessive and was not disturbed where the nurse had been convicted of possession of gambling records, even though a certificate of relief from disabilities had been issued pursuant to Article 23-A of the Correction Law, since the Article applies only to the "application" for a license and has no bearing on disciplinary proceedings against persons already licensed. Pietranico v Ambach, 82 A.D.2d 625, 442 N.Y.S.2d 827, 1981 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11842 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1981), aff'd, 55 N.Y.2d 861, 447 N.Y.S.2d 924, 432 N.E.2d 796, 1982 N.Y. LEXIS 3081 (N.Y. 1982).

Prospective employee who had previously been dismissed from tenured position with county probation department after determination in civil forum that she was guilty of certain specifications of misconduct had not been convicted of "criminal offenses" within meaning of CLS Correc § 751, and thus was not entitled to compel production of written statement delineating reasons for denial of her employment application under provisions of CLS Correc § 754. Sinicropi v McCabe, 123 A.D.2d 756, 507 N.Y.S.2d 229, 1986 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 60897 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1986), app. dismissed, 69 N.Y.2d 821, 513 N.Y.S.2d 964, 506 N.E.2d 535, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 15453 (N.Y. 1987), app. denied, 70 N.Y.2d 728, 519 N.Y.S.2d 644, 513 N.E.2d 1305, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 18182 (N.Y. 1987).

Committee on Professions did not violate CLS Correc Art 23-A by denying petitioner's application for license to practice dentistry because of his prior record of professional misconduct in Missouri; Article 23-A prohibition of unfair discrimination against applicants previously convicted of crimes was inapplicable, since petitioner's acts did not trigger criminal prosecution and resulting conviction. Markman v New York State Dep't of Education, 131 A.D.2d 908, 516 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48342 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

CLS Correc Art 23-A, establishing standards for public agencies and private employers to use in appraising fitness of former criminal offender for particular job or license, does not apply to prison training programs. Brown v Berry, 151 A.D.2d 882, 543 N.Y.S.2d 179, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 944, 550 N.Y.S.2d 277, 549 N.E.2d 479, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 3264 (N.Y. 1989).

Purpose of CLS Correc Art 23-A was not to give ex-convicts preferred treatment but to try to remove prejudice against former criminals obtainingjobs or licenses, since such prejudice was not only widespread but was also unfair and counterproductive. With regard to "1033 waiver" (under 18 USCS § 1033), Insurance Department makes determination as to trustworthiness and competence of applicant in view of specific circumstances of crime committed by individual; in event applicant is also applying for license, provisions of CLS Correc §§ 750-753 also must be satisfied. § 752. Unfair discrimination against persons previously convicted of one or more criminal offenses prohibited

No application for any license or employment, and no employment or license held by an individual, to which the provisions of this article are applicable, shall be denied or acted upon adversely by reason of the individual's having been previously convicted of one or more criminal offenses, or by reason of a finding of lack of "good moral character" when such finding is based upon the fact that the individual has previously been convicted of one or more criminal offenses, unless:

(1) there is a direct relationship between one or more of the previous criminal offenses and the specific license or employment sought or held by the individual; or

(2) the issuance or continuation of the license or the granting or continuation of the employment would involve an unreasonable risk to property or to the safety or welfare of specific individuals or the general public.

1. Generally

Agency or private employer must consider factors in CLS Correc § 753 to determine whether employment or license should issue, notwithstanding existence of "direct relationship" under CLS Correc § 752(1) between applicant's criminal offense and specific employment or license sought. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

Denial of a corporation's landfill expansion permit was supported by substantial evidence and was affirmed where the corporation and its principals had pled guilty to tax related crimes spanning several years. Al Turi Landfill, Inc. v N.Y. State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 98 N.Y.2d 758, 751 N.Y.S.2d 827, 781 N.E.2d 892, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3399 (N.Y. 2002).

Defendant, not-for-profit youth organization, should not have been granted summary judgment in action for negligent hiring and retention of custodian, who sexually assaulted plaintiff's daughter at defendant's center, where defendant had actual knowledge that custodian had criminal conviction and that he would be working as such in place crowded with children; under circumstances, jury could reasonably conclude that defendant had duty to conduct investigation of custodian's background and consider factors under CLS Correc § 753. T. W. v City of New York, 286 A.D.2d 243, 729 N.Y.S.2d 96, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7930 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

Correc Law § 752, applies only to applications for a license or employment by persons previously convicted of crimes, and has no bearing on persons who are already licensed or employed. Pisano v McKenna, 120 Misc. 2d 536, 466 N.Y.S.2d 231, 1983 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3755 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983).

Purpose of CLS Correc Art 23-A was not to give ex-convicts preferred treatment but to try to remove prejudice against former criminals obtainingjobs or licenses, since such prejudice was not only widespread but was also unfair and counterproductive. Former employee's discrimination complaint against a utility company was dismissed for failure to state a cause of action because the amended complaint acknowledged that the utility company terminated plaintiff based on other employees' and potential customers' reaction to his reputation as one of the police officers involved in the notorious assault and there was no indication that plaintiff's perjury conviction was a factor in the decision to terminate him. Schwarz v Consolidated Edison, Inc., 49 Misc. 3d 832, 13 N.Y.S.3d 884, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2784 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2015), aff'd, 147 A.D.3d 447, 47 N.Y.S.3d 9, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 924 (N.Y. Statutory protection contemplated by N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(15) and N.Y. Correct. Law § 752 are for people convicted of a criminal offense and is not intended to give rights to those discriminated against based on their reputations. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2017).

2. Jurisdiction, procedure and remedies

A complaint charging a public agency with an unfair discriminatory practice based upon a person's prior criminal convictions was properly dismissed by the State Division of Human Rights for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, since an Article 78 proceeding is the exclusive remedy available to remedy such a wrong. New York City Transit Authority v State Human Rights Appeal Bd., 97 A.D.2d 825, 468 N.Y.S.2d 708, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 20604 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1983), app. dismissed, 62 N.Y.2d 646, 1984 N.Y. LEXIS 8025 (N.Y. 1984).

Petitioner, as designer and marketer of "Stanton Survey" used by prospective employers to screen job applicants, had standing to seek judicial determination that Department of Labor (DOL) acted outside its authority in denying targeted jobs tax credits to employers using Stanton Survey on ground that use of survey would violate Ex-Offenders Law, since interests espoused by petitioner fell within "zone of interest" protected by statute, which requires final determination by appropriate agency before DOL may take action to deny services to offending employers. Stanton Corp. v Department of Labor, 166 A.D.2d 331, 561 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12748 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Department of Labor (DOL) acted arbitrarily in denying targeted jobs tax credits to employers using survey designed and marketed by petitioner ("Stanton Survey") to screen job applicants, on ground that survey questions dealing with theft of cash or merchandise violated Ex-Offender Law, in absence of final determination to that effect by Division of Human Rights, which was only agency vested with authority to make such determination, which would authorize DOL to discontinue services. Stanton Corp. v Department of Labor, 166 A.D.2d 331, 561 N.Y.S.2d 6, 1990 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12748 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1990).

Jury verdict holding New York City Housing Authority liable for not terminating employee after learning of his undisclosed convictions was properly set aside since 3 nonviolent convictions that employee did not disclose in his employment application, in conjunction with robbery conviction that he did disclose, did not, as matter of law, give Authority reason to know that employee had propensity for violence, or was otherwise unsuited for employment as caretaker. Givens v New York City Hous. Auth., 249 A.D.2d 133, 671 N.Y.S.2d 479, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4342 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

As a civilian who sought a job as a police communications technician had a prior criminal conviction, and such position was expressly exempted from the statutory definition of "employment," her application was properly denied and the statutory factors did not have to be considered. Matter of Belgrave v City of New York, 137 A.D.3d 439, 27 N.Y.S.3d 2, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1532 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 909, 60 N.E.3d 1201, 38 N.Y.S.3d 835, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1695 (N.Y. 2016).

3. Presumption of rehabilitation

Presumption of rehabilitation created by certificate of good conduct or certificate of relief from civil disabilities by CLS Correc § 753 applies even where there is direct relationship between criminal offense and specific license or employment sought under CLS Correc § 752; thus, agency or employer must consider factors mentioned in CLS Correc § 753 to determine whether, in fact, direct relationship is sufficiently attenuated to warrant issuance of license. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

Presumption of rehabilitation arising from petitioner's certificate of relief from disabilities did not preclude board of education from denying his application for teaching license based on statutory factors unrelated to rehabilitation. Arrocha v Board of Educ., 93 N.Y.2d 361, 690 N.Y.S.2d 503, 712 N.E.2d 669, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1999).

The trial court improperly dismissed an Article 78 proceeding by an ex-offender against a city building commissioner and others to review the commissioner's determination denying petitioner's application for a license to operate a rooming house, since, though conviction of a criminal offense can be the basis for denial of a license pursuant to Correc Law § 752(1) if there is a direct relationship between the offense and the specific license sought, and though petitioner's conviction for third degree burglary could arguably have a direct bearing on his responsibility as a rooming house operator to safeguard the facility's occupants and their possessions, respondents failed to produce any evidence to rebut the statutory presumption of rehabilitation that arose from the certificate of good conduct that petitioner had received pursuant to Correc Law § 753(2), since the commissioner's reliance on Correc Law § 753(1)(h), which requires that licensing agencies consider the legitimate interest of the agency in protecting property and the safety and welfare of specific individuals or the general public, was undermined by the fact that petitioner had obtained a license to drive a taxi from the public safety commissioner, and since, though petitioner's conviction could be the basis for a license denial pursuant to Correc Law § 752(2) if the issuance of the license would involve an unreasonable risk to property or to the safety or welfare of specific individuals or the general public, there were no facts to support the commissioner's contention that petitioner, by virtue of his association with a program for ex-offenders, would show a predilection for renting to such persons and that this would create a security risk to the surrounding community. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

Without an evaluation of the statutory factors, the administrative agencies failed to meet their burden of demonstrating that applicant's criminal history would pose a direct relationship to her duties as a special officer or that qualifying her as such would create an unreasonable risk to the public. Because they did not satisfy their statutory responsibilities and because they improperly based their decision on the original crime for which the applicant was charged, rather than the charge to which she pled, and failed to mention her certification of relief, their determination had to be annulled. Matter of McMillan v Department of Citywide Admin. Servs., 48 Misc. 3d 394, 9 N.Y.S.3d 791, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1158 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2015).

4. "Reasonable risk"

When employer or agency relies on unreasonable risk exception of CLS Correc § 752(2), factors in CLS Correc § 753(1) should be considered and applied to determine if unreasonable risk exists, and employer or agency may not assume that exception applies and then consider factors to determine whether employment should be offered or whether license should nevertheless be granted; however, having once considered factors and determined that unreasonable risk exists, employer or agency need not go further and consider same factors to determine whether license or employment opportunity should be granted. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

City civil service commission did not violate CLS Correc § 752 in basing petitioner's disqualification for service as firefighter on record of past criminal convictions, since prior criminal convictions involving drunken driving were such that they involved unreasonable risk to property, and to safety and welfare of general public. Grafer v New York City Civil Service Com., 181 A.D.2d 614, 581 N.Y.S.2d 337, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4123 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 80 N.Y.2d 752, 587 N.Y.S.2d 904, 600 N.E.2d 631, 1992 N.Y. LEXIS 1713 (N.Y. 1992).

5. Effect on local laws and administrative regulations

A city building commissioner improperly denied an application for a license to operate a rooming house on the asserted ground that the applicant had previously been convicted and fined for violations of the municipal building code and of the city's rooming house licensing and regulatory ordinance, since municipalities may not deny such a license based upon an applicant's past violations of local zoning ordinances in that adequate civil and criminal sanctions exist for enforcement of such ordinances, and since the record did not reveal whether there were any outstanding violations that the applicant had failed to correct or was unwilling to correct within a reasonable period of time. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

Providing live dance entertainment in a cabaret is an activity included within the protective umbrella of the First Amendment and a licensing statute which attempts to regulate protected expression and provides for prior restraint must be precisely drawn and is subject to a strong presumption that it is constitutionally invalid; accordingly, a licensing ordinance which authorizes the New York City Commissioner of Consumer Affairs to deny or refuse to renew a cabaret license based upon a broad general listing of various types of criminal convictions, many of which are unrelated to the use of the premises and/or the qualification for operating them (Administrative Code of City of New York, § B32-297.1), invalidly acts as a prior restraint and unconstitutionally vests overbroad discretion in an administrator; statutes which pertain to unfair discrimination against persons previously convicted of a crime (Correction Law, §§ 752, 753) do not remedy any of the constitutional deficiencies of the ordinance. Club Winks, Inc. v New York, 99 Misc. 2d 787, 417 N.Y.S.2d 178, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2335 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

New York City Administrative Code §§ B32-22.0 through B32-26.0, subd a(5), under which license to operate motion picture theater may be denied if applicant or one of its officers, principals, directors or 10 percent stockholders has been convicted of any of a host of criminal offenses, both related and unrelated to operation of movie theater, constitutes system of prior restraint in violation of First Amendment; even if licensing law were read in pari materia with Correction Law §§ 752 and 753, so that license could not be denied because of prior conviction unless there were direct relationship between offense and license sought, or if issuing license would pose risk to public health, safety or welfare, ordinance would still constitute such prior restraint. Natco Theatres, Inc. v Ratner, 463 F. Supp. 1124, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15121 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

6. Application to particular persons, licenses and employment

The State Liquor Authority did not abuse its discretion in disapproving an application for a license in light of a relationship between misdemeanor convictions and the license sought; furthermore, Correc Law § 752, which was enacted to prevent unfair discrimination against persons convicted of criminal offenses, expressly excepts cases in which "there is a direct relationship between one or more of the previous criminal offenses and the specific license or employment sought." The authority did not abuse its discretion in adhering to its original determination, even though the applicant submitted additional information as part of a request for reconsideration. Nor was the applicant denied due process when the authority considered information received by its investigators but never made available to the applicant. C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc. v New York State Liquor Authority, 52 N.Y.2d 751, 436 N.Y.S.2d 276, 417 N.E.2d 570, 1980 N.Y. LEXIS 2852 (N.Y. 1980).

In denying convicted felon's application for restoration to longshoremen's register as checker, Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor did not err in failing to apply relevant provisions of CLS Correc Art 23-A, since Article 23-A contains no reference to Waterfront Commission nor any express statement that legislature intended to amend or supplement interstate compact by which Waterfront Commission was established, and thus Article 23-A does not apply to Waterfront Commission. Malverty v Waterfront Comm'n, 71 N.Y.2d 977, 529 N.Y.S.2d 67, 524 N.E.2d 421, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 689 (N.Y. 1988).

Department of education's denial of petitioner's application for certification as a school bus driver, despite a certificate of relief from disabilities, was not arbitrary and capricious, as he had felony convictions for possession and attempted sale of drugs, as well as well as multiple misdemeanor convictions, and he was of mature age at the time of his more recent offenses. Matter of Dempsey v New York City Dept. of Educ., 25 N.Y.3d 291, 33 N.E.3d 485, 11 N.Y.S.3d 529, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 1033 (N.Y. 2015).

In a case wherein the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit certified three questions to the Court of Appeals of New York, the Court held that N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) extends liability to an out-of-state non-employer who aids or abets employment discrimination against individuals with a prior criminal conviction. Griffin v Sirva, Inc., 29 N.Y.3d 174, 76 N.E.3d 1063, 54 N.Y.S.3d 360, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 1244 (N.Y. 2017).

A petition to annul a decision denying an application for a civil service position as a traffic enforcement agent, which decision was based solely on the ground that the applicant intentionally made a false statement of a material fact on the application by denying that he had ever been convicted of a crime, was properly dismissed where there was no evidence to indicate that the applicant was penalized because of his prior criminal record in contravention of either Exec Law § 296 or Correc Law § 752. Stewart v Civil Service Com., 84 A.D.2d 491, 446 N.Y.S.2d 948, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14946 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1982).

CLS Correc Art 23-A, establishing standards for public agencies and private employers to use in appraising fitness of former criminal offender for particular job or license, does not apply to prison training programs. Brown v Berry, 151 A.D.2d 882, 543 N.Y.S.2d 179, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8123 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. dismissed, 74 N.Y.2d 944, 550 N.Y.S.2d 277, 549 N.E.2d 479, 1989 N.Y. LEXIS 3264 (N.Y. 1989).

Determination of New York City Human Resources Administration terminating petitioner's provisional appointment as child caseworker was supported by evidence that petitioner misrepresented to parole authorities that his violation of curfew provisions of his work-release program was due to his employment with agency; failure to be reliable and truthful demonstrated petitioner's unfitness for position of child caseworker. Okoro v City of New York Human Resources Admin., 219 A.D.2d 506, 631 N.Y.S.2d 342, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9457 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1995).

No violation of N.Y. Correct. Law § 752 was found in New York Department of Environmental Conservation's decision to deny landfill company an expansion permit in light of the direct relationship between one or more of the landfill company's previous criminal offenses and the specific license of employment sought; the elements inherent in the criminal conduct for which the landfill company and its principals were convicted, to wit, dishonesty, lack of integrity in conducting business, and a willingness to mislead the government, had a direct relationship to the duties and responsibilities inherent in the license sought, including accurate record keeping, effective self-policing, and honest self-reporting to the government. Al Turi Landfill, Inc. v N.Y. State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 289 A.D.2d 231, 735 N.Y.S.2d 61, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11794 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2001), aff'd, 98 N.Y.2d 758, 751 N.Y.S.2d 827, 781 N.E.2d 892, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3399 (N.Y. 2002).

Although the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) failed to consider all of the factors in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753(1) in denying a contractor's application to renew its home improvement contractors license, the trial court erred in directing the DCA to grant the application pursuant to N.Y. Correct. Law § 752. Matter of Formica Constr. v Mintz, 65 A.D.3d 686, 885 N.Y.S.2d 298, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6187 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Trial court erred in vacating a determination by the New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission denying a former attorney's application for a license to operate a for-hire vehicle because the determination was not arbitrary or capricious or irrational where attorney's crimes were recent and serious and bore a direct relationship to how he dealt with persons who hired him for service, and he minimized his culpability at his fitness interview, he minimized his culpability. Matter of Levine v N.Y.C. Taxi & Limousine Commn., 136 A.D.3d 1037, 26 N.Y.S.3d 180, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1322 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2016).

Trial court properly granted a motion by an employer to dismiss an employee's discrimination complaint because he failed to state an employment discrimination claim where the complaint contained no allegations that the employee was terminated under circumstances giving rise to an inference of discrimination based on his perjury conviction, rather than due to the disruption of the employer's workplace and its employee and customers relations stemming from his perceived involvement in an underlying assault, the vacatur of the employee's prior assault convictions rendered those convictions nullities inasmuch as the proceeding did not otherwise result in acquittal or dismissal of all charges against him. Schwarz v Consolidated Edison, Inc., 147 A.D.3d 447, 47 N.Y.S.3d 9, 2017 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 924 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2017).

Article 23-A of the Correction Law and section 2A:168A of the New Jersey statutes, which prohibit discrimination in employment against rehabilitated convicted offenders and provide a presumption of rehabilitation where a certificate of relief from civil disabilities has been issued by a court of competent jurisdiction, are applicable to the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor, created by interstate compact between New York and

New Jersey for the purpose of protecting labor from criminal elements and other evil conditions in the Port of New York, so that the commission is bound to consider and apply the salutary public policy of both States prohibiting such discrimination by employers and licensing authorities in making its determinations. Accordingly, the commission's failure to consider such clearly enunciated public policy before denying petitioner's application for reinstatement to the register of longshoremen (21 NYCRR 8.3) solely on the basis of petitioner's criminal conviction, was arbitrary and capricious warranting a remand to the commission for further consideration. Maloney v Waterfront Com. of New York Harbor, 96 Misc. 2d 688, 409 N.Y.S.2d 573, 1978 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2664 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1978).

Notwithstanding the earlier enacted provisions of N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752 and 753 regarding certificates of relief from disabilities, an applicant with an unpardoned felony conviction involving fraud, dishonesty, or a breach of trust, as of the effective date of N.Y. Banking Law § 599-e, cannot be licensed as a mortgage loan originator in New York State. Rampolla v Banking Dept. of the State of New York, 916 N.Y.S.2d 492, 31 Misc. 3d 161, 2010 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6366 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2010), aff'd, 93 A.D.3d 526, 940 N.Y.S.2d 257, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2045 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012).

In an Article 78 proceeding brought by a New York City marshal who was suspended from office after being charged with various crimes relating to his office, a directive issued by respondent officials of the Department of Investigation of the City of New York which provided that "any former Marshal who has been convicted of a crime related to the performance of his/her official duties may not be employed by any present City Marshal when such employment bears a direct relationship to the criminal offense for which the former Marshal was convicted" was constitutional on its face and as applied to petitioner and did not violate Correc Law § 752 or Exec Law § 290 where petitioner was an ex-city marshal currently employed in a marshal's office and was convicted of racketeering-based crimes said to have been committed while he was employed as a City marshal and in connection with his official duties. Ribotsky v Lupkin, 114 Misc. 2d 913, 452 N.Y.S.2d 806, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3586 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

Determination terminating a court reporter's employment was proper because, inter alia, N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752, 753 permitted adverse employment action under circumstances in which there was direct relationship between the court reporter's criminal offense involving identity theft and credit card fraud, and her employment, in which, as an officer of the court, she was charged with producing a true, accurate, and complete record of court proceedings. Matter of Association of Surrogates, & Supreme Ct. Reporters v State of New York Unified Ct. Sys., 48 A.D.3d 228, 851 N.Y.S.2d 170, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 946 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

Department of Education (DOE) arbitrarily and capriciously concluded that the crime and facts surrounding petitioner's plea bore a direct relationship, for purposes of N.Y. Correct. Law § 752(1), to the license's requirement of working with children; DOE proffered no evidence demonstrating how stealing merchandise while employed at a business would be relevant to petitioner's potential employment as a school bus attendant, where she would not be in charge of sales or handling cash or orders. Matter of Boone v New York City Dept. of Educ., 53 Misc. 3d 380, 38 N.Y.S.3d 711, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2769 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

Department of Education (DOE) arbitrarily and capriciously found that permitting petitioner to serve as a school bus attendant would pose an unreasonable risk, for purposes of N.Y. Correct. Law § 752(2); with the exception of her sole conviction for petit larceny, petitioner lived a crime-free life, and her conviction did not involve any neglect or compromise to the safety and well-being of children. Matter of Boone v New York City Dept. of Educ., 53 Misc. 3d 380, 38 N.Y.S.3d 711, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2769 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

In an Article 78 proceeding, the statute did not apply to the New York City Department of Correction's (DOC) revocation of petitioner's security clearance to work at a correction facility, as although petitioner did not seek employment with DOC, petitioner's application for a license to work within the confines of the facility rendered him an applicant for membership with DOC, the purpose of the security clearance was to grant him the same access to the facility afforded to DOC employees, and petitioner was engaged in providing services to prisoners on behalf of DOC. Matter of Graves v City of New York, 53 Misc. 3d 895, 38 N.Y.S.3d 741, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3304 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016), app. dismissed, 175 A.D.3d 418, 104 N.Y.S.3d 541, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6147 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2019).

Department of Correction's (DOC) revocation of petitioner's license to work in a correctional facility was arbitrary and capricious as the DOC failed to consider all the requisite factors and the decision was initially based solely on the results of a criminal background check and prior conviction, without any determination as to whether there was a direct relationship between petitioner's misdemeanor conviction and license. Matter of Dudley v City of New York, 56 Misc. 3d 448, 50 N.Y.S.3d 856, 2017 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017).

Employee of a car service did not establish a discrimination claim under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(15), as the service's temporary suspension of the employee after a background check revealed criminal convictions did not constitute an adverse employment action. The suspension was justified by the need to investigate the employee's past convictions, which was anticipated by N.Y. Correct. Law § 752. Fox v Commonwealth Worldwide Chauffeured Transp. of Ny, 865 F. Supp. 2d 257, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 45675 (E.D.N.Y. 2012).

There is nothing in New York Insurance Law that would prevent Superintendent of Insurance from issuing insurance agent's license to individual with prior misdemeanor conviction of third degree forgery; Superintendent may issue license if, in his judgment, he finds individual to be trustworthy and competent to act as insurance agent and individual has met prerequisites for licensing. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 05-02-17.

Insurer that employs person who has been convicted of felony involving dishonesty or breach of trust, or of offense under 18 USCS § 1033, runs afoul of The Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, 18 USCS § 1033(e), unless person has obtained written consent from insurance regulatory official authorized to regulate insurer, such as state Superintendent of Insurance. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 08-04-31.

7. —Civil service positions

Federal mail fraud conviction, which involved petitioner's submission of false car service vouchers in connection with his employment as New York City Human Resources Administration caseworker, raised legitimate issues about his fitness for supervisory position, warranting dismissal of his Article 78 petition to compel city to promote him to supervisory position on basis that denial of promotion violated CLS Exec § 296(15). Alston v City of New York, 270 A.D.2d 3, 703 N.Y.S.2d 186, 2000 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2231 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2000).

Trial court properly granted a civil employee's petition to restore his eligibility certification and appointment, his employment and to restore the him to an eligible list for a another position because the record did not reveal the existence of fraud of a substantial nature in connection with employee's application, it was undisputed that the employee disclosed his prior convictions when seeking the position, the record provided no sound basis to conclude that the employee failed to cooperate with the investigation or to disclose material facts, and there was no indication that the Civil Service Commission determined that a statutory exception was applicable or considered the factors to be applied in terminating the employee. Matter of Espinal v County of Nassau, 172 A.D.3d 1064, 100 N.Y.S.3d 380, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3820 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2019).

Court would dismiss Article 78 proceeding to annul city civil service commission's determination that respondent was not disqualified for position of provisional eligibility specialist by her criminal record since (1) commission properly found that respondent's fitness was not affected by her prior criminal record based on evidence that she was not disqualified by city personnel department when she was hired as typist in 1977 despite her convictions for prostitution and drug possession, that judge who sentenced her in 1981 manslaughter case expressly intended not to deprive her of chance to earn livelihood, and that she was skilled eligibility specialist, and (2) commission's finding was made in full compliance with CLS Correc Art 23-A, which was enacted to prevent unfair discrimination in licensure and employment of persons convicted of crimes. New York v City Civil Service Com., 141 Misc. 2d 276, 532 N.Y.S.2d 626, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 610 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

While the state office of mental retardation and developmental disabilities (OMRDD) noted the factors set forth in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753 in making a determination under N.Y. Correct. Law § 752 concerning the applicant's employment with a county agency, the OMRDD's determination was arbitrary and capricious as the specific employment duties in the position applied for were not set out and the OMRDD failed to specify the bearing, if any, that the applicant's convictions would have on her fitness or ability to perform such duties or responsibilities; the determination also failed to articulate in any meaningful way the positive factors, such as the applicant's graduation from community college with distinction. Black v New York State Off. of Mental Retardation & Dev. Disabilities, 858 N.Y.S.2d 859, 20 Misc. 3d 581, 239 N.Y.L.J. 77, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3113 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008).

New York City Civil Service Commission was not irrational or arbitrary in concluding that the disqualification of a city department employee based on his prior convictions failed to comply with N.Y. Correct. Law § 752. The Commission rationally concluded, based on a consideration of the factors enumerated in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753, that there was no direct relationship between the employee's past offenses and his position; further, it was also rational for the Commission to conclude that it was not a threat to public safety for the employee to hold his position, which was performed under supervision and did not involve dealing with the public. Matter of City of New York v New York City Civ. Serv. Commn., 30 A.D.3d 227, 817 N.Y.S.2d 254, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8035 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

Civil service applicant, otherwise qualified for position as housing caretaker for New York City Housing Authority, may not be denied position based solely on prior manslaughter conviction where tasks of position are not shown to be directly related to conviction or to present unreasonable risk to persons or property, and where statutory policy favors employment of ex-offenders. Soto-Lopez v New York City Civil Service Com., 713 F. Supp. 677, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5548 (S.D.N.Y. 1989).

8. —Professions

It was not arbitrary and capricious or violative of CLS Correc Art 23-A for New York City Board of Education to rely on 9-year-old drug sale conviction in denying petitioner's application for teaching license, despite petitioner's certificate of relief from disabilities and positive references submitted on his behalf, where board considered factors favorable to petitioner but gave greater weight to facts that high school teacher must be role model to students and is held to high ethical standard, that petitioner was mature adult when he sold drugs, and that his offense was serious felony conviction. Arrocha v Board of Educ., 93 N.Y.2d 361, 690 N.Y.S.2d 503, 712 N.E.2d 669, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1999).

Denial by the department of education (DOE) of an application for a security clearance was improper because the "closer review" purportedly applied by the DOE amounted to nothing more than a pro forma denial of the application on the basis of the applicant's prior criminal conviction and such a denial, without consideration of the N.Y. Correct. Law § 753 factors, was precisely what the statute prohibited and was arbitrary and capricious; among the considerations listed in an affidavit of the DOE's director for employee relations was that the applicant did not provide references from prior employers, but the interview notice did not state that the applicant should provide such references, and her interviewer did not ask her for those references. Further, other than her personal statement, the DOE did not consider the documentation that the applicant submitted. Matter of Acosta v New York City Dept. of Educ., 16 N.Y.3d 309, 921 N.Y.S.2d 633, 946 N.E.2d 731, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 437 (N.Y. 2011).

When legislature enacted provisions, effective January 1, 1977, of Correction Law entitled "Licensure and Employment of Persons Previously Convicted of One or More Criminal Offenses," aimed at removing senseless discrimination regarding criminal offenders, it was deemed to have notice of its own prior enactment of Judiciary Law provisions requiring automatic disbarment upon conviction and empowering Appellate Division to vacate or modify order or debarment upon reversal of felony conviction or pardon by designated officials, and there was nothing to warrant conclusion that latter provisions of Judiciary Law were superseded or ameliorated in any way. In re Glucksman, 57 A.D.2d 205, 394 N.Y.S.2d 191, 1977 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 10950 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 42 N.Y.2d 804, 1977 N.Y. LEXIS 3722 (N.Y. 1977).

Commissioner of Education properly denied petitioner's application for license to practice medicine for failure to fulfill moral character prerequisite for licensure, since petitioner did not clearly show that his patients would not be exposed to unreasonable risk of harm if he were licensed, where he had been convicted of federal offense of knowingly receiving hardcore child pornography (18 USCS § 2252) less than one year before his application, he was not involved in therapy or planning to recommence therapy at time of hearing despite recommendation of 2 of 3 psychiatrists he saw, and he had not yet explored conflict underlying his conduct. Bevacqua v Sobol, 176 A.D.2d 1, 579 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1146 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

It was arbitrary and capricious for Board of Education to deny petitioner's application for teaching license on ground that particular crime committed by petitioner—isolated incident of criminal sale of $10 worth of cocaine committed almost 10 years prior to his application for license— made him unfit to perform duties and responsibilities of high school teacher since petitioner had obtained certificate of relief from disabilities, and Board virtually ignored his extensive and unblemished record as student tutor. Arrocha v Board of Educ., 253 A.D.2d 758, 677 N.Y.S.2d 584, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998), rev'd, 93 N.Y.2d 361, 690 N.Y.S.2d 503, 712 N.E.2d 669, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1999).

Where the collective bargaining agreement provided that an employee convicted of a felony could be suspended with pay for 60 days after which, in the event there had been no resolution of the disciplinary charges, the suspension was without pay, the agreement did not unlawfully discriminate against felons in violation of N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752(1), 753, as those statutes expressly permitted employment discrimination against felons where there was a direct relationship between the criminal offense and the specific employment. Rosa v City Univ., 13 A.D.3d 162, 789 N.Y.S.2d 4, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15116 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2004), app. denied, 5 N.Y.3d 705, 801 N.Y.S.2d 252, 834 N.E.2d 1262, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1524 (N.Y. 2005).

With regard to "1033 waiver" (under 18 USCS § 1033), Insurance Department makes determination as to trustworthiness and competence of applicant in view of specific circumstances of crime committed by individual; in event applicant is also applying for license, provisions of CLS Correc §§ 750-753 also must be satisfied. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 09-08-05.

Notes to Unpublished Decisions

1. Application to particular persons, licenses and employment

Unpublished decision: Version of N.Y. Correct. Law § 752 that was in effect in 2004 did not provide a former employee with a wrongful termination claim, as former § 752 prohibited denial of applications for employment based on prior convictions and did not extend to terminations. A 2007 amendment to § 752 that extended the statute's reach to terminations was intended to provide new protections that were lacking from the original language. Noble v Career Educ. Corp., 375 Fed. § 753. Factors to be considered concerning a previous criminal conviction; presumption

1. In making a determination pursuant to section seven hundred fifty-two of this chapter, the public agency or private employer shall consider the following factors:

(a) The public policy of this state, as expressed in this act, to encourage the licensure and employment of persons previously convicted of one or more criminal offenses.

(b) The specific duties and responsibilities necessarily related to the license or employment sought or held by the person.

(c) The bearing, if any, the criminal offense or offenses for which the person was previously convicted will have on his fitness or ability to perform one or more such duties or responsibilities.

(d) The time which has elapsed since the occurrence of the criminal offense or offenses.

(e) The age of the person at the time of occurrence of the criminal offense or offenses.

(f) The seriousness of the offense or offenses.

(g) Any information produced by the person, or produced on his behalf, in regard to his rehabilitation and good conduct.

(h) The legitimate interest of the public agency or private employer in protecting property, and the safety and welfare of specific individuals or the general public.

2. In making a determination pursuant to section seven hundred fifty-two of this chapter, the public agency or private employer shall also give consideration to a certificate of relief from disabilities or a certificate of good conduct issued to the applicant, which certificate shall create a presumption of rehabilitation in regard to the offense or offenses specified therein.

1. Generally, presumption of rehabilitation
2. —Certificate of relief or good conduct
3. Effect on local laws and administrative regulations
4. Application to particular licenses
5. Application to particular employment

1. Generally, presumption of rehabilitation

If employer or agency considers all 8 factors listed in CLS Correc § 753, it need not in every case produce independent evidence to rebut presumption of rehabilitation before denying license or employment; consideration of other factors such as severity of criminal offenses, age of offender at time of offenses, passage of time between offenses, and nature of license or employment sought can warrant denial of license notwithstanding absence of new evidence specifically addressed to overcoming presumption. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

Agency or private employer must consider factors in CLS Correc § 753 to determine whether employment or license should issue, notwithstanding existence of "direct relationship" under CLS Correc § 752(1) between applicant's criminal offense and specific employment or license sought. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

When employer or agency relies on unreasonable risk exception of CLS Correc § 752(2), factors in CLS Correc § 753(1) should be considered and applied to determine if unreasonable risk exists, and employer or agency may not assume that exception applies and then consider factors to determine whether employment should be offered or whether license should nevertheless be granted; however, having once considered factors and determined that unreasonable risk exists, employer or agency need not go further and consider same factors to determine whether license or employment opportunity should be granted. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

Presumption of rehabilitation arising from petitioner's certificate of relief from disabilities did not preclude board of education from denying his application for teaching license based on statutory factors unrelated to rehabilitation. Arrocha v Board of Educ., 93 N.Y.2d 361, 690 N.Y.S.2d 503, 712 N.E.2d 669, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1999).

In a case wherein the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit certified three questions to the Court of Appeals of New York, the Court held that N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(6) extends liability to an out-of-state non-employer who aids or abets employment discrimination against individuals with a prior criminal conviction. Griffin v Sirva, Inc., 29 N.Y.3d 174, 76 N.E.3d 1063, 54 N.Y.S.3d 360, 2017 N.Y. LEXIS 1244 (N.Y. 2017).

Inmate or former inmate is entitled to have institutional record free from improperly obtained findings of disciplinary rule violations since his prison disciplinary record might be considered by future employer in reaching employment decision. Grant v Senkowski, 146 A.D.2d 948, 537 N.Y.S.2d 323, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 514 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1989).

Jury verdict holding New York City Housing Authority liable for not terminating employee after learning of his undisclosed convictions was properly set aside since 3 nonviolent convictions that employee did not disclose in his employment application, in conjunction with robbery conviction that he did disclose, did not, as matter of law, give Authority reason to know that employee had propensity for violence, or was otherwise unsuited for employment as caretaker. Givens v New York City Hous. Auth., 249 A.D.2d 133, 671 N.Y.S.2d 479, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4342 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1998).

Defendant, not-for-profit youth organization, should not have been granted summary judgment in action for negligent hiring and retention of custodian, who sexually assaulted plaintiff's daughter at defendant's center, where defendant had actual knowledge that custodian had criminal conviction and that he would be working as such in place crowded with children; under circumstances, jury could reasonably conclude that defendant had duty to conduct investigation of custodian's background and consider factors under CLS Correc § 753. T. W. v City of New York, 286 A.D.2d 243, 729 N.Y.S.2d 96, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 7930 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2001).

2. —Certificate of relief or good conduct

Presumption of rehabilitation created by certificate of good conduct or certificate of relief from civil disabilities by CLS Correc § 753 applies even where there is direct relationship between criminal offense and specific license or employment sought under CLS Correc § 752; thus, agency or employer must consider factors mentioned in CLS Correc § 753 to determine whether, in fact, direct relationship is sufficiently attenuated to warrant issuance of license. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

An arbitrator's decision to rescind the termination of employment of a village employee, who pleaded guilty to the charge of unlawful imprisonment in the first degree, but who had received a certificate of relief from disabilities by the sentencing court, did not contravene public policy, since the arbitrator was required to give consideration to the certificate, which created a presumption of rehabilitation. Valley Stream v Local 342, 89 A.D.2d 1016, 454 N.Y.S.2d 461, 1982 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 18273 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1982).

Letters of recommendation submitted by applicant for dental license did not constitute certificates of relief from disability or certificates of good conduct (with respect to petitioner's prior record of drug abuse and professional misconduct) within meaning of CLS Correc § 753; such certificates must be issued by court or parole board. Markman v New York State Dep't of Education, 131 A.D.2d 908, 516 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 48342 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1987).

Because an applicant for a custodial position in a middle school failed to submit any information regarding all of the applicant's prior convictions, and thereafter failed to respond to the state department of education's notice of intent to deny clearance, and because the department addressed and weighed the appropriate factors set forth in N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752, 753 and N.Y. Educ. Law § 3035(3)(a), denial of clearance was mandated by N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 8, § 87.5(a)(4)(v), (vii). Matter of Boatman v New York State Dept. of Educ., 72 A.D.3d 1467, 900 N.Y.S.2d 174, 2010 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3462 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2010).

Without an evaluation of the statutory factors, the administrative agencies failed to meet their burden of demonstrating that applicant's criminal history would pose a direct relationship to her duties as a special officer or that qualifying her as such would create an unreasonable risk to the public. Because they did not satisfy their statutory responsibilities and because they improperly based their decision on the original crime for which the applicant was charged, rather than the charge to which she pled, and failed to mention her certification of relief, their determination had to be annulled. Matter of McMillan v Department of Citywide Admin. Servs., 48 Misc. 3d 394, 9 N.Y.S.3d 791, 2015 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1158 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2015).

3. Effect on local laws and administrative regulations

Providing live dance entertainment in a cabaret is an activity included within the protective umbrella of the First Amendment and a licensing statute which attempts to regulate protected expression and provides for prior restraint must be precisely drawn and is subject to a strong presumption that it is constitutionally invalid; accordingly, a licensing ordinance which authorizes the New York City Commissioner of Consumer Affairs to deny or refuse to renew a cabaret license based upon a broad general listing of various types of criminal convictions, many of which are unrelated to the use of the premises and/or the qualification for operating them (Administrative Code of City of New York, § B32-297.1), invalidly acts as a prior restraint and unconstitutionally vests overbroad discretion in an administrator; statutes which pertain to unfair discrimination against persons previously convicted of a crime (Correction Law, §§ 752, 753) do not remedy any of the constitutional deficiencies of the ordinance. Club Winks, Inc. v New York, 99 Misc. 2d 787, 417 N.Y.S.2d 178, 1979 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2335 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1979).

ALJ's decision denying an application for a license to operate a taxi or vehicle-for-hire was arbitrary and capricious where not only did the ALJ incorrectly note that the applicant, in 1986, caused serious injury to another person, she, otherwise, failed fully to consult, balance, and weigh all of the eight factors in Correction Law § 753(1). Significantly, the ALJ failed to consider documents offered by the applicant that would have had an effect on the balancing and weighing of such factors. Matter of Tinsley v Taxi & Limousine Commn., 58 Misc. 3d 941, 62 N.Y.S.3d 769, 2017 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3863 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017).

New York City Administrative Code §§ B32-22.0 through B32-26.0, subd a(5), under which license to operate motion picture theater may be denied if applicant or one of its officers, principals, directors or 10 percent stockholders has been convicted of any of a host of criminal offenses, both related and unrelated to operation of movie theater, constitutes system of prior restraint in violation of First Amendment; even if licensing law were read in pari materia with Correction Law §§ 752 and 753, so that license could not be denied because of prior conviction unless there were direct relationship between offense and license sought, or if issuing license would pose risk to public health, safety or welfare, ordinance would still constitute such prior restraint. Natco Theatres, Inc. v Ratner, 463 F. Supp. 1124, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15121 (S.D.N.Y. 1979).

4. Application to particular licenses

Racing and Wagering Board did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in denying owner-trainer-driver harness racing license to former licensee who was convicted of federal crimes in connection with race fixing investigation, even though former licensee raised presumption of rehabilitation with certificate of good conduct from parole board, where hearing officer considered legitimate interest of racing board in protecting safety and welfare of general public by preventing appearance or fact of impropriety in heavily-regulated sport, and weighed former licensee's experience, violation of board rules, and seriousness of offenses. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

It was not arbitrary and capricious or violative of CLS Correc Art 23-A for New York City Board of Education to rely on 9-year-old drug sale conviction in denying petitioner's application for teaching license, despite petitioner's certificate of relief from disabilities and positive references submitted on his behalf, where board considered factors favorable to petitioner but gave greater weight to facts that high school teacher must be role model to students and is held to high ethical standard, that petitioner was mature adult when he sold drugs, and that his offense was serious felony conviction. Arrocha v Board of Educ., 93 N.Y.2d 361, 690 N.Y.S.2d 503, 712 N.E.2d 669, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1999).

Denial of a corporation's landfill expansion permit was supported by substantial evidence and was affirmed where the corporation and its principals had pled guilty to tax related crimes spanning several years. Al Turi Landfill, Inc. v N.Y. State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 98 N.Y.2d 758, 751 N.Y.S.2d 827, 781 N.E.2d 892, 2002 N.Y. LEXIS 3399 (N.Y. 2002).

The trial court improperly dismissed an Article 78 proceeding by an ex-offender against a city building commissioner and others to review the commissioner's determination denying petitioner's application for a license to operate a rooming house, since, though conviction of a criminal offense can be the basis for denial of a license pursuant to Correc Law § 752(1) if there is a direct relationship between the offense and the specific license sought, and though petitioner's conviction for third degree burglary could arguably have a direct bearing on his responsibility as a rooming house operator to safeguard the facility's occupants and their possessions, respondents failed to produce any evidence to rebut the statutory presumption of rehabilitation that arose from the certificate of good conduct that petitioner had received pursuant to Correc Law § 753(2), since the commissioner's reliance on Correc Law § 753(1)(h), which requires that licensing agencies consider the legitimate interest of the agency in protecting property and the safety and welfare of specific individuals or the general public, was undermined by the fact that petitioner had obtained a license to drive a taxi from the public safety commissioner, and since, though petitioner's conviction could be the basis for a license denial pursuant to Correc Law § 752(2) if the issuance of the license would involve an unreasonable risk to property or to the safety or welfare of specific individuals or the general public, there were no facts to support the commissioner's contention that petitioner, by virtue of his association with a program for ex-offenders, would show a predilection for renting to such persons and that this would create a security risk to the surrounding community. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

A city building commissioner improperly denied an application for a license to operate a rooming house on the asserted ground that the applicant had previously been convicted and fined for violations of the municipal building code and of the city's rooming house licensing and regulatory ordinance, since municipalities may not deny such a license based upon an applicant's past violations of local zoning ordinances in that adequate civil and criminal sanctions exist for enforcement of such ordinances, and since the record did not reveal whether there were any outstanding violations that the applicant had failed to correct or was unwilling to correct within a reasonable period of time. Marra v White Plains, 96 A.D.2d 17, 467 N.Y.S.2d 865, 1983 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 19872 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't), cert. denied, Weber v Stony Brook Hospital, 464 U.S. 1026, 104 S. Ct. 560, 78 L. Ed. 2d 732, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2777 (U.S. 1983).

Racing and Wagering Board was not arbitrary or capricious in considering petitioner's prior convictions in refusing him harness owner-trainer-driver license, despite presumption of rehabilitation created by certificate of good conduct which he received from Board of Parole, since petitioner's convictions of falsely testifying before grand jury and soliciting another to testify falsely regarding true ownership of certain racehorses were of serious crimes directly impugning integrity of racing. Bonacorsa v Van Lindt, 129 A.D.2d 518, 514 N.Y.S.2d 370, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 45198 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 1987), aff'd, 71 N.Y.2d 605, 528 N.Y.S.2d 519, 523 N.E.2d 806, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 691 (N.Y. 1988).

Commissioner of Education properly denied petitioner's application for license to practice medicine for failure to fulfill moral character prerequisite for licensure, since petitioner did not clearly show that his patients would not be exposed to unreasonable risk of harm if he were licensed, where he had been convicted of federal offense of knowingly receiving hardcore child pornography (18 USCS § 2252) less than one year before his application, he was not involved in therapy or planning to recommence therapy at time of hearing despite recommendation of 2 of 3 psychiatrists he saw, and he had not yet explored conflict underlying his conduct. Bevacqua v Sobol, 176 A.D.2d 1, 579 N.Y.S.2d 243, 1992 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1146 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1992).

It was arbitrary and capricious for Board of Education to deny petitioner's application for teaching license on ground that particular crime committed by petitioner—isolated incident of criminal sale of $10 worth of cocaine committed almost 10 years prior to his application for license— made him unfit to perform duties and responsibilities of high school teacher since petitioner had obtained certificate of relief from disabilities, and Board virtually ignored his extensive and unblemished record as student tutor. Arrocha v Board of Educ., 253 A.D.2d 758, 677 N.Y.S.2d 584, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 9408 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1998), rev'd, 93 N.Y.2d 361, 690 N.Y.S.2d 503, 712 N.E.2d 669, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 820 (N.Y. 1999).

Superintendent of insurance's decision denying the application of an individual who had been involved in an insurance fraud scheme to be a public adjuster was arbitrary and capricious as the facts surrounding the individual's application were virtually indistinguishable from another case in which an application was granted, the superintendent gave no adequate explanation for reaching a different decision on virtually identical facts, and the applicant had received a certificate of good conduct from the division of parole specifically removing the bar to the public office of public adjuster under N.Y. Ins. Law § 2108(d)(3), which certificate created a presumption of rehabilitation, under N.Y. Correct. Law § 753(2). Klein v Levin, 305 A.D.2d 316, 760 N.Y.S.2d 462, 2003 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6121 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 100 N.Y.2d 514, 769 N.Y.S.2d 200, 801 N.E.2d 421, 2003 N.Y. LEXIS 3296 (N.Y. 2003).

Although the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) failed to consider all of the factors in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753(1) in denying a contractor's application to renew its home improvement contractors license, the trial court erred in directing the DCA to grant the application pursuant to N.Y. Correct. Law § 752. Matter of Formica Constr. v Mintz, 65 A.D.3d 686, 885 N.Y.S.2d 298, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6187 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2009).

Petitioner (former construction inspector for New York City Department of Buildings), who was convicted of bribe receiving, was denied procedural due process when department rejected his application for license as site safety manager because of his actions relating to bribe receiving since department did not refer to, or give any evidentiary findings to rebut, certificate of relief from disabilities received by petitioner which created presumption of rehabilitation. Peluso v Smith, 142 Misc. 2d 642, 540 N.Y.S.2d 631, 1989 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 100 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1989).

Denial of petitioner's application for permit to expand its solid waste disposal facility was not irrational or violative of CLS Correc Art 23-A where (1) petitioner and its principals had been convicted of criminal offenses under CLS Correc § 752, (2) Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) concluded that direct relationship existed between those offenses and permit sought, and that issuance of permit to petitioner would pose unreasonable risk to general public, and (3) petitioner failed to sustain its burden of proving that DEC's determination was unlawful on ground that permits had been granted to applicants with like records, or that trust agreement like one which petitioner proposed had been accepted when proposed by prior successful candidate for like permit. Al Turi Landfill, Inc. v New York State Dep't of Envtl. Conservation, 183 Misc. 2d 787, 705 N.Y.S.2d 839, 2000 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 74 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2000).

Notwithstanding the earlier enacted provisions of N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752 and 753 regarding certificates of relief from disabilities, an applicant with an unpardoned felony conviction involving fraud, dishonesty, or a breach of trust, as of the effective date of N.Y. Banking Law § 599-e, cannot be licensed as a mortgage loan originator in New York State. Rampolla v Banking Dept. of the State of New York, 916 N.Y.S.2d 492, 31 Misc. 3d 161, 2010 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 6366 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2010), aff'd, 93 A.D.3d 526, 940 N.Y.S.2d 257, 2012 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2045 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2012).

Without a reasoned evaluation of the factors enumerated in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753, the Department of Education failed to demonstrate that petitioner's criminal history for larceny bore a direct relationship to her duties as a school bus attendant or that qualifying her as such would create an unreasonable risk to the public. Matter of Boone v New York City Dept. of Educ., 53 Misc. 3d 380, 38 N.Y.S.3d 711, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2769 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016).

Department of Correction's (DOC) revocation of petitioner's license to work in a correctional facility was arbitrary and capricious as the DOC failed to consider all the requisite factors and the decision was initially based solely on the results of a criminal background check and prior conviction, without any determination as to whether there was a direct relationship between petitioner's misdemeanor conviction and license. Matter of Dudley v City of New York, 56 Misc. 3d 448, 50 N.Y.S.3d 856, 2017 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 1449 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017).

5. Application to particular employment

Denial by the department of education (DOE) of an application for a security clearance was improper because the "closer review" purportedly applied by the DOE amounted to nothing more than a pro forma denial of the application on the basis of the applicant's prior criminal conviction and such a denial, without consideration of the N.Y. Correct. Law § 753 factors, was precisely what the statute prohibited and was arbitrary and capricious; among the considerations listed in an affidavit of the DOE's director for employee relations was that the applicant did not provide references from prior employers, but the interview notice did not state that the applicant should provide such references, and her interviewer did not ask her for those references. Further, other than her personal statement, the DOE did not consider the documentation that the applicant submitted. Matter of Acosta v New York City Dept. of Educ., 16 N.Y.3d 309, 921 N.Y.S.2d 633, 946 N.E.2d 731, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 437 (N.Y. 2011).

Department of education's denial of petitioner's application for certification as a school bus driver, despite a certificate of relief from disabilities, was not arbitrary and capricious, as he had felony convictions for possession and attempted sale of drugs, as well as well as multiple misdemeanor convictions, and he was of mature age at the time of his more recent offenses. Matter of Dempsey v New York City Dept. of Educ., 25 N.Y.3d 291, 33 N.E.3d 485, 11 N.Y.S.3d 529, 2015 N.Y. LEXIS 1033 (N.Y. 2015).

Petitioner was entitled to be considered for employment as bus driver with Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority (MBSTOA), despite his prior conviction of second degree bribe taking, where he presented certificate of relief from disabilities, since MBSTOA failed to meet its statutory burden of rebutting presumption of rehabilitation arising from issuance of such certificate under CLS Correc Art 23-A in absence of direct relationship between bus driving and bribe receiving conviction, or showing that petitioner would pose unreasonable risk to public; hearing was not required to determine whether presumption was rebutted since MBSTOA was not being ordered to hire petitioner but only to reconsider his application. Meth v Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority, 134 A.D.2d 431, 521 N.Y.S.2d 54, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 50616 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1987).

Where the collective bargaining agreement provided that an employee convicted of a felony could be suspended with pay for 60 days after which, in the event there had been no resolution of the disciplinary charges, the suspension was without pay, the agreement did not unlawfully discriminate against felons in violation of N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752(1), 753, as those statutes expressly permitted employment discrimination against felons where there was a direct relationship between the criminal offense and the specific employment. Rosa v City Univ., 13 A.D.3d 162, 789 N.Y.S.2d 4, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 15116 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2004), app. denied, 5 N.Y.3d 705, 801 N.Y.S.2d 252, 834 N.E.2d 1262, 2005 N.Y. LEXIS 1524 (N.Y. 2005).

Regarding the denial of an application for employment as a bus driver with a voluntary corporation based on the applicant's 1988 conviction for assault, a state agency improperly failed to consider the public policy factor in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753(1)(a) and the presumption of rehabilitation in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753(2). Matter of Gallo v State of N.Y., Off. of Mental Retardation & Dev. Disabilities, 37 A.D.3d 984, 830 N.Y.S.2d 796, 2007 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1965 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2007).

Because there was no showing that the crimes for which an employee was convicted were relevant to the employee's duties or posed an unreasonable danger to those involved in a preschool program, pursuant to N.Y. Correct. Law § 753(1)(b), the denial of the employee's application for employment was arbitrary and capricious; therefore, the employee was entitled to N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 relief. Matter of Acosta v New York City Dept. of Educ., 62 A.D.3d 455, 878 N.Y.S.2d 337, 2009 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3552 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2009), aff'd in part, modified, 16 N.Y.3d 309, 921 N.Y.S.2d 633, 946 N.E.2d 731, 2011 N.Y. LEXIS 437 (N.Y. 2011).

As a civilian who sought a job as a police communications technician had a prior criminal conviction, and such position was expressly exempted from the statutory definition of "employment," her application was properly denied and the statutory factors did not have to be considered. Matter of Belgrave v City of New York, 137 A.D.3d 439, 27 N.Y.S.3d 2, 2016 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1532 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't), app. denied, 27 N.Y.3d 909, 60 N.E.3d 1201, 38 N.Y.S.3d 835, 2016 N.Y. LEXIS 1695 (N.Y. 2016).

While the state office of mental retardation and developmental disabilities (OMRDD) noted the factors set forth in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753 in making a determination under N.Y. Correct. Law § 752 concerning the applicant's employment with a county agency, the OMRDD's determination was arbitrary and capricious as the specific employment duties in the position applied for were not set out and the OMRDD failed to specify the bearing, if any, that the applicant's convictions would have on her fitness or ability to perform such duties or responsibilities; the determination also failed to articulate in any meaningful way the positive factors, such as the applicant's graduation from community college with distinction. Black v New York State Off. of Mental Retardation & Dev. Disabilities, 858 N.Y.S.2d 859, 20 Misc. 3d 581, 239 N.Y.L.J. 77, 2008 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3113 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2008).

New York City Civil Service Commission was not irrational or arbitrary in concluding that the disqualification of a city department employee based on his prior convictions failed to comply with N.Y. Correct. Law § 752. The Commission rationally concluded, based on a consideration of the factors enumerated in N.Y. Correct. Law § 753, that there was no direct relationship between the employee's past offenses and his position; further, it was also rational for the Commission to conclude that it was not a threat to public safety for the employee to hold his position, which was performed under supervision and did not involve dealing with the public. Matter of City of New York v New York City Civ. Serv. Commn., 30 A.D.3d 227, 817 N.Y.S.2d 254, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8035 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2006).

Determination terminating a court reporter's employment was proper because, inter alia, N.Y. Correct. Law §§ 752, 753 permitted adverse employment action under circumstances in which there was direct relationship between the court reporter's criminal offense involving identity theft and credit card fraud, and her employment, in which, as an officer of the court, she was charged with producing a true, accurate, and complete record of court proceedings. Matter of Association of Surrogates, & Supreme Ct. Reporters v State of New York Unified Ct. Sys., 48 A.D.3d 228, 851 N.Y.S.2d 170, 2008 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 946 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2008).

In an Article 78 proceeding, the statute did not apply to the New York City Department of Correction's (DOC) revocation of petitioner's security clearance to work at a correction facility, as although petitioner did not seek employment with DOC, petitioner's application for a license to work within the confines of the facility rendered him an applicant for membership with DOC, the purpose of the security clearance was to grant him the same access to the facility afforded to DOC employees, and petitioner was engaged in providing services to prisoners on behalf of DOC. Matter of Graves v City of New York, 53 Misc. 3d 895, 38 N.Y.S.3d 741, 2016 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3304 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2016), app. dismissed, 175 A.D.3d 418, 104 N.Y.S.3d 541, 2019 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6147 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dep't 2019).

Civil service applicant, otherwise qualified for position as housing caretaker for New York City Housing Authority, may not be denied position based solely on prior manslaughter conviction where tasks of position are not shown to be directly related to conviction or to present unreasonable risk to persons or property, and where statutory policy favors employment of ex-offenders. Soto-Lopez v New York City Civil Service Com., 713 F. Supp. 677, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5548 (S.D.N.Y. 1989).

There is nothing in New York Insurance Law that would prevent Superintendent of Insurance from issuing insurance agent's license to individual with prior misdemeanor conviction of third degree forgery; Superintendent may issue license if, in his judgment, he finds individual to be trustworthy and competent to act as insurance agent and individual has met prerequisites for licensing. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 05-02-17.

With regard to "1033 waiver" (under 18 USCS § 1033), Insurance Department makes determination as to trustworthiness and competence of applicant in view of specific circumstances of crime committed by individual; in event applicant is also applying for license, provisions of CLS Correc §§ 750-753 also must be satisfied. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 09-08-05.

1. Generally, presumption of rehabilitation

Licensing officials are authorized to consider the fitness of an applicant. In considering the effect of a prior conviction, the licensing officer may deny a license only after making the determinations required by the Legislature. No public hearing is required in making such a licensing determination. N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 84-37.

2. Application to particular employment

The Police Department of the Village of Malone may request the transfer of a CETA employee who is assigned to work as a dispatcher in the Police Department upon discovering that he has been convicted of a felony even though the employee had obtained a certificate of relief from disabilities. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen 81–7 (informal), 1981 N.Y. Notes to Decisions

Prospective employee who had previously been dismissed from tenured position with county probation department after determination in civil forum that she was guilty of certain specifications of misconduct had not been convicted of "criminal offenses" within meaning of CLS Correc § 751, and thus was not entitled to compel production of written statement delineating reasons for denial of her employment application under provisions of CLS Correc § 754. N.Y. C.P.L.R. art. 78 proceeding challenging a determination by the state officer of mental retardation and developmental disabilities that a job applicant could not work for a county agency due to her criminal convictions was not premature because N.Y. § 307. System revenues; adjustment of surcharge

All surcharge monies remitted to the municipality by a service supplier and all other monies dedicated to the payment of system costs from whatever source derived or received by the municipality shall be expended only upon authorization of the board and only for payment of system costs as permitted by this article. The municipality shall separately account for and keep adequate books and records of the amount and source of all such revenues and of the amount and object or purpose of all expenditures thereof. If at the end of any fiscal year the total amount of all such revenues exceeds the amount necessary for payment of system costs in such fiscal year, such excess shall be reserved and carried over for the payment of system costs in the following fiscal year. However, if at the end of any fiscal year such E911 reserved fund balance exceeds an amount equal to five percent of that necessary for the payment of system costs in such fiscal year, the board shall by local law reduce the surcharge for the following fiscal year to a level which more adequately reflects the system cost requirements of its E911 system. The board may also by local law reestablish or increase such surcharge, subject to the provisions of section three hundred three of this article, if the revenues generated by such surcharge and by any other source are not adequate to pay for system costs.

In promulgating such standards, the board shall examine national models of best practice. Such standards shall be promulgated no later than October first, two thousand three.

(b) In addition, the board shall promulgate minimum standards regarding direct dispatch of all emergency services and jurisdictional protocols. Such standards shall be promulgated no later than April first, two thousand three.

Standards for expedited deployment funding shall consider whether the projected costs are reasonably necessary for the provision of enhanced wireless 911 service and whether the priority enhanced wireless plan conforms to the FCC order.

6. The board shall review the certification and information submitted by a local public safety answering point, local governmental entity or the division of state police to ensure the public safety answering points are in compliance with the applicable standards that the board has promulgated pursuant to subdivision four of this section. Where the board determines that a local or state public safety answering point is not in compliance with the applicable standards promulgated pursuant to subdivision four of this section, the board shall follow the procedures outlined in section three hundred twenty-nine of this article.

7. The board shall develop procedures for a local government to terminate the routing of wireless 911 service calls to a local public safety answering point for such local government.

8. The board shall develop and implement an educational plan for informing the public about the enhanced wireless 911 service in New York state. This plan shall include, but not be limited to, an explanation of the enhanced wireless 911 system and a progress report on the county-by-county implementation of the statewide system. This information shall be provided via electronic, paper and telephonic means. Access to such information shall be made available for remote computer users through the internet or via telephone calls through a toll-free hotline number. This plan shall be updated as new information becomes available to the board not less than four times per year.

9. The board shall issue an annual report to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the minority leader of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, and the minority leader of the assembly, on or before March first of each year, regarding the board's activities in the previous calendar year, including but not limited to, the status of 911 services across the state, including the extent to which public safety answering points across the state are equipped to receive enhanced wireless 911 calls, the allocation of moneys from the fund including allocations made and not disbursed, and the disbursements of moneys from the fund.

10. a. The New York state interoperable and emergency communication board shall make recommendations to the commissioner of the division of homeland security and emergency services on the expenditure of grants and other funding programs related to interoperable and emergency communications. In carrying out this responsibility, and consistent with the mission of the division of homeland security and emergency services, the board will make recommendations related to the development, coordination and implementation of policies, plans, standards, programs and services related to interoperable and emergency communications, including but not limited to ensuring compliance with federal mandates for interoperable communications and compatibility with the National Incident Management System.

§ 355. Contents of tentative budget

1. The tentative budget as submitted to the board of supervisors shall contain the following:

(a) A statement of the several amounts recommended as necessary to be appropriated for conducting the business of the county and for other purposes contemplated by this chapter and otherwise by law for the ensuing fiscal year. Such statement shall be classified by funds and administrative units which shall be subdivided according to units of organization and shall itemize the character and object of expenditure.

(b) A statement of the several amounts recommended to be appropriated for authorized agencies.

(c) A statement of the amount required for payment of interest on and amortization of or redemption of indebtedness of the county during the ensuing fiscal year.

(d) A statement of the amount recommended as necessary to be appropriated for the payment of judgments against the county payable during the ensuing fiscal year.

(e) A statement of the amounts needed to provide for uncollectible and uncollected real property taxes.

(f) A statement of the estimated amount of revenues to be received by the county during the ensuing fiscal year, other than the proceeds of the tax on real estate levied for such fiscal year. Such statement shall be classified to show receipts by funds, administrative units and sources of revenue.

(g) A statement of the fund balance for each fund estimated to be on hand at the close of the current fiscal year, together with a breakdown of such fund balance estimated for encumbrances, amounts appropriated for the ensuing fiscal year's budget, amounts reserved for stated purposes pursuant to law, including reserve funds established pursuant to the general municipal law, and the remaining estimated unappropriated unreserved fund balance for each fund, provided that the remaining estimated unappropriated unreserved fund balance for each fund shall not exceed a reasonable amount, consistent with prudent budgeting practices, necessary to ensure the orderly operation of county government and the continued provision of services, taking into account factors including, but not limited to, the size of the fund, cash flows, the certainty with which the amounts of revenues and expenditures can be estimated, and the county's experience in prior fiscal years.

(h) A statement of the amount of any sinking fund which is available and which is required to be applied to the payment of the principal of and interest on any indebtedness of the county falling due during the ensuing fiscal year.

(i) A statement for each reserve fund established pursuant to article two of the general municipal law, showing the amount therein, the purpose for which established and the amounts, if any, recommended to be spent therefrom during the ensuing fiscal year to meet appropriations for such fiscal year. A requirement of law that an expenditure from any such reserve fund be subject to a permissive or mandatory referendum shall not prevent the inclusion of a recommendation for such expenditure in the tentative budget.

2. The tentative budget shall not include moneys received or estimated to be received by the county and held by it as agent or trustee for payment to the state or to any political subdivision, provided, however, that such moneys shall be included in the tentative budget if they are to be raised by tax levied by the board of supervisors.

3. The tentative budget shall be subdivided into the following:

(a) A schedule of recommended appropriations, containing the statements required by paragraphs (a) to (e), inclusive, of subdivision one of this section, so arranged as to show in parallel columns the following comparative information: (1) expenditures for the last completed fiscal year; (2) appropriations for the current fiscal year, reflecting supplemental appropriations to a date not more than forty-five days prior to the filing of the tentative budget with the clerk of the board of supervisors; (3) the amounts requested to be appropriated by administrative units and authorized agencies for the ensuing fiscal year; and (4) the budget officer's recommended appropriations for the ensuing fiscal year.

(b) A schedule of estimated revenues other than real estate taxes to be levied, containing the statements required by paragraph (f) of subdivision one of this section, so arranged as to show in parallel columns the following comparative information: (1) revenues for the last completed fiscal year; (2) estimated revenues for the current fiscal year as modified to a date not more than forty-five days prior to the filing of the tentative budget with the clerk of the board of supervisors; and (3) the budget officer's estimate of revenues for the ensuing fiscal year.

(c) A schedule of estimated fund balances and the amounts thereof to be appropriated in the ensuing fiscal year's budget.

(d) A schedule of reserve funds containing the statements required by paragraph (i) of subdivision one of this section.

(e) An exhibit showing the computation of the amount or amounts to be levied on real estate.

4. A supplemental statement shall be included at the end of the tentative budget which shall set forth the indebtedness of the county evidenced by bonds and notes, including indebtedness authorized and unissued, as of a date not more than forty-five days prior to the filing of the tentative budget with the clerk of the board of supervisors.

5. The tentative budget shall include any other matter which the board of supervisors by resolution or by action taken pursuant to section three hundred seventy-six may require or which the budget officer deems advisable.

Revision Commission Notes: Nothing in paragraph f of this section is intended to relieve the county from any existing liability relative to payment of deficits in taxes and assessments payable to the supervisor under the warrant.

Repeal Notes: [1978, ch 350] Former paragraph (e) of subdivision one, of the county law, repealed by this act, related to statements of appropriations and estimated revenues required to be contained in the tentative budget as submitted to the county legislative body, relating to payments to non-city school districts on account of delinquent school taxes.

Former paragraph (h) of subdivision one of section three hundred fifty-five of the county law, repealed by this act, related to the statement of estimated receipts from delinquent taxes.

Notes to Decisions

Taxpayer's Article 78 proceeding to compel invalidation of county budget, on ground that county executive unlawfully kept revenues off-budget in violation of county charter, raised justiciable controversy, despite principle that courts cannot and will not intervene in budget process if doing so requires them to substitute their judgment on matters of discretion, since taxpayer did not question executive's discretionary power to estimate surplus funds, or even to spread them over several years, if some legal method of doing so could be found. Korn v Gulotta, 72 N.Y.2d 363, 534 N.Y.S.2d 108, 530 N.E.2d 816, 1988 N.Y. LEXIS 2686 (N.Y. 1988).

Action by city to recover an excessive real estate tax paid to the county, on the ground that budget contained excessive appropriations and surpluses, was dismissed, because the city should have objected at the public hearing required by § 359 to be held before the budget was adopted, and because this section required only that the estimated surpluses, rather than the actual surpluses, in the various funds be applied to the reduction of the real estate tax levy, and because the unappropriated cash surplus, being the difference between the actual surplus and the estimated surplus, might be appropriated for any lawful purpose, and therefore could not be required to be appropriated for the reduction of the real estate tax. Beacon v County of Dutchess, 285 A.D. 1050, 139 N.Y.S.2d 462, 1955 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 6650 (N.Y. App. Div. 1955).

Blank spaces left in 4 places on proposed fiscal year county budget, where any deficits for 4 funds in question would otherwise be stated, did not render budget violative of county charter provision requiring proposed budget to state any estimated deficit in any fund to be made up in ensuing fiscal year, even though use of "0" in lieu of blank space was preferable, since use of blank space to mean "0" had been acceptable format for budgets of county since 1943. Cioci v Mondello, 153 Misc. 2d 312, 581 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 60 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

County board of supervisors' reductions in amounts allocated for various departments in proposed fiscal year county budget did not improperly convert line-by-line proposed budget into lump-sum budget where board was authorized to reduce any item of appropriation, and board was not required to invade prerogatives of department heads by selecting employees to be laid off or whose salaries were to be reduced, or equipment, materials or supplies to be dispensed with. Cioci v Mondello, 153 Misc. 2d 312, 581 N.Y.S.2d 703, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 60 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

A county participating in the operation of a regional off-track betting corporation may provide that some of the revenue received by the county be distributed in part to municipalities in which betting parlors are located and in part to all municipalities in the county. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen April 6 (informal).

Where unpaid school district taxes are returned to the county for enforcement of the collection thereof, and the county subsequently compromises its claims for such taxes with a railroad corporation, there is no authority for the county to charge back the loss resulting from the compromise to the school district involved. 1980 Op St Compt File #9.

Even though collective bargaining agreement contained neither "job security" clause nor a "just cause" dismissal clause, where sections of County Law provided that county board of supervisors could not reappropriate funds from existing appropriations which were fully encumbered, and where, after execution of agreement between employee and community college, board of supervisors passed resolution which purportedly deleted employee's new position and reinstated employee's former position, arbitrator could properly find that county was without authority to pass resolution and was obligated to adhere to terms of agreement with employee. § 401. Deputies

1. Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the board of supervisors may authorize any officer of the county paid from county funds or the head of any department to appoint one or more deputies, who shall perform such duties not inconsistent with law as shall be assigned to them by the appointing officer. In the event an authorized officer or department head fails to appoint one or more deputies and the authorized officer or department head is disabled for a period greater than thirty days, the board of supervisors may appoint such a deputy who shall possess the powers and perform the duties of the principal until the disability is removed or until a successor is elected or appointed and has qualified.

2. If there be but one deputy, he shall possess the powers and perform the duties of his principal during the absence or inability of his principal to act. If there be more than one deputy, the principal shall designate in writing and file in the office of the county clerk and of the clerk of the board of supervisors the order in which they are to serve during his absence or inability to act.

3. In the event of a vacancy in the office of the principal, such deputy, or the deputy so designated, shall possess the powers and perform the duties of his principal until the disability is removed, or, in case of a vacancy, until a successor is elected or appointed and has qualified. If no designation shall have been made and filed, the senior deputy shall act.

4. In the event of a vacancy in the office of the principal, the board of supervisors may require such deputy to furnish an official undertaking in an amount fixed by such board and approved as provided in this chapter, and upon default thereof, said board of supervisors shall have the power to designate another employee in such office or department as the acting principal officer, who upon executing and filing such undertaking shall have and exercise the powers and duties of the office until a successor is elected or appointed and has qualified.

5. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the office of undersheriff, or to the office of coroner or to the office of coroner's physician.

6. The provisions of this section shall supersede inconsistent provisions of section nine of the public officers law.

HISTORY:

Add, L 1950, ch 691, eff Jan 1, 1951, with substance transferred from §§ 12 (sub 40), 141; amd, L 1951, ch 109, § 1; L 1962, ch 897, § 4, eff Sept 1, 1962; L 1994, ch 490, § 1, eff July 26, 1994.

Editor's Notes: See 1962 note under § 400.

Revision Notes: [1951, ch 109] Section 526, subdivision 1 of the county law provides that the county clerk shall appoint one deputy who shall, during the temporary absence or inability of the county clerk, have and exercise all of the powers and duties of the office; and in case of a vacancy perform the duties of the clerk until the vacancy is filled. Section 526, subdivision 2 of the county law authorizes the county clerk to designate employees of the office as deputy county clerks. Many of the larger counties currently have more than one deputy county clerk. This act is intended to authorize the continuance of that practice and, in addition, to authorize boards of supervisors of other counties to provide for the appointment of additional deputy county clerks.

Revision Commission Notes: The provision as to deputy county treasurer was former Section 12, Subd. 40. This section is intended to modify the provisions of Section 9 of the Public Officers Law in the number that may be appointed and the power to require an undertaking.

1. In general

The power of the county clerk to select and appoint his own subordinates may be reasonably controlled in the interests of economy and governmental efficiency, so that a local law which requires the county clerk to certify that certain non-Civil Service officials whose positions were abolished as part of a governmental reorganization are necessary to the efficient conduct of his office in order to retain their services and which makes their retention subject to approval by the board of estimate does not conflict with this section. Volpe v New York, 264 A.D. 289, 35 N.Y.S.2d 233, 1942 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4133 (N.Y. App. Div. 1942).

County social services department's termination of caseworker's employment was violation of lawful procedure where commissioner who reviewed hearing officer's report and made final termination decision also preferred charges, selected hearing officer, and testified at hearing, and thus was disqualified from acting on those charges; case would be remitted to department for de novo determination by person who was not involved in original hearing. Trahan v Jefferson County Dep't of Soc. Servs., 281 A.D.2d 984, 722 N.Y.S.2d 682, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2913 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 732 N.Y.S.2d 622, 2001 N.Y. App. Div. § 408-a. Advertising for bids; letting of contracts.

1. Every officer, board or agency of the county shall let all contracts for public work and all purchase contracts to the lowest responsible bidder after advertisement for bids where so required by section one hundred three of the general municipal law. The board of supervisors may require contracts involving an expenditure of less than the amount specified in such section to be let in the manner provided therein. The term "officer" as used in this section shall mean and include any officer paid compensation from county funds.

2. [Until July 31, 2024] The board of supervisors may, in the case of any purchase contract or any contract for services, other than services subject to article nine of the labor law, of the county to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder after advertisement for bids, authorize the inclusion of a provision whereby purchases may be made or such services may be obtained under such contract by any political subdivision or fire company (as both are defined in section one hundred of the general municipal law) or district. In such event, the board shall adopt rules prescribing the conditions under which, and the manner in which, purchases may be made or services may be obtained by such political subdivision, fire company or district.

2. [Eff July 31, 2024] The board of supervisors may, in the case of any purchase contract or any contract for services, other than services subject to article eight or nine of the labor law, of the county to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder after advertisement for bids, authorize the inclusion of a provision whereby purchases may be made or such services may be obtained under such contract by any political subdivision or fire company (as both are defined in section one hundred of the general municipal law) or district. In such event, the board shall adopt rules prescribing the conditions under which, and the manner in which, purchases may be made or services may be obtained by such political subdivision, fire company or district.

Revision Notes: [1961, ch 114] The purpose of this act is to empower county boards of supervisors to permit fire companies in the county to make purchases of materials, equipment and supplies under county purchase contracts. Items so purchased would, of course, be paid for by the fire companies.

At the 1960 session of the Legislature, Chapter 104 was enacted to authorize fire companies to make purchases under state contracts. This act would provide such companies with an alternative procedure under which they might make purchases under county contracts. See Gen Mun Law §§ 100, 104.

1. In general

Successful bid on contract for collection of delinquent patient accounts at county medical center did not violate bid specifications on ground that it proposed higher rate than rate contained in another contract with state university because subject matter of state contract, collection of delinquent student accounts, was not same or similar to subject matter of instant contract. Amana Credit Services, Inc. v Erie County Medical Center, 148 A.D.2d 1006, 539 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2574 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Petitioners lacked standing to challenge determination accepting bids of highest bidders to provide towing services on county-owned property and facilities, despite argument that cost of contracts would create illegal tax, since there was no allegation that alleged tax created by bidding process would be imposed on petitioners. Dun-Rite Towing v County of Westchester, 221 A.D.2d 628, 634 N.Y.S.2d 173, 1995 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12374 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1995).

While there are statutory and common law exceptions to § 103 of the General Municipal Law, there is no exception to competitive bidding requirements of this section based solely on the fact that the commodities purchased are medical supplies. Also, it should be noted that §§ 103-a and 103-b of the General Municipal Law relating to disqualification from contracting with municipal corporations for refusal to testify or waive immunity from prosecution have been declared unconstitutional as violation of the privilege against self-incrimination. 1990 Op St Compt 90-18.

2. No bidding required

An off-track betting corporation, a public benefit corporation, could properly execute contract for computer data processing services without competitive bidding. American Totalisator Co. v Western Regional Off-Track Betting Corp., 44 A.D.2d 750, 396 N.Y.S.2d 301, 1974 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 5334 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1974).

CLS County § 408-a was inapplicable to solicitation of bids by Oswego County Opportunities, Inc. (OCO) for construction of its new facility because OCO is not agency of Oswego County or any other municipality and, since it did not receive municipal funding for project, contract was not one for "public work" governed by CLS Gen Mun § 103; in any event, because project was entirely funded by bonds issued by County Industrial Development Agency, it was exempt from requirements of public bidding pursuant to CLS Gen Mun § 884. B. Milligan Contr., Inc. v Oswego County Opportunities, Inc., 258 A.D.2d 931, 685 N.Y.S.2d 359, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1613 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1999).

Contract for supplying unit dosage medication to two extended care nursing facilities called for professional knowledge and skill and, as a matter of law, was not subject to the requirement of competitive bidding for public contracts. Goldwin-Kent, Inc. v County of Broome, 107 Misc. 2d 722, 435 N.Y.S.2d 1011, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2090 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1981).

3. Contract values triggering competitive bidding requirement

Purchases chargeable to county road machinery fund which involve an expenditure of more than $1,000 must be made after competitive bidding in compliance with Gen Mun Law § 103. 1954 Ops St Compt File #6491.

A county contract for the printing of town assessment rolls is subject to competitive bidding if the price exceeds $1,000. 1959 Ops St Compt File #26.

All purchase contracts involving an expenditure of more than one thousand dollars shall be awarded to the lowest possible bidder. Purchases of items in this category may also be made through the county or the state, eliminating the need for advertisement for bids. 1967 Ops St Compt File #615.

A contract for the printing of the proceedings of a board of supervisors may be effectuated without competitive bidding if it involves an expenditure of $2500 or less. 1969 Ops St Compt File #735.

4. Equal opportunity to compete

County's use of penalty points in evaluating bids on contract for collection of delinquent patient accounts at county medical center did not constitute recomputation of bids and did not deny petitioner equal opportunity to compete and to make intelligent bid. Amana Credit Services, Inc. v Erie County Medical Center, 148 A.D.2d 1006, 539 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2574 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

5. Bidders entitled to favored consideration

Owner of trucking business was deprived of her constitutional right to due process by county's decertification of her status as Women's Business Enterprise (which entitled her to favored consideration in awarding of county contracts), where no notice was given that her certification was in jeopardy prior to decertification, and no opportunity to submit evidence on her own behalf was given until after decertification; however, owner was not entitled to full evidentiary hearing before independent referee. Chrisley v Morin, 126 A.D.2d 977, 511 N.Y.S.2d 753, 1987 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 42098 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. dismissed, 69 N.Y.2d 1037, 517 N.Y.S.2d 1030, 511 N.E.2d 89, 1987 N.Y. LEXIS 17249 (N.Y. 1987).

6. Rejecting bids

County did not abuse its discretion in rejecting bid on contract for collection of delinquent patient accounts at county medical center since bid substantially and materially varied from bid specifications where bid was expressed as flat dollar amount rather than as percentage of delinquent amount. Amana Credit Services, Inc. v Erie County Medical Center, 148 A.D.2d 1006, 539 N.Y.S.2d 237, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 2574 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

County properly rejected petitioner's bid on sewage sludge disposal contract where county's instructions to bidders expressly stated that conditional bids would not be accepted, but petitioner's bid stated that petitioner reserved right to terminate agreement if revision of standards of U.S. Environmental Protection Agency prevented discharge of volume of sludge required by contract within available dumping time; conditional language of bid did not constitute simple statement of black letter law as to impossibility of performance since petitioner clearly reserved right to decide when it considered performance to be impossible. A&S Transp. Co. v County of Nassau, 154 A.D.2d 456, 546 N.Y.S.2d 109, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12463 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

County properly rejected petitioner's bid on sewage sludge disposal contract where county's instructions to bidders expressly stated that conditional bids would not be accepted, but petitioner's bid stated that petitioner reserved right to terminate agreement if revision of standards of U.S. Environmental Protection Agency prevented discharge of volume of sludge required by contract within available dumping time; conditional language of bid did not constitute simple statement of black letter law as to impossibility of performance since petitioner clearly reserved right to decide when it considered performance to be impossible. A&S Transp. Co. v County of Nassau, 154 A.D.2d 456, 546 N.Y.S.2d 109, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 12463 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 1989).

County's refusal to award contract for transportation services for disabled children to petitioner, as lowest bidder, was not arbitrary and capricious where fulfilling contract would have required petitioner to rapidly increase size of its operation, and deficiencies in its explanatory submissions raised substantial doubt as to its ability to meet demands of contract. Donson Transp. Servs. v County of Broome, 257 A.D.2d 825, 683 N.Y.S.2d 642, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 366 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

7. Attempt to manipulate bidding

County did not improperly waive requirement that bidder comply with special instructions by allowing bidder to comply 2 to 5 days after bid opening where late submission did not impair county's interests nor did it place any other bidders at competitive disadvantage. Diamond "D" Constr. Corp. v County of Erie, 209 A.D.2d 922, 619 N.Y.S.2d 413, 1994 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11903 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1994).

8. Terms allowed in public contracts

A county may enter into an elevator maintenance contract for a term longer than those of its elected legislators. 1974 Ops St Compt File #650.

3. Attempt to manipulate bidding
4. Terms allowed in public contracts

1. In general

Where equipment is purchased pursuant to competitive bidding requirements, specifications may not be drawn in such a way nor, for purposes of determining the lowest responsible bidder, may bids be weighted in such a way as will reflect the cost and/or incidence of repairs as well as the purchase price. 1978 Op St Compt File #628.

2. Contract values triggering competitive bidding requirement

A County Superintendent of Highways is an officer, as defined in County Law, § 408(a)(1), and must therefore award contracts in accordance with the procedures outlined in General Municipal Law, § 103. Such contracts must be competitively bid, if the value exceeds $1,000.00 for purchase contracts or $2,500.00 for public works contracts, and the award must be made to the lowest responsible bidder. 1972 NY Ops Atty Gen June 23.

A county may not enter into a purchase contract for equipment in excess of three thousand dollars without competitive bidding. 1979 NY Ops Atty Gen July 2 (Informal).

3. Attempt to manipulate bidding

A county and a vendor may not agree to extend the term of a county purchase contract, which by its own terms has expired, so that municipalities may make purchases thereunder without competitive bidding. 1979 Op St Compt File #297.

4. Terms allowed in public contracts

A choice of law clause within a public contract would be permissible so long as there is authorization to enter into the underlying contract. 1983 Op St Compt File #83-178.

Notes to Decisions

State Civil Service Commission did not act arbitrarily in refusing to classify Broome County sealer of weights and measures in the unclassified service where the sealer had supervision over one deputy and an exceedingly small budget for other subordinates, his discretion was limited by statute, his duties were more ministerial than administerial, his powers were more in the nature of a peace officer in a specialized field, there were no large policy matters for him to decide nor a division of government for him to supervise, and he was under the direct supervision of the director of civil services who was in turn a subordinate of the county executive. New Jersey police officers were not authorized to execute federal arrest warrant in New York, and resulting evidence was subject to suppression, where case did not involve hot pursuit. People v LaFontaine, 92 N.Y.2d 470, 682 N.Y.S.2d 671, 705 N.E.2d 663, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4047 (N.Y. 1998).

Sixth Amendment right to counsel did not entitle wife, who was accused of murdering her terminally ill husband, to have her pathologist present at autopsy of husband's body conducted by county medical examiner at request of district attorney under CLS Pub Health § 4210(4) where mere fact that examiner's determination might be critical element of prosecution's case did not make autopsy critical stage of criminal proceeding; examiner, as independently appointed physician, was not under district attorney's control, was not peace officer, and had no law enforcement powers. Scheufler v Bruno, 250 A.D.2d 268, 684 N.Y.S.2d 305, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 523 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 1999).

Division of Criminal Justice Services does not have authority to unilaterally determine peace officer's status or to remove individual's name from registry; accordingly, division's unilateral decision to remove defendant's name from peace officer's registry, which led to his indictment for criminal possession of weapon in third degree, is ineffective and thus indictment is dismissed. People v Ferrara, 128 Misc. 2d 687, 490 N.Y.S.2d 462, 1985 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2979 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1985).

Defendant was not entitled to dismissal of those counts charging him with aggravated assault on police officer or peace officer under CLS Penal § 120.11 for shooting at federal agents from Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau, Drug Enforcement Agency and United States Customs Bureau, notwithstanding that federal law enforcement officers are not listed as police or peace officers in CLS CPL §§ 1.20 and 2.10, since CLS CPL § 2.15 confers peace officer powers on such federal officers, and intent of § 2.15 was to create another, viable law enforcement force with most of peace officer powers of state law enforcement officers. People v Nezaj, 139 Misc. 2d 366, 528 N.Y.S.2d 491, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 96 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Where deputy director of security for county interviewed former employee of county nursing home in relation to misappropriation of funds, deputy director was peace officer within meaning of CLS CPL § 2.10. People v Knapp, 141 Misc. 2d 517, 533 N.Y.S.2d 413, 1988 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 544 (N.Y. County Ct. 1988).

New York City Marshal who worked with tow truck operator in enforcing parking laws and towing cars of scofflaws was not "peace officer" charged with duties under CLS CPL § 2.20, although New York City Marshals trained in firearms handling who have firearms permit from city's police department license division are designated as "peace officers" under CLS CPL § 2.10(33), as CLS CPL § 2.30 requires all peace officers to receive certification as such, and city had not sought state certification of city marshals as peace officers. Gonzalez v City of New York, 167 Misc. 2d 577, 638 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 28 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

There was a rational basis for eliminating the position of Senior Court Clerk in the Third and Fourth Judicial Departments while retaining it in the First and Second Judicial Departments, as there was a difference between the duties of Court Clerks upstate and Court Clerks downstate. Under CPL 2.10(21)(b), Court Clerks in the First and Second Judicial Departments were designated as peace officers and were required to attend firearms training for security backup purposes; a union's claim that the reclassification violated N.Y. Civ. Serv. Law § 115 was based on its mistaken belief that the peace officer status for Senior Court Clerks was meaningless and that the clerical duties of both titles were identical. Matter of Civil Serv. Empls. Assn., Inc., Local 1000, AFSCME, AFL-CIO v State of N.Y. Unified Ct. Sys., 35 A.D.3d 1008, 825 N.Y.S.2d 822, 2006 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 14797 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2006).

Superintendent of Insurance is authorized to establish insurance frauds bureau and designate its employees as peace officers as defined in CLS CPL § 2.10 who are vested with authority to conduct searches and make arrests. Insurance Department, Opinions of General Counsel, Opinion Number 03-10-32.

Since Deputy Commissioner does not have peace officer status, holding that position would not expressly violate rules or statutes prohibiting part-time judge from employment as police or peace officer. Ops Adv Comm Jud Ethics No. 05-50.

Town justice may accept employment as Security Officer at community college where he/she would not be peace officer, would not have powers of arrest beyond that of private citizen, and college is not located within his/her jurisdiction. Ops Adv Comm Jud Ethics No. 05-73.

2. Local special police

Petitioner, who did not meet age requirements for appointment as city police officer, was not entitled to appointment on basis of his permanent appointment as security officer of Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority since he was designated only as peace officer under CLS CPL § 2.10(17) and was not police officer within meaning of CLS Civ S § 58. Mulhern v Vossler, 151 A.D.2d 1022, 542 N.Y.S.2d 86, 1989 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8366 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't 1989).

Prosecution was properly allowed to reopen its case to present additional evidence that assault victim was peace officer under CLS Penal § 120.05(3) where (1) on direct examination, victim offered competent evidence that he qualified as peace officer under 2 categories in CLS CPL § 2.10 (uniformed court officer of Unified Court System and special patrolman of political subdivision appointed under CLS Gen Mun § 209-v), (2) defense counsel, instead of cross-examining victim on such status, made tactical decision to await close of prosecution's case and then move to dismiss indictment for failure to prove prima facie case, (3) prosecution, when first alerted to claim that its evidence was deficient, offered to submit additional evidence on status issue, and (4) defendant's sole claim of prejudice was that prosecution's additional evidence compelled finding that victim was peace officer. People v Hollis, 255 A.D.2d 615, 680 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11691 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 1033, 684 N.Y.S.2d 498, 707 N.E.2d 453, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4648 (N.Y. 1998).

In prosecution for second degree assault on peace officer, court properly charged jury that it could find defendant guilty only if it found that victim was court security officer and was acting in that capacity when assaulted where sole trial evidence on issue proved that if victim qualified as peace officer, it was as court security officer under either CLS CPL § 2.10(21)(a) or CLS CPL § 2.10(37) and CLS Gen Mun § 209-v(1), and court chose to tailor its instructions to evidence rather than remove "peace officer" element from crime. People v Hollis, 255 A.D.2d 615, 680 N.Y.S.2d 678, 1998 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 11691 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 92 N.Y.2d 1033, 684 N.Y.S.2d 498, 707 N.E.2d 453, 1998 N.Y. LEXIS 4648 (N.Y. 1998).

In a prosecution for resisting arrest and other offenses, the charge of resisting arrest would be dismissed where defendant was arrested by a sergeant who was neither a police officer nor peace officer in that he was merely a special patrolman in a private hospital who was appointed on the application of a corporation pursuant to a city administrative code provision. People v Kapuano, 109 Misc. 2d 295, 440 N.Y.S.2d 162, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2394 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1981).

Trial court improperly dismissed counts charging defendants with resisting arrest on the ground that the arresting officers were not peace officers within the meaning of CPL § 2.10 and that therefore defendants could not be guilty of violating Penal Law § 205.30 which is limited to resistance directed against a police officer or peace officer where the arresting officers had been appointed special patrolmen by the New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation, which was an "agency" within the meaning of a city charter, and the appointment under the city administrative code conferred peace officer status. People v Butt, 113 Misc. 2d 538, 453 N.Y.S.2d 128, 1981 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3466 (N.Y. App. Term 1981), aff'd, 58 N.Y.2d 846, 460 N.Y.S.2d 22, 446 N.E.2d 778, 1983 N.Y. LEXIS 2843 (N.Y. 1983).

Humane society volunteer investigator was a peace officer under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law 2.10(7) and N.Y. Agric. & Mkts. Law § 371 to enforce N.Y. Agric. & Mkts. Law art. 26. The investigator did not trespass as he was authorized by law to go on the owners' land to investigate the animals and to make warrantless arrests of the owners under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 2.20(1)(a) since under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 140.25(1)(b), (2), there was reasonable cause a crime was committed. Hand v Stray Haven Humane Soc'y, 21 A.D.3d 626, 799 N.Y.S.2d 628, 2005 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 8279 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't 2005).

3. Town or village constables

Town could not successfully defend against Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) requests by newspaper and radio station, asking for town records pertaining to constables suspected of sleeping on duty, by claiming that such information was rendered exempt by CLS Civ R § 50-a, since (1) § 50-a applies only to police officers and correction officers, whereas constables are not defined as police officers by CLS CPL § 1.20, and are considered to be peace officers as defined by CLS CPL § 2.10, and (2) when nonlitigating member of media seeks personnel records through FOIL requests, CLS Civ R § 50-a does not create blanket exemption from disclosure. Woodstock v Goodson-Todman Enterprises, Ltd., 133 Misc. 2d 12, 505 N.Y.S.2d 540, 1986 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 2959 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Motion to suppress evidence was properly denied because the application for the search warrant was proper, as the applicant, who was appointed as a town constable, under N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 2.10(1), and who had completed the training required by N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 2.30, was not required to repeat the training when he was appointed as an officer for the Finger Lakes Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of Central New York, N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law §§ 2.10(7), 2.30(6)(a). People v Gilfus, 4 A.D.3d 788, 772 N.Y.S.2d 164, 2004 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 1499 (N.Y. App. Div. 4th Dep't), app. denied, 1 N.Y.3d 628, 777 N.Y.S.2d 26, 808 N.E.2d 1285, 2004 N.Y. LEXIS 749 (N.Y. 2004).

Opn No. 80-328 is hereby amended. Town constables are required to attend training programs. 1980 Op St. Compt File #328-A.

4. Correction officers

Term "penal correctional institution" is sufficiently broad to include county jails, and therefore correction officer at Schenectady County Jail was "peace officer" within meaning of CLS Penal § 120.05(3). People v Holloway, 261 A.D.2d 658, 691 N.Y.S.2d 583, 1999 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 4679 (N.Y. App. Div. 3d Dep't), app. denied, 93 N.Y.2d 972, 695 N.Y.S.2d 58, 716 N.E.2d 1103, 1999 N.Y. LEXIS 2524 (N.Y. 1999).

Although a search warrant was improperly addressed in part to a special operations group that included corrections officers, suppression of evidence was not required because the warrant was otherwise properly addressed to sworn police officers; also, participation by members of the special operations group in the execution of the warrant did not invalidate the search, as members of the group merely secured entry for the benefit of the police officers who conducted the search. People v Ward, 183 A.D.3d 845, 123 N.Y.S.3d 634, 2020 N.Y. App. Div. LEXIS 3016 (N.Y. App. Div. 2d Dep't 2020).

In an Article 78 proceeding petitioner, a Federal correction officer, would be held not to qualify for the peace officer exemption of Penal Law § 400.00 which dispenses with the license requirement for the purchase of a firearm by "correction officers of any state correctional facility or of any penal correctional institution", since identical language in the predecessor statute was construed as not including Federal correction officers and the Legislature has not altered the language in the present statute or in any manner demonstrated an intent to include such Federal officers in the definition of peace officer. Vasquez v Connelie, 116 Misc. 2d 29, 455 N.Y.S.2d 76, 1982 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3822 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1982).

5. Probation officer or trainee

Trial court held that N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 2.30(1) required Orange County (New York) to provide weapons training to probation officers employed by the County even if the County did not require or permit its probation officers to carry or use a weapon during the course of their official duties, and the court dismissed the County's action against the New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services seeking an order overturning the Division's decision not to issue peace officer certificates to County probation officers until they had firearms training. County of Orange v N.Y. State Div. of Crim. Justice Servs., 194 Misc. 2d 438, 755 N.Y.S.2d 560, 2003 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 32 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2003).

6. Border patrol agent

Because the federal marine interdiction agent with the United States Customs and Border Protection (CBP) who stopped defendant was not considered a federal law enforcement officer with peace officer powers, he could not have improperly circumvented the jurisdictional limitations on the powers reserved for those members of law enforcement. Therefore, the trial court should have denied defendant's motion to suppress and the appellate court erred by affirming suppression of the evidence. People v Page, 35 N.Y.3d 199, 149 N.E.3d 905, 126 N.Y.S.3d 67, 2020 N.Y. LEXIS 1084 (N.Y.), cert. denied, 141 S. Ct. 601, 208 L. Ed. 2d 192, 2020 U.S. LEXIS 5033 (U.S. 2020).

2. Deputy sheriffs

There is no authority under the County Law for a sheriff to appoint regular deputy sheriffs to be employed by and under the supervision and control of a university. A sheriff may appoint special deputy sheriffs under Educational Law, § 5709. These special deputy sheriffs are peace officers and not police officers. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 3 (informal).

As police officers who commonly provide general law enforcement, sheriffs and deputy sheriffs are subject to CLS Elec § 17-110. 1998 NY Ops Atty Gen I 98-57.

3. Dog control officers

A dog control officer does not have the status or powers of a peace officer. A peace officer listed in section 2.10 of the Criminal Procedure Law and having the duty to enforce dog control, may exercise his peace officer powers to enforce the provisions of Article 7 of the Agriculture and Markets Law. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen April 30 (Informal), 1981 N.Y. 4. Local special police

A city, by local law, may establish a special police department. Since the Glen Cove special police are subordinate to the regular police, are not sworn officers and do not have general criminal law enforcement responsibilities, they do not have police officer status. Since the special police are not included in section 2.10 of the Criminal Procedure Law, they are not peace officers. 1980 NY Ops Atty Gen Dec. 24 (Informal), 1980 N.Y. AG LEXIS 10.

Town constables may affix emblems to town vehicles identifying them as constable vehicles. Town constables may not be used to assist other local governments requesting aid. 1981 NY Ops Atty Gen Feb 23 (informal).

A village by local law may establish the position of constable. Village constables have the status and powers of peace officers. Peace officers must be trained in accordance with the provisions of section 2.30 of the Criminal Procedure Law. 1982 N.Y. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-2, 1982 N.Y. AG LEXIS 109.

New York City Marshal who worked with tow truck operator in enforcing parking laws and towing cars of scofflaws was not "peace officer" charged with duties under CLS CPL § 2.20, although New York City Marshals trained in firearms handling who have firearms permit from city's police department license division are designated as "peace officers" under CLS CPL § 2.10(33), as CLS CPL § 2.30 requires all peace officers to receive certification as such, and city had not sought state certification of city marshals as peace officers. Gonzalez v City of New York, 167 Misc. 2d 577, 638 N.Y.S.2d 286, 1996 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 28 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1996).

2. Warrantless searches

Warrantless search of defendant's locker at post office where he worked as postal service officer following his shooting of individual outside of post office, based merely on postal inspector's hunch and his belief that according to "regulations" he could search lockers at will, was invalid since there was no apparent connection between shooting and defendant's locker, and People failed to show any other facts to make search "reasonable"; provision in postal service's employee manual regarding warrantless locker searches did not constitute "unequivocal" blanket consent by postal employees to otherwise baseless searches of their private lockers. People v Postall, 153 Misc. 2d 167, 580 N.Y.S.2d 975, 1992 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 35 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1992).

Defendant was not entitled to suppress evidence in his prosecution for criminal possession of marihuana in the first degree because a United States Border Patrol agent was entitled under N.Y. Crim.
